THE FIGHTING PRESIDENT

U. S. Elects Truman, Democratic Congress

"Now maybe you would like to know why I have made this fight for the people. I will try to tell you. It is a matter of the things I believe in."

President Harry S. Truman spoke those words to the nation's voters on the night before election. And he believed hard enough to get himself re-elected to another term in the White House.

Perhaps he made a wish on a star, too; but in the end it was his own dogged, courageous fight that won him what amounted to a mandate to serve.

His 371 speeches and 31,500 miles of campaign travel, his will to win, his unflinching conviction that he would win and finally the justification by the people of his confidence made Mr. Truman's re-election a truly amazing political phenomenon.

He is President today despite the political experts, despite the lethargy and lack of support within his own Democratic party and despite all the logic that was advanced to show that a Republican administration was needed for the good of the nation.

Upset the Dope.

What happened? How did Harry Truman manage to upset the dope? Following the initial shock of sheer nation-wide disbelief that he could have made it, it became apparent that there was not one but a combination of several factors operating unobtrusively in the President's favor.

The surprisingly heavy vote was a vital point. It has been axiomatic for a long time in the U. S. that as the number of voters increases so do the chances of the Democratic party.

High prices, high rents, the housing shortage—all of which Mr. Truman emphasized strongly in connection with his assaults on the "second worst" 80th congress aided in turning the people away from a Republican administration.

Organized labor concentrated on getting its members out to vote against members of congress who had supported the Taft-Hartley law, and that circumstance rebounded to the President's benefit.

The fact that virtually no one realized—with the possible exception of Mr. Truman and a few of his loyal subordinates—that the tide of the campaign had turned in the last two weeks before the election.

Mr. Truman's slugging, earthy drive during the last three weeks before November 2, and conversely, Dewey's insistence upon maintaining the bland, high-level tone to his campaign brought the President a lot of votes.

Finally, the farm states did not come in nearly as strongly Republican as they had been expected to. Mr. Truman had succeeded in planting a fear, in his Midwest campaigning, that the GOP would do away with farm support prices.

Thus, at 11:30 a. m. (EST) on November 3, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey conceded the election to President Truman, shortly after the pivotal states of Ohio, Illinois and California had definitely gone Democratic.

What came the nation expect from the next four years of Democratic government under President Truman?

Foreign Policy Stays. U. S. foreign policy will remain basically unchanged, keeping as its main spring the European Recovery Program. As a matter of fact, it would have retained its status quo under a Republican administration, too. But in any event it is reasonable to assume that most American voters cast their ballots not so much on the basis of foreign policy as on domestic issues.

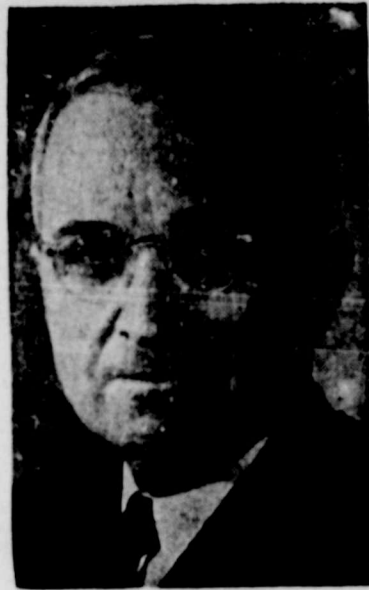

Whether or not much, if anything, will be done about the Taft-Hartley act is more of a question than it seems.

In the first place, although the Democrats have a nominal majority in both houses of congress, they are a long way from being in control.

The Splinter Parties

Neither Henry Wallace's Progressives nor J. Strom Thurmond's Dixiecrats turned up with a decisive effect on the election. The total impact on the national electorate of Wallace's "love everybody, including Russia" philosophy was extremely small. He polled only slightly more than a million votes, made no great inroads in any state.

Thurmond and the southern state rights party carried four states, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, proving that the Democrats can win an election without a completely solid South.

