Defector seeks asylum in U.S.?

Soviet fighter plane eyed

TOKYO (AP) — Experts have looked over the Soviet MIG25 fighter plane flown to Japan by a defecting Soviet air force pilot, Japanese officials reported today, but they refused to say whether American intelligence officers were among them.

U.S. authorities refused to comment, referring all queries to Washington. But it was assumed that the Americans would get a thorough examination of the plane before the Japanese government returned it to the Soviet Union.

The plane landed Monday at a small airfield in Hakodate, in northern Japan, and the pilot reportedly said he wanted asylum in the United States. In Washington, the State Department would say only that the matter was under consideration.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said in Paris today that the United States "will probably grant asylum" to the pilot. "If we do not, you can assume I have been overruled," he said. Kissinger has been meeting with various European leaders on the brewing racial confrontation in southern Africa.

One Japanese source with good official connections said he heard that the plane might be moved by ship from Hakodate to the U.S. air base at Misawa, in northern Honshu, the main Japanese island.

Officials of the Japanese Defense Agency said they were primarily interested in the supersonic jet fighter's electronic firing control system. Experts from Tokyo and the Japanese Defense Force base at Chitose, near Hakodate, flew Monday to the Hakodate landing site.

Other Western embassies in Tokyo indicated keen desire to examine the plane. The British air attaché was reported to have gone to Hakodate to try to get a close look at the craft.

The MIG25 has been kept largely under wraps by the Soviet Union, but it is believed to be Russia's most advanced jet fighter and capable of flying at 1,600 miles an hour.

The pilot of the plane was identified as Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29. Defense Agency officials said he was flown by police helicopter from Hakodate to an airbase at Chitose, near Sapporo, and then was taken by Japanese armed forces jet transport to the Iruma base near Tokyo.

Kyodo, the Japanese news agency said Belenko told police he had been planning to escape to the United States for two years because "there is no freedom of life in the present Soviet society."

The Soviet government demanded the return of both the pilot and the plane, and the Soviet Embassy in Tokyo asked to interview the flier.

First VA hospital patient dies here

The first patient to be admitted to the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, July 17, 1950, is dead at the age of 51.

James A. Waters died 9:35 p.m. Friday at the VA Hospital following a long illness. Services were held 11 a.m. Monday at the Bailey Funeral Home in Clyde. Waters had been a resident of Clyde before being admitted to the VA Hospital on July 21.

Mr. Waters was born in Wedowee, Ala., in 1925. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1943 in Birmingham, Ala., and fought in three campaigns on the Marshall, Einwetok and Kwajalein Islands during World War II.

He survived each campaign without a scratch, but was severely injured in a freak accident which occurred in Hawaii during a period of rest and rehabilitation. A bullet from a .45 cal. pistol, accidentally fired by a tent-mate, hit Waters in the back paralyzing both of his legs.

Complications from the accident led to frequent hospitalization for Waters through much of his life.

Survivors include his mother, Lara Waters of Clyde.

Viking 2 hunts life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists say that if Viking 2 finds organic molecules when it sifts Martian soil they will be convinced that life exists on the red planet.

The Viking 1 space probe seems to have been telling about the discovery of life for the past few weeks, Dr. Gerald Soffen, Viking's chief scientist, said Monday. But he said its experiments failed to produce any of the carbon-based, or organic, molecules which are found in every living thing on earth.

The lack of organics is "the single argument against biology (life)," Soffen said. "I would have said, 'That is life,' but that organic is holding me back."

If Viking 2 comes up with organic molecules, "that would do it for us," he said.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here thought they might find organic substances on Mars, but they were unprepared for the discovery of what apparently seems to be life-harboring soil that contains no organics. They have described Viking 1's findings as "tantalizing, but inconclusive" and "bizarre chemistry."

Ford remains in White House

Carter stumps in East

With the presidential election two months away, Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter stumped through the East for votes today while President Ford, emphasizing his incumbency, kept a high profile in the White House.

Carter told a college audience in New York that urban policy in the Nixon and Ford administrations has ruined city neighborhoods. He accused Republicans of paying only lip service to the people who live in those neighborhoods.

Carter began the second day of his fall campaign for the White House by telling Brooklyn College students: "Tight money, shrinking paychecks and a stagnant housing industry are some of the saddest products of the Republicans' disastrous economic record."

The Democrat opened his battle Monday with a sharp attack on Ford, labeling him a latter-day Herbert Hoover and blaming the Republican party for a myriad of economic woes that Carter claims the Democrats will cure.

Ford stayed in the White House, bypassing the traditional Labor Day campaign start to take care of business, chide Congress for not completing work on a major tax-revision bill, give a television interview and prepare for his own campaign start next week.

While Carter continues a five-day whirlwind opening tour that carries him today from New York to Connecticut to Philadelphia, Ford plans more distinctly presidential activities today, including ceremonies at which he will sign bills providing aid for child day-care centers and for victims of the recent Teton Dam disaster in Idaho.

Ford let surrogates, including Sen. Bob Dole, the GOP vice presidential nominee, carry his banner and answer the criticisms Carter levied Monday on the front steps of Franklin D. Roosevelt's "Little White House" in Warm Springs, Ga.

Dole crossed paths with Carter later Monday at a stock car race in Darlington, S.C.

Carter's running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, spoke Monday at labor rallies in Ohio and California. He charged in a Barberton, Ohio, address that Ford's economic policies have "betrayed" U.S. workers.

Starving dog eats infant

NEW YORK (AP) — A mother who left her five-day-old daughter alone with a starving German Shepherd while she went to get money for food returned to find the baby dead, partially eaten by the 15-pound dog.

The woman was charged with negligent homicide. The dog was destroyed.

"I left the baby on the floor with the dog to protect it," the dog ate my baby," Joanne Bashold, 24, told police Monday when they arrived at her barren sixth-floor walkup apartment in Spanish Harlem.

Miss Bashold, who is unmarried and has lived on welfare since moving here from Ohio in June, was jailed overnight. She faced arraignment today in Manhattan Criminal Court.

The dog, a four-month-old female whose ribs protruded visibly, was destroyed for examination of its stomach contents to verify that it killed the baby. Police said the dog hadn't eaten for at least six days before the attack.

Miss Bashold gave birth to the baby, Carra, at Bellevue hospital on Wednesday. Authorities said she told them her pregnancy resulted from a rape that she never reported to police.

She returned Sunday night to her two-room apartment. The only furniture was a wooden folding chair and a brown rug folded in half on which mother and baby slept. The dog slept nearby.

A welfare worker had promised to give her a crib today, she said.

On Monday morning, Miss Bashold said, she left the apartment alone at 7 a.m. to pick up some belongings from the hospital, including $20 in cash with which to buy food for herself, the baby and the dog. The refrigerator in the apartment was empty.

Neighbors in the tenement said later that as far as they knew, she wasn't friends with anyone in the building.

When she returned 1½ hours later, Carra was dead, her tiny body torn, blood on the muzzle of the dog. Miss Bashold said she rushed down into the street to telephone police.

"It was the most shocking thing I've ever seen," Officer Al Dwyer said. "I felt outraged that something like that could happen."

Congress to tackle change in tax laws, defense funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — With election day drawing closer, the 94th Congress is trying to complete work on remaining legislation and get home early for a full month of campaigning.

The priority items remaining on the agenda include extension of the federal revenue-sharing program, revisions of the tax laws, and approval of a defense spending bill.

Returning today from a Labor Day recess, the Senate was scheduled to resume debate on an antitrust bill. A final vote on the measure is set for Wednesday.

The House isn't due back until Wednesday, when it will take up revisions to the Clean Air Act.

A Senate-House conference committee is expected to complete action this week on tax law revisions. The committee's report should reach the House and Senate for action next week.

A key provision of the tax bill would extend $15 billion in individual income tax cuts through next year.

The congressional leadership is aiming for adjournment by Oct. 2, a date that would give members of Congress a full month to campaign before the Nov. 2 election.

The overwhelmingly Democratic Congress and its record for the past two years have become a major issue in President Ford's campaign.

Speed, drinking triggered deaths

By The Associated Press

Taking no holiday, tragedy rode hard on Texas streets and highways during the Labor Day weekend.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported 47 traffic deaths during the weekend—well above the 36 which state police had predicted for the period. The tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Monday.

Altogether, there were 60 violent deaths in Texas during the weekend. DPS Director Wilson Speir blamed speed and drinking as key factors in the rash of traffic deaths.

Herberto Morin Pena, 29, of Alice died in a traffic crash near Alice late Monday. A traffic mishap Monday near Smithville killed Mary Ann Urban, 39, of Austin.

An unidentified man burned to death in an traffic crash Monday night in Irving.

A crash 12 miles north of Amarillo claimed three lives Sunday night, giving the traffic toll a late upward boost. Officers reported cars driven by Lorraine Pool, 40, of Fritch, in the Panhandle near Lake Meredith, and Manuel Olivas, 38, smashed together broadside after one of the vehicles veered onto the wrong side of the road.

The crash killed Mrs. Pool and her husband Durwood, also 40, and their daughter Jada, 8. The Pools' son Todd, 13, and nine Amarillo residents in the other car suffered serious to critical injuries.

These were among other holiday deaths:

Dennis Wayne Edwards, 25, of Houston, was killed while walking along a road in Harris County early Monday.

A one-car accident on U.S. 87 south of Dumas claimed the life of Thomas Steinke, 24, of Dumas.

Officers said William Sperry died when his motorcycle collided with a truck early Monday in Dallas.

Marvin Hutchison, 52, of Holly Springs in East Texas was killed Monday when the house he was tearing down fell on him, police said.

Holiday deaths hit 476 mark

CHICAGO (AP) — The death toll on the nation's highways for the three-day Labor Day weekend was 476, 69 more than died during the same period last year.

The number of fatalities exceeded the predictions of the National Safety Council, which had estimated that from 260 to 460 persons would die in automobile accidents.

