An Educator From China Visits Here

G CHING YANG HAS TERESTING CAREER

By BLANCHE E. BEAN
Journal Staff Writer

Even before he hands you his card, artistically decorated with Chinese characters, which you believe must mean something, you know he is oriental. There is his stature, tellingly short; his limpid brown eyes; his engaging smile, and the accent in speaking almost too perfect English.

When he turns the card over there is in comforting English the inscription: Mr. Y. C. Yang, president of Soochow University, Soochow. Of course Soochow is in China, although the card has not this information.

Is Brilliant Man.

This man, whose full name is Yang Ching Yang, has the reputation of being one of the most brilliant men of his empire and his career has been a colorful one during the last fourteen years.

After having graduated from Soochow university with his bachelor of arts degree, this young man entered Wisconsin University in the United States but soon transferred to George Washington University in Washington, D. C., in order that he might work in the Chinese legation and earn his expenses.

At League of Nations

He served as secretary to the legation minister there. Continuing his diplomatic service, he was secretary in the Chinese delegation to the League of Nations conference in Geneva and later was a secretary at the disarmament conference in Washington. He was in the Chinese legation at London for a period and in the ministry of foreign affairs in China.

These secretarial positions did not correspond in any way to such positions as the secretary of state in this country, Mr. Yang explained, but were actual secretaryships, having no limits as to duties. There are no actual duties assigned to such a secretary and his functions activities are dependent

LUBBOCK BCD IS DISCUSSED

ACTIVITIES OF GROUP TOPIC OF MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

In order to discuss the operations of the Board of City Development, its past and future activities and its basis of financial support, a group of 25 or 30 citizens of Lubbock met last night in the Lubbock county courthouse. The meeting, which began shortly after 7:30 o'clock, lasted until 10:30 and during it comments upon the subject under discussion were made by a number of men.

Subject of the meeting was declared to be, "To discuss whether or not the City of Lubbock shall continue to collect a two mill tax (or 20 cents on the $100 valuation) for support of the Board of City Development?"

Abernathy Presides

In the absence of F. E. Wheelock, it was announced, had called the meeting, Monroe G. Abernathy, presided, stating that Mr. Wheelock had informed him he could not be present because of illness in his family, and that frank discussion of the subject was invited from any and all present.

J. E. Garrison was first to speak, stating he thought the tax was all right if it was used right, Maple Wilson following with the question

AUTOMOBILES, CHURCH CASH, ARE STOLEN

SIX CARS ARE TAKEN IN CITY AND OVER SOUTH PLAINS

A miniature crime wave, accounting for the theft of six automobiles, more than $500 in cash, several bicycles, automobile tires and other articles, has swept Lubbock and the South Plains during the past few days, according to reports received at the headquarters of the Lubbock police department.

A 1929 version of "the meanest thief in the world" figured in a raid yesterday when someone entered the First Baptist church of this city and took the Sunday night collection receipts, amounting to more than $500. Although no tangible clues have yet been developed, the activities of the police department have centered toward solving of the theft. As no signs of anyone having entered the building have been found it is thought that the robbery was effected by someone who knew the lay of the church and who possibly attended the evening services. Nothing other than the church safe was bothered.

The theft of a light roadster from a local residence and of a coupe from where it was parked at a down-town hotel were reported to the police department yesterday. Evall Hall, 1908 17th street, reports the theft of a light coupe. A large car which was stolen from where it was parked at church Sunday night was recovered yesterday by the police department, although no arrests were made.

Theft of a new car at Spur and of a light sedan at Tulia this week have been reported at police headquarters here. Yesterday a tricycle was stolen in Lubbock, as were two bicycles. One of the bicycles has been found. Other articles reported stolen this week include three silk dresses, one Goodrich tire, and ten boxes of shells.

250 Local Citizens Seek Notary Posts

Two hundred and fifty Lubbock county citizens are seeking appointment as notary publics during the present session of the state legislature, according to County Clerk Amos Howard, who compiled a list of the applicants for appointment.

Mr. Howard sent the applications to the senator from this district who will turn them in for appointments. Action will be taken on the applications in the near future.

KEYES CASE NEARS END

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (AP).—The state today approached the end of its bribery case against former District Attorney Asa Keyes and five other defendants.

CHANNEL TUNNEL BEING PLANNED

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Premier Baldwin announced in the House of Commons today that a comprehensive non-party examination will be made into the 60-year-old project for a tunnel under the English Channel.

A tunnel under the English Channel connecting England with the European mainland on the French coast is a project that has long presented fascinating engineering difficulties although the political aspect of the problem rather than the engineering has always blocked progress.

On two occasions the House of Commons voted in favor of the proposal and work was actually started from the English side, but Britain's committee on imperial defense held the balance against the project. British military strategists, arguing for national security, have always opposed the tunnel.

WE DIDN'T MEAN ANY HARM, SIR!

Because his name and the name of his prospective bride were published in the newspapers after he had purchased a license for their marriage, a Lubbock county man yesterday returned the license to the county clerk's office and refused to use it.

"Hard boiled" and demanding satisfaction for the injustice afforded him, he brought back the license. He was informed that the marriage license book was a matter of public record, and that since he had requested that his name be not published it was an oversight to the courtesy usually given by the newspapers.

The man explained that it was a detriment to his business for it to be known that he was married, and that he would not use the license. Since it is effective for sixty days he might change his mind, he intimated.

Two other licenses were issued yesterday. One was to Oly Hitt and Letha Pierce, and the other to Bertram A. Biffle and Mrs. La Verne McLain.

KELLOGG HOPES TO END ARBITRATION PACT IN FEW WEEKS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—During the remaining few weeks of the Coolidge administration, Secretary Kellogg hopes to complete the program he laid out a year ago in the negotiation of treaties of arbitration and of conciliation with practically every nation in the world.

FRANK B. KELLOGG

Having sponsored the multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war, and he is anxious to finish the negotiation of the bilateral treaty on arbitration and conciliation he believes will furnish a very effective mechanism of the pacific settlement of disputes between the United States and other nations.

Within the next month, Mr. Kellogg Hopes, the fourteen other original signatory nations to the anti-war treaty will have ratified that pact. As that treaty calls for the pacific settlement of all international disputes, Mr. Kellogg foresaw the need of the United States for machinery to facilitate the adjustment of such controversies and set about concluding treaties with all nations for that purpose.

The arbitration treaties signed with various nations by Secretary Root more than 20 years ago were

CRIME SWEEPINGS SIFTED BY POLICE

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP)—Police sweepings—the 4,000 men and women arrested in a crook clean-up without post-war precedent—were sifted today by police, prosecutors and the courts.

Analysis of the results of the raids were far from complete, for every jail in the city was crowded and the task of making a complete check was necessarily slow.

Trial of more than 3,000 of those arrested were started today, the cases being distributed among the various police courts, charges in most cases being disorderly conduct or vagrancy.

With the exception of approximately 500 released when they proved themselves innocent of wrongdoing, all those arrested in the Saturday, Sunday and Monday clean-up were booked. Sixteen hundred of those arrested were found to have had police records, Deputy Commissioner Stage said.

Northcott Nursing Cold At His Trial

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 22 (AP)—Nursing a cold which he unsuccessfully attempted to use as an excuse for continuance of his case, Gordon Stewart Northcott today was nearing the point in his trial where he will be forced to take the initiative in the battle for life.

The state's case against the 22-year-old Wineville chicken farmer, accused of slaying three boys, is nearing completion. Only a few important witnesses, including Jessie Clark, young Northcott's niece, and Cyrus Northcott, known as the father of the accused youth, remain to be called by the prosecution.

Air Posts Will Get Technical Buildings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—A bill to authorize expenditure of $5,150,306 to carry on construction of special and technical buildings at army air posts during the fiscal year 1931 was introduced today by Representative James, republican, Michigan.

