HUNGARIAN TROOPS IN UPRISING

POSSE OF CITIZENS AND OKLA. OFFICERS RACE FOR PRISONERS

PERRYTON, TEXAS, March 31.—Several hundred armed citizens and a posse of officers from Lawton, Okla., are in a race across the Panhandle plains today to secure possession of two men and two women, held here, suspected of the murder of Russell Sprague in Comanche county, Oklahoma. Sprague had been missing for some time. The body was found buried in quicksand yesterday and the arrest of the suspects at Perryton, Texas, followed. Both parties are using automobiles in the race for Perryton. Sprague is supposed to have been murdered when he resisted efforts of bandits to steal his automobile.

BODY IS FOUND AFTER A HUNT OF FOUR DAYS

LAWTON, OKLA., March 31.—A four day hunt for Russell Sprague, 22, service car driver of Lawton, ended today with the finding of his body, half buried in the bed of a creek 18 miles northeast of Lawton. The skull was crushed, evidently having been struck by some blunt instrument and a bullet wound was in the forehead.

Four persons, two men and two women, are being held at Perryton, Texas, in connection with the crime, according to advices here. One of these, Gleo Goblin, is alleged to have confessed the four killed Sprague.

FOUR PEOPLE HELD IN OCHILTREE COUNTY JAIL

AMARILLO, TEXAS, March 31.—Two men and two women giving their names as Cleo Gobin, said to be an ex-soldier; William Tate, alleged army deserter; Eva Huett and Mrs. L. Duff, were held in the Ochiltree county jail at Perryton, Texas, today while officials investigated the killing of Russell Sprague, service car driver at Lawton, Okla., Saturday night.

Local officials were also investigating responsibility for the robbery of the Santa Fe telegraph operator at Panhandle, Texas, thirty miles northeast of here, Tuesday morning, and also are making an investigation in connection with a series of robberies at Cheyenne, Okla., recently.

GREAT ASSEMBLAGE ATTENDS FUNERAL OF THE LATE CARDINAL

MITRED HEAD OF A HUNDRED DIOCESES PAY TRIBUTE TO NOTED PRELATE.

CITY ACTIVITY CEASES FOR ONE MINUTE AT 10

Every Motor, Street Car and Vehicle Of Any Kind Ordered To Come To Stop.

BALTIMORE, March 31.—With all the splendor of a ceremony centuries old, the Roman Catholic church today laid to rest one of its most revered and faithful servants—James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore and the second American to be elevated to the cardinalate.

Archbishop John Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, celebrated a pontifical requiem mass in the cathedral of the Blessed Virgin Mary, with seminarians chanting Gregorian music never before heard outside the Sistine chapel in Rome during a funeral of a pope.

Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis delivered the funeral sermon. During his eulogy of the dead, there remained scarcely a dry eye among his hearers, whose memories went back to the kindly, gentle old man who led with power of spirit as well as power of mind.

The service was like a scene from the middle ages, like an altar pire come to life. Numberless priests in a seemingly endless procession filed into the church and in their stately robes of the varied colors of their orders, moved forward to the catafalque, on which rested the late cardinal in his archbishop's vestments of purple. In a few moments the church was filled with this army of elergy and the atmosphere of the twentieth century was dispelled.

There was a harmony of color and sound as the light of the candles around the bier fell on the brilliant ceremonial robes of the priests and the auditorium echoed to the measured chant of the prayers.

COME FROM EAST AND WEST FROM THE NORTH AND SOUTH

BALTIMORE, March 31.—The greatest assemblage of church dignitaries on this continent gathered here today for the funeral of James Cardinal Gibbons.

They came from the east and the west, from the north and the south, and from the dominion across the border, to mourn the prelate, the American, the man. In the great procession which formed for the pontifical requiem mass were numberless priests and the mitred heads of a hundred dioceses.

To the Cathedral of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, on the heights overlooking the city of the cardinal's birth, came also lay delegates and diplomats.

They came for a ceremonial unmatched in the ecclesiastic history of the United States, for in addition to all the honors that the Roman Catholic church in America could shower on a servant old and tried, there was bestowed upon the dead a special gift from the vatican. In special recognition of service to the church, the pope decreed that the Gregorian choral society of St. Mary's seminary should sing at today's mass a solemn Gregorian chant previously heard only at the funeral of a sovereign ruler of the Catholic church in the Sistine chapel in Rome.

Streets Are Crowded.

By 9 o'clock, an hour before the time for the ceremony, streets surrounding the cathedral were so crowded with clergy and laity that hardly a square inch of pavement could be seen. At 10 o'clock the whole city, by gubernatorial and mayoral proclamation was urged to drop every activity for a minute in respect to a man who had numbered among its most distinguished citizens. Every motor, every street car, every wagon was directed to stop in its tracks when the clocks of the city tolled ten.

Early in the morning the clergy began forming in front of Calvert Hall

TURKISH CALVARY IS ENGAGED IN STRUGGLE AGAINST THE GREEKS

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 31.—Turkish cavalry has entered the fight against the Greeks near the Eski-Shehr, and is pursuing two Greek divisions near that city, it is said in reports received here from Anatolia. The same report declares that a Greek division has been captured by the Turkish nationalists.

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 31.—The Turks in their withdrawal in Asia Minor before the Greeks carried off the most important portions of the railway and munition factories in Eski-Shehr. They also removed locomotives and cars and destroyed those that could not be removed.

ACTING SECRETARY ROOSEVELT BEGINS PERSONAL INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Acting Secretary Roosevelt has begun a personal inquiry into the flight of the naval free balloon, missing since March 22, the day it left Pensacola, Fla., with five men aboard. The inquiry is preparatory to ordering the usual board of investigation, which probably will not be designated until Secretary Denby returns from Guantanamo, April 5.

Mr. Roosevelt said today that the Pensacola affair, coming on the heels of the balloon flight from Rockaway, L. I., to Moose Factory, Ont., would undoubtedly result in tightening up orders regarding such flights in future.

The department admitted that little hope was entertained that the men would be found.

In commenting on naval aviation affairs, Mr. Roosevelt announced that he did not favor unification of the army, navy and postoffice air services, a proposal which has been agitating the services and many members of congress for two years.

SEARCH OVER SWAMPS FAILS TO SOLVE BALLOON MYSTERY

HOUSTON, TEXAS, March 31.—The search over the swamps around Apalachicola, Fla., failed to solve the mysterious disappearance of five naval balloonists missing from the Pensacola air station a week Tuesday, it was said in a message here today.

A telegram from the commandant of the Pensacola navy yard, received by Mr and Mrs. J. K. Wilkinson, parents of George A. Wilkinson, pilot of the balloon, said the "entire area has been searched thoroughly" and that "every effort is still being made to locate crew."

Dirigibles and airplanes from the Pensacola station have been searching the impenetrable swamps near Apalachicola since Monday when residents nearby declared they heard cries coming from the swamps.

The message to the Wilkinsons said adjacent areas to the swamps "will be covered as soon as possible."

The balloonists have not been seen since they ascended Tuesday night, a week ago, on a night practice flight. Last reports from Pilot Wilkinson by carrier pigeons said the balloon was fifty miles off the coast and close to the water.

BIG NAVY DIRIGIBLE AND AIRPLANES RESUME SEARCH

PENSACOLA, March 31.—A big navy dirigible, accompanied by a fleet of airplanes, today renewed the search for the five missing balloonists, who were on board the navy free balloon that was blown out to sea from here eight days ago.

The search was directed today toward a portion of swamp lands between the mouths of the Apalachicola and the Chattahooche rivers. Fishermen in that district report hearing cries emanating from the midst of the swamp. Unless the men are found today, naval authorities believe there will remain only slight hope of rescuing them alive.

MORE FROST UNLESS WEATHER IS CLOUDY

DALLAS, March 31.—Another frost may be expected in Dallas and vicinity and some other parts of North Texas unless cloudy weather prevails, the weather bureau declared in forecasting colder weather.

American Commission Places Blame On British Leaders for "Reign of Terror" in Ireland

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The people of Ireland are "at the mercy of Imperial British forces which are acting contrary to all law and all standards of human conduct," the American commission on conditions in Ireland declared in its report, made public today.

The report, including much of the testimony elicited at hearings here last winter, criticized the British policy of force. The Irish were criticized for what the committee called "assassinations," but which the Irish witnesses termed "executions."

The difficulties in Ireland, it was declared, are summed up in the fact that the British have sent troops to occupy the island. The Irish, resenting occupation, were said to have instituted ambushes to obtain arms and to have "executed" British officers, which in turn provoked reprisals.

The commission, an offshoot of the "Committee of 100," called into being by the publication "The Nation," consisted of L. Hollingsworth Wood, a New York lawyer Frederic C. Howe, former commissioner of immigration in New York; Jane Addams, social worker and head of Hull House in Chicago; James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania state federation of labor; Major Oliver P. Newman, former president of the board of commissioners of Washington, D. C.; Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska; Rev. Norman Thomas, Presbyterian minister and editor of "The World Tomorrow," and Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts.

It heard many witnesses. It admits that most of these were pro-Irish, but states it endeavored to obtain the British view from responsible officials. It desired to visit Ireland for a first hand view of affairs, but did not press the project when the British embassy here refused to vise passports.

The commission's conclusions were presented as follows:

"We find that the Irish people are deprived of the protection of British law, to which they would be entitled as subjects of the British king. They are likewise deprived of the moral protection granted by international law, to which they would be entitled as belligerents. They are at the mercy of imperial British forces which, acting contrary both to all law and all standards of human conduct, have in-

STATE WILLING FOR LOANING OF ASYLUM FOR U. S. HOSPITAL

ACTION BY LEGISLATURE, HOWEVER, MAY BE REQUIRED TO MAKE PLAN LEGAL.

APPROVAL MATERIALLY HELPS THIS CITY'S CHANCES

Wichitans Secure Favorable Action By Officials—May Be Deciding Factor In Situation.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, March 31.—Governor Neff, members of the state board of control, and Attorney General Cureton are agreeable to the opening of negotiations with the federal government, looking to the loaning of the buildings of the Northwest Texas insane asylum at Wichita Falls for a temporary hospital for ex-service men, said Representative B. F. Johnson of Wichita county Thursday, after a conference with these officials.

He added, however, that it was the belief of these officials that the legislature at the coming special session would have to approve such action. Mr. Johnson expressed himself as being pleased with the situation and he does not anticipate that there will be any difficulty in obtaining the sanction of the lawmakers to the proposition.

Mr. Johnson and J. A. Kemp have been here for the past two days in connection with this proposition.

REGARDED AS IMPROVING WICHITA FALLS' CHANCES

The above news from Austin was looked upon by chamber of commerce officials, Thursday afternoon, as adding to Wichita Falls' chance for landing the $2,500,000 government institution.

It was known here several days ago that if temporary use of the asylum buildings could be offered the government, it would improve Wichita Falls' prospects, and immediately upon receipt of this information from Washington, J. A. Kemp and B. F. Johnson left for Austin to secure official permission to make the offer. Both Governor Neff and the board of control were willing, but referred the Wichitans to Attorney General Cureton to clear up any legal phases. It is understood here that the attorney general has not yet definitely decided that the legislature's permission will be necessary, but every effort will be made to obtain it at the special session.

The offer of the asylum buildings followed an announcement by the medical board which is locating the five hospitals, that the availability of structures for temporary use would be an important factor in determining the sites. It was this fact that prompted Wichita Falls to tender use of the Call Field buildings when the proposition from this city was first submitted.

For obvious reasons, Wichita Falls' activities in this matter were not made public prior to today. Washington dispatches appearing in some state papers Thursday morning, however, indicated that the matter had been made public at Washington. The same dispatches indicated that Fort Worth's representatives are endeavoring in every way to block Wichita Falls. A Fort Worth representative is quoted in the Dallas News of Thursday as saying that the asylum will not be finished for nearly a year, and that there are 1,000 insane awaiting admission to it; neither of these statements is borne out by investigations made by the chamber of commerce.

It is understood that no definite decision can be expected from Washington for several weeks.

Messrs. Kemp and Johnson are expected home Friday morning.

BRECKENRIDGE HAS THIRD DISASTEROUS FIRE IN A MONTH

Breckenridge lost another business block by fire today. This time it was the block west of the Jake Hamon depot bounded by the railroad and Gonzales creek and fronting on Walker street. Three hotels, several cafes, lodging houses, tool houses and check stands were completely destroyed at a loss estimated between $40,000 and $60,000. This is Breckenridge's third disastrous fire in a month.

BRECKENRIDGE HAS FIFTH FIRE IN THREE MONTHS

BRECKENRIDGE, TEXAS, March 31.—Another disastrous fire—the fifth here in three months—swept "shack town," a part of Breckenridge, this morning, destroying seven buildings occupied by business establishments and other property, causing a loss of about $50,000.

The fire started in an apartment at the Ray Hotel from an overheated hot plate.

Buildings destroyed included the Bristol Hotel, the Ray Hotel, the Harvey Cafe, a feed store, a barber shop, a grocery store, a printing establishment and some small cafes. The footbridge across Gonzales Creek was destroyed.

Because of a water shortage, great trouble was experienced in fighting the flames. A million dollar water works is to be completed May 10.

FOURTEEN POLICE ARE MISSING AFTER ATTACK ON BARRACKS

By Associated Press.

CORK, March 31.—An attack made this morning upon the police barracks at Ross Carbery, county Cork, resulted in serious casualties to the occupants of the barracks. Fourteen of the police are missing and it is believed five were killed.

An official report of the affair says the attack was made by civilians at 2:00 o'clock this morning. The front wall of the barracks was blown in by explosives and bombs were thrown into the interior while a heavy rifle fire was maintained on the building.

The police held the barracks until the room in which they were concentrated took fire, when a few escaped by an upper window.

CONFER OVER OPENING OF PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

By Associated Press.

BELFAST, March 31.—Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, was interviewed Tuesday by Sir William Goulding and three other southern Irish unionists with the object, it is understood, of securing the opening of peace negotiations between the Irish republican parliament and the British government.

The interview took place at Dundalk, county Louth.

Sir Goulding is a prominent Irish railway man, a resident of Dublin. He is chairman of the Great Southern and Western railway of Ireland and of the Irish railway clearing house. He was a member of the Irish convention of 1917-1918 and is a former high sheriff of the county of Dublin.

SHOOTS AT WOMAN AND KILLS HIMSELF

Dallas Cook Evidently Believed Her Dead When Victim Falls In a Faint.

DALLAS, TEXAS, March 31.—After shooting at a woman, the bullet passing through her hat and causing her to faint, a man whom police said was Tom L. Dalton, a cook, of Rusk, Texas, shot and killed himself in front of the First Baptist church at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dalton, employed at a local cafe, met the woman, Mrs. Margaret Stewart, employed at the same place, in front of the church and told her he was going to kill her, according to police.

When she fainted, Dalton evidently believed her dead and killed himself. He fell across her, and both were found lying on the sidewalk a moment later.

Mrs. Stewart told police Dalton had previously attempted to persuade her to leave Dallas with him.

OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR CHARGES A FRAME-UP; TAKE UP CASE FRIDAY

HOUSE VOTES TO HEAR REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON THAT DAY.

TWELVE INDICTMENTS CONTAINED IN REPORT

Not a Particle Of Truth In Any Of The Insinuations Says Governor Robertson.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 31.—The Oklahoma house of representatives today voted to take up the report of its special investigating committee, recommending the impeachment of Governor J. B. A. Robertson for alleged corruption in office at 10 a. m. Friday.

GOVERNOR SAYS CHARGES FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 31.—"There is not a particle of truth in any of the insinuations made by the committee. The whole thing is a fabrication, concocted and presented during the closing days of the session for political purposes."

This statement was Governor J. B. A. Robertson's reply hurled at the special house investigating committee, which late yesterday, returned a report recommending the impeachment of the governor. The committee asked that the state's chief executive be impeached because it alleged he wilfully neglected his official duties; he was corrupt in office and that he evaded the income tax laws.

The committee report contained 12 "indictments" against the governor. All were alleged to involve moral turpitude.

The committee report will probably be acted upon Friday or Saturday. Since the committee is composed mostly of republicans and the house is controlled by republicans, it is believed the committee report will be adopted by a safe margin. The governor is a democrat.

NOT EXPECTED VOTE WILL BE REACHED DURING DAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 31.—Although the report of the house investigation committee submitted yesterday in which the impeachment of Gov. J. B. A. Robertson was asked was being printed as rapidly as possible in order to allow the house to vote on its adoption, little hope was expressed that the vote could be cast today. House members said it probably would not be voted on until tomorrow.

Governor Robertson was charged with "gross neglect, corruption in office and unwarranted use of executive power." In a statement issued last night to the Associated Press he denied the allegations of the committee and declared the report was a "fabrication, concocted and presented during the closing days of the legislature for political purposes."

The report accused the governor of receiving money from various private sources in return for misuse of his powers as governor. An instance of alleged fraud is an account in the report of negotiations alleged to have taken place between the governor and John H. Rebold of Okmulgee, vice-president of the Guaranty State Bank of Okmulgee. The report declares the bank was approaching a state of insolvency in the fall of 1920 and that Fred Dennis, state banking commissioner, deposited $150,000 of state money in the bank in an attempt to save it. On the same day, the report charges, Rebold gave Dennis a check for $25,000, of which Dennis later gave the governor one-third. The report alleges the payment was made nominally for an oil lease, but that the lease was in condemned territory and not worth one dollar an acre. It charges that the transaction was in reality a payment for aid to the bank.

The report also charges that the governor in his sworn state income tax return for 1919 listed only his salary of $4,500, whereas he received during the year $16,098.56 additional.

That the Robertson administration has extended clemency to 1,900 persons was another charge contained in the report.

EMERGENCY CATTLE RATES NOT FOR SHIPMENTS FROM TEXAS INTO OKLAHOMA

FORT WORTH, March 31.—The new emergency reduced cattle rates from Texas to northern and northwestern states will not apply to shipments from this state into Oklahoma, railroad officials here announced today. This information was a surprise to cattle raisers officials, they said, and action to amend the rate order is being considered.

JOHNSON PROTESTS MOTOR TRUCK TAX

AUSTIN, TEXAS, March 31.—Representative B. F. Johnson, Wichita county, today filed with Governo Neff a protest against the bill which provides mileage tax on motor trucks, declaring such a tax would penalize hundreds of inland towns which have no railroads and are dependent upon motor trucks for everything they use. The governor has not yet acted on the bill.

FORMER EMPEROR IS REPORTED TO BE MARCHING ON BUDAPEST WITH ARMY OF SEVERAL THOUSAND MEN

BUCHAREST, March 31.—Jugo-Slavia has mobilized 25,000 soldiers on the Hungarian border ready to invade if Carl seizes the throne.

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, March 31.—Confirmation was received in officials quarters here this afternoon that martial law had been declared in West Hungary under the supporters of ex-Emperor Charles. This caused an intensified feeling of gravity in government circles over the situation.

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, March 31.—It is unofficially reported here that Admiral Horthy, the Hungarian regent, has resigned and will let events take their course, but the report is not confirmed.

It also is reported that former Emperor Charles is on the way to Budapest from the frontier and that the army adhering to his cause is on the move.

Further reports are that 100,000 men from the West Hungarian garrisons have rallied to the colors of General Lehar, reputed to be the military leader in a movement from Steinamanger to cause the restoration of Charles. Anxiety was expressed as to whether Admiral Horthy would be able to hold the southern contingents in line.

BUDAPEST, March 31.—Three nations today threatened to make war on Hungary if former Emperor Carl takes the throne.

They demanded his immediate expulsion from the country.

This threat and demand came from Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia.

Simultaneously, with news of their ultimatum, it was reported that Emperor Carl was marching or Budapest with an army of 30,000 men. He had already passed Raab.

PARIS, March 31.—Hungarian troops in West Hungary have joined former Emperor Carl in the establishment of a military dictatorship there, according to a dispatch from Vienna today.

Former Premier Julius Andrassy was said to support Carl and to have sent an ultimatum to Budapest.

The dispatch said General Lehar's troops, supposedly loyal to the government, has joined Carl's adventure. Lehar commands the largest force in West Hungary.

Count Andrassy was dispatched by the government with Premier Telekey to attempt to persuade Carl to leave Hungary. The dispatch indicated he had gone over to the former emperor.

Horthy has sent another mission, headed by Minister Gratz, to negotiate with the former monarch.

PARIS, March 31.—Former Emperor Carl, staking everything in a desperate effort to regain his throne, today seized control of western Hungary, according to a dispatch from Vienna.

The Vienna dispatch, credited to the Volkes-Zeitung, said the army in west Hungary had gone over to Carl and that the populace was rallying to his support.

Carl was reported to have sent an ultimatum to the Hungarian government at Budapest demanding the abdication of Admiral Horthy, the regent. Emissaries sent by Horthy to negotiate with Carl joined the former emperor.

In west Hungary Carl assumed full power under declaration of a military dictatorship, the dispatch said.

Count Andrassy, sent originally to Steinamanger as a government envoy, was reported to have joined the monarchists and to have undertaken negotiations as Carl's spokesman with other Horthy representatives, represented by Minister Grath.

As a result of these negotiations, the Volks-Zeitung said there was a possibility that Horthy would yield control to the former emperor.

Monarchist Sentiment.

In the Steinamanger region there was no doubt of the monarchist sentiment.

Peasants came miles to join in a great procession to honor the former ruler. Portraits of Carl and the Empress Zita were carried alongside Holy Images. Churches and monarchist banners were intermingled above the cheering crowds passing the residence of the Bishop Count Mikes where Carl is stationed.

Count Andrassy appeared on a balcony, the report said, and harangued the excited crowd on behalf of the former monarch. Great cheers greeted

LIEUTENANT CONEY DIES FROM INJURIES

Body Is Removed To Brunswick, Ga., Where Funeral Will Be Held Saturday.

