O'Neill Faces Defeat...

Vote Due Thursday On Reagan's Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., faced with almost certain defeat in efforts to cut off an administration-backed budget blueprint, is pleading with divided Democrats not to "run into the woods" simply because they fear President Reagan's popularity.

Reagan, taking no chances on a last-minute slip in support, was putting his popularity to work right up to the vote, now expected Thursday. Fifty-one House members have been brought to the White House for face-to-face chats with the president, with another dozen due today.

An Associated Press survey late last week and private counts by both parties showed dozens of Democrats ready to join minority Republicans and give Reagan a budget plan tailored to his deep cuts in social programs and a three-year, 30 percent tax reduction.

Nevertheless, Reagan said Tuesday, "You know me. I run scared all the time."

While the White House was practicing a soft sell, O'Neill used an impassioned speech to step up pressure on Democrats to resist the Reagan tide.

"Listen, you have got to have courage along the line and courage is thinking of Americans first," O'Neill told Democrats during a private caucus Tuesday. His office released a transcript of his remarks.

O'Neill described himself as a life-long liberal and pleaded with his colleagues to reject Reagan's budget, which he said would cut "off the services for health, education and senior services," and support a less-austere Democratic plan.

The Democrats' alternative isn't ideal, O'Neill acknowledged. But he said "it cuts you off at the knees so you will use a prosthesis, rather than cutting you off at the hip where you have to walk along with a crutch the rest of your life."

The Massaschusetts Democrat cited gains made in combating poverty from the worst days of the Great Depression and said: "You don't think that happened by accident, do you? That happened by design and by legislation of the Democratic party through the years....

"Are we running into the woods because we are frightened, because a man, the president of the United States, is as popular as he is?"

"The man on the street" doesn't know what is in the Reagan plan "and he is influenced by a president with charisma and class and is a national hero because of events that have taken place," O'Neill continued. "But a year from now he will be saying, 'You shouldn't have voted that way.'"

Judge Censured

AUSTIN, (AP) — County Court-at-Law Judge Emilio "Chito" Davila of Laredo has been censured for appointing his son-in-law, Roger C. Rocha, as attorney in 26 cases in Davila's court, the State Commission on Judicial Conduct said today.

Davila also was censured for leaving the scene of an automobile accident without reporting to officers.

Commission members warned that any future judicial misbehavior would result in stern disciplinary action without leniency.

Insurance Company Wins

AUSTIN, (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today said insurance companies do not have to pay for surgery a woman chooses to have to reverse an operation that left her sterile.

The case was filed by Denton lawyer Gray Shelton and his wife, Mae Janell Shelton, after Connecticut General Life Insurance refused to pay for Mrs. Shelton's 1978 surgery.

Mrs. Shelton had tubal ligation surgery in 1962 to prevent her from having more children. At the time she was married to David Myers, and the two had incompatible blood types which caused problems for their children. She had the ligation surgery after her second daughter suffered serious health problems after birth.

In 1964 the Myers were divorced, and she married Shelton in 1965. After determining their blood types were compatible, the Sheltons decided they wanted to have children. The surgery, costing about $4,184, was performed to reverse the 1962 ligation.

"Widows Of Terrorism"

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The "widows of terrorism" are crying out for recognition.

Amid the worldwide wave of sympathy for IRA hunger striker Bobby Sands, a Protestant woman whose husband and brother were killed by the Irish Republican Army has opened a campaign on behalf of the relatives of victims of terrorism in Northern Ireland.

"After listening to all the stories about criminals and seeing that nobody cares about their victims, I decided there is something that one person can do," said Edith Elliott.

The SDN Column

Jean Everett called last week to relay greetings from the Dick Robertsees. Jean had been in Austin on Historical Commission business and happened to "run into" Dick and Jan during a coffee stop just before returning to Snyder.

Then, a few days later, Dick himself called and advised that he had just realized that he and Jan had been living in Austin now longer than they lived in Snyder.

It doesn't seem possible, but he swears it's a fact.

In fact, it only seems like a few months ago that Dick was manning a typewriter here at the SDN. We told him, of course, that we are "computerized" now, and he knew what we were talking about. It seems the the highway department has computers also, and their experiences there in Dick's office are similar to ours.

Speaking of Austin, the legislative session is heading into the nitty-gritty stage. So far, we have been disappointed in the failure of the bill to eliminate the "blue law," which we believe to be one of the biggest farces on the books.

But we were not sorry to see initiative and referendum put on the back burner. We are skeptical of this can of worms and we don't think the founding fathers ever dreamed of such a thing when they set up our government. Our nation often is referred to as a "democracy," when in fact, Jefferson, Hancock, et al, made it clear that they considered it a "republic." We think there must be a system and that "everybody's business is nobody's business, which could very well be the case if militant groups supporting various and sundry causes get a chance to petition for legislation on their favorite projects. Some people will sign a petition at the drop of a hat, no matter what it's for.

Career Day Is Thursday

Several local professional men will be at Snyder High School Thursday morning to help advise students on different careers as part of the annual high school Career Day. Hermleigh and Ira schools will also participate.

Sessions will begin at 9:25 a.m. and end at 11:25 a.m. Dr. Don Newbury, president of Western Texas College, is scheduled to speak at a morning assembly.

Career Day is sponsored by Scurry County high schools and the Snyder Rotary Club.

U.S., Russia Urge Calm

Warplanes Cause New Middle East Tension

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli warplanes streaked through Lebanese skies today and there was a report they had buzzed Syrian surface-to-air missile batteries in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley. The United States and Soviet Union prepared new diplomatic efforts to defuse the Israeli-Syrian crisis, but Syria insisted it would not remove the missiles.

Israel's demand for their withdrawal is "ridiculous and not negotiable," said Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam. "The Syrian peacekeeping force is the only legitimate law-enforcing force in Lebanon, and its right to self-defense by whatever defensive weapons is unquestionable and undebatable."

But Khaddam said his government is prepared to listen to what special U.S. envoy Philip C. Habib has to say.

The White House announced Tuesday that Habib, a veteran diplomatic troubleshooter, would fly to the Middle East soon in hopes of averting an armed Syrian-Israeli conflict over the Soviet-made SAM-6 missiles Syria deployed in Lebanon after Israeli fighters shot down two Syrian helicopters.

The Soviet Union was sending Deputy Foreign Minister Georgy M. Korniyenko to Damascus.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin, in an interview published today, said Israel had decided to give the U.S. time.

Ma Bell Refunds May Come In June

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell may have to start giving customers refunds next month, the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals ruled today.

The court set a June 1 deadline for the company to comply with a rate order set by the Public Utility Commission, unless the Texas Supreme Court enters an order earlier.

Bell spokesman Gray Kerrick said he did not yet know whether the company would appeal.

The company is contesting a PUC order that it start charging rates that would give it an increase of about $114.3 million — about $38 million less than the rates Bell put into effect.

Bell gave itself the rate increase of about $152 million last November, while waiting for PUC to set a rate. The company had asked for a hike of $326 million in its original application in July 1980.

On Feb. 28, PUC ordered the company to implement the commission's lower rates and refund the difference to customers.

Bell appealed, saying the PUC rates gave the company a profit that was "wholly inadequate and confiscatory."

The company asked a district court in Austin to grant a temporary injunction against enforcement of the PUC order while the court considered the merits of the company's appeal. The court refused.

The appeals court said the trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to grant the injunction.

The court held the utility may implement its own unofficial rates while waiting for a determination of "offfcial or legal rates."

"If these new official or legal rates are finally adjudged valid, ... their validity relates back to Feb. 28," the court said. "No one ever had a right thereafter to charge or pay for the utility's services according to any other system of rates."

Arts Survive Cut...

Funds Approved For Child Abuse Effort

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members have narrowly rejected an attack on state funding for the arts while beefing up state police salaries and money for combating child abuse.

Debate on attempts to amend the House's $26.5 billion general appropriation bill for 1982-83 continues today as representatives reach the politically sensitive education article.

The Senate Finance Committee approved its version Tuesday of the bill by a 13-0 margin and the Senate is expected to begin debate on the measure Monday.

After the House and Senate complete debate on their respective versions, the final bill will be written by a 10-member House-Senate committee of negotiators, probably prior to the June 1 adjournment date.

Rep. Gene Green, D-Houston, tried Tuesday to cut $1 million from the recommended $4 million appropriation for the Texas Commission on the Arts, a pet of Gov. Bill Clements.

Green said the commission funds projects in areas that are "among the richest in the state," like Highland Park in Dallas and River Oaks in Houston, but has refused grants to groups in his working class district.

"It is insensitive to non-Anglo and working class artists. Our job as custodian of these funds is to be sure money is spent in service of our constituents," Green said.

"When somebody takes a pot shot at the arts, they always use the minorities," grumbled black Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, who voted against the cut.

Rep. Debra Danburg, D-Houston, said the Legislature should not cut the commission's budget because am[illegible] all the states and U.S. territories, "Texas ranks 51st, after Puerto Rico and Guam, in support of the arts."

Green's attempt failed on a 63-63 vote. Ties count as defeats in legislative rules.

After an emotional debate, the House voted 88-53 to shift $5.2 million in state funds from such projects as Capitol air conditioning to child abuse protection. The money would attract another $15 million in federal matching funds, for a total increase of $20.2 million.

"God save the little children. If the Texas Legislature won't do it, God will have to do it," said Rep. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, a supporter of the increase.

Lyon displayed a sheaf of 8-by-10-inch black-and-white photos of beaten children in an attempt to generate emotional support for the increase.

Without the budget increase, 5,000 child abuse cases a year would not be investigated, he said.

Reps. Craig Washington, D-Houston, and Stan Schlueter, D-Salado, authors of the amendment, said it would enable the

Exchange Student Going To Turkey

Nettie A. Moss, daughter of Alfrieda Moss, will be traveling to Ankara, Turkey June 20, as Snyder's American Field Service foreign exchange student.

She will be staying with the Bahri Oral family which includes a 19 year-old son and a 21 year-old daughter.

Nettie says her mother encouraged her to apply for the AFS program and that she is supportive of her going. She also says that outside of one short trip to Washington last year, she's been in Snyder all her life.

Following Nettie's return to Snyder in late August, she will attend Western Texas College for one year.

SHS One-Act Cast Goes For 8th Title

Jerry Worsham and his one-act play cast and crew from Snyder High School will leave for Austin tomorrow to make another run on a University Interscholastic League record.

Snyder High holds the record for state winners in the one-act play contest with seven, and this years group hopes to make it No. 8.

They are scheduled to leave at 8:30 a. m. Thursday for the state capital and arrive there in time for a rehearsal.

Snyder drew the sixth slot for its presentation, which means that the play, "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," will go on at about 8 p. m. Friday. They will be competing with 11 other entries in Class AAAA.

Students in the SHS cast and crew are Mark Robertson, Hunter Crawford, Jack O'Banion, Joey Forbes, Robert Loveless, Randy Cook, Glenn Parham, Mark Shaw, Barry Tubb, Jennifer Cole.

