House Committee Approves Emergency Farm Relief Plan

PROPOSED BOOST FARM INCOME ORDERED REPORTED TO HOUSE SLIM HOPE FOR PASSAGE BILL

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—An emergency farm relief plan designed to boost agriculture's income for one year was approved today by the house agriculture committee.

It was sponsored by Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, and was ordered reported to the house by an 11 to 10 committee vote that split party lines.

Despite its authorship by the majority leader, the close committee vote was interpreted as holding little hope for further advancement in the house this session.

A rule first would have to be obtained for its consideration. For two weeks the powerful rules committee has declined to act on two other relief bills approved earlier this session by the same agriculture committee.

Purpose of Bill

The Rainey bill, prepared by farm organization leaders, is intended to give farmers the world price plus the tariff on that portion of their produce consumed domestically.

Originally intended to apply only to wheat, cotton and grain it was amended by the committee to include all other staple farm commodities including corn, tobacco, livestock and dairy products.

The bill directs the secretary of agriculture to determine the percentage of production of a commodity that will be used for domestic consumption. The secretary then would issue adjustment certificates to the farmer to the amount of his share of the domestic consumption.

These certificates would equal the tariff protection on that commodity less administrative costs and would be redeemable in money.

FRENCH CABINET HOLDS FIRM FOR OWN ARMS PLAN

JAPS CONCLUDE PLAN NOT ACCEPTABLE TO TOKYO

Herriott Says Portions of Program Directed at France

PARIS, June 25. (US)—The French cabinet today held firm for international control of world armaments against President Hoover's proposals for a one-third slash in armaments, while Japanese delegates at the Geneva disarmament conference reached a conclusion that the Hoover plan would not be acceptable to Tokyo.

At the same time, Premier Edouard Herriott declared that the Lausanne reparations conference appeared to be making headway in the solution of European economic problems, principally through satisfactory discussions now being held by French and German representatives.

The cabinet, over which President Lebrun presided, approved the French stands at Geneva and Lausanne but issued a communique stating the delegates at both conferences are still without definite results on disarmament and war payments.

Premier Herriot, in an interview after the meeting, said:

"When I arrived at Geneva last Tuesday, the disarmament confer-

MAN HELD IN DENVER NOT WANTED IN CASE KANSAS BANK ROBBERY

FORT SCOTT, Kan., June 25. (AP)—Officers said today that Charles Jackson Trease, held in Denver, Colo., for investigation in connection with the robbery of the Citizens National bank here of $32,000, was not involved in the holdup.

Bank officials and clerks failed to identify photographs of Trease as those of one of the five robbers. Three men are under arrest here, having been identified by witnesses of the holdup.

Officers said Trease confessed he robbed Dan Lewis, Eagle Rock, Mo., farmer of $7,000.

EARTHQUAKE AWAKES RESIDENTS MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, June 24. (AP)—An earthquake strong enough to awake residents shook Mexico City at 3:34 a. m. today. The epicenter of the quake, which lasted but a short while, was within the city limits.

PUTS ONE OVER BISHOP CANNON

CHICAGO, June 25.—Framed! I'll smash it, shouted Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Virginia, today when photographers snapped a picture of him being handed a bottle of bay rum by one of the Democratic delegates.

The bottle was passed to the Bishop unexpectedly by Judge Lucius I. M. Malmin, of the Virgin islands, while Cannon was waiting to testify before the resolutions committee.

Cannon, an ardent dry, thought the camermen put over a fast one on him but he failed to carry out his threat to break the cameras.

Poll Indicates Two-Thirds Rule To Be Retained

CHICAGO, June 25. (US)—With the vote of nine delegations in doubt, an unofficial poll tonight of the state delegations favored retention of the two-thirds rule for the Democratic convention rather than the switch to majority rule being sought by Governor Roosevelt's forces.

DECIDE TO ASK LOW RATES FOR HUNTER RALLY

Many Requests From Supporters in This Section Are Received

PREDICT LOCAL MAN TO LEAD IN FIRST PRIMARY

Plan to Make Homecoming July 8 Biggest Rally Ever in Texas

To consider inquiries from throughout the district regarding reduced rates to the Hunter-for-Governor rally in Wichita Falls July 8, the local committee met at headquarters in the Radio building Saturday and decided to ask railroad lines operating throughout the Wichita Falls area to offer low train rates.

After considering a quantity of mail, committee members took new hope as many Hunter supporters as far south as Del Rio and as far east as Texarkana indicate that there is little question but that the Wichita Falls candidate will lead the ticket on the first primary.

According to J. B. Marlow, committee chairman, as far as West Texas is concerned there is a great advantage due to the fact that Mr. Hunter is the only man in the race west of Fort Worth.

"Some of the politicians who are not supporting Tom Hunter agree that he is going to be a big factor in the first primary," Mr. Marlow declared. "They realize that he would defeat either 'Ma' or Governor Sterling in the run-off and because of that reason they are afraid."

Many letters from voters who have read his platform indicate that he is the one to take over the reins of the state government. The fact that many will not support either of the other two leading candidates will give Mr. Hunter a great campaign advantage. Many persons indicate that they are looking forward to the July 8 rally when they will have the opportunity to hear him speak at the Memorial auditorium.

Mr. Marlow stated that several out-of-town bands have indicated a desire to be on hand to "help us make Mr. Hunter's homecoming the biggest political rally ever staged in Texas."

MINISTER OF PORTUGAL AND HIS CABINET RESIGNS

LISBON, June 25. (INS)—The government headed by Prime Minister Domingoes d'Oliveira today tendered its collective resignation to President Antonio O. F.Carmona, who accepted it.

The president asked d'Oliveira and his cabinet to remain in office until the budget is approved and a new cabinet appointed.

A meeting of the consultative council was called for Monday to consider the crisis. It was expected Dr. Oliveira Salazar, minister of finance in the resigned government, would assume the premiership.

The d'Oliveira government was formed in January, 1930.

Tentative Platform Planks Submitted by Majority Committee

(Copy't, 1932, by The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—The tentative prohibition plank submitted to the Democratic platform committee tonight by a majority group provides:

"We favor immediate submission to state conventions of an amendment repealing the 18th amendment submitted to the people in such a manner as to assure a choice between the present system and the return to the states of the power and responsibilities to prohibit liquors by such means as will promote temperance, prevent the return of the saloon and sale to minors, and protect the dry states in the enforcement of their laws and permit the taxing of liquor by federal or state governments."

The tentative tariff plank favors:

"A competitive tariff for revenue purposes based on a consideration of all factors influencing trade between nations, with a fact finding commission free from executive interference; reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations; enforcement of the anti-dumping law; and a permanent international economic conference designed to encourage international trade and to facilitate the exchange of goods."

Other planks to be included in the platform call for encouragement of unemployment insurance and old age pensions under state supervision; reduction of the hours of labor; refinancing of agriculture mortgages; enforcement of the anti-trust laws; an international monetary conference for the aid of silver; and the protection of investors in foreign bonds by regulated publicity of all details of the transactions.

FIVE OF FAMILY HURT WHEN TRUCK STRIKES WAGON NEAR WAURIKA

PRUSSIAN DIET VOTES CONFISCATE PROPERTY OF ALL EASTERN JEWS

BERLIN, June 25. (US)—Communists and Fascists in the Prussian diet today united in a war on Jewry by voting a resolution asking the national government to confiscate all property of "eastern Jews" who have come to Germany since the war.

The resolution states the Jews acquired their health "immorally" and have become a "non-productive class."

The reds and Fascists also demanded the income tax for Jews be increased to 25 per cent up to $5,000, 45 per cent up to $9,000 and 80 per cent above $9,000. Hitlerite deputy Perperkorn shouted in the diet:

"The German soul is being incited to revolution by Jews. We must tear the rags from the soul of Germany, and then in a new state of authority and obedience, we will care for our bodily needs."

WAURIKA, Okla., June 25.—Five persons are in a Waurika hospital Saturday night suffering from injuries sustained when a large wagon in which they were riding on the highway, three miles east of Waurika. All five are members of the W. T. Skinner family. Mrs. Skinner and her daughter, Marjorie are the most seriously injured. Marjorie is suffering from a severe fracture of the skull and attending physicians fear that her injuries will prove fatal. Other members of the family, Mrs. Skinner and three other children, sustained severe bruises and fractures of the ribs and will be confined to the hospital for several days. Mr. Skinner escaped unhurt.

A. R. Sweat, driver of a Burdett Oxygen company truck of Oklahoma City is being held in the county jail for investigation. No charges have been filed.

Sweat told officers he was attempting to pass the wagon in which the family was riding when the rear of the truck struck the wagon.

Texas Group Decides To Oppose Abolition Of Two-thirds Rule

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Maury Hughes, Dallas attorney, was unanimously chosen the Texas representative on the important resolutions committee of the Democratic national convention in a caucus of the delegation which lasted until after midnight.

Hughes' selection was made unanimously only after a very bitter fight in which the delegation split on the wet and dry issue, the wets as represented by Hughes and the drys by Judge Grover Sellers, Texarkana.

The delegates voted to abide by instructions of the recent state convention at Houston which decided upon recommending resubmission of the prohibition issue.

After midnight the declaration also voted its opposition to abolition of the two-thirds rule for nominations by the convention and also voted its support for Jouett Shouse as chairman of the convention.

In the interest of harmony and full-strength Garner support Charles I. Francis, Wichita Falls pleaded delegates to withdraw the names of Hughes and Judge Sellers and concentrate on Judge Robert E. Huff, Wichita Falls.

Carl Estes, Tyler publisher, who had nominated Judge Sellers, immediately withdrew his man's name and challenged the Hughes men to withdraw their man, a proposal which was howled down.

The ballot on Hughes and Huff had started when Judge Huff de-

CONGRESS TO IGNORE WISHES OF PRESIDENT

Shoot Hot Retorts to Executive Charge of 'Pork Barrel'

RELIEF BILL DEFENDED BY SPEAKER GARNER

Senator Wagner Replies to Criticism of President Hoover

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—The possibility of revising the huge $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill to meet President Hoover's wishes almost vanished today as its sponsors shot back hot retorts to the chief executive's charge of "pork barrel" legislation.

The bill was vigorously defended by Speaker Garner of the house and Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, as the house and senate conferees began negotiations which President Hoover hopes will result in a re-written measure.

Wagner rose in the senate to reply to the president and advised the public to reject the criticism of "one who has throughout the depression been wrong, late and futile."

Garner Makes Comparison

Speaker Garner, at his daily conference with newspaper men said:

"We loan the shipping interests many millions of dollars at a very low rate of interest and it's all right. When we try to do something for all the people its 'pork barrel.' To serve special interests is statesmanship; to serve the people is pork."

The conferees, facing the tremendous task of ironing out differences between the Garner house bill and the Wagner senate measure made little progress and agreed to resume their work Monday.

Chairman Norbeck of the senate group, however, said it would be virtually impossible to write the bill as the president has asked.

To do this, he added, "would be very much resented by the authors of the bill" and "would be difficult to the point of impossible."

Meanwhile, plans for the adjournment of congress next week hung largely on the outcome of the relief controversy.

The senate worked on the remaining appropriation bills which must be approved by June 30 while the house, with nothing to do, was in adjournment over the week-end.

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Next station stop Chicago.

We're back on the rattler with a trainload of politicians and we'll get to Chicago if the cracked ice holds out.

All the Democrats on the train are condemning the Republican system of forcing postmaster delegates into line by threats of dismissal.

The Democrats might do the same thing themselves. But they ain't got the postmasters.

So far as we can see by the waistline and the oratory there ain't much difference between a Democrat and a Republican politician. Every one of 'em wants to go to Washington and play see-saw on the unbalanceable budget.

The reason why we have but one party in power at a time is simple. We don't want two cuckoos in the same clock.

By this week next time we should know whether the Democrats can agree or whether they are still Democrats.

There won't be any of that first ballot business like the Republicans pull. The Democrats are like a bird tugging at a worm. They like everything drawn out to the limit.

RESIDENTS ABERNATHY IN LINE BEHIND BANNER DEMANDING CASH BONUS

ABERNATHY, June 25. (AP)—Between 800 and 1,000 residents of Abernathy and its trade territory this afternoon marched behind a large banner reading "if you are for the bonus, fall in line."

Customers left the stores and the merchants followed them. The parade began after Fritz Struve, former Abernathy mayor, urged a demonstration for the bonus payment, during a trades day program.

A large American flag and the sign headed the marchers. Between 15 and 20 automobiles carrying tourists stopped, and the occupants of the cars joined the demonstration, which began almost spontaneously. Pictures of the crowd were taken and will be sent to congress and to the Democratic convention.

FAVORITE SON ILLINOIS OUT TO MUDDY POLITICAL WATERS BATTLE GAINS IN INTENSITY.

CHICAGO, June 25. (US)—The ranks of the anti-Roosevelt "allies" broke today, Senator James Hamilton Lewis withdrew his presidential candidacy as the favorite son of Illinois. The state's 58 votes are expected to split four ways—first to Melvin A. Traylor of Illinois, then to Roosevelt, Smith and Ritchie. At the same time the two-thirds rule battle gained in intensity.

Governor Roosevelt assumed personal direction of the fight to abrogate the two-thirds rule. He will not back down. He will seek nomination on a majority vote of the convention.

"We've canvassed the state and we've got the votes," said James A. Farley, Roosevelt generalissimo.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, killed rumors that in the interest of party harmony he would withdraw from the fight for the permanent chairmanship with Jouett Shouse. Reports had it he would declare Sunday that while he was sure of election he would step aside. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, his manager and colleague, denied the report unequivocally.

Bishop Cannon Boos

Bishop James Cannon Jr., who organized the South for Herbert Hoover, was booed and jeered in the resolutions committee when he threatened to bolt the Democratic party again this year. The veteran ecclesiastic demanded a "dry" party amid shouts of "traitor" and "your broker is calling."

Governor Smith and others of the "battalion of death" among the anti-Roosevelt allies refused again to pledge themselves to support the nominee of next week's convention should Roosevelt be the choice.

Adoption of the majority rule instead of the traditional two-thirds rule showed safe on a Roosevelt poll by 110 votes; adherence to the two-thirds rule by a majority of 60 votes appeared on an anti-Roosevelt poll.

From his retreat in Mississippi, the veteran John Sharp Williams pleaded that Dixie delegates not to surrender the two-thirds rule "for a century the South's defense." Woodrow Wilson was quoted as terming such a proposal "selfish opportunism."

"We've got the votes to beat it," Al Smith said of the rules change. "We wouldn't have started this

Senator Harrison of Mississippi Opposes Change Two-Thirds Rule Unless an Emergency Develops

By SENATOR PAT HARRISON
Of Mississippi
(Distributed by Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 25.—Since the primaries were conducted and the conventions held for the selection of delegates with the understanding in most, if not all instances, that the two-thirds rule of past Democratic conventions would prevail, the two-thirds should not be abrogated this time except in a proved emergency.

I feel confident unless a change in sentiment should occur and intense bitterness arise that Governor Roosevelt will be nominated early in the balloting.

If it should become clear that a minority intends to deadlock the convention and prevent it from expressing its will then the convention might be justified in following some action that will prevent a repetition of what happened at Madison Square garden in 1924.

In order to prevent that the committee on rule in its report might, as a last resort, provide that if a two-thirds choice has not been made by the time a certain number of ballots have been taken, ten for example, the convention shall have the right by majority vote to choose its candidate for president.

Senate Slashes Appropriation for Federal Farm Board and Reduces Salaries Members to $10,000 Each

WASHINGTON, June 25. (US)—The senate today put its economy guillotine on the federal farm board, slashing the administration appropriation of that body from $1,900,000 this year to $600,000 or less for the coming one. Farm board friends said the organization would be "wrecked" by such a cut.

The action came as the result of a committee amendment on the independent offices appropriation bill, striking out the house item of $1,000,000 for the board, and substituting a provision that the board might use any of its unexpended funds, already appropriated, for contingent expenses.

When this reached the floor, however, it was even more drastically cut, as Senator Byrnes, Democrat of South Carolina, introduced a further amendment, providing that even these funds should not exceed $600,000. The latter provision was passed without a record vote.

At the same time, the salaries of members of the farm board were reduced to $10,000 each, and a provision inserted that no other employee, except the chief counsel, shall receive more than $8,500.

Appropriations for the federal power commission, which the house put at $289,270, were reduced to $254,000, and the $500,000 appropriation for the George Rogers Clark sesquicentennial commission was cut in half.

TRAYLOR STEMS INCIPIENT RUN ON TWO BANKS

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Melvin A. Traylor, considered by many Democratic presidential timber, stemmed an incipient run on his $25,000,000 First National bank and $10,000,000 First Union Trust and Savings bank today by appearing on the banking floors and pleading for faith.

Traylor, who is president of both banks—among the three largest in the city—declared a well-planned plot for a demonstration against the banks had been laid by "enemies" and said the banks had taken steps to put themselves in a more liquid condition than ever before.

Both banking floors were crowded with customers, a large number of whom apparently intended withdrawing accounts because of fear engendered by recent closings, four closings today. One in the loop, brought to 39 the number of banks here that have shut down this month.

Referred to the alleged plot, Traylor said:

"This was promoted by those who are not your friends or our friends. Fortunately, we are in the best position in our history. Please tell your neighbors that we will be open Monday morning and every morning at 9 o'clock.

The crowds quickly thinned after he had spoken and within an hour, bank attaches said, normalcy had been restored.

FAVORITE SON OUT OF CHICAGO FIGHT

fight unless we were certain where we stood," Farley retorted.

Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, of Oklahoma, and Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, had a battle of words over the two-thirds rule in a hotel room. "Break the two-thirds rule and I'll start a new party," Murray shouted. An Oklahoma band dinned its way through hotel lobbies all afternoon behind "Give the government back to the people," banners.

Delegates arriving in droves began speaking their own sentiments instead of being marked down on chart sheets by various factional leaders as favoring this or that side of the several controversies.

New York's delegation of 94 remained an enigma, the center of the most fertile crop of rumors in the convention. The Empire state delegates will caucus Sunday. One guess was as good as another as to how they would divide on candidacies and issues. Illinois and Pennsylvania now are subject to virtually unrestricted pulling and hauling by rival factions.

Daniels for Change

CHICAGO, June 25.—Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, tonight made clear his stand in favor of abrogating the two-thirds rule in the Democratic convention for rule of the majority.

He said:

"I am in favor of this convention, a new body fresh from the people, standing for a rule that in all things the majority shall rule. I am in favor of this both from principle and policy."

Will Propose Traylor

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Melvin Traylor, the Chicago banker, will be placed in nomination at the outset of the roll call of the states.

This was decided upon tonight by Frank Schofield, the Texas rancher, and manager of the Traylor campaign, after the Illinois delegation was released by Senator James Hamilton Lewis, its favorite son candidate. The delegate has not as yet been selected for the task.

This step was decided upon after Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago indicated Traylor would get the bulk of the Cook county delegates. The Texas rancher originally had planned to await a hoped for deadlock before placing Traylor's name in nomination.

Rule of the Princes Ends in Siam as King Accedes to Demands

St. Clair McKelway, Universal Service correspondent in Bangkok, former Philadelphia and Brooklyn, N. Y., newspaper man and now editor of an English-language newspaper in the Siamese capital, made history yesterday (Saturday).

McKelway put through the first telephone call ever made from Bangkok to London to report the details of the revolt against the absolute monarchy of King Prajadipok of Siam. He was the only westerner present when news was received that the king submitted to the demands of the rebel leaders.

McKelway, with censors at his side, talked with William Hillman, Universal Service London bureau manager, for 20 minutes, and after the telephone talks was concluded, supplemented his report with cable dispatches.

By ST. CLAIR M'KELWAY
(World Copyright 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

BANGKOK, Siam, June 25.—The "rule of the princes" was ended today in Siam, and King Prajadhipok deposed as absolute ruler, took orders willingly for the sake of his worshipful people from Bola Ay Aoho, military leader of the rebellion which upset the 150-year-old Chakri dynasty.

King Prajadhipok, Queen Rambai Barni and members of their royal suite were enjoying a holiday at Huanhin, a seaside resort, when soldiers, sailors and armed civilians marched on the royal palace in Bangkok yesterday, forced the council of ministers to resign and took up the reins of government.

One of Siam's six gunboats was dispatched to Huanhin to inform the monarch that absolutism as represented by the siamese princes had been overthrown, and that he would be retained as king if he acceded to the wishes of Bola Ay Aoho and the people's party, which co-operated with the army and navy in the almost bloodless coup.