SANTA FE EXTENSION TO NEW MEXICO GETS BOOST

LOCAL COMMITTEE WILL AID RAILROAD BID IN EVERY WAY

Success of the Santa Fe's application to extend its line from Seagraves to Lovington and Hobbs in Lea, County, New Mexico—the heart of a virtually untapped mine of resources in the way of oil, agriculture and livestock—is the principal object now before the special Santa Fe committee of the Chamber of Commerce, it was stated today.

On Wednesday, following the request of this special Santa Fe committee, Albert Reed of Dallas, reputed as being the best qualified specialist on traffic matters in the southwest, will be in Lubbock for a conference with the committee, of which B. Sherrod is chairman. Other members are W. O. Stevens, S. E. Cone, Charles H. Read and W. K. Dickinson, sr.

If possible the Dallas specialist will be secured to represent Lubbock and other South Plains cities and towns in the hearing before the interstate commerce commission, for permission of the Santa Fe to make an extension from the Seagraves terminus of the line. Mr. Reed gave much valuable aid to this section in securing the Fort Worth and Denver railroad.

This extension of the Santa Fe into the New Mexico section adjacent to Lovington and Hobbs is an important factor in the future development of Lubbock, as it will link this city with a mighty stretch of country in which are oil fields, and rich stock farming areas that are being rapidly developed. It is felt that Lubbock is the logical connection for the section to reach its markets. The natural trend of traffic is in this direction.

The Texas and Pacific railroad is also seeking a permit to make extensions from its main line near Monahans to Kermit, and on north to the same territory and the need of expert assistance is vitally felt by the Chamber of Commerce committee and members in helping the Santa Fe present its plea for the right to extend from Seagraves.

Lubbock News Will Not Be Republished

"The Lubbock News", a weekly paper published here for the past three months has ceased publication, it was announced yesterday. The Lubbock News was started by Woody and R. E. Wester and associates and later passed to the control of J. E. Griffith when he took a lease on the Dow Printing company plant, offices of publication.

Last week James L. Dow, owner of the printing concern, purchased the lease on the plant from Mr. Griffith but the latter retained title to the paper, returning to a position with the Avalanche-Journal Publishing company. Advertising contracts of the News, together with its subscription list, have been absorbed by The South Plains Farmer and will be fulfilled by that publication, one of the oldest weekly papers on the South Plains.

Tech Enrollment Has Doubled, Regents Hear

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 22—Officers for the board of Texas Technological college of Lubbock were re-elected and reports made showing the institution in four years has doubled its original enrollment, when the board held its annual session here today.

Clifford B. Jones, Spur, Texas, was re-elected president. R. A. Underwood of Plainview was again chosen vice president, and H. T. Kimbro, Lubbock, was again named treasurer.

Reports that reflect the progress and success of the college were received from Dr. P. W. Horn, the president of the institution. He stated that the present enrollment is 2,004, of which 1,220 are men students and 784 young women students.

Proposed legislative appropriations were discussed. The college is seeking $185,000 in an emergency measure to provide furnishing for new buildings. It also is asking an increase of $25,000 for the maintenance fund inasmuch as the enrollment is 400 greater than last year.

Announcement was made that the new engineering building had been accepted and that the new science building is ready for acceptance after the final inspection has been made.

TWO TRAINLOADS OF MILK DUMPED INTO RIVER BY STRIKING DAIRY MOBS

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP)—Chicago's milk strike, with its displays of violence and destruction of milk was ended at a conference of producers, distributors and city health officers today.

Dr. Arnold Kegel, commissioner of health, announced the two factions, at loggerheads for weeks over the price to be paid for raw milk, had agreed to submit their differences to arbitration.

The dairymen's demands of $2.85 a hundredweight for milk and the distributors' counter-proposal of $2.50 were to be submitted for arbitration today.

The conference was called after 300 striking dairymen last night added to the thousands of pounds of milk that have been dumped by seizing two Soo Line milk trains at Lake Villa, Ill. They cowed the crews with clubs, hewed their way into four cars with pickaxes, and destroyed 160,000 pounds of milk.

It was the chief outbreak of a day of violence in which truck drivers were kidnaped and beaten and 272,000 pounds of milk dumped at Lake Villa, Bartlett, Half Day, Elgin, Lake Geneva, Ill.; Burlington, Elkhorn and Springfield, Wis.; Gary and Miller, Ind.; and other districts.

CRUISER BILL IN FILIBUSTER

SENATE EMBROILED IN TALKFEST ABOUT RESOLUTION

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—With six weeks to go, the senate was involved in a talkfest against the cruiser construction bill today which threatens a tieup of its legislative program.

SEN. BLAINE

Charges of a filibuster against the naval bill were renewed by irate friends of the legislation as its foes prepared to talk at length on the pending deficiency measure.

Senate leaders already have mapped out a program aimed to force the cruiser bill to a vote but the tantalizing tactics of the opposition in talking at length on other legislation is forestalling even this.

Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, one of the group of republican independents fighting the naval bill, talked for more than three hours yesterday on the proposed increase in funds for prohibition enforcement. At the conclusion he refused the appeal of Senator Curtis of Kansas, the republican leader, for an agreement to vote today on this amendment to the deficiency bill.

When they get the deficiency bill passed, senate leaders intend to return to the unfinished business—the cruiser measure—and to keep it before the senate until a vote is taken. If necessary, they are pre-

SWINE EXPERT IN LUBBOCK TODAY

George P. Lillard, of the famous Lillard Stock Farms of Arlington, Texas, was in Lubbock this morning enroute to the two-day show of the Panhandle Plains Swine Breeders association at Lamesa, where an exhibit from the Lillard farms is on display.

Swine exhibits from these farms showed at twenty-three leading state and tri-state fairs last year, winning more first prizes and awards than any other exhibitor, Mr. Lillard said. The Lillard farms specialize in Duroc, Hampshire and Poland China stocks. The Lamesa showing will be the second of the year, the previous one being at Denver last week. The Lillard farms average production of about 500 pigs each year, according to Mr. Lillard.

Predicting that much of the well-bred registered stock sold at the annual auction at Lamesa tomorrow would go below value, Mr. Lillard advised the Lubbock county farmers to take advantage of it.

FOUR FACING PRO CHARGES

ALL ACCUSED MEN ARE IN JAIL, FAILING TO MAKE BOND

Following a midnight chase, first in cars and then on foot through a cotton patch last week, J. M. Haggard is in the county jail facing charges of transportation of intoxicating liquor. His bond was set at $1,000 in Justice G. R. Scott's court yesterday afternoon.

Watching a man load a quantity of liquor into his car, peace enforcement officers gave chase. The man made his getaway but deserted his large roadster on the Slaton highway and escaped in the darkness through a cotton patch. The car was confiscated by officers, and the next morning Haggard reported that he owned the car and had let a friend borrow it the night before. When attempts to find the "friend" failed, Haggard was placed under arrest and charges filed against him. Investigation of the affair will be continued, Sheriff Wade Hardy said today.

H. D. AND J. H. WYNN BONDS SET $1000

Bonds of $1,000 each were set yesterday afternoon in the cases of H. D. and J. H. Wynn, aresrted Saturday night by members of the sheriff's department on charges of violation of the prohibition laws. The bonds had not been made this morning and the two, father and son, were still in the county jail. The bonds were set pending action of the district grand jury. Both men are charged with transportation and possession of liquor.

880 MILLION HOT DAWGS!

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (AP)—Hot dawg! The Packers and Sausage Manufacturers Association has an interesting announcement.

Hot dawgs, eight hundred and eighty million of them eaten last year. End to end, they would have surrounded the earth, 16 times. But they were not placed end to end. They were spread with mustard and slapped between sliced buns. The completed product, piled one upon the other, would have towered miles and miles and miles. The statistician was too bewildered to say exactly how many.

