IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY IN CITY PROPERTY.

The Junction Hardware Company has recently reduced the two-story wooden building on the south side of their property to one story, thus removing fire hazard from our business district.

We feel that they should be commended for this admirable move.

Work on the Safety First Filling Station is progressing nicely and within the next few days another vacant business lot will be occupied by a nice attractive house for business.

The Standifer Hospital has recently improved its appearance by the installation of concrete walks and curbs and steel banisters into its entrances. The grounds are being terraced preparatory to the planting of shrubs.

The L. A. Taylor Garage work is going on rapidly and within the next few days the lot formerly occupied by the residence which Mr. Taylor occupied will have on it another place of business for Junction.

The site on which the Hankins Drug Store formerly stood is being put into condition for a new building.

Mr. Hankins is preparing to construct a fire-proof building on his lot, the walls of the building will be of sufficient strength that a second story can be added when needed. There will be a large basement underneath the drug store that can in time be utilized for places of business, if the owner desires.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williams have recently completed an attractive residence in the north-western part of the city, immediately north of the one constructed some weeks ago by Mr. Fred Duderstadt.

These two new buildings are adding to the appearance of that district of our little city.

Mr. G. R. Ragland has purchased some real estate in the northwestern portion of our city where he plans to erect a concrete or stucco residence in the near future.

E. R. Borden of the Borden Ice Company is building a curb of concrete in front of the ice plant, with a drive way between to compel cars coming for ice to drive closer to the platform. On each side of this driveway and protected by the curb will be set to Bermuda grass, which will add to the attractiveness of the plant.

Cleve Stevens of the Junction Tailor Shop has remodeled the show windows in his store and freshened things up considerably with fresh coating of paint which has improved the appearance of the front to a great extent.

MAKE YOUR HOME TOWN ATTRACTIVE

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, recently advised merchants who desire to obtain the trade of people travelling by automobile to make their towns attractive. He remarks that people who arrange club tours often refuse to stop over in a village, because of its unsightly appearance.

The same is equally true of the people who take their automobiles to drive into some city or town to trade. If the town nearest to them looks run down and slow, they conceive a prejudice against the goods sold at the stores. They will go much farther to reach a bright looking town that is kept clean and attractive. Whenever we clean up our streets and grounds and improve our buildings here in Junction we pull in a lot of new trade.

Mrs. Vera James Stevens left Sunday for Mineral Wells to attend the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star and is representing the Junction City Chapter. Mrs. Stevens will make the Dallas market for more new goods before returning home.

SAN SABA TO STAGE NATIONAL PECAN SHOW

Designed as a purely educational event, the first National Pecan Show, to be held at San Saba, Nov. 8-9 promises not only to bring together some of the finest exhibits of pecans in this country but to help materially in bringing about a recognition among pecan growers of the interests they have in common. Dean E. J. Kyle of the School of Agriculture, A. & M. College of Texas, who is president of the show, has pointed out in commenting upon preparations for the coming exposition.

Cash prizes representing in the aggregate a considerable sum have been hung up for various classes of exhibits. A regional prize of $250 is offered for the best and most representative display assembled and shown under the auspices of chamber of commerce representing West, East or South Texas. Another prize of $250 has been offered for the best sectional exhibit from any recognized pecan growing section of the United States. County, individual and numerous other cash prizes have been offered and winners will also be awarded certificates and ribbons.

"It is eminently fitting that the people of San Saba should sponsor the first National Pecan Show," said Dean Kyle. "San Saba County is the center of the greatest native pecan producing section in the world. The show to be held there Nov. 8-9 is designed as purely an educational event. It is felt that a pecan show displaying representative pecans from every section of the United States where pecans are grown will have a crystallizing influence on the commercial pecan industry."

Assurance has been received from Albany, Ga., that the National Pecan Growers Exchange, a co-operative marketing concern, is assembling a special educational display to be shown at San Saba, Dean Kyle said.

Until recent years, the pecan industry of Texas was based largely on wild seedling pecans, Dean Kyle pointed out. Recent years, however, have witnessed the expansion of the industry until standard varieties of pecans, or the so-called "paper-shells," are now being produced in commercial quantities in all the Southern States.

Officers of the National Show are as follows: Dean E. J. Kyle, president; F. R. Brison, A. & M. College, secretary; James F. Rosborough, A. & M. Extension Service; T. H. Ridgeway, San Antonio; E. E. Risien, San Saba; J. H. Burkett, Clyde; Col. Ike T. Pryor, San Antonio; F. T. Ramsey, Austin; W. J. Millican, Bend; E. C. Butterfield, Winona, vice-presidents.

LOCKLEY TO REBUILD UP-TO-DATE PLAY HOUSE

Mr. E. G. Lockley has just completed arrangements for the reconstruction of the LeRoy Theatre, recently destroyed by fire.

The new building will be equipped fire-proof throughout, which Green says does not mean that the roof is going to be constructed of combustible material, but means that his customers can safely build a fire anywhere in the theatre and unless they get close enough to scorch their shins, nothing will be burned.

The plans for this new theatre are very elaborate and provides for an up-to-date cooling system for summer use and an equally as modern heating plant for the winter, in order that the theatre can at all times, under all conditions be maintained at an even and comfortable temperature.

The auditorium will be equipped with furniture of comfortable and modern design, and the canopy of the main auditorium will be adorned with attractive furnishings.

A ladies rest room and nursery is to be installed and furnished with nice comfortable laboratories and toilets, and a smoker provided for the men.

Dr. E. Galbraith of Kerrville was a Junction visitor Tuesday.

SOME SUGGESTIONS THAT THE CITY COUNCIL MIGHT CONSIDER SERIOUSLY AND PROFITABLY.

For the past few months there has been quite a lot of talk about the value of incorporation and the first comment this paper made relative to this matter was that probably the greatest benefit to be derived was the installation of a water system that would afford protection against fires and reduce insurance rates.

Our town has incorporated and the problem that is now squarely in front of us is the ways and means of getting this accomplished. A great deal has been said about the value of our local water supply and whether or not our city Council should purchase the present system or install an entirely new one. In our opinion we believe every reasonable effort should be made to purchase the system in use and utilize so much as is practicable in a new system. We are not attempting to say what the value should be but there should be some way of getting an estimate that would be fair, both to our people and to the local water company.

