N. Y. C. AA-Gunners Blast Soviet Aircraft

Or at least that's the way it looks in this picture combining photographs of three new Russian planes with a view of New York City's recently-installed anti-aircraft battery at Fort Totton. The Russian planes, zooming over the Army's 120-millimeter guns, are: at upper left, a TU-4, the four-engine bomber closely resembling in performance and appearance America's B-29 Superfort; directly below it, an MIG-15, the jet job which has been taking a beating in Korean border fights with U. S. Shooting Stars; at left, a Lavochkin jet that is reported to be faster than Russia's Yak. WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Reds Launch Offensive in Korea; U.S. Works on Japanese Treaty; Army Calls for 80,000 Draftees

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

North Korean and Chinese Communist troops concentrated for another blow on U. N. forces below the 38th parallel. Chief concentration points were at Yonchon (1) and northwest of Seoul (2). A Red attack (3) northeast of Kumchon, pushed back the South Koreans more than a mile. Red patrols were near Kaesong (4). South Korean troops fought a preliminary battle near Hyon (5). Reds were also massed north of Chunchon (6).

KOREA:

The Story Repeated

The story of the Korean battle seemed to repeat itself. Forced to withdraw from North Korea after pushing the Communists out of South Korea and almost to the Manchurian border, U. N. forces received the full force of Chinese and North Korean troops as they plunged south of the 38th parallel.

U. N. troops gave ground and further retreats appear in store for them. The main feature of the attack was the overwhelming numbers of Chinese and North Koreans rushing U. N. defense positions. At least 200,000 men were thrown into the first attack.

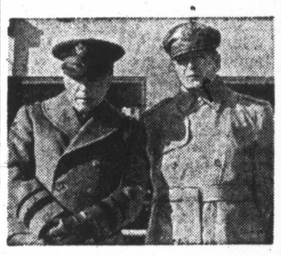

The Communist plan for the conquest of South Korea was to separate the eastern and western sections of the defense line, isloate them and then destroy them at will.

Meanwhile, observers who recently returned from Korea report the morale of the soldier at the battlefront much better than that on the homefront.

Americans at home were pictured as frightened, frustrated, and swept with recurrent waves of defeatism and despair. The men in battle were pictured as neither frightened nor discouraged.

There was no criticism of American leadership in the war or criticism of the fighting ability of any nation's troops.

Generals Wait

Maj. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, chief of staff, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur are shown keeping a somber vigil at Haneda airport for the arrival of the body of Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, late commanding officer of the 8th U. S. army, who was killed in an accident in Korea. Walker's body was being sent to the U. S. for burial in Arlington cemetery.

ARMY:

New Call Issued

The army called for 80,000 draftees in March, raising total draft quotas to 450,000 since the Korean outbreak. Eighty thousand had already been scheduled for January and February.

With the armed forces building toward a manpower total of some 3½ million as rapidly as possible, the army anticipated a combat strength equivalent to 24 divisions when the current expansion goal is reached next July 1.

An infantry division numbers 18,000 men and is a self contained fighting unit with supporting weapons such as tanks and artillery. At the beginning of the Korean conflict the army had 10 divisions, only one at full war strength. It had 11 regular divisions, with four national guard divisions and two guard regimental combat teams (usually 5,000 men) as of January 1.

Selective Service officials reported 217,000 men had been delivered to the army up to January.

TAXES:

Higher in 1951

With the new congress in session, President Truman was expected to ask for more taxes at any moment to meet the mounting cost of the nation's defense.

Although the size of the new tax program was not disclosed, one administration official reported the President would try to put the government as nearly as possible on a pay-as-you-go basis. The program, however, will include higher personal and corporation levies.

It seems unlikely that a new tax program can bring expenditures and receipts into balance because spending for the fiscal year 1951 may reach $75,000,000,000. The present tax program, including the excess-profits tax, will yield revenues of only about $45,000,000,000.

MARCH OF DIMES

March of Dimes Fund Campaign

The 1951 March of Dimes campaign began Monday throughout the United States as a massive attack against the only epidemic disease known to man that is still on the increase—a disease that in the last three years has stricken more than 100,000 people and cost the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis an unprecedented $58,000,000 for patient-care alone.

In 1950 March of Dimes funds had assisted in some measure more than 54,000 polio victims at a cost of $20,000,000. The national fund at the moment is at the lowest point it has been since the organization was founded in 1938, officials reported.

The foundation reported four out of every five of the stricken needed —and received—financial assistance.

BIG FOUR:

Conference Plan

Some weeks ago the United States, Britain, and France proposed that another big four conference be held in an effort to settle the many pressing world problems. After long weeks of waiting, the Russians replied.

Officials would not reveal just what was in the Kremlin reply. It was evident, however, that the western powers were disappointed and that a big-four meeting was not closer than when it was first proposed.

It was believed that Russia was not prepared for any unqualified discussion of the many galling points of friction between the western democracies and the totalitarian Soviet system.

It was also rumored that Russia wanted the western powers to accept the Prague declaration which served notice that the Communist led nations of eastern Europe would not tolerate rearmament of western Germany.

Russia was also reported to have taken the stand that Communist China would be represented before any discussion of the explosive situation in the far east could be undertaken.

No one in his right mind could believe that the United States would accept any of the conditions. Thus the conclusion that a big four conference is not likely in the near future.

ACHESON:

Production and Faith

Secretary of State Dean Acheson gave the United States a prescription for 1951—"production and faith".

Acheson, in a radio interview, said we have the power to retaliate against any aggressor who attacks us and our friends and that power cannot be overlooked.

"We expect to make ourselves respected and to deter aggression," he said.

"The prescription which we need today is the prescription which Mr. Churchill gave to England in 1940 —blood and toil, sweat and tears— and may I add, faith—faith in our country, faith that the great task before us can be done and that it will be done."

Acheson's statement was remarkable in that he echoed a growing belief throughout the country. Americans who had been described as frightened and frustrated in 1950 seemed to be settling down quickly to a new year of sacrifice and determination.

The last few months have been called America's darkest hour, but they may be even darker before the United States is fully rearmed and ready to face its enemies.

TRAFFIC:

A War at Home

While American troops were being killed in Korea, Americans at home slaughtered themselves on the highways during the Christmas and New Years' holidays.

Complete tabulations were not complete for the New Years' holiday, but during Christmas there were 724 violent deaths in the United States, 545 of them in traffic mishaps.

The accident rate was more than 100 above the number of persons killed in traffic accidents during the 1949 Christmas holiday. The 1950 toll almost equaled the record of 555 set in 1936.

In the city of Los Angeles alone there were 11 traffic deaths, 900 injured, and a total of 1,084 accidents. It was significant to note that police in that city charged 352 persons with driving while intoxicated and another 1,222 were charged with drunkenness.

Only one state—South Dakota—escaped without a single reported fatality that could be attributed to the Christmas observance.

Witness

Mrs. Ann Moos Remington, ex-wife of former commerce official, William Remington, testified in federal court that seven years ago Remington turned over "top secret" explosives formulas to confessed spy Elizabeth Bentley for transmission to Russia. Remington is being tried for perjury.

MARSHALL:

Let's Go Easy

Secretary of Defense George Marshall warned the nation in the closing days of 1950 to go easy, that "a too rapid attempt at mobilization was apt to delay the ultimate speed" of rearmament.

Marshall said that there is "a tendency to feel that the more rapidly we appropriate billions and the more rapidly men are called into service, the safer we will be." That isn't true, he explained.

UNITED DEFENSE FUND

Organization Formed to Aid Financing of Welfare Services

The United Defense Fund, Inc. a new organization for financing of national health and welfare services made necessary by the defense effort, got under way recently with an appeal to the Community Chests in more than 1200 cities for funds to support a program of services in 1951.

