School Board Approves Plans For New Library

Certificates were presented to members of the Computer Programing Team and the MOCK Trial Team, who advanced to state, at Monday night's school board meeting.

"We also have a certificate for Corkey Green, for all of his work with the MOCK Trial Team," said Bill Moore, superintendent of MISD. "We are very proud of the team, they won the first two rounds and the judge said the third round was the best he had seen. We were told they were outstanding. Most of these students is involved in many activities."

Cindy Purdy, president, called the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. in the School Administration Building. Minutes of the previous meeting and the special workshop were approved as read.

Mrs. Purdy recognized the guests including: Marice and Ramon

"After much deliberation, we recommend that the high school graduation be moved to the Bailey County Coliseum, on a trial basis, this year," Moore said. If we have it in the coliseum, anyone who wants may attend. If graduation is held in the auditorium, the students only get five seating tickets, and sometimes that isn't enough for the immediate family.

When asked about the sound system, Moore replied, "We would have the same sound system as was used for the chamber banquet. We have made arrangements for chairs, everyone can be seated on the floor. We would have ample parking and ample room for those wishing to attend the graduation. Most of the seniors are for holding the graduation in the coliseum."

The board voted in favor of the graduation being held in the coliseum.

A lengthy discussion was held on the new library for Dillman Elementary School. Joe Grimes from Grimes and Associates presented different plans for the board's consideration. The board chose a plan with 1200 square feet, almost double what they now have. The new library will cost approximately $80,000, and will be in the northeast corner adjacent to the office.

Muleshoe ISD Changes Easter Vacation Dates

This year's school calendar has been amended so that students and faculties would have the Monday after Easter as a holiday. "This will give families the day after Easter as travel time to return home," said Bill Moore, school superintendent. "The Good Friday holiday remained unchanged."

Two "bad weather" days were built into the calendar, as required by law, and were scheduled originally for Thursday, April 16 and Monday, April 20. "Since we had to use one day for snow in January, we lost one of those holidays. Feedback we have received indicated that it would be better to have Friday and Monday as holidays at Easter rather than Thursday and Friday," Moore added.

Had the district been required to use two days for bad weather, the district would have had only Good Friday as a holiday.

School will be in session today, Thursday, April 16 but Friday, April 17 and Monday, April 20 will be holidays.

Unit Receives Certification

The Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit of Odessa, Texas, which services Muleshoe today received certification of the American College of Radiology Mammography Accreditation Program.

Mammography is an x-ray examination of the breast, which the American Cancer Society and other medical experts see as the best means for the early detection of breast cancer.

The program is voluntary and is designed to insure that women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The process is done through a peer review evaluation of the facility's staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality, and breast dose. The accreditation program was instituted because of the concerns of radiologists, other national medical organizations, and the public that qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and that dedicated mammographic equipment be used. The American College of Radiology received an American Cancer Society Control Grant which was used to pilot test the Accreditation Program.

Breast cancer will strike one in 10 American women. The American Cancer Society predicts that about 41,000 women will die of breast cancer this year. As there is no way to prevent the disease, early detection and treatment offer the greatest hope for survival.

The American Cancer Society recommends that women do monthly breast self-exams and have regular physical breast exams by a doctor. It further recommends mammography on the following schedule:

Star Wars

The Pentagon will not meet the 1996 target date set by Congress last fall for deploying the nation's first non-nuclear defense against long-range ballistic missiles, a senior Defense Department official said.

Americans on Welfare

A record 13.4 million people are receiving money from the government's welfare program.

A baseline mammogram (for reference) between age 35 and 39,

A mammogram every one or two years between age 40 and 49,

An annual mammogram from age 50.

The Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Muleshoe Tuesday, April 21. You can call 272-4524 for an appointment.

Breast Cancer Detection

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every nine women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year over 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from Transamerican Diagnostic Services, Inc. in Midland, Texas "The Death Rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists." By using modern state of the art X-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt.

A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early stage has a 90%-97% survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50% survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a mobile breast

Hereford Concert Subscriptions Open

The Hereford Community Concert Association is again taking season ticket subscriptions for concerts to begin next September in the Hereford high school auditorium.

Four excellent concerts are scheduled for next year. They are the "New Christy Minstrels," "Dancetime," which is dances through the periods, the Maggini String Quartet and Laura Spitzer, pianist.

