Third Time's The Charm For Cheryl In Pageant

Pert Cheryl Poteet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Poteet, was crowned "Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation" at Saturday's beauty pageant in Dimmitt.

Cheryl won the coveted title on her third attempt as a contestant in the pageant. The Texas Tech coed said of her victory, "I was so very happy, but I also learned something --it never pays to give up on anything."

"I nearly didn't enter this year," she said, "but now the scholarship and the trophy are so wonderful."

By winning the contest, the Olton girl won a $500 college scholarship and an engraved trophy.

Cheryl was named in the top ten contestants the first time she entered the pageant --in 1962. Last year she was second runner up.

Following the pageant she said that persons always learn from the competition and that it is good never to give up. The Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation title is not the first for the 1963 Miss Olton. She has also placed as second runner-up in the Miss Lubbock contest and was named in the top ten in the recent Maid of Cotton contest.

The new Miss Grain Sorghum will make several official appearances during the year, but her title duties will not interfere with her school schedule.

And she will be seen in yet another beauty competition before the end of the year. Cheryl is a contestant in the "Wheatheart of the Nation" contest coming up in Perryton on Aug. 22.

Rusty Sherman Is ORC Club Titlist

Olton Recreation Center's Club Tournament turned out to be a field day for younger golfers.

Rusty Sherman downed Bobby Copeland 2 and 1 for the Championship Flight championship. Roger Thompson was winner of the consolation match.

In First Flight competition, George Jones downed Joe Turner 3 and 2 for the flight championship. H. B. Carson won his consolation match over Ray Copeland.

Wayne Hair downed George Richards for the Second Flight lead, and Basil Sherman won the consolation play.

Lec Carson defeated Eldon Franks to take first place in the Third Flight competition, and Spec Aikman downed Owen Jones in consolation competition.

Flight champions were awarded $20 in merchandise, with $12 in merchandise going to their final competitor and $8 going to the winner of the consolation match in each flight.

The club tournament was closed last week with the club barbecue, sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association.

ORC golf pro Fred Pendergrass barely had breathing room before preparations were underway for an invitational tournament starting today and lasting three more days.

A one-day Pro-Am Tournament kicks off invitational activity today.

Pendergrass has said that he expects about 120 area amateurs to compete in the three-day invitational.

The tax is now being included in ORC dues, and members will be notified of the amount of and billed for the back taxes.

Cotton, Grain Crop Prospects Excellent

Although plagued by one of the driest summers in years, Lamb County agriculture is moving at a fast clip.

The county feed grain crop of more than 205,000 acres is going into its last month of growth with good prospects for an income of more than $12-million for county farmers.

And the 1964 county cotton crop should be the third largest on the South Plains--behind only Lubbock and Hale counties--according to the annual August forecast of the Lubbock Cotton Exchange.

Even though much dry-land acreage is being seriously hurt by the continued lack of strong moisture, reports indicate that income from all sources of the feed grain acreage should about match last year's figure, but the actual crop will be smaller.

The 1964 price outlook is as good as in 1963, and an enlarged program for diverted acres will boost total payments for the crops.

Estimates are that more than $1.5 million will be paid to producers in the feed grain program--for diverted acres and bonuses on production for participating in the program--reports L. D. Aten, county ASC manager.

The area cotton crop estimate is 175,000 bales--3,000 bales more than last year.

The 175,000 bale estimate hinges basically on irrigated cotton acres. Last year was a bumper year for dry-land cotton farmers, but only a fair year for irrigating farmers. This year's cotton crop on dry-land acreage is the poorest in several years--and not being improved any by the continued drought.

With irrigation being the saving factor, the cotton outlook

6-YEAR-OLD HURT AT POOL

Alanna Spain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Spain, was injured recently at the ORC pool when she slipped and hit her head on the concrete around the pool.

Mrs. Spain, when asked, said that Alanna was "doing fine." The stitches are out now, and the only harm from the accident seems to be a cut head.

Alanna, who will be six years old this fall, was apparently climbing out of the pool, when she slipped on the wet concrete and hit her head.

