District Rotary Convention Begins Here Today

ROTARIANS OF TEXAS POURING IN FOR MEET

Full Day Program For Early Arrivals Is Made

MANY EVENTS

Trip To Dam Will Be Made This A. M.; Reception Tonight

Visiting Rotarians will dial automatic telephone 7161 for information. This is the number that has been assigned Rotary Headquarters in the Morgan building, corner Eighth and Ohio. There will be men there all day to answer questions and serve delegates in every way possible.

Remember, seven-one-six-one—7161.

The thirteenth district ninth annual Rotary convention begins in Wichita Falls today. Some eight hundred Rotarians of the state of Texas, comprising the thirteenth district, Rotary International, will make this city their home for a period of three days, beginning today and ending Friday night. Early last night the hotels had begun to take on a crowded appearance; by noon today they will be taxed to their utmost capacity, although many will be cared for by friends in their homes.

Headquarters last night at the Morgan building presented a buzz of activity. Committeemen, workers and mere members, anxious to co-operate in making visitors' impressions of the Wichita convention a pleasant memory for all time to come, these hurried from one place to another making final preparations for the influx of delegates. Visitors were there, too a few of them, shaking hands with old friends and making new acquaintances.

Outside the decorations in the street told their own story. "Welcome," a sign reads, and then "Welcome" again, and suspended in the canyon between the Kemp and the City National Bank building is a gala affair of electric lights, reading "13—Rotary. Building attired in bunting and Rotary symbols make a colorful backeround for the blazonry.

All Rotarians of Wichita Falls are requested to meet the special train coming from Dallas bringing Rotarians from that city and points south which arrives here at 7 o'clock this morning. Another train from Fort Worth and points west will arrive at 12:30 o'clock bringing other visitors to the convention.

Wichita Falls is decked out, like young girl in her "Sunday best," intent on showing visitors every courtesy and making their stay in the city the pleasantest ever experienced in a Rotary convention.

The program for the visitors was released last night. Today a day of entertainment, informal social gatherings making up the card. Thursday and Friday will be featured by the business meetings of the convention, and the more serious work that must be done.

Today's program follows:

8:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m.—Registration and assigning of rooms at conference headquarters, Morgan building, 8th and Ohio.

9:30 a. m.—Tom Noble of this city will captain an expedition to the

SINCLAIR SAYS . NOT GUILTY

Answers Contempt Charge; Others Filed; Judge Indicates

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—As the oil committee got back today to the trial of an alleged conspiracy at the republican national convention in 1920 for the exploitation of the public domain, Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, appeared in the District of Columbia supreme court and entered a plea of not guilty of an indictment charging contempt of the United States senate. He furnished bond in the sum of $5,000.

At the same time Chief Justice McCoy of the supreme court, ordered the empanelling of a special federal grand jury here on April 16 before which will be presented evidence in the criminal charges growing out of the investigation of the naval oil leases. The evidence is now being put in shape for presentation by special government counsel in the oil cases. Sinclair, who is charged with contempt on 10 counts for his refusal to answer that number of questions put to him by the oil committee, was allowed ten days by Justice Hoehling to withdraw his plea and enter a demurrer to the indictment if he should so desire. The oil magnate came here from New York today after being advised of the return of the indictment against him yesterday.

The lessee of the Wyoming naval reserve was accompanied to the court by his counsel, Martin W. Littleton of New York, who raised before the oil committee the authority of congress to compel the attendance of witnesses

FUR FLIES IN TEX LAND FRAUD INVESTIGATION

Heflin Threatens To Carry War To Senate Floor

CREAGER NAMED

Attorney of Texas Man Gives No Quarter In Argument

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The senate committee investigating alleged land frauds in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas encountered another storm today when Chairman Moses, republican, New Hampshire, and Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, committee prosecutor, again clashed over procedure. Senator Heflin again threatened to take his protest to the floor of the senate and intimated that he might ask for the appointment of an entirely new investigating committee.

Meanwhile, James R. Page, Kansas City attorney, who is aiding Senator Heflin in the investigation and George A. Hill, Jr., of Houston, Tex., attorney for R. B. Creager of Brownsville, Texas, who was charged in the senate resolution as having been implicated in the land fraud charges, have been directed by the committee to inspect and make a summary of letters and questionnaires in the post office department files. This course was determined on after numerous clashes today over the reading of such documents into the record in order to speed up the hearing and save the time of postal officials who have been attending.

Mr. Hill objected unsuccessfully to the continued introduction of these letters, written by persons who allege they were defrauded, on the ground that they contained statements "not made under oath;" that there was "no opportunity for cross examination;" that they "constitute an attempt to align the postal authorities on their side in furtherance of the civil suits of some of them," and that many of them "bear upon their face the unmistakable evidence of an inspired and studied scheme to discredit transactions upon which further payments were due." Senator Heflin objected to Mr. Hill's effort to block their insertion into the record.

Chairman Moses, in ruling on Mr. Hill's objection, said he was willing that Mr. Page read such letters as would present representative cases, but declined to have the committee's time taken up by unlimited reading of letters piece-meal without questioning the witness. Chief Postal Inspector Rush D. Simmons, again remained on the stand throughout the session. Senator Heflin, dissenting strenuously from this view, at this point threatened to bring the matter to the attention of the senate and ask for the appointment of a committee that "would investigate."

When the verbal storm had abated Mr. Page proceeded to read more letters from the postoffice department's files, which, he said, showed that complaints of fraud had been made to the department by persons who were "duped."

One was from Hans Olsen of Kalamazoo, Mich., who said he had been taken on an excursion to the Rio Grande Valley in the summer of 1919 and "shown places."

"We asked if the land overflows," the letter said, "and the answer was 'Not in a thousand years, except by irrigation'." After he had purchased, he said, he found out that the land did overflow and was "all hills and holes."

Supreme Court Ruling Affects Cottle County

Indian Oil Properties Will Be Greatly Helped, Belief

Washington Bureau Record News.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—As a result of a decision of the United States supreme court that owners of lands bordering on the north shore of the Red river have title which extends to the center of the river bed, the general land office of the interior department has started surveys on Indian allotments in five sections in the southern part of Oklahoma, it was announced.

These river beds are located in Tillman county, where oil has been discovered and is being developed, and, according to this opinion are the property of the Indians owning the allotments. The surveys that are being made, therefore, are for the purpose of defining and protecting the rights of the Indian allotees by fixing the boundaries of their properties.

The general land office in explaining the surveys stated today that while the river bed tracts now being surveyed in Tillman county are relatively few in number, they are situated in a developed oil field and competition for leases of these areas is expected to be keen. The survey of additional river bed lands will be undertaken later as the demand for the area become apparent.

The surveys involve the first distribution or allocation of the lands along the Red river since the supreme court exercised jurisdiction over the oil fields along the shores and in the bed of Red river in this vicinity.

Texas Woman Wanted For Murder Nabbed

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 1.—Mrs. Nora Combs Bosche, 42, wanted in Meridian, Texas, for the murder of a stepdaughter, a year ago, was arrested in a local hotel late yesterday, it became known today when Deputy Sheriff C. A. Parker of Bosque county, Texas, arrived here to return her to Texas.

Mrs. Bosche is alleged to have shot and killed her stepdaughter, a Mrs. Kellesberger, at a lonely farm near Meridian, last May after the latter was said to have caused some trouble at the time of her second marriage.

MINSTER FOUND GUILTY IMMORAL CASE

By The Associated Press.

GREAT BEND, Kan., April 1.—John W. Waldron of Oklahoma City, former minister here, was found guilty late today by a jury in district court on three counts of a statutory charge preferred by a young woman of his congregation.

Motion for a new trial was scheduled for hearing Saturday.

The offenses which were charged to have been committed in March, June and September of 1922, were not disclosed by the girl until last January, when she swore to the same and warrant was issued for Waldron's arrest in Oklahoma City.

Letters Waldron had written to another young girl of his church in which terms of endearment were used, were admitted in evidence.

His defense was an alibi, in which his record of public activities almost thoroughly covered the dates of the charges against him, but in the trial he admitted authorship of the letters to the second girl.

SAY INDIANS WERE CHEATED

101 Ranch Buyers In Daugherty Probe Testimony

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Allegation of delay by the department of justice in seeking recovery of lands fraudulently taken from Oklahoma Indians were heard by the senate Daugherty committee when it resumed its public hearings today.

The committee then paused for a moment to hear Wayne Wilson, a New York insurance man, deny that solicited $35,000 from John Van Vechten Olcott, a former New York congressman, for his appointment to federal judgeship. Wilson said that he merely suggested to Olcott, on the word of others "that a campaign for the post" might cost $10,000 or $20,000."

Testimony concerning the land question was given by H. M. Peck, former United States attorney for western Oklahoma, who declared that former Attorney General Daugherty had aided a delay and failure to bring civil action for recovery of holdings in the 101 Ranch of Miller Brothers. Peck added that he had been dropped from the department of justice and beyond criminal action in the case had heard of no further action by the government until a few days ago.

In Oklahoma, Peck testified, 48 Ponca and Osage Indians were wrongfully deprived of 7,680 acres of land, by the operations of George L. Miller and two assistants.

Masked Men Loot Money Car And Get $100,000

By The Associated Press.

MONTREAL, April 1.—A bank employee and a bandit were killed this afternoon and another bank employee was slightly wounded when eight masked men opened fire on a motor car and stole funds which were being transferred to the central office of the Bank of Hochelh.

Bank officials said they believed the car was carrying $300,000. How much the bandits obtained had not been learned late today, but the police subsequently recovered $40,000 from the wreck of the men's machine, which in its flight from the scene of the hold-up struck a telephone pole and overturned. In the car also was the body of one of the bandits. He had been shot through the head.

