Ford, Kissinger Divided

RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON AP — Unwittingly, perhaps, but as effectively as Russia's Ural mountains separate Solikamsk and Serov, exiled Soviet author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn has divided President Ford and his secretary of state over whether Ford and the writer should meet.

President Ford says he wants to meet with Solzhenitsyn while the Nobel laureate is in Washington. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says the President should not.

The dispute began last month, when Solzhenitsyn arrived in Washington. On June 30, he spoke for an hour and a half to the AFL-CIO. Emotionally, in Russian translated into English, Solzhenitsyn cautioned Americans not to be misled by detente.

There has been no change in the "inhumane ideology" of Russian leaders since the era of Stalin, Solzhenitsyn said. In negotiating detente, the policy of Western powers has become a process of "short-sighted concession," he warned.

Solzhenitsyn said the West has given in little by little to the Soviets, hoping each time that the "wolf will have eaten enough."

Detente is a key point in Henry Kissinger's foreign policy.

By detente, Kissinger means a lessening of tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union. Most recently, he defined detente as "a means to regulate a competitive relationship—but not a substitute for our own efforts in building the strength of the free world."

Some members of the President's Cabinet attended Solzhenitsyn's speech. Kissinger, however, did not.

When reporters asked why President Ford avoided meeting Solzhenitsyn, White House sources told them Kissinger had advised the President not to because it might be interpreted as a slap at the Soviet Union. After all, the Soviets had expelled Solzhenitsyn when he published "The Gulag Archipelago," a study of Soviet prisons.

And a slap at the Soviet Union might endanger detente.

Last week, while Kissinger was in Europe, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters that the President had changed his mind and would be willing to see Solzhenitsyn.

On Tuesday, back in the United States, Kissinger replied. Without mentioning Solzhenitsyn by name, the secretary of state said, "Courageous voices remind us of the nature of the Soviet system and of our duty to defend freedom. About this there is no disagreement."

But he challenged the critics of detente.

"What is the alternative that they propose...?" he demanded. "Are they prepared for a prolonged situation of dramatically increased international danger."

On Wednesday, Ford, as if he were in Solikamsk, let it be known through a deputy press secretary that he would still be pleased to see Solzhenitsyn and would like to work him into his schedule.

Kissinger, as if he were in Serov, said he still didn't think the President should do it.

But, he added matter-of-factly, as if the Urals were too high to climb, "The schedule of the President is not made in the State Department."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 18, the 199th day of 1975, there are 166 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in the year 64 A.D., the Great Fire of Rome began. The legend is that Emperor Nero set the fire and fiddled as the city burned.

On this date:

In 1776, New Jersey declared itself independent of British authority.

In 1792, the American naval hero, John Paul Jones, died in poverty in Paris.

In 1914, the U.S. Army created an aviation section within the Signal Corps, and six planes were made available for air training.

In 1932, the United States and Canada signed a treaty to develop the St. Lawrence Seaway.

In 1940, a Democratic National Convention in Chicago nominated President Franklin Roosevelt for a third term.

In 1969, a car driven by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., plunged off a bridge into a tidal pool on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass. The body of Mary Jo Kopechne was found in the car.

Ten years ago: Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara was an observer aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Independence as a powerful bombing attack was launched against North Vietnam.

Five years ago: Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Anne ended a Washington visit with a quiet dinner at the White House.

One year ago: The ousted president of Cyprus, Arachbishop Makarios, arrived in New York from London to seek support at the United Nations.

ANIMALS SEEM TOUGHER

Four New Leaders Emerge Second Night Of Rodeo

If anything, the animals seemed to be getter tougher as the second performance of the Fortieth Annual Scurry County Rodeo was held last night with four new leaders emerging in the competition for the $300 added to total purse in the saddle bronc riding and $200 added to total purse in othe other events.

The rodeo, sponsored by the Scurry County Rodeo Association, is being held in the Scurry County Coliseum and will continue at 8 nightly through Saturday night.

Judd Sims of Lubbock took over the lead in the saddle bronc riding, scoring a 73 aboard Dobie.

Johnny Barrett of Huntsville became the leader in the bareback bronc riding, scoring a 71 aboard Little Eagle.

Snyder's Billie Voss took the lead in barrel racing with a 14.54.

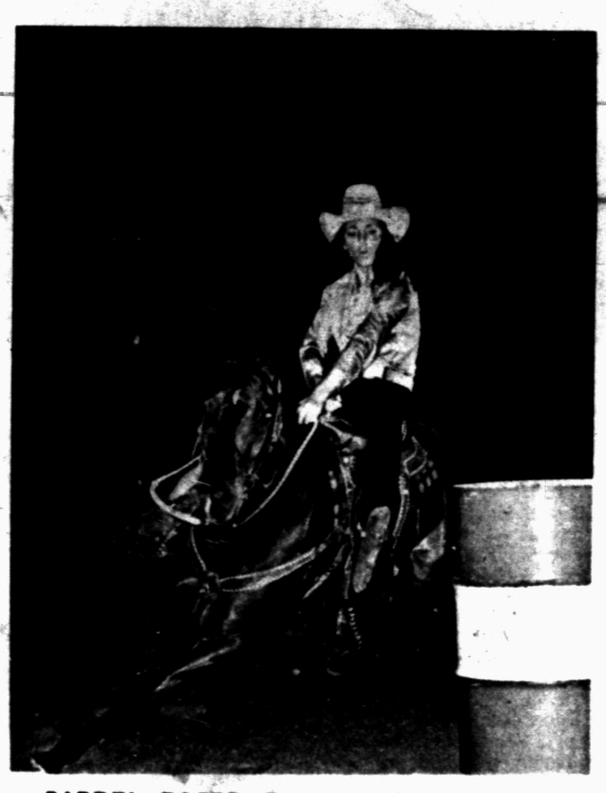

Jimmy Powers and Glen Caroll of Sonora are the new leaders in steer roping. They were timed in a fast 12.3 seconds.

Royce Reef of Coahoma made a great ride on Round-Up Red in the bull riding, but it was ruled he touched the bull with his free hand; consequently he didn't score.

Buddy Mays of San Saba scored a 70 aboard Mr. Clean, Jr. in bull riding, while Sean Smith of Sweetwater turned in a 61 on Tingler and Greg Smalley of Pearland scored a 48 aboard Al Capone.

The cowboys had a hard time with the bulls Thursday night. Several cowboys received minor injuries, including the two clowns—Don Zachery of Houston and Bill Giersch of Missouri City. The clowns are doing a wonderful job of keeping the cowboys out of trouble and won the applause of the fans for their courageous actions.

The only other contestants who scored in the saddle bronc riding were Gary Jones of Snyder, who tallied a 50 on Tiny Tim, and Jim Price of Big Spring, who scored a 45 aboard High Chaparral.

BARREL RACER—Tanya Boydston of Snyder turned in a good time of 15.38 seconds in the barrel race event in the opening night's performance of the Fortieth Annual Scurry County Rodeo which will continue nightly at 8 through Saturday night. Here, she rounds a barrel with ease. (Photo by Paul Gilbert).

Barrett was the only contestant to score in the bareback riding last night.

Snyder's Charles Shipp and Rufus Hart turned in a sparkling 8 flat in the steer roping, but a 5-second penalty gave them a 13. Terry Mauldin and Merle Kelton of Roby turned in a 10.7 plus 5 seconds, and E.P. Driver and Kenny Thompson of Big Spring recorded a 15.7 plus 5 seconds in heading and heeling.

Rick Henley of Lubbock and Guy Miller of Lamesa made some good times in tiedown calf roping, scoring 11.2 and 11.5 seconds, respectively.

Other times registered by the cowgirls in barrel racing include a 14.73 by Lynn Schmidt of Lamesa, a 14.99 by Carla McAshan of Cristoval, a 15.19 by Jackque Barton of Cristoval, a 15.41 by Jeane Hudson of Colorado City, a 16 flat by Patricia Cherry of Big Spring, a 16.02 by Allison Powers of Ozona, a 17.52 by Karen Young of Post, an 18.19 by Sharyl Terry of Roby, and a 15.39 plus 10 seconds by Dawn Burt of Big Spring.

Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys made another appearance at the rodeo last night, providing Western music for the entertainment of the fans. They also performed at the dance following the rodeo and will do so again Friday and Saturday nights.

Rodeo officials again expected another outstanding show at the third nightly performance at 8 tonight.

Rodeo Contestant Sustains Fractures

Johnny Henry of San Angelo, a contestant in the second night's performance of the Fortieth Annual Scurry County Rodeo, sustained a fractured hip and foot while competing in the bull riding event last night.

