Joe Bryan Appointed As Sheriff

In a called special meeting of the Lynn County Commissioners Court last Thursday, the Commissioners Court appointed Chief Deputy Joe Bryan to the unexpired term of sheriff of Lynn County due to the resignation of Sheriff Stanley Krause. Deputy Bryan will serve as Sheriff of Lynn County from May 1 until the general election, which will be held Nov. 4.

In making his recommendation to the Commissioners Court, Sheriff Krause told the court that Deputy Bryan was the best qualified in operating the sheriff's office and jail in a professional manner and in the best interest of the citizens of Lynn County until the November election.

Bryan began his law enforcement career in 1979 as a city patrolman for Tahoka. In August 1980 Bryan was hired as deputy of Lynn County Sheriff's office under Sheriff Norvell Redwine. Bryan was named Chief Deputy May 1981 by Sheriff Krause and has held that position until the present time. In May 1982 he and Sheriff Krause were both named as coordinators of the Lynn County Crime Line.

Appointee Sheriff Bryan has indicated to the court he has no desire to seek this office in the upcoming election in November.

ART DONATED--Vicki Diggs, right, housewife and artist who lives east of Tahoka, again has donated a painting to be auctioned off at the annual Fun and Food Festival to benefit Lynn County Hospital Auxiliary, and event scheduled Saturday at the county show barn. Mrs. Diggs did this pastel of Brahman cattle on the Double U Ranch. A well-known area artist, Mrs. Diggs currently has one painting on display at Dartmouth College in New Hampshire. Helping to hold the painting is auxiliary member Debbie Vickers. The frame for the picture was donated by Helen Jaquess of Handi Hobby.

Fun, Food Festival Set Here Saturday

The sixth annual Fun and Food Festival is slated for Saturday from 4 to 9 p.m. in the Lynn County showbarn. The admission price of 50 cents entitles one to a chance at winning any of the various door prizes to be given away at intervals during the evening. There will be several food booths, including the Lions Club fish and fries. The 4-H Club will provide a health awareness booth.

Entertainment is scheduled on each half-hour. Included is a presentation at 8 p.m. of the 4-H Club's "Salute To Texas", their entry in the 4-H Share the Fun district talent contest. Also presenting their winning performances are the participants in the recent Miss Wagon Train and Mr. Trail Boss contest. At 6 p.m. the Melody Makers Choir from the Tahoka First United Methodist Church will sing.

This year's proceeds will be used for the purchase of a Flexible Sigmoidoscope, used in the screening and diagnosing of colon and rectal disorders. The Auxiliary also hopes to purchase a drug packaging machine for use by the hospital pharmacist.

Emcees for this year's Funfest are Gene Wisdom and Carroll Rhodes. The auctioneer will be Billy Miller. Among the special items to be auctioned are a dinner for eight of Indian cuisine by Dr. and Mrs. Swapan Banerjee, a dinner for six of European gourmet cooking by Dr. and Mrs. Richard Wright, and a cookout for 8 to 12 children by Dr. and Mrs. Lonnie Vickers. Dr. Vickers has also donated a limited edition 24 Kt. gold plated Texas Sesquicentennial commemorative belt buckle for the auction. Other special contributions include quilts, afghans, handmade crafts, and a painting by Vicki Diggs.

The Hospital Auxiliary is supportive of the Lynn County EMS group and during the Funfest will be presenting each member with a plaque of appreciation for the excellent service provided Lynn County throughout the past years.

Stolen Items Recovered By Officers

Tahoka police answered a call from a local woman complaining of juveniles driving by her residence and being obscene to her with profanity and gestures.

A Tahoka man was arrested on Monday for DWI after being involved in a one-vehicle traffic accident at South 5th and Ave.

C. He apparently lost control of his vehicle and knocked down a fence belonging to James Hinkle of Lubbock. The man left the scene and police later apprehended the suspect near Tahoka Cemetery.

