Season Games

Wellington and Cordell are running a tuck race for first place in the O-T league. Up until day the two teams were even, having won five and lost three apiece. Elk City is third with four wins and four losses, and is bringing up the rear with a standing of 2 wins and 6 losses. Wednesday a week ago McDuffy of the formidable Morgan at M when Wellington won a game from that team. On Friday Bunte started against Elk City, but had to be relieved because of a sore arm and did not finish the game which Wellington won 11 to 4. Wellington topped the next tilt to Elk City in the short end of a 6 to 8 with Livingston pitching. Saturday Wellington staged a track game against Mangum in which player got one or more hits. McMahan and Wilson getting runs in addition to other hits. It pitched the first few in and McDuffy went in as reliever. The score ended 24 to 16 in favor of Wellington. Though the fans are enthusiastic about the team, they are not very much whether or not Wellington wins the last half, for had just as soon see a play as not. There is a possibility that Wellington may get to play a series at Pampa or Amarillo after the season is over, but no definite announcements have been made at the present time.

County's Calves Will Be Shown At Fair

Collingsworth county has been famous for its production of large calves for cotton and feed crops, but recently enough livestock has not kept on the farms to feed the grown feeds on the farms. After that this situation might be remedied to a great extent but are being formed in the county and boys dairy calf club is receiving more attention. The result of the largest display of bred dairy cattle ever exhibited in the Panhandle of Texas will be on September 12 to 14 at the Collingsworth County Fair at Wellington. Collingsworth county 4-H boys will have a large part in this display. At least thirty or 125 dairy cattle to be exhibited are to be shown by these boys. Not only has the quantity increased, but the quality has increased very materially. It is good enough to go into state fair are to be exhibited at this fair. Collingsworth county are to be heard from later.

Grimes, Quail and Smith, Dodsonville, are Golden Light dealers; Johnson's grocery, Wellington, and Glenn & Co., Quail are Superior dealers, and the Jitney-Jungle has the Jitney-Jungle brand.

Jack Knight was one of the four players mentioned for the most valuable player award given by the News-Globe in the recent tournament held in that city. His playing and hitting during the series caused him to receive one vote, and he might have been given the award if Wellington had defeated the Tacks on the last day. Lefty Graham of the victorious Pampa team was given the award. Others mentioned were Rose of Lamesa and Hayden of Amarillo.

In County

Over a thousand fair catalogs giving the premium list of the ninth annual Collingsworth County Fair were mailed out on the routes of Collingsworth County by W. H. Goforth, secretary. The total premiums offered by the fair are approximately $2,500. The catalog contains a number of changes one of which is the inclusion of the sanitary regulations, which is published for the protection of all breeders who will show animals at the fair. The part devoted to Home Demonstration work has been revised and brought up to date by Miss Veda Swafford in order to conform to the latest regulations laid down for this work. The boys division has been revised in a similar manner by C. C. Simpson.

The catalog also contains an entry blank to be used by stock breeders and dairymen who intend to enter livestock at the fair. A thousand additional copies of the catalog are on hand in the office of the secretary, and any person who has not already received a catalog may do so by calling at Mr. Goforth's office.

Beloved Couple Have Six Children; Also Have
Six Grandchildren

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Brooks of Wellington celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding at their home on July 27. Mrs. Brooks was born in Rusk county in 1852 and was, before her marriage, Victoria Isabel Jowell, grand daughter of "Gabe" Jowell, one of the prominent men of his day. Mr. Brooks is 83, having been born in 1846 in Cherokee County. They were married in Palo Pinto in 1869.

In his early days, Mr. Brooks was a school teacher. He was elected sheriff in 1872 and it was often the case that he had as much as $75,000 in tax money in his home at one time, and this money he would carry on horseback to Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks moved to Graham, in Young county, in 1874, where they lived for 38 years. Mr. Brooks purchased a quarter section of the valley land in that county for $20, later purchasing the land on all sides of the original tract. He prospered as a farmer and stockman and became increasingly active in political and religious affairs. He was always actively identified with the public schools.

In 1910, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks moved to Wellington, where they have since resided. They are well known and loved in the community where they reside as was the case in their former home.

The couple have six children, Mrs. J. M. Lane of Memphis, Mrs. M. E. Foster of Wellington; Grady C. Brooks of Wellington; D. V. Brooks of Fort Worth; T. B. Brooks of Lockney and Gentry Warner Brooks of Amarillo. In addition, they have six grand children and two great grand children.

Little Buys Store

The Little Mercantile company added one more store to its chain when it purchased the Dixie Store at Mangum last week. E. Binion, formerly of Mangum, is in charge of the Wellington store.

Gridiron Banquet Brings Confession

Manager Knight Pitches Mates to Verbal Victory Wednesday

Wellington's baseball banquet given by the fans for the team was not a back slapping contest, for it turned out to be a gridiron banquet like those given every conquering team, and that is, after all, the light in which Wellington regards her players.

The banquet started in customary fashion when toastmaster S. R. Pinkston asked Firstbaseman Newman to return thanks. After an interval of silence in which Newman was evidently praying, but not reverently, Pink Sullivan concluded the silent prayer by shouting out a loud amen.

During the banquet G. Ward Moody's orchestra furnished music for those assembled. When they had finished eating, Toastmaster Pinkston started the ball rolling by explaining that there would not be

Near Lutie

J. E. Young, 25 years of age, who recently burglarized the McInnis farm of this county, is serving a five year term in an Oklahoma penitentiary after committing two burglaries, one in Oklahoma and the other in Texas, according to W. H. Stuart, deputy. On July 13, Young was released from the state prison at McAlester after serving a term for burglary. From McAlester he came to Madge, Okla., on the night of July 29, entered a building near Madge and took two flashlights and a pair of clippers. From there he came to the home of Sam McInnis, who lives about seven miles east of Wellington, where he took two suits of clothes.

Wellington officers were notified as soon as the robberies were discovered that the fugitive had been seen somewhere near Lutie. After spending the night there, Jim Cook immediately went to Lutie but failed to find Young, the latter having doubled back on his trail.

Grant Jolly, farmer near Lutie, having heard of the search, caught and held a man answering the fugitive's description. He immediately notified W. H. Stuart.

Ed Smith, sheriff of Harmon county, Oklahoma, was waiting in Wellington when officers brought Young into town. He identified the suspect by a pair of prison-made shoes that he was wearing, and later Young confessed to the burglaries.

Monday, August 5, he was sentenced to serve five years for burglary in a trial at the Harmon county courthouse at Hollis. Young has not been tried for the Collingsworth county robbery.

Country Club

Dr. E. W. Jones was elected as president of the Rivercrest Country club at the annual meeting held at the clubhouse last Sunday afternoon. Pink Sullivan was selected as vice-president and S. R. At the annual meeting announcement was made of the election of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cayton as new members.

Miss Virginia Thom of El Reno, Okla., who has been a guest in the E. W. Alley home left Sunday for Amarillo where she will broadcast over the radio at the Herring Hotel. Miss Thom plays the violin.

After eight years of effort The Wellington High School has secured the fourth unit of credit in English, according to G. L. Farrar, superintendent. In addition to the unit in English, the Wellington high school was granted one full credit in stenography and a half credit in both bookkeeping and typewriting.

These new credits brings the total units of affiliation up to twenty-four and one half. Mr. Farrar says that the Wellington school can now be entered on the list of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools, and that he intends to make application for this rating during the early part of the coming school session.

Mr. Farrar attributes the increased credits in English to the splendid work of Miss Mildred Hulsey, Miss Lota Price and Miss Veda Crawley, and also gives due credit to Miss Corrinne Allen for the two extra credits in business administration.

Wellington now has a high school of the first class and graduates can enter any college or university in the south without examinations.

HOLDING UP WELL

"The crops are not hurting nearly as much as the people." That is the way in which a number of Collingsworth County farmers have described the drouth. Wellington is in all probability the driest spot in the county, and that may be the reason for the merchants being more pessimistic than the farmers—a situation that is exactly the reverse of the usual state at this time of the year. Most of this county has been visited by good showers during the past month, and the farmers report that cotton will make an excellent crop if rain falls in the next ten days. Some feed on the flats has suffered, but with this exception everything is holding up well. This is not the time to get discouraged with our county.

