REMEMBERS LOCO 80 YEARS AGO

Marquis L. Adkins, now of Amarillo, recalls another era at the Loco-Arlie Reunion Sunday, Aug. 8. He came there with his parents in 1891, when he was three years old. He still owns the land where his father staked a claim in 1889, and he and his family lived there until only ao few years ago.

Burglars Take Co-Op Office Machines

Four calculator-adding machines were taken in the burglary of the Farmers Co-op Gin office early Tuesday, August 3, Sheriff John Rainey has reported.

The board of directors of the gin met Monday night, and the meeting did not break up until about 11:00 p.m., W.E. (Dub) Marchant, manager, said, so it is known that the burglary did not occur until about midnight or later.

Mr. Marchant estimated the value of the four electric machines at around $1,500. A fifth calculator-adding machine, sitting beside the others but with the electric cord detached, was not touched.

Entry was gained by breaking a window on the west side of the office, beside the scales. The machines were taken out the front door, which was left unlocked, Mr. Marchant said.

Because of the number of cars around the office for the director's meeting, the sheriff's department had difficulty in singling out any tracks which might have been left by the burglars, Sheriff Rainey said.

The burglary was discovered by Alton Abernathy, an employee of the gin, when he came to work Tuesday.

Rains to Four Inches Drench Much of County Over Week

Rain up to more than four inches drenched much of the south part of the county during the week end, to send crop prospects to a new high for the season. However, north of Salt Fork no more than .30 inch was received, and the area around Quail and to the north reported at most .70.

Wellington measured more than three inches, with the heaviest fall coming Monday afternoon. Hurshel Pruitt, Weather Bureau observer, said the official rain guage measured 3.19 inches, while in another part of town, Mrul Phipps measured 3.40.

The heaviest rainfall was to the east and south of Wellington.

Friday afternnon, Sagebrush Feed Lot, Inc., 5 miles east of Wellington, received three inches in an hour and a quarter from a washing downpour that was limited in area.

The same time, Barney Glenn reported 2.7 inches at his home just east of Wellington and added that good rains fell all the way to Dodson.

No moisture was received at either Quail or Samnorwood at that time.

Also on Friday Elbert Watts measured 1.8 inches at his home but at his farm three miles southeast, 2.3 inches was measured. At Fresno, John Jackson measured 1.5inches, and Dwane Scott reported the same amount at his home a mile north of Wellington.

Some of the heaviest rainfall came on an area to the north and northwest of Dodson. Three inches fell between Thursday night and Tuesday at the Tom Birchfield farm, but as in many instances, the fall in that area was somewhat spotted, some receiving more than that figure and some less.

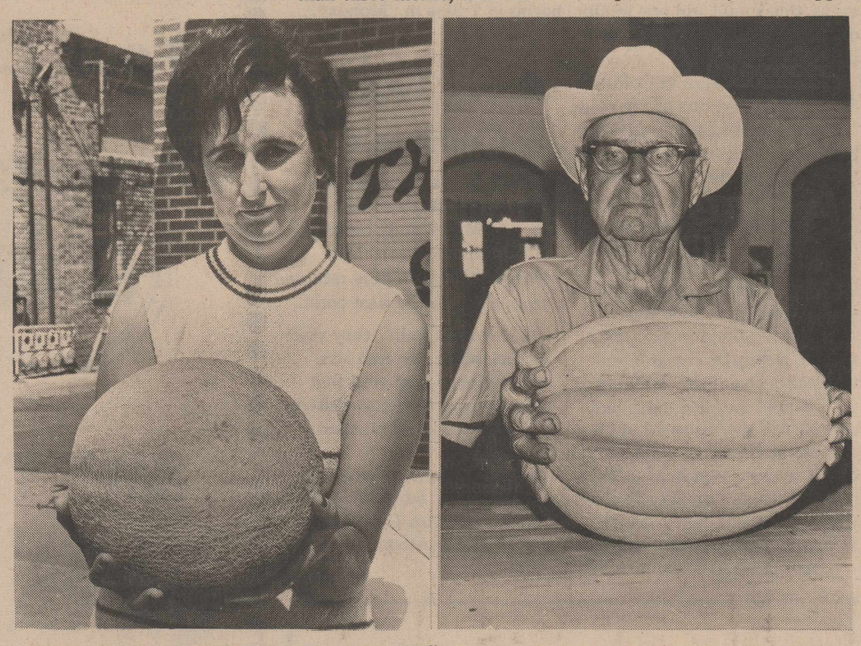

Farther north, just across Salt Fork River, almost four inches had fallen at the Truman Estes farm before Monday night.

Southwest of Wellington, between 2.5 and 3 inches were received at the home of Ronnie O'Rear but again the amount varied within the community.

At Loco, approximately 4.5 inches was measured at the H.R. Mayhugh home for the entire period. North of there, the Fred Cox Jr. farm received 5.5 inches over a two weeks period ending at noon Monday.

Part of Wellington was without electric power Sunday night, as a wire burned in two just north of Ellison Park. Four poles were broken off 5 miles south of town on the line serving the Dodson and Loco areas, leaving that part of the county without power from

Brine Lake Seepage Into Irrigation Wells Studied

Two Wellington farmers have raised the question of salt water from a proposed brine lake southwest of Rolla contaminating irrigation water across south Collingsworth.

Fred Cox and R.L. Maybery, brothers-in-law with extensive irrigation farming acreage at Loco, appeared before the Commissioners Court Monday, August 9, to ask its support in their opposition to the lake.

The commissioners passed a resolution giving this support and County Judge Zook Thom as will begin this week to determine what can be done.

The brine lake is one of five in this general area proposed to control the salt content of Red River. It will lie at a point where Collingsworth Hall and Childress counties come together.

"We are afraid this brine could get into fresh water underground streams and ruin out irrigation," Judge Thomas declared.