"They're really excited about going to Austin," Worsham said as his students prepared for the trip.

And, although this is the 11th time a Snyder one-act play has advanced to the state finals, Worsham said the excitement of the students always makes it a new experience for him.

"If I were the only one involved, it would be getting old, but to see them experience the excitement keeps it from becoming monotonous for me," Worsham said.

It could be worse.

The library builders could have been at work from the very beginning. By now, the Republic would be studded with institutions memoralizing the whole string from Washington and Jefferson through Buchanan, Lincoln and Chester A. Arthur.

As it is, the builders got a late start and we have had to make do with the Hoover, Roosevelt (Franklin D.), Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson libraries. To that list we can now add the Gerald R. Ford Library.

This latest in the series of privately established but publicly maintained presidential memorials was dedicated April 27 on the Ann Arbor campus of the University of Michigan. And as sure as presidential elections are held every four years, it is not the last. Jimmy Carter of Plains, Ga., for one, is already deep in his own plans.

To give the presidential libraries their due, they do make available historical materials that are of some interest to the public at large and of great value to scholars. But it may be questioned whether this end is achieved as satisfactorily through a proliferation of separate institutions as it would be if the responsibility were lodged at the start with the National Archives, to whose custody in any case the libraries are transferred once constructed to be maintained thereafter at public expense.

Back to the Ford Library, even though the $4.3 million structure is the repository for the records of less than 30 months in the White House it could be considered downright modest in comparison to some of its predecessors if this were all there was to it. But more is to come. A separate Gerald R. Ford Museum is under construction at a cost of $11 million in Grand Rapids to house personal belongings, gifts from foreign potentates and other memorabilia.

If this sort of double play catches on in the presidential self-memorialization game, the situation may indeed be worse.

reagan's stimulation

There was drama recently when Presient Reagan made his first speech since he was shot.

Not since President Lyndon Johnson's "We shall overcome" speech to the Congress after the assassination of President John Kennedy has there been such emotion in the chamber of the House of Representatives.

It is the best way for a president to show leadership — not by twisting legislators' arms but by building up such support among the people for his program that the lawmakers can hardly oppose it. The president did not fail to promise the Congress that the program would be theirs, as well as his. He pledged to work with them on it. But the fact is that he is in a position to get just about whatever he wants, when it comes to budget-cutting. They know it and he knows it.

Tax-cutting will come later, and may be a different proposition. There will be a tax cut, but it is still uncertain what kind of a tax cut will be voted and when it will take effect.

What was striking about the speech was the 70-year-old president's physical condition, his energy and his confidence. The appearance demonstrated what his aides have been saying — that his recovery has been remarkable.

President's tend to see the country in personal terms. When President Jimmy Carter was in deep political trouble, he spoke of a kind of national malaise. The contrast in the Reagan speech could not have been more dramatic. Here was a president with confidence in himself and in the country.

That is the spirit of leadership. It could be helpful in achieving the kind of economic recovery we all want, and in inspiring our people to once again crave independence instead of government largesse.

"I think you'll be pleased with the realism — it's taking more time and material than our original estimate. There'll be a significant cost overrun."

Someone once told me there is a patron saint of women's underwear named St. Frederick. I never really believed this.

The person who told me said she used to pray to him all the time to keep her slip from creeping up on her like a venetian blind, and to give her courage when she crossed her legs and saw her pantyhose crotch around her knees.

I still don't know if such a saint exists, but if what I read is true about the garter belt coming back, then I have to take the chance.

Dear St. Frederick: (read with feeling)

As I have said so often, there is no other saint in your line of work so kind, so charitable and so caring. Who can forget how you, in your infinite compassion, gaveth us the one-size-fits-all and taketh away the girdle?

That is why I do not understand why you permit the return of the garter belt. Was it something I said? Did I go too far in my criticism of the pantyhose? Is there no one who wants to sit on the eggs anymore?

I beg not for myself, but for an entire generation of young people who saw Liza Minnelli in "Cabaret" and think garter belts are sexy.

They don't know garter belts as I know them. Without a top hat and starved legs, they're nothing! Garter belts are what happens when you assign a committee to design something to take your mind off your headache. The elastic band that cuts your waist in half supports two dangling marionette supporters that never warm up. They are positioned so that when you turn to reach the supporter in the back, they travel up to your waist. When you reach behind your waist, they fall to your knees.

They make ridges in your legs when you sit on them, and when you stand, sometimes release the very stockings they are supposed to hold up.

I beg you, St. Frederick, to intercede for women everywhere and arrange for an unfortunate accident to occur to garter belts on the comeback trail.

Naturally, we will live with thy will, but when 30 million women stand in front of their mirrors looking at themselves in garter belts, trust me, Freddie, you're going to work a seven-day week!

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy and the money supply haven't slowed, and some interest rates rocketed upward early this week to record highs.

For the first time ever, you could buy a long-term U.S. government bond and get more than 14 percent interest, guaranteed, for the next 30 years or so.

But buyers were still reluctant to respond, amid expectations that even higher rates might be available before long.

The administration of President Reagan contends that its economic program, if enacted, will help bring down inflation. And if inflation does indeed abate, interest rates should logically come down too.

Any lender would presumably be willing to do business at much lower interest rates if he could be assured that most of the purchasing power of his money would be preserved by the time he got it back.

But that kind of confidence right now is obviously lacking. Edwin Meese, one of Reagan's top advisers, said this week that skepticism wasn't hard to understand in the financial community, since Wall Street has been "misled so often by government" in the past.

Financial leaders are pleased that the Federal Reserve has acted in the last few days to clamp down on unexpected growth of the money supply, which is widely regarded as the fuel that feeds inflation. But they acknowledge that this credit-tightening will mean more discomfort for many participants in the economy.

For homebuilders and people who want to sell or buy houses, it means mortgage rates right now approaching 16 percent, on average.

For the federal government itself, it means heavy costs as well. The Treasury is in the process of borrowing $6.75 billion this week, and it is having to pay the going rate.

Meanwhile, the maximum rate on six-month money-market certificates at banks and savings institutions is up to 15.35 percent this week, the highest it has been since last December.

Because of their sudden sharp jump, these certificates can boast for the first time since last fall a yield advantage over the money-market mutual funds. The average yield offered by money funds in the last week of April was 14.2 percent, according to Donoghue's Money Fund Report of Holliston, Mass.

Money-fund yields can be expected to catch up sooner or later with the recent rise in rates. But there is typically a lag, since the average security in the funds' portfolio has about 30 days to run before it matures.

The Federal Reserve's discount rate is a record 14 percent. The bank prime lending rate hit 19 percent Monday, and some say it may be headed for a challenge of the peak of 21½ percent it reached late last year.

Special days seem to always have a way of sneaking up on us. No matter how important we say they are or how we look forward to them, they always arrive too quickly. Such is the case with Mother's Day, May 10.

We have celebrated Mother's Day for some sixty-seven years officially, but the tradition actually started during the Civil War when Ann Reeves Jarvis, a West Virginian, established a series of "Mother's Friendship Days" with the intention of reuniting families driven apart by the conflict of the war. After her death, Mrs. Jarvis's daughter, Anna, began a campaign to have an official day set aside each year in honor of mothers. Her efforts were rewarded when, on February 14, 1914, Congress, with President Woodrow Wilson's approval, proclaimed the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day.

Today, Mother's Day is recognized and commercialized by everyone. Stores, florists and even "Dear Abby" make sure that we have no good excuse for forgetting to remember our mothers on their special day. We are even urged by the greeting card industry to send a card to anyone that is special to us, as well as our mother.

Mothers, probably as much or more than anyone else, have always been the objects of much discussion. The subject of motherhood vs. a career is being dealt with by many women who choose either one or both options and are quite capable at both. We even have phrases that we relate exclusively to mothers. The phrase, "he (or she) has a face only a mother could love" has been around for quite a while and is the prime example.

So, just consider this one more reminder-Mother's Day is Sunday, May 10. A gift, flowers, a card or even a phone call would be a nice gesture for that special lady. No doubt she will be thinking of you on Sunday.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Now that President Reagan has lifted the embargo on U.S. sales of grain to the Soviet Union, it's time to expose the myth that the burden of the embargo was borne exclusively by this country's farmers.

The unfounded notion that the halt in grain sales to the U.S.S.R. caused great suffering, financial and otherwise, among American farmers became instrumental in killing the embargo and even outlived it.

In the wake of the president's recent announcement that the embargo had been terminated, politicians from agricultural states continued to perpetuate the masochistic fantasy of farmers singled out as the country's unwilling and unfortunate victims of the embargo.

Sen. Roger W. Jepsen, R-Iowa, claimed that the embargo forced "one segment of our population to bear the burden of foreign policy." Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., spoke of lifting "a great load from the backs of American farmers."

Constant pressure from the agricultural community throughout the almost 16 months of the embargo was crucial in convincing Reagan to abandon a policy intended to impose economic sanctions on the Soviet Union.

Indeed, some knowledgeable administration officials assert that Reagan's decision was shaped more by domestic political concerns than by foreign policy considerations, because the embargo had become an impediment to cooperation between the White House and numerous Midwestern politicians.

But were those complaints justified? By far the most important factor in agricultural economics is an element that not only is wholly unrelated to artificial trade barriers but that also is erratic and unpredictable — the weather.

In 1979, the weather was almost ideal, producing bumper crops and record-breaking revenues for this country's farmers. Last year, however, overall farm income dropped by 22 percent — and disgruntled farmers seeking a scapegoat promptly blamed the embargo, which went into effect in early 1980.

Many respected agricultural economists, however, argue that the decline was directly related to the glut of surplus commodities remaining on the market — and driving prices down — following the massive 1979 harvest.

A protracted drought last year led to a substantial decline in production. Corn yields, for example, plummeted from 109 bushels per acre in 1979 to 91 bushels per acre in 1980.

Poor weather adversely affected production in virtually every grain-producing nation in the world. Drought in Mexico, for example, created an unexpected market for U.S. exports.

Argentina diverted much of its grain exports to the U.S.S.R., in return for premium prices offered by the Soviet Union, and abandoned many of its traditional customers. The United States sharply increased its grain exports to those nations — notably Japan, Spain, Italy and Colombia.

Despite the embargo, U.S. grain exports for the 1979-80 marketing year totaled 107.7 million metric tons, a record-breaking figure that exceeded the previous year's exports by 15.2 million metric tons.

At the same time, the widespread drought pushed prices to record high levels, Thus, the value of this country's grain exports last year was approximately $40 billion, up substantially from $32 billion in 1979.

To prevent farmers from experiencing the economic dislocation they claim to have suffered in their exaggerated accounts of the embargo's impact, the Agriculture Department established an elaborate program to protect the grain producers.

The federal expenditures for direct purchases of grain, loans, contracts, storage and interest waivers have totaled an estimated $3.5 billion, with one-half to two-thirds of those costs expected to be recouped when all of the grain temporarily withheld from the market is resold.

That means the net cost of the embargo to the United States was more than $1 billion, but that money comes directly from the federal treasury and the burden is shared by all of the country's taxpayers — not just its farmers.

