10 CENTS A COPY

MRS. TED AVERITT

Grid Contest Goes Into Final Week Of Competition

Just one contest remains to be counted in the Hart Beat's first football contest with Cary McLain leading by one point in the race for two tickets to the Cotton Bowl classic and $40 "spending money."

Last week's contest, full with upsets, was a frustrating week for pigskin predictors with just two contestants missing as few as five games. Ricky Allensworth picks up first place money for the week by coming closest with his tie-breaker guess. Allensworth was off 19 points of the actual score with a 24-27 prediction.

Danny George missed by 35 points with a 33-18 guess for second place. Young McLain picks up third place for the week by virtue of his tie-breaker prediction. One of four contestants missing six games, he was off 28 points with a 32-24 guess. Eliminated from the winnings were Mrs. K.E. Lambert, 36 points, 28-12; Marsha George, 43, 36-13 and Hub Reed, 56, 36-0.

McLain has 114 correct guesses for the season, leading by one point over Hub Reed. Contestants with 104 points or more are listed elsewhere in this issue. None should give up even though just one contest remains.

Kindergarten Children May Still Be Enrolled

We are still enrolling children in Kindergarten. All children who were five years old Sept. 1, 1973 are eligible to attend. All of their school supplies are furnished by the school and they can apply for free lunches and breakfasts.

The teachers are Dani Humphreys, Maria Villarreal and Klodia Rozriquez. If you know of a child who is eligible, please contact one of the teachers.

European Souvenir

Venice In Hart

Glittering as many diamonds, the hand-cut crystal chandelier bought in Venice, Italy sparkles as a constant reminder to Ted and Ethel Averitt of a dream come true—a two-weeks European tour they made in the summer.

The beautiful "souvenir" took two months arriving and with it came a letter of instructions for assembling, printed in detailed Italian!

Mail strike in Rome while the Averitts were there not only caused the delay in the arrival of the chandelier but also delayed picture post cards written by the Averitts. Those reached their destination just three weeks ago.

Ethel laughs away their purchase of a chandelier when they have no home of their and says "I may have to take it to the 'poor house' when I go." That home of the future will be one chosen around a very beautiful light fixture.

The Averitts were two of the seven Texans on the tour which was composed primarily of folks in the Guthrie, Okla. area.

Described by Ethel as "the most congenial group of people," the tour group included two young teens, traveling without their parents and the subject of some uneasy hours when they became "lost" after a side trip to visit relatives. The two girls were out of touch with the group overnight when they were unable to locate the hotel of the tour group—one of just two not previously specified in the agenda.

"We got lost every place we went," Ethel says of their own little free-time excursions. She cited one instance of being able to see the hotel in the distance and the frustration of not being able to get there without difficulty.

Ethel and Ted particularly enjoyed their own sight-seeing excursion in Paris—"walking and walking, stopping to rest at little sidewalk cafes and then walking and walking."

Everywhere they traveled, the Averitts found beauty and more to see than there was time for. All too soon, the tour was over and had it not been for their family, the Averitts would definitely have not been ready to return home.

"People watching" was one of their biggest pleasures. "Everywhere there were tourists from everywhere," Ethel says. "It reminded me of how it must have been in the Biblical story of Babel."

America and her problems are in all the European papers and prominently displayed on the front pages, Ethel says. There during the prominence of the Watergate hearings, the Averitts noted the courtesy and friendliness of the European people to Americans but definite distrust of American money. Some tourists, Ethel notes, were resentful that American coins were not accepted but did not stop to think that American stores would react similarly if foreign coins were presented as legal tender. There was no difficulty, she said, in monetary exchange through the proper channels despite the "uncertainty" of the American dollars.

"We learned real quickly to ask, 'How much is it?' wherever we went," says Ethel after a co-traveler ordered a cup of coffee in Lucerne, Switzerland. Purchased in one of the Lucerne hotels, the coffee cost $1.25.

Food was very good throughout the tour, Ethel says. They ate lots of lamb and French fries. Everywhere they found waiters instead of waitresses and commented "they go in a trot" as they work.

Lucerne was probably Ted's favorite spot of the tour while Ethel tends to choose Rome. They found every part, however, wonderful.

Amsterdam was particularly beautiful and with their Netherland guide, they saw the most of its points of interest. From there, they traveled the German Autobahn to Heidelberg, seeing much of the beauty along the Rhine.

