CALIFORNIA STORM BRINGS DEATH TO TRIO

COASTAL DELUGE DOES DAMAGE TO WIDE TERRITORY

WIND AND RAIN HOLD UP
BUSINESS ON BORDER
OF PACIFIC

(By The Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 8.—A deluge of rain from the sea, the second of the season, has visited California within a week, continuing a deluge of rain from the Pacific coast, causing three deaths and high winds yesterday swept trees and buildings here and there, and blew down telephone telegraph and power lines. Frank Bell, highway commission truck driver, was killed, and Charles A. Carr, foreman of the highway maintenance crew, was injured near Redwood when a huge tree fell across the automobile in which they were riding. Several other persons were reported injured in a sixty mile gale which wrenched and unroofed buildings in that section of the Sacramento Valley. Tornado-like winds also were experienced at Fresno in the lower San Joaquin Valley, where trees and telephone poles fell.

At Redwood, Calif., and other points, transportation was interrupted. Slides caused delays and rerouting of trains while motorists were obliged to detour or wait for the mud to be dug away. Several vessels were delayed or forced back into the harbor by the force of the winds.

Late last night all April records for 45 years had been broken by yesterday's precipitation which brought the season's total to more than an inch above normal, which was 11.27 inches. Floods claimed the lives of Mrs. Maria Robles, 29, when she leaped into a stream to rescue her eight year old daughter, and Joseph Arena, aged 5, when he was hurled into a flooded stream as the bridge on which he was standing was torn out.

MISSING YOUTH FOUND BY COPS

Son of Naval Secretary, His Mind a Blank, Located in Rochester, New York

(By The Associated Press)
ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 8.—Douglas Robinson, 21 year old son of Theodore Douglas Robinson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was in a hospital today, having been missing from Harvard University for nearly a week.

The 21 year old freshman whose father hurried him from Washington to Boston, was found lying dazed in front of a North Fitzhugh Street hotel by a patrolman early this morning, his mind a blank. Believing the youth had been struck by an automobile, the patrolman summoned an ambulance.

At St. Mary's Hospital after some questioning the youth mentioned the name of Douglas Robinson and produced his father's personal card.

Suffered From Breakdown
Hospital physicians said that he was apparently suffering from amnesia and a nervous breakdown brought on by overstudy. There had been a lapse of memory, they said, and the youth was unable to explain his presence in Rochester. The physicians explained, however, that he appeared to be in good physical condition and that his chief worry seemed to be fear of involving his family in undue publicity.

Police began an attempt to unravel the mystery of entries made in a diary found on his person. In the book was written, "William Johnson, number 91 second street," and "Jane Kelly" with no address and under the names the notation "will be in Rochester before April 30." The youth was unable to explain the notations.

Robinson had been in Rochester since Monday, when he registered at a hotel. He checked out Tuesday afternoon but was seen in the hotel by friends after a college concert and dance early yesterday morning.

MUSSOLINI WILL CONTINUE FIGHT HE TELLS ITALY

WILL CARRY PRINCIPLES OF FASCISM AROUND
WORLD, HE SAYS

(By The Associated Press)
ROME, Apr. 8. (AP)—Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy, having escaped assassination at the hands of a woman, is determined to fight for the principles of Fascism throughout the world. Mussolini, as in the case when the plot to kill him on the occasion of the celebration of the anniversary of the Italo-Australian armistice, was unafraid and warned the people, saying: "I do not desire reprisals. This is my will."

People Are Behind Him
Throughout the country processions were formed and the escape of the Premier was acclaimed. Bells were rung; solemn Te Deums were sung. The attack on Premier, it is believed will be certain to make him more of an ideal than ever.

Despite warnings, there were some demonstrations against opposition papers.

The Directorate, meeting in the Latorice Palace last night, was informed by the Premier that it must maintain the party in the highest state of efficiency. He declared that the international battle having been won there was now the graver battle with foreign countries. It was natural that all countries upholding the principle of fraternity without real brotherhood of equality, without peace of liberty and without independence should confederate against Italy.

He Calls On Young Men
The Premier said he foresaw a plan to isolate Italy, but he said: "We will win, because we have three million youths."

Applause greeted the Premier as he concluded.

"Tomorrow I will greet you on board the flagship of Italy. I have given order to turn to page 5, col. 3, please."

Witnesses were here before the body Wednesday from Hale Center, others appeared today from Waco, and still others are to come from Corsicana, the clerk said. The nature of the official probes has not been disclosed, but court attaches intimated that possibly a score or more of indictments may come out of the closely guarded sessions.

FEDERAL LAWYER AGAIN ON STAND IN PRO LAW WAR

85 JUDGES ARE NEEDED IN GOTHAM A FEDERAL PROSECUTOR SAYS

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Apr. 8.—Federal District Attorney Buckner of New York told the Senate liquor committee today that enforcement of the prohibition law in New York is impossible unless officials are permitted to handle petty cases without trial by jury.

"I can't enforce the prohibition law, which is essentially a police law," said the District Attorney, "without the right of police court trial."

Would Need 85 Judges
"If we are to enforce this law under jury trial, I should have 85 federal judges in my district alone."

"Then you want to abolish the constitutional right of a jury trial," asked Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri.

"I won't answer that with the word 'constitutionality' in it," Buckner replied.

"Well, the right of jury trial," "I say petty offenses should be tried in police courts."

"Perhaps we ought to abolish every Anglo-Saxon right to prevent somebody from selling a glass of beer," retorted Reed.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 8.—Federal District Attorney Buckner of New York again was summoned to the witness stand today by the wets as they went into the fourth day of the week of hearings accorded them by the Senate liquor committee. His testimony was followed closely by dry leaders who took copious notes in preparation for their turn before the committee next week.

Buckner was questioned sharply about his statement yesterday that sixty million gallons of alcohol are diverted annually to the bootleg trade, making a business of a value of $3,000,000,000.

Means Questions Him
"How do you arrive at that figure?" asked Chairman Means. "If that is accurate I would like to know."

Buckner said government statistics showed 21,000,000 gallons of alcohol withdrawn for industrial purposes during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920, and $8,000,000 gallons in 1925.

"A careful study by one of my assistants of the legitimate use of alcohol in industry," he said, "shows that the increase for legitimate purposes was 1,000,000 gallons a year."

COL. MULLICAN MARRIES TODAY

Mrs. Myrtle Penny and Judge Of District Court Wed and Leave On Extended Trip

In a simple ceremony, performed by Rev. Walter P. Jennings, pastor of the First Christian church, Mrs. Myrtle Penny became the bride of Colonel Clark M. Mullican, judge of the 72nd Judicial District of Texas, at seven o'clock this morning. The ceremony took place in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lon A. Mullican, 416 Avenue T. Lon Mullican is Colonel Mullican's brother.

Immediately following the marriage Judge and Mrs. Mullican left for a tour of the Gulf states but other than saying they expected to spend their time in the South and East, did not divulge their itinerary. Judge Mullican hinted, however, that there was a possibility of their visiting Florida and Cuba before returning here after a period of two months time.

Mrs. Mullican's health improved from a serious and protracted illness at the West Texas Hospital where she has been for more than six weeks. The itinerary covers a period of two months and is planned under the supervision of her physician calling for an immediate change of climate and altitude, and an extended and complete rest.

Judge Mullican expressed his regret at forsaking his court at the beginning of a very busy term, but said he felt that inasmuch as he has devoted nearly his entire life to the service of the public, either civil or military, the public in turn owes to him this short period of time in the interest of the health of his wife. His message to the bar is to elect a special judge and to "carry on" until his return.

The wedding was a quiet affair, only members of the immediate families and a few friends being present.

