Enemies Take Steps To Add Men To Cause

Louisiana Militia, However, Busy As Sheriff's Office Is Seized; Square Dealers On Move To Woods

Citizens Mutter And Feeling Runs High; Martial Law Is Hanging Over One Parish Of Disputed Section

(By The Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 28 — With Senator Huey P. Long charging the Standard Oil company of Louisiana was plotting his death, leaders of an uprising against his Louisiana dictatorship were reported canvassing the country parishes for recruits tonight as national guardsmen watched the tense situation in the state capital.

Ernest Bourgeouis, head of the Square Deal association seeking to break the senator's grip on the state, was still missing but his wife said she knew where he was. He vanished when his "army" surrendered to Long militiamen as a battle threatened Saturday.

Bourgeois Seeks Replacements

He was reported seeking additions to his anti-Long force.

Long, who sped back to Washington Saturday night amid rumors of a plot to assassinate him, hurled his charge at the Standard Oil on the floor of the United States senate today.

An agent for the Standard Oil, whom he named as Fred C. O'Rourke, had declared him "Public Enemy Number One," Senator Long asserted.

Raising his voice to a shout, Long declared that O'Rourke had published a statement saying in effect that the Louisiana dictator "must be killed."

Long Thunders Charges

Long said the uprising against him had been "squelched" by his militia and blamed it upon higher-ups of the Standard Oil, with whom he recently engaged in a controversy over newly-enacted oil tax laws.

The dramatic climax to a long and bitter feud between Long and his enemies developing over the week-end left the state capital tense tonight.

Citizens muttered and feeling ran high in the neighboring parishes of Iberville, West Baton Rouge and East and West Feliciana, officials of which were named at a Long-conducted court hearing Saturday as plotters in a conspiracy to assassinate him.

Seven companies of national guardsmen encamped on the state house grounds. The city and parish remained under strict martial law.

The guardsmen took technical possession of the East Baton Rouge

Secretary Ickes Taps Own Wire

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Secretary Ickes has tapped his own telephone wire.

The cabinet officer, some of whose investigators have been accused by other officials of having listened in on official telephone conversations, has had installed an instrument which will record for future reference any conversation of his own that he might wish to retain.

A wire connected to Ickes' personal telephone leads to a recording instrument in another room. On this instrument the words spoken by the secretary and the person to whom he may be talking are recorded.

Bonds Taken As Man Turns From Cage To Get Receipt

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The disappearance of $1,456,000 in government bonds on consignment from the Bank of Manhattan, was reported tonight to police.

A messenger and two guards, entrusted with delivery of the bonds and who reported their loss to the bank, were detained for questioning.

The bonds were fully covered by insurance. Government agencies banks and dealers were notified immediately to stop payment.

Messenger Trusted

Neither the bank nor police would give the names of the messenger and the guards. O. G. Alexander, a vice-president, said the messenger is between 50 and 55 years old and had been an employe of the bank for a number of years.

When the messenger left the bank, he had a wallet of deliveries—containing the missing securities—and his first stop was at Devine and Company.

The vice-president said the messenger told the following story:

Messenger Accompanied

At Devine and Company, the messenger took from his wallet the package for delivery there. He stepped away from the cashier's window in the small delivery room and waited for his receipt. He placed the wallet on a counter ledge as he waited.

The cashier called out: "Bank of Manhattan, your check is ready." The messenger stepped up to the cashiers' window, got his receipt, stepped back for the package and found it gone.

The messenger, Alexander said, was accompanied to the delivery room by two guards. One remained with the messenger. The other went downstairs in the Devine offices to have some checks certified.

Birthday Ball For President At Auditorium

Second Annual Party Slated As Benefit For Those Who Suffer From Paralysis To Begin At 9 O'Clock

A second annual president's birthday ball will be conducted tonight beginning at 9 o'clock, in the Auditorium.

Representatives of nine clubs were hustling yesterday concluding their ticket sales campaign. W. O. Daniels, general chairman, and M. G. Pederson and Frank McPherson, captains, said they hoped to raise more than the $470.84 netted last year.

Since the Lubbock birthday party is to be held an evening earlier than most other celebrations, many private parties are being planned for Wednesday evening, when a nation-wide radio broadcast will hold their interest.

Members Of Committee

Members of the general committee aiding Mr. Daniels in this event are Mayor Ross Edwards, Ed Allen, J. H. Goodman, Mrs. Hub Jones and

Post Becomes Mail Pilot To Qualify For Speed Try

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28. (AP)—Wiley Post, Oklahoma's world girdling flier, became an air mail pilot here today to enable him to transport mail on his attempt, within the next two weeks, to rocket his Winnie Mae through the stratosphere from Los Angeles to New York in the record time of seven hours.

After he had accepted the oath as an air mail pilot, he automatically became a member of the pilot staff of the Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., which with Frank Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., oil man, will sponsor the flight that the one-eyed Post hopes will slash three hours of the present record of 10 hours, 3 minutes.

Japanese Claim China Asks Sino-Jap Accord For East

GENEVA, Jan. 28. (AP)—An official Japanese spokesman at Geneva said today the nationalist government of China has invited Japanese officials to confer on the possibility of a Sino-Japanese accord for the economic and financial development of China.

The spokesman, in line with local conviction that Japan is moving constantly toward primacy in the Far East, said the first object of Chinese and Japanese cooperation would be a common drive against communism in China.

The child underwent an operation at Lubbock sanitarium last night and remained for treatment.

More Changes In Big Relief Bill Expected

Measure Recently Changed By House; Open Hearing Not To Result In Senate, However, It Is Indicated

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. — Further modification of President Roosevelt's $4,800,000,000 work relief bill was foreshadowed today by another Democratic uprising against the measure led by the man the chief executive amiably calls an "unreconstructed rebel," Carter Glass, of Virginia.

The 77-year old Virginian rebeled against the broad language of the measure and spoke his mind at an executive session of the appropriations committee which he heads.

Several changes were made on the house side last week after Democrats protested it gave too much power to the president.

Glass Flays Bill

While Glass refused to discuss the bill for publication afterwards, committeemen said he flayed it with stinging words. He was joined by at least one other Democratic member of the committee, Senator Senator McCarran, of Nevada.

Administration forces turned down, however, a demand from Republican members of the committee for open hearings. Minority resentment was somewhat appeased by an agreement to hold executive hearings before the full committee, which will be published later.

No Secrecy Planned

Glass firmly announced there would be no secrecy about consideration of the bill and that the usual custom of publishing the testimony after it was printed would be followed.

Republican forces were elated overthe Virginian's attitude. They

Shepard's Charge Hit By Witnesses

Girl's Suit Has Judge Guessing

WACO, Jan. 28. (AP)—Judge Sam R. Scott tonight pondered the question of whether he should tell Miss Mabel Vivian Scott, 19, the names of her mother and grandparents.

The physician who attended Miss Scott at birth today privately revealed her parentage to Judge Scott during trial of a suit in which Miss Scott asked $10,000 mental anguish damages from the physician and a rescue home operator.

Miss Scott, a pretty, slight brunette, alleged that she discovered two years ago that she was the adopted child of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Scott and that she had attempted to determine her parentage.

Mrs. Shepard Was No Drunkard, Two Say As Trial Starts

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 28.—The government late today began again its effort to batter down and discredit in advance, Major Charles A. Shepard's murder defense that his second wife, Zenana, whom he is accused of poisoning, was a drunkard.

After establishing through Capt. Samuel D. Sturgis that Mrs. Shepard was on a feucral reservation when she died, allegedly of poison, in June, 1929, the prosecution at Shepard's second trial launched at once late today into a defense of the dead woman's character.

Drunk Charge Refuted

Wives of two army officers, Mrs. Constance Crowe Gates and Gertrude Skow, testified that they had known Mrs. Shepard socially during their residence at Fort Riley and that they had never seen her drunk.

Mrs. Gates, wife of Capt. Warren B. Tates, now of San Antonio, testified that she saw Mrs. Shepard on the highway on May 24, 1929, the day she was stricken ill. Asked by the government prosecutor to testify as to her general health, Mrs. Gates said:

Had Good Health

"She always seemed in good health."

Q.—"Did you ever see her under the influence of liquor?"

A—"I saw her take an occasional drink. I never saw her when she couldn't handle herself properly."

Mrs. Gates also testified that she went with Mrs. Skow to the Shepard quarters the night of Mrs. Shepard's illness. Major Shepard, she said, did not let them in but told them a doctor was then with Mrs. Shepard.

"Was Secret Drinker"

She described also a conversation she said she had with Shepard a few days after Mrs. Shepard's illness began in which he told her his wife had "gotten some bad liquor."

"He told me also," she testified, "that she was a heavy secret drinker and that he had been trying to keep

Wilting Cross-Questioning Of State Begins To Tell; Day's Session Aimed At Breaking Defendant's Composure

By JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan 28. — Bruno Hauptmann, wilting under a driving cross-examination, fought today with desperate, stumbling words from the witness stand at his trial for murdering the Lindbergh baby.

Accused of lies, he twice cried: "Stop that!" at his inquisitor, the determined Attorney General David T. Wilentz.

He admitted he lied when held in New York but when Wilentz shouted: "Lies, lies, lies about the Lindbergh ransom money," the prisoner shot back: "Well, you lied to me, too."

Innocence Reiterated

Throughout the day's ordeal Hauptmann, perspiring, whitefaced and often faltering, insisted he was innocent of the kidnaping, the baby's murder, the cruel ransom hoax.

"It is—," he protested, "I feel innocent and I am innocent and that keeps me the power to stand up."

But he admitted he told "not the truth" when arrested last September and grilled about the ransom money in his pocket and hidden in his garage, that he lied when he told District Attorney Samuel Foley of the Bronx that he scrawled "Jafsie" numbers on a closet board.

Denies Writing Address

He denied, "positive," that he wrote Dr. John F. Condon's address and telephone number on the board; when the elderly Bronx schoolmaster was negotiating for payment of the $50,000 ransom.

Confronted by crude sketches of a ladder on the pages of his own account book, he denied calmly, with waxen face, that he put them there.

Wilentz drew from Hauptmann the admission that he didn't count the more than $14,000 in ransom bills when, he claims, he found them in a shoe box left in his keeping by Isador Fisch, now dead.

Denies Rushing Away

One Killed When Robbery Is Tried

TEMPLE, Jan. 28. (AP)—One of a trio of robbers was slain, another wounded and a third captured when trapped by officers in a store at Rogers, a Bell county community, early today.

Sheriff John R. Bigham of Bell county, tonight related details of the attempted robbery and shooting.

"We had been watching for three Sundays and were tipped off that a robbery was to be done today. Early this morning two men entered the front door of the store. They carried something in their hands we thought were guns. We had been told they had machine guns," sheriff Bingham said.

"They went to the safe. I said 'Hands up.' Instead, they ran behind the safe and we thought they were barricading for battle so we opened fire. Curtis Morgan of Cameron was killed."

Steve Lewis of Cameron was captured and Mike Treadwell of Rogers was wounded in the thigh.

