Congo Veep Says Dag Ignored Promise

Liquor Election Petition Requested

Vote Is Sought In City Only

The first liquor election for the City of Snyder may be in the offing in the immediate future with application for petitions for that effect being presented to County Clerk Dan Cotton Saturday morning. All previous elections have been county-wide affairs, some for beer and some for all alcoholic beverages.

Signed by 12 Snyder citizens, the application asked for petitions for the "sale of all alcoholic beverages for off-premise consumption only." Cotton expects to have the petitions ready to issue by the middle of the week.

To call an election, the petitions must have the signatures of 25 per cent of the number of persons voting for governor in the last presidential election. In this case, basing his estimates on the figures from the four city boxes in the last such election, Cotton estimates the petitioners will need over 500 names of qualified voters. The four voting boxes that include Snyder also include voters outside the city limits and the exact number of names is not known at this time.

Names signed to the application presented to Cotton include L.R. Cox, 1411 Avenue S; Mrs. L. R. Cox; H. D. Neer, Manhattan Hotel; Alice Marie Evans, 422 Twenty-eighth Street; Leon Johnson, 1010 Twenty-sixth Street; Mrs. Otis Gibson, East Highway; W. H. Barton, Box 841; J.F. Bass, Box 1372; O. F. Cummings, Jr., East Highway; Marcel Josephson, 3781 Avondale; Mrs. Marcel Josephson; and W. B. Lee, 2611 Thirty-seventh Street.

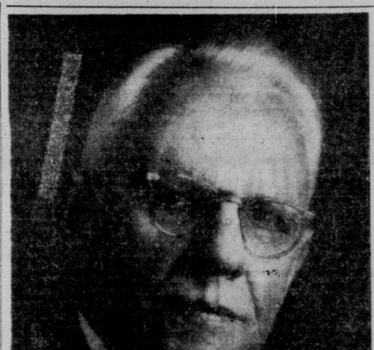

Scurry County has gone "wet" only one time in elections. That was in 1892 when only six votes were held to be valid when they were canvassed, one against and five for selling liquor.

Then in 1902 the county voted "dry" by 545 to 451 votes with the next election in 1934, one to legalize the sale of beer, failing by a vote of 866 to 558.

Another proposal to legalize the sale of beer was submitted on May 6, 1950, and was defeated 2,479 to 694.

The last two "wet-dry" election proposals have both been for the sale of all alcoholic beverages. Both were defeated with a vote of 3,212 to 2,264 in 1952 and 3,732 to 1,636 in 1955.

The petitions must be presented to the Commissioners Court within 30 days of the day they are issued so the election may be called.

M. A. FULLER

M. A. Fuller, Noted Banker, Dies Friday

Marshall Andrew Fuller, rancher, banker, oilman and member of a pioneer Scurry County family, died Friday night in a Fort Worth hospital following a long illness. He was 75.

Mr. Fuller was born Dec. 26, 1884 in Tennessee, and came to Scurry County with his parents around the turn of the century.

At that time his father W.A. Fuller, bought the Fuller Ranch and helped found the Snyder National Bank in 1905 at a time when the population of Snyder was under 1,000 and without a railroad to enhance it. All supplies to Snyder were dropped off as freight wagons went through to Lubbock.

The late W. A. Fuller was the first president of the bank here, serving from 1905 until 1916, followed by his son, P. L., who served until 1924. The banker Fullers helped carry many a Scurry rancher through the "bad" years of the frontier days of farming and ranching, rolling with the punches of the drouths and growing in "health" in the good years.

M. A. Fuller became president of the bank in 1924, having been on the board of directors previously, and helped the bank weather the "crash" of 1929. The Snyder National Bank was one of the few banks in the country to weather that time, closing its door for the only time in its history during the "bank holiday" ordered by President Franklin D. Roorevelt in 1933.

In 1939 M. A. Fuller left Snyder to become president of the First National Bank of Fort Worth where he was later chairman of the board of directors. Mr Fuller's son, W. M., was president of the Snyder National Bank from 1949 to 1952. Although the Fullers sold controlling interest in the bank here in 1957, W. M. is still on the board of directors.

Mr. Fuller is survived by two sons, W. M. and Andrew P., both of Fort Worth, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services in Fort Worth will be announced after the arrival from Europe of Andrew P. Fuller.

FORMER MISS USA ARRESTED—Mrs. Leona Gage Covacevich, who held the Miss U. S. A. title for one day in 1957 before it was discovered she was a Mrs., talks with newsmen at a Hollywood jail after being booked on a charge of "endangering a child's life." She was arrested following a report to police that she had beaten her son David, 4. She told officers she strapped the boy with a belt to keep him from playing with razor blades. (AP Wirephoto)

Urges Troops Into Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga charged Saturday that U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold ignored the Congolese government in dealing with the secession of rich Katanga Province.

Preparing to fly to New York to plead the Congo's case before the special Security Council meeting on Katanga Sunday night, Gizenga again called on Hammarskjold to send U.N. troops to Katanga immediately.

Gizenga, who openly criticized the U.N. official last week at a dinner in Hammarskjold's honor, said the troops should be sent to "honor the promises—he—made publicly to the Congolese people."

Hammarskjold had left for New York after cancelling orders for U.N. troops to enter Katanga and thus bring it at least symbolically under U.N. control.

Hammarskjold warned that Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga meant business when he said U.N. troops would have to fight their way into Katanga. He said he had no authorization to commit troops of the 11,000-man, predominantly African U.N. force to battle.

In Elisabethville, his capital, Tshombe expressed satisfaction with Hammarskjold's decision.

Gizenga complained that he was told of Hammarskjold's cancellation order only 15 minutes before the secretary-general flew back to New York.

"Mr. Dag Hammarskjold has done everything to ignore the central government of the Congolese republic, a trustee of the confidence of the Congolese people," Gizenga said in a statement.

He charged that Hammarskjold had based his decisions not on the Congolese government's desires but on "strict application of the results of conversations between Bunche and Tshombe."

Ralph J. Bunche, U.N. undersecretary and Hammarskjold's top troubleshooter in the Congo, flew to Katanga last week and failed to persuade Tshombe to yield on the troop issue.

Gizenga, one of four Congolese ministers instructed by the Cabinet to attend the Security Council meeting, publicly told Hammarskjold last week that the United Nations had fallen down on the job by allowing the secession movement to get organized under Tshombe.

His statement Saturday represented a sharp departure from Friday night's conciliatory motion by the Cabinet. Under Gizenga's chairmanship, it unanimously voted its confidence in the United Nations, in Hammarskjold and in their efforts to solve the Congo crisis.

In addition to Gizenga, the ministers flying to New York are Foreign Minister Justin Bombeko, who is known as a moderate; Justice Minister Rene Mwambe, and Thomas Kanza, the Congo's minister-delegate to the United Nations.

Gizenga's unfriendly statement appeared to have been prompted by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba's demand that the U.N. troops enter Katanga "without delay." The statement showed growing bitterness among the Congo's leaders.

Lumumba called for immediate entry of U.N. troops while he was in Rabat, Morocco, on a tour seeking political support and technical aid.

Although he has not even arrived there on his way home, Lumumba got some support Saturday from the Republic of Ghana, one of the first to offer troops for the U.N. force.

'Texans For Nixon' Group To Organize

DALLAS (AP)—A group of 29 prominent Texans issued Saturday a call for a statewide meeting in Dallas to organize a "Texans for Nixon" movement.

The movement to boom the candidacy of Republican nominee Richard Nixon will be formed at a meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Sheraton Dallas Hotel.

Carr Collins, Jr., Dallas insurance man who announced plans for the movement earlier this week, disclosed the powerful array of Texans who will form the nucleus of the organization.

Groundwork for the Texans for Nixon organization, which will operate outside the Republican Party, was laid at a meeting in Houston Tuesday between Collins and former GOP National Committeeman H. J. Porter.

Noticable on the committee are religious affiliations including Collins, a prominent Baptist lay leader, and Ed Maher of Dallas, a leading Roman Catholic lay leader.

Vice President Nixon's November opponent, Sen. John Kennedy, is a Roman Catholic. Many prominent Baptists oppose Kennedy largely because of his religious affiliation.

Stormy Session Due

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1960 presidential campaign shifts into high gear—and into the Capitol—Monday with the return of Congress for what shapes up as its stormiest partisan performance.

The very presence in the Senate chamber of rival candidates for the presidency — Vice President Richard M. Nixon as presiding officer, and Sen. John F. Kennedy on the floor—pointed up the heavy political overtones.

And, if that does not constitute enough of a challenge to sober deliberation, the job of scheduling legislation will be in the hands of Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Kennedy's vice presidential running mate.

Add to the lineup Sens. Henry R. Jackson (Wash.), the Democratic national chairman, and Thruston B. Morton (Ky) his Republican opposite number, and it's anybody's guess what explosions may occur before Labor Day.

Democratic talk of increased spending for defense and to spur the domestic economy and Republican demands for Johnson to "deliver" on Democratic civil rights promises provided only part of the preliminary political dynamite to be set off in due course.

Sharp differences on how much to raise the minimum wage, over medical care to the elderly, housing, aid to education and other campaign issues put a big question mark over what can be enacted in a session both sides hoped could be concluded in 24 working days.

Nor does it allow for action on what Nixon recently forecast would be a series of vetoes by President Eisenhower if Democrats enact what he called "massive spending measures" not accompanied by the taxes to pay for them.

That would mean keeping Congress in session while the Democratic leadership decided whether to attempt to override.

The House doesn't even reconvene until Aug. 15—a week from Monday—and bills providing federal aid for school construction and housing are tied up in its rules Committee until it can be persuaded to let them go.

The first big fight in the Senate likely will come on Democratic efforts to raise the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour — the House raised it from $1 to $1.15—and to expand its coverage. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) has served notice he has a big stack of amendments on which he will seek votes.

Then, there is the almost certain row over proposals to provide medical care for persons over 65. The Democrats would tie such care in with Social Security deductions, while Republicans generally favor federal contributions to the states for this purpose.

Republicans are trying to put the Democrats, particularly Vice Presidential Nominee Johnson, on the spot by calling for action on civil rights through a bill based on the new Democratic platform.

Even if half of the Southern Democrats suddenly developed lockjaw, every one knows the other half could easily keep such a bill in the Senate Judiciary Committee or blocked by talk on the floor a long time past Labor Day.

Priest Named In Warrant

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Hidalgo County Dist. Atty. R. L. Lattimore Saturday turned over a warrant to the Sheriff's Dept. for the arrest of a Catholic priest who is charged with assault with intent to rape.

Lattimore filed the charges against Father John B. Feit, 27, on a complaint signed by Miss Maria America Guerra, [illegible] dent at Pan American College here. The charges were filed in Justice of the Peace J. M. Chapa's court.

Chapa set Feit's bond at $5,000.

Lattimore quoted Miss Guerra as saying she was attacked while she prayed at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church here last March 23. The District Attorney quoted her as saying a man came up behind her and placed a rag over her face. She said she bit her attacker on the finger and he fled from the church.

Lattimore said he believed Feit was in San Antonio. Sheriff E. E. Vickers said Deputy Heriberto Sanchez would leave here Saturday to attempt to serve the warrant.

Feit was a student at the San Juan Pastoral House near here in March and was assigned to no church.

Miss Guerra is from Fronton, Tex., in Starr County, and lived across the street from the church.

Lattimore said a person convicted of assault with intent to rape could receive a prison sentence ranging from two years to life.

Powers Family To Leave For USSR

By BILL JOHNSON

NORTON, Va. (AP)—A middle-aged couple who admittedly don't like to travel far from their home in the southwest Virginia hills leave Sunday on the longest and most distressing trip of their lives.

