

Work Begins On Community House Grounds Tuesday

Work clearing the grounds for Wellington's municipal building began Tuesday, April 15, shortly after noon, under the direction of R. O. Gallia, assistant superintendent of the WPA for this district, and Bura Handley, city engineer.

With this work begun, construction of the building is expected shortly, although neither Mr. Gallia nor Mr. Handley were able to give the exact date.

This project was approved by the Works Progress Administration in Washington recently, after efforts had been under way locally for approximately a year and a half to secure the building. The structure is to be of native rock.

Ninety-nine men will be used on the project after the work gets under way, a notice from the state WPA headquarters in San Antonio this week stated.

Mr. Gallia comes to Wellington from Pampa, where he worked with the WPA in supervising a new school building now under construction there. His wife and two children will move here in the near future.

Regarding some of the offices which will be housed in the new community building, Mr. Handley pointed out at this time that due to the fact that a city jail is included in the plans, a number of persons have confused this with the county jail and believe that it is to be housed in the new building. "This is absolutely not the case. The city jail which will be in the municipal building is a little two-cell affair, and it will be used only to house minor offenders. It will have no connection with the county jail. We will not even keep those prisoners whom it is necessary to feed in the city jail, and its presence will in no way interfere with meetings or other activities to be held in the community building," Mr. Handley explained.

Judge A. J. Fires of Childress, who in 1889 drew up the first papers for the creation of Collingsworth County, died Sunday morning, April 13, at 6:35 o'clock, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ross Robertson, in Wichita Falls.

Known throughout the state as "the grand old man of the Panhandle bar," and as "the Panhandle's most illustrious jurist," Judge Fires came to Childress County in 1885 when there were less than 1,500 persons in the entire Panhandle. He was one of the leading figures throughout the growth of this section of the state, and he lived to see it one of the key areas of the Southwest.

Judge Fires was the father of Mrs. Robertson, Chester Fires of Wellington, Dr. I. W. Fires, formerly of Wellington, and now of Throckmorton.

Not only did Judge Fires help with the organization of Collingsworth County, but he was through the years a familiar figure here, and he had innumerable close friends over the county. Business interests brought him here often, in addition to the visits he made

Mrs. Gus Gooch Nominated For Club Office

Mrs. Gus Gooch, prominent Abra farm woman and former chairman of the Collingsworth County Home Demonstration Council, has been nominated by the club women of the county for the place of vice president of the District Home Demonstration Association of Extension District One.

The selection of the vice-president will be made at a meeting of the District Home Demonstration Association in Pampa Monday, April 21. Voting will be by delegates from each of the counties in District One, which includes all the Panhandle. A large delegation of women from this county, representing each of the Home Demonstration Clubs, will attend this meeting.

Pioneer Arlie Resident Lives Alone On Ranch

Mrs. Lewis Hill, who came to the lower Panhandle and settled near Dodson in 1885, was featured in an article appearing in the Fort Worth Star Telegram Friday, April 11. Mrs. Hill, who is now 77 years of age, lives alone in a 12-room house on her ranch, which her husband built for her 30 years ago.

Mrs. Hill is the mother of Mrs. Mish Dukeminier and the late L. C. Hill of Wellington.

The article appearing in the Star-Telegram, in part, follows:

Her first home was a dugout that Hill constructed when he made a trip from their Denton County residence to file on a 640-acre homestead. She moved with him in a covered wagon.

Their first setback greeted them on their arrival. The dugout had caved in. They repaired it and lived half below ground until a two-room frame house could be built. In the Spring of 1890 a tornado shattered the new house and scattered their possessions.

Undaunted, they bought a six-room house and hauled it to the site. They prospered and added to their land holdings. The ranch now covers eight sections of some of Texas' most fertile land and is stocked with Hereford cattle.

One of Mrs. Hill's greatest regrets is that much of her land has been turned to farms, with cotton the chief crop. She feels that her husband would not have approved,

This season's first hail storm, ranging from west to east through the north central portion of the county, struck Tuesday afternoon, April 15, damaging houses, barns and wheat fields.

Marella, Quail, Salt Fork, and Lillie communities apparently received the heaviest damage, reports received in Wellington indicated, although some hail fell at Samnorwood, and other reports indicated heavy hail fell east of Lutie.

This hail followed rain amounting to approximately .4 inches which fell over most of the county Sunday night and early Monday, and local showers which fell Sunday morning and Monday afternoon in several communities. Good rain accompanied the hail in most parts of the county where it struck.

No hail was reported in the southern part of the county.

In the western portion of the county, the hail began approximately one-half mile north of Marella and continued heavy to about one mile south of that place. R. T. Abney, who was working on the Ben Farmer place reported only a small amount of hail. On the Charlie Depauw farm, the lister middles were full of hail. At several points in this area, the hail drifted to a depth of 12 to 18 inches, reports stated, and travel was impeded for several hours.

Henry Wischkaemper of near Quail, and George C. Wright of Lillie, reported hail damage to their farm buildings.

The hail was lighter around Samnorwood, and an examination of the school property Wednesday morning showed that apparently no damage was done to buildings in that section. Heavy hail was again reported between Salt Fork River and around Lutie, although there was none just east of the Seale community. Heavy hail was also reported east of Lutie, apparently extending to the Oklahoma line. Good rains fell through this section, and some damage was reported to WPA bridge work under way southeast of Aberdeen.

