Word has been circulated that a traveling laboratory is going to visit different areas of the country to test solar heating and cooling equipment under a variety of climatic conditions.

The laboratory consists of two units, a semi-trailer housing heating or cooling equipment and a weather station, plus a van that will be heated or cooled and supplied with hot water by sun power. The energy collection system consists of 625 square feet of solar panels through which water is circulated and heated to 200 degrees. The hot water is transferred to a couple of 475-gallon storage tanks holding enough heated water to warm the unit to 70 degrees for 24 hours.

The National Science Fountation and Honeywell Inc., are joining forces to conduct the tests.

There's another source of natural energy available in this area and a lot of it has been going to waste the past few weeks. We refer to the wind.

In fact, there has been enough wind power through this area the past two weeks to keep a lot of equipment going for a long time if it had been harnessed.

Of course the wind has been the object of many experiments by man in his quest for energy. But not much has taken place in the way of discoveries or inventions in this field since the common windmill and the airplane were invented.

Through the efforts of the windmill, a lot of cattle and people got water from the semi-desert land for many years. And, as the name implies, the airplane has made use of common air to provide the fastest transportation man has been able to develop. Even so, the wind has much more energy than is being used. This is true, even in the case of the airplane.

For example, during the big blow of April 2 (a week ago last Tuesday) Sam Kitching and Mel Gilbert of our town were confronted with some of this excessive power as they attempted to maneuver a small plane from Austin to Snyder. Finally, they conceded defeat at Sweetwater and landed there. Meanwhile, Kitching said he discovered that he was more versatile than he thought.

"I found out I could fly that airplane and pray at the same time," he declared.

Congressman Omar Burleston notes that another federal bureau will be created under a bill passed last week by the U. S. House of Representatives. Called a "Consumer Protection Law," it is designed to safeguard all of us against such things as inferior quality, purity, dependability, performance, etc., and would have authority over other federal departments that already have these same responsibilities in various fields.

Have we indeed reached the point where we must have watchers to watch the watchers? And guess who's paying for it. You're right. The consumer, or more specifically, you and I.——WACIL McNAIR

COMPROMISE OFFER REJECTED

Panel Subpoenas Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today ordered President Nixon to turn over by April 25 all tapes and other materials requested by the committee for its impeachment inquiry.

In directing 34 to 3 that a subpoena be issued for the evidence, the committee rejected a last-minute offer by the White House to deliver some of the taped conversations within a few days.

The offer, made 45 minutes before the committee met in the morning, came in a telephone call from White House lawyer James St. Clair to John Doar, chief counsel of the committee.

It led to a partisan split in the committee. Republicans urged it be accepted. But the Democratic majority said the committee, which made its request last Feb. 25, has waited long enough.

"It's time to send a message that the playing of games is over," said Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio.

The White House offer — made 45 minutes before the committee met — was to deliver some of the tapes in a day or two. It was supported by most committee Republicans but the Democrats said it came too late.

"It's time to send a message that the playing of games is over and the committee means business," said Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio.

Latte's suggestion that the subpoena spelled out in detail just what presidential conversations the committee wants indicated the subpoena will get broad Republican support if that can be accomplished.

The White House, in delaying any response to the committee request for more than six weeks, has taken the position that it needs to know more clearly just what the committee wants.

In the debate before the committee recessed, the White House delays were sharply criticized by all members. Most Republicans said they had come to the meeting prepared to vote for a subpoena until they learned of the last-minute offer.

"It's a little late to make a deal," said Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., after committee counsel John Doar told of a last-minute telephone call from President Nixon's counsel.

Doar said James St. Clair said he would be willing to give the committee within the next few days a number of specific conversations between President Nixon and his chief aides that the committee believes relate to the Watergate cover-up.

However, St. Clair's offer did not cover a number of other tapes the committee asked for.

As soon as Doar completed his discussion of St. Clair's phone call a resolution authorizing the committee to issue a subpoena for everything covered by the request was put before the committee. It appeared to have solid support of the Democratic majority.

Doar said that in his talk with St. Clair the White House lawyer did not indicate whether Nixon would comply with a subpoena.

Terrorists Stage 'Suicide Attack'

By MAX NASH
Associated Press Writer

QIRYAT SHMONAH, Israel (AP) — Three Arab terrorists sneaked across the Lebanese border into this little Israeli town today, killed 18 men, women and children and then blew themselves up as Israeli troops stormed the apartment building where they were hiding, senior police officers said.

"They were even armed with rocket-propelled grenades and they were throwing children from the top floor of the building," said an officer in a bulletproof vest, standing outside the scarred and ransacked apartment bloc.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command, a splinter Palestinian group, telephoned news agencies in Beirut and claimed responsibility for the "suicide attack" on Qiryat Shmonah. It said the purpose of the raid was to gain the release of 100 guerrillas from Israeli prisons.

Three more guerrilla infiltrators seized a school in the mountainside frontier settlement, but it was empty for the Passover holidays and the gunmen abandoned the building and escaped, police said.

Senior military sources said the bodies of men, women and children found in the apartment house brought the death toll to 18 with 16 wounded. The state radio said eight children, eight adults and two soldiers died in the most costly guerrilla raid inside Israel since the Tel Aviv airport massacre of May 1972, which took 26 lives.

The Arabs first seized control of an empty school and then moved to the apartment building. The state radio said they fired submachine guns and threw grenades into the apartments as they shot their way up to the fourth floor in a trail of blood.

Israeli troops and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan rushed to the mountainside town, and just over four hours after the raid began a military source said, "It is all over." Heavy explosions shook the buiding as the Israeli troops stormed it.

The bodies of Israeli civilians were found in the doorways of their apartments and childrens' bullet-torn corpses lay on the stairway of the building, the radio said.

The guerrillas were carrying explosive charges with their Russian-made assault rifles, and the room where they barricaded themselves exploded when the Israelis opened fire and rushed the building, the radio said. The blasted bodies of the three guerrillas were found inside.

The group's command in Lebanon said, "Our men carried out their instructions. They set off explosive belts they wore for the operation when the enemy tried to storm the building they were holding. They died along with their hostages."

Steelers Near Pact Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the usual eleventh-hour frenzy of previous negotiations missing, steel industry bargainers today worked toward agreement on a new three-year contract for 350,000 workers.

Negotiators for the United Steelworkers and the 10 major steel companies resumed discussions shortly after 7 a.m. following a lengthy Wednesday night bargaining session which recessed about 1 a.m.

Sources close to the talks said both sides have agreed "to try and wrap it up" today. However, there were indications that efforts to complete final details of the pact were taking longer than expected.

A scheduled 1 p.m. meeting of the union's Basic Steel Industry Conference with representatives from 182 locals was put off until later in the afternoon. One official said the negotiators needed more time.

IN WAKE OF MEIR'S RESIGNATION

Israel Faces Months Of Political Uncertainty

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir formally submitted her resignation today, plunging the nation into political upheaval and clouding prospects for peace in the Middle East.

The presentation of her resignation, announced Wednesday, came as Arab terrorists sneaked across the Israeli-Lebanese border, killed a dozen men, women and children in a little town, then blew themselves up as Israeli troops closed in, senior police officers said.

The upset of Mrs. Meir and the political weakness of her lame-duck government puts Israel at a disadvantage in negotiating with Syria to end the continued fighting on the Golan Heights front.

The resignation was viewed in Washington as a serious setback to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's hopes for a quick disengagement along the Israeli-Syrian front. A delay in this sector could endanger the entire momentum of the quest for peace in the Middle East.

Officials of Mrs. Meir's ruling Labor alignment said she would stay in office at the head of a caretaker government until a new cabinet can be formed or new elections held.

Worn out by increasing controversy over whether Defense Minister Moshe Dayan should share the blame for Israel's initial setbacks in th October war, Mrs. Meir, who will be 76 in three weeks, told the leaders of her party Wednesday night: "I can no longer bear the burden...I have reached the end of the road."

Mrs. Meir officially tendered her resignation today to President Ephraim Katzir. The meeting with the ceremonial head of state followed a special session of Mrs. Meir's cabinet.

Katzir praised Mrs. Meir for "her work and devotion to the rise and development of the state."

It was the second time in 39 days that Mrs. Meir announced she was quitting, but this time it was generally believed that she meant it.

"Don't try to change my mind, it won't help," she told the party caucus, and complained about political rivals "who say I am only driven by lust for power."

Noting the wave of dissent following the loss of more than 2,500 men in the October war, she warned: "We cannot ignore public feeling...The atmosphere created around the government has made it impossible for the government to handle all the problems facing us."

A member of the immigrant Establishment that has dominated Israel since its birth in 1948, Mrs. Meir has led the government since 1969.

The future of Dayan, the one-time public idol, was unclear. The charge that he, Mrs. Meir and other Labor leaders were to blame because the Arab attack in October took the armed forces by surprise was the major factor in the setback the ruling party suffered in the general election Dec. 31.

The president said he would immediately begin calling in party leaders to discuss the formation of a new government.

Nixon, Kissinger Open Talks With Boumedienne

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon conferred today with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne in an effort to gain influence with the increasingly important Arab leader.

Nixon and Boumedienne, who is making his first visit to a Western nation, began their Oval Office conversation by talking about Nixon's trip to Paris last weekend for the funeral of French President Georges Pompidou.

Boumedienne noted Nixon also had extensive activities in France and the President responded: "Yes, we saw 35 heads of government."

The conversation was overheard by reporters and photographers recording the start of the meeting.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger joined the White House session.

The Boumedienne meetings takes on extra importance because of the jolt given U.S.-Mideast policy by the collapse of the Golda Meir Cabinet in Israel.

The United States and Algeria have not had diplomatic relations since the Israeli-Arab war in 1967 and President Nixon asked for today's meeting as a prelude to resumption of formal contacts.

There were several reasons for the American effort, including widef access to the extensive natural gas fields in Algeria. But international politics was a major motivation.

Kissinger has been trying to increase American influence among the major Arab nations in order to strengthen his leverage in arranging a Middle East settlement.

Boumedienne has moved increasingly into a leadership role among the Arabs and Kissinger seeks closer ties to avoid being dependent on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for his influence in the area.

In addition Boumedienne has become a leader among less developed nations generally. He is in the United States to attend a special United Nations General Assembly meeting called at his initiative on pricing and allocating of raw materials held by developing nations.

Boumedienne is expected to resist any quick re-establishment of relations without some direct link to a new phase in the Middle East peace move, particularly another Israeli troop pullback.

It is extremely unlikely that this will happen until Israel's political situation stabilizes and that may take months.

Rep. Mizell Has Distinction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell claims one distinction none of his colleagues can hope to match: He's the only member of Congress to have pitched two home-run balls to Henry Aaron.

"They were No. 61 and No. 161," the North Carolina Republican boasted. "I remember them well."

Damaging Winds Sweep Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fierce thunderstorms which caused some preporty damage struck part of Texas today as a cold front swept eastward.

High winds which some witnesses said were tornadoes caused property damage in the Dallas area.

