Wage-Hour Bill Moves Toward Vote

Roper Cites Need For Revision Of Federal Tax Structure

Views Outlined In Address To Business Men

Equal Responsibility Of Labor And Management Advocated; Sees Utility Agreement

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper cited the "need of a general revision of our entire tax structure" in a message to the nation's business men tonight.

He expressed confidence the "utilities dilemma" would be solved, advocated equal responsibility between labor organizations and management, stressed the importance of reducing the national debt as well as balancing the budget, espoused "immediate and constructive" treatment of the railroads financial problems and hailed the projected building construction program.

Roosevelt Sends Telegram

The secretary outlined his views in an address prepared for delivery before the commerce department's business advisory council.

To the business and industrial executives who are members of the council, President Roosevelt sent a telegram which said in part:

"I am looking forward to meeting with all of you at the earliest practicable date so we may have the opportunity of talking over the problems that affect us so vitally. I am confident that appropriate action can lead to increased employment and more effective purchasing power in the hands of great masses of people still without adequate income."

Discusses Earnings Tax

Discussing the tax on distributed corporate earnings, Mr. Roper said:

"Treasury records indicate the tax did lead to a marked increase in the percentage of corporate profits distributed as dividends during 1936 and there is evidence to show that the tax also caused increases in corporate operating expenses in the area of wages, bonuses, advertising, maintenance, research, etc. It is already evident that such situations are receiving the sympathetic consideration of the treasury in its recommendations to congress on the revision of the 1936 revenue act, as indicated by Secretary Morgenthau's recent statement and in the president's message to congress on Nov. 15."

General Revision Needed

Secretary Roper opined a general revision of the tax setup was needed to "simplify the determination of tax liability, to distribute the burden more equitably and to broaden the base of taxation so as to include a larger percentage of

Rails Argue For Rate Increases

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — Some of the nation's top-ranking railroad executives told the Interstate Commerce commission today they faced serious curtailment of service, if not outright insolvency, unless rail revenues were increased substantially.

Arguing for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates and a 1-2-cent increase in passenger fares on eastern lines, Daniel Willard, veteran president of the Baltimore and Ohio, said his road would be unable to render adequate service and remain solvent if the present volume of business and the present ratio of income and expenditures remained unchanged.

Greater Increase Needed

Viewing the field broadly, M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, said that "probably an increase even greater than that asked for by the railroads themselves is necessary."

"The denial of the increase," he asserted, "would mean disaster to so many railroads that it seems difficut to exaggerate the consequences; and to the national situa-

Man Nonchalantly Flips Ash From Cigar As Fate Is Read

HOUSTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—Dan Sims, white-haired at 46 and four times a convict, flicked the ash from his cigar nonchalantly today when a jury gave him death for his part in an unsuccessful drug store robbery last July.

His attorney suggested an appeal.

"Okay," Sims said laconically, and got up and sauntered off to jail with a deputy sheriff.

Championship Of Bering Sea At Stake In 'Ice Bowl' Grid Game In Alaska

(By The Associated Press)

KING ISLAND, Alaska, Dec. 1. — The Eskimo conference will furnish the ice and maybe some of the "kick" for the New Year's day football cocktail.

Two teams, undefeated and untied (they never played football before), turned out today to practice for the "Ice Bowl" game for the championship of the Bering sea.

None of the players has demanded any money—so far. Picked at random from among the male natives, they eagerly embraced the idea and began learning the rudiments of the game under the tutelage of Kenneth Chrisholm, former Santa Clara player who likes the Notre Dame system.

"Skull practice" consists of viewing motion pictures of allegedly important football games in the United States.

The training tables are laden with great hunks of seal, walrus and polar bear meat, auks eggs a la oo-ghee-book (Eskimo name for King island) and "Eskimo lettuce" which is grass.

For a yell they are rehearsing one that goes like this:

"Oo-ghee-book, Oo-ghee-book!
"Sis, boom, bah!
"Oo-ghee-book, Oo-ghee-book!
"Rah, rah, rah!"

Behind the idea is a serious motive, however. Chisholm is a member of the exploring party of the Rev. Bernard J. Hubbard, "glacier priest" who believes the exertion will be good for the natives in combatting pulmonary and other ailments to which they are susceptible.

Plains' Lowly Tumble Weed Is Coming Into Its Own; Used For Christmas Tree

(Special To The Avalanche)

MULESHOE, Dec. 1.—The lowly tumble weed can thank 1937 for all discoveries of its usefulness.

Discussed lately by Lubbock scientists as paper making material, the weed now furnishes this section, void of evergreen trees, with a solution to the Christmas tree question.

Outside her office in the courthouse here, Miss Alma Stewart, Bailey county demonstration agent, displays a small Christmas tree which she made from tumble weeds. So perfect is the imitation more than a casual glance is necessary to detect the deception.

Using stiff wire for the body, Miss Stewart shaped the tree-form entirely from weeds. She then sprayed it with aluminum paint. Santa Claus, himself, will be none the wiser.

Taking the product of Miss Stewart's initiative as a cue, the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce is planning a larger tree of the same construction.

With such momentous discoveries brightening its existence, the tumble weed should no longer be the vagabond of the plains.

Telegraph Firms Are Charged In Trust Violation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Attorney General Cummings invoked the anti-trust laws today against the Western Union and Postal Telegraph systems, accusing them of conspiring to monopolize the telegraph business.

He asked the federal district court for southern New York to enjoin the two companies and their affiliates from enforcing contracts with railroads, hotels and the like which give them exclusive privileges.

Al Smith Defendant

Defendants in the litigation include former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, a trustee of the Postal Telegraph corporation; Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the board of Postal Telegraph, and J. C. Willever, first vice president in charge of Western Union's commercial department.

Specifically, Cummings charged the defendants had conspired to prevent other telegraph companies from erecting poles along railroad rights of way, from using railroad stations and from establishing telegraph offices in certain hotels, clubs and public buildings.

Handles 60 Per Cent

He said Western Union handles approximately 60 per cent of all telegraph business in the United States. Postal Telegraph and its affiliates 20 per cent, and the American Telephone and Telegraph company and associated firms, he explained, provide service only to sub-

Purchase Of Farms Is To Be Launched

DALLAS, Dec. 1. (AP) — C. M. Evans, regional director of the Farm Security administration, said here today the program for buying farms in Texas selected tenants will be announced Monday after the first meting of the newly-appointed state committee.

The meeting has been called by A. G. (Pat) Mayse of Paris, the chairman.

Evans said between 20 and 30 counties in which 185 farms alloted Texas are to be bought, will be chosen at the meeting. He said not less than five or more than ten farms will be bought in a single county.

He said practically all types of Texas farming will be represented in localities chosen, and named citrus, wheat, cotton, and stock raising.

A total of $927,000 is avoilable for loans to Texas tenants to make the purchases.

Trouble Is Stacked Up On Youth

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 1. (AP)—It was double trouble for Ross Apple, 24, today. Fined for speeding, he had to stay in jail several hours before he could raise the money. When he returned to his automobile, he found an overtime parking sticker. Judgment was withheld.

Final Tribute Is Paid Tech Dean

Last rites were conducted at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at First Baptist church for Dr. W. A. Jackson, 47, dean of the graduate division and head of the government department at Texas Technological college, who died shortly after he was stricken with a heart attack in his office at the college at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Burial was directed by Rix Funeral home in Memorial Park cemetery.

Students, Citizens Attend

Mrs. C. E. Hereford, organist, played soft music as sorrowing friends gathered at the church to pay final tribute to a man who was admired by people in all walks of life. A section was reserved for the Red Raiders, football team at Tech; the majority of the college faculty and their families sat together; there were students of government, members of the Down Town Bible class of which Dr. Jackson was associate teacher; the Rotary club, in which he held membership; and members of the Allen Bros. Post of the American Legion who sat in a group.

With family members and those in the department sat H. C. Pender, who has shared an office with Dr. Jackson as associate professor of government since 1926.

Floyd County Girl, 13, Passes State Drivers License Test

FLOYDADA, Dec. 1. (AP)—Helen Woodward passed tests for a drivers license with flying colors, Patrolmen Jack Reaves and Max Westerman, jr., said. But she is just 13.

Under the Texas law 14 is the minimum age for issuance of a license.

The Floyd county court passed a special order so that Helen could operate the family car from her rural home to Floydada, where she attends high school.

Chain Store Tax Upheld By High Texas Tribunal

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 1. — The Texas Supreme court held unanimously today that the state's chain store tax was valid, asserting that to rule otherwise would be inconsistent with decisions of the Supreme court of the United States.

The law, estimated to raise from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 annually, was enacted in January, 1936, but because of the court fight not a dime has gone into the treasury. When and if the litigation is ended with the state victorious, taxes for 1936, 1937 and 1938 will be due.

To Seek Rehearing

Attorneys for the large chains will file a motion for rehearing. If that should fail, they were expected to appeal to the nation's highest tribunal.

Chain stores contended the law was invalidated by its exemption of filling stations, lumber yards and other establishments, and the placing of a higher levy on chains than on independent merchants violated the state constitutional provision of "equal and uniform taxes upon the same class of subjects."

Instituted At Dallas

The test suit was instituted in District Judge Royall R. Watkins' court at Dallas. Judge Watkins held the tax unconstitutional. The Dallas court of civil appeals certified questions of law to the Supreme court, meanwhile giving a tentative opin-

Jack Reaves Injured As Car Overturns

Jack Reaves, associated with the drivers license bureau and formerly an officer of the Texas Highway patrol, suffered a fractured left clavicle and bruises when the automobile in which he and Max Westerman, jr., member of the patrol, overturned.

Th accident happened about 7 miles northeast of Muleshoe shortly before 7 o'clock Wednesday night on an unpaved road about a mile north of the Muleshoe-Plainview highway.

The officers were chasing a man in the light pickup who had been "driving recklessly," according to M. G. Bass, deputy sheriff of Bailey county who, with Constable Joe Bartley of Muleshoe, investigated. Officers had become suspicious of the pickup and its occupant.

It was believed Reaves, driver, was blinded in a cloud of dust caused by the pursued car and the patrol car ran across a barrow ditch at a bend in the road and overturned.

Late Wednesday night the driver of the pickup had not been arrested.

Reaves was rushed to Lubbock to Lubbock sanitarium by Bailey county officers. His condition was not believed serious.

Captain W. W. Legge and another officer of the patrol went to Muleshoe Wednesday night to investigate.

Garner Shows Up Senators On Hunt; Bags Small Deer

(By The Associated Press)

ST. MARY'S, Pa., Dec. 1. — Vice-President John Nance Garner laid aside his senatorial toga for hunting togs today—and "bagged" a deer.

Hunting on the 10,000-acre preserve of Col. William Kaul near here, the vice-president shot the first buck brought down by a party of sportsmen, including nine senators, and five other government officials.

Guides later found a four-point, 15-pound buck slain by Senator Joseph Guffey of Pennsylvania earlier in the day.

As Garner posed beside his kill—a 125-pound, four-point buck—he chuckled:

"The people back in Uvalde are going to say, 'is that the best you could do?'"