Lee Roark of Lutie reported hail three inches deep on level ground immediately after the storm was over.

The extent of the wheat damage could not be learned at noon Wednesday, as telephone communication was out to Samnorwood, Lutie, and Aberdeen, from both Wellington and Shamrock. Most of the wheat in the hail-damaged strip is located in these three communities.

Local Man Sought After Dodson Pickup Disappears

The local sheriff's office is seeking a Wellington man in connection with the disappearance of a pickup loaded with hides belonging to Charlie Jordan of Dodson.

The man, Sheriff Paul Bell reported, was due to have driven the hides to Altus, Okla., for sale Tuesday morning, April 8, for the Dodson man. Upon his failure to return, Mr. Jordan notified officers.

In addition, the man is wanted here in connection with giving a $55 hot check before he left on the trip Tuesday, Sheriff Bell said.

Grady Harold Belew

Grady Belew is the quiet, sensitive boy who is seen so much and heard so little. He has been a valuable addition to the class of '41 and will be missed by students of Wellington High School when he graduates this spring.

Grady was born in Sherman, Texas, on September 14, 1923. His mother, Mrs. Fannie Belew, now resides near Loco. Grady spent his first seven years of schooling at Loco. He has been at Wellington four years in which time he has built up a reputation for dependability and honesty.

His academic and athletic activities have been limited to one year of football at Wellington, where he made a place for himself in the hearts of the coaches.

His favorite subjects are typing, sociology and plane geometry. Grady hasn't made up his mind yet as to where he will pursue his education, but we are sure that wherever he goes he will make a success.

Ethel Sue Clement

On July 4, 1922, Ethel Sue was born at Plymouth, Texas, to Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Clement.

She has attended no other school than Wellington, where she has gone eleven years. Home economics, English and history are her favorite subjects.

Ethel Sue was a member of the Glee Club one year, the Pep Squad one year and was on the volleyball and playground ball teams one year.

Her plans are to attend Hardin-Simmons and become a home economics teacher.

Lloyd Julius Holloway, Jr.

Lloyd is the curly-haired, red-haired boy who is so well liked by all his friends and associates. This smiling, cheerful lad of seventeen years, was born January 10, 1924. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Holloway, live on a farm near Wellington.

Lloyd is one of us who has attended school at Wellington eleven years. During his years here he has left impressions on his teachers and associates that will not soon be forgotten.

Lloyd has determined on English, typing and vocational agriculture as his favorite subjects. During his years at W.H.S. he has participated in track for three years, dramatics one year and band one year.

Next year, either Texas Tech or A. and M. is going to be the choice of Lloyd's school. He is undecided at present which he wishes to attend. He plans to major in some phase of agriculture. After completing his education, he plans to teach school. We predict now that if he does, his future students are in for some good times under his instruction, because we know that he will make a model teacher.

Lillian Maybelle Hawkins

"Here's to a heart of friendship tried and true."

Lillian Hawkins was born January 22, 1922 at Leedy, Okla., to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hawkins.

Lillian has been a student in Wellington High School three years. English, homemaking and commercial subjects have been her favorite courses. She went to school in Cordell, Okla., two years Corpus Christi one year, Cross Roads four years and Rolla one year.

Lillian was a member of the Skyrocket Club one year, the Pep Squad one year, the 4-H Club five years, and entered in declamation one year. She played volleyball and basketball one year.

Undecided as to where she will attend college, Lillian wishes to major in commercial subjects.

James Macie Walker

"Shorty" Walker, who is six feet five inches tall, is one of the newest additions to the list of Wellington High School seniors for this year. He has attended school here only one-third term, but in that time he has firmly established himself in the hearts of his newly formed friends here at Wellington.

Macie was born February 14, 1923, at Eldorado, Okla. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Walker who reside at the corner of Dalt and Ninth Streets. During his school years, Macie has attended three different schools. Eldorado takes credit for ten of them; Roff, Oklahoma, takes credit for a year and two thirds; and Wellington tops off his high school career with one-third of a year.

Macie has a well balanced academic and athletic record. He has two years of basketball to his credit at Roff and two years at Eldorado. He also played football at Roff, where he made all-conference end during the 1940 season. He was captain of his football and basketball teams at Roff during the 1940-41 seasons.

But to counter-balance this list of athletic achievement he played the trombone in the band at Eldorado and Roff two years at each place. He was a member of the judging team at the Oklahoma State Fair in 1938. He also participated in the Junior play at Roff. During his senior year at Roff, he was elected class president. Also he was elected the most popular boy in the senior class at that school.

West Texas State College at Canyon, Texas, is Macie's choice of college. There he intends to major in history and math, which, incidentally, were his favorites while in high school. He is undecided as to what his choice of profession will be but even in his short time here his friends have found him to be the type that nothing can stop once he has set his heart on reaching a certain goal. So we are sure that whatever he decides to do will be done to its best.

Mildred Ellen Ray

On April 5, 1922, Mildred Ellen Ray was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ray. "Mildred has true friends because she is a true friend."

