STATE WILL ASK DEATH FOR KIMES

Council Orders Plans For Filter Plant And Water Line

Faith

Like Chicago—
He Had His Nerve—
Borger Whitewash—
Norris In Electra—

AUTO thieves finally escape police after crashing into the car of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Fleming, injuring both, and attempting to murder Ellis Sumners, city motorcycle officer.

It is regrettable that the crooks were not captured by officers, but it is probably more regrettable that one or more of Officer Sumners' bullets did not find their marks in the bodies of the men he attempted single-handed to halt.

The public is well served when death steps in and takes men as wanton, reckless and criminal as those who Saturday night precipitated their Chicagoesque attack on the peace and safety of the community.

* * *

OFFICER SUMNERS, who is said is comparatively young in years and service in the poice department, deserves commendation from officials for his dogged determination to "get his man" in the Saturday night affair.

Far in the lead of other officers because of the speed of his motorcycle he sent bullet for bullet at the bandits His machine forced into a ditch, he climbed out and resumed the chase, and might have been successful had not his quarry escaped across the fields.

While you expect nerve of an officer of the law, it takes a considerable amount of it to go up against three to one odds in a 50-mile-an-hour gun fight.

THE Borger Commercial club, out in the Panhandle oil fields, adopts resolutions calling for the "suppression" of publicity unfavorable to the town.

The Borger club makes an error common to towns and organizations where conditions might not stand the light of public knowledge. To attempt to "suppress" unfavorable publicity concerning Borger or any other town is foolish if there is a condition of affairs that would justify unfavorable publicity.

Borger should clear its skirts of its undesirable elements, and it will spread. If there has already been done, then there is no need for the Commercial club's resolution.

* * *

ELECTRA residents secure Dr. J. Frank Norris for a series of revival lectures and make certain that a large proportion of the town's population will discuss religion for at least a week or two.

Reports of meetings held on the subject in Electra indicate that not all residents of the town approve of Dr. Norris and that some would prefer another speaker. This is to be expected, but should not affect the success of the revival or greatly concern those who do not feel friendly toward the Fort Worth evangelist.

J. Frank Norris will cause Electrans to talk about religion and a better life, any preacher, doctor, lawyer, professor or day laborer who does this has accomplished something worthwhile.

CITY MAY CALL BOND ELECTION IN EARLY FALL

Specifications On Project Authorized at Council Meet

KEY RATE REDUCED

Additional Fire Hydrants In Business Area Approved

Orders for detail plans and specifications on a pipe line from Lake Wichita to the city of Wichita Falls and a million gallon unit filtration plant for the city, preliminary to a fall bond election were authorized to the city water department by the city council in an extended session Monday night.

Need Stressed.

Approximated cost of engineer's plans and specifications will not exceed one per cent of total costs, according to reports presented, and would be necessary and valid at any time the election is ordered and carried. Some action in regard to a more adequate water line is thought expedient by the council.

A reduction of one cent on the present 22-cent fire insurance key-rate, effecting a $4000 a year reduction for the city through the construction of fire hydrants in the mercantile district to cost $1112, was obtained by order for construction of four additional hydrants. These will be placed at Eighth and Michigan, Seventh and Michigan, Eighth and Travis and Twelfth and Ohio streets.

This action follows consultation of council members and engineers with the state fire insurance commission ten days ago.

Over 20 residents of various sections of the city appeared before the council in the interest of proposed paving plans, with a most heated controversy centering on two blocks of Hollywood street between Garfield and Hays streets. Action on this project was delayed until Sept. 26, the date of a hearing set two weeks before by the council.

Paving Projects.

Paving was ordered on Seventh street between Van Buren and Sunset Drive and on Shepherd street in Highland addition from lot 12, block 89A to Avenue M. A project proposed for Bluff street between Second and Sixth was continued on disagreement of property owners.

Permission was granted Mike Caskey to erect a grocery store at the corner of Avenue L and Shepherd streets in Highland Heights, to owners of the Liberty Cafe to operate a domino parlor and to R. Q. Mills to sell gasoline and oil at a grocery store at the corner of Second and Adams streets. Hearing of erection of a 50x150 brick store building at Avenue C and Monroe was deferred. The following paving projects were approved and accepted from the Plains and Fuller paving companies: Avenue J, Jones to Giddings; Joline street, Avenue J to Avenue L and an additional project on Joline street. Oak street from Mississippi to Virginia; Sherman avenue from York to Lexington; Blonde street from Holliday road to Bridwell and Bluff from 13th to 14th.

Approval was voted on the following payments: To J. E. Morgan, general contractor on the municipal auditorium, $984.27 and $29,651.09; as engineer's fee on city disposal plant, $893.35; to T. W. Johnson and company, electrical on municipal auditorium, $5,000, and to Hamilton and company, municipal auditorium plumbing $9500.

Reports Accepted.

Reports on corporation court proceedings for the month of June and on park activities submitted by Police Commissioner Roy E. Carter and C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent were approved and accepted.

Bids were advertised for city depository and printing work to be opened July 25.

Plats as presented on the second section of Westmoreland Park addition and the John W. Thomas subdivision were approved.

THREE ARE JAILED

Officers Grill Suspect In Death of Three Women

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—A third victim of Brooklyn's axe murderer was believed found today.

While workmen, under police direction, searched the dark cellar of the house at 28 Prospect Place, bringing to light now and then a fragment of the bodies of Miss Sarah Elizabeth Brownell, 69-year-old spinster, and Mrs. Selma Larsen Bennett, 48-year-old mother of four children, an employe of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company, found a woman's head in the company's yard at Thirty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, Brooklyn.

Head is Missing

Mrs. Bennett's head was missing and police who had found virtually every other part of the two women's bodies, were ready to quit their search of the cellar and sewers. Then they learned that the head found in the railway yard was badly decomposed, whereas they found portions of the bodies of Mrs. Bennett and Miss Brownell were not in that condition.

As police speculated on the probability of a third murder, Mrs. Mary De Martino reported that her daughter, Evelyn, 18, had been missing since June 30, having left home on the date to visit Miss Brownell. Miss De Martino was last seen entering the house at 28 Prospect Place.

County Assessment and Tax Rate To Go Unchanged, Says Nicholson

Wichita county assessment values will remain practically the same in 1927 as in 1926 and the tax rate will not be increased, County Judge E. W. Nicholson said Monday.

Judge Nicholson's statement followed a meeting of the county board of tax equalization held Monday afternoon. Following the meeting the members of the board adjourned until Thursday afternoon when final adjustments in taxes will be made and the board will adjourn for the year.

The final meeting was scheduled for Monday afternoon, however, due to the fact that several citizens desiring to have their taxes equalized could not attend the meeting the board placed the final adjournment date at Thursday.

The total of assessment in 1926 was $69,255,305. If there is an increase in 1927, Judge Nicholson said, it will be a small one.

"The board will not increase the tax rate," Judge Nicholson said, "and it will remain at 80 cents per $100 valuation, the same as in 1926."

After the board adjourns Thursday A. C. Howard, county tax assessor, will compile the assessment roll.

$22,000,000 Back Taxes Due State— Enough To Operate Capitol a Year

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, July 11.—Texas now has owing it over $22,000,000 in delinquent taxes, enough to finance the operations of the government for an entire year Former Governor O. B. Colquitt, chairman told the state tax survey commission in a statement Monday which plainly startled the tax experts.

A second major phase of the future tax agitation in the state was projected to the foreground today when Senator Edgar E. Witt brought up the subject of state income taxes, and announced that data from all other states is being assembled as basis of subcommittee. He did not indicate whether a state income tax will be recommended.

Governor Colquitt said he is assembled as basis of sub-committon delinquent taxes.

Former Senator J. G. Willacy urged the inclusion of intangible valuations for state taxes on all public utilities, the present intangible tax law of which he is author, levying on approximately $1,000,000 valuations of railroads, bridge and ferry companies. Telegraph, telephone and pipe line companies were particularly mentioned.

Indications were strongly given that the tax survey report will not be ready for the special session which Governor Moody is understood to plan for next October and that taxation may be the sole theme of a third called session next January.

Pretty Bride In Secret Wedding Faces Jury For Robbery

BECKY ROGERS TO FACE TRIAL

Court Refuses Girl's Plan To Further Delay

SAN MARCOS, July 11. (AP)—Rebecca Bradley Rogers, charged with the robbery of the Farmers National bank of Buda, Texas, last winter, must go on trial here tomorrow morning, the court ruled today when it denied her second plea for a continuance in the case.

Mrs. Rogers, then known as Rebecca Bradley, was arrested in Austin shortly after a young woman had held up the bank at the point of a pistol and escaped with approximately $1000.

His trip from Amarillo was made during a very cold day and he contracted pneumonia and later went to New Mexico to recover from an affliction of the lungs. His absence furnished cause for the first postponement of his wife's trial two months ago.

Today Mrs. Roger's attorneys sought to obtain another continuance on the ground that a witness whose testimony was expected to support her plea of temporary insanity, is in Europe. This plea was overruled today by Judge M. C. Jeffers.

Selection of a jury will start in the morning.

Farm Youth Poses As Prince

Flier In Bogus Royalty Ends In Jail

By Universal Service.

BERLIN, July 11.—Young Harry Domela, the poor farmer lad whose trial at Cologne for posing as Prince Wilhelm of Russia, the crown prince's son, and getting away with considerable money thereby, ended with a sentence of seven months in jail, today sadly charges that life at "Alt Heidelberg" university is not what it is cracked up to be.

"Heidelberg is a frightful disappointment. I thought I would meet highly cultivated students here, but every night everybody was dreadfully drunk, and carried on their intoxication in the rudest fashion.

"My own purse was actually stolen when these aristocratic students gave me a farewell dinner."

Domela insists that he did not want to impersonate the Hohenzollern prince, but the resemblance was so strong that the public insisted on calling him 'royal highness,' and after a time, he grew fond of the title.

The Psuedo prince has returned most of the 'borrowed' sums from the proceeds of his memoirs.

CITIZENS PLAN BIG REVIVAL

Electra Workers Outline Plans For Meet

ELECTRA, July 11.—Rev. E. M. Francis, pastor of the First Baptist church of Electra, Monday denied that members of his church were taking a leading part in securing Dr. J. Frank Norris of Fort Worth, as the speaker for a union revival service to be held for four weeks beginning on August 8.

"It is the citizens of Electra who are bringing Dr. Norris here, not the First Baptist church," Rev. Francis declared.

Divided sentiment over the calling of Dr. Norris to conduct the revival services in Electra was displayed in church circles here Monday following the publication in morning papers of the announcement that Norris had been obtained.

A meeting of church workers of Electra was held Sunday at the First Baptist church, of which Rev. Francis is pastor, at which plans for the revival were outlined and working committees selected. Homer Hill, Methodist, was named chairman of the general committee in charge of the revival; E. D. Kelly, Baptist, vice chairman; J. H. Harris, Methodist, treasurer; B. R. Floyd, Baptist, secretary.

Other committees named included ushers, nursery, ground and water, music, instruments, and platform. Other committees are to be named later.

Unique Furniture Placed On Display

Unique chairs and floor lamps are now on display in one of the show windows of the W. A. Freear Furniture Company. Four pieces of Karpan art-fibre are shown, consisting of two chairs and two floor lamps. The uniqueness of the display is the contrast in the size of the pieces.

One of the chairs is claimed by its makers, S. Karpen & Bros., nationally known manufacturers of high grade furniture, who made the pieces especially for this display, to be the largest artfiber chair in the world.

Oversize artfiber was used in weaving the giant chair and one of the floor lamps. The other two pieces are made of small sized artfiber.

If the artfiber used in making the massive chair should be unwound and united in a single strand, it would reach one and one-seventh miles. If regular standard size artfiber were used in weaving the large chair, two and one-half miles would be required. If the same size strands had been used in making the big chair as were used in the "pigmy" chair, over four miles would be necessary to complete the weaving. Karpen has added "artfiber" furniture to its line as the latest development in sunroom furniture. This artfiber differs radically from the regular fiber and reed in that the color is dyed in each strand of fiber, rather than the entire sofa or chair being woven in the white, and then painted and decorated.

All of the pieces are in an artistic four-strand basket weave and brilliant colors of orange, blue and black are interwoven.

WOLVES RAID POULTRY PENS

Texas Farmers Set Traps For Marauders

HUNTSVILLE, July 11. (AP)—Farmers in Walker county are concentrating their efforts upon the extermination of a pack of wolves led by a grizzly veteran called "Old Stubby," which has been raiding their poultry pens. The old wolf received his name due to one of his fore feet, which was half cut off when he stepped into a bear trap.

Hunters can easily tell whether or not they are trailing "Old Stubby" due to the imprints of his stub foot.

This old leader has been pursued by the deep mouthed hounds so much that he has become wise to the game, according to the hunters, and uses many schemes to lose his pursuers. Sometimes when the hounds are crowding him too close he will circle around the same track until the dogs are lost.