Eighty-eight million pounds of sausage-in-slickers last year; and 10 frankfurters to the pound.

UNKNOWN NUMBER OF PASSENGERS PINNED BENEATH WRECK

(By Associated Press)

BELLEVUE, O., Jan. 22.—A number of persons, estimated at ten or more, were killed, and several others were injured today when a Westbound Lake Shore Electric Interurban crashed into the Pittsburgh-Chicago bus of the Greyhound company.

All of the dead were in the bus, which was demolished when struck in the center by the electric car. The driver, who escaped injury, was believed to have been blinded by the snow storm.

Four ambulances, all available here, were sent to the scene of the crash and began taking the dead and injuryer to the morgue and Belleville hospital. The bus was so completely smashed that an unknown number of bodies were still pinned underneath the wreckage two hours after the tragedy.

I also suffered terribly with in- stinal indigestion and had always to be careful about my diet, but I would suffer with indigestion just the same. Gas would form and ex- nd up around my heart and cause ver palpitation. I also had se- re pains in my abdomen. These attacks would generally come on after meal time. Pains in my chest nd shoulder also bothered me a reat deal, and I was in a badly un-down and weakened condition.

YUNG CHING YANG

upon the degree of confidence which a minister has in him and the amount of work the minister expects him to do." This explanation was accompanied by the expressive gestures and the wide smile which seems a part of the Oriental.

Represents Methodists

Yang has been president of Soochow university only about a year and a half and he came to the United States in the fall as the official representative of the Chinese Methodist church at the International Missionary Conference held in Memphis, Tenn. He is now visiting Southern Methodist churches bringing greetings from the Southern Methodist church of China. Sochow is a Southern Methodist University.

The work offered in the universities of China is about equal in scholarship to that offered in the smaller institutions in the United States and approximates that of the larger institutions, he explained.

Soochow Group of Schools.

Soochow is in reality a group of schols of five units. The school of arts and sciences, including the school of physical education, and the first University High school, are located at Soochow, a city of about one-half million inhabitants, which is sixty miles from Shanghai. The second high school and the college of law, which is the most noted institution of its kind in China, are located at Shanghai. The third high school is located at Huchow, which is less than one hundred miles from the other schools.

There is an enrollment of about 1400 students in the university, including some thirty women, one or two of whom are enrolled in the school of law.

Co-Ed Schools Growing

Every government university in China is now a co-educational institution although there are not as many women as men enrolled in them, he said. While education is accepted as a desirable thing for all the people of the Chinese empire, it is not available to everyone yet because the nation is not able financially to provide the equipment, he said. Education outside the home had its beginning in this empire only about twenty years ago, however.

The youth of China is the youth of any other country, enthusiastic in its participation in all affairs, according to this man, who believes that the "flaming youth" of that nation two years ago is more sober today as the conflicts have quieted in the empire. College men and women were encouraged to participate in national affairs during the revolutions and their studies were neglected to some extent at that time, he said.

Women Entering Business.

While the women of China have not the freedom of the American, they are beginning to enter the business world in the larger cities. Three of the Yang's sisters studied in the United States and one of his sisters was the first Chinese to graduate from Vassar college.

He is married to a Chinese woman who has never been outside the empire and they have a son, Y. C. Yang, jr. The young man has not his father's given name, however, because of a Chinese custom, but is named Yeh Chang in order that the initials may be the same.

The missionary institute at the First Methodist church today brought Yang to Lubbock and he has been a guest of Rev. and Mrs. D. B. Doak, 1712 Broadway, while in this city.

FUCHS TO HAVE ABUNDANT ASSISTANCE IN MANAGING CLUB

BOSTON PILOT UNCERTAIN ON 1929 OUTLOOK

PRESIDENT-MANAGER IS NOT EVEN SURE OF CLUB'S ROSTER

(NOTE: This is the fourteenth of a series of stories dealing with mid-winter prospects of major league baseball clubs.)

BY WILLIAM R. KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—President-Manager Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves hasn't been worrying about his ball club lately. He hasn't had time.

The genial magnate, who startled the baseball world when he sold Rogers Hornsby and then announced he would manage the club himself, does not even know how many players he will have when his squad gathers at St. Petersburg, Fla., several weeks hence.

Lester Bell

During the last few weeks, when he should have been perfecting his pre-season plans, Fuchs has been kept on the jump explaining his club's connection with the passage of the Sunday sports referendum and his efforts to obtain a Sunday baseball permit from the Boston city council.

Has Plenty of Assistance

Fuchs is positive about one thing, however. He is going to have plenty of assistance in managing his 1929 edition of the Braves. After trading Hornsby, he retained Johnny Evers and Hank Gowdy, who played for the club back in the happy days as his understudies.

He is also going to have many veteran ball players, for he has claimed or bought every aging star waivered or put up for sale since last October. Among them are Joe Dugan, who helped the Yankees win five World Series, and Rabbit Maranville, who played for the inspired Braves of 1914.

Dugan to Take Third

It is more than likely Dugan will be holding down third base with Rabbit at short when the season starts. Freddy Maguire who came from the Cubs in the Hornsby deal, is the logical choice for second base, and George Sisler will probably be able to retain his first base berth.

Tthe others on the infield list are Lester Bell, Eddie Farrell and Walter Gautreau, all with the club last season; Glen Messner, purchased from Toledo, and a youth named James, coming up from the Omaha club in the Western League.

Catching Staff Strong

The catching department appears strong, comprising Hack Taylor, Al Spohrer and Bill Crowin, veterans, Pat Collins, another ex-Yankee, and two rookies, Dick Smith drafted from Montreal, and Lolus Leggett, purchased from Reading.

Fuchs thinks he has 14 pitchers but he is not sure that several more won't appear when the squad assembles in Florida.

The veterans are Ed Brandt, Ben Cantwell, Johnnie Cooney, Arthur Delaney, Kent Greenfield, Elmer Hearn, Herman Holshouser, Bob Smith and Henry Wiltz. The newcomers are Percy Jones, another involved in the Hornsby trade; George Leverett, with Indianapolis last season; Bill Cunningham, who performed in Los Angeles last year; Harry Seibold, considered the best minor league pitcher of last year, when he played for Reading, and George Perry, late of Wichita, Kas.

GARDEN ABANDONS GODFREY BATTLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Meeting opposition from Jack Dempsey, the Madison Square Garden corporation has abandoned its efforts to match George Godfrey, the current "black menace," with Paulino Nzcudun, at Havana, Feb. 18.

Dempsey, now in Miami Beach, Fla., arranging the setting for the Sharkey-Stribling match there on Feb. 27, wired Garden officials the proposed Havana fight would interfere seriously with his Miami Beach plans.

As a matter of fact Dempsey's expression of disapproval might not have been needed. The garden found itself confronted with many match making difficulties in connection with the suggested Havana extravaganza. Godfrey, more or less shunned by the heavyweights, was ready to sign for the match, but Paulino was quite coy about the matter.

EAST TEXANS TOO FAST AND RANGY FOR HIGH SCHOOL QUINTET

The tall and rangy basketeers from East Texas played a basketball game literally over the heads of the comparatively small Lubbock high school cagers last night and the Athens Hornets walked off with the heavy end of a 37 to 19 score.

Beginning the scoring assault in the second period, the proteges of Jimmy Kitts, former S. M. U. star, continued to pile up a lead over the Westerners which was never threatened. Displaying a superior passing game, and hitting the basket from all angles, the boys from the "piney woods" of East Texas scored consistently where the locals were unable to get a clear shot.

Taking the court with a team average of six feet in height, they failed to get started in the initial quarter and the Morganmen held them to a tie at the end of the period. Started the fireworks in the first minute of play when he made good a follow-up shot to score a field goal. This lead was short lived. The Thompkins brothers (all three of them) soon got into action and from there on, the Westerners were on the defense for the most part.

Hornets Start.