The physical assets of the present system is not all the value they possess, and in giving consideration to a purchase of the present system we should also have in mind the franchise on the water supply, the water power, the pioneering in this line of endeavor and the good will of the present owners, all of which has value. Certainly the question of ownership and the personal feeling that might exist for or against someone of the water company owners should not be given consideration in this matter, but we should conscientiously endeavor to determine what is best for the ultimate welfare of our little city.

Towns are not built on prejudice and ill feeling and it is not typical of our people to nurture a sentiment of this kind, if in fact such exists in the minds of any appreciable number of our people. On the other hand we do not feel that the owners of our present water company should ask more for their system than it is worth and as they are among us and will be called on to pay in proportion to what we pay of the cost of this purchase, and we do not believe they will do so, if a proper effort is made to purchase their holdings.

If there can be no definite figure agreed on by the local water company and the City Council as to what is fair, why not obtain an estimate from engineers who are competent to place value on these matters and submit the data to a committee of our citizenship for a recommendation.

Another matter which has been discussed and we believe properly so, is the taking over by the city, or a private individual, by purchase, of the ditch company along with the water system. Competent engineers have advised us that by extending the four mile dam into the south bank of the Llano and making the entire dam of concrete and the canal from the four mile dam site to the city, which will save these ditches, according to the announcement.

This is the third major campaign of the Walton League to be undertaken during the past five years. The first was the creation of the Upper Mississippi River Wild Life and Fish Refuge, 300 miles long and comprising the bottom lands of the Mississippi river from Lake Pepin, Minn., to Rock Island, Illinois. The second, well known to Westerners was the purchase and setting aside of the Walton League Winter Elk Refuge in Jackson's Hole, Wyoming.

That the third major issue should develop in the West was a surprise to Westerners, but it was pointed out by League officials that the entire force and power of the national organization must be thrown into those sections which need help the most, and it was decided by League conservationists that the Western duck situation was the outstanding example of the need of immediate action.

The decision of the League came following receipt of a telegram from C. E. Heineman, National Field Representative of the Walton League, Seattle, Washington, during the recent annual convention of the Western Association of Game Commissioners, in which he pointed out that the sportsmen of the West were up arms over the awful death of ducks in the Bear River marsh district. Seth E. Gordon, Conservation Director of the League after conference with other conservationists and with national officers of the League, wired in reply that the Walton League accepted the challenge of restoring the areas in question in order that the annual calamity would be stopped.

P. T. A. NOTES

On Monday, October 24, at four o'clock, thirty-seven members of the Parent-Teachers' Association assembled at the high school building and enjoyed a very interesting "Health" program.

The numbers on the program included a very beneficial discussion of Infantile Paralysis and Scarlet Fever by Dr. L. E. Standifer.

Enthusiastic discussions on the question of building rooms for football, music and expression followed. But final decision was deferred until next meeting.

If you are in any way concerned about this proposition come and "lend your aid."

The time for closing the membership campaign was extended until next meeting also. Do not miss the advantages of being a member of the P. T. A.

Be with us next Monday, November 28, at 4:00 o'clock.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mr. Auva Browning, Junction, operated on for appendicitis Tuesday and is doing nicely.

Mr. Carlos Taylor, Junction, operated on Wednesday for appendicitis and is doing nicely.

Mrs. Chas. Lucke returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hardean returned Thursday from a visit to Austin.

Miss Nellie Barnes, teacher in Draughan's Business College, in San Antonio is visiting Mrs. J. S. Newman for a few days.

BUSINESS COLLEGE OPENS WITH FAIR ENROLLMENT.

The Llano Valley Business College had its first session in the high school building of the town of Junction on Tuesday night, October 25, with the following students present:

Max Riley, Mary Martin, Elsie St. Clair, Josephine Urban, Ira Dell Northcutt, Ruth Lee Hoggett, Blix Hankins, Lela Taylor, Fae Taylor, Virginia Strong and Lois Goodwin.

This work will cover general courses in typewriting and shorthand and will be run in collaboration with the high school of this place.

Professor G. K. Martin, who has had a varied experience as instructor and in the field of business, will be in charge of the work. He comes to us highly recommended and is filling a long sought need for this community.

Apprentices in the field of business are hard to obtain on a reasonable salary basis and no new employee in clerical work is worth much money to any business; for that reason we believe it worth the while of our young people, who can do so, to qualify themselves in order that they may be worth something to a business before they expect a position. There are many good paying business positions open to the right kind of stenographic help in this town, as well as other towns, and while the opportunity affords itself, we believe it a good idea for our young people to take advantage of this school. This school will probably cost less than one-third of what an out of county business college course would cost, and in all probability serve the same purpose.

The question for a prospective employee to decide is not how much salary they can obtain, but how much value they can be to a business.

Preparation for the business world can be obtained to some extent by attendance in a business school of the kind we now have available in Junction.

NEW HOTEL NOW OPEN TO PUBLIC

The Hotel Junction, owned by Mr. T. B. Phillips has been completed and equipped with the latest hotel furniture. Each room is furnished with good, new and modern furniture. This new hotel will be under the management of Mrs. Maggie Jones.

The management caters only to the best class of trade and have equipped their hotel to please them.

We are glad to have this much needed addition to the hotel facilities of Junction, as many of us remember that last summer it was impossible to obtain hotel accommodations for many of our tourist visitors.

CITY COUNCIL MEETS: APPOINTS COMMITTEES

At its regular meeting last week the city council made the following appointments:

A. W. Browning, appointed City Clerk.

E. A. Loeffler, J. M. Hankins and Chris Schraub, Appraisers and Equalization Board.

W. B. Buster, N. C. Patterson and Will Emsley, on regulation of streets and traffic.

Frank Bissett and Edgar Jordan, on plans for immediate fire protection.

J. A. Herman and W. B. Buster, on sanitary conditions.

A. O. Lawler, E. M. Burt and John S. Munn, taking the census of the city.

Joe Bissett was engaged to draw off the County Assessor's rolls all the property owners lying within the city limits.

The mayor says that the new City can not be built in a few days and asks the citizens to be patient. The City Council is working in perfect harmony, and when ready will make further announcements.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barthelow of San Antonio were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Blackburn, last week.

THE GAME WARDEN AND THE SPORTSMAN

Some time ago a New Jersey Game Warden was ambushed and shot dead, through the back. The crime was fastened on a gunner, who pleaded guilty and remarked that the Warden had threatened to arrest him.

Violating the law!

