Fifth Lashing Toward Rome

Greatest Offensive Since Salerno Pushes Nazis Back

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Dec. 3—Paced for the second day by aerial assaults on German fortifications, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army stabbed forward from Calabritto against the right flank of massed German troops guarding the main road to Rome in the fourth day of the biggest Italian offensive since Salerno.

Great clouds of smoke and dust hung over the battlefield. Air Force pilots participating in the methodical destruction of enemy gun positions and entrenchments ahead of American and British forces, saw signs of a fierce combat raging below. Official accounts gave no indication whether Clark's troops yet had reached the hard core of the Nazi line.

Eighth Front Bitter

Equally bitter fighting raged on the Eighth Army front, where the right wing of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British, Indian and New Zealand forces slugged six more miles up the Adriatic coast, and approached the important highway and railroad center of San Vito Chietino, only 16 miles from the big port of Pescara.

The Germans had reorganized their defenses farther inland and were resisting desperately around the ancient Roman city of Lanciano, where they held a 900-foot ridge dominating the surrounding country. Montgomery's men captured Castel Fretano, two and one-half miles southwest of Lanciano.

(A DNB news agency broadcast from Berlin reported German troops had evacuated Lanciano in the face of the Eighth Army's advance.)

(Radio France in Algiers reported, entirely without confirmation from the Allied command, that Field Marshall Albert Kesselring, Nazi commander in Italy, had ordered a retreat from positions along the Adriatic following the "crumbling of his entire winter line.")

Drive Civilians Ahead

The Germans were reported to be driving the populations of small towns out toward the advancing Fifth and Eighth armies and then blowing up bridges behind them in an attempt to create confusion and hamper the Allied advance.

The deep defensive system against which Clark hurled his troops and armor is approximately 20 miles wide. It starts in the Calabritto area, just southwest of Mignano, and from there runs in a general northeasterly direction through Mignano, west of Venafro, past Filignano to a point west of Montaquila.

Front dispatches said the Fifth Army's drive in the Calabritto

Berlin Rocked By RAF Assault

Half Of Capital's Buildings In Ruins

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 4. (AP)—RAF bombers streamed out for a new attack on the continent early today, following up a shattering raid Thursday night which sent 1,500 long tons of new fire bombs and explosives crashing down on smoldering, rubble-carpeted Berlin.

During the Thursday night raid, which left perhaps half of the Nazi capital in ruins, with the entire heart of the city blazing, swarms of German fighters met the four-engined bombers along paths of flares lit as far as 50 miles from the Germans' No. 1 city.

In that operation, 41 British planes fell during a mighty air battle in skies stabbed by searchlights and torn by intense flak.

Plane Wreckage Over City

Daybreak found the wreckage of planes scattered through the bombed city after this fifth heavy assault in two weeks.

But nothing that Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering could do prevented the great force of bombers from reaching the heart of Nazi Germany shortly after 8 p. m., and cascading down their loads of high explosives and new type phosphorous incendiaries in 30 minutes.

British reports estimated that one-third of Berlin was gone after the fourth raid Nov. 26, indicating that if last night's blow was as destructive, half the city now has been blown up or gutted by fires.

The bomb load dumped on Berlin in the new campaign was raised to probably 15,000 tons.

Enormous New Fires

Berlin dispatches to the Swedish press described enormous new fires in the north, central, and southern portions of the city which still were burning from the previous attack. They quoted the Germans as officially admitting "heavy damage" from the four-ton blockbuster bombs, at least 30 of which fell in factory areas.

The Berlin correspondent of Zurich's Tages-Anzeiger reported the greatest destruction in the raids caused by fires, adding that "the number of incendiaries and phosphorous cans totaled several

Bolander Rites Set For Sunday

CROSBYTON, Dec. 3 (Special) Funeral services for J. R. Bolander, 41, whose body was discovered about dawn Friday morning in his wrecked automobile at the bottom of a narrow 15-foot deep ravine on the Crosbyton-Dickens highway, will be held Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church in Ralls, with Rev. W. B. Flores officiating.

The funeral will be in charge of the Masonic lodge of Crosbyton.

Bolander had been superintendent of the United Compress company warehouse here for the past three years.

Bolander, who had been associated with the Texas Compress and Warehouse company, Inc., of Lubbock for more than 15 years and who had been a clerk for the United Compress company of Ralls several years before going to Crosbyton, had left Crosbyton a few minutes after 8 o'clock Thursday night to drive to Dickens, investigators learned.

Discovered By Trucker

Charles Beckman of Crosbyton, a trucker, discovered the body and wreckage. Bolander had been dead several hours, medical examiners said.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs.

Montgomery Thanks Eight Army Troops

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Dec. 3. (AP) — General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery sent a message through the commanders to Eighth Army troops today expressing gratitude for the "splendid way everyone has fought" in smashing the enemy's Sangro river line in Italy.

"I would like to congratulate you and the whole force on the great success of the Sangro battle," the text of his message said. "In two days you wrested from the enemy the whole ridge which dominates the Sangro valley, which ridge was the whole framework of the enemy winter line on the Adriatic Axis.

"It was a very fine performance and your infantry divisions, your armor and your troops have all done splendidly. Please tell them how delighted I am with the whole business."

Death Message Comes Few Days After Letter

TULSA, Dec. 3. (AP)—"This is perhaps the hardest letter I'll ever have to write . . . the good Lord has taken Irven away."

That is how Pfc. Carl W. McClanahan, 22, broke the news of his brother Irven's death to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McClanahan, Tulsa, last Monday.

Today the parents received another message advising them Carl had died in action.

The brothers, who had never been separated, died on Italian battlefields.

Senate Passes Service Ballot Back To States

Plan For Federal Supervision Given Death Blow 42-37

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats, over-riding the Senate leadership, today junked the idea of federal supervision of servicemen's voting by absentee ballot and passed a bill calling for state control.

The new bill, substituted for the pending measure on a 42-to-37 roll call and finally approved by a voice vote, calls on the states to make ballots available to members of the armed forces at home and abroad.

Condemned By Barkley

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) immediately condemned it as "a pious ladies aid society resolution" under which few if any votes would be cast.

Senators McClellan (D-Ark) and Eastland (D-Miss), sponsors of the measure with Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), asserted that the substitute which now goes to the House would retain state control over elections.

The legislation now is in a form reportedly acceptable to a majority of the members of the House Elections committee, where war ballot legislation had been held up awaiting Senate action.

Original Plans

The original bill would have waived all state voting requirements except age and residence. A bipartisan federal ballot commission would have supervised absentee voting. Several amendments were made during five days of debate.

Now, the plan calls on the states to distribute post cards to men in uniform, to be used to request absentee voting forms. The Army and Navy would aid in circulating the cards and in returning the absentee ballots to the states.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) asserted that adoption of the substitute was "the hardest blow that was ever struck at the political rights of a soldier in time of war."

Little Hope Is Seen

"As a result of the adoption of this proposal," he said, "there is not a single soldier from Illinois or any other state with state restrictions, serving outside of the continental limits of the United States, who will have an opportunity to vote in the most important presidential election since 1864."

Eastland, crediting the veteran McKellar with leading the fight for the new bill, declared it a "victory for states' rights."

Eighteen Republicans joined with 24 Democrats in voting for the substitute. Voting against it were 25 Democrats and 12 Republicans.

Germany Threatening Retaliation Stroke

LONDON, Dec. 3. (AP) — Again threatening retaliation for the air war upon Germany, the Berlin radio said today that the German high command "intends by one fell, drastic stroke to end the unbridled mass murder," and added that "mankind is not for from the point where it can at will blow up half the globe."

The broadcast quoted the periodical Das Reich as saying that "the commencement of retaliation no longer depends on technical matters, but solely on the object which is to be attained by it."

Japs Get 'Pasting' By Navy At Tarawa

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Knox said today that American Naval guns and aviation gave the Japanese at Tarawa a "pasting, such as like nothing before in the history of warfare."

The enemy, however, withstood the terrific bombardment for hours, he told a news conference, because their shelters and emplacements were heavily built and virtually buried in the level terrain of Betio island, the main position.

Knox reported that 2,200 tons of shells, 700 tons of bombs and "Millions of rounds" of 50-caliber machine gun bullets were rained on the enemy.

ARMY'S LARGEST GLIDER GIVEN TEST—What was described as the largest glider produced for the U. S. Army Air forces passed its first flight test at Minneapolis on December 1. Details of the big craft have not been announced, but John E. Moscow "Scoops" World On Iran Meeting Of 'Big Three'

Questons On War And World Politics Said Discussed But No Details Given

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 4. — President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin in the greatest such meeting in history have conferred at Teheran, the capital of Iran (Persia), and agreed upon both military and political plans for the war against Germany, Moscow radio announced today in the first official disclosure of the parley.

Cutting through numerous Axis and neutral reports of the "Big Three" meeting, Moscow in a broadcast recorded here by the Soviet monitor stated officially that the talks were held "few days ago," and that "diplomatic and military representatives took part."

"At the conference," said the official Moscow broadcast, "questions on the conduct of the war against Germany were discussed as well as a number of political questions.

"Corresponding decisions were adopted which will be made public later."

The Soviet monitor stated that full details of the conference might be announced between 11 a. m. and 1:00 p. m. central war time today, basing this prediction on the usual routine of the Moscow radio when announcing future broadcasts.

The monitor was not taking into account, however, any special arrangements which might have been made to handle such an important announcement affecting the United States and Great Britain as well as the Soviet Union, and his prediction remained in this sense a purely personal observation.

OWI FLABBERGASTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Moscow radio's "scoop" on the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference came like a bolt from the blue to American information officials, who were frankly flabbergasted that the news was not made available simultaneously in other capitals.

Elmer Davis, chief of the Office of War information, said:

"We hope that the next time Allied leaders meet we can make arrangements to spill everything simultaneously. It is a difficult thing to do because it involves arrangements with two or three powers, although we did succeed in the case of the recent Moscow conference. We'll do the best we can."

The announcement from Moscow came as a surprise to British officials. The ministry of information said it had no official announcement of the conference. Bulletins from London, where the broadcast was monitored, were delayed briefly by censors for a check by the ministry—more evidence of the element of surprise.

It has been widely reported that the three Allied leaders, in addition to mapping the strategy of the land, sea and air war against Germany, would agree upon a poltical program for the treatment of defeated Nazidom and also perhaps formulate a propoganda war to be aimed at the German people immediately.

Followed North Africa Talks

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill went to the Iran conference from their historic five-day meeting in North Africa with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, which was concerned primarily with the war against Japan. The meeting, held from Nov. 22 through Nov. 26, was attended by a galaxy of military and naval authorities who presumably journeyed on with their leaders.

Chiang and his wife, who also were present at some of the North African talks, went almost directly home, and their arrival in Chungking was announced Thursday.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill journeyed many miles to Teheran, but Stalin, making his first trip outside the Soviet Union since the Communist revolution, had to travel only 70 miles south of his coutry's borders.

Official News Broadcast

The Moscow radio made the announcement in an official Soviet news agency broadcast for provincial papers. The announcer introduced it by saying "I am about to broadcast a statement to be inserted in every newspaper."

He read at dictation speed twice, and then at ordinary speed for checking purposes, the usual procedure on important announcements.