FARMERS' ENEMY

Wild beasts and even reptiles are no longer a real menace to the human race, being now relatively few in numbers and successfully kept at bay, but myriads of insects are ceaselessly engaged in destroying vegetation and threatening man's future food supply. The extent to which this is going on, or may go on, is appallingly suggested by Dr. Lucian Ossian Howard, field marshal of the American insect-fighting forces, who is quoted as saying that under favorable conditions the plant lice descended from one individual of one species in a single season would "weight more than five times as much as all the people of the world." This seems incredible, but the evidence does tend to show that the myriad hosts of insects of enormous fecundity, "incomparable better armed and equipped than ourselves," are indeed our most formidable rivals. Faeterlinck has gone as far as to say that perhaps they will be "our successors."

It is seriously thought that in the ceaseless war between man and swarming insects, the latter are winning on the large farm front, and Prof. Brues of Harvard thinks it will be necessary for farmers to go back to small holdings and individual husbandry in order to have a chance to win the battle. Mass attack through modern mechanical devices does not appear to promise success. However, Field Marshal Howard says he does not despair of the outcome although he calls for a special army of investigators behind the fighters on the insect front in order to hasten a victory which at best will not be extermination but merely control.—Mangum Star.

While Secretary John Surratt of the Kessler Plan Association of Dallas was in Clarendon last week, he made this striking remark: "In the development of beauty spots from waste places in our cities, the property owners should pay the cost; not the city government." Mr. Surratt believes that towns and cities should provide one or more parks for the recreation of the citizenship, all right, but his argument is that the abutting property owners are the chief beneficiaries of any parking of draws and waste places and should therefore bear all or most of the cost. Mr. Surratt is correct. There is a growing tendency for the American people to wait for their city, county, state and national government to make all improvements for them, hence the continued and colossal growth of governmental costs in taxation. A city belongs to its citizenship and that citizenship should recognize, own and bear the obligations of beautification and recreational facilities. Our city is just what we will that it shall be.—Clarendon News.

CHEWING GUM AND AIRPLANES

Those who think that the next governor of Texas should be drawn from the ranks of business men can now give Col. William Easterwood of Dallas the once-over. Known previously to Texans as a chewing gum manufacturer and aviation enthusiast, he announces as a candidate with the brief but charming platform of "fewer laws and lower taxes."

If he should be found to have the statesmanship to give meaning to that platform, he would be an interesting factor in the race. He has no political background, which would be more helpful than otherwise.

There are a great many Democrats in Texas who don't want the race to be the cat-and-dog affair that it will be if Barry Miller and Tom Love are the principal contenders. They want the race to be run on some other issue than that of what happened in 1928 or what is going to happen in 1932. It is a time when some outstanding business man might win, and every business man or pseudo-business man who enters the race will be studied closely. Just offhand, we wouldn't say that the demand for a business candidate has been supplied by Colonel Easterwood's announcement.—Wichita Falls Times.

TEXAS & TEXANS

By Will H. Mayes

Prosperity Pointers

Nothing gives a better idea of the financial condition of a country than the reports of its transportation companies. The Texas railroads had a net operating income of $12,520,271 during the five months ending May 31, according to reports made to the Texas Railroad Commission, an increase of $1,954,899 or 18.5 percent.

All operating revenue, except passenger receipts, showed increases. This included freight, mail, express and other revenue. The decrease in passenger traffic was due to bus competition, which has become strong in every section of the state. The trucks are doing an immense business also, but as it is largely in short hauls, the effect of truck competition is not so severe.

The alarm once felt about bus and truck competition appears to have subsided. There seems to be room for all to prosper in Texas. The railways have had more business than they could handle since the movement of wheat began.

Bus Travel Increases

Bus officials report a healthy and gratifying increase in passenger transportation in Texas. In San Antonio alone the number of passengers handled at the Union Bus station increased almost 100,000 in May, June and July over the corresponding months of last year. The increase throughout the state was probably as great proportionately.

Better roads, better busses, better schedules and better service are bringing better bus business. Business generally is helped by better transportation facilities—that is the business that is enough wide-awake to take advantage of the changing conditions. The other kind of business is going to the bad. Business concerns have to keep up with the times or close. This is growing more evident all the time.

Railroads Fighting For Extensions

Railroads are not anxious to extend their lines into sections that are not prospering or giving strong evidence of early prosperity. Practically every railroad operating in Northwest Texas is seeking permission from the Interstate Commerce to extend its lines and its operations. Most of the applications for extension are being contested by competing lines and in some cases the contest wax warm.

It begins to look like the connecting link will be built in the proposed line from Corpus Christi through San Antonio, Fredericksburg, Mason and Brady to San Angelo—at least within the next year or two. The Orient line now a Santa Fe subsidiary, is going into and across Mexico. In other parts of Texas, railroads are seeking new territory. Their business is good, and the prospects are pleasing.

Busses Also Seek Permits

Sixteen applications have been filed for hearing before the bus division of the Texas railroad commission at its meeting the first week in August for permits to operate new passenger bus lines. Practically all of these are in East Texas. There are now in excess of 700 bus stations in Texas and the number is constantly increasing. Bus lines are seldom discontinued in the state for lack of business, despite the fact that there is an average of one auto for each family.

Airplanes Lower Rates

While airplane passenger and express service is increasing in Texas the high passenger rates have kept many from using this modern method of transportation. Many planes make trips across the state without a passenger and it is seldom that the passenger facilities are overtaxed. The passenger rate has now been reduced from 12 cents to 10 cents a mile, with a one and a half round trip excursion rate for some special occasions. There is an intimation or still further reductions. The airplane will have to be able to make a fare of not exceeding twice the railroad or bus fare to bring airplane travel within the reach of the public.

* * *

Not Enough Airports

There are not yet enough airports in Texas to make air travel popular or general. Facilities are as necessary for lighting as for flying. Abilene is among the latest of the cities to open a modern airport, after it was found that many airships passed it up to land at Midland.

Airport factories are increasing. The Alamo Aircraft Corporation is constructing a large factory at San Antonio. The first factory, established at Temple has moved to Dallas to be better able to increase its output. Privately owned airplanes are becoming common. But they can't land in towns that do not provide proper landing places.

