Search continues for Josserand

Authorities are continuing to search for the body of Doug Josserand, 31, of Hereford, who is presumed drowned after an accident Sunday afternoon at Lake Meredith.

Josserand, a young civic leader and immediate past president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, was knocked off the sailboat he and a companion were on at the large lake, north of Amarillo, at about 3 p.m. Sunday.

According to Lake Meredith and Hutchinson County authorities, Josserand and his companion were sailing on the boat Sunday afternoon when his companion fell into the water. Josserand was attempting to help the woman back into the boat when a high wind gust sent the boom on the sail swinging around, knocking Josserand into the water.

The companion, who was able to get back into the boat on her own, attempted to help Josserand, then notified lake officials.

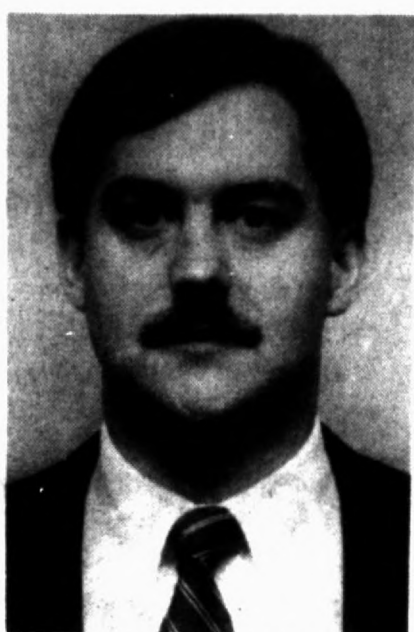

Authorities rapidly began searching, going until dark Sunday, then searched throughout the day Monday to no avail.

Authorities resumed search operations, including dragging the lake, on Monday before suspending operations at nightfall, then resumed operations today. Searchers said they were hampered by several factors, including the 55-to-60-foot depth of the lake in the area where the accident occurred. The officials are using sonar, going in two-foot grids, in the accident area. A few scuba divers have been used, but their vision is extremely limited in that area of the lake, officials said.

Josserand, who lived in Hereford most of his life, was a vice president at First National Bank in Hereford. He was elected to the chamber board in 1988 and served as president of the chamber in 1990, one of the youngest presidents in the chamber's history. He was on the chamber board this year as immediate past president. Josserand was also serving his second term as chairman of the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Board and was on the board of Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford.

"Ol' Pink" bashed in Monday accident

The tail end of "Ol' Pink," a famous 1955 Plymouth Savoy driven by Tom Draper, 78, of Hereford, was bashed in an accident Monday morning on East U.S. Highway 60 in Hereford. Draper was going east on U.S. 60 when he was rear-ended by a pickup driven by Charles Cabbiness, 55, of Hereford. Draper was treated and released at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Soviet Coup Miners heed Yeltsin's call for general strike

MOSCOW (AP) - Answering the defiant call of Russian republic President Boris Yeltsin to fight back against a hard-liners' coup, Siberian coal miners struck today and hundreds of thousands of demonstrators took to the streets.

Russian republic officials, including Yeltsin, demanded that the new Soviet authorities allow them to meet with Mikhail S. Gorbachev, who was ousted on Monday.

Gorbachev was at his vacation home in the Crimea, said Alexander Rutskoi, the republic's vice president, though earlier unconfirmed reports said he had left.

Rutskoi said he had met with Anatoly Lukyanov, chairman of the national Supreme Soviet legislature, to arrange a meeting including Gorbachev. Lukyanov said he favored the idea, according to Rutskoi.

However, it did not appear that Lukyanov, a supporter of the coup, had any way of ensuring that Gorbachev would be allowed to travel to Moscow.

Rutskoi also said that Gorbachev was suffering from high blood pressure and back pains, but was "alive and well."

