LONDON, April 22. (AP)—Representatives of the five dominant naval powers of the world, America, Great Britain, Japan, France, and Italy this afternoon affixed their signatures to an epoch-making treaty, limiting and reducing the navies of three of them, and restricting the navies of the other two.

Colonel Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, and his colleagues on the American delegation, were the first to sign the historic document. Mr. Briand, French foreign minister, J. Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, and Admiral Giuseppe Siranni with their delegations followed.

Reijiro Wakatsuki, former prime minister of Japan, and those of the Tokyo delegation who have worked with him through the three months and one day of long and difficult negotiations, were the last of the five-power representatives to affix their signatures.

A Dramatic Scene
The unpretentious but dramatic ceremony which marked the culmination of the greatest disarmament conference of all time took place shortly after mid-day in the ancient and royal palace of St. James. The setting was one for an artist, the final plenary session of the parley being held in Queen Anne's drawing room, with its rich red tapestries from the midst of which looked down the portraits of a long line of English kings.

Fourteen weeks ago the conference was ushered into being in the midst of a dense fog which pervaded the House of Lords in a ghost-like blanket. There was that same fog early today, but shortly after the plenary session convened the April sunshine burst through the mists and glinted from the golden trappings of Queen Anne's favorite room.

The treaty signed definitely limits the navies, in all categories, of America, Great Britain, and Japan, and provides reduction in ships already under construction in at least one category, capital ships. France and Italy could not compose their differences and so adhered only to other sections of the pact, which, important enough in themselves, prescribed a capital ship holiday, limitation on sizes of submarines, humanization of their use and record agreement on other technical phases of the conference work.

Formal signing of the treaty occupied less than half an hour. Adjournment was taken at 1:18 p. m., after a less than three-hour meeting in which the chief delegates in addresses had expressed gratification in their handwork, deplored that they had not been able to go as far as they wished, but added hope that further negotiations would remove obstacles to complete five-power agreement on limitation and reduction.

In an opening address, Mr. MacDonald, who as chairman piloted the conference past dangerous shoals which threatened it from the very beginning, announced that the 1931 conference provided for by the Washington treaty would not be held, but that the next naval conference would take place in 1935, unless events of such a happy nature take place meanwhile that it be not required.

SCHEDULE FOR NEW COURT GIVEN

The first session of the 114th district court which began here yesterday will continue for eight weeks, according to Judge Clifford Braly. Until the 31st district court adjourns, the 114th will be held in the county courtroom on the second floor.

The second term of the new court will begin the fourth Monday in July and continue for eight weeks and the last session of the court for 1930 will begin the third Monday in November and continue for five weeks.

According to an excerpt from senate bill No. 11, which created the new court, the court will convene as follows in the three counties of the district.

1930 Sessions
Hutchinson county, third Monday in March for four weeks, fourth Monday in September for six weeks; Carson, second Monday in April for one week, first Monday in November for two weeks; Gray, third Monday in April for eight weeks, fourth Monday in July for eight weeks, third Monday in November for five weeks.

According to an excerpt from senate bill No. 11, which created the new court, the court will convene as follows in the three counties of the district.

1931 Sessions
Hutchinson county, first Monday in January for eight weeks, 16th Monday after first Monday in January for eight weeks, fourth Monday in July for seven weeks, 19th Monday after fourth Monday in July for two weeks.

Hutchinson county, eighth Monday after first Monday in January for six weeks, seventh Monday after fourth Monday in July for six weeks, fifteenth Monday after fourth Monday in July for four weeks.

Carson county, fourteenth Monday after first Monday in January for two weeks, thirteenth Monday after fourth Monday in July for two weeks.

It will be noted that after this year, Gray county will have 25 weeks of court, Hutchinson county 16 weeks, and Carson county four weeks.

Holmes Becomes Reporter for New District Court

Wm. W. Holmes will be the first reporter for the 114th district court. Raymond Allred, county attorney of Wheeler county, will be temporary reporter for the 31st district court.

Holmes has been reporter in the latter court for several years. Allred, a brother of Ben Allred, local attorney, served as reporter here while Holmes was at Berger last fall taking down proceedings during the investigation of the Johnnie Holmes murder while martial law was in effect.

Cox Trial Set for Next May 5

Trial of Gilbert Cox on a charge of murder was set this morning by Judge Ewing in 31st district court here for May 5, the first day of the ninth week of court.

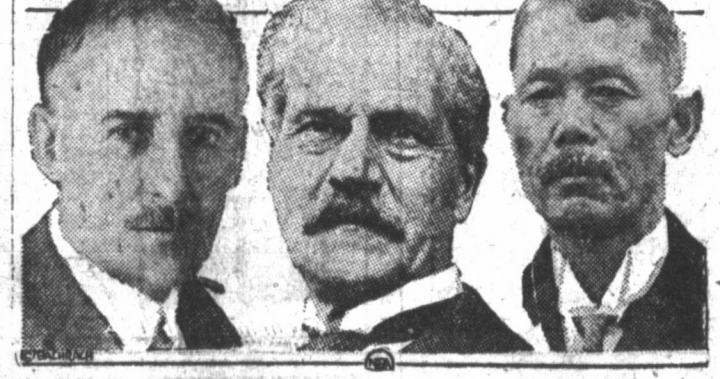

Arraignment of Cox followed an indictment for murder returned yesterday by the grand jury. His bond was set at $5,000. Cox is charged in connection with the fatal shooting of Ralph Watkins Sunday morning.

Missunderstanding a question asked by Judge Ewing as to whether he would plead guilty or go to trial, Cox answered, "Yes, I shot him." W. M. Lewright who represented him at the arraignment, stated that the 20-year-old youth meant to plead not guilty.

When Mayor E. T. Buckingham of Bridgeport, Conn., presents "the key to the city" to visitors it will not be mythical. He has had made two dozen engraved visitor's keys.