Train Derails Killing Twelve

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — "When the train fell over the wall, all I could hear were screams coming from all sides," said a samba dancer after a commuter train derailed and smashed into a suburban dance school.

Officials say 12 persons were killed and more than 100 were injured Thursday when the six-car train carrying 1,200 persons, mostly commuters heading home from work in the early evening, left the track and hit the school. None of the victims were children, authorities said.

Several persons were reported buried in the rubble. The school, the Imperio Serrano, is one of Rio's most famous.

Earlier reports said at least 12 bodies were recovered, but the railway department said 12 bodies were recovered, and the morgue confirmed the figure.

"We were here chatting when we heard the noise," said Silas do Imperio, a dance school official. "All I was able to see was the wall collapsing like a bar of chocolate. It was horrible."

Firemen, state troopers, army troops, doctors, nurses and volunteers worked in the wreckage to rescue trapped passengers.

"Please get me out! I want to get out!" a woman pleaded to firemen struggling to free her.

A state trooper ordered several buses emptied for use as ambulances. Private cars rushed other wounded passengers to

Five Spacemen Shuttle Between Orbital Homes

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — In a spirit of good-humored camaraderie, Apollo astronauts and Soyuz cosmonauts executed their own brand of shuttle diplomacy today in a series of visits between their linked orbital homes.

There was much back-slapping and hand-shaking as spacemen moved through a tunnel connecting the two ships.

Hosts took visitors on television tours of the respective craft, family pictures were proudly displayed and meals shared.

Cosmonaut Valeri Kubasov pointed a television camera out the window over Russia as he gave visiting Vance D. Brand a high-altitude travelogue of his homeland, a vast stretch from the Black Sea to the Pacific.

As the spacemen continued their unprecedented space journey, Soyuz commander Alexei Leonov and Brand made early morning transfers to the other's craft.

It was the first of three transfers on this final day of linkup on the first international space mission.

The five spacemen also arranged a farewell ceremony and a televised news conference later today, to answer questions submitted by newsmen in Houston and Moscow.

Leonov was the first of the Russian crewmen to visit Apollo. Americans Thomas P. Stafford and Donald K. Slayton visited the Soyuz for nearly three hours Thursday after the docking of the two ships 140 miles high.

"I am very happy to be here, Leonov stated as he slipped through the Apollo hatch and was greeted by Stafford and Slayton.

Stafford showed off the American computer aboard Apollo and told Leonov, "It is a very smart computer."

The Soyuz does not have an onboard computer and instead relies on ground control for maneuvering calculations.

Leonov inspected the astronauts' dining area and remarked: "There's very little room here, but after all, nobody has to do any dishes."

Kubasov greeted Brand with a sign that read: "Welcome aboard Soyuz."

The cosmonaut showed his American visitor a picture of his wife and two children and Brand told him he had a "good looking family."

Kubasov then took Brand on the TV tour of Russia, pointing out a vast land of mountains, plains, lakes and deserts. The path was over the Black Sea, the Ural Mountains, the Volga River and the great eastern deserts.

"It would be wrong to ask which of our countries is more beautiful," Kubasov said.

The cosmonaut also showed Brand a desert area in south central Russia where the Soyuz is scheduled to land on Monday.

During the transfers, astronauts and cosmonauts are conducting joint medical and scientific experiments and sharing meals. Throughout the joint activities, the Americans speak Russian and the Russians speak English.

A television picture from Soyuz during the transfer showed the cosmonauts wrestling with space suit umbilical cables. Leonov remarked with a chuckle, "It looks like a bunch of snakes in here."

The cosmonauts also checked a suspected slight pressure leak in the docking tunnel and Leonov reported, "It is not a big problem. We feel confident we do not have to worry about this."

In the Apollo, the two commanders, Stafford and Leonov, signed a certificate certifying the international flight and also joined together two halves of a plaque that had been carried up in the separate spacecrafts.

Postal Talks Hit Key Point

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations between the Postal Service and four postal workers' unions reached a key point today, with the Postal Service reported readying revised proposals dealing with work rules and job security.

In a surprise development, federal mediators announced resumption of the railway labor talks which had broken down a day earlier.

One postal union official said as their talks resumed that the outcome would depend "on just how intransigent the Postal Service wants to get." The unions have threatened to go on strike when their contract expires at midnight Sunday. The contract covers 600,000 workers.

"They can force a strike if they want to, and they might do that if they think they have something to gain from it," said James Lapenta, chief negotiator for the mail handlers union. He said postal workers are unlikely to work without a contract.

Proposals dealing with pay and other economic issues have yet to be put on the bargaining table. The Postal Service said it wanted to resolve the non-money issues first.

W. J. Usery Jr., chief federal mediator, said Thursday that serious differences remain between the Postal Service and its four unions.

Usery had hoped to obtain an agreement before the weekend to forestall the possibility of wildcat strikes by postal workers, but it was believed that a settlement today was unlikely.

Usery concentrated on achieving a postal settlement after the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks agreed Thursday to the one-week postponement of a strike deadline, which had been 12:01 a.m. Monday.

The railway labor talks broke down after union and rail industry negotiators were unable to settle relatively narrow differences. Industry and union negotiators blamed each other for the impasse.

The union, which represents 117,000 railway workers, has tried for several months to negotiate a somewhat different settlement from that signed earlier by seven other rail unions. The main problems appeared to be jurisdictional questions and differences demanded by the union in the cost-of-living formula from that agreed to by the other unions.

House Panel Replaced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has replaced its deadlocked intelligence committee with a new panel and overwhelmingly rejected an effort to assure Rep. Michael Harrington a seat on it.

Supporters of the Massachusetts Democrat contended the committee replacement was partly a back-door effort to punish Harrington for admittedly disclosing secret CIA testimony on Chile last year.

Speaker Carl Albert appointed the new 13-member committee after its creation was approved by voice vote Thursday, and Harrington was not among his choices. A proposal to guarantee Harrington a seat had been rejected earlier, 274-199.

Albert named Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., chairman of the new committee in place of Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., who also failed to win appointment to the new panel.

Besides Pike, the other new members are Reps. Les Aspin, D-Wis.; Dale Milford, D-Tex.; Philip Hayes, D-Ind.; and James P. Johnson, R-Colo.

The holdover members from the original panel are Reps. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn.; Don Edwards, D-Calif.; James V. Stanton, D-Ohio; Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif.; Morgan F. Murphy, D-Ill.; Robert McClory, R-Ill.; Royal C. Dann, R-La.;

ON OIL PRICING PLAN

Ford, Congress Are Deadlocked

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With present oil price controls due to disappear Aug. 31, Congress and President Ford are deadlocked over how to shape a new petroleum pricing program.

"We should work for some sort of compromise that's in the best interests of this nation of ours, pulling together instead of pulling separate ways," said House Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va.

Staggers spoke Thursday after the House finished congressional action on a bill extending existing oil price controls while rolling back currently uncontrolled oil prices in a way expected to produce a Ford veto. Staggers expressed a "hope he wouldn't veto it."

The House's action came after a Senate committee took steps toward killing Ford's plan to hike the controlled price of domestic oil over the next 30 months. By a 9 to 5 party-line vote, the Interior Committee sent the full Senate a resolution rejecting Ford's proposal. A similar resolution is expected to reach the House soon.

The House is returning to work on a nation energy bill approved by the Commerce Committee as a companion for its recently passed energy [illegible]

The House passed 239 to 172 legislation continuing the government's authority to control the price of U.S.-produced oil until Dec. 31 instead of letting the law die Aug. 31. The vote was far short of the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

The bill also would roll back the currently uncontrolled price of so-called "new oil" from more than $12 a barrel to the Jan. 31 level of $11.28 a barrel.

Sixty per cent of U.S. oil, known as "old oil," sells at a controlled price of $5.25 a barrel. The remainder, defined as "new oil," is not subject to price controls and sells near world-market prices. Generally, oil from wells which went into production more than three years ago is subject to the $5.25 a barrel price ceiling.

Ford's plan, which a simple majority of either the Senate or House can kill by adopting a resolution disapproving it, would phase out the existing system of price controls on domestic oil production over 2½ years, thereby eliminating the current two-tier price program.

Brand's Family Missed Link-Up

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The wife and daughter of astronaut Vance D. Brand are not thought of in space-family circles as typical. Neither was their reaction to the critical linkup of a Soviet and a U.S. spaceship with Brand aboard.

Joan Brand and daughter Stephanie, 19, missed the televised broadcast of the linkup Thursday and then quipped, "We'll catch the reruns."

