Rumania Harassed By Riots, Threats

Pan-American Experts Advocate U.S. Declaration Of War

Opinions Clash At Conference On Relations

Belief Expressed Conflict Would Solidify Americas

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 2—Suggested declaration of war by the United States on Germany and Italy as a means of solidifying American republics and halting totalitarian conquests brought mixed raction in an international relations conference here today.

During informal discussion following the regular program of the University of Texas "war and the western hemisphere" conclave of Pan-American experts, the war declaration proposal set off a sometimes impassioned debate.

Defense Is Favored

Program speakers favored U. S. military defense preparations for general purposes, some outspokenly for war, while several youthful speakers from the audience voiced opposition to war under any circumstances.

J. Lloyd Mecham of the university, chairman of the conference committee, started the war declaration discussion when, in answer to a question, he said:

"There must be immediate action in the United States to first, organize the western hemisphere into a unified economic group and second immediately declare war on the axis powers.

Should Aid Britain

"I think that is what should be done. We should give all possible aid to Great Britain while building our own defenses."

Carlos E. Casteneda, University of Texas history professor, agreed with Mecham, asserting:

"A declaration of war would make the United States a military nation, speed up military preparations and force the Latin-Americans to realize that our country is ready to fight to the end."

Alfredo Vasquez of El Paso, a former university student, rejoined with:

"A war of defense, yes; a war of offense, no. War is the last thing we should resort to as a means of fostering peace."

Orton Talks To Educators Here

America's next frontier lies in a greater development of human values, President Dwayne C. Orton of Stockton Junior college, Stockton, Calif., told approximately 200 educators in the final session of a three-day guidance conference in the women's dormitory at Texas Technological college Tuesday night.

"Not long ago a group of students in a certain university were carrying banners in sympathy with a striking labor element and one of the banners read, 'We want bread, but we want roses, too,'" President Orton said. "A great ground swell is taking place in our general education. . . . Responsive to a certain socio-cultural trend . . . a trend to demand more and more of the qualitative aspects of life.

Objectives Sought

"We have almost become worshipers of science and its applications," he said, "but mechanical achievements have their by-products in human welfare and there lies our next frontier—our new frontier."

The Californian, a leader in the guidance movement not only in his own state but throughout the nation, explained technically to his audience how the faculty of his school is seeking "to find our objectives in the human stuff as that human stuff works itself out." And in his talk he warned the educators that "you've got to go down the spinning grooves of change" to develop this human aspect of our general education system.

President Orton's talk climaxed the three-day conference which opened Sunday and continued throughout Monday and Tuesday with many leading educators participating. Dean Colby D. Hall of Texas Christian university, Fort Worth, opened the conference with his address Sunday night in the

Beer Store At Whiteface Is Robbed Of $41

(Special To The Avalanche)

WHITEFACE, July 2.—Two men entered a beer retailing store here tonight and robbed the attendant of $41 in bills and a small amount of change at gun point.

Sheriff Tom Standefer and his deputy, Jim York, immediately came here from Morton to institute an investigation. The sheriff could not be reached at midnight and early results of his investigation could not be learned.

The men, one tall, the other neatly dressed and clean shaven, entered the store about 9:30 o'clock and demanded the mony.

Descriptions Given

One of the men was described at about 35 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall. He was wearing khaki clothing.

The taller was about 6 feet and about the same age, wearing gray trousers and white shirt.

The pair fled in a 1934 or '35 Ford pickup, the victim told investigating officers.

Amarillo authorities sought to link the Whiteface hijackers with a similar holdup in the Panhandle city earlier in the night. The descriptions were said to have fitted two men involved at Amarillo.

Search Is Launched

A dragnet was thrown over this section soon after the robbery was reported to Sheriff Tom Standefer of Morton. Descriptions of the pair were broadcast over the Lubbock police shortwave broadcast station.

Several cars were stopped at various points but none had been arrested at midnight.

Lewis Endorses Sen. Wheeler For Presidency

Solon Only One Who Can Beat Willkie, CIO Head Declares

(By The Associated Press)

JOHN L. LEWIS endorsed Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana for president yesterday while the senator himself said definitely that his name would be placed in nomination at the Democratic convention regardless of whether President Roosevelt ran.

Meanwhile, Wendell Willkie in New York appointed a 12-member advisory committee to conduct his Republican campaign, inviting Taft and Dewey campaign managers and Republican congressional leaders to serve with his own lieutenants.

Only Possible Winner

Lewis, addressing the national convention of the Townsend pension plan in St. Louis, said that Wheeler was the only Democrat who could defeat Willkie and that he stood for "peace at home and for non-intervention in European war."

Wheeler, in St. Louis to address a "stay-out-of-war" meeting, made a dramatic appearance before the Townsend convention shortly after Lewis spoke.

With the bushybrowed CIO labor leader sitting on the speaker's platform—he had waited 40 minutes for Wheeler's arrival—the senator made a vigorous plea for a "strong, liberal" peace movement, outside the two major parties if necessary. He declared he would not support any candidate who was not pledged to keep this country out of war.

Republicans Fail

"The Republicans have not only failed to go down the line against war but they have nominated a candidate who has said our first line of defense is in Europe," Wheeler said.

"I do not subscribe to that. Our first line of defense is preserving democracy, seeing that the aged are protected, seeing that the 10,000,000 unemployed get work, and seeing that civil liberties are preserved."

Unless the Democratic party adopts a "progressive" platform and nominates a presidential candidate pledged to peace, the senator said there would be "no difference" between it and the Republican party.

Demand "Peace" Party

"Then," he continued, "there will be a tremendous demand for a strong, liberal peace party which will give the people a chance to vote on war or peace."

Wheeler, in an interview this morning, had announced his name would be presented to the Democratic national convention, regard-

Woolridge, Harvey To Teach At Slaton

SLATON, July 2. (Special)—H. I. Woolridge, instructor in the summer band school at Texas Technological college, was elected band director of Slaton public schools, in a board meeting here Monday night.

Marvin J. Harvey was elected to teach in Junior High school.

Woolridge has studied in Chicago, New York and has an outstanding record as a musician and a band director. He has had six years experience with high school bands and two with college bands. He played with John Philip Sousa for several seasons.

He is married and will assume duties in Slaton immediately. He succeeds Jim Nevins who will teach in Pampa.

Harvey receives his master of arts degree from Tech in August. He has been teaching at Roosevelt Rural High school for the past two years.

Tornadic Wind Hits Central Texas Town

TAYLOR, July 2. (AP)—Tornadic winds and driving rain at Thorndale tonight smashed the two-story high school building, unroofed a gin and oil mill and plunged the town into darkness.

Thorndale is 18 miles east of here.

Herbert Patterson, United States weather observer here, visited the town and reported a number of homes unroofed and that the damage was heavy, although no one was reported to have been injured.

DALLAS, July 2. (AP)—Limpy Patterson, Two-Gun Smith and some of the other cowboy ghosts may wail when they read this: State Democratic party officials announced here today that the Texas delegation to the national convention in Chicago will wear huge straw sombreros instead of the hallowed ten-gallon hats for which conventioning Texans long have been known.

Stimson Approved By Senate Group

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 2. — The Senate military committee approved the nomination of Henry L. Stimson, Republican, as secretary of war today, after two hours of questioning which produced statements that the nominee opposed sending troops beyond American borders unless the protection of this country should make such action necessary.

At the same time, the Senate naval committee fired questions at Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for secretary of the navy; received a staunch denial that he ever had urged giving military support to the Allies, and deferred action on the nomination until tomorrow.

No Pledge Given

Both Knox, the Republican party's 1936 vice presidential nominee, and Stimson secretary of state in the Hoover cabinet, told the committees that no anti-third term pledge by President Roosevelt was involved in the negotiations leading to their appointments.

The two were named to the cabinet on June 19, in a move which produced breathless surprise both in political Washington and in Philadelphia, where the Republican platform drafters were then meeting. The Republican national committee promptly read the two out of the party.

While readily praising the abilities of the two, and generally taking the position that their appointment strengthened the cabinet, Republicans for the most part wanted to know more about what was involved, and so today's hearings were ordered.

Other Developments

The Stimson appointment was approved 14 to 3, and administration factions within the naval committee are of the opinion that when the Knox nomination comes to a vote tomorrow not more than five votes will be cast against confirmation.

In addition to the committee hearings, the day also produced action by President Roosevelt to clamp rigid restrictions upon the exportation of a long list of industrial, manufacturing and chemical products which are considered of vital importance to the national defense program. The items included may be exported only with special permission. The president appointed Lieut. Col. Russell L. Max-

O'Daniel Again Opens Attacks On Politicians

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WACO, July 2.—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel tonight roared defiance at professional politicians, reviewed the record of his first term and predicted the people in the July primary would finish "cleaning out the political stables in Austin."

It was the first outdoor speech of his campaign for re-election. He asserted he planned to make others in various sections, if it was possible to do so without neglecting official duties.

Overlapping Rapped

He declared he would not be diverted from his purpose of carrying out his responsibilities by "the criticism, slander and slime of the guttersnipe politician."

The governor lashed at "ding dong daddies," who, he said, were feasting at the political pie counter and running the government while 6,000,000 common people went hungry.

Then he denounced the system of overlapping boards and commissions, branding it a trick of professional politicians which stripped the executive of power to remedy conditions.

He declared the department of public safety, the board of control, the game department and other similarly administered state agencies were "giant oligarchies," not responsible to the governor or the people.

Politicians Blamed

Reviewing his first term, he said he had recommended legislation to finance social security and make needed governmental reforms, but the legislature had not followed his recommendations.

The reason laws he advocated were not enacted was that the professional politicians knew they were

Princesses Will Not Be Sent To Safety

LONDON, July 2. (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth have firmly rejected suggestions from influential quarters that Princess Elizabeth, 14, heiress presumptive to the throne, and her sister Princess Margaret Rose be sent out of the country to one of the dominions because of the danger of a German invasion, the Daily Mail said tonight.

Repeated efforts to persuade the royal pair to send the two princesses to a safer land have received this answer in effect:

"We all face a common peril. Thousands of parents in this country are compelled to keep their children at home. We would prefer to share whatever family perils there may be with parents of this country."

Chances Are Somebody Will Be Killed In Lubbock Tomorrow; Safety Warning Given

CHANCES are better than fair that Lubbock and vicinity will have a fatal accident Thursday — or, incidentally, Friday.

Capt. W. W. Legge of the Texas Highway patrol has a word in that respect:

Leave off drinking and start extended trips in time that it will not be necessary to hurry."

Highways to Stamford and Levelland, where Fourth of July rodeos will be staged, will be given special attention by patrolmen, Captain Legge said. Every precaution will be taken to prevent accidents.

The patrol captain pointed out that many mishaps happen the day following Independence day each year. He advised that those returning from holiday trips should drive sanely.

Pedestrians might well heed safety precautions, according to statistics issued Tuesday by the driver's license division of the highway patrol.

Reports through the first five months of 1940 reveal that 25 per cent of Texas traffic victims were pedestrians. The fatality list for pedestrians rose to 165, a 7 per cent increase over the same period last year.

Lubbock's three traffic victims this year have all been pedestrians, although those walking carelessly in city streets were

Advanced Flying School Granted

Clint Breedlove was advised Tuesday that his application for an advanced flying school in Lubbock had been approved by the government.

"Your application for advanced flying school rating approved today. Certificate being issued effective this date," said a telegram signed Lanter, chief of the technical section of the Civil Aeronautics authority.

The important announcement means Lubbock will be able to give courses prerequisite to commercial piloting. Until the CAA program there were only 13 such flying schools in the entire country.

Equal To Dallas

"We will have the same rating as the Dallas Aviation school, the Spartan School of Aeronautics and the Ryan School of Aeronautics," Breedlove said, explaining that higher horsepower planes would be used.

"We will continue instruction in primary flight courses," he said "and will take up the advanced flight instruction as a further step.

Planes to be used in the advanced flight course will be from 120-225 horsepower, as compared with the 40-65 horsepower ships used by primary flight classes, of which there have been two from Texas Technological college. Such planes would be of the Ryan S-T Myers or Fleet trainer types. A Fleet model 11 with a 160 hp Kinner engine such as the Canadians, the army and the navy are using for training pilots has been bought by Breedlove.

More Ordered

For the CAA requirements, 50 to 75 hours will be given, a third of it in dual instruction. Private license pilots "or better" will be accepted for the advanced school. The flying will be strictly that of precision training—chandelles, lazy 8's, slow and snap rolls, loops, spins and the like. It will go into acrobatic maneuvers. Those who complete it can go right on to service squadron training in case the government would accept them.

Breedlove said he would probably have to employ other flying instructors for his primary classes this fall.

He has had no definite information, but expects that the new

Nazi Raids On Britain Cause 135 Casualties

As The Allies Tell It

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 3 (Wednesday)—German bombs caused at least 135 casualties in raids on three northeastern coastal towns and in the open country of the southwest last night.

Early today, it was reported that at least 12 persons had been killed and 123 injured.

It was not immediately known whether this represented the casualties of all three northeastern towns which were attacked, or only in one of them. The southwest apparently escaped casualties.

Many of the injured were cut by flying glass splinters.

The air ministry said German aircraft flew over the coastline late last night and were met by anti-aircraft fire.

Nazi planes attacked Wales again, dropping bombs in one area.

Nazis Take Advantage

An undetermined number in a poor quarter of one northeastern town were buried in the wreckage of their homes.

It was the second successive time that Nazi raiders took advantage of the long English twilight to bomb their targets on the mainland.

The harassment by German raiders echoed in the House of Commons where Maj. Albert Newby Braithwaite asserted it was the duty of the United States "to send their fleet and their boats to take our women and children across to their country."

The air ministry announced a major success of its own, declaring that another heavy attack had been made on Germany's great 26,000-ton warship Scharnhorst.

Vessel Heavily Bombed

In a raid last night on the Kiel canal, the vital Nazi navy base, the Scharnhorst was heavily bombed, the minister said.

Four direct hits on the vessel and on the floating dock in which it

Gates Of Buchanan Dam Thrown Open

AUSTIN, July 2. (AP)—After holding back 75,000,000,000 gallons of flood waters to keep from dumping it on top of the swollen Colorado river below, Buchanan dam's gates were opened to permit a small flow today.

The lower Colorado river authority ordered the gates cracked after determining that practically all flood water in the watershed above had entered the reservoir.

The volume raised the level of Buchanan lake to within one foot of the dam's spillway.

"The water we're releasing from Buchanan dam," said Manager Max Starcke, "will not reach the flooded area until after the high water there has passed on downstream, nor will it be sufficient to cause any damage.

Authority engineers estimated the unfinished Marshall Ford dam, 16 miles above Austin, had reduced to a third the volume of water, which otherwise would have surged into the lower reaches of the stream.

Truck Driver Really Gets Bees In Pants

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 2. (AP)—Truck Driver Frank Prater is still squirming over those bees in his pants.

They swarmed into his truck cab and settled on—and in—his trousers. Prater promptly stopped the vehicle stripped beside the highway but he wasn't quick enough. Several insects stung him.

Aid Rushed To Flooded Areas

(By The Associated Press)

The unbridled Colorado river fanned out of its banks to a width of nearly 15 miles today in its tumble to the gulf and edged into the lower sections of Wharton.

At Wharton the river, one of four rampaging streams taking 10 lives and wrecking crops since Sunday, had risen to 34.8 feet.

It was a mile wide there and was within a block of the Wharton business district. Surplus oil was burned in oil fields to keep it from ruining inundated crops.

Hundreds Homeless

Elsewhere in Texas excess waters caused concern and hardship. In and near Texarkana flooded streams, loaded with 11.20 inches of rain in 36 hours, marooned families in lowlands, chased scores of persons from their homes and caused damage to crops and property estimated at upwards of $100,000.