Game Wardens are officers of the State, selected after a trying and critical examination as to their qualifications, in most cases paid only a very nominal income, and sworn to do a duty that is none too pleasant.

In other walks of life peace officers usually have to do with human beings because of their shortcomings with other humans. The Game Warden makes an arrest because a man armed with a gun commits his crime against a bird or an animal. He hunts out of season, he exceeds his bag limit, he trespasses on forbidden property, he shoots at night, or does any one of a dozen things that are forbidden by statute. The crime committed is in reality a crime against a fellow sportsman, because it is the sportsman who put the law on the books and the game in the field and then engaged the services of a Warden to see that these laws are obeyed.

Without game laws there would be no game, without the services of the Warden game would live a precarious life and in time cease to exist.

The average Game Warden of today is a sincere sort of fellow, serious-minded in his work and generally willing to overlook an innocent mistake. His job is a thankless one, his work hours never cease once he has taken the oath of office, he can't satisfy everyone and he shouldn't try. The laws he is paid to enforce insure an equal right to every sportsman. They do not favor the rich and take away from the poor; they aim to give game a square deal. The average Warden does not make an arrest except when necessary; he collects no part of the fees; he has no incentive to put obstacles in the way of the gunner who is properly conducting himself. The average Warden moves about a great deal through his territory; he knows where the game is; he will impart this information gladly and freely if there's no reason why he should not.

The average Warden is a sportsman and as such enjoys the thrill of a good clean shot as well as anyone else, but his duties seldom permit him a day in the field for real pleasure. The average Warden is a gentleman through and through, ready and willing to render a worthwhile service to the sportsman. The Warden's duties are many and his knowledge must be varied. He must be able to name the principal birds and animals in his county and give the open seasons for each; he must know how to issue licenses; the bag limit, the right of search, sale of game, gunning at night, and every rule and regulation that covers hunting, fishing and trapping. He must investigate violations of the state, fish and game law, place game posters and signs, prosecute violators of the law, prevent the pollution of streams, assist in the collecting of fish for propagating purposes, and other duties that call for keen sighted vision, a cool head and a judicial mind.

Real sportsmen appreciate the work the Wardens are doing—those who want to evade the law do not.

That's why we have Game Wardens.

RADIOED FROM USDA

In a test of representative farm areas in three States it was found that more than 60 per cent of the farmers were receiving bulletins from either the State agricultural colleges or United States Department of Agriculture. Are you getting yours? More than 60 per cent of these farmers receiving bulletins said they had adopted improved practices recommended in them. Are you getting your share of the benefit?

Section 2. PERMIT REQUIRED.—No wall, structure, building, or part thereof, shall hereafter be built, erected, or altered, until a plan of the proposed work together with a statement of the material to be used shall have been submitted to the Mayor of Junction, who shall, in accordance with the provisions herein contained, issue a permit for the proposed construction. The permit shall be issued without fee, or not in conformity with this ordinance. No building shall be moved from one location to another within the fire limits until a permit has been obtained therefor. Permit shall be issued only in case the Mayor of Junction is in accordance with this ordinance.

Section 3. INCOMBUSTIBLE CONSTRUCTION, REQUIRED WITHIN FIRE LIMITS.—Every building hereafter erected, altered, or enlarged within the fire limits, shall be enclosed on all sides with walls constructed wholly of stone, well burned brick, or reinforced concrete, and shall have the roof, also the floor and structure covered with incombustible material. All corners shall be of incombustible material.

The purpose of the section is to prohibit the erection within the fire limits of wooden, ironed, stucco, and veneer type buildings. FRAMES.—Buildings within the fire limits whose walls are wholly, or in part, constructed of wood, shall hereafter be enclosed within the fire limits as herein designated or as they may hereafter be established, except as follows: (a) Temporary one story frame buildings for less than 30 days.

(b) Small outshouses not exceeding 100 square feet in area, and not exceeding 10 feet in height, located within 50 feet of any other building nor within 5 feet of any lot line. Any existing frame outshouse located within the fire limits, which may hereafter be damaged or otherwise be in an amount greater than one-half its present value, shall be removed, or shall be repaired or rebuilt, but shall be removed, repaired or rebuilt, within 30 days after the date of the destruction of the same. Section 5. GAS CONNECTIONS.—Gas connections to stoves and similar heating devices shall be made of rigid metal pipes. For small portable heating devices flexible or rubber tubing may be used when there is no valve or other shut-off on the device.

Section 6. FEES REQUIRED.—Every person, firm, partnership or corporation shall pay to the City of Junction in cash the sum of Five Dollars for the issuance of a permit for construction.

Section 7. PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS.—Whoever violates any provision of the Six preceding sections on any building, structure, or part thereof, shall be fined, upon conviction, of not less than One Dollar, and not more than One Hundred Dollars.

This 15th day of October, A. D. 1927. Adopted at its final reading October 24th, A. D. 1927. Will take effect November 1st, A. D. 1927.

Approved: E. HOLEKAMP, Mayor.

Attest: A. W. BROWNING, Secretary, City of Junction.

MUSIC AS A CRIME DETERRENT

Music's power as a crime deterrent was extolled by William P. Rutledge, commissioner of police of Detroit, in an address before the third annual convention of the Michigan Music Merchants Association, reports the Conn Music Center. The commissioner spoke on "Music in the Home Environment Versus Crime."

"The prime reason for criminals is due to the early bad environment during the stage of adolescence," said Commissioner Rutledge. "It is my opinion that music offers one means of helping to solve the crime problem through the fact that a child must practice many hours at home which would otherwise be passed in pool rooms, unsupervised dance halls and joy riding in autos."

"Learning music in the home will not only keep the child under a closer relationship with his parents, but it will help to develop the cultural side of his life. Music enriches a child's life. It is inspirational—an expression of religion, if you please, and it becomes an intimate part of a child's life if it is properly administered. With modern methods for teaching music, children have found it a pleasure to learn and there is no joy greater than that of being able to produce music whether it be on a cornet, piano or other instrument."

"The 'problem child' can be reached through music which calls from within us the best there is. When one stops to consider the fact that last year there were 1,500,000 persons who went through the courts of the nation and there were 500,000 sent to prison, a real problem faces us. If we are to overcome it, we must work through the child; and I feel that music is one of the best agencies. Music in the home makes a deeper impression upon the child with its fine qualities."

"Unless we impress the parents that closer home discipline is needed and proper supervision of idle time, the 'problem child' of today will become the delinquent of tomorrow and ultimately a member of the criminal class."

