2nd Train Is Blasted In Florida

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP) —A powerful dynamite blast tore into the underside of a strike-bound Florida east Coast Railway freight train Friday night and exploded a propane gas tank car that sent a ball of flame hundreds of feet in the air.

It was the second derailment by explosives of an FEC freight train this month. Earlier this week, four boys found 45 sticks of dynamite, wired to explode on contact of train wheels. They dismantled it seconds before a train whizzed by.

"Another sabotage, another attempted murder," said W. L. Thornton, chief railway operating officer.

FBI agents were called in to investigate.

Officials at the scene, inside the New Smyrna Beach city limits, said there were two explosions. The first blast was detonated under the diesel locomotives and severed fuel lines. The second occurred under the 65th car of the 85-car freight.

The second blast set off the tank car and caused the derailment of 14 cars.

A crewman reportedly suffered minor injuries when he jumped from the moving caboose. He was not identified.

Constable Russell Galbreath said "at least 50 sticks of dynamite" were used. The blast shook houses more than a mile away.

The FEC dropped passenger service after 11 non-operating unions went on strike Jan. 23, 1963. It has been moving freight trains with supervisory and nonunion help.

US Granting Asylum To Russian Defector

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON. (AP) — The U.S. government is granting asylum to Soviet secret police defector Yuri I. Nosenko in a case still carrying overtones of a spy thriller.

The State Department unraveled some of the mystery with a pair of announcements Friday. In the first U.S. comment since last Monday's disclosure that Nosenko, who had disappeared from the Soviet disarmament delegation at Geneva Feb. 4, had asked for political asylum in America, press officer Richard I. Phillips revealed that:

1. Nosenko now is in Washington, though his exact whereabouts remains a secret.

2. The Russians demanded an interview with Nosenko in a note Wednesday, and were granted it Friday. A Soviet Embassy representative talked to Nosenko for less than an hour, and Nosenko "reconfirmed his desire for asylum."

3. A Swiss Embassy representative also questioned Nosenko separately for less than an hour and got the same answer. A State Department representative sat in on both interrogations.

4. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko called in U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler in Moscow and delivered a stiff oral protest to what Gromyko called "improper behavior" by the United States in the case. But the Russians have not accused the United States of kidnaping and have not threatened to pull out of the disarmament conference at Geneva.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman confirmed the interview with Nosenko but declined comment. The Swiss Embassy also acknowledged having seen Nosenko and said its representative had been told by the Russian that he wanted refuge in the United States.

Phillips said the United States is "prepared to give him asylum" and had sent the Soviet Union a note replying to their Wednesday inquiry "as to the manner in which Mr. Nosenko presented himself to U.S. authorities."

The State Department spokesman said there would be no further announcement, and he declined to say when Nosenko might be surfaced to public view.

Still under wraps were how Nosenko defected, how he got to the United States, and what secrets he might have passed on to U.S. intelligence.

From the fuss Moscow has made over his disappearance there was speculation that the West had gained a notable prize in the continuing undercover contest of the cold war.

Nosenko, 36, was ostensibly a low-ranking member of the Soviet delegation at the disarmament parley. Actually, according to U.S. sources he is a staff officer of the Soviet KGB secret police apparatus.

This presumably would put him in a position to know about the workings of the secret police setup and the Soviet strategy at the Geneva conference.

Arms Hike Feeds Crisis

By ALLAN JACKS
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball pressed his Cyprus peace mission today at an urgent meeting with Greece's caretaker Premier John Paraskevopoulos. Turkish military preparations added a new danger to the crisis.

Ball called on Paraskevopoulos a few hours after the American troubleshooter arrived from Ankara, Turkey, in a whirlwind effort to win acceptance of an international police force free of U.N. control.

Then he headed to London in his special U.S. Air Force jet plane for a conference with British authorities.

In London, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home called in top cabinet members to discuss the explosive situation possibly including British reaction in event of a Turkish invasion.

The Greek press has been highly critical of the American intervention in the dispute. In response to a newsman's question if the United States had entered the dispute at the invitation of Greece, Ball replied:

"All the guarantor powers asked us to interest ourselves."

Turkish troop-carrying warships were said to have embarked from the port of Iskenderun, less than 100 miles from embattled Cyprus. The reports sent a wave of fear across the embattled island of an imminent Turkish invasion.

The Turkish chief of staff, Gen. Cevdet Sunay, was quoted as having said the shipments were maneuvers, not an invasion.

Greek forces also were said to be on an alert.

Ball plans to leave for London later today for conferences with British officials on a new tack in the perilous situation.

Turkey's Premier Ismet Inonu warned Ball in Ankara Friday Turkey might have to act alone to protect the Turkish Cypriot minority unless peace is restored on the embattled Mediterranean island.

Ball left Cyprus after he had failed to persuade the island's Greek Cypriot president, Archbishop Makarios, to accept an international peace force free of U.N. control to keep the warring factions apart.

With the renewed military preparations, Ball than sought to avert open hostilities between Greece and Turkey in their tug of war over Cyprus. Both are members of NATO.

In London, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home expressed fears upon his return from Washington that the civil strife on Cyprus could embroil the alliance partners in a direct conflict. He said more British troops would be sent to Cyprus if necessary.

New fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots took the lives of three Turkish Cypriots and one Greek in the western towns of Polis and Paphos-Ktima Friday.

Rusk Sees Reaction To Cuba Deals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today "there may be some consumer reaction" in the United States against foreign firms trading with Cuba even though the U.S. government plans no boycott.

Rusk spoke on the touchy boycott issue in a Voice of America interview recorded Friday after the departure of British prime Minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, following a two-day Washington visit.

President Johnson and Douglas-Home agreed on most matters but differed over trading with the Reds. Over U.S. opposition, Britain has been selling busses and other goods to Cuba.

Asked whether anything specific is planned "in the way of popular reaction against British goods" Rusk replied:

"We don't ourselves plan to organize any boycott against the goods of countries that may be engaged in that trade.

"I think it is possible there may be some consumer reaction here in this country, here and there with respect to firms that specifically engage in that trade.

Agree On Cease-Fire

ADDIS ABARA, Ethiopia. (AP) — Ethiopia and Somalia agreed today to a cease-fire along their disputed frontier.

The agreement came as the Organization of African Unity, meeting in Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika, called for both sides to end their fighting.

President Ibrahim Abboud of Sudan said in a message to the Emperor Haile Selassie that he had secured the acceptance of Somalia to a cease-fire. Selassie replied that Ethiopian troops had been ordered to withhold fire unless fired upon.

Ethiopian military officials said there had been no fighting along the border since Friday night.

The organization of African Unity issued its call for a cease-fire after an emergency meeting of the organization's Council of Ministers.

Reds To Stress Farm Production

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party Central Committee voted today for increased emphasis on agricultural production as "a big step forward in building the material and technical foundation of communism."

Approved unanimously were recommendations of the party leaders to spend about 42 billion rubles — considered here the equivalent of about $46.6 billion — over the next seven years in an effort to make Russian farms produce like those in the United States.

These decisions wound up another Kremlin convention of Russia's swivel chair farmers on agricultural problems which Premier Khrushchev believes can be solved by heavily increased use of fertilizers and irrigation.

Khrushchev and his top officials have spent six days telling Communist party Central Committee members and visiting rural bureaucrats and farm specialists about the better crops to come.

The gravity of the Soviet Union's farm crisis appeared underscored by the unusual length of the plenary session.

Most of the time has been spent instructing farm bosses on uses of fertilizer and irrigation after long years of scrimping on these costly measures to pay for bigger steel plants.

The new drive to develop the fertilizer-producing chemical industry will be expensive, but Khrushchev insisted that the Soviet Union now can afford it, despite what Western analysts say.

The farm leaders had other, less pleasant prospects to ponder as they prepared to return to the villages this weekend.

One was Agriculture Minister Ivan Volovchenko's proposal to hold them legally responsible for misusing cropland.

He hinted that much of the "virgin lands" Khrushchev ordered plowed up in the Kazakhstan Republic in the last eight years are threatened by wind erosion.

Extensive tracts of farmlands in western Russia and the Ukraine also are said to have gone to seed since Khrushchev switched his grain-growing hopes to the arid Kazakhstan steppes.

Khruschev, Volovchenko and other speakers at the plenum also harshly criticized farm-school graduates and their professors who prefer comfortable jobs in the cities to working on farms.

McNamara Aide Object Of Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reports it has found irregularities in the handling of accounts in the office of an aide to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

The entire case has been turned over to the Justice Department's Criminal Division for study.

In response to questions, the Pentagon said Friday that the irregularities had occurred in the Budget and Finance Branch in the office of McNamara's administrative assistant. It named no individual as being involved.

The Budget and Finance Branch has been headed since 1952 by John A. Wylie, 57. He has been on sick leave since Nov. 1.

The Pentagon said the alleged irregularities first had been noticed during a routine audit last fall. It said the irregularities had involved "failure to follow established Department of Defense accounting procedures."

Asked if Wylie had gone on leave voluntarily, the Pentagon replied: "When the irregularities were discovered, he went on annual leave, but on presentation of a doctor's certificate the character of his leave was changed to sick leave."

Wylie's annual salary is $17,500.

The Defense Department declined to give any details of the probe.

"Since the individual involved will be processed in accordance with applicable statutes and civil service regulations," it said, "it is not appropriate to release further information at this time."

The Justice Department also declined comment except to acknowledge that the case had been turned over to it Jan. 16 and been sent to the Criminal Division for study.

The matter came to light when the Defense Department revealed that McNamara had reorganized his office "to provide tighter supervision" over such internal funds as expense accounts.

The post of administrative assistant to the secretary, held by J. R. Loftis, was abolished. It was made plain that Loftis was not involved.

Slayer Kills Self As Posse Nears

ATHENS, Ohio. (AP) — Rudy Zamora, a 20-year-old farmhand sought in the brutal slaying of four persons, shot and killed himself today as pursuing deputies closed in.

The large posse heard gunshots as it was stalking the hills six miles southwest of this southeastern Ohio city.

Zamora's body was found on a ridge a half-mile from the multiple murder scene. A tractor was sent up the ridge to bring the body down.

Zamora, a former mental patient said to be of Mexican descent, was believed to be the person who shot to death late Friday four members of a farm family and wounded two others.

Deputies were called to the two-story farm home about six miles west of here shortly after 7 p.m. Friday after one of the wounded victims, Patricia Wildman, 22, made her way to the home of a neighbor, Glenn McDaniel.

Danny Pierce, 6, nephew of Patricia, also was wounded and escaped. Danny had been shot with a .22-caliber rifle, all the others with a shotgun.

Officers who entered the Wildman home found the bodies of W. M. Wildman, 57; his wife, Mildred, 60; their son, Eugene, 14; and Geneva Pierce, about 26, the dead couple's widowed daughter.

Also found were Dean, 2, and David Pierce, 3, sons of Mrs. Pierce, who had not been harmed.

Mrs. Pierce's husband, Richard, died of a heart attack a month ago while Danny, the son wounded, was with him in the family car.

Patricia Wildman, who with Danny was admitted to Sheltering Arms Hospital here, was quoted by T. E. McDaniels as having said Zamora had wielded the shotgun.

She suggested no motive, but the sheriff said he understood from relatives that Zamora had been trying to collect from the family some money he claimed he was owed for work on the farm.

LBJ Given Rowdy St. Louis Welcome

By BOB POOS

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)— More than 100,000 cheering, waving St. Louisans, and 86 civil rights demonstrators, turned out Friday as President Johnson attended the city's 200th birthday celebration.

Police intercepted the demonstrators, took them to headquarters and ordered them home. Later a man with a loaded .32-caliber pistol was apprehended at Lamxer-St. Louis Municipal Airport where the presidential plane was parked. He was held for questioning.

Otherwise the President's trip to St. Louis was uneventful. The weather was cool but sunny. He shook hands, planted a tree, toured part of the city and named Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal baseball great, director of the President's physical fitness program.

The President was greeted by an estimated total of 2,500 people at the airport on his arrival. They broke into cheers as he walked along the wire fence shaking extended hands.

Thousands more spectators lined multilaned Mark Twain Expressway to watch the presidential motorcade. Many of the watchers were children.

Downtown President Johnson inspected the unfinished gateway arch on the Mississippi riverfront.

Then, through crowd-thronged city streets, the motorcade went to a slum clearance project near St. Louis University.

In a brief speech to 5,000 students and others, the President waved his hand at the nearby university and declared: "The St. Louis area draws its strength from its fine colleges and universities."

He drew a laugh when he said "I've been aware of the importance of St. Louis since I was a small boy and wore my first pair of Buster Brown shoes."

St. Louis is a shoe manufacturing center.

In his principal address to an overflow crowd of 2,100 at a hotel Friday night, President Johnson said he welcomes "fair discussion of honest differences" both at home and abroad.

He took a swing at critics in the United States and overseas who he said "seek political gain from baseless denunciation of the United States."

On the civil rights question he said, "We cannot secure the success of freedom around the world if it is not secure for all citizens in our cities."

The nation's military strength he said, enables Americans to meet each new crisis "from West Berlin to Cuba with both courage and calm."

As he spoke the mass march started in nearby Forest Park, but it was halted five blocks short of the hotel. It was led by members of the St. Louis Committee on Racial Equality, an affiliate of the National Congress of Racial Equality.

The man arrested at the airport was identified as Talma Sawyer, 27, formerly of Cairo, Ill. Police said papers on him indicated he had received an undesirable discharge from the Army earlier in the day. He was arrested at 8:45 p.m. The President left at 9:40 p.m.

AT&T Program Is In Spotlight

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest corporate financing program in U.S. history took the business spotlight during the past week.

It was undertaken by American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which turned to its family of 2.25 million stockholders to raise $1,225,000,000.

The company offered its shareholders the opportunity of purchasing 12.25 million shares at $100 each. This was $46 below the market price on the day the offer was made.

Each shareholder received the right to purchase one new share for each 20 held.

Trading began on the New York Stock Exchange on Wednesday with 3,375,000 changing hands.

American Telephone's common stock surged to a new all-time high.

It helped the general stock market, as measured by the averages, reach a new historic peak.

The magnitude of AT&T's money raising undertaking is illustrated by the fact that all common stock financing in 1962 totaled $1.3 billion.

AT&T will use the proceeds of its stock offer to help finance a $3.25-billion growth and modernization program for its telephone system in 1964.

Also in the communications field, the Communications Satellite Corp. reported that six companies had answered its request to submit proposals for designing an international commercial satellite.

AT&T and Radio Corp. of America submitted a joint proposal. Thompson Ramo Wooldridge, Inc.'s proposal included International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. as principal subcontractor. Individual proposals were submitted by Hughes Aircraft Co. and Ford Motor Co.'s Philco Corp. subsidiary.

Business and individuals were encouraged by the progress being made toward enactment of the income tax reduction legislation.

Different versions of the bill have been passed by the House and Senate, and conferees from both bodies are trying to reconcile differences.

The Department of Commerce reported that the U.S. balance of payments improved further in the fourth quarter of 1963. The quarterly deficit was the smallest in years.

For the year as a whole the United States had a deficit of $3.02 billion.

In the second half, the deficit was at an annual rate of $1.6 billion, the lowest since the balance of payments began to be a serious problem in 1958.

Reasons given for the improvement were reduced net purchases of foreign securities and a spurt in exports, particularly agricultural products to both Communist and non-Communist countries.

The Commerce Department also reported that inventories rose only slightly in December from November and that total business sales climbed to a record.

Inventories gained $80 million to a total of $102.75 billion against an increase of $790 million in November.

Sales in December totaled $63.96 billion, up from $67.19 billion in November.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I made what I thought was a good suggestion and it started a whole family fight. My daughter recently got a diamond ring and plans to be married this summer. My sister's daughter announced her engagement New Year's Eve, and she plans to be married this summer, too. When I mentioned to the other members of my family that I thought it would be a good idea if the kids got together and had a double wedding, they said if they had to buy TWO wedding presents they expected to go to TWO weddings. And when I explained to my sister that we could save on flowers, music, food, drinks, etc., she said they could afford to put on their own wedding as they weren't in the poorhouse yet. What's wrong with my family? Or is it me? Next time I open my big mouth, I wish somebody would kick me hard.

MEANT WELL

DEAR MEANT: Your suggestion was motivated by your desire to get as much mileage out of a dollar as possible. So was their reaction. It must run in your family.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a wonderful man. He is a European and his first name is difficult, but not impossible, to pronounce. When I introduced him to my mother for the first time she didn't even attempt to pronounce his name. She simply said, "I shall call you John." He smiled good - humoredly, thinking she was joking but she has been calling him "John" ever since. I know he feels hurt, and I don't blame him. I think it's insulting. Don't you think my mother should learn to pronounce my future husband's name? It has bothered me for several months.

BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: Why the silent burn? Teach your mother to pronounce your fiance's name and insist that she address him as such. (P.S. Why doesn't John speak for himself?)

• • •

DEAR ABBY: You should have told the Mason's wife, who felt left out because her husband wouldn't share the secrets of the lodge with her, that she and her husband should join the Order of the Eastern Star. It's not ALL secret.

Sincerely,
A MASON IN FORT WORTH, TEXAS

THE "Write" WAY

By RUTH FOWLER BROWN

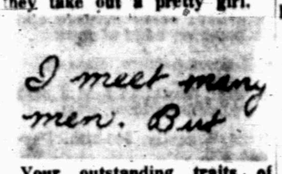
Dear Ruth:

In my job as executive secretary to an important VP, I meet many men. But after taking me out a couple of times they lose interest. I've been told I'm to serious, too business,like, too inhibited, too self-sufficient, too naive. All these add up to just one thing in my mind: I'm just too uninteresting. Please analyze my handwriting and help me.

Single

Dear Single:

Your handwriting shows you're intelligent but not "smart." You can't win hearts by taking the office along with you. Most men enjoy business, but they want to be entertained when they take out a pretty girl.



Your outstanding traits of competence, efficiency, executive ability are fine, but you need to develop the three Ts—tease, tempt and tantalize! Men don't fall in love with adding machines — they fall for the feminine, flirtatious and flatter ing woman. BE ONE.

• • •

Dear Ruth:

I met a good-looking boy at out high school dance. Before the dance was over he had a fight with another boy. He says the other fellow started it, but my friends tell me he often gets into fights. I like him, but don't want to go with him unless he changes. Do you think he will?

Gloria

Dear Gloria:

With those quick tempered down strokes in his handwriting, I'm afraid you'd have a pretty tough job changing him. Perhaps a prize fighter could, but it would be a real knock-down drag out affair!

His other character traits are good so if you prize him, tell him you won't go out with him unless he controls his temper. And if he can't control it — forget him.

• • •

Dear Ruth:

We were talking about your column the other night and someone said that the way a person signs his name is more important than what he writes. Is this true?

Kevin

Dear Kevin:

Signatures usually denote how the person feels emotionally about himself — his ego!

The signature may deviate from the text of a letter in style, size, and many other ways, but whether it's more important in analysis is doubtful. The person who writes a normal size script and then signs his name in inch-high letters reveals more egotism and confidence than the text would indicate. A signature smaller than the rest of the writing on a page points to a person who feels a lack of confidence. A flourished signature often points to exhibitionism or dramatic ability.

Executives are notorious for tying up their signatures so no one can decipher them — as a precaution against forgers.

Signatures are significant, but should never be analyzed without comparison with the rest of the script. That's why I ask for at least five lines of writing, plus your signature.

R. L. Thornton Dies Saturday

DALLAS (AP)—Former Mayor R. L. Thornton Sr., 83, died at his home Saturday.

He was one of Dallas' foremost civic leaders and one of the nation's best known bankers.

He was chairman of the Mercantile National Bank of Dallas —an institution he founded.

Although in failing health for several years, Thornton had remained active.

He was mayor from 1953 until 1961.

Born in a half dugout on the banks of the Bosque River in Hamilton County in 1880, Thornton was the son of William Travis and Polly Ann Thornton. His father was a tenant farmer who moved the family to Ellis County, settling near Bristol, 25 miles southeast of Dallas.

After finishing school in Bristol, he became a clerk in a general store there at $18 a month. Two years later he came to Dallas to attend business school and went into the mortgage field.

With $6,000 in borrowed money, Thornton, his brother-in-law, and a third partner opened a bank in Dallas in 1916. The institution prospered and became the Mercantile National Bank, whose 30-story, $5 million skyscraper was the city's tallest when built in the early 1940s.

As a boy of 9 with 50 cents to spend, Thornton paid his first visit to the State Fair of Texas in 1889 and friends said that the exposition was the beginning of his long association with the city.

The fair was one of his favorite projects. He helped expand it by being instrumental in bringing the 1936 Texas Centennial Exposition to Dallas and for many years Thornton was president of the fair association.

Funeral services were pending today.

OIL was the topic of discussion as Mark McLaughlin, PBPA director, Woody Forrester, Chamber of Commerce manager, and Bob Leibrook, association president, visited after the association's meeting Friday at the Snyder Country Club.

AN INTEREST in Permian Basin oil brought together Ed Thompson, PBPA manager, Mayor John Hamblen, West Texas State Bank president H. W. Cargile, and Dave Harlin, drilling contractor and owner of a hot oiler service, at the PBPA luncheon.

Permian Oil Men Review Past; Look To Future

Members of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association were told at a luncheon meeting Friday at the Country Club here that it is essential to this area's economy that a strong association be maintained.

The speaker was Bob Leibrock, assocation president from Midland.

Leibrock reviewed briefly the goals of the PBPA, including reasonable tax legislation at local, state and national levels; matintaining the depletion allowance at its present level; expanding oil and gas markets; a realistic import policy based on domestic production; and equitable disfribution of production between states based on reserves.

He said that the organizations accomplishments in 1963 included the bringing of a part of the FPC area gas pricing hearing to Midland, and the sending of representatives to Washington to appear as witnesses in that hearing; also the sending of representatives to the House Ways and Means committee's tax laws; and participation with other associations in bringing problems of the oil industry before both the state and national authorities.

Commenting on the problems of the industry, Leibrock noted that the problems of the permian basin were unique. With our high quality of reserves, he said, we will still be producing oil long after many of the present fields have been shut down. Another situation peculiar to this area is the secondary recovery procedures being used here, he said.

Also speaking to the group was Bill Heck, independent oil operator from Midland who spoke briefly on the exploratory prospects of the permian basin.

Heck said that the reef area of the permian basin still offers opportunity for development. He said this is reflected in the increased wildcat activity along the eastern edge of the area. He added that he personally felt so sure of this opportunity that he had staked his own economic future on it.

Heck also called for national recognition of the problems of the oil industry. The "oil-rich millionaire" image is bad for the industry, he said. Further he said that we must do everything possible to present the statistics to the rest of the nation — such statistics as the fact that in 1963 only about one in every 45 wildcats found a commercial oil or gas well.

Ed Thompson, manager of the association, said that Scurry County had a big stake in the future of the permian basin. It was noted that the oil reserves of Scurry County exceed the reserves of the entire state of New Mexico.

A membership drive is now underway for the association. Thompson noted that the organization needed operating funds, but just as important, he said, was having a large number of members so that the voice of the association would carry more weight when they spoke out on current issues.

Wedgeworth Service Set

Mrs. C. Wedgeworth, wife of a former Snyder School Superintendent, died unexpectedly Friday in Dallas.

The Wedgeworths lived here for approximately 15 yeas, during which time he served as school superintendent. He resigned the post here in 1940 and went to Perryton. Later he was associated with the USO and then went to Southern Methodist University. He now serves as personnel director for the City of Dallas.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wedgeworth have been set for 10 a.m. Monday in Dallas.

A study disclosed that a certain type of snail travels 23 inches an hour.

President Appoints Stan Musial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial whose emphasis on physical fitness got him through one of baseball's greatest and most durable careers, has taken the job of passing on his example to American youth.

The retired St. Louis Cardinal star was named by President Johnson Friday to head the President's physical fitness program. The President picked his visit to St. Louis for the city's 200th anniversary celebration to announce that Musial will replace Bud Wilkinson, former Oklahoma football coach, who resigned.

"There are a few men who have served as American heroes with such dignity," the President said. "I am proud to have Stan The Man."

"I only hope I can do a capable job," said Musial.

Musial, 43, primarily will be a consultant. He will meet with the President's Council on Physical Fitness, which includes Cabinet members, and plan programs with a four-man staff.

He will be in contact with various government officials, newspapers, radio-TV, and other industry officials and he will speak to school groups, educators etc.

Ferree Gives Credit To Blazing Putter

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP)—Jim Ferree credits his blazing putter with the two stroke lead he takes into today's third round of the Maracaibo Open Golf Tourney, first stop on the annual Caribbean tour.

"I'm putting better now than I have in a year," he said after Friday's second straight subpar round, a three-under 69. "I've had only one three-putt green in two days."

Ferree, 32-year-old defending champion, had a two-stroke advantage over veteran Art Wall going into Friday's second round, was tied briefly when they made the turn, then closed with three birdies to regain the margin at 136-138. Wall also had a 69.

Young Jay Dolan, a pro for only two years, had a 68 for the day's best round, and moved into a tie for second with Wall at 138. Dolan, 24, lost a chance for a sole possession of second when he missed a two-foot putt on the final hole.

Baylor Begins Spring Football

WACO (AP)—Weather permitting, Baylor begins spring football practice today.

A squad of 70, including 14 lettermen, is expected to greet Coach John Bridgers.

Three lettermen—backs Henry Pickett and Donnie Laurence and center Ernest Erickson — will miss spring training because they are engaged in other sports.

IS THE BIBLE CATHOLIC?

No. 2 In A Series Of 15

Our Catholic friends call us "Protestant" because we protest against much of their teaching — just as they protest against our teaching. In fact, Catholic articles have appeared in this and many other newspapers protesting our teaching. Such publicity for their views and ours is entirely in accordance with our American freedom of the press. It is wonderful to live in a country where friends and neighbors of differing faiths may consider their differences with mutual respect.

This article is presented with the conviction that there are sincere, honest people in all churches. But just as Paul was completely sincere while he was completely in error and persecuting Christians, so today, good, honest people may be in religious error. We trust that each reader will examine the Scriptures to see whether these things are so. The Bilbe is right!

Now, IS THE BIBLE CATHOLIC? The Bible teaches that—

1. Christ is the ONLY head of the true church. (See Eph. 1:22-23, Col. 1:18).

2. Peter is never described in the Bible as being the head of the church. The "keys of the kingdom" were given to him and the power of binding and loosing was given to him and to ALL the apostles. (See Matt. 16:18-19, and 18:18). This power was never delegated to any so-called "successors" of the apostles. The foundation of the church is Christ and ALL of the apostles, not Peter alone. (See I Cor. 3:11 and Eph. 2:19-20).

3. Peter does not fit the Papal pattern, because —

(a) He was a married man. (See Matt. 8:14).

(b) He would not allow others to bow down before him. (See Acts 10:25-26).

(c) He was not infallible, and when he was found in error he was reproved before the whole assembly by Paul. (See Gal. 2:1-14).

(d) There is no Biblical evidence he was ever in Rome.

4. Leaders in the true church are called elders or bishops. They are required to be MARRIED men with believing children. (See Titus 1:5-6). These men had the oversight of only one congregation. (See Phil. 1:1). Each church was independent. There is no mention in the New Testament of the church ever being governed by popes, cardinals and priests, unmarried men.

5. The New Testament is a complete and perfect guide in all spiritual matters. (See 2 Tim. 3:16-17, I Cor. 4:6). We are told not to go beyond this perfect guide. (See 2 John 9). The church and its leaders have never been given authority to make religious rules, articles of faith, or creeds. Hence, there would be no need for church councils, synods, conferences, or centralized church government.

6. Christian worship is described in the New Testament as being simple and heart-felt. (See Acts 2:42, Col. 3:16-17). We are warned not to depart from this simplicity. (See 2 Cor. 11:3). We are warned against various religious seasons and festivals. (See Gal. 4:10-11). Such things as incense, robes, holy water, infant baptism, sprinkling, candles, instrumental music, prayer - beads, and bowing before images have not been authorized by God for Christian worship. These practices have been introduced by men without God's authority. Jesus said that the teaching of men's doctrines makes worship vain. (See Matt 15:9).

7. Paul said he would rather speak five words that could be understood, than to speak 10,000 words in a tongue that was not understood. Would he have conducted a service in Latin before a congregation that spoke English? (See 1 Cor. 14:19).

8. Jesus loved His mother Mary but he taught plainly that every obedient disciple was as dear to Him as His own mother. (See Matt. 12:46-50, Mark 3:31-35, Lk. 8:19-21). Mary was not set forth as one to be worshipped, nor are we taught by the Bible to pray to her, or to bow down before her or her image. We are to worship God.

9. The Scriptures fortell that some shall "depart from the faith — for bidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats." Today, we are seeing this departure in churches that forbid their leaders to marry, and command the abstaining from meat on Friday. (See I Tim. 4:1-3).

10. In regard to religious titles, Jesus said, "Call no man father." (See Matt. 23:9). He also forbad His disciples to be called Rabbi or Master. (See Matt. 23:8-12).

The use of religious titles is contrary to the plain teachings of the Bible. The great Apostle Paul was referred to simply as "brother Paul," (See 2 Peter 3:15).

Congregations of Christians are referred to as "churches of Christ" in Romans 16:16. They exist today, scriptural in name, organization, work, and worship. If we can persuade others to forsake religious error and return to Bible ways, God will be pleased. In the language of Paul, "Am I therefore become your enemy because I tell you the truth?"

We stand ready to study the Scriptures with anyone who requests it. Questions on Bible matters may be mailed to us. We are ready to engage in private or public discussion with any church leader.

Football TV On Friday Is Opposed

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A strong stand against plans to televise five National Football League games next fall on Friday nights will be taken today by Walt Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

A statement by Byers is expected to commit the colleges to a strong fight, going to the court if necessary. The colleges believe this time belongs to the high schools and colleges, and any infringement violates the federal antitrust law passed in 1961.

The NCAA doesn't televise college games on Friday nights to protect the nation's high schools who play almost all their games then.

Supporting the NCAA in its stand is the National Federation of High Schools, with more than 12,000 members.

The American Broadcasting Co. insists the five games are not covered by the 1961 antitrust law because the games are being negotiated with the individual clubs and not the league.

Thomas W. Moore, president of ABC, put it this way:

"This is completely legal. The telecasts would accelerate interest in all kinds of football and not harm the colleges or the schools."

College and high school leaders contend the telecasts would hurt attendance. About 85 per cent of the high schools and some colleges play on Friday nights.

An emergency telephone conference of the NCAA television committee was held late Friday to determine the next move.

The 1961 law specified the NFL in signing a network contract could not televise on Friday nights and Saturdays, but it said nothing about individual club contracts.

The ABC has signed an agreement with Ford Motor Co. for sponsorship of the games between Sept. 25 and Oct. 23. The NFL maintains any such announcement would have to be premature because the league hasn't made up its schedule.

The five games involved are unidentified, but they were held out of the package contract signed with Columbia Broadcasting System earlier this year calling for $28.2 million over the next two years.

No Agreement As Deadline Nears

KANSAS CITY (AP) — With the deadline on a lease agreement only hours away at midnight, the star of the Kansas City story—Charles O. Finley—remained silent today about his problems with city officials.

The American League has given Finley, owner of the Athletics, until midnight tonight to reach agreement on a lease for Municipal Stadium with the city. If he fails to come up with a lease by then, Finley faces possible expulsion from the league.

The stormy executive was not available Friday for comment on the pressing situation.

But Joseph W. McKenney of the league office said, "We have tried to be fair to both sides."

Asked about revocation of the franchise, McKenney said:

"All that will be taken up in due time."

Mayor Ilus Davis of Kansas City said he and city council's baseball committee are available to meet on short notice until the deadline if someone comes up with a new proposal.

No one has come up lately with anything but a lot of sizzling words and constant disagreement. The city wants Finley to sign a four or five-year lease. Finley will go for only two.

The Canyon Gun Club has scheduled its monthly meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the county barn in Towle Memorial Park.

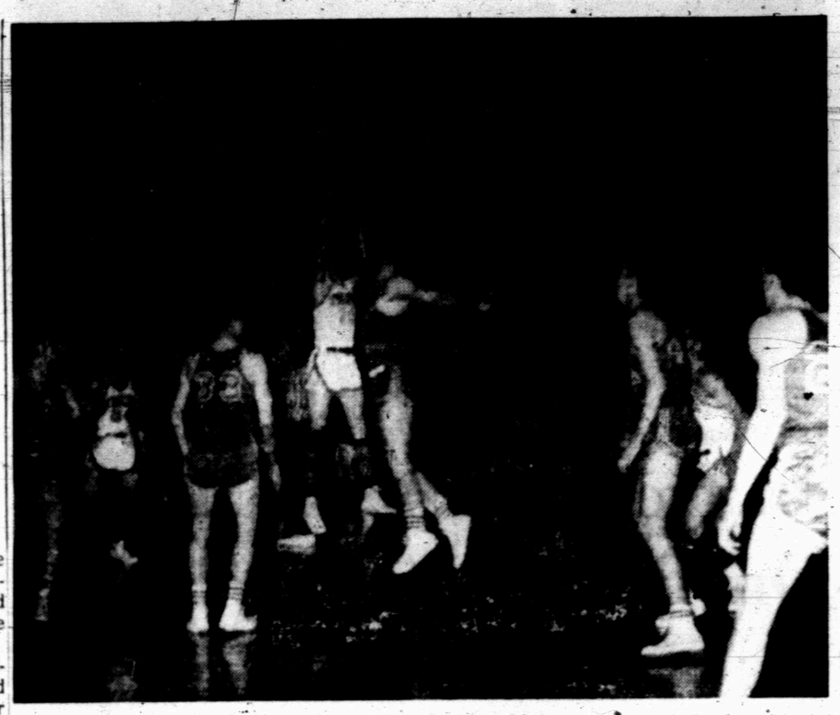
New officers of the club are Billy Don Martin, president; Mickey Sterling, vice president; Leroy Key, treasurer, and Bill McLennan, secretary.

