Reagan says...

Strength is needed against Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, avoiding tough economic sanctions in the wake of what he says "can only be called the Korean Air Line Massacre," called for U.S. strength to deter the Soviet Union.

With a tough vote coming up in Congress on the MX missile and possibly others on U.S. military involvement in Central America and Lebanon, the president worked a reminder about the Soviets' "massive military build-up" into his nationally broadcast address Monday night.

"Until they are willing to join the rest of the world community, we must maintain the strength to deter their aggression," he said.

Reagan, turning to Congress for a condemnation of the downing of the Korean jumbo jet, decided not to delay arms negotiations, reimpose a grain embargo or try to halt high technology shipments to the Soviets.

In his speech, he sought to present the United States' case against the Soviet Union for what he said was "the savagery of their crime," and used a tape recording of a Soviet pilot reporting to a ground controller that "the target is destroyed" two seconds after a missile was launched.

The president acknowledged that a U.S. RC-135 spy plane operated in the area where the Korean plane had flown before it was downed. But he said the plane was back on the ground, in Alaska, one hour before the Korean plane went down, and declared, "At no time was the RC-135 in Soviet airspace."

"The 747 has a unique and distinctive silhouette unlike any other plane in the world," Reagan said.

"There is no way a pilot could mistake this."

The 16-minute speech from the Oval Office, used tough language to characterize the downing of the aircraft.

"This crime against humanity must never be forgotten, here or throughout the world," he said.

Baseball field work planned

The Scurry County commissioners court is expected to accept bids for renovation at Moffett Field the first of next month.

As now planned, new aluminum bleachers and concrete block underground dugouts will be installed at the facility. In addition, the backstop behind home plate will be moved back, a change that will entail eliminating the first few rows of the current seating.

To make up for this lost spectator space, the new bleachers will be extended on either side of the playing field.

Commissioners noted Tuesday that it is still undecided if a covering for the bleachers will be included in the renovation work.

If not, county officials say this covering could be added at a later date.

The new bleachers will replace the current wooden structures and the indication Monday was that county park crews would begin tearing down the old seating area immediately.

With the moving back of the backstop, the side fencing for the field will have to be widened proportionately along the side as well.

Commissioners say no work to the playing field area other than the moving of the backstop is planned.

Construction bids for the field's renovation will be opened Oct. 3.

Crisis service endangered as funds dwindle

Nine months later, Snyder's Crisis Intervention telephone service finds itself still receiving calls from people in need but seriously short on both volunteers and funding.

Since its implementation here last December, the service has also had an opportunity to categorize the type of calls it has received and to itemize its cost of operation.

The result indicates that to maintain the local service, the funding requirements are not that great — basically entailing the monthly telephone service charge plus a classified ad fee.

But voluntary donations which launched the project have now all but been depleted. Consequently, while the cost requirement is not that substantial, unless more donations are received soon the service may have to be discontinued.

The actual day-to-day operation has generated a total of 193 calls during the nine month period.

It is estimated some 80 of these have come under such categories as mental or emotional health; interpersonal problems; substance — either drug or alcohol — abuse; or physical health disabilities.

Broken down into two general categories, these have resulted in 54 calls requiring general information or referrals and 27 requiring "listening or counseling."

On the average, the service has received a total of some 24 calls per month, approximately six a week.

The service is geared toward the desperate individual in need of someone to talk to. The majority of calls have not in-

Band's look is new

A new look for the 193-member Snyder High School Tiger marching band was unveiled Friday at halftime of the Snyder-Big Spring football game.

The band now sports a "Drum corp style" mode of dress, a change which school officials say will give a more modern appearance as well as be a money saving change in the long run.

SHS Band Director Sam Robertson notes that the new uniforms are a wash-and-wear fabric, saving both the school and the student the cost of dry cleaning.

The change also entails the concept of having two different band uniforms for both marching and concert appearances.

Local fans will have to wait until later in the year to see the concert mode of dress, which will consist of regular tuxedo-style coat and pants for the boys and a gold floor-length dress and gold cape for the girls.

While the concert dress will lean toward the formal, however, the marching uniforms head in the opposite direction.

Band members are dressed out in Bridgeman-style wide brimmed black hats with sparkling sequin hat bands, over-the-shoulder gold and white sashes cinched with a black cummerbund, white shirts with ruffled fronts and black trousers.

When cooler weather comes, a black ascot-style dickey will be added, Robertson said.

The comfort of this style dress — as opposed to the old style wool marching uniforms — enables band members to wear their uniforms during band trips.

This eliminates the problem of having to find a place to dress during road games, he notes.

In addition, in extremely cold weather the band members can wear regular coats over the uniforms while playing in the stands.

The old high school uniforms will not be totally discarded, however. The hats and pants are to be used by the junior high band for its concert appearances.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The only way we can boast of a green thumb is to go and paint the lawn furniture."

Things are tough all over. In nearby Stanton, promoters of the annual fair employed a Midland man and several Martin County Indians to come up with a big rain dance during the fair.

Sure enough, showers fell in Stanton three hours after the rain dance.

We might substitute a rain dance for the horned toad race at the Scurry County fair this month. Like the feller says in the TV commercial: "You spell relief 'R-A-I-N.'"

The heat always generates conversation, and it causes many to wonder how folks made it before central air and air conditioned automobiles.

Lyle Deffebach, Stinson Drug philosopher, suggests we may be victims of our own comfort. In our quest for comfort, perhaps we have become physically deficient.

Personally, we only worry about becoming too weak to get up and adjust the thermostat.

Sept. 16 is deadline to have your family history included in the history book, "Footprints Across Scurry County."

Many folks are getting their information together. One of these, Mrs. Ralph Neal, called the SDN office last week wanting to know the date that the Fuller Cotton Oil Mill was destroyed by fire.

We promised to do some checking in our files, but needed help getting close to the date. Mrs. Neal figured it to be in 1938 or 1939. Dean Cochran came in the office the next day and figured he had it written down at home. He ran into Pauline Merritt and the two of them narrowed it down to November or December, 1942.

A search of the 1942 bound books of the Scurry County Times revealed the major fire occurred on Nov. 16, 1942.

Members of the Scurry County Historical Commission are urging all residents—old and new—to get their family histories in. The Centennial celebration in Scurry County should be a good one.

Two more Marines are killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two U.S. Marines were killed and two wounded in a rocket attack at Beirut airport today, and Druse-Christian mountain fighting left 134 more dead and 345 wounded, authorities said.

The Marines died in a barrage of rockets and mortar shells fired from a Shiite Moslem neighborhood near the airport, U.S. spokesmen said.

They were the third and fourth Marines killed in Lebanon in eight days.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said the Marines later fired two 155mm rounds at an artillery battery that had been "firing at us from south of the airport" at Beirut's southern flank.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the Marines will "just try to improve their defensive positions, and, of course, they are firing back..."

Meanwhile, Christian forces conceded the fall of the central mountain highway town of Bhamdoun to what they called Syrian and Palestinian-backed Druse attackers, the first major Druse victory in the fighting touched off by the Israeli army's pullback to the south.

Police said the latest casualties in the mountain fighting raised the toll to 216 killed and 561 wounded since Sunday when the Israelis evacuated the heights and redeployed to safer positions in the south.

Israeli officials in Jerusalem said Israeli forces have no intention of re-entering the Lebanese mountains unless Syrian or Palestinian forces move into areas captured by the Druse. Meanwhile, U.S. presidential envoy Robert C. McFarlane flew from Beirut to Damascus in an attempt to get Syrian officials to put pressure on the Druse to stop the fighting.