2 Teachers Hired, 3 Are Still Needed

Olton school trustees Tuesday night approved a $600,832 budget for 1964-65, employed two new teachers and awarded contracts on milk, gasoline and custodial supplies.

They also reviewed their current building program, on which work got under way this week.

The expansion program may cause some slight confusion as school opens, but school officials hope most remodeling work will be completed by that time.

New teachers employed are Mrs. Robin Taylor, now of Plainview for homemaking, and Mrs. Fred Christie Young of Halfway, for first grade.

Resignation of Miss Peggy Swailze, music teacher at Bohner, was accepted.

The school still has three vacancies in the white schools and three at Bohner. Still needed for the white schools are a high school science teacher, first grade and second grade teachers.

Low bidder to supply milk for Olton schools in 1964-65 was the Borden Co. with a bid of 4.69 cents per half-pint of milk. The bid was only slightly under that of Sealtest, which bid 4.74 cents.

The contract for gasoline supplies was returned to Olton Butane Co., who had it this year. Olton Butane and Texaco were the only bidders and both were at 19.25 cents per gallon.

The $600,832 budget approved by the board is some $7,000 in excess of this year's expected expenditures.

The increase is in three sections, $15,000 more for teacher's salaries, $17,000 more for debt service and $10,000 more for contracted plant

90-Foot Right-Of-Way Acceptable On Highway

Olton's city council is still at it. Tentative plans for the proposed widening of Highway 70 through Olton were changed again at a Friday morning meeting of the council.

The proposed routing approved 3 weeks ago was set for 100 feet of right of way. Mayor Bill Thomas said that Ray Bradley, senior resident engineer at Littlefield, had told him that a widened highway 68 feet from back of curbing to back of curbing and set on a 90-ft right of way would be acceptable to the state.

The city council met Friday for plans to be presented to the state in time for the next legislature to appropriate funds for the new highway.

If all plans were now completed, it would be some two years before the project could be undertaken, according to the mayor.

In Friday's action, the council decided to get in touch with Bill McMorris, city engineer, and have him revise plans to fit the 90-ft right of way.

If these plans continue to meet with council approval, they will be submitted to the resident engineer in Littlefield for his approval. If Bradley gives his approval, the city council will try to obtain the necessary right of way from affected property owners. Once the right of way easements have been granted, the plans will be presented to the state.

The state must appropriate the funds for the actual widening construction, and will then start to work--some two years from the time the plans are accepted by the state and the money is appropriated.

Perhaps the much- and long-discussed widening project will get off the drawing board yet this year.

The council's Friday plans are still very tentative, and may be changed and re-changed yet before being presented to the resident engineer, but at least change brings the actual work a step or two closer to reality.

The currently-proposed plans call for right of way to

Council Approves Two Ordinances

By MIKE READ

Meeting in regular session Tuesday, Olton's city council unanimously approved two new ordinances for the town.

The first ordinance passed was a building code and fire zone ordinance. Basically the building code adopted is the national building code with amendments defining and outlining primary and secondary fire zones in the town.

The second ordinance was bounced and battered by the time it was finally voted on, but it passed with no dissension in the discussion.

The ordinance was passed after receipt of a petition from trustees of the school to "vacate, abandon and close" running through the school property--streets that are not presently in existence.

The petition presented to the council was not notarized although it was properly signed otherwise.

After the petition had been returned to the school board for further action--notarization and returned--notarized--the council acted to close to any future possibility the street paths running through school property.

Streets closed to development are Avenue H between Seventh and Ninth, Avenue I between Seventh and Ninth and Eighth Street between Avenues G and J.

Olton schools were the big item of discussion during the two-hour meeting. The decision to close the streets took but a few moments. But discussion of the schools' water bill consumed a great deal more time, though no action was taken.

The general consensus among the council seemed to be that

Rail Mishap Hurts Four

A railroad crossing accident, the second in a week in the Hart area, sent four railroad workers to Plainview for hospital treatment Wednesday afternoon.

The four were part of a bridge construction gang for the railroad, and they had been working east of Hart.

The crew, which numbers six men, was returning to Hart about 4:35 p.m. when the motor car on which they were riding struck a pickup crossing the tracks.