Your Birthday

May 7, 1981

A substantial amount of travel is likely this coming year. Your trips may not be of long duration, but they should be fun and offer you some interesting adventures.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Coworkers may be a bit more difficult than usual to get along with today, especially if they feel you are foisting things on them which you should attend to yourself. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Think twice today before putting any more money into things which have thus far proven to be losers. Look around instead for better possibilities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful today regarding the types of friends you bring home, especially if they're at odds with some member of your family. Unpleasantries could result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your image is a trifle fragile today, so don't do anything out of line to give one who doesn't think of you in glowing terms something to talk about.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you have pretty good judgment in financial matters, but today you may let one who knows less than you do make decisions for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful today in business matters which could affect others as well as yourself. Don't strike out on your own in areas where you lack their support.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you see that your listeners aren't in accord with ideas important to you, forego the hard sell today. Instead of swaying them, you might awaken more opposition.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Steer clear of situations at work today which smack of company politics. You might get drawn into something from which you'll have difficulty extricating yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Sometimes your innovations are real time and stepsavers, but today you'd be wise to stick to proven methods. Save untested ideas for another day.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is a possibility today that you may take too seriously activities which should be fun. If it's a sport, don't make winning too important.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is not a good day to discuss budgets or allowances for family members. Instead of resolving issues, more could be created.

Kentucky Woman Improves Aim

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The .38-caliber Smith & Wesson rested on the kitchen table, stainless steel and ebony, gleaming and inert. Beside it, in a small plastic pouch, were four bullets, two of them spent.

"There's no need to be nervous. It's just a gun," Dave Stanley was saying. "This gun could sit here forever and nothing would happen. Don't blame the gun. If nobody picks it up, nothing will happen."

He turned the bits of lead over in his fingers. "These are hydra-shock bullets," he says. "I recommend them because all the energy is expended in the object it hits. There's no chance of it passing through and hitting anybody else."

For Vicki Powell, 28, the movie on television about the helpless women trapped by a gunman was the last straw. That and the burglary of a friend's apartment.

"She wasn't home at the time," says Mrs. Powell, a stylish young woman who works behind the cosmetics counter of a local department store. "But I couldn't help but wonder what would have happened if she had been."

Mrs. Powell gave the matter a lot of thought. In the end, she called Dave Stanley.

The retired police chief of Lone Oak, a tiny community just outside Paducah in extreme western Kentucky, taught his wife Kay how to shoot back in the '30s. A former security guard, state park ranger and deputy sheriff, Stanley began teaching other women in 1965.

In making her decision, Mrs. Powell joined the ranks of nearly 100 women who have turned to Stanley, most of them recently.

"It's been building up a long time," she says, as she settles on the Stanleys' couch for the first of four lessons.

"I think it follows the general attitude of the public. People are taking up arms. It's fine to sit around and philosophize, but if someone's walking in on you, philosophy isn't going to help much.

"There's an old saying — a conservative is a liberal who has been mugged. I think there's a lot of truth to that."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

South has no problem at trick one. He ruffs the spade. Then, if he is worth his salt he stops to consider the way to proceed. He doesn't think about making seven. His problem is to find how to make his slam contract.

A 5-0 trump break will almost surely cook his goose so he must concentrate on 3-2 and 4-1 breaks. He sees that he can lose a finesse to the queen of hearts and still get his 12 tricks if he can ruff one more spade in dummy or if the diamond finesse is on. Then he decides that he should assume that West holds the diamond king.

If he plays out his ace and king of hearts he can keep control of the hand if trumps break 3-2 and come to 12 tricks so his first thought is to do that. Then he sees that if trumps are 4-1 this play will lose. On the other hand, if he cashes dummy's king of trumps and then finesses for the queen, he will only be able to come to 11 tricks if West was dealt the queen and two small since West will take his queen and lead a third trump.

Finally, he sees the cinch play. He leads a low heart from dummy and finesses. Win or lose the finesse he has retained control and is sure of his slam.

Bride Upstaged By Hang-Glider

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A wedding party did the hospitable thing when a hang-glider pilot crashed their celebration. They invited him to dinner.

PAP, the official news agency, said Jacek Kibinski of the Krakow Air Club had just broken the national record for hang-gliding, covering 20 miles in an hour and 20 minutes, when he landed near the newlyweds and their guests in Kojszowka, a village near the Czechoslovak border.

Troopers Work Minor Mishap

A minor accident was reported to Trooper Pat Alexander Monday morning about 4½ miles southeast of Snyder. Involved in that collision was a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by Earl Ray of Lubbock, and a 1981 Chevrolet pickup driven by Scott Cordray of Xenix, Ohio.

No injuries were reported.

Will Detonate Explosive Gas

BRIDGEWATER, N.J. (AP) — Hazardous material experts from Texas arrived at the American Cyanamid plant Tuesday to detonate an old canister of potentially explosive hydrogen cyanide gas, discovered during a routine safety and housekeeping inspection.

Theft, Mishaps Top Local Police Blotter

Snyder police are investigating a theft that occured at 11:30 Tuesday night. G.B. Williams at the Plaza Cafe told officer Keith Ward someone had driven up in a truck and heisted two 55 gallon barrels of used cooking grease. Similar thefts have reportedly occurred at other local restaurants but this was apparently the first time the theft was witnessed.

In other activity, five minor accidents were worked by police Tuesday.

The first happened at 300 34th St. at 12:45 p.m. and was worked by officer Buddy Kinney. Involved was a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Betty Wilson Fleming and a 1973 legally parked Ford owned by Melba Nance Johnson.

At 1:40 p.m., Sgt. Parker worked a mishap at 40th and Ave. V. Involved in that was a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Stacey Lynn Pruitt and a 1978 International truck with a forklift operated by Cecil Edward Green.

Ms. Pruitt was in another minor accident about 30 minutes later at the same location when her vehicle hit a 1981 legally parked Ford owned by the city of Snyder. Sgt. Scogin worked that incident.

Another minor accident occurred at 2500 College Ave. at 2:40 p.m. Involved in that was a 1981 Pontiac driven by Debra Lynn Sullivan and a legally parked vehicle owned by Melissa Sterling Murphy. Taking the report was officer Bill Armstrong.

The last mishap of the day occurred at the Varsity Square parking lot at 3:20 p.m. Involved in that was a 1975 improperly parked Chevrolet owned by Raul Rodriguez and a 1977 Ford pickup driven by Olamae Walker Meyers. Armstrong also took that report.

Also Tuesday afternoon, two juvenile girls were involved in a fight at the high school. An hour and a half later, one of the girls was involved in another altercation at the Kingswood Apartments.

Jazz Ensemble Plays At Spur

Members of the Western Texas College Jazz Ensemble were at Spur High School yesterday to perform for the students there.

The ensemble is under the direction of Guy Gamble and is made up of Billy Cummings, Mark Ham, Barry Mayo, Zane Reese, Doug Richburg, Cathy Valdez and Kevin Young.

Gamble will be holding scholarship auditions for next year's ensemble from May 18-22 and students interested are invited to call him for information.

Senators Start Debate On Spending Next Week

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators expect to debate their version of a 1982-83 state spending bill next week, beginning Monday if technical problems can be worked out.

The bill was approved 13-0 by the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday but Senate officials said it would take several days for the bulky document to be printed and distributed to all the Senate.

Senators expect that the House will have finished debate on its version of the general appropriations bill by Monday.

After the House and Senate complete debate on their respective versions, the final bill will be written by a 10-member House-Senate committee of negotiators, probably shortly before the June 1 adjournment date.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby urged the Senate committee Tuesday to unanimously support the spending bill when it comes up for floor debate, "in true Senatorial tradition."

However, there was some dissension among the committee members Tuesday before the final vote.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, committee chairman, refused to recognize Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, for a motion to change the teachers pay raise in the bill from a 22 percent increase to 26 percent for most teachers. Jones said Santiesteban had tried twice before in recent weeks to increase the teachers pay hike to 33 percent and had failed. He said the spending bill was already $70 million over the 1982-83 available revenue estimated by Comptroller Bob Bullock in March and the El Paso senator's motion would add $107 million to that.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and others argued that they should be allowed to vote on Santiesteban's latest effort. The motion carried 9-4. Some mentioned speculation that Bullock might come out with the new revenue estimate before the end of the session with possibly another $200 million in additonal revenue.

An effort by Traeger to make the raise 25 percent "across the board" failed 3-10.

Santiesteban said the vote would make the Senate bill the same as the House bill on teachers pay raises. Classroom teachers and counselors would get 26 percent, school employees 24, and administrators 20 percent.

U.S. Seaman Is Missing

PERTH, Australia (AP) — An American seaman from the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway is missing in rough seas about 155 miles off the west coast of Australia, the Navy said.

The young engineering crewman, whose name has not been released, was last seen early Tuesday, a Navy statement said.

April Rains Cut CRMWD Deliveries

Weather and water consumption track each other in West Texas, and this was borne out again during April in Colorado River Municipal Water District reports.

Bountiful spring rains cut deliveries by a quarter of a billion gallons to cities, but through the first four months of 1981, deliveries continued ahead of last year.

Total deliveries for April stood at 1,257,688,340 gallons, down 10.04 percent from the first four months of 1980. However, cumulative deliveries through April amounted to 4,472,833,680 gallons, up 1.17 percent from April of 1980, and for the four months figures were 3,716,672,500 gallons, down 2.69 percent.

Total mining and industrial deliveries were 214,121,340 for the month of April, up 42.38 percent over the same month last year. SACROC and Sharon Ridge, cut off from surface supplies for a couple of years, were beginning to increase their draws. For the first four months, oil and industrial totals were 756,161,180 gallons, up 25.64 percent. During April, Lake J. B. Thomas caught 11,000 acre feet of water, a vertical rise of over three feet, and left 68,500 acre feet in storage. For Lake Spence, the increase was 37,000 acre feet, a vertical gain of slightly over four feet, making a content of 270,000 acre feet.

Debate Reveals Little...

French Elect Leader Sunday

PARIS (AP) — Much of the French press declined to judge today whether incumbent Valery Giscard d'Estaing or Socialist challenger Francois Mitterrand won the only television debate before Sunday's presidential election.

Most comments on the 2¼ hour debate Tuesday evening were along the lines that "the electorate will decide on Sunday."

Only newspapers firmly committed to one or the other candidate took positions, such as the conservative Figaro, which headlined "Mitterrand hides in vagueness," and the Socialist Le Matin, which said that Giscard d"Estaing had been forced for the first time to come down from the heights of the presidency and act like a candidate in defending his management of France.

The American-style debate, a face-to-face encounter before a panel of interviewers, was the candidates' last chance to influence voters before Sunday's runoff election, and focused on unemployment and a Communist role in government.

Giscard d'Estaing, shown by polls to be running slightly behind Mitterrand, turned the first 35 minutes into an argument over how the Socialist challenger would govern with the Communist support he would need.

Mitterrand countered by attacking the economic record of the last seven years under Giscard d'Estaing, which have left 1.6 million people unemployed.

