Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Tuesday is election day, and it's one of those "off" years (without a presidential election), which usually means a relatively light turnout. Yet, major state and local offices will be filled, as well as Congressmen and in some cases, U.S. Senators.

Tommy Hart in the Big Spring Herald observes: "Most people confess they're not sure which political candidates they plan to support but are certain about those they'll vote against. These days it's suggested a voter enter a polling booth clutching a rabbit's foot and crossing the fingers of one hand."

Jim Cornish, publisher of the Post Dispatch, advised his readers this week that the Dispatch had finally joined the crowd. The Post Dispatch's subscription price has now gone up from 10 cents to 15 cents per copy.

"Almost all weeklies and dailies in this area long ago have gone to the higher price, but we are always hesitant to hike ours, so we are just getting around to it," Cornish wrote.

Almost all is right, but not quite all.

Perhaps you have heard or read reports in recent years of a boat trapped in ice high on a mountainside in Turkey which many believe to be Noah's Ark. And perhaps you have wondered why nothing much apparently has been done about investigating it closely. Bart LaRue, a former Sweetwater resident, who shot some film up there, related some of his experience to the Sweetwater Reporter recently, and his comments shed some light on the question of why historians have not been able to examine the boat in Turkey at close range.

"You see, if the Ark is on Mt. Ararat, then it contradicts the Koran, which says the Ark is on another mountain," LaRue explained. "So Turkey gives any Ark-searchers a hard time."

LaRue told the Reporter that he had to smuggle his film and himself out of Turkey after he made an unauthorized trip up the mountain to take pictures, and that there still is a warrant out for his arrest in Turkey.

Incidentally, LaRue told the Reporter that he believes that the boat, which has been seen from the air at about 14,000 feet up the 17,000 foot Mt. Ararat, is indeed the Ark that Noah built.

You can imagine how anxious historians and theologians must be to examine that mountain.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Nov. 1, the 305th day of 1974. There are 60 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1952, the United States exploded the first hydrogen bomb, at Eniwetok Atoll in the Marshall Islands.

On this date–

In 1755, an earthquake killed 60,000 persons in Lisbon, Portugal.

In 1765, some American colonists defied British royal governors as the London government tried to enforce a stamp act.

In 1788, the U.S. Continental Congress, which had first met in 1774, was adjourned.

In 1864, the U.S. Post Office introduced postal money orders.

In 1940, British bombers hit Naples, Italy for the first time in World War II.

In 1950, two Puerto Rican nationalists tried to force their way into Blair House in Washington to assassinate President Harry Truman, and one was killed by guards.

Ten years ago: A freight train rammed into a passenger train in East Germany, killing 39 persons and injuring more than 100.

Five years ago: The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts granted U.S. Sen. Edward Kenedy the right to a closed inquest in the drowning of his car passenger, Mary Jo Kopechne.

One year ago: President Nixon nominated Republican Senator William Saxbe of Ohio as Attorney General.

Grocer Claims Markets Know Profit Margins

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the board of a Midwestern supermarket chain today broke ranks with his colleagues and told a food-marketing conference that supermarkets do know what they make on various items of meats and other groceries.

Supermarket chains and their trade group, the National Association of Food Chains, have long contended during disputes with the consumers that they didn't know details of their margins in such specific areas as beef, and, even if they did, antitrust and other laws would prevent the disclosure of them.

Donald S. Perkins, board chairman of Jewel Co., Chicago, said, "I don't understand their answers. Everybody knows what the average cost was and what their average price was."

Perkins said his company — which has 200 stores in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin — makes a complete inventory of its meat department every four weeks to find out exactly what it has sold.

He called for government statisticians to stop coming up with estimated profit margins based on theory, which he challenged as outmoded in a time of changing consumption patterns.

"It's possible to develop an audit to find out what people are eating," and what supermarkets are making by going in to the 29 major publicly owned supermarket chains and conducting a full accounting, he said.

Perkins's remarks came at one of the concluding sessions of a government-sponsored conference on food productivity, costs and prices.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz had opened the conference by saying he did not want it "to flail the middleman," point fingers or "turn into a jawboning session."

Butz issued his plea as he opened the conference on food productivity.

However, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was saying the administration was ready to battle the food industry middleman, including refiners, canners and the packaging and transportation industries.

"With times as difficult as they are, we cannot permit one segment of the economy to reap unjust enrichment at the expense of everyone else," Simon said in discussing the administration plans at a National Press Club luncheon.

Simon said he was concerned that farm prices have been falling generally while consumer food prices have been increasing. He said the administration's efforts will begin with the sugar industry and that he had ordered public hearings on sugar prices by the Council of Wage and Price Stability.

Simon said that all facets of the sugar industry will be looked at, including the price of raw sugar as it compares with the refined product, and he said:

"When we get all the facts, we will take whatever action is warranted."

Meanwhile, President Ford reassured farmers that he would not allow foreign imports to further deteriorate their economic base. Speaking in Sioux City, Iowa, Ford promised to impose meat import quotas or negotiate voluntary export restraints if meat imports threatened to exceed a certain level.

He also pledged not to change the dairy import quota system without a thorough review of market conditions and listening to dairy producers.

HIGHEST IN THREE YEARS

US Jobless Rate Hits 6%

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate climbed from 5.8 to 6 per cent last month, its highest level in three years, the government reported today.

The increase, another indicator of recession, was a pre-election blow to the Republican national administration.

The October unemployment level was the highest since November 1971 when it also hit 6 per cent during a time of recovery from the recession of 1970 and 1971. The last time unemployment was above 6 per cent was in November 1961, also a post-recessionary period.

The Labor Department said 5.5 million Americans were without jobs last month, 200,000 more than in September and 1.3 million more than in October 1973.

Government analysts said the 5.5 million unemployed was the highest since the Labor Department began computing monthly unemployment figures in 1948.

Black workers accounted for much of the increase in the October rise in unemployment as their jobless rate rose from 9.8 to 10.9 per cent, the department said. The jobless rate for white workers was about unchanged last month at 5.4 per cent.

With economic activity in a slump, unemployment is expected to continue rising, possibly as high as 7 per cent next year, according to forecasts made by some of President Ford's economic advisers.

To aid the jobless the administration has proposed legislation that would extend unemployment benefits and provide additional public service jobs when the national unemployment rate exceeds 6 per cent for three consecutive months.

The Labor Department said total employment, which has risen 850,000 in the past year, was unchanged in October at 86.5 million. The civilian labor force also held steady last month — at 92 million.

The government said the biggest increase in unemployment last month was among blue-collar workers, especially those in durable goods industries. The rate for factory workers — at 6.2 per cent in October — was up from a 3¼-year low of 3.9 per cent a year ago.

Both the lengths of the average workweek and factory overtime declined last month. Average hourly earnings rose 2 cents in October to $4.34, up 35 cents over the past year. Weekly earning averaged $158.84 last month, down 14 cents from September and up $11.21 over the year.

FORD TO VISIT TODAY

Nixon Is Improved

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is "in his best condition since his operation," President Ford was told today.

After hearing the news, Ford arranged today to visit Nixon at a hospital here.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Nixon's physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, called presidential physician William Lukash and said:

"The former president is in his best condition since his operation. A visit from President Ford would be a tremendous boost to his morale."

Ford, who aroused a storm of controversy Sept. 8 when he granted Nixon a full pardon, arranged to fly by helicopter to Long Beach International Airport, then drive to the hospital.

Ford spent Thursday night in a Los Angeles hotel after a Republican campaign rally.

Nessen said Ford would spend about 20 minutes at the hospital, where Nixon was still listed in critical condition after surgery Tuesday.

Lungren said in a written hospital statement later, "The condition of former President Richard M. Nixon is stable but remains serious. He is slowly and steadily improving."

Lungren said he had told Dr. Lukash that a visit from Ford "would be extremely therapeutic."

In a detailed report of Nixon's vital health signs, Lungren said every indication showed improvement and suggested that internal bleeding had stopped.

He said Nixon received transfusions overnight — one pint of whole blood and eight units of blood platelets.

Although Lungren's report was the most optimistic issued since Nixon went into shock for three hours from internal bleeding following the phlebitis surgery, the doctor said there was still a chance of further hemorrhaging.

He said Nixon was alert.

Nixon's doctors said late Thursday that he probably will remain on the critical list for 24 to 72 hours. They said, "There are dangers lurking in the background."

The doctors said the internal bleeding which nearly cost the former president his life had apparently stopped. New transfusions were ordered to replace blood lost after surgery last Tuesday for his phlebitis condition.

Ford arrived in Los Angeles for a political fund-raising dinner Thursday evening and it was learned that he would visit Nixon at Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center early today.

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford talked to Mrs. Nixon by telephone Thursday and asked whether it would be helpful if he went to see Nixon.

"I can't think of anything that would do him more good," was Mrs. Nixon's reply, Nessen said.

The 61-year-old former president could have died from the internal bleeding that sent him into shock after the operation Tuesday, "if proper measures had not been taken," Dr. John C. Lungren told a news conference Thursday.

Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, and two surgeons who operated on the former president did not specify when the apparent let-up in bleeding took place. The doctors said they would monitor Nixon's condition to determine whether the bleeding had stopped completely.

Lungren said Nixon's vital signs had "pretty much returned to normal." He did not elaborate on his comment about dangers lurking in the background.

Earlier, Lungren released a statement saying Nixon's blood pressure, pulse and heart beat were stable, but that a prognosis was not possible because "the possibility still exists for further complications."

However, he indicated that Nixon had made slight gains: "His spirits and mental attitude are excellent. He is alert, oriented to everything going on around him, and cooperative."

Robles Art On Exhibit Sunday

Snyder area residents will have an opportunity Sunday afternoon to meet an internationally-known Western artist and view some of his paintings at the Diamond M Museum.

Julian Robles of Taos, N.M., who has achieved special fame for his paintings of American Indians, will be here for a one-man exhibit.

The public has been invited to view the exhibit between the hours of 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

FOR ILLEGAL DONATIONS

Nelson, Parr First To Receive Jail Sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former top leaders of the nation's biggest dairy cooperative were sentenced to jail terms today for making illegal campaign donations, the first time prison sentences have been imposed for such an offense since the Watergate scandals began.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. said the jail sentences were handed out to deter others from making illegal corporate campaign donations.

Hart sentenced Harold S. Nelson and David L. Parr to three years in jail but immediately suspended all but four months of the term. He also fined them both $10,000. Hart scheduled them to begin serving their sentences Nov. 8 at the federal prison compound at Montgomery, Ala.

Nelson, of San Antonio, Tex., was general manager of Associated Milk Producers, Inc. Parr, of Little Rock, Ark., was Nelson's top assistant. Both were toppled from power in an internal struggle at the co-op in early 1972, before the contribution scandals were exposed.

Hart noted that a number of persons have been fined for making illegal donations and asked Watergate prosecutors whether candidates who received such donations are also guilty of breaking the law.

"Is there no violation by the donee?" Hart asked.

"Some of these events are under active investigation," replied Asst. Special Prosecutor John Sale.

Sale declined to elaborate.

Nelson and Parr pleaded guilty to making illegal donations to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., among others.

In addition to campaign donations, Nelson also admitted authorizing a $10,000 bribe for former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, who has denied receiving the money.

Connally has been charged with bribery, perjury and conspiracy and has pleaded innocent.

Parr pleaded guilty on July 23 to a single conspiracy count and admitted making illegal donations to Humphrey, Mills, former Rep. Page Belcher, R-Okla., Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and others.

Nelson pleaded guilty July 31 to a similar conspiracy count and admitted additional illegal donations to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and former Vermont Gov. Phillip Hoff.

AFS Meeting Set Saturday

The local American Field Service Chapter will have its November meeting at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Steak House.

Anyone interested in the AFS program is invited to attend the "Dutch treat" breakfast session. The AFS sponsors the exchange student program here.