A posse which unsuccessfully searched for the slayer, was unable to establish a motive but advanced the theory that prosecuted squatters on company land might have been responsible.

JUAREZ KEEPS AMERICANS IN

Many El Pasoans Stranded When Gate Closed At 9

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, April 1.—Mexican customs authority backed by files of soldiers closed both international bridges at 8 o'clock tonight trapping a large number of Americans who intended to return home before 9 o'clock, the hour at which the Americans have been closing the bridges. Acting Collector of Customs Carpenter closed the American side of the bridge at 9 as usual but announced if the Mexicans decided to let the Americans pass, he would permit them to enter regardless of the 9 p. m. closing order.

When it appeared that the Mexicans had no intention of opening the bridges, Juarez saloon men and gambling houses announced that they would remain open all night, the crowds decided to make the best of the situation and indications were it would be a wild night in Juarez. The Americans trapped included a large number of well-to-do persons of both sexes, who had dined at the cabarets, and numerous tourists.

Young men and young women of good families, who had gone over for dinner, expecting to get back before 9 pleaded in vain with the officials to be permitted to return to their homes in El Paso instead of being forced to remain in Juarez all night unchaperoned. A number of mothers who had left their babies in care of neighbors added their pleas. Newspaper offices and the police were flooded with telephone inquiries concerning relatives who had not appeared at home. Hotels were kept busy reassuring women guests whose husbands had not returned. American bridge officials estimated that no less than 1,000 Americans were marooned.

BLOND HAIR BANDIT AGAIN

This Time She Holds Up Store; Gone

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Brooklyn's blond haired bandit, who has smiled through a score of daring holdups in the past ten weeks, shot to kill today when capture seemed imminent, after a frustrated attempt to hold up 17 employes of the Brooklyn plant of the National Biscuit company.

Her victim, Nathan Mazzio, lies dangerously wounded in a hospital attending physicians declaring he has but a slim chance to recover. He has two bullets in the chest and a third in the thigh.

Today's attempt was by far the most daring and danger-defying in the girl's meteoric career of banditry, a career which she has pursued in spite of the efforts of 250 city detectives who have sought her and her male companion for three weeks with orders to "shoot to kill" if necessary.

Accompanied by the inevitable male, she sauntered into the retail department of the plant shortly before noon and asked for a dime's worth of confections. The clerk turned from the shelves to face a small automatic pistol in her hands and one in each hand of the man. He backed into a rear room at their orders.

There they were confronted by 15 girl employes and the cashier, Mazzio, who had just come in with a payroll sack. The girl did the bossing; her companion worked under her direction. They started herding the 17 into a smaller room, that they might work at the office safe undisturbed.

Mazzio suddenly seized her wrist in one hand and tore at the heavy, impenetrable veil with the other. She threw him off, sent him stumbling into the prison room and slammed the door. Then she fired three shots through the door, all of them hitting Mazzio, who had fallen to the floor from the force of her push.

The two fled to a waiting taxicab, and the woman still leading, took the wheel. They abandoned the car several blocks away, and police later found a chauffeur in it, neatly trussed-up with strong picture wire, and gagged. The two had called him to a hotel and directed him to drive to a lonely spot near the biscuit concern's plant. When he halted the car the man seized him and gagged him while the slim girl stood over him with her pistol, the driver said.

Mr. Collier, seeking re-election as mayor, polled a majority of 807 votes over M. A. Bundy while Mr. Clifford, asking a second term as street commissioner, defeated W. L. Dalton by a majority of 694. Mr. Curd was carried into the office of public utilities commissioner with a 403 majority over J. L. Jackson.

A total of 3,061 votes was cast with over half this number being polled at court house box No. 2. Voters living west of Lamar avenue and south of Tenth street cast their ballots at this point. Court house box No. 1 polled 808 votes from the territory west of Lamar and north of Tenth, while the city hall box serving residents east of Lamar drew 459 votes.

The total vote, while not as heavy as had been expected, struck the average that has been reached in the past few years. It was predicted Monday night that a vote of around 3,500 would be polled with a possibility of as high as 4,000 ballots being cast.

The majority compiled by each of the successful candidates came through a comparatively even distribution of votes through the three boxes. Each man led at each box with the most substantial margin being shown by Mr. Collier at the court house No. 2 where he led Mr. Bundy by 522 votes. His majority at court house No. 1 was only 86 and at the city hall 118.

In statements made to the Record News Tuesday night after the outcome was certain, each of the six most concerned expressed satisfaction with the result. Their individual statements follow:

FRANK COLLIER: "I wish to express my sincere thanks to the people of Wichita Falls for the manner in which they supported me at the polls. I consider the result a vote of confidence in the administration and pledge myself to continue serving the city to the best of my ability.

"To my many loyal friends who supported and aided me Tuesday I again wish to express my thanks."

M. A. BUNDY: "My congratulations to Mr. Collier and the other two successful candidates. Let's get behind them in an effort to make the next two years the most progressive and efficient in the history of Wichita Falls. I sincerely thank all my friends who cast their vote for me."

J. L. JACKSON: "I have nothing to say concerning the outcome and am satisfied to abide by the decision of the voters."

Quite little time will be required to complete the recheck since all assessable property in town must be gone over. When this is finished the board of equalization will be ready to start on its work.

Baptists Seek To Hold Gain In Attendance

As a result of the tremendous increase in attendance at the First Baptist Sunday school Sunday morning, when the figures read 1,579 as against the enrollment of 1,058 of the Sunday preceding the department superintendents of the entire Sunday school will meet Wednesday evening at the church between the hours of 6:45 and 7:30 to plan a definite campaign for holding the gain in attendance that has been made.

Modern Sunday school organization and modern methods of record keeping have been worked down to a fine science by big business men all over the world who are active in Sunday school work, and as much system is used in the large city Sunday schools of today as in a business firm.

The heads of the various departments of the Sunday school system who will meet Wednesday evening to organize forces are Mrs. A. R. Cotton, cradle roll; Mrs. J. M. Shaffer, beginners; Mrs. W. H. Davis, primary; E. E. Richmond, junior; W. R. Coates, intermediate; W. E. George, young people; and W. E. Miller, home department.

Crow of 1208 Indiana street, who died at the General hospital Monday night following a brief illness, were held from the residence at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Rev. A. J. Holt, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church conducted the funeral. Burial was made in Riverside.

SALES LEAD.

Sales of the publication of the Salvation Army, "War Cry," in Wichita Falls lead over other cities in the state, Envoy W. L. Atwood of the local post of the Army. In the central territory, only three cities, Tulsa, Okla.; Detroit and Flint, Mich., surpass Wichita Falls in the sale of the War Cry.

Mr. Daugherty followed his letter of resignation up with a long letter to the president. The second letter began: "Under separate cover I have just handed you my resignation," etc., etc. Well, it was inevitable that Daugherty should go. Something is certain to happen soon or later, to the man who begins his letters with "Under separate cover."—Kansas City Star.

Mothers
AND THEIR CHILDREN

Facing Forward.

One Mother Says:

I always take my child riding facing forward. When she rode in a perambulator I always saw to it that she faced forward, also. Most go-carts are built in the opposite way, which seems to me a mistake, as many adults cannot ride backwards on a train or street car without becoming ill.

Home-Wrecking Is Always An Inside Job | Lays Blame For Stolen Affections on Lack of Effort

Fathers and Mothers Should Remember That the Young People of Today Live in the World of Today and Must Live by Modern Standards

"O Dear Miss Dix," wails a littlte flapper, "won't you please help me? Won't you please try to make my father understand that I must do as people do now, instead of doing the way that he did when he was young.

"I've got the best daddy in the world and I love him with all my heart; but he is ruining my life trying to make me the sort of girl that he says mother was. And I'm not mother. I am myself, and I don't live thirty years ago. I live now, and I have to be a 1924 model girl or else a back number at which nobody will look and which nobody wants.

"Father says he is an old-fashioned father, and he is trying to make me an old-fashioned girl. I never have any up-to-the-minute clothes because mother didn't wear short skirts and no corsets and bob her hair. I can't go joyriding with a crowd because they didn't have automobiles when father was young. I have to be home at 11 o'clock when I go out in the evening because he says that he never stayed out late when he was young.

"I can't dance because father didn't jazz and he doesn't think the modern dances respectable. He won't let me read any of the six best sellers because he doesn't approve of modern literature, and he makes me read old-fashioned books that I almost yawn my head off over. And he just simply loathes all the boys who come to see me. Calls them sapheads, and he wonders why I want to waste my time talking nonsense with little jellybeans such as they are.

"He says it is just appalling to see how youth has deteriorated since his day, and that when he was young the boys and girls were all serious-minded young people, who cared only for rational amusements, and that instead of cluising around to cabarets they spent the evening at home in intelligent conversation.

"I suppose we young ones are a poor lot compared to what our parents were; but such as we are, we are. In Rome you have to do as the Romans do or else you get left. I want to play with the other girls and boys, but I can't unless I play the way they do.

"My father is always talking about home being woman's proper sphere, and wifehood and motherhood being a woman's noblest career. But how am I to get married if I am never permitted to have any dates with boys?

"You had just as well lock a girl up in a stone cell and throw away the key as not to let her do what the other girls are doing. There are too many pretty girls, with lots of fun and pep to them, that the boys can run around with for them to take the trouble to hunt up one that is laid up on the shelf and labeled 'old-fashioned.'

"And when I tell my father this he gets angry and I cry, and I don't know what to do because I don't want to disobey him and I don't want to waste my youth sticking around at home and having no pleasure."