What a Grain Crop

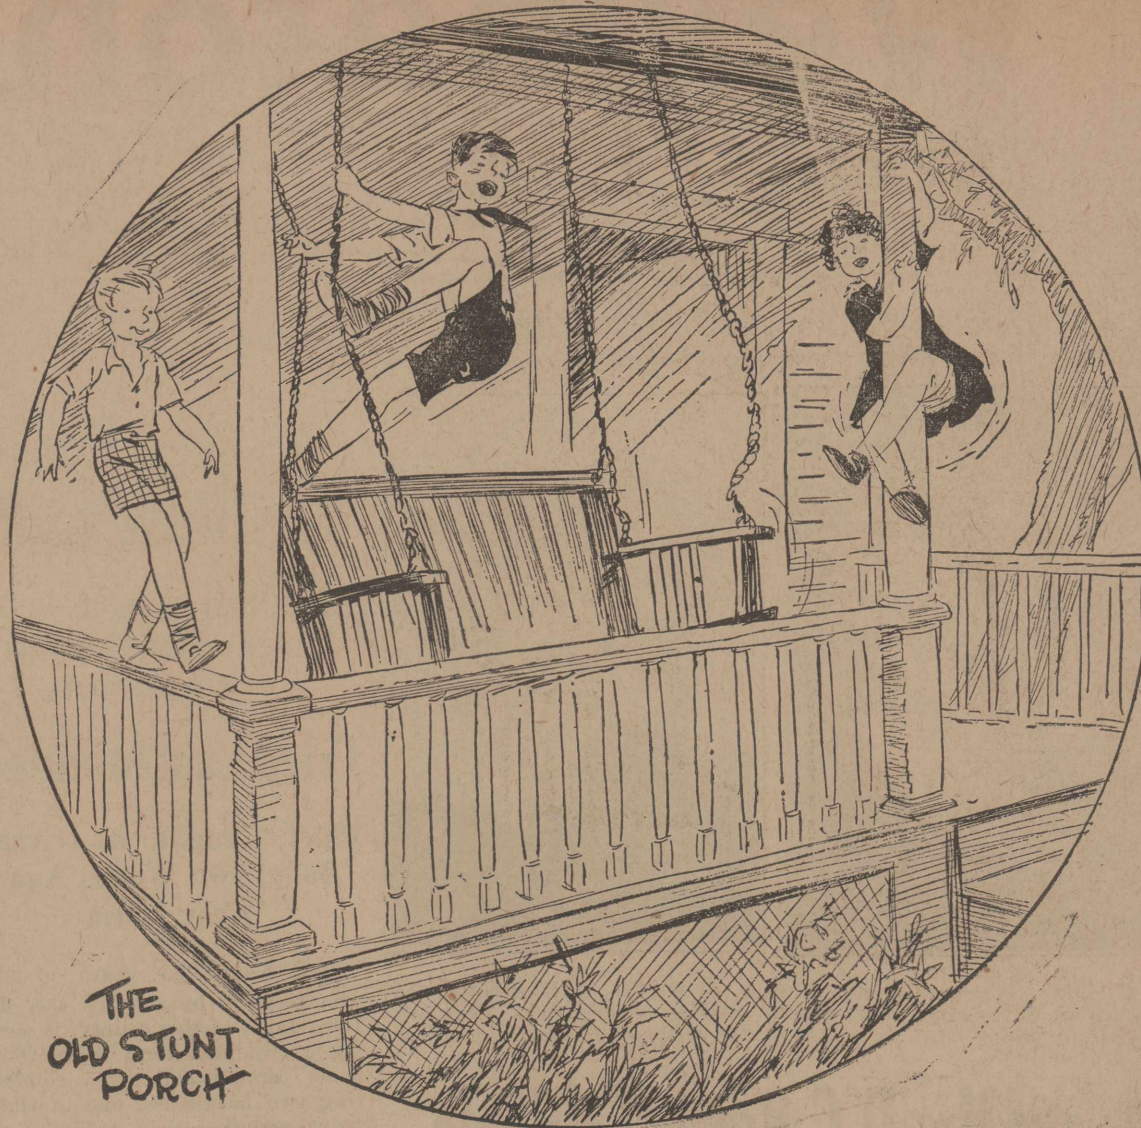

With early estimates placed at around 35,000,000 to 37,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Panhandle, the railroads are finding that they will have to provide enough cars to handle 45,000,000 bushels. Three railroads have handled 24,000 cars of grain or something more than 75 percent of the crops, and are fast rushing the rest of the crop to destination points. Large piles of wheat have been placed on the ground at almost every Panhandle station awaiting cars for shipment.

Sheep and Goat Interest

The largest crowds that have ever attended such a meeting were at the gathering of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers at Del Rio. Nearly 3000 of the finest registered sheep and goats were there, pronounced to be the "greatest collection of sheep and goats of the highest standard of quality ever offered to breeders of the nation at any convention in the history of the industry." Buyers were there from California, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Kansas, Oregon, Kentucky and other states. And they bought at prices that a few years ago would have staggered the old-time sheep and goat growers. Admittedly, Texas has the best climate and the best pasturage in the world, not even excepting the best parts of Australia, for growing sheep and goats.

The pajama fad which is being advocated by some men in cities in the interest of more sensible dress for men won't ever be very popular here, I'm afraid. When a man gets warm in Wellington he simply takes off his coat and goes around in his shirt sleeves with the collar open. Personally I think a sticky pair of pajamas would be about as hot a garb as a man could don. There is something to the old Indian's wisdom who wore his blanket to keep the heat out just as he did to keep the cold away.

quate Diet Is lked at A.&M.

Station, Aug. 7.—A few prepared foods in pleasing proportions to give the essentials of a balanced diet is the ideal for the maker to set up for picnics or any others, Dr. J. S. Jett, chief of the division of home research, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, told the section of the Farmers' course at the A. and M. College Thursday afternoon.

In addition to this a should have three servings of fruits, of which one should be citrus fruit or tomato, and should be served at least three times a week. Eggs should be eaten twice a week and one serving should be made of any two of cheese, beans, peas or nuts, which to be put up in paraffin and paper sack for car use was suggested by Dr. Whitcomb.

Reigh Count Wins on British Soil

It took a British jockey to gain for Reigh Count, 1928 Kentucky Derby victor, his first victory on British tracks. After many failures abroad, Reigh Count, with J. Auto Registration Fee Will Be Cut Almost Half For County Motorists

Collingsworth county motorists can contemplate the next car registration day with a certain degree of comfort, for it will cost about one half as much to register a car next January as it did in 1929.

A study of the new law reveals that the reduction will not be quite 50 percent. News dispatches, generally have indicated, that the fees have been reduced exactly half, and most car owners are under that impression. The saving, it is declared, however, is to be a big one as compared with previous years.

The new law, as adopted by the recent legislature, it is explained, provides a radical different plan of determining fees.

Up until Jan. 1, two factors determined the fee. One is the weight of the vehicle. The other is a levy of 17 1/2 cents per horsepower.

After next Jan. 1, the fee will be determined wholly by the weight and that levy will be less than at present. Horsepower will not be considered at all.

The 1929 and 1930 rates on weights are as follows:

Year	1929	1930
Up to 2000 lbs.	40 per 100	28
Up to 3500 lbs.	50 per 100	36
Up to 4500 lbs.	60 per 100	48
Over 4500 lbs.	75 per 100	50

Comparative fees several makes of autos follow:

Model A Ford coupe, 24 horsepower and 2400 pounds, cost $16.20 this year, but in 1930 will be only $8.64.

The 1929 fee for the old Model T Ford sedan will be $7.56, compared with $14.50 in 1929 and for the model T roadster of 1917 and prior vintage will be $4.44, the lowest of the fees on passenger cars.

For Chevrolet six sedan, weight 2600 pounds, the fee will be $9.36 as compared with $17.55 at present, a reduction of about 47 percent.

A Whippet 4 sedan, 1928 model, will cost $8.64, against the present $16.

Four Main Desires In Every Person

College Station, July 29.—Anger, fear and love, these three basic emotions constitute individuality or collectively the great driving force behind the lives of men and women and to understand their relation to one's personality is, in large measure, to understand one's self, Miss Cora Mae Walton suggested in a talk before the girl's division of the Farmers' Short Course at the A. and M. College of Texas. Her subject was "Knowing Ourselves."

Life at its best may be expected to make two important demands of one, Miss Walton said, the demand for a fine physical, emotional and intellectual independence and the demand for a gracious and enriching mode of adjustment to members of the opposite sex.

"Some one has said," Miss Walton pointed out, "that every human being have four main desires—for recognition, security, response and new experience. But emotional desires," she added, "are not the only things to consider in this attempt to understand ourselves. We should know just what our physical defects and assets are and we should have some understanding of our intellectual ability. If we find that we have failed to utilize our best mental resources it may be because of some emotional upset. In such case we can usually bring to bear some control of our emotions which will help us to 'snap out' of our indisposition. Control of the emotions is largely a matter of training."

As for love, the speaker declared that to reach full maturity all individuals must learn to respond to someone of the other sex.

Potter Thought Time Had Come

Wichita Man Says Doctors Had Given Him Up To Die

M. Potter, a well known farmer living on route 2, Wichita Falls, Texas, told an interesting story about the recovery of his health through the use of Orgatone. In relating his experience Mr. Potter said:

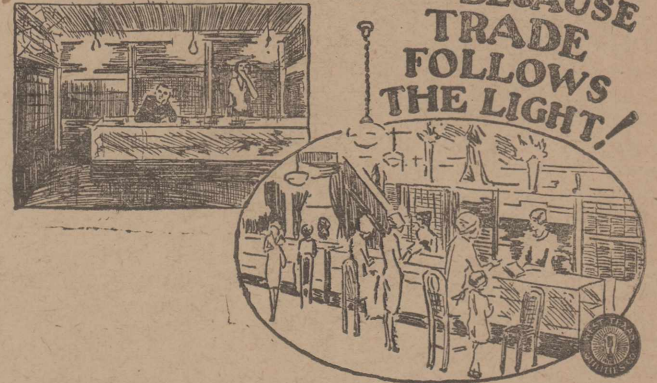

"Fifteen years ago I was a strong and healthy man and felt alright in every way. Something went wrong and I lost my appetite and fell off till I was almost skin and bones. My nerves were shattered and my whole body was racked with pain so that I could hardly get a night's sleep and most of the time I could not even lie in bed I was in so much misery. My kidneys bothered me something terrible and there was sharp shooting pains through the small of my back that seemed like they would drive me insane. I tried all kinds of medicines and treatments but kept getting worse until finally after the doctors had treated me for three years they gave me case up as helpless and said I could not live. They held out no hope for me and I had made up my mind that I was going to die. Even my best friends gave me up and I thought my time had surely come.