Mother and daughter had planned to watch the linkup together at the office where Mrs. Brand works as a design and construction supervisor for a suburban Houston homebuilder.

"I knew Mom would be late, but I didn't intend to miss it," laughed Stephanie, a junior at Louisiana State University.

She said she got involved in her job as a swimming pool supervisor, and her mother was busy making job-related stops en route to the office. Neither of them arrived at the office in time for the telecast.

Nonetheless, the flawless rendezvous, docking and transfer activities of the Apollo crew was a source of pride and excitement for Mrs. Brand and Stephanie as well as for the other astronauts' families.

"I think it's fantastic," chortled Stephanie.

Mrs. Brand, who said she doesn't worry about her husband while he's off in space because "he's not worrying about my construction job," was a little more reserved.

"I don't really keep up with the fine details of the mission. That doesn't mean I'm disinterested in the space program, it's just that I don't follow everything that happens," she said.

However, she admitted that her life as the wife of an astronaut has been a fascinating one.

"It really has been an interesting life and I wouldn't want to change it for the world. We've traveled and everything, and Vance loves his job. He's worked hard for this mission and he wouldn't want to be doing anything else."

At the home of Apollo commander Thomas Stafford, wife Faye Stafford watched the dramatic meeting of astronauts and cosmonauts and sighed, "I thought this day would never come."

With her 21-year-old daughter Dionne at her side, Mrs. Stafford watched her husband and Donald (Deke) Slayton crawl through the passage linking the two ships.

Suspect Held In Altercation

Randy Sterling, 19, of Ira, sustained a serious arm wound in an altercation on the parking lot at the Scurry County Coliseum about 1 o'clock this morning. He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle and later transferred by Galyean Ambulance Service to Methodist Memorial Hospital in Lubock.

Police said he sustained a cut left elbow when another youth allegedly struck him on the elbow with an axe. The suspect was taken into custody at Post by officers there about 2:30 this morning.

Later, he was transferred to county jail in Snyder where charges are pending. The assailant was described as being 20 years of age and a resident of Post.

Four Minor Mishaps

City Police investigated four minor motor vehicle collisions here Thursday.

The first one occurred on the parking lot at Hinshaw's House of Flowers on College Avenue at 9:38 a.m. Involved were a 1970 Model Ford van operated by Brent Allen Hinshaw, 4515 Garwood, and the parked 1974 Model Chevrolet of Charles E. Jones, 3103 Fortieth Street.

The next one occurred at Thirtieth Street and Avenue U at 1:05 p.m. Involved were the 1969 Model Ford of John Edward Cline, 2206 Forty-second Street, and the 1969 Model Cadillac of Lee Dan Stone of San Antonio.

The next one occurred at Twenty-sixth Street and College Avenue at 8:34 p.m. Involved were a 1973 Model Toyota driven by Sara A. Garcia, 1907 Avenue M, and a 1972 Model Oldsmoblie operated by Lisa Elayne Sego, Route 3, Snyder.

The other mishap occurred on a parking lot in the 1100 block of Twenty-fifth Street. Involved were the 1974 Model Oldsmoblie of James Lynn Cullar, 3207 Hill Avenue, and a telephone pole guy wire.

Graveside Rites Today For Infant

Tonia Dawn Hammonds, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hammonds of Snyder, died in Cogdell Memorial Hospital shortly after birth Wednesday.

Graveside rites were to be held at 4 p.m. Friday in Hillside Memorial Gardens with the Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, officiating Burial was to be under the direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Other survivors include a brother, Steven Hammonds, of the home; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Richmond of Knapp; and, the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Hammonds of Trickham.

The driver license office will be closed all the week of July 21 through 25, except Tuesday, July 22, for vacation. The office will open at 9 a.m. Tuesday and will open again on July 28th for business as usual.

1934 RODEO—An unidentified rider puts on a show for the crowd at Wolf Park in 1934.

NEVER DREAMED OF INSIDE BUILDING

Charles Miller Recalls Early Rodeos In Snyder

BY JEAN EVERETT

The 40th Annual Scurry County Rodeo has special meaning for C.C. (Charley) Miller of Bassridge, Snyder. Watching the performance from his comfortable seat in the air conditioned, beautifully appointed coliseum, Charley's thoughts travel back to the time he and his brother Bill (W.C.) produced the first organized rodeo for the county.

The year was 1934; the place was Wolf Park and they called it The Miller Bros. Cowboys Reunion.

Bill and Charley leased the land from Pack Wolf—a perfect spot along Deep Creek lined with hugh Cottonwood trees (present site corners 21st Street and Ave T)—and set about to build an arena, chutes, announcers and spectator stands. Digging holes for cedar posts and stretching net wire, nailing up board bleachers and putting sacking overhead for shade, the Miller men had no room for thoughts of a future time when men and horses would be chasing calves, throwing steers and riding broncs inside a building with the weather, temperature controlled!

A 1935 rodeo program reveals that the Miller Bros. Cowboys Reunion held two shows daily for three days, on the 26th, 27th, and 28th of July. Capt. Tom Hickman, Dallas, and Jess Slaughter, Big Spring served as judges over the five events: calf roping, steer riding, calf belling, wild cow milking and bronc riding. Entry fees for these events were $3.00 and $4.00. Prize money was given in each event for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places daily, with a $150.00 saddle for the best 3-day average in the calf roping and belling and the wild cow milking. Buck Burdine won the saddle for the cow milking contest. Some years later Charley bought the saddle and he still has it. "I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for it today" he hastily added.

One feature of that first rodeo was the Buffalo that Clyde Miller brought in for someone to ride. "Well, we rode at him", Charley laughed.

The Millers furnished their own stock, with the exception of one bucking horse that Jess Slaughter brought over with him. "That horse was later sold to the Huntsville Prison Rodeo string", Charley said. Charley remembers that they didn't make any money out of their venture but they got a lot of experience and had a lot of fun. One reason, he said, that they didn't break even was that they couldn't control the gate because there was no way to keep people from watching without paying.

The events that made up the rodeo show weren't new to the Miller brothers; in fact it was what they did each day as a part of their ranch chores. If a calf strayed too far from its mother, or a wild steer tried to run the wrong direction, any one of the six Miller boys could ably take down his rope, build a loop and catch the stray and drag him back to the herd. They prided themselves on riding most any kind of bronc, and got their kicks by putting a tenderfoot on the roughest horses in their remuda.

Before the Miller brothers produced their rodeo in Snyder, they had put one on in Borden County on the Dewey Everett place, about 8 miles east of Gail. It was a hot, dry day in August of 1933 that they held a roping, horse race, polo game and barbe-que with a dance that night in the nearby Sealy schoolhouse. George Martin, Borden County Treasurer, did the barbequing, but he nearly let it burn up, Charley recalled. A prize was given to the best dancers, a Mexican couple who worked for the 9R Ranch. Mrs. Miller remembered what a lovely long dress the woman wore.

Charley chuckled as he told about a horse race between a mare Butch Moore raised and used to pull a Fresno with during the week; a bay horse that Dewey Everett bought from Charley Creighton at Big Spring; and a paint horse from O'Donnell. "Roanie won every race we ever put her in and we usually put up a pot to bet on her," Charley explained, "But when we went to bet this time, Dewey said we would put his money on the bay. Three-two, the bay, was a hipped horse and unknown to Dewey, Butch had gotten him out the night before and run him until he was sore. Dewey was mighty surprised when his horse lost the race."

PRODUCERS OF EARLIEST RODEOS IN SNYDER—W.C. (Bill) Miller of Rapid City, South Dakota and Charley Miller of Snyder, Texas, producers of the earliest rodeos at Wolf Park in Scurry County.

Other area ranchmen and their families often held picnics at which they would bar-b-que several beef. After the feed, they entertained themselves with horse racing, steer riding and calf roping. Scurry county rancher, J.J. Koonsman held an annual picnic that became so popular that he ceased to find it necessary to issue invitations. He would kill 7 or 8 animals; the cooking continued for 24 hours straight, and guests arrived from everywhere.

At these home rodeos, a "living" arena was usually formed by the spectators and their horses and cars. About that time the Wild West Shows were popular across the country. Tom (Bugger Red) Pivet and Oscar Hart introduced them in this area; but they were a hired show with paid performers, and the local cowboys didn't have much opportunity to get in the action. The Western cowboy was used to doing things for himself, so it was just natural that he bagan to want to have his own rodeo.