NATCHEZ, MISS., March 31.—The body of Lieut. W. D. Coney, trans-continental flyer, who died late yesterday from injuries received when his plane fell near Crowville, La., last Friday, left here today for Brunswick, Ga., where the funeral will be held Saturday.

Mrs. E. F. Coney of Brunswick, his mother, and other relatives who were with Lieutenant Coney at the time of his death, and Major N. B. Claggett of the fourth aviation corps, under whose command Coney served as an instructor in Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, accompanied the body to Brunswick.

Major Claggett came to Natchez to investigate the accident, but deferred his visit to the scene of the accident to attend the funeral at Brunswick.

EXPRESS MONEY CLERK AT SHREVEPORT SUICIDES

SHREVEPORT, LA., March 31.—Two self-inflicted bullet wounds in the left breast caused the death of Wirt O. Taylor, money clerk for the American Railway Express company, who this morning shot himself while in the company's office at the union depot. Taylor's accounts are reported in good condition. His only statement following the shooting was: 'I couldn't bear it any longer; I did it myself." Taylor leaves a wife and young daughter.

Wirt O. Taylor, who today committed suicide, came to Shreveport from Kansas City about February 1. He belonged to the Elks lodge of El Paso, Texas. His accounts as local money clerk of the express company balanced to a cent, as shown by examination of his books by company officials.

TELEGRAM RECEIVED SAYS "ALL IS WELL"

GENEVA, March 31.—"All is well," read a telegram received last night by former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary from ex-Emperor Charles.

The message was dispatched from Steinamanger, on the frontier between Austria and Hungary, where the presence of the former ruler was last reported.

RELEASE THE TWO AMERICANS HELD IN THE BERGDOLL CASE

WASHINGTON, March 31. — The Americans imprisoned in Germany for the recent attempted capture of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wealthy draft evader, have been released, Secretary of War Weeks was advised today.

The two Americans are Sergeant Frank Zimmer and Carl Neuf, a department of justice operative, both of whom were attached to the A. E. F. in Germany.

Weeks also made public the following cablegram from Major General Henry T. Allen, commanding officer of the A. E. F. on the Rhine:

"Informed at noon today by the German commissioner here (probably meaning Coblenz), who has been in telephone communication with the Berlin foreign office that the discharge of the two prisoners has been directed. The sentences have been remitted pending good behavior. The men probably will reach Coblenz tomorrow."

The release of the two Americ follows closely upon representati a virtual demand made recenti General Allen to the German go ment for the surrender of the men. That the United States, thro General Allen, had called on Germa to release the Americans, was a nounced exclusively by the Unite Press.

Weeks had nothing to say regarding the efforts being made by the United States to obtain Bergdoll from Germany.

Neuf and Zimmer were recently sentenced to jail terms at Mosbach, Baden, Germany. Neuf was given 15 months and Zimmer six months because of their attempt to capture Bergdoll, in which it was charged the Americans exceeded their authority. Neuf's longer sentence was because a bullet he had fired at Bergdoll struck a girl bystander.

ANOTHER IS ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH ROBBERY AT DALLAS

DALLAS, TEXAS, March 31.—Another alleged member of the bandit gang which robbed the Jackson street postoffice in Dallas last January has been captured in Forest City, Ark., according to a telegram received here today.

The telegram, signed by Deputy Sheriff W. L. Lacefield, read:

"Have self-confessed man in connection with Jackson street robbery. Send inspector."

Federal officials will leave for Forest City immediately it was announced.

Albert L. Rowan, alleged "master mind;" W. G. Scrivner, confessed participant, and Ben Luna, ex-bartender, were convicted in federal court shortly after the robbery which resulted in two deaths and two men injured. Three men are alleged to have participate

WILDCAT SHOWINGS FEATURE OF WEEK'S OIL DEVELOPMENTS

West of Sapulpa, in Creek county, Oklahoma, a test remote from development topped the sand and began flowing 500 barrels daily, later drilling itself in and increasing its flow to 2,000 to 3,000 barrels estimated, says the National Petroleum News. This is in distinctly undeveloped territory and seems on the strength of its initial showing to open a new pool of some importance. Two completions in the Osage Hill territory, west of Beggs, Okmulgee county, near a well recently completed which extended the producing area, promise good production there.

Kansas, for the first time in many weeks, returned feature completions. One of these was a well in the Florence field which found a "freak" sand at a level considerably higher than the average for that field and flowed at the rate of 1,000 barrels daily for a time, afterward ceasing to flow.

Panhandle Test Showing for Oil.

The chief event in the wildcat operations in Texas was the showing of oil in a test in Carson county, 13 miles north of the town of Amarillo, at a depth of 2,975 feet. From this level, oil filled up more than 100 feet from the bottom of the hole. This test is in the territory which has developed into a big gas field within the past two years and is the most important oil showing thus far encountered. Most of the gas wells have yielded big flows of dry gas, with a few showing gas containing some gasoline vapor. One test previously showed a small amount of oil. The gas field is undefined and in its present stage of development extends about 30 miles east and west and 20 miles north and south.

West Virginia Test Finds Oil.

For the first time in months an eastern test has indicated the probability of a new pool. In Wayne county, in the extreme southwestern part of West Virginia, a recent completion several miles from production made 35 barrels in the big lime formation. Wayne county has produced only a small amount of oil and in the past few years has had little test drilling.

Reports on a test near McMinnville, Warren county, Tennessee, in the middle eastern part of the state, are that it made a 10-barrel producer after a shot at 745 feet. This is in territory never exploited before.

MANY LETTERS RECEIVED IN KING-WEAVER CONTEST ABOUT BUYING MACHINES

That "hubby" is not the only member of the family having a good reason for wanting an automobile, and that even those who claim not to want one are going to hear from mama if that little car isn't forthcoming, is being proven by the number of excellently written letters now being received by the King & Weaver Automobile Co., local Nash distributors. This concern is offering $15 in cash to the woman of Wichita Falls or Wichita county writing the best letter on either of the two subjects, "Why I Want My Husband to Buy a Car," and "Why I Want My Husband to Sell Our Old Car and Buy a New One."

That friend wife is not disposed to be extravagant, but in most cases is willing to rock along somehow with the old boat, when she has one, but that when she hasn't one she's in downright earnest about wanting hubby to buy a car muy pronto, is attested by the fact that most of the letters are on the first question.

One of the best letters on file is from a little lady who admits that she isn't married at all, but IF she had a husband she would want him to buy a car for the following reasons, etc., etc. Inasmuch as the contest is open to "any woman in Wichita Falls or Wichita County," this lady is considered in the running for the money. The fact that she hasn't a husband is her fortune or misfortune, as the case may be. The contest closes at midnight, April 12.

SIR ROBERT HORNE TAKES PLACE OF CHAMBERLAIN AS CHANCELLOR OF EXCHEQUER

LONDON, March 31.—Sir Robert Horne, president of the Board of Trade, today succeeded to Austen Chamberlain's place in the British cabinet as chancellor of the exchequer.

Horne is replaced in his former position by Stanley Baldwin, financial secretary of the treasury.

The important change in the cabinet was made at a crucial point in wage negotiations with the mine workers of Great Britain.

Horne was in direct charge of the conferences which threatened to result in a strike by miners—possibly the most serious labor trouble ever confronting the empire. The miners threatened not only to cease work but to withdraw from the mines the "safety workers" whose duty it was to see that machinery was kept in condition and the levels free from water.

There was a possibility that some of the mines never could be worked again.

The miners not only object to the cut in wages but declare they should be paid increases from government funds. Their leaders admitted the collieries could not operate at a profit if wages advanced.

GOVERNOR VETOES BILL MAKING EXEMPTIONS IN THE FIRE ESCAPE LAW

AUSTIN, March 31.—Governor Neff vetoed two bills this morning, one which sought to amend the present fire escape law so that the law would not apply to grain elevators and manufacturing and industrial plants when such buildings were constructed of fireproof material, the other proposing to allow county commissioners to appoint persons to administer hog cholera virus.

EIGHT-HOUR AMENDMENT ...LED UNSIGNED BY NEFF; PERMITS A LONGER DAY

AUSTIN, March 31.—The bill amending the present eight hour labor law so as to permit employers and employes in contracts between the state and political sub-divisions of the state to contract as to the hours of labor to be performed per day was filed unsigned by the governor. The bill merely allows laborers to work any number of hours they might choose provided a contract is made with the employer and that eight hours shall constitute a working day.

ILLITERACY IN THE NATION DECREASING

Fact Is Shown By The Census From First Three States That Are Tabulated.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Illiteracy is decreasing in the nation, according to census bureau returns today from the first three states in which the 1920 enumeration has been worked out on the subject.

In Alabama, where the percentage of illiteracy was found to be 22.9 of the total population over 10 years of age in 1910, the 1920 percentage was 16.1.

In Arkansas the percentage dropped from 12.6 in 1910 to 9.4 in 1920 and in Delaware from 8.1 in 1910 to 5.9 in 1920.

In all three states the percentage of illiteracy in the rural districts was somewhat greater than in the cities. In Alabama 17.3 per cent of rural residents were found to be illiterate, and 10.4 per cent in cities; in Arkansas 13.6 per cent of the rural population and 6.5 per cent of urban; in Delaware 6.1 per cent for rural districts and 5.7 per cent for urban.

In both southern states a higher average of illiterates was found in the negro population than in the white, although the proportion of illiterates likewise declined among the negroes between 1910 and 1920. In Alabama 31.3 per cent of negroes were found illiterate while 6.4 per cent of whites of native parentage were illiterate, while in Arkansas 21.5 per cent of negroes were illiterates and but 4.6 per cent of whites of native parentage were included. In Delaware 17.3 per cent of foreign born white persons over ten were found illiterate and only two per cent of native whites of native parentage were so classed.

NATIONAL UNION OF MANAGERS AGAINST UNION OF EMPLOYES

CHICAGO, March 31.—"National union of management against local union of employes," would be the result of abrogation of the national agreements between railroads and workers, according to Bert M. Jewell, president of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor today.

Jewell told the United States railroad labor board there are certain rules on working conditions purely local in application which should be negotiated between workers and the individual roads.

"The national agreements contemplate such negotiation," Sewell declared.

Rail executives have asked that national agreements be abrogated.

GREAT ASSEMBLAGE ATTENDS FUNERAL

It was an impressive spectable. Regular clergy in the colors of their respective orders headed the line and beside them the secular clergy, followed by the monsignori, Cardinals O'Connell and Begin, and Archbishop John Bonzano, apostolic delegate and celebrant of the mass. All the higher church dignitaries wore mourning color of purple.

Body in Cathedral.

Inside the cathedral under the gilded dome at the foot of the center aisle, lay the body of James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore. He rested on a purple covered catafalque, dressed in his archbishop's robes, wearing on his head his archbishop's mitre and on one finger the ring that so many thousands had kissed during his life. The rays of tall white candles lighted his benign features. At the foot of the bier was the cardinal's hat of red.

It was obvious that only a small part of the thousands who sought entry to the cathedral would be able to pass under the great portico. Most of the space was allotted to the clergy and admittance was by ticket only.

But this did not shake the great army of mourners in their hope of attending the mass, or at least, gather around the great stone pile, of catching the strains of church music that might be wafted to them. Disappointment staring them in the face, they stood their ground with the same determination that had been displayed by the tens of thousands who yesterday pressed their way into the edifice to view the body of their devoted leader.

People Stand in Lines.

As varied as the flock to which the cardinal had ministered in life was the flock that sought to minister to him in death. Men, women, the little children he loved, stood in lines surrounding the cathedral. Some had come in motors, some had travelled by street car, some had trudged long distances, but all had come for the same purpose, to show reverence to the man they had loved.

Today really held two ceremonies. One was the great church assemblage at mass. The other was the simple burial service in the crypt of white marble under the cathedral sanctuary—the relatives and close friends taking leave of one very dear to them.

Cardinal Gibbons is the seventh soldier of the church to be buried in this vault. The last time the crypt was opened was in 1872, when Archbishop Spalding was buried there.

JUDGE SORRY HE COULDN'T ASSESS A HEAVIER FINE

CHICAGO, March 31.—Dr. Frank A. Goodwin, patent medicine manufacturer, today was found guilty of mislabeling medicines and fined $200 and costs by Judge Landis.

Dr. Goodwin has offices and laboratories in Oklahoma City, Peoria, Ill., Chicago and other cities.

Dr. Goodwin was charged with mislabeling "Black's Diamond Oil." He admitted to Landis that the medicine did not cure all the ailments mentioned on the label but said it aided circulation of the blood.

"I'm sorry I can't give you more punishment," said Judge Landis. "You have been preying on the poor and sick with your fake medicine."

HUNGARIAN TROOPS JOIN EMPEROR CARL

his assertions that conditions were far better when the Hapsburgs were in power than they are now.

Carl late yesterday drove to the wedding of a former lady in waiting to the empress. He was wildly applauded.

Carl's military supporters were said to have offered their troops for an advance on Budapest. The former ruler declined the offers.

"I oppose bloodshed," he was reported to have told them. "It must be avoided at any cost."

The military forces in west Hungary are regarded as the most powerful in the nation. General Lehar was reported to have full control over them and his adherence to the former monarch insured him sufficient support to withstand any government action.

MILITARY DICTATORSHIP IS DECLARED IN WEST HUNGARY

VIENNA, March 31.—A military dictatorship was reported declared today in West Hungary. The former Emperor Carl is at Steinamanger in West Hungary.

Military forces there are under command of General Lehar, who was said to have rejected Carls' plea for supporting him in an attempt to regain the throne.

Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, yesterday sent Count Stephien B. Lethen to Steinamanger as envoy plenipotentiary. The count had a large force at his disposal to prevent a monarchist uprising.

The dispatch does not indicate who assumed the dictatorship. It was believed that General Lehar, in command of troops in West Hungary had taken charge of affairs since he has sworn to uphold Regent Horthy. There was a possibility, however, that Carl had secured the support of sufficient troops to control the region. Dispatches were fragmentary, indicating a censorship.

The former emperor is detained at the residence of Bishop Count Mikes, the latter now under arrest on charges of supporting a plot for Carls' enthronement. At the war office it was stated that Carl virtually is a prisoner. General Belitska, minister of war, declared the entire army would support the regent.

Vienna authorities said the greater part of the military and most of the peasants were opposed to Carl's return.

Carl was to be visited by high officials today who were to attempt to persuade him to leave the country. Advices said Swiss authorities were indignant that Carl should break his word and flee from his asylum there. They were expected to oppose his return.

Invitations were received from Spain, however, and unless Carl should receive the support of power of the military forces, it was expected that he would be conducted to the Spanish border.

HASTY CONFERENCES HELD THROUGHOUT THE CONTINENT

LONDON, March 31.—The "Hapsburg peril" was reflected in all Europe today. Throughout the continent there were hasty conferences on the attempt of former Emperor Carl to return to the Hungarian throne.

Military actions by outside nations were a possibility.

Carl's success, it was believed, would be the signal for the wholesale release of noble exiles from Switzerland—perhaps even a return of a Hohenzollern to Germany which is now in turmoil.

King Constantine's successful appeal to his people was believed to have brought about Carl's spectacular effort to reinstate himself.

Evidence here was that Carl was keenly disappointed that his return to Hungary had not resulted in an instantaneous uprising by his people.

Even after private conferences with monarchist leaders had shown that the time was not ripe for his return, he persisted.

His first effort was to obtain the support of General Baron Lehar, commander of the West Hungarian forces.

"I have sworn allegiance to the Horthy government," the baron replied. "I must keep my oath as a soldier."

Carl then arranged a conference with Admiral Horthy himself.

Horthy was respectful but firm. Carl, with an assumption of his old authority told the new ruler that the choice for him lay between his king and the nation.

"I choose the nation," Horthy replied.

"Only the parliament can decide whether Hungary is again to be a monarchy."

An indication of the excitement created by Carl's adventure was the immediate action of Premier Giolitti of Italy in calling his cabinet together. The session considered the Hungarian situation.

Italy is bound by agreement with Czecho-Slovakia and others of the "little entente" and would be expected to aid any military move deemed necessary to protect the former Hapsburg territories.

Other mid-European nations were expected to prepare today to meet the ever changing situation in Austria-Hungary.

Carl now is stationed at Steinamanger, situated on the boundary line between Austria and Hungary. His position was such that a military move can be made in either direction.

MONARCHISTS ADMIT A RESTORATION IS IMPOSSIBLE

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, March 31.—Republicans in this city exultantly declare that the visit of former Emperor Charles to Budapest and the fiasco attending his attempt to regain power, has dashed whatever chance may have been expected for the restoration of the monarchy, either in Hungary or Austria. Monarchists reluctantly admit that a restoration seems impossible.

This is not only due to the disappointment which naturally follows failure, but as the details leak out there is a touch of the absurd attaching to the whole adventure which has reacted sharply against the former emperor. It has also depressed the legitimatists, who, while not desiring Charles to return, hoped for the future restoration of the Hapsburgs in the person of his son. The dramatic declaration of Charles to his friends here Friday that he would never leave Hungary alive, was repeated in Budapest when Admiral Horthy, the regent of Hungary, remonstrated against his presence in that country, yet Premier Teleky found him a few hours later fleeing toward the border and taking refuge in the palace of Bishop Mikes in Steinamanger, later praying that he be given shelter.

SAYS GERMAN MONARCHISTS ARE BEHIND HUNGARIAN PLOT

By J. W. T. MASON.
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, March 31.—German monarchists are behind the plot to restore former King Carl to the Hungarian throne, as the forerunner of the restoration of the Hohenzollerns in Germany.

Hohenzollern loyalists in Berlin have been in touch with Hungarian monarchists for some time and there is every reason to believe they have made preparation to finance a coup d'etat by the Hapsburgs.

There has been a revival of monarchistic feeling in Europe ever since the Greek people voted to recall King Constantine to his throne. Germans especially have been planning to encourage this reactionary development from the time Constantine arrived in Athens.

The Hohenzollern chiefs, however, are compelled to move warily because they know any direct action by them would be successfully opposed by the allies. For this reason they began several months ago to accomplish their purpose through indirect means. They began inspiring the Hungarian monarchists, and it is through German encouragement that Carl, who is temperamentally timid, was persuaded to break his parole given to the Swiss government and leave Switzerland to claim his throne.

If Carl succeeds the German monarchists will have scored an important victory which will lead directly to an attempt to overthrow the German republic and make a Hohenzollern ruler of Germany.

Militarism will then become rampant in Germany and another European war will be a certainty of the future.

GOVERNOR TO ACT ON A. & M. BILL SOMETIME FRIDAY

AUSTIN, March 31.—Governor Neff today signed the bill extending the life of the commission of appeals of the supreme court and will during the day dispose of all bills except the West Texas A. & M. college measure, the bill appropriating $3,000,000 to supplement the available school fund, the $4,000,000 rural school aid bill and possibly the Corpus Christi tax remission measure.

He announced he will hold all these until tomorrow, the time in which he has to act, expiring tomorrow night.

The following bills were approved and filed:

Providing for organization of international trade corporations under Texas laws; appropriating $10,000 to supplement a like subscription for purchase of the Aitken collection for the Wrenn library, Texas university; raising standards of teachers' certificates in Texas; regulating the Lloyds plan insurance business; validating Spanish land grant title at Laredo; dispensing with requirements that teachers make affidavits to secure salary checks.

Bills filed without the governor's approval:

Enabling act for the conservation and reclamation amendment adopted to the constitution in 1917; allowing jail guards and matrons $3.50 a day minus board; providing separate property of a husband shall not be subject to the torts of the wife and vica versa, and applying the compulsory school attendance law to the deaf and blind.

Rattlesnake Causes Trick He Couldn't Perform in Army

SAN ANTONIO, March 31.—A Texas diamond black rattlesnake has accomplished what German drill sergeants failed to do in four years. Julius Baujscheidt, a farmer living near this city, was seated on a stool milking a cow last night when a negro farm hand yelled at him to look between his feet. Baujscheidt obeyed and saw the big rattler.

"I was in the German army four years," he said, telling about what happened next. "There was one trick they tried to teach me, but I simply couldn't learn it. It was to sit on a stool, throw my feet back over my head and land on them. When I saw that snake I did that trick for the first time in my life."

RAILWAY SOLUTION WITH I. C. C. AND RAIL LABOR BOARD

SUCH DECISION IS ANNOUNCED AT WHITE HOUSE FOLLOWING CONFERENCE.

NO DIRECT ACTION IS PLANNED BY GOVERNMENT

Not Purpose Of President To Go Over The Heads Of Anybody In Executive Authority.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—President Harding will leave any immediate steps in dealing with the railroad situation to the interstate commerce commission and the railway labor board, it was announced at the white house today, following a two-hour conference between the executive and Chairman E. E. Clark of the interstate commerce commission, and R. R. Barton, of the railway labor board.

It was denied at the white house that Harding contemplates taking any action directly and it was insisted that any measures taken will be through the hands of the proper executive agency.

"It is not the president's purpose to go over the heads of anybody in executive authority," it was said at the white house.

No further conferences with the railroad executives or labor representatives has been arranged by Harding, it was stated officially.

CONFERENCE TO EVOLVE PLAN FOR AIDING THE RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, March 31.—President Harding today began conferences from which he expects to evolve a plan for aiding the railroads, a problem he regards as the most serious he has to consider.

The president conferred with Chairman Clark of the interstate commerce commission and Judge R. M. Barton, head of the railroad labor board who was called to Washington by Harding.

Both the interstate commerce commission and labor board are judicial bodies and therefore not subject to the direction of the president, but he expects to get from the two chairmen definite ideas as to:

1.—How to reduce railroad operating costs and whether wages of the employes can be reduced.

2.—Whether rates can be reduced in case operating costs come down.

At the start of the conference Harding was understood to have told both chairmen he considers the prosperity of the railroads as the basis of the prosperity of the whole industrial world and that he believes something should be done to get them back on their feet.

The information Harding secures today will be laid before his cabinet tomorrow. With what Harding secures from cabinet members the data will be the basis for railroad recommendations to be made in his message to the special session of congress.