Giscard d'Estaing's clear domination over Mitterrand in their first televised debate during the 1974 election campaign was seen as the deciding factor in a close race he won by 1.6 percent.

DEAR ABBY: In your recent column concerning premarital contracts, I'm glad you agreed that they made sense.

I offer my own experience as a testimonial. I have been widowed twice, run a very successful business and at 32 am now married to a wonderful man of 56. We have a premarital contract, and it's no problem at all. I gave my husband the beautiful 2,000-acre ranch we live on and ar allowance for life. So far it's been a perfect marriage. I work at my business all day and come home to a chilled martini and a gourmet dinner prepared by my husband, who's a marvelous cook. While he jokes about being a "kept man," I know he is delighted with this arrangement.

He putters around the ranch and plays golf. He is a wonderful father to the children of my second marriage. On our first anniversary I gave him a paid-up country club membership for life and I find myself continuously buying him presents to show my devotion. This is the best business deal I ever made!

HAPPY IN SANTA YNEZ

DEAR HAPPY: And your husband made a pretty good deal, too!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Concerning premarital agreements: Aren't you doomed to failure if you begin a marriage by anticipating divorce?

ANN ARBOR ATTORNEY

DEAR ATTORNEY: Not necessarily. In some cases it's better to anticipate divorce than to be surprised by bankruptcy.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I know I must have many sympathizers on this one. I need some up-to-date advice on how to look feminine and glamorous at the office without letting men think I am on the make.

If I wear high-fashion clothes that flatter my figure and bring out the best in me, all the old creeps (never the nice eligible men) make passes at me. If I dress to repel the old creeps, I creep further into old-maidhood. I am 30. Any suggestions?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: "Nice, eligible men" never make passes at anyone. A guide to appropriate office attire includes a long list of don'ts:

Don't strive for "glamour" in the office. Femininity, yes. Glamour, no! Don't wear shorts, or too-short skirts. Don't wear plunging necklines or anything skin tight. See-through blouses are a no-no. Leave the junk jewelry at home. Don't wear cocktail clothes to work. Pants are fine if they are well-tailored and worn with a matching jacket. Lounging pajamas, jumpsuits or jeans with T-shirts are inappropriate.

If you follow the above suggestions, and the old creeps still make passes at you, you'd better check the look in your eye.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: While agreeing with your comment, "A good way to handle a compliment is to smile and say, 'Thank you,'" I am reminded of the following: "The difference between Northern girls and Southern girls is, when a Northern girl is complimented on her appearance, she is likely to say, 'Gee, thanks.' A Southern girl will say, 'How kind of you to notice.'" This was pointed out to me by a Southern gentleman who is also a writer of distinction.

D. CORUM

DEAR D.: He may be a writer of distinction, but he's no gentleman.

Curriculum Bill Sent To House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members have a second chance to consider a bill that would set out basic subjects for instruction in Texas public schools.

The controversial bill passed the House once but it underwent widespreaad changes Tuesday before it was approved by voice vote in the Senate and sent back to the House.

"We have tried to answer all the criticism we have had about the bill since the House passed it," said Sen. Pete Snelson, D-Midland.

Basically the bill gives the State Board of Education responsibility for setting out guidelines for courses of instruction in Texas public schools, but it also gives local school boards a final say, Snelson said.

The bill says that subjects taught from kindergarten through the 12th grade shall include English, other languages, math, science, health, physical education, fine arts, social studies, economics "with emphasis on the free enterprise system," business education, vocational education, and Texas and United States history as individual subjects and in reading courses.

A Senate amendment states that "a primary purpose of public school curriculum is to prepare patriotic citizens who can function in a free enterprise society."

Snelson, reacting to recent criticism, said the bill specifies that the State Board of Education and local school boards "shall continue the tradition of teaching U.S. and Texas history and the free enterprise system in the public schools."

"NERVE DEAFNESS" CAN BE HELPED

If you hear but don't always understand what people are saying...words run together...people seem to mumble...you have to ask people to repeat...you have trouble understanding when more than one person is talking or when there are other noises...

Free Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy. 180 Thurs., May 7, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at the Pal-O-Mar to perform the test.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing test will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy. 180 Snyder, Texas. If you can't come in on Thursday, call 673-4980 for an in-home test.

All hearing aid users are welcome to our services. Batteries for all makes.

Senators Start Debate On Spending Next Week

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators expect to debate their version of a 1982-83 state spending bill next week, beginning Monday if technical problems can be worked out.

The bill was approved 13-0 by the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday but Senate officials said it would take several days for the bulky document to be printed and distributed to all the Senate.

Senators expect that the House will have finished debate on its version of the general appropriations bill by Monday.

After the House and Senate complete debate on their respective versions, the final bill will be written by a 10-member House-Senate committee of negotiators, probably shortly before the June 1 adjournment date.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby urged the Senate committee Tuesday to unanimously support the spending bill when it comes up for floor debate, "in true Senatorial tradition."

However, there was some dissension among the committee members Tuesday before the final vote.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, committee chairman, refused to recognize Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, for a motion to change the teachers pay raise in the bill from a 22 percent increase to 26 percent for most teachers. Jones said Santiesteban had tried twice before in recent weeks to increase the teachers pay hike to 33 percent and had failed. He said the spending bill was already $70 million over the 1982-83 available revenue estimated by Comptroller Bob Bullock in March and the El Paso senator's motion would add $107 million to that.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and others argued that they should be allowed to vote on Santiesteban's latest effort. The motion carried 9-4. Some mentioned speculation that Bullock might come out with the new revenue estimate before the end of the session with possibly another $200 million in additonal revenue.

An effort by Traeger to make the raise 25 percent "across the board" failed 3-10.

Santiesteban said the vote would make the Senate bill the same as the House bill on teachers pay raises. Classroom teachers and counselors would get 26 percent, school employees 24, and administrators 20 percent.

U.S. Seaman Is Missing

PERTH, Australia (AP) — An American seaman from the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway is missing in rough seas about 155 miles off the west coast of Australia, the Navy said.

The young engineering crewman, whose name has not been released, was last seen early Tuesday, a Navy statement said.

The bill says that subjects taught from kindergarten through the 12th grade shall include English, other languages, math, science, health, physical education, fine arts, social studies, economics "with emphasis on the free enterprise system," business education, vocational education, and Texas and United States history as individual subjects and in reading courses.

A Senate amendment states that "a primary purpose of public school curriculum is to prepare patriotic citizens who can function in a free enterprise society."

Snelson, reacting to recent criticism, said the bill specifies that the State Board of Education and local school boards "shall continue the tradition of teaching U.S. and Texas history and the free enterprise system in the public schools."

"NERVE DEAFNESS" CAN BE HELPED

If you hear but don't always understand what people are saying...words run together...people seem to mumble...you have to ask people to repeat...you have trouble understanding when more than one person is talking or when there are other noises...

Free Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy. 180 Thurs., May 7, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at the Pal-O-Mar to perform the test.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing test will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy. 180 Snyder, Texas. If you can't come in on Thursday, call 673-4980 for an in-home test.

All hearing aid users are welcome to our services. Batteries for all makes.

Prisoner Exchanges Testimony For His Release

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — In 1967, Jerry Ray James made the FBI's list of the 10 most-wanted fugitives. But 14 years later, federal authorities want only to keep him alive.

James, 42, was granted a conditional release from prison by Gov. Bruce King on Monday in exchange for cooperating with officials in the investigation of the unsolved 1979 murder of a federal judge in Texas.

James' attorney, Don Montoya of Santa Fe, said taped conversations between James and El Paso, Texas, gambler Jimmy Chagra at the federal prison in Leavenworth, Kan., link Chagra to the assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood in San Antonio.

James met Chagra at Leavenworth where he was transferred after the Feb. 2-3, 1980, riot at the New Mexico State Penitentiary, Montoya said.

James has been in and out of federal and state prisons since 1958, when he was first convicted of burglary in Taylor County, Texas. His FBI rap sheet fills five full pages.

In his travels through the South and Southwest, he was known by at least 10 aliases, including Luke J. Rich and Jessie Lee Taylor.

It was the highly publicized 1977 robbery of a prominent Tatum rancher that sent James to the New Mexico State Penitentiary, where he served from 1978 until his transfer to Leavenworth.

James was convicted of guiding a pair of prison escapees from Kentucky to the home of Dessie Sawyer, a former longtime Democratic national committeewoman, and then helping them sell more than $200,000 of diamond jewelry taken there. The diamonds were never recovered.

Contacted at her Tatum ranch Tuesday night, Mrs. Sawyer said she was aware of the conditional release granted to James by the governor..

"I didn't like it, but I don't want any more publicity about it," Mrs. Sawyer said.

Mrs. Sawyer also said King had attended a charity party at the Sawyer ranch last Saturday but had made no mention of James. Asked if the governor might not have been aware that James was serving a prison term for the robbery at the Sawyer ranch, Mrs. Sawyer said, "He had to know who he was. Everybody in New Mexico knows about him."

James was sentenced to concurrent 1- to 5-year and 10- to 50-year prison terms as an accessory to the robbery and for conspiracy to commit the crime. He later was found to be an habitual offender and his sentence was enhanced in 1979 to a life term at the state prison.

Law enforcement officers in eastern New Mexico are upset about the conditional release granted by King.

"It's a travesty of justice," Tatum Police Chief Les Dudley said Tuesday.

Dudley, who said he has known James since 1964, said he expects James to "be back at it again. The only life he knows is the life of crime, but James has been around enough to know the information they're seeking. James probably knows everybody from the West Coast to the East Coast."

Lea County Sheriff Ralph Wrinkle also expressed displeasure with King's decision.

"I certainly don't like to see someone of his caliber walking the streets," said Wrinkle, who worked on the Sawyer case. "He was where he belonged. I can't agree with the governor's decision. I don't know what he could tell them to justify pardoning him. I think it's a bad move. This probably won't make me popular with the feds (federal agents)."

Lovington Police Chief Archie Cunningham called the conditional release "a shame. James hasn't exactly been a model citizen. It will only be a matter of time before society has him on their hands again."

A series of arrests and fugitive warrants appear in James' record until September 1964, when he scuffled with police in a Hobbs bar.

"James fancies himself as a modern-day Al Capone ... (He) has reportedly told associates he will not be taken alive by law enforcement officers. He has allegedly fired at arresting officers and is extremely dangerous," the bulletin said.

In June 1968, James and five associates were convicted in El Paso of conspiracy to commit bank burglary. A series of convictions over the next several years for bank robbery, burglary and conspiracy kept him in and out of federal prisons for the next 10 years.

King signed an executive order Monday granting the release.

U.S. Attorney R.E. Thompson of Albuquerque said Tuesday the release will become effective "upon the certification by the United States that James had testified and fulfilled certain conditions in connection with a pending major investigation and contemplated prosecution."

The North American continent's largest bird, the condor, produces only one egg every two years. If it hatches, the offspring remains in the nest for 18 months.