"I had heard so much about Orgatone and a friend of mine who had used it recommended the medicine to me so highly I decided to try it as a last resort and I had hardly used more than half a bottle before I felt it was straightening me out. The pains began to leave me and I commenced to pick up in weight and strength and I have such an appetite I am actually ashamed to eat all I want. My nerves are stronger and I sleep like a log and I get around better and feel more lively than I have in fifteen years. I can certainly vouch for Orgatone, as it is the most remarkable medicine I have ever seen or heard of and I am only too glad to speak a good word for it when ever I can."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Wellington at the Palace Drug Company.—Advertisement.

Sheriffs have found it difficult to keep prisoners there. Several have escaped and conditions have been far from sanitary.

During the past Twelve Months

Oldsmobile is on the rising tide of public favor. During the past twelve months alone, more than one hundred thousand motorists have demonstrated their approval by buying Oldsmobiles.

And this tremendous public acceptance continues to grow. Month after month, new records of success are being reported from every section of the country. Official figures so far available for 1929 show an increase of 55 per cent over the corresponding period in 1928.

These buyers selected Oldsmobile from the entire field after driving it, giving it their own exacting tests, and making critical comparisons—because their own good judgment told them that no other automobile in Oldsmobile's price group combines such performance, reliability, comfort, beauty, and luxury.

And they have found, in actual ownership, all the enjoyment and satisfaction that they anticipated. Thousands of owners have written in to express their enthusiasm for the Oldsmobiles they purchased.

Come and examine this fine Oldsmobile Six—drive it—compare its specifications with those of other cars. Then you will know why thousands upon thousands are turning to Oldsmobile. Then you will understand why Oldsmobile owners everywhere are so ready to praise their cars.

Costs Less To Build Homes Permanently

First Cost Shoddy House May Be Attractive, But Comes High

BY WYATT BRUMMITT

Only the very rich can afford shoddy-built houses. For a house that is hastily thrown together, with one inferior material piled on top of another, is certain to cost its owner plenty of money for repairs, replacements and upkeep. Insurance rates for fire and storm coverage will be high, for the poorly constructed house offers a standing invitation to all the natural and man-made hazards which beset American homes.

Oddly enough, the very rich seldom build shoddy homes. For there is usually a keen business man in such families, a man who can see beyond first cost and can foresee the liabilities of high after-cost in a poorly built place.

In the average small home the extra cost of first class, enduring and fire-safe construction is estimated to be approximately the amount required for the added maintenance cost of a shoddy home during the first five years. From a purely financial viewpoint, therefore, the advantage of a low first-cost, inferior quality house is short-lived. After five years the owner of the better home is actually saving money, while his neighbor in the shoddily constructed dwelling is saddled with constantly increasing maintenance costs.

By the intelligent use of such modern materials as monolithic concrete or concrete masonry (block brick and tile composed of carefully designed concrete) a modern, firesafe and long-lived home may be built quickly and easily, in any desired architectural style.

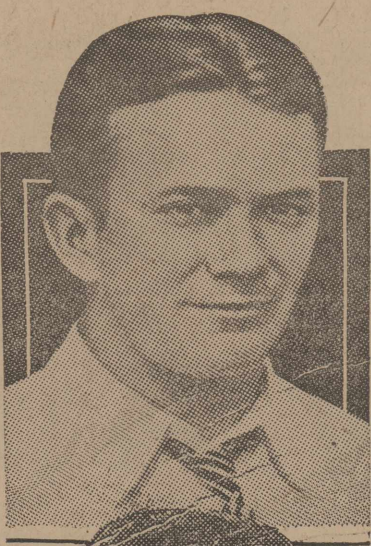

De Soto Six Engine Quiet In Talkies

With the development of the talking picture, and perfection of equipment for recording and reproducing sounds that synchronize with the actions of the players, the popular demand has led the producers to confine their efforts almost entirely to production of this type of movie.

One of the greatest difficulties the director has had to cope with since synchronization action was mastered, involved the complete elimination of foreign noises that might ruin those sounds essential to the picture. After a long period of research and experiment the problem eventually has been solved, however, and the latest types of recording instruments are quickly nearing perfection.

The new type of microphone they use, located out of range of the camera lens, is exceptionally powerful. The sound waves it picks up often are amplified as high as 1,000,000 times as the words of the actors, the music or the other sounds desired by the directors, are recorded.

One of the principal problems to be solved was the question of how automobiles could be used and still the engine noises kept from conflicting with dialogue. In a recent picture made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, a car was to be used in many of the scenes and during the greater part of the action the engine was running while the actors talked.

Tests preliminary to "shooting" the film showed the engines of some makes of cars registered so definitely that speech of the actors was interfered with.

The choice eventually narrowed down to a De Soto Six because this engine is so designed that smoothness of operation and maximum elimination of noises and vibrations are insured at all speeds. A greater part of its popularity has been obtained by the remarkable smoothness and performance of its engine, according to officials of the company. A score of high grade engineering features have been incorporated into its design, making it unlike any other power plant in its price field.

The De Soto Six, with Julia Faye, Josephine Dunn and Joel McGrea, was given leading position in the picture.

Was Compelled To Stay Home Months

"Stomach trouble and indigestion had me in a terribly nervous, run-down condition. I was so weak and worn out I would have to stay in the house for months at a time.

Constipation was helping to make my life miserable and there were times when I didn't care whether I lived or died. A good friend of mine told me about Sargon and how it helped her so I decided to try it.

"What a blessed relief it is to be free of the troubles that worried me for 12 long years. The Sargon treatment has literally made me feel like a new woman. My stomach is now in perfect condition; my appetite is fine and I eat just anything I want, without any ill effects. My nerves are back to normal and I sleep sound and get up feeling just fine. Sargon Soft Mass Pills ended my constipation without ever gripping or nauseating me.

"I'm so happy over regaining my health that I'll be glad to tell anyone what Sargon has meant to me. Just have them phone 2-7783 if they want to know what I think of this wonderful treatment."—Mrs. W. H. Higgins, 507 W. First St., Fort Worth.

Sargon represents the dawn of a new era in the field of modern medicine. It is turning old fashioned moss-grown health theories upside down and is restoring countless thousands by methods undreamed of only a few years ago.

Portion Of Willys Motor Stock Is Sold To Syndicate

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 30.—In answer to many inquiries received at the offices of The Willys-Overland company, Toledo, Ohio, A. B. Qualy, secretary, issued the following statement:

"Late Wednesday afternoon a syndicate, including George M. Jones, president of the Ohio Savings Bank and Trust company; Marshall Field and Charles Glore of Field, Glore and company; C. O. Miniger, president, The Electric Auto-Lite company, Toledo, and officers of the Willys-Overland company, purchased from John N. Invalid Chooses Pontiac Big Six

An invalid woman, bedridden for six years by a spinal ailment which renders the nervous system sensitive to the slightest shock, now is seeking relaxation and health through daily rides in a Pontiac Six.

She is Mrs. Elmer W. Loos of North Twenty-Second street, physboro, Ill., whose physician advised that her health might be improved by mental stimulus of mobile riding. His recommendation was qualified, however, with provision that his patient must be in complete comfort. He noted that serious results would follow if Mrs. Loos were subjected to the jar of road irregularities or the vibration of an unbalanced engine.

Farm Board Will Oppose Outside Organizations

Effort Will Be Made To Keep Farmers From Being Exploited

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. — The federal farm board has decided upon a determined stand against "professional promoters" seeking to "organize" the farmers for benefits under the agricultural marketing act and believes it has fortified itself so that it will not be misled.