Sensational Testimony Develops In Trial Of Hungarian Peasant Women

(By The Associated Press)

DEBRECZEN, Hungary, Jan. 28.—The mass poison trial of nine peasant women reached a dramatic climax late today with the testimony of a 50-year old woman that she had killed her husband with $5 worth of poison purchased from Mrs. John Nagy, the 72-year old "magic medicine woman."

When the judge asked the witness, Mrs. Balint Nagy, a relative of the alleged leader of the husband-poisoners, why she put her husband to death she replied that he was ill and she was afraid she would have to support him.

Mrs. John Nagy denied she had sold the poison to the witness, whereupon the latter shouted, "You're a liar and a wicked witch!"

"Oh no, I'm a pious woman," replied the alleged poison vendor, charged with personally carrying out five murders including that of her own husband.

"God forbid that anyone should have your kind of piety," interposed the judge.

According to the prosecution the murders extended over a period of 15 years and hundreds of husbands were victims of

Death Of Guy Johnston Took One Of State's Ablest Engineers, Ely Says

DEATH of Guy R. Johnston, division highway engineer, took one of the ablest engineers ever connected with the Texas Highway department. But he was more than an engineer. He was an outstanding citizen.

Such was the tribute paid Mr. Johnston by Judge W. R. Ely of Abilene, member of the highway commission, who attended funeral services for his former friend and associate Monday.

"Guy Johnston's death was a distinct and personal loss to me as I regarded him as one of the best engineers the department has ever had," Judge Ely said.

"Guy Johnston came to Lubbock and this division because he wanted to. He was sent here because he was an engineer of large experience and ability," he continued. "We could foresee a tremendous program for this section and we knew that he could carry it out to the general satisfaction of the people. I can appreciate the feeling of the people of this division at a time when he had the road program and we were going on so smoothly toward completion of it.

"And while we know that we cannot replace him, we feel

AND now we have controlled tanning. This is the style set by the annual sunshine fashion show at Miami Beach, Fla., not only for the current resort season, but the coming summer as well. And as Florida goes so goes the nation, except perhaps California!

There is a new ratio of proportion between the sizes of the bathing suits and beach towels. Swimming costumes are to be larger, thicker and almost diaphanous. Beach towels will be larger, thicker and more protective. Newer ones are featuring colorful designs of fish, lobsters and turtles, presenting a bright aquatic appearance that makes last year's beach thing look decidedly outmoded.

FOR YOUNG PUPILS

THE National Council of Teachers of English in Chicago has published a study guide to "David Copperfield," the Dickens novel that just has been made in a photoplay version by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Copies are available for three cents each. The address is 211 West Sixty-eighth street.

We wish we could have had a study guide to help get us through "The Deerslayer."

SPENDING AND SAVING

WE are not sure that we fully comprehend this spending orgy that the nation seems to be on. Salaried people are urged to keep their money in circulation and most of those we know do just that thing and as a consequence live from hand to mouth or from Monday to Monday.

The depression brought to light several interesting sidelights on the great American family. One was that too many had been buying furniture, clothes and automobiles on the installment plan. When salaries were cut or jobs were lost, it was not long before finance companies were busy, loan companies took back homes and salesmen came after the furniture and asked for the keys to the car.

What we are getting at is, when are people to begin banking their money again? Perhaps salaries have been decreased so much that the household purchaser has to use the week's salary in paying utility bills or for rent or for a dress or two. Some of our friends have their salaries spent weeks before they earn them; others have them spent by the evening of pay day.

THE TIMID TYPE

WE HAVE just heard the expression "a little mousy sort of person". The speaker described the individual as one who was afraid to express her opinions, almost too timid to speak when several were around. That made us think of occasions when we have seen persons who might be termed "mousy" become happy or otherwise emotionally stirred so that they forgot their timidity and became interesting individuals.

"Mousy" persons are often attractive once the barrier surrounding their outer lives is down.

THE ONWARD RUSH

OCCASIONALLY, when one is in a crowd, prehaps on the street when hurrying people seem to almost scramble over each other, one stops to notice his fellow man and wonder just where he is going that prompts such a rush. Again we wonder what pedestrians are confiding to their companions.

One often hears, when one takes time to listen, such expressions as these: "What are you going to wear?", "She said he told her he didn't like—", "I have to get Grace a pair of socks because she insists on wearing them", "He said his cotton wouldn't bring him anything this year", "We don't know how we are going to pay for it, but the Lord will provide, I guess", "Betty has the sweetest dress", "Kenneth has a cold but he would go to work."

DON'T FORGET

REMEMBER the President's birthday ball. In attending you will help a child to a physical life to which all are entitled. Who knows but at Warm Springs there is an eager-eyed child who will fill the highest office in the land at some distant day?

ON FAMOUS PEOPLE

IF YOU could have your choice of seeing three famous persons whom would you select? We asked twenty persons that question and, with the exception of one, all wanted to see President Roosevelt. That person had already seen him. Spencer Wells said he wouldn't walk across the street to see anybody and then took it back enough to say he would if he could talk to the president.

Second choices fell between Mussolini, Hitler and Gandhi. One man wanted to see the father of the Dionne quintuplets. The majority of the ladies wanted to see H.R.H., the Prince of Wales.

THE BELL SYSTEM AT A GLANCE

WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY

24 REGIONAL OPERATING COMPANIES

(OF WHICH THE SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY IS ONE)

Provide telephone services and facilities within their respective territories, with the aid of staff services of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

How a nation-wide telephone network is organized

The Bell System is big . . . but its organization is not complex.

The A. T. & T. is parent company, service and research organization, and financial headquarters of the System. It owns Western Electric and jointly with Western, owns Bell Laboratories. Also, it owns more than 90 per cent of the voting stock of the 24 associated companies (of which the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is one.) It operates the long distance trunk lines linking the territories of these companies.

Its staff carries on for these 24 associated companies an intensive study to find better, more economical methods of giving good telephone service.

Western Electric buys supplies for the System, and turns out for it the 100,000 different parts that go into the telephone plant.

Associated companies are not required to buy from Western . . . but experience has led all to do so, for two reasons: (1) Because Western Electric parts have the advantage of uniformity. They fit equally well into the telephone system anywhere. (2) Western prices are about a fourth below the prices for similar equipment in the competitive market.

Bell Laboratories is a non-profit corporation, whose 4,000 workers constantly carry on a great program of scientific research to find better and cheaper ways to give your telephone service.

Each part of the Bell System exists because the function it performs is essential to the job of giving good telephone service at fair cost to you.

Barney Ross Retains Junior Welterweight Title; McSpaden Wins Frisco Open

Champ In Easy 10-Round Win Over F. Klick

Result Never In Doubt After Ross Flattens Challenger For Count Of Eight In Second Round Of Miami Fight

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28. — Barney Ross of Chicago easily defended his junior welterweight championship at Miami municipal stadium tonight by winning a 10-round decision over Frankie Klick, San Francisco challenger.

From the second round when the champion floored the challenger for a count of eight with a hard right to the jaw, the result never was in doubt. Ross was the unanimous choice of the two judges, Fritz Gordon and Mannie Weinfeld, both of Miami. On the Associated Press score sheet, the champion won eight rounds, lost one and held the challenger even on another.

Klick Puts Up Scrap

A crowd of 13,000 paid an estimated total of $35,000 to watch the battle. Klick was willing enough and gave the crowd its money's worth in lively exchanges with the junior welterweight and lightweight king, but each time he gained an advantage, Barney slowed him up with a series of lefts and rights that took the sting out of his punches.

The only round he won was the sixth when he nailed Barney with a series of rights and lefts that had the crowd in an uproar. But beyond that and Ross' attack in the second, it was the old story of a hard-battling but outclassed challenger vainly attempting to best a better man, who beat him in timing and ring tactics.

Klick, who fought Ross to a ten round draw in San Francisco last March, was a victim of his own eagerness in that fatal second round. Although a bit stage struck in the first, he rushed out to open hostilities in the succeeding round and succeeded fairly well the first two minutes. Then Ross feinted him beautifully, spun him around with his ever reliable left and nailed him with a smashing right as Frankie rushed in. Klick fell to one knee, blinked and stayed there until the count reached eight.

Lubbock High Cagers To Meet Ropes Here Tonight

Westerners Seeking Revenge For Loss Friday Night

Lubbock's Westerners face an opportunity to gain revenge for a defeat at the hands of the Ropesville cagers last Friday night when they meet Ropesville tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Lubbock High school gymnasium.

In winning two tournaments and beating outstanding teams of the section in single game engagements, Ropesville has sounded a warning of district championship importance. The Ropes team edged out Lubbock High, 30 to 26, last week at Ropesville gymnasium by staging a last quarter rally to overcome a lead.

As a result of an intra-squad scrimmage yesterday afternoon, the Westerner second team will start tonight's game. Coach Huffman sent his first string, consisting of Murray Venable and Clendon Kerr, forwards; Glenn Jones, center; Dayton McWhorter and Othie Upton, guards, against the reserves, with the announcement that the winners would start against Ropesville. As soon as necessary, however, the regulars will be sent into the fray.

After nearly an hour of play, the reserves were ahead, 58 to 50, so the starting team tonight will consist of Ralph Letsinger and Mast, forwards; Calloway Gammill, center; Charles Calhoun and Orvalee Oden, guards. Gammill and Letsinger were regular players before Kerr and Venable became eligible last week.

Coach Huffman also announced last night that the Westerners would meet the Pampa High school Harvesters here Friday night and the Borger Bulldogs here Saturday night in Panhandle League games. The Pampa game originally was scheduled for February 15.

Hunting Licenses Boosted In Many States For Year

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28. (AP)—It will cost you more to hunt and fish this year in a number of states, a "cross-section" survey shows, and the money obtained that way will provide better sport along the streams and in the woods.

The additional revenue will be spent mainly for maintenance of sanctuaries and the propagation of fish and game. Not the least of the conservationists' worries is the possibility of a closed wildfowl season in 1935, which would make a big dent in the "working capital" of various state departments depending upon the sale of licenses for funds. There are thousands of duck hunters who do not care for upland shooting.

Among the states whose legislatures plan to boost or have increased the price of hunting and fishing are Maine and Arizona, both the stamping grounds of big game. The increase in Maine would increase the resident fee from 65 cents to $1.15, and be used to propagate more game fish and maintain the state's game farm.

Short term non-resident licenses are considered by Delaware and Indiana. Indiana would permit issuance of a ten-day fishing license to outsiders for $1 and require separate resident permits for hunting, fishing and trapping. At present a $1 fee covers all three. The Delaware yearly fee for non-residents now is $15.50 and $5 additional for fishing privileges except in the Delaware river and bay where no license is required.

The Texas fish, game and oyster commission has proposed a universal shooting and fishing license to get needed funds.

Bad Officiating In New York Arouses New Headache; The Garden Wants Dempsey, The Commission Doesn't

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (AP) — All sorts of remedies, ranging from pills to pillories, were suggested today for the worst headache boxing has suffered here in years—consistently bad officiating.

