Challenge For Japs Seen In Road Opening

Serious Situation Is Indicated With Planned Embargo

(By The United Press)

TOKYO, Oct. 2.—Newspapers, reflecting increasing government alarm over the possibility of British and American pressure, indicated today that Japan would regard the reopening of the Burma road of supply to China by Britain as an open challenge and would act accordingly.

The newspaper Yomirui said that if Great Britain decided to reopen the Burma road, Japan would not ask it not to but would resort to its "own measures" to "remove all obstacles to the Japanese mission of constructing a greater East Asia."

Refusal Is Indicated

It was commented that British refusal to keep the road closed, and thus close to China one of its two remaining sources of foreign supply, was indicated by recent British-American activities, especially United States reaction to the new Japanese-German-Italian alliance.

Asahi said that "world" concern was now focused on the counter measures Britain and the United States might take to meet the situation arising from the pact.

Britain, it said, had started negotiations with the dominions to prohibit export of munitions materials to Japan. However, it added, only tin, rubber and iron ores from Malaya and copper from Canada were involved and Japan would not feel any pinch.

"Britain apparently knows that a serious situation would arise if such an embargo were extended to the Malay peninsula," Asahi commented, "and therefore it is unlikely that Britain would take such a step lightly and recklessly."

Asahi and Hochi both expressed hope that the new three-power alliance would effect decided improvement in relations between Germany and Italy and Russia, and especially between Japan and Russia. They said that Russia should abandon its policy of assistance to China, and thus remove an obstacle to really good relations with Japan.

The newspapers reported that Lieut. Gen. Yoshitsuge Tatekawa, new ambassador to Russia, would leave for Moscow Oct. 11.

FDR Promised Southwest Aid

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) reported to Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn today that he had "no hesitancy in promising 59 electoral votes for President Roosevelt from the southwestern section of the country."

As regional director of the southwestern division of the Democratic national committee, Rayburn reported on the prospects for Democratic victories in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisian, Arkansas and New Mexico and Arizona.

"In Texas, of course, there has never been any question in regard to the outcome," Rayburn wrote. "Mr. Willkie made a little talk to a little crowd on the edge of the Texas Panhandle a couple of weeks ago and I understand Amarillo was polite to him and that is about all the reception amounted to. . . .

"To put it bluntly, our people view with less alarm a third term for Roosevelt than a first term for the ex-president of the Commonwealth and Southern."

The speaker said Arizona was "as solid as Texas" and that Oklahoma "is in fine shape." New Mexico, he declared, "is perhaps even more comfortable to the Democrats."

German Aliens Have Jobs On Defense Work

(By The United Press)

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 2 — More than 600 of the 2,000 persons who frequented the German-American bund's Camp Nordland at Andover, N. J., were aliens employed in factories working on vital defense contracts, Rep. Joseph Starnes, D., Ala., chairman of a Dies sub-committee investigating un-American activities, disclosed today.

Starnes said the aliens were traced through automobile licenses by committee investigators, and that they "have not yet scratched the surface."

First Phase Ended

Starnes' disclosure came after the first phase of the committee's public hearing on subversive activities in New Jersey was concluded. Other phases will be held later.

Before the committee adjourned, Arthur S. Bell, state organizer of the Ku Klux Klan, testified that the purpose of a joint Klan-bund meeting at the camp on Aug. 18 was to "teach Americanism to hyphenated Americans."

"I thought it would be a good idea to go to a place where there were no Americans and put on an Americanization program," Bell said.

He testified he spoke at the meeting and urged the bund members to be good Americans and to uphold the constitution.

The Rev. Alton Monroe Young, grand klailiff of the state organization, testified he has no parish at present and lives "somewhere in

Actress In Nevada To Seek Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2 (U.P.)—Constance Bennett took up a Nevada residence today to qualify for a divorce her friends have been expecting for several years. When she has fulfilled her six weeks' residence requirement, she will sue the Marquis De La Falaise De La Courdray for her freedom.

The blonde star who commanded a $30,000-a-week salary in the middle of the depression, flew to Reno last night. She was accompanied by Helen Ferguson, a movie press agent, and her attorney, Dudley Furse.

She married the marquis in 1931, a year after she had divorced Phil Plant, wealthy New Yorker, and received a settlement of $1,000,000. Miss Bennett and the marquis separated after two years, but she insisted then that if anybody so much as whispered that she intended to divorce him, she would sue.

Uncle Sam Seeking To Recover Planes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—American efforts to recover more than 100 American-built war planes lying idle on the French Island of Martinique in the Caribbean were reported in diplomatic quarters today.

Usually well informed persons said they understood this was one of the principal topics discussed yesterday by President Roosevelt and the French Ambassador, Henri Haye.

The planes, purchased by the former Anglo-French purchasing mission, were taken to the island aboard the French aircraft carrier Bearn about the time of the French-German armistice.

British warships have prevented the removal since.

Ace Knocked Out Of Box In 2nd; Campbell Homers

(By The Associated Press)

CROSLEY FIELD, Cincinnati, Oct. 2. — Detroit's American league champions loosed their batting power behind the tight pitching of Buck Newsom today to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 7 to 2, in the first game of the 1940 World series before 31,793 fans.

The Tigers put the game on ice in the second with a five-hit, five-run blast which sent Paul Derringer, Redleg ace hurler, to the showers, and then added two more in the fifth when Bruce Campbell banged a homer into right field bleachers to score behind Rudy York, who had tripled.

Detroit Bunches Hits

While Detroit was bunching its 10 hits to the best advantage, Newsom kept eight Cincinnati bingles well scattered except in the fourth when Goodman doubled and came home on Ripple's single, and in the eighth when Werber doubled and scored on Goodman's one-baser.

FIRST INNING

DETROIT—Bartell struck out. McCosky flied to left. Gehringer grounded out Derringer to McCormick. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Gehringer popped to Werber. Greenberg grounded out, Werber to F. McCormick. Five runs, five hits, two errors, two left.

Standard Oil Loses Fight

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN Oct. 2 —The supreme court today approved lower court decisions holding the Standard Oil company of Texas liable for chain stores taxes on 20 service stations, 12 of which the company claimed it did not control.

The tribunal refused to grant a writ of error requested by the oil company, thus affirming a district and appellate court ruling that the company must pay $2,288 chain store taxes for which the state sued.

Exemption Claimed

The company asserted the 12 stations were either leased by it from someone else or owned by it and leased to someone, that the stations were exempt because they were inherently different from chain stores, that the chain store tax would be a harsh levy on dealers already heavily burdened with taxation and that the tax was not intended to cover the stations because the legislature intended to favor home industries.

Findings of the trial court, affirmed by the appellate court, were that the 12 stations were controlled by the company through contracts called "distributors' agreements," that none came within specified exemptions and all were within the meaning of the tax statute.

Fast Pace Of Modern Living Has Little Effect On Heart

(By The United Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 2—The fast pace and hurly-burly of modern life may tire you out, but it is unlikely that it will have any bad effect on your heart.

That is the opinion of Dr. John T. King, associate professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins university. At a meeting of the Kansas City Southwest Clinical society Dr. King expounded his views, which he admitted were counter to the beliefs of most medical men and most laymen.

"The wear and tear of modern life that we hear so much about is pretty much a side issue with heart disease," Dr. King said.

On the other hand he believes that heart disease results frequently from infections resulting from typhoid fever, rheumatic fever or syphilis.

Furious Raids Spread Havoc In Germany

Great Fires Seen For Miles After RAF Drops Bombs

(By The Associated Press)

British RAF bombers have turned a "made in England" blitzkrieg on Germany, the London air ministry disclosed today, driving the war home to Germans in a counter-offensive that struck overnight at Berlin and 16 other cities and towns.

"Great fires . . . terrific explosions . . . the debris of bomb-hit buildings hurled sky-high," were reported from the German capital to Nazi-held Le Havre on the channel coast.

Fires Seen For Miles

RAF fliers returning from the assault said the red glare of fires set by bombs in the great industrial valley of the Ruhr could be seen for 60 miles.

"From very shortly after dark until well after midnight, the bomber forces kept up their harassing attacks against potential invasion bases on the Dutch and French coasts," the air ministry said, adding that German coastal guns "received special attention."

Along with this tipping of the airfight scales, the Axis powers now have definitely abandoned the idea of drawing Spain into the war, for the moment, at least.

Spaniards Cheer Reports

Spaniards as a whole cheered reports from Rome that Spain is to continue as a non-belligerent.

While Londoners hailed reports of RAF bomb reprisals against Germany British defenders coped with four swift-striking waves of Nazi warplanes attempting to storm London by daylight.

The air ministry said RAF Spitfires chased one German formation many miles down the Thames river and intercepted and scattered the other three waves.

Fifth and sixth mass German attacks later in the day were also reported beaten off. The air ministry listed nine Nazi planes shot down, with one RAF plane missing.

Chamberlain May Quit

While the capital rang with repeated alarms, London political circles heard without confirmation that Neville Chamberlain, the ailing "appeasement man of Munich," would resign from the Churchill war cabinet.

It was also reported that David Lloyd George, the white-maned

Fugitive Held In Jail Here

Police this morning arrested a man who, when confronted with his fingerprints on Federal Bureau of Investigation records, admitted he was a fugitive from a robbery sentence in Alabama state penitentiary.

Bill Mabray, assistant police chief, said the FBI listed the man under about seven aliases.

Jess Hardy, police patrolman, and Garrett Hawkins, inspector for Texas Liquor Control board, found the man, 44, in 900-block Main street and grabbed him as a suspect in sale of liquor, Mabray said.

Wanted In Other Counties

Records showed the man is wanted on various charges in something less than a dozen Texas counties and that he at one time or another had served sentences in San Quentin and Alcatraz and numerous other places.

He was in San Quentin 15 years, went to Alcatraz in connection with an army charge, and escaped in 1936 from the Alabama penitentiary after having served only seven years four months of a 10-year sentence.

He will be held pending word from Alabama authorities, Mabray

British Oil Man Is Missing In Rumania

BUCHAREST, Oct. 2 (AP)—The British legation declared today that a band of youths, described as apparently members of the iron guard, had kidnaped the director of the British-controlled Astra Romana, largest oil company in Rumania.

Rumanian secret police declared they had no knowledge of the matter.

Blitz Turned On Germans

"Welsh Tiger" who led Britain to victory as prime minister in the World war, might return to office.

With clear flying weather, Berlin said the aerial assault would be greatly intensified during the day.

Eight Shot Down

The air ministry listed eight Nazi planes shot down from midnight to noon without the loss of a single RAF defense fighter.

As the war passed its 13th month—with the danger of a Nazi invasion of England apparently becoming more and more remote—London military circles said there was "no reason to doubt" that Hitler's high command has taken over direction of Italian operations in North Africa, aimed at breaking Great Britain's hold on the Mediterranean.

These circles said also that in all probability German troops have moved into Italy to be used as reinforcements for the Italian North African army.

Egypt Next Battlefield

Egypt appeared to be the next major land battlefield, they said, with Nazi-Fascist legions joining in an attempt to crush British resistance by spring and then turning to the "final assault" on Britain's island kingdom itself.

"Invasion weather" today was poor. High seas were reported running in the strait of Dover, lashed by a cold northwest wind.

British and German bombers spread wide destruction in their night patrols, and more and more it was becoming evident that Germany—which suffered little material havoc in the 1914-18 World war—has now begun to feel the lash.