"The Commissioners court will do what it can to protect the fresh water in Collingsworth County. We are concerned about our irrigation, and it would be a tremendous economic loss to the county to have our irrigation destroyed."

Mr. Cox told The Welling-

"We want to encourage every business in Wellington to have something in the parade, said Mr. Neeley. "If you don't have a float, you can have a car with your name on it, or you can even have a bicycle. The thing is that we want to have every business represented."

All entries to the Collingsworth County fair are free except commercial booths, it was pointed out, however, no unworthy exhibit will be accepted.

BEEF SHORT COURSE

Some of the nation's leading authorities on beef cattle reproduction and management will be on hand for Texas A&M University's 21st Annual Beef Cattle Short Course, August 16-17 at the Memorial Student Center on the A&M campus.

The theme of this year's program is "Improving Reproductive Efficiency in Beef Cattle." Reproduction was chosen as the theme because of its great importance to cattlemen. If Texas ranchers could achieve a one percent increase in their calf crops, this would add one million dollars to the total income from beef cattle.

Dr. J.N. Wiltbank of Colorado State University, one of the country's out-standing authorities on beef reproduction, is among the guest speakers. He will speak on "Management Programs for Improving Reproductive Performance" on Monday, August 16 at 1:15 p.m. The following day he will discuss the relationship of the program at 2:00 p.m.

Dr. H.A. Glimp of the Clay Center, Nebraska, research station has been actively working with studies on calving difficulties and calf performance of exotic cattle. He will present his data Tuesday, August 17 at 1:15 p.m. in "Studies on Calving Difficulties and Calf Performance in Exotic and Straightbred Cattle."

Other guest speakers include Dr. Ray Woodward, Director of Beef Cattle Breeding for the American Breeders Service, and Dr. Lamar Reynolds, Research Physiologist at the Iberia Research Station in Louisiana. Dr. Woodward will discuss "Breeds and Reproduction" and Dr. Reynolds will present his findings on important factors influencing reproductive performance in virgin and first calf heifers.

Extension specialist and experiment station workers will also take part in the conference. Registration for the short course begins at 7:30 a.m., Monday, August 16.

Commission Sets 1971 Bird Season

AUSTIN-- The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has set dates for the state's dove seasons and early teal duck season.

The commission in a special meeting in Austin also set seasons on other migratory game birds (except waterfowl) and dealt with other business items. There were no changes in bag or possession limits from last year, and each season for 1971-72 will be the same number of days as the previous year's seasons.

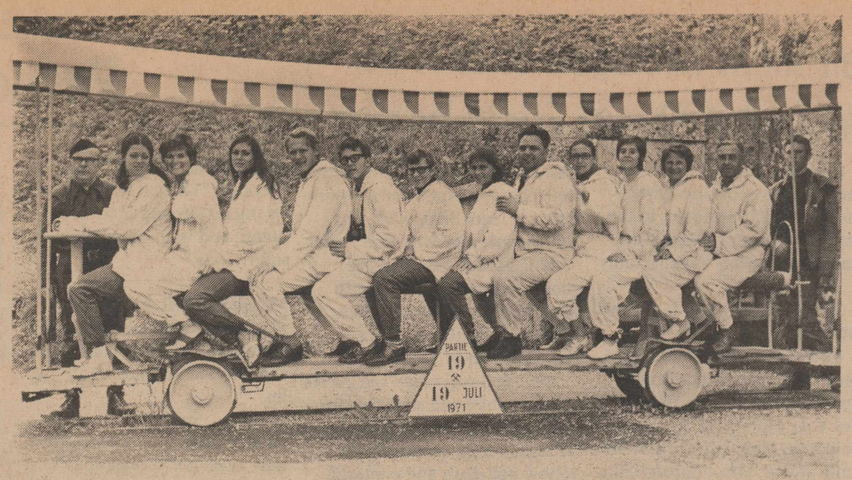

The open season on mourning doves in the North Zone will be Sept. 1 through Oct.30, from 12 noon to sunset. In the South Zone, the dates are Sept. 25 through Nov. 23, except for the counties which have a season for white-winged doves. In these counties, the mourning dove season ends Nov. 19. However, mourning doves may be taken in these counties during the whitewing season, Sept. 25 4-5 and11-12. Shooting hours statewide are 12 noon and sunset.

The daily bag and possession limit is unchanged from last year at 10 and 20 birds for both species.

The early teal season this year will be Sept. 11 through Sept. 19. The daily bag limit will be four birds in the aggregate of the three species of teal (blue winged, green-winged, and cinnamon), and possession limit is eight in the aggregate.

Other seasons, bag limits and possession limits set included: rails, Sept. 1 through Nov. 9, from one half hour before sunrise to sunset, bag limit for large rails (king and clapper) 15 in the aggregate, daily bag limit for small rails (sora and Virginia) 25 in the aggregate and possession 25 in the aggregate; woodcock, Nov. 20 throughJan. 23, from one half hour before sunrise to sunset, bag limit five possession 10; Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe, Nov. 20 through Jan. 23, from one half hour before sunrise to sunset, bag limit eight, possession 16; and gallinules, Sept. 1 through Nov. 9, from one half hour before sunrise to sunset, bag limit 15, possession 30.

Both the migratory waterfowl seasons and quail seasons will be set later. The migratory bird seasons, bag limits and other regulations will be detailed in the 1971-72 Migratory Game Birds Hunting Digest to be published by the department this fall.

Ag Teachers Honor Former Quail Instructor

A former Quail vocational agriculture teacher, Frank Kennedy, was recognized Wednesday, August 4, in Dallas for his 30 years service to the Vo-Ag program of Texas.

Mr. Kennedy has taught agriculture at Vega for the past seven years, but prior to that he taught more than 10 years in Quail. He was honored at the annual meeting of vocational agriculture teachers of Texas.

The award was presented at the Annual awards breakfast by Ray Seale of Shiner, president of the organization.

Kennedy graduated from McLean High School and received his bachelor of science degree from Texas A&M University. He also received a master of education degree from Texas Tech University.

