KNOX COUNTY PIONEER DIES LAST TUESDAY

Deceased Was Mother of Mrs. Jim Reeves

Death, last Tuesday morning at 2:35, claimed one of the outstanding pioneer women of Knox county, when Mrs. J. J. Perry passed away following a ten day illness, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Berry, of Ropesville, Texas.

A native of Mississippi, Miss Adleine Burton Stewart was born in Peneloa, County, March 6, 1860. She came to Texas with her parents when a small child and has resided in the state since except for a short period spent in New Mexico. She was 77 years, eight months and 24 days old.

Miss Stewart was married to J. J. Perry at Anson and to this union six children were born, five of whom survive. For the past year Mrs. Perry had lived with her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Reeves.

Services were conducted from the First Christian Church at Knox City with Rev. W. H. Albertson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Munday officiating. Judge Chas. Coombs, Stamford, delivered the obituary and in telling of the deceased pioneering of this section stated that she "pioneered for the pioneers." of Knox county. Prayer was offered by Rev. S. E. Stevenson.

Mrs. Perry was preceded in death by her husband, who passed away November 22, 1924 at Knox City, and a son, Michael, died some four years ago.

Survivors are Mrs. J. E. Reeves of this city; Mrs. Lillian Little, Fort Worth; Miss Dorothy Perry, Washington, D.C.; Mrs. J. W. Berry, Ropesville, Texas; and Charles Stewart Perry of Abilene.

CHURCH OF CHRIST REVIVAL STARTED

Members of the Church of Christ congregation of this city are now hearing a series of messages by Minister Fred Kirbo, evangelist, of Wilson, Oklahoma.

The series of bibical lectures and sermons are being conducted at the Presbyterian church building each night beginning at 7:15 p.m.

The evangelist has had wide experience in his field of religious work, having conducted campaigns in several states for the Church of Christ denomination. Subjects of vital importance to both saint and sinner will be discussed each night, Kirbo said.

He urges the people to come out and reason on the scriptures with him. No collections will be made, the minister announced.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wright and son of Mentone, Texas, and Mrs. Leon Reagan and little daughter of Spur, Texas, B. T. Webb and family of Knox City all spent Thanksgiving with their mother, Mrs. Etta Webb of this city.

Fred Kirbo, above, Church of Christ evangelist, from Wilson, Oklahoma, is conducting a series of sermons in the Presbytrian church nightly.

TWO BUCKS FELLED BY ONE SHOT!

W. L. Barber Pulls Freak Shot During Hunt

W. L. Barber, local man, came home with a "deer story" that will top most of the "fish stories" always being passed around during the game seasons.

While visiting in his mother's home recently, Barber went deer hunting and pulled a freak shot that brought down two bucks. Finding an eight point buck lying down, Barber shot, the bullet striking the buck in the head and careened off and broke the leg of another buck standing about three or four yards from the prostrate buck. Result, two fine animals in one shot. Barber is having the head of the eight pointer mounted.

Mr. and Mrs. Barber and family were visiting his mother, Mrs. M. I. Barber, during the trip. Naturally, the trip was successful from every angle.

BULLETIN

Fear of a spread of meningitis among city children was dispelled this week when it was disclosed that the case reported in the east section of the city was definitely not a contageous type.

The small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson is afflicted with the dread disease. A specimen of the germ sent to Wichita Falls by the attending physician proved beyond all doubt that fear of an epidemic was unfounded.

County Highway Project Finished

Sixteen highway projects completed during October included one Knox County improvement, according to announcement from the state highway department.

Included in the completed improvements on the state highway system were 20 miles of concrete pavement, 32 miles of asphalt surfacing. 36 miles of road grading, 25 miles of other road improve-

Six and two tenth miles of asphalt surfacing from Benjamin to two miles north past the Wichita River was the local county project.

Gray Fox Killed On Smith Farm Near Munday

The famous Knox Prairie for a short period last week end became a miniature "Kentucky" when a gray fox was killed on the C. N. Smith farm three miles southeast of here.

Cotton pickers noticed the animal in a tree and went to the Smith residence to get a gun to kill it with, and upon returning with the animal asked what it was, as none of them had ever seen one like it before.

Smith said it was a fairly large fox and was the first one he had heard of in the section.

Knox Supervisor Of FSA Is Given County FDA Work

Direction of farm debt adjustment work is now in the hands of the local staff of the Farm Security Administration, in place of an itinerant supervisor who visited the county once a month, it was announctd by R. E. Skipworth, county supervisor. He will handle the work jointly with the volunteer debt adjustment committee of the county.