The motor car went off the tracks at the point of impact and threw the riders off, injuring four Children men--Virgil Mabry, Harry Gouldie, The pickup belonging to Knox, Galley and Meador, Lubbock, contractors--was being driven by Jim Stevenson of Lubbock.

Stevenson, who had been working on the new Hart High School building, said he did not see the motor car until the instant the two vehicles collided.

Nix said that Gouldie appeared to have broken his arm in several places, and that the other three men appeared to be less seriously injured.

Week's Rain Tops 1 Inch

July was hot and dry in the Olton area, and for a while it looked like August was going to be that way, too.

But over an inch of rain in Olton, and similar amounts around the town, have helped break the 1964 drought to a certain extent. Unfortunately not to a great enough or fast enough extent.

Night-time thundershowers dumped .69 inches of rain on the town late Friday and early Saturday. The rain was joined by a drop in the hot, dry temperature which had been baking the Olton area.

The rains, however, didn't dent the need for constant irrigation for long. By Monday the area was baking again.

A slow rain Wednesday morning added some more, .33, to the earlier rain totals, and the temperature dropped down to a comfortable "less than 80" across the Olton area.

School Registration Schedule Is Told

All students who are transferring to Olton High School should bring their transcripts and enroll starting Monday, August 17, at the high school, school superintendent Johnny Clark has announced.

Regular high school enrollment will be Wednesday August 26, and Thursday, August 27.