Seizure Law Used In Drug Probes

MCALLEN, Texas (AP) — Drug Enforcement Agency officials call it the "wave of the future" in the war against narcotics traffickers, but civil liberties attorneys say it's unconstitutional — maybe.

It is a little-known law passed in 1978 that allows federal agents to seize all property directly traceable to narcotics dealings regardless of whether criminal indictments have been filed.

"It's a civil action. We weren't even looking for any arrests," says DEA Agent-in-Charge Ken Miley of the newest tactic used by officers in the continuing battle against illicit drug activity.

"This is the wave of the future in the war against drug traffickers," he says. "This lets us hit the drug peddlers where it hurts — in the pocketbook."

The latest pocketbooks to be dented belong to Benito and Matias Montemayor, two brothers who have past narcotics convictions and have been targeted by the DEA for civil action.

Among other things, the Montemayors own ranches in Mexico, 13 expensive horses, diamond watches, dozens of handmade boots — and a pair of sprawling, walled-in estates in this South Texas border town.

But the homes — one valued at $180,000 and the other at $98,000 — came into the hands of the DEA during a raid Tuesday when agents carrying warrants swooped down and confiscated the houses and the personal possessions valued at $200,000.

The goods and property seized eventually will total between $800,000 and $1 million, Miley said.

The Montemayor brothers could not be reached for comment. Both were in Mexico when the raid occurred.

Clinic Scheduled For VBS Teachers

DR. FITZGERALD

A clinic for Vacation Bible School teachers will be hosted Saturday, May 9, by East Side Church of Christ.

The clinic is designed to assist VBS teachers to improve their teaching abilities and gain new ideas for learning activities.

The clinic teacher, Dr. Larry Fitzgerald, is educational consultant and executive editor for Quality Publications, a Texas-based publishing company. He has a doctorate in religious education, with a masters in theology, psychology and physics. In additon, Dr. Fitzgerald has a BA in communication with minors in Bible and English.

He has directed Vacation Bible Schools throughout the United States and Britain. A man of varied interests, Dr. Fitzgerald doubles as a scientist and was an observatory director for three years. In addition he is a professional artist and has worked on a construction crew. As an author, he has 14 books in print.

The VBS teachers' clinic will emphasize eight areas: Encouragement for the teacher; new ideas for the classroom; discipline; activity projects in learning; utilizing assistants; pre- and post- VBS activities; conserving available teaching time; and the best teaching materials available.

The clinic will begin at 10 a. m. Saturday and continue to 3 p. m., with a lunch break from 12 to 1 p. m. Further information may be obtained from Mike Monroe, education minister, at 573-3583.

Red Measles Hit Valley

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Officials from the U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta arrived in the Rio Grande Valley Tuesday to investigate an outbreak of red measles along the Texas border.

Dennis Olsen, a member of the CDC team, said state health officials asked the federal agency to help halt the outbreak that has killed one infant and infected at least 90 persons in four South Texas counties.

"It does have national implications because it involves migrant farmworkers. They'll be moving throughout the United States," said Olsen.

State and local health officials have urged parents to vaccinate children as young as six months against the virus. Unlike rubella, or German measles, red measles can be contracted only once in life.

The federal officials will hold a news conference Wednesday.

Market Analyst Marries Again

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Joseph Granville, a stock market analyst whose "sell everything" advice wreaked havoc on the market in January, has married a 40-year-old commercial artist.

Monday's marriage was the third for Granville, 57, and the first for his bride, Karen Erickson.h

A local stockbroker introduced the couple in March when Granville was in town to give a lecture sponsored by a local brokerage firm.

Nevarez Promoted At Pan American

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Dr. Miguel Nevarez, vice president of student and university affairs at Pan American University, was named Tuesday to become university president in August.

Nevarez's selection was announced at a board of regents meeting following a year-long search for a successor to Dr. Ralph Schilling.

Schilling will retire Aug. 31 after 21 years as president.

Nevarez, 43, received a bachelor of science degree from Texas A&I, a masters from Michigan State University and a PhD from New York University.

He joined the Pan American administration in 1971 as associate dean of men and became a vice president in 1973.

Training your bowel

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I saw your column about spastic colon in our paper. I have coped with a spastic colon for years and am still searching for a cure. My emotional state is stable, but it appears to have a direct influence on my bowel condition.

I tend to have constipation for three days and then when I have a movement it is loose. I am a college student with academic pressures. I think my colon trouble is a response to internal tension rather than my having nervous shaking.

Could you send me your Health Letter on the spastic colon? I know my horrendous eating habits are the root of the problem, and a concerted effort to improve my bowel training and habit is essential in my situation.

DEAR READER — I am glad you realize that tension can be a part of the problem. Many people who have a spastic colon do very well except during periods of stress. The colon is very sensitive to our emotions. It blushes and pales and is a better indicator than our faces of our true emotions.

You can train the colon functions to a degree. Our bodies respond to training or regular habits. That is one reason we get hungry at specific times, not because we need food just then. In the same way the rhythmic contractions of the colon can be trained. This is discussed more in The Health Letter number 16-4, Spastic Colon, Irregularity and Constipation, that I am sending in response to your request. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Many people don't realize that a spastic colon can cause loose movements, or what they call diarrhea, as well as hard, dry stools and constipation. Frequently people have both. The spasm that shuts off the colon and stops movements is just another form of overactive muscular contractions that can also cause diarrhea.

Improving your eating habits may help a lot. Coffee and colas that contain caffeine, or tea, are hard on a sensitive colon. Caffeine makes nervous tension worse.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I have been happily married for several years but we have one problem. He fails to believe that I was a virgin when he married me because I didn't bleed when we first had sex. Every time we fight he brings this up.

Is it possible to have sex for the first time without bleeding?

DEAR READER — Yes. Your husband's attitude reminds me of a tribal ritual. It was the custom in the village for the villagers to wait outside the bridal chamber until a bloody cloth was tossed from the window to prove the girl's virginity.

When bleeding occurs it is because the hymen membrane tears. Sometimes this is unpleasant and a more enlightened person might wonder if this is the best way to begin one of life's more important relationships. Sex, after all, should be a pleasurable experience for the female as well as the male.

Many active girls rupture the hymen early in life without any sexual experience. Others are born with a rudimentary hymen. In view of all the interest in tampons and toxic shock syndrome, it should also be mentioned that tampons may relax the vagina and result in less difficulty at the beginning of sexual activity. And inserts always pose the opportunity to rupture the hymen.

Astronauts To Visit Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Young and Robert Crippen, who flew the space shuttle Columbia on its successful maiden flight, will meet with President Reagan at the White House May 19.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Monday that they also would spend several days next month at the Paris Air Show. Today they were scheduled to speak at an American Newspaper Publishers Association dinner in Chicago.

World Is An Oyster For Champion Shucker

Ms. Harrelson is not only the fastest oyster shucker around, she's on her way to acquiring the international crown for eating them, too.

Ms. Harrelson, 44, an employee of Buccaneer Bill's oyster bar here, is the certified world shucking champion. She took the title in Ireland in 1979 — the first woman to do so — by shucking 24 oysters in 59 seconds.

She also can consume 43 dozen oysters in 15 minutes, or in a "sprint for speed," six dozen in 60 seconds.

She will get a chance to make her oyster-eating prowess official in December, when she tries to beat the world mark of 218 oysters in five minutes before officials of the Guinness Book of World Records.

Ms. Harrelson's claim to fame began 12 years ago when George Kirvin gave her a job at his Apalachicola oyster house.

She had never seen an oyster before, much less eaten one.

"I didn't want to eat it," she confesses. "In my whole life, I had never seen such a terrible thing."

To her astonishment, it went down smoothly. So she sampled another two dozen and soon was hooked. Then she started winning contests.

Takeover Attempt...

Employes Stress 'Our'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Welcome to OUR airline," pilots at Continental Airlines are saying these days as they greet passengers. And the emphasis is definitely on "our" because the employees may soon control the company.

In the midst of a bitter corporate takeover battle that is threatening their jobs and security, about 10,400 pilots, flight attendants, ticket agents and mechanics are close to purchasing 51 percent of the country's 11th largest airline.

A key test was awaited today in Denver, where Continental's management, which supports the employees, was expected to beat back an attempt by Texas International Airlines to thwart the workers' move.

Some industry leaders say the employee purchase, if successful, could become a model for a rapidly changing airline industry trying to trim lower labor costs.

"When they see us succeed, when they see the productivity, when they see the savings to the company, this industry, the entrenched airlines are going to have to go for it," beamed Paul Eckel, a 16-year veteran at Continental, formerly its chief pilot and leader of the employee takeover move.

Several other air carriers have stock purchase plans, but at none do the employees have a majority holding or — as is expected to be the case at Continental — membership on the board of directors.

The Continental effort has the full support of management, especially the company's president, Alfred L. Feldman, who grabbed it as a last hope of keeping Texas International from taking over Continental.

After Texas International purchased 48.5 percent of Continental's stock earlier this year, the pilots selected Eckel, a onetime Brigham Young football star, to lead the employee counterattack. The pilots gained commitments for $110 million, but the effort fell short when the Civil Aeronautics Board refused to give them another 10 days to put the plan together.

"I thought we were dead," recalls Eckel.

But many of the Continental employees feared loss of their jobs in the merger and inundated Eckel and the pilot group's leaders with 25 or more suggestions a day on how the stop the merger. The best of the lot were forwarded to Feldman and other top executives.

By the second week in March, Feldman was about ready to give in to Texas International. "I knew we were running out of exciting ideas," he recalled in an interview.

But on March 10, a friend told Chuch Cheeld, 41, who was in charge of the pilots' pension plan, of an idea that might help, an employee stock option plan. He kept it to himself. Three days later Eckel heard a radio ad for a local bank promoting a similar idea..

The idea for Continental's Employee Stock Ownership Plan was born.

Feldman, whom the employees have said they would keep as president if their plan goes through, was at first skeptical.

Favor Budget Whacks, But Doubt Specifics

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress tries to pass President Reagan's budget plan, politicians glance worriedly over their shoulders at a public seemingly demanding budget cuts, tax cuts and changes in Washington.

The message from Reagan and other Republicans to doubting Democrats is that Americans overwhelmingly support Reagan's economic plan and that those who oppose it will face the public's wrath in 1982.

"I believe that the people you and I represent are ready to chart a new course," Reagan told Congress in his April 28 speech to a joint session of the House and the Senate.

While Reagan has the overall public mood pegged well, that's not the whole picture. Public opinion on federal spending and taxes is laced with contradictory currents.

Americans do support Reagan's tax and budget cuts — as a whole — by substantial margins.

This is not surprising, since national polls for the past several years have found strong support for cutting federal spending and reducing federal taxes.

But Americans have many questions and doubts about Reagan's program and its specifics.

For example, the public supports Reagan's budget cuts as a package, but that mandate falls apart on specific programs.

They support cuts in food stamps, but they are generally opposed to cuts in the school lunch program and federally insured loans to college students, a recent Associated Press-NBC News poll said.

In philosophical terms as well, contradictions abound in the public's perceptions of Reagan's plan.