Their destination is the Soviet Union and the spy trial of their only son, Francis Gary Powers.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers said Saturday they hope to arrive in Moscow before their son goes on trial Aug. 17. They will be accompanied by Sol W. Cury, home-town friend and adviser.

Even as the elder Powers announced the departure date, the State Department in Washington released notes showing Moscow's flat refusal to allow American attorneys to take part in the trial. The United States charged the Soviet Union with making almost hysterical efforts to inflame public opinion before the trial begins.

A Soviet note dated Aug. 4 said Powers' relatives will be given an opportunity to confer with his Soviet attorney, identified as a member of the Moscow City Lawyers Collegium with the name of Grunov.

Oliver Powers would not disclose details of his plan for the trip. He indicated, however, the family and Cury would motor to Washington but said if he were bothered they might catch a plane. He declined to say where they would go, or how, when they leave the nation's capital.

The spy charges were placed against young Powers after his U2 reconnaissance plane went down in the Soviet Union May 1.

Soviet visas were authorized Tuesday for the pilot's mother; his wife, Barbara Powers; Cury; Dr. Lewis K. Ingram, personal physician for the elder Mrs. Powers; and Carl A. MacAfee, attorney for Oliver Powers. The pilot's father had received his visa in June.

The younger Mrs. Powers said Saturday she had not received her visa and could not make any travel arrangements now.

It was explained at the State Department in Washington that the pilot's wife had not applied for a passport until recently and a visa could not be issued without a passport. The passport is being processed and probably will be issued Monday. Officials said the visa should be given promptly since it already has been authorized.

But it seemed Saturday that neither Dr. Ingram nor MacAfee would make the trip.

MacAfee said flatly he could not go because Oliver Powers was not financially able to pay his expenses. And Dr. Ingram said he could not make the trip unless enough money was raised Saturday to pay his way.

The elder Mrs. Powers suffers from a heart condition.

Hot Weather To Remain In State

By The Associated Press

Hot August weather was general over Texas Saturday. More of the same was in prospect for Sunday.

A few clouds built up along the coast from Houston to Beaumont but elsewhere skies were clear to partly cloudy.

Forecasts were in the familiar pattern, with isolated thundershowers held possible for all areas during Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings.

A cool front to the north of Texas was drawing up hotter air from the southwest, and temperatures by Sunday were expected to reach up to 105 degrees in all sections but East and extreme West Texas.

Dallas Nixes Integration

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas residents voted overwhelmingly against school integration in first returns from Saturday's referendum.

The vote was 2,799 against and 686 for in returns from 18 boxes out of a total of 134.

Election officials said the total vote might reach 40,000—or about twice the size of any previous vote here on a school issue.

The results of Saturday's referendum will have no effect on whether or not Dallas schools are integrated.

Fed. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson has ordered the school district to begin a limited plan of integration by September, 1961 whereby only three schools will be designated as integrated and minority group pupils can transfer out of them. Negroes who brought the suit have appealed this order.

The judge said he thought federal courts would not uphold a state law requiring a school district to gain approval in a referendum before integrating its schools.

But he urged the board to go ahead with the referendum as a kind of barometer of public opinion and indicated that if Dallas voters rejected integration the court might revise his original order and require complete integration.

Congress To Get Special Message

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower will send a special message to Congress Monday to press for a program the summer White House described Saturday as "in the public interest."

The subject matter was not disclosed.

Eisenhower has been insistent, however, in the face of the forthcoming presidential campaign, that it is vitally important that the reconvened session put the interests of the people ahead of politics.

He has indicated he will veto any massive spending legislation, particularly if it is not accompanied by provisions for taxes to pay the bill.

The President may go on nationwide television and radio to present the gist of his program to the public, although such arrangements have not been set up.

Eisenhower's message will be sent to the Senate upon its reconvening at noon Monday after a congressional recess for the national political conventions.

A copy will be sent at the same time to the clerk of the House of Representatives, which will resume its sessions a week later.

Eisenhower and the first lady [illegible] days afternoon after spending most of their time since July 7 at the summer White House here.

The President's intention of sending the message was announced at a news conference by James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary.

In declining to go into details, Hagerty indicated it would cover a broad range and take into consideration recent Soviet threats and actions in the cold war.

Washington sources have indicated, without denial here, that the President may seek some increase in the defense outlay, either through releasing impounded funds previously appropriated or even asking additional appropriations.

Hagerty said the message would "stress the fact that there is much important work that this Congress has before it, which the President hopes they will be able to complete in the public interest for the people of this country."

Such topics as medical care for the aged, school aid, housing and minimum wages are among those that may come before Congress.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon will preside over the senate.

Also on hand will be Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, and Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, House majority leader.

MRS. NORENE G. CHANEY was sworn in as postmaster of Ira Friday afternoon. She replaces Mrs. Joe Lopour who had been temporary postmaster for the past five years. Mrs. Chaney will move into a new post office building as soon as consirucion is completed. Her appointment was approved by the senate in July.

New Hours Set For Winston Park Pool

New hours for use of the Winston Park swimming pool have been announced by park superintendent Russell Jones.

The pool will be open on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday, from two to five o'clock in the afternoons.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Friday [illegible] degrees; low, 73 degrees; readings at 8 a.m. Saturday, 75 degrees.

NORTH CENTRAL TEXAS: Clear to partly cloudy and hot through Sunday with isolated afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms.

TIPRO Favors Inter-State Formula For Oil Production

MCALLEN (AP)—Texas independent oil operators decided Saturday to take part in a proposal to persuade oil producing states to develop a formula under which each state would receive a fair share of domestic crude production.

The executive committee of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. (TIPRO) voted to explore the feasibility of developing an equitable and realistic formula under which each state could evaluate its role in sharing the domestic market.

TIPRO officials said Texas, in a period of oversupply, has slashed its allowable drastically while some other states continue with near record production.

The TIPRO action follows recent appointment of a special committee by the Interstate Oil Compact Commission to study market sharing by the 33 oil producing states.

TIPRO emphasized the right of each state to reject any specific formula but said more and more states are realizing a need for standards through which they may voluntarily evaluate their individual roles in balancing supply with demand.

The executive committee also:

1. Instructed TIPRO officers to prepare alternative legislative and administrative proposals for restricting oil imports for later consideration.

2. Voted to encourage greater industry efforts to obtain a bill in Congress removing gas producers from federal utility - type control. The committee studied a proposed bill drafted by a task force of producer, pipeline and distributor representatives.

3. Voted to oppose any proposal to increased state production taxes on oil and gas.

4. Asked refiners to aid in balancing supply and demand by reducing refinery runs.

TIPRO blamed imports for most of the industry's oversupply problems. The import action Saturday hinted the independents will be ready to take their fight to Congress should a new Washington administration next year abandon or weaken the current mandatory control program on oil imports.

John Hurd of Lubbock, TIPRO president, said:

"The committee concluded that while any new administration will unquestionably exercise present legislative authority to restrain imports, it reminds desirable to prepare alternative measures to be placed either before the Congress or administrative officials as may be deemed desirable at any time."

TIPRO also renewed its opposition to proposals to exempt all public crude and heavy fuel oil from mandatory import controls.

"Further and accelerated liberalization of the mandatory program could become as damaging as no program at all," Hurd said.

Rainfall Picture In Abrupt Change

Mother Nature has the capacity to "balance out" things, although there may be times when mankind grows skeptical. She proved it once again in July by providing no less than 6.28 inches of rainfall in Snyder.

The July rains came when it appeared that 1960 was destined to go into the record books as one of the driest years in Scurry County history.

Now, it's a cinch that no record will be set drought-wise, because the year already has produced more moisture here than one entire 12-month period did back in 1917.

The official rainfall total for Snyder this year now amounts to 9.70 inches, thanks to the wet July which produced two-thirds of it.

Measureable rainfall was logged here on seven separate dates in July, with most of it falling in the period of July 4-7. The biggest rain of the year, 2.19 inches, was recorded on the morning of July 6. It was a continuation of showers which began on the night of July 4 and continued through July 7.

Although the area still lags behind the 49-year average of 12.01 inches for the first seven months of the year, the July rains brought an abrupt change for the better in agricultural prospects for the area.

It was the wettest July here since 1948 when 7.36 inches fell during the month, to set a record. Only two other July totals have topped that of 1960 during the past 49 years.

Faubus Is Unhappy With Dem Platform

TULSA (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas struck a blow for states rights Friday, criticizing what he called federal government practices of "meddling" in affairs of individual states.

Faubus also criticized the Democratic party platform, which he said "goes a long way" toward disregarding the Constitution.

Faubus said in a speech he believes "in the Constitution that was first given us—that the people have the right to decide."

Men in Washington, he said, "have set themselves up now to tell us what is good for us and what is bad for us."

"And," he said drawing long applause, "that is akin to Moscow."

Faubus said the Democratic platform in many ways "disgusts me."

Weather Generally Favorable For Rapid Growth Of Crops

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Hot open weather and generally favorable moisture conditions helped crops make good growth toward maturity, says Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

He reported this week that district agents said moisture will soon be needed to maintain present prospects.

Subsurface moisture in the Panhandle was short in most areas but grain sorghums were making good growth and range and cattle conditions were good.

Cotton and sorghums made excellent growth in the South Plains (Lubbock) where no rain fell during the week. Isolated heavy infestations of cotton insects were reported. Some cotton and sorghums are being irrigated. This will increase with dry, hot weather. Ranges are very good, with stock water adequate. Rain will be needed soon.

Surface moisture was adequate in all except four counties in the Rolling Plains (Vernon). Cotton was fruiting well. Bollworms and weevils are causing damage. A small acreage of sorghums has been harvested. The third cutting of alfalfa is being made.

Cotton farmers in North Central Texas wanted hot sunshine. The wet weather is making insect control difficult. Another cutting of hay will be made from many fields as a result of the rains. Livestock and pasture conditions are good.

Moisture is needed in some areas of Northeast Texas. Pastures are beginning to get short, and cotton, corn and sorghums in many counties need rain. Vegetables, peaches and melons are moving and sweet potatoes are making good growth.

In far West Texas, range and livestock conditions improved in recent rains. More moisture is needed for grass and crop growth. Cotton is growing well and fruiting heavily. Goat shearing is beginning.

Recent rains have helped ranges and field crops but top soils are drying rapidly in West Central Texas. Stock water is still short in some areas and row crops need rain. Cotton is making good progress with little insect damage. Livestock are in good condition. Sorghum has been harvested.

Soil moisture was adequate in the eastern counties and short in the western counties of Central Texas. Cotton is maturing. Insects are increasing. Corn and sorghums are maturing fast. Peanuts need rain. Pastures are dry but livestock are doing well.

The hot weather has dried top soils especially in the western counties of deep East Texas. A general rain would help pastures and crops. The fruit and vegetable harvests are about complete. Cotton is making good growth.

Moisture is adequate and hay crops are making good growth as are ranges and pastures in South Central Texas. The sorghum harvest is well along. Livestock conditions are good.

Moisture is ample in the upper coastal counties and sorghum harvesting is progressing. Cotton is fruiting well. Some hay is being baled and some has been damaged by rains. Pastures are good.

Ranges in the Winter Garden area are greening from rains of two weeks ago. All other counties in far South Texas need rain. The cotton harvest in the Valley and Coastal Bend is in full swing.

Doctor Says Sign Unfair

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England (AP) — Dr. Eric St. John Lyburn pointed angrily to a sign the town council put up 30 yards from his door and said: "That sign is injuring my practice."

The sign read: "To the crematorium and cemetery."

Said the burly Irish doctor: "Hundreds of people come to my house believing it's the crematorium," and lots of others take one look at the sign and say 'I'll steer clear of that doctor — he kills his patients.'"

Dr. Lyburn is threatening to sue unless the council takes down the sign.