In his tenure as an agriculture teacher he has produced more than 40 Lone Star Farmers, five American Farmers, two Area I FFA officers and one grand champion steer at a major livestock show.

Walkers Move to Texline

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Walker of the Needwood community are moving to Texline to make their home. Both have lived in that part of the county most of their lives.

He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker, one of the early families on Elm Creek. He was born there in August 1900 and grew up there. Later he lived at Texline and in New Mexico a few years before returning to the Needwood community. He has engaged in ranching and farming.

Mrs. Walker is the former Kathleen Elder, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.E. (Buck) Elder, and she moved to that area when she was a young girl.

They found it necessary to move because of Mrs. Walker's ill health, lack of a telephone in that part of the county and difficulty of getting into town in bad weather, he said. Mr. Walker has a brother and sister at Texline.

Book Program Ends Aug. 18

The summer reading program for children in the county will end August 18, Mrs. Rob Isbell, county librarian, has announced.

Of the 50 who started the program, only about 12 or 14 have finished, she said.

Those participating must read at least 12 books if they are to receive certificates at the party on the closing date, it was explained.

This summer program is sponsored jointly by the Texas State Library and the Collingsworth County Library.

Barbecue Time Is Here Again and This Time Make It Chicken

COLLEGE STATION, ----The aroma of outdoor cookery, especially that associated with barbecuing chicken, is reason enough to whit appetites and bring on visions of good things to come.

The great outdoor season is here., notes Marshall Miller, Extension poultry marketing specialist, so let us take our place at the grill and encourage others to do the same.

A fancy grill is not a requirement for barbecuing broilers or fryers. A simple rack set over bricks or stones works mighty well, says the specialist. And he adds, it's no trick at all to serve chicken barbecue for as little as 50 to 75 cents per serving, including everything. In fact, he emphasizes, it can be the most economical main course available and is tasty, nutritious and plain good eating.

Miller says the cooking surface should be 12 to 14 inches above the coals. The fire, using either hardwoods or charcoal for fuel, should be lighted 30 to 40 minutes ahead of the cooking. This allows the time for the coals to become white hot. Spread the coals to give an even distribution of heat.

He suggests using broilers weighing from two and a half to three and a half pounds. Split the birds into halves and place the halves on the grill with the skin side up. They should be turned every five to ten minutes and basted. If the skin blisters, the fire is too hot and the halves should be turned more often. Use the basting sauce generously and never let the coals burst into flame, he advises.

A good cooking job may be completed in as little as an hour and half but two hours with less heat gives a juicier product with better flavor, says the specialist. During the last 30 minutes of the cooking period, he advises using a finishing sauce which can be either bought at the grocery store or prepared at home.

He notes the last joint between the thigh and drumstick is usually the last point to completely cook. As a test for doneness, he suggests grasping the end of the drumstick bone and giving it a twist. If it is loose, the meat is done.

For receipes on sauces and barbecuing hints, Miller suggests a visit to the county Extension Service office for a copy of MP-312, "Chicken Barbecue."

Iris Culture Told to Club

Mrs. John Henard presented the program, "What to do in my garden this month," for the Garden Club Wednesday morning, August 3, when Mrs. Coy Vaughan was hostess.

Mrs. Silas Crawford, club president, was in charge of the business meeting and Mrs. Charles Cason read the club collect.

Mrs. Henard gave points on iris care. When planting or transplanting iris, place two tablespoons of bone meal in each hole, she reminded.

The best bloom well the year after planting or transplanting. They multiply rapidly and usually after three years should be dug,divided and replanted.

Rhizomes, the thick underground stems or roots of iris, produce a bloom stalk only once. New rhizomes are formed and these produce the next crop of flowers.

Rhizomes should be divided with a sharp knife. The cut surface should be exposed to sunlight for several hours before replanting. A light dusting of sulphur on the cut will insure against disease infection, Mrs. Henard continued.

Divide the rhizomes into sections of five or six inches with two fans of leaves on each section. Cut the leaves back a little more than half way. This will help the new plants to become established more quickly after being replanted.

July through September is the best time for transplanting iris, Mrs. Henard said. After planting, the top of the rhizome should be barely below ground level.

In Greek mythology, she concluded, the Iris was the godess of the rainbow.

Members attending the Garden Club meeting were Mrs. Cason, Mrs. Ray Clubb, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Walter Franks, Mrs. W.F. Harbin, Mrs. Henard, Mrs. Howard Riggs, Mrs. Charlie Slay, Mrs. Joe Thompson, Miss Glenda Kiker, a guest, Candy Cason, and the hostess, Mrs. Coy Vaughan.

Young Wellington Architect Looks Out on Dallas Skyline

BY JEANNE BARNES

HOME EDITOR OF THE DALLAS MORNING NEWS

There's lots of talk these days about the life style of the swinging singles in the large apartment complexes.

But those who live in them love them. And they do make very livable, attractive "pads" from often mundane quarters.

Of course, it helps if you're talented as in the case of Bob Sandford, a neophyte architect. Bob has six months to go on his apprenticeship before qualifying to take the state licensing exam. A graduate of Texas Tech University, whose home is in Wellington, he spent six months in Madrid, Spain, as general man Friday for a successful Argentine-born, New York trained architect, Julio Umberman, before joining Craycroft & Lacy here.

He chose an apartment near his Oak Lawn office, the Saracen at 3250 N. Hall, an architect designed building (by Ralph Kelman, AIA) which is unusual in that it is 3-stories, with elevators. vet!

Bob's apartment is on the west side, with a space-expanding view of the skyline across tree tops from both his wide windows. One of these opens into a tiny balcony, where he has a small hibachi grill.

Color scheme of the apartment is based on the terra cotta plush carpet and terra cotta and brown plaid wall covering, a shiny vinyl, in the kitchen.