Wellington claimed Mildred four years as a high school student, where English, typing, home economics and Spanish were her favorite subjects. Her first seven years of school were spent at Loco.

Mildred was one of the outstanding players on the volleyball team for four years at Wellington, and captain two years. She was also a member of the music class one year and the Choral Club one year.

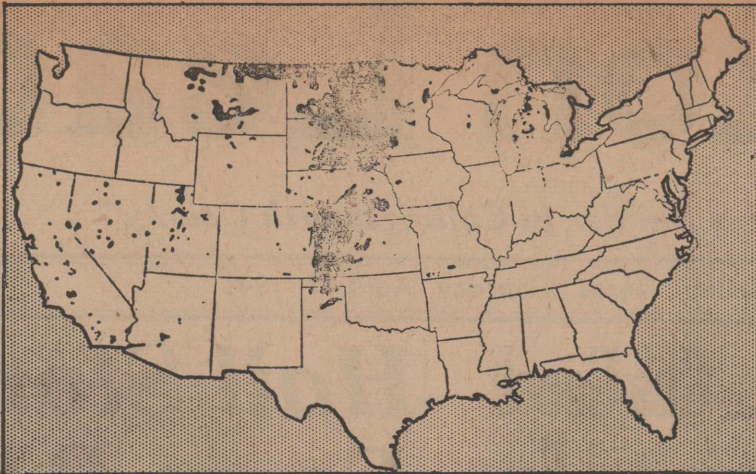

Mildred's plans are to attend a business school and become a stenographer.

Maurine Self

At Blue Grove, Texas, February 12, 1922, Maurine was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ira Self.

Maurine has spent all of her eleven school years in Wellington. During this time, typing and home economics have been her favorite courses. "She has won many golden opinions from many people."

For two years Maurine was a member of the Pep Squad. She also played volleyball one year. To take a business course in

GRASSHOPPERS LESS THREATENING

Fewer in number and less widespread in area, grasshoppers will not constitute as great a threat to crops as they did in the past three years, Dr. Lee A. Strong, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, reports. Poison bait applications applied voluntarily by farmers are expected to stop destruction of valuable grain crops. Black areas on map show degree of infestation.

Oklahoma City is Maurine's plan. She wishes to go into the business field of work.

A large crowd is expected to witness the fights, which will start at 8:30 p. m.

LIFE'S LOUD SPEAKER

An eminent man once said: "WHAT YOU DO sounds so much louder than WHAT YOU SAY that I cannot hear you." ACTS AND NOT WORDS reveal the true self in each of us.

This is true of a bank. It is not the PHYSICAL EQUIPMENT such as Capital, Surplus, Building, Fixtures, etc. that reveals most. It is the BEHAVIOR and ATTITUDE of the Bank personnel to its customers that speaks louder and clearer than any thing else.

That's why we so often refer to our PAST RECORD OF DEALINGS with the public, and especially our customers. We let this record speak for itself for it represents OUR BEHAVIOR and ATTITUDE—and on the strength of it we cordially solicit your banking business.

The friendly help, sympathetic cooperation, mutual confidence and courtesy of our Bank—all intangible things—show their worth in the GROWING NUMBER OF SATISFIED CUSTOMERS. A helpful service that takes priority over profits speaks louder than anything we might say. If you are not a customer of the friendly First National, let this be your invitation to become one. We'll appreciate your business.

Editorial

Not in many years has Collingsworth seen so many wild flowers in spring, nor seen them in such rich color as we have now. In the last few years, late cold snaps have ruined the fruit blooms, and given the first leaves a pinched look. But mild weather and more than the usual amount of moisture has given the county a spring that looks more like those lower down in the state.

It has in fact given Collingsworth a changed look, and this, maybe, is in part responsible for the optimism that is being felt by all of us just now. Former residents passing through remark on how good the county looks, and how hopeful the people are just now. "It makes me sort of wish I were back here," some of them have said.

Drive out in the country some evening. Did you ever see so many fellow flowers as there are in the pastures? And on some of the ranches, they show up like deep yellow lakes of water. Some of the larger patches are so rich in color that they can be distinguished on hillsides several miles away.

It is good to live in Collingsworth just now. For the Nature that provides the crops which form the basis of our economic system has also given us this crop of flowers that responds to the sense of beauty that is in everyone of us.

In Colorado a man and wife, each 73 years old, were divorced after a year of wedded life. Another argument against rash early marriages.

An injured canary taken to a hospital in Chicago by a little girl was given first aid, kept there a week and then declared cured.

Don't worry over your small failings. If you were perfect you would bore everybody stiff.

The real statesman goes ahead and does what he thinks is best, and lets the people find it out later.

Our pacifists could find a useful outlet for their energies by devising a way to promote industrial peace.

One of the great trials of modern life is waiting for the car to be fixed.

OTHER EDITORS SAY--

• Common Custom

"It's a common custom to judge men and businesses not by what's right with them, but by what's wrong," declares William Feather in the little Imperial Magazine.

This sentence appealed to editorial "us" because it is such a commonplace experience, as one knocks around the business district of Liberty, to hear individuals—neighbors—judged with searing, splintering words. Too seldom are every-day conversational words spoken in praise.—J. C. Smith in Liberty Vindicator.