Durham Rites Set Saturday

Funeral service has been set for 10 a.m. Saturday at the Bell-Seale Chapel for Blake B. Durham, 81, who died early Thursday at his home south of Snyder.

Pat Abbananto, minister of the Thirty-seventh Street Church of Christ, will officiate.

Burial will be in the Dunn Cemetery, under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mr. Durham, a resident of Scurry County since 1901, is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Eulene Koch of Snyder, Mrs. Kathleen Smyrl of Lubbock and Mrs. Bonnie Sheid of Big Spring; two sons, Mark Durham and Billy Durham, both os Snyder; a sister, Mrs. Irene McReynolds of Midland; a brother, Harrison Durham of Levelland; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

President's Job Rating Is Up

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Ford's job rating has risen to 55 per cent approval, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

The first Gallup survey after Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon, taken Sept. 27-30, pegged Ford's approval rating at 50 per cent. That was the low point since Ford took office.

But in a survey conducted Oct. 18-21, after Ford's appearance before a congressional subcommittee to explain the pardon, the figure was back up to 55 per cent, with 28 per cent disapproving and 17 per cent giving undecided.

United Way

The Scurry County United Way campaign has moved past the half-way mark on its road toward a $45,000 goal.

Contributions and pledges totalling $23,943.34 had been reported this morning. This represents approximately 53 per cent of the objective.

By divisions, the report this morning included: Advance, $12,166; branch house, $1,700; oil and industries, $1,829; professional, $200; public employees, $812; rural, $1,113.40; utilities $3,620.82; commercial, $2,502.12.

The United Way is seeking funds to support the operations of 13 participating agencies.

Crash Fatal To Four US Tourists

GUATEMALA (AP) — A tour bus and a truck collided head-on, killing four American tourists, authorities said Thursday. Nine other Americans were injured.

A pedestrian also was killed, and the bus driver and two passengers in the truck were injured.

The tourists had sailed to Guatemala from New Orleans aboard the cruise ship Royal Viking Sea and were returning from a shore excursion.

Authorities here said the crash occurred Wednesday night about 150 miles northwest of Guatemala City on the highway to Puerto Barrios on the Atlantic coast.

They said the bus apparently was passing a truck when the bus and another truck collided.

Police said the pedestrian, a Guatemalan woman, was struck and killed by one of the vehicles as she walked along the road.

The bus was part of a caravan of vehicles returning from the Tikal archeological area. The cruise ship, operated by Royal Viking Lines, had anchored off Puerto Barrios.

In New Orleans, a Royal Viking spokesman said the ship left New Orleans on Saturday for a 13-day cruise conducted by Columbus International, a New York-based firm.

Unruly Weather Tapers Off

By The Associated Press

Three days of flooding rains and destructive tornadoes in one part of Texas or another tapered off today into light showers near the coast and eastern areas of the state.

Before it died down, however, vicious thunderstorms boiled through parts of South Central and Southeast Texas during the night while areas farther north assessed property losses and watched high waters subside.

Surprisingly, the widespread storms were blamed directly for just one fatality—the drowning of Army Lt. Charles R. May from Bixby, Okla., after a seven-inch deluge tumbled a car off a bridge at Killeen in Central Texas late Wednesday. A car from which two companions escaped was carried three miles downstream.

Up to 6 inches of rain in two hours Thursday night left Port Lavaca on the coast awash. Traffic stalled in water-filled streets.

In the wake of the storms, thick fog formed before dawn today across a broad stretch of Central and Northeast Texas, and there was some drizzle as far inland as San Antonio and Austin. Near-zero visibility made motor travel hazardous in parts of the fog belt.

Skies cleared over West Texas, meanwhile, and early morning temperatures dipped to 32 degrees at Marfa and 38 at El Paso and Dalhart. It was still cloudy and warm over most of Central and East Texas, where the readings stayed as high as 75 at Brownsville and 77 at Corpus Christi.

Forecasts called for dry and warmer weather throughout the state.

Rainfall amounts left by the departed storms ranged up to 10 inches at Dawson in Navarro County. McGregor 8.72, Crawford 8:30, Ambrose 5.96, Kerrville 5.74 and Bridgeport 5.26. Measurements of 3 to 5 inches were common in parts of Central and East Texas.

At Sulphur Springs in North Texas, where a tornado struck before dawn Wednesday, City Manager Olin Petty said preliminary estimates put property damage close to $1 million. He reported major damage to 34 homes or business places and lighter damage to about 100 structures.

EVEN REPUBLICANS

Ford Urges Voters To Throw Out Big Spenders

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Ford has come up with a new battle cry for his final fling on the 1974 campaign trail: "Throw the big spenders out" even if they are Republicans.

He softened some of his earlier assaults on the Democratic opposition and, for the first time, suggested Thursday night in Los Angeles that perhaps some Republicans might be worthy of oblivion, too.

At a GOP fund-raising dinner in the Century Plaza Hotel, Ford said:

"If you are unhappy about the handling of the nation's finances over the past 20 years, if you think it is time for a change, remember next Tuesday who the big spenders are — and throw the big spenders out."

This prompted a burst of applause from party faithful, drowning out Ford's politically significant windup phrase:

"And if some of them are Republicans, so be it."

Ford said it was time "for responsible men and women of all political persuasions — Republicans, Democrats, independents — to come together, not in an effort at political advantage, but in a spirit of true American patriotism to whip problems like inflation, energy and the environment, to strengthen our successful foreign policy by the restoration of bipartisanship."

Ford was bound from here to Fresno, Calif., for an airport rally in behalf of Republican Reps. Robert Mathias and Charles Wiggins. From there he was heading for five evening appearances in Portland, Ore. — at a White House conference on domestic and economic affairs, three Republican fund-raising events and a local society auction benefitting the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry. He will visit Utah, Colorado and Kansas before returning to Washington on Saturday.

En route to the West Coast, Ford stopped for an airport crowd at Sioux City, Iowa, in an effort to boost the re-election bid of Republican Rep. Wiley Mayne, who is strongly challenged by Democrat Berkley Bedell.

The President told his farm belt audience of several thousand that if foreign meat starts to "pick up markedly" next year, "I will either impose meat quotas or negotiate volunteer agreements with foreign suppliers" to limit their shipments to the United States.

Ford also said, "there is no interest on my part to increase dairy imports into the United States."

When it was suggested to Press Secretary Ron Nessen that Ford's goal might be to raise consumer prices of beef and milk, Nessen responded that the President was not committing himself to anything but suggesting what he might do to help cattlemen and dairymen.

Lawyers Watching Reports

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers in the Watergate cover-up trial are watching medical reports on Richard M. Nixon because the former president's health may decide whether he will appear as a witness.

Meanwhile, the former deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election committee, Jeb Stuart Magruder, took the stand today for his fourth day of testimony.

The attorney for Kenneth W. Parkinson asked Magruder, "Parkinson had nothing to do with the events before the break-in on June 17, 1972, did he?"

"No, sir," said Magruder.

The lawyer, Jacob Stein, then asked Magruder the same questions for a series of dates leading up to July 13, 1972, when Parkinson was told the true story of the break-in by Magruder.

Parkinson was hired as a lawyer for the re-election committee once the original Watergate burglars were caught.

Earlier, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica announced to the jury that the principal lawyer for defendant Robert C. Mardian, David C. Bress, was ill and would be gone from the courtroom for some time.

Defense sources had said Mardian's other lawyer, Thomas Green, had requested a separate trial for Mardian because of Bress' illness.

But Sirica has apparently turned that down, saying to the jury, "we hope Mr. Bress will be able to return to active participation in the near future."

Lawyers familiar with the trial say there already has been serious discussion about moving the trial to California for Nixon's testimony if the former president is too ill to travel to Washington.

Another possibility is a direct television link from California to Judge Sirica's courtroom in Washington. Nixon would testify either from a hospital bed or his San Clemente, Calif., estate.

Nixon, operated on Tuesday for phlebitis, remained in critical condition today from complications. However, doctors said he was improving.

Terrorists Kill Police Chief, Wife

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Terrorists fired an antitank grenade at a pleasure boat carrying Argentina's federal police chief and his wife today, killing them both instantly, police sources said.

The police chief, Alberto Villar, 53, was brought out of retirement last January by the late President Juan D. Peron as a step toward cracking down on Marxist terrorism in Argentina.

Villar had gained fame under the past military government as head of the riot squad, personally leading motorcycle squads and applying tough measures on suspected activists.

Many left-wing leaders accused Villar of torture and even murder, saying his men sometimes executed suspected guerrillas after interrogation.

Police said the attack occurred at 11 a.m. just off the jetty of the Astarsa Shipyards in Tigre, 20 miles north of Buenos Aires on the Rio de la Plata.

There was immediate concern over the possible reaction from the government of President Isabel Peron, the police and Argentina's wide range of terrorist groups.

The deputy police chief is Luis Margaride, another tough police veteran who also was brought out of retirement to help fight the wave of terrorism.

He immediately put all federal police on full alert.

County Court Pleas Heard

Several pleas were entered in county court yesterday.

John Franklin Eaker and Ruben Hernandez both pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Eaker received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 30 day jail term, probated for six months. Hernandez received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 3-day jail term. Eaker was arrested Oct. 31, and Hernandez was arrested Oct. 25 by City Police.

Wissie Lorney May pleaded innocent to a charge of driving while intoxicated, and a jury trial was set for Dec. 10. He was arrested Oct. 21 by City Police.

Sammy Davis and Bobby Joe Lee each pleaded innocent to a charge of theft. Pre-trial hearing for Davis was set for Nov. 14, and a jury trial for Lee was set for Dec. 10. Davis was arrested Oct. 25 by sheriff's authorities. Lee was arrested Oct. 26 by City Police.

Brady Cobb pleaded guilty to a charge of theft and received a $200 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term. He was arrested Oct. 25 by sheriff's authorities.

This morning, Marsha Lynn Fain pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. She received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 30-day jail term, probated for six months. She was arrested Oct. 31 by Highway Patrolmen. Also today, Larry Eugene Wynne pleaded innocent to making alcohol available to a minor, and a pre-trial hearing was set for Nov. 14. He was arrested Oct. 31 by City Police.

Last Wednesday, Maxie Wayne Chaney pleaded innocent to a charge of driving while intoxicated, and presiding Judge Preston Wilson returned a verdict of innocence. He was arrested Sept. 15 by City Police.

Mrs. Ford Due Drug Treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford, who lost her right breast to cancer five weeks ago, will undergo drug treatment to combat any undetected malignant cells that may have remained after surgery, the White House physician says.

Dr. William Lukash said in a statement Thursday that physical examinations and diagnostic tests have disclosed no signs of remaining cancer.

But he said the precautionary drug treatment, or chemotherapy, was ordered because two lymph glands removed from beneath Mrs. Ford's right arm during the Sept. 28 operation were cancerous.

"... One cannot be entirely certain that undetected microscopic malignancy has not spread to other areas," Lukash said, and chemotherapy was chosen "to insure more inclusive treatment against any possible remaining cancer."

Lukash said Mrs. Ford's progress since the surgery "has been excellent and her outlook for prolonged good health is extremely favorable."

The President's wife has followed a limited public schedule. She attended a Washington horse show with her husband last Monday and entertained seven youngsters in Halloween costumes who were trick-or-treating Thursday for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Lukash said Mrs. Ford's drug therapy was expected to permit her "to continue all normal activites as wife, mother and first lady."

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

Minor damage resulted from a two-vehicle mishap in the 300 block of Thirty-fourth Street at 3:01 p.m. Thursday.

Involved were a 1974 Model Ford pickup driven by Ila May Cox, 305 Thirty-fourth Street, and the parked 1965 Model Ford pickup of H. W. Elkins, 304 Thirty-fourth Street.