To Hallettsville, small town about half-way between Houston and San Antonio, rushed Boys Scouts, CCC boys, NYA and WPA workers, firemen and others to help restore normal conditions. Hundreds were homeless there. Food and clothing were lacking. More than 2,200 persons have been innoculated against epidemic disease since Sunday and apparently the threat of widespread

Restoration Of Rate Reduction Is Asked

DALLAS, July 2. (AP)—Officers of the Freight Equality federation and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce tonight adopted a resolution asking the Texas railroad commission to restore in full effect its May 15 order which lowered rates 13 per cent.

The new rates were to have gone into effect July 1.

A petition by 60 rail carriers and 93 truck lines on June 19 asking for rehearing on the rate victory for the shippers was refused by the commission, but six days later, on the grounds of new evidence showing a loss of 11 1-2 per cent in business, the common carrier motor freight association succeeded in gaining the rehearing.

Street Fighting Is Reported; Jews Shot Down, Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

BUCHAREST, July 3. (Wednesday) — Anti-Semitic rioting, with Jews shot down and beaten, swept in a bloody wave overnight throughout old Rumania—harassed from within, shorn of two provinces, and threatened with Balkan war jeopardizing two more.

Street fighting broke out less than 24 hours after King Carol turned about from British alliances and appealed to the axis powers for help to save his kingdom.

The capital was blacked out for the first time. Ambulances sped to scenes of rioting. And from Soviet-seized Bessarabia and Bucovina the general staff rushed Rumania's full war strength to the frontiers of menaced Transylvania and Dobruja, facing Hungary and Bulgaria.

Disorders occurred in scattered towns from the capital to Jassy, near the border of Soviet-occupied Bessarabia, but were described as worst, in Bucharest where bitter fighting broke out among university students.

Some Are Shot

(Observers at Budapest reported increasingly violent anti-Jewish outbreaks and demonstrations generally through Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia. Reports reaching Budapest from Rumania told of beatings, persecutions and some killings.)

Wealthy Jews fled from their homes in cities to refuge in the country.

Some new disorders were reported at Galati despite the vigilance of heavy military patrols on duty since riots last Sunday.

Near the Prut river Jewish women and children were said to have been dragged from trains and beaten. There were reports that some were hurled beneath the wheels of moving trains or shot in their seats in the darkness as the trains sped through tunnels.

Several Are Injured

In Bucharest, ambulances were called to several riots. The worst fighting was at Polytechnic High school where several were injured critically.

The internal disturbances came at a tense hour when Rumania's armies were massed on her borders, where scattered fighting already has been reported and a major conflict is feared over the claims of her neighbors to Rumanian territory.

Hungary demands the vast, rich lands of Transylvania and Bulgaria wants southern Dobruja.

Communists in Russian-occupied Bessarabia held protest meetings because Soviet authorities appointed three members of King Carol's newly-formed Rumanian party of the nation to retain their posts in the new Soviet territory. The men

Waco Policeman Is Shot And Killed

WACO, July 2. (AP)—A Waco policeman, Elmer Huddleston, 40, was shot and killed tonight and three men were wounded in an exchange of gunfire in south Waco.

Two of the men are in a Waco hospital—one wounded in the stomach and the other in the neck. The third man, shot in the right arm, is in the Waco jail.

Ira Royals, Waco policeman who was with Huddleston, said the officers stopped a car to investigate its three occupants. As the three men stepped to the street, the firing began.

Royals, who joined the Waco police force only a day ago, was uninjured.

Huddleston had been on the force for more than five years.

No charges had been filed against the three men tonight.

Munster Raided By British Aces

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MUNSTER, Germany, July 3 (Wednesday)—Residents of historic Munster fled to their cellars and were kept there three hours as British bombers harassed the city for the third successive night in a continuation of air raids that extended throughout most of the industrial Ruhr valley.

Anti-aircraft guns roared periodically during the raid which started a few minutes after midnight last night.

Fire engines screamed through the darkened streets. Incendiary bombs apparently were dropped, although few explosions were heard.

Amount of damage could not be determined immediately.

From the vicinity of my hotel I was able to see an uncanny show of night air attack.

The roar of planes overhead was heard plainly.

Residents, who had been forced to the air raid cellars before, told me it has become customary for the raiders to bomb Munster, then sweep on to other cities of the Ruhr either to attack industrial plants, airdromes, or to set on edge the nerves of the civil populace.

Other defense developments:

Contracts Announced

The navy announced the negotiation of contracts for Diesel engines for 22 submarines, totaling $17,634,521.

President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing the commissioner of patents to keep secret all patents related to national defense.

The army announced that temporary housing units would be constructed to shelter the thousands of additional troops to be recruited.

It was learned that 16 labor leaders, representing the AFL, the CIO, and the railway brotherhoods had been called in to act as an advisory committee on labor policy under the national defense program.

Vote Is Delayed

The naval committee, making rapid progress, had expected to reach a vote on the Knox nomination today. But late in the day, Senator Hold (D-WVa) brought up a newspaper column by Helen Essary, which on June 22 quoted Knox as having said: "We should go into Europe at once, not only with cash and credit and supplies, but with men."

Knox denied having made such a statement, but Holt insisted that Miss Essary be called, and the committee recessed until tomorrow, planning to hear her then.

At another point, Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) asked Knox if he had ever publicly or privately "urged giving military support to the Allies."

"Never," was the crisp reply.

struck by death less frequently than those on rural highways, the report said.

Nearly twice as many lost their lives on Saturdays as on any other day of the week and 57 per cent killed during the hours of darkness.

The pedestrian problem usually is associated with children, although only 21 of 165 pedestrians killed in Texas were of school age while 41 were over 65 years old. Ten children under 4 years old were killed when playing in streets and roadways.

Accident statisticians, after a study of pedestrian accident reports, issued the following warnings:

1. Cross streets only at intersections or at designated crosswalks.

2. When necessary to walk in or along a roadway, always walk on the left side facing traffic.

3. Walking at night in rural areas is extremely dangerous—wear light colored clothing, carry a flashlight or use some other means to be certain the motorist can see you.

4. Be extremely cautious whenever near motor vehicular traffic.

Licenses Have Magic Effect On Sex Of Population Of Dogs

DALLAS, July 2 (AP)—Human nature note:

Last year Dallas' dog tax for females was 2.50, for males 1.

Now the tax is the same for females and males—$1.

The proportion of males to females among Dallas dogs declared for tax payments a year ago was 10 to 1.

Today, said L. L. Kirven, head cashier in the tax collector's office, the ratio is about 2 to 1.

"The reduction of the female tax fee," said Kirven, "has had a magical effect on the sex of Dallas dogs, increasing the number of females and decreasing the number of males."

expressed the opinion war was the simplest answer to unrest in all the Americas.

"Apparently our ordinary democratic methods are too slow for the lightning moves of dictatorships. It would be unpleasant to abandon our time-honored policies but possibly it will become necessary."

The current world crisis will put the national administration's good neighbor policy to an extreme test, Henry F. Grady, assistant secretary of state, informed the conference.

Efforts Are Needed

"The situation that faces us today," Grady asserted, "calls for redoubled efforts toward Inter-American economic cooperation."

Speakers agreed dynamic diplomacy by the United States seemed the strongest need of the hour.

Herbert I. Priestley, University of California history professor, asserted "the United States must slap down the European aggressor before he surprises us. We must forget this 'gentle neighbor' policy and become a vigorous good neighbor."

Speaking on "western hemisphere neutrality and steps to secure non-involvement," Russell H. Fitzgibbon, University of California at Los Angeles political science professor, expressed similar beliefs.

Latin-America Prepared

John I. B. McCulloch, of Washington, D. C. international relations publications editor, said he believed the major Latin-American countries were prepared to back a Pan-American program.

The editor declared the "ABC powers" of South America—Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico—would make or break inter-American solidarity.

He predicted coming Argentine elections would show one party supporting the U. S.—advocated Pan-America policy and another aligned against it.

The Scharnhorst, which the British had claimed to have damaged on two other occasions, was reported laid up for repairs.

The British raiders, the air ministry said, struck home through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire; one plane was repeatedly hit.

Fires Are Visible

Fires on the naval base and ship were still visible to the crew of this crippled craft, it was added, when they were "85 miles away on their homeward journey."

The battleship and the dockyard were continuously attacked for nearly an hour.

A series of explosions, the ministry said, was followed by half a dozen fires through the dockyards which, from aloft, appeared to be "a solid mass of flame covering as much space as a big airdrome."

Carol set up the party, with himself at its head, June 21, and commanded the whole nation to fall in step with the new totalitarian political system based on the Nazi pattern.

To Stay Rumanian

Meanwhile the foreign affairs committee of the Rumanian Chamber of Deputies was told by Foreign Minister Constantine Argetoianu that the lost colonies of Bessarabia and Bucovina "are still and will remain Rumanian"—indicating Rumania expects to get them back sometime, possibly with German aid.

He admitted, however, that "one of the main reasons for our consent to Russia's demands was that we found ourselves without friends and without support."

This was taken as substantiating reports that Germany refused to heed Rumania's appeal for help until King Carol's government formally cut all ties with the Allies and pledged full entrance into the Nazi military, economic and political spheres of influence.

Bombers Arrive

After that pledge was given German bombers arrived at Brasov last night.

Rumanian government sources charged that Hungary is trying to foment a revolution among the 1,500,000 Magyars in Transylvania to facilitate the eventual entry of the Hungarian army into the big, rich province.

Rumanian police and gendarmes are understood to have begun widespread raids on Hungarian homes and business houses in Transylvania in a search for arms.

Hitler May Be Ready

As a whole, however, government quarters pinned their hopes for peaceful settlement of Rumania's territorial disputes with Hungary and Bulgaria on the diplomatic pressure of Germany.

They expressed the belief that Adolf Hitler now may be ready to offer military and political protection to this country in return for complete control of Rumania's economic life—in order to safeguard the Reich's interest in Rumania.

"The insecurity of our frontiers with Hungary and Bulgaria forced us to relinquish Bessarabia and north Bucovina," the foreign minister told the committee.

Army Reinforced

The government, he explained, found that the Franco-British guarantees of Rumanian independence "hampered us instead of helping us."

While Argetoianu spoke, the Russians were reported pouring engineers, agricultural experts, OGPU (secret service) officers and fresh divisions of the red army into Bessarabia and north Bucovina to put the stamp of Communism as rapidly as possible on the now completely-occupied territory.

Guidera To Head Angelo Field

SAN ANTONIO, July 2. (AP)—Randolph field officials expressed the belief today that Lieut. Col. A. M. Guidera, executive officer of the air corps primary flying school at the field, is slated to become the commander of the new training field at San Angelo.

The new field is to be built at San Angelo in time to start operation by the first of the year and will be a sub-field of the advanced school at Kelly field.

No Orders Issued

Col. Guidera has been detailed to study needs of the new training base of the gulf training center of the air corps. The gulf training center is the new designation given to the air corps training center since the new expanded training program has been started recently.

While no official orders have been issued by the war department of the assignment of Col. Guidera, military circles were thought that the orders favoring the move are fairly certain. The assumption is that since Col. Guidera has the rank and has been detailed to the study of the new field, he will be selected for the post.

Feeling at San Angelo seems to agree with the rumors here concerning the expected assignment, army officials said.

Hundred Planes

Col. Guidera is serving his fifth duty tour in Texas and his third tour at San Antonio.

Equally tentative as the assignment of the new field's commander, is the actual program of construction. From surveys made of the needs for the training base, facilities are to be provided to train 200 students, 100 being graduated every five weeks.

Besides the students, there will be 48 officers who will be the administrative and training personnel as well as two school squadrons of about 200 men each and an air base squadron of 342 men.

It is planned to have about 100 training planes for the school there.

Wheeler declined in the interview to say whether he would support Mr. Roosevelt if nominated, pending "assurance" that the Democratic platform and candidate would not "get us into war."

Lewis, in his address, made the prophecy that Mr. Roosevelt would be defeated "ignominously" by Willkie if the president ran for a third term.

Dr. D. A. Shirley of West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon, spoke briefly at the dinner session last night on the work of the commission on coordination. NYA Boys Working

State National Youth Administrator J. C. Kellam reported in Austin that more than 100 NYA boys were helping out at Hallettsville. Authority to send 200 WPA workers into the flood areas was granted at San Antonio.

Much of the 5,000,000 damage accruing from the floods occurred at this small town.

The Guadalupe river apparently had reached its crest at 31.4 feet at Cuero.

At Victoria the river reached 29.2 and stood there. The Lavaca river fell two feet at Edna.

Stream Is Rising

The Navidad stream, however, was rising between Edna and Ganada, going four feet over the Houston highway and stopping highway and rail traffic. Damage to bottom land crops around Victoria was considerable.

Heavy rains fell overnight in East-Central Texas, from Fort Worth and Dallas southeast to Corsicana. Creeks were loaded and probably will go out of their banks. The Trinity river at Dallas neared a 28-foot stage after a rain of 1.13 inches.

Corsicana reported 2.10 inches and Fort Worth 1.46. Lake Dallas, between Denton and Dallas, appeared headed for levels above its spillway. It went over the spillway once last month.

Mobilization In Hungary Rushed

(By The Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, July 2—Hungarian and Rumanian officials exchanged bitter words over Transylvania tonight, and Hungary gave every sign of determination to regain that old Magyar province in one way or another.

Mobilization went full ahead, notwithstanding Germany's increasingly urgent efforts to keep peace in the Balkans lest their own economic interests be smashed in war.

Responsible persons denied reports that a demilitarized zone had been set up on the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier.

May Make Alliance

To avoid a conflict, it was believed here, Germany might go so far as to make a definite military and political alliance with Rumania. German activity was described authoritatively as involving "the strongest pressure."

If this were achieved, and the German inclined Hungarian army, through peaceful arrangement with Rumania were permitted to occupy all or part of Transylvania, Germany's position in southeast Europe would be fortified against the danger of further Russian encroachment.

What Hitler's government is keenly striving for, it appeared here, was a peaceful settlement of Hungarian-Rumanian difficulties which would provide better protection for the Rumanian oil fields on which he so depends — fields now under the shadow of Soviet guns.

Trains Stranded As Bridges Washed Out

PALESTINE, July 2. (AP)—Two trains were stranded in this section tonight as the result of torrential rains that washed out 150 feet of track and broke a dam at Elkhart lake south of here.

Precipitation measured four inches, making Boxes creek into a raging torrent and sending it five feet over the highway between Elkhart and Grapeland.

The track was washed out on the Missouri Pacific line at Elkhart dam. One train was stranded eight miles south of here and the other 12 miles north of here at Wells' creek which was three feet over the track.

In Palestine there was much damage to streets, especially to an incompleted paving project, but there was no damage to buildings.

Fiscal Year Just Ended Shows Largest Peace Time Spending In U. S. History

Almost Ten Billion Spent

WASHINGTON, July 2. (U.P.) — The treasury's final analysis of government financial operations in the fiscal year 1940 today showed expenditures of $9,666,085,539, the largest peace-time total in history.

The final figures were for June 29, which was the largest business day of the fiscal year.

The year's income amounted to $5,924,836,402, leaving a gross deficit of $3,741,249,136. The government ended the previous fiscal year $3,600,514,404 in the red.

Receipts Gain

The receipts were $257,000,000 more than in the previous fiscal year, due largely to a sharp boost in miscellaneous internal revenue tax collections. Income taxes, however, were $63,000,000 below collections in the previous year.

Treasury officials were surprised by the large size of customs receipts, which amounted to $348,590,635 as compared with $318,837,311 in the corresponding period last year. They had anticipated a severe drop in receipts from this source because of the war's effect on import trade.