"I calculate that I have lost about 5,000 pounds ($14,000) because of these signs. There are four of them around my place," he said.

The Tunbridge Wells Town Council claims the signs, 12 inches high and in black lettering, are essential if people are not to lose their way.

Once Dr. Lyburn countered by putting up his own sign reading: "Turn right or left, but make your choice."

The council took it down.

177 New Oil Wells Completed In Week

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas drillers brought in 177 oil and 54 gas wells last week, the Railroad Commission said Saturday. There were 16 dry holes.

Totals for the year are 5,963 oil, 1,151 gas and 3,335 dry holes. Last year at this time there were 7,311 oil, 1,179 gas wells and 3,725 dry holes.

Wildcatters drilled 10 oil, 1 gas well and 8 dry holes, bringing the year's total to 238 oil and 29 gas wells. Last year there were 262 oil, 40 gas and 2,161 dry.

Some 204 wells were plugged, including 136 dry holes.

The average daily allowable was 2,392,747 barrels, down 82,456 from the previous week.

Big Slump Continues On Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — Whatever happened to the "summer rally" the stock market experts were talking about back in June?

The summer 1960 slump, which replaced the hoped-for rally, continued early this week as poor earnings despite higher sales in many cases), dividend omissions and a trendless, leaderless market depressed prices. Late Thursday, however, what the analysts call a technical rally got under way and the market spent the rest of the week on the up beat.

Final statistics presented a blurred picture on the week. Of 1,426 issues traded, 658 rose and 595 fell while new 1960 highs were out-numbered by new lows 132-94. The Associated Press average ended the week down 0.70 at 215.40 and Dow Jones average lost 2.44 to 614.29.

Brokers said the market appeared to be "sold out" at this level and many investors rushed in to buy stocks at what they apparently believed to be "bargains." Rumors along Wall Street that the Federal Reserve Board might do something to ease money rates also helped the Thursday push, but the market kept going up Friday even though the rumors eventually turned out to be false.

Weekly volume declined to 12,843,800 shares from 13,863,740 the previous week. Market bulls noted that the number of shares changing hands Tuesday, when the AP average suffered its worst loss, shrank to the lowest daily total since last Columbus Day.

Optimists also could point to the strong performance all week of aircraft, missile and electronic issues. This was attributed to belief defense spending would increase no matter who wins the presidential election. Then, too, most of the bad news from earnings was believed to be finished and there is a historical precedent for higher prices in August, since the market has risen in this month in 41 of the past 62 years.

The most active stocks on the American Stock Exchange was Seaboard & Western Airlines, up ¼ at 2⅝ on 87,900 shares.

Treasury bond prices stumbled this week to halt a five-week climb. But corporate bonds posted a solid advance, the fourth in five weeks.

U. S. government securities opened the week at their highest prices in almost two years but headed lower immediately. Three sessions on the downside were followed by a rally to 1960 highs Thursday. Another decline Friday left many issues ¼ to ⅝ of a point below Monday's open.

Volume was the best in five weeks and totaled $24,032,100 par value on the New York Stock Exchange compared with $22,772,000 last week and $28,945,000 a year ago. Daily volume topped the five million mark three times.

Airman Sentenced To Life In Prison

MCGUIRE AFB, N.J. (AP)—An airman convicted of premeditated murder in the stabbing of a Texas airman was sentenced Saturday to life in prison by a military court.

Elmer Shaffer, 18, of Fon Du Lac, Wis., was found guilty by a court-martial Friday.

The court-martial also ordered his dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances due him.

Shaffer and Airman Harry Kemp, 20, of Charleston, W. Va., were charged with beating and stabbing to death Airman 3 Harold Cartwright, 23, of Temple, Tex., March 1.

Kemp was found guilty and sentenced to death July 22.

25 Are Arrested In Raid Of Lake House

FORT WORTH (AP)—A swarm of officers arrested 12 women and 13 men early Saturday at a house on Grapevine Lake. They seized five reels of sex films and a quantity of goof balls.

An assortment of charges was prepared by the state narcotics agents, Rangers, Tarrant County officers and the Grapevine policemen that raided the place four miles northwest of Grapevine.

The police had been working on the case about two months. Narcotics agent said the man, 31, who had leased the house had at least six prostitutes working for him.

Apricot preserves are widely available and make convenient and delicious fillings for cakes, cookies and lady fingers.

Whether they are carried in a picnic basket or a lunchbox, sandwiches from the freezer will thaw during the toting.

OLD CROPLAND TO PAYING ENTERPRISE—Milam Fowler and Dan Russell stand in a field of Nomad alfalfa with which Fowler has reclaimed old cropland for hog grazing with the help of the Soil Conservation Service in Snyder. Nomad grows with a limited amount of water, being drought resistant.

Alfalfa Reclaims Shallow Farmland

Old cropland converted to alfalfa pasture is paying off for Milam Fowler who farms seven miles northwest of Snyder.

The shallow, steep soil could not be farmed profitably, so Fowler decided to plant alfalfa on the land to graze hogs.

With the one well on the property only pumping from 40 to 50 gallons per minute, the selection of a variety of feed that would be suitable created a problem. Fowler decided on the Nomad variety of alfalfa.

Following the recommendations of the Soil Conservation Service technicians at Snyder, Fowler now has a good stand of Nomad alfalfa, a drought resistent variety. This will enable him to raise hogs cheaply by grazing.

Fowler cooperates fully with the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District, beginning his conservation program in 1947. The farm is completely terraced, with grasses grown in rotation with crops for soil conditioning.

Roe Attends Music Clinic

Jerry Roe, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Roe, 3107 Avenue U, is enrolled in a two-week clinic for young musicians being conducted at Indiana University by Stan Kenton, leading exponent of jazz.

Roe, who plays string bass, won a scholarship to the clinic when he was selected outstanding musician at the state stage band contest last spring.

Assisting Kenton in the clinic, which begins tomorrow, are such musicians as Shelly Manne, America's No. 1 drummer and winner of the 1959 Down Beat poll; John LaPorta, reeds; Don Jacoby, trumpet; Russ Garcia, arranging, and Sal Salvador, guitar.

A BACKSEAT VIEW of the East Side Church of Christ auditorium is overwhelming. Recessed lighting in the arched ceiling insures even lighting with no glare. The sculptured baptistry scene by Foy Nutt accents the natural birch paneling behind the rostrum. The auditorium will seat over 1200. The building was designed by Frank Darby, Jr. in the modern contemporary manner.

SPACIOUS IS THE WORD for the auditorium of the $210,000 East Side Church of Christ building at 201 Thirty-first Street where open house and homecoming will be held today. The above picture shows almost half of the opera seats which stretch 100 feet from side to side. Man Depends Largely On 11 Food Crops

By RICHARD P. POWERS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The great bulk of mankind depends on 11 major food crops for subsistence. In one part of the world or other they provide the main fuel for man's energy.

Five of these crops are tropical. They are rice, sugar cane, cassava, coconuts and bananas. The other six are wheat, corn, rye, potatoes, beans and peas. All but three, corn, potatoes and cassava, enter world trade in large amounts.

Of all the foodstuffs grown by mankind, the Agriculture Department said, it is difficult to know just why these 11 crops gained particular favor except that they yield heavily, have good storage qualities and are easy to grow.

Wheat and rice are the two leading food staples. Four out of five of the world's inhabitants eat one or the other of them. Production of the two grains is about equal—150 million tons a year.

Wheat, however, is grown on more of the world's acreage than any other crop. It now can be grown as far north as Finland and near the equator in central India.

But the United States, Canada, Australia, Argentina and France supply most of the world wheat exports.

Rice is the subsistence food of the warm humid lands. There are several thousand varieties of rice and no other grain gives such heavy yields per acre.

More than 90 per cent of the world's yearly rice crop is produced in Asia and most of the trade in rice takes place in this area.

Rye is important in northern Europe, but acreage is declining in favor of wheat. Rye can be grown wherever wheat is grown, but it can be produced in climates too cold for wheat. Today rye is largely a crop of Europe and the Soviet Union.

Corn ranks third among the grains in acreage and production. Native to the Americas, it is now widely distributed over the earth. But corn is low on the list of desired foods, so that the bulk of the crop is converted into meat and poultry.

Potatoes rival grains in the amount of food produced and on a weight basis the world's potato crop exceeds its wheat crop. But storage is a problem and, also because of weight and volume, they move but little in export trade. Europe is the big potato continent.

Field beans are the most important of the seeded legumes and in areas where there is a scarcity of meat, they supply the diet's protein needs.

The chick pea is only slightly less important but its distribution is limited. India produces 80 per cent of the world's crop.

Sugar usually appears in some form in everyday meals of people all over the world, since it is one of the best and cheapest sources of energy. Sugar cane is less expensive to produce than sugar beets and leads in production.

Cassava, a staple food in tropical lands, originated in the Americas but has spread throughout equatorial Africa, Asia and the tropical islands. Most of it is eaten where it is grown, but some, mainly in the form of tapioca, reaches outside markets.

Water Deliveries Are Off Slightly

Water deliveries fell under the billion gallon mark during July, but the month considerably outstripped July of 1959, monthly production figures of the Colorado River Municipal Water District show.

O. H. Ivie, assistant general manager-production, reported a total of 967,914,000 gallons of water metered to district customers. This was 10.3 per cent above last July, but it fell far short of the 1,168,745,000 gallons in June—the second highest month in district history.

The July total was impressive in view of widespread and heavy rains during the first part of the month, Ivie noted. All the cities were up substantially, while the oil repressuring projects dropped off as usual under the 8-day production pattern.

Odessa used 462,442,000 gallons in July, a gain of 11 per cent over the same month a year ago; Big Spring used 253,440,000, a gain of 24.8; Snyder 72,577,000, a gain of 18.5. The SACROC repressuring unit consumed 116,284,000 gallons, a decrease of 3.9 per cent; Sharon Ridge 34,506,000, a decline of 25 per cent. Texas Gulf used 8,122,000 gallons, a gain of 76 per cent. The daily average production was 31,223,000 in July, Ivie reported, whereas in June it had been 38,958,000. So far, August has been averaging around 40,000,000 gallons per day.

The July water demands boosted the total consumption of the CRMWD system to 5,285,715,000 gallons for the first seven months of the year, about seven per cent over the comparable period of last year.

Oklahoma Tops On Gridiron During 25-Year Golden Era

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

Oklahoma shades Notre Dame as collegiate football king for the 25-year golden era launched by Col. Biff Jones in 1935.

The Sooners began a revival under Jones which resulted in three national championships, unbeaten records in six regular seasons and 17 conference titles over a quarter century.

From 1935 through 1959, Oklahoma teams won 192 games, lost 48 and tied 12 — averaging eight victories for every 10 starts.

Notre Dame, only .011 behind in percentage, has a 180-48-13 mark.

Tennessee, Army, Michigan State, Ohio State, Duke, Penn State, Georgia Tech and Michigan complete the first 10 in The Associated Press survey.

Jones' military training and Louisiana Gov. Huey Long had a hand in shaping Oklahoma's gridiron future.

Despite a successful tenure at Louisiana State, Jones resigned in 1934 after refusing Long's request to address the team at halftime. The break put Jones in a receptive mood to the call from Norman, Okla.

The same disciplined mind which balked at outside interference made Jones the superb organizer Oklahoma needed as coach and athletic director.

In 1935, Jones set a Sooner pattern by emphasing a sharp running attack off the single and double wing. He moulded average personnel into a scrappy unit which produced a 6-3 record and shut out five foes.

The two men who were to complete Oklahoma's climb to the top were college stars that same '35 season.