The Miller brothers produced their show for two years; there was so much interest in the event that a group of Scurry County ranchers and businessmen decided to form a county association and put on an annual show. Thus it was that in 1936 The Scurry County Rodeo Association was formed. The association sold 100 shares for $25.00 a share and they soon had 44 stockholders. The first directors were J.J. Koonsman, J.C. Dorward, Joe York, George Parks, J.M. Stewart, J.L. Adams and Allen Stevens. Joe York was the first arena director. Mr. Koonsman served as president nearly 10 years. The Rodeo was held at Wolf Park site until 1941 when the association purchased land in north Snyder between Ave M and 13th Street and built new facilities there. Nine years later, after the area had developed into several residences, the association again moved their grounds, this time to west of town. They have had their rodeos on West 30th Street since 1950 until this year when they make use of the new facilities at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Through the years, rodeoing has been a good sport for the participants; much work and planning for the directors and association members, and good entertainment for families and spectators. Featured as a main attraction at one of the first association rodeos was "Smokey" Snyder and his Ford V-8. His act was to bulldog a steer from the fender of the Ford.

In 1952 the speciality act was the Lucas Groupe, a tumbling and acrobat team who went on to national fame and who appeared on TV several years ago. During the 1950s the Rodeo parades were colored with floats and Queen contests, sponsored by the local women's clubs.

By the late 1960s the Saddle Bronc event was about to disappear. Since saddle bronc riding was a daily event in the life of the early cowboy, the directors wanted to keep the interest alive so they promoted a Saddle Bronc Riding Match between South Dakota and Texas riders. The crowd pleasing match between the two states was held for three years, then it became an invitation match. Charley's nephew, Ralph, was instrumental in establishing these events and as an added attraction, another nephew, Jim Miller from Rapid City, S.D. was hired as Rodeo announcer. Jim is the son of Bill, who helped Charlie put on those first rodeos at Wolf Park. Bill Miller had moved his family to South Dakato some years back because as Charley said, he got tired of "looking for that next rain to come in Texas."

Jim Miller is again the announcer for this years rodeo, being the 9th year he has flown in to be a part of a tradition begun in Scurry County by his father and uncle.

The story of Charley Miller and his brothers and sister growing up is the story of West Texas growing up—from the struggles of survival against wild beast and the elements to the progress of modern society.

Charley remembers that he was just 2 years old when his dad, R.N. (Rich) Miller, and mother trailed their herd from Stonewall County to West Texas in 1900. His mother drove the chuck wagon and kept a tight vigil over the molasses that Charley recalls crying for her to give him some. The family first stopped in northeast Scurry County, where Rich worked as foreman for the Carpenter ranch (later the Fullers) for several years. The Millers homesteaded land in Borden County also.

Everything seemed perfect then, Charley said wistfully, "The grass was good, the creek was running, with big blue holes in it at least 20 foot deep; and antelope were over the whole country. You could see for half a mile in any direction; the only trees were along the creek bank."

In those days they lived with danger. Half-broke horses and wild cattle and open ranges combined for many an accident to man and horse. Once brother Clyde was roping a horse out of the remuda (on a cattle drive to Crosby County) when the hope got his leg tangled up. The horse jerked away and would have drug him to death had not the horse run between two of the other boys on horses. As horse and Clyde drug by the boys fell off their horses on the runaway and saved Clyde's life. So it was that the Miller brothers lived "rodeo" every day.

Through the years Charley has worked for several of the big ranches in the area: the Claytons of Borden County, the O.B. Ranch, and the Shannon Estate, in addition to raising cattle of his own. He and Zada Mae, whom he married in 1919, raised five daughters and lost a son at three years of age. Charley says that he could do as much ranch work with his girls as most anybody could. Ranching and rodeoing has beeen his life, he said, and he knew little else until his daughters began to marry—not a cowboy in the bunch, he complained in jest. But he is proud of his daughters, Jean JoAnn, Lou Alice, Linda, and Judy and the grandchildren and variety they have brought to the family. Three of the girls live in the Dallas area where one husband is executive vice president of a marketing research corporation, another is with the city of Dallas as head of the Community Action, and another is field manager for IBM. Daughter Lou and family live in Venezuela where they own a rubber manufacturing plant. Jean lives in Snyder where she and her husband stock farm. Rodeo time is usually a gathering of the clan time for the Millers. Many of them will be on hand for every performance of the 40th Scurry County Rodeo. For Charley it will also be a time of remembering.

Pair Sentenced

HOUSTON (AP) — Two former security guards, who were found guilty of stealing $40,000 in payroll money, have been sentenced to seven years in prison.

State District Court Judge Miron Love sentenced Gene G. Rivas, 30, and Rudolph Herrin, 45, Thursday. They were found guilty of fleeing with the payroll they were supposed to be transporting last January.

The abandoned panel truck, owned by a private security firm, was found in Beaumont.

CIA Surrenders Mail To JD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mail intercepted and retained by the CIA has been turned over to Justice Department investigators, and the postmaster general issued a sharp rebuke to the intelligence agency for intefering with the mail.

The fact that the agency had kept some of the letters it opened during its 20-year mail surveillance program was revealed for the first time Thursday by Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar.

According to Bailar, CIA director William E. Colby has turned over to him 110 opened letters and post cards which had been intercepted by the agency in 1972.

According to the Postal Service, the CIA previously had claimed "that all such intercepted and opened mail had been copied and returned to the mails."

Bailar added that the mail had been surrendered to the Justice Department in response to a search warrant and that it "is being held pending possible legal action against those responsible for opening and detaining it."

According to authoritative sources, the department's criminal division has been investigating the CIA's mail surveillance program since last December when Colby first informed then-Deputy Atty. Gen. Laurence H. Silberman about the program.

According to the Rockefeller Commission, which conducted its own investigation of the mail program, "United States statutes specifically forbid opening the mail."

Unlike many of the "plainly unlawful" CIA acts outlined by the commission, the common five-year statutue of limitations might not prevent prosecution of officials responsible for opening the mail, since the program was not terminated until February 1973.

The same sources also confirmed reports that the criminal division is investigating possible perjury charges against former CIA director Richard M. Helms in connection with statements he has made under oath about agency activities. Helms, now ambassador to Iran, is scheduled to make a third appearance today before the Senate intelligence panel to answer questions about alleged CIA involvement in assassination plots.

Bailar, who said he had been distressed when he first learned of the mail program, wrote Colby that "the revelation that mail was removed from the international mail stream, opened and retained indefinitely, is doubly disturbing."

He Wants a New Lease On Life with New Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a woman after 35 years of marriage and the upbringing of your five marvelous sons that you want to make a new start with another woman?

I feel that this other woman can give me the excitement and sexual compatibility that is now lacking in my marriage. Both women are 53. I am 56.

My wife and I enjoy a very serene life, but it's like a brother-sister relationship. She is a fine, devoted, church-going woman who is not unattractive. Perhaps, she can find another man.

This other woman has been divorced for 10 years. When we're together we are like a pair of teenagers—very much in love. Her children are grown and gone, and so are mine.

I have too much character to live a lie any longer. Please tell me what to do.

A CHRISTIAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: Do you really believe that it shows "character" to tell a wife of 35 years who has played the key role in raising five "marvelous" sons that you want to end your marriage to marry another woman?

At age 56, is not "serenity" at least as important as "excitement and sexual compatibility"?

You say "perhaps" your wife can find another man. What if she can't? I say it's better to "live a lie" than to break an innocent heart.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a mother-in-law who is constantly pushing her quarter of the family heritage?

Our children are examined for physical likenesses to her family traits; we get family trees in the mail and all sorts of "proof" that her ancestors were bluebloods.

Why isn't it enough that our children are happy, healthy individuals?

I cannot understand her preoccupation with her ancestors.

How should I deal with it? It's beginning to get to me.

FED UP

DEAR FED: The only way to shut her up would be to dig even deeper into her ancestry, and come up with a horse thief—or worse.

DEAR ABBY: Why do ministers end the marriage ceremony with, "I now pronounce you man and wife"?

It makes about as much sense as saying, "I now pronounce you man and woman."

The minister is supposed to make the couple HUSBAND and WIFE.

The man was a man to begin with, just like the woman was a woman, so how come after the ceremony the woman becomes a wife but the man is still a man?

I don't get it.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: I don't get it, either. But I'll bet after this hits print, there will be a lot more men becoming "husbands" after the marriage ceremony.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Pretty Fashions Give Feeling Of Self Assurance To Handicapped

LUBBOCK—Fads in fashion and the look of being well-dressed are for everybody – especially the physically and mentally handicapped.

Kay Caddell is a clothing designer who took a good look at the makeshift garments usually allotted the physically and mentally handicapped and decided to do something about it.