IT WORKS WONDERFULLY with Bob's collection of Spanish and Mexican artifacts, old country furniture gathered in Canton, Wellington and around and modern architectural pieces.

The windows are dramatically but simply and inexpensively done with natural burlap shades and cornices bordered in black felt that makes side drapes.

Bronze gold wide corduroy covers the sofa and makes the bedspread. Natural cane and brush with white crushed patent vinyl provide more of the neutral, textured look for chairs.

He uses his architectural drafting table, stained black, as a desk and has ingeniously contrived wall storage units out of old wood beverage boxes (they can still be found in small towns). One hangs in the entry, with various "found" objects assembled in it.

Track lighting on the ceiling provides spotlighting for the wall arrangement of mementoes and artifacts and his own art work as well as a down light over the sofa for reading.

A small, old cabinet houses stereo and a bar, and a table-for two retains its worn, dark varnish. The old trunk doubles as storage and a coffee table. He made a wine rack out ot natural unfinished dowels.

There's a closet in the entry to hold suits and coats, a long wide closet-dressing room off the bath beside the bedroom area.

The kitchen has ample, miniaturized appliances, a 24-inch electric stove, an under-counter dishwasher and refrigerator.

Each apartment has its own doorlight, a carved wood plaque on the door. Halls are thickly carpeted. Each apartment looks into an architectural wall or hall area, rather than another apartment, if it is not on the exterior.

There are carefully planned, almost hidden pools, with bridges across them, inside the courtyards and several courts without pools, to offset the closeness of cream stucco and stained cedar walls.

Lots of stairs connect the multi-levels, pools and parking court for those inclined to exercise, and to further conceal the apartments from the street forming a world of their own.

(Sanford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Sanford of Wellington.)

Notes from Your County Home Demonstration Agent

by Mrs. Leta Hill

SANDWICH MONTH

Your life today is influenced by the result of an 18th Century card game! It is, if you eat hamburgers, hot dogs, bologna, cheese, egg salad, roast beef, cold turkey, tuna fish,bacon and tomato or peanut butter and jelly sandwiches!

It is, because during this 18th Century card game, John Montagu, the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, England, became so involved he could not take time out for dinner. He ordered his meat brought to him between two slices of bread, so he could eat without interrupting his game. The great "sandwich" idea was born!

Americans so liked the idea that they now eat more than 226 million of them a day, and the whole month of August is set aside to honor them!

From a little seed planted during a card game has sprung a movement so large that it affects millions of Americans each day....from growers of wheat to eaters of bread.

Since the dawn of time, grain has dominated the existence of man. The origin of wheat is presumed to be the fertile basin of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers in what is now Iraq. The first men to eat wheat- traveling hunters in search of meat--probably just chewed the kernels. When they found they could cultivate the wild grain, they were able to settle in one place and make other important discoveries, as how to grind wheat into flour and bake flour into bread. And bakers have been baking ever since!

The earliest known bread was made by the Swiss Lake Dwellers, a Stone Age people, who mixed flour and water into dough which they baked on hot stones. It was flat, hard, on the outside and soft on the inside.

But the same means of baking bread prevailed through the civilizations of the Babyonians, Chaldeans, Assyrians,and the Egyptians.

In about 3000 B.C., in some unknown manner, the raised loaf was discovered. It is said that a baker in the Royal Egyptian household set aside some dough made of flour, sugar and water and forgot about it. His dough soured and expanded.The frightened baker tried to cover up his mistake by mixing the sour dough with a fresh batch. When the new dough was baked, it raised into a lighter bread than had ever before been produced. What the Egyptian baker didn't know was that some wild yeast had crept into his dough and fermented with the sugar, making air bubbles which caused the bread to rise.

So leavened bread was born and wheat became even more important as a mainstay of man's diet. It was given high status in various civilizations and was linked with religion and superstition.

The Greeks had a bread goddess named Demeter and they provided bread offerings to other gods with prayers for good harvests. The Roman equivalent of Demeter was Ceres, who gave her name to all cereal grains.

In ancient Egypt, bread was considered the symbol of truth Persons took a sacred oath with their right hand touching the top of the loaf. Bread was also buried with a deceased person so that he could eat during the trip to the "other world".

In the Museum of Art in New York, there is a perfectly preserved loaf of bread taken from a tomb 3,500 years old.

In ancient Syria, the people raised bread-wheat in plates or jars in their homes. At the start of the new year, the young shoots were taken to a river or lake and cast into the water. The custom, translated, is "casting bread on the water" to return as answers to prayers.

Bread was introduced into America with the Jamestown colonists in 1604. It helped in the settlement of America as it went west with the pioneers. In the early 1900's, about 95 per cent of all bread was baked at home; by the 1950's, about that percentage was baked commercially.

The United States now grinds about 602,324,000 bushels of wheat into 26½ billion pounds of flour each year. About three fourths of all the flour milled is used by commercial bakers, who produce more then $3½ billion worth of bread a year. That's a lot of "bread"--a 41-million-pound sandwich a day! That' a lot of peanut butter!

What is a sandwich? Conjure up visions of "he-man" concoctions piled high with different slices of meats and cheese, or dainty little rounds and diamonds spread with cream cheese and chopped olives, or two little neat halves dabbed with peanut butter and grape jelly!

Webster says a sandwich is "two slices of bread usually buttered and having a layer, as of meat, cheese or a savory mixture, spread between them." Well, no matter if you prefer them open-faced or closed, trimmed of crusts or toasted, on light or dark bread, piled high or low, you know that sandwiches are America's best sellers!

FILLINGS

Start out the morning with a Doughnut Sandwiches. A very good idea --your family will think so, too-- for Sunday morning breakfasts.

Combine ½ cup peanut butter, 1 tablespoon plumped raisins, and 1 tablespoon finely chopped nuts. Combine doughnuts crosswise and put halves together, sandwich fashion with the peanut butter mixture.

