Coloradoans Hear FDR In Talk Today

Brief Platform Appearance Made At Pueblo As Train Speeds Toward West Coast

(By The Associated Press)

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S TRAIN En Route to San Francisco, July 12—President Roosevelt asserted today that "we want democracy to work."

"That is our chief objective," the president told a crowd estimated by police at more than 15,000, in a brief rear platform address from his special train at Pueblo, Colo.

"We don't want to copy other forms of government," he said. "Ours is good enough for us."

No Back-Patting

The president avoided reference to Colorado's Democratic senatorial primary, making no mention either of Senator Alva B. Adams or his primary rival, Judge Benjamin C. Hilliard.

Mr. Roosevelt devoted much of his Pueblo talk to describing the government's efforts toward conservation of natural resources, and described the government as "a common meeting ground" for the states in adjustments of their differences, particularly those involving water.

Only Mentioned Governor

His only mention of a Colorado official came when he said, discussing interstate water problems:

"Your governor and I have talked about them."

The president said the average person in the East thinks the Arkansas river is a creek and is surprised when he tells them the people of Pueblo were nearly wiped out in 1921.

"That river is not the problem of just one state."

The president said he always talks about the Arkansas a good example of a water shed and such watersheds' various needs.

Gov. Teller Ammons of Colorado who is unopposed for renomination, stood on the train platform behind

Wheat Loan To Be Made Soon

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 12—Federal farm officials began drafting details today of a wheat loan program, made mandatory by the forecast of a near-record crop.

Although provisions will not be announced for a few days, it was generally expected the loans would be about 50 cents a bushel, the minimum allowed under the new crop control act. The maximum is about 86 cents.

Required By Law

The loans can be obtained by farmers who wish to store their wheat until prices improve. They are required by law whenever the July estimate of production exceeds normal domestic and export needs of about 750,000,000 bushels.

The federal crop reporters predicted yesterday a yield of 967,102,000 bushels, only 41,000,000 bushels short of the record 1915 crop.

Must Export Wheat

H. R. Tolley, Agricultural Adjustment administrator, said that storage of wheat under government loans was not the only method the administration expects to employ to combat the surplus problem.

"We've got to export a lot of wheat," he said.

The administrator said that consideration was being given, among others, to proposals to subsidize exports of the grain, but that no discision had been reached.

Prospects Slightly Better

Exports of 1937 wheat totaled about 85,000,000 bushels. Tolley said present prospects for exports during the next 12 months did not exceed 10,000,000 bushels.

A third step in the surplus removal program, he explained, will be promulgation this week of a program for a small wheat crop next year. Growers may be asked, he said, to plant only 55,000,000 acres, compared with 79,500,000 seeded for this year's crop.

Sooner Demos Are Voting In Primary

Effect Of First Pat-On-Back By President On West Trip To Be Shown In Results

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 12 — Oklahoma Democrats, urged by President Roosevelt to nominate liberal candidates, wrote their answer on ballots in today's primary.

When the votes are counted Mr. Roosevelt will be able to check the effect of the pat on the back he gave Senator Elmer Thomas, seeking a third term.

First Test Since Trip Started

The election was the first test at the polls since the president started his western tour through states where administration senators are up for renomination. He also has given verbal pats on the back to Senators Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, Buckley of Ohio and Caraway of Arkansas.

A record approaching 600,000 Democratic votes was forecast because of intense interest in the senatorial and gubernatorial races.

Marland Is Included

In his Oklahoma City speech the president said Thomas, had been of "enormous help" to the administration. He added a kind remark for another senatorial aspirant, E. W. Marland, New Deal governor. But Thomas claimed the stronger favor.

The president had no such backpat for Rep. Gomer Smith, the third senatorial candidate. Smith voted against the president's reorganization bill and the administration farm bill.

Cracked Down On Murray

Without mentioning names, Mr. Roosevelt cracked down on former Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, a candidate for the office he left in 1935. Murray opposed the 1932 Roosevelt nomination and has fought the New Deal since.

Without referring to the president, Murray said in an address last night:

"If it (the governorship) is an appointive office, I don't want it. I don't want to be a carpet bagger any time, any where."

New Dealers Oppose Him

Opposing Murray were four acknowledged New Dealers—W. S. Key, former state WPA administrator; Leon C. Phillips, former speaker of the state house, former Governor "Iron Jack" Walton and Ira Finley, president of the Veterans of Industry of America.

All five claimed victory. Key was permitted to ride the president's train but Phillips forces intimated the ride was "thumbed" and belittled its significance.

With the exception of Gomer

Supplies Of Most Food Crops Ample

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) — This is how the federal crop reporting board forecasts major crop prospects for 1938, compared with last year's production:

Larger this year — wheat, barley, rye, flaxseed, rice, hay, sweet potatoes, sugar cane, sugar beets, pears, and citrus fruits.

Smaller—cotton, corn, oats, beans, potatoes, tobacco, hops, apples, peaches and grapes.

Supplies of most food crops appear likely to be ample, the board said.

Building Permits In June Are Largest Since January In U. S.

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Building permits in June were the largest since January and only seven per cent below the comparable 1937 total, Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., stated today.

The value of permits issued in 215 cities last month totaled $87,625,427, against $77,606,469 in May and $94,752,583 a year ago.

A number of cities reported substantial gains over the like period last year. Houston, Tex., with a 24 per cent increase headed the group chalking up advances.

'Flourman' O'Daniel, McCraw Mixing It Up In Verbal Raps; Thompson Talks Here Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

W. Lee O'Daniel, the Fort Worth flour merchant began naming names today in his campaign for governor—and the first target was William McCraw.

Heretofore O'Daniel had not mentioned opponents except in a general sense, but today at Gonzales

MADE GOOD SELECTION

AMARILLO, July 12 (AP) — Ernest Thompson, Railroad commissioner and candidate for governor of Texas, was the last man to be with President Roosevelt as the special train left here last night.

Col. Thompson thanked the chief executive for coming to his home town and the president replied that he was "happy and pleased."

The Amarillean thanked him for sending him to the World Petroleum congress in Paris this year.

"I made a good selection, Mr. Roosevelt smiled. "You did a great work there."

he made a speech entitled "the professional politician," and dedicated it to McCraw.

At Brownwood last night, when told O'Daniel threatened to broadcast a verbal attack on him, McCraw said he didn't mind meeting O'Daniel either on the stump or over the radio. McCraw promised to "tell the people a few things about the flourman myself" in a broadcast tonight.

McCraw In Dallas Today

At Smithville yesterday O'Daniel answered what he termed the attack of his opponents "who have stooped beneath the dignity that should accompany any candidate for high office of governor by whispering that I am an Ohio carpetbagger."

McCraw was in Dallas today attending the annual Oak Cliff picnic. He spoke at noon.

Tom Hunter, another candidate for governor, goes to Corsicana tonight. Last night he made his eighth radio speech at Dallas. He had what he termed "a heart-to-heart talk with his fellow-Texans," urging them to join with him in his "vigorous battle for state government adapted to their welfare" and charging platforms of McCraw and Ernest Thompson, another opponent, "are duplicates that have no constructive ideas and nothing that will relieve you of your tax burden."

Thompson, who was at Amarillo yesterday to greet President Roosevelt in his swing across the country, returned to the campaign today with an ambitious schedule of eight talks, touching at Canyon Happy, Tulia, Kress, Plainview, Hale Center, Abernathy and Lubbock.

Karl Crowley spoke at Dalby Springs last night, declaring he entered the race because he felt compelled to "help make a greater

Thompson To Speak Tonight

One of the climaxing rallies of the current political campaign is scheduled here tonight when Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, a member of the state railroad commission, will speak in support of his candidacy for governor.

The speech will be broadcast over KFYO, the station announced this morning.

Hop Halsey, chairman of the arrangements committee, will introduce Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney, who will present Colonel Thompson.

Band Is Provided

Amplifiers and a band have been provided. Texas Technological summer band school members will begin playing at 7:45 o'clock, and Colonel Thompson will begin speaking at 8:15 o'clock, in the park immediately west of city hall.

The commissioner is serving his second year of a first elective term, after having served in an appointive capacity approximately two years earlier. As mayor of Amarillo he was widely known for his utilities-slashing tactics. As a member of the railroad commission he was appointed by the president as a representative to the international oil conference conducted last year in Paris, France.

Is Widely Known

He has identified himself with oil proration in such a way as to become known as much as possibly any man to conserve petroleum resources.

He was the youngest colonel in the American expeditionary forces in the World war.

A group of Lubbock citizens will meet him at Plainview, leaving here at 10 a. m. from Hotel Lubbock.

Oriental War Is In Critical Stage Now

Crack-Up In Morale Of Civil Populations Would Mean Beginning Of The End

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Writer

NEW YORK, July 12—The Chino-Japanese war is entering a critical stage which may determine the ultimate outcome—and it's anybody's victory yet, for badly battered China's chances have improved.

A crack-up in the morale of the suffering civilian population of either country would mean the beginning of the end.

That is what Japan is playing for—a Chinese collapse — in Nip-

CANTON IS BOMBARDED

CANTON, China, July 12 (AP) — Japanese warplanes bombarded this teeming metropolis twice today, scoring seven direct hits on the Wongsha station and causing 32 deaths and injuries to 200.

The raiders heavily strafed the station area and the residential district near the Sun Yat-Sen memorial this morning. Shortly after noon the air-alarms shrilled again, bringing a new wave of panic while rescue squads still were picking up casualties from the first attack.

pon's eager drive along the Yangtze river against China's provisional capital, Hankow.

Third Note Sent U. S.

And that is why Japan has been so insistent on this campaign that she has sent a third note to America and other foreign countries, asking that they evacuate their citizens from Yangtze valley cities which may be bombed in the Japanese advance.