Naval Tonnage in New Treaty

SHIPS	UNITED STATES	GREAT BRITAIN	JAPAN
8-INCH GUN CRUISERS	180,000 TONS	146,800 TONS	108,400 TONS
6 INCH GUN CRUISERS	145,500 TONS	192,200 TONS	100,450 TONS
DESTROYERS	150,000 TONS	150,000 TONS	105,500 TONS
SUBMARINES	52,700 TONS	52,700 TONS	52,700 TONS

New tonnage classifications under the London naval treaty resulting from the London naval conference are shown above. The United States has more large cruisers than Britain, but fewer of the smaller class, giving the two nations parity. The new treaty does not affect battleships as these were classified at the Washington conference with 15 for the United States and Britain and nine for Japan. Below are the heads of three signatory delegations. Left to right: Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, United States; Premier Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain, and Reijiro Wakatsuki Japan.

SENATOR SMALL ANNOUNCES HE WILL MAKE MILITANT CAMPAIGN FOR GOVERNOR ALL OVER STATE

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—State Senator C. C. Small of Wellington announced here today he would be a candidate in the gubernatorial Democratic primary, July 4.

Small's campaign headquarters will be established in Fort Worth within a week, he said.

He did not announce his platform, explaining his formal announcement will be made shortly.

"I am in the race to stay, and I will make a militant campaign all over the state," he said.

Pampa Grocery Is Burglarized

In what officers described as the "cleverest job ever done here," the safe of the Central Cash Market and Grocery was looted last night of over $3,000 in checks, money and diamonds.

The combination on the safe was "worked" open by experienced fingers, officers said. The knob-artist either wore gloves or else polished away all traces of fingerprints after the safe was opened.

Jeff Guthrie, finger-print man for the sheriff's department, found no prints on the door or safe. Entry was made through the rear door by prying it open with a crow-bar, according to I. Baum, proprietor.

Checks taken aggregated about $2,200. Besides $170 in money, jewelry owned by Mrs. I. Baum and valued at $1,000 was taken. This included several diamonds. Most of the checks were made to employees by oil and carbon companies. It is believed that payment will be stopped on only a few of the checks. Yesterday being both a pay-day and a holiday, the store kept a large amount of cash on hand from Saturday to take care of oil company employees' checks. The banks were closed yesterday.

The sheriff's department is working on the case. It is believed that the burglars left town.

Eller Funeral This Afternoon

Funeral services for John W. Eller, pioneer resident of this community, are being held this afternoon at the Church of Christ with Rev. Robert C. Jones, pastor of the Amarillo Church of Christ, in charge. Rev. Jesse Wiseman, pastor of the local church, will assist.

Fallbearers are Dick Cobb, W. C. Archer, A. C. McKay, Nels Walberg, Roger McConnell and J. E. Williams. Burial will be made in the local cemetery.

Mr. Eller had lived in Pampa for 22 years. He is survived by five sons, one daughter, his widow and a number of grandchildren.

G. C. Malone funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

WOMEN FROM MANY PLACES COMING HERE

Annual Meeting Is to Open Tomorrow Morning

PUBLIC MAY HEAR SESSIONS

Methodist Church to Be Headquarters of Event

Pampa will retain her gala dress of flags and bunting a few days longer, to welcome club women from all parts of the Panhandle who will be here Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, for the annual convention of the Seventh district Federation of Women's Clubs. Business men and merchants, cooperating with the Council of Clubs, have agreed to keep their store fronts decorated during the three days of the meeting.

Convention headquarters will be the First Methodist church, where the conferences, round tables, business meetings, lectures, a part of the attendant social functions, and the programs, with one exception, will be given.

Every program of the convention is to be open to the public, and every one is cordially invited to attend. Mrs. Tom E. Rose, local chairman for the convention, club women who form the hostess group, and district officers urge particularly that all women of the city whether members of clubs or not, attend every session in which they are interested.

Tomorrow's Program
At 12:30 o'clock a luncheon honoring the district board of directors will be given at the home of Mrs. C. P. Buckler, by courtesy of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

At 2 o'clock a pre-convention board meeting will be held at the First Methodist church.

At 2:30 o'clock visiting delegates and officers will be taken on a tour of the oil fields.

Between 5 and 6:30 o'clock an Oriental tea will be held honoring the women appearing on the fine arts program, with all visiting club women and all women of the city invited to attend.

At 8:30 o'clock the fine arts program will be given at Central auditorium, open to the public and free of charge.

Two programs that will attract, perhaps the widest interest, are the fine arts and president's evening entertainments. Numbers of interest to the general public will be given on each of these widely different programs. Every convention program will be given free of charge, while meals will be paid for by visiting women and local persons alike.

The fine arts program, scheduled for Wednesday evening, will be presented at Central auditorium. The Texas folk theme will dominate the program, which will be in two distinct sections. Single numbers without historical sequence will comprise the first half of the evening's entertainment, and will include a number representative of each of the folk and the races that have played a role in the development of the state. The finale will be a pageant, "Under Six Flags," by Mrs. L. A. Wells of Amarillo.

Outstanding talent from half a dozen Panhandle cities will take part in the fine arts program, with Mrs. R. B. Masterson, Jr., Amarillo, district chairman of fine arts, in charge. The pageant will be presented by an Amarillo cast. Mrs. Charles F. Smith of Amarillo and Pampa's Rotary Anne quartet will appear in costume numbers. The entire program will be enhanced by colorful costumes and beautiful scenery.

"President's evening," to follow immediately the dinner in Mrs.

Electrocution of Mouse Halts Radio Reception

An R. C. A. "super-het" radio owned by M. W. Jones is working much better, according to M. D. Oden, distributor.

The big radio worked fine when new, but suddenly last week it stopped functioning. Changing of tubes and checking of connections did no good, so Mr. Jones called upon the music store to do some trouble shooting.