Police arrested a 16-year-old male juvenile at the Lynn County Showbarn dance for intoxication and was taken to Lynn County Sheriff's Office where he was turned over to his parents.

Police also recovered a stolen vehicle during the past week which was found to have been stolen out of Lubbock.

Police Chief Gary Morrison also said the Tahoka Police Dept. has also recovered a bicycle and if it can be described properly, it will be returned to the rightful owner.

Martin Montantes, 21, of O'Donnell, pleaded guilty of burglary of O'Donnell High School on March 26, and was assessed a 7-year probation term plus $1000 fine by 106th District Judge George Hansard in Tahoka Tuesday. An electric typewriter taken in the burglary was recovered.

In jail during the week were three persons. One was charged with public intoxication, criminal mischief and resisting arrest; one was charged with DWI second offense; and one was charged with disorderly conduct and revocation of probation.

Centenarian To Mark State Event With Wagon Train Ride Into Tahoka

BY MARY DRAPER FLEMING

Writer's Note: It was my privilege to interview Mr. Howell and write his story for The Lynn County News in 1976 when he celebrated his 90th birthday on Sept. 9 that year.

In 1902, 16-year-old Belton Howell came to Tahoka with his parents in a covered wagon and 84 years later, he is anticipating a repeat performance, with a few differences.

The Howell family came to Tahoka from Hereford in Deaf Smith County in 1902 and then it was somewhat a matter of survival-young parents with their children moving on to "the promised land." Now, the lone survivor of that family is a participant in the 150th birthday celebration of the State of Texas. As part of that sesquicentennial "bash", a wagon train left Sulphur Springs on Jan. 2, winding its way slowly through the big state, and one of its scheduled overnight campsites is Tahoka on May 8. Belton Howell plans to be at the reins in the lead wagon, after joining the train just south of his hometown for the nostalgic ride.

The crowd which will gather to observe a bit of history and their heritage they've only read about or have only seen on television will no doubt wonder "what's it like to be a hundred" and "what can he tell us about life?" In fact, a group of elementary students in a neighboring county will be among those observers and their keenest interest is seeing and perhaps being able to talk to a man who is 100 years old.

This story began when Sam Houston Howell and his wife, the former Robert Anna Lyles, together with their children, left Comanche County, Texas in 1897 and after brief stays in Erath, Stonewall, and Fisher Counties, they made it to Hereford in the Texas high plains country. Young Belton went to school there and knew immediately that his "field" was numbers. "I never learned to spell," he said, "but I had a knack for algebra and I amazed the teachers at my ability." His job was working on a ranch with the sheriff of Deaf Smith County and one memorable event was "when a couple of 'town dudes' contested me for a fight. The school principal threatened to whip me for fighting and he sat me down on a nail keg to discuss the matter. As I sat down, I spotted a hatchet in that keg and when I was jerked up for my whipping, I reached down for the hatchet and told the principal 'I'll chop you down to my size.' Of course that brought in the sheriff who, needless to say, recognized me as his trusted employee. The sheriff insisted that all three of us boys get the same punishment and the matter was resolved with no further whippings."

Later, formal schooling was at

Voting Places Noted

The Lynn County Republican Primary May 3 election voting box will be located at the O'Donnell Elementary School for precincts 3 (O'Donnell), 5 (Draw) and 10 (Newmoore).

Voters in all other voting precincts in Lynn County will vote at the Tahoka City Hall according to T.B. Mason, Lynn County Chairman.

BELTON HOWELL

New Lynn after the family moved to Lynn County. "Our teacher was Minnie (Chambers) Elliott and there were no grades as such--we just went to school," Howell says.

He remembers vividly seeing Halley's Comet in 1909 or 1910 while "laying out on a prairie somewhere." They told me it wouldn't be back for a hundred years and I wouldn't live to see it again." This time when the comet came again, Howell said, "I spent 20 cents to call a woman over in Midland who advertised that if I would give her my birth date, etc., she would make me up one of those horoscopes. She was especially interested when she found out I was nearly a hundred. I told her I already knew what was in the past and I didn't want to know the future."