LIGHTNING BOLT STARTS FIRE IN MIDST OF TANKS

$12,000,000 LOST WHEN CRUDE IS BURNED IN CALIFORNIA

(By The Associated Press)
SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Apr. 8.—A. H. Seebor, and his son, William F. Seebor, were found dead today about 300 yards from one of the large burning oil reservoirs of the Union Oil Company.

Early today when number 7 reservoir boiled over, the blazing oil river ran down an adjoining creek bed for a distance of a quarter of a mile until it struck level ground and there burned itself out.

Dirt Banks Piled Up
Gangs of men were rushed to the creek and began throwing dirt barricades to prevent the flaming river reaching the boildover.

Several farms nearby have been deserted by their occupants and these ranches are expected to be directly in the path of the running oil when the next big reservoir boils over, probably some time during the day.

Twelve Million At Stake
The total amount of oil afloat or unaccounted for six million barrels worth $2 per barrel, an aggregate of $12,000,000.

The six reservoirs burned, exclusive of the surface tanks, have a capacity of approximately 5,750,000 barrels, and cost to build about fifty cents per barrel of capacity, or $2,875,000.

The largest reservoir covers eight acres, and is thirty feet deep, twelve feet being above ground, and 18 feet below the surface.

Accurate estimates of loss in the surface tank field of 19 tanks at present is impossible, since the cloud of smoke prevents observers from even guessing how many of these are afloat, and the lines of spectators are kept back a half mile from the burning oil farm.

VALERA SUSPECTS ARE ARRESTED

ABILENE, April 8. (AP)—Two men and a woman are being held here for Coleman county officers in connection with the robbery of the First State bank of Valera last Monday afternoon. About two thousand dollars in currency was taken from one of the men.

The young woman is being held merely for questioning, the officers said.

The young woman was released and permitted to return to her home at Cisco early this afternoon.

DRIVE FOR BIRTH REGISTRATIONS UNDER WAY

Efforts of health officials of Lubbock county and the city of Lubbock to bring the county into the birth registration area are meeting with good success, it was reported Thursday by Miss Anna Bruckner, public health nurse who is taking the lead in the campaign that is being conducted with the county-wide clean-up drive that is now under way.

Good cooperation is being given the movement by teachers of all schools in the county. The teachers are sending notes to parents by children urging that if births have not been registered, steps be taken at once to do so. Nine births were registered Wednesday at the office of Miss Bruckner. Station has joined in the campaign and teachers in the schools there have adopted the same methods of assisting.

To be in the registration area, ninety per cent of the births in any given territory must have been registered with the state health board, Miss Bruckner said. At the present Lubbock county only has 48 per cent, just a little more than half of the required percentage before recognized by the state board.

Rollo Assists With Baby Clinic Today

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE AND MANY LEADING NEWSPAPERMEN AID IN PRESS CLUB CEREMONIAL TODAY

TEN MILLION DOLLAR BUILDING BEING ERECTED FOR PRESS HOME IN WASHINGTON UNDERGOES CORNERSTONE-LAYING CEREMONIES

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Apr. 8.—The President of the United States and spokesmen for the press of North and South America will take part late today in the laying of the cornerstone of the $10,000,000 building which is to be erected here as a home for the National Press Club.

The national character of the club will be typified through the participation of President Coolidge and of editors and publishers from all parts of the country, and its broader aspects as a Washington center for newspapermen of all countries will be emphasized by the attendance of Latin-American legates for the Congress of Journalists. After wielding the silver trowel, President Coolidge will deliver his second address of the day to a group of newspapermen, his first appearance at the morning session of the Pan-American Union. He will be followed this afternoon by Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, and Arturo Pellerano of Santo Domingo, representing Latin America, and the ceremonial will be broadcast by a series of radio stations which are expected to carry the addresses throughout the United States and into South America.

The building, which is to stand at the corner of F and 14th Street, the site of the old Ebbitt House, across from the New Willard Hotel, in one of the most valuable sections of Washington, will contain quarters for the press club on the top two stories, with nine hours of office and theatre space below. It will be the largest privately owned office building in the city.

The press club has not invested in the building directly, the financing being made possible through a bonding arrangement facilitated by the agreement of many Washington representatives and organizations of newspapers throughout the country to lease offices in it, thereby assuring that it would be filled from the start.

Many newspaper publishers throughout the country also indicated their interest by purchasing stock. With the offices occupied close to capacity at all times, it has been estimated that in 17 years the club itself will own the building.

RESPECTED CITIZEN FACES A CHARGE Past Life Brought Up On Slayer OF MURDER; FRIENDS WILL BACK HIM

(By Associated Press) RACINE, Wis., April 8.—James Greco is back home to stand trial for murder. He sits in the county jail here a few cells removed from his brother, Arthur, who, by one of life's strange chances, also awaits trial for murder.

And by a chance still stranger, one of the guardsmen at the jail is a brother of the accused man, William Greco, captain of the Racine county motorcycle squad.

Conditions Are Dramatic. Few men have ever walked into the county jail here under conditions more dramatic than those which confronted James Greco.

Once he was candidate for sheriff. Before that he was a deputy sheriff. And he came back to the town which he fled two years ago with the confidence of citizens of Oelwein, Iowa, in which he buried the past and started life anew. He is recognized as one of the leading citizens of Oelwein, where he dropped off a freight train when he fled from police seeking the slayer of Sam East, who was shot during an argument on New Year's even, 1923. He worked as a mechanic and later bought a garage. His business prospered.

Friends Behind Him. Recently detectives went to Oelwein and arrested George Coffey, as he was known there. Friends rallied to his support and offered to stand him in his defense. When he departed, city officials, including the mayor, were at the station to wish him good luck.

Greco expresses confidence that he will be acquitted. Arthur Greco is held on a charge of slaying his brother-in-law.

Jap Maidens Are Against Marriage Plan Now In Use

TOKYO, April 8. (AP)—The modern Japanese girl—a graduate of a girl's high school—disclosed—does not favor the present day system under which most of the marriages are "arranged."

In opposition to the prevailing mode, fifty-three girls in one school said that to marry men of whom they had no previous knowledge was dangerous. Sixteen were opposed because the present custom ignores the sentiments of the ones to be married. Ten objected to the use of a go-between to make arrangements and all agreed that the marriage question should be more seriously considered.

Ranking preferences for husbands were government officials first and then, in order, business men, educators, farmers, physicians and army officers.

FOUNTAINS HERE MAY ADOPT USE OF PAPER CUPS

Patrons of soda fountains of the city of Lubbock soon may be obliged to drink from paper cups or not at all as the result of the work of a committee headed by Mrs. A. H. Leidigh, which has partially canvassed the city in the interest of having the fountains adopt the use of individual cups exclusively.

The larger percentage of the managers of fountains here were seen by the committee Wednesday, and will but one exception they all agreed to use paper cups in preference to sterilizing glasses after each time they are used. The committee continued its work today.

It has been explained that there is a state law requiring either the use of individual paper cups or the sterilization of glasses after each use, and that it is the intention of officials to see that the law is enforced. Officials believe, and this belief is concurred in by most fountain managers, that it is cheaper to use the paper cups than to sterilize glasses, and for this reason it is believed that paper cups will be adopted.

Interesting Facts about Gasoline

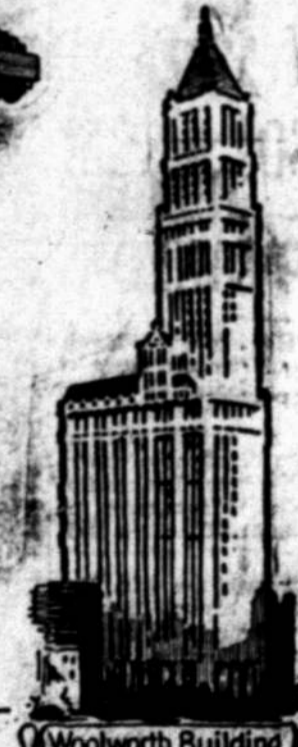

The Energy in a Gallon of Gasoline

There is enough heat energy in a gallon of gasoline to lift a carload of coal as high as the Woolworth Building—800 feet! In fact, enough energy to lift the entire Woolworth Building 5 1/2 inches above its foundations!