Loss of its capital naturally is a grievous blow to the morale of any country. And by the same token, the capture of Hankow would give the Japanese a big leg-up back home.

The Japanese government needs exactly that, for the country's economic structure has been shaken in the first year of war, and the hand of hardship is heavy on the nation.

World War Is Recalled

An illustration of the part sentiment can play in war was seen in the allied defense during the world conflict of the ancient Belgian city of Ypres and the big salient that bulged about it. Scores of thousands of men gave their lives, directly or indirectly, to keep the Germans out of this cathedral city, even after scarcely one brick stood on another. It was one of the worst hell-holes your correspondent ever was in.

And all this because it was feared that the loss of Ypres would have an adverse effect on the morale of the allies, especially Belgium. That salient about Ypres was a death trap for allied troops, and they would have handed it to the Germans on a platter—but for sentiment.

Capture Most Likely

Japan likely will capture Hankow. At least no prophet thus far has been hardy enough to predict that the Chinese could stand the enemy off.

There is much doubt, however, whether the Chinese morale will crack under this blow. They may merely pull back as they did when they lost their capital of Nanking, and keep on harassing the Japanese.

Facts and figures showing the desperately crowded conditions at Texas Technological college were presented and an urgent plea was made for funds for additional facilities, when Dr. James M. Gordon, chairman of the executive committee, and W. T. Gaston, business manager, appeared before the state board of control in Austin Monday.

Tech asked for $713,092.52 for salaries and maintenance for each year of the 1939-40 and 1940-41 biennium including $45,000 for summer school each year, and, in addition, asked for $950,000 for building and equipment, including $60,000 for equipment of the new library which is nearing completion; $250,000 for an agricultural building and equipment; $200,000 for a home economics building; $300,000 for a gymnasium - auditorium; $50,000 for a chemical and petroleum engineering building; $40,000 for shops and equipment for engineering division; $50,000, for other general equipment.

Facts Are Presented

Here are some of the facts the board of control heard:

For nine years after the science and engineering buildings and powerhouse and tunnel were constructed in 1929, Tech did not receive funds from the state for a single building. In that length of time the enrollment increased

Raskob, Pierre duPont Guilty, Board Finds

'Paper Transactions' Made In Securities To Evade More Than $1,000,000 In Taxes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 12—The United States Board of Tax Appeals found today that Pierre S. duPont and John J. Raskob had attempted to evade more than $1,000,000 of income taxes by "paper transactions" in securities.

The exact amount of additional taxes due on their 1929 incomes was left by the board to be determined later, but attorneys estimated Raskob might be held to owe about $1,000,000 and duPont about $600,000.

DuPont, a large contributor to Republican campaign funds in 1936, is chairman of the board of directors of E. I. duPont de Nemours and company. Raskob was chairman of the Democratic national committee and campaign manager for Alfred E. Smith in 1928, but turned against Roosevelt and with Smith promised the Liberty league in opposition to Roosevelt.

Sold To Each Other

After the 1929 stock market crash, duPont and Raskob sold about $4,500,000 of securities to each other at prices far below what they had paid for them. Eventually they resold the securities to each other so each wound up with his original holdings. They claimed deductions from their income tax for the losses indicated by the difference between the original value of the securities and the prices at which the securities were sold.

The board said, "when summed up, our whole question is one as to whether the transactions considered are such as the statutes as to deductible losses intended and contemplated, or were paper transactions to escape tax liability.

Guided By Criteria

"The matter before us here required examination in the light of the ordinary actions and reactions of men, guided by criteria of reasonable human behaviour in business transactions."

"So viewed, they demonstrate, in our opinion, the complete improbability of the asseverations of petitioner that the sales were bona fide, real, free from agreement to reacquire, in spite of the result — the complete return to original ownership. Such a result could conceivably be without design, but such a thing would be entirely too remarkable for belief.

"Men do not conduct themselves and accomplish the end as did these parties toward each other, and at-

Major Index In U. S. Farm Status Is Up

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Hog producers' weekly income, a major index of farmers' economic status, was almost $3,000,000 higher because of the $2 per hundredweight advance in swine prices the past nine weeks, market statistics showed today.

A corresponding upturn in cattle prices lifted beef steers to the highest point since November while hogs were the highest since October. The gain in hogs which started the middle of May and preceded the recent stock market bulge by almost a month, gave swine raisers the most profitable feeding basis in some time, livestock experts said.

Charges Made Against Italy

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 12.—Spanish government accusations that Premier Mussolini had no intention of carrying out his side of the bargain to withdraw foreign fighters from Spain gave new pause today to men who already have worked 23 months on an evacuation scheme.

The British foreign office had a note from the Barcelona government asserting Italy sent 6,666 soldiers and 334 aviators into insurgent Spain since the signing of a British-Italian friendship agreement April 16.

Would Take Ill Home

Further, the note charged, Italy would take home 10,000 soldiers, most of them ill, from Spain if the non-intervention committee's plan went into effect and incorporate the rest of the Italian troops in Spain into the Spanish foreign legion with the officers.

These contentions were made upon the British government's publication of a 164-day evacuation program suggested by the 26-nation non-intervention committee and providing that at least 2,000 soldiers would be presented daily for evacuation from Spain.

Italian Statement Says 580 Planes Brought Down In Spain

Execution Of McCall Stayed

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., July 12 — The electrocution of Franklin Pierce McCall for the kidnaping of James Bailey Cash, jr., was stayed today.

Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson granted McCall's counsel, C. A. Avriett, a writ of error permitting an appeal to the state supreme court. The writ is returnable Oct. 31. The execution, scheduled the week of July 25, is automatically stayed.

Should Have Jury

"The principal contention we will make . . ." Avriett said, "will be that owing to the peculiar wording of the kidnap statute, the defendant, pursuant to a plea of guilty, should have the benefit of a jury passing upon the point of whether he is entitled to a recommendation of mercy."

The state's "Lindbergh law" provides death for violation unless a jury should recommend life imprisonment. Judge Atkinson conducted McCall's trial without a jury and the death sentence was considered mandatory.

Accident Victims Spend 'Fairly Good Nights' In Sanitarium

Two victims of unusual accidents Monday spent "fairly good nights" at Lubbock sanitarium.

W. H. Reece, about 62, of Jayton fell beneath a tractor at a farm near Jayton and was transferred to the sanitarium after being given emergency attention for fractures of the arm, shoulder, pelvis and dislocation and fracture of a hip.

Wayne Hunnicutt, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hunnicutt of Girard, suffered severe injuries of the face and chest when trampled by an infuriated cow. Injuries included severe bruises of his face, a laceration of the lower lip and rib fractures.

Neither of the victims was deemed in critical condition this morning, said physicians.

Reece fell under the tractor when riding with Junior Thames, a grandson who was plowing cotton. Rubber tires passed over the man's body.

Family members did not know of Young Hunnicutt's injury until he had returned to his residence after hunting a guinea's nest in a nearby pasture.

FOR VACATION TOGS

Designers are doing the cleverest things with the lowliest materials. A natty little jacket of off-white burlap is lined with gay printed calico with matching bands finishing front opening, short sleeves and square pockets. A headkerchief from the same calico goes with it.

Latest Apron For The Woman Who Gardens

No, she hasn't draped odds and ends from the tool kit that belongs in the family car in fantastic array on her skirt. Nor has she been kneeling on a rubber beach pillow that somehow got sticky and stuck to her knees when she got up. She's just wearing one of the latest apron creations for women who do a-gardening go. Of printed cretonne, it is equipped with straps for pruning shears and other garden paraphernalia, a kneeling pad and huge pockets. Notice the kerchief, tied peasant-fashion about her head. This summer, kerchiefs are worn by smart women the world over for afternoon and evening as well as for active sports and gardening.

Allred Expected To Resign After Primaries To Take Judgeship

Woodul Would Be Governor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 12 — Governor James V. Allred probably will resign early this fall after the Democratic primary elections, friends said here today.

Immediately after announcement by President Roosevelt of the governor's appointment as judge of a new federal court in South Texas, Allred said he did not know whether he would finish his second term as chief executive, but usually well informed sources express opinion he might step out in September.

Woodul Would Be Governor

If he did resign, Lieutenant-Governor Walter Woodul, a candidate for attorney general, would become governor and serve until a man to be elected this summer and fall was inaugurated in January. Woodul, 45, is a lawyer of Houston.

The appointment was no great surprise to the capital because it long had been rumored that the governor was in high favor at the White House and might be named to the federal bench.

Governor Allred repeatedly said he knew nothing of reports he would be appointed judge of the court created at the last session of congress but most people took his declarations with a grain of salt. It was reported also that he had been offered other federal appointments but had declined them chiefly because they would have taken him out of the state.

Friendly Wih Elliott

In addition to being popular with the president, Governor Allred, the second youngest governor in the history of the Lone Star state, was on very friendly terms with Mr. Roosevelt's son, Elliott, who now has a home at Fort Worth. About two years ago the governor appointed Elliott Roosevelt a member of the board of regents of Texas A. and M. college.

It was understood Allred also was in excellent standing with Vice President John N. Garner, part of whose old congressional district was included in the new judicial district.

One Of Youngest

Thirty-five years old when elected to his first term as governor in 1934 and now 38, Governor Allred will be one of the youngest federal judges in the country.

Only one other governor of Texas was younger. Dan Moody, now a practicing attorney of Austin, was 34 when chosen chief executive.

In the probability Governor Allred would resign and be succeeded by Lieut-Gov. Woodul, some foresaw greater possibility of a special session of the legislature this fall. Governor Allred, many persons believed, had not contemplated an extraordinary session, but Woodul's views were not known. Special sessions of the legislature in the fall have been frequent in recent years.

Quick To Congratulate

Woodul was quick to congratulate Allred on the appointment and said he would take the governorship if Allred resigned.