DECLARES DECISION WORST DOCUMENT OF FORCE EVER WRITTEN

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., March 31.—In making formal announcement that the United Mine Workers of America had renewed their fight in the Alabama coal fields to get back places for union men, Van A. Bittner, international representative, said today that Governor Kilby's award in the recent strike settlement "virtually advised the coal operators to destroy the miners' organization by the worst weapon of forces known to humanity—starvation."

The statement repeated what Mr. Bittner was quoted as saying in a speech at Bloton yesterday, that "in our opinion the coal operators wrote the governor's decision" and added "the whole trouble in Alabama now is that the governor doesn t desire to be made responsible for his decision which gives the operators the right to starve 48,000 men, women and children because they were fighting for better conditions in and around the mines."

The statement says that union men have been advised to use only persuasive methods within the law to dislodge non-union miners.

The governor's award is characterized in the statement as "the worst document advising force that was ever written."

Surgery Loses in Fight on Crime In Houston Case

HOUSTON, March 31.—Surgery lost a point today in its fight against crime, while county officials lost another point in their effort to apply theory to practice.

Six weeks ago an operation was ordered for a 14 year old delinquent boy who had a mania for small thievery. Officials desired to try the experiment of an operation. Physicians heartily concurred.

The operation was attended by a score of important doctors and was declared a success. Only—the lad was in jail again today with a $30 watch which he had neither purchased nor received as a gift.

JUDGE LINDSEY MAY PAY HIS FINE FOR CONTEMPT

DENVER, March 31.—Judge Ben Lindsey may pay his $500 fine for contempt of court rather than go to jail, he intimated today.

The judge, who was found guilty of contempt when he refused to divulge the confidence bestowed in him by a boy, said today:

"I have never said that I would not do whatever the law said I should do in the case. I did not say I would not pay the $500 fine, but said I would rather serve in jail than pay the fine."

The judge's final arraignment will be Saturday. He refused further comment.

The troubles of the judge grew out of the case of 16-year-old Neal Wright, whose mother was acquitted of the murder of her husband, Frank Wright, five years ago. After talking with the boy the judge said he and the boy knew who killed the husband.

Refusal to give further information led to the charges.

City Officials Seek Site for Incinerator; Wait Is Expensive

Wanted—A place to erect a new, modern, up-to-date garbage incinerator.

Any one having information relative to the subject please communicate with Dr. A. H. Douglas at the sanitary department laboratory in the city hall. Phone 5015.

Wichita Falls, according to Dr. Douglas, has the component parts of a $20,000 incinerator plant and a crew of experts who are anxious to get busy on the erection, but the site originally selected has been assailed from all sides by citizens living in the vicinity of Oak and Front streets, with the result that the aforementioned parts and crew are standing idly by, doing nothing and costing a lot.

Four carloads of material for the new plant are now in the local railroad yards, but the health department officials have not ordered them unloaded until it is seen whether another site can be found which will be more agreeable. Protests have been made by a number of property owners near the Oak and Front street plot that the erection of the incinerator would cause real estate to depreciate in value, and unless a more suitable place can be found the incinerator will not be built there.

Health officials have one or two tentative points in mind, but are not ready to announce these as yet.

QUALIFYING ROUND IN GOLF TOURNAMENT TO START SATURDAY

Local golfers who intend to participate in the coming tournament to be played for the magnificent loving cup being offered are requested to be on hand to play their qualifying round Saturday afternoon.

The best 32 scores will then play match play the following week, according to their handicaps, but the handicaps will not have anythihg to do with their qualifying score.

The loving cup is designated as a three-year cup, it being necessary that the winner win three consecutive years before being sole owner of the trophy.

There will be open house at the club Saturday night and music will be furnished by a seven piece orchestra. The putting green in front of the club house is now ready for use and it is assured that much enjoyment will be derived from Saturday night's entertainment.

Declares Rainbow After the Deluge Was Not Rainbow

BALTIMORE, March 31.—The rainbow after the deluge, described in the Book of Genesis, IX 13, was not a rainbow after all, but a collection of great fly brushes of the ancient Oriental gods, declares Prof. Paul Haupt of Johns Hopkins university. Announcement of his discovery was made yesterday by Dr. Haupt at Goucher College at a session of the American Oriental society, which is holding its 133rd annual conclave in this city.

The mistake in Genesis, said Prof. Haupt, probably is due to a misunderstanding of a character on one of the old cuneoform tablets. The word for "bow" could very easily be mistaken for "fly brush," he said. These huge feather brushes were in vogue among the old rulers in Assyria and Egypt, and were regarded as ancient symbols of sovereignty in the Orient.

According to Dr. Haupt, "the ancients naturally gave their gods credit for having fly brushes, and in fact, in line 164 of the flood tablet the word "fly brush" appears as big as life. The passage says that "when Ishtar sees the gods gather around the offerer like a swarm of flies (because there had been no offerings during the flood), she is so incensed that she takes the great fly brushes of her father Anu (king of the gods), to drive away the gods."

CHANGE IN PERSONNEL OF DRY ENFORCEMENT UNIT PLAN OF ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Changes in the personnel of the prohibition enforcement unit will be made by the Harding administration and a reorganization of it may be asked of congress, it was learned today.

Outside of these two changes—the first a practical certainty and the other still uncertain—no drastic changes affecting prohibition are a part of any official plans. Enforcement efforts will continue; there will be no lifting of the lid, but neither are any large increases in enforcement personnel and recommendations for drastic amendment to put more teeth in the Volstead act likely.

Since prohibition enforcement appointments are political, changes in personnel will naturally follow the change in administration.

The reorganization proposal, if decided upon, will be part of the much discussed plan to put all investigating or "sleuthing" agencies of the federal government under one head responsible to Attorney General Daugherty. Prohibition enforcement is one of these agencies and is now under the jurisdiction of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

Daugherty is known to have been quietly looking into the prohibition enforcement problem.

RECALL ELECTION PRESENT PROGRAM IN NORTH DAKOTA

DEVILS LAKE, N. D., March 31.—A recall election aimed at the non-partisan league state administration was practically assured today.

A big majority of delegates to the state convention of the Independent Voters' Association favor such a move. Speakers who urged recall of non-partisan league officials were loudly cheered.

Most of the delegates seemed to favor a recall election in November. Some of the more enthusiastic fought for a recall in June.

Secretary T. G. Nelson declared there must be an organization as complete and efficient as the non-partisan league to defeat it.

FIREMEN FIGHT AMONG CLOUDS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 31.—Firemen fought among the clouds for more than an hour early today before subduing a dangerous blaze on the thirty-first floor of the towering Equitable building in the heart of the downtown district. It was one of the highest fires the firemen have ever been called upon to fight.

The blaze started in a broker's office and clouds of smoke poured through the upper stories and elevator shafts of the massive structure. The fire was under control before the building's 15,000 business inhabitants arrived.

At the earth's surface the earth's heat emanates at practically the same temperature as the surroundings.

CHARGES ESSENTIAL WORKERS ARE DISCHARGED TO CREATE SPECTRE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

CHICAGO, March 31.—Discharge of essential workers to create a "spectre of unemployment" was charged against officials of the St. Louis and Southwestern railway before the United States railroad labor board today by J. C. Smock, representing the employes.

The railroad was alleged to have "violated provisions of the transportation act and decision number two of the railroad board," by unauthorized reduction of wages and changing working conditions.

"Those who control the railroads of the country have entered into a deliberate conspiracy against the public interest and against labor organizations,' Smock told the board.

Smock charged the railroad had refused to go into conference with the men on wages and working conditions.

The transportatioin act provides that changes in wages and working conditions shall be considered by a conference of management and employes. If the conference fails to agree no change is legal until passed upon by the railroad board.

City Mission Federation to Finance Day Nursery; Supervisory Committee Named—Mrs. Wm. Danforth, Chairman

The Wichita Falls Day Nursery has been financially "adopted" by the Wichita Falls Federated Missions Society, following a decision reached by that organization in regular quarterly session Wednesday afternoon.

The Federation proposes to finance the Nursery, which is operated at a cost of $5,000 a year, and to supervise its business management, heretofore under the direction of the Welfare Council of the chamber of commerce. To this end a supervisory and a finance committee were appointed at the Wednesday meeting as follows:

Supervisory—Mrs. William Danforth, superintendent; Mesdames J. L. Maxwell, Francis Jackson, J. J. Perkins, and J. A. Kemp.

Finance—Mrs. R. J. Goodale, Mrs. Frank Kell, and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd.

The finance committee, facing a balance of only $178.55 in the Nursery treasury against a monthly running expense of $400, completed arrangements Wednesday afternoon for a Day Nursery Tag Day, Saturday, April 2, with the proceeds of which they expect to run the nursery for several months. Mrs. C. B. Jetter was named chairman of arrangements, and was given instructions to appoint her own helpers for Saturday.

Officers Are Elected.

Officers for the coming year were elected by the Federation during the afternoon business session, the slate submitted by the nominating committee of which Mrs. R. E. Shepherd is chairman, being unanimously approved. The new official family, which will be "inaugurated" at the May session, is as follows:

President—Mrs. C. W. Snider, First M. E. church, south.

First vice-president—Mrs. Wiley Robertson, First Baptist church.

Second vice-president—Mrs. T. S. Pittenger, First M. E. church.

Third vice-president—Mrs. A. O. Scharff, First Christian church.

Recording secretary—Mrs. H. M. Larkum, Church of the Sacred Heart.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. A. A. Horwitz, Temple Israel.

Treasurer—Mrs. J. H. Martin, Lamar Street Baptist.

Mrs. John C. Kay was re-elected press reporter, Mrs. E. S. Goodner, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. Bernard Martin chairman of the credentials committee. Assisting Mrs. Goodner will be: Mesdames S. W. Sibley of the Church of Good Shepherd, Louis Fink of Temple Israel, R. H. Lyle of the First M. E. church, south, and H. S. Davis of the Church of the Sacred Heart. Assisting Mrs. Martin will be Mesdames S. E. Trevathan of the Floral Heights M. E. church, Mrs. G. B. Fuller of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Mrs. T. T. T. Reese of the First Christian church, and Mrs. N. H. Martin of the First M. E. church, south.

The Program.

The quarterly meeting was called to order by Mrs. J. A. Kemp, president of the Federation, following which the members sang, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," and Mrs. Wiley Robertson led a short devotional service.

Luncheon was served following the short morning business session, during which routine business was attended to, by the women of the First M. E. church, Seventh and Lamar, where the meeting was held. Plates were prepared for 114 women, with a menu of pressed chicken, escalloped potatoes, tomato salad, ice cream, cake, and other delicacies.

The afternoon session as opened with a violin solo, Schubert's Ave Maria, by Miss Vivian Railey, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. S. Goodner. Devotionals were led by Mrs. J. Lem Keevil.

The matter of settling for the luncheons served at the quarterly all-day meetings was discussed, and it was decided that membership cards in the Federation would be issued upon payment of annual dues of $1, through the president of each church society, and the membership cards be used for the luncheon.

A campaign for new members of the Federation was discussed, and it was decided to launch an extensive one at an early date.

The chief discussion of the day was devoted to the Day Nursery problem, and how to meet the running expenses.

It was the general sentiment of the meeting that the Day Nursery is one of the best and most successful ventures in social service in operation in the city, and that the question is not whether it will be continued, but how to raise the money for its continuation. Plans to meet this present need were made as stated.

Before listening to the report of the nominating committee, the members enjoyed three Chopin piano numbers played by Mrs. D. L. Fritz—Prelude One, Prelude Three, and an Etude.

Following the action on the committee's report Mesdames W. M. Priddy and C. Y. Tully sang "Whispering Hope," Hawthorne's arrangement.

The Federation regretted very much that "Ma" Burdick, on the program for a short talk, was unable to be present. Mrs. Stevens, another member, discussed the importance of homemaking and the better preparation of young men and women for such work.

The membership voted thanks to the retiring officers for their services, and also to the ladies of the church for their splendid entertainment, after which the meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

The May meeting is to be held with the Central Presbyterian Mission society at that church.

MOTHERS SPECIALLY INVITED TO GENERAL SCOUT MEETING

Mothers are especially invited to the scout meeting at the First Baptist church Friday evening, according to Captain D. M. Perkins and Scoutmaster Taylor.

The meeting is the regular monthly gathering of the scouts, to which the parents of the boys are always invited. All troops in the city are expected to attend, and the special invitation to mothers is hoped to bring out a large gathering. The meeting will be in the basement of the church. A short meeting of the Court of Honor, general inspection of all troops, and talks by Judge Carrigan and J. C. Mytinger will comprise the program.

By Way of the Transom

By L. M. D.

"Maybe she needs a skylight built in her house," the Goop suggested.

"Good night! She's got a thousand windows in it; what in the world would she do with a skylight?" I said.

"I dunno; if she doesn't get the right kind of light through her wondows, a skylight might fix it. You never can tell what an improvement the addition of some little thing like that can make in a place," he murmured apologetically.

When I thought about it, on behalf of my own self as well as "builders" in general, it seemed to me that a skylight here and there might not interfere with the architectural beauty of a great many of our dwelling places. There are patches of blue sky and sunshine to be seen through the skylight in the daytime which may never be visioned through some of our windows. And there are sections of the star-path of the Milky Way which one may only observe by the direct upward glance. Then what does it profit us to have a thousand windows if we have built no skylight?

Over there is a house and a tree and a telephone pole; also a vacant lot, some dogs and chickens, a gutter, two autos and a street light pole.

Over here, through the double windows, is a long line of houses, an avenue of trees, a thoroughfare of passing cars, a medley of life and the skyline.

Over yonder, through the east window, is a fine view of the garage, the back of two neighboring houses and one chicken coop, a servant's house, a scattering of fruit trees and the sky line through the trees.

But the sky lines touch earth—quite unmistakably.

And the sky lines through most of our ordinary windows touch earth. We build up an excellent technical education, by which we are able to measure quite a number of material values, and through the open avenues of which we are able to make considerable progress. A technical education is an excellent window—a north exposure, one might call it—facing the white light.

And we build up our social standing, using the drawing cards of personality, position, money, sometimes, and educational connection to fill a winning hand. Completing another opening into the daylight, facing the south.

The threads of accepted morality, good conduct, courtesy, fairness and fundamental good sense we weave into the warp of our character, opening a window into the east, facing the morning.

And they are all good windows; windows without which we would progress but a short distance, and without any one of which we would be sadly handicapped.

But they all touch earth, too; just as the skyline views from the house. And there is only one other possible opening—the roof.

"A skylight might fix it," the Goop had said. Through the skylight smiles the eternal, beckoning blue of the heavens, and shines the steady brilliance of the stars. There is no earth to touch.

We can't get away from the things of the spirit, and we can't substitute them. Not all of the windows in the world will admit the light and the air we get through the skylight. The light of the north is almost a purity; the fragrant breeze from the south is a gratification; the window facing the morning is the path of advancement. But we can't get away from the opening in the roof. It is indispensable.

If all of the windows in your house still fail to furnish enough light to bring the contentment of peace into it, maybe you've forgotten the skylight. "You never can tell what an improvement—"

FIRST OPEN HOUSE AT COUNTRY CLUB SINCE LENTEN SEASON BEGAN

The first open house at the Golf and Country Club since the beginning of the Lenten period is announced for Saturday night of this week.

Special orchestra music is to be a feature of the entertainment, and the hostesses are planning bridge, "500" and "42" sets for the guests who do not care to dance. The hostesses will include Mesdames E. H. Hampshire, R. O. Harvey, W. B. Hamilton, Leslie Humphrey, Luther Hoffman, W. W. Gardner, H. S. Haynes, T. A. Hunter and H. L. Hunter. Members and their wives are all invited to be present.

Interest in Tournament.

The women of the club are very much interested in the golf tournament which is to be played off in May, and a number of them are going out for daily practice on the links and the putting green. Wednesday Mrs. H. F. Weldon was hostess and served tea to Mesdames W. W. Silk, Hampshire, John Paskins, Van Wormer, Fred Couper, Eby of Dakota, and Bryan of Boston, all of whom played.

VOICES.

By KATE RANDLE MENEFEE

Strange, fairy voices float about
When twilight shadows fall;
They whisper in the mulberry
And down the winding hall.

The tops and marbles lie in wait,
The dolls sit open-eyed,
The rocking horse sways back and forth
All ready for a ride.

And yet no boyish face appears,
No braids, full dark and long—
'Tis just the wind, returning with
The children's laugh and song.

HER COLOR SCHEME.

A Salvation Army lassie was selling the "War Cry" at the windows of the London trains.

In one of the compartments were a number of young men and one of them, thinking to have some fun at the expense of the sister, asked her if she would offer up a few words of prayer for him.

Rising to the occasion, she put her hand on his head and, to the amusement of all those within hearing distance, prayed quite fervently:

"O, Lord, please make this young man's heart as soft as his head."

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS TO ASSIST NURSERY TAG DAY

Mrs. C. B. Jetter, chairman of arrangements for the day nursery tag day Saturday, April 2, has asked for volunteers to assist in the tag day sale, and asks that all who will call her at phone 2609.

It is hoped that a hundred or more workers will volunteer for the tag sale, as the committee from the city mission federation is expecting to raise a considerable sum on Saturday. The nursery treasury is below $200, and the running expenses are $400 a month, necessitating immediate action on the part of the finance committee.

Those who can assist even for an hour on Saturday are asked to telephone Mrs. Jetter at once.

Delightful New Vanishing Cream Containing True Buttermilk Makes Many a Woman Look Years Younger.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

No matter whether you are troubled with wrinkles, hard little lines around the mouth and eyes, coarse, sallow, faded looking skin, or simply roughness and redness caused by wind and sun, you will find that all these trials quickly disappear with the use of this old-fashioned beauty recipe brought up to date.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction obtain a small quantity of Howard's Buttermilk Cream at any good drug or toilet counter on the money back if dissatisfied plan. The directions are simple and it costs so little that any girl or woman can afford it. —Adv.

LATEST STYLE

By LENORE

Soft, light and graceful to drape are the new varieties of crepes which are fashionable this season. All weaves are featured, from familiar crepe de chine to the now well-established Canton crepe with its pebbly surface, and that soft and clinging fabric with a satin broche figure.

This latter is a clever material for a black frock, if one chooses to be influenced by the famous Renee, who has marked black as the smartest color for the elegant Frenchwoman. In her model shown above, interest centers in the material and in the tricky application of the plain crepe bands, which hang loose from the waist and accomplish a somewhat tapering silhouette by nipping the skirt in slightly at the hem.

Pattern No. 125.

A pattern for the above model (No. 125) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36, 38 or 40, by sending to Lenore, 8 West Fortieth street, New York city, your name and address, the number of this pattern and size required, and 25 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks.—The Editor.

When me and Jubilee got to bed last night and the wind was roaring around the house and I was thinking about it being the last of March I thought all at once that today would be April fool day and I tried to think up a way to fool someone, and I could not think of anything.

But when I was going out to milk the cow and her dotter this morning I seen the box with my mother's new hat in it on the machine, and I thought I would play a trick on her, and I took the new hat out of the box and hid it under the couch and put my grandfather's old greesy hat in the box and tied it up careful, and I was laughing all the way to school about how surprized she was going to look when she opened it for another look at it.

Nobody fooled any of the bunch because everyone was onto it and was watching out, and when I got home from school my grandfather was out fishing and nobody was home but my mother and Annabell Lee. I was going to holler "April Fool!" at her but her mouth looked like a snapping turtle's so I did not say anything.

After a while my father and unkle and ant came home, and then my grandfather come home and he had not caught any and he was grouchy, and my mother asted him when we all sot down to supper if he thought he was smart, and he looked at her kinda funny and said he did. And she said that a joke is a joke but somethings was carrying things too far, and my father asted her what she meant, and she said that after breakfast she took the hat box and Annabel Lee and went all the way to town to change her hat, and she told the lady she wanted to change it and the lady said that was all right, and the la[dy] untied the strings and took off the cover of the box and there was my grandfather's old greesy hat laying on some pink tishul paper, and my mother said that she never seen anyone's face look like the lady's did. She said that when she seen what it was she almost dropped Annabel Lee and wished she could sink through the floor, and then the lady seen my mother's face and began to laugh and she laughed and laughed and everyone in the store came to see what it was about and they all laughed.

Then my grandfather said that was a good joke but he didn't do it, and my mother said it was too bad about him, and everyone thought he done it. That is what a fella gets for being a lire.

It was warm again today and the snow was melted by night. I do not call that much of a lion. I went to bed early because they might get to talking about the joke, and a fella can never tell what will happen. That was a good one.

CHANGE VAUDEVILLE FROM PALACE BACK TO WICHITA THEATER

FIVE-ACT BILL TO BE PRESENTED AT OLD PLAYHOUSE AFTER THIS WEEK.

NEW PLAYHOUSE DARK EXCEPT AT INTERVALS

Has Been Found Unsuited To Acts And Management Decides On Change In Plans.

No more vaudeville shows will be given at the Palace theater after the close of this week's bill, according to H. S. Ford, manager of the Palace, who states that five acts of the Majestic circuit will be transferred to the Wichita and that the Palace will remain dark except on occasions when special attractions are in town for one or two nights.

The decision of Mr. Ford to discontinue the Palace came after it was found that the theater was not exactly suited to the successful presentation of vaudeville. Originally designed for a moving picture house, it was altered at the last minute so that stage attractions could be offered, but this has not proven satisfactory. The stage was of two small dimensions to accommodate some of the larger acts properly and the acoustics of the room were not of the best, all of which was reflected in the performances.

Prices on the evening entertainments will be cut to 99 cents, with only the lower floor reserved. One show, starting at 8:15, will be given the last four nights of the week with the exception of Saturday, when two shows will be given, one at 7:30 and the other two hours later. Matinees at reduced prices will be given each of the four afternoons.

Professor Elders' orchestra will be transferred back to the Wichita.