As a result of the boxing commission's reversal at the Madison Square Garden ringside Friday night of a decision originally awarded to Babe Risko over Vince Dundee, all hands have been summoned to a clinic in the commission offices tomorrow. Out of the melee may come a new ruling as drastic as the stand Postmaster General James A. Farley took four years ago, when, as head of the commission, he passed a "no foul" rule to end an epidemic of low blows.

Rule Out Commission?

The more rabid today were for passing a "no commission" rule, automatically voiding General John J. Phelan, chairman, Bill Brown and D. Walker Wear, while the more thoughtful suggested a complete overhauling of New York's staff of Judges and Referees, allowing fighters to agree on their own officials, setting up of a small but efficient group that would work all fights, or the bringing in of outside referees of known ability.

Col. John R. Kilpatrick, president of the Garden, formally requested the commission to name Jack Dempsey as referee for next Friday's 15-round match between Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight, and Jimmy Braddock, New Jersey veteran.

Will Consider Request

"We aren't going to let the Garden pick our referees for us," said Brown, "though the commission will consider Kilpatrick's request. We have capable referees. How do you think they'll feel if we put someone else in there?"

The faithful recalled that Dempsey awarded Phil Scott a two-round decision over Otto Van Porat on an invisible foul in 1929, setting in motion the indignation that resulted in Farley's "no foul" rule.

SMU Expected To Name Head Mentor Today

Matty Bell Is Figured To Be Choice As Successor To Ray Morrison; Only Selecman's Announcement Awaited

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 28. — Madison (Matty) Bell, line coach on the Southern Methodist university footballers, tonight appeared the certain choice of the school's board of trustees, convening tomorrow to name a successor to Ray Morrison, veteran head coach, who resigned recently.

Dr. Charles A. Selecman, president, said the board would confer tomorrow to seek a successor for Morrison, who will return to his alma mater, Vanderbilt.

"Much In Accord"

Dr. Selecman said tonight that he "thought he and Bell were pretty much in accord on the subject."

However, it was not known whether Bell would accept terms of the board. It was reported his answer would depend largely on the length of the contract. He is known to oppose a one-year contract, as he feels he is past the "experimental stage" in the coaching profession. He has served as head coach of Texas Christian and Texas A. and M.

Dr. Selecman said there was unusually unanimous sentiment in Bell's behalf among people closely connected with and in touch with athletic program of the school. Dr. Selecman indicated he was inclined to believe that the man taking the post should be given three years both as a guarantee to himself and to the school but it was understood that some would insist on a one year limit.

Considered Cowboy Job

Bell has seriously considered a position at Hardin-Simmons university at Abilene, reported to be on a long term contract.

Alonzo Stagg, former grand old man at Chicago university and now at the college of the Pacific, communicated with Southern Methodist officials today concerning his son, now connected with Chicago university's athletic department. Dick Hanley, retiring Northwestern university coach, also conferred with Methodist officials.

Judge Landis Rules Against Transfer Of Minor Leaguers

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. (AP) — The transfer from lower leagues of 10 players to Fort Worth of the Texas League and seven to Toronto of the International League, was declared irregular today in a ruling from the office of Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, and their immediate re-transfer, through the Cincinnati Reds, was ordered.

Issued as a notice to all baseball clubs containing so-called working agreements, the ruling was prompted by disputes over some of numerous player deals made or "suggested" by the Cincinnati club during the 1935 season.

As a result, the players, who were not named, will become subject to draft next season, although they have had on major league experience.

The ruling, a lengthy, involved affair, sets forth that the Reds failed to comply with the transfer rules by "recommending" that players be sent from the lower leagues to Fort Worth and Toronto, instead of signing them to Cincinnati contracts and later assigning them to the Class AA and Class A clubs.

Independent Cage Teams To Play In Slaton Tournament

SLATON, Jan. 28. (Special) — A basketball tournament for independent teams of the South Plains is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, February 8 and 9, here.

J. B. Stevens, manager of the Slaton independent cage team and sponsor of the tournament, extends a welcome to all teams in this section. Clubs desiring further information are urged to communicate with Stevens at Slaton.

An all-district tournament, for independent teams, is being planned here for the latter part of February or early in March, Stevens said.

Golf Score Card Got A Fever? Try A Bit Of Dry Ice

DAYTON, O., Jan. 28. (AP)—If you golfers who consistently top 100 once in a while "get hot" and crack the 90's, how much "hotter" could you got with a ball of dry ice?

No kiddink! A golf ball with a center of dry ice has been developed here, and preliminary tests, according to Clarence Rickey, who claims to have thought of it, prove it to be a real "go-getter" for distance down the fairways (and perhaps in the rough.)

The secret is this, according to Rickey:

Commercial dry ice is nothing more or less than carbon dioxide reduced to such a low level of temperature that it freezes. When it "melts" is expands into gas.

In the golf ball, developed here in collaboration with Prof. William J. Wohlleben of the University of Dayton chemistry department, the rubber core of the sphere is filled with a patented liquid. Then a scientifically-calculated, sealed-in pellet of dry ice is added.

The ice at once begins its return to gaseous form, and "pumps up" the liquid center, pressure being equal and constant in all directions.

Eradication Of Bookies Is Sought In Effort To Block Repeal Of Pari-Mutuel Law

AUSTIN, Jan. 28. (AP)—A maneuver intended to block repeal of the law legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on horse races was executed today by proponents of legal race track betting when they succeeded in gaining approval by the house criminal jurisprudence committee of a bill to eliminate race "bookies."

Sponsors of the bill, drafted by Representatives Kenneth McCalla and Roy Hofheinz of Houston, said elimination of the bookies would remove much objection to legalized wagering and admitted they hoped it would take some of the steam out of arguments of repealists. Hearing on the pari mutuel repeal bill has been set for Feb. 5, before the criminal jurisprudence committee.

The bill was rushed out of committee over strong protests of leading advocates of the repeal measure who asked that all bills on the subject of legal wagering be held over for the hearing next week. They admitted that quick action on the bill to run the bookies out of business might weaken their position.

Howard Payne Nudges Out Abilene Christian, 29 To 28

BROWNWOOD, Jan. 28. (AP) — Howard Payne pulled out with a 29 to 28 victory over the scrapping Abilene Christian college quintet here tonight.

The Jackets overcame a 21 to 11 lead the Christians held at half time with a second half scoring flurry. Whitehead, Jacket forward, dropped a field goal in the last few seconds to win. It was the only time the Jackets led.

Gleaton and Reese of the Jackets and Hill of the Christians led the scoring with 10 points each.

Detton And Kopecky In Main Event At Show This Week

That clean-limbed but viciously-turned German athlete, Vic Webber, who challenged and fought Gus Kallio recently for the middleweight wrestling championship of the world, comes back to the local ring this week after a visit home to New York's Bronx.

Webber, a powerful individual who mixes in enough fundamentals of wrestling to make him popular, but who is always cast in the role of villain, reopens his Lubbock campaign in the 30-minute special event of Promoter Sled Allen's regular weekly grappling card. He meets Cyclone Mackey, former Clovis grappler who has appeared here frequently but not recently.

Mackey Still Frisky

Mackey was scheduled to appear on last week's card, but a sudden attack of illness prevented his coming. If he has recovered, he should be able to make a pretty fair match for Webber. Although not as powerful a Webber, Mackey is known for his ability to take punishment, and for his slippery elusiveness. Although a veteran of mat wars, having passed the age at which fighters are considered to be in their prime, Mackey is still fast and smooth, and can "take it" from the roughest of the roughsters.

Mackey and Webber support a main event that will bring Dory Detton, Salt Lake City idol, and Joe Kopecky, of Taylor and Granger, Texas, together once more.

The Detton-Kopecky match is significant in that it probably will mark Detton's final appearance in Lubbock, where he has become extremely popular during the last year, for several months. Dory and Mrs. Detton plan to leave late this week for Denver and Salt Lake City. From there, Detton is booked to wrestle in the states of Washington, Oregon and California, after which he plans a trip to Mexico City. The popular little Mormon, who has been an important factor in building up the professional mat game here, may not wrestle before a local crowd until next fall or winter.

In a previous match, Detton and Kopecky pleased a large following here with an exhibition of exciting grappling. Of different schools of thought and learning, the Utah Mormon and the East Texas cotton-picker have two things in common—strength and elusiveness. Detton fights cleanly, resorting to unorthodox stuff only when pressed by an opponent who features an illegal attack. Kopecky is of the old, rough school, where everything goes and usually does. He gets by with a lot of rough stuff in the headlocks, and thrives on razzberries from the fans.

The preliminary tomorrow night will start at 8 o'clock with Pat Dowdy meeting Dave Luttrell in a one-fall or 20-minute spree.

Cecil Smith Leads Texas Rough Riders To Victory Over English Polo Stars

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26. (AP)—Led by the hard-hitting Cecil Smith, the Texas Rough Riders yesterday won a 12 to 11 polo victory over the Pacific Coast all-stars, composed of English-born players.

Smith, one of the three-nine-goal players in the world, scored seven goals for the Texans, five of them penalty shots. His other goals came from hard-riding and masterful hitting while going at full speed.

Both teams were composed of high goal players, the Texans being ranked at 27 and the coast four at 22.

Eric Tyrell-Martin, seven goal internationalist, led the Stars with five goals.

St. Louis Browns Procure Pair Of Pitchers Who May Help Liven League Chase

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (AP)—A pair of minor league twirlers who between them have rolled up the impressive record of 52 victories against 16 defeats, will blossom out in the livery of the St. Louis Browns this season.

These sharpshooters, whose combined record is better than the 1934 winning percentage of Dizzy Dean and Co., are Fay Thomas, drafted from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league, and Ashley Hillin, from San Antonio of the Texas League. Both are right handers.

Thomas turned in one of the best baseball performances of 1934 with 28 victories and four defeats. Hillin won 24 games and dropped 12.

Between them the celebrated Dean brothers accounted for 49 wins for the Cardinals while losing 18.

The new Brownies didn't collect their victories merely by finishing games, either. Thomas toiled in 26 complete games and Hillin in 24.

Harry Cooper Is Beaten In Fast Windup

Kansas Golfer Overtakes Lead To Win, 3 And 2, In Final Round To Take First Prize Money Of $750

By RUSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—The sub-par golf of Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Kansas City, Kas., defeated Harry Cooper of Chicago 3 and 2 today in the 36-hole finals of San Francisco's open tournament.

The 26-year old Kansan, who joined the tournament procession a year ago and since has developed into one of its brightest stars, claimed top money of $750 to become undisputed leader of the shotmakers now swinging around the "golden trail" of golf.

Third Straight Win

McSpaden ended the match on the 34th with a birdie 3 to chalk up his third major tournament victory within a few weeks. He headed the field in the recent Pasadena and Sacramento opens.

McSpaden held a 2-up lead at the end of the first half of the match, shooting the 18 in 70, two under par.