Program for the meeting will include a business session, a coffee session and two films, "Big Game Country" and "Wing Shooters Magic."

All members, shooters and hunters are invited to attend the meeting.

Shooters caution will save a life. It might be yours. Be careful shooting.

BASKETBALL SWEETHEART—Mary Brice was presented as basketball sweetheart preceding the game with Brownfield Friday night. Shown with her are the three seniors on the Tiger team. They are Billy Stewart (40), Jackie Stewart (44), and Jimmy Wilson (30).



GET THAT TIP—Drew Bullard is pictured going high on a jump-ball situation in the game against Brownfield Friday night. The Tigers won the contest 81-38.

NCAA Post-Season Playoff Picture Begins To Clear

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The picture is getting a bit clearer for next month's NCAA postseason tourney that determines the national collegiate basketball champion.

The first to practically clinch a berth in the 25-team field is the nation's top-ranked team, UCLA. The unbeaten Bruins walloped Washington 73-58 Friday night for their 20th straight and to all intents assured themselves of the Big Six title which carries with it an automatic placing in the NCAA championship tourney.

Subject to revision because of possible surprises in the closing weeks of the regular season, the following appear to have the best chance of filling the remaining berths:

Atlantic Coast—Duke. Mid Atlantic—LaSalle or Temple. Yankee—Connecticut. Southern—Davidson or West Virginia. Ivy—Princeton or Yale. Mid American—Ohio U or Miami of Ohio. Ohio Valley — East Tennessee. Southeastern — Kentucky or Georgia Tech. Big Ten—Michigan or Ohio State. Southwest—Texas A&M or Texas Tech. Western Athletic—Utah or New Mexico. Missouri Valley—Drake or Wichita. Big Eight—Oklahoma State or Kansas State. West Coast Athletic—San Francisco.

Chicago Loyola, the national champions, probably will get an at-large berth despite five defeats so far. Oregon State, Texas Western, DePaul, Oklahoma City, Villanova, Creighton, Seattle, Utah State and NYU are other prominent independents doubtless under consideration.

The NIT, the other major postseason tourney, probably will first invite Providence, the 1963 winner, which boasts a 12-game winning streak. St. John's N.Y., St. Bonaventure, Memphis State, Iona and Miami, Fla. are among those likely being considered to fill the other 11 posts.

UCLA's speed and the combined 37 points by Gail Goodrich and Walt Hazzard were too much for the outclassed Washington Huskies.

Oregon State, ninth-ranked in The Associated Press Poll, defeated Seattle 76-72 and Arizona State romped against Brigham Young 110-85 in other Friday night games.

Princeton, Yale, Penn and Cornell continued in a four-way tie for first in the Ivy League. Princeton trampled Dartmouth, 100-46, Yale downed Columbia, 76-63, Penn defeated Harvard, 60-49 and Cornell took Brown, 90-77.

Ira Girls Win First Playoff Tilt

IRA — Ira's girls basketball team surged from behind in the second half here Friday ngith to edge Westbrook, 36-34, and go 1-up in the series to determine the champion of District 86-B. The two teams finished in a tie in regular district play.

Second game of the playoff will be played Friday night at Westbrook. If a third game is needed it will be played on a neutral site.

Ira's defense probably saved the day in the Friday game. Westbrook led by 24-16 at halftime, but the visitors were limited to a mere two points in the third period while Ira was scoring 16. Guards Dinky Moore, Oneta Rogers, Golda Autry and Jean Byars kept the Westbrook shooters virtually handcuffed while their team-mates at the other end of the court were getting Ira back in the ball game.

With three seconds left in the game and the score tied at 34-34, Pat Jones connected on a jump shot to give Ira the victory.

Miss Jones had 16 points to pace the Ira scoring, while Darlene Langford had 17 to lead Westbrook.

WESTBROOK — Langford 8-1-17; Ritchie 5-1-11; Putman 1-4-6.

IRA — Jones 7-2-16; Clark 3-6-12; Bishop 2-0-4; Payne 2-0-4.

Valentine Record Day For Tigers

What do Valentines Day, Brownfield and the number 29 have in common? A look at the records can provide the answer, and it all concerns the individual single-game basketball scoring record for Snyder High School.

Jimmy Wilson set a new record Friday night as he scored 35 points against Brownfield. The game was played on Valentines Day.

The old record of 29 points was first set by Jack Spikes against Stamford on Jan. 28, 1956. It was tied on Valentines Day the same year by Milton Ham in a contest with Monterey High School of Lubbock. Ham duplicated the feat the following season in an outing against Lake View, Jan. 29, 1957.

Six years went by before the record was tied again. This time the honors went to Stuart Long on Feb. 1, 1963. Who were the Tigers playing? It was Brownfield again.

Incidentally, when Spikes first set the record of 29 points he broke the record of 28 that was held by Ned Underwood, now Snyder High School basketball coach. He scored his 28 in a game with Plainview on Feb. 6, 1953.

Denies Job Offer To Sid Gillman

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Jerry Wolman, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, denied Friday night that he has offered a head football coaching job to Sid Gillman of the San Diego Chargers.

Wolman, vacationing in San Juan, Puerto Rico, told the San Diego Union by telephone that he hasn't talked to Gillman in two months.

Heart Fund Golf Play Progresses

The Heart Fund Golf Tournament is nearing a climax with appriximately 30 entrants already qualified in both the men's and women's divisions.

Entrants in the men's division were to complete an 18-hole qualifying round by Saturday and Lady Entrants are to complete a 9-hole qualifying round prior to regular ladies' day play on Tuesday.

The final 18 holes in the men's division was originally scheduled for today (Sunday), but Charles Bruce, chariman of the event and golf professional at the Snyder Country Club, said entrants would have another week to play their final round. Ladies had set their final round for Tuesday at their regular ladies' day event.

Sponsors of prizes in the various flights are C. E. Knight and Co., Ray Houpt Insurance Agency, Rainbow Market, Jonisue's, Lamb and Mize and Hays Ranch (Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hays, Jr.).

Everybody's Happy; Student-Faculty Game Ends In 37-37 Tie

The Travis ninth Grade Blue Devils ended their basketball season Friday afternoon as they battled the faculty team to a 37-37 tie.

There were no overtime periods as the game was played during the last period of class. When the bell ended the school day, the game ended too.

The scorers were too busy watching the thrilling game to keep accurate records, although it was conceded at the end of the game that Coach Wayne Tyron was bound to have been the high scorer of the day.

Wilson Scores 35; Sets New Record

The Snyder Tigers ended their most successful basketball season in years Friday night with a resounding 81-38 victory over the Brownfield Cubs. The win gave the Tigers a district record of nine wins against only one loss, the best record in district 3-AAA.

The Tigers are ineligible to represent the district, due to a ruling by the Interscholastic League. Either Lake View or Lamesa, who tied for second behind the Tigers, will compete in the playoffs.

Jimmy Wilson set a new individual single - game scoring record for Snyder as he pumped in 35 points to lead the Tigers to victory. The old record of 29 points was held jointly by Jack Spikes, Milton Ham and Stuart Long.

Wilson, a 6' 1½" senior, playing his last game for the Tigers, hit 16 field goals and three free throws in setting a new record. He hit an amazing 59 per cent from the floor, and practically all from the outside. He also led in rebounding for Snyder, pulling 10 off of the boards.

Two more Tigers hit in the double-figures. Drew Bullard had 12 points and Jerry Vestal [illegible] was high pointer for Brownfield with 11.

The amazing Tigers hit 50 per cent of their field goal attempts the first half and over 66 per cent during the second half. For the whole game, they connected on 35 of 61 shots for over 57 per cent.

In another important game Friday night Lake View edged Lamesa 50-49 to throw the two teams into a deadlock for second place. Representatives of the two schools are due to meet in Snyder at 3 p.m. today to make arrangements for a playoff to determine the district representative.

Colorado City won its only conference game Friday night, slipping by the Sweetwater Mustangs, 65-64. The two teams ended the season tied for fifth place in the district standings.

Snyder got off to a slow start in the game against the Cubs, leading 12-8 at the end of the first quarter. From there on it was strictly a runaway. The Tigers scored 24 points in the second period, 21 in the third, and 24 in the fourth. With the exception of Wilson, Coach Underwood played only the reserves during the final period. Brownfield tallied 8 points during the first period and 10 in each of the others.

The Snyder B team also won Friday night 63-42 and ended the season with the best B team record of the district. Bill Hartsfield's charges won 8 while losing two.

Reed Robinson led the B team in scoring with 18 points. Jimmy Featherston had 11 and Bill Blum netted 10. The team was playing without the services of Steve Crowell who was gone to Los Alamos, N. M. on a science trip.

Sportatorial

Our hats are off to the entire Snyder Tiger basketball team for one of the greatest seasons in Snyder High School's history. The Tigers, picked to come in no better than third in pre-season polls, ended the season with nine wins and only one loss in district competition - and overcame heavy odds in doing so.

The Snyder cagers got off to a poor start in non-conference play, winning only two of their first ten contests. Then the Interscholastic League ruled Snyder ineligible to compete beyond district play and the Tigers promptly caught fire.

They won their final two non-conference outings and swept through the District 3-AAA race with spirit and determination. The rest is history. They ended the season as champions, although not officially, of District 3-AAA.

The Tigers will not compete in the playoffs. The representative will be either Lake View or Lamesa. However, the Tigers know that they have proven by their record to be the best team in the district. The fans know it; the other district teams know it; and the Lamesa reporter who forwarded an anonymous letter to the Interscholastic League knows it - as well as the writer of the letter.

The ruling against the Tigers was a blow that could have easily killed the spirit of many teams. Knowing from before the beginning of the district race that they could not advance beyond district would possibly have killed the spirit of most teams.

The Tigers reacted as true champions. They went into each game determined to do their best. They hustled from the opening tip-off to the final buzzer. They were undaunted by superior height and pre-season predictions. They played to win and they did.

Congratualtions to Coach Ned Underwood and his Snyder High School Tigers, the REAL CHAMPIONS of District 3-AAA.—F. P.

Fourteen bouts were staged at the Scurry County Boys Club Friday night as the Intramural Boxing Championships of 1964 were held. Bill Butler, Boys' Club president, presented first and second place trophies to the finalists. Buck Byrum, Shelby Coker, and Albert Alferia were the judges.

Boys winning the decisions were Bobby Bell over Bobby Arguijo, Robert Lindsey over Mike Lindsey, Mitch Butler over Danny Rios, Floyd Jackson over Jackie Calloway, Rickie Rios over Kerry Clay, Johnny Alvarex over Harse Loper, Junior Rios over Manuel Campos, and Bobby Terrell over David Lindsey.

Boys winning by a split decision were Rudy Arguijo over George Pacheco, Jerry Loper over Junior Barton, Johnny Quiros over Tom Needham, David Rushing over Willie Campos, James Mata over Sammy Romero. Kenny Ellard won by a forfeit.

TORS, CHIEFS TO PICK SITE

Officials of Lamesa and Lake View Schools are scheduled to meet in Snyder today (Sunday) to arrange for a playoff to determine the District 3-AAA representative in the state basketball playoffs.

Lamesa and Lake View ended the season with 7-3 won-lost records, the seonod best marks in the district. However, Snyder with a 9-1 record, is ineligible to go into the state playoffs.

Supt. T. E. McCollum said Saturday that Snyder Schools had invited the two teams to stage their playoff game in Tiger Gym.

Officials of the two schools will meet at 3 p.m. at the 66 Cafe.

Former relief ace Luis Arroyo now scouts for the New York Yankees.

NASA's High Cost Still Matter Of Great Concern

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—At age 5 the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has the solar system for a playpen and dollars for building blocks.

No one denies NASA's accomplishments in placing satellites into orbit or that the man-in-space program was a tremendous achievement.

But there is a continuing official concern in Washington about NASA's high cost.

By 1970 NASA will have spent at the current rate somewhere between $35 and $50 billion in establishing U.S. pre-eminence in space, a program which envisions a manned landing on the moon.

The space agency was formed in October 1958 out of the old National Advisory Committee for Astronautics. In its first five years NASA's budget has expanded from $348 million to $5.1 billion, and the agency is asking for $5.3 billion for fiscal 1965.

In that same period NASA has announced three major reorganizations, each designed to tighten administrative control.

NASA has approximately 32,000 employes. It pays the highest salaries of any federal agency and has more people—349—in appointive jobs paying $16,500 to $21,000 annually than any other two federal agencies.

In the 1963 session Congress cut NASA's budget requests by $600 million dollars.

The General Accounting Office, Congress overseer of spending has reported that NASA contributed to the wastage of about $100 million in connection with the Centaur rocket and the Advent satellite program.

The General Accounting Office released a report last October which said a miscalculation about the weight the Centaur could lift had forced cancellation of the Defense Department's Advent program.

Beyond this, NASA has had some expensive failures.

Six of the Ranger shots, designed to send operating television cameras to the moon, have failed. Each failure has cost around $18 million.

Then there was Mariner I which was to investigate the atmosphere around Venus. Failure to insert a hyphen in the guidance formula, so NASA has said, caused the rocket to veer off course. It was destroyed. Cost $20 million.

The year-by-year record established by NASA shows that the space agency has yet to complete a major program on schedule or at the original cost estimate.

NASA explains the cost increase by saying: "During its first five years NASA achieved success more rapidly than had been hoped, but the price of success was much higher than had been anticipated. This was largely due to lack of prior experience."

As for the schedule lags, NASA says: "In attempting to do something which has never been done before, you cannot escape the necessity for establishing goals which are sometimes based on insufficient information."

New Schools Begun In Macon Co.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — A trend favoring private schools continued in Macon County today following court-ordered desegregation of the county's third, and last white public school.

A spokesman for 25 parents in the nearby Shorter community said a private grammar school was being established as a "branch" of Macon Academy, a segregated private high school founded after Tuskegee high was integrated last fall.

Bill Mac Segrest said he is temporary chairman of a newly formed building committee which is converting a rented dwelling house to classes for approximately 35 children.

The action in the small rural community was announced Friday night after six Negro students entered Macon County High School at Notasulga. Six other Negroes were admitted to shorter high last week under an order by U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr.

Johnson directed the transfer of the students to the two county schools after Tuskegee high was closed by the state Board of Education. The board said it was not economically feasible to operate with only 12 students.

All white students have boycotted the schools at Notasulga and Shorter as they did at Tuskegee high following desegregation.

Segrest said the parents at Shorter anticipated desegregation of the grammar school there by next fall and said, "We're getting out of the Negoes' way."

THE MOODS OF RUBY—Jack Ruby, charged with slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, presents a series of moods as he talks with reporters at his change of venue hearing in Dallas. Lawyers To Begin Monday On Ruby's Jury Selection

By JAMES MANGAN

DALLAS (AP) — Prosecution and defense in the Jack Ruby murder trial will begin Monday trying to select 12 fair and impartial jurors out of 900 Dallas County citizens.

Defense Attorney Melvin Belli says he feels the task is impossible. He says Dallas is saturated with prejudice against Ruby, who gunned down accused Presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald before television cameras.

Belli said that this prejudice may cause the rejection of as many as 200 jurors in a single day.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade, who will seek the death penalty for the 52-year-old former strip joint operator, has repeatedly said he feels a fair jury can be found in Dallas.

Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown ruled Friday that the true test of determining whether both sides can receive a fair trial depends upon the examination of the prospective jurors.

The judge withheld his decision on a defense motion to move the trial to another Texas city until prospective jurors have been questioned.

He said he had no idea how long this would take.

Belli told newsmen the issue should be resolved in five days. He said that if a fair jury has not been selected by then, he would renew his moves to get the case transferred.

He said the defense planned a rigorous examination of any prospective juror who does not readily admit to conscious prejudice, and might spend as much as an entire day questioning one individual.

"The big problem here," he said, "is not just that everyone is prejudiced, but that Dallas is on trial. It is not that these people lack integrity, but this is a case where the city is on the defense and national magazines and publications have been talking constantly about hate within this city."

Judge Brown announced that beginning with Monday's quest for a jury; the Ruby case would be shifted to a much larger courtroom.

