

Odessan Injured In Oil Field Air Crash

Light Plane Hits Derrick Trolley Wire

A 39-year-old Odessa oil field salesman was injured seriously Saturday afternoon when his private plane struck an oil well "trolley wire" and plummeted 50 feet to the ground.

Suffering from head and face injuries in Western Clinic-Hospital is Pat Welch, a salesman for the H. C. Smith Bit Company of Odessa.

Welch, who frequently flew his own plane on trips to oil field locations, was alone in his single-engine craft when he crashed in the Midkiff-Spraberry field about 35 miles south of Midland.

Members of the crew on an oil well watched stunned as a wing was sheared off and the plane crashed to the ground, plowing up dirt for about 50 yards. Thought Pilot Killed

"We thought sure he was killed," said C. E. Fields, a roughneck who lives on West Highway 80 on the outskirts of Midland.

"I was sitting in the doghouse when I looked outside and saw the plane, pretty close to the ground, heading toward our derrick.

"Apparently he didn't see the trolley wire because he ran right into it. His right wing fell off and the plane tumbled to the ground."

Fields said the pilot was thrown partially out of the plane and was pinned beneath it when he and the other men reached the wreckage. They pulled the wreckage apart, gave Welch first aid and summoned help.

Welch was brought to Midland in a Newline W. Ellis ambulance. The accident occurred about 1:30 p.m. at the Sinclair No. 48 well, about three miles northwest of Haddad Corner.

Served In Air Force Welch, although he never lost consciousness, was unable to give an account of what happened. He came to West Texas about six months ago from Oklahoma City. During World War II, he was an airplane mechanic in the Air Force and in recent years had been flying his own plane.

Reds Reject Allied Plan For Limitation Of Post-Truce Talks

MUNSAN, KOREA —(P)— Communist truce negotiators at Panmunjom Sunday rejected an Allied proposal that any post-armistice conference be limited strictly to Korean problems.

The Reds did agree, however, that the Republic of Korea could take part in the later negotiations. The Communist stand was outlined by North Korean Gen. Nam Il at the start of Sunday's full press discussions.

The Reds also opposed what they called the "vague" wording of the Allied plan which would recommend that "steps be taken" within three months toward full settlement of the Korean problem, either at a high level conference or by "other political means."

The Reds suggested that each side appoint five representatives to a political conference.

Odessa Says No To Ouster Of Dr. Sadler

Odessa Saturday rushed to the defense of Dr. F. E. Sadler while Big Spring joined Midland in an effort to have him removed as director of the Tri-County Health Unit serving the three cities.

Spokesmen for Big Spring and Odessa voiced their attitude on the heels of the action of Midland's City Council in asking Dr. George Cox, state health officer, to replace Dr. Sadler with a "more vigorous and aggressive director."

The council had taken its action after City Manager W. H. Oswalt reported that such a course was decided on during a conference earlier between representatives of the three cities.

Work Said Satisfactory "The Odessa City Council," said Odessa City Manager Casey Pannin, "is not in accord with Midland's action concerning Dr. Sadler."

"We are entirely satisfied with his work and feel that he probably is better than most men in a similar post."

Pannin said he did not attend the three-city conference, held in Midland, but was represented by Clyde Yarbrough, director of public works for the City of Odessa. "Our relations with Dr. Sadler," said Yarbrough, "are very good. He is very cooperative as far as I'm concerned."

County Commissioner Bill Orchard of Odessa said the Commissioners Court of Ector County is taking no part in any effort to oust Dr. Sadler.

But Big Spring officials backed up the Midland attitude. "I think the three-county health unit needs a more aggressive type of service," said City Commissioner Frank Hardesty, who had attended the Midland meeting.

"The city commission here feels like someone ought to be at the head of it who not only can tell us what to do but suggest how to do some of the things needed to improve our health situation."

Howard Officials Agree He said Howard County Judge Walter Grice and City Commissioner Jack V. Smith were in "complete agreement" with his views.

In Midland, Oswalt prepared to send copies of a draft of a letter to Dr. Cox to Odessa and Big Spring for their action.

Dr. Sadler himself remained silent and was not available for comment Saturday night.

He conferred Friday and again Saturday morning with the city manager but there was no announcement of the results of their conferences.

Southwestern Truck Driver Walkout Ends

DALLAS —(P)— A week-old strike of Southwestern truck drivers ended Saturday night.

Federal Mediator D. Yates Heafner announced that "an acceptable disposition of differences" was reached at a meeting which lasted almost six hours.

A new contract will run for three years, he said. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

The strike of AFL long haul drivers had idled 8,200 workers in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas. The union is instructing its members to report to work immediately and operations will be resumed as rapidly as possible, Heafner said.

A strike of Southwestern drivers was settled Thursday night at Memphis.

Most North Koreans Not Commies, Says Returned Midlander

A large majority of the North Korean soldiers are not Communist in their beliefs but they are victims of Communist propaganda, a returned Army intelligence officer of the Seventh Division said Saturday in Midland.

"While only 15 or 20 per cent of the prisoners we talked to were Reds themselves," said Lt. Col. Walter H. Walne, Jr., "most of them believed the Communist propaganda that the Americans were aggressors."

Walne, a Midland geologist, returned home recently after being released from active duty as G2 chief on the staff of the Seventh Division in Korea.

In Chinese Offensive He left his position as vice president of the Moore Exploration Company here in September of 1951 to return to active duty and was with the Seventh Division through its bitter fighting in Eastern Korea.

He was in the midst of the fighting during the Chinese offensive but came through without a scratch. "And our enemies were good soldiers," he said, "particularly the North Koreans. They were really tough."

Returning home on the Army transport USS General Howze, with 3,300 returnees aboard, he served as troop commander.

With his wife and two sons, five-year-old Tracy and two-year-old Charlie, Walne lives at 209 Ridgelea Street.

"I deem myself well qualified for this particular position," Schumann said.

Drouth, Truman, Ike, Taxes, Korea Top Interests In Texas

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN —(P)— "I'm a-goin' to vote. Don't know yet what for, but I'm a-goin' to vote."

The grizzled farmer standing patiently in line to pay his poll tax at San Angelo, pretty well summed up what 82 other persons told this correspondent on a 1,200-mile political pulse taking tour.

The sampling started north of Austin; extended as far west as Lubbock; north to Amarillo, Borger and Pampa; southeast to Wichita Falls and Mineral Wells; then south through Stephenville and Lampasas.

It included frank, off-the-record interviews with political leaders, county bosses, judges, ranchers, farmers, editors, laborers, lawyers, teachers. I talked to ministers, oil men, merchants, waitresses and three grave diggers.

My conclusions on the early February political temperature of at least one huge slice straight through the heart of Texas:

1. Political interest has reached an intensity seldom seen this early in a general election year. The drouth comes first in interest, but Harry, Ike, taxes and Korea are a close second.

2. Almost everybody wants a change, but they're not sure what to. This is coupled with general unrest, uncertainty, insecurity, slow-burning anger.

3. Persons who will admit they like President Truman are hard to find. Almost everybody blames the Administration for mink coats, tax scandals, the Korea stalemate, high taxes.

4. While most of the ire centers on the President, Democrats on all levels want to keep their party in power. This is in the face of an

U. S. Warns Allies To Agree Quickly On European Army

WASHINGTON —(P)— The United States has warned Allied leaders in Europe they should agree quickly on plans for a European defense force, including German troops, if adequate new foreign aid funds are to be expected from Congress.

Officials said the need for urgent action had been stressed especially to French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. They are leading figures in a bitter wrangle which threatens to delay seriously if not wreck the whole defense project.

Secretary of State Acheson is due to sound the warning anew when he goes to Europe this week for Big Three talks in London and the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council at Lisbon, Portugal.

Acheson and other Administration authorities are worried over the critical attitude they expect to encounter when they go to the U. S. Capitol next month to ask new billions to help the European Allies rearm.

They are reported to be convinced that unless they can show real achievements in greater Western European unity and in solving the problem of getting German troops added to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's NATO Command they will face strong demands for cutting appropriations.

Inspector To Seek More Postal Space

The additional space which the Midland Post Office long has sought came a step closer to reality Saturday.

Postmaster N. G. Oates announced that C. E. Curtis, Post Office inspector from San Antonio, expects to be here this week to lease additional space on which a Post Office annex can be built.

Additional space to relieve the congested conditions at the Post Office has been sought since last September, when Chamber of Commerce Manager Delbert Downing made a special trip to Washington to plead for a new building here.

Downing didn't get approval for a new building but he did get a promise from federal postal officials that additional space would be added to the present facilities.

When constructed, the proposed new annex will contain 3,500 square feet of floor space, which Postmaster Oates said "will be sufficient to care for our needs at the present."

Won't Include Window All incoming and outgoing parcel post would be handled at the new annex but it would not contain a window which would be open to the public.

Oates was well pleased with the prospects of receiving additional space he said:

"What we actually need is one large Post Office building where all the activities of the Post Office could be carried out, rather than having them scattered all over town as they now are."

"It would save considerable time to have all operations under one roof," he added.

Burial Expenses For Chickens Too Much, Solons Say

ATLANTA.—(P)—Georgia Legislators don't like the idea of paying burial expenses for a flock of chickens.

The chickens were scared to death by the booming guns of National Guard field artillerymen on maneuvers.

Farmer Claude Bennett contended the roasting guns so frightened his 7,500 18-week-old fowls that 425 smothered during the excitement.

Rep. Dempsey Leach proposed to the House of Representatives that the State of Georgia pay Bennett, one of his constituents, 50 cents for each casualty and ten in $25 extra for the cost of burying the birds.

The House agreed to pay Bennett $382.50—but said "nothing doing" on that $25 burial fee.

Three Youth Council Members Praise State School For Girls At Gainesville

GAINESVILLE—(P)—The State Training School for Girls and its superintendent got a high efficiency rating from three members of the State Youth Development Council. They will report to the full 14-member council at its next regular meeting in Austin, February 21.

The members inspected the school Friday. Their trip came after charges concerning whippings, solitary confinement and use of drugs at the school were made at a recent habeas corpus hearing in Houston for one of the girls formerly confined to the school.

The council members said they found the school superintendent, Mrs. Maxine Burlingham, "a superior capable, conscientious and efficient administrator."

One of the members, W. D. Whalen, McAllen furniture dealer, added: "I think she's got her heart in the work. She's trying to do the best she can for these girls."

Whalen, Mrs. R. J. Turrentine, Denton, who also is chairman of the State Public Welfare Board, and Leslie Jackson, Dallas attorney, talked with Mrs. Burlingham, inspected the buildings and then returned to the main office to talk with reporters.

Whalen said they had gone through the case of the Houston girl, 18, "with a fine-toothed comb."

Jackson said "we found in her case there has been no whipping whatsoever. There had been confinement by way of punishing her and restraining her from excessive use of abusive language to the personnel."

The members said the punishment of locking her up in her own room had been broken—not continuous. The girl had testified she spent 176 days in confinement out of the 210 days she was in the school.

The girl also testified she was given drugs to quiet her at the school.

"We found that such medicine as was administered to the patient was administered under the prescription of and on the order of R. James Atchison, the school physician," Jackson said.

On the question of abolishing whippings, they said whatever action was taken would be taken by the council.

"But I think if we (the council) abolish whippings, we ought to provide something to take their place," Whalen said.

Whalen said, "It is my personal observation that the school is run as efficiently as a state school could be. I only wish Gainesville (the boys' training school) were half as good."

Air Force Tests New Radio-Guided Airborne Lifeboat

SHARON, PA.—(P)—A new radio-guided airborne lifeboat aimed at rescuing victims of sea disasters has completed final tests by the U. S. Air Force, Westinghouse Electric Corporation reported Saturday.

The 3,500-pound parachuted lifeboat holds 15 men and is stocked with provisions for 10 days and fuel for an 800-mile cruise. In addition, the 30-foot-long craft is equipped with a walkie-talkie radio and a machine for distilling sea water into fresh drinking water.

The boat is guided by five different radio signals which perform functions including detaching the parachute, opening air vents, chocking the motor, release of a sea anchor, starting the motor and guiding the boat to the exact location of the victims.

Once the survivors are aboard they can operate the boat themselves or if they are too exhausted, they can be led back to safety by radio control from the rescue plane.

Two Dallas Men Die In Apartment Blaze

DALLAS—(P)—Fire confined to a small, second-floor apartment resulted in death for two Dallas men Friday night.

Damage was estimated at $3,250.

Manufacturers Receive Notice To File Requests

Manufacturers needing steel, copper and aluminum for their operation during July-September, 1952, must file their CMP-4B application forms for these controlled materials by March 1.

This announcement came Saturday from Thomas U. Purcell, district manager, National Production Authority, who said 4B forms are now being mailed to El Paso area manufacturers.

Purcell also reminded manufacturers that, in general, applications should be filed with the NPA office which granted the manufacturer's second quarter allotment. The El Paso district office is located at 310 San Francisco Street, Chamber of Commerce Building.

Engineer Exonerated In Fatal Rail Crash

NORRISTOWN, PA.—(P)—The engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Red Arrow Express was found innocent of involuntary manslaughter and negligence in the Bryn Mawr wreck last May in which nine persons were killed and 123 injured.

A jury of seven men and five women thus exonerated Francis B. Yentzer, who was operating the Red Arrow Express, a Detroit-to-New York flyer, when it smashed into the rear of the stalled Philadelphia Night Express outside Bryn Mawr Station.

The defense blamed faulty signal equipment.

City Orders $4,000 Survey To See How Flat Area Isn't

The people who think the country around Midland is flat are going to have to pay $4,000 to see how flat it isn't.

That's how much it's going to cost to run a topographic survey on an additional nine square miles in the immediate environs of the city.

The project was approved Friday afternoon by the City Council after City Manager W. H. Oswald reported that in its planning for the future, the city needs to have the information on the area's topographical make-up.

The original survey, on which it based the grades of street paving as well as sewer, water and drainage projects, was done in 1948 and covers most of the city.

The three were arrested Wednesday night in Odessa.

Mississippi Job Sale Trials Delayed

JACKSON, MISS.—(P)—Trials of four pro-Truman Democrats accused of selling federal jobs for cash in Mississippi have been postponed indefinitely at the request of the prosecution.

U. S. District Judge Allen Cox, who had set the trials this week despite prosecution protests, changed his mind Saturday and called them off.

A special Justice Department prosecutor, Ben Brooks of Washington, had argued it would weaken the government's case to bring the four defendants to trial this week because of some appeals pending before the U. S. Supreme Court.

First Natural Gas Tax Suit Scheduled For Trial March 17

AUSTIN—(P)—The first suit challenging the state's new natural gas gathering tax will go to trial March 17 in 126th District Court. First Assistant Attorney General Charles Mathews reported Friday.

He said setting of the first trial had been arranged with Judge Jack Roberts but the order of trial in 42 pending cases had not been determined.

Companies testing validity of the tax by paying it under protest have argued that the levy is a burden on interstate commerce, is discriminatory, and in some cases is not paid by the actual gatherer.

Protest payments are being held in escrow pending settlement of the suits. The tax amounts to nine-tenths of one cent per 1,000 cubic feet of gathered gas.

Upton Prospector Is Taking Second DST In Ellenburger

Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation and Greenbrier Oil Company No. 1 R. S. Windham, West-Central Upton County wildcat, 18 miles north and slightly west of Rankin failed to develop any shows of oil or gas in its first drillstem test in the Ellenburger.

Operators tested for one hour at 12,857-887 feet. There was a weak blow of air for 30 minutes and it then died.

Had No Shows
Recovery was approximately 800 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil, gas or water. Interested observers said that the investigation was not satisfactory or conclusive.

Another test is to be attempted on the same interval at once.

Corrected top of the Ellenburger has been called at 12,855 feet. Elevation is 2,832 feet. That makes the No. 1 Windham 796 feet low on the top of the Ellenburger to the same marker in the center of the Vicksburg-Ellenburger field three miles to the northwest.

Has Upper Prospects
Anderson-Prichard and Greenbrier No. 1 Windham flowed oil from the Wolfcamp and showed possibilities of production in two sections in the Pennsylvanian line.

If it is barren in the Ellenburger it will go back and test all the upper shows and try to complete as a commercial producer and a field opener from at least one of those prospective pay sections.

The Blackwood & Nichols Company No. 1 Hofferkamp, North-Central Midland County wildcat, which was finished late in October of 1951 to open the Hofferkamp-Pennsylvanian field is, being re-worked after its production had shown a considerable decline.

This well, located two and one-half miles northeast of the city of Midland, was completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 20.8 barrels of 46-gravity oil and no water, flowing through a 3 1/8 inch tubing choke. Gas-oil ratio was 1,685-1.

The tool was open 30 minutes. Recovery was 300 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud and 1,300 feet of slightly gas cut salt water.

The project is now making hole below 7,357 feet in Pennsylvanian lime and shale. It is contracted to 7,500 feet—unless it makes an oil well in the Pennsylvanian before reaching that level.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 19, block 4, H&GN survey.

That makes the prospect 13 miles southwest of Claremont and one and one-eighth miles east of the nearest oil well in the East Polar-Pennsylvanian field.

This prospect did not run any tests through the Spraberry section. It cored through that formation. No description on those cores has been reported.

Recovery, when the drill pipe was pulled, was 1,023 feet of free gas and 150 feet of drilling mud with no shows of oil or water.

Making New Hole
The prospect is making more hole. It is contracted to 12,500 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block 37, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Making New Hole
The prospect is making more hole. It is contracted to 12,500 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block 37, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Midland's First Gasoline Plant Is Operating

Midland had a new industry Saturday as announcement was made that the county's first gasoline plant was in operation.

It is the Tex-Harvey Gasoline Plant, located approximately 18 miles southeast of Midland. The plant is a joint project of the Tex-Harvey Gasoline Company and the Anchor Gasoline Corporation.

On Initial Phase
Officials said Saturday that only the initial phase of operations had begun. That activity is the compressing of gas to a pressure of 300 pounds and recover of 14-pound natural gasoline and butane-propane mix. The initial phase is handling 10,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

Ultimately, the plant will handle 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Construction Continues
Construction on other parts of the plant will be continued during the initial phase of operation. Initial operation was started before final construction was completed to use a portion of the gas being flared—as a conservation measure.

The plant currently has approximately 50 employees, but this includes construction workmen. There will be about 25 regular employees when the installation is on normal operations.

The plant gathers from the following producers: Tex-Harvey Oil Company, J. H. Floyd, Den-Tex Oil Company, Velma Petroleum Company, Ashland Oil & Refining Company, Union Oil Company of California, Olan Brothers, Lomax Brothers and Sohio Petroleum Company.

Contractors Listed
The plant was designed by J. B. Gill Company of California. Sub-contractors include: concrete—E. D. Porter; trucking—H&M, Canyon and Cox Companies; electrical—Mid-West Electric Company; pipe line contractor—Turner, Huffman and Pierce.

Operating personnel includes: C. D. Sorrels, operating superintendent; A. W. Dwan, general superintendent; Joe R. Wright of Anchor and Harry P. McClintock of Tex-Harvey, company representatives. Construction began on the plant Sept. 15, 1951.

The new slate of officers, with Frank A. Morgan, Richfield Oil Corporation, Los Angeles, serving on the executive committee as past president, will assume the responsibility of directing the activities of the 8,700-member association at the conclusion of the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the organization in Los Angeles, March 24-27.

Retiring Officers
Present executive committee members retiring at that time are C. L. Moody, consulting geologist, The Ohio Oil Company, Shreveport, past president (1950-51), and Lewis G. Weeks, chief research geologist, Standard Oil Company (N. J.) New York vice president.

President-elect Morgan J. Davis brings to his AAPG position a wealth of experience acquired during his rise from field geologist to director in charge of exploration of the Humble Oil & Refining Company.

A Native Texan
Born in Anson, Texas, Davis received his first academic training in geology at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, later transferring to the University of Texas at Austin.

Eager to put his newly acquired knowledge to practical use, Davis accepted a position with the Holway Engineering Company of Tulsa in 1922, before completing his undergraduate work.

This experience proved to be a two-year interlude in his academic training, and he returned to the Austin campus in 1924. Completing his geological studies the following

New Permian Basin Oil Outlets Get More Allocations

If critical materials come through on schedule two pipe lines which will increase the outlet for crude oil from the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico by more than 600,000 barrels per day should be in operation before the end of 1932.

Those two lines are the West Texas Gulf Pipe Line Corporation which will have a 301,000 barrels per day and the Rancho Pipe Line Company which will be able to move 200,000 barrels per day.

Construction, Underway

Construction on both those new trunk carriers is underway under allotments of pipe from the Petroleum Administration for Defense for the first quarter of 1932.

Additional allotments for both lines have not been approved by the PAD for the second quarter of this year.

If the second-quarter allotments do not run into supply difficulties and additional allocations for some of the projects are made available in the third quarter, both lines will be completed by next fall.