He fought and won

ity in both houses of congress, it remains to be seen if they will have a dominating workable majority with enough strength, for instance, to repeal or amend the law.

Also, some Democratic congressmen are not convinced that the Taft-Hartley law is as black a thing as it has been painted.

One of the first demands that President Truman and the Democratic 81st congress will get from the people will be to do something about high prices and inflation. Action along this line probably will take the form of price controls—perhaps wage controls as well. Mr. Truman is likely to try again to get congress to pass the 10 point anti-inflation legislation he first elucidated a year ago.

Truman Receives 304 Electoral Votes to Win

During the dramatic early hours of the election returns, electoral votes seemed back and forth between Governor Dewey and President Truman, changing as the tide of popular votes from each of the states was tabulated.

In the final compilation, President Truman garnered a total of 304 electoral votes, 38 more than the 266 which were necessary for him to be elected.

Governor Dewey collected 139 electoral votes and J. Strom Thurmond drew the Dixiecrats votes of Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina which totaled 38. Wallace failed to get a single vote.

Tabulated below are the electoral returns by states:

Tigers Beat Meridian; Glen Rose Coming Here To Play Friday Night

The Hico Tigers trekked to Meridian last Friday and won their fourth district game by a score of 14-7.

The Tigers kicked off to Meridian with a strong wind back of them and on the fourth play Meridian was forced to punt. The Tigers took over after the punt on about the 50-yard line and did not turn the ball loose until they had scored the first touchdown. The touchdown was made on a 10-yard pass from Burden to Allen. Allen kicked extra point to make the score 7-0.

Things got rougher and there was not any more scoring until early in the fourth quarter. Odell Terry intercepted a Meridian pass and a good block by Hill made it possible for Terry to run the remaining 40 yards for a touchdown. Allen again kicked extra point to make the score 14-0.

Meridian made their touchdown on a long pass over the goal line, late in the fourth quarter. Wee-hunt bucked over for extra point. The game ended with the score 14-7 in favor of Hico.

Outstanding for the Tigers was the defensive play of O. Terry, Burden, and Simpson.

The Tigers meet the strong Glen Rose team on Tiger Field Friday night at 8 p. m. This promises to be a real battle because both teams have won four district games and lost one. The winner of this game will still have a slim chance of ending in a tie for conference honors with Valley Mills, if the Mills were to lose one of their remaining games.

The Glen Rose team has a good passing attack and the Tigers will have a job stopping them in the air. This promises to be an air attack against Hico's running game.

Hico's injured list should be recovered enough to see action and the Tigers will be at full strength for the first time since the Valley Mills game.

Let's everyone be on hand at Tiger Stadium Friday night to see this promising thriller, and this will be the last home game for the Tigers this season.

The Hico and Iredell game will be played on Thursday night, Nov. 18 at Iredell in place of scheduled night of Nov. 19.

Girl Scouts Plan Fun At Armistice Party With Boy Scouts

Monday night we mostly discussed about a party the Girl and Boy Scouts are having Thursday night at 7:00. I'm sure we are going to have a lot of fun.

We played several games, which were a lot of fun. We also danced the Virginia Reel and some other dances that were a lot of fun.

We repeated the Scout Promise after Bobbie Louise Robinson. We sang our song and were dismissed about 9:00. WILMA WOODARD, Scribe, Hico Girl Scouts, Troop 1.

Veterans' News

Student veterans who acquire dependents or additional dependents while in training under the GI Bill should notify the Veterans Administration as soon as possible in order to qualify for increased subsistence allowance payments.

Notice of dependency change should be sent to the VA regional office in which the veterans' records are kept. The notice should be accompanied by legal evidence of the dependency, such as certified copies of public records of birth, baptism or marriage.

VA increases subsistence payments as of date it is notified and not retroactively to the date the veteran actually acquired the dependent.