The last concert of this year, the Texas Boys Choir is complimentary to any subscriber to next year's series. It is set for May 1. This is the highlight of the present season's concerts. It should be noted that five tickets can be purchased for $15 with the current pricing and arrangements.

A $15 fee for adults will admit subscribers to all four programs scheduled for Hereford and give reciprocal privileges for and concert scheduled for Plainview, Pampa, Borger, Dumas and Dalhart.

Children's tickets are $7.50 and an entire family can subscribe for $40. Elaine Damron, chairman in charge of Muleshoe ticket sales, says "even if you can just make one of the concerts it is well worth this amount."

Damron encourages music lovers to consider subscribing and attending these worthwhile concerts in our neighboring community of Hereford.

Additional local contacts for the Hereford Series are Carolyn Jamon at 965-2340 and Beckye Conklin at 925-6413.

Local Resident Co-ordinates Student Exchange

Bill Brackin of Clovis has been appointed Local Coordinator for the Muleshoe Area by the American Institute for Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation. The non-profit organization's Academic year in America program arranges 10 month homestay/high school experiences for teenagers from Europe, Asia and Latin America. As Local Coordinator for the program, Brackin will be interviewing families in the Muleshoe area who are interested in hosting a boy or girl for the 92/93 school year.

Students arrive in August from Spain, Germany, The Netherlands, Japan, Brazil and many other countries. All have studied English, have their own spending money and full medical insurance provided by AIFS. A family is invited to select the boy or girl whose interests best match theirs. Through the Foundation this year, sports-minded families have chosen Spanish soccer players and German skiers and a musically inclined couple chose a Japanese student violinist. An early decision to host gives a family time to correspond with their future "son" or "daughter" and to begin building a friendship that will last a lifetime.

The rewards of participating in an intercultural exchange experience are great. In addition to being exposed to another language, a family can share different customs and holiday traditions with their new family member. Families also often rediscover their own communities and see America with a different perspective. In addition, host families are awarded up to $800 in scholarship funds for family members to use on AIFS study and travel experiences abroad.

Anyone interested in knowing more about the program or in applying to serve as a 92/93 host family should call Brackin at 505-762-5785 or 800-584-4787 or Regional Director Doug Moran at the Academic Year in America National Office in Connecticut at 800-322-4678.

Bankruptcies in '91
A record 944,000 American individuals and businesses filed for bankruptcy in 1991 -- a 21 percent increase from the year before -- as the economy struggled to emerge from recession, a non-profit group said.

Treasures in the Home

By A. Carman Clark

Somewhere within your house are personal possessions worth displaying on your walls, not because of their monetary value or their beauty but because each day they'll remind you of other eras in your life. Are some of grandma's cookie cutters unique? Polish up those fat brass keys and try them (secured firmly with thin wire) in a shadow box against red velvet. Can a remnant of that tattered quilt be salvaged for a sampler kind of wall hanging?

Once the idea of displaying family objects takes hold, it may snowball until you'll need to use one wall for these hangings. Consider some possibilities.

Do you remember how your house looked when you first moved in? Have enlarged photos made which show your home and the trees which once were there. Try a long, narrow frame with three or four past pictures of your home matted within. Or the same kind of multiple matted photos of the dogs and cats once part of your household.

Antique kitchen tools, an old farrier's hammer, odd bits of wrought iron, jet buttons, watch chains and even the nursery plate Aunt Lou gave you 60 years ago can be hung upon your wall.

Some ornate old dance programs, framed with double mats and a pressed flower, become artistic displays. Illustrations from old books, from your attic or a secondhand bookstore, may add just the touch you need in a hallway. When they've framed and hung in groups, you may find daily pleasure in what almost went to the dump. Any old game boards? Antique puzzles? Old playing cards? Experiment with ways to display a few coins or stamps with notes about them done in calligraphy. Design a family tree and frame it. Have any of your ancestors been pictured on a U.S. stamp? A block of those stamps plus a pen sketch of the family line back to that ancestor can be a personal touch for your wall, now and for your grandchildren later.