A federation of national agencies and local community interests for the joint financing of national defense services in the field of health and welfare, the United Defense Fund, Inc. offered to local communities a "single-package" appeal for support of national defense health and welfare services for both civilians and the armed forces.

The organization was formed to meet the frequently expressed desire of local Community Chests that appeals to them from national agencies, especially in time of special need, be properly screened, budgeted, and united in their financing—just as is the Community Chest itself. Other reasons for the unification of these national agency services are: (1) a desire not to increase the number of appeals now being made to the American public; (2) a wish to join forces in carrying out needed services economically, efficiently and effectively.

The organization of the United Defense Fund, Inc. was preceded by a series of conferences which included the national agencies and groups concerned and representatives of Community Chests. As a result of these sessions a planning and advisory committee on national emergency services was jointly appointed by Community Chests and Councils of America, Inc. and the National Social Welfare Assembly, Inc. to consider what services were needed and how they should be organized and financed. This committee made a series of recommendations, one of which requested the two sponsoring organizations to set up a national fund which could finance such services and approach the country throug a single package of essential services. This recommendation was considered and approved by the governing bodies of both organizations and authorization was given to proceed with the fund organization.

E. A. Roberts, president of Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company, Philadelphia, Pa. was elected president at the first meeting of the Fund November 28, in New York City.

Charles H. Watts, chairman of board, Beneficial Management Corporation, Newark, N. J. was elected treasurer. William H. Bulkeley, vice president of Kellogg and Bulkeley, Lithographic Division, Connecticut Printers Incorporated, Hartford, Conn., was elected secretary.

SERVICES TO RECEIVE support from the United Defense Fund, Inc. fall into two groups at present.

The first group is concerned with services to the armed forces and will be conducted by: American Social Hygiene Association; Associated Services for the Armed Forces (which includes Jewish Welfare Board, National Catholic Community Services and YMCA); National Recreation Association; National Travelers' Aid Association and Y.W.C.A.

The second group will provide services to communities congested by the national defense effort. These services will be conducted by: Child Welfare League of America; National Organization for Public Health Nursing; National Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centers; National Urban League; National Catholic Community Service; National Recreation Association and Y.W.C.A.

The United Defense Fund, Inc. will raise funds through the "united campaign" approach wherever possible and will seek support from the nation's Community Chests on a share and share alike basis, community quotas being based on the recommendations of the National Quota Committee. Funds will also be sought in New York City.

The national campaign goal for the United Defense Fund, Inc. as approved by the National Budget Committee for services to be given in 1951 is $7,399,329. Community Chests throughout the country will be asked to provide $6,058,101 of this goal with the remaining $1,341,228 to be secured from New York City and other non-Chest sources.

Charles Coburn lead the list of excellent actors, and the list of guest stars is impressive, including Dorothy Kirsten, Groucho Marx, and Peggy Lee. Nancy Olson carries the burden of the love story—never very important in a Crosby picture, of course. There is plenty of nice music and good dancing; for good entertainment, take "Mr. Music".

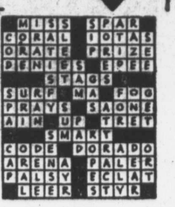

It had to happen some time, of course; too bad Ralph Edwards was the victim. He had filmed his Christmas "Truth or Consequences" television show, on which he really shot the works. So—the wrong can of film was sent by the agency to CBS-TV in New York, and was released, the week before Christmas, instead of the show scheduled for that date, on stations on the cable from New York.

There were divided openings when it was learned that NBC was negotiating an exclusive, long-term contract with Margaret Truman for radio and television appearances, receiving nearly $4,000 for each performance. Some people thought NBC might better spend the money in some other way, others felt her appearance recently on "The Big Show" really justified the deal.

Lauren Bacall has a way of getting what she wants. She wanted Humphrey Bogart, and got him. She has her screen career, her baby. Recently she signed to make one picture a year for 20th Century-Fox, but first she will accompany Bogart when he goes to Europe to co-star in "African Queen" with Katherine Hepburn, for his own independent company. That's very nice planning.

ROOMS FOR RENT

By Dorothy Boys Kilian

"HONEY, YOU DON'T really think you can rent these rooms for the summer, do you?" Dick Shipley, still in his greasy cover-alls, frowned as he found his pretty young wife sitting on the wide-board floor in an upstairs bedroom, mending a faded blue rag rug.

3-Minute Fiction

Margaret stood up slowly and planted a kiss on his smudgy cheek. "We want to have a nice crib and other things for our first baby, don't we, darling? And that takes money —more than we've got to spend."

"Maybe I could take another job in the evenings, or something."

"Why, Dick, you're exhausted when you come home from the garage; and lots of times you don't even get here until eight or nine."

"Yeh, I know. Starting a new business means no money and no free time for a while."

"Well, this house your mother left us has more rooms than we need for ourselves."

"But just look at the furniture!" Dick waved an arm at the room in general. "You sit in that wooden rocker for ten minutes and those slats make a prison bar pattern on your back. The bed's so high you need a Pullman ladder to Climb into it, and that wash stand—"

"I think it's all kind of quaint," Margaret said placidly. Dick snorted. "People on vacation want to be comfortable, not quaint. And besides, think where we're located; practically out in the country, the opposite end of town from the lake and all the amusements."

"It's nice and quiet, though," Margaret insisted.

Dick shrugged. "I give up. But I hate to see you slaving away up here."

Margaret stood up slowly, put her arms around his neck and planted a kiss on his smudgy cheek.

"Oh, well, the doctor says I need plenty of exercise," Margaret said soothingly.

"There's the doorbell, I'll get it." Dick, still looking troubled, started downstairs.

A portly, pink-cheeked old gentleman stood on the porch. "This is the Shipley residence?"

"Why, yes," Dick looked goggle-eyed past him to the long shiny black car parked in front of the house.

"May I speak to Mrs. Shipley?"

"I'm Mrs. Shipley," Margaret called from the top of the stairs."

"I am Mr. Frost of Big Rapids. You have some rooms for rent?"

"Yes. Please come up and I'll show them to you," Margaret answered.

DICK stayed downstairs and listened glumly to the footsteps overhead. He winced as he heard the bathroom door squeak and imagined Mr. Frost's first view of the old tub standing high on its claw feet.

There was a lengthly murmer of voices in the upstairs hall. Then down came Mr. Frost, a hand on Margaret's elbow, and she accepting the little attention as the most natural thing in the world.

"Well, it's all settled then," Mr. Frost was saying. "We'll take the two rooms for the summer. "Yes sir, this advertisement hit us in the right spot." He fingered a little piece of newspaper.

"Advertisement?" Dick stared at the paper.

"Your wife used a good psychological trick, didn't she?" Mr. Frost chuckled. "Playing down a thing so much that it excited your curiosity."

"Uh, yes," Dick laughed weakly. "Let's see that again," he said trying not to look too astonished.

"For rent," he read, "for the summer season, two rooms in ancient frame house, unfashionable part of resort village, very few modern conveniences, no recreational facilities nearby. Mrs. Richard Shipley, 1203 Stanley Road, Weehagen, Michigan."

"Yes," Mr. Frost said. "My wife saw that and said it made her thing of a Currier and Ives print—" He handed Margaret some bills, put on his grey homburg, and stepped briskly out the door.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET

Al Didn't Go for Soft-Soap, but He Was an Easy Touch

By BILLY ROSE

In Miami some winters ago, Al Jolson stopped in for a quick one at the bar of the hotel where he was staying, and as if on cue the juke box began playing his recording of "Sonny Boy." When the machine clicked off, a plainish-looking woman walked up to the bartender and said, "Lend me a couple of nickels, Mac. I can't get enough of that song."