At White Rock Airport in east Dallas, 15 to 20 light planes were overturned and several buildings damaged. Witnesses called it a tornado.

At Duncanville, southwest of Dallas, Clarence Bradshaw reported his mobile home and one other were overturned when what he said was a tornado slashed through a mobile home park.

A tornado which touched down near Wellington in the Panhandle Wednesday night caused minor damage. It unroofed a barn on the Kenneth Hudson farm and destroyed cotton trailers, a power line and fencing on the Garland Hightower farm.

Tornado watches kept broad stretches of countryside on the alert much of the night. One of these, covering 33 counties in the east edge of the Texas Panhandle and adjacent parts of North Central Texas from Abilene to Gage, Okla., expired at 2 a.m.

Before the first alert expired, another went up for 47 counties in a 140-mile wide corridor from near San Angelo toward Oklahoma City. It remained in force for much of that sector until 7 a.m.

Near daylight, the front generating all the turbulence had pushed as far east as a line from northwest of Del Rio to Abilene and on into Oklahoma. Wide bands of unusually severe thunderstorms preceded the frontal system, and showers fell in its wake.

Gusty south winds signalled the approach of the cooler air mass, shifting to the west in its wake. They were clocked as high as 48 miles per hour at Wichita Falls.

By early morning the heaviest thunderstorms raged in a wide band from near Junction through the Dallas-Fort Worth area and northward to around Ardmore, Okla.

Official observers blamed the unruly weather on warm and damp air billowing inland from the Gulf of Mexico

Reform Bill Action Pushed

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Operating under a tight limit on debate but with a batch of amendments still to be voted on, the Senate is striving to complete action on a campaign reform bill.

The first amendment at today's session would require that income tax returns of all members of Congress be audited annually just as President Nixon's recently were.

The amendment, by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., provides that "an intensive inspection and audit" be conducted by the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation.

This is the panel which held that Nixon owed $476,431 in additional taxes.

Tower brought up his amendment Wednesday night amid signs of mounting impatience over further delay in completing Senate action on the bill, which includes controversial provisions for public financing of federal election campaigns.

A two-thirds majority was obtained Tuesday to apply the Senate's anti-filibuster rule, limiting each senator's speaking time to one hour. However, this does not preclude bringing up amendments for a vote.

One amendment adopted Wednesday tightened the bill's limitations on political contributions.

The amendment by Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, provides that an individual may not contribute more than $3,000 and an organization not more than $6,000 to a candidate's entire campaign.

The bill would have permitted contributions of these amounts to a candidate's primary, run-off and general election campaigns.

Under the bill, major party candidates would be entitled to 100 per cent government financing of their general election campaigns up to set spending limits.

But if they preferred, candidates could rely entirely on private contributions or they could elect a combination of public and private financing.

Hearst Blasts SLA Tactics

By HAL MOORE
Associated Press Writer

LA PAZ, Mexico (AP) — Patricia Hearst's kidnaping is not comparable to Latin American political abductions, says her father.

"I can almost understand kidnaping as a viable political action in Latin America where they are faced with such a disparity of wealth between the rich and the poor. But not something like we have experienced," Randolph A. Hearst told a group of newsmen Wednesday at the fishing resort to which he brought his family last Sunday.

"If they would have kidnaped me, that would have been one thing, but to kidnap a little girl..."

Miss Hearst, 20, was kidnaped Feb. 4 by the Symbionese Liberation Army from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment. Her father, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner, has spent $2 million on a food giveaway program in response to demands from the SLA, and the Hearst Corp. has agreed to put up an additional $4 million if the girl is freed. But an SLA communique on April 3 said she had joined the revolutionaries and did not want to return to her family.

Hearst said the American press was being used by the SLA to further their "twisted political ideas."

"This has been one of the biggest ripoffs the press has ever gone through," he said.

He indicated he would not accept an invitation from Dennis Banks of the American Indian Movement to meet with him in Minnesota on Friday. Banks has offered to do what he can to get the SLA to release Hearst's daughter.

"As I understand it, he has put together some sort of Third World Assembly, but I'm not sure why he feels that we should be present unless there are some firm negotiations under way," he said.

Sawyer Talks Self Out Of Job

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's political friend, J.D. Sawyer, has talked himself out of a top Justice Department job and the fancy new office suite Saxbe provided him.

Saxbe has decided to abolish the $38,000-a-year job of associate attorney general less than three months after he appointed Sawyer to it.

Sawyer said he recommended the move because he concluded "there is really no role for the associate attorney general ...if the department is to function effectively and along traditional lines."

By recommending an end to his own job, he became a rarity in the Washington bureaucracy.

The sudden end of Sawyer's Justice Department career was announced today as part of a plan to scrap a departmental reorganization imposed by former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

Saxbe's decision, subject to staff review for two weeks, returns the department to a traditional system Richardson considered fragmented and ineffective.

Sawyer, who managed Saxbe's successful Senate campaign in 1968, said he expects to leave the department in about six weeks and return to his real estate business in Middletown, Ohio, after a Florida vacation.

He told reporters that when he accepted the job, he anticipated staying about a year.

As it turned out, he stayed hardly long enough to settle into an office suite enlarged and redecorated at a cost of $25,500.

Hopes Are Gone For Missing 11

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Coast Guard says it has given up hope for the lives of 11 persons missing after an oil tanker exploded and burned at its mooring on the Delaware River.

Included in the missing are a mother and her three daughters who were visiting the Greek registry tanker Elias when it erupted in a ball of flame late Tuesday.

One man is officially listed as dead and 26 others were either injured or treated for exposure. Most of the 26 leaped from the blazing vessel into frigid water. A search for the missing was suspended Wednesday night.

The wreckage, still resting near the mooring, is reportedly too hot to be entered. A search of the ship is planned for Saturday, the Coast Guard said.

The cause of the explosion which split the 650-foot vessel has not been determined.

Among the missing are the ship's captain, Andreas Antoniadis, who at the time of the blast was dining aboard with his cousin and her three daughters.

The missing cousin has been identified as Mrs. Matina Mentis, 50, of Baltimore. Her missing daughters are JoAnn, 18; Maria, 19; and Georgeen, 13.

The tanker was unloading crude oil at Atlantic Richfield Company's South Philadelphia terminal at the time of the blast. A spokesman for the firm said that 202,700 of the 216,000 barrels of oil had been unloaded.

One Hurt In Road Mishap

Charles E. Lister, Box 246, Ira, sustained minor injuries in a two-vehicle collision on a county road 3.1 miles west of Ira at 6:45 p.m. Wednesday.

He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Galyean Ambulance Service. Hospital Authorities this morning said he had some head lacerations but that his condition is good.

Highway Patrolmen said their investigation of the mishap is incomplete but that it involved a 1970 Model International Truck and a 1973 Model GMC pickup that were in almost headon collision on a hill.

The other driver was not identified, but he apparently escaped injury.

Hometown Grounds Superman

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

METROPOLIS, Ill. (AP) — Great Caeser's ghost! Superman has been grounded in his self-proclaimed hometown.

The "Amazing World of Superman," a project that was supposed to rival Disneyland and bring Metropolis a supershare of the tourist business, is going into mothballs.

About three years ago, someone got the idea Superman would make a dandy favorite son. After all, didn't the comic book Man of Steel live in a place called Metropolis and work there on the Daily Planet newspaper?

Enthusiasm ran so high that a full-length portrait of Superman was painted on the town water tower, and the local weekly newspaper changed its name to the Planet.

Last spring, to the accompaniment of a Marine Corps band and a chorus of gospel singers, a Superman exhibition hall — Amazing World's first phase — opened in a refurbished roller rink.

Politicians gave their blessings, Superman's creator gave the hall an X-ray vision once over and hopes bounded high.

Then it got very quiet. Nobody came.

James W. Crain, 40, chairman of the board of Metropolis Recreation, Inc., owners of the project, said Wednesday nearly everything has gone wrong — delay in construction of a nearby superhighway, too much rain, the gasoline shortage and rising prime interest rates.

This week, signs were posted announcing an auction of the hall's fixtures. Crain isn't sure whether the exhibits, among them the art work for the first Superman comic in 1934 and the costume worn by George Reeves in the Superman television series, will be sold.

City Firemen Are Called Out Twice

City Firemen answered three calls Wednesday.

They extinguished a minor fire in a grain bin at Ezell-Key Feed Company on the Sweetwater Highway at 1:10 p.m. There was a grass fire at Avenue N and Hargrove at 3:45 p.m. A storage house at 2001 Twenty-second Street caught fire at 6:40 p.m., but there was only minor damage.

NAHA, Japan (AP) — A Japanese judge ruled today that an American Marine could not be punished for shooting a Japanese houseboy to death because he was "mentally unsound."

Judge Koryo Ishida of the Naha District Court ordered Lance Cpl. James S. Benjamin of Austin, Tex., released to the Marine Corps. Court sources said he would be sent to a naval hospital in the United States.

Candidate For Lt. Gov. Visits

Gaylord Marshall, in announcing his candidacy for the lieutenant governor's post on the Republican Party ticket, said he has entered the race because he considers himself a "positive alternative."

Marshall visited the Western Texas College campus today and was conduced on a tour of the facilities by Dr. Robert Clinton.

"I am a serious candidate," the 39-year-old resident of University Park, a Dallas suburb, declared.

"It seemed obvious to me that the incumbent lieutenant governor was going to be unchallenged by a serious candidate in his bid for re-election this time," Marshall said. "Therefore, rather than to sit back and watch the incumbent equivocate for four years in the manner he did during the ethics debate in the legislature when Texans were crying for reform, and after a great deal of thought and discussions with numerous party regulars. I decided to offer myself as a positive alternative."

Asked if there was any other comment he'd like to make, Marshall said that his campaign is a "no deficit" campaign.

He has been active in civic and political endeavors for several years. Marshall participates in campaigns such as the United Fund and was a Junior Achievement advisor for four years. He also took part in the Dallas County GOP "Get Out the Vote" campaign in 1972 and was 1973 chairman of the Ivory Club, an organization composed of individuals who contributed $100 or more to the county Republican Party. He was an unsuccessful candidate in the 1972 race for the Texas Fifth Congressional District seat in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Marshall is a commodities future broker. He was with Braniff International for 12 years. He was director of employment for the airline when he decided to enter the commodities futures field. While at Braniff, Marshall served as president of the airline's Management Club and earlier served as the vice-president of Braniff's credit union.

He attended St. Mary's University at San Antonio, where he majored in philosophy and marketing.

Marshall and his wife, Margaret, reside at 4024 Stanford. They have no children.

The Marshalls attend Highland Park United Methodist Church.

Marshall said that, although he was born in Oklahoma, he considers himself a Texan since he was raised in San Antonio. For the past 10 years, he has resided in Dallas.

Pair Held On Marijuana Counts

Lawrence G. Bilberry, 106 Browning, and Don Edd Thompson, Route 1, Del Valley, were charged in Justice of the Peace Court here this morning with illegal possession of marijuana in the amount more than four ounces.

