THREE MEN SHOT TO DEATH OVER $2 BURGLARY

Montana Cowboy Startles World In Attempt To Pilot Small Plane To London

DESCENDANT OF FRANCIS DRAKE TRIES ATLANTIC

Urban F. Diteman Jr., in Surprising Take Off For London

LETTER EXPLAINS IT

Wife in Billings Only Person With Knowledge Of Flier's Plan

(By The Associated Press)

A Golden Hind of the skies sailed out over the North Atlantic Tuesday carrying in it a man of 40 who named his fragile craft after Sir Francis Drake's staunch galleon.

This new Golden Hind was a small monoplane and the new adventurer, who challenged sky as well as sea, was Urban F. Diteman Jr., who took off without advance announcement from the airport at Harbor Grace, New Foundland, "bound for London."

Disappears in East

Ten minutes after the takeoff at 12:45 p. m., eastern standard time, this Montana livestock buyer soared over Cape St. Francis, 17 miles north of the airport, and disappeared in the East where Dr. James H. Kimball of the New York weather bureau and unofficial starter for transatlantic flights said "fairly favorable" weather awaited him.

Meanwhile back at the airport, 100 spectators who had regarded Diteman as a retiring person using an airplane in junkets around the country to look up records of Sir Francis for use in settlement of an estate in which he was interested, learned of a brief note in which the flier announced he was "bound for London," and apologized "for so many impromtu lies."

Descendant of Drake

"Many, many thanks ye New Foundlanders," he wrote. "Drake did not bring me here nor to London, albeit I am descendant. Sorry if I hurt any one's feelings. I meant no harm."

The note was signed "Dite." There was nothing more.

From other sources, however, a tale was pieced together and it filled in the gaps the nonchalant flier had left before he started in a tiny plane with only 165 gallons of gas on a flight of approximately 2,350 miles which had been dared previously only by planes much more powerful and much heavier fuelled.

Wife Knows Plans

Mrs. Diteman in Billings, Mont., seemingly was the only person besides the pilot who knew of the adventure. She knew the take-off was planned for yesterday and she

Pantages Denies Eunice's Charges

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22. (UP)—In two emphastic words that pierced a stilled courtroom, Alexander Pantages today denied that he attacked Eunice Pringle and pictured himself instead as one who had to protect himself against her compromising advances.

The multi-millionaire theater man—grey-haired, bronzed and veteran of the Alaskan goldfields—was an eager witness as he leaned forward on the stand and made vigorous denials.

W. I. Gilbert, soft-voiced defense attorney, led slowly up to the climatic question of the direct examination. Addressing the showman, Gilbert asked:

"Did you at any time while you were in the little room make any improper advances or criminally attack Miss Pringle?"

"Absolutely not," Pantages answered, shaking his head emphatically.

EDISON RESTS

Inventor Recovers From Near-Collapse at Light Jubilee

DETROIT, Oct. 22. (UP)—Thomas A. Edison slept soundly tonight in the home of his old friend, Henry Ford, recovering from fatigue which almost caused him to collapse while President Hoover was speaking at a banquet in his honor last night.

His 82 years bore heavily on the feeble shoulders of the inventor yesterday during the elaborate ceremonies commemorating the 50th anniversary of his invention of the electric light.

Before the president had finished talking, Edison slumped down in his chair and was hurried away to an ante-room where he rested on a couch while Mrs. Edison, who calls him "daddy" administered to his wants.

LAWYER FILES HOOBLER PLEA

Officers' Work "Rough House," Unlawful, Charge

Containing 23 exceptions to the rulings of the court in the trial of D. J. Hoobler, condemned to death for the murder of Arthur Pendergraft here last January, the defense pleadings for a new trial were mailed to the court of criminal appeals Tuesday morning, to be followed on Nov. 6 by the personally delivered arguments of Joe Carrigan and Temple Shell, defense attorneys. The motion is to be contested by George Anderson, assistant district attorney, whose answering brief is also ready for presentation.

23 Exceptions

The long motion prepared by Mr. Carrigan begins with a protest of the court's ruling in denying a new trial upon the defense allegation that one of the jurors had expressed a wish to "break Hoobler's neck" before the case was called. He excepts also to the action of Judge P. A. Martin in denying a continuance until Charlie Gant, deputy sheriff, could be called to the stand as a defense witness. The exception specifically asserts that Mr. Gant was sent out of the county on business of the sheriff's department after he had been subpoenaed as a witness, and asserts that the deputy would have testified to having struck the defendant in the face in the course of the investigation and to the fact that he, with other peace officers, had kept Hoobler awake during the days and nights immediately preceding an alleged confession of the shooting.

Methods used in the investigation were "rough house, cowardly and unlawful," the petition asserts.

Body Revealed

Hoobler was indicted for the murder of Arthur Pendergraft, wealthy Oklahoma farmer and his employer for 12 years, after he had led Oklahoma and Wichita county officers to a spot near Lake Wichita where the body of Pendergraft was found. In the trial that followed, Hoobler was found guilty and sentenced to death.

Charges Filed Against Girl Who Killed Negro

SELMA, Ala., Oct. 22. (AP)—Sheriff R. F. Hamner, of Dallas county, today filed charges of murder against Esther Barnes, 20-year-old farm girl, following her confession that she killed Ed McKee, a negro, when he insulted her at her farm home yesterday.

At the same time Coroner Andrew Breslin submitted a report of his investigation of the slaying to Solicitor Joseph Jones. Coroner Breslin rendered no verdict but expressed the opinion the slaying was justifiable homicide.

Miss Barnes told the officers she shot the negro when he resumed his advances after she had ordered him away from her home. McKee was employed as a chore man by the young woman's father.

Russian Plane Lands At Salt Lake City

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 22. (AP)—The Russian plane "Land of the Soviets" on a flight from Moscow to New York, landed here this afternoon for an overnight stop. It will proceed tomorrow to Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Possibility that the flight may be continued eastward from New York in an attempted transatlantic flight was indicated by S. A. Shestakov, chief pilot, who said that while his plans after reaching New York were indefinite, an attempt might be made to cross the Atlantic.

BURK MAN HURT IN SMASH OF LIQUOR TRUCK

G. E. Gamble in Critical Condition at Lawton Hospital

TWO MEN DISAPPEAR

Injured Man Denies Knowledge of Rum Cargo in Wrecked Machine

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 22.—When a liquor-laden truck, transporting about 300 gallons of whisky, went into a ditch on a highway four miles south of here early Tuesday morning, a man who gave his name as G. E. Gamble, of Burkburnett, Texas, was critically injured, and he is now in a dying condition in a hospital here.

Two other men whom the injured man said were in the truck, have not been found.

Approximately 140 gallons of whisky was confiscated, the impact of the crash crushing bottles containing the rest of the load.

Apparently the crash occurred when the driver made a wrong turn in the darkness. The truck was wrecked.

Three Cameron college students appeared on the scene shortly after the wreck and brought the injured man to the hospital here. One of the students, Aubrey McAlister, told officers he refused an offer of $50 to take the other two men in the truck to the Texas line.

Gamble after he reached the hospital, told officers he was riding on the truck, but denied any connection with the cargo of liquor.

His injuries are internal, and fear has been expressed that he will not recover.

LAWTON OFFICERS CAPTURE STILLS

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 22—Three small capacity whisky stills, one of which was in operation, were confiscated in raids by county officers late Monday night. One man was arrested. A large quantity of mash was destroyed and five sacks of sugar confiscated.

Woman Sees Sunrise From Washington Monument

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (US)—Of the 10,000,000 persons who have gone up in the Washington monument, Mrs. S. E. Longwell, of Middletown, Vt., today enjoyed the distinction of being the only one ever to spend the night at the top of the 550-foot shaft.

Despite the careful search made each night, she eluded the guards and remained until morning that she might see the sun rise from the dizzy height.

Special Prober Named In Lobby Investigation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Preparing to broaden its inquiry, the senate lobby committee today employed a special investigator, John Holland, who assisted Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, in unrevealing the Teapot Dome oil scandal.

The day's session revolved principally about the activities of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries corporation to secure a reduction in the tariff on fish in the bill now before the senate.

Peoples Army Crushes Nationalist Forces

HANKOW, China, Oct. 22. (AP)—Nationalist government forces today were reported to have suffered a severe setback at the hands of the Kuominchun or peoples army which has been threatening a descent upon Hankow.

Although it is generally quiet here there was an atmosphere of uneasiness. National supporters, however, were confident that the Kuominchun troops would not reach this city.

TO HEAD DELEGATION

PARIS, Oct. 22. (UP)—It was understood today that Admiral Violette, chief of the naval staff, most likely would head the French delegation to the five-power naval conference in London next January.

FIVE EXECUTED

MOSCOW, Oct. 22. (UP)—The government announced today that five former czarist generals who held important positions under the Soviet regime, had been executed for espionage.

CABINET QUITS

Briand's Eleventh Government Defeated by Socialists

PARIS, Oct. 22. (AP)—The French cabinet, headed for the eleventh time by Aristide Briand, was overthrown tonight less than three months after it had appeared before parliament and asked for "a three months truce" in internal politics in order to face the problems of The Hague reparations conference.

The cabinet went down by a vote of 288 to 277. M. Briand and his colleagues immediately resigned.

The defeat of the government was brought about by the votes of the Radical Socialists, the Socialists, and the right wing group led by Louis Marin. It came over the demand of these parties for immediate discussion of foreign affairs.

CRISP WEATHER HINTS FROST

Lower Temperatures Reported in Territory

The prediction of the "frost map" compiled from records of the United States weather bureau, that Jack Frost, on his annual tour southward, would reach southern Oklahoma and Northwest Texas between Oct. 20 and Nov. 1, neared realization Tuesday.

Actual frost was not reported in this region Tuesday, but rapidly lowering temperatures made its advent in Southwestern Oklahoma a matter of days, it not hours.

Northwest Texas and the lower Panhandle region were not so sure. Temperatures were as low as 47 degrees in Memphis and vicinity, as well as in other sections in that territory, but a frost in those regions was hardly expected.

It seemed likely the frost would first strike in Oklahoma. At Altus, where the mercury dropped to 38 degrees early Tuesday morning, a temperature of 55 was reported early Tuesday night and a heavy north wind which arose late Tuesday afternoon promised further lowering in temperature which would almost certainly bring with it the season's first frost.

At Frederick, Okla., a temperature of 64 was reported at 6 p. m. At that time, the report said, the mercury was lowering fast, and as the possibility of a frost before morning grew, numerous hunters left early for choice duck hunting grounds.

In Wichita Falls the minimum temperature Tuesday was 49 degrees, according to the Texas Electric Service company weather bureau report. Temperature at 5 p. m. was 61 degrees, and a decided drop from this figure was in progress Tuesday night.

A reading shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday night showed the temperature to be slightly below 50 degrees, representing a drop of 11 degrees since 5 p. m.

SNOW AT ROCKFORD

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 22. (UP)—Rockford experienced its first snowstorm of the season when an all-day drizzling rain turned into a blinding snowstorm late this afternoon.

Clemenceau Worse; Poincare Improving

PARIS, Oct. 22. (UP)—Georges Clemenceau, war-time premier of France, suffered an aggravation of his illness late this afternoon while Raymond Poincare, war-time president, passed a day of excellent recovery from an operation.

Dr. Jean Walser was summoned hurriedly to Clemenceau's apartment. He called in Doctor Mary, a specialist in the application of oxygen. The two remained at the bedside of the stricken "Tiger" for half an hour and refused to make a statement when they departed.

VOLCANOES KILL MANY

KHABAROVSK, U. S. S. R., Oct. 22. (UP)—Considerable loss of life was reported today in the eruption of seven volcanoes in the mountainous Kamchatka peninsula region. The volcanoes emitted lava, gas and flames.

JIM FERGUSON 'NOT HANKERIN' BUT 'WILLING'

Former Governor Outlines Platform to Be Used If He Runs

PROMISES PARDONS

Prison System, Liquor Law And Other Matters Are Discussed

AUSTIN, Oct. 22.—James E. Ferguson is not a "hankerin'" but is "willin'" to run for governor, if the people want him, he says in a lengthy statement issued from the Ferguson Forum in which he states what his platform would be if he should make the race.

If the people want him, he invites them to write him or wire him and those who watch the political winds believe that Ferguson is in the race. He sends his statement out under the title "If I Should Run." It follows:

From many parts of the state my wife and I are getting many letters suggesting that one of us announce for governor. While the number is in no sense overwhelming yet they are of sufficient volume as will prevent individual reply and we have decided to make public answer thereto.

We have no desire to and will not enter into any scramble for office. We are duly grateful to the people for past favors and honors—such as will perhaps never come to one family again.

If there should be a request of us or either of us for public service which the people are not now receiving, or for a change from present conditions, gratitude and duty will not permit the people's will to go unanswered.

Gives Platform

If I should run for governor my platform would be:

First—A business administration that will be in the interest of all people without special privilege to anybody to oppress the masses. To this end I would veto any liquor legislation whether urged by the antis to repeal present laws or by the pros to pass new laws.

The question now of how to get something to eat and wear has become more important than a row over something to drink.

If the people want prohibition let us enforce present laws before we pass any more. If the people of any county will elect district judges, district attorneys, county attorneys, sheriffs and constables who will make an honest to God effort to enforce the prohibition laws they will have my full backing and help as governor.

But candor compels me to say that I have no desire to pose as a bootlegging catching governor unless the people demand it of their law enforcing officers. And until that time as governor, I will be found looking after the business

Attorneys Hard at It In Fall Bribery Trial

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Counsel for Albert B. Fall, charged with accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny for the Elk Hills oil lease, spent four hours today attacking the government's case and presenting a favorable view of Fall's transactions to the jury.

Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, occupied the entire court day, challenging the documents introduced by the government and criticizing counsel for its presentation of the prosecution.

Moody, Back From Mexico, Again Governor

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (UP)—Gov. Dan Moody again officially became Texas' chief executive today when he crossed the international border at El Paso after a week's hunting trip in Mexico.

During Governor Moody's absence Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller assumed the responsibilities of his office.

Marries Henry Mason Day

Dorothy Marie Ridenour, member of Washington's younger set, was married to Henry Mason Day, former business associate of Harry F. Sinclair. Day recently finished a jail term for contempt of court growing out of jury shadowing during the Sinclair trial.

Cotton Prices Gain Heavily As Response to Farm Board Loans

Future Deliveries Rise as Much as $2.50 to $2.70 Per Bale And Close Near Day's Peak

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Cotton futures rose sharply on the New York cotton exchange today in response to the statement of the federal farm board that cotton was selling at too low a figure.

Prices began rising at the opening of the market and soon had advanced approximately $2.50 a bale. May deliveries rose as high as $2.70 a bale over yesterday's close.

There was some profit taking after the advances were registered, but further buying later brought prices back to the earlier levels. The market closed steady with quotations within a few points of the high prices of the day.

BOARD ANNOUNCES $1,000,000 LOANS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Three loans, totaling more than a million dollars, were approved today by the federal farm board as it moved to carry out its announced plan to help bring about more orderly marketing.

The wheat loan preceded the announcement of a definite plan of relief for that commodity, although the board in discussing the cotton situation yesterday said that it also had in mind the wheat situation and was working on a scheme to improve it.

Two of the loans approved today—$300,000 to the Mississippi Cooperative association at Jackson, Miss., and $500,000 to the Southwest Cooperative Wheat Growers association, Kansas City—were commodity loans. They will enable the two organizations to make larger advances to grower members. Both loans are supplemental to those from federal intermediate credit banks.

The third was a facilities loan of $500,000 to the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association, at Dallas, Texas.

At the same time the board took under advisement a suggestion that it use state departments of agriculture and state marketing associations in its work. The proposal came from the Georgia department of agriculture which offered its facilities and those of the Georgia marketing board.

FARMERS ADVISED TO QUIT SELLING

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—The federal farm board has "at last come across" with practical farm relief in its proposition to loan cotton

Beckham County Paving Is Nearing Completion

Special to The Record News.

SAYRE, Okla., Oct. 22.—Ten more miles of paving on highway 66 in Beckham county immediately west of Sayre will be completed and opened to traffic within the next 20 days, making 28 miles in the county, 18 east of Sayre and 10 west.

The state highway commission began work on a $9,000 bridge this week just west of the city limits. It will be of steel and concrete construction.

CHEST FUND UP TO $16,000

One-Fifth of Total Quota Reported Tuesday

One down and four to go!

With more than $16,000 actually checked in through the auditing committee and numbers of teams yet unreported, the community chest fund had got off to a healthy start in the first whole day of campaigning, according to the closing report Tuesday evening.

REPORTS ASKED

A call for reports from all community chest campaign committees by noon Wednesday was issued Tuesday night by A. E. Kelly, chairman of the campaign. Mr. Kelly urged that committee heads turn in their reports showing partial contributions, instead of waiting for the completion of the quota.

The total up to 6 o'clock Tuesday is more than one-fifth of the entire quota asked for Wichita Falls.

Officials were highly optimistic over the amount turned in.

"There are several divisions that have turned in no report at all," said A. E. Kelly, campaign director, "and we all feel greatly encouraged over the results."

Forty-five teams are canvassing the entire city, which has been divided into districts.

Meeting Opposes Prison Farm Sale

A resolution opposing sale by the state of Texas of its prison farms and relocation of its penitentiary system was adopted unanimously at a mass meeting held at the Wichita county courthouse Tuesday night.

State Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham addressed the meeting and was voted commendation in the resolutions adopted. It was further resolved to call upon state representatives in the legislature to oppose the projected sale and relocation.

TWO CHILDREN SEE SLAYINGS BY AVENGER

Arkansas Bottoms Scene of Tragedy Over Supposed Theft

HORSEMAN INJURED

Stray Bullet Believed to Have Caused Death Of One Man

NEWPORT, Ark., Oct. 22. (AP)—A mission of revenge for a supposed two dollar theft ended in the deaths of three men and the wounding of a fourth in a cotton field near here today.

The dead are: John Heath, William Ash and C. C. Starks. Sylvester Stillwell is the wounded man.

Heath shot Ash and Starks and wounded Stillwell before the latter killed him.

Children Witnesses

Stillwell and Starks' two small children were the only surviving witnesses.

Heath lived on a houseboat on the White river here and Starks with his two motherless children lived in another houseboat nearby.

Missing two dollars from his boat today, Heath concluded Starks had stolen it and set out on a horse in search of Starks.

Riding across the river into Oil Trough bottoms, he found Starks and his two children picking cotton for Ash. Heath was said to have accused Starks of the theft and then opened fire with a pistol.

Two Fall Dead

Stillwell, who was riding over the farm to protect the pecan crop against thefts, rode up on a horse as the shooting started.

Starks and Ash fell dead, the latter apparently the victim of a stray bullet. Heath then was said to have turned on Stillwell, whose horse was shot.

Stillwell himself was wounded in the hand before he could draw his gun and start firing. He sent a bullet through Heath's heart.