After having reflected upon the difficulties and burdens carried by the president, most of us here in Junction have chosen not to run for that office.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PROBATE OF WILL

THE STATE OF TEXAS: To the Sheriff or any Constable of Kimble County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause the following notice to be published in a newspaper of general circulation which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year preceding the date of this notice, in Kimble County, Texas and you shall cause said notice to be printed at least once each week for three consecutive weeks, before the return day hereof.

THE ESTATE OF TEXAS: To all persons interested in the estate of Paul Hamilton Rogers, deceased:

Miss Nancy Elizabeth Rogers, has filed in the County Court of Kimble County, Texas, an application for the Probate of the last will and testament of Paul Hamilton Rogers, deceased, and for letters Testamentary, together with said will, which will be heard at the next term of said Court, commencing the first Monday in November, A. D. 1927, the same being the seventh day of November, A. D. 1927, at the Court House thereof in the town of Junction, at which time all persons interested in the estate of Paul Hamilton Rogers, deceased, may appear and contest said application should they desire to do so. Herein fail not, but have you then and there before said Court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of office, at office in Junction, Kimble County, Texas, this 11th day of October, A. D. 1927. (SEAL) L. E. HODGINS, Clerk County Court, Kimble County, Texas.

POULTRY HINTS AND SUGGESTIONS

(By F. W. Knapton, Bryan, Texas)

The Chicken Business
After you read this perhaps you will agree with the writer that the chicken business now may be called by the more dignified name, "The Poultry Business."

In the United States each year, over 568,000,000 chicks are raised. More than one and one quarter billion hatching eggs are required annually in the United States to produce the above number of chicks raised.

At least 30 million breeding hens are necessary to lay the hatching eggs of the United States.

The total capacity of commercial hatcheries in the United States is placed at one hundred million eggs at one setting.

At least 250 million baby chicks are produced each year for sale, by commercial hatcheries. A total of one billion baby chicks are hatched each year. Comparing this with other figures, shows that about 50 per cent of all baby chicks die each year. What a terrible financial loss? What a wonderful field for improvement?

In the State of Ohio there are over 700 commercial hatcheries, with a total egg production at one time of 17 million. Forty-six of these hatcheries have capacities above one hundred thousand eggs.

In Texas also we have been making rapid progress. Today we have a commercial hatchery egg capacity of over 8 million eggs at one time. We have over 400 commercial hatcheries in Texas, and more going in every week.

Community Hatchery

In every town, there is a need for one or more community hatcheries. Town and cities not having these public hatcheries or community incubators, can well afford to look into the question looking forward to their establishment. There is nothing that will develop the poultry industry as rapidly as a commercial hatchery.

Breeding Farms

In every community there is a wonderful field for the establishing of from a half dozen to two dozen and more, specializing poultry breeding farms. It takes a thousand hens to supply a 12,000 egg incubator with eggs. In communities in which public or commercial hatcheries are being established, there is at once created a market for high class hatching eggs. In every community there is a need for trapnest breeding farms, in such varieties as Barred Plymouth Rocks, S. C. R. I. Reds, S. C. White Leghorns, Mottled Anconas and others too numerous to mention here.

Specializing

The commercial hatchery is the first step in the specializing of the poultry industry. The trapnest breeding farm is the second step. In communities with such commercial hatcheries and trapnest breeding farms, there positively does not exist one good reason for the presence of mongrel, duke's mixture, crazy quilt, cross-bred, just eating chickens. In such places farmers can buy well-bred baby chicks from trapnests and bred-to-lay hens at reasonable prices, and when they want them. The nearer home chicks are produced and the less distance they have to be shipped the better.

In such communities farmers can keep 200 or 300 good hens, can replace half of them each year, by giving baby chicks from bred-to-lay stock. In such communities commercial egg farms, also soon make their appearance.

Poultry Schools

The very fact, previously mentioned, that about one half of the baby chicks hatched each year die, that an egg production at this time of year of 25 per cent is the exception rather than rule, all is evidence that poultry information may be available but most certainly is not being taken advantage of. What do you think of a two day Poultry School, or a Poultry Short Course for your community? If interested, get in touch with your County Agricultural Agent or your County Home Demonstration Agent. These people are in position to provide this kind of a school of instruction for you. In such a school, such topics as making hens lay, raising baby chicks, building houses and poultry diseases are discussed.

If you are not fortunate enough to have a County Agriculture Agent and Home Demonstration Agent maybe you can interest the Secretary of your local Chamber of Commerce.

If you have not any of these, then it is high time to have a public meeting and bring about a great change in your community.

FARMERS OWN FARM LOAN BUSINESS

Twelve Federal Loan Banks were organized in 1917. In ten years these banks have loaned farmers at a low rate of interest and on long time the sum of $1,386,822,314. A total of 440,293 farmers have made loans and at the same time became stockholders in these banks. These farmers now have a total of $59,060,420 invested in bank stock. During this period the banks have earned $48,684,283, of which amount $19,614,598 has been paid out in dividends to stockholders. The banks have real estate valued at $14,004,738 and reserves and undivided profits totaling $13,342,757, all of which belongs to the stockholders.

Such is the record of the twelve Federal Farm Loan Banks. Should these banks fail, which of course is not even to be presumed, and farmers lost their investment in stock, they would still have saved money, if loans at old prevailing rates had been in equal amount to the loans made by these institutions.

The success thus far obtained by the Federal Farm Loan Bank system under a board of management of which there are farmer representatives has been phenomenal. Every effort to change the board of managers and displace the farmer representatives should meet with the strongest kind of opposition. These banks are farmer banks established for their benefit. The farther "big business" stays out from them the better it will be.—Farm and Ranch.

A NEW STORY ON ADVERTISING

A story that is going the rounds of the newspapers as to the conversion of a particularly obdurate merchant to advertising is amusing. A persistent advertising canvasser, according to the New York Times, called upon a retail merchant who declared that no one bothered to read advertisements.

At last the canvasser offered him a free advertisement "just as a test, the story goes. 'You can say what you like about me. Nobody will read it,' said the merchant. The canvasser arranged a three line notice in an obscure column to the effect that the merchant wanted to buy a cat. Four hours after publication an urgent message was received at the office of the paper, asking that the notice be withdrawn at once as 117 cats had been brought in at that time. The story has the proper conclusion. Afraid recovering from his natural annoyance the merchant saw the moral and joined the select company who have learned what the printed word will do for their enterprises.