About 200,000 people, led by radical Mayor Anatoly Sobchak, rallied in Leningrad, and workers struck at least two factories in the city as troops gathered on the outskirts. At noon today, more than 20,000 people defied a ban on demonstrations and gathered outside the Russian parliament building where Yeltsin is staying. They chanted "Yeltsin! Yeltsin!"

Tanks rumbled through the capital during the night and Soviet paratroopers patrolled Manezh Square next to the Kremlin to prevent demonstrations. Other tank columns were reported moving in the Baltic republics, where broadcast stations were seized.

The Kremlin was sealed off, with tanks at every major intersection and bridge leading to the heart of Soviet power. Scores of armored personnel carriers were parked in the city center, and four truckloads of riot police sat behind St. Basil's Cathedral off Red Square.

Anti-coup demonstrators also barricaded some streets, and traffic was lighter than usual.

By noon on a drizzly day, there was no evidence of a widespread strike in Moscow. A spot check of several factories found that all were working. At the ZIL car factory, one of the largest in the city, a plant official said there was no strike but that tanks were stationed nearby.

Yeltsin, president of the nation's largest republic, became a magnet for those opposing the hard-line Communist Party and military leaders who overthrew Gorbachev on Monday and poured troops and tanks into the capital to demonstrate their power.

Hundreds of the soldiers went over to Yeltsin's side and joined thousands of demonstrators surrounding the Russian parliament to protect Yeltsin from arrest.

Ten tanks from an elite division and 400 to 500 armed paratroopers dressed in camouflage uniforms were among them.

One soldier, asked if he was prepared to shoot, replied: "A soldier

Eades named to city council

An active civic worker and Hereford resident since 1983, Roger A. Eades, Monday night was named to fill the Place Five at-large seat on the Hereford City Commission.

After a 20-minute closed door session, the commission voted 5-1 to appoint Eades to the position, formerly held by Terry Langehennig.

Without comment, Commissioner Irene Cantu voted against the appointment.

Eades will fill the unexpired term, until next May, of Langehennig who resigned and was chosen by the commission to serve as Hereford city attorney.

At the end of the commission meeting, when Mayor Tom LeGate opened the meeting to comments from the public, Herb DeLaRosa questioned the procedure used to select the new commissioner. DeLaRosa was one of the potential candidates for the at-large position.

Mayor LeGate explained that commission members received recommendations from residents and determined if candidates were qualified for the position.

DeLaRosa said that "since the population (of Hereford) is 53 percent Hispanic, you'd think a Hispanic would be appointed."

The mayor said that names of Hispanic residents were recommended, including DeLaRosa.

"Hispanics have as good a chance as others," said LeGate.

Eades will begin serving at the Sept. 16 meeting. No meeting will be held on Sept. 2 because of the Labor Day holiday.

Eades is a native of Amarillo, and is a graduate of Tascosa High School and West Texas State University.

ROGER A. EADES
... appointed to commission

He is a member of First Baptist Church and the Hereford Kiwanis Club. Eades currently is chairman of the board of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and president of Big Brothers-Big Sisters.

A former YMCA president, he also has been president of the West Central school PTA. He is associated with Plains Insurance Agency.

Eades and his wife, Alice, have three sons: Jeff, 19, of Wichita Falls; Wesley, 16, a Hereford High School junior, and Jason, 14, a freshman at HHS.

"I am very honored that the commission would choose me," said Eades. "I want to work with them to see Hereford grow. We need to work together for economic development of Hereford."

City approves Energas pact

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Hereford residents will see a slight increase in their gas bills, beginning with the bills they receive in October.

A rate increase for Energas, amounting to an overall average of 3.7 percent, was approved by the City Commission at a Monday night meeting.

Hereford is one of 66 cities in West Texas that received a rate increase request from the natural gas supplier several months ago.

A committee representing the cities worked with a consultant and negotiated with the company on the change in gas rates.

Over a year's time, the increase to a residential customer will amount to slightly more than $20 on average, according to Energas District Manager Teddy Twombly.