But Senator Minton of Indiana quickly cut off what promised to become a gusty tale of the vice-president's hunting exploits in the Texas brushland by retorting:

"The deer didn't have a chance—it's got enough lead in it now to weigh ten pounds

Secretary Urges Changes In Bill Now In Senate

Wallace Says Measure "More Restrictive Than Necessary"; Would Use Quota Too Much

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — Secretary Wallace declared today the senate farm stabilization bill was "more restrictive than necessary" in its crop control provisions and suggested changes that would permit greater reserve supplies of major commodities.

The administration farm chief, in a letter to authors of the bill, Senators Pope (D-Ida) and McGill (D-Kas), also estimated the program might cost twice as much as the half billion dollars now being spent annually on the "soil conservation" program.

MAHON PROTESTS MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—Representative Mahon (D-Tex.) told the house that unless the farm bill was amended it would affect adversely 18,000 persons in his district.

He said the five-year allotment base provided in the house bill was unfair, because thousands of tenant farmers in West Texas are working farms which had been in cultivation only one or two years.

"If a tenant's farm has been in cultivation only one year," Mahon said, "he is allotted only one-fifth the acreage given where a farm has been producing five years. This is unfair."

FDR Had Asked Limit

President Roosevelt has asked that the new farm program, designed to replace the soil conservation act, carry financial obligations now in excess of $500,00,000 unless provision is made for raising additional revenue.

Wallace's principal objection to the bill touched provisions for reserves of cotton, wheat and corn for storage under the "ever normal granary."

These provisions would not permit farmers to maintain enough reserves to protect consumers against shortages and high prices, he declared.

Would Use Quota System

The bill would result, he said, in frequent use of a marketing quota system. (Under this system farmers would be allotted certain quotas of crops, and would be penalized if they exceeded the limits.)

"It has been my thought," Wallace added, "that marketing quotas should not be used unless and until the ever-normal granary was running over, and then only if approved by a two-thirds vote in referendum."

Urges Larger Cotton Production

The secretary also urged changes that would permit larger production of cotton without use of marketing quotas.

"In the case of cotton," he wrote, "marketing quotas would be used under the bill as now drawn to restrict the annual supply to a quantity which would hold the American price out of line with the world

Modern Joan Of Arc Directs China's Air Arm In Conflict

(By The Associated Press)

NANKING, China, Dec. 1.—When foreign admirers refer to China's fighting first lady as a modern Joan of Arc, they are not far from the truth.

Not only is Madame Chiang Kai-shek the only woman of modern times to hold a wartime high command, but she also has become, for hundreds of thousands at the front, the living symbol of the new China for which they are fighting.

Soong May-ling, as she was then, learned nothing about airplanes at Georgia Wesleyan or at Wellesley, where she went to school in America, but she learned a lot that came in useful when she returned home and, as wife of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, took over executive direction of China's military aviation commission.

Her job of transforming a corrupt and inefficient luxury into a fighting force was only just begun when hostilities commenced this year. Many thought that "The Madame," as she is often called, would step aside when war broke to let the men tackle what is generally considered to be men's business.

Not Madame Chiang.

For four months she has been actively at the controls of China's wartime air force. At headquarters

COMMANDER AT EASE

This picture of Madame Chiang Kai-shek, one of the latest made of her, shows the Chinese aviation commander as she took time out from war to spend a day at home with the Generalissimo on his 51st birthday, October 18.

Madame Chiang dictates high policies; with the advice of foreign experts and Chinese generals she maps air strategy. Hers is the final word on all questions of purchase or replenishment of equipment and direction of personnel.

Much of her work as head of the Chinese air force has to be done from behind a desk, but Madame Chiang is much more than a "desk general." Almost every time a Chinese squadron leaves its base to raid Japanese positions, The Madame is on hand to bid her fliers happy landing. And day or night, she is at the field to welcome her returning airmen and to hear first hand their reports.

After each enemy air raid on Nanking, Madame Chiang was among the first on the scene to inspect Japanese planes brought down. Within a few minutes after the sirens sound "all clear," she was on the move to inspect damage done to her own air force or general headquarters air base, which has been bombed almost daily.

When it comes to rewarding victorius aces and anti-aircraft battery gunners, Madame Chiang herself hands out the cash prizes and medals.

Alarm Is Felt For Safety Of Americans In Chinese Area

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2. (Thursday)—Alarm was felt here today for the safety of 13 Americans, mostly women and children, marooned in an isolated region in the center of Chinese-Japanese fighting.

Mission headquarters and the United States consulate general expressed anxiety after more than a week had passed without word from the Americans.

Bandits Reported Active

They were last known to be in a missionary rendezvous at Mokanshaw, near the Chekiang-Anhwei province border. Chinese and Japanese have been fighting on all sides of Mokanshan and deserters from the Chinese army, turned bandits, have been reported looting there.

The Americans are professor and Mrs. D. L. Sheretz and four children (address not given); Mrs. W. H. Park, Hawthorn, Fla.; Mrs. H. L. Sone and two children, Chillicothe, Tex.; Miss L. B. Edgar, Lawrence, Kas.; Miss G. S. McCulloch, Jackson, Miss.; and Miss E. J. Peterson, New Sweden, Me.

Brown Is Named District Clerk

U. Brown, Lubbock county's deputy clerk three years, Wednesday afternoon took the oath of office and became the district clerk after the commissioners court, in called session, approved his bond.

He was appointed by Judge E. L. Pitts of the district court and Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court in executive session Wednesday morning to serve the unexpired term of Floyd Jackson who tendered his resignation effective Tuesday midnight after having served in that capacity since Jan. 1, 1935.

Serving Second Term

Brown had become deputy clerk at the same time Jackson first took office and both were serving their second term.

In making the official appointment the judges said, "It appears to us that the resignation of Floyd Jackson as the district clerk of the courts should be accepted and a successor appointed, and that U. Brown is more familiar with the affairs of the office at this time and in a better position to serve the public in that capacity now than most any other person, and that Brown has committed himself in writing in said application that he will not run for the office to succeed himself if appointed." North And South Struggle Still In Deadlock

Northerners Threaten Sabotage Of Cotton Provisions Of New Farm Bill To Press Labor Act

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—Signs of a break in the house deadlock over the wage-hour bill—and a partial clearing of the confusion of the special session — appeared for the first time tonight.

In response to a determined effort by Northern members who busily buttonholed their colleagues in cloakrooms throughout the day, more than a dozen names were added to the petition intended to bring the measure before the house.

Only Eight Needed

At the close of the day only eight more were needed to bring the total to 218, a majority of the house membership, and assure a vote on the bill sometime before Christmas. It has already passed the senate.

While the movement for signatures advanced, the ever-conflicting economic interests of the industrial North and the agricultural South became involved in the controversy to an extent that at one time seemed to endanger both the wage-hour bill and the pending crop control measure.

Threaten Cotton Provisions

Increasingly irritated at the Southern opposition, which with some assistance from other sections, has thus far successfully bottled the wage-hour bill in the rules committee, the Northerners threatened to sabotage the cotton provisions of the farm measure.

Belligerently opposed to the wage-hour measure, on the ground that it would remove existing North-South wage differentials, to the competitive disadvantage of the South, the Southern members were still forlornly hopeful that a sufficient number of signatures could not be obtained.

AFOL To Ask Amendment

Meanwhile, the American Federation of Labor, which is opposed to many features of the wage-hour bill announced a meeting of its executive council for December 3 to draft proposed amendments.

While the off-the-floor conflict engrossed members of house and senate alike, both chambers resounded to debate on the farm bill, the house concluding a general discussion of the measure, and the senate hearing Oklahomas version of what should be done for the farmer.

There, Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) occupied half the day with an exposition of the theory that if the buying power of money were shifted in accordance with the ups and downs of crop prices, the farmer's worries would disappear.

His colleague, Senator Lee (D-

Liquor Board Using 'Sit-Down' Tactics

DALLAS, Dec. 1. (AP)—There was a prospect tonight C. A. Paxton, chief inspector for the Texas Liquor Control board, might bring his "sit-down" tactics of law enforcement to Dallas.

He said at Fort Worth he was coming here to survey the situation; that there were cases of flagrant violations here.

The sit-down method, employed in Fort Worth for several days in lieu of sporadic raids, consists, A. H. Rebentish of the local liquor control board office explained, of stationing one or more agents in places suspected of serving liquor by the drink.

They sit there indefinitely.

Nation's Broadcasters Are Told To Improve Programs

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A blunt notice that the standards of radio programs must be improved—by law—if necessary—was served upon the nation's broadcasters today by Federal Communications Commissioner George Henry Payne.

Contending the ether waves were the inalienable property of the public, he told the national conference on educational broadcasting:

"The ideals of the broadcasters must be changed, even if such changes are made at the big risk of a severe jolt to these gentlemen. Like the moving pictures, the average program of the broadcaster is addressed to an intelligence possessed by a child of 12. It is important to raise this average to the adult age; otherwise there is the danger that radio will perpetuate mental immaturity in the grownup."

The program standard, he asserted, must be elevated to a plane corresponding with the

WOMEN OFTEN WONDER

WOMEN in New York are being given a chance to study the heart of man by means of an oversized, mechanical model in the New York Museum of Science and Industry. We believe, however, many join Ruth Millet in wondering what goes on in a man's mind. For instance why does he say, "A penny for your thoughts?"

Why does he always tell a girl she's different?

Why is a married man so much more critical of his wife than he is of other women?

Why does he pretend to hate his curly hair?

How does he come by his assurance where women are concerned?

Why isn't he interested in making himself over to please some woman?

How can he enjoy work for work's sake?

Why does he find uncertainty so important to romance?

What makes him think that he can answer any political question, or predict the weather?

Does he really think women's hats are as ridiculous as he pretends?

Why does he invariably start out by holding a girl's hand?

WHY DOESN'T he realize that women distrust the line that is too smooth, and have absolute confidence in the man who stumbles over his confession of love?

What makes him treat indifference as a spur?

What does he talk about when he's with men?

Does he really believe that men are superior to women?

Does he actually dislike red nail polish or is he pretending when he says it's uncivilized?

What does he find in the sports section of a newspaper that makes him turn to it first?

What makes him thoroughly enjoy the company of his own sex when a woman is bored to tears if she has to spend an evening with a lot of other women?

Why does he sneak a look in a mirror instead of inspecting himself with the straightforward admiration a woman exhibits?

What makes him oblivious to the undercurrent of dislike for each other that two women can cover with "sweetness"?

Is he never afraid, or is he just afraid to admit fear?

And last, but not least, did he mean all those things he said last night?

CAN IT BE TRUE?

WE WERE talking to Mrs. J. C. Cooley, whose husband is assistant manager of the Lindsey theaters, and the subject of casting characters for "Gone with The Wind" came up. She had read that it is definitely decided Clark Gable will take the role of Rhett Butler (Hooray!). That exclamation is feeble since we have lost interest in the movie production during the months the matter lagged.

Janet Gaynor will play the part of Melanie and one sister, what was her name, Careen? will be portrayed by Margaret Tallichet. They still are undecided about Scarlett. This writer thinks Miriam Hopkins ought to get it.

A Muffin a Day Keeps Cathartics Away

If you suffer from common constipation here's good news for you. One good-sized muffin every day, made with Kellogg's All-Bran, will keep you "REGULAR."

All-Bran puts two of Nature's own laxatives back in your diet. Instead of over-stimulating your intestines, it gives them things they need. First, "bulk"—All-Bran absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. Second, vitamin "B,"—the amazing vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract.