Special movie productions will be shown on Monday and Tuesday of each week throughout the remainder of the vaudeville season, which lasts for about two months more.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Grandma's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur darkens so naturally that nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—(Adv.)

TO RAISE $5,000 FOR JEWISH RELIEF FUND

Northwestern Railway Shows Remarkable Record Of Revenue And Profit For January.

The Joint Distribution Committee of America, in its last effort for the stricken people in eastern and central Europe, is appealing for the sum of $14,000,000 as a minimum to carry to fruitful completion the relief work of the past four years. "Opening guns" to that end have been fired in Texas, and the first city in Texas to heed the pleading call is Wichita Falls.

At a conference between leading Wichita Falls Jews and a representative of the joint distribution committee, the minimum quota for this community has been placed at $5,000, and the following gentlemen, with Dr. David Goldberg as chairman, have been designated as comprising the local branch of the joint distribution committee: J. L. Art, Jake Cohen, I. A. Fine, Harry Jaffe, Ben Kaufman, Phil Kleinman, Sam Kruger, Saul Lebenson, Arthur Lyons, Abe Marcus, Ike Markowitz, Louis Pink, and Dr. David Goldberg, chairman ex officio.

The committee has designated Tuesday, April 5, as Jewish Relief Day, and has arranged for a high class program for the evening of that day. The Wichita Falls symphony orchestra, full strength, Ernest Katz, conductor, has been engaged for a concert, and Dr. David Lefkowitz, Rabbi Temple Emanuel of Dallas, will be the principal speaker. Short addresses will be made, between concert numbers by J. A. Kemp, Mayor Walter Cline, and Dr. David Goldberg, rabbi of Temple Israel.

There will be no admission charges, and the citizenship at large is extended a cordial welcome. In view, however, of the limited seating capacity of the Temple, parents are kindly requested not to bring minors along.

Dr. Goldberg and the entire committee are confident of gratifying results, and the high grade program planned is evidence of that confidence. There will be no effort made to canvass the general citizenship for contributions, although, naturally, the committee will be glad to receive and acknowledge receipt of contributions from every sympathetic citizen, regardless of religious affiliation.

Detailed program of concert will be announced in these columns later.

REVUE ACT PROVES MOST PLEASING OF OFFERINGS UPON BILL AT PALACE

The last week of vaudeville at the Palace turned out to be two acts shy Wednesday night, an dthose which did appear, with one exception, were nothing out of the ordinary. The Chameleon Revue, a musical comedy in which Corrine Tilton has the leading part, proved to be interesting and pleasing from first to last but all the others were certainly not above the average.

Miss Tilton and her supporting cast offered one of the most colorful performances of the year, georgeous stage, stage settings and brilliant costumes being used as a background for good songs, stories and humor. The leading lady, while falling somewhat short of being a "Paris model" in looks had a personality which went over big with the audience. Her impersonation of Captain Kidd's grandson and of an inibreated American in far off Egypt was especially good.

The dancing team of Benny and Weston, which appears with the revue, is the best that has ever been on the Palace stage, for these two boys are artists in soft shoe and buck and wing dancing. Their work called for hearty applause and the only criticism is that they were not featured more.

George Austin Moore in "Songs and Stories" has a difficult task in putting over darky songs and stories while attired in a dress suit but he accomplishes this feat without trouble. A pleasing voice and a good line of negro dialect are put to excellent use.

"A Kitchen Musical," with which Paul George opens the bill, is a novel act in which music plays the important part. George performs on all kinds of instruments and a liberal portion of comedy is included in his entertainment.

Lloyd and George in "Two Gentlemen from Dixie" have the usual blackface line of humor and also have one or two dances which are out of the ordinary.

The bill is closed by the Wilhait trio, cyclists and comedians, who offer a good program of riding stunts. The first number on their bill, in which a disjointed miniature auto is badly maltreated, got good laughs from the crowd.

One act on the bill failed to get in in time for Wednesday's shows, and at night one of the team of Barry and Layton, skaters, was too ill to appear, so the management of the theater announced that they would refund 50 cents on each of the orchestra seat tickets.

WILL RUN DAILY OIL TRAIN TO ELK CITY

Local Committee To Start Campaign With Special Program Next Tuesday Night.

Effective Wednesday, the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railway will run a daily through train to handle oil shipments from Wichita Falls to Elk City. The train will make pickups at Burkburnett, Devel and Grandfield for all oil going north. The daily train will leave Wichita Falls at 3:30 p. m., arriving at Elk City at 5:30.

Wednesday, on its first trip, a total of 19 cars of oil were delivered at the terminal for other northern points. The daily train does not dispense with any special where a shipment is of sufficient size. Officials stated Thursday that if business warrants it, two daily trains will be operated on a similar schedule.

NORTHWESTERN OPERATES AT PROFIT DURING JANUARY

According to statistics compiled showing the amount of business done by railroads during the month of January, the Wichita Falls and Northwestern operated at a gross profit of approximately $12,000. This is an enviable records, as for the corresponding month in 1920 the road was operated at a loss of about $24,000.

Although the report shows this remarkable record, it further shows that there was a 25 per cent decrease in business although there was an increase of 35 per cent in rates over the same month a year ago. There was also an increase of from 20 to 40 per cent in wages over 1920.

In explaining the showing in the face of the other offsets, officials stated that there was a better operation of the road this year brought about by better facilities and better weather conditions. They also state that the railroad received more work out of the individual than the year previous.

During 1920, 87 per cent of the gross revenue was expended for maintenance of way, while this year only 13 per cent was expended.

OFFICES AND WAREHOUSES TO CLOSE SATURDAY AFTERNOONS

Local freight offices and warehouses of all the railroads in the city will close on Saturday afternoons at 1 o'clock. This will go into effect on April 1 and will remain in effect until September 1. The Fort Worth and Denver received the notice Thursday morning while the other offices were notified some few days ago. The custom of closing on Saturday afternoon has been observed for the past five or six years.

E. F. LOTT OF DENVER ROAD DEPARTS FROM WICHITA FALLS

E. F. Lott, who for the past year was acting as division superintendent of the Fort Worth and Denver, departed from the city Wednesday evening at 3:30 o'clock. His departure was occasioned by the presentation by the employes of the offices of a valuable 32nd degree Masonic ring. The presentation speech was made by J. W. Mode, trainmaster. He expressed the feeling of all employes when he stated that it was with regret that Mr. Lott was leaving, but that the best wishes went with him as he entered upon his new duties with the company at Denver.

"Ware's Baby Powder Relieved My Twins of Stomach Trouble"

"After other remedies failed this medicine brought quick and lasting relief" says Louisiana woman.

Mrs. P. H. Morgan of Winnsboro, La., is now a firm believer in Ware's Baby Powder. She writes on May 4th 1920: "My twin boys suffered from stomach and bowel trouble, and nothing would agree with them. I was nearly frantic and consulted various physicians with no result. Then I tried Ware's Baby Powder and was gratified to see almost instant relief and shortly my babies were entirely well. I do not believe they would have lived had it not been for Ware's Baby Powder."

This simple, harmless remedy is equally effective in cases of teething and summer complaint. Given to babies in liquid form, mixed with sugar and water, they love to take it. At all druggists for 60c and $1.20 the package.

A LEOPARD CANNOT CHANGE ITS SPOTS

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Tells the Treachery of Calomel.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.

JOE KELL BECOMES MANAGER OF MILL, MYTINGER RESIGNS

LATTER ACQUIRES GRAIN INTERESTS OF J. C. HUNT AND ENTERS BUSINESS FOR SELF.

2 FROM OKLAHOMA CITY MILL TAKE POSITIONS HERE

Son Of Mill's Principal Owner To Be General Manager—H. S. Stover To Head Grain Department.

J. C. Mytinger, who has resigned the general managership of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company to enter the grain business for himself, will be succeeded by Joe A. Kell as general manager, and by H. L. Stover as office manager and head of the grain department, Frank Kell announced Thursday morning.

Announcement of the resignation of Mr. Mytinger, who has purchased the J. C. Hunt Grain company, was made last Wednesday. The deal involves the large elevator in this city and fifteen others at smaller points in the grain belt.

Joe A. Kell, who succeeds Mr. Mytinger as general manager, has been connected with his father's mill in Oklahoma City since his return from France, and has had some intensive experience in the grain business. He recently returned to this city to become associated with his father in local affairs. He is a director of the American National bank.

H. L. Stover also comes from Oklahoma City, where he has been associated with T. C. Thatcher, formerly of this city, in management of the mill there. He is expected to reach here Friday.

Mr. Mytinger has been manager of the Wichita mill for the past four years, "graduating" to that position from his place in the offices of Messrs. Kemp and Kell, whom he had served as private secretary for a number of years. He is president of the business council of the chamber of commerce, and has been active in many civic matters here.

Hair of Woman Clipped to Scalp While She Sleeps

DALLAS, TEXAS, March 31.—A thief during the night clipped the hair within an inch of the scalp of Mrs. C. B. Vinson and escaped from the room without awakening either the woman or her husband, it was reported to police today.

Jaunita, little daughter of the Vinsons, was awakened as the burglar crawled outside through the window of her room, and screamed. Mr. and Mrs. Vinson arrived at the window just in time to see the thief disappear down the street, carrying the woman's long, beautiful hair in one hand.

The daring prowler also obtained a sum of money at the Vinsons,' and while he "worked" there a confederate ransacked the house next door.

FREIGHT CAR SURPLUS GREATEST IN HISTORY

WASHINGTON, March 31. — The greatest number of surplus freight cars in the history of American railroads was recorded on March 23, the car service division of the American Railway association reported today. The number at that time was 459,411, an increase of 38,000 over March 16, and 7,672 more than the former high record of March 1, 1919.

The increase in surplus cars, the report said, was due "almost entirely to a falling off in shipments of coal." The surplus coal cars on March 23, it said, totaled 230,394, an increase of 28,000 over the week before, and 57,544 over March 1.

TWO FACE MURDER CHARGE IN SCOTT NICHOLS CASE

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, March 31.—Both Clarence Puentney, alleged to have fired the death shot, and G. L. Phillips who, according to the statement of Mrs. Blanche Lorraine, drove the car in which the body was hauled to the Trinity river, faced murder charges today in connection with the death of Scott Nichols, chief operator for the Western Union Telegraph company.

Mrs. Lorraine was present, she said, when Nichols was killed in a quarrel with Puentney after the party, in a house at Arlington Heights, had been drinking. Nichols had been missing since February 7. His body was found in the river Tuesday.

CHICAGO RESTAURANTS BEGIN SLASHING PRICES

CHICAGO, March 31.—Chicago restaurant proprietors today began slashing prices following an agreement reached with city officials. WORLD PRODUCING MORE BUT TRADING LESS THAN BEFORE

BUSINESS BAROMETER IS LOW IN EVERY LAND

First Time World Overproduction Ever Brought About World Business Depression.

By CLARENCE DUBOSE
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The world is producing more but trading less than ever before, a survey of government reports from all countries disclosed today.

The business barometer is low in every land, this information revealed. At the same time agricultural basic wealth is high everywhere and crop production and prospects fine, with the exception of Russia, sections of Central Europe and drought regions of Asia.

For that reason government officials who watch world business conditions are optimistic. When transportation and credits are corrected world business will swing into shape, they said. That will take time and trouble but will be done.

"It is the first time world overproduction ever brought about world depression," said Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce.

Both exports and imports of England and the United States show decreases, as do those of virtually every country in current reports. The surplus stocks are piling up until they can be moved at a transportation charge the traffic will bear and until manufacture is justified by credits that will make possible their purchase.

1.—Creation of European credits to be handled through private agency; government assistance in promoting long-time credits for cotton farmers, until Europe, by credit extension, can take American cotton.

2.—Government action to relieve the railroad problem. The high freight rates have hampered both domestic and foreign business, although even at these rates, railroad earnings are diminishing.

3.—Revision of world trade shipping routes and development of trade with the Far East.

PLACE BLAME ON BRITISH LEADERS

stituted in Ireland a "terror" the evidence regarding which seems to prove that:

"1. The imperial British government has created and introduced into Ireland a force of at least 75,000 men, many of them youthful and inexperienced, and some of them convicts; and has incited that force to unbridled violence.

"2. The imperial British forces in Ireland have indiscriminately killed innocent men, women and children; have discriminately assassinated persons suspected of being republicans; have tortured and shot prisoners while in custody, adopting the subterfuges of 'refusal to halt' and 'attempting to escape'; and have attributed to alleged assassination of prominent Irish republicans.

"3. House-breaking and wanton destruction of villages and cities by imperial British forces under imperial British officers have been countenanced, and ordered by officials of the British government; an elaborate provision by gasoline sprays and bombs has been made in a number of instances for systematic incendiarism as part of a plan of terrorism.

"4. A campaign for the destruction of the means of existence of the Irish people has been conducted by the burning of factories, creameries, crops and farm implements and the shooting of farm animals. This campaign is carried on regardless of political views of their owners, and results in widespread and acute suffering among women and children.

"5. Acting under a series of proclamations issued by the competent military authorities of the imperial British forces, hostages are carried by forces exposed to the fire of the republican army; fines are levied upon towns and villages as punishment for alleged offenses of individuals; private property is destroyed in reprisals for acts with which the owners have no connection; and the civilian population is subjected to a constant inquisition upon the theory that individuals are in possession of information valuable to the military forces of Great Britain. These acts of the imperial British forces are contrary to the laws of peace or war among modern civilized nations.

"6. This 'terror' has failed to re-establish Imperial British civil government in Ireland. Throughout the greater part of Ireland British courts have ceased to function; local, county and city governments refuse to recognize British authority; and British civil officials fulfill no function of service to the Irish people.

"7. In spite of the British 'terror' the majority of the Irish people sanction by ballot the Irish Republic; give their allegiance to it; pay taxes to it; and respect the decisions of its courts and of its civil officials."

The commission, criticising the assassination of British soldiers and officers said the procedure was to be deplored. "If the purpose of assassination was to safeguard the people," it said, "it has failed; the British terror was not arrested by it but has continued in spite of it and has progressively intensified."

"If we accept the claim of Great Britain that it is in control of affairs in Ireland, we cannot escape the conclusion that the British government must accept responsibility for the deplorable conditions that have followed upon its attempts to maintain its authority," the report said.

The commission declared that it would appear the natural psychological condition of soldiers engaged in dangerous work was heightened by the government's propaganda. The commission accepted the charges of Irish witnesses that the crown forces often were drunk and states that "the temptation to quell fear in drink would appear to be officially placed before the British troops by the barrack canteens." Attention was called to evidence also that many of the soldiers and police were irresponsible youths and that convicts were on the rolls.

"It would appear that in such a force discipline is necessarily lax," the report said.

"The evidence would seem to show," it said in another paragraph, "that the term 'reprisal' may be used to cover any case in which wholesale damage is inflicted upon property or life in Ireland."

"The official use of the term 'reprisal'," it said, "would seem to us the stereotyped ruse de guerre, intended to lead the British and other people into condoning an aggravation of the imperial British terrorism in Ireland."

"Sinn Fein extremists," the commission said of another phase of the struggle, "would seem to be a term used exclusively by the British. The term is sometimes used by them to condone murderers and incendiaries engaged in the destruction of the lives and property of Irish republicans. We would depreciate the use of the term by responsible ministers of the Imperial British government."

"It would appear," it was stated, "that the Imperial British forces, in organized bodies, on certain occasions, testified to before us, have engaged in indiscriminate shooting of the non-combatant Irish people in their homes at night."

The commission denied the allegation that British reprisalists could not be punished, "because they could not be identified."

The question of provocation cannot enter into the destruction of property as it might in killings, the commission stated.

"It is difficult to characterize the doctrine of 'reprisal' in any other manner save as a relic of barbarism," the report said in a section devoted to evidence regarding the burnings of towns, a practice condemned whether Ireland a considered at war or not.

"It is worthy of note," it continued, "that while the primary motive for the destruction of lives and towns seems to be to strike terror into the hearts of the civilian population, this motive is mixed with another—to destroy the principal industries, presumably to reduce to destruction and starvation the working classes that are mainly republican in sympathies."

"It would seem," concluded a section of testimony regarding the presence of soldiers at wakes and funerals, "that the Imperial British forces have organized a terror to harrass the citizenry even unto death—and beyond."

A section of the report was devoted to "the policy of assassination." It stated that the assassination of members of the British forces began in 1919, has continued and still continues, evidently being the work of "a nation wide organization with a very perfect secret service and with disciplined men to execute its orders. * * * Under these circumstances it would appear that the imperial authorities are not free from responsibility for the failure to take proper precautions."

The policy is regrettable, it was stated, besides being "an unreliable method of removing specific criminals." The policy is "earnestly deprecated."

Much of the report is given to actual testimony before the commission.

California power plants were the first to use oil fuel under boilers.

HOW "TIZ" GLADDENS TIRED, ACHING FEET

No more sore, puffed-up, tender, aching feet—no corns or callouses.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken-out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.—(Adv.)

The Adventure of the Empty House

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Copyright, 1921, by Harper & Bros. Published by special arrangement with The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The story thus far:

The Honorable Ronald Adair, second son of the Earl of Maynooth, was found murdered one night in the house where he lived with his mother and sister. He had been playing whist that afternoon with Mr. Murray, Mr. John Hardy and Colonel Moran. He had lost a little, but a few days before he and Colonel Moran, as partners, had won over four hundred pounds. So his losses could not have troubled him. He went to a front, second-floor sitting room at ten o'clock. When his mother and sister returned about an hour later they found the door locked. On getting no return they had broken in and found him shot dead by an expanding revolver bullet. There was no revolver in the room. A fire was burning and a window was open but a bed of crocuses under the window was undisturbed. On the table were some money and some papers on which the young man had apparently been figuring his losses or gains at cards. Dr. Watson, made familiar with the methods of Sherlock Holmes, follows the case and tries to reason it out as his old friend would have done. In the evening he went to look at the house. In the crowd about him he noticed a plain-clothes man and an awkward old fellow with some books under his arm, who was quite put out when Watson jostled him.

Later in the evening the old bookseller came to see him, threw off his disguise and revealed himself as Sherlock Holmes. Watson fainted from surprise and joy, for the last he had known of Holmes he had disappeared in Switzerland over a precipice with his enemy Moriarity. Holmes explained that he had never gone over the precipice, but had climbed up the cliff to a ledge.

Then seeing above him a friend of Moriarty who tried to kill him by dropping a stone on him, Holmes fled through the mountains and escaped, always afraid of Moriarty's friend, who knew he was living. That was three years before. He had returned to London when he heard of the Adair murder. He and Watson went out and entered the back of an empty house opposite Holmes' room in Baker street.

PART FOUR.

I crept forward and looked across at the familiar window. As my eyes fell upon it, I gave a gasp and a cry of amazement. The blind was down, and a strong light was burning in the room. The shadow of a man who was seated in a chair within was thrown in hard, black outline upon the luminous screen of the window. There was no mistaking the poise of the head, the squareness of the shoulders, the sharpness of the features. The face was turned half-round, and the effect was that of one of those black silhouettes which our grandparents loved to frame. It was a perfect reproduction of Holmes. So amazed was I that I threw out my hand to make sure that the man himself was standing beside me. He was quivering with silent laughter.

"Well?" said he.

"Good Heavens!" I cried. "It is marvelous."

"I trust that age does not wither nor custom stale my infinite variety," said he, and I recognized in his voice the joy and pride which the artist takes in his own creation. "It really is rather like me, is it not?"

"I should be prepared to swear that it was you."

"The credit of the execution is due to Monsieur Oscar Meunier of Grenoble, who spent some days in doing the moulding. It is a bust in wax. The rest I arranged myself during my visit to Baker street this afternoon."

"But why?"

"Because, my dear Watson, I had the strongest possible reason for wishing certain people to think that I was there when I was really elsewhere."

"And you thought the rooms were watched?"

"I knew that they were watched."

"By whom?"

"By my old enemies, Watson. By the charming society whose leader lies in the Reichenbach Fall. You must remember that they knew, and only they knew, that I was still alive. Sooner or later they believed that I should come back to my rooms. They watched them continuously, and this morning they saw me arrive."

"How do you know?"

"Because I recognised their sentinel when I glanced out of my window. He is a harmless enough fellow, Parker by name, a garroter by trade, and a remarkable performer upon the jew's harp. I cared nothing for him. But I cared a great deal for the much more formidable person who was behind him, the bosom friend of Moriarty, the man who dropped the rocks over the cliff, the most cunning and dangerous criminal in London. That is the man who is after me tonight, Watson, and that is the man who is quite unaware that we are after him."

My friend's plans were gradually revealing themselves. From this convenient retreat the watchers were being watched and the trackers tracked. That angular shadow up yonder was the bait, and we were the hunters. In silence we stood together in the darkness and watched the hurrying figures who passed and repassed in front of us. Holmes was silent and motionless; but I could tell that he was keenly alert, and that his eyes were fixed intently upon the stream of passers-by. It was a bleak and boisterous night and the wind whistled shrilly down the long street. Many people were moving to and fro, most of them muffled in their coats and cravats. Once or twice it seemed to me that I had seen the same figure before, and I especially noticed two men who appeared to be sheltering themselves from the wind in the doorway of a house some distance up the street. I tried to draw my companion's attention to them; but he gave a little ejaculation of impatience, and continued to stare into the street. More than once he fidgeted with his feet and tapped rapidly with his fingers upon the wall. It was evident to me that he was becoming uneasy, and that his plans were not working out altogether as he had hoped. At last, as midnight approached and the street gradually cleared, he paced up and down the room in uncontrolable agitation. I was about to make some remark to him when I raised my eyes to the lighted window, and again experienced almost as great a surprise as before. I clutched Holmes' arm and pointed upwards.

"The shadow has moved!" I cried.

It was indeed no longer the profile, but the back, which was turned toward us.

Three years had certainly not smoothed the asperities of his temper or his impatience with a less active intelligence than his own.