Farmers who need help with their debts, whether they are to borrow from the Farm Security Administration or not, are eligible for this help, the supervisor said, make application for this service. The committee will function as it has in the past, and farmers may contact these committeemen at any time but are particularly invited to attend the monthly meeting held in Knox county in Benjamin, at the courthouse, 11-29-37, at 3:30 p.m.

A small group of FDA specialists has been retained by the regional office for advisory work, and will spend a week at a time in each district to help with actute cases, and with cases involving a great amount of technical assistance. This service is also available to farm creditors who believe an arbitrator can help clear up delinquent indebtedness.

This group was set up by an order of the President for the purpose of bringing financial advice to farm debtors and creditors, in an effort to help avoid so many foreclosures. "We are no mor interested in helping the farmers who are in distress than we are the farm creditor," the supervisor explained. "This is not a movement to help farmers avoid honest debts, but an effort to help sincere farmers and creditors work out new terms whereby the farmer will not lose his working capital and yet satisfy the creditor. This help does not cost either party anything."

Theater Tickets Are Given Again

LOCAL BUSINESS FIRMS PREPARING FOR BIG HOLIDAY

Christmas Buying to Get Under Way Next Week

LARGE STOCKS IN MUNDAY STORES

Yuletide Decorations Going Up Each Day Here

Munday is launching its Christmas buying campaign this week, as a glance at the advertisements in this weeks issue of the Times will indicate. Local merchants have a large volume of Christmas merchandise. in the various styles, colors and designs, and are urging the people of this trade territory to do their Christmas shopping early to avoid the usual final holiday buying rush.

Chief among the reasons that the business firms of Munday are making this plea is the fact that past experinece has taught the business men and women of this city that late shopping is a great disadvantage to the purchaser—and it is the desire of Munday's business houses that each buyer shop local stores with the utmost satisfaction.

To the early shopper goes the privilege of having larger selections of Christmas goods which will in turn give him the satisfaction of making more suitable gift selections, thus a merrier Christmas for all concerned.

Christmas Lighting Soon

The city proper will take on a brighter aspect in reference to the holiday spirit and motif with turning on of the street lights sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Several homes will probably be decorated with some special Christmas lighting and holiday appointments and the social clubs of the city are preparing for the gayest season of the year.

The holiday spirit will be climaxed by the big Chamber of Commerce Christmas party for the kiddies of this trade area, the date of which has not been set.

Local merchants are offering one of the best arrays of merchandise stocked here in recent years and several large firms have made attractive inducements for patrons in this trade territory to do their shopping here.

All in all, it looks like the biggest Christmas for Munday and its immediate vicinity in recent years.

C. of C. Meets Next Week

The Munday Chamber of Commerce will meet next Thursday at the Terry Hotel in regular meeting, it was announced by Mrs. Louise Ingram, secretary of the rganization.

Members are requested to be present, as much business concerning the Christmas party and decorations will be discussed.

School Board Will Secure Football Coach in '38

TO BUY NEW EQUIPMENT

Lions Club Is Behind Movement For Lighting

Athletics in the Munday High School are expected to boom next year the result of action taken by the board of trustees of the local school system.

Taking action at request of the Munday Lions Club, who are working on the possibility of lighting the local grid field, the trustees met Wednesday morning and approved a new program for improvement of the school athletics.

The board will name a new coach for next year relieving Howard Cobb, who was forced to work in that capacity this season. New equipment, needed badly, will be purchased and school heads were instructed to push the new athletic program.

The Lions Club will assist in the movement and expect to have some definite plan to forward the school board to finance lighting of the local playing field for next season. If the field is lighted, it will be on a self-paying basis and will not be installed at expense of the school money.

Lion J. H. Bass, superintendent of schools, reported the school board's action at the special meeting, at the regular luncheon Wednesday noon at the Eiland Hotel.

The club also discused at length the beautification project, and that work is shaping up fast. E. W. Harrell was introduced as a new member of the club.

Farm Committee To Be Elected At Meet Saturday

Farmers of the Munday area will elect two committeemen here Saturday in a called meeting at the City Hall at 4:00 p.m.

The two men elected will administer the 1938 farm program for this area, and should Congress pass legislation for a controlled farm program for 1938 the committeemen will have a tremendous job ahead of them, County Agent W. W. Rice stated.

The meeting was scheduled for Saturday afternoon in the hopes that the large crowd of farmers usually in the city could conveniently attend without making a special trip. Other business will be discussed during the session.

Other elections in the county will be held at the following places:

Monday Night, December 6—Rhineland, at the community hall.

Tuesday night, December 7—Truscott, at the school building.

Wednesday night, December 8—Gilliland at the school house.

Thursday night, December 9—Sunset, at the school auditorium.

Friday night, December 10—Goree, place not named yet.