On to Lucerne, they viewed a 14th century bridge over the Reuss River with oil paintings on its ceiling and the Lion Monument commemorating the heroic attempt of Swiss guards to save the life of Marie Antoinette.

"Awe and goose pimples" is the way Ethel recalls their feeling as they visited St. Peter's Basilica in Rome and its many other historic points of interest.

They visited the Four Fountains, Michelangelo's statue of Moses, the Colosseum, Forum, Palatine Hill, Pantheon, Plazz'o Veneia and the Roman Baths of Caracalla.

The vaulted dome of St. Peter's Cathedral, with Michelangelo's inspiring work of art is something that visitors never forget.

The tour also featured brief visits to Innsbruck, Venice where the Averitts found their chandelier, Florence, Milan and Geneva.

Ethel has framed some of the foreign coins they did not get spent before returning home, making an attractive and interesting keepsake. The most unusual souvenir of their trip, however, is a framed "collection" which hangs in the bathroom of the Averitt home.

Tour members, Ethel says, had a lot of fun comparing the differences in toilet tissues of the countries in their tour. Other than in American-owned hotels, tissues they found were very coarse and varied. With ingenuity, Ethel has mounted small portions of the tissues with each identified.

Thanks, too, to the marvels of color films, the Averitts can re-live their memorable visit many times over through the captured scenes on their colored slides.

ON THIS DAY... We give Thanks

By Warren B. Davis
Director, Energy Economics
Gulf Oil Corporation

"Would you say that the actions of environmental groups have caused the energy crisis?"

"The basic causes of the energy crisis go back in time a great deal further than the recent environmental laws. For example, in 1954 the Supreme Court ruled that the well-head price of natural gas had to be controlled. As a result of some years of that control, we now have a shortage of natural gas and a shortage of fuel oil. However, the actions of environmentalists have aggravated the energy crisis. A few examples: the delay in the Alaskan pipeline is denying this country about 80 million gallons a day of badly needed domestic oil. Delays in offshore leases are also denying the country badly needed domestic oil production. The delay in building deepwater ports is making more difficult and expensive the importation of the foreign oil that we need because we don't have the domestic oil. The delay in building refineries, particularly on the East Coast, is one of the principal factors that's causing the shortages of gasoline and fuel oil. An essential ingredient to any solution to the long-term energy crisis is a better balance between our environmental needs and our energy needs."

Old Tires May Be Useful As Plant Mulch

Discarded automobile tires—once the ideal thing for creating a tree swing—have become quite a disposal problem.

Affluence and a shrinking tire size have eliminated its recreational uses, and millions of old tires are now discarded in this country each year.

Now, however, a Kentucky horticulturist has come up with the suggestion that shredded tires can be used as a plant mulch.

Because of its resistance to wind and water erosion, the mulch is useful for stabilizing loose soil on hills and slopes. The horticulturist also said it is long-lasting and resistant to decay and insects.

Two inches of the mulch deters weed infestation and holds surface moisture, making it useful for newly planted trees, shrubs, and flowers.

About the only problem with the new mulch is that old rubber can be a source of zinc. Too much of this mineral under certain conditions reduces plant growth and causes iron deficiency.

Zealot Club Attends Play At Hayloft Theatre

Dinner at the Hayloft Theatre was highlighted by a performance of Dennis Cole in "The Tender Trap" for members of the Zealot Club Saturday night.

Attending the outing Saturday night, with their husbands as special guests, were Messrs. and Mmes. Thomas Brooks, C. Ray Jones, Jerry Kittrell, Warren Lemons, Cleve McLain, Hubert McLain, Lawrence McLain, Preston Upshaw and Mmes. C.C. Hanes and Jack Dyer.

Rituals of the Jewels were repeated Thursday evening by ten pledges at the regularly scheduled meeting of Chi Psi Sorority. Welcomed as new members were Mmes. James Jackson, Don Elliott, Don Moore, Albert Key, Monte Upton, Ronnie Truelock, Steven Hanes, Charlie Summers, Bob Gallagher and Max Steffey.

Mrs. Aaron Dubach, received by transfer, was also welcomed as a new member.

"Love" was the topic of programs presented by Mmes. George Bennett, Darryl McLain and Truelock.