Each was remanded to county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

City Police arrested the two suspects about 3:50 p.m. Wednesday at a private residence in the northeast part of town. Officers said they confiscated 17 pounds of marijuana and various dangerous drugs, including LSD.

FOR WATERGATE ROLE

Porter Given 30 Days

By HARRY F. Rosenthal
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herbert L. Porter, who handled the surrogate speakers program in President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, was sentenced today to serve 30 days in a federal correctional institution for lying to the FBI in its Watergate investigation.

Porter, who will be 36 on Saturday, is the fourth former White House aide who has been sentenced to prison but the sentence was the lighest of any.

The charge carried a maximum five years in prison and a $10,000 fine but a lawyer from the office of special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski said Porter's involvement in the Watergate cover-up was "less in degree than others who pleaded guilty to felony charges."

Porter, who now works in his father-in-law's small construction business at Laguna Niguel, Calif., had admitted to the Senate Watergate Committee that he also gave perjured testimony to the grand jury and at the 1973 Watergate break-in trial.

He said he agreed to the lie "because of the fear of group pressure that would ensue, of not being a team player."

The false story concerned money he gave to G. Gordon Liddy, the alleged mastermind of the Watergate break-in. Porter said deputy campaign director Jeb. S. Magruder had ordered him to give money to Liddy for "dirty tricks," and that he turned over some $35,000.

At the end of June 1972, some 11 or 12 days after the break-in at Democratic Party headquarters, Porter said Magruder told him that "dirty tricks" would sound bad to investigators and asked that they concoct a cover story.

Porter said he agreed to say he gave Liddy $100,000 for hiring 10 college students for 10 months at $1,000 a month and that was the story he later told.

Meanwhile, four of the seven defendants charged with conspiring to obstruct justice in the investigation of the Watergate cover-up filed motions Wednesday asking that U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica be disqualified from the case.

Sirica assigned himself to the trial, scheduled for September.

"Judge Sirica possesses, consciously or unconsciously, a deep-seated and unshakeable personal bias in favor of the prosecution," said the motion filed by John N. Mitchell, John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson. Another one-time administration official, Gordon Strachan, filed a separate but similar motion.

Serial Numbers Dispute Jacobsen

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Banknote serial numbers appear to contradict the sworn testimony of Texas attorney Jake Jacobsen about a $10,000 fund earmarked for former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, according to sources familiar with the case.

Two sources said the serial numbers indicate the money was not in circulation at the time Jacobsen swore it went into a bank safe-deposit box.

Jacobsen has pleaded innocent to a perjury indictment that charges him with lying to a Watergate grand jury by saying the money stayed in the box for 2½ years, until taken out in the presence of an FBI agent last Nov. 27.

Watergate investigators suspect the money may have been intended for Connally in return for his help in getting President Nixon to raise milk price supports in 1971.

And columnist Jack Anderson reported this week that FBI agents working for the Watergate special prosecutor have evidence that Connally pocketed the $10,000, then hastily returned it after the dairy group came under investigation.

Connally has denied receiving any bribe.

The original $10,000 was taken from the corporate account of Associated Milk Producers Inc., the nation's largest dairy-farmer cooperative, a few weeks after Nixon raised the support level in March 1971. Jacobsen said it was offered to Connally not as a bribe but for use in making political donations.

Jacobsen said he offered the money to Connally twice but that Connally refused it and the $10,000 lay untouched in a safe-deposit box.

Sources say the banknote serial numbers indicate it is impossible for Jacobsen's account to be true, because the bills are too new to have been in circulation when Jacobsen says they went into the box.

Consequently, Jacobsen's lawyer is reported ready to bargain with prosecutors for a reduced charge in return for a guilty plea and cooperation in giving future testimony.

But chances for such a bargained misdemeanor plea, which might allow Jacobsen to continue practicing law, are thought to be dim because the law provides nothing less than felony charges for lying under oath.

US Troop Cutbacks Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger says the Pentagon is considering possible ways to cut back the number of U.S. support troops in Europe without reducing the U.S. combat posture.

Schlesinger told reporters Wednesday "the prognosis is far more favorable than it has been in the recent past" for continued U.S political support for keeping American troops stationed in Europe.

"We are examining within the department the possibility of reducing certain support elements in Europe, but no reduction whatsoever of our combat capabilities," the defense secretary said.

Schlesinger voiced the comments just before a closed meeting with Annemarie Renger, president of the West German parliament and seven other members of the parliament.

He again stressed that NATO allies must be willing to assume their own full share in defending Europe.

He did not indicate how large a cutback in support troops was being considered.

The United States has a total of some 300,000 military men in the European area, about 214,000 of them in Germany.

Julie Says Dad Could Contest

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower says President Nixon could have contested portions of his back tax bill but did not in order to encourage Americans to support the tax collection system.

"Frankly, my father's entire position on the tax matter has been one of trying to encourage the American people to support the Internal Revenue (Service) system," the President's daughter told a news conference Tuesday.

"He did not have to pay $171,000 back taxes from 1969 because the statute of limitations had expired," she said. "Yet, he is paying that money just because he wants to take a stand."

She said "another point that could be made is that his intention obviously was to contribute" his vice presidental papers and take the income tax deduction which the IRS eventually disallowed.

Because his lawyers "did not get the paper work done," he failed to meet the deadline for the donation, Mrs. Eisenhower said.

"Yet, he is not going to contest it, and he wants the matter closed," she said. "I think this is the right attitude to take."

Her father would not be impeached nor would he resign, she said.

Psychologist Hopes To Aid

By SANDRA GITTENS

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Irene Kassorla claims her professional life essentially started when she was 42.

That's after she developed new techniques which enabled her to generate speech from mute, autistic children, thereby markedly altering childhood schizophrenia.

While attending the University of California at Los Angeles she was assigned hospital observation duties and says it was there she realized doctors were reinforcing psychosis.

"I went back to my school and wrote a paper saying doctors are reinforcing psychosis at such and such hospital," she said in an interview here.

After the papers were graded and handed back she recalls that her professor asked, "Who is Irene Kassorla? May I speak with you for a moment?"

"I thought he was going to do something drastic; instead he said, 'Look, what do you want?'. I told him I wanted a patient and I wanted to try out my own ideas, which of course was absurd because you don't get a patient for another 10 years — when you're close to your doctorate," she explained.

She got a patient, nevertheless, and within a week, she says, she was able to get remarkable results from a sick little girl.

By simply reversing what was done at the hospital, Dr. Kassorla said she reinforced healthy responses, ignored the bizarre, and the child got better.

"Before," she said, "doctors would see a psychotic doing something crazy and say, 'Oh, that's all right!' I wouldn't say, 'Oh, that's all right'. I'd say, 'Hey, that's crazy, what the heck are you doing? Stop it!'

"I'm never dishonest with such a person. I give him reality, and this is what is important about my techniques — treat the psychotic normally and you know what, he acts normal!"

For the next three years she continued work with autistic children. Then in 1965 she was invited to further her studies in London by Hans Eysenck, professor of the Institute of Psychiatry at the University of London.

In London she claims "again very marvelous things happened." She worked with a 52-year-old patient who hadn't spoken in over 30 years. She recalled he was like a rock but says she was able to get him talking after 31 days.

"The papers got hold of it and started calling me 'miracle worker.' Then the BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) came to me and made a couple of documentaries on my work with this man."

Completing her degree in London, Dr. Kassorla returned to the United States and internship. While in Los Angeles she was asked to do therapy sessions at a television station. She says she thought it was an excellent idea because most people undergo the same kind of difficulties as the psychotic.

"The psychotic," she explained, "will act crazy, using it as a language, and very often we respond to it. But, with normal people, psychotic behavior is not as easy to see because it is not as magnified. The psychotic is different only in frequency, intensity, and volume — a magnification of normalcy.

"With normal people," she continued, "there's the same tendency to bury feelings of inadequacy and insecurity, and that's when one begins to feel different from others and starts to distort reality.

"Everyone fails," she added. "Everybody feels inadequate at times, and everybody feels afraid. But the difference between a successful person and a mediocre person is that the first one goes right on trying after a failure. The other goes back and waits longer afraid."

The basis of the TV show, she says, is to let people in their homes see other people talking about the same problems everyone faces so eventually they see that they're no different from the next guy.

"The Dr. Irene Kassorla Show" started out on a 13-week trial basis and has managed to continue for three years. Dr. Kassorla says talks are now underway for showings in various parts of the United States.

The mother of two grown daughters, 20 and 26, Dr. Kassorla says she's also interested in working with the so called "normal" parent — in showing him or her how to stop reinforcing psychotic behavior in their children.

Currently she's completed a book entitled "Putting It All Together," which she says was written for the purpose of showing people how negative responses are acted out and cause unhealthy and unhappy lives.

"My main objective," she says, "is that, although in a couple of sessions I can't cure a person, I can give him hope and make him realize that he's just like everyone else."

Book Disputes Discovery

ENGLAND AND THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA. By David B. Quinn. Knopf. 497 Pages. $15.

Trying to shoot down Columbus is ancient sport, and many preposterous claims have been advanced for other discoverers of America.

David B. Quinn also offers a theory disputing Columbus's primacy. But there's nothing preposterous about this scholarly, closely reasoned book.

Quinn suggests that the English, sailing from Bristol, preceded Columbus to the New World between 1481 and 1492. Important to this theory is a letter written by John Day, a Bristol merchant, to Columbus in 1497.

The letter refers to English Atlantic discovery in "other times." Quinn proceeds to establish an interesting context. He details links between Bristol sea venturers and the Portuguese and Spaniards, showing that some information about Atlantic exploration was shared.

Bristol in the 1480s had a strong incentive for such exploration. It needed new fishing grounds. And if the English indeed discovered Newfoundland in 1481 — which Quinn considers the likely date — they had reason to keep quiet about it. They wanted no competing fishing fleets there.

All this is fairly persuasive. Quinn is not dogmatic; he presents his argument as a theory that lacks conclusive evidence. The Day letter was discovered in 1956, and its implications were rejected by another authority, Samuel Eliot Morrison. Quinn's comment is slightly waspish:

"...It is a justifiable reaction in an outstanding historian whose great merit is that he sees sharply in black-and-white terms, and who is thoroughly qualified to expound what is already known. He is perhaps too impatient to study the nuances of pre-Cabotian enterprise."

With John Cabot's voyage, at any rate, we leave the disputed and murky area of pre-Columbia exploration and sail into the firmly established. Much the greater part of Quinn's work deals with the known explorations, and most expertly.

Quinn's mastery of the subject is impressive and his writing clear, though this book is no popularization.

New Guides For Furniture Industry

COLLEGE STATION—The Federal Trade Commission's (FTC) new guides for the furniture industry are now in effect, one authority noted this week.

She's Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Essentially a revision of 1963 trade practice rules, the FTC felt that earlier standards didn't adequately cover changes in technology and materials.

"These new regulations, effective March 21, 1974, also will eliminate some misleading advertising and other deceptive practices.