Stillwell then came to town and surrendered at the sheriff's office. No charges had been filed tonight.

Rites for Electra Car Victim Today

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 22.—Funeral services are to be held here Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. for Gaston Scott, 32, victim of an automobile accident near here Monday evening.

The rites are to be held at the First Methodist church with Rev. Hugh Anderson officiating. The body will be forwarded to Honey Grove, Texas, where burial services will be held probably Thursday.

Mr. Scott was fatally injured when the car in which he and Miss Violet Stone were riding collided with a large oil truck on the Vernon highway eight miles west of here. Miss Stone is recovering from critical injuries sustained.

Mr. Scott is survived by his father, G. W. Scott, his step-mother three sisters and three half-sisters.

R. G. Watson Named City Marshal At Nocona to Succeed Second One Slain

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Oct. 22.—R. G. Watson, of Amarillo, today was appointed city marshal of Nocona to fill a vacancy twice created by death.

Watson succeeds City Marshal Ed Powell, shot to death on a city street here while in the discharge of his duty. A little over nine months ago City Marshal Ed Gooch died "with his boots on."

Watson, former peace officer of Clay and Montague county, recently has been doing special work in Borger, Texas, lately under martial law. For four years he was a Clay county deputy sheriff, and for nearly a year was county jailer at Montague. He is to assume his new duties immediately, it was announced.

For the alleged murder of Nocona's last city marshal to be killed two men face charges of murder, Claud Dix, now in the Montague county jail, and Walter Reagan, out on $10,000 bond. Powell, it is alleged, was shot to death with his own gun in an attempt to arrest Dix on the streets of Nocona.

For the alleged murder of City Marshal Ed Gooch early this year Carl Goodspeed is serving a term in the penitentiary.

Hoover Rides Old Time River Steamer to Louisville for Speech

ABOARD S. S. GREENBRIER on Ohio River, Oct. 22. (UP)—Heading a puffing and throbbing flotilla of extravagantly decorated river steamers down the Ohio in a pageant signalizing a new era of inland water transportation, President Hoover enjoyed a welcome relaxation tonight from the crowded schedule he has followed since his departure from Washington Sunday night.

Leaving Cincinnati on the snug little Greenbrier at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the president quickly dug out his favored yoeman's cap, a relic of his good will tour of South America last year, and resigned himself enthusiastically to a prospective 26 hours of mere rolling along with "ole man river."

At Louisville tomorrow night he will conclude his two days participation in ceremonies marking the completion of the nine-foot channel through the 1,000-mile course of the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill.

The Louisville speech, it is expected, will be devoted to an outline of the Hoover program for national waterway development.

shared the confidence of her husband-airman for success.

"The ship was bought and altered with the crossing in view," Mrs. Diteman said, adding that her husband has been flying two years and a half since becoming interested in aviation in Portland, Ore., where his parents now live.

Evidently uninformed as to the alterations in the craft, the builders of Diteman's Barling low wing monoplane said the ship was not designed for such a long cruise, and expressed surprise at the transatlantic start.

DITEMAN'S IS THIRD SOLO ATTEMPT

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—Urban F. Diteman Jr., who took off today from Harbor Grace, N. F., for London, is the third solo flier to undertake the west-east crossing of the North Atlantic.

The west-east adventure of the North Atlantic has taken 11 lives.

Eight planes have spanned the North Atlantic from west to east, and seven have failed.

Weather conditions at the time of Diteman's take-off were favorable, but his plane is small, like the Moth craft of L. C. McDonald who was lost a year ago.

Outstanding in the successful west-east flights was that of Colonel Lindbergh from New York to Paris. Captain Jack Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown eight years before, flew from St. Johns to Ireland for the first time by airplane.

Other successful flights included those of Clarence D. Chamberlain, Commander Richard E. Byrd, William F. Schlee and William Brock, the late Wilmer Stultz with Amelia Earhart, the French monoplane Yellow Bird with Assolant, Lefevre, Cotti and a stowaway and the American monoplane Pathfinder of Yancey and Williams.

A month before Alcock and Brown succeeded, Harry C. Hawker and McKensie Grieve were rescued at sea as the first west-east airplane failures. The monoplane Old Glory and her crew of three were lost in September, 1927, en route from Old Orchard, Maine, to Rome. Failures that followed included those of Capt. Terrance Tully and Lieut. James Metcalf, both lost a few days after the Old Glory; Capt. George W. Haldeman and Ruth Elder, picked up at sea six weeks later and Commander Francisco de Pinedo, rescued at sea in May, 1927.

Seven months later Mrs. Frances Grayson and two men companions were lost en route from New York to Harbor Grace from where a flight to Europe was to have been attempted.

Two mechanics were killed at Roosevelt field in 1926 when the giant plane of Rene Fonck, French war ace, crashed in an attempted take-off for Paris. Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, attempting a flight across the extreme North Atlantic, via Greenland, were forced down on the ice but were rescued.

BAD WEATHER FOR FLYING REPORTED

LONDON, Oct. 22. (US)—W. F. Diteman, Billings, Mont., aviator who hopped from Newfoundland in his monoplane Golden Hind, giving his goal as Londan, will have no easy time with the weather over the Atlantic.

The British air ministry, when informed of Diteman's hop, gave out the following weather bulletin:

"For the next 24 hours, there will be moderate westerly winds over the Atlantic, with clouds and occasional rain. In the moderate temperature, there will be a tendency toward fog."

The air ministry later issued the following mid-Atlantic report:

"Twenty degrees west of Ireland, a westerly wind is approaching gale force. Occasional rains will persist for at least 24 hours.

"Conditions at 2,000 altitude are cloudy, with a 40 to 60-mile-an-hour wind."

Although the westerly winds favor Diteman, and probably will push him along at a speed faster than that attained by any other flight, an official said his would "have to be a good machine" to be able to cope with weather conditions over the Atlantic.

SUIT CLUB PAYS

Operator of Lottery Returns $300 to Customers and Leaves

The organizer of a so-called "suit lottery," offering a chance at a free suit of clothes as a magnet to draw a series of $2 payments from its patrons, Monday afternoon paid a $10 fine, repaid $300 taken in small sums taken from his victims, and promised Judge Irwin J. Vogel in the county court-at-law to leave town before sundown.

The super-salesman pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a lottery brought against him by Wayne Somerville, county attorney. The $300 he said he had collected, $2 at a time, from members of a "suit club" who gave the money each week toward the purchase of clothing and with the hope of winning the free suit offered to the holder of the "lucky" number.

merce," the president called the revived river shipping in an address today at Cincinnati.

Braving a cold rain there, the president and Mrs. Hoover motored in an open car to Eden park, on a bluff overlooking the Ohio, to dedicate a monument commemorating completion of the nine-foot channel.

A crowd of about 7,000 cheered the president's address, in which he lauded the pioneers in the waterway development fight. He paid generous tribute to Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio and Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the house of representatives.

"The whole Ohio valley and the nation as well should be congratulated on this occasion," he said. "A new agency of service now begins its quiet labors for mankind.

"This new instrument of commerce, from which untold blessings will come year after year, is an enduring monument to those patient men of my own profession whose lives are spent in devising means to increase the comfort and convenience of the world."

After the dedicatory ceremonies, the chief executive and first lady were guests of Speaker and Mrs. Longworth, at an informal buffet luncheon in the Longworth home.

Other guests were Secretary of War James M. Good, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio and Mayor Murray Seasongood of Cincinnati.

Later the president was an honor guest at a formal luncheon of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, sponsor of the week-long river celebration which will end at Cairo Friday.

The president will return to Washington by special train immediately after the Louisville speech tomorrow night, arriving late Thursday afternoon.

Loans Boost Cotton Prices

growers 16 cents a pound on their cotton, W. B. Leary, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Marketing Association of America, Dallas, said in a statement issued tonight.

"The farm board has now spoken and said cotton is too cheap," the statement said. "Farmers should quit selling at once."

Mr. Leary's organization has urged farmers to hold their cotton for 25 cents, and this was being done, he said, in many Texas counties.

WESTBROOK SAYS ACTION TOO LATE

WACO, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—Announcing his intention of introducing a bill during the next special session of the legislature creating a Texas farm board designed "to cooperate with the federal board," Representative Lawrence Westbrook of McLennan county, in a statement issued today, declared that "the action of the federal farm board in announcing its policy in regard to cotton has come too late to help the great majority of Texas farmers."

Representative Westbrook is chairman of Governor Moody's agricultural committee, appointed last summer to confer with the federal board relative to the cotton market situation.

GAINS REFLECTED IN LOCAL MARKETS

Cotton prices over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma zoomed from $1.25 to $5 a bale Tuesday, putting thousands of dollars in the pockets of farmers and merchants on the day's purchases alone, and adding a great prospective sum to the value of the crop if the advancing price is maintained. The advance in this section was the reflection of higher prices in the New Orleans and New York markets, following the farm board's order to advance up to 16 cents a pound to cooperative organizations for the orderly marketing of the crop.

The general advance over the section probably averaged more than $2.50 a bale, although isolated points showed lower or unchanged prices. In Wichita county the price at Burkburnett advanced from $2.50 on the lower quality staple to $7.50 on the highest over Monday's quotations, while the advance at Kemp City was $2.50 a bale on the best quality. Iowa Park and Wichita Falls markets showed little change, the price here Monday having ranged up to 18.50 cents a pound, the highest anywhere in this section.

Prices at Memphis, which holds a long lead as the banner cotton town of this area, advanced from $1.25 to $5 a bale Tuesday, while Childress, Crowell, Frederick, Okla., Seymour and Quanah also showed higher prices. Seymour paid an average of $2.50 more per bale for all quality cotton Tuesday, while at Quanah, where the price had broken to 12 cents on poor quality Monday, jumped $7.50 to $10 a bale.

BARRY MILLER GIVES PARDONS

Acting Governor Grants Clemencies

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Six full and one conditional pardon and one general parole were issued today when proclamations signed by acting Gov. Barry Miller were filed with the secretary of state.

He had previously issued one conditional and two full pardons.

In the transactions, Huntsville prison loses the editor of its with-in-the-walls newspaper, E. R. Robinson, who edited the paper, doing six years for burglary, was among those given a full pardon.

The general parole was given Will Hargrove, 76-year-old negro, serving life from Walker county for the alleged murder of J. J. Hardy in 1912. Hargrove had been given death by a jury, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Oscar Colquitt. John Cain, who was tried for a part in the same offense and who was given the supreme penalty, died of pneumonia while awaiting execution and on his death bed made a statement exonerating Hargrove.

Dale Oil Company To Increase Stock $100,000

An amendment to the charter of the Dale Oil and Refining company, increasing its capital stock from $150,000 to $250,000, has been granted by the secretary of state, according to Associated Press dispatches to The Record News Tuesday. The company has recently entered upon a program of improvement at its plant, with a large increase in facilities contemplated.

Lafollette Warns Of Impending Party Split

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (UP)—Sen. Robert M. Lafollette, Republican, Wisconsin, whose father led the tariff split in the Republican party which resulted in the Roosevelt-Taft defeat of 1912, warned the senate today that the same party disaster would be repeated in 1932 unless the rates of the pending tariff bill are reduced.

New Producer At O. C. Makes 3,400

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22. (AP)—The South Oklahoma City field had another producer today in the Sinclair Oil and Gas company's No. 3 Stamper, in section NW 30-11-3w, which was opened last night and flowed 1,735 barrels of oil in the first 12 hours. Both gas and oil were increasing, the gas flow being estimated at 100,000,000 feet. The well will be permitted to flow 24 hours before being shut in under proration rules. Total depth is 6,555 feet in lime.

Teeth decay:
Pyorrhea gets its start
unless you act

Remove the FILM that breeds bacteria and turns white teeth dull and dingy

TOOTH DECAY is caused by germs. Pyorrhea usually results from germs and tartar.

Germs are imprisoned in a dingy, glue-like coating on the teeth called film. There they breed by millions in every crevice in contact with the teeth and tissues.

Film clings so stubbornly ordinary ways are not successful in removing it. Use the special formula called Pepsodent. You instantly notice the difference in the way it feels. Film vanishes. Teeth become gleaming white. Yet Pepsodent acts gently. No pumice, harmful grit or crude abrasive—but a soft, creamy paste that is prescribed for the softest teeth and tenderest gums.

Nervous Headaches Yield to Capudine

Overtaxed nerves cause nearly all headaches as well as other pains, such as pains in the back and sides, women's pains, and neuralgic and rheumatic pains. To relieve headaches and other nerve pains and to soothe the tense nerves nothing gives such quick results and such delightful comfort as Capudine. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. It contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach.

For over 30 years Capudine has proven a joy and comfort to millions who have suffered from headaches, nervousness and other nerve pains. At drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

ALMA COUCH'S TRIAL DELAYED

Accused Co-Ed to Face Court in November

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22. (UP)—The trial of Alma Lee Couch, University of Oklahoma co-ed, late today was continued until Nov. 27 in district court here.

The continuance was granted when several witnesses failed to appear.

She is charged with the $2,000 jewelry robbery of the John B. Frederickson home here.

Miss Couch is alleged to have stolen the jewels April 11 while employed as a nursemaid in the home. She was arrested in August when a check stand attendant notified police a bag checked by Miss Couch had never been redeemed. The stolen goods were found in it.

She accounted for the loss of the goods by saying that two burglars had looted the home. She was found almost unconscious in a closet by Frederickson when he returned.

Absence of two defense witnesses delayed the trial until 1:30 p. m. when the court was called to order.

Defense witnesses included: Dr. Ed Meacham, University of Oklahoma professor, and Drs. Fowler Border and J. P. Hollis, both of Mangum.

Chinese Demonstrate Against Street Cars

PEKING, China, Oct. 22. (UP)—A mob of almost 10,000 rickshaw men rioted in the streets of Peking today in angry protest against the use of street cars, which they attacked for ruining China's ancient manpower transportation service.

The demonstration started when a street car accidentally wrecked a rickshaw. Members of the rickshaw union retaliated by wrecking street cars and storming through the streets.

Transportation service was suspended and shops were closed in the face of the rioting. Police did not interfere.

'Dobbs' Adams Widow Wounded Mysteriously

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 22. (INS)—Shot by a person she refused to name, Mrs. Meda Adams, widow of "Dobbs" Adams, slayer who cheated the gallows by committing suicide several weeks ago, is in the hospital today suffering wounds received last night.

An ambulance, mysteriously called, rushed her to the hospital. No one was at the scene of the shooting, and she was holding a man's overcoat in her arms when the ambulance arrived.

Early today, physicians were unable to determine the seriousness of her wounds.

Nebraska Farmers Busy Harvesting Corn

NORFOLK, Neb., Oct. 22. (UP)—Nebraska farmers turned in earnest today to the harvesting of their corn after the season's first killing frost Sunday night. All corn was said to be out of danger and a bumper crop was expected. Frosts also were reported from several points in Kansas.

First Graders Study News Writing

Margaret Jane's Departure Big "Smash"

HOUSTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—Forty very young journalists are studying news, which the teacher afterward uses as reading lessons, at Allen school here.

These curly-heads and towheads haven't been out of rompers many months. They are the low first grade pupils, 7 years old and down.

A little "open forum" begins the day's work for the first and only edition. Here the young Greeleys go into serious conference, casting about for the lead story in "The Morning News."

The problem of circulation is simple and there are no business office demands. "The Morning News" is written and made up on the blackboard by teacher, who is a sort of supervising editor allowing the sub-editors the widest latitude.

It is the hour when the press is pretty hungry. Little Mary's grandmother is visiting her. As Mary sees it, the item is a top-notcher. Johnnie demurs, however, pointing out that the big story must concern every class member. Teacher keeps her eye on the new goldfish bowl, in plain sight of all the staff.

The staff, however, is not to be led into "playing" the new bowl at the top of "The Morning News." There is a great story in the air.

The agreement is reached and the story, as it appears in the white "ink" of "The Morning News," reads:

Margaret Jane has moved.
She has gone to another school.
We are sorry that she has gone away.
Goodby, Margaret Jane.

Margaret Jane is a 6-year-old notable, having been one of the most popular little girls in the class. Her departure is keen, even poignant, human interest to the other very young journalists in "The Morning News."

The supervising editor is a kindly grey haired woman, Miss Jane Caradine.

Littlefield Crowded With Cotton Pickers

Special to The Record News.

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, Oct. 22.—Strangers here, and even the natives, are astounded at the throngs of people that crowd the streets of this town daily. Since the best cotton crop in the state is around Littlefield literally hundreds of Mexican cotton pickers are here. These, with the many people coming in, make large crowds and keep the merchants busy. The feed crops are abundant and it is freely predicted that 50,000 bales of cotton will be ginned in Lamb county this year.

El Paso "Cleans Up" for Visitors

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—This city has completed cleaning house in preparation for the eleventh annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce opening here Thursday. Last week was paint-up and clean-up week throughout the city and El Paso is now spick and span, looking to the greatest convention crowd ever assembled here. Decorators have flung flags and bunting everywhere and lights have been painted a golden tint.

In preparation for the overflow crowds, hotels have made plans, if need be, to place the visitors on cots in hallways or wherever they need to be placed.

Practically every town in West Texas affiliated with the organization has elected delegates to the convention. President-manager A. M. Bourland has called a meeting of his directors of Wednesday morning, Oct. 23, and a meeting of delegates for the afternoon of the same day. The convention proper, however, will not open until Thursday. Business sessions will be held each morning while the afternoons and evenings will be given over to entertainment.

Besides the army maneuvers Thursday and the military parade Friday, many interesting features are planned, among which are the night football game and band pageant at the El Paso stadium. It is expected that 600 musicians will be massed into one great band for a 30-minute program. The bull fight and Spanish fiesta in Juarez will be the closing entertainment feature Saturday.

Paid registrations for the convention are already greater than any pre-convention registrations before. Three special trains and several motorcades of 100 automobiles each will bring hundreds.

El Paso women have particular plans to entertain visiting ladies including a grand entertainment and reception at Liberty hall Thursday night. Featured on this program will be Miss Dorothy Greathouse, formerly of the Chicago Grand Opera company, and now head of the Wichita Falls conservatory.

TEXAS Mother's Plan is succeeding...

WHEN your child is headachy, bilious, feverish, half-sick, with no appetite or energy, nine times out of ten, just one thing is to blame; constipation!

Cleanse the little digestive tract with California Fig Syrup and see how breath is sweetened; coated tongue cleared; eyes brightened. More than two doses are seldom necessary to drive away all signs of a clogged system; make a child happy.

There isn't a child who doesn't love its rich, fruity flavor. Improved appetite, digestion and assimilation follow its use. A child's entire system is toned and strengthened.

Mrs. Jack Lutz, 1114 Waverly Avenue, San Antonio, says: "Since we found out how good California Fig Syrup is, we have kept some in the house. It never fails to help our children. I give it at the first sign of upsets or colds. Their wonderful condition proves this a good plan." Caution: The genuine always bears the name California.