The Moscow radio announcement that decisions reached at the conference would be made public recalled reports of the past week that a "surrender-or-die" ultimatum would be thrown into the teeth of a German nation, now be-

Wild Plan For Assassination Of President Roosevelt Is Revealed By Secret Service

INJURIES FATAL — Injuries sustained in a plane crash at Hensley Field, Dallas, last Monday, proved fatal last night about 10 o'clock for Lt. (jg) Holt Waldrep, former Lubbock insurance man who had been in naval service about a year. The body is to be brought here, probably late today, but funeral plans had not been announced last night.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—A strange story came to light today how a man with a wild plan to assassinate President Roosevelt sulked about the White House vicinity for 10 days last month—and finally was arrested for walking against a traffic light.

The arrest by city police came at a time when the secret service was searching Washington for the man after receiving word from his wife of his intention which, a secret service official said, he attributed to "electrodes running through my brain."

Former Factory Worker

Secret servcie agents, who told the story, said the man is Walter Best, 38, former worker in Pontiac and Detroit, Mich., factories. They said he is now in St. Elizabeth's hospital for the insane pending action by the United States attorney.

As the officers told it, Best left Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 2 and arrived here Nov. 3 and registered at a hotel. He wrote to his wife telling her he intended to "get rid of Roosevelt," but had found the President was out of town and was awaiting his return.

Best also "described how he got inside the military guard at the White House while soldiers were busy unloading a truck and that he was deliberating whether to steal a soldier's gun nearby when he was discovered."

Claimed Pure Fantasy

The secret service said that was pure fantasy. As a matter of fact, they said, Best never got inside the White House grounds which are surrounded by a high, iron fence and patrolled by uniformed

Revision In Corn Prices Due Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Office of Price Administration said today it expects to announce tomorrow a revision in the ceiling price of corn.

Officials declined to say what the new ceiling will be, but it is generally believed the maximum will be boosted from $1.07 to $1.16 a bushel, Chicago basis.

The War Food Administration had sought a ceiling of at least $1.20, contending that such a price would be necessary to obtain any appreciable movement of corn from the midwest. It was reported, however that the OPA and the Office of Economic Stabilization opposed an advance beyond $1.16.

ITALIAN PRISONERS

LONDON, Dec. 3. (AP)—The war office said today that on Nov. 15, the British had 357,630 Italian prisoners of war in custody in the United Kingdom, the Dominions and elsewhere.

Finland Decides To Stick With Germans

STOCKOLM, Dec. 3. (AP)—Finland has determined to fight in against Russia as a full partner of Germany, abandoning her former propaganda line that she was engaged in a private war not connected with the world struggle, a reliable informant said today.

This policy was said to have been decided upon after the Moscow conference of Allied foreign ministers, which the Finns interpreted as meaning only unconditional surrender for Finland. Cabinet members were pictured as finding that completely unacceptable, preferring to fight on if necessary even after the Axis had surrendered.

Advices reaching Stockholm said Finnish newspapers had been instructed not to mention the theme of a separate war, and stricter censorship was reported imposed.

New German pressure on the Finns also is reflected in such a stand.

Railroad Employees To Get Back Pay

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3. (AP)—Operating employes of the Missouri Pacific and of its subsidiaries will share this month in distribution of $787,430 back pay, Russell L. Dearmont, MP counsel, said.

The statement was made after Federal Judge George H. Moore had authorized a wage increase totalling $1,349,880 a year, retroactive to last April 1, for 15,000 employes. Subsidiaries include Gulf Coast lines.

Aussies Close In On Wareo

Allies Pound Big Area And Not A Nip Fighter Is Seen

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Saturday, Dec. 4—Australian jungle troops, supported by artillery, are closing in on Wareo, a Japanese stronghold on the Huon peninsula of north-eastern New Guinea.

Wareo is inland approximately 11 miles northwest of coastal Finschhafen, the base which the Allies captured Oct. 2.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, announcing the latest progress today, said the Aussie Diggers were mopping up on enemy strong points along the track which leads from Allied-won Bonga on the coast north of Finschhafen westward to Wareo.

To the east, just across narrow waters from the peninsula, MacArthur's bombers continued to hit at targets on New Britain in an area of that important enemy island which is most vulnerable to invasion.

At Tree-Top Height

For the second straight day, Borgen Bay's dumps and supply barges were the targets. Sixty-three tons of explosives were dropped by Mitchell medium bombers which flew as low as the tops of the trees.

Borgen Bay is on the north shore near New Britain's western tip.

In the northern Solomons, the bombers of Adm. William F. Halsey hit the enemy's Kara airdrome on the south coast of Bougainville and the Ballale airdrome on an island just off the coast with 57 tons of bombs. These enemy bases have been bypassed by Americans now holding a beachhead at Empress Augusta bay.

200 Bougainville Corties

The raids formed a part of 200 sorties which Admiral Halsey's headquarters reported were made by Navy, Marine and Army planes Dec. 1 over Bougainville. For the tenth successive day, the raiders did not encounter a single Japanese plane. Enemy anti-aircraft shot down one divebomber and another divebomber and a Corsair fighter were reported missing.

More than 100 divebombers and torpedo bombers raided Kara and Ballale, keeping Bougainville's fields inoperative for the 40th successive day.

Hard-working enemy engineers had the Kara and Ballale strips ready to operate again but the new attacks put them out of commission.

The New Guinea jungle action is aimed at driving the Japanese out off the entire Huon peninsula. Wareo, a strategic juncture of jungle trails forming the line of Japanese retreat, is about two miles north of captured Sattelberg and, like it, is a high position.

Aussies moving from the south were within half a mile of the native village and old mission station after investing the outlying

Reds Slash Into Railway Network

Nazis Recoil, Over 100 Villages Freed

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 4.—Mud-spattered Red Army troops bit into the important German railway network northwest of Gomel in two directions yesterday, stood firm against repeated Nazi counterattacks in the hotly-contested Cherkasy area and expanded their Dnieper river bridgehead below Kremenchug 15 miles to the west through powerfully defended territory, Moscow announced early today.

German troops recoiling before the Soviet attack northwest of Gomel sustained heavy losses, the Soviet midnight bulletin said, as the Russians swept up more than 100 villages and hamlets.

Complex Trench Systems

Determined Soviet troops, blasting their way forward through complex German trench systems and dug outs protected by mine fields and barbed wire entanglements took Novo-Georgiev, a district center of the Krovograd, and carpeted the approaches to the town with hundreds of German dead, the communique said.

With this westward thrust of 15 miles into the Dnieper sack below Kremenchug, the Russians moved to relieve the pressure on their comrades holding on in the upriver bridgehead near Cherkasy. This Cherkasy bridgehead, a relatively small one, has been the scene of hard fighting for days and the communique said that in one sector alone the Russians threw back seven German counter-attacks and killed approximately 800 Germans.

Railway Station Retaken

Soviet forces also hit southwest of Kremenchug and by heavy fighting won back the railway station of Koristovka.

For the third straight day the Russian daily war bulletin made no mention of the fighting in the imortant Kiev bulge area, and the Germans intimated that fighting

One Of Famous Pair Arrested

DALLAS, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Dallas office of the Texas State police said that O. B. Throneberry, 28, one of two Texas brothers wanted at Steamboat Springs, Colo., in connection with the slaying of a sheepherder, had been caught by sheriff's officers near Waco.

A report to the Dallas office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said that Throneberry was shot in the arm and captured as he fled from a night club between Hillsboro and Waco.

The report to the FBI, like that of the state police, said Randle Throneberry, 26, the other brother sought, was not apprehended.

Long Criminal ecord

From Washington on Nov. 25, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced that he had sent out notices for the two, who have a criminal record ranging from robbing a sheriff to murder. He described the pair as operating in a typical wild west, bad man fashion, and as extremely dangerous.

They are accused of killing a sheepherder at Hayden, Colo., Aug. 8; The victim was robbed and bound to a wagon in such a way that the ropes gradually strangled him. The brothers were arrested two days later. At Steamboat Springs, Colo., they overpowered the sheriff, robbed him of

Tax Payers Share Of National Debt Rises

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP) — The average taxpayer's share of the national debt went up $6.81 during November, but in theory, at least, he has $5 more in his pocket than at the end of October.

The treasury's month-end debt statement, released today, placed the per capita figure for the gross public debt at $1,210.52, compared with $1,203.71 a month earlier.

However, the latest Federal reserve board statement showed that money in circulation on December 1 totaled $19,940,000,000—an increase of $890,000,000, or approximately $5 more than the $140.40 per capita figure for October 31.

Overthrow Of Franco In Spain Asked On Charges Of Direct War Aid To Germans

LONDON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Open letters — one of which charges the Spanish government with outright war aid to the Germans, including assistance to U-boats—are being circulated in Spain, demanding the resignation of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, and restoration of the monarchy to save the nation from grave consequences of pro-German policy.

Outstanding among these letters, said information reaching London from inside Spain, are two written by Jose Marie Gil Robles, former leader of the federation of rightist parties, now living in Portugal.

In them, Gil Robles asserts that the Spanish government had supplied German submarines in Spanish waters, placed bombs in British ships in Spanish ports, and installed wireless stations near Gibraltar to "advise German submarines of movements of Allied convoys, causing serious losses at the most critical moments in the battle of Malta, et cetera."

Gil Robles declared it was ridiculous to assume that the Allies would leave the Franco regime in power once Naziism and Fascism were crushed, and that restoration of the monarchy was the only way to avoid "approaching catastrophe."

If Spain "goes to the peace table under the present political situation, her seat will be on the bench of the conquered," he said.

One of Gil Robles' letters reached London. Others circulating in Spain were from members of the two leading monarchist groups, the Bourbons and Carlists.

Franco has shown no inclination to bow to demands to resign, and has even rebuked his highest generals who told him the time had come to put Prince Juan, third son of King Alfonso, on the throne. These same generals chose Franco for the leadership early in the civil war.

Gil Robles' letter to Gen. Carlos Asensio, minister of war, declared that Spain was "approaching an extremely grave moment." He made eight assertions in his charge that "the foreign policy of Spain has been completely favorable to the Axis powers."

(Britain has complained to Franco about anti-British and anti-Allied acts, but never has publicly accused Spain of aiding Axis shipping or harming British vessels.)

Explosion And Fire Wreck Large Part Of Block Here

A fire that destroyed the biggest part of a business block raged in Lubbock last night for more than an hour at Thirteenth street and Avenue Q.

The fire, started by what witnesses called, a terrific blast in the Household Supply company on the corner of the south end of the block.

The explosion, which occurred in the rear of the supply company's building, blew a hole in the back wall into the Ladyfair Beauty shoppe large enough for a man to walk through. The contents of the beauty parlor were more than 50 per cent destroyed by the blast, according to Mrs. Carl McFarland, owner.

The Chism bakery, next door to the supply house, received an estimated damage of 75 per cent, it was announced.

Other smaller explosions occurred in rapid succession in the supply house. A "pop" bottle was blown into the ceiling of the bakery and stuck.

The air tank in the supply house was flattened, as firemen explained, "like a flat piece of sheet metal."

The Baldwin Florist, located next door to Chism's bakery, was damaged considerably. The ceiling of the entire building was torn out by the explosion and damages to other parts of the building was serious, according to Mr. Baldwin, owner of the shop.

The New Wrinkle Shoppe, fourth establishment in the block north from the point where the fire broke out, also was damaged

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

YOU may not care for a slice of thinking along with your toast and coffee each morning and skip the chapters from Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's book, "On Being a Real Person," which are being reproduced on the editorial page. You may know how to be a "real" person and feel you do not need advice from the pastor of one of the most magnificent churches in the world.