The Hornets got their big scoring guns in action in the second period, and when the gun sounded at the end of the half, the visitors were leading 16 to 11. Using their superior heighth to advantage, the Hornets passed the ball over and around the Lubbock man-to-man defense. The Westerners on the other hand were stopped cold by the air-tight defense of the visitors.

MILLER MAY TAKE WASHINGTON POST

DEFIANCE, Ohio, Jan. 22 (AP)—Don Miller, former "Horseman" of Notre Dame, now backfield coach at Georgia Tech, said here today that he would go to Cleveland tomorrow to get final word from the University of Washington on an offer to become head coach of football there. After telephoning to Seattle tomorrow, he said, he would give Coach Sam Williaman of Ohio State his answer to an offer to assist him at Columbus next year.

OLTON, Jan. 22. — Olton cage teams took two games from Littlefield when the Olton boys defeated the Littlefield team, 31 to 12, while the Olton girls took their game, 19 to 17. Both games were hard fought.

These games create much interest because of the rivalry between the two towns.

LOCAL SQUAD DEALS HANDY 37-23 DEFEAT

HODGES LEADS SCORING OF TWO TEAMS; PLAY AGAIN TONIGHT

ABILENE, Jan. 21.—The Texas Tech Matadors opened their five game invasion of Abilene here tonight with a 37 to 23 triumph over Payne's Crimson basketeers gave the team Payne formerly coached a sound trouncing.

Clarence Hodges, Tech forward and former Abilene high school star, made the home town triumph unanimous when he annexed high scoring honors of the contest with 13 points.

Through the first half and for three minutes of the second it was quite a ball game. Neither team could get more than a 4 point lead until then and, indeed, the count was 12 to 11 for A. C. C. when the half ended.

Tech scored three points before A. C. C. scratched and at one time had the big end of 7 to 2. A. C. C. pepped up and took an 8 to 9 lead momentarily. Tech scored two to leed, then A. C. C. got two and Hodges tied it at 11 with a free pitch. Keyes scored one point as the half ended.

The teams rocked along on even terms in the second half until A. C. C. made six. The Cats count stood at 11 for some 10 minutes while Tech was adding 14 to 21. Tech then stopped scoring and A. C. C. rallied gently to bake a half dozen.

BACK TO HIS OLD LOVE

"Greasy" Neale, outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds when they were champions of the baseball world and later a successful college football coach, is back to his old game. He has been signed to assist Billy Southworth, new manager of the champion St. Louis Cardinals. To return to baseball Neale had to get a release from his contract as football and baseball coach at the University of Virginia and the students and athletes at the university protested in a mass meeting. As a compromise Neale suggested that the early training of the football squad be trusted to his assistant coach and that he would take charge at the finish of the baseball season. He was a football and baseball star in his college days and ranked as one of the best major league outfielders of his day.

REX BEACH IS GOLF LEADER

AUTHOR WINS QUALIFYING ROUND IN ARTISTS-WRITERS' TILT

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22.—Members of the Artists' and Writers' Golf Association who came south for a quiet little golf tournament, yesterday ran headlong into a stone wall in the person of Rex Beach.

As a result of a 73 turned in for the qualifying round by the author the championship crown of Grantland Rice today tottered on its wearer's head.

Rice tied with Jefferson Machamer, jr., for the runner-up position with 81.

Qualifying scores ranged up to the 123 turned in by John Golden, theatrical producer, who today was mated with James Montgomery Flagg.

Rube Goldberg explained his inability to keep out of the sand traps by pointing to his wide experience with sand in Arabia, which he maintains was his birth place. Goldberg's qualifying effort was 112.

"We know our Luckies That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with a normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this years ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

STATE ENDS CASE ACCUSING KEYES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (AP)—The prosecution's version of the alleged "fixing" of a Julian petroleum fraud case by Ed and Jack Rosenberg with former District Attorney Asa Keyes virtually was complete as the trial of Keyes and five others here on bribery and conspiracy charges entered its third week today.

Harold L. (Buddy) Davis, chief district attorney under Keyes, who previously had spent three hours on the witness stand for the state, was under call to take the stand today. The admission of a letter written by Davis to Keyes on the occasion of the chief deputy's resignation, which concluded, "I do not care to be a party to insincere prosecution of the Julian case" terminated a lengthy legal foray Saturday in favor of the state.

Three witnesses have testified that they saw Ben and Dave Getzoff, father and son, who operated the tailoring shop in which the state contends bribes were passed and in which the conspiracy to "fix" the Julian case culminated, accept money from Julian case defendants.

One witness testified that he saw Ben Getzoff divide a three-inch thick roll of "bribe" bills between Keyes and Charles Reimer, alleged Keyes "watchdog."

KILLS WIFE AND THEN SUICIDES

ROCKDALE, Texas, Jan. 22 — Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Aaron Cotton, slain here by her husband yesterday, and for Mr. Cotton, who later took his own life, were made here today.

Mrs. Cotton had been living with her parents. Yesterday her husband came to their residence and demanded that his wife return with him. When she refused, he is alleged to have slashed her throat with a razor and then to have fled across a pasture. Relatives of Mrs. Cotton pursued h[illegible], but cotton swallowed some p[illegible]on and attempted to slash his throat. He was dying when Mrs. Cotton's relatives reached his side. Cotton was acquitted at an insanity trial recently.

Story About Mummy Proves But Fiction

JERUSALEM, Jan. 22 (AP) — A story published by the Cairo newspaper Al Mokatta mand the London Daily Mail telling of the finding here of the mummy of King Solomon's favorite wife and of a scroll giving details of her tragic death turned out today to be pure fiction.

The story appeared as a piece of fiction in a Palestine weekly some weeks ago and described the sensation which arose when the Jerusalem government received a report that a golden coffin containing the mummy had been found at Mount Ophel where the ruins of the old City of David have in fact been discovered.

Laredo Journalist Reported Missing

LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 22 (AP) — Authorities continued a search today for Harry Williams, Laredo newspaper man who has been missing for more than 48 hours. A search of Nuevo Laredo and of this city failed to reveal Williams' whereabouts. Word from friends in Muncie, Ind., his former home, indicated Williams might be in San Antonio.

The Chicago man who went on a diet of garlic to keep away the flu probably was trying to achieve 100 per cent isolation.

THE TINY MITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The giant swung the engine 'round, and then he set it on the ground. "Hop out, you little Tinymites," he cried in merry tone. "Don't fear that I will hurt you boys. I'm harmless, though I make much noise. As long as you are nice to me, I'll let you all alone."

"That's fair enough," wee Scouty said. And then the Tinies went ahead and jumped out of the engine. How their small legs ached at first. Said Clowny, "We have sat so long that now our short limbs seem all wrong. I'd like a drink of water, 'cause I have an awful thirst."

"Me, too," cried Carpy. "'Twould be grand if some nice stream were near at hand. I'm sure that I could drink a quart, and maybe more than that. A cup, thought, we forgot to bring. In fact we haven't anything." Then Scouty broke right in and said, "Aw shucks, I'll use my hat."

"A good idea, little man," the giant cried. "And now you can just follow me along this trail. We'll find a stream nearby. We may find one that flows straight up. Then you won't need a hat or cup. I'll bet you've never seen a stream that flows up toward the sky."

'Course he was right. The Tinies ne'er had seen a stream that 'rose in air. But, 'round a bed they found one, and the drinking was great fun. When each one had a good big share, the giant said, "Look over there! That is my house. Let's go inside. There's room for everyone."

"Say, that's not big enough for you. When you go in, what do you do?" said Choppy. And the giant laughed. "Why I just crawl," said he. "It's easy, on my hands and knees. And now we'll enter, if you please. Hop on my back while I crawl slow. You all can ride on me."

(The Tinies prepare a meal in the next story.)