The set was torn down and the cause of the trouble located. Said "cause" was one dead mouse, which had ventured into the inner workings of the machine and had been electrocuted. Few radio troubles however, Mr. Oden remarks, are traceable to adventuresome mice.

TWO COURTS IN CITY ARE BUSY IN BIG CASES

Selection of juries from two venire of 75 men each to try the Jake Yale murder case and the F. F. Todd suit against the City of Pampa was underway, today in the 31st and the 114th district courts. It was believed that most of the day would be required to select the jury in the Yale case.

In the Todd suit, F. F. Todd is asking for damages growing out of the death of his daughter, Mickey Todd, who was killed here over a year ago when the car in which she was riding was wrecked as it struck a depression in the street from which a culvert had been removed.

This is the third time the case will be tried. In the first trial, damages amounting to $5,000 were awarded the plaintiff but the judgment was reversed by the court of civil appeals. Last fall the second time the case was heard in the 31st court, a judgment of $3,500 was awarded the plaintiff. The defendant was given a new trial by the court on the ground of irregularities in the jury room. Chas. C. Cook is counsel for the city. Lawyer for the plaintiff is W. M. Lewright.

In the Yale case, Ben Allred, former district attorney of the Wichita Falls district, is temporarily representing the state in the absence of District Attorney C. G. Engledow, who is recovering from bruises sustained last Saturday in an automobile wreck at McKinney.

Ridgell and Saunders, a new firm of lawyers who recently moved here from Breckenridge, and Judge Ben Baldwin, are representing Yale. Hearing of testimony in the Todd suit will likely begin this afternoon.

The docket of the 114th district court was read yesterday by Judge Clifford Braly. According to the rules of the court, the cases will be tried in chronological order.

PRISONERS ACCEPTED

HUNTSVILLE, April 22. (AP)—The state prison here had new guests today, for the first time in several weeks.

The gates were opened yesterday for 34 prisoners, thirty of them recently sentenced. They were the first taken since the order prohibiting the warden from receiving prisoners until overcrowding had been relieved.

Prisoners and guards agreed today that the two outstanding heroes of the disaster were Guards Tom Little and W. C. Baldwin. These men, braving the deadly smoke and heat, went into the blazing tiers and liberated convicts until they were overcome. They were rescued by convicts.

"Big Jim" Morton was another whose praises were sung. The former Cleveland bank robber unhesitatingly flung death as he dashed in and out of the flaming building, carrying an unconscious fellow prisoner. And "Big Jim" kept up his heroic struggle against the odds until he fell a victim to smoke and heat. Today he was well on the road to recovery.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 22. (AP)—Lives of 317 Ohio penitentiary convicts were snuffed out by flame and smoke while they were locked in their cells last night, according to the official casualty count made today by state officials.

More than 130 other prisoners were in the penitentiary hospital, and a score of these were in a critical condition from burns and from smoke they inhaled while fire raged in parts of four cell blocks.

The penitentiary housed 4,300 convicts, some 2,500 above the capacity for which it was intended, when the fire, believed of incendiary origin, and fanned by a stiff breeze, swept through the upper

GUARD WHO REFUSED TO GIVE UP KEYS UNDER SUSPENSION

Former Cleveland Bank Robber, "Big Jim" Morton, Braves Flames Until He Is Overcome

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 22.—A clash between county and state authorities in the investigation of the disastrous Ohio penitentiary fire here last night and the suspension of a prison guard who was charged with having refused to give up keys to cells in which 317 convicts perished, today marked the progress of the inquiry into the tragic blaze.

The clash came early in the day when, after Franklin county Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., had recommended suspension of Warden Preston T. Thomas pending investigation and had ordered telephones removed from the warden's office, Governor Myers Y. Cooper stepped in. The state's chief executive took the investigation out of the hands of Chester by naming his state director of welfare and the attorney general to conduct the inquiry.

After the governor acted, Chester said Mr. Cooper had taken all power out of his hands and placed complete power with state officials. He took a part in the investigation hearings, however.

The most startling testimony came from the warden. He said guards, intent upon rescuing the trapped men, had been refused entrance to the burning ranges by Guard Thomas Watkinson, and that they were forced to take a key from him before they could open any of the cell doors. The heat drove them back before they finished the task and 317 convicts died in the inferno of barred cells.

Watkinson's excuse for refusing to give up the key, the warden said he was told, was that he had no order to do so.

Convict heroes and prison guard heroes were told of time and again by the inmates who escaped death. These men, loosed in the big prison yard when the flames broke out in the northwest cell blocks, told of fellow convicts and of guards who, mindless of their own safety, dashed into the smoke-filled tiers in valiant efforts to free the trapped men.

Murmurings last night against Thomas Watkinson, guard who was charged with refusing to give up the keys to prisoners who wished to invade the inferno, brought his suspension today by Warden P. T. Thomas. Watkinson, one of two guards on duty in the section where death took its greatest toll, was suspended pending investigation.

Prisoners and guards agreed today that the two outstanding heroes of the disaster were Guards Tom Little and W. C. Baldwin. These men, braving the deadly smoke and heat, went into the blazing tiers and liberated convicts until they were overcome. They were rescued by convicts.

Before two hours had passed this mass of men, picking their way among the countless bodies spread over the yard, became a threatening menace. Some of them cut the fire hoses which continued to play upon flames that spread to the prison cotton and woolen mills. Others hurled stones and bludgeoned the guards that were trying to maintain order. In the dining hall dishes and tables were upset.

Every available policeman in Columbus was summoned for duty both within the prison and on the outside. A sub-machine gun in the guard room protected the entrance to the prison yard.

Two companies of regular army troops and 1,500 Ohio National Guardsmen were stationed at strategic points about the penitentiary. Every guard on both day and night shifts was on duty.