"Alas, my dear," I said, "your father is trying to foist his ideals on you, just as his father tried to foist his ideals on him. Each generation tries to do it and each makes dark prophecies about what the present generation is coming to.

"Your grandfather thought bustles just as dreadful as your father thinks rolled stockings are. Your grandfather disapproved of side-bar buggies just as much as your father does of automobiles. Your grandfather considered the waltz just as indecent as your father does shimmying. Your grandfather thought your father should only read Shakespeare and Richardson, and considered Dickens frivolous, just as your father thinks you ought to read Dickens instead of 'The Shelk.'

"And your grandfather told your father how superior the young men of his day were, and how they spent their time in improving their minds and always went to bed with the chickens, and how they doted on intellectual conversation, just as his father told him and great-great-great-grandfather told his son.

"And it is all stuff and nonsense. Not a word of it has ever been true. Each succeeding generation of young people have been pleasure-loving and laughter-loving and foolish, and have danced and played and skylarked. And all the difference is that their games have taken on different phases in different ages.

"It is a pity that fathers and mothers cannot remember this. If they did and would look on with sympathy and understanding, they could keep close enough to their children to know what they are doing and to stretch out a hand and hold them steady when they start to go wild, and to snatch them back when hey get too near the edge of the pit.

"For youth will be served. Youth must have its fling. High spirits must find a vent. Suppress these with the heavy hand of authority and something blows up.

"Lock a girl in her room, and she will climb out of the window. Forbid her to see boys at home, and she will meet them on the street. Refuse to let her go to nice dances, and she will slip away to low dance halls. The wildest and most reckless girls are invariably those with the strictest parents.

"The young people of today live in the world of today and must do as they do today. Parents must recognize that and deal with them on that platform if they wish to do their duty by their children."

ROXANA SUIT ON TRIAL IN COURT

Evidence was being heard Tuesday by Judge William H. Atwell in the case of the Roxana Oil corporation vs. the Southwestern Refining company, the North American Refining company and the North American Oil company in which the plaintiff seeks a foreclose a lien of $350,000 on some oil properties in Young county.

The case was started Tuesday afternoon with evidence being taken on a general demurrer filed by the defendants.

Makes You Feel "Cheap"

Nobody knows better than the boy or girl who has been slighted time and again by their supposed "best friend," how humiliating it is to have to stand for such "cutting" things when they know they can expects nothing more as long as they don't look attractive on account of a pimply, blotchy or rough skin.

But such heartaches don't have to be put up with. Any boy or girl who is trouble with these skin blemishes can get rid of them if they will just use Black and White Ointment. The fact that Black and White Ointment sells at the tremendous rate of nearly two million packages a year shows how popular it is. It is economically priced, in liberal packages. Any dealer can supply you with it. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size.—Adv.

BIG COMPANIES BUYING LEASES RYAN DISTRICT

Much Interest Being Manifested in Jefferson, Co., Oklahoma

Special to The Record News.

RYAN, April 1.—That Clarke, Codwan and Kilgore are believed to have a sand on the Spring ranch that will produce 100 barrels of oil daily, and possibly several times that amount when the sand is penetrated farther, is shown by the interest manifested in major oil companies in that vicinity and the prices they have paid for leases. Some tracts have sold at $100 an acre, several at $75 and some three miles from the well for $50.

The Magnolia Petroleum corporation, which for several years has refrained from investing in leases in Jefferson county, has bought several hundred acres of leases, including portions of the Spring and Seay ranches, and its tracts completely surround the discovery well. The heaviest buyer among large firms is the Humble Oil and Refining company which has contracted to drill near the bank of Red river south of the discovery well.

Spring Well Suspends Drilling.

Drilling has been suspended in the Spring well at 2,107 feet. The oil sand was penetrated 12 feet. The formation is so hard that shooting is contemplated. The thickness of a sand found in the Dingwall rotary-tool well, drilled 150 feet west of this location, was 35 feet, which leads operators to believe the sand may be shot with safety.

Offsets to the well on the north and south are owned by the Carter Oil company and on the northeast by the Prarie Oil and Gas company. Clark, Cowden and Kilgore and the receiver for J. A. Alex Dingwall hold the other offsets and a total of about 600 acres of contiguous area.

Oil Discovery Was Accidental.

The discoverers in this well drilled the first test in that territory for Dingwall. It went to a depth of 3,300 feet and was abandoned. When drillers began to pull casing joints parted at about 1,200 feet and about 2,300 feet. When tools were pulled out, following the parting of the casing, they were found to be covered with oil. So the discovery of oil there was accidental. Meantime Dingwall, a New Yorker, had his property placed in the hands of a receiver.

That included several hundred acres of leases in southern Jefferson county. The court permitted a seggregation of 600 acres for a second well, the Dingwall estate to have a one-fourth interest in it. The new well was drilled carefully with cable tools and the oil sand entered at 2,094 feet.

Structures Related, Geologists Claim.

The location, in the west half of the northwest of the northwest of section 25-6-6, is one of the two structures surveyed and reported on in that territory by the United States geological survey. The larger part of the structure and all of the other structure lie between this location and Red river, and to the southwest and the southeast of his location. Geologists entertain theories that the structures are related to that across the river in Montague county, Texas, which is producing gas heavily from shallow sands, and to the Healdton area to the northwest.

Definite announcements of locations are being withheld pending a decision of operators as to what shall be done with the discovery well. Oil men have no doubt that an important pool has been identified, and that drilling on various sections of the structure will be started within a few weeks.

Some Delays Are Expected.

Some delays may be encountered because of leases being withheld by land owners. A majority of the leading land owners, however, already have made lease contracts. The Seay ranch of 8,000 acres had been leased at the first of the week except 2,000 acres. On the Spring ranch 500 acres out of 2,000 acres had not been leased. The Hambro Oil company, which a few weeks ago made an oil discovery on the Seay ranch, is drilling another well.

Representatives of nearly all big companies of the Mid-Continent district have been here and the entire county is again getting attention of geologists. Headquarters of several firms have been established in Wauriks.

Gulf Coast Area Oil Runs Steady

Special to The Record News.

HOUSTON, April 1.—Gulf coast heavy oils held just about steady in daily average pipe line runs the week ended March 29. The only field to register a noticeable increase was the Orange territory. A gain of 1,200 barrels was reported from that field, because of the completion of the new Sun well on the Brown tract in the southeast end of the field.

A total of 75,090 barrels in round numbers was run from the salt dome fields of the Texas and Louisiana coasts, divided 69,120 from Texas and 6,425 from Louisiana.

The Loredo field (Mirando) showed an increase of 700 barrels. Luling held steady with its average the week before, 14,200 barrels (estimated), notwithstanding completion of a big gusher well.

Rigging Up

By SUMMERS

Major company officials are watching developments in Wyoming. A new discovery of oil in the third Wall Creek sand just north of the Teapot Dome is causing discussion as to what action the federal receivers of the Mammoth Oil company will take to protect the naval reserve.

The Wall Creek third sand strike was made by the Ohio Oil company and the corporation estimates the well as good for 250 barrels daily.

The southern Wyoming and northern Colorado area is to become the most active in the Rocky mountain region.

The Wellington and Craig districts have opened up a large territory for exploration. Casper and Denver operators are reported well entrenched in the two new districts.

The Texas company is reported to have made four more locations on their property near Craig where the company owns extensive property jointly with the Transcontinental Oil company.

The Ohio Oil company and other major companies have acquired several thousand acres of leases in Wayne county, Utah, The Ohio is drilling a wildcat near Coalville, Utah.

The Midwest Oil company is preparing to spud a wildcat on the Illes Dome, near the Craig producer of the Texas company. The test will be in Moffett county, Ohio.

LEASING BRISK OKLAHOMA AREA

Territory Betwen Graham And Stephens Unusually Active

Special to The Record News.

ARDMORE, April 1.—Trading in acreage is brisk throughout areas in southern Oklahoma. One particular portion of this section of the state which is being gone over thoroughly and for which there is an active market, with the greater number of the major firms interested, is a 25 mile strip, extending from the southwest portion of township 3s-1w, near Sneed, through the Graham and Sholom Alechem fields, into the northeast portion of township 1s-4w, and the southwest portion of township 1n-4w.

From Sneed, this trend runs to the southeast extension of the Graham pool, across township 2s-3w, through the 1s-3w area, and into the Stephens districts, in the northwest-southeast direction.

This strip, in addition to running through the two proved areas is flanked by the Fox and Oil City fields.

In addition to the companies interested which have operated in southern Oklahoma for some time, a number was run from the salt dome before have been absent from actual development in this section of the state, are displaying interest in this trend and indications are that the near future will witness the entry into southern Oklahoma of several of the larger companies as new operators.

BUSY DAYS AHEAD.

With the Rotary district conference upon us, for the Rotarians and their Rotary-Anns are already storming the city; with the state convention of Baptist organized Bible classes set for April 8, and the opening of the Junior college, with the Musician's club presenting the St. Louis Symphony orchestra as an opener, it would appear that there is going to be quite a little going on in this city during the next ten days.

There is nothing Wichita Falls enjoys more than entertaining her guests. She likes to treat them like home folks and to have them know that they are appreciated.

So after the Rotarians have given Wichita Falls the once-over and had a happy time of it for three days, everything will be all set for their Baptist friends.

Rotary is a distinct organization, and the holding of the district conference here, means that representative men from all parts of Texas will be here to exchange views on matters of importance to us all. They are a bunch of business men and go-getters and their coming here is a distinct compliment to Wichita Falls. The good Baptist folk will be equally welcome. As for the opening of Junior college that, while the Junior college is in a sense a local institution, it also means much to our surrounding territory.

Let them come—the more the merrier, and happier will be Wichita Falls.