Big Grant To Gulf

Largest allocation of pipe was made to the West Texas Gulf line, which will receive 51,329 tons of steel pipe for its 25 and 30-inch line from West Texas to the Gulf Coast.

Already under construction, the line is estimated to need 129,458 tons of pipe, and at the present rate of construction, should be completed during the third quarter of this year. Its initial capacity will be 301,000 barrels of crude daily. The cost will be almost $40,000,000.

Rancho Line Included

The other large line tapping the Permian Basin pools, Rancho Pipe Line Company's project, was allotted 24,767 tons of steel pipe, for an over-all total of 124,886 tons.

The 485-mile, 24-inch line, extending from McCamey to the Houston area, will carry 200,000 barrels of crude daily and will cost approximately $41,000,000. It also is expected to be completed during the third quarter.

Two Other Projects

Sun Pipe Line Company was granted the full 5,540 tons of pipe needed to build its 90-mile crude feeder line from Scurry County to the West Texas Gulf line.

Humble Pipe Line Company was given 2,569 tons of pipe, about one-third of the total required to build a new outlet for the Spraberry area of July.

Proration Hearings For 1932 Are Set

AUSTIN—(AP)—Dates of the monthly state-wide oil proration hearings for the remainder of 1932 have been announced by Railroad Commission Chairman Olin Culbertson.

The dates will be February 20, March 18, April 18, May 16, June 13, July 17, August 19, September 19, October 17, November 18 and December 18.

All hearings are scheduled in Austin at the Commodore Perry Hotel.

In Upton and Reagan Counties. Its capacity will be 30,000 barrels daily. Estimated cost is $2,175,000. Completion date has been set for the first of July.

Starts At Midland

Gulf Refining Company received an allocation of 2,083 tons toward a total of 17,304 tons required to build an 80-mile, 24-inch line from Midland to Colorado City, where it will connect with the West Texas Gulf line.

hole in a Pennsylvania line and conglomerate at 11,149-174 feet. That zone had been treated with 6,000 gallons of acid.
It is 1,380 feet from south and 680 feet from west lines of section 19, block 38, T-1-S, T&P survey.
The well had quit flowing and at last report had been pumping at the rate of about 50 barrels of oil per day.
Some observers think that possibly the tubing packer has given away.

May Have Leaked Mud
Those persons think the packer has allowed drilling mud to leak through and stop the flow.
Operator has pulled the tubing and is now swabbing to clean out. After that has been accomplished it is planned to re-acidize the pay section and put the well back on production.

Offset In Upton Gets Free Oil On Wolfcamp DST

Gulf Oil Corporation was drilling below 9,875 feet in the Wolfcamp at its No. 1-L McElroy Ranch Company, project in West-Central Upton County, after a drillstem test of the formation developed free oil.
Operator took a two and one-half-hour drillstem test from 9,775 to 9,875 feet. Gas was at the surface in 25 minutes, estimated at 9,000 cubic feet daily. No oil surfaced.
Recovery was 80 feet of gas-cut drilling mud, showing a trace of oil and 450 feet of clean 41.7-gravity oil.

No. 1-L McElroy Ranch, is a west offset to Greenbrier Oil Company and others No. 1 E. Windham, active project which is bottomed at 12,887 feet running a drillstem test. No. 1 Windham flowed oil from the Wolfcamp and indicated production from two sections of the Pennsylvania.
Location for No. 1-L McElroy is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 121, block D, CC&D-RGNG survey.

Clear Fork Pay Added To Reef Field In Borden

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 6 Ed Murphy has been completed as the opener of a new pay in the Von Roeder-Canyon reef field of Southeast Borden County.
It was completed for a daily pumping potential of 161 barrels of 21.3-gravity oil from the Clear Fork. The potential was taken through perforations at 4,291-4,321 feet and at 4,331-4,339 feet. The upper set was washed with 2,000 and the lower set with 500 gallons of acid.
Location is 1,579 feet from south and 1,679 feet from east lines of section 60, block 25, H&TC survey and 19 miles southeast of Gail.

Another Good Well Is In Prospect For Wellman Reef Area

Another good oil well is assured for the north side of the Wellman-Wolfcamp reef field of Central-South Terry County at Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation No. 6 Gladys Sales.

This exploration, located 2,155 feet from north and 835 feet from west lines of section 22, block C-36, pal survey, flowed at the rate of 81 barrels of clean, new oil during the first 60 minutes of a drillstem test at 9,242-90 feet.

The tester was still open at last report. Operator is expected to complete the new oil well in the near future.

Top of the lime reef was at 9,842 feet. The well is approximately 10 miles southwest of Brownfield.

Second Producer Is Indicated For New Fisher Field

The second producer has been indicated for the Claytonville-Canyon reef field of Southeast Fisher County.

General Grude Oil Company No. 2 Mrs. G. T. Webb, one location south of the same concern's No. 1 Webb, the field opener flowed oil from the reef to pay. It is coring deeper.

The project tested for 41 minutes at 5,460-75 feet. Gas surfaced in two and one-half minutes, mud came to the top in 14 1/2 minutes and oil started flowing in 23 1/2 minutes.

No Estimate On Flow
The flow continued until the tool was closed. There was no estimate on the amount of oil which was produced during the flowing.
Final recovery was 980 feet of clean oil. The development is coring deeper.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 210, block 3, H&TC survey.

Another Venture Is Set For Gas Area Of NE Val Verde

Western Natural Gas Company No. 2 Ada Cauthorn is to be a step-out from the proven area for dry gas production in the Vinegar-Pennsylvania field of Northeast Val Verde County.

It will be 1,930 feet from north and 1,220 feet from west lines of section 10, GC&SF survey. The prospector is slated to drill to a possible bottom of 10,150 feet.

Northeast of Discovery
The location is one and one-quarter miles north and one-quarter of a mile east of R. J. Caraway No. 1 Guida Rose, the discovery of the field.

That well was completed in June 1951 from pay above the plugged back total depth of 11,209 feet for a daily gas yield of 35,000,000 cubic feet. It is now shut-in.

Prepares To Test
Western Natural No. 2 Cauthorn is one mile east and one-half of a mile north of the same concern's No. 1 Cauthorn, now preparing to test through perforations in the casing at 10,188-224 feet.

That zone had shown commercial gas in preliminary tests. The No. 1 Cauthorn is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 9, GC&SF survey.

SE Martin Project Shoots Spraberry; To Clean And Test

Ryan Consolidated Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Willie Peters, Southeast Martin County wildcat, one mile north of Stanton has shot the open hole in the Spraberry with nitro glycerin and is to clean out and test again.

This project completed drilling in late July 1951. It found a small amount of oil and some water in the section at 7,038-7,167 feet.

Pumped Little Oil
That interval had been fractured with 1,500 gallons. A pump was installed and the well is credited with having produced between five and ten barrels of oil per day—plus an unreported amount of water for several weeks.

It is understood that operator decided to shoot the pay section in an effort to increase the petroleum yield.

Will Test Again
Testing will be held up until the hole can be cleaned out after the nitro glycerin explosion. Likely that work will be completed during this week and it will then be possible to determine if the wildcat can be re-completed as a commercial producer.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 11, block 36, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Four WT Counties Report Dry Holes

Four West Texas Counties have reported dry wildcats.

Rutter, Wilbanks & Sergeant of El Paso No. 1 H. C. White, Southwest Tom Green prospector, was plugged and abandoned at 437 feet. It found fresh water at 90 feet and sulphur water at 358 feet, at 401 feet and at 437 feet.

Location was 2,888 feet from south and 204 feet from east lines of German Emigration Company survey No. 656 and 14 miles southwest of San Angelo.

R. A. Josey, Inc., of Houston No. 1 E. C. Rawlings is a failure in Northeast Coke County. It was plugged at 6,232 feet.

It was 339 feet from north and 2,300 feet from west lines of section 368, block A-1, H&TC survey and six miles north of Bronte.

In Central-North Runnels County, Miami Operating Company, Inc. No. 1 E. C. Schroeder has been quit at total depth of 4,869 feet.

Location was 330 feet from south and west lines of a 72.8-acre lease in J. Mitchell survey No. 342 and six miles north of Winters.

Gray-Wolfe Company No. 1 Margaret W. Hicks is a dry wildcat in Schleicher County. Total depth was 5,862 feet in hard lime with a show of chert.

It is 660 feet out of the southeast corner of section 72 block M, OH&SA survey.

Pegasus In Upton Gets New Oil Well

Phillips Petroleum Company has completed its No. 3-BB TXL as a new producer in the Pegasus-Ellenburger field of Northwest Upton County.

The well flowed 24 hours to make an initial production of 1,123.38 barrels of 52.5-gravity oil and no water. Gas-oil ratio was 1,890-1.

Production was through perforations between 12,290 feet and 12,994 feet in 5 1/2-inch casing which was cemented at 13,175 feet. Top of pay was picked at 12,290 feet. Total depth is 13,175 feet and plugged back total depth is 13,017 feet.

Location is 680 feet from north and west lines of southeast quarter of section 37, block 41, T-4-S, T&P survey.

C-S Gaines Wildcat Drilling In Glorieta

Cactus Drilling Corporation No. 1 Knight, wildcat in Central-South Gaines County, is drilling below 6,220 feet in lime and shale after a drillstem test in the Glorieta at 5,950-6,000 feet.

Tool was open two hours. Recovery was 600 feet of free gas in the drillpipe, 400 feet of heavily gas cut oil and 30 feet of oil and gas cut salt water.

The Glorieta was topped at 5,950. No elevation was reported.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 8, block A-22, psi survey and eight and one-half miles south of Seminole. That makes it one mile northeast of the Harris-Glorieta field.

Sun Quits Failure In Central Nolan

Sun Oil Company No. 3 Susie R. Featherstone, Central Nolan County wildcat, 11 miles south of Sweetwater is to be plugged and abandoned on total depth of 6,882 feet in an unidentified dolomite.

It failed to find any signs of possible production and it made salty water in a drillstem test at 6,852-82 feet.

The tool for that investigation was open two hours. Recovery was 600 feet of muddy salty water with a rainbow show of oil, 270 feet of gas cut salty mud and 15 feet of clear salt water.

Location was 660 feet from north and east lines of section 37, block X, T&P survey. It was two miles northeast of the Ellenburger-Strawn field discovery well.

Dry Hole Reported In North Pecos

Richardson & Bass of Fort Worth No. 1 Barron Kidd and others, wildcat in North Pecos County, was plugged and abandoned on total depth of 5,443 feet after recovering 300 feet of slightly sulphur water-cut drilling mud on a drillstem test in the Ellenburger.

That formation was topped at 5,413 feet on a minus datum point of 3,160 feet.

The drillstem test that made water was taken from 5,410 to 5,443 feet.

Location was three miles east of the Abell district and 660 feet from north and east lines of the northeast quarter of the south half of section 36, block 9, H&GN survey. That put it eight miles east of Imperial.

Gas Injection Work In Anton-Irish Oil Field Has Started

A gas injection program has been started in the Anton-Irish field of Hale, Lamb and Lubbock Counties. The program is being operated on a unitization arrangement with Stanolind Oil & Gas Company handling the work.

The unitization and gas injection project is expected to increase materially the ultimate recovery of oil from the pool.

Gas Brought In
Because of the small amount of gas in solution in Anton-Irish crude, it is necessary to purchase gas from outside sources to carry out the initial phases of the injection program.

The west dome of the pool was discovered in December 1944 with completion of the Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 J. A. Jackson, a well subsequently acquired by Anton Oil Corporation. Some 16 months later, Stanolind No. 1-A Lee Irish opened the east dome. Originally the pools were considered separate.

Covers Most Of Field
The Anton-Irish unit covers some 6,110 acres and includes 196 of the 144 wells completed at the time of unitization. Production is from the Clear Fork.

Besides Stanolind, other working interest owners include Anton Oil, A & H Oil Company, Gulf Oil Corporation, Hunt Oil Company, Carolyn Hunt Trust Estate, Magnolia Petroleum Company, and Pure Oil Company.

WASHINGTON OIL—

Proposed West Coast Pipe Line Slated For Approval This Year

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The construction of a West Texas—California crude oil pipe line of large diameter is down for approval by the government after the middle of this year.

A formal decision yet is to be made between competing applications from Progress Pacific Pipe Line Company, Los Angeles, and West Coast Pipe Line Company, Dallas. Both asked line pipe and certificates of necessity.

The Dallas enterprise, which claims the inside track, says it filed first and has the support of such powers as Senate Majority Leader McFarland, L. M. Glasco, company president, after an on-the-spot check in Washington recently, has been expressing optimism.

Others who are named as officers in the company's 1950 application are R. J. Pore, now head of the production division of the Petroleum Administration for Defense; R. J. Bradley, Jack Frost and Jay Simmons, all of Dallas. Fifty independent oil men in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and California are said to be behind the venture.

The PAD, which is to make the decision, believes the completion of 16 other crude oil lines in the next six months, will release line pipe for other projects, such as the tube to the West. A total of 30,000 tons in each of the third and fourth quarters of this year for starting the project is urged by some in government.

The adequacy of West Texas crude production becomes a less insistent question as production keeps mounting. The California feed for more crude appears clear to defense officials.

Snyder To Norwalk
The company's application is for a 20-inch, 1,100-mile line from Snyder, Texas, to Norwalk, Calif. It would cost $60,000,000, carry 200,000 barrels daily of crude at the start. Full speed construction could see the line laid in six months. The Progress Pacific line, proposing substantially the same project, would be from Odessa, Texas, to Los Angeles.

The completion of two other crude oil lines out of West Texas, designed to carry a total of half a million barrels of crude daily, is expected during the third quarter of this year, the petroleum agency says.

One is the 577-mile, 26 and 20-inch line of the West Texas Gulf Pipe Line Company, a $39,000,000 project to carry 301,000 barrels daily at the start. A total of 13,141 tons of line pipe to carry on operations during the second quarter of this year has just been allocated by PAD.

The other is the 463-mile 24-inch Shell Pipe Line Corporation's Rancho line from McCamey, Texas, to the Houston area. The initial capacity will be 200,000 barrels daily, and the cost, $41,000,000. A total of 3,678 tons of pipe was doled out for the second quarter.

Fourteen more crude oil lines are due for completion in the April-September period of this year, according to the PAD's timetable. They will add a crude carrying capacity of 1,200,000 barrels of crude a day.

Eight Texas Lines
Eight of the lines would carry Texas crude oil. They include: Cities Service pipe line from Sour Lake, 150,000 barrels daily capacity, due for third quarter completion. Continental Pipe Line Company line from Wichita Falls to Oklahoma City, 40,000 barrels daily, second quarter.

Continental Pipe Line Company from Rincon Station to Port Jabelle, Texas, 17,000 barrels daily, second quarter.

Buffalo Prepares To Finish Deep Lea Discovery

Buffalo Oil Company is preparing to take potential test and complete its No. 12-B Balsh, Devonian discovery in the Maljamar area of Central-West Lea County, New Mexico.

Besides being the opener of a new and deep pay for the Maljamar area the Buffalo wildcat is the deepest commercial oil producer in New Mexico. It also is deeper than any present producer in Texas.

Is Extra Deep
It is the seventh deepest oil well in the United States. There are six others in the entire nation, which are making oil from deeper bottoms than the 13,573-foot total depth of No. 12-B Balsh.

The discovery is 30 miles west and slightly north of Lovington. It is 1,980 feet from south and 860 feet from west lines of section 22-175-32e.

On a preliminary test the well had flowed 610 barrels of 47-gravity oil in 24 hours through open two-inch tubing from open hole in the top of the Devonian at 13,554-563 feet.

Had Good Shows
The project then was cored to 13,573 feet. The material from that zone showed good indications of more production.

After that coring operator squeezed more cement back of the casing and cemented off a section in the San Andres-Permian lime which had been perforated for a test. All of the cement left inside the casing from the squeezing has been drilled out and the well has been cleaned out to bottom. Clear water was used in drilling out the cement.

Kick Off After Swabbing
Swabbing was started on the open hole at 13,554-573 feet late Friday. The well kicked off early Saturday and started flowing. It made oil, fresh water and mud, at the start.

At last report it was flowing 20 barrels of fluid per hour through open two-inch tubing. It was from 35 to 40 per cent fresh water and the rest was new oil.

When the well started flowing early Saturday morning it was making 15 barrels of fluid per hour. It increased to 20 barrels per hour after flowing about six hours and the flow was steady.

Water Was Lost
It will continue to make some fresh water until the 600 barrels of that fluid which was lost in the pay section when the plug was drilled is recovered.

No formation water has been developed or indicated.

The well will continue to flow until all water and mud is recovered and it then will take potential test and complete.

Midland Now Has 615 Producers; Seven Pay Zones

Midland County, as of Saturday, had 615 producing wells from seven separate pays, which include Ellenburger, Fusselman, Devonian, Dean, Pennsylvania, Wolfcamp and Spraberry.

The bulk of the others, 519, are producing from the Spraberry. The Pennsylvania has 62 oilers; Ellenburger, 16; Wolfcamp, 4; Devonian, 1, and Dean, 2.

SPLC To Lay New Line From Cogdell Pool To Aspermont

FORT WORTH—Construction of 38.5 miles of 10-inch crude oil pipe line from the Cogdell field in Southern Kent County to Aspermont in Stonewall County has been started by the Service Pipe Line Company.

F. M. Willenburg, Fort Worth, division manager for the company, said the Vaughn and Taylor Construction Company of Wichita Falls, would build the line and that work already is under way.

The new line will be an extension of Service Pipe Line Company's 130-mile line from Aspermont-Old Glory and Jud to Bowie, that was built during the Summer of 1951.

At the company's Cogdell station, the new line will connect with a system built into Post, in Garza County, and on into Southern Kent County, in 1950. This system, about 82 miles of line, has been moving Kent County and Northern Scurry County oil north to the company's West Texas-Drumright line via Slaton.

Willenburg said that about 8.5 miles of right of way for the new line had been cleared and that about 7.5 miles of pipe had been strung. Completion date of the PAD approved project is March 15.

In addition to his salary of $100,000 a year, the President of the United States has a $50,000 expense allowance.

Spraberry Trend Now Has 1,051 Completed Oilers; Production Figure Soars

The Spraberry Trend's producing areas, which are scattered over eight counties, now have 1,051 producing oil wells, and in December of 1951 294 of those wells produced 1,951,901 barrels of oil, gravity averaging 27 degrees.

Fields with records in the District 8 office of the Railroad Commission office in Midland produced 1,461,526 barrels of the total recovery. District 7-C fields accounted for 490,375 barrels.

For every day, on the average, during 1951, 2.4 plus wells were added to the trend. From January 1, 1952 to February 9, wells have been added to the trend at the rate of four plus daily.

The December production nearly doubled the total recovery in the field prior to January 1, 1951. Until then only 1,038,934 barrels had been recovered.

The Spraberry Trend now has 30 fields producing, with the latest additions being the Pegasus-Spraberry field in Northwest Upton County and the Clarence Scharbauer-Spraberry pool in Northwest Central-Midland County.

The 1,051 producers in the trend are divided among the fields in the following manner: Flat Rock of Southeast Upton, 3; North Pembroke of Northeast Upton and Northwest Reagan, 72; Pembroke of East-Central Upton, 82; Weiner-Floyd of Northeast Upton, Southeast Midland, Southwest Glasscock and Northwest Reagan, 58; Midkiff of Spraberry of Southeast Midland and Northwest Upton, 45.

Widdell of Northwest Reagan, 11; Widdell of North Reagan and Southwest Sterling, 13; Driver of Southeast Midland, Southwest Glasscock and Northwest Reagan, 194; Germania of Northeast Midland and Southeast Martin, 58; Tex-Harvey of Central-East Midland and Central-West Glasscock, 420; Benedum of Central-East Upton, 44; Warfield of Northwest-Central Midland, 1; Spraberry Deep of Southeast Reagan, 37; Snowden of Central-East Dawson, 4.

Smith of Central-North Dawson, 3; Glass of Southwest Martin, 2; Huddle-Manning of South-Central Dawson, 1; Pegasus-Spraberry of Northwest Upton; Clarence Scharbauer of Northwest-Central Midland, 1, and the South Gail field of Northwest Borden, 1.

Field's Size
One stretch of the trend extends 34 miles from north to south, with the largest undeveloped area lying between the Benedum and Flat Rock fields—that area being six and one-half miles long. The next biggest break comes between the Benedum and Pembroke fields. It is three and one-half miles long.

No dry holes have been drilled in the acreage included in these breaks. Forty-four miles of continuous proven acreage extends north and south along the county lines between Reagan and Upton and Midland and Glasscock, with the northernmost producer in the Germania field of Midland County and the southernmost oiler at the south edge of the North Pembroke field of Upton County.