Based on an average residential use of 96 mcf per year, the increase is about 21 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas, commonly described as mcf. The total per-month increase is estimated at $1.69.

The rate hike is the first since November 1984, Twombly said Monday night before the commission voted unanimously to approve the increase.

Revenue for the company in the area that covers most of West Texas is expected to rise by $3.95 million per year with the increase. Energas serves 650,000 customers in the area.

Included in the rate changes, also, is some restructuring of service charges and security deposits.

In other business, the commission: -- Awarded a $2,275 bid to Garcia Brothers for 650 linear feet of concrete curbing for playground equipment in Dameron Park.

-- Accepted the low bid of J. Lee Milligan, Inc., $36,248.65, for paving on Kingwood Street.

-- Adopted a resolution to be sent to Panhandle Regional Planning Commission requesting a grant for street improvements in Hereford. The grant application is for $209,729. (See CITY, Page 2)

Council to drop alcohol

A standing room only crowd in the Hereford City Commission room Monday night dwindled soon after Mayor Tom LeGate said the commission planned no further action on a proposal to legalize alcohol consumption at the city golf course.

Opening the meeting, LeGate said the issue was not placed on the meeting agenda for vote "because of very strong opinions from the community."

As far as the commission is concerned, said LeGate, "it's a closed issue."

Two men who had requested time to speak on the issue, the Rev. Ron Cook and Davis Ford, addressed the commission briefly.

"I want to commend the commission for dropping this issue," said the First Baptist Church pastor. "I appreciate your attention to the matter."

Ford expressed his "appreciation that the issue is no more."

Most of the crowd of 50 or more adults and young persons left the commission room after the assurance from LeGate that there would be no further action on the proposal, made at the Aug. 5 meeting, to allow consumption of alcohol at the golf course.

School will start Wednesday

The summer of 1991 fades into a memory for Hereford students and teachers as school bells ring Wednesday for the start of the new term.

Buses will make their regular runs tomorrow and cafeterias will be in full operation for the first day of school in the Hereford Independent School District. Teachers were holding in-service sessions today, while new teachers had orientation Monday.

At school cafeterias, the price for breakfast is 75 cents at high school and junior high, and 50 cents at intermediate and primary schools. Lunch is $1.25 at high school and $1 at other schools.

HISD will have six early dismissal days this fall in order to provide time for teacher in-service programs. On these dates, school will dismiss at noon, and the in-service programs will be from 1 to 4 p.m. The dates approved by the school board are Sept. 18th and 25th, Oct. 2nd, 9th, 16th and 23rd.

Four private schools in Hereford are also ready for the first school day. St. Anthony's Catholic School also starts classes Wednesday. Classes at Nazarene Christian Academy will start Aug. 26, while the school year begins Sept. 3 at Community Christian School. Sept. 3 is also the starting date for kindergarten classes at First Baptist Church.

Pair to compete in event

Two Deaf Smith County residents will vie for the honor of being the Panhandle's top steak eater in a contest Wednesday in Amarillo.

M.T. Burrelsmith of Hereford and Rick McCracken, who lives south of the city, will represent the county at the steak eating contest Wednesday evening at the Big Texan Steak Ranch in Amarillo. The contest is part of Amarillo's Old West Days celebration.

"We think we will be well represented by these two men," said Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. "Rick has been successful in eating the Big Texan's 72-ounce steak in less than an hour, and M.T. is a big eater, too."

Burrelsmith, McCracken and other contestants will be served one-pound U.S. Choice steaks, cooked to their liking, with a running total of steaks consumed kept on a scorecard. Prizes will be awarded to all contestants in the event.

Police record busy weekend

Seven persons were arrested over the weekend by Hereford police, including a man, 28, in the 400 block of Barrett, and a man, 21, at Second and Lee for Class A assault (domestic violence); a man, 36, and a man, 19, for public intoxication; a man, 34, in the 400 block of W. First for disorderly conduct; a woman, 21, for Class C assault in the 900 block of S. McKinley; and a man, 20, in Veterans Park for reckless driving, operating an unregistered motor vehicle, no driver's license and wearing no helmet.