When the thousands of milling prisoners in the yard were ordered to assemble in the dining room many refused. Later they were ordered into the remaining cell blocks and dormitories, but they insisted upon staying in the yard, crowding about the bodies arranged in long rows five and six deep.

Scenes of confusion and terror accompanied the outbreak of the flames. They started in the northwest corner of a new building of cell blocks, part of which still was under construction, not more than half an hour after prisoners working on the job returned to their cells.

FRIENDLY, BUT NOT WITH MONEY

In a few more months, Pampa will be joined with paving, which will make an all-weather road to Amarillo and many other cities.

Pampa wants to be friends with Amarillo and other cities, but we want to keep just as much of our money at home as possible. We will drive over to Amarillo once in a while and see a city that has increased in population about 2 1/2 times the past ten years. But we will remember that Pampa in the city limits has grown about ten fold during the same period.

The Daily News is going to do all it can to get Pampa people to spend their money at home. It feels that the first consideration is with the local merchants.

It feels that the highway is being built for use, but we don't want unnecessary money to leave our city. It reminds one of a statement made a few years ago by the general manager of the Santa Fe lines at the formal opening of the new station at Canyon. "Now that we have built this fine station, use it for passengers and freight service," he said. This does not mean shopping in Amarillo.

Cleburne, Texas, is a good small city. Many people there found that trading in Fort Worth ruined the value of their property. Today that city has learned that the way to build Cleburne is to buy everything at home possible. Let us follow their example.

A CHALLENGE TO REAL PAMPANS

The Fort Worth & Denver railroad has been denied the right to build a line from Childress north to Pampa. Three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, sitting in far-off Washington, decided the issue. Two of them favored the Rock Island line from Quanah to Shamrock. These were Commissioners Woodlock and Meyer. The "third" member, Commissioner Eastman, differed with his colleagues and would have granted the Denver road's request, at the same time denying the Santa Fe permit to build a spur line from Heaton to near LeFors.

One member saw the Pampa viewpoint; the other two did not. It seems a travesty upon justice that by a margin of a single man in Washington this community should be denied the north-south route that would have "connected us with Texas". As this writer has often pointed out in recent months, the Interstate Commerce Commission is successful in preventing rail construction but not in preventing mergers and movements inimical to the public welfare. One of the chief needs of this section is railroads. The Interstate Commerce Commission, originally formed to protect the public, has in this instance worked directly against the public. It protects the established roads instead of the people, and retards development.

Pampa through Attorney Charles C. Cook, the Board of City Development, and public-spirited citizens put up a great fight and won the admission of both sides. In some ways it was a defensive fight from the start, for the Rock Island was first to ask a permit. Then an examiner who did not hear the main Fort Worth testimony wrote an adverse recommendation. The matter was complicated because the fight involved rehabilitation of the Gulf, Texas and Western and consideration of the network of lines leading into Fort Worth. In a sense, the Pampa-Childress request was just one of several main issues, and it was difficult to isolate the particular needs of Pampa and this territory. The joint trackage proposal of the Denver's was one step tending to encourage the favorable approval of the Pampa connection. Later, largely through the work of Pampa men, the Texas railroad commission recommended favorably the desired road.

The I. C. C., however, was not convinced that the line should be extended from Shamrock to Pampa. Perhaps it would have been more convincing if the Fort Worth & Denver had asked a permit to build northward from Pampa. As it was, the I. C. C. could not visualize the Pampa territory to the extent of allowing another road connection, which would have terminated here.

But remember, Pampa has only lost what she never had. She still has her great citizenship, her fine farming land, and her oil and gas. The adverse rail decision is a challenge to show the world that Pampa will not depend upon a railroad to build her, and that she will yet demonstrate that a north-south connection is needed. The fight is not ended. Rail lines will yet be gladly built into this territory. The rich tonnage will attract them. The territory must be developed, however, to the fullest extent possible without new lines.

There should be a bridge across the Canadian river on the north. There is a fertile territory across the river which can be reached only by way of Canadian, or a more distant route. Good roads will be almost as advantageous in the near future as would have been a new rail line. Pampa must not depend upon others to build her; she must plan and work. Her Chamber of Commerce meetings should be more largely attended. The B. C. D. directors alone cannot build Pampa—they are only leaders and planners. The general citizenship are needed to help work the plans.

Pampa can be a bigger and better city without the railroad as planned; let's make it so.

Having to convince a Republican I. C. C. of our need of a railroad is not our idea of the proper fitness of things. If it had been left to our state commission, the road would have been built. We look to the national government for too many things. We should get along without so much federal aid and supervision, and then we could avoid instances like the present one.

As oft remarked, a Democratic panic is the same thing as a Republican "readjustment". It is high time we are writing some new definitions.

Long dresses are back, but we gentlemen have no chance to help the ladies steer their trains over mud holes a-la-Raleigh, and few know whether it is proper to help a lady untangle herself when one of these breezes wrap her in yardage of dress material.

Of course, we want more people on our acres, but we don't wish them to be in the financial condition of the cotton farmers. We heartily endorse the A. & M. plan to show the farmers how to make money with the cow, the sow, and the hen, rather than to offer advice in general. A farm not making its owner or tenant money is of no value, whether it is a wheat farm or one stocked with livestock that is not profitable.

We cannot look at a green wheat field and call these the dry, barren plains. Just the same, we favor promoting another revival so that we can have another rain.

BATTERS GET 90 SAFE HITS IN NATIONAL

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitchers have been grabbing the headlines so often this baseball season that National league batsmen have found it necessary to take them down a peg or two.

After yesterday blasted out ninety safe hits, nine of them home runs.

The day's batting honors went to the New York Giants who smashed out 14 safeties including four for the circuit to beat the Phils, 8-6, and chalk up their fourth successive win without a defeat.