Plans were discussed for the club's annual Christmas party and penny auction. Silver baby cups were presented to Mmes. Darryl McLain, Doug Martin and Steven Hanes.

Hostesses for the meeting in the community room of Farmers State Bank were Mmes. Ted Averitt, Bob Bowden and Mike Burnam. Decorations followed a Thanksgiving theme. Refreshments were pumpkin bread and hot punch.

Other members attending were Mmes. Frank Barnes, Glen Gleghorn, David Smith and Harold Bennett.

Mrs. Farris Leads Program

Mrs. Ronnie Farris presented a program on Russia and adjoining countries to members of Xi Mu Iota chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at their meeting Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Jerry Allen.

Members present were Mmes. Glyn Reed, Ed Bennett, Charles Black, Weldon Jones, Theron Morrison, Clinton Billingsley and Farris.

Methodist Congregation Holds Harvest Dinner

Thanksgiving for a bountiful harvest was observed by members and guests of the First United Methodist Church at their annual harvest supper last week.

Following the evening meal, the group entered the sanctuary for a special program highlighted by an address by the Rev. E. Lee Crouch, former pastor. Rev. Crouch greeted guests with humorous memories of his pastorate here and then spoke of the spirit of Thanksgiving and the need for love in each person's daily life.

Crouch also stressed the need for persons to remember to be thankful.

Special music was provided by James Campbell who presented a coronet rendition of "The Holy City," with piano accompaniment by his wife.

The Rev. Carl Oglesby, pastor, led the Thanksgiving prayer. Congregational singing featured seasonal hymns.

SON VISITS

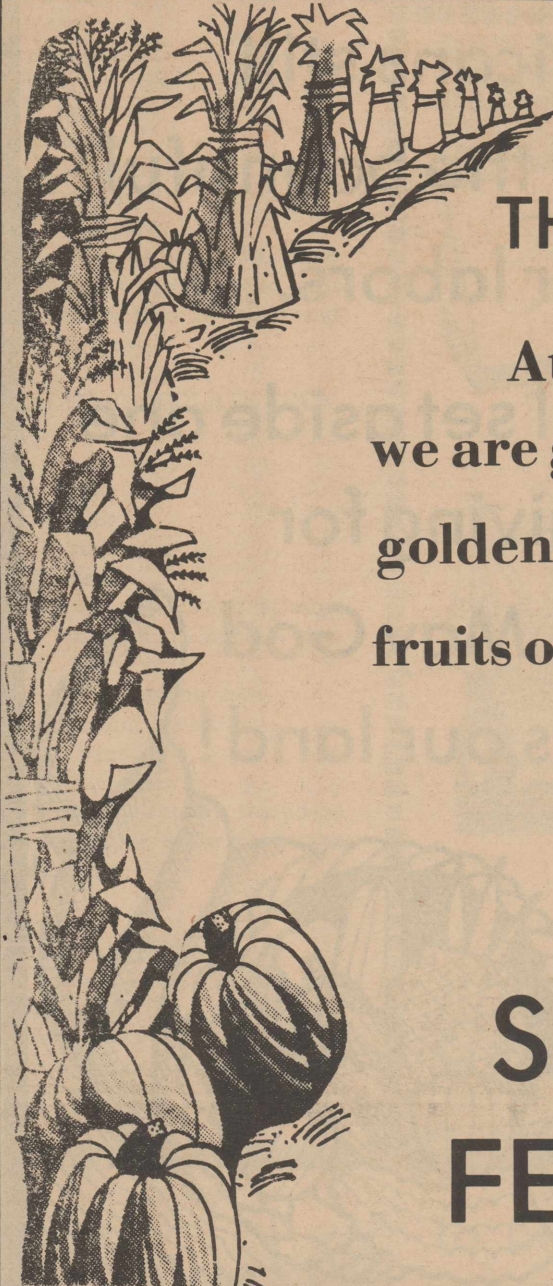

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sharp and Miranda visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Sharp during the weekend.

SUNDAY GUESTS

Sunday dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lambert were their daughters, Jan Cooper and family of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bennett and Ricky. A granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Sides of Hereford, were also guests.

At one time, officers in the Turkish navy had to wear wooden models of their warships on their hats.

MRS. RONNIE TRUELOCK

Cook Of The Week

An easy but delicious main dish and a tasty goodie are the recipes shared this week by one of Hart's younger, pretty matrons, Mrs. Ronnie Truelock.

Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom McLain, has lived here all her life and graduated from Hart High School in 1971.

There's been little time for hobbies, Janet has found since she became a "working wife" last July. She began working at Farmers State Bank during the vacation period and has been a steady employee since. When she can find time, Janet loves to read.

Ronnie, who grew up in Oton, works at Bob's Farm Supply. The two met during high school days. They are parents of a little daughter, Robyn, 21 months old.

Janet is a member of Chi Psi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, just recently becoming a full-fledged member by repeating the Ritual of Jewels. She is also a member of the Church of Christ.

Bovina Upsets Longhorns

The Hart Longhorns dropped another game, as they finished the season with a 26-6 loss to the Bovina Mustangs, Friday night at Bovina. Jimmy Brown returned a 45 yard punt for Hart's only tally of the long night. Bovina's fullback Bryan Fillpot scored twice, while end, Roy Hartzog, and halfback, Billy Shelby each scored once for the Mustangs.

While the first quarter was scoreless, each team showed their running and passing ability. Randy Finch caught a McLain pass for 32 yards, and Barry George caught a 33 yard pass, also from McLain.

WEEKEND GUESTS

Weekend guests of the J. B. Allensworth family were their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Allensworth and Cody Shane of Odessa. Observing an early Thanksgiving, other guests in the Allensworth home Sunday were the hostess' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols of Amherst and their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Nichols and family of Lubbock and Mrs. Jimmy Allensworth's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Schulz of Floydada and Patsy Schulz of Texas Tech, four yards for a first, was pushed back to the 10 as Barry George dropped Bryan Fillpot for a large loss. As the second quarter began, Bovina was forced to punt, and Jimmy Brown took the ball on the Bovina 45, and returned the punt all the way to pay dirt, for Hart's only score. The extra point by John Robledo failed, and with 11:45 left in the half, the Horns lead 6-0.

Bovina took the ball after the kickoff on their own 20. But the Horn defense proved too stout for the Mustangs, and were forced to punt. The Horns got the ball on their own 44, and three plays later, fumbled on the Bovina 49, and the Mustangs recovered. Nine plays later, Bill Shelby finished a 51 yard drive, as he raced 13 yards for Bovina's first score. The extra point was true, and Bovina lead for good, 7-6 with 5:42 left in the half.

From its own 32, Hart made a drive to the 19 of Bovina where a fumble ended the drive. Behind the fanning of Brown, and other, Hart marched 49 yards in 16 plays until the fumble ended the drive. Bovina held possession of the ball as the half ended, with the score still standing 7-6 Bovina.

The Mustangs came out at the end of the halftime fired up, while the Horns seemed to have lost their spirit. It didn't take the Mustangs long to score, as

Cotton Research Pays Off

The idea of breeding plants that are resistant to diseases developed from research on cotton wilt disease in the early 1900's.

Farm Prices' Inconsistency

Inconsistency is the hobgoblin of farm prices.

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz points out that when farm prices go up, they usually come down later. This is not true of other products which usually go up and stay up.

During the last 20 years, the Secretary said, farm prices went up in 10 of those years. However, they came down or stayed even in the remaining 10.

In this same period, industrial prices rose 16 out of 20 years, while service charges and wages increased in each of the 20 years.

Most recent example of farm prices' behavior was in the 23-day period ending Sept. 6. In this short span, half the gain in wholesale farm prices was wiped out.

Unmatched Productivity

An hour of farm labor today produces seven times as much food and fiber as it did 50 years ago.

DPS Taking

Applications

Texas Department of Public Safety is actively recruiting applicants to fill the ranks of its uniformed services. Major C. W. Bell, Regional Commander of the DPS, announced that the training school for new uniformed law enforcement personnel is tentatively scheduled to begin Feb. 1, 1974.

The Major noted that the DPS has been increasingly successful in recruiting persons for minority groups to these positions and said efforts in this direction will continue.

Also in keeping with the current trend, female applicants will be considered for these rewarding careers in law enforcement.

Major Bell said general qualifications for DPS officers are these: applicants must be 20 through 35 years of age; height not less than 68 inches; weight not less than two pounds per inch of height; visual acuity of 20/40 correctable to 20/20; and a minimum of 45 semester hours of college credit, of which six hours may be obtained while in training.