Withdraws Offer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Randolph A. and Catherine Hearst, saying a $50,000 reward they've posted for the safe return of their fugitive daughter might jeopardize her safety, have withdrawn the offer.

Patricia Hearst, 20, was kidnaped Feb. 4 by the Symbionese Liberation Army but later allegedly joined her captors and now is sought on charges including kidnaping and armed robbery.

School Panel Faces Deadline

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston school committee faces a Dec. 16 deadline to come up with a final desegregation plan involving "all grades in all schools in all parts of the city."

U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr., who imposed the initial integration plan for Boston's schools, set the deadline Thursday in a new court order.

The order came as schools went through a quiet day and as Gov. Francis W. Sargent ordered a two-thirds cutback in the number of National Guard troops called up three weeks ago because of violence associated with busing for integration.

Under Garrity's original integration ruling, some 18,000 of the system's 92,000 students were bused.

SHINE UP TO AN OLD FAVORITE

In colonial America the affluent dined from pewter plates, upper class babies drank milk out of pewter mugs and well-heeled merchants quaffed beer from pewter flagons. So great was the demand that in 1720 the value of pewter imports was more than the combined total of furniture, bedding, curtains, carpet and silver shipments from the Mother Country. And by the 1760 more than 300 tons of pewter - the equivalent of one million eight-inch plates - were being shipped annually to the colonies.

The names of some of the customers ring a Liverty Bell. In 1759 a London pewterer charged Col. Geo. Washington nine pounds, thirteen shillings and threepence for 183 pounds of pewter utensils. There was a modest additional tariff for engraving Washington's crest on six dozen of the plates. John Hancock wrote to his London supplier: "I beg he may make...6 doz. very best Pewter Plates with their proportions of proper sizes, oval or long dishes for Saturday's Salt Fish. Mr crest to be engraved in each Dish and Plate."

Concern for pewter's quality elicited an early example of consumerism from the people of Boston who expressed the hope that "care may be taken that all wares made of pewter or silver, whether brought to the country or made here and exposed to sale, may be ye just alloy."

"Ye just alloy" was tin to which was added some lead, plus, in varying amounts, copper, bismuth and-or antimony (for hardness). Thanks to the ancient tin mines of Cornwall, the English had a monopoly on the source of supply and their pewter was in demand around the world. As a result, prices rose and in the colonies pewter almost passed as currency. American pewterers, out to beat the high English prices, advertised for unwanted and damaged old pewter which, when melted down and reworked, could be sold for less than the imports.

Today, examples of pewter made by early American craftsmen such as the Wills of Philadelphia and John Gooch of Portsmouth, command astronomica prices. Last year a 14-inch flagon made by William Will went for $7,000 and a Will flat-topped tankard brought $5,600.

Pewter buffs who find that antique pewter has priced itself out of their budgets will be happy to know that American manufacturers are re-introducing pewter into their lines. In addition to teapots, mugs, goblets and porringers of classic colonial design, they are featuring flatware in handsome contemporary patterns. Modern pewter, completely lead free, is also said to be dishwasher-proof.

However, James Thornton of Goddard's, who is consultant of silver and fine metals to curators of world-famous museums, and universities, says that to encourage contemporary pewter to acqure the mellow pantina that makes old pewter so beautiful, it should be given the same care connoisseurs give their valuable antiques. He suggests an easy-to-use cream which protects and highlights the glow that's made pewter a shining part of the American heritage.

Dear Dorothy,

My kitchen, which is not due to be painted for another year, looks really depressing. The walls look grimy and the ceiling over the stove is smoky and grease spattered. Can you suggest something to make it look a little better?

Mrs. R. A. Wise
Houston, Tex.

Dear Mrs. Wise,

A study conducted a few years ago by the Cornell School of Ecology showed that approximately seven pounds of grease a year evaporates in the average kitchen with a good part of it adhering to the walls. There's an easy way to improve the appearance of your kitchen with Big Wally, an aerosol foam wall cleaner, that not only does a great job on walls but on washable paper, ceiling and woodwork as well. And it's a joy to use because it's effortless and mess-free. Simply spray (about a three-foot square of wall at a time) stand back and watch the embedded dirt, grease and grime rise to the surface of the foam, then wipe with a clean damp sponge. When you do walls remember to start at the bottom.

TV Program Teaches Wall Repair

"Homemakers can repair even serious-looking wall damage, according to television hostess Cindy Kidwell of the "You Can Do It!" series, seen locally each Saturday at 4:30 p.m. of KLBK-TV, Channel 13 (SCAT 13).

This week's program, "The Great Coverup," will teach viewers how to repair walls with cracks, holes or missing plaster.

Also, it will discuss techniques for fastening things to walls, according to Miss Ruby Butts, county Extension agent.

The 13-part "You Can Do It!" educational series for local do-it-yourselfers is sponsored by the Scurry County Family Living Committee and KLBK-TV.

It was created and produced by home economics specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University grant.

Next week's program, "Paint It Yourself," will feature house interiors.

Quintets Make Last Stand

ENDING UP. By Kingsley Amis, Harcourt Brace Jovanovich. 176 Pages. $6.95.

Kingsley Amis's detailing of a horrendous Christmas party in this blackly funny novel could turn some readers off Yuletide cheer forever. And the tarnish he daubs on the gold in life's supposed "golden years" is sufficient to make one wonder whether crawling out of the crib and proceeding down the years is worth the effort.

As Amis tells it in "Ending Up," five oldsters — three men, two women — have banded together in a rundown house in the English countryside to make a symbolical — and literal — last stand. Unfortunately, this lot not only is ill-equipped to make it from day to day but also the members of the group largely can't stand each other.

Adela Barnstable — 71 and of poor memory — tries to hold the menage together but her efforts consistently are undermined, knowingly, by her brother, Bernard, and, unknowingly, by her only friend, the sometime actress Marigold.

Bernard does his thing by devising rotten jokes involving stink bombs and squirt guns, tiny weapons but large enough to send ominous tremors through the already shaky social structure. Marigold does her thing by being herself — utterly boring and given to saying such things as "checkle-peckle" instead of check and "five poundies" instead of five pounds. She, naturally, drives Bernard up the wall.

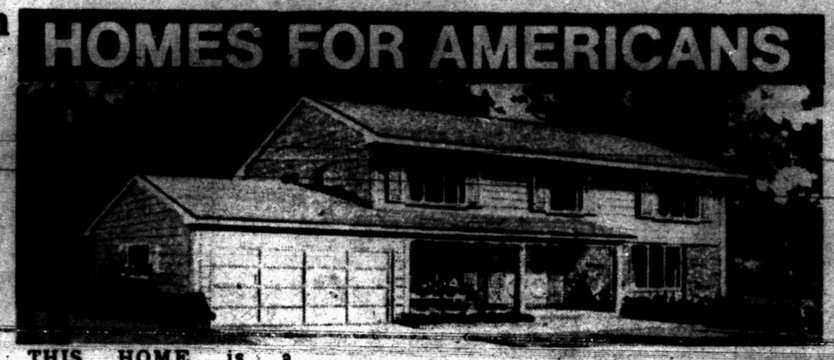

So it's only natural the stink bombs are aimed at her and the squirt gun at her cat. In addition to these three, there's Shorty, a most charming drunk, and George Zeyer, an overeducated professor of central European history who, because of a stroke, is unable to speak properly.

Amis, author of "Lucky Jim," skillfully blends these seemingly disparate types into his smooth, fast-flowing, and very funny plot as he builds up to the climactic Christmas party where he beautifully catches the false jollity brought to the old people's house by some of Marigold's young relatives and the natural animosity the older folk feel at being catered to.

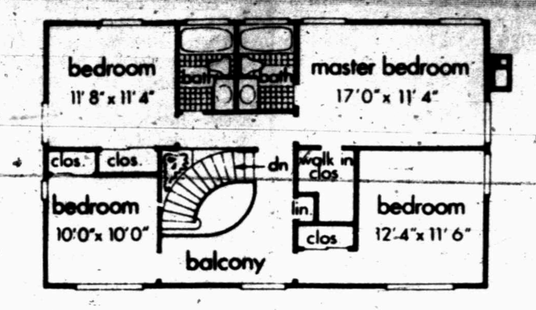

Then, the party over, Amis quickly brings his sardonic story to a bloody — but natural — end. The book may seem savage at times, but it also is very funny.

Beverly Sills Out Of Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Opera singer Beverly Sills, who underwent surgery for a malignancy in the pelvic area last week, has been released from the hospital.

The coloratura soprano's operation was successful and she will not have to undergo further treatment, said a spokesman at New York Hospital.

Miss Sills will begin performing again Nov. 20 when she will sing the first of five scheduled performances of Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" with the San Francisco Opera.

Most good recipes for fondue call for the cheese to be mixed or tossed with flour before it's added to the wine or base which has been warmed on a saucepan.

If cheese is not floured first it tends to remain in a mass or one piece rather than melting readily for the fondue.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q.—We have a Cape Cod house with an unfinished attic. I am planning to add two bedrooms upstairs. I have tentatively selected hardboard for the walls. In order to save some work, I hope to attach the hardboard directly to the studs. Can this be done or do I have to nail furring strips to the studs first and then attach the hardboard to the furring strips?

A. — It can be done, but it requires extra care to be certain the studs are exactly in line, otherwise you won't get a straight wall. Make constant use of a plumb line and a level. Also, the studs must be no more than 16 inches apart on center; that is, 16 inches between the center of one stud and the center of the next. And the hardboard you select must be at least one-quarter-inch thick.

Q. — Many years ago I won four sterling silver trophies in contract bridge tournaments. All of them are now a dirty gray color. I assume this is tarnish. Will it come off with steel wool?

A. — Don't use steel wool per se. There are several brands of tarnish remover on the market. Buy one of them and follow the directions on the container.

Q. — The backs of our kitchen chairs are worn and need replacing. I understand the backs can be bought separately. Do they come in sizes that fit all chairs?

A. — No. You can get a size the same or slightly smaller or slightly larger than your chairs, but you must be certain they can be attached properly. Most such chairs have wooden framing inside the covering. It is important that the attachment braces of the chair match the positions of the wood inside the new backs.

Q. — We had a $25,000 mortgage on our house at 6 per cent interest. The principal is now down to $15,000. If we get a buyer who can put down $10,000, will he be able to take over our mortgage debt?

A. — It depends on the terms of the mortgage. No bank or other financial institution is likely to agree voluntarily to such a transfer on a 6 per cent mortgage with interest rates the way they are today. Talk it over with an officer of the bank or savings and loan association that has the mortgage and see what the situation is, being especially careful to learn whether there is a financial penalty clause for such a transaction. If the transfer can be made, be sure your lawyer sees that you are not responsible for the mortgage payments if the buyer defaults.

Farabee's Early Support
Of McGovern Is Documented
At Precinct 22 Convention

Woman Nominee's Charge
Heats Up State Senate Race

But Farabee,
The Candidate,
Avoids The Record

What He Says:
"He also denied actively supporting and working for McGovern."

What The Record Shows:
Farabee's early support of McGovern is documented by his own handwriting which identifies him as a committed delegate at his precinct convention. Farabee was thus lined up for the take-over of the Democratic Party when McGovern still had only a 2% rating in the opinion polls.

WHAT ELSE DOES THE RECORD SHOW?

WHAT HE SAYS: "Farabee acknowledged he served as President and Vice President of the National Students Association (NSA) in the early 1950s . . ."

WHAT THE RECORD SHOWS: "Throughout its existence, NSA has been one of the principal vehicles for left-wing agitation and propaganda among the nation's youth. It has been a vulnerable and often willing target for infiltration by the far left . . ." (NSA Report)

WHAT HE SAYS: "I strongly support right to work and I believe in a concept of open shop."

WHAT THE RECORD SHOWS: The NSA constitution begins, "We, the members of the National Union of Students of the United States . . ." Farabee was president of this national union.