Like any important commission when it is first inaugurated, the farm board has been swamped with applications for jobs, but to practically all of the cooperative organization promoters the board "has shown the door" with the declaration that the policy of the commission is to build up existing cooperatives. Members of the board are convinced that, through education, close supervision and a friendly helping attitude, extant cooperatives will be able to demonstrate their value to the farmers and thus increase their membership.

In another category are the apparently large number of well meaning individuals who believe they can assist the board by "visiting" among the farmers and merely spreading a good will gospel of cooperation—at a fair per liem remuneration.

The business of protecting the farmer most effectively is expected by board members to become easier after the scattered existing associations are more closely amalgamated. That is expected to develop marketing corporations have been established and a national chamber of cooperative economics founded.

Mrs. Loos and her husband then let it be known that they were in the market for a low-priced automobile embodying the physician's specifications. They proved probably the most difficult "prospects" in the automotive history of Murphyboro. Many salesmen representing many automobiles called at the Loos home. But among all of the demonstrators the Pontiac Big Six with its long springs and Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, its big tires, its deep-cushioned seats and its Harmonically-balanced engine, proved best suited to Mrs. Loos' unusual needs.

"In choosing an automobile," said Mrs. Loos, "we had to consider factors which perhaps are not so necessary to well people, such as smooth clutch and brake action, absence of vibration, easy riding qualities, wide doors to reduce the effort of entering and leaving the car and low windows to enable me to see out while reclining on the rear seat. We found them all in the Pontiac Big Six. Now I ride for hours in perfect ease and without fatigue. Our Pontiac has brought welcome relief from the monotony of four walls."

Texas Will Make Good Cotton Crop If Conditions Continue Favorable

Collingsworth Crops Are Rated As Normal At This Season

DALLAS, Aug. 7.—With even a fair chance for the completion of this year's cotton crop Texas is assured of unquestionable prosperity. This is according to July crop report compiled by the department of public relations of the Southland Life Insurance company. This prediction is backed up not alone by crop reports but by an extremely optimistic tone of business and by the unquestionable optimism of buyers in the Dallas wholesale market for the past two weeks.

In general crops may be shown as follows: Northwest Texas, including the Panhandle, cotton normal or better and row crops normal to excellent; West Texas, cotton better than normal and feed crops normal to excellent; East Central Texas, all crops spotted with considerable insect damage; North Texas, cotton spotted, oats disappointing but corn and other crops promising; Northeast Texas,

Home Judged By Products Says Farming Expert

Miss Rowe of St. Paul Lectures at College Station

College Station, July 30.—"The home, like any other productive enterprise, must be judged by its product, citizenship," according to Miss Bess M. Rowe of The Farmers Wife, national farm women's magazine of St. Paul, Minnesota, who spoke on "The measure of a Home" before the homemaking division at the Farmers' Short Course, A. and M. College of Texas, Tuesday. "Any home is successful in just the degree that it produces good citizens," she said. Good citizens she defined as men and women who have the qualities of physical fitness, mental alertness, economic efficiency, social consciousness and spiritual poise.

"We are coming into an age where the standard of health is positive. The most important factors that make for physical well-being are proper food, plenty of rest taken at regular hours, and plenty of sunshine.

"The greatest need of the world today is thinking men and women. This is a responsibility that must be shared by the home and the school. Children should learn in the home the value of money, what it means to earn, so that they will realize that money is human life and human effort transmitted into a temporary medium of exchange.

"High cost of living has brought on an era of small homes," the speaker said, "but," she added, "however small the home may be men and women develop from their share of responsibility in it during childhood—the responsibility that comes with a private possession, social relationship and the peace of spiritual poise.

"Children will remember the things you do with them, when they have long forgotten the things you did for them," she concluded.

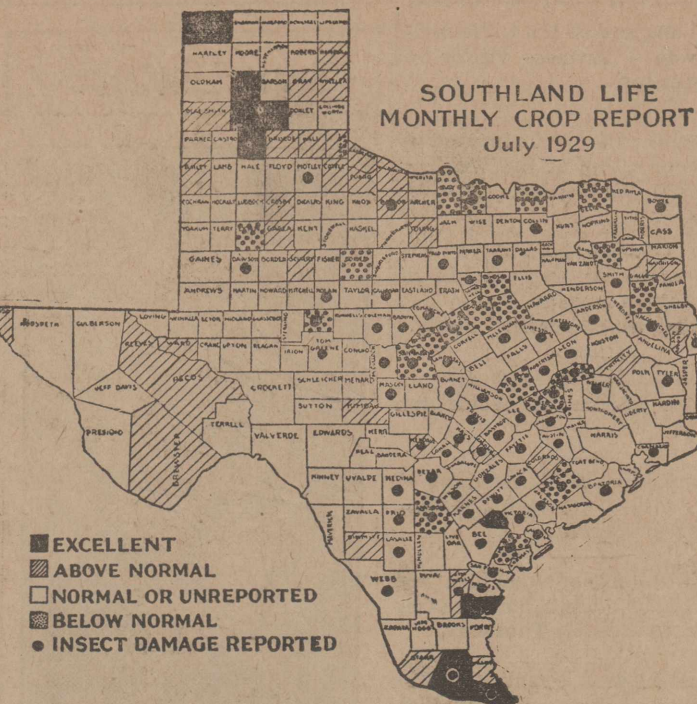

Romance Amid Daring Scenes

A charming romance set amid breath-taking thrills furnished by daring air exploits in "The Flying Marine," the Columbia production synchronized with talking and music which shows at the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday.

This picture is more than an air plane picture. It has a tender love story combined with an underlying theme of brotherly sacrifice. Two brothers are in love with the same girl. The younger brother, a careless, reckless, irresponsible youth, wins the girl after a dashing courtship. The older brother, a steady and earnest worker with a sterling character, stands aside for the kid's happiness. It doesn't take the girl long to realize that she has made the wrong choice. She tells the older brother that it is he that she has loved all along. Just as they are about to break the news to the younger brother, portrayed by Ben Lyon, a situation arises which results in one of the most unusual and spectacular climaxes ever witnessed on the screen.

Intensely dramatic sequences are in talking. This aids to the general merit of the picture because Ben Lyon, Shirley Mason and Jason Robards have marvelous speaking voices. An entertaining evening is in store for you when you see this film because it is a delight to the ear as well as to the eye.

Joint Use Of Tracks Is Asked By Denver Road

Denver Offers Two Lines To Wellington And One Out

A proposal whereby three major railroad systems would share profits from portions of productive eastern Texas panhandle territory, by operating over the same track for 28 miles, was submitted to Interstate Commerce Examiner Charles Mahaffie in Fort Worth last week by F. E. Williamson, president of the Burlington lines.

The Fort Worth and Denver City a Burlington subsidiary, is seeking interstate commerce commission permission to build a line into the panhandle from Quanah to Pampa, via Wellington and Shamrock. The Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf with the St. Louis-San Francisco asks to build a road nearly parallel to that from Quanah to Shamrock via Wellington.

Williamson's proposal was that the Frisco and Rock Island join the Burlington in the Wellington-Shamrock construction, the two former, however, laying their connections from Quanah to Wellington. At Quanah he suggested trackage rights over the Fort Worth and Denver to Vernon to connect with a Frisco proposed line to Seymour, eliminating a petitioned Rock Island road from Quanah to Beaver Creek, about half way between Vernon and Seymour. Since the rivalry between the two proposed panhandle routes had been so severe, the Williamson proposal came as a surprise. On cross examination Williamson said, however, he believed conditions would justify construction of both lines to Shamrock. He declared the Burlington 113-mile road would cost $4,276,580, and would give the Burlington a net railway operating income of $300,000 yearly.

L. M. Hogsett, general freight agent for the Fort Worth and Denver, declared the new line would add 12,463 cars of freight yearly to Burlington handlings, serving a rapidly developing oil and gas area in Gray county. That area is about 20 miles wide at Pampa and extends in a southeasterly direction for about 80 miles. The Rock Island and Frisco had contented conditions would not justify construction of a road from Shamrock to Pampa. Hogsett declared freight revenue on the entire Quanah-Pampa line would be $633,000 the first year.