• Lesson From The "Rebel" South

For 80 years, the people of the south have been taunted by the north and east as rebels and ridiculed as being backward and ignorant. People of the northern states still want to regulate our morals and lift us out of savagery. Particularly they have sought to stamp out mob violence in the South, a thing which, to their disappointment, we have successfully stopped through our own efforts.

The industrial north and east could now take some important lessons from the Southern states. They could profit by the example of patriotism which the South is manifesting in the present national crisis. Enlistments in the nation's armed forces in our area are far ahead of those in the north. Anti-American activities are not tolerated and evidence that no monkey-business will be allowed in defense projects is seen in the recent action of the Texas Legislature and in statements from Congressional representatives of other Southern states.—Cleburn Huston in Stamford American.

• A Neighbor Honored

George Stocking, University of Texas economist and a Clarendon native, was named by President Roosevelt Saturday as one of a group of alternate members of the National Defense Mediation Board, 11-man body which has been set up to speed settlement of employer-labor disputes on national defense projects.

Dr. Stocking is alternate for Clarence A. Dyskra, who with William H. Davis and Frank P. Graham represents the public on the Mediation Board.—Bill McAlister in Clarendon News.

• Giving Encouragement

Nothing would encourage the fighting democracies more than the news that the United States is no longer standing on the side lines but has entered the war with every ounce of power it has. It would even make the Germans pause!—Harry Koch in Quannah Tribune.

• Mental Arrangement

A disorderly mind may be like one of these old-fashioned rolltop desks, with pigeon holes and drawers and nooks in it, a desk that provides a place for everything, but which defies most owners to keeps things in the places where they can be readily found. Or it may be like a stable that has been remodeled into a garage, a place where lots of useless things are thrown, without system or plan, simply because there is a chance that they may come in handy some time. Or it may be like an attic wherein are stored the things that are out-dated but which one just hates to definitely discard.—John Gould in the Wichita Times.

I have been fifth-columned, bamboozled, flim-flammed and propagandized. Here I have been sleeping with Mom and Pop for nearly three years and all of a sudden they start spreading the story that only babies sleep with their Moms. They put it over, too, and to prove I am a big boy, I started sleeping in my own bed. Now it has dawned on me there's something rotten in what used to be Denmark; this propaganda has moved me out, but Pop is still there.

About the only thing in our house that I ain't allowed to play with is Mom's Wish-Book, which she spends more time reading than she does some other books I could mention. I guess the reason must be if it was lost or tore up, she wouldn't know where to send stuff back to that she orders.

From what I can hear over the radio in between the sob stories, it looks to me like there are some countries in the world that need a change in management.

I found a worm while I was digging in the yard yesterday. Will somebody tell me WHY they ain't good to eat?

Mrs. Rock Lowrie standing in her front door early one morning listening to the first mocking bird of spring—singing enthusiastically in one of the cedar trees in front of the Lowrie house.

John McGill saying the government ought to spend part of the millions they're using for battleships and build some submarines. "Those submarines will get 'em," he said.

Sandy Parsons, Sr., saying to Herbert Carter something about "now when we get rich on this cotton." . . . A small local boy giving this order in a cafe: "I want a hot dog and leave off the dog." . . . Leota Finley, home from Wichita Falls business college for Easter, saying she liked her work now that she was over being homesick.

J. B. Castleberry and Bob Williams arguing over who was going to pay for the cokes—till they were told to watch out or both their dimes would be taken. . . . Mrs. Frances Hicks saying recently that she doesn't believe the United States will go to war. "I guess I'm just an optimist," she added.

What one Wellington boy says about another—this was taken from Delbert McGuire's sports column in The Prairie, West Texas State College paper: A bright spot in the spring workouts on the gridiron this week is the playing of a new aspirant to the Buffalo Squad. Hailing from Wellington, where he played on the Regional championship team in 1938, and coming here from Baylor, where he played freshman football, Boyd Williams is showing a lot of speed and ability in handling the pigskin.

Glynn Breeden and George Thurman, Quail school boys, inspecting The Leader office Saturday—John Hooper sent from the high school for The Leader's loud speaking equipment, asking Clyde Miller, after they had it rigged up, "What am I supposed to do with this?" "I don't know, you just told me to put it up," Clyde answered . . . and John had to go back to school to find out what it was all about.

Clifford Pritchard, who isn't very old, came out second best in a rock throwing contest with his smaller brother, when a rock hit him on the side of the head, knocking him unconscious. Some time later, after he had regained consciousness in a local hospital, a friend asked him, "How come that you got hit? You're the biggest." "I threw too, only I missed," he replied.

John Laughlin Attends Gas Company Meeting

John Laughlin, of United Gas corporation organization here, attended the annual two-day operating meeting of the company in Houston last week, according to G. L. Taylor, district manager.