As a guard for Minnesota's national champions, Bud Wilkinson ran 35 yards with a blocked kick to score against Tulane. He also was prominent when the Gophers fumbled to Nebraska on their 3-yard line, then refused to yield an inch for four downs to preserve a 12-7 victory.

Gomer Jones, Wilkinson's line coach in a Sooner partnership entering its 14th season, was the center for Ohio State which shared the Big Ten crown with Minnesota. It was Jones' block of a conversion kick which forced Notre Dame to complete one of the wildest rallies in football annals. Left one point behind with 90 seconds remaining due to Jones' effort, the Irish tallied their third touchdown in the last five minutes for an 18-13 upset.

Since the coaching firm of Wilkinson and Gomer Jones assumed control of Sooner football in 1947, Oklahoma teams have a 121-13-3 over-all record and a 72-1-3 showing against Big Eight conference competition.

Biff Jones laid a firm foundation in two years at Norman before he was transferred to an Army post. Successor Tom Stidham's 1938 aggregation was unbeaten until it met Tennessee in the Orange Bowl. The loss was only one of two the Sooners were to suffer in nine post-season encounters.

Under Wilkinson, Oklahoma established an all-time victory streak of 47 and a consecutive game scoring spree of 123, both of which Notre Dame snapped, 7-0, in 1957.

The Biff Jones rejuvenated ground attack heralded things to come. Oklahoma set the record for most net yards rushing and most yards gained—in 1956. Starting in 1949, the Sooners have led the nation in rushing three times and ranked second on three other occasions.

Notre Dame, traditional measuring rod of gridiron excellence, has lost the same number of games as Oklahoma over 25 years and holds a 3-1 margin in head-on collisions with the Sooners, but finishes second as a result of having played fewer contests.

From 1935 when Biff Shakespeare's pass to Wayne Millner beat the clock—and Ohio State—Notre Dame has had only one losing seson. The Irish enjoyed six unbeaten campaigns under Frank Leahy.

The survey shows the South the leading sector with nine representatives among the top 25 teams compared to five each from the Midwest and East.

The top 20 teams of the past quarter century (percentages figured without ties):

All-State Honors Go To Woolever

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Sports Writers Assn.'s first all-state track team was announced Saturday with R. L. Lasater of Big Spring making it in both sprints.

Lasater, who has a 9.3 100-yard dash to his credit; Jerry Miller of Bowie; Curt Newbury of Dallas Highland Park and Larry Shoemaker of Andrews were those who got on the team in the 100-yard dash.

In the 220-yard dash they were Lasater, Ted Nelson of Andrews and Bill Hill of Garland.

The Andrews 440-yard and mile relay teams that set national records headed the relays. Bay City and Highland Park made the 440-yard relay and Baytown and Midland the mile relay.

Others on the team are:

Shot put—Richard Inman, Belton; Danny Roberts, Cleveland; and Robert Young, Brownwood.

Discus—Ken Hensoh, San Angele; Robert Young, Brownwood; and Bob Duvall, Amarillo Tascosa.

Broad jump—Billy Foster, Dallas Sunset; Johny Cram, Greenville; and Walter Hayhurst, Wharton.

High jump—Jerl Franklin and Bob Beck, Abilene; and Billy Bennetsen, Wharton.

Pole vault — Steve Guynes, Grand Prairie; Warren Bratloff, Galena Park; and Billy Pemelton, Mercedes.

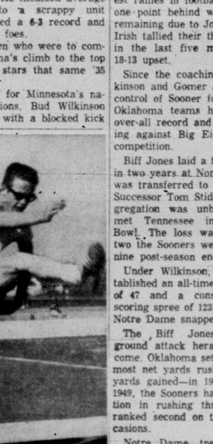

High and low hurdles—John Roderick, Highland Park; Stanley Woolever, Snyder; and Ronny Biffle, Anton.

440-yard dash — Jimmy Langham, Dallas Jefferson; R. E. Merritt, Andrews; and Don Mason, Brownfield.

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

Affable, laffable, and daffy-ble is one Johnny Boren. Quite a yarn-spinner in his own right and a quick man with the quip. Nothing malicious in his manner, though, as he's of the live-and-let-live temperament all the way down the line. Downright upright character, you might say.

The trip down to the Angelo foothills Thursday night for the Dodger Teenage tilt was enjoyable and uplifting, although the score would've been a bit better had it been reversed. Included in the merry band were Boren, his daughter Janet who for some unexplained reason he refers to as "Herb" — could be have possibly wanted a boy? Roy Meador, and yours truly.

The talk somehow turned to football between innings and at such time as Brother Boren had a few seconds to spare he related a true little story from actual life.

He told of a Negro football game which he saw at one time in which a halfback broke loose on what looked to be a sure touchdown run, and of the corresponding excitement of the fans and public address announcer alike. However, as the runner neared the goal he tripped and fell, bringing on this gem as blurted by the PA announcer, also a colored man:

"He's down to the 45, the 40, the 35, the 30, the 25, the 20, the 15, and whoops! Folks, he's done went down by self tackle-ization!"

Not Too Choosy, But Terribly Chewsy

ALSO DURING THE GAME, some youngsters down below us were seen to be busily munching on a peanut pattie, which struck another light in the Boren cranium. It had to do with his military experience during the Great War.

"You know how those Yankees are," he began. "Always talking about baked lobsters, stewed clams and such stuff as that during those barracks bull sessions."

I knew.

"Well, whenever they would start to talk like that," he drawled on, "I'd ask one of them, 'Ever eaten any peanut patties and clabber?' That usually broke up the conversation when I told them that all clabber was was just soured milk."

Some, it is suspected, even got a little green around the gills on hearing such a green-gilling report on Southern eating habits.

How About Ridin' Shotgun, Herb?

BOREN drew the driving assignment back to Snyder as Meador, Herb and Jackson gave him a free wheel and proceeded to make like cocoons. Just before leaving Angelo, however, we gassed up and bought a few little sweet-tooth items for the road.

Me? Got a package of M&M's because of their rich milk chocolate covering and their roasted brown peanut, none of which—I'm happy to report—melted in my hands.

Not so Boren. His delicacy was none other than a peanut pattie. They keep you awake" was his simple defense of the move.

Must work better than No—Doz, too, since he herded the blue metal monster all the way to Snyder without running into anybody or hitting any bridges.

Orioles Win On Indian Error, 5-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — An error by Cleveland third baseman Rocky Bridges enabled Baltimore to come from behind with two unearned runs in the seventh inning Saturday and the Orioles went on to beat the Indians, 5-2.

Bridges, trying to catch an infield fly that would have ended the inning, dropped the ball and two runs came in.

The winner was Hal (Skinny) Brown, the second of three Baltimore pitchers, who faced only six batters in the two innings he worked. The victory was his eighth in 12 decisions.

Starter Jack Harshman was the loser, giving him a 1-2 record.

Ronnie Hansen hit a home run for Baltimore and Rookie Mike De La Hoz homered for the Indians.

The Orioles went ahead 3-2 in the seventh on Bridges' error and scored two insurance runs off Don Newcombe in the eighth. Brooks Robinson led off with a single to right field and Bob Boyd beat out a bunt to third base. Both runners advanced on a sacrifice by Triandos when Newcombe made a late throw to third. Robinson scored on a double play and Boyd came home on a single by Billy Klaus.

Bowling Session On M.-P. Tomorrow Night

B. F. Darby Jr., president of the City Bowling League, has announced a meeting of all that league's bowlers for tomorrow night beginning at 7:30 in the Snyder National Bank building.

The importance of a good turnout is stressed, as plans will be formulated at that time for the organization of the league bowling of the coming fall.

Bosox Nudge Detroit, 11-9

DETROIT (AP) — Frank Malzone hit a double, triple and his 11th home run Saturday, sparking the Boston Red Sox to an 11-9 triumph over Detroit after the Tigers blew a five-run lead.

The loss was the 15th in 20 games for the Tigers and their second straight since Joe Gordon replaced Jimmie Dykes as manager.

Ozzie Virgil and Rocky Colavito belted first inning home runs off starter Frank Sullivan and the Tigers made it look like a rout in the second, scoring three more against Tom Sturdivant for a 6-1 lead.

But Malzone's 2-run uphill fight in the sixth when Vic Wertz broke the tie with a two-run pinch single. Malzone's eighth inning triple scored two more runs.

Sturdivant was batted out in the ninth but received credit for the victory.

Clem Labine was the loser.

White Sox Acquire San Diego Outfielder

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's White Sox Saturday acquired Floyd Robinson, 24-year-old outfielder, from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Robinson, who bats left-handed and throws right, has a .323 batting average. He has hit 13 home runs.

Outfielder Joe Hicks was sent on option to San Diego to make room for Robinson.

TITLE DEFENDER — Helen Ivison, a familiar raquet-weilder in local circles will be back for another shot at the laurels the latter part of this week when the Scurry County Tennis Tournament gets underway. She will be striving to successfully defend her title as gained along with Russell Jones in the mixed doubles play. (Photo by Jackson)

Tennis Meet Slated Soon

Entries for the annual Scurry County Tennis Tournament continue to filter in, with initial play in the meet scheduled for this Thursday, August 11. Competition will continue through Saturday, as which time champions will be determined in all divisions.

Those brackets of play offered include men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles. Trophies as furnished by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Recreation Committee will go to each champion, while cups will be awarded runnerups in each division.

All Scurry County residents are eligible for entrance in the tourney, and may do so by contacting Jerry Jackson at HI 3-5486. Each entrant may enter as many as three events if he or she so desires, and they will be accepted through Wednesday. Parings will be released in Thursday's edition of the Daily News.

Each day's matches will begin at approximately 6 p.m. unless mutual arrangements are made by contestants to play at some other time of day. They will be reeled off on the Towle Park lighted courts.

Entrance fees will be one dollar per doubles contestant and $1.50 for those entered in singles competition. These fees will go toward purchase of balls to be furnished to all of the matches.

All of the defending champions are expected to return in an attempt to cop their respective titles once again.

King of the men's singles is James Wesson, and he and Bob Womack teamed to take the men's doubles last year, also.

Miss Wanda Kelly will be back in defense of her women's singles crown, while Miss Helen Ivison and Russell Jones are to return atop the mixed doubles pedestal.

Bucs Rally To Decision Giants, 8-7

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dick Groat's RBI single capped a three-run 10th-inning rally Saturday and gave the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates an 8-7 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

The outburst, climaxed by Groat's hit that scored Don Hoak, enabled right-hander Vern Law to record his 13th victory — tops in the majors. Law staggered the distance and allowed 11 hits, including a two-run homer by the Giants' Orlando Cepeda that broke a 5-all tie in the top of the 10th and a two-run pinch homer by Dale Long that tied the score in the ninth.

Gino Cimoli opened with a single in the 10th and Smoky Burgess also singled. Another single by Hoak tallied Cimoli. Dick Schofield, running for Burgess, came across on Bill Virdon's sacrifice fly.

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli, coming in in the ninth in relief of Sherman Jones and starter Juan Marichal, was charged with the defeat.

Until Long's blast, Law and the Pirates held a 5-3 advantage.

Bob Skinner got his 13th home run, a solo effort, in the opening inning for the Pirates.

Cards Back Into Second

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Seventh-inning solo homers by Walt Moryn and Curt Flood gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday, lifting them back into second place.

Reliable Lindy McDaniel pitched the last three innings for the Cards, blanking the Reds and striking out five to notch his 8th victory to go with three defeats.

Flood's eighth homer, which followed the Moose's fifth, came on an 0-2 pitch. The Redbirds now are a half game ahead of Milwaukee and 4½ games behind league-leading Pittsburgh in the National League race.

It was an uphill, team victory for the Cards who fell behind 5-0 in the first 3½ innings as the Reds stored single runs in the first and fourth and three in the second off starter Ernie Broglio.

