Casey transplant

PITTSBURGH — Doctors performed a high-risk heart-liver transplant Monday on Gov. Robert P. Casey in hopes of curing a fatal disease. They said the heart pumped properly and the liver worked well after the 13-hour operation. "The procedure was essentially flawless. The organs were working excellently," said Dr. John Armitage, who handled the heart transplant./5A

City, county June sales-tax rebates show slow growth

Staff report

The City of Midland received $607,710 in sales tax rebates for June, marking a 5.3 percent increase from the same month last year.

The latest check, which is mailed to the city from the State Comptroller's office in Austin, brings Midland's 1993 total to $4,779,935, or 4.07 percent more than the 1992 total of $4,593,095.

This month's sales tax rebates include taxes collected on April sales and reported to the Comptroller in May by businesses filing monthly tax returns.

Meanwhile, Midland County, like the City of Midland, continues to show gradual improvement in sales, as well. Its June check was for $388,258, or 7.06 percent more than the $362,666 collected in June of 1992. Like-

Gleeful Republicans join Hutchison at swearing in

By Ron Hutcheson

New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Kay Bailey Hutchison, a former television reporter who moved to the other side of the microphone by entering politics two decades ago, was sworn in Monday as Texas' first woman U.S. senator.

More than 500 friends, family members and political supporters burst into cheers and applause as Hutchison became the seventh woman and the 44th Republican in the 100-member chamber.

"I'm ready to roll up my sleeves right now and go to work for the people of Texas," the Dallas Republican said at a

Day-campers take 'how' from lives of Comanches

By Myra Lee Salcedo

Staff writer

Erecting a tepee is an equal-opportunity project at the Petroleum Museum's Camp Comanche.

Rachel Burke, 9, gamely hacked away at a spindly cedar trunk Monday to form a pointed stake while Meghann Witte, 7, used a hand-saw to cut a post used in forming the tepee's tripod frame.

Museum educator Mary Ruth Perkins said she had explained to campers that in a Comanche Indian tribe, women did a lot of the work.

Meghann, a third-grader at Bonham, said the tepee making was "hard work, but fun." While sawing the cedar, she got a few pointers from veteran tepee maker Joshua Quinn, 9, who previously made a tent at Indian Nights, a camp focusing on Indian skills.

The youngsters, most of them classified as next-year fifth- and sixth-graders next year, are taking part in the first session of the museum's summer day camp to learn about the lives, history and culture of the Comanche Indians.

Clinton turns to moderate female jurist

■ With support from Democrats, Republicans alike, Ginsburg appears likely to be confirmed easily.

President Clinton nominates Judge Ruth Bader Ginsburg.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Clinton chose Judge Ruth Bader Ginsburg for the Supreme Court on Monday, ending a long and tortuous search by selecting a champion of women's rights who is expected to be a consensus builder on an often-divided court.

In a Rose Garden ceremony where he was moved to tears, Clinton praised the 60-year-old appeals court jurist as "one of our nation's best judges, progressive in outlook, wise in judgment, balanced and fair in her opinions."

It was a surprise decision.

Clinton had appeared poised to name federal appeals court judge Stephen Breyer of Boston. But Breyer's chances faded after the weekend disclosure that he had broken the law by failing to pay Social Security taxes for an elderly woman who cleaned his house.

Even earlier, Clinton had been leaning toward Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt but environmentalists implored Clinton to keep him where he was.

Clinton said 40 candidates were considered and Breyer and Babbitt were among those who "could be outstanding nominees to the Supreme Court in the future."

After a three-month search, Clinton made a quick decision on Ginsburg after a 90-minute meeting Sunday. "Once I talked to her I felt very strongly about her," the president said.

With support from Democrats and Republicans alike, Ginsburg appeared likely to be confirmed easily by the Senate — no doubt a factor in her selection by a president plagued by a string of embarrassing missteps.

A federal appeals judge in Washington since 1980, Ginsburg said her nomination to the Supreme Court would help end the days when women "appear in high places only as one-at-a-time

Program drains swim-lesson pool

By Darren J. Waggoner

Staff writer

The demand for affordable swimming lessons in Midland has dropped dramatically since 350 children enrolled in a Red Cross-sponsored program last year.

Supply, meanwhile, remains plentiful — despite the recent closing of one of three city park pools used for the lessons.

Only 14 children attended three separate, 40-minute sessions at Washington Park Monday and about 20 are expected for the first lessons today at Ulmer Park.

"These children are essentially receiving individual, one-on-one training," said Barbara Sumners, interim chapter manager for Red Cross. "At full capacity, we will have only eight students per instructor. And these are qualified — Red Cross certified — instructors."

Organizers blame a lack of publicity and the closing of Halff Park pool —

HIV-infected Haitians leave Cuba base for lives in U.S.

Associated Press writer

MIAMI — Twelve-year-old James Dieudonne is eager to go to school. He has just spent 14 months in a place where he had nothing to do, a squalid U.S. detention center in Cuba criticized as "an HIV prison camp."

On Monday, he was one of 27 Haitian political refugees, including six children, who flew to freedom as the camp at Guantanamo Bay Naval Base began shutting down. Most of the adults carry HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

James, speaking before he boarded the Air Force C-130 that carried the first group of refugees to Miami, said he wants to go to school now.

His first priority, though, is "to learn to play basketball."

Baptist vote elects veteran missionary as board head

HOUSTON (AP) — A veteran missionary who sparked some controversy because of his reported Pentecostal beliefs was elected Monday to head the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Dr. Jerry A. Rankin, 51, was elected in a 59-14 vote by the Foreign Mission Board's trustees. After the vote was taken and a majority was evident, the trustees approved a motion to make the vote unanimous.

"I am excited about what God is doing as we move to the 21st century with the loyal support of Southern Baptists," Rankin said.

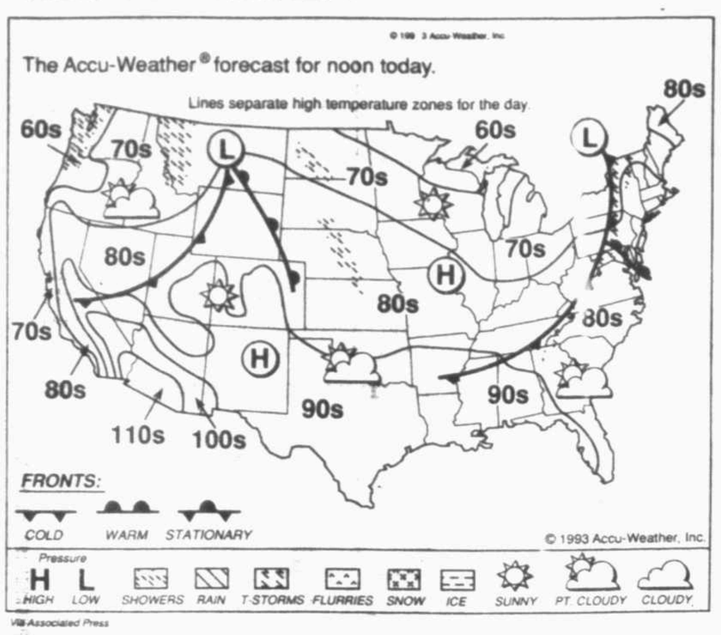

Rankin has created controversy because of his alleged acceptance and practice of Pentecostal beliefs. Pentecostals believe in a baptism of the Holy Spirit that manifests itself in praying and speaking in tongues.

Southern Baptists officially reject Pentecostalism, but

Afternoon holds chance of rain

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for cloudy skies in the morning, becoming partly cloudy in the afternoon with a 30 percent chance of rain. The high will be near 90 and winds will be southeast at 10-20 mph. Tonight should be partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain and a low in the upper 60s, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Wednesday should be partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of rain and a high near 90.

After an overnight low of 62, Monday's high reached 87, compared to the record high for that date of 105 set in 1945. The record low was 56 set in 1989.

STATE

Several different, isolated rain patterns splashed several parts of the state Monday and more was forecast for the next few days.

Unique conditions forecast for today have prompted the North Texas Clean Air Coalition to issue its first ozone alert. The group says the environment will be vulnerable to an excessive amount of ozone in the lower atmosphere.

Ozone forms in a chemical reaction when the sun bakes noxious emissions from smokestacks, automobile exhaust and other sources. The result is a hazy smog that often covers cities. Breathing it can irritate the lungs.

An upper-level low system coming from Mexico on Monday afternoon sparked showers and thunderstorms from Brownsville to San Antonio, bringing very humid and unstable air.

The skies began the day with a thick overcast but, by late afternoon, they had become partly to mostly cloudy.

The systems resulted in another hot and sticky day with high humidity making the afternoon 80s feel more like the mid- and upper 90s.

NATION

Thunderstorms barged across the Midwest and the South on Monday, shedding inch-thick hail in Indiana.

Rain showers and thunderstorms spread along a weakening cold front from Minnesota to Tennessee, and were also scattered across the gulf coast states from Florida to Texas.

Severe thunderstorms rattled parts of Indiana, dropping inch-thick hail at Bennetts Switch and near Greentown, golfball-size hail at Alexandria and large hail that damaged trees near Orestes.

Despite the widely scattered showers, there were no reports of heavy rainfall during the six hours ending at 1 p.m. CDT.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

which city officials deemed necessary because of safety concerns.

To offset that closing, the city last week approved giving $1,500 to the Boys and Girls Club of Midland to help transport children from that facility to Washington Park.

The Red Cross, aided by a two-year venture grant from United Way, is offering four consecutive sessions at both Washington Park and Ulmer Park pools. The cost is $3 per child for the entire two-week program, with the price for each additional child per family reduced to $1.

"If a family cannot pay the money, it is Red Cross policy that no student will be denied lessons," Ms. Sumners said.

She said the lessons are geared toward young children, although others are also accepted.

"Last year, a couple of mothers came out to learn. We're not being too particular," she said. "And it's not too late to sign up."

Late registration for the program will continue between 10 a.m. and noon at Washington Park and Ulmer Park, at the Boys and Girls Club at 110 E. New Jersey and at the Red Cross at 2306 Elizabeth St.

(From 1A)

performers."

If confirmed, she would join Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, who was the first woman ever named to the high court. Ginsburg would be the first Jewish justice since Abe Fortas resigned in 1969.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole said Ginsburg was "a good choice" who "undoubtedly has the experience and the intellect to hit the ground running if confirmed."

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., chosen to guide the nomination through the Senate, predicted she would be confirmed "100 to zero. I can't imagine any problem."

In Boston, Breyer told reporters: "I know Ruth Ginsburg very well. I've known the family for years. She will make a terrific Supreme Court justice."

"... I am honored to have been considered in the process, particularly to have made it into triple overtime," Breyer said on the day after Game Three of the National Basketball Association finals went to three overtimes. He would neither confirm nor deny reports that the White House had asked him to prepare an acceptance speech.

Harriett Woods, president of the National Women's Political Caucus, said Ginsburg is fully versed in women's issues. "She's rooted in a way that I think will be good for the court," she said.

Ginsburg supports a woman's right to have an abortion, White House officials said, although she has written that the 1973 decision legalizing abortion "prolonged divisiveness and deferred stable settlement of that issue."

Ginsburg was chosen to succeed Justice Byron White, who announced three months ago that he was retiring when the current court session ends. It meant the first opportunity in 25 years for a Democratic president to make a Supreme Court nomination.

The current, conservative-to-moderate court often splits 5-4 on contentious issues, including some abortion rulings. Clinton was looking for a consensus builder who could work with the eight Republican appointees and tug the court toward a more moderate stance.

In bright sunlight on a cloudless day, Clinton spoke movingly about Ginsburg as the diminutive judge stood beside him.

Despite enormous ability and academic achievement, she could not get a job with a law firm in the 1960s because she was a woman and a mother, Clinton said.

"Having experienced discrimination, she devoted the next 20 years of her career to fighting it and making this country a better place for our wives, our mothers, our sisters and our daughters," the president said. "She herself argued and won many of the women's rights cases before the Supreme Court in the 1970s."

Ginsburg helped argue a landmark case in 1971 that led the court to rule for the first time that a state law can be unconstitutional if it discriminates against women.

In another major case, she represented the American Civil Liberties Union in 1973 in arguing against a federal law treating the wives and husbands of armed service members differently. The Supreme Court ruled in her favor.

Tears spilled down Clinton's cheek as he listened to Ginsburg speak of the struggle of women to win appointment to the federal judiciary. She quoted her daughter's 1973 high school yearbook as saying that Jane Ginsburg's ambition was "to see her mother appointed to the Supreme Court." The next line read, "If necessary, Jane will appoint her."

The judge closed with a poignant tribute to her late mother. "I pray that I may be all that she would have been had she lived in an age when women could aspire and achieve and daughters are cherished as much as sons."

Clinton refused to answer reporters' questions after ABC's Brit Hume opened a news conference by asking about "a certain zigzag quality in the decision-making process here." Glaring at the reporter, Clinton said, "How you could you ask a question like that after the statement she just made is beyond me.'"

SENATOR: Hutchison finds welcoming party

(From 1A)

news conference minutes later.

Hutchison's welcoming party was a triumphant moment for Republicans, who reveled in the chance to forget about their loss of the White House just seven months ago.

"It's a lot more fun winning," said Senate Republican leader Bob Dole. "Texas gave us the shot in the arm that we needed, not just in Texas but all across America."

A luncheon in Hutchison's honor at the Mayflower Hotel found three potential GOP presidential candidates — Dole, Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas and former Housing Secretary Jack Kemp — sharing the same table.

"It's an exciting time to be a Republican," Kemp said.

The only consolation for Democrats is that Hutchison has to face voters again next year. The former state treasurer, who defeated interim Sen. Bob Krueger in a June 5 special election runoff, assumed the seat formerly held by Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen.

In what must have been a difficult moment for him, Bentsen, a Democrat, returned to the Senate for Hutchison's swearing-in ceremony.

"It meant a lot to me," Hutchison said later. "He was very gracious. He offered to help me in any way, and I probably will call him from time to time."

Hutchison brushed aside questions about a potential cloud over Monday's festivities, a grand jury investigation into operations at the state Treasury Department. More than a dozen of Hutchison's former Treasury Department employees have been subpoenaed in the inquiry, which involves allegations of record tampering and official misconduct.

"I don't think there's anything to investigate," the new senator said. "These are political charges. There's been nothing done wrong at the Treasury Department."

Hutchison's jubilant supporters, most of whom were up before dawn to catch one of three early-morning charter flights from Dallas to Washington, also dismissed the investigation as a political witch hunt.

"There's literally been no discussion about it that I have heard," said Richard Salwen of Austin, who got up at 4 a.m. to make the trip to Washington. "It hasn't put any damper on this event. This is not the time to talk about that stuff."

Instead, the favored topic among Republicans was the possibility that Hutchison's election signaled a new era for their party. Party loyalists portrayed the Texas victory as the first in a string of elections that will put Congress and the White House under GOP control.

"It sets the whole tone for the 1994 elections," Gramm said. "I know it's a long way off, but I believe we have a chance to win a Republican majority in the Senate in 1994."

Hutchison, 49, is a former University of Texas cheerleader who graduated with a law degree in 1967. She turned to journalism after she was unable to land a job at any of the major Houston law firms at a time when women were still a rarity in the legal profession.

The former TV reporter launched her political career in 1972 by winning election to the Texas House. In 1976, then-President Gerald Ford appointed her to the National Transportation Safety Board.

Johnson."

After arriving in Miami, Mary Rosita Joseph, 19, described horrendous conditions at the dusty, razor-wire-encircled camp.

"I was living in a cell with bugs and rats," she told reporters as the van carrying her drove into the U.S. Catholic Conference center in Miami. "Now I'm very happy. I feel like a newborn child. . . . I feel God came down to rescue me."

The 113 others still at Guantanamo will be flown to the United States over the next 10 days, federal officials said.

That left some relatives disappointed.

Passaller Terilldor waited at Miami International Airport for his wife, carrying a sign saying "Jaklin, I'm so happy to see you." But she wasn't on the flight.

"I'm feeling bad now because she's been there a year and two months, and every time people come, they never send her for me," he said.

Church officials wouldn't grant further interviews with the refugees who arrived in Miami until they had a chance to get settled. Several did talk with reporters before boarding the plane.

Bob Brutus spoke bitterly of his 20 months in Guantanamo.

"That ain't no camp. That's a jail," Brutus said. He plans to join his wife and infant son in New York, and get a job.

On June 8, U.S. District Judge Sterling Johnson Jr. of New York ordered the refugees released from the Guantanamo compound, which he called "an HIV prison camp."

Unlike tens of thousands of boat people forcibly returned to their homeland, the Haitians held at Guantanamo demonstrated to immigration officials they have a genuine fear of political persecution. Many were supporters of ousted civilian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

They were prevented from entering the United States only because they have the AIDS virus.

Some officials, including 40 congressmen, have questioned the wisdom of accepting the HIV-infected immigrants.

wise, the county's 1993 total to date stands at $2,752,955, which is 6.28 percent more than $2,590,212 received during the first six months of 1992.

The figures statewide are viewed by economic analysts as a way of gauging the health of the state's economy. And, according to Comptroller John Sharp, the latest figures don't provide any clear-cut trends.

"Sales tax rebates this month were a mixed bag," Sharp said. "While payments were up in many Texas cities and counties, other parts of the state continue to feel the 'drag' of a sluggish national economy."

Overall, a total of $109.4 million was delivered to the state's 917 cities and 108 counties in June, a 3.5 percent over the payments of one year ago.

A breakdown of how other Midland-area communities fared is as follows:

CAMP: Youngsters learn about Comanches

(From 1A)

The campers planned to paint their tepees, made of muslin cloth, once they were staked and covered.

"They were usually made of buffalo hide," Ms. Perkins said. "But we stopped short of killing a buffalo and tanning the leather. There are limits," she said, laughing.

Painting pictographs on rocks, fashioning arrows, carving a musical instrument, making a hoop and stick toy, and taking a field trip to Monahan's Sand Hills, are just a few of things in store for the day campers this week.

Museum volunteers also presented letters to the campers, one written by a man who received a Comanche war shield. The letter described the war shield in vivid detail. Another letter was written by an American settler in Palo Pinto County shortly after the area's Comanches were relegated to a reservation.

Jim Bradshaw, a museum volunteer, collected the cedar out of Monahan's Draw, and made a trial tepee in his own backyard. "Monahan's Draw was the only place I could find trees tall enough," he said. "The hardest part is getting the (tent) cover to fit," he said.

Ms. Perkins said a few places are still available for youngsters interested in attending the second session of Comanche Camp next week. Session II campers will make head bands out of tanned leather, fashion Indian garmets and cook traditional Indian foods on an outdoor fire. They also will form a powwow circle and hunt for Comanche artifacts hidden in the museum.

Session II camp meets 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. June 21-24. It is open to youngsters entering fifth and sixth grades. Campers need to bring a sack lunch daily. Drinks and afternoon snacks are provided.

Cost of Session II is $60 for members and $70 for non-members. For more information call 683-4403.

some congregations openly accept and practice charismatic worship and beliefs.

In Baptist press reports, Rankin acknowledges to privately "praying in the Spirit" but denies he is Pentecostal.