Veterans who have received benefits from the Veterans Administration and have been assigned "C" numbers should place certain public records in their case folders if they think their beneficiaries might be entitled to compensation and pension benefits after they die.

To establish claims for payment, veterans' widows, children and dependent parents must submit public documents to VA as proof of dependency, age and relationship.

If necessary records were filed in the veterans' claims folder, his dependents would be spared the delays involved in obtaining them from other sources.

These include a certified copy of the public record of marriage; certified copies of previous marriages and copies of court records of divorce and annulment; copies of birth certificates of all children under 18; and a copy of the veterans' birth certificate. The veteran claim number should be written on all papers to insure positive and ready identification.

SINGING AT CARLTON

Mr. Jordan said they were expecting some real good singers, and added that everyone was invited to attend.

Local FFA Member Wins Expense-Paid Trip to Kansas City

Clynton Loyd Robertson was winner of the subscription contest conducted by Southern Agriculturalist. He sold 43 subscriptions and won an all expense paid trip to the national Future Farmers of America Convention that will be held in Kansas City, Missouri November 14th through 18th.

Clynton Loyd will catch the Santa Fe Future Farmer Special train that will leave Dallas Sunday morning, November 14. Most all chapters in the state will have representatives on the train. We are expecting a good report from Clynton Loyd when he returns from Kansas City.

We are working on the Grass Identification Contest. We haven't determined the high point men yet since we have only secured 25 specimens of grasses out of 41. In the Identification Contest each boy must know the common name of the grass, its value for grazing, whether considered good, fair, or poor. Whether annual or perennial. Its growth habits, growing season, methods of spreading and the effect of heavy grazing on the plant.

There are 42 varieties of grass in this area, 15 are rated as good, 15 are rated fair and 11 poor. In gathering our specimens to study we have had trouble finding any of the good and fair grasses in average pastures. We have been able to find all grasses rated poor in nearly all pastures visited.

Dewey township in Walsh county, N. D., gave President Truman 35 votes. Governor Dewey only 20.

Brooklyn voters complained that a Democratic poll watcher was electioneering. He was wearing a necktie with a picture of President Truman painted on it.

Mr. Truman carried his own precinct in Independence, Mo. He received 197 votes as compared with 135 for Governor Dewey.

To Dunk or Not To Dunk?

Dunking doughnuts is Sober Hopkins' favorite morning pastime ... and for a long time Ma Hopkins has been trying to break him of the habit. Fools it sets a bad example for the children.

So one morning she puts a heavy frosting of chocolate on the doughnuts ... figuring that will stop him. Sober thinks it over for a while and then: Dunk! Taste? Smile!! And Sober compliments the missus on the lovely mocha flavor!

I guess there'll always be two schools of thought: to dunk or not to dunk. But from where I sit, it's a matter of personal choice and taste—like some folks prefer beer to cider, ale to beer. And the less we criticize those differences of taste, the better.

In fact, Ma Hopkins got so serious about the flavor of chocolate-covered doughnuts dunked in coffee, that she tried it herself. Now— you've guessed it—she's a daily dunker, too!

There's no problem to supplying toy telephones for doll houses. The real problem is to furnish real telephone service for every real home wanting it. Some time will pass before this will be completely possible. We are trying to meet a huge and constantly increasing demand for telephone service in the face of continued shortages of vital materials. But we are making every effort to use all available material to furnish service for as many people as possible—and in the shortest possible time.

The boys and girls of the Freshmen class were glad to see Thursday come around because it was a holiday. Everyone was hoping that we would get Friday too, but we didn't. It seemed funny to go to school three days and then skip a day.

SOPHOMORE

As this fine morning rolls around I am going to tell what is going on in the Sophomore room. Jim Kennedy is busy studying Algebra and advertising Juicy Fruit chewing gum. Mary Nell K. and Barbara M. are busy talking when Mrs. Segrest isn't looking but all in all it is just like any other class.

JUNIOR

This week, your reporter is going to see what happens in the Junior room during lunch hour.