Nine Miles Wide
Although the trend averages only nine miles in width, it widens to 60 miles between the eastern and westernmost producers. The well on the west is in Warfield pool of Midland County and the one on the east is in the Widdell field of Southwest Sterling County.

Number of Spraberry producers by counties are as follows: Midland, 329; Upton, 224; Glasscock, 195; Reagan, 90; Dawson, 45; Borden, 1; Martin, 4; and Sterling, 2.

Although the trend produces only in the above counties, a Railroad Commission of Texas memorandum has been published which includes Howard, Irion and Tom Green Counties.

Active Rigs
On February 1 there were 764 rotary drilling units in operation in the Permian Basin areas of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico.

Upton, Midland, Glasscock and Reagan Counties, hot spots of the Spraberry Trend, had 315 of those operations. That figure represents 41 plus per cent of the actual drilling rigs in the Permian Basin.

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Scientists Hunt For Oil With 'Soap' And Water

By MAC ROY RASOR

AUSTIN—(P)—They're searching for oil with "soap" and water at the University of Texas.

It's an old idea but still largely in the experimental stage. Research Scientists Dr. L. O. Morgan and William W. Holland are seeking ways to improve on it.

With demand for oil steadily rising, the oil industry is fast becoming more conscious of the importance of draining every recoverable drop of oil from a field before abandoning it—a not-too-easy task so far.

After a well stops flowing of its own accord, experience has shown as much as 50 to 70 per cent of the pool's supply may still be in the ground. One method used to get some of that remaining oil is water flooding. Water is forced into the ground to push the oil to the surface.

The method produces as much as 20 to 25 per cent more of the pool's supply. It leaves about 10 to 30 per cent still unrecovered.

It is this 10 to 30 per cent that the scientists are after.

Better Recovery
"We know that better recovery comes from adding to the water certain foaming detergents—much the same as those the housewife knows as a new type of 'soap' Soap would probably do the same thing but it's too expensive," explains Dr. Morgan who is working on the basic chemical techniques of oil recovery.

Holland is studying the overall engineering problems involved. Others are assisting in still other phases of the project.

Wide scale detergent experiments in the field, Dr. Morgan said, have produced more oil and maintained pressure at a lower and more constant level for easier production. Another value claimed for the detergents is their tendency to combat well casing corrosion—a cause of considerable industry grief.

Major practical question is their cost—can they produce enough additional oil to justify their use? In present experiments, anywhere from 10 to 1,000 parts of detergent are used to one million parts of water.

Price Rises Steadily
"The price of oil has been steadily rising and the cost of producing detergents has been dropping," Morgan noted. "It would have been highly unprofitable to use detergents to produce oil in 1931 when experiments first started. (Oil then sold for as little as 10 cents a barrel.) Analysis of a field's possibilities and relative prices of crude and detergents today might give a different answer."

If he can isolate the exact chemical properties of the detergent which help the water to flow freely through petroleum-bearing sands, it might point the way to a new additive that would produce even more oil more easily and more cheaply than the detergents.

Dr. Morgan also seeks to isolate a chemical that holds water in the reservoir while the oil is produced. That would eliminate most of the cost of producing water with oil.

Armour and Company of Chicago and Oil Recovery Chemicals Company of Austin are financing the research of the project.

TIPORO Committee To Make Plans For 1952 Annual Meet
AUSTIN—Final plans for the sixth annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association will be completed when the TIPORO executive committee meets in Austin February 25.

The association convention will be held in Fort Worth on March 27 and 28.

The committee will hear reports from special sub-committees on the subjects of oil imports, crude oil prices, steel tubular goods allocation, and natural gas. A theme of the meeting will be "oil education."

John R. Penn, Jr., and Gaylord H. Chisum, both of Fort Worth, were named co-chairmen of the meeting. Local committees arranging the meeting include general arrangement, finance, ladies and publicity.

Committees which will meet throughout Thursday, March 27, to prepare reports for membership consideration include resolutions, nominations, imports, price steel, gas and by-laws.

Buffalo—
Dallas, president of Buffalo Oil Company, Saturday said:

Taehman Makes Statement
"The undertaking of a project of this kind certainly proves three points:

"1. That free enterprise unhampered by unnecessary restrictions is of great importance to the oil industry.

"2. Without the depletion clause, the initiative of the oil industry would be destroyed. This well and similar drilling would be entirely impossible without the depletion clause.

"3. There is still room for the independent wildcatter.

Means Big Expenditures
"It took several months of research and planning and nearly 11 months to drill this well, at a cost of approximately $6,000,000.

"Even though this well may be the guide to the ultimate discovery of many more millions of barrels of oil, in the Permian Basin, it will cost millions of dollars and much effort, with many disappointing results.

"The constant search for oil must be encouraged and carried on if America is to remain free.

"I wish to publicly thank all members of the Buffalo organization for their devotion and untiring efforts, which they have contributed to the success of this venture."

Much of the trade of the eastern Mediterranean once passed through the Aegean island of Rhodes.

Drilling Records Broken; Activity Highest In Lea, Spraberry Trend Areas

The 15-day period from January 15 to February 1 saw an increase of 48 active rotary rigs in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico to set an all time activity record of 766 rigs for that region.

On January 15, 1952 there were 716 units in operation. On the same day, one year ago, there were only 536.

The previous record for the whole area covered by the Reed survey was 755, set December 1, 1951.

Upton Ahead
Upton County continues to lead all others in the area covered by Reed Roller Bit Company's semi-monthly survey of rotary drilling operations. On February 1 Upton County had 131 rigs going, one short of the all time high set during the period ended January 15 for the county.

Although Upton County, with its many Spraberry projects, continues to pace the field, deep drilling in Lea County, N. M., brought that area to within six rigs of Upton. Lea, as of February 15, had 125 rotary turning, a new high for that area.

Midland County remained in third spot behind Lea with 93 projects, three more than were reported January 15.

Reagan County, another area benefiting from the Spraberry Trend play, jumped from 53 to 65 units to stay in fourth place behind Midland County.

Ector County's 42 operations were good enough for fifth place, followed by Andrews County with 35. Ector picked up 10 units and Andrews County added one.

Soury, Glasscock, Gaines, Schleicher and Terry Counties followed with 30, 27, 26, 18 and 15 units, in that order.

Soury gained one, Gaines seven and Schleicher three during the 15-day period. Terry County's count remained the same while Glasscock lost eight rigs.

On February 1, Borden, Pecos, Kent and Cochran Counties each had 14 units going. Borden lost one, Cochran three, Pecos one and Kent remained the same.

Howard County had 12 rigs drilling February 1, the same as was reported on the previous count.

A quick rundown on other counties included in the survey, shows Coke and Crockett with 10 each, Crane and Tom Green with 11 each and Martin County with three.

Crockett and Crane lost two each, Tom Green gained one and Martin gained two. Coke remained steady.

Lea Confirmation Tests Take DST's; One Project Flows

HOBBES, N. M.—Two confirmation projects in Lea County have shown for possible production.

Southern Production Company No. 1-A State, east offset to The Texas Company No. 1-A State, flowing discovery from the Devonian completed several months ago to open the Echols field, ran a drillstem test in the Devonian at 11,615-651 feet.

Recovery was 2,500-foot water blanket, 5,125 feet of clean oil and 110 feet of oil and gas-cut drilling mud.

There were no signs of formation water.

After that test operator cored from 11,651 to 11,676 feet. Another drillstem test was taken from 11,646 to 11,676 feet. Recovery was 3,456 feet of oil and 310 feet of oil and gas-cut mud. After coring to 11,701 feet operator took another test from 11,674 to 11,701 feet. Tool was open one hour. Recovery was 30 feet of drilling mud with no shows.

Another core was then cut to 11,726 feet and another one hour drillstem test was taken from 11,699 to 11,726 feet. Recovery was 30 feet of drilling mud with no shows.

Operator was coring below 11,726 feet in Devonian lime.

Ohio's Sabine River Extender Flows Oil

ORANGE—(P)—Ohio Oil Company's controversial State of Texas Riverbed No. 1 well in the Sabine River, which divides Texas and Louisiana, was shut in Saturday "under excellent pressure."

The well is in the Phoenix Lake field near here. First oil from the hole Friday tested 42 gravity.

It's a good average Phoenix Lake well and there is no doubt it will produce in excess of the daily field allowable of 234 barrels," a spokesman for Ohio said.

Ohio's State of Texas Riverbed No. 2 is near "production depth" a few hundred feet away.

The wells are drilled directionally from a point on the west (Texas) side of the Sabine. A spokesman for Ohio said both wells are bottomholed in the "Texas half" of the river.

Attorney General Bolivar Kemp of Louisiana has disputed Texas' claim to the territory on which the wells are drilled. He contends the Texas boundary ends on the west bank of the Sabine, while the State of Texas says the boundary is at the middle of the river.

Kemp said recently he planned to meet soon with Attorney General Price Daniel of Texas to talk about a "friendly suit" to settle the boundary question.

State's Oil Well Completions Slump

AUSTIN—(P)—Oil well completions slumped to 173 last week, 67 less than the previous week, the Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

Operators completed 16 gas wells compared with 12 the previous week, running the total to 109 against 110 at the same date a year ago.

There were 138 dry holes, three more than the last week. For the year, dry holes totaled 796 compared with only 636 at this time last year.

Wildcat drilling led to 16 oil wells, two gasers and 74 dry holes. Plugged were 137 dry, four gas and 46 oil wells.

The state's total number of oil wells reached 133,277, up 234 from a week ago.

The total average calendar day oil allowable was 3,092,934 barrels, an increase of 5,391 barrels from the previous week.

Cleveland, a policeman for a quarter of a century, was shot in the back Thursday by Robert Barber, 26, whom he sought to question about a $15,000 Dallas cafe robbery.

City Detective A. L. Armstrong, wounded in the same gunplay, Saturday took a turn for the worse.

Rotary Engineers, Phillips Company Win In City Meet

It was strictly no contest Saturday night in the John M. Cowden Junior High School gym as Rotary Engineering Company and Phillips Petroleum Company waltzed to easy first-game victories in the first round of Midland's Independent Basketball League playoff tourney.

Rotary turned back Borden's by the walloping score of 73 to 42, after Phillips had manhandled Western Plastic Company, 61-29, in the lid-blaster.

The Engineers were surprised for two and one-half quarters by a stubborn Borden's outfit which stayed within range, 27-23, to that point. But a 16-point spree by Rotary before Borden's touched the bucket spelled doom for the losers, and accounted for the big score. Paul Haskins and Leland Huffman scored 16 each for Rotary, with J. B. Collins hitting 15. Roy Price canned exactly half of Borden's points—21. Tucker Gets 25.

Gerald Tucker, the old Oklahoma All-American, had a field day with 25 points for Phillips against the Plasatics. Don Jones flipped in 15 counters for the winners, as Jack Dunlap topped Phillips with 13. Plastic made a game of it the first half, jamming the middle and trailing by only 18-11 at halftime. But the pace killed the six-man squad. The same four teams continue their play—pairings the same—Wednesday night in the best two-of-three series.

Midland Optimist Club To Sponsor Boxing Meet Here

Amateur boxing at its best is coming to Midland. The Midland Optimist Club Saturday announced it would conduct a two- and possibly three-day amateur fight tournament at the Veteran of Foreign Wars Hall, located on the Midland-Odessa Highway.

Plans call for the tourney to be unreeled February 28 and 29, with March 1 a possibility.

"If we can obtain enough fighters, then we want a three-day affair. Otherwise we'll have a two-day tournament," Optimist President Emil Raasman said. The Optimists hope to announce the length of the tournament within a week, when acceptances for the meet come in.

Invitations have been extended formally to San Angelo, Odessa, Andrews, Brownwood and Hobbs, N. M., for the tourney which is to be known as the First Annual Midland Optimist Amateur Boxing Tournament.

Other West Texas cities also are invited to enter teams. All cities are asked to contact Larry King, at The Midland Reporter-Telegram, with a list of boys and weights, plus classification. King may be contacted by telephone at number 3-3344. He and Nolen McKean will act as match makers.

All cities must have a permit from the Amateur Athletic Union to travel to the bouts, and each boy must have an AAU card in order to participate in the fights.

No admission prices have been announced, but such an announcement is expected at any time.

Angelo Accepts

San Angelo definitely has accepted an invitation to the Optimist bouts, and has indicated about 18 Concho Basin fighters will participate. Odessa is a very probable entry, and probably will have 10 boys in the tourney. Midland will have 10 to 12 boys ready, according to Coach Nolen McKean.

No other cities have replied to the recently extended invitations as yet. Ed Stitt is helping President Emil Raasman with pre-tourney and publicity.

Rumors Persist Ike Will Return In April

WASHINGTON —(P)—Reports persisted Saturday that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower may return from Europe in April to help along the campaign his backers are waging to win him the Republican presidential nomination.

A top Republican leader told an AP reporter he confidently expects Eisenhower will be back in the U. S. by April.

This leader, who asked not to be named, said it now is uncertain whether Eisenhower will return in uniform or in civilian clothes, as president of Columbia University. He is on leave from Columbia.

Senator Carlson (R-Kan.), manager of Eisenhower's Washington headquarters, wouldn't venture any prediction about the general's possible return. But he said he believes it would be "very helpful if the general can come back."

by Marion Flynt, president of the club, along with members of its board of directors.

Flynt was accompanied to the special session by Board Members Roy Proctor, Bob Scruggs, Dr. Homer B. Johnson and J. L. Smith, Business Manager Horace Busby and Roy McKee.

Grandstand Addition Planned

In addition to needed repairs on the present stands and the players' dormitory, the program will include a 40-foot addition to the east side of the grandstand, which will handle an additional 600 or 700 fans. Flynt pointed out that $2,000 paid admissions were reported last year and that "this year we think we can have at least 75,000."

"The stands we have now," he added, "won't take care of them."

He pointed out that the ball park was used, not only by the Indians but by the junior league teams, the negro teams and various civic organizations which sponsor ball games through the season when the Indians are away from home.

Busby said that toward the end of last season "we were unable to handle all the fans who turned out for our games and there are a lot more people living here now."

Scruggs, explaining the work needed to be done on the dormitory, "which now looks like a pigpen," said the roof leaked badly and that every time it rained, the water poured into the bunks.

Councilman Has Laugh

"It didn't leak much last Summer, though, did it," laughed Councilman R. B. (Bum) Cowden.

Proctor also urged city help in improving the park, which is owned by the city.

"Even after we do all this," he said, "we'll still have the sorriest looking and poorest equipped park in the league."

With Mayor Perry Pickett presiding, Cowden and Councilmen J. B. McCoy and Johnny Starr voted to spend the money improving the facilities. Councilmen Jack Wilkinson and J. W. McMillen were not present.

Midland Team Wins San Angelo Gloves Tournament

Stringer, Evans, Bilbo, Leonard Cop Championship

By LARRY KING
Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor

SAN ANGELO—Midland's Golden Gloves finished the three-night fighting in San Angelo's regional boxing tournament here Friday night in a blazing burst of glory, winning four championship bouts.

Featherweight Don Stringer and Lightweight Don Evans were the Novice champions crowned, with Middleweight Fred Bilbo and Light Heavyweight Bill Leonard, copping Open Division bouts.

Leonard and Bilbo are eligible to enter the state Golden Gloves next week in Fort Worth, and have indicated they will fight there with the San Angelo Squad.

The dynamite-fisted Midland boys received credit for six wins on the card Friday night, two by default, one by decision, two by TKO's and one by a knockout.

Thus Coach Nolen McKean's Midland team ended with 10-out-of-11 city wins in the tournament, to pace San Angelo, Andrews and Lake View, in the order.

Leonard finally got reluctant Red Cain of San Angelo into the squared circle and won a TKO in 30 seconds of the second round.

Cain—who Wednesday night declined to fight Leonard—vaunted into the ring Friday night with a burst of showmanship, but from then on the show belonged to Leonard. The 165-pound Leonard landed a perfect left-jab to the head of the 170-pound red-thatched Angelo scrapper time after time, opening a cut over Cain's eye in the first round and bringing the claret from his nose.

Early in the second, Leonard continued to get to his foe with jolting punches at will and Cain wisely quit, with Leonard getting a TKO.

Fred Bilbo, 157, surprised with a vicious attack which left his opponent, San Angelo's Emil Cardenas, 153, spent and beaten on the ropes at 1:02 of the first round in the Open Middleweight title scrap.

Bilbo, deserting a crouch which he used in the Odesa meet, swarmed out at the bell and rocked his Latin-American foe around the ring with a swarming attack. He hemmed Cardenas in a neutral corner, landed a few well-placed lefts and rights to the body, and Cardenas collapsed helplessly on the ropes.

Tough little Don Stringer of the fighting Stringer family won his fight in below-par time again.

Without a doubt the best puncher, pound-for-pound, in the tournament, Stringer used a lethal right-hand upper cut to knock-out Tommy Harp, 125, San Angelo, in a featherweight title match.

Harp—who was a runner-up in Odesa's meet—waded in early and tried to slug with the rugged Midland youngster. Stringer staggered his foe twice, then flashed the upper cut in a swinging half-arc and Harp hit the canvas for the full count at 60 seconds of the first round. He was out for more than three minutes.

It was the second quick knockout of the tourney for Stringer, who won in 26 seconds Wednesday night.

The other Midlander, who copped a title bout was Don Evans, 133, lightweight Novice.

Evans took an upset, unanimous decision over Richard Bajak, San Angelo club favorite, who has compiled quite a reputation in West Texas rings.

The Midland boy, however, was unimpressed with Bajak's record and gave him a fine drubbing throughout the bout. He kept his left in Bajak's face most of the fight and slipped under the famed bolo-punch used by his opponent.

Prior to their championship bouts, Stringer and Evans both had won bouts by default. Paul Berman, 137, San Angelo, failed to appear against Evans, while Bobby Green, Andrews, 124, didn't show to fight Stringer.

One Midland boy lost in the championship fighting, and two dropped disputed exhibitions.

Charlie Crites, 147, lost a three-round decision to Al Cardenas, 144, San Angelo, in a semi-final welterweight bout.

The bout was pretty even, with Crites using a left-jab nicely in spots, but taking punishment in the body from the Angelo puncher.

Middlecoff Hangs On At El Paso As Bill Nary Sparkles

EL PASO — (P) — Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., worried to a two-under-par 69 Saturday to hold his lead in the $10,000 El Paso Open with a 54-hole score of 200, fighting off a block of blazing rounds which included a PGA record-tying 60 by Bill Nary of Albuquerque, N. M.

Art Doering of Cincinnati, Ohio, came from well back with a 65 to move into second place with 202.

While Middlecoff stayed in position to take down the $2,000 first money Sunday, most of the talk was about Bill Nary and his great round.

The sandy-haired pro blistered par by 11 strokes for the hottest round ever shot on the dusty, baked 6,315-yard El Paso Country Club course.

Nary's 60 figured in all kinds of records. In the first place, it tied the PGA record for 18 holes set by Al Brooch of Garden City, N. Y., in the Texas Open at San Antonio last year. It wiped out all the course records and it set a mark for the low number of putts. When Nary toured the course with just 20 putts it was one less than Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Jerry Barber of Pasadena, Calif., used in 1950 and 1951 respectively.

Pushing into fourth place were Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., Skeel Riegel of Tulsa, Al Bessellink of Chicago and Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., each with 205.

Riegel and Bessellink had 69's, Furgol 70 and Worsham 71 Saturday.

Nary Birdies 12 Middlecoff thought he had a poor round because he went over par on three holes. He had five birdies but was missing putts for birds all day.

The 36-year-old Nary proclaimed his round the greatest of his career, and he has been on the tournament trail more than five years. He had 12 birdies and went over par on only one hole—and that was the only green he missed.

Price Wins Top Scoring Honors In JayCee Cage Loop

Borden's Roy Price copped regular-season scoring honors in the Midland JayCee Independent Basketball League for the year, figures revealed Saturday.

Price topped runner-up J. B. Collins of Rotary Engineering Company by 20 points, 152 to 132. Each played in 10 games, Price averaging 15.2 points per contest and Collins 13.2.

Kermit Team Gets Regular Season Title

KERMIT—A 17-point assault on the bucket by Kermit's Jack Kroll sent the Yellowjackets to a 47 to 35 win over Monahans here Friday night, and assured Kermit of the regular-season basketball championship of District 8-AA.

Kermit now will stand by while the other teams in the loop—Seminole, Pecos, Andrews and Monahans—engage in a "sudden death" tournament to see who meets the Yellowjackets in a best two-of-three playoff for the district title and the right to go to regional play.

The site of such a tourney is undetermined, but is to be decided early this week.

James Bell contributed 10 points toward the Kermit win, as the Yellowjackets ran up a half-time margin of 25 to 14. Sleepy Hughes scored 12 for Monahans and Ross Gann got 10.

The B game went to Monahans, 38-28. Gerald Bray's 14 was high for the winners and Kermit's Barton tallied 10.

