RAF Hammers Aircraft Plants At Stuttgart

British Raiders Lose Only Four Planes In Raid

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, March 2—U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators in strong force smashed at Southwest Germany today hard on the heels of a 600-bomber assault by the RAF last night upon the important war center of Stuttgart.

The American target was not announced immediately, but the direction of the attack suggested a U. S.-RAF double night-and-day punch in the Stuttgart section like the ones highlighting last week's powerful aerial drive.

MAJOR TARGET BLASTED

LONDON, March 2 (U.P.) — Strong forces of Flying Fortresses and Liberators dropped bombs through a solid cloud blanket on a major industrial target in southwest Germany today with little opposition from Nazi fighter planes.

More than 600 RAF and RCAF bombers participated in last night's operations with a record low proportional loss of only four planes. Mosquito bombers staged a diversionary raid on the shrine city of Munich, and other formations struck targets in France and the low countries.

Bomb Tonnage Heavy

London newspapers estimated 1,680 to 1,900 tons of bombs were dumped on Stuttgart last night.

The Allied daylight formations headed out toward Europe at dawn, with Marauders of the U. S. Ninth Air force bombing "military objectives" in northern France, perhaps on the Nazis' "rocket coast."

More Allied medium bombers flew over the strait this afternoon.

German raiders about 100 strong retaliated against Britain by night, killing several persons and causing damage at widely separated places. Five were knocked down. Many houses were smashed on the southeast coast, but only a few bombers penetrated to London.

Four RAF Planes Lost

Loss of four RAF bombers was testimony to the effectiveness of the quickened pace of the war against Nazi air defenses, and of the British feinting tactics. Bad weather at ground level on the continent also was a factor, keeping many fighters grounded.

The assault on Stuttgart, transportation junction on the route to Italy and center of the Daimler-Benz engine and Bosch ignition works, was the 15th major blow against Nazi war facilities in 12 days.

Buchalter May Get Reprieve

Sensational Turn Taken By Case

(By The Associated Press)

ALBANY, N. Y., March 2.—A possible sixth reprieve for Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, Murder, Inc., chief condemned to die tonight, was indicated today by Governor Dewey's counsel, who simultaneously declined to affirm or deny a report Lepke had "sung" on nationally known figures.

Charles D. Breitel, the governor's counsel, said at a press interview:

"If court proceedings should be pending, this obviously would call for further action by the governor."

HEARING GRANTED

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP) — Three judges of the U. S. circuit court of appeals today decided to hear, out of regular order, an appeal on behalf of Louis (Lepke) Buchalter from yesterday's decision by Federal Judge Clarence G. Galston denying a petition of a writ of habeas corpus which might have stayed the gangster's scheduled execution tonight.

Breitel manifestly referred to a statement of Buchalter's attorney that he was considering appealing from a federal court ruling yesterday denying the gangster leader a habeas corpus writ.

No Comment On Statement

Breitel declined to comment on whether Lepke had made an 11th hour statement implicating three prominent persons. The New York Daily News said Buchalter had signed such a statement in the death cell at Sing Sing prison.

The News said that Lepke had signed a statement telling "a tale of political intrigue so astounding that its repercussions threaten to tear open the most sensational scandal since the notorious Becker case in 1912."

In a copyrighted story, the News said that the condemned chieftain of Brooklyn's Murder, Inc., scheduled to die in Sing Sing prison's electric chair tonight, has involved at least three names known throughout America.

At Sing Sing, however, Warden William E. Snyder said he had "no knowledge of Lepke making any statement to anyone.

Political Faction Charged

In the statement, signed in the death house, the newspaper said, "he charged one New York political faction with seeking, through him, to fasten high crime upon another and better entrenched faction."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's counsel has been informed of the contents of the statement, the News added.

"The News, because of the personal importance of the individuals concerned and out of respect for the high places they occupy today, will refrain from mention-

Knox Says U. S. Is In For Its Hardest Fight

Navy Secretary Goes To Bat For National Service

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 2—Secretary of Navy Knox told the Senate military affairs committee that "the hardest fighting in which the United States has ever engaged" lies ahead in the European campaign.

Testifying in support of proposed national service legislation, Knox said German resistance in Italy "is only a foreshadowing of the sort of fighting they will put up when we get into Europe proper."

The impression that the war is nearly over, Knox declared, "is not only erroneous, it is highly dangerous."

A national service law is needed, he said, "so that we can put people in the jobs where they ought to be and keep them there" until war production needs have been fulfilled.

Strike Feature Overemphasized

Knox, under questioning, said he thought false emphasis has been placed upon the idea that the pending national service bill would stop strikes.

"The bill was not introduced to stop strikes," he asserted, "nor is that its main aim. It can be administered, however, to stop labor turnover, which I regard as the most serious production problem facing us today."

Landing craft production is one item hampered by excessive turnover, he testified.

Knox said AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray "missed a bet when they didn't come up here to the capitol and get behind this bill."

"It would have done a lot to re-establish the proper attitude toward organized labor in the public mind," he added.

Knox testified that a national

Estonian City Cut Off When Rail Line Cut; Russians Attacking Three Cities

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, March 2. — Red army tommy-gunners have fought their way into the suburban streets of Pskov, while to the north, between Lake Peipus and the Gulf have badly outflanked the Estonian city of Narva, Soviet field dispatches said today.

Units of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army pushing west and north of Lake Peipus spread out over a large sector of the newest breakthrough inside the Soviet Estonian republic, cutting in behind Narva and destroying that city's rail communications with Reval, 120 miles to the west, the dispatches said.

NEW SOVIET OFFENSIVE

LONDON, March 2 (U.P.)—The Berlin radio said today that the Red army opened a big offensive on both sides of the Pskov-Nevel highway yesterday with at least seven infantry divisions attacking behind powerful artillery, tank and air support.

REDS CLOSING RELENTLESSLY ON THREE NAZI BASTIONS

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—Red army forces are closing in relentlessly on the three great German strongholds of Narva, Pskov and Vitebsk key defense bases on the 350-mile-long northern front, Moscow declared today.

In Estonia units of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army threw a bridgehead across the Narova river south of Narva, cut the only German escape railway leading westward to Reval, and are threatening the city from all four sides, a Russian communique announced.

Reds Take 70 Towns

One hundred and 10 miles to the south, another Russian army smashed closer to the Baltic gateway city of Pskov, capturing several heavily fortified strongpoints covering the approaches to the town, the Moscow bulletin said. More than 70 towns fell to the advancing Soviet troops. Other Red army forces previously had been reported less than six miles from Pskov on the north.

Two hundred miles southeast of Pskov, Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's First Baltic army was marching on the White Russian base of Vitebsk. The Russians said they had captured more than 30 towns and villages in a converging movement which drew a noose tighter around the key German-held fortress city.

Vitebsk Under Long Siege

Vitebsk has been under siege by Bagramian's army since late last year.

Acknowledging the increased tempo of the Russian attacks, Berlin broadcasts advanced the suggestion that the Red army was striving to achieve its objectives, especially Pskov, before the expected thaw turns the front into a morass.

Moscow said that the Narova river crossing was made along a 22-mile front south of Narva and penetrated nine miles beyond to the rail station of Auvere, on the Narva-Reval trunk line. This

Jap Flatop Is Torpedoed By British Sub

Enemy Cruiser Hit As Supply Lines To Burma Attacked

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Writer

Five submarine chasers shepherding a 7,000-ton Japanese aircraft carrier through Malacca strait couldn't prevent a British submarine from sending torpedoes crashing into the flatop's hull and probably sinking her, the British admiralty announced today.

It is through Malacca strait, which separates Malaya from the island of Sumatra, that most of the supplies to Japan's Army in Burma must pass.

The admiralty also said other submarines scored torpedo hits on a Japanese cruiser in the same area, but not in the same action, and sank a medium-sized supply ship. A smaller supply ship was shelled into submission.

First Major Counter-Attack

In the Southwest Pacific war zone, Allied headquarters confidently predicted quickly-captured Momote airdrmoe on the invaded Admiralty islands "will shortly be in full use by our air force," and reported the enemy's first major counter-attack against the American beachhead had been repulsed.

The airfield, located on Los Negros island, is the larger of two in the Admiralties and the prize for which Sixth Army forces battled when they swept ashore on the Bismarck sea islands Tuesday morning.

In Allied hands, the Momote airdrome would serve as a springboard for new and greater aerial assaults against Rabaul and Kavieng, Japan's two principal remaining strongholds in the Bismarck archipelago, as a base for air patrols intent on keeping the Bismarck sea clear of Japanese ships attempting to reinforce or evacuate out-flanked Southwest Pacific enemy forces, and as a

Finns Cold To Soviet Offer

Armistice Terms Said Impossible

(By The Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, March 2—Russian peace terms, published in Finnish newspapers for the first time this morning, fell like a "cold shower" on the people, the Helsinki correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet reported.

Even circles opposed to a "wait and see" policy of the government regarding armistice terms took the view that the conditions were impossible of acceptance, the correspondent wrote.

He added that recent developments in the move for peace were clothed in such secrecy the people were under the impression that there were grounds for hope for a settlement. The correspondent said there was evidence of great disappointment today.

Russian Peace Terms

Russian terms called for restoration of the 1940 boundary, immediate cessation of hostilities, no occupation or change in the Finnish government, internment of German ships and seven Nazi divisions with or without Red Army help.

Even as the peace issue was disclosed, a Finnish communique reported lively activity on the fighting front with both sides attacking. The war bulletin said Finnish troops penetrated Russian positions at four points on the western portion of the Aunus isthmus and that the Russians had pierced Finnish lines near Uhtua after a heavy artillery barrage. A counterattack was said to have restored Finnish positions.

The Finnish press sharply attacked Russia's armistice proposals today, characterizing them as disappointingly severe and declaring that they gave Finland no hope of negotiating an honorable peace.

Press Launches Campaign

The Finnish press campaign was launched only a few hours after the Helsinki government had disclosed the Soviet terms to the nation. A brief official announcement, outlining the proposals, said

Three German Divisions Are Hurled Back

Thousands Of Bombs Rained On Nazi Troops

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 2—American Flying Fortresses and Liberators, swinging into the renewed battle on the Anzio beachhead, smashed heavily at Nazi troop concentrations today, raining thousands of fragmentation bombs on enemy forces.

The great bombers roared into action as bitter fighting continued aground.

The Germans threw three divisions against the beachhead line yesterday, driving American troops back 1,500 yards, but a fierce doughboy counterattack regained 1,000 yards and still was making progress.

VATICAN CITY BOMBED

LONDON, March 2 (AP)—The Vatican radio said today that bombs were dropped in Vatican City last night.

Headquarters gave no indication of the size of the armada sent over the Nazi positions, but during the Germans' last big offensive, hundreds of Flying Fortresses spread a pattern of fire over the enemy.

Intense Struggle Indicated

The reappearance of the heavy bombers again on this hardfought invasion sector emphasized the intensity of the struggle.

The Germans, however, were said to be resisting strongly near a road junction slightly south of the midway point between Carroceto and Cisterna after having lost two-thirds of the ground they gained Tuesday in the early stages of their assault, apparently their third all-out effort to wipe out the beachhead.

(Today's German communique said the Allies at several points broke into "our advanced positions gained on previous days," and described "fluctuating fighting" south and southwest of Cisterna.)

500 Nazis Captured

More than 500 German prisoners have been taken in the battle in which the Germans rammed Mark IV and Tiger tanks at the Allied lines under heavy artillery fire from both sides.

