The American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals Rodeo, held here Aug. 10-14, did so well financially that it is certain to return here in 1977. Some local organizations had underwritten some of the expenditures for the rodeo, but the AJRA committee did not have to call on them because the five-day show managed to pay its own way.

It was a "first time" event for local workers and for the most part they were shooting in the dark. But the show was well organized and sponsors for trophies, etc., responded well. Consequently, the hours and hours of hard work by the committee paid off with a highly successful show.

The Snyder Tigers, who open their 1976 football season Friday night at Monahans, cover most of Northwest Texas with their schedule this year. In fact, you have to go back to the fifties to find opponents so widely separated. Fortunately, the locals have Borger in Tiger Stadium rather than on the road. As it is, they go to both Monahans and Andrews for non-conference games.

Back in the early fifties, Snyder teams went as far as El Paso for non-conference games, and in the same decade they had Borger and Dumas both on the schedule the same year. In fact, there were special trains to both of those Panhandle towns one year, which brings up another change that has occurred. Special trains were not uncommon, especially for a successful team back in those days. We recall that Levelland brought a load of fans in here on a special train once for a game that decided the district championship. We also remember who won. (It was Snyder).

It would be difficult to get a special train these days, if not impossible. But it was a safe and economical way to transport large numbers of fans to and from distant games.

Some of the experts say that if a universal language is ever adopted it will be English. One reason, perhaps, is that the English language has over 490,000 words, or more than any other in use today. And some people try to use all of them whenever they get a chance. And if you add all of the malopropisms that have been put into use by comedians, etc., there must be well over half a million. The late J.H. (Dizzy) Dean has been credited with introducing some of these, such as "his stanch at the plate." But Frank X. Tolbert, the Dallas Morning News columnist, revealed a couple of the great ones the other day that he attributed to Ed (Bear Tracks) Greer, a former baseballer who was well known around the old Texas League. Greer is said to have observed that he hated to pitch games in Houston on account of the "low multitude" and "high humility." But perhaps those were not really malopropisms. Sometimes the multitudes were few around the ball parks back in those days.—WACIL McNAIR.

Ma Bell Files Rate Hike Request With Infant Panel

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. asked the infant Public Utility Commission today to approve a package of rate increases that would boost company revenues by $298.3 million a year.

It also said that its proposal to charge customers for "411" information calls in excess of three a month would yield $26.5 million in payroll expense savings.

The request came on the commission's first official day of operation.

Doyle Rogers, on his first day as Bell's vice president for Texas operations, summarized the rate requests for reporters shortly after the voluminous application and supporting documents were delivered to the commission in a rented truck.

Rogers said the increases would raise Bell's rate of return on "fair value" of its Texas investment from 6.16 per cent to 9.6 per cent after taxes.

Increases in ordinary local telephone service would add $110.6 millionto Bell's revenues. A one-party residential telephone would cost $11.50 a month in Houston, for example, compared with $9.20 now. Dallas residents would have an increase from $8.20 to $10, and those in Fort Worth would pay $9.45, compared with $8 now.

The dime telephone call from a pay booth would give way to a 20-cent call, increasing Bell revenues by $8.1 million a year.

After making three "information" calls a month, customers would pay 20 cents a call, generating $2.4 million in revenue and enabling Bell to lay off temporary employes who earn $26.5 million in a year.

Bell also requested a mix of intrastate long distance rate reductions and increases that would produce $43.7 million in added income. A one-minute direct dialed station-to-station call from Dallas to San Antonio on a weekday morning would drop from 43 cents to 38 cents. But a 10-minute call that now costs $3.49 would cost $3.80 under the proposed new rates.

Increases in installation charges would produce $26.5 million.

How Increase Would Affect Rates Here

Here's how Southwestern Bell's proposed statewide rate increase would affect most basic monthly rates in Snyder and Hermleigh, along with several other area towns, according to information provided by the company today:

A one-party residence phone rate would increase from $6.50 to $7.40 per month; a one-party business phone would increase from $14.50 to $17.80; a two-party residence phone would increase from $4.90 to $5.35; a residence extension (for all types of service) would remain at $1.50 per month each; a business extension would increase from $2 to $2.25.

The telephone company has proposed that all locations it serves in Texas be placed in one of 10 rate groups. Snyder is in Group 2, which includes places with up to 8,000 telephone numbers.

Judge Blocks Deboning Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today blocked new government meat regulations which allow food processors to include bits of bone in hot dogs and simmered fat in luncheon meats and frozen pizza.

U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant issued a temporary restraining order against the Agriculture Department rules, which had been challenged by consumer groups.

The immediate impact of the ruling was not clear.

While the judge's order temporarily strikes down Agriculture Department rules regulating meat processing, Justice Department lawyer Vincent Turlep said he did not think it would immediately prevent processers from using certain methods of reclaiming meat close to the bone.

For two years, the Agriculture Department has been permitting meat processors to reclaim meat close to the bone through the use of a high-speed method of mechanical deboning. The process allows tiny bits of bone to mix with the meat.

The effect is to add weight to packaged meat. The Agriculture Department says the process makes the product less expensive to consumers because more meat can be recovered from livestock.

Consumer groups like Ralph Nader's Public Citizen's Health Research Group have criticized the method as a means of "turning garbage into money."

Until last spring, the mechanical deboning process continued under temporary Agriculture Department regulations. Since then, the department has proposed two sets of interim and permanent rules. That brought the issue to court.

Announcement Expected Today On Hays 'Deal'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for Rep. Wayne L. Hays and the House Ethics Committee are negotiating a deal for Hays to resign from Congress in return for a halt to the panel's probe of payroll-sex charges against him.

Several sources reported Speaker Carl Albert would make an announcement later in the day that Hays has resigned effective Sept. 8.

The chairman of the Ethics Committee was understood to be thinking of withholding any formal action dropping the investigation out of concern that it would appear a deal had been made.

It was understood that the chairman would rely instead on House rules that the resignation would make the investigation moot and that the probe would be dropped automatically.

The bargaining hit a snag late Tuesday on a question of timing. The Ethics Committee was reported to be considering a resolution that said Hays was resigning effective Sept. 8, that the committee's payroll-sex inquiry would be suspended immediately when Hay's letter of resignation was delivered but that the investigation would not completely terminate until he actually resigns.

The Hays case also is being investigated by the Justice Department to determine whether the congressman should be prosecuted. Any Hays resignation would have no impact on that investigation.

A reliable source said the Ohio Democrat had been expected Tuesday to deliver his resignation letter to Speaker Carl Albert and then to the Ethics Committee.

But sources later said Hays' representatives had not left the letter with the committee. The Hays representatives indicated they objected to the committee's reluctance to guarantee that its inquiry will end until Hays actually leaves office.

The Ethics Committee adjourned Tuesday without taking any action on its resolution to terminate the payroll-sex investigation and Chairman John J. Flynt scheduled another meeting today.

US Makes Aid Offer To Push Global Sea Pact

By SERGE SCHMEMANN
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger offered today to help developing countries set up their own seabed mining operations in a eleventh-hour attempt to break a deadlock on drafting a global law of the seas.

Kissinger said that during day-long meetings with leading delegations to the Law of the Sea Conference he would propose a U.S. "contribution so that the international enterprise can have the financial resources and the means to proceed."

The secretary addressed reporters after meeting with Hamilton S. Amerasinghe of Sri Lanka, president of the 150-nation conference.

Kissinger also scheduled meetings today and Thursday with delegates from about two dozen countries who have taken a leading role in the 2½-year-old talks that are now near an impasse.

The effort to write a global treaty covering the use and exploitation of the oceans has come apart over the question of whether American mining companies should be guaranteed access to the potato-sized nodules of nickel, cobalt and manganese scattered over the floor of the eastern Pacific.

Several American firms are years ahead of other countries in seabed mining technology and are pressing hard to start mining with or without a treaty.

But the minerals are beyond the national jurisdiction of the United States or any other nation. Access to them has become a major point of contention between the industrialized powers and developing countries seeking a new economic order.