"For example, manufacturers must inform consumers if an item uses plastic, vinyl, marble dust or other products to simulate wood, leather, marble, slate etc.

"Furniture with veneered construction or simulated finishes must have attached tags or labels stating such information," the specialist said.

In the past, some retailers removed tags and labels that gave information about an item's construction and composition, Miss Bradshaw continued.

"The new guides aim to stop this—also set down specific rules concerning labeling.

"First, manufacturers can't use names of countries to indicate style, because some consumers confuse this with where the item was made."

For example, a piece of furniture manufactured in the U. S. can't be labeled just "Danish". Instead, it must state "Danish Design" or "Danish Style," the specialist explained.

"However, they can use 'Chinese Chippendale', 'French Provincial,' 'Italian Provincial' and 'Mediterranean' because the public realizes these terms describe style rather than origin.

COOKING IS FUN

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One of the most interesting treatments you can give that most elegant of all vegetables, the artichoke, is to stuff it. This way artichokes make bounteous servings for a company lunch, supper or dinner where they may be offered as a first course or instead of a salad. The following recipe, an exceptionally flavorful one, was inspired by Italian cuisine.

SAVORY STUFFED ARTICHOKES

4 medium artichokes, cooked (see below)
1-3rd cup olive oil
1 cup finely chopped onion
1 cup finely chopped parsley
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1 large clove garlic, crushed
3 cups coarse fresh bread crumbs
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dried oregano
2 tablespoons coarsely grated Romano cheese, if desired

Cook artichokes and prepare for stuffing as directed below. In a 10-inch skillet heat the oil; add onion, parsley, celery and garlic; cook over moderate heat, stirring often, until celery is almost tender — 5 to 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in bread crumbs, Parmesan, salt, pepper and the oregano. Gently spread leaves of cooked artichokes and spoon crumb mixture into centers. (Should there be any stuffing left over, pack it among outside leaves.) If used, sprinkle stuffing with Romano. Using extra olive oil, drizzle 1 teaspoon of it over outer leaves of each artichoke. Place artichokes in an 8-inch square glass baking dish or similar utensil; cover tightly with foil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Reinstated REAP Won't Pay For 1973 Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Associated Press erroneously reported Tuesday that a federal conservation subsidy program has been revived to pay farmers for land improvement projects they carried out in 1973.

That will not be the case. The Agriculture Department said Wednesday the 1973 program was reopened but that it will provide payments to farmers only for projects approved and carried out during the remainder of 1974, not for work last year.

Last Monday the department announced: "The total authorized funding level of $225.5 million has been released for the reinstated 1973 Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP)."

The AP story said the program "will pump $225.5 million back into rural areas as payments to farmers for projects they carried out last year."

Gardner Smith, a program official in the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the REAP funds will not be used to pay farmers for conservation work they may have initiated on their own in 1973 when the program was not in effect.

The department terminated 1973 REAP on Dec. 22, 1972, a few months after announcing it would be in effect at a spending level of $140 million. Congress had authorized $225.5 million.

A federal court late last year reversed the cancellation, and the department on March 11 announced it would comply. At that time USDA officials told reporters they thought the original $140 million level would be in effect.

The announcement this week, however, said the full $225.5 million set by Congress would be made available.

Smith, in an interview, said if a farmer had applied for 1973 benefits and the application was approved by his county ASCS office by Dec. 22, 1972, he would have been eligible for compensation.

But if a farmer had not been cleared for 1973 REAP before the cutoff and had carried out improvement plans anyway he is not eligible for compensation under the revived program, Smith said.

"Approval now for 1973 work will not be retroactive," Smith said. "A farmer will have to start all over again with his application and county office approval."

Alleged Milk Bribe Has Texas Dairymen Upset

By JOHN LUMPKIN
Associated Press Writer

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex. (AP) Dairyman Bill Tate was standing in a feed store when he said: "You're think you can see the Lord everywhere you look. You see calves being born, the grass growing, the trees."

But just now Tate is embarrassed. Upset.

Although Washington's Watergate complex is 1,300 miles away, Tate and other members of Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) apparently don't think that's far enough.

It was the Watergate-related scandals that now have Tate's group mired in a growing controversy over an alleged bribe to get milk prices raised by the Nixon Administration.

"If AMPI did step out of line, regardless of for what reasons ... it was wrong what they did," he said.

Billboards around this placid greenbelt in Northeast Texas proclaim it to be the dairy capital of Texas.

There are twice as many cows in Hopkins County as there are people.

"We're not a bunch of saints but you won't find more honest people as a group," allows Tate, a big, muscular man who admits he could make more money doing something else.

Tate and his fellow dairy farmers, most of them AMPI members, are conscious of the government's investigation of San Antonio-based AMPI, whose 40,000 members form the nation's largest dairy cooperative. AMPI markets the milk produced by Tate's 600 cows and hundreds of thousands of others in the United States.

The group's law firm has admitted AMPI illegally donated $100,000 in corporate funds to President Nixon's 1969 campaign. Watergate investigators are now focusing on claims, denied by Nixon, that $427,000 from the political trusts of AMPI and two other co-ops influenced a 1971 milk price support increase. There are new claims that AMPI tried to arrange a $300,000 contribution in 1972 to kill a federal antitrust suit still pending against the San Antonio-based organization.

"I don't think there's any dairyman who would want to do anything illegal. If we knew then what we know now, I wouldn't have given Nixon any of it," Tate said, stabbing the air for emphasis with big, beefy hands.

Dressed in boots and work clothes, Tate was preparing to inspect some silos. He was in a hurry, part of his 14-hour day, but he was still anxious to have the dairy farmer's point of view known. "I don't like the way the money was being used. Of course, you've got to find out if it is true.

"But I suppose it is," he said.

Joe Bain Sr., 72 years old, short and trim, was leaning on the rail of a cowpen fence when he voiced his feelings about the milk fund investigations.

"It's embarrassing to me. The dairy farmers were misled," he said. A brown spurt of tobacco juice shot from his jaws. AMPI, he said, didn't put on "the best talent" when it came to naming the board of directors. He blamed dairymen for letting AMPI management wheel and deal.

Joe Dain Sr. is retired but still feels a dairy co-op is the only way a successful dairyman can operate. His 130 Jersey cows are now handled by Joe Bain Jr.

Joe Jr. clamped down on a big cigar and said he wasn't sure if he's "bragging or complaining" about having a family-oriented dairy farm.

Joe was wearing the dairyman's uniform-overalls-when he headed for his barn. The odor of warm manure clung to the air nearly as heavy as his words. "We don't want anything done illegally or undercover.

"We haven't made any money that way and I don't want to!" he said.

"It just makes me feel like somebody was not carrying out their duties like they should perform them because myself, and most dairymen, are honest, hard-working people," he added.

Bain says he's sold on the idea of political action for dairymen. He also feels right about contributing to political candidates.

"But I don't think we need him if he is going to do anything illegal, nasty or anything like that," he said.

According to Bain, any politician who comes around looking for contributions in return or favors will get the door slammed in his face.

Especially the dairy barn door.

Hey! Doesn't hubby have rights?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You're the best in your field, but every now and then even you make a mistake. Example: Woman engaged to man who wants to buy a farm. She refuses to live on farm. He gives in. They live 28 years in city.

Now, with retirement approaching, he wants to buy a modest 12 acres, where he can [presumably] raise a little garden, plant a few fruit trees, and perhaps keep a few chickens. He wants to spend his latter years in healthy, happy, productive activity; a most commendable and wholesome idea certainly.

The wife had her way for 28 years. Yet you tell her, "Don't give an inch or you'll wind up with 12 acres!"

Doesn't the husband have any rights? I say he should buy his little retirement plot and move on it, and if she doesn't want to go along—good riddance!

DON BUCK: GIRARD, KAS.

DEAR DON: When you put it that way, I'll have to admit you make a lot of sense, so after thinking it over, I surrender, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest [and envy] the letter from the woman whose husband wanted to share her with his friends. I should be so lucky!

Twelve years ago I married a man who was so effectively taught in his childhood that sex was dirty, that after 12 years of marriage he still thinks sex is sinful.

Need I tell you what kind of a bed partner he has been? I have had a lot of time to think about it, and if I had to choose between promiscuity and abstinence, believe me, I'd choose promiscuity. DOING WITHOUT IN GAINESVILLE

DEAR DOING: I don't "envy" you, either. But remember, "promiscuity" is no pass to paradise—if you can believe my mail. And I do.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is almost perfect. We've been married for three years and get along fine, but there is one problem. When we are with people Norton is very quiet. I am forever making up excuses for him, like, "Oh, Norton is tired tonight," or, "Norton isn't feeling very well."

When he and I are alone together he is fine, but when we're in company, he clams up. People keep asking me if he's mad.

Have you any suggestions for him? Or for me?

NORTON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Norton that silence is sometimes mistaken for unfriendliness, so to please try to be more sociable. But don't nag him about it. He's probably shy, and too much pushing on your part will make him even more self-conscious.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HEARTBROKEN PARENTS: From your letter I would say that you did your best. Now, quit punishing yourselves. Some parents "train up a child in the way he should go," and out of sheer spite and rebellion, the child deliberately departs from it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212 for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Carr Says Scandal Will Hurt

DALLAS (AP) — Former state Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr says his legal troubles with the Justice Department stemming from the 1971 Texas stock fraud scandals would cause him trouble in rekindling his once promising political career.

A federal court judge acquitted Carr of stock fraud and conspiracy charges Monday, but he said that might not be enough.

"There are some people who always believe the bad and don't want to believe the good," he said, "and so from those quarters, if I submit myself to political contest, I'm sure I'd have trouble."

The former attorney general added he didn't know "whether I could ever afford the luxury or the enjoyment of public service again."

Carr said speculation about his political future isn't practical now.

"Under the election laws we now have, there will be no more races on the statewide level for four years and that's a lifetime," he told a reporter.

Carr said the Justice department "robbed me of a realistic view toward ever getting in politics again."

As a defendant during the past three years, Carr contended the indictments against him were part of a plot hatched in Washington to discredit Texas Democrats.

He said the Nixon administration and the Justice Department under former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell succeeded in what they were trying to do by filing the charges—they carried Texas in 1972.

Carr said he had been considering running for statewide office, possibly for lieutenant governor, before the charges were levelled three years ago.

"I think if I ever went back into government, I would be far more understanding of the average citizen's problems ... and be far more sympathetic to the fact that government should never try to overpower its people," he said.

"I've seen too much of that lately."

Reformers Plan Would Curb Future Watergates

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seeking insurance against future Watergates, political reformers are urging 1976 presidential nominees to do their campaign business through the Republican and Democratic national committees.

The theory is that management, or at least supervision, by regular party organizations and leaders would guard against the kind of abuses that marked President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

But there is a flaw: the way the system works, in a presidential year a party's nominee for the White House decides who is going to run the party organization anyhow.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford has proposed that 1976 GOP candidates agree in advance that they will not set up special campaign committees without specific approval of the party.

