Traffic accident prompts action on playground safety

By MARY McATEER
Staff Writer

GRADY - A recent traffic accident has spurred Grady School Board members to make playground safety a prime issue.

The school's location at the intersection of Highways 176 and 189 has been a concern, but matters came to a head Friday when two vehicles collided at the intersection and one was thrown into the fence surrounding the schoolyard.

The accident happened outside of school hours, but the possibility of a similar happening during a school day and the fence not providing a sufficient barrier prompted Superintendent Johnny Tubb to add the safety discussion to the board's agenda.

Board members agreed to consult with safety engineers from the Texas Department of Transportation on the best way to prevent similar occurrences in the future.

In other matters, the board accepted a records management proposal, bids for purchase of the Grady trash truck and five campus dumpsters, a bid for completion of the campus roof-

Anatomy of a bombing

Affidavit lays out FBI's case in Oklahoma tragedy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The storage sheds were rented last fall in small Kansas towns. Two tons of the type of fertilizer used in the federal building bombing were bought about the same time. The diesel fuel was the finishing touch, bought days before the blast that killed 167 people.

The anatomy of the federal building bombing was detailed in an FBI affidavit unsealed Thursday at a hearing for Terry Nichols. He is charged in the blast with his Army buddy, business partner and political compatriot Timothy McVeigh.

According to receipts found at Nichols' home in Herington, Kan., a storage shed was rented Sept. 22 in Herington in the name Shawn Rivers.

Eight days later, the receipts show that a Mike Havens bought a ton of ammonium nitrate fertilizer at a farm supply store in McPherson, Kan., about 50 miles southwest of Herington. McVeigh's fingerprint was found on the receipt, the affidavit says, and investigators say such fertilizer was used in the 4,800-pound bomb.

On Oct. 17, another storage unit, known as No. 40, was rented to a Joe Kyle in Council Grove, about 24 miles from Herington, the affidavit says. The next day, a Mike Havens again bought another ton of ammonium nitrate from the same farm supply store.

On Nov. 7, a third storage unit, No. 37, was rented in Council Grove, this time in the name Ted Parker.

A few weeks later, according to the affidavit, Nichols wrote a

Record set 'straight' on Wallace settlement

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The attorney for Jimmy Wallace is wanting to set the record straight and let people know they did not settle for a lesser amount than the jury awarded her client.

Last month, county officials announced they had settled the lawsuit and were paying Wallace $115,000 and that was all they were responsible for. Because of confidentiality rules, County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson could not comment on where the rest of the money would come from to pay Wallace which was approximately an additional $65,000.

"We won the case as awarded by the jury. We did not want to keep dragging the county through this and through an appeal so we made a settlement agreement. It disturbs me and I believe the county acted in bad faith by talking about this case. They misled the people to believe all my client was receiving was $115,000," Wallace's attorney Cindy Weir-Ervin said

"I feel they have opened the door for me to respond by saying the additional amount of money will be paid by the insurance company. We also got the county to rephrase the jury's decision about back wages which was a large portion of the settlement," Weir-Ervin said.

Wilkerson explained, "We were not misleading. The commissioners have to take a vote in order to disperse those kinds of funds. Because of the vote, it is public record how much the county paid and we did not breach the confidentiality agreement.

"The case has been dismissed and this was not a judgment against the county but rather a settlement."

Ervin adds the county agreed to change the phrasing to say he was being awarded money for personal injuries and not back pay. If it had remained back pay, Wallace would have had to pay taxes on the amount he received.

Ervin also says this route was more beneficial to her client than an appeal so they agreed to

"I thought it was appropriate for me to set the record straight for the taxpayers. The county's action of not living up to their end of the confidentiality agreement and this type of activity of not having written policies is what got them into trouble in the first place," she continued.

Wallace added, "I am satisfied with the outcome still. I truly wish this could have been settled before it went to court and saved the taxpayers money. I believe this set the county on notice that they need to have written policies and abide by them."

Ebola outbreak highlights Africa's health woes

Ebola has the headlines but only latest layer of misery

By CLARE NULLIS
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA AP) — As a surgeon in Africa, Dr. Ebrahim Samba often used to pray before entering a squalid, unlit room to operate on a patient with a deadly and possibly highly infectious disease.

As was the case with the three Italian nuns who died in the Ebola epidemic in a remote part of Zaire, a prayer was the only protection he had.

"It is difficult to understand such conditions in the West, how you have to operate without gloves, without any facilities," said Samba, a Gambian who recently took over as the World Health Organization's chief for Africa.

WHO said Thursday that 49 people, mainly health workers, had contracted the deadly Ebola virus, 27 had died and the number of cases would increase.

Ebola, which kills swiftly and painfully through massive hemorrhaging and fever, has grabbed the headlines. But it is just the latest layer of misery in a continent where thousands of small children perish every day because of easily preventable illnesses like measles and diarrhea.

Millions more are killed each year by horrific tropical maladies and by malaria, cholera, pneumonia and tuberculosis — not to mention AIDS.

The common thread between all the ailments, including Ebola, is poverty.

More than half the African population of 500 million live without safe water; more than two-thirds are without proper sanitation. Health-care spending amounts to as little as $3.50 per person per year.

"The situation in least developed countries throughout Africa is catastrophic on a day-to-day basis and we need to use this unfortunate example (Ebola) to try to ensure that basic supplies are provided," said Ralph Henderson, an assistant director of WHO.

> The population explosion and increasing competition for living space and limited resources is exacerbating the crisis.

However, African health experts attending WHO's annual two-week meeting in Geneva are pessimistic. Budget squeezes in wealthy countries, including the United States, mean less money is being injected into vital medical programs. Moreover, say many Africans, the West just doesn't care.

"Africans are regarded by researchers as experimental animals," said Zimbabwe's Health Minister, Timothy Stamps.

"The people who die of the Ebola virus are nameless villagers in Zaire. But one American who researches the disease becomes a star," Stamps told The Associated Press.

The population explosion and increasing competition for living space and limited resources is exacerbating the crisis.

Tuberculosis, which spreads easily in overcrowded, unhygienic conditions, is on the increase. For instance, there were 15,000 cases in Zimbabwe last year, up from 2,400 a decade ago.

An estimated 11 million adults in sub-Saharan Africa have been infected with the HIV virus since records began to be compiled in the early 1980's. Three million of them have since died of AIDS.

Those who fall sick with the disease are bringing overburdened health systems — indeed entire economic and social systems — to the brink of collapse. In some villages in Uganda, for instance, an estimated 60 percent of residents are infected with AIDS.

The extra money being spent on AIDS treatment and care has diverted valuable funds away from programs to prevent other, common diseases.

Polio had been eradicated in Zimbabwe, but there have been five cases this year because there isn't enough money for immunization campaigns, Stamps said.

While city hospitals in relatively wealthy South Africa boast the latest technical equipment, patients are three to a bed in underdeveloped parts of the Transkei homeland, according to South African nursing professor Rachael Gumbi.

"The further you are away from urban areas, the further you are away from the budget, said Gumbi.

Of the 46 capitals in Africa, 19 have recently suffered from civil unrest. Wars have displaced an estimated 16 million people from their homes, according to WHO figures.

Samba, WHO's director for Africa, said it is not uncommon for one hospital in a poor rural area to have just one disposable syringe. Nurses washing the bodies of patients and corpses of people who have died of infectious diseases often have no gloves.

"You know that the dangers are there. You pray that you are protected and you go in," he said.

CDC confirms Ebola; prepares to render aid

NEW YORK (AP) — An epidemic that has killed more than 100 people in a remote city in central Africa has been linked to the deadly virus Ebola, a CDC researcher said Wednesday.

That conclusion came after CDC biologists tested blood and tissue samples from Kikwit, a provincial capital in Zaire where the epidemic is centered.

"We do have preliminary evidence in the laboratory that it is the Ebola virus," said Dr. Ruth Berkelman, deputy director for infectious diseases at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta. She spoke on the ABC news show, "Nightline."

Berkelman said the World Health Organization and the Zairian government had been notified of the CDC finding.

At the request of Zaire, the CDC prepared Wednesday to quickly send a team of medical investigators to Kikwit. In addition, army infectious disease specialists at Fort Detrick, Md., readied aeromedical evacuation teams and high-security isolation wards in case they were needed, said a spokeswoman, Cheryl Parrott.

The symptoms of Ebola virus infection include high fever, a "leakiness" in blood vessels and a high death rate. Victims often bleed heavily from the mouth or nose.

Infectious disease experts said the root causes of the epidemic were environmental and ecological degradation, combined with human activity.

"Something happened that made this epidemic," said Dr. Robert Ryder, an infectious disease specialist at Yale University who has lived in Zaire.

"You're probably dealing with people living right at the edge. The health care facility will be overwhelmed. It takes a constellation of events that has to collide, and you've got an epidemic on your hands," he said.

Stephen Morse, an infectious diseases expert at Rockefeller University in New York, said humans unwittingly encourage the spread of previously unknown viruses.

Officials take steps to prevent spread of Ebola

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Trying to stop the spread of Ebola, officials have closed schools and clinics in the city stricken by the virus, canceled airline flights and ordered people to stay off the streets.

Farmwork has almost stopped in the agriculturally important area, where Ebola has killed dozens of people in recent weeks. A third member of an Italian order of nuns who worked with victims died Thursday, and two others are ill.

It was the first major Ebola outbreak in 16 years. There is no known vaccine or cure for the disease, which kills as many as 80 percent of those who contract it.

"But we have found out about it very early ... and we have taken all the necessary measures to decrease transmission," Veerle Eygenraam, a spokeswoman for the charity Doctors Without Borders, said Thursday.

The outbreak has centered around Kikwit, a city of 600,000 people about 370 miles east of the capital, Kinshasa. Conflicting reports have made the number of deaths difficult to determine.

Health officials also were investigating a possible second outbreak of the virus in a hospital in the village of Musango, 60 miles from Kikwit.

Help feed those in need by participating in drive

Saturday, postal carriers around the Permian Basin will be collecting bags of food to benefit the Permian Basin Food Bank in Odessa.

Mayor Tim Blackshear has declared Saturday "National Association of Letter Carriers Food Drive Day."

Residents are requested to set out non-perishable food items, mainly canned goods, out by their mailboxes. For those of us who have to deal with those community mailboxes, we are asked to put our donations there.

Last year, 177,000 letter carriers nationwide collected 32 million pounds of food which was distributed to 4,000 cities and towns across the nation.