125 Fighters Go Into State Action For Gloves Titles

FORT WORTH — (P) — Three current titlists, three former champions and three 1951 winners will head a talented field of approximately 125 amateur fighters here Wednesday night as the sixteenth annual Texas Golden Gloves Tournament opens a five night stand in the 10,000 seat Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

A record five night attendance of more than 30,000 is expected.

Feather Raymond Rojas of Fort Worth, Welter Johnny O'Gee of North Texas State College and Dallas, and Middleweight Eugene Cooper of Amarillo Air Force Base are the 1951 state titlists who'll be back. O'Gee won three straight state lightweight crowns—the legal limit—and had to move up one weight bracket this year.

Ex-state titlists who'll compete are Pat McCarthy, Amarillo flyweight; Felix Baker of Houston, who has grown from a bantam to a feather, and James Hoff of Dallas, ex-Houston heavyweight.

Having lost in last year's finals, Paul Jorgenson of Beaumont, Pete Perez of Amarillo, and Frank Dunnagan of Fort Worth will make determined title bids this week. Jorgenson has grown from a flyweight to a Bantam, Perez has advanced from feather to lightweight, and Dunnagan still is a welter.

Fort Worth and Beaumont, which tied for the team trophy last year, rank alongside Dallas, Houston, Amarillo, San Antonio and Corpus Christi as the strongest teams entered this season.

Vander Meef Signs With Tulsa Oilers

TULSA, OKLA. — (P) — Johnny Vander Meef, 37-year-old former hurler for the Cincinnati Reds, has been signed as a free agent with the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas League, Tulsa Club President Grayle Howlett, Jr., announced Saturday.

"I like the thought of pitching in that Southwest heat," Vander Meef commented. He expects to start preliminary conditioning with the Cincinnati club when it reports to Tampa on March 1, and will join Tulsa at its Eustis, Fla., training base March 10.

Vander Meef was at Oakland in the Pacific Coast league last season.

McCamey Boy Is Gloves Champion

McCAMEY — James (Cotton) Flower, who won the welterweight Golden Gloves crown at Abilene last week is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fowler of McCamey.

Fowler is no newcomer to Golden Gloves circles, having gone to the Fort Worth finals in flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight, and lightweight divisions in past years. Four years ago, he was the state TAAF bantamweight champ.

"I've seen a lot of boys fight. But I ain't never seen a boy with a left jab like that kid has," jabbered Ray Walcott, San Angelo fight promoter, as he pointed a frayed cigar at Bill Leonard, Midland's husky light heavyweight.

Leonard, a few moments before, had pounded San Angelo's strong red-thatched Red Cain into submission, to win the Open class light-heavy title.

And Walcott—who looks like the Hollywood version of the small-time match maker—was impressed.

Red tie dangling, cigar at a jaunty angle, the Angelo fisticuff follower fanned around in his dark blue pin-stripe suit and attempted to sell Leonard on the state tournament at Fort Worth.

"Son, if I can't win the championship with your left jab, then I'll quit," he said.

"You know what makes it great?" asked Walcott of onlookers. "He steps in with his weight behind it and boom!"—he enthused the one-time fighter, trainer, warming to the task.

Indeed, Leonard does have quite a left jab. Of course, his right hand packs a lot of power, but thus far he hasn't felt the need to call on it too much. Actually, he's very powerful in both hands.

Like Walcott we feel Leonard can, with the proper handling, make a rep for himself in the state tournament.

Bill has indicated he will take his well-earned trip to Fort Worth and fight in the light-heavy division.

Another local youngster who made quite an impression during the San Angelo fights is Don Stringer, 126 pounder, who copped Novice featherweight laurels.

Stringer reminds us of his brother, Burton, who took the state lightweight crown in 1945.

He's a dead-panned youngster with the kick of a mule in his right hand, and he looks very bored about the whole thing while knocking the daylight out of would-be foes.

In two SA bouts, he got two knockouts in a total of 86 seconds. Of course, he could be a better boxer, but he does know an opening in his opponent's defense when he sees it, and takes full advantage. With more experience, young Mr. Stringer could be somewhat of an artist at the art of fisticuffs.

Shell Oil Knocks JayCees Out Of Playoffs, 45-39

Shell Oil Company's basketball team, winless in nine previous starts, rose up to smack down the JayCees Friday night, 45 to 39, and knock the Jakes from a position in the city basketball tournament.

Little Bill Stacey was the hero of Shell's victory, canning 17 points. Ware scored 13.

In the second game, Rotary Engineering Company rolled over Western Plastic, 55 to 34, as Leland Huffman hit the bucket for 16 points. This game meant nothing to lopp standings, but was merely a warm-up before the city tournament got underway Saturday night.

The Shell-JayCee game was a lulu, however, close from the start. It was 13-7 Shell at the end of the first quarter, and 25-22, Shell, at the half. At the end of three quarters, Shell still maintained a slight lead of 33 to 30. Cooper scored 12 for the losers and Daugherty 11.

Rotary led all the way against Western Plastic, holding a half-time margin of 30 to 18.

Ranchland Hill Country Club officials said dates have not been set for that club's tournaments, but said tournaments committees probably will decide within a few days.

Wink Wildcats Nip Crane Cranes, 40-39

Jette contributed 18 points; Vinson 13. For Crane, Mason led with 12 and Lively with 11.

Wink also copped the B contest by a 41 to 32 count. Richards of Wink and Hayes of Crane shared high-point honors with 10 each.

ERA OF 'PATENT INSIDES' AT END

DENVER —(P)—The Western Newspaper Union announced Saturday it will discontinue its "ready-print" service to weekly newspapers. Farwell W. Perry, president of WNU, said the last printing of the weekly feature material will be run March 29.

"Readyprint," also called "patent insides," consists of several newspaper pages printed on one side only with comics, news commentaries, household hints, etc. Small newspapers buy the pages and print their local news on the blank sides of the sheets.

Rising production costs and a decline in demand for the pre-printed material is the reason for ending the service, Perry said.

Oklahoma Air Crash Kills Texas Couple

WALTERS, OKLA. —(P)—A Muenster, Texas, couple was killed Saturday when their two-seater plane hit a power line, crashed in a field nine miles southeast of here and burst into flames.

Mrs. Marie Pellard, 39, died in the burning plane.

Chester Hollie Pellard, 44, her pilot husband, died a few hours later in a Wichita Falls, Texas, hospital.

Oklahoma Highway Patrol Lt. C. W. Adams said Pellard was attempting to land his plane in the field. The ship clipped a high voltage power line, however, and crashed in flames.

MORE RED ATROCITIES

TAIPEI, FORMOSA —(P)—The semi-official Nationalist Tiao News Agency Saturday said Chinese Reds have killed about 100,000 civilians on Hainan Island, or about one-fifth its population, since they overran the big South China Island in 1950.

House Panel Raps Graft In Training Of Veterans

WASHINGTON —(P)—A House committee Saturday declared "graft and waste x x x" plagued the program for giving veterans vocational training under the GI Bill of Rights, and said many government employees accepted bribes or other favors.

It said in a report to the House that "an excessive number" of Veterans Administration employees took "bribes, gifts, unusual loans, gratuities, services and ownership in schools."

Reporting that at the college level, the program "has been carried out successfully," the special committee headed by Representative Teague (D-Texas) centered its fire primarily on the smaller vocational schools, many of them set up after the GI Bill was approved.

"There is no doubt that hundreds of millions of dollars have been frittered away on worthless training," the committee said.

On the basis of an investigation which started early last year, the committee said, however, that a majority of the seven and a half million veterans who took GI Bill training benefited from the program.

Texas VA Leader Denies Charges

WACO —(P)—Regional Director Dr. George McNamara of the Waco Veterans Administration office denied Saturday that his employees accept gifts from training schools.

Dr. McNamara referred to the report of investigations into VA affairs released in Washington Saturday by the committee headed by Rep. Olin Teague (D-Texas). It said too many VA officials accept gifts and cited examples of VA employees borrowing money from training schools which never was repaid.

Teague's report said a VA employee at Waco borrowed $2,000 from partners of a chain of private trade schools holding VA contracts and repaid only about $120.

Dr. McNamara said this man is not employed by the Waco office and was not at the time he testified before the committee.

Bandits Rob State Income Tax Office

KANSAS CITY —(P)—Two bandits fled with about $2,400 Saturday after locking two employees of the Missouri State Income Tax Department in a vault in the department's offices.

Charles Sevier, cashier, and Mrs. Ruth Knight, an accountant, dug a hole in the vault and Mrs. Knight pulled herself through and into a washroom. She notified police.

Sevier told police he was preparing to leave the downtown office when the two entered and demanded all the money in the vault.

SOUP KITCHEN RETURNS—Polish emigrants, hard hit by defense-conversion unemployment in Detroit motor factories, line up at a privately-operated soup kitchen in Hamtramck, Mich., industrial suburb of Detroit. The kitchen—dishing out substantial meals of soup, meat, vegetables, bread and coffee—is the first to be set up in Hamtramck since the depression days of the Thirties. A suburban councilman has proposed publicly-operated kitchens to help feed some of the area's 200,000 jobless.

HONESTY NOT LOST VIRTUE

DALLAS —(P)—Lawyer Henry Strasburger lost his purse two weeks ago.

Two days later it was returned by mail, important papers intact but $30 missing.

Saturday, he said he had just received $30 cash by mail with this note:

"I find the billfold and borrow the 30 from it. Now I return it. Thank you for the loan."

Strasburger wishes he could find the sender to give him the $30.

Supply Hub Hit By Leathernecks

SEOUL, KOREA —(P)—U. S. Marine "Wolf Raider" pilots smashed a big Communist supply center in Northeast Korea Saturday. Ten supply dumps and 27 buildings were left in smoking ruins.

The raid by eight carrier-based Leatherneck fighters in two flights was made from Allied Task Force 77, in Sea of Japan waters.

claimed another probably destroyed three Communist boats, an anti-aircraft gun and blew up an ammunition dump.

American Sabre jets damaged three Communist MIG-15's and claimed another probably destroyed Saturday in two air battles over northwest Korea.

On the ground, fierce but brief patrol skirmishes were reported Saturday at several points along the 155-mile battlefield, where temperatures continued mild for the third day.

Star-Telegram Backs Eisenhower

FORT WORTH —(P)—The Fort Worth Star-Telegram said editorially Saturday night the man best suited for the presidency is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Noting that the general hasn't expressed himself on many public issues, the editorial says "people have come to place no great confidence in political statements and campaign pronouncements . . . in the last analysis a candidate must be accepted on faith."

The newspaper, which is Independent-Democratic, quotes Eisenhower as saying: "I have no end to serve but the good of the United States." It asks "What better platform could any presidential candidate have?"

Machine To Pack Earth Developed

PASADENA, CALIF. —(P)—A machine which does a pretty thorough job of solidifying earth by shaking it has been developed by engineers at the California Institute of Technology.

The idea behind the machine is to simplify and speed up the foundation work on highways, airfields and buildings. The underlying ground has to be packed to take the weight without sinking.

The business end of the machine is a steel plate with an area of 15 square feet which shake the ground immediately beneath it at varying rates, sometimes around 12 times a minute. Towed along a sandy beach, it solidified a streak of sand about four feet wide and 75 feet long in one minute.

The bee's value as pollinator is 20 times greater than its value as a honey producer.

Truman Dig Gets Memo From Spain

WASHINGTON —(P)—President Truman's oft-quoted dig at the Franco regime turned into an international incident Saturday as it was disclosed that the Spanish ambassador has lodged a memo of displeasure with the State Department.

Whether the dig would imperil plans to set up American air and naval bases on Spanish soil to help Western Europe was not yet clear.

Mr. Truman remarked at his news conference Thursday that he had never been very fond of the Franco government. The State Department disclosed Saturday that it had received a note Friday night from Spanish ambassador Jose Felix de Lequerica.

The contents of the note were kept secret. American and Spanish officials said that it was something less than a formal diplomatic protest, and that the State Department said no reply was called for.

But all indications were that Spanish pride was smarting, and that the Franco government wanted to get its feelings on the record.

Norfolk Villagers Pay Final Respects To King George VI

SANDRINGHAM, ENGLAND —(P)—A kingdom's love for its dead king was symbolized Saturday in a humble procession of villagers past the closed coffin of George VI at Sandringham's Royal Chapel.

This week will come the majestic lying-in-state at London's ancient Westminster Hall and the funeral Friday at Windsor Castle with the jeweled imperial state crown atop the coffin, when the great of Britain and other nations will pay tribute.

Saturday, it was the simple rural folk of Norfolk who offered their last respects to the sovereign they knew best as a friendly squire and neighbor.

In single file they moved slowly through the shadowy nave of the Parish Church of St. Mary Magdalene—their and their king's—to bow their heads in silent reverence before the flower-crowned bier in the chancel.

LONDON —(P)—Court mourning for King George VI is to last until next May 31 by his daughter's royal command. The period is shorter than had been expected.

An official announcement Saturday night said Queen Elizabeth II "commands that the court shall wear mourning until Saturday, 31st May, next, for his late most gracious majesty, King George VI of blessed memory."

The traditional period of mourning has been a year or so.

Become A Good Audience And Give Johnny Biggest Boost At Reading

What is this word, Mother? Maybe that question was asked at your home last night when Johnny was reading his lesson for today. And chances are you were busy with the dishes or the evening paper and answered, "Spell it for me."

According to Miss Joyce Pritchard, reading specialist for Row-Peterson and Company, this is exactly what parents should not do.

In addition to working with Midland teachers last week, Miss Pritchard also has made suggestions for parents.

When the beginner brings home his first book, don't ask him to spell the word he doesn't know. Let him show you the word before you identify it.

Eventually you will probably say in desperation, "I tell him over and over again, and still he doesn't know the word."

Here is the suggested solution. Tell him 10 more times, and then help him to help himself by reminding him to do three things: First, look at the picture for a clue. Second, try jumping over the unknown word and read the rest of the sentence. Third, check to see whether the word makes sense.

Miss Pritchard stresses that the teacher does not expect the parent to teach the child. The parent's role is just to be a good audience and to help Johnny enjoy reading.

Miss Pritchard Friday completed her series of conferences and reading demonstrations in which every teacher in Midland's elementary schools has participated.

BOWLING—One of the most popular sports with women in Midland is bowling. The Women's Bowling League has been organized and competition among the various teams is keen. Here, Jesse Anderson, vice president of the women's league, sends one down the alley for a strike.

SKIING—Pat Butcher, one of Midland's many ski enthusiasts, packs for a weekend trip to the mountains near Santa Fe, N. M. Despite the lack of snow in West Texas, skiers are able to enjoy their chosen sport through trips to nearby resorts. Miss Butcher is the daughter of Mrs. Cary P. Butcher, 904 West Tennessee Street.

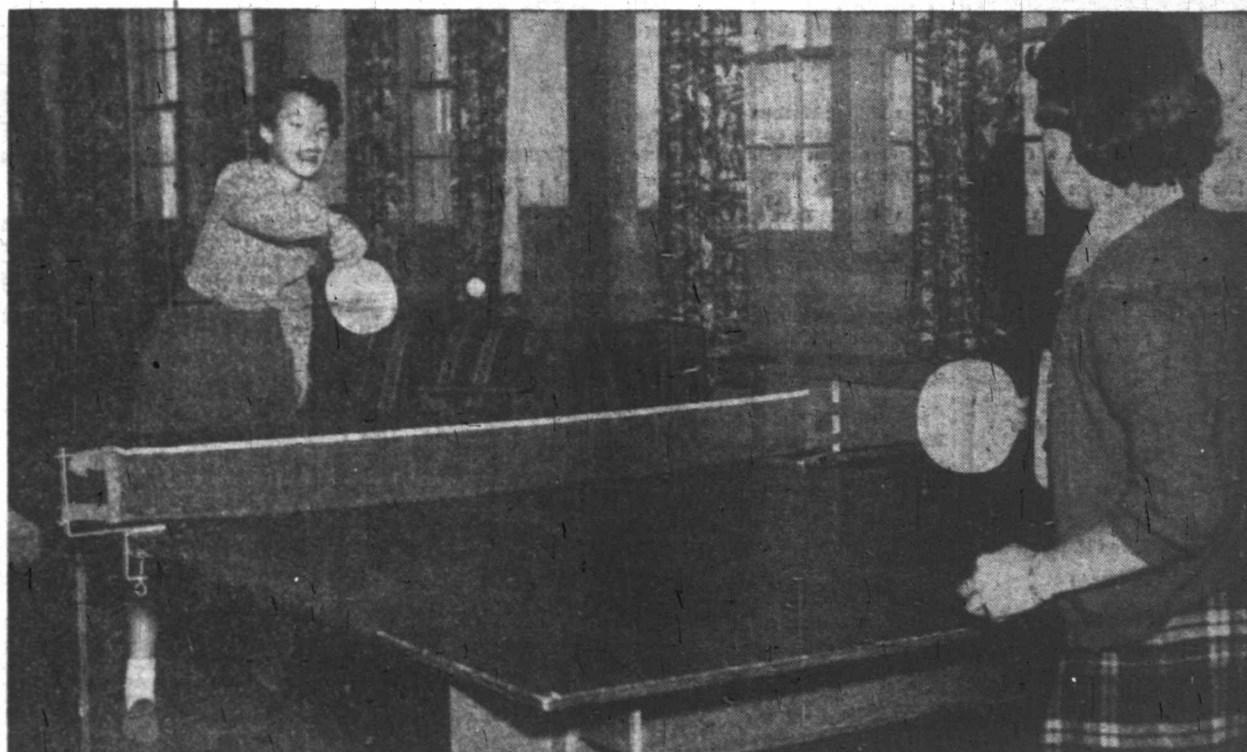

GOLF—Mrs. Francis M. Flournoy hits a long one down the fairway at the Midland Country Club. Mrs. Flournoy is no novice on a golf course. During the five years she has played golf, she has won the women's championship at the Country Club twice. In 1950 she was runner-up in the Midland Women's Invitational Tournament and during the same meet she scored a hole-in-one.

Midland Women Enjoy Sports

HORSE-BACK RIDING—Jennie Graham, one of Midland's younger equestrians, and her pony, Lucky, call a halt to their gallop to pose for the photographer. Jennie's cowgirl regalia shows clearly which style of riding appeals to her—it's western all the way. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maner Graham of Midland.

PING PONG—Betty Bolton, left, and Gail Black try out their ping pong technique in the Midland Youth Center. Their skill in the sport might come in very handy later as plans are being made by the Youth Center to sponsor a tournament soon. Several ping pong tables are included among the center's recreational equipment.

The MATURE PARENT

Mother's Imperfect Love Can Bring On Tantrums

By MAURIEL LAWRENCE

"My four-year-old son lacks self-confidence," a reader writes. "He seems so afraid of doing the wrong thing he tries to avoid taking any action at all. When we have guests, he will work so hard for attention that he doesn't hear me when I speak. Why is he so insecure? What can I do?"

My reader can search for deficiencies in her love for her little boy. If she is so angered or frightened by the idea that her love for her child is imperfect that she cannot weigh her emotions and secret thoughts about him calmly, she should seek help from a child guidance clinic in her community.

I never have been able to figure out why we should become evasive, enraged or terrified by the suggestion that our love for Squidge or Baby is not perfect. However, there can be no doubt that we do react in the most amazing ways to this idea. I am told that we become so upset by it that we set up the most complicated systems of defense to protect ourselves against the possibility that we do not know all there is to know about love.

This seems odd, doesn't it, when we remember that love is the deepest subject in the world? But there we are. No matter how silly it is, how many heartaches it costs us, we still seem to persist in wanting to believe that we give perfect love.

It is a great pity, since our refusal to admit that our love for a child is obstructed in some way keeps us miserable with tension and anxiety.

When a child needs more love than he is getting, we should look for our own secret resentments that are damming the free flow of love from us to him. According to Dr. Frederick A. Allen, director of the Philadelphia Child Guidance Clinic, the "blocking" of this natural flow often is due to an "identification of the child with a quality in ourselves or in others which we cannot tolerate."

Living a Lie With Children

Thus, if I am a socially uneasy person, my child's unattractive, attention-seeking conduct before others would be particularly threatening to me. Worried over my guests' impression of me I also have to worry over their impression of my youngster. Resentful of this double strain upon my social strength, I will react with double distaste for my child's behavior.

I will say, "Run along, now dear,"—but although my words are loving, the feeling back of them is not. My child, too young to understand how my insecurity has exaggerated my reactions, senses only that I am angry and terrified.

Reaching for love, denied it and flung back upon himself, he too becomes terrified. He screams, "I won't!"—and treats my guests to one of his better tantrum exhibitions.

Our reluctance to admit that our flow of love toward a child is blocked in some such way forces us to live a lie with him. Although this is a bad strain upon us, it places an even greater one upon children.