I see Wendell and Pat back in the corner talking about something that seems to be serious at some moments and very funny at others. Myrna is driving us crazy since she learned the words to "Green Lights." She serenades everyone most of the time. Darrell is usually very interested in plane geometry.

There goes a streak, it must be Frances McCullough, and here comes another and it must be Lester. Glen is making wise cracks as fast as he can think of them.

There seems to be a series of Freshmen and Junior boys in the Junior cloak room for some peculiar reason, wonder what it is. About this time Mr. Sirman walks in and catches Lester in some kind of trouble. Of course he calms everyone down. After this first bell rings, and the fun is over for one day, but everyone is ready and waiting for the next day.

SENIOR

We are very proud of our football boys for winning the game Friday night. They played a good game.

Congratulations to the sixth and seventh grades for a very good chapel program last week. We had the rest of the pictures made for the annual last week.

HOMEMAKING NEWS

During FFA week, the home-making girls wore red and white ribbon pennants pinned on their blouses. Thursday, we wore red skirts and white blouses, and on Thursday night about 30 of us met at the city park for a weiner roast. After the party most of us went to see the movie, "On an Island with You." The last day of FFA week was climaxed when the photographer came to school to take our pictures as a group.

SPORTS NEWS

Well it looks like the Tigers had another one of those hair-raising games last Friday night with the Meridian Yellow Jackets.

In the early part of the first half, Burden passed to Allen for Hico's first touchdown, then Allen kicked for the extra point putting Hico in front, 7-0. And the first half ended that way. It wasn't until the fourth quarter that Hico scored again. I am proud to say that it was a line-man that made Hico's second touchdown. He is Odell Terry. Odell intercepted a pass on about the 50 yard line and ran all the way for the touchdown and Allen kicked the extra point making the score 14-0. Then Meridian came back and made 7 points. The final score was, Hico 14, Meridian 7.

Friday night, November 12, Hico plays Glen Rose here. Let's all come out and see another swell game. By the way, we sure liked the way Hico turned out for the Meridian game. It sure helps to see so many from Hico backing them up.

SPOTLIGHT

It's Friday, the paper is out so let's read the spotlight. Say kids, I've thought of a new idea to spring on mommy and papa when they say, "Sorry, can't go out tonight." Tell them if it wasn't for you, the Spotlight couldn't be written, cause if they say "no" and you don't go then I have nothing to tell. But luck was with me this week; everyone was out as usual. I'll start back from last Sunday night and bring you up to date on the latest Hico happenings! Sunday night, seven thirty and, Jimmie and Milton! I'm having trouble figuring out which nights are their dating nights. Guess it's Sunday through Saturday.

Monday night, we all went to Hamilton to the event of the season. The Negro football game! James L. and Odell T. are yelling for the "Inkspots" and Betty Lou and Mary M. were yelling for the "Chocolate Drops." Pete H. Wanda M. Billy and Louellen were there.

Shirley was freezing and Vernon, being a gentleman, asked the man next to him for his coat. Glen and Patsy Jo sit on the opposite side. Guess Patsy Jo was trying to get some new yells from the Negro Pep Squad. Jo and Jim, Paul and Betty Jane sound O. K. when they sing together, but I wish someone would teach them another song. "Life's Evening Sun" is getting old.

On Tuesday night you can always depend on Wendell and Ione to be out. Another couple seeing the show was Flossie and Bill.

Wednesday night finds the weather cooler, the couples closer. In the show and around town I saw Myrna, Delbert, Jimmie, Milton, O. J., Jo Nell, and Barbara and Garland.

What's this I see Thursday night? Oh, a weiner roast. Wonder why it was over so early? Was it because of the cold weather, or the fact that they were going to the show afterwards. In the show together were some old steadies, Glen and Patsy Jo, Charlotte, Buck, Paul, Betty Jane, and a few new couples; Benny T., Louise L. Sammie S., Wynell T., Douglas H., Bonnie B., and Mary S. and Joe M.