A House Republican study panel has said that "a strong national party would help curb some of the excesses that have been witnessed during the past few years and would make it easier for the public to isolate responsibility for illegal actions..."

But presidential candidates build their personal political organizations as they campaign through the primary elections, seeking White House nomination. At that stage, the regular party organization is theoretically neutral. The pattern has been for the personal organization of the winner to take over in the fall and run the national campaign.

The presidential nominee traditionally chooses the top leadership of his party's national committee. Committee members from the 50 states elect their chairman — but in practice, they ratify the choice of the presidential nominee.

Neither party committee had much to say about the 1972 presidential campaign. As always, the clout was where the presidential nominees put it. And as usual, there was friction between state party organizations and the campaign committees set up by the candidates.

In an era of political specialization and increasingly lengthy and expensive presidential campaigns, the pattern has been one of management and control by the candidate's men, not the permanent party structure.

All of this suggests that a long-term solution to the problem of presidential campaign control is going to take more than persuasion aimed at candidates.

One proposal is part of the public campaign finance bill now before the Senate. It would allow a presidential nominee to set up his own organization to run the campaign — but the chairman, or someone he designates, would have to endorse every expenditure of over $1,000 in public funds.

Salt Lake Area Buried In Snow

By The Associated Press

An April storm that buried the Salt Lake region under two feet of snow swirled into the northwestern Plains today.

While only two inches of snow fell in parts of Wyoming during the night, winter storm warnings advised that cold rain and wet snow would spread across the northern and west-central Plains.

In the Salt Lake region, one death was attributed to the storm Wednesday. A Clearfield, Utah, woman was electrocuted as she backed her car into power lines downed by the heavy snow.

School classes were canceled, and there was a possibility of flooding today when temperatures were expected to rise.

To the south of the storm, a tornado watch for the south-central Plains was in effect through the night. One twister was spotted in the Texas Panhandle near Wellington.

There were no reports of damage or injuries.

Strong winds in Southern California gusted up to 70 miles per hour in the Tehachapi Mountains, while winds up to 40 m.p.h. blew through Utah, South Dakota and Texas.

Meanwhile, rain fell in the Pacific Northwest and the Upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes regions.

Fair but cool weather was the rule from the Appalachians to the Atlantic Coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 20 at Burlington, Vt., to 76 at Brownsville, Tex.

Utilities Ad Ban Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public utilities would be banned from advertising to attract more customers during energy shortages under a bill to be introduced today by Rep. William Walsh, R-N.Y.

Walsh said in a statement that under the bill it would be illegal for a public utility to spend money to advertise "to increase the number of persons buying electricity or natural gas from such utility" when the Federal Power Commission determines there is a shortage of electrical power or natural gas.

Walsh said that it is "a bit astounding when you realize that all through our current energy woes, utility companies have continued to advertise ... Attempts to attract more consumers to a product already scarce is an absurb practice and should be stopped."

The bill also would make it unlawful for any regulated public utility to charge a preferential rate to any person on the basis of the amount of electricity or gas bought from such a utility.

The bill contains a provision for a fine of $5,000 and $10,000 for each violation and states that each day of advertising during a shortage would be a separate offense.

Reports Of Cooling Trade Upset Chinese

By JOHN CUNNIFF
APBusinessAnalyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chinese are upset about news commentaries that trade prospects with the United States have cooled, a China authority and corporate trade negotiator reports.

Officials of the People's Republic, Harned Pettus Hoose said, are anxious that trade relations continue to develop. "I was asked to please make this known to business circles in the United States. They were emphatic," Hoose said.

He added: "They are very disturbed and resentful of such reports and ask what is being done to cope with them."

Hoose, a lawyer who was born and who lived 23 years in China, and who has spent six of the past 24 months negotiating for American corporations there, said he was asked continually in a recent visit to comment on the alleged cooling.

"I told them I saw no evidence of it," said Hoose, who maintains that any such reports resulted, in his opinion, from an inability of some observers to assess a nation as large and complex as China.

"It's like the blind feeling an elephant," he said. "One feels the tail and believes the elephant is cool; another feels the trunk and believes the elephant is hot."

The Chinese, however, aren't inclined to accept such a simple explanation. To them, Hoose said, "reports about cooling off must originate with Taiwan or the Soviet Union or from circles that are enimical to the Chinese."

Partly because they believe the Soviets are a "very real and immediate threat," in Hoose's words, the Chinese are committed to economic expansion through trade.

In Canton, for example, the government has constructed an enormous trade building to replace older facilities. The complex is at least 20 times larger than the existing facility, with hundreds of acres of grounds and buildings.

Further evidence of a commitment to trade, said Hoose, are dozens of new hotels in Canton, Shanghai and Peking, the development of more dock space and even a system for handling containerized cargo.

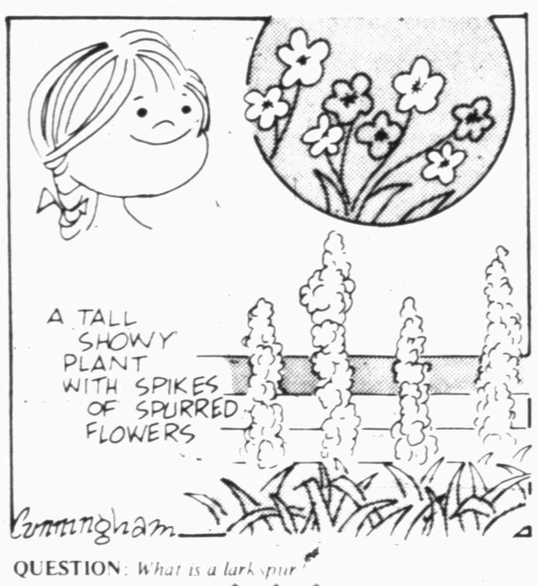

Hoose was asked by his Chinese counterpart if a large transaction would demonstrate China's interest in trade. The next day the Chinese doubled the amount of the commodity Hoose sought, much to his surprise.

Hoose declined to name the commodity, which apparently is in short supply. He said his American corporate client was delighted, not only to receive the commodity but because of the Chinese cooperativeness on delivery dates, price and ports of delivery.

Hoose said the Chinese dislike being lumped with the Soviet Union in legislation aimed at providing most favored nation status, which results in lower tariffs on goods imported into the United States.

"They are outraged that they should be lined up with the Russians," he said, referring to Chinese fears that Russia might fail to acquire favored status and destroy China's prospects as well.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE LARKSPUR

QUESTION: What is a larkspur?

ANSWER: Larkspur is the common name for delphinium, an attractive plant of the North Temperate Zone. It belongs to the buttercup family, which includes a large number of annual and perennial garden plants and many wild flowers.

Larkspur has deeply cut leaves and spurred flowers on tall spikes. The plants range from 1 foot to 7 feet tall. The flowers may be blue, white or pink, but blue is the most prominent. It is easily grown from seed or from cuttings. Gardeners usually call the annual varieties larkspur and the perennials delphinium. Larkspur is smaller and less imposing than delphinium.

Some kinds of our native larkspur are poisonous to cattle. A European larkspur is used in medicine. Columbines, graceful and attractive wild flowers found in the woods and meadows, are close relatives of larkspur.

Good And Bad News On Island

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Tex. (AP) — There's good news and bad news for the thousands of young persons planning South Padre Island this Easter holiday.

The good news is a good gasoline supply. The bad news is no southern tent city and streaking will be expensive.

"We expect to have plenty of gasoline," Mrs. Betty Prcin, manager of the Port Isabel Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday. She said all gas stations expected to have adequate supplies for the holiday.

A spokesman for the Cameron County Park Department said the usual "tent city" near the southern tip of the island will not be permitted because the area has not been marked off to allow uniform space for each camper.

Campers are being sent to an area north of Andy Bowie Park where tents can be pitched near the beach.

Justice of the Peace Bud Emmons said the fine is $52.50 for streaking or "snailing." He said "snailing" is a person who is streaking but "is slow enough to be caught."

"They don't like the $52.50. It shortens their stay," Emmons said.

He said he has fined five persons for streaking in recent weeks and expects more such incidents as thousands of college students arrive later this week.

Mrs. Prcin said all island motels and hotels are filled for the Easter weekend.

Firestone Must Pay

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A district court jury found Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. negligent Wednesday in construction of a faulty truck tire which caused an accident and awarded the plaintiffs $70,120.78.

The jury awarded $16,166.78 to the truck's owner, King Van and Storage Co., and $53,954 to the driver, Secundino R. Rubio.

The decision was the first under a Jan. 22 landmark decision by the Oklahoma Supreme Court which held a manufacturer is responsible for injuries caused by faulty merchandise.

The ruling stated a person bringing suit must prove the product caused the injury, the product was faulty when it left the manufacturer's possession and the defect made the article unreasonably dangerous.

Pitcher Prefers 20-Second Clock

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Pro basketball has its 24 and 30-second clocks to help speed up games, and Clyde Wright, veteran left-handed pitcher of the Milwaukee Brewers, thinks major league baseball should adopt a 20-second clock between pitches for the same purpose.

"I played in the minor leagues in Wichita, Kan., with the 20-second clock on the scoreboard, and it really made the game a lot more interesting," Wright said Wednesday after pitching what he considered 83-3 innings of slow baseball in the Brewers' 6-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"Games lasted only an hour and a half or a little more, and the fans didn't get bored," he added.

The 20,036 opening-day fans at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium apparently were getting bored Wednesday, and they began throwing snowballs on the field.

Their boredom turned to disappointment in the ninth inning when Milwaulkee's Don Money smashed a dramatic grand slam home run with two out, lifting the Brewers to a 6-4 victory.

"He broke the monotony real nice," Wright said of Money's blast during the 2 hour, 45 minute game.

In other American League games Wednesday, the California Angels edged the Texas Rangers 4-3, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Oakland A's 4-1, the Minnesota Twins beat the winless Chicago White Sox 6-5, and the Baltimore Orioles' game against the Red Sox at Boston was postponed because of snow.

Wright and Jim Perry were locked in a 2-2 duel until the ninth. Then the Brewers filled the bases on two walks and a single, before Money tagged reliever Cecil Upshaw for his homer, which carried over the left field fence.

Angels 4, Rangers 3

The Angels broke a 3-3 tie in the ninth inning when Richie Scheinblum singled with one out, and scored from first as Ellie Rodríguez singled to left and Alex Johnson fumbled the ball.

Texas' Ferguson Jenkins, who pitched a one-hitter in his American League debut last week against Oakland, was clipped for three runs in the first inning by California, but settled down and hurled scoreless three-hit ball until the ninth.

Frank Tanana went the distance for the Angels and allowed nine hits, including Tom Grieve's two-run homer.

Royals 4, A's 1

Home runs by John Mayberry and Fred Patek backed the six-hit pitching of Steve Busby in Kansas City's victory over Oakland.

Busby helped himself by picking off Bill North from third base in the sixth inning when the A's scored their only run.

Both Kansas City homers came off loser Ken Holtzman, Mayberry connecting with one on in the first inning and Patek hitting his while leading off in the fifth.