The Associated Press count covered the period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday and ending at midnight Monday.

Last year, 407 persons died in Labor Day weekend traffic accidents. The highest number of deaths for a Labor Day weekend came in 1969, when 688 persons were killed on the roads.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Tough row to hoe

Q. Why does the city refuse to cut the weeds surrounding the tennis courts and in the park area adjacent to the Dora Roberts Community Center? It's a disgrace to have weeds in our parks. It reflects on our city leaders.

A. A city official said, "After every rain, we suddenly have weeds everywhere. The area near the tennis courts is a particularly troublesome area because there are a lot of bushes which the Garden Club ladies definitely want to remain. We cannot go in with heavy equipment, but it must be cleared by hand hoeing. We try to have park workers clear weeds throughout the city in an alternate order. Everybody thinks the lot next to them or next to their Little League field or next to a swimming pool or next to the golf course, or next to whatever activity they participate in, is the one with the most pressing need. The city cannot afford to hire as many workers as are needed and we get to each area as quickly as possible."

Desegregation opposition fading

Classes resume after bombing

By The Associated Press
After a Labor Day weekend marked by a bus bombing and a school bombing, students returned to classes today in Louisville, Ky. In three other large cities, schools opened with new moves toward desegregation apparently meeting little opposition.

Officials in Milwaukee, St. Louis and Omaha, Neb., predicted a peaceful first day with no demonstrations anticipated as they tried out plans to improve the racial balance of their classrooms.

There was some protest around the country among teachers — but over contracts, not racial integration. In Buffalo, N.Y., on Monday night, teachers defying court injunctions voted by a 2-1 margin to strike and said they would picket all schools today. Classes for the city's 54,000 public school pupils were to begin Wednesday.

Teachers in Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., were scheduled to take strike votes today, and strike deadlines were set for later this week in districts in Oregon, Tennessee and Rhode Island.

A National Education Association spokesman said there could be more trouble ahead because more teachers' contracts remained unsettled than usual.

"Tight money and all of the factors which led to a record number of teacher strikes for the 1975-76 school year are the same," said Terry Herndon, association executive director. "And the incredible number of unsettled contracts — some 2,200 — could result in more strikes later if settlement is not reached."

In Louisville, the FBI helped investigate a Monday morning bombing that caused minor damage at an unoccupied Male High School. Police said they "could only assume" the blast was related to the opposition to court-ordered busing that prompted three antibusing demonstrations in the past week.

The blast tore a radiator from a wall, ripped a hole about two feet in diameter in the floor and damaged walls and a ceiling.

Monday night, police arrested two juveniles and charged them with littering after they tried to set fire to a pile of automobile tires at an antibusing demonstration that drew 15 to 20 persons.

The arrests took place at the same spot where police used tear gas Sunday night to disperse 200 unruly antibusing demonstrators who had earlier taken part in a peaceful protest of about 800 persons.

Milwaukee's integration plan is based on voluntary

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Dr. Claude Craven officiating.

Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park. He was born May 14, 1902 in Fort Scott, Kans., and transfers, and involves busing and transfer of about 6,600 of the 110,000 students in the city's 158 schools.

The district has established 19 specialty schools, designed to give students incentives to leave their neighborhoods to attend classes.

Milwaukee's school enrollment is about 34 per cent black, and about 90 per cent of the transferred students are black. Some 32,500 students will be attending racially integrated schools.

The integration plan stems from a suit filed in the 1960s on behalf of a group of black and white children. A federal judge ruled that Milwaukee's schools were segregated and ordered work on an integration plan.

Police beat

Burglars, thieves work overtime

While Big Springers rested over the Labor Day weekend, burglars and thieves worked overtime.

F. P. Adams, 3206 Auburn, reported that sometime Sunday night burglars pried open the ven window of his car to get to his CB radio.

Stolen along with the CB was a seven-foot-long whip antenna. Total loss was estimated at $190.

James Dubose, Sterling City Route, reported the loss of a 130-dollar CB around 9 p.m. Monday. Dubose told police that he had parked his pickup in the parking lot of Malone-Hogan Hospital for 20 minutes, and when he returned the radio was gone.

Richard Knous, 607 George, reported the theft of a CB antenna from his car sometime Monday night. The antenna was valued at $30.

Two other local men were luckier, and narrowly managed to save their CBs.

Pete Sanderson, 1305 Barnes, chased two men away from his car at five o'clock in the morning Monday. When he checked his auto, he found the vent window broken but the CB untouched.

Claude Ray, 1308 Lexington, ran off a man dressed in a T-shirt and cut-off jeans who was in the process of breaking into Day's car around 9 p.m. Monday. The vent window of the car, which was parked at Mae's Sunflower Lounge, was broken. Damage came to $30.

Mrs. Martinez

Services for Mrs. Basilla Martinez, 87, who died Sunday at 8:25 a.m., in a local hospital, were held at 10 a.m. today in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, with the Rev. James F. Delaney officiating. Burial followed in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

LAMESA — Services for Rosa Luna Luna, 16, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at St. Margaret-Mary Catholic Church with the Rev. Jerome Vitek, pastor, officiating.

Burial will occur in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Miss Luna died at 8:26 a.m. Monday at Lubbock Methodist Hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident Aug. 21 at Lamesa.

She was a lifetime Lamesa resident and student at Lamesa High School. She was a Catholic.

Survivors include her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Luna of Lamesa, two sisters, Maria Alicia Luna and Maria Elena Luna both of the home; a brother, Antonio Luna Jr. of the home, and her grandmother, Mrs. Ricardo Luna of Lamesa.

BY THE DAWNS EARLY LIGHT — Ninth-grade students from the south Omaha Chandler View area and a few parents await the buses that will take the students to the Martin Luther King School approximately 10 miles away. The busing of 9,300 students started peacefully, with the main complaint of students being the early arising time.

Mexfair 76 seen as major test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria arrived in San Antonio today to open the largest foreign trade show in his nation's history.

Mexfair 76 is seen by some financial experts as a major test of last week's sharp devaluation of the Mexican peso.

Echeverria was met at Kelly Air Force Base here by San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell, Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe, other dignitaries and a crowd of about 350. An Air Force band played the Mexican national anthem.

Echeverria then attended a brief airport reception before leaving for a luncheon in his honor.

He was to officially inaugurate the Mexfair 76 trade show at 3:30 p.m. today.

The peso, which for 22 years was exchanged at 12.5 per U.S. dollar, was freed to float in the world money market in an effort to shore up Mexico's economy.

Late last week, the peso was being exchanged at a rate of about 20 per dollar, a rate which officials here said might spur sales at Mexfair 76 since dollars would buy more Mexican goods.

Mexfair, which was first held on an experimental basis in 1972 when sales were $1.6 million, is a major effort by Mexico to expand exports to the United States and reduce its balance of trade deficit with its northern neighbor.

Sales at the fair have jumped from $17 million in 1973 to $80 million last year.

And, with American dollars buying more pesos, many officials here predict sales this year will reach past $100 million.

The United States is Mexico's chief trading partner, with more than 60 per cent of Mexico's exports going to the United States. Conversely, 60 per cent of Mexico's imports come from the United States, Mexican trade figures show.

Weather

Flash flood threat

Rains heavy enough to pose flash flood threats hit the southeast part of West Texas today.

A special watch was posted by the National Weather Service near daybreak in reporting the development of rain-laden thunderstorms along and west of the Pecos River.

Radar spotted severe thunderstorms scattered across a broad stretch of countryside embracing points in or near Alpine, Sonora, Guthrie, Brownfield and back to Alpine. Some of the worst boiled through an area west of Snyder and Sweetwater.

Light rain or thunderstorms popped out in the east half of the Panhandle-Plains sector as far south as Lubbock, farther south near San Angelo and along the coast around Galveston.

Skies were partly cloudy to clear in other sections and light winds fanned the state, mostly from the southeast.

Sunny and warm weather was forecast for most areas along with widely scattered thunderstorms.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 77 degrees at Del Rio on the Mexican border down to 61 at Amarillo in the Panhandle. Top marks Monday hit a peak of 97 at Alice and Cotulla in the south.

Senator labels action 'an outrage'

Four newsmen jailed for protecting source

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a former reporter, says the jailing of four newsmen for protecting a confidential source is "an outrage."

Cranston, who covered Europe as a news service reporter in 1937-38, joined 100 reporters from various parts of California in a demonstration outside a courthouse here Sunday. The jailed newsmen, from the Fresno Bee, were jailed indefinitely on Friday.

"I first learned in Nazi Germany what happens when you lose freedom of the press," said Cranston. "I think it is an outrage that these four and others have to go to prison to protect the First Amendment rights of all of us."

Superior Court Judge Hollis Best sentenced the newsmen to indefinite jail terms in hopes of coercing them into revealing the source of material they published in January 1975 from a sealed grand jury transcript.

Bee attorneys argued that open-ended sentences are improper because the newsmen have vowed never to talk. But Best refused to hold a hearing on that point before they served some jail time.

Sunday's 45-minute march was quiet. Some marchers wore tee shirts that said "Free the Bee Four" and several carried picket signs with such slogans as "Write On" and "Silence is Golden."

Cranston said "courageous newsmen and brave sources who risked much led to the end of the Vietnam war and revelations of Watergate."

He said he has been trying to reverse U.S. Supreme Court restrictions on protection of confidentiality.

The newsmen — managing editor George Gruner, ombudsman James Bort and reporters William Patterson and Joe Rosato — sent their colleagues a message of thanks.

Cranston said he visited the four, who were jailed after 20 months of appeals. "Their spirits are high," he said. "They are deeply concerned about the issue that caused them to be jailed."

In a telephone interview, Rosato said the four were still getting adjusted to the small apartment with two double bunk beds.

"Everything is so new to us," he said. "We're just finding our way around, which is not too difficult because we can't go anywhere."

Three persons in one family killed in collision

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A collision killed three persons in one family and injured 10 other motorists 12 miles north of here late Monday night.