"They (Druse) have entered Bhamdoun. They are committing massacres and crimes unprecedented in the history of humanity," said the Voice of Lebanon radio station of the rightist Christian Phalange Party in admitting the fall of Bhamdoun, 12.5 miles east of Beirut.

Communiques from both warring factions claimed combatants fought hand-to-hand and house-to-house during the battle for the town. A Druse statement claimed the Christians suffered "hundreds of casualties," and that the Druse suffered 10 killed.

Ask Us

Q. — I heard last week that the wife of Jerry Lewis had been found dead, yet there was no mention of this during this past weekend's telethon. Do you know if this is true?

A. — The wife of singer Jerry Lee Lewis was found, no relation to the comic and Muscular Dystrophy fund raising spokesman Jerry Lewis.

In Brief

52 die on Texas highways

AUSTIN (AP) — The Labor Day holiday weekend highway carnage topped its predicted toll today with the Texas Department of Public Safety reporting a total of 52 deaths on Texas roads — one more than the 51 fatalities forecast.

The latest fatalities, reported to the DPS today, included three men killed in separate motorcycle accidents, said DPS spokesman Larry Todd.

During the same 78-hour period last year, 50 people were killed on Texas highways and seven others died of injuries suffered over the weekend.

"We are very disappointed about the number of traffic deaths which occurred during this holiday period," said DPS chief Col. Jim Adams. "The effort on the part of the media and law enforcement to highlight the hazards of holiday driving was exemplary."

Vehicle strikes 2-year-old

Two-year-old Ricardo Hernandez of 800 18th St. in Snyder was listed in serious condition in Lubbock General Hospital Tuesday morning after being struck by a car near his home Monday evening.

According to police accident reports, Hernandez was struck by a 1981 Buick driven by Virginia Rodriguez of Rt. 2, Snyder. The accident occurred in the 700 Block of 18th St. at 8:53 p.m.

The youth was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital and later transferred to the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit of the Lubbock Hospital.

City council meets tonight

The Snyder city council will conduct its regular September session Tuesday beginning at 6:30 p.m. at city hall.

Among the agenda items to be considered will be the letting of new depository bids for the city.

In addition, the final reading and passage of the 1983-84 City Budget is scheduled. Along with this, the new city tax rate will be okayed.

A reduced rate was approved by the council this year, down from some 30 cents per $100 valuation to 29.07 cents.

Tie begins SDN contest

The entries are in and graded for the first week of the Snyder Daily News football contest and the final tally shows a three-way tie for first place.

Larry Bufkin of Box 859, Tony Hayley of Box 516, and Manuel Rios of Rt. 2 Box 295C managed only three misses each. No one game tripped up everyone, but two of the most-missed were the Pittsburgh-Denver and the New York Giants-LA Rams pro games.

The winners will split the combination of first and second place prize money and will receive $5.83 each. The checks will be sent through the mail.

Readers are urged to pick up their entries at participating businesses for this week's contest. A list of these appears in this issue of the SDN.

Cruelty to animal alleged Snyder police investigated a misdemeanor cruelty to an animal complaint Monday morning.

An unidentified caller notified police about a man attempting to set fire to a possum at an East Snyder residence around 11 a.m. Officers went to the residence and made contact with a 19-year-old man thought to be a suspect in the case.

No arrest was made in connection with the incident but the case has been referred to the county attorney for possible prosecution.

In per capita income growth...

NE outpaces Sunbelt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Frost Belt states of the Northeast posted heftier increases in personal income over the last four years than the faster-growing states of the Sun Belt, the Commerce Department says.

Paced by a 34.8 percent increase in Massachusetts and a 29.8 percent jump in Rhode Island, the New England states showed a 33.7 percent increase in per capita income from 1979 to 1982, according to a report released Monday.

Per capita incomes in the Middle Atlantic region rose 32 percent, with increases of 33.7 percent in New Jersey, 33.6 percent in New York and 31.3 percent in Maryland. Personal incomes rose 39.7 percent in Oklahoma to pace a 33.4 percent increase in the Southwest region, which also includes Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

The Commerce Department attributed the Northeast's increase to a smaller-than-expected growth in population combined with an expansion of the manufacturing and service sectors of local economies.

Americans' per capita income rose 5 percent last year, up from $10,582 in 1981 to $11,107 in 1982, according to figures compiled by the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis. Per capita income was computed by adding the income earned by all people divided by the nation's population.

Alaska was the nation's richest state with a per capita income of $16,257 while the poorest was Mississippi, where the average income was $7,778.

Personal income rose an average of 28.3 percent from 1979 to 1982, the Commerce Department said.

Eleven states, mostly in the Northeast and the West, had increases that were at least 7 percent above the national average. All six New England states had increases that topped the national average. Pennsylvania was the only northeastern state that did not enjoy a better-than-average increase during the period.

Even though Connecticut ranked second only to Alaska as the nation's richest state, the northeastern states were generally not ranked among the most wealthy. Despite the increases, Massachusetts was 10th, New Hampshire and Rhode Island 26th and 27th respectively, Vermont 38th and Maine 41st in a state-by-state ranking of personal incomes.

The five richest areas in 1982 were Alaska, $16,257; the District of Columbia, $14,550; Connecticut, $13,748; New Jersey, $13,089; and California, $12,567. The five poorest states were Mississippi, $7,778; Arkansas, $8,479; South Carolina, $8,502; Alabama, $8,649; and West Virginia, $8,769.

Employment growth in manufacturing, particularly the result of increased defense spending, allowed the West to remain the nation's richest region.

The Southeast, which traditionally lags behind the nation in heavy industry, remained the poorest region, the report said. But several southern states posted big gains in personal income. Louisiana showed a 37.5 percent increase, which ranked third behind Alaska's 43.3 percent and Oklahoma's 39.7 percent.

Shelley Duval now producer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Shelley Duval, who has made a name for herself in movies including "Nashville" and "The Shining," finds an agreeable element of make-believe in her latest endeavor, producing television programs.

The 34-year-old Miss Duval has just completed filming 15 50-minute episodes of "Faerie Tale Theatre" for the pay-TV service Showtime.

Aided by such stars as Vincent Price, Elliott Gould and Jean Stapleton, Miss Duval has been turning out "fairy tales with a sophisticated sense of humor."

"I've been told I inspire trust in others," Miss Duval says in the current issue of People magazine.

Next, she said, she plans to film Tom Robbins' "Even Cowgirls Get the Blues." She'll produce, co-write and star in the movie.

Says Miss Duval: "My success so far is like a fairy-tale happy ending."

Only an hour of sleep

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm thoroughly disgusted with my doctor trying to pacify me and not doing anything about my problem. I'm a female, 63 years old and can't sleep at night. If I get one hour of sleep I'm lucky. I've been this way for a month or more. I have high blood pressure and I take one Dyazide a day. I also have arthritis and had two cortisone shots a month ago.

I have taken Nytil, Somnux, hot milk, quit drinking coffee or tea after 5 p.m. and still no results. I don't get sleepy during the day. I'm completely exhausted and I just don't know how much longer I can go on.

I lost my husband 18 months ago from a heart attack but I have adjusted to his loss pretty well and I'm not under any pressure. My doctor will not give me any nerve or sleeping pills and I would like to know what you suggest.

DEAR READER — Don't be angry with your physician. He is trying to help you without harming you with medications.

You won't appreciate the thought but perhaps he is concerned that you may have a depression. That is sometimes the cause for insomnia. And you could have a depression about the loss of your husband long after the event, rather than immediately after it.