Rankin was unanimously recommended by a 15-member board search committee, and its chairman, the Rev. Joel Gregory, told the Associated Baptist Press the committee stood by Rankin.

"He was directly asked the question, 'Are you a charismatic?' His answer was no," said Gregory.

The foreign mission board, which oversees 3,900 missionaries, is one of the denomination's most revered institutions with a $69 million annual budget.

It has been leaderless since Keith Parks resigned late last October in a dispute with the conservative-dominated board. Parks now heads foreign missions for the moderate Cooperative Baptist Fellowship.

The committee oversees Southern Baptist Convention business between annual meetings of the 15.2 million-member denomination. The Baptists' three-day session officially begins today.

Israel routinely tortures Palestinians, activists say

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel systematically tortures thousands of Palestinian prisoners every year in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip to extract confessions, Israeli and Arab human rights activists said Monday.

They described what they called the "slaughterhouse," the interrogation wing of the Gaza City lockup, where they said hooded and cuffed prisoners are beaten, forced into painful positions or locked for days in tiny cells. Others are held in the "refrigerator," a cell blasted with icy air, the activists said.

"If you have to build a structure such as the refrigerator, it means that torture is systematic," said Neve Gordon, head of the Association of Israeli-Palestinian Physicians for Human Rights, which sponsored a two-day conference on rights abuses.

Between one-fourth and one-half the approximately 10,000 Palestinian detainees who pass through the military detention system every year are tortured to extract confessions, Gordon estimated.

Perhaps 50 percent of the detainees are tortured at 'the slaughterhouse.' Some prisoners are sent to 'the refrigerator,' human rights activists say.

He said the interrogations are carried out by the Shin Bet, the internal security agency that has worked to quell the nearly 6-year Palestinian uprising against Israeli occupation.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's spokesman, Gad Ben-Ari, denied allegations of torture. "No torture takes places during interrogations or investigations," he said. "There are clear instructions by the Ministry of Justice and others."

The ministry has said previously that Israeli interrogators are permitted to use "moderate physical and psychological pressure."

In April, the rules were tightened. Interrogators are not supposed to expose suspects to extreme hot or cold or deprive them of water, food or toilets, the Justice Ministry said then. It was the first official statement implying there was a basis to complaints by human rights campaigners.

Felicia Langer, an Israeli lawyer who represented hundreds of Palestinian detainees before quitting legal work in 1990, said during the conference that her family died in the Holocaust. She said Israelis should have learned never to torture.

Rabin envisions self-rule on West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said on Monday that he hoped Israel and the Palestinians will reach agreement on an outline for Palestinian autonomy by the end of the latest round of peace talks.

The 10th round of talks is to begin in Washington on Tuesday.

Rabin also told the Parliament's foreign affairs and defense committee any interim arrangement for Palestinian self-rule would most likely be implemented in Gaza first as a test case.

It was the first time that Rabin explicitly came out in favor of the so-called "Gaza-first" option, although other Cabinet ministers have publicly advocated such a course before.

Rabin told army radio, "I hope that at the end of the round there will be a joint declaration that will provide the agreed framework for the perception of the essence of the interim arrangement."

Once the outline is in place, the two sides can negotiate putting it into effect in Gaza and then in the West Bank, the prime minister said.

"Certainly it is easier to realize the agreement by trying it out," he said.

Palestinians have in the past rejected such a formula, saying that Gaza, the West Bank and east Jerusalem should be treated as one entity.

U.S. chopper attack wounds 12 Somalis

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — An American Cobra helicopter enforcing a U.N. crackdown on a Somali warlord fired a missile into a residential area in daylight Monday, striking the rusting hulk of a rocket-launcher and wounding 12 Somalis.

It was the first daytime raid after three straight nights of deadly attacks by U.N.-led forces avenging the June 5 deaths of 23 Pakistani troops in battles with Somali gunmen.

Meanwhile, a U.N. special envoy said an independent investigation was ordered into the shooting deaths Sunday of 14 Somali civilians by Pakistani soldiers.

The target of the U.N. attacks, warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid, accused the United Nations of "totalitarian motivations" and repeated demands for the Security Council to convene a special session on the crisis.

Bosnian troops repulse encircling Serbs

Gorazde: A 'safe area,' and the last Muslim enclave in eastern Bosnia that the Serbs have not overrun or neutralized.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (NYT) — Bosnian government troops repulsed new attacks by Serbian nationalist forces on Monday on the U.N.-declared "safe area" of Gorazde, the last Muslim enclave in eastern Bosnia that the Serbs have not overrun or neutralized, amateur radio operators reported.

After reports of Serbian artillery attacks on Sunday and infantry assaults that brought Serbian forces to within a few miles of the town of Gorazde, Bosnian officials demanded in Geneva on Monday that the United Nations immediately deploy U.N. military forces in the Gorazde pocket, where some 60,000 people, including tens of thousands of refugees, are trapped.

Sarajevo radio said that more that 65 people have been killed and 100 wounded in the fighting in Gorazde since Sunday morning, including 52 killed in a Serbian rocket attack on a first-aid center.

The reports cannot be independently confirmed because the Serbs have denied U.N. military observers and humanitarian-aid officials access to the area.

The commander of the U.N. military force in the Balkans, Gen. Lars-Eric Wahlgren, arrived at Sarajevo airport on Monday for talks on Tuesday with Serbian, Croatian, and Bosnian government commanders aimed primarily at working out a truce in central Bosnia and taking practical steps toward the establishment of Sarajevo and Gorazde as U.N. "safe areas."

The Serbs have resisted, charging that the United Nations and the Muslim-dominated Bosnian government reneged on agreements governing the establishment of "safe areas" around the eastern Bosnian towns of Srebrenica and Zepa.

U.N. officials have tried in vain for months to work out a lasting cease-fire in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

University of Pittsburgh Medical Center Dr. John Fung discusses the condition of soon-to-be transplant recipient Pennsylvania Governor Robert M. Casey at a news conference. Casey will need a new heart and liver.

Doctors perform high-risk heart-liver transplant on Pennsylvania governor

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Doctors performed a high-risk heart-liver transplant Monday on Gov. Robert P. Casey in hopes of curing a fatal disease. They said the heart pumped properly and the liver worked well after the 13-hour operation.

"The procedure was essentially flawless. The organs were working excellently. We could not have hoped for anything better," said Dr. John Armitage, who handled the heart transplant at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center.

The heart and liver from a 34-year-old man were of exceptional quality, he said.

Casey has "a road ahead of him that is not predictable," said Dr. John Fung, who handled the liver.

Casey was moved to an intensive care unit and will remain there at least for the next few days, doctors said.

The perilous transplant was the 61-year-old governor's last hope for beating amyloidosis, a genetic liver disease that was destroying the heart and liver he was born with.

The damage that the disease wreaked on Casey's heart was so severe that he could have died from a heart attack at any moment, Armitage said. The electrical charge that regulates the heartbeat was a third of what it should have been and could have caused a sudden irregular heartbeat or heart failure.

Doctors had already determined that Casey needed a liver transplant, but weekend tests showed his heart wasn't strong enough for that operation alone.

Casey, who made headlines last year when he was denied permission to speak against abortion at the Democratic National Convention, agreed Sunday to the double transplant and learned late Sunday that a possible donor had been found, said his spokesman, Vincent Carocci.

A heart-liver transplant has been performed one known time on an amyloidosis patient, a 62-year-old man, at Harefield Hospital near London last year. So far, the patient is doing fine, the hospital said.

Other patients have struggled after heart-liver transplants, a procedure pioneered at the Pittsburgh hospital in 1984 and performed on four other patients there. All but one died within months.

The longest survivor, Stormie Jones of White Settlement, Texas, lived six years, dying in 1990 at 13 when her body rejected the transplanted heart.

Kantor seeks sharp trade war weapon

WASHINGTON (HNS) — Trade Representative Mickey Kantor asked Congress on Monday to strengthen "Super 301," a law that enables the U.S. government to retaliate against nations deemed to have imposed unfair trade barriers against American goods and services.

Kantor and Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., told a Senate trade subcommittee that Super 301, which expired in 1990, should be renewed. Both men said the law will be a powerful weapon against nations such as Japan that impose unfair restrictions on products from the U.S.

Levin said: "If other countries want to put restrictions on our goods, that is their decision. If we tolerate it, that's our decision."

Levin and Sen. Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., drafted a new version of Super 301 that extends the old law and adds provisions requiring that it be applied "each year there are major barriers to our products." The legislation, introduced by Levin, also requires that the U.S. impose "equivalent restrictions should the negotiations fail to eliminate the identified barriers."

Levin suggested that the Trade Representative follow the State Department's example of retaliating when foreign countries restrict American diplomats by imposing "equivalent restrictions" on their diplomats assigned here.

Kantor said Super 301 will help open foreign markets to American goods by presenting other nations with deadlines by which they must remove trade barriers or risk retaliation from the United States. He said the administration will work with the subcommittee this year to prepare Super 301 for congressional action.

Although he praised Super 301, Kantor said the Clinton administration will not try to renew the law before the July meeting of leaders from the Group of Seven industrial countries or the resumption of the Uruguay round of talks on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

"With the obvious support that 301 has we don't need to go any further" with it before the Uruguay round, he said.

Approved in 1988, Super 301 was a provision of the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act that required the administration to identify unfair trade practices and target them for negotiations and possible retaliation.

Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., chairman of the subcommittee on international trade and one of the authors of the 1988 Super 301 provision, said, "It was tough, it was absolutely fair, and it was a winner."

It's back to court for funding plan

As anticipated, 75 poor school districts in Texas have asked that the "new" education funding law be declared unconstitutional and a new way of distributing state aid to schools be devised before school opens in the fall.

We agree that the plan enacted by the Senate just prior to the June 1 court deadline should not be declared the "final solution" to the school funding debate.

Nearly all sides were in agreement even before the property transferral plan passed the Senate that it would not be more than a stop-gap measure. It's in effect for the time being, but several critics — including The Dallas Morning News and State Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland — had already noted that another solution needed to be devised even before the 75 school districts asked to have the Senate plan thrown out.

With the poor districts having now asked the courts to set aside the new law, it's time to get this issue resolved. One option that hasn't been looked at enough is the dedication of a particular percentage of the first money coming into the state for education. If legislators cannot agree on such a plan, another possibility is a statewide business property tax. And, of course, there are other possibilities.

But the Senate plan that was enacted essentially to get the schools through their current funding dilemma should not be viewed as a way to address the future of education. Transferring property wealth is essentially a legalized lie that corrupts the system of property taxation. For example, it raises the question "When is property wealth not your own?" Down the road, it could lead to further illicit taxing methods that could cripple our society.

Texas needs to get past this stumbling block called education funding, but it must do so in such a way that the needs of both the schoolchildren of the state and taxpayers are served fairly and equitably.

That won't be an easy solution, but it's one that can be devised if legislators will do their work diligently.

Guatemala has learned that democracy pays big

Guatemala has a long history of strongman dictatorships and only a seven-year record of democracy, so it was surprising . . . to see President Jorge Serrano Elias toppled less than a week after seizing power.

Whether full democracy will be restored remains to be seen, but that is the direction things seems to be going.

The real reasons Serrano tried to take power are, as yet, unexplained. But the United States, Europe and Japan warned Guatemala that a return to dictatorship would cost the country aid and trade.

Guatemala's leaders got a quick read on public reaction when flights that had been full of tourists started landing empty last week.

So while the voices of protest on principle were barely heard, the sound of tens of millions of dollars slipping away evidently got the attention of the right people.

Democracy pays, Guatemalans are learning.

Vetoing handgun measure may have killed re-election

Gov. Ann Richards may have put her 1994 re-election hopes on the line when she kept her vow to follow her conscience and veto a bill authorizing a non-binding referendum to allow Texans to vote on whether they want to carry concealed handguns. . . .

Richards was right on the mark when she called the bill a taxpayer-funded opinion poll for gun interests.

"They kept putting lipstick on it, and they kept hanging earrings on it, but it is still a pig," she said.

If the National Rifle Association or other supporters of a concealed-handgun law want to know what the people of Texas think about it, why don't they raise the $60,000 the referendum would cost and hire a reliable pollster to find out?

With the state's budget already straining at every seam, the taxpayers of Texas have more important projects on which to spend their money.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, June 15, the 166th day of 1993. There are 199 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On June 15, 1215, King John signed the Magna Carta at Runnymede, England, granting his barons more liberty.

On this date:

In 1520, Pope Leo X threatened to excommunicate Martin Luther if he did not recant his religious beliefs.

In 1775, the Second Continental Congress voted unanimously to appoint George Washington head of the Continental Army.

In 1836, Arkansas became the 25th state.

In 1844, Charles Goodyear received a patent for his process to strengthen rubber. Even so, Goodyear did not benefit from the invention, and died in poverty in 1860.

In 1846, the United States and Britain signed a treaty settling the boundary between Canada and the U.S. in the Pacific Northwest.

WILLIAM MURCHISON

Spending freeze is way to balance budget

While Congress and the president thrash around in seemingly bottomless red ink, the National Tax-Limitation Committee flings out a commodious inner tube. Whether the floundering swimmers have sense enough to grab it is another matter. Taxpaying spectators are entitled to admire the committee's deftness and sense of the moment.

Murchison

The Washington, D.C.-based citizens' group said the other day: forget Btu taxes, "transportation" taxes, Medicare cuts, the whole mess that now entrances Congress and the White House. Instead, freeze federal spending for five years: everything except interest on the national debt and Social Security and Medicare. Freeze all other functions at $1.5 trillion. Let Congress decide how to apportion such cuts as would result from growth in demand for services.

"A spending freeze," the tax-limitation committee argues, "is an approach that every family and business understands, because we've all had to do it. It is a reasonable discipline. It is simple — and it works."

There you have two major disqualifications, from the political standpoint — simplicity and effectiveness. What's either of these got to do with placating interest groups? On the other hand, a spending freeze is the policy seemingly most favored by those pulling the freight in this country.

Your essayist acknowledges he wouldn't know how to begin taking a "scientific" survey. Yet in question-and-answer sessions following speeches, he is asked over and over: If we want to balance the budget, why don't we just freeze spending? He always replies, yea, verily; right on, Bro; or something else voguish.

Taxpayers, I mean, can figure these things out. If they were as stupid as politicians seem to think, they'd be incapable of earning all the money the government wastes.

Politicians, whenever they start working on the deficit, always talk of whamming producers with higher taxes. Ditto Ross Perot: whom, on these occasions, you want to take by the ears and shake. It's not the taxes, Ross, it's the spending: S-P-E-N-D-I-N-G. Isn't it enough, the tax limitation committee inquires, that the federal government spends twice what it did 10 years ago — the equivalent of $24,000 per family of four?

How would a spending freeze work? It would work any way Congress and the president wanted it to work. They could start new programs, or beef up old ones. They just couldn't do it by borrowing or raising taxes; the money would have to come from savings in other programs.

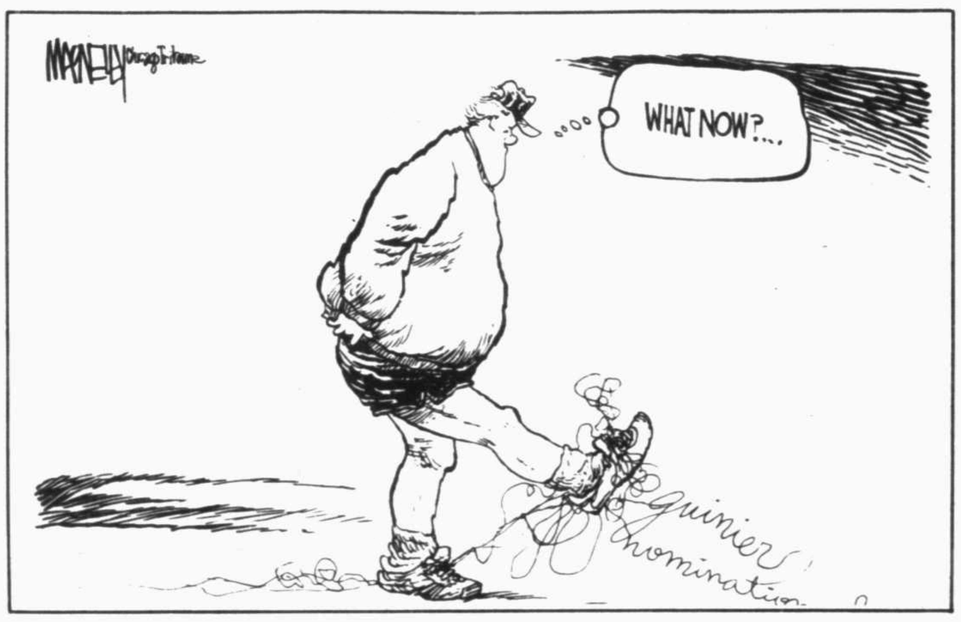

Could existing programs, with vocal constituencies, really be cut? That's been the question year after year. Oh! the politicians exclaim in tones of shock. We can't touch that!

Not even military spending would be exempted from the freeze, a possibility that was impossible to contemplate during the Cold War. The pain would be general — as the relief would be, once the cold-turkey approach wiped out the deficit and positioned the economy for liftoff.

Can't or won't? It's different when there's no choice, on account of a legislated ceiling. In any case, there's a plethora of outdated federal programs ripe for abolition or reduction. The Heritage Foundation has proposed $530 billion in program savings, the Cato Institute, $325 billion, Newsweek magazine, $267 billion.

The tax-limitation committee mentions "military bases and procurement, regional administrative structures (Appalachia, TVA), hospitals and medical research facilities, colleges and university research and student grants, farm and dairy interests, subsidies for pet construction projects in urban areas whether redevelopment or so-called 'mass transit,' etc." Let our legislators determine who wins and who loses. Don't we pay them enough for that onerous chore?

One would be gloomier about prospects for a freeze if Congress and the Clinton administration weren't in such a muddle right now: neither side wanting to alienate taxpayers, neither side knowing how to avoid it. After a while you get desperate. You start looking at things that make sense. When the problem is red ink and bloated budgets, nothing makes better sense than a freeze on spending.

CHARLEY REESE

Corporate America lost its moral footing

Quality in business is a matter of morality, not a matter of engineering, accounting, management expertise, marketing, or statistical analysis.

If the people at the top and the people on the shop floor are moral and ethical individuals, then quality is no problem. America became shoddy, not because it lacked the skills or technical expertise, but because the people in charge lost their moral footing.

Reese

And many haven't found it yet.

Nothing so illustrates this point so well as a recent issue of Business Week, which reports once again the obscenely high income of American corporate executives.

Here are a few examples of one year's compensation (salary, stock options, etc.): Sanford Weill, Primerica, $67 million; Charles Lazarus, Toys 'R' Us, $64 million; Leon Hirsch, U.S. Surgical, $62 million; Stephen A. Wynn, Mirage Resorts, $38 million; Anthony O'Reilly, H.J. Heinz, $36 million; Martin Wygod, Medco Containment, $30 million; William Anders, General Dynamics, $29 million; Ronald Richey, Torchmark, $26 million; and Louis F. Bantle, UST, $24 million.