Enough energy to propel a Ford touring car 450 miles along a level paved road at 20 miles per hour! Why, then do we not get more miles per gallon of gas than we do!

Because of friction and the imperfection of automobile motors. Only 5 per cent of the energy in gasoline is actually used to propel our cars; the balance is lost.

To help you get more miles per gallon out of your gas we intend publishing a series of ads containing such information. Watch for them, beginning next week.

'Mugsy' McGraw, 53, Says World Series Will See Giants Pitted Against Senators; Has Birthday

(By the Associated Press.)
 Rain has scored one more victory over many of the homeward bound big league baseball teams but the most recent unsettled weather had not dampened the spirits of the players.
 The club owners and members are looking forward to the most promising season in years and their enthusiasm was expressed yesterday by baseball's "master mind," John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. It was the veteran leader's fifty-third birthday anniversary. He predicted the 1926 world series would be played by his team and the Washington Senators, who defeated the Giants in the 1924 classic.
 "Prosperity is forecast," the New York boss forecast an era of baseball prosperity which will soon bring stadium seating at least 100,000 fans in every major league city.

Today is the birthday anniversary of Hughie Jennings, for many years a prominent figure in baseball. He is now in Asheville, N. C. and the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, unable to play there yesterday because of rain had him a visit.
 The Giants and Senators, rained out yesterday at Augusta, Ga., will resume their series today at Atlanta.

Tigers Invade Nashville
 Detroit Tigers, who again defeated Birmingham yesterday, invaded Nashville today for a two game stand. Harry Heilmann, outfielder, who has been ill, will join the squad Saturday. The St. Louis Browns, the other team to get into action yesterday when they beat Nashville, start a series with Memphis today. Williams heavy hitting Brown, pounced out on the Cardinals yesterday.
 The Philadelphia Phillies have taken exception to the Athletics' claim to city championship, claiming game won in Florida have no bearing. Threatening weather caused postponement of yesterday's contest but the series will be resumed today.

Rigney To Red Sox
 Boston's two teams meet each other Monday at Boston. Ethme and Zarnke are to hurl for the Red Sox. Acquisition of Shortstop Rigney from Detroit is expected to greatly strengthen the junior leaguers. Aldrich I. stated to pitch the opening game for the Pittsburgh Pirates against the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday. The Cardinals' hitting staff as a whole is ready for the mound. Donohue will probably get the mound call for the Cincinnati Reds' opening game.
 Johnny Hodapp, injured Cleveland Indian pitcher, had his fractured leg examined in the home city yesterday and learned that he also has some ligament trouble. His team mate spent the day in practice at New Orleans, with Pitchers Uble, Shaute, Decker, Speece and Weldon doing some hard work.

Faber Pitches Today
 Red Faber, veteran Chicago White Sox slaban, is expected to go the full route today against Evansville Ind. Weather permitting, the Chicago Cubs will open a four-game series at Kansas City today.
 Manager McCarthy announced Conroy would be a short instead of Shannon and that the batting order would be changed.

RIGNEY GOES TO RED SOX FROM DETROIT

EX-PANTHER STAR JOINS BOSTON CLUB SAY DISPATCHES

Emory 'Topper' Rigney, former star Texas A. and M. athlete and one time idol of the Fort Worth baseball team, who for the past several years has flourished in the shortstop with Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers, has been sold to the Boston Red Sox in the American League, Associated Press dispatches to the Journal said today.
 Rigney, who is regarded by close followers of the game as one of the greatest infielders to go to the majors from the Texas circuit, has been dissatisfied with conditions at Detroit for the past two years and this spring refused to report to the Cobbers, due to salary and personal differences with the fiery Tiger leader. While visiting relatives here last Fall Rigney told the Journal that both the Yankees and White Sox had attempted to purchase him but Cobb had turned a deaf ear to the propositions he stated at the time that nothing would please him better than to be sold to some other team.
 Due to an injury to his back he did not play regularly with the Benches last year. 'Topper' Taymer, another Fort Worth product, filling in for him at shortstop. At the present time Rigney is in Greenville, where his father, mother and wife reside.
 F. N. Rigney, of Lubbock, father of 'Little Topper' Rigney, Tech Matador second sacker, is an uncle of the famous infielder. The Rigney family resides at 1916 Ninth street and moved here last summer from Leonard, Pannin county.

In joining the Red Sox Rigney is reasonably sure of a permanent berth although Dudley Lee, the present Red Sox shortstop, is one of the great fielding shortstops in the game. Lee who went up from the Tulsa club of the Western League in 1922, has been handicapped by an injured knee ever since landing in the big show, and is a weak hitter. Rigney has always been a good fielder and a particularly strong hitter for a shortstop.

WESTERNERS LOSE TO TIGERS ON SLATON FIELD

The Lubbock high school Westerners booted away their first scheduled baseball encounter of the season Wednesday afternoon when they met the Slaton Tigers on Tiger field. In spite of the fact that Oveston Dillard, ace right hander of the Westerners held the Tigers to six safes and struck out fifteen of them during the nine innings, while his teammates were hitting two Tiger mound men for 11 safes, he was charged with the loss of an 8 to 7 contest.
 Four of the Westerners "win balls" fell on infielders, and were' exceptionally costly, and the other was a fly to outfield with men on bases. Only 35 men faced Dillard during the performance, and fifteen of them, nearly fifty per cent were called out on strikes.

A four run lead which the Westerners had at the close of their half of the fourth inning proved insufficient as the Tigers opened up a heavy onslaught of hitting. To start the season Smith dropped a long fly from the stick of Stone, and a succession of singles, errors, and one walk netted five runs to put the Tigers in the lead in the sixth the same manner of process gave the Tigers three more runs and although the Westerners drove in three runs in the seventh, they could not overcome the lead.

GALVESTON GOLF LINKS MISTY TODAY

GALVESTON, April 8. (AP)—A slight mist was falling today as Mrs. John Lapham of San Antonio, favorite to win the state championship, teed off in the second round of the championship flight.
 Mrs. Lapham was opposed by Mrs. F. E. Pharr of Texarkana, who, though playing in her first Texas title tourney, has made a most impressive showing.
 Other second round contests were between Mrs. Rufus Fenner Scott of Paris, and Mrs. S. G. Hopkins of Texarkana, the champion of Arkansas Mrs. I. J. Morris, Dallas and Mrs. George Thompson, Fort Worth; Mrs. Berta Maxcey, Houston and Mrs. L. W. Magruder, Waco.

Mrs. Scott Stars
 GALVESTON, Apr. 8. (AP)—Splendid nibble recovers from the bunkers today aided Mrs. Rufus Fenner Scott, Jr., of Paris in winning her way to the semi-finals of the state links championship over Mrs. S. G. Hopkins of Texarkana, Arkansas champion.

TRAILING THE BIG LEAGUERS

Giants Sure To Be At Their Best In This Year's Race For Pennant

(By BILLY EVANS)
 "I fear New York more than any club in the National League," is the way Rogers Hornsby speaks of the Giants.

"It is a much better ball club than it showed last year. It isn't going to have the same run of injuries and illness."

"And, with all due respect to Hughie Jennings as a leader, I hope the Giants are at least 20 per cent stronger with McGraw directing the ball club."