They say his proposals will hurt the poor and they say federal benefits for poor people should not be cut, whatever the nation's economic situation.

The public says the federal government has an obligation to provide medical and legal services to those who cannot afford them, the recent AP-NBC News poll said.

Yet the public backs Reagan's spending cuts, which would eliminate the Legal Services Corp., cut Medicaid and make substantial reductions in other programs designed to help the poor.

In fact, a substantial portion of the public — about two out of five — says Reagan's spending and tax cuts are too drastic. About half the public disagrees with that position.

Even the central link in Reagan's plan, cutting government spending and federal taxes at the same time, is not the choice of the public.

The public is so deeply worried about inflation that they make spending cuts and a balanced federal budget the first priority, far ahead of tax cuts, according to the AP-NBC News poll.

The mandate from the public shatters when it comes to specifics on which program to cut and by how much. Any politician looking to public opinion for help on such decisions is without much of a guide.

Two-Month Search For Son Ends In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — John and Nancy Ditmars were sure their two-month search for their runaway son was over when they walked into the offices of the Amarillo Globe Times last Friday.

"Our trail ends here," Mrs. Ditmars said in an interview then. "We know he was here on (April) 14th. It all keeps coming back to Amarillo."

It took another three days for the Yuma, Ariz., couple's confidence to be rewarded, but the Ditmars were right — their 14-year-old son Scott was in Amarillo.

The last time the Ditmars had last seen their son, he was riding his bike toward school.

But Scott never made it there.

"I was just going to ditch school," he said.

The quiet boy hitched a ride with a truck driver and ended up in Amarillo, where a man he met at the bus station took him the Faith City Mission.

The mission gave him clothes and a job assignment.

"I loved it there," Scott said.

Meanwhile, Scott's parents traveled 2,000 miles, toting his dog, Buzz. They sought the help of police in five states in a desperate search for their son.

SHS Group Fish Fry Is Saturday

Snyder High School Explorer Post 242 will be hosting its second annual fish fry Saturday, May 9. Serving will begin at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Tickets for the all-you-can-eat affair are $4 for adults and $2 for those 12 years and under. There will be door prizes and an auction of homemade pies, cakes, cookies, etc., at the conclusion of the meal.

The club member who sells the most tickets to the meal will be awarded a prize. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Money raised from the fish fry will help pay for the club's summer float trip down the Guadalupe river.

Heated Matter Consumes Court

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The secret to making perfect crepes is all in the pan, a local expert told the attentive group — it must be neither too hot nor too cold.

One member of her audience asked Marion Conlin to speak up.

"We don't make crepes in federal court very often," said U.S. District Judge Harry MacLaughlin.

The cooking lesson occurred Monday as part of a suit by Creative Cookware of Boulder, Colo., against Northland Aluminum Products of suburban St. Louis Park.

The Colorado company obtained a patent for an upside-down crepe pan in 1974. In 1975, Northland introduced an upside-down crepe pan.

The pans are used the same way. The bottom is dipped into the batter and the crepe is cooked on the outside of the pan.

Creative Cookware is claiming lost profits of $1.8 million. Northland contends the patent is not valid, the design is obvious and the two pans are different.

Ms. Conlin, who has written two cookbooks and has taught cooking, was called by Northland in an attempt to show that crepes can be made on the outside of a regular frying pan.

She passed along tips on how to tell if the temperature of the pan is just right and said the first several crepes may be lost.

"Julia Child says you have to make two or three crepes before the pan gets the idea," she said, referring to the cook who demonstrates recipes on television.

Training your bowel

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I saw your column about spastic colon in our paper. I have coped with a spastic colon for years and am still searching for a cure. My emotional state is stable, but it appears to have a direct influence on my bowel condition.

I tend to have constipation for three days and then when I have a movement it is loose. I am a college student with academic pressures. I think my colon trouble is a response to internal tension rather than my having nervous shaking.

Could you send me your Health Letter on the spastic colon? I know my horrendous eating habits are the root of the problem, and a concerted effort to improve my bowel training and habit is essential in my situation.

DEAR READER — I am glad you realize that tension can be a part of the problem. Many people who have a spastic colon do very well except during periods of stress. The colon is very sensitive to our emotions. It blushes and pales and is a better indicator than our faces of our true emotions.

You can train the colon functions to a degree. Our bodies respond to training or regular habits. That is one reason we get hungry at specific times, not because we need food just then. In the same way the rhythmic contractions of the colon can be trained. This is discussed more in The Health Letter number 16-4, Spastic Colon, Irregularity and Constipation, that I am sending in response to your request. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Many people don't realize that a spastic colon can cause loose movements, or what they call diarrhea, as well as hard, dry stools and constipation. Frequently people have both. The spasm that shuts off the colon and stops movements is just another form of overactive muscular contractions that can also cause diarrhea.

Improving your eating habits may help a lot. Coffee and colas that contain caffeine, or tea, are hard on a sensitive colon. Caffeine makes nervous tension worse.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband and I have been happily married for several years but we have one problem. He fails to believe that I was a virgin when he married me because I didn't bleed when we first had sex. Every time we fight he brings this up.

Is it possible to have sex for the first time without bleeding?

DEAR READER — Yes. Your husband's attitude reminds me of a tribal ritual. It was the custom in the village for the villagers to wait outside the bridal chamber until a bloody cloth was tossed from the window to prove the girl's virginity.

When bleeding occurs it is because the hymen membrane tears. Sometimes this is unpleasant and a more enlightened person might wonder if this is the best way to begin one of life's more important relationships. Sex, after all, should be a pleasurable experience for the female as well as the male.

Many active girls rupture the hymen early in life without any sexual experience. Others are born with a rudimentary hymen. In view of all the interest in tampons and toxic shock syndrome, it should also be mentioned that tampons may relax the vagina and result in less difficulty at the beginning of sexual activity. And inserts always pose the opportunity to rupture the hymen.

Astronauts To Visit Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Young and Robert Crippen, who flew the space shuttle Columbia on its successful maiden flight, will meet with President Reagan at the White House May 19.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Monday that they also would spend several days next month at the Paris Air Show. Today they were scheduled to speak at an American Newspaper Publishers Association dinner in Chicago.

World Is An Oyster For Champion Shucker

Ms. Harrelson is not only the fastest oyster shucker around, she's on her way to acquiring the international crown for eating them, too.

Ms. Harrelson, 44, an employee of Buccaneer Bill's oyster bar here, is the certified world shucking champion. She took the title in Ireland in 1979 — the first woman to do so — by shucking 24 oysters in 59 seconds.

She also can consume 43 dozen oysters in 15 minutes, or in a "sprint for speed," six dozen in 60 seconds.

She will get a chance to make her oyster-eating prowess official in December, when she tries to beat the world mark of 218 oysters in five minutes before officials of the Guinness Book of World Records.

Ms. Harrelson's claim to fame began 12 years ago when George Kirvin gave her a job at his Apalachicola oyster house.

She had never seen an oyster before, much less eaten one.

"I didn't want to eat it," she confesses. "In my whole life, I had never seen such a terrible thing."

To her astonishment, it went down smoothly. So she sampled another two dozen and soon was hooked. Then she started winning contests.

Takeover Attempt...

Employes Stress 'Our'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Welcome to OUR airline," pilots at Continental Airlines are saying these days as they greet passengers. And the emphasis is definitely on "our" because the employees may soon control the company.

In the midst of a bitter corporate takeover battle that is threatening their jobs and security, about 10,400 pilots, flight attendants, ticket agents and mechanics are close to purchasing 51 percent of the country's 11th largest airline.

A key test was awaited today in Denver, where Continental's management, which supports the employees, was expected to beat back an attempt by Texas International Airlines to thwart the workers' move.

Some industry leaders say the employee purchase, if successful, could become a model for a rapidly changing airline industry trying to trim lower labor costs.

"When they see us succeed, when they see the productivity, when they see the savings to the company, this industry, the entrenched airlines are going to have to go for it," beamed Paul Eckel, a 16-year veteran at Continental, formerly its chief pilot and leader of the employee takeover move.

Several other air carriers have stock purchase plans, but at none do the employees have a majority holding or — as is expected to be the case at Continental — membership on the board of directors.

The Continental effort has the full support of management, especially the company's president, Alfred L. Feldman, who grabbed it as a last hope of keeping Texas International from taking over Continental.

After Texas International purchased 48.5 percent of Continental's stock earlier this year, the pilots selected Eckel, a onetime Brigham Young football star, to lead the employee counterattack. The pilots gained commitments for $110 million, but the effort fell short when the Civil Aeronautics Board refused to give them another 10 days to put the plan together.

"I thought we were dead," recalls Eckel.

But many of the Continental employees feared loss of their jobs in the merger and inundated Eckel and the pilot group's leaders with 25 or more suggestions a day on how the stop the merger. The best of the lot were forwarded to Feldman and other top executives.

By the second week in March, Feldman was about ready to give in to Texas International. "I knew we were running out of exciting ideas," he recalled in an interview.

But on March 10, a friend told Chuch Cheeld, 41, who was in charge of the pilots' pension plan, of an idea that might help, an employee stock option plan. He kept it to himself. Three days later Eckel heard a radio ad for a local bank promoting a similar idea.

The idea for Continental's Employee Stock Ownership Plan was born.

Feldman, whom the employees have said they would keep as president if their plan goes through, was at first skeptical.

Favor Budget Whacks, But Doubt Specifics

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress tries to pass President Reagan's budget plan, politicians glance worriedly over their shoulders at a public seemingly demanding budget cuts, tax cuts and changes in Washington.

The message from Reagan and other Republicans to doubting Democrats is that Americans overwhelmingly support Reagan's economic plan and that those who oppose it will face the public's wrath in 1982.

"I believe that the people you and I represent are ready to chart a new course," Reagan told Congress in his April 28 speech to a joint session of the House and the Senate.

While Reagan has the overall public mood pegged well, that's not the whole picture. Public opinion on federal spending and taxes is laced with contradictory currents.

Americans do support Reagan's tax and budget cuts — as a whole — by substantial margins.

This is not surprising, since national polls for the past several years have found strong support for cutting federal spending and reducing federal taxes.

But Americans have many questions and doubts about Reagan's program and its specifics.

For example, the public supports Reagan's budget cuts as a package, but that mandate falls apart on specific programs.

They support cuts in food stamps, but they are generally opposed to cuts in the school lunch program and federally insured loans to college students, a recent Associated Press-NBC News poll said.

In philosophical terms as well, contradictions abound in the public's perceptions of Reagan's plan.

They say his proposals will hurt the poor and they say federal benefits for poor people should not be cut, whatever the nation's economic situation.

The public says the federal government has an obligation to provide medical and legal services to those who cannot afford them, the recent AP-NBC News poll said.

Yet the public backs Reagan's spending cuts, which would eliminate the Legal Services Corp., cut Medicaid and make substantial reductions in other programs designed to help the poor.

In fact, a substantial portion of the public — about two out of five — says Reagan's spending and tax cuts are too drastic. About half the public disagrees with that position.