M. B. Oates, Fort Worth and Denver agricultural agent stationed at Wichita Falls, told of developments of the four panhandle counties, Childress, Collingsworth, Wheeler and Gray, which his company plans to tap. He said he expected development of poultry raising and dairying in that area.

Decay of snap beans in transit causes each year thousands of dollars loss, much of which could be avoided by care in picking, grading and handling the crop. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends four main rules to follow. Pick beans, if practicable, when the vines are dry. Sort the beans, discarding all that show blemishes or wounds of any kind. Keep the harvested beans out of the sun and rain when awaiting shipment. Lastly, keep the beans cool.

Chevrolet Car Has Envious Time Record

Chevrolet Is Driven Many Years By Texan; Still In Service

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 31. —A Chevrolet with a chassis built in 1913, a full year before the World War, and a motor that was assembled when our doughboys were encamping back in 1917, is still in daily use at Goliad, Texas. It is called "Spark Plug" by its proud owner, Hugo Wilks, and of the millions of Chevrolets in use today on both hemispheres it is perhaps the oldest.

True, the 1929 Chevrolet with its smooth six cylinder motor can out-climb, out-speed and out-haul it. True, too, that "Spark Plug" appears a bit antediluvian when contrasted with the handsome new Fisher bodies of the 1929 Chevrolet. But "Spark Plug" can do plenty of climbing, speeding and hauling on its own account and is beyond question an outstanding example of a long-lived and dependable automobile.

On several occasions Wilks has hitched a trailer to "Spark Plug" and pulled a load of 2,000 pounds, plus the 815 pounds which the trailer weighs, all the way to San Antonio, 125 miles distant.

Not long ago he piled it high with a 1515 pound load of cotton bales and drove it through a dry creek bed—a road which no other driver in the section would dare traverse in a modern car. Many times he has driven it with water up to the floor boards.

No hill in the section is too tough for "Spark Plug" and Wilks says it is sufficiently economical, continuing to give as good as 20 miles to the gallon.

One objection, however, is lodged against it by Wilks and this is a friendly one. It is his complaint against the crowds which his car invariably attracts when he drives it into San Antonio.

"Spark Plug" has had many owners—eight to be exact—before Wilks purchased it from the Vogt Chevrolet company of Schulenberg, Texas, nine years ago. For four years he got splendid service from the 1913 motor which might yet be encased beneath the 1913 hood but for an accident which occurred five years ago.

At that time a 1917 Chevrolet owned by one of Wilks' brothers caught fire and its chassis was destroyed. The motor was unharmed so it was decided to give "Spark Plug's" original motor a well deserved rest and substitute the newer one.

"Spark Plug's" total mileage is indeterminable. Since Wilks has had it, three speedometers have been in use. One registered 75,000 miles, the second 60,000 and the present one has run up 15,000.

The total repair bill during Wilks' ownership has been 150. In this connection, however, it might be stated that Wilks does all his own repairing. Recently 15 new rings were placed in the car and other minor adjustments made.

All of the Wilkses are mechanically inclined and all prefer the Chevrolet.

The father of "Spark Plug's" owner has had four Chevrolets. One of the brothers is still driving a 1917 model and another brother has a 1924 model.

Dairy Products Need High Grade For Most Profit

Equipment and Correct
Methods Essential to Cleanliness

College Station, Aug. 1.—Increased consumption of dairy products depends very largely on producing a better quality product which the consumer will find more appetizing, Charles N. Shepardson, head of the husbandry department, A. & M. College of Texas, pointed out in an address before the dairy division of the Farmers' Short Course here Thursday. "It is to the producer that we must turn not only to improve the quality of the finished product, but to help eliminate some of the loss that he sustains at present, due to poor grade milk and cream," he said.

Two things are involved in producing clean milk, the speaker pointed out. The first consideration is the equipment. A strong, well-built barn should be provided with a separate room for the handling of the milk. The utensils should be of good quality and free from cracks, seams or other flaws that make them hard to clean. An adequate cooling system is the tubular cooler with circulating water or brine, or if this is not available, the producer will find the conical cooler with ice water in the center a very satisfactory method.

"The best equipment available is not a guarantee of clean milk if the operator is not careful in his methods," Mr. Shepardson said. The four important sources of dirt and contamination in milk to be considered are: The man, the cow, the utensil and the barn and corals. Negligence in regard to one of these points may be the cause of sour cream and milk and failure in the dairy business. Sterilization may be either by the use of some chemical disinfectant in the rinse water or by heat. A better method is to steam the utensils. In cleansing utensils, dish rags should not be used because of the difficulty of keeping them clean and free from odors. The brush and plenty of good dairy washing powder is suggested as satisfactory method of cutting the film of casein from the utensils.

Milk should be cooled as soon as possible to 50 degrees or lower and if it must be set out on the road for the milk truck it can be kept fairly cool by placing it under a shade with wet rags around it.

Cocktails and Fags Injure Complexion Says Mrs. Records

College Station, Aug. 7.—One of the worst enemies to a girl's complexion and beauty is the cigarette and cocktail habit, Mrs. Erschel S. Records, of Fort Worth, declared in discussing the "Foundation of Beauty" before the girls section of the Farmers Short Course at the A. and M. College of Texas. "A recent magazine of beauty culture, stressing the fact that it was not dealing with the moral phase of it, warned its readers under the heading, 'The Deadly Cocktail,' of the ravages wrought to the most enchanting complexion by the continued use of such poison, the speaker added.

The keynote of modern beauty is naturalness based on the ideal of a sound mind in a sound body, Mrs. Records went on to say. "The expression, 'the picture of health,' is truer than we sometimes realize, for one can be truly beautiful without a foundation of abounding good health. If we fail to exercise daily, we grow fat, old, stiff, ungraceful and become victims of various organic diseases."

Textile Strikers Are Evicted

Families of 62 striking members of the National Textile Workers Union were evicted from their homes the other day at Gastonia, N. C. Police deputies, with court orders, dispossessed the families which had been living in homes owned by the Marvinville Jenckes company, operators of the Lenoir Cotton Mills where members have been on strike. The picture shows William Truitt and family after they were evicted.

Truck Drivers Must Have Permit To Haul Livestock and Domestic Fowls

The sheriff's department of Collingsworth county calls the attention of the public to a recent law regarding the transportation of livestock and fowls. It follows:

(House Bill No. 157)
An act requiring drivers of trucks, automobiles and other vehicles to have and exhibit to peace officers upon demand written permit covering movements of livestock and domestic fowls contained therein or to make written statement in the absence of said permit, and providing penalties for failing to exhibit the same or to make said statement or for making false statement or having false or forged permit, and declaring an emergency.

Section 1. Any person who is the driver of any truck, automobile or other vehicle containing any livestock or domestic fowl which is upon or being driven upon any land of which said driver is not owner, and providing penalties for failing to exhibit the same or to make said statement or for making false statement or having false or forged permit, and declaring an emergency.

Section 2. The fact that there are numerous thefts of livestock and domestic fowls and that the said stolen livestock and fowls are being hauled in trucks, automobiles and other vehicles from ranches, pastures and premises along public roads, thoroughfares and highways and that there is no adequate law regulating movements of livestock lessee, renter or tenant, or which is upon or being driven upon any highway, public street or thoroughfare, who fails to have in his possession and exhibit to any person or peace officer upon demand a written permit authorizing said movement, signed by the owner or caretaker of said livestock or domestic fowl or from the owner or any person in control of the land from which said driver began said movement shall be fined not less than $25.00 nor more than $200.00 for each head of livestock and each domestic fowl in said movement, unless said driver upon demand of any person or peace officer makes signs and delivers to said person or peace officer a written statement containing the information herein required to be included in permits. Said driver shall be fined not less than $25.00 nor more than $200.00 for each head of livestock and each domestic fowl in said movement which is not covered by all the following information. Name of place of origin, including name of ranch or other place; point of destination including name of ranch, market center, packing house or other place; number of livestock or fowls with description thereof, including kind, breed, color and also marks and brands if there would be any. Failure or refusal of such driver to exhibit to a person or peace officer said permit or to make said statement, shall constitute probable cause for any peace officer to search said truck or vehicle to ascertain if it contains any stolen livestock or stolen domestic fowls and to detain said movement a reasonable length of time to ascertain whether any livestock or stolen fowls are contained therein.