The goal this year is to collect 100,000 pounds of food. Last year, 62,000 pounds was collected which surpassed the 1994 goal of 46,000 pounds.

While this may be the Permian Basin Food bank, this group distributed nearly 107,000 pounds of food to Big Spring organizations last year.

Every pound of food is helpful. It reaches out to someone in need, for whatever reason, and, for a moment, provides a relief from worries.

Take a moment and fill a bag with what food you are able to give. It reaches more than you would ever think.

Opinions expressed on this page are those of the Editorial Board of the Big Spring Herald unless otherwise indicated.

Bomb-blame column needs fair herring

Mike Royko
Columnist

"You mongrel Slavic swine," the cramped scribbling on the postcard began. "When are you going to apologize for wrongly blaming the Muslim world for the Oklahoma bombing? If the world ever goes to war, it will be because of pigs like you. I hope that you ..."

I couldn't make out what he hoped but I assume it wasn't pleasant. And his name appeared to be something like GlshF8rgh, but I can't be sure. That's usually the way it is with the names of those who use "mongrel Slavic swine" as a salutation.

But he had a valid point. Not the swine part, but about my being wrong when I wrote a column raising the possibility that Middle East terrorists were behind the bombing.

It was written soon after the government said a Middle Eastern man had been grabbed at a London airport with what appeared to be bomb materials in his luggage.

And reports were broadcast that others of Middle Eastern appearance had been seen in the vicinity of the blast.

But just about the time that column landed on newsstands and porches -- too late to hit my delete key -- federal investigators indicated that the bombers were probably homegrown.

Which made me look and feel kind of stupid. And just in case I didn't realize that I was wrong and looked stupid, many critics phoned or leaped to their faxes or computers to triumphantly assure me that I was stupid.

While I appreciated their insights, I wished some had phoned a day earlier to say that they were certain that an investigation would show that the bombers were all-American nut cases.

I have since checked my voice mail, my assistant and the paper's message desk. Nope, not one person called to say something like: "Just watch, by tomorrow it is certain that a right-wing ex-GI from the heartland of America will be the prime suspect."

Maybe they didn't want to share their uncanny knowledge.

But that is no excuse for my having written something that quickly proved to be so wrong.

Looking back, I don't know what could have possessed me to think that the bombing might have been the work of Middle Eastern terrorists.

If I were going to single out any foreigners as likely suspects, it should have been those who have engaged in terrorist activities for so many decades.

I'm referring, of course, to the Norwegians.

How could I have forgotten the way the notorious Sven Svenson and his Fjordsome Foursome gang seized American diplomats and held them prisoner in a hot sauna until their demands were met that the Oslo McDonald's serve a quarter-pound herring sandwich.

Or the way the notorious Ollie Olson and his notorious son, Ollie Olsonson, hijacked those American passenger planes because the stewardess insulted Norway by serving Swedish meatballs but not pickled herring.

Or the death sentence placed on the Norwegian author Salmon Roovson because he wrote a fanciful book in which Norwegian Lutheran ministers drank hot glog and pinched their wives' bottoms.

Or the indictment of all those Norwegian terrorists, including the notorious Thor Thorson and his son, Thor Thorsonson, for blowing up the office building in New York because it housed a Swedish massage parlor.

Who will forget the way Noogins, as some call them, seized the cruise ship and tossed an elderly passenger into the sea for telling them to shut up when they went to a ship's party and sang 120 verses of "My name is Yahn Yahnson. I come from Visconsin. I vork in the lumber mills there. When I walk down the street, all the people I meet say, 'What is your name?' And I say, 'My name is Yahn Yahnson. I come from Visconsin. I vork in the lumber mills there. When I walk ...'"

And when the elderly passenger landed, how they laughed and shouted: "Now you sleep with the sardines."

We all remember the Norwegian fanatics who crashed a fully loaded herring delivery truck into the Marine barracks, causing widespread nausea and appetite loss.

That is why so many Americans -- in government, the press and the corner bars -- immediately jumped to the premature conclusion that Norwegians were behind the Oklahoma attack.

As one commentator said: "If it walks like a duck, looks like a duck and quacks like a duck, then it must be a herring."

So I apologize for having been the only person in America with the far-fetched notion that Middle Eastern terrorists could have been involved.

Next time, I'll know better. If it isn't the Norwegians, it is surely the Swiss. They want us to return all their army knives so the troops can cut their toenails.

Big Spring turning into a big park

My son, Ronnie, who was raised in Big Spring and has lived in Colorado, visited here last week and was amazed at how neat the city looks. He said, "Big Spring looks better than he had ever seen it." We explained to him the prisoner program that is doing a tremendous job making Big Spring look like a series of parks.

Doctor good to have in town

Editor:

I would like to share some information with the people of the Big Spring area about a new doctor, who recently has established a practice in Big Spring.

First off, let me tell a short story. Fifteen years ago, as a teenager in El Paso, I developed a few medical problems as we humans sometimes do, and I desperately needed to find a good family doctor. A friend of my husbands suggested we try their doctor whom they were very fond of, so I did. For 15 years this doctor has treated me for practically everything that ailed me with outstanding success, and I believe has saved my body, my health, from the potentially disaterous future it would have faced without his knowledge and expertise. A year ago I had to leave El Paso, and moved to Odessa. I still commute to El Paso to visit my doctor. Then one day my doctor told me that he might be moving from El Paso also, and retiring from the medical field. Needless to say I was heart broken, but new news is that he has opened a practice in your community. We are elated as he is only 60 miles away for our medical needs. I will continue to commute to visit my doctor no matter how far. Yes, I regard him as that good a doctor, a caring man, and a dear friend. Big Spring is fortunate to have Clark R. McDaniel in town.

A friend and patient,
Patty Murphy

Christmas in April: Thank you very much

Editor:

I would like to thank Christmas in April for seeing the need to fix my home for my family including my two sons, one is 18 months old and the other is five years old.

I want to thank all the volunteers from Conoco Oil Company for repairing my home including my roof and windows.

They also painted my kitchen, checked all my wiring, fixed the back and front porch lights, rewired my water well, fixed a new well house, fixed the septic tank and put in a new breaker box.

Thanks again.

Baker for his service as president of the board. It is never an easy task and I have seen significant improvements the last few years in our district," Wise commented.

The board also accepted the resignation of head band director Steve Hankins and Donald Garlitz. Hankins has been the high school's band director and oversaw the junior high bands as well for the last three years.

Assistant Superintendent Murray Murphy says Hankins will be moving to Universal City, Texas after accepting a job as head band director for the town's junior high band.

Garlitz has taught science at Runnels Junior High for five years and will resign at the end of the year due to a career move.

Meanwhile, Murphy advised the board members sometime after May 19 there will be a public display of the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills tests for parents and others to see. The actual date will be announced sometime next week.

Bomb

letter to McVeigh in which he said he planned to go to the Philippines. His second wife is Filipino. McVeigh was to receive the letter only in the event of Nichols' death. In that case, he should "clear everything out of CG 37" and "liquidate 40."

The affidavit says "CG 37" refers to the Council Grove storage unit No. 37 and that "Liquidate 40" refers to the storage unit No. 40, both rented by Nichols.

Nichols also wrote that McVeigh would be on his own and should "Go for it!!"

Then, on April 15 and 16, Nichols purchased more than two dozen gallons of diesel fuel from service stations in Manhattan and Junction City, Kan., the affidavit says.

The federal building was bombed the morning of April 19.

Nichols appeared Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Ronald Howland in a makeshift courtroom at the federal prison in El Reno, where McVeigh has been held since being charged two days after the attack.

Wearing a dingy white T-shirt and rumpled olive pants, Nichols only spoke to answer the magistrate's questions, saying "Yes, your honor" and "Yes, sir."

As the 10-page affidavit compiled by FBI Agent Henry Gibbons was unsealed and the charges against Nichols were read, he sat slumped at the defense table, shackled hand and foot. He stared straight ahead when interim U.S. Attorney Patrick Ryan said Nichols faces the death penalty if convicted.

A preliminary hearing was set for May 18.

According to the affidavit, Nichols waived his right to remain silent after turning himself in. In the days after the bombing, he told the FBI that he knows how to make a bomb by blending ammonium nitrate with diesel fuel.

He said he had ammonium nitrate at his home until April 21, then used it as fertilizer after reading in the newspaper that the substance had been used in the Oklahoma City bombing.

Nichols also gave agents permission to search his house, but repeatedly said he hoped they "would not mistake household items" for bomb-making materials, the affidavit said. He told agents he had several containers of ground ammonium nitrate that he sells as plant food at gun shows.

He said he had picked McVeigh up in Oklahoma City on April 16 and dropped him off in Junction City, the affidavit says. He said he met McVeigh in Junction City on April 18 and loaned him his dark blue pickup truck for about five hours.

The Ryder truck that carried the bomb was rented in Junction City on April 17. The affidavit says a Ryder truck was seen behind Nichols' house that day.

A senior federal official in Washington, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that Nichols admitted to the FBI that he helped bring the Ryder truck to Oklahoma City.

The search of Nichols' house also turned up detonator cord, blasting caps and several containers of ground ammonium nitrate, which the affidavit said can be used to help boost a fertilizer-fuel bomb.

James T. Thurman, chief of the FBI explosives laboratory in Washington, concluded in the affidavit that the bomb "would necessarily have involved the efforts of more than one person."

The Washington official also said a man thought to have been associated with McVeigh in Kingman, Ariz., is being sought on a federal fugitive warrant involving a gun charge in California.

The man is believed to drive a brown pickup truck. According to a witness, a brown pickup appeared to be traveling in tandem with McVeigh when he was pulled over in Perry, Okla., 90 minutes after the bombing. The pickup pulled over briefly before moving on, the official said.

The man has been identified by various news organizations as Stephen Coburn or Steve Colbern.

Legislators work out sex education compromise

AUSTIN (AP) — School districts teaching sex education would have to give preference to abstinence and couldn't distribute condoms under an agreement by House and Senate education negotiators.

"Some things it's awfully hard to vote against," Rep. Paul Sadler said Thursday in explaining the overwhelming House vote — 110-30 — that put the provision into that chamber's version of education reform. The Senate had no sex education provision in its bill.

The legislative conference committee working to resolve differences between the bills accepted the House provision, although lawmakers including Sadler have said elements of sex education instruction should be determined locally.