King Prajadhipok replied by "radio direct to the provisional government, which had set itself up in the throne hall, that he was willing to recognize the rights of the people, and that he would hasten back to Bangkok to consult with Bola Ay Aoho and other leaders.

Return by Train

The king and queen made immediate arrangements to return to the capital by special train, since the gunboat was not equipped to transport royalty. The time of the king's arrival in Bangkok is being kept secret by the provisional government, which has instituted martial law.

In a second radio to the provisional government, the king stated he not only accepted the wishes of the people's party, but had had for a long time considered the possibility of instituting a limited monarchy.

He said that he had found heretofore that because of the preponderence of princes in public office his hopes had been fruitless, but that now he is returning to the capital with high hopes for his country's future prosperity and peace under continued government by the people's party.

I was the only westerner present when the momentous news of King Prajadhipok's acceptance of the ultimatum of the people's party was announced, a spectacular climax to the orderly rebellion in this picturesque country on the fringe of the civilized world.

The whole coup d'etat was accomplished without any damage to property and only two people were killed for trying to resist the authority of the provisional government. Two army officers were shot and wounded, but are expected to recover.

Friends Garner In Chicago With Hats and Mule

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—If Ed Hickey of San Antonio, Texas, ever tosses his hat in the Democratic ring it'll cover up all the others.

He has a 30-gallon hat—with a two-foot brim-spread—which 4.3 2 members of the house of representatives signed for Speaker Garner.

Arrive With Mule

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Two Texans from John N. Garner's Rio Grande country arrived in Chicago today with a mule they rode across the county.

Both were dressed in cowpunchers' clothes and wore sombreros. They alternated riding the mule.

Across the mule's back was a sign "Port sabel, Texas, to Chicago for John Nance Garner."

Gordon Fetter explained he and his companion, Orville H. Shuetz, had "tried signs of other candidates but the mule balked. She gained 30 pounds with that Garner sign on her."

TEXAS DELEGATION REACHES CHICAGO

Upon motion of W. K. Hopkins, Gonzales, Hughes' election then was made unanimous.

Delegation in Chicago

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—The Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention arrived late today and immediately instilled into the gathering the outward pep missing while the candidates, managers, leaders, et cetera, had been putting the punch into the gathering behind closed doors.

Some 300 Texans piled off a special train, climbed into waiting buses and went to Michigan avenue and eighth street to form their parade. In columns of four they marched up Michigan avenue, one of the world's greatest arteries, while the usual hurry and rush of traffic was shunted to side streets. They turned west into Randolph street and proceeded to the Hotel Sherman for an important caucus, their first official meeting.

Texans already here were dismayed when the "Old Gray Mare" band from Brownwood alighted from the train clad in natty, new blue uniforms, instead of their widely known habiliments of the cowland. The only mark to distinguish the musicians from any other band was the word "Texas" woven into their cap bands.

Missing also was the fabulous old gray mare, although it had been tipped about that a substitute had been optioned here.

William Gibbs McAdoo of California met the Texans and walked out of the station with Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, who carried a Lone Star flag.

There must have been a close agreement between the Texans and the Californians since the far westerners fell into line with the Texans and the standards they carried this morning were found quite suitable for a second tour of duty.

Display Garner Banners

"Garner for Jobs," "Repeal," "Against Debt Cancellations," and "Labor Is for Garner," some of them read.

Each Texan carried a state flag and the California bear flag also was raised aloft.

Chicago's official greeter, with his white car, was at the station to meet the Texans, as were Jed Adams and Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, the national committmen already here for the week's preliminary work.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—The first big battle of the Democratic convention has been fought and settled—the national committee agreed tonight to pay for the lights to be used by the moving picture industry in convention hall.

For four days the moving picture people and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, have wrangled over who would pay the $4,800 cost of powerful lights to flood the convention stage.

One ultimatum after another issued by each side with a threat by the movie people that no pictures of the convention would be shown. Last night the national committee met and argued it out and the movies won. The $4,800 will be paid by the national committee, the lights will be turned on and the show will be pictured.

Mad at Jimmy Walker

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, picturesque New York delegate, who came to the confab in a wheelchair, is miffed at Jimmie Walker. It's not that somebody suggested she might vote with Tammany—she won't say whom she's for—it's not about politics at all.

"I'm not saying how I'm voting," she said, "but I'll tell you I'm mad at Jimmie Walker. He came to town and got himself a parade and got in my way—and I had to sit there in the sun and let them go by!"

Wife Has Different View

A feminist went to talk to William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, the Oklahoma strong-coffee contender, about an equal-rights plank. The moment it was mentioned, he returned: "Why, my wife's right now trying to get me to support repeal of suffrage!"

Long Gets Wires Crossed

"John J. Raskob, chairman.

"Jouett Shouse, working chairman."

This salutation on a letter from Senator Huey Long to the Democratic national committee drew the ire of Raskob, who told the committee last night that Long was a new member of the committee and he was sure was not familiar with its operations.

Raskob made it plain he was the "working chairman" and Shouse was chairman of the executive committee.

WOMAN NEAR ABILENE DIES FROM SNAKE BITE

ABILENE, Texas, June 24. (AP)—Bitten on the leg by a large rattlesnake while gathering beans in her garden at Elmdale, near here, early Friday, Mrs. E. P. Hicks, 49, died late today. Four serum injections were unavailing. Doctors said the venom led to heart involvement.

When struck by the reptile, which had 10 or 12 rattles, Mrs. Hicks tore her bonnet into strips and bound her leg above the wound before going to the house. Her husband and six children survive.

FORMAL OPENING CHILDRESS-PAMPA LINE SET JULY 15

CHILDRESS, Texas, June 25. (AP)—Plans were announced today for the formal opening July 15 of the new Childress-Pampa line of the Fort Worth & Denver Northern railway.

A special train will be run from Chicago headquarters of the Burlington system, passing through Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls and carrying officials of the system.

Passengers will have breakfast here and remain two hours. The train will reach Pampa about noon, making all stops.

The Interstate Commerce commission today granted the new line a permit for intrastate traffic. An interstate permit is expected to be granted July 5. The first consignment for shipping was made today.

Letter Tells of Hunter Support In South Texas

Otto Stehlik of this city is in receipt of a letter from a prominent resident of Conroe indicating the reception given the candidacy of Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls for the Democratic nomination for governor. He writes:

"I have just returned from the Rio Grande valley, where I have many friends and acquaintances, and am more thoroughly convinced than ever that after the governor's election, many of the wiseacres are in for one big surprise. Tom Hunter is all that I have heard discussed during this trip, especially from Schulenberg on south.

"If there is anything I can do that I am not already doing for you, just let me know and it will be done."

Between 20,000 to 25,000 volumes are added to Oxford's famous library, the Bodleian, every year.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR MRS. FISHER ELECTRA SUNDAY

ELECTRA, Texas, June 25.—Final tribute to Mrs. Willie Mae Fisher, 41, will be paid at funeral rites Sunday at 3 p. m. at the First Methodist church. Rev. Clark H. Russell, the pastor, will officiate with Totten Brothers in charge. Mrs. Fisher died early Saturday at a local hospital following a lingering illness. Active pallbearers will be W. M. Austin, J. M. Henry, W. D. Cross, S. B. Marchant, H. D. Miller, and John Houser. Honorary pallbearers and escorts of honor will be members of the Eastern Star with whom she was affiliated, Artcele Delphian chapter, fire department as Mr. Fisher, Electra city commissioner, is an honorary member, city officials, and representatives of other civic organizations.

Mrs. Fisher was a member of a pioneer Texas family. She was born in 1891 in Goliad county and moved to this section with her parents in 1907. Her father was a prominent rancher near Electra years ago. He owns property southeast of Electra on which the Ryan Petroleum company has more than 100 wells. Mrs. Fisher actively participated in religious, civic and social affairs. She was a past president of the Artcele chapter, the Methodist Missionary society, took part in P.-T. A. work and was a member of the county and district Federation of Women's Clubs.

Survivors in addition to her husband, A. Fisher, who is superintendent of the Patterson Oil company interests, are two daughters, Maxine and Ruth Marie, one son, David; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Nance Sr., of Brownsville; three sisters, Mesdames W. T. Oliver, Electra; Gladys Hager, and Mrs. Sam Beeker, Ada, Okla.; three brothers, George Nance Jr., Canyon; Bennett and Al Nance, Rock Springs.

A pinch of salt placed in the water will preserve the freshness of flowers for a longer length of time than their natural life.

Question of Control by Powerful Interests Is Issue in Campaign Allred Tells Crowd at McKinney

M'KINNEY, Texas, June 25.—Control by the powerful interests is the issue in the present political campaign, Attorney General James V. Allred declared in an address here Saturday night. Mr. Allred pointed to his record as a public official and said he would not engage in personalities during his campaign. His address follows in part:

More than 40 years ago Gov. Jim Hogg declared in his campaign for re-election that the issue then was whether certain powerful interests of the state should control. Today the same issue is presented to the people of Texas. The fight is on. The issue is unmistakably presented. Its disguise by either side would be reprehensible.

The people of Texas base their judgment of a faithful public officer on his record rather than upon the mouthings and the whispering of those who believe themselves above the law.

It would have been easier for me to take the course of least resistance and play politics rather than to antagonize the powerful.

Those interests now seek by distortion of the facts and by falsehoods to condemn me for an act for which I believe the people of Texas will commend me now that the facts are known. Here they are:

Taxes Unequal

"When I became attorney general, complaint was made to me that the Texas Gulf Sulphur company which owned the greatest sulphur fields in all the world in Wharton county, Texas, was not paying its just share of taxes to the state. Upon request, I investigated and found that they were paying taxes upon a $13,600,000 valuation in Wharton county. Yet a smaller company in an adjoining county with not one-tenth of the property which the Texas Gulf Sulphur company owned in Wharton county was paying upon a basis of $18,000,000. Think of it. One company in one county paying upon a valuation of $18,000,000 and another in an adjoining county with 10 times as much property paying upon a basis of a measley $13,000,000.

Upon the evidence presented to me I discovered that if this great sulphur company could be forced to pay taxes upon the same percentage of value as the small home owner or the farmer in Texas pays, they would be paying taxes upon at least $50,000,000 valuation.

I wrote the county judge of that county setting up these facts and asking for the opportunity to present evidence in support of these statements. He wrote me and promised a hearing for the state. A few days after this a lobbyist for the sulphur company called on me and tried to get me to drop the matter by their accepting a raise of $3,000,000 in valuation. This I refused to do stating that it was a matter for the commissioners court to decide after hearing the evidence.

Offer Compromise

A few days later one of the commissioners wrote me that the valuation of the properties of this sulphur company had been taken up out of order over his protest and a compromise had been made whereby they merely raised their assessment three million dollars."

The Bradley bill was then introduced. It provided in substance that in those counties in Texas where taxes had been remitted—as in Wharton county—the attorney general might have the right to examine the valuation placed upon such properties and should have the further right to present a petition to the commissioners court setting up that the taxpayer had not rendered its property at the proper value and that the commissioners court should then set a date for a hearing at which time both sides should have an opportunity to present evidence; and that upon that evidence the commissioners court should base its judgment.

That bill passed the house of representatives by an overwhelming majority. I regret to say that it was afterwards defeated in the senate.

I was summoned by the committee to testify and relate my experiences in my efforts to equalize taxes and in that connection to thereby reduce the taxes imposed upon the small home owner and the farmer of this state and to place them upon the backs of those who were able to and should pay them.

Battle On

If there is anything wrong with my attempt to do this—those who are opposing me may make the most of it. This great sulphur company has made a net profit of from 13 to 15 million dollars during each of the past three years—and that upon an original investment of only 10 million dollars. I now find that I was very modest in suggesting that they should be taxed upon a basis of 50 million dollars valuation. I challenge any who have criticized my actions in this regard to tell people of Texas what valuation the Texas Gulf Sulphur company placed upon their properties for income tax purposes and then to compare that figure with the little 15 million dollar valuation at which they are now rendering their properties in Wharton county for state purposes.

Believe me, if they paid on just 10 per cent of the value of those properties, they would be paying on at least 30 million dollars with a resultant saving to the small taxpayer who is compelled to pay upon an entirely different basis of valuation.

Politicians have long talked about equalizing the tax burdens and about taking it off of the backs of the poor and placing it upon the shoulders of those who are able to pay. Nothing has been done. But I believe the people of Texas will appreciate my humble efforts to relieve their tax burdens even though I have thereby incurred the wrath of this great sulphur company.

I expect to continue my efforts in this direction and it may be of interest to the people of Texas to know that I recently collected $41,000 from this very company on taxes for the year of 1923. They admitted they owed this money when I called upon them for it but insisted it was the result of a "slight mistake" on their part.

BROKEN BOW, Neb., (UP)—Beggars in these parts have reduced their requests to "a two-cent stamp to write a letter home." Residents discovered they would willingly accept a nickel or dime.

Absentee Voting Starts July 5 and Closes July 20 for First Primary; Requirements Simplified This Year

Absentee votes for the July primary may be cast from July 5 to July 20, inclusive this year, according to instructions received by Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk.

Also absentee voting will be much simpler this year than ever before.

The law specifies that absentee ballots may be cast not more than 20 nor less than three days before the election. This would make July 3 the first day, as the election is on July 23. July 3 falls on Sunday, however, and July 4 is a holiday so Tuesday, July 5, will be the first on which absentee ballots can be cast.

There are two methods of casting such a vote. A person who is going to be out of town on election day can come to the county clerk's office any day between July 5 and July 20 and receive a ballot, mark it and turn it in there.

Or any qualified voter can write in from out of town or leave a request in person at the county clerk's office and a ballot will be mailed him. This year the voter can mark the ballot wherever he happens to be and mail it back to the county clerk without appearing before a notary, as was required in the past. The mailed ballot must be received by the county clerk before July 20.

RAIL TRANSPORTATION IS EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL

● THE RAILROAD is the most efficient and the most economical transportation agency the human mind has ever devised.

The ability of commercial trucks to operate with various charges for their services has been because they are not required to carry all kinds and classes of freight. The truck can choose its freight and is privileged to reject that which it cannot handle, either because it is not equipped for such heavy service or the rates are too low to be profitable. The railroad CANNOT DISCRIMINATE but must accept all freight offered it.

In 1930 the shippers of Texas paid the railroads $225,223,142 in freight charges. If the same volume and character of traffic had been carried by trucks it would have cost the shippers, according to the best available data on trucking costs, $900,000,000, or four times as much.

What will be the effect on the shippers of Texas if only the traffic which the trucks cannot handle is left to the railroads? If traffic paying the higher rate is taken from the railroads by the trucks, it will be necessary for the rail carriers to increase their rates on the low grade traffic or go out of business. The total transportation bill will be greatly increased.

The railroad rate structure is a composite designed for the purpose of enabling the free movement of ALL ARTICLES OF COMMERCE, making it possible to bring even the cheapest commodities into general use and distribution. Were it not for the low rates made available by the railroads on many low grade commodities and raw materials, their distribution and use would be impossible and all commerce and industry would be seriously affected.

● THE RAILROADS CANNOT SUBSIST ON LOW GRADE TRAFFIC ALONE.

SIX EVENTFUL DAYS THAT WILL OUT DO ALL OTHER VALUE-GIVING DAYS—BE HERE —SHARE THE VALUES

During Harvest Festival and National Buying Week the merchants of Wichita Falls are going to clear their stocks at the lowest possible prices, the result is that all merchants will offer new peaks in opportunity for money savings.

The Harvest Festival is a yearly event in Wichita Falls and this year it's being made doubly effective by combining National Buying Week with it. National Buying Week is a national affair, sponsored by the American Legion, with the objective of clearing the shelves of the local merchants. The nation-wide result, as forecast by the legion, will deplete present stocks to such a point that immediate demand will be created for new goods, which when ordered, will start factories, founderies, mills, farm activity and other sources producing. This in turn will result in the employment of millions.

The movement must put money back in circulation, make jobs plentiful, business brisk, and alter the mental attitude of the nation from the low ebb of current conditions to the pursuance of prosperity.

All the Wichita Falls merchants have carefully gone through their stocks and during this special week are going to offer remarkable savings on good seasonable merchandise. Mother can find just the right hat, Mary the latest sports wear, dad and the boys will delight in selecting their summer togs from the wide range of the Wichita Falls stores.

Reasonable prices, authoritative style standards, fresh merchandise, the advantage of many stores—these are the attractions of shopping in Wichita Falls.

BALLOT ARRANGED FOR DEMO PRIMARY IN HALL COUNTY

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 25.—The Hall county Democratic executive committee met this week in the district court room to determine by lot the order of names on the primary ballot and to estimate the costs of printing the ballots for the coming election and other expenses, and to apportion the amount among the candidates for the various offices. J. M. McKelvie, chairman, presided over the meeting, with the following members being present: R. A. Ewing, Estelline; T. J. Cope, Parnell; J. T. Dennis, Plaska; J. R. Miller, Turkey; Lee Wheeler, Hulver; J. T. Nelson, Eli, and Byron Baldwin, Memphis.

Judges for the 16 voting precincts of the county were appointed by the committee as follows: Sam J. Hamilton, Memphis; J. C. Downing, Newlin, J. S. Ballard, Eli; D. C. Hall, Leslie; R. A. Ewing, Estelline; Wade Davis, Baylor; T. J. Cope, Parnell; J. L. Vardy, Turkey; John W. Watson, Lakeview; W. H. Youngblood, Brice; A. Giddon, Plaska; J. A. Edwards, Hulver; M. J. Draper, Memphis; Joe Weatherly, Oxbow; W. B. Beavers, Deep Lake; Joe N. Colvin, Bridle Bitt.

Thirteen candidates for the district offices and 46 candidates for county and precinct offices filed their names with the committee before Saturday. A ticket committee was appointed to meet Monday, June 27, for the purpose of making up a ballot for the primary election.

Candidates have until June 25 to pay their ballot fees. The ballot fees of this year will be about the same as that of two years ago, the committee stated.

FRENCH CABINET FIRM FOR PLAN

ence was on the verge of expiring, having only agreed on points related to germ and gas warfare and incendiary bombardment.

Directed at France

"When I was informed the American government was submitting a program, I was worried over the kind of procedure that would be inaugurated. Now, I have read the Hoover message twice and with the greatest consideration I shall read it again.

"It seems to me that certain paragraphs are directed at France. For instance, two nations are limited in armed forces in relation to each other, and then a third nation is limited alone. Has anyone thought that the first two might combine against the third? For this reason, the French still desire international control."

Referring to Lausanne, the French premier said France is now working with the Germans satisfactorily, which is expected to result in further Franco-German peace and confidence. He will return to Lausanne tomorrow to resume talks with Chancellor Von Papen of the reich.

Japan Disapproves

GENEVA, June 25. (US)—Japanese experts working feverishly over the Hoover plan to cut armaments by one-third and save $15,000,000,000 for the world have reached a conclusion that the plan is unfavorable to Tokyo.

They find that the plan is "unequitable" and that army reductions proposed leave forces insufficient for national defense. They agree that a reduction of 33 1-3 per cent in capital ship tonnage is unacceptable, but are willing to compromise by a reduction of from 25,000 to 35,000 tons. They object to non-replacements of cruisers and to the cuts in submarine tonnage.

PRETTY PASADENA NURSE HURLS NEW DEFIANCE IN DIRECTION DAVE HUTTON

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—Myrtle Hazel St. Pierre, pretty Pasadena nurse who is suing the rotund baritone husband of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton for $200,000 in a breach of promise action, today hurled new defiance in the direction of Dave (Baby Boy) Hutton.

"Lies! All lies!" she cried, nerves near the snapping point. "But they can bring all of them up they want to—it seems they have nothing else to bring up! I'm not afraid. I have nothing to fear!"

The young nurse, who had been on the witness stand since Monday undergoing an unmerciful cross-examination, may complete her testimony next Monday, when the "big parade" for the evangelist's husband will begin. The sensational trial is expected to consume another week.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AT HIS CAMP IN VIRGINIA

RAPIDAN, Va., June 25. (US)—President Hoover arrived at his camp here this afternoon for a brief rest after a number of campaign conferences at the White House and to prepare for others which will be held, probably tomorrow.

The president was accompanied by the smallest party to be with him since the camp was opened three years ago.