Twins 6, White Sox 5

Minnesota capitalized on the wildness of Chicago pitchers in the seventh inning, bunching five walks, a double and a sacrifice fly for four runs in overcoming a 5-2 deficit and handing the White Sox their fourth setback.

After starter Stan Bahnsen walked leadoff batter Jim Holt in the seventh, Terry Forster came in and walked Randy Hundley and surrendered a run-scoring double to Jerry Terrell. Then, Forster walked Sergio Ferrer and Rod Carew, forcing in a run.

Cy Acosta replaced Forster and walked Larry Hisle, forcing in the tying run, and Tony Oliva drove in the winner with a sacrifice fly.

White Sox' slugger Dick Allen slammed his first homer of the season, but also struck out four times, taking a third strike from roookie reliever Bill Campbell in the eighth inning with two out and two men on base.

---

National League scores were: Montreal 12, Pittsburgh 8, in 13 innings; New York Mets 3, St. Louis 2; Chicago Cubs 7, Philadelphia 6; San Francisco 4, Cincinnati 3; Los Angeles 4, Atlanta 0, and Houston 9, San Diego 1.

Aaron In Slump After Big Homer

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Now that Hank Aaron has hit THE home run, the question is when will he get any other kind of hit.

Other than his two home runs—Nos. 714 and 715—it's been nothing but outsville this season and the 40-year-old Atlanta superstar with the lifetime .311 batting average is hitting at a lowly .154 clip.

Aaron grounded out twice following his record-breaking home run Monday night. He sat out the next game and Wednesday night he took an 0-for-4 collar—two fly balls, one grounder and a strikeout—as Tommy John and Mike Marshall of Los Angeles held the Braves to four singles in pitching the Dodgers to a 4-0 triumph.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Montreal Expos finally swung into action and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-8 in 13 innings, the San Francisco Giants edged the Cincinnati Reds 4-3, the New York Mets nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, the Chicago Cubs overtook the Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 and the Houston Astros walloped the San Diego Padres 9-1.

John, who is in his third National League season and has a perfect 6-0 mark against the Braves, is one of those rare birds—a pitcher off whom Aaron has never homered.

The Dodgers got the only run they needed in the first inning on singles by Lee Lacy and Bill Buckner and Jim Wynn's sacrifice fly. Lacy singled again in the sixth and came around on three walks.

Expos 12, Pirates 8

After being unable to open as scheduled at home because of bad weather, the Expos finally heard the cry of "Play ball" in Pittsburgh and took out their frustrations on the Pirates' pitching staff to the tune of 14 hits.

Doubles by Larry Lintz and Jim Cox sparked a four-run burst in the 13th inning that gave the Expos the victory and sent the winless Pirates to their third straight defeat in their home opener.

Lintz opened the 13th with a double off reliever Ramon Hernandez and scored on Cox' double following a walk. Ron Woods' two-run single and an RBI double by pitcher Chuck Taylor produced the other runs. The Pirates tied the game 8-8 in the bottom of the ninth on pinch hitter Bob Robertson's two-out, two-run homer after the Expos scored three times in the top of the ninth off Pittsburgh relief ace Dave Giusti.

Astros 9, Padres 1

Houston broke open a tight game with six runs in the fifth inning, including successive two-run doubles by Tommy Helms and pitcher Dave Roberts. It was the fifth loss in a row for the Padres.

While Bill Greif held Houston hitless for three innings, the Padres picked up a third-inning run when Derrel Thomas tripled and scored on an infield out. But the Astros took a 2-1 lead in the fourth on Cesar Cedeno's home run and consecutive singles by Bob Watson, Milt May, Lee May and Doug Rader.

Reds 4, Giants 3

Dave Kingman made amends for two errors by hitting a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. Bobby Bonds homered in the seventh for what proved to be the winning run while Mike Caldwell, acquired from San Diego in a trade for Willie McCovey, boosted his record to 2-0 with help from Randy Moffitt in the eighth.

Mets 3, Cardinals 2

Jerry Grote, who hit only one home run last year, cracked his second of the young 1974 season and drove in another run with a single, helping the National League champion Mets win their home opener. Grote, who hit just 27 homers in eight previous seasons, connected off John Curtis, who was making his NL debut.

Cubs 7, Phillies 6

Billy Williams hit a three-run homer in the first inning and singled home two runs in the ninth for the victory. The Phillies had taken a 6-5 lead in the top of the ninth when Greg Luzinski drove in his third run with a sacrifice fly.

---

American League scores: Kansas City 4, Oakland 1; Minnesota 6, Chicago White Sox 5; California 4, Texas 3 and Milwaukee 6, Cleveland 4. Baltimore and Boston were snowed out and the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers were not scheduled.

Coach Speedy Moffett listed probable starters for the Tigers, according to batting order, as Follows: Kelly Ragland lf, Randy Gressett lb, Ralp Lewis 3b, Robert Braziel p, Doak Witherspoon rf, Robert Alderete ss, Ernie Simons c, Sid Perry 2b and V. T. Roberson cf.

Moffett said he would start either Doak Witherspoon or Gary Greenlee in the second game.

The Tigers meet Lubbock High again in another doubleheader at 2:30 p.m. next Tuesday at Connie Mack Park in Lubbock, then host Lubbock Monterey in another twinbill at 2:30 p.m. Friday week in Moffett Field in Snyder. Monterey is leading the league with a perfect 8-0 record.

Clark Paces Bullet Win

By The Associated Press

"Archie was the key," concluded Elvin Hayes. "He did it all."

Archie was Archie Clark who scored 20 points Wednesday night, including 12 points in the final period when the Capital Bullets gathered enough momentum to take a 109-92 National Basketball Associaton playoff victory over the New York Knicks.

The victory evened the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinals at three games apiece with the deciding game in New York Friday night.

"I finally felt comfortable late in the game," said the 32-year-old Clark who has been plagued for two years with injuries and had been used sparingly in the playoffs.

In the only American Basketball Association playoff action, the San Antonio Pacers downed the Indiana Pacers 102-86 to tie their Western Division playoff series at 3-3.

Hayes didn't do badly himself — scoring 31 points to run his total in the six-game series to 169.

The Bullets led 68-67 going into the final 12 minutes and quickly jumped in front 77-69 on the shooting of Clark and Phil Chenier, who also scored 12 final-period points.

Spurs 102, Pacers 86

The Spurs relied heavily on the hot shotting of Bird Averitt who finished with 19 points and Swen Nater who had 18.

San Antonio never trailed after taking an early 8-7 lead and their lead grew as big as 23 points in the fourth period.

The series now switches back to Indianapolis for the deciding game Friday night.

Indiana's Roger Brown had 26 points.

The winner of this series meets Utah in the ABA West finals and both coaches think their clubs can go all the way.

Morton Joins Houston Texans

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Quarterback Craig Morton, who couldn't agree with Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry on who should call the plays, has joined the World Football League Houston Texans where he'll not only call the signals but help select the team.

"I'm very excited about being able to control and create something," the nine-year National Football League veteran said Wednesday after Texans President Steve Arnold announced Morton had signed a WFL pact.

Terms of Morton's contract were not announced but sources said it was a three-year contract for $500,000.

Morton, who must play out his option with the Cowboys this season before joining the Texans in 1975, said it was no secret he and Landry disagreed on whether the coach or quarterback should call the plays.

"With the Texans, I'll have a hand in the actual selection of the team," Morton said.

"As far as controlling the situation and financing is concerned, this was a great advancement for my career," said Morton who guided the Cowboys to the Super Bowl in 1972 before losing his job to Roger Staubach the following year.

Morton said he would assist the Texans in selecting future players.

"This should be very exciting," Morton said. "It will more or less be like picking my own team. I've got a lot of players in mind I hope we can get. It's just a matter of getting them."

Morton has had his ups and downs with the Cowboys since joining the team as their No. 1 draft choice in 1965. He became the starter when Don Meridith retired and then competed on an off-and-on basis with Roger Staubach.

When Staubach won the job prior to last season, Morton asked to be traded. Asked if he thought his signing with the WFL would have any effect on his chances of starting for the Cowboys this season, Morton said:

"I think Coach Landry made that decision last year. I decided it was time for me to move on. I told him I wanted to be traded and be a part of something that I could control and lead."

Morton three times led the Cowboys in passing and twice ranked fifth in the NFL in passing. He set a Cowboys record of 185 completions in 1972. Despite his desire to be the sole starter, Morton said he will leave the Cowboys with no hard feelings.

"Despite what you read about me being unhappy, Coach Landry and I had a great relationship," Morton said. "He wished me well and said he understood my situation."

Morton said he didn't think his signing would have any adverse affect on his final year with the Cowboys.

"My role in Dallas next season will be about as unpredictable as it has been in the past nine years," Morton said. "They'll get the same kind of performance out of me that has helped them win championships," said Morton, who has played in four NFL title games.

"Actually, I'm still excited about my last year with the Cowboys. I think it's going to be a great year."

And an even better year after.

Pokes Sign Jones

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys, thrown for three consecutive losses by the upstart World Football League, dug deep into their wallets to salvage National Football League prestige Wednesday with the signing of No. 1 draft pick Ed (Too Tall) Jones.

The Cowboys signed the Tennessee State defensive end to a multi-year contract. Dallas and Jones weren't talking but the pact was believed in the neighborhood of a three-year arrangement for $400,000.

"We weren't going to let him (Jones) escape," said Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry who privately is getting tired of the WFL raiding his pantry.

Landry said it eased the losses of running back Calvin Hill (to Hawaii), reserve quarterback Craig Morton (to the Houston Texans) and third round draft pick quarterback Danny White of Arizona State to Toronto.

"I never seriously considered Detroit," said Jones of the bidding between the Cowboys and the WFL club.

Asked why it took him three months to sign with the Cowboys, the dapper Jones, wearing a blue suit and a bow-tie to match, said "I don't believe in rushing into anything."

The 6-foot-9, 260-pound Jones said he liked his chances of starting with the former world champions.

"I always wanted to play with a winner and I'll go to camp ready to accept any challenges," Jones said.

Prodded on what he will be paid, Jones smiled and said: "I'm satisfied."

Gil Brandt, head of the Dallas Cowboy scouting combine and a club vice president, was asked if he was scared the WFL might nab Jones.

"I was worried until he signed the contract," Brandt said. "We actually made the arrangements last week."

Jones' announcement was made about an hour after Morton had jumped ship to the WFL. Morton and Hill must play out their option year with the Cowboys before leaving the team in 1975.

Asked if he blamed them, Landry said "I think everybody must measure their decision on what they feel. I wasn't surprised about Craig because I talked to him last (Wednesday) night. We couldn't offer him what they (the WFL) offered."

Landry said he didn't wish to speculate on the lame duck status of Morton and Hill this fall.

"We're going to win, I know that no matter what it takes," Landry said.

Some jokester asked Landry if he had considered any WFL offers. Landry broke into a wide grin and said "I'd hate to comment on the WFL. My loyalty is with the NFL."