Officers listed the dead as Durwood Pool and his wife Lorraine, both 40, and their daughter Jada, 8, from Fritch, in the Texas Panhandle near Lake Meredith. They reported Mrs. Pool was driving the family car.

The Pools' son Todd, 13, was brought to an Amarillo hospital in critical condition.

Nine members of two Amarillo families in the other car suffered injuries described as serious to critical. Officers said Manuel Olivas, 38, was driving the second vehicle, which was towing a boat on a trailer.

Authorities said the Olivas automobile veered across the center of Texas Highway 13, both swerved trying to avoid a collision and they crashed.

GREYHOUND LINES, INC.

the world's largest intercity bus company, opened the fall travel season today by announcing a sensational selection of money-saving fares.

Greyhound wrote the book on savings. They have a whole array of new low fares and a host of other travel plans which have proven over the years that bus travel is the most economical way to travel. And they put them all together in a "Greyhound Savings Book" which resembles the familiar bank passbook, giving the traveler a clear, concise look at the numerous bus fares available covering families, friends, veterans, clergy, servicemen and the handicapped — to name a few.

Some of the more significant savings offered by Greyhound this fall are:

• Reduction in cost of Ameripass (Greyhound's unlimited travel ticket). In addition to the savings already available on the 15 day Ameripass for $165, Greyhound will reduce the cost of its one month Ameripass to $225, and its two month Ameripass to $325 on Sept. 30.

• Reduced round-trip fares. Greyhound has sharply reduced the cost of round-trip tickets between 185 American city pairs, making bus travel, in many instances less than half the cost of regular air coach fares.

• "Take-A-Friend" fare. This innovative fare, which is exclusive to Greyhound Lines, applies to two or more people who can commence their travel on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday of each week. This plan applies to persons who travel round-trip together on routes where the regular one-way adult fare would be $10 or more. Each pays full fare on the going portion but only half fare or the return. Friends, relatives, businessmen and groups all qualify.

Helping Hand Service for the Handicapped. This program provides that a handicapped person who needs assistance boarding, exiting and traveling by Greyhound can take along a companion to provide such assistance at no extra cost. All that's needed is a doctor's statement confirming the person is handicapped and needs a companion's assistance. Non-motorized wheel chairs are carried at no additional cost.

• Savings Galore. A potpourri of other savings and benefits of travel by Greyhound: other reduced fares, group savings, low cost insurance, clergy discounts, military furlough, Slumber Stop, liberal stopover privileges without additional cost, liberal baggage allowances and more.

All Greyhound fares have a traveler in mind, and these selected plans reflect the needs of passengers. Greyhound is fiercely competitive with all other modes of transportation and in many cases are more convenient and accessible to residents of downtown areas as well as suburban or small town locations.

This is the most exciting and economical travel program that has ever been offered to the traveling public. By putting all money-saving ideas into one convenient "Savings Book", Greyhound has taken the confusion out of the numerous fares and promotions currently being offered to the traveling public by various public transportation carriers.

The traveling savings books are available for the asking at all Greyhound terminals. Most of the new lower fares are effective immediately. Additional savings ideas will be available within the next few weeks.

Wind damages Spence marina

ROBERT LEE — Y. J.'s Marina at Lake E. V. Spence near here was damaged during a storm which hit the area Monday afternoon.

The front porch and porch roof of the marina, which belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Y. J. Sherrill, were ripped away and carried to a hill behind the marina.

Mrs. Sherrill said she saw no funnel cloud but the wind sounded ominous.

The marina, a prefabricated structure, sets back about 400 feet from the water. The porch was not an integral part of the building.

No other damage was reported in the area.

Colorado River Municipal Water District officials said rainfall in the Spence Lake Thomas areas had averaged about one inch over a 24-hour period, with no runoff.

"It was a rancher's rain," Owen Ivie, general manager of CRMWD said, meaning that most of the moisture went into the ground.

Selection begins

GARDEN CITY — Jury selection began this morning for a civil suit in 118th District Court.

Student reading level very low

A recent Gallup Poll showed that almost half of the high school graduates in this nation cannot read a traffic ticket.

This is only one of a number of startling problems of reading which have been brought to light lately.

A COUPLE of areas of this country have passed laws requiring high school graduates to be able to read before receiving their diploma, although the reading level required of the high school graduates ranges from fifth grade to ninth grade.

There are many possible reasons for the inability of so many of this new generation to read, but the most likely one is the effect of a group of kids raised in front of a television set.

This problem has very serious implications in a democracy if the trend is allowed to continue for several decades.

Educators across the country are struggling to cope with the most difficult problem of teaching the TV generation to read.

One of the approaches that is being used in many areas is that of the "Newspaper in Education" program.

The program involves bringing newspapers into the classroom as a reading tool. It sometimes seems to work because teachers find it easier to involve students in reading a newspaper than a textbook. With a newspaper, the students can read at their own level from comics for slower youths to editorials for good readers.

Every student can find something to interest him or her in a newspaper from sports for the boys to advice columns for the girls.

LAST YEAR, the Big Spring Herald joined with schools in this area for a "Newspaper in Education" program, and the second year of this program will get under way with a Saturday, Sept. 18, seminar for teachers at Howard College.

The Herald would like to invite every teacher in this area who thinks he or she might be interested in the program to the morning seminar.

No one is certain what can be done to help beleaguered teachers trying to help this generation to read. In a broad sense, reading cannot be taught; it must be learned. Unless a student can be motivated to read on his own, his reading level will never be very high.

But in many cases it has been demonstrated that the "Newspaper in Education" program can help.

Ford stopped it

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

First, let me make one thing perfectly clear: Richard Nixon was a Republican and still is.

THEN, I want to make something else perfectly clear:

Gerald Ford was made President of the United States by one man, Richard Nixon, and Ford then pardoned Nixon.

The Republicans had a chance to make all that unimportant as far as the November election is concerned, but they didn't.

They could have had a new face to put up against the Democrats' new face, Jimmy Carter.

A race between Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter would have been a classic. Neither man is tainted by a political scandal and neither is a member of the "Washington establishment" powerful attractions for voters.

But, the GOP selected Gerald R. Ford as its nominee. He's a good man, but a man who made the wrong decision to pardon Nixon.

FOR INSTANCE, if Ford did accept the vice presidential appointment after Nixon made him promise to pardon him, then he's unqualified to be President because in my mind, he accepted a "bribe."

If Ford's ascension to the White House was completely legitimate, then the fact still remains that he pardoned Nixon of his crimes, leaving the Watergate question open, making the Watergate questions a fair issue.

At the convention the Republicans made it a point of saying that Watergate is over and that Democrats were dragging "bones out of the closet." But the truth is Ford kept Watergate alive when he prevented the fair trial of all people evidence shows may have been involved.

I don't really believe that Ford took the office under the stipulation that he pardon Nixon, but the possibility remains.

But what I know is that President Ford prevented the once-and-for-all settlement of the Watergate issue preventing the due process of law to run its course.

Button plan works

Art Buchwald

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

One of the things everyone has to worry about these days is the danger of an accidental war being set off with nuclear weapons. The best-selling book "Fail-Safe," by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, deals with this problem when a group of American bombers have gone past their fail-safe point and, because of some foul-up in a little black box, the bombers haven't gotten the word to come back. They are scheduled to blow up Moscow. To show the Russians it's all an accident, the President of the United States blows up New York, even though his wife is there on a shopping trip.

BUT THERE is another school in Washington that insists there are so many safeguards on atomic weapons that even if someone wanted to fire on he wouldn't be able to do it.

Here is how this school sees it. In order to start a war, someone will have to push a button. To safeguard that no one will push the button accidentally, it is hidden every week in a different spot.

Only two people, both low-ranking military officers from different branches of the armed services, know the location of the button — but they don't know each other. Each has the authority to push the button when ordered to do so from higher up. But if both their thumbs are not on the button at the same time, it will not work.

Now let us support, by some stretch of the imagination, both men accidentally meet at the same location at the same time and both decide to push the button at the same time. This does not automatically start World War III. When the button is pushed, all it does is turn on a green light in the bombproof, radiation-shielded, underground shelter in a secret place near Cheyenne, Wyo. The shelter is manned by an enlisted WAC and an enlisted WAVE, each of whom has a key to a white Princess telephone. As soon as they see the green light, they dial a secret number in South Dakota and say, "Condition Green."

THIS INFORMATION is passed on to the quartermaster of the base, who immediately tries to contact Washington. But since he doesn't have the area code number for Washington, he can't dial directly. So he sends the message by carrier pigeon. This is known as "Condition Red."

As soon as the pigeon arrives in Washington, the secretary of defense is notified, and he in turn informs the President.

But the President cannot give the signal to do anything about turning a switch and there are seven locks on the switch. Each member of the President's family has a key to one of the locks and the switch cannot be pulled unless all the locks are opened at the same time. Since the family is never in Washington all at the same time, it is virtually impossible for the President to pull the switch.

Therefore, the chances of an accidental or even an intentional war are remote and shouldn't give anyone any sleepless nights. If it weren't for all these safeguards, I'd be worried too.

Lump under knee can be Baker's Cyst

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About two years ago I asked my doctor about a lump at the back of my right knee. He said it was a Baker's cyst and not to do anything about it unless it bothered me. It has started to bother me now.

Will you explain what a Baker's cyst is and how it is treated? — Mrs. E. O.

It's a swelling of a bursa located in the back of the knee. A bursa is a tiny sac that facilitates joint movement. A cyst of this kind can result from injury or arthritic changes in the knee.

Usually the only symptom is the swelling, but it can become sufficiently large to cause discomfort or become a cosmetic problem. The word "Baker's" doesn't mean bakers get this. It's named for a British surgeon who first identified it. It is usually treated conservatively, but if it becomes necessary the fluid can be drawn out, although it usually will return afterward. Hydrocortisone injections have been helpful. If this doesn't help you, surgery to remove the entire cyst may be needed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have rheumatoid arthritis. I have been on gold shots part of the time. What are the side effects of these shots? Also does having arthritis make your eyes sore? — T.T.Y.