But those aren't the highest. That dubious distinction goes to Thomas Frist, Hospital Corp. of America, who knocked down $127 million. Does that provide a hint about the problem of health care cost in America?

With all proper respect, none of those men are worth that. There isn't a Henry Ford, a Thomas Alva Edison, a Harvey Firestone, or a Walt Disney in the lot. These guys are just shrewd corporate politicians or financiers who know how to play the game.

Now contrast that with the Japanese. Hiroshi Yamauchi, Nintendo, $6 million, is the highest paid CEO in Japan; Business Week lists only eight as making $1 million or more. Yutaka Kume, Nissan Motor, drew only $830,000; Shinroku Morohashi, of Mitsubishi, $786,000. The head of Hitachi, another name familiar to Americans, made only $359,000.

Years ago I had an opportunity to spend a week with the late Ed Ball, who was trustee of the DuPont Estate — a $2 billion empire. I asked why American corporate executives acted the way they do.

"Because they don't own it," he snapped. "They don't care if there is anything left after they leave."

That attitude, typified by the salaries, typified by the recurrent cases of corporate bribery and book jiggling, the takeover games, the loading down of businesses with debt, sums up what's wrong with our competitive position.

It's a further outrage that the corporate establishment is trying to lay the blame on American workers and American public education. If education is to blame, it's the Ivy League graduate business schools that seem to have perfected a method of turning out bright but amoral people with huge appetites for money and a non-existent sense of ethics.

Japan earned a world-wide reputation for quality products because in Japan both the people at the top and the people on the line still have a strong sense of ethics.

Don't confuse ethics with sentimentality or salesmanship. Ethics is a personal matter. The man on the line who does his job well does so, not because he wants to please somebody else, but because he must please himself by living up to the standards he's set for himself. The Japanese executive who cares about the future success of the firm long beyond the time he will be in it does so because his personal code of honor demands it.

The best warranty and guaranty available is to deal only with people who have personal integrity. That integrity, or lack of it, will be reflected in everything they do and are associated with.

LEWIS GRIZZARD

Twitty had ability to find his fans' pain

My friend, Ron Hudspeth, who gave up sportswriting to write about how to have a good time, probably has seen more live country acts than anybody else who doesn't promote them for a living.

He also has met Willie Nelson, has been on Waylon Jennings' bus and once had a beer in a booth with Tom T. Hall, one of my country music heroes, in Tootsie's Orchid Lounge in Nashville.

Grizzard

For that reason, I always have valued his opinions on country music and he has often said of Conway Twitty, "Nobody can get down there and beg like Ol' Conway."

And country music has a lot of getting down there and begging in it, even the modern variety. Doesn't Billy Ray Cyrus do a great deal of pleading in "Achy Breaky Heart"?

Country songs beg for forgiveness, beg for departed lovers to come back, beg for peace of mind.

It's why country touches a lot of us.

"Honey, just forgive me and come on back home so I don't have to toss and turn and stare at this ceiling no more."

A thousand country songs have been written on that one sentence.

But Conway. The very sound of his voice was a cry for relief. It exuded agony. It broke and cracked at just the right time.

Nobody could put forth two simple words — "Hello, Darlin' " — before launching into that plea to return that hits the bottom of the belly of anybody who has ever been in that sorrowful place.

We recently Conway. He was 59.

I've already mentioned one reason for his success, that ability of his to find our own pain. But there was something else Conway did late in his career that gave him tremendous appeal to female country music fans, especially those we'll say who were over 30. Those whose husbands were on the couch with a beer wondering why the Braves can't hit.

Conway appealed to their sexuality. He went after their sexual frustrations, forged by the Creator's little joke of making the male's sexual peak at 19 and the female's at 35. (I read that somewhere.)

Do you think I'm kidding?

OK, what about his Conway line:

"Even with your hair up in curlers, I'd still love to lay you down"?

He wasn't talking about sprawling on the living room carpet for a rousing game of Monopoly.

How about, "There's a tiger in these tight-fittin' jeans"? and "You can't call him a cowboy until you've seen him ride"?

And didn't Conway record "Slow Hands"? Never was there a more suggestive song on a country label.

I was at a live Conway concert myself once. The over-30 female set flocked to the stage with flowers for Conway. I saw the over-50 set do the same once at a Frank Sinatra gig in New York in the '70s.

Conway had all that permed hair and that Elvis-like stare and snarl, having sprung from the same era, and he made his female fans feel he would, in fact, swim the Mississippi to satisfy their longings. Billy Ray can't touch that.

Conway Twitty was a sex symbol, perhaps country music's first, and I've got to believe the tears are flowing like — if this were a country song — warm, red wine as the man groans one last time:

"Goodbye, Darlin' "

Ginsberg evolves from radical innovator to moderate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ruth Bader Ginsburg was a radically innovative lawyer but became a cautious, centrist judge who would add to the power of the Supreme Court's moderates, according to those who know her and her work.

"To have called her a moderate 25 years ago would have been ridiculous," Northwestern University law professor Jane Larson said of the woman President Clinton made his first Supreme Court pick Monday.

"But that description is true today," Larson said. "The rest of the country has caught up to Ruth Bader Ginsburg."

Legal experts say Ginsburg's replacing the retiring Justice Byron R. White turns a 5-4 court on abortion rights to a 6-3 court.

But while many experts said Ginsburg likely would find a home in the court's middle, along with Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Anthony M. Kennedy and David H. Souter, they stopped short of predicting how she would vote on such thorny issues as affirmative action, school prayer or homosexual rights.

'To have called her a moderate 25 years ago would have been ridiculous, but that description is true today.'

— Jane Larson, law professor

"It's a little hard to predict just where she will fit in on this court," said Harvard law professor Laurence Tribe. "Certainly in some areas — free-speech, free-press, personal autonomy — she will represent a shift from Justice White's conservatism."

"But it is more the precision and power of her intellect that will mark Judge Ginsburg's tenure," Tribe said.

Any justice's impact is more, or sometimes less, than his or her political and jurisprudential views. A justice's personality and style, and how those qualities fit into the group dynamics, are part of the mix as well.

White has been a team player but not a coalition builder. He made up his mind, cast his vote and generally did not see the need to search out likely allies.

In naming Ginsburg, Clinton called her "a force for consensus building."

In the late 1960s and early 1970s, Ginsburg led a team of lawyers that persuaded the Supreme Court to rule that discrimination against women is unconstitutional.

"She not only argued the cases, she invented the theory," Larson said. "Sexual equality in the law truly was a radical departure."

Serial killer from Texas escapes Mississippi jail

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Roadblocks dotted parts of the Mississippi Gulf Coast on Monday where police sought self-described serial killer Donald Leroy Evans.

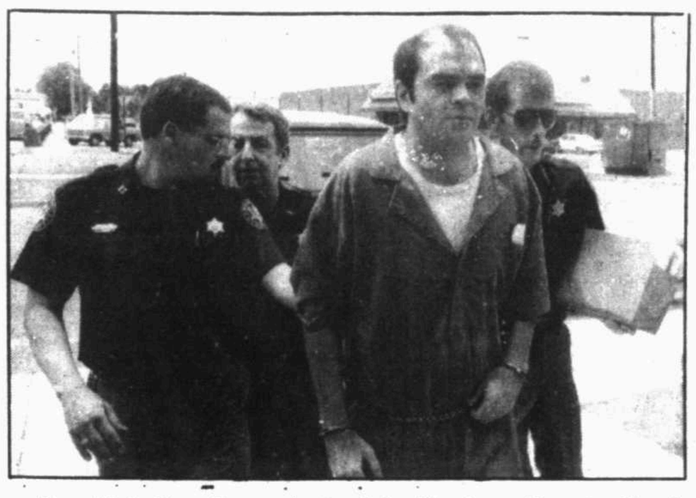

Evans, 35, boasted of killing 72 people on a 10-year multistate killing rampage, but has been charged in only two slayings — one in Gulfport and another in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The Texas drifter used a homemade knife and escaped with three other prisoners from the Harrison County jail Sunday night. Only Evans and one other inmate remained free Monday afternoon.

"We're going to be optimistic and say he's still in the area," said Sheriff Joe Price, appealing for the public's help in finding Evans.

It was the first escape from the 3-year-old lockup, which the sheriff claims was inadequately staffed. Outside his office, a search helicopter hovered over the piney woods looking for the escapees.

Four inmates were involved in the escape. During the breakout, a jail trusty tackled one inmate.

Donald LeRoy Evans is lead to Harrison County Courthouse in Gulfport, Friday, by the Harrison Co. Sheriff's Department. Evans escaped from the Harrison County Jail, north of Gulfport, Sunday night.

Federal health care plans to cover worker's abortions

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Without a roll call or even debate, the House Appropriations Committee voted Monday to have federal employees' health care plans cover their abortions.

Approval by the full House and the Senate is considered probable and would end a government ban on such coverage that was imposed in 1983. The House panel's action reflected a major shift in abortion policy since President Clinton took office after 12 years of Republican administrations.

Lawmakers said they did not know how many women would be newly covered for abortion services if the provision survived.

But they noted that more than half of the 2 million federal employees are women and that wives and daughters of federal employees would be covered as well.

Rep. Nita M. Lowey, a Democratic member of the committee from Westchester County, N.Y., praised the measure as a step toward making federal employees equal with workers in the private sector. "Before, we treated these women unequally," she said, "because the majority of insurance policies include reproductive health care, including abortion."

The provision was part of a $22.7 billion appropriations bill, approved by the committee on a voice vote, that would finance next year's operations of the Executive Office of the President, the Treasury Department and several independent agencies.

Law could hinder anti-abortion protesters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will decide whether a federal law aimed primarily at battling the Mafia may be used to sue protesters who block women's access to abortion clinics.

The court said Monday it has voted to review a ruling that spared Operation Rescue and other anti-abortion groups from being sued by abortion clinic operators under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO).

A decision is expected sometime in 1994.

As its 1992-93 term wound down to its final few weeks, the court also took these actions:

—Revived a challenge to a Jacksonville, Fla., affirmative action program attacked for allegedly violating the rights of companies owned by white men.

The 7-2 ruling left federal courts open to some who wish to challenge government programs, a result urged by various civil rights groups even though they supported the challenged Jacksonville program.

—Spared trustees of health benefit and pension plans serving millions of American workers from having to transfer some money to new funds whenever employers withdraw and set up new funds.

—Barred, by a 7-2 vote, the Cheyenne River Sioux from regulating hunting and fishing by non-Indians at Lake Oahe on the tribe's reservation in South Dakota.

The order in the abortion blockades case came as welcome news to the abortion rights movement, which five months ago suffered a major setback when the high court ruled that federal judges cannot stop abortion clinic blockades.

The justices in January ruled that federal judges may not stop abortion clinic blockades by invoking an 1871 civil rights law, popularly called the Ku Klux Klan Act. The act bans conspiracies aimed at violating constitutional rights.

Vitamin A slows eye disease

WASHINGTON (AP) — Large daily doses of vitamin A can slow the slide toward blindness for patients with retinitis pigmentosa and may save years of eyesight for 100,000 Americans with the inherited affliction, a new study indicates.

Dr. Eliot L. Berson, a Harvard Medical School researcher, said a dietary study of 600 patients with retinitis pigmentosa, or RP, showed that vitamin A therapy slowed the loss of eyesight.

He said a patient who started vitamin A therapy at age 32 could retain vision until age 70 instead of losing sight at age 63.

The same study also showed that large, supplemental doses of vitamin E actually accelerate the RP disease, Berson said. At one time, he said, it was thought that both vitamin A and E were beneficial.

"The course of disease was slowed, on average, among adults with the common form of RP who took vitamin A," said Berson in an interview.

NOTED DOCTOR 'PSYCHS' PEOPLE SLIM & SMOKE-FREE

SUCCESS RATES TOP 95% FOR WEIGHT LOSS & STOP SMOKING HYPNOSIS PROGRAMS

MIDLAND- Betty Powell was an 'expert' on weight loss. "You name it, and I've tried it", she said, "... diets, shots, pills, Nutrisystems, Jenny Craig, Slim Fast, etc. Oh sure, I'd manage to lose a few pounds, but I always regained them, with a few extra to spare. I'd almost given up hope, when some of my friends told me how they each had not only lost weight but kept it off through a group hypnotherapy session conducted by Dr. Kaloski. Three and a half months after attending the seminar I had lost 43 lbs., reaching my goal weight of 115. It's been a year now and I haven't gained back a single pound! Best of all, I did it without dieting."

Frank Lopez was a 3 pack-a-day smoker who had tried "the Patch", nicotine gum, white-knuckle willpower and even other hypnosis programs to kick his 31 year habit. "Five miserable, wall-climbing days was the longest I ever made it", he said, "Dr. Kaloski helped me quit smoking with absolutely no withdrawal. It's been nine months and I've never felt better."

These people, and thousands more like them, are now being helped through the innovative and highly successful techniques pioneered by Dr. B. E. Kaloski. Holder of Doctorate Degrees in both Counseling Psychology and Clinical Hypnotherapy, Dr. Kaloski founded the nation's largest network of private hypnosis clinics, is a Fellow of the National Board for Hypnotic Anaesthesiology, past president of the American Board of Hypnotherapy and author of "Psych Yourself Slim" and "The No Nonsense Guide to Smoking Cessation." With over 100,000 patient hours in group and private practice, he ranks as one of the nation's most experienced hypnotherapists.

A dynamic speaker who brings a genuine enthusiasm to his seminars, Dr. Kaloski credits his phenomenal success rate, in the 95% range, to his exclusive and revolutionary Multiphasic Motivational Programming method, so unique that it is registered with the U.S. Copyright Office. "All habits are the result of both conscious and subconscious processing. Both are equally vital and important and each must be addressed for optimal effectiveness. To treat one area while neglecting the other is only doing half the job. MMP is the only program that has been designed to provide dynamic intervention on both levels - conscious and subconscious. It brings the subconscious mind into a working partnership with conscious desires. The results may at times seem truly miraculous but these techniques are based on sound, proven and time-tested principles."

" Contrary to popular belief, everyone can be hypnotized. A hypnotized person is not asleep; they're merely fully relaxed and always aware of what's going on around them. Hypnosis allows the mind to vividly imagine a situation. What the mind conceives the body tends to achieve. Thus, we minimize the effort & maximize the results."

" Although my seminar focuses on losing weight and quitting smoking, I also show people how to use my methods to improve other areas of their life as well, such as exercise motivation, stress, memory & concentration, self-esteem & confidence, financial success, procrastination, alcohol, insomnia, pain relief, depression, emotional control, fears & phobias, to name a few."

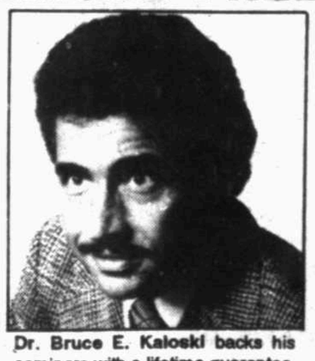

According to Dr. Kaloski, there are three main reasons why most people fail to permanently lose weight or stop smoking. " First, they rely on willpower - a very unreliable method. Willpower means that you have to deprive yourself of something you want. With our MMP method, however, willpower becomes unnecessary since you can't feel deprived of something you don't want. We help a person redirect their priorities so that the desire for the fattening foods or cigarettes is replaced by a stronger desire for a slim, trim figure, vibrant health, longevity and abundant vitality. After our seminar a person eats less because they actually want less. They refrain from smoking because they actually don't want that cigarette. That's critically important."

" Second, they concentrate on changing the action but not the attitude... a big mistake. Before the weight can come off and stay off the body, it must come off from between the ears. The same principle applies to smoking. The only way to permanently lose weight or stop smoking is to change one's attitude toward food and cigarettes. That's exactly what this program accomplishes."

" Third, they often find a great void in their life without the food or cigarettes that have been their friends for years. This often causes a relapse. I've solved that problem by programming everyone, while in hypnosis, with three positive replacements to fill that void. Smokers also benefit by not gaining weight after quitting."

" The first hour is the same for everyone. That's when we lay the crucial groundwork for success. After a short break, I conduct the weight loss session, which takes about 30 minutes - sending the smokers off to puff to their heart's content since it'll be the last cigarettes they'll ever have. I then conduct the stop smoking session."

" So confident am I of these programs that I offer a lifetime guarantee. If anyone should ever need additional help, attend the same program at anytime in the future absolutely free of charge."

Dr. Bruce E. Kaloski backs his seminars with a lifetime guarantee

Paid Advertisement-

" I'm very pleased to offer this seminar for only $39.95 for either program or $59.95 for both. Compared to my $200 private session fee, this puts these outstanding programs within the reach of almost everyone. Furthermore, I offer a discount for groups of 3 or more."

Dr. Kaloski will personally conduct his highly acclaimed seminars in Midland on Wed., June 16 at the Midland Hilton & Towers, 117 W. Wall St. and in Odessa on Thurs., June 17 at the Odessa Hilton, 5200 E. University. All seminars start at 7:30 pm. Registration is at the door beginning at 7:00 pm. Cash, Check, MC/VISA are accepted. Dress comfortably and bring a pillow, if you wish.

DEAR ABBY

Overeaters Anonymous can help with self-esteem

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for four years and have a 2-year-old daughter. My problem is me. Since I had my baby, I've gained a lot of weight and can't get it off.

Van Buren

I feel like my husband doesn't love me anymore because of this. I've asked him about it, but he just blows me off. He never tells me that he loves me; he never kisses me; and we've gone from making love three to four times a week to three to four times a month, and I know it's because I don't turn him on anymore. What I wouldn't do for him just to hug me. I feel so lonely and ugly. I don't even leave the door open while I'm dressing, because I don't want him to see me.

I've lost all my self-esteem. I hate to leave my house because I feel like people just look at me and say, "Look at her. She must be at least 100 pounds overweight. I'm surprised her husband is still with her. I feel sorry for him."

When I look at my wedding pictures, I get so depressed. I hate myself. How could I have ever let myself get like this?

Abby, I don't know what to do. I can't afford to go to one of those weight-loss centers every week. Is there anything that you can say to help me? — TOO FAT TO BE LOVED

DEAR TOO FAT: Nobody is "too fat to be loved." Stop beating yourself up and take the first step toward recovery.

Overeaters Anonymous (listed in your telephone directory) will welcome you with open arms to a meeting where you will find men and women who are fighting the same battle as you. There is no shaming, no weighing and no embarrassment — just a fellowship of compassionate people with a common problem. And it's free.

There are chapters in almost every city, but if you have difficulty finding the nearest one, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 92870, Los Angeles, Calif. 90009.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law drops by at any hour without calling first. My door is usually unlocked. If I don't answer it (knowing it is her), she walks right in and goes looking for me — even upstairs!

She is relentless; meal times, family occasions, quiet moments — she intrudes without hesitation. Furthermore, she is obnoxious; her voice is piercing, and her laugh can shatter glass!

What can I do? I do not want her dropping in. I would never think of dropping in on her without calling first. Must I move a thousand miles away to have some peace and privacy? — YOURS TRULY IN TULSA

DEAR TRULY: No. First, have you ever asked her to please telephone first? If you haven't, you should.