Cooper came back with a third nine finish that had the 2,000 galleryites applauding. The Chicagoan, one of the most competitive golfers in professional ranks, dropped long chip shots and, approached with deadly accuracy to square the match at the 26th hoel. For the third nine the Chicagoan had a 34, two under par, while McSpaden's temporary faltering game accounted for a 37.

A 30-foot putt that ran true to the cup gave McSpaden a 2-up lead again. He had to shoot an eagle 3 to claim the advantage as Cooper was down in a birdie 4.

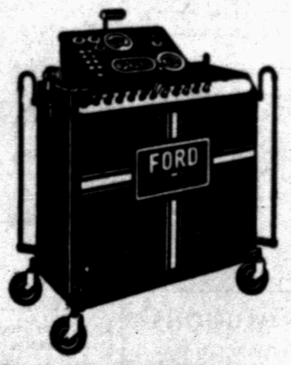

He went 2 up at the 31 by laying Cooper in a partial stymie and halving the next two holes, clinched the match at the 34th with birdie 3, gained from a six-foot putt. Cooper had a par 4.

McSpaden shot the first 18 in 35-35—70 to Cooper's 36-35—73.

Cooper's runner-up status netted him $400.

Germany Not Perturbed Over Rumored European Reaction To Her Arming

Country Mum On Armament

General Knowledge Exists On Vigorous Rearming But None Will Admit Fact; Officials Also Close-Mouthed

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—German military circles declined to become excited today over news that in Geneva and other European centers uneasiness exists because of Germany's attitude toward armaments.

The reichswehr (standing army) was represented to the Associated Press by a well-informed source as feeling:

"We don't believe any government would be so mad as to start war with us over our arms policy."

Details Are Unknown

Of the exact details of this arms policy, no reich official will speak.

Germans pride themselves on their almost brutal frankness, but when it comes to discussing their military affairs, they shut up like clams.

All the world knows what Germany is re-arming vigorously. But you can no more get an admission of this obvious fact than you can get a dyed-in-the-wool nazi to concede that Adolfe Hitler isn't infallible.

Is Political Question

"The question of Germany's armaments is a highly political one, to which Adolf Hitler alone can give the answer," General Werner Von Blomberg, minister of defense, said in an interview.

Adolf Hitler is not likely to break the German official silence.

I confess I don't undertand this reticence. Apparently I am in good company, for no less a statesman than Ex-Premier Stanley G. Baldwin of Great Britain publicly pleaded with Hitler to "raise the veil of secrecy" with reference to Germany's rearmament.

Baldwin, it seems, accepts Germany's rearmement, despite teutonic asservations of the contrary, as a fact, but believes the peace of the world would be better served if the Germans stated right out what their game is.

Sitting On Volcano

Instead, there is rumor mongering both within and without Germany of a kind that is calculated to intensify the feeling that Europe is sitting on a smouldering volcano.

The resident foreign correspondents in Germany for the most part take the position that they are not in Germany to act as military spies.

The longer these correspondents have lived in Germany, however, the wider is their range of acquaintances. Hence, despite themselves, those who have been stationed here for more than a decade, hear all sorts of things that, in the absence of official figures, conjure up in our minds a picture of war-like preparations that is probably much gloomier than reality.

Here's What Happens

This is the sort of thing that happens:

A friend of many years standing, an able engineer, suddenly chucks his job and moves with his family to Muenster, where there is a large reichswehr garrison. He was a major in the old imperial army, and rated as an exceedingly able army engineer.

I didn't embarrass this friend by asking why he's going to Muenster. The answer is altogether too obvious; he rejoined the army.

In the absence of an official statement as to the strength of the rearmed reichswehr, I can scarcely be blamed if I regard such incidents from my immediate acquaintanceship as typical, and if I conjure up the vision of an army of three or four millions instead of the 100,000 permitted by the treaty of Versailles.

Official figures probably would run to only three or four hundred thousand. But official figures are denied me.

Near, Says Dawes

The depression will be whipped by next June, declared Charles G. Dawes, former vice president shown here before the charts he used to emphasize his prediction before the Chicago Association of Commerce. He gave full credit to Roosevelt for paving the way toward recovery.

Where Ambitions Clash In Africa

Along the border between Italian Somaliland and the ancient kingdom of Abyssinia, a series of menacing clashes may lead to serious trouble. Hemmed in by European possessions and ambitions, Ras Tafari, reigning descendant of the Queen of Sheba, strives to keep an independent kingdom. British Egypt depends for life on water from the Blue Nile, rising in Lake Tsana. French interests built the only railway, from the port of Jibuti in French Somaliland to the Abyssinian capital, Addis Abada. Italian coastal colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland are expanding, militarized, and would like to connect across Abyssinia. This makes further military exploits possible.

Institute Pieces Of Art Confusing And Dogs Clamor

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Statues or carpenters, when they "invade" the portals of the Art Institute of Chicago, disturb the serene existence of Prince and Peggy, two police dogs assigned to guard the institute's treasures.

When a piece of sculpture called "The Sun Vow," was installed, Prince and Peggy raised such vociferous objections it was necessary to permit them to smell the statute before they would subside.

Recently a group of carpenters began construction of a small building on the roof and the dogs set up an even greater clamor.

After two days of barking, their keeper decided to use the same method that had succeeded with "The Sun Vow."

The carpenters watched nervously while the dogs prowled around until satisfied the museum was not being looted.

Eighteen Teams Enter Contest And 15 In Poultry Section; One Hundred Twenty Boys In Saturday Show

TULIA, Jan. 28. (Special) — Competing against 18 other Panhandle-Plains high schools, Claude won the poultry trophy and Plainview emerged the victor in the grain division in judging contests sponsored by the Future Farmers chapter of Tulia High school Saturday.

The 19 schools entered 120 boys in the contests. It was the 2nd annual poultry judging contest conducted by the Tulia boys, and the grain contest was the first of its kind to be held by a high school, said D. H. Taylor, vocational agriculture instructor in Tulia High school.

Fifteen Teams Compete

Fifteen teams competed for the poultry trophy, given by the Tulia Chamber of Commerce. Claude outscored McLean 9 points for first place. J. T. Mann of McLean was the high individual, followed closely by Leon Osborne of Claude.

Rankings of the higher teams were:

Claude 1,304; McLean 1,295; Tahoka 1,177; Plainview 1,155; Bovina, 1,152.

Emmitt LaRoe, a Tulia poultry fancier, was the judge.

Victory By 2 Points

A margin of 2 points enabled Plainview to edge out Post for first position in the grain judging division. Interested in a study of the grains of the Plains country, 10 teams competed. Milton Pierce of Plainview was the high individual scorer, with 836 points in a possible 1,000. Clyde Hodges of Post was second, with 821.

The higher team scores were:

Plainview 2,288; Post 2,286; Sudan 2,170; Littlefield 2,167; Friona 2,081.

Judges in the grain division were: W. C. Cowan, E. K. Hulsey, J. W. Miller, D. T. Mayo, Dean Harman, Lloyd Miller, and J. D. Tinsley. After the contest, Mr. Tinsley demonstrated how to judge grains.

Chinese Women Attorneys Are To Aid Masses

PEIPING, Jan. 28. (AP)—Announcing their intention of helping women and poor people who suffer injustice through ignorance of the law, three Chinese women lawyers have set up joint legal offices here and at Tientsin.

They are the Misses Li Teh-yi, Ting Tsung and Ma Chuau, all of whom are graduates of the Chao Yang Law college here. In addition to practicing law the Chinese Portias all will carry on with work they are already doing.

Miss Li will continue to edit a newspaper while Miss Ma is going right on with her teaching. And Miss Ting wouldn't think of quitting her job with the social service department of the Rockefeller-endowed Peiping Union Medical hospital.

Studying Life . . .

PROPER TRAINING is the birthright of every American youth. Without the proper education and development of those faculties which will be necessary to him in later life, he will be seriously handicapped.

Realizing this, the newspaper industry is seeking to give the boys who are associated with it every opportunity for advancement. Through close co-operation with school authorities and by giving their boys special training in the fundamentals of business, they are developing a generation of boys who are above the average in intelligence, self-reliance, dependability and health.

Your carrier boy is one of 588,000 boys who are engaged in the sale and distribution of newspapers—a task that requires less than an hour and a half a day. He is a young merchant, supplementing his school work with a course in practical business training. He is learning the lesson of service, courtesy, punctuality and thrift. Encourage him in his task and respect the ambition and initiative which he has displayed in choosing it.

Your carrier boy buys his papers at wholesale and retails them to you. Failure to pay him promptly every week may mean a loss to him.

Texas Wastes Millions

NOW that Governor Allred has announced a plan to take the pardoning power from the hands of the state's chief executive and place it in the hands of a non-partisan board, it might be well to let the general public take a long range view of the situation as it has held forth in Texas since 1907.

Stuart A. McCorkle, graduate student and former faculty member of the University of Texas, has made a survey of Texas' pardon and parole record which appears in the latest number of the Southwestern Social Science quarterly. Listing only the more important types of clemency toward convicted criminals he has found the following:

Nineteen seven to 1911, Governor Campbell, 783 pardons, one conditional pardon, 329 restorations of citizenship; 1911-15, Acting Governor Watson for Governor Colquitt, 4 pardons, 15 conditional pardons; 1911-15, Acting Governor Mays for Governor Colquitt, 44 pardons, 125 conditional pardons, 8 restorations of citizenship; 1911-15, Colquitt, 403 pardons, 1,172 conditional pardons, 313 restorations of citizenship, 1 parole; 1915 to September, 1917, Acting Governor Hobby for Governor Ferguson, 76 pardons, 11 conditional pardons, 2 restorations of citizenship, 16 paroles, 1 furlough; Acting Governor Johnson during unexpired term of Governor Ferguson and while Hobby was serving, 49 pardons, 26 conditional pardons, 1 restoration of citizenship, 7 paroles, 1 furlough or extension; 1915 to September, 1917, James E. Ferguson, 1,774 pardons, 479 conditional pardons, 149 restorations of citizenship, 28 paroles; 1917 to 1921, Acting Governor Johnson for Governor Hobby, 50 pardons, 19 conditional pardons, 9 restorations of citizenship, 3 paroles, 7 furloughs or extensions; August, 1917, to January, 1921, Hobby, 1,319 pardons, 199 conditional pardons, 176 restorations of citizenship, 280 paroles, 132 furloughs or extensions; 1921-25, Acting Governor Davidson for Governor Neff, 9 pardons, 16 conditional pardons, 15 restorations of citizenship, 7 paroles, 44 furloughs and extensions; 1921-25, Neff, 92 pardons, 107 conditional pardons, 410 restorations of citizenship, 50 paroles, 260 furloughs or extensions; 1925-September, 1926, Miriam A. Ferguson, 384 pardons, 777 conditional pardons, 332 restorations of citizenship, 170 paroles, 587 furloughs and extensions; 1927-31, Moody, no exact data obtained, but preference shown furloughs; 1931-33, Sterling, 32 pardons, 2 conditional pardons, 2,279 paroles, 2,695 furloughs and extensions.