Other tests might be made, tests more satisfactory both to the merchant and to the newspaper, but this is convincing, to say the least.—Sherman Democrat.

Whole milk should be fed to calves at the rate of from 8 to 12 pounds daily, depending on their size and condition of thrift. For the first few feedings the calf should have its mother's milk, and should be fed three times daily, at regular intervals. Skim milk can be gradually substituted for whole milk at the rate of one pound daily beginning with the third week, providing the calves are vigorous and healthy. At this time the total amount can also be increased from 2 to 4 pounds daily. Unless the milk is carefully weighed at each change of feeding and the amount definitely known, there is danger of overfeeding. All milk should be fed at an even temperature of about 90 degrees in clean pails and at regular hours.

IN GOSSIP TOWN

Have you ever heard of Gossip
Town,
On the shore of Falsehood
Bay,
Where old Dame Rumor with rustling gown,
Is going the livelong day?
It isn't far to Gossip Town,
For people who want to go—
The idleness train will take you down,
In just an hour or so.

The Thoughtless Road is a popular route,
And most folks start that way;
But it's steep down grade, and if you don't watch out, You'll land in Falsehood Bay.
You glide through the valley of Vicious Town,
And into the tunnel of Hate,
Then crossing the Add-to-bridge,
you walk
Right into the city gate.

The principal street is called
They Say,
And I've Heard is the public
well,
And the breezes that blow from Falsehood Bay,
Are laden with—Don't You Tell.
In the midst of the town is Tell-Tale park,
You're never quite safe while there
For it's owner is Madam Suspicious Remark—
Who lives on the street Don't Care.

Just back of the park is Slander's Row,
'Twas there that Good Name
died,
Pierced by a shaft from Jealousy's bow,
In the hands of Envious
Pride.
From Gossip Town peace long since fled,
But Trouble and Grief and Woe,
And Sorrow and Care you'll find instead,
If ever you chance to go.
—Local Talent.

KEEPING TRADE AT HOME

In many towns the merchants are complaining because so much of the trade goes away from home. They find fault with the patronage of mail order houses, stores in near-by cities, etc. One trouble in many of these towns, is that the merchants do not show much enterprise in advertising. They have not informed the people of their own community and near-by places about the merits of their own goods. Naturally the stores elsewhere that do advertise a lot, and the big mail order houses whose business is built on advertising, look attractive to these townspeople.

The trade of Junction on the whole stays at home quite well.
That is because our business men as a rule have realized the advantage of publicity. Still there are some of them who could get back much of the lost trade that goes elsewhere, if they would regularly inform the people as to the bargains they are offering.

Beginning Monday at the Vogue Shoppe all hats and dresses, Misses' and Children's Coats will go at a great reduction. Don't fail to inspect our merchandise.

The Vogue Shoppe.

COSTS OF DISTANT BUYING

The people who take automobile and railroad trips to the nearest large city for shopping, would find their purchases costly if they added in all the items that belong there. Railroad fare, hotel and restaurant bills, gasoline and wear and tear on automobiles and tires, must be added. And it takes time to make these trips and time is worth money.

In the case of mail order buying there are mail and express charges, and the disad-vantage of not being able to see the whole assortment of goods so you can pick out just the thing you want.

"IF I WERE COACH"

By WILLIAM S. CAMPBELL
Himself Nine Years in Moleskins

SUBSTITUTES, STAY AWAKE

A team is no stronger than its reserve strength.

Substitutes, or the reserves, often develop the habit of "sleeping," some of them never awaken. It pays to keep awake, reserves, because your chance is coming when you least expect it. Your first chance may be your last—be ready to produce the goods when it does come.

Did you ever stop to think that the majority of players make football teams because of some one thing they have done real well in the past. This "thing" may have been a long run, a good tackle, the catching of a forward pass or just the mere fact they were in the lineup when the team won a hard game. In other words, to make a football team you must do something to make the coach have confidence in you. A winning combination is all that he is interested in at any time.

Spend your time profitably on the side-lines. Watch, Study and Wait—watch every move of your rival, study his strong and weak points and wait patiently but intelligently for your chance.
By waiting intelligently I mean just that.

Keep yourself in good physical and mental condition at all times. Do not develop an inferiority complex. Do everything on the field of practice your rival does and just a little bit more. Remember, if you are a sub you must work harder than the varsity man to overcome that lead he has on you.
Use your head all the time.
Above all, KNOW EVERY SIG-NAL! Know where the ball goes on every play and what you are to do. The good player makes it a point to know what every player does on every play.

Do not let your morale slip the least bit. If your fellow substitutes begin kidding you and making a joke out of every practice, QUIT THEM; not the team. Don't worry about the coach not watching you—keep right on working hard and he will see you. If you are not running signals, follow the best team all over the field and keep your eyes and ears open. Never talk when you are following a team.

When your coach is giving your rival or some one else some pointers remembers that he is giving them to you, too.
And then, when you are called into action be ready to play the position without asking questions about what you are supposed to do. Never ask a coach a question that you can answer yourself. Think twice before you speak.

Be ready when the coach calls you into the line-up for scrimmage against your rival.
Act exactly as you would do in a real-for-sure game. Fight clean and hard all of the time and everyone will be benefited.
And, too, your rival will be in better shape to carry your school's colors if he has to work hard against you.

I knew a sub one time, who sat on the side lines for three whole seasons before he "woke-up." Every one of those three years brought a new alibi from old Jim. He was "green" the first year, as he admitted half-proudly. "But watch me next year," was his threat. Well,
"next year" came and old Jim was again on the side-lines. "I didn't get a 'square deal' 'this year," was his alibi, "but watch me next year. If I don't get on the team next year I'll bet the coach hears from me." The coach must have wanted to know what Jim had to say "next year," but Jim didn't say. He had learned his lesson.

That summer old Jim did a lot of re-learning and re-modeling, too. By fall a new machine was ready for work and the high school and Jim profited.
Jim did not make the best player on the team, but before the season was over the boys were calling him "Old Reliable."

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

A football team will not make many scores if its rooters remain silent on the grand stand, and a store will not sell the goods it could if it had some advertisements rooting for it in the Eagle.

If you want to make people like your home town and stay there, greet them with smiles and a handshake to show you are happy in your home location.

Local governments protect us from loss by fire, theft, etc., while we have to protect ourselves against losses to our business and work, by spending our money at home instead of going elsewhere to buy goods.