Gold salts are an effective treatment for rheumatoid arthritis. In fact, it is one of the few which have withstood the tests of time. More on this later.

Your statement that you have been on them "part of the time" implies you have not had prolonged or continuous treatment. The idea in gold salt therapy is to build up a sufficient amount of the substance in the body so that the arthritis will subside. This often takes months before relief is felt.

Gold is given only with close supervision.

You should be aware of adverse effects. Rashes, sore mouth and tongue are not uncommon. The red and white blood cell count and platelet level should be watched carefully. It has been suggested that the effect of gold therapy is greatest when treatment begins early in the onset of arthritis. In any event, it is by no means a universally effective treatment, only one that has had some success.

To your other question, yes, arthritis can involve the eyes, usually in the form of iritis (inflammation of the iris).

I suspect that like so many arthritis sufferers you are floundering, searching for the elusive cure-all, although control would perhaps be a better goal. I suggest you see an eye specialist for a thorough eye examination. You should also be seeking an adequate control program along with your gold therapy.

I'm sure there are many books in your public library on arthritis. My own booklet, "How to Control Arthritis," discusses the gold therapy along with other treatments. It might clear up some confusion about it. If you'd like a copy, send 35 cents to me in care of The Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hope I'm correct in assuming that you always use initials of the persons writing to you when you answer in the paper. Recently I signed my name to a letter which could be embarrassing to a member of my family. — Mrs. D. W.

Your anonymity (except for initials) is assured, Mrs. D. W. It is a fixed rule not to use names. Incidentally, some folks ask me to use their names. I don't.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can some foods make your urine burn? — R. A.

Foods are rarely a factor in this. Burning usually results from a bladder or kidney infection which has spread to the penis area.

Having said that, I must add that some older people have complained of having a burning after drinking coffee or tea. That should be investigated.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — it could be dangerous.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: The story in the Bible of Jacob struggling with God has always fascinated and puzzled me. What is the meaning of it? Why did Jacob limp after the struggle? — Mrs. A. F.

DEAR MRS. F.: Jacob, the son of Isaac and grandson of Abraham, was called by God to be one of the early fathers of the Jewish nation, through whom God would send His Messiah, Jesus Christ. However, Jacob was a wily, scheming, self-centered man who sought to live his own life with little thought of pleasing God. He had been blessed with a godly heritage, and he knew of God's plan for him, but he stubbornly went his own way for years.

However, Jacob discovered that he could not run from God forever. The time came when Jacob struggled with God, as told in the incident you mentioned (Genesis 32:24-32). The prophet Hosea said, "He strove with the angel and prevailed, he wept and sought his favour" (Hosea 12:4 Revised Standard Version).

This "angel" or "messenger" of God, some scholars think, was the Lord Jesus Christ. As He wrestled with Jacob, Jacob's thigh was permanently crippled; it would always remind Jacob of his new commitment to God. Jacob asked God for His blessing also, which indicates his new determination to live for God. His name was also changed to Israel.

This passage teaches us that we cannot flee from God forever. God wants to bless us and change our lives, just as He did for Jacob. We may struggle against Christ, but when we turn to Him and accept Him as our Lord and Saviour, He will forgive us and save us.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: I have been rather wayward, or reckless, maybe both. Will try to make this short and to the point. The Howard County sheriff is a good man, I'm sure, in his own way.

This is my personal experience in the county jail here in September 1971. I experienced my first heart attack. I had a second one in Denver, Colo., October 1974.

Sheriff (A. N.) Standard and Mr. Reese, jailer at the time, were paged and the remark by the sheriff was startling to me. "Well, he is subject to these spells."

Now it isn't only your sheriff but all over our land. They are cold-blooded. If you die in jail then they will simply drag you out of the cell block and may call a relative.

Horace W. Snider
1109 West Third St.

Dear Editor: I am a new member in the PeeWee Football League at Marcy Elementary School. We are practicing at the Little League park at Webb AFB.

We are told by our coaches that we would try to have our games at Blankenship Field, which would be lighted very well and fenced in. We were later told we could not play at Blankenship Field. Why is that?

With it getting dark early in September and October, we would like to have some light while we play.

Roddy Fair
3617 Connally

Editor's Note: PeeWee football this year is not sponsored by the schools but by friends of the sport. The schools are cooperating with officials of the fledgling league by offering use on a practice field on the Howard College campus. The facilities at Blankenship Field simply would be taxed beyond the limit if PeeWee games were played there, too, as I understand it.

Preparations for nuclear attack top target of CD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is requiring states and localities to limit their use of federal civil defense funds to preparations for nuclear attack rather than for natural disasters such as floods, hurricanes and tornadoes.

The new requirement is a change in emphasis from the approach instituted in May 1972 by then-Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, which called for dual civil defense planning covering both natural disasters and nuclear attacks.

Although matching funds to state and local civil defense agencies will be limited beginning Oct. 1 to preparation for enemy nuclear attack, federally supported civil defense equipment and personnel can be used when natural disaster strikes.

The dual approach is being de-emphasized to cut costs, as indicated by the Ford administration's proposal earlier this year for a $71-million civil defense budget, down $21 million from fiscal 1976.

However, the new policy is not expected to bring a significant cut in the amount of federal money going to the states, cities and counties to support civil defense organizations because Congress turned aside the administration request and appropriated $82.5 million in the new year.

Congress also has allocated $29.6 million, the same amount as in fiscal 1976, for 50-50 matching of state and local funds for civil defense programs for the new 1977 fiscal year.

In addition to the $29.6 million to help pay salaries of some 6,000 state and local civil defense personnel, the civil defense agency has programmed nearly $10 million for emergency operating centers, communications equipment and warning systems.

expected to gear their disaster planning activity to the potential of enemy nuclear attack, with the knowledge that communication and warning facilities and personnel also can be used for peacetime rescue operations if natural disaster strikes.

"It is a matter of emphasis," one official said. "We are going to insist, as we must under the law, that our (federal) money be used for nuclear attack preparedness, and that benefits in natural disasters flow from that, rather than the other way around."

The civil defense program currently concentrates on "crisis relocation planning" for moving people from high-risk areas near military bases and cities that are prime targets for nuclear attack.

Another civil defense objective is to protect those persons who are not evacuated by providing "the best available shelter" where short warning time precludes relocation.

Four men to be cited at Tech alumni dinner

Two engineer-executives in the petroleum industry, a major general in the United States Army and a longtime Lubbock general surgeon will be recognized as "distinguished alumni" at 10th annual ceremonies at Texas Tech University Friday.

The two engineers are Howard H. Hinson, president and chief executive officer of Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., of Dallas; and Dr. Dysart E. Holcomb, vice president of research and development for Pennzoil Company of Shreveport, La.

Maj. Gen. Richard E. Cavazos, director of the Inter-American Region of International Security Affairs, office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense; and Dr. Ewell Hung, general surgeon with the firm of English, Hung and Upshaw at West Texas Clinic in Lubbock and associate clinical professor of surgery at Texas Tech University School of Medicine, are the other two recipients.

The four men will be cited for their achievement at the 10th annual Distinguished Alumni Dinner at 7 p.m., Sept. 10, in the University Center Ballroom.

The public is invited to the dinner and ceremonies at the cost of $5 per person. Tickets may be purchased from the Ex-Students Association on the Texas Tech campus.

Dr. Hunt was graduated from Texas Tech with a B.A. degree in 1929 and is the earliest graduate from the university to become a medical doctor.

A 1951 graduate of Texas Tech, Cavazos took his B.S. in geology into the Army by way of his ROTC training at the university.

A 1937 chemical engineering graduate, Holcomb has moved from oil company engineer to Purdue University associate professor, from industry technologist to Texas Tech's dean of engineering and from president of what is now the University of Texas at El Paso to director of research for another oil company, Pennzoil.

Hinson earned a bachelor's degree in geological engineering from Texas Tech in 1934 and a master's degree in geology, also from Texas Tech.

He retired from an executive position from Conoco in New York in 1966 and later opened an office as an international petroleum consultant in Houston before assuming his present position with Texas Pacific Oil Company.

CAPPING GODZILLA'S TEETH — Godzilla, a 155-pound Simian chimpanzee at the Lion Country park in Newport Beach, Calif., is checked by veterinarian Dr. Donald E. Dooley as the ape had four teeth filled and the nerves capped by dentist Dr. John H. Thompson, now shown. It was believed Godzilla's dental problems had caused him to be "mean, irritable, antisocial and grouchy," and had been picking on other chimps in the compound. Godzilla was only partially sedated, anesthesia being very risky in animals, and had to be handled very carefully.

No more loafing

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It's all over folks, the reign of rest is now behind us, replaced by the dynasty of demand of do-it-now-and-don't-dally.

Labor Day is done, and now we get down to brass tacks. No more loafing, except for a wistful sigh about how did it go so fast. This is the busy season.

All the business conferences that should have been spaced throughout the year are now crowded onto the calendar. Everyone is inviting everyone else to something or other. School begins. Politics get mean.

The car dealers announce the new fall models. The advertising departments plan their budgets. The new TV shows begin. Magazines get thicker. Middle management execs plan their big move up the corporate pyramid.

Baseball refuses to give up the calendar and football makes Xs all over it. The weather too gets busy and confused, chilling World Series fans and scorching those at the homecoming game.

Only the oldtimers can enjoy the Indian Summer laziness at the resorts, intentionally taking their vacations when others weren't avoiding the crowds, the confusion and the high costs.

But back at the office and plant it's all business. The memos said from one department to another. Guilty from a summer of sailing and golf, the president directs a crisp demand to the chief financial officer, and that begins the chain that ends with you. Noses get closer to the desk.

It is a fearsome season of the unexpected. Urgent reminders the boss left unattended all summer suddenly become the subject of frantic demands that usually begin, "Whatever happened to..." But you've forgotten, of course.