THOUSANDS OF CHILD PILGRIMS RECEIVE PONTIFICAL BLESSING DUBLIN EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

By THOMAS C. WATSON
Universal Service Special Cable

DUBLIN, June 25.—Child pilgrims to the Eucharistic congress, girls in flowing white dresses, boys proudly wearing their white tennis trousers and vivid blazers, today knelt on the green of Phoenix park to receive as their parents had before them, the pontifical blessing read by Cardinal Lauri, papal legate.

It was a touching sight, the freshness of the more than 100,000 youngsters against rich medieval background of the crimson, gold and white altar, and the purple and scarlet robes of the high prelates. Solemnly the children listened to the high potificial mass, revently they knelt as the blessing was read.

The moment provoked Cardinal Hayes of New York to say:

"Such scenes of beauty and devotion could only come from a nation of saints and patriots such as Ireland."

Festival of Prayer

As the papal legate moved in stately procession from his throne to bless the children, they clustered about him, eagerly kissing his papal insignia. To many, the congress' children's day was the climax of a program that reaches its closing day tomorrow with a festival of prayer.

Apart from the children's mass, American pilgrims played the most prominent part in today's festivities. Monsignor Schrembs, bishop of Cleveland, celebrated pontificial high mass early this morning in St. Andrew's church. Two thousand Americans from all cities in the nation crowded the edifice.

Later in the day, President De Valera was at home to a constant stream of visitors seeking his official residence. Most of them were Americans. The New York deputation was headed by Cardinal Hayes. Other American callers were Monsignor Foley, Fathers O'Connor Keane Martin and Gallagher, all of California.

Cardinal Hayes chatted with the president for 10 minutes, Father Gordon came wearing his clerical gown and the feathered headdress of the Chippewa Indian tribe, to which he has been the spiritual father. Dr. Tobin Edward, of Chicago, presented De Valera two framed posters of the Chicago Eucharist congress in 1926.

Street Car, Sedan And Pole Engage In Spirited Game

Once again the story of the automobile and the street car and the telephone pole that played tag.

This time it was "last tags" they played, for the auto, after being tagged by the street car, tagged a telephone pole, and then the pole bounced back and tagged the local tram car. The game might have continued forever if two traffic officers hadn't appeared and if a traction company official hadn't been handy on the scene.

It happened this way:

W. I. Gordon, Petrolia road, motorman on the street car, was bouncing happily southward on Kemp boulevard. C. M. Smith, 1613 Beverly drive, was peacefully driving his Buick sedan east on Tenth. The telephone pole was parked unconcernedly at the corner of Kemp and Tenth. The time was about 5 o'clock Saturday evening.

As the street car and the sedan neared the intersection, the pole made no move and all was quiet.

Then, wham!

The street car smacked the sedan, the sedan smacked the pole and the pole took a crack at the sedan. There were no injuries. The sedan was slightly damaged. Police Officers Bob Miller and J. B. Moore investigated.

FORMER SECRETARY OF C. E. SOCIETY IN TEXAS IS VISITOR IN BYERS

BYERS, Texas, June 25.—Dr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Ligon arrived here Friday and are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ligon. Dr. Ligon will be remembered by many in Texas as state field secretary of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor society during the period of 1915 to 1921. After completing his college work in T. C. U. at Fort Worth in 1921 he entered Yale and five years later received the degree of doctor of philosophy from that institution, and at the present time is a teacher in Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., where he has been located for the past three years. Mrs. Ligon, a native of New York, is making her second visit to Texas having accompanied her husband here five years ago and is delighted with the South and southern hospitality. They motored from Schenectady to Dallas in five days and report having a delightful trip. They contemplate making a tour of South Texas before returning to New York.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 24.—A three weeks' revival conducted with great success at Thrift Baptist church by the Rev. S. D. McWhorter was closed last week after 50 additions had been made to the church.

Evangelist Singer Frank H. Haley was in charge of the singing. Mrs. Troy Miller of Magnolia was the pianist. The Rev. A. C. Mowery also assisted by preaching at the morning service.

Strawberry shipments from Plant City, Fla., totaled 17,686,860 pints this season.

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH ROBBERY OF SIX STORES HERE

Five charges of theft were filed in county court Saturday afternoon against two men, both of Wichita Falls, in conection with thefts at Allison's Drug store, Wichita Hardware company, Star-Micks Furniture company, Elwyn shop, Walker Drug store and Spoonts Drug store. The pair was arrested by City Detective F. M. Dowdy and Traffic Officer Frank Van Pelt Saturday morning, and a quantity of merchandise found.

A negro man pleaded guilty to theft of an ice box from 600 Bonner in county court Saturday afternoon and was fined $10 and sentenced to one day in jail. He was arrested by City Detective George Garrett.

MANGLED COW BEARS CALF

SUDBURY, Ontario, (UP)—A cow, struck by a train, was found lying on the right of way, cut in three pieces, and by her side was a new-born calf. Joe Secord, a farmer living near the scene of the unusual accident, took possession of the calf, and he claims that it is "doing fine."

TENNESSEEAN OFFERS DEPRESSION REMEDY

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 25. (UP)—A $25 loan by the government to every man, woman and child in the country has been offered as a "sure and rapid cure" for the depression.

An intricate plan behind the loan designed to assure rapid turnover of the money was worked out by J. P. Winn, assistant treasurer of Chattanooga. He would have the loan made in $1 bills to which the owner must attach a two-cent stamp if he holds the note for a week.

Here is the result of this plan, as Winn estimates it:

Loan will produce $3,000,000,000 annually.

Turnover will be $156,000,000,000.

Profit to government $120,000,000 through sale of stamps.

May, 1932, shipping in the port of Savannah, Ga., set a new high record for that month. Ships in port totaled 104.

1912 AND 1932

Signs of dissension at the Democratic convention are many. There may be a contest over the two-thirds rule. There probably will be a fight over the permanent chairmanship. There certainly will be one over prohibition.

The situation resembles that of 1912. The Baltimore convention argued about the two-thirds rule and had a lively scrap over the permanent chairmanship. There was no prohibition contest, but the Bryan resolution aimed at Wall street furnished a satisfactory substitute.

The party came out of that convention with a strong platform and a strong candidate. The fact that the Democrats are falling out among themselves does not, therefore, necessarily mean anything. They have shown that they can have family rows and still choose wisely. Let us hope that this week's convention will give further evidence of it.

BORAH'S COURSE

The Republicans profess to be not downhearted at Senator Borah's bolt. They have undertaken to belittle the effects of it. Some of them doubt that he really means it. They recall that in 1912, the senator almost joined the Progressive forces, but was found tamely regular at the finish. They point out, further, that the Democratic ticket and platform will probably be even wetter than the Republican, so that the senator will be left without a party. The prevailing Republican impression is that the Idaho senator isn't as mad as he appears to be.

Whatever the Democrats do, the senator cannot now support the Republican ticket without completely about-facing. He cannot, with even a semblance of consistency, speak for the ticket. His speeches in 1928 helped the Hoover cause no little. They swung the decisive votes in more states than one. Whatever course the senator now adopts, his statement is a break for the Democrats.

A JUDICIAL VIEW OF HOME BREW

From a decision of the court of criminal appeals at Austin we learn, first, that beer and home brew are not, in the eyes of the law, identical; and second, that there is no judicial knowledge of the fact that home brew is intoxicating.

The court doesn't say that it isn't. It merely says that it doesn't know, from the evidence at hand.

Presumably there are ways and means of remedying judicial ignorance on the subject. But when that has been done, it will affect only the second part of the court's decision. The court can still stand, even after the illegal potency of home brew has been duly proven, on the proposition that home brew is not beer.

We hope it stands firm. There are a great many people, we are told, who drink home brew in the belief that they are drinking beer. They can now be undeceived, with high judicial authority against them. Those who may have suspected that the product of the home brewer's so-called art was not beer may know now that their suspicions were just.

The question may now come before the court, what is home brew? Its answer will be awaited with eager curiosity by those who, imbibing the stuff, have wondered what it was. There is considerable satisfaction in knowing that it is not beer, but one question still awaits a judicial answer.

A PRINCE HAS A BIRTHDAY

The Prince of Wales had a birthday recently—his 38th—and the occasion called the attention of his country to the fact that he still is a bachelor and that he has taken no step toward fulfilment of the first duty of a crown prince, which is to beget an heir.

Usually, a prince weds soon after he attains his majority. Before he is out of school a bride has been chosen for him. In the past, few royal princes have reached the age of 25 without marrying. The British heir to the throne is now 13 years a bachelor, still unwed, and showing no inclination to abandon bachelordom.

It is all very irregular, and the British, for all that they admire the prince very much, are worrying about it. There are rumors that the prince does not expect to wear the crown, that he believes Great Britain will become a republic and discard monarchial trappings altogether. And some say that a marriage was once arranged for him and that he, dissatisfied with the lady chosen for him, announced that he would pick his own wife and that he is still shopping for one. Still another yarn is that he wanted to wed a girl of common birth and that he persists in staying unwed because that desire was thwarted.

Probably, before very long, he will marry some approved daughter of royal house, and prepare to be a king in keeping with British tradition. But he is taking his own good time about it, and some Britons are getting restive.

ENOUGH ROPE

In the current issue of the clip-sheet of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist church, there appears, in connection with comment on the political conventions, this sentence:

"Nothing could be clearer than that the wet movement, having been allowed sufficient rope, will hang itself."

That is something to paste in your hat and remember, as the effort to repeal prohibition develops. It has an abundance of truth in it.

If the wet leadership had been even half-smart, it could have headed off federal prohibition, 15 years ago. There are signs that it hasn't learned a great deal since then. Today, despite the widespread dissatisfaction with federal prohibition, despite the opportunity to adopt a more wholesome method of dealing with the liquor problem, there are numerous signs that the wet movement will mess things up to its own undoing.

If the wet leadership does not keep in mind two things, it can accomplish little. One of these is that the open saloon must not return; the other is that the state, or subdivision of a sate, that wants to remain dry, must be protected in its dryness. Any repeal or modification program that omits these provisions is doomed.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE

A number of arguments for abrogation of the two-thirds rule might be offered. Little can be said for the rule, as a principle. More can be said for it in the light of the party's history. Whatever may be said, for or against, the reported move to abolish it in advance of the 1932 nomination is the poorest sort of sportsmanship. As McAdoo says, rules shouldn't be changed in the middle of the game.

Champ Clark in 1912 made the same threat that the Roosevelt chieftains are making now, but thought better of it. He realized that there would be a cloud on a nomination obtained under changed rules. Roosevelt would do well to remember that.

A court in New York recently ruled that a postage stamp 78 years old was worth more than $7,000. But that doesn't mean that we won't hate to pay three cents for a new one.

The Politics of Emergency

President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)
By GLENN FRANK

The nation has been passing through the valley of the shadow of economic death!

As I indicated day before yesterday, this fact hovered over my mind as I arose to speak to some 3,000 farmers the other day.

As I looked into their anxious faces, I realized that all I had discussed with them in other years—scientific and economic research on their problems of production and distribution, better business management of farms, cooperative marketing, the production of industrial raw materials as well as foodstuffs on the farms, and a better training of our future farmers—are even more important now than in the earlier years of less stress and less strain.

But I realized that in this phrase of emergency through which the nation is passing these are not enough.

We cannot now be content to go leisurely about the business of perfecting long-time policies.

We must do that at all costs.

We must not permit the fears and hysterias that attack us in moments of profound depression to lead us into sowing the seeds of political, social and economic policies that will hamstring us for a generation to come.

But we are in a phase of national emergency, and we must find and follow an emergency leadership rooted in the twin soils of sanity and courage.

We must not be afraid of intelligently formulated emergency politics or emergency economics.

The situation demands that we declare a moratorium on all petty political bickering and, regardless of normal party considerations, call to the colors, in this economic war on depression, the best brains and the best character the nation affords.

We cannot afford to waste any time, in the crucial weeks and months ahead, on anything but the evolving and executing of detailed programs for the recovery and stabilization of American economic life.

We cannot afford to be interested in or to tolerate stale catchwords and weather-beaten slogans.

We must have programs upon which we can act!

Mere maneuverings for personal or party advantage become, in a time like this, a kind of social treason.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

It is better to dwell in the wilderness than with a contentious and an angry woman.—Proverbs 21:19.

Most of their faults women owe to us, whilst we are indebted to them for most of our better qualities.—Charles Lemesle.

At Geneva
The disarmament delegates get along fine,
They find Geneva charming,
Of dissension there never is a sign
Until somebody talks of disarming.

Those German magicians who didn't succeed in changing a goat into a young man needn't be downhearted. If the Republican party is able to transform a Great Engineer into a Homespun American, they can renew their faith in magic,

But the Republicans are pretty good transformers, at that. Look what they did to the surplus.

Truth-Telling Day
There was a piece in the papers not long ago about a minister over in England who had decided that folks weren't telling the truth as much as they should and who planned to do something about it. He announced that on a certain day he was going to be absolutely truthful. He said that if he got an invitation to a party, on that date, he probably would answer it something like this:

"I am delighted that a previous engagement will prevent me from coming to your party, which probably would bore me stiff."

Just how he would act if he had to conduct a funeral on that day, he didn't explain.

Our own high regard for the truth prompts us to approve the plan in principle, but we can see many difficulties and dangers attending it. We hold with the little girl who defined a lie as an abomination in the sight of Heaven and a very present help in time of trouble.

A Tough Spot
Just suppose that one day for truth telling were to be set aside in this country and that it happened to be the day that had been picked for notifying Mr. Hoover of his renomination. The consequences would be frightful to contemplate. The official notifier would never recover from the strain, and probably Mr. Hoover himself would never be the same again.

Of course, they would make other arrangements. Maybe they would postpone the notification ceremony, or maybe they would decide that Mr. Hoover had been reading the papers and had already found out what had happened. But just suppose they did have the ceremony on that day and the notifier had to stick to the truth. He would be in a tough spot, sure enough. The result would be something like this:

"Mr. President, it's a habit of political parties to renominate the man who already has the job, and that's what the Republican party has done. There were some of the boys who felt that a change was in order, but they weren't heard from. The convention knew what it had to do, and it did it. It wasn't as enthusiastic about it as it might have been. The bunch didn't have much pep, but they behaved pretty well and there wasn't any dissension to speak of. We did have to get a little rough with that man France from Maryland, but we were ready for him. The only difficulty was over the prohibition plank. They finally adopted one that you can stand on. In fact, anybody can stand on it. It's a whole lot easier to stand on it than to decide what it means, but it reflects your own views, whatever they are, and I for one wouldn't undertake to say.

"It's going to be a hard job putting you over. We're getting some help from the Democrats, but maybe not enough.

"We've picked out a new name for you that may get over. You're to be the Homespun American. What's that? Well, I don't blame you. I had to laugh myself."

And so on, to the same general tenor and effect.

The notifier could console himself with the thought that at any rate he didn't have to notify Vice President Curtis.

Not During the Campaign
If one truth telling day should be ordained, we hope they will wait until the Democratic national convention is over. It will have enough troubles, from all indications, without having that fearful handicap imposed upon it. If the truth-telling day and the day for making nominating speeches should coincide, it would be downright tragic.

In fact, there should be no attempt to have a truth-telling day until the campaign is entirely over, and all the alibis have been offered. In any event, it should not be held until the Texas primary elections have been held.

The Amenities
The English pastor who had the idea about a truth-telling day gave a sample of the sort of note he would write, declining an invitation. That is the trouble with a truth-telling day. It may bump up against social amenities in an embarrassing way.

For instance, if you went to a party on that day and the time came to bid the hostess good-bye, just think of how having to tell the truth would cramp your style. Something like this:

"Good bye, my dear, I've had a perfectly lousy time. Without exception my bridge partners were dumb, and the only purpose your refreshments served was to kill my appetite for supper, and maybe for breakfast tomorrow. I think your dress is so pretty. Indeed, I've always thought that dress was pretty, ever since I first saw you wearing it, in 1924."

Or if you got an invitation you didn't want to accept and had to say something like this:

"No, I regret to say, we haven't any engagement for this evening, so I guess we'll have to come over. It would be much more pleasant to stay at home and listen to the radio, or read a few pages in the encyclopedia, but I'm curious to see how your house looks since you've had it redecorated, so we'll be there. I only hope you don't serve any of that awful bath-tub gin you had the last time."

The more one ponders this idea of a universal truth-telling day, the more difficulties it seems to present. The only appealing thing about it is its novelty.

Congress is willing to do almost anything in the way of relief, except adjourn.

So far as the United States is concerned, Lausanne ought to be pronounced Lost-anna.

The Machine Age!

WILL ROGERS HERE COME THE DEMOCRATS!

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I run into hither and thither. Well here we all are gathering in for the round-up of the Democrats. They are coming into Chicago by plane, train, Fords, Buckboards, and on burro's. The Texas deligation arrived on burros headed by the fearless old statesman Amon G. Carter, the genial dirt farmer of Shady Oaks Post Office, Texas.

Amon is national committeeman deligate, alternate, steering wheel, banker, receiver, and wet nurse for the Texas deligation. They have taken over the Sherman hotel, the best hotel in Chicago, and have generously allowed the California deligation to spread their bed rolls out in the halls, so they could stand guard over the Texas deligation. Both deligations are here to offset the effect of the Texas and California deligation which was here a couple of weeks previous. These feel that their state was naturally given a black eye by having Republicans at large roaming around with Texas and California on their badges, so these are trying to show that those were imposters, that they were not really from those states at all.

Oh say this will be a convention. Of course the old Republicans did the best they could with what little they had to work on, and as I think back to those old days we did have some fun at that. Would have had more if they hadent "bulldogged" that fellow France who wanted to nominate Coolidge. I was sure pulling for it, for I cant help but admit that I am personally a Coolidge fan. And Grace! I am crazy about Mrs. Coolidge. I tell you all these other public men's wives could learn a lot from her. But the qualities she has are God given, they cant be acquired.

I, like lots of others, would like to see Calvin in there again. Course I doubt if he would take it at this time. Calvin knows when to take over a business, but anyhow this old boy France would have sure stirred up a hornets nest if he had been able to nominate him.

Chicago is going to do herself proud just like she did with the Republicans. The last day of the Republican show they killed four gangsters for the amusement of the deligates and I know that being a Democratic city at heart she will do as much for the Democrats. In fact I bet they do better. One of those they bumped off was named "Red" somebody, and he was an alternate for Capone.

Lots of the newspaper boys are still here from the last show. They were afraid that they would close up the places if they left em, so they just stuck in there.

H. L. Mencken, the Boswell of the Potomac, has stayed steadily at his typewriter ever since Senator France was manhandled from the Republican rostrum. It was just about the last blow against free speeches and I expect there will be a paragraffe in the Green Magazine denouncing the Republican method. He was the first on the spot back in the jail room where Mr. France was quickly incarcerated. They are fellow Marylanders. And Mencken said "You take him, you can take me too!" But Senator Fess says, "I will take care of you personally." So Mencken and Fess squared off with their typewriters and what a sucker Mencken has made out of him.

The California deligation originally started out for this convention as members of the bonus army. In that way they came across the continent this far.

Jewett Shouse is here guiding the destinies of the Roosevelt forces. All you can hear is "Will they stop Roosevelt?" Well they dident stop him from getting six or seven hundred deligates, but maby they can get em to change their minds after the deligates have seen some of the other candidates, and maby some of the other deligates will switch to Roosevelt after they have seen face to face their own candidates. Anyhow its a good shot for a deligate to be in. Never was a deligate so much in demand. I am sure sorry that I dident decide to "Del." I had a chance in California. They wanted to make me one, only I think they discovered I had none of the qualifications of one.

Tammany is gathering in. This is their first trip away, with the exceptions of the ones that survived the Houston massacre.

Ritchie of Maryland and his troop are here and on their way. They are going to profit by the happenings of the Republican fracas and bringing their own policemen to see that they can nominate who they want.

Al Smith is coming and will be the most popular figure here as he is everywhere. Thirty years from now if he never held another office Smith would still be of great interest to everyone for he has just got in him that something.

Mr. Roosevelt will be here when it looks profitable for him to be. Or thats what they say. What who said? Oh nobody said it, I just made it up, but when a writer or anyone wants to say something they are not right sure or they always preface it by saying "So I've heard." Well thats just an alabi, or "Out" for em. They havent heard anybody say it at all, but its an easy way to lay the lie on someone else besides yourself.

Well the noise is starting so I better jarr loose and go hear it. I dont know if its a Rube band, or just Amon Carter whispering about Jack Garner to somebody.

Well, see you at the Third Party Convention.