Any driver who has in his possession any false or forged permit or who makes false written statement shall be fined not less than $200.00 nor more than $500.00 or he shall be imprisoned in the county jail not less than sixty (60) days nor more than six (6) months, or he shall be punished by both such fine and imprisonment. It is further provided that all provisions of this act shall apply to slaughtered livestock and domestic fowls and butchered portions thereof.

Section 3. Any person who is the driver of any truck, automobile or other vehicle containing any livestock or domestic fowl which is upon or being driven upon any land of which said driver is not owner,

Medium Staple Favored As Best Money Producer

Half and Half Produces
Biggest Yield Says
Farm Expert

College Station, Aug. 7.—Short to medium staple varieties of cotton have in most cases produced the largest yields of lint in tests conducted at the different substations of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, D. T. Killough, cotton breeder of the experiment station, set forth in addressing the farm crops section at the Farmers' Short Course at the A. and M. College of Texas Friday afternoon. Mr. Killough cited results of variety tests experiments conducted at the main station here and at substations located at Beeville, Angleton, and Beaumont in the gulf coastal plains region; at Nacogdoches and Troup in East Texas; at Temple and Denton in Central and by trucks, automobiles and other vehicles whereby such thefts may be prevented and detected creates and emergency and so imperative public necessity exists that the constitutional rule requiring bill to be read on three several days be suspended, and the same is hereby suspended, and this act shall take effect and be in force as set out in its provisions from and after its passage and it is so enacted.

Half-and-half variety, for example, which produced lint only three-fourths inch long, was the highest yielding variety in the tests at Nacogdoches, Troup, Denton, Chillicothe and Spur, he went on to say. "On account of its short staple, however, half-and-half is undesirable, since lint three-fourths inch in length is not tenderable on future contracts and is therefore not deliverable on the central or staple markets."

"A number of medium staple varieties, having lint 15-16 to 1-1-16 inches in length, produced satisfactory yields in virtually all of the tests. Since the line of certain of these varieties is longer than the line of half-and-half, they would no doubt be as profitable to grow as half-and-half, and in some cases probably more profitable if adequate premiums for the longer staple cotton were paid the grower."

"Some of the longer staple varieties which have a line of 1-1-8 to 1-1-4 inches in length, were among the highest yielding varieties in the tests at Angleton, Beaumont and Nacogdoches. In the Central and western portions of the state, however, the longer staple varieties have not generally produced the highest yields."

MEXICO A WONDERFUL COUNTRY WITH PAPA ALONG

Wellington Visitors Find Friends Who Show Them Sights of City

Mexico, the picturesque and the historical, offers more than beautiful scenery and interesting sights for your entertainment if you are fortunate enough to become the friends of a few which class Mexican gentlemen. That is what the party of six Wellington people did who journeyed to Mexico City recently, and this is one version of the tales they brought back.

On the train between Monterey and Mexico City, the party became acquainted with Senor Luis Y. Acuna, an oil man of Monterey and he proceeded to take the flock of innocents under his wing, and with the assistance of his friend Senor Juan B. Roland, gave them an insight into the courtesy and graciousness of the real Mexico.

In the beginning lets get the matter of climate straight. Mexico City is not hot in the summer or at any other time of the year. A person would be just as much out of line to go down there expecting to find good skating as they would to go down there and expect to get a chance to wear light summer clothing. Due to its high altitude the temperature never goes over 72 degrees, and due to the fact that it is in the tropical region it never gets below 40 in the cooled months.

And the people here who are becoming so anxious over the continued dry spell might be interested in knowing that a cool refreshing rain falls every afternoon. In fact Papa Acuna, who acquired the title of Papa when he insisted on providing funds for all entertainment, never thought of going out in the afternoon without an umbrella. He carried it just as religiously as an American wears his hat. American is used with a full knowledge that the Mexicans and South Americans are entitled to that cognomen just as much as we are. Still you can't very well say United Stateser when you wish to designate a person who lives north of the Rio Grande.

The first evening in Mexico, Papa Acuna and Senor Roland herded their flock to the "Fronton Mexico" where a game is played with gourd shaped instruments that makes base ball or tennis like a game of ping pong by comparison.

There is a cabaret at the same place, and after the games were finished, music, refreshments, and dancing were enjoyed by the party until a late hour. The ladies were thrilled to dance with a handsome officer named Emiliano Izaquique, and the men were elated to dance with a real Senorita—a very rare privilege, for Mexican Senoritas and Senoritas are exclusive in a way American women know not of.

The morning of the second day brought the trips to the Bank of Mexico, the post office and the National Theatre, and the Alameda—a park situated in the heart of the city. No attempts will be made to tell of the magnificence of these or any of the other beautiful sights in Mexico, for books have been written about them without doing them justice; so one newspaper article could not be expected to perform that function, but it's interesting to know that $25,000,000 has already been spent on the National Theatre, which is still uncompleted, and the truth of the statement that "time is nothing in Mexico" is born out by the fact that the theatre was supposed to have been finished in 1919. However the revolution had more to do with its retarded construction than the national disregard for time.

True Pictures of Texas-Mexico Alliance

by the fact that the theatre was supposed to have been finished in 1919. However the revolution had more to do with its retarded construction than the national disregard for time.

In the afternoon of the second day, or was it the third—life is so pleasant in Mexico that you lose track of the days—anyway on one afternoon the flock was escorted to Xochimilco or the floating gardens. At this place the flowers and vegetables for the City of Mexico are grown. It is composed of literally thousands of small tracks of land surrounded by water. Each small track is cultivated by the native Indians. Some of the plots are no more than a few feet in diameter. Although there is a road and a street car line running to the City the Viga Canal is used by the natives to haul their flowers and getables to town—a distance of twelve miles. As we sat in an open air cabaret on the banks of the canal eating Indian dishes and sipping "Cervases," we could see the picturesque Indians riding up and down the canal in their boats eating and singing. The boats were lavishly decorated with flowers and it looked like entire families were accompanying the flowers and vegetables to market.

And Indian food brings up another subject. The real Mexicans eat fish, beefsteak, rolls, coffee, eggs, vegetables and other things just as we do. The hot peppery dishes such as Tacos, Tortillas and Enchiladas are Indian dishes and chili cannot be bought in Mexico. It is an American dish and they think you are ordering a kind of pepper when you call for chili. And something else—the laborers we see in Texas and call Mexicans are called Indians, and the people we think of as Spaniards in Mexico call themselves Mexicans.

The next day—it is impossible to say which one it was brought a drive through Chapultepec park where cypress trees over two thousand years old raise their heads in majestic splendor. They invoke a queer feeling of awe when you realize their shade fell on Moctezuma, and the ancient Aztecs, Cortez and his soldiers, the Viceroy of Spain, the unfortunate Maximilian, the invading armies of Spain, France and the United States, as well as the heroes and leaders of Mexico. In the center of this beautiful park is Chapultepec Castle, the home of the rulers of Mexico.

We made a return trip to visit the Castle. Minus the guiding eye of Papa Acuna, who had to work one day while we were there, we blundered up to the castle at the wrong hour. After the attendant had carefully explained that we came at the wrong time, he allowed us to go ahead just as if it had been the right time. In the castle we inspected the bedrooms of Maximilian and Carlotta. Some of the women sat on the edge of the bed while the attendant was not looking, but they had nothing on the men who were invited to bowl in the palace bowling alley. This invitation was accepted, but all were so excited over the thought of bowling where Emperors, Kings and Presidents had played that no strikes or spares were made. As we left the castle the gardner presented each lady with a rose from the Chapultepec garden, which they carefully pressed to keep in their memory books.