Your spouse calls. The children need new gym uniforms. Is there any money in the checking account? Of course there isn't, it was all spent during the summer. Yes, you'll do what you can at lunch time, a loan or something.

Bell's action downright tacky, Sen. Clower says

DALLAS (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s recent $298 million rate increase request can be reduced if the new Texas Public Utilities Commission's applies proper regulatory practices, says Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland.

"If they (the commission) go in and carefully scrutinize that request and apply proper regulatory practices, they will dramatically trim that request," Clower said. "Bell on the face of it has asked too much money."

Clower, a key state senator in the creation of the commission, says the legislature will be watching closely how the commission handles Bell's rate hike request.

The commission's results "will determine our future posture toward utility regulation in the state," said Clower, who is chairman of the Senate subcommittee on consumer affairs that played an important role in creating the utilities commission in 1975.

Clower also said the way Bell submitted the request was "downright tacky." "On the very first day, the very first hour, they dumped a truck load of material on the commission," he said.

Tavern owner beaten,

MARIETTA, Okla. (AP) — Heavily armed law enforcement officers stormed the encampment of about 150 motorcycle gang members on the east shore of Lake Murray late Sunday after the owner of a local tavern allegedly was chain whipped.

Love County Sheriff Wesley Liddel said eight persons were arrested and marijuana, chains, seven pistols and a shotgun were confiscated.

Three of those arrested were placed in jail on complaints of assault and battery. The others were being held for illegal possession of firearms inside the park, he said.

The sheriff said the gang, calling itself the Rogues, reportedly was staging a rally of members from Oklahoma, Texas and surrounding areas at the lake.

He said Frank Stribbling, owner of a nearby tavern, allegedly was chain whipped by about a dozen persons. Stribbling was listed in fair condition Monday at Ardmore Memorial Hospital with multiple lacerations and bruises.

The highway patrol said its Ardmore office received a call about 5 p.m. Sunday saying an officer was needed at the tavern and the owner had been beaten up.

PUBLIC NOTICE

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 99)

H.J.R. 99 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to increase from $100 million to $200 million the aggregate principle amount of Texas water development bonds which may be issued and outstanding by the Texas Water Development Board to provide grants and loans for water quality enhancement purposes as established by the Legislature.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"A constitutional amendment to increase from $100 million to $200 million the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued for water quality enhancement purposes."

Industrial arts rapidly growing field

Industrial arts embraces many fields. Among those offered by Howard College are machine tool technology, welding and drafting. Machine tool technology is a rapidly growing field within the Occupational Education Division. Clifford Hale is the instructor and has many years of experience. Four basic courses are offered and more programs are in the making along with plans to expand existing ones.

Al Long, the instructor in welding, has built one of the best welding programs in West Texas. He has over 30 years of experience in the industrial arts area. He teaches basic welding with gas and arc in the beginning courses. Working with more exotic metals are introduced in the higher level classes. Pipe welding, tig and mig welding are just a few areas of emphasis in the welding program.

As a supplement to other industrial programs or as a separate field, drafting is an area that can be of use to almost anyone in the industrial field. Norman Backs is the instructor in drafting.

The industrial arts have become so necessary because industry is demanding more and more technical personnel to fill the many high paying jobs. These people are expensive to train, but with training acquired in vocational schools, they are employable immediately without the extra time needed for training.

Degree earned by Klampfer

Degrees were awarded to 1,109 University of Northern Colorado students at summer commencement ceremonies Saturday, Aug. 14.

Delivering the charge to the 331 undergraduate and 778 graduate degree candidates was the Hon. Samuel Martinez, director of the community Services Administration in Washington, D.C.

The graduates included: Horace J. Klampfer, 1205 Runnels St., Big Spring.

Appliance survey

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent survey of electricity users shows there is little significant difference in the use of electrical appliances between income groups.

The study, conducted by General Public Utilities Corp., showed that virtually all families have combination refrigerator-freezers, but more low income than high income homes use electric water heaters. Room unit air conditioners are owned by 28.5 per cent of low income families as compared with 44.4 per cent for high income families. The greatest spread was found in the ownership of color TV, with 56.8 per cent of the less wealthy owning them, compared with 83.7 per cent of more wealthy families.

Drug woes of aged grow

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The drug problems of the elderly are a growing concern of doctors, according to Dr. Wenell Lipscomb, a Berkeley psychiatrist.

Some older people abuse mind-altering drugs in an attempt to escape from loneliness and boredom. Others are unintentional victims of the "spaced-out grandma" syndrome — peculiar behavior resulting from the interactions of drugs prescribed for the ailments of old age, he says.

The "spaced-out grandma" syndrome is apt to develop, Lipscomb says, when patients are over-treated for the multiple conditions common in old age, such as sleeplessness, high blood pressure, arthritis and mood swings.

The problem is apt to arise when doctors prescribe multiple prescriptions for these ailments, producing in the patient's system a cocktail of different drugs which can cause strange behavior.

Texas prison inmates' files must stay secret?

AUSTIN (AP) — Paul Cromwell popped his hand against the thick file of a prison inmate who had been denied parole and declared that its contents— if revealed—could cause a murder.

"One reason he was denied was the protests in his file... This man was sent up for literally beating a man to death... If we were to tell him who they (the protesters) were, I would not want to be one of those people," said Cromwell, a member of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

This potential danger to persons who give the board written evaluations of prisoners, parolees and ex-convicts is the chief rationale for the law making most of the board's files secret.

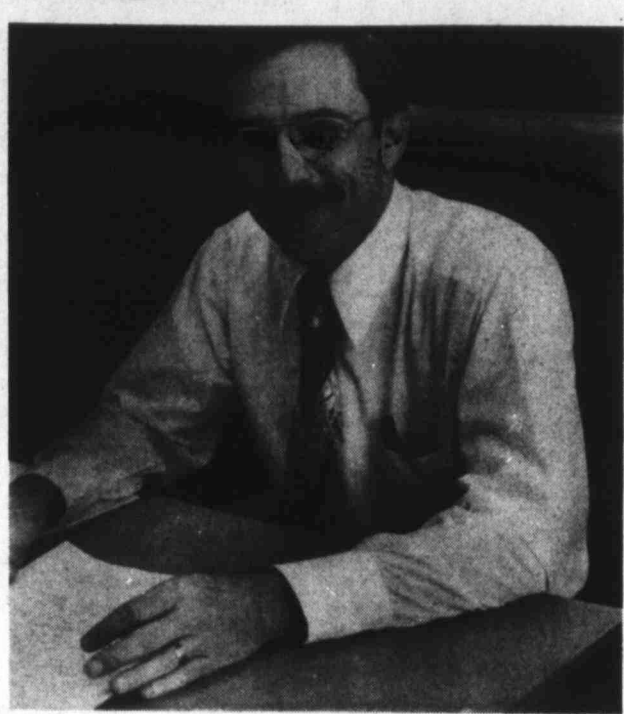

But there's another side, raised by a Dallas Times Herald article suggesting that Joe D. Hicks, now jailed in Fort Worth under a federal conspiracy indictment, won a pardon for past felony convictions in 1972 with the aid of Odessa Dist. Atty. John Green. The Odessa American reported that Green had been Hicks' guest that year on a gambling trip to Las Vegas.

Green said in answer to questions that he might have written a letter to the pardons and parole board recommending a pardon for Hicks, who later was pardoned by then-Gov. Preston Smith.

"I could have and I could not have" written such a letter, Green said.

Following the law, the pardons and parole board will not say whether there is such a letter in its files.

"I think it ought to be a matter of record who recommended his pardon... I just think the people ought to know who recommended him for a pardon," said John Sloney, city editor of the Odessa American. Sloney noted that five years before the pardon was granted, the Texas Department of Corrections classified Hicks' chances of rehabilitation as "very poor."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

A NEED TO KEEP THE RECORDS SECRET — Paul Cromwell, a member of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles, feels there is a need to keep parole records secret. One of the main reasons is the potential danger to persons who give the board written evaluations of prisoners. There is another side to the story as certain facts have come to light suggesting certain people may have taken advantage of the current policy.

Before recommending a pardon or parole to the governor, the board must seek the comments of the sentencing judge as well as the sheriff and district attorney of the county that sent a prisoner to Huntsville. And they are bound by law to give the board any information they might have about the person.

Hicks was never sent to prison from Odessa. He settled there and opened a bail bond business after his release from prison, Sloney said.

Green, therefore, was not required to make any comment one way or another on Hicks' request for a full pardon.

Under a 1967 law virtually everything in an inmate's or parolee's or ex-convict's file is confidential "and shall not be subject to public inspection." Exceptions are what Cromwell calls "commitment information," such as name, county, sentence, offense, sentencing date and date of parole, if any. Also open to the public are the board's minutes, showing how each member voted on each case.

The reason the bulk of a file is confidential is not to protect the privacy of lawbreakers but the safety of those who evaluate them, Cromwell says.

These include parole officers both inside and outside the prison, district attorneys, sheriffs, judges, prison officials and private citizens who write letters concerning offenders.

"When we get positive letters there is no problem. But suppose a man asks for a pardon and the DA says he committed a heinous offense and the people don't want him back in the community... Suppose the man is not entirely rehabilitated. That district attorney's life and his family could be in danger," Cromwell said.

"In most instances, we are dealing with people who have violence in their background, who are capable of committing violent acts..."

"I want the district attorney and the sheriff to feel comfortable in calling in and saying, 'We don't want him back. We sent him up there to serve some time.' I think he needs that ability to communicate with us privately."

Granted the need to protect officials and citizens from revenge, what about letters and reports favoring a parole or a pardon?

Aside from the arbitrariness of saying favorable documents are open but unfavorable ones are not, Cromwell said the result might be less candor.

Take the case where an elected official believes sincerely that an inmate should be paroled and says so.

