Reward Posted For Williamson Murder Data

By DAVE KNAPP
A-J Executive Editor

A REWARD of $1,000 today is being posted for information leading to a grand jury indictment of the killer of Deborah Sue Willamson, an 18-year-old newlywed who was brutally stabbed to death at her home on Aug. 25, 1975.

The reward is being offered by Crime Line Inc. as its "spotlight case of the week."

One of Lubbock's most sensational murders, the case attracted statewide attention after the woman's body was discovered in the patio area of her home by her husband of less than three months, Doug Williamson.

She had been stabbed twice in the chest, and a large gash was found behind her right ear.

Mrs. Williamson was found in a pool of blood with a trail of blood leading off to the east at the 1115 82nd St. address.

Officers checked the home for signs of a struggle, but found none. However, in the kitchen, officers found several pieces of broken glass on the counter top and a portion of the rear window frame in the sink.

A neighbor reported seeing a large car pull into the victim's driveway between 9 p.m. and 10 p.m.

The woman's purse and a photo album appeared to be the only items missing from the residence.

Despite intensive investigation, no substantial leads have ever turned up.

Detective Sgt. Doyle Nelson, who heads up the Crime Line Inc. operation at the Lubbock Police Department, said, however, that "many pieces of the puzzleare in place; but someone, somewhere has the additional information to put all of the pieces together and break this case."

Investigators for Criminal District Attorney John T. Montford also are working actively on the case.

"We are very appreciative of Crime Line's effort to garner any new information on the Williamson case," Montford said. "These unsolved murders are very complicated, and it's very difficult to go back after such a long time."

DEBORAH SUE WILLIAMSON
Victim Of Unsolved Murder

Montford reiterated his desire to solve the old murders and said Crime Line, founded by Mayor Dirk West in April, can be an effective tool.

In October 1978, Montford announced that he had applied to the state Criminal Justice Division for a $57,000 grant to hire four additional investigators, primarily to enable his office to reopen the unsolved murders, including Mrs. Williamson's.

That grant was approved, and a second grant was awarded last week for continued funding of his staff of chief investigator and six staff investigators.

Anyone with information regarding the Williamson case is urged to call the Crime Line hotline, 741-1000, immediately. In order to qualify for the reward, the information must be received within seven days. The reward will be doubled if the informant supplies data that results in a grand jury indictment, then testifies in court.

Complete anonymity is guaranteed all informants, who are identified only by a code number assigned at the time of the call. No effort is made to secure an identity.

A reward of $300 also is being offered for information leading to the apprehension of Richard Jerry Malaspina, white male, DOB May 25, 1958, who has been charged with felony theft in connection with the theft of $844.82 from a city motel on May 30, 1978. Felony warrant #7141 has been issued for his arrest.

A similar reward is posted for information regarding the burglary of a habitation (4645 52nd St.)

Five Die, 113 Hurt In Madrid Blasts

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Bomb blasts at two Madrid railroad stations and the Madrid airport Sunday killed five persons and wounded at least 113 others in the war of terror being waged by Basque separatists, officials reported.

Three policemen also were slain in weekend attacks by gunmen in the northern Basque provinces.

An explosion at the Atocha railroad station in the heart of Madrid killed three persons and drove scores of bloodied and choking passengers from the building just three blocks from the Prado Museum, city officials said.

They reported one person, a Danish woman, was killed in the blast at the Chamartin railroad station and one person perished in the explosion at Barajas International Airport. All three bombs went off between 1 p.m. and 1:15 p.m.

Among the wounded were at least seven foreigners, including two Americans, the officials said. They identified the Americans only as Eugene and Theresa de Nattei and said they were injured in the airport bombing as they were waiting to board a flight to San Francisco.

An anonymous telephone caller told a Spanish news agency that the bombs were planted at all three sites by the Basque guerrilla group ETA. Police said the call was received about 30 minutes before the bombs went off, and although police began evacuating passengers from the railroad stations and airport terminal they were unable to warn all of the hundreds of travelers in time.

Train service was stopped fo 6½ hoursat the railroad stations but flights at Barajas were not suspended.

In the northern Basque area, terrorists shot and killed two national policemen Saturday in Bilbao and a paramilitary civil guard officer near San Sebastian on Sunday. Three highway patrolmen were shot and wounded near Pamplona Sunday.

The new wave of Basque violence came despite a parliamentary commission's approval last week of a proposal to reinstate autonomous rights for the Basque provinces. The militant "military branch" of ETA rejects this solution, vowing to fight on until an independent Marxist state is established in the north.

The bomb in the Atocha station was placed in the luggage-registration office, and police said some 50 persons were wounded in addition to the two killed.

More than 50 persons were wounded by the device that exploded in the main lobby of the Chamartin station, according to police, while nine persons suffered injuries from the bomb at a luggage check-in counter at the airport.

Police said they listed 113 persons wounded in the three blasts, and dozens of others fled from the smoking buildings with minor injuries and made no report to authorities.

Death Toll Climbs

The deaths brought to 86 the number of persons killed in political violence in Spain this year, most of them at the hands of the guerrillas of ETA — a Basque-language acronym for "Basque Land and Liberty."

SEEK WORD OF DAUGHTER — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson Jr. of Dunwoody, Ga., appealed Sunday for word about the safety of their 5-year-old daughter, Carolina. The sleeping child was abducted by a man who stole the family's 1979 station wagon Saturday while they were checking into a Daytona Beach, Fla., oceanfront motel. The couple broadcast pleas for the abductor to contact them after 24 hours passed with no word of their daughter. (AP Laserphoto)

34 Executed, 250 Arrested In Iraq

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraqi authorities executed 34 plotters, jailed 250 and were hunting down others after crushing an attempted coup allegedly aimed at aligning Iraq with the U.S.-sponsored Mideast peace process, according to reports reaching Beirut Sunday.

The official Iraqi News Agency said the alleged plot to topple President Saddam Hussein was masterminded by five members of the country's ruling Revolutionary Command Council. All were arrested, it said.

"Foriegn Quarter-Inspired"

The INA report said an unnamed "foreign quarter" inspired the coup attempt, which would have put Iraq in the American "chariot." A Kuwaiti newspaper charged Egypt was behind it. But some diplomats here speculated the coup bid was actually aimed at halting Iraq's drift toward the West under Hussein.

The Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Siyassa said 34 supporters of the five chief conspirators were executed in the Iraqi capital of Baghdad last Wednesday. It said these included ranking members of Iraq's ruling Baath Socialist Party and army officers.

Known For Two Weeks

The authoritative Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Hussein, longtime Iraqi strongman who replaced ailing President Ahmed Hassan el-Bakr two weeks ago, "got wind of the plot in good time to crush it, but he chose to give the plotters time to incriminate themselves fully."

An Nahar said an unnamed Arab power was behind the coup bid. It identified the five alleged ringleaders as Deputy Premier Adnan Hussein al-Hamdani, Baath labor official Mohammed Ayesh, ranking Council member Ghanem Abdul-Jalil, Education Minister Mohammed Mahjoub and former Council Secretary-General Mohey Abdul-Hussein Mashadi.

The five will be arraigned before a revolutionary tribunal of six judges, An Nahar said.

The reports, which said a total of 250 persons had been arrested, could not be otherswise confirmed. Even major developments in Iraq's secrecy-shrouded leadership are often difficult to verify.

Funds Claimed Received

The INA report late Saturday, quoting a Council communique, said: "The plotters received funds from a foreign quarter (and) funneled instructions from it.... The plot was hatched to place Iraq in the chariot of the American-led surrender plan which serves the interests of (Israeli) Zionism and the forces of darkness."

But not all Arab diplomatic sources here took the report at face value. Some speculated that the coup leaders were opposed to Iraq's recent crackdown on Iraqi Communists, which has seriously strained relations with the Soviet Union, long Iraq's arms supplier and political mentor.

Others said the coup attempt must have been triggered by disagreement over Hussein's rapprochement with Syria and Saudi Arabia and his growing pro-Western tendencies. In recent months, Baghdad has concluded trade pacts with Britain, West Germany and Japan, and a sizeable arms deal with France.

Kidnapper Ignores Pleas Of Parents

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Russell Thompson Jr. choked back tears, peered into the camera and begged the man who abducted his 5-year-old daughter to bring her back because "she's the only thing we've got."

Police hoped the bearded man who sped off in the Georgia tourist's station wagon Saturday afternoon was more interested in the car than the screaming child in the back seat and would free her unharmed.

There was no word Sunday on blonde, blue-eyed Caroline Thompson.

"Please don't hurt her," Thompson, 34, implored in a television appeal."She's never done anything to anyone. She's the only thing we've got."

Police have issued an all points bulletin for the girl, her parent's silver 1979 Oldsmobile Cutlass station wagon and the suspect.

"We haven't heard one word from him. We would like to hear what he wants. Anything he wants, we'll try to meet it, if he lets us know she's safe and unharmed," said Rachel Thompson, also 34.

"If he just wanted the car, he can have it if he just lets our baby go," said Mrs. Thompson. She and her husband, a finance officer for a pipe-supply company in Atlanta, had come to Daytona for a one-week vacation.

While authorities searched the area with cars and airplanes, the FBI added its own appeal.

"We hope you'll do the right thing and let the little girl go so she can return to her parents. Please drop her off at a gas station, police station, cab stand or any place where she can be helped right away," said FBI Special Agent Bob Roth.

Hot, Muggy Weather To Linger

THE HOT, slightly muggy days that characterized the weekend are expected to repeat themselves throughout the early part of the week as the warm, windy summer continues its occupation of the South Plains.

Temperatures across the area jumped into the high 90s Sunday, while Wichita Falls posted 104 degrees to tie Needles, Calif., as the nation's hot spot.

Today should be another in a string of hot, breezy summer days, with the mercury to rise to 95 degrees in Lubbock before cooling off into the upper 70s tonight. No rain is predicted for the South Plains.

A strong southerly air flow from Mexico and a developing low pressure system sitting just east of the Rocky Mountains in Colorado are responsible forthe summer weather. The two systems are expected to keep warm, dry air flowing over the region, allowing temperatures to soar while eliminating most chances for rain.

Rainshowers are expected for the mountains of New Mexico behind the low pressure system, and along the Texas Gulf Coast, although the areas near Houston just now drying out from a week of flooding should not get any more rain.

A REFRESHING SIP — Five-Year-old Edward Breska of New York City sips some cool water from a city hydrant as temperatures continue to soar high into the 90s. The National Weather Service is predicting a trend toward drier and slightly cooler weather for that area. (AP Laserphoto)

Massachusetts Inmates Waylay Five Workers

WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — Inmates at Walpole State Prison took five prison workers hostage early Sunday afternoon after a fight in a cellblock, authorities said.

One hostage, a guard who sustained minor facial cuts in the scuffle, was released Sunday night amid talk of an agreement, prison officials said. No other injuries were immediately reported by officials.

Correction Department spokesman Larry Parnell said eight to 10 prisoners were involved in the standoff, and there were 20 to 30 inmates in the protective custody area where the prison workers were being held. The inmates were believed to be armed with knives, he said.

After about seven hours, a television cameraman was brought into the prison to film "the signing of an agreement," Parnell said. He declined to give specifics of the agreement.

Hostage Wallace Billings was released about 40 minutes after the cameraman entered the prison. Billings was taken by ambulance to Norwood Hospital for treatment of facial cuts.

At about the same time, nearly two dozen state police cars pulled into the prison yard.

Earlier, Parnell refused comment on a report that Prison Supt. Fred Butterworth had exchanged himself for one hostage. "I won't confirm or deny it," Parnell said. He said Butterworth was at the maximum security prison.

Parnell said that as of early evening, the inmates had asked that Max Stern, a Boston attorney be called, but that no list of demands had been issued. He said negotiations between the inmates in cellblock No. 9 and "supervisory personnel" were going on through a wire mesh window.

Tom Hutt, 26, of Medfield, said he was in cellblock No. 9 visiting his brother when, "there seemed to be a scuffle that took place on the landing downstairs...Then a couple of inmates came in, told us they had grabbed a couple of guards and not to worry."

He said he believed the fight began

Round-Headed Kid Returns Home From Hospital

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Charlie Brown is home from the hospital, five weeks after he came down from the "Peanuts" pitcher's mound with a mysterious illness.

But true to form, get-well cards for the round-headed kid who's never sure anyone likes him are just beginning to trickle in — to the home and studio here of the comic strip's creator, Charles Schulz.

"I've just gotten a little bit of mail so far, but I'm expecting a lot more," said Schulz, whose strip is printed in about 1,800 newspapers around the world.

Most of the well-wishers are worried about Charlie Brown, the comic's put-upon anti-hero, the soft-spoken Schulz said Saturday in a telephone interview. Some want to know what made him ill — a virus? a knock on his famous head from an errant flyball?

Not even Schulz knows.

"At first I was trying to figure out what was wrong with Charlie," said Schulz. He said he debated whether to dream up a disease. But he kept the ailment a secret after he decided that "the main thing was the reaction of the other characters."

"It turned out that Marcie really liked Charlie Brown, that Peppermint Patty is still confused (about her feelings for Charlie), that his sister immediately sold his belongings, and that his dog didn't even miss him at all."

In the strip that ran in Sunday's color comic sections, his dog, Snoopy, sits atop his doghouse, as usual. He listens, puzzled, as his master, freshly home from the hospital, exclaims: "It seems like I've been gone forever. I sure missed you."

> 'It seems like I've been gone forever. I sure missed you.' — CHARLIE BROWN

As Charlie shuffles away, a pleased smile upon his face, the world's best known beagle is seen to think, "Now, I remember! He's that round-headed kid who always feeds me."

The reaction of bossy, fussbudget Lucy to Charlie's hospitalization was more dramatic.

"What's wrong with the world where someone like Charlie Brown can get sick and then not get any better?" she lamented.

Schulz admitted that Lucy's cry could seem a "heavy philosophy" to some readers, but Schulz said he mainly was having fun.

Schulz promised the fun would continue as the recovered Charlie greets the rest of the regulars, notably the usually all-business, no-heart Lucy.

With Charlie flat on his back in a hospital bed, Lucy found she couldn't eat. On Friday, she was moved to tell Charlie that "if you get well, I promise I'll never pull the football away again."

She sealed her promise Saturday by repeating it to her brother, Linus.

In Monday's strip, Schulz said, Charlie Brown comes to Lucy's front door — football in hand.

"She's been pulling the football away for 22 years," Schulz said. "Now she's trapped. She made a death-bed promise."

Schulz refused to tell what ensues, but did say that "there has to be a consistency in a comic's character" to keep the readers happy.

Florida Jury To Decide Future Of Convicted Coed Murderer

MIAMI (AP) — His lawyer says Theodore Bundy has a mental disorder. A psychiatrist says it's a problem with authority figures. Bundy says he has passed into "the realm of science fiction."

No fiction is the jury that will consider this week whether to recommend Bundy's death for bludgeoning and strangling two Florida State University sorority sisters. Testimony in a pre-sentencing hearing resumes Monday.

Much has been written about the 32-year-old Bundy, whose boyish looks belie the record of a man who was convicted of a kidnapping, two slayings and three savage beatings and is charged in two more deaths.

But as the courtroom drama over the Tallahassee campus murders nears its end, those brought close to the defendant are still left with the question: What makes Theodore Bundy tick?

Dr. Emmanuel Tanay, a Detroit psychiatrist who examined Bundy, said the former law student had a "a pathological need to defy authority. This supplies him thrills."

"In a certain sense, Mr. Bundy is the producer of a play which attempts to show that various authority figures can be manipulated, set aginst eachother and placed in a position of internal conflict.

"Mr. Bundy does not have the capacity to recognize that the price of this thriller might be his own life," Tanay said.

During pre-trial hearings, a Tallahassee police officer testified that Bundy told him after his capture last year in Pensacola that he "felt like a vampire."

"He stated he wanted to talk to us — he had built up in himself more or less a block never to tell anybody about his problem. He asked us to keep talking," said Detective Donald Patchen.

Public defender Ed Harvey tried unsuccessfully to withdraw from the case and said in a motion that Bundy, who particpated in his own defense, suffers a "debilitating ... mental disorder."

But Circuit Judge Edward Cowart refused Harvey's request for a competency hearing. "I don't think there's any question in my mind that Mr. Bundy is competent from a legal standpoint," Cowart said. "He may be a miserable client. I can't answer that."

Bundy's 4 1/2-week trial began with an odd twist as the defense brought in an expert on hypnotism to help in jury selection. It closed with some even stranger turns as the pressure began to tell on Bundy.

On one occasion Bundy knocked out a prison light, jammed paper in his cell lock and tried to boycott court to protest conditions of his imprisonment. Then came an abortive attempt to fire his defense team and handle the case solely on his own.

In an interview at the Dade County jail Friday, Bundy laughed at what he called "speculation in the realm of science fiction" about him and his behavior.

"I did not try to sabotage my own defense, consciously or subconsciously," Bundy said. "I don't think there's anything that would support that. I did take a strong role in my own defense."

Bundy said he expects appeal after appeal, and knows he has more trials ahead of him. He is also charged with killing a 12-year-old Florida girl and a nurse in Colorado.

On Saturday, the jury in the Tallahassee case heard facts about Bundy's 1974 conviction for kidnapping a teen-ager and about his escape from jail.

Bundy says his innocence "is going to keep me going through all this" and adds that he has only one worry: his mother. "She's stood up very well, but I worry about her all the time," he said.

He admits he has no love for reporters.

"I'm paranoid about the press, all the things that have been written about me," Bundy said. "I don't believe a thing that I read. Not a thing. I've been too close to the action for too long."

Quebecers Extend Invitation To Pope

QUEBEC (AP) — About 6,000 Quebecers have sent Pope John Paul II a petition inviting him to pray at the shrine at nearby Ste. Anne-de-Beaupre between visits to Ireland and the United States in October.

A Quebec City newspaper organized the petition drive and got the 6,000 names in 48 hours.

It cost more than $1,800 to send it, in the form of a 15,000-word telegram, to the Vatican.

The pope was also invited to Canada by the Council of Canadian Bishops.

Country's Crazy Contests Cataloged

GERMANIA, N.J. (AP) — By day Vince Luciani is a mild-mannered engineer who helps develop aviation electronics systems. But at night the soft-spoken father of three becomes Contest Man.

LUCIANI

Luciani, 52, has made it his leisure life's work to cull newspapers and travel brochures for the wildest, most interesting and just plain craziest competitions he can find.

"They're something unusual; they're not everyday," Luciani says. "And then, it's all Americana."

From the annual Chicken Flying Contest in Ohio to the National Hollerin' Contest in North Carolina to the Earthworm Cooking Contest in California, Luciani follows them all.

He's so thrilled about the thrill of unusual victory that he has published his own 96-page book, "Guide to Unusual Contests in America," listing 170 such oddities throughout the country.

"I have two favorite contests," confides Luciani, employed at a federal test base near Atlantic City. "The Cow Chip Tossing Contest in Beaver, Okla., is the one that turned me on to this whole thing. They even have a division for professional politicians.

"The other one I like is the bridge-blowing contest in Charleston, W.Va., in which the Charleston Daily Mail had a contest to see who would push the button to blow up the Kanawha City Bridge in 1975," Luciani said.

"Of course, they don't have that every year," he added.

Luciani, now a student of such things, says unusual contests always celebrate local folklore or a local industry.

He says the oldest contest appears to be the Jumping Frog Jubilee in Calaveras County, Calif., made famous by Mark Twain's short story. Each May, frog jockeys come to the county fair to kick, stomp and yell to make their amphibians try to beat the 1966 record of more than 19 feet.

"As a contest, it's nothing extraordinary," Luciani says. "It's more of a tribute to Mark Twain."

When it comes to whacked-out contests, Luciani says California, Louisiana, Texas and Florida take the prizes.

"They have more of them and they are more original, and they have more regular contests, too," Luciani says. "They seem to have an enthusiasm in everything they do."

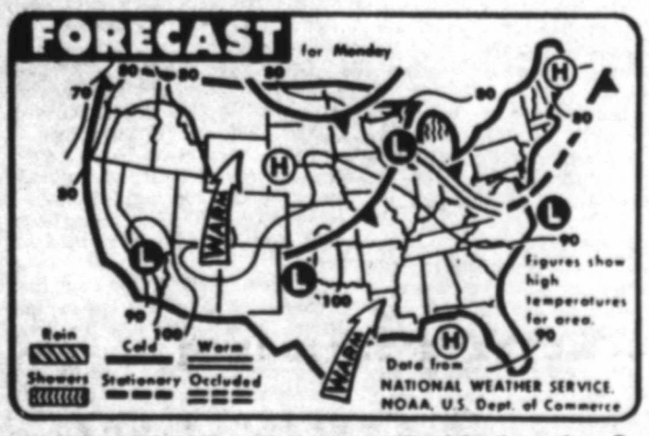

Like many of the contests he's listed, Luciani's book is strictly home-spun and small-time. He had 1,000 copies printed locally and his friends and family helped put the pages in order.

His goal is to put out a second edition next year with more detail, better photographs and twice as many contests. Another goal is to start visiting the contests he has written about.

"I went down to the National Hollerin' Contest last year in Spivey's Corner, N.C.," he said. "People were out there in the pouring rain and just hollerin' like crazy. There's a basic enthusiasm there. It was really something."

Clements Plans Tour Of Flooded Areas

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements plans Monday to inspect a 10-county area of southeastern Texas where he estimates tropical storm Claudette left $750 million in flood damage.

A prelimiary Red Cross survey shows at least 12,300 homes were affected by four days of rain that followed Claudette's landfall last Tuesday near the Texas-Louisiana border.

Bill Barron of the Red Cross said about 7,900 families had major flood damage in their homes and another 4,400 had minor damages such as ruined carpets.

Residents of flood-stricken homes took advantage of a bright sun and dry, hot weather Sunday to spread soaked furniture and rugs out to dry.

On Saturday President Carter heeded a request from Clements and declared six counties in the area a disaster.

Federal officials moved into the area during the weekend to expedite the processing of federal relief funds for temporary housing and low interst loans from the Small Business Administration and the Farmers Home Adminstration.

Clements will be accompanied on his late afternoon helicopter tour by Texas Adjutant General W.L. Scott and Frank Cox, head of the state's Disaster Emergency Services Division.

Carter's disaster declaration includes Harris, Jefferson, Brazoria, Orange, Fort Bend, and Chambers counties. Clements has asked that Hardin and Matagorda counties be added to the declaration.

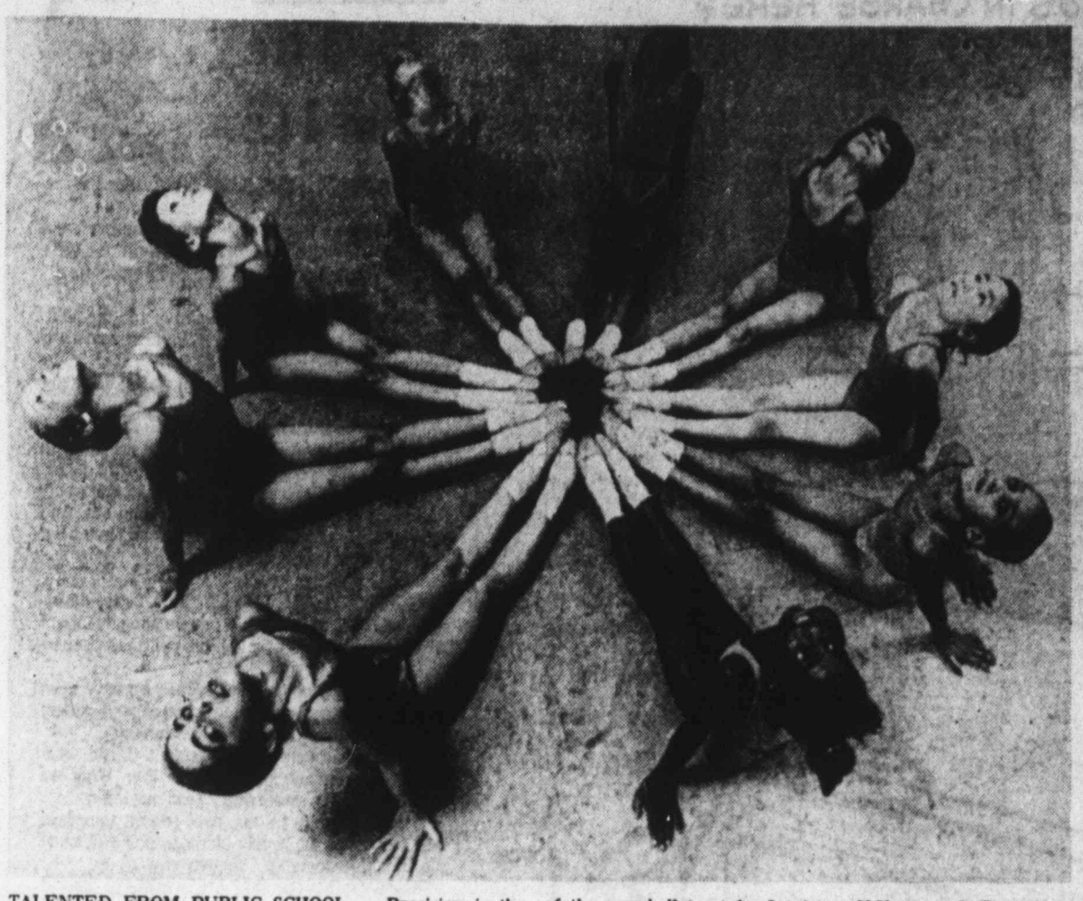

Barron said the preliminary Red Cross survey shows 3,300 Houston and Harris county homes received major damage with 1,200 others receiving minor damage.

TALENTED FROM PUBLIC SCHOOL — Precision is the name of the game for these elementary school students rehearsing in New York recently for the premiere performance of the new ballet set for Lewiston, N.Y., Aug. 7. The girls, ages 8 to 10, were chosen at open auditions from New York City's schools during the last school year. (AP Laserphoto)

Freshman Orientation Begins At Tech

Beginning today, Texas Tech will sponsor one of six conferences on academic advisement, registration and orientation for entering freshmen and their parents.

Freshmen will be acquainted through seminars and tours with education facilities, services available, physical layout of the campus, and information about college costs and housing facilities. They also will be introduced to the social and cultural experiences available on campus and within the Lubbock community.

Attendance will be limited to an average of 650 students at each of the conferences to assure individual attention, which cannot be achieved during the regular fall registration period, Aug. 30 and 31. More than 3,800 young men and women are expected to attend the six sessions.

Other conference dates are Thursday to Friday, Aug. 6-7, Aug. 9-10, Aug. 13-14 and Aug. 16-17.

Housing and food accommodations for students and parents attending early registration conferences will be in Wall-Gates and Hulen-Clements residence halls.

Mary Reeves, conference coordinator, said the core of the orientation and registration program will be in the University Center. Colleges will hold advising sessions in different locations.

Tentative deadline for accepting applications for the conferences is Wednesday, Nancy Lange, assistant to the registrar, said.

During the sessions, entering freshmen also can obtain parking permits, get athletic ticket coupons and the yearbook, and pay room and board charges.

Entering students who do not attend one of the six conferences will assemble in the University Center Theater on campus at 7 p.m. Aug. 29 for an informal welcome and introduction to campus life. At 8 a.m. Aug. 30, registration procedures will be reviewed in the University Center Theater.

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science"

The personal science of biorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

BIORHYTHMS FOR JULY 30, 1979

PHYSICAL
Criticals: 6, 18, 29, 41, 52, 64, 75 ... May be forgetful
Highs: 1-5, 19-28, 42-51, 65-74 ... Feel peppy today
Lows: 7-17, 30-40, 53-63 ... Fatigue comes swiftly

EMOTIONAL
Criticals: 2, 16, 30, 44, 58, 72 ... Confusion likely Highs: 3-15, 31-43, 59-71 ... Easy to get along with Lows: 1, 17-29, 45-57, 73-85 ... You tend to brood

INTELLECTUAL
Criticals: 5, 22, 38, 55, 71, 88 ... Anxiousness may prevail
Highs: 1-4, 23-37, 56-70, 89-95 ... Your wit's at its best
Lows: 6-21, 39-54, 72-87 ... Easy to make mistakes

Enter your own permanent numbers in the chart in the bottom right-hand corner. To figure your own permanent numbers, follow these three steps:

Step 1: From the year chart, find the numbers corresponding to your year of birth. For instance, if you were born in 1947, your number for Physical would be 21, Emotional 17, Intellectual 19. Note whether your numbers are preceded by an A or B; this will be used for Step 2.

Step 3: In the figure chart, enter your day of birth three times, one each for Physical (P), Emotional (E) and Intellectual (I). (If you were born on April 3, for instance, place a 3 in each column.)

Add the three columns to derive your permanent biorhythm numbers for your Physical, Emotional and Intellectual cycles. Now you can refer to today's rhythms.

These numbers are yours permanently. Check them each day for your biorhythm reading.

Horse Trader Keeps Stock Away From Slaughterhouse

By JULES LOH

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — If the answer to the gasoline shortage is to go see a man about a horse, the man to see is Joe Lawrence.

Joe Lawrence looks and sounds like an old cowboy song.

He is long and lanky and has hide like saddle leather. His big hat is sweat-dark at the brim. His jeans are faded to the color of his eyes and his eyes squint from dust and sun. His smile is as open as the prairie.

He's got a sunburned neck and scruffy boots and bowed legs and spurs that jingle jangle jingle. His tooled belt surrounds no hips at all. He ambles and drawls. He looks all wor' out.

He also looks as tough as a mustang, and is, and it seems out of character, but isn't, for him to be stroking a kitten in his lap as he sits on the hitching rail and talks about horses.

"I been stomped on, bucked off, fell on and kicked. I had my ribs broke and my toenails knocked off. The scar over my left eye got put there by a horse.

"Still, I just love horses. I do. There is nothing I love on this earth more than horses."

Joe is a horse trader, the last of that proud line in this storied city of the old West. His affection for horses has made it, he said, a melancholy business of late.

"It's the horsemeat business," he said.

"In the last four or five years the price of horsemeat has gone to where a horse will bring 45 or 50 cents a pound on the hoof at the slaughterhouse. That means a 1,000-pound horse will go for $450 or $500, the same price you pay for a good saddle horse.

"It's a damn shame to send a good saddle horse to the slaughterhouse. I won't do it. No sir, I won't. But some are going to get there anyhow.

"Say I sell a good riding horse for $450. If the buyer can get $500 by selling it by the pound, that good horse just might wind up on a truck heading for Phoenix.

"Horses were never meant to be sold by the pound, not to my way of thinking.

"But the horsemeat business is growing. The overseas market is getting bigger. Now I hear about people breeding big horses — Percherons and Clydesdales — just for slaughter.

"Why not? If you're going to sell a horse by the pound you might as well sell a big one.

"That's the fix the horse business is in."

The horse business has been good to Joe Lawrence ever since he was a skinny kid back in the '40s breaking horses for $5 a month on his father's ranch in Dalhart.

He moseyed west, to Tucson, in 1950 when there were several horse traders in the area. Joe knew horses. He made money.

"Horses made it possible for me to buy a ranch out near Tombstone. I have 400 head of cattle. I work them on horseback. In this rough country, a rancher still needs a good horse.