Kellogg's All-Bran is a crunchy, toasted cereal. Eat it with milk or cream and fruits—or in muffins. But however you eat it, use it REGULARLY: eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Every grocer sells All-Bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

W. A. Jackson Rites

Blitz, head of the department of music, played a 'cello solo, "Berceuse" (Gounod), accompanied by Mrs. Blitz. Scripture reading of 1st Corinthians 3 was followed by a prayer, Mrs. Lottie Hilton sang "Rock of Ages," accompanied by Mrs. Hereford.

Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, quoted memorable statements the popular professor had made in addresses on several occasions. He commented on the great loss Lubbock has sustained in the death of Dr. Jackson who was one who "lived the philosophy he taught."

Last Sunday he had spoken before the downtown class, concluding his remarks with the scripture, "what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Sprays, wreaths and trellises of flowers were embanked at the altar. A blanket of white chrysanthemums on the casket was removed after the service and in its place was draped a flag of the United States.

Other than his wife and son, Billy, Dr. Jackson is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Jackson of Nocona; eight brothers, Dr. W. L. Jackson of Ranger, Dr. C. L. Jackson of Tulia, H. A. Jackson, school superintendent at Pasadena, Texas, H. J. Jackson, school superintendent at West, L. A. and F. E. Jackson of Nocona, M. D. Jackson of Thalia, and M. M. Jackson, jr., of Levelland, and three sisters, Mrs. J. G. Duggan of Nocona, Mrs. H. L. Hunter of West, and Miss Alma Jackson of Sao Paula, Brazil.

Brown Named Clerk

justified their appointment on those facts.

Deputy Not Decided On

Brown said late Wednesday that he had not decided whom he would appoint as deputy and that the new deputy would be announced probably today.

A special meeting of the commissioners court was called for Wednesday morning by Judge Dillard to accept the resignation of Jackson and to appoint a successor, but it was found after the session was convened that the successor must be appointed by the district judges of the county.

Judges Pitts and Blair, however, held theid meeting in the presence of the commissioners court composed of Judge Dillard, Ben Mansker, P. B. Penney, T. L. Holt, and B. O. McWhorter.

Dillard Administers Oath

Judge Dillard administered the oath of office.

Reports were that other applications were submitted, among them that of Mrs. Jackson.

The new district clerk is a native of Mt. Pleasant and served his county there four years each as district clerk and county clerk.

Brown will serve as clerk until expiration of this term Dec. 31, 1938.

Jackson Wednesday said he had no statement to make relative to why he resigned and to what he intends to do.

Brown said the judges' order of accepting Jackson's resignation and the appointment of a successor would be recorded in the minutes of both 72nd and 99th district courts.

Chain Store Tax

tion that the tax was valid.

Judge J. E. Hickman of the Supreme court commission of appeals wrote the opinion for the court. The law's exemption of establishments used as wholesale or retail distributing points by manufacturers for distribution of their own products only does not apply to businesses which make sales, such as retail tire or shoe stores, Hickman held.

Judge Hickman cited rulings of the nation's Supreme court on the Indiana, Florida, West Virginia and Louisiana chain store taxes in support of his holding that a legislature can impose a higher levy on chains than on independent merchants.

Rates of the Texas tax follow; upon one store, $1 per year; upon the second store, $6; upon the next three stores, $25 each; upon the next five stores, $50 each; upon the next ten stores, up to twenty, $150 each; upon the next fifteen stores, up to thirty-five, $250 each; upon the next fifteen stores, up to fifty, $500 each; and upon each store in excess of fifty, $750 each.

Ten per cent of the bill is the average tip given to a waiter in a public dining place.

Wall Street..

LEADING SHARES BACK AWAY

NEW YORK Dec. 1. (AP)—Leading shares backed away for losses of fractions to a point or more in the stock market today, with buying support limited.

At the same time, brokers said, offerings were not in volume and the session was slow rather than "thin." Steels and motors, affected by adverse trade news were under most pressure. Gold mining issues were in ome demand and finished higher. Utilities were largely inactive.

Belief governmental aid to business may be a little slower in arriving than had been hoped for was a factor in the market's lassitude, it was asserted.

Unofficial estimates that the week's rail carloadings would again be well under those for the comparable period of 1936 were offset in their market effect, to an extent by Wall Street's belief favorable action on requested freight rate increases was due soon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .7 of a point at 44.7.

Cotton..

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1. (AP)—Cotton declined slightly in today's trading under hedge selling and liquidation. Final prices were steady at net losses of 5 to 7 points.

An unsettling influence was a private report from Washington that a group of senators had threatened to strike cotton from the farm bill unless southern congressmen supported the wage and hour bill.

Two large private crop estimates, showing increases over the last government report, were construed as bearish and contributed to the disinclination of operators to enter the market on the buying side. One authority placed production at 18,367,000 bales and the other at 18,491,000 bales. The last government forecast issued on Nov. 8, was for 18,243,000 bales.

Opening prices were irregular due to buying on better cables against hedge selling.

Dec. finished at 7.96-bid, Jan. at 7.97-bid, March at 8.03, May at 8.08-bid, July at 8.10, Oct. at 8.11 and Dec. (new) at 8.16. Spots declined 7 points with middling at 8.03. Sales totalled 1,846 bales.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. (AP)—Cotton eased today, influenced by larger private crop estimates and nervousness over Washington developments on the farm bill. March dropped from 7.97@7.90 and closed at the low with final prices 4 to 6 points net lower.

The market opened 2 points higher to 3 lower with steadier Liverpool cables counterbalanced by active Wall Street selling. There was also some foreign and southern selling late in the session. As a whole, business was small and price movements narrow.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 7.87 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days was 7.91 cents a pound.

Rice Coach Non-Committal On Cotton Bowl Invitation

HOUSTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—The Rice institute Owls went through another light workout today as they prepared for the Southern Methodist university Mustangs at Dallas Saturday in the game that will decide the Southwest conference championship.

Coach Jimmy Kitts was non-committal on the possibility of Rice playing Colorado university in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas New Years Day if they should defeat SMU and win the conference flag.

If Rice wins they will become champions of the conference, if they lose they will be the runnerups, and a tie would throw them into a tie with Texas Christian university for the leadership.

heavier than when Garner started shooting."

And Senator Joseph Guffey of Pennsylvania said:

"The vice-president had more witnesses than anybody, watching him bring down his buck. He wanted to be sure he really shot it."

Rueful that his deer had not been found earlier, so he might have won a hunting prize, Senator Guffey said:

"I knew I had one, and it's a mighty fine deer."

The hunters chuckled as one spectator told of Senator Hatch of New Mexico falling into a trout stream. He stepped off knee deep into one of the streams concealed by rushes.

The party arrived in two special railroad cars from Washington.

A small group of townspeople and hunters — every lodging house in the village is crowded with hunters — greeted him.

The vice-president brought his quarry to the Kaul hunting lodge slung over one shoulder.

"This is they way I take 'em in," Garner called out. "I just wanted to show you I could carry it."

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 1. (AP)—Wheat values whirled upward about 4 cents a bushel maximum in Chicago today and 5 cents at Winnipeg.

Sensational advices of severe damage to crops in Argentina, together with a spirited revival of export demand for United States wheat, largely were responsible. Germany, it was asserted, bought more than 1,000,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat, and in addition Mexico took 300,000 bushels of domestic red winter.

Despite late selling to realize profits, Chicago wheat futures closed 1⅜ to 3⅛ cents above yesterday's finish, Dec. 92¾@92⅞, May 91¾@91⅞, July 86⅛@86⅜, corn ⅛ to ⅜ up, Dec. 52⅞@52¼, May 55⅞@56, oats varying from ¼ decline to an equal advance, rye showing 1½ to 2 cents bulge, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents jump.

Statements Asked Of All Persons With $100,000 Incomes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—The internal revenue bureau said today it had asked all persons with a net income of $100,000 or more to file detailed statements of their assets and liabilities.

Officials asserted the information was wanted only for statistical purposes, however, because there is no direct federal tax on property—only a tax on the income from services and property. They also said the questionnaire had no relation to the loophole plugging program inaugurated earlier in the year.

price level."

He warned legislators that such a situation would result in loss of export markets and consequently a smaller net income to growers despite higher prices.

Wallace also suggested that the minimum commodity loan rates for cotton and wheat should be 55 per cent of parity price—the price goal of the legislation—rather than 85 per cent as provided in the bill.

He said that if loan rates were too high, they would have the effec' of raising prices above world levels and taking supplies off markets, resulting in loss of expor' outlets.

He reiterated his belief that the new farm program should provide a "tariff equalizing tax," levied on processors, to supplement income of wheat, cotton and possibly rice growers. As yet no step has been taken in congress to provide such a tax.

FAVOR COMPULSORY CONTROL

Lubbock county farmers favor compulsory control of cotton on an acreage basis, Homer E. Thompson, assistant county agent, has advised Congressman George Mahon of the 19th district.

In a message Thompson said at two farm meetings those present voted 100 per cent for control. There were 178 persons present at the two meetings, at Wolfforth and Shallowater.

MARION, Ind., Dec. 1. (AP)—Willis Van Devanter, 78-year-old Marion native who retired from the U. S. Supreme court bench last June, plans to resume judicial work 'quite shortly.'

His keen, dark eyes sparkled at a Lions' club banquet in his honor here this week as he artfully evaded a discussion of what he referred to as "the raging contest" involving the Supreme court.

"While no longer sitting on the Supreme court," he said, "I am still expecting to be called quite shortly for that purpose, and so I want to keep away from those things that would tend to mar the impartiality that should be mine."

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 1. (AP)—A Frisco freight train made two pieces of a new school bus today in a crash on highway 75 near here but the driver of the bus, its only occupant, escaped in one piece.

The driver, A. J. Hankinson, Oklahoma City, representative of a body works, told highway patrolmen he "obeyed an impulse" and leaped from the bus an instant before the train struck it.

The train carried the rear section of the bus several hundred yards. The front section overturned and burned on the highway, blocking traffic for an hour.

F. L. Davis, about 35, of route 1, Lubbock, was given emergency treatment for a laceration of the forehead suffered when he fell from a cotton platform at Beck Bros. gin where he works. The accident happened about Wednesday midnight. He was released after the wound was sutured at the Lubbock sanitarium.

Approximately 35 bales of cotton stored in a cotton yard there were reported on fire. Amount of damage could not be determined immediately.

"The broadcaster should be required at regular intervals to account for his stewardship and if he has not met the standards set, the frequency he enjoys should be thrown into the public domain and made available for assignment to those who can and will meet the program standards, for program standards are more important than technical standards.

"I hope all this can be done by the Federal Communications commission under existing law. If it cannot, then further legislation may be necessary."

Federal Housing Administrator Says 14 Per Cent Down Payment Is Minimum

Least Figure On Loans Is Raised

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—The head of the Federal Housing administration said today that a 14 per cent down payment was about the least that could be made on a $5,000 home under President Roosevelt's proposal to stimulate private home building.

The president suggested raising the government guarantee of building loans from 80 to 90 per cent, which on its face would permit a 10 per cent down payment.

Administrator Stewart McDonald said, however, that loan service charges, title search and appraisal fees and other incidental expenses would raise the figure to around 14 per cent. On $5,000 this would mean a down payment of $700.