It is a terrible thing to have to live with someone who says one thing and means another. It puts children in a cruelly frustrating position. No matter how much anger comes at them, they dare not define it or regard it as injustice because our "sweet talk" belies what is really going on.

Such children begin to doubt their own intuition for reality, trying desperately to believe in the love they are not getting. But their real suspicions are not allayed. They come out in excessive demands for attention, in other forms of bewildered, uncertain behavior.

The happiest day of our entire experience as parents—and for everyone else—is the one when we without guilt or fear can admit that our love needs improvement.

AAUW Has Bridge, Canasta Party

The American Association of University Women held a bridge and canasta party Friday in the Ranchland Hill Country Club.

The proceeds went to the Midland Woman's Club Building Fund. Mrs. Earl Johnson was social chairman, Mrs. H. D. Pennel, reservations and Mrs. W. E. Cox, general chairman.

The decorations carried out a Valentine motif. The hostess table was covered with a white lace cloth over red. The centerpiece was a red tulip plant with red net frills. Mrs. Johnson welcomed the guests. Sixty tables were filled.

If conditions are exactly right the sun can be hidden in an eclipse for as long as 7 1/2 minutes.

Party Carries Out Valentine Theme

The Valentine theme was carried out Thursday at the Lucky 13 Club party in the home of Mrs. O. H. Jones.

Arrangements of red and white stock formed the decorations. The group played games of '84'.

Those attending were Mrs. W. N. Cole, Mrs. Herbert Collings, Mrs. Ellis Conner, Mrs. J. C. Hudman, Mrs. S. P. Hall, Mrs. Chester Shepard, Mrs. Jack McClurg and Mrs. Houston Sikes.

Party Gowns To Fit Your Way Of Life

Here are three ways to look during the holidays. Evening halter (left) in velvet is teamed with full skirt in gleaming brocade. Slim suit (center) in bemberg metallic brocade has fitted jacket with huge turn back velvet cuffs. Strapless ball gown (right) has shimmering torso in taupe sequins and floating, bouffant skirt in filmy nylon tulle. Each fits special way of living.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK—The way that you dress for the holidays ahead depends, largely, on your way of life. If the parties you attend are small and informal, a ball gown would be about as useful as a suit of armor. But if several large, formal affairs are on your list, a ball gown is a must.

Knowing this, designers have produced fashions for every way of life during the holiday season. The woman who's addicted to separates, for instance, can carry her enthusiasm over by means of separates that can dovetail neatly with clothes she already owns. Neilly De Grab has done a sleek halter top in bemberg velvet, one that's cut to reveal pretty arms and shoulders, and teamed it with a shining brocade skirt.

For the woman who won't feel happy unless she's wearing a suit (and there are many!) there's an A. Goodman design in bemberg metallic brocade. Jacket is sleekly fitted with double-wing stand-up collar, self buttons and big turn back cuffs in black velvet. Skirt is straight and narrow.

The woman who wants the ultimate in a dramatic ball gown can find it. One Eisenberg design is a strapless gown with a gleaming torso of taupe sequins. A drifting skirt, cut from yards of taupe nylon tulle, is layered to produce a bouffant look.

Couples Who Are Unhappy Often Sell Marriage Short

If you are happily married steer clear of unhappy married couples. That may sound like a selfish attitude. But it isn't a question of selfishness—just self-protection.

An unhappy married couple is always, either consciously or unconsciously, selling marriage short.

Spend enough time with a couple who are forever tearing each other down, who are always taking a gloomy attitude toward life, and marriage itself doesn't look so rosy.

The unhappy wife usually tries to make the happy wife think that men have the best of it and that men are selfish, inconsiderate and unappreciative.

And the husband who isn't happy in his own marriage is forever making cracks about wives and marriage and the stupidity of women. Any way you look at it—it's bad for the morale of a contented husband and wife to get too chummy with a couple who are bored with each other and with marriage.

Annually, throughout the nation, Methodist congregations put forth a special effort on the second Sunday in February for negro colleges supported and maintained by the Methodist Church.

The 50-voice choir won national and international attention when it journeyed to Mexico City to perform before President Manuel Aleman in the National Palace of Fine Arts.

The A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Aaron M. Cash, ranked as one of the nation's leading spiritualist groups. Professor Cash, a graduate of Samuel Huston and the University of Southern California, is an accomplished concert vocalist.

He has brought to the choir a number of renditions of semi-classics and American folk songs.

Constance Brigham Reveals Short Cuts To Charm

New York model Constance Brigham, whose secret for maintaining a peak-of-perfection appearance at all times is based upon short-cuts rather than elaborate routines, demonstrates her favorite beauty tricks. Exercise is fun, not chore, as Constance practices muscle-stretching dance steps to phonograph music (left). Hair clips, put in just after rising and worn through bath and breakfast (upper center), keep Constance's hair neat and softly waved, eliminate necessity of sleeping in pin curls. By blending her own foundation from two basic shades (lower center), quantity of make-up essentials is kept to a minimum. Short late-day frock (right) converts into full-length formal when snap-on cuff is attached to hem. Cuff doubles as stole when dress is worn in abbreviated form. To transform it into an instep-length formal, I simply snap on wearing the dress in its abbreviated form.

The question I'm asked most frequently, by women who wonder how models manage to keep their appearance always at peak of perfection, is "do you spend all your spare time on beauty routines?"

The answer is no. Although beauty is our business, models—like any other woman—lead far too busy lives to devote hours each day to elaborate good-looks rituals.

My own approach to the beauty maintenance problem is to simplify things as much as possible. I've worked out a number of tricks to cut down grooming time, and to shift the whole procedure from a category of work to one of fun.

I'm no devotee of the do-it-the-hard-way school. In exercising, for instance, I've found I accomplish no more by strenuous grunts and groan techniques than I do by my own relaxed methods.

My exercise is dancing to good records on the phonograph. By good, I mean discs that are appropriate to the particular step I'm in the mood for, and those that have a strong, pronounced rhythm which will draw me out of myself and into the spirit of the dance. These may be classics, Spanish flamenco records, modern jazz or whatever.

Of course, I've studied dancing, but any woman can adapt this system to her own needs. Just set the music going and make up your own movements as you go along. Make sure you use your arms, legs, torso—all the muscles of your body.

I've simplified my make-up, too. Instead of dragging a whole collection of bottles and jars around in my box, I've settled for two basic shades of foundation—a light and a dark one.

I blend these in my palm to create the exact shade a particular costume or situation calls for. This way, there's no frantic rush to the cosmetic counter everytime the seasons change or a photographer tries a new lighting.

Hair upkeep can be a terrific bother if you're a slave to the nightly pincurl system. To avoid this, I've worked out my own pet trick which should work for almost any woman with a fair amount of natural curl or permanent in her hair.

Rather than sleeping with bobby pins or curlers on my head, I arise each morning and comb my hair carefully. Then I lock waves and curls into place with metal clamps.

I leave them in during my bath and breakfast, removing them just before I set out for my first booking of the day. This brief, uncomplicated "setting" is all that's required to keep my tresses in order. I've applied this same simplified technique to my wardrobe, too.

Instead of having a whole closetful of seldom-used clothes, I try to have fewer, but more adaptable, costumes.

My favorite idea of this sort is a convertible gown for after-five wear. I had an ice-blue satin dress made up in a mid-calf length for

Cosmetics Aid In Gaining Natural Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Almost every woman is seeking, in her cosmetics, a happy medium between an uncared-for, shiny look and an overdone, made-up look. Sometimes, unfortunately, this effect is hard to come by.

Coming to the aid of the woman whose own ineptness leads to unattractive results is a firm, long known for the excellence of its perfumes. In introducing a new line of cosmetics, their goal has been to make more fool-proof the application of make-up.

For that reason, emphasis is upon the natural. The enhancing of a woman's natural skin tones and texture is more to be desired than bizarre, cover-up techniques, they claim.

Virtues of the new products include ease and speed of application, fine protective qualities, and longer staying-power through better adherence, according to the firm. A new emollient, developed through extensive laboratory tests, is responsible for these advantages, they say.

For a natural-appearing make-up, they recommend that you begin with their light, creamy liquid foundation, which is available in five delicate hues. It's sufficiently sheer when applied that the texture of the skin is not obscured. It spreads easily, saving you time when make-up minutes are limited.

An even greater range of tones is available in face powder. A woman may choose from natural, rachel, rose rachel, French nude, dusty rose, rose tan and sunplexion, for exact matching. An ultra-refined emollient is blended into the powder, which prevents drying of the skin, they claim, and another ingredient makes possible a special youthful-appearing mat finish.

The problem of eliminating rouge-

This young woman, realizing the value of natural-appearing beauty, chooses cosmetics which will help her gain this effect. Skin-toned foundation (left) goes on in a sheer film which allows texture of complexion to show through. A non-caking, non-crumbing mascara is an aid in achieving darker, more lustrous lashes (center) without a made-up look. Long-wearing lipstick (right) is used as an accent touch of color to highlight toned-down effect of other cosmetics.

blotches was approached in two ways. First, the color tones were kept deliberately soft and muted so that they would appear a heightening of natural color rather than distinct hues in themselves.

And second, the individual rouge particles were given extra-refinement in order to spread on with absolute smoothness. The woman who applies this rouge, with caution and a light hand, should produce satisfactory results.

For color accent, there is a color-adhering lipstick in nine shades, eyebrow pencil in four tones, and mascara.

The last, which is packaged in a bright brass case, is an aid to the woman who's unskilled in applying eye make-up, since, it's claimed, this product does not cake, crumble or sting.

In choosing shades to match your particular skin, keep these rules in mind when you visit the cosmetic counter. Tinted foundation and face powder tend to look darker in their containers than they do when applied. Allow for this by selecting a foundation or powder a tone darker than your natural complexion.

This does not apply to compressed powder, however, according to these makers. Select your powder pack for re-touching jobs, to match your skin.

Lipstick should be allied to your own coloring, too, and also to specific costume colors; eye make-up should also be chosen with these things in mind, but more attention should be paid to eye-flattery than to wardrobe matches.

Eyebrows are usually most successful when made up to complement the exact color of your hair, or, if you wish a dramatic effect, a shade slightly darker is often becoming.

Protection Seen With Milk Order

A leading milk producer in this 27-county milkshed declared in Midland Saturday that the proposed federal order will assure backing for the dairy industry.

"It will give the dairyman the same kind of protection which the government has assured the cotton farmer," said R. P. Mayfield of Lamesa, a director in the Central West Texas Milk Producers Association. Mayfield milks an average of 90 head of cows at his dairy 12 miles south of Lamesa and sells 350 gallons of milk daily.

Mayfield is also president of the Tri-County Milk Producers Association with members from Dawson, Midland, Howard and Martin Counties.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will hold a hearing in Abilene Monday on the requested milk order. Hearing was requested by the Central West Texas organization. It has more than 300 members.

Purposes of the hearing as outlined by Mayfield are:

1.—To set up a federal order which will provide for a check on weights and tests of all milk received in every plant in the 27-county area.

2.—To provide for an accounting of all milk received in the plants according to its use—as to whether it goes into bottles as fluid milk for retailing, or into manufactured products.

3.—To provide a floor price to the producer—which floor has no direct effect on the retail price of milk.

4.—To provide milk market information for all producers in the area.

By pegging the price of milk to the handler, Mayfield believes the consumer will receive assurance of no decided hikes in retail prices.

"The order will assure about what price the public can expect to pay for milk," Mayfield said.

Mail Delivery Due City Fringes

Midland residents who recently have built homes on the outer fringes of the city will be getting mail delivered to their door before the end of the month, Postmaster N. G. Oates promised Saturday.

"When the new residences are added to our present routes, postal delivery will be covering just about every part of the city," Oates said.

The postmaster estimated that 672 homes will be included on the delivery routes.

But just to make things official, he said, the request to extend the delivery must be submitted to federal postal officials in Washington for approval.

Meanwhile, Oates said he has advertised for bids on a vehicle to be used on the additional territory which the extended routes will cover.

In the past, people who live in the outlying areas, have obtained their mail in a variety of ways.

Some of them called for it at the general delivery window, some received it in post office boxes, while others received it at the place where they worked.

With the announcement of extended mail delivery in the city, Oates again urged all persons who can have their mail delivered at home to do so.

"A large group of people now receive their mail at the general delivery window in the post office while they could be having it delivered to their residence," Oates said.

Congestion at the general delivery window was cited as the biggest problem facing postal workers here.

The postmaster said a check made here last month revealed that an average of 1,000 persons a day step up to the general delivery window daily to receive their mail.

"We simply can't understand why so many people call at the post office for their mail instead of having home delivery," said Oates. "And it's especially difficult to understand in a city of this size where city routes cover so much territory," he said.

If more of these people would have their mail delivered, it would help ease the problem here considerably, Oates said.

Beer Dealers Set Session

A meeting of all Midland wholesalers and retailers of beer for off-premises consumption has been called for 8 p.m. Thursday in the district courtroom.

The meeting has been planned by the Office of Price Stabilization for an explanation of ceiling price regulations covering the sale of beer. Alton Taylor, price specialist from the Lubbock district office, will conduct the meeting. He will answer questions from individual merchants.

He will spend most of the day in Midland and will be available for private interviews and conferences with merchants. He pointed out there are forms which must be prepared and that he would assist wholesalers and retailers in meeting these and other provisions of the price stabilization program.

Sellers of beer who need help in bringing their businesses into complete compliance with the regulations are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to obtain help from the price representative while he is in Midland.

Rankin Pioneer Women Honored

RANKIN—Mrs. F. E. Rankin, a resident of Rankin for many years and for whose family the town was originally named, was honored recently on her 90th birthday anniversary in the home of a son and daughter-in-law, J. Pearl and Mrs. Rankin.

Long-time friends and members of the family were guests invited to have cake and coffee and greet Mrs. Rankin. Arrangements of yellow carnations were used in decoration and the birthday cake was topped with yellow jonquils and candles. Refreshments were served by granddaughters of the honoree.

Numerous guests were received during the hours of three to five p.m. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Porter Rankin and daughter, Rosalind, of Midland.

New Swim Suits Are One-Piece And Fitted

From California come these 1952 swim suits by Catalina. Strapless suit (left) is one-piece birdseye pique with lapel cuff and bloomers of gingham check. A two-piece denim (center) has matching beach coat with bandana collar and pocket trim. Pastel floral trim lends fragile look (right) to one-piece suit that has matching floral parasol in water-proof plastic. Colors are clear and bright.

By GAIL DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor
LOS ANGELES—The swim suit that you'll wear in 1952 will be a beauty. It probably will be a one-piece strapless suit that will fit to perfection. But if it does have straps, they will be very wide—or the merest shoe strings.

The two-piece suit has not vanished from the face of the earth. Women like it, as designers know, and as long as they do, it will appear on beaches. But many designers feel that a one-piece suit is easier to wear, more flattering to the figure, less inclined to reveal bulges around the middle.

Though a suit is one-piece, strapless and brief, it also can be modest. Catalina has designed just such a suit in black bird's-eye pique, given it a lapel cuff of black-and-white gingham check and bloomers in the same check. Big pockets have the check trim; the skirt is split down the center to reveal the bloomers.

Denim, in faded blue, appears in a two-piece suit that has matching beach coat. The bra has a cuff in bandana and the same trim appears on pockets and collar of the beach robe. The robe itself is styled like a man's shirt. Panties are shirred for perfect fit.

A flowered bra-top that's pretty enough for an evening gown is used on a one-piece suit that has shirred side panels for smooth fit. Flowers in sweet pastels are matched to a small flowered parasol to be used with the suit when there's need for protection from the sun.

Saints' And Sinners Have Helped Cupid

Saints and sinners alike have helped Dan, Cupid, to weave a web of romantic customs and historical controversy around the origin of St. Valentine's Day.

The "romantic customs" are of particular interest, since 1952 is Leap Year—when the rules of courtship can be side-tracked without notice.

Apparently, St. Valentine's Day always has been considered the best time for sweethearts to "pop the question." However, millions of Valentines are exchanged each year between friends and relatives as well as those for sweethearts, wives and husbands.

According to records little is known about how this custom began. However, most scholars agree that St. Valentine's Day was named for a young priest who refused to accept the traditional Gods of Rome.

First Valentine
According to experts, St. Valentine was jailed for his faith in Christianity. There he cured the keeper's daughter of blindness, but was beheaded soon afterwards.

Following the execution, Feb. 14, 270 A. D., it was learned he had thoughtfully written a letter to console the little girl, signed "From Your Valentine."

With this act of kindness the imaginations of people everywhere began to stir. Token of friendship, which neither implied nor encouraged a flutery heart, were exchanged on St. Valentine's day more than 1,000 years later.

Several centuries earlier the Romans had lavishly celebrated this date as the pagan Feast of Lupercalia. The ceremony originated from pseudo-scientific belief that the birds of Italy began mating of February 14.

Draws For Blind Dates
A romantic significance was attached to this date and "love lotteries" were set up at central locations, usually in the public square or an old-style Town Hall. The name, address and zone number of every "eligible" maiden was placed in a large urn. Roman swains then started drawing to determine their "blind dates" for the current year.

However the Valentine custom, which began in Rome almost 1700 years ago, is acknowledged as "The granddaddy of them all."

It was Leap Year and the unexpected demand encouraged her to "open shop" on a larger scale. After her college days ended, she became the head of a firm specializing in Valentines.

By 1858 humorous verses and designs, as they are today, were as popular as the sentimental Valentines.

Later this approach to romance was bitterly opposed by church authorities—who wanted to substitute the name of a guardian saint for these young people. However this was never popular as taking a chance on love. So the pagan Love Festival continued to flourish.

During the Revolutionary War the first flurry of Valentines broke out in America. Records show, however, that sweethearts had been exchanging Valentines for over 300 years by then.

According to records the oldest Sweetheart Valentine was designed by the Duke of Orleans in 1415. Imprisoned in the Tower of London after the Battle of Agincourt, he bribed a guard to smuggle it out.

Other Customs
Later other Frenchmen kept the custom alive. Meanwhile, across the channel, stern English fathers told their daughters that a Valentine was the equivalent of a proposal of marriage. Eligible suits were judged by the ingenuity of their Valentines revealed.

In America colonial sweethearts made their simple pen-and-ink Valentines as best they could. This continued until 1840 when Esther Howland designed and printed a batch of English-style Valentines for her classmates at Mount Holyoke College for Women.

It was Leap Year and the unexpected demand encouraged her to "open shop" on a larger scale. After her college days ended, she became the head of a firm specializing in Valentines.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

National Debt One Of Chief Problems Worrying Texas' Solons

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (P)—Next to the ever-constant threat of World War III, the first worry of Texas members of Congress—and most other congressmen—is the enormous national debt.

The present ceiling on the public debt is 275 billion dollars. Although that's down 25 billion from the all-time high reached in World War II, it's six times as great as the 45 billion dollar ceiling in effect at the beginning of 1941.

Those Texans available for comment were unanimous in expressing hope that the ceiling won't be raised.

The one qualification which everyone states in expressing a determination to block a further boost in the national debt ceiling this year is action that may be necessary in the event of an all-out war.

Discussing the matter of raising the legal ceiling on the national debt, the lawmakers hasten to point out that it isn't a question on which you can say "yes" or "no" without taking into consideration the justification of any and all appropriations.

No Such Thing

"Actually," commented Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, "there's no such thing, practically speaking, as a ceiling on the national debt. The Congress fixes a limit beyond which the Treasury can not go in issuing bonds. If Congress decides to appropriate beyond that limitation, it raises the ceiling."

The question of a debt ceiling has to be considered along with revenues. Without exception the Texas members questioned are against any new taxes this year. They note that the President's Budget Bureau requests amount to $5 billion dollars, while anticipated revenues for this year amount to about 71 billion. Fourteen billion dollar deficit financing should still leave the debt just within the 275 billion limitation.

"I think we can well live within the 70-odd billion dollar income," Lyle continued.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, a member of the House-Senate Joint Committee on the Economic Report and one of the authorities in Congress on monetary matters, also describes the national debt limitation "meaningless, to all intents and purposes."

"Congress puts the lid on," he explains, "and it can take it off." The right approach is not to appropriate the money. If it does, it must be responsible for its actions and see that the Treasury can act accordingly. Otherwise, it would be in the role of a man writing bad checks.

Elaborating on his own views and calling for a balanced budget, Patman said:

"I'm for achieving that end but trimming down the budget estimates. The military as well as the civilian agencies can get by on much less, without sacrificing national security."

Numerous members agreed with Patman and Lyle, that the armed services would have to share in any cuts if there was to be anything like a balanced budget. They point out that about 60 billion dollars of the budget's estimated $5 billion—for the year starting next July 1—is for the armed forces. Almost 87 per cent of the total is for cost of past wars or armaments against future wars. The cost of non-defense programs of government has decreased about nine per cent since fiscal 1950.

Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock and Colorado City, head of the House Armed Services Appropriations subcommittee, was cautious in predicting what final action his group will take in regard to trimming the budget's request for the military.

"We lopped about 1 1/2 billion off last year's requests," he says. "I can assure you we'll carefully check every item, and I hope we can effect even a greater savings this year."

Take It Or Leave It

Rep. Ken Regan of Midland makes no bones how he feels, but he isn't on the Appropriations Committee and can only hope to translate words into action when the money measures go to the floor—often under rules which won't permit any changes; you have to take it or leave it.

"The military is wading in money right now," Regan declared. "We have plenty of instances of waste and extravagance on their part. I think the over-all budget could be cut 50 per cent and still be adequate."

Rep. Tom Pickett of Palestine, agreeing with the others that there should be no new taxes and that cuts can well be made in the request for both the military and civilian agencies, gave his own views regarding the fixing of a national debt ceiling.

"It's a psychological barrier against rampant spending," he said. "Of course, Congress can raise it at will, but that action in itself throws the spotlight on the issue and therefore makes some of these people think twice before they vote for additional appropriations."

The first limitation on the public debt was fixed at 45 billion dollars by the Act of Feb. 4, 1935; it was raised to 65 billion Feb. 19, 1941; 125 billion March 28, 1942; 210 billion, April 11, 1943; 260 billion June 28, 1946.

Writing Patman regarding the ceiling limitation, research experts in the Congressional Library said reasons most often given for its imposition are:

1. To maintain the credit of the government; 2. To prevent inflation; 3. To prevent any undue shift of the burdens of government from the present generation to a future generation; 4. To keep a reasonable ratio between income and outgo.

"The legal implications that would apply if this limit were exceeded are not definitely clear," they added. "It is possible that bonds issued without authority would be void under the ordinary rules of law, but on the other hand the government may be stopped from raising the issue of wrongful issuance."

Rep. J. Frank Wilson of Dallas had this to say:

"I'm against appropriating in amounts to take the debt up to the ceiling. I'm in favor of cutting the budget, and I think we can do it in both military and civilian departments."

Rep. Teague: "I'm hoping we can cut the debt limitation still further, certainly not increase it."

Rep. Frank Icard of Wichita Falls:

"I'd like to see us keep spending down. I'm certainly against increasing the debt ceiling under any circumstances other than an out-right war."

"I think we should take another look at this foreign economic aid. No matter how laudable and Christian it is to help the rest of the world, we can't keep it up forever at this rate."

Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa: "This deficit financing can lead to bankruptcy, socialism and loss of individual freedom. That's probably Russia's strategy, so let's don't fall for it."

"I agree that there's plenty of room for cutting the budget. The military is a good place to start; it's criminal the way they've been throwing money away."

Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson:

"The only way I'd agree to raising the debt ceiling would be if we became involved in an all-out war. I'm against new taxes and I think we can cut down the budget estimates plenty."

Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Glade-water:

"I hope we can bring about raising and savings so it won't be necessary to even think about raising the debt limitation."

Reps. W. R. Pogue of Waco and Clark Fisher of San Angelo both agreed that they also are opposed to any new taxes and feel much can be cut from the president's budget requests.

Rep. Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., of McAllen:

"I would look with considerable disfavor on raising the debt limitation. The only justification would be for urgent increases in national defense, which I hope we don't have to have."

Rep. Clark Thompson of Galveston:

"Unless the emergency conditions become substantially worse, we should hold the debt ceiling where it is. I expect we can make some material savings in the budget requests for national defense without in any way impairing our security."

Rep. Homer Thornberry:

"I certainly hope we can cut down the budget requests."

Rep. Paul Kilday of San Antonio:

"I think there's a lot of water in these budget requests that we can squeeze out. I'm not in favor of any new taxes."

Venetian Blinds Serve Many Purposes

Venetian blinds are easy to keep clean with modern methods.

By MR. FLX
Distributed by NEA Service
Modern Venetian blinds don't need much selling. Their practical as well as decorative value has been well established. With them, you cannot only regulate the amount of fresh air entering the room, but also the amount of light for better sleeping or more pleasant reading conditions. When completely closed, Venetian blinds keep out cold winter air, hot summer air and brilliant sunshine that fades rugs.

Problem windows often can be "fixed" by the judicious use of Venetian blinds. If the window is too low, the blind may be installed a considerable distance above the window to give the effect of more height. A row of narrow old-fashioned windows may be covered by a single long blind to give a more modern look.

Cleaning Venetian blinds and keeping them clean is greatly simplified by using a modern cleaner made specifically for the purpose.

Easy Procedure

It isn't necessary to remove the blind from its brackets and soak it in the bath tub or even take it out-doors to the clothesline to clean it. This cleaner, which is a detergent, is mixed one part to 20 parts of water. After lightly dusting or brushing the slats of the blind, apply the suds with a brush, sponge or cloth. It isn't necessary to rinse. Merely wipe the blind and the tapes with a dry cloth.

Once a week, close the blind with the slats turned down and wipe them with a dry cloth, then close it with the slats turned up and repeat the procedure. The tape should be brushed once a week.

Stops Flying Glass

Metal Venetian blinds are available today which may be twisted, bent double and pounded without disturbing the paint. This is a far cry from the first fragile blinds from which the paint was eventually washed away.

Beside serving as a ventilator, temperature regulator, window blind and attractive decoration for your home, the Venetian blind is able to serve a more serious and vital purpose than any of these. In the event of an explosion, atomic or otherwise, the blind forms an excellent stop for flying glass.

Specialists List New Techniques To Ease Washday Woes

Many washday woes are unnecessary.

Specialists in home laundry techniques report that housewives can save themselves time and effort by following these tips:

Equip the laundry to lighten work. First, have the walls and floors of easy-to-clean clay tile which needs only light wiping to be immaculate. Be sure that the sorting centers and counters for folding freshly ironed items are the proper height to suit the homemaker's stature. This eliminates wearying stretching and bending.

Ideally, there should be one counter near the washer, for the sorting of soiled clothes, and another near the ironer, to accommodate finished articles.

Place a laundry bag or hamper in each bedroom, in the bathroom, and also in the kitchen. Especially in large families, this makes for systematic collection.

Step-Saver

Train every family member to assemble his soiled clothing and bed linens on washday morning and bring them to a designated center preferred by the housewife. This will save her a lot of steps.

Be sure the sorting counters are as large as possible. The greater the area, the more systematic sorting can be. It's best to separate clothes requiring ironing into one pile, and those which may be put away unpressed in another, and then proceed with each pile in order.

Laundry may be done more rapidly if articles do not become too soiled. Have a large supply of towels, for example, so that grime is not rubbed into them through too prolonged use. Keep a small mop in the bathroom for removing water splashed onto the floor. The tile is so easily wiped that people are tempted to use their soiled towels for the purpose!

Adequate Lighting Still Vital Need In Today's Houses

Even though it may be modern in every other respect, a house today likely is to have lighting facilities which belong in the age of caves and torches.

A Tile Council of America study reveals that few homes in America today would earn a 100 per cent score on proper lighting, and it sets forth several fundamental needs for illumination in the house which should be observed to meet a family's sight requirements:

Bright lights in the laundry, for sorting clothes, prewash inspection for spots, and ironing without eye strain.

Lights at strategic points in the kitchen, especially at the range, sink and storage areas. An ideal type is concealed, diffused illumination installed behind the splashbacks and under over-the-sink cabinets.

Plenty Of Outlets

Plenty of electrical outlets for various types of lamps for different kinds of reading: casual, intermittent, serious, and prolonged.

An efficient light over the "memo desk" in the kitchen or utility room, and at the living room desk.

Lighting for safety: in the bathroom for identification of medicines; at entrances, exits and stairways to prevent falls; in the children's room for play and study; and in the sewing room.

Illumination for recreation. A rumpus room with safe and easily clean floor and light - reflecting walls is a better room for games if a ceiling fixture is installed to direct light on the pingpong or billiard table, or over card tables.

Safety As Well As Beauty Seen In Landscaping

Planned landscaping can provide safety as well as beauty and comfort for the homeowner by utilizing plantings to their fullest advantage, says a prominent landscape architect.

"I have used plantings repeatedly to discourage small children from running out into an all-too-visible nearby street; also for preventing trespass," said Mary Deputy Lamson, landscaping consultant for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

Creating a safe play area for children by keeping them away from streets is one of the two major problems many young families encounter upon moving into a new development and oftentimes even in an established neighborhood. The other problem generally is one of landscaping to create a picture for the picture window that has become a characteristic feature of the American Style of architecture.

"It seems to me that the increasing trend toward picture windows is probably essentially a part of Americans' awareness of outdoors and their determination to 'enjoy it, at all times of the year and at all times of the day," Mrs. Lamson said.

Both the above problems usually can be solved at one time, she said, if they are explained to the landscape architect so he may take them into consideration when drawing up the master plan that is so essential to correct landscaping.

Woman With Double Job Must Estimate Energy Carefully

If you're a dual personality—homemaker and job-holder—this is for you.

Home economics experts warn that there is a limit to the kind and amount of physical work you should do after a day at the office. The best approach, they say, is not to take pride in accomplishing an unreasonable amount of work in one 24-hour period. Much better, the experts suggest, to keep cheerful and be happy in getting essential tasks done.

Women who hold down two jobs should remember a cardinal rule of systematic homemaking, according to the home economists: equip your home as nearly as possible with time-saving aids, such as efficient appliances, easy-to-clean surfaces in kitchen and bathroom, and furniture which requires little care other than occasional dusting.

Basic Standards

Don't attempt the impossible at home if you work for a boss from 9 to 5, the experts continue. Let women who have all day for home-making indulge in the "extras." Here are four basic standards to maintain to keep a home the way you want it:

1. Cleanliness for health and family satisfaction. Use as many easy to clean and sanitary surfaces as you can manage.

2. Simple comfort for privacy and relaxation. Make every room as well equipped for personal ease as possible.

3. Convenience of home arrangements for all who live in the home. Too many houses and apartments are styled for appearance's sake and not for livability.

4. Orderliness to make it simple for everybody in the family to locate things in a hurry. This will eliminate cries of "Darling, where is the sewing kit?" and other requests which mean leg-work for the woman of the house.

Precinct Political Job In Haskell County Pays Better Than Filling Governor's Seat

O'BRIEN, TEXAS — (P) — There's a precinct political job here in the corner of Haskell County which pays off better than being governor.

The net take has been running around $20,000 a year. The work is done in the four months of the cotton ginning season.

The job is that of public weigher.

Cotton is about all he weighs, but that's plenty. First, he gets 80 cents per bale for handling and weighing. Second, he gets to pick up the loose cotton. And that's adding up to more than 100 bales even in this poor cotton year.

The job is good enough to draw five candidates by the middle of January. Other half-don'ts are on the verge of announcing.

The present weigher, Ayres A. Cox, 39, has another season to go on his second two-year term. He isn't expected to make the race again although he hasn't ruled himself out.

But five fellows have made up their minds for sure. Three of them are kin to Cox: Sam Johnston, his nephew; Billy Gene Johnston and C. B. Banner, his son-in-law. Also in the running are S. J. Reeves, Jr., and R. H. Duncan.

Payments Boom

Poll tax payments are booming in the O'Brien precinct. There are about 250 potential voters in the precinct. To complicate matters, there are a lot of kinfolk in O'Brien. About 70 of them are in the Johnston family and its relatives.

And a big question is: Who will get the 40 or 45 Latin-American votes?

The cotton setup at O'Brien makes the public weigher's job unusually profitable. The village is home for the big Northern Star Seed Farms. Three gins, among the most modern and busiest anywhere, always take the lead in ginning reports in this part of the state. Totals run up to 30,000 bales in a good year.

This droughty year the gins will process about 14,500 bales. Nearby Rochester, with four gins, won't reach half that mark.

The public weigher's business has fallen off to a dribble in most West Texas towns because gins and compresses have started doing their own weighing and sampling.

But, in O'Brien, the gins are all owned by a farmers cooperative and they have kept the weighing duties in the hands of an elected official.

Good Cotton, Too

Not only does O'Brien gin a lot of cotton—it's good cotton, too. It runs an inch staple or better, thanks largely to the big experimental farms.

Work doesn't last more than about four months, but there's plenty of work then. Cox says. It takes up to 11 employees and many 18-hour days to handle the million dollars worth of cotton in the usual crop.

The loose cotton, which makes the job so profitable, it loosened in the process of taking samples which are sent to government graders. When the tightly-packed bale is cut, cotton blossoms out. Railroads and insurance companies frown on these free fluffs of cotton because they invite fire. So, the cottonyard worker pulls them loose, smoothing the side of the bale.

That cotton goes to the weigher. The O'Brien gins bale the local weigher's cotton for him, throwing in the bagging and ties for free. Cox said his patched-up bales have brought him from 28 to 35 cents a pound this year.

The only "overhead" for the weigher is the cottonyard help he hires, and the cost of being bonded as a weigher and sampler.

The campaign costs also are not high. Cox figures it will cost a man about $50 to make the race.

Home Permanent Saves Time In Hair Care

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Home permanents are getting easier and easier to give. The newest entry in the field completely eliminates the neutralizing step, and allows only one timing for all hair.

According to the makers of this permanent, the success is in the three featured personalized waving lotions: "very gentle," "regular," and "super."

If your hair curls easily, has been color-treated or is dry and brittle with a tendency to frizz, the "very gentle" lotion is ideal. "Regular" does the job for normal hair, while "super" is a match for hair that resists most curling attempts. You might keep this in mind for the younger members in your home.

The new streamlined home permanent procedure couldn't be simpler. The first thing to do is shampoo your hair. Be sure every bit of soap is thoroughly rinsed out. While you are waiting for your hair to partially dry, lay out the contents of the kit, and carefully read the instructions.

Next gather together your plastic curlers, cotton, clean comb and clock. Pour the waving lotion into a small china dish or cup. A plastic make-up cape will protect your skin and clothing from dripping lotion. It might even be helpful for you to Scotch tape the direction sheet to the mirror for quick reference.

Place a towel or two nearby. These pre-permanent preparations will help to insure a better permanent, and save time and energy.

Now you are ready to start the actual permanent. Part your slightly damp hair into small sections, and saturate each strand with waving lotion. Roll the strand on a curler. Any plastic home permanent curlers will do. After your hair is wound, re-saturate the curls with the remaining lotion.

Lamb Prices Soar In Reagan

BIG LAKE—The local lamb market was high Saturday. Sixty-three FFA and 4-H Club boys sold lambs at better than $1 a pound at the annual Reagan County Livestock Show Friday. A majority of the animals brought $1.05 to $1.25.

Leslie McMullan, 15-year-old FFA boy, exhibited the grand champion lamb. He had two champions in the show, the champion fine wool lamb and the champion crossbred. The crossbred received the grand champion's crown.

Big Lake State Bank paid $5.20 a pound for the grand champion, a Pembroke-bred lamb.

Top-selling lamb of the day was one from Ralph Wray. His grandfather, Ralph Pembroke, bought the lamb at $6 per pound.

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The cattle market was steady with the week before at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thursday. Seven hundred and seventy-three head were consigned and sold.

Fat calves and yearlings went at $23.50 to $33, common and medium kinds $24 to $28.50. Fat cows brought $21 to $23, mediums $19 to $21, canners and cutters $14 to $19. Bulls cashed for $24 to $27.50.

Stockers, steers, calves cleared at $24.50 to $28 and heifer calves at about the same price. W. H. Wilson, Stanton, got $193.50 per head for six 730 pound heifers.

The Texas 4-H Electric Program conducted the last three years, will be continued.

This announcement was made by Floyd Lynch, state 4-H club leader, following a recent meeting of representatives of Texas electric service companies at College Station.

The Texas phase of this program, sponsored by the 12 electric service companies of the state, is in addition to the 4-H farm and home electric program sponsored on a national basis by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, Pittsburgh, Pa.

This activity helps 4-H club boys and girls find a better way of doing things on the farm and in the home through electricity.

The first place winner in each of the 12 Extension districts receives a $50 cash award. Second, third and fourth place winners receive $30, $20 and $15.

County Prizes
The two counties in each Extension district with the best organized 4-H electrification program will receive cash awards also—$75 for first place and $50 for second.

Approximately 4,500 Texas 4-H Club members participated in the 1951 program.

"This program has a bearing on all phases of farm living and farm production," says Lynch. "With the good foundation laid during the last three years, we can look forward to a much more constructive program in the future."

Countrymen are finding that looks alone are not always the most reliable consideration when breeding stock is bought. Many ask for a record of performance on each beef animal they buy and are finding that tested stock pays well.

According to U. D. Thompson, assistant animal husbandman, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the progeny testing program on bulls conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Balcones and more recently at Bluebonnet Farm and in cooperation with Texas Tech at Pantex Farms, shows the value of the program. Animals very similar in outward appearance, he says, responded differently in the tests. Rate of gain and maturity varied considerably between the different lots tested and both are very important in meat production.

Thompson emphasizes that type, quality, size, growth ability, disposition, and the milk production of the mothers of both the cows and bulls to be used in the herd for replacements should be considered when purchases are made. Large, well-developed cows tend to produce large calves, he adds, and mammary development is considered a mighty important part of a well-developed cow.

James G. Kiser, San Antonio, was elected president and the by-laws of the Texas Division of the American Dairy Association, were revised at a recent meeting of the division at Texas A&M College. The revised by-laws provide for a greater participation in the American Dairy Association program by Texas dairymen.

A complete understanding between industry and processors was voiced at the meeting by C. R. Schooby as being vital to the objectives of the ADA, to promote the use of dairy products. Schooby is national president of the American Dairy Association of Algona, Iowa, with headquarters in Chicago.

Large Membership
There are 8,700 members of the Texas division, Dr. A. V. Moore of A&M, pointed out. More than 100 dairymen attended the meeting and a better understanding among dairymen of the state as to the aims and objectives of the association was stressed. The dairymen plan to carry the message of the industry to every section of the state and the nation.

Henry Moeller, San Antonio, was elected vice president; Grady Walker, Corpus Christi, national executive committee member; A. G. Killingsworth, Travis County, treasurer; B. E. Stallens, Houston, executive committee member; Sam van Rosenberg, Austin, re-elected manager, and Dr. I. Rupel, head of the Dairy Husbandry Department, A&M, member to represent the college.

Safe living should be the objective of every citizen. The frightful toll of human life taken annually by accidents can be reduced only when safe living is actually practiced by every one. Every day during 1952, funeral services may be held somewhere in Texas for a farm accident victim. The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee headed by J. Walter Hammond, president of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, and E. C. Martin, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, strongly believe that Texans will do something about the situation.

It is pointed out that 15,500 farm people died last year in the United States as a result of accidents. The farm group, as shown by the 1950 census, makes up only 15.6 per cent of the nation's population yet more of them died from accidents than did the group working in other industries.

There are approximately 25,000 different kinds of fish.

Inventor Makes Reality Of Hoople Brainstorm

By NEA Service

Major Amos Barnaby Hoople, star of the "Our Boarding House" cartoon in The Reporter-Telegram, has just won national recognition for an invention he perfected almost 15 years ago.

The famous inventor, in a cartoon appearing in this paper June 18, 1937, unveiled his saddle horn radio, designed to carry soap operas, disc jockeys and other (ahem) entertainment to the lonely cowboys riding the range.

And now along comes Elmer Rover, of San Francisco, Calif., who has applied for a patent on a contraption based on the Major's idea. The patent office believes in granting credit where credit is due, so it was Major Hoople, and not Rover, who won recognition for originating the device.

In Rover's saddle, the controls are behind the saddle horn and the speaker is in the same place. The Major's saddle had the sound coming out of the top of the horn with the controls forward of it.

Thus all that Rover has a patent on is how he has bored a hole in the saddle, and where he has placed the controls. If anybody wants to carry out the Major's plan to the letter, it's all right with the Patent Office, and they can get a patent, too.

Interviewed on the subject of Rover's saddle horn radio, Major Hoople was tolerant and amused.

"Heh-heh," he chuckled. "Good luck to Mr. Rover! We inventors must stick together—har-rumph!"

While many of the Major's inventions have been found practical, others have been relegated to the department of fantasy. Of these later are the revolving doormat, luminous shaving cream for shaving in the dark and many too numerous to mention.

Israel Reviving Ancient Industry On City's Ruins

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL—(NEA)—Over the ruins of the ancient city of Caesarea, which rivaled Jerusalem in importance when it was built by King Herod in 40 B. C., American investment is helping build a modern fishing port for the new state of Israel.

When Caesarea was at its peak, strong gales destroyed it, and Herod spent 12 years rebuilding the port.

The present revival began with a cooperative fishing village on Lake Kinneret—once called Lake Gennesaret—which is as stormy today as when Christ stilled its waves.

Another village, Mishport, was launched by eight war veterans without previous fishing experience. Within five years, it had 40 concrete buildings and now the government has established a training school for other hopeful fishermen.