Following election of the committeemen of each district they will all meet in Benjamin, at the courthouse, Saturday, December 11, for the purpose of electing three men from their group to act as county committeemen.

Payments Under 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program Are Expected To Begin Within Next Week in State

Most of Payments To Be Made By February

The Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee expects payments under the 1997 Agricultural Conservation Program to start shortly after the first of December, according to Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the group.

The committee, in the course of its monthly meetings as Texas A. & M. College, indicated that most of the payments would be made in December, January and February.

"The State AAA office here at College Station is equipped to check aplications and pass them on to the General Accounting Office at the rate of some 3,000 a day," Slaughter said. "This means that the limiting factor in paying farmers and ranchmen is the number of applications which we receive from the counties.'

No payments can be made to any county until it has sent in at least 75 per cent of its total applications, according to Slaughter. This minimum has been set as the lowest figure from which the county exgram can be calculated. The county penses of administering the proexpenses are deducted from the payments.

The committee took steps to urge counties to send in their applications for payments as soon as possible. Meanwhile the committee pointed out that farmers had until December 31 to earn payments under the 1937 program by sowing soil building crops, especially winter legumes, and by carrying out other conservation payments.

"Texas farmers earned only about four and a half million dollars in payments out of the more than six million dollars allotted to the State under the 1936 program," Slaughter said.

Barton Carl, of the Carl Dry Goods Company of Goree, was a business visitor in the city Monday.

A Winter Danger

With the approach of winter it is timely to again remind motorists of the danger to which they may be subjected on account of the deadly gas, carbon monoxide, produced by burning gasoline and ordinarily carried into the air by the exhaust pipe.

This danger is greatest when the motor is permitted to run while the car is parked in a garage, but the lethal gas may also enter the body of the car from a leaky manifold or pipe.

Carbon monoxide is odorless, colorless and tasteless, yet its rapid effect o n the lungs and heart may produce death in a few seconds or minutes, according to the amount inhaled. Symptoms of this poisoning in the order in which they appear are headache, weakness, dizziness, reddening of the skin, weakened eyesight, nausea, labored breathing, heart irregularity, collapse—death.

These symptoms develop so rapidly that a person is often overcome before he realizes what is happening, and then escape unaided is impossible. Number of motorists who die from carbon monoxide is relatively small, compared with those who meet death through other accidents, but the danger is nevertheless real, and should be kept in mind.

Your Money's Worth

During the coming year which is a political year, the voting public, familiarly known as "the dear peepul" will be befriended in a big way by all seeking office. The voters will be consoled, condoned, and fawned upon most liberally. Every opposing politician in the woodpile and half the folks in foreign parts will be damrascals and scalawags, but the deer peepul will be the salt of the earth throughout the campaigns.

The initiation fee into this great fraternity of the masses is insignificant in comparison with the emoluments of membership, which is another way of simply saying something we will probably say to you every week until January 31st—PAY YOUR POLL TAX THIS YEAR!

The Signal Lights of Life

"It was well you stopped when the red light flashed,"
She said as we drove along,
"For an officer stood on the corner there.
In charge of the traffic throng."
And I smiled and said to my daughter fair,
As we waited on the spot,
"I always stop when the red light shows,
Be an officer there or not."
Then she sat in thought as we drove along
And suddenly this she said,
"There ought to be lights for us all through life—
The amber and green, and red.
What help 'twould be if a red light flashed
When danger and shame were near,
And we all might wait until the green light came
To show the road was clear."
"My dear," said I, "We have tried to light
Life's road for your feet to fare,
And we pray you'll stop when the red light glows,
Though none of us may be there.
We have tried to teach you the signs of wrong
And the way of a life serene,
So stop when your conscience post shows red—
And go when it flashes green."

Oath of Office

What oath does the President take?

In our Constitution (Article II) "we the people" specify that our Presidents shall take the following oath:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

In regard to this President Lincoln wrote: "I could not take office without taking the oath. Nor was it my view that I might take an oath to get power, and break the oath in using the power."

In addition to requiring our Presidents to take an oath "we the people," in our Constitution (Article VII) specify that senators, representatives, judges and other officers of the United States and of the states also shall be bound by oath to support our Constitution.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

Austin.—The attention of Texans was turned anxiously this week toward Washington, where the House and Senate prepared to begin work price of cotton affecting adversely the prosperity of the nation's largest producer of the fleecy staple, and with Texans, including Reps. Rayburn, Jones, Poage, Sumners, Senator Tom Connally, and Vice President Garner, taking a leading part in the drama of farm relief legislation that is in the making, hope was high that some political panacea may be found for an intolerable economic situation.

Crop restriction, soil conservation, subsidy, tariff readjustment, domestic allotment, processing taxes—each plan has its adherents—and the harried Congress is considering them all.