Framed collections stay free of dust. Postcards of your hometown or a postcard collection you made in fifth grade can be arranged for display in many different ways. Look for frames at lawn sales. Browse through the local shops which do custom framing. See how many ideas catch your eye or trigger creative ideas of your own. Be inventive in choosing personal items to display, to make your home walls individual. Keep looking for original, innovative ways to mount, frame and place your personal possessions. Enjoy them every day and share this pleasure with all who visit.

Great American Food Fight Against Cancer

*In foods, vitamin A occurs in two forms: 1) preformed retinol, which is the vitamin itself; 2) beta-carotene, which is a compound that converts to vitamin A in the body. (Most research has involved foods that contain carotene. Researchers aren't sure whether carotene or some other component in the foods is the active element.)

*Excellent sources of carotene are broccoli, cantaloupe, carrots, spinach, squash, and sweet potatoes. Good sources of carotene are apricots, beet greens, nectarines, peaches, tomatoes, and watermelon.

*Studies suggest that foods containing vitamin A might lower the risk of cancers of the larynx, esophagus, lung, and bladder. In laboratory studies, vitamin A reduces the incidence of certain cancers in animals. Vitamin A, therefore, could be an agent that can reduce the tendency for malignant cells to multiply.

*Studies indicate that food containing vitamin C seem to protect against gastric and esophageal cancers. In animal and cell experiments, vitamin C inhibits the conversion of nitrites into carcinogenic substances.

*Excellent sources of vitamin C are apple juice, broccoli, brussels sprouts, citrus fruits, green and red peppers, and strawberries. Good sources of vitamin C are cabbage, cauliflower, potatoes, rutabaga, and tomatoes.

*Vitamin and mineral supplements are not recommended as substitutes, for it is possible to overdose on these nutrients. Vitamin A in large amounts is toxic, and research cautions against excessive use of vitamin C as well.

Food is the best source of these vitamins because it provides other potential protection against cancer.

New Christy Minstrels Coming To Hereford

The Hereford Community Concert Association will be presenting The New Christy Minstrels in its upcoming season. Subscriptions are now available. Check with Elaine Damron at 272-4641, Carolyn Jarmon at 965-2340 or Beckye Conklin at 925-6413. A definite date for the concert is not yet available.

The New Christy Minstrels are a phenomenon in the history of the entertainment industry. Since their beginning in 1961, the Minstrels have surpassed virtually every major milestone of professional achievement and they continue to entertain audiences throughout the world as one of the most exciting and versatile groups in show business.

Where did it all begin? For the answer to that question, we must go back to 1842--James Tyler was President and the West was still to be won! Lone minstrels were travelling the countryside performing the music of the day. But a man by the name of Edwin "Pops" Christy had an idea--he believed folk music would generate new excitement if performed with the harmony and variety of a group. Edwin Christy persisted in his idea and, for eighty years, the "Christy Minstrels" entertained throughout the United States and abroad as the most popular minstrel/variety show in existence. During the 1850's, "Pops" Christy warmed to the simplicity of the music of a young songwriter by the name of Stephen Foster and put his music in the heart of America.

As late as 1917, The Christy Minstrel Show continued to play on Broadway as the longest-running show in the history of show business. To this day, its record has not been broken. And if you should be fortunate enough to find an old Christy program, check for the names of Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson. That's where they got their start.

The Christy Minstrels disbanded in 1921--but folk music didn't die with them. It just took a back seat for forty years with the emergence of jazz, the big bands and then rock and roll. But, in the late 1950's, people once again began to listen to "people's music"; lone minstrels became popular, and the idea of the folk group was reborn.

Over the years the Minstrels have appeared with such personalities as Bob Hope, Andy Williams, Danny Thomas, Vikki Carr, the 5th Dimension, Alan King, Connie Francis, Jimmy Durante, Joey Bishop, Jose Feliciano, Dinah Shore, Julie Andrews, Foster Brooks, Buddy Hackett and Phyllis Diller.

They have also performed with some of the major symphony orchestras such as Los Angeles, Detroit, Atlanta, Charleston, Portland, Cleveland, Dallas and Cincinnati.

Each of the Christys is a strong solo performer in his or her own right, and looking at some of The New Christy Minstrel alumni is proof of that--Kenny Rogers, John Denver, Kim Carnes, Karen Black and Barry McGuire.