At the negotiating session in New York last spring, most delegates appeared to accept a compromise sponsored by the United States. It proposed sharing the minerals 50-50 between private firms and an international seabed authority that would sponsor mining operations on behalf of the developing countries.

But at the current session of the conference, the group of more than 110 developing countries demanded that the authority have sole power to grant access to the seabeds. The United States declared firmly it would settle for no less than guaranteed access for private firms, and the talks deadlocked.

Since this session of the conference began Aug. 2, the block of developing countries has been dominated by such hardliners as Algeria, Tunisia and Egypt, who have adamantly opposed any concessions. Many moderates among them — termed the "silent majority" by Western negotiators — tacitly recognize there will be no treaty unless the Americans are guaranteed access.

Their major concern appears to be that under the parallel mining system proposed by the United States they would be left with the rights to rich tracts of nodules but without the financing, equipment and knowhow to get at them.

Demolition Job Gets Attention

Snyder School Trustees yesterday instructed their attorney to confer with county commissioners on possible steps to complete the demolishing of the old Travis Junior High School building.

The action was taken following a conference with the demolition contractor, Jerry Stephens of Big Spring, doing business as Bost Construction Co., and it came after a motion to turn the problem over to the contractor's bonding company was rejected on a 2-3 vote. Dan Cotton, attorney for the school, said the board has two alternatives: Pursue it via the bonding company, or negotiate further with Stephens.

The contractor told the board that he would not remove a concrete foundation below the present structure. This foundation, which he referred to as "a burned out foundation," apparently was left there following a fire which destroyed a school building at the site in the thirties. The contractor said the old foundation is about five feet below the foundation of the present building, and that he would require additional payment of 50 cents per square foot to remove it. Involved would be 20,000 square feet of six-inch concrete.

Stephens also said he believed that he was shorted by $500 on his contract, which the school says was for $4,100, plus salvage rights to materials in the old building.

The school district deeded the Travis property to the county last year and the county has indicated that it plans to construct a new jail on the site. In the earlier negotiations, the county agreed to pay for demolition of the old building, but asked the school to let the demolition contract.

The original contract, awarded last October, called for completion in 120 days. Stephens said county commissioners had interfered with the project from time to time and he blamed some of the delays on their interference. He said he would complete the job for a total of $4,600 if the school would "keep the commissioners away from there." Cotton said the school would not assume any right to set any regulations for county commissioners. Also, board members pointed out that the county is owner of the property.

Cotton said that Stephens had been paid $2,000 following negotiations earlier in the summer and that he and school officials thought the issue had been settled and that the demolition work would be completed. However, Stephens said he pulled his crews off the job a few days later when county commissioners came on the site.

During the course of the discussion Stephens also said that he had thought 250 lockers that the school district sold out of the Travis building belonged to him under terms of the contract. School officials said these were free-standing lockers and that the only lockers which went with the demolition contract were of the built-in type.

Cotton said he would discuss the situation with the commissioners court as soon as possible and report back to the school board.

PROJECT LAGGING— Snyder School Trustees yesterday instructed their attorney to confer with the county commissioners court to determine a course of action to get the demolition project at the old Travis Junior High School completed. A contract was awarded nearly a year ago to demolish the building, but the project remains incomplete as shown here.

Guy Wants Girls To Take the Lead

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I never could understand why it was considered improper for a girl to ask a guy for a date.

I'm a 21-year-old college man who would feel flattered if a girl let me know that she wanted to go out with me. I'm not a creep, and I get my share of dates, but I see nothing wrong with girls being on an equal basis with men when it comes to the dating game.

Why can't the girl be the aggressor if she so chooses? And why is it considered "wrong" for a girl to pursue a guy?

HIGHPOCKETS

DEAR HIGHPOCKETS: Where have you been? Plenty of girls ask guys out. (More girls ask guys "over" instead because there's no tab to pick up, which takes the pressure off both of them.)

And many girls ARE the aggressors and don't feel the need to apologize for it.

What this world needs is more up-front people who aren't ashamed to say, "I like you." It doesn't matter who says it first. Girls are people, and people shouldn't play games. They should express affection honestly, naturally and without embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: For those who are shocked that a non-virgin bride wants to wear white at her wedding: What would they suggest? Tattletale gray?

AMUSED IN MURRAY, KY.

DEAR AMUSED: Why not? And she could carry daisies. They don't tell.

DEAR ABBY: I know I'm not perfect when it comes to grammar and pronunciation, but I have this friend who is an absolute disgrace in that department.

She still says "Woolsworth" and I must have corrected her a hundred times. Another mistake she has made for years is saying "Eximo Pie" instead of "Eskimo Pie."

Abby, in a way you are a teacher, so I'm calling on you to take over my job.

Why do people insist on saying they had their dog "spaded," and a man has "prostrate" trouble, after being corrected a dozen or more times?

SICK OF TEACHING

DEAR SICK: Some people don't want to learn, and others are simply ineducable. Don't sweat it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PERSEVERING IN LOUISVILLE": Perseverance isn't always the answer. I was recently informed that a young lover in Taiwan wrote over 700 letters in two years to his lady love. The romance ended when she fell in love with the postman!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-eddressed envelope, please.

WAITING—As the crowd arrived, students stood in line briefly to wait for dishes of ice cream. Heading the line here is Gary Johnson of Haskell, followed by Tim Pringle, also of Haskell. Teresa Thompson and Nancy Walker of Snyder also wait. Dorothy Kayser, wife of faculty member J.M. Kayser, checks the cookie supply.

ENJOYING—Seated on the Sentell Memorial Stage, these four coeds enjoyed their ice cream in the warm evening. Left to right, they are Debbie Finch of Colorado City, Betti Park of Lubbock, Ginger Hamilton of Roscoe and Linda Gladish of Abilene. The ice cream social has become a tradition at WTC for the first week of the fall semester. Classes began today for day and evening students.

B1s Fate Rests With Next Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional compromise on the B1 bomber leaves the plane's ultimate fate in the hands of the man occupying the White House next Feb. 1.

Supporters of the plane hailed the decision Tuesday by Senate and House conferees to allow work to proceed on the bomber. Opponents also were happy, and they pointed to the spending limit of $87 million a month until Feb. 1, after the next president is inaugurated.

Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, D-Fla. a member of the conference committee seeking a compromise between Senate and House versions, called the decision "a modified go ahead."

The $87-million monthly limit is one-twelfth of the $1.049 billion requested by the Pentagon for initial costs of a planned fleet of 244 bombers estimated to cost $22 billion. Opponents of the plane say the spending limit makes it easier for the project to be stopped if the next president so decides.

Both the House and Senate previously approved the production funding as part of a $105-billion military appropriation for the 12 months beginning Oct. 1.

But the Senate added a restriction prohibiting spending of any of the production money until next Feb. 1 to give the newly inaugurated president a chance to review completed prototype test data and decide whether to proceed.

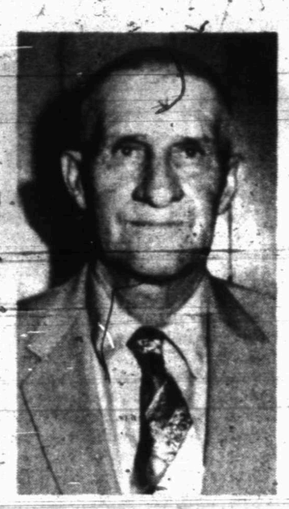

The Ford administration reportedly was prepared to sign a B1 production contract in November, committing some $850 million for production of the first three operational aircraft.

Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, has indicated his doubts about proceeding with B1 production, and the Democratic party platform urges delay in funding.

In another development in the B1 program, the Air Force reported Tuesday that part of a B1 bomber body section cracked while being subjected to greater than normal stresses in a test pressure chamber.

A spokesman for Rockwell International's B1 division said the crack would not have occurred during normal flight. The part was not in one of the three prototype bombers being test flown, the Air Force said.