Would Prorate Production

With the virtue of being new, at least, was the latest suggestion, offered to the House Agriculture Committee, by Ernest O. Thompson, Texas railroad commissioner, who journeyed to Washington at the invitation of Marvin Jones. He suggested that the proper application of prorated production—the method which brought the Texas oil busines out of the doldrums of huge overproduction and ten-cent oil into a steady reasonable prosperity—might be applied to the cotton production situation. He told how consumer demand for oil is estimated in advance by the Federal Bureau of Mines, and production allowables are fixed by the Federal Bureau of Mines, and production allowables are fixed by the various producing states, by cooperation through the Oil States' Compact Commission. He suggested that such a plan might be used to control cotton, prorating production of domestic requirements among the producing states, exporting the surplus at a world market price, and using tariff revenue to cimpensate farmers when home markets fail. Export of the surplus at low world prices, he believes, would go far toward regaining the lost export markets on a competitive price basis.

Oil Shutdown

Meanwhile, a mild furore developed over conditions in the production of Texas other and greatest "crop" crude oil. With the 24,000 well completed in the giant East Texas field, and with a State law prohibiting the Railroad Commission from reducing any well below the marginal minimum of 20 barrels daily, the Commission took cognizance of the recent alarming drops in pressure in East Texas, and also of a seasonal slump in market demand, and ordered a shutdown of East Texas for four consecutive Sundays, in order to make pressure tests. The first weekly shutdown passed off quietly, with no reported violations, despite protests against the restriction from various Chambers of Commerce and others in the East Texas field. Rail Commissioner Lon Smith, at outs with the majority of the Commission, as usual, demanded the Commission permit East Texas operators to make up the back allowable, resulting from the shutdown, but was quieted effectively when his colleagues pointed to a ruling by the Attorney General holding that the Commission cannot permit such a makeup. Continued drilling East Texas eventually will bring on a crisis, in which Texas will either have to amend the margin allowable law, or disregard the Federal estimate of consumer demand for oil, unless demand for oil should take a sudden and unexpected upturn.

PROPHECY

Not enough love
Not enough laughter.
Rigid you walk
For fear of hereafter.

Each human impulse
You feed to your pride.
When we meet in the street
Your skirts draw aside.

Beggars and sinners,
You sing them psalms,
They are my brothers,
I give them alms.

You love too little.
I love too well.
Where is our difference?
I'll meet you in hell.

PEEP SHOW

FOR LADIES ONLY
—BY—
MIGNON

He couldn't do without me
Another single day
Or that is what Dear Pappa said
But failed to mention pay . . .

Yeah, husbands are like that. That lovely dream I had of being a better mother and home keeper by staying home and making molasses cookies has been shattered into tiny bits again. I should have been fore warned . . . two T-bone steaks all by ourselves lately . . . no growls about the budget I might have known the symptoms of a husband getting ready to have you get back on the job again, but I actually thought I was getting a bit of S.A. or maybe again, there was such a thing as middle age "it." But I came home from a club convention feeling very highminded and cultured only to find that I must take off my glad rags, back my ears and get into the harness and pull my side of the wagon. But gals this is between us. I'm secretly a little glad . . . not glad that I must leave home and work, but glad that after twenty-two years of pulling double the old ark can't travel very well as a one-hoss shay. Teamwork is what has meant most, always, and though sometimes one or the other threatens to kick over the traces and find greener pastures, after a few weeks grazing and star gazing it has always happened that the team pulls together a little harder than ever before. Gosh-lickety-ding, though, I wish I had had a recording needle to have put down all these lovely things pappa has been saying this week. Because it just could'nt be possible that he has forgotten how to throw his voice in two short months. Gee, but it was swell while it lasted . . .

* * * *

Lament of a woiking goil:
We played as two and then as one
I was what he desired me
And just as I felt set for life
The darling up and fired me.
And then when I was fired and free
And writing sweet love lyrics
He had to have me back again
Why don't I hrow hysterics?