The new Christy Minstrels continue to deliver exciting performances with one basic belief: People appreciate good entertainment. A continuing search for the freshest, most talented young performers in the land and performers of the finest in folk and popular music guarantee the future performing success of the Minstrels for many years to come. Now in their thirtieth year, the Minstrels still maintain their busy performing schedule and continue to bring their own style of entertainment to people around the globe.

Quite naturally, TV exposure demanded personal appearances, and to date, an estimated 45 million people have applauded the Minstrels in live performances in virtually every country of the world--the Minstrels have travelled to Japan (twice).

Cotton Regaining Popularity

In 1991, cotton captured and held a 54-percent share of the total retail apparel and home fabrics market, excluding carpets.

These results came from a survey, commissioned by Cotton Incorporated, conducted by Kurt Salmon Associated (KSA) and based on National Purchase Diary's (NPD's) data base of 11,500 consumer families. The survey tabulated all apparel and home furnishings purchases, excluding carpets, by the families, and broke them down according to fiber weight.

Ira Livingston, vice-president of U.S. marketing at Cotton Incorporated, says, "Cotton's market share is up 1 percent from 53 percent in 1990. The increase is significant because it is represents growth in a stagnant economy."

"Cotton began regaining popularity when Cotton Incorporated started conducting aggressive retail merchandising and consumer advertising programs for Upland cotton in the early 1970s, Livingston says. "Cotton is still steadily gaining ground as the fiber of choice among consumers."

Telecommunications Week

Texas has officially extended recognition to telecommunications throughout the state that have the task of being 9-1-1 call takers/handlers. The 9-1-1 telecommunications are trained on call handling procedures and the operational functions of all equipment related to the 9-1-1 system. This important task includes staying calm, negotiating and determining as quickly as possible the nature of the emergency and properly handling or directing the call to the appropriate emergency response agency(s).

"The citizens of Bailey County should commend their telecommunications," said Ella O'Neal, 9411 program manager.

"These individuals are responsible for providing emergency assistance and helping to save lives and property in life threatening situations. They are some of the most important persons at public safety agencies and deserve the courtesy and respect of citizens, officers, and supervisors," Ms. O'Neal continued.

In conjunction with National Public Safety Telecommunicators Week, Governor Ann Richards has proclaimed April 12-18 as Telecommunicators Week in Texas. Local recognition is due to telecommunications of this region in Bailey County, for a job of excellence.

"On behalf of the South Plains regional 9-1-1 Emergency Communications, the telecommunications of Bailey County, Texas are hereby recognized for their dedication and efforts contributing to the accomplishment of the national Emergency Number Association's (NENA) goal, "One Nation-One Number", and the acceptance of 9-1-1 service that works. When Seconds Count. Congratulations to the following telecommunications at the Muleshoe Police department for a job well done: Mary Soto, Donna Reeves, Kim Barnett, Andrea DeLeon, Yolanda Martinez, Denise Beasley and Ronon Martinez, continued Ms. C

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

I. 35-40 years of age -
One baseline mammogram.

II. 40-50 years of age -
A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.

III. 50 years of age and over -
An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.

IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. Asymptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

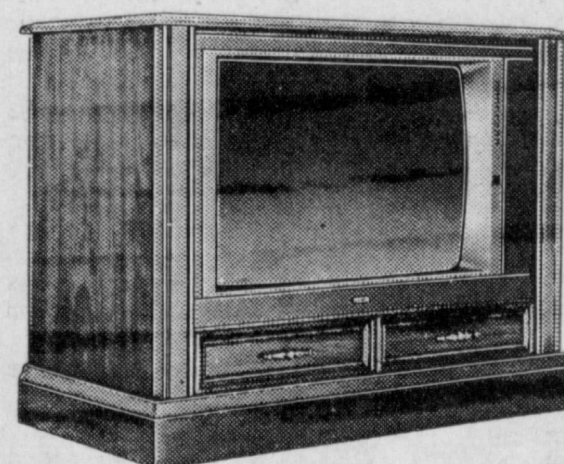

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Clean Texas 2000 Is Launched

Governor Ann Richards and the Texas Water Commission (TWC) have announced an ambitious statewide environmental campaign aimed at greatly reducing the pollution in the state and mobilizing all Texas citizens to help in this effort.

Asking members of business, and industry, local governments and communities, and private citizens to "roll up their sleeves and join the effort," the Governor announced Clean Texas 2000 during a press conference on April 7, at the Governor's mansion. Richards likened the campaign to a crusade needed to reverse Texas' course as the nation's largest producer of both household garbage and hazardous waste and toxics.