The Cards moved within one run in the fifth and then Moryn and Flood delivered off Bill Henry, the third and losing pitcher for the Reds. His record now stands at 1-5.

Braves Bow Again To Lowly Chicubs

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The lowly Chicago Cubs dealt Milwaukee another damaging blow Saturday by defeating the Braves 3-0 on Bob Anderson's masterful five-hitter.

The loss dropped the pennant-minded Braves five full games behind the first place Pittsburgh Pirates who edged the San Francisco Giants 8-7 in 10 innings.

Anderson, a 24-year-old 6 feet 4 right hander baffled the Braves in earning his fifth victory against seven losses. It was Anderson's third complete game in 21 starts this season.

Bob Will led off with a single for the Cubs and Richie Ashburn walked. After Ernie Banks lined out, George Altman singled to fill the bases. Frank Thomas followed with a double down the left field line, scoring Will and Ashburn.

The Braves picked up an unearned run in the fourth when Rookie Al Spangler singled through the middle and then came all the way around when third baseman Ron Santo uncorked a wild throw to first on Del Crandall's bounder. Crandall reached third on the error but quickly was trapped in a rundown on Eddie Mathews' infield grounder.

The Cubs put together singles by Santo and El Tappe and a wild pitch by Milwaukee starter Juan Pizarro for their third run in the sixth.

The Braves added their second run in the ninth. Hank Aaron was credited with a triple as Altman missed a diving catch attempt in left center. Aaron then scored on an infield out.

Blubaugh Captures Olympic Team Spot

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Doug Blubaugh picked up a leg for a takedown in the first 30 seconds then held off Phil Kinyon the rest of the way for a unanimous 1-0 victory to win the last opening on the U.S. Olympic wrestling team Saturday.

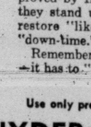

Before the climactic match, Frank Bettucci, 1956 Olympian from Ithaca, N.Y., forfeited to Shelby Wilson of Ponca City, Okla., giving Wilson the 147.5 pound freestyle berth.

Dale Lewis of the University of Oklahoma fell on top of Hallow Wilson of the Navy in the last minute of their match to win the Greco Roman style heavyweight spot.

MARTIN BLOW DEBATED

Injured Hurler Has Operation

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—It took three hours of surgery Saturday to repair damage to Chicago Cub pitcher Jim Brewer's eyebone inflicted by a Billy Martin punch which still re-echoes through the National League.

It was reported at Wesley Memorial Hospital that Martin's slugging of Brewer's right eye in last Thursday's Red-Cub game left a "considerable amount of shattered bone beneath the eye."

A plastic surgeon had to do "extensive packing and wiring of the orbit bone . . . to restore the face ti its original shape."

Meanwhile, neither the Cubs nor the Cincinnati Reds seemed to agree with the punishment meted out by League President Warren Giles at Cincinnati. Giles fined the scrappy Martin $500 and suspended him for five days.

Cub owner P. K. Wrigley, National League vice president, called it a "wishy-washy" ruling and suggested that the late baseball commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis would have tossed Martin out of baseball.

At St. Louis, the mighty-punching Martin, demanded that president Commissioner Ford Frick hear his side of the case.

And at Cincinnati, Giles said he would be glad to hear Martin's further comment on the case in which Giles said he made a "thorough investigation" before acting against Martin.

The episode developed in the second inning of the Thursday Cub-Red game. Martin, after complaining that Brewer was throwing at his head, flung his bat toward the mound and then uncorked a Sunday punch following an exchange of words with the 22-year-old Cub rookie hurler.

The surgery on Brewer was performed by Dr. B. Herold Griffith, a plastic surgeon. It was reported the operation was successful, and that it probably will be two weeks before the packing is removed and Brewer will be released from the hospital.

He may be able to pitch again within four to six weeks.

Wrigley said that he could not make an official protest against Giles' ruling because of his dual role as Cub owner and league vice president. Wrigley said, however, he thought other league clubs might "have something to say about the situation."

"Giles has acted and he has the last word," said Wrigley. "But I can say what I think and how I feel about a very wishy-washy ruling."

Giles said his decision was made only after a thorough investigation, after his representatives had conferred with Martin, Hutchinson, Brewer, Cub manager Lou Boudreau, with the game's four umpires and "with additional disinterested parties."

Martin, who suffered a serious jaw fracture last year when hit by a pitch, contended he was dealt with very unfairly.

Colts Given Nod By 18

CHICAGO (AP) The champion Baltimore Colts of the National Football League are rated favorites by 18 points over the college All-Stars in their Friday night match in Soldier Field.

This 27th consecutive All-Star game will be televised and broadcast nationally, via ABC beginning at 9 p.m., EST.

All-Star head coach Otto Graham, coach of the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., faces the sternest job yet in his three years of grooming the collegiate squad for the contest with the NFL champion.

This is not the most talented All-Star squad by far. A number of 1959 collegiate hotshot seniors, committed to the new American Football League and Canadian football, will be missing.

Swim Team Of U.S. Set To Challenge

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The United States' talented, teen-age dominated Olympic swimming team served notice Saturday it intends to challenge Australia's long-dominant stars right down the line in the Rome games starting Aug. 25.

A pair of world records racked up by freestyler Chris Von Saltza and backstroker Lynn Burke in the closing night of the four-day Olympic swimming and diving trials pointed up the growing strength of Uncle Sam's swimmers.

Chris, 16-year-old queen of American freestylers, churned 400 meters in 4:44.5 Friday night, eclipsing even the applied-for mark of 4:45.4 made by Australia's Ilsa Konrads.

Miss Burke, a 17-year-old New Yorker who lives with Chris at Saratoga, Calif., clipped her own freshly-made 100-meter backstroke standard of 1:10 down to 1:09.2.

Now the girls are confident they are going to slash even these marks to bits in the Olympics.

"I'm aiming to do the 100 in a minute or better and the 400 in 4:40," said Miss Von Saltza Saturday. "I think it will take those times to win in Rome."

"She has the potential to do it, too," emphasized George Haines, coach of the Olympic women's team and Chris' personal tutor at the Santa Clara S.C.

The tall, powerful blonde earlier in the meet had lowered her own American mark in the 100 meters freestyle to 1:01.3.

Australia's Dawn Fraser, the 1956 olympic champion of the 100 in 1:02, holds the listed world record of 1:01.2 and a pending mark of 1:00.2.

Miss Burke is confident it won't take her long to cut her backstroke time to 1:08.

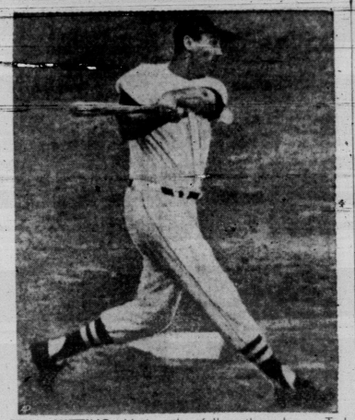

A third world record was shattered in the trials by deep-chested Mike Troy. The 19-year-old Indiana junior slashed his own world record for the 200-meter butterfly to 2:13.2.

Four American records also were cracked in the meet.

"The pressure to make the team here was worse than anything Rome can offer," said Alan Somers of Indianapolis, double winner in the 400 and 1500 meter freestyle. "Everyone is going to go faster from here on."

The team of 20 men and 17 women left Saturday for a week of training before departing for Rome on Aug. 13.

Among the men is Jeff Farrell, the celebrated convalescent won his battle for a place on the Olympic team by finishing fourth in the 200-meter freestyle. That put him on the 800-meter freestyle relay squad.

STILL HITTING—Notice the follow through on Ted Williams, who at 41 still has the best career average among active players. Also notice the wrist break. Ted says it comes after the ball is hit.

Thumper Still Great At 41

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Usually when a baseball man reaches the age of 41 he no longer is playing, or he goes downhill so fast that even the players who admired him are left speechless. All they can say is "too bad."

Last year the players began saying that about Ted Williams. He hit .254 in 103 games. He was bothered nearly all season with a cranky neck and was in no shape to swing a bat. But he played. And because he couldn't retire on such a sad note, Williams is playing this year and hitting the ball like a spring chicken.

Williams will be 42 on Aug. 20. Players are back on the tops of dugout steps every time he takes batting practice.

The remarkable thing about Williams is that he compiled a .346 career average despite all the mishaps he suffered and the two Marine hitches which kept him out of baseball almost five years.

"I'm all right now," says Williams. "I'll finish up all right. I'm positive I won't play next year. I don't know what I'll do. It's too much to play at my age."

This was during the All-Star break when Ted was hitting .345 and leading the American league. He had hit his 506th home run. Ted will take all the homers he can get. He's aiming to retire with at least 512. That would put him behind Babe Ruth, and one ahead of Mel Ott.

Going over 500 is amazing in that Williams has played more than half of his 2,200-odd games in Fenway Park, a stadium built for right-handed banjo hitters with its short left field wall.

"To hit homers into the right field stands in Boston," Williams said recently, "you've got to pull the ball close to the line. It's quite a trick."

Williams is known among the trade as "the best student of hitting in this era." Actually, he's the professor.

"What I though about hitting 20 years ago is still right today," Williams was saying. "I know more about hitting than anybody. I'm not saying that as a boast. I'm saying it because I think it.

"When we flew into New York from Kansas City the discussion got around to hitting with Lew Fonseca (he directs the World Series movies) and Jim Lemon (Washington slugger). We had more young ears (Ron Hansen and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore infielders) listening to us. We talked about what the top hand should do on the bat, the position of the feet and other things.

"I have a lot of respect for Fonseca. He knows pretty much more about hitting as any one I know. He once led the league (.369 in 1929).

"Now take Billy Herman (Boston's third base coach). Herman was a great player with much experience. But we disagree on everything concerning batting. When he says we are to pitch a certain hitter inside I say 'pitch him outside.' When he says 'pitch him high,' I say 'pitch him low.'

"Herman thinks the hit and run play (where the batter hits the ball behind the runner going to second base) is baseball's greatest play. I think it's the most overrated play in the game.

"You hit a ball and you break your wrists on the follow through. Herman says you break your wrists just before you hit the ball. He's wrong."

The writer suggested that Williams ask Mickey Mantle, who was standing nearby.

"How about it, Mickey?" Williams asked. "Do you break your wrists before or after you hit the ball?"

Mantle thought for about 10 seconds and said:

"To tell you the truth I really don't know."

Mantle walked by as though he had more important things to do and Williams continued talking about hitting:

"I still say pitching is 85 per cent of the game. That little game that goes on between pitcher and catcher is a big thing. When batters have trouble hitting the breaking pitch the advice they get is 'shorten up on the bat.'

"It's more mental than physical. To prove my point take Gene Feese (White Sox third baseman). He's been killing us this year on the curve ball. He was always a fast ball hitter. So this year he's doing better because he's anticipating. That makes it mental, if you look for the curve ball and watch it, you will hit it."

In seven games against Boston before the All-Star game, Freese made 16 hits in 25 efforts for a .640 average.

As a parting shot this writer asked Williams about his stubborn efforts to pull the ball rather than try to hit to left field against the Lou Boudreau shift in the 1946 World Series.

"Maybe I would have a higher average had I tried to hit to the opposite field then. But I know a lot of good right handers who never hit to right field. I think I proved my way was he right way.

"His career mark was .353 after 1948 when he batted .369.

"When I did hit to left field a lot of fools up there (in Boston) were too stupid to realize it. They never said a thing about it."

Landis Leads Sox Over Washington

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Landis, his center field job in jeopardy, hit a two-run homer and a two-run triple Saturday in a 9-2 victory over Washington which snapped a five-game Chicago White Sox losing streak.