The result of her attention is a score of patterns designed to make even the most helpless look attractive and feel comfortable.

Her designs include wheelchair vests and supports – tricky garments designed for their ease of dressing and touches of detail – a bright scarlet teddybear on a blue denim vest, a red apple or a shaggy lion's head for a touch of pizzazz.

Mrs. Caddel is a research associate at the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech University, and her clothing designs have been created from fabrics developed at the center.

A knit infant's suit is made of flame retardant knit. A fashionable jumper – which can be opened flat and then fitted around the body in stylish lines – is made of a mohair and cotton blend. Jeans and shirts to match are made of open-end spun deni durable cotton fabric.

She's even given thought to the blind. A lap robe, for instance, has decorative touches in fabrics of different texture – the letter "A" and a corded line from it to a fuzzy textured pocket with a zipper.

For the handicapped teenager, there's a peasant blouse with elastic at the openings for easy dressing. The skirt to match wraps around, ties smartly in front and has the flounce of a two-inch ruffle at the hem and up the side.

The end result of each of the designs is a smart looking outfit to add self assurance to the wearer. To be sure they appeal to the people who will wear them, Mrs. Caddel tests them, some at the Lubbock State School. Here she's discovered a five taste the mentally handicapped have for good looking clothes.

A spastic child who cannot speak, for instance, was held in his wheel chair with a sheet tied around his for security. She replaced the sheet with the wheel chair vest, and the excitement was so great that the child became for a few minutes absolutely still.

"He couldn't tell us he liked it," Mrs. Caddel said, "but it wasn't difficult to see his reaction of pleasure."

After testing, the clothing goes back to the children who have played the role of maniken for the designer.

That is fortunate because Molly, a student at the school, tried on a red, white and blue peasant dress and "wanted to wear it indefinitely," Mrs. Caddel reported.

There is a formal testing of the value of the clothing, a standardized test on Behavioral Characteristic Progression dealing with sensory perception, dressing and undressing. Children were tested before the project statrted, and will be tested again when the research is completed to determine whether they have developed self-help skills using the special designs.

In addition to clothing, Mrs. Caddel has developed "educational shapes" which are pillows in the form of blocks–rectangular, square, triangular and cylindrical. The shapes have zipper covers and various objects are sewn on them. These help the blind and those who lack motor skills.

They can learn to tie shoes, manipulate buttons, zippers and snaps as well as a tape which goes by the trade name, Velcro, and is used to fasten and unfasten some seams.

The tape is especially useful in the design of jeans which have open leg seams – an idea which could also help anyone with a broken leg or the individual who has difficulty controlling leg movements.

"An estimated 30 million people in the United States have mental or physical handicaps," Mrs. Caddel said. "That would account for about 14 per cent of the population.

"It is high time these people receive consideration in clothing design."

In Texas, Mrs. Caddel said, the Goree Garment Factory has decided to manufacture for state agencies the clothing she has designed. The garments will be manufactured on order by the women inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville.

Mrs. Caddel also has designed patterns on order for the various garments, each pattern designed individually for the particular problems of the person who will wear the clothes.

Mrs. Caddel holds the master's degree in clothing and textiles, earned at Texas Tech University, and she also has done graduate work at the University of Rhode Island and Oklahoma State University She is the co-author of a book, "Basic Apparel Design," and has helped in making a series of instructional films.

Her current project is sponsored by the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Committee of Texas and the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech.

FASHION FOR THE HANDICAPPED—Wrap around dresses, jumpers, and party skirts, random-dyed jeans which open at the seams for easy dressing, and a flame retardant play suit decorated with a friendly golden lion are all among the clothing Mrs. Kay Caddel has designed for the mentally and physically handicapped. On Mrs. Caddel's left is one of her educational forms—a pillow decorated with the upper part of shoes which give those developing motor skills an opportunity to learn to tie laces. Mrs. Caddel is a research associate at Texas Tech University's Textile Research Center. All garments, except the dress she is wearing, are made from fabrics developed at TRC.

Bride-Elect Is Honored With Recipe Party

Karen Greene, bride elect of Richard Gorman, was honored at a Recipe Party Sunday, July 6 hosted by Mrs. Billy Wayne Williams and Mrs. Renal Rosson.

Guests presented the bride-to-be with recipes and signed the registry with personal comments on ingredients for a happy marriage.

The refreshment table carrying out the kitchen motif was centered with an arrangement of vegetables and kitchen gadgets. Punch was poured from a handpainted crock and cookies were served from a doughboard.

The couple will exchange vows August 8 at the First Baptist Church, Snyder

Security Blanket For Schools

HOLBROOK, N.Y. (AP) — Electronic "watchdogs" with long-range vision and super-sensitive ears may prevent some of the burglary and vandalism that has been plaguing many of the nation's schools.

Under a new security blanket covering the 17 schools of Long Island's 28-square-mile school district here, "the first inkling an intruder will have that he or she has been spotted will be when a patrol car drives up, says Frank L. Phillips, consulting engineer who helped design the Honeywell system.

Key areas in each school are scrutinized by electronic eyes, along with listening devices sensitive enough to hear even hushed footsteps. Interior areas are guarded by invisible electronic waves that can spot any movement.

Extension Service Names Area 4-H Specialist

LUBBOCK—The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has named a 4-H and youth specialist for the Panhandle and South Plains areas. She is Martha E. Couch, who has served as Gaines County Extension Agent for the past three years.

The new specialist will be headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. She assumes the position vacated by Edwin T. Garnett who was headquartered at Amarillo.

According to Dr. Donald Stormer, state 4-H and youth leader, Miss Couch will give leadership to the 4-H and youth phase of the Extension Service program in Districts 1 and 2, which encompass 42 countries.

"Particular emphasis will be directed to expanding the 4-H program as well as to plan and implement programs in leadership and curriculum development," he noted.

"We are fortunate to have Miss Couch assume this position," added Stormer. "She has a wealth of 4-H experience, having been an active member for 10 years and having directed the 4-H program in Gaines County for two years."

Miss Couch was appointed as assistant county Extension agent for Gaines County in May, 1972, and was named county Extension agent in September, 1974.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Couch of Gail Rt., Box 232, Big Spring. During her 4-H career, she won many awards and honors, including the Howard County Gold Star Girl and state winner in the Home Management Program. She participated in the State 4-H Roundup four times and attended National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

At Borden High School, she was active in the Future Homemakers of America and was president of the local chapter.

Miss Couch attended Howard County Junior College and received a B.S. degree in home economics education from Texas Tech University in 1971. While attending Texas Tech, she served as a student assistant in the Food and Nutrition Department. She was on the Dean's List each semester and received the Sear's Scholarship and the Maude Flowers Tinsley Scholarship.

She is a member of the American Home Economics Association and Phi Upsilon Omicron, the honorary fraternity for home economists.

WOMAN OF THE YEAR—Verna Force was named "Woman of the Year" by members of the Scurry Charter Chapter of American Business Women's Association in a meeting held June 26. Mrs. Force is owner of Tot-2-Teen, a speciality shop for children. She has been an active member of the club for the past 13 years. Mary Faver, vice-president offers congratulations as she presents Mrs. Force with a crown.

Smallest Terrace Can Hold Lovely Garden

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A sparrow on a city rooftop may be worth two yellow-bellied sapsuckers in a country bush as more apartment dwellers with terraces, balconies and the like become instant horticulturists.

Decorating one's foot of the earth can be a status symbol of sorts as more and more condominium and apartment dwellers acquire trees, plants and shrubs that crawl up walls, around railings and sit in huge pots.

"....However long man is able to live and breathe in congested areas, so plants will be able to, too...." points out Linda Yang, an architect by profession, encouragingly in her informative "The Terrace Gardener's Handbook." The book gives aid and comfort especially to those who would raise plants in small space, and she advises not to despair even if tall buildings overshadow your domain — some dividends may be that the bright morning light may reflect off some of the buildings.

It's a useful book for anyone raising plants on decks or backyard patios, too.

If you can walk outdoors and turn around, you have room for plants and possibly trees and shrubs, she assures the city gardener. But a little terrace isn't a big estate. A plan should be made of the basic form; wind direction should be determined along with views wanted and unwanted. And one should note whether there is a roof or other barrier overhead, how tall, and whether one could, in fact, get a tall or wide tree or shrub to its new home through building doorway, or small elevator.

She suggests using chalk right on the terrace floor to mark down sizes of plants and forms you would like in a particular place. Trees, shrubs and vines that may be seen all the year from inside should be placed next to a building wall or farther away near the outside wall. Make the most of corners and far ends on balconies.