Our new line of embroidery linen has arrived. Anything

The Vogue Shoppe.

Girls being taught in some

Many of the men also value the privilege of knocking the government, much more than they do that of voting for a better one.

Amateur burglars are getting so numerous that they will probably organize soon and move to bar out professionalism from that sport.

The coming session of congress has a lot of work to do, but many problems will be solved by postponing them until the next congress.

A good many people are in favor of international peace, provided their own country is allowed to decide how all disputes shall be settled.

Surpassing Its Own World Record

In developing the Pontiac Six, Oakland set out to produce the finest six-cylinder car ever offered in the low-priced field. To that end were employed all the resources available to Oakland as a division of General Motors, and almost three years were spent in development work.

When presented, the car won nationwide public acceptance, sales during 1926 exceeding the highest previous mark ever attained by a new make of car during its first year.

Yet, so pronounced has been the satisfaction of Pontiac Six owners—so emphatic have they been in their praise of Pontiac Six performance, long life and economy, that Pontiac Six sales have already passed the 120,000 mark for 1927.

The Newspaper Value

There is no way of estimating a newspaper's worth to the town and community in which it is published. Everyone knows that a good paper is a splendid asset for a town and that a poor one is a discredit. All people are not in agreement as to what is a good paper. Perhaps the best definition is to say a good paper is one that fairly represents the spirit of its constituents—one that is no better and no worse than the people for whom it is published. Yet a paper must always be a little in the lead of public sentiment if it would serve a useful purpose. All publishers are not leaders, but all should try to lead in the things that are really worth while. If your local paper is making an honest effort to render a worthy public service, help it along. If it is not, you still owe it to your community to aid the publisher to make it truly representative.

Controlling Root Rot

Experiments made at the Temple Agricultural Experiment Station show that where cotton is rotated with other crops it does not have as much root rot as does cotton continuously planted on the same ground. A bulletin on the subject says: "Rotation of crops practically controlled, although it did not eradicate the disease." It follows that the sensible thing to do, pending further experiments at eradication of root rot, is not to plant cotton on land where the disease exists. The rotation experiments at Temple covered a period of three years. Doubtless better results could be obtained if cotton is kept off root rot infected soil for a longer time. At least it is well worth trying.

Texas Border Irrigation

Eagle Pass is taking steps for financing the irrigation of some 60,000 acres of land. The irrigation of all available land in Texas is as certain to come in the next few years as flying is sure to be made a success. It is hoped that a plan may be evolved for the equitable distribution of all Texas waters. Apparently plenty of rain falls. It should not be allowed to go to waste.

Paper Shell Pecans

It is estimated that the pecan crop in Texas this year will be about 30 per cent of last year's crop, but it is also stated that the yield of the thin or paper shelled pecans in most sections is better than usual, which is another reason why the improved pecans should be cultivated. They also begin to bear several years earlier than native pecans and sell for at least twice as much.

Llano to Have Hotel

The W. B. Collins' son and father, owners of the Llano News, have been hammering away for a long time to get a much-needed hotel for their town. At last the people have awakened to the need, and are taking steps to finance a modern hotel, for which the Collins' can now crow most lustily.

Crystal City Spinach

Can you imagine 12,500 acres of land in one community planted to spinach? I can't any more than I can imagine the feel of a million dollars, but that is the acreage being planted around Crystal City. That is by no means all the spinach being grown in Texas. Farmers around Martindale in Caldwell county have bought $2,000 worth of spinach seed for fall planting. Spinach growing pays when there is not too large a crop and if the marketing is well handled.

Snyder Solves Water Problem

Snyder is fairly luxuriating in good water, having some time ago brought in a well that under a 72 hour test pumped 1,000 gallons of pure water a minute. As a result the water rate has been cut to $2.50 for the first 10,000 gallons and 10 cents for each additional thousand, and there is promise of a further reduction. Plenty of cheap water and fuel are the best aids to city growth.

Brazos Bridge Celebration

The new bridge across the Brazos river at Gause, in Milam county, solves the problem of East and West travel for a large part of Central Texas, and the event is being celebrated in a suitable way. Texas appears to be moving slowly in the matter of road and bridge building, but Texas is an immense state and all big bodies move slowly of necessity.

Sheep Flocks Improved

It has not been a great while since any sheep was merely regarded as a "sheep" in Texas, little or no attention being paid to pedigree or registration. Sheep have become so valuable that growers now want to be certain they have the best stock to be had. In other words two pounds of wool are being grown where but one was grown before. In a few years there will be small flocks of sheep on all Texas farms.

Jasper is Expanded

When the spirit of progress strikes one of the old towns of East Texas, it goes the limit in whatever it undertakes. Jasper has voted a quarter of a million dollars in bonds for extending the water and sewer system and improving the streets. That amount of money judiciously spent should go a long way toward making Jasper as good a town in which to live as any in Texas.

Paving Forty Blocks

Carizzo Springs, down where the vegetables and fruits grow in such profusion, has completed the paving of forty blocks of streets with asphalt. The spirit of the town is also shown in raising the money by private subscription to improve a four-acre park, which the municipality has agreed to keep up.

Texas Turkey Crop

Texas will this year market two and a half million turkeys according to present estimates, a greater production than any other like territory in the world. You may not be able to comprehend just what this means for the wealth of Texas, but if you attend the Brady Turkey Trot you will be willing to agree to the figures, as you will think you have seen most of them there.

National Pecan Show

It is a big thing for a town the size of San Saba to put on a National show of any kind, but that is what San Saba is getting ready to do next month with its pecan show, the first pecan show of National scope in this country. If you can, go to San Saba and see just what fine pecans can be grown. A Kingsland man says he is going to exhibit some that weigh 26 to the pound, or about three-fifths of an ounce each. With pecans, though, as with some other things, the biggest is not always the best.

Erath County Peanuts

Erath county has about 15,000 acres of its best sandy land planted to peanuts this year and has a peanut growers marketing association that is trying to show that peanuts pay better than cotton. It is a safe bet that it will succeed.

"PUT YOUR CONTRACTS IN WRITING"

We recently entered into a contract with a man we had known for a long time. For our purpose here we will call this man X. When the details had all been talked over and agreed upon, we proposed that the contract be committed to writing. Whereupon our friend Mr. X said, "Why, that isn't necessary at all. I know you people so well that I can trust you."