Critics of the B1 say the plane is too costly and they question its effectiveness in the missile age. Supporters of the plane say it is necessary to replace the aging fleet of B52 bombers.

Rerun Gets Top Rating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A CBS rerun of "All in the Family" was the most-watched evening show on television last week, the A.C. Nielsen Co. says. The rating service estimated it was seen in nearly 17 million homes.

A CBS News documentary concerning the controversial sale of the new F14 fighter to Iran was the least-watched of the week's shows, seen in just over 4.8 million homes. It was aired last Friday night.

Of three new CBS series premiering last week, country singer Johnny Cash's variety hour was most popular. It came out eighth in the ratings, winning an estimated 36 per cent of the audience in its time period.

Frankie Avalon's new CBS variety show was 24th-ranked and "Tattletales," host Bert Convy's nighttime variety show, was 41st in the ratings.

According to Nielsen figures made public Tuesday, the 20 most-watched shows in the week ending Aug. 29 were "All in the Family," "Maude" and "M-A-S-H" (all CBS); "Happy Days" and "Starsky and Hutch" (both ABC); "The Graduate," "Phyllis" and "Johnny Cash" (all CBS); "Baretta" and "What's Happening" (both ABC); "Jigsaw John" (NBC); "Laverne and Shirley," "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Bionic Woman" and "Rosemary's Baby" (all ABC); "Joe Forrester" (NBC); "Kojak" and "Rhoda" (both CBS); "Six Million Dollar Man" and "Streets of "San Francisco" (both ABC).

Kentucky Schools Peaceful

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The second year of court-ordered public school busing in Jefferson County began peacefully today and officials said attendance appeared good despite a call by antibusing forces for a boycott during the first three days of classes.

Hours earlier, police had used tear gas to break up an antibusing demonstration by more than 1,000 persons on the eve of the school openings.

Commenting today on attendance figures from some of the county's schools, Marie Doyle, an associate superintendent, said, "They really look good." She said exact attendance figures would not be available until late in the day.

Kenny Arnold, director of security for the school system, said there were no reports of trouble on school buses or at any of the schools.

Late Tuesday, police used tear gas to disperse a crowd of unruly antibusing protesters who gathered on a busy highway in southern Jefferson County.

More than 1,000 persons participated in the demonstration, but the crowd had dwindled to about half that number when police used tear gas to disperse the protesters, according to Col. Robert Grant, assistant Jefferson County police chief.

Firemen Called

City firemen reported one minor fire.

The fire on a utility pole was reported to the firemen at 11:40 a.m. Tuesday and occurred approximately 3 miles west of the city on Thirtieth Street. The fire apparently began as a result of an electrical short.

Bond Posted By Suspect

The eighth person indicted by the Scurry County grand jury Monday morning has been arrested.

Bruce Hatfield, 39, indicted Monday on a charge of bribery, was arrested that afternoon in Big Spring. Hatfield was released from the Howard County jail Tuesday afternoon after posting a $5,000 bond.

Hatfield is accused of offering a bribe on July 7 to Howard LaRue Gambol, the Scurry County game warden, after Gambol allegedly discovered Hatfield violating state fishing laws.

The name of the ninth person indicted by the Scurry County grand jury was withheld pending his arrest.

Sir Francis Galton discovered more than 100 years ago that no two people have exactly the same pattern of fingerprints.

Big Foot Seen Near Kelley AFB

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A mysterious "big foot" creature may be lurking in a wooded area next to Kelly Air Force Base, residents of a south San Antonio neighborhood say.

The residents also say the animal might have a smaller offspring.

The animal, described as big and furry, was first seen about two weeks ago by Ed Olivarri, who said he was getting ready for work one morning when his dog began barking.

Olivarri said he went outside to investigate and was looking over his back fence when a train whistle sounded.

"The animal must have been hiding or lying down because when the whistle blew, it started running," Olivarri recalled today. "It looked like it was some kind of 'big foot' monster. It was about 7 feet tall with short brown hair over its body. It was running on two legs like a man, but a little more awkwardly."

Then, early Sunday morning, another neighbor, Rose Medina, said she spotted a smaller animal that ran on two feet.

Mrs. Medina said she, too, was awakened by her dog barking. When she went to the window, she said she saw an animal sitting on her back step. She said she was too frightened of the animals to go outside, but she tapped on the window.

The animal jumped up on two feet and ran off, she said. She described the beast as about three feet tall with brown fur.

In addition to the sightings, another woman reported she found the partially devoured body of a cat in her back yard last week.

Olivarri said he has searched the area and found some unusual looking tracks or footprints. He said he has not seen the animal again, however.

Major Theft Is Reported

The pattern of burglaries in Snyder was broken with the discovery Tuesday morning of a major theft.

The Sco-Mac Construction Co., located in the 700 block of Ave. R, was the target of thieves who stole a 1976 Case backhoe, a 1976 Ford truck and a 1976 Belshe trailer.

The discovery of the thefts was made Tuesday morning when employes reported to work there. Police officers theorize the thefts occurred late Monday night or early Tuesday morning.

One company spokesman estimated the value of the stolen vehicles to be approximately $32,000.

In another incident, police officers reported a minor traffic accident. The mishap occurred Tuesday at 3:40 p.m. in the 2500 block of College Avenue. Involved in the mishap were a 1969 Mercedez Benz driven by Kathy Lavonne Menges and a 1969 Dodge driven by Howard LaRue Gambol.

Sentenced Harrises Now Face Kidnaping Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Emily and William Harris, sentenced to 11 years to life in prison, now face a trial in Northern California for the kidnaping of newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The two Symbionese Liberation Army members remained at the Hall of Justice jail here following their sentencing Tuesday for kidnaping, robbery and car theft. Authorities said they would be moved to Alameda County later this week for trial on a 19-count complaint stemming from the Feb. 4, 1974, Hearst kidnaping.

The Harrises showed no reaction when Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler urged that they spend a long time in prison. Under California law, he was not permitted to set exact limits on the sentences, and the couple could be released after as short a time as six years and eight months.

"It is this court's recommendation to the Adult Authority ... that the defendants serve an additional and lengthy period of confinement in the state prison," Brandler said.

Harris, 31, and Mrs. Harris, 29, who already had been jailed for nearly one year, delivered impassioned speeches before their sentences were announced. But neither asked for leniency as they took turns speaking from a lectern turned toward spectators and reporters seated behind bulletproof glass.

"I am a revolutionary, and I do not lose hope for the future," said Emily Harris.

"I'm not too impressed by the system of justice," said William Harris.

The charges stemmed from a May 16, 1974, robbery and shooting at an Inglewood sporting goods store and the commandeering of two automobiles for an escape. Miss Hearst has admitted spraying the store with gunfire to help the Harrises flee.

Miss Hearst, an absent codefendant in the Los Angeles trial, will be tried next January on the same charges that were lodged here against the Harrises. She also awaits sentencing later this month on a San Francisco bank robbery conviction.

The most serious Harris conviction was first-degree robbery, which carries a penalty of five years to life in prison. The two kidnaping convictions carry terms of one to 25 years, and a series of firearm violations added another possible five years to the minimum. Brandler said the sentences would run concurrently.

Chief defense attorney Leonard Weinglass termed the sentences excessive. "For two people who have no prior record, who didn't injure anyone or cause any property damage, the possibility of life is somewhat harsh."

Answers To Questions About The MD Telethon

Some of the questions most frequently asked about the Jerry Lewis Telethon, slated for Labor Day week-end, are answered below.

Is Jerry Lewis paid to host the telethon? Absolutely not. Jerry freely contributes his time, talent and energy to the show. In fact, Jerry's 21-½ hours on camera are just a fraction of the time he spends year-round preparing for the Telethon and serving as MDA's National Chairman, a post he has held since 1950, and which involves him in all phases of MDA's activity.

Why is Jerry so devoted to the fight against muscular dystrophy? Thousands of Jerry Lewis watchers and scores of journalists have asked him or tried to figure out why he is so deeply involved, but no one has ever discovered the answer. However, Jerry has promised to reveal his secret when a cure for muscular dystrophy is found.