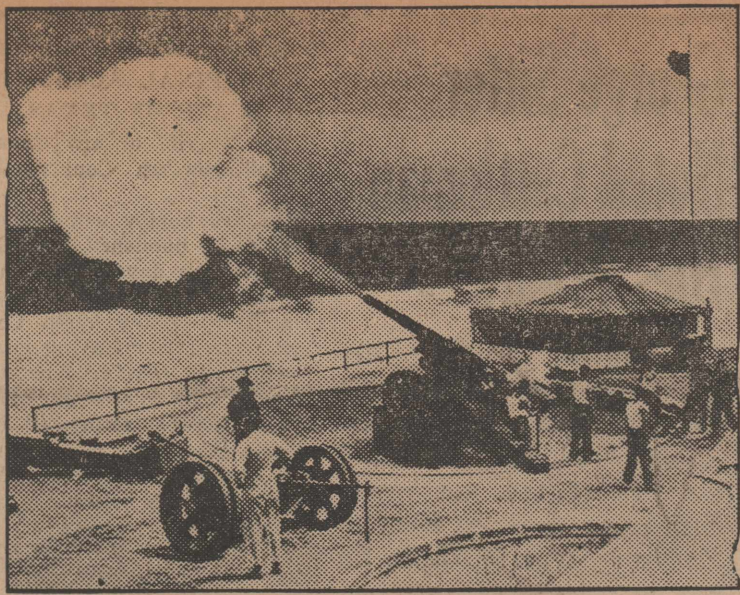

"The meeting, scene of which was the Rice Hotel, witnessed introduction of speakers from the general field organization of the company," Mr. Taylor said.

"One of the high points of the meeting," said Mr. Taylor, "was a discussion of increased operating expenses, including taxes, and the company's efforts to hold such expenses at a minimum. At the same time, the meeting discussed suggestions on increasing the efficiency of their organization to cope with the ever increasing costs of doing business."

"The policy of the company," said Mr. Taylor, "is to take every possible means of absorbing this increasing expense to the utmost of its ability with the present rates for natural gas service."

It is the best April moisture in years. The rain Friday night was 1 inch. Since that time approximately three-fourths of an inch fell Tuesday and Wednesday, bringing the total for the month to 2.77. Last year we received only an inch in April and none in March. In 1940 it went from February 16 to April 5 without raining. This year March brought 4.25 inches moisture.

Monday night is the time that the brilliant Wes Izzard will talk at the high school auditorium. Besides discussing current events, he will conduct a question and answer program similar to the one he puts on every Tuesday evening over the radio station KGNC.

Preceding Mr. Izzard's talk the Quail Cowgirls under the direction of Mrs. Carl Chaudoin will give a 15-minute concert. It will be an evening full of vivid entertainment.

This is the year to make Wellington look like a flower garden. It does not cost much for few packages of flower seed, but they will bring great returns in beauty. In addition to every citizen doing his best to make his own property look better, the City should sponsor a genuine, old-fashioned, complete and modern clean-up campaign. Make a note of this, Mr. Mayor.

The Government is urging a 50 per cent increase in the production of tomatoes. What did I tell you a few weeks ago about the need for producing foodstuffs? Outside of the sub-irrigated land, tomatoes do not yield too great a return in this county, but every farm family should have a garden this year to go along with the tremendous fruit crop we are going to make.

Ben Hurst's blizzard, which was scheduled for April 20, turned out to be nothing but a cool north wind interspersed between two splendid rains. Since Tom Campbell, because of close and long observation, hit the nail on the head, I hereby announce that I have accepted the resignation of Mr. Hurst as official weather prophet for Collingsworth County and appoint Tom Campbell in his place. If Tom does as rotten as Ben, I will fire him too.

The entrance of Lyndon B. Johnson into the race for United States Senator has complicated the picture to some extent. Rep. Johnson is a close friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt and has the President's unofficial blessing. Furthermore Mr. Johnson is a very able and talented young man. His handicap is that he has no personal contact outside of his Congressional district. Although the friendship of the Administration is a more tangible thing than the national publicity Martin Dies has received, there is one similarity as far as the Texas scene is concerned: Governor O'Daniel and Attorney General Gerald Mann are the only state figures at the present time. If O'Daniel enters the race, and who believes he will not, then Mann, O'Daniel, Johnson and Dies will be the big four. It will be a tremendously interesting race.

I went to a meeting of the Panhandle Press Association last week. That was before Johnson entered the race. On the whole the editors believed that O'Daniel would lead, but they were of the opinion that if O'Daniel went to the Senate that Mann would be the next Governor of Texas. They were also of the opinion that if Mann went to the Senate O'Daniel could be elected to a third term as governor.

Right now the war news is too black to write about, but I am not as shocked nor as downhearted as I was when France fell in 12 short days. That was the low ebb for me. I have a great faith in the United States and a great confidence in its future. If you want to know more about this you might turn out next Monday night to hear Wes Izzard. He can tell you about these things in the clearest cut words of any man I know.

There are a lot more things that I would like to write about this week—the benefit of the food stamp plan to the grocers in particular and the community in general, but it must wait. I have an article from S. R. Pinkston that I lifted from the Rotary News that I want to reprint as well as a letter from my wife. Since I am practicing up to be a censor in case the Government ever calls me, I cut out the personal stuff and with that exception her letter follows:

Pensacola, Florida, Sunday morning.

Dear Deskins: We arrived here at 12 p. m. last night and are having breakfast at 7:30 Sunday a. m.