Clemency figures for the last Ferguson administration have not yet been tabulated—that is quite a job in itself—but it is safe to say that they will reach the 1,000 mark. Add the approximate figure of 1,000 to those given above and we find a total of 17,180 acts of clemency in the last 28 years—all granted by governors of Texas.

A veteran criminal lawyer in Lubbock advises The Morning Avalanche that it costs an average of $175 to try a criminal case in the lower courts and without attempting to estimate the cost to the state in the higher courts our mathematics show that the state has spent at least $3,006,500 on clemency since 1907 — and heaven alone knows how much more on top of that! You'll note no effort has been made to compute the expense of operating the pardon board, nor the worth of the time of the governor and his assistants in studying the clemency appeals.

The average citizen may think he has no interest in pardons, paroles and furloughs but he has—and that interest is in his pocketbook.

The facts brought out here should be eye-openers, at least.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

WHEN the United States Supreme court recessed on January 21 until February 4 without handing down a decision on the all-important gold clause case the nation's ultra-ultra jurists and their wives suddenly discovered that over a two-week period they were the most sought-after dinner guests in all Washington.

Far be it, of course, from a hostess to arrange a delightful evening with a Supreme court justice as her honor guest in the hopes some inkling might be forthcoming as to any impending decision. Certainly not! The hostess' husband knows discussion of such matters is taboo.

But from all accounts some of the national capital's smartest winers-and-diners have been hoping against hope that one of the nine able gentlemen in black might possibly drop just one wee hint.

GAFFE: At another festive evening one of the Supreme court justices was talking in the living room with a long-time friend. Standing next to them was another guest and an Englishman just arrived in this country. The latter pair were discussing the gold case animatedly. Finally their very proximity brought the four into joint conversation.

". . . and certainly," said the Englishman, in concluding a summation of his views, "the court would not dare render a decision adverse to the government."

"Tut, tut, young man," admonished the high justice, "don't try to intimidate the court."

Our visiting cousin's embarrassment was acute when his host hastily introduced him.

TIE-UP: Financial wires are full of rumors of another automobile strike next month. Word reaches Washington that financiers who seldom guess wrong are clearing out their motor holdings.

As the story goes, the automotive industry's talk about producing nearly 3,500,000 cars this year is just so much camouflage to permit high-pressure production until the fatal blow falls.

Yet a canvass of men who are well on the inside of the American Federation of Labor fails to produce confirmation of this fear—at least so far as the A. F. of L. is concerned.

Union leaders at headquarters here insist that they do not anticipate any general strike. They point out that when the truce expires in mid-February there may be sporadic walk-outs in individual plants but they look for these to be led by "rank-and-filers," or what A. F. of L. men privately would call reds.

As a matter of fact, the Federation alone can't swing a strike in the auto industry that will have much effect.

If there is a serious walk-out it will be inspired by the tool and die makers, who have a very small and compact independent organization of their own. These are the lads to watch: not the ones in Washington. The tool and die men can tie up production like nobody's business.

SEWED: President Roosevelt knows how he intends spending the $4,800,000,000 work relief money but he is too cagey politically to list everything in black and white. He is working on the assumption that his statisticians, etc., have the right dope but he knows it might not pan out exactly according to Hoyle—in which event the minority opposition could howl effectively about failure of a pre-announced program to function. His previous one didn't hit on all cylinders.

As a result of the "revolt" against the original House gag rule dissenters won a "tremendous victory." Instead of a measly one hour for debate, they were allowed three whole hours on the most important bill in recent history. A committee amendment struck out all casual references to various types of possible work and substituted a paragraph that was far more ambiguous.

But headlines proclaimed that "Revolt Forces Loosening of Gag Rule," which seemingly made everybody happy.

The House is still in the basket.

FEUD: Bro. Ickes is a hog for trouble. He throws out the suggestion that the Interior department should have all conservation agencies — meaning forestry among others. The scrap between Agriculture and Interior over control of forestry has been smouldering for years. It bothered Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Now Ickes drags it out to frazzle FDR. Forester Silcox takes a crack at Ickes and is backed by Secretary Wallace.

Some time ago Wallace hinted that while he was a great admirer of Ickes he would knock him on the head if Ickes should try to take away the Forest service. Now Ickes begins that task.

It all goes up to FDR and unless he smoothes the feathers of his game-cocks another Ballinger-Pinchot feud will develop.

SEEDS: Congress put through the $20,000,000 seed-loan bill in a hurry. Farmers must agree in writing that they will allow the AAA to control their production.

AAA backers are bent upon acquiring full control of all farm production and distribution. A strong Congress bloc is determined that this control shall not be granted.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

DAVID LILIENTHAL—Tennessee Valley authority chief—gave a talk in New York last week that chased cold shivers down conservative spines. He remarked that the average capital structure of a public utility company consists of 50 per cent bonds, 25 per cent preferred stock and 25 per cent common and expressed doubt as to whether there is any substantial equity behind the common shares in many operating companies—because of write-ups.

Insiders spotted a strong hint between the lines that the government will set up a valuation measure for operating properties—to serve either as a rate base or a guide to the price which municipalities should pay to take over existing plants—equal to par for the bonds and something for the preferred but with the common out of luck unless it represents provably unwatered values. This was virtually the formula which TVA used in Knoxville, although its original proposition there was compromised before the deal was concluded.

Such a policy would have sweeping implications. For one thing it would bring drastic rate cuts presumably by federal pressure if state authorities can't or won't act in sections where investments have been notably overvalued.

Beyond that it would be a cagey move to rip the roots out of holding companies. They are the principal owners of operating company common stocks. If they have been optimistic in their accounting such a rate base calculation would smoothly shear away their assets. Talk about a squeeze play!

BARRED: Holding company officials nurse one hope of escaping the oil being boiled for them in Washington. They figure the hue and cry on their trail is getting so hot that Congress may grow incautious in its haste to be in at the death and leave constitutional loopholes in new laws. If so, you can count on utility lawyers to find them. That ancient standby—deprivation of property without due process of law—will be invoked at the least excuse and followed through to the Supreme court.

For instance, legal sharps are confident they could lick the proposed graduated tax on holding companies—rising in proportion to the intricacy of the capital structure—on this defense.

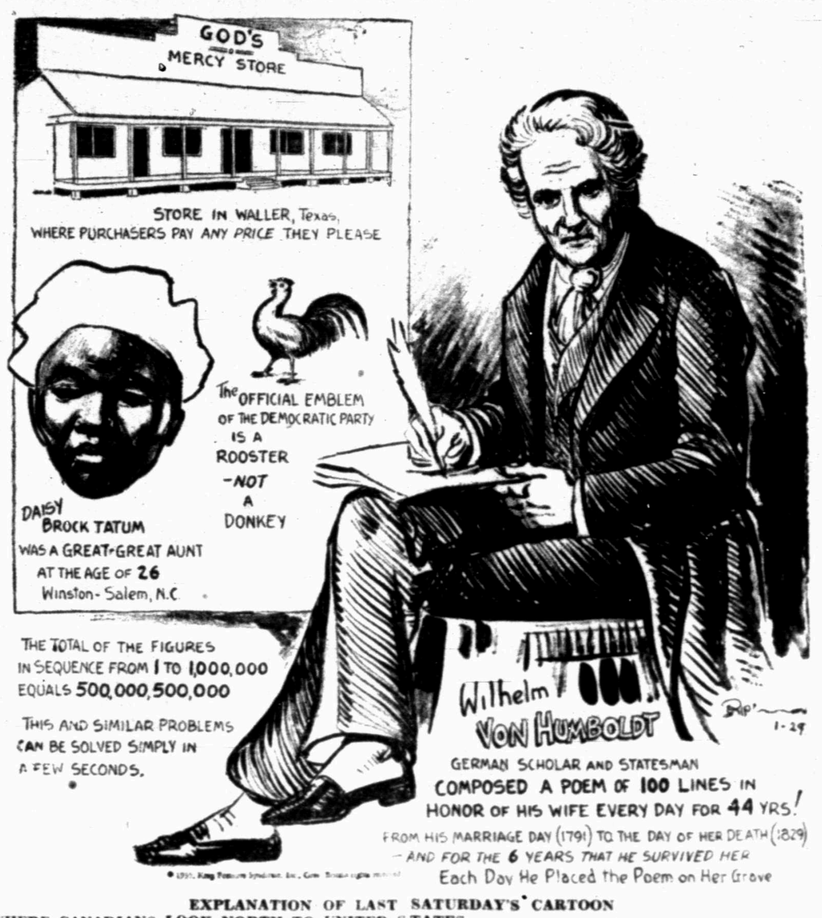

Power people are deeply concerned to know which government agency is to be their boss. Granting that regulation is inevitable, they would much prefer the "rational attitude" of the Securities & Exchange commission to the "punitive spirit" of the Federal Trade commission or Federal Power commission. Their backstage influence will be focused on that objective rather than on the hopeless one of trying to head off all restrictive legislation.

WHERE CANADIANS LOOK NORTH TO UNITED STATES

The Detroit river, flowing from Lake St. Clair to Lake Erie, is the international boundary of the United States and Canada at that point, following a westerly and southerly course between the two lakes. On the south bank of the river is Windsor, Canada, whose citizens must look north across the river to the suburbs of Detroit to see the United States. There are a few other curious crooks of the boundary that would make this condition possible, but none where a large Canadian city is directly south of the line. However more than half the people of Canada live south of the United States because the northernmost boundary is latitude 49 degrees and the great majority of Canadians live south of that line.

Madigan's aversion to drink was caused during his childhood when he witnessed the pathetic spectacle of too much drink.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench has been acquitted of the murder of John Osborne, has almost been murdered himself, and has joined forces with a perfectly strange girl named Molly O'Brien, all within 18 hours. For it develops that Osborne had stolen a formula worth millions, and that it belongs to Molly, and that the men who set upon Nicholas also want to find the formula. Now Nicholas' friend, Jerry Mordaunt, has arrived and been presented to Molly.

CHAPTER 15
NICK'S STORY

With that delightful half grave, half mischievous smile of hers, Molly rose from her chair. "I am glad to meet you," she said simply. "I know you must be very nice or Nick wouldn't be so fond of you."

Jerry achieved a highly creditable bow, and then straightening himself, looked at her admiringly.

"You'll forgive my being a bit dazed," he remarked, "but you see I wasn't exactly expecting a party."

"Molly's not a party," I explained: "she's more in the nature of an accident." I pulled up a chair. "Sit down, Jerry," I added. "You're going to listen to the most amazing yarn you've ever heard, but that's no reason why you shouldn't be comfortable."

"The difficulty," I added, looking from one to the other of them, "is that I'm hanged if I know where to begin."

"I want to hear as much as I can." Jerry thrust his hands into his pockets and stretched out his long legs. "At present all I know is what I saw in the papers last night and this morning. I've read the judge's summing up, but outside of that I'm absolutely in the dark about the whole business. You start right at the beginning and tell me everything."