Tillman County Clubs Plan Work

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 22.—At a quarterly meeting of the advisory board of the Tillman County Federated Women's clubs held Saturday afternoon at the office of Susan B. Gray, home demonstration agent, major and minor activities were designated for 1930, from which the various local clubs are to select one major and one or more minors. The zinnia was named as the federation flower; each club is to designate its own community work and to wage war on flies.

Activities from which clubs are to select:

Major—Poultry, house furnishing, canning, home dairying, home gardens.

Minor—Children's clothing, kitchen improvement.

Mrs. H. L. Taylor, president of the federated clubs, named the following members of the year book committee: Mrs. W. S. Drum, Mrs. C. C. Allen, Mrs. M. R. Bryant and Mrs. Charles Caldwell, all of Frederick; Mrs. J. Gilmer Capps and Mrs. W. B. Gist, Tipton, and Mrs. J. E. Gossett, Grandfield.

Fourteen of the 19 clubs of the county were represented by either their secretary or president, or both, a total of 30 members of the advisory board being present.

Zoning Ordinance Is Planned for Mangum

Special to The Record News

MANGUM, Okla., Oct. 22.—Mayor G. F. Border has appointed a commission of five citizens to prepare a zoning ordinance for the city. L. S. Noble, president of the Mangum Chamber of Commerce and president of the First National bank, was appointed chairman of the commission. Other members are W. F. Hearne, Ralph Helper, Guy Brooks and Henry D. Miller. They will prepare an ordinance for submission to the city commissioners in which zones will be established and the type of structure of homes and of business houses for each zone designated.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

In the Tuesday morning paper, the story was told of Edison's breakdown. The pathos of it is stressed.

We wonder how many people noticed two sentences written in the report. "Please let me know when the president leaves," and "Please give me my hat."

We have always believed wholeheartedly in the efficacy of the little word, "please."

Even on the pallet on the floor, with the president sitting beside him and his wife sobbing quietly, this gentle old man did not forget courtesy.

We know many people who are willing to try to do anything they are bade, if they are asked please to do so. Yet they rebel if they are given an order.

It will probably not always work in business, but it is an infallible thing at home if it is and has been a consistent thing.

We have seen superintendents in business who must have the impression that they can accomplish what they wish if they give orders at the top of their voices.

We know of a boy in Wichita Falls who rebelled against a teacher's manner of addressing him; asked why, he said, "Why I want to be treated like I am a man—not like dumb driven cattle."

This is a feeling that lies in the heart of man from early youth to the grave. A man wants to be treated like he is a man.

Every superior in rank has at one time been an inferior and he was even then a man.

It counts no more with men than women. There is an outstanding club woman in the city and she rarely has a request refused. We believe it is because of the sweet and gracious manner in which she makes them and is due also to the fact that she invariably says "please."

So many newly rich do not know how to live with their money. Its power goes to their heads and they make themselves ridiculous.

So many newly made officials do not know how to live with their power. They are afraid that unless they show it in a brusque manner, those who take their orders will not realize their authority.

But those who are seasoned in life, or those who are well born and well trained, develop a beautiful habit of softening any command with a "please."

Spanish Fiesta Board Will Meet Thursday

Mrs. A. G. Holmes announces a meeting of all chairmen for different departments in the Spanish fiesta at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Thursday morning at 10:30.

Plans are being perfected to make this the most outstanding flower show that has been held by the Woman's Forum. The decorations will be most unusual and the costumes and colors will be in brilliant Spanish coloring.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Personal Liberty For Old Folks Is Woman's Plea

"The Right to Be Free Is the Slogan of the Hour, but It Doesn't Seem to Have Occurred to Anybody That the Old Crave a Little of This Much Vaunted Freedom, Cries a Sore-Beset Mother.

An old lady said to me not long ago: "I am going to organize the Amalgamated Order of Emancipated Mothers and stage a rebellion against our tyrannical children who chicken-peck the life out of us. "My dear," she went on whimsically, "you can never have any idea how downtrodden and oppressed a human being can be until you get to be in your 70s and have a family of devoted children. The more they love you and the more conscientious they are and the more anxious they are to do their duty, the more they tyrannize over you. I tell you there are times when I hear women complaining of their neglectful children when I actually feel like shedding tears of envy and telling them how lucky they are.

"This is the age of personal liberty. The right to be free is the slogan of the hour. Husbands and wives demand that the marriage tie be made an elastic bond. The young claim the privilege of living their own lives. We are taught that children should develop their own individuality without interference, but it doesn't seem to have occurred to anybody that the old crave a little of this much-vaunted freedom and that it is peculiarly galling to men and women who have directed their lives with fairly good success for 60 or 70 years to find themselves once more in leading strings.

"Now, as I have said, I have a family of particularly good and dutiful children and there isn't a day when I am not congratulated upon my good fortune. There isn't a day that some one doesn't say to me, 'Dear Mrs. X. how blessed you are in having such sons and daughters. I never saw anything like their devotion! Why, they literally watch over you like a mother over a sick babe,' and, of course, I smile and smirk hypocritically and respond that yes, indeed, I am lucky beyond my deserts.

"But privately I am thinking that I wish I could exchange a ton of this devotion for an ounce of freedom and that while a sick baby may like to have a mother watch its every breath and count its pulse beats, a strong and healthy and self-willed woman wants to be let alone and permitted to do as she pleases.

"And that is what my dear and devoted daughters never let me do. It's 'mother, are you quite warm, don't you want a little shawl over your shoulders?' It's 'mother, don't sit in that draft. Let me move your chair over here.' It's 'mother, don't you think that coffee is too strong for you?' It's 'mother, eat this nice custard instead of that pie. It is so much better for you.' It's 'mother, don't you think you had better take a nap.' It's 'mother, don't sit up and read that novel,' until I feel like screaming out that I am not senile and I still have enough sense to know whether I am hot or cold and whether I want to sit up or lie down and that I am better acquainted with my digestion than they are.

"Now you can get fed up on the society even of your own children and want to go off by yourself and do just exactly as you please without having to consult anybody else's taste, convenience or desires. But have I that privilege? Far from it. I would like, for example, every now and then to go off on a trip by myself or to go to some resort hotel where some of my old cronies are staying, but when I broach the plan my children veto it or one or the other of my daughters sacrifices herself to go along with me. And I can't tell her that the real reason I want to go is to get away from her for awhile.

"Why, I am not even permitted to go down town alone, though I consider it a perfect lark to do so and to go to a restaurant for lunch and make a meal on lobster Newburg and cream puffs if I want to without Mary's disapproving eye upon me and her warning in my ears that milk toast would be so much better for me.

"It has been years now since I have had a dress that I really liked. Sally always goes shopping with me and picks out my clothes. I daresay she uses excellent judgment and that I am most suitably attired for a woman of my years, but it just happens that Sally's taste and my taste are not the same and I simply loathe the things she makes me buy. My daughters often urge me to buy more clothes, but what's the use when Sally will just get me another black garment or one of those sickly pastel shades instead of the nice cheerful red I would get if I had any say in the matter.

"My darling girls are so anxious to take care of me that they have doomed me to perpetual idleness, and if there is any worse punishment than that I don't know what it is. They say: 'Mother worked so hard in her youth that she is entitled to a rest now and we don't let her do a thing,' and they bridle with self-righteousness and think how good and kind they are being to me.

"They have no imagination, poor things, and so they never guess how dreary are the days in which one has nothing to do but to kill time; how the hands that have always been busy ache for employment, how like a deposed queen a woman feels when all authority is taken from her in her own home and she becomes just a figure that sits by the fireside and waits for death.

"Of course, our children tyrannize over us through love. We live under a benevolent despotism in which our czars rule us for our own good, but we chafe under it. None the less we long for freedom and to do as we please. We don't want to be told when to rise up and sit down or what to eat or to have our clothes picked out for us. We don't want somebody to hold us by the hand every step we take and remind us that we are doddering, feeble old creatures who haven't sense enough to look out for ourselves.

"And it is a pity our children can't see this and give us a little of the liberty we crave. And that is why I am going to organize the Amalgamated Order of Emancipated Mothers, whose chief fight will be against devoted daughters."

Forum Directors To Sponsor Club Of Movie Makers

In a meeting at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Tuesday morning, the board of directors voted to sponsor a "Movie Makers' club," which will meet at the forum clubhouse to discuss work and plans and to run their films.

Mrs. J. L. Jackson Jr., social chairman, will have charge of all arrangements and the first meeting will take place early in November.

Plans were consummated to bring the Isadora Duncan dancers to the forum as a benefit for Dec. 10. This troupe has danced in New York, Chicago and in eastern cities to overflowing houses. A vacant day in their itinerary gave the forum the opportunity to bring them to a town much smaller than they usually make.

The house committee especially stressed the use of the Spanish tea room. It was voted that a hostess to her bridge club who entertained her guests at lunch in the Spanish tea room, should have the privilege of having the card game without extra charge. A member of the forum entertaining guests, must pay cover charge at luncheon for each guest who is not a member of the club unless she has as many as eight guests. A new concession made by the directors Tuesday is that any club member who has a party of eight or more guests, will have no cover charge.

DON'T NEGLECT DAILY ROUGHAGE

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Supply It in Generous Quantities

There's danger in diets that lack bulk. This roughage is absolutely necessary to keep well. Without it constipation begins its deadly work. Unless prevented its poisons will ruin health, steal beauty, blast hopes.

Sallow complexions, headaches, listlessness are signs that constipation is present. But these can be banished—health and vigor can be regained by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and is 100% effective. It is guaranteed to bring natural, sure relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend it.

A delicious cereal to serve with milk or cream. Delicious in cooked dishes. Recipes are on the package. Your grocer sells ALL-BRAN. Hotels, restaurants and dining-cars serve it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Fussy" About Coffee?
Then Try Mountain Coffees from Central America

Twice the richness... twice the flavor ...never "thin"...or "flat"...

MOUNTAIN Coffee from Central America! To people who know and appreciate good coffee we do not attempt to tell how good it is. We simply say, drink it 3 times and then if you are willing to go back to ordinary coffee, we will pay the cost.

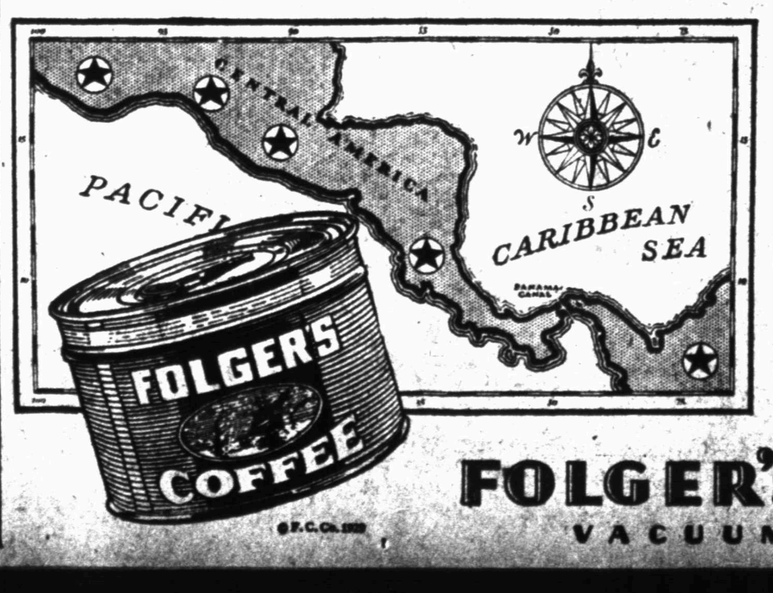

Its flavor comes from coffees grown in the fertile volcanic soil of Central America. A region that experts agree produces the tangiest flavor and the richest body of probably any known coffees today.

A Remarkable Difference

Ordinarily you note little difference in taste when you change from one brand of coffee to another. That is because 70% of all coffee sold in the United States today (regardless of brand names) is of one common type grown in the same general region. So-called "blending" and special roasting processes (in spite of advertising talk) can not change its flavor. For roasting coffee merely brings out whatever flavor Nature has already put in.

It is a different type of coffee that makes the flavor of Folger's Coffee what it is.

You will note this difference the instant you break the seal of the vacuum can. There is a rush of rich fragrance from the full-flavored mountain coffee. In making this coffee you don't have to "coax" the flavor out. It makes a clear amber cup that's rich beyond comparison—never "thin" or tasteless.

An Interesting Test

Get a pound of Folger's Coffee from your grocer today. Drink it tomorrow morning. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. Then decide which you like best. If, for any reason, you do not choose Folger's your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We will pay him. That's fair, isn't it? You risk nothing—so why not order Folger's now for the test?

Five reasons for sugar in the diet

Scientist talks about this healthful food

ONE OF THE great food scientists of the country told us not long ago, "Sugar not only has an important use in the diet of nearly everyone—it has five distinct uses.

"First of all, it is a great conserver of many foods, especially fruits. In the second place, as a flavoring substance, it is most valuable in making nearly all foods much more appetizing. In this way it leads to the eating of a more balanced diet. The third point I would call to your attention about sugar is its value as a satiation factor. Ending a meal with a sweet gives a sense of satisfaction—of having had just enough.

"Perhaps the best known use of sugar is as a staple fuel for keeping the human body active. Sugar is more rapidly digested than starch, and it ranks with starch as a vital food for every normal person.

"The final point about sugar is its adaptability as an emergency fuel. Sugar is rapidly absorbed in the system."

It is always helpful to get the opinion of a recognized authority on any important subject. In a day when food fads are so much in evidence it is a part of wisdom to discover exactly how important sugar is in the diet of all of us.

The sensible way to well-being is to eat all kinds of healthful fresh and canned fruits and vegetables, sweetened to taste. Remember the value of puddings, ice creams, and cakes for dessert. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

FIVE CONVICTS ARE RE-TAKEN

Shots Exchanged After Bid For Freedom

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—Two attempts to flee the Texas prison system within a few hours of each other resulted in the recapture of the five fugitives.

One of the bids for freedom, made by three prisoners on the Eastham farm, 20 miles northwest of here, late yesterday, was climaxed today with an exchange of shots between the convicts and a posse of guards, led by bloodhounds, near Madisonville. The trio finally surrendered. No one was injured.

The convicts, Fred Fuller, serving two years for forgery from Montgomery county, and Francis Porch and Tom Tash, sentenced to five years for burglary from Llano and Wichita counties, respectively, fled from the farm after overpowering Shan Wilson, their guard.

Bloodhounds were immediately set on the fugitives' trail after Shan, stripped of his clothing, was found tied to a tree and his pistol and horse missing.

The other attempt for freedom occurred at the penitentiary here last night after H. H. Jansen and Jim R. Young, employed in a print shop outside the prison walls, slugged and dangerously wounded John Burnett, guard, seized his gun and started for Houston in an automobile. They were overtaken by prison officials, however, and surrendered.

State Grants Charter To Flying Club Here

Notice was received Tuesday that the Wichita Falls Flying Club Inc., with a capital stock of $2,000, has been granted a charter under the laws of the state of Texas. The incorporators were Paul Hines, B. Q. Hall and J. P. Rayzor, all prominent in aeronautical circles in Wichita Falls.

The club operates at Staley field, where its members are given instruction in flying and where stated meetings are held for the purpose of discussing all topics pertaining to aviation. A club room is maintained at the flying field. The club recently purchased an Eaglerock training biplane for use of the members, the ship having been flown direct from the factory in Colorado Springs last week by Dudley Rider of Staley field.

State College Lake Improvements Planned

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—The board of regents of the Texas State college for Women has put aside $1,000 to be used in developing the Lake Dallas site of 20 acres which has been given to the college by the city of Dallas.

Improvements on the road reaching the property must be made before the site itself can be improved. Tentative plans for development include a boat house, central lodge and dancing pavilion, and small cabins built by college clubs.

CANNED MUSIC ON TRIAL

THIS is the case of Art vs. Mechanical Music in Theatres. The defendant stands accused before the American people of attempted corruption of musical appreciation and discouragement of musical education.

Theatres in many cities are offering synchronized mechanical music as a substitute for Real Music. If the theatre-going public accepts this vitiation of its entertainment program a deplorable decline in the Art of Music is inevitable.

Musical authorities know that the soul of the Art is lost in mechanization. It cannot be otherwise because the quality of music is dependent upon the present mood of the artist, upon the human contact, without which the essence of intellectual stimulation and emotional rapture is lost.

Is Music Worth Saving?

No great volume of evidence is required to answer this question. Music is a well-nigh universally beloved art. From the beginning of history men have turned to musical expression to lighten the burdens of life, to make them happier. Aborigines, lowest in the scale of savagery, chant their songs to tribal Gods and play upon pipes and shark-skin drums. Musical development has kept pace with good taste and ethics throughout the ages, and has influenced the gentler nature of man more powerfully perhaps than any other factor.

Has it remained for the Great Age of Science to snub the Art by setting up in its place a pale and feeble shadow of itself?

Airport Notes

The first signs of actual work on the program of permanent improvements at the Municipal airport appeared Tuesday morning when a crew of men started concrete work on a culvert over the road leading up to the airport in preparation for the hard-surfacing of the strip from the Burkburnett highway to the port entrance. The road work is being done by the county. Work on the field proper is expected to begin within the week.

R. W. Delaney, aeronautical inspector of the department of commerce at Washington, arrived in Wichita Falls Tuesday and spent Tuesday at the Municipal airport in giving tests for pilot's licenses, according to C. P. Logan, manager of the airport. Walter Harding of the Lone Star Aviation company competed his tests for a transport pilot license under Inspector Delaney and Thornton Lomax, Wichita Falls oil operator, partially completed his tests for a limited commercial license. Several other local airmen will take tests under Inspector Delaney Wednesday morning. He will make a trip to the airport at Waco after leaving here.

Dr. C. J. Connor of Pecos City, Texas, landed at the Municipal airport about 3:40 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in his Kinner powered Monocoupe from Fort Worth. He took off for Pecos City about 4:10 p. m. O. B. Owens, pilot of the Sparton Aircraft company of Tulsa, landed at the Municipal port about 10:50 o'clock Tuesday morning from Electra in his Sparton J6. He took off for Jackson, Miss., about 11:10 a. m. L. E. Henson of Seymour, who landed Monday at the Municipal airport, took off in his Travelair OX5 about 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on the trip to Seymour. W. T. Waggoner of Electra paid a short visit to the Municipal airport from Staley field about 4:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in his Eaglerook J5-9.

A total of 22 passengers were reported in transit through the Municipal airport Tuesday on the Safeway and Braniff airlines, according to C. P. Logan, manager of the port.

Testimony Ends in Suit Over Dog Hospital

Testimony in an injunction application seeking to force the removal of a veterinary hospital operated by Dr. Fred Gross at 1405 Lamar street, brought by three property owners in the neighborhood, was completed before a jury in the 89th district court Monday afternoon. The application, which includes a plea for damages, was presented by Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Bauknight, 1408 Lamar; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cato, 1307 Lamar; and Mrs. A. A. Thom, 1404 Lamar; and plaintiffs, represented by E. W. Napier, attorney, claim that noise and odors from the hospital and dog kennel have caused a 25 per cent depreciation on property values in the neighborhood.

