Train Crash Claims 17

BRUSSELS (AP) — Two commuter trains loaded with about 1,500 workers crashed together today in a cold mist in Southern Belgium, killing 17 persons and injuring 70, a spokesman for the railway administration said.

The spokesman said one train apparently did not stop for a red warning light near the station at the industrial city of La Louviere. He said it collided with another train entering the station at a level crossing where the two tracks crossed.

Workers from a nearby steel plant rushed to help with the rescue, bringing equipment to cut and burn through the twisted steel.

Thieu Hopes For Talks With Cong

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today his government is prepared to hold private meetings with the National Liberation Front.

The South Vietnamese president imposed no conditions on such meetings and added that he felt the Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, would agree to such talks.

He told a news conference such talks could be part of private discussions in Paris among the delegations to the peace talks there from South Vietnam, North Vietnam, the NLF and the United States.

A spokesman for the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front said today the front would have no immediate comment on South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's offer to hold private talks with the front on the sidelines of the Paris peace conference.

Thieu told questioners:

He remains hopeful of success at the Paris talks.

This is not the time to talk of withdrawing any of the 540,500 American troops in South Vietnam.

His government goes not believe a resumtion of the bombing of North Vietnam at this time would be proper response to the current Viet Cong offensive.

Thieu expressed satisfaction with the lines of communication established with the new administration of President Nixon. He emphasized that the government-to-government relations during President Johnson's tenure had been equally satisfactory, but he added that relations were better in Paris with Henry Cabot Lodge than with W. Averell Harriman, the former chief U.S. representative at the peace talks.

The president revealed his willingness to talk with the Viet Cong directly when he was asked about reports that private talks had already taken place in Paris.

"I can't say they have started," Thieu said, "but we are working on it and we are hopeful."

Would these talks involve the Front, he was asked.

"We are ready to have private talks with the National Liberation Front if they like," he replied. "There are many things we cannot decide at the conference table which we can discuss quite frankly in private."

"In private talks anybody could raise any question," Thieu said.

"There are many alternatives. We could talk with Hanoi as well as the Front, We could talk with two people or three people."

He said his government's offer had been conveyed to the NLF delegation in Paris but declined to say how or by whom. He said there has not yet been any response but expressed confidence a favorable reply would be received.

Nixon To Ask Surtax Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will ask Congress Wednesday to extend the 10 per cent income tax surcharge for another full year, hoping such action will help reverse the inflationary spiral.

This was reported today by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford following their weekly White House conference with Nixon.

Nixon will send Congress a special message seeking continuation of the emergency tax and outlining his plans to make the federal budget a prime anti-inflation weapon.

The surtax now is scheduled to end July 1. It took effect for individual incomes on April 1 last year.

House Okays Houston Medical School Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas House members unanimously passed and sent to the Senate today a bill creating a state medical school in Houston.

A 139-0 vote sent the measure to the Senate.

The medical school, which Rep. Tom Bass of Houston said could open in 1971, would be under the University of Texas system.

The Legislative Budget Board recommended $8.25 million over the next two years to build the school. University of Texas officials asked about $12 million. Federal construction funds also are expected.

Bass said Texas now has one doctor for every 997 residents, compared with the national ratio of one to 660. The state ranks 42nd in the number of medical school places open to first year medical students.

"We turn down enough Texans to fill the entering class of several medical schools," Bass said. He said Texas has had to import 55 per cent of its physicians.

The proposed Houston medical school will have more than twice the number of teaching beds it needs through arrangements with the city's hospitals, he said.

Legislators May Jump Spending By $1 Billion

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas legislators stared eyeball-to-eyeball today at figures hinting they may be about to increase state spending by one billion dollars.

More than half the increase, if a Senate Finance subcommittee's recommendations are accepted, would come from general revenue, the fund that is fed mostly by day to day taxes from Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer. Estimates of new tax needs jumped sharply after the proposed Senate Appropriations bill was revealed Monday. The full Senate Finance Committee is expected to rubberstamp the plan Wednesday.

House leaders predict it will be another 10 days before their appropriations bill is ready for public view.

While senators and representatives worried about spiraling state expenses they faced full debate calendars this morning and one of the busiest committee sessions of the year this afternoon.

The Senate Finance blockbuster Monday proposes a two-year spending program of $5.77 billion from all funds—not counting $244 million already recommended by Gov. Preston Smith and the Legislative Budget Board for a public teachers pay raise and for three new state medical and dental schools.

The 1968-69 spending from all funds was $5.06 billion.

The Senate bill, minus any teachers pay raises or new medical school expenses, would cost $1.21 billion from general revenue compared to the $934 million spent the past two years. The general revenue fund is expected to show a balance of only $58.5 million at the beginning of the state's new fiscal period, Sept. 1.

The governor's bill, minus teachers pay raises or new medical schools, calls for $1.18 billion from general revenue and the budget board would spend $1.09 billion from the fund.

Some of the features of the senate appropriations bill include:

A two-step pay increase totaling about 14 per cent for state employes, a $1.5 million a year increase for grants to community mental health-mental retardation centers, almost $8 million more for constructing and equipping Youth Council facilities, another office building in the state Capitol complex to cost $8.2 million, an increase of $2.8 million to help implement the Texas water plan, an increase of $51.6 million to finance medicaid in Texas,

An appropriation of $500,000 from the motor vehicle inspection fund to buy and maintain a new airplane for the exclusive use of the governor; $19.3 million more for public junior colleges, $12 million more for vocational-technical education; $106.5 million increase in general revenue appropriations for 22 state colleges and universities including general salary increases of about 10 per cent; $935,700 more in state funds for airport improvement including $64,300 for a landing strip at Eisenhower State Park; $83,000 for air pollution investigations and control; $105 million to fight alcoholism, $50,000 more for the hog cholera program and $20,000 more for the screwworm eradication,

A decrease of $17,014 in appropriations to the Texas Fine Arts Commission, an increase of $86,836 for the Historical Survey Committee, increased funds for merit salary adjustments in the Liquor Control Board.

Senate Okays Booze Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate passed today El Paso Sen. Joe Christie's proposal to permit the legislature to authorize liquor by the drink on a local option basis. The vote was 21-10.

The measure now goes to the House, which also must muster a two-thirds vote to put the constitutional amendment on the Nov. 3, 1970, ballot. If voters approve, local elections still would be required to authorize liquor by the drink.

Christie caught three members out of the chamber when he brought up the resolution: Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, Wayne Connally of Floresville and Don Kennard of Fort Worth.

The no votes were cast by Sens. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris, Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, Roy Harrington of Port Arthur, Jack Hightower of Vernon, William Moore of Bryan, David Ratliff of Stamford, W. E. Snelson of Midland, Murray Watson Jr. of Waco and Charles Wilson of Lufkin.

The proposal was tentatively approved 21-9, with Hazlewood still out of the chamber.

Then Christie moved that the senate stand adjourned for three minutes so that when it went back into session it would be officially another legislative day.

On final passage Christie got exactly the vote he needed, 21-10.

An amendment by Word, acceptable to Christie, would make the ballot read: For or against the prohibition (in the present Constitution) against open saloons.

Bill Approved To Assess Farmland

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee approved today a proposal to permit the legislature to assess farm, ranch and forest land on the basis of its productivity rather than value.

A similar amendment was approved by the voters in 1965, but enabling legislation in 1967 was vetoed by Gov. John Connally on the ground that it conflicted with the amendment.

Several witnesses testified for the amendment, sponsored by Sen Joe Christie of El Paso. Many said thier farm or ranch land had recently been assessed at several hundred per cent higher values because of nearness to urban areas or new highways.

Ike's Condition Remains 'Guarded,' Not Worsened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors reported today the condition of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, struggling to overcome the latest of recurrent heart troubles, remains "guarded."

"His physicians consider that the general's condition has not worsened since yesterday but that the eventual outlook remains guarded," said a morning medical bulletin from Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The term, "guarded," means in medical terminology the outlook as to whether a patient will survive or recover is uncertain.

Brig. Gen. Frederic J. Hughes Jr., commanding general of the hospital who issued the bulletin, told newsmen later the 78-year-old Eisenhower "appeared to reach a plateau yesterday" in his new episode with congestive heart failure.

The hospital said Monday the former president was reported weaker but resting comfortably after that doctors called this a new "crisis."

John Eisenhower, newly named ambassador to Belgium, arrived from New York Monday night and visited his father. Earlier, the two-time Republican president talked several times with his wife, Mamie and his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and President Nixon's two daughters.

Brig. Gen. Frederic J. Hughes Jr., Walter Reed commanding general, referred to Eisenhower's present illness as a "crisis."

The new episode of congestive heart failure—which is different from a heart attack—follows one March 15.

Congestive heart failure means one or more chambers of the heart fail to empty adequately during the contraction.

This can lead to an accumulation of fluids in blood vessels supplying the lungs, or other parts of the body or both. This congestion, which also impairs the delivery of life sustaining oxygen from the lungs into the blood stream, is also known as "edema," or dropsy.

Peace March, Rally Planned

CHICAGO (AP) — Peace groups are planning a large-scale march and rally April 5 in Chicago to protest what they call America's "war machine."

The march also looms as a protest of the indictment Thursday of eight leaders of antiwar demonstrations during last year's Democratic National Convention.

Maxwell Primack, co-chairman of the Chicago Peace Council, said Monday the march was not originally planned as a response to the indictments but now has a connection with them.

"This march was planned first in December," Primack said. "The council has held a similar peace demonstration in Chicago annually for 10 years."

Martial Law In Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan declared martial law in Pakistan today and handed over the administration of the strife-torn country to the army chief of staff, Gen. Yahya Khan, Radio Pakistan said.

Ayub made the announcement in what he called his last address to the nation and appealed to the people to help the armed forces in the maintenance of law and order, the broadcast said.

The radio quoted Ayub as saying that the situation in the country had turned from bad to worse and that the government was unable to control mob violence sweeping both parts of Pakistan.

He said he was asking the army to take over the service of the nation and for the existence of Pakistan.

The air force and the navy are behind Gen. Yahya Khan whom Ayub named as the chief martial law administrator, the broadcast added.

Ayub said he had acceded to the opposition demand to introduce a federal parliamentary system of government in the country but he could not be a party of anything which made the center weak.

Eleven years ago Ayub took over as martial law admistrator in circumstances of similar political chaos.

Ayub announced Feb. 21 he would not seek re-election in the balloting scheduled for next January.

The radio said Ayub is going on three months' leave but did not indicate initially whether the 61-year-old leader would remain in the country.

Ayub told the nation the situation was so grave that problems were being solved in the streets instead of at the negotiating table.

He added that even if the National Assembly met at present it might be a target of bloodshed.

Ayub, who came to power Oct. 27, 1958, 20 days after martial law was previously imposed, said he was sorry people were not coming forward to check mob violence and lawlessness.

He said people lacked moral courage and were afraid of lawless elements.

Living Costs Leap Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs jumped four-tenths of one per cent in February, largest increase in four months, because of sharp increases of housing, transportation and clothing, the Labor Department said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also reported that despite record high earnings of $111 per week of some 45 million rank and file workers, purchasing power dropped because of continued steady climb in prices.

Only Survivor Gets License

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Lickteig, 31, the only survivor of a helicopter-plane collision over the city last week, got her private pilot's license Monday in her hospital room.

Mrs. Lickteig was a student pilot in the light plane.

Killed in the crash were her instructor and two men in the helicopter.

Merrill Cornell of the Federal Aviation Administration said Mrs. Lickteig had passed her flight test and at the time of the crash was flying to Fairfax airport to turn in her papers for the license.

DEFINITE EVIDENCE OF WATER SEEN

Life On Mars Called Possible

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists studying light reflected from Mars report "definite and conclusive" evidence of water in the red planet's atmosphere, indicating the possibility of life.

Mars is so dry, however, that only the driest deserts of Earth or peaks like Mt. Everest compare.

Dr. Ronald Schorn of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said he is convinced after five years' observation there is enough water in Mars' atmosphere to fill a lake a mile wide, a mile deep and a mile long.

"If you took all the water we found, and laid it out on the planet, it would be only one-1,000th of an inch thick," he said Monday night. "It still may not be a great place to live but there's a chance of life there."

Schorn and Steven Little of the University of Texas made their observations through the 86-inch telescope at McDonald Observatory at Fort Davis, Tex.

Schorn said the scientists photographed the spectrum of Mars' atmosphere with infrared film. The spectrograph photo showed the presence of water in the planet's cloud cover, he said.

"There's hardly a place on earth with that low a humidity reading," he said. "The only place I could think of is the top of Mt. Everest. There's more water on Earth's deserts than on Mars."

So far, there is no way to measure whether some portions of Mars have more water than others, he said. But with a new 107-inch telescope now in use, the scientists expect to look at smaller regions of the planet.

"We'll be able to see if this is localized—whether some areas of Mars are more capable of sustaining life than others," the astronomer predicted.

Schorn said photographs by the Mariner spacecraft now approaching Mars will help to solve that question.

Since 1948 scientists have had evidence that the planet's white polar caps, which change size with the seasons, consist of ice an inch or two thick. Atmospheric water vapor has been thought possible but never before detected spectroscopically.

Astronomers have speculated that most of the atmosphere is inert nitrogen.

Scientists hold Mars as the likeliest place in our solar system apart from Earth to sustain life. The other planets present too hostile an environment.

LBJ, HHH Pose Problems For Democratic Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — A delicate question of what do with former President Johnson, plus the reluctance of some big names to serve are among the headaches facing Democratic National Chairman Fred Harris in his efforts to form a party advisory council.

Hubert H. Humphrey has been offered the job as head of the council. But he wants to keep his options open for a political comeback and has told party leaders he would take the job only temporarily, if at all.

Senate Leader Mike Mansfield and other congressional leaders are reluctant to join hands with a group they feel may tread on their prerogatives in establishing a Democratic position in opposition to the Republican administration.