"It essentially was touted to be local control in that you either decide to offer it (sex education), or you don't. If you decide to offer human sexuality instruction, then it must conform to this language — 'Local control as long as you teach what I want you to teach'," said Sadler, D-Henderson, co-chairman of the conference committee.

But he and others said there was some merit to the provision, saying its final version was drawn up with an eye to concerns about students being informed about protecting themselves from the AIDS virus.

There has been a call by the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention for sex education programs that underscore abstinence as the most effective, lawmakers were told.

Sadler said that while the sex education provision requires the teaching of abstinence, it doesn't bar teaching about other forms of protection.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Father sentenced for spraying child's face

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A 17-year-old father has been sentenced to six years in prison for pouring spray paint on his baby daughter's face.

Cecilio Reyes was sentenced Thursday by District Judge Jack Hunter after he pleaded no contest to a charge of injury to a child.

Reyes was accused of pouring silver spray on his 2-month-old daughter's face after a quarrel with the child's 15-year-old mother, Leticia Garcia.

Agent Orange makers sued

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Aircraft mechanic Cruz G. Cordova says he's lost three-fourths of his stomach to cancer.

Fellow Corpus Christi Army Depot worker Luis Herrera says his father, who worked there before him, died recently after struggling with stomach and colon cancer, hypertension, heart disease and diabetes.

Cordova and Herrera are among dozens of civilian workers who sued the makers of Agent Orange on Thursday, contending the chemical defoliant contaminated them as they worked on Vietnam-era helicopters at the depot.

Protestor vows to continue

DALLAS (AP) — A persistent anti-abortion activist says he will not be stopped, even after the U.S. Justice Department filed a civil lawsuit to stop him from threatening workers and patients at a women's health clinic.

Oldrich Tomanek said Thursday he will continue to return to the Routh Street Women's Clinic north of downtown Dallas to continue his work.

Under bill, minors couldn't buy tobacco

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislation to make it illegal for minors to buy or use tobacco products has been tentatively approved by the Texas House.

"This will do something good for the children all across the state of Texas," said Rep. Curtis Seidlits, D-Sherman.

The measure won preliminary approval Thursday on an 87-49 vote. It faces another House vote before heading to the Senate. Senators Thursday approved a separate bill to impose statewide smoking restrictions, and that measure included a provision on minors similar to Seidlits' bill.

Seidlits said his bill aimed to "catch these young people and make sure they understand the dangers of smoking."

Opponents said it would take away the right of local communities to enact their own ordinances on teen smoking. "The bottom line of this bill is to take away local control," said Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi.

Berlanga also argued that Seidlits' bill was too tough on minors, asking: "Should we penalize the children, or are we going to penalize the merchant?"

Under the bill, youths under age 18 would be prohibited from possessing, purchasing or accepting tobacco products.

An offense would be punishable by a fine of $25 to $200 or 25 hours of community service. Subsequent offenses would be punishable by a fine of $100 to $500 or 50 hours of community service.

The measure also would prohibit sale and distribution of tobacco products to minors.

Teen racks up 88 tickets; faces jail

AMARILLO (AP) — An Amarillo teen-ager likely has bought himself a ticket for an extended visit to jail after piling up 88 traffic tickets — now totaling some $27,000 in fines — since January.

The 19-year-old was arrested Wednesday, but has not been arraigned. He remained in custody Thursday.

"He didn't have a driver's license or insurance," police warrant officer Flint Robbins said. "But he kept driving. It didn't take too long before word got out, and he kept getting tickets (for) no license or insurance, running stop signs, things like that."

Students exposed to rabies

CARTHAGE (AP) — At least 66 junior high school students have requested a series of rabies shots because they were exposed to an infected bat a peer brought to school for show and tell.

The number of students who will be inoculated could run much higher if concerned parents believe their children may have been exposed, Dr. Mike White, a veterinarian for the Texas Department of Health, said Thursday.

The episode began May 2 at Carthage Junior High School when a seventh-grade student who found a bat showed it to school classmates and it ended up in science classrooms, he said.

"It was sick and it died. The school nurse referred it to a local veterinarian, who sent it off to an approved laboratory in Houston, where it tested positive," he said.

White said up to 200 students may have handled the infected animal. About three dozen are believed to have come in direct contact with its mouth and saliva.

"We had quite a few that are true exposures, all the way from kissing the bat on its mouth," he said.

Dumping agreement splits Texas delegation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed agreement allowing Maine and Vermont to ship their low-level radioactive waste to West Texas has sparked disagreement within Texas legislative circles.

That rift, which has been longstanding, was on display again Thursday as a House commerce subcommittee examined the proposed Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Compact.

Congress, which has already approved nine other compacts covering 42 states, is weighing approval of an agreement setting terms between Texas, Vermont and Maine for disposal of waste generated mostly from the dismantling of nuclear power plants.

Vermont and Maine each would pay Texas $25 million in exchange for being freed from having to store their own radioactive waste.

A representative for Gov. George W. Bush urged swift congressional approval of the compact, as did Rep. Jack Fields, R-Humble, who is sponsoring the necessary legislation.

But two West Texas congressmen — Republican Henry Bonilla and Democrat Ron Coleman — urged rejection of the agreement. A third, Democratic Rep. John Bryant of Dallas, also spoke out against the compact, which the subcommittee is expected to vote on next week.

Advocates argue that without an understanding with Maine and Vermont, Texas would be vulnerable to receiving waste from many other states under a 1980 federal law pushing states to band together to find a common solution for their radioactive waste problems.

Opponents contend there are environmental, geological, diplomatic and racial reasons arguing against a dump in West Texas. They also contend the compact would put Texas at risk for huge financial liability in the event of disaster, and that the door is opened to receiving other states' waste.

Bush's representative, State of Texas Office of State-Federal Relations executive director Laurie Rich, disagreed. "Texas does not take on any additional liability as a result of being in this compact," she said.

"The compact is wise policy wherever the site may ultimately be located in Texas."

Judge refuses to reduce bail for man charged in KFC killings

HENDERSON (AP) — A state district judge has refused to lower the $2.5 million bond of the man accused in the 1983 shooting deaths of five people who were abducted from a Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant.

Jimmy Mankins Jr., 42, asked District Judge Donald Ross on Thursday to reduce the $500,000 bond in place on each of the five counts against him to $10,000 on each count. Ross refused and set trial for July 24.

During a hearing on Mankins' motion, retired Texas Ranger Stuart Dowell testified that a torn fingernail found on one victim's body was matched to Mankins.

Dowell testified he was present for the autopsy on the five victims, and when victim Joey Johnson's belt was unbuckled, a torn fingernail fell onto the gurney upon which he lay.

The nail was not torn from the finger of Johnson or any of the other victims, and it was kept in recognition that it may have come from an assailant, Dowell said.

The victims were killed on Sept. 23, 1983.

Texas' lottery ranked fifth largest in world

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Lottery players' enthusiasm for gambling has pushed the game into the upper echelon of worldwide lottery rankings.

The Texas Lottery's 1994 sales ranked fifth in the world and first in the United States, according to a new study.

Texas Lottery Commission officials heralded the study published by "International Gaming and Wagering" in its May issue.

"Only entire countries could do better than Texas," lottery director Nora Linares said Thursday.

The top five grossing lotteries worldwide were:

— Dai-Ichi Kangyo Bank Lottery, Japan, $6.6 billion.

— Organismo Nacional de Loterias y Apuestas, Spain, $6.2 billion.

— La Francaise des Jeux, France, $5.8 billion.

— Lottomatica, Italy, $3.4 billion.

— The Texas Lottery, $2.8 billion.

All miners believed dead after plunge

ORKNEY, South Africa (AP) — Rescuers on Thursday began removing bodies from the twisted wreckage of an elevator that plunged a third of a mile to the bottom of a deep shaft with at least 100 gold miners on board.

Officials said it was unlikely anyone survived the accident Wednesday night in Orkney, 112 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

A locomotive moving through the wrong tunnel crashed through barriers and fell onto the elevator, which was filled with workers leaving wor, said Dick Fisher, regional general manager of the Vaal Reefs mining company.

The cable snapped and the metal cage plunged 1,650 feet to the bottom of the 1.4-mile-deep mine. At least 100 people were in the two-floor elevator.

Energy and Mineral Affairs Minister Pik Botha said human error apparently was to blame. "The locomotive could not have moved as it did had it been properly con- ," Botha said.

Iraq caught again trying to smuggle oil

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraq is again trying to smuggle out oil by ship after a three-month lull apparently spurred by hopes for an easing of U.N. sanctions, U.S. Navy said Thursday.

The Navy, which leads the international maritime blockade enforcing the 4-year-old sanctions, reported the first diversion since February of a ship suspected of sailing from Iraq with contraband oil.

Cmdr. T. McCreary, spokesman for U.S. Naval Forces Central Command in Bahrain, said the Honduran-flag Mai was stopped and boarded this week in the Persian Gulf as it sailed from Iraq.

The interception by the guided-missile cruiser USS Lake Champlain was conducted after "substantial evidence" that the Mai carried over 20,000 barrels of Iraqi oil, he said.

Contacts were under way with regional ports for a berthing place until the U.N. Sanctions Committee investigates the case, McCreary said.

Iraq's oil industry was severely damaged in the 1991 Gulf War and it was only last year that it resumed production. Since then, Iraq has attempted to smuggle oil out in small vessels and tugboats.

U.S.-led intercept force has seized 13 ships since October.

Baghdad had hoped the U.N. Security Council would relax sanctions in April because arms inspectors have been allowed to set up a weapons surveillance system in Iraq.

The Council says Iraq has not yet satisfactorily complied with the U.N. requirements.

Serbian attacks aim to push peacekeepers out

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A French peacekeeper was shot in the head by a sniper on Thursday in an attack that seemed aimed at pushing the United Nations toward a withdrawal from Bosnia.

The French soldier was posted in a 17th-story sniper lookout in a building near Sarajevo's "Sniper Alley." The shot appeared to come from a Serb position, U.N. spokesman Maj. Guy Vinet said.

The 23-year-old soldier's condition was not good, U.N. spokesmen said.

The French, who have lost 36 peacekeepers in Bosnia, repeatedly have warned they would pull out. With 4,556 troops, France has the largest contingent and its departure would probably lead others in the 24,000-member U.N. force to follow suit.

In Paris, Foreign Minister Alain Juppe seemed to back off earlier statements about withdrawing.