"Of course it has moved," said he. "Am I such a fardiai bungler, Watson, that I should erect an obvious rummy and expect that some of the sharpest men in Europe would be deceived by it? We have been in this room two hours, and Mrs. Hudson has made some change in that figure eight times, or once in every quarter of an hour. She works it from the front, so that her shadow may never be seen. Ah!" He drew in his breath with a shrill, excited intake. In the dim light I saw his head thrown forward, his whole attitude rigid with attention. Outside the street was absolutely deserted. Those two men might still be crouching in the doorway, but I could no longer see them. All was still and dark, save only that brilliant yellow screen in front of us with the black figure outlined upon its center. Again in the utter silence I heard that thin, sibilant note which spoke of intense suppressed excitement. An instant later he pulled me back into the blackest corner of the room, and I felt his warning hand upon my lips. The fingers which clutched me were quivering. Never had I known my friend more moved and yet the dark street still stretched longely and motionless before us.

But suddenly I was aware of that which his keener senses had already distinguished. A low, stealthy sound came to my ears, not from the direction of Baker street, but from the back of the very house in which we lay concealed. A door opened and shut. An instant later steps crept down the passage—steps which were meant to be silent, but which reverberated harshly through the empty house. Holmes crouched back against the wall and I did the same, my hand closing upon the handle of my revolver. Peering through the gloom, I saw the vague outline of a man, a shade blacker than the blackness of the open door. He stood for an instant and then he crept forward, crouching, menacing, into the room. He was within three yards of us, this sinister figure, and I had braced myself to meet his spring, before I realized that he had no idea of our presence. He passed close beside us, stole over to the window, and very softly and noiselessly raised it for half a foot. As he sank to the level of this opening, the light of the street, no longer dimmed by the dusty glass, fell full upon his face. The man seemed to be beside himself with excitement. His two eyes shone like stars, and his features were working convulsively. He was an elderly man, with a thin, projecting nose, a high, bald forehead and a huge grizzled moustache. An opera hat was pushed to the back of his head, and an evening dress shirt-front gleamed out through his open overcoat. His face was gaunt and swarthy, scored with deep, savage lines. In his hand he carried what appeared to be a stick, but as he laid it down upon the floor it gave a metallic clang. Then from the pocket of his overcoat he drew a bulky object, and he busied himself in some task which ended with a loud, sharp click, as if a spring or bolt had fallen into its place. Still kneeling upon the floor, he bent forward and threw all his weight and strength upon some lever, with the result that there came a long, whirling, grinding noise, ending once more in a powerful click. He straightened himself then, and I saw that what he held in his hand was a sort of a gun, with a curiously misshapen butt. He opened it at the breech, put something in, and snapped the breech-block. Then, crouching down, he rested the end of the barrel upon the ledge of the open window, and I saw his long moustache droop over the stock and his eye gleam as it peered along the sights. I heard a little sigh of satisfaction as he cuddled the butt into his shoulder, and saw that amazing target, the black man on the yellow ground, standing clear at the end of his foresight. For an instant he was rigid and motionless. Then his finger tightened on the trigger. There was a strange, loud whiz and a long, silvery tinkle of broken glass. At that instant Holmes sprank like a tiger onto the marksman's back and hurled him flat upon his face. He was up again in a moment, and with convulsive strength he seized Holmes by the throat, but I struck him on the head with the butt of my revolver, and he dropped again upon the floor. I fell upon him, and as I held him my comrade blew a shrill call upon a whistle. There was the clatter of running feet upon the pavement and two policemen in uniform, with one plain-clothes detective, rushed through the front entrance and into the room.

"That you, Lestrade?" said Holmes.

"Yes, Mr. Holmes. I took the job myself. It's good to see you back in London, sir."

"I think you want a little unofficial help. Three undetected murders in one year won't do, Lestrade. But you handled the Molesey Mystery with less than your usual—that's to say, you handled it fairly well."

THE MERRY JOURNEYS OF MARY JANE

"Now you've fixed up a real treat" said Old Hullaballoo to Mary Jane

Mary Jane and Old Hullaballoo the Hound

MARY JANE and Old Hullaballoo had been good friends ever since Mary Jane had been big enough to toddle around and pull Hullaballoo's ears, and try to tie knots in his tail.

Well, one day Old Hullaballoo came back home all tired out, with his tongue hanging out, and the first thing he said to Mary was "Have you anything good to eat in the house?" Mary said "I'll see" and she went in and looked all around.

There were some apples, and tomato ketchup, and sweet cider, and eggs. But Hullaballoo said he wasn't hungry for these things. So Mary made up a nice spread of bread and some delicious Mary Jane Syrup, and took it out.

"Now you've fixed up a real treat" said Hullaballoo. "That's something I like." And he ate every bit of it.

Then he said: "If I were a smart little girl like you, instead of an old hound dog, I'd tell the world that Mary Jane Syrup was the very finest spread anybody could possibly use."

And that's why Mary Jane is telling everybody that Mary Jane Syrup is the best thing you could possibly give every little boy and girl—on waffles, pancakes or corn bread.

NORTH DAKOTA AND THE NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE.

Reports from North Dakota that a movement is about to be launched for the recall of the governor and other state officials who have been connected with the Non-Partisan League administration of the state's affairs can readily be credited. Financial affairs in that state are in a bad way, mainly, it is alleged, as the result of the attempt of the state to enter many lines of private business. It has built, or is building local and terminal elevators, has entered into the milling business, gone into the hail insurance business, built packing plants and cold storage houses, gone into the banking business and has entered other lines of business.

All of these enterprises demanded money, explains Charles Moreau Hagar in the April Review of Reviews, and it appears that the state's handling of financial matters was its worst bungle. In order to get funds to carry on its various enterprises it created a state bank and passed a law requiring that all state, county, township, city and school district and funds of public institutions must be deposited in this bank. In theory these funds were to be redeposited in the local banks where they were formerly held. But it did not work out this way. Pretty soon large amounts of money were tied up in the state elevators and other projects. Funds were deposited in those local banks whose owners were supporting the Non-Partisan League. Partisanship rather than sound business principles governed the state bank. The state then voted about $17,000,000 in bonds to carry through its projects.

Dissatisfaction began to grow against the program of the Non-Partisan League. The Anti-League forces in 1920 initiated laws that provided for the deposit of the public moneys in the local banks as they had been before the state bank was created. This withdrew large sums from the state bank. Then came the general financial stringency and the grain holding movement among the farmers. The results can easily be imagined. The state was unable to market its bonds, the funds of the state bank were tied up in incompleted state projects. Dissatisfaction with the Non-Partisan League administration has grown to strong proportions. The situation is summarized in Mr. Hagar's article as follows:

"Two fundamental theories are on trial in North Dakota: One is that a strictly agricultural state has within itself enough loanable funds to finance its natural and healthy growth and that by tax collections it can dictate to foreign capital the terms on which it can do business in the state. If successful here it may mean similar effort in many western states. The other is the idea that men without business experience, many of them financial failures, are, because of political prowess, competent to manage successfully a vast scheme of state-owned enterprises better than they can be operated by private capital under sound regulations.

"Just how the state is to return to "normalcy" is not yet settled. At present a recall of the state officers is being considered by the anti-League forces. 'We have some six millions of tax money tied up in frozen loans and state industries,' said a prominent business men of Bismarck. 'Unless the Bank of North Dakota can sell its bonds it eventually will have to close and with it will go the other state experiments. We can clean house by the recall route if no other way.' The league leaders, who are also the managers of the state's institutions, looking to the political effect of their campaign elsewhere, are desperately clinging to the toppling structure and declare that they will keep it from falling. Maybe—but it is far from an encouraging outlook.

"One thing is certain: North Dakota must soon take one of two courses—either prove that its expansive scheme of high finance is practical, or wipe the slate and start over on a less visionary path."

Editorial Echoes

How Lansing and Wilson Fell Out.

(Current Opinion)

"It is a fact which Mr. Wilson has taken no trouble to conceal that he does not value the advice of lawyers except on strictly legal questions.'

The above statement is made by ex-Secretary Lansing in one of the opening chapters of his new book on "The Peace Negotiations." It illuminates many things. It explains, for one thing, the antagonism between the minds of Wilson and Lansing all through the peace negotiations. Mr. Wilson began his career as a lawyer and, apparently, is going to finish his career as a lawyer. His estimate of the legal mind is, therefore, all the more interesting and it has played an amazing part in the great crisis of world affairs of the last few years.

Mr. Lansing was the only lawyer on the peace commission representing this country at Versailles. He "queered" himself, even before the commission started, with Mr. Wilson, by a strong protest against the president's going to Europe. If the protest had been heeded, Mr. Lansing would have been the head of the delegation. After that, as Mr. Lansing admits, his motives were distrusted by the president.

At almost every turn in the negotiations, it now transpires, Mr. Lansing's mind was working at cross-purposes with that of his chief. He was not only opposed to Wilson's going but, after they were in Paris, he opposed the latter's sitting in the peace conference, his idea being that Mr. Wilson could dominate the situation better by keeping out of the hurly-burly and intrigue and directing affairs from without. He was so opposed to Mr. Wilson's ideas for a covenant of the League of Nations that he declined, when requested by Colonel House, to revise Mr. Wilson's draft of the covenant with a view to harmonizing their views, finding them too divergent to be harmonized.

Mr. Wilson's methods were equally distasteful to Mr. Lansing. Waiting in vain for Mr. Wilson to formulate instructions for the American delegates, Mr. Lansing at last took it upon himself to ask the legal advisers of the commission to prepare a skeleton treaty and then furnished a copy to the other commissioners for consideration, but did not send a copy to the president. When, at a meeting of the commission, the president learned what had been done without his knowledge, he "at once showed his displeasure and resented the action taken" and said, "with great candor and emphasis," that he did not intend to have lawyers drafting the treaty of peace!

The root of the difficulty between the two men may be seen in Mr. Lansing's idea of a league covenant. His fundamental principle was "the equality of nations in times of peace." On this he would have built the covenant. He opposed article 10 as a violation of this principle—if not in words, in its ultimate effect. He opposed the system of mandates for the same reason; also the authority placed in the hands of the five great powers by the covenant of the league. He was opposed to any covenant that provided for the employment of international force and preferred to rely upon "judicial settlements."

Mr. Lansing's idea seems to conform pretty closely to that of Mr. Root and Mr. Hughes. If President Harding ever gets down to brass tacks in forming his new association of nations, it will probably be formed very closely on Mr. Lansing's model. It is the sort of covenant which a legal mind is most apt to form and most apt to accept.

What is the matter with it? In the first place, the principle upon which it rests is a legal fiction. The equality of nations, either in times of peace or of war, is no more of a reality than the equality of individuals. It is not a fact, it is a figment of the mind. Before the law, but nowhere else, all men may be held equal and before an international court all sovereign powers may be held equal—Liberia with Great Britain, Hayti with the United States, Monaco with France. If all we want in a league of nations is an international court, with no means of enforcing its decisions, the equality of all nations may be a good working hypothesis. Mr. Lansing's conception of a league seems never to have gone beyond this. It is quite possible that that is also true of Mr. Root and Mr. Hughes. But it was not true of Mr. Wilson or General Smuts or Lord Robert Cecil and no such international court could have met the situation which Lloyd George, Georges Clemenceau and Woodrow Wilson had to face in the winter of 1918-19, and which Europe is facing today.

In the two most critical periods of his administration, President Wilson has been unfortunate in having for secretary of state a man whose mind was hopelessly at variance with his own. In his diplomatic intercourse with Germany and Austria, before our entry into the war, he had Mr. Bryan. How much Mr. Bryan had to do with the wobbly character of our policy toward Mexico can only be surmised; but we have the Austrian ambassador's advices to his government as evidence that Mr. Bryan was privately assuring him that a critical note from our government was meant for home consumption only and we know that Mr. Bryan's mind stalled when the correspondence with Germany reached the real business stage, and that he quit summarily.

Mr. Lansing did not quit. He not only stayed in the game but, upon his return to this country, he abstained from all outward signs of antagonism and when he spoke he advocated the ratification of the treaty, covenant and all. It must be said, also, that his diagnosis of the political effect of Mr. Wilson's acts and of the effect upon public sentiment, as indicated by his memoranda from time to time, were surprisingly accurate. Mr. Wilson, had he taken Mr. Lansing into his confidence more, might have avoided the terrible cropper that came to him in the senate. Yet it is also evident that, in what he had in mind to do at Paris, Mr. Wilson found as little help in Mr. Lansing as he had found before in Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Lansing's account has the flavor of good taste, candor and freedom from personal bitterness. There is no word of venom in it, no aspersion of Mr. Wilson's motives. On the face of the account, his loyalty to his chief in act if not in thought, was very nearly unimpeachable. And yet we have an uneasy feeling that the convictions which he admits to have displayed in Paris to Bullitt—a young subordinate official resigning his post in a fury at Wilson—he did not successfully conceal at all times from the foes of Mr. Wilson in Washington, and that his objections to the league and to the Shantung settlement may have had something to do with shaping the fight made in the United States senate against ratification.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Feet.

I got a cowlick, an' it stands
Up straight, an' I got dirty hands,
An' if it shows a single speck
I have to go an' wash my neck,
An' every day Ma squints an' peers
To see if I have washed my ears;
But I ain't ever really neat
All on account of having feet.

These feet of mine are always wrong.
I mustn't shuffle 'em along
Or kick a stone that's in the way,
Or if I do someone will say:
"I wish you'd lift your feet a bit,
The way you walk gives me a fit!
Those shoes were new a week ago
An' now you've busted out the toe.'

They're always peckin' at me, too,
For standin' like the fellers do.
And' just because my toes turn in,
The teacher makes the pupils grin
By tellin me ten times a day:
"Please turn your toes the other way;"
An' even when I'm in my seat
She kicks if I just swing my feet.

If I get nervous an' I put
One shoe upon the other foot,
Or scrape the floor, they say: "My land!
Is that the way a boy should stand?"
An' if I rest 'em on a chair,
Ma says: "Don't put your feet up there!"
An' if I sit on them they roar:
"Please put your feet upon the floor!"

I'm tired of all this talk,
About the way I stand or walk,
An' anyhow it seems to me,
At least as far as I can see,
My feet aren't any different than
The other fellers round here, an'
Some day my temper will explode—
It ain't my fault I'm pigeon-toed.

WHY?—

Does a House Have Chimney Pots?

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

The tall chimneys which are characteristic of factories, power plants, and other places where heat is used for the generation of energy, and the chimney pots to be seen on top of dwellings, have much in common, for the two work along the same principle—that a constant supply of oxygen is essential to the burning of a bright, well-heating fire. In fact, the rate at which a draught of air travels through the burning coals is directly responsible for the rapidity at which the fire burns, and it is for this reason that the opening of draughts above and below a furnace will cause a rapid rise in temperature, while cutting off the supply of air keeps the flame at a low ebb.

The rate at which this draught of air travels through the burning substance depends, in large part, upon the height of the flue above the fire, and when a grate or furnace does not "draw" well, the difficulty can often be overcome by the addition of an extension known as a "chimney pot"—to the top of the chimney. This has the effect of increasing the draught and operates along the same lines as the towering chimneys necessary to cause a sufficient volume of air to pass through the factory fires.

Me and Puds Simkins and Sid Hunt was up in my setting room Sundey aftirnoon and we started to talk about wat a meen soak Lew Davis was for not reporting for spring baseball practice jest because he wasent elected captin of the Invisibles, Puds saying, I tell you wat lets do, lets send him a insulting letter.

Like fun, we mite all be arrested for corrupting the mail, sed Sid Hunt.

G, I never thawt of that, sed Puds, and I sed, I tell you wat, Ill get the dictionerry and we'll take a lot of long werds out of it and make a letter and it will sound insulting without enybody being axuilly able to prove it.

Wich we started to do taking us about a hour to write it and this being it.

Baromer bodkin:

We take this Byzantine opportoonity to tell you we think you are a Carpathian cassowary and a dithyrambic duplication, and not ony that but you are a big electro-chemical embassy of a expostulation and a fibrous floccuated finnikin of the werst fossillogy. If you dont beleeve that, you can gavot to gazetteer, you dried up globular gyroscope of a habituated heterdox. You Jurassic jurisdiction, now you know wat we think of you, you marsupial megatherium.

Respectfully, Benny Potts, Puds Simkins and Sid Hunt.

Being pritty insulting looking of a letter, and jest wen we was going to take it out and mail it we found out we dident have eny stamp.

I tell you lets wat, lets stick it under his door, I sed.

Wich we went out to do, and on the way who did we meet but Lew Davis himself eating candy out of a bag, and we stopped a wile to give him a chance to give us some, and he gave us each 2 hunks and we tore up the letter out of grattitude.

There's Some "Pep" To This Boy.

Here FORCE isn't needed. This youngster radiates good health; he breathes it from every pore of his round, sturdy body, and it dives from the roots of his hair to the tips of his toes. See how he goes after that punching bag as though he were going to eat it up! What energy—what pluck and vim!—the very personification of vigor itself! And there are thousands of other boys who do need FORCE, who are pale, sickly and have no appetite; who are quick at digestion, lacking in assimilation, nervous, dull, and irritable. If your boy is of the latter type give him a chance to fight for good health. FORCE, the mighty reconstructor, will help to build for him a firm, solid foundation of physical strength that will stand to his favor through life. FORCE is sold by reliable druggists everywhere. Good for men, women and children.

OVER EIGHT HUNDRED FEET OF ROAD PAVING COMPLETED

VERNON, TEXAS, March 31.—Over 800 feet of pavement has been laid on the road leading east of Vernon and part of the Colorado-to-Gulf highway. Work was suspended two days on account of cold weather and to enable workmen to better the water supply. According to the superintendent, R. H. Standifer, an attempt is being made to employ only white married men in the project.

OLD STANDBY, FOR ACHES AND PAINS

Any man or woman who keeps Sloan's handy will tell you that same thing

ESPECIALLY those frequently attacked by rheumatic twinges. A counter-irritant, Sloan's Liniment scatters the congestion and penetrates without rubbing to the afflicted part, soon relieving the ache and pain.

Keep handy and used everywhere for reducing and finally eliminating the pains and aches of lumbago, neuralgia, muscle strain, joint stiffness, sprains, bruises, and the results of exposure.

You just know from its stimulating, healthy odor that it will do you good. Sloan's Liniment is sold by all druggists—35c, 70c, $1.40.

NOTHING IS DONE BY RECENT CONGRESS TO CHECK IMMIGRATION

NET RESULT IS LESS RESTRAINT THAN ANY TIME FOR FOUR YEARS PAST.

MATTER NOW RESTS IN AN INCONCLUSIVE STATE

Public Generally Thinks That a Drastic Measure Was Passed By Congress.

By MARK SULLIVAN.
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and the Wichita Daily Times.
(Copy'rt 1921, by N. Y. Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The great bulk of the people are under the impression that something drastic was done by the recent congress to check immigration. The truth is nothing whatever was done. In fact, the net result of the last congress is to leave immigration under potentially less check than at any time for four years past.

During the war congress passed an act requiring every immigrant coming to the United States to have his passport vised by the United States consulate at the point of departure. This was a war-time measure, but it was universally held desirable to extend it as a partial check until there shall be a thorough revision of our immigration laws. Congress meant to extend it, but did not succeed satisfactorily.

On the day preceding adjournment, that is on March 2, congress passed an amendment to the consular appropriation extending this requirement and appropriating $600,000 to carry out. If congress had done this and nothing else, its intention would have been safely carried out. But the next day, in the haste of closing, congress passed a conflicting statute. This latter was a measure repealing all war-time legislation. The conflict between the two measures immediately raised a question and the two statutes were submitted to the attorney general for a decision as to which prevails.

Taking It for Granted.

In that inconclusive state the matter now stands. For the moment, until a decision is made by the attorney general, the state department is taking it for granted that the regulation stands and is still requiring that passports of immigrants be vised.

What the public generally thinks is that a drastic immigration restriction bill was passed by the recent congress. And so it was. But it was not passed until within ten days of the close of the session. That made it possible for President Wilson to veto it by doing nothing about it. And nothing is exactly what Mr. Wilson did.

Various explanations are given for Mr. Wilson's inaction. The true one is that he submitted it for advice to one of his cabinet officers, Secretary of Labor Wilson, who has been generally favorable to free immigration, and that he later reported that the bill would be difficult to carry out and that, in his opinion, there is not any need for restriction anyhow.

An additional explanation given may be included under the general description of bills that die in the heat of closing days that it "was lost in the shuffle" because the president did not feel that he had time to give adequate consideration to it.

All the explanations come to the same conclusions, namely, that the bill which passed the senate by a vote of 60 to 2 and the house by 295 to 40 was prevented from becoming a law by the president's failure to sign it.

Exactly What It Was.

Immigration today stands exactly where it was before all the public feeling arose which everyone thought was going to express itself in a law. In the extent that it has been changed at all, it has been changed toward making it easier, because, if the attorney general interprets the conflicting statutes in favor of the broader one, then we will have lost even that small safeguard that lies in the passport requirement.

The effort to be more careful about immigration has overwhelming public support. Probably the public attitude on it is even stronger than the house vote of 7 to 1, or the senate of 20 to 1. The opposition to restricting immigration, as shown in the hearings and in the debates, was practically confined to a small but competent and effective group of large commercial interests, and to the Hebrews, who are the only race whose leaders took any organized action in opposition. The fact that among the party leaders and others there is widespread daily discussion of what the coming session will do about the tariff and none of immigration would indicate that we are more concerned about making a little money next year than with the more fundamental question of the kind of country our children will have to live in.

VERNON AMERICAN LEGION ADDS 100 NEW MEMBERS

VERNON, TEXAS, March 31.—One hundred new memoers have been obtained thus far in the American legion campaign for membership in the local post. The army team is now in the lead in securing memberships. Flags on the courthouse daily indicate the progress of the race between the army, navy and air service teams.

The drive for new members will close Thursday night. The goal set by the Vernon organization was the signing of every ex-service man in the county.