"I keep about a dozen horses on my ranch. Four or five of them I'll never sell. For good reasons. You know, sentimental reasons, but also because of what might become of them.

"I also have the best horse in the world. Ol' Streak. He is 12 years old now. That I have, the best horse in the world. Nobody has a better one.

"I'll go to the slaughterhouse myself before he goes."

Texas Tech Plans Study Aid Seminar

College-bound high school seniors are expected to enroll in a three-week Texas Tech workshop in reading, study and math improvement designed to give them an academic boost in those areas. The workshop begins today.

The Division of Continuing Education is sponsoring the skills improvement workshop, which will meet from 9 to 11:30 a.m. today through Friday.

Workshop instructors will be Ellen Harris, English teacher at Coronado High School, and Shirley Rekers, former mathematics professor at Texas Tech.

The workshop's purpose is to improve reading, study, note-taking, outlining, library usage, basic math, algebra and geometry skills so that students will be better prepared to do college-level work, said Michael Mezack, continuing education director.

It is a non-credit workshop in which students work in small groups and individually. No grades will be given; however, a certificate will be presented to students successfully completing the workshop on Aug. 17.

Each student will be given an evaluation of his strengths and weaknesses, as well as suggestions for how to improve or maintain skills so as to better insure academic success in college.

Sessions will be in the Conference Room of X-15 across from the Municipal Auditorium. The class will be limited to 30, and the enrollment fee is $60.

BANDITS MURDER PRIEST

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — An Italian-born Roman Catholic priest working in eastern Uganda was shot and killed recently by bandits wearing military uniforms, the Uganda Catholic Secretariat reported Saturday. The secretariatidentified him as the Rev. John Tauber, 57, born in Tirol, Italy, who had worked in the African nation since 1953.

Car Thief Sentences Self

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A temperamental car theft suspect talked himself into a 10-year jail sentence.

Larry William Self appeared before Judge William Rowley in Escambia County Circuit Court on Friday to have his bond reduced. Rowley obliged, reducing bond from $5,000 to $2,500, and from $7,500 to $2,500 in another auto theft case.

But back in his cell, Self began yelling, cursing and making threats, police said. His jailers hauled him back into court.

Rowley asked Self what the problem was. Self reportedly replied with profanities and insults and said, "If you ever want to tell me anything, mail it to me."

"I won't have to mail you this — I'm finding you in contempt of court and sending you to county jail for one year," Rowley said.

"Why not make it five years?" Self asked.

"All right, you've got it," the judge answered.

"Why not make it 10 years?" Self said.

"You've got it — 10 years in county jail," Rowley said.

Self dared Rowley to raise his bond to $50,000. The judge improved that.

Self, 37, was taken to county jail under $100,000 bond to begin a 10-year sentence for contempt of court.

Tampa Youth Upset Over Loss Of Pet Crane

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ned, the sickly orphan who grew into a fearless adventurer may make it in the wild, but Eddie Owen doubts it.

"It would be a miracle," says Owen, 17, who isn't happy about losing his pet sandhill crane. "They don't know what he eats or how I cared for him. The only thing he'll eat is dogfood. He won't know what to do with minnows."

State game officers took Ned away Friday. The spunky 4-foot-tall bird is now residing on a sprawling ranch near Brooksville to see how well he adjusts to life among other feathered creatures.

The sandhill crane is listed as an endangered species by the federal government. Without a special permit, keeping the bird is illegal, says Sgt. Dennis Parker of the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission.

For 14 months, state wildlife experts knew nothing about Ned or the cushy life he led. During that time, Owen nursed the delicate animal and raised it from just 6 inches high.

Naughty Ned's adventurous spirit led to his discovery. Last week, the lanky fellow visited a huge Tampa apartment complex and took a shine to a man named Paul Ellig. Ellig jogged with the bird, even let him stay in his apartment for a couple of days along with his cat, dog and turtle.

The bird went for a bath in the lake, then took a dip in the swimming pool. Neighbors called him Harvey, then thought his name was Fred.

Word got back to Owen about the happy-go-lucky visitor, and he went to claim his pet. But word also got back to wildlife officers.

State officers insist they had no choice but to take the crane. Besides, they say, it's for the bird's safety.

"We can't let anyone take anything illegal. It's contraband," Parker said. "It'll be hand-fed, then we'll try to get it eating on its own. Once it's acting like a sandhill crane should, we'll release it.

"He's in a good shape, but he thinks he's a person," Parker said. "And we're going to teach him to be a sandhill crane."

Aussie Captures Age-Group Record

HANNOVER, West Germany (AP) — John Gilmore, 60, of Australia established an age-group world record Friday when he ran the 10,000 meters in 35 minutes, 7.7 second, at the World Veteran Athletic Championships.

Second was Theo Soeder of West Germany in 35:07.7 and third Holger Josefson of Sweden in 37:01.4.

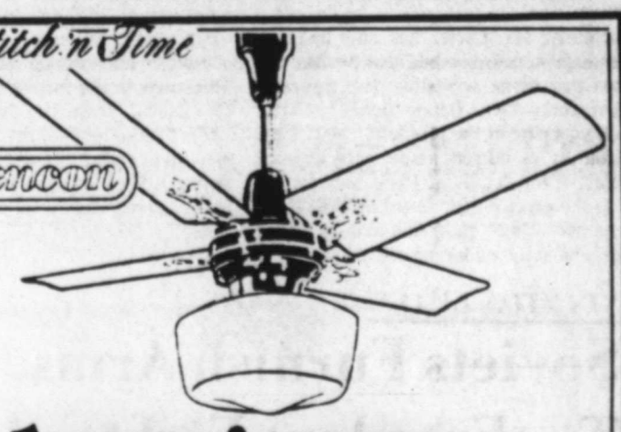

Gilmore's record improved the old mark by 11 seconds. He and 5,000 other athletes are competing in the week-long Hannover championships.

Australian Reg Barlow won a gold medal in the 10,000-meter event for over 75-year-olds in 46:15.00 mins.

AN EDITORIAL:

Pulling In The Bureaucracy

A WELCOME dismantling of some of the consumer protectionism bureaucracy that had flourished under his predecessor has been announced by Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White.

Consumer complaints should be handled by local Better Business Bureaus instead of by his office, White said.

Under former Atty. Gen. John Hill, who narrowly lost a bid for governor in November, regional offices had been set up to receive and follow through on complaints from consumers who felt they had a gripe against a business.

IN ANNOUNCING a change of direction, White said "this move should be seen as a recognition of budget realities and not a lessening of our desire or commitment to work for and on behalf of the consumers of Texas."

He added: "Because of our budget reductions, we had to identify some division activities where cutbacks could be made."

Whatever his reasons, White made the right move. The idea that government should act as our "protector" in purely personal disputes is alien to the concept that the people are capable of handling their own affairs.

The attorney general made it clear, through a UPI dispatch from Austin, that his Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division will continue to protect the public interest by investigating and prosecuting deceptive trade practices and white collar crime.

This is as it should be, a legitimate and necessary area of concern for governmental action.

"By allowing us to focus our attention on investigations and prosecutions," White said, "I expect the Division to perform even more effectively and efficiently than it has in the past."

WHITE IS, IN other words, returning the attorney general's office to the role of protecting the public interest and returning to individuals the responsibility for taking care of their personal interests.

This will not stop the headlong rush toward cradle-to-grave protectionism, but it is a welcome sign that the error of the way America has been traveling is being widely enough recognized that the momentum can be slowed and even reversed here and there.

It's a message that a lot of people thought Jimmy Carter was carrying to Washington—but it never got through.

"WHO'S IN CHARGE HERE?"

JAY HARRIS:

As They See It...

IF NOTHING else, President Carter has accomplished one thing...

He has gotten just about everyone talking about the State of the Nation, although millions were already speaking their minds before he finally did.

What it means for him, the nation and the political fortunes of "the man who" in next year's Presidential contest remains to be seen.

But, the fact that citizens in all walks of life are taking a hard look at their nation's future and what it means to them has to be a plus factor.

Mr. Carter says he is going to take his show on the road in the weeks ahead in an effort to get his thoughts across and to find out what grassroots America is thinking. He is going to find out. And he may not like a lot of it, if what we have been reading of late is any indication.

RECENTLY, THE St. Petersburg Times devoted a whole page to what people thought about Mr. Carter, his energy plan, his policies in general.

The opinions coincide with those we have been getting and we suspect they pretty well reflect what people across the nation are thinking...

"Almost everyone sees President Carter as a man of fairness and strong moral fiber. What we do question is his leadership," read one letter.

"After listening to his two recent speeches, speeches I saw as largely ideological, I still must question his leadership," the writer went on.

"Words without action are worthless, and if Mr. Carter is thinking of backing up his plans he must act, and act quickly. If he does not act, one must wonder if Mr. Carter wants to use his speeches as a catalyst to begin meeting our energy problems...or as a catalyst to merely launch his reelection campaign."

AND THIS one from a woman reader...

"I blame Washington.

"I think people should wake up to these Congressmen. They promise you everything. Once they are in office, they are concerned about the fat salaries and pensions and goodies they will get out of it and forget about the poor slobs who put them there..."

And from a male writer...

"I did not vote for Jimmy Carter. And, being a conservative Republican, I do not agree with many of his policies. But when a man lays it on the line, tells it like it is and asks for our support, as he did, I can assure him that I am in his corner all the way. It took a lot of courage for him to make that speech, and I respect him for it. It needed to be said, and he had the guts to say it."

ON ANOTHER note, this thought was offered...

"Instead of gloating over 'jewels and other worldly possessions' we have amassed while begrudging the sick and/or indigent a free meal, food stamps, etc., try thanking God more often for what we have.

"Some might even walk to the mailbox, or to the corner store that's a mile or so away. Let the kids walk to the school bus, and look with less urgency at Junior's need of a new car when he graduates...

"The President said we must 'stop crying and cursing, start sweating and praying.

"I for one will pray for this man's success, for us all. I feel he is sincere."

BUT, ON BALANCE, the criticism, some of it harsh, outweighed the praise.

"If this country is on the verge of disaster because of an energy shortage as Mr. Carter warns, then he should have been 'on the ball' looking after the interests and welfare of the United States instead of spending so much time traveling around the world meddling in the affairs of other countries," one person wrote.

The same person blamed the President and outgoing Energy Czar James Schlesinger for botching up a deal to arrange for Mexico's newly found oil reserves.

"Here's the real problem, Mr. President," says another. "We're prisoners of consumerism, and until we can save money by not spending it, you are proposing exercises in futility. Get the dollar out of the doldrums and it shall follow as night follows day that better times are ahead..."

And this from a St. Pete resident: "His descent from the mountain brought big news. He will not permit one more drop of oil to be imported than in 1977. He did not mention that presently we are importing less oil than in 1977. So much for his sacrificial action...."

BUT IT remained for a reader from Clearwater, Fla., to say what probably is on a lot of people's minds, especially the independents and conservatives...

"In line with President Carter's challenge to United States citizens to revive faith in America, energy is not the only thing to consider.

"It has been distressing and disgusting over the past several years to see a generation that never built anything, tearing down everything others have built up, burning flags they never protected, demolishing buildings they never erected, destroying property they never bought, tearing down schools they never paid taxes on, ridiculing freedoms they never fought for, trying to destroy a country they are unwilling to defend and crying for a peace they are too soft to make and too lazy to keep.

"Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it.

"All the legislation in the world cannot fix what's wrong with America. It needs the faith and individual efforts by every one of us—Now."

And that, for many, is telling it like it is. Are you really listening, Mr. President?

AN EDITORIAL:

Hail To The Chief...Of Staff

AMID ALL THE shattered political crockery in Washington as a result of the Carter administration shake-up lies a broken promise. "I will never have a 'chief of staff'," said the newly elected President in 1977.

William Hamilton McWhorter Jordan, 34, may have been that all along—but not officially, not with title. And that can make a great deal of difference in both the clout the position carries and the assurance with which it is wielded.

"The President told the White House staff they should no longer consider 'Mr. Jordan' as their peer and they should consider his directives as the President's own," said Press Secretary Jody Powell in explaining Carter's wishes last week.

JIMMY CARTER'S promise not to have a chief of staff was in large part a reaction to the actual or alleged misuse of power associated with the Nixon-Haldeman relationship.

Obviously, Mr. Carter has now had second thoughts, possibly because he has discovered that being accessible does not in itself overcome Oval Office perils. "Carter himself was part of the problem," says Time magazine in its current issue. "He enjoyed minutiae, from details of shale rock formations to the precise boundaries of West Bank settlements." Time quotes an aide as saying "Carter ended up mediating everything."

The more a President attempts to do himself, the more isolated he may become from what is really going on. Consequently, designation of Jordan may serve Carter well in this respect, clarifying responsibilities, establishing lines of communication and improving administrative effectiveness. In the process, he may be able to devote more time and attention to shaping policy.

THERE IS A PRICE to be paid, however. A chief of staff, faced daily with hard decisions, must be hard-nosed to make them. Mr. Jordan has not endeared himself to the establishment in the past two-plus years and is likely to become even less liked.

When Jordan last week asked crusty House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill for some advice, O'Neill, who has long called the new chief of staff "Hannibal Jerkin," scolded Jordan for his failure to deal with Congress. Nevertheless, O'Neill gave Jordan a list of names of Congressmen and key aides he should get to know, concluding "Bygones are bygones."

Carter undoubtedly already is aware of objections to the further specialization of his relationship with Mr. Jordan. But the answer to the objections may already have been delivered by Dwight Eisenhower in resisting efforts to separate them from Sherman Adams, his own unpopular chief of staff:

"I need him."

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Flak For The Flack

NOVAK

WASHINGTON—For the first time to anyone's knowledge, President Carter criticized press secretary Jody Powell in the presence of outsiders.

But that mild criticism, during the Camp David meetings, does not suggest downgrading, much less removal, for Powell.

Powell was brought up during Carter's sessions with non-governmental wise men invited to the mountain.

After the senior staff (including Powell) had left the room, one outsider commented that he thought Powell was shooting from the hip a little too much lately and might be suffering from battle fatigue.

He added that he felt the normal adversary relationship between Powell and the press was degenerating into all-out war.

To the surprise of those present, the President did not spring to the quick defense of his longtime aide. Rather, he noted that Jody seemed a little overwrought, was smoking even more than usual and was putting on weight.

Nevertheless, nobody expects any diminution of Powell's position. Next to Rosalynn, Powell is Carter's most trusted adviser.

What some White House insiders would like is for Powell to be removed from the press secretary's daily firing line and be given a counselor's role. But even this is not likely unless initiated by Powell himself.

A footnote: Even more than Powell's politically damaging crack about long gasoline lines being good for Washingtonians, his snap reaction to White House domestic policy chief Stuart Eizenstat's now-famous memorandum generated ill will within the White House.

Several presidential aides grumbled that a crack at the hard-working, long-suffering Eizenstat was uncalled for and unfair.

★

THERE WAS AN audible gasp at Bardstown, Ky., when Rosalynn Carter seemed to tell a Democratic party fund-raiser that "Jimmy is competent"—seemingly a public rejoinder to scurrilous private rumors that the President had retired to Camp David for psychological reasons.

Actually, Kentucky ears were having trouble picking up the First Lady's soft Georgia accents. Careful listening to tape recordings of her remarks showed her saying that "Jimmy is confident."

Apart from the unfortunate misunderstanding, Mrs. Carter put in a masterful performance substituting for her husband at the Kentucky dinner.

She has progressed as a campaigner and is obviously one of the President's top political assets.

RETIRED GEN. Alexander Haig's debut as a practicing Republican politician was made before a closed-door audience of fat-cat financial contributors with newsmen and ordinary citizens barred.

Haig spoke before the meeting of the Republican Eagles at the posh Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Los Angeles July 22-23. Minimum contribution to Republican War chests of $10,000 is necessary for membership in the Eagles.

★

WHEN NATIONAL Security Council (NSC) Director Zbigniew Brzezinski offered long-time NSC staff aide Sam Hoskinson an important promotion, Hoskinson asked for time to think it over.

When he returned to his boss with a negative response, the reply astonished Brzezinski: Hoskinson had signed up as top research director for Republican presidential contender John B. Connally.

That dramatic job switch by the 41-year-old native Midwesterner resulted from his work as an occasional adviser to Connally during his trips around the world as secretary of treasury for Richard Nixon.

Hoskinson liked what he saw then, and apparently Connally did too.

★

WHILE HIS FOES insist he will soon self-destruct by peaking much too early in his run for the Republican presidential nomination, John B. Connally continues to pile up little triumphs. Two new examples:

He was given a highly unusual standing ovation after addressing the weekly breakfast meeting of an influential group of Republican House members.

A few days later, he dazzled an important group of American Jewish Committee (AJC) members in New York City, many of whom had been suspicious of his business ties with the Arab world.

On the negative side, Connally has shown the need for better preparation. His answers to some serious queries about the economy have struck the questioners as superficial.

ANDREW TULLY:

Sound Of Silence

WASHINGTON—Regarding Jimmy Carter, we have no choice. He seems incapable of winning our trust for more than a few days at a time.

There is, as he told us on television, a crisis of confidence in the country. But he created it by his failure to do anything about such problems as inflation and the energy shortage.

Worse, after giving us a little lift in that speech, he let us down again four days later.

Firing such Cabinet officers as HEW's Joe Califano and Treasury Secretary Mike Blumenthal was not the answer to the national malaise.

It was merely Jimmy Carter thinking that if he did something showy the country would not demand substance. It was Jimmy Carter trying to polish his image as a born-again, rough and tough leader.

MAYBE THOSE firings were necessary to give the administration a fresh look. If so, however, they were minor changes, window dressing.

Carter's problem was his palace guard of amateurish Georgians who seem to have spent most of their time getting Carter in trouble with the people, Congress, and assorted Democratic politicians Carter needs on his side if he hopes to win re-election.

He should have fired Hamilton Jordan. Instead, characteristically, he named Jordan his chief of staff and made it clear that henceforth the voice of Hamilton Jordan would speak the words of President Carter.

A Franklin—or a Theodore—Roosevelt would have swept clean where it mattered, in the White House.

BUT CARTER in effect announced that from here on the Republic would be governed by the White House staff, and members of the Cabinet would genuflect to Hamilton Jordan & Co. or get out.

"I will act," Carter told us on TV, and for a few short hours we could applaud that statement.

But on Black Thursday he acted by sacking the Cabinet officers known to be the most independent and outspoken, thorns in the side of Hamilton Jordan & Co.

"I hope this is not a signal that the administration wants to discourage the Cabinet from being outspoken," said Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn.

Stop hoping, Moffett. The first thing Jordan did when he donned the hat off Assistant President was to call together his senior subordinates and tell them that none of them shall criticize to outsiders the actions and statements of the President; anyone caught doing so would be fired.

AND, ADDED Jordan, the President expected members of his Cabinet to live by the same rule of silence.

It is ironic. Jimmy Carter has rewarded the very people who have been anathema to the Congressional leaders whose helping hand Carter needs most.

He has told the people that Jordan, Press Secretary Jody Powell, and Frank Moore, White House liason with Congress, are in and everybody else is out.

Some "new" Jimmy Carter. Like Richard Nixon before him, he has withdrawn into his inner, "ol' boy" circle and hung a "No Admittance" sign on the door.

He wants absolute loyalty to himself, not absolute competence to get a tough job done.

M. STANTON EVANS:

Soviets Furnish Arms To 'Freedom Fighters'

WASHINGTON—Debate in Congress and the media continues to portray the conflict in Rhodesia as a war between a white-controlled "minority" government and noble "freedom fighters" battling for independence.

As previously noted by this column, the argument that Zimbabwe-Rhodesia is undemocratic or oppressive, or that the recent elections were unfair, goes directly counter to the weight of massive evidence.

Equally important, the effort to depict the guerrillas invading the country as "freedom fighters" is a fabrication.

Whatever the "nationalist" motivations that originally prompted guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo, and whatever the complexities of internal politics in the country, it is clear enough that the external forces in action today are prompted and equipped by the Soviet Union and other Communist nations.

EVIDENCE TO document the point is copious—ranging from the revolutionary rhetoric of guerrilla manifestoes to the statement of guerrilla leader Robert Mugabe that he is aiming for a "one party Marxist state."

More graphic and telling than these, however, are the massive quantities of Soviet and other Communist weapons that are being used in the guerrilla warfare against the black civilian population of the country.

Nothing could make plainer the actual sources and intentions of this particular "freedom fight."

Guerrilla weapons of every description are recovered daily by Zimbabwe-Rhodesian authorities in their contacts with the enemy forces—cartridges left over from guerrilla ambushes, missile casings remaining from attacks on civilian aircraft, and weapons taken from slain or captured terrorists.

THE RESULT of this continued influx is an enormous store of Communist ordnance, warehoused at the public armory in Salisbury.

During my recent trip to Zimbabwe-Rhodesia as an election observer for the American Conservative Union, I examined this grisly treasure trove of Communist weapons.

In the ballistics room of the armory, technical analysts constantly sort and catalogue cartridge casings recovered from guerrilla shooting episodes—as many as 3,000 from a single exchange.

As the technicians pointed out, each cartridge bears an identifying arsenal mark, indicating the country of origin, plus date of manufacture. (The Russian marking is a triangle bisected by an arrow.)

Similar markings appear on the hundreds upon hundreds of weapons available for inspection in the armory display room. Among the most common of these weapons is the Soviet AK-47 rifle, the weapon of choice among Marxist "freedom fighters" around the world.

THERE IS also a Red Chinese version of this weapon, and a couple of these are on display as well. This model is virtually identical to the Russian one, except for the Chinese glyphs and arsenal indicia.

In addition to the Chinese and Russian AK-47s, weapons in the armory include the Chinese RPD machine gun, the RPK 40-magazine machine gun (of both Soviet and Yugoslav manufacture), F-1 grenades of Chinese and Russian origin, heat-seeking SAM missiles, a Romanian rocket launcher and projectiles.

ALSO INCLUDED are a Chinese Communist 85 mm. anti-tank missile, a Russian-made D.P. machine gun, and a Chinese Communist radio. In the realm of "ideological weapons," the display includes a well-thumbed copy of "Quotations from Chairman Mao" and a banner featuring a likeness of Josef Stalin.

Since it seems unlikely the Communists are selling this stuff to the Rhodesian government, the only place the authorities could come up with this enormous cache of weapons is from the so-called "freedom fighters."

Strange that none of this gets mentioned in all the talk we hear about the conflict in Rhodesia.

Connally Says Tax Cut Not Inflationary

HOUSTON (AP) — John Connally advocated an immediate $25 billion to $35 billion tax cut Sunday and then said he believes President Carter is in "real trouble" because of recent "political theatrics."

Connally said a tax cut could be made without being inflationary.

"The tax cut ought to come to benefit the working people of this country who make ... $35,000 a year and less, who have been escalating into higher tax brackets just because of the rate of inflation," he said.

The former Texas governor who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination said his belief Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., will be the 1980 Democratic nominee has been enhanced by the manner in which Carter reshuffled his Cabinet.

"I must say I feel sorry for the president," Connally said in appearing on the nationally televised ABC "Issues and Answers" program.

"He obviously is trying to do his best to overcome some very serious problems. He made a televised speech to the nation about energy, and he is so eager to re-establish his credibility he came right along within a week and has this huge political upheaval of musical chairs and diverts the entire attention of the nation away from energy and back onto political matters."

While saying Carter is in "real trouble," Connally would not say the president had destroyed his political future.

"It certainly hasn't helped him," he said. "If anything, I think in a few weeks he'll find he's lower in the polls than ever. I just think the net effect of what he has done, he engaged in political theatrics."

In saying a tax cut is possible without increasing deficit spending, Connally said he relies on a $250 billion figure Carter used in his budget message to Congress.

"He said if you take the next four fiscal years we will generate over and above the present level of spending about $250 billion in new revenues," Connally said.

"Now a lot of that is because of inflation but, nevertheless, we are going to have that much new revenue. I think we can cut spending. I think we can cut taxes and still not create a greater deficit in this country."

COAL-OIL USED

SALEM, Mass. (AP) — The Salem Harbor power plant has begun burning a fuel mixture of coal and oil, reportedly the nation's first long-term test of the experimental combination. The $10 million, one-year demonstration project begun Thursday is being subsidized by the federal Department of Energy and the Electric Power Institute. John Walsh, director of research and development for New England Power Co., owner of the plant, said he hopes to use 30 percent pulverized coal in the mixture to save some 200,000 gallons of oil, or $500,000, during the year.

Outlook Of Alleged Shoplifter, 91, Better

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — An outpouring of sympathy for Mattie Schultz, who said she wanted God to "close her eyes" because her plight had forced her to shoplift $15 worth of food to keep from starving, has improved the 91-year-old woman's outlook on life, a minister said Sunday.

Stan Ferrar, pastor of the First Church of God, said he spoke with Mrs. Schultz Saturday and she appeared to be in a better frame of mind.

"She's beginning to get over being so depressed," Ferrar said Sunday. "I think it is because of all the help."

Mrs. Schultz had said she wanted to die — to have God "close my eyes" — after she was arrested and jailed overnight for allegedly stealing $15 worth of ham, sausage and butter from a grocery. Media reports of her arrest resulted in contributions and sympathy from across the nation.

"She's received calls from all over the United States, even up to Canada," said Ferrar, who had helped the widow answer phone calls at her home.

She was hospitalized late Friday after she complained of severe stomach pain but officials refused to disclose her whereabouts, saying she was exhausted and needed a rest from all the recent publicity.

She was believed to be in fair condition Sunday at Baptist Memorial Hospital, but hospital spokesmen declined to release any information.

"She has some stomach problems and some heart problems," Ferrar said. "But I haven't talked to the doctor personally so I don't know if there is anything else."

Ferrar, who also refused to disclose the woman's location, said Sunday he hoped to visit Mrs. Schultz soon.

"I don't know if they will let me in to see her," he said. "They want her to get all the rest she can."

Mrs. Schultz was conned out of all but $10 of her $4,900 life savings in October 1978 and, although her income was limited strictly to Social Security and her husband's veterans benefits, she often refused welfare.

State officials said Mrs. Schultz refused an offer last fall to be boarded at a nursing home and had refused offers of aid in the past.

She was arrested and jailed last week, but an official of a grocery chain that owns the store where she was arrested has said he had recommended the shoplifting charges be dropped.

Hill Says 'Too Early' To Plan For '82 Race

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — John Hill says it's "too early" to plan his political course in 1982, but the former Texas attorney general who lost in an upset election last year to Gov. Bill Clements, has already begun to sound like a candidate in the next race.

"We have a governor who makes a lot of noise, but he doesn't seem too attentive about gettiing results," Hill told Texas Democratic party leaders who met here Saturday. "I can't tell if he's running for the presidency."

Hill compared his Republican opponent in last fall's election to "an old St. Bernard who makes a lot of noise" but can't hunt.

"If I ever had any doubt about why I'm a Democrat, Mr. Clements has eliminated that," Hill told the 62-member State Democratic Executive Committee. "We're keeping very careful books on Mr. Clements."

During its business session, the SDEC decided tentatively not to have a Democratic presidential primary in Texas next year, but said it could change its mind later.

Hill endorsed the strategy as a "good middle-of-the-road position," and committee members voted in favor of the measure by a two-thirds majority.

Chairman of the SDEC rules committee Carrin Patman of Ganado said it allows the party to call a primary if active opposition develops against President Carter.

"I call it a 'look-before-you-leap' standpoint," Mrs. Patman said. "It'll perhaps prevent us from being in the foolish-looking position of backing out if there is no race."

The SDEC members agreed that if a race develops, they will vote next spring to conduct a non-binding primary, which state party Chairman Billy Goldberg of Houston said would be as good as a binding vote.

Goldberg said he would "do all in my power to see that the results of that vote are followed in the delegate selection process."

Several SDEC members argued that failure to conduct a primary would force conservative party members into the Republican polling booths. Texas Republicans have already decided to conduct a presidential preference primary, and two Texans — John Connally and George Bush — are announced candidates.

The SDEC also adopted an affirmative action plan for 1980, to increase participation in party activities by ethnic minorities, the physically handicapped and other groups described as "traditionally under-represented."

Elizabeth Taylor Says Carter Wishy-Washy

DALLAS (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor liked Jimmy Carter before he became president, but the actress now thinks he is too "wishy-washy."

The Academy Award-winning actress and her husband, Sen. John Warner, R-Va, were in Dallas during the weekend to attend two fund-raising events that garnered more than $60,000 for the Republican Party.

Miss Taylor told a news conference that before Carter was elected, she liked him and believed he was sincere and enthusiastic.

But she says she now has a different opinion.

"He's just turned out two wishy-washy about things... he's not strong enough to be president," she said Saturday.

"I'm confident that he's a short-term president," she said.

The 47-year-old Miss Taylor also said she didn't mind being used to help raise funds for the GOP.

DIVERS TO EXPLORE SHIP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of divers supported by the Smithsonian Institution is starting Sunday a week-long attempt to raise the power plant of the Indiana, the earliest known Great Lakes steamship. The wreck, which could yield important information about pre-Civil War propulsion systems, lies in 118 feet of water in northeastern Lake Superior, near the Crisp Point lighthouse in Michigan.

Arkansas Senator Says Army Lax In Treating Sick Recruit

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., says he has concluded that the Army did not provide proper medical treatment for Pfc. Kenneth L. Mosier of Benton, Ark., who died March 15 at Fort Hood, Texas.

An Army autopsy concluded that Mosier, 18, died of a blood clot in the lungs that caused a cardiac arrest. He was first admitted to Darnall Hospital at Fort Hood on March 5 and released four days later. His illness was misdiagnosed as pneumonia, according to Bumpers.

However, Mosier later collapsed and was taken to Darnall's emergency room where he died. Bumpers said the symptoms about which Mosier complained on March 5 appeared to be those of one suffering from rheumatic fever.

The Arkansas senator criticized the Army on two other points concerning Mosier.

"In my opinion, the Army was dilatory to the point of negligence in not processing this boy and giving him a discharge," he said.

Secondly, Bumpers faulted the Army report on Mosier's death for "continually carping" about Mosier's alleged involvement in a stolen car incident "while completely ignoring whether he received proper medical attention, which in my opinion, he did not," he said.

The Army had admitted to violating Mosier's enlistment contract by not training him for the job for which he joined the service. That broken contract entitled Mosier to a discharge, which he had requested.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Wherever parents gather, the question comes up whether it is harder to raise children nowadays than it used to be.

The vote is a unanimous, "Yes!"

Everyone has their theories and I have mine. I think a lot of it hinges on the passing of laws that worked on us, but are frowned upon by modern-day parents.

For example, who among you over age 30 can ever forget the Hit-Now-Ask-Later Disciplinary Act used by your parents. It worked very simply. Whenever your mother "thought" you did something, she'd reach over and give you a swat. When it was proven you didn't do it, she reminded you of her bookkeeping system where that rap was for all the times she didn't see you when you did do something. For some reason, I always owed her. She never owed me.

I miss using the Search and Seizure Statute. I cannot, for a minute, imagine my mother standing outside of a closed door in respect for my privacy saying, "Do you have a dog in there?"

Yet, the other day when I was missing my tennis racket, I was not permitted to enter my kids' rooms until they were sure I was only looking for my racket. No one will ever convince me that they did not flush my racket down the commode.

