Region 5 tourney begins play here Tuesday

Some of the top junior college talent in the nation will begin arriving in Snyder Monday for a full week of go-for-broke basketball.

Competition in the Region 5 National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) basketball tournament — renamed the Oil Belt Tournament for its stay in Snyder — will begin Tuesday in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Honorary director for the tournament is Wayland G. Holt, who retired as judge for the 132nd Judicial District last Dec. 31.

For local and statewide fans, the competition between both womens and mens teams is expected to move at a down-the-court pace through next Saturday.

The Western Texas College Dusters are already guaranteed a tourney spot, and the men's team were still contenders as of Saturday afternoon.

Snyder won the right to host the event last spring, outbiding Midland — perennial host for the competition.

For the city, it is expected to pump thousands of dollars into the economy as tourney-goers fan out from the coliseum to local retail outlets.

Regarding the round ball play, more than 200 young men and women will be trying to realize a dream — to advance to competition on a national scale.

The intense level of play will be prompted by a second factor, the chance to be seen by college scouts from major universities and the possibility of a scholarship to these schools.

The Region 5 tournaments — both women's and men's — are new to Snyder, but championship caliber basketball is not. Local fans can mark six trips to the national spectacle. Western Texas College teams are among the most respected in the country, and college scouts make Scurry County Coliseum a regular recruiting stop during February.

In addition to WTC, teams represented at this year's event includes much heralded talent.

Odessa, sporting the No. 1 women's junior college team and No. 13 men's team in the country, will be here. McLennan, last year's fourth place finisher in the Women's NJCAA National Tournament, is also on the agenda as are the highly touted Cisco Lady Wranglers, who have won 15 ballgames in a row.

Midland's Chaparrals, Western JC Athletic Conference champions, are back with visions of repeating their sweep of the 1981 tournament. And the list goes on.

Western Texas College Duster Coach Joe Cushing, who was a key figure in getting the tournaments moved to Snyder, is as excited as anyone.

"I think it's great. I feel like this is a big plus for us as the home team and for Snyder. We want everybody to come to the tournaments. Bring a friend and yell. Bring two friends," he said.

Ask Us

Q. — Are there any more plans for lakes to be built by the Colorado River Municipal Water District?

A. — No. District officials say the Stacy project is likely the final lake to be built by them, added to their existing reservoirs at Lake Spence and Lake Thomas. The three lakes are projected to fulfill this areas water needs through the year 2030.

Tapes hot item for city

With more and more families either owning or renting video cassette recorders, "going to the movies" at home is a new American pastime.

Movie buffs in Snyder have at least four business choices for rentals, and a recent check at these establishments indicates locals are in step with the rest of the nation — movie and VCR rentals is big business and getting bigger all the time.

Showcase Video, located in the Snyder Shopping Center, and Video City, 2608 College Ave., have been in business here for some time. The former opened its door a year ago this month and the latter has been in operation since August of 1983.

The two newest video rental locations are additions to existing businesses. Piggly Wiggly added the rental service at the end of last year and Perry's entered the video rental market the first week in February.

All four rent video recorders and movies. Only Video City also rents video disc players and discs.

Moore exhibit

Paintings by Ned Moore will be shown in an exhibit opening Sunday in the Fine Arts Gallery at Western Texas College. A reception marking the opening of the show is scheduled from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon and the public is invited to attend.

Moore is a graduate of McMurry College and the University of Northern Colorado. He currently teaches art and crafts at Snyder High School.

Brisk sales

Chamber officials Saturday morning noted that the first day of banquet ticket sales exceeded 200 tickets sold.

Anxiety sale

The National Anxiety 4th Hereford Breeders will be presenting their 36th Annual Show and Sale in the Scurry County Coliseum Ag Annex Monday.

The show is set to begin at 9 a.m. with the sale scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m.

A total of 45 animals — 19 bulls and 26 females — will be offered for sale during the day-long event.

WTC meeting

Western Texas College trustees will meet at 8 a.m. Monday to consider bids for the energy project.

Meetings due

Both the Snyder city council and the school board will conduct March meetings this week, although both have been moved from regular meeting dates.

Both council members and school trustees will meet Thursday.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Friday, 75 degrees; low, 43 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 45 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1985 to date, 1.22 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Saturday night: partly cloudy early Saturday night increasing cloudiness by morning. Lows near 50. Wind south 10 to 15 mph. Sunday: mostly cloudy and breezy with highs lower 80s. Wind south 10 to 15 mph, becoming southwest 15 to 25 mph and gusty by late morning. Lake wind advisories will be required.

6th grade choirs go 'GIGO'

As part of the observance of Public Schools Week locally, the annual sixth grade choir concert is scheduled next Thursday. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School.

Performing will be the sixth grade choirs from each Snyder elementary campus. They will present a musical entitled "The GIGO Effect (A Computer Adventure)".

The play's plot revolves around a computer center during the year 2000. The center is attacked by glitches, prompting numerous problems which must be resolved for the welfare of all.

Open house slated Monday

The 34th observance of Texas Public Schools Week will produce local school activities Monday through Friday, beginning Monday night with open house at each of Snyder's six elementary schools.

The open house observance will begin at 7 p.m. with varying activities planned at each campus.

In addition, the week will feature two other traditional events in Snyder, the Scurry County spelling bee Wednesday and the combined concert of sixth grade choirs Thursday (see related stories). This year's choir offering is entitled "The GIGO Effect (A Computer Adventure)."

Central Elementary

A preview of the musical "The GIGO Effect (A Computer Adventure)" will be offered first. Parents will then be invited to tour classrooms to view student work and to visit with classroom teachers.

East Elementary

A meeting of the East PTA will open the activities. Student art work has been displayed in the school halls and ribbons will be awarded for winning art work during the PTA meeting. Parents will then view all the art projects and visit in individual classrooms.

Stanfield Elementary

The third annual book fair at Stanfield will begin Monday and continue through the week. A variety of books provided by the Texas Book Fair Company will be displayed and sold. These books will be on display through Thursday. Parents are also encouraged to visit with teachers.

North Elementary

Students from the second and third grades will present a medley of patriotic songs entitled "A

Local bee features 22 spellers

The 10th annual Scurry County Spelling Bee will be Wednesday in the Fine Arts Theatre at Western Texas College, beginning at 9 a.m.

Competitors will include the two top spellers from each of Snyder's six elementary campuses, Snyder Junior High School and the junior high and elementary winners from both Ira and Hermleigh.

Judges for the event will be Ben Brock, vice-president of WTC; Ed Barkowsky, chairman of the division of communications and letters at WTC; Donna Fowler, KSNY radio personality; and Janice Mitchell, Scurry

Suspect out as plea heard

A 35-year-old north Snyder man — who had been held since his arrest on a charge of aggravated sexual assault on Feb. 5 — was released from the Scurry County Jail Friday afternoon after entering a guilty plea to that charge.

Kenneth Wayne Roberts of Rt. 3, Snyder waived his right to indictment by grand jury Friday and pleaded guilty to the information filed in the case by police.

In exchange for the plea, prosecutor Ernie Armstrong agreed to a request from his attorney asking that he be given a probated prison sentence.

He now faces a 10-year term under the supervision of the Scurry County probation office.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some age like vintage wine, others just get loose in the cork."

Tom Burton of Snyder Electronics says his most embarrassing moment happened some 40 odd years ago while he was still in high school.

"I was on the football team, and most of my time was was on the bench as a substitute. Back then, a team usually consisted of 11 players and three or four subs. The team members also had to go out before the game and lime the strips on the field.

"We, as here in Snyder, had a major rival team. My embarrassing moment happened during the big game of the year.

"About the middle of the third quarter, we were taking a pretty good whipping. I was sitting on the bench when someone called my name. Thinking that I was finally going to get to play, I jumped up and started running up and down the sidelines, doing deep knee bends and all.

"Suddenly two guys took me by each arm and led me out to the middle of the field where they, in front of the biggest crowd of the season, took my pants off and put them on our star player who had split his.

"They wrapped a blanket around me and led me off the field, back to the bench. To make matters worse, as we were coming off the field, there rose a mighty cheer from the student section– 'Ray-Raw for Burton.'

"I have not sent this in before now because even after 40 years, it's still very embarrassing."

Cheryl Winkles of Snyder said her most embarrassing moment came when she was a freshman at Angelo State.

"Things being a little slow around the dorm one night, my friends though it would be fun to hold me down and use my abdomen for their art work and graffiti.

"Needless to say, some remarks were a little off color. But all is well, just having fun, it will wash off. I soon discovered that not even cleanser would remove permanent marker from flesh.

"But again, who would ever know but the girls, no harm done. Until yours truly was taken in for an emergency appendectomy. A few doctors and nurses had a chuckle or two over my amusing abdomen."

Load limits for park due

Scurry County commissioners Monday will address damage being caused by heavy truck and machinery traffic in Towle Park.

The regular weekly meeting will begin at 10 a.m. at the courthose.

City officials requested help with the problem Feb. 18. At that time, Hassie Sneed, Pct. 2 commissioner, suggested the court consider establishing load limitations. These limitations are posted for Monday's agenda.

Members will also hear a request by Larry Thompson, juvenile probation officer, to hire a secretary for his department.

County Auditor Bernard Bartels is also scheduled to ask for an increase in the child welfare petty cash fund.

Extra food headed for African people

AUSTIN (AP) — A $35 donation can send 10 bushels of stored Texas grain to Africa, where it could feed 100 hungry children for a week, says state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower.

"This will be Texas food going directly to starving families in Africa," Hightower said at a Friday news conference. "The agricultural bounty produced by Texas farmers and ranchers, and the warm generosity of the people of Texas, have the opportunity to unite for one of the most humane and worthwhile causes imaginable."

Hightower said "every penny" of the donated money would be used to buy surplus food now in storage. All administrative costs will be met by the Save the Children organization.

Project Tejas, as the program is known, is perfect for Texans who ask, "How do I know the money I give is going to wind up as food in the mouths of hungry Africans?" according to Hightower.

Nine WTC students earn nursing degree

Nine students were graduated from the Vocational Nursing program at Western Texas College in ceremonies held Friday night in Trinity United Methodist Church.

Ten other students received caps, marking their progress in the year-long course of study.

Mamie Eubank, a registered nurse on the staff at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, was guest speaker for the program. Guests were welcomed by Bettie McQueen, director of occupational education. Music for the evening was provided by Darrell Collins, vocalist, and Cherry Stewart, pianist.

Certificates for the graduates were presented by Dr. Harry Krenek, dean of instruction at WTC. Their pins were presented by Winnie Poyner and Diane Beard, instructors in the nursing program.

Caps for the students were gifts of the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and were presented by Miss Poyner and Mrs. Beard.

The invocation and benediction were given by Dr. Jim Tully, financial aid director at WTC.

The students and their families were honored at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church following the program.

Students graduating were Mickie Escobar, Mary Huckabee, Velda Scaff, Lethia Sparks and Martha Treat of Snyder; Deanna Fuqua and Kathleen Gilstrap of Colorado City; Jaye McVay of Post and Jackie Long of Girard.

Receiving caps were Becky Elam, Bunny Roe and Delia Tavarez of Snyder; Kim Anderson, Christine Castillo, Lupe Contreras, Deana Parham and Barnara Richmond of Colorado City; Faye Reeves of Hamlin and Liz Stoneman and Johnnie Howell of Spur.

Satellite problems nix next shuttle mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Problems with secret encoding devices on two tracking satellites — one in space, the other in Challenger's cargo bay — have prompted the cancellation of next week's shuttle flight with Sen. Jake Garn as a passenger.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Friday that instead of flying Challenger on Thursday as planned, it will roll the ship off the launch pad and return it to an assembly building. The next flight will be assigned to sister ship Discovery, which had been set to blast off March 22, and will combine features and payloads of both missions.

"Obviously, I'm very disappointed that the flight has been canceled," said Garn, R-Utah. "However, under the circumstances, it was the only responsible decision that NASA could make.

"We are dealing with a nearly $100 million satellite and it would have been totally irresponsible on NASA's part to put a satellite of that expense into orbit without being certain it would operate properly."