How does Jerry find the energy for his 20-plus non-stop hours onstage? Jerry says, "Caring for people is the best motivation I know. Hold a crippled child near your heart – that's the secret."

Jerry's wife, Patti, recently explained that Jerry gets almost no rest before a Telethon. "He's up a good 24 hours before the show," she says. "There's always so much to do, and though everyone working with him is very competent, Jerry wants to check out everything himself. After the show," Patti adds, "he has trouble relaxing enough to sleep. It takes him at least a week to unwind."

During the show, Jerry spends little time off camera, taking only short rests for showers and costume changes. He has a record of drinking 40 chocolate malteds (his favorite drink) to keep up his energy.

How does MDA get so many celebrities to appear on the telethon each year? The Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon has become synonymous with caring, dedication, and with helping others in need. Appreciating the tremendous contribution which MDA makes to the handicapped, celebrities rally to Jerry's call. Hundreds of entertainers, athletes, and leaders in labor, government; and civic affairs find the Telethon one of the best means of showing their concern for others – and getting real results for MDA in response.

Do entertainment and sports stars participate in MDA projects other than the telethon? Yes – throughout the country, celebrities participate in and promote MDA programs through the Association's 233 chapters and National Office; a number serve in key MDA positions. They're not just names on a letterhead. They devote countless hours to the battle against neuromuscular disease.

Football star Bob Griese is MDA's National Sports Chairman; Frederick O'Neal, president of Actors and Artistes of America, member of the AFL-CIO Executive Committee, and MDA's Telethon Labor Chairman, is an active member of MDA's 15-man Board of Directors. TV personality Chuck Zink is a Corporate Member and national chairman of the Carnivals Against Muscular Dystrophy program.

MDA's national vice presidents include such luminaries of TV, radio, state and screen as Patty Duke Astin, Vikki Carr, Roy Clark, David Hartman, Cliff Robertson, and Frank Sinatra – as well as Congressman Herman Badillo, Notre Dame head football coach Dan Devine, and Dallas Cowboys' assistant coach Dan Reeves.

MDA Corporate Members include Sen. Edward M. Kennedy; George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO; and such noted entertainers as Nancy Ames, Pearl Bailey, Virginia Capers, Dorothy Collins, Joan Crawford, Joan Darling, Chad Everett, Julius LaRosa, Ed McMahon and Shirley Verrett.

Why Does Organized Labor back the telethon so strongly? Perhaps the best explanation was given in 1971 when Jerry Lewis was presented with the AFL-CIO'S "highest award given to an American citizen," the Murray-Green Award. James Suffridge, then chairman of the AFL-CIO's Community Services Committee, said "Jerry's Labor Day Telethon is part of the American Experience. I think more trade unionists appear on that Labor Day program than appear at all the Labor Day rallies put together. And there is very good reason for that – because it's where the action is. It is where union members can extend the principle of community service to its highest level. It is where the heart of America is on public display. It is warmth and love – and it is America at its best."

Organized Labor is represented on MDA's Board of Directors by Thomas R. Donahue, Executive Assistant to George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO; Wm. Howard McClennan, President, International Association of Fire Fighters (IAFF); and Frederick O'Neal.

Serving as MDA Corporate Members in addition to Mr. Meany are Hal C. Davis, President, American Federation of Musicians; James T. Housewright, International President, Retail Clerks International Association; and James H. Rademacher, President, National Association of the Letter Carriers (NALC). MDA national vice presidents include Frank E. Fitzsimmons, General President of the Brotherhood of Teamsters and Sol Stetin, General President of the Textile Workers of America, AFL-CIO-CFC.

Does Jerry Belong to a Union? Yes – Jerry is a member of 12 labor unions.

Why do so many fraternal organizations and clubs contribute to the telethon? Fraternal organizations often select a particular charity as an important part of their programs. Many of these groups have become deeply concerned about the men, women, and children whose muscles are progressively wasting because of muscular dystrophy and other neuromuscular disorders. These groups have dedicated themselves to advancing MDA's work. They organize fund raising events throughout the year and enjoy the opportunity to contribute to the research and patient service programs of MDA, and to join Jerry on the Telethon to make their humanitarian efforts known to the community.

Participating actively in Telethon '76 are the Jaycees, the Eagles, the Moose, and the Tall Cedars of Lebanon and their women's auxiliaries, and youth organizations including the Order of DeMolay, Job's Daughters, Rainbow Girls, Kappa Alpha Order, Delta Tau Delta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and DECA(Distributive Education Clubs of America).

Are the Funds Raised by local broadcasts of the telethon used to help local patients? Most certainly. Paralleling the expansion of the Telethon into increasing numbers of cities across the country has been the growth of the MDA patient and community services program which extends into local communities throughout the nation. A considerable portion of the funds raised locally stays in the community and is used to provide year-round direct services to patients and their families. Among these services, available without charge, are specialized medical care of MDA clinics, wheelchairs and other orthopedic appliances, flu shots, counseling, transportation, and recereation programs including summer and winter camps.

Do telethon costs siphon off a large percentage of the money raised? Audits made by the certified public accounting firm of S.D. Leidesdorf & Co., New York, show MDA's fiscal 1975 combined national and local fund raising costs, including Telethon expenses, amounted to only 17.4 Percent of total expenditures— a figure indicative of MDA's consistently high level of efficiency and achievement.

How many pledges are actually collected? The number of pledges now runs well over one million. In 1975, 100 percent of all pledges made were collected. Viewers who make pledges to MDA really care about what the Association stands for and they realize that they are being counted on in the fight against muscular dystrophy. Pledge phones continue to ring for hours after the Telethon is off the air, and the concern of millions continues to manifest itself throughout the year.

Opening lead — Q ♣

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It isn't hard to get to a slam with today's hand. South has a sound opening bid and North is looking at 17 good high-card points.

North wanted to bid six notrump. He had a notrump-type hand and everyone wants to be declarer, but finally North settled for six hearts.

It was a wise decision indeed. Six notrump is doomed to failure. In fact, six notrump might well go down two tricks.

South wasn't too happy with his six-heart contract. He studied the hand for some time and then played dummy's king of clubs. He wanted to retain the ace of clubs as an entry to his own hand. Then South went after diamonds. He cashed dummy's ace and his king, led a third diamond and ruffed with dummy's eight of hearts.

When both opponents followed everything was wine and roses. He cashed dummy's king of trumps, came to his hand with the ace of clubs, played his ace and queen of trumps, conceded a trump trick to West who had been unkind enough to hold four trumps and claimed the balance.

Suppose diamonds had broken badly. South would not have made his contract, but as stated earlier it was not a really good slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader asks the old question: "Is there any law that requires a player who opens with a forcing two bid to go on to game?"

The answer is "No!" There is no law and no reason not to stop if you don't think you can make game. However, if you do stop and game makes, your partner is likely to be angry.

Tammy's Husband Denies Reports

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The husband of country music singer Tammy Wynette and several associates denied Tuesday reports that her two-month-old marriage is on the rocks.

Michael Tomlin, a real estate executive and Miss Wynette's fourth husband, had refused comment earlier.

After a Nashville television station broadcast word of the reports Tuesday, however, Tomlin called the station and denied the story.

"The only trouble I'm having is with the news media," he said.

Miss Wynette was in Los Angeles and not available at once for comment.

Her personal secretary, Dottie Runyon, said she had heard "nothing about any trouble." She said the singer had seemed relaxed as she boarded a plane for Los Angeles Monday.

Dam Inspection Plan Unfunded

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four years after hundreds of persons died when two dams collapsed, not a single dam has been inspected for safety under a law rushed through Congress in response to the disasters.

The inspection program remains unfunded, basically because of disagreement over who should inspect or pay for the inspections of the more than 49,000 nonfederal dams covered by the law.