Mindful of the friction generated between a predecessor advisory council and the congressional leaders a decade ago, Mansfield said his present thinking in not to accept a place on the new group.

"I think I have a primary responsibility in the Senate," he said.

The Johnson problem arises because he would be serving in a group expected to produce policy statements in such volatile issues as the Vietnam war and the antimissile defense system.

So far Johnson has shown no interest in the policy council, ordered by the Democratic National Committee at its last session. But former associates do not expect Johnson's current disinterest in politics to last for long.

Humphrey says he is keeping his options open for a possible new bid for the presidential nomination in 1972 or for a 1970 race for senator or governor in Minnesota.

Harris, in an interview played down the likelihood of friction between the council and the congressional leaders that existed when Johnson, as the Senate leader, and the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn fought with the advisory council during the Eisenhower years.

"We will do our best to cooperate with the leaders," he said. "I do not think we will have nearly as great a problem as we had in those days. After all, I'm a Senate man and I think we can work together," he said.

Harris said he is well aware of Humphrey's attitude. He said there had been suggestions that Johnson and Former President Truman be named honorary chairmen of the new group.

His idea, Harris said, is to bring in all elements of the party. He said specifically, he hopes that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the assistant Senate majority leader, would accept a place on the council.

Christmas Cards Help Cheer Korean Children

For several years Big Spring VA Hospital employes have been sharing Christmas cards they receive by sending them to the children of the Bethal Home for Happy Children in Pusan, Korea.

C. E. McDonnell, chief of medical administration, said that each year shortly after Christmas, hospital employes package their cards and deliver them to the hospital personnel office and the cards are sent to the children's home.

In a letter received this week at the VA Hospital, Mrs. Kim Young Whan, superintendent of the home, expressed the children's appreciation. The verses aid in teaching the children English and the cards, besides making the children happy, provide material for many projects.

'Buy American' Measure Faces Full House Debate

AUSTIN (AP) — Bills establishing a state "Buy American" policy and changing the name of the Liquor Control Board to Alcoholic Beverage Commission are eligible for full House debate.

The House Governmental Affairs and Efficiency Committee approved the two measures Monday over the objections of tart-tongued Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio.

Fort Worth Rep. Dave Finney's "Buy American" bill would require state and local governments, as well as those contracting with them, to buy only American-made materials and supplies unless imported articles are at least 15 per cent cheaper.

Japanese steel is the prime target of the bill, Finney said at a hearing last week.

"We are an export state. We export grain to Japan, we export cotton to Japan ... Suppose those people over there take retaliatory action against the state of Texas ... We'd have to up unemployment compensation, and what would you say about that, Mr. Chairman," Johnson said.

Johnson, who has accused the Liquor Control Board of high-handedness in San Antonio, also had no words for the measure changing the agency to the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

"Is that all we are doing—changing that bunch of rascals' name over there? ... That's like changing Adolph Hitler to Albert Schweitzer," he said.

The committee heard a bill by Rep. John Wright, Grand Prairie, setting up a state board to regulate private trade and technical schools, then sent it routinely to subcommittee.

Mrs. Juanita Craft, a gray-haired Dallas Negro, said more than 600 Negro boys and girls had been lured from Mississippi and Louisiana by trade school advertisements promising good training, luxurious living quarters, part-time employment and good jobs when they graduated.

The quarters turned out to be rundown rooming houses, the training inadequate and the part-time jobs a copy of the help wanted ads from Dallas news papers, she said.

"To find these youngsters disillusioned, planning a riot, talking about burning the building down ... This is the thing that really hit me," she said.

The committee also approved for House debate bills that would:

—Set up a state board to regulate landscape architects.

—Place private detectives under state licensing and regulation.

—Provide immunity to liability suits for contractors using their equipment in disaster relief at the request of state or local governments.

Wants To Control TV Sex, Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of regulating television programs was raised at the National Association of Broadcasters Convention and left where it was before—unresolved.

As expected, Sen. John O. Pastore repeated Monday his proposal that the NAB Code Authority be given the power to prescreen programs to eliminate excessive sex and violence. He said it would be a step away from government censorship.

The Rhode Island Democrat first made the suggestion last week during hearings by the Senate communications subcommittee, which he heads.

Two networks, NBC and ABC, gave it guarded approval. But both said in reality the final authority for program content would remain with the networks.

CBS president Frank Stanton said he found it impossible to approve the idea.

Pastore said Stanton "did assure me that CBS would intensify its corporate efforts in this regard."

Stanton said in a letter to Pastore that "the determination of taste and propriety as to television must be pluralistic. A single last word would be harmful in deed, dangerous."

Stanton said he feared that if the authority were given to the NAB it would be only a matter of time before the Federal Communications Commission or a congressional committee chairman attempted further regulation.

Tom Smothers, whose Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour on CBS has had its troubles, said, "I haven't talked to Dr. Stanton but I admire his position on this NAB matter. I've had my problems with CBS and it's kind of paradoxical to be on the other side, but I admire that strength."

'Computerized Killer' Gunned Down Bobby?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "He was gradually programming himself exactly like a computer is programed by its magnetic tape, programing himself for the coming assassination...

"He was confused, bewildered and partially intoxicated. The mirrors in the hotel lobby, the flashing lights, the general confusion—this was like pressing the button which starts the computer."

'ROBOT' SIRHAN

In this setting, a psychiatrist says, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy came under the gun of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan—a robot killer in a self-induced trance; an unknowing instrument of assassination.

"It is my opinion that through chance, circumstances, and a succession of unrelated events, Sirhan found himself in the physical situation in which the assassination occurred," Dr. Bernard L. Diamond said Monday at Sirhan's murder trial. The shooting was in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel.

The portrayal of a computerized killer was a stunning summary of Diamond's eight examinations of Sirhan in his jail cell —including a frenetic re-enactment by a hypnotized Sirhan of the moment he shot the senator from New York.

Diamond, 65, a professor of psychiatry, law and criminology at the University of California at Berkeley, was to return to the stand today.

ABSURD STORY

"I agree that this is an absurd and preposterous story, unlikely and incredible," Diamond said, his face turned to the jury. "The crime itself was a tragically absurd and preposterous event, unlikely and incredible."

The tragedy was ordained, Diamond said, with Sirhan's exposure to violence and death in Jerusalem in 1948 when his family—Arabs—became refugees in the partition of Palestine and establishment of Israel as a Jewish homeland.

His mental illness developed as he grew older "and his fanatical hatred and fear of the Jews increased with each radio and television broadcast concerning the tension in the Middle East."

Sirhan began courses in self hypnosis and mind power, practiced diligently.

"He actually believed," Diamond said, "that he could stop the bombers from reaching Israel and thereby save the Arabs — simply by willing the death of all who would help the Jews." Kennedy, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, had promised fighter bombers to Israel if elected.

Sirhan became convinced he was losing his mind, Diamond said.

POWER OF GUN

"He sought the remedy in his books on mysticism and the occult and he daydreamed of the power of his gun, taking every opportunity on many different days to shoot it, firing hundreds and hundreds of shots as if each shot would somehow make up for his ever growing sense of helplessness, impotence and fear of loss of self control."

Sirhan wrote his murderous thoughts into his diaries while under self-hypnosis, Diamond said, and was in the same kind of trance that night in the Ambassador.

"Only this time it was for real and this time there was no pencil in his hand. This time there was only the loaded gun."

"I am satisfied that he had not consciously planned to be in that situation. I am satisfied that if he had been fully conscious and in his usual mental state he would have been quite harmless, despite his paranoid hatreds and despite his loaded gun."

As the gray-haired psychiatrist testified, Sirhan doodled on paper in front of him—but obviously paying attention. At one point, the pale young defendant hit his head with his hand—as if to evoke a memory.

GREAT HERO

Sirhan, the psychiatrist said, does not believe he is mentally ill. He would "rather believe that he is the fanatical martyr who by his noble act of self-sacrifice has saved his people and become a great hero. He claims to be ready to die in the gas chamber for the glory of the Arab people."

But, Diamond said, Sirhan is "small and helpless, pitifully ill with a demented psychotic rage, out of control of his own consciousness and his own actions, subject to bizarre dissociated trances in some of which he programmed himself to be the instrument of assassination, and then, in an almost accidentally induced twilight state he actually executed the crime, knowing next to nothing as to what was happening."

Then Diamond leaned back in his chair, glanced at Sirhan, and said: "I am satisfied that this is how Sirhan Bishara Sirhan came to kill Sen. Robert F. Kennedy on June 5, 1968."

Winter's Group Booked Friday

One of the country's most unusual musical groups brings down the curtain on the 1968-69 series of the Big Spring Concert Association here Friday evening.

It is the Paul Winter Contemporary Consort (a high-sounding name which means that it is a family of instruments designed to achieve a homogeneous blend).

Winter includes in his basic group seven pieces — the alto saxophone, cello, English horn, alto flute, classical and 12-string guitar, bass, and a variety of folk percussion centering on a set of seven tuned Brazilian drums. The effect is one of distinctive rich sonority.

The repertoire is broad, including blues, Bach cantatas, folk pieces (mostly from the 25 countries which the consort toured under auspices of the State Department;, ethnic rhythms, folk modes, and even those taken from Gregorian chants.

In keeping with a dedication to create particular sounds, Winter's group has found among various folk culture vital sounds which work well with the consort — such auxiliary instruments as the African thump-piano, Israeli jar-drum, the folk flute, folk guitars, an ancient double-reed instrument known as the Renaissance Racket.

Paul Winter organized his first group, jazz sextet, while a student at Northwestern University and won the 1961 Intercollegiate jazz festival. This brought on a recording contract and the international tour, and eventually an invitation to play at the White House. In 1965, the State Department asked the consort to make another South American tour. In the meantime it has been in wide demand for concert tours.

1969-70 Season Ducats Available

Ticket orders for the 1969-70 season will be available at the Paul Winter program here Friday evening.

These will be received before and after the performance as well as during intermission.

Several reasons prompted association officials to do this. For one thing it permits reserve seat patrons to reserve their favorite seat; to avoid conflicts in the autumn when there are demands for back-to-school expense, football season tickets, etc.

Patrons will find the new season a rich but varied one. The New Orleans Philharmonic, one of the major symphony orchestras of the country, will open the series either Monday Nov. 17 or Tuesday Nov. 18.

Next up is the Norman Luboff choir, a famous and superb choir renowned for its recordings, which appears Monday Jan. 26. Then on Thursday, Feb. 26, comes the Norwood Puppet Theatre, a sophisticated presentation of puppets and marionettes in a new theatre experience. Finally, on Thursday, April 30, the Preservation Hall Jazz Band, an authentic early American jazz orchestra from Preservation Hall in New Orleans closes the season.

All programs will be at 8:15 p.m. in the City Auditorium. Adult memberships are $10, and adult reserved $14; students are $4, or $8 reserved.

Patrons are asked to bring their personal checks Friday evening when obtaining their memberships early.

Bill To Help Working Man

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill to change starting times for precinct conventions would give the working man a better chance to take part in politics. Rep. Curtis Graves of Houston told a House committee Monday night.

The earliest starting time for precinct conventions would change from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. The convention must start by 9 p.m.

Notices of precinct convention would have to be published, rather than posted at the county courthouse, as the law now requires.

"This would give the working classes more representation when they choose people to send to the county conventions," Graves said.

SWINGING TRUDEAU, SUAVE NIXON

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau have been named to the 30th annual best-dressed list of the Fashion Foundation of America.

Fifteen men were named as best-dressed in different categories.

The others were:

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, civic affairs; comedian Dick Van Dyke, movies; producer David Merrick, theater; bandleader Guy Lombardo, music; singer Andy Williams, television; Loew's Hotel President Preston R. Tisch, host; publicist Serge Obolensky, society; New York Yankees President Michael Burke, business; and horse race broadcaster Tommy Roberts, sports.

Also, Paul M. Schelm, board chairman of Gold Seal Vineyards Inc. of Hammondsport, N.Y., commerce; Enoch Light of West Redding, Conn., president of Project 3 Records, recordings; Melvyn Hiller of Woodmere, N.Y., finance; and Herman Perl, of Short Hills, N.J., board chairman of Perl Industries, industry.

None of the 15 were included on an earlier best-dressed list based on a poll of 2,500 designers, socialites and fashion personalities.

Paris Fashion Flash: Skirts Are For Men

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Grown up girls may have to take a back seat to their little sisters in the fashion department this spring.

The children's wear collection which ended the Friday showing of the New York Couture Group was fresher, brighter and more exciting than the ho-hum adult clothes previewed earlier in the day.

The firm of Joseph Love, celebrating its 50th anniversary this year as a maker of children's clothes, featured cleverly designed, easy-to-care-for styles for little girls from about three to 12.

The Love collection included several floppy-legged, tunic-topped pants suits—old hat in the adult lines, but adding a new style touch to children's play clothes.

Keeping in tune with the times, the Love company titled its outfits such things as "Space Rendezvous"—a white, pleated voile dress with a black and yellow border stripe; "Moon Shot"—a pink voile dress with a low flounce and a lace tiered bib and cuffs; and "Bubblegum"—a bright yellow, stretch terry cloth shirt dress with white collar.

For the romantics, there were matching costumes called "Julie Eisenhower" and "Jackie Onassis." The "Julie" outfit was for girls about 10; the "Jackie' costume for four-year-olds. The style included a pink bonded lace dress worn over pants and sashed and bowed in pink ribbon. The commentator suggested the outfits as possible bridesmaids wear.

Earlier Friday, the adults got their chance. Murray Neiman, designing for Hannah Troy, featured "vestee" suits with tiny bolero tops over full skirts and contrasting blouses.

There were a few new touches in Neiman's evening wear. One costume featured a short yellow dress topping see-through pants, a reverse on the usual combination. Another, dubbed "Shades of Scheherazade," was of white sari cotton dotted with gold. A sheer halter top covered a gold bra and the floating panels of the skirt swirled to show matching pants.