Reports included criminal mischief in the 400 block of Ave. B, 500 block of N. 25 Mile Ave., 300 block of Main, 300 block of Ave. H, 300 block of Ave. E and 100 block of Ave. G; Class C assault in the 700 block of Ave. H, 100 block of S. 25 Mile Ave., and 100 block of Lawton; possible assault in the 200 block of Douglas; domestic disputes in the 500 block of Gracey and 600 block of Irving; disorderly conduct in the 600 block of Irving; and Class A assault in the 400 block of Brevard.

Police issued 43 citations over the weekend and investigated a minor accident.

Hereford volunteer firefighters were called to Ave. I on a possible car explosion, but could not find anything, and were dispatched to a fire in the alley between the 200 blocks of Ave. H and Ave. I, where grass clippings in the alley caught on fire. Firefighters also responded to weather warnings on late Sunday afternoon. At first a tornado was thought to have destroyed a barn west of Ford, about 20 miles north-northwest of Hereford, but it was determined the damage was done by gusty straight-line winds.

Deaf Smith County sheriff's deputies were kept busy with several reports over the weekend. A resident on Holly Sugar Road, west of Hereford, reported seeing a prowler on Friday night and that his hot wire fence had been cut. The man called back on Saturday to report that eight sheep were missing. On Sunday, a woman allegedly stabbed her son in the leg during a domestic dispute with another man. The son declined to file charges.

Arrests by deputies on Friday included a man, 19, for burglary of a habitation; a man, 29, for violation of probation; two men, 37 and 42, for driving while intoxicated jail commitments; a woman, 29, for public intoxication; and a man, 28, on a theft by check warrant.

On Saturday, arrests included a man, 32, on a felony theft warrant; a man, 20, for minor in consumption of alcohol; and a man, 21, for reckless driving, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and presenting false identification to a peace officer.

Arrests on Sunday included two persons, 18 and 48, for public intoxication; a man, 19, for driving while intoxicated; and a woman, 31, on a warrant for failure to appear.

On Monday, police arrested a man, 22, on warrants for no seat belt and failure to appear, and a man, 20, for driving while intoxicated.

Reports on Monday included a prowler in the 100 block of Aspen; assault in the 100 block of Alamo; forgery in the 800 block of First; a suspect was found in the case of B-B gun damage to windows on a house in the 300 block of Douglas; criminal mischief in the 400 block of Irving and the 1500 block of U.S. Highway 60; and credit card abuse.

Deaf Smith County sheriff's deputies are investigating the passing of a forged check at a local business, and an assault in an apparent domestic quarrel.

DSGH board will meet tonight

The Deaf Smith County Hospital District board of directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

The board will consider acceptance of a management agreement with either Lubbock Methodist Hospital or St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital of Lubbock; terms of employment of administrative staff; administrative, operations and medical staff reports; and an executive session.

Chance of rain this evening

Tonight, showers and thunderstorms ending this evening, then fair skies. Low in the lower 60s. Light wind. Chance of rain is 50 percent.

Wednesday, mostly sunny with a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High in the lower 90s. South wind 5 to 15 mph.

The extended forecast for Thursday through Saturday calls for partly cloudy skies with isolated afternoon and evening thunderstorms, otherwise fair nights and mornings. Highs in the mid 90s. Lows in the upper 60s.

This morning's low at KPAN was 66 after a high Monday of 89. KPAN recorded .02 of an inch of rain from Monday's brief shower.