On the other hand, judging from comments she had heard from time to time, the writer believes many readers are following Dr. Fosdick's writing and receiving definite help in learning how to think and live in a war mad world.

Friday morning's chapter was devoted to the theme of a well integrated life, and the New York writer and minister suggested there are three general classes of personalities: those who never acquire psychological maturity and therefore go to pieces under strain; those who get themselves together but on low ethical levels and those who achieve well-organized lives on high levels.

In discussing the third type of personality, Dr. Fosdick suggested those persons face inner tension and inevitable conflicts but they maintain the chosen pattern of their lives. And why because they have identified themselves with something greater than themselves.

Shortly after reading the article, the Woman's Angle talked with a mother whose son presumably is lost at sea. We groped for a word of sympathy, for something to say that would in some small way ease her breaking heart.

Our thoughts were with her throughout the day and turning from her we thought of the many other mothers in Lubbock and elsewhere who have received those dreaded "we regret to inform you" messages or who have received no word at all ((which is almost as hard to bear). And we are proud to be an American and a citizen in a land that had produced women the type of those who sons have answered their country's colors.

Most of these women are descriptive of the third type of personality Dr. Fodick mentioned. Their sons or husbands or brothers write that they have faith in the loved ones at home and know they can take what ever comes and those ties of faith and love linked across continents between the women and their men at war make for growth of a integrated lives.

'Do you know that all of the men are out of step except you?"

"Well," was the reply, "you tell 'em. You're in charge."

Maintaining Harmony Among Thirty-Five Girl Musicians Is Evelyn Kaye's Job

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Feature Writer

How would you like the job of keeping 35 girl musician starlets happy and harmonious?

How would you like to have to supervise their dates?

How would you like to try blending their hair, lipstick and dress in one artistic orchestra ensemble?

Evelyn Kaye does it—and without hysterics.

Evelyn is concert mistress and featured violinist of Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra. And in that job she is responsible for settling dress, date and temperament problems for 35 girls from 17 to 24 years old—girls of various sizes and temperament and of assorted shades of complexion and hair.

EVELYN KAYE . . . Headaches but no hysterics.

The other day in Mr. Spitalny's red and blue apartment, where every soft armchair has a comfortable footstool, Evelyn laid aside a violin arrangement she was making and told how she handles the problems that have floored more than one sorority house mother.

Broadway Schoolma'am

"We do it with the committee," she said with a smile and a manner that was a curious combination of a happy little girl and the head mistress of a school. "I'm the chairman—and there is one girl representing every section of the orchestra. We meet once a month; they drag up all their problems and grievances and we find the solutions. Since we make them, they can't kick about them.

"The girls always wear a uniform costume on stage; the preference is white. And they always try to look like simple girls—no sophisticates allowed. They can't wear any earrings, accessories, upswept coiffures or pompadours. On their personal dates they can dress pretty much as they please, but whenever they appear together, they can't wear or do anything that would offend if multiplied by 35. Imagine 35 sets of jangling bracelets, for instance."

"The girls live in apartments—two or three to an apartment—and they form their own groups of friends within the orchestra. Dates? If a girl meets a man and wants to date with him, she has to lay all the facts she knows about him before the committee. If the committee doesn't like what they hear about the man—if he drinks too much, for instance—they just say 'no' and that settles that. If they approve of him and the girl is young, her roommate generally goes out with them for the first few times. After that, if everything is all right, the girl can keep her dates alone.

Top Billing

"There is another important problem—the girls who want to be featured on the programs. We let them try out before the committee. If they play as well as the one who is playing the featured solo in the instrument, they get a chance to alternate with her. The other day we tried out a girl who seemed as good as the girl we were featuring, so we gave her a chance. But when she stood to play in public she was so nervous her instrument shook like a leaf. The rest of us were nervous wrecks, just watching her. So she'll have to wait a while before she tries it again—but she'll try it again and she will probably make it."

Evelyn poured out her story in a quick stream of words, peppered with smiles. She is a pretty girl who dresses in simple sports frocks and wears her blonde hair in a foam of curls on her neck. She was born Evelyn Klein in New York's Yorkville (Little Germany and Hungary), began her violin study as a child and was graduated from the Juillard Graduate School of Music. Spitalnay heard her in recital, was impressed by her musicianship and decided to form an all-girl orchestra. Evelyn has been in the concert mistress' chair since the first rehearsal in 1935.

Yule Shoppers Beware

Chief Reeder Issues Plea

Chief Of Police Don Reeder last night warned Christmas shoppers and sellers of the hazard of the yule season.

He set out several things to remember when shoppers come to Lubbock.

One of the most frequent occurrences on the streets during the Christmas season is thefts from automobiles that are left unlocked and parcels left in inside.

If you leave Christmas packages in your parked car be sure the car is locked, warned Chief Reeder.

And watch out for counterfeit money and shoplifters, Chief Reeder stated in issuing a warning to the clerks and management of the Lubbock stores. He stressed also the importance of knowing the endorser and require identification when cashing checks.

Don't let down the bars of caution at this season, warns the chief.

Age Lines On Neck May Be Kept Away

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Hold that line—the one from your throat to your chin. It is the area which reveals your age first. Especially after you've passed your thirtieth year. Muscles then begin to sag, flesh becomes creepy and lined, and may even take on a grayish cast.

Screen stars know the urgency of daily care of the throat and give it every bit as much attention as their face. Maureen O'Hara's beautiful throatline fairly shouts constant care and yours, too, will look years younger if you give it a thrice-weekly builder-upper similar to the one film beauties pursue.

It's as simple as this: Cleanse your face and neck, dip a clean face cloth in water as hot as you can stand, wring it out and wrap it around your throat. Repeat four times. Then apply a rich, nourishing neck cream and smooth over it a few drops of throat oil and allow them to remain on for 20 minutes. Remove excess with soft tissue and pat on extra strength astringent from the base of the throat to chinline.

Rail Brotherhoods Set Strike Meeting

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Chiefs of the five railway operating brotherhood decided today to set a strike date at a meeting in Cleveland on December 15.

David B. Robertson, of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, said the vote would be tabulated by then and the results would be announced simultaneously with the selection of a strike date. Robertson said that although the tabulation is not complete "it is in all probability a high vote for a strike."

The operating group is objecting to an emergency board's award of an increase of four cents an hour. They had asked a minimum increase of $3 a day.

Meanwhile, leaders of the 15 non-operating unions marked time, awaiting congressional action on a resolution to reinstate an award of an eight-cent hourly increase which Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson vetoed.

The non-operating unions also have taken a strike vote but have made no plans to announce the results or to fix a strike date.

Allies Hope For Bases In Russia

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The growing partnership of Russia with Britain and the United States in present and post-war planning has increased Allied hope that Russia will join in the war against Japan when she is able.

The hope was first stirred when China was permitted to take part in the conference of foreign ministers in Moscow, and Russia joined in the four-power war declaration which China signed. It has been increased by the Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin conference supposedly now in progress in Iran.

In Accord With Policy

Although China is pointedly absent from the Iran gathering, it is plain that if Stalin has consented to leave Russia for the long-desired meeting, he is in general accord with the policy being followed by the two western Allies. To be complete, co-operation among the three powers would have to be on a give-and-take basis.

Russian participation against Japan would shorten the war in the Far East considerably. If there were any doubt about Allied ability to force Japan's unconditional surrender, Russian aid would remove it.

What the Allies want most from Russia in the Far East is bases in Siberia from which to bomb the Japanese islands the way Germany is being bombed. Japan dreads the possibility more than anything else and has preserved an unnatural peace with Russia for that reason.

Content With Armed Truce

No one doubts, least of all Moscow, that eastern maritime Russia was on Japan's schedule of conquest. Russia, fighting for her life in Europe, was content with an armed truce as long as the danger in the west continued.

Now its end is in sight and the defeat of Germany will again allow Russia freedom of action. Because of her vital interests involved, there can not be much doubt about the choice.

It will not be plain sailing for Russia. Japan will fight with all her power to prevent the establishment of an Allied air front in Siberia. When Russia's decision becomes apparent, the Japanese will strike first. The powerful army which they maintain in Manchuria would cross the Amur and Ussuri rivers in an attempt to occupy such centers as Blagoveschensk, Khabarovsk and Vladivostok.

Long and bitter fighting would be inevitable before the Allies could establish bases in that area.

Advances In Italy

area yesterday was the biggest Allied offensive since the landing at Salerno. The Germans were reported resisting fiercely, and official advices were extremely reserved on how far Clark's Army progressed.

General Clark directed the attack from such an advanced point that he came under enemy artillery fire for some time, a half-dozen shells falling near where he was standing.

American fighters and dive-bombers flew some 300 sorties along a 20-mile front and dropped more than 100 tons of high explosives and hundreds of anti-personnel bombs on the German positions. The last of the returning fighter pilots reported they encountered almost no anti-aircraft fire, indicating the Nazis were deserting their guns under the onslaught. Seventeen German planes were destroyed during the day for a loss of eight Allied craft.

dozens per house in the concentratedly-bombed quarters, and often gutted up to 500 buildings simultaneously."

No morning newspapers were published in Berlin.

The 41 bombers lost probably represented the full measure of the defense the Nazis are able to give their greatest city, which Goering had boasted never would be bombed. The five assaults have cost a total of 151 planes—41 last night, 32 on Nov. 18, 26 on Nov. 22, 20 on Nov. 23, and 32 from the Berlin-Stuttgart raid Nov. 26.

Today's air activity from Britain was limited to forays of fighters over northern France.

RAF Mosquito bombers hit western Germany last night.

Russian Front

was diminishing there.

The Germans declared further that Russian troops had lashed out anew in the north with the fourth assault in as many days down the Smolensk road to Orsha and Minsk—this time screening their attacking infantry with a wall of fire from flame throwing tanks.

Worst Mud In Years

While the contending armies on the southern front had to struggle against the Ukraine's worst December mud in recent years, colder weather and powdering snow left the ground harder in the Smolensk region. The German news agency DNB said the new Soviet attacks toward Orsha extended on both sides of the upper Dnieper and the Smolensk military road. The Russians did not mention this operation.

The Russian war bulletin also declared that continued German tank and infantry counterattacks were repelled in the Cherkasy sector.

In the Kremenchug salient the Russians won back the railway station of Koristovka, a junction on the Kharkov-Odessa and Kiev-Dnepropetrovsk lines 21 miles east of Znamenka, the communique said. Red Army troops were said to be already shelling Snamenka, which is the key to lateral communications between the Kiev bulge and the Dnieper bend.

settlement of Kuanko Dec. 1. Another force of Aussies made slow progress from Bonga, five miles to the east.

Mitchells and Marauders supporters the drive by pounding the enemy supply area near Kamlagidu, north of Bonga, in daylight Thursday.

In addition to the New Britain raid by more than 50 Mitchells on Borgen Bay that same day, other bombers exploded supply dumps at Gasmata on the south-central coast.

SENTENCED TO LIFE

ALMA, Neb., Dec. 3. (AP)—Dale L. Cramer, 24-year-old Orleans, Neb., farmer, was sentenced by District Judge Frank Mundey today to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the poison death of his month-old daughter, Janice Mae, last June 10.

Moscow Scoops World On Meet

set by a three-sided war.