"I regretted very much when I learned that illness might keep Hughie Jennings out of the game for the year."

"If it will bring McGraw actively back into the game, I deplore it all the more."

GREAT BALL CLUB
 "The Giants with John McGraw sitting in the grandstand or down in Florida looking after some of his real estate deals is a very, very good ball club. The Giants with John McGraw coaching on the bench or out on the catching lines is a great ball club."

"McGraw dominates the ball game and his team as does no other manager in baseball. He seems able to get just a little bit more out of every player than the ordinary leader. He never overlooks a bet."

"Dumb baseball with McGraw sitting on the bench is practically unheard of. He knows what he wants done and he sees to it that his players follow his dictates."

A year ago McGraw announced that he hoped to shortly retire from active work. Last season he put the direction of the club up to Jennings.

He was on the bench only a certain part of the time and never appeared on the coaching lines.

CHANGED HIS PLANS
 The illness that will probably keep McGraw's assistant out of the game all summer has apparently changed his intentions about retiring.

In spring training McGraw has been out in uniform and has personally directed the routine of same as well as the handling of the spring games.

McGraw felt that he had the best ball club last year. He wanted to win a fifth pennant. Failure to do so was a keen disappointment.

Forced to change his plans at the very last moment, due to the sudden and unexpected illness of Hughie Jennings, McGraw has decided to take another whirl at directing play, even to the tailing of practically every ball pitched.

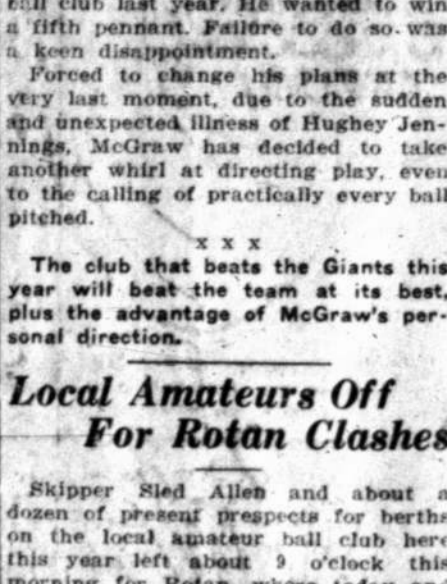

xxx
 The club that beats the Giants this year will beat the team at its best, plus the advantage of McGraw's personal direction.

Local Amateurs Off For Rotan Clashes

Skipper Sled Allen and about a dozen of present prospects for berths on the local amateur ball club here this year left about 9 o'clock this morning for Rotan, where today and tomorrow they engage the Rotan high school team in a couple of diamond battles.

Vernon Underhill, who repeatedly has said that he is going to play again this year with the local club, but who yet has not made what is considered a final decision in the matter, will appear against the Hubbers in at least one of the contests. Underhill is not attending school at Rotan, and his team is expected to make a strong bid for state baseball championship this year.

Vets Coaching Dodgers

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity, who at 55 pitched baseball games with all the vigor and precision of a young recruit, and Joe Kelly, another diamond veteran, are now putting the Brooklyn Dodgers through their spring training paces at Clearwater, Fla. McGinnity is the one on the right in the accompanying photo.

COOLIDGE SPEAKS TO CONGRESS OF JOURNALISTS

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—President Coolidge, in addressing today the First Pan-American Congress of Journalists which assembled at the Pan-American Union, urged that the gatherings be held frequently as a means of drawing together the peoples of the western hemisphere.

Speaking of the increased interchange of news among the American nations in recent years, Mr. Coolidge declared this awakening of interest had been "one of the most important factors in bringing about a better understanding" of the several countries.

"I venture the prediction," he added "that as a result of this Congress the papers in the United States in the future will present more complete and more accurate pictures of the cultural and industrial progress of Latin America, and that the press of those Republics will give to their readers a better understanding of the ideals and purposes of the United States."

"If all our citizens here do not yet realize fully that Latin America is as progressive as the United States; and if some Latin Americans, as I have been told in the case, are prone to feel that this country is interested in material things alone, I am sure it may be explained by the lack of that knowledge which comes from personal contact through travel and by the mutual inadequacy of the news reports of the significant facts and developments in the respective countries."

The Congress, Mr. Coolidge said, should result in a better comprehension that, "after all, we of the Western Hemisphere are one people striving for a common purpose, animated by common ideals and bound together in a common destiny. Unto us has been bequeathed the precious heritage and the high obligation of developing and consecrating a new world to the great cause of humanity."

Speaking particularly to the delegates present from other countries Mr. Coolidge expressed the hope that their visit to this country "will be beneficial to you by reason of what you may learn of our general mode of life."

In referring to the ideals and purposes of the Pan-American Union he said the newspapermen "may do much to emphasize and make more effective the efforts of this organization to bring the United States and the Latin American Republics into closer bonds of mutual helpfulness."

AZTEC TONGUE IS USED IN RADIO ADDRESSES

MEXICO CITY, April 8. (AP)—Addresses in Aztec now take the air in Mexico, a part of the Department of Education's campaign of "education by radio."

Tongues that were old when Cortez conquered this country four hundred years ago are used in the broadcasting of instructive talks in half a dozen Indian languages and dialects, for the benefit of the many natives throughout the Republic who still cling to an Indian language.

The government has distributed receiving sets to Indian villages or districts. From all the surrounding region men, women and children flock to the place where a local headman has charge of the government's "magic box which catches winged words from afar." There, upon stated occasions, they listen to advice and instruction, spoken in their own tongue, by a department of Education expert in Mexico City at CZE station.

The Maya, Otomi, Matlincas, Zapotec, Mexicas and other tribal languages have been used as well as Aztec, which is still a living language in parts of Mexico, although perhaps unappreciated in its pre-conquest purity. An elaborate program of educational addresses in Spanish is also part of the program, varied with concerts by some of Mexico's best musicians.

YOUR BOY AT COLLEGE

What is the boy doing at college,
What does he like? Yale recently made a survey of its seniors to find out. Here is your typical Yale senior:

He does not believe in prohibition.
He prefers a good stiff game of tennis to golf. He would rather watch a football game than any other sport except hockey. Mussolini would claim his attention as the biggest world figure today. President Coolidge and Charles Evans Hughes would be the men he most admired. He would smoke, for he did before he came to college. He would have considered English his most valuable study and psychology the least useful.

His favorite novel is Tom Jones.
His favorite authors are Dumas and Sabalini. He enjoys reading "If and The Dauber," or something by Mass-field or Browning. For an evening's entertainment at the theatre he likes John Barrymore, Jane Cowl, George Arliss, Ina Claipe.

THE MAYFIELD BILL

The senate interstate commerce commission has favorably reported Senator Mayfield's bill to repeal a section of the Esch-Cummins act of 1920 by which the interstate commerce commission was given authority over extension of existing rail lines.

If the bill passes in both branches it means that the interstate commerce commission will no longer be able to deny the people of Texas and other states the right to construct new rail lines insofar as they constitute extensions of existing roads.

Railroad construction in every state in the Union has been held at a minimum ever since the I. C. C. was given the veto power over extensions, even though every foot of such extensions happened to be within the borders of one state.

The Mayfield bill would give Texas
the right to pass upon its own railroad building problems, without the consent of Washington.

people showed in me. They were so kind."

She will be sent to another penitentiary, on Welfare Island. The sentence there may be longer, as the maximum is greater. That's up to the parole board. She's taking the chance. Her shame may be honest.
She deserves the benefit of the doubt.

A Tough Baby

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
AUDREY, adopted daughter of HARRY MORTON, middle-aged, wealthy, handsome, is in love with him and wants him to marry her.
Morton, whose business the town gossips never have learned, maintains a home in Peoria and an extensive apartment in Chicago.
NONA, also in love with Morton, has offended him in a jealous rage—comes to ask forgiveness, and is confronted by Audrey, who declares her love.