Congress hasn't appropriated any money to pay for federal inspections, the White House hasn't asked for any such money and the states say they can't afford to pay for the inspections.

Like the two dams that prompted enactment of the federal law, these nonfederal dams were built by states, local governments and private companies. The Army Corps of Engineers has estimated that it would cost $73.5 million to inspect the dams.

Testifying before a House subcommittee Tuesday, Brig. Gen. Drake Wilson of the Army Corps of Engineers said "no inspections have been performed due to limited funding."

Wilson later said in an interview that the Army engineers had been given funds to compile an inventory of the dams after the law was passed and signed in August 1972. But, he said, the White House then decided the inspections should be a state, not a federal function.

He also said that a majority of states indicated that they should conduct the inspections, but that a number also said they could not pay for the safety checks without federal aid.

The law was enacted in 1972 within months of the Buffalo Creek, W. Va., and Rapid City, S.D., disasters. More than 320 were killed and property damage was estimated at $165 million in the two cases.

The Army's inventory of dams to be inspected, along with the corps' recommendations as to how to set up and who should pay for the inspection program, were sent to the secretary of the army in May 1975.

An Army spokesman said the Army approved the plan and legislation to put it into effect in December 1975. Wilson said they call for the states to conduct inspections of "the great bulk of privately owned dams," following standards provided by the corps. "We indicated the states" would pay the cost of the safety checks, Wilson said.

In March 1976, almost a year after the report went to the Army secretary for approval and almost four years after the law was passed, legislation to put it into effect was sent to the White House Office of Management and Budget for its approval.

The OMB still is reviewing it, but a spokesman says the legislative recommendations that finally could implement the law should be on their way to Congress "before long."

Texas Reaction Mixed On Peso Devaluation

By The Associated Press

The Mexican government's announcement Tuesday of the devaluation of the peso provoked concerned reaction in the Rio Grande Valley and what amounted to a yawn in Dallas banking circles.

The Mexican government confirmed late Tuesday that the peso will be allowed to "float" until a value can be established. Sources said it was expected to stabilize at around 20 pesos to the U.S. dollar, up from 12½ pesos.

The news wasn't a surprise, said Jim Spellings, executive vice president for Dallas' 1st National Bank. "I doubt it will have much effect on the U.S. economy,," Spellings said.

But in the Valley, where Mexico often is only a river width away, the news spurred hurried meetings and some quickly-taken action.

Dial Dunkin, board chairman of the Harlingen National Bank, said his bank will not exchange pesos for dollars today. "Our bank will not accept pesos except for collection," Dunkin said. He explained that by "collection," he meant pesos would be accepted only for deposit.

Referring to the "floating" of the peso, Dunkin said it would mean that "the guy coming across the border with a pocketful of pesos will be messed up for awhile."

Dunkin estimated that 100,000 U.S. dollars' worth of pesos circulates through the Rio Grande Valley each week.

In McAllen, directly across the Rio Grande from Reynosa, Mex., chamber of commerce official Jack McNally said 38 per cent of all retail sales in the McAllen area are made to Mexican citizens.

"This will make the Mexican citizens more tempted to buy in their own country," McNally said.

He pointed out that credit card sales will probably increase considerably because of the devaluation. "Those credit card sales are made at the current rate of exchange. I think we'll see their use increase, especially on this side of the border," McNally said. He said he expected the McAllen Retail Merchants Association to hold a meeting today to discuss the situation.

Mexico To Float "Peso"

MEXICO CITY (AP) — After 22 years of getting 12½ pesos for a dollar, Americans should soon get about 20, or 60 per cent more, foreign bankers predicted today following the devaluation of the Mexican currency.

Treasury Secretary Ramon Beteta announced Tuesday night that the government was abandoning the fixed rate of exchange it had maintained since 1954 in an attempt to hold down the ballooning foreign trade deficit. Beteta said the peso would be allowed to "float" with its value determined by supply and demand.

Officials of foreign banks said the peso probably would stabilize at about 20 to the dollar.

The immediate effects will be to enhance Mexico as a tourist playground, if local hotels, restaurants and shops don't raise their prices accordingly, and to make Mexican products cheaper for foreign buyers. This should improve the balance of payments deficit, which has grown more than 400 per cent since 1970 to about $4 billion.

Tourism, Mexico's biggest industry, needed the boost. The Bank of Mexico reported earlier this year that the country was pricing itself out of competition with Europe and the Caribbean.

The devaluation will also probably increase the inflation rate, reduced last year from 24 per cent to 16 per cent, by making imported products more expensive for Mexicans. To absorb some of the surplus money, Beteta said the government would impose a new tax on exports and on "excessive profits."

He said monetary controls would also be established to prevent currency speculators from capitalizing on the devaluation.

The devaluation may also have an adverse effect on business in the southernmost counties of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, along the Mexican border.

"This will make Mexican citizens more tempted to buy in their own country," said a Chamber of Commerce spokesman in McAllen, Tex., where an estimated 38 per cent of all retail sales are made to Mexicans who cross the border to shop.

FCC jumps on radio 'bandwagon'

By Ink Dipper

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper (KYZ-3916) is the handle of the editor of The CB Times-Hournal.)

The biggest CB news is being transmitted out of Washington, D.C. from the granite headquarters of the Federal Communications Commission.

As a result of many complaints about channel congestion and interference the FCC had to do something.

Their answer was primarily increasing the number of channels for Citizens Radio Service from 23 to 40. All of them in the AM band. They did some other things too.

The FCC decided that equipment authorization would be required of the manufacturers prior to marketing the unit. Type acceptance of the transmitter must be obtained from the FCC. This is a change. Also certification for the receiver.

The type acceptance and certification for transceiver and other equipment having both transmit and receive capability, is quite a departure from the way it has been handled in the past. As a result of these new rules, manufacturers won't be able to play games with pricing as it relates to quality and type of equipment being sold.

Obviously, not all manufacturers were guilty of this sort of thing. But, a lot of in-and-outer assemblers did it and the result was that many units were sleazy. And, since close to 80 per cent of the components or total units came from the Orient, it was pretty easy.

Now, transmitters must comply with FCC specifications or they will not be accepted and certified. This will eliminate or at least greatly reduce, spurious emission and comply with harmonic suppression limitations. Net result: Less interference and a reduction in the complaints of many of your neighbors and the commercial broadcasters in your area.

All this goes into effect on all sets marketed after Jan. 1, 1977. One other thing the FCC did might aid in the efforts to resist thievery: All new equipment must have a unique identifier, both type or model number, according to the rules governing type acceptance and certification.

Out of this welter of rules there is this sort of thinking in Washington: First, it is felt that manufacturers will offer a rebuild program which will utilize your present unit and add the additional channels for a modest amount. Thus, you will have the benefit of 40 channels for only a little more than your original investment.

It will ultimately cut down on the congestion so you can reach your good buddy without so much trouble. So, that's a second good point.

Third, assuming you don't get your set modified, you'll not have as many people on the original 23 channels as you have now. That will make it a little easier.

One thing to keep in mind, though, is the date when all this goes into effect: Jan. 1, 1977. If you are buying or planning to buy a unit now, don't let a hard-selling salesman unload 23 channels on you without clarifying the program he has for handling the changeover to 40 channels.

He may be caught with a big inventory in 23-channel units right now and, to move them out, he'll make rash promises. Get the modification plan in writing. This way you will get your money's worth.

All this is necessary because adapters which might connect your existing 23-channel radio with another unit containing 17-channels is illegal according to the new rules. Either a modification of your present set or buying a new one with 40 channels is required.

Is it comforting to know that Washington is always transmitting? I wonder sometimes.

Testimony Continues In LeBus Trial

DALLAS (AP) — Clyde T. Burns, one of the state's star witnesses in the burglary trial of James F. LeBus, has testified he broke into Metallic Development Corp. of Wichita Falls and stole various precious metals at the urging of LeBus.

More than $25,000 worth of gold, silver and palladium were stolen from the safe of the Wichita Falls firm on Dec. 21, 1974, according to testimony given Tuesday.