Neutral reports earlier said the date of the "second front" invasion from Britain probably had been set at the conference to back up the new, and thus far virtually unbroken aerial campaign against Germany which now has Berlin practically half in ruins, the Russian summer-autumn rout of the Germany Army and the developing conquests of Italy.

It was the first time that Premier Stalin had left Russia, since the revolution, and it was the first meeting between Mr. Roosevelt and the Soviet leader. Stalin and Churchill met once before, in Moscow.

The conference had appeared inevitable after the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting in Quebec, Canada, in August, and had been foreshadowed after the Moscow conference among U. S. Secretary of State Hull, British Foreign Secretary Eden and Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov.

Previous Reports

Neutral and Axis sources, saying flatly that the meeting was under way, had placed the site first at Teheran, but later appeared to be agreed that it was being held at Tabriz, in Russian-occupied Iran.

The Moscow radio made the announcement in a Soviet news agency broadcast for provincial papers. The announcer introduced it thus: "I am about to broadcast a statement to be inserted in every newspaper."

Only yesterday, the Berlin radio had said the conference had been completed at Tabriz and that a Christmas ultimatum to Germany to "give up or die" had been agreed upon.

Even after the Moscow announcement was made, the German radio was still guessing as to the site of the conference. It said the meeting was started Nov. 28 and terminated Dec. 3, and that one feature of the communique would be an appeal to the German people to surrender unconditionally.

1600 Miles From Moscow

The site of the history-making parley is the capital of Iran, with a population of 360,000. Teheran stands in the midst of a fertile plain, some 70 miles south of the Caucasian sea, but has an air of the modern European capital, with well-arranged traffic along new streets of the bazaar quarters.

Teheran is 1,600 air miles from Moscow, and it is possible that Stalin, on the journey, saw for himself the work that has been done to assure the flow of supplies reaching the Russian front from the Middle East.

The Russian Army in Iran has been closely cooperating with British-American troops in maintaining this vital supply link to the ever-advancing Red Army.

The meeting was the seventh between the heads of the British and United States governments.

Explosion, Fire

by the blast and by water and smoke. Early arrivals at the fire moved most of the furnishings of the shop into the Clover-Lake Dairy store located at the north end of the block on Avenue Q.

The Vernon Harris Knit shoppe, located in the same building with the New Wrinkle Shoppe, was also damaged by water and smoke.

The big blast that started the fire, which was followed by smaller explosions in the supply house, completely wrecked the fixtures, stocks, and other articles in the building.

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty told newsmen that damage from the fire would run high and that a further check with officials of the destroyed establishments would have to be made before an accurate estimate is possible.

All available officers of the Lubbock police department were called out to handle traffic and keep the immense crowd that gathered, from interfering with the work of the firemen who battled the blaze from all sections of the block.

This was the fourth fire in business establishments during the past 48 hours. Hilton hotel fires Thursday and Friday mornings, caused more than $3,000 damages, and the Merriwether hotel in the Flats was partially destroyed Thursday night.

A thief that stole $25 from the room of Nina Seifres, 1609-A Avenue Q, a week ago, struck again yesterday morning and took another $10 from Miss Seifres' apartment. The money was reported to have been stolen yesterday between 9 a. m. and 12 noon, according to records at the police department.

guards as well as by soldiers. They said he did spend much of the 10 days between his arrival and his arrest hanging around in LaFayette park which lies across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House, and apparently was hoping for an opportunity to molest the President when he left the grounds to go to church or for some other reason.

Alarmed and disturbed by the letter, Mrs. Best told Michigan authorities of it. Word was relayed to the secret service here, arriving on Nov. 13. Best had advised his wife of the hotel where he was staying and agents went there while others began a search about the White House neighborhood.

Traffic Violation

Meanwhile, however, Best had run afoul of the capital's traffic regulations. He started across 9th street at "E" N. W.,—some blocks away from the White House — without regard for traffic signals and traffic officer H. W. Estes proceeded to give him a "ticket."

Because of Best's abusive language, Estes took him to a precinct station where it was discovered that he was the man secret service agents were hunting.

Best was not armed when arrested, but secret service agents said they found a loaded .38 caliber revolver and 10 additional rounds of ammunition in his hotel room.

William A. Carlson, secret service agent, quoted the man as saying, "I had electrodes running through my brain and they told me to get rid of Roosevelt." He said Best is father of two small children.

Jackson Speaks At Rotary Meet

Taking neither himself nor his audience seriously, roly-poly "Prof" R. E. Jackson, instructor in the government department of the North Texas College for Women at Denton, who described himself as "built sitting down," Friday night literally kept in gales of laughter members of the Lubbock Rotary club and their wives at a "ladies night" banquet in Hilton hotel.

Clarence Bestwick was master of ceremonies. He introduced local members who have compiled perfect records on attendance at Rotary meetings over long periods of time. They were J. A. Raley, 18 years; W. W. Rix, now president of the club, 17 years; Dr. M. C. Overton, 16 years; Dr. F. B. Malone, 15 years; Bob Lowrey and Overton W. Ribble, 15 years.

Guests Introduced

Widows of former members of the local club were presented. They were Mrs. Mort Chitwood, Mrs. A. B. Conley, Mrs. Roscoe Wilson and Mrs. Richard Smith. Mrs. Clarence Whiteside and Mrs. Lewis Price were introduced as wives of ex-members now in the armed services.

Other guests were Ed McLaughlin of Ralls, former district Rotary governor, and Capt. William Murphy, special service officer at Lubbock Army Air field.

Lt. Richard Chamberlain, popular baritone, at LAAF, sang three numbers, including "Ole Man River." His accompanist was Sgt. Alice Ward, also of LAAF.

No Speaking System

Jackson, who himself has 19-year perfect attendance record, refused to use the microphone of the loud-speaker system, saying "it's too much like making love to a pretty girl through a picket fence." He defined a dictatorship thus: "That which is not prohibited is compulsory."

"I'll be pleased when we'll be able to see the bluebirds back over the white cliffs of Dover," he said, "but I'll be tickled to death when the buzzards gather over Berchtesgarten.

He stated the hardest job is doing nothing. "You can't rest."

Cummins Indicted On Charge Of Murder

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3. (AP)—The Jefferson parish grand jury indicted Irvin McCafferty Cummins, 20-year-old university professor's son, on a murder charge today in connection with the death by strangulation Sunday night of Miss Joan Lewis, 17, high school senior.

Cummins is being held in the parish jail at Gretna. Assistant District Attorney Ernest M. Conzelmann said Cummins told him he lost control of himself while he had his arms around the girl in an automobile near a school.

The youth saw service in the battle of Midway and recently received a medical discharge from the Navy. His attorney, Leo McCune, said he would file a motion for appointment of a lunacy commission to examine his client.

Musical Comedy Is Presented By Guild

Before a sizable audience in the Senior High school auditorium Friday evening the Lubbock Theater Guild presented its musical comedy, "Gems, Gowns and Girls," written by Charles George. Production was staged and directed by Joyce Halsey and Sarah Jones with a staff of 18 assistants.

Musical specialties were rendered by Winston Redwine, Virginia Bondurant, Mary Dupree and Marilyn Claiborne. June Royalty and Winston Redwine provided the background music.

The play "Gems, Gowns and Girls" concerned a slender plot with the entire action taking place in a French gown shop providing a presentation for beautiful girls, dazzling gowns, and pleasant musical numbers.

Miss Betty Rountree was particularly outstanding in her role of Sallie Forth, a rich girl who took a job as a model in the gown shop in order to snare a band of jewelry smugglers. Mark Dickenson added a hilarious touch to the proceedings in his role of E. J. Ketchum, a detective disguised as a woman shopper. Other members of the cast included: Fae Beth Hill, Bobby Campbell, Mary Ann Dykes, Ben Wells, Bess Griggs, Doris Burdett, Norman Shaw and Marilyn Claiborne.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Seminole Indians Power To Win Over Levelland Lobos

By MACK TURNER
Avalanche Sports Editor

LEVELLAND, Dec. 3. — The Seminole Indians moved into the Regional finals here this afternoon on the thundering heels of H. L. Lassiter and J. B. Everett to bowl over the Levelland Lobos 28 to 0 here this afternoon.

Working behind some great blocking by their mates, Lassiter and Everett ripped the touted Levelland line to shreds and tore through for long gains time after time.

This same pair divided the Seminole touchdowns, two each, and pretty well divided the yardage rolled up with the hard driving running game They did almost all the ball carrying for the winners, rolling up 19 first and tens to six for Levelland.

At the same time, the Seminole line was stopping the hard driving Lobo backs. It would be hard to pick an individual star from the stout forward wall that worked in front of Lassiter and Everett. Max Gray, scrappy little center perhaps gained a slight edge over the others for his great defensive work.

Everett The Star

Everett also stood out on the defense for the winners, and was by far the best all around man on the field for the afternoon.

The Lobos were crippled for this game, but they didn't offer this as an excuse for their defeat. The team suffered a great loss last Wednesday when Bill Tibbets, star end and third ranking scorer, joined the Navy and left the club.

Horace Byerley was used only on the offense by Coach Tubbs because of his injured shoulder, suffered in the Lubbock "B" team game two weeks ago. Byerley and Houser carried the brunt of the attack as the Seminole line bottled up the powerful running Seth Murphey throughout the afternoon.

Indian Threat

The game started out as a punting duel until Max Gray intercepted a Levelland pass on the Levelland 45 and romped 20 yards to the 25 before he was pulled down, and the first threat of the ball game was launched.

Everett smashed to the 21, then Lassiter faked a pass and stormed to the 14. Zickefoose broke through to throw Cocke for a two yard loss, then after an incomplete pass, Lassiter went off tackle to the 11. Everett them smashed to the 4, but the ball needed a foot for a first down and went over to Levelland to kill the drive.

After an exchange of punts, Levelland had the ball on its 12 when a bad pass from center rolled over the goal line and Byerley was swarmed for a Seminole safety and a 2 to 0 lead.

Taking over on the Seminole 30, the Indians launched a 70 yard drive for the first touchdown early in the second period. Lassiter and Everett alternated on the running plays with a 15 yard gallop by Lassiter reaching the 20 for the second penetration for the Indians.

First Touchdown

Levelland drew a five yard penalty, then Everett smashed through to the 11 and on the next play made it first down on the 9. Everett picked up 3, Lassiter another, then Everett smashed over from 5 yards out. The try for point failed because of a bad pass from center.

Seminole didn't lose any time starting another touchdown drive, and took over on the kickoff when Byerley fumbled the ball on the Lobo 25.

Big Lassiter opened up with full steam and ripped through the line for nine yards, smashed through to the 11 on the next play, then powered over to the 2 on the third. Everett then smashed over from the 2 and Jocoy booted the extra point for a 15-to-0 lead.

Seminole was rolling again at the end of the half when the timers whistle stopped them on the Lobo 1 yard line after an 11 yard smash by Lassiter and a 37 yard pass from Warren to Jocoy put the ball on the 4, but the Levelland line held for two plays before the final gun

Levelland came back strong after the intermission and started it's lone scoring threat of the ball game. Taking the kickoff on its own 39, the drive was started as Byerley weaved through tackle to the 50. Murphey and Houser gained a first down on the 39 in three running plays. From there, Byerley took a latteral and roamed around right end to the 28.

In two tries, Murphey reached the 21, then Humphries reached the 18. Houser picked up a yard, then Byerley smashed through to the 8. On the next play, Lassiter intercepted Houser's pass on his goal line and ran it out to the 11.