On the spending side of the ledger, national defense accounted for $1,558,762,921—the largest category of outgo. Of this amount $891,624,558 was spent by the navy and the remainder by the war department.

WPA Big Item

Next largest item was $1,477,537,908 spent by the Works Projects administration. However, this was a drop from the $2,239,603,411 spent by WPA in fiscal 1939.

The third largest spending item was $1,040,935,896 for interest on the public debt, which stood at $42,967,531,037 at the year's end. It represented an increase of almost $100,000,000 over interest payments in the previous year.

The agricultural adjustment program cost the government $1,020,147,739 in the 1940 fiscal year as against $786,597,452 in the previous period.

The government ended the year with gold reserves at a record high total of $19,963,074,512, an increase of $3,853,080,546 in one year.

Huge Recycling Plant Permitted In Order

NEW ORLEANS, July 2. (U.P.) — Conservation Commissioner B. A. Hardey announced last night an order had been issued to permit construction of a huge recycling plant for the cotton valley oil field in northwestern Louisiana.

Estimates of the plant, which had been discussed for several months, ranged up to $18,000,000, which would make it one of the largest in the world. Hardey said the order resulted from an agreement worked out earlier yesterday at a meeting of oil operators and land and royalty owners.

Account Of First Rodeo Is Written By Newspaperman

EDITOR'S NOTE: The first rodeo as far as records show, was held at Pecos, Texas, July 4, 1883, just 57 years ago Thursday. The following, dated that day and year, gives a story of the affair as it might have been written at that time. It first appeared in the Pecos Enterprise of which Vestal Lott, former Lubbock newspaperman, is editor.

PECOS CITY, Texas, July 4, 1883. —Something new was started in this little cow-town today, something previously unheard-of — a planned "cowboy contest," with cash prizes, barbecue, and everything.

Morgan Livingston, tophand of the NA ranch, made the best time in the steer roping, held in the south part of town near the courthouse. Trav Windham, boss of the Lazy Y's, drew second place. Cash prizes were $25 for first and $15 for second place.

This settles the argument that has been going around for the past several months as to which ranch had the best ropers. Jim Mannin, Pate Beard, George Brookshire, Jim Slack, Henry Slack, Howard Collier, represented the Hashknife ranch; Jeff Chism and Henry Miller rode for the W ranch; Trav Windham for the Lazy Y; Morgan and Jim Livingston were in town rooting for the NA ranch.

Were Swapping Yarns

It all started when a bunch of the cowhands were swapping yarns down in front of Red Newell's saloon. Trav Windham of the Lazy Y's was leaning against a hitching post. Pate Beard of the Hashknife outfit was slouched against the corner of the building. Several others were crowded around.

The conversation soon turned to roping and an argument arose about which outfit had the best ropers. Each ranch had its own champions and the argument grew warm. It wasn't a new argument. It had been going on for years among some of the cowhands.

Others assisting in the events were, Brawley Oates from the Ira Hawkins ranch; John Chalk, Cooksey and Clayton ranch; E. P. Stuckler from the Stockton country. John Coalson of the 101 ranch was slated to be here but he had some cows in the bog up the river and couldn't make it.

Profitable Day

Little Nick Newell had a very profitable day as so many of his rancher friends were here and after several trips to Tom Babb's saloon, they took care of Nick in a grand manner. A free barbecue was enjoyed by everyone visiting the city, the beef being donated by the various cowmen. It was estimated that at least a thousand folks were on hand to enjoy the barbecue at the noon hour, and plenty of food was left for supper.

This little cow-town, with its handful of saloons and stores, huddled around the railroad station, was crowded with people.

Business was booming, especially around the saloons. Four ranch outfits were in town. And with four ranch outfits in one town at the same time, something is bound to happen. Something did here today.

Finally it was decided to stage a "cowboy contest" to settle the issue. And stage one they did. The news spread rapidly and soon the town was overcrowded with people. Cash prizes were posted and the leading ropers from each ranch selected. The contestants squared off in the south part of town for the contest.

Cowhands competed against each other at roping on ranches on different occasions, but this is the first time, as far as is known here that a planned contest was ever staged.—Pecos Enterprise.

Garrison Issues Safety Warning

AUSTIN, July 2. (U.P.)—Texans will celebrate a dangerous fourth of July unless they are extremely careful, Col. Homer Garrison, jr., director of state police warned today, pointing to the 42-person traffic death toll of last Independence day. He feared 50 fatalities this year.

If automobile smash-ups don't get you there is still a chance that the water will. Col. Garrison warned the thousands of vacationers headed for lakes, swimming pools, and gulf beaches to stay within range of life guards, not to overload boats, and not to over-tax swimming strength.

The state police rules for safe driving are: Lower speed, stay sober, observe standard driving rules.

Extra patrolmen will be assigned to principal highways.

Oil Men To Celebrate Field's Birthday

SNYDER, July 2. (Special)—Oil men of West Texas are expected here Thursday for a celebration to mark a year's activity in the famous Sharon Ridge oil pool of Scurry county, where 76 wells are drilling, compared to three just a year ago.

Emmitt Treves and Louie Vaughn, oil operators, with the chamber of commerce, arranged plans.

A rodeo is to be held in the Bishop pasture, a mile north and two west of the Sharon store, starting at 9 o'clock. Goat roping will be for amateurs, with a baseball game to follow.

At noon a picnic dinner will be served, each group to bring its own lunch. Rodeo events will be held in the afternoon.

Red Invasion Significant

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Russian adventure in the Balkans holds more potentialities than a school-boy's pockets.

Communist Chieftain Stalin continues to play his cards close to his chest. Whatever way you look at it, however, his move patently is inimical to German interests and he has Herr Hitler on an embarrassing spot in view of the impending German assault on England.

Nazidom Is Upset

It is quite clear that the shrewd Muscovite is running counter to Nazidom in at least three ways. He is jeopardizing Hitler's all-important Balkan war and food supplies. He is invading a peninsula which Germany long has regarded as her special preserve. He is greatly strengthening his strategic position for defense (or offense, for that matter) against the Reich.

That war between the Bolshevists and the Nazis will grow out of this sooner or later seems like a foregone conclusion. At the moment, however, Hitler is striving to maintain peace.

He doesn't want trouble with Russia while he is attempting to crush and dismember the British empire. Also, it is vital that he protect his Balkan supplies.

It's An Ill Wind

This ill wind which is blowing across the Reich from Moscow might easily prove to be a good wind for England. About the only adverse effect it could have on Britain would be to force Hitler to speed up his attack in an attempt to end the war in the west quickly so as to take care of anything that might grow out of the Russian move.

The alternative to a quick onslaught would be an effort to starve England into submission by a blockade about the British Isles. That or the conclusion of peace.

In the matter of peace which we have been hearing so much about while I am not suggesting that it is likely, it does seem like a safe bet that Hitler must have at least paused to consider offering England some sort of terms in view of the Russian development. Should the Bolshevist threat become more grave, it wouldn't cause overwhelming surprise if he did indeed say to British Premier Churchill: "You keep what you have and I'll keep mine."

Would Pave Way

Anyway, Anglo-German developments will depend in no small degree on what Russia has up her sleeve. This invasion of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina of course cuts a lot deeper than a racial question and the return to Russia of land which she formerly held.

For generations Russia has dreamed of driving a path down the Balkan peninsula to Constantinople, to secure control of the Dardanelles and thus dominate this whole area of the eastern Mediterranean.

The River Prut joins the Danube seventy-five miles from the Black sea, and control of the Prut also gives control of the mouth of the Danube and a wide stretch of the coast. Domination here would pave the way for the drive down the peninsula to Constantinople.

People of Yugoslavia now have $1,200,000 invested in the United States.

Dies Hearing Is Planned

AUSTIN, July 2. (U.P.)—Robert E. Stripling, secretary to the Martin Dies committee on investigation of un-American activites, was here today preparing for the hearing which gets under way "either Friday or Saturday."

Stripling said Dies, now on his ranch near Jasper, would arrive here Friday morning.

Subpoenas were to be issued here today and tomorrow by U. S. marshals and the committee's own investigators to some forty or fifty witnesses, Stripling reported.

Place Not Known

He said the hearing would be executive but releases on its activities would be put out twice a day.

Stripling said witnesses would be subpoenaed from "different parts of Texas." He admitted some were being called from the vincinity of New Braunfels, Fredericksburg and Austin. He said one would come from Dallas.

Stripling said the hearing would probably last about 10 days.

No place had been named for the hearing today, but Stripling said it would likely be in either the federal building, some Capitol chamber, or a hotel suite.

Probe Of Bund Camp At Andover Is Asked

TRENTON, N. J., July 2. (AP)—The New Jersey Legisalture today asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate Camp Nordland, German-American bund camp at Andover, Sussex county.

Preliminary investigation, the resolution said, disclosed that "hundreds of people who attend gatherings at this camp have been found to be employed in many important works throughout the state."

"It has been established that uniforms are worn, the swastika displayed and the nazi salute executed in violation of the laws of the state."

Weygand Said Gone Through Athens

ATHENS, July 2 (U.P.)— Gen. Maxine Weygand, war minister in the French government and former generalissimo of the Allied armies was reported to have passed through Athens today on his way to French Syria by airplane.

(There had been reports that Weygand was on his way to see Gen. Eugene Mittelhauser, French commander in chief in Syria, in the interest of preserving peace there.)

Precautions To Make U. S. Borders Ready For Any Emergency Are Announced

WASHINGTON, July 2. (U.P.) — The first of 712 new boundary guards began intensive training today at El Paso, Texas, as the justice department announced new precautions to make the U. S. border patrol "ready for any emergency."

The Civil Service commission has been enlisting border patrol recruits for two weeks and Lemuel B. Schofield, assistant to the attorney general in charge of immigration, said the entire authorized force of new men, almost doubling the former size, probably will be on the job by July 30.

Fleet Available

One hundred men will begin the instruction in law, foreign languages, fingerprinting, use of firearms and special border patrol methods. Replacements will be ready as rapidly as classes are graduated. Untrained men will be held in readiness at sub-district headquarters on the Mexican and Canadian borders for preliminary instructions and for emergency work, the justice department said.

Additional precautions have been taken in arranging with the U. S. customs patrol and the forest service to reinforce the border guard on 24 hours notice should they be needed. "Several hundred" additional men will be available through this plan, officials said.

The justice department said border patrol equipment is being enlarged through the purchase of three autogiro for patrolling isolated areas and that there will be a fleet of 500 fast cars, 14 speedboats and shortwave radio communications to aid in spotting aliens seeking to enter the country illegally.

Fund For Relief Study Provided

PITTSBURGH, July 2. (U.P.)—A Falk foundation grant of $42,000 today was made available to 16 agencies for a nationwide study of public relief.

In announcing the grant to the Brookings institute at Washington and 15 universities, J. Steele Gow, foundation director, said the purpose of the survey is aimed at improving the relief system.

"About 22,000,000 individuals, or roughly one-sixth of our population, are receiving relief payments in some form," Gow said. "Since 1933 we have paid out more than $22,000,000,000 for relief.

"It has become urgent that an effort be made to develop ways and means of organizing and administering relief in such a way that its costs will be as economical as possible," he declared.

Universities sharing the grant with Brookings institute include: Princeton, Harvard, Michigan, Chicago, Missouri, Nebraska, Denver, North Carolina, and Oklahoma. Other universities on the Pacific coast and in the Southwest will be added.

New Candy Trend Is Toward Tanks, Guns

NEW YORK, July 2 (U.P.)—Companies making penny candies reported a new trend among their juvenile customers today, a desire for sweets in the shapes of tanks, bombers and guns.

One company said the demand was so great that a special mold maker had been hired from a jewelry firm to give the candy designs authenticity.

those clogged intestinal impurities which were so upsetting my digestion for I could not eat a single meal without terrible distress afterwards. Attacks of indigestion were almost unbearable, I would have terrible gas pains and such severe bloating I would often have to sit-up in bed in order to get my breath. I had terrible headaches, dizzy spells and was always tired and worn-out. Then I learned of Gly-Cas and through its thorough action I am feeling like my former self.

"I have not enjoyed such good health in the past fifteen years," continued Mrs. Cole. "Gly-Cas easily gave me proper elimination of those accumulated intestinal impurities so that now I am able to eat heartily of solid, nourishing foods and without suffering any ill effects afterwards. I am not troubled with those dizzy spells or dreadful headaches and have no difficulty in getting full nights of strength-giving rest and sleep. My husband also received great benefit from the use of Gly-Cas so we join in lauding the merit of this Gly-Cas remedy."

The Woman's Angle
by Margaret Turner

DR. PAUL POPENOE, as astute a judge of human nature as ever held an audience's interest for over an hour, believes the woman who deliberately sets out to improve her husband is slowly but surely building steps that lead to the scaffold of the divorce gallows.

He knows the type well, has met her in his office as a counsel of family relations so often he defines the steps that work in almost every case leading to tragedy.

At first she is a patient martyr, using "non violent, non-cooperative" means employed by Ghandi.

Then she begins to whine and complain and this may be an art and it may be a science says Doctor Popenoe.

The next step is to give sly hints which may be reading choice bits from the newspaper of what happened to a husband who did such and such a thing or else she leaves passages marked in books about the house.

If these fail, she begins to exhort and to lecture, then to tell her neighbors as if in hope that mass action may have some effect.

Threatening and denouncing are the next means employed, followed by bullying and punishing and the last step is to abandon him and sue for divorce. Not a pretty picture is it?

TYPICAL POPENOE WITICISMS

SOME couples are never happier than when they are fighting.

Far too many people make a child's game out of the most serious responsibility of life.

The average so-called glamor girl is like a blurred photo, "over exposed and under developed."

Women don't know their own minds and misunderstood husbands spend their time trying to outguess their next steps.

Too soon a couple forsakes the "You are the most wonderful person in the wrold" theme to begin "The trouble with you is—"

You can't love two girls at one time—not if they find it out.

When two persons say they have nothing in common they are telling a lie. They are each human beings, have more or less the same back ground, the same religion. One should differ with his mate in some instances to make the marriage the more interesting.

When she begins to notice her marriage is not measuring up to her expectation, a woman usually believes there is something the matter with her husband's mind.

A clinging vine may marry a domineering person but when two clinging vines wed there is often difficulty because they have nothing to which to cling.

IN HIS lecture at Tech college Monday night, Doctor Popenoe stressed that despite alarming statistics often noticed in the papers, the large part of the population of the United States is successful in marriage. Perhaps one person is married four different times, divorcing three of his wives. His divorces are counted as three failures while there is only one person involved, giving a low score to three of his fellow men who are happily married when statistics are compared.

The educational system is to blame for competitive marriages says the learned California educator. Young people who have been brought up in competition and conflict in their school and business lives do not realize that cooperation and not competition is necessary to make a go of marriage.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

TEST your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Would it be correct for the sister of a groom to give a shower for the bride?
2. May the sister of the groom entertain for the bride in any way?
3. What is a "no-break" dance?
4. Does the girl or the man take the blame for mis-step when dancing?
5. Should a man interrupt a man and woman sitting in a corner talking together in order to ask the woman if she cares to dance?

What would you do if—

You are a man having lunch with a woman in a cafeteria—

(a) Let her go ahead of you in line?

(b) You go first?

ANSWERS

1. No. She might be criticized for it.
2. Yes, in any other way—a lunch, tea, dinner.
3. One in which there is no cutting-in.
4. The man—always.
5. No. He should wait until she is dancing—then cut in.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a).

Method Of Allocating Allowables In East Texas Studied By Commissioners

Thompson And Sadler Work

KILGORE, July 2 (U.P.)—Railroad Commissioners Jerry Sadler and Ernest O. Thompson opened a hearing today to determine if the method of allocating allowables in East Texas should be changed. Commissioner Lon Smtih was not present.