Over in the University City I had the three big thrills of the year. Entertained in a beautiful home at tea, the program chairman introduced me by reading a whole page of typewritten lines by Kenneth Kaufman, THE poet of the prairies, who had taken the time from his busy days to hand an armul of prairie flowers to one who hopes to some day be a poet. And while I was still goosepimply from that, Mrs. E. E. Dale took us to her home and showed us her collection of glass. Have you ever seen an entire wall lined with every kind and description of old glass? Have you seen the sunlight play hide and seek with the glory of color that comes from amber, cherry, ruby, and apple green goblets set in windows against a background of Outdoor Autumn beauty? Well neither had I. I always thought I was the best Ooher and Aaher in the world, but I had to break down and admit that I didn't know the difference between inverted thumbnail early American glass or ivy-in-snow. And I was so afraid I'd speak of the ingrown toe nail South American, that I kept quite still (believe it or not) However, even the bumbest mortal can see and enjoy beauty and so I practically beamed and glowed inwardly from even the contact with such beauty. Then perhaps the happiest occasion was that I had to hurry and take off my leg irons so that I could dine with the new U.S. Marshal and his charming wife, who happen to be my very dear friends. Wait . . . the re was another thrill and it looks awful in print but it was pretty swell. The Police Judge took me out to the Frankhoma Potteries and presented me with two beautiful candelabra with two matching vases, besides explaining all the ins and outs of how plain Oklahoma clay from Ada can be made into such breath-taking beauty.

Home, thinking that in all the years I had known and admired Dr. E. E. Dale, perhaps I admired him most for the lovely lady he picked out to be Mrs. E. E. Dale.

* * * *

I have to take a nice long breath
I listended to that Lewis
He threw sarcasm right and left
And told us who was whosis
He panned fraternities and skirts
And slurred the daily papers
But he was fund and made us laugh
In spite of all his capers
He won the Pulitzer award
By writing books like Babbit,
Then turned it down, the ugly clown—
When all men want to grab it.

This column should be rightly dubbed the "gallops of a gallivator," so I won't tell you all the fun and pleasure, knowledge and pleasant association that I gathered while I frolicked with the Ninth District Club Women during their convention. But I hope I gleaned bits of wisdom and wit to share with you through an entire year of acting like a columnist . . .

Bye, be seeing you in Household soon.

State Employment Show Gain During Month of October

Austin, Texas, Nov. 30.—Reports to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research from more than 1,700 Texas establishments showed that a total of nearly 89,000 workers were employed in these plants during October, an increase of 7.5 per cent over the like month last year, but a decline of .7 per cent from the preceding month. Total weekly payrolls of these firms, $2,262,371, were up 18 per cent from a year ago but there was no change from the month before.

Cities in which the percentage gains in both employment and payrolls over both the month before and October last year were above the State average were: Abilene, Amarillo, Beaumont, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and Wichita Falls.

Industries whose percentage increase in employment and payrolls were above the state average during the comparable periods were: chemicals, cotton oil mills, meat packing, and business and personal service.

World consumption of newsprint for this year has been set at 8,875,000 tons compared to 7,375,000 in 1929.

Balanced Ration Makes Grain Go Farther in Feed

Variations in weather, yields, prices, consumption, and other factors affecting farmers have always been major agricultural problems. These factors will always vary. They are natural hazards of farming. Today, however, farming is far less hazardous than in the past, because many forms of "insurance" are available to present-day farmers and stockmen.

Such things as a silo, for example, are commonly recognized as "farm insurance." Diversification insures a more varied income, and is insurance against a disastrous price decrease on a single crop without other sources of income.

Livestock production is two-fold insurance; the livestock producer has two markets for his grain and, in addition, has soil insurance through the fertility from each year's manure, which represents a policy on insuring future fertility.

Insurance in Feeding

The use of balanced rations is recognized as a sound feeding practice, but it may not have occurred to many feeders that this, also is a form of insurance. In the South, for example, the feeder who supplements his home-grown grains and roughages, as well as pastures, with cottonseed meal and hulls takes out an insurance policy providing the following types of insurance:

1. Feed Insurance—Making his bushels of grain, or tons of roughage, go further, by supplementing them with meal and hulls, creates a reserve of feed that may be greatly needed later in the season, or the following year.

2 Cost Insurance—Home-grown feeds balanced with cottonseed meal and hulls reduce costs of production, providing a larger margin of profit that is insurance against a drop in livestock prices.

3. Price Insurance—Prices of most feeds usually are lowest at harvest time, and highest at the end of the season. By replacing part of the grain or roughage with cottonseed meal and hulls, the feeder gets price insurance by saving his feeds for the period when they are worth more on the cash market. Because both cottonseed products and farm grains usually are cheaper in the fall, it is economical to lay in an ample supply of meal and hulls at that time and save the other feeds which are usually worth more later in the season.

4. Roughage and Pasture Insurance—The addition of cottonseed meal to the ration insures a greater return from pastures and from roughage, which might otherwise go unused.

5. Soil Insurance—Soil fertility for the future is insured by feeding cotonseed meal and hulls to livestock, returning in the manure the fertility removed in cotton production.

There are many other forms of insurance provided by the use of balanced rations, such as the insurance of a larger demand for his cottonseed which the use of meal and hulls provide for cotton grower, but these listed will be sufficient to make feeders think of the advantages of using balanced livestock feeding for their own insurance policy.