JIM YEN, LAUNDRYMAN.

Jim Yen, Chinese laundryman, lived in Chicago for fifty-six years. He obeyed the laws of his adopted country, attended strictly to his business and made many friends.

He speaks only English, due to the fact that his mother and father arrived from China when he was but three years of age; has embraced the Christian faith, and has lived up to the ethics of this country.

Now, due to the Chinese exclusion law, he must go back to China; back to a land of which he knows nothing, merely because he was born there. The exclusion law was enacted in 1892, and Jim thought he was an American and did not register. Now a government inspector has found Jim out, and he is, in every true sense of the word, a man without a country.

He was a good citizen, but technically he is not a citizen, and back to China he must go, just because a government inspector, who knows only law, found him out.

Someone might wonder, "why all this about a Chinaman?" If a man is a good citizen, he is a good citizen, no matter where he was born, and from what we know of Chicago, Jim Yen is a credit to that enterprising city. And this isn't a discussion of Chinamen, either; it is merely a bit of reflection on the harsh and rather unrelenting way of the law. There must be laws; lines must be drawn, but Fate often takes a hand and deals some very odd cards.

HIRAM'S POSITION.

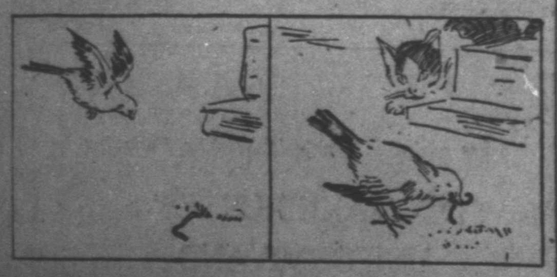

Hiram Johnson is an opportunist, and what is more, if the opportunity does not present itself at the proper time, Hiram makes an opportunity all his own.

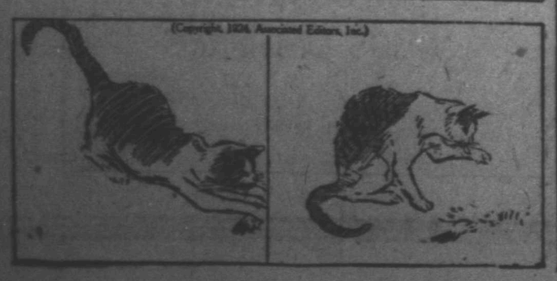

You will note that Hiram accused President Coolidge of being afraid to fire Daugherty and charged him with protecting the cabinet officer in the face of damning facts. So far, so good.

Now comes the same Hiram, after President Coolidge has put the skids under Mr. Daugherty and says the president fired Daugherty "for the sake of political expediency."

So the president, was in a position to receive criticism from Hi Johnson whether he did or didn't. Interesting, isn't it, and all the more so because Coolidge is Hiram's one and only opponent—at this date—in the race for the republican presidential nomination.

The Persistent Lovers

CHAPTER I.
Father and Son.

Joyce Ardley-Manners watched her brother help the cab man down with his luggage and was very proud of him—tall, loose-limbed, broad of back.

Dick, home for good from Oxford, was thinking as he labored of the vicarage. It wasn't just a roof to fill in time between terms now—it was home, the permanent scene of his subsequent career.

Career?

The word stuck. What was his career? What was he going to do, day after day, week after week, in this sleepy old garden? There wasn't a career in Whitedeaf! Perhaps, after he had a talk with his father, the Rev. John Ardley-Manners, vicar of Whitedeaf——

Dick swung around on Joyce.

"I say," he asked, "how's dad?"

"I'm rather worried about dad, Dick. He spends every minute on that wretched book of his!"

Dick nodded thoughtfully. "Perhaps I shall be able to take some of the work off his shoulders. Come on—give me a hand with these things."

He lifted down a mandolin, a banjo and a long, odd-shaped box.

"What on earth's that thing?" asked Joyce.

"That's a one-stringed fiddle," Dick explained. "They're ripping things. I'll teach you to play and we'll have some collosal duets. By the way, can you lend me a couple of bob for the cab man?"

Joyce thought hard. "I can lend it to you out of the housekeeping money," she said.

"Well," muttered Dick, as the cab man departed, "this is a good beginning—three minutes after I get home I'm in debt!"

"You know," he said later, as they stood in his room, "there's nothing the matter with this place except that I haven't got a neat little two-seater. Wouldn't you like a car?"

"Like? There are dozens of things I should like, but you'll have to wait till you're earning thousands a year, Dick!"

"Give me something more difficult," rejoined Dick with a grin. "Bet you a million I'm raking in those thousands in three years from now."

"Have you decided how you're going to make your fortune?"

"The fortune will come all right in good time, but my immediate program is to bring down my handicap at golf, and loaf superbly," he answered.

"Get a handkerchief ready," he said. "I'm going to make you cry."

Suddenly a beautiful, clear, throbbing note filled the room. There was no question about it, Dick had a touch. He brought real feeling out of that twelve-and-six-penny instrument, and as he swung through a love ballad of the streets there came into Joyce's mind a picture of a public house in a rain-sluiced street. Outside it there stood a woman, draggled, and with slatternly hair, singing of love for ha'pence.

Dick stopped abruptly and laid the instrument on the bed. Joyce shivered. "You'd better go on the music halls and do it like that. You'd give the audience the horrors!"

Dick laughed. "By Jove that's an idea. If all else fails, who knows? Now I'll go down and shake hands with the guv-nor."

There was no hurry.

There was a tiny pause before he knocked at his father's door. There had always been a pause before he knocked on that door. The atmosphere of the room, with its high shelves crowded with strange, stodgy books and its faded carpet, was severe and reproachful. There was nothing kindly about it.

Now a querulous voice said: "Come!"

Dick went in. The teeth-on-edge scratching of a quill pen was the only sound.

"Hello, dad!" the boy said cheerily. The quill ceased. His father looked up, surprised.

"What is it?" he asked.

Dick held out his hand. "Sorry if I disturbed you," he said. "But I've just got back, and so I came to say how are you?"

The Rev. John laid down his pen reluctantly.

"Down, Richard?" he said abstractedly. "I hope you'll have a pleasant vacation. By the way, when do you go up for your degree—this year or next?"

Dick laughed again.

"I've been a B. A. for some time," he said.

The Rev. John frowned and picked up his pen. God bless my soul!" he said. "You've got your degree, you say?"

"Yes," said Dick. "I'm down for good, and I got home about an hour ago."

"Dear me, dear me! How extraordinary." The old man looked at him speculatively. "All this work keeps me so busy that I really——"

Dick decided upon a bold stroke. He put his hand on his father's shoulder

"Look here, dad," he said. "Now that I'm home, can't I help you? Wouldn't it be easier for you to dictate it to me?"

"Dictate! No, Richard, I could not dictate this. Run away and play, my boy. You'll find your sister somewhere about, I dare say."

He turned to his writing once more and shook his head as if to dismiss the whole thing from his mind.

"It was very kind of you, Richard. Very kind," he spoke apologetically.

A page creaked mustily as he turned it over. Dick hesitated a moment, then quietly left the room.

CHAPTER II.

Later, Joyce led Dick, who carried their golf bags, to a spot that was a very Arcadia. A young man, one of the Aredians, came up from behind a copse which almost hid a tent and sang out "Good Afternoon!"

Joyce smiled at him.

Dick turned to his sister when they had entered the lane that took them to the golf links. "Who is that chap?" he asked.

"He's the village optimist," answered Joyce. "He used to be an international footballer but he had an accident or something and now he works on the farm and lives in that tent, and if anybody asks him how he is he laughs and says that he'll be as strong as a lion in a year's time."

There was rather an odd note in her voice. It was as though she desired to convince herself of the fact that he would really become as strong as a lion.

"Look here, does he play golf? Let's ask him along."

Joyce shook her head. "He's sometimes walks round, but never plays. I'm sure he would love to come."

Dick didn't gather that the very much wanted him to come.

"What's the man's name?" he asked.

"Frank Turbill," answered Joyce. Turnbill agreed to go along and as the three went single-file up the lane that led to the links he ran his eye over Dick—broad, hard, and with enough vitality to remove any obstacle from the road of life.

Then his eye roved over Royce, slim beautiful, utterly desirable. He watched the thick curls bobbing at the back of her neck and the delicious curve of her chin as she half-turned and flung back a remark.

They had health as well as youth, while he, as he labored up the path behind them, had to call at his sense of humor to the rescue.

The contrast was very strong. Dick took an instant liking to him.

"I say Turnbull," he said, "how is it we've never met before? Have you only just come to this place?"

"Bless you, no! I've been here nearly a year now. But when you were here the last couple of vacations I wasn't getting about much."

"I see," said Dick. "Well, if you ever care to receive visitors, you may expect Jo and me along. What about serenading him one evening, Jo, with the one-string fiddle?"

"Not that thing!" objected Joyce. "Bring the banjo."

"Bring 'em all!" said Turnbull. "Come up and make a start tonight, will you?"

"What do you say, Joe?"

"Rather!" said Joyce.

"We can imagine ourselves in Venice," said Turnbull.

"Have you been there?" The envy in Joyce's voice was intense.

"Yes. I put in a fortnight in Venice."

"Oh, lucky you!" said Jo. "I've read about it till I ache to go."

"Wait till I'm earning my three thousand a year, Jo," said Dick.

"You'll be married by then," laughed Joyce.

"Well, what about you?" retorted Dick.

"Me? Oh, pooh!" said Joyce.

Turnbull looked at her and said nothing.

He was carrying her golf bag. That was about all he would be able to do for her. Joyce married! The thought stung him like an angry wasp. No one would ever know.