When the dogs jump the whole pack in which there are some young cubs, "Old Stubby" will fall back behind the pack and let the hounds see him in an effort to toll the dogs off the tracks of the young cubs. If the dogs switch off on to the track of "Old Stubby" he will lead the pack of hounds in the opposite direction from the young cubs.

Several old wolves have been killed, and many half grown wolves have been killed by the local hunters, but at a great sacrifice in fine dogs. Many of the local hunters have lost their finest lead hound in a chase. When the dogs crowd the wolf he will run into a brush pile and be ready for fight when the dogs come up. As most of the dogs are courageous hounds they will rush on in only to be torn to pieces by the deadly fangs.

This makes the road miss Hedley by about three miles and also Lelia Lake and Giles, two other county towns. The road, as it now passes through these towns and is the only logical way for it to run, according to Donley citizens.

I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day." —Mrs. E. F. Wichita Fliers Asked To Fort Worth Meet

Wichita Falls aviators and aviation fans have been sent a public invitation to attend a two-day celebration being given as a dedication of the new Fort Worth municipal air port, according to information received from the local chamber of commerce. B. B. Buckridge, secretary-manager of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers association of Fort Worth extended the invitation.

Wichita Falls aviators have been asked to personally enter their planes in the contests scheduled for the circus, and it is believed that several planes will be registered. A large number of Texas aviators have already signed up for the flying activities, the announcement stated.

Dorothy Dix Articles Daily--Advice To Women

DIX OPPOSES WIVES BY MAIL

See Your Girl Before You Marry, She Says

Shall He Propose by Mail to the Girl He Writes To, But Has Never Seen? Advice to a Toothless Widower of Sixty-five on Remarrying—The Wise Widow Who Plans Ahead for a Business Career.

Dear Miss Dix—Do you think that a couple could ever fall enough in love through a correspondence to justify them in marrying, and would such a marriage be a success? I have been corresponding with a girl for a long time and her letters are so delightful that I have become very much interested in her and think myself in love with her, though I have never seen her. Her letters go right to my heart. Do you advise me to propose to her or not?

PUZZLED TWENTY-THREE.

Answer—I should certainly want to give any girl the once-over before I let myself in for looking at her the balance of my life. So my advice to you is to go and pay the young woman a visit before you finally commit yourself.

You might get the measure of a girl's mind by corresponding with her and be able to test accurately the amount of intelligence and education she possessed, and also to get a pretty good line upon her sympathies and opinions and general reaction toward life. You might fall in love with a girl's heart and soul through her letters, but that isn't enough.

When you saw her she might have some bodily peculiarities that would make her utterly repulsive to you. She might be hideously ugly, and while beauty is not a necessity in a wife, it certainly is comforting to have one who is easy on the eyes. Or she might have manners that disgusted you, or even little ways that got on your nerves.

Marriage at best has risks enough to satisfy the most foolhardy adventurer without taking any chances on tying up with a lady sight-unseen. Certainly when you realize that your whole future happiness is at stake, it's worth the price of a railroad ticket.

Doubtless you think that in this long correspondence the woman has revealed her inner nature to you even more fully than she would have done in a long, casual acquaintance. You feel that she has dipped down into her heart and written to you what she really thinks and feels about things. In that you are mistaken.

Nothing is more misleading than a letter, because it not merely expresses the mood of a moment but nearly all of us pose in letter-writing, and assume some sort of a sentimental, or romantic, or heroic attitude that we would never think of doing if we were talking. We write things in a letter that we would never dream of saying if we were face to face with each other.

And especially are women given to slopping over when they put pen to paper. They represent themselves as martrys silently consumed by secret sorrows, or as languishing into the grave with a broken heart, or as being consumed by an overwhelming passion when in reality they are as jolly as sandboys, and nothing whatever is the matter with them and they are actually not in love at all.

But these high-flown sentiments looked so lovely and sounded so grand when they read them over, and gave them such a good chance to quote poetry, that they simply couldn't resist the temptation.

So don't put too much stress on a woman's letters. She may mean all she says and again she may not. She may be just a ready letter writer. And, anyway, before I assumed a lady's board bill and shopping ticket I would want to see whether her eyes were soft and tender, and if she smiled easily. I could tell more about her by one good grin than I could by a ton of letters.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a man, 65, a widower, well off financially, all my children married. I have fallen in love, at least, I suppose it is love. Anyway, it is something that is acting just as it did when I had it as a young man and got married. But I haven't a footh in my head and I have rheumatism. Now, Miss Dix, what do you think is best for me to do? Hop up to the lady on my rheumatic leg and tell her just how I feel? And if she says "yes," will it be best for me to get married and go to housekeepinug? Or would it be best for me to keep on being hacked around like Iam now?

LONESOME SIXTY-FIVE.

Answer—Well, If I were you, Mr. Widower, I'd get some teeth before I want a-courting, for, take it from me, no self-respecting woman is going to marry a toothless old man. The dentist is first aid to Cupid nowadays.

Moreover, your teeth will not only improve your matrimonial chances but they will probably cure your rheumatism, so you will look more like a Romeo and less like an inmate who has escaped from the old men's home.

As for the balance, 65 isn't too old to think of getting married if you pick out a lady of proper age, say somewhere around the 50s, or a little later. Sixty-five is merely middel age now, and many men and women of that age marry and have a beautiful and satisfying friendship that makes life interesting for both of them. You can give the woman a good home and she can make a comfortable home for you, and so it is an excellent arrangement all the way round.

I don't think many old people are happy and satisfied living with their children. They have been accustomed to being the heads of their houses so long that they find it impossible to abdicate gracefully and take second place in somebody else's home. Therefore, they interfere in all their children's affairs and this makes trouble all around.

So for their own sakes and their children's sakes it is a good thing when a middle-aged father and mother get married and set up their own homes.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a widow, 26 years old, with two children and about to marry a well-to-do man. I have supported my babies by hard, domestic service and have not much education. Do you think at 26 I might yet attend night school and fit myself for some position in the business world, so that in case anything in the future happened and I had to shift for myself I would be in a better position to support my children? My husband-to-be works at night, so it would not disturb him or interfere with our time together if I went to night school.

ANXIOUS.

Answer—Certainly 26 is not too old to go to night school, or for you to learn anything that you wish to know, or for you to fit yourself for any career that you would like to follow. Nothing is impossible to an ambitious, determined woman, and you are very wise, now that you are going to have things easier, to turn your mind toward improving yourself instead of devoting your leisure to amusing yourself.

You say that you have been in domestic service. You must already know a lot about cooking and catering, etc. In taking up a course of study, why not follow the line of least resistance and domestic science, in which you are already well grounded? There is always a demand for teachers of domestic science, and catering and running tearooms and restaurants are among the most profitable occupations in which women can engage.

Everybody has to eat, you know, and there is nothing for which people will so cheerfully pay you good money as for extra good food.

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Arranges It All — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi and Polly have their heads together on some dark scheme. The screme isn't, probably, more really interesting than the hats they wear for the purpose of conspiring—both of them of biege hair braid, Polly's trimmed with biege lace and Mitzi's with brown lace.

It was the hats that suggested the idea. Since this is a particularly smart dinner they are going to attend and since the frocks worn will certainly be described in the paper, Mitzi and Polly decided upon united action. Polly wears a biege lace dinner dress. It has a scarf and a side-jabot from shoulder to hem.

Aunt Sophia was persuaded to wear a lace dress of tailored tiers. Mitzi also in lace, wears a dress with a bolero back, tight girdle and full shirred skirt. With three such smart frocks there can be only one result.

This is the result. Mitzi next morning, clad in a negligee of flat crepe and ostrich, reads something like this: "The smartness of lace was emphasized by the exquisite frocks worn by Modish Mitzi, Aunt Sophia and Polly—." There is always a crowd, and sometimes a majority.

Fall and Doheny Face Trial

EDWARD L. DOHENEY and Albert B. Fall, once acquitted by a jury in a case involving the notorious $100,000.00 little black satchel tranactions, must stand trial again on about the same set of facts. This was the ruling of a Justice of the District of Columbus Supreme Court. Trial of the bribery indictments against a multi-millionaire oil king and the former secretary of the Interior will go over until the fall term of the court and will be called after the trial of Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair on indictments charging a conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve.

Fall leased a naval oil reserve to Edward L. Doheney. Doheney has been stripped of the reserve by order of the Supreme Court of the United States and has been compelled to pay into the treasury of the United States a sum totaling $21,000,000. Sinclair hasn't been stripped of his valuable naval reserves, but the case is pending on the docket of the Supreme Court of the United States and the facts are the same in this case as set forth by the government in the Doheney case.

Harry M. Daughtery was a personal friend and attorney general of Warren G. Harding. He is a broken thing. Jesse Smith was personal friend and tool of Daughtery. He committed suicide. Edward L. Doheney has his millions but he has been broken in pride and spirit. Albert B. Fall who was United States senator and then a cabinet officer is among the political derelicts of the period and Doheney and Fall may wear the stripes of convicts before the finish.

Senator Thomas S. Walsh of Montana was the nemesis who tracked these men and gathered the evidence which has made life a hell dence which has made life a hell for them in the years since Warren G. Harding passed on to his reward.

Orient a Going Concern

FIFTEEN years ago the Orient railroad was placed in the hands of the receivers. It was known as the Christian Science railroad and was built by Arthur Stillwell. In Texas at least it covered a sparsly settled territory. Its receipts were light and its expenses were heavy.

For ten years William T. Kemper and his personal attorney have been fighting the battles of the Orient. People poured into Texas territory traversed by the Orient. Hamlets became thriving towns. Land was broken and large crops were raised. Petroleum became an established industry and the freight traffice grew large.

Now the Orient is out of the hands of the receiver. Now the Orient is prosperous instead of poverty stricken. Now the revelver and his personal attorney are to receive for their services something more than a million dollars in cash and stock.

They earned it. They worked ten years. They financed the road. They carried it on to success. They were given a clean bill of health. They were complimented by Federal Judge Pollock for their splendid service and the Judge let it be known to all concerned that the Orient may take its place with the great freight and passenger carriers of the southwest.

Mark Sullivan's Latest

MARK SULLIVAN (he is Dr. Mark Sullivan now) has taken the great public into his confidence. President Coolidge is to be renominated by the Republican leaders, assisted by the 12 or 15 big voices who pull the invisible wires and arrange the program every four years for the voters of the dominating party of the republic. Dr. Mark says the majority of the republican leaders not only expect Cowboy Coolidge to be renominated, but sincerely expect him to be re-elected without serious opposition. This makes it easy all around. Why should McAdoo seek a nomination. Why should Al Smith be willing to accept a nomination? Why should James A. Reed of Missouri go fishing for a nomination? Why should Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio care whether the lightning descends on the Donahey column or seeks the victim elsewhere. Why should the handsome Governor Ritchie of Maryland waste his time and the money of his friends? Dr. Mark has settled it a year in advance. Coolidge has it nailed down. Coolidge is invincable. Coolidge is invulrenable. Coolidge is the unantmous choice of the big cinch. His ten gallon cowboy hat has turned the trick. No election will be necessary.

American Money Abroad

AMERICANS now have invested $12,300,000,000 in foreign securities. This was disclosed in foreign commerce department figures given to the public and estimating that $738,584,075 was sent abroad during the first half of 1927. It is said the sum constitutes the total of American balances of investments abroad after allowing for repayment of maturing debts and includes loans made during the second quarter of the year. In addition to this huge sum, there are war loans of more than $11,000,000,000. Germany has ceased to borrow from America and Americans. Canadians are heavy borrowers and British borrowers in Wall street are as thick as fleas in Florida sands. Europe offers a wonderful market for American investment funds, but the American farmer is seeking a wonderful market for its surplus corn and wheat and cotton. He is hunting for foreign buyers. It is the surplus that fixes the price.

Calles Given Warning

A DISPATCH from the City of Mexico says that the Texas Oil company of Mexico has notified the Department of Industry and Commerce that it will stop all activities in Mexico because of a decrease in its oil production. President Calles of Mexico may succeed in killing the petroleum goose that laid the golden egg.

Confiscation is a rotten policy of government and entails disaster to those who are responsible for it in the long run. Americans have an investment of a billion dollars in Mexico. Americans lifted Mexico out of the ditch of superstition and ignorance and poverty.

Obregon and Calles should study history. They are traveling the wrong road.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Dramatic critics are often put into a difficult position by prasing unstarred or unfeatured players in a show. In my capacity as dramatic critic one season I praised very highly the dancing of one girl in a musical comedy. Her name was not listed on the program but I described her so that neither she nor the management could mistake whom I was referring to. She had a little specialty dance in one scene.