CHURCH NEWS

METHODIST CHURCH

We are able to begin our second years work with great anticipations There has been such a hearty reception to our being returned, we feel that possibly this year will mean greater advancement in the work than last. Possibly the failure was so complete that this is just a chance to make good where we have failed. Well, we are here and delighted with our field of labor.

There was a change in the work adjacent to Munday, known as the Munday Circuit, in that Thorp and Hefner are served by the Bomarton pastor and Hood becomes a part of the Munday Church. We are delighted to have this congregation worship with us since a number of our members are from that community formerly and a very happy friendship exists with these people. As a means of getting acquainted, and to foster a friendly spirit in our own community, we are asking that the entire membership, their friends, and the Hood congregation meet wit us next Sunday in the services of the morning, enjoy an old fashioned "Basket Dinner" and take part in a song service in the early afternoon. I mean, bring a basket of good eats and let's have a picnic spread just like we used to.

The Seymour Young People's Union will hold their first meeting of the fall at the church this Sunday at 3:00 p.m. There will be no service at night other than the Leagues.

H. A. Longino, Pastor

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

We give you a cordial invitation to worship with us next Sunday. "O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker." (Ps. 96:6.)

The subject for the morning sermon: The Service of Angels and the Service of the Son. The evening sermon: The Power of the Gospel.

The Lord saves our souls because of our faith in Him as our personal saviour. We save our lives to the world and for the promotion of His kingdom by the service we render. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness."

YOUR LIFE

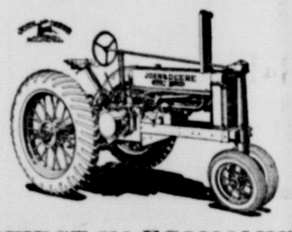

Too many people think of Life Insurance as if it were Death Insurance. The longer I stay in this business the more I am convinced that it renders one of the greatest services to humanity of any institution in existence today.

● It is true that the proceeds of a life insurance policy, will, upon the death of the insured, provide food, shelter and clothing for the family, but a life insurance program properly planned has a far greater scope than that.

It will provide ready cash in time of financial stress, pay for a child's education, save a home or business, pay your grocery bill when you are out of work, and finally provide an income for life in your old age. ● Are you saving as much as you should? If not, see Southwestern Rip.

Sunset H.D. Club Met Tuesday

The Woman's Home Demonstration Club of Sunset community met in their regular meeting November 30, with Mrs. W. C. Kimbrough. Eight members answered roll call with, "The Way to Take Drudgery out of Making School Lunches." The president took charge of the meeting and plans were made for the banquet to be given December 7, at Benjamin, for the old and new officers of the clubs in the county.

EDITORIAL!

By Jimmie Boone

Boulder Dam on the Colorado River and the Great Pyramid of Egypt are both practically identical in size.

The Great Pyramid, built thousands of years before the Christian era, required the labor of 100,000 man-years of labor. Boulder Dam required less than 2,400 man-years of labor.

Science enables us to accomplish as much as 833 laborors could do before power machinery was invented.

The Great Pyramid, a beautiful tomb and monument, was built only to satisfy a king's vanity. It does not help the life of one other Egyptian in any way. Boulder Dam will add much to the comfort and resources of millions of people. It will provide water for many people for human consumption, for irrigation, and for electric purposes.

The history of the hundred years is one of increasing power and comfort. Agriculture has increased to meet the demands of modern people and their ways of living. During the time when the constitution was written, people produced enough food for themselves and one person in the city. Today the farmer not only produces sufficient products to meet his demands, but enough to feed 56 people in American cities and ten foreigners.

People who live in communities which have a greater production than others live better than those who live in a community where the production is smaller. Our problem is to create more production to increase the standard of living.

Junior Students Enjoyed Social Wednesday Nigh'

The Juniors seem to be feeling fine since the holidays. Everyone reported an excellent time during the holidays. It seems that everyone had plenty to eat.

We had our second social Wednesday night, November 24. The hostesses for the evening were Floy Nelson, Laverne Darter, Wilma June Burnison, and Mildred Howeth. Each one was required to bring a gift which he wished to get rid of. When a signal was given everyone exchanged packages, unwrapped them, being careful not to let anyone see it, and continued untying until another signal was given. Then we showed what each had. Trom ties and beads to socks were among the articles shown in the collection. About ten o'clock a delightful refreshment plate was served to some twenty-five members of the class and our sponsor, Mr. Cobb.

The English III class has been writing histories of different things following the style of Washington Irving. The following was a theme written by Laverne Darter telling how she thinks Munday will be twenty years from now:

Home Economics Room Decorated

The Home Economics II girls have had a very enjoyable week preparing company dinners. The class was divided into three groups with each group serving another. We have had some very fine dinners and are looking forward to several more.