WPA ROLLS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. (AP)—WPA work relief rolls increased 11,607 during the week ending November 13. The WPA said today 1,500,094 were on the rolls at that time.

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller Is Ill In Hospital At Kingsville

Unless complications develop, physicians said he probably will be able to return to his home in New York in a few days.

One Of Latest Beauty Aids To Housewives Is Attached To Kitchen Sink; Simple Flip Of Switch And Dishes Are All Washed

Many beauty aids used by modern housewives may belong on the cosmetic shelf but one of the latest is to be attached to the kitchen sink.

Among inventions designed to eliminate kitchen drudgery and give the housewife a chance to keep young is an electric dishwasher and electric disposal unit.

Garbage is deposited in the disposal unit and beaten to such fine particles that it will not clog drain pipes. The dishes then are placed in the electric dishwasher.

Looks Like Small Stove

The dishwashing unit looks much like a small electric stove with a table top. It has a door that opens like an oven and two handles at the top that control hot water and the drain. There is a removable tray that has space for plates to stand upright, cups, glasses, and bowls, and a center container for silver and cutlery.

When dishes are placed in the tray, the hot water cannot be turned on until the door is closed and locked. This prevents the water from being thrown out the door. An electric motor causes the water to circulate rapidly and clean the dishes. The constant whirl will wash away eggs on the plates, or even lipstick on the cups and glasses. Approximately three minutes are required for the dishes to become thoroughly cleaned.

Then the drain knob is turned and the water runs out. The circulation of hot water has caused a steam that dries the dishes as they remain in the rack. They may be left in the unit until needed for use again.

Advantages Claimed

Such a method of dishwashing has distinct hygienic advantages as well, authorities say. Dishes washed by hand in lukewarm water with a dishrag are enemies of the entire family. Traces of food, invisible to the eye, serve as a breeding place for millions of germs which may be transmitted. The electric dishwasher uses hotter water than human hands can stand. Electrical dishwashing makes the dishes hygienically clean, safe and sanitary, say food specialists.

Heat of water will not break glassware, it is claimed—and china remains stationary, water merely sloshing over it.

The British Labor party had only two seats in the House of Commons in 1900. The peak of its power was reached in 1929 when there were 287 Labor members of parliament.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. Temperamental Pitcher Is Storm Center Of Major League Trade Negotiations

Giants And Cubs Seek Ownership Of Van Mungo

BY EARL HILLIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 1. — One of baseball's most famous "bad boys," the temperamental Van Lingle Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers, bobbed up today as the "monkey wrench" which held to a standstill the major league's buying and selling machinery.

As the minor leagues formally opened their convention, the name of Mungo, one of the greatest fast ball pitchers in the National league, suddenly highlighted a reported Dodgers-New York Giants deal expected to touch off a burst of major league trading activity.

The Giants, according to rumor, are willing to give Hal Schumacher, pitcher, Gus Mancuso, catcher, and either Johnny McCarthy, first baseman, or Hank Leiber, outfielder, for Mungo, and one other player, brilliant Young Buddy Hassett, Dodger first sacker.

Cubs Also After Mungo

The Dodgers with Mungo and Hassett their two best pieces of salable "ivory," also are reported to be asking a chunk of cash—the amount of which is holding up the transaction. Also after Mungo are the Cincago Cubs, and the tip was out that Owner P. K. Wrigley was ready to loosen up the purse strings to get the big right-handed hurler, who squabbled constantly with Manager Burleigh Grimes last season and seems definitely to be in for a change of scenery.

As other trade rumors circulated, it was learned that a Chicago Cubs-Pittsburgh deal involving Shortstop Arky Vaughan had fallen through.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox went into a huddle the day with Pilot Mickey Cochrane of Detroit, with Detroit reported on the verge of buying Merritt (Sugar) Cain, Sox pitcher. The White Sox, according to Manager Dykes, still are after Harlond Clift, St. Louis Browns' infielder. The Dykesmen and Washington Senators also were dickering with the possibility Buddy Meyer, Senator infielder, might go to the Sox.

Bushes In Good Shape

As major league moguls beat the hotel lobby "bushes" on the Santa Claus hunt, Judge W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional baseball leagues, reported the 1937 season the best in the association's history. Thirty-seven leagues operated, he said, and paid admissions approached the 13,000,000 mark.

Actual transactions during the day included the naming of Fresco Thompson, former National league star, as manager of Birmingham of the Southern association; the announcement by Detroit that Ralph (Cy) Perkins, former coach, will become a scout on the Pacific coast, and the sale of Catcher Willard Herschberger by Newark of the International league to the Cincinnati Reds for cash and two players.

Ponies, Owls Prep For Crucial Game Of Circuit Race

DALLAS, Dec. 1. (AP)—Joe Gray, middleweight center was named by Coach Matty Bell today to captain the Southern Methodist university Mustangs Saturday in the crucial Southwest conference battle with the Rice institute Owls.

Bell worked his charges today on a muddy practice field as he sought to pick out a starting line-up from a squad that was badly battered in a 3-0 loss to Texas Christian university last week. The most perplexing problem was in the backfield where it appeared today that neither of the regular tailbacks, Jack Morrison and "Red" Ewing, would be able to start. Bell said a possible starting combination would put "Red" Stidger at tailback, with Dan Patterson, Bob Belville and John Harlow as his ball-lugging and blocking mates.

"We're in our worst physical condition of the year," Bell said.

Large Crowd Expected For Wellington-Spur Contest

WELLINGTON, Dec. 1. (Special) A crowd of 3,000 or more is expected to be on hand for the kickoff Friday afternoon when Spur and Wellington High schools lock horns here for championship of Districts 3 and 4, Class B.

Spur has lost but one game this year, that to Matador. Wellington recently scored its sixteenth consecutive victory in a string dating back to 1935. The locals have not been defeated this year or last.

The game may resolve itself into a battle between the Bulldogs' Bill Haralson and Hahn, and Wellington's Don Austin and R. V. Estes. Austin has accounted for 136 points for his team this year.

Alabama's Selection As Foe For Bears Is Approved By California Student Body

(By The Associated Press)

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 1.—With the Rose Bowl problem finally cleared up, California's football machinery, from ticket distribution to the gridiron strategy to be used against Alabama, started functioning in normal fashion today.

Selection of Alabama proved a popular choice on the campus generally and particularly in the football department. While the California players had previously informally named Pittsburgh as their choice of a No. 1 opponent for the New Year's Day classic at Pasadena, the reaction to Alabama was best reflected through the views of Perry Schwartz, first string end.

ALABAMA GOVERNOR INVITED

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Dec. 1. (AP)—Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama, will be asked by Governor Frank Merriam to accompany the University of Alabama football team to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game Jan. 1. The governor received a telegram from the Alabama executive extending "congratulations to the nation on the next Rose Bowl game."

"All of the fellows are glad Alabama is coming out. They have a perfect record this year. In four other trips to the Rose Bowl they won three games and tied one. If we are lucky enough to beat them we really will have accomplished something."

'Bama Not Scouted

The California players, idle since they defeated Stanford Nov. 20 to win the Pacific Coast conference championship, will not begin practice until Dec. 17, when final examinations end.

Meanwhile, Head Coach Leonard "Stub" Allison prepared to work up new plays and defensive set-ups. Not having had Alabama scouted he knows nothing of the team's tactical maneuvers. He said he hoped to receive information before long, however.

Allison said he was not concerned over the physical condition of his Bears. The starting regulars opened and finished the season without serious injury.

Leaves For Pasadena

Graduate Manager Kenneth Priestly, whose announcement late yesterday that Alabama had been selected, ended a dizzy debate and guessing contest, said he would leave tomorrow for Pasadena to take charge of the California headquarters.

The ticket handling staff opened its office in the Southern city today, Priestley said. He pointed out that whether a public sale of tickets is held depended on applications from alumni. Each alumnus is entitled to purchase six tickets and applications will close Dec. 10.

In as much as California has a paid up alumni body of 27,000 the prospects of outside buyers appeared somewhat slim at this time. Alabama, however, will receive a block of tickets.

The Rose Bowl seats approximately 85,000.

Alabama Students Celebrate Over Tide's Rose Bowl Bid

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 1. (AP)—Jubilant University of Alabama students celebrated far into the morning hours in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

The unbeaten and untied Alabama team will be the fifth to represent the school in the Pasadena Bowl. The other four brought home three victories and one tie.

Mineral production in Canada during the first half of this year established a new record.

It's 'Razzberry Bowl' For East

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. (AP)—The upshot of all the scrambling for football's biggest post-season fruit seems to include the fact that the powerhouse precincts of the East got nothing more decorative than the "Razzberry Bowl."

Fordham's "Forgotten Rams" seem to have the best claim to the 1937 leg on this trophy. The collapse of the "Rose Hill to Rose Bowl" bandwagon, signalized by Alabama's selection to play California at Pasadena, calls for no investigation, but it tops off the apparent shut-out of Eastern teams from the New Year's Day festivities.

Of the six unbeaten Eastern outfits, Pittsburgh, the nation's No. 1 team, introduced an unexpectedly bizarre touch by voting itself out of the post-season picture entirely, while Dartmouth of the "Ivy league" and the spotless Leopards of Lafayette manifested no interest whatever in over-time gridiron activity.

Tide Fits Into Picture

Villanova and Holy Cross, like Fordham, were tuned in on "bowl" wave lengths but seem to have received nothing but static.

Not much, if any, fault can be found with the pairings which give three of the country's unbeaten-untied aggregations, Alabama, Santa Clara and Colorado, a shot at post-season prestige and profits.

Alabama, the Southeastern champion, fits appropriately into the Rose Bowl picture for the fifth time, despite the fact that national championship angles could have been more sharply drawn if Pittsburgh had returned to Pasadena.

Just what combination of factors kept the Panthers from being in a receptive mood still involves some mystery but it is clear the Pitt management is serious about its "de-emphasis" policy. It also seems reasonably clear that this turn of event took California among others by surprise.

Otherwise the obvious delay in making the Rose Bowl match would not have been necessary. Alabama's eligibility was established Thanksgiving Day when the Tide completed its all-conquering season against Vanderbilt.

It would appear now that Pitt, Alabama and Fordham were the preferred Rose Bowl candidates, in that order, and that Fordham spoiled whatever alternative chance it had of getting a Sugar Bowl bid by gambling too heavily on the prospect of a call from California.

Meantime, circumstances appear to have dictated the re-match of unbeaten-untied Santa Clara with Louisiana State at New Orleans. It brings together two topflight teams, but features the same intersectional rivalry as the Rose Bowl. Only one eastern team has appeared in the Sugar Bowl. Pop Warner's Temple Owls lost to Tulane on Jan. 1, 1935, in the opening match of this southern fixture.

Colorado university and its famed Whizzer White, national high-scoring player this year, have combined to put the Rocky Mountain conference into the "bowl" picture for the first time. White and company will oppose the Southwest conference champion, Rice or Texas Christian, in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas in what figures to be one of the most interesting of all post-season shows.

KILGORE VS. WESLEY

KILGORE, Dec. 1. (AP)—Kilgore college and Wesley college of Greenville will meet here tomorrow night to decide the grid championship of District one of the junior college conference.