And whether she continues to drop in or not — you should always keep your door locked. It will protect not only your privacy, but it could save your life.

For Abby's favorite family recipes, send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet No. 1, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

AT WIT'S END

Hospitals have got to do away with those gowns

By Erma Bombeck

I am only going to say this once, so listen up.

When a person is sick, it is not a good time to dress him in a paper doily with armholes down to the waist. It is not the moment to ask her to produce her insurance ID number and the name and phone number of who is going to be responsible for the bill. It is definitely not in his best interest to assign him to a room that he will occupy with a perfect stranger.

Let me tell you about sick people. They are not happy. They not only feel rotten, but they are aware they do not look good. Putting them in a barf bag that doesn't begin to cover their knees or their backsides doesn't help.

Most patients have been taught modesty as a child. The first words a little girl hears are, "Keep your knees together." Little boys are forever being reminded to tuck in their shirts and zip up. Then they go to the hospital and all those rules are broken the first five minutes.

When ill people are in an emergency situation, they sometimes forget their mother's maiden name, how many grams of medicine they are taking, the address and phone number of their insurance company and the dates of past hospital visits.

It is also a bad time to put them in a sterile room with someone they have never met before and told to mingle. Roommates are usually in different stages of recovery. If you draw someone who is eating nachos and yells out the answers to "Jeopardy" questions and all you want to do is throw up, this could be a problem. There is also a correlation between how sick you are and how many visitors your roommate entertains. The worse you feel, the more traffic.

A few years ago, I noted that hospital gowns had not kept pace with the fashion industry. I received 10 or 12 of the garments in the mail guaranteed to keep our modesty intact. A little green model had six armholes; another was a combination coat/dress. And another was exactly like the short model, only the strings were in the front and instead of exposing your backside, you now exposed your front side.

I know Hillary Rodham Clinton and her committee are amassing studies of how to improve our health care. This is good. But until science (or engineers) comes up with the proper attire for being sick, we'll never get truly well.

BROWNWOOD — A Midland man drowned Sunday morning at Lake Brownwood while fishing with his son.

According to a report released by the Lake Brownwood patrol office, 34-year-old Gary Don Futrell was fishing with his seven-year-old son when his pole was pulled overboard at about 10:30 a.m. Futrell jumped into the water to retrieve the pole and drowned.

No official cause of the drowning had been determined as of Monday afternoon, the report stated.

Races continue

AUSTIN — The Texas Racing Commission has denied a request by Manor Downs to cancel its fall schedule of live horse racing.

The commission Monday also turned down a request by the horsetrack just north of Austin to begin the simulcasting of horse races from other tracks this summer.

Manor Downs had requested the cancellation of its 31 live fall racing dates because it was losing money. But the commission recommended the track attempt to develop a plan that would allow it to show live horse racing this fall along with simulcasted races.

The Racing Commission regulates the state's pari-mutuel racing, including horse and dog racing.

County approves housing resolution

■ The trust fund will be used to accomdate the growing housing needs of Midland.

By Tonie Miller-Uzzel
Staff writer

Midland county commissioners Monday approved a resolution supporting action of the Midland County Housing Finance Corporation's (MCHFC) participation in the establishment of a housing trust fund to be administered by the Permian Basin Area Foundation.

Durward Wright, former county commissioner and president of the MCHFC, asked for the commissioners' support in the measure which will reap benefits for both organizations. The MCHFC is joining forces with the City of Midland's Housing Finance Corporation in the move to the foundation.

Wright told the court that the MCHFC, which was created by the county commissioners in 1980 in response to the overwhelming need for housing created by the oil boom, had a needs assessment study conducted with results leading them to joining the foundation.

The study was done in the spring of 1992 with a strategic plan developed.

"One of the goals of the plan was to create a nonprofit housing trust fund that would raise flexible capital by using local monies to leverage federal and private funds and to offer technical assistance, grants and loans to non-profit housing organizations," Wright said in a letter to the court.

He said during the past six months both boards evaluated different trust fund concept plans as well as the feasibility and longterm benefits of each. As a result, both boards approved a plan to establish the trust fund as a part of the foundation.

"Since PBAF is an established non-profit organization which has experience in the management and administration of funds and has in place a capable staff and a mechanism for the fair and equitable distribution of funds to community organizations, it seemed the logical umbrella for the trust fund," Wright added.

Jack Swallow, executive director of the Permian Basin Area Foundation, agreed that putting the organizations together would benefit everyone involved.

"The community foundation was set up to be the

Superintendent's name graces community park

■ After working 41 years in the city parks department, Clyde Reyes is honored to have a park named for him.

By Darren J. Waggoner
Staff writer

Clyde Reyes has come a long way since dropping out of school in the third grade.

From the stately Museum of the Southwest building to the intricacies of nearly every park in town, Reyes' life's work will grace the city long after he is gone.

His name — the city council assured earlier this year — will do the same.

Reyes-Mashburn-Nelms Community Park on Fairgrounds Road was named to recognize the three predominant races in Midland, while adding significance to the term "community". The other honorees — Lucy Mashburn and Freddie Nelms — were white and black, respectively.

Reyes, 72, couldn't be happier with the designation. After working for the city parks department for 41 years before retiring as the superintendent in April 1987, he knows he has earned the honor.

"When I started, I didn't think I would get as high as I did," he said. "But I feel I worked very hard. I sure wasn't expecting this park to be named after me, but I don't mind sharing the name with someone else."

A son — one of five sons and a daughter raised by Reyes and his wife — believes the park's name is appropriate.

"As my dad has always taught me, you work with whoever you have. My dad was never prejudice and he taught that ethic to his children," said Jerry Reyes. "We didn't know they were going to add the other people to the name, but I think it's fitting."

At 14, after working on the Andrew Fasken ranch, Reyes helped workers dig a basement and build a house owned by Fred Turner — which currently is home to the Museum of the Southwest.

"One day Mr. Turner came out and asked who I was. The men told him I was helping work and that I didn't have anything else to do," Reyes said. "He told them that if I was working, they might as well put me on the payroll. They paid me $2 a day and back then that was top salary. I was very excited."

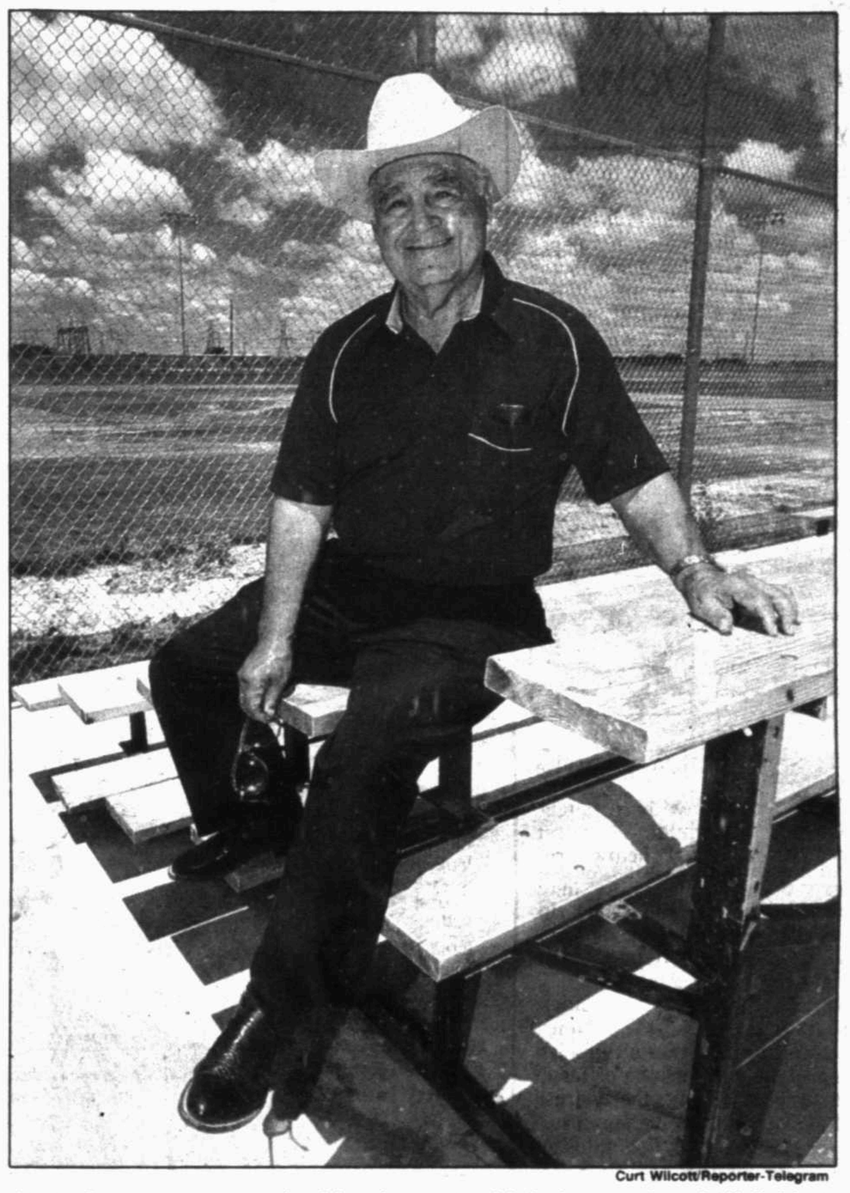

In 1946 — after working for a railroad company in Odessa — Reyes took a job as a laborer for the city parks department, where he worked for the rest of his life.

"We had about seven or eight parks at the time and there were three of us working in the department — the foreman and two of us," Reyes said. "Over time, the parks began to grow. When I left, there were 41 workers."

Eventually, Reyes was promoted to foreman and Assistant Superintendent of Parks, before his final promotion in 1984.

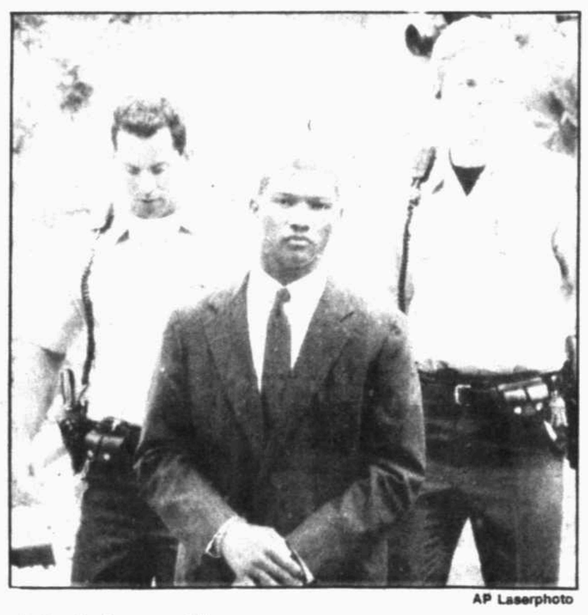

"I was a kid when they made him the assistant," his son said. "I remember thinking, 'Man, that's pretty good for a man with a third grade education.' I guess they thought that what he knows, they can't teach in school. I felt real

American takes off with Eagle tour

By Katherine Poteet
Staff writer

Area residents got a chance to tour the new American Eagle Super ATR aircraft Monday that will replace American Airlines' jets at the first of next month.

American Eagle conducted tours of the aircraft, answered questions and had an informal dinner buffet for those who were curious about the new service to Dallas-Fort Worth.

"Basically, American is in the middle of a transition plan," said Edward Martelle, of AMR Eagle Inc. corporate communciations. "They plan to ground 31 DC10s and 19 727s. And, they don't have enough new aircraft to replace those that are retiring. So, as part of the transition, American Airlines is pulling out of places where it is not making any money and building in places such as DFW."

Martelle said the American Airlines MD80, which has provided three round-trip flights to DFW each day, is rarely even half full when it takes off.

"That airplane has 142 seats in it," he said, gesturing to a MD80 getting ready to take off. "And, that one right there only has 30 people on it. That's not earning a profit."

Health books available for viewing

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

Parents interested in perusing secondary school health textbooks up for state adoption have just a few days left.

Six health books are available for public perusal at Region 18 Education Service Center (near Midland International Airport) through Friday.

Persons may look through the books and write comments which can be directed to the Texas Education Agency Division of Textbook Administration by 5 p.m. Friday.

The Texas Commissioner of Education and textbook committees will hold hearings in July for textbooks being considered for state adoption.

Jane Hellinghausen, education director of Planned Parenthood of West Texas, gave high marks to some books, and only rated one book, "Health America," as poor, "fear-based and inaccurate."

Her top choice was "Health," a Holt-Rinehart textbook, edited by Gold Greenberg.

"It is above and beyond the best of the selection. It is well-balanced, relevant to young people's lives today, addresses diversity in culture vehicle in the area that can receive a broad source of gifts . . . to serve a broad range of needs," Swallow said. "Plus, with community leaders at the helm, they have a finger on the pulse of the community and its needs and one of those needs is affordable housing."

Swallow said through the administration of the foundation, the housing trust fund can be pooled with other monies and invested, yielding more returns because more investment possibilities are available.

The housing trust fund will be accounted for separately, but because the funds are pooled for investments the administrative costs are lower allowing a larger monetary return.

He also said many foundations and charitable donors hesitate to contribute to entities that are not non-profit organizations. Swallow said the housing trust fund will have "enhanced opportunities" through the foundation's work.

"Rather than create a new organization, the housing fund can benefit from the track record of the community foundation in fundrai.. ing and fund management," Wright said. "Under the direction of an advisory board, which has strong community representation and housing expertise, funds will be wisely and efficiently used to respond to the growing housing needs in Midland."

In other county business, several issues relating to the Midland County Detention Center and its inmates resulted in action.

County Attorney Mark Dettman asked the commissioners to contract with a private attorney to represent the county in federal court on inmate lawsuits. Dettman said the litigation has steadily increased from three or four suits a month to three or four suits a week.

In addition to duties as prosecutor and adviser to the commissioners, Dettman said the continued flow of suits was more than his office could readily handle. Dettman said 85-90 percent of the suits are being filed by prisoners awaiting transfer to a Texas Department of Criminal Justice facility.

The commissioners authorized County Judge Charles "Bro" Seltzer to retain an attorney within a specific price range. No contract was made during the meeting.

Commissioners approved the installation of "telematic" equipment on the inmate telephone system which will prohibit prisoners from calling collect to a friend with conference calling capabilities. This measure is to prevent inmates from making harassing calls to victims and officials.

Seltzer also asked commissioners to consider the number of beds they want to reserve in the new regional jail facility being planned for Ector County. The facility is seeking the total number from all the counties to ensure the specifics on the site.

Juvenile detention was also on the agenda with Juvenile Judge Al Walvoord asking that the commissioners approve a request to provide additional office space at the Juvenile Probation office located at the Culver Youth Center. Currently, the newest probation officer's office is situated in the same part of the facility as the youth's housing.

Walvoord said this office location prevents familial visits for some of the detained youths. The commissioners agreed to take the matter under advisement.

proud."

Likewise, Reyes attributes his own work ethic to his father.

"He told me that to be a good worker, you've got to give more than the person beside you. I listened to that, that's why I got where I did. It sure wasn't easy," Reyes said.

And after planning to work until about age 70, Reyes decided it would benefit him financially to retire at age 66.

"I am one of the few people who retired happy," he said. "The city has been good to me. I was able to raise six children working for the city. I owe Mr. Logan (George, Community Services Director) a lot."

Today, Reyes relaxes by visiting his family — including 20 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. All of his descendants, except for one granddaughter, live in Midland.

strong on emphasizing family health," she said. "It tells young people: 'your health is under your control,' and discusses everything from making choices about foods they eat to their behavior."

Ms. Hellinghausen applauded the book for it's complete HIV section, encouraging responsible decisions, frequent discussions of abstinence, and being overall "student friendly."

"The book is attractive, appealing, has great teacher resources and addresses everything from coping with crushes or breakups to understanding how poverty — peer pressure and having material goods — can effect self-esteem," she said.

Ms. Hellinghausen said she preferred the textbooks that addressed mental and emotional, as well as physical health.

She said she rated books on the extent that they addressed cultural issues, age appropriate issues, family health, issues relevant to youth, emotional health, making life choices, family issues such as being raised by single parents or in blended families, and teacher resources.

"For example, 'Making Life Choices: Health Skills and Concepts' (by Sizer, Whitney and DeBruyne) sends teachers a newsletter twice a year on health issues," Ms. Hellinghausen said.

The textbook addressed cultural issues, including nutrition. "Everyone eats and drinks differently, according to their culture," the Planned Parenthood director said.

She noted the book has a "strong section on abstinence," and addresses everything from living with cancer to date rape, to giving self breast and testicular exams.

"Very seldom do we look at men's health issues, that is a plus," Ms. Hellinghausen said, rating "Making Life's Choices" a second choice to Holt-Rinehart's "Health."

"It just is not as strong on family health as I would like it to be," she said, rating three other books — "Perspectives on Health" by Getchell-Pippin-Varnes, "Health: A Guide to Wellness" by Glencoe, and Prentice Hall's "Health Skills for Wellness" — as fairly good.

She nixed "Health America" for not being attractive to youth, since it was the only book devoid of color photos and graphics, rather being illustrated with ink sketches. "It's also a negative book," she noted. One example of the tone of the book, showed a woman choking in one sketch, one crying in another, and a demon thrashing a bottle of "demon rum" with a whip.

"There is too much guilt, death, and depression in this book, and it doesn't give enough information on issues," she said, noting various ways of AIDS being transmitted were omitted, including prenatal transmission.

"There is nothing in this book about the family, values, dating, or making choices," she said.

Instead, she pointed out pages that focus on illnesses and ailments and mental illnesses, stereotyped descriptions of women, and a lack of diverse cultures being addressed.

Parents may look at the books, decide which they would prefer to have in Texas classrooms, and send in their comments for consideration.

The books are available for examination during office hours through Friday at Region 18, 2811 La Force Blvd.

Persons unavailable for comment Monday included Ron Hunt, coordinator of health for Midland Independent School District; and Cathy Harris, regional health specialist with Region 18, and a developer of the Texas Education Agency's ERS (Education for Self Responsiblity) III: Prevention of HIV/AIDS and Other Communicable Diseases.

Area residents file federal lawsuits

By Tonie Miller-Uzzel
Staff writer

Several federal lawsuits have been filed including one by an Odessa man has who is seeking declatory relief from the Internal Revenue Service claiming that he has a lien on property owned by a company which the IRS has filed federal tax liens against.

H.E. Davis claims he has purchased property from Vernon Williams Jr. of Odessa in which Texas Flange, Inc. acted as the guarantor of Williams' obligations.

Davis indicated that the IRS is planning to foreclose on the Texas Flange property in which he has liens on and he is concerned that the IRS may seek to sell property to third parties without notifying them of his liens.

He is requesting that the court provide declatory relief that he has valid and prior liens so no third party purchase will be made on a "bona-fide basis."

Another lawsuit was filed by an Odessa woman against a nursing home requesting that benefits be liquidated and awarded to her.

Norma Vuelvas has filed suit against Texas Health Enterprises, the company which owns New Horizons Nursing Center. The lawsuit was originally filed in Ector County District Court, but was transferred to the federal courts Friday.