Frederick Baptists to Formally Open New $50,000 Church Building With Special Services Sunday

FREDERICK, Okla., June 25.—Formal opening of the new $50,000 First Baptist church building at Eleventh and Grand will be celebrated here Sunday, June 26, with special services in both the morning and evening.

The first baptismal service in the new church will be held Sunday evening at 8:15 o'clock when 28 people will be welcomed into the church, and baptized in the new baptistry. Before the morning service, at 9:45, Charles McConnell, John Shepard and John Wilson will direct the Sunday school pupils into their proper rooms. Preaching will begin at 11, with the pastor, Rev. H. W. Stigler, speaking on "The Gates of Hell Shall Not Prevail Against It." J. L. Collins will direct a program of special music. In the evening, Rev. Stigler's subject will be "Evangelistic."

The three-story gothic brick church contains from 75 to 80 class and assembly rooms, including the main auditorium. Folding doors off the large auditorium create an annex, so that the total seating capacity for church services is 1,230. The intermediate, beginner, primary and young married people's Sunday school departments are houses on the first floor, where are also the large dining room, modern, well-equipped kitchen and rooms for the janitor, who is to live in the building. On the second floor, where the main auditorium is, are the adult, young people's and cradle roll departments, and the office of the educational director. The third floor contains the junior department and the pastor's study, a northwest room with fireplace and many bookshelves. A large balcony over the auditorium is on this same level, and is built in tiers.

Cooling System
A complete cooling system, gas operated, has been installed by the Campbell Heating company of Kansas City, Mo., and representatives of the company will be on hand Sunday to insure its proper working. The same plant will be used for heating the building in winter.

French windows in metal frames are used throughout the church, though amber-stained glass in small patterns is used in the main auditorium. The ceiling is arched high, with beams and cross beams of stained wood. Seats for the church have not arrived, so that temporary ones of pine are being constructed, both for classrooms and the auditorium and assembly rooms. A piece has been constructed for a pipe organ, should one be purchased at a later date. Hawk and Parr, of Oklahoma City, were the architects for the structure.

The west curb on Eleventh street is to be removed next week, and a gravel parking space built beside the church on that side for the convenience of motorist church-goers.

DAILY HEALTH TALK

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

That type of sick headache commonly called migraine is believed by many persons to be a hereditary condition more likely to occur in women than in men.

Since this point of view was first advanced around 1893, many investigators have sought a scientific basis for the contention. This caused Dr. William Allan to make a special study of the matter. He now makes available the results of these studies.

Out of 545 persons suffering with headaches of the migraine type, women were found to have the condition two and one-half times as frequently as men. Some investigators have found the proportion as high as five times as frequent in women as in men.

It was thought that possibly women were more likely to seek a physician for this condition than did men, but an examination of the records of thousands of cases coming to a physician's office indicated approximately equal numbers.

Out of 103 men it was found that 56 gave a history of periodic headaches of this type; 90 per cent stated that their parents had had similar histories, and in 73 per cent the headaches had started before the age of 21. Among the 92 wives of these men there were 80 who had a history of headache, and in 90 per cent of these women there was a record of similar headaches in the parent. In this particular group, therefore, the frequency of migraine in men and in women seemed to be the same, but a careful investigation showed that migraine is a more serious condition in women than in men.

In most instances women had headaches that lasted longer and they were nauseated much more frequently than were the men. It seems likely, therefore, that women go to the physician more often for this condition than do men, because of severity of the symptoms.

There have been various suggestions as to the underlying basis of migraine. It is recognized that heredity plays some part. However, the condition that is hereditary may be associated with some special anatomical development of the brain, of the glands of internal secretion, or of the nervous system.

In some instances, no doubt, headache of the migraine type is a manifestation of sensitivity to a foreign protein substance. Such sensitivity is, however, also hereditary to a considerable extent. In other words, it is likely that a number of cases acting together produce this condition, rather than a single cause for all cases.

The Political Follies of '32

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

CHICAGO.—The position of permanent chairman at a national political convention, which will provide the first floor fight between the forces of Governor Roosevelt and Al Smith at the Democratic meeting, is one of dignity, conspicuousness and importance.

"Hard-boiled Bert" Snell demonstrated as much when he ably filled the job for the Republicans. Either Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and Democratic Executive Chairman Jouett Shouse, Roosevelt and Smith choices, respectively, probably will have a much more exciting time presiding over the Democrats. Their battle will probably usher in the convention.

The Chairman's Chance
Although the temporary chairman delivers the party's keynote speech and the keynote speech is theoretically the convention's prize gem of partisan oratory, it is quite possible for the permanent chairman to take the honors away from the keynoter when he subsequently delivers his own speech before business really begins.

Many thought Snell outdid Senator Dickinson of Iowa, the Republican keynoter. His voice and his presence were superior; he gave the Democrats a terrible lacing, which was what the delegates wanted to hear.

After the Roosevelt faction had supported Shouse for permanent chairman in a deal which closed on Senator Barkley of Kentucky for keynoter, they learned that he was working on a speech which he refused to submit to the governor and his men. Realizing Shouse's anti-Roosevelt leanings, they were partly influenced by that fact when they declared war on him and announced their support of Walsh.

Recognition Important
Keeping the convention and galleries in order is another job of the chairman which either Shouse or Walsh can do as well as any one. Each can affect an impressive Phussian manner with a gavel in his hand.

So can Snell, who showed it when he handled the galleries during the whole-hearted booing of James R. Garfield's speech against the repeal plank. Snell almost had the gallery wets eating out of his hand.

Recognition of delegates who want the floor occasionally becomes of enormous importance. It did in 1912, when Chairman Ollie James recognized William Jennings Bryan, perhaps improperly, in the middle of a roll call so Bryan could announce and explain his breaking of instructions for Champ Clark after Tammany had suddenly given Clark the big New York vote. Bryan thus was allowed to step in against what might well have been a stampede to Clark on that ballot.

The France Example
A permanent chairman can hardly suppress a majority, but he can be ruthless with a minority. The effectiveness of his power of recognition or non-recognition was seen when Snell refused to recognize former Senator France of Maryland, who wanted to withdraw his candidacy in favor of Coolidge.

Snell was technically correct, no doubt, but there was a man trying to stampede the convention and even though his chances were slim in any event he was dragged away and never had a chance, thanks to the permanent chairman.

In a bitter, difficult convention, disputes break out among delegates which require rulings from the chair. Walsh, though he acquitted himself well, had a terrible time of it at Madison Square garden in 1924, what with recognitions, gaveling and innumerable rulings.

The Unit Rule Battle
He had to pass on various attempts to attack the unit rule, cases in which individual delegates wanted to vote their own choice as against the choices of majorities of their delegations. He had to decide such points as whether the two-thirds and other rules could be by two-thirds or only a majority vote and whether a motion would be in order to adjourn the convention to Kansas City. At all times Walsh upheld the unit rule if it had been imposed on delegations by state conventions.

When eight Missouri delegates, who were being voted under that rule for McAdoo, demanded to be recorded as not voting, Walsh insisted that their votes be counted for McAdoo. They must be so voted, he said, even if absent.

Something happened in the Canal Zone delegation of six which might easily occur in a large state delegation. Instructed to vote for McAdoo as long as he had a chance, the delegation was divided three to three for McAdoo and Smith. Walsh scratched his head, then said that since no majority had voted for McAdoo the unit rule didn't apply and the vote would be recorded three for McAdoo, three for smith.

Walsh's Changes
Then he buzzed with others on the platform, reversed himself and reported that it seemed to have been twice decided at other conventions that the vote must be cast as instructed until a delegation majority decided otherwise. Many ballots later, the Canal Zone question came up again and Walsh heard arguments. Then he announced that the vote would be recorded 3-3, that he had decided hastily the last time and "the chair has become convinced that his original decision was right.

"And he would rather prefer to be regarded as unstable in his rulings than to be troubled with the consciousness of having done wrong."

JOYCE JANICE HALE ~ PEGGY JEAN O'HARE

MRS. SHADIE HALE

Mrs R. J. BROWN

IN THE PICTURES—Mrs. R. J. Brown is a recent bride whose wedding at the Floral Heights Methodist church was an interesting social event of Wednesday evening. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson on Alma street, and was before her marriage Miss Mary Alice Johnson.

Mrs. Shadie Hale was her matron of honor, and Misses Glenna Miller and Madelyn McCarty, her bridesmaids. Little Misses Joyce Janice Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shadie Hale, and Peggy Jean O'Hara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. O'Hara, were flower girls, and Joe Frank Fritz, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Fritz, the ring bearer. He carried the ring in the heart of a rose on a white satin pillow.

The wedding was unusually beautiful and quaint, emphasizing an old fashioned setting in the decorations of summer flowers and models of gowns worn by those in the bridal party.

Outstanding Program for Writers Department of Forum Revealed At Delightful Tea Saturday

Mrs. James P. Bowen, chairman of the writers department in the Woman's Forum entertained her committees for the coming year at a delightful tea Saturday afternoon. In the menu and the artistic appointments, Mrs. Bowen's chosen shades of pastel green were noted. Shasta daisies were the only flowers used.

The work outlined the coming year was completed by the program committee, composed of Mrs. Henry C. Fulcher, chairman; Mesdames G. C. Johnson and L. N. Cason, working with Mrs. Bowen. The programs cover entertaining and instructive subjects. Following the usual custom, the opening program, to be given in October, will be presented by out of town members and guests. With this luncheon—and luncheons will begin promptly at 12 o'clock—unique humorous contests will be inaugurated, the winner to be each month a guest at the luncheon.

In November, John Gould, editorial writer of the Wichita Daily Times, will address the department on "What Is a Book Review?" The holiday season in December will be appropriately observed in a new fashion that will concentrate on old times. January will be the month of one-act plays and after the reading of the one-act play, Mrs. J. T. Harrell, an artist in staging and play production will discuss that subject. "The Art of Reading" to be given in February, promises inspiration to both readers and writers. The program to be given in March will be by members of the Junior Forum with Miss Mary Louise Staley as chairman. This will follow a precedent established in 1932 when junior forum members gave an outstanding proof of the talent to be developed in that department.

April will be the month for short stories and a number of short, short stories will feature the program. May, as always, will be the month for poetry, with one of the outstanding poets of the city, Mrs. J. Truman Stevens in charge. Mrs. Stevens only recently gave a program for the Poetry Society of Texas in the regular meeting of that group in Dallas, reading at that time a number of her own poems.

Other committees named and invited to the delightful tea by Mrs. Bowen, included the committee for the table decorations, Mrs. J. L. Elkin, chairman; Mesdames P. L. Myers and J. F. Bailey. Telephone committee, Mrs. G. D. Fox, chairman; Mesdames J. E. H. Railey and Carl Yeager.

PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

PARTIES for brides and visitors claimed the attention in the social set the past week, with informality of course, the keynote of them all. As usual, brides insist upon the lion's share of spotlight in early June, no matter how much space is given to politics, politicians and conventions.

Even the younger set, who for a few short weeks since school closed for the summer, had seemingly gone into retirement, stepped at a lively pace, and one of the very nicest parties of the season so far was given for that crowd, when J. C. Man, who has recently returned from Booneville, Mo., where he was a student at Kemper, entertained with a delightful barn dance.

ALMOST every day lately some friend or friends have departed for music and other fine art centers to study through the summer, and last week has proven no exception to the rule. Others are leaving and returning from vacation trips or preparing to take them. And those who are left at home will soon begin to receive mail of much interest.

RIGHT here I am reminded of a letter I have already received, not from a vacationist, but from one who has gone to make her home in the South Sea islands, and judging from it, I am sure that she is already much in love with her new abode.

YOU have already probably guessed who the writer is. For there has only been one person from Wichita Falls (so far as I know) who has gone to this far off land to make her home, and that is Mrs. Jonnie Morgan McCown. And I am going to give you the contents of her missive, knowing full well that you will be just as much thrilled with it as I was, because there are very few Wichitans who are not interested in the welfare of "Miss Jonnie," as she is called by her numerous friends and admirers here.

THE letter is written on quaint blue stationery, with a miniature drawing in the right hand corner in a deeper shade of blue, depicting palm trees, a mountain, the sea, a sailboat and canoe, and in the other corner, is her address, "Wai-Ni-Loka Estates, Ovalau Island, Fiji Islands."

SHE begins by saying that she has had a full life of new experiences since she left Wichita Falls, but that she is thoroughly enjoying the new world in which she now lives. She says, "I am reminded in many ways of the interdependence of this world of ours and the many things that are internationally alike—and yet, the many ways in which we are unlike. How many customs do exist that we have no conception of until we actually experience them!

"I LIVE 'way off from nowhere' all right. The island of Ovalau is located about 60 miles from Suva—direct. It is something like 40 miles in circumference. Levuka, the 'metropolis' (or as Junior high boys in Wichita Falls would call it, 'Jolly') was in the early days the thriving enterprising capital of the entire group. In those days, thrifty Germans built it up much. Today it is a discouraged sort of little place, though a quaint, picturesque background it has, with a small group of Europeans, bowling over their plight due to the depression—and a still larger group of unenterprising half-casts along with natives and Indians.

"WE are 10½ miles away—separated by a none too good road. Hence in the rainy season, the short distance might as well be a thousand miles. Of course if absolutely necessary, we can go by launch.

"BESIDES Levuka, there are a number of Figian towns, very picturesque to my notion. Numerous grass huts (bures, natively speaking), along with those of wood, (which, to my notion spoil the setting, but as they last longer and therefore mean less work to the natives, they are becoming very popular—a sad catastrophe!), a church and the chief's (bull) hut, are about all that a town consists of. However wherever the Catholic influence dominates, there is always a prominent monastery in the center. We have two such towns.

"THERE is a most interesting Seven Day Adventists colony on the other side of the island from us. There are three families of Europeans who foster the group of 70 Figian boys, training them to do all sorts of useful manual work and a fair amount of literary attainment. Their ultimate goal of course is preparing them to spread their religious doctrine to other natives. I have worlds of respect for them, because they are really creative in their work.

"IT is a most fascinating place. There I found one of the quaintest, most fascinating women I've had contact with lately. She is the wife of one of the directors, has a classical profile and the sort of eyes that lie so deep it would take considerable time to fathom their depth. She has three children and teaches them successfully (and right here Miss Jonnie has that's last word heavily underscored). Another point in her favor. I wish I had time to tell you all the things she does. Such an adorable, courageous creature. I want to go back just to get another inspiration!"

MISS JONNIE tells of an enjoyable ramble with her husband through the brush, which she says in the states, "we call woods," with their chief mission to shoot pigeons. She says it was muddy, which is a small item in that world, when once one truly becomes a part of it. "But I've learned (almost) to walk native-like," she says. "It was a most enjoyable ramble. We walked through the main banana plantation, my husband explaining the cultivation of the fruit to me. Though I've been here almost four months, I had never been there before. There was a pretty bunch of

Local Girls Are Leaving for Cool Camp in Colorado

With the coming of warm weather, girls in the Wichita Falls' vicinity are beginning to feel the lure of cool camp Kinnikinnik in the Rocky mountains, which will be opened July 1 and run through August, and several groups are making their plans to leave next week to be there on the opening day.

Among these will be Miss Marguerite Fisher, dramatic counselor, Jane Fisher, Josephine and Berniece Bell, all of this city, and Miss Edith Richardson and Vesta Veatch of Houston, and Leone Shields of Coleman, with many more expecting to go from here later.

Ernest Katz is local enthusiast of Camp Kinnikinnik and each year offers a trophy for the best camper. This consists of the best all round girl camper, and she is voted upon by both counselors and other girls. Last year, the honor fell to Wichita Falls, when Jane Fisher received the trophy, a beautiful silver bon bon dish. Of course it is hoped by the local girls to keep the honor here.

Dramatics, glee clubs, ukulele orchestras, art, dancing, conversational French, and out of door sports, including archery, tennis, basketball and swimming, are some of the accomplishments and enjoyments to be obtained at this camp which is located near Manitou at the foot of Pikes Peak.

FINE ARTS DINNER WILL BE HELD MONDAY EVE

The weekly dinner party established by lovers of the fine arts, that has been held for the past two weeks at the Woman's Forum clubhouse, will be held for the remainder of the summer at the Municipal clubhouse, it has been announced by Emil Hermann.

Owing to the illness of a sister, Mrs. Ruth Kirksey, hostess at the forum clubhouse, has been obliged to close the building until the autumn season opens. The dinners will be served at the same price at the Municipal club, where Mrs. G. Wayne Barker, hostess, will provide a delightful summer menu.

Lovers of music, art and of reading and writing are invited to take part in this weekly occasion. A committee appointed will arrange programs at such short notice they may be called impromptu and round table discussions will feature each meeting.

Dinner will be served at 7:15 and reservations are to be made with Mrs. Barker by 1 o'clock, Monday at 6778.

OKLAHOMA VISITOR HONOREE AT PARTY

Complimenting her house guest, Miss Ooweetah Sutton of Collinsville, Okla., Miss Flora Moriarty entertained the D. P. D. club at a delightful slumber party at her home, 1506 Polk street Friday evening.

The group enjoyed the picture show, after which the hostess had refreshments served at a drug store, and the next morning a delicious breakfast was served at her home.

Those enjoying the hospitality with the hostess and honoree, were Misses Elaine Rogers, Frances Randolph, Marion Mendenhall, Blanche Peebles, Virginia Herald, and Pauline Moriarty.

Miss Moriarty was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. J. E. Moriarty.

High Standard of Musicianship Will Feature Sacred Concert At First Methodist Church

Attendance which will tax the seating capacity of the First Methodist church auditorium has been predicted for the sacred concert to be presented Sunday night, June 26, at 8 o'clock under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis.

Replacement of the usual order of service for Sunday night with the sacred concert has been occasioned by the absence of the pastor, Dr. S. S. McKenney, who is engaged in conducting a series of meetings in Nocona.

Aside from the high standard of music and musicianship assured by the announced program, the concert arranged by Mrs. Davis will feature another composition by Mrs. Charlene B. Underwood of this city, whose "Exultation of the Cherubim" is to be sung by a double choir of women's voices in its first public performance.

Compositions of Mrs. Underwood, some of which are in publication, have been introduced to Wichita Falls audiences on several occasions in the past. The most recent performance from her score was the use of "Festival Mass" by the Sacred Heart (Catholic) church choir at high mass on Easter Sunday morning, and from radio station KGKO on the following Sunday.

"Exultation of the Cherubim" was written for two women's choirs of three parts each, and in its earlier passages is to be sung antiphonally. Women of the First Methodist church choir will be stationed in the choir loft as the first chorus; the Woman's Choral club, and assisting singers, will comprise the second choir which will be placed in the rear balcony of the auditorium. Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., will be at the organ, with Mrs. W. L. Olmsted, accompanist for the choral club during the past year, at the grand piano.

The text of "Exultation of the Cherubim" is a revised arrangement of the "gloria" used in every mass for the Catholic and Episcopal churches. After the early antiphonal movements, both choirs sing as a six-part ensemble through the middle movement and finale, which rises to a sweeping and brilliant climax.

Accompaniment written for the piano calls for a quasi-harp effect from that instrument, projected against a rich and sustained harmony from the organ.

Another feature of Sunday night's concert will present to this city a new pianist of demonstrated accomplishment, Mrs. Ross G. Smith. Mrs. Smith will play Demarest's "Grand Aria" with Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., organist. Mrs. Smith recently moved to this city with her husband, who is educational director at the First Methodist church. Mr. Smith will preside during the service.

A duet by Walter Robbins and Grover C. Bullington, and a solo by Mrs. Stanley M. Raub, with violin obligato by Mr. Raub, are included in the concert program. Several anthems will be sung by the entire choir, using various of its members in incidental solos.

The program has been arranged as follows:

Prelude, "Fourth Symphony," fifth movement, (Widar), Mrs. Akin.

Doxology and invocation.

"Lo! Summer Comes Again," (Stainer), Mesdames F. M. Hansen, N. M. Clifford, Messrs. F. M. Hansen, J. W. Akin Jr., and choir.

Scripture reading and prayer.

"Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," (Lansing) Walter Robbins, tenor; Grover C. Bullington, bass.

"Grieve Not the Holy Spirit of God," (Stainer), the choir.

"O Divine Redeemer," (Gounod), Mrs. Stanley M. Raub, soprano; violin obligato, Mr. Raub; Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, piano.

"Hear Us, O Father," (Palmer), Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. C. Y. Tully, Mrs. Hansen, and choir.

"Offertory in D Minor," (Batiste), Mrs. Akin.