Nazi Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces launched their attack Tuesday morning along a thousand-yard front almost in the middle of the 10-mile stretch between Carroceto and Cisterna.

The enemy threw two battalions, supported by tanks, into the initial phase with American forces bearing the brunt of the attack. By late afternoon three German divisions were plunging against the Allied lines.

Nazis Broke Through

The Nazis broke through to a depth of about 1,500 yards but the rest of the Allied lines stood firm against pressure exerted all around the American-British defense perimeter. American troops launched a counter-attack Tuesday night and up to noon yester-

Policy To Rome Is Emphasized

Aim Is To Spare Church Buildings

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—The Allied military policy respecting Rome is to spare those portions of the city which the Germans themselves refrain from using for military purposes, Secretary of War Stimson said today. But he emphasized that "American lives must be safeguarded, whatever the cost in material things."

"As in the question of the destruction of the abbey of Monte Cassino," Stimson told a press conference, "the policy of the War department is definite and clear: Every possible precaution is to be taken against the destruction of cultural, historical and religious property.

Can Be No Alternative

"Should it become obvious, however, that the enemy is making use of such monuments for military purposes, and that the lives of American soldiers are thereby endangered, there can be no alternative."

So far as is now known, the secretary said, there are no large concentrations of German troops in the city itself, but Rome's rail lines and yards make it an important communications center through which most of the enemy forces pass on their way to the Anzio beachhead and the main front in southern Italy.

"For these reasons," said Stimson, "bombing attacks have been concentrated on the rail lines leading in and out of Rome and on the railway yards of Rome itself, as well as on the suburban airfields, while every attempt has been made to spare religious and cultural shrines and to respect the neutral status of Vatican city."

Review Of War Fronts

Stimson's reference to Rome occurred during a brief review of last week's operations on all war fronts.

He noted that on the Anzio beachhead, Allied troops had repulsed a two-day attack in force,

Lubbock Child Is Wounded

Billy Eugene Jones, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jones of East Broadway, suffered a bullet wound in his left chest about noon today when he was accidentally shot while playing with neighbor children near his home.

The youngster was taken by Rix Ambulance to Lubbock General hospital where a blood transfusion was being administered. Reports said the bullet was from a .22. Seriousness of his condition had not been definitely determined early this afternoon.

The mother is employed by Swift and company and the father is connected with the stockyards.

Ickes Defends Pipeline Plan

WASHINGTON, March 2. (U.P.)—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today defended the proposed Arabian petroleum pipeline as insurance against this country being "caught short in time of emergency" and asserted his determination to go through with the project.

Denying that the proposed 1,000-mile line from the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean was an opening wedge to take the government into the petroleum business, he told a press conference it would provide a much-needed "facility" for additional oil supplies.

He was asked to comment on criticism of the project by the Petroleum Industry War council, which described the proposed line as "a possible breeder of future war and not in the interest of the United States public."

Industry Against Project

"Most of the industry is against the project, but I don't agree with them," Ickes replied.

A reporter noted that James A. Moffett, former petroleum executive, had charged construction of the pipeline "will turn out to be a national scandal worse than the Teapot Dome" and had called for Ickes' resignation.

"Moffett is a playboy and he's

Mistrial Is Seen In Lonergan Case

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP) — Wayne Lonergan's explosive murder trial was adjourned in an uproar today over a prosecution demand which Judge John J. Freschi said might result in a mistrial.

In the stormiest session to date, Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet demanded that the special jury panel be dismissed because of newspaper stories which he charged were inspired by defense counsel in after-court hours.

Defense Attorney Edward Broderick had made a similar request at the opening of the trial Monday and Grumet asked that the jurist reopen the matter and reconsider the original request.

Judge Freschi recessed the trial until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow to give himself time to decide whether he had legal authority to do so. He said he would declare a mistrial if he decided he had legal precedent.

Packed with surprise, the young RCAF aircraftman's first degree murder trial entered the third day with the jury box still empty but with the record already crammed with references to the confession, the cafe society background of the case, sexual abnormalities and "stool pigeons."

OWI Changes Political Policy

WASHINGTON, March 2. (U.P.)—War Information Director Elmer Davis has issued a new policy directive for propaganda handling of 1944 campaign news, instructing OWI employes to "get as close to the facts as the facts are known" in identifying candidates for the presidential nominations, it was learned today.

The new policy was an outgrowth of a recent incident in which an OWI news dispatch abroad concerning Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, failed to mention that he was a candidate for the Republican nomination. There were some charges that omission was not unintentional.

Under the new directive, full text of which OWI refuses to make public, only those who have officially announced their presidential aspirations will be designated flatly as candidates. In the case of those being "mentioned" for the nominations of either party, that fact and no more will be stated in OWI dispatches and short wave broadcasts.

One Formal Candidate

As of now, the OWI will have little difficulty in interpreting the policy so far as the Democratic party is concerned. The only formal candidate is former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts who has entered the race for the Democratic nomination in an acknowledged attempt to block a fourth

Mrs. Eisenhower Has Moved To Santone

WASHINGTON, March 2 (U.P.)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower has left Washington, it was learned today, and the Washington Daily News said she was establishring a residence at Fort Sam Houston near San Antonio.

Evelyn Peyton Gordon, society columnist of the News, said she left the capital because "people pursued her as the wife of the invasion commanding general."

"So she trekked off to San Antonio," Miss Gordon wrote, "to look for a house in the true Army wife's favorite bailiwick—old Fort Sam Houston. . . . Back with her own group Mrs. Eisenhower can be herself. . . . And she doesn't have to be bothered with the pursuing geniuses of Washington who crave a limelight name for their activities."

Leon Phillips' Trial To Be Re-Set Later

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 2 (U.P.)—The state will re-set the trial of former Gov. Leon C. Phillips on a future court docket, County Attorney George Miskovsky said today.

The announcement came after District Judge A. P. Van Meter dismissed the jury which reported itself hopelessly deadlocked at 9-3 for acquittal after more than 48 hours, 23 of which were spent in actual deliberations.

Army Casualties In Italy Total 36,711

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—The latest total of American Army casualties in Italy is 36,771.

Secretary of War Stimson gave this total to his news conference today, but explained that the figures are two or three weeks behind.

The casualties since the Fifth Army landed at Salerno last September are 5,061 killed, 21,788 wounded, 9,922 missing.

Leases Will Be Sold On University Lands

AUSTIN, March 4 (U.P.) — The University of Texas today issued a list of land tracts upon which oil and gas leases will be offered at auction on March 31.

The list includes 98 tracts in Andrews county ranging in size from 152 to 323 acres. Eighteen tracts will be offered in Reagan county, site of the university's first oil production, and 24 tracts in adjoining Crockett county. Another tract of 320 acres lies partly in each of the two counties.

Sixteen tracts will be offered in Pecos county. In Ward county one tract of 160 acres will be offered and a group of 12, totaling nearly 37,000 acres, to be bid upon as a unit, but 12 separate leases. Four tracts in Hudspeth county will be sold, also.

Woman Mistaken For Prowler; Fatally Shot

SAN ANTONIO, March 2. (AP)—Mrs. Gladys Stratton, 37, was shot fatally early today and an 83-year-old retired carpenter was quoted by Police Officers Joe Morales and Jimmy Salinas as saying he mistook the woman for a prowling dog.

Morales and Salinas told this story:

While answering a call to investigate a disturbance, the officers heard a shot which sounded as if fired at the rear of a residence. They went to investigate, calling out that they were policemen. Beams from their flashlights revealed the figure of a bare-footed woman dressed in black lying on the rear steps of the carpenter's house. She had been shot once in the head.

Arms Shipments To Turkey Are Stopped

LONDON, March 2. (AP)—Reports that lend-lease arms shipments to Turkey had been stopped were interpreted today as meaning Allied efforts to obtain Turkish military action against Germany had come to an unsuccessful end.

"Arms had been sent to Turkey to kill Germans," one responsible source said. "They haven't been used for that purpose and we have other uses for them."

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is expected to make a statement in Commons shortly on relations with Turkey.

Rural Leaders Will Plan Drive Friday

Leaders of the various communities of Lubbock county will gather in the chamber of commerce rooms Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock to formulate plans for the Red Cross War Fund drive opening next Tuesday. Roy Boyd, county school superintendent, is rural chairman and has called in approximately 20 committeemen from over the county.

Revisions In Price Control Act Asked

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—The Office of Price administration today became the perimeter of another brewing battle in Congress as Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) launched a drive to bring about sweeping revisions in the wartime price control act before its life is extended beyond June 30.

He announced he would seek these major changes:

1. The insertion of a new section outlawing consumer food subsidies.

2. Granting the right of recourse to the federal courts for persons and concerns claiming injury by unfair operation of the price control program.

3. A "spelling out" of the provisions of the act, including the authority to correct "gross inequities," so as to permit less latitude for liberal interpretations of the law by those who administer it.

Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, let it be known the administration would battle fiercely any attempt to "weaken" OPA.

Shoe Stamp 18 Will Expire On April 30

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP) — The Office of Price administration, saying it expects to continue shoe rationing at the rate of two pairs a year today linked announcement that a new shoe stamp will become valid May 1 with notice that stamp number 18 in ration book 1 will expire April 30.

Airplane stamp number 1 in ration book 3, valid currently with stamp 18, will overlap the new stamp and continue to be good indefinitely. The new stamp will be good for one pair of shoes. It's book number will be designated later.

Washington Girl's Battered Body Found

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—What police called murder in the Washington cathedral provided them with a bizarre mystery today as they sought to solve the death of Miss Catherine Cooper Reardon, 37, assistant librarian of the cathedral, whose battered body was found in the library stacks.

Miss Reardon had been missing from home since late yesterday after telling her mother that she was "going out for a while."

Her body, brutally beaten, was found early today. She was clad only in a slip.

Miss Reardon had been employed at the cathedral library for eight years. She lived with her mother, Mrs. William M. Reardon, jr. Her father died when she was a child.

Texans Busy Fighting To Retain Principles Of Document Signed 108 Years Ago Today

BY ELTON L. MILLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Texas became independent by a declaration signed by her citizens 108 years ago, and today the state celebrates the anniversary of that document with a war to win against aggressors.

Her sons and daughters—many of them descendants o fthat immortal 59 who signed the Declaration of Independence at Washington-On-The-Brazos on March 2, 1836—are so busy fighting to retain the principles of George Childress, Sam Houston and Thomas J. Rusk that they will have little time to celebrate the occasion.

A few patriots will make the annual pilgrimage to Washington, but it will be no elaborate affair.

Texas Exes Celebrate

University of Texas ex-students gather traditionally on each March 2 at banquets over the state and wherever two or more are assembled. But the task of the after-dinner speakers this year is difficult. University officials say 15,000 of the 75,000 Texas exes are in the armed services and that the 1944 ex-day will be observed around the globe—even on the battlefields of Italy and in the South Pacific.

It was a grim occasion for the 59, too, when they assembled in Noah T. Byars' unfinished blacksmith shop at Washington, Washington county. Two engagements—the battles of Velasco and Anahuac—had already been fought. The Spanish garrison had been driven from Nacogdoches. Goliad had been captured and the Texans had chased General Cos from San Antonio.

292-Word Sentence Curbs Quotation Of Texas Declaration

(By The United Press)

Texans may often have wondered why their declaration of independence is not as often quoted in the public schools as are the declaration of independence and the preamble to the constitution of the United States.