Let's go to Meridian and see if Hico made the trip over there. Yes, there's Jean and Jerry and Lois R. and Leroy E. I wonder if Shirley and La Verne are definitely or intentionally missed the pep squad bus? Anyway they came back with Ralph and Vernon.

My there's a lot of dirty people in Hico. Know why? Well, have you ever heard the saying that everyone takes a bath on Saturday night? And have you ever been down town on main and fourth St. of Hico on a Saturday night. If you have you know what I mean. Everyone and their dogs are there and they surely aren't taking baths.

A few dirty people I saw riding around were Mary and Odell, Betty and James and La Verne and Ralph. Seen in the chicken shack were more people, who obviously, by the amount of food they were eating, weren't watching their waist lines. They were Jo and Jim and Mona and Norman.

Milton picked Jimmie up on the dot of ten and away they went. In the mid-night show, throwing pop corn, talking and enjoying themselves sit Shirley and Vernon, Barbara and Garland, Mary Nell and C. H., Patsy Jo and Glen and Melvin and Norma Ruth.

Sunday afternoon, Jo and Jim went on a picnic. The picnic spot? Glen Rose.

Sunday night in church, making up for their Saturday night behavior, sit Shirley and Vernon. Over at Hamilton the same night are Jimmie and Milton.

Well, I've given a quick review on this past week's happenings, from Sunday through Sunday. Hope I didn't leave anyone out. If I did just send me a message on a moon beam and I'll gladly correct the error.

Byrd Expedition Aided Oil Exploration In Hamilton County

A charge of dynamite, set off in the bleak region near the South Pole during the Byrd Expedition of the early '30s, set off a train of events which today gave promise of making the search for oil in Hamilton County quicker and cheaper.

The explosion was set off during the Byrd Antarctic Expedition of 1933-1935 by Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, second in command and scientific advisor of the expedition, as a part of some seismic measurement experiments.

Dr. Poulter, nationally known scientist who now is the associate director of Stanford Research Institute, Palo Alto, California, last year presented his new method of seismic exploration to the Institute of Inventive Research, San Antonio. Dr. Poulter then was on the staff of the Armour Research Institute, Chicago.

The Institute of Inventive Research is a non-profit public service organization endowed by Tom Slick, Texas oil producer and rancher, to provide aid for inventors. The Institute agreed to underwrite further research on Dr. Poulter's new development, provided he would conduct the experiment.

On Thursday, Nov. 4, at Essar Ranch near San Antonio, the new way of making seismic tests for oil was unveiled. Dr. Poulter and Dr. Harold Vagtberg, president of the Institute, held a press conference.

Then newspaper men were taken into the mesquite brush on the ranch for a demonstration. Light charges in the explosive pattern were set up on stakes above the ground, spread around the area to be tested, and all were exploded together.

The new method contrasts with the present system of firing a single, large charge in a hole of considerable depth. The Institute staff sees the principal advantages of the Poulter method over those currently in use as being the elimination of shot holes and their attendant costs, and the greater speed with which areas may be mapped.

Seismic recording equipment identical with that now generally in use is employed by the new method. Tests have shown, Dr. Vagtberg said, that the above-ground method reduces danger of damaging nearby structures of concrete or other solid material. It also eliminates the dangers of falling stones.

Use of Ample Rations
For Cattle Urged by Many Authorities

The old saying, "You can't starve a profit into livestock", has a new slant this winter.

Livestock authorities are advocating not only that enough protein and roughage be fed to prevent starvation, but that these relatively cheap feeds be used generously enough to carry livestock through the winter in good condition.

"With cattle and other livestock commanding the prices they do, there is no excuse for winter losses this season," Louisiana's beef cattle specialist, W. T. Cobb, recently said. "A full supply of hay with supplement, and we can come out of the winter with a more thrifty herd of cattle and better calves and more of them."