I've had so many rich experiences in my life, but the greatest by far were during the 70 years I was married to Birdie." Mrs. Howell died hardly a month ago, ending what, to some people, is an almost unbelievable love story. "When we were married in Brownfield on Nov. 28, 1915, we came back to Tahoka and I said, 'Sugar, if you'll stay in the house and make us a home, I'll get outside and make us a living.' And it worked just that way. The sterling quality of that home and that living have proved his philosophy that a woman needs to be at home to take care of her children and to make a cheerful place for her husband. When asked about his ideas on money, home, and family

THE OTHER NIGHT I saw comedian John Candy on the Johnny Carson show; and he was talking about the shabby treatment he got from the border personnel as he went into Canada one time. It probably was a re-run, since some of their remarks appeared to refer to things about a year ago.

Anyway, I could relate to Candy very well on the Canadian border problems, because the only two times we have gone into Canada the people doing the checking of cars and their occupants were pretty snotty (I don't know if that's a legitimate, dictionary-listed word or not, but it does describe their attitude). In all fairness to Canada, which is a beautiful country, one of the times we had trouble was coming out of the country, so the arrogant young black man (there also is a more apt description of him) we ran into at the border was working for the U.S.

Anyway, our two experiences of going into Canada in the past decided us against going back up there when we went to Vermont last year. If Canada and the U.S. want tourists, they should stress a more welcoming attitude by their customs people. Perhaps they do; we may have just been unlucky.

KNOTHOLES: I've been wondering if Khadafy and the Ayahtollah Kockamanie are related.... A man in his 50s had just had a physical, and the doctor told him, "There's no reason why you can't live a completely normal life as long as you don't try to enjoy it."...And a little girl asked, "Mamma, what happens to old cars when they stop running?" Her mother replied: "Someone sells them to your father."

SHADES OF THE 60s: People all over the world, including some in the U.S., are screaming and rioting and protesting and mouthing off because the President decided to move against the terrorists for a change, instead of just sitting around as we have for years (remember Iran?) every time somebody does something to us.

Right now I'd like to say this: a pox on France, Spain, most of West Germany and the two-thirds of British people who supposedly are all upset with Margaret Thatcher because she allowed us to use our own airplanes to bomb the Libyan terrorist hangouts.

A special pox on that clown who carried a sign saying he was an "ashamed American" going along with some of the protesters in Europe. He should be shipped to Libya.

The killing of civilians is regretful. But it's good to know that there actually is a point past which this nation will not be pushed.

As for the protesters, they only do this so they'll be on TV, and because they have nothing productive to do, such as working for a living. They remind me of Al Capp's mythical group in the 60s, Students Wildly Indignant About Nearly Everything (SWINE).

COON CAPER -- A raccoon got into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Paris last Friday night when the back door was left open for a time, and during the night it virtually wrecked a bedroom and bathroom as the Parises slept in another part of the house. Articles were dragged down from shelves, ripped and scattered, and in this bathroom the medicine cabinet was opened, and the coon even opened bottles, eating vitamins, lipstick, toothpaste and other delicacies. The varmint was captured Saturday after being lured into a trap, and then penned up because it had bitten two people.

restraint seat."

Child-restraint seats are also required by law in Texas.

To encourage the use of such seats among Farm Bureau members who have small children, the Texas Farm Bureau is introducing the child-saver program.

Arrangements have been made with the manufacturer for Farm Bureau members to buy an infant car seat for just $20. The seat which normally retails for about $60 can be kept or passed on to someone else when the child is older. Or, the member can choose to return it to the county Farm Bureau office for a full refund of $20.

To obtain a Safe-T-Seat, members can pick up an order form at the county office at 1651 Ave. J, Tahoka. The order form is to be filled out and sent along with a check for $20 to the manufacturer. The TFB will pay the difference, including shipping charges. The Safe-T-Seat will be shipped directly to the member.