"Exultation of the Cherubim," (Charlene B. Underwood), double choir of women's voices. First choir, women of First Methodist church; second choir, Woman's Choral club and guest singers. Organ, Mrs. Akin; piano, Mrs. W. L. Olmsted.

"Grand Aria," (Demarest), Mrs. Ross G. Smith, pianist; Mrs. Akin, organist.

"The Omnipotence," (Schubert-Spicker), Mrs. F. M. Hansen, soprano, and choir.

trao (native 'staff of life') growing in a swamp in the center of the place."

AFTER the ramble, Miss Jonnie says, "we came back home to a delicious cup of English tea, cold chicken and some spice cake which I had made on Saturday by one of Mrs. J. T. Montgomery's recipes in the Lucy Hansell cook book, which Mrs. P. P. Langford had thoughtfully given me before I left.

"In the meantime, one of the boys had been to Levuka, to attend a football game and had brought the mail. That is a big event when the mail boat comes in." (And when she and Mr. McCown retired to the veranda to examine the contents of the mail bag she said that they found letters from one of her sisters, and from Mesdames P. J. Lea, Q. B. Lee and Temple Shell (at that time Dorothea Knight), a cousin in Austin, and the woman who was her sponsor for her wedding on Jan. 25.

THIS woman, she stated, lives in Suva and wrote to invite her to spend the first week in June with her. The event was in celebration of the birthday of His Majesty, George V, which was on June 3. She says this is always a holiday season with a big ball at the governor's mansion and competitive sports. Miss Jonnie stated that she intended to accept the invitation as it would mean that she would meet more people, since her friend also promised to give a morning tea in her honor while there.

SHE said that she was making guava jelly at the time she wrote, and in an interesting postscript said that she had just returned from the garden which was all enchanted with moonlight, and "Behold," she says, "My Little Gypsy Love Song" was "coming in over the wireless from Auckland, New Zealand, in such clear notes that for a moment I felt that some fairy godmother had struck her wand." She closes her postscript with the words, "Oh, the pleasure of this wireless of ours." She said that it would be audacious to try and describe the beauty of the tropical full moon with its shimmering beams flirting on the cocoanut leaves and other shrubbery.

I will close hoping that you will enjoy the contents of this interesting missive from an equally interesting lady even half as much as did your friend—

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

Ruth wanted to laugh as Hal Prichard's arms caught her and tried to pinion her own arms. The whole scene was so cheaply melodramatic . . . the quiet living room in the house where she and Sally had grown up . . . the cowardly young man who thought he was being bold . . . the foolish demands of Sally for the money . . .

With a wrench that was as startling as it was unexpected, Ruth freed herself. The man gave a snarl and started for her again.

To her own surprise, Ruth laughed.

Taken off guard at the sound the man stopped.

"I haven't any money . . . you wouldn't gain anything by holding me . . . I could tell on you, you see . . . and I think I would . . . you deserve it. Besides every one knows that I'm here and I think I hear steps on the veranda!"

She didn't. She was playing on the nerves of the man and the girl who were watching her.

"I told Dale that if I weren't back in three minutes to come for me!"

She hadn't. She hadn't seen him for several hours. But the ruse worked.

"Then Hal . . . can't get the money. Ruth, you've got to help us. No one else can! Please, please, please . . . Ruth, you've got to do something!" Sally's voice rose in a thin wail.

"You—love him then?" Ruth looked at the man whose pale, thin face was weary with lines of dissipation and worry. "You love him?" She didn't know that she emphasized the pronoun.

"Yes." Sally's head came up a little proudly. "I do?"

Ruth watched her sister's face for a second.

"That's the finest thing you ever said," she heard herself saying then. "I don't see why you do . . . he isn't worth it . . . but if you had failed him now, you would have been more contemptible than ever. Love covers a multitude of sins. He isn't worth trusting and you have to give him up. He does not love you, you see."

"But he does." Sally's words were confident, yet angry.

"He couldn't. He would have wanted to have saved you from this unpleasantness . . . he wouldn't want to implicate you in this robbery . . . "

"But he didn't have any one else to go to." Sally's voice came again, lower this time.

"Of course." Maybe it was true. Maybe in his distorted, crooked way Prichard did love Sally although he used her as a tool that was handy in getting money . . . Ruth decided that she didn't know.

"I'm going home. I'm sorry for you. But I can't do anything." She moved to the door. They watched her. Their eyes were large and frightened. She could see that they had been sure that their plan was going to work. They didn't know what to do now. She opened the door.

"Ruth . . ." Sally's voice was no longer cynical, cold, taunting. It was young and lost and frightened. "Ruth . . . what am I going to do?"

The door was half way open. Some one was crossing the porch. Ruth turned her head slightly. It was Dale Courtney.

Sunday Times Pattern Service

No one likes to be "hot and bothered" in summer . . . therefore when selecting your summer wardrobe choose simplicity of line, color and fabric. Fussy prints, designs and warm colors are confusing to the eye and cause unrest. Small geometric prints, scattered far apart, on light grounds, such as white, beige, blue, and green are excellent choices for cooling effect.

Pattern 1173, for example, would be lovely in printed flat crepe or sheer cotton with a dainty lace yoke as contrast. The pointed seamings of bodice skirt and snug hip yoke are most slenderizing on the matron. Three quarter length sleeves are attractive on stout arms. This pattern may be ordered only in sizes 36 to 46. Size 36 requires 3⅜ yards of 39-inch fabric, and 1 yard of 1-inch lace.

Pattern 1106 boasts simplicity of line, and the touch of contrast at belt and bow so favored this season. Need we mention that top stitching is ever so smart? Again one may use the popular cottons, linens or sheers to fashion this delightful sports frock. This pattern may be ordered only in sizes 12 to 20 and 30 to 42. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch fabric and 1 yard of 3½-inch ribbon.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, Wichita Falls, Texas.

PARIS.—There's no depression as far as the Eiffel tower is concerned. Official figures show that the tower earned $114,723 last year in sightseeing fees. This is an excess of $33,117 over the earnings of the tower in 1930. The tower is in its 44th year, having been erected for the Paris exhibition of 1889.

CHARGE DISMISSED AGAINST GIRL HELD IN ABORTION CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 25. (UP)—A murder charge against Ann Murray, 23, mystery figure in Oklahoma City's latest abortion death, was dismissed today when she surrendered to county authorities.

At the same time officers renewed their search for Dr. C. A. Rucker, accused of murder in the death of Dorothy Word, 18-year-old high school graduate.

Miss Murray, manicurist and radio blues singer, set out in a written statement the series of events leading to Miss Word's death. Monday, the day the operation was alleged to have been performed, she was employed by Dr. Rucker as office helper, Miss Murray said.

Although physicians believed Miss Word died at 2 p. m. Thursday, Miss Murray said she did not know the girl was dead until 7 p. m. that day when she called Edwin Jayroe, the girl's fiance.

Miss Word was listed today as the 11th victim of illegal operations here recently. Dr. Richard Thacker is a fugitive from justice on a murder charge in the death of a University of Oklahoma co-ed and Dr. J. W. Elsminger, is under $1,000 bond on another murder charge in the death of another co-ed.

E. L. Nichols Heads North Texas and South Oklahoma Band Masters, Who Organize at Burk's Silver Jubilee

Directors of bands in northern Texas and southern Oklahoma organized the North Texas and South Oklahoma Band Masters association at a band contest held as a feature of Burkburnett's silver anniversary Thursday, electing E. L. Nichols, Burkburnett, president, and Paud Seeds, Wichita Falls, secretary.

Band contests will be held in member cities from time to time and it will be the undertaking of the association to secure affiliation with the National High School Band association in order to take part in national contests. Directors hope through the new organization to better the playing of their bands and to arouse interest in this work. All towns in this territory are invited to join and to make application immediately. No entry fee is charged.

Six bands took part in the contest Thursday: Lions club band, Wichita Falls; Paul Seeds' band, Wichita Falls; Iowa Park band; Frederick, Okla., band; Community band, Burkburnett, and Cowboy band, Burkburnett, with the Lions club and Paul Seeds' bands winning first and second prizes.

The Frederick, Okla., band took third place and the Iowa Park band fourth award. The highest score was 91; the second, 90½; third, 85; fourth, 83. Although the Burkburnett bands did not compete for prizes, they had scores of 90¼ for the Cowboy band and 89 for the Community band.

Wichita Falls Winners

Wichita Falls band members carried home the majority of the medals offered for solo work, taking several first places. Rowan Fisher, winner of first place in clarinet work, 17 to 20 year classes, of Wichita Falls is an outstanding clarinet soloist. He began his work under E. L. Nichols of Burkburnett a few years ago and two years ago moved to Wichita Falls, where he studied under Leo Underwood, then Paul Seeds. He is a member of the Lions club band and in the opinion of the judge will go far if he continues his work.

Richard Gable, placing first in trombone solo work, recently moved to Wichita Falls from Kansas. Joining the Lions club band, he soon made a name for himself as a slide player. He has studied music under several instructors and it is expected he will be an outstanding player in this section of the country.

Dick Seeds, 9-year-old son of Paul Seeds, placed second in cornet work, competing with older players in his section, up to and including 11-year-old players. He won first at Amarillo in the state contest competing against more advanced musicians. If nothing happens Dick will give the older cornet players a great chase, the judge believes.

In this same section Juck Speegle, 11, Wichita Falls, won first place. He began his studies under W. L. Underwood and later studied under Tom McCarty. He has a wonderful tone on the trumpet and if he continues his work, he will be an outstanding soloist in this territory, it is declared.

Franklin Standring, winner of first place in 12-14-year class of cornets, is a member of the Wichita Falls Lions club band. He is able to produce notes equal to those of an 18-year-old player, although he is only 13 years old. He is a student of Tom McCarty.

Cornetist Well Known

G. W. McReynolds is well known in Wichita Falls as a cornetist, and it was no surprise when he took first place in the 15-16-year-old class. He has been doing splendid work under the direction of Paul Seeds. Recently he won the second division in national contest held at Marion, Ind.

Buster Carey, Wichita Falls, won first place with his clarinet solo in the 12-14-year class. He is a student of Tom McCarty and is doing splendid work.

Orville Malone, winner of first place in the bass section, produces rich notes, especially on the low pedal notes. He received much encouragement from those hearing him. R. A. Brand Jr., also of Wichita Falls, won first in the 17-20-year class of saxophone players. He is a student of Paul Seeds and has a wonderful tone.

Wayne McReynolds, Wichita Falls, placed first in the baritones, 15-17-year class. He won at Amarillo recently and at several West Texas Chamber of Commerce meets. It is the idea of the judge that he will be a featured baritone player in the United States if he continues his work.

Vynomma Wood, Wichita Falls, was winner in the saxophones, class 12-14 years. She is making fine progress on her saxophone, being only 13 years of age. She is in the Lions club band.

Lions Club Band

The Lions club band was organized in Wichita Falls six years ago by Paul Seeds. Later it was taken over by Leo Underwood, who made splendid progress with it until the time of his death. It is now under the direction of Tom McCarty, who is doing fine work with it.

Paul Seeds' band was organized four years ago as the Playground band, changing its name some time later to Los Caballeros. At the time of its orgainzation the students had little musical training. For one year it was the official band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and is widely known throughout the state.

The Frederick band, made up of some older and some younger players, made a nice showing at the contest, winning approval of the audience.

The Iowa Park band was organized as the Triangle band, having several members from rural schools and nearby towns of Iowa Park. This band would have made a higher score if many of the members had not been away on vacation.

The Burkburnett Community band was organized six months ago with 90 pieces, being the largest band in the state of Texas. E. L. Nichols is director and the band is making a good showing. Students are in it from the surrounding territory. The Cowboy band, organized two years ago, consists of little fellows who are proud of their cowboy uniforms. Since there are so many cowboys in this section, the band was a hit from its first appearance. It now consists of 50 pieces.

W. T. C. C. SEEKS TO COMBINE ALL TAXPAYING GROUPS

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 25. (AP)—Inaugurating a movement to unite all tax paying groups in the state and combine them into one central organization seeking saner government and reduction of public expenditures, the first of two budget making institutes of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce opened here this morning. More than 200 county and city officials and citizens from 25 counties of the Panhandle-Plains area were in attendance.

Advocating closer surveillance of budgets, the adoption of the home rule in Texas county governments, consolidation of county with city units and counties with one another, a number of speakers appeared on the morning program headed by President Wilbur C. Hawk of Amarillo; C. A. Jay, Dallas; D. A. Bandeen, Stamford, general manager of the W. T. C.; John N. Edy, Dallas city manager; Geo. Fairtrace, Fort Worth city manager; C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, and others will be heard before the close of the day's program.

A second institute will be held in Breckenridge, June 26. Similar institutes will be held by the East and South Texas chambers, a statewide organization being the ultimate goal. Local committees are being appointed in all towns affiliated with the regional organizations.

Cigar, or Nose?

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—That scar on the nose of John Jennings, lawyer, doesn't mean that he sticks his nose in other people's business. According to h' n, he was smoking a cigar, which went out. It was a short cigar, and when he tried to light it the flame from the lighter burned his nose.

Scalp Trouble Lasted Three Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble began on my neck and scalp. They broke out with small pimples that were hard and red. The pimples festered and scaled over, and the itching and burning were so severe that I scratched and caused eruptions. My hair was lifeless and dry, and fell out. I could not sleep and the breaking out disfigured my neck. The trouble lasted three years.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Ernest E. Houser, R. F. D. 3, Benhams, Va.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

Magazine and Book Review

With the Magazines

By L. N. C.

Collier's Weekly shows what it thinks of Freling Foster's feature "Keep Up With the World," by giving it more space and adorning it with cartoons. What happened to the contract lessons in the June 25th Collier's, we would like to know. Possibly Mr. Foster is easier on the mind during the hot weather.

"Due to the great number of counterfeit coins circulating in Siam," he tells us, "the large banks keep staffs of trained monkeys to test, by biting, all their metallic money." Sanitary sort of custom, isn't it?

And then, "In ancient Greece, sorrow of the death of a relative or close friend is expressed by shaving the head. When great men died, custom demanded the shaving of the heads of the citizens of entire cities or the wohle country."

A nice cool custom for summer, anyway!

But the paragraph that pleased us most was this: "A patent has been granted for a new method of dyeing ladies' hosiery that will, by an optical illusion, give any desired shape to the wearer's leg."

What a boon for bow legged ladies!

We are not through with Collier's. Aspiring writers should read the "Write Your Own" offer in the June 25 number. You might win $100, $75 or $50.

In the same magazine, a dolorous plaint in editorial calls for leadership. The terrible cartoon that goes with it makes it more terrible.

"More than ever before in the memory of living men," it reads "we need leaders.

"In government, in business, and in many other vital relationships of life we are drifting. Old principles are no longer persuasive. Old ways have lost their magic. Everywhere there are uncertainty and confusion. The very time cries aloud for strong and wise leaders. The millions await the man able to draw a clear road map to the future."

Of quite another tenor is the splendid editorial of June 25 in the Saturday Evening Post. Under "Give Us Something New," the editor writes:

"These are field days for shallow thinkers, and among their prize offerings is the suggestion that the constitution is obsolete, a "dead one." In fact, they despair of any real improvement as long as we suffer from what they consider a cumbersome and antiquated form of government.

"It is well to remember the real purpose of government. It is not to guarantee the individual against losses from speculation in stocks or real estate or commodities, or even against loss in bank failures. Its purpose is to settle disputes between claimants, to maintain peace and to provide for the common defense. It is, further, an instrument by which our liberties are secured. People seem to have forgotten history. For many centuries a large portion of humanity were slaves; many were chained in galleys. It took ages to battle down tyranny and secure liberty.

"We suspect that a very considerable proportion of those who would scrap American political institutions out of hand are of alien sympathies or background. Behind a considerable portion of our population is no tradition of Anglo-Saxon struggle for liberty. Many of these persons are intellectually smart, but they do not know that our constitutional system has come out of the upward striving of a race, like a living organism out of the ground. They would replace it with a lot of new or at least different parts. They would do it by a logical rather than a living process of growth. Their intentions may be good; all they lack is wisdom."

Editorials in the current Pathfinder include:

"This session of congress was just the same "dole" story.

"The only thing the farmer is turning over this year is his furrow.

"Captain Fried, the rescue expert, must be taking a vacation. Hausner, transatlantic flyer forced down off Portugal, was picked up by the captain of a British tanker.

"The wets would make the drys believe that between Rockefeller's high powered gas and Sloan's high powered motor cars prohibition is going to be "taken for a ride."

"Governor Moore of New Jersey signs measure for a state referendum in November for abandonment of the state dry act, which is the first many Jerseyites knew there was such an act."

And under "Pork Barrel Revulsion," in the same magazine, we find this:

"One town after another, in various parts of the country, sent word to congress not to give them the new postoffice costing $50,000, or $70,000 or $100,000, as the case may be, but to save the money and cut down expenses. So many special classes of our citizens have been begging, or demanding, special favors from the public purse that this unselfish action came like a refreshing breeze in a lifeless atmosphere. Evidences of a spirit of cooperation mutual aid, self-sacrifice and considerateness of the whole national family are the grains of salt that save the American character."

The new novel by Sinclair Lewis, the first since he won the Nobel prize, will be read by the Lewis "following" which "can't wait" in Redbook Magazine beginning July 1, when the opening installment appears in the August issue. Mr. Lewis and Edwin Balmer, Redbook editor, arranged for Redbook's right to first reading of Mr. Lewis' next novel the very day before the author received the announcement of the Nobel award. Mr. Lewis brought back the end of the manuscript on his return from Europe the other day, when a triangular debate occurred in the stateroom between Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and the reporters as to whether the new story is in a new Lewis vein. The argument is settled by the Redbood editor, himself a novelist, who declares that "Ann Vickers" is the most important novel Lewis has written and it reveals very definitely a new kind of Sinclair Lewis.

The leading novelists of America are well taken care of in an article in the last Bookman by Joseph J. Reilly, under the head of "When the Japs Beleagured Manhattan."

"Within 300 days after the propagandists of 'peace at any price' succeeded in making America defenseless," he writes, the Japs came through the Panama canal, swept up the Atlantic and bottled up Manhattan. A conference of American writers was meeting at the Algonquin and they promised to spare Manhattan on condition that the five leading novelists of the country should be handed over to them in five successive weeks, their fate to be an eternal mystery.

The five were selected and then the fun begins. In turn, according to the evil they had wrought, the arbiter surrendered, first, Theodore Dreiser; second, Sinclair Lewis; third, Thornton Wilder; fourth, Edith Wharton and then suicided rather than give up Willa Cather to whom "the future belongs."

June Good Housekeeping suggests pertinent points about canning. Book reviews, we notice also, agree with some we have written—particularly emphasizing "Painted Maps."

Mrs. Martin Johnson, in the same magazine, tells a nice story about "Ticky and Ricy," mongoose playmates in her African home. But read the magazine. We think Mrs. Johnson would have a justifiable plea for divorce at having her own husband photograph her in the position he did.

Real Carolina Negro

"BRIGHT SKIN" by Julia Peterkin. (Bobbs-Merrill company, Indianapolis, $2.50).

"Bright Skin" is a story of a negro community on Blue Brook plantation rather than of a person and Mrs. Peterkin has developed her full knowledge of the race in depicting the simple human, groping, self-satisfied and carefree negroes of South Carolina. Little of the story relates to any other than the plantation. One sees the palm leaf fans and hears the singing of hymns in Heaven's Gate church; there are hoots of owls and singing of birds; there is the odor of bruised gourd vines and damp grass; the seining of "swimp" and fish from the bay; there is conjuring, and flaring passion, and grief and disappointment.

Though Crickett, the brightskin girl, is the heroine of the tale, Blue is the greatest character. Brought to the plantation by his father, Jim, he meets in turn the plantation people and learns them well; Big Pa, born in Africa, who has a brave philosophy of life; Aunt Fancy, who warns Blue, "You can't sleep in my house lest you pray. Git up and kneel down. I can't stand slack ways." Aunt Fan went to church but unhooked her corsets coming home for she couldn't "stand mashing." There is Man Jay, the water boy who grew into the Harlem gambler and Reverend Africa, who owned a tabernacle in Harlem where people got religion and a night club where the sinners took their pleasures; there is Cooch, all animal—cruel with June bugs and little birds, who claimed the physical from both Man Jay, who said "I rules de gals I play wid," and from Blue, whose love and dreams always followed his brightskin girl.