NASA said it won't select a launch date or a crew for the combined mission until next week. But officials indicated the new date probably would be in late March or early April and if precedent is followed Garn will make the flight.

Patrick Baudry, the first French astronaut assigned to fly on an American ship, also was to have been one of the seven crew members for next week's flight. Garn, chairman of an appropriations committee that oversees NASA funding, was to have flown as a congressional observer.

Surviving relatives sue accused party

HOUSTON (AP) — An uncle and three sisters of a woman accused of hiring a man to kill her parents to get their estate are suing to recover property and cash she received following the 1982 slayings.

Houston lawyer J.W.O. Campbell and Betty Ann Hinds, Michelle Campbell and Jamie Campbell, all of Austin, are seeking damages from Cynthia Campbell Ray.

Police say Ms. Ray hired David Duval West to kill James H. Campbell and his wife, Virginia. The couple were found shot to death in their bedroom June 19, 1982.

Ray remained jailed Friday, charged with capital murder in her mother's death. West, who has pleaded innocent, is charged with two counts of capital murder. Both are being held without bond.

The lawsuit seeks to recover $58,500 it says Ray received from the estate, in addition to a Montrose-area apartment building she inherited.

Doctors hoping to learn from patient

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Doctors said they haven't lost faith in simultaneous heart and liver transplant operations, despite the loss of a 17-year-old Texas girl who died on the operating table while receiving a second set of donor organs.

Mary Cheatham of Fort Worth, Texas, became the third person in the world to undergo a heart-liver transplant operation when she received the organs from an Ohio man in an 18-hour operation that ended Tuesday.

The transplanted heart and liver proved too large for her body and were damaged by the crowding, and surgeons decided to replace them when more suitable organs became available Thursday afternoon.

Miss Cheatham died at 3:36 a.m. Friday, about six hours after surgeons began to insert the second set of organs. Her new heart had failed to function properly, according to Dr. John Armitage, chief cardiac resident at Presbyterian-University of Pittsburgh Hospital.

"I think we need to look and see what we've learned and collectively apply it to other patients. We'll take each patient as individuals and see if we can help them," Armitage said.

"One may say this is all too experimental, but so were kidney transplants in the 1960s and now they are considered routine," agreed Dr. Goran Klintmalm, a liver surgeon.

Armitage said doctors are puzzled by the second heart's failure to function.

"When we do just a heart transplant it's very unusual to have a heart that won't work well, and when that happens it's usually because of acute rejection," he said.

Armitage said rejection didn't appear to be a problem.

"Everything went really well" until doctors tried to take Miss Cheatham off the heart-lung bypass machine after both the new heart and liver had been implanted, he said.

Selection process criticized

AUSTIN (AP) — The federal government compiled a "shamefully thin" analysis of the impact that a nuclear waste dump could have on Deaf Smith County agriculture, Gov. Mark White says.

The report, White told U.S. Department of Energy officials Friday, is "inaccurate to the point of incompetence."

"The methodology that was invented by DOE for ranking the sites is nothing but a perversion of some existing techniques, carefully twisted to account for significant lacking data and designed to permit subjective judgments to rule," the governor said.

As usual, state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower talked in plainer terms. He told an energy department hearing that federal officials seemed reluctant to do ground work in Deaf Smith County.

"One trip to Deaf Smith County would have corrected their mistake, but apparently your analysts didn't want to get manure on their Guccis or any tarnish on their preconceptions," he said.

The Panhandle site near Hereford and locations in Nevada and Washington state are the three finalists for the national nuclear waste dump. The energy department's hearing here Friday came after similar sessions in Hereford and Tulia earlier this week.

White said the selection process has included "unfair, high-handed disregard for the legitimate rights of the affected Texans."

Citrus industry is 'to get better'

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — Rio Grande Valley citrus growers lost almost half of their acreage during a 1983 freeze but say they expect to have most of it back in three years.

The Texas Citrus Tree Survey, conducted by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service and released Friday, indicated that 30,600 acres are left for production, compared to 69,192 before the December 1983 freeze.

That freeze caused an estimated $100 million damage to the industry and left about 9,000 people without jobs.

But industry officials said they are optimistic about the next few months.

"We're looking at fruit this year," said Ray Prewett, executive vice president of Texas Citrus Mutual. "Assuming we don't have adverse weather between now and the first of October we will have fruit again in the fall of 1985."

The latest survey includes grapefruit acreage, 19,100; oranges, 11,380; and other citrus — lemons, limes, tangelos and tangerines — 110.

Industry officials said in three years the expected acreage would be 58,000 acres.

Prewett reminded about 20 citrus growers that positive things have occurred from previous freezes in 1951 and 1962 and that the same is true for 1983.

He said there is interest in planting redder varieties of grapefruit, such as Henderson Ruby and Ray Ruby, which are redder than the Ruby Red variety.

Officials said there was an oversupply of citrus going into the freeze and that some growers were losing money.

Dear Abby

Dad and Daughter Argue About What 'Good' Girls Should Do

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My father and I have a difference of opinion on a moral matter. He still believes "good" girls save their virginity for their husbands. He says he never would have married my mother if she had not been a virgin. (I guess he took her word for it.)

Of course, my father sees nothing wrong with young men getting some sexual experience before they marry. I wonder who he thinks these young men are getting their experience with?

I am a sophomore in college, and I believe a woman is entitled to as much sexual freedom as a man. I can't understand how a grown man living in today's society can still believe in the outdated "I don't want used goods" theory.

How can I set my father straight? No amount of arguing on my part has worked.

STILL INTACT IN MARYLAND

DEAR STILL: Your father is entitled to his male-chauvinist, double-standard moral code, just as you are entitled to your contemporary, liberal views, so quit arguing. A man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I was dating a wonderful man and I thought we had the start of a meaningful relationship. Then I just stopped hearing from him. I called him at home a few times, but he was never home, and when I called him at work, he was never available. I left my name, but he never returned my calls. I thought maybe he needed time to think, so I stopped calling him for a few days.

Two weeks later I saw him in a restaurant with another woman, and he acted as though he had never seen me before. The worst part is that he never gave me an explanation as to what made him decide to end what we had started.

Abby, I am writing to you because I want all men (and women) to realize that they shouldn't end a relationship without some kind of explanation. The other person deserves at least that much.

IN THE DARK

DEAR IN: Some "explanations" are very painful to deliver—and some are equally painful to receive. But "not knowing" can be both frustrating and devastating.

Would you have settled for a kind lie rather than a cruel truth? Obviously Mr. Wonderful found somebody else.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why "Seeing Red" was angry because her husband and his two sisters had a portrait made for their parents and excluded their spouses and children.

I can just imagine a picture with the three couples and all their children. It would be about as meaningful as a photograph of Grand Central Station.

What if one of them gets a divorce? Then the parents would have to explain what happened to the person in the picture who is no longer a member of the family.

I'm sure my mother-in-law loves me, but she can't possibly feel the same toward me as she does toward her two daughters and her only son, who married me. She has often complimented me for insisting that my husband stop by and see her—or take her to lunch, just the two of them—without me.

She says so many of her friends have "lost" their sons because after they're married, they never, never see them alone again.

LYNNE IN LITTLETON, COLO.

DEAR LYNNE: Other daughters-in-law could learn from you. Thanks for writing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for "Hurt Grandma" whose grandchildren neglect to write thank-you notes when she sends them generous checks for special occasions.

On a grandchild's special occasion, send a generous check to St. Jude's Children's Hospital for Cancer Research in Memphis in that person's honor. You will receive a lovely, heartwarming thank-you from the grateful people at St. Jude's. And so will the honoree.

R.G.

DEAR R.G.: I know you're right. I just received one.

CURE criticizes White appointment

AUSTIN (AP) — Charles Sullivan, head of a prison reform group, said Friday he thinks Gov. Mark White did not re-appoint Harry Whittington to the Texas Department of Corrections because the Austin attorney was opposed to private operation of prisons.

"Mr. Whittington was personally aware of the difficulty in accountability and monitoring of privately operated institutions," Sullivan, executive director of Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errante (CURE), told a news conference.

Sullivan predicted the issue of private corporations operating state prisons would be brought before the current Legislature.

Mattox said pleased with man's cross examination

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox says he believes the cross examination of a key prosecution witness demonstrates the way a Houston lawyer behaved in the dispute that led to his commercial bribery indictment.

"It clearly pointed out the kind of philosophy I was having to operate against," Mattox said after his trial wound up its third week Friday.

During day-long cross examination of Fulbright & Jaworski lawyer Thomas McDade of Houston, Mattox's defense attorney told the judge he didn't believe all McDade's testimony.

"I am confident he was lying to the grand jury. I am confident he is lying to this jury," Roy Q. Minton told District Judge Mace Thurman. "He is willing to lie to this jury or any jury whenever the mood fits him."

McDade vigorously denied Minton's charge.

Mattox is accused of telling another Fulbright & Jaworski lawyer, Wiley Caldwell, that he would withhold his needed approval of public bonds handled by the firm unless McDade stopped trying to question his sister, Janice Mattox, in a South Texas oil lease case.

Minton's accusation came as he cross examined McDade, who first appeared on the witness stand Feb. 22.

At that time, McDade testified about the oil lease case, in which he represented Mobil Oil Corp. in a lawsuit brought by wealthy rancher Clinton Manges and the state.

In a combative series of exchanges, Minton questioned McDade in detail about McDade's actions in that case, which included a bid to have Judge Ruben Garcia of Laredo disqualified from hearing Manges' lawsuit.

Bush ends Texas visit in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush wrapped up his third day of speeches in Texas by saying the United State thrives on "team play and partnership."

"Our free enterprise system encourages us all to learn the art of cooperation. The system makes us kinder, makes us a community, turns us into team players," Bush told about 1,200 youths and their families and sponsors at a Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo banquet Friday night.

The vice president and his wife, Barbara, appeared briefly at the rodeo and were scheduled to return to Washington this afternoon.

West fifth graders raise Statue of Liberty funds

Mrs. Denise Hinton's fifth graders at West Elementary have been working all year to learn about and raise money for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty.

They publish a class newspaper about every six weeks featuring the Statue of Liberty. In November they presented a school play on the story of the Statue of Liberty.

In February, their first fund raising effort raised $50 with a guessing contest. Eight-hundred-and forty-four candy hearts were placed in a jar.

Additional fund raising activities include holding a bake sale Monday night during open house, collecting Kellog's box tops during March, and in April a class jog-a-thon will be held. All proceeds will go toward the restoration of the Statue of Liberty.

Border cities use event to promote friendship

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Residents of this border city and across the river in Matamoros, Mexico, are staging a four-day celebration aimed at promoting friendship — even though the disappearance of a U.S. narcotics agent has strained relations.

For the 48th year, the two cities are celebrating "Charro Days," a four-day event capped by a parade across the international bridge Saturday afternoon.

"Matamoros is cooperating 100 percent with us in the fiesta," said Laverne Hinojosa, manager of Charro Days Association. "Everything has just been fine. We've had several meetings with Matamoros officials and everything's great."

Recently, Brownsville and Matamoros merchants were discouraged because U.S. attempts to find a missing Drug Enforcement Administration agent hampered business on both sides of the border.

U.S. Customs agents were instructed to search thoroughly every car making its way from Mexico into the United States. Businessmen said those searches, which lasted about two weeks, hurt business drastically because many people did not want to wait in line for up to four hours.

The searches subsided, after Mexican officials criticized U.S. actions and after the arrest of five Mexican men, including three former federal agents, in connection with the kidnapping of narcotics agent Enrique Camarena Salazar.

Salazar was last seen Feb. 7.

Prison escapee builds, loses new life

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — He sent flowers to the woman he planned to marry and befriended the customers at the fitness center where he worked.

But the life Steve Grant built in Texas came apart this week. Law enforcement officials tracked down Grant — actually Ronald Stephen Bridgeforth — in Arlington a year after he escaped from an Oregon prison camp.

"He'd been down here long enough he probably thought he was free and clear," said Mike Sheehan, an Arlington police detective.

Friends and associates of the 36-year-old man said they didn't pry into his past and were surprised by his arrest.