He uses clever language to avoid direct reference to the agency shop. "A concept of the open shop" is the agency shop, which requires workers to pay union dues regardless of whether they belong to a union or not.

"Agency shop" is a watered-down version of "union shop." Both are opposed to the right-to-work principle.

GM Moves Will Have Impact On The World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — First the good news. General Motors, which will sell perhaps $30 billion worth of goods to the world during the next year, has stated it plans no immediate price increases on 1975-model cars.

Speaking at a news conference in Troy, Mich., Wednesday, E.M. Estes, GM president, was quoted as indicating prices will remain the same at least for the rest of this year and probably longer.

Trade talk had suggested that more price increases would soon be forthcoming from the Big Three — GM, Ford and Chrysler — but Estes seemed to dispel that possibility so long as the car market remains weak.

For a company of such size — it is the largest manufacturing enterprise in the world — such a statement is extraordinary, especially since GM already is under price pressure from its suppliers and others.

In taking its stand, the company introduces a degree of stability into an uncertain atmosphere.

Among other things, the move reassures car buyers that they need not rush into the market now in order to avoid higher prices in months to come, thus reducing the fear of the future as a cause of inflation.

It all but compels competitors to maintain similarly stable pricing programs. It offers an example by which other companies can measure their own prices. It might even impose a moral restraint on GM suppliers.

In summary, it might not have the impact of a move by the Federal Reserve Board or the Ford administration budget makers, but its impact cannot be underestimated either.

GM last year sold $35.8 billion of cars, diesels, air-conditioners, batteries, trucks, buses, refrigerators, construction items and other products. It buys hundreds of millions of dollars of glass, rubber, steel. Its employment never has fallen below 660,000 in the past decade.

It is the most powerful corporation in the world, and its impact is felt not only by every American but by millions abroad.

And now the bad news.

While GM is thus making its contribution to the anti-inflation effort, it is simultaneously preparing for and reacting to a major downturn in the U.S. economy. It will be buying less, selling less, employing fewer workers and earning less.

It cannot earn the same as a year ago, in fact, unless it pares its costs. It claims already to be absorbing $100 of increased costs since 1975-model prices were announced.

Corporate officers announced a week ago that current income has been "adversely affected by rapidly rising costs, reduced volume, and by strikes," the latter occuring mainly at suppliers.

If it already has decided to avoid higher prices as a route out of this earnings predicament, its only other choice is to cut costs. In good times this can be done by increasing sales, but that option also has been closed.

Junior Editors' Quiz on PEPSIN

QUESTION: What is pepsin and where does it come from?

* * *

ANSWER: Pepsin is an enzyme or ferment found in the lining of the stomach. It is the most important of the digestive enzymes and acts only in an acid medium. It combines with the gastric juice, an acid secretion, and digests proteins. It converts proteins into soluble peptones, which are absorbed by the body. Pepsin in chemical content resembles somewhat an enzyme in the saliva of the mouth known as ptyalin, which starts the digestive process by partially digesting carbohydrates. However, pepsin can only act on proteins, not on fats or carbohydrates.

Some forms of indigestion and stomach discomfort have a connection with pepsin. In the normal stomach juice, acid and pepsin are present together. When pepsin is absent and it is necessary to supply it to aid digestion, commercial preparations of pepsin are used. These are derived from the mucous lining of pigs and calves.

More Women Running

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More women are running for more offices this year than ever before, and two of them are expected to win major statewide posts in Tuesday's elections.

Rep. Ella Grasso is favored to become governor of Connecticut and Mary Ann Krupsak is ahead in her bid for lieutenant governor of New York.

At the same time, women are expected to substantially increase their numbers in state legislatures. But women could slip back from their current congressional strength of 16 seats.

Rep. Grasso, a Democrat, would become the fourth woman governor in U.S. history, and the first to make it without benefit of a husband's coattails. She has two decades of experience in Connecticut politics.

Miss Krupsak, a state senator who defied Democratic party leaders to capture the nomination for lieutenant governor, would be the first woman elected to a major statewide office in New York. She ran her insurgent campaign on the slogan "She's not just one of the boys."

Other major women candidates include Democrats Barbara Mikulski of Maryland and Betty Roberts of Oregon, both running for the Senate, and Republican Louise Gore, a gubernatorial candidate in Maryland.

All three are challenging heavily-favored incumbents.

In New York, Barbara Keating, a Vietnam war widow, is the Conservative Party nominee for the Senate. She could play the spoiler's role, siphoning off as many as one million votes from Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits and his Democratic challenger, Ramsey Clark.

Less visible but highly significant were the expected grass roots elections of women on school boards, city councils, state courts and as county sheriffs and administrators.

Thousands more women sought elective office this year than ever before — including a nun in Tennessee, a brothel owner in Nevada, an activist Quaker grandmother in New Hampshire, a right-to-life conservative in New York, a lesbian in Massachusetts and a young Peace Corps veteran who swims the California coast to dramatize her opposition to offshore oil wells.

Nobody has a precise fix on the number of women candidates. But the National Women's Political Caucus says 1,029 women sought state and congressional seats in 1972. This year, political director Freddie Wechsler estimates that more than 1,800 women ran for comparable seats.

More than 1,100 women survived the primaries, she said, including 1,000 candidates for state legislatures and three major-party candidates for the Senate, 44 for the House, three for governor, four for lieutenant governor and 11 for secretary of state.

At last count there were 462 women among the 7,584 state legislators or slightly more than 6 per cent.

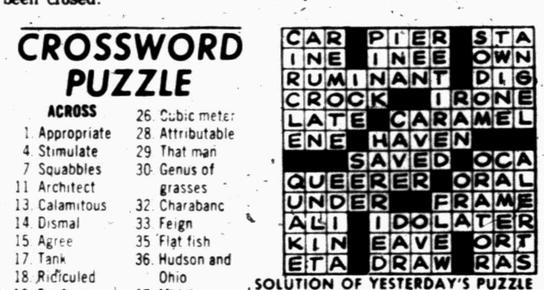

Staff Convinced

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Mayor Harry Moyer's continued emphasis on austerity apparently has had its effect on his staff.

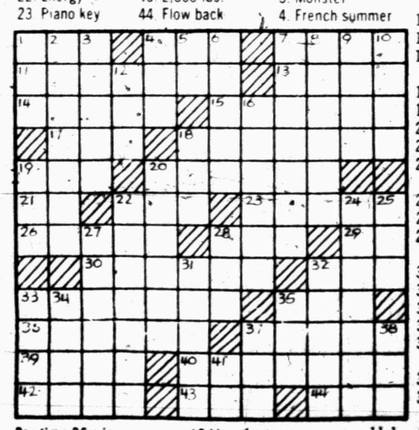

The office workers gave him a 56th birthday party Monday and chipped in to buy him a cake — at half price.

Across the top of the mayor's cake the words proudly proclaimed, "Happy Birthday, Judy."

Tigers, Panthers Fight For Loop Lead Tonight

IN CRUCIAL CONTEST—These eager lads will probably see action for the Snyder Tigers tonight when they take on the Lubbock Dunbar Panthers in a crucial District 3-AAA gridiron contest. The final home game of the season begins at 7:30 p.m. in Tiger Stadium. From left, are Welton Cobb, 195-pound senior tailback and linebacker; Robert Ramirez, 130-pound senior specialty team member; and, Dennis Young, 160-pound senior defensive safety. The winner of tonight's clash will take over the district lead as the only unbeaten team in district play.

The Snyder Tigers and the Lubbock Dunbar Panthers [illegible] tonight in Tiger Stadium in a crucial District 3-AAA football game. The winner could win the district championship.

This will be the fourth straight opponent that has been unbeaten in district play when they met the Tigers. Snyder and Dunbar both are 6-1 for the season and 3-0 in district play. Both teams have powerful running attacks and strong defenses. The Tigers have scored 135 points compared to 51 for the opposition. The Panthers have scored 122 points compared with 63 for its foes. Snyder's only loss to Midland Lee, and Dunbar's only loss was to Lubbock Coronado. The Tigers have beaten Monahans, Big Spring, Andrews, Lamesa, Estacado and Lake View. Dunbar has triumphed over El Paso Bowie, Ft. Stockton, Lubbock High, Sweetwater, Lamesa and Lake View.

Comparative scores seem to give the Tigers a slight edge. Snyder beat Lamesa 20-0 while Dunbar bested the same team 9-0. The Tigers defeated Lake View 16-0 while the Panthers put down the same team 7-3.

"They (the Panthers) will be tough," declared Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges of the Tigers. "We've got to contain a quick and speedy offense and block a fast defense," he added.

Hodges said Dunbar is the fastest team the Tigers have met this season. "You've got to adjust your thinking when you play a team of this nature, " he added.

The winner of tonight's contest will be the only unbeaten team in district play and consequently will be favored to win the crown. Twenty-five Tiger seniors will be playing their last home game.

Snyder and Dunbar both use the Winged-T attack. Defensively, Snyder has the "Oklahoma "5", and Dunbar has a "52" alignment. However, the Panthers stunt about 90 per cent of the time. Both teams have outstanding linebackers.

Dunbar has the district's leading rusher in Mel High, 165-pound senior halfback. They also have one of the best quarterbacks in the district in Michael Henderson, 185-pound senior, who is dangerous on rollout options. Others in the Panther backfield are wingback Terry Johnson, a 141-pound senior, and Warren Russell, a 155-pound senior tailback. Eddie Brown, 160-pound senior, also will be available for tailback duties.

Coach Hodges also can field a talented backfield that includes Win Bunch, 160-pound senior, at quarterback; Rickey Howell, 160-pound senior, at fullback; David Mayes, 180-pound senior, at halfback; and, either Welton Cobb, 195-pound senior, or Tim Flynn, 160-pound junior, at tailback.

Bunch also is a dangerous runner on bootleg plays. He's gained 269 net yards rushing on 44 carries. Welton Cobb is the team's leading ground gainer with 669 yards on 96 carries. Howell has 408 paces on 97 runs, and Mayes has 171 yards on 36 thrusts. Flynn has gained 162 yards on 34 carries.

Cobb missed the Tigers' last game at Lake View due to a knee injury. Hodges said if he is unable to start, then Flynn will operate at the tailback position again.

The only other doubtful starter is Jackie Simpson, 170-pound senior right defensive end, who has a fractured bone in his wrist. If he is unable to start, then Mayes will be shifted from his cornerback position to end. If he is then Chester Cobb, 160-pound junior and Kenny Thompson, 140-pound junior, will alternate at the cornerback post.

Starting along the offensive line for the Tigers will be Chester Cobb or Thompson at swing man; Bobbie Wall, 170-pound senior, at quick tackle; Roger Williams, 165-pound senior, at quick guard; Felton Stephens, 190-pound senior, at center; Tim Sonnier, 210-pound senior, or David Marlar, 175-pound senior, at strong guard; Charles Hammond, 190-pound junior at strong tackle; and Roy Lee Carter, 175-pound senior, at strong end.

Other starters on defense will be Mike Freeman, 180-pound junior, at left end, Sonnier at left tackle, Carter at left linebacker, Welton Cobb or Wall at right linebacker; George Willis, 170-pound senior, at middle guard; Greg Gary, 215-pound senior, at right tackle; Bernie Weems, 160-pound senior, at rover; Danny Brumley, 160-pound senior, at halfback, and, Dennis Young, 160-pound senior, at safety.

Coach Hodges also can call on several other lads for assistance, including Steve Green at quarterback, Robert Ramirez at tailback, Larry Gee at fullback, Froilan Reyes at center, Jerry Derrick at guard, Alfonso Rodriguez, Richard Huddleston and Scott Walton at tackle, and Paul Solis, Kerry Firtz, Orlando Vargas, Billy Allbritton and Dane Witherspoon at end. Witherspoon is the team's extra point and field goal kicker.

Everything points to a close, hard-fought ball game.