Our children don't know how lucky they are to be protected by the You-Cannot-Be-Tried-Twice-for-the-Same-Crime Decision. I was tried at least 5,000 times for a lamp I broke while doing a cartwheel in the living room. To this day whenever I make an illegal left turn, or drop an egg on the floor, my mother will remind me of the lamp.

A lot of laws for raising children have gone by the boards in the past twenty years. Some of them should have gone. I always felt that soap in the mouth was never an effective cure for profanity, and switching legs with branches from a tree was not in the best interest of ecology.

But sometimes when I've listened to a child take three hours to tell about a movie that only lasted an hour and a half, I yearn for the days when you didn't "have a right to remain silent" ...you had a duty!

Clip 'n' Cook

LEMON CHICKEN ORIENTAL

1 clove garlic, minced
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
4 chicken legs with thighs, separated
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2½ cups chicken broth
1 cup rice
2 tbsps. lemon juice
1 small sweet red or green pepper, cut into julienne strips
1/3 cup sliced green onions with tops
1 tbsp. soy sauce
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen broccoli spears, partially thawed
¼ cup cold water

Saute garlic in butter in 10-inch skillet 2 to 3 minutes. Season chicken with 1 teaspoon of the salt and the pepper. Add chicken to skillet; brown on all sides over medium heat. Reduce heat; cover and cook until chicken is tender, about 25 minutes.

While chicken is cooking, bring chicken broth to a boil in medium saucepan. Add rice, 1 tablespoon of the lemon juice and remaining 1 teaspoon salt. Reduce heat; cover and simmer 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in red pepper and green onions; let stand covered until all liquid is absorbed, about 5 minutes.

When chicken is tender, remove and keep warm; pour off all but 1 tablespoon fat. Add soy sauce and the remaining 1 tablespoon lemon juice to drippings. Add chicken and broccoli to skillet. Cover and simmer 5 minutes.

Spoon rice onto serving platter; arrange chicken and broccoli on rice. Combine cornstarch and water; stir into pan drippings. Cook and stir until thickened. Pour sauce over chicken, broccoli and rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Your comments to "Comfy and Braless 38-D Cup" indicate that you have been brainwashed and duped by Madison Avenue.

Bra advertising, not breasts, created the need for bras. Females pay exorbitant prices because they have been conditioned to believe there is a certain "look" that must be achieved. This year the message is, "Lift, separate, cleavage is in."

I accept the fact that a nursing mother or a female athlete may need to be "harnessed" for comfort or protection, but with proper exercise normal breasts need no support. Sans-bra also presents a much more wholesome picture.

Shame on Ann Landers for telling her readers that bralessness is lewd. I say ignore those phony ads and "go natural." Sign me —Mind Of My Own In Indianapolis

Dear Mind: Several years ago, we had a similar donnybrook in this space, and a reader suggested a test to determine whether or not it was decent for a woman to go braless. She should place a pencil under her breast. If the pencil remained there, she needed to wear a bra. If it fell out, she could go without.

In my opinion, braless dames who go flopping and bouncing around look cheap — not wholesome. And the see-through numbers are — well, forget it, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I went to my doctor's office to be checked out for what he said was only a bad cold. Suddenly I realized a doctor's office could be a very dangerous place.

The nurse put me in an examining room and told me to remove my blouse. She gave me a paper vest for covering and left. I was alone for at least five minutes. During that time I could have helped myself to any number of hypodermic needles (ideal for shooting dope), not to mention an interesting variety of pills that could not be obtained without a prescription.

Please warn all doctors about this hazard, Ann. It's real. —Could Have But Didn't

Dear Could Have: Most doctors keep their needles and pills locked up in cases. Do your doctor a big favor and wise him up.

Dear Ann: I am 56 years old and look younger. My husband is 62 and looks older. After 37 years of marriage (five married children and nine beautiful grandchildren), he has decided he is sick of me. He left last year for three months (lived in a travel trailer somewhere). When he returned, I asked no questions and he offered no explanation. Now, he talks to his dog — doesn't even say "Good morning" to me.

We used to have a joint checking and savings account, but two weeks ago he put everything in his name. When I asked him why, he said, "Because I felt like it."

I have no companionship — forget about love. I feel like an unpaid housekeeper who never gets a decent word. I'm not an old woman and wonder if I'm a fool to stay married to this miserable man. (There has been no sex for about six years.) What is your advice? — Second Thoughts

Dear Second: Forgive me if I sound like a broken record, but ask yourself, "Would my life be better with him or without him?" Then make your decision based on what is best for YOU.

MARRIAGE-GO-ROUND

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — A team of women representing all European Common Market nations report that marriage is not sually better the second time around. "The strain and demands on new partners make second marriages less likely to succeed," said Francina Poggi, 38. "Husbands and wives who strayed in their first marriages generally stray even faster during later marriages. Suspicion and disillusion set in more quickly on both sides."

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQJ53 ♡AK4 ◇AK4 ♣93
What is your opening bid?
A.—Take a demerit if you opened two spades! Despite your 22 points, your hand contains five losers, so it's not quite good enough for a demand opening. Unless partner can respond to an opening bid of one spade, your chances of making game are slim.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A10643 ♡A7 ◇AQ94 ♣75
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?
A.—By jump shifting at your first turn, you have already announced interest in slam. Therefore, you need do nothing more at this turn than raise to four spades, confirming the trump suit. Any other bid not only repeats a tale you have already told, but risks the safety of the hand.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ3 ♡93 ◇A754 ♣KQ106
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—You might have opened the bidding. Now you are faced with a difficult problem. You cannot simply respond two of a minor suit, since that would not be forcing. Therefore, you have a choice of a jump shift (three clubs is preferable to three diamonds), which would create a force to three spades, or a jump raise to three spades. We think the jump raise to three spades has the edge, despite the fact that it is rather unorthodox to take that action with only three-card support.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠954 ♡Q72 ◇K1062 ♣KJ5
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?
A.—You have a reasonably good hand opposite a double. Had your four-card suit been a major, you should show it in the hope of locating a 4-4 fit. But since your only long suit is a minor, your best bet for game would appear to be three no trump. Therefore we would bid one no trump, which shows reasonable values in response to a takeout double.

Q.5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q5 ♡10643 ◇Q75 ♣10753
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—The one thing you cannot do is pass—that is permissible only with a trickless hand, but here your queen of spades is certainly a trick, while the queen of diamonds might be valuable. Opposite a partner who has announced a long spade suit, your trump support is adequate, so raise to four spades.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K7 ♡KQ976 ◇A92 ♣653
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 ◇	Pass
6 ♡	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—Do you have any faith in partner? He has shown almost the equivalent of a demand bid—and this despite the fact that his first-bid suit is not solid. Bid seven hearts: The king of spades is the decisive factor.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ4 ♡J ◇A98 ♣AK872
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Dble.	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	?

What do you bid now?
A.—If partner has a really terrible hand, he might have had to respond one spade on a three-card suit! Nevertheless, that possibility shouldn't deter you from making your normal bid. You want to be in game, so bid it. Don't raise to three spades. That is only invitational, and partner will never be able to judge what is needed to accept.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J3 ♡J10 ◇A965 ♣AQ642
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What action do you take?
A.—In light of partner's reverse, you should be close to slam. However, partner will have to make that decision. Since you have already shown a good hand with your first two bids, simply raising to four hearts now should be adequate.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: I found a growth under my left knee about six months ago. I don't know how long it had been there or how it started, but I'm concerned. It is about the size of half an egg cut lengthwise. Should it be removed or should I watch for further growth? — A.H.

I suspect a Baker's cyst, which does occur under the skin at the hollow of the knee (in back). The knee is a much-used and complicated structure. There are six bursa sacs there and any one of them can develop a cyst. A bursa sac is a small fluid-filled "cushion" that allows tendons and muscles to move easily without undue friction.

A Baker's cyst has nothing to do with bakers or with baking. It is named for the physician who first recognized and described the condition. The cyst begins with an abnormal contact between the bursa and the knee joint itself. Fluid accumulates and the lining inside the knee surrounds it. There can be pain if the cyst grows and extends into the calf area. The pain may be similar to that from a blood clot.

If it is a Baker's cyst, the best answer is surgical removal, for if the cyst ruptures the pain would be great.

Drainage of cysts has been tried, and cortisone has been injected to relieve pain and inflammation. If arthritis is part of the picture there may be need to remove the knee joint lining itself. For most the answer is some kind of surgery.

In answer to J.F., yes, children can have Baker's cyst. With children it often occurs in both knees at once and may stem from abnormal knee structure (in about half the cases). Injury is rarely a cause.

Dear Dr. Ruble: How many calories a day do I need just to exist? — M.R.

Depends on a lot of things — your height, frame, age, your sex (which I can't tell from your letter, incidentally), how active you are, and probably a few other factors that may not come immediately to mind.

A good starting point for a moderately active adult is to figure on a half a calorie an hour for each pound of body weight. For example, if a 150 pound person is not going to run into nutritional problems he should get about 1,800 calories a day. Some weight-height-calorie charts fail to consider that a person's needs decline with age. The older we get the less our energy needs become. If we don't take this into consideration and continue eating for energy needs of the past, weight will accumulate (too much calorie intake, too little energy output). This simple fact accounts for much of the so-called middle-aged spread.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: What does "sinus brodycardia" mean and is it a cause for concern? — Mrs. J.D.

It means an abnormally slow heart rate (below 60 a minute). The sinus refers to the heart's pacemaker. The two words together mean that the heart rhythm abnormality is caused by a defect in the pacemaker system of nerves. In athletes this situation is not of concern, and in fact may even indicate excellent health. In others, the cause for the pacemaking disturbance must be investigated.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: If you get a rash from taking Indocin, how can you get rid of it? — H.S.

Reaction to any drug, including Indocin (indomethacin), can be related to the size of the dose. Sensitivity varies with individuals. In any case, the rash disappears once the cause is taken away.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a healthy, middle-aged woman with one minor problem of late. The ends of my fingers crack. They get sore at first, then crack. What could this be — some nutrition deficiency? — Mrs. L.K.

The first thing to look for is some source of contact dermatitis, something your fingers contact regularly and which might be irritating the skin. The problem might be traced to detergent soaps. If you look hard enough you can often arrive at an explanation for such symptoms. Nutritional skin problems are not localized, as in the finger tips.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is there a cream to get rid of a scar on the face, some lotion to rub into it? — S.J.

No such substance. Plastic surgeons can remove unsightly scars.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "The fifth Cavendish invitation tournament is now history. Here is the one simple hand from it."

Alan: "Everyone got to four spades. Every declarer lost two clubs and a heart. Six declarers picked up the queen of diamonds and scored plus 620. Four went wrong and were minus 100. Peter and I were East and West and our opponent was one of the successful six. It gave him and his partner an IMP score of plus 48 and us the corresponding minus 48."

Oswald: "I see why you and Peter Weichsel were just out of the top ten this year. A bad result for the only two-time winners of this tough, really expert event."

Peter: "Yes, we were on the wrong side of too many winning game and slam contracts. Jim Jacoby, another former winner, and Swanson and Fox, who won last year, were also well back this time."

Oswald: "This year's winners were Kit Woolsey and Ed Manfield of Washington. One of the best young pairs in the world who really played well but, of course, had to have luck also."

Alan: "This hand is really simple. We just showed it to illustrate how this tournament is scored."

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

We have a note-happy sergeant who tapes notes on the plastic windows of our guard house.

We cannot remove the transparent tape with window cleaner, alcohol or nail polish remover. A razor blade will scratch the plastic.

What do you suggest? Thank you. — The Pinkerton Guards

Just what would we do without our "beloved" sergeants?

In this case, in order to remove any trace of his presence, try rubbing a little dry scouring powder over the tape residue.

If you're afraid it may be a little too abrasive, try baking soda first.

Hugs to you all, including "Sarge." — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a neat way to whiten those letters on a baseball cap.

Take a cotton swab and some white shoe polish. Very carefully go over the lettering and let it dry.

The cap will take on a whole new look. — Susan

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently I wanted to remove decals from the wall in the bathroom that had been on for about two years, but did not want to disturb the oil base paint, as it was like new.

I heated my iron, without water, and placed a damp washcloth over it. I held the iron over the decal for a few seconds.

I repeated this process, rewetting the cloth when necessary, until the decal loosened.

Using a plastic scraper, I gently scraped off the decal and immediately wiped the spot with the washcloth.

As a caution, be sure and have a safe place available, before you start, to place the iron while scraping the decal so as not to get burned.

Also, this old-style method of steaming eliminates the danger of dripping hot water from your iron.

It worked beautifully for me — not a mark on the wall. — Mrs. Marlene Laboskie

• • •

DEAR HELOISE:

I'm sure there may be others who like the "old-fashioned" style peanut butter, as I do, but getting the oil that comes to the top to mix in is messy.

An easy and clean way to do this, I've discovered, is to put one beater in your electric mixer and put it down into the jar.

Turn the mixer to the slow or medium speed and it mixes the oil in smoothly, quickly and cleanly. — Dickie

Smartie! What an easy way to solve a problem. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband has a stainless steel-type vacuum bottle in which he takes coffee to work.

I have always washed it in hot soapy water after each use. But after so many hours of holding coffee, I found that this was not enough.

The bottle was filthy as the inside had a brown coating. So this time I poured in a half cup of bleach and filled the vacuum bottle up to half full with water.

I covered it tightly and shook vigorously. I then added more water until full and let it soak.

After emptying the vacuum bottle, I rinsed it well, then looked inside it with a flashlight and it was so shiny clean you would have thought it was brand new. And that was a 3-year build-up.

Now that I'm wiser, I plan to clean it with this method more often. — Sandi

• • •

DEAR HELOISE:

Fabric softener sheets — the paper variety, not foam — have yet another use.

After about the third or fourth round in the dryer, fold them up and place them in the drawer with your dishcloths and towels.

They're real handy for messy cleanups in the kitchen. In the meantime, they keep your linens smelling nice. — Sturgis

Public Awareness Aids Fire Safety

By JO-ANNE BYRNE

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Some people buy smoke detectors but don't plan how to leave their homes in case of fire.

Others clean their motorcycles with gasoline in the basement.

Still others wear garments with fowing sleeves and ties while working near a stove.

Many such people get burned. Some die.

A federal agency grant to Minnesota Gov. Al Quie's Council on Fire Prevention and Control is helping develop a plan for public fire safety education to prevent such accidents. Similar U.S. Fire Administration grants were made to six states this year in an attempt to establish a national network for public fire safety information. The states are Arizona, Alaska, Pennsylvania, Montana and Washington.

The thrust of the program is to first help states develop their own resource exchange and then make the information available nationwide.

"Safety is hard to market," said Antona Richardson, director of the Fire Center at the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

"The public is apathetic. They don't know smoke is more likely to kill them than the flames of a fire. They don't know they should stop, drop and roll if their clothing catches fire. People know it with their heads, but when it happens, they panic. We're trying to teach them to 'learn not to burn.'"

Mrs. Richardson has been with the Fire Center, a research and information center, since its founding 10 years ago. The center works with local governments and private businesses on fire protection matters and produces training programs for fire education.

The federal grant will finance planning of a resource exchange system to make existing fire prevention programs available statewide.

"Injuries from fires tend to be long-term, devastating and expensive," Mrs. Richardson said, "and psychological damage tends to last."

One-and two-family dwellings, hotels, motels and resorts are considered the biggest problem areas. In Minnesota's one-family dwellings alone last year, fires caused 32 deaths, 169 injuries and $17,540,000 in losses.

In the past, Mrs. Richardson said, "We've used the shotgun approach, saying 'let's stop fires.' That's not very effective."

The U.S. Fire Administration has developed pilot projects and printed materials that can be followed by fire departments. They can be used to get people thinking about what they can do about their own organizations, she said.

Burial will be in Sterling City under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Roberson died at 3:30 a.m. Sunday in her home following a lengthy illness. She had been under a doctor's care.

The Sterling City native was a beautician. She had lived in Loop a year and a half.

Survivors include a daughter, Kay Tidwell of Loop; two sisters, Ruth McGhee of El Paso and Lee Williams of Phoenix, Ariz.; and a grandchild.

Dr., Mrs. Sitta

FARMINGTON, N.M. (Special) — Services for Dr. Raymond Earl Sitta, 61, and his wife Geraldine, 62, both of Farmington, will be at 2 p.m. (MDT) Tuesday in the Tabernacle Baptist Church in Farmington, with the Rev. Cecil Wagner officiating.

Masonic graveside services for Sitta and graveside services for Mrs. Sitta will be in Memory Gardens Cemetery in Farmington. Burial will be under the direction of Brewer Funeral Home.

The two died July 26 following the crash of their private plane near Monterrey, Calif.

Sitta was a native of Roseburg and a former New Mexico state senator, rancher and oil producer. He was state chairman of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Mrs. Sitta was a native of Littlefield, Tex., and was a teacher in the Bloomfield, N.M., public schools.

The two were married in 1964 in Durango, Colo.

Survivors include two sons, Donald of Farmington and Raymond of Vernal, Utah; two daughters, Becky Donald of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Judy Kennedy of Gillette, Wyo.; a stepdaughter, Shronda Shannon of Farmington; four grandchildren; and a step-grandchild.

The family suggests memorials to the San Juan Detoxification Center in Farmington.

Flora Tarter

SNYDER (Special) — Services for Flora Tarter, 92, of Snyder will be at 10 a.m. today in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel, with the Rev. David Robertson, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Snyder, officiating and the Rev. Ken Andress, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Snyder, assisting.

Burial will be in Fluvanna Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home of Snyder.

Mrs. Tarter died at 8:25 p.m. Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

The Bonham native had been a Scurry County resident since 1924. She married Charlie Edward Tarter Oct. 3, 1903, in Bonham. He died in 1970.

Mrs. Tarter was a member of the First Methodist Church.

Survivors include three daughters, Lucille McQuire of Mineral Wells, Charlene Dyess of Snyder and Ruth Galuccia of Bronx, N.Y.; four sons, Cleo of Abilene, Carl of Snyder, Marion of San Angelo and Joe of El Paso; 18 grandchildren; 31 great-grandchildren; and seven great-great-grandchildren.

Jesus Uballe

LEVELLAND (Special) — Services for Jesus Telles Uballe, 58, of Levelland will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Levelland Spanish Assembly of God Church, with the Rev. Benito Gonzalez officiating.

Burial will be in the City of Levelland Cemetery under the direction of Smith Funeral Home.

Uballe died at 5:30 p.m. Saturday in Cook Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

He had lived in Levelland for 19 years and was a retired farmer and construction worker.

Survivors include his wife, Maria; a son, Jesus Jr. of Odessa; three sisters, Angelita Yearra of Arizona, Sandy Uballe of San Antonio and Lupe Uballe of Chicago, Ill.; four brothers, Benny of Corpus Christi, Felix of Levelland, Johnny of Odessa and Pete of Prior; and a grandchild.

Grace Wright

PAMPA (Special) — Services for Grace Clingan Wright, 84, of Pampa are pending with George Price Funeral Home of Levelland.

Mrs. Wright died Sunday in a Pampa hospital following a lengthy illness.

A Bells native, she was a former county clerk for Hockley County. She moved to Pampa in 1967.

Survivors include a son, Harold of Fort Stockton; a daughter, Mrs. Earl Champion of Pampa; three sisters, Hattie Thompson, Lela Thompson and Mrs. Irvin Jamison, all of Sherman; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

City Woman Charged With Hitting Officer

A 17-year-old Lubbock woman was out of jail on bond late Sunday after she was arrested for public intoxication and assaulting a police officer during an incident about 3:50 a.m. Sunday in the 2900-block of East Bates Street.

Officers said they were called to the residence to investigate a possible "man with a gun" report and were questioning several persons in the front yard. Reports show that the woman walked up to officer Larry R. Downey and struck him in the jaw with her fist. The woman was taken to county jail.

Police recovered a handgun in the driveway of the residence.

In other activity, an 18-year-old Lubbock man and a 17-year-old Lubbock woman were booked into county jail after an incident about 1:33 a.m. Sunday in the 600-block of North Loop 289.

Reports indicate that police stopped a car with several alleged equipment violations and began questioning the driver, who they said had a strong odor of paint thinner. Police said the other three persons in the car also apppeared to be intoxicated. When police ordered the driver into their squad car, he reportedly ran, and the other three suspects jumped out of the car and also fled from police.

When an officer caught the 18-year-old man, the suspect struck the officer in the chest and shoulders, reports show. Another officer grabbed and restrained the 17-year-old woman, who reportedly was cursing at the officer arresting the young man.

Police confiscated a one quart can of paint thinner and a towel from the car.

The other two suspects, a Mexican-American male and a Mexican-American female, about 18 to 25, were not apprehended by police, reports show.

A 22-year-old Lubbock man was out on bond late Sunday after he was jailed for being loud and profane and resisting arrest outside of Uncle Nasty's about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Wade Hamilton Woodcook, night manager for the club, told officer he had given the suspect his $85 watch to see the time. However, Woodcook said, the man went to make a phone call and told him that someone else had the watch.

When officers questioned the suspect about the watch, reports show, the man began cursing at the victim and shoved the officer who was attempting to arrest him. The suspect was handcuffed and taken to county jail.

A 21-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was sexually molested in an alley in front of an apartment complex in the 4100-block of 17th Street about 10:15 p.m. Saturday.

The woman said she was opening the trunk of her car when a man grabbed her from behind, wrestled her to the ground and sexually molested her. The victim said she struggled free and began screaming and kicked the suspect, who fled west down the alley.

She described the suspect as Mexican-American, 18-25, short and of medium build and wearing a white shirt and dark blue pants.

A 28-year-old Lubbock housewife said another woman pointed a knife at her and robbed of her $30 cash in the 1700-block of Cornell Street.

Marilyn Peacock of 5701 63rd St. said she and the suspect had been riding around during most of the day and that the suspect asked for a ride home. The victim said that when she got to the woman's house, the suspect pulled out a knife and demanded all her money.

The victim said the suspect was white, 18 to 25, of medium height and build and with black hair. She was wearing a red tube top and blue jeans.

Kelly Diane Kennerly of 1509 41st St. reported that she is missing $1,395 of property, including a ring, silverware and radio, after a break-in sometime between 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 12:07 a.m. Sunday.

Clovis Youth Killed In Vehicle Mishap

A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS, N.M. — A 15-year-old Clovis boy was dead on arrival at Clovis High Plains Hospital early Sunday after the moped he was riding collided with a pickup.

Todd L. Gentry was killed as he attempted to make a left turn at Tierra Blanca and Prince streets. Dr. John Perry, who pronounced the youth dead, said he died of massive head injuries.

The 15-year-old driver of the pickup was admitted to Cannon Air Force Base Hospital near Clovis for observation. He reportedly was suffering from shock.

Services for Gentry are pending with Steed-Todd Funeral Home of Clovis.

USOC Officials Seek Training Site

MOSCOW (AP) — Officials from the U.S. track and field team will visit several European cities next week to explore the possibility of setting up a training camp prior to the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow.

The group will leave Moscow Monday after track and field events end in the Spartacade Games, said Richard Harkens, chief of the U.S. Spartacade delegation. They will visit Finland, Norway and West Germany.

Harkens said some other officials from American teams, such as swimming, may also explore the idea.

The plan would be to fly the athletes to Moscow and house them in the Olympic Village a few days before they are to compete.

The U.S. Olympic Committee would have to approve the training camp plan, Harkens said.

USOC officials, at the National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs, Colo., were not immediately available in the United States.

Harkens said Amateur Athletic Union officials came up with the idea not because they did not like Moscow facilities but because there would be fewer distractions in a training camp and American coaches and athletes could set their own training schedule.

He said the camp idea was still in the exploratory stage and pointed out that it would be a costly undertaking.

TRUCK STRIKES GIRL

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 9-year-old girl playing in the water rushing from a fire hydrant was killed when she was swept under the wheels of a truck, police said. About 20 children were seeking relief from Thursday's heat in the flow from the hydrant.

VANS AT 'WAY BELOW INVOICE' — Hufstedler GMC has 'pulled out all stops' in a history-making one-week sale of vans. Check the accompanying story for details. Van advantages, aside from the lowered costs, include operational economy, convenience for family and friends, and special energy savings (with each passenger in commuter driving representing one less car to congest rush-hour traffic, one less parking space to be occupied, and one less vehicle to add pollution. Note the pictured hint of commuter van pooling capabilities — share the ride to spare the cost.

Hufstedler GMC Tells One-Week '$300 Below Invoice On Vans'

"We doubt if you've ever heard before of such a sale!"

It is the week-long event underway at Hufstedler GMC Truck Co., 1802 Erskine Road in Lubbock.

During this week only, all vans at Hufstedler are marked at a full $300 below invoice!

Can you imagine!

For the first time in over 40 years, Hufstedler GMC Truck Co. is able to announce such an opportunity, presently enabled due to factory participation.

More than 20 van units are in stock, enabling selection of color, type, motor and accessories to one's exact preferences in many instances.

And think of the pleasure and the comfort and economy advantages of owning a GMC van.

GMC vans can boast of "more people per mile per gallon" and prove it!

(It pays to check the Hufstedler GMC ads regularly in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal for specific prices and models; it is part of the firm's policy to keep the public informed, a conscientious way of doing business, of informing the public that it appreciates. At Hufstedler's, the customer comes first.

Check the advisability (that includes operation economy) of owning a GMC truck, too. (The GMC truck with an inline six engine has a better EPA estimated mileage rating than 25 foreign cars and four trucks specifically advertised in GMC advertising. Check it out!)

Find out the money-saving truth during this week's big sale at Hufstedler GMC Truck Co., 1802 Erskine in Lubbock. You'll thank Hufstedler for miles to come!

Economy Documented

Back to the economy involved in GMC van units, a most important consideration with talk on every hand about rising prices, shortages, etc.:

Based on average-family mileage of 15,000 miles per year, latest government EPA ratings point out less than $1 per day difference in cost to operate a GMC van than a popular foreign import.

Also, the GMC van, with a 33-gallon tank, gives an average highway travel distance of 462 miles, while the 12-gallon tank of the referred-to import is computed as having a 240 mile range!

Two GMC vans recently arriving here in Lubbock from Lake Geneva, Wisc., each with 350 cu. in. motors, averaged 14 miles per gallon during that long trip.

Furthermore, six can easily ride with comfort in the GMC vans; there are four captain chairs in each for maximum comfort.

"Doesn't your family rate the consideration and the pleasure afforded by a van unit from Hufstedler, the truck 'people movers'?"

Properly equipped, the Rally unit, for example, can take along the kids, grandma and grandpa, their friends and the family pet! All kinds of cargo . . . luggage, bulky parcels, sports gear, boats and motors, bicycles, motorcycles, skis, etc. can be transported. And these Rally units can tow campers, house trailers, boat trailers, horse trailers, small trailers and huge trailers! The ruggged GMC units are built for the way Americans drive and deserve to be served . . . at a cost that is most attractive.

Current Price Advantages, Enlarged Stock Revealed By Christmas Shoppe

For events at hand, for Christmas planning, and for selection from pretty things to be appreciated for one's own possession, The Christmas Shoppe in Cactus Alley is in an enviable class by itself!

(Early this year Jan's Holiday Corner was added within the shop to make for further benefit to customers throughout the year. Response has been most gratifying, with customers discovering the attention to each holiday of the year, all with the expertise traditional at The Christmas Shoppe.)

Attention is called to some present situations at The Christmas Shoppe and Jan's Holiday Corner:

Anri Price Advantage

A very, very good selection of Anri wood carvings, from Schmid Bros., is available, and the price increase on these as of July 1 will be held off until Aug. 5 for those who buy or place these in layaway now! A definite saving is thus afforded.

Christmas card albums are in, and within one group one can get name and address printed free by ordering early!

Bucilla kits again are provided, and the popularity of the beautiful stockings, mail bags, advent calendars, ornaments, hooked rugs and wall hangings available in felt, needlepoint and yarn kits continues year-around.

Personalized Items

Select, too, from ceramic personalized ornaments that actually "are much better than last year." The apt suggestion is to come in and order early on these.

Be sure and see the new handmade wooden (cherry, walnut and mesquite) music boxes using the finest Thomas movements from Switzerland, in limited-edition signed pieces. Each edition is limited to 100 pieces. Of course, many different kinds and sizes of music boxes always are on hand at The Christmas Shoppe.

Jan has just returned from market and is justifiably pleased with the variety of purchases that will begin arriving in August.

Collector Pieces

New brochures on the limited-edition collector ornaments are on hand.

(Do let us know which series you are collecting so that we may call upon arrival.)

"New materials are in the store for your wreaths and centerpieces. Make an appointment with Jan now for your personal designs, sizes, etc., to be done while color selection is widest."

Also on hand at this time are those delightful Norman Rockwell greeting cards.

"Wouldn't now be a great time ot utilize the advantages of The Christmas Shoppe that is stocked even more beautifully and completely than ever before, thanks to customer appreciation of such a shop in this area?"

Remember, the shop now occupies both upstairs and downstairs quarters at the east entry of Cactus Alley, just south off the Brownfield Highway at 2610 Salem Avenue in Lubbock.

The Christmas Shoppe is something special!

Young's, For Rocks And Gems

A lot of folks have recognized for years that Young's Rocks & Gems makes it a habit of "being a step ahead, always with the best, always with the unique and the beautiful."

Yes, the selection continually maintained at Young's is so extensive that gifts for any family member or friend, regardless of age, can be readily found there just as can be found additions to one's own collection or hobby.

Actually every budget can be served, and everything in its field is provided at Young's, located west across I-27 from the south boundary of the Lubbock Regional Airport.

'Manmade Diamonds'

An example of the "up to date" stock traditional at Young's is its superb selection of Cubic Zirconia (manmade diamonds). Available in colors and clears, rounds and fancy cuts, loose stones (with mounting available) have long been stocked at Youngs, and are priced most competetively and at a fraction of the cost of diamonds. With an 8.5 hardness factor and with amazing retention of refraction, the Cubic Zirconia is more than a simulated diamond . . . it is the new breed of gemstone, dazzling in appearance and unmatched for color, cut and clarity.

DOWNTOWN SOUTHERN SEA MAKES NEWS IN FOOD SERVICES, CONVENIENCE

Expanded Menu, Sensible Price Among Southern Sea Advantages

With finest food at reasonable prices a foremost consideration at Southern Sea, the history of this Lubbock firm has been marked by successes, expansion and added customer services.

Now comes another key announcement from the newest and largest of the Southern Sea facilities, downtown at 10th & Q:

The menu is being expanded to give greater variety, but still with every item's quality and goodness assured.

In addition to the traditional and acclaimed menu, check these features:

(1) Chicken fried steak, the best imaginable;

(2) "Steak for Two," a Tuesday night special at just $5.50! This includes slaw, french fries, gravy, puffs and tea or coffee, the latter two not included in regular pricing. All this is at reduced prices as a feature on Tuesday nights, remember.

(3) "Seafeast," an every day feature, a combination platter with southern style and fish 'n' fry, with both kinds of fish, oysters, shrimp, slaw and two puffs.

(4) Seafood salad, a combination of seafood and fresh salad, vegetables blended with a special sauce served with relish items and sesame wafers. Um-m, how good!