The fishing revival is a major step in Israel's economy, since more than half the fish consumed is still imported, despite the fact that the production of fish has almost doubled in the past two years.

Youngsters Show Off Big Pythons

SAIGON, INDOCHINA—(P)—You don't have to go to a zoo to see giant pythons and other reptiles in this "Paris of the East."

You practically stumble over them in the streets. For almost daily, some young Vietnamese can be found with a python or other kind of snake wrapped around his neck and shoulders, and proudly showing off to all passersby.

Sometimes the snake slithers off his caretaker's shoulders and then there's a fast pedestrian movement in some other direction.

DOG MOURNED
YORKTON, SASKATCHEWAN—(P)—Bert Loxter closed his billiard hall here for two days in respect to "Snooky," his pet Boston bulldog that died at the venerable age of 14.

The new port, where 45 fishing boats will be able to unload simultaneously, is the most ambitious of many projects that are taking

Later it was destroyed by the Turks battling the Crusaders. All today's rebuilders found when they went to work were some 40-ton boulders, the remains of an ancient city of splendor where St. Paul was imprisoned.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

BY NORTH CALLAHAN

NEW YORK—John L. Kuhn, prominent New York attorney, who hails from Johnson City, Tenn., says politics today are tame compared to the days he knew as a boy back in his home state. That was when Alf and Bob Taylor, two brothers, ran against each other for governor of that state, speaking from the same platform, staying in the same hotels etc. Their colorful, friendly campaign was called "The War of the Roses," one wearing a red rose, another a white one. Once when Alf was speaking, Kuhn told me, right in the middle of his speech, a loud hiss emanated from somewhere in the middle of his audience. There was an embarrassed silence. Alf Taylor, not cracking a smile remarked, "There are only three things that hiss—a goose, a snake and a fool. Come forth and be identified."

Some hotels here are booked up for conventions years ahead. It seems that long ago, those in charge of these meetings learned that if they did not ask early, the reservations would be taken up by others, so a kind of race started and now it is nothing to see on a banquet manager's book: "serve roast turkey for the Heavy Hammer Slingers Annual Dinner on March 12, 1956." The rooms are taken too. And incidentally, along with these reservations thousands of tickets are requested for "South Pacific" and other plays, in case you wonder why it's so hard to get advance seats for the hit shows. Sometime one of these far-distant-future reservations is going to conflict with the millennium.

Tim Farber is a customs inspector here and he sees lots of queer things in the course of his interesting work. He said he has gotten so—and he doesn't know just how—but he can spot a person who is trying to sneak something in from overseas, almost every time. The other day, Tim was checking through the trunk of a lady who had arrived from Europe, and right in the middle of some fine pillows, he found—of all things—ten pounds of salami. She seemed heart-broken, he said, when he had to confiscate the sausages because they can bring in hoof and mouth diseases.

The keeper of a local jail was surprised the other day when he received a letter addressed to an individual who was not in the jail. The name did seem familiar, and he tried to recall where he had seen it before. Then he happened to turn the envelope over, and on the back of it was a note which said: "If not in jail yet, please hold until he arrives."

Stopped in at the Academy of Arts and Letters at 155th Street and Broadway and saw several mementos of the late author, Sinclair Lewis. There they have the manuscript of his book, "Arrowsmith," his Nobel Prize—he was the first American novelist to win one, and even his school grade cards, one of which showed he got a 70 in spelling and 75 in grammar. Which goes to show that it is the ability to write—plus a good proof reader who is an important person on books or newspapers—that counts, rather than being an exact scholar. I recall not long ago that I was driving through Lewis's home town of Sauk Centre, Minnesota, and had a hard time finding his old home. Finally a filling station man pointed it out to me. It was an ordinary wooden structure. I asked him what it was used for and he casually replied, "Oh the mail carrier for Route Number Two lives there now."

Some friends were in from out of town attending the automobile dealers convention and they had some of those show tickets referred to above. So we went to see "Top Banana" which stars Phil Silvers and is a take-off on a television big shot who can't do anything unless he has his writers and other assistants around him. It's not very funny, but now and then one gets a giggle or two. Mostly the whole thing is an imitation of old burlesque.

Talking to John Logan, TWA Airlines official, about the recent airplane accidents which have caused so much excitement. He replied that his company had not had a major crack-up in eight years, and that its planes fly a million passenger miles every five days. Percentage wise, he said, the rate of airplane accidents is less than half what it used to be.

MADE TO ORDER—Was there a prophetic touch in this photo of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in Washington in October, 1947? "Ike" is grinning broadly over the little white elephant dangling from the ribbon that represents the Ancient Danish Order of the Elephant, Denmark's highest decoration. The figure could pass for the symbol of the Republican Party, some of whose leaders are now booming Ike to be their candidate.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And The Upor Broke Out

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, once went to visit with Uncle Bunkum who lives at the zoo. Uncle Bunkum likes to live there in his monkey cage.

Daddy Ringtail, of course, would never want to live at the zoo. He would never want the Monkey Catcher to catch him. Daddy Ringtail likes to live at home in the Great Forest.

Uncle Bunkum knew all this, and so he was very quiet as he unlocked the door of his cage for Daddy Ringtail to come in and visit with him. "Well sir," said Uncle Bunkum, "the Monkey Catcher may know you are here, and he may not know you are here. But we won't take any chances. I will unlock the back door here to my cage for you to get out, if the Monkey Catcher tries to cause us trouble."

"Where is he now?" whispered Daddy Ringtail.

Uncle Bunkum explained that the Monkey Catcher was over in that little house where a very savage something was in a cage inside. "I don't know what the something is," said Uncle Bunkum, "but everyone says it is savage. It's name is Pandemonium!"

"Mercy me!" said Daddy Ringtail.

"Yesir," said Uncle Bunkum. But just then, the Monkey Catcher came running out of the little house where Pandemonium lived in his cage inside. "Help!"

"Help!" shouted the Monkey Catcher. "Help! Help! Pandemonium has broken out!" The Monkey Catcher disappeared over a hill.

Said Uncle Bunkum: "It's the first time I ever saw the Monkey Catcher afraid of anything."

"I'd better see about this Pandemonium," said Daddy Ringtail.

Uncle Bunkum begged him not to do it, but Daddy Ringtail said he was sure he would be all right.

By WESLEY DAVIS

He would speak with kind and gentle words, and he did as he went into the little house where Pandemonium had broken out.

He found that Pandemonium was a nice old monkey who wasn't savage at all. Yes, and Pandemonium was broken out with the measles. Oh, but he would be all right. Doctor Shoo-bug came soon after. The Monkey Catcher had run away to get him, you know. Happy day! (Copyright 1952, General Features Corp.)

Phillips Signs Air Force Contract On Rocket Fuels

BARTLESVILLE, OKLA.—Phillips Petroleum Company has entered into contracts with the U. S. Air Force which will lead to the eventual production of solid fuels for rockets and of rocket motors, K. S. Adams, chairman, and Paul Endacott, president, announced Thursday at the company's headquarters here.

Initial activities are being conducted in Bartlesville. However, the major portion of work will be transferred later to another location presently undisclosed.

Initial effort will be devoted to units providing very large but short bursts of power for assisting in the take-off of aircraft. These units, known as ATO (assist-take-off) rockets, employ solid fuels and possess no moving parts. ATO rockets have been produced for a number of years in small quantities. Improvements and cost reduction may make them practical for use by commercial planes in addition to military aircraft.

Secretary Of State Sheppard To Make Scout Award Presentations For Area

BIG SPRING—Secretary of State John Ben Sheppard will present awards and make a brief "Salute to Scouts" at a four-county district Scout Show in Big Spring Monday night.

The show is being presented for all Scouts in the Lone Star District which embraces Howard, Martin, Glasscock and Sterling counties. Gulliford, L. Jones, Big Spring attorney, who is helping arrange the affair, said Girl Scouts, Brownies, Cubs and Explorers as well as Boy Scouts from the four counties were invited to attend.

The show is being presented as a part of a national program to observe the anniversary of the founding of Scouting in America.

The program will be in two parts: an investiture service conducted by the local field executive who will induct into Scouting a number of boys just coming into the Scout program, and presentation of the highest awards by Sheppard and a brief talk on Scouting.

The speaker at the Scout Show has been Secretary of State since February, 1950, when he was appointed by Gov. Allan Shivers. Prior to that he was an East Texas attorney.

Pecos Phone Plans Told

PECOS — Three additional sections of switchboard have been ordered by the Pecos and Northwestern Telephone Company here, according to a letter to city officials from Ralph Sparks, general manager.

Sparks, now living in California, indicated he has tentative plans to install an automatic system here, although there is no immediate promise of such installation.

City councilmen voted at their last meeting to invite Sparks here to answer complaints registered by local telephone users, among them a Pecos businessman, who protested that party lines have been attached to his business phone.

Sparks said personal matters would detain him in California for "another two to three weeks."

He added that he has a commitment for the new switchboard sections for August delivery. He continued:

"We have on order a considerable quantity of telephone cable engineered to extend available unused cable pairs through the new residential section west of Eddy Street to the Air Base."

He also pointed out that there are now about 1,887 telephones in service here, compared to the 759 in 1942.

Statistics reveal that approximately 425,970 calls are completed here each month, while in 1943 that number was estimated to be only 146,970. Local calls completed each day during January, 1952, were about 14,199, Sparks related.

Barstow Woman Has Anniversary With Newsletter

BARSTOW — Barstow Bears Tracks, a weekly newsletter published for servicemen and their relatives by Mrs. Ines Dudley Rogers in Barstow, this week celebrates its first anniversary.

"When we first started, we wanted very much to send a little friendly greeting to each of you then in the Armed Services," Mrs. Rogers told her readers, "but somehow that week we just couldn't find time to do that."

"And then one day we thought of writing a letter to all of you and running it off on our hectograph machine... never dreaming that our greeting would keep growing."

Assisted by her young son, Dudley, Mrs. Rogers now has 75 subscribers, compared to the 15 copies she mailed from her initial issue a year ago. Mrs. Rogers makes no charge for her weekly newsletter.

Upton County Road Bids Asked Thursday

RANKIN—Upton County commissioners will consider bids on 32.8 miles of roads at a special session at 10 a.m. Thursday.

The roads will be in the eastern part of the county. They are among those included in a $1,050,000 bond issue approved last December.

Pecos Scout Fund Campaign Planned

PECOS — Plans were launched for the annual Boy Scout fund drive February 26, as Chairman Wendell Faulkner met with campaign leaders.

The local groups expects to contact about 8,000 persons in an effort to best the $5,100 raised last year.

There are 318 boys in Pecos who are actively engaged in scouting functions. There are nine scout troops, four cub packs and four explorer posts, according to Joe Niedermayer, Scout executive.

Another 150 boys here want to join some Scout unit, Niedermayer said.

Conducting a separate drive for larger contributions will be State Senator Hill Hudson. Faulkner's aides include G. V. Walker, Jimmy Yancy, McNeil Gibbs, Russell Smith, Charlie Mahan and Bill Bingham.

Press Association To Meet In Alpine

BRADY —(AP)—The West Texas Press Association will hold its twenty-second annual meeting at Alpine August 8-9.

L. B. Smith, editor of the Brady Standard and WTPA president, announced the date and site after a meeting of WTPA officers and directors.

The invitation to meet at Alpine was extended by M. A. Webb, publisher of the Alpine Avalanche, and the Alpine Chamber of Commerce. The two-day program will be concluded by a visit to McDonald Observatory and a tour of the Big Bend National Park.

22 New Polio Cases Are Listed In State

AUSTIN —(AP)—Twenty-two new cases of polio were reported in Texas last week, the State Health Department reported Friday. The same number was reported the previous week.

Health officials noted there usually is a marked decrease in cases during December, January and February but more cases were reported in December than last June, 215 to 192.

Lawmaking In Absentia

The question of allowing Greece and Turkey to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization admittedly has not stirred American imaginations. We favored the idea from the start, and have taken it pretty much for granted.

But the issue was a touchy one for the British, who held out many months before finally endorsing the plan.

They preferred Greece and Turkey to be part of a Middle East Command, closely allied to NATO but still distinct. The Scandinavians, who feared being dragged into a war on account of action far from home, were even tougher holdouts than the British. But they too finally agreed.

This year the Senate Foreign Relations Committee speedily and unanimously approved the Greece-Turkey entry, foreshadowing favorable action by the Senate itself. In the light of this, no one expected the Senate vote to be anything but routine.

Yet, as it turned out, it was just a little too routine. The move was taken by unanimous voice vote, which was fine. But only six senators were on the floor at the time.

And that is a pretty shameful representation under any circumstances, routine or otherwise.

Granted it was a formality, it is possible to suspect that our stout Greek and Turkish friends would like to feel that more than a corporal's guard of senators are interested in formalities affecting their security and welfare.

However cheering the actual result, it stands as something of an affront that so many senators considered it more essential to be elsewhere.

And, incidentally, just where were the other 90? Some are always out of town, of course, especially in election years. But the rest might find it embarrassing to account for their time.

Since most committees do not meet during Senate sessions, it must be assumed that the majority of absentees were busy in their offices meeting constituents, handling their correspondence and otherwise attending to their less important duties.

We say "less important" advisedly. Whatever may be the senators' view of the relative priority of their various chores, the fact is they were sent to Washington primarily to make laws.

It might be a healthy thing if more of them chose to remember that.

One may sympathize fully with the overburdened senator of 1952, besieged by seekers after favors and information in all his waking hours. But we still have a right to expect that he recognize his elemental duty as a member of a lawmaking body.

He did not come to Washington to write letters, and he should have the courage to tell that to any constituent who thinks otherwise.

It is perfectly understandable why senators and representatives do not want their sessions televised. They are afraid to let the public observe the empty chambers which symbolize today's lawmaking "in absentia."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Q—How long has the penny postcard been in existence in the U.S.?
A—The one-cent card was in circulation from 1873 to Jan. 1, 1952, except for a 20-month period in World War I when Congress raised the rate to two cents. It now is two cents again.

Q—Have many new words come into the English language as a result of World War II?
A—Some 30,000 new words resulted from the war. It will depend upon the extent to which they are used whether or not they will remain in the language permanently.

Q—Across which river in George Washington said to have thrown a silver dollar?
A—Washington's feat took place on the narrow Rappahannock River not the wide Potomac at Mt. Vernon, as many Americans believe.

The fact that a dollar could be thrown across the river was established on Washington's birthday in 1796, by Walter Johnson, the famous baseball pitcher.

Q—In what theater were most of Shakespeare's plays first performed?
A—The Globe Theater in London.

Q—Are lotteries in this country prohibited by Federal as well as state laws?
A—Lotteries are prohibited by Federal law. Many states also have rigid laws in regard to lotteries.

It's That Last Straw That Bothers Mr. Hoover

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Kefauver faces New Hampshire showdown on ambassador to Vatican; Pat Hurley still talks about oil and the Near East; Tips for King Committee on California tax finagling.

WASHINGTON — President Truman's entry in the New Hampshire primaries probably will force a showdown with Senate Kefauver on one red-hot issue which his friends would like to have him duck—an ambassador to the Vatican.

The political situation in New Hampshire, boiled down to simple terms, is that the Catholic population largely is Democrat while Protestants largely are Republican. The top Democratic leaders of the state also are Catholic.

Therefore, to make any headway with the voters of his own party, Kefauver advisers think he will have to take a firm stand in favor of sending an ambassador to the Vatican. Otherwise, they advise, Harry Truman, who already has expressed himself, will walk away with the Catholic vote.

Meanwhile, sentiment in Kefauver's home state and most of the South—from which he also must win delegates—is strongly against sending an ambassador to the Vatican.

A desire to smother the Tennessee senator out on this dynamite-laden issue was reported to be one reason why the President reversed himself to remain in the New Hampshire primary.

Perennial Pat. Hurley, who has run for the Senate in New Mexico almost every year since he came to remember, now is campaigning vigorously and still is talking about his pet theme—oil and the Near East. Pat visited the Near East when he was special envoy for Roosevelt, issued a report on the oil situation, and likes to tell his audiences all about it.

Apocryphal, Pat. Gladys Dempsey, wife of the former governor of New Mexico, tells about one of her servants who attended a Hurley political rally.

"She was a Republican," explained

Mr. Dempsey, who is a staunch Democrat. "I knew she was a Republican," she added quickly, "but it's so hard to get servants these days."

"One evening," she continued, "the maid went to one of General Hurley's political rallies, and the next morning I asked her how she liked it. She replied 'All right,' and didn't seem inclined to talk about it."

"I didn't press the conversation, but finally she asked: 'Mrs. Dempsey, where's Iraq and Iran? Are they in the eastern part of the state?'"

Tax Finagling
Here are some tips to the King Committee now probing tax finagling in California.

In Los Angeles County — See who it was who protected Deputy Sheriff Guasti when he was under tax investigation regarding protection money received from a house of prostitution opposite the Los Angeles County honor farm. T-Men obtained evidence that two checks for $600 and $400 had been passed on to the deputy sheriff, but just as the case got hot, a top official in the revenue agent's office reached down and called off the probe.

Deputy Sheriff Guasti later was jailed by Los Angeles officials on another charge. But the interesting question is: Who called off the federal government which is supposed to set a standard of clean government to municipalities.

In San Mateo—Take a look at the tax cases prepared by the Treasury against gambler Emilio Georgetti, otherwise called Gombo; also Al Gionotti, the big slot-machine operator. After Treasury Agent William Berket discovered $400,000 of Georgetti's hidden income, someone in Washington suddenly called off the dogs.

In the case of Gionotti, T-men painstakingly interview drugstores and others renting slot machines, found Gionotti had concealed between $50,000 and $100,000 of income. It looked like a sure-fire tax fraud, until Washington intervened. Then it was dropped. Who was responsible?

In Los Angeles—Check on Earl Muntz, former used-car dealer advertising himself as "Mad Man Muntz," who was under tax investigation in what was considered a fraud case. However, a cash settlement was offered by Muntz and recommended by the Revenue agent on behalf of the Treasury. Later, the Revenue agent accepted a job with the taxpayer he had been investigating.

Capital News Capsules
Weekly Newspaper Jolt — One of the oldest systems of printing weekly newspapers is being discontinued by the Western Newspaper Union partly as a result of high costs, partly because of a Justice Department anti-trust suit. It's the "ready print" service which prints four to eight inside pages for weekly papers, thus saving heavy printing costs.

The service, established in 1885, went to 1,500 weeklies but folded last week.

Echoes of Prohibition — Herbert Hoover's 12-mile limit off the coast of the United States established in the rum-running days of prohibition has boomeranged back at us in Korea. U.N. negotiators wanted to fix a three-mile limit off the Korean coast where our warships could cruise, but the Chinese came back with the 12-mile limit which we established in prohibitions days, as the international boundary off every coast.

Reluctant Belgium—Averell Harriman is urging President Truman to blast the Belgian government for its refusal to carry its share of the all-European army. Harriman has told the White House that Belgian opposition is disgraceful and that something should be done about it in a hurry.

Manpower Padding — Former G-Man Mel Purvis, who helped capture bad man John Dillinger, has been investigating government hiring. He soon will report to the Senate Civil Service Committee that Civil Service hiring has been abandoned during the defense emergency, and that getting a government job now depends on whom you know.

Top government officials are padding the public payroll with their friends and relatives.

RECORD REEVES VOTE FORECAST

PECOS — An all-time record number of votes will be cast in Reeves County this year, judging from the number paying poll taxes.

Mrs. Pearl C. Barker, tax assessor-collector, reported that 3,729 persons paid poll taxes. Only about 2,500 poll taxes were paid in the last election year.

Monahans Firemen Open Ticket Sales For Annual Event

MONAHANS—Ticket sales move along briskly for the annual Firemen's Ball to be held Saturday night, February 23, at the Legion Hut.

Tickets may be secured from any fireman. Table reservations may be made by contacting Vernon Wade at the city police station.

The Bul Ross dance band will provide music. Funds from the ball will be used by the department for entertainment, personal equipment and other benefits for department members.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Every sport has its enthusiasts who devote hour upon hour to the volunteer work that makes it possible for others to enjoy themselves. Dr. William Lipton performs this function for bridge players in the New York area.

Willy Lipton is also a first-class player, so very often he winds up winning the very tournament he has worked so hard to promote. In today's hand we see his Machiavellian touch bringing home a game that should have been defeated.

West opened the four of spades, and East held the trick with his jack. Dr. Lipton took the spade return with the ace and crossed to dummy with the queen of clubs in order to lead the four of hearts from the dummy.

The idea was artful but very simple. Lipton needed a heart trick to make sure of his contract. He wanted to make West win the first heart trick, if possible, for reasons that will soon be clear.

He knew that if he led hearts for the first time from his own hand, West would play low in order to let East win the first trick in that suit. East would be able to return his last spade, clearing the suit. West would still have the ace of hearts as the entry to his established spades.