But Dick guessed that very night.

CHAPTER III.

When Dick and Jo arrived at Turnbull's tent that night it was empty. "He's probably been called up to the farm," said the girl, with a touch of disappointment in her voice.

Dick peered about in the tent, and something pinned above the lamp caught his inquisitive eye. His lips pursed in a noiseless whistle as a closer look told him it was a snapshot of Joyce taken with two village children. As much of the children as was possible had been cut away, so as to leave only Jo, with the sun shining into her smiling face. Dick came out quietly and looked at his sister. . . . Did she know about this, he wondered.

MAY TRY BANKRUPT CHARGES WEDNESDAY

With the first two days of the present week having been given over largely to the trial of civil actions, criminal cases will be resumed again Wednesday before Judge William H. Atwell in United States district court. It was announced Tuesday night that the criminal docket would probably receive attention for the balance of the week.

Three Knox county men under indictment on charges of having concealed assets from a referee in bankruptcy are scheduled to go on trial today, while the government has several other criminal matters ready for the court.

DAVID AND GOLIATH

Said the owl to the wren:
"You are dreadfully unflattering;
You mustn't say again,
I'm a murderer and thief.
Unless you change your tune,
And cease such vicious chattering,
You'll find that pretty soon,
You're sure to come to grief

"Some dark and chilly night,
When mists enfold you clammily,
Mayhap I'll need a bite,
My appetite to stay,
And through the gloom I'll come,
And you and all your family,
Inside my hungry 'tum,'
I'll safely tuck away."

Said the wren to the owl:
"'Twere silly to be minding you,
You blustering old fowl,
You best had shake a wing,
And take yourself away,
For when the sun is blinding you—
Which happens all the day—
You cannot see a thing."

And then upon the word,
He thrust his beak forth daringly,
And smote the pirate bird,
Upon his wicked head.
On eye and cheek and jowl,
The blows were rained unsparingly,
Until at last the owl
Lay stiff and cold and dead!

Blocking the Way to Success

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The idea that obsesses the tax makers is that the rich men should be taxed heavily and the poor gently.

If we are going to continue with our present principles of taxation this idea is perhaps a fair one.

But there is one delusion that has a stronghold in most people's minds; it is that the rich men are a fixed class. They are rich, they always have been rich, they always will be rich, and their fathers were rich before them.

A good deal of economic, revolutionary propaganda is based on this erroneous condition.

As Otto H. Kahn said the other day:

"It is a well known fact, characteristic of America, that our wealthiest men are not those who inherited their possessions, but who started at the bottom of the ladder. That is as it should be, but it cannot continue so if our present taxation policy continues.

"The road to material success is blocked to the newcomer by the barricade of surtaxes."

There is truth in this. Because extreme surtaxes that are demanded by those who wish to level things down, fortify those who are already wealthy against would-be competitors.

The result is that while big business continues to expand and can find plenty of funds for doing so, there has been a distinct slackening of new and independent ventures.

The trouble with this is that it takes a little thinking to see it.

It does not take any thinking at all to tax the rich heavily just because they are rich.

It is always popular to attack the rich. The mob is always ready to fling the successful. And congressmen and senators get their votes from the mob.

But there is very real danger in this of destroying the initiative which has made the United States great. That initiative is the desire to succeed and to lay up money. It is the principle of thrift and prosperity.

The hordes of communists and socialists of Europe have been quite successful in their campaign of ruin. Americans ought to have too much sense to cut off their nose to spite their face.

There is a good deal of danger in this county from those who, desiring to protect the workers, are in a fair way to destroy all incentive to work.

SOILS AND SOIL PHYSICS.
How Temperature Changes Help Ventilate the Soil.

We have been discussing in previous articles the need for the proper ventilation of the soil and have shown how air, or rather oxygen, in the soil is an essential for the proper growth of plants. We will now discuss some of the ways that nature employs in causing currents of air to pass through the soil.

You have probably noticed on a hot summer day when looking across a field how the heat waves would cause objects at a distance to become blurred and indistinct. These heat waves are really currents of warm air rising from the surface of the ground and caused by the ground being warm. Warm air is lighter than cold and tends to rise.

These currents of warm air have to be fed with a constant supply of colder air, which in turn is warmed and passes upward. Part of this supply of cool air comes from the soil and is replaced by further supplies of air from above.

Thus on a warm summer day we have a circulation of air in the soil caused by heat. This interchange of air affects mainly the surface foot or so of oil, but even at greater depth air is caused to move.

There is an interchange of air caused by the changes of temperature between night and day. At night the soil is often warmer than the air above it.

The changes in the seasons from warm to cold and from wet to dry also effect the passage of air through the soil. When the ground is wet and the soil pore spaces are filled with water, ventilation is greatly retarded. When it is very dry and the earth becomes checked and cracked, the circulation of the air through it is increased.

Temperature is a potent influence in causing an interchange of air in the soil. There are other influences that cause the air to circulate in the soil and these influences we will discuss in future articles.

A child born today will be exposed to considerable danger, it will have a life full of adventure and risk.

If today is your birthday you have a good and honest disposition; you are "above board" in all respects, but, if a man, you mar much of what would otherwise be lovable, by your constant fault finding; and if a woman, by your unfortunate habit of nagging. As you are not perfect yourself, you must not expect to find perfection in others; we all have our faults and you have yours. You never seem able to give wholehearted approval to anything or anybody. This attitude is largely attributable to conceit—as subconsciously, you are under the impression that you are better than those whom you "damn with faint praise," and can do better than those whose efforts you applaud—but with unveiled reservations.

There is nothing gained by giving expression at all times to our innermost impressions, someone has said that "speech was devied in order to hide our thoughts." Whilst not subscribing whole-heartedly to this cynical saying, it is a fact that there are "lots of things better left unsaid."

Your home life is by no means ideal; a fault-finding husband, or a nagging wife, an unenthusiastic father, or a supercritical mother, do not induce an atmosphere of happiness, nor tend to create that environment with which a home should be surrounded.

If it is true that there is a fly in every ointment, it is not necessary that the fly should be always on the top.

Freda Dresses Up for a Visit.

"Betty, do you know how to make paper flowers?" asked Mrs. Cut-out one day.

"No. But Freda, whose father runs the greenhouse, knows how. She told me she did. What do you want paper flowers for, Mother?"

"Every time our club has a party or bazaar we have to buy flowers for decorations. We thought if we could make some paper ones, we could keep them and use them over and over again." Betty ran off to find Freda. The little greenhouse girl had just come home from town, where she had bought a new frock and hat. Freda's mother said she might wear it over to Betty's house, so the two started out.

"I have brought you something," smiled Freda when Mrs. Cut-out met the girls at the door. "But you must guess what it is."

"It's a pink rose," Mrs. Cut-out was laughing. "I can see both ends sticking out behind you."

The blue dress has a tan organdie collar and cuffs. The hat is blue with tan ruffles and the hose and shoes are tan.

CITY BUILDING HUNT'S THEME

Abilene Educators In Enjoyable Talk At University Club

"Cities are as the souls of men who build them," said Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college at Abilene in a sparkling and enjoyable talk before the University club at their noon day luncheon Tuesday.

"Building cities has ever intrigued the hearts of men," the speaker continued, "and instead of being a scheme for industrial gain, building should be a sublime obsession, an expression of the grand, the ineffable desire in the hearts of men to create that which shall endure.

"This is undoubtedly the spirit of Abilene and of Wichita Falls, sister cities who are moved by a common impulse to erect schools for our youth," the speaker stated in a stirring manner. "The things of the heart are the things that abide."

In mentioning the great interest in the city of Abilene in schools, Dr. Hunt stated that though Abilene claims a population of only 20,000 over one million dollars had been donated by the citizenship for the building of the schools there.

Dr. Hunt vividly pictured early life on the Texas prairies in an interesting manner and kept the club chuckling over his clever portrayals of familiar pictures of the vast empire in the old days. In a forceful manner he told of the great empire that was being created under our very hand, referring to the part we as empire builders, play in creating a part of a great nation. Tale of life on the trail aided in pressing his point.

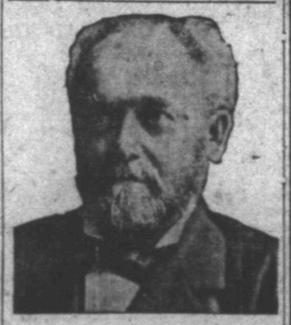

Mrs. M. M. Adickes, a member of the school board talked to the club briefly on what the Junior college means to the city, stating that its completion was only a start in the program of construction and improvement of schools in the city.

"The building of this great school has bound us together in a common enterprise," Mrs. Adickes stated, "it is the work of the whole citizenship into which we have put our heart and soul. I am sure we will be rewarded with a future citizenship of which the world will be proud. Wichita Falls claims some of the finest boys and girls in the country who are brilliant, talented and deserving of the finest advantage along educational lines that we, as a city, can give them."

Judge B. D. Sartin announced that L. E. Whitham of the club was giving a statue valued at $150 to the Junior college. President C. A. Rogers mentioned the problem of providing homes for all visiting Rotary delegates and requested all members who could provide room for the visitors to call Tom Smock.

Dr. J. W. Cantwell extended a personal invitation from the school board and the administration of the Junior college to the members of the University club to attend the Junior college open house Monday afternoon and evening when visitors will be shown through the building. He also announced the seat sale for the St. Louis Symphony orchestra which will formally open the building on Tuesday April 8.

A splendid jubilee quartette from Camp's Normal Industrial school for negroes at Longview sang a group of old time negro songs and negro spirituals for the entertainment feature at the luncheon.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is still in great demand, while many other so called "cure-alls" have come and gone. The reason for its phenomenal success is because of its absolute purity, and Dr. Pierce's high standing as an honored citizen of Buffalo is a guarantee of all scription as a regulator for the ills peculiar to women.