(5) "Family Special" for all day each Sunday, with reduced prices on the Mess o' Fish, Minnow Bucket and Tub of Fish. The downtown Southern Sea, open since late January and already enjoying a wide and favorable reputation, is open every day, on Fridays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m., and on other days from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m.

Catering

Catering is another very vital department and service of Southern Sea. Whatever the occasion, Southern Sea catering can make it "something special." Simply call Danny Waller, catering manager, at 799-2099, for details of this area-wide service.

Take-Out Convenience

"Take-out service is another appreciated consideration at Southern Sea. One is invited to call from office or home, and the order will be ready when desired. This works great for those with a limited-time lunch hour.

Three In City

There are three Southern Sea locations in Lubbock, with others in Amarillo and San Angelo.

Lubbock locations are the 10th & Q downtown Southern Sea, the South Loop 289-Indiana Avenue facility, and another in Security Park.

Lubbock-Owned

Southern Sea was established in mid-1976 at the well-known and still-operating South Indiana Avenue location.

A carefully planned and executed customer-consideration program initiated by owners Robert and Priscilla Sims has enabled the expansions that have followed, all built upon service to the eating public, with great food at prices to be appreciated. A franchise program also has been initiated.

"We thank you for letting us develop our plans with the support of your patronage and friendshihp. Thank you for your interest in our every phase of operation, for your appreciation of our added services. We think you'll like our expanded menu features downtown, too.

"Let's eat good, conveniently and economically . . . at Southern Sea!"

Smallwood's Product Versatility Spells Values In Multiple Home Needs

"Did you realize that Smallwood's is a great place to purchase a microwave oven? Or a Filter Queen? Or parts and bags for most vacuum cleaners? Or for steam cleaner rental? Even sale of home entertainment systems, televisions, and burl clocks! And sewing machines!"

Smallwood's, the 3019 34th St. store that is widely known for its Filter Queen home sanitation systems, other complete lines of vacuum cleaners, giant-screen TV's, home entertainment systems, and more, has added microwave ovens as its newest line.

Yes, one now can secure those microwave ovens by Toshiba, right here in Lubbock at Smallwood's.

The Toshiba microwave ovens in stock start at only $299!

Furthermore, free sets (5 pieces) of cookware are given upon purchase of some models, together with a big free cookbook.

Get full details now; see the Toshiba microwave ovens at Smallwood's.

Sewing Machines

Some may conceivably not realize that Smallwood's also stocks a complete line of zig zag sewing machines, in both portable and beautiful cabinet models.

And the spectacular giant-screen Muntz television is stocked. Imagine . . . larger-than-lifesize home theatre! Brightness, razor sharp detail in foreground and background and magnificent color creates the impression that you are right there, in the middle of the action!

All models are compatible with video tape recorders or video games.

Steam Cleaner Rental

Steam cleaner rentals is a popular and vital service of Smallwood's, too.

More about the Filter Queen, one of the several lines presented at most competitive prices at Smallwood's:

The Filter Queen "traps dust as no 'vacuum cleaner' can! There are no bags, no mess; it is the ultimate in home sanitation systems with cyclonic pressure action that prevents dirt and dust from re-entering the room. Filter Queen is easy to handle and comes with a complete set of attachments.

In short:

"Any 'vacuum' cleaner cleans rugs, furniture and drapes; only Filter Queen cleans the air, too!"

Efficiency Explained

Filter Queen maintains peak efficiency at all times because outgoing air never has to push its way through accumulated dirt or a clogged bag. Filter Queen digs dirt, flushes it out completely with a powerful cyclone of air.

"Highly efficient Filter Queen attachments give one extra help all the way. For instance, the exclusive Wonder Rug Nozzle lets you clean under chairs and sofas without having to lift heavy furniture from one spot to another. Even your thickest pile rugs and hard-to-clean upholstered furniture keep spic and span with the help of Filter Queen."

Multiple Uses

Filter Queen takes the hard work out of such chores as cleaning venetian blinds and keeping hard floors glistening bright. And one can do dozens of jobs with Filter Queen . . . everything from cleaning, waxing and polishing . . . to de-mothing, paint spraying, even to drying your hair!

Small wonder the Filter Queen home sanitation system has been termed one of the most important developments in home sanitation in 50 years.

Other Products, Services

Smallwood's also carries several complete lines of vacuum cleaners, together with parts and bags for most brands.

"You'll like Smallwood's way of doing business; you'll appreciate the values and the personal attention assured by owners Eugene and Evelyn Kerr and staff at this firm that has served for over two decades in Lubbock.

SMALLWOOD'S COMES THROUGH — The wide range of products available at Smallwood's is hinted here by visible microwave ovens now being featured, the cookware (at right) included as a free introductory offer with some models; the television sets in the background, and a unique burl clock at left front. Home sanitation systems sales and steam cleaner rentals long have led in reasons for the firm's wide acceptance.

FIREPLACE CORRECTLY HINTS OF QUALITY — Imagine . . . beautiful appointments throughout and spacious 1,680 sq.ft. of floorspace in the popular Model 608 double-wide A-1 Mobile Home Unit! Myra Matthews, sales staffmember at A-1, is pictured here and is happy to relate the unit's features including two baths, three bedrooms, bar, dining room, full carpeting, option of furnished or unfurnished, etc. On special orders, carpeting can be selected to match the preferred decor. Though the pictured unit is totally electric, it also is available with gas.

A-1 Mobile Homes Explains Concept Earning Record As 'People Pleasers'

For quality in new and used mobile homes, in the Lubbock area it is A-1 Mobile Homes, North University at Loop 289.

"After all, folks have found that 'The People Pleasers' is more than a motto alone at A-1 Mobile Homes; it is the firm's whole way of doing business!"

With volume as the key to A-1's success and cost savings to the customer, the Texas corporation is the largest volume dealer in its field in all the state (with 10 locations including Lubbock and the Midland home office).

No Newcomer

Serving since 1969, A-1 has been in Lubbock some five years, with longtime Lubbock resident Gary Henkel as general manager here.

A-1 has a tremendous stock of mobile homes.

Has Own Crews

The firm maintains its own service crew.

There is an A-1 Mobile Home of the size and price to meet any need. About 30 units are on the lot here at all times, with others available on quick notice. Single and double-wide units are stocked, with up to 1,876 sq. feet space.

All are fully furnished and draped.

And 12 and 15-year financing is available! FHA, VA and conventional loans are mong purchase options.

Free delivery set-up and anchoring of purchased mobile homes within a 150 mile radius of Lubbock is afforded!

Four servicemen and three sales persons are on the job to assist the shopper and purchaser.

A-1 is open six days a week and other times by appointment. Regular hours are 8 a.m. until 8:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays; with an earlier 7 p.m. closing on Saturday.

A-1 carries various lines of mobile homes, and sells Texas' largest manufactured mobile homes.

With its large operation and its history of quality and customer-considering innovations, A-1 takes pride in "offering more for the dollar."

"May we explain in detail our products and services, proving that we are the people who care? We look forward to your visit and will do all possible to assist in your own mobile home preference and need."

This means, that for an entire month, beginning Wednesday, the following are among the savings at 5-Point:

Frostings and bleaches, regular $28.50 are marked at $22.50;

Bleach touch-ups, regular $23.50, are just $19.50;

And haircuts, regular $7, are specially priced at $5!

Phone 795-4151

Don't delay . . . call 795-4151 now for appointment, whatever the beauty service desired.

Whether pedicures, facials, manicures, razor eyebrow shaping or even for the famous Redken products, including makeup, a trip to 5-Point Beauty Salon surely is in order. It is a friendly place, and the invitation is out to come on in, enjoy a cup of coffee and receive expert beauty services from folks whom likely already are your friends!

Gift certificates are available throughout the year, and for so many occasions are a most practical and appreciated remembrance.

Staffed to Serve

Established for almost 20 years, the shop in southwest Lubbock has gained an enviable following during this time. Loveta Pritchard and Frances Sylvester have been staffmembers for more than a dozen of these years.

Faye Butler, a 12-year Lubbock resident, has been owner since April of 1978, and customer comments have been most favorable. (The spacious shop has been redecorated as one of the customer considerations.)

All operators at the 5-Point Beauty Salon are Jessie Lee graduates, and include Vicki Wheeler, Loveta Pritchard, Judy McKnight and Francis Sylvester.

Ella Wese Bell is shampoo technician.

All beauty services are afforded, it is emphasized, including haircuts for both men and women.

The salon is open Mondays through Saturdays, and early and late appointments can be arranged.

Call 795-4151 for appointment.

For traditional expert beauty services, including the August Specials, acquaintance and early patronage is heartily encouraged at the 5-Point Beauty Salon, 5103 34th St. in Lubbock.

Maxine's Accent Sidewalk Sale Affording Exceptional Values

Maxine's Accent's Summer Sidewalk Sale is now in progress!

This event at Maxine's Accent in its beautiful quarters in Briercroft Center, 50th Street and Avenue Q, is anxiously awaited each summer because the selection of fine merchandise is very extensive . . . and the spacious air conditioned mall makes for exceptional shopping pleasure unique to the Maxine's Sidewalk Sale.

During this Sidewalk Sale, groups of spring and summer dresses and sportswear (both juniors and misses) are reduced in price by 50 per cent to 70 per cent!

One also can find exceptional values in long dresses, terry cloth shorts, pants, skirts, tops, swim suits and cover-ups; lingerie, jewelry and bags!

Fall Items, Too

Also included in the Sidewalk Sale is a tremendous selection of early fall merchandise! Imagine . . . back-to-school selections such as Lady Wrangler jeans and sportswear, corduroy groups and many other selections, all at 50 per cent to 70 per cent off!

Visa and Master Charge are honored on sale items just as throughout the store.

Staffed To Serve

An important facet of the store's success and wide popularity is the qualified staff that includes Maxine; her daughter, Sharon, who is assistant manager; Maxine's mother, Mary McCollum; Lue Ree McGee, Kay Shook and occasional part-time staff members Poppy Burnette and Kaye McGee.

Lines To Appreciate

Lines by major manufacturers are included in the present sale, such as Collegian, Intuitions, College-Town, Body English, Lady Wrangler, Strawberry Plant, Dalani, Frank Lee, Corinth Street, Glen of Michigan, Breckenridge, Melissa Lane, Halston and others.

It also is pointed out that a tremendous coat selection is now in stock at Maxine's, and layaway for fall and school is invited. (There is lot of back-to-school merchandise already in.)

Fur Showing Looms

At this time it is announced that one should watch for the late-summer fur showing at Maxine's . . . a unique and most beneficial event conducted with the cooperation of Pam Mahoney for A.H. Schechner & Son, fine furriers of Dallas and New York.

Maxine's Accent is noted, too, for its capable assistance in selecting wardrobes for pageant contestants. Maxine serves as fashion co-ordinator for Miss Lubbock each year and has just finished assisting with the wardrobe of Miss Alice Kindle, Miss Lubbock of 1979, who was second runner-up in the Miss Texas Pageant earlier this month.

We'll eagerly look forward to your visits at Maxine's Accent, during the present sale or at any time, with a friendly staff and with every service and merchandise item geared to today's fashion needs.

Business & Industrial Review

PKM Jewel Salon's Expanded Stock, Associates Announced

From a firm that already seems to have "provided it all," newsorthy announcements might not continually be expected.

But this is not the situation at the one-of-its-kind PKM Jewel Salon, 4509 50th St.

PKM owner and founder, Ron Morgan, reveals that added personnel, services and merchandise are now at PKM.

Associates now include Dottie Saeger, Karen Lee Boggs, Donna Golightly, Henry Gibson and Morgan.

Dottie Saeger, one of the few area graduate gemologists from Gemological Institute of America, brings her expertise to the organization, even affording a gem cutting service (with exception of diamonds). Appraisals and sale of antique jewelry items also come within Dottie's province. She is especially appreciated and known for gem identification and quality analysis reports and appraisals.

Karen Lee Boggs, interior designer, is in charge of the delightfully expanded design studio where "wonderful things" for home and office design are provided. Appointments are welcomed by Karen for design planning and services, with a really distinctive stock of items provided . . . items selected in discriminating and knowledgeable manner for a selective public. Karen is well known in Lubbock and area for her design expertise.

Custom design work by Henry Gibson, custom jeweler at PKM, is highly acclaimed. All custom jewelry work is done right in the store, it is emphasized. Henry has just returned from a GIA design school in Santa Monica (Calif.).

Donna Golightly's assistance to customers at PKM is one of the "plusses" for the firm, more than a few can attest. She is genuinely interested in customer needs and preferences, appreciating opportunity of serving.

Stock Expanded

Morgan and Karen each have just returned from markets where fabulous additions to the PKM stock have been purchased.

It is not too early to plan for this year's Christmas gift situations, and visits to PKM are especially invited at this time, as the capable associates and dedicated owners know that they can greatly assist in the "right" selections. So . . . why settle for less than such consideration; why settle for less than PKM?

PKM is thoroughly worthy of its name as a Jewel Salon! Gifts suitable for the man receive full attention, as for others of the family, for the home, and for special friends. Re-designing of family heirlooms is a specialty. And there is lots of work, too, with gold fashion jewelry, new stock items and custom creations.

Special showings are arranged throughout the year, and one is invited to inquire for full details and dates of such showings as rubies and sapphires from Burma and Australia, custom-mountings, custom-designed jewelry by masters of the art (known world-wide), and more.

Even without all this, decor alone could well be reason for a visit to PKM, but add to this the stunning arrangements and selections of diamond and gold jewelry, rare jewels, precious stones, loose diamonds; the genuine welcome by Ron, Karen, Dottie, Donna and Henry . . . and PKM is recognized as a store upon which to rely . . . in any season.

Durability, Beauty, Cost Seen Among Arcadia Man-Made Stone Advantages

"Most likely you have observed and admired the use of Arcadia Stone in homes, businesses, yards or institutions in your neighborhood or community, wherever you live within the area.

"We at Arcadia Stone Manufacturing Co., 1922 Ave. E, phone 744-6640, Lubbock, invite your visits, inquiries and inspection. We would consider it a privilege to give a free estimate in your own situation."

"Individuals and contractors alike, throughout the region, have voiced enthusiasm for Arcadia Stone. This is no surprise, for after all, can you imagine a lightweight and durable man-made stone at a fraction of the cost of some other materials, and available in seven decorator colors?"

Full details of the product and services are available at Arcadia Stone Manufacturing Co., home-owned and home-operated by Jim Haynes who has constructed beautiful homes throughout the area, together with construction of fireplaces utilizing Arcadia Stone.

Arcadia stone has been used for exceptional beauty and warmth in numerous area situations . . . commercial and residential. It can be used wherever stone or masonry veneer is desired. It can be used to veneer complete homes or to enhance the quality of one's present residence.

Arcadia Stone is an enduring investment, whether for attractive fireplaces, for beautiful wall and floor tiles, for stepping stones, even the very popular exterior use on metal buildings. (Or interior walls for offices, as another practical and functionally-beautiful usage.)

Arcadia Stone is ideal for other interior ornamental work such as walls, arches, columns and planters; it affords the attractive way to add a distinctive new look to the home's interior.

The Lubbock firm has its own installation crews, or one can purchase the stone for "do-it-yourself" projects.

Adds Special Accent

Adaptable for either inside or exterior use, Arcadia Stone is flexible; it can be used on any sound surface including metal, wood, block and even sheetrock. It can add architectural beauty to shopping centers, commercial and professional buildings.

Maybe it is an entryway, a bath or a kitchen . . . or exterior landscaping and fences . . . whatever the situation, Arcadia Stone is an attractive accent.

Business & Industrial Review

OPPORTUNITY CONTINUES — Maxey Home Improvement Center has marked a vast paint stock at 50 per cent off. Judy Lindsey of that firm calls attention here to the TCI paint, stains, enamels, masonry, and inside or exterior paints included in the super-value pricing. Selection is diminishing as the sale continues, so early purchases are advised.

Some Items Still Available In Maxey Improvement Center Paint Markdown

"We've had tremendous response to our fantastic paint sale, but there still is opportunity for you to take advantage of the unusual situation:

"Maxey Home Improvement Center, at 120 N. University Ave, is closing out all its paint stock of the famous TCI paints at a full 50 per cent price slash!"

Yes, all exterior and interior paints, enamels and Drama stains are marked at one-half off in this special offer.

Much of the TCI paint stock has been sold since this announcement, but there is still paint available; if one is fortunate enough to find the type desired, the rare opportunity is afforded to purchase at half price. But hurry; stocks are diminishing.

Select from oil base and latex paint, masonry paint, Drama multi-purpose enamel, and more.

Not only is there a drastic price markdown on paints at the Maxey Home Improvement Center, but other values can make a visit there at this time of particular advantage.

"Whether the need is paint, a storm door or window (for which Maxey is famous), or the latest model of the Genie family of automatic garage door openers, Maxey comes through to your advantage."

Thirteen models of storm doors are on display, including gold finished frame and facing strip, also in bronze and white; and featuring safety glass, heavy extruded corners assuring no sag and no warp and black colonial pushbutton latch with pneumatic closer with all screws.

The surprisingly low pricing of the automatic garage door openers add to their appeal as a consideration to the family, wouldn't you agree?

Genie openers are simple to install, if one cares to do-it-yourself, with easy-to-follow directions enabling the handyman to install even the new GS-600R with a few simple tools likely already around the home.

Error-Free Operation

These doors feature the Sequensor computer-controlled brain, with exclusive custom-control of door operation designed for Genie. The solid-state computer with unique micro decision maker programs all functions of safety, door sequence, security and light control requirements for error-free operation.

"Imagine . . . just touch the button on your portable transmitter. Genie opens the door, turns on the light and lets you drive right in! An exclusive new light option switch allows you to choose whether the light stays on for two minutes 16 seconds and then automatically turns off after the door is opened or closed; or remains on as long as the door is open."

The utilized Sequensor (the computer-controlled brain) is smaller than a snowflake, yet it can control 22 operating functions with error-free precision, all with 1/3 less power consumption, as another Genie advantage.

Let us give you the entire story . . . at Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University in Lubbock.

Look at some of the other Maxey features:

"Have you discovered the beauty and utility of Amerock decorative hardware?

"And have you realized that Maxey Home Improvement Center includes a huge Amerock display and stock among its many products for the home?"

For fine decorative hardware, whether the item is an entry lock, towel bars, switch plates, and more, the Amerock collection at Maxey Home Improvement Center, 120 N. University Ave., phone 765-7736, is most impressive.

Not only is there a wide variety at the Maxey firm, but prices are kept in line throughout the stock, with specials arranged whenever possible to further assist.

There are very good buys on water heaters, bathtubs, marble top vanities, faucets, light fixtures, paint, etc.

And some may not realize that the Maxey Home Improvement Center stocks a good assortment of hand tools, both in sets and individual pieces, for auto repair.

Emphasis On Convenience, Grooming Expertise Noted At CC's Pet Salon

CC's Pet Salon, at 4405 50th St., has a lot going for it!

Such as every operation designed "for your convenience".

And the capabilities of all-breed pet grooming specialists.

Plus personal interest in every pet entrusted to grooming there.

(Another thing . . . owners are invited to remain with their pets in the afternoons, when desired, while they are being groomed. Owners with "dogs that are a little difficult" also are welcomed to remain at the salon while the pet is being groomed.)

Owned by the husband-wife team of Harvey and Camille Chance, the grooming salon is actively managed by Camille who marks some nine years experience in the field.

The salon was opened Oct. 1, and since that time has enjoyed an enthusiastic and growing response. No doubt the "convenience" concept and the expertise of groomers at the salon have contributed greatly to this population.

With advance notice, pets brought in by 3 p.m. most usually can be groomed and ready for pick up by 5 p.m. the same day, as example of the customer-considering service of the firm.

Two proficient groomers, Camille Chance and Debbra Randall, are on the job.

Hours at CC's Pet Salon are 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, closed Saturdays. Extended hours on Thursdays are observed when needed, until 8 .m.

One is invited to call ahead when possible to assure maximum convenience and minimum delay in grooming. For appointments, call 792-3330. Even though it is well advised to call ahead, drop-in trade often can be accommodated without long delay.

Both Master Charge and Visa use is welcomed.

Leaseway-Southwest Services Utilized Throughout Wide Area

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service

"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

"We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."

Upgrading and additions to its stock is a continuous operation at Leaseway-Southwest.

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times

Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

Business & Industrial Review

CORRECTLY HINTING THE VALUABLE, UNIQUE — Gerry Bowman of Daisy's Collectibles on 34th Street is shown in an attractive area of the highly-selective store where "different" but "quality" items are the rule, with new and "wanted" items arriving daily within the gallery.

Daisy's Collectibles Augments Huge Stock With New Arrivals

"Have you discovered and enjoyed the fantastic Daisy's Collectibles, 2002 34th St., phone 763-2973, Lubbock's only collectors gallery?"

"A short report or small ad cannot list all the items at Daisy's; so we welcome you to come, visit, and see for yourself the many beautiful porcelains and gifts, limited editions, etc., found in our gallery."

Daisy's Collectibles is authorized agent for Cappe', Kaiser, Daum, Borsata, Ispanky, Belleek, Mettlach, Sabino, Norman Rockwell and M.I. Hummel and other select studios. (If you are not yet familiar with these fine sculptures, get in touch with us and we'll make you acquainted!)

Added Value

Porcelain not only is beautiful to look at and enjoy, but it is an investment as well, the folks at Daisy's Collectibles point out.

Owned by John and Daisy Yugovich and daughter, Gerry Bowman, this unique and large shop stocks top-of-the-line merchandise, and customer appreciation and increasing trade attest to the success of the endeavor.

"Your inquiries are invited, and we await the pleasure of helping you with your selection."

We at Daisy's are expecting a large shipment of Hummels soon and we will have a few more '79 bells and plates, so whatever your wants, come by or call and we'll reserve your choice.

Rockwell Plates

In stock is the first edition of Rockwell's leapfrog plate; this will be an annual, and if you would like to start a collection, this would be a good unit to start with, issuing for $55. (You know what happened to the 1971 Hummel.)

"Pick up your Hummel Collectors Club form here at the gallery; we'll be glad to order your third gift of Sister Berta Hummel, and if you are interested in entering your child in the Hummel look-alike contest this year, we will be glad to help you. Who knows; maybe your child will be a winner!

"Although we have only been in business a year, we are quite pleased with the great response from Lubbock and the West Texas area to our concept in a collectors gallery of fine porcelain."

Whatever your porcelain needs may be, check with Daisy's Collectibles, 2002 34th St., phone (806) 763-2973; we have a very nice selection and we look forward to meeting and serving you.

"Come by; you'll be glad you did. See why Daisy's Collectibles is different; see why it should be a favorite shop for you, too."

ABC Sewing Center Adds Elna Line To Quality Product Galaxy, Services

"We are proud to announce that we now have been named Lubbock's only authorized dealer for the famous Elna sewing machine line" is the word from ABC Sewing Center, 3104 34th St.

The great new models of Elna are stocked, together with the long-respected White line.

More than ever, this home-owned and home-operated firm is thoroughly customer oriented in its every department.

Established and actively operated by lifelong Lubbock resident, Susan Skipper, the ABC Sewing Center also stocks Necchi-Alco, Brother, Dressmaker and other sewing machines.

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dennis, is a '66 graduate of Monterey High School and is a '73 Texas Tech graduate. With some nine years experience in related businesses, she brings to ABC Sewing Center a thorough knowledge of area preferences and needs, together with a product knowledge that is a very realistic assistance to the customer.

The ABC Sewing Center buys, sells and trades, servicing all brands of machines, also maintaining a rental service.

Ronnie Smith, factory trained repairman, is on the staff and is widely known here in the field. Lonnie Brown also is now on the staff, in a training capacity.

Susan is especially enthused about the Elna line and the White selection, respected names in sewing machines for generations.

One year free instruction is afforded with each machine, new or reconditioned, purchased at the ABC Sewing center.

Further Aids Cited

A five-year parts warranty and one-year service guarantee is effective on all reconditioned units.

Parsons cabinets are stocked, adaptable to all brands of machines.

Financing plans are available, together with Visa and Master Charge use.

The ABC Sewing Center is open six days a week: Mondays through Fridays from 9:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., with Saturday closing at 4 p.m.

Twice-a-year free White seminars are conducted at the firm, with home economists from the White factory on hand to bring latest techniques, etc. (One is invited to check regarding the summer seminar.)

More about the White line:

The Model 710 flip-top open arm model with one-step button holer is especially recommended. It is stocked and available in portable or cabinet models at ABC.

This top-of-the-line unit is described as "the most versatile sewing machine for today's fabrics" by the White organization, and is the second in White's series of Flip-Top models with extension flaps to convert the sewing machine from a free arm to a flat bed sewing surface at a mere twist of a knob! And as for button holing, the user merely dials in the desired stitch and buttonhole length, presses the foot control, and the sewing machine does the rest automatically! This new model features 26 practical stretch and decorative stitches, including 16 forward and reverse moving patterns and the one-step buttonholer!

For full information on this and other great models, for a genuine welcome and appreciation of your inquiries, a visit to the ABC Sewing Center, 3104 34th St., phone 799-0372, is invited and recommended at earliest convenience.

Remodeling, Additions, Custom Homes Among Sanders Benefits

For remodeling, for room additions, for custom homes, one deserves and desires finest workmanship. Right?

Then, the wise thing might well be to entrust these tasks to Melvin Sanders' Construction & Remodeling, phone 797-9779 in Lubbock.

Sanders, a lifelong Lubbock resident, literally "grew up" in the building business, following in the footsteps of his carpenter father. Melvin has spent years putting together a qualified team of hands and subcontractors with ability that cannot be questioned.

From the smallest job to the largest, integrity and know-how are key considerations.

Turnkey Capabilities

Turnkey jobs, building just anything one can imagine, are Sanders' specialties.

Whether the need is kitchen cabinets, repainting, porches, patios, carpeting, sheds, storage houses, plumbing, formica, ceramic work, painting, trim, electrical work or adding a room, reliance upon Sanders results in a job well done, more than a few area residents can testify. Sanders seems to do it all, when the customer desires, from drawing plans right down to assistance in financing!

(Sanders reports that there is more money now locally available for remodeling, and that assistance in financing is gladly given.)

Something else about a Sanders job . . . of any size: Melvin Sanders personally works on "every job we sell"! Furthermore, the crews "stay after the job" , not deserting it to start another. Isn't this a refreshing assurance?

Consider also, that references are gladly given; examples of Sanders' work can be pointed out throughout the area; and ordinarily there is no long wait before a Sanders gets on the job.

It would seem that whatever the remodeling need, or custom homebuilding project, anywhere in Lubbock and immediate area, a call to Sanders seems in order.

A native of Lubbock, Sanders is a '66 Monterey High School graduate, then majoring in architectural engineering at Texas Tech.

For full information on how Sanders can work for you, how free estimates are available, etc., simply call 797-9779, day or night; most likely Mrs. Sanders (Carla) will be able to speed your request, should Sanders not be at the phone.

It may be old fashioned . . . but Sanders believes that "know-how, dedication to customer service, liking folks and treating them right" is the best way of doing business.

"Melvin Sanders' Construction & Remodeling merits your consideration."

AIRPORT BOMBED — This was the scene of destruction Sunday at Madrid airport after a terrorist bomb exploded in the National departures section, killing one and wounding at least nine others. Two other similar devices exploded at the city's main railway stations, claiming four lives and injuring about 100 people. The attacks have been claimed by ETA, the Basque separatist organization. Two Americans and five other foreigners were among the wounded. (AP Laserphoto)

Callaghan May Lose Party Leadership

LONDON (AP) — The Labor Party, which has ruled Britain with its mild brand of socialism for half the post-war era, is in turmoil after the crushing victory of Conservative Margaret Thatcher in the May 3 national election.

The traditional party split between right and left is now a gaping chasm. There are demands for party leader James Callaghan's resignation and for sweeping changes in the way the party is run.

"We are heading for a situation that will be as crippling to the party's prospects as anything in the past," Callaghan warned left-wingers at a recent party meeting.

It is not the first time a Labor defeat has led to party bloodletting. But the landslide triumph of Mrs. Thatcher's Conservatives has brought open warfare between Labor's left-wingers, led by Anthony Wedgwood Benn, 54, and the moderates typified by Callaghan, 67.

Unions Angered

Labor boasts that it is the natural party to rule predominantly working-class Britain. But unions, angered by Callaghan's 5 percent anti-inflation ceiling on pay hikes, had confronted "their" government with a rampage of strikes that pushed many Britons into the Conservative camp for the election.

Union votes will be vital to Callaghan when the dispute reaches its climax at the annual party conference in the seaside resort of Brighton in October.

Ex-Cabinet minister Benn, who dropped his inherited House of Lords title Lord Stansgate to become just plain Tony Benn, will lead a grassroots revolt by the left. He also is pushing for Callaghan's job as party leader.

The leftists' demands were summed up by Eric Heffer, a Labor member of Parliament and Benn's close ally:

Want Greater Say

"Rank-and-file party members want a greater say in policy and decision-making. They want more influence over their members of Parliament. They want a say in who the leader of the party should be. They want all forms of patronage ended, together with the abolition of the House of Lords."

If the leftists take control of the party organization, future Labor governments would nationalize banks and insurance companies, cut defense spending and do away with the upper house, said Josephine Richardson, leader of the party's leftist Tribune Group and a Benn supporter.

Leading left-winger Dennis Skinner added, "What I want to do is to change the Labor Party so that people who do the work day in and day out have a little bit more say and the elitist leadership have a little less."

To this end, no fewer than 66 of the 380 resolutions submitted for the party conference call for procedural changes to wrest policy-making control from the party leader and his Cabinet and place it in the hands of local party activists and union representatives.

One resolution from an East London constituency demands Callaghan's resignation, accusing him of using "a powder puff" to combat Mrs. Thatcher and of lacking socialist commitment.

Battle Expected

It is not likely to succeed. Callaghan is thought ready to retire before the next general election in 1984, but not before he fends off the challenge from the left. He hopes to be succeeded by a member of the party's moderate wing.

In the past, party leaders have been elected by Labor members in the House of Commons. The leader then picks his own Cabinet.

Benn and his allies want the leader chosen by an "Electoral College" of members of Parliament, union leaders and local party organizers. They want all Labor members of Parliament — currently 268 — to elect the Cabinet.

Benn and his supporters also want the party leader to follow to the letter an election platform drafted by Labor's 28-member, left-leaning National Executive Committee. Last May, Callaghan vetoed a platform plank calling for abolition of the House of Lords.

The key votes at the Brighton conference will come from the big unions — Transport and General Workers, with more than 2 million members, Engineers, and Municipal Workers.

Moss Evans, general secretary of the transport union, is known to favor the changes.

But Frank Chapple, head of the Electricians' Union, said the "self-styled ayatollahs of the left will lose Labor the broad spectrum of support it needs to win elections."

"The truth of the matter is that the electorate and union membership are terrified of the far left with their doctrinaire socialist dogma and Soviet sympathies," he wrote in a union publication.

Israelis To Send Dayan To U.S. For New Talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Cabinet decided Sunday to send Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to Washington for talks with the United States and Egypt on how to replace U.N. peacekeeping troops being pulled out of the Sinai Peninsula.

The Egyptian and Israeli defense ministers, meanwhile, held preliminary discussions in Tel Aviv on proceeding with the Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai without U.N. troops to monitor the Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

The U.N. Emergency Force was ordered out of the Sinai last week after the U.N. Security Council, under threat of a Soviet veto, failed to renew the mandate UNEF first obtained after the 1973 Mideast War.

After its meeting, the Cabinet announced it was standing by its rejection of a U.S.-Soviet compromise proposal to permanently replace UNEF with the smaller and unarmed U.N. Truce Supervision Organization.

But it was unclear whether Israel remained adamant in its refusal to allow the U.N. truce observers to temporarily conduct inspections of front-line forces normally handled by UNEF. The next inspection was to be today.

Defense Minister Kamal Hassan Ali of Egypt arrived in Israel Sunday and went into talks with his Israeli counterpart, Ezer Weizman, to conclude arrangements for carrying out the 4-month-old treaty in the absence of U.N. peacekeepers. Details of their talks were not released.

Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, Yehuda Blum, told reporters here the Cabinet had accepted Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's invitation to Dayan and "an appropriate Egyptian representative" to go to Washington, but only to "ensure that all the provisions of the peace treaty will be carried out fully and faithfully."

Considering No Compromise

Blum made it clear Israel was considering no compromise that would involve total reliance on UNTSO for keeping the peace, saying that although Dayan would discuss ways to break the impasse, he was given clear instructions "to honor the letter ad spirit f the peace treaty," which calls for stationing a U.N. "force" in the Sinai buffer zone.

Though Blum offered no suggestions for breaking the deadlock, Israel has indicated it wants President Carter to stand by his pledge to create, if necessary, "an acceptable alternative multinational force" to patrol Sinai, guarantee shipping in the Straits of Tiran and verify that Egypt and Israel keep their front-line strength to a set limit.

No date was immediately set for Dayan's departure, but Blum said the Washington talks would start "in the coming days." Dayan has not fully recovered from a cancer operation five weeks ago, but he resumed a normal workload earlier this month.

Blum said Israel objected to stationing unarmed observers in the Sinai because it was "a clear departure from the provisions of the peace treaty." Other officials expressed fears that such a departure could set a precedent.

Blum said UNTSO's 130 men now in the Sinai were too few to assume the functions of the force.

Carter Image Maker Soon To Leave Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than a year as President Carter's chief image surgeon, Gerald Rafshoon's influence is declining and his impact difficult to detect.

The New York-born advertising man, soon to depart the White House staff, apparently has not lived up to the role of a powerful backstage manipulator.

"The president's image is suffering. You're the president's image man. How come?" Rafshoon was asked at an off-the-record session with Senate press secretaries last week.

His reply was short and to the point.

"I've done a bad job," he said.

He may have been joking, as he often does in private. And there are no signs that the president has lost his personal respect or affection for Rafshoon.

But it is clear that Rafshoon is not the dominant figure on the staff he was once made out to be.

"He is neither the genius that some have claimed nor the Machiavellian figure that others have claimed," said one associate. "The truth is a lot less interesting."

When Carter first summoned his former campaign advertising man to the White House staff, the president's rating in the polls stood at the lowest point of his presidency.

Rating Dropped Lower

Today, after more than 12 months of what one news columnist likes to call "Rafshoonery," the president is five points lower in the Associated Press-NBC News poll.

Carter hired Rafshoon July 1, 1978, after a key weekend Cabinet session at Camp David, where the president took several actions aimed at tightening his control over the government, projecting a more decisive image and halting his decline in the polls.

Depicted As Wizard

Immediately, Rafshoon found himself depicted as a sort of Wizard of Oz, pulling secret levers behind the scenes to make Carter seem all-powerful.

Rafshoon, to his consternation, started getting credit or blame for nearly everything that Carter did, from reinstating the playing of "Hail to the Chief" at presidential appearances to such major policy decisions as the president's successful veto of a Pentagon spending bill which contained money for two nuclear aircraft carriers he didn't want.

"I am not a magician," Rafshoon would insist. But his own image as an image-making wizard persisted.

Actually, it is hard to pinpoint what Rafshoon actually does. He supervises a comparatively small part of the White House staff — mostly speechwriters staffers who make advance preparation for the press on presidential trips, and White House staff photographers. But he leaves most day-to-day supervision to h deputy, Greg Schneiders.

Lunches With Reporters

Much of Rafshoon's time seems de voted to lunching with favored columnists and reporters, giving speeches to groups outside the White House and, of course, giving advice to the president.

Some of the innovations for which he accepts responsibility are Carter's private dinners with news executives and television celebrities, more drilling of the president before news conferences, and tighter control of public appearances by administration officials.

His advice to Carter is sometimes taken, sometimes not. He was among those who urged the president to fire Bella Abzug from the president's advisory commission on women — which Carter did gladly after she criticized him publicly. On another occasion, Rafshoon was overruled when he advised Carter against going on national television and radio to announce that he would decontrol domestic oil prices.

"He's a guy who comes up with one good idea a month," said an associate, who asked not to be named.

"His ideas are mostly 'more of the same,' and to a large extent he's been supplanted by (Patrick) Caddell, who is filled with fresh ideas."

Caddell, a private pollster in Carter's inner circle of advisers, got major credit for advising the president to speak out in his recent broadcast address against what Carter perceived as a sour national mood and Americans' declining confidence in their institutions.

Lubbock Man Killed In Skidding Car

LARRY CANTU, 19 , of 1803 Beech was killed after he apparently lost control of his car and skidded off a bridge in the 1300-block of Parkway Drive about 4 a.m. Sunday.

Two passengers in the 1973 Gran Torino, Anita Mata, 19, of Shallowater and Ramiro Machado, 17, of 2613 E. Bates St. were treated at Health Sciences Center Hospital and released.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith pronounced Cantu dead at the scene. He ruled the death accidental. The fatality marks the 16th this year on city streets.

Reports show that Machado flagged down an officer, telling him that his friend had fallen off a bridge in his car. Machado reportedly led the officer to the bridge section in the 1300-block of Parkway Drive, the two ran down the embankment and found a car lying upside down in the creek bed.

Police found Miss Mata, standing beside the vehicle, in what they said was an hysterical state and discovered Cantu lying behind the steering wheel. Cantu suffered head injuries in the accident.

Reports show that Cantu was eastbound on Parkway Drive when the accident occurred.

Services for Cantu will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Idalou Cemetery under the direction of Sanders Funeral Home of Lubbock.

He had lived in Lubbock all of his life and was employed as an apprentice bricklayer. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Cantu of Lubbock; four sisters, Consuelo Ramirez, Teresa Rebele, Hortencia Cantu and Adela Cantu, all of Lubbock; and seven brothers, Natividad, Mike, Alonzo Jr., Juan Jose, Rodolfo, Arnulfo and Roman, all of Lubbock.

and green shorts and had white barrettes in her short hair when the man jumped behind the empty driver's seat of the car about 2:30 p.m., police said. The car was stopped, its engine running, in a Holiday Inn parking lot.

Thompson, of Dunwoody, Ga., was inside registering. His wife, Rachel, waited in the passenger's seat while Caroline slept.

"What do you think you're doing?" Mrs. Thompson asked the man, described by police as about 19, with long dark hair, a moustache and a beard.

When he didn't answer, a terrified Mrs. Thompson leapt from the car. Before she could snatch her daughter from the back seat, the man sped off, police Detective Capt. Marvin Powers said.

Mrs. Thompson suffered minor injuries when she was thrown against a parked car, police said.

Despite the lapse of nearly 24 hours with no sign of the girl, police kept up hope Sunday that the abduction was an accident.

"He probably only wanted the car, but when he realized she was in the back it was too late — he's probably still in the area in hiding," a police investigator said.

Paroled Man Claims New Murder Spree

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Police in several states checked their files for unsolved slayings Sunday after a paroled murderer claimed he killed 20 people over the last year, including at least eight in California and several in New York City's Bowery section.

Joseph Fischer, 50 — saying "I'm tired of running" — turned himself in to New York City authorities Friday. He told them he had killed his wife at their home in Wassaic, about 70 miles north of New York City. State police found the body of his wife, Claudine Eggers, 78, dead of multiple stab wounds.

Paroled After 25 Years

Fischer was paroled from New Jersey's Trenton State Prison in June 1978 after serving 25 years for the 1953 murder of a 16-year-old boy in Belleville, N.J. He spent the final four years of his term in the prison's psychiatric hospital, officials said.

Fischer confessed to 20 murders after being transferred from New York City to the Dutchess County Jail here, according to Senior Investigator John Crodelle of the State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

"We could be sitting on a mass murderer here," Crodelle said Saturday.

Held Without Bond

Fischer was being held without bail on second-degree murder charges in his wife's death. Police said the couple married last year — against her children's wishes — after a courtship based upon a correspondence begun when he was in prison.

State police said Sunday they had notified authorities in other parts of the country about Fischer's claims and that warrants have already been issued for two deaths in Oklahoma and Arizona.

"We're waiting for authorities from the other jurisdictions to check their files and notify us of anything pending," said State Police Lt. Thomas Neilson.

In addition to the murders in Oklahoma and Arizona, Crodelle said Fischer claimed to have committed five or six murders in the Los Angeles area, three around San Francisco, "numerous" murders in the Bowery and single murders in Cooperstown, N.Y.; Portland, Maine; Hartford, Conn.; Newark, N.J. and New Mexico.

Crodelle said detectives from Arizona and Oklahoma were expected to arrive in Poughkeepsie Monday or Tuesday to question him.

Wanted In Bludgeoning

Officials in Oklahoma said Fischer is wanted in the bludgeoning death this spring of a Moore, Okla., woman. They said he had been dating Betty Jo Gibson before her body was discovered May 25 in a nailed-shut closet in her home. She had been dead about four weeks, police said.

Authorities in Arizona said Fischer is wanted in the stabbing death of a Mexican-American man in Flagstaff in late March or early April.

State police in Oneonta, N.Y., near Cooperstown had divers and helicopters searching Otsego Lake on Saturday because of claims by Fischer that he had beaten a man and thrown him into the lake. They found nothing, however, and suspended the search until they could question Fischer further.

because "some lady came long distance to visit someone here, and she was turned away. The inmates are sick and tired of having visitors come into the prison and be harassed," he said.

The fight occurred between 1 and 1:30 p.m. when the prisoners were being brought from their cellblocks to exercise, Parnell said. He said one guard was overpowered and other prison workers were then taken hostage when they tried to assist him.

State police were called in at about 1:40 p.m., said Sgt. George C. Richards. Several state police units, including a special weapons and tactical unit, were sent to the prison in this community 20 miles southwest Boston.

Reporters were kept outside the prison, and the road to the maximum security facility was closed by police.

Walpole is a maximum security institution built in the 1950s. Some 600 inmates are in the prison, guarded by more than 200 correction officers.

Violence is a way of life at Walpole: There were frequent riots in the early 1970s, and since 1970, more than 20 inmates have been murdered. Most victims were stabbed, beaten or strangled.

Overcrowding has been a problem at the prison, and recently, a group of inmates filed suit protesting conditions. The suit was thrown out of court earlier this month.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Appointee Lousy Hitter

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Neil Goldschmidt's personal staff says he's suited for the job of U.S. Secretary of Transportation but he's not much of a softball hitter.

GOLDSCHMIDT

Goldschmidt, mayor of Portland, is described by his teammates as fine centerfielder who bats right-handed, throws right and hits a wretched .192.

"If you ask me, I just think the Cabinet appointment was a very elaborate scam for Neil to avoid this ball game," the Portland mayor's executive assistant, Angus Duncan, said.

While Goldschmidt was in Washington Friday for the announcement of his appointment to the transportation post, his teammates prepared for a game against another office in City Hall.

Sporting navy blue T-shirts with red letters that said "Neil's Big Deal," Goldschmidt's staff played the city Bureau of Management and Budget. The mayor's team won 22-21.

'Coppertone Kid' May Sue

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP) — Jacquie Callaway claims she was the bare-bottomed baby that Coppertone has used to advertise its suntan lotion on billboards across the nation.

"I hope I don't have to sue, but I think I deserve something from them for all the money they made," Mrs. Callaway, 40, said Saturday.

She claims Coppertone, a division of Plough Inc. of Memphis, Tenn., used a photograph her father took of her in 1941 and began using it in advertising in 1954.

She said she was planning to contact an attorney for advice on how to seek royalties from Coppertone.

Mrs. Callaway said the photograph won second prize in a photography contest sponsored by Popular Photography magazine and her father later sold the picture to a Canadian calendar company. She said she was uncertain how Coppertone got the picture.

But Coppertone said in a statement that the little girl in the advertisements "came from an artist's composite drawing."

Pope Prays For Abductees

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope John Paul II prayed Sunday for freedom for a Jesuit priest and six nuns abducted last week from a remote Roman Catholic mission in Rhodesia.

JOHN PAUL II

Addressing a crowd of 8,000 during his Sunday noon blessing at his summer palace in the Alban Hills south of Rome, the pontiff said news of the rebel abduction was "scarce."

"I pray that all the abducted can return soon to resume their beneficial human and Christian activity," the pope said.

Those taken from the Marymount mission, 12 miles from the border with Mozambique, were believed to include Jesuit Brother Herman Toma, who ran the mission, six nuns, two novices and about 10 mission workers and their families, a total of as many as 50 persons.

Burglars Make Breakfast

HOBBS, N.M. (AP) — The burglars who broke into Gerald Slade's house recently added insult to injury by cooking a bacon and egg breakfast and leaving the dirty dishes.

Slade says his home is a frequent target of prowlers.

Once they came in while he was taking a bath. By the time Slade had dressed, the intruders had fled.

Man Pedals For Funds

ANNA, Ill. (AP) — Grant Hays started pedaling his French 10-speed bicycle across America trying to raise $1 million to replace a burned-out church in Shelbyville, Ky. His bonus is a growing knowledge of the goodness of people he's meeting along the way.

Hays, 30, belongs to the Centenary United Methodist Church in Shelbyville — a congregation without a building since the church burned last winter. "I am making an appeal to every Methodist minister and congregation I can. I explain the objectives ... then I leave the address of the Methodist church in Shelbyville."

Aside from the contributions, Hays says he's learning a lot about people.

"I have found out basically that the myth that people in America are paranoid and unhappy with life is crazy. As soon as I ride into a small town and get to talking to somebody, their hearts just open wide up."

N.Y. Honors War Hero

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — World War II hero Matt Urban received New York state's highest honor and said he's optimistic that bureaucratic delays are near an end in his 34-year wait for the nation's most prized military medal.

A representative of Gov. Hugh Carey presented Urban with New York's Conspicuous Service Medal at a Saturday night reunion banquet of the 9th Division, 2nd Battalion Infantry Division of the U.S. Army. The reunion was to honor 4,581 soldiers in the outfit who were killed during World War II.

Urban added it to 20 other military awards, including six Purple Hearts for wounds suffered during campaigns in Tunisia, France and Belgium.

Urban, 59, a former Buffalo, N.Y., resident who now lives in Holland, Mich., said he's been assured by Pentagon officials that "chances are excellent" he will also receive the Medal of Honor.

"It's like a dream to me," he said. "It should have happened 35 years ago."

Couple Marries At Lunch

BALTIMORE (AP) — The justice of the peace doesn't work on weekends, so why not get married on a weekday? That's just what Rick Outen and Carolyn Croll did during their lunch break.

The couple, employed by the Maryland National Bank, walked across the street to the courthouse on Friday. In less than 30 minutes they were married and back on the job.

Outen said bank management had offered to give the couple the entire day off, but taking that much time did not suit the newlyweds, who each had been married before at large church weddings.

"I have to come back to work," said the 23-year-old bride "I still have a few things to clear up on a couple of my accounts."

"I didn't want the day off," said the 30-year-old Outen. "I work in a very busy department. Besides, I just wanted to go in, say the words, get the license, and get the whole thing over with."

Mississippian Sets Record

RALEIGH, Miss. (AP) — Jeff "Faucet Man" Barber said the "the pressure was on" as he stepped up to the mark, set his feet wide apart, arched his back and assumed a two-finger pucker position.

Then to the cheers of a crowd of better than 4,000, the 19-year-old grocery store worker from Ocean Springs, Miss., unleashed a stream of juice 31 feet, 9 1/2 inches Saturday to set a world record and win the National Tobacco Spitting Contest.

"I put a new motion to my back," said Barber, who spat 8 1/2 inches past the old mark. "I felt I'd set a record. I'd been practicing an awful lot. This month I went into what I call deep-training."

Mark Wilks, 20, of Columbia, Miss., won the accuracy competition in a sudden-death spit-off. He hit a bull's-eye and caught the lip of the spittoon twice in his three attempts at 15 feet.

Both winners took home king-sized spittoons and enough chewing tobacco to keep them flush for some time.

Marlene Graham, 15, of Ocean Springs, won the first women's distance contest with a blast of 16 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

"I'll be up in the men's column next time," said the shy teen-ager, who started chewing tobacco when she was 10 years old.

"My grandfather gave me hints on spitting," she said.

Beauty Queen Still Miffed

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A controversy over long-delayed prizes for last year's Miss Orient USA clouded the selection of her successor, Joyce Elgar Orias.

Miss Orias, 20, a native of the Philippines and now a resident of Carson, Calif., was crowned Friday night at the end of the third annual beauty pageant.

Last year's winner, Leilani O'Melia of Howell Township, N.J., had complained during the pageant week that she had not received most of the prizes she was promised when she paid $100 to enter the 1978 contest in Atlantic City, N.J.

"It's very bad," the pageant's president, Remedios Cabacungan of Toms River, N.J., said of the controversy surrounding the outgoing queen's statements.

Miss O'Melia, 24, said Cabacungan, two pageant vice presidents and a board member gave her a notarized contract guaranteeing payment of her prizes. She said they included a $1,500 scholarship, 17-day trip to five Oriental countries with $1,000 for expenses, and full reimbursement for her trip to Long Beach to participate in this year's pageant.

Nixons May Buy Penthouse

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Nixon has made a down payment on a nine-room, $750,000 penthouse in Manhattan, the New York Times reported Saturday.

The Times, quoting an unidentified source, said the penthouse is atop a cooperative building at Madison Avenue and 72nd Street.

It was reported recently that the former president and his wife, Pat, who sold their San Clemente estate in California, wanted to return to New York to be near their daughters.

But the Times quoted a recent visitor to San Clemente as saying it was his impression that Nixon wanted to move to New York "to pursue a more visibly active life" than he has been leading in California since he resigned the presidency in 1974 during the Watergate scandal.

'Coma' Author Weds

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Robin Cook, the 39-year-old ophthalmologist and author of the best-seller "Coma," married a 25-year-old former beauty queen Saturday in Louisberg Park.

DR. ROBIN COOK

The bride is Barbara Mougin, a dark-haired, blue-eyed former Miss Indiana who was second runner-up in the 1978 Miss America Pageant.

The noon wedding took place under a tent in the park across from Cook's posh $250,000 Beacon Hill townhouse.

Cook, whose earnings as an author far exceed his earnings as an eye surgeon, has received a $5 million advance for the novel he is now working on, "Sphinx." His wife has been studying at Lee Strasberg's Actor's Workshop in New York City.

The two met three years ago at CBS-TV where the new Mrs. Cook is under contract and where Cook was working on a still-unreleased series.

A friend told the Boston Herald American that the couple has changed plans for a European honeymoon and will stay on Nantucket Island instead.

Fish Story Gets New Bite

WAGONER, Okla. (AP) — Beneath the placid waters of Fort Gibson Lake in northeast Oklahoma there is a fish with a set of "store-bought" choppers.

Russell Guffey told Tulsa World newspaper writer Paul Cleary a fish story he swears is true. It seems a Tulsa woman was fishing on the lake when her line became tangled. Rather than pull it out of the water, she placed part of the line in her mouth while she worked to correct the problem.

Apparently a bass had been waiting with baited breath, as it were, for such an opportunity. He struck the woman's line, yanked her dentures from her mouth and made off with $700 worth of hardware.

Writer 'Expects' Rejection

WEST ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Novelist David Futornick needs acceptance, and since he can't get it from publishers he'll take it from other novelists. Out of this logic was born the the Rejected Authors and Writers Association.

Futornick, who has failed to get any of his four novels in print, meets regularly with 40 other frustrated scribes to trash publishers while picking up pointers on success.

"We turn off a lot of people," said Futornick. "They say they won't join us until we change our name to 'aspiring writers.' They don't like to feel rejected. Well, neither do we.

"Eventually you expect to be rejected," said Futornick, who earns his living writing other peoples' resumes. "I know how to handle rejection — it's acceptance I can't cope with — though it would be great to try."

'Jumper' Ride Skips Track; Eight Hurt

WEST POINT, Pa. (AP) — Eight youths were in the hospital Sunday with injuries suffered when a roller coaster called "The Jumper" skipped its track at a small suburban Philadelphia amusement park.

A total of 12 people on an outing by several Baptist church groups were spilled onto the passenger loading platform from four cars that derailed as the ride entered its final turn Saturday, authorities said.

The ride is named "The Jumper" because "it kind of hops like a rabbit," said Bill Evans, manager of the West Point Park. Evans said the accident may have been caused by human error.

"We don't really know for sure what caused it," he said. "Our preliminary investigation showed that it was mechanically sound."

Admitted to North Penn Hospital were Joseph Woodland, 7; Clinton Camp, 12; Ivy Baxter, 12, and Michael Engram, 14. All were listed in satisfactory condition Sunday.

None of the four could remember the crash, said hospital spokeswoman Susan Sobel. She quoted the Baxter youth as saying, "Well, I don't remember getting on. I remember standing in line."

Two other children were treated at North Penn and released. Jackie Williams, 14, was transferred to Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia, where she was listed in guarded condition.

At Suburban General Hospital, three youths were listed in stable condition Sunday. They were identified as Denise Alston, 17, Delfonda Williams, 14, and Derrick Heggs, 12. Two others were treated and released.

A fireman aiding in the rescue fell from the roller coaster platform and was treated for minor injuries at North Penn, Miss Sobel said.

"There was not too much yelling, considering what happened," said John Lattanzi, West Point Volunteer Fire Department chief. "Everybody stayed pretty calm."

Miss Sobel said the amusement park is not popular with nearby residents, some of whom consider it unsafe.

"Last year we treated a little girl who had two legs crushed when she was thrown from a (different) ride," she said.

Man Arrested In Amusement Park Death

VALENCIA, Calif. (AP) — A 22-year-old man was arrested Sunday in the stabbing death of a teen-ager who died during two hours of youth gang violence at a crowded amusement park, authorities said.

Dozens of people were injured in the wave of fights that broke out Saturday night at the Magic Mountain Amusement park, officials said. Six people were hospitalized with stab wounds.

Authorities said 42 people were arrested on weapons and violations charges.

Anthony Escobedo of Sun Valley was booked for investigation of murder in the slaying of Felix Saldivar, 16, of Sylmar, said Los Angeles County sheriff's deputy Bob Woods.

Deputy Mike Santander said the fights first broke out about 10 p.m. in the disco area, where Saldivar was killed.

"It kind of spread throughout the park," Santander said, noting that Magic Mountain had a record crowd of 38,000 that day.

The wounded — all at Henry Mayo Newhall Memorial Hospital — ranged in age from 16 to 18. One of them was in critical condition but was expected to live, he said.

Asked how many youths were involved in the fighting, Santander replied: "Nobody seems to know.

"These people had been frequenting the park and it was more or less a spontaneous thing as far as we know."

The deputy said most of the 42 arrested were still in custody and were being questioned about the fatal stabbing of Saldivar.

Police Seek Suspect In Stabbing Of Girl, 12

BURLINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Police conducted a house-to-house search Sunday in their investigation of the stabbing death of a 12-year-old girl whose body was found less thn a mile from her home.

Katherine Ebersold was last seen riding her bicycle home from the Burlington recreation center, where she had been swimming Friday afternoon, police said.

Her body was found amid burned brush in a wooded area Saturday morning by a volunteer searcher, they said. Her bicycle was missing.

A preliminary examination showed the girl had been stabbed, said Catherine Galvin, state associate medical examiner. An autopsy was conducted Sunday at the state medical examiner's office in Farmington.

No weapons were found and police had no suspects, authorities said.

Survivors Recall Deadly Hill Country Flood

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It has been a year since the Medina and Guadalupe rivers churned over their banks and unleashed the deadliest flood to strike the Texas Hill Country this century. AP Correspondent Greg Thompson returned recently and found many of the scars covered by wildflowers and federal money. He also found wounds that may never heal.)

BANDERA (AP) — Five minutes. Only five. Art Kitzman still wishes the Lord had given him just that much time to save the four people who died when the floods came to his Peaceful Valley Dude Ranch.

It was about 4 a.m., Aug. 2, 1978, when the gentle, picturesque Medina River roared from the rugged limestone hills into Peaceful Valley. Through the blackness, rain, and churning muddy water, Kitzman and his wife rounded up about 30 guests, pushed them atop their house and then into the ancient shade trees.

Army helicopters rescued them a few hours later.

But for some reason, Fred and Sandra Champion, their two children and their mothers didn't, or couldn't, leave their flimsy cabin. When the water rushed in, the 11-year-old boy and 16-year-old girl swam out and grabbed a tree. The frothing water swept their parents and grandmothers downstream and to their deaths.

The Medina and the Guadalupe rivers, swollen by up to 3 feet of rains from tropical storm Amelia, killed 26 people and destroyed millions of dollars of property that day near Bandera, Center Point and Comfort. But Bandera suffered the most.

Oldtimers who had lived through the Hill Country floods of 1900 and 1919 called it the worst they'd ever seen. A lengthy drought had already qualified the Hill Country for federal disaster relief. Within hours, a flood disaster was declared.

The Hill Country floods struck about 200 miles east of the Houston area, currently reeling from the flooding caused by the remnants of another tropical storm, this one called Claudette.

"I just wish the Lord had given us a few minutes — not even 30, just five — that's all I think we needed. We could have gotten down there and gotten them out," Kitzman said, a trace of pain and weariness in his voice. "We just simply didn't have five minutes. The water hit us that quick.

"We're open again and the flood is behind us, but that still preys on my mind," he said.

Like the Peaceful Valley Dude Ranch, virtually all of this tourist-ranching town of 1,100 is back in business. The dude ranches are again filled to a festive summer capacity; and, ironically, the influx of federal money, the massive rebuilding projects and a growing tourist industry have created a sort of post-disaster boom.

"Except for the loss of life, the flood was the best thing to ever happen to this town," said a prominent local attorney, Sam Darden, whose $250,000 riverfront rock house was swept clean from its foundation and disappeared downstream.

"Everybody is building back, twice as good as before. It's brought in a lot of money and the tourist business is growing. The economy of this town is in real good shape," Darden said.

Not everyone shares the lawyer's point of view.

"It damn sure wasn't a good thing for me," snorted Clint Dowell, who lost more than $400,000 when the river washed away his Chevrolet dealership. But Dowell, too, has rebuilt his business, on the same spot, about 800 feet from the sleeping Medina.

Authorities have installed a new warning system upriver and added an improved shortwave communications network. Summer wildflowers help mask the concrete slabs where riverfront homes once stood. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and private contractors have cleaned up much of the Medina and the Guadalupe.

But many of the big, centuries-old cypress trees that once canopied the river are forever bowed, growing in a downstream direction in mute testimony to the ferocity of the flood. Stumps line the riverbanks. Several feet of gravel left by the river now cover what was once a profitable pecan orchard.

Miles of the river haven't been cleaned at all. You can still find debris, refrigerators, golf clubs, dishes, pillows, up and down the Medina.

"The riverfront won't be back to where it was in our lifetime," said Kitzman with a sigh.

The federal government's disaster relief and loan programs have been controversial, especially the decision to use out-of-town contractors and spot clean the river.

The spot cleaning means minor floods will bring debris downstream from uncleared areas, said Bandera County Judge Rein Vander Zee.

"As far as I'm concerned, we had two disasters," said county commissioner Bob Ashley. "The first was the flood. The second was the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration."

"But the real story of this is in the people," said Vander Zee. "We're rebuilding, going on down the road and putting this all behind us. Unfortunately, there are some people who will never get over it.

"We're not members of the elite. Everybody out here lives pretty close to the realities of life every day. We'll put it behind us. It's just the nature of the people out here."

SHOWING THE SCARS — The usually placid Medina River roared out of its banks last August in the Hill Country floods that killed 26. It now shows the scars of the flood even though the debris has been cleared. This portion of the Medina River near the town of Medina was once canopied by ancient cypress trees and is now lined by stumps. (AP Laserphoto)

'Wheezers' Run In Marathon For Wounded Bouncer

DENVER (AP) — With several stops at watering holes along the way, nearly 60 out-of-shape "marathon" runners managed to jog, walk or limp 10 long blocks — and raise several thousand dollars in the process.

The Smokers-Wheezers-Boozers Marathon began and ended, appropriately enough, at bars in downtown Denver. The marathon was for the benefit of Jeff Ferrell, who was shot in the head when he ordered two men out of the bar where he worked as a doorman.

Ferrell was shot June 29 with a .32-caliber handgun. Police said he asked two customers to leave the Tipsy Tiger, a strip joint. They returned a short time later and shot him in the forehead.

The 34-year-old bouncer needs about $2,000 a week for medical expenses. His speech and memory were impaired as a result of the shooting, and he is recuperating at home.

Shiloh Magill and Linda "Bear" Baron, owners of Copperfield's and the Parlour, decided to hold the event to help raise money for their friend.

Magill said "several thousand dollars" was raised in the Saturday festivities, but the exact total is not known. Funds from a cover charge and auction at Copperfield's also will be donated to Ferrell.

Some marathoners were attired in cowboy hats, cutoff jeans and balloon-stuffed T-shirts. Pat McNulty, 22, of Golden was the first to wheeze across the finish line.

McNulty, a student at Colorado State University, said he did not know Ferrell, but added, "I'm sure I've run into him in my drinking."

Tears Shed For Science In Research On Crying

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Wanted: weepers.

William Frey is advertising for people who will cry for him and contribute to his growing amount of data on human tears.

Frey, a biochemist, and his colleagues want to know why people cry.

"If we determine that," he said, "it may help us understand the biochemical basis of emotions, which could lead to better treatment of people with emotional instabilities."

Frey received a one-year, $4,000 grant from St. Paul Ramsey's Medical Education and Research Foundation. He spent a large chunk of it recently after placing an ad in the Minnesota Daily offering $10 apiece to those who would cry for him.

So many people signed up in two days — 110 — he had to withdraw the offer.

The ad asked people to watch a sad French movie, "Sundays and Cybele," scoop up their tears in a test tube he provides, and then fill out a questionnaire to determine their emotional reaction to the film.

The questionnaire was filled out twice, once to determine the volunteer's reaction at the height of his emotion and again to determine how he felt after he cried.

Frey asked his subjects to come back one week after they saw the film and answer another series of questions. He also gave them an onion test at that time to induce tears.

"No one knows much of anything about tears," Frey said.

He wants to determine whether people feel better after they cry, whether emotional tears differ from irritant-imposed tears, and whether tears shed differ according to the emotion experienced.

Frey theorized crying is "an excretory process" that removes toxic materials from the body, rather than an incidental process as Charles Darwin suggested.

The researcher had problems in the past year with his methods of collecting tears. He designed glasses with cups under them to catch the fluid but they leaked and had to be discarded.