A LOVELIER YOU

Springtime Faces A Natural Freshness

By MARY SUE MILLER

There is a natural freshness to the look of lovely springtime faces. Skins have the healthy glow of an outdoor life. Makeup is a misty overlay, like sea spray on warm sand.

Trumped up faces just aren't with it. "Born Beauty" is today's criterion. And that goes whatever your age, from teen to umpteen.

Already espousing the look, makeup artists have found that it is not necessarily achieved by using fewer cosmetics, but rather through new textures and shades. These form the main elements:

An under-foundation — an opal shade, perhaps — makes a good beginning when the skin tone could do with neutralizing. The desired glow comes from a topping of creamy liquid foundation in a warm sand tone. The next step is translucent powder and, if you require it, a bit of sparkle from a pink coloring stick on cheek bones or in cheek hollows.

So far so natural. Now here comes the misted part — sea spray gray eye liner and a shadow with the tones of a cool green sea. To this add lashes and brows to taste. Very subtle taste, please.

Shell pink lipstick and nail polisher provide the finishing touches. It's a promise, the look is all You.

A LOVELIER COMPLEXION

Whatever your skin problems, to find a solution send for my booklet, A LOVELIER COMPLEXION. Detailed advice includes the correct care for dry, oily, combination and normal skin types; proper application methods; treatments for blackheads, enlarged pores, circles, wrinkles, crepiness, etc. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Games were played and refreshments of cake and punch were served. Twenty guests attended.

New Officers Slate Named By TOPS

Miss Judy Shockley was elected leader at Tuesday's meeting of the TOPS Salad Mixers in the Knott gymnasium. Other officers are Mrs. Dan Brasher, co-leader; Mrs. Jack Grigg, weight recorder; Mrs. B. J. Williams, treasurer; and Miss Sandra Miller, secretary. Mrs. Grigg was named weekly queen. The club will finance a trip to the state convention for Mrs. Williams, yearly queen, who will graduate to the KOPS (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly) level at the convention, April 11-12, in Houston.

Talk Stresses Home Accents

"Things Around Us" was the topic chosen by Mrs. Robert Blassingame, speaker at Monday's meeting of Xi Mu Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

"In judging a person, we often feel that little things are important," said Mrs. Blassingame. "They make or mar a personality, and this is equally true of the personality of the home." In describing material possessions and the way they effect one's life, the speaker noted that there are two types of home accessories, purely decorative and utilitarian. Many serve both purposes, but a room that lacks useful objects is not fully livable. She explained that the most important role of accessories is to help add color to a room and reflect the resident's personality.

Principle decorative accents named by the speaker were lamps, clocks, bowls, mirrors, pictures, tables and books. She added that soft cushions and pillows give a room "livability."

Mrs. Roy Granbery presided, announcing that a letter of appreciation was read from the YMCA for a youth membership purchased by the chapter. The members agreed to support the international project, a children's cancer research center in Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Harry McMillan, city council president, told of plans for the Founder's Day event, April 29, noting that the council will meet again on April 3. The next chapter meeting will be April 14 in the home of Mrs. Jerry Spence, 1709 Yale.

New officers elected were Mrs. Leslie Caperton, president; Mrs. McMillan, vice president; Mrs. James Fuller, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Blizzard, treasurer; Miss Beverlyn Jones, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Lamar Green, city council representative.

Miss Jones and Mrs. Bobby Bradford were hostesses.

Second Biggest Rice Haul Of War Made By Marines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines sweeping along the Laotian frontier have made the allies' second biggest rice haul of the war, enough to feed 8,000 North Vietnamese troops for three months, military spokesmen said today.

U.S. headquarters said the Marines of the 3rd Regiment, participating in Operation Maine Crag, found 600 tons of rice about 11 miles south of the abandoned Khe Sanh combat base. Officers said the seizure undoubtedly would affect the enemy's ability to sustain an offensive in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. Earlier this week a significant North Vietnamese buildup had been reported in Laos, three miles across the border.

U.S. DEAD

Some 3,500 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops are participating in Operation Maine Crag. Farther south, 2,000 paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division in Operation Massachusetts Striker are sweeping through the A Shau Valley, the biggest North Vietnamese base and staging area in South Vietnam.

Spokesmen said both operations have accounted for more than 100 enemy dead in small, sporadic fights, while U.S. casualties so far are 33 killed and 117 wounded.

Contact has been only sporadic, but headquarters said the main objective of both sweeps is to find and destroy enemy food and war material that could be used in attacks on towns in the 1st Military Corps area, including Quang Tri City, Hue and Da Nang.

STRIKES KILL 79

The Viet Cong spring offensive entered its 31st day today with about 25 rocket and mortar attacks reported during the night. U.S. Headquarters said total military casualties and damage were light.

Ground fighting was reported Monday in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon and along the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

In four scattered fights in the Delta, U.S. 9th Division infantrymen and South Vietnamese forces reported 77 Viet Cong killed. Two Americans were wounded while four South Vietnamese were killed and 17 were wounded.

South Vietnamese units and air strikes kill 79 enemy in two fights near the provincial capital of Quang Ngai, about 80 miles south of Da Nang, after the town was shelled. Government casualties were seven killed and 25 wounded. Three U.S. advisers also were wounded.

Another U.S. helicopter was shot down Monday about 30 miles north of Saigon, and one crewman was wounded. It was the 2,458th American helicopter reported lost in the war.

Informed sources reported the U.S. 7th Air Force is considering withdrawing from several of the 10 bases it shares with the South Vietnamese air force. But there is no indication of an imminent turnover, the sources said.

'Money' Machines Measure Rehashed

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill with stiff penalties to regulate the coin-operated machine business was presented to a House committee Monday night.

Rep. James Clark of Dallas, the sponsor, said there has been "extensive evasion" of state taxes on such machines.

Clark told the House State Affairs Committee that taxes are paid on some 65,000 coin-operated machines in Texas. However, he said, there are 35,000 taverns in the state, with probably an average of two coin-operated machines each, such as juke boxes and bowling games.

"This is an incredible inconsistency," Clark said. "It strains one's imagination that there are only 65,000 machines. The obvious fact is that the taxes are not being paid that are due. . . There is extensive evasion."

Clark's bill to regulate machines operated by coins for music, skill or pleasure is the result of a months-long study by a House committee last year.

Clark introduced a bill, then substituted another one Monday night with a major change being that the state comptroller would administer the regulations, rather than the Liquor Control Board, as originally proposed.

A license would be required to "own, or lease, rent, sell, lend, or furnish to another, or service, repair, maintain, manufacture, store, or transport a music coin-operated machine or a skill or pleasure coin-operated machine without a license."

Licenses would range from $1,000 a year for a general business license to $100 for carrier, service or storage licenses.

An annual registration fee of $10 would be required, with the comptroller to stamp the registration on each machine.

The bill also provides that a person must have a written contract to place or operate the machines in establishments where alcoholic beverages are sold or served for on-premises consumption.

The penalty for violating the provision is a $1,000 fine.

Another provision makes it an offense for a person who has a financial interest in a coin-operated machine business required to be licensed by the act to loan or give money to a person engaged in selling or serving alcoholic beverages.

A violation could bring a fine of up to $10,000 and-or five years in prison.

The proposal was sent to a subcommittee.

Moon Landing Attempt Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Apollo 10 space mission is scheduled to be launched May 18 with plans to send a manned lunar module within 10 miles of the moon's surface.

No attempt at a moon landing will be made, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday.

Propellant limitations in the ascent stage of the lunar module rule out a landing attempt, regardless of how well the mission goes.

Apollo 10 crewmen will be Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene Cernan. Stafford and Cernan will transfer to the lunar module when the spacecraft is in orbit around the moon and maneuver down to within 50,000 feet of the moon's surface.

They will study sites for the first lunar landing scheduled for the Apollo 11 mission this summer.

Group Honors Negro Pilot

Lt. and Mrs. John Wesley and family were honorees Monday evening at Baker's Chapel (Methodist) at a dinner affair.

Lt. Wesley is to receive his pilot wings this week at Webb A F B graduation exercises, marking the first time in more than a decade that a Negro has earned his wings here. The first pilot to report to the base when it opened in 1952 was Oscar T. Brooks, a young Negro officer who has since visited the base on several occasions.

Chaplain William Deming of Webb AFB addressed the group and pointed to the opportunities available to Negro young people who aspire to areas of higher opportunity.

Mrs. William Graham, accompanied by Mrs. Jo Hazel Dawson, was soloist, singing the spiritual, "Kumbo Ya," and "Speak to My Heart." Explorer Scouts from Midland presented a series of Indian dances, and the Rev. Lorenzo Ausbie, pastor of St. Luke's Church in Midland, led in singing of several ballads. The Rev. W. L. Brown, Baker's Chapel pastor, presided, and Elder T. W. Reece, executive for the West Texas district of Methodist churches, worded the invocation.

Serving of the meal was in charge of Mrs. Hosea Young, Mrs. Dewey Stewart, Mrs. Annie Mae Anderson and Mrs. Fredie White.

Trustees Face Short Agenda

The Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees will face a short agenda when they meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the board room behind the school administration building.

Heading the list of items will be reaction of the survey of local public school board attitudes toward pending school legislation now under consideration by the Texas Legislature.

Don Womack, Texas Electric Service Co., will appear in regard to moving the guy wire and pole in the proposed entrance to the Marcy School parking lot.

No items requiring official action are proposed, but other reports will be given if time permits, said Sam Anderson, school superintendent.

Still Far Away From C-C Goal

With only two days remaining, the drive for new members for the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce is still far from its goal of 100 new members, it was shown at the membership drive luncheon on Monday at the Holiday Inn.

The report on the achievement of the drive through Monday noon was 39 new members and $1,800 pledged.

Deadline for the drive is 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Two membership soliciting teams — Burgess Bandidos, headed up by John Burgess and the Ambassadors with Roger Brown as captain, are spearheading the drive.

Workers were provided with last minute membership prospect cards. Pressure was on to speed up the recruiting efforts in the final two days of the campaign.

Tiny Island's Resistance Movement Aided By Hoods

ANGUILLA (AP) — The anti-British demonstrations are getting smaller every day on Anguilla, but a core of resistance continues.

Only about 100 hostile islanders milled in front of the administration building Monday, one tenth the number that showed up for the first organized protest last Thursday.

In contrast to the festive atmosphere of the first demonstration, some of those carrying placards Monday said that if British Commissioner Anthony Lee showed up at the building, they would drive him away.

He said Monday that hoodlums have joined the tiny island's resistance movement and are intimidating and terrorizing Anguillans sympathetic to the British.

Asked if the hoodlums were being encouraged by Ronald Webster, whom the British invaders drove from the acting presidency of the island, the British administrator replied: "In a sort of way. He does not have operational control, but they too are committed to the independence line. They are sort of his front line troops."

Webster left Anguilla Friday, 48 hours after the landing of British troops on the island, and held a news conference in New York at the United Nations Monday.

He said he had "nothing personally" against Lee but the commissioner would have to be withdrawn because he was "totally unacceptable" to the Anguillan people.

Two DeMolay Members Receive Honor Titles

William H. McDonald and Frank Qualls were named Representative DeMolays in ceremonies Monday night at Big Spring Masonic Lodge. Over 80 parents and members were present for confering the titles and the Flower Talk.

The presentation by the members of Leon P. Moffett Chapter of DeMolay was part of a week-long celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the order. Each day of the week will be devoted to one of the seven cardinal virtues of their organization. Monday was in recognition of love of parents. Today was patriotism day.

The representative title is conferred by the International Supreme Council of DeMolay for all-around development of the individual. It is the highest honor a member can earn by his own efforts. Higher honors are conferred in recognition of a member's work.

Receiving the Flower Talk were Charles Mathews, Ben Cowper, Kent Fish, Jack Broughton, Ike Robb III, Tommy Musgrove, Ricky Henry, Doug Daniel and Bobby McDaniel. It was given by Lee White, senior councilor of the chapter. It is a lecture on the value and quality of a mother's love. The flowers remaining on the altar were presented by White to his mother.

Members of the Mother's Club held a reception following the ceremonies.

A Devotional For The Day

(Andrew) first findeth his own brother Simon . . . And he brought him to Jesus. (John 1:41-42)

PRAYER: Lord Jesus, may my conduct and conversation speak for Thee. Help me to win others for Thee by praying each day for those I know do not know Thee as personal Savior, friend, and guide. Give me wisdom to say the right word to the right person at the right time. Amen.

Concern Over Industrial Prices

Concern had been deepening that President Nixon was not moving quickly and firmly enough to check continuing steep inflation. His administration has been doing the conventionally right things — budget holddowns, sustained tax increase, credit restriction — but direct presidential pressure against unjustified price rises had not been taken.

Now he has moved reassuringly against lumber prices that in recent months have jumped from a third higher to doubling. He cut military procurement to necessities, accelerated availability of cutting timber on federal lands, and directed easing of the boxcar shortage in the Northwest timberlands.

It has been particularly disturbing that industrial prices — which soon affect consumer prices — rose 1.2 per cent in the aggregate during Mr. Nixon's first two months in office. That is the steepest jump in that category in several years.

In a period of general inflation accompanied by widespread wage increases, some industries without high profit margins have no choice but to raise prices. However, it is strongly suspected that many high-profit firms deliberately waited for the change in presidential administrations, thinking both that a Republican administration might be less inclined to be directly critical and too preoccupied with the war and other problems to do much about such price hikes immediately after taking office.

Thus the President has done well to turn more personal attention to industrial pricing and to begin exerting White House pressure for restraint. This will, it is hoped, cause other industries to be more cautious on pricing policy and generally help the anti-inflation effort.