Just in front of the hotel is a fenced off square and it is half filled with old aluminum pots and pans. A sign reads: "Your pots will help save Britain." We haven't seen the air base yet, but we will before we leave.

New Orleans was grand—saw the same things you and I saw when we were there with the exception of the defense program, which is underway but behind according to my way of thinking. They have just started their air base and are using men with shovels to dig the foundations instead of steam shovels.

In Alexandria, La., I saw four military police riding around in a car that reminded me of Nazis sitting up there looking so important.

Last night we went through the Bankhead tunnel in Mobile; it was a beautiful thing, white tile, and it took us under the Mobile river.

We saw a place in New Orleans where they were making torpedo shells. It has been built recently. They had torpedo boats around, but we did not get to see any of them. A friend of Mrs. Cook's took us around to see everything. Our Intertype people didn't show up.

Cotton around New Orleans is being chopped now. The potato vines are a foot high, and the strawberries, wonderful ones, are ripe. We bought some on the road and took them to an ice cream place and had a wonderful time eating strawberries and ice cream.

The most beautiful things we have seen were the homes along the water front between Gulf Port and Biloxi, Miss. They are beautiful.

My breakfast is before me and I can't write any more now.

Marian.

From The Rotary News—

One of the reasons we do not have more beautiful yards in our town is the inconsiderate attitude of many grown persons and our school children walking across the lots and yards and otherwise degrading. We haven't seen a year in some time when our people are improving their yards as this year and the general complaint is that children going to and from the school deliberately walk across the yards instead of using the sidewalk. Some have even placed strands of wire in low fences, but the children step over this and go right on walking across the yards, destroying the efforts to make a yard beautiful. Every one complains of the pilfering of the blooms of flowers. Only last week I saw the results of this kind of thoughtfulness in pilfering tulip blooms from a yard, and the result was pitiful. Deck Wells is making a campaign for the lilac to be an important flower in town, yet ask some of the owners of lilac bushes how the flowers have been pulled and the branches of the shrubs broken.

There is not one reason why Wellington should not have well kept and attractive school grounds and some educational effort on the part of parents and school authorities should facilitate this. There is no excuse why a class of children turned out of school should start for home like a bunch of Indians walking into the woods.

Maybe not? Well, you've heard of Quail—a town up there in Collingsworth County. Well, drive out and see for yourself whether the front yard of a school can be kept attractive.

Key Infant Dies Monday

Jackie Louise Key, 10-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack J. Key, died in a local hospital Monday morning, April 21. Funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist Church at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, with Rev. J. P. Neal in charge.

The child was born June 7, 1940, in McLean, and at the time of her death she was 10 months and 14 days of age.

In addition to her parents, the child is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Key of Quail and Mrs. Pearl Price of McLean.

Pall bearers for the service were Eugene Molton, Clifford Harris, A. J. Shang, and Oscar Molton. Flower bearers were Virginia Thomas, Clogene Young, Edith Lindsey, and Billie Gene Tenison. Hymns included "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "Does Jesus Care." Interment was in the Wellington cemetery with the Ellis Funeral Home in charge.

County Farmers Find Shelterbelt Cultivation Pays

Frequent cultivation and an early start are essential to the growth and survival of shelterbelt trees in Collingsworth County, W. J. Grigg, subdistrict officer of the Forest Service, said here this week.

"The most successful shelterbelts in the county, such as those on the Wells and Brantley, B. W. Boorman, George Sitter and Guy Beasley farms, have been well cultivated from the time of planting," Grigg said. "Failure of shelterbelts can nearly always be traced to lack of cultivation."

Abundant rainfall and warm weather are producing a "bumper" crop of weeds, the Forester continued, and shelterbelt owners are urged to cultivate before weed and grass growth becomes established. Early cultivation makes available for tree growth the moisture that has already fallen while delayed cultivation results in loss of this moisture through excessive and needless weed growth. Cultivation is easily accomplished while the weeds are small and what is more important, will make later cultivation much easier and less time consuming.

"A shelterbelt planting will not take care of itself any better than will a crop of cotton," the official concluded. "Clean cultivation is an absolute necessity. There can be no compromise. Good cultivation produces a neat appearing, thrifty shelterbelt. Poor, half-hearted cultivation means stunted trees and no cultivation is no trees and unsightly weed patches."

George Sitter, Noted Cattleman, Dies Friday

George W. Sitter of McLean, owner of the Bar-Lo Ranch in this county, and one of the outstanding Hereford breeders of the southwest, died in an Amarillo hospital Friday morning, April 18. He was 85 years of age, and had been a rancher in this area for more than 30 years.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, from the First Methodist Church in McLean, where he had attended services for many years. In charge of the rites was Rev. L. M. Brown, pastor, assisted by Rev. Jack Myrose, Presbyterian pastor.

Although he made his home at McLean, and was not a frequent visitor in Wellington, Mr. Sitter was widely known over the county. He was one of the first men in this county to raise quality Herefords, and with his son-in-law, Jake Hess, who has managed the Bar-Lo for a number of years, he had built a reputation not only as a raiser of fine cattle, but he was equally well known for his absolute honesty toward all those with whom he had stock dealings.