Applications may be obtained by contacting any DPS employee or any DPS office. The completed application form should be taken to offices in Lubbock, Amarillo or Wichita Falls where the competitive examination is given each Tuesday and Wednesday at 9 a.m.

Major Bell said persons selected as cadets will be assigned to Austin for training at the DPS Academy. The salary during training will be $630. per month. Upon being commissioned the salary is raised to $719 monthly with the opportunity to advance to $848 per month.

Uniformed personnel receive additional longevity pay for each five years of service to 25 years. They are also granted a monthly uniform cleaning allowance, and receive travel expenses when away from their station.

Uniforms, vehicles, weapons, ammunition and related equipment are furnished. Group life and hospitalization are paid for the employee and dependent coverage is available at reasonable rates. Officers participate in the Employees Retirement System of Texas as well as Social Security. Vacation, holidays and sick leave are as provided for all State employees.

Successful graduates will be assigned to the Highway Patrol, License and Weight Service, Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, or Drivers License Service, according to the needs of the DPS and consideration of personal preference.

they took the kickoff, and from their own 42, and marched 58 yards to paydirt in only six plays. Billy Shelby passed to Roy Hartzog for a nine yard touchdown with 9:12 left in the third. The extra point failed and the Mustangs lead 13-6.

Hart fumbled the kickoff at their own 41, and Bovina recovered. Five plays later, Bryan Fillpot, crossed over from the one yard line, and with 7:30 left in the third, Bovina lead 19-6. The extra point failed.

Hart got the ball on their own 22, but was forced to punt, and Bovina took over at their own 35. Nine plays later Bovina's Bryan Fillpot raced through the Horn defense for 11 yards for the Mustangs final score. With 2:09 left in the third, Bovina lead 26-6 after the extra point was drilled.

Danny George threw an interception on second down, on the Horns next possession, and Bovina took possession again, at the Horns 46.

As the fourth quarter began, Bovina held the ball on their own 39, but was unable to score. James McLain fumbled on Hart's first down, and Bovina recovered at their own 37.

Hart's defense held again however, and neither team made a large scoring threat for the rest of the game. Bovina clinched the victory 26-6 and Hart's season record fell to 7-3-0.

Bumper Sticker Wisdom

This century could go down in history as the time when Americans found a new media for expressing freedom of speech: the bumper sticker.

It turns up on mini-cars as well as maxi-models; on pickups as well as dump trucks. And it conveys messages as varied as the vehicles that display them.

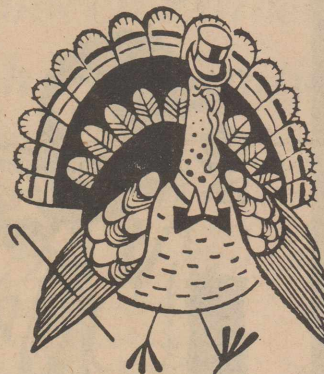

Their abundant variety, in fact, leads one to think that somewhere in the United States there must be a whole army of writers who work like beavers to dream up new material for each season's crop of bumper stickers.

By sorting through them and finding the ones that express his own points of view, Mr. Average American is able to mount a moving soapbox and expound his opinions—far and wide—in succinct terms. The whole phenomenon has ushered in an era of "Every man an editor."

A lot of the messages we read are frivolous—but, at least, they provide welcome comedy relief from the oft-time monotony of super highway driving. Some of them every now and then, however, point up a serious thought that deserves repeating.

One such example was spotted recently on a car in New Mexico. It noted: "If you eat, you're involved in American agriculture."

Sugar Beet Crops Are 'Up & Coming' At Hart

"How's the sugar?" Wamon Foster of Hart asked Holly Agriculturalist Roy Parten.

"We had 14.1 the first day," Parten replied.

"What's the slice now?" Foster asked.

"4,909 ton," Parten answered.

"What's the maximum slice?" Foster queried.

"6,500 tons a day once we get wound up," Parten said.

Wamon Foster is also chairman of the school board in Hart but he can teach a course in how to grow sugarbeets.

He has a degree in business administration from West Texas State University and operates his farm along business lines.

He is one of 208 businessmen-farmers growing for Holly in the High Plains. Foster grew up on a farm, has been in Hart since 1956 and has been growing beets ever since Holly came to the Golden Spread in 1964.