Early in the final period, the Indians went on the warpath again, and marched 60 yards with power plays, climaxed by Lassiter's 7-yard smash for the score. Jocoy kicked the extra point to make the score 22-0.

On the following kickoff, Byerley again fumbled and Seminole took over on the Levelland 35. The Indians took to the air for a moment, and Warren flipped a pass to Hood who raced to the 19.

After two running play and a penalty pushed the Indians back to the 22, Warren again passed to Hood to reach the 4. Everett picked up half of this, then Lassiter crashed over standing up.

Levelland launched a desperate aerial offensive in the fading minutes of the game, marching from it's own 30 to the Seminole 21, but there the threat died and the game ended a few plays later.

The lineups:

SEMINOLE	Pos.	LEVELLAND

Lindley	RG	Bickham

Sunset Blasts North Side Steers, 34 To 0

FORT WORTH, Des. 3. (AP) — Sunset High of Dallas drubbed North Side of Fort Worth here tonight, 34-0, in a bi-district football game.

The Bisons started fast, with a touchdown early in the game after recovering a North Side fumble, and by half-time held a 20-0 edge.

The Steers came back to hold the game even in the third period, meanwhile threatening twice to score, but Sunset turned on the power for two more touchdowns in the final period.

The Bison line was far the best, and made the Sunset victory easy. Frequent North Side fumbles killed that team's every offensive gesture in the first half.

Lombardi Cleared Of Charges On Fighting

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Municipal Judge George B. Harris today ruled that Ernie Lombardi, New York Giants catcher, had provocation for striking a war worker during a night club dispute Nov. 10, and a charge of battery against him was dismissed.

Lombardi testified he twice struck Wade Jones, Richmond, Calif., shipyard electrician, with the back of his hand. Jones admitted the slapping occurred after he had pushed Lombardi during an argument over the placing of some chairs.

Jones' civil suit for $20,000 damages against the baseball player still pends.

Even Field Chairs In Orange Bowl Sold Out

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Every available seat, including 800 extra field chairs, has been sold for the Orange Bowl football classic here New Year's Day between Texas A. and M. and Louisiana State university, Orange Bowl officials said today.

The last ticket was sold late yesterday making it the earliest sell-out in Orange Bowl history. Tickets for the game went on sale Nov. 15.

The bowl will seat approximately 32,000 persons.

Lufkin Retains No. 1 Spot In Race By Win Over Marshall, 32-6

LUFKIN, Tex., Dec. 3 (AP) — Lufkin's mighty Panthers blasted Marshall from the state schoolboy football race today with a 32-6 victory that kept the Panthers in the No. 1 spot for the championship.

A crowd of 5,000 saw Lufkin score late in the second period then push over four touchdowns in the third quarter with Les Taylor and Oliver McKay setting the pace. Marshall's lone touchdown came in the closing minutes of the game, with Byron Gillory plunging over from the one to climax a 50-yard surge.

McKay and Taylor teamed to skirt the Marshall ends and advanced to the 15-yard line to launch the drive for the first Panther score. Taylor made five and McKay went over on the next play.

Harmon Carswell's 31-yard pass to end Buddy Rutland set up the second touchdown. With the ball on the 36, McKay took a lateral and sped for the score.

Rutland got the third Panther tally, smashing over from the six on an end-round play. Taylor added the point.

Taylor raced 19 yards for the fourth touchdown after a drive from midfield, then took McKay's pass for the extra point.

Bert Westmoreland got the final Lufkin touchdown after a recovered fumble gave the Panthers the ball on the Marshall 34.

Lufkin made 14 first downs and Marshall 10, with the Panthers gaining 267 yards rushing to 119 for Marshall.

Tulsa Gridmen Given Ration Hints By OPA

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 3 (AP) — The Tulsa Office of Price Administration served notice on the Tulsa football team today that it should observe certain government regulations in the Sugar Bowl game next New Year's day.

"Pork and pork products are on the list of rationed items," the notice said, "So these cautionary points should be observed by the team:

"1. The football should not be kicked or otherwise propelled toward the Georgia Tech goal in a careless manner. Each punt should average 60 yards and should be a twisting spiral. This lessens the friction and conserves material.

"2. The ends of the team are enjoined to be especially vigilant in catching any balls thrown through the air. A football striking the earth deteriorates in both substance and quality.

"3. It is desirable that the rationed article used in the play be retained in Tulsa's possession as long as possible. Georgia is a cereal-minded state (i. e. 'Georgia Cracker') and possibly will not be attuned to the conserving of meat products."

The notice added that although pigskin is rationed, "the point values are unlimited. The Tulsa team may compile as many points as they deem prudent."

In a postscript, employes of the OPA office enclosed a check for $22 as their contribution to the campaign to buy Sugar Bowl tickets for service men.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 3. (AP)—Retention of John F. (Bud) Tomlin as coach of the University of Arkansas Razorback football team was announced by President A. M. Harding tonight at an annual banquet honoring grid lettermen.

Waco Eliminates Buckaroos By Penetrations, Tie 13-13

WACO, Tex., Dec. 3. (AP)—The Waco Tigers edged into the quarter-finals of the Texas schoolboy football race tonight, defeating Breckenridge on penetrations after the teams had battled to a 13-13 tie in a wild and wooly game in which fumbles played a major role.

Waco led in penetrations 6-2 and had a wide margin in first downs and yardage.

Paul Campbell, Wesley Cox and Bobby Adair whipsawed through the Waco defense after recovering a fumble on the Tiger 37. Campbell plunged over from the one-yard line a minute before the half ended, and tipped the conversion barely over the cross-bar to give the Buckaroos a 7-0 lead.

Charles Easter led a Waco surge that brought a touchdown in the third period. He carried the ball almost unaided from his 32 to the Breckenridge four, fumbled and after a weak Buckaroo punt carried it back to the one on short jabs. Williams went over for the touchdown but Easter missed the conversion.

Six minutes into the fourth Williams connected with Easter for a 12-yard touchdown pass after the teams had exchanged fumbles on the visitors' 20. Easter kicked the point.

A bit later Easter speared a Cox pass on the Waco goal line and carried to the 34 to halt a whirlwind Breckenridge drive. Two minutes from the end Campbell hit Charles Green with a 50-yard pass on the goal line but Campbell's kick for the point was blocked by Williams.

Razorbacks Prepare For Big Cage Season

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 3. (AP)—Basketters are busy again in the Ozark hills and that means the University of Arkansas Razorbacks are getting ready for one of the busiest campaigns in history —a 23-game menu which calls for a Christmas holiday foray into the metropolitan New York area and an appearance in Madison Square garden.

Dr. Eugene W. Lambert, one of Arkansas' all-time athletic greats, is starting his second season as head coach of the Razorbacks and cooking up potions that may well be viewed with alarm in Texas where entries have been forced to be satisfied with an average of a Southwest Conference championship every two years. In 21 title races, Arkansas has copped the flag no less than ten times.

There's only one letterman left on the squad which finished third in the conference last season. He is lanky Ben Jones, the Beebe speedster who became a regular in his first season of varsity play. There are two other players with experience, flashy Bill Flynt, formerly of Ouachita, and Keith Sims, formerly of Arkansas State Teachers College.

Goose Creek Powers Over Jeff Davis, 25-0

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 3 (AP) — Neither the sloppy field nor the Jeff Davis Panthers gave the Robert E. Lee Ganders of Goose Creek much trouble tonight as Dan Stallworth's charges scored in every period to whip the Houston champions, 25-0, and advance into the quarter finals of the Interscholastic League playoffs.

Some 8,000 fans saw the Ganders badly whip the highly regarded Jeff Davis line.

It was Lee's eleventh consecutive victory of the season.

Not a forward pass did the Ganders pitch during the engagement. They stuck to the sloppy terrain in making 242 yards net on rushing plays good for 10 first downs and a quartet of scoring plays.

Chief gainer of the night was the greatest back in Goose Creek history — little barrel chested George Walmsley—who picked up 87 yards on 17 tries.

Held to nine yards on the ground, Jeff Davis did not cross the Gander 20 until two long pass plays connected in the last minute.

The Ganders put on drives of 21, 53, 42 and 53 yards for the touchdowns with Ted Hunt scoring the opener on a 10-yard plunge through the middle, Wade Glenn going four yards for the second, Walmsley counting from the one on the third and Glenn Counting from the 14 on the fourth.

Landis Leaves Negro Question With Clubs

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis announced at a joint meeting of the Major Leagues today that "any Major League club is entirely free to employ negroes to any and all extent it requires."

"The matter is one solely for each club's decision without any restriction whatsoever," Landis said. "It must be left to each club's decision without any restriction whatsoever." Landis said. "It must be left to each club's discretion."

Landis ruled after a delegation of negro leaders, headed by Paul Robeson, actor and singer, appeared at a closed joint meeting of both Major Leagues to appeal for the right of negroes to play in organized baseball.

A statement issued after the meeting said no further action was taken.

Bobby Layne Sparks Highland Park Club To Win Over Sherman

SHERMAN, Tex., Dec. 3. (AP)—Highland Park's Scotties of Dallas swept into the Texas schoolboy football quarter-finals today with a 20-6 decision over Sherman with Bobby Layne in the starring role.

The Scotty punter, runner and passer went over for two of the touchdowns and passed for another as Highlank Park repeated its early season victory over the Bearcats only by a more decisive margin. The first time they met Highland Park won 21-18.

The Scotties scored their initial touchdown in the second period when Layne passed to Doak Walker for 14 yards to put the ball on the one-foot mark. Layne then smacked the line for the touchdown.

In the third period Layne passed to Walker for 35 yards, then in three tries smashed over. The third Highland touchdown came on a 26-yard pass from Layne to Rip Collins.

Walker converted after two touchdowns.

Sherman scored when Joe Newbill passed to Harold Riley for 22 yards and Riley fell on the one-foot line. On a double reverse Joe Joiner, right end, took the ball over for the touchdown.

Sherman made 14 first downs and Highland Park 13.

Vernon Rallies To Beat Pampa

VERNON, Tex., Dec. 3. (AP) — Unleasing a furious second-half passing attack that netted three touchdowns, Vernon's Lions moved into the state high school football quarter-finals by downing the Pampa Harvesters, 20-7, before some 8,000 wildly cheering fans here today.

After Pampa had roundly outplayed the Lions in the first two uarters to take a 7-0 halftime lead, Vernon took to the air, with quick results.

After Vernon tied the score at 7-7, Pampa continued to play conservative ball, apparently hoping for a tie game and a victory on penetrations. But the Lion aerial attack brought two more rapid-fire touchdowns to clinch the triumph.

Vernon, sparked by Ashley, Matney and Gaddy, led in first downs, 12 to 9.

Pampa's offensive standout was Charlie Boyles, triple-threat back.

Shamrock Irish Nose By Spur Bulldogs, 6-0

SPUR, Dec. 3 (Special)—The Shamrock Irish clearly outclassed the light, but scrappy Spur Bulldogs here this afternoon in a bi-district Class A game, and an aerial surge in the second quarter gained a 6-to-0 victory for the Irish.

An exchange of punts in the second period gave Shamrock possession of the ball on the Spur 25. Passes brought two first downs to move the ball down to the Spur 4 where a stubborn Spur line took all the Irish could offer in three stabs, then a fourth down pass into the left flat produced the lone score of the game.

The fine Shamrock team held a clear advantage in every department of the game, and Spur never offered a scoring threat, and made but two first downs.