The Home Economics cottage seems to have that good 'ole Christmas spirit. The sewing room is very prettily decorated with red and green Christmas ropes.

Everyone in the Sophomore class enjoyed the Thanksgiving holidays. Of course, we would like to have them oftener, but perhaps we will have enough patience to wait until the Christmas holidays.

Where an individual performs his services, and not his residence, is the main factor in determining the state to which contributions on wages should be paid.

My Home Town Twenty Years From Now—By A Tom Tom Staff Member

I drove into Munday in the spring of 1957. I was to spend one day here. Could this be the home town which I left in 1937? The town had grown until I scarcely recognized it.

The population had grown until Munday was really a city. This increase in population was due to the oil field near by.

The streets were all paved, of course. The houses were all numbered. The mail was delivered to each door.

I stopped my car to decide where I was. I heard a shrill whistle. Upon looking around, I saw a blue-uniformed figure motioning me onward. Munday now had policemen on duty each day. In a daze I moved slowly on. Had I missed my way? Was this really Munday?

"Yes, this is Munday. You must I stopped and asked a policeman.

"Yes, this is Munday. You must have been away a long while. What's that? No, I can't direct you to anyone by name. I must know their address."

I went on. I finally came to Main Street. After I had driven a few blocks I saw a huge sign ahead of me. It read "Atkeison's Food Store." It was the first familiar thing I had seen, and it was familiar in name only.

All the old stores were enlarged and many, many new ones were established. I observed many new and different businesses and stores.

Street cars were now a common sight in Munday.

I drove out into the residential section. I saw one beautiful home after another. The architects had done much to improve and beautify Munday in the past twenty years.

Darkness was slowly descending like some huge blanket. Lights began to appear. As I drove out of Munday, I looked backward. Hundreds of lights blinked my home-town's farewell to me.

Yes, Munday was beautiful—and different.

Here is a bit of advice for everyone

CONSIDER THE HAMMER

It keeps its head.
It doesn't fly off the handle.
It keeps pounding away.
It finds the point, then drives it home.
It looks on the other side, too, and then clinches the matter.
It makes mistakes, but when it does it stants all over.
It is the only knocker in the world that does any good.
If you are inclined to lose your head and fly off the handle, consider the hammer.

Dr. Bass Visits In History Class

Last Monday Dr. Bass visited our history class a few minutes. He asked several questions pertaining to the material that we are studying. He proved to be very interesting, and, Dr. Bass, we should like for you to call again.

The third year Home Economics is still waiting for the rats to come in. We are beginning to get impatient.

The students in the geometry class have come to the conclusion that they are either dumb or Mr. Hardegree likes them a lot. They have two periods of geometry now instead of one.

The Spanish students are getting better every day.

Fresman Girls Complete Project

The girls in Home Economics I have finished their garments and are looking forward to inspection by Mrs. Dillon. The members of the class agree that they have done very well in the choosing and making of this sewing project.

The freshmen are looking forward to several socials soon with their able sponsors, Dr. Bass and Miss Dorsey.

SERVICE IN APPRECIATION OF YOUR CONFIDENCE . . .

Two years ago, when State Laws killed our Burial Associations, we faced a hardship in building an entirely new organization under strict State Supervision.

We believed, however, that if we could give our friends as good protection for their money as they could get elsewhere, that they would prefer to keep as near home as possible.

The moment a death occurs to our policy-holders, we consider it their money. We pay as quickly as possible after we are notified. The undertakers who hav had charge of funeral arrangements for our deceased policy-holders, or the friends of those bereaved families will vouch for the fact that we have certainly paid our claims promptly.

We have made arrangements with a bank in most towns in order that you may pay your premiums there, thus saving you postage.

If you send the premiums direct to the office and enclose your notification card, we mark it paid and pay the return postage on it as your receipt.

When payments are made for six months or longer in advance, we give a five per cent discount.

Last, your telephone call notifying us of the death of a policy-holder is paid for by us, that we may complete our SERVICE to you as quickly as possible, for your advantage in this emergency.

If you do not have this protection, write us for information.

CHILD ACTRESS PREFERS COOKING TO MOVIES

Joan Brodel Is Prouder of Making Drop Tea Cakes Than of Playing With Garbo

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD Joan Brodel is twice as proud of the stir she makes in the family kitchen as she is of the dramatic ability that won her the part of Robert Taylor's little sister in "Camille."