HOOVER SPEEDS TOWARD FLORIDA

HOOVER SPECIAL EN ROUTE TO MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 22 (AP)—President-elect Hoover was speeding today along the East Coast of Florida to Miami where a huge reception awaited him. He was due to reach that city at 2 p. m.

After the welcome, Mr. Hoover will go to the home on Belle Island prepared for him. He has no appointments for today and is planning to make preparations for a fishing trip.

While Mr. Hoover is ready to declare a vacation on politics, cabinet speculation continued on his train. The only shred of information upon which to pin anything of importance in this connection was the suggestion from Mr. Hoover's associates that Dwight Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico, probably would be invited to call on Mr. Hoover in Miami, if he comes to Florida on his way home from Nassau, as is expected.

Michigan Prexy May Resign Post

(By Associated Press)

ANN ARBOR, Mich, Jan. 22 — It was learned authoritatively today that Dr. Clarence Cook Little, one of the youngest heads of a major American university, will resign as president of the University of Michigan tonight.

Members of the board of regents said they had not been informed of the resignation, but it probably would be accepted if offered at tonight's meeting.

Disagreement between the president and regents over administration policies, and friction with alumni organizations, have been advanced as probable reasons for the predicted action.

AUSTIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—A move launched today in the House by Representative Joseph McGil of El Paso to have the legislature make an inspection trip of the penitentiary system was defeated by a 76 to 36 vote after a floor fight against led by Rep. Gorg Purl of Dallas..

Thought For Today

Thy word is very pure: therefore they servant loveth it.—Psalms 119:140.

God be thanked that there are some in the world to whose hearts the barnacles will not cling.—J. G. Holland.

Nicholas' Victory

The Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, gone to his grave with the last hopes of the czarists who never could see that history had turned over a new leaf on them, was a striking example of the way a man can fail and still be a success.

Although Nicholas commanded the armies of one of the allied powers, we can safely say now that he was on the wrong side. He served an autocracy that was corrupt to the core, reeking with centuries of oppression and misrule. The world war tore it down, and it deserved its fate. Czardom had given the world all that it had to give, and it was time for it to give way to something better.

But to Nicholas, imperial Russia was the greatest thing in the world. He fought for it with bitter tenacity. With inflexible resolution, he sacrificed scores of thousands of uncomplaining soldiers in a vain effort to keep the past upon its throne. He served a bad cause, and he was beaten. Yet—and here is the point—we admired him. When the papers announced that he was dead we felt that the world had lost a genuine man and was the poorer for it.

How is it that a man, tied to a bad cause and overwhelmingly defeated, can win our admiration? Why do we feel that the Grand Duke Nicholas lived well and was essentially a success?

Consider the circumstances that preceded the final collapse of the Russian armies. Russia was confusion and inefficiency personified. In the court there were doubt, intrigue, disloyalty and corruption. Soldiers were sent out unequipped—driven to the front, often, without ammunition or food. The czar wavered between crafty, self-seeking counselors. Czardom, in its death struggle, was proving that it did not deserve to live longer.

But amid all this confusion Nicholas stood, loyal and brave like a rock. He dared defy even the czar himself in his fight for the right as he saw fit. To the end he was unshaken and unperplexed. The men at Petrograd let him down again and again; he fought on, using the faulty tools that they gave him without complaint.

In short, he was a genuine man looming large in an eddying welter of half-men. He had courage, fidelity and endurance, and those qualities are not yet too common.

It isn't necessary that a man accomplish everything he sets out to accomplih in order to make a successful life. The manner in which he goes about it is what counts. The true field for accomplishment lies within. If a man wins in that field it doesn't matter greatly whether he wins elsewhere or not.

Poison Gas

In Germany some well meaning people are now starting a movement to have the great powers sign a treaty renouncing the use of poison gas in time of war.

Surely there can't be any great harm in such a scheme. The thing ought to be quite easy to put over. High sounding treaties seem to be popular, and this one ought to be high sounding enough for anybody.

Of course such a treaty wouldn't have the slightest effect. If war should come every nation involved would begin to use all the poison gas it could lay hands on, no matter how many treaties it had signed.

But it would make a nice treaty, for all that.

Graceful cruves for the ladies are returning to fashion. Have you noticed how much plumper the automobile lines are?

Things are never, never as bad as they seem.

We all have our ups and down and sometimes it seems like they're nearly all downs. The world is going to rack and ruin and our country, in particular, "ain't what it usta be", we say.

But here's some figures that give us the lie when we feel that everything's gone dead wrong:

The number of millionaires in the United States has increased in the last 14 years, from 7,000 to 40,000! Pretty nice increase, isn't it?

Of course you and I aren't included in this list and, in snap judgment, might be inclined to feel that as long as we're not personally affected it makes little difference how many millionaires there are in the country. This is one time, however, when snap judgment is false. Every time there is a new millionaire made it helps just that much.

In the first place, the increase in America's millionaire population brings home forcefully the fact that there is still "room at the top" in all lines of business and professions. It awakens in us the dormant belief that we CAN make money if we'll only give each problem the best that is in us. In the second place, people who HAVE money SPEND money and we'll all get our share of it some way, whether we're plumbers or teachers, telephone operators or bankers.

And to we who live in this particular section of the country it means even more. There is no territory beneath the shining sun which can use additional capital better than the South Plains and West Texas as a whole. We HAVE to have outside capital if we're going to advance and improve as rapidly as we should. And every time some fellow in New York or Chicago make an extra million, more or less, he's looking for something in which to invest it. Sooner or later, the South Plains will get more and more of this money and when it does progress will be even more rapid than it has been in the past few years.

So don't be downhearted if you feel that everyone else is making a pile of money and you're not. You'll get your share of it. The law of averages will take care of that.

Moody Appointments Given Senate Okeh

AUSTIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—Twelve reappointments of Gov. Dan Moody among which were the directors of A. and M. college, were approved by the Senate in executive session today.

The expected fight on the renaming of F. M. Law, Byrd E. White and Walter Lacy to the A. and M. board of directors apparently did not materialize as Senator Charles S. Gainnor of Bryan said he moved the approval of the governor's nominations in committee and voted "aye" on their confirmation.

CONTINUOUS ROAD FUND

"The thing of first importance toward the completion of our roads, in my estimation, is to give the highway department a certain and continuous fund in sufficient amount to carry forward the construction of a connected system of highways in this state," reads the governor's message to the lawmakers of the forty-first. "It is not practical to talk of giving them sufficient funds to build all of the 20,000 miles of designated highway in one year or any other brief period of time."

And then the governor points the way, as he sees it:

"The highway should be surveyed and classified as to the importance of the public needs which each road serves. The more important ones should be placed in one class and the less important for completing, as soon as possible, those highways falling in the first class and of major importance and a certain continuous fund in sufficient amount should be supplied to the department to complete these roads."

It costs money to build highways. It costs money to maintain highways after they are built. There is a reason for a continuous fund. This is the viewpoint of the chief executive of the commonwealth.

"The revenue of the department should be of sufficient certainty and amount to make it possible for the department to outline a program for the construction of these major roads, and complete their construction at as early a date as practical. I favor a law allocating a large enough portion of the revenue to the construction of these more important roads or roads placed in the first class or insure their completion at the earliest possible date."

It must be said that the governor talks to the people of Texas in their own plain vernacular. He points the way to lawmaker and layman alike. Highway construction is the major problem. Highway revenue getting is another of the problems that go with highway construction. A continuous road fund is all-important to bring about the completion of highways of the first class at the earliest possible date.—Waco News-Tribune.

NOT THE WAY TO AMEND

Representative George C. Purl of Dallas county is quoted as saying, "I have not paid my automobile license fee and do not intend to until it is reduced or I am arrested." Mr. Purl ran for office on the platform of reducing the license fee, and his statement may be taken as being intended to further that platform and not merely to deprive the state of its lawful revenue.