The present temporary order, which expires July 7, was issued June 22, after a United States court ruling in the Rowan and Nichols case was decided in favor of the commission—the ruling calling for 2.32 per cent hourly potential and 20 barrels for each well able to produce that amount.

Charles A. Lester, of Lester and Duffey, Inc., with 24 wells in the East Texas field, asked the commission to substitute the potential order for one based on surface acreage and "end rank discrimination against the west side wells and confiscation of properties as had been the effect of every other order for East Texas."

Millions Produced

Lester charged Humble Oil and Refining company had produced millions of barrels of oil and still had the same amount left and that all came from the west side.

Ray Starnes, Gladewater producer, said the present potential order was equitable to the whole field as any order could be and "we hope it will be so arranged that there will not be shutdowns."

Questioned by Lester, Starnes said a 100 per cent acreage plan was best, but not equitable to the greatest number of operators if such were imposed now.

Rex Baker, Humble Oil and Refining company, opposed both the present order and the preceding order, as not protecting property rights. He contended Humble owned all oil under its leases and is entitled to produce it.

Continue To Ask

"Do you also contend you are the owner progressively of all oil that moves under your lease?" asked Thompson.

"Yes," replied Baker.

"That is the law of capture, isn't it?" asked Thompson.

The law of capture was defined in the Brown case as a rule of convenience, Baker replied.

Jack Blalock of Marshall questioned Baker regarding the 14.3 per cent of allowable asked by Humel, and asked if Humble would not ask a larger percentage as the field grew older.

Baker replied that Humble would continue to ask for its fair share.

Levelland Boosters Visit In Lubbock

A 50-automobile motorcade filled with Levelland residents who were talking up their July 4 through 6 15th anniversary celebration visited Lubbock Tuesday.

Hufstedler, who is to head the Lubbock delegation to the celebration Thursday, extended a welcome to the group.

Visit Other Towns

Sam Bailey and his 'singing godevil' was a feature of the broadcast and later Bailey played for a street square dance by a group of Levelland residents. Bert Wade called for the dance.

Leaving Lubbock, the boosters went to Brownfield and were scheduled to visit Seagraves, Seminole, Denver City, Hobbs, N. M., Lovington and Tatum before returning to Levelland at night. The trip is under the sponsorship of the Levelland Lions club which is also sponsoring the celebration and rodeo.

Ireland Avoided By Nazis In Bombings Of Britain

By J. W. T. MASON
United Press War Expert

Ireland is being carefully avoided by German air raiders in their bomb attacks over the British Isles, as if Hitler had planned to refrain from action that might stimulate the Irish people to strengthen their home defenses. The Germans well understand all possible advantages that might accrue to them through the division of political and social sentiment between north and south Ireland and the reluctance of the Irish Free state to cooperate with England for mutual defense. Hitler does not want to frighten the Irish into a realistic acceptance of warfare conditions.

This is good strategy for Germany, since if it succeeds, future events may allow Hitler to make some effective use of Irish unpreparedness, as his plans for attacking Great Britain are unfolded. But, at best, Ireland can play only a secondary role in a German invasion of England. Its main use to Hitler would be to provide submarine bases for attack on shipping which utilizes English and Welsh west coast ports such as Liverpool and Bristol for supplying Great Britain with food and munitions from overseas.

To obtain military possession of Ireland, however, would present far more difficult problems of transport than an invasion of England. Ireland would be easier to hold than England, once a major force had landed, but to move the necessary German divisions with their full equipment to the Irish coast would be a precarious undertaking.

Communications Hazardous

To keep open a line of communications would be even more hazardous. The nearest German base to Ireland is the French port of Brest, now in German hands. It is 250 miles from the southern tip of the Irish coastline with the open sea between. To start an armada across this lengthy stretch of waterway, passing along the whole southern coast of England would require a plan of operation to dodge the British fleet.

How that might be done Hitler may believe he knows, but the chances of success must be meager, judged by any known standard of naval strategy. Hitler has no navy of sufficient size to protect troop ships, while his airplanes could scarcely bomb British warships closing in on transports because all the vessels would be so close that enemy targets could be singled out for bombing only with the greatest difficulty. Night would offer advantageous concealment for movement of troops to Ireland, but during the summer, nights are short in the northern latitudes, and transports could not cover 250 miles in one night.

Subsidiary Place

To approach Ireland by the northern route from Norway, the nearest base, would mean a journey of more than 700 miles through boisterous waters. To run the gauntlet here of the British fleet would be much more difficult than from the south. Once in Ireland, an invasion of England across the Irish sea would mean additional difficulties if only because of the necessity for reorganization.

The natural way of invasion is through the English east coast, which is nearest to German occupied territory. If there were fighting in England and a large part of the British fleet were engaged in trying to repel the ferrying of German reinforcements and supplies to the east coast, an opportunity might then possibly arise for striking at Ireland. But, primarily the German objective seems to be the eastern area of England with a march on London. Ireland can have only a subsidiary place in Germany's immediate strategic plans for invading Britain.

Probation For Moses Annenberg Opposed

CHICAGO, July 2 (U.P.)—U. S. District Attorney William J. Campbell today filed a memorandum with Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson opposing probation for Moses L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher, sentenced yesterday to three years' imprisonment for income tax evasion.

Campbell said the defense request for suspension of sentence was based upon pleas submitted before the judge passed sentence and considered by the court as mitigating circumstances in fixing the penalty.

The government contended the prison sentence "was proper penalty" for the former czar of a vast horse race information system on his plea of guilty to evasion of $1,217,296 taxes on his 1936 income.

WPA Workers To Be Trained

WASHINGTON, July 2. (U.P.)—WPA workers who have no industrial skill for the important and well-paid defense jobs today have the opportunity of going to school to learn them and get WPA pay while doing so.

A program announced by Sidney Hillman, labor member of the National Defense Advisory commission, offers vocational training for 150,000 persons, of which 50,000 will be recruited from the ranks of WPA workers.

The program will be financed by a $9,781,340 WPA grant and $7,500,000 in funds of the office of education of the federal security agency. Aside from the 50,000 to be recruited from WPA, the remainder will be obtained from state employment agencies, in cooperation with the United States employment service.

Shipbuilders Have Seven Years' Work

CAMDEN, N. J., June 2. (U.P.)—New York Shipbuilding company officials disclosed today that the concern now had unfilled orders for naval construction that would require six to seven years to complete at the present speed of work.

The firm, one of the largest single unit shipyards working on the naval expansion program, had $129,000,000 in uncompleted work prior to receipt of new orders for three cruisers and one tender. Previously under construction were nine ships, including four tenders, four cruisers and the 35,000-ton battleship South Dakota.

The shipyard now has 8,700 employes at a weekly payroll of $335,000.

Training Of Pilots To Undergo Rush

LONDON, July 2. (U.P.)—Sir Archibald Sinclair, air minister, told the House of Commons today that the training of air pilots would undergo "a very considerable speed-up."

He said the faster training was necessary to keep pace with the increased output of airplanes expected from the dominions and the United States.

Land Agreement Is Predicted

EL PASO, July 2. (U.P.)—American Agrarian Commissioner L. M. Lawson predicted today that a final settlement would be made "within 60 days" of the claims of American land-owners against the Mexican government for approximately 5,000,000 acres of their property expropriated during the past 13 years.

A second installment of $1,000,000 on the claims was announced yesterday. A previous installment of the same amount had been made in May, 1939.

Lawson said that the $2,000,000 would not be distributed to claimants until final settlement had been made. He said that 260 claims still remained to be analyzed.

Citizenship Forfeited By Joining Canadians

MONTREAL, July 2. (AP)—A United States board of inquiry ruled here today that Philip Stegerer, 26, of Washington, D. C., had forfeited his United States citizenship by joining the Canadian active service force.

The board refused him permission to return to his native country.

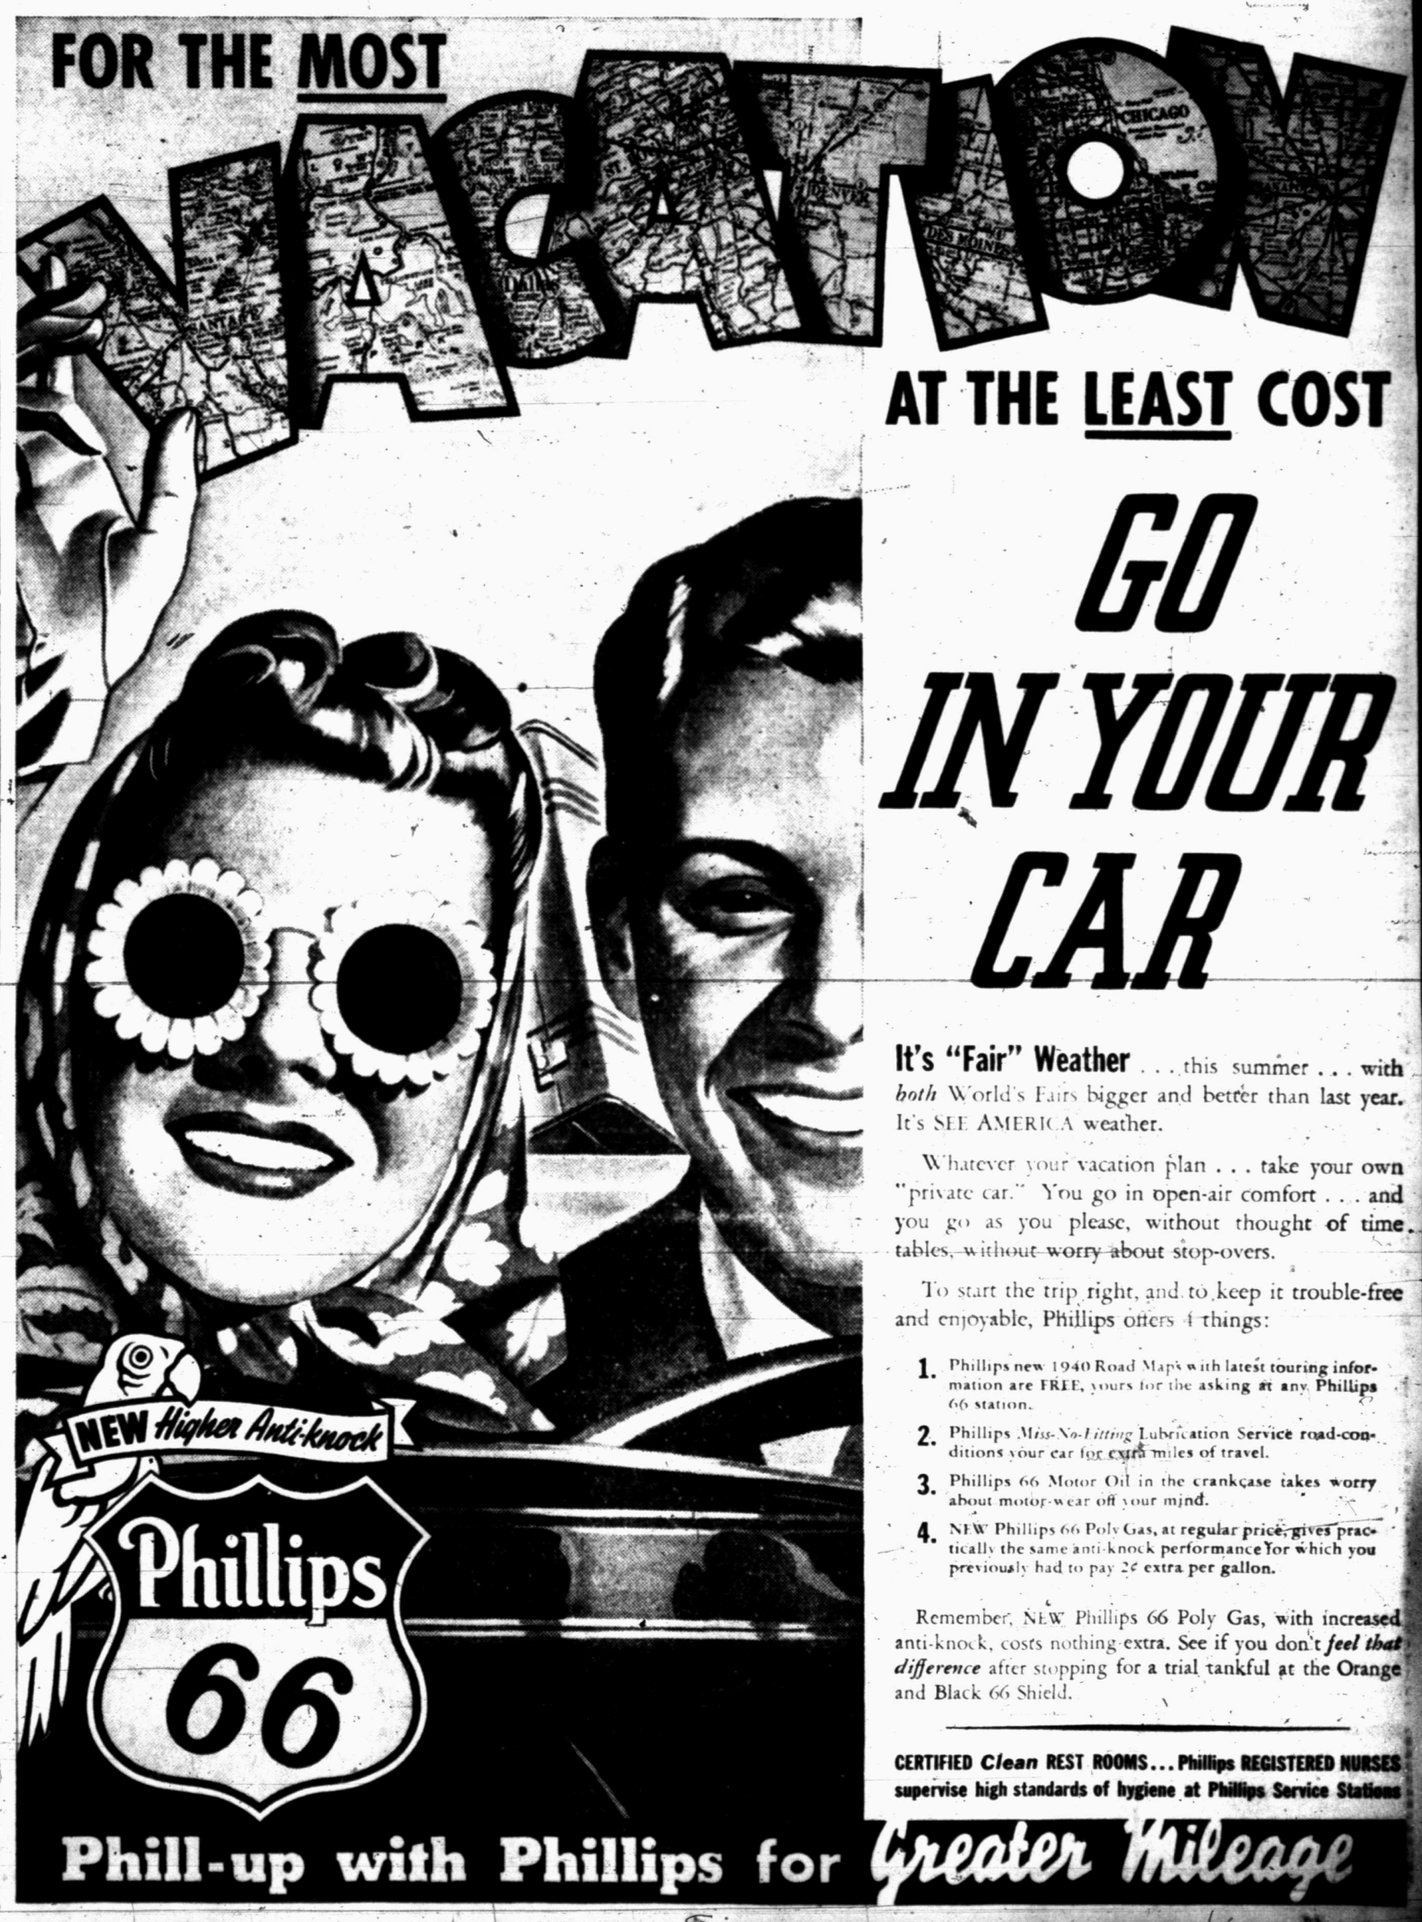

Stegerer enlisted in the CASF in February and was honorably discharged last week after old injuries made it physically impossible for him to continue service.