The longer the present steep inflation continues the more difficult it will be to control without recession risk and the more disadvantageous becomes the United States' position in world trade and international finance.

Australia, New Zealand Plug Vacuum

Of considerable significance to the future of Southeast Asia, as well as the mutual security movement of Asian regionalism, is the decision of Australia and New Zealand to keep military forces in Singapore and Malaysia after the British pullout scheduled in 1971.

Isolation would come easily to the nearly all-white island nations of Australia and New Zealand, following the removal of British and French power and observation of the United States' bog-down in Vietnam. Internal development and trade are their primary concerns.

Nevertheless, they have undertaken to maintain a military presence indefinitely, on invitation, to help fill the vacuum being left by the British. This marks their first major regional security move on their own initiative, that is, not in response to British or American calls upon their alliance responsibilities to the Western powers.

The new stance of Australia and New Zealand should help strengthen the cause of Asian regionalism. They are acting as responsible Asian nations more than extensions of the Western world into Asia.

The United States may not in consequence expect Australia and New Zealand to be much more help than they have been in the Vietnam war. Nor can the other Southeast Asian nations expect Australia and New Zealand to contribute greatly to their security.

Nevertheless, those two non-mainland nations' newly evidenced concern for Southeast Asian mutual security, as similarly in the case of Japan, strengthens the hope that free Asia can work together in the future to stand against Communist Chinese expansionism. Their commitment to concern in Asian affairs is more important than the actual military forces to be sustained in one area of Southeast Asia.

Uncertainty Of Troop Withdrawal

SAIGON — Secretaries of Defense have come and gone in the nearly eight years of this Americanized war, with full pomp and ceremony, and in the end the impact more often than not has been that of a feather falling gently on velvet. Melvin Laird, speaking privately not only with the authority of his office but with a shrewd knowledge of how short is the grace period for the Nixon Administration, made a deep impression.

IN TALKING with President Nguyen Van Thieu and the top Vietnamese he put it firmly but politely. Yes, he said, we have a new administration in Washington. We have some time. No one can say how much time. It may be as little as six months, possibly 10 months.

Laird meant, of course, the deadline for beginning the withdrawal of American troops, and thereby demonstrating that the war can gradually be brought to an end. In light of the shortness of the grace period before the Nixon Administration is saddled with the onus of the war as was the Johnson Administration, this is one of the most delicate and difficult moments in the long and tragic conflict.

THE UNCERTAINTY lies in what this reporter is convinced is a little understood fact — a situation revealed by tireless winnowing of intelligence reports. The Communist offensive of the National Liberation Front and North Vietnam that began on Feb. 23 is being deliberately limited. The resources of men and weapons the Communists have at their command could stir up almost as much of a storm as in the Tet offensive a year ago. While in the end they would be stopped, they could give United States-South Vietnamese forces a very bad time.

THE QUESTION is whether they mean to continue to limit this offensive. If they do, then in the view of the highest American authority here there is no reason why troop withdrawals cannot be planned to begin some time in the late summer or early fall.

That is the American intention as from day to day, from hour to hour, the offensive is monitored. The Communists have more than 40,000 troops within 45 miles of Saigon. They have not moved those troops up for an attack on the capital.

IF THEY WERE to be committed to an all-out assault, if the sporadic rocketing of the cities should be greatly increased, all bets on withdrawal would be off. President Nixon would be compelled to retaliate in one way or another.

The pertinent question is why the Communists should deliberately limit their offensive. American officials reply that, while they have the resources for a much more extended attack, they are hurting.

THEY LOST in the big Tet offensive a year ago and subsequently in smaller offensives in May-June and September large numbers of hard-core Viet Cong thoroughly familiar with the terrain and the people in the south where they were operating. They have been replaced by young and inexperienced North Vitnamese far less capable of conducting an offensive and sustaining the morale of forces driven so hard for so long.

But let's say for the sake of argument that this appraisal by American officialdom is, as frequently in the past, an exercise in wishful thinking. There would still be a reason for limiting the current attack. Having established that they can launch an offensive at any time they choose, which almost no one in the South denies, they can be holding the present attack to a relatively moderate limit to open the way for a compromise settlement of the war.

THEY THINK in terms not of one year or two or three years but of decades. Therefore, with even a minority position in the government in South Vietnam they could anticipate that in five years or 10 years after the Americans had moved out, they could achieve their goal of control of all Vietnam.

Billy Graham

I was brought up in a religious home where we were taught to fear God. Now people talk about Him as: "the man upstairs," etc. Isn't this irreverent? B.T.

Because God is the imnipotent creator and sustainer of the universe, man should hold Him in reverence and honor. Because He is a loving and merciful God we should love and trust Him. The non-Christian has every right to fear Him because he has sinned against Him and rightly deserves the Judgment and punishment for sin. On the other hand, the Christian knows that he is God's child; that he has been born into the household of faith through trust in Jesus Christ, His Son. Therefore, there should be no fear in the Christian's heart, only a joy and an unending love to God. One should never speak lightly or irreverently of God. One of the Ten Commandments warns us against taking the name of God in vain. Not only does this mean using God's name in profanity, it also means speaking of Him in terms used ordinarily for mortals. The Bible teaches plainly that the attitude of the Christian and the non-Christian is very different. Once we have accepted Christ, all fear disappears. The same Bible says, "God is love," and also, "For our God is a consuming fire." Faith in Christ is the dividing line.

Memories Are Like Snowflakes

NEW YORK (AP) — Memories are like snowflakes and fingerprints. No two of them are exactly alike.

Now matter how close two people are or how deeply involved in the same event, their memories of it later will vary.

One's individual history, of course, is largely an accumulation of his memories. And you've got a pretty good collection yourself if you can look back and remember when—

IF A WOMAN wore a wig, she tried to keep it a secret.

The only gals who generally appeared in public clad in miniskirts wre those who sold cigarettes in night clubs.

Stenographers usually worked with a pencil struck in their buns.

Only sick people were expected to go on diets.

A family had to be unusually well off to afford two automobiles or two bathrooms.

Moralists were decrying the trend toward twin beds as a precursor of widespread divorce.

If you knocked on someone's front door on Sunday morning and nobody answered, you figured they'd all gone to church together.

When a housewife wanted to serve cake for dinner, she baked it—instead of thawing it.

One of the problems of childhood was to watch what was going on in all three rings of the circus when you only had two eyes to see with.

FOR A SUM of money a phrenologist would foretell your future by feeling the bumps on your head, which told him what qualities of mind you had or lacked.

A kid thought he was on the road to wealth if he could hold his piggy bank to his ear, shake it—and hear more than one clink.

Some people were afraid to sleep in the light of a full moon for fear it would drive them daft.

Only elderly folks took medicine regularly, and what they took was usually something that the druggist prescribed with the remark, "This should be good for what ails you."

In the average small town there wasn't any real reason to stay up until midnight except on Saturday night—and then only if you were young and in love.

IF YOU SAW a home in which the living room blinds were pulled down, you could be pretty sure the couple who lived there were away on vacation or else indulging in a family spat they didn't want the neighbors to see.

For a dime a kid could buy enough penny candy to give himself a stomachache.

The worst curse of boyhood was having to spend a Saturday afternoon beating a rug in the backyard while the rest of the gang were off swimming or playing ball.

There was still some truth to the old saying about girls—"sweet sixteen and never been kissed."

The biggest fear in most people's lives was that sometime they might have to go in debt.

Those were the days! Remember?

Sloppy Work, Bad Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Is American business building up an inventory of ill will during these days of inflation—a legacy that might be especially damaging to some companies in the event of a downturn?

During inflation money is plentiful, demand is high, sales are relatively easier to make. Some products might even be in short supply and so are grabbed up. Skilled help is hard to get.

THE NET RESULT, critics say, is a downturn of quality and service and an increase in dissatisfaction. It may be difficult to measure how broad and deep is the discontent. But the complaints are there.

A survey just released by the Better Business Bureau here begins this way:

"It's not fraud or the slick swindle consumers are tearing their hair about these days—it's simply sloppy work and bad service. There has been a sharp increase in complaints about unsatisfactory workmanship, installation or service."

The files of the BBB are only one sounding board. Various consumer groups report similar findings. So do the offices of some attorneys general. Your neighbor's grumblings convey the same frustrations.

A little product worth $5 or so carries what seems to be a big, gold-plated guarantee. The product breaks down and the owner decides to activate the guarantee, but he finds it would cost more to ship the product back to the factory than it is worth.

A BROKER'S customer complains that if he forgets to pay for stock within five business days he receives a formal demand for the money. But this same broker is unable to deliver the certificates for two months.

The telephone company misbills a customer, who replies by letter seeking an explanation. He receives none—just a notice that his service will be discontinued unless he pays up.

An insurance customer has a minor automobile accident. He sends his company all the details: name, address, policy number, dates, and so on. In return he receives a mimeographed form letter:

"The information provided is insufficient. Please give name of our insured, date of accident . . ."

A note is received by the customer of a service establishment to which he owes no money. "An audit is being made of the books of XYZ Corp. If we do not hear from you we assume the enclosed bill is correct."

It isn't, and neither is a stamp affixed to the enclosed envelope.

Over a year-long period an automobile owner spends $200 with a manufacturer's dealer trying to correct an ignition defect in his vehicle. He takes it to still another dealer who immediately fixes it for $7.50.

"THEY ALL came through like that from the factory," the mechanic tells the mystified customer, who was under the impression he had purchased and paid for a vehicle that was in 100 per cent working order.

Babies Know When To Stand Up

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our baby is six months old. Although he can't crawl too well yet, he enjoys standing up with our help.

We can't see any harm in this, but our parents are having fits. They say he will be bow-legged. In fact, when they are holding him and he tries to stand, they plop him down. Would you comment on this? — S.J.L.

The principal causes of bow legs are faulty diet and heredity. Rickets (from insufficient vitamin D and sunshine and a serious lack of calcium in the diet) is the worst offender.

Fortunately, in this part of the world, there is little valid excuse for rickets, and bowed legs and misshapen bones are far less common than a couple of generations ago.

Standing up isn't what gives babies bow legs. I suppose it's natural for grandparents to be overly concerned about babies (I feel the urge myself, when the babies are visiting us). But babies know instinctively when they want to stand up. If it is too early, they just won't try it.

Of course, it is pointless to take a very tiny infant and hold him up to try to make him walk. If he isn't ready, he'll just refuse to put any weight on his legs. The danger in this isn't to his legs, but in the risk that (if he is held by his arms) a joint capsule in the shoulder may be damaged.

I hope the grandparents will soon cease their worries. Any time a baby is willing to try to stand, he can safely do so without fear of legs becoming bowed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are some causes of recurring bladder infections in women? It seems I just get one cleared up and another comes along. I am 26 and have been bothered for about two years. — Mrs. M.H.

One probability is that, instead of getting new infections, you have not totally subdued an old one. It is characteristic of bladder (and kidney) infections to flare up this way.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

The 'Pest House' Of Years Ago

Half a century or so ago, in the remoter parts of this land of ours, doctors were few and often far from well trained.

Medicines, other than the most common type, were difficult to obtain. Prejudices were strong and beliefs about disease and coping with it were handed down from mother to daughter, and often were far from the truth.

TOWNS FEARED epidemics. It was not too many decades earlier that the bubonic plague was a killer constantly to be guarded against. Yellow fever had just been cornered in the mosquito infested jungles of Cuba.

Smallpox was a particularly noxious enemy. Although vaccine had been discovered and proved for many years, the preventive was not generally used in the hinterlands.

Diphtheria killed hundreds of children each year and pneumonia was almost unanimously terminal in its impact.

TO PROTECT themselves from these invisible enemies, small and isolated communities often had to exercise ruthless means. Looking back from today with our so-called miracle drugs and vastly expanded hospital facilities, the courses followed by our grandparents shock us with their callousness.

Every community in those days had its "pest house."

USUALLY THESE institutions (if they are entitled to such designation) were on the outskirts of the town. Generally they were small one or two room shacks located in the middle of a considerable expanse of land. They actually consisted of four walls, a roof and the minimum number of windows and doors.

The furnishings were Spartan. An old iron bedstead with sagging springs dominated at least one room. There were a few chairs. A heating stove of some sort was in the rooms. A table which served for multiple purposes was on hand. The bedding was generally missing from the bedstead for the reason that after the most recent occupant had been in the house, the bedding he had used had been burned.

WHEN A PERSON became ill with some highly contagious disease, such a smallpox, the community would summarily dispatch him to the pest house. Some other person who had had the disease and survived it would be employed as "nurse." The town doctor would brave the dangers to see the victim from time to time, but in a general way there was little he could do.

Sometimes armed guards were stationed on the property to keep trespassers away. Food was brought to the site from eating houses. The guard would take it to the doorstep. The attendant would open the door, take the food inside and later replace the dishes on the door step.

IF THE PATIENT survived (which was not the rule) his confinement ended when it was proved he was no longer a threat to the lives and welfare of his fellows.

If he died, the attendant became to all practical purposes the mortician. A rough coffin would be provided and delivered to the pest house. The attendant would place the victim's body in the box and nail it shut. The attendant would then gather up all bedding, clothing and other articles the deceased man had touched and burn them.

A brief burial attended by few mourners was the finale of the sorry little tragedy.

It sounds brutal and cruel. On the other hand, had you lived in that age and had your family been threatened by the plague, what would you have done? — SAM BLACKBURN

The Prohibition Of Initiative

WASHINGTON — The Communists haven't conquered us yet, but that dread event is close enough to cast its shadow before.

There's the fading out of personal initiative, the transfer of responsibility and decision to the state, beginning in our military, of all places.

One of the arguments against the Sentinel offered by Dr. Herbert York and hailed by Congressional leaders, of all things, was that junior officers in charge of a defensive missile base might be called upon to open fire in event of attack.