Morton hires JOHN PARRISH as his secretary, instructing Parrish to study music and dancing so he can be a companion to Audrey. He takes Parrish to dinner, but when he leaves the two together, she dismisses Parrish and demands of Morton whether he is trying to marry her to Parrish, and if he loves Nona.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER X
Except in moments of great passion when the habits of years are swept aside, it is the custom of men to ward off emotional crisis. Women instinctively expose their souls when they are with the men they love. Men never do, when they can avoid it.

Following his masculine instinct, Morton sought to divert the conversation.

"I received an important piece of news this evening, Audrey," he said.
"My income has increased about fifty or sixty thousand dollars a year."
The girl was not to be shaken.
"Money does not count between you and me," she said. "I'm glad you have succeeded, in whatever it is. I'm glad if it makes you happier. But daddy, dear, won't you answer my two questions?"

Morton sought an additional moment or two to think. "Tell me the questions again."

"Are you trying to marry me to John Parrish?" she asked.

"No," he said. "I don't love anybody."

"Do you love Nona?" she asked.
"No," he said. "I don't love anybody."

"Do you love me?" she asked.
"Yes," he said. "I love you."

"Then why—?" she began. But he interrupted.

"I CAN'T marry you, Audrey!" he cried. "There are reasons why I can't do it—I simply cannot. It can never be! Absolutely!"

"The girl came to him, and held him by the arm."

"Is it Nona?" she asked, her voice so low he scarcely could hear it.
"You're a young girl, Audrey," he said. "There are things you don't know about—things you can't know about. You are a young girl, and I can't tell you about them. But Audrey, darling—I can't marry you!"

She still held to his arm, and lifted her face to him, pleadingly.

"I know—some things," she said softly. "And daddy, if you love me, I'm ready to forgive anything, and overlook anything, and forget anything. I know this—"

She drew him a little closer to her.
"I know that if you did anything —anything you can't tell me, you didn't do it to hurt anybody. That's the only thing that is evil. You told me so yourself!"

Absently, more to himself than to her, he said: "I didn't mean to hurt anybody."

"Do you love Nona?" she asked.
"Morton's favorite motion, when par-tled, was to brush the bridge of his nose with his fingers. He did this now."

"Do you?" she insisted.

"I like Nona," he said. Again he touched his nose, as if to drive from her a breath as she waited for him to speak. The look of triumph that flamed in her face a moment before had disappeared, and as he still declined his answer, there came a drop of misery to her lips.

"Do you love her better than you do me?" she asked.

"You won't go around with them any more, will you?"

He threw his arms far about, waved
his hands with a resigned gesture
and started up the stairs.

"I ought to have learned by this time never to debate with a woman," he said over the banister. "I'm never going to do so again, so help me!
Good night!"

He threw his arms far about, waved
his hands with a resigned gesture
and started up the stairs.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

CAPITAL IS FULL OF PEOPLE WHO WANT "THEIR RIGHTS"
By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Folk who "want their rights" are the curse of Washington. The town's full of them, trying to get things out of the government — money generally — that they think they have legitimately coming to them.

They clutter up the departments.
They persecute senators and representatives. They try to see the president. They mug the life half out of anybody and everybody they can get to listen to them.

Unmitigated pests, that's what they are.

The worst of it is that a lot of these unfortunates have real grievances. It isn't imagination on their part. They have suffered actual injustice.

Official promises they've had made to them have been broken. They can not get their pay for public services they've performed. They've been deprived of property without due process of law. They've been thimble-rigged out of patent or copyright interests. Departmental rulings have been unfair to them.

On these plenty of ways of being run over and trampled on by the government, or its factotums, but when it comes to getting any notice taken of the injuries you've sustained, you're up against an awful proposition.

Of course all this is assuming that the kicker is comparatively uninfluential.

Barrels of money or a strong political pull get prompt attention, even in some rather dubious cases. Folk with money and a pull, however, are not included among the nuisances.
They're waited on and go off about

Everett True By Condo

"I ought to have learned by this time never to debate with a woman," he said over the banister. "I'm never going to do so again, so help me! Good night!"

Mr. Parrish, and do you love Nona?"
Her eyes widened as she looked anxiously into his. "Tell me, dear."

Morton crossed the back of his hand. "I always think of you as a child," he confessed. "It is hard for me to realize that I am talking to a woman—a grown woman." He paused.
"I promised you I would talk about Parrish. All right?"

He got up, crossed the room, and selected a cigar from the humidor that lay on a table beside the organ.
Lighting it, he puffed reflectively, and returned to his seat.

"Here goes," he said. "I am the only man you ever have seen in all your life, except for a few casual contacts."

"You are young, it is the instinct of young things to seek a mate. Young human beings are not unlike puppy dogs, and kittens. They are affectionate, and bestow their love on the person nearest at hand. That's what you've done, Audrey dear."

The girl made a sweeping motion of protest. "It isn't so—it isn't so!"
she cried. "I love you because you are the most wonderful man in the world! You are the only man in the world I ever COULD love!"

"I'm older than you are," Morton told her. "I really know what I'm talking about. I've always had you with me, because if I have my pleasure to show you pretty sights, and buy you pretty things, it was a mistake, maybe." She shook her head but went on. "I'm too old to be a mate for a girl as young as you. I'm not aged, of course—my health is good, and all that. But the gap of years between us is a wide one. It cannot be bridged. When a girl of your age, and a man of mine, are married, they wander down through life on opposite sides of a great chasm."

"Don't you love me?" she asked quickly.

Morton took her in his arms. "Of course, I love you! It would be impossible for anybody on earth to love you more than I do."

Her voice rang out triumphantly.
"Then why SHOULDNT we be married? If you love me, and I love you better than everything else on earth that's all that counts!" Her voice dropped on the last two words, and a startled look appeared in her face.
"But maybe you love Nona better?
Daddy, do you love Nona better?"
Morton rubbed his knee slowly with the palm of his hand, she scarcely checked for five thousand dollars and bring it in for me to sign. Then I want you to take it down to the bank and get it cashed in large bills—get five bills for a thousand each. Take the money and carry it to this address."

He took a scratch pad and hurriedly penciled a memorandum.

"Here is the street number, and the number of an apartment," he continued. "You will find a young woman there."

"Tell her I want her to take this five thousand dollars and buy with it either a ring or a necklace. Tell her to buy only one article of jewelry—it must be a good one."

Parrish hesitated. "What name shall I ask for, sir?" he asked.

"Don't ask for any name at all," Morton said tersely. "Go to the apartment and give the money to the young woman who answers the door. Give her my message. That's all!"

Parrish did not move.

"Go ahead, man," Morton ordered his eyebrow rising.

"I don't think I ought to, sir," said
Parrish.

"What?"

"I don't believe I want to go on errands of that kind," Parrish repeated, deliberately.

Morton rose hastily to his feet.
Then, as if considering, he sank back in his chair, and fixed his eyes on the young man. Parrish was fumbling uncertainly with an inkwell on the desk, and did not meet his employer's gaze.

"You have not yet written the check
I told you to write," Morton said, quietly. "Go and write it, and bring it in to me, and I'll sign it."

Parrish left the room, and in a minute or two was back, with the slip of green paper. Morton took the check, and scratched his name at the bottom.
"Now, take it to this address as I told you before."

Parrish eyed the paper that his employer held out to him, but he did not take it.

"I won't go," he said.