Another day brought a trip through the National Palace, the seat of the Mexican government. We were told that President Portes Gil would make his appearance soon to receive the Ambassador from Chili. After waiting for about an hour in order to take a picture of the president we found out that he was not coming there at all that morning. We went ahead and made the rounds through the rooms of the palace, although we were not allowed to enter the president's office. This proved to be another exhibit of regal salons with beautiful inlaid floors, hand carved ceilings, silver and gold drapes all harmonized in an atmosphere of spacious splendor. Later that same day we did get a distant glimpse of the president. The Ambassador from Chili and a group of Mexican officials had gathered at the statue of independence and we happened to drive by just as they were laying a wreath at the base of the statue. The Chilians were dressed in gorgeous uniforms, and the Mexicans wore high hats and long tailed coats.

Such were the days in Mexico—a never ending succession of beautiful, interesting and historically insignificant sights, and the nights. One was an evening spent at the Poletema a sort of follies. While the dancing was not extraordinary and the music was merely popular American songs, the dress and undress of the dancers was interesting. Shows start at 7 and end at 12.

You can pay to see it all or you can pay for one hours entertainment. Each hour there is a complete change of program and companies. Another of our evenings was spent at a dance at the Hotel Regis. At 10 p. m. the group was about divided between Americans and Mexicans, but by 1 a. m. it was ninety per cent American.

Thus did the days and nights slip by. The National Museum, the Thieves Market, the Cathedral of Guadalupe, all came in for their share of inspection by the curious visitors from the north. The last came and Papa Acuna and Senor Roland took the party to the Pyramids. Senor Roland brought his own car and Papa Acuna hired a taxi to transport their guests to the sight of the ancient pyramids, which were discovered only a few years ago. They represent a type of architecture that is much older than that of the Aztecs, and some archaeologists claim that they are as old as the pyramids of Egypt. On the way an excellent view could be obtained of Popocatepetl, the towering snow capped volcano. Some of the party climbed the pyramid of the sun, which is a mammoth structure which can be seen for miles before it is reached. It affords an excellent view of San Juan Teotihuacan, the pyramid of the moon and the other old structures. After descending we ate in the cave restaurant, which, as its name suggests, is located in a natural cave in the side of a mountain. On the morning of our departure Senor Roland and Papa Acuna who had brought flowers for the ladies, drinks for the men, dinners for all and devoted their time for a week to entertaining their friends from Texas were on hand to take us to the train. The writer and his wife missed the train. The Leader's society editor made a desperate sprint, but to no avail, and Senor Roland started out to drive us to the next station after picking up Papa Acuna who had got the rest of the party and all of the baggage on board. On the way to the next station which lay in the suburbs of Mexico City, the tree where Cortez wept was pointed out to the hurrying Americans. We looked it over carefully, for we had just about come to believe that time means nothing in Mexico. We caught the train, said goodbye to our friends and settled back in our seats to make the transition from a country where they have plenty of stimulating beverages, where no single drunk person was seen, where it was cool and rained every day, back to a land where it is dry and hot, where there is no lawful beverage and where a drunk or more can be seen around town every Saturday.

A NEW SYMBOL OF A GREATER SERVICE

Two old established oil companies join forces better to serve their millions of customers

A STATEMENT

The consolidation of the Marland Companies and the Continental Oil Company has combined the producing, refining and marketing facilities of these widely known manufacturers and distributors of petroleum products.

The high standards of manufacture which have established and maintained the reputation of the high quality products heretofore sold under the Conoco and Red Triangle brands will be strictly maintained.

The same chemists and engineers, the same refineries and, above all, the same policies, will support the new trade mark "A new symbol of a greater service."

Texas Refuses To Sell Border Land

Second Land Error May Give More Land to Lone Star State

Any immediate prospect of Oklahoma "recovering 28,500 acres of land along the Oklahoma-Texas Panhandle border had passed to-night when it was learned here a majority of Texas' legislative committee favors retaining the land regardless of price.

It was revealed today that seven out of 13 Texans voted in Oklahoma City last week when negotiations were under way, not only against accepting Oklahoma's offer of $150,000, but against accepting any offer.

A second disclosure made today was the fact that an unofficial survey has shown another stretch of land between the two Panhandles to be rightly in Texas, although now considered a part of Oklahoma. The land involves 4,800 acres.

The discovery of the second land error was announced by Samuel Gannett the commissioner appointed by the U. S. supreme court to survey the disputed area. The land involved would be added to Lipscomb county, Texas, and taken from Beaver county, Oklahoma.

Two methods of procedure will be recommended. A separate action must be taken to the supreme court can be asked to order a survey of the North Panhandle boundary. The new difficulty could then be taken up under the present inter-state negotiations.

Dodge Bros. Car Has Fine Record

How long is 'long life' in a motor car?

The characteristic dependability of Dodge Brothers cars has been given additional prestige by the discovery of a 1914 model whose mileage has been lost somewhere above the 300,000 mile mark. The motor number is 166, and for thirteen years, this veteran car has been the proudest possession of Bill McCordle, a copper prospector who lives in a tar covered shack isolated in the high mountains of northeastern Nevada.

McCordle's house and garden are surrounded by peaks nearly 10,000 feet high. There is nothing like a boulevard in this country. Over rocky hills, across gulches, and up difficult dugways, McCordle patrols his domain in his faithful car, which, he declares, still "runs like a top." Bill bought it second-hand in 1916, and since that time the car has taken him wherever he wished to go. Yet the repair bills in this period have totaled only $91. In 1921, he spent $70, and this spring he invested $21 more for the welfare of this old car and Bill's business.

Since the last repair, Bill makes some steep grades on high gear where much younger cars are forced into low gear to surmount the rugged roads that were once only prospector's trails over the Nevada mountains. The top of his car has long since vanished, but the rain and sun never hurt Bill as long as the engine is in good order.

Bill's house is in a little sheltered cove with steep bluffs surrounding. A half acre garden spot not only supplies food for him, but brings him several hundred dollars every summer where the fine vegetables are marketed in Con-tact, a nearby town.

All about this protected spot, stretch the high bare mountains that Bill believes rich in copper ore. His own holdings make him a potential millionaire, and he does not prospect any more, having plenty to do looking after his own claims and those of his friends. With his car, he covers the entire territory—roads or no roads.

Not even the gold rush days of the Klondike or Goldfield lured Bill away from his home where he has lived since 1896. Consequently, he is the patriarch of all the prospectors in that region, just as the Dodge car is the patriarch of all cars in lands where rough roads and steep grades eliminate the weak ones.

Bill's fellow worker is a younger brother, Hank. Both are batchelors, and depend on the faithful Dodge car for access to the outside world and to their own world—the secluded mountains about their home.

If the dairyman is to get a fair return on his investment and labor his dairy herd must average 300 pounds or over of butterfat a year. Figures show that cows producing 100 pounds of butterfat a year return only $14 over cost of feed, while cows that produce 300 pounds of butterfat return $96, or almost 7 times as much.

any pent up feelings that might be lingering there, but most of them gave the toastmaster back about twenty-nine minutes of the time that had been allotted to them. Most of them mentioned the fact that they had come because Jack Knight had promised to do the talking for the team. When it came Jack's time at bat, he came very close to undressing those who had been pitching curves at the ball team all evening. Jack not only made one speech, he made two. After getting about as much hide from these two individuals as had been skinned from the entire ball club, Jack proceeded to tell the assembled fans of the appreciation the players had for the fans who were tendering the banquet, and asked their continued support of the club during the remainder of the season.

Following Knight's speech, George McCullough was called upon to explain his part in the tournament and to show cause why he had not helped Wellington win

At the close of the banquet, Toastmaster Pinkston, who by the way originated the program, closed the evening by having John Holland return another one of the silent prayers.

Those who attended the banquet were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Pink Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Pinkston, T. D. Sumner, Joe Blair, Merle Cayton, Jno. C. King, E. C. Royalty Increase From University Oil Lands Noted

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—Payments of oil royalties of the University of Texas during the month of July, covering production for June, aggregated $161,604.99, with probably two or three remittances still to be received. This is an increase of approximately twenty thousand dollars over the payments for the preceding month. The increase is credited largely to the increase in the price of crude oil. In addition to the production from wells in the Reagan and Crane county fields, considerable gasoline is now being extracted from gas from the deepest producing well in the world, situated upon land owned by the university in Reagan county. The gas from this well passes through a casinghead gasoline plant in the field and a royalty is obtained by the university on this production. Prospects are also regarded as favorable for the development of two more pools upon university land in Pecos county.