Next night she was no longer with the show. A day or so later I learned in a letter from her what the reason was. She had taken a clipping of my review to the manager and then and there demanded a raise in salary and more prominence in the cast. The management could not grant her request witrout throwing the show out of kilter and calling for new rehearsals. She refused to go on without a raise, and hence broke her contract and the manager dismissed her.

Another dramatic critic once praised a dancer in somewhat the same circumstances—a dancer unnamed on the program. The manager read the review and, deciding that the review would give the girl the big head, released her with two weeks' pay. Another producer featured her the night after she was dropped out of his rival's cast—on the strength of the review.

So the dramatic critic cannot always tell whether his enthusiasm over the talents of an unknown newcomer on the stage is going to help or harm her.

* * *

The patience and fortitude of the New York cops, especially when they are dealing with drunks, is a constant stimulant to my admiration for them. A drunk was getting noisy and obstreperous in a large crowd yesterday. A cop made his way to the man through the crowd and told him gently to dry up and run along.

The drunk became belligerent and, with swinging gestures, began to address the crowd, proclaiming that he was as good as the next man, and that he knew his rights. Then he burst into poetry, reciting Robert Burns, "A man's a man for a' that."

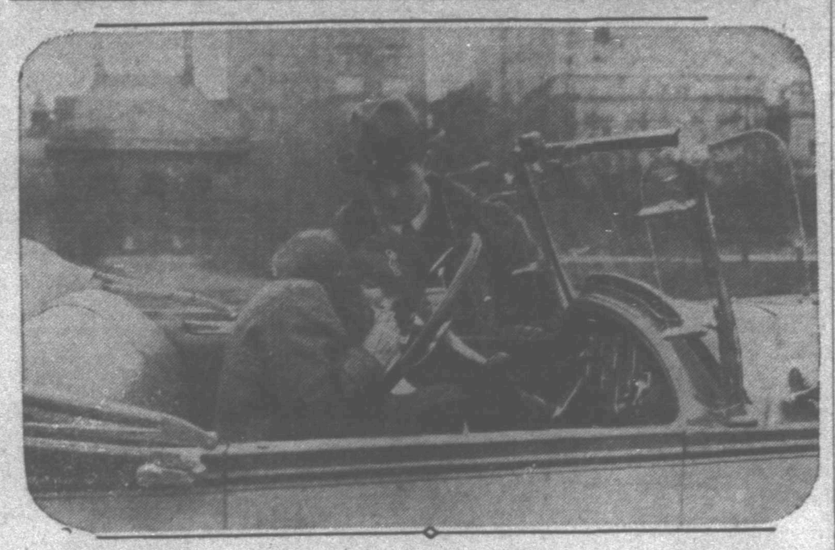

The crowd was amused. But the cop again told the man to move on. The drunk clouded up with renewed anger and started to address the crowd again. The cop fetched him a soporific clout on the button of the chin and the man collapsed on the sidewalk. The cop picked him up tenderly and slung him across his shoulder and made his way through the crowd to a police department Ford and drove away with the stew.

When they arrived at the station, I have no doubt, the cop let the man sleep for a while and then gave him some hot coffee and sent him away sober to his family.

"Go way, Wayne Tracy."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Phillip Wynne Travy IV has had a childish engagement with Natlee Jones. Becoming interested in Lyra Hilliard, an old friend of his mother, he soon finds himself falling in love with her. Natlee, overhearing him making love to Lyra, breaks her engagement. It all comes to nothing, however, for America enters the World war.

Phil enlists and just before leaving for France he meets Natlee again and they plan to be married. The immediate departure of the troops, however, prevents this. The regiment is sent to the front soon after arriving in France, and while on a dangerous mission Phil is wounded and receives the croix de guerre for bravery.

After the armistice, Phil is awarded a scholarship in a French university, and while in Paris he comes face to face with his mother, who has come to France to hunt him. She is accompanied by Major Aukland, who is devoted to her.

Mrs. Tracy learns that Phil intends to marry Pat, a rich French divorcee. She refuses to give her consent to the marirage.

Phil compromises with his mother. If she will refuse Major Aukland's proposal of marriage he will give up Pat for two years. She agrees and they take passage for America.

Unknown to Phil, Mrs. Tracy invinites Natlee to breakfast with them the morning after their return home. Phil is somewhat upset by the change in Natlee. She is apparently frivolous in manner and dress.

Here the story further unfolds—

* * *

CHAPTER LIII

Wynne Resolves to Try Again

Phillip Tracy hesitated a moment, and then he repeated Natlee's question, "How do I like her" She is so surprising that I must decline to answer yet.

"So you're living all alone in Aunt Julia's house?"

"Not entirely alone," she answered, after a moment.

"I have a companion about 40 years old, and some servants. Dad's just hopping mad about it, but for once he can do nothing. I'm of age and it's my money and mother and Jerry would not let him forbid me his house.

"Now, Wynne, don't look as if you, too, did not approve. Yes, you're going to, but I hope you're pretending to be a Great Stone Face and that some day I'll get back under it and find the Wynne that Rod and I used to know."

For one moment Phillip thought he caught a glimpse of earnestness and sincerity in the lapis lazuli eyes. He marched forward quickly, but Natlee eluded him. With a "Shall I sit here, Mrs. Tracy?" she passed to the other side of the table from where he was standing, and sat down.

Anne Tracy had said nothing all through this conversation, entirely made up of small talk. She was trying to discover if Natlee was acting or if she had really become this frothy, frivolous girl. She knew that some girls change in just this sort of way when they get from under the domineering restraint of their parents.

She could see that Phil was quite as much at se sas she was, and she sighed as Phillip asked rather wistfully, "Has everybody in America changed as much as you have, Natlee?"

"Of course they have, Wynne. The old girl herself has changed. America has stepped out since the war. Just at present she is doing a toe dance on the top of the world to jazz music. You'll have to join in the grand march. Mind your step or you'll get left on the side lines."

"I'm very tired of marching, Natlee, but it may be amusing when I get used to it."

"Oh, Wynne, I hope you'll get used to it soon. I don't want you to be like Jerry. He's been getting more and more like a cold bread pudding, with an unsuspected soul of whipped prunes since he's been with father. I'm getting so I hate these mollycoddles who haven't guts enough to talk up for themselves. (That's a word I learned from the boys who have come back from overseas. You ought to have heard it enough not to be shocked.)"

Phillip looked across the table and smiled. This child was somebody quite new, but she was interesting after all.

Natlee returned Phil's smile with enthusiasm, for he still had a way with women, although he thought he had lost it.

"I saw your friend, Mrs. Hilliard, the other day, Mrs. Tracy?"

This was thunder from a clear sky.

Both Phil and his mother were aware that Natlee knew all about Lyra, but neither of them guessed that the girl was not aware of the break between Mrs. Tracy and her old friend on account of Phil.

Anne Tracy, however, was too honest to pass this over with the usual conventional hypocrisy.

"I don't think she's a friend of mine any more, Natlee," she said.

"I beg your pardon, Mrs. Tracy. I didn't know that. Indeed, she spoke very beautifully of you the last time I saw her. I like her much better than I used to. She doesn't henna her hair any more and it seems the war has made her quite human. She isn't thinking of herself all the time and the impression she is making on any man she happens to be near. She has dropped her youthful flapperish airs and it's very becoming. Now you, Wynee, have grown so old and dignified that I'm really afraid of you."

"And you, Natlee, have grown so young and frivolous and bewitchingly lovely, that I'm afraid of you."

"'m not all that, Wynne. It's just the contrast between the American girls and the French. Did you really like them?"

Phillip grinned. "Well, I thought I did while I was over there."

"That's a nice compliment," Natlee exclaimed, almost the nicest I've received since you went away. It sounds more like you than anything I've heard you say since I came to breakfast."

"But you're not eating anything, my dear," put in Mrs. Tracy.

"No one east anything nowadays. We must keep our boyish figures, you know. And now I really must run. Awfully sorry, Mrs. Tracy, but Dad seemed to find a dozen things for me to do for him, this morning. He knew I was coming here to give Wynne the once over and say 'Welcome home'."

Again Phillip smiled. "Your father doesn't seem to have lost any of his old prejudices, my dear."

"Well, he can't say very much against a man who has stopped a bullet in such a way that only a croix de guerre is supposed to cover the scar.

"Good-bye, dear Mrs. Tracy. You'll let me come again soon, won't you? And as for you, Wynne—" She turned and held out both hands. She seemed about to speak. Was there a mist of pain in the dark blue eyes? He could not tell, and before he had decided, she was gone.

Mother and son looked at each other in silence for some seconds after the girl had left the room.

"It's rather an overpowering Natlee, isn't it, Mum?"

"Phillip, I think she's acting."

"Don't be foolish. No one could act as well as she did this morning."

There was a grinding of gears in front of the house. Quickly Phillip got up and went to the window. There he saw Natlee, her head bent over the wheel, seemingly making futile efforts to drive the car.

He did not realize until he had gotten to her that she was crying.

"Natlee, Natlee, dear," he exclaimed in consternation.

"Go way, Wynne Tracy. What are you doing here? Don't you see I don't want you around?"

"But I thought you were having trouble with the car." Phil fairly stammered over the words.

"I wasn't having trouble with or over—anything. Go way and leave me. I don't need your help. I was just crying—because I'm so lonesome without Rod."

Phillip Tracy raised Natlee's face. "This is not the girl who took breakfast with mother this morning. I didn't know that girl at all."

"Well, you've nothing on me, Wynne Tracy. I came to the conclusion that I had never known you."

She made a gesture as though she were going to start the car.

"Wait a minute, Natlee. Can't we begin all over again?"

"No, Wynne. We were always beginning over and never ending anywhere. You really don't want me to begin again. You're not really sorry because I'm crying. It just makes you uncomfortable to see me cry. I wish you'd go away. I've got to start this car. If you want to play around with me awhile, all right. I'll let Jerry invite you to dine with us at one of the restaurants soon."

"Why drag Jerry in, Natlee? Come and dine with me."

"No, Wynne. I'm not going to start anything. You say you do not know me. Well, at last I thing I know myself. I like you—I'm very fond of you—or I will be when you've shaved off that mustache and gotten back into American ways, but I'm not going to flirt with you—never again."

"That sounds like the old direct Natlee. I'm going to tell you something right now. If you don't love me, you don't love any one—not even his highness, the 'bread pudding with the whipped prune soul,' and so there's a chance for me, and for the first time in my life I'm going to try to make a girl love me."

(To Be Continued.)

Phil and Natlee see a great deal of each other, and Phil feels the old love returning. Has Natlee had a change of heart? Read what happens in the next chapter.

REPRIEVE FOR DOOMED TEXAN

F. M. Snow, Slayer of Boy, Granted More Time

AUSTIN, July 11. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody late today granted four weeks stay of execution to F. M. Snow, Stephenville farmer, slayer of three of his family and sentenced to be electrocuted July 15.

The stay was granted to allow further study of the lengthy application for commutation to life sentence, based on claims that Snow is mentally unsound as shown by affidavits of hpysicians who examined him while he was in jail, charged with shooting his young stepson, Bernie Connally and beheading him with an axe on a mountain top. The application for commutation was filed last week.

SNOW ADMITTED SLAYING OF HIS FAMILY

STEPHENVILLE, July 11. (AP)—The trial and conviction of F. M. Snow, 50 years old, a woodchopper and farmer, for the slaying of his step-son, Bernie Connally, attracted more attention than any other criminal case in Erath county. Although tried only for the death of his step-son, Snow was charged and confessed to have killed his wife and mother-in-law.

On the morning of Dec. 9, 1925, Ben Aycock was surprised when his pack of dogs accompanying him on a hunt fled howling from the ruins of an old house on the Riggs ranch, 14 miles from Stephenville. Investigating, he found the head of a youth, wrapped in a sack in a cellar under the house and later identified as that of 19-year-old Bernie Connally, stepson of Snow.

Rangers Probe Case.

The following day, Snow en route to Hico in a wagon containing all his household goods and behind which his cow was tied, was arrested by Sheriff Hassler and a Texas ranger, who had found discrepancies in his story of his family's disappearance. After questioning he confessed that he had killed the boy, his wife, Bernie's mother and his wife's mother, Mrs. S. A. Old, at their farm home about seven miles from here.

In his confession, made on the top of Cedar Point mountain at midnight when he revealed to officers the headless body of Connally, he said a quarrel over a cow's getting into his pet cotton patch had preceded the triple killing. Two shots from his rifle killed Connally, who was advancing toward him with a stick of wood in his hand, and one shot, likewise fired in self defense, he declared, killed both his wife and his mother-in-law.

He Beheads Bodies.

After the triple murder, he loaded young Connally's body into his wagon, carried it to Cedar Point mountain and there beheaded it, but why he did this he was unable to say. On his return, he buried the bodies of the two women on the hearth of his fireplace, using half a cord of wood in the process, he said.