"I congratulate Jimmie and his family," Woodul said. "It opens a wonderful future to him."

"In the event he begins service on the federal bench before his term ends, I would take the governorship. I hired out for a job and there would be nothing else for me to do under the constitution. I would fill the governorship for the remainder of the term."

No Lieutenant-Governor

If Woodul became governor, the state would have no lieutenant-governor until the one elected in November had taken the oath of office in January. Senator Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls, president pro tempore of the senate, would serve as governor in Woodul's absence from the state or in the event of Woodul's death.

Former Governor Moody and Associate Justice John H. Sharp were others to comment. Moody said he congratulated Governor Allred and believed "he will make a fine United States district judge."

Has Had Remarkable Career

Justice Sharp said Allred had had a remarkable career.

"He has been district attorney, attorney general, and governor of Texas," he said. "This has given him a wide and varied experience, and is a fine background for his new position of federal district judge.

"Governor Allred is impartial, energetic, patient and in the prime of life, and I predict that he will make a great judge."

Mrs. Allred said she was "extremely overjoyed" by the news of the appointment, but she hoped her husband would serve out his term as governor.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE

SUDAN — Fire of undetermined origin nearly destroyed the McGlamory apartments near the high school. The three apartments were vacant at the time, having just been repainted and redecorated. Firemen responded promptly and according to Chief W. W. Carpenter, kept the blaze from destroying the entire building.

Marketing Of Crops Talked Last Night In Irrigation Session

Methods of marketing crops were discussed Monday night when 30 irrigation farmers attended a session of Lubbock County Irrigation association, in a district courtroom of the courthouse.

Outstanding among the irrigation products was the sweet potato crop. More than 300 acres of sweet potatoes were planted this season and farmers reported progress of the crop. Harvest will begin late in October, agricultural authorities said.

It was explained that tomatoes and several other truck crops were damaged, and in some cases destroyed, by hail.

Sweet corn crops will be narvested in about two weeks, authorities said, and cantaloupes about a week later, but indications were that those crops would not justify arrangements for carload lot shipping.

The meeting was the first held by the association in more than two months. The next session probably will be conducted Aug. 1.

Robert Bean, chairman of the association, presided.

Forever Setting Records

By Collier Parris

ALONG ABOUT THE FOURTH inning yesterday we were beginning to think: Good blank blankety blank blank gee whiz! What'sa matter with that bunch of blankety blank blanks? What kinds baseball is this, anyhow?

Then we got to thinking that scores like 16-6, 13-2, 11-8, 13-1, etc., weren't at all strange to World Series followers, along with games in which one side got 20 hits, more or less; that the St. Louis Cards once scored 28 runs in a National League game; that the Cubs once defeated the Phils, 26 to 22, the teams scoring a total of 51 hits; that eleven pitchers paraded to the mound in a National League game—and that big scores are so common in the big show and that so many big league players have made five errors each in a single game that no attempt was made to keep the individual records.

And when we got to cogitating upon those items, as well as the daily big league box scores, we found it not so hard to sympathize with the Hubbers and all other clubs in the West Texas-New Mexico league.

It goes without saying, of course, that the sterling mound work of Marv Gramly and the clouting of his mates in the innings succeeding the fourth helped relieve our peace of mind no end.

These Hubbers we have playing professional baseball in Lubbock this summer are some kids, no fooling. You can never tell what they'll do next. They can turn in some of the most superb fielding you ever saw in one inning, and drop to the gutter in the next. This is one of the great mysteries of the game perhaps; one that lends apprehension and the nervous jitters to the sport.

Not being in communication with the league statistician at the time, nor yet, we can not say truthfully that two league records set out at the College Avenue diamond yet.

But we feel quite sure that the Hubbers broke a couple of records—one offensive and one defensive. And maybe three offensive records.

The three home runs that Malcolm Stevens slapped over the right field boards—all of them within ten feet of each other when they cleared the palings—on his first three trips to bat very probably is a record. The total of five homers propelled by the Hubbers, Pete Melito and Hack Miller contributing to the number, may be another record for one game. A total of six homers in one game, the sixth supplied by Capps of Big Spring, may be another. You can see we are not exactly up on the records.

Defensively, we would hazard a guess that the five consecutive errors made by the Hubbers constitute a record for one inning, if not for one game. There was momentary interruption while Gramly struck out a man, then a sixth error. We trust that League Statistician Jess Rodgers of Midland will check up on these items and send out to the subscribing newspapers the correct dope.

We have heard of teams going to pieces in the field, and even the Hubbers are not immune to errors. But take the fourth inning of yesterday's game.

To start it, Centerfielder Sweet of Big Spring grounded out, Gramly to Mosel, at first. Jo-Jo Saporito, leftfielder, bumped an easy grounder to Watty Watkins, who was playing third, relieving Johnny Taylor. Watkins fielded the ball perfectly, but he must have thought he was still playing center field, because he threw it ten feet over Mosel's head. Shortstop Hobson came up next, and Mal Stevens, the same who hit three homers in a row, fumbled it. Then Firstbaseman Siegbert rapped one to left field. Sherry, newcomer to the Lubobck club, had it in his hands, after first misjudging it, and let it bounce over the fence for a two-base error, scoring two runs. Joe Gedzius messed up Capp's easy grounder to short. Catcher Melito let one get away, scoring another run. There are your five errors in a row.

They're putting up lights at the ball park, hoping thereby to be able to entertain more customers and create new ones.

But it'll take more than lights to please the patrons. They are pretty fair judgers of baseball talent, most of the Lubbock fans, and they expect to see demonstrations of ambition and courage when they pay their way into the park. Innings like that fourth yesterday won't get the job done. Ball players, to please the people who pay their freight, must hustle all the time. The Hubbers play very brilliant ball at times, but they come very near spoiling the effect by loafing on the job at other times. They'll find that this is the case in Class D baseball as well as in the majors.

As for the lights, we are advised they'll be ready to burn tomorrow night. There may be a hitch, but if weather is favorable and if the parts fit, our friend A. D. Chase and his Texas-New Mexico Utilities company fellow workers promise to have the glimmers going Wednesday night.

Watch tomorrow's papers and listen to Judge Landis' hired hands over KFYO for further announcements.

All we're sure of is that the Wink Spudders will be here for games Wednesday and Thursday, and if the lights aren't ready Wednesday night, they'll go on Thursday night.

In the meantime, today is ladies day at the ball park, and if you find out in time, rush out and rush in. The Big Spring Barons, by no means a slouchy team, conclude their series with the Hubbers here today at 3:30.

Hubbers Win Freak Game On Monday

Today probably is last "ladies day" for baseball games at Parris field as night ball likely will come into being Wednesday night, then it'll be "ladies night."

Big Spring encounters the Hubbers this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the second and final game of the series.

Stevens Hits Three Homers

The locals tagged three Baron hurlers for 18 hits, including three consecutive home runs by Mal Stevens, and went on to win a wierd contest from the invaders, 14 to 12.

Ladies Day Today

Passing of week day, daylight baseball at the Lubbock baseball field will be marked today by another "ladies day" ball game.

The fair sex, and all youngsters, will be admitted free today for the second and concluding game of the Lubbock-Big Spring series. The ladies do not have to be attended by paid admissions. All they have to do is walk through the gate. The game starts at 3:30 o'clock.

General Manager Harry Faulkner announced yesterday that, in all probability, the floodlights would be ready to turn on Wednesday night, and that "moontime" baseball would begin then.

In today's game, Willard Ramsdell, a righthander, has been nominated by Manager Charley Barnabe to pitch against Frank Grabek or Ernest Terry for Lubbock.

Manager Hack Miller and Pete Melito cracked homers also and Bill Capps hit one for the Barons.

All the time the home run hitting was going on, Lubbock was giving one of its "unspectacular" error sprees. Five straight times a Baron came to the plate, a Hubber erred on his effort at a hit. Only a strikeout separated the sixth.

Two Register Perfect Days

Charlie Bryan started for Lubbock, but gave way to Marvin Gramly. Skipper Charlie Barnabe used Marion Keller, Pat Stasey, and Clarence Tramtham. Joe Gedzius cornered three singles and a double for a perfect day with the willow, and after Stevens concluded his third roundtrip, Baron hurlers kept the good ones away and he walked twice.

Clovis kept a percentage point ahead of Midland by taking an 11-to 10 win over Hobbs. The Pioneers got off to a seven-run lead, then stood by to see the Boosters pull alongside. Tex Stuart got the payoff blow, a double in the eighth, to ice away the game for Clovis.

Midland took a thriller from Wink. Red Roberts held the Spudders to six hits over the route. Lefty Parks kept eleven Spud hits scattered well, but succumbed to an eighth inning attack.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK, July 12. (AP)—News: Bill de Correvont, the Chicago football sensation, finally has caught up with his books and will be a sure starter for the Northwestern yearlings next fall. . . . There'll be a September heavyweight fight all right, but don't ask who'll do the fighting. . . . You're liable to see Baer, Pastor, Galento, Barlund and mebbe two or three others in the same ring the same night. . . . If our Mid-West scouts have the right dope, Kansas is in the middle of a big football build-up and will be the team to beat in the "Big Six" along about 1939. . . . We just got a fresh batch of rumors about an important coaching change on the Pacific coast. . . .

Oddities: When two soft ball teams out in Toledo scheduled a game to start at 2 a. m. it made the front page of the Toledo Blade, which knows news when it sees it. . . . A couple of guys named Moulder and Graves did the pitching and catching for Beatrice in the Nebraska State league the other night. . . . The Gas House gang (what's left of it) has two "Jersey Joes" — Stripp and Medwick. . . . Who is the gal who broadcasts Syracuse baseball games over station SYR? . . . She knows her baseball, all right. . . . You can blame this on Jimmy Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer: "If the Brooklyn baseballers were still known as the Robins, G. Herman Ruth would qualify as the round robin."