"The man did his job," said Jack Ford, director of the Courtside Fitness Center where Grant worked. His fiance, center employees said, was visibly shaken after learning of Grant's true identity.

"I told her to try and get away for a while," Ford told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Bridgeforth is on his way back to Oregon. He was arrested Wednesday at his Arlington apartment authorities tracked him through an unpaid traffic ticket. He remained in Tarrant County Jail Friday awaiting extradition to Oregon.

He escaped almost a year ago from a coastal prison camp, where he was serving a five-year prison sentence for illegally carrying a weapon. In 1980, Bridgeforth was paroled after serving five years in the Utah State Prison in Salt Lake City for aggravated robbery.

But his past was not a part of his life in Texas. Fitness center workers said he sometimes mentioned a childhood in Utah where he was reared in a strict Mormon family.

He said little else.

"When we hire someone, we don't go into a background search," said Darla Cathy, the center's assistant manager. "If they do a good job, that's all we want. And he was one of our best employees.

"Everybody enjoyed Steve," she said. "He was good to work with. Everyone enjoyed being around him. He was very friendly, a real good personality."

Grant excelled at attracting new clients to the center and advanced to a managerial position four months after taking the job, Ford said. He never complained, and worked hard.

He was often entrusted with large amounts of cash, Ford said, and the trust was never betrayed.

Meanwhile, Oregon authorities were searching for the escapee and enlisted the Texas Department of Public Safety to help when they heard he might be in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. They also thought he might be working in a health club — as he had in Oregon.

Local police had a name, physical description and a photograph, detective Sheehan said. But an unpaid 1984 traffic ticket was Bridgeforth's eventual undoing. When it turned up in Arlington police records, it showed Bridgeforth might be in town.

Tourney to open here Tuesday

Cushing's Dusters boast a 29-5 record and go against defending Women's Region 5 Tournament champion McLennan Community College Tuesday at 9 p.m.

The tournament opener for the women is at 1 p.m. Tuesday, when the top-ranked and undefeated Odessa Wranglers take on a Ranger-Cooke County playoff representative.

At 3 p.m. Tuesday, Clarendon and Grayson take the court. Cisco, the top team from the Northern Conference, meets Amarillo at 7 p.m.

The winners survive for Wednesday's 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. semi-finals, setting the stage for the championship game Thursday night.

In a five-game show on Thursday, men's games will be held at noon, 2, 5 and 9 p.m., games played around the women's championship. Men's semi-finals are set for Friday, with the championship game to be Saturday.

Men's teams already entered are Midland, Odessa, McLennan, Grayson and Texas State Technical Institute. The other three spots were to be being determined Saturday.

Tickets are per session (divided into afternoon or night games) and are $5 for adults and $2.50 for students. Tournament passes — good for all 14 games of both tournaments — are $25 for adults and $12.50 for students.

Western music on center agenda

Western music by the Hoss Clayton band will entertain senior citizens in the senior center dining room in a program starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday. All local residents 60 years of age and older are invited to hear the program and to stay for the noon meal.

Golden K Kiwanis members are reminded that their weekly meeting is set for noon Tuesday. The club will be completing plans for a fish fry being planned March 17 in the Western Texas College cafeteria. Tickets will be $5 each and can be purchased from club members at the door.

On Thursday, Jim Stirling will be reading selected poems in the senior center dining room. His program starts at 11:30 a.m.

Changes in Medicare will be discussed by Cy Miller, Cogdell Memorial Hospital administrator, in a program at 11:30 a.m. Friday.

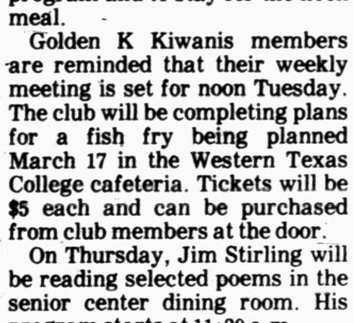

With St. Patrick's Day just around the corner, the center is making plans for a special program on March 15. Senior citizens attending are promised some surprises on that day, and a program by the Kitchen Band is also scheduled.

A complete schedule of senior center activities for March can be obtained from the office. The building, located at 2603 Avenue M, is open each weekday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and visitors are welcome throughout the day.

Stab guard

ROSHARON, Texas (AP) — A state prison guard was stabbed today by an inmate at the Ramsey I Unit, a prison spokesman said.

Kenneth Garza, 21, received two stab wounds to the abdomen and back about 5:15 a.m. in the main hallway of the medium-security unit, said Charles Brown, spokesman for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Three wrecks here Friday

Three minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Friday.

Involved in the day's first accident in the 2600 Block of College Ave. at 11:42 a.m. were a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Judy Fay Davis of Rt. 3, Snyder and a 1985 Honda driven by Charlene Davis of 4021 Eastridge.

Friday's second accident was logged in the 1800 Block of 25th St. at 2:33 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1982 Buick driven by Lida Rhoades of Rt. 2, Snyder which struck a parked 1985 Chevrolet owned by Mike Martin of Rotan.

The day's final mishap was reported on the parking lot of the L&L Gas Station on College Ave. at 5:14 p.m.

According to reports, a 1973 Ford truck driven by Jim Ingram of Breckenridge struck a sign belonging to the gas station.

No injuries were reported from any of the three mishaps.

Mary Fowler, 3000 37th, is the February winner of a free year's subscription to the Snyder Daily News. Each month a drawing is held from the names of those who either subscribe or renew for six months or more.

Obituaries

N. V. Hamrick

TYE--Services for N. V. Hamrick, 70, of Tye will be at 4 p.m. Sunday at Tye Baptist Church. Burial will be at Tye Cemetery under the direction of Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home.

He died Friday morning at Humana Hospital in Abilene. He was the brother of Ena B. Carroll of Snyder.

He was born Oct. 20, 1914 in Hainesville. He married L. V. Hill Feb. 20, 1938 in Granbury. She survives.

He is also survived by three daughters, three sons, his mother, four other sisters, three brothers, nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Defensive driving course is planned

Western Texas College will offer a continuing education course in defensive driving on the nights of March 5 and 7.

Classes will meet from 6-10 p.m. each night and students must attend both sessions to qualify for certificates of completion.

Registration will held at 5:45 p.m. on March 5 and the fee is $22 per person to be paid at that time. Students are to pre-register by calling the continuing education office at 573-8511, est. 240.

Assault charge in disturbance

A 17-year-old Snyder man was jailed by police shortly before 9 p.m. Friday on two counts of misdemeanor assault and one count of misdemeanor criminal trespass following a disturbance at a north Snyder residence.

Police were called to the scene of the disturbance — in the 2100 Block of Merrill Ave. — at 8:47 p.m. by a woman who told officers that the man had entered her residence and physically threatened both her and her daughter.

The suspect was arrested a short time later at another residence in the area.

In other action, police jailed three subjects for public intoxication Friday evening including one juvenile and one man also charged with misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Records nice, says Cushing but Dusters going for crown

When Western Texas' Dusters saddle up for Tuesday's first round game in the Women's Region V Tournament here they will be going for an unprecedented 30th victory.

Going into the game with a 29-5 record, the Dusters have already surpassed the WTC women's record of 28 wins, which they set just a year ago. The team has an opportunity to do what only one other Duster team has done previously - reach the finals of the tournament - and to do what no other Duster team has done - win at the finals.

"Records are something you like to think about but not talk about. You don't want to jinx yourself," Coach Cushing grinned. "But I am very, very proud of this team and what they've accomplished. Our players, especially the sophomores who have been here two years now have matured so much, not only in basketball but in their philosophy. That means much more to me than the regional tournament. They are sincere, they are dedicated and they believe in themselves and there is no way I'd ever be disappointed in this particular team no matter what happens at the tournament. But I would like to say we're going into the tournament to win it. We're not going in with the idea of being second place to Odessa or anything like that. We're going in to win," he said.

To get to the finals, Western first has to defeat McLennan Community College in Tuesday's 9 p.m. game. That would pit them in Wednesday's semi-finals.

"I think we're ready. I think we're playing well and I feel like the kids are ready to play. I would have liked to have played a game (last) Thursday but the time off has given us the opportunity to rest up," said Cushing.

"We played McLennan early in the year and from everything I've heard, they are very much improved. They beat Tyler two weeks ago," he said, speaking of the No. 11 ranked Apache Belles. "They play a good half-court defense. They don't have outstanding size but they are quick overall."

Western planted a 69-34 loss on MCC back in December, but Coach Cushing said the lopsided win will not affect the Dusters' preparation for Tuesday night's game.

"It's a situation where you've got to respect them for where they are - in the Regional Tournament. They wouldn't be here if they weren't a good team. And when you get into the Regional Tournament you better be ready to play, no matter who your opponent is," he said.

ASU wins

ABILENE, Texas (AP) - Tony Mathews scored 16 points to lead Angelo State to an 88-74 victory over Texas A&I in the semifinal game of the Lone Star Conference post-season basketball tournament Friday night.

The win sends the Rams into the finals Saturday night against league champion Abilene Christian.

Angelo State improved its season record to 19-14 as five players scored in double figures - including 14 points from Dicky Winter, 13 from Don Johnson and 10 each from Kenny Smith and Glen Noesen.

Girls dribbler tryouts signups are scheduled

Registration for Scurry County Girls Little Dribblers continues Monday at the Boy's Club.

Girls ages 9-14 as of Sept. 1985 may register Monday from 4 until 6.

Girls must bring a birth certificate, a $10 registration fee, and must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Tryouts have also been scheduled for those girls who have not participated in the program before or who are moving up into another division. Tryouts are necessary only to place girls so that teams will be more competitive. All girls joining the program will play.

Tryouts for 9-10 year-olds will be March 4 from 6-7:30. Tryouts for those 11-14 will be March 5 from 6-7:30 at the Boy's Club.

In WJCAC playoff tonight...

Westerners host Hawks at 7

Western Texas and Howard College battle Saturday night for a chance to advance in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference post-season tournament.

The winner will go on. The loser will go home.

Coming up through the playoffs into the Region V Tournament is nothing new to the Westerners. They did it a year ago and went on to finish fourth in the NJCAA National Tournament. Ironically, it was Howard College that the Westerners defeated in the Region V championship game.

The winners of Saturday's contest will play an Amarillo-South Plains victor Monday evening.

In other playoffs Saturday, Clarendon is at New Mexico Military Institute and Frank Phillips is at New Mexico Junior College. The winners of those two games will also play Monday night.

Tickets for all post-season playoffs are $2 for adults and $1 for students. No passes, student, booster or otherwise, are accepted according to WJCAC rules.

Howard College comes into the game with a 13-15 season record. The Hawks, under Coach Ed Sparling, finished the WJCAC campaign with a 7-11 record.

Western is 19-12 and looking for its 20th win under first-year coach Phil Spradling, a former Western Texas player. WTC was 9-9 through conference play.