Ms. Vuelvas said she was employed with the nursing home when she injured her back on the job. She claims she is entitled to worker's compensation, but was denied it.

She alleges that the nursing home was negligent because it failed to provide a safe workplace, failed to adequately help or supervise her and failed to properly train her.

She is asking for damages for the loss of employment and medical expenses.

Police car collision

A Midland teen-ager was issued three citations after his vehicle collided with a police car early Sunday, officers said.

According to a police report, at about 4:36 a.m. Sunday, a Midland police vehicle was parked at the 100 block of S. Mineola. The officer was out of his vehicle when a northbound vehicle struck the patrol unit. Police said the suspect fled the scene and lost control of his vehicle in the 400 block of East Industrial. The vehicle came to rest and the driver fled the scene on foot.

The officer detained the three other occupants of the vehicle, releasing two and arrested one for outstanding Municipal Court warrants.

The driver, 17-year-old Gilbert Salgado Jr., turned himself into police at approximately 7:05 a.m. Sunday. He was issued three citations for having no driver's license, failure to control speed and move to right without safety, police said.

Odessa shooting

ODESSA — An Odessa man was in jail Monday after being accused of shooting a woman during an argument Sunday.

According to an Odessa police report, 47-year-old Doris Turner of Odessa reported to police that someone had shot her with a handgun in the left shoulder during an argument at 1 a.m. Sunday at Parkway Arms Apartments, 1465 Parkway.

Police arrested Frankie Howell Millican, 50, and charged him with attempted murder. Bond was set at $7,500.

Police identify body

ODESSA — Odessa police have identified the body found in a motel Friday and are searching for two suspects in the case, officers said.

According to a police report, the body was identified as Robert Rhea Haws, 44, of Reno, Okla. Haws' body was found at approximately 4:30 p.m. Friday at the Travel Inn Motel, 1831 East 2nd, Room 116, after having been severely beaten in the face and head. Actual cause of death is still being investigated, pending autopsy results.

Police issued arrest warrants for Richard Wayne Smith and Dianna Rita Morin in the case. Smith is described as 25 years of age, 5'8", 140 pounds, brown hair and brown eyes. Ms. Morin is described as 30 years of age, 5'3", 160 pounds, brown hair and brown eyes.

At the time of the report, it was not known if the suspects were still in Odessa or have left town, police said. Haws' white flat bed Ford company truck bearing Oklahoma license plates 725554T was missing and police believe the suspects took the vehicle.

Anyone having any information concerning the two suspects or the investigation should contact the Odessa Police Department at 333-3641 or Crime Stoppers at 333-TIPS.

EAGLE: American soars with aircraft tour

(From 1B)

The new Super ATR has 64 seats and will serve five round-trip flights to DFW each day. Coupled with American Eagle's already established service of three round trips each day with its 34-seat SAAB 340B, residents will have eight round-trip flights to choose from after July 1, instead of the current six.

"The benefits of this transition is that round-trip flights have been increased," Martelle said. "Survey after survey has proved that once a person is comfortable with a price, the next thing they want to know is convenience. How many flights can he choose from to a certain destination? With eight flights, that eliminates the question of convenience."

Martelle said the purpose of Monday's tour was to dispell preconceived notions about smaller aircrafts.

"When people hear that jets are going, they automatically think smaller aircraft," he said. "They think of those small, six- to eight-seat planes. But, that's not what we have. We have a 64-seat and a 34-seat aircraft that has all the technology and comfort of a jet. The pilots and flight attendants are trained just like the pilots and flight attendants on the jets. The seats are even the same size. Just because its small doesn't mean it's cramped or old or has old technology."

The Super ATR will begin service for American Airlines intially in Midland, Wichita Falls and Little Rock, Ark.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: If you want to make the greatest financial advances possible now, you must resign yourself to not always being the captain of your own ship. Friends and relatives will strongly influence your business prospects as 1993 draws to a close. Seek the advice of those who are more experienced than yourself and hone your organizational skills. Say "no" to temptation early in 1994. Fidelity is essential if a promising romance is to last.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Jim Belushi, slugger Wade Boggs, Gov. Mario Cuomo, actress Helen Hunt.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Once you begin to move in a new direction, others will take notice. Behind-the-scenes activities affect your goals in a positive way. With persistence, you will emerge on top!

Each year London's Portland Club, a bastion of conservatism, holds an invitational tournament where experts are invited to play with club members. No conventions at all are allowed, not even Blackwood or Stayman! However, common sense bidding sometimes has a lot going for it, as this hand from the event demonstrates.

Sitting South was global bridge gypsy Martin Hoffman. He and his partner reached six spades on a Moysian fit (4-3 in a major suit), a contract slightly superior to six no trump.

A spade lead would have presented South with a difficult problem, although declarer can always get home by guessing how to play the clubs for four tricks. After any other lead, however, 12 tricks are there on a crossruff—if you are careful!

When embarking on a crossruff, you must take care to cash your side winners before embarking on your main line, lest the defenders get the chance to shorten themselves in key suits. However, you must be sure not to cash more tricks in the side suits than you need.

Declarer won the opening diamond lead in hand and, since seven tricks could be scored in trumps with the help of a crossruff, needed only four more side-suit winners. After cashing two clubs, one heart and only one more diamond, declarer ruffed three hearts in hand and three clubs in dummy to amass 12 tricks, thanks to a fortunate lie of the ten of trumps. Note that, had declarer tried to cash a third diamond, East could have ruffed and returned a trump to sink the slam.

Prince perplexes prophets pondering name change

MINNEAPOLIS — What's in a name? A lot of publicity for the former Prince, whose decision to change his name to an unpronounceable symbol is keeping everyone guessing about what the pop star will call himself.

Prince

That Sign Guy, HeShe, Purple prima donna and Andy — short for Androgynous — are among suggestions made by more than 400 people who have called the Star Tribune newspaper, which invited readers to name that Prince.

The rock singer announced last week that he wants to be referred to with the symbol that combines the signs for male and female. It's also the title of his latest album. But there's no spoken word for the symbol and the former Prince, born Prince Rogers Nelson, gave no clue how to pronounce it.

The newspaper reported Monday that a few callers said they'd go along with whatever Paisley Park, the Minneapolis-born pop-star's record studio, decided.

But most callers were cynical.

"Prince's new moniker can be traced back to old Persian script. Roughly translated it means gimmick," said Tom Shaughnessy of Minnetonka.

JERUSALEM — The times they are a changin' for Bob Dylan. The rock legend apparently had to wait in line upon arrival in Israel on Monday, just like any other tourist.

Dylan's passport was handed to the head passport officer at Ben Gurion Airport. Airport officials said the officer refused to process it and told the singer to wait in line like everybody else.

"There's no favoritism with us. He should stand in line like everyone else," the officer was quoted as saying.

The publicity-shy Dylan, who was met on the tarmac with a special car that brought him to the terminal, took his place in line, the officials said.

Dylan could not be reached for comment and his publicity agent in Israel said she knew nothing of the incident.

The singer, scheduled to perform three concerts during the trip, was last in Israel in 1987, when he gave two concerts that critics called disappointing.

BELLA VISTA, Ark. — Actor Fess Parker was back in the great outdoors, without a coonskin cap this time.

The actor who played Davy Crockett in a movie and television series played a round of golf for charity and looked back on his career.

Parker was among the celebrities playing Saturday in the Phillips Charity Classic to benefit cancer research and treatment.

The large frame and soft, distinctive voice was familiar to viewers of the "Davy Crockett" movie and series in the mid-1950s, which spawned a frontier fad of Davy Crockett coats, books, lunch boxes, and, of course, coonskin caps.

Parker also starred in the 1957 drama "Old Yeller." In the 1960s, his frontiersman image made him a natural for the starring role in the "Daniel Boone" TV series.

"It's kinda nice to have one genre to hang your hat on, even if it was a coonskin hat," Parker said.

Even after his show-business career ended, Parker said, the exposure was a boon. Parker says he has prospered in the California real estate business since "Daniel Boone" ended in 1970.

NEW YORK — Novelist Harold Brodkey, whose fiction has appeared in The New Yorker since 1954, says he is dying of AIDS.

"Pray for me," Brodkey writes in the June 21 issue of the magazine.

Brodkey

Brodkey, 62, who is married to novelist Ellen Schwamm, says he apparently contracted the virus through homosexual sex in the 1960s or 1970s. He recently learned he had the disease when he came down with AIDS-related pneumonia.

"Strangely," he writes, the news made him feel "as if I had been invited, almost abducted, to a party, a somber feast but not entirely grim, a feast of the seriously afflicted who yet were at war with social indifference and prejudice and hatred.

BROOKLYN, NY — The invitation carried the first hint that the party Tuesday night for Harvey Lichtenstein, president and executive director of the Brooklyn Academy of Music, would be no staid affair. On its cover, encapsulating the history of mankind, were these designations: "Stone Age," "Machine Age," "Atomic Age" and "The Harvey Years."

Some 380 friends and colleagues will get together at the academy to celebrate "the Harvey yeafs" — the era that began 25 years ago when he took over and transformed the academy from a declining cultural center to a highly successful showcase for experimental performances of all sorts.

Judge denies former skinhead bail reduction

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A state district judge on Monday denied bail reduction to former skinhead Christopher William Brosky, jailed pending a second trial for his role in the racially-motivated slaying of an Arlington man.

Judge Bill Burdock rejected a defense motion to reduce the $100,000 bail set for Brosky, who was convicted in the fatal drive-by shooting of Donald Thomas in June 1991.

The judge said he turned down the request "because of the nature of the offense" and because Brosky is not a U.S. citizen.

Brosky, a Canadian, was in the back seat of the car when the gunman, William George Roberts III, shot Thomas, who was black. Roberts is serving a 40-year prison term. Brosky was given a probationary sentence but protests by community leaders led prosecutors to seek a second trial on conspiracy charges.

In a hearing last week, Brosky told Judge Burdock that other prisoners have threatened to kill him. Brosky is being held in a suicide-prevention cell so that jail guards don't have to move other inmates around when removing him from his cell.

Police arrest baby sitter for leaving infant in car

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 33-year-old baby sitter has been jailed for leaving a child in a locked, hot car while she waited in line to buy tickets to a Garth Brooks concert.

Police forced open a window to retrieve the 2-month-old child after a shopper stopped an officer about 10 a.m. Saturday to report that a small baby had been left alone in a car outside a store.

According to a police report, the baby was in a child seat "sweating profusely" and showing little movement. After being placed inside an air-conditioned patrol car and given a bottle, the child's condition seemed to improve, police said.

The baby sitter arrived and appeared "very upset" about not getting concert tickets after more than a five-hour wait, but showing "very little concern" about the child, police said.

The woman was arrested on suspicion of endangering a child, police said.

Police drove to the mother's place of employment and delivered the child to her.

Police said drug paraphernalia and substances believed to be illegal drugs were found in the baby sitter's purse.

Texas leaders lobby for sparing installations

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Civic and community leaders from across Texas will be in Washington Wednesday for a hearing on the proposed closures of military installations across the United States.

Members of the Texas congressional delegation will testify before the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission. Each will have five minutes to state their case concerning recommendations.

Among the bases facing a possible ax are the San Antonio Air Logistics Center at Kelly Air Force Base, Naval Station Ingleside and the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

Kay Bailey Hutchison, the state's newly elected senator, will join fellow Republican Sen. Phil Gramm at the hearing.

Civic and community leaders from the areas of the installations will be on hand to give moral support.

"Senator Gramm and (former) Senator (Bob) Krueger came down here and supported us at the hearings at Kelly and in Corpus Christi. I think it's important that we are there in Washington for moral support," San Antonio Mayor Nelson Wolff told the San Antonio Express-News.

Auto accident in police chase kills 5-year-old

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities said Monday a school district police officer was not at fault when he pursued a car that subsequently crashed into another vehicle, killing a 5-year-old boy and injuring his mother.

The crash occurred Saturday when a stolen car struck the victims' car in an intersection. Andre Martel Turner, 5, was killed, while his mother, Alice Turner-Perkins, was treated and released from a local hospital.

Aldine Independent School District assistant superintendent Roy Smith said a district police officer on regular patrol started following the stolen car after he spotted it weaving in traffic. At the time, he did not know it was stolen.

When the two youths inside the car saw the officer, they pulled in front of the police car and clipped it while fleeing.

The officer turned on his siren lights and followed the car to get its license plate number. He slowed after getting the number, Smith said.

"The other vehicle continued to accelerate," Smith said. "It went through a red light, striking another vehicle broadside."

The teens, one of whom appeared to have been injured in the wreck, fled into a wooded area. They had not been captured by Monday, said Harris County sheriff's deputy Steve Conroy.

Conroy said the department was not looking into whether the school district officer was at fault for chasing the youths.

"From our perspective, this incident was caused by the criminals," Conroy said.

In addition, Smith said the district conducted its own investigation and found "that none of our policies have been violated."

Texas signs 'em

ARLINGTON — The Texas Rangers announced Monday they've signed 31 of their 59 draft picks from this month's amateur free agent draft.

Only four signees are straight from high school, including top pick Michael Bell of Cincinnati Moeller, which has produced many major league stars.

The Rangers signed several in-state players, including University of Houston outfielder Brian Clark and Texas A&M outfielder Brian Thomas.

Other local products drafted by the Rangers were right-handed pitcher Frank Chapman of San Antonio MacArthur, Michael J. Jackson of Texarkana Texas High, right-hander Brian Tickell of Grand Prairie and Tulane right-hander Ivan Zweig of Dallas. Of those, only Jackson has signed.

Canseco retires

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Louisville outfielder Ozzie Canseco — twin brother of Texas Rangers slugger Jose Canseco — has left the team, Redbirds officials confirmed Monday.

Ozzie Canseco cited displeasure with the St. Louis Cardinals organization — parent team of the Class AAA Redbirds, in announcing his retirement before Louisville's American Association game Saturday night against the Bisons in Buffalo, N.Y.

"This is a game full of surprises," interim manager Mark Riggins said. "Everyone reacts differently. Maybe he thought he belonged up there" in the major leagues.

Ozzie Canseco, 28, who had just one hit and four strikeouts in eight at-bats in the first two games of the Buffalo series, was placed on the voluntary retired list.

Van Slyke out

ST. LOUIS — Andy Van Slyke, the star center fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, broke his right collarbone Monday night when he slammed into the wall and will be sidelined at least eight weeks.

"Andy plays in pain," Pirates trainer Kent Biggerstaff said. "But he was sore in a couple of places and you have to take what he says seriously."

Van Slyke, hitting .322, leads the Pirates with six home runs and 39 RBIs.

"We can't lose him," pitcher Denny Neagle said. "That's the worst thing that can happen."

Van Slyke was trying to track down a two-run homer by Erik Pappas of the St. Louis Cardinals in the fourth inning. The ball glanced off his glove into a row of bushes just beyond the wall. Van Slyke was down on the warning track several minutes, then walked off the field favoring his right side.

A record draft

NEW YORK — Baseball's 1993 amatuer draft resulted in a record 1,720 players being selected, 45 percent from high school, 35 percent from colleges, 19 percent from junior collges and 11 from other categories.

The draft was held June 3-5.

Three ways to win Open

By Bob Green
AP Golf Writer

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. — Tom Kite believes in playing his way in. Jack Nicklaus advocates practice, practice, practice. And Paul Azinger is hoping to make the best out of a bad situation.

Three different golfers and three different approaches to the U.S. Open.

"The best way to prepare for any tournament is to win the tournament the week before," said Kite, the defending Open champion. Kite didn't win last last weekend's Buick Classic — he finished ninth — but he came away feeling better about his chances in the Open, which starts Thursday at Baltusrol.

First, it put to rest any doubts about the state of his back. And it represented a strong performance over a difficult course — deep rough, firm fast greens and narrow fairways — similar to the conditions likely to be in effect at Baltusrol.

The combination sends him into the U.S. Open as something more than a sentimental choice to repeat.

Nicklaus believes in the practice-your-way-in method.

That's the route he's taken before most of his 18 victories as a pro in the majors. That list includes the U.S. Open in 1967 and 1980, the last two times it was played at Baltusrol.

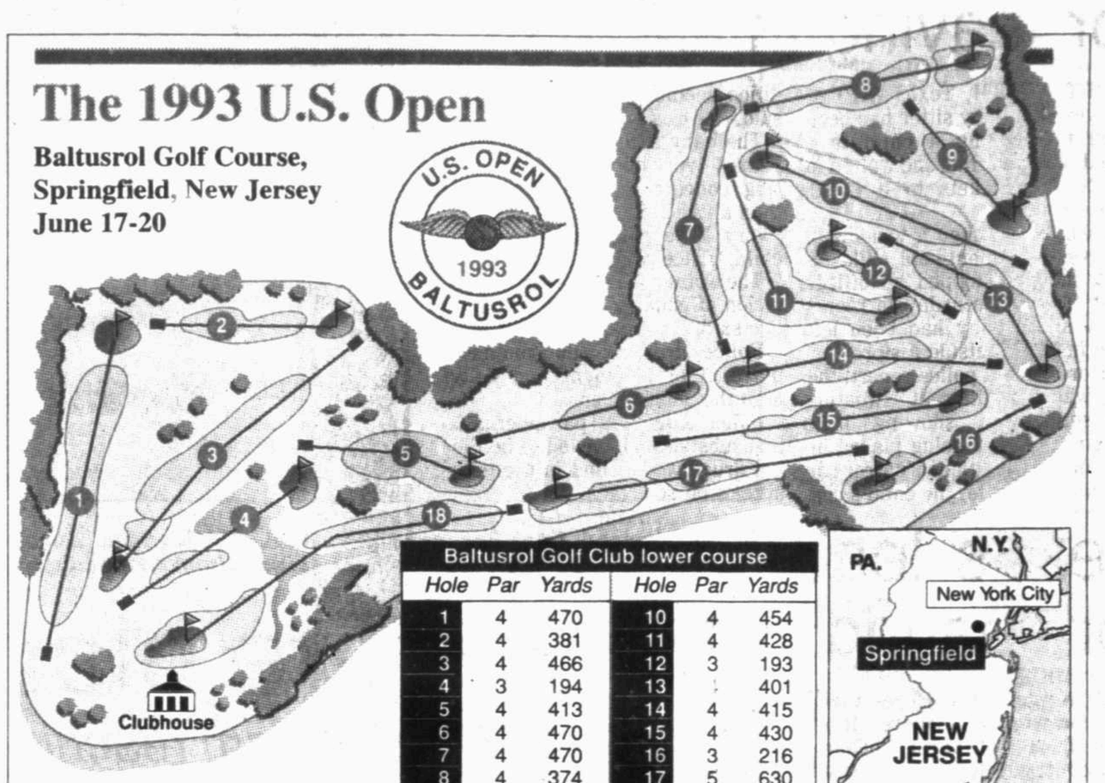

The 53-year-old Nicklaus will be back to try for a third and, as recently as two weeks ago, said "I think I still have another one left in me."

The fact that he hasn't won on the regular tour since 1986 indicates he is mostly a sentimental choice.