Another filling to use for variety is a combination of a 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened and ½ cup drained crushed pineapple. Spread between sliced doughnuts, and put together sandwich style. Arrange on a platter and serve. These would also be good for an evening snack along with hot cider or cocoa. Make up your own filling ideas for fun!

FOLK TALES

and Bits of Collingsworth County History

by Nora Cocke Drake

"---and then the rains came!"

Shades of those days which W.M. Williams and others recall when Wellington's "Town Section" had many lakes! There were at least twenty froggies as in the song who sang all day (and sometimes all night as well). There were tadpoles galore and they must have eaten lots of the mosquito larvae but not all of them.

When our August rains finally came, the relatives of those frogs were ready! They began singing their croaking songs even while the lightening was flashing, the thunder rolling and the rain pouring. One wonders just how their Mr. True Frog, Esquire, got the message through the hard, dry earth in time for them to be out and ready to sing so impromptuely.

Can you recall the locations of these lakes? One was across east of Singley's Mill. One that was small but waist deep and round as a saucer was about a block east off the north-east corner of the squard. People who were traveling (wagons, hacks, etc.) would camp around this one so that their stock could have water and so could the folk have wash water. The O.K. Wagon Yard was near the one across from Singley's and the Farmer's Wagon Yard was on the block just south of the other lake. Mrs. Williams' father E.B. Haralson, owned and operated 'The Farmers' for years.

If you can recall these lakes and the one south of the L.H. Stalls, one west of the R.L. Templeton's, one near the north east corner of the town section and one Mr. McCauley 'filled' (before building there-----, then you most likely can also remember about mosquito bar net. This was an important thing to have to insure a good night's rest and especially so if there was a tiny baby in the house. There were no fogging machines nor poisons then to do battle against these insects. It was every man for himself.

Good humor and good stories abound at the W.M. Williams home on East Avenue. Mrs. Williams who was Ethel Haralson before her marriage, likes to tell that she and Mr. Williams moved to the Lillie Community 'on the same wagon seat' when she was 15 and he was 18.

They really did just that. Mr. Williams' family, the P.L. Bartletts, moved from Oklahoma a few months ahead of their neighbors, the E.B. Haralson family. Mr. Williams had been working with Mr. Haralson and stayed on to help get his crop harvested and to help drive that family to their new home.

To tease his wife, Mr. Williams tells the story this way: "When my folks moved, Mr.Haralson wanted me to stay on there so that I could court his daughter! So I did stay and helped the family move after we had finished gathering his crop there!"

Mrs. Coleman Attends Youth Leadership Meet

Mrs. John Coleman of Wellington will be traveling to Austin Thursday to attend the three-day Texas Youth Leadership Institute. Mrs. Coleman, wife of Mayor Coleman will serve as a senior counselor for the conference.

An address Sunday morning by Senator John Tower will highlight the program. Outstanding high school students from across the state will meet with Tower in the House Chamber at the State Capitol.

This is the first time that this sort of leadership training has been offered to high school students on a state-wide basis, Jack Ladd, director of the conference, said.

"We are basing the program on proven lab techniques used for managerial training by businesses and organizations in 34 states," Ladd said.

"People support what they help create," Ladd said, " and this is the basis of our techniques. The conference will be lab-oriented, not lecture-oriented."

Robert T. "Sonny" Davis, President of National Leadership Institute, a non-profit organization, developed the Texas Youth Leadership Institute. Davis, a former assistant attorney general of Texas, also founded the Texas Youth Conference.

Ladd, a senior at the University of Texas at Austin, is a former director of the Texas Youth Conference.

El Producto Patrol Highest at Camporee

El Producto Patrol of Scout Troop 32, Wellington, compiled the highest score of the 5 patrols from three Comanche District troops which participated in the Annual Camporee on Buck Creek Saturday and Sunday, July 31 and August 1.

Jimmy Saied is patrol leader and the point total was 69.

Scores based on fire building, string burning, water boiling, first aid, camp skills, campfire participation and church attendance.

"It was remarkable that only 6 points separated the highest and lowest scores," said Dave Agnew, district Scout executive.

"While we were slightly disappointed there were no more attending, due to conflicts, those that were there had a fine day and a half," said Glenn McLain, camporee chairman.

One of the highlights was the church service Sunday morning in which everyone participated. These were conducted by Marvin Garrison, minister of First Christian Church.

El Producto Patrol, having accumulated the highest total, was awarded the Buckskin.

McLain also paid tribute to the co-operation of Judge Zook Thomas, Sam Adams, Leon Hartman, Don Settle, Sandy Parsons, Dr. E. Byron Range.

Dr. Range, the Comanche District chairman, presented the awards, consisting of blue ribbons and the Buckskin.

Other adults assisting Mr. McLain were Larry Vatto of Troop35, Memphis; Franklin Knoll and Don Vearner of Troop 76, Shamrock; and these older Scouts, Stephen Range and Bobby Knoll of Troop 76; Dan Ed Hillhouse and Jay Campbell of Troop 35.

Specialized training in such areas as Narcotics and legal matters, inservice training for sheriffs and a bomb conference was given 117 peace officers.

All training by the academy is available to all peace officers in the 25- county Panhandle Region. Vocational Training Due in High Schools within Decade

The opening of county schools within a few days brings to mind the changes which they and all others of Texas will see within the decade.

One of the strongest trends in education is for vocational and technical training on the high school level. Educators are looking at the fact of life that not all students should go to college and not all bright boys and girls want a degree but do want to be trained in a trade or skill.

In areas such as ours, it is probable that groups of schools will work together to offer vocational courses. The need is greater each decade for men and women who can work on these levels. The need is greater, also, for those who now drop out to remain in school and many believe the trend toward vocational training will help to keep them there.

Fight to Save Part of Past

We are reactionary enough to sympathize with the people of Bowie who have been making a valiant effort to save their 80-year-old railway depot and convert it into a museum.