Indians Draw Hodges and Morgan Or Hoots

MORGAN SLIGHTLY INJURES ANKLE BUT MAY HURL TODAY; NO CHANGE IN USUAL ORDER

Hippo Hodges and Dick Morgan or Clarence Hoots will do the Spudder twirling against the Oklahoma City Indians this afternoon. Hodges will start, and Morgan will follow, according to plans of Manager Tanner. The uncertainty arose yesterday afternoon when Morgan, catching fly balls in the outfield, turned an ankle. He will probably be able to go, as he continued his workout, but in case the injury is more serious than thought Monday, Hoots will take his place.

The Spudder jinx seems not satisfield yet, and after falling on the infield in a broken ankle bone for Schwab, it turns again to the pitching staff. Morgan administered first aid to his ankle and returned to keep up his work, which was a considerable relief to all concerned.

At present the pitching staff of the hopefuls is in worse shape than any other section. Tuesday's practice game was called off because the skipper did not have the hurlers to spare. Ed Wetzel is out again, after an operation on his tonsils, but yet not nearly in shape. Freddie Fussell has not yet fully recovered from his attack of throat trouble. Buck Freeman is yet carrying a sore arm. Cheeves, Hodges, Hoots, Faulconer, Kopp, Wright, and possibly Morgan are in fair shape. The problem is to get enough moundsmen ready in time to pitch the two Indian and two Cub contests.

No Changes Today.

Infield and outfield are in fair condition. No one is out of the play, and everything shapes up for the usual start. There will in all likelihood be no changes in the order today, stated Pilot Tanner, Tuesday. The usual batting order, then, will be: Williams, right field; Tanner, third base; Weiss, left field; Fitzgerald, center field; white, second base; Locker, first base; Michaels, shortstop, and Jonnard, catcher.

Tanner said he probably would not use Zeke Smith, new backstop, in today's game, but it is probable the redtopped receiver will break in before the week is much older. Smith looks at the bat, and promises to keep up his .300-and-over percentage with the willow. He has been used little as yet behind the plate.

Hard Work.

Mr. Tanner was literally pouring the labor on his proteges Tuesday, morning and afternoon. Pepper and batting practice, and infield workout was pushed. The million-dollar first defense is still intact and working like a charm. Tanner was himself again yesterday, played the hot corner so that all might see and know how. Michaels and Dorman were both good at the shortfield position, White and Wobido at the keystone. Dallas Locker was his usual form at the initial sack.

A good exhibition may be expected this afternoon, when the opening call sounds three Bells. Hodges, Hoots and Morgan have all gone well in their trials to date. With this pitching, the boys will have something to work on. Yesterday's hitting was good, the slugging outfielders, Weiss, Fitzgerald and Williams, and White, Tanner and Locker were all smashing the agate. Chief Cheeves whipped out a hot one to the left field fence, in the way of a reminder.

Manager Luderus' tribe will stop over today and tomorrow. Follow a day of rest and work, and the Chicago Cubs will be around. Being the only major league club booked to appear here this season, the most interesting affairs are in the offering.

Today's Iron

By T. T. HUNT.

April fool was time for no foolin' for the Wichita Falls Spudders. Taking advantage of the warm weather "between blizzards," Pilot Tanner shoved his men through the ropes.

Old man jinx laid his icy fingers again on the baseball camp. Dick Morgan, pitcher, turned an ankle in the outfield, and for a while it looked as if another needed man would be listed on the hospital roll. But Morgan refused to let the accident stop him, and went on. Though the ankle will probably be sore today, it is though the injury is not severe.

Yesterday was a great day for working. Manager Tanner admitted it. He further hinted that with a few days in a row of that sort all his men would believe it. A stretch of needed work and many crimps will be taken out of the candidates.

Here is a pretty theory. It is possible. The high school team may be better than the Spudders. Amarillo is going to play the Cubs Friday. The Coyotes are going to play the Amarillo Sandstorm, Saturday. The Spudders are scheduled to play the Cubs Friday and Saturday. The rest is easy.

The camp is in a muddle. Some time ago prospects were of the brightest for a strong club. There is no definite way of saying just how it all stands now. Shifting from a catcher problem, with the probable slurping of this there arises others. The infield is not so good as it was thought it would be by now. Schwab is out for several weeks. The pitchers are at present in a bad way, generally. A great antidote for this would be some real, honest-to-goodness practice. To date, this has been scarce.

Little Lessons In Big Sports

How far should a player follow set rules and how far his individual inclinations in determining for himself his style of play?

Answered by

TED RAY

The seige gun of English golf. Winner of innumerable tournaments and member of the greatest golf combination in history—the team of "Vardon and Ray."

Every golfer has a certain amount of individuality in his style of play. How much of this individuality should a beginner permit to express itself and how much should be suppressed in favor of set rules? It's quite a problem.

When a player starts at thirty or thirty-five years of age, I think it is folly to stop him in certain individual inclinations, because it would be useless to try to make him swing in a perfect action when his bones are probably set. But in the case of a boy of fourteen years, I think he ought to stick to the set rules. He can bring himself to it.

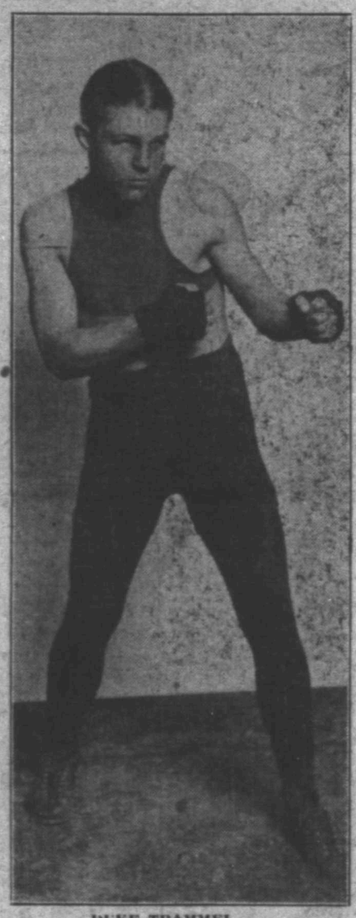

Any one in between those ages can suit himself, only try for a little form if you can make it.

Slugger vs. Iron Jaw

DUKE TRAMMEL.

Claude Sparks, Ada, Oklahoma, junior welter, is the next tough guy on Duke Trammel's program here. The American Legion has been using extra efforts to entice a fighter here good enough to interest the Fort Worth mauler, but for some time their efforts have been in vain. The last good fight Trammel had was with Hamp Brown, Oklahoma middleweight champion.

Sparks is called a tough one. Though not over the twenty mark in years, he has fought many hard ring battles. From a preliminary filler he has become one of the leading drawing cards in Oklahoma City and thereabouts. He is Ada's ring bid for glory, in the class.

Met Good Ones.

The Ada battler has been in the middle of some hard fights. Something of his standing may be gathered from the following: Decision over Hamp Brown here several months ago. It was a close fight and produced varying opinions. Jackson kayoed Tommy Irvine, who met Trammel here ten days ago in a fight going to Trammel. Jackson also claims victories over Brown, Joe Denton, and Tom Storey. Sparks' fight with Jackson was only a short time ago.

They call Sparks "Iron Jaw," and say he can also sock. He meets Trammel at the opera house tomorrow night for ten rounds.

A field deputy to assist in clearing up tax assessments in commissioner's precinct No. 1 started work from the county tax assessor's office Tuesday morning. Assessor Denton stated that the additional work was deemed advisable in order to clear up as rapidly as possible the assessments remaining to be made.

Work of assessing has progressed rapidly in practically all sections of the county and it is believed that it will be complete within the next few weeks. The Iowa Park section has been finished and a report made, while the clearing up process in the other precincts is now being attended to.

6 S. W. Baseball Games This Week

Special to The Record News.

DALAS, Texas, April 1—Six games make up the baseball schedule for the Southwestern Conference this week. Rice and T. C. U. play at Houston, Wednesday and Thursday, Baylor and S. M. U. at Waco, and Texas A. and M. and T. C. U. at College Station, Friday and Saturday.

Watch Frogs.

T. C. U. will be watched closely this week. Always the home of a good baseball team there is a likelihood they will be a strong contender for conference honors this year. The Frogs should win the two games with Rice, but it will take baseball to beat the Texas Aggies at College Station immediately after. The Aggies downed Rice in the opening conference games last week by large scores.

By The Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 1. Walter Hagen, Westchester-Biltmore, today won the North and South open golf championship, finishing the 72 holes with a score of 283 points.

Hagen was two strokes ahead of Cyril Walker, Englewood, N. J., who finished with 285, while McDonald Smith of San Francisco, who gave indications soon after the start of the final round of giving the veteran Hagen a strong contest, finished with a score of 286.

BROWNS BREAK CAMP; OFF ON ROAD TRIP

MOBILE, Ala., April 1.—The St. Louis American league club broke their training camp here today after a stay of six weeks, departing tonight for a road exhibition trip, their first stop being at New Orleans. They will play Shreveport April 2-3; Dallas April 5-6; Fort Worth April 7-8, and Tulsa April 9-10, arriving at St. Louis on April 11.

Coyotes Off to Amarillo Today

Coach Henderson will leave with his high school Coyote nine this afternoon for games with Amarillo Hi Sandstorm, he announced last night.

Press reports that Amarillo will play the Chicago Cubs Friday have not been verified by authorities there as concerning the Wichita Falls matched games, stated Coach Henderson.