PRESIDENT MAIN SPEAKER FOR PRESS MEN

PAN-AMERICAN PRESS HAS FIRST MEETING AT WASHINGTON

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—With President Coolidge the principal speaker, the first Pan-American Congress of Journalists was embarked upon a quest of studying the various problems confronting the press of the 21 republics represented with a view to working for a better understanding among their nations.

A report by Dr. Jorge A. Mitre of Lanacion, Buenos Aires, on "the press and international relations," provided the basis for the first actual work of the Congress. Greater interchange of news, development of a Pan-American art center in New York and embracing about closer understanding among the nations of the two continents.

Press is Praised

"No other vehicle is comparable to the press for the development of closer relations between the American republics," it said. "We must at once recognize the preponderance that the great news agencies of the United states assume in the informative regiment. To them without any doubt is owing the origin of the principle that a news agency is not an institution of propaganda, nor does, nor can serve any other interest than that of furnishing the most faithfully exact and complete news it is able to procure."

Little attention is given in the United States, Dr. Mitre found, to events of inter-continental interest.

Emphasizing the need for devoting greater space in the newspapers to economic and financial developments in the various republics, Dr. Mitre reviewed the inter-lacing of financial relations between Latin American and the United States as one of the most satisfactory manifestations of our increasing significance and capacity.

'HARD GOLD' FOUND OF MUCH VALUE TO DENTISTS

WICHITA FALLS, APRIL 8. (AP)—

"Hard Gold" has reduced pain in filling teeth by making possible a smaller cavity according to Dr. K. W. Knapp of Minneapolis who will present the latest information along this line at the Texas State Dental society convention which meets here April 27-29.

"Hard gold" he explains in an advance outline of one of his talks, is a combination of gold and other metals which possess great strength and hardness.

"When solid gold is used," he said, "it is necessary to have the metal quite thick so that it will stand up under the strain of biting. This means that the cavity will have to be deepened enough to get enough bulk of gold to withstand the strain.

"During the last few years research workers in the dental field have discovered combinations of gold with other metals which possess great strength and hardness, so that in dental practice today it is possible to make very shallow cavities and fill them with one of these hard golds in the form of inlays which will stand up even under great strain in chewing.

"This has led to a decided change in the form of the cavity from that which formerly was used in that it is not necessary to go so deeply into the tooth toward the nerve to get the bulk.

"The consequence is that cavities prepared after this manner can be made with practically no pain at all to the patient, which is of course a great boon, because one of the things most people dread about having dental work done is the necessity for having to bear pain."

Another benefit of the hard gold is that the nerve has greater protection from heat and cold, he said.

"Like most other metals, gold conducts heat and cold very readily, so that hot coffee or cold water will cause constant shocking of the nerve, which if long continued may cause the nerve to die under the filling," he explained. "But by using these hard golds and keeping away from the nerve, although such a filling also conducts heat and cold, it does not conduct it so close to the nerve, and the nerve therefore does not suffer these little shocks."

Dr. E. W. Smith of Dallas, chairman of the publicity committee, announces that an unusually valuable and attractive program has been prepared, consisting of lectures and papers with a special clinic course, which will consist of demonstrations to limited groups of members upon the technique of various phases of dental practice by specially selected instructors.

The hours of the convention will be much occupied by the lectures and clinic work of these instructors to meet here in a ten-round session, which will consist of demonstrations to limited groups of members upon the technique of various phases of dental practice by specially selected instructors.

ACTOR HAS MANY MEMORIES OF CAREER

FORBES-ROBERTSON MADE LOVE ON STAGE FOR FIFTY YEARS

LONDON, April 8. (AP)—Fifty years of love-making on the English-speaking stage with many of the world's greatest actresses has left Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson memories of beauty and charm rarely equalled by persons in the theatre.

Ellen Terry, Modjeska, Mary Anderson, Adelaide Neilson, Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Marion Terry are among those who received his stage-wooing.

As an off-stage lover, the famous actor centered his attention upon the beautiful Gertrude Elliott, sister of Maine Elliott—for whom a New York theatre now is named—and she became his wife.

Modjeska and Ellen Terry are spoken of by Forbes-Robertson in a manner which shows they especially appealed to his fancy.

Modjeska's mastery of six languages and thorough knowledge of the literature of all of them, as well as her rare gifts as an actress, impressed the Romance of forty years ago. Their performance of Romeo and Juliet in a beautiful garden in Cornwall, he said was the forerunner of outdoor performances of classic plays which have become so popular throughout the world.

He ranked Modjeska in the forefront of the great actresses he has seen.

Ellen Terry's youthful beauty estranged the actor.

"That was in the days when open-faced Victorian beauties were in fashion," said Forbes-Robertson. "Miss Terry's beauty was not appreciated by the man in the street. Only artists and sculptors worshipped at her feet.

"As time went on, however, her particular beauty became a sort of vogue, and I once heard Whistler say of her: 'For love of Nell, I'd go to Hell!'"

But in days the actor first mentioned, Englishmen loved open-faced women with sloping shoulders and with their hair worn down on both sides of their face, and the average man missed all the beauty of the tall, slender, erect Miss Terry with her great mass of golden red hair arranged in artistic confusion, and her narrow, sensitive face and dreamy eyes.

Forbes-Robertson was only twenty-one when he first acted with Miss Terry and she was five years his senior. She now is seventy-eight and is generally rated as the most beautiful old lady in England.

The Biggest Leased Wire System in the World

What The Associated Press Is

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS is an association of persons representing more than 1200 morning, evening and Sunday newspapers scattered throughout the United States, Alaska, Cuba, Costa Rica, Mexico, Hawaii, Philippines, Porto Rico, and Central and South America.

Its sole object is the collection and distribution of the important news of the world for publication in its member papers.

Each member contributes exclusively to the organization the news of his vicinage. News of all other countries in the world is gathered by staff men in centralized bureaus and in the field. In addition, there is available, through exclusive news-exchange contracts with the important foreign news agencies, all of the news that they gather.

80,000 individuals report news to THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

This news is distributed by leased wires. There are 55,000 miles of leased wires operated in the daytime, and 53,000 at night.

It is the greatest clearing house for news in the world. The number of words daily received and transmitted at each of the more important offices is over 75,000—the equivalent of 60 columns of the average newspaper.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS has no stock capital; it makes no profits and declares no dividends. The revenues reach an annual aggregate of $7,000,000 derived wholly from weekly assessments levied pro rata upon the members.

The members of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS are persons of every conceivable political, economic and religious advocacy. They demand accurate news; notwithstanding their varying opinions, they are united in one thing—that THE ASSOCIATED PRESS news service shall be wholly free from partisan activity; the news must be important, clean, and free from any tinge of propaganda. To this end the news is intentionally and necessarily subjected to the criticism of fifteen directors, twelve hundred members and, most important, the reading public.

It is the theory of THE ASSOCIATED PRESS that, in a self-governing country like ours, the citizens, if given the facts, must be able to form their own opinion and judgments respecting them.

ORIENT SALE IS GIVEN APPROVAL

SANTA FE IS PURCHASER OF UNIMPROVED RIGHT-OF-WAY IN KANSAS

KANSAS CITY, Apr. 8 (AP)—Federal Judge John C. Pollock yesterday signed the order approving the sale of 55 miles of unimproved right of way of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway company, between Eldorado and Emporia, Kansas, to the Santa Fe railroad company, a Santa Fe subsidiary. The price was $150,000, which will be paid to the government to be applied on the interest debt of the Orient for government loans.

In the agreement reached with the Santa Fe, the Orient is given the privilege of full operation of trains should track be laid and is decided to extend the Orient on to Emporia. In effect, therefore, it is a 55-mile link in the road between Wichita, Kansas, present northern terminus, and Kansas City.