While making his confession again in the district attorney's office at Fort Worth, Snow wept and leaped from his chair several times, crying out, "I was mad; I loved my wife more than anything in the world; I guess I'm mad still."

Following the indictment in December, 1925, three venires involving 300 men were required to select a jury and the twelfth juror was not obtainable for three days. He was convicted of murdering Bernie Connally, Jan. 28, 1926, and was never brought to trial on indictments charging murder of his wife and his mother-in-law.

The principal plank of the state's case was Snow's confession, while the defense, appointed by the court, argued that the man was insane. The penalty was affirmed, Feb. 9, 1927, a motion for rehearing was overruled, March 9, a mandate ordering sentencing was issued March 12, and on June 7, sentence of death was passed on Snow by Judge J. B. Keith, who heard testimony in the case.

Early in July, M. L. Munday, Fort Worth, Snow's attorney, appealed to Governor Moody for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment, alleging that testimony at the trial by alienists indicated Snow was insane.

Throughout the long fight in the courts, Snow was taciturn as to the outcome, and mainly impatient for a decision one way or another.

When sentenced and asked if he had anything to say, he told Judge Heath, "It isn't right that one should pay for what four were to blame for," but he didn't explain what he meant.

STRENGTH FROM WALKING

Those who are longing for more strength often overlook the fact that real endurance can only come from the use of exercises which build vitality through a systematic repetition of such exercises. Occasionally lifting a heavy weight may demonstrate the large size of a muscle, but the size is no indication of the endurance of that muscle. Many people are born with a tendency to grow large muscles, but frequently these same persons do not possess vitality of a sustaining nature.

Professional athletes soon learn that general bodily endurance is the thing to be desired, even above proficiency in the art or science of sport, itself. How often you have read of some promising athlete who died suddenly of an acute disorder. This is because he neglected to develop lasting endurance. All athletes must discover the indispensable need for continued endurance if they aspire to the championship class.

It is advisable for everyone to become interested in some branch of athletics—to encourage in themselves a desire to succeed in gaining physical victories, and, at the same time, receive the benefit from such exercise in the building of vim, vigor and vitality. The complaint is too frequently made that one does not have the time. This objection is a ridiculous one, for an hour a day given over to physical culture will add many years to anyone's life and, consequently, give him much greater returns in pleasure and profit over a long lifetime.

Strength From Walking

The best type of exercise to take is one which will increase endurance and be enjoyable at the same time. If only one hour a day can be spent in exercising, there is no kind of exercise which will be as pleasing and beneficial as walking. One can easily walk from three to four miles in an hour. There is something almost magical in the vitality which can be developed in an hour's walk.

Those who are not accustomed to walking for so long a period will do well to start with a 15-minute walk the first day, and gradually increase the time and distance each day. A good plan is to take your walk shortly before dinner in the evening. Start with the 15-minute walk the first day and increase the time only a minute daily no matter how much you feel like walking longer. If you follow this plan, you will never become exhausted from your walk and the oncrease in distance and time will be so gradual you will always be eager to walk further each day. Stick to the minuate a day increase and in 45 days you will be covering four miles, and feel full of "pep" at the finish.

After returning from the walk take a cold shower bath, relax for a few minutes, and then change to some fresh clothes before dinner. Try these suggestions if you have been enervated and all tired out recently. If you seem to be "all run down," the walking regime will "wind you up" in a short time. Don't just read what I am telling you and throw your paper down without determining to start tomorrow on the schedule I have outlined for you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: A. S. L. writes: "Please advise what treatment to use for broken capillaries on the face and neck. Skin very fine, without pimples or blackheads."

ANSWER: Twice daily treat the face by rubbing it with ice. Hold the ice for 15 or 20 seconds over the place where the capillaries are broken, then move it to the next location, and so on, using about a five-minute treatment in all. The cold of the ice will strengthen the capillaries and make them grow smaller.

QUESTION: Irene L. Writes: "I am very interested in your writing and have subscribed to the paper so I will not miss any of them. May I ask you to explain the difference between rheumatism and neuritis?"

ANSWER: I consider the cause to be practically the same in rheumatism as in neuritis. With rheumatism, the toxemia locates in the muscles or joints; while in neuritis it gathers around the nerve trunks. The treatment in both these troubles consists in eliminating the toxemia responsible.

QUESTION: Effie B. writes "What kind of bread do you advise for Melba toast? And just how is it made?"

ANSWER: Slice white bread one quarter of an inch thick, allow to dry over night or even longer, and toast in a moderately hot oven, until golden brown all the way through. Butter at the table as eaten.

DARBY DAY'S IN STEW AGAIN

Hectic Loves of Chicagoan In Court Anew

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Lady Lenora Green Bledzo—a name acquired in christening rather than in heraldy—today prepared to send her attorney, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, to California next Saturday to seek out the man she says she loves—Darby Day Jr.

Day, son of the president of the Central Life Insurance company, is something of a well-known character, especially since his erstwhile wife—she, who was Bernice Lundstrom—scarred his face with acid, thereby winning herself an indeterminate penitentiary sentence and for young Mr. Day a divorce. He departed Chicago supposedly for California, rather abruptly May 31.

Violent Visitor

Lady says that just two days previously he visited her apartment at 1430 N. Dearborn street, collected with some violence his letters, autographed photos and telegrams and liberally beat her up.

Lady is sending her lawyer to find Mr. Day so he can be served with the papers in two suits, each for $100,000. One of the actions charges breach of promise to marry, the other asks damages growing out of the alleged assault and battery.

Lady Bledzo is 22, auburn-haired and pretty to the point of being beautiful. Until about a year ago she was just one of a multitude of near north side artists' models.

Fame of the newspaper front page variety first came to her through the well-known Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil.

She Gets Beating

Or, more exactly speaking, through Mrs. "Yellow Kid," who for years stood for his alternating jail and penitentiary sentences, deals in rubber checks and bogus bonds, but balked when she learned of his clandestine love affair with Lady Bedzo and engaged her in physical battle when they chanced to met one day as Lady was stepping out of the Cook county jail, after a call upon the kid, who was awaiting the trial that made him a guest at Leavenworth prison.

Attorney Ehrlich had Lady photographed immediately after Darby's alleged assault. He had her photographed all over, for, he explains that was the only way he could indicate the extent of the damages. Certainly, Lady was bruised physically; her heart, she insists, suffered more.

She Loves Him

"For I love him and want to marry him and want to sue him—yes, and sue his father, too, for alienation of his affections."

The elder Day, by the way, had remarked, when he heard of Lady's suits: "Just another case of shakedown."

The reunion of 1927 has an added interest because the T-Anchor headquarters has become the property of the state and will be thrown open to the cowboys and they will use it in any way they wish.

IRISH MOURN SLAIN OFFICER

Funeral For Vice President Set For Tuesday

DUBLIN, July 11.—Along a route lined with thousands of mourners, many kneeling in prayer, nearly all crying, the body of Kevin O'Higgins, 35-year-old vice president and minister of justice of the Irish free state, who was assassinated yesterday, was today borne by cabinet ministers to the mansion house.

The body of the murdered cabinet member will lie in state until Tuesday morning, when it will be removed to St. Andrews' church, where the funeral will take place Wednesday morning.

All Ireland Mourns

All Ireland, regardless of political or religious creed, is plunged into grief as the result of the cold-blooded slaying. O'Higgins did not have a chance when the three unknown assassins pumped lead from automatics into his body and head.

A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of "wilfull murder by three men, unknown." The inquest was held quite close to the spot where O'Higgins met death.

President Cosgrove and Governor-General Timothy Healy were among the first to view the body in state.

Mrs. O'Higgins, the widow, is prostrated with grief. O'Higgins' last words were for her.

"Give my wife my love. Tell her I shall love her eternally," said O'Higgins to Dr. McNeil, who was with him to the end. It was not long after this that the youthful cabinet minister expired.

Slayers are Sought

The police authorities have a full description of the men believed to be the assassins and a wide search is being made for the culprits. The men are described as being young, probably 20 to 25 years old.

Officials are of the opinion that the murderers have escaped to the mountainous regions or are out at sea. The Wicklow range is being thoroughly searched.

Personal vengeance is presumed to have been the motive for the slaying. O'Higgins was a stern disciplinarian and many believe that he was largely responsible for the execution of many of the rebels who battled against the Irish free state in its early days. It is thought that friends or relatives of the executed rebels may be responsible for the assassination.

Despite the fact that Kevin O'Higgins was President Cosgrove's chief support in the Irish free state government, the president has stated that he will carry on with the administration, as far as possible without undue interruption.

In some sections of the country, anti-republican sentiment is quite strong. The republicans have formally repudiated all suggestion that they might have had a hand in the assassination.

It is possible that the political effects of the assassination may be far-reaching. The government has taken steps to prevent any disorders, and the general feeling seems to be that the saner heads on both sides will do all in their power to avert any disastrous consequences.

IN TEXAS it's WHITE CLOTHES

TEXAS summers are blessed with cooling gulf breezes---yet in the mid-summer sun, the red hair-line in the thermometer does have a tendency to gyrate upward. In this summer season, Texans find white clothes most cooling and comfortable. You see them everywhere. Men and women alike---clad in refreshing, cool, light-colored clothes. Now in some places this would not be the thing at all. Too much soot and smoke and grime. It would be impossible to keep a white suit respectable-looking from eight in the morning until noon. But here in Texas it's different. The air is crystal-clear. No sooty haze of smoke and grime hangs over Texas cities. And why? Gas! There's the reason. Low-cost natural gas has made a smokeless, efficient, economical industrial fuel available to Texas factories. In workshops as well as in homes---this quick, clean, modern fuel serves unfailingly; day in and day out. Pause a moment and consider this great blessing. Who would have thought that Gas could make us more comfortable in the summer as in the winter. Yet that is exactly what it does . . . by making it possible to wear cool, white airy clothes without exorbitant expense in keeping them clean.

OLNEY GAS LINE BEING RUSHED

Extension For Archer City Also Planned

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, July 11.—Surveyors from the Upham Gas company have completed their main line survey into Olney. The Upham company recently was granted a gas franchise by the city council, and is bringing the gas from the Panhandle fields. The main line will be tapped at a point two and one-half miles west of Iowa Park. The extension will run through Holiday and direct to Olney with an eight-inch line. At a point west of Archer City a four-inch line will be run to serve the town of Archer City.

The right-of-way has been secured over practically all the route and about half of it has been cleared and the roughs dug out by hand so that the digging machines may be started in the next few days. The contract calls for completion of the line into Olney by September 15, and from the rapid progress that has been made to date gas will probably be served to the local citizens at an earlier date.

Spanish Goat Trickier For Rodeo Performances

SAN ANGELO, July 11.—A Spanish goat, valued at a very small price on the range and raised only for eating purposes, is a performer de luxe when it comes to rodeo events. The Angora is much easier roped and the West Texas rodeos want the goat that is hardest to rope. The Spanish goat is faster, trickier and is more of a side-stepper than its Angora cousin and is much harder to rope. Few of the ropers at the West Texas rodeos are able to rope the Spanish goats at their first trial.

A SHOWER OF HAPPINESS

There's a Joy So Deep, It Brings Tears

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

YOU know now it is—when you're just so happy, you want to cry? Tears of sheer joy, joy that goes deeper, is more poignant than laughter.

When all of her dear friends gather together to shower her with tokens of their affection, to wish her the happiness they know she's going to have, she gets a sudden vision of the future. And the sweetness of it is almost more than she can bear.

So she cries—just an April shower of happiness—and then breaks into radiant smiles while she kisses them all and clasps the symbols of good wishes to her breast. And all the time, in one corner of her mind, ever-thrilling, in a picture of that moment when HE and SHE will stand before the alter and say "I do."

Hearty Fare for the Mind

By Lucy Lowell

DEAR LUCY LOWELL

In an article a short time ago you advised reading to cultivate the mind.

Will you please write something further on this subject. I read constantly, yet cannot see that I gain a great deal from it.

Perhaps I do not read the right subjects, or it may be I do not understand the proper way of going about it. I shall much appreciate your reply. D. L. M.

LUCY LOWELL

It is important, I think, to read only what has been written by thinkers.

I do not mean that such subjects as light fiction haven't a place, but one who wishes to train the mind should no more make a diet of this class of reading than he should think of feeding his body on pastry.

Read a paragraph and then spend a little time considering what the author meant by it and what it means to you. You will be surprised by the number of thoughts it will suggest to you not touched upon by the author.

If you do this consistently you will soon notice that your thought is roused to activity, not only by your reading, but by conversations, the things people do, whatever goes on around you.