Cross-examination of Burns by defense attorneys Jack Banner and Gene Douglass was to begin today.

Burns has been sentenced to 20 years in prison for murder in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clay County rancher Jim Keith during the burglary of Keith's ranch home.

LeBus is one of three wealthy Wichita Falls men under indictment in connection with the Metallic burglary and two others. LeBus also was indicted on two other counts of burglary and one count of theft over $10,000 in Wichita County. Burns has never been indicted for the Metallic Corp. burglary.

Burns testified that in late 1974, LeBus called Burns and "told me he knew of a place that had a lot of gold and silver."

Burns said LeBus told him the location of the safe at Metallic Development Corp. Burns later testified that LeBus drove him to the office to look at the location of the safe.

Wild, Wild Race Looms In NFL's East Division

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

It's going to be wild, wild, wild in the National Conference East Division this year.

And you can take that as gospel from a man who ought to know, Dallas Coach Tom Landry, active dean of National Football League coaches.

The 16-year coaching veteran says, "I can't think of a team that shouldn't be improved. Again, the race probably won't be decided until the final Sunday and the division should produce a wild card team."

In 1975, St. Louis captured the conference crown for the second consecutive year but Dallas dealt its wild card 10-4 record right into the Super Bowl, bowing 21-17 to Pittsburgy.

For years, the NFC East has been dominated by either Dallas, St. Louis or Washington. But Landry sees a revival at Philadelphia and particularly for the New York Giants — two teams usually out of the race by October.

"The Giants helped themselves tremendously when they got Larry Csonka," says Landry. "He gives them a running threat to go with Craig Morton's passing."

The Giants stunned Pittsburgh 17-0 in preseason without Csonka. New York was 5-9 in 1975 but Philadelphia was even worse, 4-10.

There's a new coach at Philadelphia—Dick Vermeil, who guided UCLA's Rose Bowl upset of Ohio State.

"There's usually a lot more enthusiasm on a team when a coaching change occurs and the Eagles could be up," says Landry.

"Of course, St. Louis has a tremendous offense and the Cardinals have helped themselves defensively in the offseason," continues Landry. "Washington should be better offensively but we'll have to see if their defense holds up."

Landry warns that the Cowboys are still a rebuilding team with less experience defensively than a year ago.

But he figures "we should be right in the middle of the scrap with the rest of them."

St. Louis was 11-3 in the regular season a year ago but suffered a swoon in the first round of the playoffs again.

"Our goal is to make it into the playoffs again but we have to improve our defense," says Cardinal Coach Don Coryell.

The Cardinal offense is set with quarterback Jim Hart, who threw 19 touchdown passes, halfback Terry Metcalf, fullback Jim Otis and exciting wide receiver Mel Gray.

Coryell obtained huge tackle Walt Patulski from Buffalo and tackle Marvin Upshaw and safety Mike Sensibaugh from Kansas City in off-season trades. The Cardinals also are hoping first-round draft pick Mike Dawson of Arizona, a defensive tackle, will make some immediate waves.

St. Louis has a tough late season stretch when the Cardinals face Los Angeles, Washington, Dallas and Baltimore in succession.

Dallas pulled off the NFL shocker of the year in 1975 with a club that included a dozen rookies. The Cowboys will be younger defensively now that 14-year veteran strongside linebacker Dave Edwards has retired.

"Our defense won't be as strong as early as it was last year," says Landry.

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan is back for his last hurrah with Randy White and Bob Breunig, both second-year players, filling in where needed.

A preseason injury to free safety Cliff Harris has put second-year man Randy Hughes on the spot.

Offensively, Dallas could be better with the addition of Ron Johnson, formerly of the Giants; Duane Thomas, the once-moody prodigal son; and Jim Jensen, a fast, tough rookie fullback from Iowa, to a backfield that includes Preston Pearson and Robert Newhouse.

Landry plans continued use of his shotgun formation on obvious passing downs with Roger Staubach at quarterback. Danny White, a refugee from the World Football League, will be the backup with the departure of Clint Longley.

"We know more of what kind of defense to expect against us now when we go into the shotgun," says Landry.

The Redskins tumbled to an 8-6 record and out of the playoffs last year for the first time in George Allen's five seasons as Washington coach.

Allen, with money as no object, obtained running back John Riggins from the New York Jets, and signed Calvin Hill, who once played for the Dallas Cowboys. Hill is a World Football League refugee.

"We have a chance to have the best balanced squad in the five years I've been here if this new talent comes through," says Allen, who also wooed free agent tight end Jean Fugett from the Cowboys.

Allen, who needs only three victories to join the NFL's 100-victory coach club, says, "I am confident that 1976 will find us back in the playoffs."

The Redskin defense faltered badly in the stretch last year but there is still quality and skill at all positions.

Allen moved to help his defense by acquiring discontented Miami safety Jake Scott and controversial defensive end John Matuszak from Kansas City.

The Giants' defense allowed 306 points in 1975 and face a rugged '76 schedule that includes Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Detroit out of the division. The Giants have young but improving linebackers in Brad Van Pelt and Pat Hughes flanking Brian Kelley in the middle. Draftee Harry Carson rates high.

But all the talk is about Csonka and what his presence will mean to a hard-pressed offense. Csonka, 29, averaged 4.6 yards per carry through seven NFL seasons at Miami.

Joe Dawkins, traded to Denver recently, was New York's leading rusher with only 438 yards last year.

The Giants, who will move to New Jersey this year, lack speed in the backfield and need to shore up one of the more porous offensive lines in the league.

The Eagles will go with Mike Boryla at quarterback because of Roman Gabriel's chronic knee problems. There is high-octaine talent in the receiver corps with tight end Charles Young and wide receiver Harold Carmichael as good as any in the NFL.

Philadelphia acquired offensive tackle Ed George from Baltimore to shore up the offensive line.

Defensively, the Eagles are tough with vigorous middle linebacker Bill Bergey and feisty safety Bill Bradley.

Vermeil had little help from the draft. The Eagles didn't get a pick until the fourth round, defensive end Mike Smith of Florida.

Vermeil jokes, "If you ask me, I'll have to go with Dallas as the favorite. They didn't graduate any seniors."

Bum Phillips Unruffled By Oilers' Misfortunes

HOUSTON (AP) — This has been the Houston Oilers' preseason of discontent.

Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips, who directed the Oilers to a well orchestrated 10-4 record last season, has not had the luxury of a trouble-free training camp this year.

Injuries and losses have mounted simultaneously, a trade for running back Altie Taylor did not come off smoothly and then there was the publicized scuffle between defensive end Tody Smith and linebacker Gregg Bingham.

You'd think by now, going into Saturday's preseason finale against Dallas with an 0-5 record, that the easy-going Phillips would be ready to take tweezers in hand and pull out each hair on his flat-top hair style.

But losing control is not the Phillips style.

Phillips says Taylor, who failed to report earlier because of mental exhaustion, is due out of a Detroit hospital today and if he gets here in time will play against the Cowboys.

Phillips, in his easy-going, tobacco-chewing, domino-playing approach, says the injury situation is improving, and as for the Smith-Bingham scuffle, well, training camp fights are a dime a dozen.

"It would have been nice to go through training camp without any injuries like last year," Phillips said. "But that's hurt us this year. We had four starters (including the entire three-man front) out for the New York Jets game.

"We looked at a lot of extra people longer because we had to. Last year we played our number ones together and then looked at the rest. In a clutch, we could bring our number ones back.

"This year, we've had to play our number twos and then slip in our number threes."

As injuries mounted, striking particularly at the running back position were starters Ronnie Coleman and Fred Willis are on the preseason injury list, Phillips traded draft choices to get Joe Dawkins from the New York Giants and Taylor from Detroit.

But the day after the trade for Taylor, the Oilers discovered the runner in a hospital suffering from what doctors said was mental exhaustion.

"If he gets here tomorrow," Phillips said Tuesday, "We'll play him some in this game."