Shamrock won the right to meet Phillips for the Region 1 championship next week at a date and place yet to be decided.

Thomas Jefferson Is Winner Over McAllen

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 3. (AP)—Thomas Jefferson's Mustangs reared into the state quarter finals here tonight with a crushing 44-12 victory over heretofore undefeated McAllen.

Perry Samuels sparked the Mustangs, chalking up four touchdowns to lead the game's scoring.

McAllen was behind only 6-12 at the half but in the final periods Jefferson's power was too much for the Valley eleven.

Dekoch and Williams scored for McAllen, while Meader, Browne and Boston scored the Mustang touchdowns.

Cox Asks Landis For Hearing On Charges

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis today said that William D. Cox, who resigned as owner of the Philadelphia Phillies during Landis' investigation of betting on ball games, had denied statements he made to the commissioner concerning wagers he had made on ball games and asked for a hearing Dec. 4.

Landis said that through an attorney Cox had notified him the original remarks Cox made about his supposed betting were made to test the loyalty of "a certain man in Philadelphia," and that these remarks concerning wagering were not true.

As a result Cox asked for a hearing to clear himself in the matter and the commissioner notified him to appear before him tomorrow.

GI's And The Entertainers

MANY people doubtless may feel it was a small matter when Miss Laraine Day, screen actress, complained the other day that when she visited military installations as an entertainer, commissioned officers "monopolized" so much of her time that little was left for enlisted men.

However, small matters often are important. So, if her experiences have been as typical as she insisted they are, the practice should be corrected.

This does not attempt to suggest that her individual complaints do or do not contain merit. We have no idea as to that. Certainly it might be that some of the entertainers have the notion that, when they visit a training camp, everything should be brought to a standstill during their stay. It could be that Miss Day has not seen as many enlisted men as she thought she should because they haev been entirely too busy with their duties.

Most commanding officers, we believe, recognize fully that visits of celebrities of various kinds to military installations are arranged primarily for the benefit of the enlisted man. We believe that most such officers try to arrange as much contact between visitor and the enlisted personnel as the serious business of preparing for war will permit. We have an idea that when a touring celebrity does not see as much of the men in the ranks as he or she might expect and wish, it usually is due to reasons of far greater importance than the mere presence of a visitor.

Of course, if there are occasional instances—as doubtless there are—of commissioned officers "monopolizing" time that a visiting celebrity otherwise might give to the enlisted personnel, corrective measures would be in order. But certainly no commanding officer should be placed in a position where he would feel it incumbent to declare a holiday merely because a movie star is in town.

Gone With The Dodo Bird

IT may or may not be significant, but the fact remains that the drums have been silenced which were being pounded so vigorously in certain administration quarters only a few months ago for a universal labor draft law.

True, an occasional tap upon the tomtoms still is heard from among the diehards. But the clamor has ceased from among the bureaucrats, headed by Paul V. McNutt, who were demanding a law under which they would have been empowered to move practically every man, woman and child in the nation to any job they might choose at any time that they—the bureaucrats—might choose.

Now reports are that the labor shortage in a great many areas is easing. Some of the reports to Washington, which have not been publicized, are that in some localities the closing of certain types of plants has resulted in at least temporary and localized unemployment.

Perhaps this is a condition which does not reflect criticism upon those who advocated the universal labor draft. Possibly the war picture has changed for the better much faster than they, or anyone else, could foresee.

If the universal labor draft no longer is needed, that would not mean, necessarily, that there ever was an apparent justification for it. If it has ceased to be a need, that does not mean, necessarily, that it could not become necessary before victory is won.

However, the reasonable indications are that the danger of the enactment of such a law has passed. It seems reasonably apparent that, if there ever was a need for a step of that kind, the need has ceased. The encouraging outlook is that, if the danger has passed, it is gone forever and that little more will be heard of the universal labor draft law proposal.

The One Minute Sermon

Wherefore David blessed the Lord before all the congregation: and David said, Blessed be thou, Lord God of Israel our father, for ever and ever.

Thine, O Lord is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou are exalted as head above all.

Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all: and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.

Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name. — I Chronicles 29; 10 through 13.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

Glider Girl

BY OREN ARNOLD
(Copyright, 1943, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY: Pat Friday quit a drab office job for the thrilling and adventuresome one of learning to fly a glider, has completed her training in just 10 days. After six more days of study she is ready for her solo flight. Jimmy Carr tows her ship aloft, and she completes her trip successfully, winning the admiration of fellow pilots on the field. Jimmy leaves a note on her desk, asking her to meet him in the reception room at 5 o'clock. Loraine Stuart is an uninvited guest, embarrassing Jimmy as he walks in with a box of candy and a corsage.

COAST-TO-COAST FLIGHT

CHAPTER V

Beautiful Loraine Stuart had been half sitting, half leaning on the arm of a reclining chair, there in the Soaring Field reception room. It was a posture which both Loraine and Pat knew was calculated to show off her figure to full advantage.

When Jimmy Carr paused as if in indecision, however, Loraine was already rising. She flowed toward him. Pat just waited, and wondered.

"Jim-mee, darling!" Loraine cooed. "How thoughtful!"

She took the big box of candy from him. Captain Carr swallowed, and looked helplessly from one girl to the other. Quickly then, he forced a smile.

"Y-Yes, sure!" he managed. "I mean—sure!"

It wasn't like Jim Carr to lose his poise. Pat observed him with surprise. But Loraine was stripping off the pretty green ribbons which held the war stamp corsage. One ribbon also held a tiny envelope. Quickly, almost self-consciously, Jimmy took that envelope. As if it were of no importance, he stuck it in his pocket now.

"Sure, sure," he kept repeating, boyishly. "They really are nice, aren't they? Sure. I mean—I thought they, uh — well, look, they're kind of like flowers, aren't they, Loraine?"

"Mmmmmm!" She tip-toed gracefully, pressing the corsage gently between them, and kissed Jimmy full on the lips. Jimmy took it as an awkward schoolboy might have.

"Sure, sure," he was still saying. "Uh—look. How's about you and Pat having dinner with me? We have been so busy, but—all right Pat?"

Loraine seemed to rediscover Pat, then. "I'm sure Miss Friday would love to go with us," she said.

Pat's teeth pulled at her upper lip. She wasn't at all sure what the score was here. But then Jimmy came to his senses again, and before she knew it all three were being herded into his car outside. He was talking now, like the Jimmy he really was. Chatting and teasing and not waiting for answers, but just being happy in the company of two extraordinarily pretty girls.

He took them to Elmira's swanky new Skyline Cafe, and Loraine said, "Want to touch up my rouge, darling."

She didn't invite Pat to accompany her to the women's lounge. Pat tucked in her lip again; she had often had to pretend not to see Loraine Stuart's trival little slights, during the days of her intensive training her. Loraine was already an expert at flying motor ship or sailplane and, to a small degree, had been one of Pat's instructors. Jimmy's plan of having Loraine teach Pat everything, however, had not worked out well; other male officers had tactfully aided Pat over this embarrassing hump.

While he and Pat waited, Jimmy was talking, low tone.

"Haven't time to take you home for dressing and all that, Pat," he said hurriedly. "You know how it is. Army life makes us informal. But I wanted you to have the corsage and candy. You deserved them! Here!"

He held that tiny envelope out to her. Pat's chin fell, and she looked at Jimmy in astonishment. Her pulse had leaped.

"Read it!" he ordered. "It's proof!"

She took out the card. "Congratulations, to a swell kid for a swell solo!" He had written that.

Suddenly again he took card and envelope, tore them to bits, pocketed them. His lips set tight.

"Jimmy, I—I—goodness, I—"

"Misunderstanding," he muttered. "You deserved them. But she happened to be in the reception room, too. We're engaged. Apologize. Y'know how 'tis. Gosh, Pat, I—please don't hold it against —sh-h-h-h!"

Loraine was returning. But Pat was soaring again!

So, Loraine had "happened" to be in that reception room! Pat understood that; she could add two and two to get four. Loraine had seen Jimmy come there to headquarters and leave the note on her desk, and Loraine had gone to read that note. Of course!

Patsy bit her lip this time; to control what she might have said. She studiously avoided Miss Stuart's eyes, too. She didn't trust herself when angry.

But versatile Jimmy Carr now was covering everything swell. He ordered three grand dinners, and Pat's excitement had somehow built in her an enormous appetite. Jimmy teased her about it —which was fun for him and her —and took her with a penny to weigh on the big scales near the door. The needle swung back and forth, settled finally at 102½.

"Hoo-ra-a-ay!" he exulted, for her.

She was wide-eyed, beaming. "Jimmy! That means I ought to be a real hundred. Of—just me!"

"Growing up!" he avowed. "Sixteen, going on 17, I betcha!"

Back at the table, Loraine was quietly poised. She smoked her cigaret with studied artistry. But somehow she put a damper on the spirits of the other two here. Jimmy dropped his gaiety and, man like, slipped into shop talk.

"One thing, kids," he began, serious tone, "this soaring business is taking hold all over the land. But the general public isn't fully informed about it yet. And the public has to know."

"Why, Jimmy?" Pat asked. Loraine, apparently not interested, gazed off at the orchestra, across the cafe.

"Because it's the public that runs this land! Not some high muck! And you know what?" He jabbed a finger at her.

"What?"

"We got new orders. A new job. I did, I mean. Today."

"Oh! Jimmy, are you—?" Distress shone on Pat. Was he about to be transferred? Sent away?

"We're going to help educate the public, Pat. I got a wire today from Washington. From Barringer, the head of the nation's soaring and gliding service. He wants me to conduct a transcontinental sailplane flight."

"Oh Jimmy!"

"We are to fly coast to coast in a sailplane, with a passenger, just to prove it can be done. We stop in every big city en route. We start at Elmira and go west."

"How — how wonderful!" Pat said. "With a—a passenger and—" She finished a little lamely, worried.

Jimmy was proud, and justly so. But in Pat was that new uneasiness. Loraine Stuart had shown a spark of interest, but had said nothing; she just sat there smoking, aloof, cool.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED

RENO, Nev., Dec. 3. (AP) — A divorce complaint was filed today by Ruth Mitchell Knowles, sister of the late "Billy" Mitchell of Army Air corps fame, against Stanley Knowles, formerly connected with the U. S. diplomatic service. Mrs. Knowles, known as the only American woman to join the Chetnik guerillas in Albania, alleged three years of separation as grounds.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

TWO girls were sitting in back of me on the train.

They were discussing a third.

"I think she's an awfully nice kid," said one of the girls. "And so pretty."

"Yes," commented the other, "but she's losing all her friends. She's always sticking her nose into other people's business."

Now wasn't that funny? I had made exactly the same remark at the breakfast table about an acquaintance of ours.

Sticking your nose into other people's business, is very bad business, indeed.

It comes primarily, I think, from not having enough business of your own.

Why do we do it?

Why are we so much concerned about the other fellow's affairs, and particularly his shortcomings?

First of all I believe it's envy.

If our neighbor has something we haven't got we try to belittle him so that he may not appear so much bigger than we.

If a girl is younger or prettier than we, we say she puts on too much rouge or she chases after the boys

By pulling her down we think we are building ourselves up.

The next time you feel like repeating a piece of gossip about somebody you know or making some belittling remark, just stop a minute.

Why are you doing it? What does that person benefit by it? What harm may it do?

Supposing that woman or that man doesn't meet with your approval. Why do you have to tell others about it?