Today's tall one: The other night while Tom Sunkel was out there pitching his head off for Atlanta, thieves crashed his apartment and stole everything but the kitchen sink. . . . Jack Troy, sports editor of the Atlanta Constitution, received a letter signed by a bird who said he was president of the Atlanta Burglars' association, denying any of his boys had anything to do with it. . . . "No reputable burglar would steal a ball player's clothes, especially with him pitching like I seen him pitch Tuesday night," wrote the head burglar. . . . "If I thought a guy in my association done it I would throw him out on his ear."

There Seems To No Way Of Stopping The Tulsa Oilers

(By The Associated Press)

There doesn't seem to be any way of stopping the hustling Tulsa Oilers as they pound down the stretch in front of the Texas league pack.

With the kind of pitching Bruce Connatser's men are getting it begins to look like the Oklahomans are on top to stay. First it's Max Thomas, then it's Irv Stein, and if they are not working well — which isn't often — the Oilers just overpower the opposition with slugging in the clinches.

Stein Humbles Cats

Last night Stein had his turn and he walloped the stumbling Fort Worth Cats. Stein allowed the Cats only five hits as Tulsa won, 7-2. It was the fifth straight victory for Tulsa.

The Beaumont Exporters, browsing along in second place by an uncomfortable margin, held the pace but couldn't slice off any of that four and one-half game space between them and the Oilers. The Shippers won over Houston, 2-1, with Dizzy Trout holding the Buffs to two hits. Jim Winford did a fair job himself, limiting the exporters to five blows. Beaumont won in the tenth.

Dallas downed Oklahoma City, 6-4, using a triple play that the Indians protested long and loud. It came about when Paul Amen, Dallas first sacker, intentionally dropped a pop fly in order to get more than one runner out. Oklahoma City protested on the grounds the umpire should have ruled the fly as having been caught even if Amen did drop it.

The Shreveport Sports missed a golden opportunity to climb out of the cellar position by losing to San Antonio 5-3. San Antonio, clouted out twelve hits and the Sports mixed in three errors to help the Missions along.

Expected Developments Fail To Materialize In Cats' Situation

FORT WORTH, July 12 (AP)—Expected developments in the Cats' managerial situation failed to come off here Monday, or, at least, nothing happened for publication.

Homer Peel understood that he was to hear whether or not he was to be granted his release, but the deposed manager sat patiently by his telephone in vain.

Stanley Thompson, president of the club who was to have conferred with him, had no news for Peel.

The owner of a Southern association club arrived here yesterday to offer Peel a manager's job, but they were not free to discuss the matter until Homer becomes a free agent.

Meanwhile Business Manager Ceil Coombs, who relieved Peel, guided the club to its second loss in three starts.

Donaldson Pacing All Minor Leagues

DURHAM, N. C., July 12 (AP) — The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues said today Third Baseman Gordon Donaldson of Hobbs, in the West Texas-New Mexico league, was pacing all batters for the Louisville slugger trophy.

His average at the halfway mark was given as .441.

Two Softball Games Are To Be Played Here This Afternoon

In the American softball league CCC plays Still and Guess on the 23rd St.-Ave. K field at 6:30 o'clock this afternoon, Dalby and Montgomery meet in a National loop contest at the Avenue H diamond.

The Bakery lads forged into a tie for championship of the American loop with a 7-2 win from the leaders, Wilson Cleaners, Monday afternoon.

Lubbock Poultry and Egg defeated McIlhaney, 17-12, in a sluggers duel that featured the hitting of Hilliard, Swan, May, and Tinney.

Behind the effective hurling of Cowboy Kyle KFYO softballers trampled American Optical, 17-2.

Joe Bihl Announces Driving Contest At His New Range

Joe Bihl announces the first driving contest at the newly opened Tee Box Driving range at Fourth street and College avenue. Contestants will tee off at 9 o'clock tonight.

Several hotshots of Lubbock golf have signified intentions of entering. Among them are Manson Allen, Alfred Holton, Kay Bradshaw, Bill Hackett, Weldon Counts, and Bihl.

Three balls will be hit by each contestant, with length average considered for the prize.

A like contest will be held for women drivers Thursday night.

Marshall's Tigers Extend East Texas Lead To Game And Half

(By The Associated Press)

Leo Wells lined a single in the eleventh last night to give Marshall a 9-8 victory over Kilgore while Skipper John Kosy of Palestine was going wild with the willow to pace an attack that defeated Texarkana 11-1, so the Tigers today enjoy a game and a half lead in the turbulent East Texas league race.

Marshall came from behind to tie the score in the seventh with a five-run rally. Then came Wells' money punch that gave the Bengals a free-breathing margin over the Texarkanans

The third-place Henderson Oilers dropped a 5-2 decision to Tyler. The Trojans went on a four-run stampede in the eighth to sew up the game.

Longview scored four runs in the seventh to nose out Jacksonville, 4-3. It was a pitching duel between Winfield of the Cannibals and Crow of Jacksonville, Longview getting but two hit until the big eighth. The Jax hung up six.

So difficult are the tests for automobile drivers in Great Britain that more than 27 per cent of the applicants in the last three years have failed.

Shute And 3 Unknowns Top PGA's Draw

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 12.—As match play began today in the National P.G.A. championship over the table-top fairway of the Shawnee Country club, Defending Champion Denny Shute topped the first quarter of the draw, with three lesser-known campaigners holding the other honor spots.

One of them, probably, never will do much better than the 138 he posted to tie for second place in the two-day, 36-hole qualifying round. He is Harry Nettlebladt of Framingham, Mass. Harry has qualified for match play twice before and has been bounced out each time in the first round. Even if he should get by his opening test against Johnny Kinder of Plainfield, N. J., he probably would run up against three-time winner Gene Sarazen this afternoon.

Two Others Are Ready

The other two, Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the medalist with an eight-under-par 136, and Marvin Stahl, the well set-up youngster from Lansing, Mich., who equaled Nettlebladt's 138, are in their competitive prime, and both seem ready to step out in earnest.

Shute, given No. 1 spot in the numerical (no seeded players) draw as title defender, was matched with Clyde Usina, jr., and Stahl with Clarence Clark, Big Bloomfield, N. J., blond.

Other feature first-round matches:

Ed Dudley vs. Johnny Farrell; Harry Cooper vs. Felix Serafin, stout Pennsylvania veteran; Sam Parks vs. Jug McSpaden; Sarazen vs. Leo Walper; Johnny Revolta vs. Wiffy Cox, and Ralph Guldahl vs. John Malutic.

Five Players From Each Of 8 East Texas Squads To Play In League's All-Star Game

TYLER, July 11. (AP)—Five players from each of the eight East Texas league teams make up the squads that will battle at Henderson in the annual all-star game.

C. P. Mosley, president of the league, last night announced the teams selected by voters from the fans and recommendations of the club managers.

W. R. (Red) Rollings of Tyler will manage the South team and Guy Sturdy of Marshall the North.

The teams:

North — Texarkana; Kappelman, catcher; Frierson, first base; Lavis, pitcher; Houston and Lusk, outfielders. Kilgore; Frierson and Oliver, outfielders; Dalrymple, shortstop; Randolph, third base; Marshall, Lowman, catcher; Capdeville and Vanorsdol, pitchers; Wells, shortstop; Simpson, outfielder; Longview: Sanderson, first base; C. Smith, utility; Haynes, outfielder; Kennedy, third base; Boyles, pitcher.

South — Tyler: Browning and Schroeder, pitchers; McNabb, second base; Floyd, shortstop; Hill, outfielder. Palestine: Susee and Cuellar, pitchers; Kosy and Leary, outfielders; Costello, third base. Henderson: Carr, catcher; Hall, Abbott and Curtwright, outfielders; Sublett, shortstop. Jacksonville: Katkaveck, catcher; Daiss and Davis, pitchers; Robello, first base; Cabral, second base.

Rookie Joe Gordon Has Been Spark For The Yankees

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—The present upswing of the New York Yankees, which has yielded 10 victories in their last 13 starts, with one game tied, can be traced directly to the inspired batting and fielding of Rookie Joe Gordon at second base.

All the Yanks needed was some one to spark them, and the kid from Newark has supplied the spark. In his last 15 games Gordon has compiled a .450 average, including five homeruns, four doubles and two triples. His 23 hits in that period have knocked across 20 runs. He is tied today with Joe DiMaggio for the club batting lead with a mark of .325.

Since he made his last error on June 25, the boy who filled Tony Lazzeri's shoes has fielded brilliantly, handling 85 chances without a bobble. Joe McCarthy, who was a little skeptical for a while, now suspects Gordon will develop into one of the greatest second-basemen.

Athletes For Tokyo Games

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 12—The men and women most seriously concerned with the Olympic games—the champion athletes in all branches of sports—apparently prefer to run, jump or swim rather than discuss the political situation.

It may be discouraging to the opponents of holding the 1940 games in Japan, but the replies received so far in a poll of the athletes conducted by the American Olympic committee are overwhelmingly in favor of sending teams to Tokyo.

Questionnaire Sent Out

As a result of the opposition, based largely upon Japan's war in China, and of the dates set for the summer games—Sept. 21 - Oct. 6—the A.O.C. sent out a questionnaire to all National A.A.U. and intercollegiate champions as well as all members of the 1936 Olympic team.

They were asked: "1. Are you in favor of U. S. Participation in the 1940 olympics at Tokyo? 2. Do you expect to participate in the tryouts? 3. If not, why not? 4. Could you make the trip, if successful in qualifying for the team?"

Pointing out that no official invitation from Japan has yet been received and that the committee merely was seeking opinions for guidance, the committee apparently asked the questions in order to decide what its actions should be when the invitation arrives.