Mr. Sitter was a native of Illinois, and there he grew to manhood. He was graduated from Ewing College in Illinois, and afterward taught school four years.

Sixty years ago, he and Mrs. Sitter were married. They continued to make Illinois their home until they were of middle age.

When Mr. Sitter was 56 years of age, he sold his property in his native state and came to Texas, buying the Bar-Lo Ranch seventeen miles southeast of McLean. He had been reared on a 400-acre farm, but his ranch in Texas eventually consisted of 37 sections.

Mr. Sitter worked earnestly toward the improvement of cattle in this area. His own herds are recognized throughout the United States, and for almost fifteen years, the calves from his ranch have gone to a single buyer in Illinois. Men who had known Mr. Sitter during the years he had lived here, have only praise for his dealings with his associates and all others with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Sitter was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. George W. Sitter of McLean, a son and daughter, Evan Sitter of McLean, and Mrs. Jake Hess of the Bar-Lo Ranch, and seven grandchildren.

Burial was in the McLean cemetery.

This March 12, 1941, Ennis Favor's Speech in Lower House of Texas Legislature.

On March 17th, 1941, 66 members in Lower House of Texas Legislature voted for "Bill 322" which would have added sufficient aid for old Pensioners in Texas.

A copy of Gov. O'Daniel's speech is now before us. This copy gives real truth. It gives names of all who voted for said Bill. Ennis Favors, Our Representative from Pampa, was absent at that special time when he was most needed in Lower House to vote aid to old Pensioners. We repeat: The records in Texas Capitol and in Gov. O'Daniel's speech prove that Ennis Favors was absent on March 17th, 1941 and did not vote on said date for "Bill 322."

We are not interested in a discussion about Gov. O'Daniel's 3rd Term. That alarming failure to vote on March 17, 1941, to aid old Pensioners in Texas, proves that Ennis Favors our Representative dumped old people of Texas at a critical time.

COFFEE AND CHEESE FOR GOOD CHEER

Friends to the very end, coffee and cheese are inseparable as the favorite finish of any meal. Other delightful foods and food ideas will be demonstrated at the 2-day Cooking School to be held in Wellington this week.

Present-Day Meals Must Be More Than Tasty

Raburn To Furnish Food

Vegetables, meals, and other foods to be used in the 2-day cooking school in Wellington Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19, will be furnished by the Raburn Grocery, it was announced early this week.

"These foods—everyone of them—will be the same as those that Wellington and Collingsworth County housewives buy every week for their regular meals," it was pointed out. "It is one thing to see lavish meals prepared with foods which the average homemaker uses only occasionally, but it's an entirely different matter to see delicious and healthful

Admiration Coffee Will Be Served

Believing that "coffee helps to make the meal complete," Mrs. Beulah Pearl, foods expert, will include that beverage in the foods prepared at the two-day cooking school in Wellington Friday and Saturday.

One particular brand will be served, however—Admiration Coffee, put up by The Duncan Coffee Co. of Houston, a nationally known firm with its headquarters here in Texas.

"But even a good coffee must be made right," Mrs. Pearl points out, and some of the pointers which she offers for a good cup of coffee are:

Always use the correct quantity of coffee. Two level tablespoons or one heaping tablespoon for each measuring cup suits the average taste.

Make fresh coffee every time you serve it. Coffee that has been

School Will Use 1941 Gas Ranges

Many Wellington women have already announced their intention of attending all sessions of the two-day cooking school which opens next Friday afternoon, April 18, at LeDerer Hardware Store in Wellington. The classes are sponsored by the LeDerer Hardware Co. and the United Gas Corporation, and conducted by Mrs. Beulah Pearl, home service adviser of the United Gas Corporation.

All arrangements for the school have been completed and plans have been made to take care of an unusually large crowd, according to F. C. LeDerer, owner of the LeDerer Hardware. The most attractive 1941 model CP gas ranges have been obtained for the cooking school and will be demonstrated by Mrs. Pearl. She will point out their many time, fuel and money saving features.

There are many other fuel and old style gas ranges in use in Wellington today that should have been replaced long ago with new and modern gas ranges, according to Mr. LeDerer. These old ranges have no insulation, no automatic lighting top, no heat control and many of them are in need of repairs, he pointed out. "We want Wellington and Collingsworth County women to see and recognize the tremendous difference between the 1941 CP Gas range and old-fashioned stoves," Mr. LeDerer said.

"We want the Collingsworth County housewives to know all about these marvelous developments," continued Mr. LeDerer. "That is why we are presenting these demonstrations. We hope every homemaker will attend the sessions on both Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19."

PLAYS HOST

F. C. LeDerer, owner of the LeDerer Hardware Co., will be host to the women of this city's trade territory at a cooking school sponsored jointly by his firm and the United Gas Corporation on Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19.

MRS. BEULAH PEARL

foods expert, will conduct a Cooking School at the LeDerer Hardware Co., Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19.

"It's Easy To Be A Good Cook," Says Mrs. Pearl

"It's easy to be a good, thrifty cook," said Mrs. Beulah Pearl, who is to conduct the cooking school that is being held in LeDerer Hardware Co. under the sponsorship of that store. "Modern cooking methods take the guesswork out of baking, broiling, roasting, and even top-of-stove cooking," she added.