"Suppose this information got out. His political op-

Paraplegic

WILSONVILLE, Ore. (AP) — Although he is a paraplegic, Ron Gill, 29, plans to navigate the open seas soon in a sailboat he built.

Gill said he will sail suspended over the deck from a tilted mast and utilizing "a sailing system I've been developing for paraplegics during the past three years."

"It does not include the traditional boom," he explained, "because that could swing around and sweep me off the boat."

Gill, whose legs have been paralyzed since he was run over by a motor vehicle when he was four, said he will be accompanied on his around-the-world trip by a crew of a few friends.

ponent next time could use it against him," Cromwell said.

Cromwell says he would like to see the board's minutes and all data in offenders' files made confidential as well but he doubts this idea would get through the legislature.

Disclosure of votes on pardons and paroles "could be potentially dangerous to a board member or a commissioner," he said.

"Commitment information" is readily available in county cour-thouses, he said. Culling it from the confidential data in a file takes board employees away from more important jobs, Cromwell believes.

He remains angry at Citizens United for the Rehabilitation of Errants (CURE) for tying up a board executive for weeks pulling more than 4,000 records, sorting out the public coding and interpreting coded minute sheets.

"That resulted in a two-or three-week delay in some people getting out of prison," he said.

Campaign caper set Sunday

With focus on America's Presidential election year, the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will hold a Campaign Caper from 2-4 p.m. September 12 at the home of Gloria McCombs.

The fall Campaign Caper will celebrate a milestone in women's history: the right to vote, and commemorate the success of the suffragette movement which won this political freedom for women in 1920.

ABWA Enrollment Events are held semi-annually to introduce ABWA and the local chapter to business women in this area. Throughout this period similar events will be held across the country by more than 1,300 other ABWA chapters.

Mrs. Pratt honored at various functions

Miss Elizabeth Ross, bride-elect of James L. Pratt, was honored September 2 at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. A. J. Statser.

Other hostesses at the shower were Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Mrs. H. C. Ernsting and Mrs. H. C. Perry.

The table was laid with a white embroidered cloth and centered with silver and crystal tiered containers with yellow daisies and mums.

Jennifer Ross registered guests.

September 3 Miss Ross and her fiancé were given a rehearsal dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Pratt for members of the wedding party and immediate family.

The table was set with yellow pom-pom mums centered with stalks of wheat.

A brunch was given the day of their wedding Saturday September 4 in honor of the bridesmaids. Hostess for the brunch was Mrs. Curtis Driver. Guests were seated at one large table covered with a green cloth and centered with yellow mums and an eggplant.

Anita Hobbs honored

A rehearsal dinner was held September 3 at the Western Sizzler for the former Miss Anita Hobbs and John Cline. The couple was married Saturday September 4 in the Cedar Ridge Church of Christ.

The dinner was given the couple by the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cline. Members of the wedding party attended.

Pageant contestants never alone

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A contestant is never, never alone at the Miss America Pageant.

Until Bert Parks gets them next Saturday night, all the contestants belong to Mrs. Mildred Brick, her 90 hostesses and 50 chaperones.

They stick to their charges like glue, 24 hours a day, during an interview or bedded down in a Boardwalk hotel, from the moment they arrive at Convention Hall here until they leave next Sunday.

Hostesses, who are usually well-to-do women from this resort's suburbs, and chaperones, who are representatives from a contestant's home state, together function as maid, driver, guide, roommate, confidant, pageant official and bodyguard.

Sister Paula Crowmover demonstrates one of the exercises she teaches in her yoga class at Our Lady of Lourdes Roman Catholic Cathedral here. Blames Abby for losing her man

DEAR ABBY: I know you'll never print this, but I just want you to know that your advice has ruined one life. Mine.

Ten years ago I was going with Paul, a guy I really loved. He wanted me to go all the way with him, and I really wanted to, but I had it drummed into me that I should save myself for marriage, so I wrote to you for advice. You told me that if I lost Paul because I wouldn't give in, he wasn't worth having.

Well, Paul met another girl who gave him what he wanted, and he married her. They've been married for eight years and have a great marriage.

If I had given in to Paul, he'd have married me instead. I'm married to a nice guy, but I still love Paul and always will. I wish I hadn't taken your advice. Thanks for nothing.

SORRY

DEAR SORRY: When a girl asks me if she should go all the way, I advise against it on the theory that she lacks maturity to handle that kind of relationship, or she wouldn't be asking.

P.S. How do you know how "great" Paul's marriage is? And how can you be sure he would have married you had you given in?

DEAR ABBY: I am a diabetic and should not have sugar. My problem is how to stay on my restricted diet, and still enjoy some kind of social life.

I belong to a club and a church circle, and the refreshments they serve are loaded with sugar. I've been eating the refreshments, even though I know I shouldn't, because I don't want to advertise the fact that I'm diabetic, and I feel awkward refusing refreshments while everyone else is eating.

I don't know how to handle this situation. I suppose the simplest solution would be to stay away from the meetings, but isn't there another answer?

DIABETIC

DEAR DIABETIC: Your problem is being embarrassed about a condition over which you have no control. You need not "advertise" it, but you could let your hostess know in advance that you can't tolerate sugar. You are foolish to hide it, and even more foolish to go off your diet and upset your sugar level.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused to see in your column the letter from "TRAVELIN' MAN" who said that years ago, bums and drifters would stop by the back door of the undertaker's to try on used choppers for size. You replied, "Recycled dentures? You're puttin' me on!"

Abby, he was not puttin' you on. Back in the 30s, there was a general merchandise store in Barnhart, Mo., (20 miles south of St. Louis) that featured a washtub full of used dentures for sale. People would come in and try them on for size—germs and all.

The store has since burned down, but I can vouch for the fact that there was such a place.

THROUGH the fieldglasses

By Danny Reagan

Gremlins surfaced their oily little heads in Sunday's sports section. One of them had the last name Reagan, I'll admit, but where the others flew in from I have no idea.

First of all, I should have mentioned early in the Steer story that the final score was Andrews 21, Steers 6. Okay, that's mine, but I don't know how the final sentence in the story evolved as it did.

The correct wording should have been "The Steers... left the field to prepare for their game with Hobbs next week, saddened by defeat, but assured that they can play football."

Also, the Jim Baum joke punchline should have been "Pardon me Baum, is that the cat that chewed your new shoes?"

Speaking of the Hobbs Eagles... the season home-opener for the Steers should be some contest. I talked with Head Coach Don Robbins, and head scout Don Childs about the game this Friday, and they express all the respect in the world for the New Mexico team.

Hobbs scrimmaged Permian, and gave the MOJO their pre-season money's worth. Hobbs' biggest threat, according to the local coaches, is the ability to run the highly-effective wishbone offense (triple option).

The Eagles are a good-size ball club, and "they can move the ball real well," said Childs. They use their big people on offense (e.g. 237-pound and 225-pound tackles, and a 193-pound "warhorse" noseguard) to try to get the ball outside.

Indications are that the Steers will have to do a better job reinforcing the corner to turn the wide plays inside.

"It's hard to compare Andrews and Hobbs," said Childs, "because Andrews had a super quarterback, and Hobbs has all good solid football players, and is a consistent ball club."

Even though the Steers will have a tough one on their hands Friday night, one of the coaches said that "there are a few things on offense that we should be able to hurt them with."

Coach Robbins pointed out "mental errors on offense and defense" as the difference in the outcome of the game against Andrews last week.

"We stopped ourselves twice when we could have scored," said Robbins, "once on a delay-of-game call, and once on a 15-yard holding penalty."

The point is well-taken. As impressive and over-powering as Booger Brooks was, the Steers were driving deep into Mustang territory a couple of times and could have scored easily, but for technical difficulties.

Wilkins finishes second

Hall wins golf tourney

Mike Hall pieced together a 70 to win the Big Spring Country Club golf championship for the third time Monday afternoon, beating a former titlist, Dan Wilkins, by three strokes.

Hall originally entered the throne room in the club meet as a 17-year-old.

Chuck Rizzo fired a 72 to capture championship consolation honors.

Omar Jones and Brent Womack tied for first place in the first flight, each with a 77. Jones then won the "sudden death" playoff on the first extra hole.

Jack Cook emerged triumphant in first flight consolation with a closing 74.

Earl Archer beat out Bill McLaughlin for second flight honors. Archer posted a 78 Monday while McLaughlin settled for an 84. J. Y. Robb was the consolation winner in that division with an 82.

In third flight play, Ray Williams was the winner with an 83 Monday, beating out Ron Medlin by a single stroke. Consolation winner was Ed Springer, who had a 90.

Howard Schwarzenbach was the wire-to-wire leader in the over-50 or Seniors flight. His 54-hole score was 207. Bud Pickett was the runnerup with 210 while Jasper Atkins was third, five shots off the lead.

In ladies' play, the winner was also determined in medal play. Bernice Jordan had the best final day score with a 95.

Medelined Atkins registered the low net over 36 holes with 194 and the low gross with 142.

Second low net was won by

MIKE HALL

Jane Jones, who had 143. Mrs. Jordan had a 196 for the second low gross.

World Series of golf no longer a TV show

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus says the World Series of Golf is no longer a mere television show.

"The old World Series was always a challenge, knowing you were playing the other players who had the Majors," said Nicklaus after winning the first revamped Series Sunday with a five-under-par total of 275 at Firestone South.

"But you didn't have the atmosphere of a golf tour-namment. You had the atmosphere of a television show," said the man who won four of the old Series, 36 holes in two days for $50,000 first prize.

"The new tournament has the air of all the players. It's something significant and special when you get that air. It makes you play harder," he added.

His rivals would agree Nicklaus played hard in the four days of the new Series, whose field was increased five-fold and purse quadrupled to $300,000. Nicklaus won $100,000.

Of the first tournament with the new qualifying, he said, "We started off with a good one. We had a representative field of world golf."

Hale Irwin, the $50,000 runnerup with 279, echoed Nicklaus' sentiments. "I think the World Series as we now have it is a great improvement. We have most of the best players. For the first year, it's been highly successful," said Irwin.