MEETS ARE SCHEDULED

DALLAS, July 12 (AP) — Ralph Stamps, director in chief of both events, announced today the fourth annual southwestern amateur invitation swimming meet would be held here August 6 and 7, and that the sixth annual North Texas boys swimming carnival had been set here for July 23.

John D. Rockefeller, jr., contributed $2,000,000 toward the League of Nations library.

TWIN LEADS FIELD

PHILADELPHIA, July 12. (AP) — John Kramer, a 16-year-old twin from Los Angeles led the field today as the second day of play started in the National Interscholastic boy's tennis tournament at the American Cricket club.

Kramer, seeded second, had an easy road to the quarter-finals through a bye, a default and victory. He trounced Thomas Nixon, another twin from San Antonio, Texas, 6-2, 6-2, in the third round.

Rasputin, favorite with Russian royalty, was of peasant origin.

Giants And Indians Face Test In Round Of Intersectional Games

Pirates, Red Sox, Yankees Are Threats

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Disregarding the fact that the New York Giants and Cleveland Indians still are holding the lead in their respective leagues, it seems to be a good time now to keep close watch on the second and third place clubs.

For the past couple of weeks, the Pittsburgh Pirates, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox have been playing, in general, much better baseball than the leaders. And the time is at hand when they can make it count.

Indians Venture East

Starting today in the American league and tomorrow in the National, there another round of intersectional games coming up. The Indians, with a mound department that has been in danger of falling apart, have to venture into the east where the Yanks and Red Sox will be lying in wait. Their two game lead over New York and 3 1-2 game margin over Boston won't count for much unless they can beat those rivals.

Similarly, Pittsburgh has a great opportunity to smash its way into the National league lead and Chicago and Cincinnati can do considerable damage.

Have Won 12 Straight

All the Pirates have done recently has been to win 12 straight games, the longest major league victory streak of the season, climb from fourth place to second and cut the Giants lead to a game and a half. They did the latter trick yesterday by smashing down the Chicago Cubs, 5-3, in a brilliant ninth inning rally.

Cincinnati, which recently passed Chicago to gain third, whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-5, in the only other major league game. The Giants and Brooklyn were rained out.

Aspermont Man Is Low Bidder On New Seagraves Building

Final figures on low bidders on construction of the new Seagraves grade school building have been tabulated and total cost of the structure is about $42,000, said Haynes and Strange, architects, this morning. There were nine bidders on the general contract.

H. H. Shadle, Aspermont, was low bidder with $33,375 as a final total. W. P. Lee of Quanah was low on plumbing and heating, $5,083 and James H. Pruitt, Lubbock, low on electrical work, $1,222.

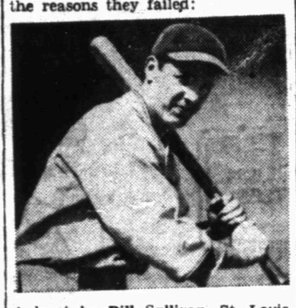

Work is to start within a short time and the building is to be completed within 90 working days.

They Spoiled Games

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

No-hit baseball games are rare. The only ones in the major leagues this season were pitched by Cincinnati's John Vander Meer, two in succession. Six other hurlers came close, just one hit away from the perfect game. Here are the reasons they failed:

A bunt by Bill Sullivan, St. Louis, was the only hit off Cleveland's Bob Feller, April 20.

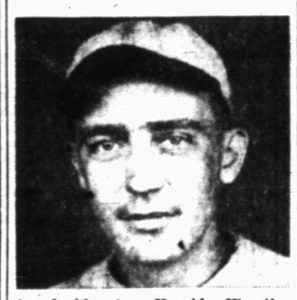

Goodwin Rosen, Brooklyn spoiled no-hitters for Hal Schumacher, New York, April 24, and Bill McGee, St. Louis, May 17.

Debs Garms, Boston, made only hit off Pittsburgh's Russ Bauers-Rip Sewell combination, May 17.

George Stainback, Philadelphia, ruined the day for Carl Hubbell, New York, May 28.

A double by Harold Warstler, Boston, wrecked hopes of Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn, June 30.

Oct. 28-29 Dates Set For Convention

Oct. 28 and 29 have been set as dates for the annual convention here of the Texas section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, according to word received at the chamber of commerce this morning.

The convention was awarded to Lubbock last fall at the 1937 convention, to which Houston was host.

Announcement that the dates had been set and that Lubbock hotel has been designated as headquarters came from the society's state offices in Austin.

Personal invitations to approximately 1,000 members of the society to attend the convention will be mailed from the chamber of commerce here in the near future, it was announced.

J. H. Murdough, head professor of civil engineering at Texas Technological college, is chairman of local arrangements.

That Girl on Broadway says everybody's hurrying to get through what's to do the next unimportant thing.

It's pretty hard to like a fellow who won't let you do part of the talking.

ALL these governors, senators, representatives and candidates for those offices who have been riding with President Roosevelt down streets lined with cheering throngs—and who have been appearing with him on platforms surrounded by applauding thousands might well consider a true happening having to do with the President and his grandchildren, "Sissie" and "Buzzie" Dall.

It seems that the Dall kiddies became engaged in a brotherly-sisterly spat and Marvin McIntyre, one of Mr. Roosevelt's secretaries, came up to part them.

"Why, what's the matter?" he scolded. "Why are you fussing?"

"Well did you see him in the parade?" asked "Sistie," age about 10, pointing an indignant finger at "Buzzie," who is a couple of years her junior. "He stood up in grandpa's auto and waved back at all those people just as though they were shouting and cheering for him."

McIntyre, trying to placate the crestfallen "Buzzie," replied:

"Well maybe 'Buzzie' was just pleased that all the people were shouting for his grandpa."

"Maybe so," insisted "Sistie," little mollified. "But next time, 'Buzzie,' don't look so pleased at yourself. It's not us they're cheering for!"

As everyone knows, whenever a President travels there are great pains taken to protect him, not only from possible wrong-doers but also from a crush of well-wishers.

Advance Secret service men go ahead of the trip, pick out routes to be followed in every city, check hotel accommodations, elevators, boilers, train tracks — in fact, investigating everything. No end of checking and double-checking is done.

There is one other celebrity, however, for whom similar safety measures are now being taken—and doubtless for good reason. That one other celebrity is none other than Shirley Temple, dimpled darling of the movies millions.

JUST the other day Shirley and her parents were due to arrive New York for the child actress's first visit to the great metropolis. Executives of Shirley's film company had the running jitters for New York's millions would all but mob the little girl—not to hurt or annoy her, but to pay her the tribute her screen work has so justly won.

So finally it was agreed that her arrival in the Big Town would be a deep, dark secret—and it was.

Therefore, America's diminutive sweetheart was sneaked into Grand Central Terminal, then whisked to her hostelry by a circuitous route.

That's the same way they do American Presidents when they come into New York.

Incidentally, just before Shirley got to New York she visited President Roosevelt in the White House.

Among other didoes, autographs were exchanged "by request."

And the request was not made by Shirley to the President—but by the President to Shirley!

Any other movie star would give $100,000 to be able to put out a publicity story like that!

NOW The Plainsman is looking for someone who has a cabin in New Mexico—preferably at Ruidoso—who wouldn't mind its being put to a good use.

Mrs. W. T. Milam has five orphan children she would like to send to the cooler mountain climes for something like a week or 10 days. Arrangements already have been made for a couple to look after both the children and the cabin and it is promised that the property will not be abused.

These five children have never been in the mountain country and would be wonderfully thrilled at the opportunity.

Anyone with a cabin he'd like to see used for this purpose will be doing a good deed by informing Mrs. Milam of the fact.

Ed Wilson, the cleaner and presser, is just back from a visit with his folk in Illinois and bobs up with a suggestion that Lubbock interests would do well to consider.

Ed suggests that a few road signs be scattered along Highway 66 between St. Louis and Amarillo urging tourists to visit Carlsbad caverns via Lubbock.

He believes it would do a lot of good.

THIS column believes Ed "has got something there."

Highway 66 is crowded, especially through the summer months, with tourists and a lot of them are headed for Carlsbad. Still others would go to the caverns if it were just suggested to them.

We'd like to make a further suggestion, however.

There's a relatively new route that also could be boosted by Lubbock—a route which before long will be bringing flocks of tourists to our bustling little whistling post on their way to Carlsbad.

That route is along Highway 83 from Shamrock, through Childress to Paducah and from there on through Matador and in by way of either Dickens or Floydada and Ralls.

Highway 83 joins busy 66 at Shamrock and a lot of people already are using it and have been for a number of months, since extensive improvements have been completed.

Since we are not interested in how many people go to Amarillo—on No. 66 or any other road—how about a great big sign at the intersection of 66 and 83 at Shamrock, inviting folks to cut down No. 83 to Lubbock, on their way to the caverns, El Paso and points west?

That sort of thing would not be hurtful to Tulia, Plainview, Hale Center and Abernathy, because we'd also be boosting No. 9 from Amarillo on to Lubbock with signs erected between Shamrock and Amarillo on No. 66.

THE PLAINSMAN has noticed for a good many years that Lubbock is way shy on road signs.

Between here and Oklahoma City, for instance, no matter which way you go, you see Plainview signs but none of Lubbock—that is, until you get to Lubbock's back door.

There's an opportunity here, we think, for some good work. At any rate, it might be talked over by the directors of the chamber of commerce, or of some other civic organization anxious to bring more people through Lubbock and our neighboring cities in all directions.

"How much do you charge?" asked the man.

"Three dollars a day," said the fellow behind the desk.

"Does the rate come any cheaper by the week?"