He and U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali on Thursday discussed the alternative of strengthening the peacekeepers' mandate to let them use more force when attacked, Juppe said.

Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic said his government would not stand in the way of any contingent that wants to depart. Other nations are willing to replace them, Izetbegovic said in a letter to the U.N.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Rare bird eggs were unfertilized

TOKYO (AP) — The eggs laid last month by a crested ibis on loan from China were found Thursday to be unfertilized, leaving the showy species on the brink of extinction in Japan, where it once lived in vast colonies.

The crested ibis is noted for its red face, pink-tinged wings and gracefully curved beak. It was common throughout East Asia, but declined due to over-hunting and human encroachment.

The borrowed bird had mated with Japan's last male crested ibis, Midori, which died of either illness or old age late last month, about two weeks after the eggs were laid.

Murder-suicide over missing' cat

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A man shot to death two of his neighbors then killed himself a few hours before the reason for his rage — his missing cat — showed up safe and sound.

The shootings occurred Wednesday in Oropedio, a village in northern Greece near the town of Grevena. According to reports Thursday, Yiannis Karayannopoulos was convinced his neighbors had stolen the cat.

Villagers reported to police the cat returned home later.

Stealth bomber crashes in New Mexico desert, killing one

ZUNI, N.M. (AP) — Air Force investigators on Thursday probed the wreckage of an F-117A stealth fighter from Holloman Air Force Base, seeking clues to the cause of a fiery nighttime crash that killed the pilot.

Holloman spokesman Bob Pepper said the aircraft was on a routine training mission when the crash occurred about 10:25 p.m. Wednesday in the arid foothills of the Zuni Mountains in northwest New Mexico.

Capt. Kenneth W. Levens of Stamford, Texas, died in the crash, said Staff Sgt. Tom Mullican of Holloman's public affairs office. Stamford is 35 miles north of Abilene.

Pepper said Levens' body was recovered from the wreckage Thursday morning.

Mullican withheld the pilot's age because Holloman policy prohibits releasing such information.

The $46 million, single-pilot aircraft was assigned to the 49th Fighter Wing at Holloman Air Force Base near Alamogordo in southern New Mexico. Levens was with the wing's 9th Fighter Squadron, Mullican said.

The Independent newspaper in Gallup quoted an unidentified witness as saying he saw a fireball, "like the sun coming up," at the time of the crash.

Later, a civilian helicopter pilot who ferried in a television crew said he saw a crater where the plane had crashed, obliterating a dirt road.

"It was just a smoking hole. ... It looked like it hit going straight in," said the chopper pilot, Joe Rich Jr. He wasn't allowed to fly closer than 3,000 feet.

The crash site, on Indian land about seven miles south of Zuni Pueblo and about 15 miles from the Arizona line, reportedly was scorched over a wide area. Terrain included rolling hills, low brush and scattered juniper and pine trees.

NEWS IN BRIEF

DNA links O.J. to scene

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prosecutors have given jurors 170 million reasons to convict O.J. Simpson.

Scientist Robin Cotton said Thursday that only one in 170 million black and white people have the genetic blueprint of Simpson's blood and a small drop of blood found near the bodies of Simpson's ex-wife and her friend.

Calculated another way, the prosecution's DNA tests showed there are only a few people on Earth with the same genetic makeup of blood found at the murder scene — and one of them is Simpson.

Under cross-examination, Cotton acknowledged that her astronomical figures ignore possible tampering or contamination and do not say when or how the blood was deposited.

Balanced budget bills head to debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite intense Democratic criticism over the impact on Medicare, legislation to balance the budget by 2002 is headed for a historic debate on the floors of the House and Senate within a week.

The Senate Budget Committee followed the lead of its House counterpart Thursday, voting to shrink government by abolishing numerous programs and curbing the government's vast array of social programs. The vote was 12-10, strictly along party lines.

"There's every reason to believe we'll pass a balanced budget on the floor of the Senate in the next 10 to 12 days," Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici predicted.

Nuclear treaty given lifetime cap

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — They've taken the cap off the treaty that has kept a lid on the nuclear world for the past quarter-century.

The Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, once guaranteed only a 25-year life, was endowed with legal immortality Thursday when a U.N. conference decided to extend it indefinitely.

At the climax of their month-long debate, conference delegates could not predict how the bruised but resilient "NPT" would fare in a future world of Iraqs and North Koreas, of plutonium smuggling and fast-spreading technology.

Waters recede from Slidell

Bradford Dearing, left, Todd Pollack and Chris Pollack, right, glide down the flooded main entrance to the Slidell, La., subdivision Thursday. Though floodwaters have receded, several areas of Slidell remain inaccessible by vehicle.

SLIDELL, La. (AP) — Damage from back-to-back deluges that pummeled the New Orleans area this week will top $2.5 billion, Gov. Edwin Edwards said today.

As floods receded from thousands of homes in this bedroom suburb, Edwards discussed the disaster with insurance officials in Baton Rouge.

Insurance companies expect about 100,000 claims, Edwards said from the state capital. He estimated the damage would range from $2.5 billion to $3 billion.

The tally was issued as Slidell residents began returning to their homes, where damage from 17 inches of rain that fell Wednesday ranged from waterlogged carpets to almost total destruction.

About 5,000 homes were flooded and people were evacuated after the downpour Wednesday, which followed an 8-inch rainfall hit Slidell Tuesday. There was a 50 percent chance of more rain through early Friday. No deaths or serious injuries were reported, but five people were killed Tuesday by flooding in New Orleans.

Phoenix shoots down Rockets

PHOENIX (AP) — Charles Barkley was right.

Barkley disagreed with A.C. Green, who said the Phoenix Suns' 22-point blowout of the Houston Rockets on Tuesday was misleading because high-scoring Clyde Drexler of the Rockets was ejected early in the game.

"We have just played two terrific games," Barkley said Thursday night after the Suns matched their playoff scoring average with a 118-94 rout of the Rockets, who had Drexler for the whole game. "Everybody's chipped in, and we've played good from beginning to end."

Barkley scored 30 points and Kevin Johnson 29. The Suns take a 2-0 lead to Houston, where Game 3 of the best-of-7 series will be Saturday.

Johnson had 10 of his 12 assists by halftime.

Hakeem Olajuwon scored 25 points for the Rockets, Robert Horry had 20 and Drexler scored 15.

The Suns were up 35-19 after one quarter and 61-40 at halftime.

After Olajuwon's free throw cut the Phoenix lead to 65-50 with 8:39 left, Johnson responded with two free throws and then took a rebound coast to coast for a 15-foot baseline jumper.

Stars on loss from elimination

DALLAS (AP) — Dino Ciccarelli wasn't sure he could play and the Dallas Stars are sorry he did.

Nursing an injured knee, Ciccarelli scored a record-tying hat trick on three of Detroit's four power-play goals Thursday night. The Red Wings beat the Stars 5-1 to take a 3-0 lead in their best-of-7 Western Conference Stanley Cup quarterfinal series.

"I've been watching Dino play in playoffs since I was a little kid," said Shawn Burr, who is on the same line with Ciccarelli. "He is a competitor. He is one of the those guys who always comes up big in the playoffs."

The performance tied an NHL playoff record for a power-play hat trick. The last time it was accomplished was by Ciccarelli himself in 1993 in a 7-3 Detroit victory over Toronto. It was the 10th time it had happened in the playoffs.

"I kept finding open spots in front of the net and my teammates found me," Ciccarelli said. "I just kept being in the right place at the right time."

Rodgers checks Angels again

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Kenny Rogers seems to have the California Angels' number. As in zero.

Last July 28 in Texas, the Rangers' left-hander kept goose eggs on the Angels' half of the scoreboard, pitching a perfect game against them.

He didn't pitch perfectly his first time against them since that memorable game, but he did throw eight shutout innings Thursday, allowing just four hits in the Rangers' 6-2 win over California.

And for some more zeroes, he has a 5-0 streak over the Angels, and has shut them out for 24 consecutive innings.

"I guess I own them for the last few games, but every game is different," said Rogers, who has a 6-1 career mark against California. "I know they'll be trying to even things out, but so far I'm happy with the way I've pitched against them."

J.T. Snow said the Angels were very aware of Rogers' hold on them.

Veterans power Steers in playoffs

By STEVE REAGAN
Sportswriter

It's amazing what one swing of the bat can do.

Before Trey Terrazas stepped to the plate in the bottom of the fifth inning in Big Spring's baseball playoff with El Paso Jefferson Wednesday in Alpine, the Steers were struggling. Three errors had led to three unearned Jefferson runs, and Big Spring's batters were having trouble figuring out the Foxes' starting pitcher, Randy Garcia.

But with one out and the bases loaded, Terrazas came through in true B-movie fashion, hitting a grand slam home run that erased a 3-1 deficit and gave Big Spring a 5-3 lead.

In one swing of the bat, everything changed.

After Terrazas' slam, Big Spring's errors ceased, and Big Spring's batters picked up where their first baseman left off. A team that had been mired in a month-long batting slump broke out in a big way, savaging Garcia and two other Jefferson pitchers for 12 hits in the Steers' 13-6 bi-district victory.

Big Spring (17-11-1) now plays either Borger, Pampa or Dumas (the three teams are tied for the District 1-4A lead) next week in the area round of the playoffs.

That the Steers are still playing this late in the season is somewhat remarkable. The team started the season with only three position players – and none of the starting pitchers – returning from last year's state-finalists.

The Steers still don't have much of a pitching staff – once you get by staff ace Zac Leslie, that is – but the team isn't quite as young as it was when the season began.

"Last year, it was like we were meant to go to the state tournament," said second baseman John Oliva, one of the team's returning starters. "This year, we were picked to finish last in district – and here we are, bi-district champs."

The reasons for the team's are many, but a key might be found in its ability to come from behind to win. More than 13 times – almost all the team's victories – have been accomplished that way.

A lot of the credit for that has to go to Oliva, Terrazas and Mike Sizenbach, the three returning starters.

"I was sure they'd come through for us," said junior Rogelio Cervantes, who was 4-for-4 Wednesday night. "We've just learned off them all year."

For his part, Terrazas declined to accept any credit for the team's success.

"We just knew we had to do it," Terrazas said. "If we can keep a hitting steak like this going, it's going to be hard for someone to beat us."

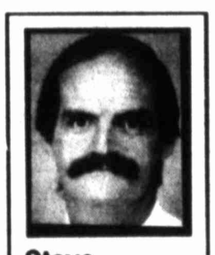
A long day's journey into an even longer nightmare



Steve Reagan
Sports Writer

You probably read Dave Hargrave waxing lyrically about extra-inning baseball games in his Thursday column.

Normally, when Dave starts waxing anything, we erect a barrier for everybody's mutual protection, but this time, the sucker just flat got out.

We're sorry.

Where were we?

Oh, extra-inning games.

Being a baseball fan, I normally agree with almost anything (or is that nothing?) that Dave writes about the sport – and normally, I agree that the lack of a clock is one of baseball's greatest attractions and assets.

Then, there was Tuesday ...

It was a busy day to begin with. In at about 6 a.m., scramble to get the paper done (and into your hot little hands, natch), then work on whatever there is for the next day.

That's the condensed version of my workday, and if everything goes fairly smoothly, and the newspaper gods smile upon you're favorite semi-balding sportswriter, I'm usually home long before dark.

Then there was Tuesday ...

It was just one of those days Mama Reagan warned me about, days that would rear up and bite me no matter what I did.

It did.

Not to bore you with all the details (Lord knows I hate hearing about other people's bad days), but by the time I drove to Coahoma for the Bulldogs' 5 p.m. game with Wall, I was ready for Tuesday to be gone from my life.

Tuesday, however, had other plans.

Tuesday wanted to hang around a little bit longer.

And what Tuesday wants, Tuesday gets.

By a combination of bad luck and bad planning, I hadn't had my lunch break by the time Brandon McGuire started pitching for Coahoma. I say this not to gain your pity – I wouldn't get that anyway, right? – but just for you to file away as a reference.

I was a little hungry, but the way McGuire was racking up strikeouts (he ended the game with 25), I figured I wouldn't be hanging around Coahoma very much longer.

I forgot about Tuesday.

And Wall.

The Hawks went ahead 3-0, in the third inning.

Oh well, I thought, this might not be Coahoma's day.

Then the Bulldogs came back to tie the game.

OK, maybe it IS their day after all, I thought.

And the game stayed tied.

Inning ...

After inning ...

After inning ...

So are the days of our lives.

Through seven innings (that's regulation in high school) the game stayed tied.

Normally, I have no gripes with extra-inning games, but it had been a long day, I was starting to get very hungry by this time, and I was ready for someone to win this darned game.

Eight innings.

Then nine.

Then 10.

Finally, after 3 1/2 hours, darkness finally settled the issue, and I said a silent prayer of thanks that the good folks in Coahoma don't have lights at the baseball field. The way the game was going, I might still be there if they did.

But Tuesday wasn't done with me yet.

School officials couldn't decide exactly how to deal with the tie. Would it count as a tie in the standings, or as an Stephanie Miller was second in breakaway roping with a time of 4.4 seconds. Miller will represent HC in that event at Bozeman.

Miller was second to Southeast Oklahoma State's Tacchana McCurley, who won at 3.5.

A&I coaching legend dies

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gil Steinke personified Texas A&I football for almost three generations.

Steinke, 76, who died Wednesday at an Austin hospital after a long illness, had coached the Javelinas to six NAIA national championships and helped integrate Texas football.

Funeral services were scheduled Saturday in Caldwell for Steinke, who retired as Texas A&I head coach in 1977 with a 39-game winning streak.

"He was the greatest coach that ever lived," said Richard Ritchie, the Javelinas' starting quarterback during the streak. "He was such a great motivator. He could get kids to play for him."

The Javelinas extended the winning streak three more games to 42 games in 1977, the second-longest in collegiate history.

Robinson tops All-NBA team

NEW YORK (AP) — In a possible preview of MVP voting, San Antonio center David Robinson topped Orlando's Shaquille O'Neal on the All-NBA team.

Robinson was joined on the first team by Utah's Karl Malone and John Stockton, Chicago's Scottie Pippen and Orlando's Anfernee Hardaway.

DEERFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The NBA fined the Chicago Bulls $25,000 for failing to report Michael Jordan's switch to No. 23 from No. 45 before Wednesday night's game with Orlando.

The NBA also fined Jordan $5,000 for wearing white shoes instead of the black shoes his teammates wore.

incomplete game? Would the teams have to re-play the game? Because the two teams were a game apart at the top of the district standings, it was an important issue to determine.

But, like the game, a simple conclusion to that problem was nowhere to be found.

Coaches and officials conferred, district by-laws were checked, and a certain sportswriter waited, slowly growing to hate this stupid game of baseball.

I was being mean.

I was being petulant.

And I ... didn't ... care.

Finally, around 9:30 – more than 15 hours after my workday began, everybody finally agreed that they didn't know what to do and decided to decide what to do the next day.

They went home.

As did I.

Tuesday finally granted me time off for good behavior.

Astros complete sweep of Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Phil Plantier added to Pittsburgh's first-inning miseries, hitting a three-run homer for Houston in a 12-4 victory Thursday that gave the Astros a three-game sweep of the Pirates.

Luis Gonzalez and Derek Bell each had three of Houston's 17 hits.

Just as Pirates' opponents have done all season, Houston did much of its damage in the first inning, scoring four runs for the second straight game.

The Astros, finishing off a 7-2 road trip, did most of their damage against Paul Wagner (0-4), who allowed eight runs on nine hits as his ERA jumped to 8.84. The right-hander, who lost his spot in the rotation late last season during a similar slump, is 0-7 with an 8.27 ERA and has lost all seven of his starts since June 26.

Astros starter Craig Swindell (1-1) survived Mark Parent's two-run homer in the sixth for the victory, allowing four runs, two earned, over six innings.

Unknowns leading at Nelson

IRVING (AP) — A pair of second-year touring pros, neither of whom has yet won, had 59s on their minds.

Neither could really get close to the PGA Tour's all-time scoring record, but Glen Day did manage his career-best score Thursday in the first round of the $1.3 million Byron Nelson Classic.

"I could very easily have shot 59," Day said after his bogey-free effort of 7-under-par 63 at Cottonwood Valley, one of two courses being used for the first two rounds this year in a tournament that has a history of weather troubles.

"I had enough that hit the hole and spun out to have shot 59," Day said after establishing a one-shot lead. He missed four putts of 8 feet or less and had a chip do a 360-degree run around the rim.

Chris DiMarco had en even better shot at the record set by Al Geiberger in 1977 and since matched by Chip Beck. DiMarco, also playing at Cottowood Valley, took only 29 strokes over the front and was 7 under par after 11 holes.

"Coming off the 11th, the thought of 59 crossed my mind," DiMarco said.

Both Day and Mark Calcavecchia, who shared second at 64 with Jay Don Blake, expressed surprise at their high standing.

Caught in the act

■ Going the extra mile earns nurse an award

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

DeeDe Phillips, R.N. (middle) is congratulated by Dr. Robert Hayes, left, and Ike Low, R.N. for receiving Methodist Malone and Hogan Clinic's first "Caught in the Act" award recipient. Phillips was nominated by Low for her going above and beyond the call of duty to help a patient at Texas Surgery.

Nurses are often the first and last person you see when you undergo surgery. They are there to provide comfort and information to the patient, and registered nurse DeeDe Phillips is no exception.

She was recently awarded the first "Caught in the Act" award from Methodist Malone and Hogan Clinic for the help she gave to a recent patient who underwent day surgery.

The employee relations committee at the clinic decided to start giving this award to any employee who goes above and beyond the call of duty for a patient.

Phillips' supervisor, registered nurse Ike Low, nominated her after he witnessed a kind act by the nurse.

A patient had left his prescription on the discharge table at Texas Surgery, and Phillips called a pharmacy in Stanton where the man lived to have it filled.

She then called the patient to let him know where he could pick up his medicine. The man told her he did not use that pharmacy but rather one in Big Spring. The nurse then had the prescription filled here and she drove to Stanton to hand-deliver the medicine.

"I'm really surprised and shocked. I have been here for five and a half years and worked at Scenic Mountain and the Big Spring Speciality Clinic before that," said Phillips.

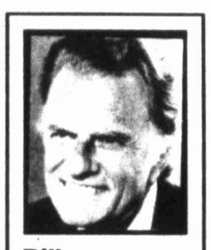
Committee member Emma Jenkins says any doctor or employee can nominate someone, and they even suggest patients can do so as well.

"We wanted to revive our employee of the month award because people had lost interest or would forget to nominate someone. Our employees do lots of things for our patients and we feel like they needed to be recognized," Jenkins said.

Guidelines include the employee must have worked at the clinic for at least one year, project a positive and caring image to others, represents the clinic in a positive manner, shows cooperativeness by pitching in to help others, contributes to positive morale and spirit of teamwork.

Each month's winner will be in the running for employee of the year to be announced in December. That winner will receive $250.

Aunt needs advice on giving Bibles as gifts



Billy Graham
Columnist

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I want to get a Bible as a gift for my niece, who is graduating from high school, but when I went to the bookstore I just got confused because there were so many different translations and different study Bibles. What translation do you use? And what is a study Bible anyway? -- MRS. N.G.H.

DEAR MRS. N.G.H.: I am thankful you want to give your niece a Bible; can any gift be more important or more lasting than the Word of God?

As the Psalmist declared, "The entrance of your words gives light" (Psalm 119:130).

I use different translations in my study, and I am thankful so many are available today to help us understand the meaning of God's Word.

I also return often to the older King James Version which I learned while growing up, and which is still unsurpassed in its dignity.

However, if your niece is not familiar with the Bible, I suggest you get a modern translation that will be easy for her to read and understand.

For this column I usually use the New International Version, which is now the most widely circulated modern English translation.

Your local Christian bookstore will probably be knowledgeable about the various translations and can give you advice; they also can explain the different study Bibles.

A study Bible includes footnotes and articles to help you understand the Bible's meaning or background. Some are for students or others who are not very familiar with the Bible; don't get one that is too complicated.

I hope you will not only give your niece a Bible, but that you will encourage her to let it become part of her life every day.

Far too many people, I am afraid, leave it on the shelf - but God gave it to us to use.

Is the Bible part of your life, and are you discovering more of Christ's love for you in its pages?

Band spreads ukelele gospel

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — The psalm says, "Make a joyful noise." It doesn't say you should do it with a ukulele.

This does not faze Southern Baptist ukulele bands in Arkansas, who bring spiritual and other music to nursing homes, retirement centers and hospitals. One band has appeared on a national cable television show, and has taken its act on the road to such places as Atlanta, San Antonio and St. Louis.

"We're booked a year in advance at all times," said Marise Paladino, a charter member of the state's first such ukulele band at Baring Cross Baptist Church in North Little Rock. Many of the visits are return engagements.

"I feel like they're getting a blessing or they wouldn't ask us back," she said.

About 150 senior adults strummed and sang at the recent 5th Annual Arkansas Baptist Ukulele Band Jamboree, held at Highland Heights Baptist Church.

Louis Criswell, minister of music at Baring Cross, started the ukulele band ministry eight years ago after a fellow music minister from Texas brought his band to perform at Criswell's church.

"The thing that amazes me is that senior adults don't get tired of it," Criswell said.

The band has grown to 42 members.

"We've had some to drop out, move and some who have died," Paladino said. "But we've had others joining all along."

The jamboree drew three members of a band from University Baptist Church in Houston.

Roy T. Cone, who says the "T" stands for trouble, joined the church band 11 months ago and has "gone ukulele crazy."

"The most important gig we played last year was at the Texas Prison System" at Rasharon, Texas, Cone said. "It took us longer to get in and out than it did to play."

The prisoners were touched by the band's performance. Some cried, he said.

Richard Rose, music minister at Highland Heights, used an overhead projector with lyrics and music and electric piano to lead the jamboree goers.

Selections included traditional hymns such as "Amazing Grace," Southern gospel numbers such as "I'll Fly Away," and some contemporary Scripture songs, including "What a Mighty God We Serve."

In addition to spiritual music, many of the groups also perform secular music of the 1920s and 1930s.

As Rose flashed the music on the screen, most strummed their ukuleles while others played everything from spoons to tambourines. One man sat to the side playing his electric guitar at a level so low that it would go unnoticed in today's rock bands. Some just sang.

Ukuleles have become the instruments of choice for senior adult ministries because they are small, lightweight, inexpensive and easy to learn to play. A ukulele can be purchased for as little as $30.

Between songs, Rose admitted to the group that he had never played a ukulele.

That resulted in some good-hearted jeers from the crowd and some on-stage pointers the following morning. Before the jamboree ended, Rose was plucking away with everybody else.

"I got to the place where I could play four or five chords and keep up with what they were doing," Rose said.

Jamborees allow band members to share their experiences and play for one another. The real joy comes when they touch someone they come in contact with at their performances.

Promise Keepers thrive in Michigan

By MICHAEL SCOTT
Thomson News Service

PONTIAC, Mich. — At first, it was hard to figure exactly what was going on at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Throngs of men came striding up to the gates of the big stadium, some with backpacks, some with water bottles, many in ball caps and all with an apparent urgency a half hour before events were set to begin at 7 p.m.

Church buses and vans crowded the parking lots for up to a half-mile away.

It was the first night of the Detroit-area Promise Keepers conference — a Christian men's meeting that is part pep-rally, part prayer-meeting and part seminar on how to more effectively live the life of a Christian man.

Promise Keepers purpose statement is simply put in its press packet: Promise Keepers is a Christ-centered ministry dedicated to uniting men through vital relationships to become godly influences in their world.

The conference to encourage men to strive for that goal was being held in the Silverdome — ordinarily the home of the NFL Detroit Lions.

Talk about your Christians in the Lions" den.

Once inside, the airy, white-topped dome, some 72,000 men belted out a deep-toned chorus of "Crown Him with Many Crowns" as the lyrics ran by on video screens.

Founded in 1990 by Bill McCartney — recently resigned as football coach at the University of Colorado — Promise Keepers has gone from a small prayer fellowship to a full-scale Christian men's movement:

•A core group of 72 men met in Boulder, Colo., in 1990 to pray, fast and encourage each other in their family, professional and faith lives.

•In 1991 and 1992, thousands of men met in somewhat larger arenas, including a conference of 4,200 men in Boulder.

•At six regional sites, nearly 235,000 met to worship sing, pray, and encourage each other to reclaim their integrity by making and keeping commitments to God, their families, their church, each other and community.

This summer has the makings of a full-scale revival: organizers predict more than half a million men will meet in stadiums around the country for Promise Keepers events.

"People watching will see our fruits," McCartney said.

The program was presented by Mickey Fiveash on "The Upbeat and Fruits." Fruit nutrition was discussed and fruit recipes were passed out.

Ruth Morton and Sybil Duffer reported on the District Meeting held in Big Spring in April.

Next meeting will be May 18 at the home of Mary Garner, 3801 Connally.

Retired Teachers

Members of the Big Spring-Howard County Retired Teachers Organization will be in the Cactus Room at Howard College May 15, for their regular monthly luncheon and business meeting.

Guest speaker is Terri Johansen, Johansen Nursery and Landscape. She is a Texas certified nursery person who enjoys people and working with plants.

In 1976 she and husband Carl moved back to Big Spring. They began to work with Carl's dad, Johnnie Johansen, at Johansen Nursery. Terri also attended UTPB, Odessa, where she worked toward a degree in psychology.

Terri loves plants, thanks to her grandmother and father-in-law, Johnnie. She has attended many seminars, has read and studied much on her own.

She continues to learn while she does what she likes best - working with plants.

Plane lovers get a close-up view of the world's only fully restored and operational WW II-era Liberator B-24, named "All American," at San Antonio International Airport. The plane, dubbed a flying museum, is on an 8-month, 100-city tour across the U.S.

Old bombers serve as flying museums

By DON DRIVER
San Antonio Express-News

SAN ANTONIO — Jets are for kids.

That was the message on a small sign stuck on the World War II-era B-24 Liberator bomber "All American" when it landed at San Antonio International Airport.

"It brings back a lot of memories I guarantee you," said onlooker Jim Frederick, a 72-year-old former B-24 pilot who chalked up 40 bombing missions. "You have a warm spot in your heart for a machine that takes you out there 40 times and brings you back."

Frederick and other onlookers craned their necks Monday when the bomber, the only fully restored and operational B-24 in the world, touched down for a two-day stopover as the 50th anniversary of V-E Day nears.

"I had some friends who didn't come back," recalled Frederick, who is volunteering to assist in the aircraft's visit. "But I was lucky. I only had a couple of holes from flak in my aircraft."

The All American was to be joined by a restored B-17 Flying Fortress bomber as part of a "Salute to Veterans '95 Tour."

"It's great it's a piece of history," said pilot John Rising, 31, after he climbed out of the Liberator's cockpit. "Since it's the only flying and restored B-24, every time we fly it we know we're the only ones in the country doing what we do."

The All American and the B-17 were recovered and restored by the non-profit Collings Foundation. The eight-month, 100-city tour is being sponsored by Schlitz beer.

More than 18,000 Liberators, in various versions, were flown during World War II. The aircraft was considered a work

Medical students spend spring break helping needy

By LOU CHAPMAN
Fort Worth Star-Telegram

REYNOSA, Mexico — While multitudes of college students were partying on South Padre Island, a group of Fort Worth students on spring break was quietly crossing the U.S. border 70 miles to the west, taking medical care and hope to some of the poorest people in this dusty, crowded town.

A group of 31 students from the University of North Texas Health Science Center in Fort Worth and a band of volunteer doctors, interpreters and nurses traveled in a convoy of vans across the International Bridge at Hidalgo in the morning and returned well after sunset each night for four days.

Most of the students are in their second year of medical school; their previous experience had been with textbooks and lab apparatus.

In Reynosa, working at four sites a day, the Americans treated about 1,200 people, performing a social service that would be impossible to provide for their own country's needy residents because of liability concerns, program supervisors said.

The medical students set up shop in one-room churches with no electricity or water, in abandoned buildings where missions had been established, or in a shantytown near railroad tracks.

"I was shocked at the conditions we had to work under," said Chris Pratt, a second-year

Big Spring Health Fair

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION MEDICAL CENTER

VA changes to meet veterans' needs

Former U.S. Marine James Waters was the first documented patient to visit the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring in July 1950. The $6 million facility was built with a 250-bed space capacity and a lot of changes have taken place in the last 45 years.

Big Spring's VAMC is another one of seven corporate sponsors for Saturday's 10th Annual Health Fair at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

In January 1994, the center's director Conrad Alexander announced his retirement and his replacement, Cary Brown, came to work in August.

Brown and his staff are working on plans to build six community primary care clinics to serve more veterans in its 49 county service area. The center's area covers 47 counties in West Texas and two in southeast New Mexico. There are at least 80,000 eligible veterans in the service area and the center currently reaches only 10 percent of them.

"My staff has visited the six sites and we have approval from the VA headquarters to build them. We are waiting on approval from Congress and we expect that quickly.

"The plans are to build clinics in Abilene, San Angelo, Fort Stockton, Monahans, Snyder and Hobbs. By doing so, we are making an umbrella of health care delivery in West Texas and southeast New Mexico. The veterans won't have to travel so far and it reduces our volume at the hospital. We're putting substantial money into each community to help their economies as well," said Brown.

Brown says construction could begin in April or May with all of them open by October 1995.

A $2.6 million construction project is planned to start at the end of the year to renovate a portion of the hospital and to add on 15,000 more square feet of space.

"The project is still in the design phase right now. We plan to renovate about 5,000-square-feet and add a state of the art ambulatory care unit as well.

"This will provide more space for several examination rooms, doctor's offices, waiting rooms and more privacy for the patients. This will bring us up-to-date in our ambulatory services which is the same as outpatient services" Brown explained.

In an effort to reduce the waiting time for patients, Brown says they have entered into contract agreements with local private physicians to come in and see veterans with orthopedic or neurological problems.

Plans are also in the works to provide some outpatient surgery in the next year or so. Currently, there is some presence of this type of surgery in the operating rooms but with the new construction they will expand it.

Stanton Care Center = specialized care

The Stanton Care Center prides itself on offering specialized services to its 60 residents.

Established in 1974, the facility is a Medicare certified Unit, a certified skilled nursing unit, and a certified wound care unit. Staff members can provide intravenous therapy and special wound care including special healing techniques they learn at training workshops.

Director of Social Services Beth Boone says the Care Center is a good place for its residents to live, and also a good place to work for the staff of about 50.

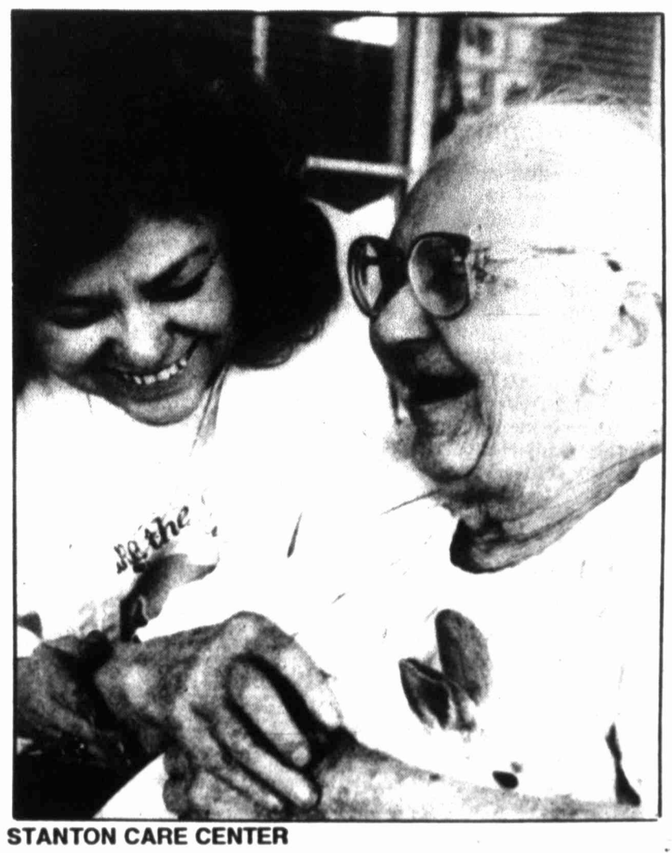
Providing a higher quality of life is what it's all about, Boone says, and that includes everything from having full-time physical, occupational, and speech therapists on staff to having pet rabbits who live in the garden.

Residents feed and water the rabbits and take them to visit patients restricted to bed or to their rooms. One resident works in the small garden patch, watering and weeding.

Stanton Care Center has an active residents' council. The breakfast menu of cold cereal, bagels, muffins, and fruit was a concern to long time Texans, and the dinner menu was too heavy. Breakfast now includes eggs, bacon, biscuits, toast, and cereal, and dinner is usually soup and sandwiches.

Council members also serve as a welcoming committee, greeting new residents and showing them around.

In addition to regular religious services, daily exercise and therapy, the Care Center offers individualized activities for patients who need that little "something extra."



STANTON CARE CENTER

At least one party a month helps keeps families involved and residents interested. This month a luau is planned, with dancers coming from Midland to perform the hula, and Hawaiian dishes on the menu. Residents also go on frequent outings -- recently a group went to the Abilene zoo.

Complaints are infrequent, but dealt with immediately, Boone comments. The staff is always interested in more training.

Their primary goal is to provide the best possible care, including increasing the nursing staff to have an R.N. on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Clinic joins with Lubbock Methodist

Additional services provided

Malone and Hogan Clinic became Malone and Hogan Methodist in September of 1994, allying itself with Lubbock Methodist Hospital System.

The clinic features a cardiac catheterization lab to improve early detection, diagnosis, and treatment of cardiovascular disease. The lab, an example of leading-edge medical technology, helps ensure that Malone and Hogan will continue to provide the community with high quality service.

Critical care transport in the Big Spring area has advanced with the addition of the Aerocare helicopter which was unveiled during the clinic's open house in September.

Malone and Hogan Clinic was founded in 1938 to provide quality health care for the people of Big Spring. Dr. Robert Hayes, president of Malone and Hogan clinic, says alliance with Lubbock Methodist is a positive step in the clinic's growth which will enable it to continue to provide the quality of health care the community depends on.

Malone and Hogan Clinic is a corporate sponsor of the Big Spring Health Fair.

METHODIST-MALONE AND HOGAN CLINIC

Specialty is the name of the game for clinic

Do you know what an otolaryngologist is?

No. Well, Dr. Gary Elam at the Big Spring Specialty Clinic would be happy to explain, especially if you have a problem with snoring.

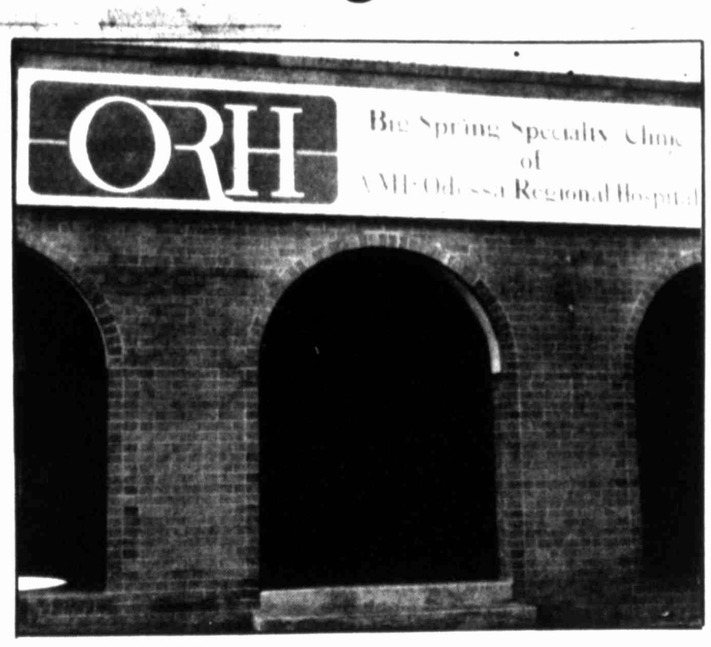
Snoring may irritate your spouse, but it can shorten your life, explains Melinda McCann, R.N. People who snore frequently have breathing problems, and don't rest well because their sleep is disturbed.

"People need to know they have options," McCann says. A laser surgery procedure can shrink tissues and reduce or eliminate snoring, making life better for everyone.

Letting people know their options is important to the staff at the clinic, a satellite of Odessa Regional Hospital.

Clinic services include obstetrics/gynecology, neurological surgery, audiology, and otolaryngology. Physicians on staff are Dr. Norman Harris, Dr. Ronald Manicom, Dr. Elam, and audiologist Randy Russell.

The clinic's booth at the Big Spring Health Fair will provide pamphlets on treatments for snoring, tapes on hormone replacement therapy, product samples, and other educational materials.



BIG SPRING SPECIALTY CLINIC

A corporate sponsor of the Health Fair, Big Spring Specialty Clinic is also hosting the hospitality suite for exhibitors.

The clinic is located at 616 Gregg Street and the telephone number is (915) 267-8226.

Big Spring Health Fair

Scenic Mountain Medical Center seeing variety of changes

Scenic Mountain Medical Center, a corporate sponsor of Saturday's 10th Annual Health Fair, has seen a variety of changes in the last eight months, including new ownership as well as a new administrator.

In February parent company Community Health Systems announced Kenneth W. Randall, a CHS hospital administrator in Enid, Okla., as SMMC's new executive director, replacing Harold Boyer who resigned from SMMC.

He spent 12 years in Big Spring (1973-1985) at what is now Malone and Hogan Methodist.

Randall joined CHS in 1992 as Administrator of Enid Regional Hospital.

CHS Vice President and Group Director Michael Portacci said, "Kenneth has done a commendable job in a very competitive Enid market. Enid's service has consistently improved and several physicians have been recruited during Kenneth's tenure."

Prior to joining the CHS system, Randall spent six years with Charter Medical Corp. His last tenure with Charter was Administrator for their Lubbock psychiatric facility and he also worked as an administrator in the area of acute care.

Portacci said, "Kenneth is very aware of the excellent reputation that the (Big Spring) medical community once had. He is also aware of the serious work that needs to be done to our service and to our plant to once again achieve that status."

He added Randall is a good fit for Big Spring because he knows West Texas, he knows Big Spring, he knows what the hospital is capable of, and he has the "turnaround" experience, energy, and organization to make it work.

Portacci said, "While Big Spring is a logical career progression and a promotion for Kenneth, I also appreciate the (SMMC) medical staff members and employees that met with Kenneth and helped us make sure we had the right fit for all parties concerned."

In October 1994 Hallmark Healthcare Corporation of Houston, parent company to Big Spring's Scenic Mountain Medical Center, and CHS, Inc., of Atlanta announced on Monday that both companies have agreed on a merger.

The merger will made CHS one of the nation's largest owners and operators of full-service, acute-care hospitals in nonurban communities.

CHS President and CEO, E. Thomas Chaney said, "Our decision to merge with Hallmark Healthcare Corporation is an important step forward in our growth strategy, which is based on the significant opportunities that exist for healthcare providers in non-urban communities.

"Beginning with a focus on primary care, CHS offers a wide range of medical and surgical services at modern hospitals, while carefully controlling costs. This strategy has produced a record of profitable growth and expect to continue this strategy with its new and expanded operations."

SMMC formally joined and became a member of CHS, Inc., transferring from Hallmark Healthcare Corporation on Oct. 5., and continues to offer all of the services currently available prior to new ownership including OB/GYN, psychiatric, surgery, emergency room, CAT scan, nuclear medicine, pharmacy, pathology lab, physical therapy/rehab, mammography, cardiology, intensive care, and orthopedics.

SCENIC MOUNTAIN MEDICAL CENTER

Family Medical Center joined community in December

In December 1994, Big Spring added another member to its growing list of medical facilities.

Family Medical Center, a branch of San Angelo's Shannon Medical Center, and the newest clinic established by Shannon Healthcare System, had its grand opening celebration Dec. 4, 1994.

FMC is also a sponsor of Saturday's 10th Annual Health Fair.

The 7,700-square-foot clinic at 2301 S. Gregg provides full-service, and urgent care to the residents of Howard County including family practice, pediatrics, laboratory, radiology, and more.

The $850,000 facility was funded by SHS, which has seven other clinics under its umbrella. Shannon's other clinics include San Angelo, Ballinger, Brady, Coleman, Menard, Sterling City, and Robert Lee.

Shannon's senior vice president Lawrence Leonard said, "These clinics fill a vital need in Texas. Establishing clinics and placing quality health care professionals in these communities allows people to stay home to receive health care. We are able to handle the day-to-day business of running these clinics, thus giving the healthcare providers more time to see patients.

"In addition, being in the Shannon system gives these physicians and patients access to a broader range of services in San Angelo, should the need arise."

STAFF OF FAMILY MEDICAL CENTER

FMC is staffed by physicians, physicians assistants, rotating physicians, nurses, and office personnel.