When Dr. Lipton led the four of hearts from the dummy East made the normal (but wrong) play of the six of hearts. (He should have put up the king.) When declarer played the queen of hearts, West could do nothing to defeat the contract.

If West refused the trick, South would have the one heart trick that he needed. If West took the heart with his ace, he had no further entry to the spades. Dr. Lipton would be able to set up his heart trick without worrying about the menacing spade suit.

Q—The bidding has been:

1 Spade South: 2 Hearts
A-K-J-9-4, Diamonds K-Q-8-5-3, Clubs K-7. What do you do?

A—Bid two diamonds. The hand is, of course, strong enough to warrant reopening the bidding. It is better to offer a choice of suits when you have two strong five-card suits than merely to re-bid the first suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 2, Hearts A-K-Q-J-4-2, Diamonds K-J-5-3, Clubs K-7. What do you do?

Dr. Logan's Wife

By Diana Gaines

PETER lunged toward the desk, and in the instant that Cota sprang back against the wall, Peter felt his outstretched arm hugging firmly against Pelletier's chest. Braked less by Pelletier's restraining weight than by the sheer comfort of contact, Peter relaxed slightly. "You are a faker, Cota," he said, letting his arm drop. "You haven't got a thing on me and you know it. Exactly what should I come clean about? Come on, say it, Dr. Pelletier's a big man, he can take it. And frankly, I'm curious, too."

Cota shrugged. "Surely you don't need me to tell you about yourself," he said with a confidence that shook both men. "Matter of fact, I don't think the FBI needed my assistance either. They have access to the Washington files..."

Cota sat down at his desk, moved a few papers, looked up. He addressed Dr. Pelletier. "I see no reason for detaining you further, Doctor. I have nothing more to say, and I have a great deal of work to do. The hospital doesn't run itself, you know. The problem of Dr. Sirofinov's loyalty is in much more competent hands than my own. I am not responsible for his past nor am I interested in his future. Good day, please, gentlemen."

Peter's lips clamped like a sprung trap. He felt Walter's glance and met it, expecting to find there commiseration at the rudeness of the dismissal. Instead, he saw worried questioning. He turned and walked out of the office.

He heard, Walter's hurrying steps behind him, in the hall that the dismissal was final.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Clearing Up Point Or Two About Taft-Lewis Word Battle

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, has asked for a private huddle with United Mine Workers' President John L. Lewis.

This is one result of their little spat over Taft-Hartley law interpretation before, Senator Matthew Neely's Labor subcommittee on mine safety.

There were no microphones around to record what Taft said to Lewis when the rather heated session was over. But Lewis later gave his press assistant, Justin McCarthy, a fill-in on this final scene of what now may become known as the Taft-Lewis act.

Taft walked over to where Lewis was sitting and extended his hand. Lewis rose and took it and they shook.

Taft assured Lewis there was nothing personal in what he had said to the mine leader.

Lewis in reply said he admired Taft personally but that he had no understanding of the labor question and the problems of the American working people.

Then Taft said he'd like to talk it over with Lewis, repeating the request he had made previously for a conference. That ended the exchange. It was all over in 30 seconds.

Senator Taft is having a hard time convincing union labor leaders that he is the working man's friend, not his enemy. This has been true ever since passage of the Taft-Hartley law.

It is inconceivable that John L. Lewis ever will come out with an endorsement of Senator Taft for the presidency, no matter what is said when the two men hold their private meeting.

If President Truman is the Democratic nominee, Lewis is expected to put his usual plague on both their houses and stay out of the campaign as he did in 1948.

Strangely Gentle Lewis
Lewis really didn't let himself go in his exchange with Taft before the Neely subcommittee. Senator Taft has indicated he will support what Lewis wants in this instance. "I am quite willing to go along with the law to improve these conditions," Senator Taft testified. "I know it is difficult to get these safety things put in. I am for putting them in."

With Taft thus openly supporting federal mine safety enforcement that Lewis wanted, the miners' leader didn't want to cross words and activities, with the senator too vigorously.

There was one part of the interchange, however, which wasn't fully reported and its fragments were widely misunderstood.

This came after Lewis had complained that in one case where a mine had been closed down when safety recommendations had not been carried out, the operating coal company had sued the United Mine Workers' Union for $750,000 damages under the Taft-Hartley act.

Complete Quotation
"Mr. Lewis," commented Senator Taft, "I went to Harvard Law School."

"One of the remarks I remember Mr. Warren making—and he was professor of law—was that you could sue the Bishop of Boston for bastardy, but you could not recover."

All he meant by it, as he said later on, was, "The mere fact that a man brings a suit does not mean anything for my money."

(The expression Taft referred to is in rather common use among law students, as a quick and pat answer to the question: "Can such-and-such a lawsuit be initiated?")

Wire news services reported this quote accurately. Some papers edited it out as being unfit to print. Radio newscasters muddled up the record by saying that the language was unsuitable for broadcasting, which merely made everyone curious on what happened.

Some of the scandal sheets and rumor mongers opposed to Senator Taft now are picking up the quote as being original with Senator Taft, and not attributing it to his old law professor.

This is the way campaign whispering stories get started by misrepresentation.

So They Say

Even being opera singers is no excuse for your acting... You look like bowls of cold, rancid oatmeal.—Alfred Lunt, actor turned opera director.

We have among us an increasing number of "revisionists" and they are designing for us an education of juvenility—an education of youth by novelty for immaturity.—George L. Roberts, Canadian educator.

We shall provide against and thus prevail over the dangers and problems of the future, withhold no sacrifice, grudge no toil, seek no sordid gain, fear no foe.—Winston Churchill.

I know he (General Eisenhower) is not running in the New Hampshire primary just for the exercise.—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.

There have been cases of intolerance (in the U.S.) when the views of minorities have been suppressed. But there probably has not been a period of greater intolerance than we witness today.—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

In some of the wooded areas of New England, the wood stove continues to be used for household heating.

LITTLE LIZ

There are three classes of traders in Wall Street—bulls, bears and just plain donkeys.

tracking—well, one night Stella tells me she remembers she sent a check in 1946 to some organization—Friends of the U.S.S.R. or some such name. She thought it was for Russian children's relief, but we looked it up on the attorney general's list, and there it is—a subversive list, a front. Can you imagine that? I tossed plenty, don't think I didn't. But if it did track it down my report must have outweighed it."

"It's a joke," Peter said, snorting. "The country is screaming for scientists but it won't let them in the laboratories to work. We're the most valued and most distrusted men in the country today. How can the government expect young men of intelligence and integrity to come into a profession where they're treated like criminals. You're not even granted a criminal's right of self-defense."

THE door opened a few inches and the secretary talked through the aperture. "Dr. Pelletier, the patients are standing all the way into the hall. Will you be free to see them soon?"

"Right away, my dear. Right away. I'll buzz you."

Peter got up. "I'm sorry, Walter."

"If he's trying to frame you, I'll tell you right now he won't get away with it."

Peter made no answer. Walter stood up, put out his hand. "Keep me posted, Peter."

"Yup."

And then, loath to let Peter go, Pelletier followed him through the back door, flung his arm across his slouched shoulders. "Peter, you're young and you're angry. I'm too old to be an angry man. But I see you to be at tight for a while. As long as your conscience is clear, I'm not worried. Sit tight. The stakes are worth it. You may have the recipe for the antidote to atomic bombing—remember that. You may be the one to find the security the world is looking for. Let's hope the government won't bar you from that chance. It's a paradoxical situation, but there it is."

"Sure, I'll sit it out," Peter said. (To Be Continued)

27 Speech Students Go To Lubbock For High School Tourney

A group of 27 speech students from Midland High School attended the high school speech meet in Lubbock Saturday. They left for Lubbock at 4:30 a.m. in a school bus, and returned to Midland about 8 p.m.

This meet was not a contest, but rather it was held to help the participants improve their skills. Little attention was given to selecting the "best" or "winners."

Critics gave an oral evaluation at the end of each event and filed a written evaluation and decision in the office which was available to the coaches at the end of the final round.

Midland entered three events: extemporaneous speaking, debate, and declamation. Students attending were Theresa McMath, Sandra McMath, Wynn Warren, Carol Wilkerson, Jo Ann Bassham, Ann Skelton, Marilyn Dunagan, Sue Skaggs, Helen Heidelberg, Jo Ella Gills, Thelma Deel, Mary Ann Seales, Shirley Brown, Evelyn Hejl, Patsy Yeager, Harry Harrison, Loren Roberts, Tom Vannaman, Robert Stubbman, John Murphy and Royce Measures.

Jim Atwell Subject Of Bulldog Feature

This week The Bulldog decided to make Jim Atwell the featured boy of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Atwell became the proud parents of Jimmy on May 4, 1936, in Bakersfield, Calif. At the ripe old age of two, Jim moved to Pasadena. In the Rose Bowl city he spent 12 happy years. From Pasadena, Jim moved to Denver. During the 10 months Jim lived in Denver he realized that the whole world wasn't covered with fog. From Denver, Jim moved to Midland and became a freshman at dear old Midland High School. This year Jim is a sophomore and is able to look down his nose at all the freshmen.

Jim had his closest call when he and several of his neighborhood friends in Pasadena, decided to make a train engine. They found an old water heater, filled it with water, plugged all the holes and lit a fire under it. Presently their boiler blew up and demolished their club house but Jim and his friends escaped without injury.

Jim has several aliases, such as Lil' Jim, Lil' Doug, Lil' Asa, and Lil' Atwell. From these nicknames you probably get the idea that Jim isn't very big. Jim isn't very tall but he makes up for it in weight.

Jim had two big brothers, "Doug," whom most of the M.H.S. students remember, and Bob.

Jim favors chicken when he is eating. Miss Jackson when he is in school. Alan Ladd when he is in the movies and "The Little White Cloud That Cries" he lists this as his favorite song.

How Valentine's Day Got Its Beginning

There are several old rhymes which are familiar to everyone on St. Valentine's Day. As children we all can remember the Valentine boxes at school into which we would place our penny greetings and exchange with our classmates. But as we grow older St. Valentine's Day is celebrated with the giving of decorated boxes of candy, parties and dances.

Bulldog Barks

The Bulldogs played "red-hot" basketball as they outclassed the Vernon Lions, 43-27, in the Midland High gym. But a dim light was put on the Bulldogs' district hopes when they fell before an inspired team, Big Spring, 30-34.

In case you've wondered why the heading, "Through the Uprights" has been appearing during basketball season, here is our answer. The heading was supposed to be changed after football season, but the engraving has been lost. We hope to have this remedied before basketball season ends.

Nancy Roberts Is Named Basketball Sweetheart

Nancy Roberts, a popular Midland High School senior, has been elected basketball sweetheart of 1952. Nancy claimed the title of football sweetheart last year, and has been an active member of the tennis team during all four years she has attended Midland High School. Last year, she received the M Club award for the outstanding girl tennis player.

Nancy was born 18 years ago in Midland. Among her favorites, Nancy prefers the color blue; enjoys playing tennis, and list steak as her favorite food. Her favorite pastime is riding horseback, and "short boys" are named as a pet peeve.

Her schedule includes bookkeeping, typing, English, algebra and tennis. She is a member of the Spanish Club.

Who started all this Valentine's sending which has been going on through hundreds of years, and who was St. Valentine, anyway? Celebrated For Gods

Many hundreds of years ago in the day of Roman festivals to pagan gods, there was a feast called the Lupercalia, celebrated in honor of the gods of Juno and Pan. It was the custom at this feast for the young Romans to put into an urn the names of young maidens and then draw the names out by chance. The girl whose name was chosen became the young man's partner for the Lupercalia Festival. With the introduction of Christianity, all these pagan rites, because they were done in honor of heathen gods, were eradicated in every way possible. But the people had become so accustomed to the rituals of their various holidays and festivals that it was impossible to banish them entirely. Therefore, in 496 A. D., Pope Gelasius of Rome chose to honor as a substitute the observance of the day Bishop St. Valentine who had been beaten and beheaded 200 years before on February 14. Thus St. Valentine's Day then took on the old, old customs of the Lupercalia, which had been celebrated on February 15, in ancient Rome, and many of these customs it still retains.

St. Valentine's Day reached its height of popularity in America about the time of the war between the States. But it has been observed since 1496. In literature the holiday is mentioned by Chaucer and Shakespeare.

Art Winners To Be Told February 15

Students in the Midland High School art department are looking forward to February 15, for that is the day when the winners in the state interscholastic art contest will be announced.

Texas is divided into three art areas—coastal, central and northwest (in which Midland competes). The exhibit, held at W. G. Stripling's Department Store in Fort Worth, will be open from February 23 until March 1. Last year fifty-one schools entered in the northwest area.

Inez Parker, director of the Midland High School Art Department, is a member of the arrangements committee this year. A piece of work that wins a first division in the state contest goes to the national art contest held later in the Spring at the Carnegie Institute in Philadelphia.

Has Seven Places

The Midland High art department is rather young, but it has held seven places in the state contests, and James Johnson won one National Interscholastic Awards key.

The Midland students sent in the following: oil paintings—Katherine Carter, Shirley Brown, James Johnson and Harold Vanderpool; water color—Katherine Carter, John Vanderpool, Elaine Conger, Janice Michener, M. A. Rose, and James Johnson; casein—James Johnson; pen and ink—Don Marlow and James Johnson; crayon—etchings—Katherine Carter and James Johnson; costume design—Jane Beakey and Mary Echols; crafts—Janice Michener—entered a silk-screen printed skirt, Jerry Wallace entered two leather belts, and Mary Herndon entered a leather notebook; photographic division—Ronald Pope.

The contest work will be on exhibit in the art room after they are returned from the contest.

tom of giving May baskets and gifts to friends, originated. Along with these customs developed many old beliefs for single women such as: "If a maid would run around the church 12 times at midnight repeating, 'I saw a hemlock, hemlock I see; He that loves me best come after me now; she would be sure to see her future husband.'

Today St. Valentine's Day is celebrated in many ways throughout the world. It is customary to eat buns containing caraway seeds, currents or plums in certain parts of England while singing for pennies and fruit on St. Valentine's in other sections of England. Young people in Denmark exchange personalized greetings on pressed flowers called "jacketbrev." In Sicily a large happy festival is held in honor of St. Valentine on February 14.

This year, although you may consider yourself too old to celebrate this centuries old custom, do observe St. Valentine's Day, even if in a small way for we never grow too old to afford others and yourself small pleasures.

24 Members Added To Honor Society

Twenty-four new members have been accepted into the Midland High School Chapter of the National Honor Society.

These members are chosen on a basis of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. Those chosen from the senior class are the last which will be accepted from that class, completing the quota of 15 per cent, which is 26 students from that class.

Of the 23 eligible students from the junior class, five per cent, or 13 students were chosen. The other 10 per cent will be chosen in the Fall and Spring of next year.

To be eligible, a student must first have an average of 2.5, based on a point basis of three points for a A, two points for a B, one point for a C, zero points for a D, and minus three points for an F. The eligible students are then voted upon by the teachers for leadership, service and character.

The recently chosen seniors are Mark McKinsey, Betty Campbell, Nancy Cooper, Marion Seiver Diana, Daugherty, Jimmy Hardin, Camilla Birkhead, Nancy Roberts, Betty Pitzer, Maryetta Garner and Madelon Schabarum.

Interior Of Shop Gets New Paint

If you have been in the shop lately, no doubt you have noticed a change on the inside. Mr. Stroh, the shop instructor, and the shop students have been busy painting the inside of the shop. In addition to painting the shop, many of the students are making bookcases, end tables, desks, and other articles.

The shop has a variety of electric powered tools that are essential for making about anything imaginable and also has a fine assortment of hand tools.

The boys have been studying the proper use and care of the tools in the shop and more tools are expected to arrive soon.

Follow The Rules

(An Editorial)

As much as one might prefer otherwise, there are very few means of enjoyment obtainable without their specific set of rules which must be followed.

Our candy machines were good examples. They were put in the hall for the enjoyment of the student body, provided the student body, in return, observed the comparatively few rules attached to the use of the machines. But the candy machines had to be removed because the students could not perform the seemingly simple task of throwing the candy wrappers in the waste can right next to the machines. Instead, the wrappers were thrown on the floors, in the halls and around the school grounds.

Prepare yourself for a happier, more enjoyable future tomorrow by learning to abide by the rules today.

MHS Girls Shine At Lamesa Tourney

Congratulations go to the girls and Mrs. Blair for the fine work they did at the Lamesa volleyball tournament.

The starting line up for the first game between Lamesa and Midland was as follows: Gibbs, Acker, Norwood, Crawford, Henson and Bradley; the substitutes were Pullian, Skelton, Smith, Creswell and Weddle. The girls were defeated by a score of 32-26. They played a fine game.

The girls played a much better game on Saturday with Sweetwater. They won with a score of 36-20. The starting line up on this game was Gibbs, Norwood, Acker, Henson, Crawford and Bradley.

The next game the girls played was with Odessa. This was one of the most exciting games of the day. All the girls played their best, and won by a score of 31-13.

Consolation Clash

The game between Midland and Andrews was for the consolation. I don't think there will be a more exciting game than this one was. From the first the game was tied until about the last two minutes. Then we had a seven point lead, but with the last 13 seconds of play left they came within two points of the girls. All the girls were very glad when the time ran out. Midland won by a score of 22-20.

Highlight Of Afternoon

The highlight of the afternoon was the awarding of the trophies. Big Spring won first place, Lamesa second, and Midland third. The referee also awarded volleyballs to the best spikers and the best set-up players. Players from Lamesa, Big Spring, and Forsan, were the best spikers of the tournament. Lamesa, Big Spring, and Seminole were awarded for the best set-up players among the volleyballs.

Here are some of the scores from the tournament:

Big Spring 36, Lamesa 19.
Big Spring 34, Andrews 14.
Lamesa 35, Seminole 18.
Seminole 25, Odessa 24.

The school should be real proud of the trophy that the girls brought home from the contest.

The B squad played a wonderful game Tuesday night. The girls played their best and won their game by a score of 29 to 28. It was a close game all the way through.

The starting line up for the A squad was as follows: Gibbs, Henson, Bradley, Norwood, Crawford, and Pullian and Acker. When the game got to a point Mrs. Blair sent in all her substitutes. Midland lost by a score of 39-13.

Clubcity

The Altrusa club and the National Honor Society met together last week. Fred Middleton who is stationed aboard the U. S. S. Bon Homme Richard told about navy life, and Mrs. Barbara Hardy showed slides about her life in Japan. Middleton and Mrs. Hardy are both graduates of Midland High School.

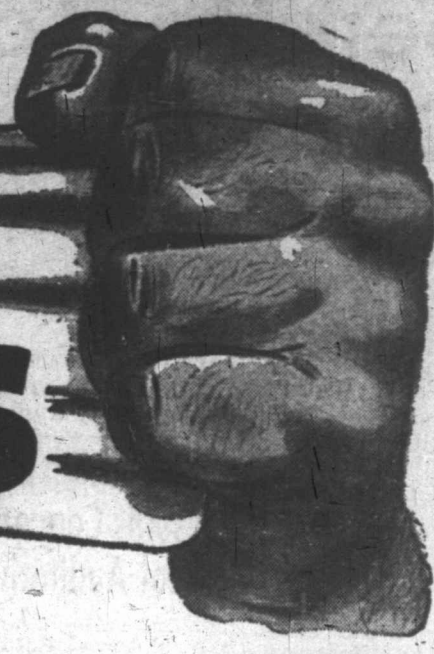

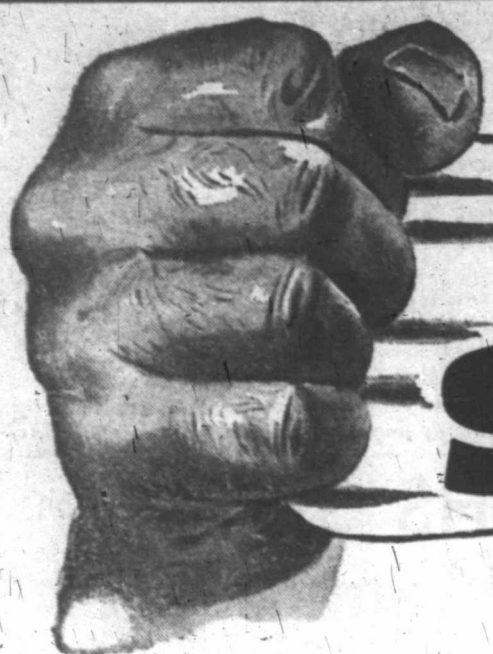

The Junior Classical League was called to order by its president, Madelon Schabarum. The roll was called and the minutes of the last two meetings were read. The meeting was then turned over to Joan Fitzgerald and Bill Robitsek who told of some valentine customs and a valentine story. The program was prepared by Madelon Schabarum.