But Phillips comes closest to swallowing his chewing tobacc in rage when someone mentions the training camp scuffle between Smith and Bingham.

Injury Is Normal For Billy Kilmer

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It just wouldn't be another National Football League season if Bill Kilmer were healthy.

The Washington Redskins quarterback played last season despite a right shoulder separation and a bone fracture in his left foot.

Even before that, he overcame a near-fatal automobile accident in 1962 while playing for the San Francisco 49ers and he played while injured when he was with the New Orleans Saints.

In 1973 Kilmer led the Washington Redskins to the playoffs despite recurring attacks of gastroenteritis that required post-season surgery to correct.

It is only fitting then that Kilmer, who has a possible cracked rib, will receive the George Halas Award today as the National Football League's most courageous player.

"I haven't had the rib x-rayed and I'm not going to," said Kilmer, who will be 37 on Sunday, before receiving te award at the Redskins annual Welcome Home Luncheon sponsored by the Touchdown Club. "Hell, what good is that?

"If I find out it's cracked, I've still got to play with it. It's probably not cracked anyway. It's not bothering my passing motion. The only time it bothers me is when I breathe real hard."

Typically gritty, Kilmer will put a bandage on his chest for a week or two and continue in the final preseason game against Chicago Friday night and the start of the season against the New York Giants the following weekend.

Earlier in the year, Kilmer, who now is in his 15th season, set a personal goal to make All-Pro and a team goal to win the NFC East division championship andgo on from there.

"Sure, I'd love to be All-Pro this season. I'm striving for that individually, but I'm not going to sacrifice team goals for it. First of all, I want to win the division and make the playoffs. If that means sacrificing some percentage on my passes, I'm willing. All I want to do is be the best quarterback I can possibly be on a team that wins the divisions."

Kilmer has made the Pro Bowl team only once in his 15-year career, in 1972, when the Redskins made it to the Super Bowl.

Teaff Sees Houston As A 'Determining Factor'

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff told touring Southwest Conference sports writers Tuesday that "Houston will be the determining factor" in the 1976 championship race.

Baylor opens with Houston Sept. 11 in Waco as the Cougars make their SWC debut.

"Houston will be as tough an opponent as we will line up against this year," said Teaff. "They will make an impact because of all the years they have spent waiting to play in the conference.

"Houston is in a great position to be a spoiler because they are virtually unknown, but they return 11 players on defense and nine on offense."

He said he had a feeling for Houston like he did in 1974 when Baylor upset the form charts to win the SWC championship.

"I thought we would be good that year," he said.

But Teaff wasn't picking Houston. He reserved that role for everybody's favorite — Texas.

"Texas is as awesome as anytime I have seen them since I've been in the league," said Teaff. "They have a great defense and if you just had Earl Campbell by himself they would have an excellent offense."

He said Texas A&M should be picked high because "overall they have the best personnel in the league."

He said Arkansas "should be right at the top because they have a good nucleus and momentum from their Cotton Bowl win over Georgia."

Teaff said that Texas Tech and his own team are in a similar position.

"Both of us have defensive problems and will be fighting for our lives, but we have a chance to get up there," he said.

Teaff said, "I am more confident about our squad than any team I have had in my five years at Baylor. Experience is our biggest asset. We should be more mature."

Teaff cited 50 turnovers in 1975 as the main cause for Baylor's 3-6-2 record.

"Someone figured out you lose 40 yards every time you lose the ball, so that means we lost approximately 2,000 yards last year because of turnovers," he said.

Baylor senior quarterback Mark Jackson has returned at full strength from a shoulder injury which plagued him last season.

"I said at this same time a year ago that one injury we couldn't have was at quarterback. So we lose Jackson in the first quarter of our first game," said Teaff. "If Mark stays healthy we can be as good as there is."

Frosh To See Action Thursday

Several season opening football games are on tap this week. The Snyder High Freshmen host Lamesa at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Friday night, the varsity Tigers will be in Monahans for an 8 p.m. skirmish. Saturday, the 9th Grade Gold team will be in Sweetwater for a 10 a.m. engagement while the Junior Varsity will be at Lubbock Dunbar for a 2 p.m. tussle.

Probable starters for the Tiger Freshmen in their game against Lamesa here Thursday include Kyle Herrley and John Hanson at ends, Ray Wheelus and Eric Marble at tackles, David Minyard and Jamie Lopez at guards, Brantley Kitchens at center, Zell Gaston at dive back, Bobby Degrate at pitch back, Bryan Vincent or Ricky Gambol at quarterback. Defensively, the lineup includes Rollen Nunley and John Igo at end, Billy McDonald and Sam Willis at tackle, Morris Anderson at nose guard, Paul Gafford and Kyle Herrley at linebacker, Ricky Gambol at strong corner, Alan Pollard at monster, John Hanson at quick corner and Bobby Degrate at safety.

SHS Volleyballers Open Season At San Angelo

"We've got a couple of things this year that we didn't have last year. For one thing, we've got some experienced girls, and then we have good bench strength."

Thus Joyce Elrod, head volleyball coach at Snyder High School summed up her team as they prepared to meet San Angelo Central at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in San Angelo in the season opener. The junior varsity squads tangle at 6:30 p.m. on the same day at the same site.

Two other Snyder teams also open the season Thursday. The 9th grade Gold team will be at Lamesa for a 4 p.m. engagement while the 8th grade Gold team will be in Lamesa for a 3 p.m. tussle.

Coach Elrod said three starters return from last year's team that posted a 12-13 record. They are Susan Walker, a 5-7 spiker, who made All-District; Pam Kohl, a 5-0 spiker and one of the strong blockers on the team; and Della Braziel, 5-5 spiker-set.

Two other lettermen return. They are Julie Glass, a 5-8 spiker and Jeana von Roeder, a 5-5 spiker.

Other seniors on the team are Kim Nicholson, who plays backline defense, and Valerie Wilson, a set. Juniors on the squad who saw junior varsity action last year are Andra Crenshaw, spiker, Charlotte Pierce, spiker, Shelly Nutt, spiker, and Donna West, set.

"We also have three sophomores who will help a lot this year," said Coach Elrod. "This is the first time we've had sophomores who can help us, and they were on a 9th grade team last year that posted a 14-3 record," she added.

The three sophs are Kathy Harrell, 5-7 spiker, Cindy Koonsman, 5-5 spiker-set, and Dana Elrod, set.

Coach Elrod said probable starters for the opener against San Angelo will be Susan Walker, Pam Kohl, Donna West, Kathy Harrell and either Della Braziel or Cindy Koonsman and either Kim Nicholson or Shelly Nutt.

"San Angelo played for the first time last year, but they have a strong defensive team," Mrs. Elrod pointed out.

She said strong points of the Tigers will be backline defense and more speed than last year.

"We're working a lot more on defense this year," Mrs. Elrod said, "And we're using a lot more deception on offense. I think right now our offense is the thing we're going to have to work on the most. If our girls continue to improve as they have in the past couple of weeks, we'll have a really strong team this year.

During an intra-squad scrimmage, Mrs. Elrod said the girls looked better than she expected this early.

The girls definitely feel the Tiger girls will improve on last season's 12-13 record.

Probable starters for the junior varsity include Debbie Meyers, Sherry Neves, Connie Pollard and either Sarah Fagin or Karen Littlepage as spikers, Danna Meyers as spiker-set, and Shana Smith as set.

Starters for the 9th grade Gold team are spikers Suzanne Fisher, Connie Webber, Kim Harlin, Vanessa White, Demetra Cobb and set Laura Fortune.

Possible starters for the 8th grade Gold are Jane Ann Billingsley, Sherry Mayes, Pam Gray, Debra Nicholson, Sherry Warren and Billy Jean James. Other girls who will make the trip are Kim Fritz and Alicia Wilson.

Lynda Jackson is the 9th grade coach and assistant to the varsity while Mary Lou Griffin and Janie Lynn are Junior High coaches.