There is Cun Hester, who said "One husband was enough for me; when he died an 'lef' me shet of him, I said God's will be done." There is Olivia who had "birthed" 20 children and there is Uncle Wes whose love is great.

Into it all came Caesar, the maker of liquor, who seduced the brightskin girl. And Blue saved her only to be deserted for Harlem where she was the best dancer to be found; Harlem, the magical place of which she had dreamed when her colored kin looked down on her light face and on the hair that hung to her shoulders instead of being wrapped into cords with ball thread.

The book is the story of unmoral darkies, simple as children yet as full of vicious passions as savages. One hears a coon dog barking in answer to a lone hound. One feels the loneliness, yet hears the wise philosophy of Big Pa, who said, "Cards and dice is like all in life; dey ever falls well for bold players." And the philosophy of Aunt Fan who met old age with "big trees is due to give place for young saplins'."

When Life Moved Fast in Texas

"TEXAS RANGER AND FRONTIERSMAN," by Col. Buck Barry. (The Southwest Press, Dallas, $3.00.)

Citizens of North Texas should find especially interesting the reminiscences of Col. James Buckner Barry, a fighting resident of the Lone Star state from 1845 to 1906, for many years of his life were spent hunting Comanche Indians in the sections which later became Wichita, Clay, Young, Jack and other nearby counties.

The author's great-grandfather was born in Ireland and had to migrate in haste in order to escape a British halter after participating in an unsuccessful rebellion. His grandfather and several uncles fought with the Americans in the revolution.

Barry himself was born in North Carolina and made bear and panther hunting his chief youthful pastime. After reaching manhood he tried teaching school, but soon found this too tame and migrated to Texas in 1845.

He worked his way from the Red river down to South Texas by doing odd jobs that ranged all the way from driving pigs to hunting buffalo. At Austin he enlisted in Jack Hays' Texas rangers, which guarded the southwestern section of the state. He tells of fighting Indians and killing buffalo where the city of Dallas now stands.

After leaving the rangers Barry did surveying work in the wilds which later were settled and became Navarro, Ellis and Hill counties.

Then the Mexican war broke out and he went back to Hays' rangers and saw much fighting on the Saltillo road and at Black fort. He was severely wounded before Monterey.

Barry settled in Navarro county in the late forties and was elected sheriff for two terms. He relates the daily thrills incident to the life of a peace officer, Indian fighter and stock farmer of that period. He was a leader in the "Reservation war," which almost resulted in a pitched battle between Texas settlers and United States troops guarding the Indian reservations. It ended when all Indians were moved out of the state across Red river.

Barry moved to Bosque county and for a 10-year period fought Indians in North Texas. Throughout the civil war he fulfilled this duty and at the end of the conflict had risen to the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the Texas frontier regiment.

Colonel Barry's headquarters during these years were usually either at Fort Belknap in Young county or Camp Cooper in Throckmorton county. He tells of Indian fights on Beaver creek, the Big and Little Wichita rivers and at numerous other well known places in this section.

Although not present in person at the engagement, Barry describes, from reports made by his men, the famous battle between them and the Comanches at Dove creek.

The book closes with tales of reconstruction troubles in Texas.

The author presents an entertaining and instructive picture of pioneer days in Texas. He fought outlaws and Indians from Red river to the Rio Grande and battled Mexicans on the road to Monterey. He relates all the difficulties of the early settlers lives and digresses to give countless interesting stories of buffalo, panther, bear and alligator hunts.

The book is not slow, like so many autobiographies, but flows along as rapidly as a modern melodrama—life moved fast in Texas in those days.

About a Flanders Lad

SHUTTLE AND SWORD. By Hawthorne Daniel. (Mcmillan, $1.75.)

The boy or girl reader of imagination will enjoy this book, which transports one to the ancient city of Bruges, in Flanders, 600 years ago, when Diereck van der Weyden, a lad of 16, became the center of intrigues and battles between the soldiers of the French count and the burghers of Flanders.

We read about Diereck's home, in the shadow of the great Belfry of Bruges, the typical home of a master weaver, and go with him on his way to Ghent, from whence he plans to go on to Antwerp to sail for London Town to study in the wool markets for a year before beginning his career as a master weaver in Bruges. The customs of the time are in interesting contrast to the life of the reader, and the whole is well written.

Adventure and excitement lay along the road Diereck travels in company with Pieter, an old family retainer. At the time of the story Flanders was under the rule of the French and Count Louis of Nevers ruled with an iron hand. It was a time of war between the French and the English and the count wanted to draw the burghers of Flanders into the struggle. On his journey between Bruges and Ghent the boy Diereck and old Pieter became involved with the French soldiers of the count and Diereck's journey to London Town was indefinitely postponed. He became a follower of Jacob von Artevelde of Ghent, the leader of the Flemish burghers. He saw the strongholds of the burghers and Karls of Ghent. He saw some hard fighting, was captured by the count's men, was rescued, and remained in the center of activities. The young reader will enjoy the siege of the count's castle, the skirmishes in the forest, and the many adventures of Diereck in this historical story.

Six hundred years have passed since the intrigues and battles of Diereck's time, and many times since then have men of Flanders risen to keep their home a neutral nation. Boys and girls of today who are thrilled by this tale may hear the same bells that rang over Bruges when Diereck lived there, and in Ghent may see a statue of Jacob von Artevelde, in his armor, the man who first declared his nation neutral, and whose friendship had such tremendous influence on the life of the boy, Diereck van der Weyden. (Age 10 and over.)

OKLAHOMA CITY TRUST COMPANY ROBBED OF $100

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 25. (UP)—Two bandits held up four employes and three visitors in the Commercial Trust company offices here this afternoon and escaped with about $100.

They missed by five minutes $3,000 in cash which Cashier Margaret Kirkpatrick was taking to a bank for deposit.

No trace of the robbers was found after they hurried from the office and disappeared in the crowds.

The men, both about 31, and of medium build, walked into the office, closed the door and pulled pistols. While one lined the employes and customers up against the wall, the other took the cash from a safe. The seven persons were ordered not to move for 10 minutes.

At the elevator, Faye Miller, operator, obliged the bandits by stopping an upward trip and carrying them to the ground floor.

Some cows, in the northern part of Russia and Siberia, where snows are heavy and lasting, are equipped with glasses to prevent snow-blindness.

HAMILTON WILDCAT AT ANARENE OPENS NEW PROVEN AREA

Biggest Shallow Well in Southeast Archer Completed Friday Making 600 Third Recent Good Producer in Area

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Another week of the extensive drilling program under way in the pools of the district brought forth two interesting happenings. Of these the bringing in of a nice producer by W. B. Hamilton on his 4,500-acre lease in the J. J. Young survey, A. J. Ikard land in Archer county, was the most important. This well, a wildcat two and one-half miles northwest of Anarene in Archer county, topped the lime at 1153 feet and penetrated it 15 feet, and with each foot the oil show increased. Friday the well was let stand overnight.

Saturday the oil reached the top of the casing. Estimates give the well in its present condition between 40 and 50 barrels. Its completion is a factor in opening up another nice productive area in that section of the county and further development is expected to start in the near future.

Three-quarters of a mile southwest of the W. B. Hamilton wildcat, H. C. Dean and associates' No. 1 C. L. Abercrombie in the S. W. corner of Swartweat survey, abstract 197, is feeling for the lime, drilling at 1120 feet and is being watched with interest by the operators in this part of the field as a producer will mean a good extension to the new productive area.

Southeast Archer county brought in its biggest shallow producer Friday when the No. 3 White-Duncan-Holt & Tedford came in on its S. Webb land in I. & G. N. R. R. survey, flowing at the rate of 600 barrels. This is the third unusually good well to be completed recently by this firm from the 700-foot shallow sand. Nos. 1 and 2 were rated at 300 barrels per day each.

Burns & Long, putting down their No. T-1 L. F. Wilson in block 3, section 75, A. T. N. C. L. survey, have set pipe and cemented at 2221 feet to test the canyon pay at 2225-26 feet. The test is about 1000 feet southwest of Deep Oil-Lindsay production in Chalk hill and a small extension is looked for. West of Chalk hill one mile the Deep Oil Development and Lindsay interests will put down a wildcat in an effort to pick up the Canyon or 2200-foot sand. The well is in block 16, Crawford-Plowman land in Corzine survey.

Oil news from the Young county pools failed to show any development of interest outside the drilling of several deep tests, and other oil field routine. In the southeast portion two new deep tests spudded in, one to the east and the other north of the production on the old Kissinger pool in the Conner survey.

Reports from the other counties of the district show increased activities as compared with the preceding seven days' efforts.

Pipe line deliveries from the district's nine pools averaged 49,326 barrels per day, an increase of only 31 barrels daily compared with the previous week's run, which was 49,295 barrels.

RAIL COMMISSION DRAWS REGULATIONS FOR CONROE FIELD

HOUSTON, June 25. (AP)—Permanent rules and drilling regulations relative to the Montgomery county or Conroe oil field were adopted at a hearing here today by the state railroad commission.

The rules were little changed from emergency ones under which the field has been operating since June 15.

The regulations include the spacing of wells, the type of casings to be used, the oil-gas ratio set not to exceed 2,000 cubic feet per barrel of oil and rules to prevent fires.

No proration orders were issued.

The hearing was conducted by E. O. Thompson and Lon A. Smith of the commission, and R. D. Parker, chief of the oil and gas division of the commission.

FOUR LOCATIONS STAKED OUT IN STEPHENS AREA

County Remains Most Active District in Southern Oklahoma

COMPLETE 40-BARRELER SOUTHWEST OF DUNCAN

Wildcats in Southern Grady And Eastern Comanche On Sands, Show Oil

DUNCAN, Okla., June 25.—Four new locations staked out in the past week kept Stephens county in the lead as the most active district in southern Oklahoma. One new producer was completed and two tests have casing cemented to complete.

A wildcat in eastern Comanche county and another near Rush Springs, in southern Grady county, had sand showing oil or gas. The Tatums field of Carter county got a new location.

The Curtis Oil company completed its No. 4 Dare, in the NW NE NE SE of 2-2s-8w, five miles south and two west of Duncan, for 40 barrels in sand from 1400 to 1443 feet.

George L. Pace has casing cemented to test sand topped at 1728 feet in his No. 13-A Watkins in the SE NE NE SE of 21-2s-7w, a mile east of the town of Comanche, and was preparing to move derrick 300 feet north for the No. 14-A Watkins. The same operator has casing cemented to test sand from 1436 to 1441 feet in the No. 2 Bristow-Pace, in the NE SE SE of 18-2s-7w, just north of Comanche.

T. E. Bradley and associates drilled out cement plugs and had a show of oil in sand from 1604 to 1609 feet in the No. 1 Pruitt, in the NE SW SE of 8-1n-9w, a wildcat in eastern Comanche and northwest of the Oil City field of Stephens county. Operators were drilling deeper into the sand for another test.

Lesh and McCall, Texas operators, were preparing to cement casing to test sand showing oil and gas from 1780 to 1820 feet in the No. 1 Slaton, in the NW NW NW of 35-4n-7w, a wildcat three miles east of Rush Springs, in Grady county.

George Keith and associates are moving in tools for the No. 1 Blake, in the NW NE SW of 16-1s-8w, southwest of Duncan, for an offset to a 28,000,000 cubic foot gas well completed two years ago by Louis Sikes.

Start East Offset

W. J. McCalister and associates were digging pits for the No. 1 Dare, in the SW SW NW of 1-2s-8w, seven miles southwest of Duncan. This is an east offset to the Meridian Oil company's No. 1 P. H. Peck, on the swab for 50 barrels at 1460 feet.

The Meridian company made location for its No. 2 Peck, 300 feet south of the new producer.

T. W. Medlin and associates made location and were drilling at 1005 feet in the No. 1 Wade, in the NW NW NE of 11-2s-8w, east offset to their No. 1 Moore, completed two weeks ago at 2004 feet for 75 barrels.

Pace was drilling at 1445 feet in the No. 10 J. P. Houston, in the SE SE SW of 2-2s-8w, north offset to the Medlin No. 1 Moore.

Supply house men here vision better times in this territory and point to a scarcity of used pipe and machinery as an indication that normal purchases must be resumed soon. Surplus oil field supplies have been about absorbed by the increased activity in this and other sections of the state since the first of the year. Some of the surplus has gone to East Texas.

One operator, seeking a string of six-inch casing to cement in a well, hunted this section of Oklahoma four days last week for the pipe and finally was forced to bring it in from Texas.

"Up until a few weeks ago you could buy about anything you wanted at about your own price," commented one operator. "Things are changing now. I know of only two strings of used eight-inch in this territory. The situation seems to indicate better days and it shows, at least, that there has been considerable development in this territory in the last six months."

LIKE GARDENS OF BABYLON OR MAUSOLEUM OF HALICARNASSUS MURRAY DEFIES DESCRIPTION

By HENRY M'LEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 25.—Like the hanging gardens of Babylon, the mausoleum at Halicarnassus, Pharos (lighthouse) of Alexandria, and the Boston Red Sox, Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma defies description.

WM. H. MURRAY

Since Alfalfa Bill blew into town (he never just arrives) for the Democratic convention next week, the other 731 presidential hopefuls have been forced into something bordering on obscurity. So have Lake Michigan, Shedd aquarium and the hotel where Al Capone used to live, for that matter. For the sight-seeing bus drivers (or the drivers of sight-seeing buses) have quit trying to peddle these points of interest to the visitors and are cashing in on Alfalfa Bill, instead.

"Step right in ladies and gentlemen," they call along the drive, "step right in. This bus leaves in 10 minutes for the Congress hotel. See Alfalfa Bill Murray at close range. It's a sight you'll never forget. Only 50 cents." And the bus drivers are right. You won't ever forget Alfalfa Bill once you see him. Any more than you'd forget Niagara Falls or the ruins of Pompeii. We saw him and have been spending all our time since trying to get the movie and stereopticon rights. He was gulping black coffee and having his neck shaved when we walked into the "Alfalfa Bill for President" headquarters. This neck shaving business is necessitated by the particular type of haircut he wears.

Strange Makeup

He was quite a sight sitting down. But not until he stood up, offering a full and commanding view of his six feet plus inches, did we really appreciate him. His campaign suit might have been made of anything—gaberdine, seersucker, palm beach, mohair or sail cloth. And the man who tailored it could be sued for libel, breach of promise and operation of an awning company without a license.

Underneath the coat was a yellow shirt. It was set off by a tie that was lavender—in spots. But the tie didn't matter, for it was rendered practically useless by a long, silky, brindle-brown scarf that boasted gay tassels on either end.

Beneath this striking ensemble Alfalfa Bill wore long drawers of a fairly heavy texture. This, we think, is a subtle (if long drawers can be subtle) appeal for votes. For could not a man who is cautious enough to wear long underwear when the thermometer is around 90, be counted on to handle the affairs of the nation with a hand that would assure safety, if nothing more.

What we mean is, a man who wears long drawers in summer just isn't the type to jump into wars without mature deliberation.

WIFE OF PAUL ROBESON FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

LONDON, June 25. (US)—Eslanda Robeson, wife of Paul Robeson, American negro actor and singer, returned from Paris today and revealed she is seeking a divorce, naming a white English woman as co-respondent. She said she has filed suit in the New York supreme court.

She refused to disclose the identity of the white woman named in the action, feeling it would be embarassing, since "all three of us are good friends."

PROGRAM CLOSES VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL SESSIONS

An interesting and instructive program closed the vacation church school Friday evening at the First Presbyterian church. The school has been conducted for three weeks, during the morning, Miss Dorothy Dragon, director of religious education, was the principal of the school. She had an able staff of teachers under her. The school was divided into four departments, each under a department superintendent. The school enrolled over 100 pupils and the average attendance was 98. No collection was taken during the school, but any child so desiring could drop his money into an offering box. During the program Friday evening a collection was taken, which will clear the expenses of the school.

The enthusiasm ran high during the course of the school, and instead of the usual drop, the attendance held up during the full three-week period. Each Friday was made a gala day in the way of a surprise. The five adult classes of the church combined to give these surprises to the children. Food and special speakers or whistlers were the unexpected events which came to light on Fridays.

The program Friday showed to the parents and friends just how much and what the children had learned and made. The small beginners were a Bible alphabet, each child having some character or place in the Bible to remember by a letter of the alphabet. The primary sang and recited some of their many passages of memory work. The juniors conducted a devotional service, using their memory songs and verses. The climax of the evening came with the dramatization given by the intermediate department.

Their project for the whole school had been the work on this play. The girls made the costumes and the boys made the stage scenery, which was exceptionally fine. The play was that of Ruth and Naomi. Those helping with the play were Mrs. Charles Reid, director; Mrs. F. C. Uttz, sewing of costumes; Roland Brown, stage scenery; Mrs. John Overbey, superintendent of the department.

The evening closed with the giving of the certificates for faithful work. There were 113 certificates given out. Miss Dragon presented a Bible to the most outstanding pupil in the school. This is a custom she began when she started vacation school work several years ago.

The pupil winning this Bible this year was Talma Lee Brooks of Houston street. After the program the parents were invited to view the handwork made by the various departments. The work done by the juniors and intermediates in the form of dolls and toys is to be sent to the children in the hospital at Puerto Rico.

NEGRO WHO CONFESSED TO ATTACKING COUPLES DIES FORT WORTH JAIL

FORT WORTH, June 25. (INS)—Frank Miller, negro terrorist who admitted to officers he had robbed several men in the vicinity of Cold Springs road here during the last few months and attacked their women companions, died in jail here today from a bullet wound inflicted by a city detective at the time of Miller's arrest.

Miller made two confessions. In the first he admitted the robberies but denied the attacks. A short time later he called for one of the assistant district attorneys and made a written confession to attacking seven women.

AMUSEMENTS

Jackie Cooper, coming to the State Wednesday with Charles "Chic" Sale in "When a Feller Needs a Friend."

'Possessed' With Crawford-Gable Featured at Gem

Joan Crawford is supported by an interesting pair of leading men in "Possessed," playing at the Gem Sunday and Monday.

The first, Clark Gable, needs no introduction to film-goers. He is the sensation of the hour in pictures. One year ago he was unknown. Today he gets more fan-mail than any male player in Hollywood. He caught on with a vengeance in such pictures as "Dance, Fools, Dance" and "The Secret Six" and has recently scored in Norma Shearer's "A Free Soul" and Greta Garbo's "Susan Lenox."

The other, Wallace Ford, is new to pictures, but for a number of years has been one of the most popular leading men on Broadway. Ford has the reputation of having played in more long-run hits than any other actor on Broadway. He did two years as the condemned soldier in "Abraham Lincoln"; two years in "Broadway"; two years in "Pigs" and a year in "Abie's Irish Rose."

Others in the cast include the comic Skeets Gallagher, Frank Conroy, Marjorie White, John Miljan and Clara Blandick.

Tallulah Bankhead and Paul Lucas In 'Thunder Below' at the Majestic

'Strange Case Clare Deane' at State

One woman in a tropical jungle —among many men!

One woman—with a husband she doesn't love!

One woman with a tumult of emotions pounding within her for another man's love—and that man eager, ardent, passionate—yet restrained!

Thus stands Tallulah Bankhead, in "Thunder Below," now playing at the Majestic, high voltage emotionalist, facing a double-edged dilemma—an overpowering love, calling. Duty, even pity, commanding. What will be her choice—mistress or wife?

And thus stands Paul Lukas, epitomizing an idealized friendship touched with culture, with loyalty hammering at his soul. Yet, gripping his heart is a love that will not die. What will be his choice?

And thus stands Charles Bickford, the man of capacity, virility and power, who bent others to his will. But now, a "Samson shorn of his power," humbled, dependent yet selfish in his will to hold what he has already lost. Can he—should he demand a wife's devotion when he knows her love is dead?

To add to your enjoyment you will see "Screen Souvenirs," a novelty; "Admission Free," a Talkertoon; "College Grapplers," Grantland Rice sportlight and Majestic News events.

"Forbidden"

Barbara Stanwyck comes to the Majestic Tuesday in "Forbidden." Adolphe Menjou and Ralph Bellamy are featured with her.

A splendid production has been given "Forbidden." The two leading characters meet on a Havana-bound boat and the beautiful Cuban capital is the scene of their love. Back in New York again the scene shifts from a newspaper office to politics and a palatial Park avenue home. Miss Stanwyck wears many stunning gowns and the role offers her a chance to show her versatility in make-up as well as in acting.