Medical staff at FMC includes John Farquhar, M.D., who is board certified with 10 years family practice experience in Big Spring; Eunice Anderson, M.D., board eligible in pediatrics; Craig Hoffman, PA-C, physician assistant and rotating specialist from San Angelo; Robert Meyer, M.D. and Lourell Sutliff, M.D., both board certified if OB/GYN; and Opal Smith, a certified nurse midwife.

According to Clinic Manager Jaynie Branham, FMC provides a comprehensive, continuum of care for the citizens of Howard County. In addition, specialists from San Angelo visit FMC weekly, providing another dimension for its patients.

Branham said, "If patients need the services of a hospital, appropriate referrals will be made to Scenic Mountain Medical Center as well as Shannon Medical Center in San Angelo.

FMC's patient hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday by appointment, but patient calls are accepted before 9 a.m.

Warren's offers an answer to health

If you're wondering how you can stay healthy, Warren Chiropractic Center will help you discover the answer at the 10th Annual Big Spring Area Health Fair Saturday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

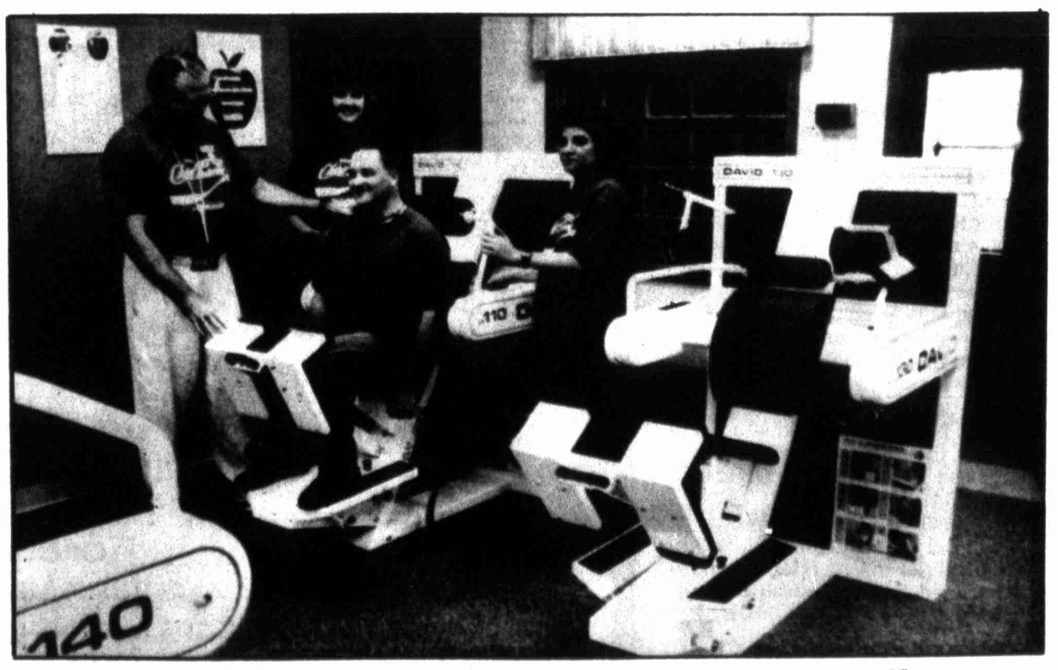
Warren Chiropractic is a corporate sponsor of this year's Health fair and will once again have an exciting array of health screening and information to offer the general public.

The clinic will be doing spinal screenings to check for spinal misalignment, scoliosis, abnormal spinal balance, and posture deficiencies. They will also perform computerized stress analysis and electromyography testing to check for abnormal stress and weakness.

Another feature provided by Warren Chiropractic this year will be Vitamin C and Zinc deficiency testing.

Samples of healthy snacks from warren chiropractic's Healthy Foods Co-op will also be available for health fair goers to taste and doctors and staff will be available to visit with people about chiropractic, nutritional, or fitness needs.

Dr. Jay Warren will be a featured speaker at 1 p.m. Saturday in the lecture room of the coliseum. He will speak about the three common stresses that tear down your health and the four keys that build it back up.



WARREN CHIROPRACTIC

According to the clinic, the information presented by Dr. Warren promises to be an eye-opener and may challenge what you believe about your health.

Warren Chiropractic is encouraging all visitors to the health fair to drop by their booth (numbers 48 and 49) and discover how to begin healing or stay healthy naturally.

Warren Chiropractic Center has been in Big Spring for more than 45 years.

Some of the therapy's utilized at Warren Chiropractic Clinic, a fixture in Big Spring since 1949, include ultrasound, low-voltage muscle stimulation, interferential electrical stimulation, galvanic, microcurrent and soft tissue treatments.

student from Richardson.

Their patients, as young as 13 months and older than 70 years, waited outside for hours. Many were diagnosed as they sat on church pews that had been removed from the buildings to make room for the one-day clinics.

They also treated people in their homes, men and women who could not travel to the makeshift dispensaries.

"It's been humbling," said Chimene Willis, a 23-year-old first-year medical student.

Willis and the other medical students are members of the Christian Medical and Dental Society, which sponsors an annual trip to aid the Rio Grande Valley Baptist Association's missionary work along the border.

Although a primary goal was to promote Christian beliefs, the sheer volume of medical work the students performed quickly displaced any such effort.

"That's a disappointment," said Matt Glick, a student organizer for the spring-break mission out of the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine at the UNT-Fort Worth campus. "But I also know I can't touch someone's spiritual needs without meeting their physical and medical needs."

Each day, the students and their volunteer physicians, nurses and interpreters crossed the border with a trove of pharmaceuticals and medical supplies donated by doctors, pharmacists and hospitals in Tarrant and Dallas counties.

Despite that bounty, they faced frustrating ironies as they worked in the colonias of Reynosa, a city of 360,000 people.

True, they gave immediate care to several hundred people.

But they struggled with what turned out to be a shortage of medications, with the knowledge that their patients would probably not get follow-up care, and with the realization that their efforts were often temporary at best.

"What we're doing doesn't matter if they can't do something else to improve their conditions," said Pamela George, 25.

Bomber

horse, although the B-17 got most of the publicity.

The Liberator could carry a load of 8,800 pounds of bombs up to 3,000 miles at a speed of more than 200 mph and an altitude of 28,000 feet.

John Carrigan, 74, a Houston lawyer and former B-24 pilot who flew 39 missions in the Pacific, came along for the ride.

"I got up there and flew it a little bit," he said. "It flies just like it used to but this time, nobody was shooting at me and there was no flak."

Darryl Johnson, one of the crew members traveling with the aircraft around the nation, said it's pure joy to fly in the bomber.

"We love it," he said. "People are surprised by the size of it."

The bomber has a wingspan of 110 feet, a length of more than 67 feet and a height of 18 feet. It's maximum weight is 65,000 pounds and it carried a crew of 10.

The aircraft on display was named "All American" after a B-24 that participated in a July 25, 1944, raid on tank works at Linz, Austria.

The 19-plane squadron was attacked by more than 100 German fighters. The crew of the "All American" shot down 14 enemy planes and was one of only two B- 24s to return to base.

The specific B-24 on display served for the United States until October 1944, when it was transferred to the British.

After the war, the aircraft was abandoned by the Royal Air Force in a bomber graveyard in Khanpur, India, until it was restored to active duty in 1948 by the Indian Air Force.

It enjoyed another 20 years in the air until it finally was retired in 1968. It was bought in 1981 by a British aircraft collector and resold three years later to the Collings Foundation.

It took more than 80,000 man-hours and $1 million to restore the aircraft to operational condition, officials said.

Treatment frees woman from sadness

DEAR ABBY: I'm responding to the letter from "Anonymous, U.S.A.," the depressed 14-year-old girl.

Abigail Van Buren
Columnist

I have been depressed most of my life. When I was her age, I suffered from feelings of overwhelming sadness, worthlessness and loneliness. Unfortunately, depression was not recognized as a disease when I was young, so I didn't get proper treatment.

I retreated into drugs -- mostly marijuana. It seemed to help me feel better. I realize now that it didn't really help, and it wasn't long before I lost interest in academic and career goals. The most important thing to me was getting high so I could feel "good."

I married a man who told me constantly that I was worthless (I already believed that anyway), and it was seven years before I summoned enough courage to get a divorce. Then my mother died, and I fell even deeper into depression.

Luckily, I realized that I couldn't be a good mother to my children without help, and I sought counseling.

Two years ago, my doctor and counselor diagnosed my problem as clinical depression and prescribed medication. It changed my life. My feelings of worthlessness have been replaced with confidence, I don't cry at the drop of a hat, and I'm finally growing up.

I urge anyone who suffers from persistent sadness or worthlessness to seek help immediately. Relief is available! -- BEEN THERE IN CONCORD

DEAR BEEN THERE: Thank you for sharing your story, which will, I'm sure, inspire many to seek help in coping with depression. For years I have preached to my readers about counseling. Treatment is available for emotional illness; no one should suffer needlessly. Therapy and medication have changed many lives for the better.

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column from "Angry Neighbor," about the kids who broke a garage window while playing baseball, reminded me of the time years ago when our small boys played baseball in our back yard. One of the children smashed the ball through a picture window belonging to the neighborhood grouch, who refused to return it until the window was paid for.

Even by pooling all their allowances, there was no way these kids could come up with that kind of money. So they decided to have a bake sale. The mothers baked, the fathers set up tables and stands, the boys sold, and the delighted neighbors bought.

Needless to say, they made more than enough money. They paid for the window, retrieved the baseball and went off to play ball in the field -- where they should have been playing in the first place. -- ONE OF THE MOTHERS

DEAR MOTHER: What a wonderful solution. Whoever conceived the idea for a neighborhood bake sale was batting 1,000.

DEAR READERS: Some valuable advice from Letitia Baldrige in her latest book, "A Complete Guide to the New Manners for the '90s":

"Don't put your gift in a box from a fancy store like Tiffany's, hoping the recipient will think it came from there. (The recipient may try to exchange it and discover the deception.)"

Prayer to St. Clare

(9) Hail Mary's for (9) days. Ask for (3) miracles. Publish on the 9th day, Miracles will happen.

NOVENA PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and shows me the way to teach my ideas, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. AMEN Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Say this prayer for three consecutive days asking for your request. After the third day your wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted.