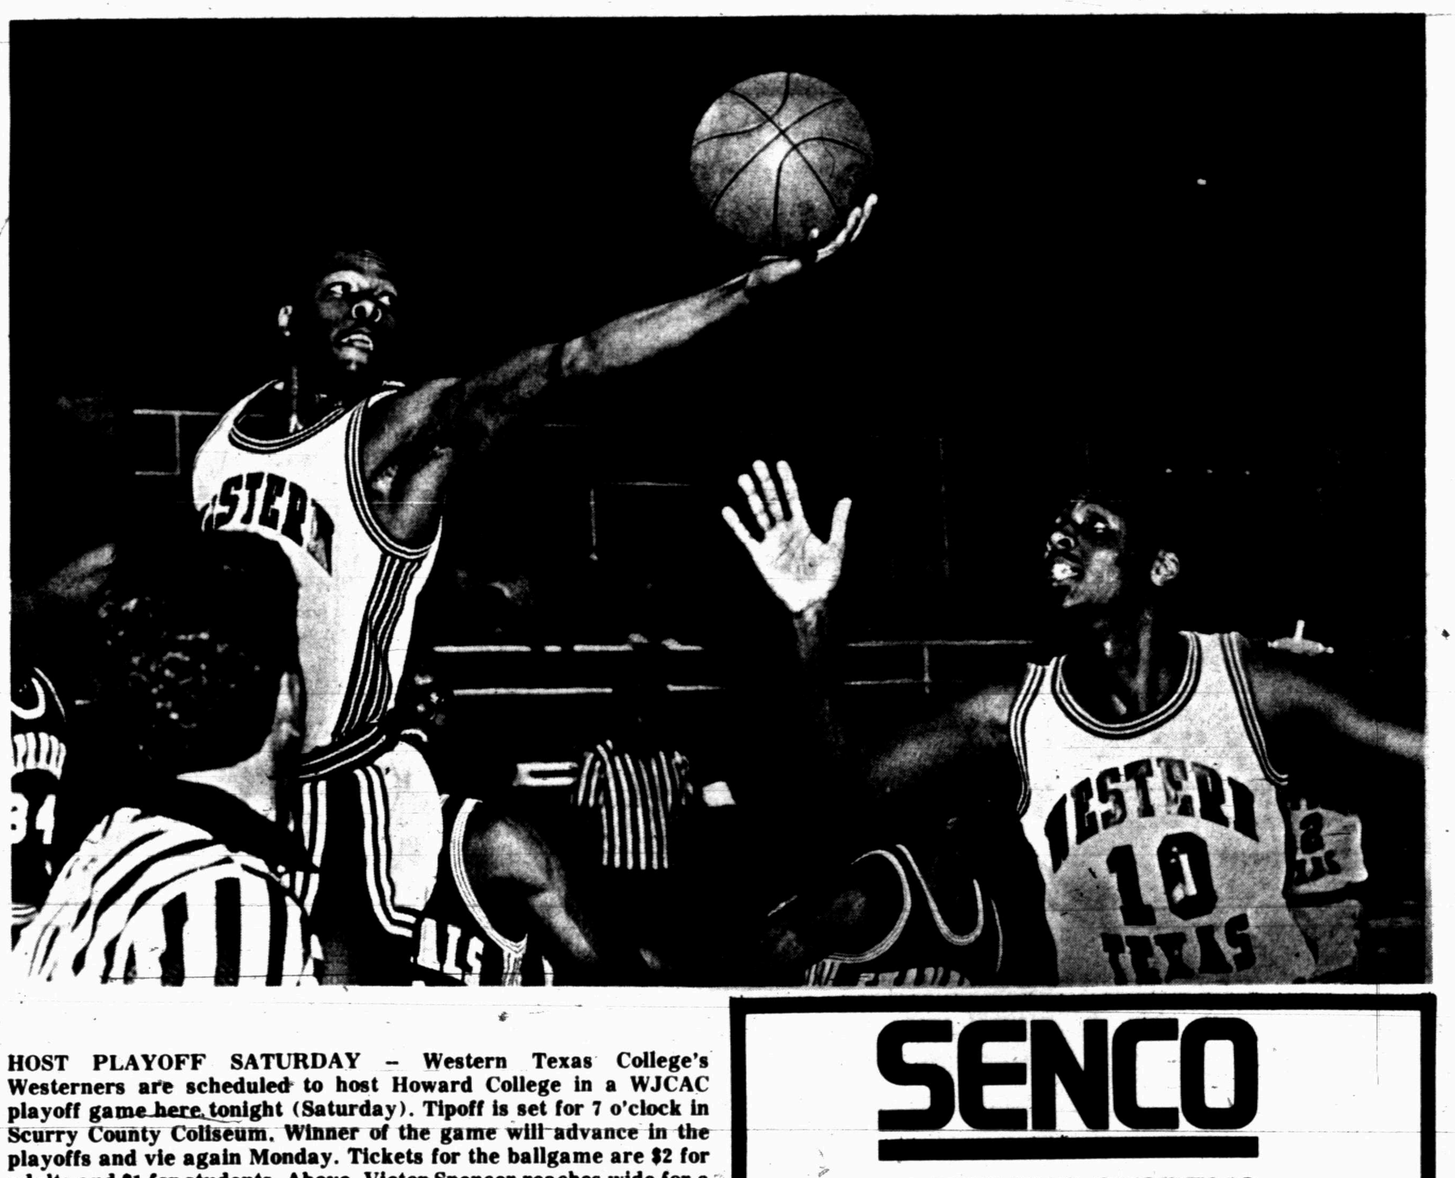

Western has defeated the Hawks twice this season, winning 101-98 at Big Spring and 105-87 here.

Howard is led by 6-3½ freshman Bruce Kimble, who averages 18.9 points a game. Mike Porter, a 6-4½ sophomore, averages 17.4. The Hawks also get fine play from Walt Reynolds, a 6-7 freshman who averages 7.7 rebounds a game, and from 6-7 Marty Jenkins.

Howard is averaging 79.8 points and allowing 77.1 while shooting .497 from the floor and .703 from the free throw line.

Western is led in scoring by two freshmen, 6-5 James Dawn and 6-3 Alvin Hicks. Dawn averages 17 points; Hicks 13.6. Sophomores Victor Spencer and Floyd Singleton average 13.2 and 12.7 respectively.

The Westerners are scoring an average of 90.5 points and allowing 82.3. They are hitting .552 from the field and .637 from the stripe.

HOST PLAYOFF SATURDAY – Western Texas College's Westerners are scheduled to host Howard College in a WJCAC playoff game here tonight (Saturday). Tipoff is set for 7 o'clock in Scurry County Coliseum. Winner of the game will advance in the playoffs and vie again Monday. Tickets for the ballgame are $2 for adults and $1 for students. Above, Victor Spencer reaches wide for a rebound as Alvin Hicks looks on. Spencer, a sophomore, and Hicks, a freshman, are two of Western's leading scorers. (SDN Staff Photo by Bill McClellan)

Snyder duo honored as all-district cagers

Carie Housden and Karlene Thompson were named to the 1984-85 Girl's 2-4A All-District Basketball Team, released today.

Housden, a 5-9 senior, and Thompson, a 5-7 junior, paced Snyder High School to a third place finish in loop action this season.

District champion Andrews had three girls named to the team while runnerup Sweetwater placed two.

Sweetwater selections were seniors Deborah McCain and Cheryl Watson.

Others named all-district were Lamesa's Kelli Gillespie, Monahans' Sheilan Adams, Fort Stockton's Delilia Gonzales and Lake View's Krista Olin; all seniors.

There was no second team or honorable mention.

Play again Saturday...

Tigers split Fredricksburg

FREDRICKSBURG -- Snyder High School baseball team was to play an as yet unknown opponent for third place in the Fredricksburg Tournament here Saturday.

The Tigers defeated Boerne 7-6 Friday morning but fell to Kerrville Tivey 4-2 in a rain-delayed second game.

The most encouraging news to come out of the tournament for Snyder is that both Jimmy Cain and Charles Bollinger had impressive pitching debuts. Cain, hobbled with a sprained ankle, was doubtful to start here, while Bollinger, suffering from a sore shoulder, was not expected to be on the mound at all.

"They both did a real good job," said Snyder Coach Albert Lewis. "Things are looking a lot brighter than they were the last time we talked (earlier in the week)."

Snyder, now 1-2 for the season, will host Big Spring on Tuesday, March 5 at 6 p.m. and Midland on March 6 at 5 p.m.

Snyder 7, Boerne 6

Snyder got seven runs on seven hits to edge Boerne in the tourney opener. Kenneth Pickering started on the mound for Snyder but lasted only two-thirds of an inning. The big sophomore gave up four runs on four hits and walked two batters.

Cain, aided by a brace, came on to face a bases loaded situation but managed to get the third out. The senior then pitched the next six innings. He gave up one hit and struck out eight batters.

Cain's lack of mobility did get him into trouble in the bottom of the seventh, however. Boerne hit two dribblers near the mound and Cain had trouble reaching the ball both times. On the second occassion, he threw the ball away into left field and Boerne scored two runs.

The runs allowed Boerne to pull within a point, 7-6 at the time. Cain fanned the final two batters to end the game, however.

Snyder had earned an early lead in the game when Steve Parker cracked a two-run single in the top of the first inning. Jay Mayo tied the game in the fourth with a home run to left centerfield.

Snyder went back in front in the top of the seventh when Chris Fryar singled in Bollinger, who had doubled aboard. Willie Greathouse then tripled to push in pinch-runner Michael Carter. Greathouse later scored on a wild pitch.

Cain gave up two hits, two walks and struck out 10 batters over the entire six and one-third innings.

Tivy 4, Snyder 2

Snyder gave up only five hits in the nightcap, but four were home run shots.

The game was moved to what Coach Lewis called "a chicken park" because rain delays forced the teams to play under the lights. Fredricksburg's regular field has no lights.

Snyder started off with a one-run lead as Webb singled, stole second base and ran home on a hit by Bollinger.

Osborn held tough until the bottom of the third, when Hoden again took a pitch out of the park. One out later, Charles Mason followed suit.

Bollinger put Snyder within a run, 3-2, when he cracked a home run in the top of the fourth.

The senior right-hander came on in relief of Osborn in the bottom of the fourth and was greeted with a lead-off home run. He settled down quickly, however, and didn't allow another hit the rest of the way.

For the game, Osborn gave up four hits, issued no walks and struck out five. Bollinger allowed one hit and fanned six batters.

Super 5A voted down, redshirting bites dust according to proposals

AUSTIN (AP) - Class 5A schools in the University Interscholastic League have rejected by a four-vote margin the creation of a "superconference" for high school football playoffs.

The UIL on Friday released results of a referendum on proposals authorized by its Legislative Council in October. Ballots were mailed to the superintendents of UIL member schools, and each had one vote.

Class 5A schools with an average daily attendance of 2,000 would have been eligible for the "superconference" with the team over 2,000 placing highest in district going into the special playoffs.

The vote total for the "superconference" was 102, and 106 voted against it.

The referendum vote is viewed as a recommendation or non-recommendation to the State Board of Education, which would have to approve proposals on the ballot.

Another recommendation would allow a potential college athletic recruit five expense-paid trips to colleges rather than three. The proposal carried 881 to 58.

Also, UIL member schools voted 835 to 123 in favor of a proposal that would result in the loss of a year's high school eligiibility if a student was redshirted in sports in the seventh or eighth grade.

Here are other results from the mail ballot:

- Authorizing weather-delayed playoff games on Sunday, 489-462.

- Baseball playoffs shall be single-game elimination unless schools agree on a series, such as two-out-of-three, 222-106, with only 4A and 5A schools voting.

- A school may be disqualified for district honors for up to two years in that sport for contracting for a game with other schools prior to the final reclassification and district realignment by the UIL, 694-256.

- Favor the present basketball alignment in Class A, 143-102, with only Class A schools voting.

- Favor retaining the 100-meter low hurdles in girls' track, with a 30-inch high hurdle, for 782, against 130.

- Students may accept free passes to athletic events during self-financed visits to colleges, 921-29.

Ira boys scheduled to begin 1985 track

IRA -- Ira boys began the 1985 track season by traveling to Loop this Saturday.

"We placed second in three different meets last year and third in another so I feel like we can win two or three meets this year," said an optimistic Coach Mitch Lee. "In meets that are between six-man (football) schools I feel like we can be a title contender in everyone of those."

Ira competes in District 6A which includes Highland, Hermleigh, Roscoe, Westbrook, Garden City, Sterling City, Forsan, Sands and Loraine. Most of the schools are larger than Ira and sport 12-man football teams.

"Forsan and Sterling City should be the powers in the district," Lee said. "I think everybody else, including us, will battle for third."

The 6A meet will be held April 19 at Forsan.