Red-headed Joan, who lives with her parents and two older sisters at 341 West 45th Street, New York City, is being tested for an important part in a new Universal film. However, she's too busy learning to cook to take time to talk to interviewers about the movies. Here she is beating up her favorite recipe—sponge drop tea cakes. She can make six dozen with three eggs, and that always means a tea party for the whole family. Here is Joan's recipe:

Sponge Drops

3 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cold water
½ teaspoon lemon flavoring (or vanilla)
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup all purpose flour
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks very hard with rotary beater until thick and lemon-colored (about 2 minutes) Beat in sugar gradually. Beat in water, flavoring and lemon rind. Sift flour once before measuring, and beat it into the egg yolk mixture. Beat egg whites until frothy, add cream of tartar and salt, and beat until egg whites are stiff enough to hold a point. Gently fold into egg yolk mixture. Drop by spoonfuls onto ungreased wrapping paper placed on baking sheet—having the drops about 1½ to 2 inches in diameter before baking. (Push off from tip of spoon so batter will stand up as thick as possible. It should stand up ½ inch high in the center of the drops.) Bake as soon as the batter is dropped onto the paper. When done, remove immediately from paper by running a spatula under each drop.

Bake 12 to 15 minutes in 375° F., quick moderate oven.

Amount: 6 dozen (2 inches in diameter).

STATE WELCOME TO INDUSTRY IS SEEN NECESSARY

Leaders For Program To Encourage Big Business

Belief that Texas could easily meet any "challenge" of other states in bidding for industrial growth by moderating its seeming official aloofness to industry—which at present contrasts with its unofficial but widely-evident sentiment for courting new business—was expressed today by Homer Mitchell, outstanding Texas insurance authority, and Hubert M. Harrison, manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

This was the general consensus of business leaders reflected in a survey by the All-South Development Council as to what the recently announced co-operative drive of nine southwestern states to promote their industrial expansion, individually and collectively, means to Texas' ambition to become adequately industrialized.

"Of course, we have plenty of outstanding physical advantages here in in climate, resources, labor, fuel, population and purchasing power," said Mitchell. "But we can't feel really sincere about inviting our industrial friends to invest here, on the basis of these fine potentials, without warning them of their liability to having help carry the load of an unnecessarily expensive state government, sessions has posed grave problems and admitting frankly to them that the trend of legislation in recent for not only new industry, but for the industries which have contributed to the upbuilding of Texas to date.

Business Failures Decline in Texas

Austin, Texas, Nov. 30—Commercial failures occurring in Texas during October increased sharply in number over both the preceding month and the like month last year, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has announced. Total liabilities of the firms that failed, however, were substantially below those of the preceding month, and only slightly greater than those of the corresponding month last year.

Failures totaled fourteen during October, 133 per cent more than during the preceding month and 56 per cent more than during October last year. Average liability per failure was $12,000 a decrease of 71 per cent from September and 33 per cent from October 1936.

Battered Bugle Now on Display

Lubbock, Texas, Nov. 30—A battered old bugle, found recently under the floor of a Fort Stockton house which was being renovated by Judge W. C. Jackson, has been loaned to the West Texas museum, situated on Texas Technological campus.

Lost about 70 years ago when Fort Stockton was a refuge for settling whites against marauding Yaqui and Apache Indians, the bugle is of regulation army size and shape. Bent and corroded, it has lost about half of its original weight.

Tech Coeds Go For Bright Scarf

Lubbock, Texas, Nov. 30.—Gay peasant scarfs, now worn by most Texas Technological coeds, not only give a note of color to the winter campus scence, but protect dainty ears from the chill north winds of the West Texas steppes.

Whether this style is copied from rebozos of Mexican Indians in a neighboring state or from the Lithuanian "namitka" is not known, but the reds, bright greens, yellows, blues, and violets, favorite colors of both "namitkas" and rebozos, are also favored by Tech coeds.

Fellowships Are Awarded Students

Austin, Texas, Nov. 30.—Miss Verdine Mae Brooks of Waelder and Jasper Willie Treat of Abilene, both graduate students at The University of Texas, have been awarded University fellowships, it was announced following the last meeting of the institution's Board of Regents. Miss Flora Dinkines of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was awarded a University fellowship.

Lubbock, Texas, Nov. 30—Three hundred and fifty male students will make up a fashion jury next week at Texas Technological College, when questionnaires are sent out by costume design classes under direction of Miss Helen Troy Allen, instructor in applied arts.

Do you like red fingernail polish? Slinky or frilled evening dresses? Tweeds or oxfords, or fur-trimmed suits and high-heeled slipers for school wear? These and other questions on women's wear will be posited in an effort to get a cross-section of masculine opinion.

Liability under the Texas Unemployment Compensation law is for a two year period even though an employer's total personnel occasionally falls below the minimum of eight. Texas employers must therefore make contributions for two years. They must show a full calendar year in which less than eight were employed before the Commission is permitted by law to terminate their liability for contributions.