"If I want to get back to the United States I'll have to go through the formalities that any immigrant faces," he said. "And we've been residents of the United States since the revolutionary war when two of my ancestors were army leaders under Washington."

Since 1100 the North Sea has swallowed up nearly 2,000 square miles of land and covered 144 towns and villages, according to figures just compiled by London experts.

Max 'Upsets' Dope By Butchering Tony For TKO In Eighth

He TOLDJA SO — Max Baer, when here to knock out Babe Ritchie in the second stanza of a scheduled 10-round bout last summer, told anyone who would listen he would b: back shooting for "that crown within a year." His manager, Ancil Hoffman, even went so far as to map plans. Last night in Jersey City, the Madcap took the first step toward fulfilling those boasts . . . Maybe . . .

Pudgy One Falls Under Madcap's Steady Blows

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROOSEVELT STADIUM, JERSEY CITY, July 2.—Unpredictable Mixie Baer, still no more consistent than the weather, got "hot" tonight and chilled Tony Galento in eight rounds, thereby defying any and all comers to challenge his right to the championship of the screwballs.

When an assist from Tony's brother, who bounced a beer glass off the Galento chin in a bar-room row two nights ago, the former heavyweight boss cut the walking beer-keg's mouth so badly Referee Joe Mangold halted the fight just as the bell sounded to start the eighth round, giving Maxie a technical knockout.

Fans Satisfied

Up to that point, Baer had banged Tony's face with such damaging effect, that at the finish blood dripped from the end of Galento's chin like a leaky faucet.

A near capacity crowd in this International league ball-park cheered Max on as he stopped the 1 to 2 favorite in the long-heralded "battle of the bums."

The brawl was enjoyed by 22,711 customers who paid $98,004 for the privilege, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced.

Meets Louis Next

With his triumph, Maxie also won another chance at heavyweight king Joe Louis, an honor he may not welcome. He was counted out on one knee in the fourth round when he went against the bomber in 1935. And the chances are that as an older and wiser head now, he won't exactly start the bands playing for the second encounter, which Promoter Mike Jacobs has tentatively scheduled for Chicago in September.

The beating wasn't all that happened to Tony tonight. He not only wound up with a mouth cut clean through, requiring six stitches, but his left hand was broken in the second round when he bounced a wild swing off the top of Maxie's head. Then, before they ever got into the ring, it was learned Caswell (Keppel) Jacobs, brother of Tony's late manager, Joe Jacobs, had served papers on Promoter Mike Jacobs attaching Galento's end of the purse on behalf of Joe's surviving relatives—two brothers and a sister.

Baer Looked Good

Maxie wasn't supposed to be in good enough condition to stand up four rounds tonight, but he must have been holding out on the boys. For, while he was tired at the finish, he didn't look as though he'd need to leave in a wheel chair. In fact, a midget climbed into the ring as Galento walked out, and Maxie, as serious as usual wrestled on the floor with him for several moments.

Baer did an expert job for the seven rounds the fight lasted but, in all fairness, he ought to "cut" Tony's brother Russell, in on his purse. For Russell's high hard one with the beer glass cut Tony's chin two nights ago, and it was this gash, enlarger and deepened, which brought Baer the victory.

In the first round, this bigger Baer—he weighing 221½ to Tony's 244½—went to work on that cut, and had it opened in the first two minutes. From there on, he just aimed at this target like a bull going after grandpa's red flannels.

ROUND ONE

Galento came out and banged Baer twice with left hooks to the head. Baer countered with a short right to the chin in close. Galento tossed two lefts to the body and Baer did the same. Baer was ducking under Tony's left hand swings. The referee warned Tony for backhanding. Baer jabbed a left to the nose and bounced a right off the head. Galento landed his left on the ear. Max had Tony hurt from punches to the stomach then fired a hard right to the jaw. Galento smashed a hard right to the face. Baer bounced left and rights off the face. Galento scored with a swinging left and Baer grinned. Galento landed another left to the face and a left to the body. Baer was warned for hitting on the break. Galento rushed in and swung his left three times at the bell. His mouth which was cut in an argument in his saloon two nights ago was re-opened. Baer's round.

ROUND TWO

Galento missed twice with his left and Baer laughed at him. In close they banged each other on the head. Baer smashed a right to the tummy and another to the ear. Galento rushed in with two lefts high on the head and Baer caught him with a right inside. They wrestled in a neutral corner for several seconds with no damage done. The pattern of the fight was as expected with Galento rushing in and Baer trying to avoid his left hand. Suddenly they came off the ropes and brought the crowd to its feet with a wild slugging exchange. Baer's nose was bleeding and Tony seemed considerably winded from Baer's blows to the body. Tony threw that left to body and head again, then whacked Max with a right hand. Baer landed half a dozen times to the body at the bell. Galento's round.

ROUND THREE

In a half-clinch, they each connected with lefts to the face. Tony rushed Baer to the ropes and flailed away with his left hand and Baer's mouth piece dropped out. In close it was Tony with a left to the head and Max digging his right to the body as usual. Tony bounced his left off the ear again and Max stabbed him with a left. A hard left caught Max full on the face and another spun him around. The referee having to break them continuously was the hardest working man in the ring. Max caught Tony on his sore mouth with a one-two, then landed a smashing right to the chin. They were slugging away in close at the bell. Baer's round.

ROUND FOUR

Between rounds Tony's handlers worked on his cut chin. Max stabbed twice with

Hubs In Rare Form To Win From Borger Club, 10-0

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

The Hubbers executed a sudden bout face last night, after stumbling backward for a couple of games, and greeted Gordon Nell's Gassers from Borger with a hitting and fielding fury that was very nice to see.

With Mel Kramer in one of his better pitching moods, the Hubbers slapped a 10 to 0 shutout on the Borger boys to open the two-game series here. Kramer let the enemy

STACK PITCHES TONIGHT

The teams conclude the series tonight, starting at 8:45 o'clock, and taking his regular "fourth game" turn on the hill for Lubbock will be big Gene Stack, seeking his eleventh victory. He'll be opposed by Benny Franklin or Jerry Soule. It will be "ladies night," with all women and children admitted free as guests of the management. The July Fourth double header with Lamesa is to start at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and will be preceded by a special ceremony.

down with five hits, all singles except Bobby Decker's double, while his mates collected 13 off Clem Hausman, winding up a nice evening at bat with a five-run splurge in the eighth.

Players of both sides out-did themselves in some of the most brilliant fielding of the season, the Borgers going to extremes in knocking down and shagging screaming line drives off the Hubber bats to save Hausman, whose curve ball wasn't breaking to suit him, further embarrassment. There were the two liners by Steve Niedziela, for instance, one of them caught by little Bobby Decker at second, the other by Soapy Scopetone in center, both tough chances; there was Vince Castino's sizzling liner down the third base line, good for three bases in most instances, but which Stu Williams caught in a brilliant play. Ed Schweda hit a couple of hot ones, handled by Gilchrist and Decker, that started off as base hits.

Hubbers Shine, Too

On the home side, the Hubbers played errorless baseball, handling a number of hot chances, and making clean throws. They allowed only one man to reach third base, and Decker stole that after hitting a double. Not only did the Hubs prevent any scoring, but they allowed only five Gassers to die on the bases, cutting down two base runners after they had made safe hits.

Elvin Mahan perpetrated a fine double play in the seventh to smash a rally after Nell and Williamson had singled. Scopetone had fanned between them, then Adams hit a hot one which Mahan picked up near the sack, stepped on it to double Williams, tossed neatly to Drake. In the fifth, Adams singled to center. Boyd Watkins scooped it up, threw to second. The ball came on toward the plate, Castino grabbed it, threw back to Niedziela and caught Adams.

Schweda Doubles, Scores

The Hubs started scoring after two were out in the first. Ed Schweda banging a double, scoring on Chester Hajduk's single. Watkins hit a fine one to right that seemed like a double at least, but Mack Short came up with it.

Lubbock got men on bases in the next two frames, but didn't score until the fourth when Mahan led with a double, was moved up on Kramer's sacrifice and scored on Niedziela's long drive to center. They added two more in the sixth when Mahan and Kramer walked, after two outs, scoring when Niedziela's single got by Nell in left, and added one in the seventh when Hajduk, who had forced Schweda at second, scored on Gene Schlereth's double.

The team really cut loose in the eighth, batting around and once over, after the first two were out. Niedziela tripled, scored on Drake's single. Schweda singled, Hajduk was safe when Scopetone muffed his fly to center, and two runs came in. Boyd Watkins tripled to right center, scored on Castino's single, after Schlereth had been hit. Mahan grounded to the pitcher, making the first and third outs of the frame.

New Pitcher Coming

Business Manager Joe L. Brown announced last night that a new pitcher would join the Hubber staff today, according to advice from White Sox operatives. He is Gib Williams, a 6-foot-5 righthander built along the lines of Pat Ralsh, who started the season with Waterloo and who was optioned to Longview, with whom he played all of the 1939 season, winning 4 and losing 16. Williams will be placed on the usual "five-day look" and if he

Good Field Assured

Entries Urged For Tourney

Meadow, defending champion, Tuesday made arrangements for definite entry in the South Plains softball tournament to get under way at Fox Park Saturday afternoon.

With indications for the biggest field of any such tournament ever conducted here, those in charge are making predictions of a field of 20 or 25 teams, possibly half of them coming from the Lubbock Softball association setup.

Teams, local and out-of-town, who plan to enter the tournament to seek a share of the prize money to be awarded in Class A and Class B competition are urged to contact Clarence Fox, phones 4019-J or or 9629. An entry fee of $10 will be assessed each team. A meeting for first round pairings will be conducted at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at Powers Sporting Goods.

Triple Header Booked Tonight

Softball teams and players alike continue to improve as shown by a fast triple-header at Fox Park last night. Corcorran's took the opener from Citizens, 10-6. Good Eats, making their first appearance in Class A ball, lost a hard fought game to Central Labor, 9-11. Hemphill-Wells nosed out Sears, 19-14, in the finale.

Borden's will play their first game in the Class A league when they meet the league leading Hub Laundry crew at seven o'clock tonight. Final game of tonight's card will pit Citizens against Lubbock Sash and Door.

Privitt Gets Homer

During the second game J. Privitt gave the fans a thrill when his clout in the third inning cleared the left-field wall. That was the second time a softball has been knocked out of the park.

McElmurrey, pitcher for Corcorran's, pitched no-hit ball for five innings and would have been in baseball's hall of fame but for an error by Youngblood in the third inning. Lacey collected three singles to lead the Clothiers at the plate.

Giles New Star

Moorehead, Laborites first sacker, stood out at the plate for his ten despite the long homer by his teammate. He collected a double and two singles.

Hemphill-Wells displayed a surprise hitting star in the person of Jack Giles. This fast center fielder banged out a single, triple, and homer in four times at bat.

McClure gathered a homer and two singles for the Sears squad. Moon Mullins managed a double and single.

El Paso Given Right To Retain Loop Lead

TUCSON, Arizo., July 2. (AP)—El Paso can retain its lead in the Arizona-Texas league for the first half of the season, President R. E. Souers ruled today.

Tucson's protest that El Paso played an ineligible man from June 18 to 23, Souers said, will be taken up July 12 at a league meeting in Bisbee.

Amarillo Wins From Odessa Club, 9-3

For $7,500 A Year—

Berg To Turn Professional

CHICAGO, July 2. (AP)—Patty Berg, the freckle-faced red head from Minneapolis, will receive $7,500 annually for becoming a professional golfer.

That's $145 weekly. Quite a gob of dough for a girl just 22 years old taking her first job.

The story of Patricia's turning professional isn't quite ready, but from inside sources it is learned that she has made up her mind to accept the offer of a Chicago sporting goods company.

It won't become official until the lights are turned on and the cameras set up, just like Mike Jacobs does for ballyhoo when his principals sign for a heavyweight championship fight. She plans to attach her signature to the dotted line within 10 days if she hasn't done so already.

Fenton On Main Event Tonight

They probably should bolt the ringside chairs down at the Sport-arena tonight—wrestling's big bad men are coming!

"Lightning" Rod Fenton, the thunderbolt who strikes in the same place several times, is carded for duty in the main attraction and his opponent isn't the type which sets around and takes it without dishing more of the same back.

Ace Meets Powell

To be served up to the former Canadian lumberjack is one Bob Cummings, the serious going San Francisco grunt and groan artist. Cummings it will be remembered whipped the not-so-funny Chuck Powell in a 30-minute farce here on the last wrestling show, fighting Referee "Big Train" Clements more than his opponent. The "Big Train" likely will be the third man in the ring again tonight.

The main event is a scheduled two hour time limit or two out of three falls affair.

Powell comes back for better or for worse in tonight's semi-final, tangling with Ace Abbott of Abilene. Ace is the type that gets around, and worries the opposition no end doing so. One fall or a 30-minute time limit governing the event.

"Wildcat," Lyman Tangle

Curtain raiser on the night's program will send Montana's "Wildcat" McEuin in against one Joe Lyman, who hails from Oregon. Unless the Northwest Pacific mat ace is used to traveling in fast circuits, he is in for at least 20 minutes or less of rough punishment.

Promoter Sled Allen has announced that a special bus carrying fans to the North College arena would leave the city bus station at 8 o'clock, proceeding up Broadway, thence to the site of the matches.

Promoter Allen announced that a four cent tax on men's admittances and a three cents tax on women's tickets would be levied in conformity with the new federal law.

Midland Mows Clovis Down In Twin Bill

MIDLAND, July 2. (Special) — Midland moved up a notch into fifth place tonight by taking a twin killing over Clovis' Pioneers, 10-9 in the opening seven stanza affair, doing even better in the nine inning finale, 9 to 5.

In each game, Clovis used only one hurler, Midland two—the Waddies connecting for 13 safeties in each game.

WHERE'S THERE A SPARK, THERE'S HOPE—And so it seems it is with Jack Dempsey, caught displaying one of the greatest lefts in mittdom. The Manassa Mauler apparently is dead serious about his "comeback." Monday night in Atlanta, he licked Texas' wrestler "Cowboy" Luttrell, and Tuesday, announced that he would meet one Bull Curry, a Detroit grappler, in the motor city July 15.

WT-NM Loop Gets Rude Awakening!

Guarantee Of Support Must Be Made To Pioneers By July 15 Or Club Will Fold

(Special To The Avalanche)

CLOVIS, July 2. — Professional baseball—for three years a vital part of Clovis' sports world—is in a critical condition here today and facing possible "death" in the West Texas-New Mexico league.

Members of the board of directors of the Clovis baseball association, guardian fathers to the Pioneers, only New Mexico members of the WT-NM loop, announced here Monday night that they must have definite guarantee of support from fans for the rest of the season or they would have to close the club's books on July 15.

Price Not Alarmed

President Milton E. Price of the West Texas-New Mexico league said he is not alarmed over the baseball situation in Clovis, N. M.