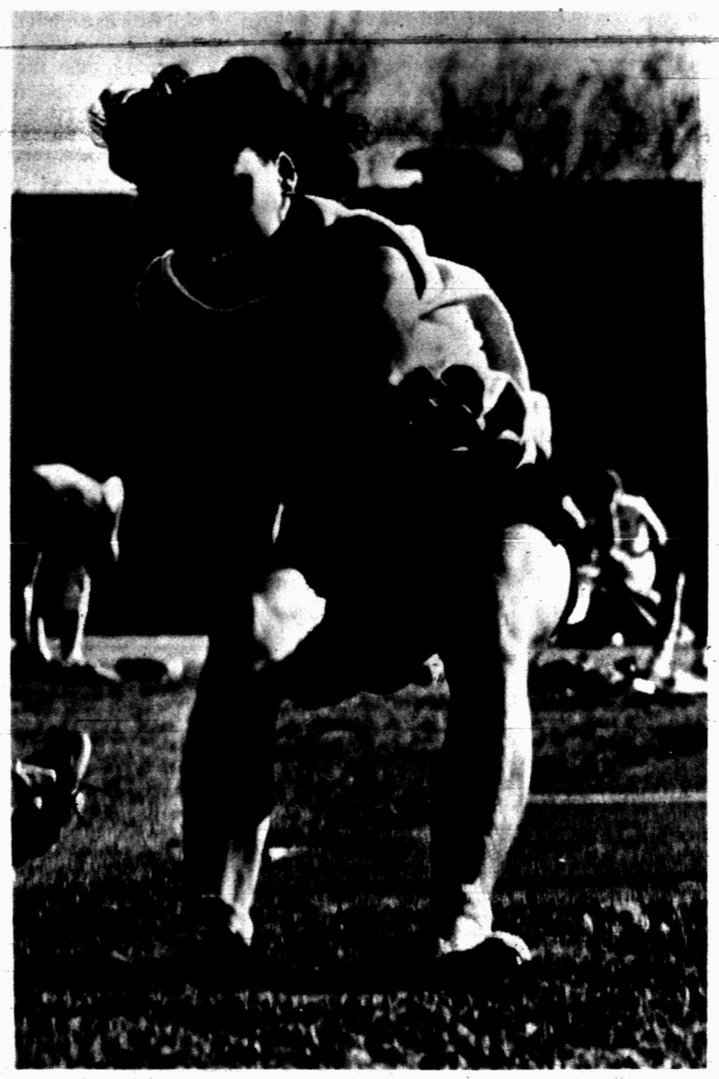

Seniors on the squad are Phil Carter, Darren Hughes, Barry Ezra, Jay Baze, Lloyd Goswick and Chris Reyna.

Juniors include Steve Denson, Jason Spradlin, Bruce Strickland, Dirk Dunn, Jay Clark and Raymond Goswick.

Thank You

TO THE host of friends who came to us with love and sympathy, to those who could not come but sent flowers or messages of condolences; we want to express our deepest appreciation, we are indeed grateful for the beautiful flowers and for the food that was served. A special thanks to all of you at Western who have done so much for me in memory of Jerry.
Brenda Moore and Stephanie Weber

Thanks

I TAKE this opportunity to express my appreciation for the many kindnesses, the flowers, memorials and every expression of sympathy shown to me during the recent loss of my brother, James E. Hopper. May God bless and keep you is my prayer.
Ruby Anderson

poses and, according to owner Sherry Thompson, it's hard to keep up with demand, especially on weekends.

Video City has 10 video recorders and video discs for rental and according to Craig Canterbury, owner, "no way does that meet the weekend demand."

Sammy Hancock, manager of Piggly Wiggly, echoes that fact as the nine recorders they have for rental does not meet the usually heavy weekend demand either.

One thing all business reps made clear, renting movies — especially on weekends and during times of school holidays and when the weather forces people indoors — is an ever growing popular passtime.

Showcase Video has more than 800 movies in stock. Video City has 300 video discs and 250 Beta and VHS tapes. Piggly Wiggly has an inventory of 160 movies. Perry's has around 475 titles with plans to expand to 700 within two months.

With the exception of Video City, the other three only stock VHS tapes. Those with Beta recorders have to seek their entertainment elsewhere.

Thompson said that "Beta is hard to get because it is being phased out." She also pointed out that at a recent video show she learned that some 20 percent of the homes in America now have video recorders and that this percentage is expected to increase to 65 percent by year's end.

Rental tastes in Snyder seem to prefer martial arts films, action movies, horror and the most current movie releases.

"Everyone wants horror films," Thompson said. "Martial arts also does real well in Snyder. Comedies usually do good business, depending on who is in them, but music videos don't rent well here, which is surprising."

According to Canterbury, martial arts films are overall the most popular at Video City.

The ones in greatest demand, however, are those just released by the motion picture industry, Hancock said. Some over zealous would-be renters even try to rent movies before they are released in cassettes. A recent example was a customer seeking "Avenging Angel," which was just released to movie theaters a few weeks ago, he said.

"A popular rental is also 'The Boys in Company C' which is an older movie," Hancock said. He said that they also rent a lot of children's movies."

"We stock movies that have been shown in the local or area theaters," he said.

After only a few weeks of operation, Craig said he has observed that Perry's "rents some from every category."

Movie renters apparently are of all ages and backgrounds and the division seems to be fairly evenly split between those that have recorders and those that don't.

Hancock said that they rent to a "lot of young adults and young marrieds." Craig said their renters for the most part appear to be around 25-30 years of age.

Canterbury said that while he rents to all ages, renters seem to be more youth oriented.

Showcase Video adds from 10-25 titles each week depending on the release dates of cassettes. Thompson's distributor sends her a monthly book of new releases from which she prebooks selections. Then once they are released they are shipped to her.

"We try to stock movies for everyone," Thompson said. "We try to keep everone happy."

Canterbury subscribes to "Absolute Word," which gives the new releases for the next month. He makes his selections from that magazine and sometimes even trades back movies and discs already in stock. He also gets the latest video information from his wholesaler.

Piggly Wiggly also keeps adding to its stock as does Perry's. At Perry's all decisions regarding video rentals are made at the home office which ships new movies to the Snyder store every week.

Showcase Video has a paid membership club with over 200 members. Specials are available to members such as the February two for one on Thursday and $1 movies on Tuesdays. Thompson said these promotions proved so popular that they will probably continue them.

Neither Video City nor Piggly Wiggly have a paid membership club, but persons must have a membership card at Piggly Wiggly to rent recorders or movies. Rentals are for 24 hours only.

Perry's also has a paid membership club.

Open house set at area schools

Hermleigh and Ira schools will host open house Monday night. Both events are in conjunction with Texas Public School Week.

Hermleigh School will have open house from 7-8 p.m.

A jump-a-thon for the Snyder chapter of the American Heart Association is planned from 6-9 p.m. at the gym also. A concession stand will be operated.

Ira will have open house from 7-9 p.m. Major emphasis will be on the curriculum and the new facilities. The public is invited.

Sixth grade choirs to sing

Costumes, sound effects and choreography will be used with more than 200 sixth grader choir students involved including 120 acting or spoken parts.

The word "GIGO" stands for "garbage in, garbage out," a term used when programing a computer.

Choir teachers for each of the six elementaries include Paula Howard, North Elementary; Dorothy Kaysar, Northeast; Monette O'Day, Stanfield; Donna Smith, East; J.D. Smith, Central; and Mary Lou Scott, West.

Guilty pleas offered here

Roberts was charged with sexually assaulting a 12-year-old girl on Jan. 13.

Also entering a guilty plea in th 132nd District Court this week was Floyd Eugene Breedlove of Snyder.

Breedlove was indicted for felony DWI by the February session of the Scurry County grand jury and was given an eight-month term in the Scurry County Jail in exchange for his plea.

Schools ready for open house

Tribute to Parents," Classroom visits will follow with student projects on display.

Northeast Elementary

A preview of "The GIGO Effect (A Computer Adventure)" is scheduled for parents at 7:30 a.m. Monday. At 1 p.m. the same day, the sixth grade choir will perform this musical offering for grades 3-5 and again Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. for grades K-2. Visits with teachers are planned Monday also.

West Elementary

A bake sale sponsored by the sixth grade class of Denise Hinton will be offered to raise funds for the renovation of the Statue of Liberty. Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria by members of the Parent Council also and classroom visits are encouraged. Friday, Melony Early's kindergarten class will perform "A Stranger in Mother Goose Land."

Although there will be no open house Monday night at either campus, Texas Public Schools Week will be observed also at the junior high and high school level.

All during the week, parents are invited to both campuses and to visit classes during instruction.

At each school cafeteria, students will find posters emphasizing the five nutritional food components necessary to a balanced diet. This is one effort of the America Food Service — which contracts to serve cafeteria food in Snyder — to prompt a healthy lifestyle.

Scurry County Folks...

By Vicki Brown

"In wintertime we had to punch the chickens out of that tree. They used to roost up there and we had to get them down so they wouldn't freeze."

Graham Smith laughs at the memories surrounding the old Mulberry tree he claims as the oldest transplanted tree in the county. A majestic landmark standing alone in the cotton field which lies in front of the Smith home, the Mulberry can be spotted by persons some 10 miles away.

The tree is located south of Snyder approximately seven miles. It sets just to the west of Round Top Road.

Graham's father Jacob Wesley Smith and his mother Betty arrived in Scurry County in 1907. "His first wife's nephews called him 'Uncle Jake.' Soon everyone around called them 'Uncle Jake and Aunt Betty,'" he recalled.

Pointing across the road, he said, "They lived over there on Deep Creek, renting the property. Dad bought this land in 1920 and moved on it in 1922."

The original house set next to the Mulberry tree nearer the road. Because storms terrified Graham's mother, the tree's base sheltered a storm cellar.

"My father wasn't afraid of storms like my mother was," Graham said. "One day a big cloud came up and my mother headed us to the cellar. As usual Dad stayed in the house.

"While standing at a window, he watched a tree pulled up roots and all. Soon he reached the cellar too, pounding on the door. But for awhile we couldn't hear him over the storm's noise. We finally heard him and let him in," he laughed.

Graham isn't certain who planted the tree or when, but guesses it was set out around 1890. "I played under it when I was a child," he said. "It seems to me it was nearly as tall then as it is now."

Graham and his wife Gladys tore the old house down in 1953 and used its lumber to build their existing home.

He believes that the original owner set the tree in the orchard that existed in the location at the time his father bought the property. "The tree was part of an orchard with many kinds of fruit trees — plum, cherry, pears and several kinds of peaches," he added.

The tree's height has never been measured. "But," Graham said, "we had a 26 ft. windmill by it at one time and the tree was taller."

Twenty feet and three inches in circumference at its base, Graham's tree can perhaps be considered the county's second largest tree.

A pecan tree located on property owned by Renal Rosson south of Snyder and just west of the Colorado City Highway measures 21 ft. in circumference.

The Mulberry tree has been enjoyed by Smith children and grandchildren over the years. "The first place the grandchildren would head for when they came was that tree," he laughed. "Mother used to yell at them, afraid they would fall."

"Sometimes we would be plowing with a team," he remembered. "It would come up a shower and we'd run up under the tree to keep dry until the shower ended."

Jake Smith farmed the land — raising mostly cotton, maize and cattle. He grew maize as feed for work stock until tractors replaced horses. "At one time Dad had 17 head of work stock on this place. He farmed over 300 acres using just teams."

Graham took his father's place, farming 380 acres and raising as many as 100 head of cattle.

Born and raised in Scurry County, the Smiths have witnessed the community change. "All of our rural communities have been done away with and everything is centralized in the city. We had a high school (at Dunn) with 170 kids at one time. We don't have close ties with neighbors like we used to. Everyone wants to go to town. I used to know everyone in the county. If I didn't know them personally, I knew the family. We

If you have an old hall rack for coats that you do not use, try enameling it to match the decor of your guest bedroom. Hang potted vines on it. Placed in front of a sunny window, it makes a nice decoration for the room.

The basic physics of monsoons was described 300 years ago, but so far no one has pieced together the entire mechanism or fully understood their behavior, according to National Geographic.

BRIDGE

James Jacoby

According to North-South bidding methods, two clubs was the Stayman convention, asking for a four-card major. Two no-trump denied a major, but promised a maximum hand. Three diamonds was forcing and slam invitational, and the three-spade cue-bid by North promised good diamonds as well as the spade ace. South asked for aces and bid the diamond slam.

South must not be careless in the play. On a hand such as this, declarer needs to think of his own hand as the dummy (a dummy-reversal play). He should win the ace of clubs, ruff a club low, and play the ace of diamonds and a diamond to the king. If diamonds are divided 3-2, he is home free. He ruffs another club low, goes to the heart king in dummy and trumps the last club with his diamond queen. Now a spade to the queen lets him pick up the last trump with dummy's jack, on which he discards a low heart. If spades split evenly, he will make seven, but the small slam is assured.