MOODY HATES ROLLED SOCKS

Governor Young but He's No "Jelly-Bean"

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Governor Moody, although a young man and only a few years out of college, has an abhorrence for "jelly-bean" customs, especially as they refer to manner of dress. There isn't anything collegiate about him. He expressed his dislike for rolled socks the other day while visiting informally in the capitol press room.

He offered to buy a pair of hose supporters for one of the veteran members of the newspaper correspondents' gang when he suddenly discovered that the "old war horse" who had witnessed many governors come and go was wearing 'em rolled.

Fact is, there isn't anything "sissy-fied" about him. He is what one would call a "he-man." True, he does not drink; but he hunts and fishes and smokes. In a pinch he will swear mildly. He does not care for the city "slicker's" games such as golf and bridge, but plays dominoes at every opportunity.

They tell the story on him about his swearing proclivities.

During a real warm recent political campaign one of his antagonists decided to take a "whack" at him through the columns of his (his antagonist's) periodical. He wrote that the governor was addicted to profanity. A newspaper correspondent took the paper to show the governor.

"It is a —— —— lie," the governor said, after he read it, so they tell on him.

The governor is a terribly human fellow with a warm personality.

He likes to wear dark clothes and gray clothes, but always conservatively tailored. Invariably he wears a black tie, either bow or flowing.

His favorite hat is of medium size, white, crown crushed rather carelessly. He is wearing one right now that was specially made for him by the manufacturers. It has his name woven into the underband.

It was because of one of his "humanity" traits that got him the hat.

"Wantta know how I got that hat?" he asked. "Pulled a fellow out of the creek, and it seemed the man stalled in the creek was the Texas agent for hats of that make. He had the manufacturers make me a special one and put my name in it as appreciation for my pulling him out of the creek."

The governor was off on one of his frequent hunting trips when he ran into some bad weather. Encountered a bad creek crossing and there the hat man was stalled.

DEATHS

MRS. DELLA BRUMMETT

The body of Mrs. Della Brummett, 68, of Midland, who died in a local hospital Saturday night, was forwarded to Stephenville by the Hines mortuary at noon Tuesday. Funeral services and interment will be held in Stephenville Wednesday. A son, J. N. Brummett of Stephenville, accompanied the body from here.

Texas Gourd Vine To Enter Encyclopedia

CUERO, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—A Texas gourd vine, pulled from the banks of the Guadalupe river near here, will have a place in the botanical encyclopedia now being prepared by Dr. L. H. Bailey of Ithaca, N. Y., one of the nation's best known botanists.

Dr. Bailey made a special trip to Cuero to obtain the vine, which was found by Cornelius Mueller, student of botany in the University of Texas.

The plant is of an unusual species, although to the eye untrained botanically it appeared to be not unlike the common gourd that frequents the county roadside.

20,000 Pound Squeeze Doesn't Hurt Toad

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—Eastland is not the only city in the world that has its doubtless facts concerning the death-defying horned toad.

Recently an experiment was conducted by an Abilene brick company in which two of these lizards were the center of interest. Packed in clay, they were placed in moulds and subjected to 20,000 pounds pressure, the necessary force to press a brick. The two bricks were allowed to dry and when broken apart, the toads, though having had a tight squeeze, were still alive.

City Clerk Prepares U. S. Financial Report

A statistical report of the financial transactions of Wichita Falls and the various city projects is being prepared by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, for the records of the department of commerce of the federal government, in which comparative figures on per capita tax levies and expenditures in cities of the United States of more than 30,000 population will be compiled. Mr. McBroom's report will include the per capita tax levy, the per capita debt and the per capita cost of operation of the city, the city schools, the irrigation districts, hospitals and public library.

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—P. G. Stanford, correspondent at Plains, Texas, asked a question of the Associated Press Dallas bureau and then answered it himself.

"What is the matter with the stuff I send in?" he asked. "I haven't had a check for four moons. No one will kill anyone else; the highways are so good no one gets killed that way; there are so few folks here no one will fight; we all have plenty to eat so no one will steal. So rainfall and crops are about all we have to report."

Stanford will be paid for this item.

HIGHWAY JOBS LET BY STATE

Total of Awards Reaches Over $2,000,000

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—Contracts for a dozen road projects in 11 counties, aggregating $1,376,980, were let today by the state highway commission. This brought the total for the two-day session to $2,330,402.

The projects included 52 miles of grading and drainage structures, 28 miles of hard surfacing, four miles of widening grade and bridges and three bridges.

Awards were made for work in Denton, Willacy, Matagorda, Guadalupe Hays, Comanche, McLennan, Brown, Tarrant, Brazoria and Cherokee counties.

Before letting the contracts, the commission alloted aid on projects in Jim Wells, Lavaca, Matagorda and Dawson counties. It also heard other requests for designations, relocations or aid.

The commissioners told Carl Rountree of Lamesa the state would pay all except $600,000 of the expense of building highway nine and 83 through Dawson county. Rountree said that the county contemplated a bond issue of approximately $1,200,000 to hard surface those highways and build two lateral roads.

Your best friend AFTER SHAVING

COOLS . . . HEALS PROTECTS.

That is why shavers of all ages use Listerine after shaving.

It soothes and heals skin that the razor or lather has left inflamed. The essential oils it contains are noted for their soothing qualities.

Next it cools the skin—long after the shave is over you feel that lingering coolness.

Finally it checks infection. For Listerine, as you know, though safe and healing, kills disease germs in 15 seconds.

Tell your wife

The same qualities that make Listerine soothing after shaving, recommend its use by women as an astringent. Incidentally, it is a very economical one. Your wife will be glad to know about it.

"They work while you sleep"

Everybody's bowels need help at times, and when they do just take a candy Cascaret.

Cascarets always act, and they always act the same way; one thorough but gentle action that cleanses the whole thirty feet of bowels. Without discomfort, and without harmful after-effects. You feel all the better for the aid your system gets from a candy Cascaret!

Take one tonight. See how fine you'll feel in the morning—and for several mornings to come! A sweet breath and uncoated tongue, and clear eyes that tell the story of a thoroughly cleansed system.

And how pleasant to take! Candy Cascarets are made of cascara—which doctors have for years proclaimed one of the very best laxatives known to medicine—sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice. Children just love them. So do grown-ups, for that matter. You eat them just like candy. They work while you sleep. Take one when you have a "sick headache"; or that sluggish feeling caused by poor elimination; whenever you feel that the liver and bowels are not functioning as they should. Cascarets will cleanse away those poisonous accumulations and never give you the laxative habit!

THE TROJAN HORSE GATE

Daily Editorial

WHEN tariff walls mount too high, foreign trade simply harnesses a Trojan Horse and drives straight through the gate.

Prohibitive protection rates may check the inflow of raw materials, but wherever a sufficient market exists for a process or product, the imposition of excessive duties invites the establishment of branch factories and re-packing stations.

Consequently, we behold American subsidiaries all over Europe, and the United States reciprocally filled with British, French and German owned plants. Tit for tat.

Payrolls taken out of a country are thus balanced by payrolls brought in.

The system, like patent sprinklers, promptly operates as soon as Chauvinism makes it oppressingly hot for competition.

Henry Ford isn't the first industrialist to repatriate outlets, even if recent criticism of his Irish and Jugoslavian ventures convey that impression.

Singer Sewing Machines had been made and sold throughout the world before Hector learned to yelp.

The International Harvester company, eliminating unnecessary costs, early set up Continental units.

The Gillette Razor settled abroad in the nineties. National Cash Register likewise supplies overseas customers from nearby works.

THE Woolworth chain reaches across the Atlantic. And when John Bull patronizes a Boots Drug store, he's dealing with the Liggett interests under a different sign.

Millions of dollars' worth of once imported merchandise are similarly dodging customs taxes and discriminatory statutes here.

Some articles are sent in bulk or in knocked-down condition, to secure lower schedules; but an increasing number of corporations, yonder, have founded complete American organizations, and escape tariff payments with "Made in U. S. A." labels.

And whenever you buy a Lever soap or a washing powder, you contribute to Yankee wages and advertising budgets.

Mr. Ford and General Motors aren't blazing any economic paths. They're merely following precedent to foreign parts when they also play Romans in Rome.

Everybody else is doing it, so why should equally sound practice evoke resentment in their particular cases?

Commerce will always conform to its necessities and detour handicaps.

So long as tariff-framers leave gaps in the hedge, overhead will find them.

Autos — and an Epic

AS THE TRAIN that carried Prime Minister MacDonald from New York to the Canadian border was speeding up the Mohawk valley, it was noticed that the British premier could not keep his eyes off the automobiles that kept speeding by on the highways bordering the railway line.

For a long time Mr. MacDonald looked curiously at the stream of traffic—an ordinary current of moving vehicles on a busy trunk highway. At last he murmured to his daughter, sitting beside him:

"Where do they all come from and where are they going?"

It was one of those questions to which no answer is expected. And, indeed, answering it properly might be a long task. But it would be worth doing, just the same.

The obvious answer, of course, is that the autos come from Detroit. But that's only part of it. Their lineage goes back a lot farther than that. Trace the flowing traffic that clogs our country roads to its source and you have an epic in history.

At the beginning you have the creaky old ships like the Mayflower, staggering across the Atlantic with half-suffocated immigrants crowded between decks. Then you have the infinitely slow, painful westward migration; the long fight with the forest, the dangerous march over the Alleghenies, up the Mohawk trail and along the Cumberland, with savage Indians waiting to keep the road from growing dull; you have the old corduroy roads and springless wagons, the clumsy canal boats, the rickety stage coaches, the wheezy railroad trains of the early days—all the long, blind, magnificent pageant of the filling-up of a continent.

And after that you have a new pageant; vast factories taking possession of cities, making over whole states, bringing millions of men from the uttermost ends of the earth to follow the trails westward, westward to what looked like the promised land itself. You have the incredible mills of Detroit and Pittsburgh rising, the limitless railroad yards of Chicago and St. Paul, with their smoke cloud overhead. And, back of these, you have the granaries—the millions of acres of yellow wheat fields in the West, the fat farmlands of the South.

From these things came the automobiles. They came to satisfy a need and to create new needs; they came because they were called into being by the new conditions that had arisen here. They are part of the heritage for which the pioneers suffered.

You can't understand our use of the automobile, in other words, without digging away back to the beginning of our history.

And the other half of Mr. MacDonald's question—the "where are they going?" Well, that one's harder. It would take a poet or a prophet, or both, to answer it; someone who could look beyond the years and explain what lies there. Yet we are confident that whatever our destination is, it is going to be worth reaching. Perhaps, for the present, that's the best answer we can give.

New Penal Code for Mexico

MEXICO has a new labor code. It contains many drastic provisions. Mexico has a new penal code. It says the husband who kills his wife's partner in a marital offense shall not be punished and the same holds true for the wife against the husband. Furthermore, the code stipulates that the killer shall go without punishment only if it is the first time he has killed for that reason and "only if the victims are caught in the act or about to commit it."

On the side of social welfare the code provides that habitual drunkards be placed in sanitoriums for cure; the transfer of venereal disease is made punishable and treatment obligatory. Persons with venereal disease will not be permitted to marry. President Portes Gil is responsible for the code, which was drawn up under extraordinary power granted by the Mexican congress to the president of the republic.

It abolishes the death penalty. It abolishes the trial by jury. It replaces the trial by jury system with one of trial by groups of alienists and other experts. President Gil is a remarkable man. He is said to be largely responsible for the new labor code of Mexico. He drafted the new penal code.

Mexico appears to have a stable government. If so, the time may come when Mexico shall be recognized as one of the proud nations of the earth—peaceful at home and respected abroad. Religious strife has been eliminated, education of the children of the masses is on the way, antiquated laws and customs are being discarded and the uplift of the peon is the demand of the hour on the part of leaders of the Mexico of today.

Southern Lights

WHATEVER moral and political instability may be attributed by the world in general to Mexico's government, its present executive, Emilo Portes Gil, will be widely and justly commended for his supression last week of the "Memoirs of Miss Mexico."

Miss Mexico is the young lady whose beautiful face and figure represented her country in the international parade of feminine pulchritude at Galveston in 1928, and who later achieved added notoriety by killing her husband, Gen. Moises Vidal.

According to dispatches from Mexico City, President Gil stopped the proposed publication of the story of her life on the grounds that it would be harmful to society. In other nations credited generally with more enlightenment than that extant in Mexico, the edict of an ethically intelligent minority might not be allowed to over-ride the impulses of a morbidly curious majority.

Novelettes

Most of us who ankle here and there in the incandescent belt admired them very much because their romance was one of the very few on Broadway that was on the up-and-up. They never cheated. He was, at one time, one of the phonograph recording favorites, and she still appears in the nude for a local musical, and when he died, a year ago, she was a most miserable woman.

Friends, however, later urged her not to invite melancholia, but to go out with other men now and then. In the last six months she hasn't missed a night in this hot-spot or that one, usually coming home pretty plastered.

But she still communes with her dead lover, no matter how saturated with joy milk she gets, always managing to stagger out of her clothes into her nightgown and grope her way to the phonograph where she plays but one platter: "Let Us Make Believe," one of his better recordings.

You hear the strangest things in the Broadway places. Last night, frixample, a group were spellbound by the one about the lad who had been done wrong by a woman and, after the usual heart bruises, shelved it all for his first love—surgery. In a year he associated with a hospital and his skill at juggling the blade won him great prestige. He was successful, also, at dodging the numerous women, particularly the good-lookers among the nurses, who could have gone for him.

They wearied him, however. He had had his illusions shattered, as the chumps put it, and hadn't he been deceived beautifully by one he adored? The one in Pittsburgh who begged him to take her back after he had heard things, and immediately after dispatching the letter that brought him back, she got plastered and cute with one of his "friends?" No, he was through. And so forth.

The nurses went into their respective specialties, but it rolled off his knife. He couldn't be bothered, that is, the only nurse that managed to get a smile out of him was the homely one, who had a way with her. She was sweet, unassuming, aloof, and she went about her duties without so much as a glance at him. And so he made her his confidential secretary.

The close contact served only to strengthen his growing opinion that this woman was far above the average. An aura of goodness seemed to enfold her and make her as one who was strictly on the level. He became very fond of her. You know how it is. However, she was not pretty, and his love for beauty would not allow that fondness to ripen.

One day he entered his office and paused to watch her as she looked through the window. The sunlight outlined her figure. He saw a delightfully complete body, exquisitely moulded, a veritable playground of those on high. "Golly!" he panted, "you have a gorgeous figure." Her ugly, misshapen face turned to him. "But my face?" she sighed.

"My dear," he countered, "if you would let me, I'll make you the most beautiful thing on Broadway. No—in the world!" She agreed, and for a year he skillfully toyed with his says, blades and other steel things and finally from the chrysalis of bandages emerged a beautiful woman. He was a genius, after all.

Later she left the hospital and connected with one of the better shows. Another six months passed and they fell madly in love with each other, or strictly speaking, the doctor became enamoured of his own handiwork. They were sealed—and the wedding attracted the notables from the main stem and the snootier sectors in the town. They honeymooned in the old country.

Then one Sabbath, after they returned to New York, he couldn't communicate with her by phone or otherwise. Her sister called him later and told him that his bride had gone out that morning for a long motor ride with newly-wedded friends. But something inside of him turned completely over. He felt that he was being crossed. When a week or so had elapsed and she responded with the same alibi every time he attempted to trap her, he felt ashamed of doubting her.

But something unexpected happened. It always does, you know. He overheard some chorus girls say that they were on a hamburger steak party with her "two Sundays" ago up near Stamford and oh boy! It was some fun. "But if her husband knew it, it would be just too bad. And what of it? There were horses to ride, fresh air to breathe and the thrill of being on the loose again, and he was always so much in love with his work that it was positively annoying, anyway."

He saw her that night and tried to keep her from discovering that he knew. Some fellows are funny like that. Pride, they call it. At any rate, she couldn't stifle her indifference and if there is anything more irksome, what is it? He decided to have it out with her.

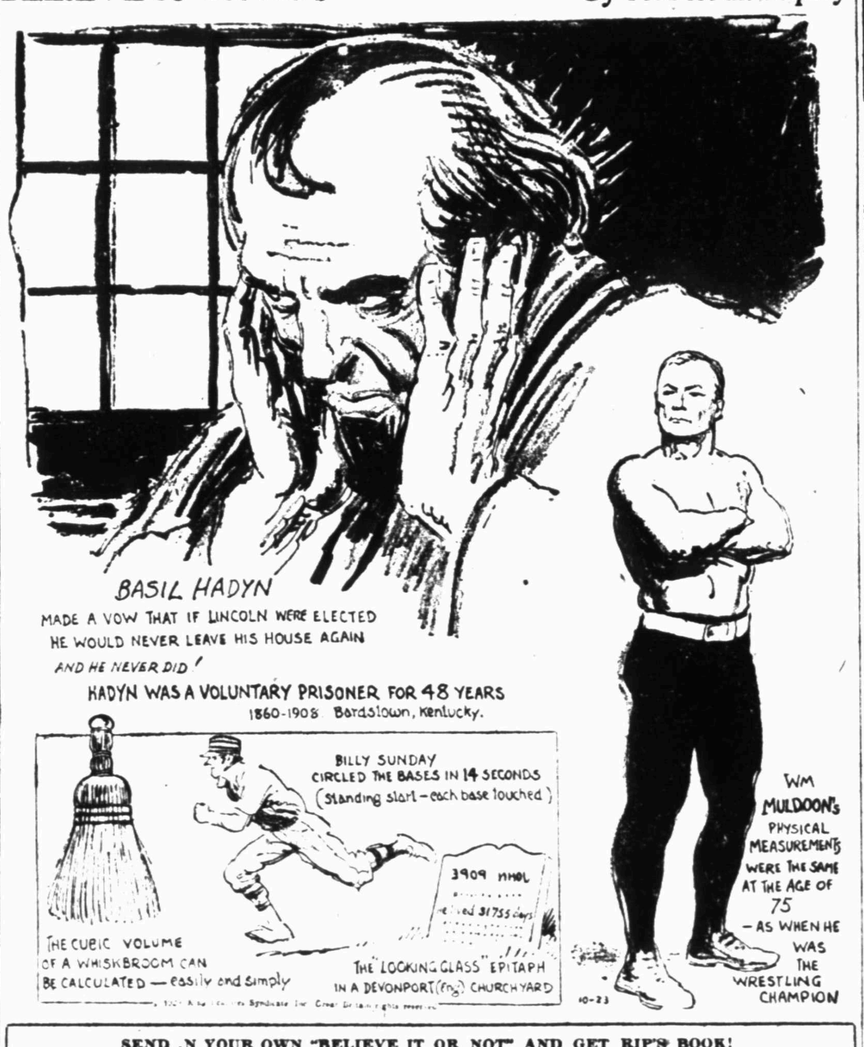

"I have it on unimpeachable authority," he began softly, "that you were not motor riding with your newly-married friends as you told me, but that you had a Salisbury steak and other trimmings in Connecticut. Am I right? I who took the ugly duckling and made the beautiful swan. I who held you above everything earthly, who thought you the finest of womankind. Who loved you as I did—how could you fail me so?"