Aw, Nuts! King Carl To Award Pecan Prize

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Dec. 1. (AP)—Carl Hubbell, who grows pecans in his Meeker, Okla., grove while not winning ball games as the New York Giants' star southpaw, will present an award tomorrow to the exhibitor showing the best seedling pecans at the Oklahoma Pecan Growers' association show.

The show and convention opened here today with a large number of entries from Oklahoma and Texas. Next year's officers and the 1938 convention city will be selected tomorrow afternoon.

Higami Works Sleep Hold To Win Here

Among other accomplishments, the Japanese wrestler, Tetsuna Higami, has developed the technique of putting to sleep without benefit of drug or hammer.

The squt, 35-year-old Nipponese stood on his toes last night, reached up and grasped the tall Otto Ludwig, German middleweight, about the shoulders, placing his thumbs and fingers on certain neck nerves and muscles. The result was the same as if Ludwig had been banged with an ax, or if a double dose of knockout drops had been placed in his coffee.

Other "Button" Holes

Higami is the second wrestler to appear here who can apply the "sleep hold." The other was Dr. Mueller of Austin. Higami's interpretation of the hold is even more impressive. He applied it to win the third and deciding fall of Sled Allen's main event.

Ludwig had been anything but sleepy up to that time. He had been quite frisky, indeed, because he had to be to get away and keep away from Higami's numerous other "button" tricks. On the defensive practically all night, Higami got out of bad holes by pressing certain nerve centers, and he could find them anywhere on Ludwig's big body. Otto became very angry indeed about the whole thing in the second fall, flew into the little Jap like a tornado, thrashed him down, bruised him badly with a couple of "pile driver" things. Higami was tottering when he finally arose.

The Jap, on the offense not more than two minutes of the 32-minute first fall won with a perfectly applied airplane spin and body smother. It was a slow fight, except for Higami's occasional darting in and out. He had the big Ludwig bamboozled and befuddled, afraid to come in, not daring to turn back. As fast as he fixed holds, they were broken by the Jap's application of jui jitsu.

Hagen, Tremaine Win

The supporting card saw two finish matches, one of them uncarned.

Benny Wilson, the rough cowboy from Fort Worth, pinch-hitting for Jack Sampson, another Fort Worthian who failed to show up, gave Andy Tremaine a lot of trouble in their preliminary, but Andy, appearing as good as ever, won with an Indian stake hold in 18 minutes. It was a snappy bout, full of action, rough and tough.

Cyclone Mackey was the fall guy in the semi-final, which featured the return of Jack Hagen. Things went smoothly for the first seven minutes, then the boys got peeved at each other. Mackey was in the act of flamming Hagen around with a somersault hold; they got near the ropes and Hagen hooked a leg over the lower rope. As Mackey tried to somersault, Hagen held himself by the rope and Mackey was on his shoulders. He was unable to complete the somersault, and Referee Clements, who had a bad night all around, failed to see the rope stunt and gave Hagen the fall.

As a specialty act, Jack Mahan, strong man artist, and Mrs. Mahan, also well developed muscularly, staged a short but interesting session of exercises, featured by the inflating of an inner tube by Mahan.

Wanna Go To Sleep?

The Texas Tech varsity and freshman football squads, special guests of Sled Allen, were introduced to the crowd.

Getting the attention of fans after putting Ludwig into the arms of Morpheus, the Japanese mat artist tried to explain the hold, and invited any skeptical customer to the ring. At the last report, no one had endeavoured to prove the cry of "fake!"

Lubbock Cagers Start Practice; 80 Boys Report

Eighty boys reported for uniforms when Coach J. G. "Goober" Keyes issued a call for basketball players. Practice will begin immediately.

The "weeding out" process will get underway this week, Keyes said, continuing until workable squads were selected, one to represent the school in interscholastic league activity as the Westerners, the other to revert to Cowhand coaches.

Keyes has only two lettermen back from last season's squad. They are H. P. Ford, center and guard, and Robert Allen, who played forward and guard; L. D. Venable, who played almost enough to earn a letter last season, is back. He and Ford were regulars on the Westerner football team.

Webster Is Injured

Up from Cowhand and reserve quads who hope to earn places on the new Westerner "varsity" quintet are other members of the 1937 football squad — Dutchy Cawthon, Wayne Johnston, Harold Parsons, Jack Ware, Jerry Nash, Joe Pytell, Leete Jackson and Joe Bob Foster. Others counted upon by Keyes for his first squad are John Robert Mosley, Bill Coker and Charles Purcell.

Walter "Jumbo" Webster, backfield ace of the grid team and a better than fair basketball player, may not see much service, Keyes said, especially in the early part of the season, due to a badly injured shoulder. He is carrying his arm in a sling and being treated for the shoulder injury, which prevented him from looking his best in the Amarillo game.

Defend District Title

Once more the high school basketball teams of District 1, as the district applies to Class A football, will play for district championship honors, the Westerners defending the title won last season.

A double round-robin system will be followed this season, with each team playing the other in four games, or two series. The series will be played on a home and home basis. Lubbock, Amarillo, Pampa, Borger and Plainview comprise the league. Activity therein is not recognized by the state interscholastic league.

Keyes said the Westerners probably would play one or two practice games before the league season opens early in January.

Texas Aggies Work Out At Tech As Raiders Await Sun Bowl News

Although Thanksgiving has come and gone, ending officially the pigskin season here, football was very much in the air and on the minds of Lubbock citizens and two gridiron teams here yesterday.

While Coach Homer Norton's Texas A. and M. Aggies cavorted in a two-hour workout at Tech Stadium, Texas Tech gridders and coaches were wondering who the Red Raiders would play in El Paso's Sun Bowl.

Definite acceptance of the Sun Bowl bid is to be made this morning when the athletic council is called together, Coach Pete Cawthon intimated last night. Tentative acceptance already had been made, and El Paso is going ahead with plans for the game. All the Sun Bowl officials lack, at the moment, is an opponent for the Red Raiders.

Crowd Watches Aggies

The Texas Aggies, enroute to the West Coast for a Saturday game with San Francisco university, spent most of yesterday afternoon in West Texas and Lubbock. The squad arrived here by bus after a special train carrying the Aggie entourage west was delayed by a freight train derailment near Post. Lubbock busses met the squad there and brought it to Tech field about 3:30 yesterday afternoon. The special train, scheduled to reach here at 2 o'clock, did not arrive until six o'clock. The Aggie party left immediately for California.

Two or three hundred fans lined the sidelines and occupied the grandstands to watch the Aggies work out. After a lengthy warm-up exercise, some punting and passing drill, the Aggies scrimmaged lightly against uniformed Texas Tech players. The latter went on the offense with passes, affording the Aggies a session of pass defense.

Coach Norton said the team was in good shape, physically, except for a regular lineman whose injuries kept him at home.

Accompanying the team were about 20 fans, including three sports writers.

Three Bowl Possibilities

Nothing definite developed in the Sun Bowl situation yesterday. El Paso officials reported that an answer from Villanova, of Pennsylvania, was expected some time this morning. Villanova had been invited after University of Montana turned down the invitation.

Coach Pete Cawthon said last night that three other teams had entered the Sun Bowl picture as possibilities. They are Lafayette, undefeated team of the east; University of West Virginia, and University of Idaho. Two of these, West Virginia and Idaho, were "volunteers," Cawthon said.

University of West Virginia officials were said to have contacted El Paso Sun Bowl authorities yesterday with a suggestion that an invitation might be accepted. The team holds one of the better records in its section.

Sell-Out Is Assured

University of Idaho, member of the Pacific Coast conference, the only team to defeat Montana this season, indicated to Coach Cawthon that a Sun Bowl bid might be accepted. Cawthon transmitted this information to Dr. Bob Homan, chairman of the Sun Bowl arrangements committee. Homan said that Lafayette would be considered in the event Villanova failed to accept terms.

Dr. Homan told Cawthon that a sell-out was assured for the game. "All of our tickets have been sold," Homan said, "except those held out for Lubbock fans, and we could sell them in two hours if we had 'em."

Cawthon asked that a thousand tickets be reserved for Lubbock and South Plains fans.

Brownfield Tackle Out Of Lineup For Bi-District Joust

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 1. (Special) Coach Johnny Bost's big red Brownfield Cubs go into their bi-district clash at Roscoe Friday afternoon without the services of their star tackle, Lester Jenkins, but otherwise is good shape.

The Cubs have been working hard to perfect their offense and defense with hopes of unseating the Plowboys. Loss of Jenkins, due to a broken finger and a case of "flu" will weaken the Brownfield forward wall.

Roscoe's line, like Brownfield's, averages 165 pounds, but the locals will spot the Nolan county outfit several pounds in the backfield.

Wallace Gray, 180-pound fullback, is considered the man for the Cubs to watch. He is adept at passing, punting and line plunging, besides doing his share of blocking and tackling. Fitts is his chief aide in the Roscoe running game.

Gray, Fitts, and Guard Carrol Toone were selected on the District 6-B all-district eleven. Toone is big and fast.

The Cubs leave for Roscoe Friday morning by bus.

Panthers And Steers Obtain Hurlers From Kansas City

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 1. (AP)—Fort Worth of the Texas league today bought Joe Gibbs, a right hand pitcher, from Kansas City of the American association.

Kansas City sold Pitcher Beryl Richmond to Dallas of the Texas league.

Protection For Quails Is Aim Of New Law

AUSTIN, Dec. 1. (AP)—Game officials hope a new state law limiting the load of repeating shotguns to a maximum of three shells will aid in quail conservation.

With the opening of the quail season today, the game department answered many queries about the rule.

Originally a federal law, applicable to water fowl, it was embodied in a state dove shooting law which harmonized federal and state regulations.

Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game commission, said in many instances a fourth successive shot aimed at flying ducks wound some that never are recovered and fowls die.

Plugging Is Simple

On the same principle the rule was applied to quail as a section of the dove law.

Tucker said the method of plugging repeating guns is simple. A wood or metal stick is inserted in the fore end of the magazine which holds its capacity to two shells, the third one being in the chamber.

The sticks can be purchased at moderate price, he said, or the handy hunter can fashion one in a few minutes.

Penalty for violation is a fine not less than $10 nor more than $50.

Game Department Seeks To Illegal Sale Of Game

AUSTIN, Dec. 1. (AP)—The game department ordered additional staff men into the field today to assist game wardens in a statewide drive against illegal sale of game birds and animals.

Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game commission said the move followed the smashing of deer selling operations in the Hill country, centered in Mason, Llano, Gillespie and Blanco counties.

Miss Baker adopted French citizenship under the law which requires foreign brides marrying Frenchmen to declare a choice of nationality.

Man Surrenders After 20 Years

(By The Associated Press)

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 1. — Marcos Leos reversed the Jean Valjean order Tuesday, and with his wife and the youngest of their nine children, voluntarily returned to the New Mexico state penitentiary to complete a term broken by his escape 20 years ago.

TASTES FREEDOM DAZEDLY

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 1. (AP)—Marcos Leos, 53-year-old father of nine, tasted freedom a little dazedly tonight after a jack-in-the-box, in-again out-again performance at the state penitentiary.

Yesterday, accompanied by his wife and youngest baby, he astounded penitentiary authorities by nonchalantly presenting himself as an escaped prisoner, a fugitive from justice the past 20 years.