I reflected for a moment. "The beginning," I said, "was when I ran into Osborne in Villiers Street. It was late one night, about a week after you'd gone away, and I'd been dining with a pal of mine at the Savage Club. On my way to Charing Cross I saw a chap standing under a lamp-post lighting a cigaret, I thought his face was familiar and when I got up close I recognized him at once. Except for looking a little older he hadn't altered in the least. You remember what he was like—a tall thin bird with a tight mouth and very black eyes."

Jerry nodded. "I remember him perfectly. Bit of a dab in the stinks line, wasn't he—always messing about with test-tubes and Bunsen burners?"

"That's the man," I said. "We were never particular pals, but I used to play him at golf sometimes, and you know how it is when you come across anyone you were in school with. Of course I stopped to have a chat, and in the end we went along together by the same train as far as Tottenham Court Road.

"He didn't talk much about himself. Said he'd been out in the States for some years and was back here on a holiday. He asked me if I kept up with any of the old crowd, and I told him I saw a good deal of you and that we did a bit of sailing together in the summer.

"When we said good-bye, I gave him my address and invited him to look me up. I heard nothing more of him for three or four days; then one afternoon he sent me a note from some house in Holland Park asking me if I'd come around and see him that evening.

"I wasn't keen about it, but having nothing special to do I thought I might as well go. Well, after I'd had some grub I walked across the Park as far as Portland Road. It came on to rain then, so I took a taxi. I must have got to his place just about nine o'clock. It was a small house with a front garden to it, and when I rang the bell he opened the door himself. I could see at once that he was as jumpy as a cat."

"How do you mean?" asked Jerry.

"All on edge," I explained, "keeping himself in—like a man who's frightened and doesn't want to show it. He took me along to his study and gave me a drink, and for some time we sat there talking about old days, and the fellows we used to know and all that kind of thing.

"Then at the last he came to the point. He told me that he was anxious to buy a boat, and as I knew a little about sailing, he thought that perhaps I wouldn't mind giving him my help and advice. Of course, the first question I asked him was what kind of a boat he was looking for.

"He said he wanted one in which it would be safe to cross the Channel, and one which, at the same time, two men could handle more or less comfortably. Something about twelve or fourteen tons, with an auxiliary engine. Now, as it happened, I knew that there was a yawl

Lubbock Chosen As Headquarters

The newly-organized district food and grocery code authority will establish headquarters in Lubbock, it was decided here Sunday.

Four of the five members of the authority met at 11 a. m. and continued discussion into the afternoon at Lubbock hotel. Roy Furr, chairman, presided.

W. A. Halamicek, vice chairman, of San Angelo; R. L. McSpadden of Amarillo, and Olen Stewart were the other members present.

They appointed J. H. Brock of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce as executive secretary of the district code authority.

Lubbock, Amarillo, Abilene, and San Angelo have local food and grocery code authorities.

In furthering reorganization plans, it was anticipated that each of the 28 other towns of 2,500 or more population in the district, composed of 72 counties, should have a local control group, corresponding to a local authority, to supervise its immediate territory, Brock said.

The largest bell in the world is that known as the Great Bell of Moscow, which weighs 220 tons.

MORE EGGS

BETTER CHICKS....

If you wish to raise strong, vigorous, healthy chicks that grow into heavy laying pullets, choose eggs or chicks from an Economy Fed Flock.

Economy Fed Birds produce eggs of greater fertility and hatchability. Chicks from such flocks live better and grow faster.

The reason for greater production, better hatchability and chick growth lies in the fact that Economy "Double Duty" Feeds contain essential minerals, fish meal, soybean meal and vitamin D oil not usually found in any other poultry feeds.

For both profit and satisfaction choose Eggs or Chicks from Economy Fed flocks.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION, No. 32

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Through a long, winding corridor Tarzan followed his mysterious guide. Down flights of age-old steps, through dim passages they groped their way, opening doors that creaked and groaned on rusty hinges. How far they travelled thus the ape-man could not guess. He recalled Jane's prophecy of the evils he might expect to befall him if he persisted in this third trip to Opar. Was she right? Did some guardian demon hang over this accursed city to protect its forgotten treasure vaults?

Now from the underground passages they ascended a flight of stairs and emerged into the center of a clump of bushes. Gratefully Tarzan breathed fresh air and saw more clearly by the light of a pale moon. Still on without pausing, the woman led the way silently through a heavy forest, along a trail leading always upward. Guided by the stars, Tarzan knew he was in the mountains that lie beyond Opar, a region so rough and hazardous that even the courageous ape-man had never visited it.

Himself given to a few words, his guide's continued silence made no particular impression upon Tarzan. Those who travel far and fast have no breath to waste in conversation unless there is good reason for speaking. The eastern stars were fading at the first hint of coming dawn as the two scrambled up a steep cliff high above a valley. Day broke and far below was visible a building that glistened and sparkled and scintillated in the light of the new day.

Then Tarzan looked at his companion, who, without warning, lifted her veil. Standing before him was LA, the High Priestess of Opar! "YOU!" he exclaimed in consternation. "Now, indeed, will Cadj have the excuse he sought to put you out of the way!" "THAT he will never have," replied LA, "for I shall never return to Opar!" "NEVER RETURN?" Tarzan exclaimed, "then where are you going?" "With you," she replied, "I do not ask that you love me. Only take me with you."

Legislature

were called on proposals that Texas ratify the child labor amendment to the federal constitution and that horse race betting "bookies" be legislated out of existence.

Senator Hopkins delivered a stirring speech against foreign entanglements, insisting the world court was "an arm of the League of Nations" and that the United States would "be at the mercy of the League of Nations on what questions would be submitted to this court."

Long-Distance Adjudication

"It is an iniquitous movement, one fraught with evils and dangers extending to generations to come," Senator Hopkins said, urging that the United States "not submit its problems to adjudication by foreign nations' representatives 4,000 miles away."

A resolution by Representative R. W. Calvert of Hillsboro, directing the rules committee to adopt procedure under which action on senate bills, except for emergency matters submitted by the governor, would be banned, was adopted unanimously.

Calvert charged that senate rules limiting the first 40 days to disposal of emergency legislation would seriously delay house bills.

Senator E. M. Davis, of Brownwood, came forward with another anti-lobbying measure. His bill called for resignation of lobbyists, filing descriptions of legislation in which lobbyists were interested, prohibiting influence of legislators by offering or withholding appointments or positions, imposition of fines or penitentiary sentences for violations.

Other bills introduced would:

Allot 35 per cent of the gasoline tax to retire county and district bonds voted to finance state highway construction. One-fourth of the tax now goes to that end.

Immediate Death Assessment

Permit immediate assessment of death penalties and transfer of condemned prisoner to the penitentiary.

Levy an annual state tax of $50 and a county tax of $75 on loan brokers.

Require taxing sub-divisions to file with state depository board a report of bonded indebtedness.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FRANK MacMILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (AP)—Securities and commodity markets staged a desultory reaction today. Rail bonds and stocks were soggy features, but the softness was not confined to any single group in the share list.

Wheat ended 1 to 1 5-8 cents a bushel lower, corn lost 1 5-8 to 2 cents, and cotton dipped 45 to 55 cents a bale. Utility and industrial bonds about held their own in the face of offerings in rails, while federal loans were narrowly irregular.

The market showed more disposition to look askance at the generally unfavorable tenor of December rail earnings, many of which were made public during the day, than to be heartened by a further rise in steel operations to 52.5 per cent of capacity from 49.5 per cent in the previous week, as measured by the compilation of the American Iron & Steel Institute.

Stock turnover totaled only 695,710 shares, and the Associated Press average at 38.50. In early dealings foreign exchanges were weak against the dollar, but a rally around midday left most currencies moderately higher than Saturday's closing levels.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28. (AP)—The cotton market was considerably more active today but prices were easier owing to much lower cables than due, weakness in sterling, some hedge selling and long liquidation based on bears of the supreme court's decision in the gold case.

There was a rally of 3 to 6 points near the close on short covering and the market finished steady with prices showing net declines for the day of 9-11 points.

March closed at 12.37 and May at 12.41, down ten points net for the day, July closed at 12.43, down 9 points net and Oct. at 12.33, down 11 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow unchanged to 1 penny point up.

Port receipts 8,271, for week 13,939, for season 3,704,256, last season 6,124,102. Exports 5,592, for week 10,511, for season 2,780,271, last season 4,793,263. Port stock 2,919,201, last year 3,819,263. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 116,979, last year 168,353. Spot sales at southern markets 7,759, last year 9,689.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (AP)—Moderate decline in cotton today was attributed to liquidation and foreign selling prompted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and the early weakness of foreign exchange.

Offerings were absorbed by scale down buying from the trade. The market closed steady at net declines of 9-11 points.

During the forenoon the market worked off 15-16 points on the active positions, but these levels inspired enough trade buying to cause a small rally.

Exports today 5,592 making 2,899,045 so far this season. Port receipts 8,271 U. S. port stocks 2,920,802.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28. (AP)—Receipts of around 67,000 cattle at 11 markets compares with 41,408 last Monday and 51,570 the same day a year ago. Although total numbers appear excessive the run at several primary markets was composed of stocker and feeder classes and the actual supply of beef was not burdensome. The better grades of slaughter steers and yearlings were taken at last week's level but the plainer kinds ruled weak to 25 lower. Weak to 25 lower rates were paid for cows. Other she stock brought steady prices as good beef cows at Chicago. In the fact of fairly liberal supplies cattle returning to the country sold readily at strong to 25 higher figures. Last week's $13.00 top was equalled today at Chicago while choice heifers reached 11.00. Stockers and feeders at river markets ranged from $5.00 to $7.00, some choice yearlings and stock calves making 7.50 at Omaha.

The hog run was considerably larger than on last Monday but sharply under figures for the corresponding day a year ago. Trade was largely 10-25 under Friday's quotations with weights above 200 lbs showing the least decline, the circuit's best price was 7.95 at St. Louis.

A loss of 15-25 on fat lambs was reported from river points. At Chicago the market was not established at a late hour with indications at least 25 off. Sheep and feeding lambs were weak with instances 25 off on feeders. A few choice lambs went to St. Louis city butchers at 9.25-50.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 28. (AP)—Hogs 1,600, including 826 directs; truck hogs mostly ten lower; top 7.80; paid by truckers for most choice 185-280 lb. truck lots; pigs mostly 3.50-4.00; packing sows steady 7.00-25.

Cattle 2,300 commercial; 500 government; calves 2,000 commercial, 100 government. General trend all classes slaughter cattle weak to lower; trade slow, weighty steers scarce; slaughter yearlings around 25 lower; fat cows and butcher grades 15-25 lower; stocker trade poorly tested; slaughter calves 25-50 lower. Desirable grassers in 5.25-50 spread; some good fed yearlings up to 8.55 but better grades scarce, fat cows 4.00-25.

Sheep 800; fat and feeder lambs mostly 25 lower aged wethers weak; yearlings scarce; wooled fat lambs 7.75; short aged fat wethers 4.50; feeder lambs mostly 5.50 to 5.75.

LOS ANGELES REPORT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28. (AP)—Hogs 25; 10-15 lower; few 202 lb locals 7.75; few packing sows 6.50.