"Oh, my eye!" she flared, "just because I was the 'holy one' at the hospital and made no attempt to win you like the rest, is no reason it was my wish to be beautiful. I never had the opportunity with the pan I had. Act your age. Do you think I would let anything like a wedding interfere with my fun? Pul-leez!"

He went mad. Racing over to his bag he extracted a bottle of carbolic acid. "Go ahead, kill yourself!" she taunted, "you make me si——"

He emptied the poison on his handiwer'—that beauteous face—and fled from the room.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann Marie Macy is the "easy" type of girl who is continually imposed upon. Young and pretty, she dreams of a future as an artist, saving from her earnings by painting cards and working in her father's bookstore, but, as her selfish, flapper sisters, Alice and Jeanie, borrow her dresses for their own ends, so her brother, Howard, borrows her savings. The art course plan is shelved when Ann Marie uses the money in extricating Howard from an entangling alliance with Leota Ingram, the town's bad girl. Even her mother's pendant is pawned to pay Howard's fare to the West when he loses his bank job. Neal Forsythe, dashing Don Juan, visiting the wealthy Lawlers, wins Ann Marie's heart. Mrs. Lawler forbids her son to further accompany the Macy girls, calling them "night-time friends." Alice evens accounts by getting herself engaged to John Lawler.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIX

On Friday Alice went down town to see the society editor of the town newspaper.

And on Saturday the news of her engagement to Johnny Lawler was printed in it.

Ann Marie read it in her father's book store on Saturday night while he was at home, having his supper.

"Mr. Peter Hasbrook Macy of Pleasant street," she read, "announces the engagement of his daughter Alice Pauline to Mr. John M. Lawler, Junior. The wedding, which will be an event of early June, will unite two of this city's oldest and most exclusive families."

"Oldest and most exclusive families—oh my hat!" Ann Marie giggled to herself as she read it. "And wouldn't I just give a lot to see Mrs. Lawler's face when she sees this!"

And then, all at once, she did see Mrs. Lawler's face. The front door of the shop opened, and in walked Mrs. Lawler, bundled up in a brown fur coat that smelled of mothballs and violets.

Above the fluffy collar her long straight nose was red with the cold. And when she spoke her voice sounded like icicles breaking.

"Good evening!" she sang out in that chilly voice, "How are you, Miss Macy?"

Miss Macy! . . . Miss Macy, when she had been calling Ann Marie by her first name all her life!

"She's putting me in my place," thought Ann Marie, "treating me like some stranger who waits on her in a store instead of one of her daughter's friends!"

But there wasn't a trace of unfriendliness in her face when she spoke to Mrs. Lawler.

"I'm very well, thanks, and how are you?" she said sweetly. "What can I do for you tonight?"

Mrs. Lawler waved a white-gloved hand toward a card that Ann Marie had tacked up on the wall of the shop earlier in the week.

"Orders Taken
for
Hand-Painted Favors
Cards and Favors
of All Kinds."

it read, and Ann Marie had signed her name to it.

"I came in to order some cards for a luncheon I'm giving on St Valentine's day," she said, haughty as the Lady Clara Vere de Vere. "I'll want twelve of them. How much will they be, please?"

"Three dollars," answered Ann Marie promptly, jotting down the order in her little notebook.

"All right." And without another word Mrs. Lawler turned on her high heel, and started out of the store.

"She's doing this to let me know where I stand from now on," thought Ann Marie watching her go with unhappy eyes. "She's showing me that I can't expect to be invited to parties of hers or Florence's from now on—that my part is just to make the place cards for them!"

She wanted to say something cutting and bitter and mean to her. But she never knew how to say nasty things. There was no keen sharp edge to her tongue.

At the door Mrs. Lawler turned for a moment with the knob in her white-gloved hand.

Her cold eyes were fixed on Ann Marie's card.

"You're very sensible to come right out into the open like this and admit that you are working for a living," she said. "I've always thought that you Macy girls were foolish to try to keep up with the other young people in the town—the young people whose parents can afford to keep them in idleness. The crowd that Florence and Johnny belong to."

Ann Marie just looked at her not knowing what to say.

"It's been very silly of you girls to sail under false colors when everybody's known what a struggle it is for your father to keep you all going," the terrible voice went on, running along like a stream of ice-water. "And it would be a very good thing if Alice and Jeanie would follow your example and find themselves good jobs somewhere—To come down from their high-horses and go to work like other poor girls—"

"Alice and Jeanie!" repeated Ann Marie, interrupting Mrs. Lawler, "Why—Alice—don't you know"—she picked up the newspaper, folded to the society page where the news of Alice's engagement to Johnny was printed.

She took a step toward Johnny's mother, holding it in her hands.

And then suddenly she stopped . . . After all, what good would it do to show her the little paragraph? She would see it, herself, soon enough, anyway, to try to change people's minds.

"Goodnight, Mrs. Lawler," she said lamely.

"If I'd been Alice I'd have shoved that newspaper into her face, and made her read what was printed on it!" she told herself when Mrs. Lawler was gone. "I'd have made her eat all her mean cruel words! I'd have made her swallow them all!"

When Mr. Macy came back to the store 15 minutes later he found her sitting on a packing case at the back of the store, crying her eyes out.

"You mustn't feel badly about this," he said, patting her heaving shoulders. "Johnny Lawler isn't the only man in the world my dear."

"Good grief. He thinks I'm in love with Johnny!" thought Ann Marie. But she did not tell him the real reason why she was crying.

Her eyes were still red around their rims when she sat down to supper at home a half hour later.

The girls had had their meal with their father, and so she and Mrs. Leezy ate alone, sitting at a corner of the table in the kitchen.

"Well, and so you found out that you liked that there Johnny better than you thought you did!" said Mrs. Leezy, taking in her red eyes and tear-stained face. "But don't you grieve over him for a minute! There's as good fish in the sea as ever was caught, my dear. . . . And like as not the weddin'll never come off in June. For as soon as Alice starts usin' her nasty disposition on her Johnny—and she soon will, mark my words—he won't be so crazy-cracked-mad to marry her as he is now!—No man wants a bad-tempered woman no more'n he wants a bad-tempered horse, and Miss Lady will soon find it out!"

Ann Marie shook her head.

"I've not been crying about Johnny," she said, "I've been crying because someone just hurt my feelings—and I didn't have sense enough to fight back!"

The kitchen door flew open and Alice came dancing in, all powdered and curled and manicured and wrapped in her kimono.

"Stop chewing the fabric — and come on upstairs and get dressed, Ann Marie!" she cried, radiant with excitement. "We're all going out to celebrate my engagement! Johnny just telephoned a while ago. He and Neal are coming straight in from the club, and Brookie's coming for Jeanie and—Come on!" She seized Ann Marie by the elbows and pulled her up out of her chair.

"Have you heard from Johnny's mother? Does she know the engagement has been announced in the paper?" asked Ann Marie who knew that she did not know about it.

"How do I know what she knows?" snapped Alice. "And what do I care?—She can go straight to Calcutta, or any other hot place, so far as I'm concerned, believe you me!"

At half past eight the six of them started out in Johnny's roadster.

Jeanie and Brookie Walters crowded into the front seat with Johnny and Alice. Neal and Ann Marie got into the rumble seat and huddled down into it, under a robe.

The night was cold and clear. There was no moon, but the sky was powdered thickly with stars.

"We're going out to Simonds," Johnny said, naming a roadhouse that Ann Marie had heard was very gay and lively. "I'd stop in at my house for something to drink, but I'd rather not see my folks until they've had a chance to get used to the notion of Alice and me getting hand-cuffed.."

"That's all right. We can stop at my house and I'll get some," answered Brooke Walters as they started off.

The others waited in his car while he went into the Walters' big stone house and got the liquor. He came out, wrapping a quart bottle in a towel.

"Got a flask in my pocket, too," he said, and they started off again."

Simond's place was far out on the state highway.

When they were halfway there, Brooke drove into a gasoline station.

"Fill 'er up," he said to the attendant. But when the tank had been filled he found he had no money to pay for the gas.

"I must have left my roll on the sideboard at home," he explained, "when I took everything out of my hip pocket to put the flask into it."

Instantly Johnny whipped out a $20 bill. But the attendant had no change for it.

"We don't keep much change on hand on Saturday nights. There have been too many holdups lately," he said.

"You got any change, Forsythe?" Brooke asked. But Neal, who had his arm around Ann Marie, did not stir in his seat.

"Nope," he said shortly. "Nothing but a $20 bill.

Johnny laughed. "No use asking that bird to spend any of his money!" he said sarcastically. "His motto is 'Let the rest of the world go buy!'—I know him."

He handed his own bill to the man. "We'll stop for our change on the way home tonight," he said. "You're open all night, aren't you?"

Cult Priestess Probably Died of Ulcerated Tooth

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22. (UP)—The death of Killa Rhoads, 16-year-old cult priestess whose body was retained for four years awaiting ressurection, probably was caused by septic poisoning resulting from an ulcerated tooth, County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagoner decided today.

Talkies for the Churches

Mr. William Fox the movie magnate, proposes to put talking pictures in the churches of America, thus making it possible for the greatest clergymen of the country to be heard in every parish in the land. Look out for announcements any day now:

And why not? Why shouldn't churchgoers throughout the country be given a chance to hear the church leaders of the day?

Mr. Fox's plans should win the cooperation of the churches and when they do one of the next logical developments will be the mechanical service. This will eliminate the terrible singing of the average church choir and do away with the wheezy organs.

Nothing in American religious life is quite so bad as the choir singing. The empty pews in countless parishes are due in no small degree to the fact there is a limit to human endurance when up against nasal tenors and awful lady sopranos with faulty bellows.

It is impossible to reconcile the noises coming from small town church choirs with the spirit of peace on earth, good will to men.

Why the churches have tolerated the defective upper registers so long is a mystery, and it is the hope of many long suffering parishioners that the Fox idea may make it possible for every church in land to have the best music by the finest organists and the greatest singers the country boasts.

The churches are face to face with a big opportunity. They should take Mr. Fox at his word and give him no chance to change his mind.

Disillusioned

When I was young I loved a lad,
To me the prince of men.
And when I lost him I was sure
I'd never smile again.

Last night I saw him on the street,
My motor engine stalled,
My heart beat twenty thousand cheers—
For he was fat and bald.

Father Has Now Regained Health By the Use of It

"My Father Suffered for Eight Years; Relieved by Orgatone," She Says

"My father had suffered for eight long years," said Mrs. S. H. Gardner, while talking to an Orgatone representative regarding the great relief her father, Mr. Sam Rubel, 207 Cottenwood, Waco, Texas, and who is an employe at the wrecking shop at 12-B, has received from Orgatone.

"My father has suffered with indigestion, and in fact a general run-down condition. He lost his appetite entirely and the little he forced himself to eat always soured on his stomach, causing him a lot of misery. Gas would form after meals and he would bloat up something terrible, and in this condition he naturally did not have the least bit of pep, and felt miserable most of the time. He had a very bad case of constipation all the time, and nothing seemed to help it in the least. He finally kept getting worse until he felt that something had to be done, in order that he might be able to keep going.

"Orgatone was recommended to him by a friend who insisted that he try it for a while. Well, after the first few doses, he began to improve. His appetite returned, and is now splendid. He eats just anything he wants, and plenty of it, and it does not bother him in the least. He never has indigestion any more nor is he troubled with those bloating spells that used to give him such a restless feeling. He is entirely free from constipation and really acts and says he feels like a new man all the time. Life is not a drudge for him any more, but a feeling of happiness to know that he is free from all the misery that he has suffered for so long. Since finishing his second bottle of Orgatone, he says it is a wonderful medicine, and he would be glad to recommend it so that others might be benefited from it like he has."

WRIGHT TRIAL SET MONDAY

Defendant to Face Jury as Habitual Criminal

Judge Vincent Stone, sitting for Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court, Tuesday morning signed a bench warrant ordering the appearance of C. A. Wright for trial on burglary charges under the habitual criminal act on Monday morning of next week. Wright, held in the Dallas county jail, will be brought to Wichita Falls within the next few days.

The trial of Wright, charged with a third burglary offense under an act which involves a life imprisonment sentence upon conviction, heads the criminal docket in the 89th district court next week. The defendant was indicted here after the recovery of several thousand dollars worth of goods stolen from Wichita Falls homes during the first three months of the year.

Good Crowd Views Style Show Here

More than 900 persons passed through the doors of the Montgomery Ward & Co. store Tuesday night when a fashion revue of advance winter styles was presented by a group of 10 beautiful models. The mezzanine floor of the building was fitted with seats and a miniature stage and promenade, on which the models, displaying the latest in dresses, coats, hats, hosiery and accessories, paraded before the audience.

The store was decorated in appropriate fall and winter designs, the stage colored in autmnal hues and bearing display panels on each side containing hosiery, purses, hats and other small articles. Styles displayed on the models ranged from winter dresses and coats to the lighter sports outfits, all with ensemble accessories. Songs, dances and other entertainment for the program was furnished by pupils of the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, under the direction of Mlle. Baluewa. Special music preceded the fashion display and the models promenaded to the orchestra pieces.

Electrician Wins Jury's Verdict

A jury in the county court-at-law Monday afternoon acquitted T. C. Staley, local electrician, of charges of operating as an electrical contractor here without a city license. The acquittal was won on an appeal from the corporation court where the defendant had been found guilty. The case went to trial after Judge Irwin J. Vogel had overruled a defense motion attacking the constitutionality of the licensing law which calls for an initial $100 fee and the payment of $25 annually thereafter. The defense attack was aimed in particular at the wording of the caption that heads the city ordinance.

Sydney A. Gaines Wins High Honorary Degree in Scottish Rite Masonry

Sydney A. Gaines, who has been prominent in Masonic work in Wichita Falls for the past several years, has been elected a Knight Commander of the Court of Honor, according to an announcement received Tuesday from the supreme council of the southern jurisdiction of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masonry sitting at Washington, D. C.

The rank of a knight commander of the court of honor is an honorary degree conferred only by the supreme council and only in cases of extraordinary merit, it was said here. It is a rank one step below that of a 33rd degree Mason. Only three other Masons in the Wichita Falls vicinity, Walter D. Cline, Otto Stehlik and Al Ellis, have had the honor conferred upon them, and J. D. Avis and J. A. Kemp are the only 33rd degree Masons in the territory.

Mr. Gaines is at present director of Maskat Shrine temple and vice president of the Shrine Directors' association of North America. He is past master of Faith lodge here and has been active in all Masonic organizations for several years. The honorary degree will be conferred upon him at the Scottish Rite cathedral in Dallas in November or December, it was announced.

SYDNEY A. GAINES

Scottish Rite Club Banquets

Ninety members of the Wichita Valley Scottish Rite club attended the banquet and program given by the organization in the Maskat temple auditorium on the City National bank building Tuesday night.

Speakers on the program, presided over by Rabbi S. J. Schwab, included Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Guy Rogers, Nathan Marantz, James H. Allison, Ed Peterson, Sydney Gaines, Eli Morgan and Rabbi Schwab. Following the banquet and program, the Scottish Rite choir gave a concert for the members of the club, Masons and their wives and friends. The choir, under the direction of Dr. L. D. Parnell, appeared for the first time Tuesday night in their new full regalia.

Parents Ask $15,000 In Death of Child

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Brown, parents of Dorothy Brown, 7, who was killed in an automobile accident here in June, 1928, Tuesday morning filed suit for $15,000 damages against the Yellow Cab company, naming Howard Stripling and F. H. Clisbee, operators of the company, as defendants.

The petition alleges that a car owned by the defendants struck the child as she attempted to cross the street at the intersection of Eighth and Travis.

15 TO ATTEND CHURCH MEET

Methodist Conference to Open Thursday

Fifteen Wichita Falls pastors and lay delegates will attend the North Texas Methodist conference at McKinney this week, it was learned Tuesday. Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church and presiding elder of the Wichita Falls district, left Tuesday for the meeting, while others are expected to go Wednesday.

The conference will open Thursday and close late Sunday. Members of the Wichita Falls delegation are expected to return Monday. Those who will attend include the following: Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, Rev. Ben Bell, Rev. John E. Wade, Dr. E. R. Barcus, Dr. S. S. McKenney, and Rev. J. M. Sweeton, pastors, and E. F. Bohmfalk, Joel H. MacGregor, W. B. Hamilton, J. W. Thorne, N. H. Martin, J. J. Perkins, J. R. Ogle, P. A. Martin and Walter Nelson, lay delegates.

Licenses as Private Pilots Granted Five

Private pilot licenses were granted to five students of the Wichita Falls Air Transport company flying school Tuesday afternoon following tests conducted by R. W. Delaney, aeronautics inspector of the department of commerce at Washington, who arrived here Tuesday morning on his regular rounds of flying schools in this part of the nation.

Those to whom the licenses were granted were Mrs. C. F. Colp of Electra, W. T. Waggoner Jr. of Electra, Curtis Douthit of Henrietta, Jack Overstreet of Fort Worth and Joe Benson of Olney.

KISS COSTS $67

Holliday Youth Pays Fine for "Holdup" of Couple

A stolen kiss, styled an aggravated assault by county authorities, cost a Holliday youth $67.35 in the county court-at-law Tuesday morning when Judge Irvin J. Vogel accepted the defendant's plea of guilty. The youthful prisoner played bandit for a few minutes last Saturday night, his accusers declared. Using a doubled fist in his pocket to simulate a gun, he ordered two boys and girls from their car on the Holliday-Wichita Falls highway, stole a kiss and a hug from one of the girls, and sent the four along the way, otherwise unharmed. The defendant told the court Tuesday that he didn't remember the kiss he was paying for. "I was too drunk to remember," he declared regretfully as he produced the necessary bills.

Board Recommends Call to Wichitan

DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 22.—The official board of the Central Church of Christ voted unanimously Monday night to extend a call to Dr. Floyd Allan Bash of Wichita Falls, Texas, to the pastorate of the church here.

The action of the board, however, must be ratified by the congregation before an official invitation is extended. The church members will meet Wednesday night to consider the matter. Doctor Bash, according to J. A. Wilson, chairman of the official board, has held his Texas pulpit for four years and has met with exceptional success. Doctor Bash has three children about to enter college and he wished to move to a college town, Mr. Wilson said. The pulpit of the church has been vacant since the resignation of the Rev. W. B. Mathews July 18. Since that time, there has been discussion of a merger of the Central Church with the First Baptist. Doctor Bash was in Des Moines last week and met members of the Central Church Wednesday night.