A third method of preparing for the Open is more casual and relaxed, but not necessarily intentional.

That's the way Azinger is going. A kind of dodge 'em approach, although it's not the way he planned to get ready. The method was forced on him by circumstance.

Suns just down, not out

By Bill Barnard
AP Basketball Writer

CHICAGO — Charles Barkley would like nothing more than to start taking ticket orders again.

But before his phone starts ringing and distant cousins emerge from who knows where — all wanting good seats in Phoenix — the Suns have some work to do.

And after Sunday night's triple overtime dramatics, who's to say the Suns can't do it?

They lost the the first two games of the NBA Finals at home, where they were expected to win. Then they won at Chicago Stadium, where they were expected to lose. These Suns are one tough team to figure.

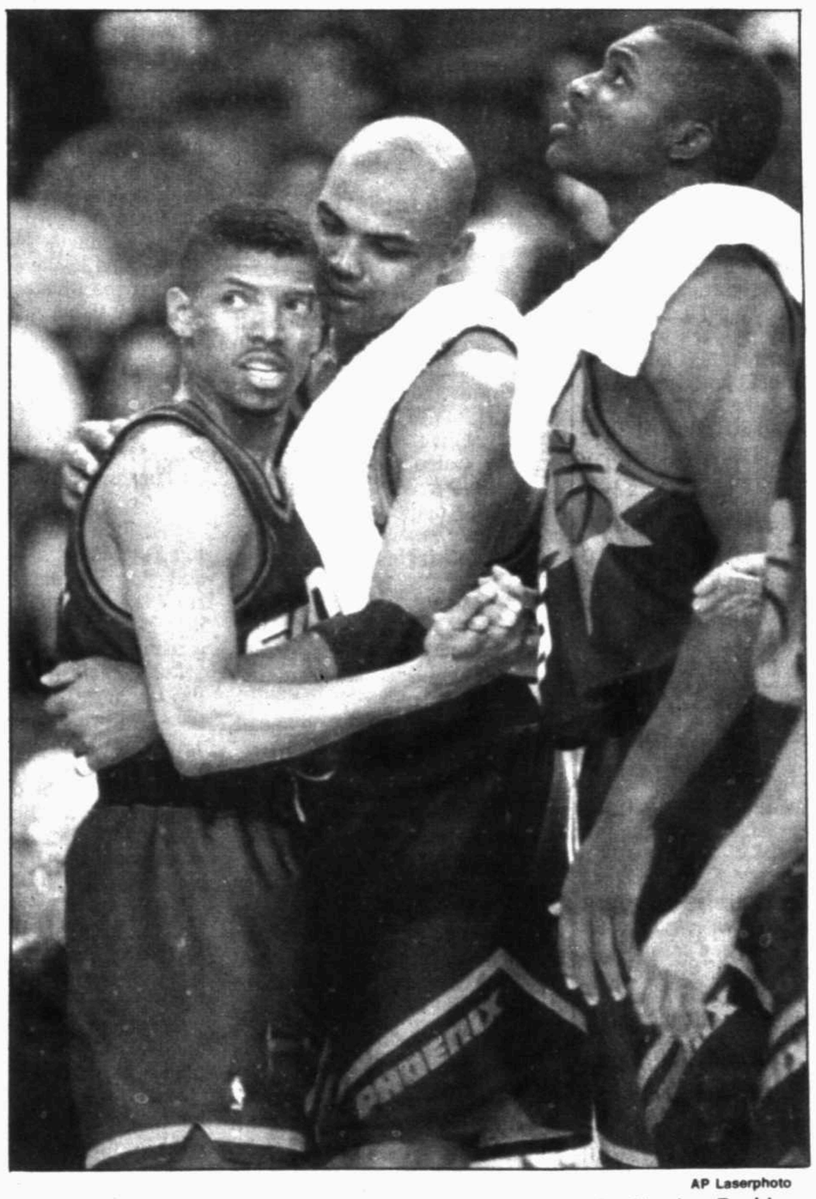

"We never lost our confidence, even when we were down 2-0," said Barkley, his injured right elbow still wrapped tight Monday. "Now if we can win one of these two games left in Chicago, we'll go back to Phoenix. All my family and friends will be free-loading tickets from me again."

The Suns, coming off a 129-121 triple-overtime victory, now look toward Game 4 against the Bulls on Wednesday night in Chicago. What's in store? The Suns would be the last to know.

"I wish we weren't so hard on ourselves," guard Danny Ainge said Monday. "We play a great game, then a horrible game or two great games and two horrible games. I hope another good one comes up Wednesday."

The Suns left Phoenix on Saturday with a newspaper headline saying their 2-0 deficit was "Impossibull" to overcome. They were greeted in Chicago with one columnist saying it was more likely snow would fall in Phoenix than the two teams would return there for a

Long wait big strain on Ryan

ANAHEIM Calif. (AP) — Nolan Ryan's days waiting to pitch again are growing longer as the season gets shorter.

"I'd hate to know that I've pitched my last ballgame," he said Monday. "I continue to work and try to get ready, even if I get one start the rest of the year and it's the last day of the season. If that's what it comes down to, then that's what I'm going to do."

Ryan, 46, has been on the disabled list since May 8 with a strained and torn cartilage in his right knee that required surgery in April. He also is slowed by a deep cut on his left foot suffered when he stepped on a water ski blade on Memorial Day.

Baseball's all-time strikeout leader has announced his retirement at the end of the season.

Although he feels capable of giving the Texas Rangers anywhere from 15 to 18 more starts, there is no telling when he will be able to pitch again. The team has said it hopes he can return in July.

"I've never had a hip problem or a knee problem before," he said, "so these are certainly new injuries that I'm dealing with. And I don't really know how to anticipate how I'm going to react to them, as far as the recovery time goes.

"I'm so far removed right now from game competition that it's hard for me to even try to get focused on that because, from a physical standpoint, I'm not even close to that."

Ryan, a 320-game winner and author of seven no-hitters, announced early in spring training that this season would be his last year. Unlike Lawrence Taylor of the football Giants, he will not come back.

"It's been a miserable year," Ryan said. "I look back on it as being the worst year of my career. With the spring training I had, I was hoping it might be one more enjoyable season.

Angels fall from first half race, 5-0

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

Midland entered Monday's game with El Paso with a glimmer of hope in its attempt to win the the first half Texas League West Division title over the Diablos.

The scenerio was simple — have the Angels sweep the Diablos and receive some help from Wichita by defeating San Antonio and the Angels would have its first half-season crown since 1991.

The glimmer faded to black, however, behind a masterful pitching performance by Diablos' southpaw Scott Karl. Karl limited the Angels to four hits, only one extra base hit, in shutting down the previously hot Midland 5-0 at Angels Stadium and eliminating them from the Texas League first half race.

Karl worked quickly and effectively, throwing just 83 pitches over nine innings with no walks and one extra base hit — a P.J. Forbes double in the fourth. For Karl it was his second complete game of the season, throwing a shutout against Tulsa on May 17 in a 10-0 Diablos' route.

First baseman Ed Smith recorded 17 putouts on the night as the Diablos' outfield accounted for only two outs in the game.

"That's the type of pitcher I am. I keep it on the ground and let the defense take over," said Karl, who improved to 5-4 on the year.

Karl's only trouble of the night was in the fourth.

Trailing 2-0, Midland's Orlando Palmeiro ran out an infield hit for a single. One out later, Jorge Fabregas reached first on a sacrifice, but Palmeiro over slid the bag at second and was caught in rundown between second and third for the second out. With two outs, Forbes stroked a double down the left field line, which would have scored Palmeiro. Instead runners were left on second and third. Chris Pritchett, who came into the game ranked fourth in the league in batting with a .330 average, struck out.

Angels' manager Don Long had to play the game short staffed. Midland has lost two position players in the past week, with outfielder Dan Rumsey being sent down to Cedar Rapids. That, coupled with outfielder Jeff Kipila out due to a twisted knee suffered Sunday against the Diablos, left only player-/coach Mark Wasinger, batting .188 with two RBIs, available for Long to play.

Angels' starter Chance Gledhill (3-7) recorded his fifth straight loss despite a strong performance, allowing four runs on nine hits while striking out five.

El Paso broke open a close game in the eighth with three runs, two off Gledhill and one off releiver Ken Edenfield.

Third baseman Al Lewis walked with one out in the inning, Steve Gill then singled, forcing Gledhill out of the game. Edenfield hit Smith to load the bases. Duane Singleton hit a two-run double, scoring Lewis and Gill, to stretch the lead to 4-0.

Smith and Singleton attempted a double steal. Smith scored, but Singleton was called out at third. Bob Kappesser singled but was thrown out by Fabregas at second.

Fabregas threw three Diablos out on the evening.

Midland will continue its series with El Paso tonight at 7 p.m. with David Holdridge (2-6, 6.61) starting for Midland and Glenn Carter (3-4, 5.20) on the mound for El Paso.

ANGEL NOTES: Midland is likely to add an outfielder to the roster within the week although no official word has been received, according to the Angels' front office. Look for Palm Springs outfielder Mark Sweeney, the Cal League Player of the Week, June 3-8, to be a likely candidate. He was on a 13-game hitting streak entering the month of June and was batting .354 with three home runs and 36 RBIs through June 8. Due to a shortage of players, Long was foced to start Mark Brakebill as the

Tuesday's game will have five of the top eight hitters in the Texas League w.th El Paso's Jeff Cirillo (third-.341) and Rob Luckachyk (sixth-.329) along with Angels' Chris Pritchett (fourth-.330), P.J. Agassi gets seeded break

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Andre Agassi on Monday became the lowest seeded men's defending champion in Wimbledon history — and got a break to be seeded as high as he was.

■ Wimbledon Seeds/3C

Wimbledon officials installed the injury-plagued Agassi as the No. 8 seed, five places above his current world ranking, in recognition of his status as reigning title holder. The seeding means Agassi won't face a top eight player before the quarterfinals.

"It was a difficult decision bearing in mind he has not played much in the last couple of months because of injury," Wimbledon referee Alan Mills said. "But he is the defending champion and he proved he can play on grass."

Since seedings were introduced at Wimbledon in 1927, no men's champion who has returned to defend his title had been seeded lower than No. 6. The previous lowest-seeded defending champion was Jan Kodes, who was No. 6 the year after he won the boycott-hit tournament of 1973.

The seeding committee also used its own discretion in making Stefan Edberg the No. 2 seed behind Pete Sampras, while Jim Courier was bumped to No. 3.

Among the women, Martina Navratilova's wish to avoid top-seeded Steffi Graf until the final was granted when she was elevated to No. 2, above higher-ranked Arantxa Sanchez Vicario.

Agassi has dropped steadily in the rankings since surprising the tennis world last year by winning Wimbledon from the baseline. He has not played competitively since April 9 due to tendinitis in his right wrist.

Agassi missed the French Open and was considered questionable for Wimbledon, but he arrived Monday in Germany for a grass-court warmup event in Halle. Agassi, who is scheduled to play Tuesday against Carl Uwe Steeb, practiced for less than an hour and was unavailable for interviews.

Courier, who has won four Grand Slam titles and is ranked No. 2, has had little success on grass. That's why he was seeded behind Edberg, a two-time Wimbledon champion ranked No. 3.

Three-time champion Boris Becker was seeded No. 4, last year's runner-up Goran Ivanisevic was No. 5, 1991 champion Michael Stich was No. 6 and Ivan Lendl was No. 7.

Rounding out the rest of the men's seeds were Richard Krajicek (9), Andrei Medvedev (10), Petra Korda (11), Michael Chang (12), Wayne Ferreira (13), Mali-Vai Washington (14), Karel Novacek (15) and Thomas Muster (16). Grass-court specialists Krajicek, Ferreira and Washington were all seeded three places above their world rankings.

MONTREAL — Terry Mulholland improved to 9-1 lifetime against Montreal as the Philadelphia Phillies extended their winning streak to six games Monday night with a 10-3 victory over the Expos.

The Expos have lost seven of nine, and dropped 12½ games behind first-place Philadelphia in the NL East.

Mulholland (8-5) allowed eight hits, struck out four and walked three in 8⅓ innings.

Montreal starter Jeff Shaw (1-3) lasted only 4⅓ innings, allowing five runs and six hits.

Jim Eisenreich's grand slam, John Kruk's solo homer and Pete Incaviglia's two-run single led the Phillies' attack. Incaviglia has 14 RBIs in his last 11 games.

The Phillies took a 2-0 lead in the first when Lenny Dykstra walked, Mariano Duncan doubled and Incaviglia drove in both with a single.

Philadelphia, now 45-17 and on its longest winning streak of the season, made it 3-0 in the second when Mickey Morandini and Dykstra doubled.

The Expos scored in the fourth after Marquis Grissom beat out an infield hit to extend his hitting streak to 13 games. Larry Walker followed with a single, sending Grissom to third, and after Frank Bolick walked to load the bases, Moises Alou hit into a fielder's choice grounder.

The Phillies added two runs in the fifth when Kruk hit his sixth homer and Morandini walked with the bases loaded.

The Phillies scored five runs in the ninth when Mel Rojas walked Milt Thompson with the bases loaded and then gave up a grand slam to Eisenreich, his second homer of the season and second career grand slam, on a 3-2 pitch.

Montreal reliever Chris Nabholz started the ninth by walking Duncan and Kruk and then hit Darren Daulton with a pitch. Rojas relieved and walked Thompson.

The Expos added a run in the eighth on a sacrifice fly by Grissom and one in the ninth on a homer by Alou, his fifth.

Cubs 6, Marlins 3

CHICAGO — Jose Guzman drove in his first major-league run and allowed three runs over six innings before leaving with a stiff lower back as Chicago beat Florida, ending the Marlins' four-game winning streak.

Guzman (6-5) gave up seven hits, walked four and struck out one. He is 5-1 with a 3.83 ERA at Wrigley Field and 1-4 with a 5.02 ERA on the road. Randy Myers, the fourth Chicago pitcher, worked the ninth for his 19th save.

Dwight Smith had three hits and Rey Sanchez tripled and scored two runs for Chicago, which snapped a three-game losing streak.

The loss was just the second in 10 games for Florida.

Jack Armstrong (4-7) went five innings and gave up five runs, four earned, on eight hits in losing his third straight start.

The Marlins scored in the first when Chuck Carr doubled and Jeff Conine singled. Chicago came up with two in the bottom of the inning. Smith and Jose Vizcaino singled and Smith scored on right-fielder Junior Felix's throwing error. Vizcaino then scored on a double by Derrick May.

The Cubs made it 3-1 in the second when Sanchez tripled and scored on a single by Guzman.

Mets 7, Braves 4

ATLANTA — New York rookie Doug Saunders had his second two-hit day in as many major-league games and Bobby Bonilla drove in two runs as the Mets ended a six-game losing streak.

Saunders, who scored three runs, is 4 for 9 in two appearances with the Mets since being called up from Class AAA Norfolk of the International League on June 13.

Bonilla, who has 23 RBIs in his last 29 games, drove in Saunders in the first with a single and knocked him in again with a double in the fifth. Bonilla also robbed Dave Justice of a possible extra-base hit with a running catch in the fifth.

Frank Tanana (4-5) limited the Braves to one run and nine hits in seven innings. He also had a hit and scored the first run of his 20-year major-league career as he played in the American League until this year. Tanana struck out eight and walked two in posting his 237th career victory, and tying Waite Hoyt for 48th all-time in the major leagues.

Braves starter Pete Smith (2-6) was pounded for eight hits and four runs in 4⅓ innings and he failed to win for the eighth consecutive start. Smith, who was 7-0 last season, has lost four consecutive decisions and hasn't won since April 24.

■ NL Roundup

Cardinals 8, Pirates 3

ST. LOUIS — Erik Pappas and Gregg Jefferies hit two-run homers and St. Louis rallied from a two-run deficit to beat slumping Pittsburgh.

The Cardinals have won four of their last five, while the Pirates have lost five straight and eight of nine. Pittsburgh, which was just swept in four games by expansion Florida, also has lost its last seven road games.

The Cardinals also snapped an eight-game losing streak at home against the Pirates. They are 3-1 against Pittsburgh after going 3-15 last season.

The Pirates lost centerfielder Andy Van Slyke, who injured his right shoulder when he slammed into the wall trying to track down Pappas' first major-league home run in the fourth.

Dodgers 9, Rockies 4

DENVER — Jody Reed had four hits, including a two-run homer, and Tim Wallach drove in three runs as Los Angeles ended Colorado's modest three-game winning streak.

Los Angeles, beating Colorado for the fourth time in as many tries, got to starter Willie Blair (2-4) for six runs over the first five innings.

Reed led off the third with a single. Brett Butler hit a run-scoring double and, after Darryl Strawberry walked, Wallach followed with a two-run double.

Reed, who was a member of the Rockies for about six hours during last November's expansion draft before being traded to the Dodgers for pitcher Rudy Seanez, hit his two-run homer in the fourth. Cory Snyder drove in another run in the fifth with a double.

Vinny Castilla had a two-run homer for the Rockies in the second. Andres Galarraga, hitting .425 for the season, had four hits.

Fielder goes rooftop again

Associated Press

■ AL Roundup

DETROIT — Cecil Fielder's rooftop shot was one of three Detroit homers and David Wells won for the eighth time in nine decisions as the Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-3 Monday night.

Travis Fryman and Kirk Gibson also homered for Detroit. Glenallen Hill homered for Cleveland.

Wells (8-1), who is 5-1 lifetime against the Indians, gave up three runs on nine hits in six innings, striking out five and walking one. Wells has completed six innings in 10 of his 13 starts. Kurt Knudsen and Bob MacDonald finished up for Detroit.

Mike Bielecki (4-5) gave up six runs on nine hits in four-plus innings for Cleveland.

There was a 28-minute rain delay after the third inning.

Angels 8, Rangers 2

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Mark Langston kept his major-league leading ERA at 2.26 with eight innings of five-hit ball, and Tim Salmon had three hits including a home run.

Langston (8-1) gave up two runs, struck out five and walked none.

The loss was the Rangers' third in a row and 14th in 20 games, while the Angels won for only the fourth time in 13 games.

A two-out single in the seventh by Ivan Rodriguez and Rafael Palmiero's ninth homer spoiled Langston's shot at his first shutout since June 17 of last season, when he beat Nolan Ryan with a two-hitter.

After taking a 1-0 lead on Salmon's RBI single in the third, the Angels added three runs in the sixth with the help of throwing errors by starting pitcher Todd Burns (0-3) and reliever Matt Whiteside.

Salmon and Chili Davis opened the inning with singles, before Kelly Gruber bunted to the left of the mound with the infield in. Burns' throw to third eluded teammate Mario Diaz as he retreated to the bag, allowing Salmon to score. Gary DiSarcina then hit a dribbler to the same spot and Whiteside threw the ball past catcher Rodriguez, allowing Gruber to follow Davis across the plate.

Orioles 8, Brewers 5

MILWAUKEE — David Segui's homer highlighted a five-run sixth inning as Baltimore beat Milwaukee for its 11th victory in 12 games.

The biggest hit of the rally against Bill Wegman (4-10) may have been an RBI bloop single by Mark McLemore, a catchable ball that dropped between Milwaukee outfielders Greg Vaughn and Robin Yount.