Judge Brown's small court had seats for only 62 persons. The court of Judge J. Frank Wilson, in the same building, can seat 200 persons easily. More than 300 newsmen have requested seats for the trial.

Belli plans his defense around the contention that Ruby temporarily lost his mind when he shot Oswald.

The state says it will try to send Ruby to the electric chair because his deed was a throwback to barbarism.

"We will base the trial on whether we are to have a government of laws or by men," Wade said.

"Everyone saw Ruby shoot Oswald," Belli said, "but no one saw into this man's mind."

More Opposition To Friday TV Games

BORGER (AP) — The Texas High School Coaches Association thinks televising professional football games on Friday nights will be harmful to both the high schools and football in general.

Gene Mayfield of Borger, president of the association, sent telegrams Friday to the American Broadcasting Company and National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle asking that the games not be televised. His wire read:

"Speaking in behalf of the high schools of the state of Texas we would like for you to rescind your announced intentions of televising National Football and thereby indirectly hurt football in general."

Retired Football Official Dies

DALLAS (AP)—Barry Holton, confidant of Knute Rockne and one of the best known football officials in the Southwest Conference, died Friday night.

Holton, 67, succumbed to a heart attack at his home here.

He played under and coached with Rockne, the fabled mentor of the Fighting Irish. He coached at Trinity University and Wichita Falls High School and for 25 years was a football official.

He served in both wars as a Navy aviator.

Holton retired last year as director of community service at Southern Methodist University. He had been il ill health ever since suffering a stroke in 1962.

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Two days of doubles and Rex Baxter aims for a single finish today atop the third round list of the $30,000 Open golf tournament.

The 27-year-old from Amarillo, Tex., drew Ernie Vossler as his partner at the end of the first round at six-under-par 66.

He lost to Vossler to a 79 in the high winds at the 49ers Country Club and wound up with Australia's Bruce Devlin as his partner at 136 on Friday.

Baxter shot a two-under-par 70 in the 30 mile per hour winds and 46 degree temperature while Devlin fired the day's best score, a 67, and drew even.

Sharing second place a stroke behind the leaders were 6-foot-6 George Archer of San Francisco and Jacky Cupit, a Texan now playing out of Corona, Calif.

Archer shot a 69 and Cupit came in with a 68 for their 137s.

Bruce Crampton of Australia and San Diego's Chuck Courtney were at 138 with 70 and 71 respectively.

Lucy Baines Finds Time For 'Frugue'

By CELIA LYNETT

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP) — President Johnson's daughter, Lucy Baines, 16 danced the "frugue" Friday night, surprising White House aides and acting just like an average American teen-ager.

White House aides had said earlier that Lucy probably wouldn't have time for social activities or skiing while attending the weekend high school conference on religion at this Pocono Mountain resort.

But the attractive brunette, wearing a navy blue skirt and white blouse, arrived at a dance for conference delegates about 15 minutes after it started.

John K. Lloyd, 17, Philadelphia, a good looking senior from the Peddie School in Highstown, N.Y., broke the ice. Glancing shyly at Secret Service agents, he asked her to dance. They twirled away dancing the "frugue," a dance popular with teen-agers.

Lloyd, after his dance, said Lucy was "very sincere and not much different from most of the girls I date." He said she's "a nice dancer."

Lucy was the hit of the dance. She was there about 35 minutes and danced with seven or eight young men.

Lucy brought along her school books on the eight-hour bus ride from Washington Friday.

About 400 students from Eastern schools are attending the conference. Lucy represents her high school, the National Cathedral School in Washington.

Von Braun Says Missiles Accurate

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — This country must be ready to repel possible attack from space, says Dr. Wernher von Braun, the missile scientist.

Von Braun, the inventor of Germany's V2 who now directs the U.S. space flight center at Huntsville, Ala., was the final speaker Friday night at the Texas A&M Space Fiesta.

He also challenged talk that intercontinental ballistics missiles may be unreliable and said the Ranger moon probe project should be continued.

Von Braun said it is vital that the United States build defenses "against any hostile force that attempts to use space as an unchallenged avenue of aggression against us."

He took issue with Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, about the dependability of the intercontinental ballistic missile.

"They were very reliable in 1960 when I was with the Department of Defense, even before the Titan missiles and other developments," von Braun said.

He addressed an audience of about 1,000 people.

"We have sent six astronauts into space," he said, "and we need to send 60 or 100 before we can evaluate the military importance of manned space flight."

Barry Discusses Campaign Costs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater talks dollars and cents today with the financial high command of his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Winding up a week of campaigning in the West, Goldwater was to get a progress report from his campaign finance committee at his hilltop home overlooking Phoenix.

The Arizona senator has said he expects his campaigns in the five presidential primaries he is entering — New Hampshire, Illinois, Oregon, Nebraska and California — will cost $2 million to $2.5 million.

Sunday the senator flies to Chicago to confer with his state campaign directors. Forty-two of them have been invited to meet with the candidate and discuss coordination of their efforts to win him the Republican nomination.

Goldwater, who speaks tonight in the Mexican border town of Nogales, went campaigning Friday night in Claypool, a little mining town about 80 miles from Phoenix.

He said President Johnson is out of step with the thinking of most Americans in his policy toward Cuba. Goldwater said he thinks "the average American" favors action to force restoration of the halted water supply to the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

"I think the great percentage of the American people would back any move to get communism out of Cuba," he added.

Goldwater renewed his attack on the public accommodation section of the administration's civil rights bill, charging it would force businessmen "to admit a drunk or a murderer or insane person into your place of business."

Despite that complaint, Goldwater said state laws banning discrimination in places of public accommodation are all right.

"This is the right of the state," he said. "It is not the right of the federal government."

The Arizona House of Representatives earlier in the day had approved a public accommodations bill.

Ball Star Is Missing On Flight

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Baseball star Ken Hubbs, a licensed pilot only two weeks, was missing and his light plane presumed down today on a flight over desert and mountains from Utah to California.

Hubbs, 22, second baseman for the Chicago Cubs and 1962 National League rookie of the year, was flying home to Colton, Calif., after taking part in a church basketball tournament at Provo.

He and a friend, Dennis Doyle, also of Colton, left Provo in Hubbs 'plane at 10 a. m. Thursday. They were listed as missing Friday night after Hubbs' father reported the plane failed to arrive.

A search started in Utah, Nevada and California at dawn for the missing single-engine Cessna 172, which Hubbs purchased last year — before he qualified as a pilot.

Weather was poor and visibility low Thursday when Hubbs and Doyle left Provo. It snowed over much of Utah that day.

Hubbs broke into professional baseball with Morristown of the rookie Appalachian League in 1959. Hubbs played with Fort Worth of the American Association, San Antonio of the Texas League, Lancaster of the Eastern League and Wenatchee of the Northwest League before moving up to the Cubs.

Widespread Rain And Snow Makes Farmers Optimistic

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Widespread rain and snow, followed by mild weather, had added optimism for agriculture in most sections of Texas. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the overall soil moisture situation has greatly improved but a few dry spots remain and stock tanks are still low.

The mild temperatures and the moisture gave grains, especially wheat, great help, he said.

Oats and clovers have also taken on new life. Pastures are greening and even providing limited grazing. But livestock feeding still is heavy.

The Panhandle reported rain and snow left from 1 to 2.5 inches of badly needed moisture. Wheat will benefit greatly. Feeding was heavy. Some stockmen had great difficulty getting feed to their animals but cattle losses were extremely light.

Southern counties of the South Plains are dry and ranges are below normal. Snow in the northern counties was heavy enough to help but more moisture is needed. Irrigated grains look good but those on dryland need rain. Livestock are in good condition with considerable feeding.

Moisture is adequate in the Rolling Plains. Grains have taken on new life and grazing should improve.

Moisture in North Central Texas improved and wheat is making excellent growth. Oats haven't responded as much due to damage from cold. Stock water is still scarce and feeding is necessary.

The outlook improved in Northeast Texas due to the fairly general rains of 1.5 to 2 inches. Stock tanks are still low and a problem. Grains and clovers have started growing and some pastures are providing limited grazing. Tomatoes are being planted in hotbeds.

Moisture improved in eastern counties of the far West Texas but other parts of the district are dry. Goat shearing, lambing and calving are under way.

Moisture is adequate in West Central Texas and grains are beginning to grow. Winter weeds and grass are making some progress and furnishing some grazing for sheep. Feeding is heavy.

Surface moisture is adequate in Central Texas and grains furnished limited grazing. Livestock are fair, grazing is short.

Moisture is adequate in East Texas but ranges are below average and feeding is very heavy.

Warm weather helped pasture vegetation and moisture is generally good in the southeast and upper Gulf coastal area. Rice land is being prepared.

Moisture in South Texas ranges from short to adequate. harvesting of vegetables continued in the Lower Valley and Winter Garden. Vegetable planting and plowing for cotton were major activities. Livestock are in far to good condition but feeding is necessary.

Band Students Honored At Annual Banquet

GUEST SPEAKER—Mr. Dean Killion, band director at Texas Tech was the guest speaker for the evening. His wit and high praise for the Snyder students was well received.

BAND SWEETHEART—Miss Janice Fowler was named "Band Sweetheart" at the annual band banquet held Monday evening. She is pictured above with Mr. Tommy Graves, vice president of the Band Parents Club who made the annual presentation.

Snyder High School Band

Over 200 people attended the annual Snyder High School "Pride of the West" Band banquet Monday evening in the high school cafeteria. The annual affair is sponsored by Snyder High School Band Parents' Club.

W. H. Harbour, Jr., captain of the band, gave the invocation.

The delicious meal, prepared by the cafeteria ladies and served by some 14 mothers of band students, consisted of chicken fried steak, garden salad, baked potatoes with sour cream dressing, green beans, chocolate and cocoanut cream pie, hot rolls, butter, tea and coffee.

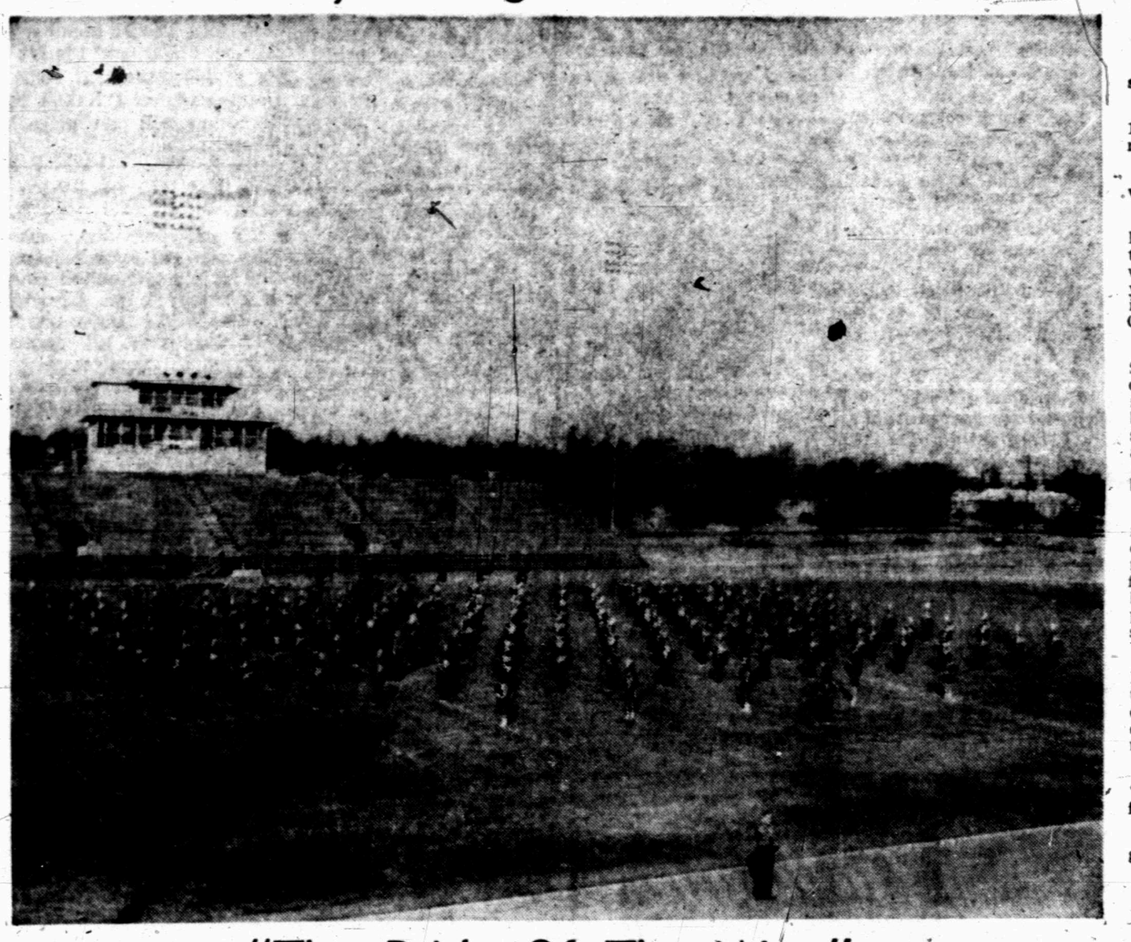
Harold Bennett, president of the club, was master of ceremonies; gave the welcome and introduced officers, T. B. Graves, vice president, Mrs. Ralph Wesson, secretary-treasurer, and various chairmen. He also introduced special guests, T. E. McCollum, superintendent of schools, J. M. Kayser, assistant principal of the high school, Mrs. Kayser, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lashaway, Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Pope, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Pitner. Pitner furnished special dinner music and was presented a gift of appreciation. Dr. Robert Hargrove gave the response.

M. B. Montgomery, band director, gave special recognition to the Band Parents Club for the banquet on behalf of the band and the fine progress the club has made on their fund raising project.

Band officers are: Scooter Harbour, captain; Bobby Easterwood, First Lt.; Tom Bennett, Second Lt.; Janie McBeth, newly elected secretary. Librarians — Kathy Scrivner, Mary Ainsworth, Judy Land, and Frankie Steel. Quartermasters — Sherry Patton, Connie Reynolds, Virginia Jackson, Sue Moreland, Anita Holt and D. Stephens. Drum major, Hillman Bearden; Twirlers — Carol Young, Janice Fowler, Evelyn Starnes, Phyllis Smith and Jodi Snyder.

Seniors of the band were recognized.

The All-Region members who recently participated in competition were: Ann Patterson, Tom Bennett, Hillman Bearden, Connie Reynolds, Denise Welch, Dwain Butler, Scooter Harbour, Larry Guinn, Robert Clinton, John Burton, Carol Young, Virginia Jackson, Bobby Covey, Eldon Tipping and Bobby Easterwood.



Three all-state musicians were announced: Ann Patterson, Tom Bennett and Bobby Easterwood.

The stage band, which has taken top honors for the past 10 years at Brownwood will make their eleventh try in the near future.

An ensemble from Texas Tech entertained the crowd with four selections.

Montgomery introduced the guest speaker, Dean Killion. Killion is originally from Fairfield, Neb., graduated from the University of Nebraska, taught band at Sidney, Neb., was assistant at the University of Nebraska and taught two years at Fresno State College, Calif. He came to Texas Tech in 1959 and is currently director of the famous Texas Tech College Band.

Opening his talk with humor, he went on to praise the Snyder High School Band for their showing in the state clinic recently, emphasizing their prominence in the field of music in the state and out-of-state. He stated that the 130 band members of Snyder have been in the limelight for sometime because of their discipline; being in the right place, at the right time with the right equipment, right attitude and sharp uniforms. This shows they have been trained well because they produce well.

Responsibility is one of the most important points a musician learns. A first impression means much when a student goes on to college. College is not so difficult, and is not completely based on academic, organization and performance is rated very high. Snyder students have always been highly recommended at Tech, for they come ready to play, their traditions are high and perform well, the speaker said.

Killion told the group he often uses films of the Snyder High School Band in clinic work at Tech and asked for films to take to Nebraska for a clinic he will conduct there. He complimented the band for their first division in marching contest and 12 years of never rating lower than first in all-region contests.

T. B. Graves made the presentation of a gift to the "Band Sweetheart", Miss Janice Fowler and gave the official "Sweetheart Kiss".

The activities closed with Hillman Bearden leading the group in the school Alma Mater.

"The Pride Of The West"

GALA AFFAIR — Members of the Snyder High School Band were dressed in their best finery at the band banquet recently. Formal gowns bedecked with shoulder corsages looked very sleek with their escorts in suits and dinner jackets.

Toperettes Plan For Convention

The Snyder Toperettes met Tuesday at 7 in the cafeteria at Stanfield with 30 members present and visitors from O'Donnell, Fluvanna and Colorado City. Roll call was answered by the number of pounds gained or lost. There were only five which had gained and a few which had turtled. The pigs, which are the ones that have gained, read the TOPS pledge to the other members.