Testimony 'Could Provide Alibi' For Davis In Mansion Shootings

FORT WORTH (UPI) — While T. Cullen Davis prepared for his second murder-for-hire trial opening today, a grand jury heard new testimony supporting the millionaire's claims of innocence on other felony charges, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The testimony "could provide an alibi" for Davis, 45, in the August 1976 shootings of four people at his Fort Worth mansion, the Dallas Morning News reported.

The newspaper said sources report a witness appeared voluntarily before a Tarrant County grand jury Friday to give testimony supporting Davis' claims he was not the "man in black" who killed two people and injured two others.

"This will prove either a bombshell or a dud, depending on how it checks out," one source told the newspaper. "If the testimony is accurate, it raises serious questions whether Davis could have shot anyone at the mansion that night."

There was no explanation why the witness had not come forward before or why he testified just a few days before Davis is scheduled for a second trial on a charge he hired someone to kill his divorce judge, Joe Eidson.

The Aug. 2, 1976, shootings at the Davis mansion followed an Eidson decision in the lengthy divorce trial of T. Cullen and Priscilla Davis, which finally ended this year, and prosecutors contended Davis opened fire because he was upset about the judge's decision.

Killed were Andrea Wilborn, Davis' 12-year-old stepdaughter, and Stan Farr, his estranged wife's lover. Mrs. Davis and a family friend were injured.

Davis was acquitted of killing the child after the longest and costliest murder trial in Texas history. He has not faced trial yet on charges involving the other shootings.

About one year after his acquittal, Davis was arrested in August 1978 on a charge he attempted to have Eidson killed. The prosecution claimed Davis wanted the judge killed because of problems in the divorce case.

His first murder-for-hire trial ended in January with a mistrial after a Houston jury was unable to render a verdict.

The industrialist's second trial is scheduled to begin today before Judge Gordon Gray. Jury selection is expected to be lengthy and will determine if the trial remains in Tarrant County.

Prosecutors have made it clear they believe community feeling is overwhelmingly in Davis' favor, and an objective jury cannot be found locally.

The defense, however, wants the trial to remain in Tarrant County, both for the convenience and financial savings.

The murder-for-hire charge is keyed on the testimony of FBI informant David McCrory — a former employee and acquaintance of Davis — who said Davis paid him to hire a gunman to kill Eidson. McCrory, 41, also said Davis wanted to arrange for the murders of a total of 15 other persons, including his ex-wife Priscilla.

The FBI and Fort Worth police video-taped and tape recorded meetings between Davis and McCrory during which the two discussed the arrangements. One meeting involved McCrory giving Davis "evidence" that Eidson had been killed.

'MINOR' QUAKE HITS MAINE

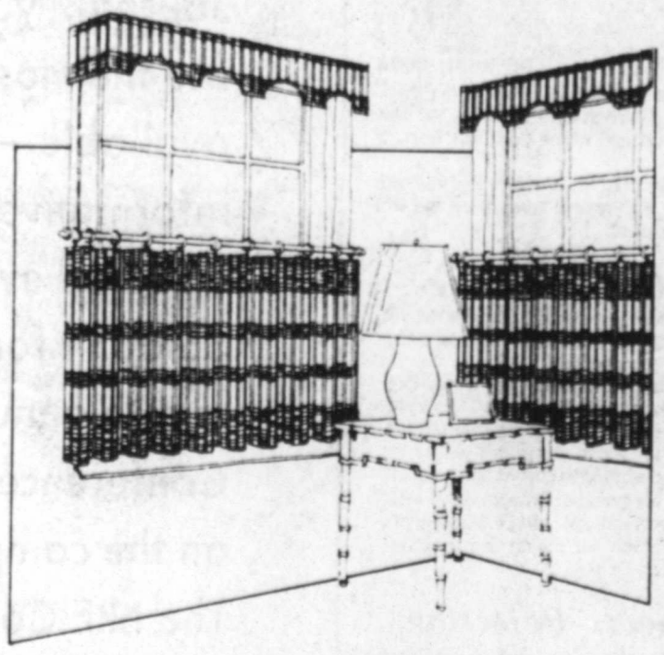

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The National Earthquake Center described it as "minor," but the tremor along the southern coast of Maine touched off dozens of phone calls to police. The quake that registered 3.5 on the Richter scale was felt from Kittery to the Portland area about 7:30 p.m. Saturday night. No injuries or damage were reported.

WILD KINGDOM — The Living Desert State Park near Carlsbad, N.M., has become an impressive home for a variety of rare and common American animals. At left, a large North American elk makes a funny face as Mark Rosacker, the park's animal curator, scratches its neck. At right, Rosacker plays with a coati mundi, a rather rare cousin of the raccoon found mostly in South America. This coati recently fathered one of the first pair of coatis born in captivity. (Staff Photos).

Living Desert State Park Having 'Baby Boom'

By MARILYN HOLMES
A-J Correspondent

CARLSBAD, N.M. — A current "baby boom" at the Living Desert State Park at Carlsbad has produced, among other things, a pair of coati mundis, an orphaned buffalo, and 20 giant bullsnake eggs.

Park officials hope that the baby coati mundis survive to give the Living Desert the distinction of having the first of this species raised in captivity.

The furred, pointed-nosed animal is native to southwestern New Mexico, southern Arizona and northern Mexico.

Officials also are monitoring the hen-sized bullsnake eggs produced by the park's "Big Mama," a 7-foot-9-inch bullsnake. The average output for the species is six eggs.

Patonia — "The Pride of the Plains" — is a baby buffalo named after an old cowboy ballad written about a horse. Patonia was orphaned when her mother died following complications after the birth more than a month ago.

She is bottle-fed by Living Desert animal curator Mark Rosacker, who is considered to be "mama" by more than one orphaned park resident.

Pokey, another orphan, is now a full-grown porcupine who allows Rosaker to freely handle him without ever having his quills ruffled.

"Why should he?" Rosaker asked. "He's always been treated with tenderness and care."

Then there's Goldie the bear, who has an identical background to Smokey the Bear, but never received the same press. Goldie was discovered in the Sacramento Mountains as a cub, severely burned in a forest fire, and nursed back to health.

"We think of this place more as a hospital or nursing home for animals," said park director Dean Ricer, who was appointed when the facility was founded in 1971.

He admitted that the park has been criticized by some visitors who express horror at the sight of a hawk dragging its wings or a mountain lion with a mangled paw once caught in a trap.

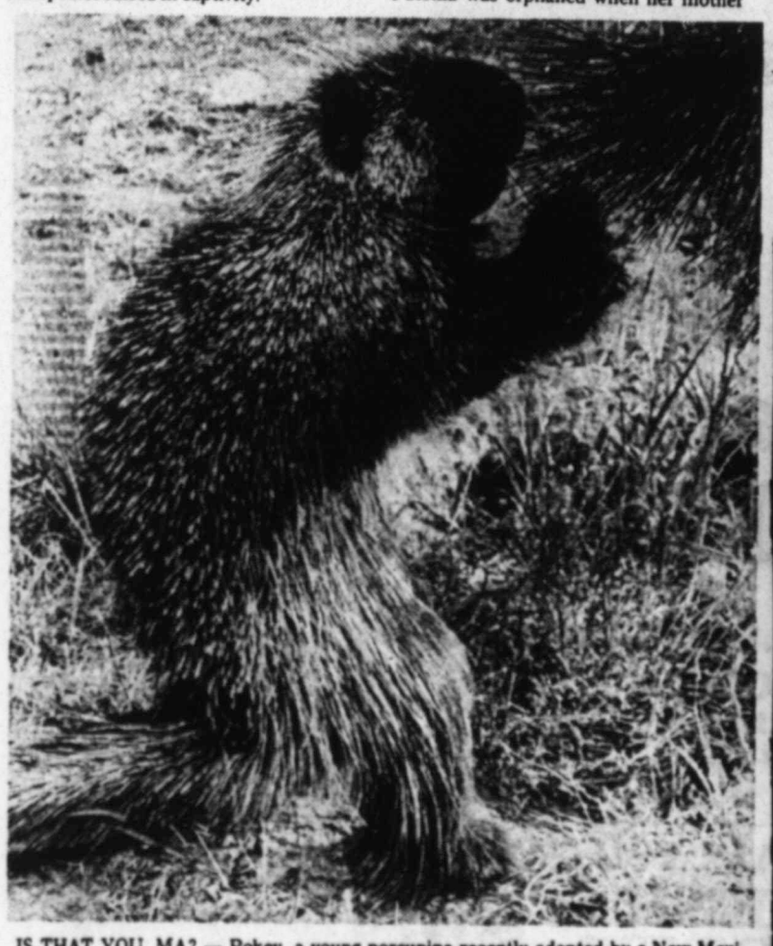

Rosacker calls the animal inhabitants "wildlife ambassadors."

"They demonstrate to the public how beautiful they are, and how beautiful they could be had they not been maimed," he said. "Maybe people might think about it the next time they decide to shoot a hawk off a fencepost just for fun."

Some of the animals were found orphaned or wounded in the wilderness where they could not survive. Some were transferred here from zoos where they were raised in captivity. Others were confiscated from private citizens who were illegally keeping them as pets. None is captured from the wilds strictly for display purposes.

"Baby animals have to be taught by their parents how to fend for themselves, especially predatory animals that have to hunt for food," Ricer said. "In many cases, it would be like dumping a dog out in the wilderness and expecting it to survive on its own."

Park officials recently released 10 birds of prey judged capable of living outside captivity.

IS THAT YOU, MA? — Pokey, a young porcupine recently adopted by s New Mexico state park, nuzzles up to a pine tree, only to find it's almost as tough to handle as he is. The young porcupine, abandoned by its mother, now considers trainer Mark Rosacker his mom. (Staff photo).

BIG MAMA — Trainer Mark Rosacker finds himself entwined with the park's resident "Big Mama," a bullsnake measuring nearly eight feet in length. Big Mama recently lived up to her nickname by laying 20 eggs the size of chicken eggs. The average output for such a bullsnake is six. (Staff Photo).

New Technologies Challenging TV Networks

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In 1978, the three television networks took in $3 billion in advertising revenues. They raised their rates an average 15 percent, and this year advertisers will pay $4 billion for network commercial time.

And in network TV, money is the most vital of vital signs. No. 3 NBC has already presold a half-billion dollars' worth of commercial time for the new season.

Gene Jankowski, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, recently told CBS affiliates, "As the CBS Broadcast Group approaches the eclectic '80s, we are convinced that the commercial broadcast operations of television and radio will continue to survive and thrive."

But new technologies, cable, daring moves by independent stations, viewer disinterest, are posing real threats to network television.

Jankowski's speech to his affiliates last spring included one small reference to the upcoming CBS fall schedule; the rest of his address was a defense of the system, aimed at "self-styled soothsayers (who) are predicting that new technologies will bring an end to the free system of communications that has served this country so well for so long."

Technological advances in the video communications field carry implications that are nothing less than revolutionary. When video tape recorders hit the mass market just a few years ago, the average price was around $1,200, and it was hard to think of these expensive toys as everyday household appliances.

But now you can buy VTRs for $500, and thousands of viewers — grocery clerks, teachers, cab drivers, lawyers — are becoming their own programmers, taping what they want, watching when they want.

Video discs will further erode the near-total power of networks over what viewers view. The video disc system is something like a phonograph that makes a picture, enabling viewers to zip to the outlet to buy a TV show as conveniently as they're now buying record albums.

You don't like reruns of "Mork and Mindy?" Fine, slip in that tape of last year's Super Bowl. Slip in that video disc that shows you how to improve your backswing.

RCA, NBC's parent company, thinks enough of video discs to spend millions on the research, development and marketing of its own video disc system.

Perhaps more significantly, ABC has announced the creation of a new division to develop programming specifically for alternative television — video discs, tapes and cable. One division of ABC will be making products that will compete directly with the products produced by another division of ABC.

The other two networks are reportedly considering similar moves.

And then there is the dreaded cable "pay TV" that networks have for so long lobbied against. Pay TV is burgeoning, offering willing customers a multitude of choices ranging from news to uninterrupted movies.

Through satellite, some cable customers have a choice of literally dozens of programs; and in Columbus, Ohio, the Warner Qube cable system allows two-way viewing, a system used a few weeks ago to tabulate instant response to President Carter's energy plan.

Fourteen million homes already subscribe to cable TV; more than 3 million subscribe to extra pay channels, generating enough money to warrant the production of shows specifically for cable. So, instead of hassling with network schedules and audience testing and formula demands, producers have another market, one potentially more lucrative.

Today, the potential threat is minimal. Cable, video disc and other network alternatives are just emerging from infancy, and network television is "free."

But what of 10 years or 20 years from now? The network emphasis is likely to be on news and information.

Roone Arledge, chief of ABC's news and sports divisions:

"Other ways (besides networks) will be found to deliver situation comedies or dramatic programs or whatever. But in actual point of fact, with the exception of wire services and weekly magazines, there are only three major news organizations which are organized on the scope that (network news divisions) are.

"And it just seems to me, as it has for a long time, that as we get into new technology and program suppliers, the future of networks has got to be tied into news and sports, particularly news. That will be the reason to have networks rather than some other means of distribution. The structure is there, and there's the matter of the cost of doing it, the expertise that's needed and all the rest of it."

Bill Leonard, chief of CBS News:

"I certainly think they're (network news departments) the linchpin, because, basically, most of the other material is not produced internally. We (CBS News) have the only factory at CBS. We produce our programs. The television network does a great many things, but they don't produce them themselves."

Leonard and Arledge, as news chiefs, have reasons to believe that news will save the networks. But Fred Silverman, president of NBC, also considered the future when addressing NBC affiliates in May:

"News, let's all remember, is the one commodity you and we provide that no one else can duplicate. News can't be prepackaged and it can't be put on a cassette or a disc. Whatever wonders the new technologies may bring, they're not going to compete with an NBC News organization which has 23 bureaus all over the world, 1,000 people and an annual budget of more than $100 million.

"It is one of (commercial) broadcasting's great strengths as we move into a new decade, that this precious commodity of news . .. is unique to us."

Farrah, Lee Majors Split Announced

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Farrah Fawcett-Majors and her husband Lee Majors announced Sunday, one day after their sixth wedding anniversary, that they have agreed to a trial separation.

The blond television and movie star said there was no third party involved in the split and Jay Bernstein, the couple's manager, blamed the separation on stress caused by career conflicts.

He said the couple, who do not have any children, hope to reconcile sometime in the future.

This is the first marriage for Mrs. Fawcett-Majors, 32, who gained fame on the original cast of the hit television series "Charlie's Angels" and has since starred in several movies.

Majors, 39, best known for his roles in "The Big Valley" and "The Six Million Dollar Man" series, was married once before.

Bernstein said the separation was the result of "a strain on the marriage by too many separations caused by their careers."

"They haven't worked in the same country at the same time in the last couple of years," he explained. "In the past year and a half, they have spent only a total of a month together."

Mrs. Fawcett-Majors filmed "Somebody Killed Her Husband" in New York. She then flew to Acapulco, Mexico, to film "Sunburn" for nine weeks and then went to London for 15 weeks to star in "Saturn 3" with Kirk Douglas.

During that time Majors first went to Florida to film "The Norsemen," then to Brazil for "Treasure of the Piranha," to Kentucky for "Steel" and to Montreal for "Agency."

"The separations put too much stress on their relationship," Berstein said. "But they hope to work out their problems and get back together again."

Mrs. Fawcett-Majors will stay on the move in the near future, however. She will leave shortly on a U.S.-Canadian tour to promote the opening of "Sunburn." She will fly to Israel later next month to promote her line of cosmetics for Faberge, and in September will film the movie "Strictly Business" in France and Morocco.

Majors, meanwhile, will remain in Hollywood working on future movie projects.

Bernstein said the couple has not decided who will live in their Beverly Hills home.

American Mimes Entertain, Startle Chinese

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Shields and Yarnell once mimed and danced on San Francisco streets and cable cars, and passed the hat afterwards.

Now they get paid in advance — handsomely — and their stages are as far flung as the Peking opera house, when they toured in China for a Bob Hope television special.

Robert Shields and Lorene Yarnell, looking remarkably similar wearing mime's whiteface, with their identically cut straight dark hair, came to national attention with a television summer replacement show.

This summer they are still unpacking Chinese antiques and artifacts at their Tarzana home and recalling their travels in China.

"(Ballet dancer Mikhail) Baryshnikov and we were the only performers who could communicate directly to the Chinese," said Shields. "Everyone else used words, which had to be translated. So Lorene and I ended up doing five numbers." The Hope special will air Sept. 16 on NBC.

"There is no mime in China," Shields said. "Everything is traditional. The operas are performed as they have been for hundreds of years. For the Chinese to see a free-form expression is unusual, and they were fascinated by what we did."

The Chinese were also startled at times.

Besides performing onstage with Hope, the mimes did their department store mannikin bit. Hidden cameras recorded the scene as they were set up like lifeless dummies while curious spectators gathered. Gradually the two figures began making robot-like movements, astounding the onlookers.

"A thousand people had gathered," said Shields. "When we started moving toward them, they were petrified. Lorene made the mistake of cornering one man and touching him on the chin. He got very upset. The Chinese do not like to be touched."

In his San Francisco period, Shields would bluster his way onto cable cars and buses, always looking for an audience. He used the same technique in China, alarming his guides by wandering into hotel kitchens and even backstage at the opera.

Only once did Shields and Yarnell bomb.

"I was doing my monkey-in-the-cage routine at a martial-arts school," said Shields. "You see, I play behind the bars, then I manage to pry them them apart, and I slip through. Then I take a long look at the audience, and I decide to go back into the cage.

"The routine has always been sure-fire, but this time the reaction was like ice. No reaction whatsoever.

"I did the routine again at the Gala, but I changed the ending. This time it worked. Why did it go wrong before? Perhaps because the Chinese realize they're in a cage."

Shields said his overall impressions of China were positive:

"There is no greed in China, no envy, no keeping up with the Joneses. There is virtually no crime; you can walk on the streets, and your belongings are safe in the hotel. It's impossible to tip."

Holden To Eulogize Late Screenwriter Seaton

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Actor William Holden will deliver the eulogy Tuesday at funeral services for his longtime friend and co-worker, George Seaton, an Academy Award-winning screenwriter and director.

The 68-year-old Seaton, who had suffered from cancer for two years, died in his sleep at his home Saturday.

Seaton, who spent 40 years in show business and was three times president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, received Oscars for his screenplay of "Miracle on 34th Street" and his 1954 adaptation of Clifford Odets' play "The Country Girl," which he also directed.

But his biggest commercial success was as writer and director of "Airport" for producer Ross Hunter in 1969. "Airport" grossed $45 million in film rentals

Seaton produced and directed his last film, "Showdown," starring Rock Hudson and Dean Martin.

His first screen credits were as co-in the U.S. and Canada and was the biggest moneymaker in Universal Pictures history until "Jaws."

Other films he directed included the 1950s Clark Gable comedies "Teacher's Pet" and "But Not for Me," and Holden's films "Counterfeit Traitor," "Bridges at Toko-Ri" and "The Proud and the Profane."

In 1973, Seaton produced and directed his last film, "Showdown," starring Rock Hudson and Dean Martin.

His first screen credits were as co-writer for a string of 1930s Marx Brothers films, including the classic "A Day at the Races." In 1943, he wrote the screenplay for the successful "Song of Bernadette," which began a string of Hollywood religious epics.

Before turning to television, Seaton was the character's voice of the original "Lone Ranger" show at a radio station in his hometown of Detroit in the early 1930s. The 20-year-old Seaton shouted "Hi Ho Silverrr!" and beat his chest with coconut shells to give the sound effect of Silver galloping off.

Jackie Onassis Celebrates 50th Birthday

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — Jackie Onassis celebrated her 50th birthday this weekend cruising off the Maine coast on a yacht with friends.

The widow of President John F. Kennedy and Greek shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis reportedly departed late last week from a marina somewhere on Cape Cod and was not expected back until Wednesday.

It was believed the former First Lady decided to take the cruise as a gesture to Mrs. Rose Kennedy who this weekend enjoyed a belated 89th birthday party.

SHIRLEY MASON DIES — Silent movie star Shirley Mason died Friday of cancer at age 79 in Los Angeles. A native of New York, Miss Mason was a child actress on the stage before entering films for the Edison Co. in 1915. Among her films were "Vanity Fair," "Treasure Island," "Sally in Our Alley," "The Flying Marine," "Rich Men's Sons" and "So This is Paris." (AP Laserphoto)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By William A. Doyle

Q. I have just turned 23, am single, heading for a professional degree and employed in my chosen field. I live meagerly in a mobile home my roommate and I jointly own with one year left on the mortgage. I have small holdings in the stock market, the equivalent of five months' salary in a savings account and can save $300 a month.

My roommate says I'm crazy to have so much in savings, because inflation takes away so much more than the interest provides. He doesn't save at all for that reason.

I have been saving in hopes of some day investing in income-producing property. What do you think of savings certificates as an alternative to my savings account?

A. Here, we have a classic confrontation between two diametrically opposite views on financial planning. There's no denying that, recently, inflation has been eroding the value of the dollar faster than interest builds up on savings accounts, even on savings certificates.

But to use that as an excuse to have no savings is ridiculous. Everyone should have some money tucked away for emergency purposes. Unless your roommate has a steady salary or is lucky enough to have some other source of income, that lesson will come home to roost sooner or later.

Tell your roomie you appreciate his thoughts. Then go right on saving money. At the risk of sermonizing, I have to voice my feelings that this nation will tame inflation eventually. When? I don't know. But to borrow the rallying cry of the New York Mets' last pennant-winning year, "Ya gotta believe."

With or without inflation, a person who has money put aside will do better than a spendthrift such as your roommate. Your financial goal of owning income property makes sense. Stay with it.

• • •

Q. Please clear up one point about changing the ownership form of municipal bonds. When a particular municipal bond issue is available in either registered or bearer form, is it possible for an owner of a bond to have his bond changed from bearer form to registered form and then back to bearer form?

A. Assuming that the particular bond issue called for bonds to be issued in either form, you can have your bond changed from bearer form to registered form but not from registered form to bearer form.

• • •

Q. A recent column of yours left the impression that small denomination savings certificates in bearer form were a novel and short-lived income tax dodge. In truth, any negotiable security may be endorsed in blank or to the bearer. The U.S. Treasury issues bearer bonds.

What is novel is that small denomination savings certificates available to the little guy are not negotiable, while certificates of deposit, at $100,000 and up a crack, are still negotiable. This is another case of our glorious government doing you know what to you know whom.

A. Maybe you're right. But your reasoning seems to be that all owners of bearer securities — on which there is no recorded ownership — do not pay income tax on the interest they collect.

That's just not true. Most big ticket bearer securities are owned by big institutional investors whose books are audited and who would be out of their minds if they tried to hide interest income.

The Internal Revenue Service has its methods for tracking down people who use bearer securities as tax dodges. Although the IRS doesn't catch them all, going after the big ones usually pays off in taxes and penalties. Opening the floodgates of tax dodging to small denomination bearer savings certificates would make the revenooers' job just about impossible.

Dedication Ceremonies Set At Tech Museum

The Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University will be the site Saturday of the dedication of several structures and facilities. The public is invited to the ceremonies, after which a small reception which will be held.

There will be no charge.

Events will begin with dedication of the Robert L. Snyder Memorial Drive and parking area, made possible by gifts made in memory of the former director of the Ranching Heritage Center and Lubbock civil leaders. This will take place at 10 a.m., when Mrs. Snyder will cut a ribbon opening the drive and then step into the lead car in a cavalcade of cars moving to the parking area.

Museum Director Leslie C. Drew will be the master of ceremonies for that event and for the dedication of a commemorative plaque honoring those who gave for the facility and for a second plaque recognizing a gift from the Diamond M Foundation.

The bronze Diamond M plaque honors C.T. McLaughlin, a former member of the Texas Tech Board of Directors (1949-55), and recognizes the establishment of the C.T. McLaughlin Endowment Fund "to support the continued development and operation of the cultural and educational programs of the Ranching Heritage Center." Present for the dedication will be McLaughlin's daughter, Mrs. Keith (Jean) Kahle, president of the Diamond M Foundation.

At the start of a walk-through of the 12-acre Ranching Heritage Center site, a memorial oak tree will be dedicated to former Lubbock Mayor Roy Bass in recognition of his support of the outdoor exhibit, which depicts the history of ranching in America. Mrs. Bass will participate in this dedication.

Of special intertest to persons who have watched the Ranching Heritage Center develop will be the dedication of the Jowell House, donated to the Ranching Heritage Association in 1971. Marked stone by stone and moved to the center, it stood roofless for years while archeological and architectural research determined its original appearance.

A gift of $20,000 from Roy B. David Jr. and his family helped finish the restoration and provided some of the historic furnishings for the fortress-like ranch home that originally was built in the 1870s. People familiar with Possum Kingdom Lake remember it standing on the southwest shore.

It was known there as the Joly House, a name coming from the Jowell cattle brand. It was built by George R. Jowell to protect his family when he was absent from the ranch, and he built it, gunports and all, after his earlier home had been burned by Indians in his absence. Moved to the Ranching Heritage Center were 90 tons of handcut limestone in the original house, and stonemasons used Palo Pinto area limestone to complete restoration of the house as well as the outbuildings, a cistern and milk house.

The Jowell House was donated by the Seaman heirs in honor of their father, the late L.E. Seaman. Present for the dedication will be several descendants of George Jowell.

Mrs. Roy B. Davis Sr., whose family ties with the Jowells are traced through her maternal grandparents, William Metcalfe and Sarah Jowell Metcalfe, will unveil an interpretative marker at the building.

The Jowell's ties to West Texas are numerous. Family members moved in 1882 to Stonewall and Jones counties and then to Deaf Smith County in 1887 when they established the Lucky Hit Ranch.

Jowell was the first county assesor of Deaf Smith County and was a founder of the city of Hereford. He donated 160 acres of land for the now defunct Panhandle Christian College in Hereford and was an early contributor to Texas Christian University. The Jowell School south of Canyon, later made a community center, is on land donated by a brother, Jerome.

Following dedication of the Jowell House, guests will dedicate the George Webb Slaughter Memorial Arbor, where visitors on the site may find a drink of water and a refreshing resting place. This is to be dedicated to Sara Mason and George Webb Slaughter in memory of Dela Slaughter and G.G. Wright by Roberta Wright Reeves, whose gift made it possible.

The final dedication of the day will be that of Joe B. Matthews Memorial Watering Trough, landscaped at his request by three hackberry trees and placed near the Reynolds-Gentry Barn at the center.

Matthews, who died in 1977 at the age of 94, was his grandfather's namesake and a third-generation member of the Matthews and Reynolds families, who came to the Albany area in the late 1860s. He was known nationally for his service to the ranching industry and for 15 years, including the year of his death, he enchanted Ft. Griffin Fandangle audiences with his portrayal of the "old timer."

Matthews chose the watering trough memorial because of his recognition of the significance of water to the rancher.

William E. Green, conservator of history at The Museum, will be master of ceremonies and will speak on the significance of each of the outdoor structures commemorating individuals who contributed to ranching history.

MURDER HEARING ON TIME

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A judge refused on Friday to postpone a preliminary hearing for Roger Dale Stafford, charged with murder in the 1978 slayings of six employees at a steakhouse. Oklahoma County District Judge William Myers turned down a motion by J. Malone Brewer, Stafford's fourth attorney, who sought a 30-day delay in next Wednesday's hearing so he could have more time to prepare his case. Stafford, a 27-year-old Alabama drifter, is charged with killing the restaurant workers during a $1,500 robbery.

HEARTLINE: I am 57. I worked in a Social Security-covered job for at least 25 years. I have not worked at all for the last 10 years. The Social Security office has written me that I have at least 40 quarters. Will I need to get a job these last five years if I intend to apply for Social Security at age 62? — L.J.

No, you need never work again as far as your eligibility for Social Security retirement is concerned. Once a person has met the quarter-of-coverage requirement, based upon his year of birth, he is eligible for retirement from that point on, as soon as he reaches retirement age of 62, or earlier if he becomes totally disabled.

HEARTLINE: Did every railroad retirement annuitant receive a cost of living increase in July? I received my raise, but a friend of mine did not receive his. — K.S.

Railroad retirement annuitants, like Social Security beneficiaries, have received cost of living increases that began with the monthly benefit payments made in the first part of July. Some increases have been delayed, but will be paid retroactively as soon as possible. These increases are provided through automatic cost of living provisions in the Railroad Retirement and Social Security Acts.

The following questions and answers describe how the cost of living increases are applied to railroad retirement annuities.

1. How is the cost of living increase calculated for retired railroaders and their spouses?

Separate cost of living increases are made for each of the two tiers in employee and spouse annuities.

Tier I annuity portions, which are the equivalent of Social Security benefits, were increased by 9.9 percent, same as Social Security benefits. The 9.9 percent increase is equal to the rise in the consumer price index from the first quarter of 1978 through the first quarter of 1979.

A separate 3.2 percent increase was made in certain tier II components of employee annuities and in the entire second tier of spouse annuities. The tier II increase, 32.5 percent of the rise in the consumer price index, is the third of four such increases provided under the Railroad Retirement Act of 1974.

2. Did widow and other survivor annuitants receive a cost-of-living increase in their July payments?

Yes, and with some exceptions, those survivor annuitants not also receiving Social Security benefits received a 9.9 percent increase in both tiers of their annuities.

3. How about annuitants receiving both railroad retirement and Social Security benefits? Do they receive duplicate increases?

No. The tier I railroad retirement increase is reduced by the increase in the annuitant's Social Security benefit. However, the tier II increase is not affected by entitlement to Social Security benefits and would be payable in any case.

Police Investigate Family's Execution

LINWOOD, Mich. (AP) — Police went to a Linwood home Sunday after neighbors heard screams, breaking glass and "popgun-sounding shots," and found all six members of a family dead.

Officers said it appeared a man shot his estranged wife, their four young children and then himself.

Michigan state police said they went to the Fraser Township house about 12 miles north of Bay City, Mich., at 12:20 a.m.

Dead were Thomas Benware, 33; his estranged wife, Diane, 28; and the children, Jeffrey, 9, Weldon, 8, Jason, 4, and Eleatha, 3.

There were signs of a struggle in the living room, where the bodies of both adults were found, said state trooper Greg Somers. The children's bodies were found in a bedroom. All had been shot in the head with a .22-caliber rifle, Somers said.

No Payoff, No Play; Claims Ex-Olympian

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. officials held firm Sunday that many American track and field athletes failed to come to Russia for the Spartacade Games because of visa problems, injuries and other reasons.

They denied reports that the athlete did not how up because they were not paid money they had been promised.

The Associated Press learned over the weekend from three sources that some top athletes — the exact number could not be determined — were staying away from two meets now going on because they did not receive "under the table" payments from event organizers or corporate sponsors. The two events are the Spartacade Games here and and the National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs, Colo.

"I'm sure there was no payoff for Spartacade and I'm sure there never was supposed to be one," said Ollan Cassell, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union. "And I know there was none for the Sports Festival."

Wilma Rudolph, the first woman to win three Olympic gold medals, a track and field athlete and an insider in the sport all told the AP that the lack of payments prompted some athletes to sit out the events. Both the track and field athlete and the insider requested anonymity.