You should discuss what you plan to do with your doctor but, with his concurrence, I would make some suggestions. First, stop coffee, tea and all sources of caffeine entirely, not just after 5 p.m. Second, you might do well with an antihistamine such as you would find in Chlor-Trimeton allergy syrup or allergy tablets that you could buy without a prescription, or the anti-motion medication Dramamine. Remember that these could make you drowsy in the day if you use them in the daytime, but they are not addicting and do not cause the same problems many sleep medications may.

Meanwhile I am sending you The Health Letter 10-6, Sleep and Insomnia, which includes suggestions on your lifestyle and sleep habits that may help you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old girl, 5 foot 10 and about 85 pounds overweight. I am on a diet and exercise and have already lost 18 pounds.

I started jogging but am concerned that jogging will develop muscles which will add to my weight instead of allowing me to lose weight. I also do little exercises such as sit-ups and side bends which I think will help tone better than jogging.

DEAR READER — Muscles get just big enough and strong enough to contract against the resistance they work against, such as lifting a weight. When you walk or jog your leg muscles must be strong enough to lift your body with each step.

Just look at marathon runners and other runners and you will not see a successful runner who has large muscles. Even the leg muscles are not huge.

If you gain some muscles while you are losing fat that is good. The muscles will help you use calories even at rest and fat will not. Walking — and jogging and running for those in shape to do it — is good exercise to help lose weight. Long walks use a lot of calories. But I do like to see a well-balanced exercise program, including sit-ups and other exercises, to use all your body muscles. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Mexico extends credit to Cuba

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico will extend Cuba $55 million in credit to buy Mexican products, the Mexican Finance Ministry says.

Representatives of Mexico's National Bank of Foreign Trade and the National Bank of Cuba signed the trade contract Monday in Havana during a visit by Mexican Finance Minister Jesus Silva-Herzog and other economic officials.

In the first half of this year, Mexico bought $21 million of Cuban products and sold Cuba $14 million worth of goods.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

There are several occasions in a person's life where new underwear is an absolute must.

And if you have to ask what they are, don't you even dare call yourself a mother.

Anything that has a new beginning is given status by new underwear. For instance, I have never known anyone personally who would consider marriage without buying new undergarments for each day of the honeymoon.

And who among us would have the courage to climb into a car on the first day of a family vacation unless everyone was wearing new? Even if you have the safest driver in the world, you're asking for it.

Probably the one clean underwear rule that baffles mothers everywhere is why do children have to have new underwear on the first day of school?

If you want to be simplistic about it, you can figure your mother dresses you in new underwear on the first day of school and you turned out to be a wonderful person, so why should you deprive your child of all the benefits?

But there is a deeper meaning. New underwear is cheap insurance against anything that can possibly go wrong on the first day of school.

Have you ever seen kids in brand new underwear who hang from their feet on the gym set? Of course not! The only ones who "go public with their panties" are little girls wearing raggy, dingy briefs with a pin holding the waistband together.

And what about the shy schoolgirl who stuffs her entire dress into her mouth? Ever see her underwear? I wouldn't dust the andirons with them.

And we all know who has an "accident" in which the final score is bladder: 2; restroom: 0. It's the boy who grabbed his father's boxer shorts and has a belt around them to hold them up.

You show me a kid in new underwear and I'll show you a kid with his knees together and his feet on the floor.

A child learns faster in new underwear, sits up straighter, has fewer cavities, eats a more nutritious lunch, is more courteous, can jump higher, is more aware of world peace and is usually more successful in life.

The status of what new underwear can do for them carries over into adulthood. Why, don't tell me that the astronauts don't still have the labels in their undergarments, or Olympians don't break the seal on their Fruit of the Looms, or Tom Jones doesn't wear new for protection against splitting pants.

I'm such a "believer" in the new underwear theory that on the first day of school for my kids, I even wore new underwear.

I was afraid not to. COPYRIGHT 1983 FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC.

Worker keeping supplies moving in Honduras

MOCORON, Honduras (AP) — The term "logistics nightmare" is no dream to 24-year-old Bill Huber, logistics coordinator of a massive refugee resettlement program centered around this village in a swampy jungle area of northeast Honduras near the Nicaraguan border.

He works for World Relief, the international relief agency charged with keeping alive the 13,000 Miskito Indian refugees who have fled the conflict in Nicaragua.

Huber, who grew up in Colombia as the son of missionaries, is accustomed to living and working in primitive tropical areas. But in his present job, he is also responsible for bringing 150 tons of food each month into some of the remotest, most inaccessible terrain in Central America.

"Anything that moves, I'm in charge of making sure it moves right," he explains. That means foot-power, dugout canoes, trucks, jeeps, all-terrain vehicles to plow through swamps and marshlands, a DC-3 to fly in supplies during the dry season and a 65-foot steelhull boat.

When refugees first began arriving in Honduras two years ago, "they had no possessions except what they could carry on their backs, sometimes not even that," Huber explains.

"The young single guys swam the river between Nicaragua and Honduras, and families crossed in dugout canoes. But then everyone had to walk 37 miles through the jungle to reach Mocoron. By that time, they were in pretty sad shape."

As the numbers of refugees swelled to 13,000, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees established a camp for them and appointed World Relief to run it.

The agency had done relief work in Central America for years, and had administered relief programs for Southeast Asian refugees in Hong Kong, Thailand and the Philippines. But the sheer complexity of getting food and supplies to Mocoron made those operations seem easy, Huber points out.

"Mocoron is 49 miles away from the nearest port, Puerto Lempira, and during the rainy season the road is impassable for the last eight miles into camp," he says. "Even four-wheel-drive vehicles get stuck. We tried to repair the road, but to do that we needed gravel from the river, and the roads to the river were also impassable."

Communicating by radio with World Relief staff in the Honduran capital of Tegucigalpa, camp administrators placed daily orders for flour, rice, medicine, fuel, tools and other supplies. These were trucked some 200 miles to the ports of La Ceiba or Puerto Cortez, then loaded on a boat for a 36-hour trip to Puerto Lempira. From there, supplies were trucked as close to camp as possible, and carried by refugees the last eight miles on foot.

Even though hundreds of refugees still seek shelter in Honduras every month, the refugee population in Mocoron has lessened drastically since January, when World Relief and the Honduran government began a program to resettle the Indians on their own farm plots in three areas in the surrounding countryside. But for Huber, the dispersal program has made logistics even more complicated.

"We're committed to supplying the refugees with food, seeds, tools and medicine until they're able to support themselves," he says. "The relocation sites are in remote areas of the jungle, and they're only accessible on foot or by dugout canoe. It takes from one to three days to get to them, even longer in the dry season when the boats run into stumps and driftwood." So far, the resettlement program has been successful, Huber says. "I ran a kitchen for malnourished people, pregnant women and children in a refugee camp in Thailand a few years ago," he recalls. "Bad as the situation is for the refugees here, it's much, much better than it was over there."

Mitchell Co. sets farm tour

The annual Mitchell County Farm and Ranch Tour will be held Thursday. Tour stops will include dryland and irrigated cotton variety demonstrations, conserving use acreage practices, hybrid cotton research, rangeland herbicide demonstrations and pest management practices in Mitchell County, according to Bob Benson, county extension agent.

The tour will depart from the Colorado City Civic Center at 8:30 a.m. and return to the Civic Center for a barbecue luncheon and address by Dr. Zerle Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Service, states Benson.

Coffee and doughnuts will be provided beginning at 8 a.m. by the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce and Paymaster Gin. A watermelon break will be held at Custom Ag Service in Lorraine provided by Travis Turner.

By The Associated Press

Hundreds of thousands of workers rallied against President Reagan and "Bonzo economics" on Labor Day, while some employees made peace with management and millions of others took a break from their work to revel in summer's last long holiday.

Americans thronged beaches, parks and backyards, dousing the 90-degree heat that swamped much of the country in pools, lakes and ocean surf. At least five drownings were reported.

The three-day weekend proved deadly on the na-

Car hits business

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Monday.

At 9:43 p.m., the north window of First Federal Savings and Loan at 2519 College Ave. was struck by a car driven by Caleb Sewell Bonner of Rt. 2, Snyder.

Damage to the building and window was estimated at $250 while damage to Bonner's 1978 Chevrolet was listed as minor.

A second mishap involving a fixed object was reported on the parking lot of the Shakey's Pizza Parlour on the East Highway at 3:49 p.m.

According to reports, a 1974 Pontiac driven by Charles Edward Ferguson of the Ponderosa Motel struck a wooden pole in the lot with minor damage reported to both the pole and the car.

Arrests noted

City police jailed three subjects on misdemeanor charges Monday. One man was charged with unlawfully carrying a weapon while two others were arrested for public intoxication.

Blankenship to get award

Pamela Dee Blankenship, senior physical therapy student, University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston, will be the first recipient of the Marvin V. Atchison, M.D. recognition award, announced Dr. Juan A. Dieck, chairman of the award committee of the Valley Rehabilitation and Treatment Center, Inc., Harlingen.

Blankenship, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Blankenship of Snyder, became interested in the valley while competing at Pan American College, Edinburg, as a member of the Tarleton State University Gymnastic team.

Wishing to learn more about Hispanic culture, she studied farm and ranch Spanish and spent the summer of 1982 in the dominican Republic as a Texas A&M Cultural Exchange Student.

"Dr. Billy Philips, acting director, PT School at UTMB, states that Blankenship demonstrates excellent potential to make an outstanding contribution as a physical therapist," Dr. Dieck said.

tion's highways, where 436 perished between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday, 14 less than the 450 fatalities safety officials had predicted.

For construction workers in Michigan, autoworkers around the nation and symphony musicians in Utah it was a time of harmony, as they moved away from confrontation and towards contract settlements.

Workers paraded through America's cities by the thousands, but in New York City, the 425,000 marchers far outnumbered the 50,000 spectators who sparsely lined Fifth Avenue.

"It's a disgrace," said Mrs. Paul Gutenstein. "I'm ashamed that people would rather swim than come to the parade, after what kind of government we've got."

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, who reviewed the New York parade, lashed out at the Reagan administration's economic policies, saying the recovery "has bypassed working people and benefited only a handful of corporate entrepreneurs and corporate profits."

"The current occupants of the White House have so identified the general welfare with enriching the rich and pandering to the powerful that everything else strikes them as 'special interests,'" the nation's foremost labor leader said.

For laborers in about 150 U.S. cities, Labor Day was renamed Solidarity Day III to show the strength of the nation's unions.

The Solidarity Day bash in Austin, Texas, drew 10,000 people to a march starting at the state Capitol, bearing picket signs with slogans such as "Bust the Union Busters Today" and "Hallelujah, I'm a bum, thanks to Reaganomics."

In Cleveland, about 15,000 union members joined in a 350-boat parade through town, as some marchers hefted signs reading "C'mon, Ron, stop the Bonzo economics." One of Reagan's films was called "Bedtime for Bonzo," about a chimpanzee.

United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber said Monday was "one of the nicest Labor Days that I've celebrated in a long time," as the union reached agreement with Chrysler Corp. on a tentative contract for 56,000 workers. Chrysler workers, who granted the No.3 automaker wage concessions when its outlook was grim in 1979-81, had been clamoring for a pay raise since the company announced record profits the first half of 1983.

The Minnesota AFL-CIO had a smashing time, charging $3 a whack to let people pound a foreign car with sledgehammer to show support for American-made products.

And in Salt Lake City, 79 Utah Symphony musicians abandoned picket lines and tuned up to return to the rehearsal hall today after ratifying a new three-year contract.

Tough words for Reagan's policies

NEW YORK (AP) — As much as half of all the raw materials used by American industry to manufacture new aluminum products could come from recycled scrap during the 1980s, a recycling executive predicts.

"The general state of the economy will, of course, dictate the specific future use patterns for recycled aluminum as raw material," says M.J. Mighdoll, executive vice president of the National Association of Recycling Industries (NARI).

"But," he adds, "there is every indication that its use will continue to expand, and it could very well reach a total of 50 percent of the nation's raw material supply before the end of this decade."

Mighdoll attributes recycled aluminum's growing importance to the "unprecedented growth in the recovery of aluminum beverage cans and the tremendous energy-saving values of aluminum scrap."

"The use of recycled aluminum in the manufacturing process has been largely stimulated by the major aluminum producers who realize energy savings as high as 96 percent over the use of energy-intensive ore," he says.

More than 2 million short tons of scrap aluminum are processed and recycled each year by the nation's recyclers, Mighdoll notes. Almost half of the 50 billion aluminum beverage cans manufactured annually are now recycled, he says, and they make up 25 percent of all the aluminum scrap used as raw material by U.S. industry.

In 1980 recycled aluminum made up 24.7 percent of all raw materials supplied to U.S. industry, Mighdoll reports. This increased to 32 percent in 1981, to 36.2 percent in 1982, and for the first half of 1983 the figure was at the 38 percent level.

Bram Stoker's "Count Dracula," the fictional story of a ghoul surviving on human blood, was based on an actual person — Transylvanian Count Vlad the Impaler.

involved life-threatening situations, it was noted, but the service of referral for persons in need is still offering a valuable community service.

Callers who are not faced with an immediate life-threatening situation are handled through the answering service which initially screens all calls regardless.

Since less than one-half of these require further counseling, project workers note that volunteer counselors are not "swamped" with callers.

But, workers are needed "just in case," and the number of active volunteers have now dropped to only five.

These volunteers are actually "on call" in their own homes. The calls are screened through the answering service and if a volunteer is required, they are rung up by service personnel.

To secure additional volunteer workers, another training session is now planned for Sept. 19. In addition, a fund account has been opened at West Texas State Bank for donations to Crisis Intervention.

Funds may also be contributed at the office of Dr. Thomas Wiman, a supporter of the project.

And for persons who find themselves unable to cope and in need of someone to turn to, the crisis intervention telephone number, at least for the moment, remains 573-9594.

Driver's game kills teenager

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Labor Day weekend started off on a good note for 16-year-old Stephen M. Self, whose "whole life revolved around football," but ended tragically when he became the victim of a dangerous game a teenage driver wanted to play, police said.

Self died instantly when he was struck by a car early Sunday in Westworth Village, authorities said. Police said they were studying possible involuntary manslaughter charges against the 17-year-old driver.

The youth was not a natural center for the football team at Brewer High School, located in the Fort Worth-area community of White Settlement, but devoted himself to weightlifting and running during the summer in a successful bid to move to the first string, his coach said.

"He played with a big heart," said Brewer coach Ben Davis. "His whole life revolved around football."

Self was at the starting center position Friday night when Brewer opened the season with a 20-12 win over Azle.

Less than two days later, Self was killed as the result of a 17-year-old driver who apparently wanted to play "tag," said Westworth Village Police Chief Noel Lewis.

"From what we can determine at this time, it didn't look like he intentionally hit him," Louis said. "We did have some automobiles doing some degree of a chase or tag."

But Self's friends and relatives contend the youth was killed deliberately.

Self was returning home early Sunday from Fort Worth with a friend, Kevin Martin, and the boys' dates when a Volkswagen bumped Self's car, forcing it off the road twice, according to Martin's stepfather, David Griffith.

The Volkswagen contained two boys whom the couples did not know, Griffith said.

The pursuit continued until Self got out of the car, Westwood Village police said. Self was struck after the Volkswagen accelerated toward the parked car, according to investigators.

"It wasn't a drinking situation and it wasn't a tag situation," said Griffith, who had no explanation for the strangers' behavior.

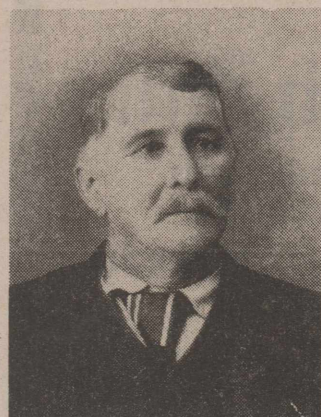

Martin, who was standing beside Self as the girls sat in the car, dived out of the way before Self was struck, said Susan Self McDonald, the victim's mother. Martin was not hurt.

The driver was arrested and released pending completion of the investigation, police said.

DEEP CREEK MERCHANT

The Story of

William Henry

By Charles G. Anderson

Available in January, 1984. A limited number of special Centennial Editions will be printed to include a special cover (similar to leather) with gold lettering and art. Lu Bright, well-known local artist, is doing illustrations for the book. The book is well researched with valuable pictures, war records, court documents, letters, and numerous items not previously published. It is written in an easy to read story form with 18 chapters of about 200 pages.

The book received the endorsement of the Scurry County Historical Commission in October, 1982 and a committee composed of Mrs. Jean Everett, Dr. Franklin Pruitt, Mrs. June McGlaun and Dr. Harry Krenek, has reviewed it for historical accuracy.

The special Centennial Edition will be limited to those who order in advance. Each book will be assigned a number in the order that advance reservations are placed.

The special Centennial Edition will sell for $22.50 (plus tax and postage) and must be ordered before Dec. 1, 1983. The regular hard-bound book will sell for a lesser price and advance orders are not required. No money is to be sent with this order, and may be paid in January.

To reserve your special-bound edition, fill out the following and return to DEEP CREEK MERCHANT, Book Sales Chairman, Hugh Boren Jr., 2501 College Ave., Snyder, Texas 79549.

Please reserve—copy(ies) of Deep Creek Merchant, The Story of William Henry "Pete" Snyder by Charles G. Anderson. I understand that I will pay $22.50 (plus tax and postage) when the books arrive in January, 1984.

We strongly recommend the use of minor suit splinters in response to a major suit opening. This splinter is, of course, a game force that shows a singleton in the bid suit and support for partner's suit. Expert partnerships extend this to major suit responses in a manner that is too complicated for ordinary mortals.

North has decided slam interest with his 11 high-card points and singleton diamond, but only if South has the right hand. South doesn't have the right hand and signs off at four spades.

West opens the queen of clubs and careful play is needed to bring the game home. South wins in dummy.

Cooking from paperbacks

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

Fortunately for budget-minded cookbook collectors, four excellent hard-cover cookbooks have now appeared in paperback. Still another paperback falls into a different category. Here are brief descriptions of them.

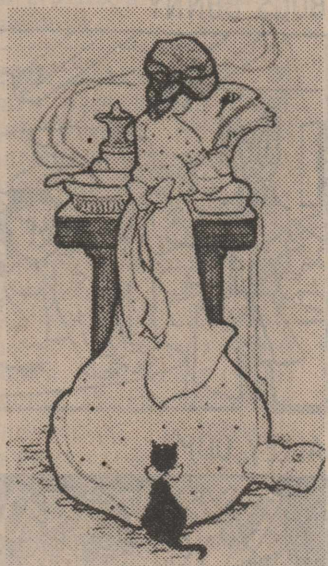

The success of Pierre Franey's "The New York Times 60-Minute Gourmet" prompted a sequel, "The New York Times More 60-Minute Gourmet" (Fawcett-Columbine). The first book contained main course dishes with vegetable accompaniments and salads; the new book contains much more of the same plus sections on appetizers and desserts. This is a fine collection of some of the best ideas for quick cookery, including a number of dishes which were served at New York City's late great restaurant, Le Pavillon, where Franey reigned as chef for many years.

Nika Hazelton's "The Regional Italian Kitchen" (Evans) has an extremely interesting and informative introduction discussing the gastronomic characteristics of each region of Italy. At the beginning of each recipe, its regional origin is noted. From soup to desserts, this is down-to-earth food.

Jean Hewitt's "New Natural Foods Cookbook" (Avon) is for vegetarians and natural-food aficionados and is a revised and expanded version of her 1972 "Natural Foods Cookbook." The section on Vegetarian Main Dishes is about as interesting a treatment of the subject as you are apt to find; in addition there are separate chapters on fish and poultry cookery. Young mothers will welcome the Baby Foods chapter; it makes heavy use of the food processor.

To many cooks, Caribbean cooking may seem exotic. But Elizabeth Lambert Ortiz, who grew up in the West Indies, wrote "The Complete Book of Caribbean Cooking" in 1973, and it has found a wide audience. Now it is available from Evans. It has a list of mail-order sources for obtaining — in some communities — hard-to-find foods; but in many cases Mrs. Ortiz suggests supermarket substitutes for them. This is authentic, island-hopping cooking.

"The Whole World Cookbook" (Scribners) contains 1,500 recipes reprinted from original softcover books published by 101 Productions, a California firm. An eclectic collection in a large format, it very nearly lives up to its title. The 35 books from which the recipes are drawn include books on a single food (Asparagus, Strawberries), books on the cooking of a single nation (Hungary, India, Greece), books on specialty cooking (Cooking for Two, A Primer for Pickles) and one unclassifiable and fascinating volume, "A Russian Jew Cooks in Peru." All this makes for good browsing and cooking.

The WEEDERS Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

The enemy below in your garden is often the destructive nematode, feasting on roots of your plants. This worm-like insect is so tiny you may need a microscope to see it. Fumigating the soil in the fall can help ease the problem, especially serious in southern areas.

Nematodes live in the soil and feed on developing roots, causing plants to become stunted and show severe water and nutrient deficiencies. There are a number of kinds of nematodes, some feeding on ordinary garden food and fiber crops, others attacking trees and ornamental plants. Some do tissue damage themselves, others provide entry into the root for fungi and bacteria.

Root knot is by far the most damaging nematode found in the garden, says Jerral D. Johnson, a plant pathologist at Texas A&M University.

Plant pathologists say crop rotation, planting resistant varieties and good cultural practices may reduce plant damage by nematodes.

Johnson says use of sweet corn, onions and garlic can reduce the soil population of root knot nematodes. But "snap beans, cucumbers, cantaloupe, tomato, okra, southern peas and Irish potatoes should never follow each other where nematodes are a problem."

Pathologists recommend use of Vapam, a liquid fumigant, to treat soil and eradicate nematodes.

weeds and plant diseases simultaneously in the home garden. Vapam, however, is toxic to living plants and should not be used on established lawns or gardens. It should be applied two weeks before planting, to give it time to work then escape as a gas from the soil before new plants or seeds are put into the ground.

For best results against nematodes, Vapam should be applied in spring and fall — from a sprinkling can, hose or sprayer.

For early planted crops such as onions, lettuce and radishes, a fall application will clean up the garden area. For best results, apply the fumigant when the ground temperature is 50 to 60 degrees F.

In the south, where a spring and fall garden is possible, Vapam applied two weeks before planting in the fall garden will clean up nematodes and soil fungi, permitting repeat planting of the same crops in the same area.

Another reason for fall application is the assurance of actually getting it in the garden. In spring, the weekend gardener may be too busy with other chores or the ground may be too wet to work.

Many gardeners do not think about their spring gardens until the seed catalogs arrive in late winter. When spring comes they are ready to get outdoors and want to plant as soon as possible. A Vapam treatment a week or so earlier will provide clean soil for seed or transplants.

If the fumigant is applied in the fall on part of the garden, a plastic tarpaulin put over this area and left until early spring will improve the effect of Vapam and keep untreated soil and weeds from recontaminating the area.

To permit early spring application of Vapam, a clear plastic tarpaulin placed over the garden area to be treated will warm up the soil more quickly and enable the gardener to treat in the spring and still plant early vegetables. It helps to have this area tilled in the fall and ready to plant.

(Any queries about gardening problems must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Is your heating/cooling system gobbling up too much money?

If electric bills are taking too big a bite out of your budget, consider equipment with a higher energy-efficiency rating. The higher the rating, the less electricity it takes to heat and cool your home. And using less electricity will help hold down your bill.

High-efficiency equipment costs more, but when the equipment qualifies, Texas Electric will give you a bonus check to help pay the difference. So if you're planning to install a room unit, or replace central air conditioning or a year-round heat pump, ask your dealer about equipment that qualifies for a bonus check from Texas Electric.

And put money back in your pocket.

Elmer's barn has world of delights

COOPERS MILLS, Maine (AP) — In this sleepy little town between the capital and the coast, the scene is framed by totem poles.

There, amid old plastic barrels, deteriorating lobster traps and a flock of wandering sheep, stands Elmer's Barn, packed with everything from jewels to junk.

Inside, its proprietor, Elmer Wilson, sits on an old car seat, presiding over four floors crammed with motley merchandise that could put grandmother's attic to shame.

In between zig-zag paths lie chests of glass prisms, boxes of antique post cards, shelves of wooden duck decoys, cradles full of porcelain dolls, bags of shucked corn husks, and whatever else a connoisseur of knick-knacks desires.

Dozens of old violins hang from the ceiling next to the egg beaters. In a pile of books is a 1906 seed catalog. In cupboards under counters are hundreds of wooden eggs and spindles.

Tom Snyder suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — Former late-night talk show host Tom Snyder has been suspended for a week without pay from his local TV newscasting duties because he made an obscene gesture while on the air, the New York Post says.

The Post says the suspension, to begin Monday, will cost Snyder $13,000.

Snyder, 47, a newscaster on WABC-TV, described himself as "embarrassed" and "ashamed" over making a finger gesture to someone off camera as he fiddled with his earphone during coverage Friday of the shooting down of a South Korean airliner, according to the newspaper.

News personnel at WABC referred all queries about the incident to a public relations spokeswoman who could not be reached at home or at work for comment.

Jack Bonanni, WABC-TV's station manager, said he could not say whether the Post report was accurate because he had been away from the station Friday.

The Post quoted Snyder as saying, "I was not aware I was on camera. But that does not excuse it in the slightest."

"If I had a bigger house, I'd just keep filling it," Wilson says with a chuckle.

He says he loves everything in the barn and deliberately overprices some things so they won't sell. But they do.

"One time I sold everything in the building to an auction house," he says. Within weeks, he had combed enough barns and garages to fill the four floors again.

"People from every walk of life will drive by and see the totem poles and say 'What... is in that barn?'" Wilson says. "A lot of people say I should charge admission, but I just can't."

His business started by accident, when he held a small sale to clear his first barn. "Now I'm here, with bigger and better items I've salvaged," he says. "After 20 years of doing this, people approach me" when they have goods to sell.

For advertising, Wilson passes out brochures in several resort areas, but most of his business is by word-of-mouth or from curious travelers on Route 17.

The tourists who wander in and out find uses for just about every odd thing. If he has can labels, they'll buy them for decoupage. If he has a butter churn, they'll buy it for a closet hamper.

"The joke is to try and sell it for use as a butter churn," he says.

Soviets brand speech hateful

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today accused President Reagan of making an "aggressive, hateful speech" about the downed South Korean airliner and claimed he was trying to exploit the tragedy to bolster his military policy.

In an English-language broadcast, Radio Moscow said Reagan "made bitter, slanderous attacks against the Soviet Union in a bid to arouse anti-Soviet sentiments in the American nation."

It said Reagan, in his nationally televised speech Monday night, "stressed the need to further rearm America."

Also today, the Communist Party daily Pravda told its public for the first time of the details of U.S. charges that a Soviet fighter shot down the Korean plane last Thursday. Pravda said Soviet forces "could have done so" if they deemed it necessary and did not explicitly deny the accusation.

The newspaper said "possible dangerous consequences of such a provocative flight were ignored," and spoke repeatedly of the risks of entering Soviet air space without permission.

It said the Kamchatka peninsula, transversed by the Korean Air Lines Boeing 747 last week, is a closed area, "intrusion into which may draw the opening of fire."

The West, Pravda said, is "putting forward the version that the plane went off course because of technical trouble and was shot down by a Soviet fighter. ... But facts give different evidence."

It was the first time the state-run press has told readers of the Western accusation that Soviet warplanes shot down the jetliner, killing 269 people. Previous accounts only have implied the charge by speaking of what the Soviet government called a vicious Western campaign of slander.

Junior Miss doesn't mind traveling

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — America's Junior Miss, 18-year-old Stephanie Ashmore, says she doesn't mind the extensive traveling she's had to do since winning the crown in June.

"I think I won because God planned to use me to witness to others when I travel, not because I was better than the other girls," Miss Ashmore said during a recent visit to Montgomery for a fashion show, where she sang two religious songs.

There are more than 700 species of plants growing in North America which have been classified as dangerous if consumed by humans.

Dear Abby

Fat Woman Had Bellyful Of Only 'Thin Is In'

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please, please print this again:

"DEAR ABBY: Do you know what it's like to: 'Walk down the street and have a total stranger say, 'You have such a pretty face, it's a shame you're so fat?'"

"Shop in a grocery store and have people watch to see what you put in your cart?"

"Walk into a restaurant and wonder if you'll fit into the booths or chairs? (Or worse yet, go to someone's home and pray there will be a chair that's sturdy enough to hold you?)"

"Squeeze into a theater seat and sit in agony during the entire performance while the sides of the seat dig into your thighs?"

"Lose out on a job for which you are highly qualified because of the way you look? (They never tell you that's the reason, but somehow you know it is.)"

"Be told that someone would like to date you if you would lose some weight?"

"Wonder if maybe you wouldn't be better off dead?"

"Well, I do. I know there is nothing you or anybody else can do about my problem, Abby, but it felt good to get it off my chest. Thanks for listening."

FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE

"DEAR MISERABLE: I know of two solutions to your problem. One is Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 6190, Torrance, Calif. 90504. It has chapters in nearly every city in the nation, and a more loving, caring, understanding and supportive group of people you could never hope to meet."

"The other is The National Association to Aid Fat Americans, Inc., P.O. Box 43, Bellerose, N.Y. 11426. This is a group of frankly fat people who have banded together for the purpose of helping the obese to accept themselves as they are. There is much to be said for both organizations."

"When writing, please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope."

Abby, the above letter changed my life. I was also "Fat, Female and Miserable," so I decided to do something about it. I made a choice. I decided to quit trying to be something I was never meant to be: thin!

For 20 years I had tried every diet that came along. I lost and gained and lost and gained. Finally I could no longer handle the feeling of failure, so I went the other route and joined The National Association to Aid Fat Americans.

I have finally learned to accept myself as I am, and I've never been happier. Sign me...

FAT, FEMALE AND FEELING FANTASTIC

DEAR FEELING FANTASTIC: One of our most cherished rights is the right to be ourselves, so congratulations. There's nothing wrong with being heavy — as long as you're healthy!

Problems? Everybody has them. What are yours? Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Radiation board calls for Gulf's prosecution

HOUSTON (AP) — If the Texas Radiation Advisory Board has its way, Gulf Nuclear Inc. will be prosecuted by the state for a February radiation exposure accident at its Webster plant.

A resolution adopted Aug. 28 by board members charged the incident posed a direct threat to Gulf Nuclear employees and the public. The resolution urged prosecution of the company "by every legal means."

Nine workers were exposed to radiation at the plant Feb. 8 when one employee accidentally cut in half a capsule containing americium-241.

The state health department did not learn of the accident for six weeks, when it was reported by one of the nine employees who had been exposed to the radiation. The employee later was fired.

Radiation board member William G. "Jack" Hendrick of Austin, a health physicist and manager of Texas Nuclear, a radiation services company, told the Houston Post in an article published today that Gulf Nuclear's reaction to the accident was "just unconscionable" to him.

Gulf Nuclear "just left (the exposed) people alone for six weeks," Hendrick said. "The fact there wasn't a much greater threat to the public outside the plant was just sheer ... luck. It wasn't because the company did anything right."

Carol Vance, an attorney for Gulf Nuclear, said there was no legal requirement for the company to report the radiation incident.

The trial of teacher John Scopes, arrested for teaching the theory of evolution, began at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925.

HIGH-EFFICIENCY GAS FURNACES SAVE MORE THAN ENERGY.

High-efficiency gas furnaces save money. Compared to standard gas systems, they use up to one-third less energy — thanks to redesigned heat exchangers, improved venting, increased fuel combustion and other improvements.

Compared to non-gas systems, there's no comparison. They cut fuel consumption in half because they use primary energy more efficiently.*

And you'll enjoy the savings for years to come. High-efficiency gas furnaces are built for longer life and less maintenance. Most even come with a 20-year warranty on the heat exchanger.

So start saving energy. And money. Ask your local heating contractor about high-efficiency gas furnaces.

*Calculations for efficiency statements are taken from AGA energy comparisons based on DOE energy test procedures.

With second half comeback

Cowboys shock Washington, 31-30

WASHINGTON (AP) - Danny White and the Dallas Cowboys wrote a new ending to what was beginning to look like an old, familiar script.

For 30 minutes it was 1982 all over again for the Super Bowl-champion Washington Redskins before White rallied his team with three second-half touchdown passes and a 1-yard run for a 31-30 Dallas victory.

"It was kind of like two games out there. The first half, I don't think I ever saw a team play better than Washington," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

The Redskins, who whipped the Cowboys 31-17 in the National Conference championship last Jan. 22, took up on Monday night where they left off, opening a 23-3 halftime lead.

Joe Theismann ripped the Dallas secondary for 181 yards and a touchdown in the half, John Riggins ran for 64 yards and a score and Mark Moseley kicked field goals of 23, 30 and 39 yards.

White, who had completed just one of nine passes to that point, and the rest of the Cowboys were on the ropes.

"We had terrible field position in the first half. 'It was embarrassing for our offense," said White.

Landry's halftime speech to his team included the admonition to be "cool" and "play with your heads."

"We felt we had to keep up the tempo the second half," said Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs. "We didn't want to go into a shell; we wanted to keep working the way we had been working. I felt the first five or six minutes of the second half, we couldn't let anything happen."

Gibbs' halftime talk was prophetic.

The Cowboys struck the first two times they touched the ball, wide receiver Tony Hill beating cornerback Vernon Dean on a 75-yard touchdown pass and then cornerback Anthony Washington on a 51-yarder.

"On the first play, we adjusted and had Vernon covering man-to-man but he didn't hear us because of the crowd noise. Vernon thought he was getting help inside and he was all alone out there," said defensive captain Mark Murphy.

"The first pass to Hill was the play that turned it around," Theismann said. "It didn't kill us but it woke up the Cowboys."

The Redskins, trying to regroup, marched to the Dallas 14-yard line before the drive stalled on a 10-yard holding penalty against tight end Don Warren.

Moseley attempted a 31-yard field goal but was wide to the right, only his second miss in 27 attempts in the regular season dating back to 1981.

Moseley's miss was the opening the Cowboys needed. They marched 80 yards for the go-ahead score.

Tony Dorsett, who finished with 151 yards, including 77 on one play in the first half, picked up 27 yards in the go-ahead drive. He got 18 of them in one carry to the Washington 9 and Ron Springs ran it to the 1. White got the final yard himself, bootlegging it in around right end for a 24-23 Dallas lead with 6:59 to play.

Theismann, who completed 28 of 38 passes for 325 yards, tried to rally Washington - but cornerback Ron Fellows stepped in front of Charlie Brown, intercepted the ball and returned it 33 yards to the 4. Two plays later, White completed the Cowboys' scoring with a 1-yard pass to Doug Cosbie.

Theismann, who had passed 41 yards to Brown for his first TD of the season, passed 1 yard to Don Warren for his second one - but it came with only 10 seconds to play.

"The Redskins?" mused Dallas cornerback Dennis Thurman. "They've got to feel they were robbed."

Cats entertain Midland Lee

Coach Leslie O'Pry's Tigers get their final warm-up before the District 2-4A season begins as they play host to Midland Lee at 7:30 this evening in the high school gym.

A junior varsity match will be held at 6:30.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Fans may also purchase memberships to the Snyder Girl's Booster Club for $3 per individual or $5 per family. The club serves girls volleyball, track, basketball and golf.

Snyder goes into tonight's match with a 4-3 season record. The Tigers defeated Seminole and Odessa Permian in last weekend's San Angelo Supersports Tournament of Champions before losing to Monahans, 15-2 and 15-13.

"If that (losing) is what it takes, then okay," said O'Pry, noting that Snyder had lost earlier in the season to Seminole, then came back to whip the Indians soundly in the tournament. "If that makes us mad when we play them (Monahans) in district then it will be worth it. District is our main concern."

O'Pry was not happy with Snyder's performance against the Loboets, however.

"It was 14-0 before we ever scored a point. We had made a few personnel changes for first game and kids didn't handle it too well. They were just zombies out there to say the least. Then we had them down 13-8 and they came back with seven unanswered points. That's pretty pathetic," she said.

Amarillo High beat Monahans in three games to win the tournament. Seminole took consolation.

Snyder opens 2-4A play Thursday, hosting Fort Stockton at 6:30 and 7:30. Another match, Snyder freshman versus Levelland, will be held at 5:30.

Tigers healed from injuries

Snyder Coach George Byerly said this morning that injuries suffered during last Friday's game with Big Spring would not keep anyone out of this week's contest with Lubbock Dunbar here.

Snyder, 0-1, will host Dunbar at 8 p.m. Friday night.

At least three Tiger players left the game with injuries. Receiver Chad Peterson went down early in the second half - the victim of a blindside hit - but later played. Lineman Jeff Sinneros went out with a shoulder problem and end Ronnie Landis left with a hand injury.

Byerly said that Sinneros and Landis had apparently suffered only bruises and should be able to play this week.

Snyder will be trying to regroup after a 26-8 loss to the Steers.

In other games involving 2-4A teams last week, An-draws stomped Seminole, 44-0, Fort Stockton defeated Canutillo, 56-14, Sweetwater ripped Abilene Wylie, 33-14, Lake View downed Del Rio, 40-21 and Monahans upset El Paso Eastwood, 16-12.

Also, Pecos fell to El Paso Riverside, 14-13, and Lamesa was caught by Levelland, 20-6.

Friday's games pit Alpine (0-1) at Fort Stockton, Andrews at Midland High (1-0), Brownfield at Lamesa and Stamford (0-1) at Lake View.

Sweetwater is at Abilene High (1-0), Monahans is at Midland Lee (1-0) and Pecos is at Carlsbad, N.M. (1-0).

Dodgers lose, advantage slips to 1½ games now

by The Associated Press
Mark Thurmond wanted to give a rest to the San Diego bullpen. As a result, the Padres continued to give no rest to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I did all I could do to stay in there," the San Diego left-hander said after pitching into the ninth inning Monday night as the Padres defeated the Dodgers 5-2. "Our bullpen was tired so I did everything I could to give them a night off."

The victory in Los Angeles marked the ninth time that the Padres had defeated the Dodgers in 15 games this season and it cut their lead in the National League West to 1½ games over Atlanta. The Braves gained ground with a 7-5 decision over the Houston Astros.

In other National League action, St. Louis took a doubleheader from Pittsburgh, 7-4 and 7-6 in 10 innings, Montreal tripped Chicago 7-3, New York turned back Philadelphia 6-5 and San Francisco tripped Cincinnati 3-2.

Thurmond scattered six hits over eight innings. But after yielding a leadoff homer in the ninth by Pedro Guerrero and a single, Gary Lucas took over for the final three outs.

Terry Kennedy stroked three hits, including a home run, to pace the San Diego offense.

Fernando Valenzuela, 13-9, took the loss, giving up one run in the first inning and three more in the third before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. It was Valenzuela's third consecutive loss and third in five decisions against San Diego.

Braves 7, Astros 5

In Atlanta, Dale Murphy continued his hot hitting with three singles and Rafael Ramirez batted in three runs, including the game-winner, to lead the Braves over Houston.

Murphy singled his first three times up against Joe Niekro, giving him six straight hits and a 16-for-22 streak.

Winner Len Barker, who pitched in the American League eight seasons, collected his first major-league hit in his second at-bat leading off a clinching three-run rally for the Braves in the seventh.

Cardinals 7-7, Pirates 4-6

In St. Louis, Ken Oberkfell singled home the tie-breaking run with two outs in the eighth inning and pitcher Dave LaPoint followed with a two-run single, leading the Cardinals over Pittsburgh in the first game of their doubleheader. LaPoint, 12-8, took over in the fourth inning and blanked Pittsburgh on six hits the rest of the way.

Grid boosters meet tonight in cafeteria

Snyder Football Booster Club will meet at 7 tonight in the high school cafeteria. Everyone is welcome to attend. Membership fees are $3 for individuals and $5 for families.

The Preakness Stakes first half and Jack Hare Jr. took the second.

Frank Robinson, a member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, was hit by a pitched ball 20 times in his rookie season with Cincinnati in 1956. It was a major-league record for a rookie.

Elway debut not spectacular

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

So the kid is human, after all. Hit him and he falls down. Knock him down and he gets hurt. Cut him and he bleeds.

John Elway will have to wait a little longer to start working his miracles for the Denver Broncos.

He's got plenty of time.

He had none of it in Pittsburgh. Elway, who enjoyed an occasional Saturday afternoon scamper when he was throwing the ball for Stanford, ran out of fear - and with good reason - against the Steelers on Sunday.

On his first pass as a professional, he let the ball go and Jack Lambert flattened him.

On his second one, Lambert was in his face again.

He never even got to throw his third one before Lambert separated him from the ball - and nearly from his sensibilities.

By the second quarter, Elway's right elbow was ballooning, his left one was bleeding, both ravaged by repeated two-point landings on Three Rivers Stadium's artificial turf. "I guess I'm going to have to learn how to pass with elbow pads on," he said.

He saw the second half from the sideline while Steve DeBerg, whose job Elway had taken in training camp, called the plays.

It was frustrating, Elway said, having to spend the second half of his first pro game off the field. But when DeBerg passed for the winning touchdown in the closing minutes, nobody showed more exuberance along the Denver bench than this million-dollar-a-year rookie, who waved his bandaged, ice-packed arm in celebration.

His stats were dreadful - one completion in eight passes for 14 yards, four sacks, one interception.

"Right now," said coach Dan Reeves, "he doesn't have a great deal of confidence," a reference not so much to Elway himself as to the Broncos' offensive line. It permitted the Steelers to sack Elway and DeBerg seven times. They passed for 49 yards. They lost 48 in sacks. Net gain: one yard.

Afterward, before Elway met the press, DeBerg did, facing dozens of writers and sportscasters. He stared at the crowd. "I could get used to this," DeBerg said.

He probably won't have the chance. Elway is likely to start next Sunday in Baltimore.

"A lot of this game is motivation and John's got to be motivated next week," DeBerg said, "playing the Colts, with their defense."

Not that Baltimore's defense is all that great, mind you. But it could have been Elway's defense. He was drafted by Baltimore but swore he'd never play for the Colts, finally forcing the trade that landed him in Denver.

That power play, and perhaps the size of his contract, did not endear Elway to Terry Bradshaw, the Steelers' "savior" 13 seasons back. He had a few unkind things to say a while back.

He'd been drafted by Pittsburgh, Bradshaw said, and he didn't want to play in Pittsburgh - but he did. And Elway, with four fewer Super Bowl rings, was making maybe three times what he was.

"I think," Bradshaw said then, reflecting on Elway's salary and all the national attention, "that he's got to pay his dues first."

On Sunday, Elway made the down payment.

Flag football moves deadline to Sunday

The deadline to enter the Snyder City Flag Football League has been extended to Sunday, Sept. 11.

Roster numbers will change from 12 to 15 because of injuries. Entry fee is still $60 per team.

For further information contact Mike Boles at 573-3940 or Alvin Ollison at 573-3344.

Nine teams are already entered.

Exhibition games open 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 11.

Redlegs play host to softball tourney

Snyder Redlegs will host an invitational slow-pitch softball tournament, Sept. 9-10-11.

Entry is open to the first 12 teams. Entry fee is $80 per team.

The tournament will be double elimination. For further information, contact Joe Lopez at (915) 573-3277 after 5 p.m. Mail entry fees to Lopez at 2802 Ave. M, Snyder, Tx, 79549.

Trophies will be given to first through fourth places. Individual trophies will be given to first and second places.

HILLSIDE MEMORIAL GARDENS is a perpetual care cemetery. This means that it will always be cared for without requiring annual dues. (SDN Staff Photo)

Hillside Memorial Gardens has been serving area for 16 years

Hillside Memorial Gardens, located on the Colorado City Highway, has been serving Snyder County and the Scurry County area for over 16 years.

Hillside Memorial

Gardens is a perpetual care cemetery governed by the state banking department. Perpetual care means that the one price you pay for the cemetery property is the only money or dues you will ever pay. A portion of what you pay is sent to a trust fund which cannot be touched. Interest on this fund pays for the cemetery to be cared for from now on.

Lots are very reasonably priced at Hillside Memorial Gardens. You can pay a small down payment with no carrying charges for pre-need property. The cemetery is a member of the Texas Cemetery Association and the National Association of Cemeteries.

Also available are granite and bronze memorials that may be set in the cemetery.

Vice-president in charge of operations at Hillside is W.C. Graves. Pat Graves is secretary and Greg Graves is a salesman. R.V. Thompson is the foreman and H.B. Ryan is the gardener.

The staff at Hillside will be happy to counsel with anyone at any time concerning their future needs. Give them a call at 573-5251 or go by and see them at Hillside Memorial Gardens, on the Colorado City Highway just past the school ag barn.