Topic of the night was the convention to be held in Lubbock April 11. Anyone who is a TOPS member may attend. This will be discussed at later meetings.

The entertainment committee asked that everyone come prepared for exercises at the next meeting.

Meeting was adjourned at 8:30 after all the members introduced themselves and gave a brief summary of themselves.

Many good cooks like to use a moderate (350 degrees) temperature for roasting a turkey that weighs up to 12 pounds, and a slower temperature (325 degrees) for a bird that's over 12 pounds.

Clothes Dryers

Modern clothes dryers are equipped with timing devices that automatically shut off heat and tumbling. Some dryers sense temperature changes automatically, some measure moisture electronically, others offer a choice of drying time.

Many new dryers have anti-wrinkle wash-and-wear cycles that end with tumbling in cool air to prevent heat-set wrinkles.

Hot Apple-Fig Compote

1 teaspoon lemon juice

Peel, core and thickly slice apples, sprinkle with lemon juice. Melt butter in a 10-inch skillet. Add apples, and pecan halves and cook, stirring often, until apples are transparent. Stir in sugar and cloves; add figs and stir gently until figs are hot. If brandy is used, heat, light and pour flaming over fruit. Serve with vanilla ice cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Programmed Ovens

The programmed oven, which automatically changes temperature at a predetermined time, is available in two types of systems in 1964 ranges. One is a "single thermostat" system that can be pre-set to change from a cooking to a keep warm temperature. The second is a "double thermostat" system which transfers the control of oven temperature at a predetermined time to a second thermostat.

Ice Cream Pudding

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

EVERY ONCE in a while we feel we should take it upon ourselves to remind mothers of the importance of seeing that their children have an adequate amount of vitamin C in their diet every day.

Fortunately orange juice, generally liked by young and old, is a great source of this vitamin. Of course you give your youngsters orange juice to drink, but it may also be used in a variety of dishes.

Recently we tried combining undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate with maple - flavored syrup to use as pudding sauce. For the pudding we made a batch of an old-fashioned farina dessert that one young visitor named Ice Cream Pudding. If your family likes bland true - flavor milk puddings, as much as we do, we think this recipe is one you'll want to keep on hand.

Make up the Pudding when you have time, turn it into custard cups, cover and refrigerate them. They'll keep for several days. Serve the pudding for dessert at lunch or supper. Or let the children have it for a breakfast treat.

FARINA PUDDING WITH ORANGE MAPLE SAUCE

½ cup quick-cooking farina
1½ tablespoons corn starch
1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 eggs, separated
Orange Maple Sauce

In a small bowl stir together well the farina, corn starch, sugar and salt. In a saucepan bring milk and vanilla to a boil; vigorously stir farina mixture into milk. Turn heat low and cook and stir constantly for 3 minutes. Add butter, remove from heat. Beat egg yolks slightly. Stir a little of the hot farina mixture into the beaten egg yolks, then stir this back into the hot farina, until egg yolk and butter are well blended. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks, fold gently into farina mixture. Rinse 6 to 8 custard cups or individual molds with cold water. Turn farina mixture into molds and refrigerate for at least 5 hours or overnight. Unmold and serve with Orange Maple Sauce. Makes 6 to 8 generous servings.

ORANGE MAPLE SAUCE

¼ cup frozen undiluted orange juice concentrate thawed
¼ cup blended maple syrup

In a small bowl stir together the undiluted orange juice concentrate and maple syrup. Serve over unmolded farina pudding.

Note Reconstitute the remainder of the undiluted orange juice concentrate in the can, by mixing it with three parts of cold water, to serve as a beverage.

EVER GIVE children a cereal pudding for breakfast? It's made ahead and unmolded — and packed with nourishment. Serve the pudding with a sauce flavored with frozen orange juice concentrate.

How Are You At Love Letter Writing?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Whatever happened to the fine old art of love letter writing?

That may be a good thought for leap year. But for that matter, does leap year make any difference to modern young people?

Whether leap year matters or not, love letter writing seems to have gone out of style. And that is too bad, as anyone would agree after reading Elizabeth and Robert Browning's letters.

Many young men do not write love letters because they are at a loss to compose a letter of any kind too shy to put anything sentimental in words.

"The Original Letter Writer: On Friendship, Love, Marriage and Business," published in 1845 by N. L. Dayton has a number of letters to warm the hearts of sentimental types, although the formality of the era is evident in the composition.

One such letter is this:

"Dear Sweet Rebecca:

Since you have so freely decided to be mine, I am one of the happiest of men. Everything seems to go pleasantly with me. If at any time I am a little disturbed I have only to think of one of your sweet smiles to be all right again.

"Every day I feel more and more the need of your society, and now let me ask, dear one, when the happy day of our marriage shall be. I leave it entirely to you, and yet I can't help saying, do name an early day. Everything is now ready. I have engaged a house on a pleasant and healthy part of the hill. I need only your good taste in the selection of furniture. I will not purchase a single article until I know your choice. We shall not have anything very grand: but we shall have a comfortable and sweet home.

"My shop is not far from the house, so I can see you almost any moment in the day, and the evenings will be ours.

"I shall go to the post office very impatiently every time the mail comes, until I hear from you. Write soon to your sincere but lonely, Charles."

A young man requesting correspondence with a woman wrote this, and perhaps it would be a good thing to revive the get-acquainted letter.

"I feel that I am taking great liberty in writing you on such short acquaintance. My only apology is that the acquaintance was so delightful that I cannot endure the thought of terminating it. How much happiness it would give me if I was sure that you sometimes thought of me.

I shall consider the days I passed in your society the happiest in my life. I fear you will think me very presumptous if I ask you to reply to this letter, but I cannot forbear doing so."

It's no wonder that girls in bygone days treasured their little love notes and tied them in ribbons, so many were beautifully, and even shyly, contributed. And they had some treasures for later life, no doubt. When the marriage was a little rocky, a glimpse into the love letter box would revive the [illegible] of romantic episodes of ago.

But even in those days girls gave a man a tongue lashing by mail, if she chose, like this:

"I have for some time thought you were unworthy of me or any other respective girl. I send by the bearer, all your trinkets and letters. Be assured that I disdain to keep one of them. One who trifles with the affections of another, as you have with mine, can never be a good husband nor a desirable friend; therefore I desire you in neither capacity. You will please to return my letters to the bearer."

Letters were so important on the romantic scene in those days that it was important to get them back.

Civil War Book Is Brilliant

THE CIVIL WAR: A NARRATIVE, Fredericksburg to Meridian. By Shelby Foote.

Five years ago, Foote reported the beginnings of the Civil War in his "Fort Sumter to Perryville." In this second of a projected 3 volume work, he magnificently advances the story through the early months of 1864.

The word "reported" is used advisedly; this is vivid, graphic reporting. Foote rarely imposes his judgment upon the narrative; he allows the eloquent facts to pronounce their own judgments of men and events. He is a Mississippian, but there is no discernible partisanship in his reporting. His merciless arraying of facts falls with equal fervor upon Braxton Bragg and Fighting Joe Hooker.

What emerges is a powerful, moving pageant of a nation torn by civil conflict. It is treatment in depth — the Gettysburg campaign covers 150 pages. It is cool and objective, yet exciting and colorful; a brilliant achievement.

The period covered here spans the high tide of battles—Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Vicksburg, Gettysburg, Chickamauga. If there are no new illuminations of the chief actors, there are sharp delineations of their words and thoughts and actions to provide bold understanding. The reader inevitably will contrast the masterly campaign against Vicksburg with the blunders and fumbles of Gettysburg; he will perceive easily U. S. Grant's rising star, and sense the constriction of Robert E. Lee's talents by dwindling Confederate resources. And he will gain new insight into the ferocity of the fighting.

We now have three multivolume histories of the Civil War in process of publication. It is a testimonial to the rich historical talents in action that each of the three performs a distinct public function. Bruce Catton's centennial history might be termed a "popular" work, for it undoubtedly will have the widest appeal, from Catton's fluency of language, perceptive analyses and incisive treatment. The massive 10-volume study by Allan Nevins, embracing the prewar and Reconstruction periods, must be regarded as well-nigh definitive in scope and thoroughness. But even in such distinguished company, Foote's work stands erect on its own merits as a masterful work, splendidly conceived and splendidly written.

Women Work In All Jobs

American women nowadays are working at literally every job under the sun — and some even under ground (the 1960 Census turned up 266 lady coal miners.) Women are holding down jobs in every single one of the 479 occupations in the Census Bureau's most detailed list, which includes some fairly unlikely ones. At last count, for example, the U. S. had 101 women blacksmiths, 85 locomotive engineers, 301 stevedores and nearly 1000 "female lumbermen, raftsmen and wood choppers."

Most women in the U. S., however prefer less strenous work, and are finding it in record numbers. Better than half of America's 24 million working women are in white collar occupations: clerical, sales, business management and the professions. A total of six million women are employed in service occupations and four million in blue-collar jobs (mainly light factory work and the needle trades.) Paid work on farms and ranches, which at the turn of the century accounted for one out of five jobs for women in the U.S. now employs only one in forty.

Over the past few decades, white collar employment of women has been growing twice as fast at that of men. In 1940 women held only one out of three white collar jobs in the U. S.; today they are just a few percentage points behind the men, and a decade from now they may well be in the majority.

Within the white collar area, the largest increase in employment for women has been in clerical jobs, where there are now over 7.2 million women as compared to 2.7 million in 1940. In the professional and technical occupations, on the other hand, the over-all picture is not as bright: although their numbers have doubled since 1940, women's share of professional and technical employment has actually decreased slightly. One reason is that during the Forties and Fifties relatively few women went into such fast-growing fields as engineering, business administration and the physical sciences, and many of those who did are now housewives and out of the labor market. The traditional "women's professions," nursing and teaching, still account for two-thirds of all the women in the professional and technical area. America's 1.4 million women schoolteachers outnumber male teachers by two to one. Over 800,000 women are registered nurses, medical technicians, physical therapists, or in other professional and semi-professional occupations concerned with health care.

Sales work employes 1.8 million women, the great majority as sales personnel in retail stores. However, thousands of women each year are entering — and prospering in — other selling occupations, including some which for years had been considered male territory. One occupation that is particularly well-suited for many women, according to the Women's Bureau of the Dept. of Labor, is life insurance selling, the career choice of some 5,000 women today.

In the service occupations, the largest single category is household domestic employment (about two and a quarter million jobs.) The next largest category is made up of restaurant and food service workers (one and a half million.) Other important service occupations for women are: hospital attendants and practical nurses (about a half million); hotel - type service workers such as chambermaids and housekeepers (280,000); and hairdressers and cosmetologists (270,000.)

The increase in white collar occupations for women is strongly paralleled by the continuing shrinkage in farm and domestic employment.

This shift has been most dramatic among Negro women. In 1940, when over 1½ million Negro women already were in the labor force, less than 21,000 were doing clerical or sales work, while nearly a million were employed as domestics in private homes, and a quarter of a million worked on farms.

Domestic service still accounts for a third of all Negro women with jobs, but white collar employment has risen to seven times the 1940 figure, and farm employment has dropped to 8 percent of the total.

Cracking Wise On Ice

QUICK, BEFORE IT MELTS. By Philip Benjamin.

Nice, cool entertainment is is all that Benjamin's book pretends to be It does very well, in the category of "on the rocks." humor.

So there's this Oliver Wendell for an American magazine. He has goofed too many times on the job, and gets shipped off to Antarctica. On the way, he makes friends with Pete Santelli, a camera man employed by a photo syndicate, who avocationally is a skirt-chaser and cynic.

The action takes place, progressively in Christchurch, New Zealand; McMurdo Sound, and Little America, with side excursions to Marie Byrd Land and the South Pole itself.

There's plenty of sex, mainly in the person of a New Zealand airline stewardess, a beauty who is half Maori. There are a Russian scientist attached to the American base as an observer; a fatuous U. S. Congressman on a junket; an American enlisted man who develops an emotional attachment to a penguin that saved his life, and a large cast of bearded polar scientsits feuding with bearded Navy types.

Benjamin's wise-cracking fiction grew out of two newspaper assignments to The Ice down under, and he has made the most of the yock-yock anecdotes which furnish a flavorful lore of that odd piece of congealed real estate.

So there's a pleasant diversion to be found here among the imaginatively ridiculous nonsense Benjamin has pulled out of the refrigerator.

Next time you have dry enriched bread to make into crumbs, prepare this nutritious topping for a casserole. Add grated cheese to the bread drumbs and stir together. Refrigerate the mixture in a covered jar up to several weeks and use ½ cup or more to sprinkle on your favorite casseroles or vegetable dishes. The enriched bread will add B-vitamins and food iron to your supper dish.

ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

John A. Shiffert
Diaper Service Industry Association

The response from the recent All About Babies Column on questions about babies most frequently asked diaper service routemen by their customers, prompted us to enlarge the list. None of these are medical questions for we are always quick to point out that questions pertaining to health should always be referred to a physician. However, it is quite a compliment to have mothers put so much confidence in our experience.

That new mothers confide in the man or woman who delivers baby's diapers is mainly because in modern mobile America, most young families live at some distance from their own parents. To meet this unique responsibility, the nation's diaper service industry trains its routemen and route women to answer most questions that are asked about baby, except those that seek medical advice. Here again are some of the questions new mothers ask most often:

Q. Can I tell in advance the true color of baby's eyes?

A. There's no way to accurately predict the permanent color. At birth it's usually slate-blue.

Q. When baby sneezes is he getting a cold?

A. Not necessarily. Sneezing is baby's way of cleaning his nose.

Q. How much weight should baby gain a day the first month?

A. It varies but an ounce a day is said to be average.

Q. When will baby be able to roll over?

A. Usually late in the fifth or early in the sixth month.

Q. When may I begin punishing baby for misbehavior?

Q. When baby is old enough to know better.

Q. Can diaper rash be prevented?

A. Good diaper hygiene to prevent diaper rash can be practiced simply and surely by diapering baby with correctly processed diapers and following a fastidious diapering routine as long as baby wears diapers.

Q. When will baby be ready for a high chair?

A. Usually in about the sixth month, if he's able to sit without tiring.

Q. When will baby start holding his own bottle?

A. He may make his first attempt to help you hold his bottle at the age of four months and be able to do it himself at about eight months.

Q. Is there a crawling stage?

A. Baby may crawl at about eight months but not all crawl, some walk instead.

Q. Must a new baby cry?

A. Crying is baby's way of expressing discomfort.

Sirloin Appetizer

Here's a cocktail tidbit that no man will pass up. Cut a top sirloin steak (¾ inch thick) into 1 inch pieces. Fry the cubes in deep fat. If you have a burner-with-a-brain on your range, set the temperature control at 375 degrees and preheat the oil. When you see flame diminish, the proper frying temperature has been reached. Drop the steak cubes into the hot oil, a few at a time. When they rise to the top they have finished cooking. Place a cocktail pick in each and serve with steak sauce.

Lucky indeed is the home handyman whose workshop is as large as he would like it to be. Some, in fact, have to get along with a shop that really isn't a shop at all, but a part of another room or section of the house or garage.

For those who have a minimum amount of workshop space at their disposal, here are 10 ways to make the most of that space:

(1) Provide storage space for everything. Mothing takes up more space than unorganized clutter. When you get a new tool or piece of material, assign a storage space to it.

(2) Use adjustable shelves for paint and other shelf - stored items. They can be made with metal support racks designed for this purpose or by drilling a row of holes vertically inside shelf sides and using wooden or metal dowels in the holes to support the shelves. Store items of the same height on each shelf.

(3) Store all small hardware—nuts, bolts, cotter pins, etc., in small glass jars. Nail the tops of the jars to the underside of a shelf so that the items are both visible and handy.

(4) Use overlapping tool panels. If there is not enough space for all your hand tools and power tool accessories above your workbench, hinge two or three swinging panels above the bench and hang tools on both sides of them.

(5) Use overhead space for the storage of lumber. This can be done with one of the specially made and inexpensive types of metal suspension racks — or you can make your own of wood.

(6) Mount power tools on casters so that they can be placed against the wall and out of the way except when in use. Use the kind of casters that can be locked in place or retracted while the tool is in operation.

(7) In cramped quarters, position tools so that long pieces of wood and other materials can be extended through an open door or window while being cut.

(8) Use wall space instead of drawers. Perforated hardboard sometimes provides a perfect answer to the problem of space.

(9) Build a sliding board into your workbench, like the cutting board on many modern sink tables. The board is pushed back out of the way when not in use.

(10) In certain cases — where you have a small space set aside in the basement, for instance — you can sometimes make good use of a few window shades attached from the ceiling. When the shades are pulled down, they provide a separated area for such things as painting and spraying.