Outspoken Dave Hill, who earned $20,000 for finishing third with par of 280, added, "It's a nice tournament, but I have to think of it as a glorified Tournament of Champions. It's an honor to play in the Series."

Not one of the other players invited this year criticized it.

Nicklaus now has career earnings of more than $2.8 million and 60 official tournament victories. He ranks first on the all-time money list and No. 4 in tournament triumphs behind Sam Snead (84), Ben Hogan (62) and Arnold Palmer (61).

Jimmy happy over serious tennis at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — They're starting to play serious tennis at the U.S. Open and that's fine with Jimmy Connors.

"If you're going to beat me it has to be in the first round," said Connors. "That's the way I feel. I think I'm the man to beat now."

No one beat Connors in the first round and no one beat him in the fourth round either. Connors, strong and aggressive, overpowered 12th-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis Monday night 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 to move into the quarterfinals.

The straight-set loss capped a bad day for the Gerulaitis family. Sister Ruta was beaten in the afternoon in singles and the two of them were eliminated from the mixed doubles competition.

Connors' opponent in the quarters will be Czechoslovakian strongman Jan Kodeš, who outlasted South African veteran Frew McMillan 6-4, 7-6, 2-6, 7-6 in an afternoon match.

Third-seeded Guillermo Vilas and ninth-seeded Eddie Dibbs advanced to a quarter-final showdown with straight-set victories. Vilas dispatched Teimuras Kakulia of the Soviet Union

7-5, 6-4, 6-0 and Dibbs wore out Rhodesia's Colin Dowdeswell 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Both Vilas and Dibbs are clay-court specialists who prefer to stay in the backcourt. Their match could last forever.

"We have long matches," said Dibbs. "We both play the same so it will just depend on who's playing better that day. I'm pleased with my game. I just have to crack through in one of these big tournaments."

Oakland running despite Finley

By The Associated Press

Not all of the Oakland A's are running away from owner Charlie Finley. The green-and-gold clad gladiators are running at a record pace and making a race of the American League West Division.

Winners of five straight division championships, the A's have been running ever since Finley brought up a player whose only function was as a pinch runner.

Since then, pitcher Catfish Hunter has run to the New York Yankees, slugger Reggie Jackson has run to the Baltimore Orioles and several other players say they have shoes, will travel once the season ends.

Monday night, however, the A's were running in circles, something they have been doing consistently this season. Oakland swiped seven bases in their 11-inning 2-1 victory over the California Angels to run their season total to 297. That crumbles the old American League mark of 288 set by the 1913 Washington Senators. The National League record is 347 set by the 1911 New York Giants.

The victory moved Oakland to within six games of the West Division-leading Kansas City Royals, who suffered a 5-4 loss to Texas. The A's have picked up three full games on the Royals in their last eight games.

Rangers 5, Royals 4
A run-scoring single by Toby Harrah capped a four-run ninth-inning rally to boost Texas past Kansas City. With Roy Howell on first, Joe Lahoud and Juan Beniquez lined back-to-back two-out singles, scoring Howell. Dave Moates' pinch double off Doug Bird, 11-8, made it 4-4. Harrah's game-winning hit came off reliever Mark Littell.

Twins 3, White Sox 2
Craig Kusick's home run with two out in the ninth inning snapped a tie and lifted Minnesota to its victory over the Chicago White Sox. Twins reliever Bill Campbell hurled 12-3 innings to raise his record to 15-4, three short of the AL record for relief wins in a season and four shy of the major league mark.

Brewers 3-2, Indians 2-3
Dan Thomas' clutch double in the opener and John Lowenstein's hustle in the nightcap enabled Cleveland and Milwaukee to split a doubleheader. In just his fourth major league game, Thomas' ninth-inning double scored Darrell Porter to snap a 2-2 tie.

In the second game, Lowenstein scored from second base on a throwing error, lifting Cleveland to its victory. Lowenstein came home when Brewers catcher Charlie Moore grabbed a topped ball in front of home plate and threw wide to first. Home plate was left unprotected as Lowenstein sped all the way home.

Yankees 6, Red Sox 5
Graig Nettles' three-run homer paced New York past Boston as Doyle Alexander picked up his 11th victory in 19 decisions. Nettles' blast gave the Yanks a 6-0 lead before Boston routed Alexander and reliever Grant Jackson with two runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth.

QB Club meets at 7:30

The Big Spring Quarterback Club will hold its second meeting of the season tonight at 7:30 in the High School cafeteria.

Hopefully, the meeting will draw a few more fans than did the initial one.

The film of the Andrews' game will be shown, in addition to a comprehensive scouting report on the Hobbs' Eagles, the Steers' next opponent this Friday night in the home-opener.

The Big Spring coaches were shown the film of the scrimmage between Hobbs and Permian, and the resulting analysis of the contest will make an interesting highlight for tonight's meeting.

Head Coach Don Robbins encourages all Steer boosters and parents of team members to be in attendance.

Coffee and refreshments will be served.

Some undefeated some very winless

By The Associated Press

The records show that the Los Angeles Rams and Miami Dolphins finished the National Football League preseason with 6-0 records, and that the Philadelphia Eagles and Houston Oilers finished with exactly the reverse. But now-departed Miami quarterback Jim Del Gaudio put the statistics in perspective.

"I guess the record and 15 cents will get me a cup of coffee," he said Monday after the NFL had completed its final week of preseason play and he had been placed on non-recall waivers.

"Sure I'm disappointed about not winning any preseason games," added Oilers Coach Bum Phillips, "but the season starts next week and that's what is important."

The Dolphins closed their exhibition campaign with a 20-7 triumph over the New Orleans Saints Saturday night, with Bob Griese and 42-year-old Earl Morrall doing the signal calling.

The Rams trimmed San Francisco 10-3 to keep their perfect record intact, with defensive back Monte Jackson scoring the only Los Angeles touchdown and intercepting a fourth-quarter pass to break up a 49ers drive.

In the other Saturday night games, Dallas topped Houston 26-20 in overtime; Cincinnati downed Tampa Bay 24-13; Pittsburgh clubbed the New York Jets 41-6; Oakland beat Seattle 45-28, and San Diego trimmed the New York Giants 14-13.

Sunday, New England handed Philadelphia its sixth loss, 20-7 and Denver clipped Minnesota 30-17. Friday night, Buffalo bested Cleveland 28-10; Chicago nipped Washington 9-7; Atlanta outscored Green Bay 27-6 and St. Louis downed Kansas City 31-14.

Second-period scoring runs by Don Calhoun and Ike Forte lifted the Patriots, 3-3, over the Eagles, 0-6.

Denver, 5-2, turned two solid defensive plays into touchdowns in besting Minnesota, 3-3. Rookie Lonnie Perrin blocked a Vikings punt, recovered the ball on the Minnesota 29 and ran in for the score in the fourth quarter. Then Randy Gradishar ran 87-yards with a tipped pass to ice the cake.

The Cowboys, 3-3, came back from a 20-3 deficit and managed to win in overtime after Houston's Skip Butler missed a 28-yard field goal which would have won it for the Oilers with two seconds left in regulation. Dallas running back Scott Laidlaw scored three touchdowns, the last a 10-yard burst which won it.

ATURE IN DOUBT — Duane Thomas, earlier a star running back for the Dallas Cowboys, was cut this week from the roster of the team that he helped win the Super Bowl. Here, Thomas is shown in earlier pre-season action against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

AFC West It's all equalized now

KLAND (AP) — The lute could be the great lizer — or at least nt another runaway by akland Raiders — in the rican Football Con- ce West.

Several pre-season in- s, along with personnel ges which included the d retirement of 48-year- icker George Blanda eeks ago, don't figure ow the Raiders down uch as they go for ninth division title in 10 . They've always had depth.

at this year, we're g to the depth sooner e like," said Coach John len, who sends the ers against the Super champion Pittsburgh ers in the most ctive matchup of the nal Football League's ing weekend of games.

lback Marv Hubbard, sive end Horace Jones ffensive lineman Henry ence all have suffered ies which will keep out of games at least gh October. They'll a lot of travel.

er facing the Steelers 12 in the Oakland eum, the Raiders play straight road games ding three against their West rivals, the Kansas Chiefs, San Diego

Chargers and Denver Broncos.

John Ralston's Broncos play their fourth home game of the year Oct. 17 against Oakland, which finished 11-3 last year to runnerup Denver's 6-8. Another scheduling factor is that when expansion caused changes, the Broncos lost the strong Los Angeles Rams as 1976 opponents while the Raiders lost the weaker New Orleans Saints.

One of the NFL's newest teams, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers coached by John McKay, will be listed in the AFC West standings but they won't be playing the usual home-and-home series.

McKay traded with the San Francisco 49ers for Steve Spurrier, the former Heisman Trophy winner from Florida who has thrown more NFL passes than the quarterbacks running the Denver, San Diego and Kansas City offenses.

Steve Ramsey takes over for the retired Charley Johnson as Denver's No. 1 quarterback, hoping running back Otis Armstrong can return to his 1,407-yard form of 1974, after sitting out last season, and that the offensive line stays healthy.

Len Dawson, 41, is an NFL television sportscaster now and Mike Livingston and Tony Adams are battling for the Chiefs' quarterback job. Dan Fouts, starting his fourth pro season, is No. 1 at San Diego backed up by newcomer Neal Jeffrey who has had some sensational summer performances.

Oakland's Ken Stabler has been one of the NFL's top passers the past three years and has two of the most dangerous receivers in the game, Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch. Stabler also has had knee problems, such as on the day in Kansas City last season when the Raiders fell 42-10 to the Chiefs.

Bob Moore, starting Oakland tight end for three years, was cut unprotected in the expansion draft and is now one of Spurrier's receivers. But former San Francisco 49er Ted Kwalick, third-year player Dave Casper and versatile veteran Warren Bankston are still available.