Price, in long-distance telephone conversation with The Morning Avalanche, said Clovis has been too well set in baseball the last two years to let it's franchise be dropped on such short notice.

He expressed confidence in the fans of the Pioneers club to rally to the cause.

"Financially the Clovis management has weathered worst storms in the 1938 and 1939 seasons than it had until two weeks ago in this campaign. I don't believe the fans will stand by and fall to cooperate with the directors," he said.

Mass Meeting Necessary

G. A. Campbell, president of the association, said today that the situation had become so serious that the club's future must be decided one way or another at a mass meeting of fans, civic leaders, service club officials and businessmen Wednesday night.

"The question now," Campbell pointed out, "is whether baseball is good enough publicity and attraction for the city as a whole to sacrifice for, or whether we should disband and turn it over to some Texas city."

Attendance Drops

For several weeks, attendance at home games has fallen way below necessary figures to keep the club in the financial running. Twice, directors of the club have had to dig down into their own pockets to pay salaries. The club, one of the officials said, has lost $1,000 already this year. This figure does not count two years, salary to W. L. "Scotty" Price, business manager, and other back debts accumulated. Attendance at regular night games has fallen

Lamesa Nudges Pampa, 4 To 3

LAMESA, July 2. (Special)—The Loboes of Lamesa took a thriller from the Pampa Oilers, West Texas-New Mexico league leaders, here tonight but had to go eleven innings to do it.

Rex Dilbeck pitched a fine game and lost a heartbreaker for the leaders, but Clutter, Oiler second sacker, made three errors in the eighth, enabling Lamesa to score twice and tie the count at 3-all.

The Loboes went on to win in the eleventh when, with one out, Beeler beat out a slow roller to third. Marshall Brown walked, and Pride lined a single to center, scoring Beeler.

Dilbeck struck out 13, and batted two singles and a double to aid the Oiler offense. Prather hit a home run with one on in the sixth.

European Totalitarianism Has Foothold In South America, Experts Declare

Brazil Is Said Most Dangerous

AUSTIN, July 2. (U.P.)—Two Latin-American experts told the University of Texas' "war and the western hemisphere" conference here today that Europe's brand of totalitarianism already was afoot in South America.

Roland H. Sharp, Christian Science Monitor Latin-American expert, told the gathering that in his three times to be assigned to South America in the last two years German population totals in Latin-America were in excess of 1,000,000, Italians, 5,000,000.

Improvement Sought

Dr. Dana G. Munro, director of Princeton's school of public and international affairs, declared that an improvement in U. S. diplomatic personnel was urgent in southern nations. Brazil, Sharp said, was the nearest of the 21 republics to totalitarianism.

"It is not too late for the United States to act so wisely and withal so powerfully in this hemisphere and in the world, that the balance may again be tipped toward broad humanitarianism and away from narrow racial or national fanaticism. The 'menaces' we have been discussing in the Americas are actually small-scale and could not stand up against any kind of determined vigilence on the part of the American peoples," Sharp said.

May Fear U. S.

Munro warned against involvement in joint-action agreements with Latin-America which would hinder the U. S. from emergency action. He added that the problem was intensified by the danger of an over-militaristic treatment of our Pan-American relations.

"You will notice that we did not wait for any joint action when the time came to notify Germany that we would not permit her to take over French and Dutch colonies in the Caribbean.

"The question of continental defense raises the danger that the other republics may come to mistrust and resent our vastly superior military power more than they fear that of our political enemies abroad."

his left, then bounced a right off the ear. A straight left snapped Max's head back. They exchanged left hooks to the face. Tony rushed Max and butted him on the chin and Max leaned over the ropes spitting blood. The referee warned Tony. Galento landed two lefts to the head then they stood in a neutral corner slugging away. Max worked with both hands on Galento's sore mouth. Max threw left and right to the mouth again and the lower half of Tony's face looked like a red rose. Tony bounced a right off the head and Max counteved left and right to the mouth. Tony charged in with both hands swinging and was warned again to "watch your head" by the referee. They were mauling away on the ropes at the bell. Baer's round.

ROUND FIVE

Baer held a clean margin in the fourth round but whatever chance Tony has was lost when the referee awarded the round to Max because of Tony's butting.

Tony threw a wild left to the jaw and Max did the same with a right. They banged away at each other's face along the ropes with both hands. Baer landed a fearful right hand on the mouth. Tony tossed a left to the nose. Tony threw his left hook twice to the cheek again. They exchanged straight lefts and the action slowed down. Baer tossed left right and left to the mouth again. Baer was laughing at the way he was ducking under Tony's swinging lefts. Tony banged away with two hard lefts at the bell, the second one landing after the bong. Baer's round.

ROUND SIX

Baer landed three smashing rights on the jaw and Tony appeared hurt. Then Galento came back with a left to the ear. The referee warned Max to stop "laying on Tony." Tony's right hit Max on the side of the head. Max stabbed the mouth again with a straight left. Tony connected with a left to the jaw. In close, Max mauled Tony in the body. Both were very tired gentlemen. Max backed off firing both hands to the body. Max landed left and right to the face and Tony threw left to the head and a right to the belt at the round. Baer's round.

ROUND SEVEN

Maxie, clowning, came out in a half-crouch, stabbed a left to the body and then fired a right to the head. Galento, in a half clinch, threw a right to the nose. For several seconds they stood near a neutral corner posing. Then Tony flashed in three times with his left to Max's head. Then Tony rushed in and stumbled to one knee. Baer threw three fearful rights to the face. They stood near a neutral corner again and banged away with neither offering any kind of defense. Max landed left, right, left and right again to the face. Then he punched Tony at will with both hands at the bell. Baer continued to bang away after the gong sounded until the referee separated them. Baer's round.

Cards Measure Reds Behind Bill McGee

ST. LOUIS, July 2. (AP)—Bill McGee pitched and batted the Cardinals to a 4 to 0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds tonight. McGee, hanging up his sixth victory against five defeats, batted in two of the Cards' runs in an eighth inning uprising.

Doctors, Courthouse Win Twilight Tests

Seventy-six runs in two games—that is the record hung up in the Business-Professional twilight softball league Tuesday afternoon.

The large amount of scoring was reeled off in two American division games, the senior circuit taking a week's rest.

Today, the American division also takes matters easy, resuming competition with a double header Thursday.

Biggest scoring spree of the day found the Doctors "nudging" the Christians, 29 to 23. Emerson Blake tossed for the Doctors, Eugene Merriam and Hugh Templeton catching. Marchant and Byron were on the losing end of the pitching and catching. Homers were blasted by McCarty, Brummage and Watkins for the winners.

In another tussle which found homers playing a part, the Courthouse crew defeated the Federals, 13 to 11, Noland Whitlow and Underwood combining on the mound and behind the plate for the winners. V. Pollard and Walter Johnson handled battery duties for the Federals.

Hitting homers for the Courthouse were R. H. Todd and T. C. Lawes, for the Federals were Havis and Boland Johnson.

Tourists Still Are Welcome In Mexico

WASHINGTON, July 2. (AP)—Unruffled by American passport regulations applied to Mexicans yesterday, the Mexican embassy announced today that United States tourists would continue to receive a welcome free of red tape below the Rio Grande.

New United States rulings require Mexican citizens to provide themselves with passports and visas before they may enter this country. An except is made in the case of "border commuters," or Mexicans who are known to criss-cross border points daily on legitimate business. They may use commuters' identification cards.

The Mexican embassy said it was "pleased to announce" that American tourists who want to go to Mexico may as heretofore simply apply to Mexican consular officials for tourists cards.

"It's just not enough to keep the club going," it was pointed out.

Virtually, the commission threw the whole baseball future right into the laps of Mr. and Mrs. John Fan.

They offered to consent to a new board of directors if fandom so desired. "We've done all we can," they said, now it's up to the fans and the business element of the city to show us whether they want baseball to remain or not. We're willing to cooperate in anything they demand but some action must be taken one way or another immediately."

Sports experts pointed out, however, how hard it would be for Clovis to get back in organized baseball if she let her WT-NM league franchise go. Clovis was off organized baseball maps for around 15 years before she joined the WT-NM circuit in 1938. The Pioneers have been the object of sports writers' and fans' cries over the league for two years. Many have advocated that Clovis be ousted from the circuit and it made an all-Texas one.

Fisherman Brings His Proof Back—Catches Three On One Hook!

STAMPS, Ark., July 2. (AP)—Carrol Hamm, sportsman, was afraid his latest fish story would not be accepted so he brought the proof to town—three fish on one hook.

Disguested over the luck he was having with worms, Hamm used a goldfish for bait in his quest for perch. The new lure attracted a large "goggle eye" perch.

Before Hamm could bring the perch to the bank a four pound bass struck the perch he said, and he landed both the perch and bass with the goldfish bait still intact.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States, and to the Republic for which it stands: One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Democracy Works Again

ALTHOUGH the ruling by Attorney General Gerald C. Mann that Communist party candidates must be given place on election ballots will go against the patriotic grain of many Americans, certain advantages may be salvaged from the extension of this American privilege to those who do not appreciate this country.

First of all, it emphasizes once more just what it means to be a citizen of the United States, even to those who do not merit that honor. The practices in which the Communists indulge virtually without restraint in this nation would mean concentration camps, prison or firing squads in most other countries. In this nation we permit them to run for office and we give them equal recognition on the ballot with other candidates, in spite of the fact that they never have polled more than a negligible number of votes—not enough to entitle them to recognition as a political party.

The more important possible advantage from printing names of Communists on the ballot is that we get some of these enemies of the democratic form of government actually on record. We know who their candidates are—which isn't so important because the candidates merely are fronts for those who work behind the scenes. But we also are put in position to ascertain under certain rigidly established court procedure the identities of those who voted the Communist ticket. Probably the legal ability to exercise that right may not be used—but it can be used if it ever seems advisable.

Printing the names won't do a great deal of harm, and it may be a bit more rope for them to use in bringing misfortune upon themselves.

Too Many Rules Injurious

PERHAPS Joseph Lee, Boston school official, went to an extreme when he proposed recently that pupils and teachers in his city be permitted to split infinitives "any way they wish."

But there was common sense in his remark: "Too often language is taught by a set of rules, rather than as a means of conveying thought."

No person interested in education could suggest that language, or any other subject, could be taught without rules. Rules are necessary and to make them most effective, rigid adherence to them must be required by the mind while it is young and impressionable.

However, the instruction in such rules may become more harmful than beneficial if, in the case of the split infinitive as an example, the child grows up to regard the use of a split infinitive as something just short of a major crime. There are people, including a proportion in the teaching profession, who become possessed of a sense of values so distorted that they are horrified by any departure on any occasion from rules of grammar they have been taught.

They refuse to recognize that the whole purpose of any language, including grammar, is to convey thought. If the prevailing rules keep a language from conveying thought with a maximum of force and clarity, then those rules become an obstruction and an incumbrance. They are something to be disregarded or discarded—as has been done from time to time by probably every outstanding user of words in history.

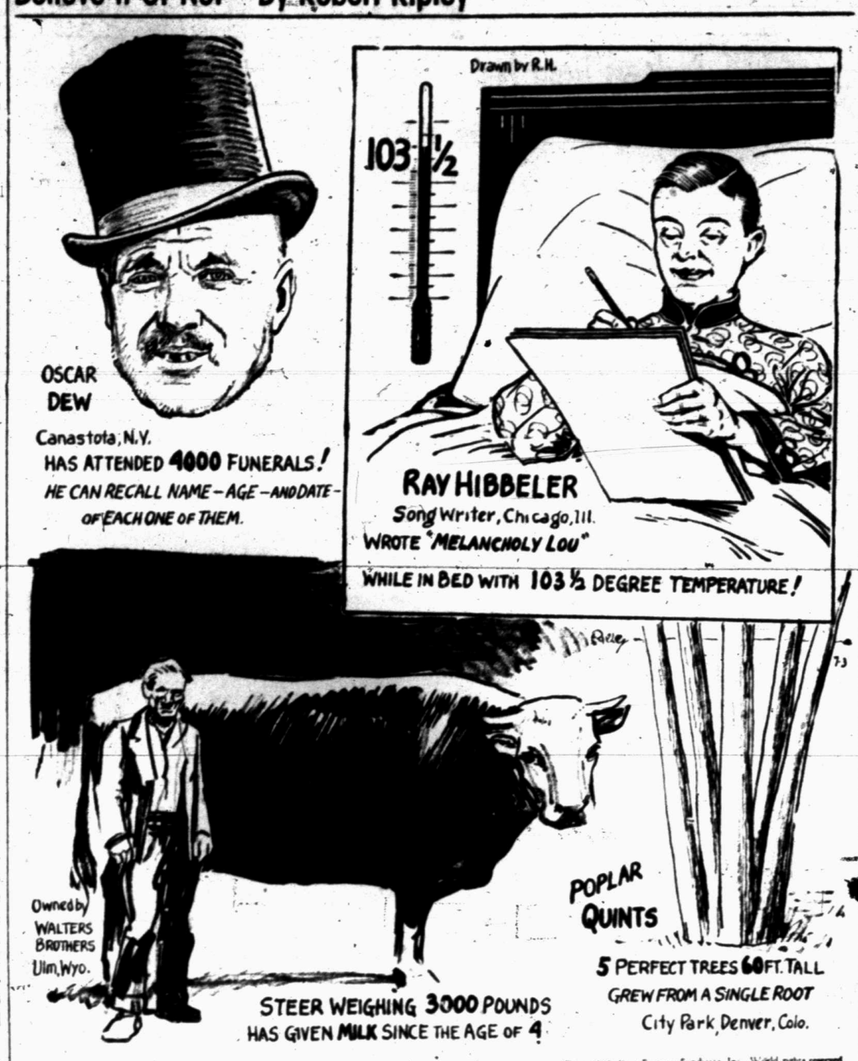

Fortunately, we have a living, elastic language which adjusts itself almost automatically to changing needs and conditions. If additional force is given a thought by splitting an infinitive—or any other disregard of prevailing rules—then to heck with the rules.

The only languages in which the rules of usage are unalterable are those that are dead. Our own language will be on its deathbed if the time comes when a few hide-bound rules are considered of more importance than the saying of what is to be said in the clearest and most forceful manner possible.

FRANCIE WESTON—a girl with a voice and ambition to crash the movies.

GUSTY GAIR—garage mechanic who can give out on a triumpet.

YESTERDAY: Francie plugs the midnight prowler with a lamp, knocks him out. It is Gusty's hitchhiker. He has robbed Gusty. Mr. Weston and Francie find Gusty, unconscious, beside his car. Francie watches over Gusty, takes the ticket from his billfold.

CHAPTER VII

When Francie emerged from her cabin next morning, Gusty and Mr Weston were talking. Her heart sank. Was Gusty reporting his loss? she circled the cabins and hurried into the restaurant without being seen.

Aunt Hat looked up from her eggs and sausage. "What a night! I'm as weak as a rag. Francie, dear, I've been meaning to ask you. You haven't lied to me about the ticket?"

"I—I've got it, Aunt Hat," Francie gulped. "But—"

John Weston entered, wiping his brow. "That boy's got Lucifer's own pride. Made me take the money for his cabin."

Francie sighed. "Is . . . that all you talked about?"

Mr. Weston nodded. "Except that I finally persuaded him to be my guest at breakfast. He needs a good meal to get his strength back. He wouldn't eat if he had to pay for it himself."

Gusty came in, minus his usual swagger. His cheeks were still pale, his eyes shadowed. He sat down unsteadily and picked up a menu.

"Never mind that, son," John Weston's eyes twinkled. "I've ordered for you."

Gusty grinned. "Thanks. Guess I need some grub."