Wilson, Hartnett and Beck hit homers as the Chicago Cubs whipped Cincinnati, 9 to 1. All told the Cubs collected 14 safe hits off four Red pitchers.

Del Bissone was the big noise in a 16-hit attack the Brooklyn Robins launched against the Braves to win 15 to 8. Bissone drove in seven runs with a homer, a triple and single.

The Pittsburgh Pirates made good use of their seven hits to beat St. Louis 6 to 4. The Cards collected nine safeties but Brame was effective in the pinches.

Pitchers dominated the American league games. Irving Hadley of the Washington Senators was too much for the Philadelphia Athletics, and the A's went down to their first defeat of the season, 6-3.

Clint Brown, rookie pitcher, held Detroit to five hits and Cleveland won without trouble, 6-1.

Ted Lyons was the whole show as the Chicago White Sox nosed out St. Louis, 3-2, in ten innings. Lyons held the Browns to five hits and scored the winning run in the tenth when he tripled and came home on Ernie Smith's single.

The Yankees and Red Sox had an open date.

BEAUMONT IS BACK AT TOP IN NEW RACE

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is no telling what will befall the Beaumont Exporters when they invade the northern end of the loop two days hence, but it is becoming evident that the crew of sluggers gathered by owner Ribb, Stewart constitutes the most serious threat from the southern half of the Texas league.

After a brief tumble down the ladder, the Shippers were back at the helm again today, propelled there by the power of their attack. By swamping Waco, 12 to 4, in their opener at Katy park, Del Baker's clouters broke their three-cornered tie with Wichita Falls and Shreveport. As they have two more bouts with the Cubs and fine prospects of winning both of them, the Exporters might invade the north country with a sizeable lead over the field.

In dumping Wichita Falls off the top with a 5 to 3 triumph, Dallas broke a losing streak that had reached five straight. The Herd's makeshift lineup belted Earl Caldwell for 11 hits, including a homer by Williamson. Dave Danforth turned in a fine game. Nine hits were made off his delivery, but he was poison in the pinches, whiffing six.

Shreveport accompanied the Spuds in their drop to second place by losing their opener to the Cats at Fort Worth, 4 to 2, incidentally breaking a winning streak that had begun to assume fancy proportions. Dick Whitworth allowed the slug-ging Sports just four hits to chalk up his second straight victory.

The Houston Buffs greeted San Antonio with an 8 to 3 pasting in a free-hitting match, maintaining their hold on fourth place. The In-juna slammed 12 hits off three Buff chunkers, one more than the winners collected off the same number of enemy moundsmen, but had less luck in bunting them. Five San Antonio errors figured in the scoring.

Jones Carrying Good Luck Piece on Foreign Trip

ATLANTA, April 22. (P)—Bobby Jones tucked a new good luck piece from Atlanta friends across his waist coat today and gave his favorite golf club a final polish for the British trip that will inaugurate one of the most ambitious tournament programs he has undertaken.

Some 200 admirers of the emperor of the links gathered at a farewell dinner last night. Eugene R. Block, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, who was toastmaster, presented Bobby with a watch chain to which was attached a representation of a four-leaf clover.

Bobby will leave Atlanta Thursday night and sail from New York April 30 to participate in the Walker cup matches, the British open and the British amateur championship.

CLINGMAN IS NOT WORRIED OVER MATCH

"Let Iota Shima pull some of his jujitsu on me; I'll be ready for him," Otis Clingman declared confidently yesterday before he left for Waco for a wrestling match tonight.

"There are not many people around here who know it, but when I was in the navy I learned quite a bit about Japanese wrestling myself. I won't feel like a greenhorn when I enter the ring with Shima Thursday night. I've wrestled many a Jap in kimonos and I know their tricks pretty well."

Although the match will be wrestled under catch as catch can rules, Otis expects the Oriental to resort to jujitsu that is legitimate under American rules. "These Japs don't have to have a kimono on you to flip you up against the ceiling."

Shima is heralded as the successor to the late Matty Matsuda

Production of Crude Oil Goes Upward Slightly

TULSA, Okla., April 22. (P)—With California offsetting a drop of 7,055 barrels in Oklahoma and slight increases reported in other areas, the estimated daily average production of light and heavy gravity oil in the United States climbed 7,783 barrels to reach a grand total of 2,566,278 barrels during the week ending April 19, according to the Oil & Gas Journal.

The light oil increase for the period was 6,753 barrels. Daily average for the week ending April 12 was 2,558,496 barrels.

Oklahoma's drop was due mainly to decreases in the northern miscellaneous fields and in the Oklahoma City pool. Seminole area increased slightly. California added 8,000 barrels. Comparatively speaking, production throughout the nation remained constant.

Carnera Barred in California As Result of Farce

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22. (P)—By a drastic ruling of the California athletic commission, Primo Carnera, gigantic Italian boxer, today stood barred from rings of the state, the result of the unsatisfactory ending of his recent bout with Leon Chevalier, San Francisco negro.

The commission also revoked the boxing license of Carnera, together with that of his manager, Leon See, of France.

Purses of Carnera and Chevalier were ordered returned to the fighters, however, the commission holding they were blameless for the bout being stopped in the sixth round when one of Chevalier's seconds tossed a towel into the ring.

Murder Backstairs

BEGIN HERE TODAY Doris Matheys, lady's maid, is murdered in a summerhouse on the Berkeley estate by blow from heavy perfume flask, given Mrs. George Berkeley by Seymour Crosby, engaged to Clorinda Berkeley, whose scarf binds the rock-weighted body when it is taken from the lake by Detective Dundee.

Evidence involves Mrs. Berkeley, Clorinda, Dick Berkeley, Doris's fiancé, Eugene Arnold, chauffeur; Gigi Berkeley, 15, who unaccountably sprinkled everyone Friday evening with perfume from murder flask, and John Maxwell, former suitor of Clorinda, admittedly in the summerhouse after the crime.