Dr. Floyd A. Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, said Tuesday night he had received a telegram from the Des Moines church board informing him of their action. He declined to make any comment until the church congregation has acted.

Just a Moment

I say, Brother Rice,
It's all well and nice
To dwell on the blight
Of a fading slice,
But in vain I look
In your golfing book
For a tip on losing
A tail-end hook.
A tail-end hook
That cuts and bends
To the far-away left
Where the fairway ends
And resting there in a lie that's tough,
Brings many a curse
On a Rough that's Rough.
—SIR BILL OF MANCHESTER.

Son, you want a cure that's half-way sure
For a tail-end hook, as I get the tip,
For one that bends where the high grass blends
As the pill flops in with a sudden dip.
Just get the feel, the left-hand feel
Of hitting the ball with the club head's heel,
Let the body go with the swinging blow,
Don't hold it back as you make the whack.

Hit with the heel—if it makes you worse
Send in your complaint again in verse.

Some Old Rivals

Saturday's football card is pretty well cluttered up with the meeting of traditional rivals such as:

Army-Yale—At New Haven.

Navy-Princeton—At Princeton.

Harvard-Dartmouth—At Cambridge.

Stanford-U. S. C.—At Palo Alto.

Michigan-Illinois—At Urbana.

A Yale-Army and a Princeton-Navy game are nearly always full of hard football and splashes of action.

But one of the best games on the card should be the Harvard-Dartmouth meeting, especially so this season, where both teams are stronger than usual and where a strong Crimson defense will have its chance to show what it can do against Marsters. Facing Cagle one week and Marsters the next is about all the test any defense should be asked to meet.

One of the Hardest

Last fall a fast, powerful Carnegie Tech team smothered Notre Dame under a flock of touchdowns. But Carnegie Tech has lost Harpster, and Notre Dame is an entirely different outfit this fall. For all that, the South Bend delegation knows it is in for a rasping afternoon, one of the hardest on the schedule. Carnegie Tech has always been tough for Notre Dame. Even in the day of the Four Horsemen Steffen's men came near running the Irish ragged, scoring three touchdowns. Only a short while ago Notre Dame visited Pittsburgh with a clean record and ran into an ambuscade. Carnegie Tech has been to Notre Dame in late years what Nebraska used to be—a Jonah. Even with one of the best teams South Bend ever sent to the war Notre Dame knows it will need its best football to stop big Karcis and break up Carnegie's passing game.

It might be suggested here also that if Carnegie's defense can stop this Notre Dame attack it can stop anything else it will meet—even including the Panther leap with Uansa and Parkinson carrying the ball back of a powerful line.

In any event this will be one of the hardest games Notre Dame will have to hurdle on its way to prove one of the highest places in the football rating of 1929.

Those still writing in to ask how Root and Malone could pitch so well most of the route—and then blow up—have an easy answer. It is all matter of change of pace. Fast ball pitching will carry through just so far. But about one-fifth of the puzzling variety that Alexander dishes up would have carried both Cubs all the way.

There have been few pitchers in baseball fast enough to get by without crossing in a few slow ones to mix things up.

Pitt Panthers To Go With Allegheny

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22.—Remembering last year's game the Pitt Panthers are not taking this season's contest with Allegheny at Erie on Oct. 26, too lightly. They remember that last year, the Methodists led by Garbak, a hard hitting fullback, and Berger, a fine forward passer, ran up more yardage and threatened the Panther goal oftener than any other team the Pitt team ran up against.

While Sutherland does not expect to be defeated when he takes his team to the northern city, he is not taking any chances. Last year, Allegheny put several of his regulars out of action. It was in the Allegheny game that Parkinson was injured, a loss that played havoc with the Panthers' chances against the Tartans of Carnegie a week later.

Announcement has been made by the athletic department of the University of Pittsburgh that the amplifiers which were in use at the West Virginia game will be used again in the contest with the Buckeyes.

DEMPSEY REFEREES

Former Heavy Champ To Be Third Man In Ring

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 22. (UP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, has agreed to referee a charity boxing show here Nov. 5 without charge, it was announced today under an agreement that sports writers be charged regular admission prices to see the matches.

All proceeds from the bill will go to a community charity fund.

Dempsey will receive $6,000 for refereeing a fight at Kansas City the night preceding his appearance here and is scheduled to receive $4,000 for his services at Topeka, Kan., soon afterward.

PACK WEAK ON AERIAL ATTACK

Baggettmen Too Strong for Hi Squad

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

A sizeable gallery of football fans gathered out at the Junior college practice field Tuesday afternoon to see at first hand how the Coyotes and the Indians were coming along in their training maneuvers. They were not long finding out, for the two squads were squared off by their respective coaches and told to get at it, and go at it they did. But their brisk scrimmage was marked, or rather marred, by more zeal than of real good football playing.

Pack Choose to Receive

The Pack got the toss and chose to receive the kick-off from the Baggett men. A poor kick started the old ball rolling but in a manner that was evidently very unsatisfactory to both of the two mentors. Elliott scooped up the ball and started in the general direction of the right goal but was smothered by a fusillade of tackling Tribesmen before he got a dozen steps on his way.

Fall on Passes

Bracing up as if for a threatening aerial attack the Pack attempted two unsuccessful passes and a futile line buck and then punted to supposedly out of danger territory. Harvey Black, Coach Baggett's very reliable right halfback, ran the ball back to a good 10 yards before he was tackled and downed.

The Indians then tried a couple of off tackle plunges and they worked. Cox, probably the best ground gainer on the outfit here of late, looked good on these plays and romped through the Coyote line pretty much as if it had not been there. Luttrell, heady little field general then decided to see how it felt to be a ball toter and, by jove, if he didn't tear off 15 yards round left and just like that.

The railbirds, or are they sideline critics, had to give him "good" on that play, and proceeded to picture the young fellow's future if he kept up that kind of work in a real game.

Back and Forth on Field

They zig-zagged up and down, back and forth over the field with first one and then the other team looking the worse and the better. The Indians, because of their superior experience and heavier squad, were usually on the better end of the good plays. Both sides came in for some very caustic criticism from their respective coaches.

Holton Works on Defense

Coach Holton is still striving with his seconday defense, trying to build up a combative strength which will smother an enemy aerial attack. The Baggettmen opened just such an attack and gave the Pack their chance to squelch it but they looked a trifle weak at their attempt. Of course, it must be taken into consideration that the Indians have been grooming their overhead assault since the beginning of the season and it was no easy thing for a high school eleven to cope with it, when some of the best teams that the Indians have been up against found it a thorn in the side.

New Man for Indians

The Indians have inherited another end in the person of Duncan Perkins. Perkins comes from the Texas Aggie squad of 1928. He has been inactive so far this year. Perkins is good wing timber and got a chance to show his wares Tuesday. And from the looks of his ability to hustle down on a punt he will make a creditable performer for his mentor.

The Coyote game next Saturday is not expected to test the real strength of the squad and Coach Holton is working in several new plays, getting ready for the big push next week when Vernon invades the Coyote lair.

Santone "Knights" Engage Rattlers

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 22.—What promises to be one of the greatest football attractions ever staged on a local gridiron will take place in San Antonio next Sunday afternoon, Oct. 27, when the St. Mary's college "Knights" invade this city to do battle with the local St. Mary's university Rattlers at League park in the only "home" intersectional clash on the Rattlers schedule this season.

This contest has several novel features which makes of great interest to fans in this part of Texas. For one thing, though, both contestants bear the name St. Mary's, one a college, the other a university, they are in no way affiliated with each other and are conducted by distinct religious organizations.

The authorities of the local institution are donating the entire proceeds of the big feature to organized Protestant, Jewish and Catholic charities in the city. To this extent a board composed of members of various charity organizations has been formed to distribute the proceeds.

St. Mary's college of Kansas has a national reputation for scholastic as well as athletic fame and will bring what is considered one of the strongest football teams in the Mid-West to this city for the occasion.

St Mary's University of San Antonio, losing only one game in five starts and boasting the mightiest team in the history of the institution, is preparing for what is considered the strongest team on the season's schedule.

The Rattlers' defeat at the hands of the Schreiner Institute Mountaineers has served to show Coach Irvin the weak spots in his machine and he is drilling the team this week with the view to straightening out these defects.

The contest will be interesting in that it will contrast Southern and Mid-West styles of play, forecasting a variety of plain and fancy scoring until the teams become accustomed to each other's tactics and strategy.

Sunday was chosen as the date for the reason that many who would not be able to attend on a week-day, could be present to witness the great classic.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22. (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, world heavyweight wrestling champion, appeared at the central police station today with a profusely bleeding nose and claimed Pete la Djon, a wrestler, butted him during an argument on a downtown street corner.

Army Looks to "Red" for 1929 Success

It's squarely up to Cagle to keep Army out in front this year. That is asikng a great deal of one man. But Cagle is just good enough to make it a go.

By JAY VESSELS
Associated Press Sports Editor

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Come on Cagle!

The Cadets of West Point are putting emphasis on this sideline plea this season, for it's squarely up to Cagle to put the Army over as a big time threat.

Early season games indicated that Biff Jones' outfit hasn't any too much this year. It would seem, in fact, that the Cadets have less than they had in 1928 when they fell before Notre Dame and Stanford following a brilliant start against Harvard, Yale and Nebraska.

Cagle was great in both of those defeats; each time he was the outstanding performer.

He is greater than ever this year but it may take more than a Cagle to stop the formidable teams listed on the Army schedule.

Red's effectiveness, although remarkable, was hampered in both the Notre Dame and the Stanford games because his own forward wall ran second to the opposing line. The dope is that the Army line is no stronger, probably weaker, than the 1928 outfit.

Red is sure to shine nevertheless. Penned like a caged bird during the first two quarters of the game against Harvard, he broke loose in the third quarter in a great Army rally that netted three touchdowns and tied the Crimsons 20 to 20 in probably the greatest game in Harvard history.

Sport Loose Ends

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Lubbock will be the mecca of thousands of football fans (sponsors, as they are called in Philadelphia) Saturday when the T. C. U. Horned Frogs journey out to play Texas Tech. They will gather in from the plains for miles and miles around about, like locust out of Egypt. We shouldn't be surprised to see a good size trek from Wichita Falls headed for Lubbock to see the now famous Frogs perform. The Frogs have a first-class football aggregation, maybe the coming champions of the Southwest conference for 1929, and people in this section are anxious to see them in action.

That Texas Tech has a good team is assured by the fact that they held Howard Payne to an even battle and Howard Payne tied with S. M. U.. Thus it is plain enough that Texas Tech will be no setup for T. C. U. and the encounter will provide first rate entertainment.

They certainly kill the proverbial calf for the prodigal baseball player, meaning those players who shone so brilliantly in the last world series. First one and then the other as they drift in back to the home town. They are met by a special welcoming committee of the town council and escorted to the city hall, there to be handed over the keys of the city. First on docket is "Mule" Haas when he arrives back in a little New Jersey town. Haas is made the hero of an autumnal festival given in his honor and is banqueted at night. Now comes Bing Miller, the man who just a week ago made $50,000 hit for the Athelitics, back to his home in Vinton, Iowa, to find himself feted an honored like the conquering hero returning from the wars.

And therein lies a lesson to little boys and ambitious young men who have baseball talents. When you grow up and get into the big league always manage to get on the winning side and then you can come home a prodigal player with your pickets full of dollars like Mr. Haas and Mr. Miller.

All will be relatively quiet on the Southwest conference front so far as inter-conference games are concerned. No excitement, such as marked the skirmishes of last week-end games, will follow the teams this week. One exception to this, however, will be the Razorback-Aggie game at College Station. A mild excitement envelops this game for the reason that both are powerful teams in the conference and will put up a man-like battle. Members of last year's Aggie eleven are still ranked by the overwhelming defeat handed them at Fayetteville by the Porkers.

Texas and Rice Institute will furnish the only other inter-conference game but the Longhorns are expected to push the Owls off the roost in a hurry and entrain back home. S. M. U. playing Ole Miss at Dallas, Baylor invading Shreveport to play the Gentlemen and the Frogs at Lubbock will command only the interest that attaches to good football wherever it is played, but without the suspense and excitement that goes with inter-conference games of tituiar importance.

The opportunities are not all taken up. Here's one for somebody. A Chicago For Sale add reads: For sale, a flat fighter, on the hoof at $4 a pound. That's how Barney Abel wants to sell his managrial ownership of "Seal" Harris, giant negro boxer. Harris, rated as a capable fighter in Chicago, weighs 225 pounds, and at the above quotations would bring $1,000. The trouble seems to be in obtaining matches for him.

Step up some enterprising promoter. Here may be another Jack Johnson in the obscure wilderness waiting for a Jack Kearns to put him onto a world's heavyweight championship and make millions in in the bargain.

Teams of championship caliber this week-end in district one will drift along, mark time, so to speak without coming a single acid test in the whole circuit. In the only two battles of conference bearing, Amarillo vs. Quanah and Wichita Falls vs. Electra, nothing save a most unheralded upset of the dope bucket could effect the league standing.

The big show-down will come next week when Lubbock meets Amarillo and Vernon clashes with Wichita Falls here. Barring tie games, two of those teams are going to be eliminated and two are going to emerge bulking like Pike's Peak for the championship. There you have the setting for a perfect football drama. Who's your favorite? Reason it all out for yourself.

General Sports Survey of Leading Football Teams All Over the Country

By JOHN W. HEISMAN
Famous Coach and Football Authority

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (US)—To me the football games of last Saturday seem to show:

That the best football teams of the Pacific coast are, in general, of caliber superior to the best of the eastern seaboard. And it will be hard to keep Lom off all America.

That Harvard has a better team than last year; one possessed of endless resources, which Coach Horween knows how to use. And how is Cagle to be kept off that A-A team?

That the Yale players are beginning to learn the beauties of the Warner system, and that spirit is far fram being dead at Frank Merriwell's alma mater.

Marsters Look Like A-A Back

That Dartmouth, to all appearances, is the class of the East, at least on straight, hard rushing and end running. And if Mr. Marsters keeps on getting his name in the papers something will have to be done about increasing the number of backs that the scribes will want to name for all American berths.

That Dobie has not forgotten how to get the most out of such men as he has, as well as oral complaint out of his own system. And what say you now about my early forecast that Princeton would not be able to find men to fill the shoes of the lost Howe, Lawler and Miles.

That Carnegie Tech will not figure in the final counting of noses; that N. Y. U. went bravely to work to repair her broken fences and is not done yet; that W. & J. is doing great things with her new coaches and sophomore team; that Syracuse and Colgate are going to make it hot for each other as well, as still other teams.

Ranking Teams in East

That Dartmouth, Pittsburgh, Cornell and Fordham are the only unbeaten and untied ranking teams in the East.

I also note: That Georgia's defeat of Yale was not merely a "flash in the pan"—and how they must still be suffering nightmares over that Oglethorpe debacle.

That Georgia Tech is one of those teams that may go down on occasions but never passes quite out. And that Florida is not going to cut the football swathe this fall everybody thought she surely would (well, there's something wrong down there—see?)

That Tennessee is now the leading team of the Southern conference and stands easily the best chance of copping the conference championship. And McEver's claims must be considered.

That V. M. I. has a better team than most of us thought.

Bill Banker Great Back

That Tulane must have a fierce offense, and that Halfback Banker must be rated one of the very best of Southern backs.

That steadily and surely Baylor seems to be proving herself the strongest and most consistently performing team of the Southwest.

And that Texas U., Texas Aggies, Texas Chr., Baylor, Arkansas and S. M. U. all have good elevens.

Likewise I gather that Michigan simply hasn't the point-making machine most of us thought she had, though I cannot think the fault lies with the quality of the material.

Iowa Strong to Tie Illinois

That either Illinois isn't quite the miracle team we have been supposing, or else that Iowa has a darned sight gamer, nervier, more persistent and consistent aggregation than seemed probable. I incline to the latter view.

That Minnesota is the team that will have to be beaten if the conference pennant is to fly anywhere save in New Sweden. And that I wish my chances for making All A. were as bright as those of Nagurski.

That the other teams of the Western conference must be having a heck of a time trying to figure out how Coach Willamon and his aids dare butt in on the party in his first year out.

Huskers and Missouri Vie

That Missouri seems to have put an astonishingly capable team in the field. And that the Big Six conference championship will again lie between them and the Cornhuskers.

That Notre Dame has "it"—now beyond all sniffing or arching of eyebrows. And here's that fellow Elder—not to mention Savoldi, Brill and Carideo—not rapping timidly at the A-A door but threatening to smash it in with a sledge hammer.

That Stanford and S. Cal. are indeed the class of the coast and quite on a par with any other teams that can be named at this writing. And that in Fleischacker and Frentrup, of Stanford, and Saunders and Musick, of S. C., we have still more backs that insist on forcing their way into the politest company in the land.

And that still more sane people of the U. S. have gone insane, and that where this crazy football will land us next I don't know.

Longhorns Will Not Run Up Big Score on Rice Owls

AUSTIN, Oct. 22. (AP)—While the Longhorns today engaged in their second hard day of scrimmage in preparation for their fray with the Rice Owls here Saturday, they had an eye on the tilts with S. M. U. and Baylor on succeeding week-ends.

Despite the fact that the Owls held Texas to a one touchdown victory last year Steer followers do not give Rice an outside chance here Saturday. They don't expect a top-heavy score because they believed Coach Clyde Littlefield will give his "warhorses" a rest when the Steers have a comfortable lead.

In revenge for being knocked down by the motorcycle of a farmer, a French farm hand recently lay in wait for the cyclist's return, then shot him dead.

GRID ELEVENS GIVEN RANKING

Halfway Mark of Seaeson Is Now Here

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (UP)—With the football season approaching the half-way mark the following elevens are ranked by the United Press as outstanding in their sections:

East—Pittsburgh, Harvard, Army, Dartmouth, Fordham, Cornell.

Middle West—Notre Dame, Ohio State, Minnesota, Purdue.

Missouri Valley—Nebraska, Missouri.

South—Tennessee, Georgia, Tulane.

Southwest — Texas, Baylor, S. M. U.

Southern California — Stanford, California.

Pittsburgh looms as one of the strongest elevens in the country with successive victories over Duke, 52-7, West Virginia, 27-7, and Nebraska, 12-7.

The claims of Harvard and Army are based on the 20-20 tie played last week by them.

Dartmouth has rolled up 222 points to the opposition's nothing, but has yet to meet a strong rival. Fordham has smashed New York university, 26 to 0, and has an uncrossed goal line. Cornell achieved the first group by beating Princeton, 13 to 7.

Notre Dame has beaten in turn Indiana, Navy and Wisconsin. Ohio State leads the Big Ten with victories over Iowa and Michigan. Minnesota has beaten Vanderbilt and Northwestern. Purdue has won from the Kansas Aggies and Michigan.

Nebraska was held to a scoreless tie by S. M. U., but beat Syracuse and put up a stiff battle against Pitt. Missouri has beaten Iowa State and Drake.