The meal was eaten amidst a frosty silence provided by Francie and Aunt Hat. Gusty arose, stumbling over his chair. He passed his hand across his forehead.

"Holy smokes, I'm dizzy as a bat! I'll be driving the old bus around in circles. Any chance of sparing me a driver, Mr. Weston?"

Francie said stubbornly, "I'm not going—"

Mr. Weston took his daughter aside. "I don't intend to argue, Francie. Quarrel, or no quarrel, you're to drive Gusty's car for him."

"But—"

"Francie!"

"All right, Pops."

"That's better. We'll hit the little mountain town of Circle about sundown. There's a good hotel listed. You and Gusty can meet us there."

Presently Francie was rattling westward in Gusty's old roadster. She drove with her chin set at a defiant angle. Gusty slumped on the end of his spine, his feet straight out. In silence he watched the wind whip little tendrils of amber hair from under Francie's bright scarf.

"Aren't you gonna talk?" he demanded finally.

"Why should I?"

"Aw, look, Francie, don't be sore. I shouldn't have popped off last night. You and your dad were swell to me. I told him so, too."

Francie could feel the familiar softening process going on in her heart. She fought it off with a terse, "Skip it."

"Nothing doing. It took a lot of gu—nerve to whang Blubber over the head. I like girls with gu—nerve. Gee, Francie, all we've done lately is scrap. We didn't use to."

"No, we didn't."

"There's just no sense in it," Gusty declared gravely.

They were silent a moment, staring off into the distance. The road stretched ribbon-white across miles of prairie and finally curved into a range of smoke-blue mountains.

"No, there isn't . . ."

Gusty said, "Funny how it all started over that ticket." The roadster swerved. "Hey, what's wrong?"

"N-nothing," Francie said. "Nothing at all."

"You see, it's like this," Gusty continued. "I figure it's a man's place to have the career. That's why I grabbed the ticket. Now take us. Suppose we, well, wanted to get married . . ."

"Married!" Francie's heart beat a wild, joyous rhythm. "Why, Gusty Gair . . ."

"Oh, sure, it's a silly idea. It's corny. But, gosh, I'm only trying to make a point. Just suppose. You wouldn't want to be a famous star and have a garage mechanic for a husband. No, sir! A man's place is at the head of his family, I say."

"You—you mean that's why you took the ticket?" Francie asked. "Because you wanted to make good for me?"

"Well, I . . ." Gusty reddened. "I wouldn't exactly say that, but . . ."

"It was, Gusty!" Francie cried.

"Okay, it was then," Gusty said gruffly. "You'd better watch your driving."

Suddenly Francie felt as if the ticket were a red mark of shame, a scarlet letter branded upon her. Gusty was a pure knight facing all kinds of hardships for her sake. Oh, why hadn't she realized it before?

Gusty said, "You'd better stop at the next gas station."

Francie obeyed, trembling. When he paid she held her breath. But Gusty didn't look into the part of his wallet where the ticket had been.

Weak with relief, Francie thought, "Nothing must spoil this perfect day."

They drove on, and Gusty, still in a mellow mood, talked. He spoke sorrowfully of the trumpet pin. He'd searched around the camp for it. He sure hated to lose it. Francie told herself she'd hold it for safekeeping until they reached Hollywood, then surprise Gusty.

The afternoon sped by with the miles. It was a perfect day, one Francie would never forget. Not once did Gusty lapse into his role of braggart. Even his donkey laugh was muted. When they stopped for lunch Gusty paid for the hamburgers. He even assisted Francie from the car.

At dusk they reached the mountain range and began a hard climb. Gusty's dizzy spell had long since passed and he was driving. Great barren masses of rock reared up on either side of them as they twisted over a road cut from solid stone.

Francie said, "Gusty, look! Isn't it lovely?"

The moon hung like a huge golden ornament from the topmost peak of the mountain. It laid a thin saffron light over the rugged slopes, making them soft and unreal.

"Boy, that is something!" Gusty agreed. "Let's stop and watch a few minutes."

He pulled the roadster partially off the pavement, drew Francie close. The air was crisp, thin, fragrant. It was just like the night at the airport, only far more romantic.

"Makes you feel kinda small, Gusty muttered."

Francie bobbed her head in perfect contentment. She turned her face upward, putting her lips in the most accessible position. Gusty had never kissed her, but tonight she felt that even the most impossible dreams might come true.

"We'll never scrap again, will we?" Gusty said.

"No, Gusty—never." But even as she said it, Francie was frightened. A tiny square of pasteboard cast a huge black shadow over this perfect moment . . . She hesitated, then said faintly "Gusty, why—why don't . . . I mean, wouldn't you like to kiss me?"

"Holy smokes, I—" Gusty bent awkwardly, but his lips never touched Francie's.

A car had drawn up behind them. Shattering the silence, a heavy voice said, "Hey, what goes on here?" The beam of a flashlight blinded them. "So—a necking party? Haven't you kids any sense parking here?"

Gusty bridled. "Hold your horses, mister. We're moving right on."

A burly state trooper approached the car. "Suppose somebody came around that curve and didn't see you? You guys from the east ain't got much sense."

"Maybe you western hicks got it all," Gusty fired back.

"Please, Gusty," Francie begged. "He's liable to arrest us."

"Wise young fellow, eh?" the trooper said. "I'd better take you in to Circle and cool you down."

"We're going right away, officer," Francie said. "We didn't mean to—"

Gusty said, "Sure, we wouldn't take your lousy old mountain as a gift!"

"Okay, lad, I've had enough of your lip. I'll follow you in. Ten bucks and a night in the clink may teach you some manners."

"Oh, Gusty," Francie wailed, "why did you have to get smart? You—you can't afford to pay a fine."

White-lipped, Gusty hardened his face into its "so-what?" mask. "I—I'll get to Hollywood all right, Francie. Don't you worry!"

Lubbock Men To Be In Historic Observance

Eastin and George C. Wolffarth are leaving today for Jacksboro where they will attend and participate in a re-enactment of the famous trial of Santanta and Big Tree as a feature of the celebration of completion of Jack county's new $250,000 courthouse Thursday and Friday. The event is known as the Jack County Historic celebratoin.

The two Lubbock men will be joined by their younger brother, Scott Wolffarth of Silver City, N. M., in re-enactment of the famous trial. The Lubbock men will serve on the jury and the New Mexico man will act as sheriff, a position his father held. Others in the trial will be descendants of persons who had major roles in the original event.

The Wolffarth brothers will join their four sisters, Mrs. Mollie Sullivan and Mrs. Daisy Breech of Jacksboro and Mrs. Julia Owens of Dallas and Mrs. J. W. Ames of Crosbyton in a family reunion.

The famous trial, the first "Indian trial" in a white man's court, was held 69 years ago and marked the last big contest between the red man and the white man over settlement of North Central and West Texas.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ALTHOUGH Wendell Willkie has confided to friends that he would like to "take on President Roosevelt"—and really prefers him to any other Democratic candidate—Republican party managers predict that the nomination of the public utility magnate as the GOP's standard-bearer will be a red light to Mr. Roosevelt.

The New Dealers professed to believe that Mr. Willkie would be the easiest man to defeat—and they may be right—but their actions suggested that they were more afraid of him than any of his vanquished rivals. For they realize that in him Mr. Roosevelt—or any other Democratic nominee—will face a new kind of political fighter. He is as different from the ordinary run of GOP nominees—national or state—as Mr. Roosevelt himself was from John W. Davis or William Jennings Bryan.

Mr. Willkie is quite as fast on his mental feet as the President. He is probably a deeper thinker. He is more practical in his approach to public problems. He is equally resourceful. But he possesses assets which no foeman FDR has ever met in New York or the nation has possessed. He has a sense of humor. He has good nature, tolerance and a smile. He can match the President in making phrases. He has just as deep a sense of the dramatic. And the record reveals that no critic can rival him in poking practical fingers into the chinks of the New Deal armor. For these reasons—and because of recent developments in Europe—the GOP insiders doubt whether the 45 million voters will be permitted to sit in on the most exciting political rough-and-tumble in many, many years—"Kid" Willkie versus Champion Roosevelt.

REPUBLICANS are boasting that a Democratic Fifth Column led by certain gentlemen close to Vice President Garner aided in the stunning victory of Mr. Willkie. The same forces—Democratic and Republican—which were backing the Texan for the Presidential nomination, according to this theory, got behind Mr. Willkie after flirting with Thomas E. Dewey for a while. The significance of this statement—heard in the corners of the now vanished Republican encampment here—is that the GOP expects Garner Democrats to flock to Mr. Willkie's standard.

Meanwhile, confident of a Willkie triumph over the President or any other Democrat, Willkie Republicans are already choosing his cabinet. Tentative selections include Mr. Dewey for Attorney General, Governor Stassen of Minnesota for Agriculture, Governor Baldwin of Connecticut for a post which has traditionally gone to New England—Navy. But the surprise of this premature political Christmas stocking is the rumor that Mr. Willkie, who dotes on the dramatic as the President does, may ask Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, of New York, to be Secretary of War. Fiorello got one vote for the nomination here—and a few boos from the galleries.

GOP-ERS who were close to the conflict in the final phases concede that the most pressing problem will be to heal the wounds which were inflicted. The fierce rivalry has left scars which call for a master dermatologist. The candidates and their managers used savage tactics on each other. The contenders themselves did not indulge in the duels, but their closest friends did. From many a headquarters there poured forth a stream of poisonous rumors about the other fellow. The notable exception was the Willkie GHQ.

Offsetting the danger of continued dissension, however, is the evident hunger of the GOP for victory, and their belief that they have an excellent chance to return to power at Washington. It was reflected in the entry of the unusually large number of candidates. It was shown in the almost unprecedented shop-around instinct of the delegates. More than in many years, they felt it important to be with the eventual winner because it might not be long before it would pay heavy dividends in the form of patronage and other more profitable favors. Two states—Missouri and California—scattered their votes among almost all the candidates on several ballots.

An even more serious source of concern, in the party managers' opinion, is the sectional differences reflected in the balloting—the East and Middle West against the West. Most of the bedrock votes for Wendell Willkie came from the Eastern and Middle Western states, while the Far Western delegates registered their opposition to him. It is in this section that President Roosevelt's policies have proved most popular, and it had a hangover effect at Philadelphia. But this latent hostility may be overcome if the Republicans so shape their campaign that they become identified as the no-war party. It is in the Pacific area that anti-interventionist sentiment runs most powerfully.

WHILE the delegates had scant time to study the import of rumors of a possible European peace, the very suggestion stirred the leaders. In their opinion, such a development will almost clinch their triumph at the Presidential polls. With the end of the first phase of the European war—and a fairly mild peace settlement—it is believed that hysteria will vanish, and the battle here could be fought on domestic issues.

It would also mean, according to sentiment at Philadelphia, a general revulsion against the President's policies. His "aid short of war" to the crushed losers might plague him, also his patent sympathy with an England which made peace with Hitler. The political wise men apply the same reasoning to the possible candidacy of Cordell Hull. They figure that his role in the conduct of our foreign affairs will not bring him votes. Indeed, they feel that neither the President nor the Secretary of State would be their opponent under such circumstances. And they are confident that Wendell Willkie can lick any other foeman without even extending himself.

NEW YORK
By Gabriel Vogliotti

IN a corner of the Philadelphia convention press section a handful of European correspondents watched the Willkie landslide and made as thoughtful a Philadelphia summary as any that went over the home wires.

Europe's scouts—from "Democratic" and Toto states—saw it as incredible that a President making policy making bou could draw a parenthesis around a European war and forget it as completely as if Europe were back in the twenties. They were unable to believe, until they were overwhelmed by proof to the contrary that during the week Marshal Petain signed over the French Republic the convention actually forgot Hitler and Churchill. New York writers who left the city's war-laden atmosphere for the nomination story got the same jolt on discovering they had been writing from a political island; the Republican rank and file were mentally farther from New York than New York is from London. The nomination over, key members of the Republicans committee are confessing doubts that the foreign policy smash at the New Deal is as much of an election asset as convention optimists had hoped.

Surveying their handiwork, they hope the GOP's foreign position and the Willkie candidacy will swing the weight on the November scales. But a number of them doubt that the No. 1 plank of the Republican platform will be anything but a memory by August, and that President Roosevelt may still reverse the loss he took on the Philadelphia floor.

THE GOP'S first item of the platform can become an issue if President Roosevelt chooses to make it one. But party leaders here are ready for a complete reversal of policy by the Washington administration, an acknowledgement of the practical impossibility of doing anything about Europe, and a New Deal drive for the non-intervention votes.

Here And There In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER
United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, July 2. — Attendance at a State Fire Insurance commission rates and rules hearing gives a surprising insight into what a complicated business fire insurance has grown to be.

New risks appear to be discovered continually. For some of them no form of insurance is provided; others are doubtfully included in what is known as "extended coverage." This is provided in a sort of Mother Hubbard clause for which an extra rate is charged.

At the last hearing before the state commission, losses from sabotage received considerable attention. No specific losses so far were reported but an alert group like the insurance men is not going to be caught napping about it.

There is a vandalism extension that may be attached to the usual fire insurance policy. Some of the agents at the hearing doubted that vandalism and sabotage are just the same. Some thought sabotage would likely become too great a hazard to be included in the "extended coverage" rate. A number suggested a special clause on sabotage.

Loophole Is Found

The last hearing of the commission developed, also, that there now exists no state-approved insurance for damage to a building that occurs from an explosion that takes place outside the building or in an adjoining building. There are many policies in force that give protection against an internal explosion. In fact most industrial establishments carry such insurance.

The risk of damage from an outside explosion was called up by an agent who said lack of this insurance was developed when there was an engine explosion in a railroad round house at San Antonio. Boiler plates from the engine were hurled great distances with resulting damage to roofs and other property in the neighborhood.

ANOTHER surprising development at the hearing was that few people who carry windstorm insurance on their homes protect themselves also from windstorm damage to the contents of their houses.

Insurance agents seeking to develop this line of protection proposed to the commissioners that a rate of insurance against windstorm damage to contents of dwellings be reduced to one-half the rate charged for insurance on the building itself.

Others protested that the risk to the contents is greater than to the house itself, so the rate should not be lower. For instance, it was cited, a window pane that can be replaced for 75 cents might be broken by a windstorm and as torrential rains usually accompany heavy windstorms enough water might come into the house through the broken window to do hundreds of dollars damage to expensive rugs, draperies or other furnishings.

Discussion Is Spirited

One of the most spirited discussions was on the proper distribution of fire losses.

Fire Insurance Commissioner Marvin Hall started out with the obvious premise that when a loss of property occurs from fire someone must bear the loss. An insured loss falls immediately on the fire insurance company that had issued a policy on the property. When losses are great, insurance rates advance. Hall said the state commission's part in the picture is to see that the rates will cover losses and yet be kept on a level with them.

That cares for the problem of total losses and total premiums. The difficulties come in the particular applications. Experience tables are used for this purpose. In determining what the particular rates shall be, Hall announced a belief that each industry should be made to bear the costs of the losses in that industry, in order that the industry may have a spur or incentive to keep its properties as safe from fire as possible. For instance cotton gin losses are based on losses to cotton gins; rates on a particular type of building are governed by losses to structures of that particular type of building.

THIS discussion eventually raised the question of the credits and penalties given to communities as a whole for good or bad fire records. Penalizing Big Spring for a heavy loss occurring in the cotton industry there was cited as not making the industry bear its own losses. Ralph Soape, executive secretary of the Insuranee Buyers' association, contended.

Bayne Satterfield, member of a fact-finding committee for the Texas Firemen's and Fire Marshals' association, said there should be no particular rate increases by classifications because the community charge for a bad fire record offsets the high losses.