In addition you will see "Timely Tunes," an organlog; "In Switzerland," and act; "Last Dance" a cartoon and Majestic News events.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

Starting next Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," with Marian Nixon and Ralph Bellamy, brings back to your memories the immortal and glorious tender romances of "Rebecca." This native wistful impulsive miss from "Sunnybrook Farm" whose glorious romances have thrilled millions, as both book and a play is portrayed by Marian Nixon, whose charm and wistfulness characteristic of all her past work are said to reach their highest expression in her current success. Ralph Bellamy the male lead is another favorite in this great stage play.

This picture will play at the Majestic through Sunday, July 3.

"CASE OF CLARA DEANE" AT STATE STARTING ON SUNDAY

"The Strange Case of Clara Deane," opening a three-day engagement at the State Sunday, glows with the red fires of women. The heroine, the sweet, the docile, turned beast at bay under the strange action of a fate that would strike at her very soul! A woman, deserving so much; life giving so little, innocent, and she spent 15 years in prison, had her child torn from her arms, suffered the tortures of hell. Portraying this vivid story is a cast that will arouse the strongest of human emotions. Wynne Gibson is cast as the woman, Clara Deane, and is supported by Pat O'Brien, Frances Dee, George Barbier and Florence Britton.

Although a picture of mother love, "The Strange Case of Clara Deane" has that touch of action and power that makes it stand out above previous pictures of its type. In brief, the story concerns Clara Deane, daughter of wealth and refinement, defying the judgment of her social set to marry her "jailbird" lover. Years bring disillusionment, with her husband proven to be a worthless thief. There comes a child, and finally the tragic separation when she is sent to prison for a crime she did not commit.

The final scenes are tensely dramatic.

"When a Feller Needs a Friend"

Wednesday comes "When a Feller Needs a Friend," co-starring Jackie Cooper and Charles "Chic" Sale. Many will recall the splendid work of this youngster playing with Wallace Beery in "The Champ."

"When a Feller Needs a Friend" is not merely a "kids" picture, no more than was "The Champ." On the contrary, it has that entertaining quality of universal appeal. Others in the cast include Ralph Graves, Dorothy Peterson and Helen Parrish.

Saturday only the State presents Victor McLaglen in "While Paris Sleeps."

Baptist Y. W. A. of 11th District To Begin Three-Day Encampment on Prescott Farm Near Burk July 4

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 25.—According to Miss Ruth Townley, Henrietta, secretary and publicity chairman of the 11th district Y. W. A., the annual encampment will again be held at the Prescott farm, three miles southeast of Burkburnett, and will convene July 4 for a period of three days.

About 400 young women from each association in the district, which includes Clay, Wichita, Archer, Baylor, Knox, Wilbarger, Hardeman, Childress, Cottle, King, Throckmorton, Foard and Young counties, will attend the encampment. Registration will begin at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, with attendance fees payable on registration.

Miss Townley is extending an invitation to every girl who is a member of a Baptist Young Woman's auxiliary in the 11th district to attend this encampment.

POSTPONED OPENING OF BICYCLE CONTEST AT LAKESIDE PARK HERE

A number of entries have already been made for this contest, which will take place on the stage, with the teams working in relays, 24 hours a day. Each team is composed of a boy and girl. The team that makes the greatest number of miles at the close of the contest will win a large cash prize.

Entries are coming in every day, and just a few more are needed to make the list complete. A vaudeville performance will be given each night in front of the riders.

NEWS COMEDY NOVELTY STATE NOW SHOWING

THE LOOKOUT

BY AL PARKER

Texas has been a long time doing it, but it now seems certain that in Gus Moreland a golfer of national recognition has been developed. Texas players stole the show in the Trans-Mississippi event at Oklahoma City last week, and it remanied for Moreland to produce the lion's share of the fireworks. His 63 of Thursday beat the course record by four strokes, par by seven and represented one of the greatest rounds ever played in competitive golf. There seems to be no end to the feats this youngster is capable of performing on the links, and the time seems to be ripe for him to branch out in a national and international way. There may be better amateur golfers in the U. S. A., but we doubt it.

Dallas, by the way, is doing a grand job of turning out golfing wizards. The 13-year-old girl, Betty Jameson, who won a state championship here last week in the second annual tournament of the Texas Women's Municipal Golf association, is as fine a prospect as can be pictured. If there is any quality lacking, it failed to put in its appearance here. It is a well known fact, however, that few of the youthful prodigies of golf reach the heights expected of them in their tender years. Golf is a game that requires study and hard work. The youngster absorbed in the game in early years often is detracted to other things, and soon forgets serious golf.

At 13 years Betty Jameson's chief aim in life is to become more proficient at golf. If she maintains that attitude, we don't see how she can fail to reach top ranking. If, like so many before her, she is detracted to other things, her game will not continue to improve. Given a few more years in which to learn the mechanical side, a few more tournaments in which to cultivate that competitive spirit so necessary to successful tournament play, and Betty Jameson should be as fine a golfer as there is in the land.

Among the strongest boosters of the Dallas kid is Bill Strachan, who closely followed her play through the tournament here, and at its conclusion proclaimed her the finest feminine prospect he had ever seen. Grizzled old Bill has watched a lot of 'em start young and fail to live up to expectations, too, and he would be the last to get excited if these was not due cause.

Betty received some mighty good advice from Strachan, too, at the close of the tournament. Just a few words, but we have a hunch they will linger long in the girl's mind and will prove a real help to her if she continues to work toward proficiency.

Betty had been troubled with her putting during the morning round of the final, and Bill gave her a battered old club that he had used for years and told her to line up her putts, sock for the pin and the club would do the rest. She hied forth with the new old putter and her work on the greens was far better than at any other stage of the tournament. She three-putted but one green in the afternoon round and more than made up for that by sinking long ones on two greens.

After it was all over her father, who followed her play closely from start to finish of the tournament, asked her what she'd take for the putter. She replied that it wasn't for sale.

Bill told her to look on the back of the head of the club and tell him what letters were stamped into the steel. She found "A," "R" and "T."

"That's what putting is," Strachan counseled.

Betty nodded knowingly.

Putting is a feature of the game that often is neglected, even by the most ambitious. The general attitude is to take putting for granted. The long ones either drop or they don't drop, depending upon the luck of the day, the average player believes. He may practice for hours with his woods. He may devote much of his time pitching to the green from all distances, but putting practice proves too much drudgery for him, and he neglects one of the most if not the one most important phases of the game. Just as no player can become proficient with his driver without lots of work, he can't learn to putt without constant practice.

Milt Steengrafe is now registered with his fourth Texas league club. The California curver is slowly making the rounds of the Texas league, the Fort Worth club having signed him after he was released outright by Tyler. Steengrafe started at Shreveport this spring in grand fashion, but of late weeks has had little success and his release followed. Fort Worth has been mildly interested in Steengrafe for a number of years, and three years ago came within a gnat's eyelash of buying his contract from the Spudders. Failure to get together on the price prevented the deal from going through on several occasions. Wichita Falls eventually received nothing for Steengrafe and Fort Worth eventually signed him for the same amount.

The anterior portion of one of the year's biggest bass catches, and incidentally a jam-up piece of amateur taxidermy, has been on display this week at Slick Ansley's grocery emporium. And as might be expected, Slick is one of the heroes of the catch, the remainder of the role being manned by J. Ollie Presley. The big bass weighed seven and three-fourths pounds and was taken at Lake Kemp several weeks ago by Presley and Ansley, and as witnesses they have two gentlemen of the clergy, Rev. Finis Crutchfield and Rev. C. A. Spragins. Somehow or another we can't help but be suspicious when these two eminent anglers come up with one of the season's prize catches at a time when they have not merely one, but two preachers as their guests. Just a coincidence, perhaps. At any rate, we're going to present all our bouquets to Rev. Crutchfield for his fine job of mounting the head.

Record Smashing Closing Round of 66 Wins for Gene

Phil Perkins and Bobby Cruickshank Tie for Runnerup Honors

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY Club, Flushing, N. Y., June 25.—Gene Sarazen, the king himself, settled his right of succession to the world championship throne of golf Saturday with the greatest finish in all the history of the game.

With a spurt that left the galleries roaring and riotous, the experts and players gasping, Gene came down the stretch like a Man O'War to shoot a record-smashing 66, four under par, on his final round and captured the United States open championship with three full strokes to spare.

Barely two weeks after his triumph in the British open with a record score of 283, Sarazen struck his stride on the final day and furnished an amazing climax to one of the most thrilling free-for-alls the American tournament has known in years.

Gene finished the 72 holes with rounds of 74-76-70-66 for a total of 286 that equalled the all-time record set by Charles (Chick) Evans, Chicago, at Minneapolis in 1916. His final, dazzling round, made under the sort of pressure that has stamped him as the game's greatest finisher, clipped two strokes off the Fresh Meadow course's competitive record and smashed by one stroke the previous tournament record, a 67 by Willie MacFarlane in 1925.

Just 10 years ago Sarazen won his last and only other American open championship with a last round of 68 for a total of 288, but the "boy wonder" of 1922, just turned 21, was a tyro by comparison with the masterful shot maker who whipped everything in sight to a frazzle Saturday over the toughest stretch in tournament golf.

Thomas Phillip Perkins, the former British amateur champion, lately turned professional, and Bobby Cruickshank, the transplanted little Scotch veteran, finished exactly three strokes behind Sarazen, with 289 each, despite exhibitions of golf that would have been good enough to have captured nine out of 10 national open champions.

Perkins finished with a 72 hole tally of 76-69-74-70—289.

"Wee Bobby" Cruickshank, who first attracted attention when he tied Bob Jones for the 1923 open championship, subsequently losing the playoff, had a final tally of 78-74-79-68—289.

Leo Diegel held fourth place all by himself with 73-74-73-74—294. A stroke behind him in fifth position was Wiffy Cox, whose last day comeback enabled him to post 80-73-70-72—295. Jose Jurado, gallant Argentine, who was tied for the lead after 36 holes and did not crack until the last nine of his final round, finished sixth with 74-71-75-76—296 in his first bid for the United States championship.

The defending champion, Bill Burke, lost sight of in the last wild scramble, finished 11 strokes back of the new titleholder, tied with Harry Cooper and Olin Dutra for seventh place with 297 each.

Walter Hagan "blew" on the last day, much to his own and everybody else's surprise, and was 10th with a final score of 298. No one else among the 72 finalists "broke" 300.

FORT WORTH AND TYLER SCHEDULE ALTERED FOR SECOND HALF OF RACE

Two changes in the Texas league schedule for the second half, which gets under way Wednesday, have been announced from the Dallas office of President J. Alvin Gardner.

Both changes are in the Tyler-Fort Worth schedules and were made to bring about slight reductions in traveling expenses, according to the announcement.

The amended schedule calls for the following Panther-Sport series:

Fort Worth at Tyler July 1, 2 and 10, Aug. 10, 11 and 12.

Tyler at Fort Worth July 3, 8 and 9, Sept. 10 and 11.

SENATORS MAINTAIN POSITION AS LEADERS

VERNON, Texas, June 25.—Hammering out 17 hits, the Senators held their undefeated position at the top of the Junior Council Playground Baseball league Friday afternoon by defeating the Yankees by the score of 9-5. The victory increased the Senators' lead over the second-place Tigers to two full games at the half way mark in the first half title chase.

D. D. Moore, veteran mound star of the Senators, chalked up his third win in subduing the Yankees with six hits. Errors were responsible for three of the Yankee runs.

The Solons, led by Nathan Webb, who pounded out three hits in four trips to the plate, scored in every inning but two, failing to bunch their 17 blows with the telling effect of earlier games.

The Yankees, after their one run in the first inning, scored a run in the fourth, and staged an uprising in the seventh that sent three runs across the plate.

Buffs 4-2, Cats 3-4

HOUSTON, June 25. (AP)—After Rapph Judd of Houston had bested Dick McCabe, 4-3 in a 10-inning hurling duel, the Fort Worth Cats came back to whip the Buffs, 4-2, in the second game of the double bill and make everything all square for the evening.

Lee Stebbins' terrific liner in the 10th inning broke up in the opening contest in favor of the local outfit, while in the second game, Milt Steengrafe, Tyler castoff, "buffaloed," the Buffs for six innings. He cracked in the seventh and Dick Whitworth had to take over the duties with two runs across, all bases occupied, two out and Rye at bat. Gene flied to right to bring an end to the ceremonies.

Trio Americans Still In Wimbledon Singles

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Universal Service Special Cable

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25.—Three of the five American top-flight racquet-swingers who challenged for the Wimbledon men's singles tennis title Saturday night stood among the last eight who Sunday begin the quarterfinal matches.

Sidney B. Wood and Frank X. Shields Saturday shouldered their way into the select company found by Ellsworth Vines, American champion Friday. Wood, defending Wimbledon champion, eliminated Gregory Mangin, his doubles partner, to find a place. Wilmer Allison was the other American casualty, toppled by Fred J. Perry, giant English star. King George and Queen Mary watched the play.

The two Helens from California, Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, are the only American representatives in the women's quarterfinals.

Wood Saturday gave Mangin a straight-set lesson, 6-1, 9-7, 6-3.

Shields was extended to four bitterly fought sets to defeat Roderick Menzel, the Czecho-Slovakian star, 6-3, 6-4, 10-12, 6-4.

Allison Goes Out

The Allison-Perry match was a case of contrasting temperaments, with the Englishman's desire to conquer triumphing over Allison's languid play, 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. Allison dropped the second set on frequently netted ground strokes and took the third only when Perry slackened. The American was below his best form. He could not carry a sustained attack, although he was intermittently brilliant.

King George and Queen Mary arrived in the center court's royal box just as the Borotra-Miller battle got under way. They showed keen interest as Maier gave the French Davis cup star a 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2 trimming.

Crawford won his way into the last eight by administering a 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 pasting to J. C. Oliff of Britain.

A French woman and two English women advanced into the quarterfinals with Mrs. Moody. Miss Jacobs and Betty Nuthall of England. Mme. Simone Mathieu defeated Mrs. W. G. Lowe of Britain, 6-4, 8-6. Miss M. Heeley won from Miss Kathleen Stammers, 6-4, 6-3, and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingsall defeated her compatriot, Mrs. J. B. Pittman, 10-8, 6-2.

Mixed Doubles

All American players in the mixed doubles advanced Saturday. Miss Jacobs and Allison defeated the British team of C. H. Kingsley and Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2. Mangin and Sarah Palfrey, who was eliminated from singles play Friday, had little difficulty against the Dutch patrners, Hans Timmer and Miss M. Belzer, 6-2, 6-2.

Paired with Maier, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, another American singles casualty, triumphed over Britain's "man-and-wife team" of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft, 5-1, 6-1, while I. G. Collins, England, and Mrs. L. A. Harper, U. S., conquered the Czech-British team of Menzel and Miss Owen Sterry, 6-4, 6-3.

A capacity crowd thronged to the center court to watch Vines and Mrs. Moody win their third round match from Antoine Gentien and Mlle. Doris Metaxa of France, 6-3, 9-7. The two American singles champions played somewhat patchy tennis together. King George and Queen Mary left the stadium as the match began.

Loser Knocks in Foe's Ball In Attempting to Make Stymie

OKLAHOMA CITY GOLF AND Country Club, June 25. (AP)—Gus Moreland of Dallas, 21-year-old golfer extraordinary, took the 32nd annual Trans-Mississippi championship here Saturday, winning a one up victory on the 36th green from his home town rival, Dave (Spec) Goldman, whom he has beaten but twice in six tournament matches.

Both had identical medal scores of 144 for the 36 holes.

A spectacular break of the game gave Moreland a birdie deuce on the 31st hole when "Spec," stymied, knocked in his rival's ball.

Goldman's great fight could not overcome the advantage of Moreland's successive birdies on the 31st and 32nd holes, although he came back to win the 34th and doggedly halved the remaining holes.

Moreland, who set a new course record of 63, seven under par and four under the previous low mark, in his quarterfinal match, shot seven birdies Saturday. Goldman had four.

The unusual trophy to the winner was a 12-cylinder sport roadster.

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 25. (AP)—Cliff Sutter, Tulane university net star, Saturday regained the national intercollegiate tennis crown by defeating Bryan Grant, University of North Carolina, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

The doubles championship was won by Keith Gledhill and Joseph Coughlan of Stanford university, who defeated Jack Tidball and Elbert Lewis of the University of California (Los Angeles) 6-0, 6-4, 6-1.

Sutter, sixth ranking player in the nation, took the championship after a year's absence from the competition.

It was the second meeting between the two in two weeks. Grant's victory over Sutter in the semifinals of the national clay court tournament at Memphis had given him an even chance in advance predictions

In winning the doubles title, Gledhill and Coughlin succeeded to the crown won last year by Karl Kamrath and Bruce Barnes of Texas.

Dirt Track Racing Is Short Cut to Suicide

By HENRY M'LEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 25.—Young men who are tired of life and crave a peek at what's going on inside those pearl-pearl-pearly gates might take a fling at automobile racing, especially the dirt track variety which is nothing more than suicide while in rapid motion.

Your correspondent got his first peek at big time dirt track racing as she really is this week, and he was greatly surprised. It was nothing like the dirt track stuff we used to have at the Tuscaloosa county fair.

As I remember, the county fair dirt trackers were mostly local youths who piloted grocery trucks whose fenders had been uprooted, hoods whittled down and motors stepped up by the local garageman, usually named Bill or Charley. The county fair whizzers were capable of 300 miles per hour when judged solely on a noise basis, and 28 miles per hour when clocked by a watch.

Bumpy Track

Well, this big time stuff they had at Roby, Ind., was two other gents altogether from the Tuscaloosa stuff.

The only thing that wasn't big time at Roby was the track, which was like any other one mile stretch of bad paving, only worse.

Driving a little car 90 to 100 miles an hour on a track as smooth as a kitten's wrist would be trouble. But pushing one of the roaring little bugs over the mess of holes, slick spots and wicked turns that is Roby—well, jumping off the Wrigley tower without benefit of parachute is easier. But around Roby they went—howdy Wilcox, Fred Frame, Stubby Stubblefield, Russ Snowberger, Bob Carey, Wild Bill Cummings and the rest.

On the 73rd lap Wilcox, who was leading at the time, almost made Mrs. Wilcox a widow. "Howdy" streaked down the stretch past the grandstand at 90 or better and without easing his foot off the accelerator, swept into the turn. As he reached the top of the bend, going like a bat out of hell, his little car spun crazily, rocketed across the track and headed for the fence. Two feet from the railing it did a right-about face and hurtled through the inside enclosure.

Asked after the race what happened "Howdy" grinned through a mask of hot oil and grime and said:

"Just sorta spun."

Just a little screwy, I'm telling you. Screwey on speed. Apparently nothing stops 'em save Ol' Man Death himself. And not even the ol' man, I reckon. For example, one of the drivers hit a spectator who was crossing the track, amidships. The spectator was rushed, dying, to the hospital, but the diver kept right on blasting into those straightaways and smacking into those turns until the end of the race.

You oughta get a load of these nuts when they finish a grind. The inside of their hands one solid blister. Their legs, from knee to big toe, coated with scalding oil. Their eyes bloodshot and puffed from the strain of looking, looking, looking at the glaring surface of the track. Their arms all but paralyzed from holding the wheel.

I know, you say, but they're getting rich.

Yeah, they're getting rich!

Stubblefield got $1,800 for winning yesterday. Those who didn't run one-two-three got nothing but an afternoon out in the sunshine. As Stubblefield's mechanic said: "Boy, it's a good thing we won. We were down to our last cent. Another day and we'd have had to wire home."

And some of them—most of them, in fact—haven't got anybody to wire.

MEMPHIS HIGH BOASTS WEALTH GRID MATERIAL FOR COMING CAMPAIGN

MEMPHIS, Texas, June 25.—When the first whistle blows for early fall football training on the Memphis High school gridiron 12 letter men from last year's squad will answer the call. There will be men to fill every position for a full team with the exception of one of the tackle positions, according to Charles Flannery the captain of the 1932-33 Cyclone.

Seven of the grid men were awarded letters for work last year while the remainder were awarded sweaters. Four of the regular first string men Captain Flannery, Tug Sanders, Buster Lesley and Ranold Milton will be on the field. Two of them received letters two years ago. Five of those gaining the sufficient quarters for reserve letters will be uniforms, Kenneth Oren, Gale Green, Boyd Dickson, J. C. Hill and J. P. Bose.