Cattle 1,700, light receipts lacking in quality, strong to 25 higher, spots up more; few light steers 8.25-50; strictly good quotable above 9.00; plainer steers 6.00 down; few heifers 7.75; cows 4.75 to 6.15.

Calves 500; few sales strong to slightly higher; odd vealers to 9.40; common to near good calves 5.25-6.75.

poisoning at the hands of their wives who sought to gain possession of marital property or to secure other husbands.

During the trial the body of another man was ordered exhumed, bringing to 17 the number of bodies spread out in court for state's evidence, together with phials of poison and dissected human organs.

Mrs. John Nagy was dressed in widow's weeds, as were some of the others.

"I have received no pleasure from my widowhood," said Mrs. Nagy, "so why should I have murdered my husband?"

She pleaded tearfully in a feeble voice that she was innocent of killing her husband or any of the four others she was accused of poisoning, although police said she previously had admitted guilt.

"I was only an innocent dealer in harmless herbs," she declared. The courtroom was filled with laughter, and the judge himself smiled. The prosecution had accused the woman of having administered enough poison to kill several elephants.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. (AP)—Violent disturbance of foreign exchange, together with tension over gold clause dilemmas, did much to smash wheat and corn prices down about two cents today.

Many stop loss selling orders were forced into execution, and confidence of grain holders received a further jolt from the fact that the Winnipeg wheat market tumbled to the lowest officially permissable minimum. Late rallies overcame part of the losses here, but not until after corn had fallen to a bottom unmatched since Nov. 15 last.

Wheat closed nervous, 1 cent to 5-8 under Saturday's finish, May 95 5-8 to 3-4, corn 1 5-8 to 2 cents down, May 83 to 83 1-8, oats 7 7-8 to 1 3-8 off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 22 cents.

Corn traders took particular notice of Argentine reports of a prospective bumper corn crop and of talk of likelihood of heavy imports of feed wheat from Canada. Oats and rye reflected weakness of corn and wheat.

Provisions had a downward slant owing largely to action of hog values and of grains.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 28. (AP)—Demand for grain was slightly better at Fort Worth as the new week started. Estimated receipts for the two-day period: Wheat 13 cars; corn 24. Prices quoted:

that his plans and ideas will be ultimately carried out.

"He was more than an engineer. He was a good citizen and intensely loyal to his city and the interests of this division. His vision of modern transportation was as wide as the horizon of these beautiful plains and I feel that Lubbock and the South Plains has lost one of its most outstanding builders. Certainly the department has lost one of the ablest engineers ever connected with it.

"He was the pioneer of road building of this section just like the old cattlemen were the pioneers. He saw the vision of the future and just what it meant to this section and set out to bring it about.

"These good roads you already have and those he planned are his monument."

Judge Ely came to Lubbock in company with W. A. French, division engineer of the Abilene district, and Chas. Henning and Mark Womack of the Womack-Henning construction company. They returned to Abilene last night.

it quiet."

Questioned by U. S. District Attorney S. S. Alexander, Mrs. Gates said Mrs. Shepard was a hard worker in her home, arose early to do her shopping, kept her house clean, and sewed. Objection to the statement was overruled.

Shepard "Victim" Of Woman

Major Shepard was painted before the eyes of his third wife as a wife poisoner and as an innocent victim of two women—one a drunkard and the other a "gold digger"—as he went on trial for the second time.

Judge Neblett hurried through the selection of a jury in two hours, severely rebuking defense attorneys for being eight minutes late after the noon recess, and ruled the prosecution would be limited in presenting evidence concerning Shepard's now dead romance with Miss Brandon.

Born In Arkansas

Mr. Johnston, who would have been highway engineer in Lubbock for five years had he lived until Friday, was born in Mariana, Ark., Jan. 30, 1886. In 1915 he enlisted in the United States army engineering corps and went to the Philippines, where he was in charge of concrete fortifications for more than three years. Returning to the states, he was sent by the army engineering corps to Washington, D. C., where he was an instructor in surveying and drafting.

In 1919, lured by the oil boom in the vicinity of Fort Worth, he set up private offices in Desdemona, where he laid lease lines and locations incidental to the drilling in that area. In January, 1920, he joined the state highway department with headquarters in Fort Worth, where an important hardsurfacing project was under way. Hill county, with another hardsurfacing project, called him in 1923 and in 1924 he was appointed resident engineer for Young, Archer and Jack counties, with headquarters in Graham. While located in Graham he planned and completed one of the most important hardsurfacing projects in the history of Texas.

Came Here In 1930

Mr. Johnston's fine record in the Graham area caused his removal to Lubbock on February 1, 1930, when this section was considered the "hot spot" of Texas highway matters. He had been here from that time on until his death.

For the first six months of his residence in Lubbock, Mr. Johnston was in charge of the hardsurfacing program here. After that he was placed in charge of construction supervision in 38 North and South Plains counties, embracing Divisions 4 and 5, but the size of the territory embraced caused the highway department's administration forces to place him in direct charge of maintenance and construction in the Lubbock sector, alone. He filled that place until his death.

Counties in Mr. Johnston's Division 5 include:

Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Terry, Yoakum, Lynn, Garza, Gaines, Dawson and Andrews.

Superintended All Paving

His division includes a total of 1,050.6 miles of highway maintenance; during his tenure of office he superintended all the paving in the division, consisting of 273.46 miles; under construction, 139.4 miles, with grading and drainage structures totaling 462.5 miles.

Mr. Johnston was known as a disciple of good roads and was particularly interested in completing his division's far flung paving program. Unlike many a state employe, he considered his place of residence as his permanent home and lent his aid to the upbuilding of it, whether highways or some other angle of progress.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Tuttle Johnston, and three children; they are: Marjory, 15, a student in Lubbock Senior High school; Guy Robert, jr., 13, in junior high; and Charlotte, 9, in Dupre ward school; his mother, Mrs. Sally B. Johnston, Fort Worth; two brothers, Jess and W. Alston, both of Fort Worth, and one sister, Mrs. L. W. Case, of Duluth, Minn.

Mrs. Case was the only member of the immediate family unable to be in Lubbock for funeral rites.

Young Denman said he was driving the automobile, a sedan owned by Mrs. Carlisle. It collided with a coupe, parked, Denman said, on the pavement after its gasoline supply had been exhausted. The sun blinded the driver, he said.

W. O. McCullough, 3617 Twenty-first street, owned the coupe. He was returning to the car with gasoline and was nearby when the crash occurred. The sedan virtually was demolished. No one was in the coupe.

Misses Anderson and Fry reside in the woman's dormitory at the college. Miss Anderson's father was en route here.

weeks, the prisoner said, because they were "wet." And he didn't tell his wife, Anna, about the "find," he admitted.

He denied he rushed into the street from a restaurant when he heard a radio report that the body of Baby Lindbergh had been found in a New Jersey thicket.

Hauptmann fought stubbornly as Wilentz sought to show that his own misspelling was like that of the 14 ransom notes, and when the attorney general hinted he might have planned the kidnaping when the baby was born.

Didn't Know Child Born

"I didn't even know the Lindbergh child was born," he said.

Once he smiled in painful transitory triumph when Wilentz asked him to spell, "signature," one of the key words of the ransom notes, spelled "singature," and he spelled it correctly.

The atmosphere of the old courtroom was plainly antipathetic to the pale German carpenter, but he seemed in nowise aware of the undercurrent of hostility and the palpable circus effects injected by visiting celebrities and out-of-towners, gay, tittering—the women in mink coats, the men a wise-cracking lot.

Confession Seems Near

There were times when he seemed on the brink of an admission that would settle definitely the question of his guilt in the minds of the eight men and four women jurors who sat through the long day, listening tensely.

When court adjourned he still was on the stand, and he will return tomorrow for perhaps another half day of examination.

Wilentz, dark, sleek, cocksure, had started his questioning today with the avowed determination of "breaking" Hauptmann. There were moments, indeed, when his prediction seemed about to come true, but Hauptmann, though weakened, clung desperately to his story.

Wilentz Quiz Sharp

Again and again Wilentz, manifestly impatient, called on Hauptmann to "Tell the truth." At a point when it seemed to everybody that Wilentz had victory in his hands he lost the opportunity.

Hauptmann appeared to be weakening. He had admitted he lied to District Attorney Foley last Sept. 19 about the notation of Dr. Condon's address and telephone number on a piece of trimming in the Hauptmann closet.

"This is funny to you, isn't it? You are having a lot of—," Wilentz began.

Smiles Criticized

"No, absolutely not," Hauptmann replied.

"You are having a lot of fun with me, aren't you?" the prosecutor demanded.

"No."

"Well," Wilentz said, "you are doing very well, you are smiling at me every five minutes."

"No," Hauptmann protested.

Q. You think you are a big shot, don't you?

A. No. Should I cry?

"I Feel Innocent"

Q. No, certainly you shouldn't. You think you are bigger than everybody, don't you? A. No. But I know I am innocent.

Wilentz suggested that Hauptmann had a lot of will power.

"I feel innocent and I am innocent and that keeps me the power to stand up," he said.

"Lying when you swear to God that you will tell the truth," said Wilentz passionately. "Telling lies doesn't mean anything."

"Stop that!" shouted Hauptmann.

"Didn't you swear to untruths in the Bronx courthouse?" demanded Wilentz.

"Stop That" Commanded

"Stop that!" Hauptmann repeated.

"Didn't you swear to untruths in the courthouse? Didn't you lie under oath time and time again? Didn't you?"

"I did not."

Hauptmann then admitted he had lied when arrested and questioned about a $20 ransom bill in his wallet.

"Yes," cried Wilentz. "Lies, lies, lies, about Lindbergh ransom money, isn't that right?"

"You Lied, Too"

"Well," Hauptmann retorted, "you lied to me, too."

"Yes—when and where?"

"Right in the courtroom here."

On another occasion he admitted he had lied—when he wrote to the family of Fisch, his dead German friend and former partner, saying that Fisch owed him $5,500.

Eighteen Ask Applications

Two Members Of State Plant, Seed Board At Texas Tech Monday; Acreage Increase Over 1934 Found

Eighteen applications for licenses to produce certified grain sorghum seed were heard by two members of the state plant and seed board in the administration building of Texas Technological college Monday. Only 14 licenses were applied for in this section in 1934.

Land on which to produce the certified grain specified in the applications for licenses Monday totals about 2,000 acres, according to R. V. Miller, secretary of the board. This is a substantial increase of acreage for which applications were made in this section last year.

Talk Results

Dr. E. P. Humbert is chairman of the board, which meets in Lubbock several times each year. In the Monday meeting, G. L. Beene, state seed analyst with headquarters at Texas Technological college, the only branch office of the board, talked on "Grain Sorghums" and compared certified seed with average seed.

South Plains state certified seed growers conducted a meeting, in which they discussed problems of seed growers, after hearings of applications were concluded. Licenses will be granted in from 30 to 60 days, Mr. Miller said.

Irrigation Meet

at the morning session and W. W. Evans, Hale county agent, during the afternoon.