Cards Invade Dallas Sunday

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals are playing Cowboys and Indians this year ... and they're the guys who always win.

After shooting down the Washington Redskins for the second time this season last week, the high-riding Cardinals hope to accomplish the same thing against the Dallas Cowboys this Sunday.

The Cardinals, undefeated in seven National Football League games, can just about tie a rope on a divisional championship with a victory at Texas Stadium.

"If they win, that's it as far as the National Conference Eastern title is concerned," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

Ironically, the Cardinals are 5½-point underdogs despite their perfect record, which dramatically overshadows the Cowboys' 3-4 mark in the East.

The Buffalo Bills and New England Patriots play an important game Sunday, too. The Bills and Patriots, locked in a tie for first place with 6-1 records in the American Conference's East Division, meet for the second time in three weeks. The Bills won their first meeting at Buffalo 30-28.

In the other National Football League games Sunday, the Oakland Raiders play the Denver Broncos; the Philadelphia Eagles meet the Pittsburgh Steelers; the Minnesota Vikings take on the Chicago Bears; Washington plays the Green Bay Packers; the Detroit Lions host the New Orleans Saints; the Cincinnati Bengals visit the Baltimore Colts; the Miami Dolphins entertain the Atlanta Falcons; the New York Giants travel to Kansas City for a meeting with the Chiefs; the San Diego Chargers play at home against the Cleveland Browns and the Houston Oilers are in New York for a game with the Jets.

In the weekly Monday night game, the Los Angeles Rams play the San Francisco 49ers.

The Cardinals, off to their best start in history, will bank on Jim Hart's arm and Jim Bakken's toe — two weapons that have propelled them to the front of the NFL class.

While the Cardinals have Hart, the No. 1 passer in the NFC, the Cowboys can boast the No. 1 pass-catcher in the NFL--Drew Pearson. Pearson has 38 receptions for 644 yards so far this year.

The showdown battle between Buffalo and New England matches a pair of high-powered teams who can kill you by land or air. O.J. Simpson, the record-breaking runner, leads the Buffalo offense while New England depends on Jim Plunkett, the AFC's No. 3 passer.

Oakland can just about wipe out Denver in the AFC West with a victory over the Broncos. The Raiders, with a 61, hold a 2½-game lead over Denver, 3-3-1.

Pittsburgh, 5-1-1, leading the NFC Central race by 1½ games, can improve their status for a playoff berth by beating Philadelphia. The Eagles, 43 in the East, need this one badly to stay within striking distance of the playoffs.

Minnesota, 5-2, leader in the NFC Central by two games, hope to stop a two-game losing streak. Chicago hopes to continue it to three games, something that hasn't happened to the Vikings since 1968.

Washington, 4-3, meets Green Bay, 3-4, in a battle of second-place teams. The Redskins are tied with Philadelphia for second in the NFC East and the Packers are locked in a tie with Detroit and Chicago in the NFC Central race.

New Orleans and Detroit each hope to reach the .500 mark. The Saints are guided by John North, an assistant coach with the Lions for eight seasons before going to New Orleans.

Cincinnati gave up the ball on fumbles five times while losing last week's 34-21 decision to Houston and can't afford to repeat that lackluster performance against Baltimore.

Miami, 5-2 in the AFC East, faces a significant game, since, unless there is a tie, one of the teams ahead of the Dolphins will on Sunday in the Buffalo-New England contest.

Newly-acquired Craig Morton will start for the Giants, who have lost four straight games. Cleveland broke a four-game losing streak last week with an upset victory over Denver and wants to continue that momentum Sunday. Houston and the New York Jets, two big losers this season, match bomb-throwing quarterbacks in Dan Pastorini and Joe Namath.

JV Hosts Lake View

The Snyder High School junior varsity will host Lake View at 2 p.m. Saturday in Tiger Stadium.

The Snyder JV is 7-1 for the season while Lake View's JV is 5-0.

Coach Albert Lewis of the Snyder team listed probable starters, as follows:

Offense: Billy Allbritton SE, Richard Balderama ST, James Smylie SG, George Miller C, Dusty Land and Kyle Sykes QG, Paul Tovar QT, Scott Clark SM, David Rice QB, Bobby Thompson and Ricky Beard FB, Rudy Rodriquez TB, and Pat Dryden and Kelly Burton HB.

Defense: Smylie and Allbritton, E; Land and Burton, T; James Hughes, NG; Thompson and Beard, LB; Sykes, R; Dryden, CB; Rodriguez, S; and, Mac Wellborn, HB.

NFL Will Not Merge

NEW YORK (AP) — Forget about any possible consolidation between the 55-year-old National Football League and the infant World Football League ... as long as Pete Rozelle is NFL commissioner.

Asked about the possibility of such an amalgamation Thursday, Rozelle said emphatically, "There will be no complete or partial merger with any World Football League teams. The league never has considered it. The World Football League will have to make it or not make it on its own, without any help from us.

"We have our own expansion plans and there would just be nothing in it for us to take in two of their teams. If we did, there could be all sorts of problems, such as teams in our league holding rights to some players on those teams.

"For our 29th and 30th teams, we are going to stock them with NFL players, just as we are going to stock our 27th and 28th teams with NFL players."

In fact, no NFL teams will be stocked with any more WFL players for the remainder of this season. The NFL owners made that decision Thursday, at the conclusion of their two-day meetings.

In passing such a resolution, the owners broadened a long-standing rule that had been in affect against the signing of Canadian Football League and minor league players.

Thus, when the first WFL regular season ends on Nov. 13 and the CFL regular season concludes on Nov. 3, none of their players would be eligible to be signed by NFL teams, even if they became free agents at those times.

Meanwhile, Rozelle said no decision had been reached on awarding of the Seattle franchise. The commissioner said three groups — two from Seattle — were bidding for the franchise, which is scheduled to begin play in 1976, along with Tampa. The commissioner said the decision probably would be made within the next month.

The Tampa franchise was awarded Wednesday to Tom McCloskey, a Philadelphia builder and real estate developer.

There remained the possibility that two more franchises would be added for 1976, increasing league membership to 30 in six five-team divisions. Among the cities considered leading contenders are Phoenix, Birmingham, Ala., Memphis and Honolulu. Ironically, the last three currently have WFL teams.

The owners also voted to play the 1976 Pro Bowl Game, matching all-stars from the American and National Conferences, in the Superdome in Louisiana on Monday night, Jan. 26. This season's Pro Bowl Game, the first under the lights, is scheduled for Jan. 20, 1975, in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Rozelle said the possibility of extending the 14-game schedule next season was turned down. It had been reported that some of the exhibition games might be counted as regular-season games.

Rated Teams Should Have Easy Pickins'

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Look who's coming to dinner at Columbus ... Illinois.

The crippled Illini would seem to be easy pickings Saturday for Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team. The Buckeyes have been feasting on everyone else this year.

While the undefeated Buckeyes have the pleasure of Illinois' company, Big Ten Conference colleague Michigan, the other bully in that league, will be dining out at Indiana.

Michigan, No. 3 in the country and right up there with the voracious Buckeyes in the Big Ten race, is a prohibitive favorite to beat the Hoosiers.

Both the Illinois and Indiana coaches realize what kind of odds they face with those two bone-busters as opponents.

"We have nothing to lose but everything to gain," said Illinois Coach Bob Blackman. "And it doesn't change the fact that Ohio State is one of the great college teams of all time."

In preparation for his overwhelming task, Indiana Coach Lee Corso said: "Michigan is a team that has everything, but we'll really be supercharged — really go after them."

But both Ohio State and Michigan are undefeated in seven games and seem intent on keeping it that way until their much-heralded meeting in the last game of the regular season.

In the other games involving Top Ten teams Saturday, it's No. 2 Oklahoma at Iowa State; No. 4 Alabama hosting No. 17 Mississippi State; No. 5 Auburn at No. 11 Florida; California visiting No. 6 Southern California; seventh-ranked Notre Dame vs. Navy in Philadelphia; Arkansas at No. 8 Texas A&M; No. 9 Nebraska at Colorado and 10th-rated Penn State hosting No. 15 Maryland.

Among the rest of the ranked teams, No. 12 Texas entertains SMU; No. 13 Texas Tech visits Rice; No. 16 Miami plays Western Michigan; 18th-rated UCLA plays at Washington; No. 19 Temple visits Cincinnati and San Diego State, No. 20, takes on North Texas State.

Illinois, which has enough problems just facing Ohio State, will have to also overcome a lot of injuries. Illinois, battered on defense, has only two healthy tackles to face awesome Archie Griffin & Co.

Ohio State's fabulous running back is seeking to extend his NCAA record of 17 straight 100-yard games. Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes will try to get his 200th career victory, 167 with Ohio State. A crowd of 87,000 is expected to be on hand for the game.

The Big Two from the Big Ten aren't the only football bullies favored to kick their opponents Saturday.

Oklahoma, playing out a lame duck season because of NCAA violations, Southern Cal, Notre Dame and Nebraska all rate the "heavy" role in their games.

Alabama, Auburn, Texas A&M and Penn State are not so fortunate this weekend. All of those Top Ten teams have tougher sparmates.

Aggies Favored Over Hogs By 11

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Professional oddsmakers seldom deal with the emotional factor in picking favorites and if it wasn't for that important intangible you could hand Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech and Baylor Southwest Conference victories Saturday.

All four teams are heavy favorites to whip their opponents in a week which will spotlight the muscular Texas Aggies, the SWC leader.

A&M is an 11-point choice over Arkansas at College Station; Texas is a 19-point pick over Southern Methodist in Austin; Baylor is a 13-point nod over Texas Christian in Fort Worth; and Texas Tech is a 10-point favorite over Rice in Houston.

Member-elect Houston travels to Athens, Ga., to meet the Georgia Bulldogs in a game rated as a tossup.

The front-running Aggies haven't allowed a point in their last eight quarters of SWC play. A sellout crowd of 48,000 plus is expected at Kyle Field for what Arkansas quarterback Scott Bull calls "the hardest game we've played this year."

Mark Miller was expected to get the starting quarterback nod against the eighth-ranked Aggies.

A&M Coach Emory Bellard is trying to hush-hush early Cotton Bowl talk among his followers, saying "We've only played three games. We have a good opportunity, but we've got four tough games to go, starting with Arkansas."

Arkansas is out of the SWC race with two losses but the Razorbacks showed tremendous improvement last week in a 42-9 thumping of Colorado State.

Of course, it's a battle of survival for the rest of the teams except for TCU and Rice which have been eliminated.

The SMU-Texas tilt is typical. "Both of us are fighting to stay in the race," said Texas Coach Darrell Royal. "They have lost one football game in conference play, too."

Baylor also owns a league loss and is coming off a physical pounding in a 20-0 defeat at the hands of the Texas Aggies. TCU is 1-6 and has only one consolation entering the game—the Horned Frogs lead the all-time series 42-31-7.

Rice remains winless and Royal complimented the injury plagued Owls on their courage in a Longhorn victory last week.

"They gave us all we wanted," Royal said.

Tech sophomore quarterback Tommy Duniven, who missed the SMU game last week, is expected to be recovered from back spasms to play against the Owls. Tech has one league loss.

The Longhorns, Aggies, Red Raiders and Bears are expected to be runaway winners. But then that's why they play the games.

Joins Tribe

BOSTON (AP) — Mike O'Keefe, 18, a right-handed pitcher who had a 10-1 sandlot league record last summer after graduation from St. Columbkille's High School, has signed a baseball contract with the Cleveland Indians.

Jack Vallely, Eastern states scouting supervisor for the Indians, said Thursday that O'Keefe will report to Sarasota in Florida's Gulf Coast League next March.

Big Spring Wins, 20-6

The combined Runnels and Goliad 8th grade teams of Big Spring beat the combined 8th grade squads of Travis and Lamar here last night, 20-6.