News Digest

World/National

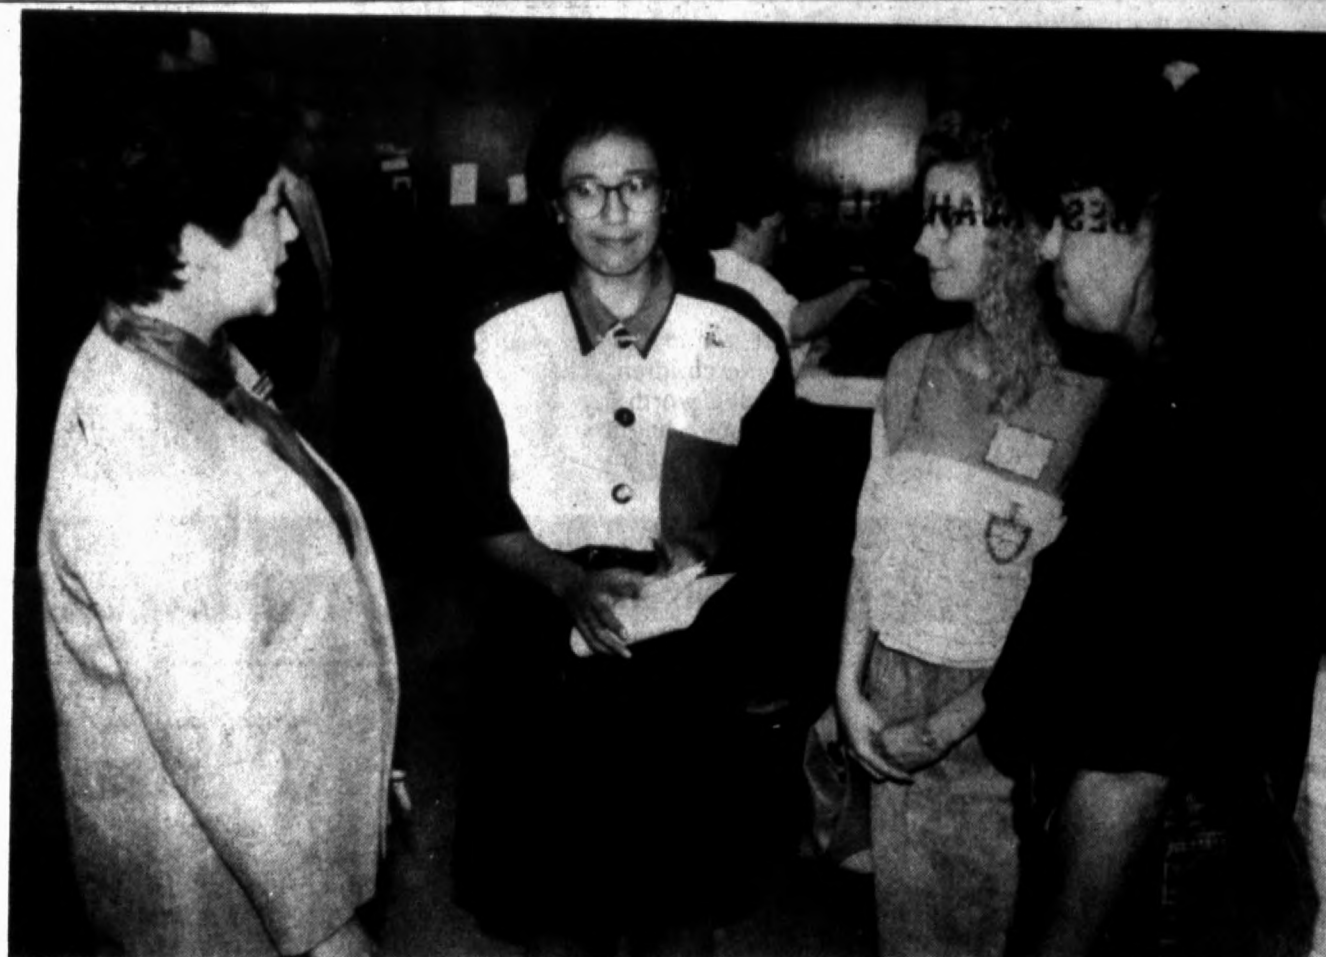

WASHINGTON - There were general warnings and veiled predictions of trouble brewing for Mikhail Gorbachev, but no U.S. intelligence agency predicted the right-wing coup that toppled the Soviet president.