A three-game series between Wichita Falls and Amarillo was arranged about two months ago. The games were to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Just what effect the possible Cub game announced to be scheduled with the Amarillo Hi Friday will have on the Coyotes' games there is not yet known here. The Coyote mentor stated he was gathering his men together to get away this afternoon, and that he expected communication from authorities there some time today.

Lack Pitchers.

The prospects of the local team, bright until recently, have received a jolt in the loss of Pitcher Glidewell, only letterman moundsman from last year. The loss of Glidewell leaves the Wichita Falls club with a raw pitching corps.

O. K. Elsewhere.

Infield and outfield, the Coyote nine looks good. In the gardens, especially, does the high school baseball club look good. The infield, headed by Captain Red Jenkins at short, is also in shape to open the first game.

BILL DESIGNED HITS EDITORS

Oklahoman Would Make Heavy Libel Penalties

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 2.—An initiated measure which would declare newspapermen members of a profession and subject to removal upon conviction of libel is to be filed with the secretary of state tomorrow by Aldrich Blake, head of Visible Government league of Oklahoma, according to his announcement today.

The measure is one of three, comprising a legislative program which Blake described as the most revolutionary ever offered the voters of Oklahoma. The other two measures would provide for a radical reform in the state election laws and for a one-house legislature elected each two years and meeting annually.

The governor and lieutenant governor also would be elected on a two-year schedule instead of each four years as at present.

The bill dealing with newspapers embraces persons employed on newspapers or magazine "to write, edit, or assist in the preparation of any news or editorial matter."

All journalists will be required to take an oath upon which they would receive a license from the secretary of state without cost. The bill would require all persons participating in the publication of news or editorials to sign the original copy, which would be retained 60 days in the office of publication.

Should any citizen believe himself libeled he would be authorized to file a complaint with the county attorney of his county or with the state attorney general, either of whom would be required to bring immediate ouster proceedings against the persons who had a part in the publication of the alleged libelous article. At the trial the present libel laws would be followed, and if convicted, the journalist would be barred from "practicing" for three years.

Blake, who is a former executive counsellor under J. C. Walton, deposed governor, declared that the bills are being printed and that an intensive campaign will be started at once to place them before the voters.

STOCK PRICE SHOWS FIRM

Studebaker Stocks Show Strongest Points Today

MARKET FEATURES.

Total stock sales 536,000.

Twenty industrials averaged 94.19; net gain .32.

High 1924, 101.24; low 93.08.

High 1924, 85.90; low 82.76.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone in today's market, the dullest day's session this year. Except for an isolated drive on Studebaker, which was hammered down two points below yesterday's final figure, there was a marked absence of selling pressure. Indications that the short interest was becoming unwieldy was seen by many traders in the apparent ease with which several stocks were bid up on relatively few sales.

While constructive interests were encouraged by Washington reports that leaders of the two major parties in the senate intended to expedite pending legislation and that action would be taken on the pending 25 per cent reduction in 1923 income taxes would be taken before congress adjourns, they made no concerted effort to boost prices. Floor traders reported that most of the buying came from short interests.

Strength and activity of St. Paul preferred, which touched a new 1924 high at 29 1-2 and closed slightly below that figure for a net gain of nearly two points, was one of the new features.

U. S. Steel common and the independent steel issues showed slight fractional gains. Bethlehem moved up nearly a point on the announcement by President Grace that March production and shipments were the largest of any month since the middle of 1923.

Oils made only a feeble response to reports of an advance in prices of Gulf Coast crude, although Marland closed a point higher at 37 1-2. Rubber shares yielded slightly on the announcement that dividend action on Kelly Springfield 8 per cent preferred had been postponed for one week.

American Can closed nearly a point higher at 105 1-4, despite the circulation of bearish rumors about that stock before the market opened.

Foreign exchanges were strong, new high records for the year being recorded by the French, Belgian, Italian, Swiss and Scandinavian rates. Strength of French francs was attributed to the active covering of short contracts.

Call money opened at 5 per cent and then dropped to 4 1-2. The time money market continued firm, dealers reporting a shortage of funds at 4 1-2 per cent for 90-day loans, although the shorter maturities ruled at that figure. Longer dates command 4 3-4. The commercial paper market was quiet, prime names being unchanged at 4 1-2 per cent.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Double your money with safety!

There is no need to be tempted by skillfully worded advertisements that suggest quick and unusual profits.

By investing money in safe and sure bonds and mortgages and faithfully reinvesting all interest as soon as it is paid, money will double in ten to twelve years.

At six per cent (the normal rate of interest) money doubles in about 12 years. At seven per cent (a yield which may often be obtained on excellent security) money doubles in just a little over ten years.

The average investor does not realize the astonishing rapidity with which compound interest counts up. The first five years it seems to amount to very little, but after five years, it piles up amazingly.

A relatively small sum invested and the interest compounded will produce a modest fortune in twenty years.

upon its committees; G. T. Stanford of New York, and J. W. Zevely of Washington, District Attorney Gordon represented the government.

After informing the oil committee today that he expected to show the existence of a conspiracy at the Chicago convention, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, disclosed that independent investigators now are running down stories regarding such a conspiracy which he said had come to him from many sources over the country. Cooperation of the volunteer investigators was sought so as to obviate the necessity of summoning indiscriminately witnesses to the capital, Senator Walsh said.

Practically all of the testimony taken today by the oil committee at the resumption of public hearings had to do with the political activities of the late Jake Hamon, republican national committeeman from Oklahoma. R. H. Wilson, former superintendent of public instruction in Oklahoma, said Hamon had told him of putting over Harding's nomination at Chicago and of contributing $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty, Harding's pre-convention campaign manager, for campaign expenses.

On the other hand J. E. Dyche of Oklahoma City, who managed Hamon's campaign for national committeeman, ridiculed Al Jenning's testimony that Hamon had told him of spending $1,000,000 to nominate Harding, and that of this sum, $250,000 went to the late Senator Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania.

Dyche denied flatly that Hamon "spent a dime" on the Oklahoma delegation to the Chicago convention to influence its vote or for any other purpose.

Over the objection of three republicans on the committee, Senator Walsh elicited from Dyche testimony that Hamon had spent $105,000 to obtain the election as national committeeman. He declared that none of this sum was spent dishonestly and asserted also that Hamon expected nothing from the place except the honor that went with it. Also he asserted that Hamon had not desired a place in the cabinet.

was then introduced by Mr. Page, which, he said, showed the land people were trying to collect a note from him.

"There is no question about the use of the mails to defraud in the Olsen case?" Mr. Page asked Chief Inspector Simmons after reading this correspondence.

"They were not used until the transaction was completed," Mr. Simmons replied. "I think the letters introduced came through the mail."

"The postoffice had complaints of fraud and did not act on them," Mr. Page persisted.

At this point Chairman Moses told Mr. Page he didn't "see why you can't introduce representative cases on which to interrogate these witnesses."

"I don't see how your case is being assisted by cumulative evidence."

"I am perfectly convinced that the mails were used at some period of a transaction, I think its conclusive. The use of the mails has been shown to collect a note."

It was then suggested to the committee by Mr. Hall that "Mr. Page and some one from my side" go over the letters and furnish the committee with a number of representative letter. This was agreed and the committee adjourned until tomorrow.

NEW YORK, April 1.—A further advance in the cotton market early today was followed by reactions on prospects of better weather in the south and rumors of free spot offerings. May declined from 28.64 to 27.95 and closed at 28.36 with the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 16 points lower.

The market opened steady at a decline of 5 points on September, but generally unchanged to 11 points higher in response to relatively firm cables and overnight buying orders. There was further covering by May shorts and some buying of new crop months on reports of unseasonably low temperatures in the belt. October sold up to 24.58 with the general list showing net advances of about 8 to 21 points during the early trading. The demand for May became less urgent after the rally of 219 points from last week's low level, however, and the market turned easier under realizing and southern selling. Active months sold 40 to 48 points net lower early in the afternoon with October touching 24.03, but most of this loss was recovered in the late trading, on renewed buying of near months.

Exports today were 29,534, making 4,604,401 so far this season. Portrecipts 8,753. U. S. port stocks 600,779.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—The cotton market today was decidedly erratic, and although very quiet during the greater part of the session, nevertheless, developed fairly wide fluctuations. May, after advancing to 28.51 in the early morning, declined 56 points to 27.95. July traded up to 27.85 and declined 50 points to 26.85, while October gained 10 points in early trading at 23.90 and eased off 50 points to 23.40. All active months rallied well in the last half hour, recovering 30 to 40 points from the low and finally closed at net declines for the day of 8 to 10 points.

At the start, Liverpool cables were much better than due and the weather map showed rather cold all over the belt. The market, however, made a poor response to the stimulating influences and after a small initial gain of little more than half a dollar a bale, turned reactionary with shorts encouraged to resume selling on the belief

CORN PRICES IN BIG CLIMB

Scarcity of Supplies Made Itself Felt In Trading

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Scarcity of supplies made itself felt in the corn market today and the price which had been wavering began to climb. Business was then of good volume, and the closing was firm, 1-8 to 1 1-8 cents net higher, May 78 to 78 1-8 cents. Wheat suffered neglect, and closed unsettled, 3-8 to 7-8 cents off. May 1.01 1-2 to 1.01 1-2@5-8 and July 1.03 1-8 with oats unchanged to 1-8 cents lower, and provisions varying from two cents decline to an advance of 2 1-2 to 5 cents.

Wheat values gradually gave way handicapped by slowness of European inquiry and by reports that Argentina was underselling Canada. Besides, domestic crop conditions were favorable.