The seat, a convertible model, is suitable for small children up to 40 pounds or 40 inches, meeting all federal standards. It is also approved for most commercial and general aircraft.

The number of safety seats will be limited to three per member.

ADULT CHILDREN AND OLDER PARENTS LIVING TOGETHER—To reduce some of the problems in a two-or-three generation living situation, a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service family relations expert recommends a thorough discussion and agreement between parents and adult children about the roles and responsibilities of each. Because adult children often move in with parents at a time of crisis in their lives, it may be difficult for them to effectively communicate about these matters at first, says Dorothy Taylor. The older parents may also be upset about the imposition on their time, finances, lifestyle or privacy. But to avoid conflict later, it is important for adult children and older parents to eventually work out an agreement about sharing household duties, telephone and utility costs, child care and discipline of the grandchildren. The Specialist says they may also need to discuss parking space for automobiles, personal space and privacy, kitchen privileges and meal preparation, laundry and general expectations about evening hours, use and volume of television and stereo music.

The longest winning streak in professional football belonged to the Chicago Bears of 1933-34. They were undefeated for 17 games.

WILSON NEWS

The St. John Lutheran Luther League hosted a retreat this past weekend with youth from Slaton, Levelland, Amarillo and Wilson in attendance. The retreat was a simulation of Imperial Rome.

The Wilson leaguers had renovated the church grounds into Imperial Rome to set the mood. Then each person was given a specific character to portray. Some were magistrates, slaves, merchants, husband, wife, child; Christian or non-Christian. There were executions, jailings, flogging and Christians hiding so they would not be persecuted. Through this simulation the youth became aware of how Christians and non-Christians lived and were treated in Imperial Rome.

A farewell reception will be held in honor of Tom and Charlotte Freitag at St. John Lutheran Church in Wilson Sunday, May 4, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. The Freitags will be leaving soon to make their home in China.

All friends are invited to attend.

Freitag Enters Honor Society

Tonda Klaus Freitag, daughter of Donald and Carolyn Klaus of Wilson, was initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, April 16, at a banquet in the University Center Ballroom at Texas Tech. Mrs. Freitag will graduate from Texas Tech on May 17, with scholastic honors, as a Business Education major.

Freitag has received numerous honors during her two years at Texas Tech. Recently she was named Academic All-American for 1986. She is presently maintaining a 3.83 GPA. Other honors for 1985-86 are: National Dean's List; Pi Omega Pi (Business Education Honorary); Kappa Delta Pi (Educational Honorary) of which she served as secretary; Golden Key National Honor Society; and Alpha Lambda Delta (Freshman Honorary).

Membership, by invitation only, into Phi Kappa Phi is earned through academic excellence and good character and is issued to not more than 10 per cent of the graduating seniors. Once initiated into the society you are a lifetime member and can remain active by annual dues which are used for fellowships and scholarships.

Pre-School Day Slated In Wilson

Birth certificates and immunization records are required at pre-school day.

EXTENSION PROGRAMS

BENEFIT CATTLEMEN—Educational programs by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are aimed at helping cattlemen "gain an edge" for economic survival. Interdisciplinary programs dealing with all phases of beef cattle production and management have helped producers increase calf crops, weaning weights and net returns, points out an Extension Service specialist in animal reproduction. On-site demonstrations have focused on treating hay with anhydrous ammonia, prescribed range burning, controlled breeding and calving seasons, performance-tested bulls, growth implants in steers and heifers, estrus synchronization, artificial insemination and pregnancy determination, and use of mineral mixes to reduce phosphorus deficiencies.

economics, his response was simple: "When I made a crop or was successful in other business ventures, I put the money in the bank in both of our names and said, 'Sugar, buy what you want, but don't throw any away.'"