IMAGINE THAT the gunners at Pearl Harbor, with Japanese planes overhead, had been forbidden to pull a trigger for fear of starting a war in self-defense. And how about the fighting farmers at Concord, stalling around for word from the Continental Congress? It's argued that "times have changed," and so they have, but not so much as our faith in American initiative, supposedly inculcated in men at the Army, Navy and Air Force academies.

FIVE YEARS AGO Barry Goldwater was excoriated for saying that theater commanders ought to have the authority to respond with nuclear power to surprise attacks. One year ago Commander Lloyd Bucher, not an Annapolis graduate but trained by graduates, was too paralyzed by inhibitions to do anything that an initiative-motivated officer should have done. Our legendary military man behind the gun is being fashioned into a wait-till-you-hear-from-Washington automaton. This sort of thing is supposed to happen under dictatorships, but it's happening to us, and the dictators chortle.

THE MAN BEHIND the badge, the city cop, is being given less and less training and initiative to pull his trigger for we fear to anger criminals and their satellites almost as we fear to incite the Communist giants and their satellites. It's pretty hard for men to get through life on fear, and harder still for nations. Congress passed an omnibus crime and safe streets act, one feature of which is to subsidize urban police forces. But the records now show that cities can't recruit enough cops to fill the authorized rosters, and no city council as yet has dared try a local selective service draft.

ALSO, WE'RE minus the initiative to deal with the anarchists who, as Gov. Reagan says, are to-the-left of the Communists, and are also below-the-criminals since they don't steal but merely make a big thing of civil disobedience. We're not likely to have any more rough 'n' ready sheriffs, mayors and governors like Bull Connors, Richard Daley and Spiro Agnew, to deal ungently with the anarchists, for we've thrown out the baby with the bath water in abolishing forthright initiative along with forthright peace-protection and tongue-lashing candor.

UNLESS THE NIXON administration leads us in an about-face, we'll continue toward a breed of military commanders who don't command their posts, and cops who don't do harm to looters and arsonists, and law establishments which practice inaction against civil disobedience.

Our defenders, military and civilian, will become robots-of-the-state.

This is not essentially different from what would happen if we had Communist substance instead of Communist shadow over the land.

Anguilla Is No Longer A World Power

WASHINGTON — The only bright spot in the news these days is what has happened in Anguilla. In one of the most amazing reversals in modern military history, tiny, helpless and, up to now, ineffectual Great Britain defeated the powerful forces of Anguilla and conquered this impregnable island fortress.

Little Britain, playing the role of David, smote the Anguillan Goliath, to the surprise of the experts and the delight of those who are constantly rooting for the underdog.

"NO ONE THOUGHT the British could do it," said a London correspondent at the national press club bar where everyone was buying drinks. "But I believe this proves once and for all Her Majesty's government can no longer be considered a paper tiger."

The bar rang with cheers. "The Anguillans bit off more than they could chew," someone shouted.

What everyone wanted to know was how the lightly armed British paratroopers and marines managed to break through the heavy Anguillan defenses which consisted of one Napoleonic cannon, 12 shotguns, three Ford trucks and 2,000 sheep.

"THE ANGUILLANS were overconfident," the British correspondent told us. "They thought our troops were afraid of their sheep. But we used their overconfidence to our advantage. We pulled our frigates up, and when the sheep saw them, they scattered. The sheepherders tried to rally the herds, but by this time the sheep were so disorganized they couldn't possibly put up any defense.

"It proves again that a small, tight-knit, well-trained force on paratroopers and marines can overwhelm a much larger force of sheep if they are determined to do the job."

THIS WAS THE first military defeat for Anguilla in its history and there is great soul-searching going on now amongst the Anguillan armed forces, which consist of three constables, six deputies and three Red Cross nurses. There will probably be a shakeup in the Anguillan military within the next month.

Anguilla-watchers in Washington felt that the consequences of the British invasion would be felt throughout the world.

"ANGUILLA CAN no longer be considered a major power," a State Department man at the bar said.

The London correspondent said, "We have always insisted that we could take Anguilla any time we wanted to, but everyone laughed at us. I don't imagine they're laughing any more. The world must know by now that we just won't allow anyone to trifle with the empire."

HE WENT ON TO SAY that the Doves in Britain had argued against the invasion, not because it was immoral, but because they didn't think the British military could do the job. But the Hawks argued that with a surprise attack they could overwhelm the Anguillans before they could get their pitchforks out of their barns. The Hawks, it turned out, were right.

A member of the English-speaking union raised his glass. "Today Anguilla — tomorrow the world."

Tag Deadline Only Five Days Away

Only five days remain before the April 1 deadline for motor vehicle registration swoops down upon Howard County drivers.

Mrs. Zirah LeFevre, Howard County tax assessor-collector, said today that about one-third of the motor vehicles in the county are without 1969 licenses plates.

By last Friday receipts amounted to $280,107.79, compared to $258,192.40 for the same period in 1968. Total receipts after April, 1968, were $494,077.97.

Mrs. LeFevre said that receipts this year should run ahead of 1968 sales and would approach the $500,000 mark.

Persons who have not purchased 1969 licenses plates may buy them at the tax assessor-collector's office at the courthouse, Newsom's Food Center in Big Spring, or Forsan City Hall. Required documents for registration include the 1968 registration and the vehicle title.

Persons without their 1968 registration must purchase plates in the motor division of Mrs. LeFevre's office.

Cars without 1969 plates after midnight, April 1, must be parked until the new tags are attached, and owners must sign an affidavit stating they have not driven the car after April 1 to avoid a penalty of not getting the plates before the deadline.

Two Forsan Ballots Cast

FORSAN — Two absentee votes have been cast in the Forsan - County Line Independent School District election, according to C. J. Lamb, mayor, who received the absentee votes for both the school and the city election.

No absentee votes have been cast in the Forsan city council election.

Both elections are to be April 5.

Three school board members are to be elected. Two incumbent members, Bob Wash and Bob Cowley, are running for re-election. There is one vacancy on the board which is to be filled.

Other candidates are Hamlin Elrod, Elbert Strickland and Stanley Willis.

Two incumbent city council members are on the ticket unopposed in the Forsan City election. They are Joe Hoard and J. B. Anderson. J. M. Craig is the third candidate on the ticket and is running for the seat held by L. S. Camp. Camp did not seek re-election. Craig has no opposition

Anderson has been a member of the council ever since the town was incorporated in 1961. The only other member of the original board still serving is Mayor Lamb.

Shortage In Palm Fronds

MIMS, Fla. (AP) — Many Palm Sunday worshippers will have to do so without the traditional palm fronds because of a labor shortage, a major supplier says.

"Some churches are going to look pretty bleak" next Sunday, said Ralph Higginbotham, operator of Florida Palms. "They're going to wonder what happened to them."

"It's mainly labor," he said Monday. "The people that used to cut them have quit. It's not that they can't make the money. It's a little harder work than some other jobs."

Palm fronds are lopped by ax off stumpy sabal palms—Florida's state tree—or cut from towering trees by workmen wielding 30- foot poles topped by razor-sharp blades.

Many florists and church supply houses around the country have reported they're unable to fill palm frond orders. J. F. Grottendick and Sons of Baltimore said it has received only 4,000 fronds and usually distributes 25,000.

Higginbotham said he will fall about 175,000 fronds short of the 1.5 million that were ordered.

The shortage in palm fronds will cause some churches to vary their traditional observance of Palm Sunday.

Maddox To Veto

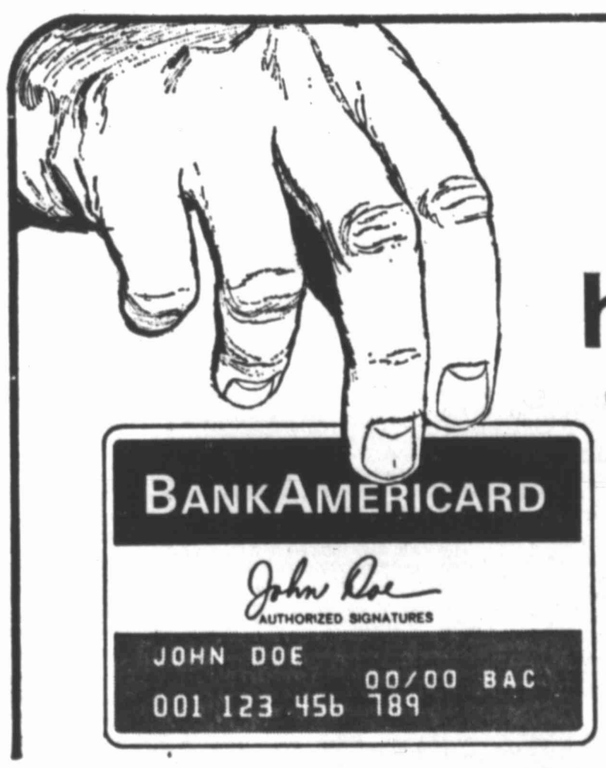

ATLANTA (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox is expected to veto a salary increase for 67 of the state's judges today.

The judges' bill provides for a $6,800 a year pay raise for judges of the Superior Courts, the Court of Appeals, and justices of the Supreme Court.

Airport Picks Champs For Spelling Bee

By SAM BLACKBURN

The Howard County Spelling Bee will be confined to city schools this year. Forsan schools, which have taken part in the previous six county bees, is not competing.

James Porter, principal of the Forsan schools, said Monday his school is too deeply involved in interscholastic spelling events to permit any extra activity.

Meantime, another Big Spring elementary school has announced its 1969 school champion, who will compete April 19 in the county bee.

Airport school is to be represented by 11-year-old Kenneth Greene, a sixth grader, who won the school spelling title Monday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Greene, 706 Willa.

Airport's alternate speller, who will compete in the event Greene cannot take part, is Andrew SeJan. He is also 11 years old and a sixth grader. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. George SeJan, O.K. Trailer Courts.

Mrs. Beatrice Webb, a fourth grade teacher at Airport school, served as coordinator for the school elimination.

Airport school's 1968 spelling champion was Stanley Cook, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wright, 1506 Robin.

Gay Hill school announced its champion last week. She is Roxie McDaniel, who represented her school in 1968.

All schools in the city system have been advised by Keith Swim, school coordinator for the bee, to determine champions by March 27. Several schools plan to hold eliminations this week.

The county bee is sponsored by The Big Spring Herald.

Will Provide Nixon With ABM Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee called in two top Army officials today as it began hammering out the actual legislation to provide President Nixon with his proposed missile defense system.

Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of staff, were leadoff witnesses on a procurement authorization bill that includes $900 million for construction of two sites and procurement of 10 more for the Safeguard antiballistic missile —ABM—system.

The committee, headed by Democrat John Stennis of Mississippi, already has proved itself friendly to the administration's case for Safeguard in hearings last week held mainly to publicize the project.

Senate opponents will get their chance to strike back Wednesday when Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard appears before the Senate Foreign Relations disarmament subcommittee in a continuation of its sharply critical review of the ABM system.

The ABM issue is also expected to come up when Secetary of State William P. Rogers appears Thursday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for his first public questioning on the new administration's foreign policy.

The Foreign Relations committee and its disarmament unit comprise the hard core of Senate opposition to deployment of the ABM.

These critics argue the ABM program would make it more difficult to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on limiting nuclear arms.

The military procurement authorization is one of two major bills that will serve as focal points for showdown votes on the ABM later this year.

The other is the military construction authorization bill.

Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk also joined the debate today when he said the United States should continue research and development on an ABM but hold up final decisions on deployment until finding out what disarmament agreement is possible with the Russians.

Rusk said he thought some of the debate over the ABM is "just plain nonsense"—particularly the argument that doing anything about ABMs would interfere with negotiations with Russia.

"Now, we're prepared to talk with the Russians while they are deploying ABMs," Rusk said.

"I have no doubt the Russians will talk to us even though we are taking some additional steps in the ABM field. So this argument I think is just silly, just plain nonsense."

Rusk spoke in a taped interview for NBC's "Today" show.

JACK JONES

Jones Promoted To Police Captain

Jack Jones, one of the veteran law enforcement officers of the county, has been promoted to captain in the Big Spring Police Department.

In addition, Don Thorpe has been promoted to traffic sergeant, and Sgt. Avery Falkner has been transferred from the traffic to the detective section, replacing Jones, who will be in charge of one of the three patrol shifts.

Jones, 38, has been a member of the police department since November, 1955. He was promoted to sergeant in June, 1960, and has been a detective since that time.

He has been awarded an intermediate police officer certification by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officers' Standards and Education. Jones has received over 800 hours of training in law enforcement and procedures.

He, his wife, and two children live at 1407 Eleventh Place.

The personnel changes in the department come on the heels of the resignation of Capt. John Wolf and patrolman Jimmy Lockhart. Effective date of the promotions is April 1, Banks said.

Thorpe, 40, joined the force in February, 1966, and was promoted to senior patrolman in October, 1968. He is a graduate of the Southwest Law Enforcement Academy. The new sergeant and his wife, Mary, live at 3001 Cactus, with their two daughters.

Falkner, 56, joined the force in September, 1963, and was promoted to sergeant in February, 1966. He is a graduate of the Southwest Law Enforcement Academy. The Falkners live at 708 W. 17th. They have three sons.

Explorer Digs In Big Spring

Locations for explorers have been staked in Howard and Sterling counties with the Howard venture rescheduling to a project deeper depth.

Amerada Petroleum Corp. was making hole below 5,953 feet in No. 1 W. K. Furrh, 4½ miles east of Big Spring in Howard, originally slated as a 7,900-foot Wolfcamp probe, now set for a 9,500-foot Fusselman goal.

It spots 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 5, block 31, T-1-S, T&P survey, 1½ miles southeast of Amerada's No. 1 G. G. White, a Wolfcamp and Fusselman operation, that is testing Wolfcamp shot holes at 7,673-7,707 feet and Fusselman perforations between 9,420 and 9,427 feet.