The local post will also attempt to organize a ball club. Numbers of surrounding towns have already written requesting games.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

JURY RENDERS JUDGMENT AGAINST BANK FOR $500

A jury in the county court of law Wednesday evening returned a verdict of $500 against the City National Bank of Commerce in favor of Lillie Farrington. The latter brought suit for the alleged forgery of her name on a check which she contended the bank had cashed. The case was submitted to the jury on two special issues. The issues were whether the check was a forgery and whether she was present at the time that the check was cashed. The jury answered each of the issues "no."

RENE VIVIANI SAYS FRANCE INTENDS TO SETTLE HER DEBTS

By WEBB MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, March 31.—Rene Viviani in his conference with President Harding yesterday declared France intends to honor her debts, according to Washington correspondents of Paris newspapers.

L'Information's dispatch said Viviani told the president France would pay the debts and that all she asked was delay to strengthen her financial situation.

The dispatch said Viviani pleaded for American membership in the League of Nations and assured the president that members of the league seem to agree to the demand for abolishment of article 10.

Stephen Lauzanne, who accompanied Viviani to the United States, cabled the Matin at length on the attitude of the Americans.

"There seems to be a distrust of European countries," he said. "Americans believe an effort is being made to draw them into European quarrels, to evade payment of debts."

"Viviani will argue in this fashion," his dispatch said, "that what France owes, she owes. She is too honest to repudiate her debts and too dignified to discuss them. France never will beg. She hopes her creditors will act toward her as she acts toward her creditors."

TEN MILLION DOLLAR SLASH IN PAYROLL

CHICAGO, March 31.—A ten million dollar annual slash in the payroll of the International Harvester company starts tomorrow.

POSING AS RANGERS, 4 MEN STEAL AUTO

Machine Belonging To Judge Wm. N. Bonner Is Taken From Downtown Street.

Four men said to have posed as Texas rangers are being sought by the police in connection with the theft of an automobile from Alderman W. N. Bonner Wednesday night. The car was parked at the side of the City National bank building while Judge Bonner was at work in his office, and is believed to have been taken by a quartet which appeared at a Scott street garage and attempted to rent a machine. All the men, it is said, were armed and represented that they were rangers.

Mr. Bonner's machine was a four-passenger Chandler, comparatively new.

This was the only machine reported stolen Wednesday night, but a car owned by J. R. Farabee, which was recovered Wednesday afternoon, was stolen Tuesday. This loss was not reported to the police until late Wednesday, and the car was found abandoned near Archer City a few hours after the officers started their search. It was also stolen from the City National bank building.

PARSONS AND GANT WELL NEAR DUNCAN MAKES 500 BARRELS

Special to The Times.

DUNCAN, OKLA., March 31.—The Parsons and Gant well in section 29-1-8 is making 500 barrels of oil from the 2,079 foot sand according to reports Wednesday afternoon. The well extends the pay a half mile east from the Pivick well which was reported to be showing strong Wednesday.

The Pivick made one flow over the derrick before it was mudded in by the order of a conservation agent.

S. S. BOSTON SUCCUMBS TO BRIEF ILLNESS HERE

S. S. Boston, aged 65 years, died at a local hospital early Wednesday morning after a short illness. He had lived in this city for many years and had been in the employ of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad as a machinist for twenty years.

Mr. Boston was taken to the hospital a short time ago from his residence, 502 Adams street, but failed to rally to the medical treatment.

He leaves a widow, two sons, and one daughter. J. M. Boston of San Diego, California, Harry Boston and Mrs. Susie White, both of this city, are the children.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon conducted by the Odd Fellows, of which Mr. Boston was a member. Burial will be in Riverside.

Are You Old and Tired at 40? Take a Tonic!

Why friend, you're just in the prime of life at 40! There's no excuse for your playing out at this age. What you need is a general, all-around toning up of the system—particularly the blood.

Medical science tells us a person who takes good care of himself or herself should not become infirm with age until around the sixtieth year. Certainly 40 is far too early.

Take care of yourself, friend; that's what is necessary for health. Get plenty of sleep. Eat plain, substantial foods. Exercise in the fresh air. Keep your system well flushed out. And above all things keep your blood pure!

Wholesome blood gives you life and vigor; bad blood makes you dull and listless. Maybe that's exactly what ails you now! Try cleansing the impurities and poisons from your blood stream and see if it doesn't bring back the old time spring and vigor to your muscles. Thousands have had that experience.

For this cleansing, you will find S.S.S., the famous old herb remedy, excellent indeed. S.S.S. has given a light step and a sparkling eye to hosts of people who thought they were "through" at 40, but who in reality needed only a thorough blood cleansing to make them feel young again.

Get S.S.S. from your druggist today—right now, while your health is on your mind. Start taking it at once, then write in detail about your physical condition to Chief Medical Advisor, 350 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia, and he will give you individual expert advice free.

"THE BEST SHORTSTOP SINCE HONUS WAGNER"

Rabbit Maranville To Work In All Games Played Here Between Pirates and Spudders.

HOW THEY'LL HIT.

The following batting order of the Pittsburgh Pirates who play here Saturday and Sunday has been received by Will Gray:

Maranville, shortstop.
Mokan, center field.
Barnhart, third base.
Whitted right field.
Tierney or Cutshaw, second base.
Grimm, first base.
Schmidt, Wilson, catcher.
Adams, Cooper, Hamilton, Ponder, Carlson, Zinn, Eberhard, Glasner, pitcher.
Rohwer, utility outfielder.

"RABBIT" MARANVILLE

"The best shortstop since Honus Wagner." That is fandom's universal opinion of Rabbit Maranville, the shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National league, who appear here against the local tossers Saturday and Sunday. Maranville is a newcomer in a Pirate uniform, having become the property of the Pittsburgh club through the biggest player swap of the past winter, in which players Southworth, Nicholson and Barbare and a wad of cash went to Boston for the midget wonder.

Maranville was not sent away from Boston in the trade because his ability was slipping, but because the Boston club was so desperately in need of players for all positions that they practically were forced to part with their star for players who would fill three positions. Maranville has been the mainstay of the Boston Braves for years, and it was mainly through his ability that the beantown entry, after a poor start in 1914, came down the stretch like a house afire and not only won the National league banner, but also licked the Philadelphia Athletics of the American league four games in a row for the championship of the world.

Maranville is the smallest player in stature in the major leagues, being but five feet and one-half inches in height and tipping the scales at 155 pounds. But what he seems to lack in stature he makes up in ability. He is quick as a cat on his feet, and while not a heavy slugger, is one of the most timely hitters in the game today.

Maranville is a native of the Bay state where, until the present season, his entire career in baseball has been spent. He was born on November 11, 1892, at Springfield, Mass., and entered professional ball with the New Bedford (Mass.), club of the old New England league in 1911. He remained there until the fall of 1912, when he was secured by the Boston club. With the exception of 1918, which he spent in the navy, he has been with the Braves continuously until sent to the Pittsburgh club.

The deal which sent Maranville to the Pirates was one of the longest drawn out and most complicated in the history of the game, no less than five clubs being implicated at one time. It was the concensus of opinion at the time the deal went through that the Rabbit would make the Pirates a pennant winner, and from the form he has displayed in the spring training work, it begins to look as though the predictions of the fans might come true.

HEAVYWEIGHTS WILL NOT ENGAGE IN ANY EXTENSIVE TRAINING

Carpentier And Dempsey To Take No Chances On Becoming Stale Before Bout.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 31—Jack Dempsey will not start training for the big battle until the middle of May, according to Jack Kearns, his manager.

The champion will continue doing theatrical work with a little light training on the side until six weeks before he meets Carpentier.

"Dempsey won't need a lot of work and he's been keeping himself on edge ever since he whipped Willard," Kearns said here today.

"He made a big mistake getting ready for that bout with Bill Brennan. Dempsey started too soon and the bout was postponed several times so that we were really getting ready for three months.

"We can't always tell but what this big fight might have to be postponed at the last minute, requiring more training, and we don't want to go into the ring against that Frenchman stale."

Carpentier will not engage in any long training either. The Frenchman will not arrive in this country until the middle of May, and it seems probable that he and Dempsey will pitch training tents at out the same time.

SPUDDERS POUND BALL FOR 11 TO 3 VICTORY

McDonald And Clark Wallop Sphere With a Vengeance And Lead Attack.

ABILENE, TEXAS, March 31.—The Spudders snowed the West Texas league champions under yesterday with a fusilade of long drives which netted them an 11 to 3 victory. McDonald and Clark, in particular, had a field day with the willow and led the attack with a single, double and circuit drive each.

Manager Salm gave Darrough, Ruth and Hudspeth a chance on the mound and each one had the game well in hand while tossing them up.

Weather conditions were anything but favorable for the matinee. A high cold wind played havoc with the balls driven to the outfield while the players had diffculty in keeping warm. Score:

SPORT BRIEFS

Ty Cobb claims the distinction of working the first squeeze play of the season. It was made in the seventh inning of yesterday's game at Ranger, Texas, between the Detroit Tigers and the Columbus American association club, when Ty played the ball to the left of the pitcher's box and Flagstead scored.

Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., three cushion billiard champion, was in Detroit today preparing for his title match with Gus Copulos of Detroit. They are to play six blocks of 50 points, beginning tomorrow.

In an effort to discourage gambling, Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians will not announce his pitchers overnight during the regular season. The Indians are scheduled to play the San Antonio Texas league team again today.

"Goldie" Rapp, the New York National star infielder, who was ill in a New Orleans hospital for several days, has joined the team at Mobile, Ala.

Dr. Emanuel Lasper and Jose R. Capablanca will tonight begin the sixth game of their chess tournament at Havana which will decide the championship of the world.

After losing two games to the Memphis team of the Southern association the Boston Americans are in Jackson, Tenn., today, where they will line up against the second team in an exhibition game.

Al Pierotti for the Boston Nationals second team and Ira Townsend for the regulars pitched such good ball yesterday that neither side was able to score in the seven inning game played at the Galveston training grounds.

Jack Reynolds, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, welterweight wrestling champion title claimant, defeated Jack Collins of Montreal in straight falls at Peoria last night.

Newspaper men gave Clonie Tait, Canadian lightweight champion, a shade over Johnny Mendelsohn, local lightweight, in their 10 round no-decision bout at Milwaukee last night.

Miss Charlotte Boyle of the New York Swimming association, won the national American amateur athletic union 100 yard swim at Cleveland last night in one minute, 71-5 seconds. Her time was within one second of the record.

Roy Jellife of Yale, representing the New York Athletic club, won the national junior 50 yard swimming title at Rochester last night, time 25 1-5 seconds.

CAPABLANCA DEFEATS LASKER IN FIFTH CHESS GAME

HAVANA, March 31. — The fifth chess game of the championship between Dr. Emanuel Lasker and Jose Capablanca was won early today by Capablanca. The victory came on the forty-sixth move.

The four previous games were draws.

Missouri vs. Kansas.

COLUMBIA, MO., March 31.—The University of Missouri and the Kansas State Agricultural College will meet in a dual track meet here the morning of May 7, Athletic Director Clevenger announced today.

Fort Worth 4; White Sox 3.

CORSICANA, TEXAS, March 31.—Fort Worth defeated the White Sox regulars here yesterday 4 to 1. Davenport's wildness proved costly.

LATEST IN

JIM SEWELL

Manager Walter Salm now has one less hurler to worry about. Jim Sewell arrived yesterday in response to a telegram from Walter, who demanded a little action and wanted to know what Jim was going to do this season.

The Spudder vet was not particularly pleased to run into the cold snap and does not count on doing much limbering up until the sun comes out more strongly. He worked out a bit in his own back yard before reporting, and says the old "souper" is in just as good condition as it ever was. He claims he has discovered a new delivery that will prove baffling to the Texas league swatters this season and one which will preserve his arm for several more seasons.

Jim was the most consistent pitcher Salm had on his roster last year. The big fellow turned in 14 victories and dropped only six. He had an earned run average of 2.43.

FRANK BANCROFT DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

CINCINNATI, March 31.—Frank C. Bancroft, 75, business manager of the Cincinnati Reds and a national baseball figure, died at Deaconess hospital last night. He had been ill many weeks. Bancroft retired from baseball last winter. He was born in Lancaster, Mass., and was a Union drummer boy in the civil war.

CUB PITCHING STAFF WILL MAKE CHICAGO CLUB A CONTENDER

No Pennants Are Predicted But First Division Club Is Looked For.

By ERNEST B. MYERS.
(Written for the United Press.)

CHICAGO, March 31. — It would hardly be fair to Johnny Evers to predict that the Cubs will win the pennant. It would not be unjust, however, to say that he has a club that will give a battle for the championship.

Followers of Evers are predicting that he will have a first division club easily. Their contentions appear to be certain, considering the three wonderful pitchers he has in Alexander, Vaughn and Tyler. This trio alone with a little help at the plate is capable of assuring the Cubs a berth in the first division.

Alexander is in better condition than he ever was; Tyler looks stronger than he has been in three years, and Vaughn is ready to work regularly with them. If Alexander does not win more than thirty games he will be the most disappointed man in baseball.

Evers needs a fourth regular on the staff. He has hoped to make it "Speed" Martin or Abe Bailey, but neither has come up to expectation. Virgil Cheeves is an excellent prospect, but he is only 20 years old. Jones, Zuhr and York are young southpaws who have a chance to travel with the club.

Strong Behind Bat.

The Cubs will be strongly fortified behind the bat with Killifer, O'Farrell and Daly. O'Farell is an improved backstop with the best arm in the league.

There will be one change in the infield, Oscar Grimes covering the initial sack, formerly graced by Merkle and Barber. Grimes is not graceful, but can play the bag and hit. Terry, Hollocher and Deal will occupy the other bags, with Kelleher and Warner as utility men.

The addition of Maisel has added speed and ability to the outfield as well as bolstered up the batting strength of the team. Maisel is an aggressive and hustling player and seems a likely candidate for the cleanup position.

The Cubs will not have to worry about the fielding strength of the club. Their pitching looks to be in good hands and all they will have to do to be a first division team will be to deliver a little steady hitting.

GREAT YEAR DUE FOR COLLEGE TRACK TEAMS

Appearance Of French Runners Will Create Much Interest In Intercollegiates.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Track and field athletics will have the greatest season of history this summer.

The Penn relays, the "intercollegiates" and the "nationals," the three classics of the American track, will be conducted on the most elaborate lines.

The Penn relays will be almost a miniature Olympics, with a strong international flavor lent by the presence of English and French college teams. The games will be much more representative nationally, also, as many institutions, especially the United States Naval academy, will be represented for the first time.

The appearance of the French team promises to create as much interest and real competition as the English team that came over last spring and broke a world's relay team record.

Andre, a hurler, high jumper and runner, perhaps will be the most noted member of the French team. He competed at the Olympic games and proved himself one of the most versatile performers in the field.

Intercollegiate competition will be augmented this year by the first national intercollegiate meet which is to be held after the eastern intercollegiate and western conference and the various other sectional meets.

The "national intercollegiates" is the idea of the University of Chicago which will stage the event on June 11. It is planned to have represented the eastern colleges, the Southern conference, Missouri valley, Rocky mountain, Pacific coast, Western and other conferences.

The national championships likewise will be conducted on more extensive lines. Los Angeles will stage the meet early in July. The date is a departure from the usual custom of holding the meet late in the summer. Robert S. Weaver, president of the A. A. U., was instrumental in having an early summer time set in order to permit college athletes to compete before they have broken training.

Tex Living Up to "Rep."

We were told by those who had played with him that Tex McDonald could hit .300 in pretty nearly any league in the country and if his spring work can be used as a criterion Tex will live up to all the nice things that have been said about him. He has been pickling the old apple right on the nose in every game and those drives that have failed to go safe have left his bat with a resounding whack that ordinarily spells "base hit." His blows are not of the Texas leaguer variety but are solid thumps.

Good Batting Practice.

The Spudders couldn't have had any more batting practice had they remained at home than they received in Abilene yesterday. The shoots served up by the opposing hurlers were made to order for the locals and they belted them to all corners of the lot. Had Jake Miller and Buddy Tanner been in the line-up the boys might have been scoring yet. While Jake is still a trifle off his feed, he expects to be in shape to start the series with the Pirates Saturday. Abe Bowman was left at home also to nurse a knee that has been giving him no little amount of trouble.

Panthers Repeat.

We stated a few days ago that the White Sox had not succeeded in forcing the champion Panthers to accept defeat in two years. Kid Gleason's charges tried again yesterday, but once more were handed the short end of the score. They still have three more chances to avenge themselves, however, and once that wrecking crew composed of Hooper, Collins, Sheely et al. gets going right there should be a different tale.

Pirate Regulars Coming.

Nothing but first string men will appear here in the Pirate lineup Saturday and Sunday, according to the advance batting order sent by Manager Gibson. Maranville, Carey and all the other stars will cavort around the park, as will Johnny Mokan, Carl Eberhard and Jimmy Zinn. Eby will probably hurl the opener, or at least start it while Jimmy, the Spudder's erstwhile Sunday twirler, will be used on that day as of yore by Gibson. Local fans are now hoping that the cold wave will have passed by Saturday so that all will be able to go at top speed.

Tanner Takes Up Golf.

Golf now has another ardent devotee. "Buddy" Tanner is the latest to take up "cow pasture pool," and like all the rest who have played it once, he's gone wild about the game. We had to smile the other day when "Buddy" was telling us about his first day out—how he "topped his drives," etc. He's mastered the language anyway. Fans who have heard "Buddy" on the ball field know that he already has one of the assets of a golfer. He must be picking the game up quickly or else Will Gray had an off day yesterday. He and Will did 24 holes despite the high wind and Will admits that he only won 3 up.

Great Place Hitter Coming.

One of the greatest place hitters in the game will be here with the Tigers next Monday and Tuesday. Managers, players and writers agree that not since the day of little Willie Keeler has there been a player who has been able to place a ball as accurately as "Chick" Shorten, the Tiger outfielder. He does not hit for distance, but for place, and is satisfied to see the ball drop safely and get credit for a single. Incidentally, he is one of the greatest fielders in the game. 'Tis said that two of his catches in Navin park last year still stand out as the fielding features of the season.

Saw "Chick" Break In.

We happened to see "Chick" Shorten when he broke into professional baseball. He and Steve O'Neill broke into the professional game together on the Worcester (Mass.) club in the old New England league and both were stars their first years out. "Chick" lasted only one season in that league and was drafted by the Providence club in the International. He burned up that league with his speed and the following year was captured by the Tigers. He would play in every game of the season with any club other than the Tigers, but Cobb's club has always had an overabundance of sterling outfielders and "Chick" has been forced to divide his time with someone else.

ATHLETES IN HIGH SEAS ROMANCE

A romance on the high seas which began when the Princess Matoika steamed out of New York last August with American Olympic athletes was brought to light recently with the announcement of the engagement of nineteen-year-old Miss Alice Lord of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Richard Landon of Yale, present high jump champion of the world. Miss Lord, one of the foremost of the world's high divers, was one of the team of swimmers and divers that made the trip to Belgium last summer. On the same ship was the high jumper. They had never met before and when introduced it was a case of "love at first sight." Since that time they have been in each other's company much of the time. No date has been set for the wedding.

"SOMETHING SEEMS TO WHISPER—"

"Something seems to whisper where the sky is blue,
Those who wish to find me in a week or two
Will have to search some brooklet running through a wood,
To grab me while I'm fishing, where the fishing's good."

"Something tells me when I hear the robin and the grackle
That I shall grab my rod and my battered box of tackle.
That I shall slip my hat on, all bedecked with hooks,
And beat it for the open and the land of bubbling brooks."

THE KID AND SPORT.

The average kid has a pretty rough and tumble time of it in this fairly rough and tumble existence.

His main recreation is short and in this respect he has been enfiladed, flanked, surrounded and almost shut off from his supplies. First, the tax on athletic goods threw the bulk of its big burden on the kid alone.

The tax doesn't affect the business man to any extent, but it hits the average kid buying baseball bats, gloves, balls, etc., midway between the eyes. And this comes at a time when every possible encouragement is being given the youngsters to take up some clean sport.

In the same way the advance in prices at various ball parks has landed heavily on those who will be the supporting fans of the future.

The practical elimination of the twenty-five cent seats blocked his entrance to the field.

The different major league clubs could make no wiser move than to install a kid's day at least once a week where only a light admission would be charged for all under sixteen years of age.

Any number of high-sounding speeches are being made in behalf of the welfare of the youngsters, but in the meanwhile they are taxing him out of playing a game on one side and high charging him out of seeing it on the other.

THE "HELL-FOR-LEATHER" SERIES.

Many thousands still recall the two international polo contests of 1913 and 1914.

In 1913 the old Big Four of America rode to triumph. In 1914 the British team broke through in one of the most desperate of all polo engagements. Now, after a seven-year lapse, the first of America's advance guard is landing on British soil to prepare for the coming counter charge of June. Of the old Big Four only Devereux Milburn is left. A new team, with the exception of this brilliant star, will lead the charge against a strong British line-up where conditions are now too young to call for any advance opinion as to who will win.

But at least sufficient data has been gathered from both teams to suggest an even battle and one of the closest cup contests ever played.

It will be a "hell-for-leather" series all the way across.

HOW TO BAT.

Stand up and take a healthy swing,
In manner bold without restraint;
Get set against the pitchers fling,
Then hit 'em where Tris Speaker ain't.

The only champion who refused to step up and bolster his income tax during Rickard's winter carnival was Johnny Kilbane. Kilbane refused point-blank to defend his title, even for a lot of money. This is the spot where some official boxing board should convene a meeting and appoint a pair of new contenders to go after the defaulted crown.

Under the Kilbane arrangement it would be easy enough for a man to win a title and then capitalize it for ten or fifteen years without giving any challenger a chance. Under the same arrangement the Athletics would still be baseball champions of the world.