But an unfinished letter of Doris to her sister in London turns Seymour Crosby into chief suspect. Dundee has been a guest here large to observe Crosby, whose wife, Phyllis Crosby, then Doris's mistress, died in England. Doris's letter hints of murder and plans vengeance, but names no suspect.

Dundee cables Scotland Yard, then grills Crosby, who admits having seen Doris after 11 Friday night and having given her a pair of earrings from his dead wife, but violently denies having bribed or killed the girl; also protests entire innocence of his wife's death, officially pronounced suicide. When it is discovered that Harvey Johnson, temporary valet hired for Crosby, has robbed Crosby and Mrs. Berkeley, Captain Strawn is ready to consider the case solved, especially since another maid, Peggy Harper, says Doris had seemed to recognize Johnson. But Dundee stays on at the Berkeley's, not at all satisfied.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. CHAPTER XXXI

For one uncomfortable minute Dundee was afraid his chief would turn nasty. But Captain Strawn contented himself with saying:

"Remembering me that you're the police commissioner's nephew, and therefore a privileged character, eh? All right! Have a good time with your society friends."

"I shan't be entirely idle," Dundee assured him cheerfully. "I'll ask Mrs. Lambert to lend me her typewriter, and transcribe this bunch of notes I've taken. By the way, Chief, since you're satisfied that Johnson solves everything, there won't be any need of airing the Berkeley family troubles in the newspapers, I suppose?"

"No—and you can bet that takes a load off my mind," Strawn grinned. "Lucky for me I didn't peddle the whole thing when the reporters mobbed me a couple of hours ago! These multi-millionaires and society swells—Well, I'm so grateful to Johnson for being the guy that croaked the girl instead of Clorinda or Dick Berkeley that I'd almost be willing to ask the grand jury to return a vote of thanks, instead of an indictment... So long, boy! You know where to reach me if anything turns up, though it won't. I'm taking all the boys back with me. We'll need 'em all for tracking down that crook."

Five minutes after his chief's departure, Dundee, who was still frowning over his shorthand notes, was interrupted by a gay tattoo upon the library door.

He chuckled, then called confidently: "Come in, Gigi!"

She flung herself into the room and upon the arm of his chair, rumpling his crisp black hair ecstatically. "How did you know it was me? ... Isn't it swell? Isn't it a gr-rand and glorious feelin', when you've been saying 'Eenie, meenie, minie, moe' to find out which of your beloved family or friends committed murder, to have it turn out to be a common old burglar after all!"

"Swell," Dundee agreed, and retaliated by rumpling her own short brown curls. "But how did the 'eenie, meenie' come out?"

"Wicket! once, and me twice!" she laughed. "I was just going to give myself up when Johnson was elected... Of course, Abbie is having a grand time throwing hysterics over her 'pol's' and moaning that with a stern glance. "Did you go to the summerhouse with Miss Berkeley?" he asked.

"To the summerhouse? Why, no!" Maxwell answered, surprised. "Our idea was to keep as far away from the house as possible. At Clorinda's request I left her sitting on a stone bench near the south wall, and struck out for the gates. She said she was going to walk around the lake to get back to the house, and protested she was not a bit afraid to go alone."

"I see," said Dundee thoughtfully. Then, "You are positive you saw no one at all during your walk or as you were leaving the grounds alone?"

"No one, until I was passing thru the gates," Maxwell answered positively. "And I did not actually see anyone then. Just the Berkeley limousine. It was turning in toward the gates as I passed through them. I was running to make the interurban. I'd heard the whistle before I reached the gates, and thought I'd have time to get to the next station before the car did."

"Oh, well! What does it matter now?" Gigi challenged Dundee. "You've got your murderer—or at least you know who he is! ... You see, Johnny, Captain Strawn bulled poor Clo into admitting she'd been in the summerhouse, after he found a streak of blood on her cape and perfume on the soles of her shoes. Clo got there after poor Doris had been killed and rolled down the summerhouse steps into the lake. She thought Abbie had dashed out of the house looking for her, with the perfume flask in her hand, and had broken the bottle. Captain Strawn got all het up and tried to make Clo confess she'd killed Doris, or had seen Abbie do it."

"What rot!" Maxwell was pardonably indignant and contemptuous. "Where is Clo now?"

"In Abbie's sitting room, with Mrs. Lambert. Dash on up! Abbie is busy having hysterics and will hardly notice you, even if she wanders in... You did get engaged good and tight this time, didn't you?"

"Absolutely!" Maxwell exulted. "Was that all, Mr. Dundee?"

When he had gone Gigi returned to the broad arm of Dundee's chair and leaned against his shoulder, sighing happily.

"All's swell that ends swell," she rejoiced. "Though I suppose Johnson will say he did it all for his aged mother, and wring my heart!"

"Say, why don't you make old W. Blanket? Does it take all the joy out of your life for a case to be solved?"

"No," Dundee answered seriously; then he forced himself to smile. "There! That's my Bonnie!" Gigi praised him tenderly. "You are the handsomest thing with your smiling Irish eyes and your crisp black hair. Believe I'll set the wave in it; Doris taught me how—"

"Let my hair alone, Hellion!" he roared, then flushed as he looked up and saw Wicket's solemn face in the opening door.

"Luncheon is served, Miss Gigi!" "Attoboy, Wicket!" Gigi cried, springing from the arm of the chair and dragging at Dundee's hand. "I shouldn't admit it, but I'm starved."