"We must seriously change the way we think and act, or we will wake up one day in a state unfit for the next generation of Texans," Richards said. "The time has come to make strong environmental citizenship as much a Texas trait as our free spirit and our down-home style. Clean Texas 2000 will help each of us focus on what we must do."

Texas businesses and industries generate 20 percent of the hazardous waste reported in the U.S. and 13.9

percent of the reported toxics released--tops in the nation. They are being asked for a voluntary overall 50 percent reduction by the year 2000. Initial industry response to the program has been positive and companies are already signing up.

"Texas companies want to be the best citizens they can be, and a number are already spending millions to cut the amount of waste they generate," said Harry Whitworth, Texas Chemical Council president. "We wholeheartedly support this initiative and will do everything we can to meet the goals."

Clean Texas 2000 also seeks to dramatically reduce the amount of garbage going to Texas landfills by showing Texans how they can trim the amount of garbage they produce, recycle, and compost their yard waste. While about a third of all Texas cities have some form of a recycling program, the state as a whole recycles less than 10 percent of its household garbage and only a handful of cities have full-fledged curbside recycling programs.

"We have a three-fold challenge before us here," said former Upton County Judge Peggy Garner, the most recently appointed Commissioner. "All of us must begin buying products in grocery and retail stores that are made from recycled materials. This will create demand for recyclables and will result in new plants to convert them into new products. Then our cities will have some place to send recyclables. Right now those markets aren't there."

Yard waste is another major target of Clean Texas. Leaves, grass and tree trimmings currently represent almost 20 percent of materials disposed of in Texas landfills. Besides gobbling up valuable landfill space, yard waste disposal accounts for almost one-fourth of monthly garbage bills.

"There are communities in Texas right now," said TWC Commissioner Pam Reed, "that are adding years of capacity to their landfills, because they collect yard waste separately, compost it and return it to their citizens as fertilizer."

A number of Clean Texas 2000 initiatives are focused on protecting water quality. Collection programs for household hazardous chemicals will be established across Texas with the first four announced for Abilene, Corpus Christie, Odessa and New Braunfels. Currently, Texans throw about a million tons of hazardous household materials into the garbage every year. This includes many paints, cleaning materials, and other products.

The TWC's citizen volunteer water quality monitoring programs will be vastly expanded and citizens will be recruited in every community. Clean Texas hopes to have as many as 20,000 Texans involved in water quality monitoring by the year 2000.

"We truly need the involvement of every Texan in Clean Texas 2000," said TWC Chairman John Hall. "The Texas Water Commission and staff will also use this initiative to focus on providing more efficient and effective environmental leadership for Texas. Our goal is to become a problem solver rather than just a regulator."

Clean Texas 2000 will deliver information to Texas citizens in a number of ways. Environmental and recycling information is available free of charge through the Texas Water Commission's new statewide Environmental and Recycling Information Center. Call 1-800-458-9796 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Also available through the information center is the Clean Texas 2000 Environmental Home and Garden Guide. The guide will be published in major newspapers across the State April 12.

Clean Texas also will recognize outstanding efforts for the Texas environment through an awards program that will include an Industry Honor Roll and the Governor's Awards for Environmental Excellence. Cities, schools, community groups and individuals are encouraged to write about environmental projects and activities. Many of those will be reported in a Clean Texas 2000 newsletter. To receive the Clean Texas newsletter or report your environmental projects, write Clean Texas 2000, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711-3087.

Dealing With Emotions Of Divorce

by Ron Trusler, M.E., L.P.C., C.C.D.S.

This is the second article in a series regarding divorce: Flashbacks may occur. They are reminders of the past relationship. Some of them may be good. However, during the first part of the divorce, they will probably be bad. Any good ones may surface later after the anger has been worked through. Flashback can even pop-up in the next relationship. That can cause some interesting situations. These can be detrimental unless they're properly identified and dealt with.