Bill Roper took Bob Edgren and Jack Wheeler on a battle tour over the Pine Valley golf course recently and now both Bob and Jack understand why Bill is a rare optimist. After emerging from the bunkers and traps of Pine Valley any other problem of life or conduct looks supremely easy, not to say simple.

Princeton prospects for 1921 may have suffered one or two casualties, but as long as Roper has Keck, Lourie, Garrity and Gilroy he will make a stagger at completing his schedule.

"Sisler taking up golf for his batting eye." The next move will be for John D. Rockefeller to take up a commercial course in order to learn something about the art of money making.

Or, "Babe" Ruth will be taking up bowling to develop a punch at bat.

DETROIT TIGERS ARE GREAT DRAWING CARD

Cobb's Charges Always Pulling The Unexpected And Are Flashiest In The Game.

Several years ago when Connie Mack's Athletics won world's championships and were called "The Infallible Machine of Baseball," the angular tactician brought his team to Detroit for a series of four games. It was mid-season and the Athletics were at the very height of their form.

A reporter in Detroit interviewed Connie and remarked that his club must be making a lot of money. "One should think so," replied Mack, "but the truth of the matter is we are not doing 70 per cent as much business either at home or on the road as your club here does."

"You see," explained Connie, "I have the greatest team in baseball, a team as near perfect as any I ever expect to see, but a team that is not spectacular. Anything they do is letter perfect. They rarely, rarely ever make the wrong play. They play baseball according to strictest interpretation of the science of the game. But the Tigers play baseball according to their own standard. It is a fighting, dashing style they have. They make errors and they will lose games, but any time you see them you are sure of seeing a lot of thrilling plays. They have 'pep' and 'ginger.' They take long chances and are always sensational. It is the style of the Tigers that makes them so popular and interesting. With a team like mine fans know just what the team will do but with the Tigers no one ever knows what they will try to pull. It is the flashiest club in baseball, the most interesting and it should not take you long to figure out just why people flock through the turnstiles to see Hughie Jennings coach and his players perform.

DOROTHY DIX'S TALKS

By DOROTHY DIX
THE WORLD'S HIGHEST PAID WOMAN WRITER

TRAINING A WIFE

A DISTINGUISHED college professor says that men should be trained for matrimony.

Likewise women.

Considering that marriage is the pre-destined career of the great majority of women, and the one that every mother's daughter of them intends to embrace at the first good opportunity, it is passing strange that only a negligible number of them ever take the trouble to prepare themselves for it. They seem to think that the knowledge of how to be a good wife comes by nature, as Dogberry thought a knowledge of reading and writing did.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. To turn out a first-class job of wifehood is to practise one of the learned professions. It requires the combined talents and skill of the chef, the financier, the psychologist, the vaudeville artist, and the juggler who can walk on eggs without breaking them; and this being the case, no girl who intends to get married can begin her study of the fine art of matrimony too young. For it's a life-long study. And difficult.

Of course, the training of a girl for wifehood should begin in the kitchen. Every normal man has twice as much stomach as he has heart, and he cares only for the finer things of life after he has been fed up on the substantial things.

No man is sentimental when he is hungry, nor can love survive a daily diet of over-done meat and under-done bread and soggy potatoes. Dyspepsia is death to illusion.

The first time many a man discovers that the woman he has married is not the angel of his dreams, is when she sets him down to a dinner that would kill an ostrich; and when he finds out that the home he has been looking forward to all his life, is a first aid station to the undertaker, instead of an abode of comfort and peace.

It is just as dishonorable for a woman to marry a man without knowing how to cook and run a house, as it is for a man to marry a woman without being able to support her. It's his place to make the living, and hers to make a comfortable home; and each is a slacker if he or she fails to do his or her part.

A girl should be trained for wifehood by being taught how to handle money. Business girls have not only learned how to spend money but how to earn it, and that is why they make such good wives. The average home-staying girl is left by her cruel parents to learn the use of money at her husband's expense, which is pretty rough on Friend Husband.

There are tens of thousands of girls who have never had ten dollars of their own to spend. They have had things charged to papa at the stores; mother has bought them what she thought they should have; but they have never handled actual money, and haven't the slightest idea of how far a dollar will go, or how to get the most value out of it.

Therefore, when they get married and take possession of their husbands' pocketbooks, they go wild. Money seems to them inexhaustible; and before they know it, they are head over heels in debt.

Every girl should be taught how to handle her husband's money by being given an allowance and made to live on it. She should be taught how to save here, so she can spend there, and to deny herself little things that she may have big ones.

There is no shorter cut to the divorce court than extravange, and no tie binds a man to a woman more strongly than thrift. So if a woman wants to be happy and properous wife, she must be a good financier.

To be a successful wife, a woman must know how to handle her husband with gloves, and to run the domestic machinery with the least possible friction. Most women have an idea that if they love their husbands enough, they can treat them as mean as they please.

Acting on this theory, a woman whose one burning desire in life is for her husband to be always romantically in love with her, will appear before him daily slouchy, unattractive, with uncombed hair and uncorseted figure. Or, a woman who loves her husband well enough to die for him, will nag him about everything under the sun that he does, until his home comes to be a symbol for the place of torment in his mind.

The very ABC of a girl's training for matrimony should be that if she wants to be kissed, she must keep herself kissable; and that just because a husband and wife do have to live so close together is the more reason for making every effort to keep themselves as personally attractive as possible. It takes care, and work, and trouble for a woman to keep her halo always polished up, but it pays for the effort it costs.

It should also be grounded into the girl's consciousness that when she marries, she doesn't become her husband's jailer, nor is she made the custodian of his manners and habits. By the time a man is old enough to get married, he has found out what he likes to eat, and wear, and read, and how late he likes to sit up at night; and his wife is wise if she leaves him undisturbed in his little ways. And if she is big enough to give him a night off without raising ructions about it, he will arise and bless her name.

The girl who is going to be married, should take a course in diplomacy, and find out the million different combinations by which a man can be worked. She should learn how to choose the psychological time for asking for money, and imparting the news that her mother is coming on a visit, and how to play upon masculine vanity as upon a harp with a thousand strings.

Above all, the woman who wants to make a success as a wife, should be trained to be a good sport, to take things in life as they come, hard and soft, to be a faithful comrade, and a good loser who will stand by her husband in his adversity, as she enjoyed the good things he lavished on her in his prosperity.

Being a wife is a full-sized woman's job. It's no jack-leg trade for amateurs. It's big business, and it requires a highly-trained professional to make a success of it.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

The young lady across the way says they say the young man next door is a regular licentiate physician but for her part she doesn't believe in gossip and he certainly looks moral enough.

"What's In a Name?"

MORE ABOUT HELEN

ITALY took the name of Helen and transformed it into the soft musical Elena. Provence contributed Alienor, which became Eleonore in France and Lemore in Spain. It was finally brought to England by "good Queen Eleanor" and was long used as a royal name by the Lanagenets as Elinor. Italy contributed one more charming derivative in Leonora d'Este, object of Tasso's hopeless affection.

Other countries brought the distinguishing mark of their language to bear upon Helen, resulting in the Helenka of Russia; Helene of Sweden; Leonore of France; Nellie and Lena of England and America.

The jewel assigned to Helen, and one to be worn by all who bear the name, if they would have health, good fortune, and happiness, is the hyacinth, or yellow jacinth, as it is better known. In early days a jacinth was carried by every traveler to insure them against accident or disease—in fact, the stone is said to warn its wearer against the approach of danger by paling in color. It is also believed to be proof against lightning. To dream of a jacinth is interpreted to mean "success," and Sunday is the lucky day of its wearer.

Lyrics of Life

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

DARE BE THE THING YOU ARE

To dare to be the thing you are,
Not something else to seem,
Your journey near, your journey far,
And dark, or all agleam—
To walk your way with head erect,
Whatever it may be,
Will bring you more of men's respect,
Than cheap chicanery.

To wear a gloss, a thin veneer,
Your inner self to hide,
Some other person to appear,
May please your petty pride,
May satisfy you for a day,
A little while deceive—
But men shall tear the mask away
And doubt who now believe.

If you are poor to dare be poor
Is truly to be rich;
To live, if need be, on the moor,
If fated, walk the ditch,
Will bring you more regard, I know,
Than velvet garments gay,
Than all the artificial show
For which you cannot pay.

If rich or poor, if small or great,
If age is yours, or youth,
Whatever fortune, ever fate,
Your greatest charm is truth;
And they more quickly find the dream,
The goal however far,
Why do not something try to seem
But seem the thing they are!

HASHED BROWNED POTATOES

Hashed browned potatoes will always be a favorite with many persons. To make them use potatoes that have been boiled in their skins, cooled and then peeled. Now chop them, but not too fine. Have ready your frying pan in which you have melted a tablespoon of fresh bacon drippings or butter. Now turn the potatoes into the pan. Wok with a flexible knife, running it under the potatoes from time to time to keep them from sticking. When well browned on the bottom turn out on a small platter or flat vegetable dish, season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

Outside Wraps Chosen for Spring Show the Full, Low-waisted Lines That Proved Acceptable Last Winter.

THE case of fashions in outside wraps for spring was merely a matter of the survival of the fittest. The spring of the year is not a season when we look for any originality in designing of top coats and other wraps anyway.

We merely watched the openings in Paris and the offerings of our American producers to see which of the models that had been launched for winter survived for reproduction in lighter weight materials for spring.

There seems to be no tendency to anything more form defining. There is apparently the same willingness on the part of women to wear coats that show their greatest bulge just where women used to go through tortures to appear most constricted.

There may be some tendency toward a more closely draped or fitted waist in frocks, whether this is achieved by the sheath-like, long-waisted bodice with folds that cling to the figure, or by means of the fitted bodice of the Second Empire period.

But this tendency has not spread to coats. Our coats are still balloons and some day women will look back and ask themselves how they could ever have been so indifferent to their appearance, when they see pictures of the coats that we wear and find delightful now.

Several of the French designers, the Madeleines notably, have made their waists longer than ever and this applies to wraps as well as to frocks. Sometimes their coats consist of very long full bodies, slightly fulled in at a line that falls at or below the hips and the skirt of the coat consists of a slightly circular piece that appears, in contrast to the long body, merely a flounce or ruffle.

Importance of Coat Lengths.

We may become accustomed to this type of coat. In the meantime the coat that is fulled under the arms but hangs straight at the back and front has more appeal.

Coat lengths are always a detail of some importance, but women do not always givve as much thought to it as they might.

While short or fairly short skirts prevail we follow the French lead and have our coats cut as long as or slightly longer than our frocks. There is real advantage in this as the coat then really envelops the frock protectingly, and there is not the line of contrasting material at the bottom of the coat that sometimes really spoils the general effect. If you wear a coat that is long be sure that it is long enough to cover your frock.

There is at present a tendency to select a coat that is not intended to be full length. This seems to have especial popularity with the woman who wishes to make a single coat do for all daytime occasions—to answer as a street coat in town and a sport coat in the country. This type of coat still finds admirers when it is made in camel's hair.

C ats of Silk.

There is a strong feeling among women who can afford several coats a season for afternoon wraps made of silk. Quilted silk wraps are strong in their appeal and sometimes the silk coat is interlined in order to give it the warmth that the silk would lack.

Figured linings are not in the high favor they were, and though there is a disposition to trim linings with ribbons and rosettes there is a stronger tendency to line wraps with solid colored silks.

The Housewife's Economy Calendar

Before You Start to Sew

MOST of the serious mistakes that the housewife makes when she undertakes to do her own dressmaking are made before her task is really begun. If she starts right the rest is fair sailing. This seems, perhaps, like an exaggeration, but isn't it true when you come to think about it?

In the first place there is the choice of the pattern. That is of enormous importance. Be sure that you select one that is not too difficult, one that is suitable to the material you have on hand and suitable to yourself. Then be sure that you have the right size. If you are not sure, get the saleswoman at the pattern counter to measure you. It is false economy to use a pattern that is not your size just because you happen to have it on hand or because a friend can lend it to you.

Then study well your goods. Remember that with most goods there is a right and wrong side, and with some an up and down. There may even be a right and left. Sometimes this is not very obvious, but no matter what the material, examine it with this in mind—to see whether it has an up and down, a right or wrong or a left and right. Velvet and velveteen and corduroy have an up and down in the weave of the fabric, although it is not very apparent. Well, you should always cut these fabrics so that when you stroke the goods it is smoothest from the hem of the skirt to the waist or from the cuff of the sleeve to the shoulder. This makes the fabric appear richer and darker. Sometimes with panne velvet, however, you use it just the reverse way—it depends on whether you want to have the material appear lighter or darker. But whatever you do remember to have all the pieces cut the same way of the goods.

With broadcloth the rule is reversed. As you stroke downward it must be smooth. With these materials, there is a right and wrong and an up and down, so think twice before you start in cutting.

Now arrange every piece on the fabric before you cut it out. Don't start and say to yourself: "I may as well get this piece cut out. It has to be cut sometime and when I get it cut then I will know how much more material I have on hand." Wait, be sure that all the pieces are coming out before you start with the scissors. And do make sure just how much seam allowance is made in the pattern you are using. Be sure that you are making the right allowance for hems, be sure also that you have the right skirt length. If you are short and therefore can take a skirt shorter than that specified in the pattern don't make full allowance for the hem. It is foolish to make the pieces any larger than you require them.

Now all these things you do, or do not do, before you have really begun to sew. If you approach your work hastily or absent-mindedly you will have to expend much energy in undoing the mistake you have made. A home-made frock well begun is pretty sure to be a success.

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

LAST NIGHT'S DREAMS; WHAT THEY MEAN

SMOKE

SMOKE seen in a dream is variously interpreted by various oracles. Some of the mystics say that it merely means that the dreamer is too vain and also that he—or she—is prudish. Others see in the dream an emblem of unfulfilled ambitions, while still others regard it as a sign of vanishing cares. The majority, however, agree that if the smoke dreamed of appears as if coming from a chimney, the omen is one for prosperity in business and happiness at home. Some of the mystics appear to mix up a dream of smoke with a dream of the act of smoking tobacco—which is clearly an error and is not at all countenanced by the best soothsayers of the mystic persuasion. To see a cloud of smoke rolling slowly across the vision in a dream signifies, according to the best interpreters, that the cares and worries which now afflict you will soon pass away. But it also means that the dreamer is too much given to illusions and "imagining of strange things." He is inclined to borrow trouble and invents difficulties to torment himself with without any real foundation for the same. He should shake off the habit of day-dreaming unless he can construct pleasant day dreams. Some of the mystic interpreters think that when one dreams that he is in a dense cloud of smoke it indicates that he is likely to suffer injury from false friends and should be on his guard.

When an unmarried woman dreams of ribbons it is said to indicate that her sweetheart is only sowing his wild oats; and the advice is given her not to be too exacting—the young man will be all right by and by. The idea of careless spending, a generous and a free hand, appears to run through the majority of the mystic interpretations and some of the oracles answer the question as to what a dream of ribbons means by the one word: "Prodigality!"

To-Day's Lucky Jewel Color Flower

By MILDRED MARSHALL

AMETHYST

TODAY'S talismanic stone is the amethyst, which at this time of the year was believed by the ancients to protect its wearers from care and worry, and ensure them a peaceful and successful career.

The natal stone for today is the topaz, potent in bringing happiness to its owners, and enabling them to meet even the most trying circumstances with good temper.

Today's color is yellow, which in the Orient is regarded as being unusually lucky. It not only brings happiness and good cheer wherever it is worn, but also dispels care, according to an old superstition.

The flower for today is the jonquil.

The Day We Celebrate

By O. HENRY

"IN the tropics" ("Hop-along" Bibb, the bird fancier, was saying to me) "the seasons, months, fortnights, week-ends, holidays, dog-days, Sundays, and yesterdays get so jumbled together in the shuffle that you never know when a year has gone by until you're in the middle of the next one."

"Hop-along" Bibb kept his bird store on lower Fourth Avenue. He was an ex-seaman and beach-comber who made regular voyages to southern ports and imported personally conducted invoices of talking parrots and dialectic paroquets. I had gone to him to buy a parrot to present, at Christmas, to my Aunt Joanna.

"This one," said I, disregarding his homily on the subdivisions of time—"this one that seems all red, white, and blue—to what genus of beasts does he belong? He appeals at once to my patriotism and to my love of discord in color schemes."

"That's a cockatoo from Ecuador," said Bibb. "All he has been taught to say is 'Merry Christmas.' A seasonable bird. He's only seven dollars; and I'll bet many a human has stuck you for money by making the same speech to you."

And then Bibb laughed suddenly and loudly.

"That bird," he explained, "reminds me. He's got his dates mixed. He ought to be saying 'E pluribus unum,' to match his feathers, instead of trying to work the Santa Claus graft. It reminds me of the time me and Liverpool Sam got our ideas of things tangled up on the coast of Costa Rica on account of the weather and other phenomena to bet met with in the tropics.

"We were, as it were, stranded on that section of the Spanish main with no money to speak of and no friends that should be talked about either. We had stoked and second-cooked ourselves down there on a fruit steamer from New Orleans to try our luck, which was discharged, after we got there, for lack of evidence. There was no work suitable to our instincts; so me and Liverpool began to subsist on the red rum of the country and such fruit as we could reap where we had not sown. It was an alluvian town, called Soledad, where there was no harbor or future or recourse. Between steamers the town slept and drank rum. It only woke up when there were bananas to ship. It was like a man sleeping through dinner until the dessert.

"When me and Liverpool got so low down that the American consul wouldn't speak to us we knew we'd struck bed rock.

"We boarded with a snuff-brown lady named Chica, who kept a rum-shop and a ladies' and gent's restaurant in a street called the calle de los Forty-seven-Inconsolable Saints. When our credit played out there, Liverpool's stomach overshadowed his sensations of noblesse oblige, and he married Chica. This kept us in rice and fried plantain for a month, and then Chica pounded Liverpool one morning sadly and earnestly for fifteen minutes with a casserole handed down from the stone age, and we knew that we had outwelcomed our liver. That night we signed an engagement with Don Jaime McSpinosa, a hybrid banana fancier of the place, to work on his fruit preserves nine miles out of town. We had to do it or be reduced to sea water and broken doses of feed and slumber.

"Our job on old McSpinosa's plantation was chopping down banana stalks and loading the bunches of fruit on the backs of horses. Then a native dressed up in an alligator hide belt, a machete, and a pair of AA sheeting pajamas, drives 'em over to the coast and piles 'em up on the beach.

"I don't know how long we worked for Don Jaime, but it was through two or three rainy spells, eight or ten hair cuts, and the life of three pairs of sail-cloth trousers. All the money we earned went for rum and tobacco; but we ate, and that was something.

"All of a sudden one day me and Liverpool find the trade of committing surgical operations on banana stalks turning to aloes and quinine in our mouths. We wanted to be addressed in language and see the smoke of a steamer and read the real estate transfers and gents' outfitting ads in an old newspaper. Even Soledad seemed like a centre of civilization to us, so that evening we put our thumbs to our nose at Don Jaime's fruit stand and shook his grass burrs off our feet.

"It was only twelve miles to Soledad, but it took me and Liverpool two days to get there. It was banana grove nearly all the way; and we got twisted time and again.

"When we sa wthe houses of Soledad between the trees all my disinclination toward this Liverpool Sam rose up in me. I stood him while we were two white men against the banana brindles; but now, when there were prospects of my exchanging even cuss words with an American citizen, I put him back in his proper place.

"Well, Soledad looked fine to me after Don Jaime's plantation. Liverpool and me walked into it side by side, from force of habit, past the calibosa and the Hotel Grande, down across the plaza toward Chica's nut, where we hoped that Liverpool, being a husband of hers, might work his luck for a meal.

"As we passed the two-story little frame house occupied by the American Club, we noticed that the balcony had been decorated all around with wreaths of evergreens and flowers, and the flag was flying from the pole on the roof. It was some holiday, we knew; but we didn't know the day nor the year.

"A little further along we saw a reverend man named Pendergast, who had come to Soledad to build a church, standing under a cocoanut palm with his little black alpaca coat and green umbrella.

"'Boys, boys!' says he, through his blue spectacles, 'is it as bad as this? Are you so far reduced?'

"'We're reduced,' says I, 'to very vulgar fractions.'

"'It is indeed sad,' says Pendergast, 'to see my countrymen in such circumstances.'

"'And on this day, too!' goes on Pendergast, grievous—'on this most glorious day of the year when we should all be celebrating the dawn of Christian civilization and the downfall of the wicked.'

"I did notice bunting and bouquets decorating the town, reverend,' says I, 'but I don't know what it was for. We've been so long out of touch with calendars that we didn't know whether it was summer time or Saturday afternoon.

"Get up," says I, "and come along with me."

"'Here is two dollars,' says Pendergast, digging up two Chili silver wheels and handing 'em to me. 'Go, my men, and observe the rest of the day in a befitting manner.'

"Me and Liverpool thanked him kindly, and walked away.

"'Shall we eat?' I asks.

"'Oh, 'ell!' says Liverpool. 'What's money for?'

"'Very well, then,' I says, 'since you insist upon it, we'll drink.'

"So we pull up in a rum shop and get a quart of it and go down on the beach under a cocoanut tree and celebrate.

"Not having eaten anything but oranges in two days, the rum has immediate effect; and once more I conjure up great repugnance toward the British nation.

"'Stand up here,' I says to Liverpool, 'you scum of a despot limited monarchy, and have another dose of Bunker Hill. That good man, Mr. Pendergast,' says I, 'said we were to observe the day in a befitting manner, and I'm not going to see his money misapplied.'

"'Oh, you go to 'ell!' says Liverpool, and I started in with a fine left-hander on his right eye.

"Liverpool had been a fighter once, but dissipation and bad company had taken the nerve out of him. In ten minutes I had him lying on the sand waving the white flag.

"'Get up,' says I, kicking him in the ribs, 'and come along with me.'

"I led him to Reverend Pendergast's shack and called him out.