In placing plants try to visualize nature — opening buds, spring flowers, rich foliage in summer, colored leaves and berries, bare branches and snow-covered evergreens in winter. Properly done you should have scenics all year.

Choosing the right plants is a key to the pretty garden no matter how small the area. There are vines and climbers, window boxes and hanging baskets as well as espaliered (flattened to grow against walls) trees and shrubs for small spaces, and she offers a list of the many plants with their respective qualifications and limitations. If height must be limited because of a roof, weeping trees — flowering trees, shrubs and some evergreens — grow down rather than up and there are also dwarf trees and shrubs.

She suggests purchasing plants locally, within a 40-mile radius, to insure tolerance. Balled and burlapped plants or those in containers planted by nurserymen should be healthiest.

A barrier of tall, wind-tolerant plants can be useful in screening out bothersome winds or unattractive views. And if the area needs a real barrier where plants can't keep, she suggests stockade-style cedar and wood pickets. Bamboo shades also can be turned on side and stretched across.

Mrs. Yang performs a service in describing friendly visitors — earthworms, doodlebugs, thrips, checkered beetles, dragonflies, green lacewing, spiders, parasitic wasps and the like, as well as providing a list of common pests and what to watch for and a list of pesticides for various problems.

She also advises how to locate a bird feeder. After all, "City living is hard for birds, too" she insists, advising that they like relatively sheltered spots with maximum sun and minimum wind.

Starting a garden is the least of it, she advises. But maintaining it is made simpler by her charts on everything from soil preparation and pruning in the spring to bone meal and tidying up in the fall. Among the many good illustrations are some in color.

In her forward to the book, Elizabeth Scholz, director of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, emphasizes Mrs. Yang's dedication to horticulture when she attended classes at the botanic garden more than a decade ago.

("The Terrace Gardener's Handbook" is published by Doubleday.)

Flames Host Women's Softball Tournament

The Carlsbad, N.M. Jets are favored to win the annual Snyder Women's Softball Tournament, which will be held here Friday and Saturday.

The tournament opens tonight with host Snyder Flames meeting Big Lake in the first game at 7 p.m. Other first round pairings are on tap for 8:30 p.m. with Midland VFW meeting Western Insulation of Odessa, at 10 p.m. with Midland Chargers tangling with Carlsbad, N.M. Amax, and at 11:20 p.m. with the favored Carlsbad, N.M. Jets meeting Odessa VFW.

The Jets are the "class of New Mexico," according to those who have seen them play. They won the Carlsbad Tournament over the July 4th weekend.

If the Flames win their first game Friday, then they will play again at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. If they lose the first game, then their next outing will be at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The Flames are 11-4 for the season. All games will be held in Winston Park.

Saturday contests are on tap for 8:30 a.m., 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 4 p.m., 5:30 p.m., 7 p.m., 8:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. If no team is unbeaten, then there will be another game at 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Forbes Awaits Jury's Verdict

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A jury weighing the fate of Boston Bruins hockey player David Forbes failed to reach a verdict in more than seven hours of deliberations Thursday, raising the possibility of a hung jury and a second trial.

Jurors were to resume deliberations at 8:30 a.m., CDT.

Forbes, 26, is charged with aggravated assault as the result of an attack on the Minnesota North Stars' Henry Boucha last Jan. 4.

The trial, moving into its ninth day today, has made sports history in the United States because Forbes is the first pro athlete to face criminal charges for actions in a sports contest.

Jurors began their consideration of the case Thursday afternoon after final summations from attorneys and instructions on Minnesota law from Judge Rolf Fosseen.

Defense attorney Ron Meshbesher told jurors it was a "home town" prosecution, brought because it was a Minnesota player who was injured.

"I submit to you that had this man been wearing a different colored uniform that night, he would not be sitting behind the counsel table and undergoing the agony of a trial," Meshbesher said.

The prosecutor, Hennepin County Atty. Gary Flakne, argued that the incident was not one of the usual fights that are part of hockey.

"It was not a fight. On the contrary, it was an unprovoked attack by one person on another," Flakne said,

"This was an assault. It was not a fight ... a crime is a crime no matter where it occurs."

The jury returned at midafternoon for a second reading of the law on assault, but there was no explanation. Under Minnesota law, jurors could find Forbes innocent, guilty of aggravated assault or guilty of simple assault.

The more serious charge would require a finding that Forbes had used his stick as a "dangerous weapon." Conviction carries a penalty of up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine. A simple assault is a midemeanor, punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $300 fine.

There was no indication of how the jury was split, but the length of the deliberations was a surprise to many court observors. If the case ends in a hung jury — meaning no unanimous agreement — there could be a second trial.

Notre Dame Reinstates 5 Gridders

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — University of Notre Dame officials have reinstated five of six football players suspended a year ago after an 18-year-old woman alleged she was raped in a campus dormitory.

"After reviewing the case and meeting with the young men, it was decided the purpose of the suspension had been served," said university spokesman Dick Conklin.

Criminal charges never were filed. "As far as the university was concerned, the incident never was a criminal matter," Conklin added.

None of the six could be reached for comment.

Roy Henry, a quarterback from New Orleans, did not reapply at Notre Dame. He plans to attend Southwestern Louisiana, sources said.

One of the five returning, defensive end Ross Browner of Warren, Ohio, was permitted to enroll in summer school June 25 to make up academic credits that might otherwise affect his football eligibility.

The others will be on campus when football practice starts Aug. 22, but won't enroll until the fall session. The others are safety Luther Bradley of Muncie, Ind., halfback Al Hunter of Greenville, N.C., Dan Knott of Chowchilla, Calif., and Willie Fry, a defensive end from Memphis.

All will be sophomores academically and athletically, and they should bolster an Irish squad hit hard by graduations.

The players' grants-in-aid were restored, Conklin said, but they wil remain on "conduct probation" until graduation. Any further serious violation of university rules would result in almost automatic suspension, Conklin said.

Bob Hayes To Report To San Francisco Saturday

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Bob Hayes, once the world's fastest man, now says now he feels more like an old Studebaker.

The veteran Dallas Cowboys wide receiver, who was traded to San Francisco, probably will arrive in Santa Barbara, Calif., on Saturday to begin workouts with the 49ers.

The Cowboys will get an undisclosed 1976 draft choice for Hayes, a one-time world record-holder in the 100-yard dash who has been in the National Football League 10 years, all with Dallas.

Asked if there was anything he would have done differently in his career with the Cowboys, Hayes said: "I'd have been out of Dallas a lot sooner ... I'm just like a used car. Wherever they send me, I have to go."

Hayes' best season was in 1966 when he caught 64 passes for 1,232 yards and 13 touchdowns, helping the Cowboys to their first NFL Eastern Conference championship. But last year the speedster, now 32, caught just seven passes in a reserve role behind Golden Richards.

Meanwhile, Duane Thomas, veteran running back who became a free agent May 1, probably will arrive in Washington sometime today to begin talks with the Redskins about his reinstatement.

In Chester, Pa., at the Philadelphia Eagles' training camp, five players required hospitalization on Thursday because of heat and high humidity.

Willie Cullars, a second-year defensive end, was treated after he had heat cramps in morning workouts. Four other players were treated after afternoon practice.

Several NFL teams waived, cut, traded or were involved in various other player transactions.

The Detroit Lions signed Mike Flater, the leading scorer for the Denver Dynamos of the North American Soccer League, to a one-year contract as a kicking specialist.

The Miami Dolphins waived free agents Herbert Harris and Nate Holmes; the San Diego Chargers waived veteran wide receiver Dave Smith; the New York Jets cut veteran defensive back Eric Washington and three rookies after they failed their physical examinations; veteran offensive tackle Bill Sandeman of the Atlanta Falcons retired, and veteran Pittsburgh running back Steve Davis is expected to retire.

As of today, 19 NFL teams have begun training camp — 10 in the American Conference and nine in the National Conference. Houston and New England begin their rookie camps and veterans start training for Kansas City and San Francisco today.

Judy Rankin Has One-Stroke Lead

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — "Seconds aren't all that bad," insists Judy Rankin, a perennial runner-up on the women's golf circuit this year.

But she had no complaints about being the leader of the U.S. Women's Open after the first round Thursday.

Miss Rankin, 30, toured the 6,165-yard Atlantic City Country Club course in even par 72 to hold a one-stroke edge over two pros and 18-year-old amateur Nancy Lopez of Roswell, N.M.

The course, hosting the Women's Open for the third time since 1948, gave fits to the pros and amateurs alike in the field of 155. Miss Rankin was four strokes over par after five holes before battling back.