But Mr. Purl is wrong. Disobedience is not the way to amend a statute. Defiance is not a legitimate function of government, whether by an officer of the government or by a citizen thereunder.

If Mr. Purl may properly refuse to pay the license fee until arrested, so may anybody else, and he frankly says that he is advising the public in general to follow his announced course in that regard. The authority which protects Mr. Purl's automobile from theft is legally no more sound than that which exacts from him the license fee. It is the same authority. No tyranny is involved in either case. Nor is revolt justified.

The theory that a law is no law if it is inconvenient or distatesful is a prevalent one. But it is a bad theory. To some it is inconvenient and distasteful that they are forbidden to take Mr. Purl's automobile and use it as their own. But the law remains the law. Mr. Purl has the right to move to amend. But he has chosen the wrong way.—Dallas News.

CHILEAN WINES ARE FINE, BUT AMERICAN INTERESTS HELP TO LIMIT DRINKING

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another interesting article of the series by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent of The Journal and NEA Service, who accompanied President-elect Hoover on his tour through South America.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Chile and prohibition are far apart, but in Antofagasta, Chile, northern port of 30,000 inhabitants, they were one or two wrinkles vaguely suggestive of its operation in some parts of the United States.

Out at Luna Park, the local amusement resort, an ordinance says drinks can't be served after midnight. So quite in the fashion of a restaurant speakeasy in our own fair land, they serve whisky in cups with a teapot in the center of the table to comouflage it.

The "Royal Jazz" is what they call the dance palace, probably more out of deference to the 400 or more British inhabitants of Antofagasta than to the score or two Amercians there. Most of the music is unmistakably American.

Forms of prohibition exist around the mines and nitrate fields, theoretical total prohibition at the former but only theoretical. The poor roto population has been inclined to go in for heavy drinking, resulting in sadly inefficient Mondays.

The new government has under taken both to improve the lot of the roto and restrict his drinking, being responsible in co-operation with American copper companies for curbing drunkenness at the mines. And although many consider Chilean wines the best in the world, a law limiting extension of wine-producing lands was passed as long ago as 1922.

Antofagasta, a few hundred miles down Chile's 2700-mile Pacific coast line, is the export and import point for a large radius of nitrate and copper territory.

Almost the first glimpse of her from the sea contains an impression of American sales methods, for on the great cliffs which rise behind her are painted, 15 yards high, letters advertising hte leadcoffee shop and the most fashionable photographer of the city. The letters are so indistinguishable afar off that one dumbbell in the Hoover party thought he saw a graveyard on the hillside.

Within Antofagasta, one observes sextagonal revolving street lights, with illuminated ads for cigars, Buick cars, liquor and cigarets.

Later on, however, your correspondent discovered that for all her paved streets, unusually pure water supply and other modern improvements, Antofagasta had no telephone communications with Santago. There are plenty of local systems and Chile has 35,000 telephories, but telegraph wires suffice this elongated Republic for communications.

The aforementioned British and American residents are all engaged in trade. The big American firm is W. R. Grace and Co. American automobiles and mining and agriculture machinery, which are such a large component part of our export volume to Latin-American countries, predominate among Chilean imports.

Cloth for clothing, though importation of our cotton goods have more than doubled in volume since before the war, still comes mostly from England. So do groceries, leather and many of the smaller staples. Germany leads in the small electrical equipment field and France gets most of the cosmetic and women's clothing business.

Chile is making rapid progress in producing her own necessities. The government is developing domestic industries as rapidly as possible Chileans have begun to make their own leather, their own woolen cloth ing and their own canned goods. They have severdal thousand factories with $250,000, investment, including numerous power plants which are being used to turn wheels for both factories and farms.

Chile also wants to smelt her own ore. There is a project for a 30 per cent tax on copper ore, which would hit the American companies, and which may or may not be adopted.

The government is now subsidizing a big new steel plant at Corral, using electric power for smelting for she has no good coke coal.

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Community ovens are maintained in scores of bakeries on the East Side for the convenience of tenement dwellers with limited kitchen accommodations.

At certain hours of the day and night oven space is rented out to the housewives for a few cents. They arrive in droves, carrying their tins of bread and buns. While waiting for their loaves, the women folk engage in friendly chatter, as small town neighbors stand over the back fence and gossip while hanging out the laundry. In some districts, particularly on cold, blizzardy days, the bakery kitchen becomes sort of a neighborhood club.

Late Friday afternoon, a parade typical of the East Side may be seen. Preparing for the Jewish observation of the Sabbath, on Saturday, they arrive with tins filled with "kuchen." Generally these cakes have been made at home, but there is no way of keeping them warm. So they are taken to the bakeries and placed in the oven, to be called for later.

In the kitchenet belts of New York, where young housewives are called upon to cook in tiny holes in the wall or in six-by-eight closets, the neighborhood delicatessen stores come to the rescue.

My own Chistmas turkey was cooked by a motherly German woman, whose order spindle was jammed with other orders. The customer is presumed to furnish his own meat and "trimmings." At a certain prescribed hour the food is delivered at your door, steaming hot, and ready for the table. The charge for this service is but $1.50—a sum which most housewives will tell you is quite well worth spending to avoid the work of turning out a turkey or duck.

There are any number of things which are typically of "New York." I know of no other place where one will encounter in the streets the parades of little four wheeled vehicles, filled with dresses for the suit and cloak belt. They are trundled about by office boys, who seem to have no fear of traffic, and go where even jay-walkers fear to tread. The carts are equipped with hangers and covered protections, and roll about on wheels that seem to have been taken from roller skates. They are used in taking dress models to the huge cloak and suit belt which has sprung up in midtown.

Nor have I elsewhere come upon barber shops which engage in the primitive medical art of "cupping." The ancient "cups," used in the days when the barber surgeons roamed the European highways, can still be seen in the windows of many barber shops of the lower downtown section.

Centuries before the medical profession had achieved any degree of standing, barbers were the most active of practitioners. "Bleeding" or "cupping" a patient were as familiar to them as shaving. When the British Royal Medical society was first formed, the barber pole was conceived as a means of distinguishing between charlatans and the newer, more scientific order. A skull was perched upon a red and white striped pole—and the pole has lived to this day as an insignia of the barber trade.

At any rate, cupping does not seem to have gone out of vogue in this great city, and I am told there are many hundreds of bewhiskered old men from European lands who demand this old vacuum treatment as a means of increasing blood circulation in various sections of the body.

Nor do I know of any other place where tiny, 10 by 20 grave yards can be found in some of the city's busiest sections. There are at least three such in New York.

DISEASE OF HEART OFT AGGRAVATED BY TOO MUCH FAT

By LULU HUNT PETERS
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Dead, of Heart Disease

Mr. Blank, a prominent writer, died yesterday at lunch, from heart disease. I find the news in this morning's paper. A picture of the deceased shows that he was considerably overweight.

LULU HUNT PETERS

From now on, notice the pictures of prominent men and women who die suddenly from heart disease, and you will be struck with the large percentage which shows overweight. The extra work the heart has in pumping the blood through the excess tissue, the weakening of its fibers by fat and the toxemia from the unbalanced diet, may be contributory causes or they may be the chief causes in many cases of heart disease. (As well as disease of all the organs.)

Epilepsy

G.—I don't think it is wise to give symptoms of disease in the column. There are too many who are suggestible! If you have certain symptoms which are not normal, you should have a thorough physical examination by a competent physician so that you can have correct guidance and treatment.

The most modern control of epilepsy is through the "ketogenic" diet. In this diet the starches and sugars are lowered markedly and the calories made up by more fats. However, it has to be worked out by the physician in charge of the case, and usually in conjunction with a dietician. If your physician doesn't know about the diet, tell him to write to the Mayo Clinic for literature. They hight send it to others besides doctors, but only a doctor of a dietician would be able to interpret it.