Jolson pushed a quarter down the bar. "The next five are on me," he said.

The woman looked over and her face lit up. "Why—you're Mr. Jolson!" she said.

"Sure," said Al, "and you knew it the minute I came in. What's the idea of the corny routine, sister?"

"I just had to talk to you," said the woman. "I've been sitting here all afternoon hoping you'd drop in."

Billy Rose

"WHAT'S ON YOUR mind?" asked Al.

"My husband is in a jam," said the woman. "He's the desk clerk in this hotel and he was on duty the other night when you checked in and left an envelope full of money to be put in the safe. Yesterday he heard about a sure thing at Hialeah and took a thousand dollars out of your envelope and bet it on the horse to win. Well, the 'sure thing' came in fifth."

"Has your husband ever dipped into the safe before?" asked Jolson.

"Never," said the woman. "In fact, he never bet on a horse until yesterday—and the only reason he did it was because our son is getting out of high school next June and we've got our hearts set on sending him to college."

"And you thought that by playing 'Sonny Boy' you could soft-soap me out of a thousand bucks?" said Al. "Well, I don't soft-soap that easy. Go and get your husband—you're both coming with me."

A FEW MINUTES later the couple were in a cab with Jolson, sure it was all over but the fingerprinting, but instead of heading for a police station the hackie drove out to the South Miami dog track. There Al led the husband to a pari-mutuel window and handed him five one-hundred-dollar bills.

"This makes fifteen hundred you owe me," he said. "Bet the five C's on No. 4 to win—I got a tip on him this morning."

No. 4 ran so fast it darn near caught up with the mechanical rabbit, and when the clerk cashed in his tickets he was handed $3,000—the odds had been five-to-one.

"I'll take my fifteen hundred," said Al, "and let this be a lesson to you. Never bet the horses—if you gotta bet, bet the dogs."

Last Fall, after a guest broadcast in New York, Jolson was buttonholed by a young man as he was leaving the studio.

"I don't suppose you remember," he said to Al, "but several years ago you took my folks out to the Miami dog track and helped them win fifteen hundred dollars. That money made it possible for me to go to college."

"Sure, I remember," said Al, "and when you write your mom tell her she still owes me some dough."

"I never heard about it," said the young man. "How much was it?"

"A quarter," said Jolson. "She was playing a juke box and ran out of change."

The Good Must Fight

Lesson for January 21, 1951

YOU WOULD think that if ever there arrived on this planet a really good person, he would be popular with everybody. People are tired of meanness, they are sick of being lied to and cheated. They are tired of the sins of others, even tired of their own. So if a really good person should appear, one in whom was no shadow, completely transparent to the Eternal Light, wouldn't everyone flock to him, wouldn't he have the human race in the palm of his hand, as it were, in a short time?

Dr. Foreman

Agelong War

THE ANSWER is No. It is not well to be too optimistic about human nature. As a matter of fact, some of the best persons history has known met some of the bitterest opposition. Indeed, when One came who was completely good, whose life was all light and no shadow, he was no better treated and no more warmly welcomed than less good persons have been.

Jesus Christ had his enemies, strong and well-organized. The number of those who believed in him was comparatively small; the number who did not believe or ignored him altogether, was enormous.

The history of mankind is the history of a war, the age long war between good and evil, between God and his enemies. The story of Jesus is one chapter in this history, the most important by far, but by no means the first one or the last.

Why Was Jesus Hated?

THE READER should examine the record in the Gospels and try to think for himself who opposed Jesus, and why they did so. One striking fact is that Jesus' enemies were not what we call the "lower classes," much less the "criminal classes." His enemies were rather from out of the top drawer, as we might say. They were the financial, social and religious leaders of his time. They finally got him executed as a criminal.

If there had never been any one to contradict the records of the Sanhedrin, that high court of Jerusalem, and those records had become recognized as the truth, Jesus would have gone down in history, if remembered at all, as a troublemaker, a lawless and worthless man, whose execution was a protection to society.

Why were these leading men, Jesus' "distinguished" contemporaries, so wrong about Jesus?

"As he is, so are we . . ."

THE READER should think this out for himself. One reason can be mentioned here: It is very easy for wrong to be so long accepted and so strongly entrenched that it is universally taken for right. Then when the right comes along, especially when in the form of an idea suggested by some one not of the upper crust, it actually seems to be wrong. People kept long in a dark room find light painful!

Any one who tries to follow Jesus will find himself up against the same sort of opposition.

Any one who proposes to live as Jesus lived, or to change our accustomed patterns of society in the direction which Jesus pointed out, will be called (as he was) a crackpot, a dreamer, an impractical fellow who does not know enough to go in when it rains.

Our Divine Alliance

CONSIDER one example of this. A Christian who makes up his mind to dedicate his body a "living sacrifice" to God, and therefore not to handicap himself with the drug of alcohol, is certain, in many places, to be considered a sort of crank. It is not that people will laugh at him, though they will: people will be angry with him for his stand. They will do all they can to make him break his pledge.

Instead of admiring a clean and free life, many people are not content unless they can soil that cleanness and break down that freedom. So to stand for Christ in any aspect of life is not easy. But we need to remember we fight no lonely fight; our cause is not forlorn.

Just as Jesus in Galilee was always on the side of those who were beaten and battered by sin and evil, but still fighting, so now the ever-living Christ is always on the side of those who in their hearts desire good and not evil, cleanness and not dirt, truth and not lies.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Any Room Can Be Made Charming With Gay Slip Covers

By Ertta Haley

REMEMBER WHEN the slip cover was a dust protector? It's not so long ago when we slipped them over the furniture and then prayed we would be able to remove them before anyone would see them!

Sometime ago slipcovers came out of their hiding, and how very fortunate they did! Now, they are stars in their own right and can make almost any room in the home, one of fresh beauty and charm.

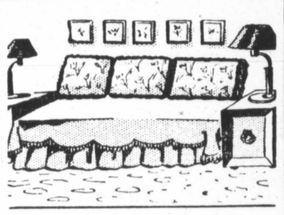

Though some may think of slipcovers as something with which to hide worn, dirty and unattractive upholstery, they're something more. People starting a home frequently buy muslin covered pieces, and plan to slip cover furniture during the course of its life.

You see, slipcovers may be changed every time you want to change the color scheme of a room, and this may happen twice a year, and certainly two or three times during furniture life.

People like slip covers so well they have both a summer and winter set, and thus make possible two different rooms.

Slip covers enable you to simplify your cleaning. In dirty localities where dust and soot abound, you can whisk them off, launder them and have a fresh room, much more readily than cleaning the upholstered pieces.

Change the wall colors, and you can change slip covers, much more easily and less expensively than buying new upholstery. If the room needs cheering and brightening, you can add a new slipcover or perhaps dye an old set. How much easier than trying to change the furniture!

Lines of furniture can be changed with slip covers, too, to make them more pleasing. The covers will hide ugly, chunky furniture legs, as well as disguising other unattractive lines.

Amateur Hands, If Deft Can Make Slip Covers

No one need be a professional to put together a set of slip covers. Not only the proper types of fabrics are available for the job, but you can buy patterns to help you, if unable to make your own.

The project involves much material, for an upholstered chair will take ten yards, more or less, of material. The sewing, however, is simple and not in the least tricky, especially if you have fitted the cover on chair or sofa and basted before you attempt machine stitching.

Those who have experience with slip covers will tell you the best kind of material to get is that which is sanforized. You may not dream of laundering the covers at home, but you may find it necessary, because it's speedy and economical.