Edwards To Be Lauded

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Bill Edwards, who retired last summer as Wittenberg University athletic director, will be inducted into the National Association of Collegiate Athletic Directors Hall of Fame June 24 in Montreal.

The honor will be Edwards' third national athletic award in the last four years.

In 1970, he was named to a post on the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Council and was voted Coach of the Year by the Football Writers Association of America for his contributions to the college division game.

Sharks Sign Travis Williams

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Jacksonville Sharks of the World Football League have announced the signing of former National Football League player Travis Williams.

Williams, 28, a kickoff and punt return specialist, was cut before the 1973 season began by the San Diego Chargers. He had played four years at Green Bay and two years at Los Angeles.

The Sharks said Wednesday that the 6-foot-1, 210-pounder had been negotiating with San Diego, Oakland and Houston of the NFL. He was the 68th player signed by the Sharks.

Five Sign With Portland

PORTLAND (AP) — The Portland Storm of the infant World Football League signed five players from Pacific Northwest colleges Monday.

They were offensive guard Steve Pickering and tight end Bernie Peterson, Linfield College; defensive end Hank Barton of Portland State; linebacker Bob Ferguson of the University of Washington, and offensive lineman George Van Over of Pacific Lutheran.

New US Rocket Ship On Drawing Boards

EDITOR'S NOTE — It takes off like a rocket, flies like a spaceship and lands on earth like an airliner. The revolutionary space shuttle may make transportation into space routine for researchers, engineers and businessmen seeking new ways to turn a profit. All in the next decade.

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — On drawing boards across the nation, a new American rocket ship, the reflyable space shuttle, is taking shape. At Cape Kennedy, construction crews are beginning to build a spaceport for this revolutionary vehicle.

In Europe, engineers of nine nations are designing a small space station to be ferried into orbit by the shuttle. It will be inhabited by researchers of various lands. Industries around the world are studying how best to utilize the shuttle for profit.

An era of rocketing American astronauts to the moon and into space orbit is nearly over. Only a joint space flight with Russia, to take place next year, remains. Then will follow a period of inactivity while drmatic changes are made in the U.S. space program and in the role of the National Aeronatics and Space Administration.

By 1980, space should cease to be a remote frontier open only to astronauts. Over the next decade it will become a place any man or woman can visit after only minimal training.

NASA is shifting from its pioneering position as an explorer and designer of space payloads into a transportation agency, serving more as a bus or truck line for U.S. industry, other government agencies and other countries.

The emphasis now is on lowering the price of space exploration and exploitation by developing reflyable and less expensive equipment and by cooperation and sharing of costs among several nations. The over-all goal is to use the unique qualities of space to benefit mankind.

The Skylab program, which concluded Feb. 8 with the return of the third three-man crew to earth, marked the end of an era in U.S. manned space flight. The project, during which crews inhabited the space station for 28, 59 and 84 days, set guidelines for the future.

"Skylab has been an affimation that man can live and do very useful work in space," said project director William C. Schneider. "That says we are free to proceed with the space shuttle. We're free to plan on a long-term space station. And eventually this same data will be used to assure ourselves that if we ever want to go out to a distant planet, why, that too is attainable."

The first payoff from Skylab probably will come from the research resources surveys conducted by the astronauts. Experts now are analyzing thousands of photos and miles of electronic tape to determine how a space science can best be developed for locating hidden oil and mineral reserves on earth, for improving agriculture, for estimating timber volume, for mapping snow cover and assessing water runoff, for charting air and water pollution, for weather forecasting, and for locating good fishing grounds.

A series of metals experiments on Skylab proved that purer, stronger and more dependable metals castings can be manufactured in space. The combination of weightlessness and vacuum makes it possible to manufacture materials and alloys free of contamination unavoidable on earth because of gravity and convection.

Another Skylab experiment produced semiconductor crystals 10 times larger and far superior to any formed on earth, according to researchers. Crystals of this type could be used as efficient semiconductors in power switching and control circuits and in large integrated circuits for computer and communications systems.

The promise shown by such experiments has attacted potential investors in space laboratories and factories, reported Christopher C. Kraft Jr., director of NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston.

"More and more companies are showing an interest," he said.

Kraft and other officials also foresee the day when oil and mineral companies, farm, fishing and and timber organizations and other industries will want to have teams of researchers in space to conduct their own surveys.

These ventures await the development of the space shuttle, which is set for initial test flights late in this decade, with an operational goal of 1980.

The first five shuttles are to be delivered to NASA in the late 70s at a cost of $5.1 billion for development and manufacture. This compares with a cost of $20 billion for the entire Apollo moon program.

The shuttle will take off like a rocket, fly like a spaceship and land back on earth like an airliner. Its two solid fuel rocket boosters also will be reuseable after being parachuted back to earth.

Work starts soon on modification of the now idle and deserted Apollo and Skylab facilities at Cape Kennedy to handle the shuttle. Construction of a 15,000-foot landing runway is just getting under way. Later in the decade, another shuttle base will be built at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., mainly for military missions.

Capable of making 100 or more trips into space, each shuttle will be able to carry seven persons, with pilot, copilot and mission specialists making up the basic crew. The size of a DC9 airliner, the shuttle will carry 65,000 pounds of payload.

Just as other government agencies, industry and foreign governments now pay NASA to launch specialized satellites, they will do the same in the shuttle era. Seats will be purchased for specialists wanting to do research in orbit for periods up to a month.

After an initial period of experimentation using NASA astronaut-pilots, Kraft said, companies or groups of companies might develop their own spacemen and technicians trained to operate in space.

Space airline companies also might become reality, he said.

"There will be a private enterprise investment in space transportation as well as the payload," Kraft predicted. "I don't think there's any question about that."

OUR MAN ON BROADWAY
Dick Maurice

Porno queen MARILYN CHAMBERS whose tonsils you saw in close-up in such classy offerings as "The Girl Behind the Green Door" and "The Resurrection of Eve" has decided to show she has talent standing up, too, and she debuted her singing-dancing act at the Riverboat. Forget about the act (I'll give it four gargles) and just think of the interesting parts. A) She's supposedly a well-to-do girl form well-to-do parents in well-to-do Westport, Connecticut and she never speaks about them in interviews on account of they ain't too thrilled with their kid. They'd prefer she was peddling dope or something refined like that. B) Her manager or agent or whatever he is is the newly divorced husband of fellow porno queen LINDA "Deep Throat" LOVELACE. Guy's name's Chuck Traynor. With choreographers, singing coach, musicians, etc., the nightclub act cost $25,000 and better and she should have given that money to the church.

LIBERACE once explained why he wore gaudy clothes. "The only thing that looks good in a plain brown jacket is a baked potato."

PAUL NEWMAN and JOANNE WOODWARD have been thinking about the energy crisis longer than many Americans. His gift to her last Mother's Day: a motorbike. "I use it all the time, even in the winter in Connecticut," said the Oscar-winning actress. "I take it down to the store, five miles into town, to my ballet lesson, for all kinds of errands. The saving on gasoline is enormous." Her gift to her actor husband: a pedal car—three-seat sedan propelled by "people power." Even before everyone else was doing it, the Newmans embarked on an energy-saving kick. "I got rid of most of my electrical appliances—electric knives, popcorn poppers, toothbrushes," said Miss Woodward. The only ones I kept were the toaster—because I found it was better than making toast in the oven—and the blender—because I mix a lot of organic drinks. "You'd be surprised what you can get along without. And it's adventurous, too. The kids have been fascinated to learn they can open cans with a hand-opener; they don't want an electric one anymore."

DIANA ROSS just ordered a pack of sportclothes monogrammed with the initials L. B. which stands for "Lady Blues"...

Costars Are Honeymooning

NEW YORK (AP) — David Birney and Meredith Baxter, costars of last season's television series "Bridget Loves Bernie," are honeymooning after their marriage here.

A spokeswoman for the stars of the canceled TV series that detailed the romantic troubles of a Jewish boy and a Catholic girl said they were married Wednesday in a traditional ceremony at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church.

It was the second marriage for each, she said. The ceremonies were attended by Miss Baxter's two children by her previous marriage.

The couple plans to live in Connecticut, where Birney is rehearsing for an American Shakespeare Festival production of "Romeo and Juliet."

More Potatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers in California, Texas and other Southern-climate areas who grow spring potatoes are headed for a bigger harvest this season, the Agriculture Department says.

Its Crop Reporting Board said Wednesday spring potato production is expected to be 22.7 million hundredweight, up 7 per cent from 1973 and 8 per cent above the 1972 crop.

Strikes Hit Peak In Japan

By John Roderick
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese labor's annual "shunto," its spring wage offensive, reached its peak today with millions of workers on a one-to-five-day strike affecting more than half the nation's 108 million people.

It was the closest thing to a general strike in Japan's history.

The workers struck the railroads, subways, buses, taxis, airlines and commercial shipping.

Also hit were schools; telegraph, government and post offices; municipal garbage collection; forestry preserves; the government printing agency and the mint.

The nationwide labor movement is seeking wage hikes of 30 to 35 per cent to counter the soaring cost of living, which rose 24 per cent last year under the pressure from the increase in oil prices.

Some industries have already given in. But Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka has refused to budge from an offer of an 18.7 per cent increase for government workers, including those on the national railway, and has also failed to satisfy the rail workers' demands for the legal right to strike. Tanaka proposed a two-year study of the right-to-strike question by a special cabinet council.

The transport strikes affected more than 40 million people, or two-thirds of the work force. Those who didn't stay home struggled to their offices and factories on foot, by bicycle, car pool or motorcycle.

The Education Ministry said about 15 million primary, middle and high school students — about 96 per cent of the total — got a holiday as the 500,000-member teachers' union went on strikes ranging from one to eight hours.

The 13,600-member Federation of Civil Aviation Workers, including 3,500 in foreign airlines, declared strikes of from two to 72 hours, causing delays in cargo handling and passenger services.

Effect Of Nixon Trip In Doubt

BAD AXE, Mich. (AP) — President Nixon's whirlwind trip through rural Michigan revealed considerable anti-Nixon feeling beneath a friendly, respectful welcome.

But there was little evidence it will affect next Tuesday's special congressional election.

State Republican Chairman William McLaughlin was the only major figure in either party to say that Nixon's Wednesday visit could be decisive in the contest between Republican James Sparling and Democrat J. Robert Traxler.

After speaking to an enthusiastic group of 5,000 at Tri-City Airport between the 8th District's population centers of Saginaw and Bay City, Nixon flew here by helicopter for a 57-mile motorcade through solidly Republican towns and hamlets in an area known, for its shape, as Michigan's Thumb.

Though his reception was generally friendly, there were signs at many stops urging his impeachment. Speeches in Bad Axe, Cass City and Sandusky drew only mild applause, possibly because few could hear.

But there were many who said they still support the President, who carried the area overwhelmingly in 1972.

"I don't think he's as bad as they all try to let on," said John Graham in Cass City. "He has done an awful lot of good for our country."