QUESTION: Please give me some advice on putting down a flagstone terrace. I don't want to use the small or ordinary-size flagstones, but the very large ones I saw on an estate I visited recently.

Besides being huge, the flagstones came in many different colors. Can they be purchased this way or must they be colored or painted after being installed?

ANSWER: The large flagstones can be puschased in colors. They come in squares and rectangles. In using regular flagstones, you can improvise as you go along, because the stones are light and easy to handle. But if you are doing a terrace with the large flagstone it is better to use scaled pieces of cardboard to make a layout of how the stones will fit in place.

If you don't do this, you'll find (1) that you'll do a lot of unnecessary lifting and (2) the pieces won't fit together as you thought they would. Make the pattern with cardboard, numbering each piece as you go along. When you have everything properly in place, number the stones accordingly and begin the actual work.

The stones, by the way, should be placed on a two-inch bed of sand. Where there is poor drainage, the sand should first be spread on a layer of gravel or cinders. Be sure everything is packed down firmly before putting down the stones. After each stone is laid, stand on it and see whether there is any movement. If there is, the sand should be repacked to provide a level base.

Good Old Hamburger, New Way

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

EVERY ONCE in a while American cooks who want to vary the appearance and flavor of our omnipresent ground beef, are attracted to recipes for making hamburger meat into a stuffed roll. That was exactly our frame of mind when we came upon the following rule. We tried it, and our tasters liked it.

The original recipe specified small dry bread cubes for the stuffing. But we happened to have a package of the new seasoned croutons in our kitchen and so we found it convenient to use these. Along with the interesting combination of bacon parsley and walnuts called for, the croutons produced a good texture and flavor.

Rolled Stuffed Meat Loaf With Gravy

4 slices bacon
¼ cup finely chopped celery
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1½ cups packaged seasoned croutons
¼ cup minced parsley
¾ cups chopped (medium fine) walnuts
1 egg
1½ pounds ground chuck beef
1 small onion, finely grated (about ¼ cup pulp and juice)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy

In a 10-inch skillet, cook the bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. In bacon drippings gently cook the celery and garlic until wilted. Mix in croutons, parsley, walnuts and crumbled bacon.

In a mising bowl, beat the egg slightly; add beef, onion, salt and pepper; mix thoroughly. Turn out on a large sheet of wax paper; pat into a rectangle (12 by 8 by ½ inch). Spoon bacon crouton stuffing over beef so that it is 1 inch from all four sides. Roll jelly-roll fashion, lifting paper as you do so. Place meat roll on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 1 hour. Lift meat on rack out of pan and with two wide spatulas, place meat on serving platter. Pour off fat from pan; pour gravy into pan and stir over low heat with wooden spoon to get up drippings; serve with meat. Makes 6 servings.

Note: You may stir a tablespoon of dry red wine into the gravy if you like.

TOUGH SEASON OF THE YEAR

Noted San Antonio Dentist Has Been Leader 40 Years

By RONNIE THOMPSON

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dr. James P. Hollers, one of 13 children born to a Methodist minister and his wife in Texas' "wild west," has never strayed away from public service.

A friend once described him as "a man who has been president of everything he has ever been associated with."

Now, he's at the top of his profession—president of the 100,000-member American Dental Association.

Whether it be socialized medicine, fluoridation or any of the controversial subjects facing the profession today, the grey-haired 65-year-old dentist is anxious to talk.

Of great importance to the American public, he said in a recent interview, is the need for flouridating public water supplies, a move opposed by many.

"It has been proved scientifically sound and is certainly a decay preventive. Some people say it is mass medication. It's not.

"We put chlorine in water to make it pure, don't we?"

On socialized medicine, he was quick to say:

"Sure, we in the profession are opposed to it. The patients are the ones that suffer from it because standards are eventually lowered.

"The U.S. is the only civilized country in the world that doesn't have some form of socialized medicine and it has the best medical care in the world."

Hollers, who practiced dentistry 40 years, says proposed legislation to provide medical care for the aged, of which President Johnson asked quick passage last week, would "be a wedge for socialized medicine."

"The entire public would be taxed by this bill. We already have a program through the Kerr - Mills Bill which provides aid for the needy over 65 and costs are shared by the state and the federal government.

"Let's give it a chance to be fully implemented and put to work. The Kerr-Mills Bill provides care for only the needy over 65 and needs are determined at a local level."

Public service is important to Hollers. He says he has always been one to practice what he preaches. For this service, the City of San Antonio and the Texas Dental Association are honoring him Monday with an appreciation banquet.

"We shouldn't be complacent and take what we have in this great country for granted. Even though all the strife and turmoil, we're so much better off than any of the others," he said.

Although great strides have been made in the treatment of teeth through research and education, Hollers will tell you what every other dentist would.

"Lack of proper care in the home is by far the big problem."

Born in Canadian, Tex., Hollers was the sixth of 13 children born to Rev. James Hollers and Mattie Hayes Hollers.

Hollers saw five major battles during 18 months overseas during World War I. He enlisted in the Army when he was 18 after finishing high school.

On his way back home, he decided on dentistry.

Like thousands of war-weary soldiers homeward bound after lonely months abroad, Pvt. Hollers thought seriously of his future.

"What are you going to do when you get back?" a friend aboard ship asked.

"Think I'll go into medicine," Hollers replied.

It happened that the friend was planning a dental future and began telling Hollers of the profession's merits.

Until then, the young Texan had not decided what field of medicine he would try.

"That spurred by interests," Hollers said. "After thinking about it, that's when I decided to do it . . . and I don't regret my decision."

He graduated from Tulane University in 1924 and went into practice, first in Louisiana and then in Texas.

He entered World War II as lieutenant colonel in the Army Dental Corps. After the war he stayed in the reserves and retired as a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve.

Married, Hollers has one son and two grandchildren.

Although much of his time is spent traveling as president of the American Dental Association—he estimated he will travel 150,000 miles by the time his year is up this fall—he maintains his general practice here.

He has held numerous organizational offices—national president of the Reserve Officers Association, and president of the Texas Dental Association, the American Academy of Periodontology, the San Antonio Board of Education, the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and the San Antonio Medical Foundation.

Hollers says he guesses he'll always be busy at something, and has never had a desire to retire. "I feel that's the worst thing that can happen to a man."

Tax Cut May Spur Texas Industry

AUSTIN (AP)— A federal tax cut, now pending before a conference committee, is likely to spur some industrial firms to build plants in Texas, a University of Texas business analyst says.

"Some companies known to be considering new plant locations in Texas may not come to a final decision until after action on the proposed tax cut has been taken by Congress; a cut in taxes will make more money available for capital expenditures — new plants and equipment," said Stanley Arbingast of the Bureau of Business Research.

Arbingast said a substantial number of new factories went up in the state last year and the Federal Reserve Bank reported that Texas industrial production rose six per cent.

"The outlook for continued expansion in 1964 is generally promising," he said.

Arbingast said Texas has a big stake in the tax cut bill, which both houses of Congress have passed in different forms, from the standpoint of industrial expansion.

His report showed an 15,100 increase in industrial employment between December 1962 and the end of 1963.

"The Texas Industrial Commission . . . has made gratifying progress in recent years," he said. "Although state support for the program is modest by any standard, the expenditure has been highly beneficial." The commission seeks new industry for Texas.

Arbingast cited mineral production, chemicals, fertilizers, food processing, wearing apparel, wood and wood products, metals, automobiles, aircraft, rocket fuels and electronics among the state's high production and expanding industries last year.

He cautioned that traditional bait for new plants — power, labor, market, and raw materials — are "relatively less important than they have been."

Junior Editors Quiz on OCEANS

QUESTION: Are there mountains under the sea?

ANSWER: It was thought at one time that the bottom of the ocean was more or less flat but during and after World War II, scientists began to probe and explore the depths of the sea, realizing that much important information could be obtained. Using echo devices and specially equipped ships, scientists began a systematic survey of the ocean bottom.

Probably the most remarkable discovery of the ocean probers is the one illustrated in our picture—the great mid-Atlantic Ridge, part of a submerged mountain chain which circles around the earth and is the longest range of mountains on our planet. As you see, it divides the North and South Atlantic in two, almost exactly in the center of the two groups of continents. On the other side of the world, it continues off the west coast of Africa into the Indian Ocean, then to the Arabian Sea and Gulf of Aden. From here, it branches toward Australia into the Pacific, then northward toward Easter Island and north along the South American coast. There is much volcanic activity in these mountains. Our artist has suggested how they might look with enough light to see them by.

FOR YOU TO DO: Have you a world map you don't mind drawing on in pencil? It would be most interesting to work out the whole course of this new mountain chain as we have described it. Many more facts about it will no doubt be discovered.

REMINISCENT of the redingote, and adaptable to many occasions is this dress with a costume look. Made of the new "naked wools" the fabric is very light weight with a very soft hand and excellent draping qualities. Pure white, the dress is slashed up the front to show a bright navy slip of the same wool. It may be worn as a sheath or with its navy belt tied in a bow as tightly or as loosely as the wearer prefers.

He Hunts A Wife

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Saleh D. Mohamed, 21, can't fine a wife. Imagine!

"It's because all American girls want to get married and work too. It's no good. I cannot understand this," says the Arabian boy who came here as an exchange student three years ago.

He attends Erasmus High School and next year will go to Columbia University.

Meanwhile Saleh lives in Brooklyn, and does his own cooking or eats out. Right now he has a new garden apartment that costs him $90 a month.

"A man without a woman is no good," Saleh explains. "The reason to get married is to have someone take care of things for you."

No Thanks, Dad

Saleh is industrious and saves money. He has made out well in the United States driving a taxi cab. His father keeps insisting on sending him money, even though Saleh writes that he doesn't need it, and sometimes returns it.

"I love the United States. It has been good to me. I would stay here forever, and want to, if I could just understand the women," he says.

He is an attractive young man with dark, curly hair, and he has caught on to thoroughfares and dodging crowds as he drives.

"I tell the ladies that I like the food here, so they would not have to cook Arabian style. But the girls don't seem to care," he says.

In Arabia, girls stay home "and the man works for her," Saleh explains. Sometimes in this country it is the other way around he has found.

"I ask the girls why it is that they would rather work out of the home eight hours a day than to work in the home for two hours a day and have the rest of the day to themselves, but they say they want the money."

Does She Gamble?

And why would a girl worry about money if she has all the food she wants to eat, and has clothes to wear, and a nice home and a husband?

"I think she must want her money for gambling," says Saleh. "If she has everything, she doesn't need money."

Sometimes Saleh gets so lonesome for a home life that he calls his family in Arabia just to have a chat.

"The last time I called, it cost $103 but it was wonderful to talk to everyone in the family", he says.

Saleh has entertained the idea of going back to Arabia. But as he points out, he likes it here, and chances are he will stay here, — if he can find a wife.

DANCING DAUGHTER . . . Rosalin Ricci, 18, shows her famous violinist father, Ruggiero Ricci (right) how toes are pointed in ballet.

Some Parents Learn

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Do we learn how to be parents by observing the mistakes of our parents?

Violinist Ruggiero Ricci, who plays to standing room only over the world, thinks we do. At least he did.

As a 10-year-old musical genius he was involved in a spectacular court case with his own parents who were thought to be exploiting him.

Now the parent of budding talent, the internationally famous artist who played in public at 3 years of age, believes children should not be pushed into music, and they should have the opportunity of accepting or rejecting a musical instrument.

"I was made to play the violin. My father forced his seven children to play instruments whether they wanted to or not. He bought the instruments — trumpet, piano, drums, cello, trombone, violin and he even attempted to teach us. He was right in my case and that of my brother, a cellist. But that was luck. I plan to let my children decide what they will do, and how long they will do it," he says.

Expert Judgment

Daughter Riana, 20 plays the violin and loves it. She studies at the Eastman School of Music. But daughter Rosalin, 18, lovely blue-eyed red-haired and lithe, is a ballet dancer.

"She had always wanted to dance, but I didn't have the vaguest idea what dance talent is, so I decided to take her to a teacher who could determine her talent from a professional standpoint. If it had been music, I would have done the same thing," says Ricci.

His own father, a mill worker, just made up his own mind who could do what. And he made them practice excessively.

Rosalin has had scholarships four years, and studied last summer with the American Ballet Theater. She was graudated from Professional Children's School in summer with a 95 average, winning the math award.

Touring Fun

Unlike her father who dislikes tours, Rosalin finds them tiring but fun.

"I'd like to be traveling alone, and daddy would like to travel on the bus as we do," explains Rosalin.

"I really get very lonely when I travel on tour," says Ricci, "but I've never known any other way of life. I've been doing this since I was 10 years old, should be used to it."

The family lives in Geneva, Switzerland, much of the year because Ricci tours the continent for 5 or 6 months each year.

Ruggiero has never seen Rosalin in a production because their paths haven't crossed, although he has seen her dance at school. Looking at her proudly, he says:

"I never would have guessed I'd have a dancer as a daughter."

Riots Over Hair Begin To Subside

By ALAN KENNEDY

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP) — Jittery Srinagar is recovering from the case of the prophet's hair and India is breathing easier for the moment.

It was a single hair—Moslems here believe it to be the Prophet Mohammed's — that vanished Dec. 26 and shook up this snowy state.

Riots broke out and blood was spilled on the Indian side of the cease-fire line in Kashmir, over which India and Pakistan have fought and argued since 1947.

Pakistan quickly accused India of mistreating its Moslem community. Moslems rioted against the Hindu minority in Indian West Bengal.

The whole thing embarrassed the Indian government because politicians it sponsored in Kashmir were shown to be widely hated.

By worsening India-Pakistan relations, these events worried the world.

All of this over a brown hair in a little glass tube, kept in a green bag in a silver casket.

Who stole it from its gilded vault in Hazratbal shrine?

Many Srinagar citizens suspect the state political machine itself, believing the regime wanted to provoke trouble that would justify repressing its opponents.

Police say that Pakistan was responsible and that the trouble was timed with Pakistan's U.N. Security Council charges against India on Kashmir.

There is no evidence available to support either claim.

The hair, which many Moslems believe has supernatural protective powers, mysteriously reappeared Jan. 4.

The case weakened the state government while boosting the standing of cautious opponents.

In summer over 100,000 tourists vacation on Kashmir lakes and buy Kashmir cashmere wool.

In winter, snow covers the 84x20-mile valley nestled among spurs of the Himalayas, 400 miles north of Delhi. No tourists come and poverty prevails.

Another factor is the wealth of Kashmir's recent rulers, Bakshi Ghulam Mohammed and his relatives. They started with nothing when propped into power by India and after 10 years of rule they own real estate, hotels, shops and movie houses. There is widespread suspicion this money came from Indian government development funds. Bakshi's regime ignores the suspicions.

One reason for mob fury was the repressive nature of the state government. Bakshi, then a state minister, began his rule by jailing the state prime minister, Sheik Mohammed Abdullah, an extremely popular figure known as the Lion of Kashmir.

Houston Woman Kills Husband, Self

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman shot her husband to death at pointblank range Friday night in a southeast Houston tavern then killed herself, police reported.

Dead were John Edward Green, 49, a truck driver, and Mrs. Vena Green, 52, his wife for less than a year.

Seven shots went off in such rapid order they sounded like firecrackers.

Green had four wounds in his head and face and Mrs. Green, three in her chest.

Witnesses said Green and another man entered the lounge and had just ordered a beer when Mrs. Green came in, demanded her husband come home with her, and then shot him and herself after a few brief words.

YOUNG SINATRA ARRIVES AT TRIAL—Frank Sinatra Jr., arrives at the Federal Building in Los Angeles where he testified at the trial of three men accused of kidnaping him. The 19-year-old singer interrupted a tour in Europe with the revamped Tommy Dorsey band to testify in the case. (AP Wirephoto)

Foes Of Oil Allowance Gain Pair

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The latest Senate skirmish over oil's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance ended with a net gain of two votes for those opposing the 38-year-old measure.

The 57-35 vote upholding the allowance is a bit deceiving when compared with the 50-23 vote cast during the Senate test in 1962.

Most gains made by both sides came from votes cast by holdover senators who were absent or did not vote in 1962 even though their positions on the matter were well known at the time.

Four senators switched positions last week without changing the overall Senate lineup in that two switched from each side.

The only significant change resulting from the new vote involved the 13 senators who were casting their first votes on the controversy.

The new senators were split, 7-6, in favor of retaining the full 27½ per cent allowance but the net result of the 13 votes was a two-vote gain for the opposition.

These same 13 seats had been split 9-4, two years ago when the overall Senate lineup was 66-34.

Four of the six new senators who supported the proposed graduated reduction for the allowance had replaced senators who voted for the full 27½ per cent in 1962. Only two of the seven voting for no change had replaced senators who had opposed full depletion.