One thing to remember, emotions are functioning in a survival type made-at-an-all-time low. One may do and say things they would not normally do or say. Attitudes may be more calloused. Actions may include habits that are not normally becoming or their character. Don't be too quick to judge that person. Here are some quick hints that will help in the long run: (1) don't make a big decision by yourself, enlist the help of someone you trust; (2) when things seem overwhelming, take one thing at a time, get organized, prioritize; (3) having the feeling of being on-the-go may not be all bad. It helps keep the sanity. Be wise though. It's expensive. You may notice a vocabulary change from "ours" to "mine" or from "us" to "I" - plural to singular.

The next article will deal with some other "normal" reactions and emotions of divorce.

NEWS & NOTES

Bud Fisher of the C.M.A.T. attended the historic event in Corsicana on March 31st. A memorial statue was dedicated to Lefty Frizzell and the day was declared Lefty Frizzell Day in Corsicana by Mayor Gus Gappenberg. Lefty was born in the town on March 31, 1928. Local citizens formed a Lefty Frizzell committee to honor the late country music performer with a memorial statue. Several thousand Country Music fans attended the event which featured music by David Frizzell as well as many area bands. Bill Mack, the Midnight Cowboy from WBAP radio was emcee. Lefty Frizzell was an early country music legend in the 50's with hits like "Always Late". If You've Got The Money Honey, I Love You A Thousand Ways and Saginaw Michigan. Farm Workers File Lawsuit

Forty-one migrant farmworkers from the Rio Grande Valley have filed suit in federal court in McAllen against Jones Produce Company, Steve & Patti Jones Farms, Steven D. Jones, and Patti Jones, onion growers with a farm and produce shed in Lubbock, and Francisco "Pancho" Quesada, a Weslaco crewleader.

During their work in the 1990 and 1991 onion harvesting seasons, the workers did not receive the federal minimum wage of $3.80 and 4.25 per hour, respectively. In 1991 the defendants deducted social security taxes from the workers' paychecks but never paid the taxes into the federal government. The workers also failed to receive wage receipts which accurately reflected the number of hours they worked harvesting onions, their right under the federal Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act.

The complaint alleges that the workers are suing on behalf of themselves and all other migrant and seasonal farmworkers who worked for the defendants in 1991 and all other migrant and seasonal farmworkers who will work for the defendants in the future. Hundreds are farm workers are expected to benefit from the lawsuit.

The workers are being represented by Texas Rural Legal Aid, Inc., of Weslaco and Plainview, Texas. Attorney Jeff Levin of the Weslaco office says that this lawsuit should serve as an example to West Texas growers and farm labor contractors who continue to ignore their responsibilities under federal labor law.

"If West Texas growers and contractors don't start paying their workers the minimum wage and giving them wage receipts with hours accurately recorded, more workers like these are going to file suit in the Rio Grande Valley, and growers and contractors are going to find themselves paying a lot more than just the minimum wage to the workers and their attorneys."

Levin pointed out that under the Fair Labor Standards Act, an employer who pays less than the minimum wage may be liable for the unpaid wages, an equal amount in liquidated damages, attorneys' fees and costs of the action.

April Supermarket Specials

April supermarket specials will key on Easter hams and eggs, but because the holiday comes late this year, consumers also will find good bargains in early vegetables.

"The headliner for most Easter advertising will be ham," said Dr. Dick Edwards food marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

"Not only will consumers get a wide choice, but the prices will be very, very low," he said. "Hog prices are about 40 percent lower this month than they were a year ago."

The lowest-priced hams, running 89 to 99 cents per pound will be the cured, water-added, bone-in variety, Edwards said. Whole fresh hams will be priced in the same range. Boneless canned hams will be available at prices from $1.80 per pound for 5-pound tins.

Shoppers looking for meat alternatives will not be disappointed with poultry and beef prices also declining. Both are selling 10 percent lower than their peak last year.

"Turkeys will not be as cheap as they were at Thanksgiving, but they will run between 59 and 79 cents per pound," he said. National brands will command the higher prices.

Shoppers also should find specials on rib roasts and whole loin roasts, both of which will be marked down at least 30 percent, he said.

Eggs will be another "hot" item for Easter ads.

"Volume has dropped with the growing popularity of plastic eggs for Easter egg hunts, but the demand is sufficient to make the holiday number one in egg sales," Edwards said. Prices for eggs are down about 25 percent from last Easter.

"Egg producers usually hope for a price spurt at Easter time due to the tremendous demand, but that will not happen this year," he said.