Six of Baltimore's eight hits in the game were for extra bases, including homers by Segui, Brady Anderson and Harold Baines.

Rick Sutliffe (7-2) gave up 10 hits over six innings but managed to win his fifth straight decision.

Mark Williamson allowed two hits to start the ninth and was replaced by Gregg Olson, who walked Darryl Hamilton to load the bases. B.J. Surhoff hit a sacrifice fly, but Vaughn lined to third baseman Leo Gomez, who threw to second to get Juan Bell for the game-ending double play. Olson earned his 17th save.

Anderson's leadoff homer in the fourth was Baltimore's first hit off Wegman and made it 1-0.

Vaughn hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning, his first of two in the game and 16th of the season. Billy Spiers added an RBI after a double by Yount for a 3-1 Milwaukee lead. The Brewers had a chance to add on with runners at second and third with one out but Sutcliffe got Tom Lampkin on a pop and struck out Juan Bell.

Mariners 6, Royals 3

SEATTLE — Randy Johnson struck out 15 in eight innings as Seattle beat Kansas City for the left-hander's 10th consecutive victory in the Kingdome.

It was Seattle's third win in a row while first-place Kansas City lost for the third time in four games.

Tino Martinez and Jay Buhner each hit their 12th home runs against starter Mark Gardner (4-3). Martinez drove in four runs.

Johnson (8-3), who gave up six hits, allowed back-to-back doubles to Brian McRae and Harvey Pulliam to open the game for the Royals' first run. Mike Macfarlane hit his 10th homer to lead off the Kansas City seventh.

Yankees 4, Red Sox 0

NEW YORK — Bernie Williams hit his first grand slam on the first pitch following an unusual ball examination, leading New York past Boston.

Scott Kamieniecki (1-1) and Bobby Munoz combined on a three-hitter, sending Boston to its eighth loss in nine games.

Williams connected with two outs in the fifth inning on a 1-2 pitch from Danny Darwin (5-6). Just before the pitch, third base umpire John Shulock called time and went to the mound to examine the ball Darwin had, but kept it in play.

After the half-inning ended, Boston pitching coach Rich Gale went onto the field to talk to Shulock. Darwin pitched on a Houston staff in the mid-1980s with Mike Scott that was accused of scuffing balls, although no specific allegations were made against Darwin.

Williams' fourth homer of the season, a line drive into the second deck in right field, came after a single and two walks. All four runs were unearned because a foul pop dropped by first baseman Mo Vaughn, who collided with catcher Bob Melvin on the play. On the next pitch, Dave Silvestri drew a walk that loaded the bases.

Twins 4, Blue Jays 3

MINNEAPOLIS — Shane Mack, who had nothing to show for two triples earlier in the game, snapped a seventh-inning tie with a weak grounder, rallying Minnesota over Toronto.

The Twins, outscored 20-3 when swept in a three-game series at Toronto last month, beat the Blue Jays for the first time in seven games dating back to 1992.

Minnesota has won five of six games while Toronto has lost six of nine.

Danny Cox (5-2), who began the seventh inning in relief of Dave Stewart, blew a 3-2 lead by allowing successive singles to Pat Meares, Chuck Knoblauch and Chip Hale. Mack then chopped a slow grounder to third baseman Ed Sprague, whose only play was to first.

Larry Casian (1-0), who gave up Pat Border's sixth-inning go-ahead single, got credit for the victory. Carl Willis pitched a scoreless ninth for his first save since May 29, 1992.

Mack, honored as the AL player of the week for batting .400 with 10 RBIs from June 7-13, entered the game with three homers in his previous six at-bats.

SUNS: Finals not over

(From 1C)

sixth game.

On Monday, however, the Suns were talking about another comeback from a 2-0 deficit, the way they did in the first round when the Los Angeles Lakers won twice at Phoenix, then lost the series in five games.

Dan Majerle, held to 29 points in the first two games, scored 28 with six 3-pointers in the triple-overtime thriller. Kevin Johnson, all but pilloried in Phoenix for his poor play there, bounced back with 25 points, while Barkley had 24 points and 19 rebounds despite pain with every shot.

"This first win does a lot for our confidence," Johnson said. "The first win is the toughest. This series has a lot of basketball left."

For all the drama of Game 3 — the second triple overtime in NBA Finals history — neither team believes the game was particularly well played.

"I've been in lots that were better," Ainge said. "It seemed like we were just a little looser in the overtimes."

Chicago's Michael Jordan was not impressed. He scored 44 points but missed 24 of 43 shots.

"It was a great game for NBC and for Phoenix, but not for us," he said. "In three overtimes at home, we should have the advantage."

Scottie Pippen, who had 26 points on 12-for-35 shooting, lauded the Suns for winning on the road after losing twice at home. But he said they would have a tough time winning at Chicago again.

"We got totally out of our offense," he said. "They have to realize they needed three overtimes to beat us. I don't think they can take confidence from that."

"It wasn't great basketball," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said.

OPEN: All in approach

(From 1C)

But, he said, it very well could be the better way.

He is going in under the eye — and arm — of 7-year-old daughter Sarah Jean.

Azinger, the leading money-winner this season, won the Memorial tournament two weeks ago with a birdie from a bunker on the last hole.

It marked the seventh consecutive year in which he had won at least once and, combined with a string of near misses earlier in the season, stamped him as a force to be considered in the Open.

And then he missed the cut last week at the Westchester Country Club.

"It may have been a blessing in disguise," Azinger said. "I just didn't adjust to the conditions. But that's OK. You can throw that out. It doesn't mean anything.

"If I'd made the cut, maybe got into contention, I'd be going into the Open exhausted, worn out."

Instead, he's relaxed, refreshed and ready to go.

Although he failed to qualify for weekend play, Azinger chose to stay at Westchester, take it easy and do some very light practice work on his short game.

Inventories rise 7th straight month

■ Slowing of rate indicates continuing attempt to trim shelves, analysts say.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Business inventories rose in April for a seventh straight month, but the rate slowed in what analysts said was a continuing attempt to trim overstocked shelves and backlots.

The Commerce Department said Monday that inventories rose 0.1 percent to a seasonally adjusted $860.4 billion, from $859.5 billion in March.

It was the smallest advance since a similar gain last September and October. And the 0.6 percent advance in March was revised down from the 0.8 percent originally estimated.

But at the same time, the report showed sales dropped 0.2 percent for a second month in a row, to $582.6 billion from $584 billion a month earlier.

That boosted the inventories-to-sales ratio to 1.48 in April, from 1.47 in March. It was the highest level since it stood at 1.49 last November. The ratio means it would take 1.48 months to exhaust inventories at the April sales pace.

"The fact that inventories-to-sales ratio increased slightly would indicate that attempts to reduce inventories will probably continue," said economist Sung Won Sohn of the Norwest Corp. in Minneapolis.

That means orders probably will be slow during summer, particularly on the retail level, Sohn contended. That suggests continued sluggishness in the labor market.

"I think retailers would much rather be experiencing stock outs and missed sales, rather than have unwanted inventories," he said.

Evelina M. Tainer, an economist with Prime Economic Consulting in Chicago, said she did not consider the ratio to be at a dangerous level. But she also predicted sluggish retail sales for the next few months.

"Consumers are very cautious," she said. "People are uncertain" about tax increase prospects and other economic developments in Washington "and are taking a wait-and-see attitude."

Although the report showed that retail sales jumped 1.5 percent in April, the Commerce Department reported last Friday that they slowed to a barely perceptible 0.1 percent gain in May. Retail inventories in April rose 0.3 percent following a 1.3 percent advance a month earlier.

Manufacturing stocks edged up just 0.1 percent in April, and Sung said producers "have made significant strides in bringing inventories down over quite a long period." But their sales slipped 1.5 percent.

Wholesalers posted the only decline in inventories, a 0.1 percent drop, despite having sales unchanged from a month earlier.

Prices slip

NEW YORK — Oil prices finished modestly lower on Monday in light trading amid continued skepticism about OPEC's ability to prevent producers from ignoring quotas.

West Texas Intermediate for delivery next month settled at $18.89 per barrel, down 9 cents, at the New York Mercantile Exchange. Crude has fallen 75 cents per barrel since Kuwait rejected last week an Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries plan to keep production steady this summer.

Kuwait wants to pump more to cover the costs of rebuilding following the Persian Gulf War. Kuwait's oil minister, Ali Ahmad Al-Bagli, said his country would increase production to 2.16 million barrels per day — the quota it had sought — by the end of the quarter.

But as prices slid on Friday, Al-Bagli said he would restrain production to prevent a price collapse.

There was no additional news to influence prices Monday, but prices have been under pressure from continued expecations that overproduction by Kuwait would lead to quota-busting by other OPEC countries.

Natural gas prices were higher, with contracts for delivery in July settling at $2.200 per 1,000 cubic feet, up 2.2 cents.

T-bills fall

WASHINGTON — Interest rates on short-term Treasury securities fell in Monday's auction to the lowest level in three weeks.

The Treasury Department sold $12 billion in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 3.07 percent, down from 3.14 percent last week. Another $12 billion was sold in six-month bills at an average discount rate of 3.19 percent, down from 3.30 percent last week.

The rates were the lowest since May 24, when three-month bills sold for 3.06 percent and the six-month bill rate averaged 3.19 percent.

Dollar mixed

NEW YORK — The dollar fell to a third consecutive record low against the Japanese yen Monday but was mixed against other major foreign currencies.

In New York, the dollar also was quoted at 105.10 yen, down from late Friday's 106.15 yen and its third postwar low in as many sessions.

The dollar fell against the British pound. In New York, the British pound fetched $1.5270, up from Friday's $1.5225.

Stocks rise

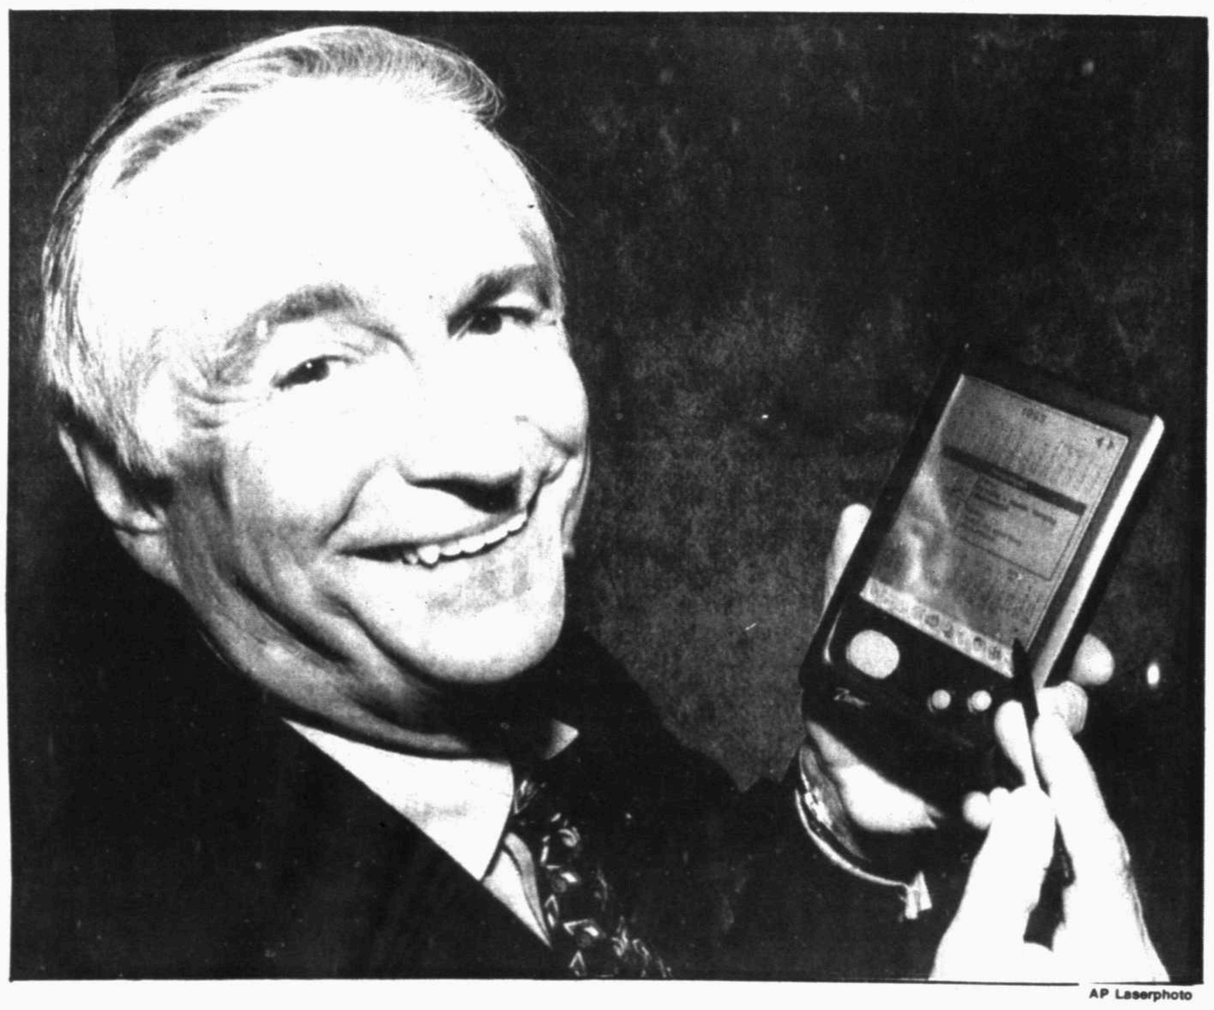

NEW YORK — The stock market drifted Monday, ending narrowly mixed, ahead of important data on inflation that some investors fear could push the Federal Reserve to raise short-term interest rates.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 9.68 points to 3,514.69.

Declining issues narrowly outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Delinquency rate on loans at 4-year low

WASHINGTON (AP) — The delinquency rate on consumer loans fell during the first quarter to the lowest level in nearly four years, improving prospects for retail spending later this year, a trade group said Monday.

A seasonally adjusted 2.31 percent of consumer loans were 30 days or more past due at the end of March, down from 2.43 percent three months earlier, the American Bankers Association said.

"This is another break in the clouds suggesting fairer weather in the coming months for the economy," said James Chessen, chief economist of the association.

"Consumers' financial positions continue to improve, and this should help promote greater spending in the second half of the year," he said.

A year earlier, the delinquency rate stood at 2.75 percent. The latest rate, a composite for eight types of installment loans, was the lowest since 2.30 percent at the end of June 1989.

"There's been a conscious effort by individuals to put their finances in better shape," said economist Robert G. Dederick of Northern Trust Co. in Chicago. "With the (economic) recovery (and lower interest rates), they've been in a position to do that."

Kodak stock rises on overhaul word

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Eastman Kodak Co. shares jumped Monday in anticipation that the struggling photo, chemical and health care company will reveal details Tuesday of an overhaul plan.

Kodak stock was up $2.75 per share to $53.87½ Monday in late trading on the New York State Exchange.

After the market closed Friday, the company scheduled meetings with analysts and reporters in New York Tuesday. Kodak officials won't disclose the topic of the sessions, but analysts said they expect details of a company overhaul promised earlier this year by Chairman Kay R. Whitmore.

"The stock price movement is clearly linked to tomorrow's meeting, the expectation being we will have some of the elements of the turnaround plan presented to investors," said Jack Kelly, an analyst at Goldman Sachs.

Lockheed chief: F-16 debt to be absorbed by '95

LE BOURGET, France (AP) — Lockheed Corp. Chairman Daniel Tellep on Monday admitted his company has piled up heavy debts to buy the F-16 project from General Dynamics, but said he expects finances back to normal by 1995.

Lockheed spent $1.5 billion to acquire the F-16 plant in Fort Worth from General Dynamics in March, Tellep said.

Tellep also said he wasn't worried about talk in Washington of slashing production of the advanced F-22 stealth fighter by a third, and that it would not immediately affect the company's operations.

The F-16 fighter, a top performer in the Gulf War, is a hot-selling plane in an overall depressed aviation market. Two F-16s are the only U.S. warplanes showcased at the Paris Air Show.

With the purchase, Lockheed's debt-to-capital ratio rose from 28 percent to 48 percent, exceeding the company's target of 33 percent, Tellep told a news conference at the company's air show chalet.

"We believe we'll be back to 33 percent by the end of 1995, early 1996," he said.

With the F-16, Lockheed rose from No. 4 to No. 2 in military aircraft sales among American companies, boosting that revenue from $3 billion to $6.5 billion.

Lockheed's backlog orders have risen from $15 billion in 1990 to $20 billion in 1992 and with the acquisition of the F-16, $32 billion this year, Tellep said.

Last month the F-22, the next generation stealth fighter, passed a preliminary design review, Tellep said.

"This project is right on track, and it's making excellent profit margins" from the $10 billion development program, he said.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Check before buying from 'deposit broker'

By Bill Doyle

Q: On a recent morning, I questioned my bank about what rates it pays on certificates of deposit. I was told 2.95 percent for six months and 3.05 percent for 12 months.

However, the enclosed advertisements for CDs paying higher interest attract my attention. The ads say the CDs are "FDIC insured." Before I phone, I would like your advice on the safety of such CDs. Are the institutions that place these ads banks, savings and loan associations or what?

A: They are what has come to be known as "deposit brokers," organizations that sell CDs issued by banks and S&Ls.

A deposit broker keeps track of the interest rates paid on CDs by banks and S&Ls around the country and arranges to sell high-interest CDs. The deposit broker collects fees from the banks and S&Ls whose CDs it sells.

Before you buy a CD through a deposit broker, make sure the bank or S&L issuing the CD has Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. coverage. Then you can be certain of getting back the CD's face amount.

Assuming the bank or S&L stays in business, it will pay you the face amount when the CD matures. If the bank or S&L fails, the FDIC will reimburse you for the CD's face amount.

Q: I hear that many of the banks and S&Ls offering high-interest CDs are in shaky financial condition. If I obtain a high-interest CD issued by one of those institutions and it goes belly up, would I have a long wait before the FDIC pays me?

A: In that event, you would not have a long wait. The FDIC has been prompt, and you can expect it to continue to be prompt.

If the bank or S&L is closed, you can go there the very next business day and get all your money that is protected by the FDIC. Keep in mind that FDIC coverage is limited to $100,000 per depositor per institution.

However, in most bank and S&L failures, the busted institution is not slammed shut. Instead, its accounts are transferred to another bank or S&L. When that happens, depositors deal with the bank or S&L that took over the accounts.

That successor institution might continue the accounts it acquired under the same conditions. But it does not have to do so. It has the right to change the terms on the accounts, such as reducing the interest rates.

If that happens to you, you would be notified. You would then have two weeks to decide whether to leave your CD with the new institution or to withdraw your money without penalty.

Q: A deposit broker says he will sell me a $10,000 one-year bank CD paying 5 percent simple interest. That's much more than I can get locally.

But he says that because of the high rate, I will have to pay $10,100 for the $10,000 face-value CD. According to my arithmetic, that would still give me 4.9 percent. But the premium price bothers me.