In the hall they found Mrs. Lambert descending the stairs. At sight of the evident chumminess of the child and the detective, a faint, whimsical smile lightened the somber melancholy which had made her delicate and still beautiful face seem years older. Then she made a sudden decision:

"Mr. Dundee, may I speak with you after lunch—about—Doris?" (To Be Continued)

BUY NO DESK Until You've Seen the Sensation of The Business Show Buy no desk until you have seen Skyscraper, the new desk by Shaw-Walker. You'll marvel at the downright cleverness of it. Your people, too, will thank you for an easier and better day's work. No wonder the Skyscraper Desk by Shaw-Walker was the sensation at the Business Show. 10 HERE'S PROOF THIS is to certify that I was diagnosed as having cancer of the stomach by three up-to-the-minute physicians, before I was brought to a chiropractors office by Uncle Frank and Aunt Mary Cope. I was hardly able to sit up at that time, and had lost 47 pounds. I had a Radionic analysis which verified the diagnosis of the other doctors. With the Copes' aid I purchased a card of Radionic Vibrations—that being Armistice Day, 1929. Today—March 15, 1930—I have gained 32 pounds, can work hard every day, and feel good all the time. I was too sore to be adjusted for the first few weeks, so I just took the Radionic alone for the first three weeks. I was dismissed today—and I can do a man's work and feel good all the time. CONOCO IS NOT THE ONLY OIL THAT IS DE-WAXED, BUT IT IS THE ONE AND ONLY LUBRICANT THAT CAN BE GERM-PROCESSED!

SIX months ago Conoco announced that it was ready with a new motor oil. On that day, the entire facilities of Conoco were placed behind this product.

Every advantage known to other oils was incorporated in this new lubricant. Paraffin base . . . de-waxed . . . zero fluidity . . . high flash and fire . . . full-body . . . and then to cap it all, the Germ Process, possessed by no other oil! The exclusive

Germ Process, by adding an oily-essence lacking in all other oils, gives to this oil an entirely new characteristic — "Penetrative Lubricity"—the faculty of penetrating and combining with metal surfaces.

Every hope for performance and protection in motor oil . . . everything you have known that an oil should be . . . is definitely present in this fastest-selling oil in oil history. Modern Trends Are Displayed in Crescent Picture

Leatrice Joy, stage, vaudeville and screen actress, here at the Crescent theatre in her latest "talkie," "A Most Immoral Lady," is prominent.

She is enthusiastically "for" the modern girl, the modern open-toe shoe, the modernistic furniture, and she doesn't care who knows it.

However, she has some very good and wholesome reasons why she is "for" them, and why she believes that they will contribute to the health and happiness of the human race.

"A film such as 'A Most Immoral Lady' suggests the whole modern trend," Miss Joy points out. "I was telling Walter Pidgeon, who plays opposite me in the picture, that only a few years ago I, as the heroine in the title role, would have been looked upon as a 'vamp' and a villainess, whereas now, we are certain, the character I portray will find sympathy, just as, in the plot, she is allowed to find happiness."

"The picture has ultra-modern settings as well as plot, Miss Joy might have added; even the furniture of the smart New York, Paris and Palm Beach sequences is 'modern.'"

"But furniture is never accused of being immoral any more, is it?" Miss Joy asks subtly. "I've heard of days when they kept sleeping room doors closed so that no one would catch a glimpse of a bed. That certainly was a moral disease."

Mrs. E. D. Robinson, 701 North Gray street, who became seriously ill last Wednesday, is improving.

Mrs. Grace Higgins and Mrs. Warren Sparks, who spent the Easter holidays with their parents, and Mrs. W. Purviance, and the latter's daughter, Janice, who visited Mrs. Earl Stuekey, are expected to arrive home today from Wichita Falls.

McIlroy Company Purchases Leases

In a deal completed recently McIlroy Oil and Gas company purchased gas and oil leases on 290 acres of land in east Carson county from the J. C. McConnell estate for a total consideration of $47,000.

The land involved in the transaction comprised leases recently expired. The contract provides for the drilling of one gas well within the next year. Tests will also be made for oil. The leases are scattered over four or five sections.

Proration Order Is Not Expected

No orders have been issued by the state railroad commission on the oil and gas waste hearing held here a month ago, and the commission is not likely to order proration of the Panhandle fields, according to a communication received in Amarillo yesterday from Austin.

The commission expects that the new pipeline law which becomes effective June 15 will control unequal withdrawals of oil from leases. Testimony introduced by proponents and opponents of proration at the hearing did not attempt to prove that there was above-ground waste here. Those companies which wanted proration contended that there is an underground waste of oil.

Judge Parker Is Not Withdrawing

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP)—Judge John J. Parker has informed his friends here he has no intention of withdrawing as a nominee for the supreme court because of the opposition of labor and negro organizations or because of the senate judiciary committee's action in opposing his confirmation.

He is considering the advisability of requesting that the committee give him an opportunity to appear before it and answer objections raised against him. His supporters in the senate believe such a course will be followed.

Indictments for Killing of Negroes Are Returned

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—Murder indictments were returned by a grand jury today against John Alsup and A. F. Boyd, charged with the slaying of Isaac (Will) Tate and George Terrell, negroes, during the holdup of the First State bank of Polytechnic April 10.

The cases were set for trial May 5, announced Assistant District Attorney Walter Morris.

Straight murder indictments were returned against Alsup. The first read that he "unlawfully, voluntarily and with malice aforethought did kill Isaac Tate by shooting him with a gun," while the second was worded the same with the name of Terrell inserted.

The indictments against Boyd read: "He did advise, command, encourage and agree with John Alsup to aid him with the said murders and did render aid for the purpose of assisting John Alsup to commit the said murders."

No action was taken in the case of Will Vincent, negro chauffeur charged with being an accomplice.

Mrs. Whitmore Will Arrive Here Today

American Kidnaped

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP)—The state department today announced receipt of information that Dr. George Edward Furlong of Snowhill, Maryland, was kidnaped Sunday near Guadalajara, Mexico.

The information was contained in a telegram from Raleigh A. Gibson, American consul at Guadalajara. Mr. Gibson reported he had notified the authorities of the kidnaping.