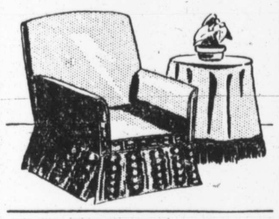

Many of the heavier fabrics are now pre-shrunk when you buy them. Indian head in luscious colors is available, as are the cotton chintz and crash types.

Those which are not sanforized should be shrunk before you attempt any cutting or sewing, for in this way you'll do the shrinking, and then you'll never have to worry about not having slip covers to fit perfectly.

Wet the material thoroughly and stretch out to dry. It may be pressed before you sew, or even start the cutting.

Professional shrinking service is available in some communities, and can also be used. The price is usually based on the number of yards of material used.

Enlist all the sewing aids available for your slip cover project. These include zippers for the covers in place of snaps, for they'll save time in putting on as machines can be used to attach them. It's also easier to remove and replace the slip covers with zippers.

bright colors for effect.

Pinking shears can now be purchased at reasonable prices and should be used for finishing the edges, particularly if you're using a fabric that ravels easily.

Use durable thread and adjust stitching to material so that sewing will be secure. Then the covers will not need constant mending where seams have sprung loose.

Slip Covers Give Cue to Colors

In redecorating a room you may choose the covers first, and then base the color choice of the room on the materials used. Small rooms should have solid colors as they seem to make it less crowded. The larger rooms can be filled nicely, and economically, with the prints, plaids or floral designs.

Combination slip covers are just as easy to make as those in one material. If you want to freshen and brighten the room with design, have the seat and back of a couch or chair done in plaid or floral while the arms and bottom carry a solid color. The solid used should match as closely as possible one of the pre-dominant colors in the print or plaid.

In using these combinations of fabrics, you can go still further in the decorating scheme by adding a touch of print or plaid to lamp shades or for picture frames used near the furniture to be covered.

In large rooms, you can make your conversational groups each in a different combination. It's effective to have a fireplace group done in print, whereas a group near a window or wall can be in a solid tone, matching a color in the print group, or done in a shade lighter or darker than the wall color.

Add Expensive Look With Smart Patterns

Basic furniture can be inexpensive, and even second-hand if it's well made, repaired and clean. The proper slip cover can make it look several times what you paid for it.

Take, for example, the sofa or couch which must double as a bed at night. One of the nicest types of covers for this is a dust ruffle attached to a slip that fits under the mattress. The scalloped throw will hide the bed, and make it look like a comfortable couch. It is, however, easy to remove when you make up the bed.

Suppose you have a floral chair or studio couch and want to give the room a tailored look. A textured, solid material done in a tailored type will do the trick of conversion. The bottom may have deep pleats all-around the chair or couch, or it may simply have deep kick pleats at the corners.

Two chairs which you want to use in a grouping may have same lines, but their covers are at odds. Make matching slip covers, and they'll look like twins.

Boudoir chairs are comfortable for bedrooms because they're soft yet firm enough to sit in while dressing. If you want to give a new look to an old one, slip cover it in velveteen, one of the jeweled colors so popular now.

Keep Slip Covers Clean, Fresh

Because of the ease with which they zip on and off, you can maintain greater cleanliness with slip covers. Small spots should be treated immediately. Place cardboard or newspapers underneath the cover while doing spot removal, so you do not stain the muslin or original fabric.

Keep Sink Sanitary

Want dishwashing to be an art instead of a chore? Then make it part of your dishwashing routine to pour one tablespoon of an approved chemical drain cleaner down the sink to prevent clogged drains which cause sewer germs to lurk near the sink as well as food and dishes. It's more fun, too, to wash dishes when the drain is clear, clean and fast running.

Deep-Sea Flivver Relieves Traffic

By H. I. Phillips

EXPERIMENTAL AUTOS include bottled gas, push-button brakes, a motor that slides out of the car on a platform and a car that will run under water. Our ambition is to sign a check with an underwater pen for an underwater limousine. The whole idea of a submersible car is exciting. There is not much fun running one on land anymore. In fact, it has become close to impossible.

Every day sees newer and wider highways, viaducts, tunnels and bridges built to ease traffic. But autos have been coming on to the road so fast that the congestion got worse by the hour. You don't need a map when you start on an auto trip; you need patience, a good book and some signalling device to reach rescue squads. In searching for a solution, it seems to us that the underwater car is the answer in all coastal, river and lake areas. What a thrill to turn off a clogged artery, shoot down a sidestreet—kerplump—into the water and get downtown with no further harassment.

For one thing when you are in an underwater car you are freed from all sulphurous dialogues with other drivers. The man who opens the window to shout, "Move over, ya bum!" is doomed unless he is a fancy swimmer. For another thing, no traffic lights, especially those "WALK" ones in zones where no pedestrians have been seen in weeks.

Whether back-seat drivers will be less of a hazard a few fathoms deep is questionable. We fear not. The wife will still chirp, "You should have turned off at that last bell-buoy," and, "Stop at the next reef and check on your map!"

In time, of course, all the comparative advantages of an auto trip underwater will pass. The authorities will start monkeying with the rules and regulations. There will be an underseas motor cop, the submerged blinker-light and the sign "Slow Down. Converging Tides Ahead."

The trouble with "austerity" in our national program is that there are too many Americans who think they are leading the austere life when they take the $3 instead of the $6.50 steak dinner and abandon the search for white-wall tires.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Charity Can Cure Restless Wife

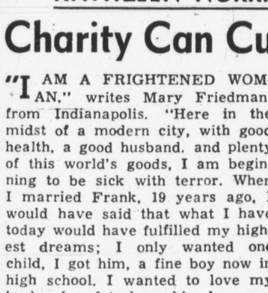

"I AM A FRIGHTENED WOMAN," writes Mary Friedman, from Indianapolis. "Here in the midst of a modern city, with good health, a good husband, and plenty of this world's goods, I am beginning to be sick with terror. When I married Frank, 19 years ago, I would have said that what I have today would have fulfilled my highest dreams; I only wanted one child, I got him, a fine boy now in high school. I wanted to love my husband and to have him love me, and that difficult wish was granted, too. Frank is a wonderful man in every way.

"Well, then, what's the matter? I wish I knew. I've even been to a psychiatrist, but as he began his kindly, sympathetic questions I suddenly began to laugh and then to cry and I unceremoniously left, and didn't go back.

"The symptoms of my trouble—and believe me, it is trouble—are these: I feel a terrible distaste for everything, in sudden fits and starts. Making a bed, discussing meals with my part-time maid, dressing to go out with Frank, lunching with women friends, I will find myself suffocating with a terrible restless feeling, as if I wanted to scream, tear things to pieces, rush out into the open air. Often I find tears running quietly down my cheeks.

"Reading a book seems out of the question now, and things like card games, movies, radio, all the amusements that once meant something to me just make me ache with boredom.

"I told the psychiatrist that I needed excitement, romance, self-expression and as I said it, it sounded so adolescent and immature that I was ashamed. When Frank asks me what I mean by change, romance, self-expression, I don't know. All I know is that I am letting my nerves get out of control and I am afraid of the future.

". . . tears running quietly . . ."

"Finally," says Mary's letter, "please don't advise me to take up Red Cross or hospital work, study a language, go off on a trip by myself, take up book-binding, upholstery or church work. It drives me mad to think of substituting namby-pamby busy work for the raging dissatisfaction deep within me. Sometimes for as much as two consecutive days I will be contented and occupied, then this hunger for something I can't define seizes me and I feel as if I should fly to pieces."