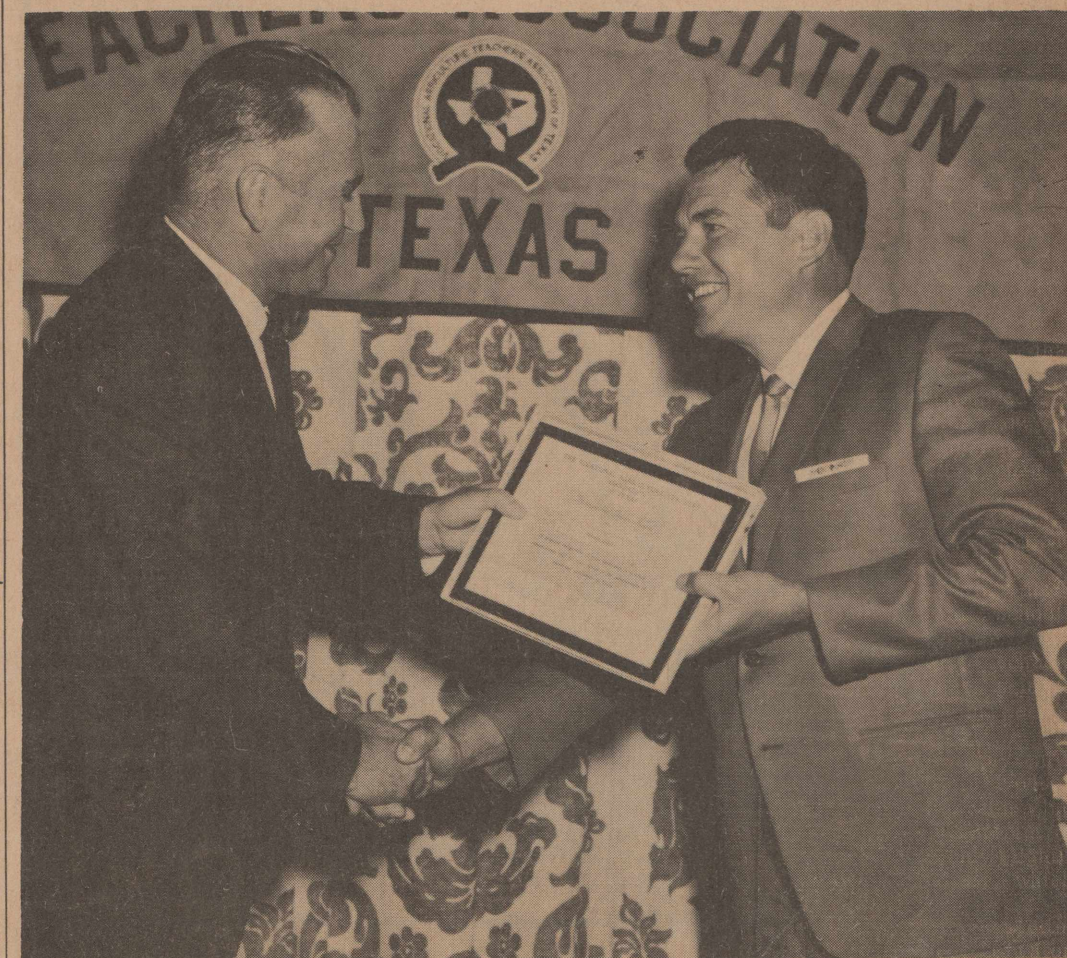

Seniors will enroll Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and juniors will enroll from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Sophomores will enroll Thursday from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., and freshmen will enroll from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

First HS Band Rehearsal Set

Olton High School band will meet for its first rehearsal on Monday in the band hall at 7:30 p.m.

Band director Leslie Ross said that he hoped for a turn out of around 90 students for the high school band this year.

America Rates Ahead Of Political Parties

CERTAINLY one of the more dynamic speakers I've heard in a long time is Ed Foreman, the freshman congressman from Odessa.

Foreman was featured speaker at a meeting of the West Texas Press Association at Midland last weekend. What he had to say makes a lot of sense to me, because I'm a split ticket voter from 'way back.

Foreman is a Republican who says he puts America before the political party.

"I am not so concerned whether the Democratic Party or the Republican Party wins in November—I just want to see America win for a change," the youthful representative said.

"We must get back in balance again economically and spiritually....we must place the welfare of this great country ahead of political considerations....These are the principles I have believed in and worked for—for my Democrat and Republican friends alike. This is a non-partisan question, a non-partisan challenge. It is our country and our freedom that are at stake. This is far more important than the success or failure of any political party, indeed, it is the success or failure of the preservation of freedom for our children and for all mankind."

hour and a half notice of our attack upon the Communists?" Foreman asked the House.

"The parents, the wives, the families of the American boys that were killed in these air strikes are going to be asking a very grave and penetrating question, 'Would we have our son or husband or daddy if the communists hadn't been warned an hour and a half ahead of time?'" he demanded.

Perhaps an explanation is in order. The administration announced later that it had given advance notice of the air strikes so that the Chinese communists would not take the attack as mass war, and thus start a nuclear holocaust.

That is a point we must not overlook.

While Foreman's remarks made military sense, it is just possible that no warning at all might have set the Communists off on a nuclear war.

Whatever was right in that instance, it appeared to me at the press meeting that Foreman is a politician who says what he thinks, regardless of whether it will be popular.

That's refreshing in itself, because I'm used to hearing politicians talk out of both sides of their mouths.

SOME BURGLARS who hit Olton recently have had some mighty close calls with Knight Officer Harvey Castleberry.

He discovered both the recent break-in at Cash Way Food and another one a while back at Roper Oil.

Both times the culprits were only a few seconds ahead of him.

On the night of the Cash Way burglary, Harvey ran up on a car just as it was pulling away, fast, from the rear of the store.

Harvey gave chase, reportedly over some rough dirt roads, but the burglars had just a little too much head start. He didn't catch the license number but got a good description of the car.

Harvey was right on the ball, and one of these days he'll probably nab somebody right in the act. So that ought to be fair warning to burglars. Better steer clear of Olton!

THERE HAVE been times, I am told, when Foreman's straightforwardness has gotten him in trouble with his colleagues.