"It is very nice of you to say that Mr. X," said we, "and we want you to know that we appreciate your confidence. We also trust you to the limit and we want to keep your friendship. It is for this reason as much as any other that we want to put this contract in writing because we don't want to leave any possible chance for a misunderstanding to arise later. There are quite a few details to this understanding, and who can say that we will have the same recollection of these details six months from now?"

The contract was put into writing immediately and signed by us both. Between two honorable parties there would never be any necessity for written contracts, except that men's memories are imperfect. Isn't it better, therefore, to guard against future misunderstandings? Many a fine friendship has been ruined by the tricks that memory can play with an honest man.

Then again we have the case where a written contract has been made, but one of the parties claims that there was an additional verbal understanding. Remember that the law will not recognize a verbal understanding entered into before or at the same time as the execution of a written contract, unless it is an entirely separate and distinct contract. Put it in writing.—The Farmer, St. Paul, Minn.

CALENDAR REVISION

Should the United States Chamber of Commerce vote favorably on the George Eastman movement to revise the calendar, the probabilities are that the proposition will be put to a final test, and it will not be at all strange if the experiences of a little more than two centuries ago are repeated, and by changing the calendar of the world. All histories relate two calendar birthdays for George Washington, Old Style, February 11; new calendar, February 22, 1732. The Washington Post editorially commends the proposal to change the calendar and says that it is receiving strong support.

T. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, says that "a simplified calendar would be of clearer benefit in figuring wages, rentals, leases and interest, and checking up the amount of traveling expenses." Its most positive advantage from the standpoint of shipping would lie in the clear interpretation which could be put upon general statistical data. "The gain in having a month that always contains the same number of days and an even number of weeks would more than counterbalance any disadvantages that might arise," says Chairman O'Connor. It is remarkable to read the opinions of hundreds of business men of the country who have agreed with the suggestion of Mr. Eastman for a change in the calendar. The new method would give equal months of 28 days and 13 months to the year.

DRIFTERS AND PUSHERS

(By E. V. S. London Special Correspondent)
Our population is made up of two distinct types of people: namely, those who drift, and those who push.

It is rather natural for people to follow the path of least resistance and merely drift from one position to another with no definite aim at all. To drift carelessly along is an easy life, since it relieves individuals of any physical or mental strain. Those who practice it work only when they see the wolf of hunger gnawing at their door or when the chilling effects of winter's winds cause them to realize that their bodies are in need of clothing. They work only because of necessity. This class of people have never been known to take the lead in any kind of individual or public enterprise. The drifter is content with his surroundings. He is also content with the condition of his government, both his state and nation.

If the world were made of a population of drifters, what would be the condition of the land of today? We should see the following picture: A race of savage people, content to live the simplest kind of life in a world without railroads, automobiles, nice homes, steamships or large cities and farms, in short a world occupied by a savage race of people who would have no degree of civilization.

The person who has the ingenuity to be known as a pusher is a valuable asset to his community, state and nation, while the one who occupies the position of a drifter might be thought of as really a detriment to the place in which he lives and might properly be termed a liability to his country.

The civilization which America possesses at the present time—a civilization of which we can justly be proud—has been built by our class of people who are "pushers." The pushers are individuals who are far-sighted enough to the extent that they plan and build, not only for their personal benefit, but also for the benefit of posterity. The pusher pushes, works and plans, because he really enjoys it. Because it gives him a sense of satisfaction to see his projects prosper, because he sees room for development in hundreds of fields of labor. He pushes because he realizes that improvements need to be made in his own home, community, state and nation, and that by working diligently, earnestly and patiently during the active period of his life, that he may make accomplishments, and that the world may be made better by his having lived in it, and that after his duties on earth are finished and he is laid to rest, that his influence may live on in the lives of his posterity, and as he reaches the evening of his life and the shades of darkness begin to gather he may have the satisfaction of knowing that he has not lived in vain, and that he has "fought a good fight."

The directors of the London Rural Telephone lines met at the Community Hall Saturday afternoon to transact business. Uncle Sam Ivey of Yates is suffering a severe illness and has been to San Antonio for treatment.

Cotton picking is almost over in the London community. The hum of the old gin seems to say: "1000 bales for 1927."

The hunters are oiling their guns in order to be ready for the first day of the hunting season. Here's hoping they are sure it is a deer when they shoot.

Everett and Elton Stewart made a business trip to Brady last Wednesday.

Charlie Smith of Burnett county, brother of Ralph Smith, owner of the Sudden Service Garage at London, came up to London Saturday to see his brother and shake hands with his old friends.

Miss Mayo, primary teacher at the Ivy School, spent the week-end at Mason with home folks and also attended the Mason county Teachers' Institute, which convened at Mason Friday and Saturday.

Gifts Prepared at Home

Home-made cakes, cookies, doughnuts, jams, jellies and, in fact, any dainty for which the housewife is particularly noted, may well be used as gifts at the Christmas season. How much more acceptable to the city cousin is a package of spicy cookies, a fruit cake, a box of home-made candy or even a basket of shiny apples, all reminiscent of days on the farm, than any other gift that the country cousin could offer.

The idea of attractive packages and wrapping of these products of the kitchen should receive some thought and the donor will find that her gift gains added value by appearing in a novel and colorful guise.

Cookies may be placed carefully in boxes and then the whole package wrapped in paper colored or white, and tied with colored cord or ribbon. The use of transparent Cellophane, the new wrapping material which is seen on most of the boxes of high grade candy today, offers another wrap for the dainties. Imagine how appealing a dozen or so cookies would look through a wrapper of this material, which would reveal them perfectly. Tying the package with red, green or printed ribbon and inserting a bit of holly through the knot will give it a seasonable touch. Fruit cakes may be given the same treatment and, if a more elaborate package is desired, the same material of transparent wrapping in red or green may be used. This wrapper serves two purposes in wrapping the food, as it preserves the food in good condition, is grease and odor-proof, as well as affording a package with real beauty.

An over-wrap for jars of jam and jelly gives them a sparkling and festive touch. Unusual and attractive is a squatty jar of orange marmalade placed in the center of a sheet of Cellophane and the material drawn up around it and tied with a perky bow of gold gauze, making a torpedo-shaped package. Home-made candy may be wrapped in this torpedo type of unit in colored wrapping, and several of these, in harmonizing colors, placed in a box, thus giving the recipient a variety of home-made confections in a novel container.