The public is so deeply worried about inflation that they make spending cuts and a balanced federal budget the first priority, far ahead of tax cuts, according to the AP-NBC News poll.

The mandate from the public shatters when it comes to specifics on which program to cut and by how much. Any politician looking to public opinion for help on such decisions is without much of a guide.

Two-Month Search For Son Ends In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — John and Nancy Ditmars were sure their two-month search for their runaway son was over when they walked into the offices of the Amarillo Globe Times last Friday.

"Our trail ends here," Mrs. Ditmars said in an interview then. "We know he was here on (April) 14th. It all keeps coming back to Amarillo."

It took another three days for the Yuma, Ariz., couple's confidence to be rewarded, but the Ditmars were right — their 14-year-old son Scott was in Amarillo.

The last time the Ditmars had last seen their son, he was riding his bike toward school.

But Scott never made it there.

"I was just going to ditch school," he said.

The quiet boy hitched a ride with a truck driver and ended up in Amarillo, where a man he met at the bus station took him the Faith City Mission.

The mission gave him clothes and a job assignment.

"I loved it there," Scott said.

Meanwhile, Scott's parents traveled 2,000 miles, toting his dog, Buzz. They sought the help of police in five states in a desperate search for their son.

SHS Group Fish Fry Is Saturday

Snyder High School Explorer Post 242 will be hosting its second annual fish fry Saturday, May 9. Serving will begin at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Tickets for the all-you-can-eat affair are $4 for adults and $2 for those 12 years and under. There will be door prizes and an auction of homemade pies, cakes, cookies, etc., at the conclusion of the meal.

The club member who sells the most tickets to the meal will be awarded a prize. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Money raised from the fish fry will help pay for the club's summer float trip down the Guadalupe river.

Heated Matter Consumes Court

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The secret to making perfect crepes is all in the pan, a local expert told the attentive group — it must be neither too hot nor too cold.

One member of her audience asked Marion Conlin to speak up.

"We don't make crepes in federal court very often," said U.S. District Judge Harry MacLaughlin.

The cooking lesson occurred Monday as part of a suit by Creative Cookware of Boulder, Colo., against Northland Aluminum Products of suburban St. Louis Park.

The Colorado company obtained a patent for an upside-down crepe pan in 1974. In 1975, Northland introduced an upside-down crepe pan.

The pans are used the same way. The bottom is dipped into the batter and the crepe is cooked on the outside of the pan.

Creative Cookware is claiming lost profits of $1.5 million. Northland contends the patent is not valid, the design is obvious and the two pans are different.

Ms. Conlin, who has written two cookbooks and has taught cooking, was called by Northland in an attempt to show that crepes can be made on the outside of a regular frying pan.

She passed along tips on how to tell if the temperature of the pan is just right and said the first several crepes may be lost.

"Julia Child says you have to make two or three crepes before the pan gets the idea," she said, referring to the cook who demonstrates recipes on television.

Boston Upset With Caliber Of Play...

Celtics Rally To Defeat Rockets

BOSTON (AP) - The atmosphere in the winning locker room was subdued, almost funeral. There were few smiles.

The Boston Celtics knew they had escaped with a victory that very easily could have been a loss. In the opener of their National Basketball Association championship series with the Houston Rockets, the Celtics played like anything but champions.

"We didn't play well as a team," said an unusually restrained Boston forward Cedric Maxwell. "We're almost talking like we lost this game. But we didn't."

With 13 championship banners earned by past Celtic teams hanging over them, the current Celtics overcame a 22-8 deficit, 19 turnovers and 43 percent shooting, to haul down the Rockets 98-95 Tuesday night in the first game of the best-of-seven series.

That, said Larry Bird, should give the Rockets something to think about going into Thursday night's second game here.

For three quarters, the Rockets played like the team that pulled playoff upsets over Los Angeles and San Antonio before beating Kansas City to reach the finals. For the last quarter, they played like the team that struggled to a 40-42 regular-season record.

"We were patient early in the game and didn't give the Celtics good shots...The Celtics were able to get back in the game with opportunity baskets," said Houston reserve guard Calvin Murphy, who scored 16 points. "We lost our composure at the end."

The Rockets, who have lost their last 14 games with Boston, carried an 81-76 lead into the final quarter, but scored just 14 more points. After Murphy's jumper gave them a 91-88 lead with 5:18 to play, they managed just two field goals by Tom Henderson.

Consecutive baskets by Robert Parish, Bird, M.L. Carr and Maxwell put the Celtics ahead for good, 96-91, with 2:54 left. Henderson then sank his two buckets.

Bird finished with 21 rebounds, matching his regular-season high; 18 points, eight of them in the final quarter, and nine assists.

The Rockets, the first team with a losing record to reach the NBA finals since 1959, maintained leads of 29-24 after the first quarter and 57-51 at halftime.

Maxwell's two free throws with 3:24 left in the third quarter produced Boston's first lead of the game, 69-68.

Houston center Moses Malone, the NBA's leading rebounder with a 14.8 average, grabbed 15 rebounds, but wasn't a dominant force. His 13 points were less than half his 27.8 regular-season average.

Women's Golf To Be Taught At WTC

Women interested in learning to play golf are invited to enroll for beginning golf lessons June 15-19 at Western Texas College.

Classes will meet from 9-10 a.m. with Bob O'Day and Dave Foster as instructors. Fees are $25 each. Balls will be furnished. Some clubs are available for use, but students are asked to bring their own if possible.

A minimum of 10 students will be required to form the class, with enrollment limited to 20.

Persons planning to enroll are to pre-register by calling the Continuing Education Office at 573-8511, entension 240. Fees should be paid between 8:45 and 9 June 15 at the golf shop.

Cooney To Fight For Higher Spot

NEW YORK (AP) - Gerry Cooney is looking forward to his next fight, and even more to the one which supposedly will come after it.

He will fight Ken Norton Monday night, and then, according to his co-manager, comes the big one - a shot at World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Mike Weaver.

Cooney, who is ranked the No.1 contender by the WBA and the World Boxing Council, is scheduled to meet Norton in a 10-round bout Monday at Madison Square Garden. But, according to Mike Jones, the next step in Cooney's future already is planned.

"It's little premature now to acknowledge a signed and sealed agreement," said Jones, who, with Dennis Rappaport, manages the undefeated Cooney. "We've reached an agreement in context. Sam Glass offered us the fight."

Weaver's manager, Don Manuel, was not available for comment. But the New York Post quoted him as saying: "Yes, we have signed to fight Gerry Cooney at the last of the year. We have signed with Glass to fight Cooney if he wins this one (with Norton.)

Should Cooney get by Norton, there could be another obstacle in the way of a Weaver-Cooney fight.

According to a spokesman for Bob Arum's Top Rank, Inc., Arum has filed a $6.5 million suit against Glass, the president of Tiffany Promotions, Weaver, Manuel, Jones and Rappaport.

Watson's Ready For Nelson Tee

champion Tom Watson doesn't put much stock in the adage "you can never go home," but he's not a bit unhappy about the prospect of returning to the Byron Nelson Classic.

"Well, if you have to go back to play," says Watson, who has carried home tournament honors at the Nelson event three times before, "you may as well win again - if you can."

Watson, fresh off a win at New Orleans, has set a new standard of money winning at the Nelson tournament and says he's got his sights set on picking up more of the green stuff.

"I have that Texas Bonanza (a $200,000 bonus that goes to the golfer who wins the Nelson tournament and the Colonial Open next week) in the back of my mind," he said Tuesday after a practice round.

Watson has collected $196,626 in nine Nelson outings, a cool $120,000 ahead of Ray Floyd, who has played here 12 times.

The 10-year veteran of the PGA tour says his game is in about the same place as last year, less than cheerful news for other Nelson entrants.

Watson says he's "driving better than I was a year ago" when he had logged four tournament victories before the Nelson Classic.

"I've played 10 tournaments," said Watson, who has claimed 23 tour victories and two British Open crowns during his career.

"I'm still fresh, but I'm tournament-tough, tournament-ready."

Kirmayer Stuns McEnroe In Three

NEW YORK (AP) - Carlos Kirmayr isn't an unknown in tennis circles.

After all, he's been a member of the Brazilian Davis Cup team since 1971 and he numbers among his victims Jose-Luis Clerc, Eddie Dibbs, Victor Pecci, Eliot Teltscher and Ilie Nastase.

Now you can add John McEnroe.

Kirmayr stunned the top seed in the $592,000 Tournament of Champions at Forest Hills Tuesday, 5-7, 7-6, 6-2.

Also upset was third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis, the defending champion. He was beaten by hard-serving Fritz Buehning 7-5, 7-5. But it was McEnroe's defeat - and the way that it was accomplished - that sparked the sparse crowd.

McEnroe, the world's No. 2-ranked player and fresh off Sunday's victory in the World Championship Tennis Finals in Dallas, hit apparent winners all night. And all night Kirmayr ran down the ball and returned it. McEnroe would hit another apparent winner. And again Kirmayr somehow got the ball and kept it in play.

Snyder Slams Three Home Runs As...

Lewis' Tigers Slug Past Ector High, 12-7

ODESSA -- Snyder's Tigers belted 12 runs - including a couple of two-run homers - to put Odessa Ector High School among the fallen here yesterday, 12-7, and edge closer to a District 2-AAAA baseball title.

The Tigers, first-round loop champions already, are 2-0 for the second round, and are tied with an old, familiar foe in the standings...Pecos. Snyder meets Pecos, a 4-3 victor over Fort Stockton, on Monday, May 12.

In the only other game played last night, Monahans drubbed Snyder's May 8 opponent, Andrews, 14-2. Current standings show Snyder and Pecos at 2-0 in round two, Ector at 2-1, and Fort Stockton, Monahans and Andrews at 1-2. Lamesa, idle last evening, is 0-2.

Snyder went to work quickly here last night, shoring up a brief 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning. Brent Roemisch led off with a walk and two outs later brother Mike slamed the first of three Snyder home runs for the game, 2-0.

Tony Degrate, who blossomed his pitching record to 9-1 with a seven-inning mound stint, also banged a first-frame homer to make it a 3-0 ballgame.

But the big man started out slowly atop the hill, giving up five first-inning walks and a single which helped Ector knot the totals at 3-3. Degrate came back to put the Eagles three up, three down in three of the final six frames, however.

"Tony wasn't really throwing wild," said Coach Albert Lewis. "It's just that his ball was moving so much. Someone that throws as hard as he does will do that sometimes until he gets his adjustment right. Several of those pitches he walked someone on were very close. They could have been called either way. We just weren't getting the breaks on them (the calls)."

Meanwhile, Snyder regained the lead in the second as Neil Evans walked and Brent Roemisch singled. Evans later took home on an error by Ector catcher Gary Subia. Curtis Gafford also walked and Perry Echols slammed a single to score Brent Roemisch. Snyder's final run of the inning - making it 6-3 - came across when Gafford blazed in on an error charged to the first baseman.

Brent Roemisch earned his second RBI of the night in the third when he singled home Gary Don Edmiaston, who had reached on a walk.