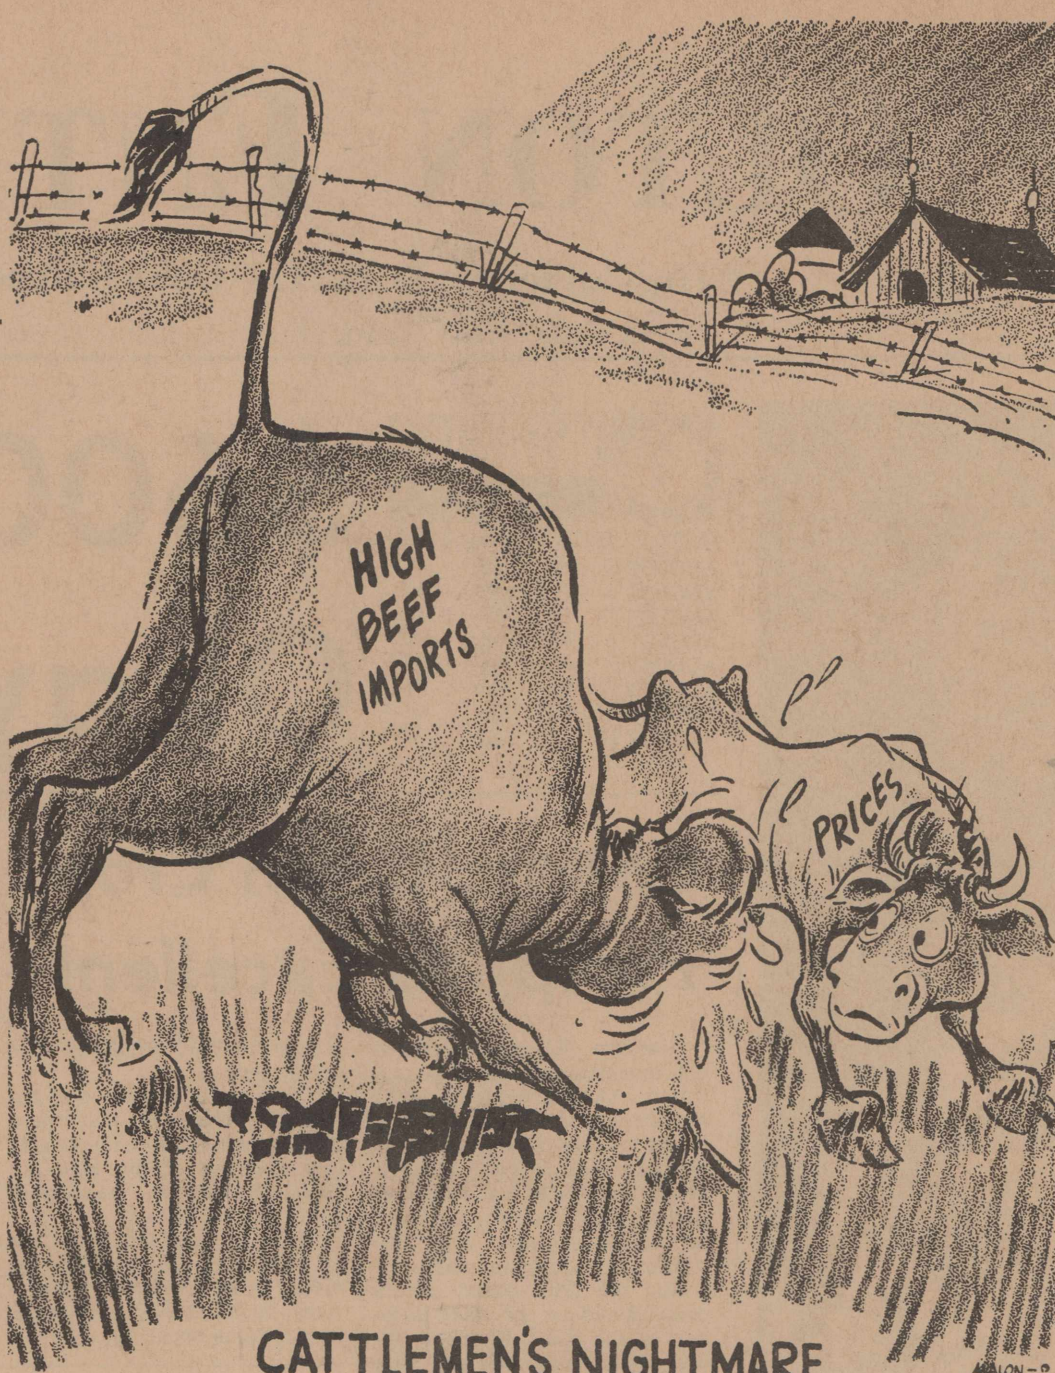

Only a few days ago he was booed after a speech on the floor of the House of Representatives.