Shortly before the game, the Sox announced the purchase of centerfielder Floyd Robinson from San Diego and the move apparently stirred Landis who started the day with a .232 average. Landis, usually a superb defensive man, also had been having trouble in the field.

The victory went to starter Herb Score and enabled the White Sox to maintain their one-half game lead over third place Baltimore which defeated Cleveland 5-2.

Score gained his third triumph in eight decisions.

The White Sox scored a run in the first on a double by Nellie Fox and a single by Roy Sievers and made it 3-0 in the second when Landis whacked his seventh homer in the upper deck.

Four more Chicago runs came in the fourth when Landis and Fox both tripled, driving starter Chuck Stobbs from the mound and tagging him with his third defeat against eight triumphs.

Gene Freese hit his 11th homer in the fifth inning and the Sox added another run in the eighth when Score bounced into a double play with the bases loaded.

Harmon Killebrew had four hits, including his 13th homer, and Earl Battey had a perfect day with a walk, a single and a pair of doubles.

Washington's other run came in the eighth when Battey doubled, went to third on a fly ball and scored on Jose Valdivielso's sacrifice fly.

Jack Fleck Leads ICO

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) —Jack Fleck, 38-year-old former National Open champion, Saturday bounced into the 54-hole lead in the $30,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament.

He shot an exciting 65 for a 14-under-par total of 199.

With one more round left, the lean veteran from Los Angeles held a two-stroke lead over Bill Collins of Crystal River, Fla. Other close challengers were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., 202; Wes Ellis of West Cardwell, N.J.; Ken Venturi of Palo Alto, Calif., with 203s; and Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., with 204s.

Fleck, in a threesome with Dick Knight of Apple Valley, Calif., second-day leader and Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., played without benefit of the crowd most of the way.

Knight lost his touch Saturday and slipped to a spot eight strokes off the pace.

Sapling Stakes Won By Hail To Reason

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP)—Hail To Reason, owned by Patrice Jacobs of New York, came from far back in the pack of 18 two-year-olds Saturday at Monmouth Park and won the $136,875 Sapling Stakes in record time.

The largest crowd in the history of this seashore track, 43,258, had made Hail To Reason the big favorite.

The winner caught J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol inside the final sixteenth of a mile and the electric timer showed a snappy 1:10 2-5 on a fast track for the 6-furlong journey. Hail To Reason won by half a length.

He's A Pistol, a 40-1 shot, took second by 2 lengths from the Dorchester Farm Stable's Carry Back, and it was another neck back to the fourth horse, Donald Ford and John Kelty's Iron Rail.

Ridden by Bobby Ussery the winner paid $5, $4.20 and $3.60. The handle of $551,510 was one-race record for the track.

Dotted Swiss Wins Sixth Race In Row

CHICAGO (AP) — A California import, Dotted Swiss, owned by C. V. Whitney, Saturday won his sixth straight race by taking a 1½-length decision in the $53,750 Laurance Armour Handicap in Arlington Park.

The strapping son of Counterpoint, ridden by Willie Shoemaker and packing top weight of 122 pounds in the field of six, covered the 1¼ in 1:50.

Maris Shines As Yankees Rap A's

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roger Maris walloped two homers and drove in six runs Saturday as the New York Yankees smothered the Kansas City Athletics 16-4 and maintained their 2½-game lead in the American League.

Southpaw Bill Short and Duke Maas subdued the A's hitters with the exception of Bill Tuttle, who hit two solo home runs. Short, who pitched 5 2-3 innings, was credited with his third victory. He has lost four games.

Maris' homers were his 34th and 35th of the year, putting him far in the lead in both major leagues.

The Chicago White Sox, in second place, and the Baltimore Orioles, three games out, won and kept pace in the tight pennant race.

The Yankees poured a blistering attack against the A's in the first five innings, raining 15 hits off four Kansas City hurlers that were good for 14 runs.

They started in the first inning with one run off right-hander Dick Hall, who was the loser and now has a 6-8 record. Hall was chased in the fourth.

Aside from Tuttle's two homers, the A's got a run in the second and another in the seventh.

The Yankees, who have won 10 of their last 13 games, have lost only three times to the Athletics this year while winning an even dozen.

Dawn Fraser Established As Favorite

TOWNSVILLE, Australia (AP) —Dawn Fraser continued to establish herself as the prime Olympic favorite in women's freestyle events and three more world records were bettered Saturday in the closing session of the Australian Olympic swimming trials.

Miss Fraser, swim star of the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, won her third event and beat back another challenge from young Ilsa Konrads by capturing the 100-meter freestyle in 1 minute, 2.3 seconds.

She also had a hand in a world record time in the 400-meter women's relay, one of two relay marks bettered Saturday. The men's 800-meter relay team, with Murray Rose and John Konrads swimming powerful legs, topped the listed records for both 800 meters and 880 yards. Neville Hayes added a third mark when he lowered his world record from 2:17.9 to 2:17.5 in the men's 220-yard butterfly.

Miss Fraser won the 100 easily over 1956 sidekick, Lorraine Crapp, who clocked 1:04.4 and Miss Konrads, third in 1:05.1. Then Misses Fraser, Konrads and Crapp joined with Alva Colquhoun to swim the 400-meter relay in 4:16.2 — five-tenths of a second under the record Fraser and Crapp had a hand in setting at the Melbourne Olympics four years ago.

Rose and Konrads teamed with Jon Henricks and Dave Dickson and swam the 800-meter men's relay in 8:16.6 — clipping 2.1 seconds off the listed world record time for the metric distance and 7.9 seconds off the standard for 880 yards.

Whitney Won By Warhead

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) Closing boldly on the outside, Mabel C. Scholtz's Warhead raced to victory in the 33rd running of the $50,000 Whitney before 19,687 at Saratoga Saturday.

With Mike Sorrentino driving desperately, Warhead came from ninth place leaving the backstretch and, in a stirring rally, drove home a short length before Ada L. Rice's highweighted Talent Show.

Emil Dolce's Manassa Mauler was third, a length and a half back of Talent Show, while Gustave Ring's Don Poggio finished fourth, another half-length back.

After the race jockey Willie Boland, Manassa Mauler's rider, claimed foul against both Sorrentino and Ray Broussard, who piloted Talent Show. However, the stewards, after looking at the movies of the race, upheld the official placings.

Warhead, winning his richest purse, was the choice at $5.50, $4.10 and $3.40. Talent Show returned $3.40 and $3.70. Manassa Mauler was $5 third.

U. S. Netters Gain Split

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Teenager Earl Buchholz outlasted Mario Llamas, 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 7-5, Saturday to gain the United States a 1-1 split in the opening American zone semifinal Davis Cup tie against Mexico after Rafael Osuna had shocked Barry MacKay, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Buchholz, a 19-year-old St. Louis high school student was squarely on the spot when he took the court against Llamas, Mexico's No. 1 player.

U.S. Captain David Freed had counted on MacKay taking care of Osuna, and then giving Buchholz some international competition.

But as it turned out, MacKay failed, and Buecholz came through.

The St. Louis youngster started as though he had a severe case of the jitters, but took the offensive in the second set and thereafter never let the match get out of hand.

So thanks to Buchholz, the U.S. will go into Sunday's doubles, all even. Buchholz will team with Chuck McKinley in the doubles against Llamas and Osuna.

After Sunday's doubles, the singles assignments will be reversed with MacKay playing Llamas and Buchholz taking on Osuna.

Holmberg, Laver Gain Final Round

SOUTHAMPTON (AP) — Ron Holmberg, the big blond Brooklynite whom the American Davis Cup squad snubbed, and Australian champion Rod Laver gained the final round of the Southampton Invitation Tennis Tournament Saturday.

Holmberg advanced after his semifinal foe, Assie Bob Mark, collapsed and defaulted after three marathon sets. Laver polished off a fellow Australian, Bob Hewitt, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

The scores of the Holmberg-Mark match were 12-14, 10-8, 6-0.

Capone, Dillinger Could Be Heroes

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be surprised if someday Al Capone and John Dillinger turn up as television heroes.

If this notion seems far-fetched it might be worth taking a good look at some of the alleged Western heroes now riding high on TV.

There's Bat Masterson. There's Wyatt Earp. And there's Wild Bill Hickok. There are others, of course, but these three are represented in dramas which are supposedly based on actual events and characters.

What connection could such stalwarts have with the likes of Capone, who was a beer baron, vice lord, and killer, or with Dillinger, who was a bank robber?

The historical evidence is that if they had all been living at the same time they might have been bosom buddies.

Linking Masterson with Capone might sound strange — the Bat of TV being a fellow who enforces the law, avenges wrong-doing, protects the innocent, upholds morals and loves animals and children and old ladies.

Gene Barry, as TV's Bat Masterson, is clean-shaven, genteel, agreeable and handsome. In real life, he was a mustachioed horse thief, professional gambler, paramour of a teen-aged girl and sometime law officer.

Or Wyatt Earp. As portrayed by Hugh O'Brien, the TV version presents a handsome, masculine chap carrying on the legend of Earp as a fast-draw, straight shooter.

The television Hickok is portrayed by strong-jawed, masculine Guy Madison and has been described in prose as handsome, straight-shooting and a paragon of virtue.

Seven Workers Hurt In Refinery Blaze

SILSBEE, Tex. (AP)—A South ampton refinery fire sent seven construction workers to a Beaumont hospital with burns Friday.

The co-owner of the Motor Gasoline Refinery, M. Bowman, said he was unable to determine the cause of the fire although some gas was escaping into the area.

About 200 men were working on a modification job and the refinery was shut down at the time.

The Silsbee men taken to the hospital were A. C. Herrington, Billy Odom, B. A. Ballo, Free Meyer, Robert Core, Al Williford, and A. Balla.

SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL 11, NO. 85 SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, AUGUST 7, 1960 SECTION B

The Snyder High School auditorium will be the setting for what promises to be a delightful fashion show Thursday evening. The event will be presented by the Parent-Teachers Association and much time and work has been put into the preparations. With some 35 models showing the latest in fall fashions for school, with every holiday of the year being carried out. A mysterious fortune-teller will be narrator, complete with his dimly lit room and illuminated crystal ball.

The public is invited to attend and show their appreciation for the work the women of the P-TA are doing for the children, school and community.

Attend The Style Show And Start The School Year Off With A BANG!

ENGAGEMENT TOLD—Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hillis, Route 2, Hermleigh, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alma Nell, to Airman First-class James O. Waterman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Waterman, Sunray comp. James is stationed at Biloxi, Miss. The wedding date has been set for September 2, in the Camp Springs Methodist Church.

WEDDING PLANS—Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cantrell, Route 3, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Darlene, to Hollis Earl Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Chandler, 3913 Muriel Drive. The couple will exchange vows on September 6 in Snyder.

OPENING ANNOUNCED—The Martha Ann Womart's Club will officially open August 9 at 9 a. m. after a two-week vacation period. Members who desire to book engagements are asked to contact the club caterer, Mrs. Kenneth Maines (pictured above) or Mrs. Jay Huckabee, president. It is also requested that members reconfirm their bookings for August and September so that the schedule at the clubhouse will be up-to-date. Participating clubs are urged to turn in their year books as soon as possible.

Experts Explain Scentsibility

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — Gilbert J. Hackforth-Jones developed his sense of smell as a chemical expert during the second World War. Now he invents fragrances for one of England's leading perfume manufacturers.

He was stationed at a chemical defense experimental station while serving in the Royal Engineers, and was required to undergo smelling tests of various gases.

Intelligence and objectivity are the requisites for a perfumer, he says on a visit here. Chemical training and artistic interest and ability provide a suitable background, although he considers himself primarily as an artist.

Perfumes are not made by accident. A perfumer creates a fragrance in his mind, then attempts to produce it. This is no easy task.