McLaughlin, eager for a GOP victory after the loss Feb. 18 of Vice President Gerald R. Ford's old Grand Rapids seat, said Nixon's visit will have "a very dramatic effect on this campaign. If we win, there's no doubt in my mind that the President has turned the tide."

Though Sparling insisted Nixon hadn't come to campaign for him, the President praised Sparling's work as a former White House liaison man.

Sparling has de-emphasised that point, while Traxler has stressed it.

In his arrival speech Nixon sharply criticized the Democratic-controlled Congress for failing to act on three of his energy proposals: deregulation of natural gas, easing of the auto emissions standards and expanded use of coal.

Unemployment in the district's auto plants is due to the congressional "bottleneck" on those measures, Nixon said. And he blamed Congress for the high cost of living, saying it stemmed from the high cost of programs that lawmakers have passed.

Better Orange Crop Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials say prospects for the Texas orange crop are better than they were last month, but still 11 per cent below 1972-1973 production.

Crop Reporting Board officials predicted Wednesday that the Texas orange output will reach 6.6 million boxes, compared with 6.5 million forecast last month.

Texas' output generally followed the national trend. The board said the national crop will be about 215 million boxes, up 1 per cent from last month, but 4 per cent lower last season's record crop.

Based on April 1 indications, the Florida harvest is expected to be 164 million boxes, up two million boxes from March 1 prospects, but 3 per cent below last season, officials said.

The California orange crop was put at 41 million boxes, an increase of one million from March estimates, but also 3 per cent below last year.

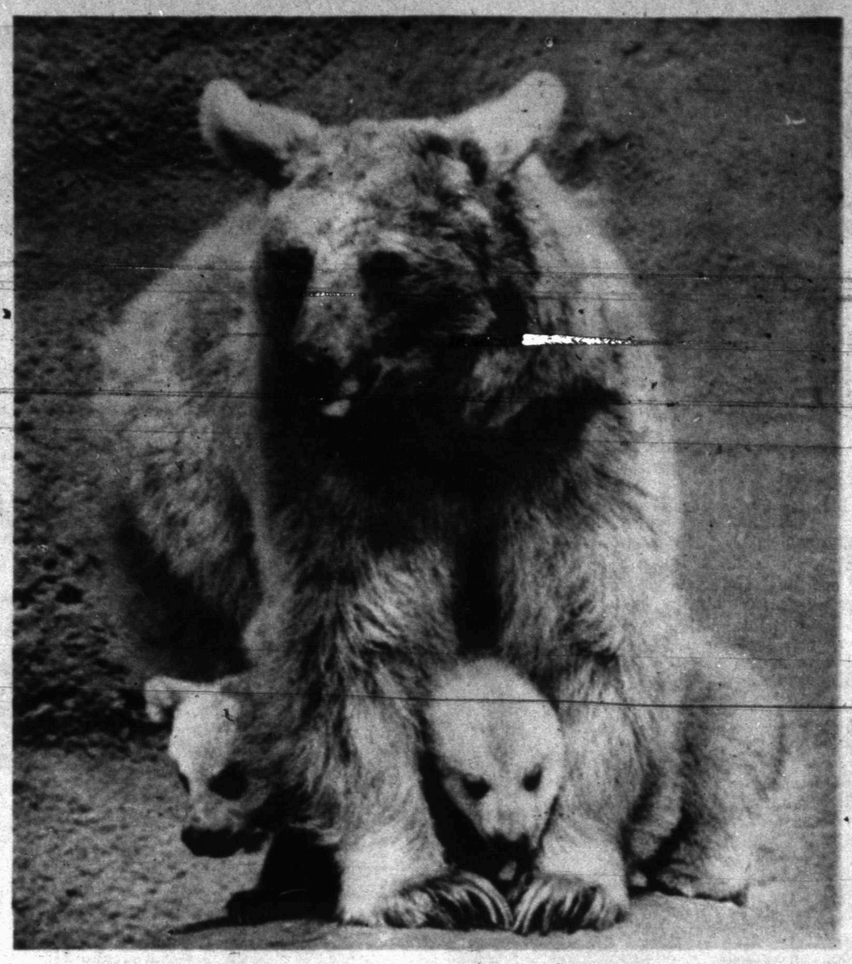

Total citrus production was estimated at 1 per cent higher than March prospects, due entirely to improved prospects for oranges.

Grapefruit production was put at 64.1 million boxes, unchanged from March.

Florida's crop was predicted to lead the way with 46 million boxes with Texas' 11 million box crop second.

Says IRS Denies Due Process

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Internal Revenue Service options for dealing with taxpayers deny them due process and condemn them to second-class citizenship, a former IRS attorney says.

Clyde R. Maxwell of Newport Beach, Calif., testified Wednesday before a Senate appropriations subcommittee.

Maxwell, who was an IRS attorney for 13 years, said a section of the Justice Department maintains a list of persons who allegedly participate in organized crime..

If a name goes on the list, the person's affairs come under an IRS strike force's scrutiny, including an examination of his tax returns, tapping of telephones and surveillance.

"In effect, he becomes a second-class citizen whose affairs are not private. The usual reviews of criminal tax cases by (IRS and the Justice Department) are aborted in 'strike force' cases and often a taxpayer has no chance to explain his innocence before he is indicted and jailed," Maxwell said.

Individuals "somehow" get onto the list who merely know or have spoken to some figure linked with organized crime, Maxwell said.

Under questioning by Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., Maxwell said there are "many people on this list (who) have never been convicted of a crime. We don't know how that list is made up."

He also said individual tax returns are available to any government agency upon request despite the fact they are supposed to be confidential. He said all it takes for an agency to get a tax return is a presidential declaration.

"There are so many presidential declarations they (the returns) may as well be placed in the Congressional Record," Maxwell said.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

★★★

Q. How much is the personal exemption for 1973 Federal income tax returns?

A. For the tax year 1973, the peronal exemption remains at $750.

Q. What is the purpose of the Presidential Election Campaign Fund?

A. Congress established the fund as a means to develop public participation in the financing of Presidential Election Campaigns. Based on a formula built into the law, the funds will be divided between the eligible political parties for campaign purposes.

If you wish to participate in this program designate that $1 of your tax ($2 if married filing jointly) be allocated to the fund by checking the space on line 8 of your 1973 return. If you neglected to check off for 1972, you may still do so on your 1973 return in the space above the signature line.

Q. I drive a 4-cylinder car. Am I entitled to the full gas tax deduction permitted by the tables in your Form 1040 package?

A. No. If your car had four cylinders or less, deduct half the table amount.

Q. I purchased a copy of your tax booklet, "Your Federal Income Tax," last year to use in preparing my tax return. Can I deduct the cost of this book on my 1973 return?

A. Yes. Tax assistance expenses are deductible. If you want to purchase a copy of the 1974 edition of "Your Federal Income Tax," Publication 17, the 192-page booklet is available over-the-counter for $1.00 at IRS offices and many post offices. It is also available for $1.25, postpaid, from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or from the Public Documents Distribution Center, Pueblo Industrial Park, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Q. Are gambling losses deductible?

A. Gambling losses are deductible only to the extent of your winnings.

Q. My son fixes radios and TVs at home during the summer to earn part of his college tuition. Last year, he had net earnings of about $900. Does he have to file a Federal income tax return? Can I still claim him as a dependent?

A. Because your son is self-employed and his net earnings from self-employment were at least $400, he must file a Federal income tax return.

You may still claim him as a dependent, regardless of how much income he had, if he was a full-time student for any part of five months of 1973, or was under 19 at the end of the year. Of course, you must meets all the other dependency test, including furnishing over half of your total support for 1973.

Briscoe, Sissy Exchange Words

By The Associated Press

Gov. Dolph Briscoe made a move for the Mexican-American vote while his opponent, Frances "Sissy" Farenthold called him a "spoon-fed governor" who followed expediency only.

The governor said in Corpus Christi on Wednesday that he had created a Migrant Affairs Office and approved a migrant fuel allocation plan.

That plan will permit migrant workers to get gasoline at designated truck stops as they move northward during the agricultural season.

Arrangements have been made, the governor said, with 51 truck stops along seven major migratory routes where service and gasoline will be available. Service stations will receive special allocations to supply the farm workers.

He said the Migrant Affairs Office will act as liaison between all agencies serving the groups.

Briscoe put the lie to Mrs. Farenthold when asked to comment on a remark by her that he did not speak up for Texas on gasoline allocations.

"That is absolutely not true," he said, adding that the state's allocations for April were 94.1 per cent of the anticipated demand. The national average, he said, is 91.8 per cent.

Meanwhile, in Austin, Mrs. Farenthold charged the governor is "making some vague overtures" about telephone regulations now that it appears "politically expedient."

"Governor Briscoe's flip-flop on ... state regulation of the telephone monopolies just proves the fact that this governor is guided by political reaction instead of planned action," she said.

"Hasn't Texas had enough of a spoon-fed governor?" she asked.

Late Wednesday night, Briscoe continued to campaign briskly. He was at a barbecue rally at Whalen Park near McAllen late in the night after earlier attending a city park picnic in Victoria and stopping briefly at the airport in Alice.

In the other political action:

—Gaylord Marshall, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor told an Abilene audience that incumbent Bill Hobby is a "child of wealth" whose background makes him unable to "understand what the small farmer and filling station owner is going through." He described himself as a conservative candidate and a "positive alternative" to the present lieutenant governor.

—Bob Bullock, Democratic candidate for comptroller, said he would campaign Thursday in San Antonio, Abilene and Lubbock and Friday would go to Big Spring, Midland and Odessa.

—James Nicholas Rowe, in Corpus Christi, said he had no "political axes to grind, but I hate political inefficiency." Rowe, a candidate for state comptroller, said he believed the post of comptroller should be "appointive and not tied to the Democrats or Republicans.

Cooley For Heart Transplants

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — One of the pioneers of heart transplant surgery says he is convinced it is still a worthwhile technique even though his hospital no longer performs the operation.

"I think heart transplantation surgery has been put on the shelf until certain problems can be solved," Dr. Denton A. Cooley, founder and surgeon-in-chief of Houston's Texas Heart Institute, said Wednesday.

One reason, he said, is that it is too difficult to find heart donors. Another is that potential recipients are frustrated by the low margin of successes.

More than 100 persons have undergone heart transplants since the late 1960s but only four are still living, Cooley said.

"I am convinced that cardiac transplantation is a worthwhile technique," he told the Southeastern Surgical Congress.

"There is no comparison with the artificial heart. It's way out front. It may be two or three decades before the artificial heart can catch up—if it ever does."

Cooley became involved in a controversy with a former colleague, Dr. Michael DeBakey of Baylor University's medical college in Houston, after Cooley switched from the artificial heart method evolved by DeBakey to transplants.

Cooley participated in one of the first uses of an artificial heart in 1969, keeping a patient alive for some 30 hours. Subsequently he performed more transplants than any other surgeon until the hospital discontinued transplant surgery.

He now specializes in surgical bypasses of blocked arteries.