Is this still a good deal?

A: It would be, if the bank or S&L issuing the CD does not go under before the CD matures.

A CD pays interest as a percentage of its face amount. On $10,000, 5 percent is $500. On a premium price of $10,100, the $500 interest results in a 4.95 percent current yield.

But there are a couple of kickers.

Subtract the $100 premium from the $500 interest and you will come out ahead by $400, if the bank is in existence on the CD's due date. That knocks your yield to maturity down to 3.96 percent — although that's still good by today's standards.

The FDIC protects CDs' face amounts and accrued interest — not premiums. If that bank fails, you would get $10,000. The premium would be gone. If your CD was not in force long enough to accumulate $100 interest, you would have a negative return.

Bruising cigarette price war may backfire, analysts say

LOS ANGELES (NTY) — Scott Starr smoked Marlboros as a teen-ager and stayed with the best-selling American cigarette for almost two decades. But his loyalty ended last year when he found the price of a discount brand more to his taste.

Now, Starr smokes GPC Approved, the leading discount brand that costs about half the price of a pack of premium Marlboros.

"The taste is similar to Marlboro, so I can deal with it," said Starr, a 32-year-old Bell Canyon carpenter. "Why spend $3 a pack when you can spend $1.50?"

The customer loyalty and steady profit growth that U.S. tobacco companies enjoyed for years is eroding as smokers turn to cut-price cigarettes over expensive and heavily advertised premium brands.

Discount brands, which sell for about $1.30 a pack compared to $2.40 or more for premiums, barely existed a decade ago but now hold more than one-third of the $47.5 billion domestic cigarette market.

An attempt to lure smokers back to premium brands by dropping prices has left the six major cigarette manufacturers locked in a bruising price war that analysts say is one of the most serious threats the industry has ever faced.

Supreme Court backs federal pension law

By Linda Greenhouse
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court unanimously upheld Monday the constitutionality of the federal pension law that requires employers to make good on their financial obligations when they withdraw from an industry-wide pension plan.

The case was an important test of the law Congress passed 13 years ago to remove employers' incentives to avoid financial liability by pulling out of weak pension plans.

The employer in this case, a California-based manufacturer of concrete pipes, told the court that its withdrawal liability would consume 46 percent of its net worth.

It argued that the assessment violated its constitutional right to due process of law and was an unconstitutional taking of its property without compensation.

Writing for the court Monday, Justice David H. Souter said that the liability imposed by the law, the Multiemployer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1980, met the test of due process as a "clearly rational" form of economic regulation.

On the property issue, he wrote, "Our cases have long established that mere diminution in the value of property, however serious, is insufficient to demonstrate a taking."

The decision, Concrete Pipe and Products of California vs. Construction Laborers Pension Trust, No. 91-904, upheld a 1991 decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit, in San Francisco.

The multiemployer pension law was passed as an amendment to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, known as Erisa, the basic federal law regulating employers' pension obligations. The amendment addressed specific problems facing industry-wide pension plans, which are common in industries composed of small employers whose workers move from job to job within the same trade.

While in theory, these pension plans offer stability and risk-sharing for employers and portability for employees, they have been beset by problems of underfinancing.

When the law was passed to impose withdrawal liability on employers who leave such plans, the condition of these already weak plans was being weakened further by employer flight.

Under the 1980 law, employers who leave a plan must pay their proportionate share of the plan's unfinanced vested benefits. Calculating that obligation can be highly contentious, and the law created a system requiring deference to the judgments of the plan's trustees, usually a joint labor-management committee.

In several earlier cases, the court had upheld the constitutionality of the multiemployer law as a general matter without examining its operation in the detail provided by this case.

With Mid-West Auto Glass you can Stay in Touch

Many people would like to have a mobile phone, but most, in the past, have been put off by the price of them. There is no doubt that they are convenient, but they have always seemed so expensive; until now that is.

Mid-West Auto Glass at 901 West Washington in Midland is trying to replace these old ideas with some new ones of their own. Until the end of July they are offering a special deal on a Motorola cellular telephone.

Called the 'tote-bag-phone', it is a fully functional telephone that is light, easy to carry and FREE with one years activation from Southwestern Bell Mobile Systems.

Powered by a battery or directly from your car's cigarette lighter socket the telephone can be taken with you anywhere you need it, and it comes with many adaptable features such as voice mail.

"Car phones are not just for the fashionable or trendy executive types," said Sandy Olgin, the Customer Service Representative at Mid-West, "they are good for anybody who needs a reliable and dependable way of keeping in touch."

Apart from the obvious business applications, mobile telephones are being used by a myriad of different people for different reasons; from college students to the elderly.

For example, there is no doubt that having a telephone in ones car can make all the difference in the event of a breakdown, help can be swiftly summoned from the shelter and security of your car making a mobile phone perfect for people travelling alone.

Never Paint Again:

Discount Offer from Lifetime Siding

Neil Letkeman of Lifetime Siding & Window gives homes a new look with maintenance free exteriors such as steel and vinyl siding and storm windows

"Don't spend the summer scraping and painting your house," says Neil Letkeman, the owner of Lifetime Siding and Window Co, "steel or vinyl siding is maintenance free, has a lifetime warranty and can save you considerable amounts of time and money.

Because the summer is traditionally the time most people re-decorate their homes, for a limited time Lifetime Siding is offering a 15% discount on new orders. With a 15-year warranty on labor and a lifetime warranty on materials, this represents a very good deal indeed.

"Today's homeowners are looking for the highest quality products at the lowest price," Neil said.

Having an early start in the siding business, Neil learned the best techniques for siding installation, and decided to insure that customers were receiving the best quality by starting his own company.

For professional installation, Lifetime uses screws and rivets in all critical areas of installation instead of staples and nails. This labor-intensive process ensures a longer lasting installation.

These installation methods, together with the highest quality lifetime warrantied steel or vinyl siding, will give a home a permanent solution to painting problems. So, next time those West Texas winds blow through town, a squirt of a water hose will make your home clean again.

Ask Eugene Hunter, who is one of Lifetime's satisfied customers. "We had thought about adding siding to our home for years - two other contractors had given much higher estimates siding on our home," Eugene said. "Neil's bid was almost $1,000 lower than the lowest estimate."

Eugene found that the lower prices did not mean lower quality and chose Lifetime Siding to install siding to his home. "His installation methods are excellent and we have not regretted our decision," said Eugene.

Take advantage of the special savings on storm windows and doors before the West Texas winds blow into town. Your home can be protected against dust, noise and severe weather with installation of Lifetime's storm windows and doors - and for a limited time, Lifetime is offering 15% off!

For home improvement or just for friendly advice, call Lifetime Siding and Window Company at 689-0307. Let the professional installers give your home a new look in 1993 with vinyl and steel siding, storm windows and doors, rain gutters and metal carports.

The experienced irrigation and piping experts are from left; Brad Greer, John Ben Reinert, Bill Reinert (the owner) Fannette Vinson and Laura Hilliard. With an advanced computer link with their store in Odessa they are never knowingly out of stock. For more information about professional piping and irrigation supplies, call 682-6584.

BenMark's Side of Industrial Piping

The company that supplies Midland's homeowners with their irrigation systems and piping supplies is perhaps better known for its work with the industrial, municipal and business communities.

Because it is linked by an advanced computer system with its sister store in Odessa, which automatically controls stock levels, BenMark Supply Company can satisfy even the most varied request as the company has a very large inventory.

Supplying oil companies and manufacturing plants with their pipe and fittings requirements is child's play for BenMark because they have personnel experienced in all aspects of piping - from oil and gas transmission to large water disposal projects.

Polyvinyl Chloride (PVC) has many unique properties: it is inert, and therefore ideal for use when chemicals or other reactive substances need to be transported. It is highly adaptable because it can be molded in virtually any shape or size to meet a whole variety of requirements and it is relatively inexpensive.

These aspects of PVC piping make it environmentally friendly: not only does it take less energy to make than metal piping, but it doesn't need replacing as often because it won't rust or react with its surroundings.

BenMark specializes in PVC piping and fittings in schedule 40 and 80 in a variety of sizes; from 1/4" to 12"- big enough for the petrochemical plants in the Permian Basin area

Many different groups use BenMark's expertise and services: plumbers, schools, hospitals and cities to name but a few, have all acquired materials for sewage projects and systems involving installation of National Sanitation Foundation (NSF) approved polyethylene tanks for potable water storage.

The ability to meet these different needs is one of BenMark's strengths, they can supply many different specialist items such as monitor well screen pipe, butterfly valves for large diameter pipe and bolted repair couplings.

In short, BenMark Supply Company can provide professional customers with quality specialized materials on a competitive price scale. They also feature names such as TORO irrigation equipment suitable for homeowners as well as larger customers such as city parks and golf courses.

For more information about BenMark's services and large inventory call the personnel at 1101 South Garfield, Midland, 682-6584 or the new Odessa store at 400 Grandview, 337-0455

Atlanta sinkhole kills 2, buries cars

ATLANTA (AP) — A sinkhole, apparently caused by severe storms that overwhelmed an old sewer pipe, swallowed part of a hotel parking lot Monday, killing two people.

One of the dead was Victoria Vaynshteyn, 26, whose car was swallowed up by the sinkhole as she drove to her job at the Courtyard by Marriott hotel.

The other victim, Oscar Cano, was a restaurant worker at the hotel. He was apparently in the parking lot looking for someone to jumpstart his car when the sinkhole swallowed him up shortly before dawn, a family friend said.

Rescue workers found Mrs. Vaynshteyn's body in the sinkhole. Cano, 33, was found dead near the sewer pipe, and authorities said his body had been swept there by rushing water.

Rescuers tethered by ropes searched the 100-foot-wide, 25-foot-deep hole for more cars but retreated to allow public works officials to try to stabilize the area.

"There's not anything we can do until they make this site safe," said Fire Department spokesman Tim Szymanski. "We don't have any idea how many cars are down there."

Authorities warned the hole could widen if more rain fell.

The storms, which hit Atlanta and other parts of north Georgia before dawn, apparently flooded a 70-year-old drainage pipe under the parking lot, causing the pipe to burst and the sinkhole to form, authorities said.

The National Weather Service said 2.2 inches of rain fell on parts of downtown Atlanta within 40 minutes as the thunderstorms passed through.

Just four days before, the city had been called in to inspect cracks around a manhole and in a retaining wall at the parking lot.

City workers were scheduled to repair the cracks and apply steel reinforcements to the sewer line Monday, but the pipe collapsed before they could begin, said Douglas Hooker, acting commissioner of the Public Works Department.

"There was potential for a cave-in, but we didn't envision anything like this," he said.

Hooker said the parking lot had been under 24-hour watch since Thursday's call about the cracks, and a section of the lot had been cordoned off. Authorities could not say whether the dead woman's car was inside the cordoned area when it fell.

The hotel itself was not threatened, but guests were evacuated after its utilities were cut off.

Jack and Sue Friedlander, who were staying at the Marriott while in Atlanta for a convention, watched nervously as their new car sat in the parking lot with its nose tilted toward the sinkhole.

"I'm just trying to see whether we're going to have a car or not," said Friedlander.

Kim O'Conner, right, of Norwalk, Iowa, weeps after hearing six people were found shot to death in a neighboring house, Monday afternoon. O'Conner's children were becoming friendlier with the children nextdoor.

Neighbors find 6 bodies in Iowa house

NORWALK, Iowa (AP) — A woman and five children were found shot to death in a house in a quiet, middle-class neighborhood near Des Moines on Monday, and the woman's estranged husband was hospitalized with gunshot wounds.

The Iowa State Patrol identified the dead as Mary Jolene Forsyth, 39, her son Brian, 18, and daughters Nikki, 17, and Jessica, 9. The other two victims were listed as Martina P. Napodano, 9 and Helen M. Napodano 7.

Police Chief Mike Richardson said the Napodano children were from the Des Moines area. He said their mother, a friend of the Forsyth family, was traveling in Illinois at the time of the shootings.

Medical Examiner Francis Garrity said the six apparently died of gunshot wounds within the past 24 hours. Garrity said the bodies were found in the bedrooms.

Rick Wayne Forsyth, 42, was listed in critical condition at Iowa Methodist Medical Center. He was also found in the house.

Richardson said police didn't have enough information to name a suspect, but added that they believe someone in the house did the shootings.

Larry Christensen, who lives next door in this city 10 miles southeast of Des Moines, said the Forsyths had been having marital troubles since their young son was killed in a freak accident a few years ago. Neighbors said the boy died in a bicycle-skateboard accident.

"It just seems as though they've had a lot of problems since then — family disputes," he said.

He'd never heard them arguing or seen any fighting, but "we'd see law enforcement show up" at the house, he said.

Court records show Forsyth was arrested on May 25, 1991, for domestic abuse and was placed on probation. On Sept. 5, 1992, he was charged with violating an order to stay away. On April 27, he was charged with harassing his wife. That charge was pending. Court officers also said a divorce was pending.

Kim O'Conner, who watched the scene from across the street, said the Forsyth family was to start baby-sitting her children next week.

"Thank God my kids weren't there," she said, sobbing.

Pepsi can hypodermics could be sabotage

SEATTLE (NYT) — Hypodermic syringes found in two Pepsi cans in the Seattle area and two in Louisiana could be a form of sabotage aimed at hurting the company, a spokeswoman for the Seattle-area Pepsi bottling company said yesterday.

But Susan Hebert, spokeswoman for Alpac Corp., the regional Pepsi bottler, said Pepsi is bottled in Louisiana by a different company and could not have come from the Northwest. Alpac bottles Pepsi only in the West.

She also said the Food and Drug Administration and the company can't explain how the needles could have been dropped accidently in the cans.

Alpac Tuesday will set up a test for FDA inspectors to determine if it is even possible to place a hypodermic needle in a can during the bottling process. Hebert said the process involves only a matter of seconds when the product could be vulnerable to tampering in the plant.

The New Orleans reports were the first since the FDA warned consumers in four Western states to examine cans of Diet Pepsi and pour the soda into a glass before drinking.

"We can't speculate on whether they're related," Anne Ward, a spokesman at Pepsi Cola's New York headquarters, said. "It really could be anything."

In the Washington incidents, the hypodermic needles were in cans that had been bottled six months apart, Hebert said, adding that the older of the cans probably was not sold recently from a store.

"We don't bring in a product and let it sit around that long," she said.

No injuries were reported in the Washington cases and initial laboratory analysis showed no sign of contamination in the cans, the FDA said in a statement.

It said that consumers in Washington, Oregon, Alaska, Hawaii and Guam, where Alpac distributes, should inspect Diet Pepsi cans closely.

FDA investigators spent the weekend at the Alpac warehouse and bottling works, interviewing managers and checking employee files. The investigators are trying to determine if any past or present workers have diabetes or otherwise need to give themselves injections.

Alpac President Carl Behnke said the syringes could have been placed in the cans before they arrived at Alpac, during the two or three seconds between the time they were filled and the time lids were placed on them, or after they were opened.

The cans are being analyzed by the FDA laboratory in Cincinnati.

Seattle newspaper extinguishes cigarette ads

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Times, citing concern for the health of its readers, announced Monday it will no longer carry cigarette advertising.

"Just as we refuse advertising for legal products such as handguns, escort services and X-rated movies, we have concluded that tobacco advertising has almost no redeeming value," Publisher Frank Blethen said in a statement.

The ban was applauded by anti-smoking groups, but the tobacco industry condemned it as contrary to freedom of speech.

The Times stands to lose "a minimum of $120,000 to $150,000" a year in advertising revenue, Blethen said. The newspaper's total annual advertising revenue is about $200 million, he said.

With the newspaper honoring its existing advertising contracts, the ads should be gone within a year, said Times President H. Mason Sizemore.

Barbara Raymond of the Seattle office of the American Lung Association said, "We're thrilled and we applaud the Times for the progressive and very forward-looking step they are taking.

Walker Merryman of the U.S. Tobacco Institute in Washington, D.C., said the ban made him question the Times' commitment to the First Amendment.

Government forces diet firms to prove claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dietary supplements used by tens of millions of Americans hoping to keep or improve their health will have to prove the claims they make on their labels under rules the government planned to issue Tuesday.

The people who make these products are furious.

"The dietary supplement industry as we now know it would no longer exist," said Gerald Kessler, president of Nature's Plus, a supplement company.

The Food and Drug Administration has the legal power to enforce its standards, including taking companies to court and seizing their products.

Kessler said the rules would keep some products off the market or deny consumers the information they would need to use them. Requiring proof of effectiveness would force the companies to spend years and millions of dollars on research that they cannot afford, he said.

But a consumer group says the new rules are needed to protect people from buying products that can't back up their health claims.

"I think the FDA proposal will make it easier for consumers to make an informed choice when shopping for dietary supplements," said Bruce Silverglade, director of legal affairs at the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

When asked for examples of misleading products, Silverglade names two supplements made by Kessler's company: Ultra Male and Ultra Hair.

Kessler said Ultra Male is a "dietary supplement that is made for the nutritional needs of a man."

Silverglade said it's something made out of the prostate gland of a bull.

Some make even more!

How long does it take?
The actual delivery takes 1-2 hours Monday-Saturday, and 2-3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subsribers'papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday-Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?

The offer which best serves the interest of VA will be processed for acceptance. VA also will pay reasonable loan discount points and buyers' closing costs on cash offers when requested on the Cash Sale Addendum to Offer to Purchase. Interest rate of available vendee financing is 7 percent, (APR 7.25 percent).

Offers to purchase VA - acquired properties requesting VA - vendee financing received from investors and speculators will be limited to not more than five properties over a period of 6 months. No additional sales will be approved until the purchaser has demonstrated his/her ability to maintain all previous loan accounts over a period of 6 months or more commencing with the due date of the first payment of the last loan account. The intent is not to limit the cumulative/aggregate number of properties which can be sold to speculators, but rather to ensure that the purchasers' financial position is such that he/she can satisfactorily support the additional obligations. However, additional VA-vendee financed sales to an investor-purchased who already own five properties purchased from VA within the preceding 6 months will be considered if the investor - purchaser is willing to make a 20 percent cash down payment on each such additional property.

FORFEITURE OF EARNEST MONEY DEPOSIT

Prior to signing the offer, the broker must deposit in the broker's trust account the $500 earnest money deposit. The $500 earnest money deposit, will be remitted to the closing agent upon acceptance of the offer. Once a purchase offer has been accepted for processing by VA and subsequently cancelled at the request of the purchasers, the earnest money WILL NOT be refunded and the purchaser will be required to forfeit the earnest money to VA as liquidation expenses. There will be no exception to this policy. Therefore, the VA suggests that all broker's interview their buyers to assure that they want the property to submission of an Offer to Purchase, Prospective purchasers will have the option to select the title company or attorney of their choice to close the sale of VA-acquired properties. The address, telephone number, FAX number, tax ID number and name of person to contact should be included with all offers to Purchase. The closing agent will be responsible for document preparation and sales closing. The purchaser or sales broker will be responsible for the payment of all costs charged by the closer. Offers are subject to the provisions of VA Form 26-6705. Offer to Purchase and Contract of Sale, on which all offers must be submitted. VA pays 6 percent sales commission.