Tennessee's 6 to 0 victory over Alabama stamps the Volunteers as one of the South's best elevens. Tulane has rolled up 147 points in winning its first four games. After losing to Oglethorpe in the opening game, 14-7, Georgia has come back to beat Furman, Yale and North Carolina.

Texas has beaten Centenary, Arkansas and Oklahoma and has kept its goal line uncrossed. Baylor has demonstrated tremendous offensive power in winning all its games. S. M. U. has been tied twice, but remains unbeaten.

Southern California has amassed 209 points to its opponents' 7 in four games, beating the University of Washington, 48 to 0. Stanford has scored 181 points to its opponents' 14 and has a notable 40-7 triumph over Oregon State. California was tied by St. Mary's but defeated Pennsylvania in an intersectional game last week, 12 to 7, after making the trip across the continent.

JIMMY DYKES TALKS ON MACK

He Says That Team Knew Every Throw

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22. (AP)—Jimmy Dykes, third baseman of the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics, was quoted today as saying at a luncheon that with the exception of the fourth game in the world's series, Connie Mack's batters knew what kind of a ball the McCarthy pitchers were going to fling.

They Knew Signals

"We didn't watch for signals in that 10 to 8 game where we scored 10 runs in the seventh inning," Dykes is quoted as saying. "But in all the other world series games we knew the Cubs' signals.

"When one of our batters got on base, he would fix his eyes on Taylor, the Chicago catcher, who at times, was a little careless. The runner would stand in a perfectly natural position until he caught the signal, then he would move his hand in such a way that the batter was informed what kind of a ball was about to be pitched.

Dykes also spoke about the feeling between the A's and the Cubs.

Landis Warned Managers

"It got to be so hot in the last four games that before the start of the fifth game Judge Landis called Connie Mack and Joe McCarthy into a conference," Dykes said.

"Judge Landis informed the two managers that if any ball player was caught using profanity he would lose his share of the world's series money.

"You can imagine that as far as profanity was concerned that last game was a pink tea party."

Women Voters Meet In Houston Oct. 30

HOUSTON, Oct. 22. (AP)—An informal reception will be the first social event in the convention of the Texas League of Women Voters here Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1. Plans for holding a banquet honoring convention officers in the second day's session are under discussion.

Mrs. George T. Hughes of Dallas, state secretary, has charge of the program for the business sessions.

Meanwhile in many Texas cities members are scrambling for recruits in view of the fact that the ratio of paid up memberships by convention date will determine the number of delegates to which each local organization is entitled.

Strange Pets for Home

Unusual pets for the home were shown at the recent housing and health exhibition at Glasgow, Scotland. Among them were spring-tailed geckos, girdle-tailed lizards, chamelions, a pet leopard, marmoset monkeys, small enough to fit into a tea cup and fancy water fowl.

S. M. U. Soph Quarterback Returns to Lineup Again

DALLAS, Oct. 22. (AP)—With the return of Bob Gilbert, sophomore quarterback, to the line-up, Southern Methodist university will be at full strength for Saturday's tussle here with Mississippi university.

Gilbert has been out with injured ankles since before the Nebraska game. He will start at quarter against "Ole Miss," with Mason and Kattman at halves and Hopper fullback.

Coach Morrison was not overenthusiastic about the meeting with Mississippi. "I had hoped to win without uncovering many plays," he said, "but now it looks like we will have a stiff game. Mississippi's win over Loyola last week makes it look different."

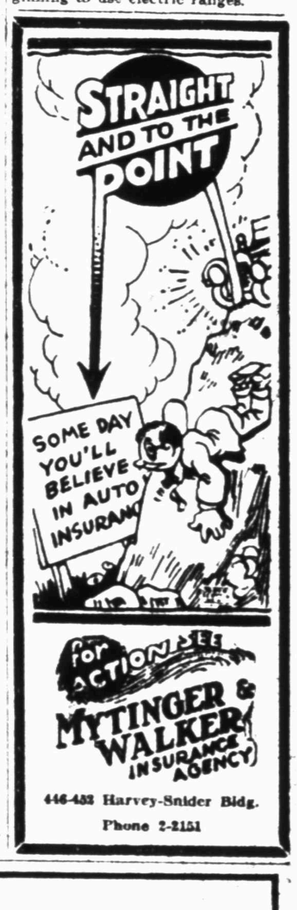

Crippled Ace Back On Frog Grid Squad

FORT WORTH, Oct. 22.—Horned Frog followers were greatly encouraged this week with the announcement that Austin Griffith, T. C. U. fullback ace, who chipped a shoulder bone in the initial game of the season and has been out since, will be back in uniform Monday. It is hoped that Griffith will be able to get into shape for play in the last four conference games with Rice, Texas, Baylor and S. M. U.

More good news for the Frog coaches and fans appeared in the fact that Rob Ell Cox, 190-pound tackle, has suited up and is working out with the squad. Cox was operated on for appendicitis a few days before school started and it was thought at first he would be lost to the team all season.

If Griffith and Cox are able to get into shape for the final four conference games on the Frog schedule they will greatly increase T. C. U.'s chances for victories.

A Lesson on Chops

The cook for a small household often finds it economical to use some kind of chops for the meat dish. It is indeed quite an art to cook a small roast of beef so that it develops the finest flavor. Most people who like roast beef prefer to eat it when they are dining out, as it is cooked in large quantities in the restaurant ovens and develops a certain flavor which is difficult to produce with a small roast of beef in the small oven.

In the United States, the favorite chop is the lamb chop, while the mutton chop is more desired in England. The mutton chop is of course from more mature sheep, is larger, and the English especially prefer it cut extra thick.

The French chop comes from the "rack" which is a term applied to the chuck and ribs. However, the term "chop" may mean any portion from the loin, rib, chuck or shoulder.

In preparing either lamb of mutton chops, it seems best to cut off the outer or thick layer, as this eliminates any strong taste which is peculiar to either lamb or mutton. In cooking chops, they may be broiled under the broiler in the regular way, or pan broiled, which means to put them in a hot pan without any fat, turning them over almost constantly to keep them from burning and sticking to the pan. Many people prefer this kind of pan broiling to that under the broiler, as it gives the meat a different flavor, similar to barbecued meat.

The veal chop makes a very tasty food which many consider to have a better flavor than beef. Both veal and lamb, however, should not be regularly preferred to beef and mutton, as these immature meats are more difficult to digest but, of course, may be used occasionally by those who have no digestive troubles and who find them more agreeable.

A reducing diet which has had some vogue is the lamb chop and pineapple diet which really makes a good combination, but should not be continued for very long, as it does not produce enough bulk and is somewhat deficient in vitamins and organic salts which are needed from the non-starchy vegetables.

It is better to use one meal a day of this pineapple and lamb chop diet, and to use non-starchy vegetables at the other meals.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nose-Bleed

Question: H. G. writes—"I am bothered with constant nose-bleeds Will you tell me the cause?

Answer—You may be suffering from high blood pressure which would bring on the frequent nose bleeds. Otherwise they are caused by a chronic irritation of the membranes inside the nose. These mucus membrances become inflamed and the blood vessels more exposed so that bleeding comes on more readily.

Always Cold

Question: J. L. writes—"I wish you would tell me a cure for a person that is always half frozen. The only time I am ever comfortably warm is on a hot summer day. These cold mornings I just shiver from head to foot. I take a lot of exercise and get plenty of fresh air also eat the most wholesome food I know how, but nothing seems to help my shivers."

Answer—You must depend upon increasing your circulation through taking more exercise, and especially through taking long walks each day. After returning from your walk take a cold shower each time.

How Much Water?

Question: J. K. F. asks—"How much water should a person drink during the day?"

Answer—The quantity of water used depends upon your bodily necessities and these vary in each individual case. A good rule to use is to take as much water as necessary to keep the urine a light color. If the urine ever becomes dark during the day it is a sign you are not using enough water. The additional water should be taken between meals and not with food.

Tonsils and Adenoids

Question: Mrs. G. H. asks—"Would you advise X-ray treatment for diseased tonsils and adenoids? Is there any danger of drying up the glands of the throat by the X-ray treatment? A woman who has taken this treatment is troubled with a pus discharge from the throat. What might be the cause of it?"

Answer—X-ray treatment for tonsils or adenoids is a very dangerous method to use, as the other glands in the throat and even the brain itself, may be injured. The toxic cause of enlarged tonsils will remain even if these glands are shrunk by the X-ray and therefore a patient may continue to have excess formation of mucus or still be troubled with pus pockets in the throat.

Plans Completed For Hotel Meeting

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 22. (AP)—Arrangements for the 25th annual meeting of the Texas Hotel association in El Paso, Nov. 4-5, have been completed, according to R. L. Sanders, secretary-treasurer of the association. Two hundred and fifty visitors are expected.

Important topics for this year's meeting have been arranged by Paul Harvey of El Paso, president of the association, to include cost accounting, educational work, hotel advertising, utility rates, hotel insurance and other features.

Included in the list of speakers will be Alfred S. Amer, of New Orleans, regional vice president of the American Hotel association, and B F. Orr, Houston.

Other features of the program are addresses by Paul Simon and A. F. Handcock, both of New York. Another speaker will be Dr. J. Anderson Fitzgerald of the University of Texas, who will discuss a hotel training school.

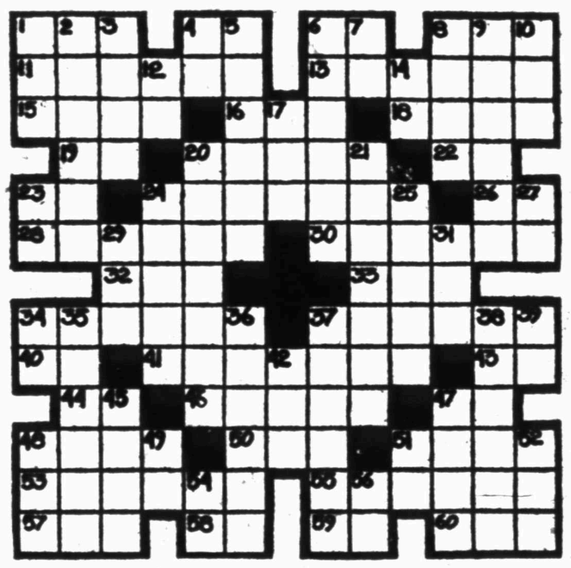

Penchant for Yo-Yo Tops Used as Insanity Plea

COLUMBUS, Kan., Oct. 22. (UP)—Because the defendant had a penchant for yo-yo tops and bought five or six of the toys every time she went to town, the defense of Mrs. Ethel Brotherton, on trial for murder here, claims substantial proof that she is mentally unsound.

Mrs. Brotherton is charged with the murder of Bonnie Davis, 17-year-old girl, here last June 11. A hearing on her sanity was continued here today.

Peculiar actions of the woman were revealed by Mrs. George Syke, Spiro, Okla., who also stated Mrs. Brotherton drinks a dozen bottles of soda pop daily.

Coleman County Pool Gets Another Well

Special to The Record News

COLEMAN, Texas, Oct. 22.—The outstanding completion in Coleman county's oil field is Permian Oil company and Gibson & Johnson No. 4 Crowder, which has just been completed for approximately 500 barrels. This well is located between the Eastland Oil company's No. 1 Crowder and Permian Oil company and Gibson & Johnson No. 1 Crowder. The Eastland's well is producing approximately 130 barrels a day, and the Permian Oil company and Gibson & Johnson, 1,000 barrels. There is still one well drilling between the Permian Oil company and Gibson & Johnson No. 1 and their recent completion offsetting Tower & McKanna lease to the north. Levi Smith has just completed his Nos. 4 and 5 Morris. Neither of these wells looked very large, until after being shot. They are rating from 100 to 150 barrels each.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (AP)—The statement of the federal farm board with reference to cotton prices and proposed loans to cooperative marketing associations was reflected by advances of approximately $2.50 per bale in the cotton market here today. After selling up to 18.40 at the start, December reacted to 18.22 under liquidation, but later advanced to 18.52 on continued covering and more or less general buying. December closed at 18.50 with the general market closing firm at net advances of 48 to 50 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 23 to 27 points and the active months soon showed net gains of 30 to 38 points on covering together with trade and speculative buying promoted by the Washington news. This initial demand sent prices up to 18.12 for October and 18.79 for March contracts, but the advance met a good deal of southern selling and the market reacted some 13 to 18 points from the best later in the morning under liquidation of old long accounts.

Circulation of a few additional notices caused liquidation in the spot month, but trade buying continued while southern selling was less in evidence after the first half hour. October eased off to 17.96 and March to 18.65, making reactions of about 13 to 18 points from the early high level, but the market firmed up again during the afternoon.

Prices reached the highest levels of the day in the late trading and October sold at 18.30 and March at 18.93. Closing quotations were within a few points of the best.

Private cables reported covering and general buying on the farm board statement in Liverpool, and said there was a fair inquiry of cotton cloth from India, but that China business was slow in developing.

Exports today 20,469, making 1,692,502 so far this season. Port receipts 109,989. U. S. port stocks 2,052,884.

Futures closed firm, 40 to 50 higher. Spot steady; middling 18.50.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22. (AP)—Cotton scored a sharp advance today promoted by the federal farm board's proposal to lend up to 16 cents a pound on the crop. The upswing reached its maximum late when January contracts sold at 18.55 compared with 18.28 the day's low point. The option closed at 18.52 for a net gain of 48 points. The general market closed steady, 40 to 49 points net higher.

Liverpool cables were firm and first trades showed small gains. Under pressure of buying December sold up to 18.31, January 18.43 and March 18.70, or 35 to 39 points over yesterday's close.

Hedge selling resulted in a reaction of 13 to 15 points, but the market immediately started upward again reaching new highs for the day in final trading when December traded to 18.45, January 18.59 and March 18.82, or 50 to 51 points over the previous close. This represented a gain of approximately $2.50 a bale.

Receipts 111,806 for week, 287,412; for year, 3,504,014, last year, 3,359,118. Exports, 26,658; for week, 67,746; for year, 1,673,257; last year, 1,803,927. Stocks, 2,061,786; last year, 1,895,899. Concerted Drive on Bethlehem Unsteadies Market Near Close

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. (US)—Concerted drive on Bethlehem Steel influenced unsettlement toward the close of the market today, that wiped out part of early gains. Profit takers had made spasmodic attempts to halt the recovery without success until in the last hour they were able to smash the support of Bethlehem and the result was a flurry of profit-taking and selling in other parts of the list. Offerings were fairly well taken however so that Steel held 1⅝ of its gain while Radio finished 2¼ higher, General Electric gained 3 for the day, American and foreign power 2⅞, Johns Manville 5, Canadian Pacific 4⅞, Warner Brothers 4¼, Westinghouse 6¼ and Case Plow 28 points.

As the rally progressed speculative sentiment changed and most of the dire foreboding of the last few days was forgotten. To listen to the conversation around customers' rooms would cause belief of a new bull market was starting that would never end. It seems that the so-called public trader never will learn that Wall street is in the business of marketing, or, in other words, of selling securities. Just at present the most powerful interests have their minds on the sale of foreign securities when the investment market can be improved.

The president of the National City bank returned and issued a bullish statement as effected. He agrees with views here that the brokers' loans "if understood" would not be a market factor and that a reduction in the rediscount rate would help business. Mr. Mitchell also stated that such action "would aid the bond market." That statement was an added reason for belief that no broad, upward movement in stock prices is to be expected until after an active and rising bond market has been experienced. Such a bond market may be more or less of a temporary affair but until experienced only the nimble traders belong in the stock market.

"Oils and Rails" were the subject of the bullish advice of most brokers. It was such "Morgan stocks" as Steel and Johns Manville and such stocks as had been most heavily sold, as the Utilities, that showed the best return to those who had sufficient courage to buy. Warner Brothers was another to stand out. The deal with Paramount is reported to be off but directors are expected to declare an increase in dividend to a $4 annual rate at meeting tomorrow. U. S. Freight was well taken also as it never has fully discounted expansion plans and earnings outlook. Durant was mentioned as a buyer of Steel and some others. It was said he was acting for a group that were among the more powerful leaders of the late "Coolidge bull market." Some absorption of Richfield was influenced by realization that its revenues will be increased by the reduction in California crude prices as it is buying some 90,000 barrels in those fields.

The brokers' loans are not a fundamental factor, as Mr. Mitchell points out, but due to unwarranted and ill-advised statements by the reserve they exert a powerful psychological influence on the market. Statement to be issued Thursday, therefore, is likely to be of assistance in sustaining the rally.

Jim Ferguson Promises To 'Fix Up' State Prison If Elected Governor

Jim Says He's 'Not Hankering, but Willing'

JAMES E. FERGUSON

affairs of this state which now seem to be floundering under a painful confusion.

Second—Where efficiency can be maintained I favor the reduction of the number of public servants. To begin with, I would combine the office of the county tax assessor with that of county tax collector. Taxes can't be collected until they are assessed and it only takes half the time to assess. This will save at least $500,000 a year to the taxpayers. I am opposed to any county officer making over $6,000 a year. The excess over that sum should be returned to the county. I am in favor of taxes being payable quarterly instead of yearly—leaving the money in the pockets of the people until needed—and not piled up in bank depositories to be loaned out at high interest.

Third—I am in favor of a law that will prohibit any state bank from loaning over 10 per cent of its capital and deposits outside of Texas. The law should further provide that no bank state or national can be allowed to act as a state, county or city depository of public funds that loans over 10 per cent of its capital and deposits out of Texas and further that no national bank which loans more than 10 per cent of its capital and deposits outside of Texas can act as reserve agent for any state bank.

If New York wants to gamble on stocks let them gamble on their own money. We need ours at home.

Loan Laws

Fourth—I do not believe that those who loan money for profit should ever get more than a reasonable rate of interest. To insure this I am in favor of a law that will give the owner of any real estate upon which a lien has been foreclosed the right to redeem same within two years upon payment of the debt together with 10 per cent interest per annum to the time of such redemption and that in all debts of over $500 attorneys' fees shall not be over two per cent.

Fifth—The supreme court having held my land rent law unconstitutional where more than the third and fourth was charged, except where rented on the halves, I am in favor of abolishing the landlord's lien law or so modify so as to give the tenant the same right to mortgage his crop to his merchant and his doctor so as to feed and care for his family that the landlord has to mortgage his farm for the same purpose.

I will demand the repeal of the vicious law passed by the present legislature that prohibits anybody from moving any tenant or laborer in the town or country without the consent of the landlord. It is a damnable disgrace and gives the Mexican peon a chance to laugh in our face. Read it and shudder.

Sixth—I favor a law abolishing the present highway commission appointed by the governor, and put in their place an elective commission by the people, consisting of five members, one of which the chairman to be elected at large from the state and one from North, South, East and West Texas, by districts to be created by the legislature.

I would provide that this commission give all their time to their office and draw a sufficient salary.