"The story is based on a total untruth," said Cassell on Sunday.

"There's no such thing as a payoff for Spartacade," said Jimmy Carnes, head of the U.S. track and field delegation for the Spartacade Games. "The AAU utilitizes funds available for all athletes in all sports for the Spartacade."

According to the AP report, the under the table payments were to come from from the corporate sponsors of the National Sports Festival, including Coca Cola, and the AAU, which is in charge of sending U.S. athletes to Spartacade.

A Coke spokesman said of the report, "The Coca Cola company ... has never been involved in any direct payments to athletes themselves."

Stan Vinson of Chicago, winner of the 400 meters and anchor man on the 1,600-meter relay team here, said, "There's no money for Spartacade and there's no money for the sports festival.

"The reason guys dropped out of here is that they just don't like Moscow," said Vinson, who has competed here five times. Me, I like it here. It gives me a chance to get away.

"The guys like to stay home because it gives them a chance for more publicity."

But Miss Rudolph told the AP in Colorado Springs, "I can't sit here and tell you that the athletes don't get money under the table. It wouldn't be honest. It would bother my conscious if I lied to you."

Miss Rudolph, who now works as a consultant for the Department of the Interior's national sports training program and also works for Coca Cola, said, "There is just not enough money to go around. There is no way to pay all the kids here" So she said the under the table payments went to top name athletes.

Miss Rudolph said in the interview with the AP, "How can you justify paying 15 kids when there are so many others in the program? I'm not against those 15 kids getting the money. I just think it should be a fair distribution."

On Saturday evening, after the AP story appeared, the U.S. Olympic Committee issued a statement that said:

"Wilma Rudolph vehemently denied the context of an Associated Press story that she discussed the non-apppearance of any athletes at the United States Olympic Committee National Sports Festival or the Spartacade in Moscow."

The statement said Miss Rudolph "At no time in an interview with an Associated Press sports writer discussed any financial conditions of the National Sports Festival."

Under AAU rules, athletes may receive reimbursement for travel expenses, such as plane tickets, and a small per diem.

The athlete who talked about extra payments with the AP did so on condition that his name not be used. He said, "Yes, definitely, a lot of guys didn't come here becuase they dind't get their money. There were promises, but obviously they weren't kept."

John Jackson, assistant to Cassel, said Saturday of extra payments to athletes, "I'm almost positive it does happen. I've never seen it happen but I'm sure it's happened all around me."

Refering to payments other than expenses, Jackson said: "You always hear these things. I put together our track and field team (for Spartacade), and we don't pay any of the athletes. If they don't want to participate, there's always somebody else waiting in the wings."

Graham Takes Philly Golf Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lou Graham, at 41 one of the oldest regulars on the pro golf tour, holed a three-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden death playoff to beat young Bobby Wadkins in the $250,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic Sunday.

Graham and Wadkins both completed the 72-hole tournament at 273, 11 strokes under par on the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club Course. Wadkins carded a 1-under-par 70 and Graham a tournament record-equaling 64 in the final round.

Wadkins, who led most of Sunday and went to the 18th tee with a 1-stroke advantage, fell into a tie when he bogeyed the 420-yard final hole.

On the 72nd hole, Wadkins hit into a pine tree on the right-hand side of the dogleg hole. It was an unplayable lie and the 28-year-old native of Richmond, Va., had to take a drop and a penalty stroke.

Wadkins then hit onto the green about 20 feet from the pin, pin-high. He stroked the putt but the ball stopped about one foot from the hole, giving him a bogey 5 and tossing the tournament into the sudden-death playoff.

The two then went to the first tee to start the playoff. Wadkins' drive landed in the right rough behind some trees, but there was an opening for him to shoot through. Graham hit down the middle and his second shot landed on the green three feet from the hole. Wadkins came out of the rough to within 35 feet of the pin.

Ironically, it wasn't Graham who concerned Wadkins most of the day. He was challenged by J.C. Snead, defending champion Jack Nicklaus and David Graham, the taciturn Australian and designer of golf clubs.

Lou Graham came out of the pack on the final nine holes, posting four birdies and only a single bogey after making the turn. He got hot just when the others cooled off.

Snead finished with a final round 69 and four-round total of 274, tying with Nicklaus and Mark Hayes. Nicklaus, the defending champion, carded a 6-under-par 65 Sunday, while Hayes took a 70.

Another stroke back at 275 were Billy Kratzert and Dave Graham, who shot a final 71. Then came Jerry Pate, Ray Floyd and Ben Crenshaw, all at 276.

Lou Graham's playoff record since he joined the tour in 1964 now is 3-1. He has just four triumphs in tour competition over those 15 years, including the U.S. Open in 1975.

The winner said he had a premonition that he was close to winning another tournament. He said after a practice round and the pro-am here, "I felt I wouldn't be surprised if I won this tournament or one in the next couple of weeks."

Graham said before the playoff that his game had improved the last four or five weeks.

"I have been in the worst slump of my career. I thought I never would come out of it," Graham said. "But I came back to life.

"There is no doubt about it, this is the most satisfying win other than the Open," Graham said. "It's been a tough year.

The figures tell you that. He has won $68,252 this year and that includes Sunday's $45,000. Graham has been in the money in 16 of his 23 starts in 1979, and Philadelphia purse made him golf's 21st player to win at least $1 million in a golf career. He now has won $1,027,397.

Wadkins, of course, was keenly disappointed.

"There was no doubt in my mind that he would make that birdie putt," said the younger member of the Wadkins' golfing brothers. Lanny Wadkins finished with a 280 at Whitemarsh, 4 under par through 72 holes.

"I thought I could make pars on 17 and 18," said Wadkins, who led by a stroke starting the final two holes.

Alcott Gets Canadian Triumph Over Lopez

STE. JULIE, Quebec (AP) — Amy Alcott, recovering from a viral infection and laryingitis, sank a 45-foot eagle putt on the 18th hole Sunday to win the $150,000 Peter Jackson Classic with a 7-under-par 285 for the 72-hole tournament.

The 23-year-old Miss Alcott also dropped a 40-foot birdie on the 17th hole as she pulled away from Nancy Lopez, who had created a tie at 4-under-par going into the final three holes.

(Complete LPGA Scores Page 4 Sec. C)

The victory, on the 6,434-yard Richelieu Valley Golf Club course, was Miss Alcott's sixth since joining the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour five years ago.

Mrs. Lopez and Miss Alcott played cat-and-mouse for the leadership and the $22,500 first-prize money throughout the back nine, but the LPGA's leading money-winner faded in the stretch and finished at 4-under 288.

The winner had rounds of 75 and three 70's while Lopez fired rounds of 76-70-71-71.

ALEXANDER MAKES FINALS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Hard serving John Alexander, who won his last tournament in 1977, squeezed by 11th-seeded Eliot Teltscher of Palos Verdes, Calif., 7-6, 5-7, 6-4 Sunday to enter the finals of the $175,000 Louisville Invitational Tennis Classic.

Jarrett Survives 'Classic Showdown' For City Golf Title

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Every good American knows about the legendary shootout at the OK Corral.

After all, it represents the classic showdown between the good guys and the bad. Well, there was another such showdown Sunday afternoon in Lubbock — and it was the kind of thing that movies are made of. Only it occured on the 17th tee at the Meadowbrook Golf Course in the final round of the Men's City Championship.

For a lack of better words, we'll call it: "The Showdown At Prairie Dog Town."

And young Mark Jarrett was the golfer who rode off into the golden sunset with the white hat, the fair damsel and, incidentally the championship with a 67-72–139 score. But just like Doc Holliday and Wyatt Earp, Jarrett had a few rough moments before he could walk away a winner.

Chris Brown and Gordon Butler supplied most of them.

Coming onto the 17th tee, Butler, Brown and Jarrett were all tied up after 34 holes of play. Somewhere in the background, you could almost here the drum roll. This was it.

(Complete City Scores On Page 4, Sec. C)

Butler, who had birdied No. 16 to cause the logjam, was the first to tee off into a strong wind that was blowing towards the out-of-bounds area on the left. The fairway was lined with trees, on this 482-yard, par-5 hole. Butler's shot went out-of-bounds, he was quickly in trouble.

Then Jarrett took his shot and sent it straight down the fairway. Next off was Brown who ran into disaster.

"My first shot went up against the fence," said Brown. "So I had an unplayable lie. Then I hit one that bounced off a tree. The next shot went over the green," he added shaking his head.

Finally he settled for a double-bogey 7. Butler also wound up with a 7. Jarrett was busy dusting off his white hat.

From about 200 feet away, he hit a three-iron on his third shot. The ball rolled up on the green, lipped the hole and stopped about four feet from the hole. Jarrett made the short putt for a birdie and it was all over.

Brown finished with a 74 for the day and took second place in the tournament with an even par 142. And Butler, who ended up with a 76 for the day wound up tied for fourth with Rex Robertson at 144. Hal Schauer and Greg Reynolds, who were playing in the groups ahead of them finished third with a pair of 143's.

"Seventeen was my best hole of the tournament," admitted Jarrett afterwards. "My three-iron shot was probably the best shot I hit in the whole thing."

But what was Jarrett thinking about at the tee box on No. 17?

"I just wanted to keep the ball in play," he said. "So I just kept concentrating on keeping the ball down. I didn't want to get it up in that wind."

There were plenty of other golfers in the field — playing ahead of Jarrett's foursome — who could have snuck up on the leaders (as Schauer and Reynolds nearly did) but, according to Jarrett, that thought never crossed their minds.

"I never thought about anyone but our group," he said. "All day long we were flipping back and forth — one guy would gain a stroke on the others and then he'd lose one. Then we finally wound up tied on 16.

"But I think that was kind of an advantage for all four of us," he added after a moments consideration. "We all knew what we had to do."

As it turned out, all that any of the golfers had to do to win the City Championship was stay under par, but surprisingly no one did — except Jarrett who finished three under.

"We had quite a good little tournament," said Meadowbrook pro Jay McClure. "But the scores did turn out a little high. I was surprised that Mark (Jarrett) was the only one who finished under par."

Kevin Heise won the championship consolation flight, with a two-day total of 152 — well off the winning pace. In fact, Chris Norris who won the First Flight, was one stroke better than Heise finishing with a 151.

The top finishers in each flight won gift certificates but the day belonged to Jarrett.

"I've had a good summer," he said smiling. "I've won five or six tournaments (mostly partnerships though) and now this kind of caps it all off.

"This is the one I wanted to win all along," he added. "This was the biggie."

Then he climbed on his horse and rode off. Out on No. 17 the wounded lay bleeding...

FOYT WINS USAC

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Houstonian A.J. Foyt stalked Tom Bigelow for 28 laps and then took advantage of a painfully slow pitstop by Bigelow Sunday to win the United States Auto Club Grand Prix 200 at Texas World Speedway. Foyt, who won his third consecutive USAC championship car race.

WINNING PUTT — Texas Tech cage star David Little shows his winning form in the putting contest held Saturday during the Rainbow Classic benefit golf tournament at Treasure Island. Little won the putting contest and recieved a set of irons for his effort. The tournament was successful in raising over $3,000 for the Arthritis Foundation in its first year. Over 200 golfers competed in the affair that was sponsored by the Avalanche-Journal. And the Arthritis Foundation plans to make the tournament an annual thing. Related picture on page 4, Sec. C. Carew Gets Four Hits As Angels Blast Twins 9-3

By the Associated Press

Dan Ford drilled a two-run homer in the first inning to put California ahead to stay and rookie Steve Eddy picked up his first major league victory as the Angels rolled to a 9-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Rod Carew, who had four hits in the game, singled to lead off the Angels' first and, one out later, Ford blasted his 13th homer of the year, off loser Darrell Jackson, 2-2.

Eddy, 1-0, was making only his third big league start. The 21-year-old right-hander allowed six hits and both Minnesota runs in six innings before being relieved by Dave LaRoche, who held the Twins to one run over the final three innings to record his ninth save. Eddy walked three and struck out none.

BREWERS 5, YANKEES 3

Hot-hitting Sixto Lezcano slapped a two-run single and Paul Molitor scored twice leading the Milwaukee Brewers to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees for a sweep of their fight-marred three-game series.

Bill Travers, 9-4, and Bob McClure combined to scatter nine hits for the Brewers, who lost third baseman Jim Gantner by ejection because of a seventh-inning scrap with the Yankees' Lou Piniella. The fight continued a trend of battling which started in Milwaukee's 6-5 victory Friday night.

The Brewers took a 1-0 lead in the third as Molitor walked and scored on a double by Don Money. They made it 3-0 with two fourth-inning runs on a single by Ben Oglivie, a triple by Robin Yount and a sacrifice fly by Jim Wohlford.

A's 2, MARINERS 1

Rookie Mike Morgan pitched a three-hitter for his first major league victory and the Oakland A's scored a pair of unearned runs in the first inning for a 2-1 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Morgan, 1-6, didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning as he posted his first victory after nine major league losses.

ORIOLES 6, ROYALS 4

Gary Roenicke cracked a pair of home runs and the streaking Baltimore Orioles downed the Kansas City Royals 6-4 for their 10th victory in 12 games.

Left-hander Scott McGregor, 6-3, won his sixth game in the last seven decisions although he needed relief help in the seventh from Dave Ford, who gained his first save.

Roenicke gave the Orioles a 3-0 lead in the second with a three-run homer and added a solo shot in the seventh, his 17th of the season. Both came off loser Paul Splittorff, 10-11, who dropped his third game to Baltimore this season.

CARDINALS 6, PHILLIES 5

St. Louis scored four runs in the fifth inning and pitcher Pete Vuckovich survived home runs by Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski as the Cardinals recorded a 6-5 triumph and handed the Phillies their sixth consecutive loss.

A sacrifice fly by Jerry Mumphrey, a single by Keith Hernandez single and a double by Tony Scott produced runs in the Cards' big inning. Luzinski's misplay of Scott's hit allowed the fourth run to score.

The uprising boosted the St. Louis lead to 6-1 and gave Vuckovich, 10-7, the cushion he needed. He yielded Schmidt's 36th home run of the season, a two-run shot, in the sixth inning, and Luzinski's 12th homer in the eighth.

INDIANS 9, WHITE SOX 6

Rick Manning's grand slam homer following a two-run shot by Gary Alexander capped a seven-run second inning to lead the Cleveland Indians to a 9-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The triumph was the seventh straight for the Indians, all coming since Dave Garcia took over the managerial reigns from Jeff Torborg.

Rick Wise, 11-5, was the winner with sixth-inning relief help from Paul Reuschel, while Ken Kravec, 9-9, took the loss.

RED SOX 3 RANGERS 2

Carl Yastrzemski's RBI groundout in the sixth inning scored the winning run and right-hander Mike Torrez survived jam after jam to give the Boston Red Sox a 3-2 victory over the slumping Texas Rangers.

Torrez earned his 11th victory against six losses although he was cuffed for 11 hits by the Rangers. Torrez staggered 7 1-3 innings before reliever Dick Drago mopped up to earn his sixth save.

Ranger catcher Jim Sundberg tagged Torrez for a solo homer in the second inning and knocked in another run in the sixth with a groundout following a single by Richie Zisk and an Oscar Gamble double.

REDS 9, BRAVES 4

Ray Knight drove in five runs with two doubles and a home run and Dave Collins doubled in two more, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Knight doubled in two runs as the Reds presented left-hander Fred Norman, 8-8, with a three-run lead in the second inning. His fourth home run of the season, a drive over the left field fence in the seventh, brought in two more. Knight delivered his final run with another double in the eighth.

Collins' two-run hit chased Atlanta's starter Rick Matula, 6-7, in the fourth.

EXPOS 5, PIRATES 3

Andre Dawson drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple and Rusty Staub stroked a pair of run-scoring singles as the Montreal Expos defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3 to regain first place in the National League's East Division.

The Expos rocked Bruce Kison, 6-6, for four first-inning runs. Warren Cromartie led off the inning with a double, then scored on Staub's single to left field.

Ellis Valentine and Gary Carter singled to fill the bases, then Dawson chopped his triple inside the right-field line.

GIANTS 4, PADRES 2

Jack Clark hit a two-run homer and Joe Strain contributed a run-scoring single as the San Francisco Giants defeated the San Diego Padres 4-2.

San Francisco's John Montefusco, 3-4, gave up six hits — three by Dave Winfield — before being replaced by Gary Lavelle with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth. Lavelle gave up a two-run single to pinch-hitter Fernando Gonzalez before collecting his 13th save.

METS 4, CUBS 0

Lee Mazzilli and Richie Hebner drove in two runs apiece while Kevin Kobel and Ed Glynn held Chicago to two hits as the New York Mets blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0 in a game shortened to seven innings by rain.

The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was postponed and will be made up as part of a twi-night doubleheader on Sept. 18.

TIGERS 5, BLUE JAYS 4

Lance Parrish hit a pair of solo home runs and Steve Kemp added a solo blast to power the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Rookie Pat Underwood, 6-1, scattered 11 hits, including a bases-empty homer by Rico Carty. Underwood struck out six and walked one before being relieved in the eighth by Aurelio Lopez, who earned his eighth save.

FIGHTING AT THIRD — New York Yankees coach Mike Ferraro pulls Milwaukee third baseman Jim Gantner down after he went after Lou Piniella, left, during the seventh inning Sunday in Milwaukee. Both benches rushed to the fight and Gantner was ejected from the game. The Brewers went on to win, 5-3. (AP Laserphoto)

Luck's Image Girl Wins Feature

RUIDOSO (Special) — Fans who made Luck's Image Girl a 3-5 favorite in Sunday's $102,726 World's Championship Classic at Ruidoso Downs must have had their hearts in their mouths during most of the race.

The four-year old filly, trying to prove her worth as a blue chip Ruidoso performer, got away with her usual sluggishness in the prestigious 440 yard dash.

Before she could blink, the competition was off and flying, and Luck's Image Girl must have been two to three lengths off the lead. At that point, her backers were ready to start ripping up mutuel tickets.

But the filly more than made up for her tardy getaway with a wilting attack on the far outside. She was so far outside that she nearly brushed the outside rail. She swooped down to the finish like a vulture and easily passed the front, running outside of Dickey's Fireman.

Jerry Nicodemus was aboard the filly who's owned by the Iravis Ranch of Norman, Okla.

Lubbock Teams Advance In LL

Three Lubbock little league teams collected weekend victories to advance in the state playoffs.

Lubbock's Dixie Little League All-Stars defeated Anson 8-0 Saturday in Snyder to earn a berth in the State Little League Tournament Aug. 6.

The Southwest Lubbock All-Stars downed El Paso Lower Valley 7-6 Saturday in El Paso to win the District Pony League Baseball Tournament. Southwest advances to the sectional tournament this week in DeSoto and its first game will be at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The Lubbock Dixie 13-year old Senior Little League All-Stars defeated Fort Worth 7-6 in Fort Worth Friday to gain a spot in the state tournament in Austin. Lubbock's first game will be at 9 a.m. today.

Hubbers To Face Houston In Semis

KERRVILLE (Special) — The Lubbock Hubbers will play Houston Lone Star at 7 p.m. today to determine who will face the Bryan Bombers for the championship of the State NBC Tournament.

The Bombers defeated the Hubbers late Saturday night 7-5. But the Hubbers came back Sunday to knock off the Kerrville Kats 6-0 as Tim Leslie struck out eight and walked two. The Hubbers then defeated the Lubbock Town Draw Brewers 5-2 as Scott Gardner picked up the win. Catcher Jimmy Shankle also homered for the Hubbers.

Broussard Duo Wins Levelland

LEVELLAND (Special) — Mike Broussard of Levelland and J.W. Holt of Lubbock fired a final round 68 to win the Levelland Member-Guest Golf Tournament here Sunday.

Broussard and Holt carded a 36-hole total of 136 to win the championship by two strokes.

U.S. Men Dominate Relays

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States men swept all three relay gold medals in the closing day of the Spartacade track and field competition Sunday, raising the American team's total for the competition to seven.

Young Don Coleman of Eugene, Ore., was the hero of the day, anchoring both the 400 and the 800-meter relay teams to victory with tremendous comebacks.

Stan Vinson of Chicago anchored the 1,600-meter realy team to triumph in 3:03.70, picking up his second gold medal of the Games. He also won the 400 meters.

Cliff Wiley, Rich Edwards, Wardell Gilbreath and Coleman were clocked in 39:33 seconds for the 400. The 800 team of Ron Harris, Gilbreath, long jumper Carl Lewis and Coleman was clocked in 1:22.0.

The 1,600 quartet included Wiley, Harris, Fred Taylor and Vinson.

The Americans also collected two silver medals.

Craig Masbach of White Plains, N.Y., placed second in the men's 1,500 meters, trailing Vladimir Ponomaryov of the Soviet Union 3:38.6 to 3:38.9.

Benn Fields of Salisbury Mills, N.Y., cleared 7-4¼ in the men's high jump, losing to Alexander Grigorev of the Soviet Union on fewer misses.

The American men's basketball team suffered its second defeat at Vilnius, Lithuania, bowing to Ukrainia 85-76. The U.S. beat Yugoslavia 87-75 Saturday after losing in the first round to Leningrad.

The U.S. women's volleyball team opened its competition Sunday by beating Ukrainia 3-1, but the American women's basketball team suffered its second loss, 100-87, to Latvia.

Denise Curry, a 6-foot-1 center from Davis, Calif., outplayed her latvian rival, 6-10 Ulyana Semyonova, scoring 36 points to Semyonova's 35. The Soviet news agency Tass described Curry as "the best of the foreign contestants in the basktball tournament."

She has scored 94 points in three games for a 31.3 average. Semyonova leads the individual point race with 101 points in three games for a 33.6 average.

The American women beat Leningrad 93-90 Saturday after losing in the opening round, 89-82 to Ukrainia.

American judoist Dewey Mitchell of Seven Springs, Fla., decisioned Viktor Slavny of the Soviet Union Sunday in the 209-pound weight division.

American light-heavyweight boxer Andre McCoy of New Bedford, Mass., defeated Yuri Mudry of the Soviet Union when the referee stopped the quarterfinal bout in the second minute of the third round. Robert Hines of Philadelphia was beaten by Valery Kukhtin of the Soviet Union.

In the track relays, Coleman, 17, had to come from behind both times on his anchor leg, carrying the Americans to victory.

In the 400 he had to make up for a mess in the changeover between Edwards and Gilbreath and in the 800 he received the baton from Lewis, a last minute addition to the relay, who had lost considerable ground to the Russians and was trailing by about three yards when he finished the third leg.

"We thought we could make 38 seconds in the 400, but that changeover did not allow us to," Coleman said. "There was a big mistake in the change from the second to the third leg and our man had to look back, slowing down.

"I don't know how far ahead that Russian was, but I just went as hard as I could to catch him and win."

Coleman said the Americans were very concerned when a rainstorm hit the stadium at the start of Sunday's competition.

"We were scared," he said. "When this track is wet it is bad, but we had no trouble."

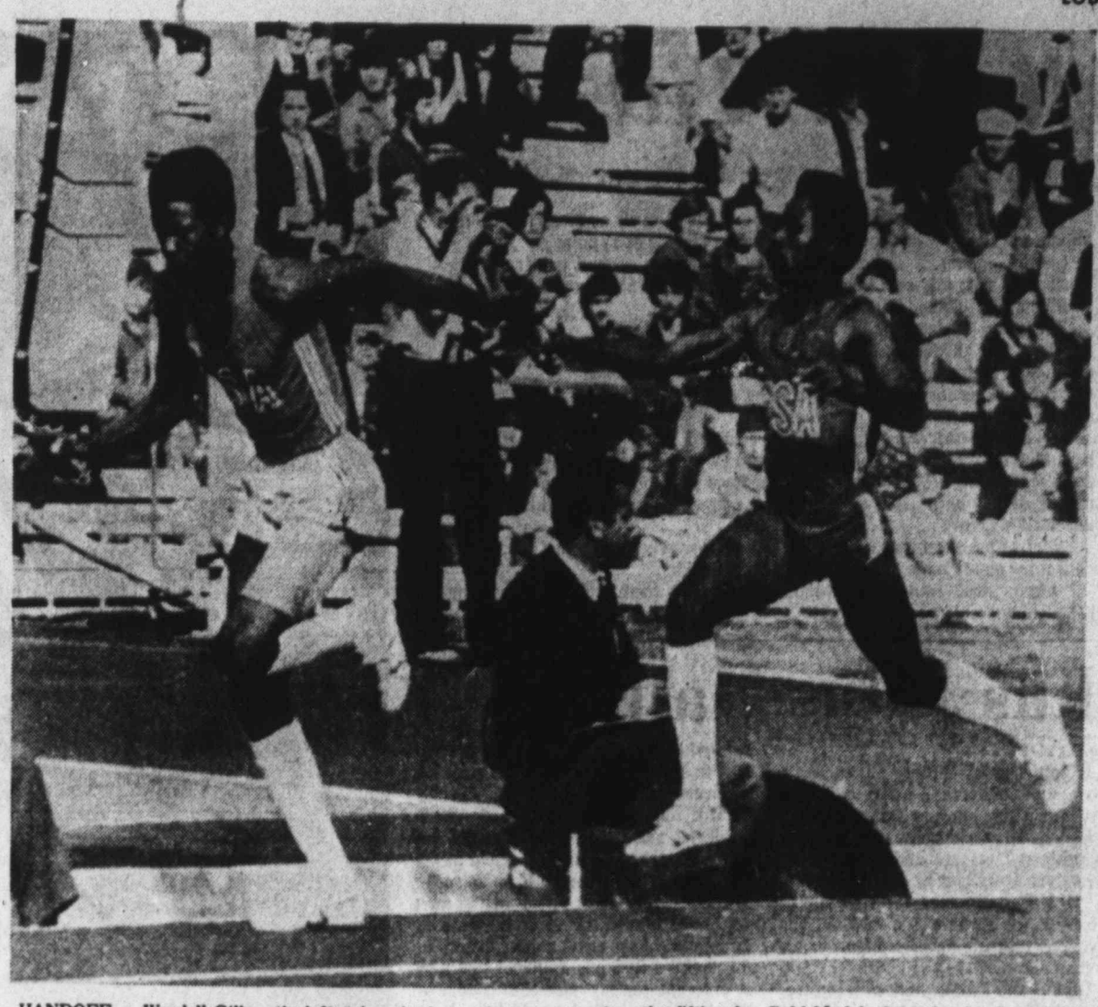

His two gold medals were sweet revenge for Coleman, the heavy favorite in last Wednesday's 200 meters. He had to settle for second place after a bad start and a slow turn, trailing Gilbreath all the way.

The 1,600-meter quartet had no trouble, leading from start to finish. On the last turn and into the homestretch, Vinson kept on looking back to make sure he could not be caught.

Masbach said he was lucky to have placed second in the 1,500 meters, a race he had been expected to win. Nehdi Aidet of Algeria led the race to the beginning of the bell lap, but then dropped behind.

"I stayed back most of the time, but then moved into what I considered was a winning spot, a second place at the bell," Masbach said. "On the backstretch I felt pain all over my body and had to struggle to keep on going. When we came around the last turn I was surprised to still be with the leaders. I felt better and I played my chips, but it was too late to catch the Russian and win."

Masbach said his trouble was probably that he had competed in too many races this season. He said he needed a rest in August.

HANDOFF — Wardell Gilbreath, left, takes the baton during the second handoff of the 400-meter relay in Moscow Sunday. Handing him the baton in this Spartacade competition is Rich Edwards. The U.S. teamed turned in a time of 39.32 to win the event — the fifth relay Gold Medal of the day for the American tracksters. Other members on the 400-meter team were Cliff Wiley and Don Coleman. Unknown Wins Austrian Tennis

KITZBUEHEL, Austria (AP) — Fourth-seeded Hana Mandlikova, a 17-year-old Czechoslovakian, beat third-seeded Sylvia Hanika of West Germany 2-6, 7-5, 6-3 in the women's singles final of the Austrian Grand Prix Tennis Tournament Sunday.

After winning the first set easily, the West German appeared as if she was heading for an easy victory.

Mandlikova, trailing 4-5 in the second set and down 0-40 as she served, thwarted all three match points to fortify her self-confidence.

Hanika, 25, who earlier displayed greater variety in her game, lost heart and points as the encounter in sultry weather drew on. She dropped her next service and Mandlikova served for a 7-5 victory.

Oakland Coach Gets NFL Victory

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The long wait has ended for Tom Flores, the new coach of the Oakland Raiders.

Flores, who replaced John Madden after last season ended, stalked the sidelines as Oakland's head man Saturday as his team opened the 1979 National Football League preseason schedule with a hard-earned 20-13 victory over the Dallas Cowboys in the annual Pro Football Hall of Fame game.

"This is my first one (game as a head coach), and naturally I've been looking forward to it for a long time. And we played well for the first exhibition game."

The Raiders picked up all their points in the first half, getting a touchdown with a long, game-opening drive, two Errol Mann field goals and the eventual winning score on a 63-yard return of a blocked field goal by rookie cornerback Henry Williams.

"I was especially pleased with the special teams," Flores said. "We've been placing emphasis on them and we showed how it can pay off when that field goal was blocked."

Oakland was leading 13-6 — thanks to a one-yard plunge by Art Whittington and Mann's field goals of 27 and 22 yards — when Cowboys placekicker Rafael Septien tried a 53-yard field goal with three seconds left in the half.

Towering defensive end Charles Philyaw slapped the low kick with his extended right hand and it bounced directly into the arms of the startled Williams.

"I was just standing there when the ball popped into my hands," the former San Diego State star said. "I wasn't going to let those guys (Oakland defenders) catch me. This is the biggest thrill in football for me."

The Cowboys outgained the Raiders in total yardage 355-228, but the only scores came on one-yard dives by Roger Staubach and rookie Ron Springs.

"We're a slow-jelling team during this time of the season because we have to work on a lot of our multiple stuff," Landry explained. "We felt like we accomplished what we intended."

ANNOUNCING AN IBM SEMINAR ON SMALL COMPUTERS

If you're in charge of any kind of business, you've probably thought about how a computer could help with your expanding information needs.

Well, now there's a free IBM seminar designed for businessmen just like you. It features a discussion of the applications and benefits of IBM's small computers.

Small computers can handle a wide range of important jobs, including order entry, invoicing, receivables, payroll, sales analysis, and inventory management to name just a few.

There are small, easy-to-use, lowcost IBM computers for the first-time user, available with programming already written for over twenty different industries. And there are small IBM computers that can be programmed specifically for your use.

But whatever your data processing requirements, the IBM seminar on small computers can help you with the kind of basic information you need to make an informed decision about the role of a computer in your business.

If you'd like to attend this free IBM seminar, call your Lubbock — IBM General Systems Division Office...Ask for Ronna Davis to Reserve a seat. (Because of a limited number of seats, reservations are required. Walk-ins can no longer be accomodated.)

Meyer Enjoys All-Star Tilt

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

FORT WORTH (AP) — Southern Methodist head football Coach Ron Meyer waited four years to have a player in the Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star football game.

The wait seemed well worth it Saturday night.

Five Mustang maniacs-to-be dashed about making big plays on the steamy artificial surface of Amon Carter Stadium.

High above the playing field, Meyer, who won the hearts of his recruits with his wide-open brand of ball, served as the color man on a radio broadcast.