He got up before daylight and worked hard until after dark. Mrs. Howell was his 'partner' in everything. "The trouble with marriages today," Howell believes, "is that there is no communication. A man and his wife need to visit with each other—quality conversation every day. I told Birnie if a hog got his head hung under a board or if the tractor wouldn't run and she told me about going down the street to help a neighbor whose aged mother was dying of cancer or about taking some fig preserves to another neighbor. We never had a disagreement, in all of our 70 years together, that couldn't be settled with two or three words."

And it was just that kind of mutual love and respect that motivated each of them to take care of the other in times of sickness. He's had a few "spells" of sickness—once in a Houston hospital and "she never left my room except to get something to eat. So when she had a stroke several years ago and some people suggested I needed to put her in a nursing home, I was insulted to even think of such. No way would anybody but me take care of Birdie."

It did become a necessity during her illness for them to move to Odessa to be near their only child, Wade, and his family. Talking about Wade, who was born in Tahoka in 1921, prompted Mr. Howell to praise his son for his devotion to his mother and to him (his father). "He was never a discipline problem and always appreciated the ways we tried to help him as he got an education and established a business." Wade is a licensed land surveyor and civil engineer in Odessa and is married to the former Kathryn McCurry of Nacogdoches whom he met while they were both working in Midland. Their three children are Sam, who along with his wife, works in the family engineering business; Sarah, who teaches school in Odessa and whose husband, Mike Mazur, also is in the family business; and Susan who is employed in Midland. Sam and Sarah have two children each.

This math wizard, faithful father and husband, and successful business man has outlived the mortality rate on two insurance policies. He's seen life when the living didn't come easy and he's seen the other side too. He hasn't traveled extensively—never out of the United States and very rarely out of Texas. He has no regrets because he always tried to do the fair thing. "I never knowingly hurt anybody," he vows.

He's content now to sit on his front porch in a rocking chair with his indescribable grief over the death of his long-time companion and his anticipation of "stopping the clock" momentarily as he rides a wagon train "back home to Tahoka." (He says he won't need a police escort because knows the way well!)

DAIRY BUYOUT VS CATTLE MARKET--Although the government's dairy buyout program will send some 952,000 dairy cows to slaughter over the next 18 months, the increased slaughter should have little effect on the fed cattle market, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. The buyout program ensures orderly marketings so that slaughter does not occur during the months of heaviest beef cow culling. Also, to reduce additional supplies of process beef, the U.S. Department of Agriculture purchased an extra 400 million pounds of red meat, only half of which could be used domestically.

GROWING ROSES

While the rose is an amazingly versatile plant that thrives on a wide variety of conditions, gardeners can take certain steps to keep plants healthy and blooming.

For a bountiful rose garden this spring the following suggestions are offered.

Rose plants are sturdier and produce more flowers in full sun—at least five or six hours of direct sun is best. Early morning sun is especially good since it quickly dries moisture on plants, thus reducing diseases.

Good drainage and air circulation are essential for preventing diseases and rotting plants.

Roses prefer heavy clay soils although they can thrive in a wide variety of soil types. They also prefer slightly acid soils. Soil can be improved by incorporating compost or other organic material into the top foot. Agricultural gypsum can improve the texture of heavy clay. If possible, prepare flower beds several months before planting to allow organic materials and nutrients to be more available for plants.

When preparing soil for planting, mix in a half cup of bone meal or superphosphate. However, do not apply fertilizer until the first set of flowers begins to fade on everblooming types, or until eight to ten weeks after planting for once-blooming roses. Give each plant a heaping tablespoonful of a complete fertilizer such as 6-10-4 or 8-8-8 every four to six weeks until Sept. 1. Later applications of fertilizer could promote soft fall growth and subject the plant to possible freeze damage.

Some old roses are drought resistant and can exist on rainfall in much of Texas, but most modern roses need watering to develop more attractive plants and blooms. Avoid watering foliage to prevent diseases. Deep watering at weekly intervals is far superior to frequent light sprinklings.