Any old railway depot contains within its red timbers a host of ghosts for old timers. For them, it is easy to visualize the time, a decade or so ago, when the structure was the hub of a town's activity, when citizens gathered there to see who had come to town. Thinking back even further, they can see the old steam locomotive come puffing and groaning to a stop, the porter rushing the little red wagon to the baggage car, the water pipe adjusted from the tower, the sentimental meetings of arrivals and friends.

In those days the town depot often provided the only excitement available.

With such memories, perhaps, the people of Bowie have been holding bake sales and auctions and otherwise trying to raise money to buy their depot and make of it a museum.

We hope they eventually are successful, for recollections provided by old depots are common nostalgia.—Wichita Falls Record-News.

Those TV Insults

Creators of TV commercials must have had great fun. They delight in insulting us.

There was the cigarette company that tried to sell all of us its particular brand of cancer producer with the line, "They're not for everybody. They don't try to be."

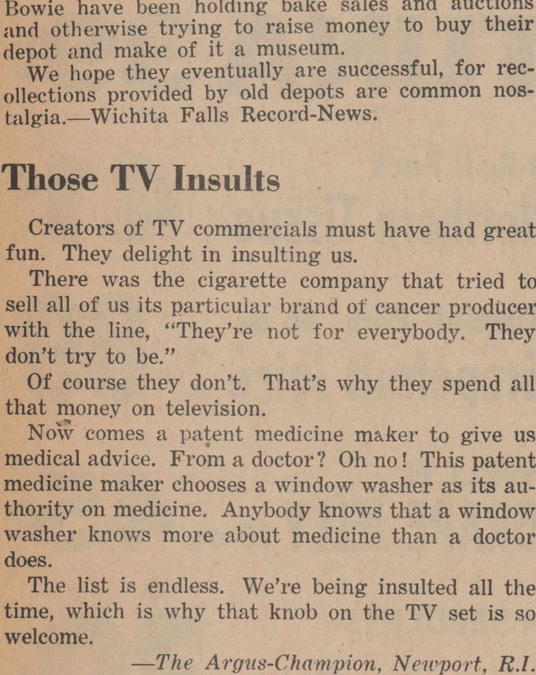

Of course they don't. That's why they spend all that money on television.

Now comes a patent medicine maker to give us medical advice. From a doctor? Oh no! This patent medicine maker chooses a window washer as its authority on medicine. Anybody knows that a window washer knows more about medicine than a doctor does.

The list is endless. We're being insulted all the time, which is why that knob on the TV set is so welcome.

SWEETIE PIE

"It's a portrait of you smoking your pipe!"

When You're Hot, You're Hot!

STATE Capital NEWS By Bill Boykin

AUSTIN, Tex.-- Competition is shaping up in the top two state races for 1972.

State Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso emerged recently as a possible candidate for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

Christie, a 38-year old El Pasoan, said he would be reluctant to abandon his state senate place, but he is keeping a close eye oh U.S. Senator John Tower's activities in the Senate and considers him vulnerable to contest by a strong Democrat.

Christie's statement was seen as a trial balloon aimed at detecting just how serious Democratic leaders are about fielding a candidate against Tower-- and whether they would consider him as the man to unite behind.

Meanwhile, Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde is declaring his candidacy for governor and asking support in a series of statewide speeches.

Former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough is still leaving the door open for either a senate or gubernatorial race.

Gov. Preston Smith hints, from time to time, he may seek re-election.

Houston Post President William P. Hobby is the only announced candidate to succeed Barnes as lieutenant governor, but a lot more are expected to follow.

COURTS SPEAK-- State Supreme Court upheld an intermediate court finding that an individual has no vested "property right" to welfare aid.

In other recent decisions, High Court held:

* A 1966 constitutional amendment does not outlaw use of market value to determine tax value of agricultural land. Kerr County ranchers had contended valuation should be determined on net income per acre from agricultural use only.

* Beaumont Baptist minister of a church moved into a residential neighborhood cannot be held in contempt of court order which blocked construction of an animal health clinic on same site.

* Texas laws do not require a father to support his illegitimate children. (Only one other state fails to provide for such support.)

* Contractors cannot collect on an insurance policy as the result of fire at a missile site near Abilene from which they had been hired to move property.

* Austin district judge cleared the way for an appellate court test of whether the legislature in effect repealed penalties for possession of LSD and certain other illegal drugs.

* Driver who failed to prove the other party in a traffic accident was not insured cannot collect on his uninsured motorist policy.

APPOINTMENTS--Governor Smith announced the appointment of Mrs. Mary Nell Garrison of Austin to the Board of Regents of Midwestern University, Wichita Falls.

Smith also announced these recent appointments:

* Louis Shanks of Austin to State School Land Board.

* Frank Medina of Austin Dr. James W. Suffield of Beaumont and Logan W. Wood Jr. of Houston to new Texas Board of Atheltic Trainers.

* Charles Freeman of Pleasanton to Board of Directors of Evergreen Underground Water Conservation District.

* Bruce Street of Graham and A.M. Willis of Longview to North Texas State Unibersity Board of Regents (reappointments).

* William Harold Pieratt Jr. of Giddings and Taylor H. Jobe of Gladewater to the State Board of Pharmacy.

SENATE "RATED"-- League of Conservation Voters rated 11 senators with perfect voting records on seven selected environmental issues this year.

Eight others were given a passing score, and 12 flunked (with less than five favorable votes out of seven). Seven of the latter group who registered two or less votes deemed correct by the environmentalists were put down as having "abominable records"

Senate's record, said the environmentalists, was better than that of the House, though only a "fraction" of strong pollution control and conservation bills ever passed either house.

EXAMINE HUNT LANDS-- Parks and Wildlife Director James U. Cross and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong made a helicopter tour of the Canadian River bed to inspect an area involved in a controversy over free public hunting.

Parks and Wildlife Commission June 4 ordered a stop to hunting on state-owned river beds and public lands.