The highway department spends as much money and has as much business as all the rest of the state government put together. Of all public officials the people should elect these. They are the most important.

Against State Bonds

Seventh—I am opposed to the issuance of any state road bonds. Once we start this practice it will never end and the people can not stand the burden.

I am in favor of materially reducing the tax on cars and giving all of the balance to the counties where the tax is paid to be spent on their lateral roads by the commissioners courts of each county.

A three-cent gasoline tax is sufficient to maintain and build necessary state highways.

I am not in favor of building the most expensive road nor the cheapest road. If we tie ourselves to the $30,000 a mile cement road most of us and our children will be dead and gone before we get many roads in Texas.

Let us grade up and properly drain our state highways, and then instead of $30,000 a mile cement surface road which only a few people will ever get, let us surface our roads with a less expensive material costing from $3,000 to $5,000 a mile and thereby build from six to 10 miles to where we build one mile of the $30,000 a mile road. Roads like women's hats—change, go out of style and wear out even the best. You can't show me a 10-year-old cement road in Texas but either needs or has had expensive repairs.

Under my plan the saving in interest and depreciation will give us a new road every four years without the issuance of a single bond and in less than four years' time we can build roads all over Texas and help many of the poor counties to build theirs.

Eighth—Of equal importance to the building of state highways and maintenance, thereof, is the use of same after they are built.

The road hog must go and the attempt all ready under way to commercialize the state highways for personal profit and financial exploitation must stop. The intention of public roads is for all and not the few. Special privileges for none.

Use of Highways

With these ideas in view, I would prohibit by law the use of public highways county or state, by any freight truck with a load or more than one ton or with a trailer hitched thereto. And I would prohibit the use of any vehicle freight or passenger, that is any wider than the average car used by the great masses of the people. Their speeds should be cut to 35 miles an hour. It is no more just and fair to tax the people to maintain the highways to be leased to some corporation for profit, than it would be to tax the people to maintain the railway to be operated also for profit.

With these restrictions it will not be half so expensive to maintain our roads as it will be if these great big road hogs (road elephant would be a better name) are permitted to continue a menace to life and limb of those who meet them.

Ninth—To relieve the farms and other real estate from some of its unequal share of the tax burden, I would pass a law providing for a luxury tax on all factory made cigarets and cigars and the proceeds of the same to go to the common schools. A tax of this kind which would be no more than one cent a day to each smoker would bring in five or six million dollars a year and would reduce the ad valorem tax from 10 to 20 per cent.

Tenth—We hear something of the penitentiary these days. Let me have my say. I claim to be some pumpkin on this question.

Neff and Moody bragged about not giving any pardons. The legislatures appropriated about $8,000,000 to foot their bill. All of Neff's honor crowd run off and took many with them never to return. When Moody won't give his convicts a pardon, they do like the colored man did when he said, "I didn't git no ingitation to the ball so I sets myself down and writs myself one." Moody's convicts just write their own pardons and bid Dan adieu and hundreds have quit the drive and the taxpayer is called on for more millions.

The legislature appropriated $200,000 for the two Ferguson administrations and they gave the state back half a million in cash and then some.

How to Solve Prison Problem

If you elect me governor, instead of talking about selling the farms and building five million dollars worth of buildings when the state is broke, I will ask the legislature to appropriate $500,000 with which I will fix up the buildings at Huntsville and the camps on the farms so they can't dig out and pardon about 2,000 of the convicts for good records and good behavior and tell the rest to go to work and if they make good they may get pardons too, and believe me we will hear Farmer Jim's lick and hum in the Brazos and Trinity bottoms once more, and the taxpayers will hear a new song about the penitentiary.

We will reform more convicts, we will do more religion, we will extend more forgiveness, we will do more like the Savior did, we will do more for the state than has been done since Texas made the mistake of sending a boy to mill.

Do you want me? Then write me, wire me. I am not hankering but I am willing, if the people want me.

JAS. E. FERGUSON.

Convicted Textile Workers Appeal

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 22.(UP)—Protesting that the conviction of seven textile workers in the Aderholt murder trial was the result of a "class verdict," the defense laid plans today for a vigorous appeal.

After pronouncing sentence yesterday Judge M. V. Barnhill allowed 90 days for the appeal. The American Civil Liberties union, backing the defense, has announced it will carry the case to the United States supreme court if necessary.

Lighter sentences, to run concurrently, were imposed for the shooting of Policeman Tom Gilbert during the riot in which Police Chief O. F. Aderholt was slain.

Preacher Cultivates Big Cotton Field

PLAINS, Texas, Oct. 22. (AP)—The pulpit has not provided a sufficient income for Rev. H. G. Heath.

"Preacher" Heath as he is known to residents of northeast Yoakum county, has 1,920 acres of land in cultivation on halves. More than a quarter of a bale of cotton to the acre will be produced on the 1,300 acres devoted to that crop.

FINANCE GROUP MEETS TODAY

Oil Leaders to Plan Raising $1,000,000

Organization of a large finance committee and preliminary plans for the raising of $1,000,000 will be completed at a meeting scheduled to be held at the office of Harry Hines, chairman, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when representatives of Young-Archer, Clay, and Wilbarger counties will meet with the 22 Wichita Falls men appointed at the general meeting held last Wednesday noon in the interest of deep oil drilling in this section.

Andy M. Bourland of Vernon, Dr. A. D. Edwards of Henrietta, and Frank M. Power of Archer City have notified Mr. Hines that selection of finance committee members from their respective communities will be completed before Wednesday noon, and that their delegations will be on hand.

The finance committee is charged with the creation of a $1,000,000 capitalization for a deep oil drilling company, incorporation of which is now being planned by a committee headed by Leslie Humphrey. Wichita Falls members are W. T. Knight, J. A. Kemp, W. B. Hamilton, R. L. Underwood, J. J. Perkins, Roy Riner, E. H. Eddleman, E. R. Fain, Dudley Golding, L. T. Burns, James E. McKanna, Clifford Mooers, W. D. Cline, Ed Peterson, Luke W. M. McCroy, C. H. Clark, R. O. Harvey, R. A. King, N. H. Martin and J. Alvin Gardner.

Speakers Pay Tribute To Thomas A. Edison

Thomas A. Edison, inventor of the incandescent electric light, was eulogized in speeches by A. E. Kelly and J. H. Allison, before the weekly meeting of the Ad club Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel in keeping with the celebration of the Light Golden Jubilee now being staged throughout the nation.

Mr. Edison was described by Mr. Kelly as one of the most valuable citizens in the entire world, and as one who achieved his success only by patience and hard work through all of a life which began in obscure poverty.

Following a report of the Ad club's work as a publicity committee for the community chest, given by T. A. Bradley, Mr. Kelly expressed confidence in the city's determination to raise the $70,000 quota in the present drive.

Programs of Real Estate Board To Feature Wichita Falls Industries

Inauguration of a program designed to make local realtors more familiar with industries of this city featured the bi-weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Speaking on the Clark Machine company, manufacturers of Wichita Falls spudders, Roscoe Staton declared that these drilling machines are known in practically every oil-producing community in the nation. Four different types, the largest capable of drilling to 4,000 feet, are included in the output of this company, the speaker said.

The Clark Machine company is locally owned, has an annual business volume of about $250,000, employs 30 machinists with an average payroll of about $1,000 weekly, according to Mr. Staton.

Other local manufacturing firms are to be discussed at coming meetings of the board, it was announced.

Following informal debate on the question of placing "For Sale" signs on property which is for sale, the matter was given to a reference committee, with a request that some plan for limiting the display of "For Sale" signs be submitted at the next meeting of the board, two weeks hence.

Following the plan adopted by all luncheon groups for this week, local realtors lunched meagerly Tuesday, the "uneaten" portion of the meal price going to the community chest.

Copied after the model farm in Central park, New York, a section for British domestic and farm animals may be added to the London zoo.

Wichitans to Attend Flood Control Meet

Several members of the chambers of commerce here are planning to attend a banquet in Denison Thursday when representatives of more than 50 Texas cities will discuss plans for obtaining federal aid in the proposed building of a dam across Red river.

Orville Bullington, president of the senior body, Walter Nelson Jr., president of the junior chamber, Hubert M. Harrison, general manager, and others from this city will be present, it was stated.

Efforts will be made to have the building of the dam incorporated in a federal program of flood control, with a site near Denison proposed as its location, it was said.

Edinburgh, Scotland, proposes to make Swanston, the boyhood home of Robert Louis Stevenson, the center of a new park.

C.-C. DIRECTORS MEET TODAY

Board to Consider New Manager Here

Action upon the resignation of Hubert M. Harrison as general manager, and steps toward the selection of his successor, will feature the bi-weekly meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at the Wichita club Wednesday noon, officials of the organization stated Tuesday.

Mr. Harrison was elected Oct. 14 to the position of vice president and general manager of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, which position he expects to assume on Nov. 1. Relinquishment of his duties here on that date will leave two months of the current fiscal year of the local organization to be handled by the present board of directors.

The presence of all directors at the Wednesday luncheon and meeting was urged by Orville Bullington, president.

College and School News

By MARGARET FLEMING
The Record News Staff

Original editorials were read and discussed at the regular meeting of the Junior college Writers club Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Various members made reports on Mrs. Grace Noll Crowell. The members voted to allow associate membership for those who are interested in the work but who are unable to attend the regular meetings. Associate members will be required to submit articles and to attend the monthly meetings on the first Wednesday in each month.

Speakers Club to Elect

The Junior college Speakers club will meet Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the little auditorium, according to Miss Juanita Kinsey, faculty sponsor. The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers.

Latin Club

Members of the high school Latin club will be favored with a tap dance by Miss Maurine Adams Wednesday morning at 9:30 in the auditorium. Other numbers on the program will be a reading by Miss Kathleen Cason; a talk, "Gods and Mythology in Relation to English Literature" by George Nelson, and two piano selections by Miss Ruth Lucille Snyder.

Assembly Program

Unique and inspiring was the community chest program presented at the regular high school and Junior college assembly Tuesday morning. Ten two-minute skits representative of the 10 organizations of the community chest were presented by various members of the Girl Reserves. Children from both the white and colored day nurseries sang for the group. Cabinet members of the Girl Reserves presented the Girl Reserve code, repeated the slogan, and sang the Girl Reserve song, "Follow the Gleam."

Man Facing Lunacy Charge Disarmed by Two Deputies

Alarmed when the defendant named in a lunacy complaint here left his home armed with a shotgun and a round of ammunition, neighbors Monday enlisted the aid of members of the sheriff's department in apprehending the fugitive, according to information given by Sheriff W. G. Bralley Monday afternoon. H. L. White and Charlie Gant, deputies, spent most of the morning tramping the woods along the river bank in search of the armed man. The fugitive made no attempt to use his weapons when the officers finally came upon him and ordered his surrender. Trial of lunacy complaint is set for Wednesday morning.

Comanche, Okla., Youth Killed in Car Wreck

COMANCHE, Okla., Oct. 22. (UP)—Stephens county's list of violent deaths reached six in five days today when Harold Linzy, 17, Comanche high school student, was killed. His auto ran off the pavement north of here and overturned. Two girls and Billy Kinder, the driver, escaped with only minor injuries.

STEAMER PICKS UP SURVIVORS

Two Men Rescued After Barge Sinks

CHICAGO, Oct. 22. (AP)—The freighter C. M. Schwab, 10 miles northeast of Chicago light, reported by radio today it had picked up the two men aboard the oil barge City Service No. 2 as the barge sank in Lake Michigan today.

A vicious northeaster whipped the lake into a fury, driving huge waves over the lake shore boulevards and piling the lake front with debris.

The barge, in tow of the tug Butterfield, en route from Muskegon, Mich., to Chicago, broke away last night with its crew of two aboard. The Butterfield, itself in peril, was unable to give aid.

Heavy damage to water front buildings, small boats and breakwaters was wrought by the pounding seas.

Commercial Secretaries To Meet in Amarillo

Hollows in Cheeks, Neck and Chest Growing Deeper Every Week

Someone Ought to Tell Him How To Gain Pounds of Solid Flesh And Look Like a Real Man

Tens of thousands of thin run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now, for McCoy's Tablets, which any druggist will tell you all about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this iron-clad guarantee. If after taking four 60-cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or two $1 boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at last five pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health, your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.—Adv.

NOW THROUGH SATURDAY

MAJESTIC

The Hall

in the new house rented by the Smith's!

MONDAY—
Mrs. Smith—"Have you found a house for us to rent?"
Mr. Smith—"Not yet but I've been looking around."

TUESDAY—
Mrs. Smith—"Found that house yet?"
Mr. Smith—"No, but I've done a lot of looking and inquiring."

WEDNESDAY—
Mrs. Smith—"How about that house, Henry?"
Henry—"Nothing satisfactory yet."
Mrs. Smith—"Have you looked?"
Henry—"Not exactly, but I haven't heard of a thing."

THURSDAY—
Mrs. Smith—"Any luck yet?"
Mr. Smith—"No, not a thing."
Mrs. Smith—"Perhaps I could locate something."
Mr. Smith—"Not a chance, how would you hear of anything?"
Mrs. Smith—"Well, let me try."
And it was agreed.

Mrs. Smith, being an up-to-date housewife, immediately consulted her friend—Daily Times-Record News Classified Section—located a number of attractively described houses of the type they were looking for—arranged to see them—and found just the "house of her dreams." The rent being satisfactory she had a lease prepared for her husband's signature.

SATURDAY—
Mr. Smith—"Well, how about the house?"
Mrs. Smith—"Found exactly what we wanted. When can you go with me to see it?"
Mr. Smith—"Right now. Good for you!"

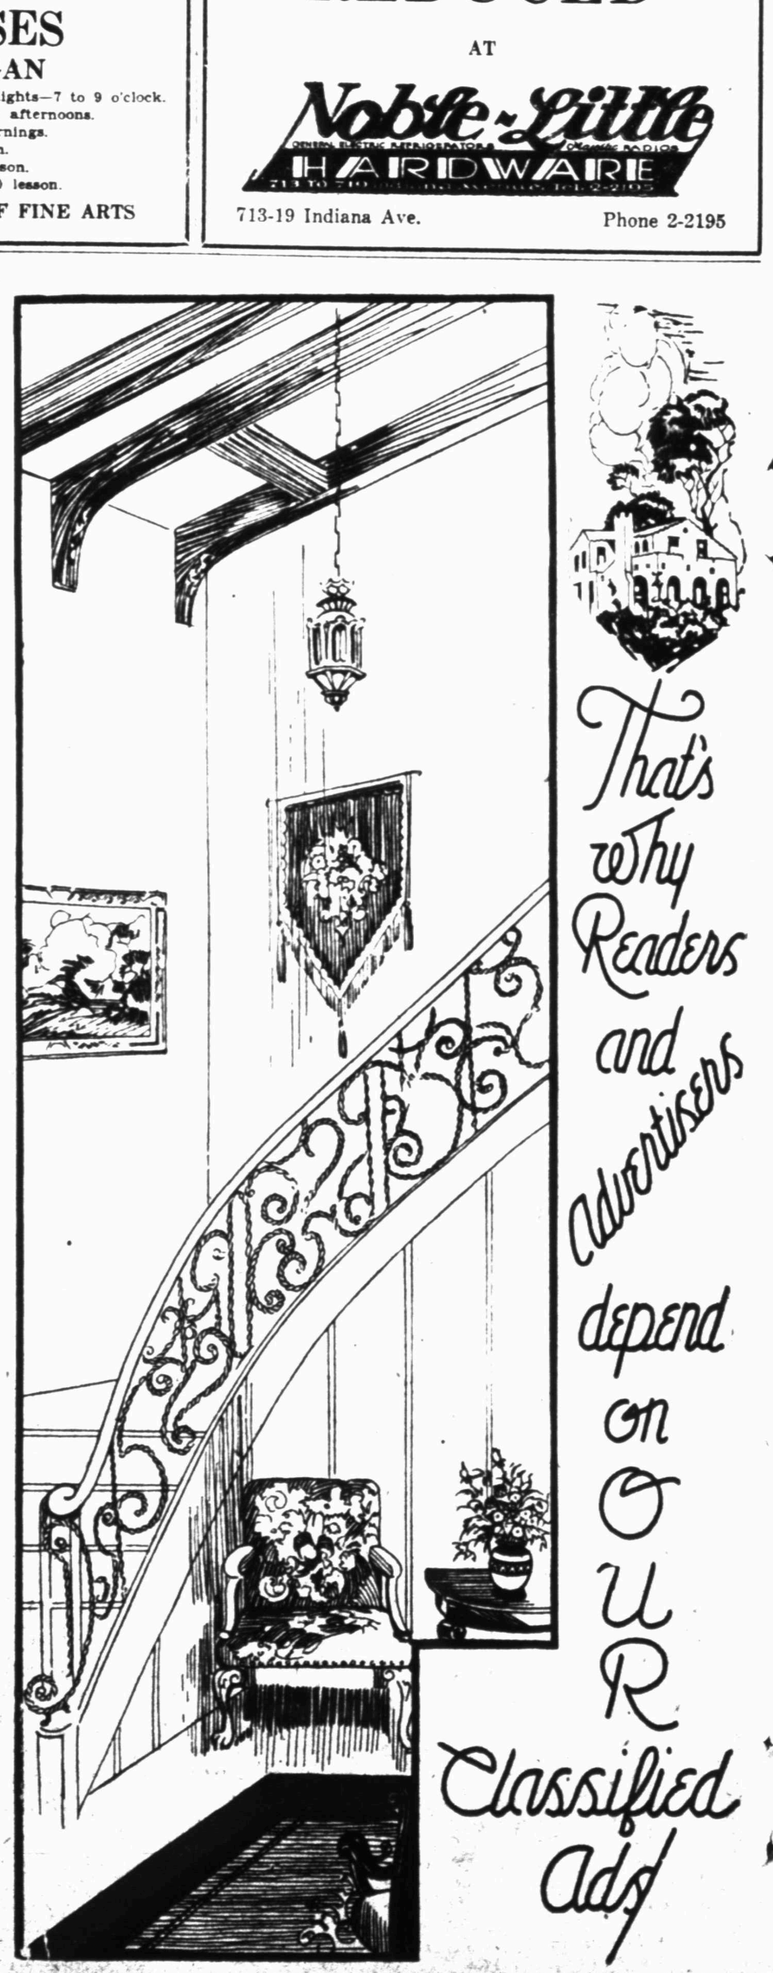

A LITTLE LATER—
Mr. Smith—"Just the house—and the lease and rent are O. K.! How did you do it?"
Mrs. Smith—"The credit really belongs to Daily Times-Record News Classified Ads—they found it for me."
"Why didn't I think of them?" said Mr. Smith.

So the Smith's found a house and a lucky property owner secured a responsible tenant. Mr. Non-Advertiser. IF YOUR PROPERTY HAD BEEN LISTED THEY MIGHT HAVE RENTED IT. BE REPRESENTED TODAY.