Robinson Drilling Co. of Big Spring plans No. 1 Neal Reed Estate as a 7,000-foot undesignated prospector in Sterling, 1⅞ miles northeast of the opener and lone producer in the Credo, North (Wolfcamp) pool.

Drillsite is 467 feet from south and east lines of section 228, block 29, W&NW survey, 17 miles northwest of Sterling City.

Roden Oil Co. of Midland was preparing to test No. 1 Glass, Glasscock County Wolfcamp prospect, through perforations, 11 miles northeast of Garden City.

Located 9½ miles northwest of the Credo (Wolfcamp) field, it is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 218, block 29, W&NW survey.

Drilled to 8,480 feet, the 5½-inch oil string is set at that point. Operator perforated selective intervals between 8,135 and 8,254 feet then treated with 1,250 gallons and was preparing to swab the well for the initial checking.

There have been no cores or shows reported in No. 1 Glass but after running logs apparently there were sufficient indications of making a producer from the wildcat.

First National Now Offering Bank Americard

First National Bank of Big Spring has joined with financial institutions over the country in offering credit services of BankAmericard to people of the Big Spring area.

The local bank is now inviting applicants to join in the BankAmericard service.

This includes retail establishments and service businesses as well as hotels, motels, retaurant, etc. More than 16,000,000 people now use this convenience and service.

Local Schools Enrollment Lags

Enrollment in Big Spring schools continued to decline through March 21 as 7,233 students were listed, compared to 7,243 the week before.

Enrollment was down 96 pupils from the same period in 1968 when 7,329 were registered.

Elementary schools lost six pupils last week, with Park Hill, Washington, Lakeview and College Heights schools showing declines. Kentwood School showed the only gain.

Goliad Junior High School gained four students in the secondary school category, but Runnels Junior High School lost five students and Big Spring High School lost four. Special Education class increased by one.

Cooperation Sanitary Key

Cooperation among three agencies and landowners solved problems of erosion and provided a place for refuse, all in one project, Gerald Miller, District Soil Conservation Service conservationist, told the Howard County Agricultural Workers Association today.

Miller explained the sanitary landfill project which required cooperation of the SCS, City of Big Spring, Texas Highway Department and landowners.

The project, east of Big Spring off IS 20, provided a place for the city to place refuse, and with help from the SCS, prevented water erosion from taking the land and highway, he said.

Work on the project began with the city filling two large gullies with garbage, and the SCS designing a waterway to prevent further erosion. The waterway was constructed and planted with grass, Miller said. Then the highway department constructed a basin below a culvert to slow the water running into the waterway.

"The city had a place to put its refuse, the landowners got two large gullies filled and the highway department had a means of preventing erosion from damaging the highway," he said.

The project was financed with a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Missile Defense System Doubts Being Resolved?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials hoped today that talks with President Nixon have resolved any doubts held by Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau about the necessity of a U.S. missile defense system.

Trudeau arrived Monday to discuss the Nixon-proposed antiballistic missile—ABM—program reportedly undecided about whether to back the system. He leaves for Ottawa tonight after more discussions with American leaders.

No matter what Trudeau decides, he is certain to face intensive questioning on the matter by his parliamentary opposition.

Last week critics expressed fear that U.S. defensive missile installations near the border would cause radioactive fallout over Canadian territory if they ever had to be used.

Trudeau rejected proposals that he seek to have projected missile sites in North Dakota and Montana moved further south. He said he was interested in finding out Nixon's rationale for deciding to install the system and in determining whether it would be provocative or would contribute to world peace.

Aides disclosed that the ABM issue was among topics covered when Nixon and Trudeau met privately Monday for 90 minutes and later joined in a 45-minute session with other officials in the White House Cabinet Room.

The issue also figured in a followup meeting Trudeau held with Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the State Department.

Not all of the prime minister's visit was taken up with the somber business of diplomacy. At a white tie dinner Monday night, Nixon entertained his first official foreign guest with talk about skin diving, one of Trudeau's favorite recreations.

In a toast, Trudeau invited the President to visit Canada and Nixon indicated he would like to take up the invitation.

Black Student, Reporter Clash

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Negro protesters, angered by news cameramen, accused the acting president of the University of Texas at Arlington of violating a trust Monday.

One black student, saying "don't take my picture," clashed with a television newsman outside the office of acting President Frank Harrison.

Harrison had met moments earlier with the protesters to review a list of "demands" presented him last week by members of the Collegiates for Afro-American Progress (CAP).

A CAP member, Bernie Smith, Fort Worth, drove a cameraman into a wall as he sought to prevent pictures from being made. The newsman, Fred Hatton of WFAA-TV in Dallas, was not injured.

Witnesses said Smith swung at Hatton before two of Smith's colleagues pulled him away.

In a lobby confrontation a few minutes later, the black students told Harrison they regarded the presence of newsmen and photographers as a violation of trust on Harrison's part.

Taxi Fares Hike Looms

City Commissioners will meet at 7 p.m. for a public hearing of the city's budget, which is expected to be adopted tonight.

In addition to the budget hearing, the commissioners are expected to award contracts for the sprinkling system to be installed at Airport School Park, chemicals for the automatic equipment being installed at the city water treatment plant and oil for city vehicles.

The members of the Planned Parenthood Association are expected to appear before the commissioners to request $3,000 for a birth control center.

George Russell, owner of the Yellow Cab Company, is expected to request an increase in taxi fares within the city.

Wins Second For Safety

M.Sgt. Clement Jones, unit ground safety non-commissioned officer for the 2050th Communications Squadron at Webb AFB, has earned second place in the Outstanding Unit Ground Safety NCO competition in the Central Communications Region. Also receiving the award was the 2050th Communications Squadron, a tenant organization at the base.

The awards cover the second quarter of fiscal year 1969 — the October-December, 1968 period.

Sgt. Jones, unit ground safety NCO since July, 1968, has revamped the unit safety program for the squadron, and has rewritten squadron safety regulations, scheduled monthly safety topics to insure continuity and timely safety emphasis, placed increased emphasis on supervisor's five-minute weekly safety briefings and coordinated many other safety consciousness programs.

"M.Sgt. Jones has become a symbol of safety consciousness within our unit and sets an example which all others can benefit from," Lt. Col. Robert Gagnon, communications squadron commander said.

The colonel noted these results of Sgt. Jones' safety program: No reportable vehicle accidents during the July-December, 1968, period; a sharp reduction in moving traffic violations during the first and second quarters of fiscal year 1969 (April-June 1968: 21 tickets; July-September 1968: four tickets; October-December 1968: three tickets); and no on-the-job accidents during the July-December period.

Hospital Bids Opening Today

Officials from Webb AFB joined with representatives from the U.S. Corps of Engineers office at Albuquerque, N.M., today in going to Lubbock for opening of bids on the base hospital.

The project, identical with one to be erected at Reese, is scheduled to cost in excess of $2 million. Originally, bids were to have been opened in December but the letting was put off pending a redesign.

The opening was scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Lubbock.

Danes Enter Webb Class

Three Danish students are among the 72 student pilots who began undergraduate pilot training with UPT class 70-F Monday at Webb AFB. Also included in the class are 67 Air Force and two Marine officers. Capt. Jerry Sharp will serve as the class training officer.

The three Danish students are A.C. Hans Christian Poulsen, A.C. Soeren Asmussen and A.C. Henning Hansen. They arrived at the base March 19 and will undergo pilot training at Webb under the Military Assistance Program, in which foreign students are given American military training at several bases throughout the United States.

While at Webb, the students will have an opportunity to visit places of interest in Texas and throughout the United States as part of the informational program of Webb's foreign training office.

Although it was a mild 76 degrees when they arrived, the trio all remarked that they found it "very warm." They were dressed for the colder weather of Denmark.

Welfare Payments Will Be Slashed

DALLAS (AP) — A state official said Monday that welfare payments to families with dependent children will be reduced up to 50 per cent May 1.

James R. West Jr., assistant regional director in Dallas of the Texas Department of Public Welfare, said the slashes may be even sharper in coming months.

He told local welfare officials that a revised budget, dictated by limits on available funds, will cause some families to be denied grants for dependent children. While others will receive lower payments, he said some families may draw more money than in the past.

West said the revised system of payments was worked out with the aim of achieving more equitable distribution than had been planned under a controversial cut in maximum grants scheduled last September.

The welfare department had said maximum grants to families with four or more children would drop from $135 a month to $123.

West said recent figures indicate 20,517 welfare families will draw smaller checks under the new system, 11,511 will receive larger payments and 2,242 will be dropped from the roll for payments to those with dependent children.

Norge Laundry Is Convenient

It's nice and convenient when you can get all your clothes cleaned with one stop that does both washing and cleaning.

Norge Village Laundry and Cleaning, located on the south side of Highland Shopping Center, features do-it-yourself washing and dry cleaning for economy and convenience. Lee and Shirley Pierce, owners believe in service and quality. This they provide with a complete line of Norge washers, dryers and dry cleaning machines. The laundry is well equipped with 25 washers, nine dryers and three dry cleaning machines. There are 20 small load washers, four 20-pound washers and one large 30 pound washer.

The Norge Village Laundry has a press and dyeing unit.

Although everything is coin operated, the Pierces can do all the washing, dry cleaning, drying, or folding for customers. There is a small service charge to folding and handling loads that are not sorted.

The busy housewife can bring her wash to Norge Village Laundry, put them in a washer and leave them. She can then take advantage of shopping at Highland Shopping Center. When she returns to the laundry, her clothes will be waiting for her in a basket, ready to take home.

Antiflood Action

WALTHAM, Conn. (AP) — Army engineers began taking antiflood precautions over the weekend at several points in New England. An Army spokesman said heavy rain could cause quick trouble on the Connecticut and Merrimack rivers, in areas that received more than 40 inches of snow in February.

Work has begun clearing river beds, freeing ice jams and building temporary dikes and levees.

Higginbotham-Bartlett Co.

Home needs are easily supplied when the homemaker stops at Higginbotham-Bartlett Co., 300 E. 2nd. Redecorating aids are readily available there.

Higginbotham-Bartlett Helps With Decorating

Higginbotham Bartlett Lumber Co., 300 E. 2nd, has a complete line of remodeling supplies to help the modern homemaker make her home even more livable.

You can revel in color with the Sherwin-Williams and J-B paints stocked at Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. Use more than one. Remember, a single note of music played repeatedly gets tiresome; but coupled with others, it can be a symphony. Nature never uses just a single hue. The red of an apple melds many reds, the green of a forest glade blends a dozen tints and shades. A bed of zinnias flaunts all the colors of the rainbow.

To build a successful color scheme for your home, first explore preferences of the room's occupant. Consider the amount of sunlight the room receives. Take into account the furniture, upholstery and carpet colors.

Next, go to Higginbotham-Bartlett Co., and browse through the Sherwin-Williams and J-B paint color harmony guides. You may consult them at the store, or borrow them to take home. Turn the pages to your favorite color, as well as those duplicating furniture and carpet colors in the room you are decorating.

Now, play the decorator's game. Get a sample wall color. Assemble the paint sample with a bit of carpet, a swatch of upholstery and a lamp or bibelot. This will give you an idea of how the colors in the room are to go together.

Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. also stocks a wide selection of Airlume folding doors, which come in exciting new colors and textures of vinyl on a steel base. The vinyls are so deeply embossed that they actually have the feel of the weave of linen or the grain of wood. The Airlume folding doors are so rich looking that they have the appearance of doors costing twice the price.

The track on which Airlume doors are installed is heavy-gauge steel. The channels have ribbed sides for added strength and are coated with a permanent lubricant for easy operation. The handles are molded with brass finish or brown high impact polystryene plastic.

Colors for the Airlume folding doors come in dark walnut, fruitwood, driftwood, allegro gold, avocado, linen and tan linen.

Higginbothar-Bartlett Co. has a wide selection of hand tools and paint brushes to help the do-it-yourself man get the job done. Also in stock at Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. is the complete line of supplies for home projects.

Too Much Beer, Sorry 'Bout That

DURANGO, Colo. (AP) — La Plata County Sheriff Walter Conrad said Monday he received a telephone call from W. R. Eckles, a rancher living one-half mile east of Bayfield, last Friday morning reporting a theft.

Stolen were $150 worth of mechanic's tools, a battery charger, and a few other items.

This morning, Eckles telephoned to give a different message. He said when he went to his pickup this morning he found the missing equipment back in place with a note saying:

"Too much beer Thursday night. Sorry."

The note was unsigned.

HE LIKES '69 REDS BETTER THAN LAST YEAR'S TEAM

Dave Bristol Exudes Confidence

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An hour with Dave Bristol is liable to convert the most hostile cynic into a booster of the Cincinnati Res. The manager of the Reds is a positive thinker whose optimism overrides such minor factors as sore arms, pulled muscles and broken bones.

Bristol thought his Reds could win it all last year but an epidemic of ailments that struck down Gary Nolan, Pete Rose, Tommy Helms, Mel Queen Vada Pinson and Jim Maloney forced him to settle for the reality of fourth place.

"I like our club even better than the '68 club," said Bristol for starters. "I think we have a chance to go all the way but I do think our division will be tough, too, even though the Cardinals aren't in it. San Francisco and Atlanta will be rought."

Bristol knows his main problem is pitching—and good luck. It's easy to see from one glance at the statistics. The Reds led the majors with a .273 club batting average but their pitching ranked 10th in the national league.

PITCHING SUFFERED

"Nolan has pitched real good down here," said Bristol. "Last year he tried too hard early and came up with a sore shoulder. We had to leave him down here when we went home.

"Jim Maloney came down early, hoping to get an early start because he usually has trouble with his shoulder. It's usually tender in the spring so he's giving it a chance to work out down here.

"We expect big things of Tony Cloninger. He practically had to start spring training all over again last June after we got him from Atlanta. Once he got in shape he won four out of five for us after the All-Star game.