If, on the second round of diamonds, one of the opponents had shown out, declarer's plans would change. Now he must draw trumps and simply hope that the spade suit splits or a squeeze develops.

In double ring ceremony...

Becerra, Castillo exchange vows

Monica Becerra and Hermilo Castillo were united in marriage on Feb. 16 at 3 p.m. in Our Lady of Guadalupe Church. Father Chris Coleman officiated the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Becerra are parents of the bride. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ignacio Castillo Sr.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose a traditional, white wedding gown by Alfred Angelo. The high neckline featured a pearl encrusted, Venise lace mandrin collar and an English net yoke. Venise and Chantilly lace appliques and pearls covered the fitted bodice. The leg-o-mutton sleeves were set off-the-shoulder and were finished with Venise lace in points over the hand. The full boufant skirt swept into a semi-cathedral train.

She also wore a matching, walking-length veil of bridal illusion trimmed in deep Chantilly lace. The veil and blusher were attached to a crown headpiece of Venise lace, taffeta and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white azares, burgundy and lavender roses, carnations and gypsophelia with burgundy, lavender and white satin streamers.

For something old, she chose gold stud earrings with her dress as something new. She borrowed diamond earrings. A blue garter completed the tradition.

The groom's sister, Norma Castillo, served as maid of honor. She wore a three-tiered, white taffeta dress featuring a scooped neckline, long sleeves and matching taffeta belt. Her bouquet resembled that of the bride.

The groom chose a white Avalon tuxedo with a white, wing collar, pleated shirt, white bow tie and cummerbund. His boutonniere featured azares and flowers matching the bridal bouquet.

Best man Manuel De Hoyos was attired like the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Venancie Galindo served as los primeros padrinos and padrinos de cojines with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramirez as padrinos de arras, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Flores as padrinos de lasso, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Sauceda as padrinos de biblia, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Prieto as padrinos de libro and rosario and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Castillo as padrinos de uela. The couple also had padrinos de baile.

A reception followed at the Latin American Center. A marcha and dance were also held at the Top 40 Club with music provided by the Macho Band.

Guests attended from Austin, Tyler, Canyon, Big Spring and San Angelo.

Currently employed by ABC Rent-all, the groom graduated from Snyder High School in 1983 and is studying automotive mechanics at WTC.

Group awards scholarships

NEW YORK (AP) — Scholarships of $5,000 each were awarded to 20 high school students in 1984 by the Horatio Alger Association of Distinguished Americans, a nonprofit organization.

The association said the awards were made to seniors who demonstrated critical financial limitations, initiative, self-reliance, and participation in school and community services.

The association is dedicated to people from humble beginnings who have achieved outstanding careers.

Begins trucking tradition

NEW YORK (AP) — When his freight-wagon business lost out to the new railroad lines in 1853, John Jacob Mack left Germany and settled in Pennsylvania.

He and his children worked as farmers. Then, in 1900, the Mack teamster tradition came to the fore once again as his grandsons founded the Mack Truck Co.

MAKING AND PROBATING WILLS PROGRAM

Are you one of the many consumers that have not written a will? Making a will gives you the opportunity of executing your property or estate to whom you wish. This legal document is for your protection and grants the wishes you desire. Gary Terrell, local county attorney and lawyer, will present a program on "Making and Probating Wills" next Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Fine Arts Auditorium on the Western Texas College campus.

This program is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service through the County Extension Office. For further information contact Kathyrn Roberts, County Extension Agent for Home Economics at 573-5423.

MAKING THE MOST OF KITCHEN APPLIANCES

Rather than buy more electrical kitchen appliances, many consumers would be better off making full use of the ones they currently own.

Many of us have electric fry pans, griddles or blenders gathering dust in cupboards while we shop for food processors and electric woks.

Manufacturers try to develop appliances that are as versatile as possible to improve sales, but consumers tend to habitually use them for one primary function.

Greater use of a blender or food processor can save money by reducing your purchase of prepared foods. The extra processing done by the commercial food company make food more expensive. You can use the appliance to perform some of the same tasks and save those dollars.

Make new uses for appliances you already have.

—Periodically read the "use and care" book that came with the appliance, magazine and newspaper articles for new ideas on how to cook with it.

—Analyze recipes. What processes are required to complete the product and what appliances will simplify these processes? You may not do things in the same order or in the same manner as when you do them by hand.

—Combine processes whenever possible. For example, in making a meat loaf, you could crumble the crackers or bread in a blender first, followed by the addition of the eggs, milk and seasoning. This mixture could then be combined with the meat or the entire meat loaf could be mixed in a food processor.

—Consider alternative uses for the appliance. An electric fry pan will do more than fry foods. It can be used for stir-frying; baking pizza, cake or muffins; popping corn or slow cooking. That means you can eliminate a wok, toaster-oven and popcorn popper. If you have a wok, try using it for searing, braising, poaching, deep frying, stewing and popping corn.

Let your imagination and determination expand the use of those small appliances already taking up space in your kitchen.

LOOK FOR FIRE-RESISTANT FURNITURE

A majority of new upholstered furniture complies with the strict standards for fire-resistance of the Upholstered Furniture Action Council (UFAC). Shoppers can look for a hang-tag on new furniture which indicates it meets these standards, and also warns consumers to practice careful smoking habits and install smoke detectors.

Tree used as old landmark

According to Graham, the landscape is different, too. "Mesquites have taken over pasture land," he said. "I remember how we used to take greyhounds up where Roundtop Acres are now. The hills used to be covered with trees and we would chase rabbits all over."

The Smiths raised four sons — Richard of Odessa, Jimmy of Lubbock, Olton Lee of Snyder and Tony, also of Snyder. Now their eight grandchildren visit and play in the old Mulberry tree.

BEAUTY BRIEFS

Florence De Santis

Delicate hair care

Fine hair needs special handling. Brush it daily, but only when dry. Wet hair stretches and pulls away from the roots.

After shampooing, do a final cold water rinse to harden the hairs and improve shine.

If you shampoo more than once a week, be sure the shampoo is pH-neutral and mild. Do one lathering, not two.

For oily hair, add lemon juice to the final rinse water.

New soft permanent

Afraid that a permanent will damage your fine hair?

There's a new "mousse" permanent which combines conditioning with a technique that allows the hair to be wrapped with water, if necessary, then foamed with the mousse perm solution.

It's one of a group of mousse (foam) salon products introduced lately, which includes a styling foam with conditioner and a temporary color highlighter that does not damage hair.

Calorie extras

Often, it's not the food itself but what you add to it that makes it too caloric.

A potato and an apple of the same size have about the same number of calories, but putting butter or sour cream on the potato adds at least another 100 calories.

A virtually calorie-free salad becomes something else when you add oil, mayonnaise or salad dressing. Use skim milk with yogurt on potatoes, low-cal bottled dressings on salads.

Brighten hair

You can pep up your own hair color without permanent tinting.

The leading maker of hair colorings has brought out a new gel product, with an associated conditioner, which comes in 14 subtle shades.

It will blend away naturally in several shampoos, while improving hair bounce and sparkle. Some shades can add a new tinge, such as auburn used to give brown hair a glow.

Eyelid colors

Eyelid colors can accent your youth or add to your age. Leave all brown or gray shades for the young to wear, even if they are fashionable.

They "age" anyone over 40. Frosted pink brightens eyes when subtly touched to the inner corners

Mass migration transforms Cairo, Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Mass migration from the countryside and an out-of-control birthrate have transformed Cairo from a genteel garden city into an urban dungeon of jammed streets, deadly air and buildings literally crumbling under the weight of their inhabitants.

In only 30 years, Cairo's metropolitan population has swelled from 2.5 million to an estimated 12 million. Tens of thousands more stream in every year in search of work.

If the growth rate continues unchecked, some experts fear that Cairo, already the largest city in Africa and the Middle East, will mushroom to more than 20 million by the end of the century.

"We can solve our housing problems," says Milaad Hanna, chairman of the Parliament's housing committee. "But if the city grows to 20 million, it will be a disaster."

The rural poor come to the city to escape the poverty, drudgery and boredom of country life, which in some cases has changed little in 5,000 years.

But they come to a city that, unlike others in the Third World, cannot absorb newcomers in sprawling shantytowns on its fringes. Pinched on three sides by stark, rocky desert, squeezed into a Nile River valley less than three miles wide, Cairo's millions crowd an area adequate for less than a quarter of their numbers.

Amid the filth of neighborhoods that are often without water or electricity, hundreds of thousands are packed as many as 10 to a single room, or under rooftop shelters on buildings thrown up with little regard for safety codes.

About 100,000 people have found shelter in medieval tombs in the City of the Dead, burying their families beside the graves of Mameluk-era rulers. Forty thousand others live in rancid huts atop the city garbage dump.

City officials estimate that in some districts population density is as high as 300,000 per square mile, four times that of Manhattan.

The mass migration from the countryside has fundamentally altered the character and flavor of Cairo, long considered one of the Arab world's most sophisticated centers.

Handsome Nile-side homes and gardens have been torn up to make way for high-rises.

"Shucks, boy. Dust is a good thing. It means the wind is blowing. Back in '43 it wouldn't blow and we had to call a special tent meet in."

"What is so great about wind?" I wanted to know.

"Need wind to make the windmills pump. It was so still that spring I had to shut down three of my four windmills cause there was only enough wind for one. Had to let down 40 feet of bob war even then."

"Did the special meeting help any?"

"Shore did. People came from as far away as Borden County. You'd thought Big Time wrasslin had come to town. Next day she blew in from the west as I was diggin postholes. When the dust cleared in May, four of 'em had blowed clean away. Found three in Fisher County and a widder woman in Oklahoma called Christmas Eve to tell me she found the other one under her house half-froze to death. I jest let her keep the poor thing."

Don't believe the chamber of commerce when they tell you a sandstorm never hurt anybody.

REGULARITY

Too many people believe that a daily laxative must be standard procedure in order to keep regular. An occasional skipped day or even two or three days should be no cause for alarm, states the California Medical Assn. They note that many laxatives produce undesirable side effects. Increase your bulk intake by eating more fresh raw fruits and vegetables. Drink plenty of liquids too - you can enjoy healthful regularity without laxatives.

SNYDER, TEXAS 3500 COLLEGE AVE. SNYDER,

Above the Fold

By Donny Brown

Winners and losers.

It is the time of year when contest notifications start reaching Texas newspapers — put up or shut up for the summer round of contests.

This drives newspaper editors to the ragged loose-bound volume file to review their 12-month's worth of work. You can always tell a serious contest entrant because he has ink smudges on both sides of his nose.

We began entering these annual ego-busters years ago — and have received a smattering of awards along the way.

But the win-lose cycle of the things are a roller-coaster ride — and we've spent the majority of this time driving ourselves crazy wondering why one year the harvest was bountiful, and the next it was the zip, zilch, nada indifference of second or third place certificates.

In the beginning, we had sufficient ego to expect first in news writing, features, column writing and news photo. Now we're not so sure.

The final blow probably came when a cat we'd know coming up through the ranks won the big banana of journalism — the Pulitzer — and he did it before the age of 30.

He was a good news writer with probably a double supply of gall. We figure the second attribute helped win him the prize, but we suspect a third element helped the whole deal along — luck.

This may sound like sour grapes. But, before passing judgement witness this brief example of how another fellow won.

In 1964, the Pulitzer Prize-winning photograph captured a powerful image — that of Lee Harvey Oswald being shot by Jack Ruby while Oswald was still in the custody of Dallas law enforcement officers.

The world knows the picture, but do you know there were actually two photographs taken only a split second apart. Only one, of course, won the Pulitzer.

The first showed Oswald being escorted by officers as a black-coated figure looms at the picture's edge, a pistol clearly in view. Oswald does not see the man who will be his killer, and his swollen face carries an expression that is smug, indifferent, stupid.

The second photo — apparently taken in response to the sound of gunfire — shows the look of surprise and pain on Oswald's face as he is wounded. The position of the gunman in both pictures is almost identical.

Both were entries for the Pulitzer Prize. The one that won, of course, is the second, later photo — the one that by the definition of good news photography tells the complete story.