In the oats market delay to seeding continued to have a sustaining effect on prices but buying lacked enthusiasm.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 1.—The cattle market remained generally steady today, the trade again dragging as to yearlings, but showing fair activity on other grades. Only about 1,000 head of cattle and 350 calves were on offer. Good cows brought $5.00 to $5.25.

The hog market was active, prices being in line with the 10 cent to 15 cent advance of Monday. Packers paid 7.55 for carlots and 7.60 for small drafts. Most of the run sold at a range of 7.25 to 7.50. Receipts were close to 350 head. A few pigs sold at $6.00. Most of the desirable kinds cleared around 5.50 to 5.75.

Steady prices were recorded for sheep and lambs, receipts were 5,000 head. Fresh shorn wethers sold at 9.75 and a few clipped lambs went at 12.00 to 12.75.

MISCELLANEOUS
A NEW DISCOVERY
Overcomes the biggest difficulties in chick raising.
The medical profession prescribe cod liver oil to cure and prevent rickets which in chicks is leg weakness. The poultry husbandry departments of some of the agricultural colleges including Wisconsin and Illinois have demonstrated that the use of cod liver oil is a preventative of leg weakness in chicks. By including it in Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter by a process which keeps the feed sweet, dry and granular we are placing a complete feed at the service of every poultryman. Leg weakness which so frequently causes disaster to early hatched chicks is practically eliminated where Ful-O-Pep Chick Strafer is fed and the birds are properly housed and cared for. Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter solves the greatest problem which the poultryman has. It will grow his chicks more rapidly, with greater safety and economy, bringing out the best that is in them. Iowa Park Babe Meets Death In Gas Filled Car

The funeral of John Sunday, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kiel, who met a tragic death Monday evening, will be held from the family home on the Iowa Park road at 2 o'clock this afternoon, with the Rev. S. A. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church and the Rev. Hann of Iowa Park officiating. Burial will be made in Riverside cemetery.

The family had driven to Burkburnett Monday evening to get the little boy's pet dog. Coming home, the child was sleepy and he with his little brother was placed on a pallet made on the floor of the car. When the family arrived at their home, they found the little boy dead, death being caused from inhaling the fumes of the exhaust from the car.

Relatives in this city who were called to the home Monday evening following the tragedy included Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Boone, Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Kiel, Mrs. Mark Moore, and Mrs. William Chapman, who is visiting here from California.

POLICE OPEN SUB-STATION

Although no special calls were sent in for the attention of the officers, the personnel of the new police substation at Tenth and Van Buren put in a busy period when it opened for the first time Tuesday night. The new force was put on the job at 7 o'clock and remained on duty throughout the night.

Two patrolmen working out from the station will be kept circulating through the western residential districts of the city, while two plain-clothesmen will also be on hand to answer emergency calls. They will also make rounds of the district in an automobile.

Stage and Screen

By JOSEPHINE FISK

STRAND — Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks."

OLYMPIC—Richard Barthelmess in "The Fighting Blade."

MISSION—"The Marriage Circle."

GEM—Colleen Moore in "The Huntress."

GARDEN— Norma Talmadge in "Within the Law."

Catering to Good Taste.

"Popular appeal in motion pictures has often been denounced as 'low brow,' and a box-office success been called catering to lower instincts. But every work of art, no matter what the creator's medium, has been a success because it has great human appeal. It was just this popular appeal which made it live. It is popular appeal which decides whether a work of art will live. It is good taste—and good taste grows each year—which brings success to writer and artist, and the belief that a popular reception means a lowering of artistic standards is based upon misconception."

All William de Mille productions are real, humanly appealing. They cater to the good taste of the picture-going public. Hence their phenomenal success as compared to mediocre pictures which depend upon the spectacular or slapstick to put them over. Mr. de Mille's latest production, "Icebound," a screen version of the immensely popular stage success of the same name by Owen Davis, which, by the way, won the Pulitzer prize as the best American drama for the past season, will be the attraction at the Olympic theatre Thursday. Richard Dix and Lois Wilson are featured in the principal roles. Among the more prominent in the supporting cast are Vera Reynolds, Ethel Wales, Alice Chapin and Edna May Oliver. The last mentioned actress has the same role on the screen as she created in the play on Broadway.

Hollywood Impressions.
By ALAN GROSLAND

(Eastern film director, who in producing for Goldwyn, Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," at the Strand theatre, made his first visit to Hollywood.)

A hundred restaurants and only two hotels, thus proving that actors would rather eat than sleep.

Citizenry staring open-mouthed at a comedy working in the street, and failing to notice Gloria Swanson driving by.

Actors hoping they'll be recognized.

School girls, hoping they'll be mistaken for actresses.

Actresses, hoping they'll be mistaken for school girls.

The largest collection of fine automobiles, and the largest collection of bad streets in the world.

Directors in garages, discussing automobiles while waiting for mechanics, who are discussing the future of motion pictures.

School teacher dining with friends in Hollywood hotel and announcing in loud voice that she has signed for William de Mille's next picture, while de Mille, seated at next table, says nothing.

Word "terrible" used in connection with acting of Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, the Talmadges, Conrad Nagel, Blanche Sweet and 27 other stars during soup course at Montmartres.

Woman newspaper correspondent from Little Rock, Ark., seeing director embrace actress-wife and deciding to write article on wickedness of Hollywood.

Two hundred and 36 girls arriving daily prepared to "pay the price" to become stars, but can't get quotations on price.

Lady who was mistaken for Claire Windsor in Keokuk mistaken for Dale Fuller at corner of Hollywood and Cahuenga Boulevards.

"Don't Bob Your Hair Girls," Warns King Vidor.

"Don't bob your hair and hope to be a movie queen."

This is the warning of King Vidor, Goldwyn director, who had to search for a pretty, unsophisticated girl to play the leading part in his screen version of Joseph Hergesheimer's "Wild Oranges."

Bobbed hair, says Vidor, stamps a girl as a member of a modern, jazzy age. It unfits her for the most desirable parts the screen has to offer, and no wig can compete with a mass of dancing curls or the crowning glory that is a woman's hair.

Vidor's next picture called for a sweet-faced little girl of the old south. It is the type of part that will lift an unknown player to the heights of stardom—and four girls, who, in everything but their bobbed hair, could qualify for the coveted part were turned down because of their shorn locks.

Virginia Valli was finally chosen as most suitable for the role.

Hair bobbing is just a fad, says Vidor, and a fad that no girl who hopes for a screen career should follow.

Lubitsch Film Entertaining.

In "The Marriage Circle" Ernst Lubitsch, the famous motion picture producer, is said to have revolutionized his own art. The picture has a modern setting and does not call for the usual massive sets and mob scenes for which the great Lubitsch is noted.

This Warner Brothers classic of the screen comes to the Mission theatre today for a four-day showing as the feature attraction. The brilliant galaxy of players consists of Florence Vidor, Monte Blue, Marie Prevost, Ado'phe Menjou, Harry Myers and Creighton Hale.

Lubitsch is noted for such outstanding pictorial productions as "Passion" and "Rosita." He is uncannily deft, stripping the drama spare till its very life-essence is unfolded and the unnecessary eliminated.

His master hand deftly weaves the delicate skein of the involved relationship of these five characters into an intricate web. With relentless analysis, with subtle humor, and with a general outlook on life as different from the accepted standards as it is intriguing, he gives an intimate and true representation of contemporary life.

The result, in "The Marriage Circle," is a photoplay of magic-holding powers, with the property of entertaining the audience from the very beginning to the last fadeout.

Elinor Glyn makes an interesting reply to those critics who have attacked her novel, "Three Weeks," the film version of which is being presented at the Strand. Mme. Glyn states:

"I have often been condemned as an immoral writer. Now this is not American justice. I challenge anyone carefully to read every word of 'Three Weeks' with an open mind, not with the determined idea to search for sensualities, and then see if he can find a single sentence taken with its context and meaning, which can degrade—a single place where the Lady's words were not to elevate Paul's brain, and his soul, and turn him, as they did into a thinking, responsible being of use to his country."

"Three Weeks' was adapted from Mrs. Glyn's famous novel by Carey Wilson, associate editor of the studios, working in connection with the authoress.

EMPIRE MORTGAGE PAYS DIVIDEND

At an iformal luncheon held Tuesday in the Kemp hotel, directors of the Empire Mortgage company declared a six per cent dividend, making 18 per cent paid for the fiscal year ending March 31. In addition, an increase in the surplus was decided on and a fund of sufficient size to meet the 1923-24 income tax payments set aside.

Wireless Film Shown Tuesday At Tech Club

"The Wizardy of Wireless," an unusual film on the theory and workings of radio, was shown at the regular meeting of the Technical club last night. The movie is one of a series prepared by the General Electric company.

The movie presentation of radio was made in detail, accompanied by an instructive address by Dr. W. F. Ivers of the Wichita Falls Electric company. Dr. Ivers was assisted by J. W. Thorne and Ralph Parker, who exhibited and explained the working parts of a modern radio set.

President W. R. Hamilton presided at one of the most interesting programs ever presented at the Technical club. Musical numbers by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pitman were especially enjoyed. In her vocal selections Mrs. Pitman was attractive, giving probably one of the best musical treats the club has ever had.

MISSION

OPENING TODAY

MAN, HIS WIFE and— HER BEST FRIEND

She, inbred with the wiles of the tigers, laid her trap for the one-woman man. Instead of steel and vice she adopted the odor of Egyptian perfumes created in the ages past by sorceresses of the Nile, not for the nostrils, but to subdue the resisting powers of decency. Cleopatra in all her glory would have cried with envy at the foot of the chaise longue that held the lithe form clothed in all the latest creations of lingerie that was made only for the secret eyes of milady's boudoir.