HERE AND THERE: NBC has rejected some of the songs from "Pine and Needles," the union garment makers' musical revue which has presented more than 275 performances in New York and still is going strong. . . . The rejected songs, say the NBC moguls, are unsuited for broadcasting because of "bent toward radical propaganda." . . . The play, "Tobacco Road" continues far in front in the length of its Broadway run. . . . It passed the 1,930 mark in number of repetitions in New York a few days ago and the box office continues a big payoff. . . . The political satire, "I'd Rather Be Right," has been repeated more than 275 times in the big town, but the critics predict it will fold wilt under the season's heat. . . . Movies continue the efforts to get George M. Cohan, the star, for the screen version of the comedy, but the publicity men say George says "no soap." . . . A better guess is that it is just a publicity gag, and that we shall see Cohan in the screen play when it quits Broadway. . . . Cohan, incidentally, plays a more realistic part than President Roosevelt himself in the comedy. . . . Recently the President delivered a "fireside chat" from a room in which there was neither stove, fireplace or other heating device. . . . Cohan, in the role of the President, orders his secretary to "bring in a fireside" before delivering a fireside chat for the edification of his theater audience. . . . And the secretary obligingly wheels in a glowing fireplace.

The Story So Far: Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has enraged Quanomet. She was killed by a left handed blow from the knife of her sister Pam Frye. Interested parties are: Tom Carr, once married to Marina; Roddy Strutt, whose alibying plane crash was deliberate; Peggy Boone, an artist; Jennings, an irate plumber; and persons unknown who burned down the Fryes' barn, destroyed Jack Lorne's mural sketches and defaced the mural itself. Missing is a $50,000 lump of ambergris belonging to Pam. Then Roddy is killed by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Chapter 45
No Clews

"Strutt said they expected trouble," the officer said. "They don't seem to know just what kind, but they expected it. They had the place all armed and fortified. Under those circumstances, how did anyone get here without being seen? And why did Strutt unlock the garage and go in? He must have, too. The garage key is on the same ring with the car keys that were in the roadster, and they tell me that no one else had a key to this garage. Seems there'd been a bit of trouble with the servants swiping the roadster for their joy rides, and that's why it was here all by itself. What was the idea, Asey?"

"No one knows any ideas," Asey said wearily. "It's my opinion that the servants was fed up with this armin' an' fortifyin', and that except for the two at the driveway gates, no one was doin' any 'guardin' at all. I've got some pretty good evidence that the rest was mostly occupied with a crap game an' field day, in the basement. It was gettin' dark when Roddy disappeared. Someone could have sneaked along the shore all right, without bein' seen. I can't find out why Roddy come here."

"Date, maybe?" Lane suggested.

"He had every opportunity to make dates," Asey said. "He's been phonin' people right an' left all day, an' they been phonin' him. Carveth put his foot down on a couple of parties Roddy'd planned here for today, but you can't tell how many other dates he might have made."

"But if they were afraid of trouble," Lane said, "would Roddy have made dates, or come down here without telling anyone? And if he'd seen a prowler, why'n't he yell?"

Asey shrugged. "I think, myself, that he must of had a date with someone that he wanted to keep quiet about, or one with someone he never thought of as bein' a menace. He came here, met 'em, went into the garage for a chat—this is a secluded sort of place, here. An' durin' the chat, he got his. Did you find anythin' in the garage, by the way?"

"Clews? No. It's a clean garage. There were things in the car, but just the sort of things you'd expect to find in a car of his. Hairpins and a lipstick or two, and a glass bead, and compacts, and a powder puff—all shades lead me to feel that he preferred blondes. Come on and look."

Asey went into the garage.

"You know," Lane said, displaying the articles, "you don't get clews in a thing of this sort, unless—"

"Less," Asey said, "you have someone step into some fresh cement, or write names an' addresses an' phone numbers on the corpse's shirt front. Doc, I'm drivin' back in Tim's car. You're comin' to see Aaron, ain't you? Well, I'll meet you at the Octagon House. Thanks, Lane. Happy huntin'."

Offhand, he thought as he drove along home, offhand he couldn't remember when he had ever felt more bitterly ashamed of himself. If only he had gone to the Strutt home the night before! If only he had gone to see Roddy, and ironed out the situation. If only he had shown some trace of common sense! If only he had, Roddy might still be alive.

He reproached himself steadily and forcefully all the way along the beach road.

'Gentle Philosophizing'

Of course, even if he had gone, he'd only have learned about the Jennings episode, and considered Jennings the menace. That wouldn't have helped matters much. He might have talked with Roddy, but he wouldn't have gone far without the pilot's side of the story to use as a crowbar in prying out the truth.

The chances were that whoever set out to kill Roddy would have killed him in any case. Everyone in the town knew of the guarding and the fortifications of the Strutt house, but the preparations had not deterred the murderer in the least. He had made up his mind to kill Roddy, and he did just that.

And Marina had been killed in that same grimly determined way. The barn had been burned by someone with the same determination and disregard for consequences. The mural had been obliterated with finality and deliberation. The key stealing was neat and deliberate. Everything, in fact, that seemed to matter was characterized by the same quiet and efficient force. By neat timing, and firm thinking. The fellow thought things out, and things went with a fine smoothness for him.

He turned into the driveway of the Octagon House.

Mrs. Carr, followed by Emma on her leash, walked down from the porch to meet him. They were the only ones up, she informed him.

"Pam and Peg were tired to death, and so was Tim. I packed them to bed. Aaron's asleep, mercifully, but he—Asey, what's happened now, you seem so dejected—I know. You need food!"

"I always wondered," Asey said as they went indoors, "why a woman always thinks that all anyone needs to make 'em feel better is just a little food. I do," he added hurriedly, before Mrs. Carr could retort, "need food. An' if you can find me some super-spinach that'll give me the brains to settle this—don't yell at the news—this murder of Roddy Strutt, I'll be willin' to trail you around on Emma's leash."

"So he's been killed, has he?" She didn't seem perturbed by the information. "It doesn't surprise me—oh, here's the chicken Pam was saving—no, not a bit. Nothing would surprise me at this point. Why was he killed?"

"I ain't at the who or why stage yet," Asey said, attacking the chicken.

"Is it the same one who killed Marina that did this? Really? Why?

"I can't give you facts," Asey said. "Only a sort of gentle philosophizin' about the simple murder. I don't think I ever seen anythin' more simple than these two murders. Girl stabbed with someone else's knife. No clews. Man stunned an' stuck under exhaust pipe. No clews. There you are. Smart. Smooth. Unobtrusive, like. Use guns, an' ballistics'll you get. Use poison, an' toxocol'gists'll get you. But use a stolen knife an' carbon monoxide, an' combine 'em with a passion for removin' finger prints, an' a lack of collar buttons an' false teeth left behind — oh, you got somethin' here, you have! We got to prove you took the knife. We got to prove you started the car, so to speak. An' very few murderers invite audiences."

'Some Nice Person?'

"What were the motives?" Mrs. Carr asked.

A SENSIBLE REGULATION

The beginning of the end of spectacular scenes associated with fire alarms have been signaled by new regulations which have been put into effect for the New York City fire department.

There the drivers of fire trucks responding to an alarm are required to hold within usual traffic speeds. In certain cases they are required even to observe stop signals. The only advantage they have over usual traffic is that they have right of way and that a lane thus is cleared for them. Estimates are that the extreme difference in responding to my alarm will be less than a minute longer than under the old system while the dangers of accidents will be reduced almost to the vanishing point. It was the increasing number of accidents in which trucks figured while responding to the alarms that led to the new regulation.

It will not be surprising if many cities follow in the New York footsteps. While seconds admittedly are sometimes of importance in successfully fighting a fire, usually the difference of a minute will mean very little.

Speed, of course, still is as important as it ever was, but it should be a speed which gives first consideration to safety. After all, the property damage a fire may cause cannot be balanced against a human life—and human life is constantly in danger when a vehicle as large and as difficult to control as a fire truck moves at an excessive speed.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 — The long arm of beneficent coincidence reached out and tagged red-headed Mary Brodel the other day, making her an actress just as she had come to the tearful conclusion that she was a flop.

Originally she hadn't even been considered for the role of Louise Campbell's daughter in "Men With Wings." At that time, in fact, Miss Brodel was under contract to Universal. But her option was expiring, and soon she was to be out of a job without ever having faced a movie camera.

Meanwhile Marilyn Knowlden, one of the busier child actresses about Hollywood, had been selected for the part in Paramount's aviation picture. Then began a comedy of errors: somebody forgot to notify Marilyn's father of the choice, and he signed his daughter for a part at another studio. One day William Wellman put in a rush order for Marilyn to report for work on the "Men With Wings" location, and the atmosphere was blue for blocks around when the producer-director was told that the youngster wouldn't be available.

Every Silver Lining Has A Cloud

The casting office got busy. Fifteen girls were under consideration when Mrs. J. F. Brodel, wife of a retired bank examiner of Detroit, came to the studio with her daughter Joan. She said that Joan was 16, and Wellman said that Joan was just what he wanted.

Through a number of sequences Joan did very well indeed. She was still doing well when the company motored out to the municipal airport at Inglewood to begin a schedule of night shooting. Pretty soon a couple of representatives of the State Board of Education drove up and said: "You can't use this Joan Brodel after 10 o'clock. She's only 13 years old and the law is very explicit."

Quivering with rage, Wellman went over to where Mama Brodel was sitting and looking unhappy. Yes, she admitted, Joan was only 13. Real ages never seemed to mean anything in Hollywood, and she had said her daughter was 16 because she understood that Wellman wanted a 16-year-old.

The voice of Wild Bill shook the hangars then. Assistants leaped for telephones and began calling the 15 girls who previously were considered for the part. Within an hour, most of them were at the airport. But none was red-headed (this is a Technicolor picture), and none looked enough like Joan Brodel to carry on in her role.