Further information was lacking.

PRISON

In several places simultaneously, officials said. Everything pointed to incarceration, they indicated.

Liston G. Schooley, Cleveland councilman serving a term for participation in a playground fraud, was at work in the deputy warden's office on the opposite side of the prison yard. He saw smoke rising from the cell blocks.

About the same time Charley Sholkey, prisoner quartered in the damaged building, sounded an alarm on range two of Section H. Sholkey, a practical joker, was not taken seriously by his fellow convicts until they saw the red reflection in the windows of a manufacturing plant near the penitentiary.

Then a great scream emanated from Sections G and H. In each there were six ranges of seventeen cells, housing four prisoners to the cell. The flames and the smoke were eating toward them rapidly.

William C. Baldwin and Tom Little, guard captains, dashed to the flaming building with keys to the cells.

Issue All Keys At the same time other guards ran to the deputies' office where Schooley, in the absence of officers, began handing out orders and issued all the keys he had.

Guards Baldwin and Little rushed into the smoke filled buildings, took the keys to the ranges from the day guards and started unlocking cells as quickly as they could. Meanwhile, fire companies, answering four alarms, spread every foot of hose available.

As the guards released convicts from one range, they climbed to the next. Men were choking and gasping for breath. Many joined in the rescue work.

After he had unlocked the last cell on the fourth range Little collapsed. Four inmates carried him out. Baldwin struggled on to the fifth tier; then, he too collapsed and was carried to safety.

On the fourth and fifth ranges death took its toll rapidly. The lungs of the trapped men were filled with smoke. Ghastly sights greeted the rescuers. Suffocated men lay on the floor clutching with pale, white fingers at the bars that held them in.

Others were stretched across and under their bunks. Some had tried to bury their heads in the lavatories in the cells, and still others had grabbed their blankets or torn their shirts from their backs to drench them with water and place over their heads.

Streams of water swished thru the mesh and the iron bars and formed rivulets in which the faces of fallen men were buried.

Some Rescuers Impossible Hundreds had been carried from the structure and above the heads of the rescuers in the sixth and last range were more than a hundred others who could not possibly be saved. Bed mattresses and the coats were masses of flames.

Locks on the cell were battered away with sledge hammers. The mesh walls of the ranges were put with wire clippers. Hose lines, winding a path up the flights of stairs got in the road of stumbling men.

NOTICE

Person known who took bicycle from 514 North Grace Street late Friday evening. Return at once for reward.

Outside the smoke filled building the scene resembled a field of battle strewn with corpses.

At first, the prisoners who had escaped emerged in pairs carrying a comrade by the arms and feet. They hurried across a small clearing covered with new lumber and dropped the victims into the grass.

Then they knelt beside the choked men, turned them on their stomachs and applied methods of resuscitation. For a while this revived the victims, but soon they came so fast that the band of convicts found themselves stumbling over each other, dropping the men they had carried out and hurrying back for others.

Groans and feeble cries, from the lips of the victims and words of encouragement and shrieks of terror from the men who were working over them rose from the ground. Seared and blackened faces bespoke the futility of pondering over men who already were dead.

Army of Doctors Out of the guard room door poured doctors, internes, nurses, priests, and ministers. Dying men cried for the last rites of the church. Medical men, some without hats or coats and others in uniforms of white tramped over the ground, which became soggy under the burden of many feet.

Two hours after the fire started daylight had faded away and weary, troubled men worked under the rays of the arc lights that gave the prison yard a dismal appearance.

This morning the scene of death had shifted to the fair-grounds where a small army of undertakers worked through the night preparing the bodies for burial. One hundred guardsmen were on duty there, patrolling the grounds to keep away the morbidly curious.

Whitmore's honor Thursday evening will be featured by the district executive's address to the convention. She will speak on "An Awakened Public Sentiment."

Other speakers on the program will be Mrs. R. P. Lindsay, president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. J. W. Hale of Littlefield. The latter will speak on "Home and Education."

Small's address on "Law Observance" on Thursday afternoon; and Mrs. Geraldine Green's discussion of "The Place of a Dean of Girls in a High School" on Thursday morning. Mrs. S. W. Meharg of Plainview, former secretary of state, will be a distinguished visitor and speaker on the convention program.

M. Briand, while admitting the treaty was not as complete a success as France had wished, declared its scope must not be underestimated. "We feel justified in having persevered when we see the results of our delegation as embodied in the pact which we are signing today," he declared.

Both M. Briand and Admiral Siriani, who spoke for Dino Grandi, who is ill at Rome and was prevented signing for his country, promised negotiations would be continued with the hope of solving their differences and permitting adherence finally to the treaty.

Mr. Wakatsuki was the last of the "Big Five" to speak. He praised the work accomplished, but reiterated that Japan would keep the way open to asking a new arrangement when the next conference meets in 1935.

A hush fell over the chamber as the grey-haired British premier rose and in measured tones announced the time had arrived for the delegates to place their names to the document.

Keeps Golden Pen The American secretary of state then arose and made his way around the horseshoe shaped table and seated himself in the great armchair before the pact, whose pages bore red seals. Deliberately the secretary dipped a golden pen in a silver ink stand which Queen Anne herself had used and wrote his name.

He carried the pen away with him. The slender shaft of gold was similar to ones used by the entire American delegation, excepting Senator Robinson, who pulled his own fountain pen from his pocket and used it to attach his signature. The pens were gifts from Colonel Stimson.

Ambassador Davies, Secretary Adams, Senator Robinson, Senator Reed, and Ambassador Gibson and Morrow quickly followed Colonel Stimson.

After all had signed, M. Briand, who had returned to his seat, and who probably has seen more international conferences than any other present, arose, and tossing back his mane of iron grey hair, addressed Mr. MacDonald, paying warm tribute to the prime minister for the manner in which he had conducted the conference.