"It is better to eliminate all starches, sugars and fats from the diet, or to have a mixed diet not over 1,300 calories a day in order to reduce? I am only 4 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 126 pounds, and am 26 years old. MRS. J."

You ought to weigh around 100, as you are from 20 to 25 pounds overweight, Mrs. J. It may be possible that you will have to go under 1,200 calories in order to reduce one and one-half to two pounds a week, because you are so tiny. Of course, it isn't necessary to lose as fast as that. If you lose only one pound a week, you'll have your excess off in five months, and if you lose only one-half pound, you'll have it off in ten months.

It is better to have a mixed diet, but the sweets and starches and oils must be cut down very markedly, as they are so high in energy and heating value—in other words, calories. You must have all the foods you need for normal functioning, repair and growth of new blood cells, and this foundation diet is approximately 800 C. The Petersizing pamphlet gives you this foundation diet and enough of the caloric values of foods to tide you over until you can go to the book store or library and get a good book on the subject.

Mrs. B. wants my recipe for apple catsup which she has lost. She found it to be very good.

Not infrequently my readers confuse other articles with mine. I am sorry I don't know how to make this catsup, Mrs. B. You should be able to find it in any complete cook book.

I'll add my two cents worth. The caloric value of tomato catsup—and apple catsup would probably be about the same—is 100 calories for eight tablespoonfuls. They are good condiments. The tomato especially, for tomato is high in the anti-scorbutic vitamins.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, and two cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamplet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-address, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

THE STRAIN OF PRETENDING

The easiest life is the honest, unpretentious life. If you make no false pretenses you have no false and difficult standards to live up to.

If, on the other hand, you start out pretending to be something or somebody that you aren't, you will be under considerable nervous strain always, and you will rest but ill, for you will always be in fear of being found out.

When we moved into a new neighborhood, a woman said to my wife: "Would you like to visit such-and-such a place? All right, I'll send my chauffeur around after you some day soon, and we'll make the visit together.

Now, the poor woman had neither car nor chauffeur. But she thought it necessary to make an impression by pretending that she had. In the years we spent in that neighborhood my wife always felt sorry for this woman, because, she said, she felt sure the pretender must think of that promise to send her chauffeur around every time she and my wife met, which they did frequently.

How difficult such a show-off makes her own life!

Once I knew a fake Russian prince. He was pretty good in his part. He landed in an oil town in which I lived, and easily captured the oil aristocracy. He was a peculiar sort of social lion, floor-walking a department store as a kind of circus attraction during the day, and riding madly about the countryside with the belles of the oil fields at night. He got some money from some very prudent spenders and departed.

Although my friend, the prince, worked his game in a dozen cities, to my knowledge, and in some cases came out very well off, he lived a precarious existence. He was frightened nearly out of his agile wits when confronted with a real Russian, for he couldn't speak a word of the language. He dreaded an encounter with a policeman, for he had a record in London and was always afraid of getting into contact with an international finger-print exchange. I never saw a man who looked forward with more trepidation to each day's dawning.

In this case the fake prince was ministering to his ego and making a fair living without resort to steady work, and thus he may have justified his pretense to himself. But it was a hard way of living, at that.

Its the same way with the family that pretends to be more wealthy than it is: It has to strain and struggle to borrow money at the bank in order to keep up appearance, and the nervous strain spoils tempers and drives happiness away.

Much better to assume an honest attitude, aspiring to no show-off activities, and permitting the neighbors to believe, if they choose, that your income is very much less than it really is. For what does it matter, after all, what the neighbors think about your income?

Nothing can make life more uncomfortable than pretending.

HARDLY HAD A WELL DAY IN THREE YEARS

"Orgatone Is Relieving My Husband Of Rheumatism And Other Troubles," Says Abilene Woman

"Since Orgatone is relieving my husband of rheumatism I just can't help praising it to everybody," said Mrs. N. A. Estes, wife of a well known farmer residing on rural route 1, Abilene, Texas, a few days ago.

"For three years," she continued, "my husband suffered terribly from rheumatism and a general run down condition. He had very little appetite and was so pained racked it was almost impossible for him to get a good nights rest owing to the aches in his joints and body.

"The first dose of Orgatone seemed to hit the spot and he has been getting better every since, he can eat with a relish and he is being built up in a substantial way. Those aches and pains in his joints and body that used to bother him so much are fast disappearing and he can now get a good nights rest and feels like working the next day. His general health has improved wonderfully since he started taking Orgatone and it has certainly been a blessing to my husband and there are no better Orgatone boosters in this town than we are."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.

NEW YORK TRADING

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 2 points. January sold off to 20.11 right after the call, or 4 points net lower.

There was enough buying from trade or local sources to steady prices around 20.19 for March and 17.79 for July. The general market ruled about net unchanged to 7 points higher at the end of the first half hour.

Trading remained quiet later and fluctuations were narrow with the market at midday about net unchanged to 10 points higher.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22 (AP).—Relatively steady Liverpool cables caused an opening advance of 1 to 3 points in the cotton market here but the demand was supplied soon. The subsequent decline carried January off to 19.48, March 19.53 and May 19.54, or 3 to 5 points down from the opening. Later a moderate trade demand carried January back to 19.55 and March and May to 19.60, or 6 to 7 points above the lows and 3 points over yesterday's close.

The advance extended to levels 7 points above yesterday's close but the tendency to improve was checked. Prices eased off 3 to 5 points from the highs but the market met some support on the dip.

The quieter tone was helped by an impending ginnings report. At noon the market was quiet but only 2 to 3 points under the highs.

expiring and Mr. Kellogg decided to modernize them. He eliminated from the scope of arbitrations "questions affecting the vital interest, the independence or the honor," of the contracting parties. Such vague and all-inclusive exceptions, he believed, could be construed to cover almost any substantial international dispute.

In its revised form the draft of the arbitration treaty was offered to 32 nations. Thirteen of these treaties have been signed and ratified by the senate.

The conciliation treaties being negotiated are the same as those concluded by Secretary Bryan with a number of nations and still in force. They provide that any dispute, when ordinary diplomatic proceedings have failed and the parties do not have recourse to arbitration, shall be submitted for investigation and report to a permanent international commission of five members which is bound to make a finding within a year.

versity of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., his Alma Mater. He also was appointed to the executive committee of this district.

Luncheon At Noon

The visitors were entertained with a luncheon at "Our Cafeteria," 1106 Texas Avenue, at noon to-day. No formal program was presented, a number of the visitors, including the Rt. Rev. Seaman, making short talks.

Approximately 100 delegates from all parts of this district, which includes 70,000 square miles of North Texas, have been in attendance at the convocation.

It is planned to make the next convocation at Amarillo, on the twentieth anniversary of this district, the greatest in its history. Bishop Seaman has issued a challenge of twenty objectives of the district during the year 1929. One of these objectives is the erection of an open air pulpit on the church's property facing the Tech College campus to be used by outstanding ministers in bringing messages to the students of the college.

Mrs. Henry S. Gooch, of Amarillo, is the retiring president of the Auxiliary, and has presided at all of the sessions. The woman's organization will hold the closing session at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon.

HISTORY repeats itself again

ON January 7, 1926, the Pontiac Six came into existence. It had bodies by Fisher. It sold for $825. It introduced real luxury and beauty to buyers in the low-priced field.

But Pontiac's builders did not rest content with their early triumph. They knew that American people are constantly on the lookout for new and finer things. So in February, 1927, they introduced the New and Finer Pontiac Six. And it was lower in price than ever, selling for $775. Then, in July, greatly increased production enabled Pontiac's builders to reduce the price again. Now Pontiac sold for $745.

Came 1928, and with it a still finer Pontiac. Even then the price remained only $745. And after six months, Pontiac was made faster, more powerful and more attractive than ever.

This brief review gives you an idea of something that is coming. Automobile history is repeating itself again. Soon Oakland will present a brand new Pontiac Six, an even greater advancement over other low-priced cars available today than the original Pontiac represented in 1926.