Enter Another Member Of The Brodel Brood

Wellman was sunk. To retake the sequences would cost a fortune. Every time the clock ticked, his idle company and large crew were wasting a lot of money. About that time Mrs. Brodel timidly approached the director and told him she had another daughter—a daughter who looked like Joan, who was just the same size, who had red hair, who could act, and who was old enough to work after 10 o'clock at night!

"GET HER" screamed Wellman.

So Mary Brodel was reached on the telephone. Firmly she told the director that she couldn't consider taking her sister's cherished role.

"But it ISN'T her part!" yelled Wellman. "She's washed up, fired, finished. They took her dolls away from her and tucked her in her crib. She's—

"I'll be right out," said Mary.

From then on, everything was dandy. Mary Brodel was everything her mother had promised, and 21 years old. Joan's clothes fitted her. She looked a little older than her sister, but that was all right because everybody in the picture has to age a bit. But could she read lines?

"I think so," said Mary. "I've been rehearsing Joan every evening, and I know the part perfectly."

She also said that she had studied music and dramatics in Detroit, had sung in night clubs there and in New York, had signed a stock contract with Universal, and only the day before had been released without playing a single part in a picture. "When you called," she said, "I was wondering what was going to happen to my career."

A Paramount contract is the answer.

"Ins" Are Staying "In" And "Outs" Remaining "Out" In Most Elections Thus Far This Year

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 12—A dozen state primary elections have been held and as far as party nominations are concerned, the "ins" are staying in and the "outs" are staying out.

Rodney Dutcher

If this sort of thing keeps up, President Roosevelt won't be able to eliminate any of the office-holders whom he seeks to purge from the Democratic party and the anti-New Dealers won't purge any of the Roosevelt sympathizers whom the President intends to defend.

Seven senators, five Democrats and two Republicans, have faced the voters and all have been renominated except elderly Senator Hitchcock of South Dakota, who had been appointed to fill a vacancy only last year. Even more extraordinary is the fact that nearly 130 House members have run for renomination, of whom only three have failed to get it.

A man who brings around white coats for colored waiters in the House of Representatives restaurant confides that the demand is for sizes from 35 to 45 at the beginning of each session and for sizes from 40 to 45 along the end.

Worth watching in the July primaries will be the fate of Senator Elmer Thomas in Oklahoma on the 12th, of Congressman Jerry J. O'Connel in Montana on the 19th and of Congressman Maury Maverick, in San Antonio, Tex., on the 23d. All three are administration men.

Thomas is opposed by Congressman Gomer Smith, a wild man when it comes to promising the voters and by Gov. E. W. Marland. Twenty-nine-year-old O'Connell, whose progressivism has carried him into Jersey City in defiance of Frank Hague, to Tom Mooney's cell and to Loyalist Spain, is opposed by Gene Burris, candidate of Senator Burton K. Wheeler and a WPA official. O'Connel has been attacked as a radical and for criticizing Wheeler's anti-administration attacks. He has stressed the issue of Wheeler versus Roosevelt in his own campaign.

Lone Star Politics

Maverick, nationally celebrated as the outstanding House progressive leader, is opposed by Assistant District Attorney Paul Kilday. Chief issues used against him have been his alleged "radicalism," the fact that he has been a Russian embassy guest and his vote for the anti-lynching bill. Groups which never have been able to influence Maverick are spending large sums against him and Maverick is a poor man. Although he has been independent enough often to defy the administration, friends of Roosevelt are helping him as much as they can. A. F. of L. president William Green has given support to Kilday, whereas Labor's Non-Partisan League and the C. I. O. are behind Maverick.

To date progressive candidates have been doing very well in the primaries, as witness the renominations of all the Minnesota Farmer-Labor congressmen. But nomination is not equivalent to election except in the South, and most primaries are still to come.

Watching For Robbers

Tourists noticing Treasury Department lights burning all night sometimes think Secretary Morgenthau and his people are still up trying to balance the budget. But only the guards are about. The illumination is for added protection for 13 vaults which hold 37 billion dollars in money and securities. (Including pieces of paper certifying that European nations owe us about 10 billions.)

Among China's distinctive fishes is the Yangtzse beaked sturgeon, found only in the Yangtzse and its tributaries. Its nearest relation is the spoonbill sturgeon of the Mississippi.

arr asked.

"Roddy 'an' Marina," Asey said, ort of inspired motives. The place littered with reasons for people kill 'em."

"Why," Mrs. Carr asked, "do peole kill people, anyway? I was tryg to think, today, just why I anted to kill Marina, and all I uld think of was, she'd hurt Tim. hat seems so vague!"

"Usually it's love or money," sey said, "or variations on 'em. here are others, of course. I once new a man who killed another an on account of bein' unduly nsitive about his toupe, but that n't a normal one."

"Well, murderers aren't normal, way," Mrs. Carr said.

"Emma," Asey said, "is a normal at. She eats, an' she sleeps, an' he's bright enough to be trained a leash. How normal would Emma be, if she got a real chance at hat parrot?"

"I almost wish," Mrs. Carr said incerely, "that she would. Toots the most inhuman bird—just sits nd stares and stares, and never a ord! I suppose that Toots and mma, between them, knew the hole story. They pretend to, anyay. But Asey, murderers aren't ormal. They can't be."

"I don't see why there's this fashin' theory," Asey said, "that urderers have to be either eccenric people with too many brains, dumb clods without any. More ften than not, it's a nice person ho turns out to be a murderer. ourse, by the time the experts get hrough, they've got all the symptms listed in the doc's book, an' ou wonder why they wasn't put way behind bars at the age of ree an' a half."

"You think it was some nice perwho killed Marina and Roddy?" s. Carr asked anxiously. "Oh, r, I thought it would be some—well, not with a beard, and eth missing, but someone—"

"With a leer and no socks," Asey id. "I know. P'raps it is. But they ot a nice way of thinkin'. I give m credit."

"How'll you find him?"

"By time," Asey said. "Time, an' me other odds an' ends, like who ained the mural—"

"Oh, has that been ruined? How erfectly splendid! How perfectly onderful!"

Asey chuckled. "An' I got to find ut who burned the barn," he said, an' who saw Roddy Strutt on Friay night—"

"That sounds terribly difficult!"

"It is," Asey said. "An' I got to nd out if Lorne's drawings was urned for spite, or a purpose. An' ast the time element alone is nough to keep one man busy for he end of his days."

The police take a hand, tomorow.

That "Gosh-Awful" Rumor---
AND SO IT WAS . . . The rumor that Lubbock would be "blown off the map" proves just how false rumors are often unjust and costly. . . . Seemingly, there was absolutely no basis for the rumor. There is another false belief that is every bit as unjustified and may be actually costing you money in office efficiency.
It's this . . . Some people say that a Noiseless typewriter is a "white elephant." They say that a Noiseless will not make carbons, will not cut stencils, is difficult to use. Yes, another "gosh-awful" rumor. As a matter of fact, a REMINGTON NOISELESS will make 10 good carbons, will cut a more even and better stencil, and actually take less energy to operate . . . therefore you can do more and better typing and still "feel alive at five." We can give definite proof of each of these points and more. Call on us to do so today . . . No obligation, of course. Telephone 1620 now!

19—Livestock For Sale

Snyder Livestock Market
Of Lubbock, Texas

Since the recent general rain there is a broad demand for stocker cattle and the market for butcher cattle continues good. We had about 500 cattle in our sale Thursday of this week which sold on an active market at good prices. In addition to cattle going through the sales ring we sent out 250 head of stocker cattle on order to Illinois and Indiana. We feel safe in telling you to bring your cattle to this market and they will sell as high or higher than on any other market. We will have cattle to sell at private sale every day in the week. We are well equipped to take care of your cattle and have competent yard men and salesmen. For best results consign your cattle to —

AUCTION SALE EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

LUBBOCK AUCTION AND SALES COMPANY was the HOT SPOT of the livestock markets this week.
Good activity at steady to strong prices developed in practically all classes of cattle, and the demand broadened for all classes of cattle from killers, shippers and order buyers.
With the many good buyers on hand Tuesday and Friday, bidding was snappy and hot, and everything was sold out in a hurry, leaving all the sellers happy over the returns from their stock, and the buyers happy over their purchases.
We know the livestock market conditions, the demands, and every possible outlet for livestock; therefore, we can obtain for you full market value on all your livestock. We can handle all the stock we can get—all types—for next week sales so bring us your stock. If you have no way to get your stock in, wire or phone us for trucking service.
Tuesday's sale begins promptly at 12:00 o'clock, but Friday's sale begins at 10:00 a. m., as usual.

tain an end so advantageous to their fortunes, without a common understanding. This design was too complete to be without designer.

"The record before us bears its transparency, and though the respondent (government) had, contrary to the usual situation, the burden of proof because of having raised this issue after proceeding was filed, in our opinion that burden was abundantly met.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—A late bulge in stocks today shot market leaders up 1 to around 4 points, many to new highs for the year and longer.

The flat mergers crawled throughout the greater part of the session, with the forenoon's volume the lightest in several weeks. Buying expanded sufficiently in the final hour to put the ticker tape behind. A little profit selling stemmed the advancing tide late in the session and most favorites finished under the tops.

Spurring the revival of purchasing demand, brokers said were rumors in Wall Street that, despite talk to the contrary from steel observers, leading producers were preparing to announce proposals for a steel wage cut in order to offset recent price slashes.

In addition a sharp rebound in major commodities helped to whet the speculative appetite. Wheat and corn futures were particularly strong.

With buying of stocks feverish in the final hour, transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,500,000 shares.

With the steel wage matter again the subject of much Wall Street conversation, steel scrap was boosted at Pittsburg. In the Pittsburgh area also ingot production, which started Monday at 21 per cent of theoretical capacity, was understood to have stepped up to 24 per cent.