Perhaps he had it coming, because his was a voice of question on the President's action in Viet Nam.

Although Foreman voted for the House resolution backing Johnson's action in Viet Nam, he questioned Johnson's timing of an announcement that the U. S. would attack North Viet Nam.

The first attack of these bases did not occur until 1:15 a.m. (EDT) on a Wednesday, a full hour and a half after the president had announced on nationwide television that the air action was in operation.

CATTLEMEN'S NIGHTMARE

RUNNING WATER PHILOSOPHER

Redistrict Farms?

Editor's note: The Running Water Philosopher on his care-less farm on Running Draw has discovered a new problem to worry about, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:
According to an article I read last night, the average farmer is now producing enough to feed 31 other people.

Fifty years ago he was lucky to feed himself and maybe two others, but as the population of the towns and cities increased and the population of the farms decreased, coupled with the masterful production ability of us farmers, the number of non-farmers depending on us to feed them has continued to mount, and the figure now stands at 31 and it may still go higher.

Now I have been thinking about this and while it's pleasant to admit we're doing such a fine job, still there are dangers involved.

For example, when they say the average farmer, that takes in a lot of different sized operators. Frankly, if there are people in town depending on me to feed them, they're in for a hard winter and a poorer spring. In fact, I don't see how they've made it this far.

What happens of course is that some farmers are producing enough to feed 100 or more, maybe 500 or more, while others, like me, recognizing a surplus when they see one, figure if they take care of themselves and three or four laying hens they've had a good year.

But here's the thing that worries me. What if the Supreme Court hears about this and comes out with a ruling that it's unfair and unconstitutional for one farmer to have to feed 500 while others feed only one or two.

You think there's any possibility of the Court's re-districting the farming problem and requiring me to feed 31 others? I need to know this, as I am making my 1965 farming plans now. Also, the 31 others counting on me need to know even worse, so they can get their garden plots plowed and their belts tightened.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dear Amy:
There is a question that has been bothering my friend and I for about three months. Are you slandering someone if you tell the truth about them. For example, if you say someone gets confused when they pronounce a word, and it is the truth, would that be slander? I know it's not right to degrade someone, but we would still like to know if it is slandering?

P. and L.

Dear Jean:
It is surprising that you and your husband have let this go for so long. His daughter needs counseling, or additional help if needed. Consult your physician. He will advise you whom to contact to obtain the help she needs. It would be worth the effort to help her and yourself. In most cases, the results are quite gratifying.

SHE'S TOO FREE WITH THE KEY

Dear Amy:
I have in-laws who refuse to realize that my husband and I have a right to make our own decisions, lead our own lives and in privacy. I have spoken out on this on several occasions and am now regarded as a snippy, loud-mouthed wife who henpecks her husband. We now have four children, the oldest of whom is in kindergarten.

I had the opportunity the other night to go to an alumni meeting but I was also behind on my ironing. I decided to let the housework go for that day and to finish every last bit of ironing, which I did.

I asked my mom-in-law to watch the children at her home while I was gone. She did, but while both my husband and I were away, she brought her sister-in-law (my husband's aunt) to our home to show her our place because she had never seen it. Our house was a terrible wreck, not even a single bed was made.

I feel very badly about the incident because it puts me in a terrible light in the eyes of my husband's family. I feel that an apology or explanation is in order. Yet I don't know how to go about it without getting into more hot water. Am I supposed to just suffer in silence or is there some tactful way that my ruffled feathers can be smoothed?

Embarrassed

Dear Embarrassed:
Frankly, I don't think you should suffer in silence or otherwise. What you do in your home is your business, and in my opinion, people who come to visit uninvited should have no bone to pick with you. Forget the incident. And a thought for the future: Keep your doors locked, and if you don't want visitors when you're not at home, don't be so free with the key.