The visitors scored two touchdowns in the first half. Both of them resulted from a dive play from midfield. Big Spring ran for two extra points following the first TD.

Early in the third period, the visitors struck again, this time from 18 yards out on a pass play.

Snyder got its only touchdown in the third quarter on a 46 yard pass and run play from David Lee to Jerry Alexander.

Snyder 8th grade will host Lamesa 8th grade Thursday week at 5 p.m., followed by a Lamar 9th grade-Lamesa tussle at 6:30 p.m.

PeeWee Grid Playoffs Set

The playoff games for the Boys' Club PeeWee football program will be held Saturday at the Travis Junior High field beginning at 4:30 p.m. with the 9-year-olds, followed at 5:30 p.m. by the girls flag football game, at 6:30 p.m. with the 10-year-olds and at 8 p.m. with the 11-12-year-olds.

Tickets are being sold by all the football players. They cost $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, junior high age and younger. Proceeds from the game will pay expenses for the annual Southwest Conference trip to Lubbock to see Texas Tech play TCU.

Ford's Program Stuck In Public Controversy

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three weeks after it was proposed, President Ford's anti-inflation program is bogged down in public controversy over whether its costs will outweigh its benefits.

Although Ford said his program was a "grand design" that should be considered as a package, it appears the proposals requiring congressional approval will be voted on only in bits and pieces, if at all.

The only one of Ford's major proposals to have cleared Congress so far is his program to make more than $7 billion available to the housing industry to help lower home mortgage interest rates.

Two other major features of the Ford package, budget reductions and a 5 per cent surtax on a single taxpayer's income over $7,500 or family income above $15,000, have gone nowhere. Both have aroused fears in Congress they would worsen the nation's current economic decline.

Ford's chief economic spokesman, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, has changed his tactics slightly in defending the Ford program. He's been saying in recent speeches that the program will deal with the economic downturn at the same time it works to restrain rampant inflation.

And in a speech to the National Press Club Thursday, Simon even said the program "will preserve the free enterprise system that I believe is essential to our future growth."

But while the administration still is pushing hard publicly, some key administration economists believe there won't be any surtax unless the income level is raised, possibly as high as $25,000 for a family.

But even a seemingly noncontroversial Ford proposal to issue special citations to business and labor unions that show restraint in wage and price behavior has run into trouble.

Arch Booth, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, refused recently to support the plan and walked out of a meeting of the President's Citizens' Action Committee to Fight Inflation, of which he is a member.

What's more, some administration economists concede there are contradictions in some aspects of the program, including suggestions by Ford that the government might consider issuing special so-called WIN bonds that would bear a higher interest rate than savings bonds.

Such a bond, they say, likely would attract more funds away from the savings and loan associations that support the housing industry.

One Treasury economist, who did not want to be quoted by name, also said it was unfortunate that some of Ford's remarks have been interpreted as encouraging Americans to spend less and save more, since reduced spending on top of already declining retail sales could only hurt the economy more.

But in his Oct. 14 Kansas City speech, Ford did urge that Americans balance their family budgets, postpone unnecessary borrowing, and save as much money as they can — all steps that could lead to lower consumer spending.

Other major Ford proposals and their status are as follows:

—His proposal for Congress to set a $300-billion budget ceiling for the 1975 fiscal year has passed the House, but not the Senate.

—The list of $5 billion in budget cuts he has been promising to send to Congress since he took office now is scheduled to go to Capitol Hill after the Nov. 5 elections.

—A public service employment program to spend up to $2.3 billion on increased jobs and unemployment benefits to confront rising unemployment has not been acted on.

—There likewise has been no action on his proposals for a 5 per cent surtax on corporate income or on a plan to encourage new business investments by raising the investment tax credit to 10 per cent.

—There has been no action on a proposal to allow tax deductions for dividends paid on preferred stock, which is a move aimed at helping public utilities raise capital.

—A modest tax relief program for low-income groups, which is supported by Ford and which already was under consideration by the House Ways and Means Committee as part of a tax reform package, may be reported out of committee after the election.

—On the voluntary level, the citizens' committee that is helping with this program expects to begin sending the first of an expected 140,000 so-called WIN buttons by the middle of next week to persons who have mailed in pledges to help to control inflation.

In addition to these, Simon indicated in a television interview Thursday night that if the President's plan to reduce oil imports by one million barrels a day by the end of next year through voluntary efforts doesn't begin to show results within the next three months, then some mandatory reductions may be imposed.

McKittrick Convicted Of Murder

HOUSTON (AP) — Marcia McKittrick has been convicted of murder in connection with the September 1972 slaying of Houston plastic surgeon Dr. John Hill.

The surprise move came Thursday after attorneys agreed to admit evidence without hearing witnesses testify.

State Dist. Judge Frank Price earlier Thursday had ruled that a signed statement by Miss McKittrick could be used as evidence.

Prosecutor Bob Bennett said he was approached by Charles Caperton of Dallas, Miss McKittrick's attorney, about stipulating evidence in a nonjury trial.

Bennett said he felt confident the evidence spoke for itself and knew the stipulated trial would save time and taxpayers' expense.

Judge Price ordered a presentencing investigation to assist him in setting the term of years. Formal sentencing was set for Nov. 27.

Miss McKittrick, pleaded not guilty to the murder charges.

The trial of a codefendent, Mrs. Lilla Paulus, 55, was postponed until next February. Judge Price ruled that a statement given by Miss McKittrick could not be used in evidence against Mrs. Paulus.

A third defendant in the case, Bobby Wayne Vandiver, 36, the reputed triggerman for the slaying, was fatally shot by a Longview policeman last May. The policeman said Vandiver reached for a gun.

The prosecution attempted to use a statement by Vandiver in the trial of both women. Price however, cited previous court rulings that a statement by a principal in the crime may not be used as evidence against a suspected accomplice.

Hill was fatally shot at his fashionable River Oaks home Sept. 24, 1972.

Democrats Expected To Increase House Majority

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even Republicans concede the Democrats stand to increase their 248-187 House majority. The question for the voters Tuesday is whether they will give the opposition party enough advantage to stymie President Ford's young administration.

The official, admittedly optimistic, estimate of the Republican National Congressional Commitee is that GOP net losses can be held to five. This would fit in the normal range of midterm election losses for the party controlling the White House.

The Democratic Congressional Committee makes what it terms a hard estimate of a 37-seat gain, with hopes for substantially more.

To produce the veto-proof House Ford has been decrying as a national danger, the Democrats would have to do much better than make good their hard prediction.

A shift of 37 seats would produce a 285-150 Democratic majority, less than the two-thirds required by the Constitution on votes to override vetoes. In practice, the opposition party would have to number well above the minimum to be reasonably certain of overriding most vetoes.

About 75 races are considered close, and these are widely scattered geographically. Many involve incumbents, but as usual most incumbents are favored to win re-election. Most of the shifts are expected in open districts — those where the incumbents already have been removed by retirement, defeat in primaries or candidacy for other offices. There are 52 such races this year, a high but not unprecedented number. Of the seats involved, 28 were held by Democrats and 24 by Republicans.

Republicans also are fighting hard to reclaim some of the seats lost in special elections during the past two years. They think one of their best chances is in Ford's old Michigan district.

Democrat Richard F. VanderVeen was elected in an upset when Ford vacated the seat to become vice president. Ford traveled to Michigan to campaign for the Republican contender, Paul G. Goebel Jr., and some Democrats concede his appearance may make the difference.

In another race where a personality is important, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., is generally favored to win, but some observers insist his embarrassing partying with a former exotic dancer who jumped into the Washington Tidal Basin may produce an upset. The Republican challenging the 65-year-old chairman of the Ways and Means Committee is Judy Petty, 31.

Six Republican incumbents are considered to be in serious trouble: Robert B. Mathias in California; Samuel H. Young in Illinois; Earl F. Landgrebe, a bitter-end defender of former President Richard M. Nixon; William H. Hudnut III in Indiana; Robert J. Huber in Michigan, and Joseph J. Maraziti in New Jersey.

Thieu Tries To Discredit Foes

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu tried today to discredit his political opponents by branding them lackeys of the Communists and colonialists and a minority.

But at the same time he promised to carry out some of the reforms his increasingly vocal opposition is demanding.

"The Communists are launching major attacks in the front, while in the rear, Communist henchmen, colonialists and defeatists are seeking all means to create disorder and political instability and to incite the people to rise up and overthrow the government," Thieu said in a National Day broadcast.

Despite a violent police crackdown Thursday in which scores of anti-Thieu demonstrators in Saigon were injured, thousands demonstrated today in Da Nang and Qui Nhon. They expressed no confidence in the president and called for his resignation.

Leaders of the Unified Buddhist Church in Da Nang said Thieu is following in the path of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, whose overthrow in a military coup on Nov. 1, 1963, is commemorated by the National Day.

Thieu made clear that after two months of restraint toward the demonstrations, the hard line taken Thursday in Saigon would continue.

"I will not tolerate any activities that will cause public disorder," he said in a luncheon speech. "... I believe that the military forces will strongly support my action."

For two months, anti-Communist Roman Catholics, Buddhists, opposition legislators, newsmen and others have been demonstrating for an end to corruption, for social reforms and the restoration of civil liberties, including press and political freedom.

In response, Thieu in the past 10 days has fired four cabinet ministers, three of the four corps commanders and 377 field-grade officers. But his opponents contend that he has not answered their charges of personal corruption against himself and members of his family and that he has done nothing to bring about national reconciliation and an end to the fighting draining the country economically.

Thieu in his broadcast said he was reorganizing the government "to better serve the people" and was giving priority to economic and social welfare measures, eradication of corruption, governmental efficiency and "help and service to the rural people."

He also pledged to revise and soften two decrees that have been special targets of the opposition demonstrations — the press and political parties laws.

Prosecutors Accuse JD Of Deceit

DALLAS (AP) — Special prosecutors in the Jake Jacobsen case have argued that the Justice Department deceived U.S. District Court Judge Robert Hill last summer regarding their secret plea bargaining with Jacobsen in Washington, D.C.

In a written brief sent Thursday to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, Dallas lawyers Wayne Woodruff, Patrick Higginbotham and Andrew Barr asked the court to deny the government's request to suspend the prosecutors.

Hill appointed the three Oct. 23 to carry out the Texas case against Jacobsen involving charges of misapplying $825,000 from a San Angelo savings and loan association.

The Justice Department has asked the appeals court to suspend Hill's order appointing the prosecutors, saying Hill overstepped constitutional boundaries for the separation of powers.

The prosecutors argue a stay of the order will undo what Hill has done and the "public interest is best served by complete litigation of the matter in an adversary proceeding."

The Justice Department allegedly promised to dismiss Texas charges against Jacobsen, a lobbyist for a San Antonio-based milk co-operative, in return for his testimony against former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

The three prosecutors pointed out that Justice Department counsel workings on the case in Texas did not relay the information to Judge Hill.

The Dallas lawyers also noted that Jacobsen was indicted July 29 on a lesser bribery charge, but that Judge Hill was not informed of the plea bargain until Aug. 20.

They said Hill pointedly asked U.S. Atty. Frank McCown Aug. 29 if he wished to introduce evidence or testimony to explain why the Texas case should be dismissed to benefit the Washington proceeding, but McCown declined to elaborate.

If the appeals court should grant the stay, the special prosecutors asked it to allow them to participate in an appeal.

Smart folks don't climb family tree

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I've always been very proud of the fact that my family came to Massachusetts from England in 1637. My husband says it's nothing to brag about because the people who came here then were all criminals who had been run out of England.

My husband is of Italian descent. His parents didn't come here until 1900, but he claims he came from "royalty." He says that years ago when an Italian nobleman would get a peasant girl pregnant, the girl would leave her illegitimate baby on someone's doorstep. My husband says that he was such a child because his name, when translated, is the one given to those abandoned babies.