Tied with Miss Lopez at 73 were JoAnne Carner of Lake Worth, Fla., and Judy Kimbell of North Platte, Neb.

Sandra Haynie, the defending Open champion, was knotted at 74 with Sandra Burns and Sandra Post, while six more pros carded 75.

Carol Mann, who won the Open here in 1965, staggered to an 84 after shooting six bogeys and a double bogey on the front nine.

The raven-haired Miss Lopez, a former U.S. Girls' Junior Champion and Mexican Women's Amateur Champion, was unawed by her high standing.

"If I play the way I want to, I can do pretty good," said Miss Lopez, who had four bogeys and three birdies in her 38-35 round. One of the bogeys came on the third hole, where she missed a one-foot putt.

The 113 pros in the field are vying for $55,000 in prizes, including $8,000 for the winner.

Miss Rankin, of Midland, Tex., has already garnered $37,000 in winnings in 1975, on the strength of six second-place finishes.

The tour leader, Sandra Palmer, who has won nearly $57,000, shot a 78.

All-Stars Beat Abilene 3 To 1

The Snyder All-Stars defeated previously unbeaten Abilene Bulls, 3-1, in Men's Baseball action here last night in a game played in Moffett Field.

In the first inning, Ronnie Lewis led off for the All-Stars with a hard-hit ball that bounced over the fence for a double. Larry Braziel singled him to third, and both runners scampered home on a double by Hulon Malone.

Abilene got an unearned run in the 5th inning.

In the 6th, Perry Turnbow drew a walk and went to second on a single by Ronnie Lewis. Larry Braziel walked, loading the bases, then Hulon Malone singled in Turnbow with the 3rd run for the All-Stars.

Tim Holder hurled a 1-hitter for Snyder. He was relieved by Ronnie Lewis in the 6th.

The All-Stars will host Abilene American Tuesday night and Abilene Cooper Thursday night.

Oiler Rookies Report Today

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Sixty rookies, including nine draft choices, and 14 veterans were to report to new Coach A. O. "Bum" Phillips today as the Houston Oilers open pre-season training at the Sam Houston University Campus.

The 14 veterans reporting include some who were injured last season and some who will be learning new positions. The rest of the veterans report next Friday.

Phillips, defensive coordinator for the Oilers last season, replaces Sid Gillman as coach. The Oilers improved from a 1-13 record in 1973 to 7-7 last year.

Three Oiler rookies will report late because they will be participating in the College All-Star Game in Chicago.

Earl Fish Golf Tournament Set

The entry list for the annual Earl Fish Partnership Golf Tournament, which will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Snyder Country Club course, is complete with 64 teams.

"If you sign up now, you'll have to go on a waiting list in the event someone cancels out," said Bill Keys, club pro.

Defending champions are Danny Walters and Duncan Boyer of Abilene. However, Boyer will not compete this year. Walters is playing with Mark Hargrove of Snyder. They won the tournament at Lamesa last weekend.

A strong field will be entered in the tourney since several of the entries are college golfers.

Prizes include 24 $100 gift certificates. Golf carts may be reserved for the two days for $15.

There will be 18 holes of medal play each day with the golfers to be flighted after Saturday's round. Shotgun starts are on tap for 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday.

There also will be a social hour, barbecue and dance Saturday night. The dance will feature the Frank Trevino band of San Angelo.

Anyone wishing additional information may contact Keys by calling 573-7101.

Rod Curl Fires 5 Under, Leads Pleasant Valley

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — "Circle the wagons."

That happy cry, a salute and compliment to the little Wintu warrior, is going up on the pro golf tour again.

Rod Curl's fellow tourists began figuratively putting up their defenses Thursday after the 5-foot-5, three-quarters Wintu Indian romped in with a solid, five-under-par 66 and the first round lead in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Golf Classic.

"It takes a long time to come back," the delighted Curl observed after he'd mastered the muggy heat that hung, wet and heavy, over the 7,119-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

"I'd been crippled up with tendonitis in my left wrist from August until January. I really didn't get well until March and I didn't get my game back until Milwaukee (two weeks ago). At Milwaukee I started hooking the ball again and I was playing pretty good. (He finished third). But I took a bad putting stroke to the British Open (last week) and didn't play so good.

"Today it really felt good. I could see the shot I wanted to make, I could see it in my mind, every time I hit it. That's fun. That makes it feel like an easy game."

And Curl, one of the smallest men on the tour, made it look easy, too. He didn't make a bogey. He scored five birdies, only one of them from more than eight feet. He missed three greens and saved par on all those holes.

Vetran Miller Barber, who was hospitalized the night before and wasn't at all sure he'd play, birdied two of his last three holes for a 67 and second place, just one shot back.

"I'd played with a doctor in the pro-am and he said I looked a little peaked and ought to have a check-up," Barber said. "I checked into a hospital and they said I had some allergies and they found a virus infection. I came out to the course just to see if I was strong enough to play and didn't decide to until the last minute."

Lee Elder, who has a history of playing this tournament very, very well, Chuck Courtney and Eddie Pearce were one more stroke back at 68. Elder has yet to win here, but he was second two seasons in a row and ranks as this event's all-time leading money-winner.

The group at 69 included Art Wall, Mike Hill, Ben Crenshaw, Leonard Thompson, George Johnson, Jim Simons, Mark Hayes and Canadian George Knudson.

Lee Trevino and Hale Irwin were in another large group at 70.

Many of the game's leading stars — including Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Arnold Palmer, U.S. Open champ Lou Graham and newly-crowned British Open king Tom Watson — are not competing.

Rice Owls Hire Cage Assistant

HOUSTON (AP) — John Rendek, assistant basketball coach at the University of Tulsa for the past seven years, will assume a similar position at Rice University Aug. 1.

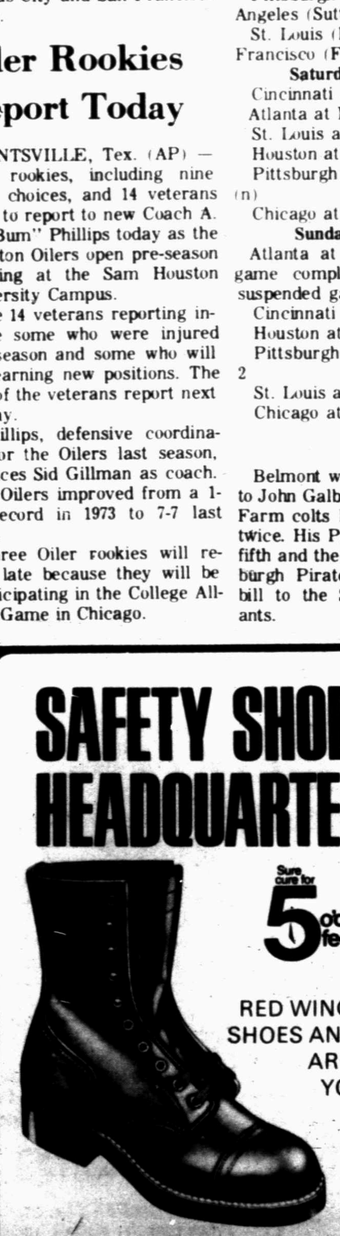

Rice announced Thursday the appointment of Rendek as an assistant to Bob Polk who begins his second year as head coach of the Owls this coming season.

Jacinto Vasquez's second with Foolish Pleasure in the 1975 Belmont marked the Panamanian jockey's first time in the money in the coveted race in three tries.

Belmont weekend was unkind to John Galbreath whose Darby Farm colts have won the race twice. His Prince Thou Art ran fifth and the next day his Pittsburgh Pirates dropped a twin bill to the San Francisco Giants.

Missing Tot Reunited With Mom

MORRIS, Ill. (AP) — An 11-month-old infant missing since June 28 from North Little Rock, Ark., was reunited with his mother here Thursday.

Authorities said the event capped an investigation begun when the child's alleged abductor was killed in a car crash near here Tuesday.

Annie Bernice Christie, 21, the child's mother, said that when she heard the baby had been found, she and her husband drove all night from Arkansas to get him. "From the description, his birthmark and all, I just knew he was mine," she said.

Mrs. Christie and her husband Fred, a 35-year-old cab driver, arrived with 10 photographs of the child, a baby book and records of birth.

Sheriff Bill Button of Grundy County, west of Chicago, turned Roger Allen over to the weeping mother. Button called it "a happy ending to the weirdest case I've ever handled."

He said it started when a woman identified as Joan Hedger was killed in an automobile crash Tuesday. "We found baby clothes in the car, but no baby," he said, adding that the car had been stolen in May from a Houston, Tex., agency.