Today, before Warden John B. McManus was hardly over his astonishment, Leos was lectured, pardoned and returned to his family by Governor Clyde Tingley.

Warden John B. McManus looked up from his desk to see Leos, his wife and baby standing before him.

"What can I do for you?" asked the warden.

Warden Is Astounded

Astounded, he heard Leos identify himself as the escaped prisoner whose penitentiary records had been gathering dust for years.

"I remember you, warden," Leos said. "I'm surprised you don't remember me."

Leos was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary from Eddy county, New Mexico, October 2, 1915, for manslaughter. About two years later he escaped from a road camp near Alamogordo.

The prisoner, now 53, exhibited no concern over his unusual action, saying only he was visting relatives in southern New Mexico and decided he ought to finish up his prison term.

The term, "to Bowdlerize," meaning to censor or cut out, comes from a squeamish editor named Bowdler who flourished in the early 19th century.

Ensilage Elevator Is Designed By Lubbock Cattleman For Use In Feeding Operations

An ensilage elevator designed by Fred Snyder of Lubbock for use in lifting feedstuffs from trench silos at his Whiteface farms, and believed the only one of its kind, was delivered Wednesday by Hub City Machine shop, said M. M. Wadsworth, shop manager.

No commercial elevators are offered by implement manufacturers, said a farm equipment house manager in Lubbock.

Constructed to replace another machine of similar design, the new elevator, having an overall length of 38 feet, will be much more efficient than the old one, Wadsworth indicated.

Can Be Loaded Into Wagon

A 15-inch platform, approximately 20 feet long and on the surface of which a movable belt, to which are attached metal strips, revolves will serve to elevate ensilage from trenches. This feeds another belted platform which, in turn, raises the feedstuff high enough to fall in the bed of a wagon or truck.

Powered with a 30-horsepower motor the unit will load, it is estimated, 12 to 15 tons an hour, and will withstand efforts of six men to choke it.

While primarily designed to elevate ensilage, the novel machine can be used successfully with bundle feed and grain heads, the builder said.

Feeding Much Stock

Employes of the Snyder farms indicate the new ensilage elevator will be extremely useful this winter in feeding about 12,000 head of cattle from 28 of the largest trench silos on the South Plains. In those silos are stored approximately 20,000 tons of feedstuff.

In addition to cattle at Whiteface and Seagraves, Snyder is feeding approximately 20,000 sheep at Levelland.

British Financier Vanishes at Sea After Boarding Rival's Ship

MURDER, stalking the cabins of a mystery yacht, bound for the Bahamas on a mystery cruise, presents Florida police with their strangest case.

Two hours after Bolitho Blane, British financier and world soap king, boarded the palatial yacht of his principal competitor, Carlton Rocksavage, he vanished from his cabin. The window of his drawing room cabin was wide open and it appeared as if Blane had thrown himself overboard.

On Blane's table lay a note addressed to his secretary, Nicholas Stodart. It indicated suicide in face of approaching bankruptcy. A stock market memorandum detailing closing prices for that day showed Argus Suds, Blane's company stock, at new lows.

Aboard the yacht and detained by Miami police in addition to Rocksavage, are his daughter, Ferri, socialite and press personality; Lady Welter, British publisher and youth reform leader; her socialite daughter and husband, Pamela and Reginald Jocelyn; Count Posodini; the Bishop of Bude and Inosuke Hayashi, Japanese agent.

Stodart, in an initial statement, indicated the case to be a clear suicide, pointing out that Blane faced a crash of his companies and eventual surrender to Rocksavage of his mastery in the world soap trade.

Police were inclined to this theory until examination of Blane's suite showed two strange parallel marks across the carpet, running to the porthole. At the same time police found a discolored patch on the rug and a smear of blood on the curtain.

Death followed Bolitho Blane aboard this yacht off Miami.

Matadors---City Builders!

LUBBOCK citizens will be thoroughly in accord with plans of the Lions club to make their approaching banquet for members of Texas Technological college football squad Dec. 14 more than just another dinner for another outstanding football team.

Their plan to make the occasion one of tribute by the entire community to one of the greatest assets of the South Plains, the city and the college merits the enthusiastic approval of all.

Any outstanding football team is an asset to its community, but in few instances is that so emphatically true as in the case of Lubbock and of Texas Tech. Those who have traveled long distances from the city have discovered that few persons even among the well informed have an accurate conception of Lubbock and of Tech as they really are. Some of the ideas are fantastic—visualizing Lubbock as being a community surrounded by far-flung hills of dust and the school as just another "jerk-water" college — with very little water. Those who know the actuality of the city, the Plains and the school are rareties.

Tech's Matadors have done much to correct erroneous impressions. Consider the Duquesne university game as an example, in which the Matadors were victorious by a 13-0 score. The football part of the nation knew Duquesne. Many did not know Tech. No one can say just what the effects of that Tech victory were, but it probably is not exaggerating to say that it sent many hundreds of individuals to their almanacs, encyclopedias and other references to ascertain just what kind of a school in what kind of a town was able to produce a team capable of upsetting the powerful Pittsburgh aggregation.

What the reaction may have been to the discovery that Tech is a college of more than 3,000 enrollment in a city of more than 25,000 population is, of course, problematical. It could not be other than beneficial. It must have inspired the thought that Tech is an outstanding school in an outstanding area. It is not imaginative to suppose that a few among those with interest thus aroused might pursue their inquiries and even become investors, builders and citizens of Lubbock.

Thus, the Matadors have done more than play football. They have drawn corrective attention to a rich empire of which widespread erroneous impression is held. The resulting benefit is not merely to athletics. In greater degree it is to the community.

For that reason, the Lions are to be applauded for not confining their invitations to the dinner to their members, nor to football fans. It is entirely proper that Tech friends throughout the Plains should be invited to honor an immense community building force.

The One-Minute Sermon

He that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy.

When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn.

Whoso loveth wisdom rejoiceth his father: but he that keepeth company with harlots spendeth his substance.—Proverbs, XXIX, 1 through 4.

SHORT HAUL RECORD

A gasoline truck owned by Eastern Air Lines lays claim to a new world's record. This truck is used for refueling Eastern's transport planes at the Jacksonville, Florida, airport, and has achieved the world's short-haul record with a total of 38 miles registered on the speedometer after 12 months of daily service. They call the truck "Champ." Every day it makes eight round trips. It backs up, non-stop, for 35 feet. Then it refuels a plane and makes a forward non-stop trip of 35 feet. There it rests until it is time to do it all over again.

MAYOR'S 50-YEAR JUMP

T. R. Stam came to Iowa from Pennsylvania at the age of 26, settled in West Union, and four years later was elected Mayor. That was in March 1887. After serving his full term in that capacity, Mr. Stam remained in the same locality and devoted his time to private business. On October 11, 1937—50 years and 7 months after his first election as mayor—he was again elected to fill the vacancy in the same office in West Union.

The Story Of Jill...

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JILL WENTWORTH, heroine, attractive debutante.

ALAN JEFFRY, hero, rising young artist.

BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's stepbrother.

JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.

SYLVIA SUTTON, oil heiress.

Yesterday: Barry and his father quarrel over money. Suddenly the elder Wentworth crumples at his desk.

CHAPTER XXI

Mrs. Wentworth had been startled out of deep sleep by the sound of loud voices. And then, there was another sound. Something had fallen in the room under her own bed. Her husband's study.

She was out of bed, pulling a robe about her, shivering a little. It was silly to be frightened by an unfamiliar sound. Those careless young people might have left the front door open and the wind might have blown something down.

She went to the door that opened into her husband's room, and turned the knob. John was up. That was it. His bed had not been slept in.

In the upstairs hall, she met Miss Dexter hurrying from the other wing, looking like a little gray owl in her woolly wrapper, her eyes round with alarm.

"Then, you heard it, too," Miss Dexter whispered. "Do you think it might be burglars?"

"I dont think anything of the kind," Mrs. Wentworth snapped. "It's 5 or 6, almost time for the servants to come in. Burglars don't break in at this hour. Mr. Wentworth is up. He probably turned a chair over. Go back to your room before you wakeeverybody."

Suddenly she realized she was fighting a dreadful premonition of disaster. Barry had been drinking last night. When he was drinking he was always in an ugly mood. Suppose he had gone to his father's study—

"Go back to your room, Miss Dexter." Mrs. Wentworth spoke again with cold finality in her voice that the secretary retreated hastily, hurrying down the hall and into her own little nook like a frightened mouse slipping safely into its hole.

Mrs. Wentworth waited only until the secretary's door had closed, and then hastened down the stairs. Crossing the still shadowed hall she stood for a moment outside the door of the study. Then quickly opened it.

Barry was standing as though turned to stone, looking down at a figure outstretched on the rug. An object, which she recognized dully as a heavy paperweight that her husband had used for years, was in Barry's hand.

"He's dead," Barry whispered. "It was his heart."

And then as his mother's anguished eyes still held his: "Good heavens, mother! You don't believe I did this! We had a row. He was talking about cutting me out for a long while. I started toward him with this thing in my hand. I might have hit him if I had ever reached him. But before I got there he fell, hitting his head—"

"You must get out of here now, quickly . . . and get rid of that paperweight in your hand."

"But mother you can't, you don't believe I did it!"

"It doesn't matter what I believe, Barry!" Mrs. Wentworth whispered. "You mustn't be found here. Leave the house. When I flash on the lights in the hall, slip up the back stairs to your room. Lock the door behind you. Get undressed."

Barry's face frozen with fear, registered for a moment before he obeyed.

His mother waited a moment, averting her eyes from the still form on the rug, the white face with the dark spot on the temple. Her head was spinning. She put out a hand to steady herself. It was only a nightmare. She would awaken soon, crying out as people did in troubled dreams; and she would hear John saying: "Having a bad dream, Evelyn?"

But dreaming or not, she must plan, plot quickly. Barry, his frightened eyes . . . how incapable of planning to help himself. He had said John was dead. Oh, no, no! It couldn't be. Surely, he was only unconscious. The thought brought momentary respite from the blackness bearing down on her.

She summonted all her strength, went over and bent to the still form. She placed her hand on the hand that lay outflung on the rug. She recoiled with a cry. It was true. He was dead. People might not believe what Barry said. They might call it murder.

She must do something. The servants would be coming in. They would find her grieved but composed. They must also find Barry in his room, asleep in his bed.

But she was already doing it.

Passing swiftly through the hall, unlocking a door. Then back, and on up the stairs, to the east wing. She knocked on Miss Dexter's door.

"Miss Dexter! Miss Dexter!" It was her own voice speaking. "I'm frightened. I went to the bottom of the stair and called Mr. Wintworth. He doesn't answer. I'm afraid he's ill. You know his heart isn't strong."

Miss Dexter had put on the gray robe again. As the thought of her employers possible illness swept aside nervous fancies, she said practically: "Poor dear, and you were afraid to go to the study. I guess I upset you talking about burglars. Don't worry. I suspect he went to sleep. That's all."

"We must go down," Mrs. Wentworth insisted.

"Yes, of course," Miss Dexter agreed. "You poor thing, you're shaking."

She sensed the sudden dependence upon her. It gave her a new feeling of command.

She chirruped cheerfully in her thin, bird-like voice. "It's nothing at all, very likely."

They had reached the lower floor, and she saw Mrs. Wentworth reach automatically to turn the hall switch, flooding the big room with warm light.