Heat Fells 3 Longhorns

AUSTIN (AP) — Three Texas Longhorns were forced to leave practice early because of heat exhaustion Tuesday but were cleared by team physicians as having no serious problem.

The Longhorns worked without contact for more than two hours in hot, humid weather. A scrimmage was scheduled for Wednesday at the conclusion of Southwest Conference press tour activities.

Coach Darrell Royal said running back Jimmy Walker, center Billy Gordon and linebacker Rick Fenlaw will miss the workout with injuries, but all three are expected back in time for the Boston College opener Sept. 11.

One Dallas Back Faces Guillotine

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' final cut will fall like a guillotine on one of the seven remaining running backs on the team next week.

Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday that Saturday night's final preseason game against the Houston Oilers will be vital in determining some kicking and running back jobs with the Cowboys.

At running back, Landry said Preston Pearson, Charles Young and Robert Newhouse have clinched spots on the team. But the Cowboys must cut or trade one man from the list of Duane Thomas, Doug Dennison, Ron Johnson and Scott Laidlaw.

The Thomas situation had drawn the most interest because he is a former Super Bowl hero for the Cowboys who left the team in a massive personality conflict four years ago but has returned with a reformed outlook.

"Duane has to come on this week," said Landry. "He knows his situation, where he stands. He has to show up pretty strong against Houston because he hasn't had a real good game yet.

"The lower echelon of backs are competing and my final decision will be based on heir performance, not what they might eventually do."

The coach said he would make final decisions on the running back positions based on performances this summer, "not on what I think a player might do in the future."

Two veteran kickers also will be having their final chances to impress Landry. He said Toni Fritsch and Efren Herrera are going into the Oiler game about even.

Fritsch has led the Cowboys in scoring three of the last four years. He was injured in 1974 and Herrera led the team in scoring that season.

Landry also said at his weekly press luncheon that rookie wide receiver Duke Fergerson may be out for the season. Fergerson injured his right hand against Pittsburgh Saturday and underwent surgery Sunday.

Landry said he did not expect injured fullback Robert Newhouse and safety Cliff Harris to play against the Oilers, but one or both might see action in the first regular season game against Philadelphia Sept. 12.

Rains Pose Flash Flood Threats

By The Associated Press

Torrential downpours posed flash flood threats in parts of Texas for a time Tuesday night and again this morning. Lighter rains fell in most other sections.

Still more thunderstorms were expected at scattered points.

A 4.65-inch deluge at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Tuesday night sent some creeks out of banks and prompted a flash flood warning for a time in the north half of Dallas and Tarrant counties. Water filled many streets and underpasses.

During the turbulent evening the National Weather Service relayed reports of tornadoes being sighted in the east part of Travis County and in Rusk County. There was no word of damage.

By this morning a mixture of light rain, showers and thunderstorms dotted all of the state except for patches of clear skies west of the Pecos River in West Texas and along the coast.

Radar detected heavy rainfall around Junction, Sonora, Brady and Mason in West Texas. Residents of those areas were cautioned to watch for rising water, particularly at road crossings along usually dry ravines.

Dr. Lamb

Doctor doesn't advise a fast

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 16-year-old healthy girl. I have been 20 pounds overweight for about five years. Three years ago I lost 20 pounds but gained it back within the year. I've read that fasting is a good way to change one's attitude about eating. I would like to try a three-day fast but because of school my mother won't let me. She fears it will endanger my health. For physical education I have Yoga so I don't have to worry about rapid movements. Could you give me some information on fasting that could help me and maybe change my mother's mind?

DEAR READER—You have come to the wrong place to get help in your discussion with your mother about fasting. I am inclined to think this is a case of "Mother knows best."

I don't think a healthy person, as you state you are will come to some bad end by fasting three days. Many people have fasted longer when emergency situations have demanded it. But it is a poor way to try to lose weight. In three days time of eating nothing you are not likely to lose more than about one and a half pounds of fat. All the rest of the loss will be important muscle mass and lots of water. The water will come right back.

Terrance MacSwiney, the Mayor of Cork in 1920, fasted 74 days before he died from it. In 1963 a pilot and his passenger survived about six weeks without food.

When you fast or when you eliminate all or almost all of the carbohydrates the kidneys wash out a lot of sodium. With the sodium washout goes a lot of water. The dieting victim jumps on the scales and says, "Presto! I have lost five pounds in one day." He might as well have taken a water pill and flushed out normal body water.

The water and salt loss results in weakness if continued. By the middle of the second day, if you fast that long, you will most likely feel very tired and may have a headache. The loss of water will make you much more susceptible to fainting. Water loss from anything, including bed rest or such far out activities as space flight will do this to you also.

The body chemistry will change you and you will lose your appetite in about two days. The chemical change results from the incomplete utilization of fat. The body metabolic machinery is literally overloaded with your own fat and this causes "ketosis" or "acidosis."

I am sending you the Health Letter number 2-2, Low Carbohydrate Diet Fads, to give you a better understanding of this problem. I hope this will help keep you from doing unhealthy things to your body. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There is still another reason why a fast will not help you. Most people who lose weight with such gimmicks usually regain it. In your case you admit you regained your fat within a year.

Might I suggest a sensible well balanced diet plan that you can live with the rest of your life coupled with an increase in your physical fitness activity. It could do wonders for you to develop the kind of life style you can live with the rest of your life.

Odessa Lawyer Sentenced

NEW YORK (AP) — A Texas lawyer has been sentenced to two years of unsupervised probation for his role in a $16 million stock fraud case.

Selwin Weber, 58, of Odessa, Tex., sentenced Tuesday in U.S. district court, could have received two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Weber, who was secretary of Texas-based Select Enterprises, Inc., was convicted in 1970 along with five other defendants for peddling the Select stock with little or no money behind the corporation.

The other defendants, four Texans and an Oklahoma man, received sentences ranging up to five years.

Another defendant, former bank president Howard L. Brookshire, 70, of Brookshire, Tex., is still awaiting trial in the case.

The key government evidence at the trial was a financial statement Weber approved to promote the sale of the puffed-up stock, according to federal prosecutor Howard Sussman. The scheme was hatched in Lubbock, Tex., and involved the revival of a dormant Nevada corporation, Goldfield-Candelaria Cooperative Mining Co., Sussman added.

Weber had pleaded innocent to a conspiracy count that alleged illegal dealings from late 1969 to 1975 with more than a million shares of the corporate "shell" which were allegedly shielded by false reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission, the stockholders and to the investing public.

For Thursday, Sept. 2, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You know what needs to be done today, but you'll expend only a portion of your talents in doing it. Consequently, your reward will be small.

TAURUS (April 20)May 20) Don't be upset with subordinates today because they're not producing as you feel they should. Possibly it will be because of your example.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Gambling on the unknown today will prove to be a costly folly. It's best to believe only what you can grasp in mind or hand.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your spirit is willing today but the flesh is woefully weak. It's unlikely you'll exhibit the resolve to overcome a tough problem

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a tendency today to start projects you're not apt to finish. A cluttered-up workroom will probably result.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't expect too much from people you know only as passing acquaintances today. There's no substitute for tested friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct 23) There is apt to be friction in your household today, but don't seek to place the blame on others. It could be your oar that's troubling the waters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Crystal gazing for trouble that might happen is the way of fortune tellers. Keep your cool. Attack problems when they occur.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't seek scapegoats today for foul-ups that can be directly attributed to you. Everyone will know who the real culprit is.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The least effective weapon you could use today is intimidation of underlings. Just remember: Every dog has his day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're disturbed about something today, don't stew about it silently. The only way to get relief is to bring the matter into the open.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try not to badger pals over picayune issues today. It's far better to strengthen bonds of friendship than to weaken them.

Your Birthday

Sept. 2, 1976

This year should be a exciting one for you. You'll be both adventurous and enterprising. Don't let your boldness exceed your good sense, however.

HERE ARE THE RULES OF THE CONTEST

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played in the country this week-end. Get an entry blank from one of the merchants who are helping sponsor this contest and whose messages is on this page.