He loved every minute of it in the South's 7-6 victory over the North.

"All four running backs really performed well in what I thought was an outstanding all-star game," said Meyer. "And Mitchell Bennett caught the ball and almost broke open the game with a kick return. These were the first all-star players we have had since I've been at SMU and I proud of them."

Bennett, a 9.2 sprinter from Bonham, caught three passes for 43 yards and ran a kickoff back 40 yards before he was tripped by a shoestring tackle, preventing a 100-yard return.

Eric Dickerson, the sensational running back from Sealy, dashed 43-yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter and had a 43-yard run called back. He finished the night with 64 yards on 15 carries and the most valuable back trophy.

Craig James of Houston Stratford gouged out 86 yards on 20 carries up the middle and kicked what proved to be the game-winning extra point.

Charles agoner of Dallas Carter was the leading ground gainer for the North with 86 yards on 14 carries while yet a fourth SMU-bound back, Lott McIlhenny of Highland Park ran 12 times for 35 yards.

The future Mustangs gained 271 yards rushing in the game.

"They are all quality players," said Meyer. "They've proved that during their entire high school careers.

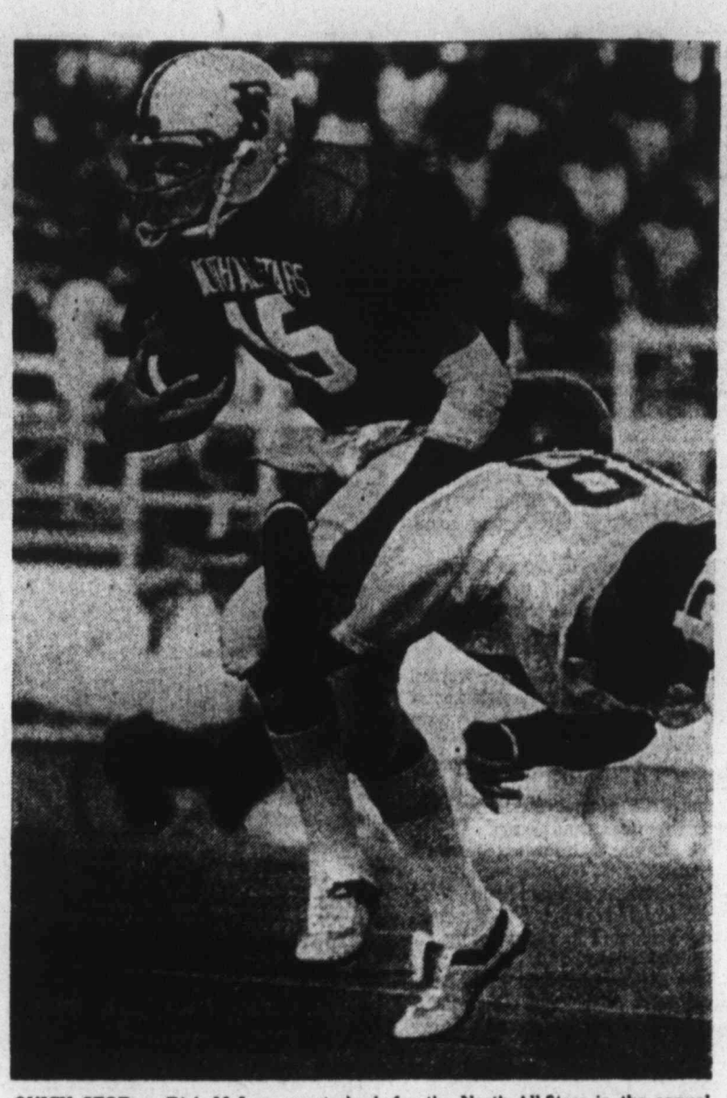

"I'm looking forward to them coming on campus Aug. 10th. I'll like 'em even better then."

Meyer also had praise for two University of Texas recruits, quarterback Rick McIvor of Fort Stockton and tight end Dewey Turner of Lubbock Estacado. McIvor completed a seven-yard touchdown pass to Turner with less than a minute to play but missed cn a two-point conversion which would have given the North a victory.

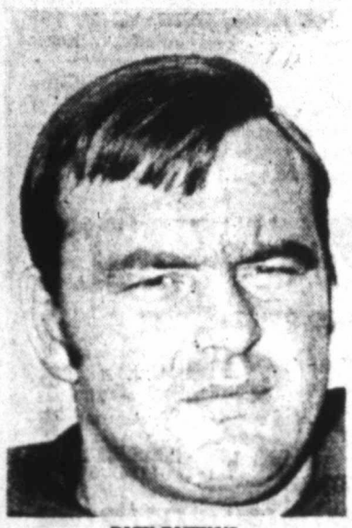

"McIvor has a tremendous future," said Meyer. "Turner can play, too."

But the night clearly belonged to Mustang Mania.

"I know this," said James in the South dressing room, "Eric is everything I thought he would be — and more!"

QUICK STOP — Rick McIvor, quarterback for the North All-Stars in the annual Texas schoolboy clash, is stopped at the line of scrimmage by Travis Selph of the South All-Stars for no gain Saturday night in Fort Worth. McIvor, from Fort Stockton, connected with tight end Dewey Turner of Lubbock Estacado for the North's only score. (AP Laserphoto)

DICK BUTKUS

Tearful Butkus Joins Hall

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Dick Butkus, the ferocious middle linebacker who terrorized National Football League backs and receivers for nine years as a member of the Chicago Bears, let loose his emotions as he joined Johnny Unitas, Ron Mix and Yale Lary as new members of the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton.

Butkus, presented for induction by Pete Elliott, once his coach at the University of Illinois and now executive director of the Hall of Fame, had to gulp back the tears as he spoke to the throng surrounding the steps of the pro grid shrine Saturday.

"I dreamed of being a great pro football player as far back as I can remember," the massive Butkus said. He talked with pride of his years in college and with the Bears and then, with emotion filtering into his voice, said, "I want to thank my mother for all she did for me, and my father, who died seven years ago."

Elliott said of Butkus, "I knew he was a superior football player from the first time I saw him play as a freshman at Illinois. His tackling was devastating, his instincts fantanstic and he had great intensity in everything he did."

"Dick Butkus is the yardstick for linebackers for all time — a yardstick for anyone to measure his own intensity as a football player."

Butkus and Unitas, both of whom retired in 1973, were voted into the Hall of Fame in their first year of eligibility.

Frank Gitschier, Unitas' quarterback coach at the University of Louisville, presented the one-time sandlot star, saying, "Dedication, desire, discipline and willingness to sacrifice — when you put those things together, it spells John Unitas."

Unitas, who played 18 years in the NFL, 17 of them with the Baltimore Colts, accepted the honor and the accoladeswith the ame aplomb that allowed him to stand in the pocket and wait for receivers to open up.

Mix, an All-American at Southern California and for 10 years with the San Diego Chargers the best offensive tackle in the American Football League, spoke of the "dignity and courage of the men who have played the game of football. To be part of the remembered history of this sport is certainly an honor that never even entered my mind. But if none of this had happened, I would have been just as happy to have played professional football."

Lary — a great defensive back, punter and kick returner for the Lions — thanked his family and friends and said, "Football has been such a major part of my life that being here today is just a dream come true."

Russians View U.S. Festival

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Two members of East European Olympic organizing committees spent Sunday touring the facilities of the National Sports Festival II, looking for tips to improve their own games.

Yuri Kartsev, a member of the 1980 Moscow Olympics Organizing Committee, and Fadil "Mike" Kulenovic of the 1984 Yugoslavia Winter Games were the guests of Coca-Cola, a prime sponsor of the Festival.

Both predicted the U.S. Olympic Training Center could serve as the site of a future Olympiad if lack of motel accommodations could be solved.

Kartsev, serving as a liason between the Russian Olympic committee and Americans visited the Winter Olympics, and Colorado Springs several times in the last year.

"The difference between Lake Placid and Colorado Springs is that there is a future here if they can develope additional motels. It would pay off. I am not sure Lake Placid has the same future," said Kartseve, 51, a former amateur basketball player in Russia.

Kulenovic says he doubts Colorado Springs ever would be considered as an Olympic site "without 10,000 beds at least." There are only 2,700 motel rooms available now in this city of 269,000 nestled at the foot of the Rocky Mountains.

"This is a very big place, even for an Olympics. I'm very surprised," said Kulenovic, 39, a former diplomat and now the Secretary of Financials and Marketing for the 1984 Winter Games.

Before leaving Sunday night, the Yugoslav vowed, "I will be back to Colorado Springs. This is the place to learn. The traffic is perfect. There are lots of arenas close."

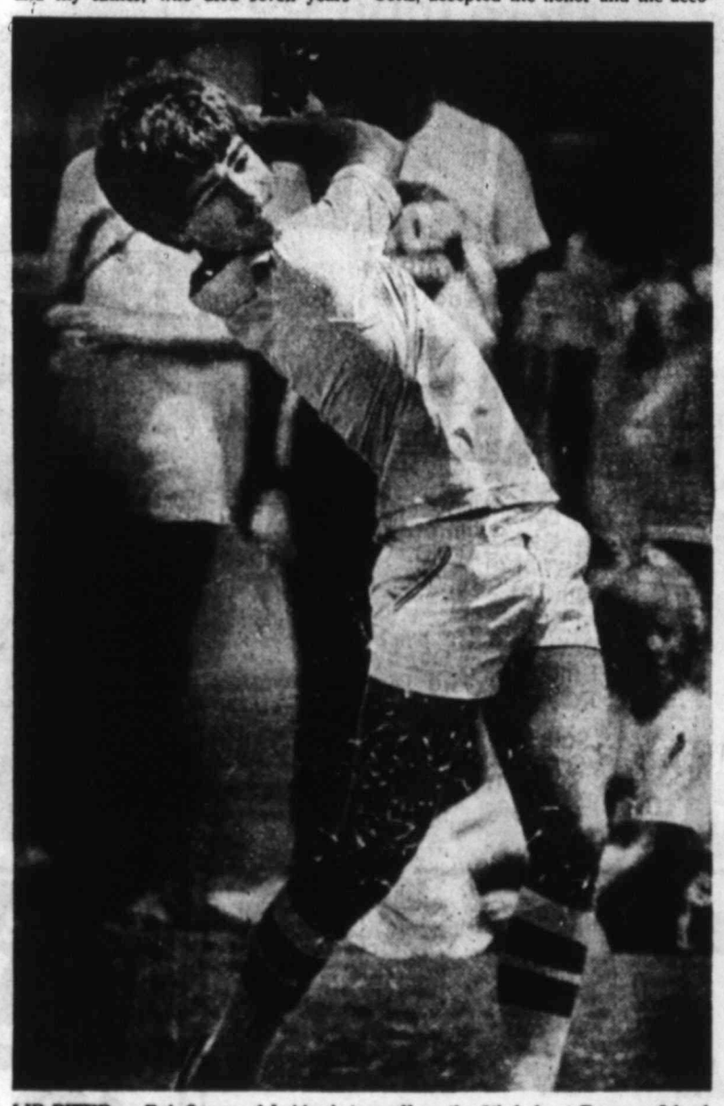

Then the former Yugoslavian National basketball player laughed. "But I hope we don't have a prison for an Olympic Village."

The Lake Placid Village will be converted to a New York state correctional institution after next year's Olympics.

Kulenovic is in the process of setting up ties with the Los Angeles 1984 Summer Olympics organizers.

"I want to see what they're doing with the marketing program and commercial end of it. I hope we can have the same cooperation that Lake Placid and Moscow have enjoyed," he said.

Kartsev's third visit to the USOC Training Center was aimed at solving the Russians' dilemma over a religious center for the 1980 Olympics.

Over 200 golfers paid $15 each — $12 of which went directly to the Arthritis Foundation to participate in the tournament. Coaches School Fails To Meet Expectations

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The 1979 Texas High School Coaches Association summer clinic may best be remembered for what almost was and what expectations weren't met.

The registration almost set a record, but fell 131 short of the attendance for the 1978 school in Houston. That meant registration, for the first time in 28 years, had failed to set a record.

The all-star games on Friday and Saturday night almost lived up to their advance billing. But the North basketball team fell behind somewhere in the third quarter, and thusly failed to score 90 points. It was the first time in five years both teams had not reached the 90-point level.

The football all-stars had big names for big plays, but after almost 60 minutes of play, both teams managed to just get on the score board in the closing minutes of the game.

And it was about the same for fan turnout. The attendance for both the basketball and football games was among the poorest in the 47-year history of the clinic.

L.W. McConachie, executive vice president of the THSCA, Said perhaps the crowds were held back in part due to gasoline shortage fears, and some along the coast were busy cleaning up behind Tropical Storm Claudette.

But most of those on hand for part or all of the school agreed it was a good week, and the 7,254 registered coaches had more lectures and exhibits and discussions than ever before.

"It provided us with more of what we come to a school for, and got us ready for the coming season," said an assistant coach from Lubbock. "We're ready to go back now and start the 1979 season."

"We got to see just as many friends, replay as many old games and discuss the coming season," said a Beaumont coach. "That's what a summer clinic is for, anyway."

The South won both all-star games.

ROCK FANS — Part of a crowd of more than 60,000 persons shows a wide range of emotions, from enthusiasm to apparent indifference Saturday at a World Series of Rock concert at Municipal Stadium in Cleveland. Prior to the start of the event, police reported numerous violent disturbances, including a fatal shooting. (AP Laserphoto)

Probe Of Concert Security Urged Following Melee

CLEVELAND (AP) — A city councilman says he wants an investigation of the violent prelude to a rock concert that left one person dead, dozens battered and some 75 people arrested.

The World Series of Rock concert at Municipal Stadium brought 65,000 rock enthusiasts, mostly young persons, into downtown Cleveland, where a mixture of drugs, alcohol and petty crime erupted into gunfire, beatings and robbery, police said.

The eight-hour concert later Saturday, featuring rock singer Ted Nugent and the groups Aerosmith, Journey, Thin Lizzy and AC-DC, was patrolled by 300 private and city police and was free of major disturbances.

As thousands of early arrivals settled in for a night of partying prior to the fourth annual event, robbers struck repeatedly and roaming gangs picked fights and administered beatings, officials said.

Gunfire killed Joseph Wente, 19, of Cleveland and wounded four others, authorities said. Police reported nine people were stabbed, none seriously, and at least 75 people were arrested on charges ranging from robbery to disturbing the peace.

"Where you have a mob, you are going to have a large amount of trouble," said Police Chief Jeffrey Fox. "It's not a very enjoyable routine to go through. When you have a mixture of alcohol and drugs, you're going to have combustion."

Another in the series of concerts is scheduled for Aug. 19.

"We'd better have a better system of security at concerts," said Councilman James Carney Jr., whose ward was turned into a battleground in the pre-dawn hours of the hot and humid day.

"It might be nice to have people downtown, but the profits aren't worth the costs," he said Saturday. "Concerts should be either totally banned, or concerts promoted by persons with a poor track record — with persons getting killed — should be banned."

Carney called for a council investigation of security arrangements and permit requirements for such gatherings.

Police said they did not know the circumstances of the death or two other shooting incidents, including one that left a 20-year-old man hospitalized in satisfactory condition with a wound in the abdomen.

They said two men received minor wounds when they were struck by a bullet from the gun of a security guard trying to control a large crowd. The bullet ricocheted off the ground, officials said.

The fifth shooting victim suffered only a minor injury, officials said.

John Moore, 17, of Akron was attacked with clubs as he crossed a pedestrian bridge near the stadium early Saturday. He told police he was able to ward off an attempt to throw him off the overpass.

"I finally hit the ground and they tried to throw me over the bridge. I grabbed on and I wouldn't let go. I guess I ended up passing out," Moore said at Lutheran Medical Center, where he was listed in fair condition.

Effects Of Experimental Drug Still Felt Years Afterward

NEW YORK (AP) — Human guinea pigs in the Army's testing of a drug 10 times more powerful than LSD say they've suffered a continuing nightmare of hallucinations, flashbacks, loss of memory and inability to concentrate.

Many say they're so afraid of being rejected by society they've never told their family or friends about their mind-battering experiences with the drug BZ durings tests performed in the 1960s and '70s at the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood Arsenal in Maryland.

"I kept hallucinating. I'd say I was still hallucinating in '74," said Richard, an investment executive tested in 1967.

"John" from Denver — he wouldn't even allow use of his real first name — said he still gets flashbacks.

Gary, a Detroit draftsman, said he is suicidal at times because of his experience. "I get really depressed. Now and then I get really into just giving up. It's really hard for me to hold a job. I haven't held one for more than six months since I got out. Sometimes I just don't care about life anymore."

Advertisements ran recently in New York, Washington and Los Angeles newspapers, paid for by the American Citizens for Honesty in Government, a branch of the Church of Scientology, as part of a national campaign to seek out test subjects of the Edgewood program.

The church group has promised respondents medical exams to check after-effects. Service medical records have been requested. A class action suit is being considered too.

Through the group, the Associated Press was able to interview several of the respondents after assuring their anonymity.

Richard said his worst experience — the most vivid of those described — began with an injection in the arm.

"I immediately couldn't stand up. I sat up, my mouth dried up and I started hallucinating. People were turning into animals, walls were turning colors.

"The whole place was psychotic. I thought I was falling down this massive Grand Canyon. There were a million spiders in the room," said Richard, 33, adding that he stayed high for at least a whole day, "but I have doubts as to whether it was two or three."

Gary, 34, claimed he lost the better part of three seasons after his June 1966 test. Except for one sad day around Christmas, he said, he doesn't remember a thing until the following spring. "I couldn't tell you if my life depended on it how I got back to Fort Rucker in Alabama."

Today's FOCUS

In addition to his memory lapse, Gary received, as did many others, a letter of commendation, a certificate suitable for framing and a group photograph.

"They told me it would be like taking aspirin," said Gary, who was told he would be testing "medicines already on the market."

The men — all of whom volunteered — said they were given various explanations of what they would be doing. Some were told they would attend chemical warfare school, others that they would be testing clothing. None said he was told he would be a test subject for a powerful new drug.

The men were promised extra pay, leaves, steak dinners, maids to clean their rooms and no KP — and got them. But they also got zapped with a drug whose effects can last up to 80 hours.

The Defense Department — which tested the drug in its search for the ultimate chemical weapon that would incapacitate without killing — acknowledges that the 2,490 servicemen and civilians in the Medical Research Volunteer Program were not given followup medical exams.

But the department contends the experiments caused no lasting, harmful effects. Richard, however, feels differently. "I'll never be satisfied that I'm fully recovered. I wish I knew what I'd be like now without having taken that drug."

Gary said he remembers reporting to a hospital where he was "given a blood test and put to bed. Then they wheeled in this big, huge machine, the size of a big stove, with dials and measuring gizmos.

"They froze my arm and put in the needle ... about the size of a pencil. It looked like something out of a science fiction movie. I was hooked up to the thing for hours. I can't remember the place after that," Gary aid. "I remember one day being lonely around Christmas. Then I remember spring."

Attempts to get government help have been difficult, John said. "After years of fighting they just characterized me as a nut and finally gave me a 10 percent disability.

"You know, 'Here's a bone, please leave us alone.' There you have it, the American way."

Message In Bottle Answered

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — On Aug. 18, 1959, fortified by some red wine, 18-year-old Alan Puccini tossed a Chianti bottle into the Atlantic from a passenger ship. This week, he'll get it back, in San Francisco.

The story of the bottle's boomerang act began as Puccini, now 38, sipped some of the hearty red vino during a last-night party just before the Julio Cesare docked in New York from Genoa, Italy.

Inside the bottle, Puccini placed a scribbled note: "To whom it may concern ..." included his parents' address in Atherton, Calif., signed it and tossed the wicker-wrapped bottle into the sea.

Last Wednesday, a generation later, a telephone call came from West Palm Beach, Fla., to Puccini's liquor store near Moraga.

"I've got something that belongs to you," said the voice. "I found your bottle." His memory jogged, Puccini remembered all.

It turned out that Scott Scotty of Florida had found the bottle while cruising around the Bahamas, and tracked down Puccini. He said a friend of Scotty's is hand-carrying the bottle back here.

Dr. Criswell Nears 35th Year Of Dallas Dynasty

By KATHLEEN CARROLL

DALLAS (AP) — A chorus of 200 voices backed by a full orchestra swells to an explosive finish. The audience bursts into applause punctuated by "Amens" and "Praise the Lords."

The man in white stands. There is silence. He strides to a pulpit flanked by microphones and beams into the four television cameras trained on his unlined face. He bows his head and 2,500 members of the congregation follow suit.

Dr. W.A. Criswell — pastor of the largest Southern Baptist Church in the world, spearhead of admittedly ultra-conservative Bible teachings, commander of a multi-million-dollar religious empire, overwhelming influence on the spiritual lives of more than 20,000 worshippers — is completely at home.

The Criswell dynasty at First Baptist Church of Dallas is legendary.

The membership roster at First Baptist Church of Dallas is sprinkled with the famous, in both the religious and secular worlds. Evangelist Billy Graham has been a member since 1953. After converting from Catholicism, Dallas Cowboys place kicker Rafael Septien became the church's 20,000th member earlier this year. That same night, commentator Paul Harvey became the 20,001st member.

At the age of 70 and on the eve of his 35th anniversary at the helm of the church — his 51st year as a preacher — Criswell shows no signs of slowing down. In fact, he is being touted as a candidate for the presidency of the Baptist World Alliance ("The only feather he does not have in his cap," said one local Baptist) and says he is going stronger than ever.

Perhaps that is why speculation abounds in the Southern Baptist Convention that Criswell will never retire, and will die in the pulpit. It is speculation Criswell does not deny.

"I believe in what I try to do. I want to do what I do all my life, I have just loved doing it," he said, repeating a phrase he has used often from the pulpit. "I would rather do what I do for nothing, than do what anybody else does for money."

In keeping with that philosophy, and his uncanny flair for publicity, Criswell announced five years ago that he will give back "every penny" he has ever earned at First Baptist — a figure he estimates is in excess of $600,000. He said he has been plowing his salary back into the church since that time, and has "consummated my pledge in my will."

Income in the six-figure realm may sound like a lot to a country preacher, even to the pastor of a large urban church. But for First Baptist, it is a mere pittance.

Business director Gene Clowe said the church already has gone over its $5 million budget for 1979, and projects the budget will exceed $6 million next year. In the latest of a series of building projects, the church is about to construct a parking garage with a price tag between $5 million and $6 million.

With the kind of money First Baptist commands, it is not unexpected that its ministry is vast and varied. That ministry follows precisely the thinking of Criswell, known to everyone as "The Pastor."

Under Criswell's leadership, the church has become an almost all-encompassing force in the lives of many members.

The 15 grades of Sunday School classes have an enrollment of more than 11,000. The classes are set up so that theoretically, an expectant mother could enroll her unborn child in a Cradle Roll class, and that child could continue study through the Senior Adult, or over-65 level.

There are special classes for Japanese members and the Chinese, Koreans, the underprivileged and the deaf have their own pastors. There are special classes for the mentally handicapped and for doctors, nurses and other medical personnel. There is even a special silent paging system in the sanctuary for doctors and each service is interpreted into sign language for deaf members.

A complicated radio-television hookup broadcasts services to overflow congregations via closed-circuit television and local stations have aired the Sunday services for years. Two specially-built control booths and four cameras are operated by volunteers.

The church sponsors a full-time music director who coordinates an orchestra, a group that plays handbells, and more than 15 choirs. He also directs a lavish "Family Night" program at the State Fair Music Hall each fall.

The high school choir has traveled around the world and the music division cuts several records each year. Music director Gary Moore said he can robe "something like" 16,000 singers. There are more than 100 pianos in various Sunday School rooms in the vast First Baptist complex.

For recreation, the church owns two gymnasiums, an indoor track, a sauna, steam bath, whirlpool, racquetball courts and a bowling alley. Movies occasionally play in church auditoriums.

But all that is not enough for Criswell, who would like the church "to consume the interest of every individual in the church."

"My idea of a church is one that reaches all aspects of a family ... all the interests, avocations in their life (would be) the church," he said.

"You can't do that without a tremendous outlay. To have a program for reaching these people, and there are thousands of them, is an enormous expenditure.'

First Baptist is unique, even when compared with other big business churches, in that it is located in the heart of downtown Dallas. In fact, the church is one of downtown's largest property owners, holding the title on about six blocks of prime land and multi-story buildings, including its first sanctuary, which has been declared a historic landmark by the state of Texas.

"On the books, the total church property is worth about $18 million," Clowe said, "But in reality, it is worth between $25 million and $50 million."

Because of the tax-exempt status afforded churches, First Baptist paid only $150,000 in property taxes last year on the few spaces it rents to businesses and a local university.

The two schools started by Criswell, the First Baptist Academy and the Criswell Center for Biblical Studies, pay no rent for the space they occupy in church-owned buildings. While the schools teach what Criswell calls bedrock Southern Baptist fundamentalism and are populated heavily with its members, they are operated separately from the church itself.

First Baptist is funded entirely by contributions from its 20,000-plus members, who give to the church in a spectacular service every spring. Contributions have far exceeded the budget every single year since Criswell came to Dallas from Oklahoma.

"This year, the gifts, including tithing, the building fund and special gifts, will total close to $7 million," Clowe said. He added that more than 5,000 church members are true tithers, turning 10 percent of their gross income over to the church.

"The rank-and-file give well over 80 percent of the financial strength of the church. It's not that elite group that most people seem to think we depend on."

Even so, the church is $4.7 million in debt, and that figure will more than double when construction begins on the parking garage.

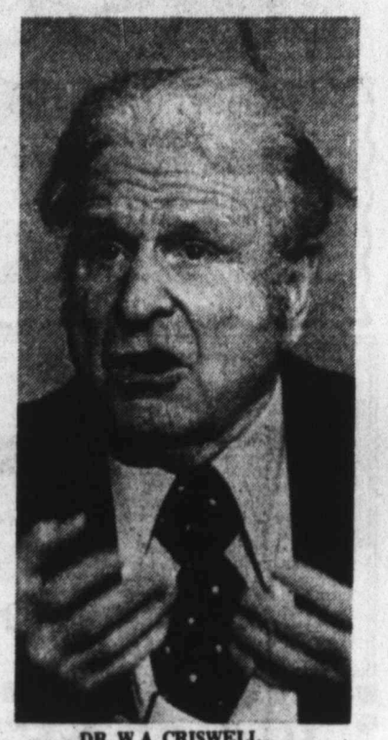

"Some of the businessmen shudder," said church administrator Charles Bristow. "Yes, it's a large financial obligation. But I feel this way: look at $5 million debt in this particular space in downtown."

'I would rather do what I do for nothing, than do what anybody else does for money.' — DR. A.W. CRISWELL

First Baptist does count some of Dallas' moneyed elite among its members. The late billionaire, H.L. Hunt, belonged. So does Mary Crowley, founder and president of Home Interiors and Gifts.

Two years ago, Mrs. Crowley gave the church $750,000 asking church members to match her gift for a new building. The congregation pitched in $1.85 million in one Sunday night service and the Mary C Building was dedicated debt-free.

"The people rally more than an individual," Bristow said. "The Mary Crowleys are the cream, but the backbone is the people. She is a generous woman, but there are people who also have given unselfishly and sacrificially. They give to get this thing done. (We can) call the people together to undergird a cause or a need.

DR. W.A. CRISWELL... No signs of slowing down

"Anytime you lean on one individual, I personally think you're flirting with trouble."

John Hurt, past editor of the Baptist Standard in Dallas, credits Criswell's "strong leadership, I'd almost call it a dictatorship," with building a "strong downtown church."

But Hurt, too, feels that Criswell sometimes oversteps the bounds of good taste in his public comments.

"That would be my major criticism of him," Hurt said. "The 'Amen' from the crowd makes him go farther than he intends to go."

Criswell's uncompromising, unswerving embrace of fundamental Baptist theology has catapulted him to the forefront of what some have called the Southern Baptist swing to the right.

"We find our church leading a conservative, fundamentalist appeal in the Southern Baptist Church," Criswell said. "Our church is already ultra-conservative and ultra-fundamentalist, but it only appears more that way against a background of liberalism."

Others in the Southern Baptist Convention, however, feel Criswell's strict, literal interpretations have tightened the Baptist belt beyond tolerance.

"I assure you, that is not the mainstream of Southern Baptists," Daley said. "But young preachers do not look to Criswell as a role model.

"I do think the general atmosphere of right-wingism, wealth, and the bigger-and-better attitude in Dallas and Criswell fit each other perfectly. Criswell's ministry is perfect for those members who don't want to think for themselves."

That may be true, agreed John Hurt, past editor of the Baptist Standard in Dallas. But Criswell's followers love their pastor with a fanatic loyalty.

"I've always said, humorously of course, that if Criswell told the membership to jump out the window, 90 percent would go without thinking and another 7 percent to 8 percent would go after thinking about it a minute."

Endorsement Of Ford Just Latest In Long Line Of Brouhahas

DALLAS (AP) — While a certain amount of notoriety naturally accompanies the pastorate of the world's largest Southern Baptist church, Dr. W.A. Criswell has attracted far more than his fair share since he took the reins at First Baptist in Dallas 35 years ago.

The most recent brouhaha grew out of his endorsement of Gerald Ford on the steps of the church following a Sunday morning services during Ford's re-election campaign in 1976.

But as far back as the 1950s, when he spoke out publicly against integration, then changed his mind, instigating an "open door policy" at his wealthy church, Criswell's views and changes of heart have attracted nation-wide attention.

"I could hope that a minister would be so sensitive as to what is right and good that people would listen to him," Criswell said. "I have to be careful, as pastor of the church and a minister of the Baptist denomination to explain that I am speaking for myself when I take a position in a partisan issue."

In a 1956 off-the-cuff speech before the South Carolina legislature, Criswell spoke out against the racial integration of churches.

He later told the Asssociated Press: "Integration is a thing of foolishness. The idea of the universal brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God is a denial of everything in the Bible."

A short time later, Criswell said he had reconsidered his position.

"I never did meet it (integration) one way or another until the thing was forced on me," he said in a recent interview. "The press took it and made of it a drastic, drastic affirmation of segregation. I saw where it was going and I changed. I drastically changed."

Criswell also changed his mind about Catholics. In 1960, he preached what was considered an anti-Catholic sermon.

In 1971, Criswell led 400 of his congregation to a well-publicized meeting with Pope Paul VI at the Vatican.

Criswell had been critical of President Richard Nixon's planned visit to China in 1971, but changed his mind after a two-hour briefing with Henry Kissinger at the White House.

During the war in Vietnam, Criswell called peace demonstrators "half-brains," saying he wished he could "put some of these hippies, beatniks, peaceniks and others who demonstrate against the United States in jail."

He called civil rights leader and Dr. Martin Luther King a "fungus-like development" for his demonstrations for peace.

In January of this year, he called for a halt to nuclear weapons buildup, saying "war is the most destructive of all realities we face in life."

He has denounced the charismatic movement of churches and said speaking in tongues is a "women's movement."

Homosexuals have no place in church unless they give up their "preverted lifestyle," and women have no place in the pulpit at all, he said.

"There is no such thing as an ordained woman minister. Period," he said. "As long as I believe in the Bible, I could not change.

"I don't know if I could say that about partisan politics."