The need for good feeding is greater than usual in Texas this fall, Dr. H. C. Banks, Extension veterinarian, points out. In average years, beef and dairy cattle enter winter months in good condition after feeding on green grass. This year, however, many cattle are already suffering from lack of green feed; and many cows that are now carrying calves may not be in condition to give birth and take care of their calves. He suggests that in addition to protein feeding, plenty of good quality hay be available for cattle.

Even in Wisconsin, which must ship in protein concentrates from other states at relatively higher costs, dairymen and other stockmen are being urged to feed liberal amounts of relatively cheap feeds this winter.

"There are good reasons to feed all livestock possible and to feed well-balanced rations this winter," says Dr. Gus Bohnstedt, University of Wisconsin authority.

Research, as well as practical experience, proves that it often is costly to attempt to "save" feeds during the winter.

When the Woodward, Oklahoma, Experiment Station fed one group of steers only one pound of cottonseed cake, daily per head, on winter range, 135 pounds of cake per head were "saved". These steers, however, gained seventy and one half pounds less per head than steers which were fed two pounds of cottonseed cake, daily per head.

Steers receiving the two pounds of protein concentrate daily gained 40.9 pounds more per head during the winter, and 29.6 pounds more the next spring.

Feeding early enough, as well as adequately, is important in maintaining cattle and other livestock during the fall and winter, livestock authorities point out. "Caking" on the range, or feeding of cottonseed meal on the farm, should start as soon as forage is dry or scarce, and continue until green grazing is ample.

Breeding cows that receive ample protein concentrate produce more milk for calves, with result that calves are heavier at weaning.
The cows also are in condition to produce a better, earlier calf crop the next season.

On the average range or pasture, dry beef cows require about one and one-half pounds of protein concentrate, daily; and bred cows about two and one-half pounds for 60 days before calving. After calving, feeding two and one-half to three pounds, daily per cow, increases milk production for the calves.

Feeding 2 to 3 pounds of cottonseed meal, pellets or cake will supply the protein needs for yearlings or older steers or bulls during the winter or when forage is short. Older steers wintered on the range for fattening on grass should receive 3 to 6 pounds of protein concentrate daily.

Texas' New U. S.
Senator Expresses
Humble Gratitude

Austin, Nov. 8.—Texas' new junior United States Senator, Lyndon Johnson of Johnson City, took time out this week to express his "humble gratitude for the faith and loyalty of the hundreds of thousands of Texans" who cast their votes for him in the general election.

The tall, hefty son of a pioneer Texas legislator said:

"I just can't find it in my heart to bear any grudge against those who used their money and their voices in an effort to defeat me.
I want to serve all the people of Texas—those who are for me and those who were against me—as ably as I can as Senator."

Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, left Austin shortly after election returns made it clear he had won a sweeping two-to-one victory at the polls throughout the State.
The young Senator and his wife vacationed in El Paso for their first "time off" since 1947, but limited the vacation to only three days so they could continue answering the thousands of letters and telegrams of congratulations received after the election victory.

"Lady Bird and I are very grateful for all the letters our friends have taken time to write," Johnson said. "We want everybody to continue writing us in Washington passing along suggestions and criticisms that will help us serve the people better."

Johnson also urged all Texans to "pray that the men who will lead the nation during the next few years will act with wisdom and courage to keep this country at peace."

New Nationwide
Poultry Improvement
Program Launched

Poultrymen in Texas will have an opportunity to win cash awards while working toward improvement of their flocks by competing in a new three year, nationwide program launched at a meeting of leaders of the nation's three-billion-dollar poultry industry at Lexington, Ky., last week.

The new Chicken-of-Tomorrow contest, announced by H. L. Shrader, senior extension poultryman of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is designed to bring superior meat-type chickens to American dinner tables by encouraging the breeding and development of plumper, meatier birds which can be more economically produced.