-:- The Rhyming Optimist -:-

By Aline Michaelis

WHEN you are gone the same gold sun shines out, the same buds quicken and the same birds sing; and yet it is as though a mist of doubt had dropped its subtle veil round Earth's green ring. No longer does a perfect glory gild the yellow rose beside the fountain's rim, no longer is the garden's silence thrilled with matchless song from feathered throats a-brim. But, strangely, through the Summer sunlight creeps a hint of shade that dims its flawless light, and where the lily in the garden sleeps, pain dulls the linnet's one-time keen delight. When you are gone, the wide world suffers loss, no beauty and no rapture are the same; but well I know with your return this dross will all be purged away by joy's white flame!

When Industry Ceases to Be a Virtue

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

ARE you industrious?

That would be a virtue.

Are you over-industrious?

Are you an all-work-and-no-play person?

If so you are indulging in the vice of industry—a favorite American indulgence. If so you are as much a dullard as was ever the historical Jack in the days of Poor Richard.

Overworked labor in the old days of unorganized labor was always relatively inefficient labor.

The man who never goes from the monotony of labor to the refreshment of leisure generally never goes or gets anywhere.

The child who is forced to labor long hours during its growing years generally never grows into high efficiency, but is more liable than not to revolt against the tyranny by seeking refuge in crime.

The health and consequent welfare and happiness of a community is generally relative to the energy it conserves through abundant well-spent leisure.

There is natural law—the natural law of human life—underlying these and all other self-evident truths. And natural law can never be violated, whether by an individual or a community, without incurring the penalty in exact proportion to the violation.

It was these facts that lead that most excellent organization, the Playground and Recreation Association of America, at its last national congress to discuss the problem of the added hours for recreation afforded by the present eight hour work-day and by the promise of a forty-hour week which organized labor recently set as a goal.

Though agreed that this increased leisure time, unless constructively occupied, may be a menace rather than a blessing, the Congress viewed the situation with optimism. Typical programmes of public recreation which were reviewed at the convention indicated that in 748 cities a solution is in process through play spaces and recreation leadership provided by the community. Twenty years ago the public recreation movement in the United States meant little more than the children's playgrounds which had been adopted by forty-one cities. Now it has expanded to include athletics, social recreation, music, art, drama and handcrafts for adults. Camping, nature study and outdoor life are more and more promoted by municipal departments of recreation.

The Congress very properly gave much time to the consideration of leisure in its relation to the fundamental institutions of life—the home, the church, business, labor, education and Government. In several sessions, the need of educating both children and adults for a satisfying use of their spare time was stressed.

Dr. George Barton Cutten, president of Colgate University, stated that it was imperative that educational institutions train students for leisure as strenuously as for a vocation. "As the great majority of people never go to college," he said, "the training must be a part of primary and secondary schools. And our night schools, instead of being strictly vocational, must spend some time in education for leisure hours."

Therefore, remember that the virtue of industry by its very excess may become a vice. Remember also that the law of the conservation of energy is a natural law that is even more applicable to human life than to strictly physical phenomena.

Fashion Fads and Fancies

By Mildred Ash

Lining Up Linen for a most popular season, fashion authorities are presenting all types of linen frocks—those of solid tone, of figured or hand-blocked, or those costumes combining the solid and the printed types. In one or two-piece frocks or in ensemble jacket costumes, linen is certainly coming into its own in a most emphatic way. Although usually made in a strictly tailored way, some models of linen are trimmed in Irish or filet lace.

A Broadening Influence is being brought to bear upon the front brims of the latest soft felt hats that are being worn with hip-length moire silk jackets to match. Hats and little coats are of the softest pastel shades, while the accompanying skirts are either of a darker contrasting color or of black.

Life Is but a Span, hence we should dance through it as gally as possible. Satin opera pumps are the last word in dancing slippers when a glittering "ankle span" of rhinestones is added. This little stone-studded span resembles a slender strap and is flexible, like a jeweled bracelet.

Proper Lighting Essential for Schoolrooms

By L. Lamar Mattlews

MR. BARKLEY, who is principal of the school in Exter has mapped out for himself a strenuous programme for the Summer. Mr. Barkley is a young man with the energy and the enthusiasm of youth and he believes firmly that a child's physical comfort is quite as important as his studies.

When he took charge of his school last year, he found that in most of the classrooms the children sat facing windows, so that the light streamed through the panes of glass into the eyes of the children. He was amazed at the number of children in town who wore glasses and he was confronted almost every day with the matter of pupils going home with headaches.

All the year he worried over the subject and now that the vacation period is here, he proposes to use the time for remedying the matter. By dint of much persuasion he has induced the school authorities to appropriate enough money to have windows placed in the sides of the walls so that the light will fall over the shoulders of students instead of beaming into their eyes. In some of the classrooms he is having the desks turned directly around.

Young Mr. Barkley is on the job every morning to see that his carefully planned instructions are carried out to the letter. He is not the kind who allows negligence to interfere with the welfare of his pupils.

Another problem that has distressed Mr. Barkley is that of ventilation. He says that half the cases that are sent to him for discipline are due to bad air in the classrooms.

The child does not realize that it is the stuffiness of the room that is making him listless, inattentive and restless. Because the atmosphere is impure, the pupil gradually drifts into a state of semi-coma as far as his lessons are concerned. Given a whole room full of children in this condition, something is bound to happen.

As long as windows can be left open all is well and good. It is in cold weather, when closed windows become necessary, that troubles start.

Investigation shows that the best solution to ventilating rooms at school or at home is the use of the deflector. The window sash is raised and the deflector is placed in the lower part of the opening. In this way the incoming air is diverted upward. Some buildings are provided with ducts in the inner wall which makes proper circulation of air possible.

Now is a good time to begin work that will provide healthful atmosphere for the next term of school. It is also a good time to provide the same necessity for the bedrooms and living rooms in homes. A little effort and expenditure now may save any number of colds and headaches and distressing ailments later on.

It seems a shame that children should be hindered in their physical, mental and moral development because they are denied the blessing of fresh air—the most free and most plentiful of God's gifts to mankind.

Folly's Daughter

A Thrilling New Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

Viv Is Called Away.

"GEE whillikens and his tribe! but you're a thoroughbred, Viv," said Roy Scarlett rising and making his wife a little bow across the breakfast table.

"Thank you," she said calmly, though her heart was doing a private marathon under the orchid chiffons of her exquisite negligee. "But compliments don't change the fact that Bonnie Clair was spying on the girl who looks like me and that you've seen Miss Clair since the night we were together——"

ANN LISLE

"You don't generally grouch if I happen to meet a woman on the street at lunch time and invite her somewhere to have a bite!"

"I'm not grouching about it now. I'm merely inquiring why a chance resemblance between me and a little nobody should be so fascinating to Miss Clair. And above all why she should keep nagging at you about it and thus cause you to nag at me. Listen Roy," she went on passionately, "I love you. I always have. I always will. But I won't betray a secret that isn't actually any affair of yours—not even to hold your love. I told you before I would accept so much as your proposal of marriage, that I had a family secret to guard, that I was not an active party to the thing I had to hide, that I was in it only by accident of birth. That was enough for you then. Is it enough for you now?"

Roy gulped. "Don't you think you ought to trust me."

Viv smiled slowly, wisely. "Why burden yourself with a secret you'd have to remember to keep? You've enough on your mind! Getting the Shannon account is what you've got to think about."

"Yes and I think I've almost got it," Roy swaggered, his vanity and pride in his achievement coming to blot out his curiosity.

Vivian sighed. "That invitation to the country club for the week-end really helped."

She waited for Roy to say generously that he was grateful to her for guessing that a week-end houseparty at their club up on the Sound might mean a lot to MacNell Shannon just at the time when he was new in the city and had a lot of acquaintances and no real friends. Roy had been inclined to worry over the expenses since the Fourth of July week-end rate was tremendous, thirty dollars a day for members and forty for guests. But Vivian had explained to him that five hundred dollars to entertain Mac Shannon for three days that might otherwise be dull and lonely were well worth the sacrifice of the new diamond studded vanity case he had promised her. And now Roy was taking all the credit. Viv smiled. And she said the most injudicious thing she had ever uttered since her marriage to a man who prided himself on being a "Little Napoleon."

"Roy darling, I wish you'd acknowledge my usefulness for once. I am sure you'll get the Shannon account now. And I think it would be sweet of you to give me a big kiss and tell me what a nice girl I was to think of the week-end at the club."

Roy glowered. "You were very charming," he said stiffly. "Since I'm one of those men who need a wife to make him, I think it might be a good idea to be sure my wife doesn't ruin me by producing a family skeleton just when its rattling can do me most harm."

He stalked off haughtily.

For a long time after he slammed out of the breakfast room, Viv sat staring into space. She found herself in a quandary. And there was no way out. She couldn't tell Roy now. She would have to go on slipping away for a day now and then, visiting a certain "Sanitorium" in Jersey where a gray-haired, vacant-eyed old woman was hidden.

"I wonder if finding the girl would have been any use?" she thought.

She smiled and tried to shrug the thought away.

A few hours later she got a telegram which read curtly:

"Patient beginning to realize surroundings. Desperate. Better come at once. Think unless you place her privately with attendant she is likely to find way of ending it."

"Oh my poor little mumsie!" sobbed Vivian.

She hurried to her desk, wrote a note for Roy and drew a check that wiped out her bank balance. Then she dressed quietly packed a bag for a journey, called up a suburban real estate agency and a nurses' registry and hurried away.

At five Roy came home feeling triumphant over the greatest achievment of his life and contrite over his crossness to Viv when she tried to claim credit for her part in his success. Viv was not there. The servants had no information to give him—nothing but a note which read:

"I'm called away on something urgent. Back as soon as possible. Don't worry."

"I like that," he said. He didn't like it at all. It was what he called later under his breath "Too darn iconic."

Roy went through various stages of childish disappointment, curiosity, anger and suspicion. And when he finally picked up the telephone receiver and invited Bonnie Clair to join him at a little dinner to celebrate the opening of the Shannon Hotel that evening, he felt justified by his final and most cruel suspicion.

"Viv has gone to meet a lover. All this business about a family secret is tosh. Viv's secret is that kid who looks so darn much like her."

He felt that nothing he could do would be wrong in view of the fact that he was now sure Vivian was deceiving him—had been deceiving him for ten years.

When Manners Are Correct

Afternoon Tea

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Is it proper for me to serve a fruit salad and another salad when entertaining in the afternoon?

2. Is it proper for me to use glass plates for the salad?

T. V.

YES, it is good form—and generous, too—for you to serve two kinds of salad and thus give a pleasant choice to your guests. I am such a salad enthusiast that I would always answer "yes" to this question! And isn't it nice that salads are being given such a consequential place now in our menu, both in our every-day meals and for our entertaining?

2. Yes, and very lovely most of the glass is. I have a distinct preference for clear crystal or very light amber for salads, haven't you?

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

LUCY QUITE DEMURE

How does it feel to be a great man like this Lyman Lamb?

Anyhow, it isn't a tough feeling, but if you ask the hero of Wichita Falls' last two baseball victories you're liable to be just boyishly grinned at and slyly evaded.

"Heh, heh, how doo I fee-ul? Well, like a pretty lucky guy. Boy, you oughta seen what those guys give me. I've already got um. (Lambie was speaking of prizes offered the other day by various local merchants for the first home run, stolen base and the like knocked off by the Spudders the current home stand.) A gold baseball from Kruger, the jewelry man, and a table lamp from the guys down at the Electric company and a tire for my automobile. Gosh, can yuh ima-a-gine that? Got more than $50 worth of stuff," and the famous man beamed up and down and cross-ways. The gifts were awarded for a stolen base in Saturday's game and a home run Sunday.

* * *

This Wally Swenson lad was one of the happiest when the Spudders nudged out on Dallas Monday. He's sore at the whole Dallas outfit, anyhow. Sports writer over there the other day scored the third sacker an error when the pitcher picked up the ball and threw it away at first base.

* * *

ROSES

The stury Stan Benton continued in the life-saver role at shortstop Monday. The ball club on the whole is tickled several tints over the way Rabbit has filled in since Johnny Mann came up crippled.

Dugout chatter, Tobin and Payne observing on things in general: "Sa-a-ay, Brother, that Rabbit has been playing WONderful ball," wurbled one.

"Lissen, HAS he! If we hadn't a had that guy we'd be in the basement now!" replied the other.

* * *

TOUGH AND MORE SO

Manager Turkey Gross is finding it tough his maiden voyage to this sector as a pilot. Hack Miller, the home run hitter, came up yesterday with a stomach ache and couldn't play. Pence's automobile was stolen from him the other day and he's still prostrated. Jim Riley's started getting thrown out of the games again. The umpiring is just like it always was and Bill Bagwell has not arrived yet. Bagwell is expected to join the Steers any hour. Spud fans will remember him as the great big bouncing boy with Galveston in 1924, a sharp right field hitter, and often.

* * *

"Huh, they always pitch me against the leaders," sourly mumbled Lefty Shuman, then strode to the rubber and worked his head off 11 and two-thirds innings merely to be upst by a short, blonde upstart who "didn't have any business getting more than a single" and with it two out and night time drawing nigh.