You know how quickly rumors get around. You know how any evil story is twisted and enlarged and exaggerated.

ISN'T life tough enough without making the going even tougher?

Isn't the straight road long enough without you building a lot of detours for your fellow humans?

I know gossip is nice. It gives you such a warm glow of righteousness to knock the other guy, to stick out your chest and imply, oh so subtly, how much better you are than he.

But it's so cheap. It's so underhanded, so nasty, so two-faced.

Which, for no reason, reminds me of the late Frank Tinney's old vaudeville poke:

"Our poor goat always stuck his nose into things that didn't concern him. Yesterday he stuck it into a buzz saw and had it cut off."

"But how does he smell?" asked the stooge.

"Awful" was the reply.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ASSOCIATES of Wendell Willkie have bumped into serious difficulties in their attempts to insert the Congressional Record his recent remarks before Republican congressmen. Somehow "that man," as intraparty foes brand him, has a faculty for keeping his adopted friends in hot water on the eve of a presidential campaign.

Rep. Wat Arnold of Missouri, who invited the 1940 nominee to speak before the "Seventy-Eight club," sponsored introduction of the address in the journal. But minority lieutenants, especially those close to Joseph W. Martin, jr. of Massachusetts, warned that they would block the effort unless Arnold deleted offending paragraphs.

Some were slighting references to the Bay Stater's leadership, the former isolationists on their side of the aisle and a general attack on the membership as fuddyduddy reactionaries. Other statements which might endanger harmony, including Willkie's boast that he could "win the nomination any time I want to," were also cited for elimination.

The objectors did not overemphasize these reasons for their hostility, stressing that printing charges would be $112.50. They explained to Freshman Arnold that under House rules he would have to get special permission from all his colleagues before such an expenditure could be authorized. But their ulterior motive was political, not financial.

ANGRY: The man from Missouri, who describes himself as "only a green lumberjack," scratched his head and permitted himself a few second thoughts. He also listened to acquaintances who indicated that he himself might have trouble in the primary even without the added handicap of his championship of such a turbulent figure as the former standard-bearer.

So, as Arnold admits, he "got cold feet." But Rep. Charles Marion La Follette of Indiana, who introduced Willkie at the exciting "Seventy Eight" session as an "old friend," has promised to make another try to get the oration past the censors.

Note: Willkie is fortunate in that his principal admirers in the lower chamber are first year members. Old-timers would never be so rash as to force him or his words on angry veterans of the parliamentary machine.

FEAR: Firsthand, detailed reports on American activities abroad from the five Senatorial globe-trotters and later from Hugh A. Butler of Nebraska broke in sensational headlines. But the real significance of their discoveries has been generally overlooked, although Capitol Hill is slowly beginning to sense the international dangers and implications.

It is this: By the Atlantic Charter, the Moscow Declaration, Land-Lease act and other war promises, the United States has been committed to world responsibilities far more controversial and vital than those embodied in many a Senate-ratified treaty. Woodrow Wilson's pledges to a shattered but hopeful universe in 1919 were mere trifles compared with the undertakings which are assumed today.

As the six Senators warn, withdrawal of the financial assistance that we are furnishing on a grandiose scale will plunge the beneficiaries into an economic chaos for which they will never forgive Uncle Sam. They will call him names worse than "Shylock."

But there are even more serious risks born of our temporary tie-ups with Great Britain and the Soviet Union, necessary as those links may be for the defeat of the Axis. Scores of peoples—Indians, Arabs, South Americans, Dominion populations—bear ingrained, historic grudges against England. Unless Washington uses its influence to wipe out their grievances at the peace table, we may inherit them.

Russia has enemies from the Baltic to the Black Sea—nations which fear that Moscow aims to gobble them up after the conflict. Here again, unless we prevent the Kremlin from carrying out such a policy, the victims will hold us as an accessory to the crime.

Assuming these tasks probably derives inevitably from our present role. It cannot be helped. But for that very reason members of both Houses of Congress demand that President Roosevent and Secretary Hull keep them more fully informed about the executive's "expansionist program."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

CIGARS for Christmas—especially in boxes—will be scarcer than at any other time since Sir Walter Raleigh blew his first smoke ring. The worst pinch is now felt on the Pacific coast.

The decline started two years ago and has been accelerated in the last couple of months. Demand, however, is 40 per cent above that of 1942. The magnitude of Army-Navy orders for overseas post exchanges has no limit in sight. Remainder of production is allocated to distributors who in turn ration customers.

Manufacturers took to heart the advice of the late Vice President Marshall: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar." Today excellent fillers, retailing at six cents each, are so popular that they compose more than five billion of the nation's annual output of six billion cigars.

Salesmen report that when a purchaser cannot obtain his favorite stogy, he refuses to take a chance on another of cheap quality; he will request a costlier brand with a well-advertised name, a custom profitable to dealer.

SMOKE: There is no tobacco famine, although crops have shrunk alarmingly. Most of the important corporations possess inventories sufficient for two or three years. Loss of manpower accounts for the dearth. Men and women machine operators, who roll 90 per cent of the product, have taken jobs in essential industries, thus reducing their number from 50,000 in 1942 to 41,000 today.

Eventually, unless the WFA lifts its curbs on acreage, there will be a crippling deficiency in plantation supplies. Choice wrappers can no longer be obtained from Sumatra but, fortunately, most processors own adequate stock piles and the Connecticut shade-grown output is a satisfactory substitute.

A peculiarity of tobacco is that the same variety of seed may yield leaf suitable for cigarettes in Virginia and for cigars in southern New England. Contrary to popular conception the weed is not raised chiefly in Dixie. Some of the best grades are harvested in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Ohio.

General MacArthur and Prime Minister Churchill, nearly always photographed enjoying their perfectos, are the heroes of the trade. Statisitcs indicate that many soldiers and sailors abroad are imitating them, assuring sustained business for corner stores when they come home.

The veterans are highly discriminating. In the years of World War I, greedy contractors frequently sold Uncle Sam chunks of "rope" under false pretenses, but the government today buys only first-class material. The lad in the foxhole puffs as good a smoke as the member of a Fifth Avenue club.

DEFEAT: Slogans, symbols, signs and other inanimate emblems of resistance encourage patriots and torment the oppressors of subjugated Europe.

Underground contacts in New York report that it is fashionable for Danish women to wear berets knitted in the red, white and blue of the United States and Great Britain.

When the Gestapo tore them from their heads the girls placed the tricolor in their buttonholes. Himmler's policemen snatched these, too, until the more audacious victims concealed old safety razor blades under coat lapels—thereafter the Nazis kept their fingers where they belonged.

An editorial in a Dutch outlawed newspaper advises: "We must make sure that the hated Hun is constantly reminded of his defeats. Friends of freedom, write on every wall, tree, fence, telegraph post, cafe tablecloth, the names of Libya, Tunisia, Sicily, Hamburg, Cologne, Orel, Stalingrad, Mussolini. You will not exhaust your list of subjects; there will be many more soon."

(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

"It is ignorance that causes women to mis-park, double-park, leave cars unattended in traffic lanes, etc.," says a traffic engineer. We hasten to the defense of women. It is not ignorance—the very idea! It's just that the women plain don't give a darn.

On Being A REAL PERSON

BY DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK

Freedom Is One Of Severest Tensions Persons Can Sustain

THE process by which real personality is thus attained is inward and spiritual. No environmental changes by themselves can so push a personality together as to bring this satisfying wholeness within.

As for the typical environments of our modern world, even when they are popularly deemed fortunate they disperse and disorganize life rather than collect and unify it. Such is the psychological effect even of our emphasis on individual liberty. In primitive, tribal society, a man was so submerged in the life of his family and clan that individuality hardly existed. Social solidarity was so complete that thinking, feeling, and deciding were for the most part communal functions, and the whole tribe moved together when it moved at all.

In the modern world the individual is thrown back upon himself as never before in history. For his livelihood, for his standing in the community, for his success or failure, for his personal friendships, for his opinions, he is largely on his own.

It is difficult for a Western liberal to imagine a desirable social order that does not preserve and even accentuate such freedom; yet freedom involves, and always will involve, one of the severest tensions that the human organism can sustain.

As Thomas Huxley said, "A man's worst difficulties begin when he is able to do as he likes." Our modern society, therefore, even in those freedom-conferring aspects which are acclaimed as a social advance, increases rather than decreases the internal conflicts, confusions, and worries, and makes more difficult, not less, their avoidance or their solution.

"Anxiety," said Kierkegaard, "is the dizziness of freedom." The hope of a society that will automatically produce integrated, one-directional, satisfying personality, pushed together by fortunate environment, is utter delusion.

Indeed, nervous prostration is a specialty of the prosperous, and statistics indicate that suicide occurs most frequently among the more well-to-do. Wealth immensely widens the area of individual freedom, and so increasing the multiplicity of possible choices, it often is far more disrupting than satisfying. Granted that "A heavy purse makes a light heart." Granted that the inequities of our economic disorder deserve the castigation of good men, and that many thwarted lives, distracted, stunted, and crushed, would in a more decent social organization have a chance at worth-while living now denied them! Nevertheless, no financial prosperity by itself can push a personality together, give it centrality and symmetry, lead it up through reflexes, habits, traits, and multiple selves to a united whole, banish from the scene the major areas of inner conflict, and produce a steady and poised man.

It's no in titles nor in rank;
It's no in wealth like Lon'on Bank,
To purchase peace and rest.

BALK at it, as we moderns may, there is no solution of this inner problem of a unified and whole personality unless we come back to the insights of the great religious seers. So one of our modern Quakers put it:

Strained by the very mad pace of our daily outer burdens, we are further strained by an inward uneasiness, because we have hints that there is a way of life vastly richer and deeper than all this hurried existance, a life of unhurried serenity and peace and power. If only we could slip over into that Center! We have seen and known some people who seem to have found this deep Center of living, where the fretful calls of life are integrated, where No as well as Yes can be said with confidence. We've seen such lives integrated, unworried by the tangles of close decisions, unhurried, cheery, fresh, positive. These are not people of dallying idleness nor of obviously mooning meditation; they are busy, carrying their full load as well as we, but without any chafing of the shoulders with the burden, with quiet joy and springing step. Surrounding the trifles of their daily life is an aura of infinite peace and power and joy. We are so strained and tense, with our burdened lives; they are so poised and at peace.

TOMORROW: The conflict between the ideal self and the actual self.

So They Say---

IT is probable that in the period after the war our people will inaugurate a policy of providing a college education for all those who aspire to one and who possess the intellectual equipment that will permit them to benefit from one. —Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia.

The truth must be faced that it is upon these three powers (U. S., Britain, Russia) principally will lie the responsibility for insuring that the war is followed by a last-in peace.—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

U. S. citizens have spent 500 million dollars for bases throughout the world and our only right to those bases is to get out when the war is over—Sen. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky.

RALLYING POWER PLAYS OUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Utility preferreds and assorted industrial blue chips were given another lift in today's stock market but many leaders ran out of rallying power.

While gains of fractions to 2 or more points were well distributed at the close, the minus column was well populated.

The Associated Press 60-stock average, with the aid of a handful of high-priced components, was up .2 of a point at 46, its third successive comeback. Of 830 issues traded, 356 were advanced, 246 down and 228 unchanged. Transfers totalled 557,670 shares compared with 718,280 the day before.

Santa Fe retained improvement of ¾ of a point.