We'll say two things about winning honors in the news business.

First, you have to have the news tag. A good reporter who covers a governmental entity every time it offers an invocation or posts an agenda will win no prizes if that entity operates efficiently, honestly and by the book.

The screwups or plain misfortune of someone else will win you prizes.

And if you ever get the opportunity, the basic skills will improve your chances at the top. But when all else fails, a double-dip of blind luck might be essential to put you over.

John Dunnam

As mild as it has been, compared to last year, I'm tired of winter. Don't tell anyone, but I'm tired of rain, too. I'm ready for a change of seasons.

Yet the knowledge of what comes next makes my nose run, my eyes water and my mouth curse. I loathe sand storms. I don't even like to think about them, yet this priming process is vital if I hope to survive another spring in West Texas.

In normal parts of the world spring is the time of year when the earth renews herself. Flowers bloom, and things in general turn green. That happens here too, but I'm too busy howling at the wind to appreciate this major miracle. The greatest show on earth and I'm doomed to miss it.

You may say I'm just feeling sorry for myself. Somebody has to do it.

When snow is 14 inches deep on the ground and still falling, a sense of camaraderie abounds. Total strangers in cars take time out from over-steering to wave as they slide sideways past my house. There is nothing cozier on a snowy night than to throw another log on the fire and cuddle up to a warm woman.

Even in the heat of July there is always ice cream in the park or a barbecue in the backyard. People socialize in summer. Perhaps this summer I will meet a woman with a fireplace and be set for next winter.

During a sandstorm you are on your own. Days of dust are fit only for pouting. Each of us feels our tolerance level has been exceeded. It is a misery not easy to share. Everyone I meet during days of unrelenting dust has the mistaken notion that he hates it more than I. How can I possibly relate to such an idiot?

Even during a frog-floating gully-washer, people find something to smile about. If a flood wiped out Scurry County and there were only two survivors left, I'll bet this conversation would take place if they chanced to meet:

"Getting a lot of rain, ain't we?"

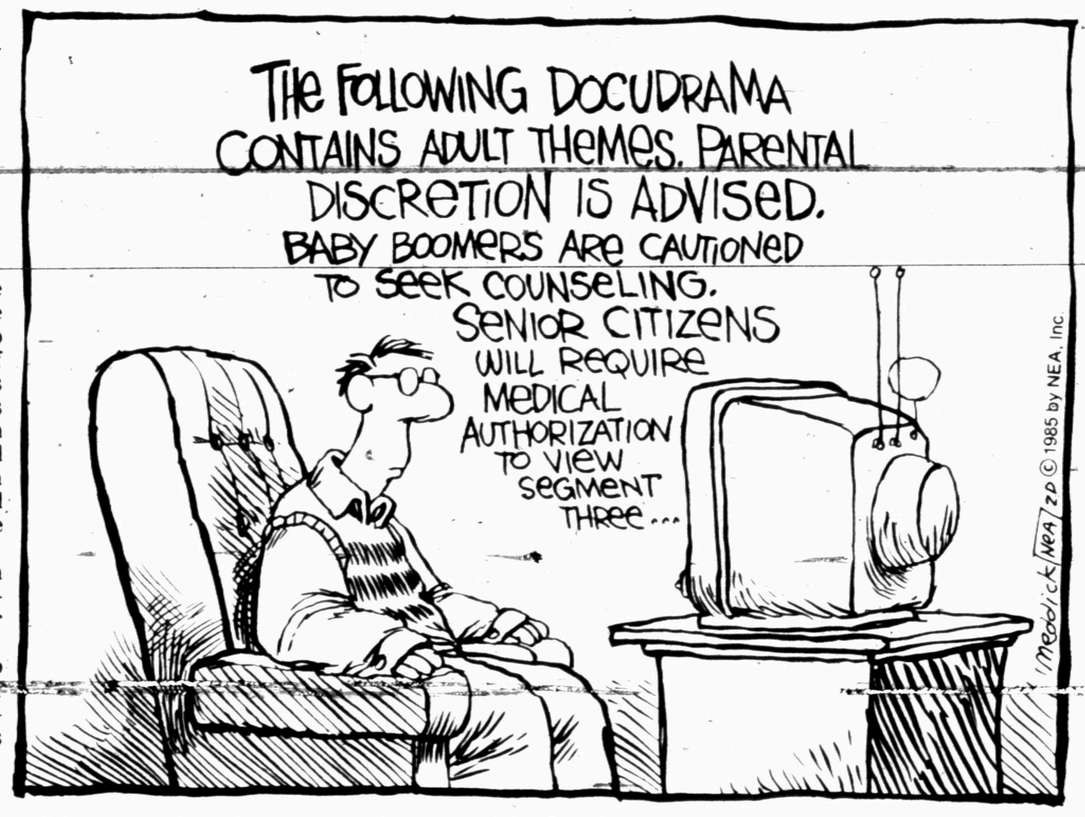

"Yep, but we peed it."

The media doesn't help any. It ignores the disaster of aerial soil erosion. We can watch the evening news and see citizens of Buffalo, N.Y. digging their cars out of snow drifts 10 feet high. We feel better off, and they receive our genuine compassion. But no one ever saw Dan Rather lead off the evening news with..."Residents of West Texas endured yet another day of high winds and dust with more sand and grit in the forecast. Barbara Walters, Ted Copple and Howard Cosell are on the scene and have a special report..."

Why? Because a sandstorm isn't even newsworth. Individually and collectively, we suffer alone.

I've only met one person who claimed to enjoy a good duster. And he was a farmer and a Baptist to boot so his word is automatically suspect.

SUNDAY
February 24

Preparations are now being made for Snyder to again bid on the right to serve as the host city for the Region V National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) basketball tournament, it was reported Sunday.

The event — which serves as the first round of competition for conference teams advancing to the men's and women's national finals — is slated here March 5-9.

In honor of the Scurry County oilpatch, it will be called the Oil Belt Tournament with former District Judge Wayland G. Holt named the honorary tourney director.

Snyder High School's one-act play entry this UIL season has been selected and a cast and crew named, according to local drama teacher Jerry Worsham.

This year's play will be Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet — a previous winner from 1977 for the SHS drama department. The title roles will be played by Brad Vincent and Dana Parham.

A recent project sponsored by the Noah Project and members of the Noah Project Advisory Committee — posters which list various emergency numbers — was noted Monday.

MONDAY
February 25

As it has done in year's past, Scurry County commissioners Monday approved a reduced coliseum fee for the three-day run of the Little Britches Rodeo sponsored locally by the Sundowner's Riding Club.

In return this year, club members agreed to donate a portion of the gate receipts toward a scholarship fund at Western Texas College. A rental fee of $250 per night was approved Monday.

The mother-daughter team of Jean Birdwell and Linda Cole have now opened up a new children's clothing store in Snyder, The Sugar Plum Tree, it was reported Monday.

The new business is located at 3905 College Ave.

The first contested race of the April 6 elections surfaced Monday as a second candidate filed for the place 2 seat on the Snyder school board.

Newly filed is Mike Jordan, 36, a co-owner locally of J&J Machine & Waterflood Supply.

Members of Snyder's Industrial Foundation board approved a proposed change in their own membership makeup Wednesday and heard an update on their prime area of responsibility — the industrial foundation building currently leased but now again standing vacant.

Directors authorized placing before the membership for vote a proposed reduction in the number of directors from 12 to a five-member board.

This will be considered during the annual meeting of the foundation, now tentatively set for the second week in March.

THURSDAY
February 28

The ticket sales campaign for "Stepping Up, Stepping Out, Snyder Better Than Ever" — the 1985 edition of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Banquet — was officially launched Thursday.

At a luncheon for sales team leaders and volunteers, Chamber President Roy Baze commented the banquet's goal is to be "the nicest affair in Snyder this year."

FRIDAY
March 1

Snyder will gain a new downtown business, it was reported Friday, as the Special Moments ladies apparel store both moves and adopts a new name.

New to the downtown area effective Monday will be Sunnyside, specializing in missy, junior and women's fashion and accessories. Owners Mike and Judy Reed are relocating their Special Moments store from its current location at 4200 College Ave.

Letter to the editor

To the editor,

Last month, the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation held a Mothers' March in Snyder. It turned out to be a big success and it was all due to your city pulling together and doing it as a team.

Donna Gray has headed up this event for the last two years and she has done a tremendous job. This year Snyder has pulled in over $600 and we are still receiving mail ins.

We want to take the time to thank Annette Waller, who will be our Honorary Mothers' March Chairman, Diane Allen, who put out a special effort on this project, and all the other 24 volunteers who made this year's Mothers' March a big success.

A special thanks to Carolyn Limmer at the high school for getting her group together to help on this event. And last, but not least, the Snyder Daily News for helping get the word out.

Your newspaper is a great asset to your community. I hope all of you have had the time to look over some of the other areas newspapers and have seen what an outstanding job the one in your city does.

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Added calcium avoids problems.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My friends tell me that, at 46, I should be taking a calcium supplement so that I don't eventually end up with a "widow's hump" and delicate bones. I maintain that because I run 30 miles a week and drink a half-quart of milk a day, I'll be all right, but my friends are beginning to make me nervous. I prefer not to take supplements of any kind, but to use natural foods and exercise to stay healthy. Am I on the right track?

DEAR READER — Hurrah for your friends. They may save you a lot of trouble later. You may be on a calcium-deficient diet. Many adults are, and that has a lot to do with the reason so many women develop osteoporosis (dissolving bones), which causes the "'widow's hump" you describe and leads to hip fractures and other serious problems. A half-quart of regular milk only provides about 600 mg. or less of calcium. The recommended daily dietary allowance (RDA) is 800 mg. Many authorities believe that a woman should increase her calcium intake when she approaches menopause. At the onset of menopause and thereafter, she should either take an adequate amount of estrogen replacement or consume 1,500 mg. of calcium a day.

Exercise is important. It makes bones stronger and affects subtle bone architecture. However, women who run a lot and are very thin may stop having menstrual periods, stop ovulating and actually lose bone tissue. This may have something to do with inadequate nutrition for the level of exercise.

You can eat naturally, exercise and still get enough calcium in your diet. A quart of skim milk fortified with 2 percent non-fat milk solids contains more than 1,400 mg. of calcium and only 800 calories.

Every woman in your age group should understand what osteoporosis is and how to help prevent it, so I'm sending you The Health Letter, Special Report 24, Osteoporosis: Porous Bones. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About a month ago, my 18-year-old son was injured in a car wreck. He broke his back in two places and broke his spinal cord. He had back surgery and bone was taken out of his hip and put in his back. Two rods were placed in his back. They will be taken out in a couple of years.

He has begun rehabilitation. The doctors told us he won't be able to use his legs. He is paralyzed from the waist down. Is there any hope that he will regain the use of his legs? I heard that they are doing research in Canada on this. Can you tell me more about this type of injury and what can be done about it?

DEAR READER — I always hate to hear a story like that because so little can be done. The basic problem is that tissue in the brain and spinal cord cannot regenerate. As a result, an injury to the spinal cord is permanent. Initially, it may be hoped that part of the function loss is related to swelling and injury without permanent damage, but after a few weeks, this is no longer a factor.

Yes, research is being done. Ways to stimulate nerve-cell growth look promising. While there is nothing I can suggest right now, there may come a time when a way to stimulate regeneration to repair injuries of the brain and cord will be possible.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a spur on my heel. I have been going to a doctor every week and he uses a vibrator on it. Another doctor put cortisone shots in it, and that didn't seem to help, either. A doctor told me he didn't think surgery was best. What can you tell me about spurs?

DEAR READER — A painful heel is not necessarily caused by a spur. Many people have a spur on the heel and have no pain; others have heel pain and have no spur. Therefore, the presence of a spur and pain does not mean the pain is caused by the spur. That is one reason surgical removal of a bone spur on the heel may not help.

A spur sometimes forms because the bone is injured at that location because the muscle and ligament attachments pull on the bone at that point. These muscles and ligaments stretch from the front of the foot to the heel, like the string on a bow. When you pull on these, they pull on the attachment at the heel.