The petition was presented by Clifford Histed, solicitor, and W. T. Kemper, receiver for the road. They had a group of capitalists that bought the Orient at a public sale two years ago. That order was approved by the court but is in litigation because of an appeal taken by the English noteholders contesting the sale.

Prison Too Small Prisoner Too Big, His Captors Find

PRESSBURG, Hungary, Apr. 8 (AP)—When the police arrested the former Roumanian deputy, Theophilus Barasac, for embezzlement, they found that they had their hands full in the truest sense of the term.

The prisoner's proportions and awkwardness were so generous that when he was to be weighed, according to the prevailing custom for prisoners held on remand, the scales were promptly smashed.

Not a single cell door proved large enough to admit a person of his dimensions.

As it was not deemed advisable to fasten the prisoner to a tree out-of-doors, or to confine him in the prison garage, the warden graciously offered to have a space in his private apartment partitioned off for the defendant's interim until he should be brought up for trial.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Apr. 8 (AP)—A terrific explosion of a Union Oil Company underground storage reservoir, one and a half miles south of here, which was struck by lightning today, broke hundreds of windows here and rocked the city. Hail Beats Down Laredo Onion Crop LAREDO, Tex., Apr. 8 (AP)—Nature in the vicinity of Laredo had onions on her breath today.

With hailstones on her teeth, the weather chewed up and destroyed more than 90 percent of the 1,300 acre onion crop South of Laredo.

Hail that drifted to depths varying from six to eight inches slashed the onions to pieces with thousands of dollars damage. Roy Campbell, customs collector of this district, one of the largest onion growers and shippers of the Laredo district, estimated today that only about five to ten percent of the crop can be salvaged.

Big onion farms North of Laredo escaped damage.

Tom Green Wins First Step In Bond Case

AUSTIN, Apr. 8 (AP)—The Supreme Court today granted motion of Tom Green county to file petition for mandamus against Attorney General Dan Moody to compel him to approve a $500,000 road bond issue. THE INSTITUTIONS OF TEXAS NEED ATTENTION

AUSTIN, April 8.—Unless the elementary institutions of Texas receive the immediate attention of experts, they will become an even greater financial burden to the state than they already are, said Dr. A. C. Ellis, professor of education in the University and a member of the commission appointed by the last legislature to make a close survey of those state institutions. Dr. Ellis said:

"The great defect of the Texas asylums lies in the fact that no attempt is being made to treat the inmates. There are 9,000 persons in the asylums of this state, and not one is being treated scientifically. There are five necessary things which authorities have recognized as essential to the treatment of mental diseases. First, the case must be discovered early. If the cases of mental diseases were recognized quickly enough, more than half of all such diseases could be cured. The poor results that we have had in this state are largely due to the fact that the case went too long without any treatment. In the second case the mental disease must be carefully diagnosed. And yet there is not a single asylum in Texas asylums who is capable of diagnosing mental diseases. The superintendent is paid the small salary of $2,500 a year, and is usually incapable of such work. In the third place, the matter of treatment is recognized by authorities as being vital in the cure of mental diseases. Hygiene, exercise, and food are very important. The state saved $10,000 the first year it employed capable dieticians to make out the bill of fare. It has also been recognized that occupational work will benefit the lunatic greatly. Yet out of 9,000 inmates only 40 are given any occupational work. Their utter loneliness is almost enough to drive a sane person out of his mind. The removing of fecal infections, such as tonsils and bad teeth, is quite important in the cure of the lunatic, and yet there is no provision made in Texas for such work. There is neither equipment nor trained nurses. A great part of the cure of the insane must be done by psychologists and psychiatrists, but in Texas there is not a single psychologist employed in the asylums."

Stocks And Money

WALL STREET REPORT. NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—Steel prices moved irregularly lower at the opening of today's market on a continuation of a profit taking by traders who had bought stocks "for a turn" and possibly some liquidation of stock previously purchased for supporting purposes. General Electric showed an initial loss of 1 1/2, Baldwin 1 1/2 and Hudson 1 while DuPont advanced a point and Philadelphia Company advanced fractionally to a new high level for the year.

Renewed selling of the motor shares turned the course of prices definitely downward soon after the opening. Jordan dropped 3 1/2 points, Nash 2 1/2 Hudson 2 1/2 and General Motors two in the first outbreak of selling. Equipments were freely offered despite reports of increasing railroad inquiries. Baldwin sagging two points and American Car and Foundry one. Fresh points of weakness also developed in the specialties, particularly those returning a low yield at current prices—General Electric, Woolworth, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, International Machine preferred and Famous Players—all fell back 1/2 to 3/4 points. Only a few issues moved against the general trend, among them Vanadium Steel, Leo Rubbe and Coca Cola foreign exchanges opened irregular. Demand sterling held firm around $4.85 11-16. French francs eased slightly to around 3.46 cents and Belgian francs, which soared nearly 20 points yesterday, fell back seven points to around 3.83 cents.

Gas Price Raised

NEW YORK, Apr. 8. (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today advanced the tank wagon price of gasoline one cent a gallon in New Jersey, Maryland and Washington, D. C., making the new quotation 17 cents. In West Virginia the price was advanced one-half cent a gallon also to 17 cents.

The Texas Company met the advance in Maryland and Washington. The Sinclair Refining Company has advanced the price of gasoline in railroad tank cars to 18 cents a gallon at New York, Philadelphia and all Atlantic coast terminals.

LONDON, April 8. (AP)—The tilt of Lord Beatty's hat is the copyright of two persons only in England—the Prince of Wales and Lord Beatty himself.

Lieutenant-General Sir William Puse is advising the boys of the Church Lads' Brigade, who are to be inspected by the prince in June, to remember to put their hats on straight and keep them straight.

"There are only two officers in the whole of the Empire," Sir William said "who are allowed to wear their uniform hats on, one side of their heads. One is the great Admiral Lord Beatty and the other the Prince of Wales."

"From the little I know of the Prince of Wales, if he sees anybody mimicking him, he will not give them such a nice report as he might otherwise," the speaker added.

BERLIN—It is rumored that Herr Wilhelm Honsellern was among those who congratulated President Von Hindenburg on the sixtieth anniversary of his entering the army.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. NEW ORLEANS, Apr. 8. (AP)—The cotton market opened steady notwithstanding that Liverpool was barely up to expectations. First trades showed gains of 4 to 6 points as the Northern market did not improve at the start. Prices here eased off a few points after the call, but promptly rallied again on the unfavorable weather outlook. May trading up to 18.10c, July to 17.10c and October to 16.90c or five to six points above yesterday's close. Trading was light.

The market ruled quiet during the greater part of the morning and fluctuated narrowly, easing off some near noon mainly owing to lack of sustaining support although an easier steel market may have induced some selling. May traded down to 18.90c and October 16.70c, or 3 1/2 points from the early high. As noon the market showed some disposition to rally and recovered several points from the low mainly on trade buying.

The market fluctuated narrowly during the afternoon and kept within the earlier range on old crop months but made new lows on new crops due to selling based on reports that the rains had ceased in the belt and the weather was fair in the West. October traded down to 15.78c and December 16.80c or 12 points below the high of the morning. Toward the beginning of the last half hour of trading prices rallied 3 to 5 points due to short covering.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES. NEW ORLEANS, April 8. (AP)—Cotton opened steady, May 18.10c; July 17.70c; October 16.90c; December 16.80c.

NEW YORK COTTON. NEW YORK, Apr. 8. (AP)—The cotton market was irregular in today's early trading. Liverpool was relatively easy and some traders placed a more favorable interpretation on the weather map which they thought pointed to clearing conditions.

The opening was steady at a decline of two points to an advance of two points. Prices fluctuated within a range of three or four points during the first hour, May selling around 18.78c and October 18.48c or about one to three points net lower.