"Gerry Arrigo should be just about ready to make it big after his 12-10 season last year and we picked up another left-hander in Jim Merritt, who came to us from Minnesota for Leo Cardenas. If Mel Queen (a 14-game winner in 1967 who pitched only 18 innings in 1968) should come around we'd be in fine shape."

Bristol also lists George Culver as a spot starter. Jack Fisher moves to the Reds from the Chicago White Sox as a spot starter and bullpen helper.

With Clay Carroll doing an outstanding job on relief after he came to the Reds from Atlanta, Cincinnati felt safe in trading away Ted Abernathy the sidearming bullpen ace, to Chicago. Wayne Granger, a rangy right-hander who did an outstanding job with St. Louis will be Carroll's chief helper.

REGULARS GONE

The Reds traded away two regulars in hopes of strengthening their pitching staff. Vada Pinson, the regular center fielder, went to St. Louis and Cardenas, the shortstop, went to Minnesota.

Bristol has moved Pete Rose the batting champ, from right to center and plans on using Bob Tolan, ex-Card, in right field. Alex Johnson, a surprising .312 slugger last year, will be in left. Jim Beauchamp is sure to be one back-up man.

Rose held out for a few days before signing for a reported $85,000 but was in the line-up as a pinch-hitter less than aweek after he hit camp.

Cardenas' job is a more difficult problem for Bristol to fill. All winter he has been saying that Woody Woodward, former Brave, is going to be the shortstop. However, Woody has a lifetime batting average of .233.

Darrel Chaney, a 21-year-old whiz who was protected in the expansion draft, is the heir to the shortstop job in the future. He spent 1968 in Asheville in Class AA where his batting record stowed 23 homers but 159 strikeouts and a .231 average.

The rest of the infield is set. Lee May at first, Tommy Helms at s ceond and Tony Perez at third are All-Star contenders at their positions.

Johnny Bench, the catcher, was voted the Rookie of the Year in 1968 and was called the best catcher in the league since Gabby Hartnett. At the age of 21, the young man with the rifle arm and powerful bat has a great future ahead of him. Pat Corrales is the backup receiver.

JERRY QUARRY

Irish Jerry Quarry Winner In Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — His trunks were shocking pink, not Kelly green, but Jerry Quarry's face is a map of Ireland and he fought big Buster Mathis as if he were using a shillelagh and not a pair of boxing gloves.

There also was a definite shamrock twinge to the crowd emotion as the throng of 15,076 roared approval at Quarry's slam-bang, almost defiant style and derided Mathis' inept performance in the 12-round heavyweight fight Monday night at Madison Square Garden.

The 23-year-old Bellflower, Calif., bomber a 12-5 underdog who was spotting the 6-foot-3, 234½ pound Mathis two inches in height and 38½ pounds, dominated the fight from the opening bell.

Quarry battered the head and body of the Grand Rapids, Mich., giant with heavy rights and lefts to the body and head, dropping Mathis to his right knee with a long right in the second round. Mathis got up at two and took the mandatory eight count.

Quarry showed complete disdain for Mathis' punching and even taunted him in the 11th round by dropping his hands to his sides and sticking out his jut jaw.

Judges Tony Castelano and Jack Gordon each awarded Mathis only the sixth round and called the seventh even. Referee Johnny Colan gave Mathis the fourth and sixth and called the fifth even. The Associated Press gave every round to Quarry.

The lopsided triumph probably earned Quarry a shot at Joe Frazier, the five-state heavyweight champion.

Then someone at a post-fight news conference asked him if would fight Jimmy Ellis if the World Boxing Association champion offered him a match tomorrow.

"Yes," said Quarry who lost to Ellis in the final of the WBA elimination tournament to find a successor for the deposed Cassius Clay.

Harry Markson, the boss of Garden boxing, said, "We hope to make it (a Frazier-Quarry fight) in early summer. "It is the best possible fight in many years and it has the best money potential in many years.

Tuesday night's crowd, many of them New York Irish, which braved a heavy rain paid a gross of $167,293. Each fighter was guaranteed $50,000 against 25 per cent of the net receipts and television money.

Quarry now has won 32 and lost six, with four draws. Mathis, who was stopped by Frazier in 11 rounds is 29-2.

Four Players Within Area Are Honored

Larry Tolson, Forsan; Robert Chambers and Christene Read, both of Westbrook; and Randy Parker, Colorado City, are among the students in this immediate area named to the All West Texas Academic Basketball teams chosen by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Tolson, who has a 92.6 grade average, Miss Read, with a 93.9 grade norm, and Chambers, averaging 93.5 in the classroom, were chosen on Class B units.

Parker, with an 89.25 grade mean, was selected on the Class AAA team.

Nominations were made from the more than 400 high schools in the 132-county area served by WTCC and selection to team membership was made by a special committee named by President Beverly King of Graham.

Boys and girls teams were named in all classifications which fielded teams. To qualify for nomination to these teams the students had to be classified as seniors, maintain much better than average grades and must have been selected to represent his or her school on an all district team.

President King stated "We feel that exceptional academic achievement in addition to athletic ability should be recognized and encouraged in West Texas high schools. Too often there is too much honor bestowed for athletic achievement without regard to scholastic attainment."

Because of Texas Interscholastic League rules there will not be any prizes awarded to these honorees. A letter of selection has been mailed to each student selected and a copy of the letter sent to his coach. Announcement of the selections will be made in the individual schools at proper school functions.

Earlier in the year All West Texas Academic Football teams were named by the WTCC for all classes AAAA to B.

The Education Committee of the WTCC is headed by L. Roy Prescott of Midland and it is anticipated that these Academic-Athletic teams will continue as an annual event so that greater emphasis will be placed upon the "total education" of the student, according to King.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

ERNIE BANKS, veteran first baseman for the Chicago Cubs:

"It's a crime to take money for playing baseball. We should all be in San Quentin."

* * *

DOUG SANDERS, pro golfer:

"When I die I want to come back as a touring pro's wife. All they do is sit around the hotel and ring for room service."

* * * *

TED WILLIAMS, manager of the Washington Senators, discussing his problem hitter, Mike Epstein:

"They say in batting practice he puts on great shows. If he can do that, he should be able to hit. The game between the pitcher and the batter is closer to batting practice than you think. Just a little tighter control and discipline at the plate, and any player will do a better job all the way around."

* * * *

JOE NAMATH, pro football star:

"If you have to get upset by what you read and hear to win—boy, you're in trouble."

* * * *

JACK MITCHELL, former Kansas University football coach who was succeeded by Pepper Rodgers, after attending his son's wrestling match at the school:

"I overheard this one fan telling another, 'They finally got rid of his dumb dad at KU, but then they hired a guy who couldn't count to 12.'"

* * * *

Unpredictable DICK STUART, after playing two years of baseball in Japan:

"I could tell you things you wouldn't believe, like me going four games without an error."

* * *

FURMAN BISHER, Atlanta scribe, before Joe Torre was traded by the Braves to St. Louis recently:

"For the past three or four days, the Braves and the New York Mets have been haggling over a deal. It would give Torre, stubbornly holding out in a New York investment office, transfer to the Mets, where it is assumed that being Italian and of the neighborhood by nativity, he would become a patron saint. Mostly, the talk was between Paul Richards of the Braves and John Murphy of the Mets. They might as well have been representing North and South Vietnam. What Richards wanted in return for the catcher who wants $77,500 to play this season was a reasonable return on the Braves' investment. What the Mets chose to offer him was two boy scouts and a lifetime pass on the Staten Island Ferry."

* * * *

BOB COUSY, retiring basketball coach at Boston College:

"You get a kid to come to your school nowadays by licking his boots. It's an unhealthy situation. Once you have committed yourself to begging him to come, there can never be a player-coach relationship. The kid is the boss."

* * * *

JESSE OUTLAR, Atlanta scribe:

"The great experiment of employing a pinch hitter for pitchers, a la free substitution, has aroused minimum interest. Most managers and players frown on it, but I like any role which prohibits pitchers from batting. Pitchers strike out and waiting for their jackets at first base after a rare hit constitute boring baseball sights. Any time you can legislate against boredom, it must be viewed as progress."

GOLF NOTES

Invitational Is Scheduled For May 10

The second annual Big Spring Muny Invitational Golf tournament will be held May 10-11 at the city-owned course, pro Charley Brantley announced Monday.

Details have not been completed for the 36-hole event but the entry fee will likely be $20 and will include the price of a barbecue — something last year's meet didn't offer.

Defending champion in the tournament is Robb Smith, formerly of Big Spring and now of Midland. Smith has not indicated whether or not he will play in the meet again.

Merchandise prizes will be in the offing to winners in each flight.

* * *

The Muny players probably will be in their new $25,000 clubhouse about April 15.

Workmen are nearly finished with the structure, which is located south of the pro shop now in use.

* * *

A pro-am will be held at the Muny course Thursday, May 23.

Brantley said he wanted to stage a pro-am in conjunction with the Invitational but was unable to arrange the date.

The annual Big Spring Junior tournament, sanctioned by the West Texas chapter of the PGA, will be staged at the Muny July 24.

Winners in the various divisions of the meet become eligible for the Tournament of Champions scheduled later in the year in Andrews.

* * *

New president of the Big Spring Golf association is Bob Waters. Other officers sciected at a recent meeting of members included Marvin Williams, vice-president; Bill Patton, secretary-treasurer; Marvin Williams, tournament chairman, assisted by Bob Smith, Bob Rogers, Jack Mundell and Frank Jones.

The association, which has rewritten its constitution and by-laws, plans to stage about two membership tournaments a month and is now in the midst of a membership drive.

The organization has already recruited about 40 members. Dues are $3 a year, which give the subscribers all privileges within the BSGA.

Oilers Swap 4 Players

BOSTON (AP) — Nick Buoniconti says it's "pretty damn tough" severing his seven-year ties with the Boston Patriots via the trade route but "I know I can help Miami, and I'm looking forward to playing for the Dolphins."

The five-time All-American Football League middle linebacker was the big name involved Monday as the Patriots swung a pair of multiple-player deals.

Buoniconti went to Miami in exchange for quarterback Kim Hammond, linebacker John Bramlett and an undisclosed draft choice.

In the other trade, the Pats sent cornerback Leroy Mitchell and an undisclosed draft pick to the Houston Oilers for flanker Charley Frazier, running back Sid Blanks, linebacker Ron Caveness and cornerback Larry Carwell.

Buoniconti, 28, joined the Patriots in 1962 after a spectacular career at Notre Dame. He was named All-AFL from 1963-67, but suffered a knee injury which required surgery midway in the 1968 season.

"As far as I can tell, the knee is 100 per cent okay now," the 5-foot-11, 220-pounder told The Associated Press Monday night.

"I've been exercising it, and the doctors say it's back to normal. Of course, you never really know until you get on that field and try it, but I don't anticipate any trouble."

Steers Seek Fourth Win

Sailing along atop the District 3-AAAA standings with a 3-0 record, the Big Spring Steers seek to protect their station in two games at home this week.

The Longhorns will host dangerous San Angelo today in a 4 p.m. game and be at home to Midland High Friday afternoon.

The Steers had their closest call last Saturday in Odessa, at which time they beat Odessa High, 3-2, although outhit, 10-5.

Abilene High, picked to finish in the cellar in a pre-season poll, shares the top spot with Big Spring at the moment. The Eagles go to Odessa to oppose Permian this afternoon.

San Angelo was shocked by Permian last Saturday, 7-2, after having shared first place with Big Spring and Abilene.

Coach Oakey Hagood has nominated Lefty James Newman to hurl for the Steers today. Newman's fine relief job against Odessa saved the Steers' bacon last week. On the year, he is 2-1.

Other likely starters for the Steers and their league batting averages include Joe Martinez (.167), catching; Bill Jones (.200), first base; Danny Parchman (.375), second base; Jimmy Wilson (.400), third base; Felix Mendoza (.182), shortstop; Roger Dixon (.167), left field; Andy Gamboa (.330), center field; and Rockey Wooley (.143), right field. Newman himself is clouting .375.

Hunt Batjer, 2-0 in conference, will charge the mound for San Angelo.

Over-all, San Angelo is 4-5 while Big Spring is 6-3-1.

Other starters for San Angelo include Neil Sykes in center field, Gary Lacy at second base, Jerre Sykes at third, Chris Frederick in left, Ken Sanders at first, David Rainey in right, Ramsey Koschak catching and Charley Stephens at short.

At an even .300, Rainey is the leading hitter for San Angelo.

In other conference games today, Cooper goes to Midland to play Lee and Midland will be at home to Ector.

Lee Fems Oppose Local Netters

Powerful Midland Lee, favorite in the 2-AAAA girls' volleyball race, comes to town this evening to tangle with the Big Spring Steerettes in a 7:30 p.m. match in Steer Gym.

The locals will be playing their next-to-last regular season contest and their final one at home.

NBA'S MOST VALUABLE THINKS EARL MONROE EARNED AWARD

BALTIMORE (AP)—Those who have followed the Baltimore Bullets throughout their championship season just ended have come to regard Westley Unseld as a gentleman, and a very self-effacing one at that.

Thus, when Unseld was named Monday the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player for 1968-69, it was not surprising that Unseld would say that someone else should have received the award.

"It's very nice," Unseld said, "but I don't know whether I deserve it or not, and I really mean that.

"I think Earl Monroe should have won it. I can see the turn-around of the Bullets wasn't all me. It started last season when Earl was a rookie."

After Court Verdict, Ali Sounding Like Old Clay

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali sounded like Cassius Clay Friday night, knocking out Joe Frazier in poem.

Ali, formerly Clay, might get a chance to enact the poem if his conviction for refusal to be drafted is reversed.

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that Ali's case should go back to a lower federal court to check for possible illegal eavesdropping.

Ali was quick to grasp the implications.

"I'll meet with my lawyer in Chicago in about three days to plan our move," he said Monday night.