His questions to Parten came as the latter made his daily rounds of Holly growers to determine if they had any problems. Foster was worried about leaf spot problems in his east field and was asking Parten's advice on how to remedy the situation.

Foster has 120 acres in beets out of a total 960 acres that he farms. He also raises cotton milo, wheat and castor beans. He owns some of his land and rents some.

"I've always made money on beets every year—except 1969," he says with a smile.

He tries to have a four to five year rotation on his crops. He farms on land of his own and has three other landlords.

"They all want me to grow beets on their land," Foster explained.

He explained that landlords get 33 per cent of value of a crop of maize or corn and 20 per cent on beets. However, he pays more rent for beet land than for other crops.

"I don't know how it will be

Sugar Beets

However, Holly Agricultural Manager Bob Ginn said that despite stiff competition from feed grains, he had received inquiries from new growers who would like to grow the 1974 crop.

Ginn noted that sugarbeets had been the farmer's bread-and-butter crop for many years and that returns to growers had improved strongly in recent years, free of sharp ups and downs.

"When you add the sugar-beet's value in the rotation plans of many farmers, I think beets will continue to be an important part of agriculture in the High Plains," said Ginn.

"I feel beets have been a good crop for us. I like the idea of a contract which shows me how much money I can make if I can produce the yield and sugar," Foster said.

He said that in another two or three years when grain prices fall back, he believed that farmers would be looking closely at sugarbeets.

"Right now, prices are so high for feed grains, farmers aren't looking at beets too closely," Foster said.

"I like beets because we have a grower association which negotiates a contract for me with Holly," he added.

He's also on the board of Hart Producers Co-op Gin. He believes the prices for grains should drop if Nixon and Butz have their way.

Several growers in the Hart area have bought beet diggers and hire a man to operate it. Foster has his own combine and also does a little custom harvesting for neighbors. This works out well as the beet harvest comes at the same time as cotton and milo harvests.

Parten explained that a new man in sugarbeets should have his beets custom harvested. Foster agreed, saying that it isn't too efficient for a grower to harvest only one to two loads of beets a day.

As a businessman-farmer, Foster always tries something new each year. This year he is using a computer on his crops which shows him his cost per acre and allows him to compare his costs with other farmers.

Unlike many farmers in the area, he has found no problem with labor for beets.

"They can make $2.15 an hour working beets compared with much less for other crops," Foster explained.

The prices paid field workers are set by the Secretary of Agriculture and set forth in the Sugar Act. One of the conditions for growers receiving their Sugar Act payment is that they can not pay less than the specified rate.

While he has had no problem with finding laborers, quality has been the problem.

"I had workers in my maize and they weren't working too hard. I told them if they wanted to quit, then quit, but that if they were going to stay in the field, they should work. So they quit," Foster said shaking his head.

Foster then asked Parten what incentives were available for new growers.

"On Sept. 10, Holly increased the price of sugar produced at the Hereford factory $1.50 a hundredweight. Projected on the 1973 crop, this will increase returns to growers an additional $50 an acre. On this basis, a grower can realize $495 an acre on his crop—a new record," Parten said.

Parten also explained that Holly has a new program whereby it will sell a grower beet pulp for 90 per cent of the market price, let him market it and pocket the 10 per cent differential as additional profit. He pointed out that beet pulp was selling at the same price as milo and other feed grains.

Foster asked what the value of an acre of tops was for grazing. Parten said that Holly figures $1 a ton of beets.

Bob Ginn said that beet tops have a value of $80 an acre if properly cared for and are included in a cattle fattening program. This would push total returns to growers up to $575 an acre of beets.

Foster asked if there was any chance that Holly wouldn't open up next year if it doesn't get its acreage, as he keeps hearing that rumor.

Parten said that President John B. Bunker felt that Holly would have to be satisfied with its present acreage to get it through 1974 until the new Sugar Act become effective.

Bunker is hopeful that the new Act might include incentives for sugarbeet growers in respect to the competitive crops.

Foster admitted that beet acreage was down because of the competitive crops in the area.

"It doesn't take as much labor to grow the other crops. You need lots of labor for beets. Nitrogen is good for milo but it cuts down on the sugar in beets," Foster explained.

He has had better luck with small fields of sugarbeets—around 20-25 acres—than with large fields.