* * *

HURRY, MISTER

These ball players take a regular vacation between hops when sold during the playing season by one club to another. The pugnacious Mr. Griffin failed to show yesterday, although past due. If Lambie hadn't come to the rescue one C. Williams would have emitted many a wail because the right-hand batting Griffin wasn't on deck. Griffin was purchased from Des Moines last week while in Denver.

How many games has Waco won since the Prattmen departed the cigar-box park? How many? Four in a row? Oh, you say they have LOST that many.

Plumbers Play Jackson Tires

The Jackson Tire nine will meet the Scotland Plumbers this afternoon at Katy Park. The Tire company and the Plumbers are both yet striving to break into the win column and this afternoon will give them that chance. Cecil Allison will take the hill for the Tiremen against Long Tom Hall for the Plumbers.

The game will be called promptly at five o'clock.

SNEEZE SPRAINS BACK.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, July (AP)—H. D. Seago, Cameron county clerk here, sneezed so vigorously that he sprained his back and was compelled to go to bed for a day.

Spudder Awards

Prizes have been awarded Spudders in every event but one for service afield the present home stay. Colvert's Ice Cream company has offered a gallon of peach cream to the first Spudder who hits a triple this stand. Nobody plugged a blow of the three-sack variety yet.

Gifts paid off were:

To Benton, Swenson and Estell, the leading hitters in the game Saturday, an Enro shirt each, given by the Hub.

To Turgeon, slammer of the first double, one suit cleaned and pressed by DeLuxe cleaners.

To Estell and Lamb, a gold baseball fob each, the first winning pitcher and the first home run hitter, by the Kruger Jewelry company.

To Lamb, the first Spudder to steal a base, an attractive table lamp, by Texas Electric company.

To Turgeon, choice of best straw hat, first Spudder crossing plate, by Saul's store.

To Lamb, first home run hitter, a Goodrich Silvertown tire, by the Service Tire company.

WORK HORSES SOCK SHARKEY

Larruping Lith Might Look Better in Ring

By WARREN BROWN
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 11.—Some of the carfeully studied calm, and the attitude of tolerance which characterized the Sunday workout of Jack Sharkey, vanished in a hurry this afternoon, on at least two occasions. The first occurred in the second round of a brisk performance with Johnny Urban, the same being the mysterious stranger, who may or may not have come into the camp for the purpose of embarassing the Lithuanian larraper. The second made its appearance in the closing moments of work with Marco Polo.

Ambitious Urban.

Sharkey, following his Sunday workout, indicated in a few thousand well chosen words, that it was his object to get used to punches showering his way. Urban, an aggressive young man, became unduly energetic, and was in a fair way towards showing up the principal actor when, of a sudden, a Lithuanian left hook found a resting place on Urban's chin and the ambitious youth was the first of the Sharkey sparring partner troupe to discover the canvas in the Madison Square Garden gymnasium.

Polo, aroused the Sharkey ire by unleashing a backhander, and for the next few seconds Marco was the recipient of sundry lefts and rights.

Against his other partners, Leo Gates, and Rocky Stone, Sharkey was ever the obliging lad, who was perfectly willing to hit or be hit, just as long as the necessary amount of exertion known as a workout was recorded.

There may be some strategy in the theory that one has to be punched around a certain amount of the time to make a workout impressive. But it will be well for Sharkey if he has a care in those early rounds of his brawl with Jack Dempsey, and lets him take none of the same liberties that these sparring partners of yesterday took, and with the exceptions noted, escaped unscathed and unchallenged. After the early rounds, of course, there will be more things than Sharkey's speed, his punch, and his agility to burden Dempsey, and, whether this striking a sympathetic note or not, it will be a burden.

Work Improves.

There was a general improvement in Sharkey's work, over his Sunday performance, and there is no question of the excellence of his condition, even now.

A stranger in the gymnasium, looking over Sharkey for the first time, would carry away the impression that he is easily hit, and anyone who is easily hit has not great business bothering around with Dempsey. But here one runs up against two propositions, the one that Sharkey in the gymnasium and Sharkey in the ring are not one and the same, and the other is that the Dempsey of the present era finds difficulty in "tagging" any moving object.

His problem with Gene Tunney a year ago was not nearly as much lack of punch, as lack of a place to put it.

Mehlhorn Leads In British Open

Jones Slashes Around Course in 73

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 11. (AP)—During the first hour's play today in the British open golf championship with Bobby Jones, the American star defending his title, it seemed likely that the St. Andrews fire department, brass helmets and all, would have to be called to pump the water out of the bunkers before play could continue, as it was during the finals of the amateur championships in 1913 between Harold Hilton and Robert Harris.

The downpour started as Bobby Jones and Bill Mehlhorn, the first of the dozen invading Americans, teed off and did not cease until they had reached the turn, Jones playing on the old course and Mehlhorn on the new.

The excessive moisture probably had something to do with dampening the ardor of Jones' game compared with his brilliant performance at Glen Eagles yesterday when he did the course in 67. Today he required 76. Although the American holder of the British open championship had nearly all the crowds at St. Andrews sloshing through the soggy fairways in his wake and Mehlhorn had a mere handful, the Chicagoan finished in 73, which was three strokes better than Jones and tonight Mehlhorn leads the American contingent in the first qualifying round.

Jim Barnes, the lanky Cornish man from Florida, is second with 72, and Joe Kirkwood third with 75. Tom Stevens and Bobby Jones 76 each; Walter Kennett 77; Larry Nabholtz 77; J. G. Anderson 79; Charles Mayo 80; and Edwin Haley 81. After them came Jack Redmond with 87 and Joshua Crane and Frank Sweeney with 92 which are considered hopeless for qualifying.

The honors of the day went to a continental invader, the Frenchman, Rene Golias, who turned in a 71. E. R. Whitcombe and Charles Gadd, brother of George Gadd, share the British honors with 72 each. Cyril Tolley, the hard hitting amateur, is close on their heels with 73.

Tomorrow the players will switch courses for another qualifying round, after which all but the first hundred and ties for the hundredth place will be eliminated.

BOLL WEEVIL PROSPER.

YOAKUM, Texas, July (AP)—Ten days of excessive rain in this territory have made conditions ideal for the boll weevil. Considerable cotton which promised a good yield has no fruit except that put on since the rains.

WITH GEORGE MORIARTY, MANAGER DETROIT TIGERS

It all started out as a joke but from the gag that Al Schacht developed to get a laugh out of the baseball crowds has come an idea that may cut down the injuries in the major leagues and be of considerable help to pitchers.

Schacht is the partner of Nick Altrock in the business of clowning for the Washington ball team. One day recently Schacht, while going through the customary antics with Altrock before the start of the game, went to the pitcher's box wearing a pair of heavy shin guards and acted a pantomime skit called "The Pitcher's Revenge" or "Safety First," or something like that. (The reader may supply his own title.)

The act drew a big laugh but it was more than funny to the players in the dugout. Several of them got an idea from Schacht's clowning. Why wouldn't it be a good thing for pitchers to wear shin guards during batting practice?

* * *

All major league pitchers work in batting practice except on the days when they are expected to pitch. They take their turns in the box. Now, during batting practice the pitchers throw practically nothing but "straight" balls. They make no attempt to curve the ball or work a change of pace. Their idea is to get it to the plate and let the batters hit it.

The batter, knowing what is coming, takes a toe hold and swings. He meets many balls fairly and not a few of them are smashed back at the pitcher. Frequently these line drives come at the pitcher with such speed that he has no chance to get out of the way and he is hit.

Most of the hits are scored on the shins or calves of the pitchers.

Since the pitcher is relaxed while batting practice is on he naturally moves much slower than during a game when he is tense and expectant. In practice his "reflex is curbed" as certain sports critics put it. The result of this "curbed reflex" frequently is extremely painful.

And here, presented as a pantomime skit, came the solution. Pitchers began trying it in morning practice and discovered that it worked.

Lil Stoner was the first pitcher on the Detroit team to use shin guards in practice. The first ball Stoner pitched was smashed straight back to the box, a low, mean drive. Stoner made an effort to reach the ball, but he missed. The ball struck the shin guard and bounded past first base. Imagine what would have happened to Stoner if he had been without the shin guard! This accident, or miraculous escape from accident, caused all of the other pitchers on the Detroit team to adopt the shin guard. They were not the first to use it, but they will not be the last.

* * *

Roger Bresnahan invented the shin guard for catchers. When Roger first appeared in his shin guards there was a laugh and then a roar from the stands. Everybody kidded Bresnahan about the shin guards and to ball players he looked like the most foolish man in the profession. They simply could not get over it—how comical he looked and all that, but imagine a catcher going out today without shin guards! He would be thought just as insane for not wearing them as Bresnahan was considered for wearing them.

A pitcher with shin guards was the funniest sight on the ball field when one finally appeared with them but maybe in five or six years from now the pitchers as well as the catchers will be wearing them.

DAY OF WORK, DAY OF PLAY JACK'S SCHEDULE UNTIL BOUT

By LEO P. FLYNN.
Manager and Trainer of Jack Dempsey.

(Copyright, 1927, by New York-American and Universal Service.)

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., July 11.—If it were necessary, Jack Dempsey could step into the ring with Sharkey tomorrow and do himself justice.

That is what I think of the big boy's physical condition after watching his workout today. He went through 35 minutes of actual labor, punched the bag, tugged at the pullies and took on six sparring partners without drawing a deep breath.

My chief problem now is to keep him in his present shape. When a boxer has reached as fine an edge as Dempsey has, it requires a lot of care to keep him that way without drawing his condition too fine.

To prevent him from going stale, I have decided to work him on alernate days, giving him a lot of labor one day and letting him take it easy the next.

Tomorrow, for example, he will take only a little light exercise without any boxing. As a diversion we will take a trip to Lake Champlain and start the swimming races to be held there by the American Legion. He will not even look at a boxing glove.

After a day's rest he will return to the grind on Wednesday, with another holiday Thursday. That is unless he takes on too much weight in the meantime.

Jack weighed 196 pounds after today's workout, and I expect to send him into the ring at about 194, or two pounds heavier than he was when he fought Tunney.

Our main endeavor now is to develop speed. There is no question about his ability to hit. The old kick is still there, as he has demonstrated against several of his sparring partners.

A lot of skeptics might say that it is an easy stunt to knock over a few palookas in a training camp, but his sparring parters are no set-ups for anybody. Chief Metokah, whom he stopped with a left hook in one round today, is a big tough fighter with a lot of victories to his credit.

Then there is Marty Gallagher, a big young fellow who arrived this morning with a list of seventeen straight knockouts. Jack leaned old "Iron Mike" on his chin and dropped him in less than two minutes.

Anybody who thinks Dempsey has lost the old dynamite in his punch has a big surprise coming. That includes Sharkey, too.

As I said before, we are training more for speed than anything else. We realize that Sharkey is fast and we intend to be prepared for it. That is why we have Dave Shade and several little fellows in the training camp.

Dave Gave Jack a good workout today with his bobbing and weaving and foot work. He is one of the smartest boxers in the ring and has been a lot of help in the training campaign.

So from now on we have two objects in view—to speed Jack up and to keep him at his present edge.

Spudders and Steers Westmoreland Guests

Manager Leonard Grayson and the Westmoreland swimming pool outfit intend to play hosts to the Spudders and Dallas players Teusday night.

Every athlete on the roster of each club has been invited to come out to Westmoreland and attend a party for their honor.

And the males don't have to go alone. The Mrs. and Misses are invited, wives and sweethearts, said Grayson.

KIEFER VERSUS OWENS TODAY

Harlem Joe Kiefer, the barrel-shaped righthander, falls heir of the Sundder chunking chores Tuesday afternoon, so anndunced the Spud pilot last night.

Manager Turk Gross intends to send Tiny Owens, mountainous righthander, to the hilltop for Dallas.

Yep, the Spudders hook in again with the Steers this afternoon and Doak Roberts will be on hand to see what happens also to officially present the opening day trophy earned by Wichita Falls fandom.

The Spudders were in fair fettle last night after that Garrison finish yesterday at expense of the Steers. Jenkins was nursing a sore finger, but will be in the affray today. Fitzgerald may not be able to work in center field. Fitz jerked a leg ligament while taking a turn at first yesterday and barely hobbled from the scene of the conflict.

Wichita Falls rests this a. m. seven games high and unmoistened above the rest of the pack. Yesterday's sensational 5-4 victory in 12 rounds while Houston was splitting with Santone gave us a half game advance. Waco lost another.

BIGGEST BUILDING PERMIT.

TEMPLE, Texas, July (AP)—Temple's record building permit has just been filed here. It calls for the construction of a nine-story hotel at a cost of approximately $300,000.

Did You Know That—

HIGHWAYRY.

LaFayette was robbed prettier than you please in the third when Woeber sped over to his left and back toward the fence to pull down Froggy's drive to left center for one of the most sensational outfield catches of the season here. The clout looked like a sure safety.