Anyway, I want to know whether I should be proud of my ancestry or ashamed? And how about my husband?

NEW ENGLANDER

DEAR NEW: Intelligent, discerning people don't judge others by what their ancestors did, so don't take any bows, or accept any blame for yours.

As I see it, the only aristocracy worth bragging about is the aristocracy of achievement. Everyone must stand on his own record.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's secretary has given him many costly gifts, ranging from travel accessories to art during the two years she has worked for him.

Some of the cards she has enclosed with these gifts have been embarrassingly personal.

I feel certain she is pursuing him, although he says he thinks I'm mistaken.

This young woman is divorced and has two children, and I know she could put her money to better use than buying gifts for my husband.

And I wish she would. How do we let her know?

PUZZLED IN N.J.

DEAR PUZZLED: This is not a job for "we"—your husband should handle it alone. And if he really wants to discourage further gift giving, he will—toot sweet!

DEAR ABBY: About six weeks ago, I met an insurance agent who happened to call at my door. I don't usually invite strangers in, but this man seemed exceptionally nice. Also, being single, I was more interested in him than I was in insurance.

After talking to him, I learned that he is new in town, and recently divorced.

First I invited him to my home for dinner, then he invited me out, and we've been dating ever since. After six weeks of enjoying each other's company he still hasn't invited me to see where he lives. I've hinted, but he hasn't offered. He spends too much time with me to be married, so that can't be the reason. Abby, why doesn't he want me to see where he lives?

I enjoy his company, and he takes me out a lot, but should I continue to invite him to my home when he never invites me to his?

BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: He could be living in a cheap rooming house or an apartment of which he isn't very proud. As a newly divorced man he may have taken a financial beating, and is trying to get on his feet again. Don't fault him. You've known him only six weeks. Give him more time.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Escapees Surrender

PALO PINTO, Tex. (AP— A trio of jail escapees has been charged with felony escape and burglary after surrendering to Palo Pinto authorities.

The trio was returned Thursday to the Palo Pinto County jail—the same jail from which two of them have escaped twice in the last two months.

Justice of the Peace Lynn Bell set bail at $5,000 for Melvin Lee Hood, 24, of Pasco, Wash.; Ronnie Lee Moore, 17, of Palo Pinto County; and Dexter Anthony Cross, 20, of Mineral Wells.

Sheriff Bill Harris said the three men overpowered the jailer, Slick Boon, Sunday and locked him, his wife, and grandson in a cell before fleeing the jail.

Harris said Moore contacted his father-in-law Thursday and told him the trio was ready to surrender.

The father-in-law contacted two Mineral Wells attorneys who accompanied the trio to the county courthouse, the sheriff said.

Cross and Hood were being held on several counts of burglary in when they escaped in September leaving Boon, and his family in a locked cell. Moore was awaiting trial on burglary charges, the sheriff said.

A sheriff's office spokesman said Boon is still the jailer at the county facility.

Says Ray Killed For Attention

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray killed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to draw attention to himself, believing the assassination would be "widely approved" in the United States, according to author William Bradford Huie.

Huie, who had written about a possible conspiracy in the killing, said in a sworn statement submitted Thursday to U.S. District Court he concluded after almost six months of investigation that Ray acted alone.

Arthur Hanes Sr., of Birmingham, Ala., Ray's former lawyer, said earlier he had believed the shooting was a "political killing," perhaps carried out by black militant organizations. He testified that Ray denied numerous times that he shot the civil rights leader.

Huie said his first indication that no one else was involved was when he found that Ray had no money and pulled a holdup to finance his international flight after the April 4, 1968, shooting.

He said he decided that Ray was driven by a desire to attract attention to himself and after the shooting was torn between saying "yes, he was there," and an aversion to admitting "he pulled the trigger."

Huie's testimony was introduced as the state neared the end of its case opposing Ray's attempt to withdraw his March 10, 1969, guilty plea so he can stand trial for the murder.

A seven-hour sworn statement by Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex., one of Ray's former lawyers, was to be read into the record today to wind up the eight-day hearing.

In his statement, Foreman denies Ray's allegations that he coerced the plea in order to avoid a public trial and preserve the value of the account Huie was to write with inside information supplied by Ray.

Ray seeks to overturn the plea not only on grounds that Foreman pressured him into admitting the slaying, but also on his claim that Foreman and Hanes were in convict of interest because they had rights to royalties from Huie's work.

Huie denied the allegation that he wanted to keep Ray off the witness stand to preserve the value of his book "He Slew The Dreamer." He said he did not enter the literary deals to make money but to get Ray to "help me establish the entire truth."

Ray's guilty plea "totally destroyed" the economic value of the book and his American, Canadian and British royalties amounted to $5,1[illegible], Huie said.

Hanes denied that he was more interested in book royalties than in preparing a defense. He said that when he was fired by Ray on Nov. 10, 1968, to be succeeded by Foreman, he was prepared to go to trial confidence the prosecution was "in trouble" with its case against Ray.

FUTURE UNCERTAIN

Free Clinics Are Thriving

EDITOR'S NOTE — Free clinics are thriving in the fading heyday of flower children, changing their image to meet community needs. The medical establishment now endorses the clinics, but their future is uncertain if national health insurance is enacted.

By RICHARD SALTUS
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In the poster-decorated waiting room of the Los Angeles Free Clinic, a middle-aged woman shared a bench with long-haired adolescents, children and an elderly couple.

"You can't find a private doctor open in the evenings, and I work during the day," the woman said.

"And I don't like the county hospital; besides, it's too far away. The treatment's just as good here. I bring my children, too."

A young woman also waiting said she "got a present from a friend" — venereal disease.

"I was in a hospital in New Jersey," she said. "They kept me for two weeks and never gave me a diagnosis. Here you don't get bogged down in so much bull."

Teen-agers with VD. Women with ailing children. Elderly couples with arthritis. They are typical patients of the nation's free clinics today.

With little of the attention that accomplished their birth in 1967, free clinics that once treated only bum-tripping flower children are getting patients from throughout their communities. The patients are drawn by the promise of getting help without red tape and without the cost of organized medicine.

There are about 400 free clinics nationwide handling about two million patients annually, according to the National Free Clinic Council, a San Francisco-based organization founded to coordinate funding for clinics and to share information.

The council channels money to clinics from the National Institute of Drug Abuse and from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. State and local agencies often augment free clinic budgets with funding.

"A growing number of people at our clinic are over 30 and minority group members, particularly blacks, have grown to constitute almost one-third of the patient load," says Leonard Somberg, executive director of the Los Angeles Free Clinic, one of the nation's largest and oldest.

The Open Door Clinic in Seattle has doctors, mental health counselors, legal consultants and employment advisers.

"Lots of people in the city right now don't have a drug problem, but have one of basic survival," said Cheryl Scott, crisis services supervisor at the Seattle clinic.

"How do you get welfare? Where can you sleep? Eat? What happens if your old man throws you out on the street with two kids? If you need an operation? If you need counseling and supportive information? We try to help."

Few free clinics are housed in medical buildings or hospitals. Most are in houses or downtown stores. Many are in ghetto or depressed areas, and some cater exclusively to blacks, homosexuals, Spanish-surnamed senior citizens, Indians, or women. In some, rock music croons from speakers and the walls are alive with posters.

The clinics handle all but major illnesses and surgery. Venereal disease is the most common problem.

"Many people now coming in simply cannot afford orthodox medical care or feel they cannot get it in bureaucratic, institutionalized, professionalized medicine," said John Vogt, associate director of the Westport Free Clinic in Kansas City.

Although some clinics ask patients to pay for services according to their financial situation, most rely strictly on contributions. Doctors and nurses volunteer their services in most cases.

The first free clinics sprouted in 1967 in San Francisco's Haight-Asbury district and in Cambridge, Mass., to fill medicine's generation gap. Others soon began in Los Angeles and other cities. Their chief concern was bad drug trips, hepatitis, VD and unwanted pregnancy.

The medical establishment wouldn't treat the unwashed, rebellious street people "without threatening them morally, legally or emotionally," Somberg recalled.

At first, the Los Angeles clinic had to face the suspicion that greeted the opening of most free clinics. Local residents disdained it as a hippie hangout. Police feared it would become a meeting place for drug users and pushers. Some parents were outraged the clinic would treat children without parental knowledge or permission.

Today the clinic has fancy-lettered commendations from city and county government, the California legislature and the National Rehabilitation Association.

"We slowly but surely gained the confidence of the community," Somberg said. "We started attracting people who at first suspected the clinic of being too radical to seek its help."

The Haight clinic has outgrown its original quarters and now occupies five buildings. It has a rock medicine division to supply medical aid at rock concerts, a drug detoxification unit, a project for training medical students in the clinic, a vocational rehabilitation program and a division that helps communes provide for their medical needs.

Gary Pryor, director of the Southern California Free Clinic Council, says clinics, with upgraded quality, might become providers of service under national health insurance.

"Free clinics wouldn't go out of existence," Smith said. "Either they will continue to serve those who identify with the lifestyle, or the clinics will change their image to accommodate a broader segment of the community."

Paper Claims Liu Is Dead

HONG KONG (AP) — A Communist Chinese newspaper published in Hong Kong says former President Liu Shao-chi, the chief target of Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution purge, is "dead physically as well as politically."

It was the first known statement by a responsible Communist source that Liu is dead. Previous reports, unconfirmed but generally accepted by observers in Hong Kong, indicated that he was living under house arrest somewhere in China.

The English-language supplement of Ta Kung Pao made the statement in passing in an article entitled "What the Cultural Revolution Has Achieved."

Search For Patty In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — The FBI has confirmed that agents have been checking local abortion clinics in a search for Patty Hearst, missing West Coast newspaper heiress. But J. Gordon Shanklin, director of the Dallas FBI office, called the checks routine.

Agents have been visiting all abortion clinics in the area, showing pictures of Miss Hearst and asking if the attendants had seen her, the Dallas Morning News reported.

The agents also are showing pictures of Emily and William Harris who are thought to be with Miss Hearst.

"The agent who talked to me would not say why they were asking us about this," said one clinic employe, "but I got the impression it was a statewide search of abortion clinics. He asked me for a list of all the abortion clinics in Dallas."

The News quoted a source close to the FBI as saying the bureau has reason to believe that Miss Hearst and the Harrises are attempting to cross the border into Mexico.

In an interview earlier on the West Coast, Stephen Weed, Miss Hearst's fiance at the time of her alleged kidnaping, said he believed the young woman was pregnant and would have to consult a doctor.

Bradley Unaware Of Bank Robbery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Thomas Bradley, a former police lieutenant, was in a bank when it was held up, but he didn't know about the robbery, police said.

The robber entered the bank soon after Bradley arrived Thursday, went to the foreign exchange department in the back of the building and demanded that the teller hand over the money, police said.

The robber escaped out the back way with $1,340, officers said.

No one was hurt.

Bradley was visiting the bank in south central Los Angeles to promote a rapid transit measure that will be voted on next Tuesday.

AREA STUDENTS RECEIVE SCHOLARSHIPS—Charles R. Lee Jr. of Snyder, center, and Ricky Prather of Sweetwater, right, have been named recipients of scholarships in the Department of Petroleum Engineering at Texas Tech University. They were among more than 30 to receive scholarships during the first semester. Lee, a freshman, received a $500 scholarship funded by the Southwestern Petroleum Short Course and Prather a $500 scholarship underwritten by the Sun Oil Company. Prather also is a freshman. Lee is the son of Charles Ray Lee Sr. of 1303 Twenty-thrid Street., Snyder, and Prather is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Prather of 1111 Crane, Sweetwater.

"But in all things approving ourselves." 2 Corinthians 6:4

Our favorite subject is ourselves—of it we never tire;
The least encroachment on the us, but fills our hearts with ire.
Our dearest selves just must come first—let others drop behind,
And though we sometimes think of them, to us, we first are kind.
Our sin, we call experience; our fabrications, tact,
And toward our limitations, we are not a bit exact!