Mulches can help conserve water while moderating soil temperatures during hot weather. Mixing mulches with well-rotted cow manure during the winter can add both organic materials and nutrients to the soil.

Disease and pest resistance can vary with varieties, but roses planted in sunny areas with good air circulation have the least problems. Insecticides can control most pests, and fungicides are effective against blackspot and powdery mildew, the two main diseases attacking roses.

Traditional heavy pruning may be appropriate for Hybrid Tea roses, but most old roses require less severe methods. Remove weak or dead canes anytime during the year, and do general thinning in February or early March. Shaping plants and cutting back strong canes one-fourth to one-third their length will produce more attractive plants. Prune climbers and one-time bloomers only after they flower in the spring.

Improper cutting of blooms can injure roses. It is best to cut few, if any, flowers during the first blooming season. Use sharp tools and leave at least two leaves between the cut and the main stem. Late afternoon is the best time to cut roses.

After blooms have been cut, immediately plunge the stems into warm water (about 100 degrees F.) then recut them an inch or so from the base. Flower preservatives can double the useful life of roses and many other cut flowers (7-Up mixed equally with water is an effective flower preservative.) A pure water source is equally important for preserving blooms. Use rain water or distilled water, since sodium and other materials in tap water can shorten the life of cut flowers.

Pecan And Fruit Tree Management Course Set

The annual multicounty pecan shortcourse will be held Tuesday, April 29, at 2 p.m. in the Dawson County community building in Lamesa.

Dr. George McEachern, state Extension Horticulturist, College Station, will be present to give the shortcourse. Sessions include home pecan and fruit tree management, and pecan orchard management. This last session will be at the Brown and Peterson Orchards where pruning and grafting of both young and old trees will be demonstrated.

The shortcourse is sponsored by the Program Building Committees in Lynn, Borden, Scurry and Dawson counties.

Task Forces Study Plans For Action

A special Lynn County citizens study group began mapping a program for the future of the county during a recent meeting at Lyntegar Electric Cooperative in Tahoka.

Study group members formed four task forces to identify and discuss broad issues of concern in agriculture and natural resources, home economics, youth and community development, said Stanley M. Young, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Similar study groups have been organized to represent all 254 counties of Texas, and more than 10,000 leaders are contributing their ideas, as well as those of their friends and neighbors, to assist in identifying critical concerns. Many of the problems have been triggered by rapid changes occurring in the state economy and population.

At the local meeting, task force moderators named were Bob Ballard, Agriculture and Natural Resources; Weldon Self, Community Development; Pam Miller, Home Economics; and Richard Lopez, 4-H and Youth.

The four task forces identified critical issues facing each of their areas. Briefly, agriculture identified agriculture profitability, diversification of resources, ag. policy, water (usage and quality) and financial management. Home Economics task force identified parenting skills, family economics and stress. Community Development determined community leadership, community stability and development, and maintaining an economic base were critical issues facing their group. The fourth group, 4-H and Youth, identified leadership (youth and Adult), youth recognition and maintenance of older youth in the program.

The four task forces will be meeting in the next two months to continue to identify critical issues, develop background material, formulate long range objectives and identify educational programs that could work toward solving these issues.

A second meeting of county task forces is planned in about eight weeks to present findings and establish priorities of the greatest concerns.

EXTENSION ASSISTS IN COM-BATTING CORN, SORGHUM PESTS--The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is using a variety of weapons--from the latest in computer technology to the old standby, the result demonstration--in its war on corn and sorghum pests. However, these educational efforts will be affected if proposed budget cuts at the federal level take place. Major corn and sorghum insect pests that inflict millions of dollars in losses include the southwestern corn borer, western corn rootworm and greenbugs (aphids), says an Extension entomologist. Extension demonstrations have focused on computer models to predict insect emergence as well as on scouting and other techniques to make control measures more cost-effective while at the same time reducing the number of insecticide applications.