Jenkins made a beautiful one-handed running stab of Mulvey's rift to port in the seventh. The catch was all the more difficult, considering Williams tried for the ball, toe, but couldn't get under it, running in front of Tom just as the latter plucked the sphere out of the ozone.

A cigaret fire or something similar broke out in the box seat section during the third inning Guy Airey was the hero of the occasion, charging to the rescue with a bucket of water sufficient to quench seven such conflagrations.

SCARES 'EM.

When Old Rubber-Arm has two strikes on 'em and then starts putting his foot in their faces it's just too tough. George was a highly irritated male after that first inning debacle. He came back in the second and fired 'em in there at Mulvey until the Steer batter popped up to short. He got two strikes on Gross next, then hoisted his left foot on high, reared back and cannon-balled the third strike by Turkey. Then he got two strikes on Tate, upped with the leg, stuck a hoof in the air, brought her down with a bang again and slung the third by sodie so vicious that the Steer sacker turned pale.

HAW.

Jim Riley had been a good boy just as long as he could and no longer. Shortly before the game, some guy was heard to gargle, "Hi, there, Jim, yuh making any money?"

"Naw," replied the Steer first baseman, "But I been laying off the umpires, so I ain't losing any."

Jim "laid" back on in the tenth, disputing an umpirical decision so enthusiastically that Umphs Sabrie parked him, a fine automatically being plastered.

Tiny Owens "struv" nobly to forestall that ninth inning come back of the Spudders. He flopped down on his knees just as Swenson strode to the platter, bared his head but instead of looking heavenward, faced one of the umpires, folded his hands in orthodox fashion and apparently offered fervent prayer.

Started sprinkling at the beginning of the eleventh, but it didn't get wet enough to keep the Steers from getting a couple on base and the eminent Fussell from relieving Cobb and striking out Josh Billings who went to the plate disguised as a pinch hitter. The southpaw forkhanded 'em by for the third out with Billings crying something at the umphs about a balk.

One funny feature of the game was the way at one stage Woeber got a base. Payne uncorked a slow ball (it was in the sixth) that came inside and low to Moose, so he just hiked up a leg and let the ball hit him. Payne and Lapan objected strenously, but the umpire awarded the Steer player his base.

WELL?

One umpire is bad enough, any Dallas player would have told you yesterday merely for the asking, but three at once is adding insuit to injury. Three arbiters worked the contest and the Steer players buzzed and barked at them all the way. "They're ain't any doubt about it! Those bums gypped us on every count!" grouched one noble athlete with a couple of extra expletives injected.

One of the prettiest plays of the afternoon was a double erasure knocked off in the third by Turgeon, Benton and LaFayette on Woeber's bounder to second with Bauman on first.

BOISTEROUS JOY.

When Lamb socked that home run in the twelfth to win the game, Mann, Benton and Turgeon ganged up and playfully beat him to death. Fussell charged over and kissed him.

Jenkins came up with a bloody end finger on the left hand when Skipper Carl heaved his bat after flying out in the twelfth. The bludgeon caught Jenkins kneeling behind and mashed the finger against his own bat. The digit is not expected to keep Thomas out of Tuesday afternoon's game.

Matsuda Due Here Tuesday

Ross Declares Reed Will Beat Matty

Matty Matsuda, for years title claimant, and acclaimed by many as the world's welterweight wrestling champion, is expected to arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday preparatory to defending his honors against Mike Reed of Los Angeles in finish match at the Ross stadium Friday night.

Jack Reynolds, the Indiana claimant of the championship, has agreed to meet the winner next week.

Matchmaker A. B. Ross, whether seriously or merely for ballyhoo purposes, declares himself firm in conviction that Matsuda will meet his master in the sturdy Reed.

"There isn't the slightest doubt but that Reed will beat Matty," Ross says, "and I'm just as sure as I am sure I am alive that Mike will come out on top and then probably beat Reynolds unless Reynolds runs out on him."

The Spudder baseball squad will be guest of the grapplers.

Lamb Blasts Homer to Win 12-Inning Thriller

Cotton-Top Saves Game In Tenth For Spudders

Lapan Socks For Circuit in Seventh—Wichita Falls Overtakes Four- Run Lead And Trims Dallas, 5 to 4

By BLONDY CROSS

One short, sawed-off, homely looking little cuss—a thick-chested, pudgy, cotton-topped little geezer who couldn't win much anything else but an ugly man's contest, stepped out practically on his lonesome Monday at the orchard and copped us another ball game while the second place Houston Buffs were splitting a double header.

Lamb

Mr. Williams and Mr. Gross used almost every player the Wichita Falls and Dallas clubs carry on their respective pay rolls in effort to sew up the game, but it remained for an inconspicuous midget from Joplin, Mo., to rise up on one occasion and thwart the desperate Steers and then come back a few minutes later to snatch a 12-inning thriller from the tip of disaster by bludgeoning a home run far and high over the left field fence.

Wichita Falls fandom saw a fighting aggregation in Spudder spangles come from behind late in the affray, overtake a four-run lead, tie it up, stand off the bitterest assaults Dallas could muster over a span of three more hectic couplets and then forge to the front with Lyman (Lucy) Lamb, the Joplin wonder, blasting a volcanic drive over the port pailings for the circuit. It was a noble finish to a bitter battle. Coming up in the twelfth with two out and fandom resigned to see the game called at a deadlock score because of darkness. Lyman (Lucy) Lamb, the scrappy athlete about whom some smart guy the other day shoved out the barber shop rumor to effect he was going to be shipped to Tulsa, toed in and flailed the ears off Lefty Richard Shuman and turned back the ambitious Dallas outfit, 5 to 4.

With the score knotted at 4-4 in the tenth and Manager Gross of the Herd on second base, yesterday's hero, L. (L.) Lamb, first made it possible for the Spudders to win another. For with the fleet Gross taking a lengthy lead off the keystone, Charley Berry combed a bristling single from the delivery of Herb Cobb to right field. Several thousand hearts sank into several thousand boots up in that grandstand as Gross sped homeward. It looked like it was the game, a game on the wrong side of the ledger, but Lambie rallied to the cause gallantly, tore in at a mad pace, scooped up the flitting pill and heaved well nigh a perfect strike to Lapan at the plate, a perfect strike for any hitter rhad it not been a bit high. Lapan grabbed the sphere, blocked the runner and laid the leather on him, thus averting several suicides in Wichita Falls on this particular cloudy afternoon.

Payne and Fussell

She started out as a drab, blue Monday for fair when the rubber-armed George Payne saw his infield crumple right at the start and the Steers hustle over four runs ere the first inning was out. But the defenders became more staunch after that round in which exactly four technically unearned markers had been registered and George Washington slung spirals in there with a vengeance, blanking the enemy the remainder of his tenure which carried right on through, the regulation nine stanzas. It was a great game Payne pitched and he should have won it. But with the Spudders rallying, Payne gave way to a pinch batsman in the ninth and Herb Cobb went to the chunking dome. Herb worked a span but got in trouble and was relieved by the famous Fred Fussell. You can guess the rest. When Fusell goes in there against Dallas the Steers are stampeded. Fred held 'em off long enough for Lambie to jump in with that four-base blow of his and the game was socked into the satchel.

Lapan Hits Homer

Looked for a long time like the league leaders were going to lose out with that four tallies staring at 'em and Shuman hurling a stiff brand to take. But Swenson got a single in the seventh and the well-known Punch Lapan swaggered to the medallion and hoisted one of Lefty Richard's heaves over the left field barrier. That gave us two runs and something to think about. Then our bunch got up and at 'em in the ninth. There was one out when Benton worked Shuman for a base on balls. Swenson spanked a hot buzzer down the third base line, the blow going for two sacks while Dallas players wept large tears at the feet of Umpire Sabrie. Benton drew up at third. Shuman walked Lapan in a hurry, throwing four balls so wide that two of them came very near to being wild pitches. Tobin was drafted as pinch hitter. He came very near being a hero, knocked the shoe strings of Tate's ankles out by third base. Tate recovered quick enough to force Lapan at second, but Benton scored. Then the great LaFayette stroked a bad-hop single between first and second. Bauman came near to making the play, but failed. Swenson scored. Turgeon forced LaFayette at second. She was tied at 4-4.

They worried through the tenth and the eleventh and then a couple were down in the last half of the twelfth and it looked like we were going to have to go another ining or call it off. But Lambie strutted up to the dish, bosom expanded and a heavy scowl wreathing an already none-too-comely countenance. He wagged a couple of cocky shoulders at Shuman, hooked up a foot, drew away back almost to the grandstand and uncorked a vicious lunge and sideswipe. Leather collided with hickory and the resultant explosion left no doubts as to what was to follow. The sphere sped, a white streak, on a line to the jungle territory far behind the left garden protection. Mr. Lamb had scored his point.

Fitz Jerks Ligament

Now, the less said about that first frame the more fun. We just got off on the wrong foot, lost balance and couldn't regain until after Dallas had scored four times and we had lost Fitzgerald to the cause. Swede got kind of mixed up on Mulvey's floozer and kicked it. Gross rounded out but Tate tapped a single between short and third. Berry bobbled to Payne who heaved to Turgeon and Pete dropped the ball tagging Tate. Mulvey scored. Riley walked. Bauman boosted a high sailor to short right center and the egg fell safe, Lamb running his legs off but arriving a second too late. Tate tabulated. Woeber rolled to Turgeon who fumbled and Berry scored with Riley drawing up at third. Then Baumgarten flied out to center and Riley chased in after the catch. Shuman struck out.

With two gone in the Spudder half of the first, Fitzgerald whipped a whistling drive to right center for two bases, but jerked a ham string on the turn at first base. Lamb followed with a single to center, a blow of the caliber that any other old afternoon would have sent Fitz scrambling across the platter, but Fitz barely managed to limp to third. Williams came to the rescue at this point and took the outfielder's place. Jenkins forced Lamb at second. Fitz was unable to continue in the game.

Jeems Gets Okay As Shipper Owner

DALLAS, July 11. (AP)—The Texas league today formally approved the purchase of the majority interest in the eBaumont club by James G. Galloway, the manager, and others. Galloway himself will have the controlling interest but will have others associated with him in the ownership, among them Claude Robertson, league officials said.

J. Doak Roberts, president of the league, was appointed a member of the board of arbitration to decide on the price to be set on the Houston club if that becomes necessary. When that appointment was announced President Roberts pointed out that work on the new park at Houston was under way, which if it continues to a satisfactory conclusion leaves nothing for the board of arbitration to do.

Those attending the league meeting were:

President Roberts, Charlie Maxvill and Walter Norris, Dallas; J. Alvin Gardner, Wichita Falls; Paul LaGrave and W. C. Stripling, Fort Worth; J. G. Galloway, Beaumont; Fred Ankerman, Houston; Harry Ables, San Antonio, and Seth Mayfield, Waco.

GIVE any man a pipeful of Granger without telling him its price... let him judge it solely on taste and every time he'll say, "It must be expensive."

True enough, it is costly tobacco made by costly processes ... and if packed in the ordinary pocket tin it would be expensive ... BUT sensibly packed in foil it sells for just ten cents

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents. The foil-pouch, sealed in glassine, is ten cents.

PANHANDLE GAS MAY BE PIPED TO ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO

SUPPLY CAUSES WIDE INTEREST

Large Number of Cities Want Gas

AMARILLO, July 11.—The immensity of the natural gas reserves of the Texas Panhandle district has caused many towns and cities not now enjoying this great fuel to start devising ways and means of obtaining the gas.

Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs on the Amarillo-Denver line; Woodward, Wichita and Kansas City, on the Pampa-Kansas City line; Canyon, Plainview Lubbock and other towns on the Amarillo-South Plains line, and Wichita Falls, Vernon, Fort Worth and Dallas, on the Gray-Wheeler-North Texas lines, are soon to enjoy natural gas from the Panhandle.

And now comes St. Louis as a future customer. City officials of St. Louis have asked the Empire companies if it would be possible for Panhandle gas to be piped from Kansas City when the Panhandle-Kansas City line in finished.

It is suggested that a 20-inch line be laid to St. Louis, a distance of 280 miles. Gas engineers say that it would be possible to supply even Chicago with natural gas from the Panhandle.

Prairie Most Popular of Oils On Stock Exchange in Day's Trading Monday

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 11.—The stock market was really bouyant today in practically all classes of stocks. The heavy buying movement followed the increase in the steel corporation's forward business and the plenthoria of funds which could be obtained at 3 1-2 per cent "outside" and 4 per cent on the floor.

Cotton reached a new high price for the season on the reduction in acreage planted to the white commodity. The trade is puzzled over the uncertain crop outlook. Big commodity speculators are going long of the December option for a "killing." Wheat was lower.