Low initial prices plus the use of eggs as a "loss leader" in market advertising will result in unusually great reductions. The lowest prices will be for the medium-sized eggs, which some aggressive retailers will sell at 49 cents per dozen, he said.

The lateness of Easter this year presents a unique marketing opportunity for fresh produce, he said, because numerous varieties will reach stores in time for the holiday.

Strawberries will top the produce specials at 49 cents per pint throughout April. Tie-in promotions will feature shortcakes, pie shells, and whipped cream toppings.

"A mild winter with adequate rain has provided ideal growing conditions, and there will be plenty of berries at prices lower than in the past two years," he said.

Green beans, broccoli, artichokes, asparagus, green peas, and bell peppers have been in the market for several months, but supplies have been limited. Production in April will expand and prices will drop, Edwards said.

Making their first appearance of the year in the produce sections will be sweet corn, okra, egg plant, "sweet" onions, and late in the month-- vine-ripened tomatoes.

"April is a very good month for citrus because the grapefruit and oranges have reached full maturity and is sweet and plentiful," the economist said.

April also marks the end of the Chilean produce season. The best value for Chilean fruit during the month will be grapes with sale prices of 79 to 85 cents per pound, he said.

Passover will not be overlooked, Edwards said. Meats most aggressively marked down will be kosher turkeys and chickens. Other traditional foods also will be discounted.

Peanut butter should be cheaper this spring because the 1991 crop was about 40 percent greater than the previous year's drought-stricken yields.

"This will help consumers feeling the economic pinch," he said. "Peanut butter sales usually increase because it's cheaper than other sources of protein."

New roasted honey peanut butter and low-sugar, low-salt varieties will appear on store shelves this spring--the first major changes in peanut butter marketing in two decades.

With the coming of the fresh fruit and vegetable season, manufacturers of canned and frozen goods will be scrambling to reduce inventories, he said.

"Tomatoes lead a list of products that have an unseasonably excessive inventory."

All kinds of tomatoes--whole, stewed, paste and sauce--will be marked for reduction. Canned green beans, beets and carrots also will go on sale.

Among frozen foods, prices on peas, broccoli, cut corn and lima beans will be discounted, Edwards said.

Seafood specials will dwindle after Easter, but shrimp has been a good buy throughout 1991, and spring prices continue to be low. Medium-sized shrimp offers the best value at $3.50 per pound.

Food Labeling Laws To Change

Planned changes in food labeling laws will help consumers make more informed purchases, the former president of the American Dietetic Association told a Texas Christian University audience.

Dr. Mary Abbott Hess explained that manufacturers voluntarily place labels on prepared food products now, but the visiting lecturer noted that labels will be required when laws are revised next spring. "When everybody has to provide labeling, we're going to have a level playing field," Hess said.

Among the changes planned is standardizing serving sizes, which are currently set at the choice of manufacturers, according to Hess.

"If they want something to look like it has less calories or less fat, they'll give it a smaller serving size. If they want it to look richer in nutrients, they might use a larger serving size. Consequently, you can find the same category of food with 20 different serving sizes," she said.

Hess noted that food label laws were last altered 20 years ago and today's changes are creating some confusion. "The point is not to make us crazy but to allow the opportunity for consumers to make wiser choices based on realistic health concerns and receive accurate information that is not misleading," she explained.

Better details about food contents may lead to better diets and reduced heart disease and cancer, Hess suggested. She said improved diets also could result in lower health care costs over the long run.

Scotopic Sensitivity Syndrome Set For April 21

Scotopic Sensitivity Syndrome (SSS) is a perceptual dysfunction affecting principally reading and writing-based activities. This syndrome is related to difficulties with light source, glare, luminance, wavelength, and black/white contrast.

Individuals with Scotopic Sensitivity Syndrome put more energy and effort into the reading process because they are inefficient readers who see the printed page differently from the "good" reader. Contrast adaptation to distortions from print or from the white background causes fatigue and discomfort and, more important, limits the length of time these individuals can read and maintain comprehension.

Individuals with SSS may suffer from a slow reading rate, inefficient reading rate, inefficient reading, poor reading comprehension, strain and fatigue, and an inability to do continuous reading. Scotopic Sensitivity can affect reading, attention span, energy level, motivation, or work production. In addition, problems with handwriting and depth perception may also be a result of Scotopic Sensitivity Syndrome.