LONDON - The hard-liners who ousted Mikhail S. Gorbachev probably can't turn back the clock on arms control and the democratization of Eastern Europe. But their sudden takeover generated uncertainty about virtually every global trouble spot.

Texas

AUSTIN - Legislative leaders say they hope for quick action on a growing special session agenda. "If we stay here longer than 10 days, the people of Texas ought to beat us. That's just as simple as that," added Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock. As lawmakers opened their second special session Monday, Gov. Ann Richards added several items to an agenda that initially included only congressional and State Board of Education redistricting.

WASHINGTON - When President Bush chose Robert Strauss as ambassador to the Soviet Union, he thought the gregarious Texan would be the ideal choice to serve in Moscow during the transition to a market economy.

Teachers honored at HSB reception

Debbie Gonzalez, left, an employee at Hereford State Bank, visits with Hilda Fuentes of Northwest Primary School, Velvet Lucas of Hereford High School, and Minnie Soliz of West Central Intermediate School at a reception for new teachers at the bank Monday. About 150 teachers and school officials, including returning "veterans," attended the third annual reception.

Blacks, Republicans vow fight over boundary lines

AUSTIN (AP) - Republicans and blacks vowed to fight proposed new congressional district boundaries that were approved by the House Redistricting Committee.

GOP lawmakers said Monday the congressional plan favored Democratic incumbents, while blacks said it failed to guarantee that a black candidate could be elected from Dallas County.

The committee bill creates three new districts - in Houston, Dallas, and South Texas - in order to accommodate gains in state population recorded by the 1990 census.

Under the House committee plan, the new Dallas district would be 46.9 percent black.

But Rep. Fred Blair, D-Dallas, chairman of the Legislative Black Caucus, said the district needed a 50 percent black population to increase the chances for a black candidate to win.

"Dallas County is a hellhole for us to get what we need," he said.

The problem in drawing a predominantly black district in Dallas is that Democratic incumbents, U.S. Reps. Martin Frost and John Bryant, want to maintain many of the black precincts that have supported them in the past.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said that several Texas congressmen are unhappy about the redistricting proposals, but added, "Everybody can't have a district that they want."

Republicans said the redistricting plan created odd-shaped districts to benefit Democrats.

In West Texas, the cities of Amarillo, Midland, and Lubbock are split, some in three parts, to protect Democrats, said Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, chairman of the House Republican Caucus.

"All of the major cities in West Texas have been gutted. It's all for political gerrymandering," he said.

Craddick introduced a Republican plan, but it was defeated.

Rep. David Swinford, R-Dumas, opposed splitting Amarillo, saying, "God wouldn't make a mess like this and I wish you wouldn't."

The House panel also voted 9-4 for a State Board of Education redistricting measure that Committee Chairman Tom Uher, D-Bay City, said would create 15 minority districts.

Earlier, the Senate State Affairs voted 9-1 for a plan drawing those 15 education board districts.

Houston stock show puts cap on prices paid youth

HOUSTON (AP) - In an effort to encourage learning over cheating, officials of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo officials say they are cutting back the award money for youngsters who raise animals.

With bids on the grand champion steer reaching $221,000 last year, the financial incentive to raise top show animals was teaching the wrong lessons and leading some participants to use illegal drugs in their animals, show officials said.

"The auction payoffs to some of our grand and reserve grand champion winners have become excessive in the past few years," officials said in a prepared statement.

"However, we did not want to implement any type of system that would limit the enthusiasm of our buyers or the thrill of setting world records."

"This (cap) is aimed at these unrealistically high prices being paid ... and at the unrealistic lessons we're teaching now," said Leroy Shafer, assistant general manager of the world's largest livestock show. "When the actual price for an animal is $1,350 and an exhibitor is getting $221,000 for it, we're producing unrealistic situations."