Featured were talks by three pioneer irrigation leaders of the area: Col. R. P. Smyth, former Plainview mayor, who put down the first well in Hale county; D. L. McDonald, water engineer of Amarillo, who put down the first well in Hereford, and I. D. Tinsley, Amarillo, general agricultural agent of the Santa Fe, who aided in developing irrigation in New Mexico while with the state agricultural college there and later with the Santa Fe in starting early work on the South Plains.

Old Theories Told

Discussions considered mechanics of irrigation. Col. Smyth, who came to Hale county in the late 80s and who was interested in the first irrigation well, spoke about the many rumors and ideas of early people as to the source of water. Most of their theories, he added, were exploded by actual investigations.

Captain Winfield Holbrook, general manager of the Texas Land and Development company, perhaps the best informed man on the South Plains regarding irrigation, in a carefully prepared paper, gave costs. These figures were taken from T. L. D. records of farms in Hale, Floyd and Swisher counties.

From a 140-acre farm under irrigation, he gave records of acre feet used for cotton, alfalfa, row crops and small grains in both wet and dry years. Water needed ranged from 313 acre feet in a dry year to 159 in a wet year, he said.

Costs included: Well and casing, $1,200; pump and setting, $1,300; engine and setting, $1,700; pump house, $200; total $4,400. Charges included: Interest, $220, depreciation, $154; insurance, $24, total $398 for overhead; 1,282 hours for irrigation of land; fuel cost, $256; lubricating oil, $80; supplies, $7.60; repairs, $150; labor, $256; total, $750; labor of watering, $282; grand total, $1,430.

Unit costs were: $4.87 for pumping water, $1.20 for spreading water, total $6.07 per acre foot of water used; per 1,000 gallons of water, pumping, $1.41; spreading, 37 cents, total $1.78.

Acre costs for irrigating crops were: Alfalfa, $16.44; row crops, $5.16; cotton, $6.19; small grains, $5.01.

J. D. Tinsley offered a criticism of most owners of irrigation wells, who failed to use them properly, was that "the tendency is to say 'well, it rained last spring, so I'm not going to start my plant, as it's going to rain'." He added that many waited to irrigate until too late.

This area, he added, apparently had from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 acres capable of irrigation.

A. H. Dunlap, Austin, a member of the state board of water engineers, explained that the state legislature had "invested the state board with the control of water above and under ground." This law has not been tested in the courts, he added.

The state board had planned a survey of the Panhandle-Plains water area, but the legislature two years ago cut off the appropriation. He urged that legislators be contracted to restore this appropriation. The federal government will cooperate by duplicating the amount.

Tech Instructor Speaks

Eugene Buie, instructor of irrigation work at Texas Technological college, in a lengthy paper gave a summary of costs, based on a survey made of several types of engines and pumps.

Vocational agriculture students of J. R. Hewitt gave a demonstration of a geological survey of the area.

Tuesday's program will cover other phases of irrigation. Several well known speakers will be on the program.

House Refuses Hughes Action

Communication Establishes That Passage Would Make For Endangering Financing Of Texas PWA Project

AUSTIN, Jan. 28. (AP)—The Texas house today refused to act on a bill to prohibit payment of a promotional fee in acquisition by a public authority of an unfinished Insull hydro-electric project in the Colorado river and returned the bill to committee for public hearing.

The action was taken after bitter debate.

Representative Sarah Hughes of Dallas, author of the bill, said the bill was designed to prevent R. W. Morrison, San Antonio utilities operator from making a huge commission through transfer of the uncompleted Buchanan dam to the public agency for construction with a public works administration loan.

Commission Reported

Mrs. Hughes contended that under a contract with a federal receiver for the Insull property Morrison would receive 51 per cent of the purchase price paid by the state authority for the site as commission for aiding in obtaining PWA finances for the project.

Representative Harry N. Graves of Georgetown sharply challenged Mrs. Hughes' statements.

Graves read a communication from James P. Buchanan, chairman of the appropriations committee in the National house, stating passage of Mrs. Hughes' bill would endanger the PWA loan and that investigation of charges made by members of the Texas legislature revealed they were groundless.

Dagley-Piloted Ship Winner Of Treasure Flight

M. F. Dagley, pilot, and Clarence Kelley, co-pilot, won a treasure hunt contest for airplane pilots Sunday.

Six Lubbock airplanes made the four-leg flight. The winners were in a Cirrus Great Lakes Trainer ship.

All the pilots were from Lubbock.

Control Points Set

They were in the air by 2 p. m. and had returned to municipal airport by about 3:30 p. m. Control points were the Spade ranch, Levelland, and Littlefield, and the first plane landing at each was declared winner of that leg. The fourth leg was the return hop from Littlefield to Lubbock.

Any licensed aircraft was eligible by abiding by department of commerce regulations.

Clues were not given until the ships were rolled into line, facing the wind.

Other planes in the order they finished were:

2. A J6-5 Waco piloted by William D. Green, who had Mrs. Ann Growth and E. C. Pounds as passengers.

3. A Waco C piloted by W. C. Breedlove, airport manager, who had J. P. Giles, Joe Brewer, and David Butler as passengers.

4. A Siemens-Halske Spartan piloted by A. L. Chase, with Miss Flo Burkholder and H. G. Urguette as passengers.

5. An OX Travelair piloted by A. F. Holt, with Charley Stahler and Cody Carroll as passengers.

6. A Szekley Buhl Bull Pup, a one seater, with J. H. York as pilot.

Allred Orders Clemency For First Time Since Inaugural

AUSTIN, Jan. 28. (AP)—James V. Allred issued his first act of clemency today, 13 days after he became governor. He granted a 90-day furlough to Porter Emerson, sentenced to seven years imprisonment from Falls county on conviction of murder in September 1932. Emerson, a World war veteran, requested the furlough that he might undergo an operation in one of the veterans hospitals. The state pardon board recommended that clemency be extended.

of exactly that type for sale at Brightlingsea. The price was three hundred and fifty, and for a man who could afford it she was well worth the money.

"I gave him the particulars, and then he asked me as a great favor whether I'd go down there myself, fix the thing up straight away, and find him a paid hand who would sign on for a trip to the other side.

"It struck me as an odd sort of request to make and I began to wonder whether he'd been doing something fishy, and wanted to sneak off out of the country. However, that wasn't exactly my business. After all there's nothing illegal in buying a yacht for a man, and he seemed to be in such a state of nerves and so desperately anxious for me to say yes, that in the end like a fool, I agreed to act for him.

"He lugged out five hundred pounds there and then. Of course, I didn't want the responsibility of carting about all that money, but he absolutely insisted on my taking it. He said that I should be able to put the deal through much quicker if I paid in cash, and that after I'd deducted my own expense I could send him back the rest.

"Well, that was that, so to speak. I came back here, and next morning I took the first train down to Brightlingsea. The owner of the yawl was a very decent fellow; he let me examine her thoroughly and I could see that she was in first-class condition. I made him an offer of three hundred, and after a bit of arguing we closed the deal at three twenty-five.

"I'd just got out the money to pay him—we were in the local pub at the time splitting a half bottle—when the door opened and the police walked in and arrested me. I was so staggered I never even drank my fizz.

"It must have been a bit of a shock," said Jerry. "Still there's no excuse for such carelessness as that." He began rummaging in his side pocket for a pipe.

"How had they got on to you so quick?"

"It all came out at the trial." I explained. "They'd found my name and address on Osborne's blotting pad; that note he'd sent me must have been the last thing he'd written, and then the taxi man who'd picked me up came forward at once and identified me by my photograph.

"Of course, they'd no real evidence against me up till then; what did the trick were those infernal notes. Osborne had drawn them out of the bank that morning, and there I was with the whole packet actually in my hand."

"But hang it all, you'd a perfectly good explanation!"

"It didn't seem to cut any ice with the magistrate or the coroner's jury," I observed bitterly. "Old Cresswell did his best but he couldn't even get me out on bail. I was flung into a dungeon cell for three weeks, and then hauled out last Monday and charged with being a bloody-minded assassin."

Jerry began to laugh. "Sorry to appear unsympathetic, but somehow or other the whole thing seems so deucedly funny. Why one's only got to look at you to see that you're the most good-natured chump in Europe."

"Thank you, Jerry," I said. "Unfortunately the British law isn't run on those sound psychological lines. As a matter of fact, they put up quite a good case against me. Suggested that my story was all bunk—that I'd had a row with Osborne, bashed him on the head and then pinched the money out of his safe. I tell you, it was touch and go at one time. If Barrett hadn't made such a corking fine speech I believe the idiots would have hanged me."

Mrs. Roosevelt Makes Address

Senators Urged In Talk Made Over Radio To Lend Support To United States Entering Of World Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt stood with her husband today in the drive to put the United States into the World court.

With a vote in the senate expected early this week, the First Lady appealed to a radio audience last night to urge senators to vote for adherence "if you want to see the influence of your country on the side of peace."

Address Broadcast

She spoke over a national broadcasting company network within a short time of an address by another Democrat, Senator Reynolds of North Carolina, who denounced the tribunal as "nothing but a court of babble, ballyhoo and bunk, a court of intrigue."

Reynolds differed from senate court advocates, who predicted adherence by a close vote. He said the measure would be beaten by two votes.

A decision is expected by tomorrow night. One hour after the senate met today, an agreement to limit debate was to become effective. Seven amendments remained to be voted on, but administration leaders predicted all would lose.

Texas Groins Report Asked

National House Committee To Ask Army Engineers To Go Over Galveston Request For Seawall Protection

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. (AP)—The house rivers and harbors committee today adopted a resolution asking the army chief of engineers to review a previous report on construction of groins at Galveston, for seawall protection and make a specific recommendation for financing the project.

The first report of the engineer contained the recommendation of the beach erosion board for a system of groins to cost $234,000 but the matter of financing was not mentioned.

Asked 100 Per Cent Grant

Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex) said the committee at first considered referring that report back to the engineers but hesitated when doubt arose over the legal authority for such a move.

Galveston has asked the public works administration for a 100 per cent grant but Secretary Ickes expressed the opinion the project was a municipal improvement and therefore was eligible for only a 30 per cent grant. The Galveston project involves not only protection of its seawall but also protection of fortifications and other government property.

Military Training Is Not Compulsory

Neither Texas Technological college board of directors nor the president has considered making military training compulsory at Texas Technological college, Dr. Bradford Knapp said yesterday.

Doctor Knapp said a report had been circulated at Tech that the training would be made compulsory.

Unless an R. O. T. C. unit should be established at Lubbock or some other such occurrence should prompt consideration of the subject, he does not anticipate it's being brought up in board meetings.

At present, men students of the college have a choice of physical training or military training.

DECATUR, Jan. 28. (AP)—C. E. Anderson of Fort Worth went on trial here today for the alleged slaying of U. E. Byers, World war veteran who died of gunshot wounds last July 8, at a Lake Bridgeport fishing camp.

Edgar Anderson, son of the defendant, had been charged in the same case but the grand jury did not indict him.