These changes, plus the known sentiments of the eight senators who did not vote last week, reduced full depletion's overall edge to 64-36.

Even in defeat, however, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., saw his plan for a graduated reduction to 15 per cent poll a record 35 votes.

In previous sessions, the Douglas plan had polled 31 votes in 1958, 21 in 1959, 30 in 1960, and 23 in 1962.

Sinatra Is 'Held Over' In Court

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It's a holdover engagement for Frank Sinatra Jr., star witness at his own kidnaping trial.

A trio of defense attorneys took turns Friday with a rugged cross-examination of the 20-year-old singing son of a famed singing father.

Mrs. Gladys Towles Root, colorful lawyer noted for her flamboyant dress, said she will continue her cross - examination when court reconvenes Monday. And Morris Lavine, another defense attorney, said he will show cause Monday why the defense wants to keep Sinatra on hand as a witness in their case.

Most dramatic moment of the trial came during Mrs. Root's questioning. Other lawyers had made much of the fact that the young Sinatra did not cry out when a policeman stopped the alleged kidnap getaway car a half-hour after it left Lake Tahoe, Nev.

In opening statements, the defense charged Sinatra consented to the kidnaping as a publicity stunt to build himself up as an international star.

Referring to Sinatra's silence during the police incident, Mrs. Root asked:

"Is it not true, Mr. Sinatra, that you did not want to see anybody?"

"That is true," he answered. "I did not want to see anybody."

Mrs. Root: "Why?"

Sinatra: "Because, Mrs. Root, the number one man stated before we came to the roadblock that there was going to be some shooting. I did not want a sudden and idiotic move to cause this man who was stupid enough to kidnap me to voluntarily blow the brains out of this officer."

Mrs. Root asked: "Is it not true that the real reason you did not cry out was because you had conceived and staged this kidnap and did not want anyone to thwart it?"

Answered Sinatra: "No, Mrs. Root, that is not correct."

On trial are Barry Keenan, 23, Joseph Amsler, 23 and John Irwin, 42.

Demand For Water Soars In January

Record consumption in January put the Colorado River Municipal Water District off to a good start for 1964. The increase of 131,000,000 gallons for the month was 22.3 per cent over January a year ago.

Half of the increase, however, came from a new customer, Sun Oil Company, whose waterflood project in northern Coke County did not come on until last July.

Member cities showed 11.44 per cent increase in taking 447,163,000 gallons. Odessa was up 9.2 per cent with 226,450,000 gallons, Big Spring up 9.5 per cent with 175,214,000 gallons, and Snyder, now furnishing Rotan filtered water, was up 30.7 per cent in amounting to 45,499,000 gallons.

The oil companies using surplus water had 287,646,000 gallons metered to them, or 44.66 per cent above requirements of January, 1963. Of the 89,000,000-gallon increase, 71,733,000 gallons were taken by the Sun Oil unit.

Total water delivered for January was 734,809,000 gallons as compared with 601,174,616 a year ago.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Democrats will be shown in a true light when they attend their national nominating convention here in August.

Mayor Joseph Altman said Friday new mercury vapor lights to be installed in the ceiling of the main auditorium in Convention Hall will be color corrected so the delegates on the floor will have a natural color.

The Democratic convention committee had objected to original plans for installing the mercury vapor lamps. The committee contended the lamps would cast a green pall over the delegates, the booths and everything in the hall.

Judge To Decide On Hoffa Counts

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) A federal judge will decide over the weekend if James R. Hoffa must defend himself against three charges or four that he tried to fix the jury in his 1962 conspiracy trial.

After completing its case against the Teamsters Union president Friday, the government said rulings of the court had prevented testimony needed to prove one of the charges.

"I see no evidence in the record on that count," agreed U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Wilson.

"I think, then, the government would have to take a judgment of acquittal...," said Chief Prosecutor James F Neal of Washington.

Wilson took the request under advisement, along with defense motions that all the charges be dismissed for lack of evidence. He indicated he would rule on them Monday — clearing the way for the defense to open its case.

Hoffa and five others on trial with him since Jan. 20 are accused of seeking to tamper with the conspiracy trial jury at Nashville. That trial lasted nine weeks and ended with a hung jury.

The charge on which Neal conceded the evidence to be somewhat short involves an alleged $10,000 bribe offer to Juror James C. Tippens, a Nashville insuranceman.

The government charged the approach was made by Lawrence W. Medlin, a Nashville sandwich maker, with Hoffa's blessing.

Medlin was indicted with Hoffa last May, but will be tried separately. Because of this, Judge Wilson would not permit Tippens to testify about Medlin's alleged bribe offer.

Fertilizer Use Is Topic For Session

One of the recommendations of the Crops Committee of Scurry County for 1964 is the efficient use of fertilizer on both dryland and irrigated crops.

For the purpose of discussing the many aspects of fertilizer use and application, a meeting has been called for Monday night, in the conference room of the Snyder Savings and Loan Building. Bill Gunter, Area Agronomist with the Texas Extension Service in Lubbock, will discuss "Fertilizer Use on Dry and Irrigated Land." On this same program John Seibert, Area Farm Management Specialist with the Extension Service, will discuss "The Economics of Fertilizer Use."

Gunter and Seibert are both well qualified to discuss the topics and a very informative program can be expected.

Anyone interested in the use of fertilizer will benefit from attending this meeting. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and all who are interested are urged to attend.

Fall Doesn't Discourage Aerialist

By FRANK CREPEAU

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Mary Lou Lawrence fixed her eyes on the girl in the glittering custume riding the swinging circus trapeze high above the crowd.

The tiny, red-haired girl wished she were up there, too, as she watched the opening performance Friday of Madison's Shrine circus.

Just a year ago in Madison, Mary Lou was the show's star attraction when she lost her grip on a trapeze bar and fell 35 feet to the concrete floor.

"I'll never forget it," she said, "it was the opening performance here—on Feb. 15."

Friday she was a spectator instead of a star, and sat in the stands. But she plans to return soon to the trapeze act—and again she will work without a net.

"I see my doctor on Monday and maybe he will tell me I can go back to work," said the 27-year-old aerialist.

After the fall, Mary Lou spent three months in a Madison hospital recovering from a skull fracture and a broken collar bone and rib.

Then she returned to her Crown Point, Ind., home. Since November, she has been allowed to practice for her return to the circus. She has had several workouts on the high, swinging trapeze.

"It's impossible to keep her down," said her mother, Mrs. Louis Lawrence. "You just can't do it."

British Budget Sets New Record High

LONDON (AP) — British government spending will reach a record total of $22.4 billion in the 1964-65 fiscal year, Chancellor of the Exchequer Reginald Maudling told Parliament Friday.

Ordinary budget estimates are $18,337,200,000, a rise of 6.7 per cent over the current year. To this must be added $5.6 billion more for debt service and other government payments.

The increases include a record peacetime defense budget which jumps $448 million to $5,595.8 billion.

Dreams Come True In Bassridge

Bassridge Development Company is leading the way in making it easier than ever for Snyder families to own and move into their dream hojes.

Often families delay purchase or construction of that new home for years because they feel they are not yet financially able to make the move up to the home that they want.

But up in the Bassirdge area, families are finding that they don't need to wait. For a limited time, the development company there is making choice building sites available which may be purchased at low monthly payments, just like rent.

Then, when the family decides to build, construction can be started whether the lot is paid for or not. Or, if the purchaser decides to buy a home that is under construction on another lot, he can apply his lot payments to the purchase of that home.

As a matter of fact, almost any arrangement that the purchaser wishes to make can be made so that the purchaser will be happy with his new home in the Bassridge Addition.

Selling prices of the building sites in Bassridge are based on appraisals of the government and conventional appraisers. But what is more improtant to the purchaser is the fact that these appraisers have estimated that these values will remain at these levels or higher for the next 50 years.

For those who are planning a new home "in the future" Bassridge Development Co. offers an opportunity for that "future" to be nearer than they think. They will be glad to discuss any of the various plans available for making that dream home come true in the beautiful Bassridge or Bassridge West additions.

Snyder Drug Is Veteran Of Area

A seven year veteran of the Big Spring Shopping area is Snyder Drugs, owned and operated by R. E. Patterson.

The refrigerated air conditioned store offers many conveniences to its customers. The modern building has a drive-in window for picking up prescriptions or for buying all types of goods.

Other conveniences offered the customer are a spacious parking area and a post office sub-station with a complete mailing service.

However, according to Patterson, the most important service offered at Snyder Drugs is the filling of prescriptions. The store maintains a large stock of the finest ingredients for accurately compounding every prescription to the exact specifications as ordered by the doctor.

Patterson, a West Texas native, has been operating a drug store in Snyder since November 1945. The original Snyder Drugs was located on the West side of the square and remained in operation for about four years after the new store was opened.

Snyder Drugs is well known for the quality lines of merchandise that it features. Well known brands include Sheaffer pens, Russel Stover and King's Candies and a full line of greeting cards.

The store has a complete gift department with standard brand small electric appliances and a complete baby supply department. Costume jewelry by Coro and Hertzbert is also available.

Texas Is Top-Ranked Livestock State

WASHINGTON (AP)— Texas is the nation's top-ranking livestock state.

An Agriculture Department inventory of livestock and poultry on farms showed that the Lone Star State was first in all cattle and calves and stock sheep and lambs.

Wisconsin was first in milk while Iowa was on top in hogs. The No. 1 state in chickens and turkeys was California.

Unscrupulous trappers conduct a black market in orangutans, selling the rare primates to American and European zoos for as much as $3,000 each.

Cold Front Brings Snow

By The Associated Press

Another blizzard brushed the north edge of the Texas Panhandle and a chill drizzle rode the latest cold front eastward across the state today.

Flurries of snow fell around Dalhart and Amarillo during the night but the storm centered its fury on northeastern New Mexico, the Oklahoma Panhandle and parts of Kansas and Nebraska.

At Boise City, 40 miles north of Dalhart in Oklahoma, 5 to 6 inches of snow accumulated. Blowing snow forced the closing of U.S. 87 at Raton and Clayton, N.M.

Before daylight the forward edge of a cold air mass sweeping rapidly toward the Texas-Louisiana line lay along a line from east of Dallas to Tyler and Beaumont.

There was occasional light rain or drizzle along and south of the front while skies were clearing in its wake. Fog cloaked sections of the middle and upper Texas coast in early morning.

Temperatures before dawn ranged down to 23 degrees at Dalhart. It was about 40 degrees warmer in the extreme south.

Forecasts called for mostly clear skies and colder weather over the state tonight. It is expected to warm in northern areas of the state by Sunday, and Weather Bureau observers said thickening clouds will carry a promise of occasional light rain or snow by late Sunday in the northwest corner of the state.

Record Set For Tourists In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Tourists poured into Texas in record numbers last year and spent $632.2 million, also a record, the state Highway Department asserted Saturday.

The department's annual tourist industry survey said there were 11.7 million visitors, 2.1 million more than in 1962 when tourists spent an estimated $471 million.

"The healthy jump in tourist travel was the second in as many years, after a four-year decline," the report said.

"Not since 1957 has the golden flow of tourist dollars crested above the one-half billion mark."

Other claims in the survey:

—Each tourist party in Texas consisted of an average of three persons. Each group spent $23.55 per day, and spent an average of 5.8 days in Texas.

—An estimated 38 per cent were visiting Texas for the first time. And 53 per cent were vacationing, while 29 per cent planned to visit their families or friends. Only 18 per cent were visiting the state for business reasons.

—Every one of the other 49 states had visitors in Texas. The average distance traveled per party was 991 miles.

Two of the most distant states from Texas, both primary tourist areas, were among the states sending the most visitors to Texas. Of those visiting Texas from other states, 13.2 per cent were from California and 5.8 per cent were from Florida. These two states were topped only by Louisiana which was represented by 13.4 per cent of the total visitors.

Other leading states, in percentages, were Oklahoma 4.6, Illinois 4.5, New Mexico 3.9, New York 3.3, Ohio and Missouri 3.1, Alabama, Arizona and Arkansas 2.9, Michigan 2.7 and Georgia 2.2.

It is possible to drive from Hamburg, the great northern port in West Germany, 500 miles south to Basel, Switzerland, without having to halt for a traffic light, intersection or railroad crossing.

Snyder area residents are always welcome to stop by Holt Music Co. and browse around. Chances are you will find something you need and like. Holt's has long carried the title of Hi-Fi Headquarters in the Snyder area.

Oilmen Hail Test On Tax Allowance

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil spokesmen are hailing the latest Senate tests on the industry's tax depletion allowance, although actually the opposition to the 27½ per cent rate picked up slight additional strength.

"Certainly encouraging," one of them said of the two Senate votes rejecting proposals to reduce the allowance. The proposals were offered as amendments to the tax-cutting bill.

"The results of this latest congressional review of depletion percentage and related tax provisions are certainly encouraging," said Minor Jameson Jr., executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

"At the same time there was no lessening in the strong and often bitter opposition to these tax policies.

"Obviously, there continues to be widespread misunderstanding as to the effect of these provisions.

"There is reason for encouragement but not complacency."

In the Senate showdown, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., emerged as a possible successor to the late Sen. Robert Kerr, D-Okla., as marshal of Senate forces defending the depletion allowance.

Jameson praised Long, who was floor manager for the tax bill, for "unusual ability" in opposing "adverse changes" in the bill.

One of these proposed changes was an amendment by Sen. John Williams, R-Del., to reduce the tax allowance to 20 per cent over a 3-year period. It was defeated 61-33. An amendment by Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., calling for a graduated rate, lost 57-35.

A similar Douglas amendment in 1962 was rejected 50-23. In 1960 a somewhat similar Douglas proposal was turned down 56-30. A similar vote in 1959 was 54-21 and one in 1958 was 58-31.

Williams amendment in 1962 was defeated 57-30.

Two Close Calls In One Accident

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—"It was enough to turn a man's hair gray," said Kustae Malkamaki 58, after two close scrapes with death.

Malkamaki's car skidded into the path of a fast-moving freight train when he tried to stop for the red blinker lights at a railroad crossing Thursday. The impact flipped the auto onto an adjacent track.

Shaken but unhurt, the motorist looked up to see a passenger train bearing down on him. He jumped clear as the train hit, scattering the wreckage a mile down the New York Central's railroad tracks.

Canine Is Left To Die

By WIL 'M MORAN

BARRE, Vt. (AP) — Police are seeking whoever bound and gagged a pet collie dog and left it to die in a hole. The dog's misery lasted six days.

"It makes you s just to think of it," said Mrs. John P. Tomasi, whose daughter, Connie, 21, owned the dog.

Pacer was the dog's nam . It vanished last Thursday. The family worried because it never did that befo

But Pacer wasn't very far away.

Four neighborhood youngsters found the dog Wednesday in a wooded lot within 300 feet of the To si house.

The 2-year-old dog was in a three-foot It. legs were tightly bound with twine.

A string also was tied tightly around its snout, making it impossible to bark.

Brusk was thrown over the hole to prevent anyone from finding the dog.

Police helped the youngsters carry the dog home.

Tom Tomasi, 14, bathed the dog's wounds as Connie and Mrs. Tomasi tried to comfort Pacer. But Pacer was dying.

A veterinarian convinced the family Pacer should be put to sleep.

Pacer held on to life only long enough to say "goodby" to the Tomasi family.

Berle Unawed By World Leaders

New Forms To Aid Taxpayers

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service is mapping a campaign to help the puzzled taxpayers who are required to pay part or all of their taxes on a quarterly basis, an agency official said today.

The agency plans to rush 12 to 15 million new forms and instruction sheets to post offices and banks within a week after final congressional action is taken on the income-tax-reduction bill.

About 10 per cent of the taxpayers — 6 million — are required to fill out estimated income tax returns because part or all of their income is not covered by the withholding tax on wages and salaries.

New withholding rates have been announced, a drop to 14 per cent from 18 per cent, even though Congress has not taken final action on the . x cut bill. New tables for employers we e mailed out this week.

But this combination form and instruction sheet will not be mailed directly to taxpayers because some of them might confuse it with the regular packa of income tax forms they received last month.

Those who file estimated tax returns — usually taxpayers with $10,000 or more income — could get an immediate benefit from the tax bill by figuring their estimated income tax under the new, lower rates. However, they have received no official notification of the new rates.

They will be able to get the new instructions at a post office or bank a week after the bill becomes law. The bill, now in a Senate-House committee to reconcile differences between two versions, is expected to be enacted by the end of the month.

Fire Edict Burns Dancer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Firah Venice is upset because a fire chief wants to douse the flaming wands she uses in her belly dance at the Charlite Celebrity House in suburban Euclid.

"As far as I'm concerned she can do whatever she wants as long as she keeps the fire out of it," Chief George R. Langa said Thursday. "I'm not objecting to her dancing."

Without the fire, Miss Venice said, her routine would be like any other belly dancer's.