"Any fine perfume will have at least 50 ingredients," Hackforth-Jones says.

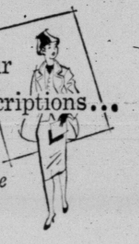

The type of skin as well as the sort of person you are should guide the perfume you buy.

People with oily skins can wear much heavier perfumes. So can a person who can successfully wear rather clothes and a lot of jewelry, he says.

He recommends that women choose two or three scents they personally like—certainly two, a daytime fragrance and one for evening.

And perfume should not be overwhelming, he says. The best effect may be obtained by using a matching range of powder, toilet water or cologne, and perfume.

The Gardeners Corner

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

GERANIUMS ARE one of the most common sights in the garden, wherever you go. Their striking blooms and foliage are a bright spot in many windows, summer and winter. They are one of the easiest plants to grow from slips and from seed.

We've rooted cuttings in water, in potting soil, in vermiculite, in peat moss, in mixtures of the latter three, and we've heard of some rugged individualists succeeding in sawdust.

Most of us know only one of two varieties, but there are many. In Memphis, Tenn., Mrs. Early Mitchell, an authority on the subject, has more than 60 varieties at her home. These include dwarfs, Fancy Leaf, Fragrant Scented Leaf, Lady Washington, Garden and Zonal.

This is her advice about raising the geranium:

Keep the plants in small pots so the roots are somewhat crowded. Feed them every 10 days or two weeks and water them sparingly as the soil dries.

Mrs. Mitchell recommends that they be potted in something fairly substantial. She uses one-half garden soil and humus mixed, one-fourth sand and one-fourth peat moss.

When the weather is cold, she keeps the geraniums in her garden room on trays of small rock in the windows and on movable carts. As the weather warms, she moves them to the terrace where they flourish in filtered sunlight under a huge oak.

A Northern municipal gardener who makes 6,000 cuttings annually replaces old plants each year to obtain best foliage and bloom. The best of the old plants provide 5 to 10 cuttings each to perpetuate the colorful display. This is how he does it:

He cuts off a five-inch length of stem at the nearest node. All but two or three leaves are pulled off. The stem end is dipped into a rooting hormone powder and Fernate, a fungicide to help prevent blackleg rot.

A light, sandy soil is used in two-inch pots. In a month to six weeks, when the roots begin to nudge through the bottom of the pots, the plants are shifted to four-inch pots.

The plants are kept moist, but not soaked, and they are kept on a bench of moist sand in full greenhouse sun in the winter. Bonemeal is mixed into the potting soil at the rate of a four-inch-potful per bushel of earth. In April the plants get a ration of liquid fertilizer.

The buds are kept pinched off until the end of April so that all the growth goes into strengthening the plant. The plants are permitted to bloom indoors until all danger of frost is ended. Then they are taken outdoors.

Geraniums do best in a temperature range of 60-70 degrees. They need all the sun they can get in winter. For winter bloom, root your cuttings in August. Don't give the plants too much nitrogen, which will produce excessive foliage, not much bloom.

If you are the more daring-type gardener and want to start from seed, put down a shallow layer of fine soil, topped with a covering of vermiculite. Soak the seeds in warm water for a few hours, then sow them and cover them lightly. Keep the planting box in a warm place and keep the contents moist. Transplant after several leaves have developed, first into small pots and then into larger ones.

If your plants are straggly, don't throw them away. Take cuttings and start new ones. You can prevent legginess by nipping off the tips of the shoots. This is good advice for many of your house plants. Cutting off long shoots and pinching off new tip buds result in more compact, bush plants.

On the back of floor length draperies or curtains sew small snaps on the lower corners and partway up the sides. Then on cleaning day, snap them up out of the way to save them from being soiled by the floor cleaning.

Inger Lise Christensen is a veteran Danish journalist, but she admits she's scared to death of American women reporters.

The reverse should be true, for Inger Lise speaks three languages, has worked for the French Agency Press and The Associated Press in Copenhagen, and has friends among the great all over the world. She's now with a Scandinavian airline.

Reticent by nature, and completely unassuming about her own career, Inger Lise feels American women reporters are so competent and informed they make me afraid.

The invitation to address the recent annual conclave of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity, overwhelmed her too. As the first woman from overseas to make the main address, she felt uneasy at being an "expert on newspaper work abroad.

Women in Europe have considerations of being women, in their own right.

When they organize a business, a welfare project, an association they organize a woman's affair in business, in draw the comparison, the women journalists group become members of the already existing all-male journalists associations". Inger Lise says the apprenticeship system is a requisite for a job on a provincial paper rather than journalistic education. The apprentice is thrown into all types of newsgathering, from deaths to needlework.

Only journalistic course available, at the University of Aarhus, is given after the student has had at least two years apprenticeship.

Joyce Skains, Joe Reaves Exchange Vows In Northside Baptist Church, July 30

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Randall Reaves are making their home at 803½ Twenty-eighth Street, following a short wedding trip.

The couple were married July 30 in the Northside Baptist Church with Rev. Jack Dean, pastor officiating at the double ring services.

The bride, nee Joyce Adell Skains, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Skains, 3803 Galveston. She is a graduate of Snyder High School, where she was active in volleyball and tennis. She also attended Texas Tech, Lubbock.

Mr. Reaves is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Reaves, 1105 East Fourteenth, Big Spring. He is a graduate of Snyder High School, played football and baseball and attended Texas Tech three years, where he played on the Red Raider baseball team. He will enter the Baptist Seminary at Little Rock, Ark. in September.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina length dress, fashioned with scalloped square neckline, short scalloped sleeves, full skirt with scalloped hemline. The fitted bodice came to a point in the back with tiny buttons. Her finger-tip veil of nylon tulle fell from a pearlized headdress.

She carried a bouquet of gardenias surrounded by gladiolis with streamers of ivy atop a white Bible. The Bible was given her by her brother, Billy Skains who is in Scotland.

An arch of candles with baskets of white gladioli and greenery adorned the church setting.

The traditional wedding march and music throughout the ceremony was rendered by Linda Lucas of Abilene, organist. Dana Scarborough, soloist sang "Till," "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Linda Sharp of Midland was maid of honor, and Pat Fell of McCamey was bridesmaid. They were attired in green silk organza, fashioned as the bride's gown. Their nose-tip veils fell from green headbands. They carried colonial bouquets of white gladiolis.

Gary Hill served as best man. Groomsmen included Milton Ham and Bob Pollard of Snyder, and Wayne Root, cousin of the groom of Big Spring.

A reception was held in Humble Recreation hall. The table was laid with a white embroidered lace cloth over green. Presiding at the three tiered cake and ladeling punch were Mrs. R. W. Gamblin, sister of the bride; Mrs. Buck Byram and Mrs. Gordon Root, sisters of the groom. Mrs. W. J. Kunkel, sister of the bride, registered guests.

The bride carried out the traditional something old, a 1893 penny in her shoe; new, her dress; borrowed, her veil; and she wore a blue garter.

Out-of-town guests were from McCamey, Midland, Big Spring, Trinity, Abernathy, Olney and Lubbock.

Hamburger is a cook's ally when she has a broiler. The flame cooks fast so the meat won't dry out. For a gourmet touch, it is suggested that you season the meat with salt and A-1 sauce. Shape into patties and wrap a slice of bacon around each. For that special flame - kissed flavor, turn the broiler control to high and cook the patties 7 to 9 minutes on each side.

Summertime tomatoes are usually vine - ripened and full - flavored. They will keep in good condition several days when stored in the hydrator of a refrigerator. If not ripe enough to use immediately, ripen at room temperature away from direct sunlight. Excessive sunlight interfers with normal color development or makes the color splotchy.

Improve Garage Entrance With Some Sleight Of Hand

Perhaps you can't always make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, but many home-owners have proved that it is not impossible and that with some thought and a little time they can perform near miracles.

Nowhere is this more true than in the case of a homely garage entrance. There are a number of tricks to make this utilitarian area more beautiful than it usually is.

This may involve applying some mouldings to the garage door, building a trellis over the entrance or putting up a fence, screen or sun shade to hide the garage from view.

Lumber Turns the Trick

Lumber comes to the fore in all these camouflage operations, and some of the most economical, readily available and easy to work are the 11 kinds of wood that come from the western pine region.

For example, most of the mouldings are of high quality, thoroughly dried wood and they are carefully machined for uniformity. Such mouldings can be used to create geometric designs or, perhaps, monograms on the broad and often uninteresting expanse of a garage door. They also can be used to frame a door and give it added style.

Other cuts of lumber, such as the simple two-by-four and lighter stock, can be used for trellises. When planning a trellis to go around and over a garage door, however, the builder should not let it extend in any way that might limit a driver's mobility or vision. It often is difficult enough to get an over-size car in or out of a garage without adding complications. Therefore, in a limited area it generally is wise to think in small dimensions.

Fences

Western pine region lumber also goes to make handsome fences. These can be either solid or open in concept. The solid type includes such designs as board and batten, the battens being narrow strips of wood that cover the spaces between the boards and board on board, in which pattern one row of boards covers the spaces between the others so as to give a deep shadow effect.

Other Designs

The more open type of fence would include the traditional picket fence, a wide variety of geometric patterns, fences made of blocks cut from two-by-fours and stacked in an open design, and what is known as the front-and-back fence. This last is a pattern in which the boards are mounted vertically and alternately first on one side of the frame and then the other. This lets breezes through but blocks out an unattractive view. There are, of course, many other design possibilities.

If the area is too small to take a fence, a small screen may very well do the trick. Most fence designs can be used for screens though generally, when people speak of screens, they are referring to a short length of the more open type of design through which plants or vines can entwine.

Overhead Shades

Overhead sun shades also can do much to improve many a garage entrance. They generally do much to soften the harsh lines of some garages and particularly when plants are trained over them. Sun shades call for heavier lumber than the small trellises described earlier because they usually cover a large area. One home-owner might favor boards sun shade in a louvered design; another might prefer an egg crate pattern. Here, as in all garage embellishments made from lumber, the builder can do what the particular job and his taste dictate.

Let Children Get Mad

by DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

The bell gongs through the street.

Laura looks up from her blocks. "Ice cream!" she says expectantly. She jumps up and runs to the door.

"No," says mother, "it's almost supper time; no ice cream this afternoon."

The tears well up in Laura's eyes.

"I want ice cream now."

"No, dearie, not today."

Laura stamps her foot.

"You're bad. You're a bad mommy. I hate you."

"I know it makes you feel mad at mommy. I know you would like the ice cream and it makes you angry when I must say no."

Life is full of frustrations for little folk. No one can grow up and have every single wish granted. Part of growing up is learning how to cope with frustration.

Frustration brings anger, bitterness, resentment. This is natural and normal. It is normal for a little child to be angry when he cannot have what he wants right now. But so often we teach a little fellow to deny his anger, especially anger towards parents.

"Parents have to stand as authority. Parents not only give love and comfort to a child, but they must also deny him or sometimes enforce what the child doesn't want. This is part of the job of parenthood.

But when a child shows his anger and bigger and may spill over into anger against all restraint, anger against all people.

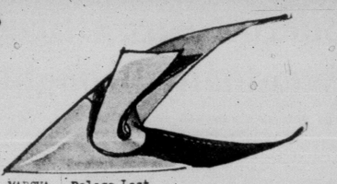

It's healthier for the child to be helped to express anger and bitterness. Let him know you understand how he feels, that you don't blame him for feeling bitter that he cannot have ice cream. If he gets his anger expressed, without being made to feel guilty about it, it's over and done with and doesn't build up inside to add fuel to the next frustration—anger episode.

A child who is able to express his normal anger is free to love. Stored up anger poisons love, or used anger leaves love. It can be felt and expressed too.