BANK BANDIT FOUND GUILTY

MINIMUM OF FIVE YEAR TERM RECOMMENDED TO YANCY STORY

MARLIN, Jan. 22 — Yancy Story to-day was convicted of robbery of the Krum bank. The jury recommended a minimum sentence of five years.

The jury began deliberations late yesterday, but it was not until after midnight that it reached a verdict.

Story had been charged with robbery with firearms for the looting of the Krum bank, in Denton county, on June 9, 1925. He had been tried twice previously on the charge. In Dallas he was convicted and sentenced to 99 years imprisonment. The case was reversed and remanded, and in a new trial at Sherman a jury was unable to agree.

In the trial here, the state contended Story and at least one companion robbed the bank after telling an official it would be looted and after inquiring as to whether a cashier still had a pistol he had kept in a drawer.

About two months after the robbery, Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and a group of officers searched Story's home and found a roll of nickels, wrapped in a Krum bank check, and other evidence which was introduced against him.

pared to seek the cloture rule limiting debate but this requires a two-thirds vote.

This program involves the sidetracking of the appropriation bills which are necessary to provide money for next year's government expenditures. Usually everything is sacrificed for passage of these in order to forestall the necessity of an extra session. But Herbert Hoover's desire for the extra session has removed some of the normal pressure against this proposal.

Despondent Negro In Graphic Vent To Feelings

"Still sitting on the inside, lookin' on the outside, waitin' for that evening mail,' a negro inmate of the county bastile this morning composed a "billet-doux" to the girl friend, whom, it seems, didn't do right by him.

Illustrated with fancy drawings, the letter depicted graphically the despondent feelings of the negro. One drawing was that of a heart, pierced by an row with blood dripping from it. The picture was accompanied by "You have caused my heart to leak day and night." Two other drawings showed the inmate pining behind iron bars.

B. C. D. QUESTION

as to how much the tax would raise and saying he believed the city should have some certain method of raising funds to carry on the work for the city that the B. C. D. has been and is doing.

"It is not generally known," declared J. F. Turner, "the benefits our city derives from the Board of City Development, nor the results obtained by it. I don't think you'll find many people object to the tax, but we should have a better method of telling the citizenship what is being done with the money raised by taxation for this purpose."

"It is all right, if we get value received for the money spent," was the statement of T. P. Gibson, "but if it's not spent for building up the town it's wrong."

M. S. Acuff's opinion was that if the money was invested properly, the tax is all right. "Lots of development has been done here. I don't see why the B. C. D. or chamber of commerce couldn't use the funds as well as anybody else."

Brown Is For Probe

P. F. Brown explained that he had heard only rumors of how the money was being spent in sending officials of the B. C. D. on long trips costing several thousand dollars. "I know nothing of all these rumors and have not been spreading them about town," he said, "but they have been told, and I think they ought to be investigated." He made it clear that he was not criticising the B. C. D. or chamber of commerce, or any individual, but that he was telling the rumors as he had heard them.

"I never kick on a tax, if we get our money's worth," was the remark of D. W Puckett. "I find that it costs me less under the tax system to support the Board of City Development, than it did before."

B. Sherrod, former president of the Board of City Development, told the gathering that it would be difficult for any 15 men, such as comprised the directors of the B. C. D. to figure out the work of that organization and carry it out, without some mistake being made, probably, the same as it would be impossible for any man, or set of men, to operate any business without making a mistake once in awhile.

"The tax payer who gets out and criticizes the Board of City Development, without going up to the B. C. D. offices and investigating himself, is open to criticism himself. I say, go to the proper sources for your information, when any question arises. The books of the B. C. D. are open at all times to the public. Any citizen has the right to investigate anything at any time. All he needs to do is to look at the records. The books have always been open.

"Every year a statement is published in booklet form, showing what each check is paid for during the year.

"The trips to Washington, referred to by some rumors, I am sure have been greatly beneficial to the city of Lubbock. We sent three men up there at one time and two at another time. They went to do much valuable work in getting the federal court. The fact is, we have been working on this ever since 1916. In all, it cost the B. C. D. about $1,500, but we think it was worth the cost to secure a federal court and to have men appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington and help to get the Denver for Lubbock. If we don't think this worth the money, then we've made a bad investment."

Mr. Sherrod explained that not one person has ever come before the B. C. D. directors at any time and asked them not to do certain things that the B. C. D. and chamber of commerce directors are always more than glad to let everybody know everything those bodies are trying to do. References were made to difference in cost of supporting the organizations under the tax system and the contribution system, the railroads and big corporations, who never formerly paid a cent, now paying their fair and pro rata part, while the burden of support that used to be on the shoulders of "the business men around the square," has been lifted.

Tax Rate Is Low

"I believe the only thing we are ever divided on is understanding," Mr. Sherrod said. "The tax rate in Lubbock is lower than that of any city of the same type in Texas. The rate in Idalou is almost as high as ours. Which would you rather have? A brick building in Idalou or one in Lubbock?"

C. E. Maedgen, president of the Lubbock National bank, said that the men on the B. C. D. get nothing for their services as directors, but that they give a great deal of their time and thought to it and the good of the city. "I believe that they give more consideration to the taxpayers' money than they did when the funds were raised by contributions, or donations to the chamber of commerce. No city ever built without a B. C. D., chamber of commerce, board of trade, or similar organization. Somebody's got to support it. Formerly our bank paid about $300 a year to the chamber of commerce. Under the tax system, it costs us about $160 a year. The railways, with several million dollars in property, did not use to pay anything, now they pay their share. Same is true of other corporations and big property owners who might not have formerly contributed anything."

Mayor Woods Talks

Mayor Harley D. Woods: "We in this city have boasted that this is a city where people all work together for the common good. We have no conception of the splendid type of our citizens. I sometimes believe. During past years this section has constantly grown, from about 4,000 people in 1920, to 20,000 in 1929, and I am sure the work of the B. C. D. has been an important factor in this growth and development. While the tax secures about $1,600 a year from the Santa Fe railway for support of the B. C. D., where it formerly was contributing nothing, the City of Lubbock, alone, spends abut $6,700 every year in freight with this railway. If more money is paid than is needed it should not get to the point where we'll have strife."

MONTGOMERY TAKES KAYO

STRIBLING REGISTERS KNOCKOUT NO. 113 MONDAY NIGHT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 22.—With his 113th knockout recorded at the expense of Sully Montgomery, former Centre college football player, W. L. (Young) Stribling today was enroute to New Orleans, scene of his last fight before his battle at Miami February 27 with Jack Sharkey.

Stribling last night toyed with Montgomery before he connected with a left hook to the chin that sent the Fort Worth boxer down for the count after less than a minute of fighting in the second round. Stribling floored his opponent for a count of nine a few seconds before the knockout.

Ralph Smith, heavyweight, will be the Georgian's opponent at New Orleans Friday night.

Campbell Chosen As Special Judge

W. W. Campbell, local attorney, yesterday was selected as special judge to preside in a divorce case on trial in the 99th district court in the absence of Judge Clark M. Mullican who is in Austin representing the Lubbock Bar Association in presenting a protest against the proposed creation of a new district court in this section.

The local representation will be given a hearing in Austin tonight. Several civil cases are set on the docket for this week, but it is not known whether or not they will come to trial. It will be necessary to use a special judge in the event of a trial.

Permit Total Here Nears $200,000 Mark

Lubbock's building permits for the month of January this morning increased one step nearer the $200,000 mark with the granting of two permits for a total of $11,000. The total for the month and the year now stands at $186,575 for forty-seven permits.

Both permits issued from the city engineer's office this morning were to the Sampson Construction company of this city. One was for $10,000 for the remodeling of the Lindsey theater, 1017 Main Street, and the other for the installation of a "talkie" booth in the Palace theater, 1018 Main Street.