The next moment they were standing in the open study door. A scream rose to Miss Dexter's lips, and died there, as she felt Mrs. Wentworth swaying against her; then arms clinging as her employer slipped without a word to the floor.

"My God!" Miss Dexter's frantic thoughts ran. "The poor man's died with his heart. And now, maybe, Mrs. Wentworth is dying from shock."

She bent over Mrs. Wentworth. There, her eyes were fluttering open. She was moving. At least she wasn't dead.

"I'm all right," Mrs. Wentworth said. She got to her feet, and steadied herself by the table. "Get the servants, and then call a doctor for Mr. Wentworth."

"She doesn't know it's too late for a doctor," Miss Dexter thought. She looked back from the door. Mrs. Wentworth was moving some papers on the desk. Arranging them neatly.

"She doesn't know what she's doing," Miss Dexter's thoughts ran on. "Making the room nice for the doctor, when it isn't a bit of use. Mr. Wentworth was particular like that, too. He always kept his papers stacked under the marble paperweight, in a nice, neat pile."

It seemed a long time, but she knew it was only a few minutes before the study was filled with quiet, sober-eyed servants.

And then, Howell, the second butler, was saying in a low but firm tone:

"Nobody should go near him until the police come. It might not have been his heart. He's had a blow on the head."

Mrs. Wentworth's voice rang out wildly: "You musn't say things like that. The fall did that. There's no need for police."

"I beg your pardon, ma'am. That may be true or it may not be. But I wouldn't be satisfied, beg your pardon again, ma'am, until the police see him. At least I'd like for Mr. Jack to see him before he's moved."

Mrs. Wentworth nodded her head. She sank into a chair and covered her face with her hands.

"I'll wake Mr. Jack and Mr. Barry," Miss Dexter said. "And Miss Jill, too, I guess. Oh, poor Miss Jill. She loved him so."

A few moments later, she was pounding on Jack's door. And then on Barry's.

Jack had bounded out of bed instantly, answering the summons: "Anything wrong, Miss Dexter?"

"Your father's ill," Miss Dexter spoke mechanically.

"I'll be with you in a moment," came Jack's sober voice.

It had been more difficult to awaken Barry. "Drunk as usual," Miss Dexter muttered to herself. But finally Barry's flushed face appeared at the door.

"What's the idea of waking me at the crack of dawn?" he had quiried, gruffly.

"Your father has had a stroke or something," Miss Dexter told

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WENDELL WILLKIE'S silence and Floyd Carlisle's effusiveness after their respective conferences with President Roosevelt furnish an inside tip on the chances for permanent peace between the administration and the utilities. It's far from being around the corner.

Mr. Carlisle promised to stop fighting and build $100,000,000 worth of new plants in two years after only a short talk with F.D.R. Several topnotch hydro-electricians wondered more or less audibly what kind of tea the White House served to the Niagara & Hudson magnate. They noted that he could afford to headline an armistice because the government's threat to his empire—the St. Lawrence project—is still in the dreamy, blueprint stage. Mr. Roosevelt must cajole both Canada and congress before developing enough juice to light a single bulb.

But T. V. A. is a going concern and active competitor of Mr. Willkie's Commonwealth & Southern. Its shadow prevents refinancing C. & S. securities at lower interests rates. It also happens to be Mr. Roosevelt's particular power baby, and for him to kill it outright will be political homicide. Unlike Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Willkie has discerned and felt the thorns of the White House olive branch.

DIVERGENCE: Mr. Roosevelt's several cancellations of cabinet meetings has been due to the headaches his official family give him as well as to his toothache. For the first time the cabinet no longer functions as an "echo" to F.D.R.

They squabble and wrangle and dispute with each other—and with the "boss." On recent occasions Mr. Roosevelt has ordered the disputants to meet somewhere distant from the White House and settle their arguments. He has shown surprising irritability at their tendency to cross and question him, especially on the issue of extending real reassurance to business and industry.

Numerically a conservative-minded group dominate the circle 5 to 3, with Messrs. Swanson and Cummings rarely participating in the bickering. Messrs. Hull, Morgenthau, Farley, Woodring and Roper see alike on most issues, while Secretaries Ickes, Wallace and Perkins still compose the more radical clique. The question on which they split most frequently are federal economy and a friendlier handshake with large scale employers.

INDICATIVE: Not so long ago the president instructed Messrs. Ickes, Wallace and Woodring to compose their disagreements over the proposed multiple-power measure (the seven baby T.V.A.'s) at a private session. Secretary Ickes is keen for it providing he is given jurisdiction, while the other two figure it as a threat to their domains.

The trio assembled formally and exchanged views and prejudices for several hours without benefit of a stenographer. Few days later Mr. Ickes conferred with the president, and his report to the White House attributed statements and concessions to his colleagues which they couldn't remember having made. It caused a sharp row in the inner circle, widening rather than narrowing the gulf between them.

Next time they got together Mr. Wallace and Mr. Woodring had a stenographer (not a dictaphone) on hand so that the president would have factual information on what his subordinates thought of his pet bill—or what used to be his favorite before he got crummy with private utility chieftains. The incident depicts the change which has come over the cabinet as well as the congress.

COSTLY: Treasury officials hint that they would welcome abolition of the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals along with the office of the Controller General. Both moves to centralize and control agencies dealing with money Uncle Sam collects and pays out have provoked an undercover furor on Capital Hill.

There has always been a secret feud between the treasury and the tax appeals board. Federal financiers suspect that the independent judges give too much of a break to the taxpayer and not enough to the government. Since 1924, when the board was established, the treasury has won only one-third of the deficiency cases which went to trial. In other words the government demanded from certain taxpayers 200 per cent more than they owed.

Under the existing system the taxpayers has his day of protest in court before he pays, whereas under the unofficial proposal he would have to pay first and litigate later in slow and costly suits as in Great Britain. In the old days this lopsided method wrecked many estates and industries which were forced to sell at a sacrifice in order to raise cash for tax payments later found to be excessive.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE New York Stock Exchange is a house divided against itself behind the scenes. This fact is important in relation to the current duel between the Securities and Exchange commission and the group that controls the Wall Street organization. Only a small part of this duel has been fought in public, but it is so important that it is likely to end in a drastic alteration of the whole character of the Stock Exchange.

Despite surface changes in the management, the "old guard" still dominates Exchange politics through its stranglehold on the Law Committee. Under Stock Exchange procedure, this committee has become in effect a combined legislature and supreme court. What it says, goes—and no fooling!

Like the Bourbons of history, the "old guard" has learned nothing and forgotten nothing in the past five years. The men who compose it sincerely believe they have Roosevelt "on the run" as a result of the recession, and they are eager to press their apparent advantage. They see no reason why the Exchange should not continue to be a private club. They resent the very existence of the S.E.C. And they are the men who rule Wall Street's destinies—at present.

REFORM: But there's another and growing faction which feels that the "old guard" attitude is the essence of blind stupidity. The gradual development of effective cooperation between this group and the S.E.C. is significant.

Here's the inside picture. Chairman Douglas and his associates are determined that the Exchange must revamp its set-up in the public interest—install and independent management, deflate the membership, regulate "inside" trading more strictly, etc. They prefer that the Exchange should undertake these reforms of its own initiative. That would save trouble all around. But if it refuses, within a reasonable period, to move along these lines the S.E.C. will tackle the reform job itself—which would be a much more painful process for the Exchange and its members.

One way or another the job will get done. Realistic members are quietly working, with S.E.C. support, to pry the old guard out of the saddle so that the exchange can do its own housecleaning before it's too late.

VINDICTIVE: New York insiders learn that Washington left-wingers are a bit jittery. They don't like the idea of the president listening respectfully to business men. There is much angry comment about "business 'pseudo-liberals' who got us into a jam in '32." For the moment at least leftist advisers are on the outside looking in.

But they are full of hopes for a speedy comeback. A highly-placed Washingtonian of liberal leanings privately tells New York friends: "The big business crowd has forced us to retreat temporarily, but they had better watch their step. If they don't show more social responsibility in six months—treat labor better and quit these mass lay-offs—we'll be back in power and then we really will make them sweat." Predictions are freely made that the government will move to take over the railroads and the utilities within a year.

Industrial and financial leaders are well aware of the vindictive undercurrent among those who were lately close to the throne. This potential future menace is no help in restoring the elusive psychology of confidence which is essential to revive business activity.

Labor May Have To Join Forces

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1. — Reports that the business recession was driving the A. F. of L. and C.I.O. toward reunion spread today in labor circles.

Although neither side has reported any loss in membership since industrial production began to decline, lay-offs of working men have reduced the income of both organizations. Union members ordinarily do not pay dues when unemployed.

Consider Consolidation

Some labor men said that A. F. of L. and C.I.O. leaders, faced with the prospect of having to curtail their organization campaigns, are starting to think more seriously about the benefits of consolidating their ranks.

A united labor front, they said, would prove far more effective in obtaining legislation than organized labor believes would revitalize business.

Some observers have attributed continuation of the peace conference to the business slump. They declared that neither side originally expected the conference to last more than two weeks, but it now is in its fifth week.

STRIKE RICH SAND

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 1. (AP) — The Consolidated Oil company No. 1 W. P. Ferguson test struck a rich oil sand at 3,700 feet today to bring a one-mile western extension to the deep pay horison in the K. M. A. south Wichita county field.

A fossilized crab believed to be more than 50,000,000 years old was unearthed recently during excavation work on a London subway extension.

him bluntly. "It looks pretty bad."

She had the feeling that Jack had felt the blow — softened as it had been for him — much more than Barry. Though she had to admit that Barry had looked sort of sick and bothered. But that might be liquor. If he didn't watch himself, drink was certainly going to get him.

At Jill's door, Miss Dexter knocked gently. Several times. But there was no answer.

"I must think of some way to break it gently," she thought. "She's so sweet. If I could, I'd spare her this trouble. Her mother doesn't seem to think much of her, and her father loved the ground her little feet walked on."

She turned the knob quietly.

The room was revealed in dainty disorder. Jill's lovely dress was thrown carelessly across a chair. Her satin slippers were near. A froth of silken things were on the bed, which was empty.

TARZAN'S QUEST. No. 124 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The bullet fired at Muviro missed its mark, and he and his men sought cover behind boulders. Then he called to the fliers in English, explaining that the Waziri were friends. But it was too late, for now the aviators were encircled by the white savages.

Kavuru spears began to fly. One of the strangers fell. Again the Waziri moved forward, and from their hands, too, leaped a flight of spears—to be answered by another volley from the Kavuru. This time the second flier fell, and with him three Waziri!

A moment later the opposing forces closed in hand-to-hand combat. Fighting near the airplane, Muviro and one of his warriors, Balando, salvaged the pistols and ammunition of the dead fliers. Fortunately the Waziri were familiar with the use of firearms.

While some of the Kavuru died, many remained to hurl those deadly spears. Three more Waziri fell. This was fate dealing Tarzan a vital blow. He had been counting on the Waziri to aid him against the Kavuru. And now, it seemed, they would soon be wiped out!

State Is Charged Denying Religion

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1.—Pennsylvania, carved from the 17th century wilderness as a haven where all might worship in peace, was accused today of denying a modern sect full religious freedom.