He spoke at a Black Arts Festival at North Texas State University.

"If the conviction is overturned and Frazier offers, I'll fight," Ali said. "I'm about 230 pounds now—20 pounds over my fighting weight. But I'd be ready by September."

Ali singled out Frazier, skipping names of other contenders like Buster Mathis, Jerry Quarry and Jimmy Ellis, "Frazier is the name," Ali said.

Ali said he's about $300,000 in debt, mostly in legal fees.

Ali spends most of the time on the road in his Cadillac now, complete with stero tapes and television.

"I'm waiting on my '69 model now," he said.

When not on the road, he lives in Chicago. A former Houston, Tex., resident, Ali says he'll eventually build a home there. He also said the Astrodome would be a possible Ali-Frazier fight site if he is able to resume boxing.

"It wouldn't matter where. If we found a place for 10 million (to watch the fight) we'd get 10 million. A lot of people would pay to see me get beat, too, you know," Ali said.

ON 3RD TEAM

Robert Jackson of HCJC was named to the National JCAA All-American third team, coach Buddy Travis of HCJC revealed today. The elite squads were picked during the National tournament at Hutchinson, Kan., over the weekend.

Paducah Winner

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Paducah, Ky., won the 1969 National JC Basketball tournament here the past weekend, turning back Pittsburgh, Pa., in the finals, 79-76.

First Tenant Moves In Northcrest Apartments

By SAM BLACKBURN

Northcrest Apartments, Big Spring's most ambitious approach in providing improved living quarters for some of its underhoused residents, now has its first tenant and will see a second unit of its 68 apartments occupied on Wednesday.

The $700,000 sprawling, gleaming white complex located on the north edge of the city is virtually complete. Forty of its apartments have been approved and accepted by the Federal Housing Administration which provided the funds for the project. The other 28 are finished as far as construction is concerned and leaders expect the FHA to approve them in the immediate future.

The contractor, D. D. Johnston, Big Spring, who began work on the project on May 8, 1968, has moved away all tools and equipment. Only some landscaping remains to be finished and Johnston has employed Johnny Johansen to direct this work.

Later some sodding will be done and the playground area for the complex will be finished.

The office is now open and applications for the available apartments are being accepted. The project is one under which the tenant pays rental for his quarters based on his income. The basic rent for one of the one bedroom apartments is $105 per month.

The initial tenant to move into the new project occupies a one bedroom unit. Based on his income his rental is $45 a month and the FHA picks up the tab for the difference between that sum and the $105.

There are one, two and three bedroom apartments. The second tenant who will move in Wednesday will occupy a two bedroom unit. Like the first renter, her share of the rent cost will be determined by her income.

Oliver Reed, chairman of the foundation trustees who operate the project, said that five other applicants for apartments have been screened and approved by the FHA offices in Lubbock and can move in when they wish.

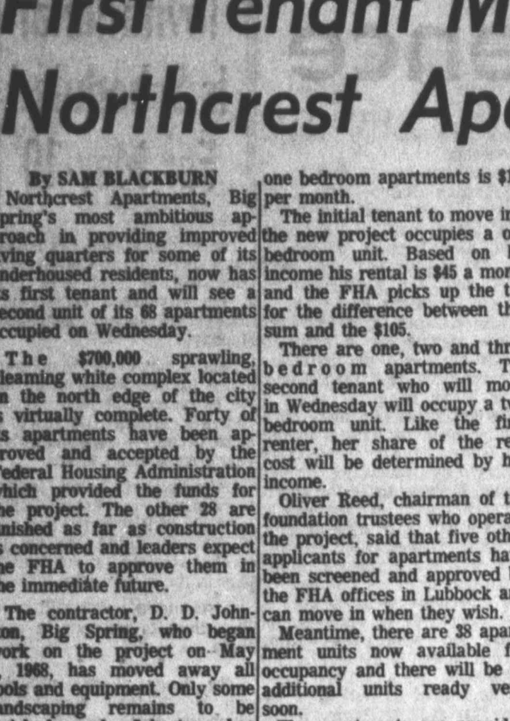

Meantime, there are 38 apartment units now available for occupancy and there will be 28 additional units ready very soon.

The apartments are provided with electric refrigerators, gas ranges kitchen cabinets, and other kitchen furnishing. Other than these items the tenant provides his own furniture. Central heating is provided, utilities are paid by the management.

Reed stressed that the apartments are not restricted to persons of any racial origin. The rule by which apartments are made available to applicants is based on the applicant's need, the inadequacy of his present quarters and his character. His pro rata part of the basic rental is determined, as stated, by his income.

The tenant must pay at least one-fourth of his income as his part of the rental. If he has a large family, he gets a three bedroom apartment but if his income is low, he may not pay more personally than a tenant with no dependents who occupies a one bedroom unit.

The Northcrest Apartments are under the guidance of the Mount Bethel Baptist Church Charitable Trust. Reed is the president of this trust.

Oscar Lee Says: 'It's Just Fine'

"This is the nicest place I have ever lived in," said Oscar Lee, the first tenant to be accepted for the low cost housing project, Northcrest Apartments, located on the north edge of town.

Lee, a 73-year-old veteran bus station porter, moved into his one bedroom apartment at the Northcrest Sunday and Monday. For 40 years, Lee has lived at the Casa Grande Hotel, 401 NW 5th.

"I paid $16 a month for a room there," said Lee. "My apartment here costs me $45 a month. It has a bedroom, living room, bathroom, and a kitchen. It's centrally heated and all my bills are paid as a part of my rent. It's just fine."

The apartment that Lee occupies is one of 68 units in the Northcrest Apartment complex. His unit has a basic rental of $105 per month. His part of the rental is based on his income. The FHA pays the balance.

Lee, who served as porter at the Greyhound Bus station for the past 37 years, said that effective this month he is "gonna retire."

"I don't feel so good no more," said the aged man. "Working from 3 a.m. to 10 a.m. every day is mighty wearing on an old man."

Lee will live alone in his new home. "I've lived alone for more'n 40 years," he observed, "so there ain't nothing new in that for me."

Lee has lived in Big Spring since 1929. He came here from Jones County. He has a daughter who lives in Waco.

Tomorrow, Lee will have a neighbor. Mrs. Beatrice Person, who now lives at 505 NW 5th, is to occupy another of the Northcrest Apartments with her son Wednesday. She will be the second occupant at the new complex.

Five other families have been approved by the FHA for apartments in the new project, but have not said when they plan to move in.

Spelling Bee Set Wednesday

Sixteen boys and girls representing eight classrooms at Washington Place school will compete Wednesday at 9 a.m. for the honor of representing their school in the Seventh Annual Howard County Spelling Bee on April 19.

J. B. Cushing, principal, said that the 16 youngsters are the survivors from the classroom elimination bees and that the two top spellers in each class have been classified to try for the school title.

Tiny Joy Linn Murphy who is 12 now but was 11 at the time she won the honor, was the speller for Washington Place School in the 1968 County Spelling Bee. Faustino Aguilar, now a 12-year-old, was the runner-up at the Washington Place Spelling Bee.

In 1967 Rhonda Thompson was the school champion.

Basketball Fans

GAIL (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dennis and daughter, Lisa, attended a charity basketball game at DeSoto High School in Dallas last weekend. The game was between the Cowboys and the DeSoto High School faculty and local businessmen. Joel Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dennis, participated in the game, won by the Cowboys 100-26.

Unexplained Pains

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Officials said about 11 persons suffered stomach pains and other symtoms following a dinner party in St. Louis last week.

The affair was in honor of retiring city health commissioner, Dr. Earl Smith.

Big Four Mideast Negotiations Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says preliminary negotiations have failed so far to produce the necessary groundwork for a Big Four meeting on the explosive Middle East situation.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Monday "insufficient consensus" among the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France is preventing a four-way meeting.

At the same time, however, some officials see progress in the bilateral talks American diplomats have been holding with their Soviet, French and British counterparts in an effort to find a way to end the near-war between Israel and the Arab countries.

They say the Soviets and French now agree that Israel's withdrawal from the territory it captured in the six-day war in 1967 need not mean complete evacuation and that there can be some border adjustments where earlier boundaries did not make sense.

The United States agreed reluctantly in February to hold the four-power meeting suggested by the French, but insisted on two-way talks among the four countries first to see if a full conference would be fruitful.

American officials were doubtful of the value of the four-power talks because they felt only the United States and the Soviet Union were in a position to influence the two sides in the Middle East.

The Americans suspect the Paris proposal was an attempt to restore French influence in the area.

American officials hoped the recent Washington visit of Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban would result in the forming of a position the United States can represent at the proposed four-power gathering. The hope did not materialize.

The Eban visit put American differences with Israel into sharp focus. It compelled Washington officials to make new efforts to keep the dialogue open with the Soviets, on the one hand, and to persuade Israel that the four-power conference will not jeopardize its interest, on the other.

ROAD TO PEACE

Israel, Eban stressed, wants a settlement agreed upon by the two sides, considering that the only practical road to peace.

Eban minimized the danger of a new war, insisting there will be none. American officials are less certain.

One thing Eban made crystal clear: The Soviet plan suggesting a "phased" withdrawal of Israeli forces from captured Arab land is out of the question. What Eban did not say—but implied—was Israeli suspicion that the United States is on the verge of buying the Soviet's idea.

The belief is growing in Washington diplomatic circles that recent talks between high American officials and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin may result in an understanding between the two superpowers before the United States and Israel or the Soviets and Arabs can agree.

Officers Jail Ex-EP Banker

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A search for former El Paso bank president Robert F. Lockhart, accused of embezzling $60,999, ended Monday with his arrest at Lordsburg, N.M.

Ray Faisst, agent in charge here for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said two FBI agents and a New Mexico policeman found Lockhart, 44, at a motel.

The arrested man was carrying firearms and an undisclosed amount of cash, Faisst said.

He was taken to Deming, N. M., for arraignment before a U.S. commissioner.

Authorities charged Lockhart here Sunday with embezzling the money from the El Paso State National Bank, where his resignation as president was disclosed Friday.

Faisst said Lockhart directed bank employes to gather up $60,000 and left with the money March 18. Lockhart was quoted as telling co-workers he would fulfill a request from the president of the Van Horn State Bank and deliver the cash to him.

It was Friday, Faisst said, before an official of the El Paso bank learned the Van Horn bank had neither asked nor received the $60,000.

Lockhart had been an employe of the State National Bank since 1942 and its president since 1967. He also was a director in the El Paso branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

East's enterprise in today's hand uncovered a sound slam contract that was based on an excellent distributional fit. Tho he was deprived of the pleasure of playing the hand by a pair of sacrifice minded opponents, he nevertheless wound up with a substantial profit on the deal.

East opened the bidding with one spade and South overcalled with two clubs. West had something in reserve for his free raise to two spades; however, with only eight points in high cards, he was reluctant to take more aggressive action.

When North raised his partner's clubs, East's holding assumed added lustre. West's support of spades assured the game and, if his side values were located in diamonds rather than the other suits—then a slam would be in the offing. In order to uncover a secondary fit, East now made the key call of the auction—three diamonds. He had no intention of playing a diamond contract; however, if West reacted enthusiastically to this call, East intended to bid a slam in spades.

South jumped to five clubs in the hope that he could impede the opposition, but West took this opportunity to show his excellent diamond support. This was just what East was waiting to hear and he proceeded to six spades without further ado.

Since there was no apparent defense against the opponent's slam, North elected to sacrifice at seven clubs, feeling that a somewhat smaller loss would thereby be incurred. East was convinced that his side had already reached the limit of their offensive resources, so he doubled seven clubs.

West opened the king of diamonds which was overtaken with the ace by East, for it was his desire to obtain a heart ruff. He cashed the ace of that suit and then shifted back to a small diamond. West was in with the ten and returned a heart which East trumped for the fourth and final defensive trick.

The 700 point profit registered by East and West provided a measure of balm for the vulnerable slam which they would have scored had the opponents permitted them to play six spades.

Dear Abby

Doesn't Need Those PJ's

DEAR ABBY: My aunt offered to make me and my fiance a matching set of HIS and HERS pajamas for our wedding present if I supply the pattern and pick out the material.

When I asked David about this he said he prefers to wear the same pajamas he has worn for the last 10 years. Upon further questioning, I discovered that the "pajamas" he had in mind were nothing more than his bare hide, and he had no intentions of wearing as much as a thread to bed.

Abby, I was shocked, though I tried not to let on.

David is a nice looking fellow, and there is nothing repulsive about him, but the thought of his sleeping that way strikes me as being somewhat shameful. What shall I tell Auntie?

OUT WEST

DEAR OUT: Tell Auntie, thanks a lot, but David has all the pajamas he's going to need. (He has.)

DEAR ABBY: We have an 18-year-old son, and I'd like to know what the parents of teenage girls are thinking of. When Rick first started to date he'd say: "The girl has no curfew, and I have to be in before SHE does. It's embarrassing."

We're not unreasonable, Abby. We ask Rick to leave the girl's house at 9 p.m. on school nights, and he has until midnight on weekends. And if he's going to be held up for any reason, all we ask is a phone call.

This girl he has been seeing a lot of lately has just turned 16. She has no restrictions on dating, and even when nothing special is planned she asks Rick to come over and just "sit around." Needless to say, we are in a constant state of worry. Our son has had good upbringing, but even "nice" kids fall in love and get carried away. I'm afraid they're playing with fire. If Rick came to us and said he had to get married, at age 19 or even 20, I don't know where we'd ever get the money.

Abby, please, please tell parents of girls to help us help them. Curb those dates and long hours. We love our children, and their well-being is the responsibility of both sets of parents. I know this is too long to print, but with your talent maybe you can shorten it and say it better.

"WORRIED" IN OAKLAND, ME.

DEAR WORRIED: I couldn't have said it any better, and I'm printing every word.