"Modern CP cookery preserves Nature's precious minerals and vitamins in foods for better health," she said. "Today's mothers know that what one eats is equally as important as the quantity or taste. Meals must be more than just appetizing—they must also be well planned and well cooked. Dietary specialists have discovered new and important things about food—what is necessary to give children strong and healthy bodies, and to protect and maintain the health of grown-ups as well. The past few years have witnessed remarkable developments in the science of nutrition.

"So Mother's responsibility for the meals for her family is twofold. First, of course, and this certainly hasn't changed, everything must be cooked to look and taste as appetizing as possible. That creates a desire for food and gives assurance the children will eat with gusto the portions put on their plates. Second, the food must be cooked properly to retain the maximum amount of nutritive value and be easily digestible.

"The Certified Performance Gas range, with its specially designed burners for speedy cooking and simmer adjustments for low temperature cooking, the control for maintenance of accurate oven temperatures, and the quick-heating broiler, is a cooking appliance one may have the utmost confidence in for perfect cooking results.

"As an example, the method of cooking vegetables is frequently the source of many questions. As everyone knows, vegetables are important food, for they are especially rich in minerals and vita-

Homemakers Are Invited To Attend Sessions

A two-day cooking school is to be held in Wellington Friday and Saturday, April 18 and 19, under the auspices of the LeDerer Hardware Co. and the United Gas Corporation. This school will be conducted by Mrs. Beulah Pearl, home service adviser of the United Gas Corporation, and will be held at Mr. LeDerer's store, and will begin each day at 2:00 p. m.

Wellington homemakers are invited to attend the classes and see the latest developments in modern cooking, according to Mr. LeDerer.

"Mrs. Pearl is recognized as an authority on up-to-date meal planning and preparation and we know she will present interesting and instructive demonstrations," he added.

"We hope that the women of Wellington will take advantage of this splendid opportunity to obtain new ideas and information on the recent methods of scientific cookery.

The latest model CP gas range will be demonstrated at the school by Mrs. Pearl. She will talk about the many ways this modern range can be of service to the homemakers and will show how modern cookery saves time, fuel and money in the home today.

"Modern CP cookery," says Mrs. Pearl, "features the unlimited heat control that makes waterless cooking and slow roasting possible. This modern way of cooking permits food to retain all of the healthful, body-building vitamins.

"Among the specific types of cooking that will be carried on for the audiences attending the school will be 'waterless' cooking of vegetables, broiling, baking and various types of top-of-stove cooking. Modern kitchen methods," Mrs. Pearl said, "are great time

Average Kitchen Is Stressed

"Many a woman has gone to a cooking school and come home to say, 'Why, if I had a kitchen like that, I could do all those things as easily as the teacher did, too.' And that is just the reason that in our cooking school, only the equipment which the modern, average housewife has before her will be used in the demonstration," said F. C. LeDerer, who with the United Gas Corporation in Wellington is sponsoring the cooking school here Friday and Saturday. "True, the equipment used will be late in model and modern in design, but it will include none of the intricate material which in actual life is to be found only in the most elaborate kitchens.

"We feel that in order for our school to be practical, we must conduct it with the same equipment which the women of our town will use when they go home to put into practice what they have learned at the demonstration," Mr. LeDerer concluded.

meals prepared from the foods you have at your finger-tips day in and day out."

The quality of food goes far toward success in cooking, it was pointed out, and only food of this type is included in the demonstration.

"Mrs. Average Housewife often feels that if she could only buy her food in some city, she could have variety and 'spice' in her meals, but let me assure you that right here in Wellington, you will find foods that equal in quality, appearance, and variety, those which you could find in a much larger town," Mrs. Pearl advised.

source of many questions. As everyone knows, vegetables are vital considerations, for they are especially rich in minerals and vitamins; nutritionists always advise at least two generous servings a day for even the most modest budgets. There is only one way to make sure of the right amount of the nutritive elements in vegetables. That is to cook them in a way to conserve these elements.

"For this reason, many people have selected 'waterless cookery,' or cooking in a small amount of water, for vegetables. Since many of the minerals and vitamins are soluble in water, they take this means of conservation," said Mrs. Pearl.

"With the simmer adjustment on every burner of the CP gas range, this type of cooking is possible without danger of burning or fear that the vegetables will 'cook dry.'

"And what is more, the vegetables cook with the minimum quantity of fuel.

"We hope that Wellington homemakers will all attend this important all-gas cooking school and see the 1941 gas appliances in actual operation. These demonstrations are held for the purpose of showing the latest developments in scientific homemaking and there is no obligation on the part of those attending."

savers for the busy housewife. Automatically controlled oven temperatures eliminate constant watching of roasting and baking. Heat control of top burners that will allow slow cooking on the simmer burner or fast 'hurry-up' cooking on the giant speed burners, do away with the constant vigil necessary when out-moded ranges are used. These features alone will save many hours of the housewife's time.

"We want Wellington housewives to know all about these marvelous developments. That is why we are presenting these demonstrations here on April 18 and 19, under the sponsorship of the Lederer Hardware Co. and the United Gas Corporation, and we sincerely hope every Wellington homemaker will attend this school," Mrs. Pearl added.