Often there is an associated inflammation of the tendon and muscle structures, which causes pain. In a way, this is a strain across the arch. This is corrected by removing the strain. The weight bearing is decreased from front to back over the main arch. This is commonly done by putting in a wedge on the inner part of the foot to put more weight on the outside of the foot and less across the arch.

One also can get relief by staying off one's feet. When one is not putting weight across the arch, the strain and pain disappears. However, no one wants to spend the rest of his life with his feet up in the air.

Read my comments about spurs in The Health Letter 11-10, Common Foot Problems: What to Do About Them, which I am sending you, and then see if you can find a foot doctor who can help you as it suggests. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What can cause abdominal pain? I have diabetes and I had an ulcer this year, but got rid of it. I weigh 165 and am 5 feet 1. I went to see a specialist and he did an electrocardiogram, and I am to go back for a stress test. He gave me some pills for my heart.

DEAR READER — Anything from the neck to the tailbone can cause abdominal pain. Evidently your doctor is checking to see if your abdominal pain is really caused by your heart. That can happen, and often does. It is always a problem to separate abdominal pain caused by the heart and abdominal pain caused by digestive organs.

Ulcers can cause pain. Some can penetrate into the pancreas and can cause a particularly bad pain. The colon is a frequent source of abdominal pain. The gallbladder, the kidneys and even the spine also can be sources of abdominal pain.

The location and character of the pain help the doctor know where to start. If the pain comes with exertion, the doctor may be inclined to think of the heart. However, often it is necessary to do a number of tests to locate just what the actual problem is. After that, one can be more certain of what kind of treatment is advisable.

Children should have say

NEW YORK (AP) — Not only should parents put a great deal of thought into choosing a summer camp, but children should also play a part in the selection, says Asher Melzer, who has been a camping specialist for 35 years.

Parents should look through camp brochures together with the children involved, advises Melzer, director of camping for the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, which sponsors and supports 19 overnight resident camps and 29 day camps. Some 20,000 campers from age 6 to 100 will go to Federation camps this summer, Melzer reports.

"It matters a lot whether the child wants a place where the emphasis is on competitive team sports or on an individual interest in arts and letters," he says. "Perhaps the child would like a place that specializes in computers or sciences or ballet or violin, all available these summer to be like.

"There should be no surprises."

A shy child might prefer a small place with fewer campers, Melzer points out. Another alternative is a shorter camping season or a day camp, to ease the child into the break from home routine.

In addition to the more common day camps and sleep-away camps, camps for just boys or just girls, and coed camps, there are camps for the emotionally disturbed, the physically handicapped and those with learning disabilities, he notes.

"Once a camp is tentatively selected," Melzer suggests, "it's a good idea for the parents and the child to visit it together; look over the bunkhouses, the dining room, the lake."

It's a good idea, too, he adds, for the parent and child to talk to the camp director and find out what he or she can expect the days."

Webb called snowmobile capital of East

BIG MOOSE, N.Y. (AP) — It is a midwinter midnight in the north woods. Venus and the waxing crescent moon shed blue-white light on snow-laden hemlocks. The frozen forest is silent — except for a distant thrumming, which quickly takes on a line of five, 10, 20 buzzing machines come beetling over the ridge, then vanish in a cloud of snow crystals and blue smoke.

With the gray light of dawn comes a fine snowfall, sifting onto the shining black cowls of 40 sleds herded like angus steers in the courtyard of the Pine Knoll Motel in Old Forge.

Soon the air at the Pine Knoll and dozens of similar establishments is filled with the roar of pull-start engines and the acrid smell of oily exhaust as a thousand riders in crash helmets and Thinsulate snowsuits head out for a day of hurtling down the airstrip, bumping along the moguled shoulders of highways suited more to sled than car, or cruising from lake to lake and inn to inn along more than 500 miles of 12-foot groomed and mapped trails.

Welcome to the town of Webb, "Snowmobile Capital of the East."

"This used to be a ghost town in winter, deader'n old Sam Hill," says Bill Marleau, interrupted in mid-afternoon as he pens an epistle to the town council concerning the machines that hum past the little red cabin on Big Moose Road where he has lived for most of his 62 years. "Some folks may think it's better now, but I'm different — the way it used to be suited me just fine."

But Marleau, it appears, is in the minority. This town in the snowy western foothills of the Adirondacks, including the hamlets of Old Forge, Big Moose, Eagle Bay, Beaver River, Number Four, Stillwater and Inlet, has worked hard to build a national reputation as a snowmobiler's mecca, luring 10,000 riders a year from all over the East.

Bob Hall, publicity director for the town of Webb, credits himself with being the driving force behind the region's growth into a major winter tourist resort — and takes the brunt of the criticism from riders who rankle at paying $25 to use trails that once were free, and taxpayers who each year fork out the $46,000 difference between the income from permits and the expense of land leases, four grooming machines and full-time trail crew.

The town of Webb, with an average winter snowfall of 270 inches blowing off Lake Ontario, has attracted snowmobilers for two decades. But it wasn't until the town committed itself to building up both its trail system and its tourist accommodations that the sport took off, Hall says.

"We have one bank in town. In the early '70s, the total winter commercial deposits were about $300,000," says Hall. "Now, that's up to around $3 million. In 1968, we had six businesses open in winter, including motels, gas stations and restaurants. Now, there are more than 70."

Swaggart said king of television preachers

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The way evangelist Jimmy Swaggart tells it, he was 5 years old and had just plunked down a quarter to see a Saturday matinee when he was called by the Lord.

He says a voice that gave him "chill bumps" and "made his hair tingle" urged him not to go to the Johnny Mack Brown western on that lazy afternoon in Ferriday, La.

Instead, the voice told him to follow another path.

"Everything seemed different after that day in front of the Arcade Theater," Swaggart says. "I felt better inside. Almost like taking a bath continuously."

The road has taken him around the world, preaching the gospel in his unique Biblethumping style.

At age 49, Swaggart has surpassed Robert Schuller, Oral Roberts and other electronic evangelists, to become the king of the television preachers.

According to Arbitron Rating Service, "The Jimmy Swaggart Telecast" reaches nearly 2 million households each week over more than than 500 stations.

And Swaggart ministry officials say his more than 50 gospel albums have sold over 16 million copies to make Swaggart the largest selling gospel artist in history.

In addition, his monthly magazine, The Evangelist, reaches 600,000 readers.

Currently, Jimmy Swaggart Ministries is one of the largest non-profit direct mail merchandisers in the United States. In 1983, the most recent figures available, nearly 500,000 orders were placed for well over 1 million pieces of merchandise.

The hub of Swaggart's operation is located on 100 acres of prime real estate worth an estimated $2.8 million in suburban Baton Rouge, where a collection of immaculate, computer-controlled buildings make up his new World Ministry Center.

When the first phase of the center is completed later this year, there will be nearly 500,000 square feet of working area, including a $5 million television studio, a $30 million family worship center with seating for 7,000, a student dormitory, and an office building.

A singer and a showman, Swaggart's brand of gospel is punctuated by a heavy, bass beat that brings most of his followers to their feet, swaying and clapping.

At the piano, his style sometimes resembles that of his cousin, Jerry Lee Lewis, whom he calls "the best piano player I've ever known." Another cousin, Mickey Gilley, is equally famous as a country western singer who also plays the piano.

During his services, Swaggart works the crowd like a carnival barker — shouting, whispering and crying, while some followers look skyward and others raise an outstretched hand.

The highlight of the services and of Swaggart's "camp meetings" is the altar call, when physically and spiritually ailing people come forward to be healed by ministers trained in the "laying on of hands."

Former employees have accused Swaggart of misappropriating some of the $60 million they say the ministry netted in 1983.

In addition, Swaggart's operation, which includes seven gospel radio stations spread across the country, has been the target of court battles over tax exemptions and contested wills, which have brought in millions for the ministry.

Swaggart has developed his particular brand of populist, hellfire, Pentecostalism during the more than two decades that have passed since he began stumping the South in a battered Plymouth.

Coaxed by his grandmother, who like most of the Swaggarts had enjoyed smoking, drinking and even gambling before she "got religion," Swaggart polished his preaching skills in small pineboard churches, returning home with barely enough money to pay his bills.

Refusing the temptation to become involved with his successful cousin, Jerry Lee Lewis, who had hit the top of the charts with "Great Balls of Fire" in the late 1950s, Swaggart struck out on his own. He recorded one gospel hit after another.

While Swaggart is an accomplished piano player and regarded as one of best known arrangers of gospel music in the country, "he probably can barely read music," according to ministry spokesman Jerald Ogg Jr.

By 1969, Swaggart was on the radio with his "Camp Meeting Hour." In 1973, he began his meteoric rise on television.

All of Swaggart's television programs are produced and dubbed into five foreign languages at his spanking new Vance Teleproduction Center, which houses some of the finest technical equipment available.

Ministry officials say the 44,000 square-foot facility is in operation virtually 24 hours a day to meet the increasing demands of production schedules.

Like most TV evangelists, Swaggart's operation is a family one. His wife, Frances, whom he calls his "God-sent helpmate," and Donnie, his son, are on the ministry payroll.

Swaggart wouldn't answer questions about finances. He says he used to give out such figures freely, but "our naivete was rewarded by virtually every reporter twisting the information given."

But Swaggart, who once had to have Jerry Lee Lewis buy him a car so he could get to revival meetings, now travels in his own plane. Five identically painted 18-wheelers haul his traveling crusade around the country.

Your Birthday

March 3, 1985

Much good will come your way in the year ahead through an influential social contact. This person will be older than you and he will always have your best interests at heart.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's imperative that your better judgment be in control at all times today. If your thinking gets careless, you could make a decision you'll later regret. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as showing you which signs you are best suited to romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you might have to contend with a complicated family matter. However, if you're tolerant and keep a cool head, it can be worked out satisfactorily.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be extremely mindful of your comments today or you may unwittingly say something that a sensitive friend wishes to keep confidential.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Shrewd thinking will be required on your behalf in your commercial dealings. Use your smarts and you'll come out on the plus side of the ledger.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone who desires to help you today could lose interest if your methods are confusing. Clarify your aims so that harmony prevails.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A plan you intend to implement today might not be as easy as you've led yourself to believe. Be prepared to make some positive adjustments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Information passed on to you by a friend today might not be completely accurate. Use other sources to verify the facts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Financial conditions could take rather broad swings today, so you must be careful not to let what you gain slip through your fingers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Use your mind today, instead of your muscles. Everything will come easier for you if you think, rather than bullying your way through situations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In a joint venture today you may find it necessary to take a stand to protect your rights. Be firm but also strive to be fair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's possible today that your mate may have a more practical solution for solving a problem than you have. At the least, listen to him.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) An opportunity to further your ambitions may suddenly develop today. Even though you'll prefer relaxing involvements, it's best you act immediately.

March 4, 1985

This coming year, you will make an exciting new friend in your chosen field. He will prove to be of great help to you in furthering your personal ambitions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Career opportunities could suddenly develop for you today in very unusual ways or through the least-suspected sources. Be both alert and expectant. Major changes are in store for Pisces in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may hear from someone today who has been separated from you by distance and doesn't communicate often.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Shifting conditions tend to be of benefit to you and your family today. A worrisome circumstance looks like it will be resolved satisfactorily.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partnership arrangements look promising for you today, especially those where friends are involved. Together, you can move mountains.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Rewards that thus far have been denied you could be forthcoming today. You will now be compensated in proportion to the efforts you've expended.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People who meet you for the first time today will be favorably impressed. In fact, a friendship could blossom with someone to whom you'll be introduced.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your sense of timing is your greatest asset today. If there is something important you must finalize, move as your instincts direct you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Do not be reluctant to request favors today from friends you've helped in the past. Pals can do things for you that you can't do on your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An important career matter will be subjected to some unexpected changes today. When everything is sorted out, it'll prove to your advantage.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be resourceful today in handling developments that can further your personal ambitions, even though your procedures may appear impractical to bystanders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Joint ventures look promising for you today, especially those that contain unusual or unique elements. Don't be afraid to attempt the new.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Making fast decisions should be your cup of tea today. Ideas that come to you out of the blue will be comprised of ingenious substance.