After heated protests from the Panhandle, Commission indicated it might switch its position for Canadian River lands. PWC staff was directed to get more information and make its recommendation at a meeting this month.

BRAND RECORDING NECESSARY--- Cattlemen must record their brands and marks, including locations on animals, with county clerks after August 30.

Texas and Southwestern Cattleraisers' Association said six months is allowed after August 30 to register brands. Thereafter, brands must be registered every 10 years.

INDUSTRIES EXPAND -- Texas Industrial Commission report lists 161 new industries as starting in the state in the first six months of 1971, an increase of eight over last year.

Parks and Wildlife Commission has set September 1 as opening day of dove season for the North Zone.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Some gang of national trouble shooters notes a surplus of school teachers nowadays, and recommends the available jobs be allotted by lottery.

Which might provide a fairer distribution of undesirable teaching jobs, and undesirable teachers. And might be useful in other job areas, too.

Like Congress. Filling all lawmaker jobs by number drawings like men are drafted for the Army might not improve government any, but surely wouldn't make it any worse.

Every time Congress meets, it raises our Social Security tax rate again, to make sure that we will be provided for in our old age, so they claim.

But it looks like before some of our younger citizens can acheive 65 they will have starved to death, on account of not having enough after-tax to buy food with.

However, it will take very fine tuning by the politicians to get the rate set to where people can keep on paying to near retirement and finish starving just before government has to commence paying some of their money back to them.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Parking Lot Perils

As part of its service, a neighborhood market maintained a parking lot behind the building. Near one corner of the lot, the stump of an old post jutted up from the ground. One evening a woman shopper tripped over the stump and fell, dislocating a hip.

Was the market legally liable for her injury? In a court hearing, the owner insisted that she should have kept a sharper lookout for danger. But when the woman pointed out that the lighting was poor at the site of the accident, the court upheld her claim.

The law places upon the owner of a parking lot a basic responsibility to keep it in safe condition. Furthermore, he is usually liable for injuries caused by the negligence of his hired help.

Nevertheless, the owner does not guarantee absolute safety. Some accidents are simply not his fault. Thus: a man got hurt in a parking lot when he slipped on a gob of ice cream. Demanding damages in court, he argued:

"It is up to the attendant to keep the place clean. Since he failed to do so, his employer is liable."

However, no one had any idea how long the ice cream had been lying there—or who had dropped it in the first place. Rejecting the man's claim, the court said there was "no evidence that the condition had existed long enough for the (attendant), in the exercise of reasonable care, to have discovered and remedied it."

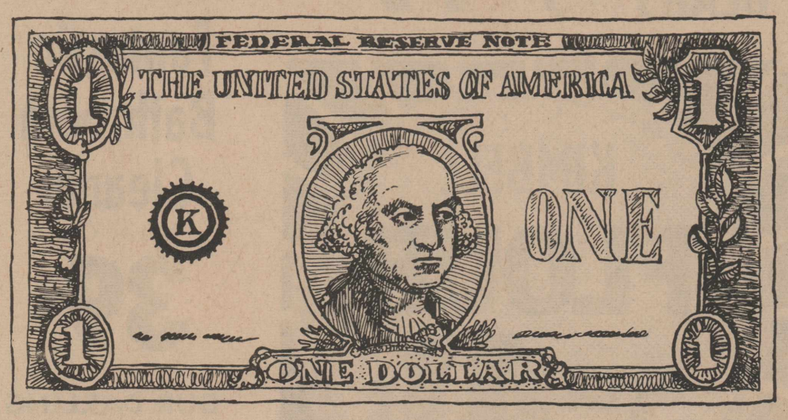

Suppose the accident is caused by someone's careless driving within the lot. May that be blamed on the lot owner?

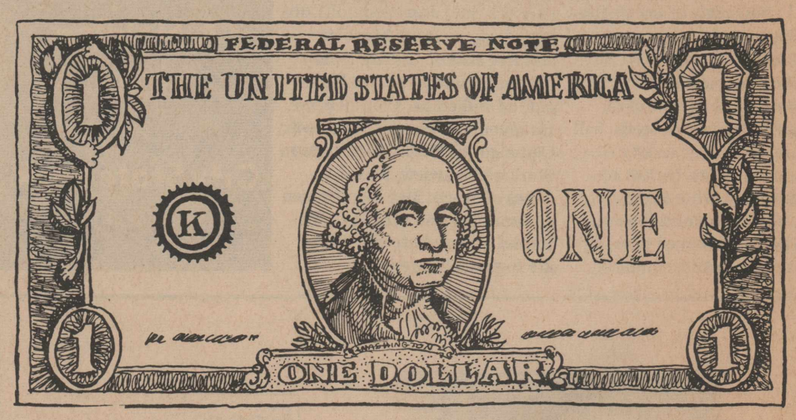

That question arose when a motorist drove the wrong way in a one-way aisle and knocked down a small boy. The boy's parents tried to pin liability on the owner of the lot, on the theory that it was his duty to "police" all drivers on his premises.

However, the court held the owner not liable, because even a watchful attendant could hardly have acted quickly enough to be helpful. Preventing this kind of an accident, the court felt, would call for closer policing by the management than the law could fairly expect.

ONLY ONE OF THESE IS HONEST GEORGE

Great people are always being imitated. And old George is certainly no exception. Can you pick the real one? Our counterfeit exhibit will give you that opportunity. In the exhibit genuine bills of denominations $1, 5, 10, 20, 50, and 100 are placed beside counterfeit bills. There is a button under each bill. If you push the button under a good bill, a green light will flash. The button under a counterfeit bill will turn on a red light. It cannot tell a lie. Once again, honesty is the best policy. Right, George?

Exhibit Will Be at this Bank
MONDAY through FRIDAY
August 16....20

We are bringing this Exhibit of counterfeit and genuine Bank Bills to Wellington in the belief that it may be of benefit to our cusomers. Sooner or later nearly everyone is confronted with the problem of having to decide whether a bill is counterfeit or genuine.