Aaron King, picturesque Amishman from the heart of the Pennsylvania "Dutch" country, pleaded in federal district court that the commonwealth was trying to take from the "plain people" some of the rights that William Penn guaranteed to all in 1682 in his famous "frame of government."

King came to protest the state's effort to force his daughter, Rebecca, to attend school.

Case Under Advisement

Judge George A. Welsh took the case under advisement after hearing testimony of King's daughter, Rebecca, that "she didn't want to go to school." He ordered John N. Landberg, counsel for King, to submit additional briefs.

The Amish faith, he asserted, frowned on schooling for its followers after the age of 14 as conducive to undesirable "worldliness." Rebecca is 14.

Legal Age 15 Years

Pennsylvania's school law requires that all youngsters attend classes at least until they are 15.

King, like many of the early followers of virtually all creeds, has gone to jail for his beliefs.

He served one day of a two-day term in the Chester county jail rather than pay a $2 fine and costs for not sending Rebecca to the Honeybrook school, where she had completed the seventh grade.

Then a court order freed him to await today's hearing. He proposed, he said, to "test" the school attendance law.

Acquit Mother Goose Mural

If the verdict of Commissioner Allen's children's jury is accepted as final, the Mother Goose mural, below, which Berenice Cross, WPA artist, painted on the walls of a District of Columbia sanatarium, will remain despite art critics' condemnation of the work as "grotesque." When the six Washington school children at top viewed the painting, they thought patients at the sanatarium must have a lot of fun looking at it, though one 10-year-old said it must be for "younger children."

Women Of New Government City Refuse To Dip Their Colors To Convention And As Result Clothes Hang In Front Yard

By EDDIE GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

GREENBELT, Md., Dec. 1.—The women of this new government city—who for architectural reasons must hang their washday underwear in front yards—refused today to dip their colors to convention.

The cost of living may be up or down, but the matter of the moment out here where Uncle Sam is landlord is: What to do with milady's flimsies?

The question was raised by an embarrassed female tenant.

"I don't know what to do about my brazen outdoor clothes line," she complained to the Greenbelt's weekly newspaper, Co-Operator. "This public display makes me feel as if I were doing a strip-tease act."

Greenbelt, designed by the government as a community for white collar workers in lower salary groups, has reversed the old American system of the house facing the street.

It sounds confusing, but:

The front yard is in a court and the backyard is on the roadside. Thus the children are supposed to escape traffic dangers by playing in a front yard which is really a backyard.

This puts the family wash virtually on the sidewalk.

Today — the first drying day after the clothesline issue was raised — found unmentionables flapping throughout the greenlawned city.

Crescent road was a thoroughfare of thin silkies.

Part of East way looked like a nightgown bazaar.

Ridge road was a vista of pink panties.

Modest housewives had one consolation — Greenbelt doesn't have any street lights yet. However, the co-operative grocery store is selling a lot of flashlights.

Sonja Henie Is Back Skating Again After Fall Last Week

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1. (AP)—Sonja Henie was back at her favorite pastime today—ice skating—and apparently completely recovered from a fall she suffered last Friday. She slipped while doing a tricky number for a motion picture and X-rays disclosed a slight brain concussion.

EXTRADITION SOUGHT

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 1. (AP)—The governor's office today asked the state of Texas for the return from El Paso of Marcial Fernandez.

Fernandez is charged with having forfeited $500 bail after having been arrested in Los Angeles on an hit and run case. He allegedly ran over a girl in a safety zone.

Man Who Spends Dime For Hamburger Gets Dose Of Lunch-Counter Philosophy To Boot

The man who spends a dime for a hamburger usually gets a dose of philosophy free.

"Don't Take Life So Seriously; You Ain't Going to Get Out of It Alive Anyway!" is one example of the philosophy that leaps from gothic, script, and from neon letters of numerous signs here and there in Lubbock, mostly at places where men draw up close to counters in eating establishments.

Most signs or placards are reminders the man who fries hamburgers wants to be paid, and proposes to be paid before the customer leaves.

Posted in one cafe are these laconic words:

"Credit? Hell no! We're broke, too." And at the same time patrons obligingly are reminded that:

"Your face is good alright, but we can't put it in a cash register."

If that ruffles the tender feelings of the customer, he can find consolation in this: "We have an agreement with the banks—They won't sell our goods, and we won't cash checks or give credit."

One place, well versed in modern affairs, carries a sign that should forestall many divorces. It is addressed to Tired Husband: "If your wife can't cook, keep her for a pet and eat here!"

The proverbial "If you are so damn smart, why ain't you rich?" witticism is rarely found, but a few places display it.

Another sign, evidently originated by someone who knows, reads, "When in doubt, eat ham and eggs." But it is bested by the sophisticated wit who printed, "Our coffee has the kick of a flapper's kiss."

A bridge player, not a grammarian, thought of these lines:

"I may have a good heart
"And you may have a big diamond.
"But there is always a man with a big spade
"Ready to dig my grave if I go bust—
For behind the counter I keep a big club
"For the man who asks me to trust."

But they make for as much context as those jingles in a "Shooting Gallery" (as it is labelled):

"Oh you Crazy Card, Shoot me, I'm crazy too!" and "$3 for Worst Six Shots This Week!"

Or those words in a small, crowded cafe, "Hot Dogs, Pet Shop. Ain't it Mad?"

One place offers hope to the person of small means, and quickly withdraws it:

"We positively will not cash a personal check unless we know you personally . . . We don't know you."

This one is reminiscent of prohibition days:

"Lizzie went forty miles on a gallon.

"Our cook went nuts on a pint."

"I'm still looking for the guy that said," one cafe sign reads, 'I'll see you next Saturday.'"

"Take care of your bill," another admonishes, "but don't take anything else."

A "Thousand Mile Stew" is confidently advertised outside still another small eating place.

Who could fail to get the moral of this story entitled "Three Wise Men?"

"One said: 'I'll see you pay day'—he went blind.

"Another said: 'I'll pay you when I get back'—he's gone!

"And the third said: 'I'll pay you or die'—he's dead!"

No Lubbock resident forgets "Step inn", "Duck inn" or "Dew Drop inn" when he thinks of novel names and signs.

"If you want to loaf," one placard brightly points out, "go to a bakery."

And so they continue, the signs, in jestful and whimsical suggestions until one thinks of the words of Omar Khayyam, ancient Persian poet and astronomer, who must have been the first sign painter of them all: ". . . Take the cash and let the credit go . . . ."

School Session Is Scheduled For Dec. 8 In Hilton Hotel

The West Texas School Executives association will conduct its annual banquet and program at 7 p. m. Dec. 8 in Hilton hotel ballroom, said Bluford F. Minor, superintendent of Levelland schools and president of the organization.

Themes relative to the subject, "Evaluation of Public Schools Today," will be led in a representative discussion by Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, on a program that will include addresses by a farmer-rancher, a business man, a college man, and a public school superintendent. Speakers other than Dr. Woods were not named.

Details of the affair will be arranged by a committee which consists of: Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent of Lubbock county; R. W. Matthews, principal of Lubbock High school and Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the department of education at Texas Technological college.

Christmas Turkey Market Is Expected To Begin Saturday

Local buyers said Wednesday they expected buying of turkeys for the Christmas market to begin about Saturday.

Lubbock is the center of the industry, with plants here handling a large number of birds. Dressing plants also are located at Floydada, Snyder, Lamesa, Plainview and Tulia.

Local produce men expect the Christmas business to be better than the Thanksgiving market. Farmers will have more time to take care of their birds.

Francis L. Thornton Is To Be Buried In Childress Today

Body of Francis L. Thornton, 44, of 402 Avenue F, who died unexpectedly early Wednesday morning at the home of a niece, Mrs. Clarence Stubblefield of O'Donnell, will be sent this morning to Childress for burial. Sanders funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Thornton had moved to Lubbock three weeks ago from Gainesville to make his residence with a sister Mrs. J. H. Holcombe. He had gone Sunday to visit in O'Donnell.

A son Leroy Thornton and a daughter Verdenell Thornton of Austin survive, as do two brothers, Elmer Thornton of Wichita Falls and Walter Thornton of Roswell, N. M.

SUGGESTION REJECTED

Medical authorities said it tied records established in Boston and New York but was two short of the seven such operations performed on a woman in England.

The 33-year-old mother and her five-pound, two-ounce son came successfully through the 33-minute operation at the hands of Dr. Morgan J. O'Connell, widely known obstetrician association with Mercy and Lewis memorial hospital and Loyola university medical school.

Co-Eds Selected As Honorary Officers By Tech Cadets

Three honorary coed officers have been elected by members of the Reserve Officers Training corps unit at Texas Technological college but neither the coeds or those who voted know who was elected.

The entire unit elected an honorary major and each of two companies a sponsor. The three coeds will be presented at the annual military ball Feb. 25. The coeds will not know they were elected until measurements are taken for uniforms. Only those who counted votes know who was selected.

Miss Frances Turner will continue to serve as honorary major until the ball, after which she will remain as a retired officer.

Nominees for honorary officers were Jean McDavid, Amarillo; Lois Marie Daniel, Post; Evelyn Patty, Lorenzo; Nancy Anderson, Longview; Erva Sturgeon, Marguerite Gibson, Mildred Mitchell, Lubbock; Sylvia Smith, Kermit; Lucille Winter, Abilene; and Barbara Ann McNelley, Lubbock.

Rules For Motor Scooters Are Announced By Sgt. Kittrell

Because they increase traffic hazards, motor scooters should not be ridden down-town, said Lewis Kittrell, sergeant of police traffic detail. All scooters should have both front and rear light and should have motorcycle license, he added.

No serious accidents have been caused by these vehicles in Lubbock and, in an effort to uphold that record, Kittrell suggested that riders and rental agencies adhere to the following rules:

1. The rider should have a driver's license. No one too young for license should be permitted to rent a motor scooter without parents consent.
2. Do not ride the vehicle downtown or on sidewalks.
3. Only sober persons should be permitted to rent machines.
4. The rental agencies should see that all machines function properly before renting.
5. Riders should observe all traffic regulations.

FIRE

GINNERS AND COTTON MEN AND ALL INSURANCE BUYERS!

In last Sunday's Avalanche-Journal a statement was published as emanating from some insurance source that your insurance protection is endangered by cancellation due to the unusual fire hazard created by reason of our unprecedented cotton crop.

It is not our purpose to discredit anyone but we wish to reassure you on this point. While we recognize that an unusual situation exists neither THIS AGENCY nor the Companies we represent are alarmed nor do we have any intention of failing you in this emergency.

Our Companies are the strongest old line stock companies in the field, many of them over a hundred years old and they have not made their reputation for fair and honest dealing by getting scared because of a temporary situation and causing the public to lose its insurance protection when it is most needed.

This agency has been serving Lubbock and the South Plains in our chosen field of insurance for fifteen years. We are in better position than ever to underwrite all legitimate risks. It is our duty and purpose to protect our Companies against improper risks and in this we shall not fail, but it is our business to undertake hazards that the individual must protect himself against and in this also we shall not fail.

We know that the property owner will take all necessary and possible precautions to prevent fire, which is to his interest as well as that of his insurance company. There is a real danger at this time and we know that you will take all measures humanly possible to reduce the hazard to a minimum.

WE WANT your gin and cotton and other insurance—come to us with your insurance problems.