In the backfield of Coach Harold Walker's machine, Captain Flannery will lead the attack in the quarterback position. Jack Norman will also be material for the same place. For the halfback positions, there will be Buster Leslie and Gordon Walker. Both boys made names for themselves by their fast runs last season. Kenneth, "First Down" Oren, Gayle Green and C. W. Crawford Jr., will come out for the fullback position.

Ronald Melton is expected to be at the end position again. Bob Foote and A. R. Evand Jr., who substituted on the squad last year, will try for the end place. Jewel McCreary and Roy Forer are considered good end material.

Tug Sanders, a two-year letter man in the line, is considered the mainstay in the tackle position. Boyd "Mo" Dickson will likely swing back into his old place at tackle. Fred Sanders has shown fine possibilities as one of the tacklers.

SHARKEY'S WORDS TO MAX AT END OF BOUT TO REMAIN MYSTERY

NEW YORK, June 25. (INS)—What did Jack Sharkey whisper to Max Schmeling as the two fighters stood in the ring at the Long Island bowl awaiting the decision of the two judges and the refree which would make one champion of the world?

Some reports had it that Sharkey said:

"You gave me a good licking. You're a good man and I hope you give me a return match."

Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling was standing right by Sharkey, and Joe was in no mood Saturday to give Sharkey a break.

"Sharkey's mouth was bruised so badly you couldn't understand him and neither could I. I guess his words are lost because Sharkey will never repeat them now."

KANSANS MONOPOLIZE THREE POSITIONS ON U. S. DECATHLON TEAM

DYCHE STADIUM, EVANSTON, Ill., June 25. (INS)—To three boys from the plains of Kansas Saturday fell the honor to represent the United States in the Olympic decathlon events in Los Angeles.

They are James Bausch, former University of Kansas football star, now wearing the Kansas City A. C. colors; Wilson Charles Jr., Oneida Indian formerly a student at Haskell institute but now attending the University of New Mexico and Clyde Coffman, University of Kansas pole vault champion.

The three all-around athletes, who were tutored by Brutus Hamilton, Lawrence, Kan., Saturday were high scorers in the final elimination tests for a berth on the three-men team. Bausch rolled up 8,103.25 points, Charles scored 7,378.25, and Clyde Coffman garnered 7,360.61.

Bausch exceeded the official Olympic decathlon record set in 1928 by Paavo Yrjola of Finland who amassed 8,053.920 points. The American record of 8,166.663 points was set last year by Jess Mortensen, who is now a coach and therefore ineligible.

Joe Hall, University of Florida and Wilbert Lambeth, Newberry college, South Carolina, scored 7,141.10 and 6,790.90 points, respectively.

Hurst Installed As Hit Leader in National League

Foxx Continues to Maintain Pace in Junior Circuit With .382 Mark

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—A new batting leader in Don Hurst of the Phillies took command of the National league during the week ending Friday, but Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics continued to set the pace in the American league.

While Hurst was tacking 10 points to his average of last week to take the lead over Paul Waner of the Pirates with .375, Foxx boosted his batting percentage to .382 for a comfortable advantage over Gerald Walker of the Tigers. Waner ended the week in a batting slump, hitting .369, his lowest mark of the year, while Walker had the same average, an increase of five points over his last week's mark.

Chuck Klein, Hurst's teammate who boosted his batting average nearly 30 points to .362, continued to dominate play in the National league as Foxx maintained his leadership in five departments in the junior circuit.

Klein Leads in Hits

Klein became the first major league player of the year to reach the century mark in total hits, when he pounded out four safeties Friday to increase his total to 103, eight more than Foxx had.

The Phillies' outfielder also holds the advantage in runs scored, 78 to 66, but Foxx leads in runs batted in, 80 to 71, and in home runs, 28 to 21.

Although failing to get a double during the week, Paul Waner of the Pirates maintained his advantage over Porter of the Indians and Campbell of the Browns. The elder Waner has connected with 31 two baggers as compared with 20 each by Porter and Averill.

Stolen base honors remained with the American league, Ben Chapman of the Yanks being credited with 12 thefts as compared to 11 for Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals.

Foxx Lengthens Lead

Babe Ruth failed to keep pace with Foxx in the race for home run honors in the American league. One home run during the week was the best the Babe could do while Jimmie sent three into the bleachers. As the result Foxx now leads 28 to 22.

Following Hurst, Waner, Lombardi and Klein, the leading batsmen in the National league are O'Doul, Dodgers, .344; Herman, Reds, .337; Stephenson, Cubs, .333; Ott, Giants and Whitney, Phillies, .326, and Critz, Giants, .322.

The American league's ranking batsman after Foxx and Walker are Dickey, Yankees, .339; Averill, Indians, .355; Gehrig, Yankees, .335; Levey, Browns, .332; Lazzeri, Yankees, .332; Combs, Yankees, .330; Porter, Indians, .321, and F. Schulte, Browns, .316.

Star and Red-White In Sunday's Feature

Standing

Clubs—	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Star Transfer Company	1	1	0	1.000
Thomason's Service	1	1	0	1.000
Meyers Grocery	1	0	1	.000
Red and White	1	0	1	.000

Star Transfer company and Red and White stores, rivals of the first half race, clash in the opening game of Sunday's City league doubleheader at Katy park, with the grocers badly needing a victory to carry on in the second half. Red and White suffered a reversal in its opener last week at the hands of the rejuvenated Thomason's outfit, and another loss this time would set back the first half champs no little in their efforts to repeat the first half conquest.

Manager Johnny O'Neal's Red and Whites have regained the services of "Shifty" Nichols, right-handed pitcher who shifted from this team several weeks ago to the Meyers grocery, only to return to his former berth last week. Nichols, however, will not be eligible to get into this week's game and the pitching burden will fall upon some other member of the staff.

There never is any doubt concerning Star Transfer's choice, for Skipper August Storbeck has only Marvin "Lefty" Robertson, and the team either sinks or swims according to the effectiveness of the south paw's slants.

The second game Sunday finds Thomason's, the new second half pennant threat, aligned against Meyers Grocery. The Meyers entry, like Red and White, faces the task of beating back immediately or dropping far behind the leaders.

The first game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

In the doubles event the Hamilton building team of Dusty Rhoades and Horace Downing defeated in the final the Briggs newsstand team of Norwood and Billy Adams, 21-18, 21-17.

There were 16 entries in singles and eight teams of doubles. The competition was in charge of Randle Hanks.

AUSTIN AUTO DEALER GETS THREE-YEAR TERM ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—J. B. Branton, Austin automobile dealer, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment in federal prison and fined $2,500 for conspiracy and violation of the national motor theft act in U. S. district court today.

Robert Emerson Mayfield Jr., a negro, indicted jointly with Branton, was also sentenced to three years' imprisonment on the charge.

Branton and Mayfield were convicted in connection with the disappearance of several automobiles from Kansas City, Mo. Mayfield testified he stole the automobiles and transported them to Austin. Branton said he purchased the automobiles but insisted he did not know they were stolen.

COMMISSION STOPS PRODUCTION FROM MARSHALL WELLS

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 25. (AP)—The Marshall Oil company, was restrained today by the Oklahoma Corporation commission from producing any more oil from its three Oklahoma City field wells until an alleged overproduction of 56,954 barrels has been eliminated.

Transportation companies also were prohibited from carrying Marshall oil by the commission's order, issued following a hearing during which Chairman Paul Walker, declaring "Al Capone tactics don't go here," authorized an attachment for Henry G. Marshall, head of the company.

Marshall, who allegedly wadded up a subpoena today and threw it away, was ordered to be present at a new hearing July 9.

TIMES' DAILY MARKETS

RESISTANCE SHOWN AS STOCKS SAG TO NEAR RECORD LOWS

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—With incentive for fresh buying lacking, the market sagged dully today, but showed strong resistance when previous low prices of the bear market were threatened.

Transactions reached the meagre total of 310,496 shares, recognized as a dull Saturday as far back as 1924. Absence of buying orders, rather than pressing offerings of stocks for sale, caused two distinct sinking spells during the day, but in each case the market soon hardened.

Prices at the close were little changed, most leading stocks confining gains or losses to fractions. The composite average of 90 leading stocks showed a net loss of only one-tenth of a point.

In these periodic sinking spells, American Can, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel and a scattering of other stocks touched new low prices. But principal price changes at the day's end showed losses of fractions to about a point by American Can, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B," New York Central, Union Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Net gains of about equal proportion were recorded by Bethlehem Steel, Borden, J. I. Case, Liggett & Myers "B," National Dairy and Western Union. After yielding 5⅛ points, Auburn, which was one of the weaker spots, recovered about half its loss.

It was notable, however, that any uneasiness resulting from the small bank closing in Chicago, which may have contributed to yesterday's late selling, appeared to have been complete calmed.

Spot Cotton Prices

NEW ORLEANS, June 25. (AP)—Spot cotton closed quiet and unchanged. Sales, 18; low middling, 4.71; middling, 5.16; good middling, 5.51. Receipts, 1,103; stock, 977,456.

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, June 25. (AP)—The movement of wool during the past week has tended to improve. Activity was broadcast in fleeces. Most grades of combing staple and some quantities of clothing staple graded lines, original bag lots, medium Ohio and similar fleeces, were sold in moderate quantities during the week. A few houses reported a slight increase in sales of finer grades of territory wools. Prices on active lines were steady to slightly easier, with resistance to decline becoming more apparent.

SCATTERED ISSUES YIELD GROUND IN DULL CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—The curb market gave an exhibition of dullness quite as impressive as that of the stock exchange which had one of its smallest Saturdays for a long time.

In the drifting process prices worked a little lower; there were not many spots of real weakness, but with demand almost nil and a small amount of stock pressing the market, fractional ground was yielded here and there.

A few of the utilities showed minor losses, this group including Electric and New England Power preferred. Other groups were somnolent and specialties were irregular. Swift & Co. was soft under moderate selling.

Livestock

Midwestern Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, June 25. (AP)—U. S. D. A.—Cattle trade during the week under review was marked by another general price advance on fed steers and yearlings, while grass steers and grassy she stock eased off to a moderate extent. The dressed beef trade was slow throughout the week with difficulty experienced in maintaining price gains of last week. Aggregate receipts of cattle at 11 markets totaled 140,700, as compared with 137,861 last week and 185,831 the corresponding period a year ago. Strictly grain fed steers and yearlings are 25@50c higher than a week ago, while grass steers, grass heifers and slaughter cows are on a steady to 25c lower basis.

RALLIES FOLLOW EARLY DECLINES IN COTTON MART

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—Slight early declines in cotton were followed by rallies on trade buying and covering. July contracts after selling off to 5.11 rallied to 5.17 and closed at 5.16 with the general market closing very steady, net unchanged to 2 points higher.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 3 points under a renewal of July liquidation. The decline soon extended to 5.50 for December, making net losses of about 4 to 6 points on the more active positions.

Near month offerings were quite readily absorbed by trade interests without any material change in the differences between positions. The selling tapered off later in the morning, and prices rallied in the last hour on covering and buying through spot brokers. December closed at 5.56, or 6 points up from the lowest and last prices were within a point or so of the best for the morning.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 25. (AP)—Trading in cotton was moderately active today but price fluctuations were narrow. It was first notice day for July deliveries in this market and the first notices totaled 21,900 bales, rather smaller than expected.

Port receipts 7,776, for season 9,831,484, last season 8,911,981. Exports 2,661, for season 8,159,554, last season 6,369,421. Port stock 3,611,453, last year 3,094,322. RALLYING POWER DEVELOPS AFTER SLUMP IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Rallying power showed itself in the grain markets today after wheat had thumped down to equal the season's low price record.

Throughout the day, wheat traders took their cue largely from the action of securities, weakness at first being succeeded by renewal of strength. Word that the senate had made a sharp cut in operating funds of the farm board had a late stimulating effect, and so too did reports of harvest delays southwest on account of persistent wet weather.

Wheat closed firm at the day's high point, 1¼@1½c above yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@⅜c up, oats ⅛@⅜c advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 20 cents.

Bulls laid stress on the fact that domestic receipts of wheat were unusually scant for this time of year, totaling but 475,000 bushels today against 1,193,000 a year ago.

Corn, oats and rye rose with wheat after an early dip. Corn was aided by the advancing trend both in hog and cattle prices. Rural selling of corn continued meager and receipts also were light.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July 47⅞@48c, 50⅛c; Sept. 50⅝@50⅝c, 53⅛@53⅝c; Dec. 55⅝@55⅝c, 55⅝@56c. Corn—July 30c, 31c; Sept. 32⅛c, 33c; Dec. 33⅝c, 33⅛c.

Two weeks ago the Standard Oil company made its offer—that the prices would be advanced 25 cents a barrel provided the state's production were cut down to or below 476,700 barrels daily, with each field keeping within its own proportion of that amount.

Several fields immediately brought output into line. Standard made good on its offer, the price increase to go into effect tomorrow morning.

Government Needs Surgery and Not Experimentation in Times of Stress Justice Tells Attorneys at Altus

The sanction of the trend of experimentation, Riley asserted, sustained the proration of oil.

"A dark future of corruption of government is foretold when the regulated contribute to the regulator," he said, "and when valuable fruits of a man's industry are sought to be restrained by government, with or without the sabre."

"This sustained experiment is a departure from the ancient landmarks of the basic law. Even the 'noble experiment' now has been abandoned by both major parties."

Justice Riley advocated abolition of the criminal court of appeals, the county judges and the state industrial commission in a move designed to increase efficiency of the state judiciary system and reduce its cost. He recommended also reduction in the number of district judges, reduction of the number of supreme court judges and only one peace justice to a county.

"Rightfully, officers exist only for the carrying on of the business of government, and rightfully, only a bare necessity in number of officers can exist," the justice said. "It almost requires a revolution to abolish an office, but chances for readjustment were never better than now."

MIDNIGHT SATURDAY DEADLINE PAYMENT OF PRIMARY FEES

Midnight Saturday was the deadline for the payment of election cost assessments by all candidates in the Democratic primary but committee officials said they would have no list to announce until Monday night as checks placed in the mail before the deadline will be accepted.

H. J. Bruce, secretary of the executive committee, said he wished to clear up confusion which existed regarding the assessment against the candidates running for the legislature. He explained that under the law only $1 can be assessed against each of these candidates but that the committee had requested each of them to pay $25 in order to help defray expenses of the two primaries.

Most candidates have already paid the amount assessed against them, according to County Chairman Bert King.

Filing of first expense accounts by candidates started Friday at the county clerk's office and will be completed Monday. The preliminary statements must be sworn to and filed before the clerk's office closes June 27.

Waurikans Seek Balloonist Who 'Stood Up' Crowd

WAURIKA, Okla., June 25.—Hundreds of farmers with a yen for balloon ascensions were disappointed here Saturday and at least 25 merchants and candidates are looking for the balloonist who is responsible for the disappointment.

The man appeared in Waurika last week and collected three dollars a piece from merchants on the promise that he would make an ascension "in the biggest balloon in the world" Saturday. A number of candidates who were to have their posters on the side of the balloon also contributed.

Merchants advertised special bargains for the large crowd who came to witness the ascension and handbills were distributed over the countryside advertising the event.

A similar proposition was accepted by the Ringling, Okla., merchants for a balloon ascension on July Fourth and a number of Waurika citizens plan to go to Ringling to the celebration and incidentally recoup some of their contributions if the balloonist performs.

APPEAL FILED IN 132 TEXAS MURDER CASES PAST TERM

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—Convictions for murder totaling 123 were appealed to the court of criminal appeals during the 1931-32 term that ended today. Fourteen of the appeals involved death sentences. Twenty-three convictions in which assault to murder was charged also were filed.

A resume of the court's activities showed that 1,236 opinions were written during the term by the three judges and two members of the commission of appeals. Of this number 940 were original decisions and 236 were opinions on motions for rehearing.

A total of 913 cases was filed during the term, of which 136 were filed too late for submission. Thirteen motions were filed too late to be considered and the court had 38 cases and 12 motions under advisement at adjournment.

The number of cases involving violations of the liquor laws was 283, slightly less than one-third of the total number of cases filed.

HUNTER CRITICIZES EXPENSE OF STATE IN CROCKETT TALK

CROCKETT, Texas, June 25. (AP)—Operation of state-owned motive power is costing taxpayers of Texas $15,000 per day, Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls, candidate for governor, said in a speech here today.

Many state employes, he said, are riding around in expensive automobiles with state-paid chauffeurs to drive them. He declared himself in favor of drastic retrenchments in state expenditures by abolition of many of the state's 120 bureaus and departments and consolidation of the balance.

Hunter disapproved a state bond issue as a preliminary to state bankruptcy, and a step to taking power out of the hands of the people. In the course of his talk, Hunter explained his plan for abolition of the state ad valorem system and substitution of a blended tax.

LONG WAGERS ON ROOSEVELT

Bets He Carries Texas By 100,000 Votes

CHICAGO, June 25. (US)—Senator Huey P. Long wagered $1,000 to $500 today that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt would carry Texas by 100,000 next fall even if nominated by a majority vote of the convention.

R. W. Morrison, staunch supporter of Speaker John N. Garner for the nomination, took up Long's bet.

The wager grew out of an argument over Roosevelt's drive to break the 100-year-old two-thirds rule, with Morrison contending Roosevelt would lose the South if his forces abrogated the rule and nominated him by a majority vote.

Long agreed to donate "my winnings to the Democratic campaign fund," while Morrison said he would let Long "help me spend my winnings."

Floyd Gibbons, Universal Service special writer, is stakeholder.

J. Marshall Franklin, chairman of Maskat temple's committee in charge of "On to San Francisco" mtorcade, announces that more than 60 car owners have announced their intention of joining the caravan which will leave here July 18.

The west bound trip will be via Denver, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Reno and Sacramento, while the return trip will be way of Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix and El Paso, with several side trips planned to natural wonders such as Carlsbad Cavern.

Mr. Franklin states that this caravan is not restricted to Masons and Shriners, but is open to any one who wishes to make the trip, either in his own car or as a paying passenger in that of someone else.

The trip as planned shows that the longest day's drive on the northern route will be 377 miles, and on the return trip by the southern route 399 miles will be the longest distance covered. The complete itinerary, with mileage, will be given in the July issue of Maskat Wildcat.

It is expected that the nobility will be entertained free of charge by the numerous temples along the route. Already the following temples have written letters asking Mr. Franklin to please state the nature of the entertainment he desires for the nobility. El Jebel at Denver, Colo.; Kerak at Reno, Nev.; Ben Ali at Sacramento, Calif., and El Zarivah at Phoenix, Ariz., and it is expected that all other temples along the route will soon make requests for similar information.

Several temples along the route will have caravans of their own, which will join in with Maskat's motorcade and it is probable, by the time San Francisco is reached, there will be several hundred cars in line.

Appellate Court Decision Holding Archer County Oil Land Assessment Void of Interest to Entire State

An appellate court decision which attorneys say will affect tax assessments, especially on oil production, over the entire state, was handed down last week in the case of the state of Texas against J. T. Richardson. The opinion was rendered by the Eastland court of civil appeals.

Oil lands on which Richardson was receiving royalties had been assessed as follows: The county took his oil royalties for October, November and December, divided the total by 92, the number of days in that period, and then used the result as the average daily royalty for the entire year.

In addition to this the county set an arbitrary value on oil production irrespective of the gravity of the oil, the depth of production, whether it was flush or pump, on the edge of a pool or in the center.

The appellate court ruled that under this system the county had no assessment against Richardson, as it was arbitrary and was not based on the actual market value.

The decision of the case also reiterated the old principle that in making tax assessments on different classes of property, such as land and cattle, the assessment could not be made on a discriminatory basis which taxed one class on a higher basis than another.

John Kilgore and Guy Rogers were attorneys for Mr. Richardson. Archer county was represented by Bullington, Humphrey & King of Wichita Falls, County Attorney Eddie Weldon and the late Judge W. E. Forgy.

"I'm propping up MY Family Tree"
"In protecting my family I have to protect the money I leave.
"My wife realizes that she is not an experienced business woman. My children have quite a few years to go before attaining sound financial judgment. . . . What do you suggest?"
Here, sir, is our recommendation, based on long experience:
FIRST, a corporate executorship to uphold the terms of your will.
SECOND, trust funds under your will for family income, for school and college expenses, for keeping the principal sum intact during years to come.
The financial plans we recommend to uphold family fortunes left under wills vary, of course, with each individual case. Tell us what you want to do for your heirs and we will suggest methods of accomplishing it.