Weekly Health Tip

DAYTON PARKER

PEPTIC ULCERS

"Traiting peptic ulcers with bland diets and frequent feedings may not be more beneficial than regular meals," says Dr. Jon Isenberg, chief of Gastroenterology at VA Hospital in L.A. "Instead, the old advice to chew food thoroughly may still be the best safeguard against peptic ulcers. "Proper chewing mixes urogastone, a digestive substance from the salivary glands, with foods and has been found to aid in the healing of ulcers." So chewing food thoroughly promotes ulcer-soothing reactions -- also is most beneficial for general health and aids in weight control.

Devotional

By Rev. Hazel House

SCRIPTURE:

Isaiah 55: 10-11; St. Matthew 15:32-37

"For as the rain comes down.. So shall my Word be..."

Jesus said, "I have compassion on the multitude because they have been here with me for three days and have nothing to eat..."

It has been extremely dry in this area, enough to hear people making remarks about it. One visitor said, "Maybe somebody here failed to pay the preacher." And some joking answers came as, "Oh yes, we paid her; I gave her a rain-check," or "It has failed to rain on the unjust like it did on the just." Then I look out at the dry sandy earth, and listen to another voice.

For God said that as the rain waters the earth, and the earth brings forth the bud, giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater, so His word will be as it is given.

But if the earth is dry, dusty and barren without seed or flowers or fruit until it rains, how much more desolate and dried out and barren is the soul of man without the word of God.

No wonder men's hearts fail them with fear, when their minds have grasped some knowledge of the marvels and powers of this universe, and their souls and minds are so barren of God's word and His guiding wisdom. They know not what to do or which way to go. Some do not know Christ's power to save, nor the saving help of faith in Christ to keep man saved and safe for evermore.

But Christians, we know Christ and we know His power to save. But how should we tell, live, read, teach, or preach God's word? We who are planting the seed, should we just toss them into the dry barren soul? Jesus gave us an example here: As He had compassion, so must we have compassion on our fellowman. (Psalms 126:6 "He that goes forth and weeps, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him.") Have compassion on the needy and suffering, and on the lost, and weep for their pain and hopelessness without Christ Jesus, for in so doing the "seed" of the word you bear is watered before the planting -- and your own soul is cultivated for growth as it is made ready to hear again God's message and receive a new blessing. And the soul of the one to whom you go will be watered by your compassion for them.

Jesus took what the disciples had, gave thanks and used and multiplied it. Even so each one of us has a witness for him or her to give, and whatever it is, Christ wants your testimony for Him. He calls His followers to use what they have, where they are, and He will multiply the results as He wills. And God said His word never returns unto Him void.

Are you a sower of the seed and an eater of the Bread of Life? Do you have compassion for others, as Jesus has compassion for all of us? Take Jesus, the Living Word of the Father, and eternal joy, peace and love, and eternal life will be yours now and forever.

COST OF BULK FOODS-- According to recent USDA research, packaged food can cost 6 to 7 times as much as the same food in bulk, says Dr. Dymple Cooksey, nutritionist. But the research also shows there are some items that are more expensive in bulk than a generic brand or specially priced national brand, she adds. "Consumers on a tight food budget should consider quickly browsing through bulk foods section before shopping, writing down the prices of needed items and then comparing them with unit prices of packaged items," advises the nutritionist.

BULK FOOD SAFETY-- "Since bulk foods lack the protection provided by commercial packaging, they can become contaminated," says Dr. Dymple Cooksey, nutritionist. Contamination can come from the store management failing to establish sanitary practices and carefully supervise bulk food operations. She says that consumers may also contribute to the problem by not using dispensing utensils correctly or allowing their children to touch, handle or play with bulk foods in the supermarket. The specialist advises consumers to shop at stores where bulk food operations are clean and well-managed.

The country that grows the most tobacco is China. America's leading exporter of tobacco products is Philip Morris, which is also the largest consumer products company in the United States.