Thus, the London air ministry reported huge-scale raids by RAF bombers pressing a new autumn counter-offensive.

Salvos Are Dropped

From Berlin to Le Havre the air ministry said, RAF warplanes dropped salvos of bombs on a dozen cities and towns, attacking a munitions factory in Berlin and other military objectives at Duisberg, Cologne, Sterkrade-Hotel, Gelsenkirchen, Hamm, Boest, Westerhold, Grimberg, Coblenz, the Ruhr, Rotterdam, Flushing, Dunkerque, Boulogne, Calais and Le Havre. Nazi long-range gun emplacements at Cap Gris Nez were also heavily bombed, the ministry said.

The German high command listed severe attacks on British objectives, asserting that a great fire was set at Manchester and that bombs fell on Liverpool port facilities, an armament plant north of London and several airports.

Great Fire Damage

A Nazi communique admitted that RAF bombers "raided a number of western German cities, where great fire damage was caused to numerous apartment houses," and said that the raiders dropped fire bombs and explosives "on a brick works west of Berlin."

RAF pilots who took part in the attack on Berlin said they saw many fires and explosions and one pilot reported "four terrific explosions" after he tripped his bomb-back over an electrical equipment factory in the German capital.

Coincident with the RAF's new aerial assault Britain's minister of economic warfare, Hugh Dalton reported that the British blockade is attaining "a remarkable degree of success."

Dalton cited an Axis shortage of many vital war supplies as a result of the blockade—including alloys, rubber, lead, copper, textiles—and he declared:

Oil Being Exhausted

"We have evidence already that the Nazis have practically exhausted all the oil which they have looted from countries they overran.

"Now they are back where they were," he said, "with the additional handicap that they have to provision the overrun countries in order that their economic life may continue at all."

Berliners were sent scurrying to air raid shelters for the fourth successive night but the alarm was short-lived and Germans said only a few British planes reached the outskirts of the city, doing little damage.

German long-range guns at Cap Gris Nez, which have been pounding the Dover coast, were among the targets at which the British said their air raiders aimed. Watchers on the Dover cliffs said the sky on the German-occupied side of the channel was bright with bomb bursts.

Stock Market

PRICES ADVANCE AGAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP)—Under the stiffening influence of a fairly strong group of chemicals, the stock market advanced today.

Steels and rails at the end joined the forward position which chemicals had held throughout the session. Turnover was about 500,000 shares.

Traders engaged in little more than testing operations until the final hour when the ticker tape started moving at the liveliest pace experienced during the day.

Chart followers watched closely for a break through on the resistance levels of some indices at the tops established last week for industrials.

Leaders on the upturn included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, General Steel Castings preferred, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, Owens-Illinois, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, N. Y. Central, Great Northern preferred, Pennsylvania Railroad, Cerro De Pasco, Case, N. Y. Shipbuilding, Sperry and Electric Boat.

Maverick Display Is Of Interest Here

An exhibit which was gathered last Thursday in Maverick county down on the Mexican border, is attracting wide attention in the agricultural building of the Panhandle-South Plains fair and its exhibitor, R. E. Prewitt of Quemado, is kept busy answering many questions about the items displayed.

Prewitt resided in the Panhandle for a quarter century and was a swine breeder. He says he traveled 600 miles to bring the exhibit here. This is his sixth year with a Maverick exhibit.

The exhibit is probably the most talked about in the agricultural building, because there are so many items that are not known to residents of this section. Again, according to Prewitt, most people ask "Where in Texas is Maverick county?"

Display Described

Eagle Pass is the county seat. Quemado is a short distance from there and in that community are 50,000 acres, irrigated by a canal, 87 miles long, with a gravity flow to spread water. In the fall, winter vegetables are planted, cabbage, beans, tomatoes, carrots, onions, peppers, lettuce and others.

Piled in the front center of the exhibit are green grapefruit, oranges and tangerines. They do not begin to ripen until late in September and are not generally considered ripe until late October or early November, the exhibitor said. He also has two kinds of dates, a golden date and some red dates.

Fair At Eagle Pass

Half a dozen green pomegranates are displayed; some one Monday night cut one of them open to see what it was.

Under federal cotton regulations all cotton must be picked and plowed under by Oct. 15, because of pink bollworm regulations. There are no worms in the county, but it is included in the quarantine area.

Next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, a first international fair is to be held at Eagle Pass, with exhibits from Texas and Mexico. Exhibition grounds are within a short distance of the city's business area. Prewitt is helping arranging the displays.

German Aliens

Hudson county." He declined to say exactly where.

The witness said he had signed an agreement with G. Wilhelm Kunze, national leader of the bund, to hold the joint meeting.

"If you can take the dishing out we will give you then you'll be pretty good Americans," Young said he told Kunze.

He admitted that he had made an anti-semitic speech at the meeting.

Earlier today, August Klapprott, manager of Camp Nordland, testified that the bund has about 10,000 members in the United States, but that there were 20,000,000 persons of German extraction in the country who were eligible for membership.

All Are Citizens

He said that every member of the organization was a citizen, that the bund was uncompromisingly opposed to Communism, and that a prime objective was to oppose the "boycott" on German goods in this country.

Rep. Joseph Starnes, D., Ala., chairman of the sub-committee questioned Klapprott at length about the meeting.

"Didn't any of the speakers make reference to the fact that there was a racial minority group in the country that controlled it?" Starnes asked, referring to alleged anti-semitic statements made at the meeting.

"Yes, there was reference made to that," Klapprott replied.

"Wasn't the reference to the fact that certain racial groups controlled the press and the movies and that the government of the United States was also controlled by a certain racial group?"

Still Believes So

"Yes," Klapprott replied, "and it is still my belief that a small racial group controls the press, the movies and the government, to a certain extent."

"That was the theme song for the entire meeting, was it not?" Starnes asked.

"That should be the theme song for every American," Klapprott said.

Until a year ago, Klapprott said, a large picture of Adolf Hitler hung in the recreation hall at Camp Nordland with a smaller picture of George Washington. The Hitler picture has been removed, he testified.

A slogan painted on the wall, he said, reads:

"One race, one society, one leader."

Asked what that meant, he said:

"By that was meant that all the German-Americans should combine under one leader and that was the purpose of our organization. We felt we could get somewhere under a united leadership."

He then testified that the bund had 10,000 members, and that 20,000,000 persons were eligible.

Rep. Jerry Voorhis, D., Calif., took up the questioning.

Midget Tanks Given Tests

(By The Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2—A rough, tough and belligerent-looking midget armored car, capable of 60-mile-an-hour speeds, was undergoing army tests here today preliminary to a 1,000-mile cross-country "torture" grind next week.

The tiny "gnat-tank", designed to carry three soldiers, a .30 calibre swivel-mounted machine gun, and 3,000 rounds of ammunition, has an 80-inch wheelbase, seats like granite, over-sized tractor-tread tires, and four-wheel drive.

No Pretext Of Beauty

It has no pretext of beauty. Strictly business, there's not a "gadget" in or out. The compact fourcylinder engine turns up 40-horsepower and its cubic inch displacement of 113 compares with approximately 215 cubic inches in popular low-priced automobiles.

The "pilot" model is being run under every conceivable condition which may be encountered in service with troops.

Officers at the army's Holabird motor transport depot here said the car was getting "routine" workouts before the manufacturer begins production on a war department contract for 70 of them.

Today, after the first preliminary test, the midget was mud-spattered, but there wasn't a dent visible.

Experts believe the midgets may prove a land equivalent of the navy's "mosquito boat". They could serve as an auxiliary to armored divisions.

CHASED BY SUB

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (AP)—Mackay Radio reported today that the 4,606-ton British freighter Kaveson had radioed that she was being "chased by a submarine" about 675 miles west of Ireland.

The forest service planted 7,600,000 trees in Kansas' farm shelterbelts this year.

superintendent; Loop, two buses and about 80 pupils in charge of T. M. Cash principal; Berry Flats, Borden county, about 30 children. Other buses were from Fieldton, Union, Johnson, Meadow, Seminole and Biedsoe.

Right behind the Gomez delegation was the bus from Tokio with 30 pupils aboard, in charge of H. T. Peacock, principal, and Glenn Martin.

Another of the early arrivals was the delegation from Tahoka schools accompanied by the high school band. Members of the group paraded through the business district enroute to the grounds.

The stream of arriving buses was almost continuous through the forenoon, and expectation is that the total for the day will be around 75 vehicles.

Nearly as many more probably will be here Thursday for the second of the Children's days. All of the visiting pupils on both days have free tickets to the grounds.

Further increasing prospects for the crowd at the grounds today is the fact that Lubbock city schools will recess at noon, just as they did Tuesday for Lubbock day.

Probabilities are, officials of the fair association said, that today's attendance will be the largest for any day during the week. Last year the first Children's day total was 35,854.

The usual program is to be followed through both days, with a few additions for the special benefit of the visiting children, officials of the fair association announced.

Today's turnout is expected to follow several broken records during Tuesday's Lubbock day celebration. The 4,646 which saw the second presentation of the Coronado Entrada last night was described as the largest which has ever been in the grandstand here. The afternoon crowd of 3,000 for the free program of vaudeville and circus acts also was the largest for any afternoon.

Largest Of Any City

The Entrada crowd also was declared to be the largest that has seen any presentation of that spectacle in any of the more than 20 southwestern cities where it has shown during the summer's observance of the 400th anniversary of the visit to this territory by Coronado.

Tuesday's attendance of 14,809 at the fair surpassed the 13,223 on Lubbock day last year, but was short of the record Lubbock day figure of 17,718 in 1938.

Judge Hunted For Slaying

(By The United Press)

DETROIT, Oct. 2—Common Pleas Judge Robert Sage, 41, a one time lumberjack, and prize-fighter, who killed one business partner and seriously wounded two last night, was a fugitive today.

In Sage's office in the Wayne county building, the four men were discussing disposing of their athletic field which they were having difficulty operating. Police Inspector John Whitman said that two partners argued violently. Sage suddenly took a pistol from his desk, announced he was going to be a "pacifier," and fired.

Ralph Nadel, 48, who sat at the desk facing the judge, was killed. Maurice Smiley, 56, an attorney, was wounded in the shoulder as he started to leave the room. Nadel's brother, Alfred, 39, was hit in the chest. Two other shots struck the ceiling.

Sage fled in his shirt sleeves. He stopped at a bar for a drink, then disappeared.

Winter Of Hell Is Promised For Europe

Britain Daily Gets Stronger

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Signs multiply that all the belligerents are preparing actively to carry the war through a winter which promises to be hell for Europe.

Should the conflict be prolonged it will represent considerable success for Britain. It is a mighty achievement to have stood off the defeat which bore down on her with such terrific speed and power as France collapsed and left England to stand alone before the greatest war machine ever constructed.

It seems to me the outcome of the war likely will pivot on the fact that Britain has survived this crisis. This is so because neither Germany nor Italy has the resources for a long war, and there is at this moment no source of supplies to which they can turn.

Danger Is Less

England still has to get by the Indian summer of this month before being sure the Nazi invasion can't be undertaken this year. The likelihood of this hazardous operation being undertaken is lessening daily.

Once that is off the books the conflict may be expected to settle down to two major engagements. One will be a continuation of the warfare in the air between Britain and Germany. The other will be the battle of the Mediterranean.