Button's investigation led him to a trailer court near Minooka and there the baby was found alone in a crib late Tuesday.

"He was all right. My deputy, Ray Odom, and his wife, cared for the little fellow," said the sheriff whose investigation led him to contact authorities in Texas and several southern states.

Button said that finally the Pulaski County, Ark., sheriff's county reported that a baby belonging to the Christies had been missing. After that, "things began falling in place," he said.

Button said that a friend of the Christies, Mary Myers, had taken the baby to a North Little Rock park last month. He said another woman came along and said she wanted to take the infant to get some ice cream.

Authorities said she and the child just kept going. Button said the woman skipped from one job to another and her whereabouts wasn't known until she was killed in the accident.

Lt. Gene Walther of the Pulasi County sheriff's office said, "We've been working on it ever since June 28. It's a family type thing and we didn't actually call it kidnaping, but a missing child."

DPS Agent To Reveal Sources

AUSTIN (AP) — Rather than risk contempt of court, Department of Public Safety agent David Dimick has agreed to tell a federal judge the names of his sources in his investigation of airline pilot Robert Pomeroy.

Judge Jack Roberts offered Dimick "a deal" Thursday that Dimick accepted rather than risk jail.

Dimick said he would give Roberts the names of his two confidential informants today, and the judge will decide whether the names should be given to Pomeroy, who is suing Dimick.

The suit stems from a 1974 investigation which Dimick, then a DPS intelligence agent, conducted into Pomeroy's opposition to construction of a nuclear power plant near Glen Rose.

Dimick turned a copy of his report over to Pomeroy's employer, Continental Airlines.

Dimick later was suspended and transferred to the narcotics division.

On May 10, Dimick said he would refuse to disclose the names of his informants.

"I feel strongly about not identifying confidential sources for several reasons," he said then. It would set "a bad precedent" that would affect law enforcement agencies that rely on such informants, he said.

Youth Revival Set At Union Methodist

The public is invited to participate in a four night revival led by the Young People at Union United Methodist Church, Sunday, July 20, through Wednesday, July 23. Services will be held nightly at 7:30 p.m., followed by a fellowship with refreshments in the Fellowship Hall immediately following each service.

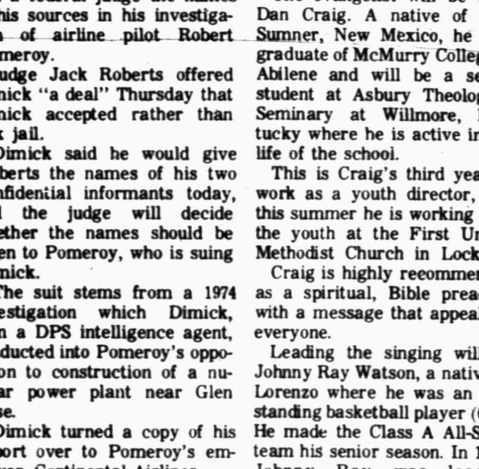

The evangelist will be Rev. Dan Craig. A native of Fort Sumner, New Mexico, he is a graduate of McMurry College at Abilene and will be a senior student at Asbury Theological Seminary at Willmore, Kentucky where he is active in the life of the school.

This is Craig's third year to work as a youth director, and this summer he is working with the youth at the First United Methodist Church in Lockney.

Craig is highly recommended as a spiritual, Bible preacher with a message that appeals to everyone.

Leading the singing will be Johnny Ray Watson, a native of Lorenzo where he was an outstanding basketball player (6-8). He made the Class A All-State team his senior season. In 1971, Johnny Ray was leading rebounder, leading scorer and most valuable player at McMurry College. He began singing in his home church choir when he was eight years of age. In 1972, he rededicated his life to Christ, and since that time has been writing music, singing and "playing for the Lord." He has led the music in many revivals and youth meetings, and his Christian witness is one "you will want to hear."

Doctor explains 'carcinoma insitu'

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Would you explain carcinoma insitu? Does intercourse have any bearing on its occurrence?

Do you realize how many women have had hysterectomies for one reason or another? What possible good is a Pap smear after a complete hysterectomy? Other than an office fee! You doctors beg women to have the Pap smear, but tell nothing beyond that. I'll look for your answer in the paper, but if it's there I'll surely have a cardiac arrest.

DEAR READER—A copy of my answer in the column is sent to the person who wrote the original letter. If you had included your address on your letter you could have had your cardiac arrest long before the column appeared in the paper.

Carcinoma insitu is a term for a cancerous change of the surface of the cervix. By analogy, it is something like skin cancer. It may be localized on the surface of the cervix or at the cervical canal.

The term is not used for invasive cancer. The extent of the cancer is limited to the surface areas and does not involve deeper tissues. Actually there is a graduation of changes seen in the cells of the cervix from normal ones to those that show some changes that are not considered as cancer cells (called dysplasia), to cells of carcinoma insitu, and finally to those of invasive cancer of the cervix involving the deeper structures.

Some authorities think carcinoma insitu may progress to invasive cancer of the cervix. Adherents to this school believe its presence calls for a complete hysterectomy to prevent cancer of the cervix and its complications.

Carcinoma insitu, like some skin cancers, may change slowly, if at all. For this reason some physicians prefer to treat the problem by local removal of the abnormal cells without a complete hysterectomy.

The choice of treatment may depend upon the woman's age and if she wants to have more children or not. Since it is a slow process, there is room for allowing a women to continue having her desired family, If she remains under careful supervision.

There are probably many factors in the occurrence of carcinoma insitu, but it is true that it occurs more often in women who engage in sexual relations early in life and marry early. More recent studies suggest that multiple sexual partners and early age of onset of intercourse are factors that increase its incidence. Now I hasten to point out that these are group studies. This does not mean that every woman who has or has had carcinoma insitu has been sexually active at an early age. There are always many exceptions to the general trend.

A Pap smear should be done certainly if the cervix is left in place. Usually these days the entire uterus, with the cervix, is removed during a hysterectomy. Rarely there could be changes in the vaginal wall. Some carcinomas insitu extend over the surface of the vagina, and certainly there would be a case for following these. Pap smears are also used by some doctors as an opportunity to study the cells to judge the woman's hormone balance.

Three Children Die In Fire

LINDALE, Tex. (AP) — Three small children died shortly after midnight today when fire swept their mobile home near this East Texas community.

Authorities said the children were Robert Dabbs, 8; his brother Johnny, 7; and their half-sister Rose Marie Loller, 3. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Loller, who escaped the blaze.

The cause of the blaze was not yet determined, authorities said.

The family's home was about five miles north of Lindale.

Armstrong Suit Is Dismissed

DALLAS (AP) — A civil rights suit filed against evangelist Garner Ted Armstrong and the World Wide Church of God has been dismissed by a federal judge who said the plaintiff could not prove membership in a class "traditionally protected by federal civil rights legislation."

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Porter issued the ruling.

The plaintiff, Vernon Eugene Smith, sued Armstrong, the church, Herbert W. Armstrong, Inc., and six other defendants for 850,000 dollars in damages.

Smith claimed the defendants conspired to deprive him of his rights to privacy, to a normal family environment, to good health, and to seek financial stability.

Smith alleged the defendants had induced his wife of 25 years to divorce him and live with minsters of the World Wide Church of God. Smith claimed the incident caused difficulties in his business, ruined his credit, and caused him to suffer a heart attack.

He identified the class he wanted the court to recognize as "many who have been abused and deprived of his family" by the church. Porter did not agree. The judge said Smith failed to show class-based discrimination as required by the civil rights statute on which he based his complaint.

Tuition May Be Refunded

AUSTIN (AP) — As much as 75 per cent of the tuition paid by students who attended Career Enterprises schools between 1969 and 1972 may be refunded to those students, Atty. Gen. John Hill says.

The Federal Trade Commission has ordered Career Enterprises, now defunct, to refund $1,250,000 to students that attended the schools during that period.

The deadline for filing is today, Hill said, and eligible students should telegraph their names, addresses, name of school attended, date of enrollment and names of courses to Walter Gross, Compliance Division, Bureau of Consumer Protection, Federal Trade Commission, 1726 M St. NW, Washington, D.C., 20036.

"I WANT TO BE Free"

This is the constant cry of today's youth. By this they usually mean that they want to be free from responsibility, to be unfettered from emotional ties.

There is another kind of freedom, however, fredom in Christ. When you know Christ, you feel a joyful release, a surge of new vitality, a feeling that all things are possible.

The Bible says, "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom." II Cor. 3:17. This is the true meaning of freedom.