Here's the reason:

Paragraph No. 2 which sets forth the general causes for the declaration, is one sentence and it contains 292 words. The rambling sentence that expresses the colonists' pent-up anger is:

When a government has ceased to protect the lives, liberty and property of the people from whom its legitimate powers are derived, and for the advancement of whose happiness it was instituted and so far from being a guarantee for the enjoyment of their inestimable and inalienable rights, becomes an instrument in the hands of evil rulers for their oppression; when the federal republican constitution of their country, which they have sworn to support, no longer has a substantial existence, and the whole nature of their government has been forcibly changed without their consent, from a restricted federative republic, composed of sovereign states, to a consolidated central despotism, in which every interest is disregarded but that of the army and the priesthood, both the eternal enemies of civil liberty, the ever-ready minions of power, and the usual instrument of tyrants; when, long after the spirit of the constitution discontinued; and so far from their petitions and remonstrances being regarded, the agents who bear them are thrown into dungeons and mercenary armies sent forth to force a new government upon them at the point of the bayonet; when, in subsequence of such acts of mal-feasance and abdication on the part of the government, anarchy prevails, and civil society is dissolved into its original elements in such a trisis, the first law of nature, the right of self-preservation, the inherent and inalienable right of the people to appeal to first principles, and take their political affairs into their own hands in extreme cases, enjoys it as a right toward themselves, and a sacred obligation to their posterity, to abolish such government and create another in its stead, calculated to rescue them from impending dangers, and to secure their future welfare and happiness.

Three With Usually Fatal Infections Saved By Penicillin

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—Penicillin has saved the lives of three persons who had usually fatal brain infections, an Army physician reported today.

The three cases of meningitis, an infection of the membranes around the brain and the spinal cord, were described in the Journal of the American Medical association by Capt. Albert L. Evans.

Two patients had meningitis due to staphylocci bacteria and one had meningitis due to pneumonoccio germs. Capt. Evans expressed belief their recovery could not have occurred with the types of treatment in use before penicillin became available.

He concluded that the number of survivals from such meningitis infections has increased since the sulfonamides have been used "but penicillin seems to offer more hope for cure of these maladies than any other substance known at the present time."

Murder Trial Nearing Close

Judge Dan Blair reconvened 72nd district court at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Robert Clayton murder trial, after the state and the defense had introduced three witnesses each and each side had announced it almost had completed evidence.

The defense said it would require "possibly not longer than two or three minutes," and the state intimated it would offer only rebuttal and reputation witnesses, possibly six or seven.

The morning session found the state attempting to prove that Clayton, acting with Robert Johnson, moved calculatedly from opposite directions toward Cliff Spears and provoked trouble that ended in a hail of gunshots and Spears dead on the ground.

Seek To Show Threats

The defense sought to establish in the minds of the jury that Clayton had ben threatened earlier in the afternoon of Dec. 19, date of the killing, by Spears, a bootlegger, and that he armed himself almost immediately thereafter because he was afraid Spears would carry out the threat; that Clayton was leaving the scene to go home when he had to pass near Spears, who pulled a gun and forced Clayton to shoot to protect his life.

All principals were negroes.

Proceedings this morning were enlivened at one stage by attempts of the defense to introduce testimony of Sonny Dinwiddie, a negro. There was spirited sidebar huddling before Judge Blair, who ordered the jury to retire to its room.

Dinwiddie Said Mistreated

Questioning brought out claims of Dinwiddie that he had been mistreated by state officers and kept in jail overnight without a warrant, but the state countered with the claim Dinwiddie had been in the courtroom, opposed to the court's witness rule, and was disqualified from testifying since he had heard evidence given by Sarah Alice Hastings, a negro woman.

Judge Blair declined to allow Dinwiddie to testify.

It was indicated by both sides that the jury, completed after Wednesday's all-day session had exhausted the jury list and eight talesmen had been ordered, would get the case this afternoon.

Mention of the "syndicate," tracing to statements regarding an alleged murder syndicate in the Flats, cropped out occasionally in this morning's session, which found the courtroom and galleries completely filled.

District Attorney Burton S. Burks is assisted by special prosecutor Roy Carpenter, and Gene Mathis and Jimmie Cunningham represent Clayton.

Buchalter Scandal

ing their names at this time," the story declared.

Buchalter and two of his "dollar-a-death syndicate" henchmen, Emanuel (Mendy) Weiss and Louis Capone were convicted of slaying Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn storekeeper, eight years ago.

Two Main Charges

The News said that Buchalter's statement was highlighted by these two charges:

"1—Lepke named a visitor who called on him while he was a prisoner in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans., in 1940 and made him the following proposition:

"(A) If Lepke would make a statement to the visitor which would involve three men, all highly placed in public life, in the murder of a contractor in New York in 1931, the visitor would see that the Rosen murder indictment was quashed by —— (here the name of the third nationally known figure was mentioned.)

"(B) As a further inducement, the visitor promised to have those behind him see to it that Lepke's sentence for violation of the federal narcotics laws was considerably lessened.

Couldn't "Fix" One Rap

"(C) The visitor admitted the only rap outstanding against Lepke which he could not promise to fix was one for extortion in New York; on this charge, Lepke drew 30 years to life as a fourth offender;

"(D) The visitor offered to call in any three individuals the gangster would name and repeat the offer with them as witnesses.

"2—Frankie Costello, gambling czar, contributed $25,000 in cash to the campaign fund of a high office seeker in New York City."

Buchalter reluctantly yielded to the pleas of his family and friends in making the statement, the News said.

The Becker case grew out of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, a big-time Broadway gambler, who was shot to death on the sidewalk.

Charles S. Whitman ,then New York district attorney ,took personal charge of the investigation, which resulted in conviction and electrocution of Charles Becker, a police lieutenant, and four previously protected gangsters—"Lefty Louis," "Dago Frank," "Gyp the Blood," and "Whitey Lewis."

ing, in an order of the day on the ninth anniversary of the German air force, declared "you have again excelled yourselves both in attack and in defense, doing your duty." He praised the "magnificent bearing of the German people" in the broadcast recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service.)

Site Of Plane Factories

Stuttgart, site of important German aircraft factories, was last bombed on Feb. 25, when it was hit by a large formation of U. S. heavy bombers which also struck simultaneously at Regensburg and Augsburg.

Berlin acknowledged that southwest Germany had been bombed during the night, but did not name the target. A German broadcast said the raiders ran into heavy clouds and dropped their bomb loads aimlessly.

Cattle Raisers Urge Changes

HOUSTON,—March 2 (AP)—The 68th annual convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association in its final session unanimously adopted a policy statement advocating removal of ceiling prices on cattle, immediate adoption of the meat management plan and changes in the price control act.

The statement and other resolutions approved by stockmen from 16 states yesterday urged that:

The price control act which set up the Office of Price administration (OPA) be maintained with the addition of a specific prohibition against consumer subsidies.

All OPA employes who are not "genuinely American" and who have "fascist ideas" be discharged.

OPA rules, regulations and procedures be simplified.

Surplus stock be marketed to lower the nation's record cattle population.

Cartwright Is President

Holman Cartwright of Dinero, Tex., was elected president to succeed Claude K. McCan of Victoria. G. B. White of Brady, a director, was named honorary vice president.

Other new officers included C. E. Weymouth of Amarillo, first vice president, and James M. Brook of Brady, second vice president. New board of directors members elected were Cameron Duncan of Freer, Buck Pyle of Sanderson, L. Ward, jr., of La Ward and Mit Dansby of Bryan, all Texans.

Re-elected were M. A. Fuller, treasurer; Henry Bell, secretary and general manager; Joe G. Montague, attorney and Charles A. Stewart, traffic counsel, all of Fort Worth.

The proposed appointment of E. R. Eudaly as director of the Texas A. and M. college extension service was "unqualifiedly endorsed" in another resolution.

San Antonio was selected as the 1945 convention city.

Ghost Fleet Of Dutch Subs Is Harassing Japs

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—A ghost fleet of Dutch submarines, gallant remnants of a once powerful naval force that all but perished in opposing Japan's invasion of the Netherlands Indies, has reformed and is harassing the enemy's supply lines to Burma.

This was disclosed today by Captain L. G. L. van der Kun of the Dutch navy, former chief of staff of Netherlands forces in the Pacific who has just arrived here to join his country's military mission.

"In 20 months we sank 55,000 tons of Japanese shipping, and probably sank 25,000 tons more, in Malacca straits, north of Sumatra and in the Andaman islands area," he said in an interview. "This was accomplished despite the fact that we could average only two submarines in operation at one time."

Japs Supplied By Sea

The Japanese in Burma get about 90 per cent of their munitions, food and other supplies by sea, Captain van der Kun reported, the rest coming overland.

Captain van der Kun, while he would not directly discuss broad strategical questions, explained that the enemy's lines to Burma pass south of Singapore, through the straits of Malacca between Malaya and the island of Sumatra, and then between Malaya on the east and the Nicobar and Andaman islands on the west.

Because of this geography, military strategists here believe, a successful Allied amphibious operation against the Andaman or Nicobar islands or northwest Sumatra would flank the Japanese lines completely and virtually isolate the enemy in Burma.

Many Taxi Drivers Refused Licenses

A rising stack of mail in the police station indicates that more and more taxicab drivers may have to make a living doing something other than driving motor vehicles, at least for a while.

Copies of letters mailed to them by the Texas Department of Public Safety indicate that some of the taxicab drivers are being denied chauffeur's licenses or are being warned of possible suspensions of licenses.

A case in point:

"Dear Mr. ——: Your application for chauffeur's license has been received, but issuance is being withheld . . . because of your traffic violations."

Another case in point, and there are numerous of these letters, said Sgt. Lewis Kittrell of the police traffic department and Chief of Police Don Reeder:

"Copies of reports of several traffic violations have been made part of your driver's record in the files of this department. These with any other record hereafter received will determine whether in the interest of highway safety it may be necessary to restrict your driver's license or suspend your driving privilege. It not only is a matter of safety, but your patriotic duty to operate vehicles in the safest, most efficient manner possible."

Letters were signed by Col. Homer Garrison, jr., director, by J. B. Draper, chief of the driver's license division.

U. S. Soldier Said To Be Babies' Father

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 2. (U.P.)—The father of a Pittsburgh beauty operator today identified the father of quadruplets born to an unwed British girl as his son-in-law, Sgt. William Thompson.

Frank J. Jenemann disclosed to the United Press that his daughter, Eleanor, had known for sometime that her husband was in love with Nora Carpenter, 23-year-old daughter of a coal miner, who gave birth to two boys and two girls Sunday.

He said his daughter received a letter from him sometime ago saying that he was in love with the girl, that she expectd a child and that he hoped she would give him a divorce so he could marry her.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Muffins

2 tablespoons shortening	¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar	1 cup sifted flour
1 egg	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	2½ teaspoons baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins.

*For spiced muffins, add 1 tablespoon molasses to creamed mixture, and ½ teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.

*For nut muffins, add ½ cup chopped nut meats to dry ingredients.

News Briefs

The War department made public today the names of 289 United States soldiers missing in action, including S/Sgt. Huley N. Day, son of Egbert H. Day of Spur.

Mrs. Geron Smith and Mrs. William P. Stainback, both of Dallas, daughters, and Mrs. Harold Lynn of Monroe, La., a daughter-in-law, are visiting in the 1916 Fifteenth street residence of Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Lynn, whose son Lt. C. W. Lynn arrived several days ago "in transit" after a tour of duty in the European and North African theaters.

The WAC section of the West Texas recruiting and induction station here announced today that two Odessa women were enlisted in the WAC Wednesday. They were Mrs. Danny D. Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Anna Lee Alford of Loraine, and Mrs. Modena Downing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Upchurch of Odessa.

Capt. R. T. Hammond of the Army recruiting office in the federal building here announced today that W. H. Dawson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dawson, sr., of Slaton, enlisted Wednesday afternoon in the Army Air forces enlisted reserves. He is a 17-year-old boy and attended Slaton High school.

James R. Gidden, 17, son of Mrs. Frances H. Gidden of Canyon, was enlisted in the Marine corps this morning, according to S/Sgt. Charles G. Baker of the Marine recruiting office here.

A replacement certificate for a tractor tire will not be issued under any circumstances when it is possible to get further service from that tire by means of vulcanizing or recapping, or by using a boot or reliner, according to J. Doyle Settle, district OPA rationing executive.

The War department announced Wednesday that two Levelland men had been wounded in action: S/Sgt. Eugene A. Cooper, in the Central Pacific area, and First Lt. John R. Potts, in the Mediterranean area.

The Navy department announced Wednesday that Robert Henry Hatfield, seaman 1st, was dead. His wife, Mrs. Robert H. Hatfield of 328 Avenue H, earlier had been informed he was missing.

Funeral services will be read in Dallas this afternoon for Mrs. Kate Skibell, mother of Sylvan Skibell of 2817 Twenty-sixth street in Lubbock. Skibell left for Dallas Wednesday.

Texas Independence

Goliad had declared Texas free and sovereign in a local assembly. Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna was headed toward Texas with a big army.

Pioneers Ready To Fight

With David G. Burnett selected as president and Lorenzo de Zavala as vice president of the new provisional government, the pioneers were then ready to fight for the freedom they knew before they left the United States.

The immortal action, 108 years ago was a prelude to the fall of the Alamo four days later (March 6), Fannin's surrender after the battle of Coleto, the massacre of Fannin's men at Goliad on March 27, and finally, on April 21, the battle of San Jacinto, one of the decisive battles of history.

Peace and prosperity followed, but Texas has never failed to uphold her historic traditions when tyrannical rule threatened.

World war II finds Texans out in front again. They were at Pearl Harbor, Guadalcanal, Kiska, spearheading the landing at Salerno and leading the way in the air battle over Hitler's European fortress.

Some one left yarn for an Army sleeveless sweater in the surgical dressing room Wednesday, it was said this morning and she is asked to telephone her name to Mrs. J. H. Murdough, knitting chairman, in order that the record may be made.

Parents Class Plans Supper

First Methodist Parents class is to entertain with a covered dish supper Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at Fellowship hall and all members and their children are invited to attend.

Mesdames Marvin Miller and H. V. Stanton and their groups will have charge of the serving and after the meal a period of entertainment has been planned by Mesdames Stanton, Jack Emanuel and Paul Pugh.

White Cups, Towels Are Asked By Canteen Corps

White cups and cup towels are needed by the Red Cross canteen corps which serves coffee and doughnuts daily at the Army induction station, 1114 Tenth street. Tin cups which have been used are found unsuitable because the handles come off after constant use.

Merchants or individuals who have cups or towels to donate to the canteen are asked to call Mrs. C. B. Qualia, co-chairman with Mrs. W. F. Eisenberg. At least eight dozen cups and two dozen towels are needed, Mrs. Qualia said. The corps has a sufficient supply of saucers.

Reception Today Is To Honor Mrs. Lattimore

An informal reception this afternoon at the home of Dr and Mrs. J. P. Lattimore, 1802 Avenue O, will be a courtesy to Dr. Lattimore's mother, Mrs. M. A. Lattimore, on her 84th birthday. Friends have been asked to call between 3 and 5 o'clock.

Crime News Gives Lie To Old Adage

LISBON, March 2 (AP) — Crime news appearing in German newspapers these days seems to be giving the lie to the old adage, "money is the root of all evil."

A collection of criminal and police court items in recent issues of Nazis papers contains not a single case where cash was the loot of the lawbreaker. The motive, on the other hand, apparently was a desire for food, clothing or luxuries unobtainable for money at any price.

Here are a few examples:

Hannover—Walter Jakubowski, 43, was convicted of stealing 800 quarts of milk. He made nightly raids on a cow pasture and helped himself to the milk at the source.

Bielefeld—A housewife was sentenced to three months imprisonment for an attempt to bribe a district domestic labor rationing officer. The proffered bribe: Three handkerchiefs and a yard of cloth.

Hamburg—An 18-year-old girl was sentenced to a month in jail for stealing the coat, shoes and rubbers of a girl friend. The girl friends was asleep at the time.

Berlin—George Albert, a 45-year-old wholesale merchant, had a system. He gave priority to customers who slipped him food packages as part payment of purchases. In turn, he used some of these foodstuffs as bribes to get priority from producers who supplied him with merchandise. The court gave him four years.

Try Hot Water If Stomach Pains You After Eating--

Thousands of unfortunate people suffer from so-called dyspepsia, acid indigestion, food fermentation, sour stomach, acid stomach, acid stomach, flatulence, gas pains and other stomach distress brought on by excess acid.

If these people would try drinking slowly after each meal a glass of real hot water containing a spoonful of Neutracid, they might in a very short time be able to eat good substantial meals without undergoing the disturbing symptoms of acid indigestion.

Neutracid will quickly help to neutralize this excess acid, soften the food and thus help more rapid digestion. You get quick relief from the acute distress and discomfort.

Secretary Knox

service law must be enacted to prevent a disastrous slump in production after the European phase of the war comes to an end. Only passage of a labor draft as requested by President Roosevelt could stabilize production at levels needed to follow the defeat of Germany with the speedy defeat of Japan, he said.

He praised labor and industry for "miracles of production" but said that labor turnover, resulting from lack of adequate restrictions on job switching, already was a serious problem that promised to become even more serious.

Mightier Battles Due

"In 1944," he said, "we will be fighting mightier battles with heavier losses in every quarter of the world. This means more and more men, more and more equipment, more and more supplies and more and more ships."

"We cannot even pretend to be supporting our fighting men who are risking their lives at the front so long as we tolerate either milling around from job to job or reluctance to move to the places needed," he said.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson also has approved the national service bill now bfore the committee but Chairman Robert R. Reynolds, (D., N.C.), predicts it will not be approved.

"Involuntary Servitude" Charged

Apparently noting charges that it would be "involuntary servitude" to force a worker to take a job contributing however indirectly to the profit of a private individual, Knox said:

"It surely is neither unfair nor un-American to ask a man to stay on a job at good wages and to help speed the end of this dreadful war.

"Surly it is fair and in the democratic American tradition to require of both the manufacturer who makes our weapons, and the worker who is employed by him, to serve in a manner which will best promote our victory."

Would End Problem

He said there would be no manpower problem "if the people who are not fully employed would go to work where they are needed, and if everyone would stay on the job." But, he added, that is not the case and it is "apparent that the present program for selective and controlled employment needs immediate tightening up."

As an example of the Navy's manpower problem, Knox cited the fact that during 1943 increased work in nine Navy yards required a 32,000-person increase in the working force.

But to achieve that increase, Knox said, the nine yards — because of heavy turnover—had to hire a total of 214,000 persons. In other words, he said, in order to get the labor of one permanent worker, the Navy had to hire seven workers.

Red Cross Chairman Speaks At Kiwanis

W. C. O'Mara, chairman of the Lubbock county chapter of the American Red Cross, who spoke at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club in the Lubbock hotel today noon, said that what the Red Cross is doing is best illustrated by a quotation from an address by Abraham Lincoln, as follows:

"With malice toward none, with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish this work we are in; to bind up the Nation's wounds and to care for him who shall have borne the heat of the battle."

O'Mara, speaking on behalf of the Red Cross War Fund drive, now in progress, reviewed the work being done by that organization, both at home and on the battlefronts of the world. He pointed out that for $25 per man per year the Red Cross is doing a wonderful service for the boys in the service. He said there are more than four million volunteer workers throughout the nation, most of them women, giving freely of their time in an effort to aid our boys.

O'Mara said that the people of the United States love and respect the Red Cross and will support it wholeheartedly in this campaign.

George Kuykendall, chairman of the program committee for the luncheon, introduced the speaker, and T. E. Buckner, president of the club, presided.

SPAAF Enlisted Men Contribute $1,342

Enlisted men, who weren't even solicited in the first place, came through with an impressive contribution for South Plains Army Air field's 1944 Red Cross War fund campaign the first day the drive got under way.

A total of $1,342 was contributed by the enlisted men as they passed through the pay lines, all contributions being voluntary. And two squadrons on the field have not yet reported their totals.

The total reached the first day is equivalent to the entire amount which was contributed by enlisted men during the entire month of the 1943 drive and brought high praise from W. J. Rother, field representative of the American Red Cross at SPAAF.

HOW TO RUIN DRESSES AND LOSE FRIENDS

It's tragic how some girls lose their friends and ruin their dresses because of perspiration odor and stains. And there's no excuse for it! It's easy to save dresses, it's easy to save friends.

Use Arrid, the new cream deodorant that helps keep your armpits dry and removes the odor from perspiration. Arrid is safe and dependable for these 5 reasons:

1. Does not irritate skin. Does not rot dresses or men's shirts.
2. Prevents under-arm odor. Helps stop perspiration safely.
3. A pure white, antiseptic, stainless cream.
4. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
5. Awarded Approval Seal of American Institute of Laundering — harmless to fabric. Use Arrid regularly.

Arrid is the largest selling deodorant. Sold at all stores selling toilet goods — 10c, 39c and 59c a jar.

State Cage Tourney Is Started Today

Class AA Teams To Play Friday

AUSTIN, March 2 (AP) — Old timers and newcomers battle it out for Interscholastic league championships in three divisions in the 24th annual state basketball tournament starting here today.

Perrin and Leona, two Class B teams, were to tangle in the tournament's first game in Gregory gymnasium this morning. Coach J. E. Middleton of Perrin, in Jack county, is having his first fling at the big time after seven years of coaching with a team that has not been defeated this year.

Leona, from Leon county in east central Texas, is coming to the big show for the second consecutive year.

Midland To Meet Sunset

While play starts today in the Class B and A leagues, the class AA teams will not go into action until tomorrow. First game in the big school class will be at 3:15 p. m. Friday between Midland and Sunset of Dallas. Waco, a pre-tournament favorite in this loop, gets its first test in the second game of Class AA play, against Highland Park.

Finals will be held in conference B and A Saturday afternoon and conference AA finals will climax the tournament Saturday night.

Other games scheduled today: (Class B)—Blossom vs Ingleside; Grand Falls vs Highland of Roscoe and Stratford vs Prairie Lea. (Class A)—Dimmitt vs Benavides; Huntsville vs Nocona; Mt. Vernon vs Throckmorton and El Campo vs Sidney Lanier.

Jimmy McLarnin Is Now Aiming His Punches At Axis

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (AP)—Eleven years ago Baby Face Jimmy McLarnin, as Irish as the harp of Tara's halls, knocked out Young Corbett III of Fresno, Calif., and won the welterweight championship of the world.

Today Jimmy is still swinging punches, but they are aimed at the Axis. Independently wealthy, the genial and smiling veteran of the prize ring, who retired from boxing in 1936 with a goodly share of the $500,000 he earned, is one of the men behind the man behind the gun.

Goes In For Golf

McLarnin works for an airplane specialties concern in Hollywood. He puts in a full day but whatever spare time he finds usually is devoted to his new love, golf. He's a four handicap man.

McLarnin whipped 13 past and present world champions from 1924 until his retirement. Among his victims were Fidel Labarba, Pancho Villa, Benny Leonard, Tony Canzoneri and Lou Ambers.

Best man he ever faced, and Jimmy doesn't hesitate an instant in this decision, was Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute, Ind., terror.

Sixty-Four Fouls Are Called In Cage Game

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., March 2 (AP)—Most of the action in a regional high school basketball tournament game last night between Waukegan and New Trier of Winnetka was at the free throw lines.

Sixty-two personal and two technical fouls were called by officials, 34 against New Trier, the winners by a 47 to 35 score. Each team scored 21 free throws.

Marshall Denies He Is Trying To Hire Clark Shaughnessy

LOS ANGELES, March 2 (U.P.)—George Preston Marshall, the big wet wash man from Washington threw second-guessing sports fans into confusion today by denying he was trying to hire Clark D. Shaughnessy to coach his pro football Redskins, by admitting that he was trying to get the low down on the "T" formation from the same Shaughnessy, and completing the muddle by insisting he he would like to have him direct his squad.

Marshall, well embarked on a career of double talk to go with his unorthodox antics as head of the Redskins, said his principal difficulty was that his team wasn't underwritten by the United States Treasury.

"Sure I would like to have Shaughnessy or Jeff Cravath, coach of the University of Southern California, even both of them, but I don't have any part of the U. S. Treasury and that's what it would take to get them," he said.

Just A Coincidence

The talkative laundryman said he supposed it was just a coincidence that he and Shaughnessy, coach of the University of Pittsburgh Panthers were in town at the same time.

"Everyone accuses me of trying to coach the team myself—what would I want with a coach?" he wisecracked. "I am trying to get Shaughnessy to help me install a "T" formation on the Redskins—that I will admit."

Marshall, who was fined $500 for an altercation near the Chicago Bears' bench during the National pro football league playoff game late last December, was asked why he was considering a switch from the Notre Dame and single wing back offensive formations in favor of the "T."

"Well, I spent so much time on the Chicago Bears' bench I just realized how good it was," he said.

Frisch Seeks Power For Pittsburgh Club

PITTSBURGH, March 2 (AP) — You can take it from Frank Frisch — there's nothing much wrong with the Pittsburgh Pirates, from this distance at least, that "a few base knocks won't fix."

And to get those base knocks, he's going all-out in reshuffling his lineup with the aim of adding more punch to what was a better-than-average defensive club last year.

Convalescing in a hospital bed after a minor operation, the one-time Fordham Flash went on:

"I'm not predicting anything. I won't have any idea what may be what until after I try these fellows in new spots."

The changes, "if they work out right," will find Bob Elliott, who batted .315 and fielded .949 at third base last year, out in right field. In center would be Jim Russell, taking the place of Vince DiMaggio. Frank Colman, up from Toronto will be over in left field.

The infield is more of a problem.

"Lee Handley will be on third and Babe Dahlgren will take over on first. But short and second—I don't know," Frisch said.

Pete Coscarart or Frankie Gustine will be on second, with Frank Zack or Tony Ordenanna—both newcomers — at short. "Either way, that will be a good fast infield with a lot of hitting power," he said.

The veteran Al Lopez is back as first-line catcher, and the Flash's mound corps of four southpaws and eight right-handers will be headed again by Rip (Blooper Ball) Sewell who won 21 and lost 9 last season. Elwin (Preacher) Roe, lanky left-hander from Columbus and Jim Hopper, from Toronto, are the most promising rookies.

Three Texans In Semi-Finals

Orland Ott Wins His Fifth Bout

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—Three Texans won and three Texans lost in six quarter-final bouts of the Golden Gloves tournament of champions before a crowd of 14,150 in Chicago stadium last night.

Orland Ott, 22-year-old farm boy from Hartley, Iowa, who is an aviation cadet stationed at Chase Field, Corpus Christi, paced the Texans by registering his fifth consecutive victory, the last three technical knockouts, in the heavyweight division.

Ott added Pudgy Louis Kahn, and Army sergeant from Sioux City, Iowa, to his list of victims, polishing him off in three rounds with a TKO.

Finals Set March 10

The original starting field of 240 boxers from 24 states was narrowed to 32 winners who will meet in Chicago stadium March 10 in the finals.

Results of the other bouts in which Texans fought last night: Cpl. Dick Young of Camp Barkeley, Abilene, defeated Robert Pyke, of Muncie, Ind., in three rounds in the 160-pound middleweight class.

Manny Ortega Wins

Sgt. Manny Ortega, El Paso's Biggs Field respresentative in the 126-pound featherweight division, defeated Cpl. Velmond White of St. Louis in three rounds.

Tome Nate, Gary, Ind., fighting in the 112-pound flyweight division, defeated Shirley Gaudet, Beaumont, in three rounds.

In the 118-pound bantamweight division, Clayton Johnson, Sioux City, beat Sgt. L. W. Williams, Corpus Christi Naval Air station, in three rounds.

Pfc. Vince di Venti, Peoria, Ill., scrapping in the 175-pound light heavyweight class, won from Sgt. Pressley Darnell, Fort Worth Army Air field, in their three-round bout.

Fabulous Radio Tinker May Become New Dodgers' Owner

BOSTON, March 2 (AP)—A radio-tinker man, who ran a two-by-four repair shop into a million dollar war industry now operating in the shadow of Boston's Fenway park—home of the Boston Red Sox—may purchase the controlling interest in the fabulous Brooklyn Dodgers.

He is Theodore Roosevelt McElroy, who, according to reports out of New York, is heading a group of baseball fans and businessmen in negotiations aiming toward purchase of the "Bums."

McElroy could not be reached immediately for comment—he was reported as somewhere between his Boston plant, his home in nearby Milton and his summer place in Littleton, N. H., last night. But associates said he is "considering the deal."

Should McElroy gain control of the Dodgers, the Ebbets Field gang will have a head-man after their own hearts, a man whose war plant operates under a vast sign proclaiming:

"The world's best telegraph apparatus manufactured by the world's champion radio telegrapher."

JOHNSON IN SERVICE

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 2 (U.P.)—Billy Johnson, top rookie in the American league in 1943 at his third base post with the New York Yankees, today was a member of the physical training department of the U. S. Maritime officer's training school at nearby Port Trumbull, Conn.

During September, 1943, the United States produced 7598 airplanes, in contrast to the 117 airplanes produced in September, 1939.

Ropes Junior Cagers Beat Cowboys 28-16

The Lubbock Junior High school Cowboys under Coach Russell Wimberley saw the Ropes Juniors take the lead midway in the first quarter Wednesday afternoon at Ropes, and coast in with a 28 to 16 victory over the Lubbock five.

The Cowboys kept pace for awhile, and midway in the period the score was tied at 5 to 5, but Ropes took the lead at that point and were never headed off. Late in the first half, Ropes built the lead up to 15-8.

Means set the pace for the winners, dropping in six field goals and a pair of donation tosses for half his team's points. He accounted for half this in the first half, and matched this in the second period.

Glen Denny set the pace for the Cowboys, getting six points.

FERRELL TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, March 2 (U.P.)—Rick Ferrell, an American league traveling man for 15 years was back with Washington as catcher today and the St. Louis Browns had backstop Angelo Guiliani in his place in a player swap announced by President Clark Griffith of the Senators.

Junior High Series To Resume Today

Play will be resumed this afternoon in the city series between the basketball squads of the Lubbock Junior High school to decide the city's junior cage champions.

The Whites are confident they will even the score against the Blacks, forcing the series into a third game Friday. The Blacks are just as confident they will end the series this afternoon. The game is scheduled to start at 3:45 o'clock.

The Blacks nosed out a four point victory in the series opener Tuesday afternoon.

The two teams have been traveling at high speed all season, and the clashes between the two squads have produced some real thrillers.

A 10 cent admission charge for all comers is being charged for the playoff.

Former Texas Miner Top Kickoff Handler

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP)—Ken Heinemann, who went from Texas Mines to the Brooklyn football Dodgers last year as a passer, wound up the 1943 season in 16th place as a ball thrower but took first in handling kickoffs.

He ran back 16 kickoffs for a total of 442 yards—an average of 27.6. Harry Clark of the Chicago Bears finished second, official statistics showed today, by averaging 25 yards on 13 returns.

Yankee Team Roster Includes 32 Players

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—The champion New York Yankees published their team roster today, listing 32 men as against 26 a year ago. The catch, however, is that the roster lists Joe Gordon, second baseman; Catcher Rollie Hemsley and Pitchers Marius Russo and Spud Chandler, all of whom are very unlikely to play because they may be called into the armed forces any day.

Cope And Manderson Named Co-Captains

The Lubbock Westerners, district basketball champions, named Bill Cope and Marion Manderson co-captains in a meeting of team members Wednesday afternoon.

The two are seniors and will not be back with the team next season.

The two seasoned stars paced the Westerners in scoring. Cope finishing the season with 219 points while Manderson finished in second place. They were also outstanding performers on the defense and supplied much of the leadership of the team on the firing line.

Captains were named before each game during the season.

A lady friend of ours insists that if a woman is nothing but "a rag, a bone and a hank of hair," then a man can't be anything more than "a nag, a drone and a tank of air!"

H. J. McCabe, dean of boys at Senior High school, asks us to tell the public of a new policy adopted for all Westerner athletic contests and also to say that the high school boys and girls would like for the adult public to cooperate with them in it.

As is done in many high schools and colleges over the nation, Lubbock High youngsters have decided to close all contests—win, lose, or draw—with mass singing of the Westerner song. The way the thing works out, immediately after the final play, the students will stand and sing their song.

The students do not expect the adults to join in the singing unless they choose to do so. But they do ask that the adults rise and remain in their places until the singing is over.

We can't see any reason why adults can't, or shouldn't, co-operate with the youngsters in this regard.

High school loyalty and spirit may not mean much to the oldsters, in a personal way. But it means a lot to the kids and certainly it means something to the adult population of Lubbock that the high schoolers have good school spirit and loyalty.

So next time you go to a Lubbock High contest, don't be in such a hurry to get away that you spoil things for the student body.

After adults co-operate a few times, they'll become accustomed to the idea and they'll find they won't miss the extra five minutes, anyhow.

THERE is one way to be rich and/or famous that, in the good, old USA, never fails. That one way is to do whatever you do to an exaggerated extent.

Red Skelton, the latest of the new successes among the comedians, uses the "little boy technique." That isn't new. It isn't original. But Skelton's little boy technique is the extremest of all. So its practitioner has come from nowhere to stardom in a very short time.

The movie comedy team of Abbott and Costello, which has made more money than any comparable duo in the past several years, is as corny as a bursting corncrib. But because the partners will go further for laughs than any other team of cinema buffoons, it has become tops at the box-office.

Not only in the entertainment field does this recipe hold good.

Henry Ford, more than any other one man, means "automobiles." Not that it is universally conceded that car bearing the Ford name is the best of all automobiles manufactured, but because Mr. Ford has made and sold more automobiles than any other one man.

Albert Einstein has the reputation for being the nation's outstanding mathematical genius, simply because the Einstein theory goes further than any other into the realm of the unknown. It is exaggeration, just as the antics of Abbott and Costello are exaggeration—only in a different and highly scientific field.

We could name many other examples—and so can the reader. So if you're looking for a blueprint to success in any field:

Play your efforts longer, farther, than anyone else. That means even more than doing better than anyone else.

AS our good friend Mason King, who writes the Line Rider column in The Amarillo News, is wont to say, "it's news when a man bites a dog, but it's worth an extra when The Plainsman of Lubbock has anything good to say about Amarillo."

If Mason is right, then he'd better be sure Wes Izzard, the erudite editor of the Amarillo Globe-News, is ready with his extra. For we not only want to compliment our neighbors to the north; we want to say that what they have done in one regard, at least, is well worth copying by every other community in the land—from New York down to Yap's Crossing.

Anticipating the day of United Nations victory, Amarilloans want to make sure that the event will not touch off an unseeming riotous and bacchanalian celebration. And they have moved, already, to avoid any misguided and disgraceful goings-on.

On Victory Day, immediately upon receipt of the good news, every liquor store in Amarillo will close tight, and remain closed until regular opening time the following day.

On the other hand, every other sort of business house will close tight for at least two hours, during which every citizen will be urged to attend religious services which will be pre-arranged in every detail.

Thus Amarillo is trying to assure itself of a Victory celebration which will be sober and sane.

This war business is a serious thing to a lot of people —especially those with loved ones at the blood-drenched fronts.

When it is won, a great many of those people will want to make at least their first recognition of the event one of thanks to Divine Providence.

Any disorder and widespread public brawling will be more than distasteful to a lot of people—not only those who are total abstainers from liquor, but also many others who feel that liquor is all right in its place.

THE Amarillo move is one which should be pushed by business and civic interests everywhere and especially by the manufacturers of, and dealers in, liquor.

In the first place, if the 1918 Armistice celebration is repeated on Victory Day this time, there will be many people killed; many hurt and much damage to property. All these things are bad from a business and civic standpoint in every community. Therefore, business and civic interests should approve and sponsor, in their own communities, the Amarillo move.

In the second place, by following the Amarillo plan everywhere, the liquor interests will avoid making a lot of active new enemies and goading their old foes into new rages.

All in all—in fact from every angle—the Amarillo idea is a jimdandy. We can and should follow it in Lubbock as best we can.

Our liquor handling, being illicit, cannot be controlled on Victory Day any more than it is controlled on any other day. But we can have a two-hour layoff for religious services, fully arranged in advance, and we should have it.

Blood Runs Cold

BY ANN DEMAREST

(Copyright, 1944, By The Associated Press).

YESTERDAY: Richard confesses to Dirck and Christine that Lathrop's wife is the woman who was involved in the "suicide" of Joan's father. She is a ruthless, unrestrained woman . . . Richard seems definitely uneasy when he goes up to his room at four A. M.

Chapter 27

Body In The Snow

"I can't see why Mary Ann would have been deviling Joan Kent," Dirck said with a frown. "All I know is, I don't like the girl."

"Why, Dirck? She's awfully pretty and she seems nice."

"Women like that, Miss Howarth, are leeches," he said in a loud voice as he came over to my chair.

"Quietly, quietly, Mr. Kolff. I don't want the whole house to know you're rooming with me."

He grinned. "I trust that I'm not adding to your already frayed reputation."

"Couldn't we hang a blanket between us?" I asked. "I saw that once in the movies and I thought it was enchanting."

"I daresay it won't drown out your snores," he said politely. "So why bother? Are you or are you not going to bed?"

"I'm not," I said firmly. "When the next person comes down that fire escape I want to have both feet on the floor ready to run. Preparedness is my motto."

"Stop smoking and put your arms down. I'm going to tuck you in."

He wrapped me up so securely in a heavy blue blanket that I couldn't have moved an inch if the murderer had given me ten minutes' notice.

"I hope I won't have to get up for anything," I said very feebly.

He glared at me, turned out the lights and curled up in a chair by the door. In two minutes he was asleep, very obviously asleep. I saved that up to tell him about in the morning.

Instead of feeling tired, amazingly I was quite wide awake and, putting Dirck firmly out of my mind, I set out to solve the mystery.

Joan Kent was murdered, and by whom?

There seemed to be quite a few people who had motives of one sort or another. It was surprising that a girl of her age could get so involved and so innocently involved, at least as far as I could tell.

First of all, Harry Kincaid, who had obviously made himself objectionable and had been forced to leave the house because Richard had threatened to kill him. My theory was that he'd have killed Richard, not Joan.

Then Adrianne Wells, in love with Harry Kincaid and jealous of Joan. Her actions were enough to send her to the gallows, but would she murder anyone? I could imagine her doing all sorts of petty things, but hardly murder.

And what did little red-headed Mary Ann have to do with it? Richard apparently had something against her and she'd been annoying Joan. And then I remembered that Mary Ann said she'd dropped in to see Joan that evening of the murder. Since Adrianne was up in Whitefield's apartment no one knew positively that Mary Ann had come home and gone directly to her room. I was one up on the Sergeant. He'd never mentioned that, unless the color of her hair automatically removed all guilt.

Tim Lathrop! He was very much in love with Joan, but driven by his wife. And from all I heard about her she would stop at nothing. Had she been up to see Joan more than once? Tim had been up, too, and the girl's uncle, and Harry Kincaid, and then for the first time I had a vague hunch, but before I could pounce on it my mind refused to work any more. I fell asleep thinking vaguely of Toby and Bermuda. A hodgepodge of coral beaches, tennis shoes, white roofs and bicycles. In the past twenty-four hours Toby had beaten a hasty retreat in my mind.

Something Wrong

And sleep I did. I could have been strangled and not have wakened. Dirck told me later that he called a dozen times, quietly of course, so as not to waken the others in the house, before I finally opened my eyes. It frightened him. I must have been dreaming because I seemed to be shut in a dark closet with someone who was trying to lock my arms in a tight grip. And when I finally came to and realized where I was, Dirck was shaking me by the shoulders.

Dazed as I was with sleep, I knew something had gone wrong. In the dim light Dirck looked tired, his face was white and his eyes hollow. He motioned me not to talk as he unwrapped the blanket and drew me towards the window.

I stood beside him, shivering and bewildered, as he pushed the curtain side and drew up the window.

In the cold gray light of that winter morning I saw a policeman standing at the corner of the house.

On the walk beside him stretched a figure, a man, sprawled grotesquely, one leg doubled under his body, his fair head lying in the darkly spreading stain on the snowy path.

At my side I could feel the pressure of Dirck's hand on my arm, steadying me.

I closed my eyes. I wanted to shut out what I had seen, to erase it from my mind — that head etched so sharply in the snow—the policeman keeping watch over that poor, shattered body.

And yet it clung to my mind in clear detail as though it had been painted there.

Minutes must have passed before I could swallow the lump in my throat and force a word through my lips. They felt stiff, frozen.

"Richard?" I choked. "Oh, Dirck, is it Richard?"

He nodded.

"When," I cried jerkily. "Dirck . . . when . . . did you find . . . him?"

"A few minutes ago." His voice seemed to come from far away.

He closed the window and turned back to put his arms around me. I buried my head against his shoulder.

"Never mind, Chris. Never mind."

I shivered in his arms. "What time is it?"

"Seven o'clock. Chris, listen to me. I have to leave you for a few minutes. Will you be all right? You see, I must tell Mr. Kimball."

I drew away from him.

"I got hold of a policeman," he said jerkily, "and the detective in the shop called the Sergeant from . . . Richard's apartment. Long is coming right away." He bent over me anxiously. "Are you sure you'll be all right? I'll be back in a couple of minutes. Don't be afraid. Nothing can happen to you now."

And Dirck walked quickly out of the room, closing the door behind him, leaving me alone, my hands clenched in the pockets of my bathrobe, too weak to move away from the window.

It was a dark morning. The sky was a sullen gray in strange contrast with the pure white of the snow in the yard, except for that dark blotch where Richard lay.

Almost Unbearable

It was almost unbearable, being alone. Finally I made myself walk away from the window, cross the room and turn on the lights. And then I knelt in front of the fireplace and crumpled newspapers for a fire. My fingers were clumsy and stiff. It was cold and damp even with the windows closed and there was a stale scent of tobacco smoke. Most of the kindling had been used and there was only one small log left, but enough for a small fire.

Then, shivering, I crept into the wing chair to wait. And for five or ten minutes I sat there without moving.

"Chris." It was Dirck in the doorway.

I looked up and told him to come in. He came over to the stool and held his hands before the fire. It was the first time I had ever noticed his hands, they were strong, and his fingers were long and tapering. And then I wondered why I kept thinking about them when Richard was dead, when there had been another murder.

His face was drawn, and when he finally spoke again his voice was sharp and tired.

"I told Mr. Kimball," he said. "I think he'll go mad. His eyes were terrible."

"Does anyone else in the house know?"

After a long moment he said, "They have not been told." There was a strange, frightening expres-

Today's Journal Editorial

GIVE US ONLY A JIFFY!

It seems a little strange at times that folks get along so well in their ignorance of the things they don't know. We wager, for example, that few people have been conscious of a void in their lives if, like the editor, they have lived in ignorance of the definition of the word, "jiffy." The editor is now discovering just what a contract he has been binding himself to when, on occasions, he has made some such promise as, "I'll be there in a jiffy."

Well, it seems that a "jiffy" is pretty rapid. It is the time required, we are informed, for a beam of light to travel a distance of one centimeter. As every college professor should know, of course, a centimeter is approximately two-fifths of an inch, or more exactly, .3937 of one inch.

Everyone doubtless is aware that light is reputed to travel 186,272 miles per second, approximately. From all this information and with a few pages of scratch paper, plenty of time to waste and sufficient mathematical skill, one can arrive at the computation that one "jiffy" equals, approximately, .0000000000333333 plus of one second, which, roughly, is 333,333-quadrillionths of a second. Incidentally, we didn't figure this out ourselves. We found it in a book.

What is the purpose of all this? Give us a jiffy while we try to figure an answer to that one.

Washington Notebook

BY JACK STINNETT
Capital Correspondent

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the absence of Walter Winchell's column today we present a Washington commentary by one of our correspondents in the nation's capital).

WASHINGTON, March 2 — In these days when women are getting so much credit for doing men's jobs, the Forest Service would like it known that 16 per cent of its lookout personnel last year and maybe anything up to 40 per cent this year will be women.

They are fire-watchers and firefighters and some of them have proved that they can match any man in blazing a trail up untrodden peaks, but so far as I know, nobody has given them a name like WACs, WAVES, etc.

Their boss here is Perry A. "Pat" Thompson, chief of the Forest Service division of fire control, and he is proud as all get-out about the way these strictly outdoor girls have performed.

Last year, there were more than 500 girls in the lookout service. This year there may be more than twice that number (the peak of fire lookout employment doesn't come until the dry summer season) and there isn't even a hint in the reports that the girls haven't proved just as effective at keeping forest fires under control as the men who now are gone to the wars.

INTRODUCTIONS MADE

I KNOW of no better way of explaining what these women are doing than introducing you to a few of them.

There is, for instance, Edith Bedal, who is a forest guard in the Mount Baker National Forest above the Sauk River Valley in Washington.

Her boss out there reports that Edith is the daughter of a French-Canadian trapper and an Indian mother, who has known the ways of the woods from infancy. That gives her a head start on some of her city cousins who are doing the same type of work, but Miss Bedal is no great exception.

Last year was her second year with the Forest Service, and in addition to manning a lookout (without help), she runs a string of six packhorses (if you are that interested, go to the library, and try to figure out how you would throw a diamond hitch on just one pack horse and get on the trial before sun-up); cooks for fire crews; and on occasion has single-handedly subdued fires that once out of hand might have levelled thousands of acres.

DORA HUNT and Maxine Hipkoe were the two young women assigned to the Norse Peak lookout, in the White River area, also in Washington. They had to learn map-reading, weather reporting, the use of fire-finding instruments, and elementary fire-fighting before their jobs were cleared. Then up a three-mile trail where only pack horses could go, in a glass-walled house, with only blue mountain ranges, green valleys and snow-capped peaks for neighbors, they settled down to a summer that few city-bred girls experience. On July 11, their little lookout was rocked by an icy mountain-top blizzard.

In none of the areas listed were there any serious fires last summer, but all the "alerts" were handled so promptly there couldn't well have been.

The forest service has reason to be proud of its lookoutettes.

YOUR capital in wartime:

I don't know if other communities are experimenting with it, but the Washington school system has developed a combined work study program that government officials and some private employers here say is the best little manpower boon that has come their way.

In the last semester, more than 300 high school students, majoring in business, have performed 80,000 man hours of work and earned for themselves an aggregate of more than $40,000. In addition they have received credits toward graduation and those who have been graduated and didn't wish a college education have stepped right into permanent jobs at the pay of experienced workers.

A survey by school officials shows that these youngsters are working part time in agriculture, the War Manpower Commission, the Maritime Commission, State Department, Civil Service Commission, National Archives, the FBI, the National Education Association, and several private businesses, including groceries, filling stations and various retail stores.

STANDARDS MAINTAINED

THOSE working in the government take regular civil service examinations and are rated as part-time employes. Their average pay is 63 cents an hour, although some as "junior clerks" make much more. The pay, as a matter of fact, the survey shows, ranges from 40 cents to 75 cents an hour.

The students work from 15 to more than 22 hours a week and their high school classes (each must carry at least four subjects, two of which are business courses) are so arranged that they have their afternoons free. For 15 to 22 hours, they are given one full school credit; and an additional half credit for all above that.

Scholastic standards must be maintained if the students are allowed to continue work, but instructors report that in most instances the youngsters have upped their grades while taking on outside duties.

The Pacific Colossus Gets a Hotfoot

Combat Soldiers Deserve Something More Than Medals

Ernie Suggests "Fight Pay" For Line Troops

By ERNIE PYLE
Journal War Correspondent

IN ITALY, March 2. (By Wireless) — In my usual role of running other people's business, I've been thrashing around with an idea—honest. It's to give the combat soldiers some little form of recognition more than he is getting now.

ERNIE PYLE

Everybody who serves overseas, no matter where or what he's doing, gets extra pay. Enlisted men get 20% additional and officers 10%.

Airmen get an extra 50% above this for flight pay. As a result, officer-fliers get 60% above their normal base pay and enlisted fliers such as gunners and radio operators get 70%.

All that is fine and as it should be, but the idea I was toying with is why not give your genuine combat ground soldier something corresponding to flight pay? Maybe a good phrase for it would be "fight pay."

"Medals Not Enough"

Of any one million men overseas probably no more than 100,000 are in actual combat with the enemy. But as it is now, there is no official distinction between the dogface lying for days and nights under constant mortar fire on an Italian hill, and the headquarters clerk living comfortably in a hotel in Rio de Janeiro.

Their two worlds are so far apart the human mind can barely grasp the magnitude of the difference. One lives like a beast and dies in great numbers. The other is merely working away from home. Both are doing necessary jobs, but it seems to me the actual warrior deserves something to set him apart. And medals are not enough.

WHEN I was at the front the last time several infantry officers brought up this same suggestion. They say combat pay would mean a lot to the fighting man. It would put him into a proud category and make him feel that somebody appreciates what he endures.

Obviously no soldier would ever go into combat just to get extra "fight pay." That isn't the point. There is not enough money in the world to pay any single individual his due for battle suffering.

But it would put a mark of distinction on him, a recognition that his miserable job was a royal one and that the rest of us were aware of it.

Mean Trick Played

One of the meanest stunts I've heard of was a Christmas envelope full of clippings that a practical joker back home sent a soldier over here.

The clippings consisted of colored ads cut out of magazines—and they showed every luscious American thing from huge platters of ham and eggs on up to vacationists lolling in bright bathing robes on the sand, surrounded by beautiful babes. There ought to be a law.

ON second thought, I know even a meaner trick than that one. In fact this one would take first prize in an orneriness contest at any season, Christmas or otherwise. The worst is that it happened to a front-line infantryman.

Some of his friends back home sent him three bottles of whisky for Christmas. They came separately, were wonderfully packed, and the bottles came through without a break.

The first bottle tasted fine to the cold kids at the front, but when the second and third ones came the boys found they had been opened and drained along the way, then carefully resealed and continued on their journey.

Of course, mailing them in the first place was illegal, but that's beside the point. The point is that somewhere in the world there is a louse of a man with two quarts of whisky inside him who should have his neck wrung off.

That Cured Them!

At one of our airdromes recently a German plane sneaked over and dropped five-pronged steel spikes over the field. Our fliers called it a "jacks raid," since the spikes resembled the "jacks" that kids used to play with in school, only much bigger. These vicious spikes would puncture the tires when our planes taxied out.

So the field engineers got a huge magnet, attached it to the front of a truck, and swept the field free of the spikes. Then they were loaded into our planes and dropped on German airfields. There haven't been any "jacks raids" since.

HOW MUCH MONEY are you making from your DAIRY BUSINESS?

Never before was it more important to put your dairy herd on the most efficient basis possible. Whether you are milking two cows or twenty, every extra pound of milk you can produce, every bag of feed you can save means extra cash in your pocket. Furthermore, efficient feeding means less work per pound of milk produced, and that's a welcome bonus these days.

TRY

STANTON'S 18% MILK PRODUCER

MANAMAR Calf Pellets

These pellets save up to 1500 lbs. of milk for each calf you raise. The pellets cost from $30 to $40 LESS than the milk would bring if sold. And you don't have the mess of mixing gruel.

It's developed and mixed right here in Lubbock to meet local needs and local conditions. It's tailor-made for feeders who demand efficient production. In addition, Stanton's 18% Milk Producer contains ManAmar, a product of the sea, rich in the proteins, minerals and vitamins which the ocean contains in vast quantities. Come in today and get all the facts.

News Briefs

District Attorney Harold M. LaFont of the 106th judicial district, of Plainview, was in Lubbock this morning in connection with federal court business.

Fines aggregating $800 were assessed against Joe Valdez, 23, a Mexican, after he had pleaded guilty this morning in county court of liquor law violations; and Earl Self, 22, on a similar plea, was fined $100 and costs, said County Attorney Syrian E. Marbut. Jack Garza, 25, another Mexican, was fined $25 and costs by J. T. Inmon, justice of peace, on a plea of guilty of theft of a case of beer from an automobile, it was announced.

Mrs. Thelma Hamilton of 1614 Avenue J charged informally that someone had entered her room at midmorning and stolen a suit, locket and pair of gold wings, valued in total at $34.50. There had been no arrests this afternoon, police said.

possible jumping-off spot for air attacks on Truk in the Carolines.

Landing-Craft Turned Back

In contrast with preliminary reports that the landing met no opposition, Associated Press War Correspondent Olen Clements, with the assault forces, reported Japanese shore guns blasted heavily at units of the First (dismounted) cavalry division and caused at least one landing craft to turn back. Clements said there is a considerable enemy force on neighboring Manus island, largest in the group, but no reports of battle action there have been received.

"Our losses throughout these operations have been negligible," headquarters communiqued.

But a different story was told by Tokyo radio in a broadcast to China and not for home consumption. In the Tokyo version, the Admiralty landing force "was entirely wiped out," seven or eight U. S. ships were sunk and more than 230 soldiers killed. An Allied landing attempt on Manus island was reported and the "enemy was again inflicted heavy losses.

Significantly, U. S. government monitors said they have heard no Tokyo radio report to the Japanese homeland concerning the Admiralties operations.

The Allied communique also reported a 153-ton bombing raid on Rabaul Monday without meeting air opposition, and other strikes against New Guinea coastal bases.

Other airmen, operating from Central Pacific bases, blasted Wake island Monday for the 14th time since the former U. S. possession fell to the Japanese after the Pearl Harbor attack Navy heavy bombers probably destroyed six parked enemy planes.

Three enemy-held atolls in the eastern Marshalls islands were hit by Army and Navy planes and Nauru, phosphate-producing, island west of the Marshalls, was raided by a Navy search plane.

Japanese shipping in the Pacific, already hard hit by American planes and ships, has suffered additionally from attacks by a small fleet of Dutch submarines, heroic remnants of a naval force virtually wiped out during the Japanese drive through the Dutch East Indies in 1942.

Capt. L. G. L. van der Kun, former chief of staff of the Netherlands naval forces in the Pacific, revealed in Washington Dutch submarines sank 55,000 tons of enemy shipping in 20 months off the Dutch East Indies "despite the fact we could average only two submarines in operation at one time."

Japanse forces in Burma, who van der Kun said must be supplied 90 per cent by water route from Tokyo, lost the town of Makaw in the north to Chinese troops but offered stiffening resistance to other Allied forces driving down the Kaladan valley.

U. S. and RAF fliers ranged over most of Burma Monday and Tuesday, hitting communications, transport and troop concentrations.

term for President Roosevelt.

Although Mr. Roosevelt's decision is not known, he is receiving more than "mention" as an aspirant for a fourth term. Thus, in addition to being described as president of the United States and commander in chief of the armed forces, Mr. Roosevelt also can be mentioned as a possible seeker of a fourth term, according to a spokesman for Davis.

But, he said, if an OWI dispatch should quote someone as saying that the chief executive intends to run again this fall, the dispatch must also point out the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has not committed himself on this matter in any way.

ENGINEERS CONTRIBUTE

Members of the Army Engineers Specialized Training program at Texas Technological college believe in the Red Cross as was evidenced this week week when the college soldiers made their contributions in the National Red Cross War fund drive. Even though the boys get only Army pay, a $20 bill, several $5 bills and scores of dollar bills were dropped into the Red Cross basket.

"We know we'll get our money back later on," one Engineer remarked.

Congratulations To:

Cavalry Unit Given Praise

BY OLEN CLEMENTS
Associated Press Staff Writer

THE ADMIRALTY ISLANDS, Feb. 29 (Delayed)—Big, brawling cavalrymen, trained on the rough and tumble Texas border, stormed ashore on Los Negros island in the Admiralty group at 8:15 a. m. today and one hour and a half later had captured Momote air field.

Their brilliant move was accomplished with negligible loss. Known Japanese casualties in the first few hours were 73 dead.

The dismounted cavalrymen, components of the First cavalry division, went ashore in small boats that weathered intense fire from Japanese shore guns. The first wave made it without a scratch, but the second and third waves were caught in heavy fire. One of them had to turn back momentarily but finally reached the island after a Navy gunner had been killed.

Japs Taken By Surprise

The smooth landing caught the Japanese by complete surprise. Our convoy, all warships, showed up off the islands at dawn. The sky was overcast.

The warships spread out along the beach and began pouring heavy shells into the Japanese positions.

The Japanese shore guns replied.

Then the fast little assault boats put out from the destroyers which carried troops.

The small number of cavalrymen in the assault boats piled out on the beach and began to spray the tops of cocoanut trees with their rapid-fire guns to clear out snipers.

Bombers Strafe Japs

Army Mitchell bombers came in low to strafe the Japanese and drop bombs. The heavy bombs shattered the stillness and circles of smoke rose where they exploded.

The second wave started in. The men were laughing and joking. Almost four years they had been training for this moment and here it was, not so bad after all.

One of them pulled out a harmonica and played a boogie-woogie tune briefly. Someone said something about their last words and Capt. Phil North of Fort Worth, said, "my last words probably will be: 'Quick somebody get a doctor; I've been hit.'"

A few minutes later the Navy gunner in North's boat was decapitated by a shell from shore. The coxswain turned the boat around and went back to the ship, unloaded the body, picked up another gunner and dashed to the beach.

difficult to take seriously," Ickes replied.

British Attitude Unknown

He said in response to other questions that he "didn't know" how the British felt about the line and that he was "determined" to build it regardless of "how heated congressional or other criticism may become "unless the legislature specifically prohibits it.

Ickes met reporters almost simultaneously with an announcement by the export-import bank that it had authorized a $10,000,000 credit to the Mexican government for the purchase of materials for construction of a 100-octane gasoline refinery near Mexico City. Under the agreement, the United States retains a right to purchase as much of the refinery's output as it wishes up to Aug. 1, 1950.

The Mexican Petroleum company, it was revealed, has employed Arthur G. McKee & Co., Cleveland, to construct the plant and has retained the Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla., to furnish technical advice on operation of the plant.

but that the enemy still has strong forces in the area, and "it is doubtful whether his full strength has yet been exerted."

In the Pacific, the secretary said, the extension of Allied control to the Gilbert, Marshall and — most recently — Admiralty islands took from Japan a great segment of its outer defense rim, and "its secondary defense line, composed of the Marianas, the Carolines and the Philippines now lies open to attack."

On Europe's eastern front, Stimson reported, the initiative everywhere remains with the Soviet forces.

placed Govorov's troops approximately 15 miles inside Estonio.

The Russians met powerful German resistance in the Narova crossing, the Moscow bulletin said, but Govorov's infantry and artillery smashed through, killing 1,200 Nazi troops and routing two regiments in the bridgehead battle and capturing 25 big guns, together with other abandoned war material.

New Search Started For Missing Bomber

DENVER, March 2. (U.P.) — Hope of finding an Army four-motored bomber, missing since last Saturday night, was spurred today by a report from a New Mexico rancher, who said he saw a fire in the mountainous area near Raton early Sunday.

Officials at Lowry field in Denver said that a new search would begin today on horseback through the wild, craggy region about 40 miles east of Raton.

Ten men were aboard the plane, which was en route back to its base at Clovis, N. M., after a combat training flight to Lowry field. Last radio contact with the plane came just as it left Denver on the return flight.

Huntsville Chaplain Protests Discharge

HUNTSVILLE, March 2 (U.P.)—Rev. C. E. Garrett, Protestant chaplain at the state prison here for nearly 17 years, said today he had appealed from an order discharging him "for the good of the service."

The order was issued yesterday by Maj. D. W. Stakes, general manager of the prison system.

Neither Garrett nor Stakes would disclose specific reasons for the dismissal, but the Methodist minister promised he would have "plenty to say" Monday when the prison board meets in Houston to hear his appeal.

Brutality Charged In Texas Prison Farms

DALLAS, March 2. (U.P. — Brutality, even to the point of shooting, of prisoners on one of Texas' prison farms was charged today by Rep. J. B. Sallas of Crockett, a member of a legislative investigating committee.

An investigation of that farm, which Sallas did not name, was interrupted by the committee being ordered out of the buildings by the farm manager who used a "loud voice and threatening gestures."

Sallas said that some prisoners had been shot, others whipped by guards and "all made to live in a state of deathly fear of violence."

Big Bombers In Anzio Fight

day had won back 1,000 yards.

In the opening hours of the attack German infantry rode tanks into battle and helped lift Allied mines. A steady rain, however, turned open fields into a quagmire and forced the tanks to stay on the highways.

The Germans were given only minor support by their airmen. Spitfires shot down three Focke-Wulfe 190s out of six over the beachhead yesterday. A Junkers 88 was shot down Tuesday night over Anzio. No German planes appeared yesterday.

German Lines Bombed

American Warhawks bombed German front line positions yesterday and other Warhawks and Spitfires cut to the rear, hitting other targets. British Wellingtons were thrown into the fray last night, dropping blockbusters and hitting troop concentrations with fragmentation bombs. All returned safely.

Allied artillery was credited with a prime role in breaking up the main enemy attacks. Heavy fire from the big guns knocked out several German tanks near Ponte Rotto.

The Germans constantly shelled the Allied port areas during the heighth of the attack Tuesday.

Allied artillery broke up a small-scale German diversionary attack Tuesday about two miles due south of Cisterna and a total of 111 prisoners, including four officers, were taken. An Allied counter-blow wiped out small enemy gains. In the same general area, southwest of Littoria, Allied troops took more than 20 prisoners from a Nazi patrol of 30 to 50 men.

British Score Gain

In the gullies and caves of the upper Moletta river sector southwest of Carroceto, British troops still are engaging the Germans in successful encounters, it was announced. There, a British tank force, piercing the German lines at dawn Tuesday, entered a small settlement, shot up an enemy position, then retired.

Only minor patrol actions occurred on the main Fifth army and Eighth army fronts.

The weather limited air operations sharply, but the persistent hammering the enemy was kept up elsewhere besides the beachhead. RAF Bostons bombed rail installations south of Rome Tuesday night and Desert Air force Spitfires attacked enemy shipping off the Dalmatian coast yesterday, setting several small vessels afire.

Soviet Peace Terms

they had been transmitted to parliament but gave no hint of the government's attitude.

The liberal Helsinki newspaper Uusi Suomi, of whose board Premier Edwin Linkomies is a member, declared flatly that "peace cannot be reached on the basis of the announced conditions."

The liberal Huvudstadsbladet, leading Swedish language newspaper in Finland, declared that the Soviet terms "do not open those perspectives to peace we so eagerly wanted."

Finnish quarters in Stockholm said after talking with persons in Helsinki that it was unlikely that Finland would accept the Russian proposals — mainly because she could not afford to withdraw her troops from their present positions as a preliminary to further talks.

Miss Beulah Dixon Dies At Petersburg

Miss Beulah Dixon, 33, of Petersburg, died about 10 o'clock this morning at the residence of a sister, Mrs. R. T. Stack, there. Miss Dixon had resided in Petersburg about four years.

Besides the sister, she is survived by five brothers, Wylie, Frank and Marvin of Oklahoma, Walter of Petersburg and Jess, in foreign service with the U. S. Army.

The body will be carried overland to Davis, Okla., for burial by Rix Funeral home of Lubbock. Funeral services will probably be conducted at Davis Sunday afternoon.

In 24 months, the AAF expanded to 2,800,000 men, many more than were in the entire Army when war was declared; our Navy air force grows at the rate of about 500 planes a month, and pilots are being turned out at the rate of 75,000 a year.

Finns Causing Some Anxious Moments

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Finnish press today was taking a hostile view of Moscow's armistice terms, and Finns in Stockholm expressed the opinion that their country wasn't likely to accept the Red proposals, mainly because she couldn't afford to withdraw her troops from their present positions as a preliminary to further talks.

However, Helsinki presumably is sparring for position. Finland's alternative to making peace now is to invite disaster by continuing as an ally of the Hitlerites. America, giving friendly advice, has warned the Finns that they must quit or their blood will be on their own hands.

Anxious Moment For All

It's an anxious moment not only for harassed little Finland but for all the United Nations, since her submission undoubtedly would set in motion great events favorable to the Allied cause. As the signs read, capitulation by the Finns might impel Bulgaria also to desert the Axis. Realizing all this, you get an added significance from Marshal Stalin's statement to President Roosevelt that he believes the final defeat of Hitler is near.

Stalin's Red Armies have set the Hitlerian battle line in Russia rocking until even its extreme flanks are being shaken. Those flanks are Finland in the north and Bulgaria in the south.

There certainly is a strong possibility that both countries would become temporary battle grounds, until the Germans were cleared out by force, or were threatened with being cut off and annihilated. It would be too much to expect Hitler to abandon these positions voluntarily.

Getting Finland out of the war and clearing that country of Germans would help to make the Baltic states untenable for the Nazis and expedite the Red advance in this territory.

It would release the Red Navy into the Baltic sea. It would relieve the German menace which long has hung over Russia's great Arctic port of Murmansk, and permit a free flow of supplies into the Soviet from the north. It would in due course release large numbers of Red troops from the Finnish war and permit of their use elsewhere.

Bulgaria's desertion of the Axis would be to the Balkans what a lighted match would be to a keg of gun-powder. The whole peninsula probably would blow up in Hitler's face, for Rumania and Hungary couldn't long stand the strain.

A curious thing to say, I thought. "They have not been told."

Did Dirck mean that someone in the house knew what had happened without being told? Was there someone in the four floors of this old brownstone house who knew Richard was lying dead there in the snow?

Dirck buried his face in his hands. "It's my fault," he said slowly. "Somehow—in some way—I should have stopped it."

"Dirck—no—don't worry so." I got up and went over to sit on the stool beside him.

His head was bent forward so that I couldn't see his face, and his arms hung limply at his sides now.

"How did it happen that you found him—or don't you want to talk?"

There was an odd light in his eyes as Dirck raised his head and looked at me. "I woke up," he said, "and I though I heard a noise in his room, so I tiptoed out and went upstairs. Richard wasn't there. The window was open, so I looked out." He buried his face in his hands again. "I don't know—the house was quiet, of course—you were asleep. You are the only person, though, I know couldn't have done it." And then he added irrelevantly, "You looked so pretty asleep there in the chair."

He jumped to his feet. "Well, you'd better dress now. I'll go down to see Mr. Kimball again. Poor old Ishi's scared out of his seven senses."

It took about fifteen minutes under the hot shower before I felt as though I even had the strength to dress. And by the time I had rubbed myself dry and was back in the room again I could hear the Sergeant downstairs.

It was funny, but the sound of his voice calling me from the shop brought me back to normal. It was very reassuring to hear him.

Fourth Term Move Is Well Advanced

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)—The "stop-Roosevelt" advocates in the Democratic party have announced moves in the South, in Massachusetts, and in any other primary state where they can get on the ballot, but a check today shows President Roosevelt already has tentative promises of four-fifths of the convention vote needed for a fourth term nomination.

No Democratic convention delegates have yet been chosen. The first ten will be elected in a New Hampshire primary March 14.

But with the filing today of nomination papers in Wisconsin for a slate of delegates pledged to a fourth term, preliminary steps have been taken—so far without noticeable opposition—to line up 476 convention votes for Mr. Roosevelt. And these come from only 13 states, all outside the Solid South.

There will be 1,176 votes in the convention, with a majority—589—needed to nominate.

Fourth term proponents say that with 35 states having 700 convention votes still to be counted in any preliminary surveys, it will take something of a miracle to stop another Roosevelt nomination.

Award Offered For Proposed Memorial

TEMPLE, March 2. (AP) — E. B. LaRoche of Dallas, vice president of the Texas society of Architects, has been named to head a committee to outline provisions of a competition for the design of a 36th division memorial.

A cash prize of $1,000 has been offered by a group of Temple citizens for the best design for the proposed memorial here. Bartlett Cocke, San Antonio, president of th Texas society of Architects, advised the 36th division memorial committee the organization would be happy to serve as professional advisor in the competition.