It is important to remember that the primary object of Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini in these operations is to break through that solid British naval blockade which is squeezing all Europe. Essential war supplies and foodstuffs lie outside that steel ring.

In the battle of Britain the weather will slow things up, but it won't halt the bombing which is taking such terrible toll in both countries. England and Germany will continue to blast at each other with the purpose of destroying industries, communications and war equipment. And with the idea of causing a collapse of morale.

Added Point Of Strategy

The Germans have an added point of strategy under way. That is the sinking of British shipping by submarines and bombing so as to establish a counter-blockade to starve England. The British admiralty yesterday recorded an increase in Nazi submarine activity with a heavy rise in tonnage lost.

So far as the battle of the Mediterranean is concerned, it seems to be in the doldrums. Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent with the British troops in Egypt, reports:

"On a 100 mile trip along the British front in Egypt I have seen no indications that a big Italian push is imminent."

At the same time the conference in Rome between Signor Mussolini and Spanish Envoy Suner has ended with the intimation that Spain is to remain neutral until such time as appears propitious for the Axis to assault Gibraltar from Spanish bases nearby. It would appear that the much heralded attack on Gibraltar, "key to the Mediterranean," has been postponed.

Italy Needs Assistance

The capture of Gibraltar was to have given Mussolini a leg-up in his attack on Egypt. He needs assistance, if for no other reason than that his forces in Africa are virtually cut off from the mother country by the British blockade.

However, I don't think the battle of the Mediterranean is permanently bogged down.

This is going to be a historic winter. As I see it, if England can hold her own in the battles of Britain and the Mediterranean, and continue that terrific blockade, she will increase in strength greatly by spring and perhaps be in position to carry out the major offensive she plans against Germany. By that same token Germany and Italy will encounter grave difficulty in maintaining their strength, unless supplies which now are wholly unapparent become available.

LIFE SLOWS TO A WALK IN FRANCE—In conquered France, life in town and country alike moves haltingly. At left, above, a French farmer plods along behind his wheat-laden cart. Who will get his harvest, German censor did not disclose. Civilian automobiles scarcely exist in German-held Paris, so the old lady, right, engaged a man-power cart to transport her and luggage to the railroad station. Store sign in background is a reminder of a former ally.

Doc Cline, Who Has Been Dishing Out Dope On Texas Weather For 48 Years, Retiring

BY TOM W. MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS, Oct. 2—Doc Cline, the weatherman, has retired.

Dr. Joseph L. Cline, 70, who man and boy has been dishing out forecasts of Texas weather off and on for nearly half a century, has made his last official prediction.

He said today he will sort of "miss things."

We who write occasional stories of Texas' weather, with all its oddities and uncertainties, feel the weather probably will miss him.

Took Work Seriously

The venerable Texas forecaster took his work seriously. People were wont to shrug off a day when the weather varied with the meteorologist's prediction by saying, "oh, well, you might have known Doc Cline would guess wrong."

But he didn't "guess" and he was intensely proud of his high average of correct predictions.

He always called up the Dallas newspapers and the press associations to give the day's forecasts for East and West Texas and when he had hit the weather right on the nose he laughingly called attention to it.

Doc Worked Hard

Doc worked hard. He could be found in his office on the 20th floor of a downtown office building early in the morning, and he took pleasure in climbing up stairs to the top of the building, then mounting a platform to take recordings of weather instruments there.

A slender, partly bald man, Doc Cline wore glasses and kept a carefully trimmed mustache. He smiled easily.

He had been in the game for 48 years, from the time he came to Texas from Tennessee, where he had been a $25 a month school teacher, to go to work in the weather office at Galveston in 1892.

He sent the last word from that city before the disasterous hurricane and flood took a toll of thousands of lives. It was a weather message to Washington, saying the storm was more severe than had been expected.

Saved Two Children

During the disaster, Dr. Cline saved the lives of two children, his nieces, when a house filled with refugees was flooded.

He worked at several meteorological stations, including Corpus Christi, before establishing the Dallas office in 1913.

He advocated, in one of a number of articles he wrote on agriculture and climate, the cultivation of winter vegetables and semi-tropical fruits in the Rio Grande valley before that area became a rich citrus growing section.

In his place as chief of the Dallas weather bureau is U. S. Meteorologist A. M. Hambrick, transferred here from the Kansas City office.

Hamrick himself has a history. He's the man the Kansas City Star refused to call Weatherman A. M. Hamrick, or A. M. Hamrick, U. S. meteorologist, in printing stories about the weather. The Star decided everyone knows who the weatherman is and always wrote of him without a descriptive, simply saying, for example, "Mister Hamrick says it will be cooler."

Rosh Hashanah Will Be Observed Here

Congregation Shaareth Israel will observe Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, in services tonight, Thursday and Friday.

In temples and synagogues throughout the world, the Hebrew celebration will be observed.

Rabbi Isadore Garsek at 7:30 o'clock tonight will speak on the topic, "Ascending, Ever Ascending," and at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning his subject will be "The Birth of a New Ideology." Another morning service will be conducted Friday.

Personal Significance

Rabbinical tradition regards the holiday as the anniversary of the world's creation and as the day of judgment, a day in which God judges every living creature. The ideals, prevailing throughout intervening years, have created a beautiful ritual and liturgy.

The traditional Shofar, ram's horn, will be blown to symbolize the awakening of the knowledge of true ideals and the desire to strive for them.

More recently the idea of judgment was given a more personal significance. It became a day for self-examination, a day for self-judgment and of self-criticism.

And this year, especially, Rabbi Garsek pointed out, there is much more for man to resolve in meeting the problems of a much changed world.

HOTEL MAN DIES

DALLAS, Oct. 2 (AP) — Russell Streed, 37, executive assistant manager of the Adolphus hotel here, died of injuries received Saturday night when his automobile overturned at a curve near Dallas.

Three Die In Car Collision

AUSTIN, Oct. 2 (AP)—Three persons were killed and two others injured, one seriously, near here last night in the head-on collision of a sedan and a delivery truck.

The dead were Mrs. Robert Poth, 28; her three-year-old daughter Barbara Gay, both of Poth, Tex., and Billy Ray Roebuck, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Roebuck of Marshall Ford dam.

Mrs. Roebuck was in a critical condition. Bert Cole of Georgetown, driver of the truck, suffered a slight injury to his right hand.

Mrs. Poth was killed instantly. Her daughter and the Roebuck boy died a short time later.

State Highway Patrolmen L. N. Fox and Frank Conklin were investigating the crash.

Bridge Falls But Only One Person Injured

NACOGDOCHES, Oct. 2 (AP) — A steel bridge in the center of Nacogdoches over Lanana creek caved in suddenly today, carrying a log truck and a taxi to the creek bed 25 feet below. One person was injured slightly.

A number of school children had just stepped off the bridge when it crashed. Steel beams almost pinned Douglass Smith, 15, as the bridge fell, but he received only minor cuts and bruises.

Elbert Tullos, driver of the truck, and Roy Heron, negro taxi driver, were uninjured.

Australia's only native mammals are the unique duck-billed, egg-laying animals; and the kangaroos.

MORTON, Oct. 2 (Special)—Sale of wines and beer was rejected by Cochran county voters Wednesday.

Approximately 60 per cent of the county's voting strength registered at the polls to give a 533 to 311 decision against the issue. Sale of hard liquors will become illegal after Saturday.

The proposal today, said County Clerk J. B. Knox, was for sale of wines and beer of 14 per cent or more. Only recently have whiskies and other liquors been outlawed.

Knox said most of the stores dealing in liquor will have depleted their stock by the deadline. Drug stores will sell liquor on prescriptions, as in other dry counties.

OUR COUNTRY

America, Child Of Courage, Need But Remember Its Past To Go Forward---James Boyd

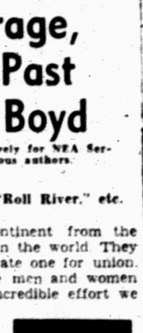

Nineteenth of 24 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and Lubbock Evening Journal by the nation's most famous authors.

BY JAMES BOYD

Author of "Drums," "Marching On," "Long Hunt," "Roll River," etc.

THIS country is the child of courage.

In 10 generations our people have won a continent from the bravest aborigines and made it into a unique power in the world. They have fought one war for freedom and another desperate one for union. Our history in war and peace is the history of brave men and women and often of brave children, too. In addition to this incredible effort we have designed and developed a form of government that has been a model and inspiration to other nations.

IT is not strange that the speed and size of this achievement has left many gaps and brought problems faster than we can solve them.

It is not strange that a second world war coming on top of all our own difficulties should leave us feeling that we are suddenly faced with more dangers than we should be called on to handle.

But it would be strange if a nation, always at the forefront in any enterprise of daring and noted for its resourcefulness, should not meet these dangers and conquer them.

THE first step, as we form for our tremendous task, is to remember our past; not only our great names but also the uncounted numbers of plain people, native and foreign-born, who created this new world, who cleared the woods and won the West and manned our armies and our ships and made our industries supreme. Then we can go ahead, looking on our country with love, on our forebears with reverence and on ourselves with confidence and honest pride.

A sword and a vision—Taylor Caldwell sees these as essential to the survival of democracy, in the next article of this series on "Our Country."

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

with herb laxative, combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative, contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And say how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

Here 'N There At The Fair

Livestock exhibitors help each other out when it comes to showing animals in the show ring before judges. If an exhibitor does not have enough men to take his stock into the ring there is always some one ready to help.

Doug Pounds reports the largest number of swine in the barns this year, 343 animals. There was an overflow into the livestock barn, one third of that space being taken.

Frank Ford, Carson county farm agent who judged Milking Shorthorns at the fair this year, said his county had a good sub-soil moisture and wheat sown last month is coming up. A good shower was received last week. Much of the alloted acreage has been planted and a good proportion has germinated. "Give us a good rain in October and we will be all right," he added.

A second and a third generation of the Lillard family of Arlington is represented at the fair this year in the person of George P. Lillard, jr., youngest son of the founder of the clan and Lee Lillard, jr., son of one of the older sons. George P., sr., has been showing hogs in Texas for half a century. The Lillard farms at Arlington are nationally known and herds from the farms have been shown from coast to coast. Other exhibitors are always very fond of the Lillard family and the two men here are popular with other exhibitors at the fair.

The usual number of Texas Technological college students is working at the fair this year, taking tickets at concessions. The boys have regular hours, arranged so as not to interfere with classes and they are able to earn some of their expenses in this way. Also, they get a chance to see some of the fair.

Court Ruling On State Officials In Military Posts Being Asked

Suit Is Filed For Full Pay

AUSTIN, Oct. 2 (AP)—Direct ruling from the state supreme court on whether a state official forfeits his civil position when he enters active military service has been sought by Major Orville Carpenter, state staff corps, now on active duty arranging for the draft. Carpenter holds the civil office of executive director of the Texas unemployment compensation commission.

His suit is considered a test case for national guard officers and reserve offices on whose behalf a supporting brief was submitted.

Mandamus Sought

Carpenter seeks a mandamus to compel payment of his full September salary. He was ordered on active military duty in preparation of the draft on Sept. 19. Acting on an opinion Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann, State Comptroller George Sheppard and State Treasurer Charley Lockhart refused Carpenter civil pay after Sept. 18. His suit seeks a court order directing them to pay him for the entire period.

It has been estimated that approximately 47 state civil officers will be affected by the decision. Only those called out for draft preparation now are affected. They number nine. When the 56th cavalry is ordered to Fort Bliss on Nov. 15 and the rest of the 36th division to Brownwood, Nov. 25, the others will be affected. Among them will be Col. Ernest O. Thompson, commander of the 111th quartermaster regiment, and member of the state railroad commission.

Attorneys filing the application with the supreme court on Carpenter's behalf included Maj. Gen. Claude Birkhead of San Antonio, commander of the 36th division; former Gov. Dan Moody, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Everett Looney and his law firm; Bialock, Bialock, Lohman and Bialock of Houston; State Highway Commissioner R. L. Bobbitt, former judge of the fourth court of civil appeals, and Charles Black, noted Austin attorney.

Brief Is Filed

An amicus curae brief was filed by Capt. Carl Phinney of Dallas on request of numerous officers and enlisted men in the national guard and the organized reserve of the United States.

It is contended both in Major Carpenter's petition and in the amicus curae brief for other officers that the original provision against dual office holding was specifically amended after the World war to permit maintenance of an organized national guard and an organized reserve for national defense, permitting civil officers to be officers also in the national guard and in the reserve.

Mann's opinion ruled that when the men were called into active federal service the amendment permitting guard and reserve officers to hold dual offices ceased to be effective as to them.

Medical Conference Plans Are Outlined

Lubbock-Crosby Medical society Tuesday night heard committee reports on plans for the Panhandle District Medical society conference here next week.

The group met in Hilton hotel.

Dr. Arthur Jenkins, Lubbock-Crosby president, was chairman of the session, attended by approximately 25 members. A paper, "Surgical Cure for Hypertension," was read by Dr. J. W. Henerick, Amarillo surgeon.

President of the Panhandle society is Dr. J. D. White of Childress. Dr. Jenkins is secretary of the medical section.

The district-wide meeting will be conducted in the Hilton Oct. 8 and 9. A program of interest to members of the medical profession throughout the South Plains and Panhandle is planned, Dr. Jenkins said.

Right Of Suicide Squadmen To Go On Big Spree When Not At Work Upheld In Court

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP)—At the urging of the "hero of St. Paul's" the right of suicide squadmen to go speeding when not disposing of time-bombs was upheld today in Clerkenwell police court.

They may even be excused for assaulting a bobby in the course of their spree, though in normal times such foolishness wins only a quick trip to the gaol-house.

Lieut. Robert Davies, the Canadian royal engineer who trundled a time-bomb harmlessly from the vicinity of St. Paul's cathedral some time ago, defended two of his men who tangled with a policeman outside a pub.

"They've been working under high pressure in the face of sudden death," he told the court. "I know my own temper has become somewhat frayed."

Magistrate Walter Hedley said the men obviously had been under great mental strain and would be discharged under probation.

A few minutes after leaving the courtroom, the men, Wilfred Hall, 24, and Lance Corporal John Gale, 20, were tackling bombs again.

Way "Build-Up" Helps Will Interest Women

The cause of a woman's periodic suffering from headache, irritability, cramp-like pain, may be functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, a condition that is often helped by CARDUI.

Principal way CARDUI helps is by stimulating appetite and the flow of gastric juices. Thus it may aid digestion; help build up a woman's strength, energy and nerve-force; so increase physical resistance to periodic discomfort.

It also helps reduce periodic distress for many who take it a few days before and during "the time." Your confidence in CARDUI is invited by its 50 years of popularity. Adv.

Your engine is up around 2 feet tall. But where is its highest oil-level? Barely 3 or 4 inches off the bottom during parking. So if you depend on crankcase oil alone, when starting up cold, you'll wait till it climbs a good ways—and goes worming around.

But now!... no more hard risky waiting for that first badly needed lubricant... not with your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by changing today to your correct Winter grade of Conoco Germ Processed oil.

Processed into this patented oil that sells at a normal price is a rare extra substance—created by man—to fasten lubricant firmly to metal. The result is OIL-PLATING, attached to inner engine parts as closely as chrome-plating is attached to bumpers. Like chrome-plating, OIL-PLATING doesn't all drain down during parking, but stays up as high as the highest piston rings reach—ready to smooth out starting stroke No. 1—ready to fight for oil economy by fighting the wear of oil-starved starting. # Tigers' Bobo Newsom Is One Of Most Colorful Things In Current World Series

DEACON BILL'S ON THE SPOT—Loser last year to New York's Yankees in four straight games, Manager Bill McKechnie's Cincinnati National league champion Reds can't exactly expect bouquets from Ohio baseball addicts if the inspired Tigers claw their way to the World Series flag. Above, the Deacon shows the fighting face which will spur the Reds in their second bid for world diamond supremacy.

Buck May Lose But He Called Cards Anyway

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2 — There is no more picturesque individual in all the baseball world than Louis Norman Newsom, who will make his World series debut today by pitching the opening game for the Detroit Tigers against the Cincinnati Reds.

Buck, as he's known to the profession or Bobo, as he calls himself, is a man of a few thousand words, mostly about himself. But nobody can blame Newsom for talking about Bobo. There is so much to tell and it is all so interesting — like the time he pitched a game with a broken knee.

Lost By One Run

That was when Newsom was pitching for Washington. Earl Averill hit him with a line drive and they were carrying him off the field when Buck overheard some remarks from the Cleveland bench about his courage. His Southern blood began boiling and he stormed back out to the mound and finished the game, losing by one run. That night in the hospital the X-ray showed his kneecap had been fractured in several places.

Newsom has bounced around plenty since he first broke into baseball with Greenville, S. C., in 1928. He's played with the Dodgers and Cubs in the National league and the Browns, Senators, Red Sox and Tigers in the American league. He made two trips to the Browns, the club from which the Tigers rescued him in 1939. Some say that Buck has talked himself off more clubs than any player in history.

Tigers Love Him

But Buck is harmless and the Tigers love him. They should because he was the first Tiger to get the pennant bee this spring. In several conversations in the spring with Charlie Ward of the Detroit Free Press, Bobo talked up the Tigers' pennant chances.

"We've got a lot of ifs on this club," he said, "but you know if they all come through we'll have ourselves a hell of a ball club. I wouldn't be a-tall surprised if we landed in the World Series (with emphasis on the "we").

"I thought he was crazy," Ward said today. "But here he is pitching the opening game."

Record Impressive

Newsom won 21 games and lost five and was ever ready to help the Tiger cause. Many times during the season he picked up his glove and trotted down to the bullpen of his own volition just so he'd be ready in case Manager Del Baker needed him.

Buck's record this season is remarkable when it's considered that he was on the shelf 11 days with a broken thumb. He suffered the injury in Boston July 17 and everyone thought he'd be out a month or six weeks. When the doctors told him the bad news, Buck hunted up the scribes and told 'em: "These doctors are wrong. Ol' Bobo will be back in there pitching in ten days."

He was wrong by one day. His first start after his injury was against the Athletics, who beat him in the 11th inning.

Newsom is one of the newspapermen's favorite characters but a man of his moods and words is bound to get into an occasional jam. But nobody can stay mad at Buck for long or vice-versa.

Bob Ruark, Washington newspaperman and Newsom engaged in a tiff this season, but it was quickly forgotten by Old Bobo.

Buck has two ambitions — to win a World Series game and to get some one to give him an automobile. He's been to 147 dinners and banquets in Detroit this season, hoping every time he'd find a brand new gasoline buggy parked on his hat check when he left.

Night Games In California
By Collier Parris

THAT OTHER SCORE was: Carleton 13; North Dakota State 7.

Night football has its place, but Southern California isn't much of a place for it. Two excursions with the Tech Red Raiders convinced this reporter of that fact. The fog and the dew virtually obliterated the teams from sight, especially when they were on the opposite side of the field, and made ball-handling a slippery business.

Charley Burton, Dallas News sports editor who accompanied the Mustangs to L. A. last week for their tiff with the Uclans, wrote back as follows:

"Friday night's contest, which ended a few minutes after 1 a. m. Dallas time, was lighted by 9,600,000 candlepower, according to engineers who had just tripled the lighting facilities for this season.

"The Mustangs, therefore, played in a heavier dew than did Texas Christian last fall. The dew and fog that makes vision from the press box and other high seats very poor, and the field very wet, is caused by the lights in the coliseum . . . The terrific heat from the lamps condenses the cool evening air and causes the fog and dew.

"Scribes and scouts were unable to use field glasses effectively from their perch some 100 rows up in the gigantic stadium. The glasses fog over just as the windshield on your car sometimes does. Unfortunately the field glasses were not equipped with windshield wipers."

We can sympathize with Burton in regard to that "1 o'clock" business, too. That's only eleven o'clock on the coast, but newspapers in and east of the "two-hour difference" zone sure have heck making the deadline with football stories from the Pacific coast, especially when you allow an extra hour for preparing and transmitting the stories.

• • •

Just the opposite will be true when the Loyola Lions come here Saturday night. The game starts at 8:30, Lubbock time, but the broadcast of the game, piped back to Los Angeles' Columbia outlet, will start on California radios at 6:30 o'clock, and the contest will be over in time to "make" most of the earlier street editions of the newspapers.

SHORT, SHORT STORIES: H. C. Burrus, one of the top softball pitchers around here this summer, registered from Lubbock as he enrolled at Hardin-Simmons . . . Burrus led the Cowboy football scoring last years and got off to a good start this year with two touchdowns . . . Harry Faulkner, chief scout at Texas A. & M., has made two airplane trips to Los Angeles to look over the Uclans, whom the Aggies play Oct. 12 . . . Win or lose, the Aggies will establish a precedent this year, if they win the Southwest conference pennant they'll break the tradition of "a winner never repeats," and if they lose, it'll be the first time in his long career that Faulkner has been associated with a losing outfit. . . .

Roy Johnson, the big, jovial basketball coach, assistant grid mentor and chief scout of University of New Mexico, has left the Albuquerque campus to assume captaincy of Company D of the National Guard at Fort Sill, Okla. . . . George W. White, head of the physical education dept., and director of publicity, has become athletic director at N.M.U., and Marion "Dutch" Neimants, the big misery-dealing fullback of 1937 and 1938, is the new freshman coach there. . . . Cotton Nelson, who couldn't quite make the Tech varsity, is playing regular end at Eastern New Mexico college, Portales. . . . Also there are Quentin Burgett and Law and Bob Montgomery of Floydada and Lawrence.

Techsans Prep Aerial Attack For Loyolans

Their home test only three workouts away, Texas Tech's Red Raiders this afternoon will polish up their offensive attack, continue stressing the kicking game and "really get rough" this afternoon at Tech Stadium.

Already heralded for their swiftness and potential passing possibilities—which paid off in full last week-end, incidentally—the Crimsons may have a surprise in store for the football folk and Loyola's Lions come Saturday night, that is, if the West Coast aggregation finds its way to this so-called out of the way community.

Railbirds were given an eyeful and pass receivers a handful of flying leather at Tuesday afternoon's session, big C. L. Storrs, Roger Smith and Clyde Stone hitting the bulls eye with 30 and 40 yard aerials that brought wide smiles to the faces of Coaches "Dutchy" Smith and Berl Huffman.

Kickers In Rehearsal

But throwing wasn't the only thing that featured yesterday's fiery workout, the fellows were snatching them out of the ozone and tearing for the goal. Those who turned in exceptionally fine catches included "Bing" Bingham, Charlie Dvoracek, Walter Webster, Clarence Tillery, Milton Hill, "Red" Amonett and Don Austin.

After almost two solid hours of passing the Raiders turned their attention to the kicking phase of the game. Peter Bianda was booting them around 60 yards and the coffin corners were duck soup for Walter Webster, Ty Bain, Milton Hill and Marvin Shields. Although Shields is a tackle by trade, Cawthon believes he has the making of a great kicker, particularly a conversion artist, therefore has instructed him to get in plenty of practice.

The fact that no Texas Tech team has yet defeated a Loyola of the Coast juggernaut seems to be the driving spark that is making the Techsans appear to be unbeatable in this week's practice.

Cawthon Back Today

The coaches will not have to feed the Red Raiders raw meat and hot chili pots this week. They don't need it because they have worked themselves into a feverish mood and are ready for a superb battle Saturday night.

Coach Pete Cawthon who became suddenly ill Sunday, visited the athletic office yesterday for an hour but did not go on the practice field. Cawthon hopes to be back in harness today and if he is, there is a chance of a blistering scrimmage against the Tech freshmen who will inaugurate their season Saturday night at Roswell against the New Mexico Institute.

It is very doubtful if Prince Scott, senior right end, will be able to play against Loyola. Scott suffered a leg injury in the Oklahoma Aggie game and is unable to suit out for practice. Tickets for Saturday night's game are on sale at the Hilton Hotel ticket booth and at the Lubbock Hotel Drug Store.

It will be Boy Scout "day and night" at the game. Jack Stone, local Boy Scout official, said last night that over one thousand Scouts would attend the game as guests of Texas Tech. The Scouts will be camped on the Tech campus all day Saturday and will go through scout maneuvers that afternoon.

STEERS PREP FOR HOOSIERS

AUSTIN, Oct. 2 (U.P.) — Several changes in the University of Texas lineup were to be given a final test in today's workout here, the last to be held by the Longhorns before they leave for Indiana where they play the Hoosiers next Saturday.

READY, AIM, FIRE!—And big C. L. Storrs—half of Tech's life-saver last week— has been doing just that this week out at Tech Stadium. The Red Raider left halfback, above, was "putting them there" with stunning accuracy in Tuesday afternoon's session and barring accident should be passing the oval hither and yon in this afternoon's drill. Loyola's Lions are going to see a lot of this boy and those bullet-like aerial darts of his.

Lubbock Eleven Bearing Down For Lion Tilt

When Vernon's Lions prowl out on their home turf Friday night in an effort to duplicate last year's triumph over Lubbock's Westerners Wilbarger county football fans might be better off in air raid shelters.

The state champions are going to be in a very bad frame of mind—and the whip they pop is carried along for more than just the noise it makes.

More Tough Sessions

Any doubt of those statements will be erased for the dubious who happen out by Avenue X and Twenty-third street this afternoon around 4 or 5 o'clock. Chances are railbirds will find Coaches "Goober" Keyes' and Walker Nichols' crew in a continuance of Tuesday afternoon's severe head cracking, one of the roughest sessions the Black and Gold crew has raced through all year.

Apparently tired of looking like rookies too much of the time the boys aren't fooling now. Those loud pops heard when tacklers met ball toters weren't for benefit of spectators. Vernon is a tough assignment and the Lions are causing the Westerner mentors no end of head scratching, and the players plenty concern, also.

They're Serious Now

Hence the skull cracking out at Avenue X and Twenty-third streets these Indian summer afternoons.

The sun was casting long shadows across the turf yesterday afternoon when the signal to "go in" was given a tired band of kids who had run the gamut from head-on tackling, pass defense, offense and on down the line to nearly an hour's scrimmage. And the boys were taking to it as though the district championship hinged on the outcome.

In short, the Westerners, it appears, mean business. This "hot and cold" stuff is out to all intents and from now on it's do or don't.

And for such line smashing behemoths as Robert McKinnon, Leete Jackson and the wriggling and small Billy Wright credit must go for turning in an impressive two hours work. Especially were some of the bullets Wright whistled around satisfying.

On the line several new faces in different positions were noted by railbirds, brought about chiefly by injuries to what might be considered key men. Max Walthall is still nursing a fractured right forefinger—his passing hand if you mind. Add to that the fact that Marvin McBrayer, regular right tackle at 181 pounds, has a tom muscle in his left leg, that regular Center Roland Nabors likely will have to be shifted to a tackle position because of a badly injured left thumb and the old time pattern of Mr. Injury rearing his head is fulfilled.

However, the Westerners are blessed with a better than average number of reserves this season and the gaps were filled promptly by hands ready, willing and able to do something about it.

Too, DeWitt Moore, sub for McBrayer who turned in a pleasantly surprising performance against the

Brownfield To Play Monahans

(Special To The Journal)

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 2 — Following an idle week-end in which they gained their first conference win of the season — a default verdict from O'Donnell — the Brownfield High school Cubs have resumed grid workouts in earnest with all eyes on Friday night's tilt with Monahans.

Coach Aubra Nooncaster plans to have his squad in prime shape for the highly publicized battle, which is to be played in the down state oil town starting at 8 o'clock.

Battle Of Backs

The Brownfield-Monahans conflict is being heralded as "The Class A game of the year." Both teams appear evenly-matched, possessing one standout player around whom the club is built. Scott Ellis is the highly-touted, high scoring back carrying the brunt of the Lobo offensive. The Cubs are paced by 130 pound W. D. Warren, who has stamped himself as one of the finest triple-threat backs on the South Plains.

Neither eleven has tasted defeat this fall, thus adding much more interest to the game. Brownfield looked good in toppling Kermit, but performed erratically while bowling over Crane. Co-captain M. J.

Hank May 'Upset' Reds' Apple Cart

BY HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2 — The tumult and shouting of the Tigers' final World Series workout had ended, but the captain and the king didn't depart. Long after the other players were in the locker room and the groundskeepers had taken over the field, Hank Greenberg labored on.

Deep in left field, and with only the youngster who was hitting fly balls to him for company, Greenberg practiced the business of going to his left, galloping to his right, running back to the wall, and tearing in for short flies. He threw to all the bases, handled ground balls and studied the drift of balls in the wind.

Paid Off For DiMaggio

Hank's willingness to do a little more work, try a little harder, was remindful of Joe DiMaggio's determination to get his batting eye in this same park a year ago. Joe worked a full hour after his teammates had called it quits, swinging at pitches. He took his cut until he began to find the range of the walls, and you'll remember that it paid off in the series.

Greenberg didn't have to work yesterday. Of all the men who started the series today, he is the biggest star. His salary is tops in either league. He is the American league home run king with 41, the leader in doubles with 50, top man in batting in runs with 150 banged across the plate, a .340 hitter, and far from being the worst left fielder in the business.

Started All Over

But Greenberg is a perfectionist. No one will ever know how many hours he practiced when he first went to Detroit as a first baseman. Not a natural player, he had to get his skill the hard way. He was in the park every morning, practicing the fielding of balls to his right then, because Charley Gehringer was in his prime as a second baseman and could get anything on that side of Hank. He worked himself into one of the best first basemen in the business.

When they moved him to left field last spring and gave first base to Rudy York, Greenberg started toiling all over again. He was the first man in the park and the last one to leave.

He May Upset Dope

"I'm going to learn to play the outfield if it kills me," he said. "I just don't want to be known as a big guy with a big stick in my hand."

He was awkward as two left shoes when the season opened, but the finish of it found him a better than average outfielder and the most valuable man in the league. He not only did a good job of left fielding but he had the best year of his career at bat. Never before had he hit as high as .340.

Big Hank is the fellow the Reds pitchers must stop if the National league is at last to win a World Series from the American. He was bouncing balls off the fence and in the bleachers in batting practice.

Frogs Back At Full Strength

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

DALLAS, Oct. 2— Injured Kyle Gillespie, vowing his folding knee is sturdy again, will be inserted in the Texas Christian lineup for a few moments if needed against Arkansas come Saturday.

Coach Dutch Meyer almost had to tie Gillespie to keep him out of the Centenary runaway last week-end.

"Apparently the knee is stout again," said Meyer, "but we're taking no chances with the boy. Perhaps he can play a few minutes against Arkansas—and he probably will. But we're taking it easy and expect to use him later on."

Engages In Scrimmage

The great passer, runner and kicker took part in a scrimmage against the freshmen yesterday with no ill effects. His knee was heavily braced.

Coach Meyer compares Gillespie to Ki Aldrich in love of the game. Both certainly are in the "I-came-to-play" department.

Dawn of Oct. 7 will find little St. Mary's University of San Antonio piling their very rugged football players into the gay red, white and blue bus equipped with electric razors for a jaunt to Grand Forks, N. D. There on Oct. 12 the Rattlers engage North Dakota University.

Just A Pleasure Jaunt

The lads swing into their wheeled home and head out for Manchester, N. H., immediately after the Dakota date to play St. Anselm's, a very tough eleven, on Oct. 18.

The bus wheels will churn again in the direction of Brooklyn, N. Y., for an Oct. 27 engagement with Long Island university before the boys coat for home, back in Texas, and the Oklahoma City U. game.

Just a 5,500 mile jaunt in a bus.

It Did Happen Here

Reams have been written about the old Southwest conference jinx—that champions never repeat.

Well, it's all a big fib.

The very same Texas Aggies who are attempting to do it right now did it once before—in sort of a lefthanded manner. The Aggies won the title in 1917, went to war with the rest of the teams in 1918, and came back in 1919 at resumption of football to win it again.

Which, of course, adds up to two consecutive titles.

Off the notions counter: Joe Routt, the All-America guard from Texas A. & M. in 1937 and '38, drops all prejudice and bluntly picks the Aggies to repeat as champions . . . "I watched 'em scrimmage; they're so big and rough, they scare me." The rookie who twirled Detroit into the World Series the other day, Floyd Geibell, won six and lost six for Beaumont in the Texas league last season . . . Remember him now?

Rice Great Dead

Tragic death has removed an immortal in Southwest athletic history . . . A little item in the papers a few days ago told of the passing of Claude Bracey in Arizona . . . Back in 1928 he was one of America's most brilliant sprinters, the first man to bring Rice institute athletic fame . . . Many duels he had with Texas Christian's Cy Leland . . . Most of them he won; went on to make the U. S. Olympic team.

Meet The Missus

MRS. WALKER NICHOLS — That's been her name hardly long enough for her to realize it, and she's still "Tinkle" to most of the guys and gals of the town. She was Miss Lena Belle Brown until June 9 of this year when she became the bride of Walker Nichols, one of the most illustrious and popular gridiron players and captains Texas Tech ever had, now line coach of the championship Lubbock High Westerners and one of the main sparks in Lubbock's march to the 1939 title. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brown of Megargel, Lena Belle was graduated from Lubbock High school, and from Texas Tech. She was president of the Sans Souci social club her senior year. For the last three years she has taught at K. Carter school here. Now her big job is to keep Coach Nick inspired long enough to keep the Westerners inspired.

Enid Semi-Pros Win World Championship

SAN JUAN, P. R., Oct. 2 (U.P.)— The Enid, Okla., world's semi-pro baseball champions, sail for home tomorrow.

The Oklahomans won the title yesterday by defeating Guayama, Puerto Rican champions, 7-5, in the seventh game of their series. Enid pitcher Millstead won the game with a two-run single in the ninth.

I picked the Reds in six games but I'm not so sure after seeing Greenberg in that extra practice session. If he isn't satisfied with himself, and intends to increase the tempo of his havoc, then heaven help the Derringers, Walters, and the rest.

Pressure For War Loans To Great Britain Expected To Increase

Future Action Now Possible

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—Notable characteristics of the movement to relax prohibitions against loans to Great Britain suggested today that the idea may persist beyond the election.

Practically all responsible officials deprecated the idea in one way or another but did not foreclose the possibility of future action.

It was noted here that there is some similarity between current discussion of loans for Great Britain and the early history of peace time conscription legislation. Conscription was sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., a lameduck legislator defeated in the 1940 primary. The Senate bill to modify the Johnson act to permit loans to Great Britain also is sponsored by a 1940 primary election casualty, Sen. William H. King, D., Utah.

The administration made no move to boost the conscription bill until considerable sentiment had developed behind it, but Sen. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., was a vigorous and persistent advocate of a peace time draft.

In the matter of conscription, the transfer of 50 American destroyers to Great Britain and other hotly-debated short-of-war aid to the British, Pepper has appeared occasionally to be the administration leadoff man in engagements which could be permitted to develop at some length before the president or the state department had to commit themselves.

Pepper Jumps Into Battle

Pepper has jumped into the British loan battle. He told the Senate yesterday that Japan, Germany and Italy have "misjudged the character of the American people" if they expect this country to discontinue aid to Britain as a result of their new military alliance.

President Roosevelt refused at his press conference to take sides, remarking merely that he had not made any recommendations regarding relaxation of loan prohibitions and did not intend to do so. Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley said the King bill would not come up at this session. Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, R., Calif., author of the act, did not believe King had been acting for the administration, but apparently felt the issue would be pressed later.

Pressure To Develop

That pressure is expected to develop as British credits here are exhausted — a situation which is not imminent. But British representatives who came here last winter freely told questioners that they would have to have American loans when their own funds were exhausted sometime in 1941. British assets in the United States convertible into cash to pay for airplanes and other war purchases here were estimated to aggregate approximately $2,560,000,000 as of June 30, 1940.

The Johnson act forbids any individual to make loans to a nation in default on its debts to the government of the United States. The spirit but not necessarily the letter of existing statutes also would forbid the United States government to make such a loan. The British defaulted debt is approximately $5,300,000,000.

Irvin Cobb Refuses To Take Chance On Barber Shop Debate

(By The Associated Press)

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., Oct. 2—The boys around Casparis' barber shop slapped their thighs and bragged on Tom Martin today.

Tom is a champion yarn spinner and folks around the sage brush country kind of like the way he gets back at thees smart alecks from the cities.

Would Be Right Nice

Well, sir, the boys thought it would be right nice if they could get that feller, Irvin S. Cobb, to debate politics with Tom. This Cobb has been going around these parts beating the bushes for Wendell L. Willkie, lately. Kicked up a mite of dust, too.

So when Myron Blalock, who is range boss of Texas Democrats declined to debate Mister Cobb, they said right off: "Why, Tom Martin is the Democrat for that job."

And before Christmas, which is Tom's hound dog, could yarn once they had the whole shebang arranged right here in Casparis' barber shop.

Taking No Chance

Only trouble was, something must have happened to Mister Cobb, who is something of a yarn spinner himself. Because Cobb wired:

"I'm scared of a barber shop philosopher in a small town. He has sharpened his wits against the greatest minds in his town and I'm not taking a chance."

Tom, he didn't have much to except:

"Mister Cobb writes highbrow cocktail recipes for Republicans, and us folks out here in Blanco county had druther have white mule likker out of a fruit jar."

But you could tell the way Christmas sort of grinned, like a hound dog does sometimes, that everybody was mighty proud of Tom for bluffing that big feller the way he did.

Swine Judging Goes Forward

First announcement of winners in two swine divisions at the Panhandle-South Plains fair was made late Tuesday by superintendents, including the Duroc-Jersey and Chester White awards.

Judging began this morning for Hampshire and Spotted Poland China swine, with the regular Poland China judging scheduled for Thursday.

Mowery Is Judge

Tierra Blanca Wins

Tierra Blanca won the male title and Lillard the female title in the Duroc classes and Miller Brothers won both honors in the Chester White classes.

Before starting work in the swine barn, Judge Mowery introduced to the large crowd on hand, the show officials and exhibitors who were present. R. E. Prewitt of Quemado, secretary of the Panhandle Swine Breeders association, was among those presented.

HOUSTON, Oct. 2—(U.P.)—Heavy work for the next two days will wind up Rice football training for the first game of the season here with Centenary college Saturday night.

Coach Jess Neely indicated today that the Rice squad would continue secretly polishing up an offense, as well as to perfect blocking assignments.

Four thousand bricks were given by W. D. Green and 100 by Elder Liff Sanders of the Church of Christ, this morning to send the "Give a Brick" campaign total to 44,902, still less than one-fifth of the amount needed for completion of the West Texas museum building.

Modern Living

tor, Dr. King said, as over-eating frequently results in high blood pressure and high blood pressure puts a strain on the heart.

Also, Dr. King said, a person who spends much of his time worrying will not live as long as a person who takes things easy. Geographical environment plays a part in heart disease, Dr. King said. Inflammatory rheumatism is one of the chief causes of heart disease in New England, but in the mid-west and south this cause is practically non-existant.

Occupation has little to do with heart disease, Dr. King said, but race is a factor. For instance, he said, that negroes seldom have angina pectoris.

One of the smallest big game fish on record was an eight pound swordfish caught near Havana.

Italian "Push" Not Indicated

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE BRITISH TROOPS IN EGYPT, Oct. 2—On a 120-mile trip along the British front in Egypt I have seen no indications that a big Italian "push" is imminent—but the threat of the white man's war already is driving the children of the desert from their homes.

With their flocks and wives, the proud Bedouin tribesmen have begun an exodus to safe regions, just as the people of Belgium and northern France fled before the onrush of Adolf Hitler's armored legions.

Long camel caravans plod eastward with the possessions of the desert dwellers and the squalid mud hut villages fringing scattered oases are rapidly being deserted.

Impetus to the exodus was given by the Egyptian government which sent troops to warn the desert people of their danger, but they left their homes reluctantly.

One sheik, whose four veiled wives and 17 children were crowded into a truck, complained loudly of the inconvenience—"especially to a man with a household like mine."

The Italians appear to be consolidating their positions on the strip of wasteland they occupied two weeks ago before any attempt to drive deeper into Egypt.

The British declare they are ready to repulse any such attempt, when it comes, and say they will fight the battle on lines of their own choosing.

Principal Italian outposts in Egypt are Sidi Barrani, on the Mediterranean coast, and Bir Sofafi, an inland oasis near the Libyan frontier.

Separating the Italian outposts and the British line is a barren no-man's-land, scores of miles wide at some points.

Innumerable problems confront the Italians. Their chief difficulty is in transporting troops and supplies in a region almost devoid of adequate transportation arteries.

The British have an advantage in this respect. They have good roads and a railway from Alexandria to the region of their lines.

Landon Rather Fight FDR Than Willkie

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 2 (AP) — Alf M. Landon, the Republican party's presidential nominee in 1936, said last night that if he were Hitler, he would rather wage war against President Roosevelt than Wendell Willkie.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a central Nebraska Republican rally, Landon predicted that "we will find a difference as great as the poles" between the president and the Republican presidential nominee" in the handling of foreign affairs during the crucial years ahead of us.

"Mr. Willkie will take the United States no farther in Europe's and Asia's conflicting and uncertain policies than his measured judgment believes the interests of the United States make imperative.

"In contrast the president, as a spectacular, mercurial glamor boy, will confuse the interests of the United States in the interest of the other countries, in his desire to play a new spectacular figure in world history."

Special Honors For Members Of Cast

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says when you come out flat-footed for or against something, you've gotta expect to get your toes trampled on.

* * *

"Women who are deserted by their husbands are invariably of the uncompromising, domineering type," declares a sociologist.

Um-hum. In other words, they're invariably women!

A NUMBER of people who read The Plainsman's comments from Washington and New York to the effect that at present, at least, Wendell Willkie is running a poor second to Franklin Roosevelt, have asked, upon our return, if we think there's much chance of the situation changing between now and election day.

Frankly, we don't think there's much chance of a change.

Doctor Gallup and his poll to the contrary notwithstanding, if there's much of a change between now and November 5, that change is likely to be on the Roosevelt, rather than on the Willkie side.

* * *

About the only hope Mr. Willkie can possibly have at this period of the campaign is that something will happen to Adolf Hitler a couple of weeks before America trudges to the polls.

For while Franklin Roosevelt hates Adolf Hitler, as most of us do, it is a fact that Adolf Hitler is Franklin Roosevelt's No. 1 political aide.

This is true because the nation knows the President hates Hitler and would like to see him boiled in oil—which fits right into the ideas of a majority of our people.

And it is also true because as long as Hitler threatens to dominate Europe, then South America and Mexico and then give us some trouble here at home, just that long will the American people hesitate to place an unknown and untried man in the White House.

IF you have been reading reports of the campaign being staged for the Democratic ticket by dreamy Henry Wallace, FDR's vice-presidential running-mate, you've noticed that Mr. Wallace is fighting Hitler more bitterly than he is fighting the Willkie-McNary team.

"It's Roosevelt or Hitler," Bro Wallace is telling the folks in so many words. "Which shall it be?"

And the argument, however shallow to a thoughtful citizen, is getting over in a great big way.

* * *

While in Washington, The Plainsman sat at luncheon in the Senate restaurant with two senators and three representatives—every one a Democrat and every one supporting the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket, though we have a hunch that several of them are none too happy over it.

Talk, of course, drifted to the political campaign and to Wallace's then current speaking tour in the Midwest.

"Well," remarked one who is always a Roosevelt rubber stamp, with his tongue in his cheek, "it looks like it's going to be Roosevelt, first; Hitler, second, and Willkie, third."

"Yeah," cracked another, "good old Hitler. I don't know what we'd do without him. He's manna from heaven in this campaign!"

OF course, these fellows were joking, but, as we all know, many a truth is spoken in jest.

If Hitler were to die today, if his Nazi machine were to crumble and the war be over, Wendell Willkie would have a much better chance of election than he has now.

Even then his chance wouldn't be over 50-50, if that good.

* * *

Another reason we say there's more likelihood of a last minute change favoring Roosevelt is because any crisis, either real or imaginary, which pops up before election day will add strength to the President's following rather than detract from it. And there are those close to the scene of action who anticipate a crisis just before voting day.

They believe if a simon pure crisis is lacking, the New Deal administration, if not the President, himself, will whip up a phony crisis.

They point out that a jittery nation will "stand hitched" in favor of not changing horses, etc., which, of course, would be water on the New Deal wheel. And politics being politics, the President and his aides are seeking all the breaks they can get—or make.

Whether there will be a pre-election day crisis, either real or imaginary, The Plainsman doesn't pretend to know.

But that's the thought bobbing around in the East, and you might file the idea for future reference.

Wise Man on Avenue Q says an optimist is one who remembers when a man who wouldn't strike matches on the seat of his trousers was a sissy.

* * *

Someone mailed in an unidentified clipping bearing this verse:

"If a feller's been a-straddle
Since he's big enough to ride,
And has had to sling his saddle
On most any colored hide—
Though it's nothin' they take pride in,
Still most fellers I have knowed,
If they ever done much ridin'
Has at different times been throwed!"

We like that. Don't you?

NO authority on the subject, The Plainsman cannot say whether or not the United States is preparing its defenses as rapidly as it should or as rapidly as it must to make for the nation's future safety.

According to all reports, unbiased and otherwise, politics and government red tape have badly hampered the program and we have many more planes, guns, ships and other materiels of war "on order," than we have on hand.

But we do know that smoke is belching from factories all over the East and the Midwest and that in the industrial sections, America is busy.

The Plainsman left New York about 1 o'clock in the morning but, a poor Pullman sleeper, he was wide awake and up and about when the train pulled into Pittsburgh about seven hours later.

En route to Chicago via the Pennsylvania lines, we sat until 5 p. m., watching the great steel valley" unfold in town after town. And our eyes bulged as we saw along the way the unmistakable signs of activity in the "heavy industries," mostly steel plants.

All day long it was the same picture—in Alliance, in Wooster, in Lima, in Fort Wayne and in Gary—with men at work.

As the train pulled slowly in and out of the cities we had ample opportunity to note that parking areas adjacent to the scores of factories and foundries were literally stacked with automobiles of the workers hidden from view, inside the great plants.

Tall smokestacks sent smudgy trails across blue skies. Streets were running full with traffic. Towns were busy.

We had noticed a similar state of affairs in the industrial areas of New Jersey between Philadelphia and terming Jersey City. So while we can't testify as to the effieiency of the defense program, we can testify that a lot of people are busy making a lot of things — mostly things of steel.

Was that a bugle call that just sounded?

The young men of the nation are faced with quite a problem.

They have to decide whether it's better to enlist and be kicked and bossed around by corporals and sergeants, or marry and be cuffed and cussed by a wife and her Kinfolks!

HERE AND THERE: Most unimpressive city of its size and importance in the land is Kansas City, once a great mecca for West Texas common. For many years a "wide open" town rivaling such rip-roaring cities as San Francisco, New Orleans, Las Vegas, and Reno, Kansas City is now as quiet as an old house cat. . . Break up of the Pendergast political machine put the quietus on organized commercialized vice and gambling and there's quite a bit of squawking that the change has hurt business no end. . . Chicago, second city in the land but only a small imitation of New York in the final analysis, is inordinately proud of the fact that it is building a subway. . . If The Plainsman were dictator, one of the first things he'd demand would be that Chicago's dirty, smoky buildings be washed and washed good. . . Prettiest city in the land—and now that Vienna has lost its old charm the prettiest capital in the world — is Washington, D. C. . . Worth of its public buildings, alone, must be in the neighborhood of 50 billions of dollars. . . The push-carts on New York's lower East Side—those picturesque, wheeled markets so astounding to tourists in the slum areas—are all but gone since Mayor Fiorello "Little Flower" LaGuardia put the bee on Uncle Sam's for the dough to put up a big municipal market. . . There's only one midtown street car line running as far as Broadway and 42nd street in New York now and completion of the new Sixth avenue subway likely will sound its death knell, along with that of the Third and Ninth avenue elevated. . . Better hurry here on earth, but bringing forth if you want to see Gotham like it looked so many years!

Chapter 33

Inspection

"Is that any way to talk to your sister?" Peter Taylor demanded.

"You bet it is," Don said hotly. "Connie thinks she's the whole show. She doesn't care about anyone but herself; you ought to know that. Look at her, just a gold digger, using her looks. She gets money to run this place out of John by promising to marry him, and then she vamps you, Pedro, so you'll help her succeed with the place. Get next to yourself; don't let her make a damn' fool out of you like she has out of John."

Constance heard a thud. Pedro had shot across the room with a single stride, and with the impact of his fist on Don's chin. Don went down.

Peter Taylor straightened and nodded. "Right," he agreed.

"No man" stuted Pedro grimly, "talks to any woman like that in this house."

Don was getting up from the floor, holding his jaw. "I'll get you for this, Taylor. And you lay off Donna; we wouldn't have a damned cow-hand in our family for love or money."

Pedro smiled at Don. "You needn't worry," he said. "I wouldn't be in a family like yours for love or money."

Constance stood, stricken numb with shock. She only half saw Peter Taylor drag himself up from his chair, limp to his son and strike him full across the mouth.

Pedro, offering no defense, looked at his father, then bowed slightly to Constance. "I beg your pardon," he said stiffly. "I wasn't thinking of you when I spoke." And the area about his mouth livid, he left the room.

Don started out, came back to stand before Constance, then with a muffled word of fury left. Peter Taylor sat down heavily, and still Constance stood, silent.

She wanted to tell Peter Taylor that her brother hadn't told the truth. She wanted to tell them she hadn't "vamped" Pedro and played upon his own kindness for help. She wanted to tell him that her loan from John Raskthorne was a business loan upon which she was paying full interest.

She couldn't. The source of reasoning was paralyzed. She couldn't form words and phrases. Slowly she started out of the room. "Forgive me for the trouble I've brought you," she murmured.

Heat came in on the north coast that day. Constance, wandering aimlessly, wanting only to be away from people, stopped near the site of the fire. The alfalfa, too green to burn, had been scorched. The soy bean vines stood wilted.

And Pedro left El Cabrillo that day.

Meg brought the news to Constance who had asked that her meals be served in her office. She didn't want to sit with her family. John would join her at breakfast, and they would have an occasional luncheon together.

"Don't be anti-social," John had pleaded with her. And he had said, 'I don't blame Don for his feeling towards young Taylor. If you don't do something, for the sake of the rest of the family and my investments, I'm going to see that he leaves the place."

"You won't have to," Meg had snapped from the doorway. "He's too foine to be stayin' aroun' the likes of the folks here, Michael excepted. He's gone. Packed his bags and gone, and ould Peter's heart is like to break wide open."

"And will you tell me what's happened?" demanded Meg.

Constance laughed, a short, harsh laugh. "To much, Meg. For one thing, I picked up a live wire and I can't go, even though it kills me."

"If you can't talk to me, put that tray o' trash aside and come up to the house. I'll feed you victuals to warm your cheeks, and mayhaps you can get ould Peter to eat."

'One Question'

Peter Taylor wouldn't seat alone. Constance didn't know what Meg said to entice him in to eat with her, but she did and urged her on. "We can't let Meg down on us," he warned. "Some day we might come in hungry, and she'd be that mad that she wouldn't feed us."

They sat in the patio later, watching twilight bring relief to El Cabrillo; the soft film of fog, tinted with sunset, steal in over the sea.

"I'll ask you one question only," Taylor said. "Did you promise to marry this Raskthorne man if he lent you the money you needed?"

Constance smiled wanly. "No, Peter Taylor, I didn't. I'll show you my contract. I did borrow on his belief in me, but I gave him security in the written promise to let him sell El Cabrillo if I failed. I am paying interest on the money I borrowed. And—"

"That's enough," warned Taylor heartily, and added, "The young jackass."

The days grew longer and hotter, then shorter and still hotter, as though the heat must be compressed into given hours.

With the absence of Pedro, the ranch personnel grew restless. Pederson had no control over the old hands. Peter Taylor confessed he'd relaxed the reins to Pedro six years before—"because they'd work for him better," and he could do little.

The new men grew sullen under the open contempt of the old ones. And one night there was a brawl and Pedersen's best dairyman was rushed to Beachport, stabbed in the back. The other men left in fear of their lives.

Itinerant help, called in, came warily, demanding top pay, for El Cabrillo Rancho was gathering an unsavory reputation.

And as though the unrest were

OUR BAD TRAFFIC RECORD

The fact that Lubbock's traffic fatality record during the first eight months of 1940 places it 29th among Texas cities of 10,000 or more population is ample evidence of the existence here of a problem about which something should be done.

The record, as compiled by the state Department of Public Safety, lists only 13 cities with records worst than Lubbock.

Those with better records are Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Austin, Amarillo, Tyler, San Angelo, Laredo, Port Arthur, Brownsville, Denison, Corsicana, University Park, Longview, Pampa, Bryan, Denton, Sweetwater, Paris, Sherman, Brownwood, Del Rio, Big Spring, Victoria and Cleburne. The geography of some of those cities is much worse than that of Lubbock as a traffic hazard.

The first step in Lubbock's attempt to improve its record is to discover the conditions that have contributed to the unfavorable showing. The next step, obviously, is to correct them. Meanwhile, more care on the part of motorists taken as a whole cannot do other than bring about improvements.

Strike Settlement Reopens Longshoremen's Dispute

Bridges' Grip On West Coast Threatened

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 — Recent settlement of that west coast longshoremen's strike was and still is a far bigger story than any but a few insiders have realized.

Catton

In effect, it means that one of the National Labor Relations Board's most hotly disputed decisions is being reopened; ultimately, it could result in a serious setback for the west coast labor leader, Harry Bridges.

Just incidentally, it also means that whoever is named by the President to succeed J. Warren Madden as third man on the labor board will be stepping into one of the hottest seats in the government.

Here are the elements that make the situation so important:

Strike Itself Short-Lived

The strike itself lasted from Aug 30 to Sept. 13, and involved 800-odd members of the International Longshoremen's Association at the ports of Tacoma, Port Angeles and Anacortes, Wash. This union is the A. F. of L. outfit headed by Joseph Ryan; strong on the east coast, it has been badly overshadowed in the west by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, Harry Bridges' C. I. O. union.

Big stone in Ryan's craw for two years has been a labor board ruling handed down in June, 1938, which made the entire west coast waterfront one bargaining unit; Bridges' union is in a majority on the coast as a whole, and hence was certified as the bargaining agent for all west coast longshoremen.

It was this ruling Ryan's men were really hitting at in their recent strike. The Ryan union was the majority union in the strike-hit cities, and demanded that in those cities it be allowed to bargain for its own men.

Hillman Took A Hand

Relatively a minor affair, the strike drew national attention because it tied up a number of important defense shipments — steel for a Tacoma shipyard, lumber for an Alaskan airbase, various consignments for the Bremerton navy yard, chemicals for a powder factory, and so on.

For that reason, the government made strenuous efforts to get a settlement. In the end it succeeded, after Defense Commissioner Sidney Hillman had personally appealed to Ryan. But the key point of the settlement was the understanding that Ryan's union might file representation petitions with Elwin Egan, labor board regional director for the northwest.

Technically, that was purely a routine step. Actually, it means that the board can hardly escape passing on the whole vexing question of west coast longshoremen's representation all over again. The consequences of that could easily be profound.

For instance: if, in the end, the board should reverse its earlier ruling and declare each port a separate bargaining unit, Bridges' power would be greatly curtailed.

Headache For NLRB Appointee

Right now the labor board is a two-man affair due to the President's delay in appointing a successor to Madden. It is taken for granted that the two present members — Edwin S. Smith and Dr. William N. Leiserson — would be very unlikely to agree on this west coast ruling, since they have been on opposite sides of the fence, consistently, ever since Dr. Leiserson came on the board.

In substance, then, that means that whoever gets Madden's seat will be called on to settle the whole question. He'll create enemies no matter which way he decides.

Memory Of The Moon

a poison gas, the milk total dropped gradually. Cows were isolated and studied, because it seemed something more than a change of custodians was responsible for the decrease.

Mrs. Pedersen met Constance one day as she grought a fresh crew from Beachport. "It's what I tried to explain to you in San Francisco," the sandy-haired woman said. "It sounds foolish, but harmony is contagious and so is lack of harmony, and even the stupid bovine has that seventh sense like an antenna that picks things out of the air."

Constance spent more and more time with Peter Taylor, trying to make up in a measure for the absence of his son.

Sometimes it seemed to her that the only pleasant parts of the summer were the spasmodic absences of the family and John. John was joining them in their visits to neighboring ranches; to the south, and to Lake Tahoe.

"There's nothing I can do around here, Chita," he explained the first time, "and I can't just follow you around. It isn't normal."

Constance couldn't suggest that he return east.

"Three years of shadowing would be too much to expect of anyone," she conceded.

"If more than one is necessary," John quickly countered.

Treachery

She knew what he meant. That summer had been costly. She didn't see how she could pull through another year like this. She could only hope the family would demand a change of scenery and perhaps, if they left, some sort of discipline could be enforced, and next year's crops might be saved; Pedersen was speaking of a winter crop . . . if he could find the necessary man-power.

The family was home when the final blow struck. They'd been home a week, restless, irritable, even John was out of sorts.

"I have to get away from them," Constance thought, but delayed going until she had completed her office work.

When she went out to saddle Pancho, the horse was gone, and the stable boy, one of a few who had remained loyal to Constance, was near tears.

"Senor Don," he explained, "he would take him. He saddled him. I didn't, senorita." And he crossed himself to prove his honesty. "I didn't."

Constance felt too tired to be angry. She found a cool spot in the willows, settled in a crotch of high branches and tried to reason. Reason was difficult. It wouldn't surmount the lonely ache in her heart. Like Peter Taylor, she found life without Pedro a sequence of days without motive.

She heard a car drive in and peering through the leaves, saw the insignia on the door with only a faint shock. The county health officers inspected the ranch at regular intervals.

Scurrying down she met them. They were nice men, friendly, interested, and of late concerned over her venture.

"We'll start with the upper pasture and work down," suggested Doctor Wing.

Constance sat on a fence rail as they went through the procedure. The sun was less warm today, this first of September. In another month the leaves would be turning on the mountain tops; then snow.

She looked down on the pastures, and suddenly she stiffened and looked back at Doctor Wing and his assistants. There was a cow in the herd below which didn't belong there, didn't belong on El Cabrillo. She knew. She knew the markings of every single one of them.

"All right, Miss Cabrillo, shall we go on? Your Guernseys are down a little in weight but they'll probably pick up with the cool weather.

"Doctor Wing," Constance didn't know why she was troubled, "there's a cow in this next pasture which doesn't belong there. She doesn't belong to me at all. Will you test her first."

They heard the dry racking cough, as they crossed the stile and Constance saw the quick exchange of glances between the two men. Even before they ran a test they knew and she knew.

Small Boom On At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 2 (AP) — A Texas college town now becomes a military training center. Brownwood faces the pleasant prospect of a substantial population increase and the release for local trade of an $800,000 monthly payroll.

The war department selected the city as the site of a national guard training camp, and the government is spending about $5,000,000 for cantonment facilities for 27,000 men — most of them to be drawn from Texas.

Hundreds of workmen are busy at constructio non the 2,000 acre camp site a mile south of the city. A contract held by Robert E. McKee Con- construction on the 2,000 acre camp for completion by December 1 of 245 buildings and 4,500 wooden frames for five-man tents.

Assigned For Duty

Assigned thus far for training at Camp Brownwood are the 36th division, including Texas' national guard air unit, the 111th observation squadron, and the 113th cavalry of Iowa.

The municipal airport, at present used only by CAA student pilots from Daniel Baker and Howard Payne colleges, will be the home station of the 111th, which will be moved here from Houston. Barracks for the 146 men in the unit will be constructed at the airport.

The guardsmen will maneuver on a great tract of ranchland which extends from a few miles south of the city limits of Brownwood to the Colorado river in Mills county. More than 80,000 acres already have been leased for maneuvers, and artillery and infantry ranges.

Chile is spending $1,200,000 in equipping its farmers with modern farm machinery from the United States.

Steers, has suffered a cut under the right eye and may not be ready to risk further injury from the Lions' claw. He was taking it easy with McBrayer, who may be out at least until Oct. 25 when the Westerners open their District 1-AA title defense here against Borger.

Just so there won't be any misunderstanding, the boys are not crippling themselves up in scrimmage. They like it.

Proof of that was furnished when, after the first and second stringers had raced to the showers, Coach Cy LaMaster brought his Lubbock Cowhands over for a session with the so-called "third string" Westerners. And the head bumping evidenced minutes earlier in the regulars' workout was duplicated by the LaMaster eleven, which also is priming for a tough assignment.

O'Donnell invades the city Friday afternoon to take on the Cowhands and it should be a good game.

Admittance will be 15 and 25 cents, E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, business manager of athletics announced. Chapman Field will be the scene of the fray and 3:15 o'clock will be the time.

Myers May Be Just The Man Reds Need To Stop Tigers

BY JOHN FRYE
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2—This is just to bet that before the next four to seven games are gone, the Detroit Tigers are going to wish that the Cincinnati Reds' "All-American strike-out" was on their side.

The fellow who is wearing that affectionate tag is Billy Myers, the shortstop who ended the season with a resounding battle average of .201. He has been known to strike out five straight times over two games this year and the fans say that when he gets a hit it's time to take the pitcher out.

That is just what may happen. Bobo Newsom or Schoolboy Rowe is just likely to feed Billy Myers the ball that means a very important hit and Billy is going to get it.

Lee Allen, unofficial statistician for the Reds, points out that Billy is the first man in the history of the ball club to be a regular shortstop for six years.

That is to say, Billy has been in there a long time as shortstops go around here and knows what to do with a double-play ball—and is always due for a hit.

Christoff May Prove Prize Plum To Reds

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2- (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds saved $17,500 and may have got the prize plum in the annual baseball draft last night.

They chose Mike Christoff, outfielder for Oakland in the Pacific coast league, for whom they once offered $25,000 and two players. The bid was turned down when Mike was leading his loop in home runs early in the season.

Plans For Ladies Day Tourney Announced

"Something different" has been scheduled for the women at Wednesday's "ladies day" at Lubbock Country club.

Hostess for the occasion will be Mrs. T. B. Duggan, jr.

Women will play in twosomes, their scores counting in the current "ladder tournament," and at the same time compete in a "throw-out" tournament, the main event of the day. In this, each player tours the front nine, and "throws out" the worst hole of the round. From the remaining medal score, one-sixth of the player's handicap is subtracted, the remainder to constitute the score for the round, low score to determine the prize winner.

Mrs. Widener Shoots 39

Luncheon will be served at the clubhouse at noon to those who will have made reservations by 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The following pairings have been announced for ladder tournament competition:

Mesdames Charles Akey and Fenner Tubbs; Cliff Widener and C. L. Dean, K. L. Riggs and M. M. Brown, W. F. Eisenberg and Bob Crawford; W. L. Morrison and George Pierce, and W. F. Helwig and Miss Ruth Ford.

Mrs. Widener, playing the front nine, turned in the best women's score of the week, if not the season, yesterday when she fired a 39, one over women's par.

Cubs Attempt To Even Chicago Series Today

CHICAGO, Oct. 2 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox returned to Wrigley Field today for a look at the southpaw slants of Rookie Vern Olsen, who earned 13 victories for the Cubs in the National league campaign.

Manager Gabby Hartnett looked to Olsen to even the city series with the American leaguers who took the opener yesterday, 5 to 3, behind Ted Lyons' pitching and hitting.

The Sox pitching choice was Thornton Lee.

BEARS STILL SHAKY

WACO, Oct. 2—(U.P.)—The old pass defense bugaboo still was hanging around the Baylor Bears today.

A poor defense allowed the North Texas Teachers to whip through three touchdowns last week, and up to today's practice session the Bears still looked weak on that score.

England Facing Big Risk Also

BATH, England, Oct. 2 (U.P.)—One of England's prominent physicians today predicted the probability of a devastating pestilence on continental Europe this winter.

In a speech here, Dr. Joseph Barnes Burt, vice president of the physical medicine section of the Royal Society of Medicine, said that unless every law of medicine was broken a pestilence would break out shortly on the continent.

Risk Of Epidemic

"Fortunately we have the channel between us," he said, "but whether that will be sufficient to prevent a spread to England is another matter. With people herded together in dugouts without proper sanitation and people calling in on their friends, there will be great risk of an epidemic here."

Dr. Burt urged health authorities to act at once, regardless of expense, to prevent overcrowding in houses and shelters and in improving sanitation.

There have been widespread outbreaks of "shelter colds" in London already.

Task To Be Speeded

The appointment of Admiral Sir Edward Broke as "shelter dictator" for greater London was expected to speed up at once the task of providing shelters with adequate sleeping, heating, ventilating and sanitary facilities, in preparation for a winter of bombing.

Medical men believe that London faces a danger of influenza and pneumonia epidemics this winter unless real shelters are provided instead of draughty surface shelters.

One million shelter bunks have been ordered, and it was hoped that within a few weeks sleeping accommodations would have been provided for 3,000,000 of London's 9,000,000 people.

It was believed that big electric heaters, or coke burners which would heat water pipe systems, might help to solve the heating problem.

Brownfield Plays

Akers, 200 pound tackle, has returned to his varsity post, bringing the Red and White force to top strength. Akers was out of the Crane game with an infected hand.

Fans Make Trip

The game will mark the Cubs' final non-conference appearance next week getting down to the business of tackling District 5-A foes. Against Monahans the locals are prepared to strike either by air or by ground. Several deceptive pass plays have been added to the BHS repertoire with Warren, Jim Bryan and Gene Hill on the pitching end. Four of the Cubs' six touchdowns this year have come via aerials.

A host of Brownfield fans plans to accompany the fast-stepping Cubs to Monahans, including the high school band. The trip is being sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce.

BELL FEARS WILLIAMS

DALLAS, Oct. 2 (U.P.)—Look out for Welby Williams, the North Texas speed merchant, Coach Matty Bell warned his Southern Methodist Mustangs today.

In Constant Misery With Poor Digestion

. . . Until The Gly-Cas; Gas, Bloating and Attacks of Poor Digestion Are Now Memories; Dizzy Spells Have Also Been Relieved

"For thirty years before I learned of Gly-Cas I had been troubled with an upset stomach and poor digestion," said Mr. Joe Morgan, 1019-B S. Fillmore St., Amarillo, Texas.

MR. JOE MORGAN

"I not only was bothered continually with gas, bloating and indigestion attacks but heartburn and sour stomach. I would have such dizzy spells I could not walk sraight and often would spit up undigested foods immediately following my meals and my stomach was never without that rock-like feeling. Poor elimination seemed to be at the bottom of all my suffering but regardless of my efforts I could find nothing to help me. I was so discouraged until I finally began taking Gly-Cas."

"By the time I had finished the first half-box of Gly-Cas I knew I had found the medicine to fit my stubborn case," continued Mr. Morgan. "Now for the first time in years I can get three hearty meals each day without distress following. Now since my eliminations are regular my health problems seem to have been solved. Little had I realized how serious this condition could be. But now I am feeling fine and add my name to the thousands of other former sufferers who praise the wonderful merits of Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. adv.