When Scotopic Sensitivity goes undetected, those individuals with this syndrome might be viewed as underachievers with behavioral, attitudinal, or motivational problems. These individuals appear bright but are not producing to a level considered appropriate and may have been labeled "dumb", "stupid," or "lazy." Some individuals diagnosed as having dyslexia, reading problems, or various developmental delays may actually be suffering from Scotopic Sensitivity.

Scotopic Sensitivity is not, of itself, a learning difficulty in the accepted sense. Rather it is a complex and variable condition often found to coexist with learning difficulties. SSS can be found in combination with dyslexia, dysgraphia, dyscalculia, attention deficit disorder, or hyper-activity. Treatment for Scotopic Sensitivity does not eliminate the need for remediation.

Symptoms of Scotopic Sensitivity remain undetected by standard visual and medical examinations, educational and psychological evaluations, and other school-related tests.

Kathy Wyrick is a Scotopic Sensitivity Syndrome screener, who has been trained by the Irlen Institute. She will conduct an informational workshop in Muleshoe on April 21. The workshop will be held in the boardroom at the Muleshoe ISD administration office from 4:15-5:30 p.m. All interested person are invited to attend.

Lady Texan Basketball Camp

Applications are now being accepted for Lady Texan Basketball Camp, which will be held July 19-23 at South Plains College.

The camp, under the direction of South Plains College women's basketball coach Lyndon Hardin, is open to all girls in fifth grade through high school.

"It has become one of the best in the country," Hardin said, "We started out with 30 girls the first year I had it (1984). Last year, we had 185 girls."

The purpose of the camp is to provide an opportunity for girls and young women to improve their basketball skills in a fun environment. The fundamentals of basketball are stressed, with sportsmanship, team play and self-confidence emphasized as well.

"We're not going to make them great players in a week," Hardin said, "but we give them a good foundation. We're going to work hard on basketball skills. It's not a recreational camp, but they have fun too."

The camp will be held in Texan Dome on the SPC campus. Other facilities for use by the campers are an indoor swimming pool, indoor racquetball courts and tennis courts. In addition, campers also may spend time at the SPC Student Center, which features a video arcade, pool and ping pong tables and a giant-screen television.

Camp participants may commute daily from their homes or spend the week on campus in a college residence hall.

The cost of the camp is $190 for overnight campers, $155 for day campers who eat in Texan Hall and $100 for day campers who do not eat in the dining hall.

Included in the camp fee is instruction, insurance, awards and entertainment, as well as certificates, a t-shirt, official camp photo and a basketball for each participant.

The camp schedule will include ball handling, dribbling, passing and shooting drills, along with scrimmages, tournament games and individual instruction.

Time also will be devoted to "Let's Talk Basketball," a session which will stress attitude, desire, leadership and enthusiasm.

Assisting Hardin with the camp will be Cheryl Watson, assistant women's basketball coach at SPC. Other members of the camp staff include current and former members of the SPC women's basketball team, in addition to other area high school coaches and college players.

"We just have a great staff," Hardin said. "They do a great job of teaching fundamentals. The girls get a lot of individual attention. We try to keep it where there's one staff member for every eight campers."

Hardin recently completed his ninth season at the SPC helm, guiding the Lady Texans to the championship game of the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 5 Tournament.

The veteran coach previously has been associated with camps at Texas Tech University, West Texas State University, Wayland Baptist University and Texas Women's University, in addition to camps at Canyon and Tulia high schools.

Camp applications will be accepted as they are received and should be returned as soon as possible. A $75 deposit should be sent with the application, and the remaining balance will be due at the time of registration.

Registration will be held on July 19 at 2 p.m. in Gillespie Hall, with camp activities concluding on July 23 at 8 p.m.

The deposit is non-refundable after July 5, and $20 charge will be made on all refunds.

For more information, contact Hardin at (806) 894-9611, ext. 224, or write: Lady Texan Basketball Camp, South Plains College, 1401 S. College Avenue, Levelland, Tex., 79336.

This unique, patented, double-banded steel wheel gives flotation equal to the standard rubber tire. Its open center and straight traction lugs allows movement of soil from the pressure of the bands to flow inward. This soil then remains untouched by the mini-MAX TRAX which builds a bridge between the two bands.