"He's taking my bread and butter away," she lamented.

"I'm not taking anybody's bread and butter away," the chief replied. "If she knows one dance, she must know six others."

Theft Is No Help To School Grades

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Police say two 13-year-old boys stole an oil painting of Abraham Lincoln and took it to school Wednesday — Lincoln's Birthday — in hope of getting good grades.

Suspicious teachers questioned the boys and learned the source of the 8x5 foot painting, valued at $30,000. Owner Sam Rudnick said it was brought West in covered wagon days.

The boys had carried it 12 blocks to school, right past the police station.

One boy was taken to Juvenile Home; the other released to his parents.

Kathy Crosby Is After Acting Job

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Kathryn Grant Crosby, Bing's pretty young wife, wants an acting job now — 3,000 miles from home and husband—she is threatening drastic action if she doesn't get it.

"I'd love to do a 'Breaking Point' episode," she said, "and if they don't get me a part in 'Breaking Point' I'm going to get on 'Dr. Kildare.'"

This is pretty drastic talk. Bing's company owns and produces "Breaking Point," ABC's psychiatric series, while "Dr. Kildare" is a rival doctor series on another network. Maybe there's a company rule about nepotism.

Kathy Crosby was in New York for three days this week, but so busy talking up her husband's CBS musical special on Saturday night and hunting antique French chairs that she didn't even have time to go to a play.

A hectic schedule is routine for the Texas-born brunette after five years of marriage to Der Bingle. In that time she has borne three children, completed a full nurse's training course at Queen of Angels Hospital, Los Angeles, learned to play golf, run four homes—and even has found time for an occasional television appearance.

Saturday night, as one of Bing's guests, she made her public singing-dancing debut in a show taped over three months ago.

Kathy says that she "always wanted to be a nurse," but had detoured to a promising film career when she married Bing. She expects to take her state board examinations to become a registered nurse next month, but isn't quite certain how she will be able to use her medical skills.

The summer and winter fashion collections of the top Paris dressmakers are created amid security precautions that would impress our Secret Service and in an atmosphere of hysteria that makes the Beatlemaniacs look like Golden Age picknickers.

George Vicas, NBC's producer of special news programs in Europe, managed to overcome almost insurmountable objections and was allowed to film the entire process in the sewing rooms and salons of couturier Pierre Cardin.

Everyone connected with the NBC project, including technicians who would develop the film, had to sign a pledge of absolute secrecy. Film was labeled falsely and guarded like Fort Knox. When complete, the show was kept in a locked vault.

The whole hysterical business which affects feminine waistlines and hem lengths the civilized world over, will be seen Sunday night.

Deputy Set For Run On Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Deputy," a play that has incited cheers, catcalls and commotion all over Europe, is being readied for Broadway, and producer-director Herman Shumlin is ready for almost anything.

"I know there will be great antagonism," he says, "but I know we are doing something important, valid and exciting for the theater."

Starring Emlyn Williams and Jeremy Brett, the exhibit is scheduled to premier at the Atkinson on Feb. 26.

Already some Jewish and Catholic groups have protested presentation of the drama that criticizes Pope Pius XII, alleging he did not speak out against Hitler's annihilation of millions of Jews during World War II.

"Only those who haven't seen it or read it are against it," Shumlin asserts. "This is a play about silence — the silence of all of us. And I mean me."

Turbulance has marked the play's course since it opened in Berlin a year ago. An uproar of protest ensued. Spectators hurled rotten eggs at the cast when it was done in Basel. Pickets paraded at its London debut.

The fiercest reaction developed in Paris, where intransigent members of audiences broke up several performances by shouting insults, blowing whistles and jumping on the stage to wrestle with the actors. A dozen other cities get productions in 1964.

Pope Paul VI has criticized it; Albert Schweitzer and Pastor Martin Niemoller are among it's supporters.

"You can measure the importance of a play by the amount of controversy it creates," declares Shumlin, a chunkily-built, bald veteran of many Broadway campaigns.

"I am a man who takes the world seriously and I take the theater seriously. I believe with Shaw that the theater is the foremost pulpit in the world from which to speak.

"The place where too many Catholics are offended is in the actual presentation of Pius XII on stage. They wouldn't mind if this Pope had died 200 years ago. No one objects to references to a Pope in 'Luther' or in 'A Man For All Seasons.'"

The pontiff appears in only one scene of the original, but a reading of the full-length work — to be published here by Grove Press — discloses continuous emphasis on the Holy See policy in 1942.

"Why is there not a single word heard from the only man in Europe still free today from any taint of propaganda: The Pope," one character asks early in the action.

The indictment intensifies when the drama's central figure, a young priest based upon two German clerics of World War II, declares:

"A deputy of Christ who sees these things and nonetheless permits reasons of state to seal his lips — who wastes even one day in thought, he hesitates even for an hour to lift his anguished voice in one anathema to chill the blood of every last man on earth — that Pope is . . . a criminal."

At the drama's end the priest accompanies a group of Jews to the furnaces of Auschwitz.

Says Shumlin: "The Pope is only a symbol — he is representative of the silence of everyone in those days.

"If the play only reminded us that we failed as human beings then, I don't think I'd do it.

"But I hope this play will make people say — such silence is true even today. We've all taken the easy way in the problems that face our world — and we need to be awakened to our responsibility."

Portraying the young priest is Brett, a Londoner in his first major Broadway appearance. Pius XII is enacted by Williams —who appeared here last season as Sir Thomas More in "A Man For All Seasons."

"I'm not Jewish, I'm not Catholic," says Williams. "I'm just an actor who knows a good role."

Chevalier, Tower Mark Anniversary

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maurice Chevalier is going to get married again in May—to the Eiffel Tower.

"The Eiffel Tower and I both came to Paris the same year," he says." "Someone in the City of Paris thinks that we both represent the city to the world —so they are going to marry us to celebrate the tower's 75th anniversary—also mine."

He was asked if President Charles de Gaulle would perform the ceremony.

"Mais non," answered Maurice. "He's taller than both of us."

Maurice recently completed a role in "I'd Rather be Rich" with Sandra Dee, Robert Goulet and Andy Williams.

"When I first started the picture I asked producer Ross Hunter if Sandra Dee was Frances Dee's daughter," he said. "I discovered Frances for the movies. We needed a girl who looked French. Ernst Lubitsch asked me to make the choice from a group of extras. I picked Frances.

"Later she became a star and Mrs. Joel McCrea."

Sandra and Frances are unrelated.

Maurice, after the May wedding ceremony, will break in a new one-man concert tour in Sweden and then play the United States.

"I always break in my American shows in Sweden," he explains. "Everyone there understands English."

BETTE DAVIS plays a dual role in "Dead Ringer," which is coming to the Canyon Drive In Theater here Sunday, Feb. 23. Also starring in the show are Karl Malden and Peter Lawford.

Kirby Is Always Able To Get Job

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sing no sad songs for Durward Kirby, even if — as appears likely — "The Garry Moore Show" is now in its sixth and final season.

The tall—6 feet 4—blond Kentuckian who has backstopped Moore in the CBS variety show has shown a remarkable ability to remain profitably and happily employed since, as a Purdue undergraduate, he got a job as announcer on the college radio station.

Kirby's most remarkable demonstration of this ability was the premiere of his first New York radio program: 9 a.m. Jan. 1, 1946.

Somehow, both Kirby and his show survived, and by 1948 he had moved on to a television program of his own. His relationship with Moore, however, goes back 23 years when both were bright young funny men on Ransom Sherman's popular "Club Matinee" radio program out Chicago.

At the moment, Kirby's enormous versatility has rewarded him with two jobs. On the Moore show, he is the permanent second banana, occasional straight man, sketch actor, singer, dancer — simple steps — and somehow can switch instantly from slapstick to dignified salesman of the sponsor's product.

He also serves as host and occasional participant in the filmed hijinks on Allen Funt's "Candid Camera."

Kirby keeps a busy schedule. From Monday morning through Friday, his hours are pretty well devoted to rehearsing the weekly Garry Moore program, involving as often as not, extra time spent learning dance steps and song lyrics.

On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, he and Moore go to CBS Radio studios where they tape, at a rate of four at a clip, their daily 10-minute radio show. "All we do is sit around and talk — and be provocative," he says.

On alternate Wednesdays he spends the afternoon and evening taping two "Candid Camera" programs, which involves looking over the filmed segments in advance and planning the introductions to each.

Kirby, a native of Covington, Ky., originally wanted to be an aeronautical engineer, but his college radio job changed all that.

Kirby, his wife and their two sons lived in the suburbs until recently when they moved into Manhattan. Kirby enjoys tinkering with automobiles and power tools. His schedule now, is so heavy that his idea of a wonderful holiday is 24 hours when he doesn't have to be some place at a set hour.

"I'm a very lucky fellow," he said gratefully. "So many people have so many headaches. I'm delighted to be doing just exactly what I'm doing."

Murphy Adds To His Versatility

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Right this way, senator."

George Murphy beamed and followed the Brown Derby headwaiter toward a booth. The Irishman stopped to table-hop along the way, and pal told him, "George, you may win the Republican primary."

"And the general election, too," Murphy replied firmly.

He arrived at the booth after a circuitous route and talked of the new career he has approached with the same cheerful confidence he brought to his first career as hoofer and actor.

Now it's George Murphy, corporation executive, World's Fair showman and candidate for United States Senate. With only financier Leland Kaiser in the Republican race as yet and the Democrats in a state of confusion, over the health of Sen. Clair Engle, Murphy's candidacy is being taken seriously by party pros.

What brought about his change from an acting career?

"I wasn't working," he said. "It seems that political activity doesn't hurt a liberal who is an actor, but it can hurt a conservative.

"I decided to see if I could earn a living from what I had been doing for nothing."

His activities had been stage-managing the Republican National Conventions, helping the Eisenhower campaigns and doing public relations chores for the film industry. The latter earned him an Academy Award.

After he left MGM, Murphy got a phone call from Desi Arnaz. "I just bought a movie studio," said the Cuban. "Come over and help me run it."

Murphy went with Desilu in a public relations and production capacity, then left to become a vice president, with the new Technicolor management. His duties include public and government relations. He reckons his salary at a fifth of what he made as a film star, but the challenge and the opportunity are rewarding, he said.

He also formed George Murphy & Associates and scouted possibilities of a pleasure park in Phoenix. This was shelved for another enterprise: the Hollywood exhibit at the New York World's Fair.

"This has been a tremendous amount of work, but I think it's going to be worth it," said Murphy. "We have had the cooperation of most of the big studios in supplying sets for the exhibit. We pay for hauling them to New York, and the studios get a world of publicity."

The studios cooperated; not so the state of California. "The administration kept us waiting nine months before deciding not to go in on the exhibit," said Murphy, adding another reason for his displeasure with the Democrats.

Rain Starts Big Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How do big movies come about?

Two years ago, director Anthony Mann was walking down Piccadilly Circus. It was raining in London at the time and he couldn't get a cab. A display in Hatchard's bookstore, one of the world's oldest, stopped him.

The window was filled with the new Oxford condensed version of Gibbons "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

The new version had 1,500 pages. The original came in 20 volumes—and few, if any producers, had ever read it.

Mann, who had just finished making "El Cid" for Samuel Bronston in Spain, bought a copy. After he read it he hopped a plane for Madrid and sold Bronston on the idea.

The $16-million production of "Fall of the Roman Empire" was recently completed, with Mann as director and Bronston as producer.

And that's how epics are made.

Beverly Hills Is In Midst Of Celebration

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Beverly Hills, home of the stars, is in the midst of a 50th anniversary celebration.

The town has more movie stars per square inch than an Oscar show.

Jerry Lewis, who now lives in Bel-Air, said he found Beverly Hills too exclusive for him.

"Who wants to live in a town where the fire department has an unlisted phone number?" he noted.

Dies On Expressway

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Jannie Elizabeth West, 36, was killed Friday by an automobile as she crossed a Dallas expressway. Witnesses said the mother of six was running across the thoroughfare to get aid for her stalled automobile.

Body Is Identified

HOUSTON (AP) — Fingerprints identified Saturday the body of a man found floating in Green's Bayou as that of Sammy Smith, 34, Houston carpenter. There were no marks of violence.

Labor Unions Seek New Members

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO, faced with alarming membership losses in its industrial unions, is embarked on a major effort to gather up the unorganized 14 million white collar workers.

It's potentially a fertile field—made up of teachers, government employes, clerks and office workers of all kinds—and is larger than the AFL-CIO's entire membership of some 13.5 million.

But the big union has run into resistance and one major reason is "snob appeal," according to an article in the Labor Department's monthly Labor Review, and an AFL-CIO spokesman agrees.

"Snob appeal is definitely one reason," the union spokesman said, "but it's fading as fast as the boss puts machines into the office and the white collar worker becomes just another machine operator."

The Labor Review article, by Albert A. Blum, lays the blame at labor's own door for its past failure to organize the man who goes to work in white collar and tie.

"First, unions did very little. Second what they did was wrong. Third they did it too late," says Blum, assistant to the director of Michigan State University's school of labor and industrial relations.

He cited examples of union organizing literature that told white collar clerks that they weren't earning as much as janitors.

Such appeals backfired, said Blum, because of snob appeal.

Seeks Court Order

FORT WORTH (AP)—Former state Sen. Doyle Willis is seeking a court order to void his removal as a city councilman because he is running for the Senate again.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

IXTAPAN, Mexico — A gentleman from Kansas City writes asking about climate, altitude and related subjects. He wants to spend the winter in Mexico where it is not too high, nor too close to any oceans nor hot and cold weather. Apparently all he wants is a perfect spot with perfect weather.

Well, some like strawberry and some like chocolate. I packed up and moved over here because Ixtapan struck me about right. No smoke, smog, traffic lights and I cannot dispute the Chamber of Commerce claim to their average 70 degree F. weather. And this fellow says maybe he and his wife will retire in Mexico if they can find the right place so he no doubt will be interested to know they are building a U.S. type retirement colony here where you can wander through the cobblestone streets of the village, play golf, lie in the hammock or get radioactive in the hot mineral springs. My suggestion is to take a look first and don't try to make up your mind before you see a place.

PLANNING TRIP TO COZUMEL AFTER FIRST OF YEAR AND WOULD LIKE TO KNOW IF THERE ARE FACILITIES FOR FILLING AQUALUNG TANKS THERE?

Yes, indeed. In fact, you don't even have to lug your own gear along. They have equipment for rent and compressors to gas up your tank as often as you want. And some of the clearest water for diving you ever saw.

• • •

UNDERSTAND US CITIZENS WILL BE PERMITTED TO ENTER MEXICO WITHOUT TOURIST CARDS AFTER JANUARY 1. IS THIS TRUE?

Not quite. The Mexican government announced it will issue tourist cards FREE, good for one month, to U.S. citizens. The regular six month card will still cost $3 U.S. or $5 for a multiple-entry card with which you can go in and out of the country for six months. If you merely visit a border city, you need no card nor permit.

• • •

WILL DRIVE TO LAREDO AND LEAVE MY CAR. WHAT IS BEST WAY FOR THERE TO MEXICO CITY?

You can catch a cab across the creek to Nuevo Laredo. The Mexican Aviation Company (CMA) has flights leaving at 11:30 a.m. and arriving in Mexico City at 2:30 p.m. Price one way is about $28 U.S. The furline train Aztec Eagle leaves Nuevo Laredo at 6:15 p.m. daily and rolls into the big city next morning at more or less 10:10. First class fare one way is a little over $8 U.S. plus pullman fee. The Eagle has top accomodations with diners and lounge cars.

WOULD IT BE SAFE FOR TWO MEN IN EARLY TWENTIES TO RIDE BICYCLES TO MEXICO?

Get on your bikes and start peddling if you are gluttons for punishment. Ambitious gentlemen have been doing this for the past twenty years or more and everyone has reached Mexico City safely. Unless he chickened out on the first mountain (I would) and turned back. You'll wind up riding a bicycle higher than you've flown in a lot of planes.

DRIVING DISTANCE FROM MEXICO CITY TO MERIDA AND ROAD CONDITIONS?

It's a little over 800 miles via Veracruz and Coatzacoalcas. Buses, trucks and cars go through every day but you'll have to sweat out delays at a couple of ferries. There is one highway and it reportedly is in good shape, although not a speedway in places.

Mexico Bullfighter Rated Over Spain's

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — Judges rated Luis Procuna, considered Mexico's top bullfighter, over the Spaniard billed as the world's best after their performance here Friday.

Procuna was awarded four ears, a tail and a hoof for his fight. El Cordobes, his Spanish rival, received four ears for two fights.

Tamaulipas state Gov. Praxexis Balboa was among fans in the crowd.

Walls in South Africa's deepest gold mines are so hot that a half million dollar air-conditioning plant is required to keep miners from roasting.