Understanding of feelings, but control of actions—this is a far healthier plan than denial of a natural normal emotion. Understanding and control will give Laura the security she needs to build up her own self control and not interfere with her ability to love.

Cuero Negro's Bright Career Eventually Brought Downfall

By NINA L. SCARBROUGH
Written for the (AP)

CUERO, Tex. (AP)—Around the turn of the century a Cuero Negro named Duke Ellis launched a fabulous career which took him to Abyssinia, where he earned his title which eventually led to his downfall.

As Thornton Hamilton, a Cuero pioneer, relates it, the late Otto Buchel Sr., pioneer resident of Cuero, operated several businesses in the town. He employed Ellis at his hide house. The Negro was a good worker and above the average of his race in intelligence.

This was during the era when millionaire playboy E. H. R. Green, staunch Republican, was very much in the limelight, and Ellis became interested in politics. He dabbled in a small way in the beginning, but possessing an aggressive personality, soon wended his way to Washington, D. C. President McKinley was in office.

Duke secured a prominent position with the State Department, and in due time gained access to circles patronized only by the Top Brass of that period.

When the United States appointed an ambassador to Abyssinia, now Ethiopia, Ellis was sent along as his assistant. However, during the voyage the ambassador very conveniently disappeared. His body was found a month or so later washed on the shores of France.

Emperor Menelik II, who claimed to be a descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, was ruling Abyssinia.

With the post of ambassador unfilled by the untimely death of the appointee, the necessity for appointing another became imperative. Ellis succeeded in attaining the position.

The newly-appointed ambassador became popular with the emperor and his court, and in time was given the title of "Duke."

Unfortunately Ellis' rapid rise to position, coupled with his extreme popularity, caused him to become pompous and overconfident, and he sought to overthrow the government.

Sensing subversive activities were underfoot and that Ellis was at the bottom of them, Menelik issued an order for the ambassador's arrest. But Duke escaped, barely making it across the border to safety.

The fugitive took up residence in New York City where he set up luxurious office quarters in one of the more exclusive business districts, at the same time posing as a Cuban.

While in the City, Ellis became seriously involved in some questionable ventures, and his true identity was revealed.

He was told to move on.

From New York, Ellis went to Mexico City where he was seen some years later by a Cuero resident, Joe Wiley.

Wiley related he was standing on one of the main streets watching a parade when Ellis rode by in a victoria pulled by two black steeds. He went on to relate that Duke was dressed in high style, complete with silk top hat.

What part he played in the parade Wiley never learned because the Negro vanished in the crowd, and the Cuerote never saw him again.

That was the last time the adventurous Ellis was seen by anyone from Cuero.

Oil Industry Growing In Dawson Area

By DON KNAPP
Lamesa Daily Reporter Staff Writer for The Associated Press

LAMESA (AP)—Something new has been added to the economic picture in Dawson County, it's the oil industry.

The county has long been recognized as a center of agriculture, because of its consistently good crops.

But the oil industry has become increasingly important, with new wells and possible shows of additional production the last few months.

Producers say there would be a "boom" era in the county were not the production pattern limited. By Jan. 1, the county had 603 wells in production throughout 42 recognized fields. Total production last year was 4,990,748 barrels.

The largest single producing field by far was the Welch Field where 2,229,194 barrels came from 393 wells in 1959.

The oldest field still in operation was the Welch Field, discovered in 1941. The depth of the field was 5,000 feet and total accumulative production was recoded at 36,103,074 barrels.

Thirty-three fields were discovered last year and in west Dawson County, a wildcat try only recently developed possible production shows in the Canyon Reef formation on a drillstem test from 9,030-606 feet.

Total accumulative production of all fields listed Jan. 1 amounted to 43,391,453 barrels, indicating a consistent yield and a multi-million dollar business.

For the past five months of 1960 production virtually maintained the pace set last year. More than 1,753,316 barrels were pumped from the wells, despite the eight-day production pattern much of the time.

Production in 1959 exceeded the previous year's yield by 868,265 barrels.

The potential remains the same. The oil is here and 321 new leases have been recorded in Dawson County this year. Most leases were obtained by the industry's top crude oil manufacturers.

Welch still has 393 wells operating and a water flood process may have a stimulating effect on production there later this year.

Deaths Come At 20-Year Intervals

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Should the Democrate win the November election, Texas' Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson would become vice president facing this strange-as-fiction circumstance:

Since 1840, every president elected at each 20 year interval has died in office. And 1960 comes at that interval.

William Henry Harrison won the spectacular 1840 campaign which featured mass meetings with log cabins and hard cider as emblems and "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" as the slogan. Soaked during his horseback inaugural parade in a driving cold rain, Harrison caught cold and died a month later from resulting complications.

He was the first president to die in office and served the shortest time of any.

Abraham Lincoln was elected 20 years later, and was assassinated soon after the start of his second term. Then, in 1880, James A. Garfield was elected, and a few months later was shot by a disappointed office seeker at the Washington railway station. Elected in 1900 William McKinley was shot Sept. 6, 1901, by an anarchist. He was the third president to be assassinated.

Twenty years later Warren G. Harding became president. Returning from a journey to Alaska, he died in a San Francisco hotel room from undetermined causes.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected in 1940. Although this was a third term election, and he won fourth term in 1944, he did die in office, in 1945.

The one Johnson who has served as President—Andrew Johnson of Tennessee assumed that office upon the assassination of Lincoln. Having previously served in the U. S. House and then the Senate, he was nominated as a "War Democrat," selected to give a better "balance" to the Republican ticket headed by Lincoln.

Polio Cases On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service, reporting paralytic polio cases on the increase, issued an urgent appeal today for a speedup of polio vaccinations.

The service listed 78 paralytic cases last week. This compared with 69 in the previous week and continued a rise shown for several weeks.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney pointed out that of the 310 paralytic cases on which the service has received reports of vaccination status this year, 166 had received no vaccine.

RECEIVE CAPS—The above members of the Junior Hospital Auxiliary received their caps in special ceremonies held Thursday afternoon. You Can Have Luxury Bath With Know-how, Ingenuity

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

BATHROOMS ARE more elegant these days because it is possible to achieve decorating beauty at a minimum of cost. Time was when water closets were works of splendor. Louis XIV had cushions in his bath, and Queen Victoria had a china wash basin upholstered in quilted water silk in her railway lavatory.

We can have luxury and practicality in the modern bathroom with some of the new plastics that look and even feel like moire, fur, mosaic, marble and egotic wood grains. There are counters surfaced to look like a pebble-strewn sandy beach.

Many plastics are packaged in pre-cut form. Formica comes in 10-inch tile squares, vinyl is sliced in planks, slabs and hexagons, iron poles expand to stretch from floor to ceiling or from wall to wall, supporting partitions or screens. Built-ins can provide a place for storing towels, conceal laundry and even hide ugly tub feet.

An old desk, typical of the type attic, may be converted into an elegant vanitory for a French Provincial bath. All you do is cover the counter top in plastic tile, insert a blue sink bowl, and add some fancy brass hardware. Side drawers and legs may be painted to match the top. The same blue and white tile-cut might ribbon walls and floor and bloom again on flowered china dishes holding soap and bathsalts. A gleaming brass rack hung with emerald green towels adds the final touch.

Imaginative touches often take the place of expensive structural changes. Slabs or panels of plastic with strips of wood or metal rods may take the place of partitions. For the French Provincial look, a folding screen may be built of frost plastic, an almondy beige pattern that resembles antique glazes or rice paper.

If one desires an Oriental bath, shoji screens in splash-proof translucent greens banded with strips lacquered shiny black supplies the answer.

A breezeway may be turned into a generous mud room and bath with space for outdoor gear and toys.

An Early American bath could employ parquet paneled mahogany or walnut plywood tile, grained to look like their wood counterparts but rugged enough to take a large shower spray.

Pickles, because they are prepared with an acid liquid, should not be made in an iron utensil; the iron kettle is likely to darken them.

Gas burners that burn with a bright yellow flame, like the glamorous lights along Waikiki Beach, are now available for home lighting. They provide an exciting way to dramatize the lawn and terrace at night. Technicians explain that automatic controls turn the lights down during the daylight hours, up at night.

First Capping Ceremony Held By Junior Hospital Auxiliary

The Junior Hospital Auxiliary held their first capping ceremonies Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. T. F. Hartley, 2900 Thirty-fourth Street.

The auxiliary was first organized in Feb. 1959 with the name of "Pink Angels" chosen because of the pink and white uniforms which they wear. Members are girls of high school age who spend several hours a week assisting nurses and patients at the hospital. A few of their duties are distributing reading material to patients, running errands for nurses, carrying out meal trays, entertaining visitors children, and helping the Senior Auxiliary workers in central supply.

In order to receive a cap members must work 25 hours at the hospital carrying out her various duties. After 200 hours of service the members receive pins.

During the ceremony, presided over by Mrs. Carl Dillaha, who heads the junior auxiliary this year, Mrs. Hartley presented the caps. Miss Ellen Shelburne, R.N. spoke briefly to the girls and thanked them in behalf of the hospital staff for the fine work they were doing.

Members not present who are eligible for caps are: Carolyn Beckham, Annette Blum, Patricia Chunn, Judy Hopper, Patricia Owen, Margaret Parker, Virginia Payne, Vickie Vice, Candy Weyel, and Judy White.

Pretty salad: Alternate green pepper or avocado rings with round slices of orange on a bed of crisp greens; serve with French dressing.

For casual meals use matched sets of paper cloths, cups, plates and napkins. Not only can you set a very attractive table in this manner, but it gives you a break from the dishwashing and laundering.

Pattern making will be offered in two sessions beginning September 6. One class will meet Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 3 p.m. Students will make a perfect fitting basic pattern for themselves. They will learn to design and make their own patterns.

The second session of this class will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. beginning September 12. Ladies with special fitting needs or problems will find this class profitable.

Registration in advance may be made at the Dean of Admission's office beginning August 15.

Boom In Backyard Pools, Owners Should Know Facts

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If our mail is any indication, the boom in backyard swimming pools is still very much on the upswing.

Although a lot has been written about private residential pools, it is apparent that much of the potential buying public is still very much in the dark on certain aspects of the situation. Presumably this is because these individuals did not seriously contemplate owning pools at the time they read about them, whereas now they are prospective customers.

Let's try to put down, briefly, a few facts which will answer most of the recent questions about backyard swimming pools.

First, remember that maintenance will add to your monthly costs. In short, as with automobiles, homes 'and marriage', it isn't the cost, it's the upkeep.

In figuring how much you want to spend on a pool, be sure it isn't more than 10 to 15 per cent of the total value of your house and land. That's how the mortgage lenders figure it. Of course, if you have a $13,000 home and want to buy a $10,000 pool for cash, nobody can stop you. But, from an investment standpoint, it will be poor business because you'll never get back more than a small part of the money you spent for such a pool.

A vital factor in the installation of the pool is the reliability of the contractor. Talk to people who have had pools installed by him, especially to those who have used the pools for two or more years.

In getting bids, be sure you understand every detail of what the bids include. For instance, a shady contractor may promise you a pool 25 feet by 40 feet. Later you may find he included the four-foot "walk" around the pool. installation of the pool may increase the assessment on your property, which will mean a higher tax rate.

Carefully check all municipal regulations regarding backyard pools. You may discover that there will be extra expenses you

A couple of extra egg whites in the refrigerator? Use them in a "Seven-Minute" or Seafoam frosting to top a cake made from a mix. You'll have that homemade touch.

Brush baking powder biscuits with milk or cream and sprinkle with grated cheddar cheese. Also dust with paprika before baking. These biscuits are excellent with vegetable salads and cold cuts.

If you line cake pans with waxed paper be sure to remove the paper right after turning the baked cakes out of their pans otherwise the paper may stick.