Hughes Ahead On World Hop

port officials, waving aside all offers of food and drink as his companions ate a lunch of fried eggs, cold ham and salami served with beer and ice water in the airport dining room.

Reports of good weather were received from points along the Siberian route as far as the Bering straits, separating Russian territory from Alaska.

Hughes planned to make his only other Siberian landing, besides Omsk, at Yakutsk, 2,100 miles to the east. However, Soviet authorities provided him with maps showing seven other airdromes and emergency landing places.

Finally Clear The Field

Hughes' and his comrades got off from Moscow only after one unsuccessful attempt, which was defeated by a change in direction of the wind. But they finally cleared the field with a heavy fuel load.

Their flying time for the 1,541 miles from Paris was 7 hours and 49 minutes, and they refueled at once for the next hop to Omsk, in their effort to beat the world record of 7 days, 18 hours and 49 minutes set by Wiley Post in 1933.

Representatives of the American embassy and Alexander Troyanovsky, the Soviet ambassador to Washington who is home on leave were in the crowd that watched the silver ship glide to a perfect landing out of the cloudless, summer sky.

Fly At High Altitude

Hughes said the flight from Paris was smooth but at high altitude. Radio Engineer Richard N. Stoddard explained they encountered icing conditions over France, compelling them to climb to 15,000 feet. "We were using oxygen tanks part of the time," he said.

The airport was all ready for the airmen. Two rooms were set aside for them, one for rest and another for eating. A meal had been ready for hours and the Russians' earnest effort to supply icewater, without which Americans say they cannot live here, kept waiters busy.

Ice cubes in water glasses on the lunch table had been renewed no less than six times while the welcomers awaited their guests.

Spectators Jam Dining Room

A crowd of spectators jammed the dining room and watched while the fliers tried to snatch a quick lunch.

George Baidukoff, one of the Russian polar fliers, greeted Hughes with the remark "I'll see you in America" leading to speculation whether he was contemplating another flight soon.

Mikhail Gromoff and Andrei Yumosheff, others of the polar crew, also were in the crowd.

Hughes, hoping to break Post's "round-the-world record of 7 days, 18 hours, 49 minutes, appeared well on his way toward that goal today.

Hughes Way Ahead

Post's flight to Moscow in 1933, via Berlin rather than Paris, required an elapsed time of 50 hours and 10 minutes from New York. He was in the air 35 1-2 hours, and his distance at the Moscow point was 4,933 miles.

Hughes at Moscow was 32 hours and 53 minutes out of New York, having flown 5,151 miles with a total time in the air of 24 hours and 24 minutes.

Hughes lifted his plane from Le Bourget field, Paris, at 8:25 p. m. e.s.t. Monday, after minor repairs to the ship.

He had flown the first leg of the world girdling hop, from New York to Paris, in 16 hours 35 minutes to halve Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight time over the same course.

Plea Before Board

67 per cent. (In the 1928-29 sessions, 2,088 students were enrolled; in the 1937-38 session, 3,494.) The new library, which will be in use next year, is the first building constructed with state funds since 1929.

As indication of the crowded conditions in home economics and agricultural divisions; There is one 11x19 foot office in the home economics building in which seven teachers, seven NYA employes, and two students were officed in the last session. Two teachers shared one desk, since there was not room to install another desk.

Enrollment Gain Shown

Dean A. H. Leidigh's office space in the agricultural building is comprised of one 12x9 1-2 room and one 12x7 1-2 room, a total of 204 square feet, taken up to a great extent by filing cabinets, bookcases, tables, desks, chairs, and other necessary office equipment. Students called for interviews frequently must wait outside in the hall.

In the last five years, enrollment has increased 48 per cent. In the last five years in the agricultural division, it has increased 101 per cent. In the last year in the home economics division, it has increased 27.9 per cent.

Salaries (it was said in connection with the request that salaries be restored to the 1932 level) would be no higher than they were when the college was opened in 1925, if they are restored to the 1932 level.

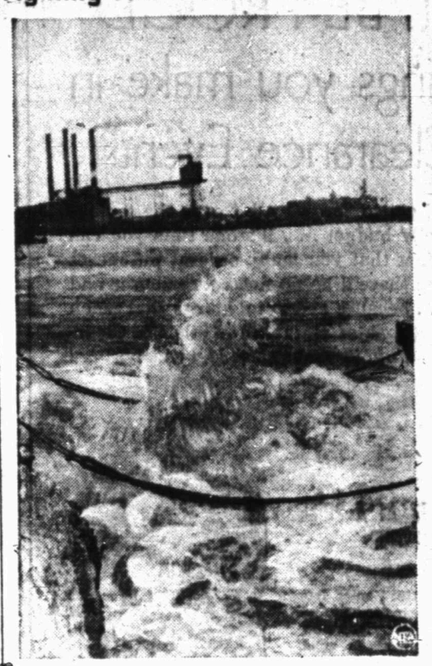

The board heard the pleas sympathetically, but offered no indication of whether it would approve the requests in entirety, said Dr. Gordon. The board of control each year hears the requests of the state supported educational institutions, before those requests are presented to the legislature.

Dr. Gordon and Gaston returned this morning from Austin.

COURT CONVENES AGAIN

HAWKINS, Wood County, July 12 (AP)—The justice court of this community convened recently for the second time in 15 years and received 19 pleas of guilty to crap shooting. Justice A. B. Humphrey collected 11 fines in less than one hour and sentenced the remaining eight to the "pea patch," or county farm. County Attorney Hubert T. Faulk said the crap game was held in the neighboring woods.

Fighting Fire---Under River

Fire raging in New York's uncompleted $58,000,000 Midtown Tunnel, 90 feet below the East River, drove out firemen and was only extinguished after 12 hours of fighting when the bore was flooded. Firemen, wearing two masks each, are pictured at right above, emerging from the shaft after unsuccessful efforts to hose down the flames. Before entering they were tested in compression chambers, as are tunnel-digging "sandhogs," for ability to stand the tremendous atmospheric pressure. As shown at left, the highly compressed air in the tunnel, displaced by falling rock and clay, forced its way 90 feet upward and shot a geyser 15 feet above the river's surface.

Smith, all of the state's nine Democratic congressmen sought renomination.

A statewide Republican "grassroots" convention endorsed Ross Rizley, Guymon attorney and former state senator, for nomination as governor and Harry C. Glasser, Enid attorney, for senator. Six contests for congressional nominations also will be settled by the Republicans.

Indianans Seek To Solidify Party Ranks For McNutt

INDIANAPOLIS, July 12 (AP)—Indiana Democrats, who made peace with a lukewarm New Dealer in order that they might solidify party ranks to boom U. S. Philippine High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt as a presidential possibility in 1940, were expected to renominate by convention acclamation today U. S. Senator Frederick Van Nuys.

The last obstacle in Van Nuys path was removed as Alex Gordon, Indianapolis labor leader, withdrew as a candidate to insure "complete harmony" within the Democratic ranks. Lieutenant Governor Henry Schricker and Samuel Jackson, Fort Wayne attorney, other announced candidates for the nomination, had withdrawn previously.

Receives Personal Invitation

Van Nuys, who fought bitterly President Roosevelt's court enlargement and governmental reorganization bills, permitted his name to be presented to the convention only after he had received a personal invitation from Governor M. Clifford Townsend, who promised the senator the convention would be "wide open."

Van Nuys had threatened to run as an independent because, he said, the governor had tried to "read him out" of the Democratic party in an address to party editors last summer.

The governor said his remarks had been misinterpreted but other party leaders admitted the harmony move was instigated solely to lengthen McNutt's shadow over the 1940 political horizon.

Production Of Meat Is Up

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP) — Meat production increased slightly and prices were substantially lower during the first half of 1938, compared with the same period last year, the Institute of American Meat Packers said today.

A reversal also occurred in the recent trend of exports and imports of pork during the first half of the current year, exports again exceeding imports.

Prices Are Lower

Wholesale prices of most grades and classes of meat are substantially lower now than a year ago, the institute said. Fresh pork loins are from 23 to 27 per cent lower, bacon 11 to 17 per cent down and smoked hams as much as 12 per cent down.

Practically all grades of beef are wholesaling well below levels of a year ago, greatest declines occurring in the better grades and ranging from 7 to 25 per cent. Dressed lamb prices are 7 to 15 per cent down and wholesale prices of veal 13 to 15 per cent lower. Retail prices have shown comparable declines.

Livestock Prices Lower

Livestock prices are somewhat lower than a year ago, the institute said, but substantially higher than January's low levels this year.

Meat production during the next six months will be somewhat greater than during the last six months of 1937, according to United States department of agriculture reports, the institute said.

Ferguson Cancels West Texas Talks

Announcement that an urgent business call to his headquarters in Dallas has forced him to abandon his personal campaign in West Texas was made here this morning by James A. Ferguson of Belton, candidate for governor.

He had planned an address in Lubbock this afternoon, but paused only long enough this morning to announce the cancellation. He spent the night in Plainview.

From Dallas, he said, he will go into South Texas, then the Rio Grande valley and will close his campaign in Cameron the night before the primary.

Accompanying him are J. F. Hair of San Antonio, his campaign manager, and Lewis Cox, a cornetist.

Ferguson is a cousin of former Governor Jim Ferguson.

Oklahoma showed an increase of 66,700 barrels daily to 443,275. East Texas was up 73,070 to 438,000 barrels daily and the total state of Texas showed a hike of 152,558 barrels daily to 1,364,540.

Louisiana registered a rise of 8,218 barrels daily to 268,595 but California production declined 32,900 barrels daily to 630,250 while Kansas' output declined 1,250 barrels daily to 141,900.

Eastern states had an increase of 665 barrels daily to 194,884 and the output in the Rocky Mountain area was down 1,980 barrels daily to an average of 73,980.