An important development in the bond market, which has been in an congested state, is its gradually relief through dissolution of a number of syndicates and it is estimated that $500,000,000 in underwritings will be wound up within the next 60 days.

Interest developed in the corn market. The country is faced with the smallest crop in 26 years. The condition on July 1 was 69.9 per cent of normal on an increase of 97,638,000 acres.

Crop prospects as a whole are far from promising, according to the government survey. A short fruit crop and a reduction in tobacco products is forecast, and an average yield of wheat, potatoes, sugar beets and feed crops other than corn. A large crop of beans, peanuts and sweet potatoes is looked for. Crop prospects are fairly good in the western states, but unpromising in the eastern corn belt.

Investment houses were in best demand and speculative issues came in for attention. Steel common closed higher. The outlook for the steel industry is more promising. The Republic Steel company is starting more mills in Ohio and the Carnegie Steel company is increasing its capacity. Railroads went forward and accumulation is beginning to make itself noticeable in the Great Northern and Northern Pacific issues on the belief that the merger of the two roads with the Burlington will be given government approval.

First National Bank stocks were strong. American went into new high ground. The company is entering a new era and now reaping the benefit of a big campaign for new business. It has signed another contract with the leading candy companies in the country for a large order for the most expensive cans ever made in the business. The order assures the American Can company the biggest year in its history. Some of the candy companies named are Maillards, Huylers, Crane, Hollingsworth and Johnson.

Motor stocks continue strong. General Motors held above 200 and Nash and Jorgan Motors went into new top territory. Durant is understood to have predicted a price of 250 for General Motors and is said to be a buyer of small automobile company stocks to form an investment trust. Accumulation of these low price motors may be the forerunner of a merger of independents.

The Jordan Motor company is said to be selling in the open market for about $4,000,000 and the low price has attracted a group working towards a merger. Jordan is said to be one of the stocks benefitting from an aggressive sales campaign throughout the country.

The increased business of department stors in June brought about a demand for the store issues. Sales of department stores and other retail establishments in June were one per cent larger than last year. Sales of mail order houses were up three per cent. Gimbel was in demand.

Timken and Union Carbide reached new peak levels. Timken is being accumulated for the long pull by a prominent local operator. The company has signed several big contracts with the railroads which have not yet been officially announced and expects a big business from the carriers. The rise in Union Carbide was followed by rumors of a merger with Mathieson Alkali.

Oils were quiet. One stock in favor however, is Prairie. The company represents the only division of the oil business not affected by overproduction. It is in the pipeline or oil transport business and the first half year shows an increase of 22 per cent.

Manhattan Electrical Supply sold off from the high. Reports current in Wall street are that the selling is better than the buying. The company, it is said, has taken over another company which is said to be making money. The deal involves stock to be given by the Manhattan Electrical for the acquisition, but at prices said ot be $60, $70 and $75 a share which compares with its present price above $90. Paramount-Famous dipped and rallied. One of the largest stockholders, it is said, has decided to dispose of his holdings in the company.

Heavy trading developed in Reynolds at rising prices. Action of this stock of late has been a mystery. This company is experiencing unusually large bookings of new orders and contracts from the automotive, furniture, electrical and building industries. Disclosure of a noteworthy short interest has also been instrumental in the higher prices. There has been rumors that the General Motors is seeking a majority interest in the company.

WHEAT IN SAG WITH CORN UP

Production Estimate Starts Major Decline

By CHARLES J. LEYDEN
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 11.—Buying power was withheld from the wheat pit today and prices sagged steadily, the decline being facilitated late by an unexpectedly big increase of 4,252,000 bushels in the United States visible supply for the week. The trade was awaiting the government crop estimate, issued late in the day, and evening up was general.

Corn was about as strong as wheat was weak. Local buying was encouraged by expert comment of subnormal rainfall over wide areas and other claims that the crop is making slow progress generally. Gossip had it that considerable long wheat was unloaded against covering of short corn in the undoing of a spread.

July wheat opened at $1.47½, reached $1.47¾, dropped to $1.45⅝ and closed at $1.46¼. September opened at $1.45⅝@1.45¾, sold at $1.45¾, dropped to $1.43⅝ and closed at $1.44⅛@1.44¾. September corn opened at $1.06⅝@1.06¾, rallied to $1.07⅞, dropped to $1.06⅛ and closed at $1.07⅛@1.07¼.

Export sales totaled 700,000 bushels, largely Manitobas. Liverpool closed ⅛ to 1¼ pence higher.

Locally wheat finished 1¼ to 1⅜c lower, corn ⅝ to 1¼c up, oats unchanged to ⅛c lower and rye unchanged to ⅝c down.

Corn manifested strength throughout and had not wheat sold off would have done considerably better. Some of the locals that bought corn were impressed with the slow progress of the crop that they have been inspecting over the holidays. A local expert maintained that rain in the corn belt of Ohio and Indiana for the last month has been far below normal.

Oats had a narrow range.

Rye was quiet and lower at the last.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 11. (AP)—Prices moved upward on the cotton market today under the influence of favorable cables, the bullish acreage estimate and trade buying. The close was 39 to 41 points above that of Saturday and the rally carried March and May near the 18-cent line.

First trades showed no change for October but gains of 3 to 4 points on the later months. The opening trades were the lows with October at 17.28, December 17.51 and January 17.59.

Trade buying and covering stimulated the advance until October reached 17.45, December 17.66 and January 17.73, 17 to 18 points above the previous close. A reaction brought a loss of eight points near mid-session after which the market again firmed and the late trading swept October to 17.68, December to 17.90, and January to 17.94, 39 to 41 points above the previous close. Prices eased off a few points at the end on realizing.

Exports today 20,559 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—The bullish influence of Saturday's official cotton acreage figures was reflected in a continuation of the buying movement and new high prices for new crop positions in the cotton market today. October sold up to 17.77, while January advanced to 18.04. The close was within a point or two of the best, with the market very steady, at net advances of 31 to 41 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 7 to 8 points on over-Sunday buying order brought in by the strength of Saturday. Prices soon showed net gains of 15 to 18 points. There was some selling on reports of favorable weather conditions, and after the execution of stop orders on the early advance to 17.55 for October, prices eased off slightly under realizing. Except for profit taking, offerings were comparatively light and were absorbed by continued covering, while setbacks of 8 or 10 points from the best seemed to bring in fresh buying for either trade or speculative account.

This checked the reaction and the market turned upward again during the early afternoon, reaching the highest levels of the day on a renewal of covering and commission house buying reports that trade interests were taking advantage of the early setbacks to fix prices on call cotton, seemed to increase the confidence of buyers, while there was also some bullish comment on reports of showers or rains in the eastern belt and of cotton blight in some sections in the Southwest.

All months made new high ground for the movement, July selling up to 17.43, and December to 17.99 in late trading.

Exports today 20,439; making 10,987,415 so far this season. Port receipts 5351; U. S. port stocks 1,110,760.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, July 11. (AP)—Announcement of 4,252,000 bushels increase of the domestic wheat visible supply total did a good deal today to depress the wheat market. Correct belief also prevailed that the United States government crop report this afternoon would prove bearish. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1¼c to 1⅜c net lower, with corn showing ⅝c to 1¼c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c off and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise of 13c.

It was correctly assumed in advance that the government report on corn would be bullish. Moreover, the general run of comment today from unofficial crop experts was pessimistic. Oats were relatively firm owing to fears of damage by recent hot weather.

Most deliveries of provisions were steady, in line with the hog market.

TEXAS PLANTS LESS COTTON

Acreage 89 Percent of 1927; Wichita Cuts

Following a report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture that cotton acreage in Texas in 1927 would be 89 per cent of that in 1926, G. C. McGown, county agricultural agent, said Monday that the cotton acreage in Wichita county would be practically the same as that for the entire state.

Mr. McGown asserted that the cotton acreage in counties surrounding Wichita would be the same percentage as that ..gured by the department of agriculture for Texas.

In the cotton area of the United States the acreage planted to cotton this year is 87.6 per cent of that planted in 1926, according to t.. department's report.

Oklahoma Acreage Cut

The total acreage in Texas in 1926 was 19,140,000 while in 1927 it is 17,035,000. The total acreage for the United States in 1927 is 42,683,000. In 1926 it was 48,730,000 acres.

The Oklahoma acreage in 1927 is 4,168,000, according to report. In 1926 it was 5,063,000 acres. The Louisiana decrease is from 2,019,000 acres to 1,656,000 acres. The Arkansas cut in acreage is small, from 3,867,000 to 3,787,000 acres.

Cotton stands are reported as 85 per cent of perfect in Texas, according to the report. The stand in 1926 was 88 per cent. Boll weevils have appeared in increased numbers considerably earlier than usual this year. In some localities as high as 50 per cent total infestation is existing.

Northwest Area

In respect to the northwestern states of Texas, the report sets out that lack of moisture discouraged planting until after the heavy rains of June 12-13.

"Experience has shown," the report sets out, "that cotton planted in the northwestern states of Texas as late as June 20 can make a fair yield of open cotton providing the frosts do not come too early."

State Asked to Pay Three-Fourths of Cost of Approach to Free Bridge

18 ACCUSED IN MOCK TRIAL

But Dave Paul Is Convicted At Kiwanis Club

Following the reading of a court docket which charged 18 Kiwanians with various business, social and political misdemeanors, Dave Paul, local jeweler, was brought to trial for representing himself to the club and to the public as "Your Jeweler" at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon Monday. Mr. Paul was indicted, forced to trial, found guilty and required to give Wiley Brown a wedding ring as punishment in the mock proceedings, with Judge J. W. Akin at the bench.

Many Accused.

To the tune of "Oh Yes, Oh Yes, Kiwanis court is now in session," the court was called to order and the docket read. Charges were preferred against Jim Baber, Julian Bobo, Jim Gant, Paul Colvert, J. L. Jackson, Saul Lebenson, Walter Nelson, Jake Price, Wiley Brown, Howard Rentro, Frank Queisser, Joe Sherrill, Bill Smith, Jim Williams and Dave Paul, with all found guilty in cases to be continued except Mr. Paul.

With many a truly "wise crack" and judicial pun, Walter Cowell, prosecutor, and Jouette M. Bonner, attorney for the defense, parried back and forth with members of the jury for ammunition. Those more persecuted than the defendant were: Julian Bobo, Dr. W. C. Wilson, Homer Sanderford, George Winburn, Roy Grimes and Norman Downing.

Witnesses for the state were Robert McCulloch, Hank Wolf, Frank Quiesser, while the defendand himself and Dr. O. L. Castner were the only spokesmen for the defense. Dr. Castner stated that Mr. Paul was afflicted with a new type of mental disorder known as "mania advertisitis," causing him to falsely represent himself as "Your Jeweler."

Paul Pearson and Fritz Hurley arranged the amusing program were voted the thanks of the club for preparing the "official documents, etc."

William Tracey sang several Parody selections at the luncheon, accompanied by Arthur Winther on the piano. Anderson Kemp won the attendance prize.

The following committe was appointed to make arrangements for the Wichita Falls delegation attending the Corpus Christi district convention in September: chairman, Dr. O. L. Castner; Frank Queiser, Hank Wolff, Homer Sanderford and W. A. Little. Several Kiwanians will attend, it was stated.

In an effort to have the state pay three-quarters of the cost of the approach in Wichita county to the new Red river bridge, J. M. Isbell, county engineer, was instructed Monday by the county commissioners court to go to Austin and confer with the state highway commission.

Mr. Isbell will also confer with the members of the commission relative to preparing estimates on the cost of the approach.

Bids presented by the Northern Texas Utilities company and the Municipal Gas company for the supplying of gas for fuel purposes to the courthouse, county farm and county jail were rejected by the court. The commissioners announced that the bids were too high and instructed E. P. Walsh, county auditor, to re-advertise for bids to be presented Aug. 1.

Mr. Walsh was instructed to advertise for bids for the supplying of 1000 bushels of oats to precinct No. 3. The bids will be received Aug. 1.

The court authorized the payment of $9,811.81 to the Austin Bridge company for work completed on the Red river bridge.

CONTRACT LET FOR HATCHERY

Work to Start Soon On Project Here

Award of a contract for the construction of a state fish hatchery at the Diversion lake dam was announced Monday by Will J. Tucker, game, fish and oyster commissioner, in Austin, according to an Associated Press dispatch received by the Record News.

While a recent visitor in Wichita Falls, Mr. Tucker said that the state would endeavor to make the hatchery one of the most complete in the United States.

The contract for the construction of the hatchery was awarded to I. C. Little. The cost will be $8940, however, it is anticipated that before the project is completed the cost will be approximately $20,000.

The Diversion lake hatchery will be the fifth established in the state during the past two years.

Due to the fact that Lake Kemp and Lake Wichita are near Diversion lake, the distribution of fish from the hatchery will be facilitated, Mr. Tucker said while in Wichita Falls.