Snyder all but put the game away in the fourth. After pitcher Danny Rodriquez recorded a strikeout to open the stanza, Mike Roemisch walked and Degrate cracked his second home run of the night - a towering shot to left field that cleared the fence with ease.

"We figure that second home run that Tony hit must have gone 500 feet," beamed Lewis. "It was the longest I've seen hit by a high school player. All of the home runs hit were good, solid shots, but that one Tony hit would have gone out of any park where they play baseball."

Jesse Hernandez followed with a single, took second and third on a stolen base and a wild pitch, and raced to the payoff plate on an error. The fifth inning brought across two more Snyder runs as Echols and Mike Roemisch singled and Degrate followed with a double. Moments later, Hernandez hit a sacrifice fly that brought in the final Tiger run, 12-3.

Ector wasn't to give up, but the Eagles weren't to make up a nine-run deficit, either. Darrell Pride opened things off in the lower fifth for the Eagles when he turned the tables by knocking a home run himself. Subia singled, and after one out, Ray Lawrence and Martin Ramirez did likewise. Combined with a couple of Tiger errors, Ector managed to get four runs before Delebasque grounded out to end the inning. After the fifth, the Eagles never got another runner on base.

"I don't know what happen to us that game. We just made a lot of throwing errors," said Lewis. "They weren't catching errors, we were just throwing the ball away," he said of the infield, which turned in "at least seven errors I know of."

Snyder's 12-hit performance was a .387 team figure for the afternoon, above the crew's stout season average of .355. It earned the Tigers a 17-7-1 season record, while Ector slipped to 14-10. Leading Snyder's hitting were Mike Roemisch, who was 2-for-2 with a home run and three walks; Brent Roemisch, 3-for-4 with a double; and Degrate, 3-for-5 with two home runs and a double.

Lewis added the Tigers will concentrate more this week on fielding, in preparation for Friday's 7:30 p.m. with Andrews at Moffett Field. He also tentatively pegged Gerald Don Hicks, 3-2, as pitcher for that game.

Astros Continue Winning Pace

CHICAGO (AP) - If nothing else, the Chicago Cubs have learned to lose this season - their 3-17 record a testimony to the fact.

But their 4-3 loss Tuesday to the Houston Astros, when they were one out away from victory was probably the toughest setback in what has been a disastrous stretch.

"Fair or foul by one inch," said Cub Manager Joey Amalfitano of pinch-hitter Alan Ashby's two-run winning double in the ninth. "We haven't had a single break all season.

"If it's a call, like in Philadelphia, it's against us. And if it's a matter of being fair or foul, that too, is against us," lamented Amalfitano. "I can't ever recall going so long with all the breaks against a team."

The Cubs trailed 2-0 going into the seventh inning of a game which started with the temperature at 46 degrees and dropping, and a 23-mph wind blowing into the face of the batter.

Chicago loaded the bases on a single by Hector Cruz and a pair of walks and reliever Dave Smith came on to face Scot Thompson. Thompson promptly doubled to left to clear the bases and the Cubs had a 3-2 lead.

Lee Smith, who took over after starter Rick Reuschel had departed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh, looked as if he were going to hold the lead. Although Jose Cruz and Art Howe both singled in the ninth, and pinch-runner Dickie Thon stole second, Smith got Gary Woods on a short fly and fanned Kiko Garcia.

Ashby then came out of the dugout and hit a line drive which landed on the left-field chalk line to score both runners and give the Astros their eighth victory in the last nine games.

"I wasn't the guy you'd want up there, not the way I've been hitting," said Ashby, who took a .183 average to the plate. "I couldn't warm up. When I went to bat, my hands were frozen and my teeth were chattering."

In addition to winning eight of their last nine after a 3-12 start, the Astros are 7-1 on their current road trip.

Rangers Nail Chi-Sox

ARLINGTON (AP) - Ever since Danny Darwin started playing professional baseball five years ago in the Texas Ranger farm system, the scouts have been predicting he would be a dandy.

The thing that had them rubbing their hands in anticipation was Darwin's live, whistling fast ball, clocked consistently at 94 mph.

So, after scattering nine hits in 8 1-3 innings for a 6-1 Tuesday night win over the Chicago White Sox, what did Darwin want to brag about?

His curve.

"Tonight, I was getting the breaking ball over," said Darwin, 3-2, who struck out nine Chicago hitters and allowed no walks before giving way to Steve Comer in the ninth inning.

"That's the difference in my last couple of starts," Darwin said. "That, and I'm not throwing across my body any more."

Ranger outfielder Leon Roberts broke open a scoreless game in the sixth inning with a three-run home run that chased home Bump Wills, who had doubled, and Al Oliver, who had worked a walk from Chicago starter Ross Baumgarten, 2-3.

White Sox manager Tony LaRussa said he ordered Baumgarten to pitch around Oliver - walk him, if necessary - and give the Texas designated hitter nothing that would be easy to hit.

"Yes, I told him to pitch Oliver tough," LaRussa said. "He's one of the toughest hitters in the league. I have a lot of respect for Al Oliver."

Baumgarten, suffering his first career loss against Texas, retired the first 11 hitters he faced and was in control until the crucial sixth inning.

After the game, he said he would have preferred to try to get Oliver out.

"I'm in a position where I have to do what the manager tells me to do, but he (Oliver) has only gotten two hits off me in three years," the left-hander said.

Texas added two runs in the seventh on a suicide squeeze bunt by Mario Mendoza and a sacrifice fly by Bump Wills.

The Rangers got a single run in the eighth when Roberts scored from third on John Grubb's infield out.

Chicago's only run came when Chet Lemon opened the seventh with a triple and scored on Bill Almon's double.

MENS SLOW PITCH

Phamtoms 8, Athletics 2

Mike Dolittle slammed a home run and a single, Kerry Rodgers knocked a triple and a double, and eight other players gathered hits as the Phamtoms defeated the Athletics last evening, 8-2.

Winning pitcher Joe Roemisch belted two singles as did Jimmy Crow, Gary Smith and Gary Attwood. Roxy Small powered a double, and Rickey Hopper, John Hopkins and Jay Roemisch added a single each for the Phamtoms, 2-0 on the season.

The Phantoms covered the bases with 16 hits will the Athletics managed 8. No individual hits for the Athletics, 1-1, were reported. Mike Smith was pegged as the losing pitcher.

Mike Levens and Neal Lloyd, two of the six newly sanctioned umpires here, have been calling the Snyder Men's Slowpitch Softball League games recently. Scorekeeper was Lynn Jones.

The league also reports it has a concession which will be open for games throughout the summer.

Department of Human resources to reduce the average caseload of child abuse prevention workers from 47 to 36 cases.

Reps. Bob Davis, R-Irving, and Ruck Florence, D-Hughes Springs, opposed the increase, saying the Department of Human Resources and its workers had abused their authority in specific cases.

They said stiff criminal penalties were the best way to attack child abuse.

Other amendments added in Tuesday's debate would:

— Raise Department of Public Safety salaries by $2 million and those of game wardens and liquor agents by $400,000 over the next two years. A rank-and-file trooper would make $22,128 in 1983 compared with $21,420 in the Appropriations Committee's recommended bill, while a highway patrol captain's 1983 salary would be $30,744 compared with the committee's recommended $29,748.

— Increase the once-a-year extra payment to welfare children for school clothes, shoes and similar expenses from $100 now to $120. The committee recommended $110. Cost: $5 million.

— Add 20 more DPS narcotics agents at a cost of $2 million.

— Provide state matching funds totaling $4 million to attract a greater amount of federal money for cleaning up toxic waste disposal dumps and spills.

— Finance a toll-free "hot line" for consumers who want to complain to the State Insurance Board about insurance companies and agents.

— Create a pilot railroad safety program, costing $500,000, in the Texas Railroad Commission.

House members tabled an attempt by Lyon to eliminate a rider allowing the DPS to use only black and white cars with the DPS seal to stop speeders. Lyon said the rider "unnecessarily ties the hands of the DPS."

Also rejected was an amendment by Rep. Don Lee, D-Harlingen, to increase family planning funds by $10 million, including $6.2 million in state funds.

Lee mentioned numerous costly or controversial problems the Legislature addresses, including abortion, child abuse, welfare and juvenile crime.

"If you had proper family planning ... then you can solve a great part of many of these problems," Lee said.

Rep. Carlyle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, objected to the cost.

"You can't go on and on. There's a bottom to that well, and we're past the bottom," Smith said.

Lee's amendment was tabled, 63-60.

There was some dissension on the Senate committee before members took the final vote Tuesday.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, committee chairman, refused to recognize Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, for a motion to change the teachers pay raise in the bill from a 22 percent increase to 26 percent for most teachers.

Jones said Santiesteban had tried twice before in recent weeks to increase the teachers pay hike to 33 percent and had failed.

He said the spending bill was already $70 million over the 1982-83 available revenue estimated by Comptroller Bob Bullock in March and the El Paso senator's motion would add $107 million to that.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and others argued that they should be allowed to vote on Santiesteban's latest effort. The motion carried 9-4.

Some mentioned speculation that Bullock might come out with the new revenue estimate before the end of the session with possibly another $200 million in additonal revenue.

Senate Battle Brews Over Money Market Funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Money men competing for Texans' savings are fighting over a bill that could dull the luster of high-interest money market funds, which have lured $5.5 billion from Texans.

More than 200,000 Texans have decided money market funds — paying about triple the interest of a passbook savings account — are the place for their money. Much of that money has been shifted from passbook accounts.

Sen. Bill Meier's proposal, which eased through a Senate committee last Thursday, would require the funds to maintain reserves, just as banks do.

The uninsured funds now do not have reserves, and that is part of the reason they easily top the 5½ percent return on passbook savings accounts.

Money market funds have paid as much as 17 percent in recent months. The current yield is around 14 percent, said Carl Stuart of Rotan-Mosle in Austin. The funds pool investors' money and invest heavily in high-yield short-term debt such as commercial paper and U.S. Treasury bills.

The first shot in the lobby battle came Friday when Reg Green of the Investment Company Institute jetted here to fight the Meier effort. Radio and full-page newspaper ads urging Texans to voice their opposition appeared within days, winning the professional respect of the opposing lobbyists.

"I have never seen such a sophisticated and well-financed lobby group," Texas Savings and Loan League lobbyist Durwood Curlee said of the opposition. "It's a level of lobbying effort I've never experienced."

Curlee said Texas savings and loans have lost hundreds of millions of dollars in deposits in recent months, with much of it going to the money market funds.

"It's become the new savings account," said Stuart of Rotan-Mosle, which handles a money market fund.

He said the bankers and savings and loan officials don't like the competition.

"A few years ago you and I couldn't get 14 percent on our money. Now we can and the competition is something uncomfortable for them," he said. "Now that they have to compete for the money, they want to change the rules of the game."

Stuart and Green said maintaining reserves would force inevitable changes in the funds.

"At best, it would reduce the rate of return. At worst, it could make them inoperable in Texas," said Green.