Dear P. and L.:
To speak the truth is not slander. But if you know it's not right to degrade anyone, you will get your facts straight before you stick your neck out. There's some good to be said in everyone's favor, but it's not nearly as interesting. Is it?

Dear Amy:
Tell that woman who is looking for the "perfect" man that she will have to go to heaven to find one like that!

Mr. E. Shaffer
(Crystal Springs, Penna.)

Dear Amy:
I have 5 step children and have had them for 9 years. But I have a problem with just one girl. She is 17 years old and is always causing trouble between her father and me besides not getting along with her sisters and brothers and my 12 year old daughter. Whenever I ask her to do something around the house she gives me a disgusted look. The only time she is willing to do something is when she wants something herself. Then she's pie in the sky. She isn't at all understanding about financial problems besides being disrespectful, despicable, hateful and wants everyone of the other children to obey her commands.

Amy, I'm at my wit's end. I've tried killing her with kindness. I have even asked her father to let her go and stay with her mother, but he says no and his talks with her mean nothing. I find myself hating her and this is a terrible thing for me to say. She has been this way ever since I've married her father. What do I do now?

Dog Adopts Editor, Desk And Office

There is a new face these days at the Enterprise news editor's desk.

A large tan dog has taken a shine to news editor Mike Read and is slowly becoming more and more of a fixture around the office.

Not that the attention isn't nice, but Read says that the dog's loyalty is sometimes something of a hindrance to his work. "That dog's loyal to a fault," he says.

The dog showed up around the office a week ago and came right on in. She stayed until the news editor left about 12:30 a.m. Thursday to return to Lubbock. She was back on Friday. She walked in the back door as though it was her born right went to the front office, and sat down beside the desk where the news editor was working.

Read's Friday afternoon trip to Hart was made in her company. He said she beat him to the car and wouldn't get out.

He returned from Hart and came back to the office. The dog followed him inside. When he tried to drive off, she jumped through the open window of his car. "And there just isn't room for the both of us behind the wheel of that Volkswagen," he said.

And she's been back every day since then—or every day that Read has worked. She follows him wherever he goes. When he stops she stops; when he goes she goes.

Read said that the difficulty he encounters when he tries to return to Lubbock each evening is beginning to become an emotional strain. And news editors just can't take very much additional emotional strain without completely losing their few remaining marbles.

The news editor said he wished somebody would claim the dog; so that he would know (a) whose she is or (b) whether or not to add her to his Lubbock menagerie—which consists of an expecting wife, black cat and cramped apartment.

He said that possible owners could claim the dog by walking into the Enterprise almost any afternoon and removing her from under his feet.

NEW NEWS EDITOR? A new face at the Enterprise news editor's desk the past several days has been this large dog. New editors have complained for a long time that they lead a dog's life—but really now! At any rate, the dog at the news editors desk doesn't appear to think much of the story he wrote about her.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Dedication Scheduled

The First Methodist Church of Olton will have dedication services Sunday, Aug. 23.

Bishop Eugene Slater, former pastor of churches in Amarillo and San Antonio, will deliver the dedicatory sermon at the morning worship hour.

Dr. J. E. Shewbert, district superintendent from Plainview, will also take part in the services. The Rev. Cecil C. Hardaway is past or of the Olton church.

The church was built in 1958, and the dedication ceremony marks also the 60th year since Methodism came to the Olton area.

In 1904 eight women and a man met in a small schoolhouse north of the present townsite, and, with the help of several itinerant preachers, formed the Methodist Church of Olton.

It was not until 1922 that the Olton church became a separate charge and Rev. R. R. Gilbreath became its first resident pastor.

be taken 45 feet on both sides of a proposed center line following a slightly crooked path through town.

The tentative center line now being discussed runs from even with the present center line at the city limits on the west to five feet south of the present line at Avenue K.

From Avenue K to Avenue H, a distance of three blocks, the proposed center line would run parallel to the present line—though five feet south of the present line.

From Avenue H to Main Street a two block distance, the discussed center line would angle back toward the present line—from five feet south of the present line at Avenue H to even with the present line at Main.