Apples, polished to a brilliancy, nuts gathered in the fall and carefully dried, or even winter vegetables, specially prepared and cleaned, may become real holiday suggestions for the busy farmer's wife, as will a jar or so of her preserves from her cellar. Packaging of these offerings will place them beyond the pale of ordinary gifts.

Once this idea of using home resources for gifts by presenting them in a holiday guise is inaugurated, it will be surprising to find the number of thoughts that each member of the household will have, both as to the gifts themselves and to wrapping of them.

WILL POPULATION DECLINE?

Some startling predictions as to the future of population in England were made by Rev. William R. Inge, commonly called the "gloomy dean." Many will say they apply about the same to this country. He thinks that most of the homes in 1950 will be childless and servantless. He remarks that the whole country will be spotted with little bungalows, where the childless couples will sleep after riding about in their automobiles. Meals will be bought in some delicatessen shop and heated by gas or electric cookers, and he thinks that the population will then begin to decline.

Up to now most countries have had a steady increase in population. But we see now a marked tendency to small families. The people of high intelligence are apt to have only one or two children, many of them have none. Recent immigrants are apt to have big families. But as their children get education, they find American ways to spend money. They want the money for their own comforts, rather than for taking care of a lot of children.

When they have children, they desire to see them get a decent education, which costs money. This tends to restrict the birth rate. People rarely care to assume responsibility for the great families of former years.

Before many years we may see a condition where the population of most civilized countries tends to remain about stationary.

Perhaps it will be just as well. Our country has thought too much about quantity of population and too little about quality. It will be unfortunate when farm land becomes so high priced that it is very expensive to feed our own people. It is doubtful if any country does well to increase its population beyond its ability to feed itself. There is such a thing as having too many people as well as too few.

LONDON LOCALS

We are glad to note that G. M. Houston, our townsman, is again able to be up after a long illness with typhoid fever.

Just a mild criticism—I note that some of the school children are late going to school, arriving after school is taken up, going in after the roommates have settled down to work, thus disturbing the entire room, teacher and all. This ought not to be. Parents should see to it that their children go to school at the proper hour. Teachers should insist that all pupils be prompt.

The lunch given by the school was a success both from the point of interest and finance, over $22.00 being the clear receipts. This shows the promptness of the parents and friends of the school, and partly gave rise to the school note.

Mr. R. L. McKinney visited his wife and children at Brady, Sunday, returning home Monday.

The Saline School County Line District No. 4 is moving nicely under the management of Mrs. Bessie Cleve Hensley, principal, and Miss Edna Hamilton, assistant.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Fritz on the 18th, a boy. Daddy and baby both doing well.

Miss Bettie Chandler of the Baylor Hospital of San Antonio is home for a few days. Bettie was raised here and has many friends.

Mr. Nutt and Miss Nina Adams are working our village in the interest of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. They all stop at London. See?

London has four grocery stores, two dry goods stores, where you can get anything in the dry goods line you may wish. Three filling stations, handling gas lube and accessories. Two up to date garages with real mechanics. Two up to date drug stores. Two practicing physicians, one up to now barber shop and made to order gents' wear, one cleaning shop, one telephone office, on theatre, one meat market, one high school building with eight class rooms, five of which are now occupied. One Community Hall, 60 x 60 capable of seating 500 when we get it well seated. And we have one of the most beautiful and fertile lands surrounding us there is to be found in all this great Empire State of Texas. We have two church organizations, the Baptist and the Christian, both well attended. Above all mentioned and unmentioned things that we have is one of the most loyal, best contented and peaceable citizenships to be found anywhere. We are all neighbors and friends. Who would want to give up such a place and risk finding another.

Marx, the great reform writer, tells us there is no such thing as a harmless lie or white lie. That if a statement is not all truth it is a downright falsehood.

IVY ECHOES

Ivy school began Monday, October 10, and has been moving along nicely. During last year our school sent in some locals each week under the name of "Ivy Echoes." This year we shall send in our locals including school happenings and community happenings under the name of "Ivy Echoes."

Mr. Sam Ivy, who has been ill, was taken to San Antonio for medical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Stewart were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pearl Sunday.

Miss Beatrice Mayo, the primary teacher of the Ivy school, spent the week-end at Mason, visiting home folks and also attending the Institute.

Lester Land was absent two days from school last week on account of work.

The Ivy school will give a box supper and program on Nov. 18, and if possible a ball game that evening. Everybody come.

On last Friday afternoon the teachers and pupils of the Ivy school enjoyed a short walk on Cedar Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herbst will soon make their home in the Ivy community.

Mr. Parker, a brick mason, built a substantial brick flue at the Ivy school.

Elvis Stewart and Louise Kane were absent from school Monday on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herbst and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jones visited Mr. and Mrs. T. Pearl Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arty Tomlinson visited Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Gibbs.

WHITWORTH SCHOOL NEWS

We have eleven pupils enrolled this term and everyone seems to be taking a great interest in his school work.

Next Friday afternoon, Oct. 28, we will have a short program which will consist of readings, stories and songs.

Next week is the last week of our second month—and look out exams!

The boys have gotten a basketball and will put up the goals this week. They have agreed to let the girls play with them. Clinton Brown and Robert Cobb, two of the neighbor boys, will play on the boys' team. Misses Willie Brown and Edna Cobb will play on the girls' team. This will be the first time that Whitworth has ever had a basketball team, but everyone seems to be taking a great interest in getting the ball court in readiness for playing and we feel sure we will have two good teams.

Good luck to the horse! This morning while the teacher was on her way to school her horse became frightened at some sheep and leaped to one side and to his surprise he saw the teacher, who was a little surprised, too, sitting on the ground but not seriously injured. But, such is life, one fall after another.

ENTERTAIN S. S. CLASS

"The Gleaners" were entertained last Saturday evening, October 22, by Misses Lela McDonald and Ruth Sandherr. The decorations were orange and black. Many games and contests were played and enjoyed by all.

Hot chocolate and iced cakes were served to 10 of the Gleaners and 21 additional guests.

Your Bank Account

What does it mean to you?

Do you make it mean a real asset to you, or do you just consider it an unnecessary convenience?

Developed in the right way, your bank account can accomplish for you two very definite gains.

FIRST: It will instill in you the desire to make and save more money. Your business will profit by that attitude, and you will develop a very honest pride in your account.

SECOND: It will establish your prestige among your business and personal associates. It is a strong backing in every thing you undertake, and makes you, as few things can, a positive and progressive citizen of your community.