"We have three good tight ends and we'll use all three," says Madden, adding that all three will be on the field at the same time in some situations.

The Raider's top college draft choice in the off season was Charles Phillyaw, a 270-pound defensive lineman who may see more action than expected because of injuries to Jones, Kelvin Korver and Tony Cline. But fifth-round pick Fred Steinfort from Boston College is getting more attention, since he's in the placekicking job which Blanda handled, often spectacularly, for nine years.

Oklahoma's Leroy Selmon, the top college lineman of 1975, and his brother Dewey figure in Tampa Bay's defensive plans. Their Sooner teammate Jimbo Elrod is being groomed at Kansas City to take over for middle linebacker Willie Lanier.

But one of college football's flashiest runners, Joe Washington from Oklahoma, may miss his rookie season with San Diego because of knee surgery. Until he was hurt last month, Washington was playing tailback alongside Charger's Don Woods.

"Joe Washington can do everything," said Woods, who gained more than 1,000 yards as a rookie tailback in 1974, missed most of last season because of injury and was switched to fullback this summer.

"So far, he looks like he's been running at fullback all his life," said Coach Tommy Prothro, who has acquired former Miami Dolphin Mercury Morris since losing Washington.

Several people around the NFL, including Oakland's Madden, are saying the Chargers should be one of the league's most improved teams this year because of promising young players like Woods, linebackers Dan Goode and Charles Anthony and defensive lineman Gary Johnson and Fred Dean.

Of course, it won't take much to show improvement after finishing 2-12.

DALLAS COWBOYS

LLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry gave ing back Duane Thomas, who once called Landry a stic man," 40 chances to carry the football in six eason games. Thomas gained 98 yards.

e club waived Thomas as the Cowboys reduced their d Monday to the 43-man roster required by the National ball League.

ndry said Thomas, once regarded as one of pro football's troublesome players, faced difficulties from the first of practice but not because of his attitude.

omas, drafted by Dallas in the first round in 1970, pulled mstring muscle running sprints the opening day of eason practice.

think there is a possibility he could have made the team had been able to practice," Landry said.

ers waived were running back Ron Johnson, acquired e New York Giants in the off season; rookie acker Charles McShane of California Lutheran, rookie er Bill Farris of Mississippi and defensive lineman Jerry rence, a second year man from South Dakota State.

e Cowboys placed rookie wide receiver Duke Ferguson in Diego State, wide receiver Percy Howard and rookie acker John Smith on the injured reserve list.

ey will join center Kyle Davis of Oklahoma in sitting out eason.

llas also traded placekicker Tony Fritsch to the San o Chargers for a future draft choice.

ter Monday's cuts, Landry said veteran backs such as nas and Johnson should be among the top four on the .

The top spots had been nailed down by Robert ouse, Charley Young, Doug Dennison and Scott law.

ndry said the fifth and sixth Cowboy backs should be ers who could also help out on the specialty teams.

omas returned to his home town, Dallas, after a four- absence when Hawaii of the World Football League d, and signed on as a free agent. He had helped the oys to the Super Bowl following the 1970 and 1971 ns.

omas did not get along with Landry and other members e team while playing with them in the early '70s and was ed.

om the Cowboys he went New England. But he would not it to the urine test and thus part of the trade was ted. He then was traded to San Diego, and never played 72. San Diego sent him to Washington, where he was used ightly. There he played out his option and turned to the . It was then that a friend, former Cowboy Pettis Nor- , quietly began negotiations for Thomas' return to as.

omas, moody and uncommunicative to team members the press during his stint here before, then showed up in ie this year, saying openly he would like to again play for owboys and that he had his head "screwed on straight."

Ordinary taxpayer winning more benefits
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Ordinary taxpayers are winning more benefits than they are losing as a Senate-House panel puts together a compromise tax-revision bill.

The final score may be known late this week, when members of the conference committee expect to finish the bill and send it to the House and Senate for one last vote.

Most issues concerning individual taxpayers were settled during the first seven days of the conference. Chief among these is a $15-billion-a-year tax-cut extension through Dec. 31, 1977.

Provisions generally affecting only taxpayers who earn more than $50,000 a year are the major points of contention remaining between the House and Senate conferees. There is some risk that if taxes on the rich are raised too sharply, the final bill could be in trouble in the Senate. But if too many tax shelters are left untouched, the measure could face rough going in the House.

Meanwhile, President Ford issued a statement Monday calling on Congress to approve a tax bill that meets the needs of all Americans.

"Unfortunately, Congress has become ensnared in rewriting of detailed provisions of the tax code and has failed to recognize the broad interests of the country," Ford asserted.

Ridin' fence

with Marj Carpenter

"Whoever that farmer was that said they didn't need any rain, tell him to send it over here to Fairview."

That's what one of the farmers said at the Fairview gin last Wednesday morning. This reporter was visiting some of the area cotton gins to see what happens at cotton gins when it isn't the harvesting season.

Well, I don't know what else was happening at the Fairview gin, but there was a group there sitting around drinking coffee and eyeing the overcast skies hopefully.

Many of the cotton gins serve as an informal gathering place or as an informal farmers club all year long. It's a place for farmers from particular rural areas to get together and compare crops, ideas on types of cotton, ideas on what's needed to be done next, and even a little bit of family gossip.

They also share each other's woes. If a hail wipes out most of the crops in the county, the farmers first jump in their pickups and go and look at their crop. They then go around and look at their neighbor's crops.

Next they go to the area gin and sit there drinking coffee in silence. Then they get up their courage and go into town to talk to their banker.

But fortunately, thus far, it hasn't been that kind of cotton season. So far, the rains have arrived just about the time they were desperately needed.

I went on next to the Big Spring Co-op gin where, like most gins, they are getting the equipment ready for the coming harvest season.

Everything has to be in top order by harvest season, or it's too late to worry about it.

Hereford men hurt in crash

A pickup collided with a concrete embankment and turned over 15 miles north of Big Spring on U.S. 87 this morning, State Trooper Ben Lockhart said.

While the driver, Tiodoso Almadarez, Jr., 20, was treated and released, his brother remained at the Malone-Hogan Hospital today with multiple cuts.

Pedro Almadarez, 29, and his older brother live at Hereford, Tex.

The driver said a tire blew out on the front of the pickup and he lost control.

Once the cotton trailers begin to pull into the yard, there's no let up until after the first of the year.

I went by to read the cotton prices on the teletype and a farmer named Lester Newton commented on the rain. "I've lived around here all my life. The rain is kind of crazy. Sometimes it will rain on one side of the road and not the other. In fact, sometimes, you can hold a shotgun up and it will rain in one barrel and not the other," he laughed.

When asked how many cotton gins there are in Howard County, one farmer "guessed around ten," and added, "There's three out this way on the Lamesa Highway, one in Coahoma, three in Knott, one out at Luther, one in Lomax and one in Big Spring."

Then he said, "All the counties around have them too. We all sort of pick a gin and stay with it unless something goes wrong. It's kind of important. You know you take about as much care as you would pickin' a doctor or a druggist."

One of the group looked at the sky and went back to the favorite subject of weather.

"We need just a little more rain. It's still dry enough in my field for choppers. I have some in there. I guess as soon as they get all the weeds out, it will rain and then the weeds will grow again. But if I don't get them out, they'll crowd out the cotton."

On, quipped another farmer, "You'd gripe all the way to the bank."

"No," said the first, "It would depend what I was going to the bank for..."

And that's the way it was — out at several areas cotton gins — last week when I was out ridin' fence.

BABY AND THE BEAST — Two-year-old Wendy Hallberg holds a day-old West African dwarf crocodile at Memphis' Overton Park Zoo. The crocodile was one of eight hatched at the zoo during the weekend. It was believed to be the first successful hatching of the West African crocodile in the United States. Seventeen eggs were laid June 9 and placed in a zoo incubator.

Postman's friend

MIDLOTHIAN, Va. (AP) — Postman Ralph Branch has unauthorized company each day as he makes his deliveries on a 10-mile route.

His buddy is a mixed-breed dog named Bullet who travels beside and in front of the mail truck as Branch delivers the mail.

"Every day," said Branch, "Bullet picks me up on Fritzburgh Avenue and follows me all day from the time I start until the time I stop — including lunch."

At the end of the route, Bullet sits and watches as Branch drives away.

Branch said the dog belonged to an area resident.

Snyder Walls plant open

SNYDER — Its conversion completed, the Walls Inc., plant has begun production here.

The Snyder plant is one of seven in Texas owned by Walls. The firm here is located in the former Aileen building in the 1700 block of Scott Street.

Donald Leight Finnell, 28, formerly of Big Spring, is manager of the Snyder plant. He is the son of Bill Finnell, one of the founders of the Walls firm.

Currently, the Snyder plant employs 23 persons. When the firm goes into full production, it will require the services of at least 52 people.

Walls, which also operates a plant in Big Spring, has its central offices in Cleburne. Walls was organized in 1946.

Other Walls plants are located at Clifton, Gatesville, and Sweetwater, as well as Big Spring.

Finnell said he foresaw the day when the Snyder plant will employ as many as 125 people.

"I'm trying to use less electricity this summer, so why is my bill still higher?"

UNDERSTANDING YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

We know your electric bill is probably higher this summer — a lot higher — than it was last year. Even though you're making an honest effort to conserve electricity by doing things like turning lights off, raising your air conditioning thermostat and checking filters regularly.

A higher electric bill isn't much of a reward for that kind of effort. But, we want you to understand the reasons for it, and why it's important to continue using electric energy wisely.

The main reason for higher bills is that it's costing more to make electricity. Our rates had to be increased early this year.

On top of that, fuel costs have gone up — although Texas Electric has been able to keep these increases to a minimum.

We'll continue doing everything we can to keep increases in your electric bills as low as possible. But it's just as important that you keep conserving electricity as much as you can.

For a free copy of our newest booklet on how to save electricity, give us a call. Or request one on the comment portion of your bill.