The new and old paths would, if the plans now being discussed are adopted, coincide for one block, to Avenue E.

The proposed highway route would then angle five feet north of the present line over the two-block distance to Avenue C.

The widened highway would then run parallel to the present, but five feet north of the present center line, to the city limits on the east.

The above outline plans are just tentative, though they are the plans currently being discussed by the council.

In 1908 the conference sent the late Rev. George Bryant to assist with the organization.

The Rev. Gilbreath is now retired and lives in Amarillo.

The Olton church has contributed several members of its congregations to the ministry—David Brinkley, Doyle Ragle, Robert Miller, Royce Womack, Carroll M. Jones and Clifford Trotter. The congregations have also provided at least two ministers with wives—Mrs. Elton Wyatt, sister of Royce Womack and formerly Cleta Womack; and Mrs. Austin Rugger, formerly Arlene Ragle, sister of Doyle Ragle.

Rev. Russell McAnally was pastor of the church when the present building was built in 1958, and now the church is in the midst of planning a new building program—to provide a new parsonage for the pastor.

Last term 85.6 per cent of the students in Olton schools took part in the school lunch program. Lunch will be served simultaneously from both counters between 11:45 a.m. and 12:25 p.m. Serving lunches to students in H.P. Webb Elementary building will begin at 11:45 a.m. Junior high students will be served at 12 p.m. and high school students at 12:25 p.m.

Cost of a lunch, including the 1/2 pint of milk, will be 30 cents for elementary students. Other students and school-connected adults will be charged 35 cents per meal, while visitors will have to pay 50 cents.

Mrs. Slatten has asked students to purchase lunch tickets during registration to avoid "first day of school rush".

Five day lunch tickets for the younger group cost $1.50 and 20-day tickets cost $6. For the older group and adults, five-day tickets are $1.75 and $7 for 20-day tickets.

A "milk break" from 1:40 p.m. to 2:40 p.m. will be arranged for elementary students. They may buy white or chocolate milk at three cents per 1/2 pint, or 50 cents for 20-day milk tickets. Adults will be charged five cents per 1/2 pint or $1 for 20-day tickets.

Competition will be in five divisions — 4A, 3A, 2A, A and B class bands. First prize in each division will be $100 and second prize $50.

The parade will start moving promptly at 10 a.m. September 28 to officially open the fair.

Top Grade School Meals Are Planned

Olton Public Schools cafeteria will open Monday, Aug. 31, according to Mrs. Ray Slatten, supervisor.

"As in previous years we'll be serving 'Type A' meals," commented Mrs. Slatten.

A "Type A" lunch is a guide to well balanced, nutritious meals, designed by the United States Department of Agriculture with the help of school nutritionists.

The "Type A" lunch is centered around a protein rich food, lean meat, (cooked or canned), fish, poultry, beef, pork, or other protein rich foods such as eggs, cheese, dry beans or peanut butter.

At least 3/4 cup serving of raw or cooked vegetables or fruit, or both, surround the protein rich food.

"For variety we use fresh canned, dried, and frozen meats, vegetables, and fruits," said Mrs. Slatten.

"Also we serve one or more slices of bread or serving of bread made of enriched flour or meal, two tablespoons of butter either cooked in food or served with bread, 1/2 pint of whole milk, and a dessert each day," she added.

County Retail Sales Make Strong Gains

Lamb County's economy moved ahead on all fronts during the past year, according to a report on the nation's markets, just released.

Significant gains were chalked up in its trading area as local residents, with more money at their command, indulged in large-scale spending.

The findings are from a 640-page, copyrighted study entitled "Survey of Buying Power" issued by Sales Management. It presents data on income and spending for communities throughout the country.

Net earnings in Lamb County were high during the year, it shows. After allowance for personal taxes, local residents had a net spendable income of $37,376,000, as against their 1962 total of $35,161,000.

How much this figured out, at the family level, was determined by taking the dollar amount and dividing it by the number of households. The average per household came to $5,264.

How was the money used? With less of the self-imposed restraint than had been exhibited during recent years. People