The initial three-year Chicken-of-Tomorrow program which concluded last June in Delaware, proved conclusively that definite improvements in meat-type characteristics can be achieved," said Shrader, who is chairman of the contest committee. "Much valuable breeding information has been distributed to the growers, while scientific data compiled by committee officials has proven of the utmost importance to the entire poultry industry."

"Inspired by the success of the initial contest, the nationwide interest created in the development of superior meat-type chickens, the educational value of dressed bird shows, and the opportunity to further improve the product, the national committee agreed unanimously that a new three year program is imperative," Shrader added. "At the request of this committee, A&P Food Stores have agreed to continue sponsorship of the contest."

Current plans call for a series of state and regional contests in 1949, additional state and regional trials in 1950, and a national championship final in 1951, with a new set of awards offered by the food chain.

Texas activities in the Chicken-of-Tomorrow program have been under the supervision of a hard-working committee headed by F. Z.
Heanblossom, poultry marketing specialist at Texas A&M College, College Station. The excellent caliber of the state competition is indicated by the fact that two state contestants, Frank W. Allen-son of Brenham and Western Hatcheries of Dallas, were among the 40 entrants throughout the country selected to compete in the national finals last June in Delaware.

Sundown Slowdown
Advocated by State
Highway Patrol

"Slow down at sundown."
That's the advice of the Texas Highway Patrol in its traffic safety campaign this month emphasizing night traffic hazards.

This is the time of the year when traffic accidents usually are on the increase. And as the days get shorter and darkness envelopes more and more on the average person's working day, Colonel Garrison, Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, urges those who drive cars to make allowance for the decreasing visibility, be more cautious and drive more slowly.

"We are all too likely to keep up the same schedule we follow on the longer days of the year," Mr. J. W. Elliot, Chief of the Texas Highway Patrol said today. "Yet the 'gray hours' of twilight make traffic even more dangerous. Its just good common sense to allow more time for getting home. Drive more slowly, and you're more sure of getting home safely."

"And when you walk from your place of work to your bus or car, or whenever you walk these evenings, remember you are in far more danger as a pedestrian than on the long bright days."

"A little more care on the part of every motorist and pedestrian is the best way to keep the darkness from increasing traffic deaths and injuries on our streets. So look out when it's dark!"

"Emphasis on the special traffic hazards at the onset of the darker months is part of a continuing campaign coordinated by the Texas Highway Patrol, and sponsored nationwide by the National Safety Council," said Captain Sutherland of the Fort Worth office of the Texas Highway Patrol.

"And don't forget," he urged,
"that the speed limit, for highways outside of city limits, is reduced by law from the daytime limit of 60 mph to 55 mph for night driving." He further added, "Even this might be too high for safe conditions in bad weather or in heavy traffic."

Guardians of Peace

In the wars of three different centuries, in battles too numerous to mention, the United States Marines have won a glorious reputation as fighting men.
So glorious, in fact, that we often forget the work they do in time of peace!

Yes, we forget the wars that didn't start, the battles that were never fought, the peace that was not broken, because the Marines were there! In troubled places all over the world, the firm and friendly hand of the United States Marine Corps has prevented untold violence many, many times.

This message is sponsored by:

The First National Bank

"IN HICO SINCE 1890"

This role of peacemaker, so traditional with the Marines, is now played by men and women of all our Armed Forces. The Army, the Navy, the Air Force, the Marines, and the Coast Guard all contribute to a power that is unique in history—a power serving the high ideal of a better world community.

One great mistake of the past was that we were not prepared to support, with our arms, the ideals that were so close to our hearts. On Armistice Day let us resolve to keep our Armed Forces strong, so that the freedom of democratic peoples will not be endangered again.

Armistice Day

Thirty years ago today the "Cease Fire" command ended World War I. And on that day we honored those who had fallen in the service of our country. Today, added to that honor roll are those who gave their lives in the second great world conflict. It is not enough this Armistice Day to honor the brave dead of two wars by bowing our heads in prayer. Only by each of us working assiduously to prevent another war — working to build an everlasting Peace — can we pay them deserving tribute.