WILL CURTIS

First Baptist

After the game tonight between Snyder and Dunbar there will be a "House of Horror" at First Baptist. All High School and College youth are invited. After the "house of Horror" there will be a "Lock-in" for the youth. This part of the night will begin at 11:30 and will be over at 8 Saturday morning. This part of the program will cost $2.50. Farmers Wary Of Ford Pledges

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pledges made by President Ford to protect farmers from foreign beef and milk are being viewed skeptically by some authorities, who claim he promised very little.

Ford said Thursday in Iowa that he will not let imports add to what he called the financial wringer farmers are enduring.

Specifically, Ford said he would:

—Impose meat import quotas or negotiate voluntary shipping restraints with foreign countries if meat imports next year threaten to exceed a specific level.

—Not change the present system of dairy import quotas without a thorough review.

—Impose countervailing duties on foreign-subsidized dairy products aimed at the U.S. market.

Here is the situation, including views by farm, government and trade spokesmen, who asked not to be identified:

Curbs under the 1964 meat import quota law will take effect automatically next Jan. 1 even if Ford does nothing. The quota apparatus has been set aside since mid-1972 by White House order to let more foreign meat enter. The suspension expires at the end of this year.

Under the 1964 law, meat imports are allowed to exceed a predetermined level by 10 per cent before stiff quotas are triggered. That applies only when the full force of the law is in effect.

Imports this year actually are estimated at less than the trigger point, meaning that even if the quota system were in effect for 1974, shipments are not large enough to force mandatory curbs.

The basic quota is adjusted annually to reflect U.S. beef production. Since beef output is up, the trigger level will be even higher next year. And more foreign beef could enter the U.S. market in 1975 than this year without triggering quotas.

Ford also pledged to enforce existing dairy import quotas. Those had been increased on an emergency basis by former President Richard M. Nixon last year and in early 1974 to let more foreign cheese, butter and other products enter the United States.

Unless specifically enlarged, those quotas also are enforced automatically.

Martha Feared For Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Martha Mitchell says that she feared for her life when Richard M. Nixon was president.

"I was afraid of being killed," said the estranged wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Mitchell is now standing trial on charges stemming from the Watergate cover-up.

"Since Mr. Nixon cleared out of the White House, I don't have as much fear," Mrs. Mitchell said Thursday. But she claims that the Ford administration has her telephone tapped, checks her mail and assigns agents to follow her. She did not elaborate on the belief.

Mrs. Mitchell talked with reporters after an appearance on a Chicago television program.

Mrs. Mitchell emerged from the show in tears because of a question about her drinking habits.

Rumors that she had been drinking before she made some of her celebrated telephone calls were "part of the (Nixon) administration's policy to discredit women," she said.

Green Hill Bapt.

Sunday School will begin at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship at 11. The Rev. Larry Braley, pastor, will bring the message, and Clevey Kerby will direct the music.

Training Union will begin at 6:30 p.m. and evening worship at 7:30.

On Wednesday, prayer meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. and choir practice at 8:30 p.m.

Paul Savage will be licensed to preach during the Sunday morning worship hour.

The budget committee will meet at 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Those who need transportation to services may call 573-8321. There is a clean, well-staffed nursery provided for both services.

Students Suspended

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eight Austin High School students have been suspended following disturbances earlier this week between racial groups, school officials said today.

Three students were suspended Tuesday after four white students were assaulted and one was taken to a private physician for treatment.

Wednesday morning before school about 40 students, including blacks, whites and Mexican-Americans, gathered across the street from the school in a vacant lot. Principal William Robbins said four men teachers talked the group back into classrooms without any violence. He said five boys, "those trying to agitate the others to fight," were suspended. Twelve parents, members of the adult human relations committee, remained at the high school the remainder of the day.

Robbins said there were no disturbances Thursday.

The eight students and their parents will appear Monday in a hearing before the school's faculty advisory council as provided by the discipline policy of the Austin school district.

Vet Education Benefits Due To Increase

Congress has approved legislation increasing veterans' education benefits, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has announced.

Monthly benefits will be raised 23 per cent, eligibility will be extended to 45 months for an undergraduate, and a $600 loan will be available for each year of study. Benefits will be retroactive to Sept. 1, 1974

The measure has not yet been signed into law, Bentsen explained, but his office has begun receiving inquiries about it because he is co-sponsor of the bill. Bentsen said further action was expected when Congress returns in mid-November.

Persons wishing additional information about veterans' education benefits may contact Dan Wever, Veterans Outreach Coordinator, at Western Texas College.

Candidates In Texas Silent In Tame Windup

By The Associated Press

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby was the lone Democratic voice on the campaign trail Thursday as Democrats maintained silence against criticisms by Republicans and others seeking to unseat the incumbents.

Hobby addressed the University of Houston Energy Institute Symposium and advocated removal of artificial impediments to oil and gas production, particularly price controls.

He suggested that the state should halt oil and gas leasing on public lands until "we get a fair return."

"Producing at depressed prices is wasting the asset which is constitutionally dedicated to the school children of Texas," Hobby said.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe remained at his home in Uvalde. The governor cancelled the final two weeks of campaign appearances to remain near his critically ill mother.

His republican challenger, Jim Granberry, told a luncheon audience in San Antonio that Briscoe has failed to disclose the donors at three fund-raising dinners in January 1973 although he promised to do so.

"What is the governor covering up in those contribution lists?" Granberry asked. "Who or what groups have given money and for what purpose to the governor that he wants to hide from the people of Texas?"

At Houston, Raza Unida gubernatorial candidate Ramsey Muniz accused Briscoe of being the candidate for powerful utility interests.

He said public records showed one of Briscoe's $500 contributors was James J. Maroey, a registered lobbyist of Houston Power & Light Co. Muniz said the utility has opposed state regulation of public utilities as well as environmental controls.

"That will tell you something about how concerned Briscoe is about high utility rates," he said.

American Party gubernatorial candidate Sam McDonnell released a statement that James Moyerp, chairman of Franklin County Republicans, has endorsed McDonnell.

Republican Tom Cole, candidate for attorney general, said in a news release that incumbent Atty. Gen. John Hill does not protect the rights of Texans but serves as "a shield for entrenched, do-nothing Democrat control in Austin."

Bob Holt, GOP candidate for state treasurer, said in a release that incumbent Jesse James' hiding of his age is "in line with his general secretiveness about himself and his office."

Nick Rowe, Republican candidate for state comptroller, said his opponent Bob Bullock was a "political chameleon" who "bends with the wind all the time."

Rowe said his first priority would be to make his office "more responsive to the needs of the business community and state government." He claimed that at least one-fourth of his opponent's campaign had been financed through labor or labor-related contributions.

Charge 47 Greeks With Treason

ATHENS (AP) — A panel of Greek judges ordered today that former dictator George Papadopoulos and 46 other former military officers, including the men who helped him seize power in 1967, be tried for "high treason."

If found guilty, the former members of the military junta that ruled Greece with an iron hand for more than seven years could be given the death sentence.

The decision to place charges against Papadopoulos and his former colleagues in the junta was taken in a rare plenary meeting of 88 appeals court judges.

They voted 85 to 3 in favor of filing the charges after hearing the results of a preliminary investigation by the new civilian government on suits filed by an Athens lawyer in behalf of persons who claim they were victimized by the military government.

Fourteen of the 47 charged were described as men who participated in the April 1967 colonel's coup, which overthrew the civilian government and brought Papadopoulos to power. The others were men who held seats of power during the subsequent 7½ years under military rule

Under Greek law, the public prosecutor now will file formal charges against the 47. That will be followed by a full investigation, after which the accused are expected to be jailed pending trial.

The charges include the forceful seizure of power, abolition of constitutional laws and arbitrary arrests of government members and thousands of dissidents.

Last week the civilian government unexpectedly exiled Papadopoulos and four men instrumental in the 1967 revolt to the Aegean island of Kea 60 miles southeast of Athens, claiming they were plotting to regain power.

Snow Covers Rockies, Plains

By The Associated Press

Snow covered parts of the Northern Rockies and Plains today, while a line of thunderstorms drenched the Texas Gulf Coast.

Six inches fell in two hours at Port Lavaca, Tex., stalling traffic in flooded streets.

Elsewhere cloudy skies stretched from the Northern Rockies to the New England states and rain fell over much of the area.

Over the Northern Rockies and Plains, rain turned to snow at some spots where temperatures dropped below freezing. Lewistown, Mont., reported two inches of snow on the ground, while Craig, Colo. reported one inch.

Dense fog blanketed Southwest Alabama and Northwest Florida, and travel advisories were issued. Early morning fog also covered parts of the Northeast.

West of the Rockies, clouds and scattered showers dominated the weather picture, while clear skies extended from the Southern Rockies and Plains into Kansas and Missouri. The mid and lower Atlantic Coast states and the Tennessee Valley also reported cloudless skies.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 27 at Alamosa, Colo., to 77 at the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Some other reports: Anchorage 35 cloudy, Atlanta 61 clear, Boston 59 clear, Buffalo 60 clear, Chicago 67 cloudy, Cincinnati 65 partly cloudy, Cleveland 65 partly cloudy, Dallas 61 partly cloudy, Denver 36 partly cloudy, Detroit 64 partly cloudy, Honolulu 78 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 68 cloudy, Kansas City 54 clear, Los Angeles 58 cloudy, Louisville 66 clear, Miami 73 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 55 light rain, Nashville 68 partly cloudy, New York 59 cloudy, Philadelphia 56.

Billy Graham Says Nixon Nearly Died

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he has been in touch with Richard M. Nixon's family and there is "no doubt about it, he nearly died."

Graham said he would have flown to California to be with the family of the former president, but he was starting a new religious crusade here.

He said Thursday that Nixon, "who helped in many of our crusades," would want him to stay here and continue his work.

Letter To Editor

To The Snyder Daily News:

This year when I started taking "Adventures in Christian Living" at WTC people asked me why I was taking it for a second time. I replied, "Because I like teenagers."

For the past 2 years I have been fortunate enough to be in class with some wonderful teenagers and adults. I have got to know about eighteen teenagers very well. They represent various churches, but no one criticizes anyone else. There is no conflict or disagreement.

The teenagers have treated the adults with respect and the adults have treated the teenagers with respect. They give their opinions and we give our opinions. There is not a generation gap in our class. We are all just people.

The lovely teenage girls in class are a joy to be with. The teenage boys, who all plan careers in religious work, are refreshing for it is a time when so many people are turning from God.

If you think all teenagers are bad, get to know some Christian teenagers it will be a plesant surprise for you.

Cattle, sheep, or cotton - Anderson knows the story - I am proud to endorse Rich Anderson for State Representative of the 63rd District. I am registered as a Democrat but I firmly believe that we need a man of Anderson's caliber - a man of great character - a man experienced in agriculture and business. He is a man you can count on, one in whom you can place your trust. I am tired of listening to promises made by politicians, promises that cannot be forthcoming. I'd like to see our Legislative posts in Austin manned by Rich Anderson! Rich wears well with the years - we in Borden County are mighty glad to back him in this venture. We think you will be happy if you make him your choice in November.

ATTITUDE COUNTS

There are two people in all of us . . . the person we really are and the person we could become. How sad those must be who belittle themselves by believing they cannot become a better person . . . a competent person . . . a more qualified person. With such a negative attitude failure is theirs. Attitude has to count. It is the key to the good things the world holds for us.

Of course people with negative attitudes are afraid to try. They feel to try is to fail. They bury their potential with weak excuses. They cower in corners.

One can be sure a negative mind will guarantee failure. It takes positive thinking and positive action. It helps to know God. Success is waiting for all those who know His will and follow it daily. He alone supplies confidence. He gives us strength. He helps us to stand tall when the going is rough.