There was some widening of the May-July difference later in the morning as a result of covering by near month shorts. Otherwise the market showed no special feature and trading was quiet all day with May ruling around 18.80c and October 17.50c, or about two points higher to one point lower.

NEW YORK FUTURES. NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady May 18.30c; July 18.25c; October 17.50c; December 17.18c; January 17.10c.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO REPORT. CHICAGO, April 8. SUNDAY SCHOOL IS GREAT FACTOR IN RELIGION

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 8. (AP)—The peoples of many lands have been given religious education through the Sunday school work of the Southern Methodist church, the annual report of Dr. Ed F. Cook, secretary of this department, shows. The report was delivered today at the annual meeting of the Sunday School board here.

The development of the work has been brought about mainly through the operation of the "day extension plan" whereby all money raised for missions in the Sunday school are divided equally between extension of activities in unchurched areas of the United States and missionary work in Europe.

Missionary offerings of the Sunday school which passed through the hands of the missionary agencies cooperating in the denomination's program of missionary education totaled $952,296 Dr. Cook reported.

The foreign extension side of the Sunday school program, according to Dr. Cook, involves modern methods of Sunday school organization and departmentalized promotion of religious education in China, Japan, Korea, and Cuba. The Sunday schools of the American area, he reported, have undertaken to discharge the centenary claims of the European mission involving approximately $250,000 a year, to support missions in Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Dr. Cook's report included the section of home missions and Sunday school extension work of which the Rev. John L. Ferguson is head. Through this department, surveys have been made of unchurched areas in Southern Methodist territory and a movement inaugurated to organize Sunday schools in the 2,700 congregations of the denomination which have no Sunday schools at present.

In this work active efforts are being conducted among the negroes of the South, Mexicans of the border, the Indians of Oklahoma, French of Louisiana, and Cubans of Florida, and a program of rural work is in operation.

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—Religious books have increased their position within the ranks of best sellers to a conspicuous degree during the last several years, the gain being attributed by publishers to a greater demand not only from church members but from persons without definite ecclesiastical affiliations.

A glance over the list of the ten best sellers in non-fiction last year shows Bruce Barton's "The Man Nobody Knows" and Giovanni Papini's "The Life of Christ" well toward the top. Demand for these and other books on religion is reported even greater than in 1925.

"When some one refers to the greatest book in the world, the book that has been so quickly as do church men," said Frederic G. Melcher, editor of the Publisher's Weekly, "it is not because all other totals of production and has since printing begun."

"But though the field of religious books has always supplied the book stores with their best sellers, the year has been an especially busy one during the last two or three years. Just now the high peak of church activity emphasizes this interest. Another interesting feature is that books characteristic of recent demands that they have spread far beyond church boundaries."

In addition to the books by Barton and Papini, Mary Austin's "The Sand Dollar" and Robert Lynde Hart's "The Man Himself" have attracted wide reading. Much interest is being shown in William Lyon Phelps' "The Carpenter of Nazareth." Sales on a series of Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick's sermons have gone beyond the million mark. New translations of the Bible have been another outstanding feature.

WASHINGTON — Representative Connelly, of Texas, is a "dapper, flapper beauty" seeking the post of ambassador to the court of St. James, which is the comeback of Representative Tinsler of Kansas to suggestion that he start chasing the Vice President.

NEW YORK—Ethel Shutta, comedienne, divorced in Chicago last week from Walter Bachelor, Ziegfeld book agent, who discovered her in burlesque, is now the bride of George Gleason, conductor of Ziegfeld orchestra.

COTTON GINNERS OF TEXAS ARE MEETING

EIGHTEENTH CONVENTION OPENS THURSDAY IN DALLAS

(By Associated Press.)
DALLAS, April 8.—Fire prevention and cotton acreage reductions were problems before the Texas Cotton Ginner's association, which opened its eighteenth annual convention here today.

According to C. F. Hunt, secretary, the practice that has grown up in recent years of ginning two grades of cotton has introduced machinery which increases fire hazards. The machinery, he explained, consists of boll breakers, cleaners and the like which often strike rock hidden in the cotton.

The cotton acreage reduction proposition was presented by Colonel Clarence Ousley, director of the Texas Safe Farming association which is campaigning for better cotton on fewer acres and more feed on more acres. Colonel Ousley drew a picture of conditions resulting from the all-cotton habit of the Southern farmer. He said that if business fails to solve the farmer's problems it will default in the greatest problem of all time.

President J. T. Andrews of Waxahatchie, who presided, said that the ginning business was good, except in South Texas where, according to his report, 100 gins were idle because of the drought. He estimated that they are close to 4,000 gins in the state.

Other Tanks Catch Fire
SANABEEM, Calif., Apr. 8. (AP)—Two 700,000 barrel storage oil tanks of the Union Oil Company at Mreca, a tank field six miles north of here, were struck by lightning about 9:30 o'clock this morning and are aflame.

The 300-acre tank farm of the Union Oil Company, a mile and half south of here, in which was stored some 5,000,000 barrels, was abandoned early today to the fire which had threatened its destruction since yesterday morning, when two underground tanks were struck by lightning. Four huge underground reservoirs to which the blaze had been confined all day yesterday and last night boiled over shortly before one o'clock this morning and flaming oil sweeping over a dyke that had been thrown up, carried the fire to two other reservoirs and ten surface tanks. Other surface tanks were emptied limited.

Men Taken From Field
As it became apparent that the property was doomed, the several hundred men who had been fighting the fire since a short time after it started, were ordered from the field. It was believed they all escaped, but some 12 who had been in the pump house and the warehouse narrowly eluded the boiling oil. Two of them lost their automobiles parked nearby. As the fire spread from tank to tank it created a flame one mile long, with the blaze shooting from 50 to 60 feet into the sky.

Damage will amount to an unestimated number of millions of dollars. Even before the flames spread beyond the bounds of the four reservoirs, the oil company estimated the loss as perhaps as high as $10,000,000 and described the fire which is the most destructive in the history of the petroleum industry in California.

Firemen Find Three In One Family Dead

WILKES BARRE, Pa., April 8. (AP)—Firemen answering an alarm at the rectory of the Russian Orthodox Church here early today, found the bodies of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Alexander H. Mikolich, 52, his wife and their 14-year-old son, Alexander, with bullet wounds in their heads.

Although the authorities were unable to ascertain who committed the crimes, their first belief was that the priest, who had recently returned from a sanitarium where he was recovering from a nervous breakdown, shot his wife and son and then killed himself.

Police, after an investigation announced that they were convinced that Mr. Mikolich had shot and killed Mrs. Mikolich and the boy and then ended his own life during a fit of insanity. The origin of the fire could not be determined but the authorities expressed the belief that it had been started by Father Mikolich in an effort to cremate the bodies.

Mothers Day Program Planned At Canyon

CANYON, April 8.—All churches in Canyon are united on Mother's Day, May 8, in a special service in the auditorium of the West Texas State Teachers college. Mother's Day is made a special occasion by the Teachers college every year.

This year the celebration will begin on Saturday when a program will be given in honor of visiting mothers and fathers. Special music is already underway for the service Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon the college building will be open and all visitors will be conducted through the entire plant. Sunday evening President J. A. Hill will address the students and their parents.

Mother's Day, 1925, found a very large number of mothers and fathers on the campus and students whose parents could not come were urged to write letters to them so that they would be received on the Sunday set apart to honor mothers. President J. A. Hill has not yet announced the speaker for Mother's Day.

That leaves 62,000,000 gallons. I let 2,000,000 go for legitimate purposes and set $9,000,000 gallons.

A statement prepared by George E. Brennan, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, and candidate for the Senate, said that "among the things for which we are indebted to the Volstead act are:
