Holiday Spirit To Reign In City Today

HERE ended the titanic struggle between the nations, just 19 years ago today. Dazzling white against the massive green of the Forest of Compeigne, stands this new monument to Marshal Ferdinand Foch, on the spot near Rethondes where German emissaries came to him to ask for the end of fighting. The monument is built right where stood the railway carriage of the Allied commander when the guns along the Western front stopped speaking and Unknown Soldiers ceased—for a time—to die.

Morgenthau Pledges Drive For Economy

Treasury Leader Calls For Less U. S. Spending

Balancing Of Budget, Remedy For Tax "Defects" Promised; Senator Byrd Makes Demand

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Opposing a revival of "pump priming" as unnecessary, Secretary Morgenthau pledged the Roosevelt administration tonight "to balance the budget through cutting expenditures."

In what appeared to be an effort to encourage business to pull itself out of its current slump, the treasury secretary hinted that tax "defects" would be remedied.

Calls For Less Spending

He advocated balancing the budget by a $695,000,000 reduction in next year's federal expenditures. Specifically, he called for less spending on relief, highways, public works and agriculture—apparently striking a blow at some of the farm aid proposals slated for consideration at the special session of congress next week.

In addition Morgenthau advocated broadening the base of the income tax structure, so that more persons would pay such levies, and suggested abolition of some consumer taxes, sometimes called nuisance levies.

Emergency Declared Over

Comparing present conditions with those of four years ago, the administration's fiscal spokesman said:

"We deliberately used an unbalanced federal budget during the past four years to meet a great emergency. That policy has succeeded. The emergency that we faced in 1933 no longer exists."

He disputed the contentions of some persons "that another great spending program is desirable to ward off the risk of another business depression."

Problems Different Now

"I claim," he went on, "no prophetic insight into the future. But . . . I heave reached the firm conviction that the domestic problems which face us today are essentially different from those which faced us four years ago. Many measures

Girls Don't Want Their Time Lost

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10. (AP)—You married men had better begin polishing up your wedding rings right off—the S.F.P.O.M.M.P.A.B. is after you.

For, after all, how is the working girl to look out for her interests unless she joins the Society For the Prevention of Married Men Posing as Bachelors?

Or, as Miss Jessye Arnett, past president of the Oklahoma Business and Professional women's clubs, put it today:

"Most of the girls I know don't have much time to waste. We need to know right off whether a man is married or not."

The society's credo: "That all married men be required—nay, compelled to wear wedding rings."

War Vets Plan Full Day Of Celebration

Downtown Parade Is Scheduled At 10 A. M.; Breakfast For Ex-Service Men At 6:30 A. M.

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

FROM reveille this morning until the small hours of tomorrow morning, Lubbock will whoop it up in its greatest observance of Armistice day.

Never before has a program of such magnitude been arranged for a patriotic celebration in the city.

From the time when buglers stationed about the city sound reveille until the Armistice day dance is over sometime before dawn Friday, there will be something doing.

Parade At 10 A. M.

Included in the day's program will be a downtown parade at 10 a. m.; a patriotic program broken by a moment of silence at 11 a. m. at City Hall park; the Texas-Technological college-Duquesne university football game; a flag presentation ceremony between halves of that contest; and, finally, the dance at the downtown auditorium starting at 9 a. m.

Thousands of visitors, the vanguard of which arrived Wednesday to jam hotels, will join with citizens of the city in celebrating the anniversary of the ending of the World war 19 years ago.

The city will close for the day. City, county and federal employes will be given a holiday, as will the school children. Banks and member firms of the Retail Merchants association will be closed. There will be no mail deliveries, although box mail will be put up and there will be the usual collections.

Reveille To Be Sounded

Observance of the day will begin with the sounding of reveille at 6 a. m. by buglers stationed at strategic points throughout the city. That feature will be part of the celebration arranged under supervision of committees of Lubbock Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion members, W. E. Lavender is chairman of the general committee.

At 6:30 a. m., ex-service men are to gather at a breakfast at Hilton hotel, with the promise by J. A. Raley, jr., and Floyd Jackson, who have charge of arrangements, that a program of the type men should not miss will be given. They emphasized that every veteran, regardless whether affiliated with patriotic organizations, is invited.

The parade will form at Avenue Q and Broadway and will get in motion promptly at 10 a. m., accord-

Touching Off Tech's Homecoming Bonfire

As thousands looked on, Miss Maxine Fry, above, of Floydada, president of the Texas Tech student body, touched off a gigantic bonfire on the campus last night set aflame the hopes of a victory oyer the Duquesne university football team from Pittsburgh in the annual homecoming game for the Red Raiders this afternoon. The bonfire was the first held at the college in five years.

Record Crowd Is Expected For Homecoming

Huge Bonfire Is Set Off Last Night; Legislators Are To Speak; Barbecue Is Slated

By EVA ROB WATKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

FLAMES of a crackling roaring bonfire, first in five years, leaped as high as a four-story building last night on the Texas Technological college campus to touch off festivities of the twelfth annual homecoming.

Cheers and enthusiasm mounted as the flames rose, and the Matador band played stirring college songs. Several thousand persons alternately turned backs and faces from the heat to listen to the program.

A huge double-T in red lights, which could be seen from downtown Lubbock, burned at the campus entrance, and flood lights played on the buildings which were outlined in vari-colored lights. For the benefit of former students and graduates who did not arrive in Lubbock until today the lights will burn again tonight.

Expect Record Crowd

Indications last night pointed to one of the largest crowds of returning students in the history of the college. Chief event of the Homecoming celebration will be the Tech-Duquesne game this afternoon. Registration of alumni and returning students will begin at 9 o'clock this morning at the men's dormitory, and they will be served a chuck-wagon lunch by booted and spurred former students at noon in the pavilion.

Alumni, who danced last night in the gymnasium, will sit in a reserved section at the football game, and a series of entertainments lasting until late tonight has been arranged by clubs and organizations.

Robert W. (Bob) Calvert, speaker of the Texas house of representatives, and Gerald Mann, Dallas attorney, former secretary of state and a former gridiron star of Southern Methodist university, will attend the Homecoming and speak at the game and the chuck-wagon lunch. Other legislators, guests of Representative J. Doyle Settle, Tech graduate, will be Howard Davison of Rotan, C. L. Harris of

Ten Basic Principles For Workable Farm Program Suggested By Louis Taber

By PAUL D. SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—On the eve of the special session of congress to enact permanent farm legislation, Louis J. Taber, of Columbus, O., master of the National Grange, suggested today 10 basic principles, which he told delegates to the annual convention, should be contained in any workable agricultural program.

Commending President Roosevelt for calling the special session, which is to convene Monday, in ample time for congressmen to give statesmanlike study to the subject, Taber said "congress, in redeeming its pledge to pass such a law, should give full play to the processes of democracy, of discussion, of elimination, of compromise and of approach to a sound, workable program.

Basic Principles Suggested

Basic principles suggested by Taber:

1. It should seek to increase the farmer's share of the nation's income and give to agriculture parity of income.

2. It should be built on voluntary cooperation rather than a governmental straight-jacket. It should provide for continuing farmer control.

3. It shoud grant basic exemptions and give maximum benefits to the family sized farm, placing as much of the regulation as possible on commercial and large-unit operators.

Should Have Long Time Plan

4. The legislation should contain a sound framework for a long-time land policy; provide for retirement of submarginal land, and increase of forestry, water and wild-life resources.

5. It should be built around the soil conservation act, with benefits going to all farmers who follow good

Major Drive On Nanking Seen

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 11. (Thursday) Two Japanese operations south of Shanghai today indicated imminent offensives to wipe out the last Chinese resistance here and to launch a major drive toward Nanking, China's capital.

Japan's army and navy appeared to be massing power in the Nantao area, bordering the French concession on the south of Shanghai, to end the resistance of an estimated 6,000 Chinese soldiers left there when the main defense forces withdrew to the west.

Farther south, the Japanese landed reinforcements on both sides of Hangchow bay. About 20,000 troops reached the Chapoo area on the north shore. A division landed on the south shore, about 70 miles east of Hangchow, port at the head of the bay.

The objective of the two landing forces was said to be Hangchow, main city of Chekiang province, capture of which could sever one of two railroads linking Shanghai and Nanking.

In North China, meanwhile, Japanese reported entering Taiyuanfu, captured capital of Shansi province. They said they found the bodies of 1,000 Chinese and considerable debris from artillery bombardments.

Pete Traxler Is Acquitted In Robbery With Firearms Case

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 10. (AP)—Pete Traxler, Oklahoma and Texas bad man, was acquitted today of robbery with firearms in the seizure of a pistol after his sensational escape from the Eastham prison farm near Weldon, Tex., last July 9.

Traxler was indicted as an habitual criminal which meant punishment of death or life imprisonment would have been mandatory had he been convicted. He already is serving a life sentence on a Lipscomb county robbery conviction.

Newly Developed 'Teledynamic' Device Reported By Radio Men

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 10. (AP) Radio engineers in session here today were told in a paper by a trio of the staff of the Radio Corporation of American laboratories that by means of a newly developed "teledynamic' device, it was possible to control from any point in a building a great variety of devices remotely located without the use of any connecting wires other than the regular lighting circuit.

By plugging the control device into a convenient electrical outlet, windows can be closed, furnaces started, lamps lighted, fans started, machines controlled and radios can be tuned from another room, Seeley said.

CHILD DIES IN BLAZE

LAREDO, Nov. 10. (AP) — James Powell, 10-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Powell, died today in a blaze which destroyed the family home. Loss was estimated at almost $30,000.

Cotton Laboratory Asked In Session

WACO, Nov. 10. (AP)—Establishment by the special session of congress of a cotton research laboratory, and the one-variety community plan to improve quality of the staple were urged in resolutions adopted at a statewide cotton meeting today.

The several hundred persons attending the session also requested the federal government to establish either a separate cotton ginning laboratory in this state or a branch of the one at Stoneville, Miss.

United States Senator Tom Connally said he would insist on congress passing an agricultural bill of some sort before taking up other controversial legislation.

"It will be necessary to have some kind of acreage control," he said, "or we won't get what we desire. The new bill also will contain provisions for continuation and elaboration of soil conservation. Unless the soil is preserved we can't raise cotton profitably at any price."

Dr. D. T. Killough of Texas A. & M. college deplored the decline in staple length of cotton asserting 23 per cent of the Texas crop last year was untenderable. Lamar Fleming, jr., of Houston, told the committee that an increase of 1-11 of an inch in staple length would mean a rise of $4 a bale in the price.

Successful Isolation Of Virus Causing Measles Is Reported

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (AP)—Successful isolation of the virus that causes measles today gave science a fresh advantage in fighting childhood's most common communicable disease.

The virus was isolated for the first time by a woman, Professor Jean Broadhurst, Columbia university bacteriologist.

Medical men expressed hope the discovery would enable them to determine measles carriers—persons carrying the virus but themselves immune to the disease—and to perfect a preventative vaccine.

City Dads Move For Opening Up Of Texas Ave.

City commissioners clinched the deal at their semi-monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon which insures that, at last, Texas avenue is to be opened.

At the same time, the commissioners took steps to establish building restrictions which will prevent the erection on that thoroughfare of shacks, junk yards and auto wrecking establishments like those which make the southern end of Avenue H unsightly. Stucco or better will be the requirement for buildings put up on the newly opened link on Texas.

Four For Action

Joining in support of the motion which means that the street will be opened within the next few days were Commissioner W. B. Price, who made the motion; Commissioner W. G. McMillan, who seconded the motion; and Mayor Ross Edwards and Commissioner J. A. Fortenberry.

Only commissioner A. J. Richardson voted against.

Others at the commission meeting, which was held at the city hall, were City Manager W. H. Rodgers and City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley.

Purchase Is Approved

The deal was completed when commissioners, by the four to one vote, approved purchase for $2,500 of a right-of-way across a tract of undeveloped property which lies, roughly, between Twenty-eighth and Thirteenth streets. Sellers were T. E. May, former police chief, and J. D. Jones. May had acted as a sort of unofficial representative of the city commission in making possible acquisition of the property so that a right-of-way could be obtained.

At the present time, southern Texas avenue comes to a dead end at the Fort Worth and Denver railroad crossing at about Twenty-fifth street. From Twenty-fifth to Twenty-eighth, right-of-way for the

Home-Building Plan May Be Inaugurated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—An effort to stimulate a gigantic boom in privately-financed home construction stood high tonight upon the administration's program for improving business conditions.

President Roosevelt devoted more than two hours to a discussion of the possibilities of such a plan this afternoon, consulting Governor Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve board and a committee drawn from industry and banking.

After the conference, Eccles made it plain that, although the proposal is still in the discussion stage, and may require legislation at the coming session of congress, Mr. Roosevelt gave at least tentative approval and asked the group to go ahead and work out the details.

Barstow Citizens Threaten To Contest County Seat Election

BARSTOW, Nov. 10. (AP)—Citizens of Barstow threatened today to contest an election yesterday in which Ward county citizens returned 1,143 to 464 majority for removal of the county seat from Barstow to Monahans. The margin was 215 votes above the required two-thirds.

Possible contestants claimed the vote in Monahans seemed excessive. They said a recent poll tax list showed only 800 polls there whereas the vote reported yesterday was 998.

The election climaxed a bitter fight. Barstow had been the seat ever since organization of the county 40 years ago while Monahans had enjoyed rapid growth the past few years due to oil development. Barstow repulsed a move ten years ago to remove the courthouse to Pyote.

In San Antonio, Garner's friends said he would leave for Washington early tomorrow, but the exact time of his departure was not given.

Chicago's GOP Club Is In Bankruptcy

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. (AP) — The Hamilton club, a Republican citadel for two generations, surrendered today to bankruptcy.

Directors conferred with Liquidating Trustee Fred E. Hummel on a possible future course. Club President Oscar E. Carlstrom said he had "minimum nucleus of 400 loyal men as an embryo" for a new organization.

Every Republican president since William McKinley has been a guest of the club and every Republican governor of Illinois since 1892 has been a member.

The bankruptcy plea listed obligations of about $1,500,000. The club building occupies land under a 99-year lease at $40,000 a year. Its membership was currently around 900, less than a third of its peak in 1924.

Serious 'Sex Battle' With Women Victors Is Seen

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A serious "sex battle" with women emerging as rulers of the nation 1,000 years from now was predicted today by Dr. William Moulton Marston, noted psychologist, formerly of Harvard university.

Man as the "boss," he said, is doomed.

"The next 100 years will see the beginning of an American matriarchy—a nation of amazons in the psychological rather than physical sense," he said.

"In 500 years, there will be a serious sex battle. And in 1,000 years, women will definitely rule this country."

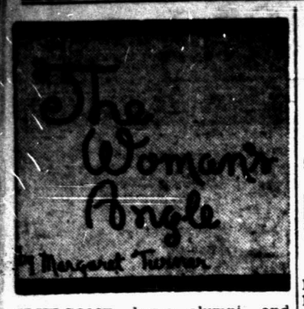

By the year 2937 A. D., said Dr. Marston, people will be living to be 1,000 years old, because by that time the three great motivating forces of life will be properly balanced—success, love and fun.

But to get back to the women:

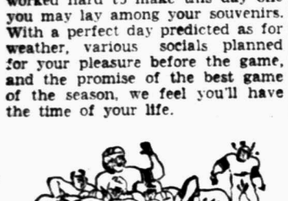

"Women have twice the emotional development, the ability for love, that man has," he explained, leading up to this

P-TA Meetings Crowd Already Heavy Schedule Of Women's Events

WELCOME home, alumni and ex-students of Texas Technological college. Committees have worked hard to make this day one you may lay among your souvenirs. With a perfect day predicted as for weather, various socials planned for your pleasure before the game, and the promise of the best game of the season, we feel you'll have the time of your life.

We're running the little scene above to give you an idea of what ISN'T likely to happen out there. For, as one loyal alumna to thousands of others, we believe the Red Raiders will take Duquesne with the same spirit and pep their older brothers, perhaps fathers, showed in going over the top.

Do you remember 19 years ago today. We returned to newspaper files to determine if there have been steps toward peace, for was not that promised in that strange silence that came after four years of terrible conflict?

THE FIRST ARMISTICE

THE papers printed on Tuesday read: "Monday, November 11, 1918, will long be remembered as a day of all days all over the world—because of the fact that at 6 o'clock in the morning of that day orders went flashing along battle lines that an armistice had been signed by the enemy and fighting should cease.

"The news was flashed over the wires to all parts of the world that the war was over, and great joy prevailed throughout the land."

That was November 11, 1918.

FIFTH OBSERVANCE

AT a union Armistice Day service a Lubbock minister said: "We must have an international mind and must think of nations, races and our brothers across the sea and recognize their rights. The world is in a state of chaos and turmoil but it is 100 fold worse out of America. We must lift the world from selfishness."

That was November 11, 1923.

TENTH OBSERVANCE

KIRKE SIMPSON writing from Washington: "November 11, the day that is to be set apart from all others is yet just another endless day of war.

"Along the western front the guns still are rumbling their nightly message of havoc and wrath. The dead of yesterday's battles lie unburied where they fell; the tide of human wreckage seeps back in ambulances or on stretchers or with anguished steps over by-ways and shell-torn fields. The wounded must still be thrust aside that the tide of the living, streaming up through the darkness for the battles of tomorrow, may flow unchecked."

That was November 11, 1928.

FIFTEENTH OBSERVANCE

AN Associated Press story began as follows: "Solemn ceremony, riotous disorder and fears of an impending conflict mingled today as the world remembered those who died in the World War. In England there were demonstrations by a student anti-war group; in Paris warning of war sounded amid a plea for Peace; in a cold gray fog Londoners paid tribute to the empire's fallen; America paid silent tribute to the heroes of the conflict."

That was November 11, 1933.

WEDNESDAY night's headlines: "Russia Warns Against World War United States Urged to Aid Soviet Cause." A "turn of war effort into channels of peace."? We wonder.

This is November 11, 1937.

Attendance Is Rather Light

Wednesday is needle club day in Lubbock and Thursday, generally, is Parent-Teacher association day. Since P.-T. A. day this week was a holiday, three associations had meetings yesterday, crowding further an already full afternoon schedule.

Result of the above conflicts and numerous other pre-holiday activities was scant attendance at many routine gatherings.

The Senior High Mothers club met in the school auditorium for business, then attended school assembly where the National Honor society presented a National Education Week play.

President Named

The Sanders P.-T. A., meeting at the school building, elected Mrs. G. J. Cornelius president to succeed Mrs. Viola Reed who resigned. Mrs. R. A. Studhalter was guest speaker on "Families That Stay Together and Play Together." She described some interesting games that can be played by family groups.

W. K. Mathis' room presented a program. Attendance prizes went to Mr. Mathis room, second floor, and Mrs. Winnie Lee Holloway, first.

Superintendent Talks

W. B. Irvin, city school superintendent, addressed the Junior High P.-T. A., at the Junior high building. Then the following musical program was presented by the school saxette band of 40 members and the fifth and sixth boys' and girls' glee clubs, directed by Mrs. Elois B. Elliott:

"Lightly Row" and "Soft Music Is Stealing," band; "Home Sweet Home" (Bishop), glee clubs with band accompaniment; "The Tree of the P.-T. A." (Roscoe Stockton), glee clubs, dedicating the song to the Junior High P.-T. A.; "Napoli" (Stuart Van Norman), girls' club; "Kentucky Babe" (Adam Giebel), boys' club.

Two Entertain

Mrs. Hodges home was decorated beautifully with garden flowers of the season.

Feature of the meeting was distribution of cards from Mrs. D. A. Atkins, who is receving treatment at Hot Springs, N. M. Each card, addressed to a different member, pictured a famous scenic spot of the neighboring state.

Mrs. J. D. Nelson was a guest. Members attending were Mesdames M. B. Cross, W. H. Trice, John R. Hall, J. G. Oslin, Ralph Moore, H. W. Cherry, John Morrison, D. A. Davis, J. R. Potts, and Elda Mae Paulger.

Baptists Asked To Fight War

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Nov. 10.—Marvin A. Harlan of El Paso, former national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, appealed to the Baptist General Convention of Texas today to "adopt a strong resolution condemning war."

"America should serve notice that she will not tolerate war as a means of settling disputes," Harlan, mayor of El Paso, said in officially welcoming messengers. His plea for peace was followed by a renewal of Baptist denunciation of dictatorships by Dr. E. D. Head of Houston, who assailed "denomination of the church" by a totalitarian states.

No Action Taken

The 3,500 messengers attending the convention took no action on Harlan's plea. The report of the committee on resolutions will be given at the closing session Friday. Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, president of the Baptist World Alliance, was the principal speaker for tonight.

Denomination of the church by totalitarian states was flayed in a speech by Dr. E. D. Head of Houston in the annual convention session.

Recalls Appropriate Warning

"Christ alone can make the world into a brotherhood," said Dr. Head. "Contemplate the growing tendency toward the totalitarian state with its most dangerous feature, domination of the church. Are we to turn back the pages of history and commit this unspeakable adultery? As the clouds of war grow more ominous and the streams of blood flow on fierce battle fronts, we recall the appropriate warning of Jesus 1900 years ago: 'Put up again thy sword.'"

Dr. Head asserted "it is our duty to tell the youth of the world, restlessly marching, that Jesus, not Hitler, nor Mussolini, nor Stalin, is the one under whose banner we must march if we are to know the sweets of victory."

None Injured When Five Vehicles Are In Two Smashups

Two automobile mishaps about 11 miles south of Lubbock near the Woodrow community early Wednesday night, involving five vehicles and a number of persons, caused no serious injuries.

The accidents, separated by approximately 100 yards, happened a mile south of Woodrow shortly after 6:30 o'clock.

One of the accidents occurred when an automobile drove onto the highway from a sideroad and a truck going north started to pass it and met another automobile.

The other accident happened when one automobile crashed into the rear of another. Driver of the automobile was L. H. Rogers, it was reported. Driver of the other was unknown, having already left the scene of the accident when investigators arrived. A driver's license on the steering wheel bore the name of N. A. Norman, jr., of Lubbock.

Capt. W. W. Legge and Weldon Lawson of the Texas Highway patrol were called to the wrecks. Investigations will continue today.

No persons were reported to have suffered more than minor bruises and lacerations. None was given emergency treatment at sanitariums here.

Utilities Regard FDR's Rate Reforms Proposal As Hopeful Augury Of Truce

Gesture Seen As 'Conciliatory'

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. — Public utility officials said today they regarded President Roosevelt's proposal for rate reforms as a hopeful augury of a truce in the five-year conflict between the federal government and privately owned power companies.

In power circles the president's utility comment, made yesterday at his press conference, was seen as a "conciliatory" gesture of, more than ordinary significant because it was made after considerable recent friendly conversation between representatives of the power companies and officials in Washington.

Cautious But Friedly

Most comment for publication was cautious but friendly. The statement of Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the board of Consolidated Edison Co. and Niagara Hudson Power Co. was fairly typical. He said:

"The utilities companies with which I am identified will welcome an opportunity to explore and consider practical steps to remedy the serious condition with which utility enterprises are concerned."

In less formal comment, however, important figures in the industry were skeptical of its ability to accept unreservedly the president's formula for setting up new rate bases.

Tech Instructor's Article On Military Training Published

Change in methods of military training in the United States was advocated by Dr. Leroy T. Patton, head of the geology department of Texas Technological college, in an article entitled "Military Education in the United States" and published in the November issue of The Journal of Higher Education.

In the article, Dr. Patton analyzed curriculum at the United States Military academy at West Point and pointed out that much of the instruction does not touch on the military. He questioned the advisibility of allowing officers to instruct general courses.

He presented a suggested change which would provide for advance training at other institutions, preparatory to entering a military college, similar to the plan followed by pre-medical and pre-law students.

The Journal is published at Ohio State university at Columbus.

Companies Are Offered Help

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP) — President Roosevelt offered the public utilities industry the cooperation of his administration today — on one condition.

The utilities, he said, must radically alter their methods of determining the value of their properties. Rates are based on these valuations, and they, in turn, have been based, generally, upon the original or reproduction cost of the properties involved.

Instead, Mr. Roosevelt asked that the utilities return to what he termed the old principles of the common law in determining valuations. He did not go into the point, but his words recalled a government move last week to make so-called "prudent investment" a controlling factor in valuation.

Just what favors the utilities might expect, if they complied, was not made clear. Those familiar with the situation, however, were distinctly of the impression that the concessions might involve government help in carrying out long-delayed construction programs.

The government's move for a "prudent investment" valuation was made in a brief filed with the supreme court by the power commission.

"By prudent investment," it said, "is meant the amount reasonably and honestly invested in public utility properties used and useful in the public service. Prudent investment is synonomous with historical cost of properties."

In the current tactical problem the division, 10,000 strong, is operating against a mythical "red" enemy force moving south from Fort Worth and Mineral Wells.

—The News Of The Day Through The Camera's Eye—

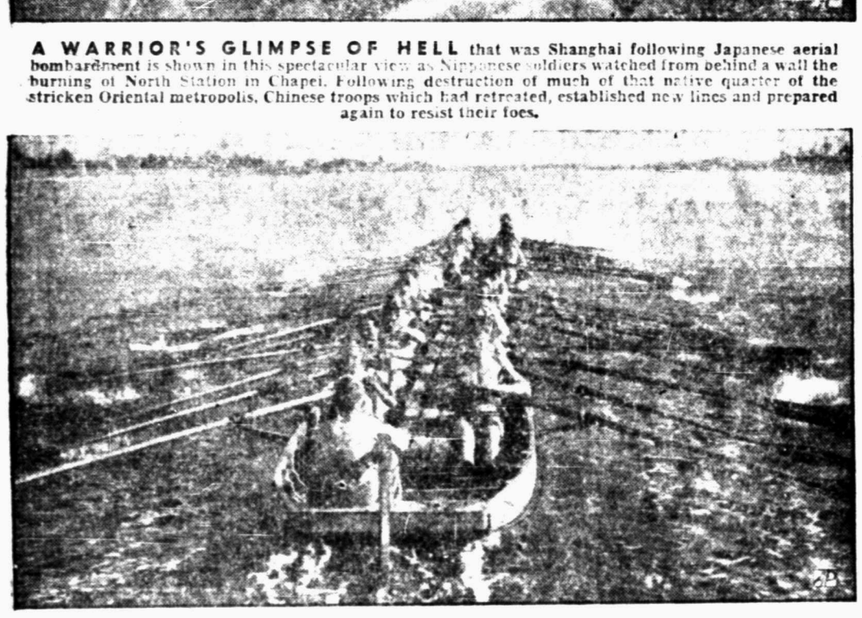

A WARRIOR'S GLIMPSE OF HELL that was Shanghai following Japanese aerial bombardment is shown in this spectacular view as Nipponese soldiers watched from behind a wall the burning of North Station in Chapei. Following destruction of much of that native quarter of the stricken Oriental metropolis, Chinese troops which had retreated, established new lines and prepared again to resist their foes.

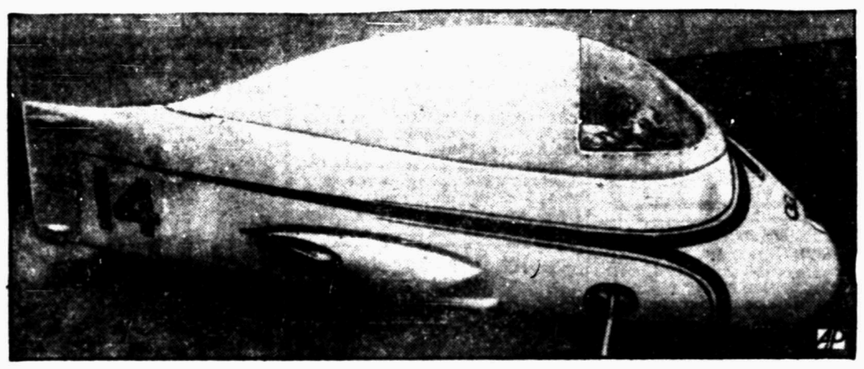

THE MORE ABUNDANT LAUGH found staunch supporters in George M. Cohan (right), who plays President Roosevelt, and Taylor Holmes, as Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, in the New Deal lampooning comedy, "I'd Rather Be Right." The actors are shown rejoicing at the play's successful Broadway premiere.

A KING WHO BECAME ONE OF THE CROWD, the Duke of Windsor, former monarch of Great Britain, will probably meet vaster throngs in America than he has faced in Europe when he arrives in the United States November 11 on a 37-day tour with the Duchess to inspect housing conditions in this country. Here he is shown at a railroad station in Paris with the woman for whom he renounced the throne, surrounded as usual by a crowd.

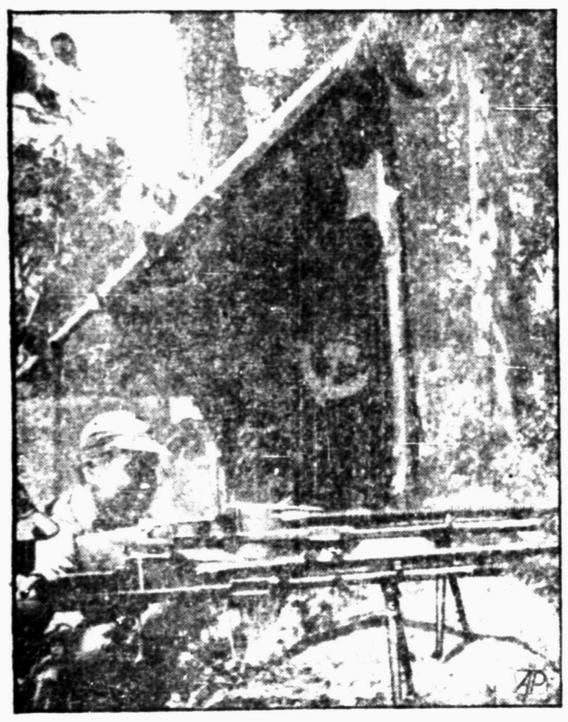

RHYTHM IS THEIR BUSINESS so these oarsmen at Compton, Calif., started in the fall to develop timing and power in rowing for a season of competition with other southern California junior colleges and high schools. Here the crews are shown working out in training barges on marine stadium near Long Beach. A program of races between preparatory schools is slated under sponsorship of the Long Beach recreation commission.

IT'S A TAILOR-MADE TEAR DROP designed for speed, latest thing in racing motorcycles, shown at Frankfort on Main, Germany, during "world record week." For stopping the two-wheeler has an air brake in its tail. Resistance is developed by automatic opening of fin-like plates.

. . . FOR 'THE WOMAN I LOVE', the ruler of a mighty empire, perhaps the best prepared for his job of any in history, Edward VIII, abdicated his power and his title to become a plain citizen. Here is the Duke with his Duchess, both fashion plates, still in the glaring spotlight of a romantic world.

WINNING ISN'T EASY if the worried expression on the face of California's Coach Leonard "Stub" Allison is any criterion. His tense appearance gives no hint that at mid-season his Golden Bears stood at the top in national football rankings, having gone that far undefeated and untied.

THEY DISHED IT OUT, BUT COULDN'T TAKE IT at this Kansas City cafeteria when a freight car, last of a 24 car train being backed on a siding, crashed into the brick wall and plunged through. Luckily it was several hours past lunch time and no one was in the room. Six employes in an adjoining office escaped without injury. The train hit the end of Fisher Body plant's siding, sheering the car from its trucks before it struck the wall.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. NYA And WPA To Aid Census

Full cooperation of the Works Progress administration and the National Youth administration in the government's National Unemployment census was announced Wednesday by district officials here.

Notices will be posted at all WPA and NYA work projects informing workers that they are expected to fill out and return unemployment report cards to the nearest postoffice. The agencies also are preparing special check cards for each worker on government projects to be transmitted to the postoffice nearest the project in order to determine the extent to which WPA workers are filling out and returning unemployment report cards.

It was pointed out that a notice to cooperate will be placed in every envelope containing pay checks for the period immediately preceding the census.

The notices which will be posted at projects ask that the government's questionnaires be answered and mailed before midnight Nov. 20. The notice points out that the cards are not applications for jobs and that the information will not be made public.

Additional cards or information and help in answering questions may be obtained from the postmasters or other postal employes.

The placards, bearing the signature of Harry L. Hopkins, national administrator of the WPA, ask "your cooperation in making this census complete, honest, and accurate, so that it may be of real help in solving the problem of unemployment."

Negro Working Hard This Week So That He Can Be Married Saturday; Didn't Have Enough Cash For Event Last Week-End

A negro is putting spirit into his cotton picking this week, for at the end of the week he may claim the girl of his choice for his bride.

The couple thought they were to be married last week but found it would cost too much.

The negro was whisked from the county clerk's office by his prospective father-in-law, after contents of his pocketbook suffered in comparison with an estimate of the cost of marriage: "Two dollars for the license, two dollars for a health certificate and two dollars for the minister."

The incident was one of several that have lent spice to the business of issuing marriage licenses, according to Louie Moore, chief deputy clerk.

There was the Mexican who pleaded with Moore to wait in the office until he could "steal" his bride from a cotton field near Lorenzo.

Moore returned to the office at 7 p. m., by agreement, and the Mexican and his "stolen" sweetheart were walking the courthouse hall.

The Mexican alternately watched the license book, and the door, through which he feared the girl's incensed parents would enter.

"What will happen when they learn you are married", Moore asked.

"Oh, papa'll be mad, and mama'll cry a little. Then they'll be all right", was his answer.

A youth recently was accompanied by a married friend when he sought a license.

"You don't know what you are getting into. Did you know it will cost $60 to get out of this?" asked his married companion.

"No, it'll just cost $30. I've already checked up", replied the prospective bridegroom.

Oldest Cutter—The Apache—To Be Retired By The Coast Guard

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—The coast guard announced today it would retire on Monday its oldest cutter, the Apache—46-year-old veteran of two wars.

Originally named the Galveston and put in operation on the Gulf coast in 1892, it participated in the defense of New Orleans during the Spanish-American war. It was assigned as the Apache to Baltimore in 1906.

During the World war the Apache was assigned to mine-laying duty off the Virginia capes.

The vessel is credited with saving 4,884 lives and rescuing vessels worth $36,647,117.

Nation's Holiday Eyes On Tech-Duquesne Battle Today

"Big League Stuff" Will Be Viewed By Homecomers At Texas Tech's Stadium

Last night's bonfire, impressive as it was, should have nothing on the color and fireworks that will explode any time after 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Tech Stadium.

At that time, two mighty teams, eloquent in the display of colorful Rockne-style football—Duquesne university of Pittsburgh and Tech college of Texas—are scheduled to clash in pigskin combat that ranks second to none on the holiday's gridiron bill.

Easily the outstanding game of the Southwest and one of the more important of the entire country, today's contest, expected to be a sell-out some time before game time, gives Texas Tech another chance for nation-wide fame.

Victory for the Red Raiders would be a feather of no drab color in Tech's bonnet. They are doped to lose. Duquesne is a team which takes the shocks of big time competition in stride. It has lost two games this season, in contrast to Tech's thrice-beaten eleven, and it very likely will lose no more.

TICKETS GETTING SCARCE

Only five thousand choice seats for the Duquesne-Tech Homecoming game remained unsold last night, said Bo Williams, graduate manager of athletics.

Ducats for reserved seats, costing $2.25, were expected to be exhausted long before game time today. Advance ticket sales have indicated that a record crowd would see the game.

General admission tickets go on sale this morning at the Hilton hotel box office and at Tech field. Price is $1.65.

University of Pittsburgh this year's Rose Bowl champion, barely got revenge for last year's defeat by nosing out Duquesne 6-0 a few weeks ago. In one of the nation's upsets, Carnegie Tech, also of Pittsburgh, got a break and took a 6-0 victory over Duquesne last week.

Brumbaugh Is Missing

It must be remembered that Pitt's only defeat of the 1936 season was at the hands of Duquesne, 7-0. Pitt barely lived over this loss to attract a bid for the Rose Bowl.

Duquesne's team which blanked Pittsburgh last year and which held the Panther to a single touchdown this season is the same which plays Texas Tech today. It is no "second string outfit" Coach John (Clipper) Smith has brought to Texas in Duquesne's longest trip of the season. Smith frankly is worried more than somewhat over the outcome of the contest. He is without the services of his backfield ace, Boyd Brumbaugh, triple-threater who probably might mean the difference between Tech and Duquesne, all other things being equal.

Tech's hopes boomed with the knowledge that Brumbaugh had been left at home. However, there's always the possibility, especially in the case of a Notre Dame team that the rest of the fellows will die for the Gipper, and Tech can take no chances whatsoever on the grounds that Brumbaugh is out.

Can Accommodate 20,000

Texas Tech admittedly expects, and for good reason, the largest crowd in the history of the institution for today's conflict. The permanent stands seat right at 15,000 people. Additional bleachers were layed at the south end of the field yesterday. A crowd of close to 20,000 may be accommodated. If fair weather continues—and the weather man promises to be nice—there may not be enough seats to hold the crowd. Graduate Manager Bo Williams said last night that a lot of good seats were still for sale.

That Texas Tech "rates" in national footballistics is indicated by Coach Clipper Smith's attitude. "You may have too much for us. We consider this game one of our toughest, and we are pointed. But I am extremely doubtful of the outcome."

Coach Smith sent his big Dukes through a long session of calisthenics and punting and signal running and passing yesterday, and the several hundred railbirds on the sidelines were impressed, mostly by the size of the Royal Raiders and the ease with which they executed their plays.

A tackle by the name of Carl Neary, No. 51 on your program, was doing a lot of punting yesterday. In Brumbaugh's absence he will be called upon to boot the ball, when necessary today. He was kicking them 65, 70, 80 yards, on the carry, yesterday, and his boots brought gasps from the fans.

Team Of Veterans

Duquesne's backfield will outweigh Tech's best by several pounds, and the Dukes can run, pass, and punt. Frank Zopetti, the quarterback, weighs in at 180, and gullback John Karrs at 192. The halfbacks, Vincent McKeeta, moved from right half to left to fill Brumbaugh's place, is 175, and George Matsik is of similar build and weight. The lines will be just about even, a glance at the chart will show.

But Duquesne's reputation stands out more than somewhat. The team is made up largely of juniors and seniors, only two sophomores listed on the starting lineup. Tech, on the other hand, has but four graduating men on its starting team. Key positions are filled by more or less inexperienced men, but how they can run!

Duquesne, in all probability, will open up with a passing game—it has three good passers in its backfield—but will be powerful on the ground. Tech may depend largely upon its fine running attack, emphasized in the last four games, featuring little Bobby Holmes, Elmer Tarbox and Charley Calhoun. Holmes and Tarbox take care of the long distance marches. Calhoun the line plunges. And you can ask any of the teams Tech has played about this Calhoun.

Duquesne Rates Edge

Tech's reserves, looking good lately, may get their chance. Babe Curfman at quarter looked good last week at Loyola. Buzz Barnard was still toting the ball when the game was over, and Miles Chapman, at fullback, concluding his eligibility at Tech on Thanksgiving, was a whiz at Calhoun's position. In the line, Leonard Latch, tackle from Cisco with a fighting heart and plenty of "want to," has been a star, and likely will break in today if his injured hand permits. And Rex Williams, sophomore center; George Webb, sophomore end; Ralph Balfanz, powerful wingman, and capable, too; Guards Dixie White and Holt Waldrep, and the other tackle, Lloyd Taliaferro, or the team's giant, Elbert Overton, are likely to see service. And they are fighters.

Duquesne's team looked big and good yesterday, confident and wise. The team is bigger than Tech, and it comes from a football country. It has the edge.

But it's homecoming; old grads and ex-students will be in the stands; prominent newspapermen in the press box—the eyes of the state, the Southwest, the nation, will be trained on Tech Stadium today. It's the home game of the season. Can the Red Raiders take it?

Duquesne Sparkplugs

VINCE McKEETA

STEVE BARKO

ARTHUR AMANN

These three stalwarts have led Duquesne in other victories and are out to make it another this afternoon. Vince McKeeta (top) is regular halfback, but will shift to the left side to take the place of injured Boyd Brumbaugh. He is fast and a good defensive player. Steve Barko (center) and Arthur Amann (below) are regular Duke guards. Amann is known as "Tex" to his teammates, and Barko has brains as well as brawn—he's a former National Honor society member.

Amarillo-Pampa Heads Schedule In State Race

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 10. — Schoolboy gridders the state over engage in sniping from Armistice day through Saturday that should give a fair idea as to which team will step from each of the 16 districts with an eye on the Christmas Day coronation.

Often shot at but seldom hit, Amarillo's Golden Sandies, kings of Texas high school football since 1933, meet a bold Pampa team out on the West Texas plains in the standout of a week-end schedule that marks the "beginning of the end" of the race.

Deadlocked in a triple-tie with Borger for the District one lead, Pampa and Amarillo readied for a game before 12,000, Pampa's record-breaking throng, that will clarify the scramble.

Jackets Are Strong

Meanwhile, Port Arthur's Yellow-jackets, fighting in an appellate court to keep alive their claim to eligibility in the Interscholastic league, bump into Galveston, tied with them for the District 14 lead, on the Buccaneer's field. The Jackets, touted by many as the strongest team in the state after walloping Amarillo 33-0, and Pampa, 14-0, were favored to give Galveston similar treatment.

In the District nine race, Longview's powerhouse tangled with Tyler for the leadership in the top East Texas attraction. Longview, one of the state's eight unbeaten and untied teams, had a high-scoring Tyler Lion on its hands that has won six games and dropped one.

Expect Big Dallas Crowd

Not far removed, in District 10, was another good game. Palestine's challenge of the Athens Hornets while at Dallas the Highland Park Scotties, one of the league's smoothest offensive machines, put up its undefeated record against North Dallas in a non-conference attraction expected to lure 15,000 into the Cotton bowl.

In McKinney, a District 6 center, the hometowners prepared to welcome Greenville, once state champion and still in the race with Highland Park for the district flag.

Down south, Thomas Jefferson, San Antonio's potent District 12 leader, had a Friday date with the Kerrville Antlers which promised to indicate very thoroughly whether any team is going to stop Jefferson. Deeper in the south, in District 15, Port Lowe, tied with a great Corpus Christi team for the leadership, had a Kingsville team billed for Thursday that appeared out of the running.

Temple Is Favored

Temple, breezing through the tough Central Texas District 11 went into its Friday game at Corsicana doped to annihilate a team that formerly wore the crown, while Conroe, the surprise of the District 13 and one of the undefeated and untied elevens, played an "intersectional" game with Bryan on the latter's home field.

Vernon, pacing District 2, faced the possibility of giving up its lead in a game with Olney, a team thta has been tied once but not trimmed. Far down in the Rio Grande valley Edinburg, touted to take the District 16 flag, had to ge by Brownsville plodding along wih a .500 percentage.

Brownfield And Post Battle In Homecoming Game Today

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 10 (Special) Honoring ex-lettermen of Brownfield High school with homecoming festivities, the big red Cubs and Post take the spotlight here tomorrow in a District 5 football tussle.

Post's meek Antelopes have been the doormat of the district this season, but the Bostmen are not easing up, remembering the Lubbock Cowhand game last week.

DESIRE WARM-UP GAME

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 10. (Special) The Fighting Cubs of Brownfield, have an open date on Nov. 19 and would like to meet any Class B team or a small Class A team.

Unless defeated by the Post Antelopes in the Armistice Day game, they are still in the running for district honors and wish to keep limbered up for their session with Levelland on Nov. 26.

MAY FORM LEAGUE

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10. (AP)—An attempt will be made to organize a Class D baseball league in the Rio Grande valley region near San Antonio, Joe Pate, Texas league umpire, said here tonight. Cummings Throws Mackey In Fast Mat Struggle

The same stunt wouldn't work twice for Cyclone Clovis Mackey, and bounding Bob Cummings won himself another main event at Sled Allen's hall of hair-pullers.

The Cyclone took the first fall after 22 minutes of rugged but clean wrestling with a perfectly applied flying Dutchman and body smother. He tried the same trick in the third fall, after dropping the second, but Bob bounced up, fixed a full cradle and had Mackey's shoulders to the mat so suddenly nobody believed it until Referee Clements tolled the count.

The small crowd at the auditorium last night was treated to three pretty swell wrestling matches. Not once did the referee interfere, and only one or two illegal blows were struck, these in the heat of battle and easily excusable.

Plenty Of Action

Otto Ludwig, the Hamburg, Germany, newcomer who made his debut a week earlier, fought Indian Bill Cazzell to a snappy 20-minute draw to start things. It was a rough match, but fairly clean. Lots of action, and a punch or two by Ludwig, a powerful, chunky fellow who may give some of the more established boys a bunch of trouble before he exits.

Frank Wolfe and Ace Freeman gave the folks a faster match in the semi-final. It was strictly clean, with lots of "smart" and scientific maneuvers on the parts of both. Freeman showed nice form in blocking the veteran Wolfe's holds until but two minutes remained to play. Then Wolfe got his standing hammer-lock-backbreaker, and it was all over, in 28 minutes. Nary a blow was struck.

Give And Take

Mackey and Cummings mixed torture holds, but neither got mad enough to fight. Cy punished Bob with a Japanese arm scissors for nearly five minutes, then Cummings retaliated with a cruel body scissors. Finally Mackey grabbed Bob's ankles, swung him around, flopped him and fell on him with the same motion.

Cummings needed less than 10 minutes to win the second. He did it with a series of smashing body slams, topped off by a pile-driver and a body smother.

They went at it hard and fast in the third fall, each giving the other a lot of trouble. Cummings missed with his pile driver when Mackey scooted between his legs, and Cyclone missed with his flying Dutchman, the hold exploding in his face when Cummings retained enough equilibrium to throw reverse English on it.

Frosh Journey To Hobbs Game With New Mexico Fish

The powerful Texas Tech Frosh play their fourth game of the season Friday night at Hobbs, N. M., against New Mexico university fish.

After bowing to Wesley college's Panthers early this fall, the husky first-year men have come along fast to crush New Mexico Military institute and the Cameron Aggies. Coach Berl Huffman has one of the best freshmen squads ever to report at Tech.

Acting as "cannon fodder" for the varsity, Huffman's bruisers had little time to work on offense before the Wesley fracas. Their 48-0 victory over NMMI, however, showed there was nothing lacking in way of ball toting.

Led by the passing of C. L. Storrs and the shifty running of Johnny Simms and boasting a lineup as big as their varsity brothers, the frosh are asking favors from no team.

The New Mexico freshmen have been treated rather rudely in 2 games to date. Eastern New Mexico Junior college of Portales took their measure in a 9 to 0 game. New Mexico Aggie frosh beat them last Saturday, 21 to 13.

Coach Johnnie Dolzadelli took note of the steam rolling of NMMI by the Frosh, and is ready to concede defeat for his charges.

GAMES FORFEITED

HARLINGEN, Nov. 10. (AP)—The Valley Morning Star said tonight that all victories of the Edinburg High school Bobcats, football leaders of District 16, had been thrown out due to a ruling that one of their players was ineligible.

Jimmy Steele, backfield performer, was the youth said to have been declared ineligible.

Big Crowds Will Witness Week's Grid Contests

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Sectional and intersectional football battles that may have far-reaching effects on conference standings, Rose bowl bids and hopes for unbeaten seasons dot the nation's gridiron menu Saturday.

The largest crowd of all, some 80,000, with stream into a neutral park to see a game between two teams that can have little to do with settling any sort of supremacy except each other's.

That game is the 1937 renewal of the Army-Notre Dame rivalry at Yankee stadium. Opened at West Point in 1913 when Gus Dorais and Knute Rockne gave the future generals a 35-13 forward passing lesson, the series has been a thriller ever since.

Scalpers Getting Rich

The Irish come up to the current episode badly bruised and beaten by Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech. Army has lost to Yale and been unimpressive on other Saturdays. Yet scalpers are getting as much as $17.50 for $4.40 seats between the 40-yard lines, and 80,000 more customers probably would put cash on the line if there were any seats to be had.

That crowd, third successive capacity house for Notre Dame, will top any other collection of Saturday's frozen children by some 10,000. Next in line is the Pittsburgh-Nebraska engagement, for which 70,000 will be on hand to see the Panthers continue their "back to the Rose bowl" campaign.

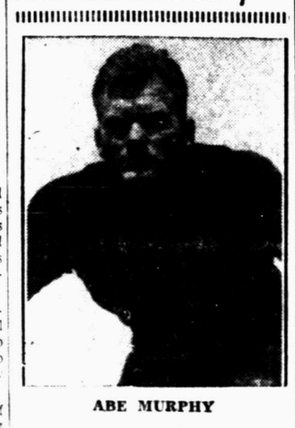

It will be near capacity—62,000—at Minneapolis, where Minnesota is preparing all sorts of revenge on Northwestern, its lone 1936 conqueror.

Duke authorities report a sure-fire full house of 35,000 for the Southern conference duel between the Blue Devils and North Carolina. Georgia Tech's invasion of Birmingham to meet all-winning Alabama will be witnessed by 26,000 at Legion field. Tennessee's home grounds will be filled by 20,000 for the intra-state clash with Vanderbilt, and almost 40,000 are expected in Louisiana State's 42,000-capacity stands for the game with Auburn.

Rice, latest Southwest conference title threat, and Texas A. and M. will play to "standing room only" and 20,000 fans at Houston. At Dallas and Austin there will be lumber if not capacity crops of 18,000 customers for the Southern Methodist-Baylor and Texas Christian-Texas conflicts.

Portland's largest crowd of the season, 25,000, is anticipated for the Oregon-California game, principal Pacific coast attraction.

Tech Tackles Ready

ABE MURPHY

BILL DAVIS

LEONARD LATCH

Tech's two beefy tackles, Abe Murphy, 207 pounder, and 225-pound Sophomore Bill Davis, are ready to fire both barrels at Duquesne's offensive attack this afternoon. Leonard Latch, another hefty tackle, will be set to go into the breach when the Red Raiders need his services. Latch has been going great and playing his share in the last few games.

'All Bosh' Says Bell On Change In Grid Rules

DALLAS, Nov. 9. (AP)—Agitation for the revision of football rules was termed "all bosh" tonight by Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist university.

"I think football is all right as it is and that the rules are ideal with one possible exception," Bell said, "I'd vote for elimination of the pass interference rule. Let 'em fight for the ball and push and shove for it. You'll find then, too, that the passing game will be more scientific. In addition, the elimination of the interference rule would remove a lot of squawking over officials' decisions. The arbiters might not have to pass screen tests then to get to work."

In regard to Pop Warner, Temple university coach, who is advocating revisions which would make for more scoring and the elimination of scoreless ties, Bell said:

"The only trouble with Pop Warner is that close, double wing-back formation he's using on offense. The teams have got wise to it and it's natural for him to be stopped. He's scared to throw the ball around a little. Our teams in the Southwest are just so far ahead of most of them in other sections in the passing game that it's pitiful."

Last Minute Pass Gives Big Spring Juniors Victory Over Cowboys, 14 To 7

Big Spring Junior high gridders completed a well executed pass in the last minute of play yesterday to defeat the Cowboys, 14 to 7, in a hard-fought game.

The Cowboys had knotted the count at 7-all midway of the fourth period when Glaze almost single-handedly engineered a long touchdown march. He scored the touch and plunged for the extra point.

A pass interception gave the visiting lads a touchdown chance in the third stanza, after a scoreless first half. The Cowboys had carried to the Big Spring 30-yard line on a long march, but there an invading back snatched a local pass and skipped to the Cowboy 20. They scored from there on power plays.

Less than a minute before the final gun, a Big Spring end took an 18-yard pass and stepped an additional 22 to score.

Glaze was outstanding in the Cowboys backfield, and Harris and Moore led defensive activities on the line.

Plans For Year Discussed By Tech FFA Chapter In Session

Plans relating to projects and general schedule were discussed Wednesday afternoon when the collegiate chapter of Future Farmers of America met in the agricultural building of Texas Technological college.

Approximately 25 persons of a total membership of almost 40 attended. It was decided, said Dean Harmon, president, to postpone a club banquet from Dec. 10 to Dec. 15, "because of social calendar conflict." Arrangements to have junior students who will take vocational agriculture next year have their pictures in the next edition of La Ventana along with this year's members were made.

Club projects will include beautification of sidewalk margins, an FFA barn dance, a joint meeting of the home economics and vocational agriculture students with a view to resolving problems to confront teachers of those subjects later in public schools, sponsorship of an annual high school juding contest in the spring, together with serving food to an expected 600 to 700 students at the time, said Harmon.

Pawnee Bill Weeps Unashamed Before Grizzled Fighters

HOUSTON, Nov. 10. (AP) — They left Pawnee Bill to his sorrow today—Pawnee Bill who taught May Lillie to ride and shoot.

The 77-year-old Major Gordon W. Lillie broke down last night when he tried to talk about May. He wept unashamed before grizzled old gun fighters.

The mellow old men today groped for a method of perpetuating their frontiersmen's organization, founded on a community of experience and nourished by memories of youth.

Knew How He Felt

They knew how Pawnee Bill felt. They knew, too, that Pawnee Bill and May Lillie were separated last year by death in an automobile accident.

Pawnee Bill had tried to talk about May and her friendly rivalry with Annie Oakley, both sharpshooters who made men of the old west crane their necks when either of them fingered a gun.

Recalled Exploits

While the oldtimers engaged in business and reminiscence, Chris Madsen, the Indian scout, recalled the exploits of Wild Bill Hickok and Bat Masterson.

"There were a lot of killings in the old days," Madsen said. "Most of them were caused by somebody getting drunk. Wild Bill Hickock and Bat Masterson were hired by those old Kansas cowtowns as killers and maybe they figured they had to kill. Hickok was dangerous. Bat Masterson was a nice fellow personally. He didn't kill as many men as he liked people to think."

Gasoline Taxes Cited By Byles

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. — President Axtell J. Byles of the American Petroleum institute today reviewed the state of the oil industry on a keynote that "gasoline is cheap, only the tax is high."

In his annual address at the first general session of the institute's 18th annual convention this afternoon Byles, of New York, said gasoline prices are about half what they were in 1920 "as a result of abundance, ever-increasing operating efficiency and the keenest kind of competition."

Paying Staggering Sum

"This industry, in good times and bad, has not only met every public obligation without asking for financial aid from the taxpayer," he said, "but is, on the other hand, contributing to the support of government in the form of taxes upon its properties, products and operations at the staggering rate of $1,181,000,000 per annum."

Byles said the tax load was only slightly less than the $1,373,000,000 the industry pays to labor and as four times the amount paid to persons who furnish the capital required.

Expects Increased Demand

Considering estimated economic demand for motor fuel in 1938, Byles said the minimum requirements of gasoline inventories as of March 31, 1938, would be approximately 80,000,000 barrels, compared with 61,651,000 barrels last March 31.

"We are now facing what may prove to be a series of investigations by state authorities," Byles said. ". . . The industry should prepare for these inquiries in the same cooperative spirit and with the same frankness and thoroughness with which it met the Cole congressional) committee.

"It has nothing to conceal, and may get a substantial return through this means of informing the public, as well as the state authorities, of the operations of this business concerning which the public is too little informed and far too much misinformed."

George A. Hill jr., of the Houston Oil company of Texas, in an address prepared for the same session, said "tax is now the principal product of oil." There has been an 800 per cent increase in taxes in 15 years and $1 out of $8 in taxes collected from all sources comes from petroleum, he said.

Texas Named Among Ten-Goal American Polo Handicappers

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (AP)—Thomas Hitchcock, jr., Stewart Iglehart and Cecil Smith, the robust ex-cowboy from Llano, Texas, share the distinction of being the world's three "perfect" polo players, each handicapped at the ultimate 10 goals, in the new listings announced today by the United States Polo association.

For Hitchcock it means the retention of an honor the "old master" of Long Island's playing fields has held in 16 of 17 consecutive years. For Smith it is a return to glory, as he reached the pinnacle once before, in 1934. Igelhart, teammate of Smith on the all-conquering Old Westbury team, retains the peak rating given him a year ago.

Youth Confesses Robbery Of Wigwam Theater In El Paso

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Police Capt. Albert Wetzel reported today a youth, who he said had confessed robbing a theater in El Paso, Tex., also had admitted jumping a $500 bond in Hackensack, N. J., on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The youth, who said he was Theodore Jones, 20, told the officer he jumped the bond Aug. 3, "bummed" his way to the west coast and then to Texas.

Wetzel telegraphed El Paso and received an answer Jones was wanted there for the $105 holdup of the Wigwam theater.

Jones was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen William Newman and Theodore Perking, who reported he had admitted robbery of a small cafe here. He was questioned about the El Paso theater holdup after the officers found a newspaper clipping in his room telling about it.

Remember Today's Background!

NO stick-in-the-mud, no frowning killjoy with nothing but condemnation for fun and good times, The Morning Avalanche never-the-less hopes today's merrymakers will pause long enough to remember the real meaning of the Armistice holiday.

We hope our people on the Plains will join with our people everywhere, from border to border and coast to coast, in at least a brief period of recollection of the great war which was brought to a close just 19 years ago today. We hope they'll remember those who made the supreme sacrifice in that great war and those thousands whom we never see and seldom—to our shame—think of now, but who are broken and maimed as an aftermath of the titanic struggle between the nations.

Armistice day primarily commemorates the dawn of a new peace.

It essentially is a day of rejoicing for that peace, yet back of it must stand the lesson, paid for in blood, which teaches that war is a horrible, unnecessary and uncivilized thing.

Let's have a good time today. Let's make the welkin ring for joy in peace.

But, at the same time, let's, as a nation, resolve never to repeat the holocaust of two decades ago and, along with that resolve, remember those who are not here to join in today's fun and frolic.

Getting Out The Big Crop

GETTING out this whale of a big crop is a job that is taxing the facilities of all those who have to do with the cotton transportation business. Gins are running not hours, but days, behind in ginning; compress platforms are crowded to overflowing as well as the prairies around the compresses and still cotton is rolling in. There's no end to it, it seems.

But, as one cotton man remarked, give the gins and the compresses time and they will get it all out. It's harder on a ginner to have a lot of restless customers fussing around than it is to be snowed under. But let him alone and he'll get the job done.

Indications are the South Plains will harvest a record crop that will set a record for years to come. The total very likely will pass the 700,000 bale mark; it could even go way over that. The longer the season grows, the more cotton there seems to be. Almost every passing day uncovers more cotton than had been expected.

Last August a couple of local cotton estimate prognosticators mentioned something about crops of from 60,000 to 90,000 bales for Lubbock, Dawson, Lamb, Hockley and Crosby counties. Immediately they were the recipients of the well known razz. To think that anybody had the idea the counties of this territory would see 90,000 bales to one county! Wasn't the cotton late, hadn't it been planted and replanted and on top of that wasn't there a chance of an early freeze.

Well, cotton was late, but so was the frost. The weather man, after sending them unwanted rains, let up and Old Sol came out and since then white gold has been opening so fast that one cannot keep up with what fields have been picked and what have not.

We are nearing mid-November; most of the cotton bolls are open, although you'll find a few blooms now and then on stalks. The freeze that kills has not come as yet,—unless it came in the few hours between the writing and printing of these words.

Fields that 60 days ago did not appear to be worth picking, now have yields that will run up to half a bale per acre; fields that first looked like a third to a half bale will yield nearly a bale and many farmers have picked half a bale from their dry land cotton and will get as much more on the last round.

Such a heavy percentage of cotton is being sold through the government loan that those channels are choked and returns are late. But everything will work out in time. Those farmers who want to put their crop in the loan or a part, will be able to get their money.

"Farm chemists in Iowa find a way to control mold on plants." Another is to keep them open, and arbitrate the industrial difference.

The One-Minute Sermon

Now be ye not stiffnecked, as your fathers were, but yield yourselves unto the Lord, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: and serve the Lord your God, that the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

For if ye turn again unto the Lord, your brethren and your children shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land: for the Lord your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him.—II. Chronicles, XXX, 8 and 9.

The Story Of Jill...

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JILL WENTWORTH, heroine, attractive debutante.

ALAN JEFFRY, hero, rising young artist.

BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's stepbrother.

JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.

SYLVIA SUTTON, oil heiress.

Yesterday: Jill meets Alan again dines with him and Mrs. Wentworth assumes that Jill has met a rich man!

CHAPTER VI

When a girl falls in love, the first thing she does usually is to go on a splurge of shopping.

This new mood of Jill's of wanting things to make herself more beautiful—was one Mrs. Wentworth could understand. It presaged orange blossoms and wedding chimes. And so when Jill returned home with more hand-made gloves than she knew what to do with, Mrs. Wentworth overlooked the extravagance. Even condoned it.

Only a man, she decided, could have put that soft, dreaming look in animated Jill's eyes.

Jill had only seen Alan Jeffry once since the day she found him exhibiting his beautiful paintings to a still hopeful mother and her two daughters. She was going to see him again this afternoon, this time through Jill's own clever maneuvering.

She had at last located Patty. Not two blocks south of Miss Lancaster's, as Patty had said, but three blocks.

On this particular afternoon, Jill had inveigled Patty, who was not in the least interested in art, into going with her to see Alan's pictures.

Another girl was with them, Ardath Holm.

Patty had prepared Jill for the interesting Miss Holm before she arrived home from work.

"I've taken a girl in with me," she said. "Writing books isn't any short route to a Park Avenue apartment. Paying rent for this dump has put an extra wrinkle in my fair brow. So I snapped up this model."

Jill laughed.

"She has a lean and hungry look, this girl," Patty said. "I've sized her up as a man-eating shark. Or sharkess, I should say. She had a French mother and a Swedish father, which might account for a lot of mixed emotions. But wait until you see her."

Patty's description had not prepared Jill for the new girl's strange attractiveness.

Ardath was thin, with flaxen hair, which she wore coiled around her head like a cap, giving her a foreign look. Her eyes were a golden-gray, fringed by black lashes. It came to Jill suddenly, that Ardath Holm was strikingly like a tiger.

Patty immediately liked Alan more than his landscapes, though she admitted they were very good. She won Alan's friendship when she singled out for her most extravagant tribute a picture which proved to be his favorite: "Sun Over Seville," a brilliant study of a Spanish fiesta; glowing, flashing with color, and animated with graceful movement.

"All the colors," Patty said, slowly, "ran right down and dripped from your fingers!"

Jill saw Alan flush with pleasure. She stood back listening to Patty being witty and intellectual. And watching Ardath being quietly "dumb." It wasn't the usual kind of dumbness." Jill was admitting to herself. Ardath looking silently at the pictures out of her strange eyes was perhaps registering more than the articulate Patty.

The main thing was that Patty was really impressed and her intelligent interest was heartening to Alan.

"That young man is in a devil of a hole trying to buck this town without friends and without money," Patty said to Jill later at her apartment. Ardath Holm had gone to her room. He told me he had left his home because he had to leave it. Whatever that may mean. Anyway, he looks as though he has had some bad breaks, and I'm afraid there'll be more of them."

"Don't you think he has a chance here?" Jill queried anxiously.

"He may be heaven's own gift to the art world and I'd still bet he hasn't a chance to earn three square meals a day unless he gets in a better place, where Mr. and Mrs. Money-bags can peek in. It won't help much if you and I and maybe the folks across the hall drop in to cheer him on, will it?"

"No," Jill admitted slowly. "The thing to do, Patty, is to sell a picture."

"How long do you think $100 or even $200 and I'm boosting the possibility—would last?"

"But Patty," Jill exclaimed, "good pictures bring thousands!"

"Not from any unknown painter. My dear, when did you matriculate in kindergarten?"

Properly subdued, Jill became inarticulate. But her brain was functioning. A plan was growing. It had started out as a germ planted in her mind by a chance remark of her own. The thing to do is to sell a picture!

The next time she saw Alan was a date.

He had invited her to lunch and they had gone to Miss Lancaster's. She had gone to meet him in a taxi. There were no night shadows to hide a swank roadster, that was damning evidence against her.

She was glad, now that Alan had not remembered the name "John H. Wentworth," which she had so carelessly given him the day she arrived home. It was a name that stood for the ultra in the order of things he despised. Some day he would have to know. But not until he knew her better and realized that she cared as little as he for elaborate living.

Meanwhile, he must sell that picture.

After the luncheon, Jill went straight to her father's office.

"What's on your mind, young one?"

Jill thought her father's voice sounded a little tired. How gray his hair was, with the light from the window falling on it. Under his keen eyes there were new wrinkles.

"Why," Jill thought with a surge of tenderness, "dad's getting old."

"I was wondering, dad," Jill said, going directly to the point, if I could be terribly extravagant."

She saw the surprise in her father's eyes.

"I gather you aren't talking about parties and clothes. It must be something very special."

"It is very special," Jill replied. "Dad, I want to buy a picture. A really grand picture, and I want to pay a big price for it."

"You WANT to pay a big price for it."

"Yes."

Hmm. Is this artist a friend?"

"Yes."

"A man?"

She nodded. "Dad, could I have $3,000?"

John Wentworth studied Jill's face. Brains and beauty. Yes, he could trust his lovely girl.

"He must be an extraordinary young man," her stepfather teased, "to have a beautiful girl wanting to play Santa Claus. You won't pay him a cent less than $3,000?"

"No, I won't." Jill smiled at him. I don't mind paying top prices for what I want. And I want this more than anything in the world."

"I used to think you were Scotch," Mr. Wentworth said, "never wanting to spend as much as I wanted to give you. But you are not Scotch at all. Just a bighearted American girl, trying to smooth over the bumps for an artist chap she's interested in. Do you want the money in a check or cash?"

"Cash, thank you," Jill said happily. "Besides being so big-hearted, I'm being very careful that he won't know about it."

"After all," Mr. Wentworth said, "it's your own money, some day. Jill you'll be a very rich young woman. I have never told you, but all my fortune, and it's very large, will be equally divided between you, Jack, Barry, and Evelyn. So I guess $3,000 is not so much to spend on something you want."

"Don't let's talk about leaving money to people," Jill said with a lump in her throat. "I couldn't bear to think of not having you, dad."

"Sometimes," he said, soberly, "I'm afraid I don't talk over business matters enough with my family. You know, Jill, all this money is bound up with the company, dependent upon its success; dependent upon the good will of bank heads who negotiate loans; dependent upon markets and trade relations; affected by the fluctuation of world affairs.

"There have been bad times in the past few years. It has been a battle, Jill, but I think the worst of the fight is safely behind. Just the same, we never relax vigilance. Something, some unforseen crisis, might topple the whole works."

"Dad!" Jill cried, her eyes misty. "I didn't know! We all take everything for granted. We've been so busy being rich, we never stopped to think how hard it is on you. Dad, honestly, if you ever get tired of fighting, I wouldn't mind being poor."

John Wentworth's voice was husky, as he patted Jill's slim hands. "Don't worry your pretty head a moment. The old Rock of Gibraltar could be smashed, I guess. But I have and idea it never will. Our company is just about as strong. And it will be as long as men like Oscar Montanne believe in it."

He left the room. Jill sat soberly for a moment. She was ashamed of the little uneasy prickle along her spine. It was natural for Dad to like Mr. Montanne, who was always ready to come to his aid financially. Just as it was natural for her not to like Mr. Montanne's son, who counted on his father's money to make friends for him.

"Just the same," Jill thought unhappily, "I wish he hadn't mentioned Milo's father just at this moment. It's silly, but somehow I

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

POLITICAL planners' fresh burst of chatter on 1940's lineup begins and ends with a discussion of Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia's private ambitions. His remarkable triumph ranks him next to President Roosevelt in the nation's greatest guessing contest.

Barring changes nobody can foresee, here are the mayor's immediate aims: He's too practical to lose his head or feet because of premature mention of him as a presidential candidate. For the next four years he hopes to propagandize the cause of good non-political, non-partisan municipal government. He wants to make the New York idea "contagious." As president of the mayors' conference he will utilize that agency to sell his product elsewhere.

Politically, LaGuardia wants to preserve and build up an American Labor party able to exercise a balance of power, and force national political organizations—the G.O.P., New Deal and Democratic—to espouse liberal issues and candidates. He believes religiously the need for radical realignment of parties, but he says it cannot be achieved by "the conference method—it must grow from the grass roots and city streets." If he weren't too smart to divulge his personal plans, he'd probably confide that his greatest ambition is to wind up with a seat in the United States senate.

QUERY: President Roosevelt tossed so many screwballs in the LaGuardia-Mahoney contest that his closest political pals were put to swinging wildly—and striking out. But there's one fast pitch even they didn't see.

F.D.R. was obviously playing inside ball when he permitted his two buddies to campaign for Mahoney, and quietly ordered Secretary Ickes to New York to deliver a speech that delighted the LaGuardians. His phone call of congratulations and post-election conference with the mayor (and no condolences for Mr. Mahoney, Mr. Farley or Mr. Wagner) had all the marks of a coat-tail act. The President apparently sought to assure the mayor's 482,000 labor group that he and Fiorello were still palsies-walsies.

But the ball his buddies didn't see was even slicker. On the Saturday before election LaGuardia received a warm White House letter congratulating him on settling a subway strike. It coincided with Mahoneyish charges that the mayor was too friendly toward labor, and it would have made the Farley entry look even more foolish. But with the election in the bag, the mayor stuck the belated indorsement in his pocket. What the politicos ask is: did the President deliberately let "Jim" out on a rotten limb whose crash may bruise the national chairman's chances for the governorship or any other office?

INEPT: The untold version of the Duke of Windsor's dealings with the American government is dizzier than the sensational headline article.

Secretary Hull first heard of the proposed visit through the Washington lobbyist for a New York advertising firm acting for Charles Bedaux. Mr. Hull could obtain no verification or information from the British embassy or from London. Apparently the royal family couldn't make up its mind whether it wanted the ex-king to be built up by a round of public appearances and private entertainment. It was during this period of anxious waiting that department heads, especially Harold Ickes, were warned to extend no extraordinary favors. Mrs. Roosevelt quickly discovered that she could not cancel previous engagements so she could throw a White House dinner.

Sir Ronald finally brought word that London wished every courtesy extended to King George's brother. The official attitude immediately softened; there were to be balls, dinners, teas and receptions in accord with protocol. Mr. Roosevelt instructed cabinet members to arrange inspection itineraries—a request left unheard earlier. Then came the A. F. of L. blast against the Bedaux labor-saving system and the industrialist-inventor's inept press-conference wines, liquor, eating dishes, a patronizing manner). Now everybody except socialites feels happier that the former monarch will await a better backgrounding.

NOTES: Vice President Garner holds the key to F.D.R.'s relations with Congress, and Garner isn't enamored of the program. . . . Talk of "tariff equalization" as a substitute for processing taxes to finance farm relief. . . . Seasonal industries gang up against wages-and-hours bill because of arbitrary powers granted to proposed labor standards board. . . . Members from flood regions opposed to seven-region planning scheme, alleging it would delay flood-control. . . . Government operation of railroads is a threat, not a tangibility.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

DESPITE the urgings of conservative advisers and business leaders whom he recently called into consultation at Hyde Park, New York insiders learn that President Roosevelt is not at all likely to make any placating gestures towards industry.

In particular, he has turned a deaf ear to plans for a sweeping revision of the undistributed profits tax, though he will probably assent to a measure of relief for small and debt-ridden corporations. F.D.R.'s conviction that large companies should be forced to distribute practically all their earnings to their stockholders in the form of dividends remains unshaken.

But anti-New Deal chiefs who insist that tax revision is necessary to restore the recovery trend are much heartened by grapevine reports that Congress is sure to take the bit in its teeth and run away from White House leadership on this subject. For once, New Yorkers are actually looking forward to a session of Congress with anticipation rather than dread.

TONIC: The oft-stressed question of "restoring business confidence" fits into this picture.

Hitherto all appeals for a friendlier attitude towards private enterprise have been directed to the White House. Now the center of conservative interest has suddenly switched to Capitol Hill. Industrial and financial leaders are pouring eloquent pleas into the private ears of key senators and representatives to "save the country" by easing the burdens on business—and are getting a better response than they had dared to hope.

If Congress does carry through with tax revision plans now being discussed behind closed doors, the tonic effect on dejected business sentiment will be even greater than if the initiative had come from the White House.

SLIPPING: Results in local Pennsylvania elections last week were generally interpreted as favorable to continued Democratic-C.I.O. dominance in that state.

But inside analysis discloses that the evidence is far from conclusive. In Philadelphia, for instance, Governor Earle made a special effort to reelect Judge Harry Kalodner, who headed the Democratic judicial slate. Kalodner—formerly Earle's secretary—was appointed to the bench by the governor to fill a vacancy. Earle's verbal fire was concentrated chiefly on Theodore Rosen, who headed the Republican judicial ticket. Yet Rosen was the only G.O.P. judge elected—and Kalodner was defeated.

Pennsylvania voters also rejected constitutional amendments sought by Governor Earle and a bond issue he requested for the benefit of state institutions. These straws indicate that the governor's hitherto firm grip on the state is slipping a bit.

PREMATURE: Most commentators are singing requiems for Tammany as a result of its smashing defeat in the recent municipal election. The Tiger is a pretty sick beast, all right. It lost the vital contest for district attorney and the only administrative offices it salvaged were two that are soon to be abolished under the new city charter.

But Tammany isn't entirely dead, by any means. It elected several members of the judiciary, including Judge Aaron Levy—whose defeat was officially recommended by all the bar associations.

Those judgeships leave the Tiger an ace of proportions. Patronage stemming from the courts will take care of a number of the faithful who might like to be commissioners but will welcome any political job they can get. It should also be noted that District Attorney Dewey—arch-foe of Tammany—must try many of his cases before Tammany judges. It may turn out that the jubilation—or gloom—at the demise of the Tiger is a bit premature.

Letters To The Editor

Your Voice Is As Loud As Our Own

OFFERS ANSWER

Editor, The Avalanche: On Nov 2 there appeared in this paper a letter entitled "Upholds Regimentation." In the use of the term "Democracy," much confusion prevails. It is applied to divergent and antagonistic forms and philosophies of government. The socialists, and communists have long applied the term to designate their philosophies of government. Also the rulers of Germany and Italy, on occasion, have done so. In speaking or writing of democracy, to be understood we must make clear our concept of the term's meaning. The following lessons are pertinent to the consideration and understanding of this question. Man was not made for government, but government for man. "That government is best which governs least." These familiar quotations carry the deepest significance. The acme of good in human government, is one in which its citizens enjoy the utmost in freedom, but it must be freedom with responsibility. Nor should we confuse individual liberty with corporate liberty, for they are world apart.

Quoting from the letter above referred to we have: What is democracy but collectivism, since its meaning is rule of the people collectively?" We have laws for the punishment of criminals, laws for the settlement of differences growing out of human relations. Under the framework of these laws, the good citizen, surrenders no right, no liberty. He claims no freedom, to commit crime, no right or freedom to settle his civil differences by force. But when he surrenders his fundamental rights, his fundamental freedom in the realm of economics or his private business and turns over its control to a governmental body then, and not till then, do we have "collectivism." In the surrender of this fundamental freedom, we transform our Democracy into an "authoritaian state." When a government becomes the arbiter of the economic destinies of its citizens it has assumed such a tremendous responsibility, out of the discharge of which will grow endless strife and conflict. To preserve order under this kind of a regime, strong-arm methods, must needs be employed, freedom of speech and freedom of the press will sooner or later have to go.

No government on earth can discharge this responsibility with satisfaction to its citizens. What are we to understand to be the meaning of a "planned economy?" It means to entrust to a governmental body the control of our economic interests. The planning is futile without the authority to execute the plan, and the execution involves the apportionment and dispensing of the economic benefits or fruits of industry. If we do not care for surrendering our freedom in this field, if we do not care for changing our form of government, will it produce better economic results? Consider the effect of general rules, and regulations, suppose to suitably fit into, and become effective in operation in the varied and changing situations which prevail in private business. Consider the lack of individual initiative so necessary in the operation of private business. Consider the horde of administrators, under strait-jacket rules, deprived of initiative, and lacking in personal interest, and yet all to be well paid. May we expect efficiency under these handicaps?

There are those amongst us who believe we can correct our ills, and we have ills, under our present structure and framework of government. Then we have those who think it is necessary to establish a "new order," a "New Deal" program. Many would follow all the way to Rome or Moscow, under the pseudonym of Democracy—If, we leave our well-trodden paths, and enter these dim trails of "collectivism," "planned economy," and "regimentation," let us remember if followed all the way they lead straight to an authoritarian state of some kind.

Houston Mecca For Ex-Studes

Alumni and former students of Texas Technological college who attend the annual meeting of the Texas State Teachers association in Houston will meet Nov. 26 for a dinner at the Lamar hotel. Plans to make it one of the best in several years have been outlined at Tech by the alumni and the college administration.

William McCraw, attorney-general of Texas, will be the principal speaker, B. C. Shulkey, who received an M.A. degree from Tech in 1931, and is now assistant superintendent of Fort Worth city schools, will be toastmaster, and Rev. Hubert Hopper, a 1932 graduate of the college, will deliver the invocation. Jack Hardy, president of the Houston branch of the Tech Alumni and Ex-Students association, will welcome those who attend the dinner, and T. L. Leach, a Tech graduate who now is assistant instructor in the agricultural education department at Tech, will respond.

Tech President To Speak

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech will give a report on improvements and progress at the college in the past year, a picture of the new lebrary under construction will be shown, and copies of the Tech magazine will be distributed.

Other than Hardy, officers of the Houston branch of the Alumni and Ex-Students association are Bill Caldwell, vice-president; Phyllis Pool, secretary; Hal Hitchock, treasurer; and Cornelia McCanne, reporter. Others who are helping with arrangements for the dinner are Mrs. Elton Smith, who was Maurine Havis before her marriage, and Mrs. Troy Mitcham, who was Betty Clapp.

Elaborate Preparation Made

Several Tech graduates over the state have been asked to contact other former students of the college and get them to attend the state convention and the Tech dinner. They are Mrs. H. B. Boyle (Rossie Beth Bennett), Fort Worth; C. M. Rogers, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Douglas, Galveston; Alice Beckett, Lubbock; L. C. Riethmeyer, University of Texas; Holmes Webb, Abilene; Riley Alexander, El Paso; Mrs. Doyle Coe (Almeda Murray), Goose Creek; Virginia Murray, Sweetwater; Mary Scott, Corpus Christi; Nell Goodlos, Port Arthur; Mildred Chappell, Dallas; King Sides, Snyder; Mrs. Hayes Holman (Lavada Baze), Post; Freddies Aikins, Big Spring; F. O. Boles, Littlefield; J. M. Rankin, Ralls; G. L. Farrar, Wellington; M. L. H. Baze, Brownfield; O. J. Lass, Plainview; Effie Lou Keaster, San Angelo; G. M. Roberts, Lamesa, and Betsy Wilson, Spur.

don't feel quite so happy."

She managed to lift smiling eyes as her father entered the room. He handed her a roll of bills, which Jill stuffed into her purse.

"I feel like the sole owner of the mint," she said. "A hug and kiss is mighty little thanks, Dad."

"Jill, be careful," her stepfather warned. "No one ever yet bought happiness."

"Till will," Jill boasted. "Because it's somebody else's happiness I'm buying."

Afterward, she remembered that boast.

Biology Studes Of Tech Plan Field Trip Thursday

Eleven biology students enrolled at Texas Technological college plan to leave early this morning on a four-day field trip to the Davis mountains. Dr. R. A. Studhalter, head of the biology department, said Tuesday. Mrs. D. W. Douglass will have charge of the group.

The trip, an annual schedule, will give the students practical study of the major groups of plants and animals in their natural habitat. They will visit Fort Davis, McDonald observatory, Lumpia canyon, Mt. Locke, Fern canyon, Musquiz canyon and Alpine. Specimens for the herbarium at Tech and museum pieces will be collected and classified.

Students who make the trip, Dr. Studhalter said, will be permitted to make up class work missed.

The group will go in a chartered bus Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, and will return to Lubbock Sunday afternoon.

NEW THEATRE MANAGER

LOCKNEY, (Special) — Horace Gearhart, Lubbock, has purchased the lease of the Isis Theatre here from Jack Arthur and is now in charge. He was formerly with the Tech theatre in Lubbock. Arthur and his wife are moving to Crosbyton where they will be in charge of a theatre.

TARZAN'S QUEST. No. 186 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Tarzan dropped down, the lion stopped in his tracks, eying the intruder with displeasure. The beast growled, then advanced again. From the cavity of Tarzan's mighty chest rolled savage growls, and he moved slowly forward to meet his antagonist.

Again the carnivore halted, and glanced quickly from side to side. He snarled, wheeled, and stalked majestically away. The Jungle Lord had outbluffed the beast. Now Tarzan turned to the amazed man who sat on the ground, anxious to question him about Jane.

. . . But poor Jane, in the hands of the Kavuru, was beyond immediate aid. She knew she was not strong enough to escape from her captor by force; she must try strategy. "Put me down," she urged. "It will be easier for both of us if you allow me to walk."

At first the Kavuru ignored the suggestion, but at last he put her down. Jane glanced quickly about her. The Kavuru apparently anticipated her purpose. He raised his spear. "Do not try to escape," he warned. "If you do, Ogdii may have to kill you!"

Wall Street..

RALLY TOUCHED OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (AP)—A pronounced pick-up in Wall Street sentiment touched off a stock market rally of fractions to 6 or more points today.

Behind the better feeling, brokers said, was the impression in some quarters the administration was moving for closer co-operation with business.

Topmost reason for this was the conference between President Roosevelt and men prominent in the business world, including a leading Wall Street banker. Under consideration, it was reported, were ways and means of checking the downturn in business through stimulating the construction industry.

This meeting, following the chief executive's suggestion that utilities and the government could arrive at closer cooperation provided the power companies charged "fair rates," was seen by most as a hopeful sign.

How much help was given the market by Washington was stressed by the fact reports from industry were anything but bright. "Iron Age" noted the motor industry has failed so far to fill its expected role as heavy buyer of steel, while demand from other sectors has remained spotty.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 2.3 at 48.3. Transactions totaled 1,923,650 shares compared with 1,048,770 Tuesday. There were 694 advances, 78 declines and 82 issues unchanged.

Livestock markets will remain open. Principal foreign markets will be closed with the exception of London and Liverpool which will operate as usual.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10. (AP) — Cotton prices advanced more than 50 cents a bale here today but profit-taking and pre-holiday liquidation shaded the gains in late trading and the close was steady at net advance of 1 to 5 points.

Renewed speculative demand, foreign buying and trade calling were the incentives behind the advance and in the face of light offerings prices were above the previous close throughout the session.

At the best of the session active positions showed net gains of slightly more than 50 cents a bale but subsequent realizing by recent buyers and evening-up of long contracts in advance of the Armistice holiday tomorrow erased a good part of the gain. Last prices were at or near the lowest.

Dec closed at 7.96@7.97, Jan. at 7.96, March at 8.03, May at 8.07, July at 8.11@8.12, and Oct. at 8.19. Spots closed steady with middling at 8.03, or 5 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (AP)—Cotton held steady today with moderate demand absorbing southern selling. March, which had sold off from 7.99@7.93, closed at 7.96 with final prices 1 to 7 points net higher.

Foreign and trade buying gave the market an early boost but liquidation in December was attracted and partial reactions developed. Dullness of both spot cotton and cotton goods was reflected in limited trading.

Exports today 29,542 making a total of 1,985,049 for the season thus far. Port receipts 23,966. U. S. port stocks 3,273,175.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 7.88 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.02 cents a pound.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. (AP)—Fears of enlarged crop damage in Argentina, with freezing weather there predicted for tonight, did much to hoist wheat values today 2 cents a bushel.

Argentina areas already affected by frost include the region that as a rule produces 40 per cent of Argentina's wheat yield. Adding impetus to wheat price upturns were advances of securities, as well as 4 cents a bushel skyrocketing of rye values.

Soaring of the rye market followed notice that the United States government would buy up surplus domestic rye, grind it into flour, and turn it over to relief agencies. Talk was current that this might be an attempt to make rye the bell-wether for higher grain prices all around.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were to 2 cents above yesterday's finish, Dec. 89¼@89⅛, May 89⅛@89¼, July 84½@84⅝, rye 3⅛ to 4 cents up, Dec. 71¼, corn unchanged to ¼ off, Dec. 56@56⅛, May 58½@58⅝, July 59⅜, and oats ⅛ to ½ advanced, Dec. 30½. Provisions results varied from 2 cents setback to 12 cents bulge.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Nov. 10. (AP)—Demand was slightly improved on the cash grain market here today. Estimated receipts: wheat 7 cars, corn 2, and sorghums 3.

Wheat No. 1 soft red winter 1.03¼@1.04¼; No. 1 hard 1.05¼@1.06¼.

Armistice Day Here

ing to C. A. Hubbard, grand marshal. The line of march will be on Broadway to Avenue G, thence north to Main, thence west to Texas, then north to the city hall to disband.

The order of march will be: motorcycle policemen; parade marshal; Texas Technological college band; R. O. T. C. unit; Civil war veterans; United Daughters of Confederacy; Spanish-American War veterans; national guard band; national colors and standards of the V. F. W. and the Legion; World war veterans; Gold Star mothers; auxiliaries; Senior High school band; Sons of the American Legion, and national guard units.

The program at City hall park will begin about 10:45 p. m. and will be interrupted by a moment of silence at 11 a. m. to commemorate the moment when cease firing was sounded 19 years ago. Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney, will be master of ceremonies. Clark M. Mullican will deliver the address. On the platform will be Gold Star mothers and present and immediate past commanders of the V. F. W. and Legion. They are Commander R. J. (Bob) Allen and Past Commander Frank McPherson of the V. F. W. and Commander A. C. (Jack) Jackson and Past Commander W. O. (Dan) Daniels of the Legion.

Big event of the entire day will be the Texas Technological college-Duquesne university football game at Tech stadium. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

Between halves of that game, national and battalion colors will be presented on behalf of the V. F. W. and Legion post to Tech R. O. T. C. unit. Presentation will be made by Allen and Jackson. Clifford B. Jones of Spur, president of Tech board of trustees, will accept them on behalf of the college. Participating in the ceremony also will be Capt. Frank A. Pettit, Lt. H. J. Skidmore, Cadet Major Rufus Ryan, and Miss Frances Turner, R. O. T. C. sponsor and honorary cadet major.

Tech band, directed by D. O. Wiley, will play during the ceremony and the entire cadet corps will be on the field. All ex-service men are invited to be there also.

The Armistice dance will begin at 9 p. m. at the downtown auditorium. Ned Bradley's orchestra will play. In charge of arrangements are C. E. Luce and R. W. Amick.

Opening Street Arranged Here

extension of Texas avenue already had been obtained, and the street will be extended to Twenty-eighth on a straight line from where the thoroughfare now ends. From Twenty-eighth almost to Thirtieth, the street will sweep on a broad curve into Avenue H. Thus will be provided two traffic arteries into the business district from the most heavily traveled series of rural highways serving Lubbock.

Paving Is Planned

Texas avenue now is paved only to Nineteenth street, but plans already are underway for the surfacing of the street to its point of contact with Avenue H. This improvement, additional to providing another artery to relieve the present traffic load on Avenue H, will also provide another route to reach nearly all points in the southwestern residential district of the city.

Recommendation as to the zoning of Texas avenue so as to regulate types of buildings to be constructed there are to be made to the next meeting of the commission by City Manager Rodgers, City Building Inspector Jim Reid and Mayor Edwards. However, to prevent undesirable building until the recommendations are made and acted on, the commission adopted on first reading an ordinance which places unzoned portions of the avenue within a building zone. This action was taken when the city manager reported he had been informed that plans already have been made to open at least one automobile wrecking yard on the avenue.

Other Business Approved

Remainder of the commission's actions were largely routine, although several of them were of outstanding importance.

They included:

Appointment of Ralph Portwood, present police radio operator, as city electrical inspector.

Authority to City Manager Rodgers to appoint a plumbing inspector, and Rodger's announcement after the meeting that H. B. Hamilton, Lubbock plumber, would be named to the post. City Commissioner Richardson vigorously opposed Hamilton's appointment and urged that T. J. Morgan be given the job.

Shell Gets Contract

Award of a contract to Virgil Shell to erect a building at the city power plant in which a new Diesel engine soon to be delivered will be housed. Shell's bid of $12,440 was the lowest of five submitted.

Instructions to the city manager to call for separate bids to grub and put into cultivation the 800-acre Boles tract southeast of the city which the commission purchased several months ago.

To Install Meters

Approval of an amendment to the present parking meter ordinance which authorizes installation of meters on Thirteenth street from Texas to Avenue L; on Texas from Thirteenth to Fourteenth, on Main from J to K; on J from Main to Tenth; on Thirteenth from Texas to H; and on the east side of Texas from Main to the first alley. Meters probably will be in place by Friday, commissioners were informed.

Refusal of the request of Quicksall Pryor company for a space in front of their building to be designated as a loading zone. Commissioners said their action was due to the fact that the establishment, located at 1108 Main street, borders on an alley which can be used for loading and unloading.

Approval of a resolution which will permit construction of an electric power line crossing Santa Fe tracks to Plains compress.

To Extend Switch

Passage on first reading of an ordinance authorizing the Santa Fe to extend a switch from Avenue E about half a block in the alley between Broadway and Thirteenth street. At the same time, commissioners served notice on Santa Fe officials that the ordinance will not be passed on final reading, until the railroad has kept its promise to build a crossing over a switch on Fourth street at Avenue P. Officials charged that the promise was made months ago and that materials for the crossing have been on the ground since mid-summer, but that repeated inquiries as to when the work will be done has brought only vague promises.

Rejection of the demand for a settlement as made by Mrs. G. McWhorter on behalf of her son, A. C. Jarrell, who was shot and wounded by Policeman Carl Frances, several weeks ago. The commission was informed that Frances has paid the youth $50 and that his hospital bill of $75 will be paid out of the city-county welfare fund. The mother demanded, however, that the city bind itself to bear the expense if an operation ever becomes necessary to remove the bullet from Jarrell's body. That has not yet been done, it was explained, because it lies so near an artery that the operation would be attended by grave danger. Commissioners were informed that they could not legally bind the city to something that might happen in the indefinite future.

Routine approval of bonds of W. G. Dysart and J. R. Thomas as general contractors, and of Corn Signs, inc., R. M. Dodson, M. E. Malone and F. Haden as sign contractors.

To Arrange For Alley

Instructions to the city manager to attempt to arrange for the opening of an alley between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets from College avenue to a dead end about 200 yards west.

Instruction to City Attorney Bradley to revise present ordinances covering operation of traveling tent shows in Lubbock. The present ordinance sets the city permit fee at $15 per day. The new ordinance will levy a charge equaling two per cent of the maximum box office receipts at each performance. Revision of the ordinance was ordered after H. J. Roark, advance man for O'Dell Players, a traveling repertoire tent theater, had announced that the unit wants to come to Lubbock to remain through the winter, presenting popular stage attractions. He said the company carries a minimum of 25 persons on its payroll, having played 11 months in El Paso and nine months in Dallas, among other points.

Practice Is Criticized

Vigorous criticism by Commissioner Fortenberry, in which the entire commission joined, of the practice of setting loud speakers in front of business places and upon automobiles traveling through the business district. Commissioners agreed that early action will be taken to suppress the nuisance. In the nuisance category, Mayor Edwards and Commissioner Price placed bands which play for Saturday night previews at motion picture theaters.

Approval of an increase from $15 per month to $30 per month for purchase of ammunition for the police department. "Policemen carry guns; they should know how to use them," was the mayor's terse comment on that subject. "If they are to learn to use those guns, they must practice."

Scale Of Charges Revised

Revision of the present scale of charges for inspection of slaughtered animals so as to make the same set of fees applicable at all times. For years, commissioners explained, Lubbock has operated under an ordinance which sets one charge for inspection three days each week, and another list of fees twice as large for the remaining three days. Fees now operative are 25 cents for inspection of a cattle carcass and 10 cents for that of a hog or sheep.

Refusal by the commission to make concessions from the present city building code to Miss Mae Murfee in connection with a three-story frame structure moved months ago to lots in the 2000 block on Broadway and which she intends, she advised officials, to convert into apartments. Building officials reported that the house violates both city and state fire codes in several particulars and that they have refused to give their approval to the structure. Commissioners declined to interfere with the building inspector's decision and suggested that if Miss Murfee desires, she can appeal to the city board of appeals, of which Virgil Sheets, R. O. Walker and Robert Maxey are members.

Local Men Low In Bids For Work At Ropesville Colony

Low bidders in the extension of the Ropesville Resettlement project Wednesday were announced as William S. Moss, for contractor for erection of 48 new houses and outbuildings, and E. K. Hufstedler and Sons, windmills and equipment, according to an Associated Press report from Dallas.

Bids were opened there Wednesday. Moss' bid for construction of the new houses was between $98,000 and $99,000. Bid for windmills and equipment was between $24,000 and $25,000, according to the report.

Bids for clearing of land and plowing and terracing of land to be cultivated for the Ropesville project were opened at Amarillo Wednesday, an Associated Press report from there said.

Nine bids were received and four of them, two recommended and two as alternatives, were selected and will be forwarded to Washington for final selection, farm security administration heads there, said. They did not name low bidders, but said several alternative plans were offered. Speedy action at Washington in letting the contract is expected, they said.

Information from Dallas was to the effect that the bids for houses, outbuildings, and windmills and equipment might not be awarded officially for three or four weeks.

James P. Williams, manager of the Ropesville project, was in Amarillo Wednesday in connection with the opening of contracts.

of Triumph; government employes held a service in the senate palace.

Tomorrow, the army will parade in major celebrations.

In Brussels King Leopold will salute at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and observe a minute's silence.

Torchbearers will arrive in the evening from all parts of Belgium and the Belgian Congo to rekindle the flame on the tomb.

Armistice day will not be celebrated in Germany. Its place has been taken by the Munich "beer cellar putsch" exercises of Nov. 9, marking Chancellor Adolf Hitler's abortive revolt before his subsequent rise to power.

Italy commemorated last Wednesday the cessation of fighting on the Italian front.

Program Is Planned At Brownfield Today

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 10.—Former service men of Terry county will participate in their annual Armistice day program Thursday, starting before daybreak and ending at noon.

Judge Louis B. Reed of Lamesa will be the principal speaker of the day. He has accepted an invitation to attend and will speak down town at 11 o'clock.

The day will start with a noise making racket about 5:30 or 6 o'clock, with the shooting of canons, pistols, etc. Legionnaires and former service men will gather at Legion hall on the court house square and eat breakfast, each man bringing his own bacon, eggs, etc.

At 10 o'clock the men will go to the high school where there will be talks by several men. They will relate their experiences in the war.

Parade will form at 10:30, marching down town at 11 o'clock. Judge Reed will speak on the court house lawn. Boy Scouts and others are to assist in the parade.

NOME HIT BY STORM

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 10. (AP)—Raging seas wrecked nearly every building along a half-mile stretch of Nome's waterfront last night and today. Collapsing buildings injured several persons. Civic leaders said the storm was the worst since 1913, when a tidal wave swept over the town.

Civil Action At Post Lengthy

POST, Nov. 10. (Special) — The civil action in 106th district court in which Mrs. Ben Griffith of San Angelo is attempting to recover one-sixth interest in the J. M. and Margaret Shannon estate of approximately 140,000 acres of land closed its third day today with no prospects of conclusion before late next week.

Plaintiffs rested their case today after introduction of oral testimony by four witnesses and "four or five" depositions, attorneys said. The defense began introduction of testimony this afternoon.

To Present 20 Witnesses

Attorneys for trustees of the Shannon estate said they possibly would place 20 witnesses on the stand in the court of Judge Louis B. Reed before resting.

The estate includes lands in Garza, Tom Green, Crockett and Scurry counties. Defendants in the case are Alex Collins and others, trustees under the Shannon will.

Mrs. Griffith, in her original petition, based her claim to the estate on the alleged gift to her of half of the property of her husband before their marriage. She set out she was due half of her husband's third interest in an alleged fencing contract; that Shannon never paid to her or her husband their portion of profits from the contract; and that their portion went into the Shannon estate.

The Shannons willed their estate to the Shannon Memorial hospital at San Angelo.

are required for their solution. One of these measures, but only one, in the present juncture, is a determined movement toward a balanced budget."

Asserting that 1937's business activity has been of "a healthy character" and unmarred by the usual symptoms of "an unhealthy boom," he said "we have not reached the stage of full employment of our productive resources."

Conditions Are Favorable

"On the contrary," he said, "from all these standpoints, conditions are favorable for a continued increase in the level of business activity."

At another point the cabinet officer declared that "the basic need today is to foster the full application of the driving force of private capital."

Speaking on the same program before the academy of political science, Senator Byrd (D-Va) demanded "a major surgical operation to reduce government expenditures." The budget must be balanced soon, he declared, "or disaster must inevitably come."

The "incredible sum" of 47 billion dollars has been spent in seven years, he asserted, and 22 billions added to the public debt.

"The only constructive thing to do," he said, "is to stop writing checks."

The Virginia advocate of retrenchment also assailed what he termed "devious and misleading" bookkeeping methods of the government and, in passing, roundly criticized the tax on undistributed profits of corporations.

Morgenthau said the administration could not "prudently" expect any more revenues in the next fiscal year than the $6,650,000,000 predicted for this year and that instead of imposing higher taxes "we should plan to bring next year's expenditures within this year's income.

The reductions should be made, he explained, in classes of expenditures which have been mainly responsible for past deficits. He said highway expenditures should be slashed from this year's outlay of $253,000,000 to the pre-depression level of less than $100,000,000. No specific figures were given to indicate how deeply he believes reductions should be made in spending for agriculture, relief and public works.

To the farmers he extended the caution that "no agricultural program can long endure which makes excessive demands upon the federal treasury, or is unfair to consumers."

Women As Bosses

theory of an amazonied America. "Thus women have been driven to loneliness or naughtiness."

"Today, realizing that their love motive has no sustained force, nothing to feed on—in fact," he interjected, "they're just out of luck as far as men are concerned—so today women are diverting their energies into other channels. And as they develop as much ability for wordly success as they already have ability for love, they will clearly come to rule business and the nation and the world."

"Women don't want to rule," he said—"they are being driven to it by a desire for love."

Jury Put To Bed In King Murder Trial

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 10. — A 64th district court jury late tonight was put to bed without its having rendered a verdict relative to the guilt or innocence of Henry Egbert King, 39, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Dr. E. F. McClendon June 25.

The case had gone to the jury about 9 o'clock after completion of arguments. District Attorney Charles H. Dean and Special Prosecutor Meade F. Griffin asked life sentence. W. W. Kirk, Plainview attorney and counsel for King, attempted to prove the defendant insane.

King was charged by indictment with murder of the 69-year-old Hale county health officer after the doctor was fatally shot when he, Deputy Sheriff Bill Shook and City Policeman Nath Burkett entered the cell in the Plainview jail in which King had been placed on a disturbance charge.

Representing Mrs. Griffith are the Lubbock law firm of Lockhart and Brown, State Senator G. H. Nelson, Lynn County Attorney Truett Smith of Tahoka, and Garza County Attorney Joe Moss of Post. The law firm of Crenshaw and Dupree of Lubbock and Carl Rountree of Lamesa are attorneys for defendants.

Tech Homecoming

Spur, Jack Little of Amarillo, and Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo.

The holiday spirit will reign all day at Tech because no classes will meet. Students will take part in celebrations honoring returning alumni.

After the fire last night was touched off and the first cheering died down, Maxine Fry, president of the student body, welcomed returning students on behalf of the faculty and student body. She expressed hope Tech would carry on traditions started by those earlier classes, and thanked all who cooperated in making the bonfire a success.

Traditional bonfires at Tech were outlawed five years ago when vandalism made them a menace. After petition of the student council to the administrative council this year, it was agreed that the tradition would be resumed if the student council would cooperate with city officials and supervise the gathering of material for the fire.

No adverse criticism had been made early today, an informal check showed.

Other speakers at the rally last night, conducted by the light of the fire, were Pete Cawthon, head coach of the Red Raiders, who said he wanted the hopes of Duquesne to go up in smoke like the smoke of the bonfire; Hurley Carpenter, member of Tech's first team, whose talk was interspersed with yells by the student body; George Dupree, who led students in two-minutes of constant yelling; and Red Ramsey, Red Raider captain. James Forbis, head yell leader who acted as master of ceremonies introduced two new assistant leaders, Parker Brown of Eastland and Harold Gierhart of Shamrock. The pep rally was broadcast over KFYO.

Ten Basic Principles

soil practices.

6. The program must be sufficiently flexible to protect the interests of all sections and give special assistance to surplus and export crops.

7. The American market must be guaranteed to the American farmer to the limit of his ability to supply efficiently the needs of the consuming public.

8. Loans for crop storage on farms should be provided and funds for the surplus commodity corporation increased. Marketing agreements should be strengthened.

9. A larger amount of tariff revenue should be set aside for research, to find new uses for farm products, new plants and new crops, and to equalize prices.

10. The program must consider the federal treasury and protect the interests of the ultimate consumer. It must be workable and constitutional.

Walter Woodul To Be Acting Governor Of Texas Few Days

AUSTIN, Nov. 10. (AP)—Lieut.-Gov. Walter F. Woodul today came to Austin to assume the duties of the governorship.

Although his office had no definite report on his movements, it was understood Governor James V. Allred crossed the border during the day for a hunting trip in Mexico.

The governor planned to hunt near Monterrey with Governor Teller Ammons of Colorado, who had preceded him to the hunting grounds.

CLEBURNE MAN INDICTED

CLEBURNE, Nov. 10. (AP) — The Johnson county grand jury today indicted Harrison Seate, 28, of Cleburne on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the fatal injury of Mrs. C. W. Robison of Forney in an automobile collision last summer.

Time, in its relentless march moves on, and brings today the nineteenth anniversary of the cessation of hostilities in history's greatest and most devastating conflict—the World War.

The patriotic love of Americans for America burns anew on this occasion. Thoughts are turned to the debt of gratitude owed by those who did not sacrifice their all to those who did . . . Poignant memories suffuse the minds of countless thousands who directly or indirectly suffered through the dark and anxious days of '17 and '18 . . . .

It is fitting, then, that America should pause and celebrate the day which meant the end of forced marches and long night vigils; end of the horrors of War. We join the populace of the Nation in honoring the men who "stopped not to reason why" when the call came to protect the freedom of their country.

Rights For Area To Be Sought

Irrigation associations from Floyd, Lubbock, Hale and Lamb counties have decided to send representatives to Washington, D. C., to urge that proper allowance be made for the South Plains in any federal cotton subsidy. The decision was reached at a joint meeting of the boards of directors from the four counties at a meeting in Plainview Tuesday night.

Day Named Delegate

Cliff Day, prominent Plainview farmer who already is in Washington, was named to represent Hale county and he will be joined in the next day or two by A. B. Tarwater, also of Plainview, member of the Texas legislature.

Robert H. Bean, Lubbock attorney, will represent the Lubbock county association. He said today he will hold himself in readiness to leave for Washington when called by Day and Tarwater. Lamb and Floyd county represeptatives were not named immediately.

They will urge, said Bean, that fair allotment be made to West Texas for increased cotton production resulting from irrigation and new land put into cultivation in any federal cotton subsidy appropriation.

Resolution adopted at the Plainview meeting urged congress to pass legislation providing for payment to cotton growers of a subsidy of "five or more cents per pound on that part of cotton production domestically consumed, the allotment to each individual farm to be made upon a fair estimate of its present potential production capacity rather than upon the basis of its past history which penalizes those districts and farms which, during recent years, have increased their potential production through placing new land in cultivation, increase in irrigation and by contouring and terracing."

School Pupils Drink 25 Gallons Daily Of Distilled Water

Children in the two Lubbock schools where fountains for distilled, flourine-free water have been installed by the Lions club, are taking to the water to the tune of approximately 25 gallons a day.

According to Mrs. Guy Trow, principal of Dupre school, parents of children who have been drinking the flourine-free water at home, are daily expressing their gratitude that the children are now able to get the same kind of water at school.

Try To Prevent Stain

"Since flourine is the cause of a brownish stain peculiar to teeth of many persons in this area, this is an experiment to try to prevent the stain. However, little progress can be made if a child who drinks the distilled water at home does not get the same kind of water at school," Mrs. Trow said.

Although only those children who drink the water at home are drinking from the Dupre fountain, it is taking approximately 15 gallons a day and as others begin the practice, it will take much more Mrs. Trow added.

According to Miss Stella Thurman, principal of K. Carter school, 10 gallons of the water are used in that school daily. Consumption is limited to those students who use the flourine-free water at home. "It is the hope of the school," she said, "to interest more parents in the water. However, there is no point in letting a child who drinks ordinary water at home drink the especially prepared water."

The Lions club, of which W. A. Evans is president, installed the fountains at a cost of $60 and it likely will cost $400 to operate them a year. Dr. M. H. Benson, with the help of school officials, made an investigation of tooth discoloration for the Lions community health committee, of which Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent of schools, is chairman.

Bullock Returns From Austin And NYA Officials' Session

A. V. Bullock, district supervisor of the National Youth administration, returned Wednesday from Austin where he attended a meeting of the state's supervisors. The session was conducted Monday and Tuesday.

Accompanying Bullock were Phil Wilson of the Amarillo district and Ben Jackson of the San Angelo district. When there, Bullock led a discussion of "Off the Job Training for NYA Youths."

The need for more off-the-job and on-the-job training for enrollees of the government agency was stressed by the supervisors. They also discussed the making of projects available for eligible youths, regardless of their residence in the district.

The provision for more "youth centers" was discussed. A project of that type will begin in Crosby soon, the approval from J. C. Kellam, state director, having been obtained Bullock said.

Five Million In Gold To Be Shipped To England Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—The treasury announced today $5,000,000 worth of gold would be shipped to England tomorrow.

In response to inquiries, officials said the metal would leave on the Aquitania tomorrow. It will be the second gold export from the United States this week.

A $10,250,000 shipment of gold left for France today on the Normandie, the first outflow of the metal from this country in nearly two years.

The treasury explained the British equalization fund bought the gold to prevent the value of the pound from rising too high in comparison with the dollar.

No information was available as to whether further exports were imminent.

Famous Play To Be Presented

Sponsored by the Lubbock Playgoers league, which was inactive last season, "Daddy Long Legs," produced by the New York Children's theater under the direction of Clare Tree Major, will be presented at Senior High school auditorium Nov. 29. It will be the third and last performance in a series begun by the league.

While the play has been simplified for children, it is said to be one especially appealing to adults, said H. C. Pender, president of the Playgoers league.

Tickets To Be Honored

Tickets purchased two years ago when the dramatic society was organized here will be honored and a chart has been kept to aid those who may have mislaid their season tickets. These tickets will be redeemable at the auditorium on the night of the performance.

Single admissions, children 50 cents and adults 75 cents, will be sold by the Junior High school Parent-Teacher association at a downtown booth. Funds will be applied on band uniforms which the association is purchasing, said Mrs. E. A. Tipton, chairman of the ticket sales committee.

While the Children's Theater has presented plays in Texas for several years, this is the first time that it has come to the Southwest. Three of the organization's plays will be staged in Abilene this season.

The Lubbock league sponsored two plays its initial year, "Accent On Youth" and "The First Legion."