This last sentence reminds me of one of those capable old ladies who sends for a doctor and then gives him a complete diagnosis of her disorder, and tells him what to prescribe.

For Mary here mentions several actual cures for her unhappy condition, but discounts them all, untried, as namby-pamby busy work. And ridiculous as it is for a woman as fortunate as she to fall into this state, yet it is just our comfortable, protected, apparently carefree women who do go into these neurotic despairs, and find it almost impossible to get their feet firmly on the ground again, and once more breathe the air of healthy living and serving and enjoying life.

Well, perhaps the interests of a woman's life are like a bank. Put love and interest into your life from the beginning, from the happy days when everything goes well, and later on you can draw out that love and interest, infinitely increased in volume. Spread your sympathies and activities from the golden days of youth, first love, engagement, marriage, honeymoon, new home, new baby, new friends. Live fully and generously in those years, and when the first flush of zest and enthusiasm begins to fade—as it must—you will have a hundred outlets for your energy that are not essentially dependent upon youth and bloom.

Yes, languages, gardens, crossword puzzles, games, radio, Red Cross, charities all have their place in a balanced life. Obligations to the less fortunate should play a very important part in our lives as American women, and unless you are sharing, and sharing on a pretty generous scale, it is not surprising that you feel possessions and privileges sometimes fall rather flat.

In your case I would pick the lowest slum in the city, and the dirtiest house. Your organized charities will find it for you.

I would go there every day, take care of an invalid, cook children a school lunch, send filthy bedding to a cleaner, wash dishes and wipe kitchen shelves. There would be small glamor and romance in this undertaking, but there would be heartfilling compensations, and just to get home to a hot bath, an affectionate son, a good and loved companion, an appetizing dinner, a freshly turned-down bed, a fat book and a long night's rest would begin to seem to you the miracles of wealth and comfort that they are.

Followers as Numerous As "Sands of the Sea"

LAKE MAHOPAC, N. Y.—An underground Russian church—whose followers "are as numerous as the sands of the sea"—was described before the world-wide council of the Russian Orthodox church outside Russia.

Ivan M. Andreyew, physician and former professor of psychopathology at the University of Petrograd (now Leningrad), said the underground church began forming in 1927 when the Orthodox church split over the issue of communism.

In recent years, he said, information on the secret church has been scarce. But he said he had been in contact recently with several persons who had fled Russia who had received letters from underground church leaders.

"The names of 10 bishops at present in the underground church are known to me," he said. "There are bishops, archbishops and metropolitans. There are many priests. How many, nobody knows."

Founded on the principle that compromise with the Soviet government is incompatible with fidelity to Christ," the underground church's slogan is:

"I shall not tell thy secret to thy enemies. Neither like Judas, will I give the kiss."

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Can You Make A Fresh Start?

By Lawrence Gould

Can you really "make a fresh start"?

Answer: No. The "1951" on the calendar does not make you a different person from what you were yesterday, or alter the fact that you will be the same person tomorrow. Nor does the New Year wipe out the fact that it was you who last year did the things you now wish you had not done. If you want to build a future better than the past—and you can do it!—the materials you will have to work with are the same as ever. But you can find wiser, more effective ways to use them. And if you do, you will have a Happy New Year.

Will loving a person make you dream about him?

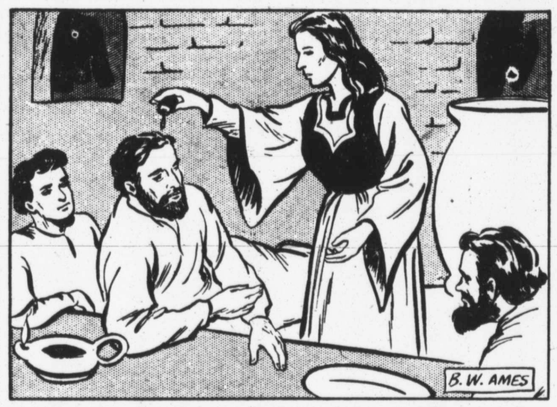

Answer: Not in itself. No matter how dearly you love someone from whom you are separated, the songwriters are mistaken in assuming that you can console yourself by being "with him in your dreams." You'll dream of a loved one only if he symbolizes for you some unconscious inner conflict such as your yearning for someone or something that you feel you "have no right to." Only the surface material of dreams comes from current experiences or emotions—basically, they are ways of gratifying secret wishes.

Do the stars really "twinkle"?

Answer: No, their light is constant and invariable. But the long-accepted theory that atmospheric changes are what make them scintillate has been challenged by two British ophthalmologists, Drs. Hartridge and Weale. They say their experiments have shown that when we watch a light of medium brightness, unless we are concentrating on some detailed pattern, our eyes do not remain stationary, so that the image of the light falls now on one part of the retina and now on another. This causes "apparent fluctuation in both brightness and color."

LOOKING AT RELIGION

IF THE ENTIRE LIFE OF JESUS WERE AS FULLY WRITTEN OUT AS THE PERIOD OF THE PASSION, EMBRACING ONLY THE WEEK FROM THE ANOINTING BY MARY TO THE DEATH OF JESUS, IT WOULD FILL NEARLY 80 VOLUMES AS LARGE AS THE BIBLE.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Hypochondriasis Is Overanxiety

By Dr. James W. Barton

WHILE STILL in my teens, I visited the uncle of a young friend. The uncle looked well, and the doctor said he was well, and yet he seemed to have so many things wrong with him. He had headaches, pains in the stomach and abdomen, was unable to sleep, had excessive perspiration and was unable to work. I chatted with him for a few minutes and after explaining his symptoms at length, he told me he was a hypochondriac, full of ailments and yet with nothing really the matter with him.

"I know I've got something wrong with me because I have a family to support and my relatives are supporting them. If I could be free of my ailments, I'd go to work," he said.

In former times when a physician could find nothing wrong (organically) in a patient, the patient was told so frankly and told to get out and go to work, as work would give him an appetite, cause him to sleep well, and establish a regular bowel habit. Sometimes this advice helped but more often it did not.

In American Practice, Dr. John M. Lyon, Denver, Colorado, states that the treatment of the average patient with hypochondriasis is a difficult task. The first step in the treatment is an attempt to find or understand the causes of the symptoms. Hypochondriasis seems to be a psychological reaction that occurs when a person is unable to meet the competitiveness of everyday life, is loaded with more responsibilities than he can carry, or is faced with failure in a situation where he feels he should succeed. It is impossible for most people to admit that they can't take it, so an excuse must be found.

Failure to achieve success and happiness can be excused if a person is sick and this is the emotional trap in which the hypochrondriac is caught or allows himself to be caught. He believes he is sick and knows that he cannot be accused of malingering (pretending to be sick). Those who fall into this trap are individuals who have a life-long habit of meeting stress situations with body reactions such as a timely accident or illness.

Value Your Health More Than Riches

Some folks think that fine clothes and fine, big houses are the most important things in life, but these things really don't mean too much if a person doesn't feel well enough to enjoy them. Most folks don't realize this, but Mrs. Lucy Braswell, of Route 2, Stone Mountain, Ga., realizes it very well. Mrs. Braswell takes HADACOL, and by taking HADACOL she found she is helping her system overcome deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mrs. Braswell's own statement: "I have been sick for some time with stomach disturbances. I began taking HADACOL and I have been taking it about six weeks. I am so much better and much stronger. I will continue to take HADACOL. It sure has helped me. I tell my friends about HADACOL. I can't praise HADACOL too much. I am 59 years old."

Homemaking News

Well, here we are again. The H. D. classes are still progressing these days. The Freshmen are studying good grooming, the Sophomores are studying color and the Juniors are still working hard and fast on their suits to finish them to be put on display January 27.

We are all looking forward to next week because we have our examinations. Of course we don't care much about the exam, but we are all anxious to get it over with.

We want to remind you about the outsiders tournament next week. The H. E. girls have the concession stand and come on up and buy something from us.

See you next week.

Basketball News

Both the girls' team and the boys' team were eliminated Saturday night in their bid for the first place trophies at the Hermleigh tournament. The Trent girls galloped over our girls with the terrible score of 66-20. The boys score was not so bad. The Hermleigh boys only beat them five points, and that was in the last three minutes. The girls had beaten Ira girls on Thursday night, and the boys beat the Hobbs boys the same night by three points in a thriller that called for three minutes overtime play because of a tied score when the regular time was up.

Three members of our team were on All Tournament Team. They were Lowell Richardson, Doyce Nix, and Inez Stewart.

Both teams won over Ira in a conference game played on Ira's court Tuesday night, January 9. This made the conference record for both teams, three wins to one loss.

January 16, the teams meet Westbrook on Westbrook's court, and January 18, they play Hobbs on their court. Both are conference games. Here's hoping.

Sophomore News

Last week we had quite a few birthdays, and we're having them again this week. Looks like most of the Soph's birthdays are in January, which is a lucky month to have all these important birthdays in it.

Seems as though we only have one more Saturday to go. Everyone seems to be glad, too. Wonder why?

It looks as if wedding bells are going to ring for one of the Sophomore girls. Maurine White received her engagement ring last week. All of us want to wish her all of the happiness in the world.

Fish News

The Freshmen are getting ready to start studying for six weeks and mid-term. Do we dread it!! We all have our fingers crossed.

It seems as if most of the Fish were at school Saturday. Just one more week end the five day school week will begin. Boy, oh boy! !

We are very sorry to hear about Claudia Chapman having the mumps. We hope to have her back with us soon.

Campus Chatter

Loraine High's basketballers came back from the Hermleigh tournament with both second place trophies. Although we had our eyes on the first place trophies, we're proud of the ones that we got.

All the kids up here on the hill are busy getting ready for mid-term exams. The ones that look the most worried of all are the ones that haven't got all their book points and lines of poetry turned in. The deadline for those is January 20.

The latest news is the engagement ring that Maurine White is wearing. The lucky boy is Clayton Hughes.

Senior News

The seniors are all very busy right now making out lists. No, not Christmas lists, but a list of to whom to send invitations. We are to send off our order in a few days.

It seems the shorthand class is having a little trouble with "all those funny jiggers." How about that, Keith?

The Speech class has been reading three act plays and reporting on them. These include: "Paris Bound," "Porgy", "Saturday's Children," and others. We have just finished reading "The Story of Ernie Pyle" from our Reader's Digest.

The Seniors have a new member. She is Betty Owen Bowlin, from Colorado City.

Introducing A Senior

The "blessed event" came to Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stevenson May 1, 1933 at Spur, Texas. They named the bright eyed baby girl Alice Inez Stevenson.

She first went to school at Post, Texas, then traveled on to May, Texas, then to Sidney. Before coming to Loraine last year, she attended school at Arlington.

During Inez's Junior year at Loraine she was in the H. E. Club, and played volley ball. Her Senior year she played basketball, was in the Home Ec. and Speech clubs, and is typist on the annual staff. Another highlight to Inez's Senior year was her marriage to Mr. James Stewart, September 30, 1950.

Some of Inez's favorites are: dish, chicken; actor, Alan Ladd; actress, June Allyson; sport, basketball; ambition, to be a very good housewife.

Inez and James Stewart live 8½ miles north of Loraine in their home which has recently been remodeled. The Seniors of '51 wish to take this opportunity to wish Mr. and Mrs. Stewart a long and happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Sanders of Colorado City visited his sister, Mrs. Homer Wilson Saturday.

Mrs. W. E. Watson of Lubbock spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. S. H. Hart.

NEW SPEAKER SWORN IN

Secretary of State John Ben Shepperd is shown administering the oath of office to the new Speaker of the House of Representatives of the 52nd Texas Legislature, Rep. Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba. Shepperd officially opened the House of Representatives Tuesday, January 9, and presided until the unanimous election of the San Saba attorney as Speaker. Representative Senterfitt is beginning his sixth full term in the Texas House. He is the senior member of the law firm of Senterfitt, Crump and Jameson in San Saba. The Secretary of State convenes the initial session of each Legislature according to requirements of the Constitution and Texas law. Both Shepperd and Senterfitt, in opening remarks to the legislative body, termed this Legislature as one of the most important and crucial in the history of the state.

Our entire stock of ladies ready to wear is for sale. But in the meantime we are making wonderful reductions on any item in the house. Neal Mills, Colorado City, Texas. 1c

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Young Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cochran of San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Holcomb of Sweetwater, and Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Cheek, Sr. of Loraine.

J. L. Crouch of Dublin is here visiting his mother, Mrs. D. E. Crouch.

Cpl. Wayne Taylor visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Taylor, last week end. Since then Wayne has been transferred from Shepparl Air Force Base at Wichita Falls to Chanute Field, Chicago, where he will take an advanced training as air force mechanic.

Our entire stock of ladies ready to wear is for sale. But in the meantime we are making wonderful reductions on any item in the house. Neal Mills, Colorado City, Texas. 1c

E. R. Meek of Whitesboro spent Friday night and Saturday with his mother, Mrs. J. M. Meek and sister, Mrs. Roy Baird.

CARD OF THANKS

We gratefully express our thanks for the many acts of sympathy expressed to us in the beautiful flowers, food and words at the passing of our husband and father. We assure you your thoughtfulness was deeply appreciated.

Veterans' News

Questions and Answers

Q. My nephew was discharged from the Army because of a wound he received in Korea. Is he entitled to VA hospitalization to have his service-connected disability treated, even though he is not a World War 2 veteran?

A. Yes. All veterans are entitled to hospitalization by VA for treatment of service-connected disabilities.

Q. I obtained National Service Life Insurance when I went into service eight years ago. I believe the policy's term period has expired, but I haven't been notified of the fact. I am still in service. What should I do to renew my term policy?

A. Because you are in service, VA will automatically renew your term policy at the higher rate for your age, and your branch of service will deduct the higher premium from your pay. Your service will attempt to notify you in advance of this action. If you do not want the new policy, tell them then. Meanwhile, if you want to know the status of your policy, write to the Insurance Accounts Service, Veterans Administration, Washington 25 D. C., giving your full name, address, service number and insurance policy number.

Q. I filed a claim for a non service-connected pension, and I have a question about the $2,500 per year income limitation which applies to me as I have dependents. I received a check on December 26, 1950, for selling real estate, but I won't cash it until 1951. Is the check considered income for 1950 or 1951?

A. The check must be applied to your 1950 income. The general rule is that acceptance of a check results in income in the year it is received, even though it is cashed later.

Into the Fogs

Sport, amateur and pro, is coming through the deepest fog it has ever known. The larger part of this fog is due to the ever-extending spread of the draft.

Grantland Rice

Another heavy problem is television. There is nothing any genius can do about the draft. Its encircling arms are gathering them in between the ages of 19 and 25, the true athletic age, day by day. But television can be handled. Television can afford to pay large sums but it is a question as to whether any sum can make up for half-filled stands. Even games televised far away from the home scene can still cut in on other sectors.

"A sellout type of game can handle television," one of the leading athletic directors said recently. "But who can tell in advance just when a sellout game will arrive? I think the Big Nine handled the situation better than any other section. And their crowds were the largest in the country.

"Television has hit Los Angeles and vicinity harder than any other place. This city has taken quite a beating, both in its pro and amateur football. You apparently can't make their football people see that thousands of followers would rather have the game brought to them for nothing than pay to travel to the stands. Each year there will be more and more television sets, which won't be any help. It is only on rare occasions, such as the Army-Navy game, that you'll have both television and a complete sell-out. These occasions will come along rarely in the future."

The scope of the draft makes any form of prediction the rankest sort of guesswork. Predictions are usually guesswork, anyway. But with so many stars in army, navy or air force uniforms, the prophet will be a blind man peering into deep darkness.

Fighters in the Black

How many boxers or fighters save their money and have a few rupees for a rainy morning? This query came up again when a traveler from the Argentine ran into an old-timer remembered as Luis Angel Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas.

"Firpo was smart financially when he was up here meeting Bill Brennan, Jack Dempsey and others," he said. "He saved most of his money. I recall in the training period for the Firpo-Dempsey fight that Dempsey spent $2,000 a week for sparring partners and Firpo spent about $400. Firpo saved almost every quarter he picked up.

"I still recall the admiration he drew from Bill McGeehan for his careful qualities. The Argentine fighter had the ring hangers on wild. They never picked a dime from him. As a result Firpo today has a big farm of many thousands of acres outside of Buenos Aires, stocked with cattle. He is a wealthy man. He has a healthy bank account on the side. He weighs only 240 today against the 223 he weighed against Dempsey. He has taken good care of himself these last 25 years.

The fighters around Firpo's time were a careful lot. Dempsey fought for more than $10,000,000 during his ring career. He drew much bigger gates than Joe Louis or anyone else has ever drawn except Gene Tunney—who fought Dempsey twice.

Dempsey made money, spent money and saved money. There will be no collections taken up for Dempsey. I've called him twice in the last two weeks only to find that he was on his way west or on his way to Canada to referee some wrestling match.

Dempsey gets a kick out of handling these wrestlers, now and then exchanging punches where he never gets the worst of it. A wrestler can't punch. Even Frank Gotch was a third-rate fighter. The old Mauler, meaning the guy from Manassa, has a fine home in Los Angeles for his two daughters and his restaurant here has always done well.

Tunney and Others

Gene Tunney made money, a lot of money, and married money. Tunney certainly has no financial worries and never will have. He is a canny, careful administrator of his affairs. He is also a smart investor.

Among the modern group of fighters both Ray Robinson and Jake LaMotta won't need any benefits. Both have done extremely well financially and haven't thrown too much coin away.

"It would surprise you," Eddie Eagan said recently, "to know how much money a number of boxers are putting away each year. Some of them are not too well known. You don't read much about their fights. But they do all right."

SUCCESS STORY

Runs $2,000 Into Fortune

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—H. Leslie Hoffman, the west coast's largest radio and television manufacturer, is the hero of an almost unbelievable success story. He ran $2,000 capital into a $30 million-a-year business in just nine years.

After college he took up salesmanship in the depressing thirties, working mostly for Firestone at $250 a month. In 1939 he went in business for himself selling a fluorescent lamp he had designed. Some customers needed transformers in order to use the lamps, so he went into the transformer business, too.

Then one day in 1941, he went out to the old Mission Bell Radio Co. to collect a $400 debt for his firm. A sheriff's sale sign was tacked on the front door. Hoffman put up $2,000 of his own money, got friends to invest $8,000 more, and he was in the radio business. Three days later came Pearl Harbor.

Shortly after that the government was looking for a way of hoisting antennas for its "Gibson girl" radio transmitters on life rafts. Hoffman suggested kites.

From Radios to Kites

"We don't know a thing about making kites," he told United States procurement people, "so we have no preconceptions."

He got the contract and became the world's largest producer of kites, turning out 300,000 during the war years.

But during those years he held weekly staff meetings on postwar planning. Television, he admits, was the top topic.

Before he came out with the first video set in 1948, Hoffman experimented with 5,000 cabinet designs. Always the salesman, he knew the housewife's influence on how the set would go with the rest of the furniture.

With television carrying 70 per cent of the load, Hoffman grossed $3,525,000 by the end of 1948. In 1949 that figure was tripled to $11,987,000 gross with a $1,270,360 net profit.

Hoffman says the secret of his success is hard work.

He is also a great believer in human labor-management relations. There are two unions in the plant and there never has been a major work stoppage. He or one of his top aides meets twice a month with employe representatives to hear—and act on—gripes.

Employes who are neither absent nor tardy during the week get a 10 cents hourly bonus. It costs him an average of $4 weekly for the 2,700 employes, many of them women, but he believes he licked the absentee problem.

Football Video Costly

"Besides," he says, "it has increased production 15 per cent."

To western gridiron fans Hoffman is an angel. He sponsors telecasts of Pacific Coast conference college games and high school games in Houston, Albuquerque, Salt Lake City and San Antonio.

The Pacific Coast conference telecasts cost him about $300,000 during the past season, as he guarantees the top 20 per cent on an anticipated gate.

He believes that if he can get college football over the next year via television, it will create thousands of new fans for the game.

He also believes that football is the greatest single attraction on television but knows that the colleges cannot be expected to stand the box office loss during the transition period.

Remains of Sloth Sets Age Of Fossil at 100,000 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The giant ground sloth made its home in the Philadelphia area 100,000 years ago, the Academy of Natural Sciences reports.

The academy credited the recent important fossil discovery in the area to James Ruhle, 14, a high school pupil who saw the bones unearthed in an excavation of the New Jersey turnpike on the banks of Pennsauken creek.

Ruhle reported the find to Dr. Horace G. Richards, the academy's curator of geology and paleontology. Dr. Richards studied the fossils and then announced they were parts of the vertebra of the large, fur coated bearlike mammal.

A few feet from the remains young Ruhle also reported he found a collection of oyster shells estimated at 50 million years old. This discovery, said Dr. Richards, proves further that the Atlantic ocean in prehistoric times covered virtually all of south New Jersey.

Trash Collectors Divide $7,220 Found in Refuse

DAYTON, O.—A "trash pile treasure" of $7,220 was split equally recently between five Dayton trash collectors.

Judge Don R. Thomas gave the five rubbish men the money they found in an Oakwood trash pile last February—a $1,444 Christmas present to each.

The men were making a routine collection at the home of Louis Preonas in Dayton when they found the money. Preonas knew nothing about it and refused to claim it. Thomas decided finders were keepers.

Billy the Kid

Pardon Is Denied

SANTA FE, N. M.—A 91-year-old man who claims to be the notorious desperado, Billy the Kid, was refused a pardon by Governor T. J. Mabry.

After a lengthy conference with the old man, Mabry said, "No action will be taken because I don't think this is Billy the Kid."

The old man said he now is using the name of Henry Roberts, although at first he said his first name was Olli. He denied that he had committed many of the crimes often attributed to Billy the Kid.

Roberts, a ramrod-straight little man, was dressed in a new fringed buckskin jacket and a new pair of levis for his conference with the governor.

Archbishop Claims Ancient Scrolls Prove Prophecies

CHICAGO, Ill. — Proof that Christ's coming actually was foretold before He came is contained in ancient religious scrolls discovered in the Holy Land, a high Syrian religious authority reports.

Mar Athansius Yeshu Samuel, the Syrian archbishop of Jerusalem, recently brought several of the scrolls to the United States.

He said they also reveal where John the Baptist may have got the ideas he preached to the followers of Jesus, and the probable source of many Biblical phrases such as "I am the way, the truth and the life." He reported that as the result of study of the Isaiah scroll it is regarded as indisputable fact that Christ's coming was foretold long before the event took place.

The scroll, which contains the entire book of Isaiah and verses foretelling the Mesiah, predates Christ's birth by several centuries and contradicts theories that the book and the prophecies were written after the coming and merely made to conform with what was an already accomplished fact.

The "Habbakuk commentary" scroll reveals the prophecies in the book of Habbakuk as applying to "specific historic events" instead of "vague symbolism," the archbishop said.

Many persons believe the Isaiah scroll found in a Dead Sea cave was the same manuscript placed in Jesus' hands in the temple as a youth when His followers wanted to show Him how His coming had been awaited, as described in the New Testament.

Many circumstances point to this belief, the archbishop said—the location of the cave, near where the temple probably stood; the careful state of preservation; and the likelihood that these scrolls may have been placed there by close followers of Christ. But proof is difficult if not impossible and this phase of the scrolls' interpretation may remain a permanent controversy.

Travels of Radioactive Mosquitoes Are Checked

SAN FRANCISCO—The state of California conducted a "radioactive-mosquito project" last fall that gave information about flight, distance-covering ability, and life span of the biting insects.

The atomic energy commission furnished radioactive phosphorus that was used to "tag" about half a million mosquito larvae in the experiment.

According to Dr. Wilton I. Halverson, state public health director, three separate groups of "wigglers" were immersed in chemically treated tanks of water in a field near Turlock, Cal. They emerged as flying adults.

Of nearly two million mosquitoes caught in light traps or by hand-collection methods, an average of one in 1,000 was detected by Geiger counter as a member of the radioactive group.

The maximum distance covered by the "atomic" mosquitoes was two miles downwind and slightly less upwind, with the insects spreading out fairly equally over a total of 1,000 acres.

Woman, 81, Walks 57 Miles In 11 Hours, 30 Minutes

PORT HURON, Mich.—Just because "it was so pretty out", Mrs. Sylvia Carlen, an 81-year-old grandmother, recently walked 57 miles—from Detroit to Port Huron.

Carrying her lunch in her pocket, Mrs. Carlen made the trip in 11 hours and 30 minutes. She stopped only once, to eat, and averaged nearly five miles an hour.

She started out at 5 a.m. from Detroit. Her goal was the international bridge linking Port Huron with Canada, but at 4:30 p.m.—two miles short of the bridge—friends picked her up in an automobile.

"It was so nice of them to drive by I just couldn't turn down the ride," she said.

Mrs. Carlen was only five days short of her 82nd birthday when she made the trip. She wore high-topped hiking shoes, a short skirt and a workmen's cap. She had made the trip from Detroit on foot twice before, a good many years ago.

At the end of the trip she concluded, "The older you get the worse your walking becomes."

Add Spices and Herbs To Vegetables For Extra Flavor, Color

SPICE THE VEGETABLE and keep it interesting. Your family's enjoyment of these vegetables will pay you dividends not only in their health and well-being, even during winter months, but will also add luster to your reputation as a clever cook.

Though you may rely heavily on root and canned vegetables in the absence of produce from your own vegetable garden, there's no reason why vegetables should be dull eating. A dash of spice here, a sprinkling of herbs there lift them out of the ordinary eating class to a gourmet category.

String beans with Freshly Grated Nutmeg

FOR A GOURMET touch,, add a sprinkle of freshly grated nutmeg to buttered string beans.

Leftover tongue combines with several vegetables like carrots, green beans, potatoes and onions in this hearty casserole. The horseradish seasoning gives a zippy flavoring to the white sauce which is so delicious with mild flavored vegetables and sliced tongue.

LYNN SAYS:
Give These Costumes To Vegetable Service

Using a tightly covered pan, use 3-4 cups cut vegetables, and cook with 2 tablespoons salad oil and just enough salted water to cover. These panned vegetables have a new and delightful flavor.

Hollow out the halves of egg plant. Stuff with cooked egg plant, mushrooms and onion in cream sauce. Cover with crumbs. Bake in casseroles 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400°).

A harvest ham dinner will be especially good when the vegetable served with it has green beans, cooked until tender but left a lovely green, then spiced with a grating of nutmeg.

Licenses, Training Urged For Sitters

State legislatures and city councils throughout the nation, have been petitioned to pass laws requiring the licensing of all baby sitters, private kindergartens, day care agencies, and nursery and play schools.

It is suggested that such licensing be regulatory in nature and not for revenue.

The present lack of standards for these persons and institutions is highly detrimental to the health, safety, and general welfare of infants and pre-school-age children, petitioners believe. While some of the more progressive cities and states have already begun to inquire into the matter of licensing pre-school centers, entirely too many have been lax and indifferent to this need, many parents contend. Little or nothing has been done, to date, by city and state governing bodies to require physical examinations of baby sitters.

Some parents think baby sitters should, in addition, be required to obtain the signatures of two persons in their community, testifying to their moral character and reliability. They believe that regular courses of study should be required of all baby sitters and directors and their assistants in day care agencies and nursery and play schools and suggest that, as a temporary measure, these courses could be made available in the form of evening classes sponsored by local civic groups or governing bodies

Save Money On This Home Mixed Cough Syrup

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful for real relief.

Make a syrup with 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) in a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of medicine that will please you by its quick action. It never spoils, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Pre-Historic Gabie

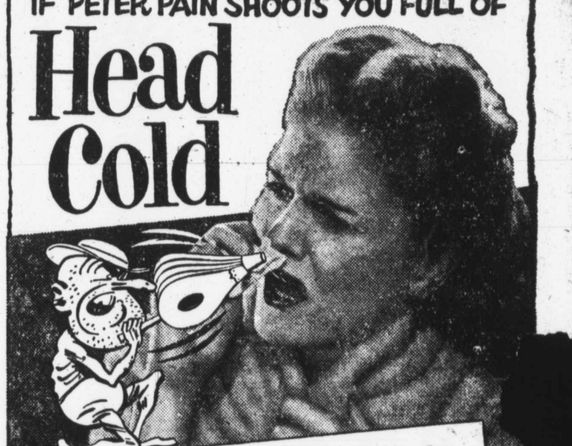

The Cro-Magnon man was the glamou. boy of Europe during the Stone Ages. This tall, handsome, and intelligent man lived between about 30,000 and 10,000 B.C. Like most handsome men, the Cro-Magnonman was clothes-conscious. It was he who discovered how to make better garments by cutting pieces of skin and sewing them together.

Use Delicious Chewing-Gum Laxative
REMOVES WASTE NOT GOOD FOOD
● When you can't sleep — feel just awful because you need a laxative — do as MILLIONS do—chew FEEN-A-MINT.
Doctors say many other laxatives, taken in large doses, start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where they often flush away nourishing food you need for pep and energy! You feel weak, tired.
But gentle FEEN-A-MINT is different! Taken as recommended, it works chiefly in the lower bowel — removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that weak feeling — you feel fine, full of life! Get FEEN-A-MINT, 25¢, 50¢, or only 10¢

Look at all these EXTRA FEATURES!

Yes, you can believe your own eyes . . . You can take a good look and see why Firestone Tires pull better and last longer.

Notice the bars. You'll see they're curved to cup and grip the soil for a firm, sure hold to eliminate slippage.

Examine the openings between the bars. See how they flare out at the shoulders to permit automatic soil release. You'll notice there's no "wedged-in" pinching nor bar-end soil cramping.

Look at the treads of these tires. Observe how wide, how flat they are for full traction contact, long, even tread life.

Only Firestone gives you all these extra features. Only Firestone gives you your choice of top quality in either Open Center or Traction Center design. So, before you buy, go to your Firestone Dealer or Store and LOOK!