The State Insurance commission has set 5 per cent as a fair return or underwriting profit on fire insurance. Satterfield contended that by such a standard Texas insurance rates are too high. He said the underwriting profit in Texas is 16.42 per cent. In the last year, he said, the average fire insurance rate in the state has been reduced from 99 cents on $100 to 19 cents.

Duty Of U.S. Is To Rescue War Refugees

LONDON, July 2. (AP)—Maj. Albert Newby Braithwaite, Conservative, declared in Commons tonight it was the duty of the United States "to send their fleet and their boats to take our women and children across to their country."

"With our island in the front line trench, the U. S. A. has a responsibility in this matter," he declared.

"If they are our friends—and I believe they are—they must immediately come to our rescue by sending their fleet and their boats to this country to take our women and children away."

Major Braithwaite spoke in the course of a debate on plans for moving thousands of children to Canada and the United States.

Candidates File Expense Items

AUSTIN, July 2. (AP)—Candidates for statewide office took time out today for some bookkeeping.

Many filed initial expense accounts, required by law, with the secretary of state and others were expected to get reports in the mail before the midnight deadline for first reports.

The highly competitive railroad commission race had many representatives but a few candidates for governor were heard from including Harry Hines with expenses of $4,044 and contributions of $2,135 and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson who listed expenses at $5,033 and donations of 4,882.64, including $4,372.64 from her husband, James E. Ferguson.

Arlon B. Davis of Dallas, gubernatorial candidate, waxed flowery in his report of $278.10 expenses and donations of $113 from as many citizens, "principally of Tarrant county."

Said Davis:

"My drafters have considered it the height of assinity and the father of folly to waste any considerable sum of money on me. They think I have got brains enough to get the job done without any money."

Reports of railroad commission candidates included: Olin Culberson of Austin $916 expenses and $1,200 donations; Clyde E. Smith of Woodville $331 expenses and $100 contributions; Bryan Patterson of Alice $1,034 expenses and no contributions; Charlie Langford of League City $901 expenses and $525 donations; Pierce Brooks of Dallas $920 expenses and no contributions; J. D. Copeland, jr., of Austin $1,020 expenses and $1,000 donations; Baker Saulsbury of Amarillo $1,303 expenses and no contriubtions; Walton D. Hood of Austin $782 expenses and no contributions; Larry Mills of Dallas $167 expenses and no contributions and John Pundt of Dallas $295 expenses and no donations.

The envy of other candidates probably was Land Commissioner Bascom Giles and Attorney Gerald C. Mann, seeking re-election without opposition. In each case their only expense was $100 filing fee.

After 58 Years, He Is Still At Desk

DALLAS, July 2. (UP)—"The colonel" started his 59th year in the service of one company today.

Still erect at 80, Charles E. Fritz took his place as usual at the reception desk of the Schoellkopf company and said he did not know how long he will continue working "but I hope you will come see me on my 75th anniversary."

It was 58 years ago that Fritz, called "the colonel" by Schoellkopf employes, went with jobbing company as a harness maker. Since then he has held numerous jobs but remembers best his 25 years' experience as a salesman with West Texas his territory and a horse as his chief means of travel.

Fliers Are Assigned To Brazilian Duty

WASHINGTON, July 2. (UP)—The army today assigned four fliers to an air mission to Brazil to supplement the five instructors and advisers already on duty there.

Maj. Thomas D. White, military and air attache at Rio de Janeiro, will head the group sailing July 12 from New York. The others are First Lieutenants Thomas B. Hall, March Field, Calif; Gene B. Tiggets, Hamilton Field, Calif, and James C. Selser, jr., Randolph Field, Texas.

IN SLIM AREA

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—War business or political stimulation again was lacking in today's stock market and leading issues clung to a slim area in desultory dealings.

The day's turnover managed to top the meager total of yesterday. Transfers amounted to 320,020 shares compared with 272,920 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 40.9.

The apathetic performance was exemplified by the fact only 571 individual issues changed hands during the five hours. Chrysler, for instance, recorded its last sale of the day around 11:30 a. m.

Owing to the stock exchange recess Thursday for the Independence holiday traders generally kept commitments light or stood aside altogether.

Holding modest advances were N. Y. Shipbuilding, Electric Boat, Penn-Dixie Cement, Lowe's, Loft, Woolworth, Great Northern, Santa Fe and Consolidated Edison.

Unchanged to lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, American Telephone, Westinghouse and American Can.

Bonds were uneven, as were comodities.

In the curb moderate improvements was shown for Bath Iron Works, International Petroleum, Glen Aiden Coal and Phoenix Securities.

American Gas slipped along with Creole Petroleum and Lake Shore. Volume here was around 106,000 shares against 74,000 Monday.

Sons Of Legion Make Plans For Meeting

Plans for a July 16 meeting were discussed Tuesday night by officers of Lubbock squadron 148, Sons of the American Legion, in the Legion home.

The officers, headed by Ross Brock, captain, will complete program plans next Tuesday night. Harlie D. Woods, chairman of the Legion committee assisting in organization of the squadron, attended the Tuesday night session.

A watermelon feast is planned for the mid-month meeting.

Immediate reorganization of the squadron drum and bugle corps is anticipated. The Legion has regulation equipment, 36 bugles, 10 snare drums, two bass drums and two cymbols, for the corps, Woods said.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—Floods in Texas cotton growing areas attracted demand for deferred futures contracts today but the spot delivery fell back under new liquidation. The final range was 8 points lower for July and 1 to 3 higher for later months.

Among the big trades of the day was purchase of a block of about 10,000 bales of October. Ring observers said this buying was based on flood reports and further heavy and unwanted rains in parts of the belt.

Demand was also sustained by the Washington announcement the export subsidy program on cotton products would be continued during the next fiscal year.

Circulation of 12 delivery notices against July undermined that delivery. Another depressant was the news of a further increase in certificated stocks. The July premium over later months narrowed more than 50 cents a bale for the second consecutive day.

Exports Monday 10,938 bales; season so far 6,298,670. Port receipts 6,333; port stocks 2,483,237.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Wheat futures prices closed ⅛ to ⅝ cents higher than yesterday's final figures on buying inspired late in today's sessions by Minneapolis houses and on unfavorable crop comment from the northwest spring wheat territory.

Corn futures closed ¼ to 1 cent lower, the latter on December which sagged to a new seasonal low mark at 76⅛. Private crop forecasts of around 2,500,000,000 bushels, compared with last year's harvest of 2,619,000,000, created a relatively weaker tone in the deferred delivery. July closed 60¼, September 57¼@57½.

Wheat moved erratically over a range of 1⅜ cents. Final prices were, July 75⅛, September 75¾@75⅝, and December 76⅝@76¾.

Mrs. E. H. Miller estimated the spring wheat crop at 187,000,000 bushels, compared with the government June figure of 239,000,000 and last year's harvest of 192,000,000. C. M. Galvin placed his comparative figure at 222,000,000, respectively, compared with the government June total of 728,000,000 and the 1939 harvest of 755,000,000 bushels.

Rains fell in the Southwest where harvesting was in progress, while generally clear skies prevailed in the northwest where moisture is needed for the growing crop.

Rye closed ½ to ⅝ higher, July 41, September 42⅞.

Oats finished 3-8 to ⅝ cent up. Soy beans showed net gains of ¼ to ½ cent. The lard close was 5 to 10 cents higher.

Costa Rica Favors U. S. Foreign Policy

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 2. (UP)—This country looks with favor upon proposals designed to increase the collective, military security of the American republics, it was said today.

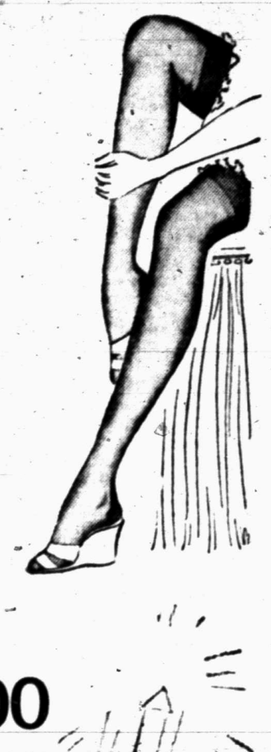

Although authorities have not disclosed what policy they will adopt at the forthcoming consultative conference of American foreign ministers in Havana, it was said they would not be averse to a military pact among the Latin-American nations and the United States.

It was reported that Costa Rica would align itself with the United States policy of not recognizing any changes in the status of European possessions in this hemisphere as a result of hostilities abroad.

Nazi Casualties In French Campaign Listed As 156,492

High Command Gives Figures

As The Germans Tell It

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, July 2. — Germany reckoned her total casualties in the western offensive which crushed the lowlands and France at 156,492 tonight.

Figures issued by the high command in a report on "the greatest military victory of all times" said 27,074 German soldiers had been killed since May 10, 111,034 wounded and 18,384 missing.

(General Charles de Gaulee, the die-hard French leader in London, figures Allied dead, wounded and missing up to the final surrender at 1,318,080. However, private estimates have placed oead, wounded and missing of France alone at 1,500,000 in the last month of the war.

Other Figures Given

(Hitler previously announced his total dead, wounded and missing in the Norway campaign as 5,296. In the Polish campaign, the total was place at 44,298.)

Allied air losses, the German high command said, amounted to 792 airplanes and 27 balloons from June 4. Since the middle of May, the report said, 400,000 tons of merchant shipping have been destroyed by submarines, and since June 5 Allied shipping losses inflicted by German air forces totalled 299,000 tons.

After the defeat of France, the high command said, "there are no longer any Allies." It added:

"Only one enemy remains: England."

Other German sources proudly cited trade figures to show that Europe is getting itself quickly into a German-dominated economic order.

They said the Swedes had promised to sell five times as much paper to Berlin as before; that almost all of Norway's fish, lumber and metal output is coming to Germany and the Finland is going to increase her exports to Germany by 75 per cent over last year.

German air raids on the northern Scottish port of Wick and the Bristol channel on the English west coast were related in another communique. A British raid on Kiel was minimized.

A Swiss newspaper man, Reto Caratsch, chief Berlin correspondent for the Neue Zuricher Zeitung, was expelled with the sharp declaration that his reporting, had it continued "would have endangered the existence of the Swiss state."

Caratsch's chief offense was the comment he made on Russo-German relations.

Sulphur Leases Are Awarded

AUSTIN, July 2 (U.P.)—The state school land board awarded sulphur leases on two tracts of land in Brazoria county today to the Jefferson Lake Sulphur Co., of Clemens, and the Duval Texas Sulphur Co., Houston, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles announced today.

Only two bids were received, Giles said. Today's sulphur leases were the first the board has granted and the first suplhur leases that have been awarded by any state body in recent years.

Jefferson Lake's bid of $3,255 cash plus one-eighth royalty for the state was accepted for a 52-acre tract. The Duval company figure was $1,510 cash plus one-eighth royalty for a 105-acre lease.

The lease will run for five years if sulphur is not produced and for twenty-five years if sulphur is produced.

Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, member of the board, Robert Kepke, and James Noel represented the attorney general's department.

The school land board was authorized by House bill No. 9, passed by the forty-second Legislature, to lease state-owned areas.

More Gifts Received Here By Red Cross

One hundred twenty-one dollars went into the Red Cross war relief fund Tuesday, making the drive's grand total $1,482.05, said Charles Maedgen, who will continue a day or two longer to accept contributions.

Maedgen, who said S. S. Forrest of Slaton, lumberman, gave $100, largest individual amount contributed in the drive, asked that everybody hurry and complete the drive, since the Red Cross was asking prompt action to relieve an acute situation.

New contributors:

S. S. Forrest	$100.00
Roy S. Mack	5.00
Fred H. Schmidt	2.00
G. W. McCleary	2.50
Mrs. W. O. Sheely	5.00
Tyson Grocery	2.50
R. F. Adkins	4.00
Total	$121.00

Mack and Schmidt also live in Slaton. The others are from Lubbock.

Holt Will Represent Lubbock At Meeting

The chamber of commerce said A. F. Holt, chairman of the city aviation committee, would represent Lubbock Monday in Waco when the state aviation advisory committee meets.

Holt will represent both the city and the chamber of commerce aviation committee, of which he also is a member.

Information to officials here said that final action is expected at the Waco meeting on the broad program of airport development in Texas as recommended by Major E. M. Haight, planning engineer of the board. Expectation is, announcements here said, that the approved report will be submitted to the governor for transmission by him to the civil aeronautics authority.

The importance of the meeting to Lubbock, it was explained, is that the final report may include recommendations affecting the local Municipal airport and may prove another important step toward securing federal appropriations for needed improvements.

Lamar Rogers, 25, special deputy constable, was arrested and charged with the killing.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Regulations Block Civilians' Exodus

HONGKONG, July 2. (AP)—Military regulations tightened with the exodus of many civilians from warmenaced Hongkong today.

The American liner President Coolidge, which had been ordered back to this port to take aboard all Americans wishing to leave, sailed for Manila before dawn with hundreds of refugees of all nationalities in addition to its normal passenger load.

British authorities ordered Hongkong's remaining German and Austrian Jewish refugees to depart by July 7 or be interned. All Italian priests, approximately 65, likewise were told to go, but were allowed until July 26. They probably will move to Catholic missions in the Chinese interior. Italian nuns were not affected by the order.

Motion Pictures Are Shown To Optimists

Motion pictures of wildlife in Texas were shown by Fred D. Thompson of Austin, member of the educational division of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission, Tuesday at the luncheon program of the Optimist club.

The interest being so great in the pictures, the showing was extended nearly an hour past the club's usual adjournment time. Mrs. Thompson operated the machine while Thompson talked at intervals on how the pictures were made. Charles E. Priley, jr., representative of the commission in this area, had charge of the program.

An astounding amount of wild game, birds, etc., was shown in the films.

In an election by the club, Roche Newton was named chief pessimist and B. L. Manire, his assistant.

Dynamite Sent To New Orleans

GALLUP, N. M., July 2 (U.P.)—Shipment of 132 carloads of dynamite, totaling 8,500,000 pounds, from nearby Fort Wingate to New Orleans was revealed today. The shipping has been in progress for 10 days, it was reported.

The transfer was handled under agreement with a commercial purchasing agency with the knowledge of the war department, responsible sources indicated. Freight on the shipments was paid by the agency at the rate of $2,500 a carload.

The same sources believed that the shipments were destined for England.

The Fort Wingate ordnande depot was established after the World war when large quantities of explosives were stored there. They were scattered over a large open area to reduce the dangers of handling.

It was believed that the recent shipment removed only a minor portion of the dynamite stored at the depot, one of the largest in the nation.

Threatening Henry Ford Is Denied

DEARBORN, Mich., July 2 (U.P.) — Officials of the Ford Motor company today denied reports that Henry Ford had been threatened because of his refusal to manufacture airplane engines for Great Britain.

A spokesman said most of the letters Ford received concerning the refusal were complimentary and "there is no hint of a threat in any of them."

Nazi Investigations Denied By Consulate

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2. (U.P.) — The German consulate and the Federal Bureau of Investigation today declined comment on published reports that FBI counter-espionage agents are investigating the activities of more than 400 German merchant marine officers and sailors held at angel island immigration station in San Francisco bay.

The San Francisco Examiner said it learned "anti-subversive" groups have turned over information to the FBI indicating the Germans have become "a highly dangerous nucleus of Nazi espionage," and that the FBI is investigating this information.

Nat J. L. Peiper, chief of the local FBI office, and Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, German consul general, they had "no comment."

The Germans were members of the crew of the scuttled German liner Columbus. They were taken to Angel island for detention under sponsorship of the German embassy and San Francisco consulate.

Land plowed in Britain in the 1939-40 season totaled 14,000,000 acres.