Prominent on the upside were senior stocks of Electric Power and Light, American Power and Light and Commonwealth and Southern. Ahead were Western Union "A," Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, J. I. Case, International Harvester, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck and United Aircraft.

Casualties included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Glenn Martin, North American, Texas Co., Anaconda, General Electric, Dow Chemical, J. C. Penney and American Smelting.

War Called One Of Replacement

This is a war of "replacement" as well as destruction, said Dr. Sam L. Joekel, professor of Bible at the Austin Presbyterian seminary and University of Texas instructor, in a talk Friday to the American Business club in Hilton hotel.

"We must destroy all of the enemy we can, then beat him at replacements," Dr. Joekel stated. The battle of the Atlantic is being won by the allies, he said, because they are building ships faster than the Axis can sink them. The same advantage of replacement will win as well the battle of Europe and the Pacific, he added.

Post-War Replacements

Dr. Joekel declared that post-war replacements must not be confined to material things. He said Axis leaders for generations have educated their people "for wealth, cheating, dishonesty, taking advantage of the other fellow . . ." These teachings, he stated, must be replaced with certain virtues that have been "blasted off the face of the earth."

The speaker listed some of them as integrity, industry, intelligence, cooperation, and brotherhood.

"Many people after the war will say the world owes them a living," he said. "We must not let this idea take root . . . every man who sits down to a meal must have helped produce it."

Hands Across Table

He advocated a spirit of "hands across the table" for representatives of large and small nations when they meet to chart the post-war world.

Before Dr. Joekel's talk Frank McBroom talked in support of the pending drive in Lubbock for the National War fund.

Besides Dr. Joekel and McBroom guests of the club were Dr. Jack M. Lewis, Albert McInroe, S. J. McFarland of Dallas and W. M. Parker of Kansas City.

Illegal Government Checks Are Headaches

DALLAS, Dec. 3. (AP) — Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Joe H. Jones says "there are so many cases now" of persons illegally receiving and cashing government military allotment checks that "it is becoming a headache."

He made this comment yesterday in announcing that Major C. A. Doster had been assigned to the Eighth Service command and would help federal officials bring prosecution in such cases.

Border Residents To Get "Visitors' Cards"

HIDALGO, Dec. 3. (AP)—The U. S. Immigration service has announced that it has been authorized by the U. S. State department to resume issuance of identification cards to border residents to speed their passage to and fro across the Rio Grande.

In pre-war days the placards were known as "visitors' cards."

10 Texans To Receive High Masonic Degree

DALLAS, Dec. 2. (AP)—James C. Jones, deputy for the Supreme Masonic Council in Texas, will confer the Thirty-Third degree of the Scottish Rite on a group of 10 prominent Texans here Saturday.

Receiving the highest honor of the fraternity will be John L. De Grazier, Dallas; H. Ward Collier Fort Worth; Alva Bryan, Waco; William Telfair, Port Arthur; William A. Woods and J. Dixie Smith Houston; E. T. Green and Frank Stang, San Antonio; Frank C. Mellard, Marfa, and Charles R Loomis, El Paso.

Fifty Thirty-Third degree Masons are expected to attend the ceremony at Scottish Rite Temple.

WITH WIFE'S OK

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 3. (U.P.) — For three years Adrien W. Plouffe, 33, tried to get his wife's permission to enlist in the armed services. She relented yesterday and he joined the Marines. He is the father of eight children.

Knock-Out Punch In Italy Started

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

The expected Allied one-two knock-out punch at the Nazi winter defense line south of Rome has been struck. Reports from the front are still too meager for accurate appraisal of its results, but there is no doubt that the 5th and 8th armies are aiming at larger objectives than merely throwing the foe back another step in his stubborn retreat up the Italian peninsula.

One obvious reason for pressing the Allied attack in Italy just now is to increase its diversionary effect so far as the Russian front is concerned. Every new German division thrown into the line in Italy is one division less to back up the wavering Nazi front in Russia.

SIMPSON

It begins to look, however, as though there had developed reasons for wasting no time in getting the Allied line forward in Italy, and seizing the air bases in the vicinity of Rome. They would not greatly increase the effectiveness of the Allied air attack from Foggia on south and southeastern Germany. They would decidedly shorten the bombing route to France, and to the rear permiteres of the Nazi defenses along the channel coast.

From Rome to the French side of the straits of Dover, for example, it is nearly 200 miles shorter by air line than from Foggia, yet it is still an 800-mile jaunt.

Air Base Value

The value of the Rome site for bombing bases, as compared to Foggia, becomes more evident, however, if it is assume that a French-American descent up on the French Mediterranean coast is included in Allied planning. It is 300 air miles or less from the Rome area to the nearest coastal point in continental France. That foreshadows eventual shuttle bombing of Nazi targets in France with fighter escort by planes based in Corsica.

Repeated bombing of Nazi submarine and air bases in southeastern France as well as the blasting of all communication routes between France and Italy has hinted at inclusion of the French Mediterranean coast in the battle plans the Allies are preparing.

If that is true, it follows that Eisenhower's push up the Italian peninsula must be pressed vigorously in order to attain the objectives that would make it most effective in supporting the second-front attack when it comes.

Infant's Wails Bring Temporary Freedom For Accused Mother

An 18-year-old Mexican mother was allowed Friday afternoon to go home and care for her several-months-old infant pending return today of her husband from a Lubbock county cottonfield, when the infant's wails joined by those of a relative of approximately the same age, sort of upset decorum of county court.

The young mother, Lucile Hernandez, and a 17-year-old Mexican girl who is a juvenile were charged with shoplifting from a five and ten store here. The Hernandez woman pleaded guilty and was assessed a fine of $10 and court costs and a day in county jail, but at that moment the infants began howling and Judge G. V. Pardue allowed a few hours for adjustment of mother-infant relations.

No action had been taken in regard to the juvenile's charges.

A 12-year-old negro boy was held in county jail for investigation into his admittedly having grabbed an 8-year-old white girl and kissed her.

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 3. (Special) — Verlyn Wilson, 16-year-old Abernathy youth, was accused formally this afternoon in connection with the hit-run death Thursday of Jim Snow, 15-year old Abernathy youth, near the Abernathy westrn limits

A juvenile petition filed in the court of County Judge Frank R. Day accused the farm youth with hit-run driving, failure to stop and render aid and with operation of a car without a driver's license, it was announced here.

Trial has been set for Dec. 10, Judge Day said.

Young Snow was walking with three other boys and two girls, about 12:30 o'clock, when the death car bore down on him. He was struck by a headlight and fender, and death was instant, investigation revealed.

Several witnesses were questioned this morning in connection with the case, court officials said.

New Record In Ship Building Is Made

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP) — About a dozen aircraft carriers of all types were completed last month, Secretary of the Navy Knox said today.

Summarizing the ship and plane construction program, Knox said that the November ship completion total set "a new record."

Two classes of combatant ships —aircraft carriers and destroyer escorts—were outstanding in this new record, he said.

While explaining he could not disclose the exact number of carriers completed last month, Knox reported that more than a quarter million displacement tons of Naval craft of all types, with by far the largest percentage combatant vessels, were completed in the month.

"We also accepted well over two thousand airplanes, in fact we received almost 2,000 fighters and bombers," he said.

Oklahoma Gets New Deep Pool In Washita

SENTINEL, Okla., Dec. 3. (AP)— A new deep oil pool was opened near here yesterday by Gulf Oil corp.

The wildcat was shut in after filling approximately 900 barrels of storage in 22 hours. It flowed 140 barrels of oil in seven and one-half hours on gauge before shutting in.

Production was from the Granite Wash zone at 5540-5560 feet and at 6425-6491.

Geologists termed the wildcat a link in the chain of pools along the Amarillo uplift from the Washita mountains northwesterly through Oklahoma into the Texas panhandle.

The location is C NW SE of 8-8N-20W, Washita county. It has been designated No. 1 Hopkins.

Class 43-K Will Finish Sunday

The final class of cadets and aviation students for 1943 will receive their silver wings at Lubbock Army Air Field Sunday, with Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer, delivering an address prepared by Maj. Gen. Gerald C. Brant, commanding the huge Central Flying Training command. All but six of Class 43-K will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the Army Air Forces. Six will receive appointments designating them as flight officers.

Graduating with this class will be Irving Jack Sternoff, whose bass-baritone voice has entertained Lubbock radio listeners many times in the past month, and who has appeared before appreciative audiences at local churches. He made his final appearance on the LAAF weekly broadcast Wednesday night. Cadet Sternoff, whose father served with the Russian Army, is anxious to help his father's old comrades knock the Germans out of the war. He then wants to help polish off the Japs so that he can take up his interrupted operatic career after the war.

Rothi Is Honor Graduate

In addition to receiving his wings and commission, Eugene A. Rothi will be further honored at the graduation exercises having been designated the honor cadet. Cadet Rothi earned this distinction because of his high academic grades in a class that has been characterized by the high scholastic marks set by its members. His average academic grade for all subjects was 97.72.

One of the two foreign born members of the class is Michael Angelo Gonzalez, born in Cuba, lived in Caracas, Venezuela, where his father is an agricultural engineer with the Venezuelan government, became an officer in the Falangist army of General Franco in Spain after being forced into service there, and at 19 decided he wanted to fight on the side of democracy in the AAF, with more military service already behind him than most men can crowd into a lifetime. The other foreign born cadet is Nicholas M. Suntzeff, who was born in Russia and lived for a time in China. His ambition to help destroy the enemies of both countries has a good chance of coming true now that he has completed his advanced training

Illinois Leads In Graduates

Ten per cent of the graduating class come from Illinois, with Texas a close second, and Kansas not far behind in total numbers. Michigan, with 14 native sons is in fourth place on the class roster.

Graduation exercises will be held in the Post Theater at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The invocation will be given by Lt. Randall T. Miller, post chaplain, and the oath of office will be administrated to the new officers by Maj. Russell DeW. Shively, secretary. Following the delivery of General Brant's message by Col. Holmes, the long awaited silver wings will be presented by Capt. Walter A. Gremban, commanding the 4th provisional training squadron, and Lt. Marshall B. Shantz, operations officer of the 2nd provisional training squadron. Admission will be by invitation only, due to the limited seating capacity and the size of the graduation class.

Use Of Counterfeit Gas Coupons Continue

DALLAS, Dec. 3. (U.P.)—Increasing use of counterfeit gasoline ration stamps in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, and Kansas was noted today by the Office of Price administration.

Assistant regional enforcement attorney William E. Remy said the regional office feared the fake coupons were being circulated by eastern counterfeiters who almost broke down the rationing program in that section before some of the leaders were imprisoned.

Best safeguard to halt this illegal traffic, Remy said, was for station operators to check every stamp for its license number as each customer makes his purchase, thus leaving a back trail for investigators.

Asserting that the administration has "not kept its part of the no-strike agreement by adjusting wages to absorb increasing living costs," Green added:

Green endorsed Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board as the man most fitted to guide the post-war reconversion program.

HAMILTON, Ohio, Dec. 3. (AP) — A three and one-half foot split in "big inch" recently-completed transcontinental oil pipeline, loosed an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 barrels of the fuel over a small section near here today.

B. E. Hull, general manager of War Emergency Pipe Lines, Inc. said at his Cincinnati headquarters that the break, "about as wide as two fingers," had necessitated a shutdown, which he believed could be terminated by 6 p. m. tomorrow.

The break was caused, Hull said by a "faulty patch over a nick in the pipe" during initial construction.