We invite you to inspect this exhibit next week. We think you will find it interesting as well as useful. It is another of the many services offered by the Wellington State Bank.

Howard Family Home from New Mexico and Colorado

Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Howard Jr. and boys of Mobeetie visited Sunday in her parents home after they returned from a vacation in Colorado and New Mexico. Other visitors in the Albert Gollihugh home at Quail were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vernon, Darryl and Betty of Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Howard Jr. and boys of Mobeetie and Mr. Howard's brother and family of Lubbock have just returned from a vacation to New Mexico and points in southern Colorado.

In southern Colorado they visited trout fishing spots and took beautiful high mountain drives in the Creede area.

Taos, N.M., often visited by and a long time favorite of the Howard family, was one of the scenic and historic spot visited again this year.

Of great interest to the three Howard boys, Bill aged 12; Kelly aged 10; and Dennis aged 9; and their cousins, was Los Alamos, the home of the Atomic Bomb. They visited the Science Hall and Museum. It was in Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory that the Atomic bomb was developed. In the museum patio are ballistic cases for several nuclear weapons developed at Los Alamos. This exibit allowes the public to see for the first time the external shape and size of these weapons. Among the, "Little Boy" and "Fat man" types used by the United States to end World War II. Also displayed were later weapon models; a torpedo-shaped bomb representing a fission weapon, a hydrogen bomb casing, a Davy Crockett rocket which can be fired from a rocket launcher by a three-man crew, and two nuclear rocket reactors---one called Kiwi—A and the other Phoebus-1.

At Bandelier National Monument the ruins in Frizoles Canyon were spectacular. It is believed that the disastrous drought years of the late 13th century forced these ancient Pueblo Indians to move to other locations where water was more constant. The two families walked the 2 miles along the northern wall of the canyon and climbed many steps and pole ladders to view these houses of masonry which were irregularly terraced, from 1 to 3 stories high and had many cave rooms gouged out of the solid cliff. The cliffs are composed of volcanic ash and basaltic lava effected thousands of years ago by a great volcano.

As the Howard boys had never been to the capital of New Mexico, Santa Fe, the whole day was spent touring the capital building and visiting the Plaza, the museums, the oldest house in the U.S., and the old and well known Church of St. Francis with its beautiful architecture paintings dated in the 1700's and stained glass windows

After a fine trip, cool and not too wet, they returned to find it had rained at home.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—by Deskins Wells

FRED COX is interested in the proposed brine lake that has been proposed for the southwest part of this county from the standpoint of potential pollution of underground fresh water that is being used for irrigation. He has asked the Commissioners Court to help make a study of the matter.

THE BRINE lake on Dry Salt Creek would cover the northeast corner of Hall County and the northwest corner of Childress at the point where they touch Collingsworth. In fact this point would be approximately the center of the proposed lake. This is not the southwest corner of Collingsworth for our county extends farther west than Childress. The primary reason for building this and other salt control lakes is to lower the salt content of Red River and Lake Texhoma. In addition to this it is thought that it would provide recreational facilities for people of this area. No money has been appropriated for the construction up to now. Construction will take about five years after the money is available.

THOUGHTS of the streams of this area bring to mind the fact that Salt Fork should have been named the Elm Fork and Elm Creek should have been named Salt Fork. That is the way the early surveyors named them; but a draftsman or somebody got the names reversed and that is the way the Legislature passed the bill naming them. Both streams are fresh water during their entire flow in present day Texas; but Elm becomes salty after it passes through the salt beds in Oklahoma.

ONCE ALL THIS land was Greer County, Texas. It consisted of the land east and south of the North Fork of Red River and east of the 100th meridian. This is now part or all of Greer, Beckham, Jackson, Harmon and Tillman Counties in Oklahoma. The people in Austin were so far away and knew so little about this region that they made no serious effort to keep it when the energetic and land hungry Oklahomans set about getting the Suprene Court to declare the Prairie Dog Fork of Red River as the legal boundary between the two states.

PREVIOUS officials in Austin had given away the western side of the Panhandle and South Plains for the purpose of building a Capitol building in Austin. Why bother about a few more thousands of sections of land on the eastern side of that far away country known as the Panhandle. Besides the gentlemen in Austin were very busy characters in those days. This was about the time that a band of gun toting robbers stole all the gold in the state treasury and rode out west along the Colorado River. That was the rumor they spread. Actually they crept back to their homes in Austin that same night and were out on the street the next morning helping their neighbors discuss the robbery.

ton Leader that water surveys made of the county show that the same formation exists across the south part of the county. Gravity flow, he believes, would tend to carry the salt water to the east and southeast.

It is also a familiar fact that much of the area lies over gypsum formations riddled with "gyp sinks" or "gyp holes".

Ranchers who build ponds sometimes lose them when the bottom drops into one of these gyp formations.

"We are concerned for both stock water that would be pumped from the ground," Mr. Cox emphasized.

Mr. Cox further pointed out that oil companies no longer use surface ponds to dispose of salt water from drilling operations. This is pumped back into deep holes drilled for that purpose.

He questioned why the Corps of Army Engineers cannot use some similar method to dispose of salt water from springs and salt formations that now contaminates Red River.

"I know what their point is. They want pure water in Lake Texhoma, but we do not want our irrigation water ruined," Mr. Cox declared.

Fred Cox and R.L. Maybery have raised a question with far-reaching ramifications.

The Red River Basin project covering 5 areas of brine concentrations in the lower Panhandle and western Oklahoma came out ot the Arkansas-Red River Basin Water Control Study, authorized by Congress in the Flood Control Act of 1970.

Information on the projects was released by Col. Vernon W. Pinkney, CE, District Engineer, Tulsa District, Corps of Engineers about June 15.

As it is understood here, the salt control project is approved and only awaits funding by Congress, Judge Thomas said. Completion of the lake would be about 5 years after the money is available.