"'Look at this, sir,' says I—'look at this thing that was once a proud Britisher. You gave us two dollars and told us to celebrate the day. The star-spangled banner still waves. Hurrah for the stars and eagles!'

"'Dear me,' says Pendergast, holding up his hands, 'Fighting on this day of all days!' On Christmas day, when peace on—'

"'Christmas, hell!' says I. 'I thought it was the Fourth of July.'"

* * * * * *

"Merry Christmas!", said the red, white, and blue cockatoo.

"Take him for si xdollars," said Hop-along Bibb. "He's got his dates and colors mixed."

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

New York Stocks—Grain and Provisions—Cotton—Livestock

COTTON MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 13 to 16 points in response to lower Liverpool cables and Wall street, local and southern selling. May eased off to 12.13 and July to 12.62 after the call, or about 18 to 21 points lower but some of the Liverpool advices were optimistic and trade interests were fair buyers on the opening decline. Prices rallied a few points in consequence with the market rather irregular and unsettled during the early trading. The decline in Liverpool was attributed to the labor uncertainty but one of the private cables said that a coal strike was unlikely and that if it did happen the mills had large stocks on hand.

A sharp closing rally in the English market failed to promote any buying of consequence here and prices were barely steady around mid-day with May selling at 12.16 and July at 12.44, or about 16 to 18 points net slower. Trading was very quiet after the first half hour with operators evidently disposed to wait for British developments.

Trading remained very quiet during the afternoon with prices holding steady around 12.70 for July, or about nine to 12 points net lower.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, March 31.—Declines of 19 to 22 points resulted from the trading around the opening in the cotton market today, mainly because of poor cables and the fear of a coal strike in England starting tonight. Weather conditions over the belt were again unfavorable, too much rain being reported and the market soon steadied. At the end of the first half hour of trading, prices were at net declines of 11 to 12 points. At the lowest May traded down to 11.64.

Private accounts from England regarding coal strike negotiations became very confusing. Additional selling followed a message stating that the strike meeting had separated without results. At 11:00 o'clock the trading months were 17 to 18 points under the close of yesterday.

In the afternoon session the tone was steady enough but the market did not move far either way. Uncertainty over the coal strike situation in England prevented buying and uneasiness over weather conditions in the belt prevented selling. At 1:30 the trading months were at declines of 10 points.

Cotton closed steady at net declines of five to eight points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, March 31.—Wheat prices today fell to the lowest level which has been touched this season by the May and July deliveries. Selling pressure was general. Prospects of a big yield of winter wheat had much to do with emphasizing bearish sentiment. Opening prices, which varied from 2¢ decline to 1¢ advance, with May $1.37½@1.39½ and July $1.19½@1.20, were followed by numerous fluctuations within the initial range.

Subsequently, word of export buying tended to rally the market. Prices closed unsettled, 1¾c net lower to ¼c advance, with May $1.38½@1.38⅝ and July $1.19½@1.19⅝.

Corn and oats also sold at new low record prices for the season. Corn opened 1c to 2@2c off including May at 60¾@61c, and later sagged a little more.

On the decline, some strong interests turned to the buying side but rallies failed to last. The close was weak, 1@1c net lower, with May 60¼@60¾.

Oats displayed relatively greater weakness than corn, starting 1@1c down, July 39¼@40c, and afterward descending rapidly.

Provisions were firm owing to higher quotations on hogs.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Weakness prevailed at the opening of today's stock market, leaders of the oil, steel, equipment and motor groups being among the first to give way to increased pressure. Prospects of tighter money rates encouraged the shorts to extend their commitments. Within the first half hour losses of one to three points were sustained by Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Royal Dutch, Crucible, Harvester, Baldwin, Studebaker, Chandler and Kelly Springfield Tire. The reaction extended to rails, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific losing one point each.

The market became very dull at mid-day but further weakness developed. Pennsylvania at a fractional decline to 34½ established a new low record for many years. Obscure specialties, including Union Bag, Federal Mining and United Drug were lower by two to five points.

LIVESTOCK.

Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, March 31.—Cattle were disposed of on a steady market today, receipts amounting to 1,250 head exclusive of 350 calves. South Texas sent in 15 cars of steers and two cars of cows, three cars of calves and one load of yearlings. Four loads of steers sold to a packer at $6.75 and the cows brought $6.50, prices quoted steady. Eleven cars of steers were suitable for feeding purposes, but could be used as killers.

Hogs sold late, the market opening slow and a shade stronger, but closing around 10 to 15c higher than the low time Wednesday. Several cars sold at $9.10 and most of the run went at $8.50 to $9.00. Pigs suffered a 25c decline and the market was $1 lower than at the week's opening. The best stockers went at $8.50. Hog receipts were 3,000 head.

Sheep and lambs receipts reached 800 head. The market was slow and around 50c lower. Quotations:

COMPLAINT FILED AGAINST PRESIDENT HOUSTON BANK

HOUSTON, March 31.—C. L. Johnson, president of the Houston Trust and Savings bank, unincorporated, which closed its doors Monday, was arrested today on a complaint of a depositor filed in justice court, charging him with receiving a deposit in an insolvent bank.

Several meetings have been held by depositors looking to straightening out the affairs of the bank, and an application for a receiver is scheduled to be heard in district court this afternoon.

UNCOVER ORGANIZED BAND OF BURGLARS

State Rangers Arrest Three Suspects Of An Alleged Gang Of Thieves.

After two days and nights of work during which time two young men were shadowed, Texas Rangers McCormick and Gonzaullas effected the arrest of three, who are believed to be a part of an alleged band of eight who have been burglarizing and stealing in the city during the past month.

Two of the alleged burglars were arrested Wednesday night at midnight while, it is alleged, they were in the act of stealing accessories from some automobiles parked near the Holliday creamery. The two had been shadowed the entire evening.

It is the contention of officers that the two men arrested Wednesday night and the third taken into custody Thursday afternoon were the tools of the organization who acquired the things, and that the remainder of the organization were engaged in disposing of the stolen property.

Tuesday night the Hill and Hill warehouse was broken into and a quantity of valuable accessories were stolen. A portion of the property was recovered by the rangers Wednesday night.

It was stated Thursday afternoon that one of the young men under arrest told his entire story to the officers, in which he is said to have incriminated five or six more men residing in the city.

The young fellow has changed his name since taken into custody and refused to speak until Thursday afternoon when it became apparent that another party was endeavoring to lay the entire matter on his head.

One of the members of the firm of Hill and Hill identified the property recovered by the rangers as that stolen from his warehouse on Tuesday evening.

NEGRO LOCKED UP IN BOX CAR IS ARRESTED WHEN HIS JOURNEY ENDS

Two days of investigation by the police resulted Thursday in the filing of charges of theft against J. L. Hackney, a negro, who was found in a freight car in the Fort Worth and Denver yards last Tuesday and who claimed to have been locked in the car after it had been loaded at Fort Worth the day previous.

According to Hackney's story, he had been aiding two other negroes in loading the car, and that while he was in one end piling freight his companions, either intentionally or accidentally, locked and sealed the doors. When opened by a freight clerk the negro was seen to dodge behind a large box, so the car was locked again and a policeman summoned, who arrested Hackney when he was let out.

A number of boxes are said to have been opened, all of which contained groceries and dry goods, but none of the contents had been removed.

According to Chief Detective Boyd, there are a number of "gangs" working in this territory who make a practice of secreting one of their number in a freight car filled with merchandise and then following the train in an automobile so that any boxes thrown out by the hidden man may be picked up.

CONVENTION REPORT AND DEBATE HEARD AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

A report on the district Rotary convention at Paris, and an impromptu debate between H. J. Bean and A. E. Myles were features of Thursday's luncheon of the Rotary club.

T. B. Smock, one of the four delegates to the Paris meeting, told of the interesting and instructive sessions held. Among addresses of special interest discussed by him were two, one dealing with the I. W. W. activities, and the other discussing the Non-Partisan league, the two addresses together indicating that these organizations had much in common. Mr. Smock said Paris was lavish in its hospitality, and he said that the entertaining of the Rotarians, which the Wichita club hopes to undertake in 1922, is a great big job.

Debates between R. J. Bean and A. E. Myles used to be regular features of Rotary meetings, but that of Thursday was the first in some time. A short talk by B. J. Bean as to the ways in which Rotary must show its usefulness was answered by Mr. Myles, but no decision was rendered.

It was reported that requests have been received for 65 copies of Dr. Barker's address.

City Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holliday are the parents of a daughter, which arrived Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Holliday is assistant district attorney.

William L. Smith, candidate for alderman, place No. 1, in a communication to The Times, denies a rumor that he was put forward as a candidate by the company employing him, in order to divide the labor vote. Mr. Smith says that the company did not know anything of his plans until he made formal announcement of his candidacy.

Sam Sparks of Austin is in the city on business.

H. D. Hemphill, vice president of the Graham National bank, was in the city Thursday on business.

The regular weekly session of the business council of the chamber of commerce will be held at noon Friday at the Kemp.

W. E. Wrather, formerly of this city, now located at Dallas, was a visitor here Thursday.

Carrol H. Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Maxwell of 1306 Austin, was one of 19 cadets at Kemper Military institute to make an average of about 95 last month, according to advices reaching here from the school.

GIRLS' CLOTHING CONTEST WILL BE IN SAN ANTONIO

AUSTIN, March 31.—The girls' clothing contest being conducted by the state department of education will be held at the Brackenridge High school at San Antonio, April 21 and 22, at the invitation of San Antonio high schools, it was decided by the state advisory committee today.

Rates of one and one-half fare for the round trip April 19 to 24 are a settled fact, the department of education announced. The schools for competitive purposes have been divided into two groups, duplicate awards to be made to the two groups. Group A includes schools with teachers devoting full time to clothing, and group B, schools with teachers dividing their time between food and clothing.

GREAT BRITAIN IS FACING STRIKE OF "TRIPLE ALLIANCE"

By LLOYD ALIEN
United Press Staff Corresjondent.

LONDON, March 31.—Great Britain was threatened with an industrial upheaval today through "triple alliance" strikes.

Miners were ordered to strike tonight when government control of the industry is ended and colliery owners attempt to enforce a lower wage scale.

An emergency meeting of transport workers was called for Tuesday to consider a sympathetic strike. Railway workers will meet Wednesday to discuss action on threatened wage cuts.

Strike action by railway workers and transport workers was expected to follow that of the miners. By co-operating in their demands they have been able to enforce them in the past.

Miners' leaders were fearful that without support of the other members of the triple alliance they could not win. The demand for coal is not acute. A transport and railway strike, however, would tie up all industry.

COAL MINERS LEAVE PITS IN THE VARIOUS DISTRICTS

By Associated Press.

LONDON, March 31—The coal miners began to leave the pits in various districts this afternoon in line with the decision of the union executive committee to call a strike at midnight tonight because of the failure to settle the miners' wage demands. The board of trade officials have decided that coal for export shall be rationed rigidly.

Stocks for home consumption will be allocated to essential industries and all domestic consumers will be rationed the same as during the war. The supplies on hand, it was stated today, are generally better than normal.

Austin Children Reported Missing; May Be Kidnaped

AUSTIN, TEXAS, March 31.—Police today were working on a kidnaping theory in their search for Laura Elizabeth Mills, 10, granddaughter of City Commissioner John S. Ward, and Chrolys Ely, 11, daughter of Mrs. Velma Ely, this city. The children have been missing from home since yesterday afternoon.

Scores of citizens joined in the search for the two children over a wide area today but no clues as to their whereabouts have been uncovered.

FIVE NEGROES ARE HELD AS MATERIAL WITNESSES IN GEORGIA PEONAGE CASE

COVINGTON, GA., March 31.—Five negroes, two men and three women—were taken to Atlanta today where they will be jailed as material witnesses in the peonage charges against John Williams, wealthy planter of Jasper county, who is held in Atlanta on a charge of murder.

The negroes were rounded up by a squad of United States deputy marshals on the "death farm."

Clyde Manning confessed he killed, at the direction of Williams, eleven negro workmen on the plantation. He also declared that the plantation was worked by negroes held in a state of servitude.

According to deputy marshals, who made a thorough investigation of conditions on the Williams place, about fifty negroes are still at work there. Fifteen refugees are in Atlanta under government protection, they declared.

So far the Newton county grand jury has failed to connect Williams' three sons, Huland, Marvin and Julius, with the alleged plot to array white people against the negroes of Jasper and Newton counties.

NEGRO CONFESSES ASSAULT ON YOUNG WHITE WOMAN

SHREVEPORT, LA., March 31.—A 23-year-old negro, Gus Bracy, confessed assailant of a young white woman of Rose Pine, La., who was criminally attacked near Leesville, La., last Saturday and is still in a critical condition, has been transferred to the Caddo parish jail in Shreveport, owing to intense feeling at Leesville. Before being taken before his victim who identified him the negro admitted his guilt, and without public suspicion being aroused was held in Leesville jail practically all yesterday.

AMERICAN LEGION PROTESTS PARDON OF EUGENE V. DEBS

GALVESTON, TEXAS, March 31.—A referendum by all American legion posts of Texas will be taken soon legalizing transfer of the tubercular hospital at Kerrville to the state of Texas, it was announced at a meeting of the executive committee of the legion here.

State Adjutant Scruggs was authorized by the committee to send a message to President Harding protesting against release of Eugene V. Debs, held in Atlanta prison for violation of the espionage act.

Suit for Damages Within 24 Hours of Time of Accident

DALLAS, March 31.—Within 24 hours of the time their three minor children were killed when a Dallas-Denison interurban train crashed into an automobile near Plano, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Sorenson of Shelby county, Iowa, filed suit against the Texas Electric company for $100,000 damages. The petition, entered in district court here late today, alleges "negligence and carelessness," on the part of the traction company's employes.

The Sorenson family was driving overland from San Benito, Texas, where they had spent the winter, to their home at Harlan, Iowa. At a grade crossing near Plano yesterday afternoon the automobile in which the children were being driven by their uncle, Clarence Sorenson, was struck by the electric train. The three children were instantly killed.

EX-CONGRESSMAN BURKE IS INDIAN COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Charles H. Burke, ex-congressman from South Dakota, was named commissioner of Indian affairs; Thomas E. Robertson, patent lawyer from Chevy Chase, Md., was appointed commissioner of patents and George H. Carter, Iowa, was named public printer, it was officially announced at the white house today.

Captain William A. Moffett, U. S. N., has been appointed a member of the advisory committee for aeronautics, it was announced.

INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK OF THE TEXAS COMPANY

HOUSTON, March 31.—The capital stock of the Texas company was increased from $143,000,000 to $164,450,000 or fifteen per cent, at the annual meeting of the company here today. All old directors were re-elected, and Frank D. Stout of Chicago was added. The directors re-elected, all officers and the executive committee.

AUTHORIZE GEN. WOOD TO ACCEPT INVITATION

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Major General Leonard Wood was authorized today to accept the invitation extended him by the Japanese government to visit that country after his visit to the Philippine Islands.

PRESIDENT IS "DOCKED" THREE AND A HALF DAYS

WASHINGTON, March 31.—President Harding today received his first monthly pay check. It was for $5,520.84. Ordinarily the monthly check sent to the president by the treasury department is made out for $6,250, but Mr. Harding was "docked" for the three and half days that Woodrow Wilson served as president this month.

REGULATIONS TO LIMIT WITHDRAWAL OF LIQUOR

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Regulations limiting withdrawals of liquor by retail druggists to 100 gallons each of spirits or wine for each quarter were issued today by the bureau of internal revenue. While intended to clarify previous orders the new regulations were said to serve in a way as a relaxation of restrictions limiting withdrawals to five cases of all kinds of liquor under one permit. There was no distribution of the number of such permits to be issued for any retail druggist, however.

ACTING SUPERVISOR FOR THE CENTRAL DEPARTMENT

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS OF THE WICHITA FALLS & NORTHW

PREMIUM CRUDE A HOPEFUL SIGN FOR THE OIL INDUSTRY

Considerable significance is attached to the resumption during the past week of competition among refiners in the north Texas district for production, says the National Petroleum News of Wednesday. For two weeks or more some of the light gasoline crude has been commanding 10 cents premium over the posted price, and more recently the Constantin Refining company has come into the market with an offer of 25 cents above the market.

According to the Constantin offer, the 25-cent premium is to prevail over the next three months, and it is seeking long-time contracts with producers thereafter at premiums that run as high as 75 cents a barrel over the present price. At least one other large refining company is understood to be seeking crude connections on the basis of 25-cent premium.

Condition Peculiar to Burkburnett.

While this condition may be taken to indicate belief by those bidding for the crude that the posted price will advance in the near future, it should not be overemphasized in considering the market situation generally of the immediate future. This for several reasons.

In the first place, it is pointed out that the production of the high gasoline content crude of this field has become reduced to the point that it is unlikely that it would be sufficient to supply the needs of the refineries so located that this is their logical source of supply under normal market conditions.

Premium Paying Advantageous.

Therefore, those companies which make a high bid for their requirements now and sew it up under long-time contracts will be able to go on operating at a considerable advantage over some of the others who have to get their crude from some other source more distant.

In the second place, only to a limited extent can demand for Burkburnett crude be taken as a criterion of the demand for other grades.

In a marketing situation like the present when the demand for gasoline is reaching proportions that lead to the belief that the coming months will see the refineries hard put to furnish enough while other products will be a drug on the market more or less, the skimming plant operating on Burkburnett crude is at a great advantage over the plant running on the average heavier Oklahoma crude.

The Burkburnett refiner gets a maximum of gasoline on which he makes a profit from his crude with a minimum of fuel oil to fill up his storage and hamper his operations.

Skimming Plants Resume Runs.

During the past week a considerable number of the skimming plants that have been shut down for some weeks or months in north Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, have resumed operations and others are preparing to do so with the stimulus of the increasing demand for gasoline.

The latter product, during the week, showed continued stiffening as the jobbers came more and more into the market, but conditions as regards other products were not much different from the conditions that have prevailed for the past two or three months.

Neutral Oils Somewhat Stronger.

There was some stiffening in the Pennsylvania neutrals, according to the experience of the western refiners, but there was little change in price. Fuel oil stiffened up slightly at both eastern and western plants, but cylinder stocks and kerosene for the most part showed little improvement.

NEW RULE PROHIBITS USE OF NATIONAL GAS FOR ITS CARBON BLACK BY PRODUCT

Burning of natural gas in order to obtain the black carbon deposit which is used in paint manufacture, will not be permitted in Texas, according to a recent ruling of the railroad commission, just received at the office of District Supervisor Copeland here.

The new rule, No. 41, declares that burning gas for such purposes "is hereby prohibited where there is any reasonable expectation, presently or in the near future, of the utilization of the gas for domestic or manufacturing purposes. The erection, enlargement, maintenance and operation of any plant or plants in Texas for the purpose of burning natural gas to obtain therefrom the carbon black content is prohibited within this state, except when allowed by special permits by the railroad commission after due hearing."

In promulgating the new rule, the commission refused a permit to applicants from Panola and Harrison counties, where gas which is found in quantities insufficient for domestic uses was to have been burned for the carbon black.

NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM MAY BE EXTENDED TO ADDITIONAL STREETS

Extension of the ornamental lighting system to other parts of the city is being urged by interested property owners, who may get together and take appropriate action. Property owners on the south end of Indiana avenue are understood to be contemplating a move of the kind, and there is also some agitation for extending the lights further west on both Ninth and Tenth streets.

It will be several weeks before the remaining circuits on Scott and Travis streets are turned on. Some of the equipment necessary to complete these circuits has not yet arrived, and some time will be required for its installation after it gets here.

COLQUITT AND ASSOCIATES MAKE PREPARATIONS DRILL IN BED OF THE CLEAR FORK

GRAHAM, TEXAS, March 31.—Following a decision of the Texas Railroad commission in which they were given permission to drill in the bed of the Clear Fork, former Governor Colquitt and associates will start operation right away, Mr. Colquitt said this morning. Arrangements have been made to drill five wells, the former governor said, adding that the first would be an offset to the Shamrock's No. 2 and the Heidrick-Spoonts' No. 1. The well will be drilled in the river bed exactly three hundred feet from these wells. The other four wells will be drilled in the near future, Mr. Colquitt said.

RISING STAR IS PLANNING FOR ROUND-UP AND RODEO

RISING STAR, TEXAS, March 31.—The plans are now being completed according to reports made to the West Texas chamber of commerce for the All-West Texas Round-up and Rodeo, to be held at Rising Star April 7, 8 and 9. Invitations extended to the staff officials of the West Texas chamber of commerce to attend the rodeo at Rising Star have been accepted that a large delegation of citizens from all over west Texas will go to Rising Star for this event.

EARLY DECISION UPON SCHOOL SITE LIKELY

School Board May Take Definite Action On Matter at Meeting Thursday Night.

Action on the new high school site question may be taken at a meeting of the school board called for Thursday night. With options taken on the two sites, members of the board are ready to make a definite decision.

One of the sites, that recommended by J. E. Kessler, city planner, and understood to be favored by a majority of the trustees, is owned by a large number of individuals, most of whom have agreed to sell at reasonable prices for school purposes. At an informal meeting of interested Wichitans Thursday, this site was deemed more suitable than the other, as being more in line with the probable direction of the city's growth. Neither of the proposed sites is at all convenient to the present center of school population, it being the board's view that a larger tract should be obtained than is available at any centrally located point.

"MILE OF PENNIES" CONTEST AT VERNON IS CONCLUDED

VERNON, TEXAS, March 31.—The "Blues" won by only four feet, or 60 cents, in the "Mile of Pennies" contest which has been going on among the primary pupils of the Central Christian Sunday school here for the last six weeks and which closed Easter. A total of $109 was raised by the little folk and will be used in buying equipment for their department. Red and blue pasteboard "feet," each of which was a container holding 16 pennies, were used in raising money in the contest.

When Parents Are to Blame

Not infrequently we treat the eyes of adults who blame their parents for their defective vision.

Don't let indifference about your child's eyes cause that child to blame you, in later years, for not seeing to it that something was done in time.