Under the new rules, for example, a youngster with a grand champion steer will get only $50,000 of the amount bid for the animal. The balance will go to a scholarship fund.

Lower limits were set for other animals.

In June, Livestock Show officials announced that eight youths had been disqualified after their animals tested positive for drugs.

Four percent of the 194 animals tested this year had traces of unacceptable drugs in their bodies including clenbuterol, acepromazine and lasix. The drugs are not considered safe for use in animals being raised for human consumption.

Clenbuterol, which is illegal in the United States, enhances muscles and makes steers look better, while lasix makes animals tighter and lighter. Acepromazine tranquilizes animals so they behave better while being shown to bidders and judges.

'Ghost voting' warning issued

AUSTIN (AP) - House members were warned against registering votes for absent colleagues by Speaker Gib Lewis, who called the practice of "ghost voting" an embarrassment.

"It is a disservice to the (House) member and the member's constituents and violates the integrity of the House and the legislative process," Lewis said in a Monday memo to state representatives.

The forbidden - but common - practice was highlighted in the last special session when Rep. Larry Evans, who had died, was recorded as voting several times the day his body was found.

"It's embarrassing to all of us," Lewis said.

The speaker said lawmakers who violate the rules would face punishment, possibly including a reprimand or demotion. Lewis appoints the members and heads of House committees.

Expulsion also may be allowed, Lewis said. But he added, "Certainly you're not going to expel someone for pushing somebody's (voting) button."

The Evans case, while dramatic, was not isolated. House members often are seen going to others' desks and casting votes.

Lewis said that he has asked the House sergeants-at-arms to monitor and report on incidents of ghost voting.

"I'll take whatever action is necessary to correct it," he said.

In the memo, Lewis said lawmakers may cast votes for colleagues under limited circumstances: if a lawmaker is temporarily off the House floor but remains nearby and has requested that someone register a vote for him or her.

But Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said that it is not permissible for one lawmaker to cast a vote for another in any other case.

Doing so may result in a recorded vote being contrary to a lawmaker's wishes, Lewis said. He said that if he finds that an absent lawmaker's votes are being recorded, he will order that legislator's electronic voting machine locked.

Lewis noted the publicity that surrounded the incident in which the dead lawmaker was recorded as voting.

"Although I believe that each vote recorded on the voting machine was recorded with the intent and belief that it represented the vote of the appropriate member, I also believe that we should strictly observe parliamentary procedures in order to ensure our constituents that their representatives are in fact representing them," Lewis said.

CITY

-- Conducted a required hearing and adopted an ordinance on paving assessment procedure for Kingwood Street.

-- Approved a resolution related to issuance of obligations by the Panhandle-Plains Higher Education Authority, increasing the amount by $11 million.

After a question from Lynn Dawson about progress on animal control questions, Mayor Tom LeGate assured her that the city manager is working on the project.

Life!

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them. -- Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That letter the gal whose sisters, aunts and cousins descended on her mother's house like a pack of vultures and picked the place clean hit very close to home. The writer signed herself "Can't Stand Grabbers." Well, I hope your advice, "Make a will," was heeded by all those nice people out there who just assume their belongings will go to the people they want to have them.

When my husband's darling mother died, his sister arrived first.

She was grief-stricken. For about 15 minutes. Then she pulled herself together and went through the house like a streak of lightning. When I walked into the bedroom to use the phone, I saw drawers open and boxes strewn everywhere. The place looked as if it had been burglarized. I couldn't believe it.

When "Sis" left, she had all the jewelry, silver and every piece of art worth owning. She also had her name taped on the best piece of furniture. "I'll send you some of Mother's nice things," Sis promised as she left.

After the funeral, I received a dozen plastic hangers, a jar of cotton balls, some old clothes and a moth-eaten fur piece.

My husband adored his mother, and so did our children. They don't have one thing worth keeping. Of course she never had a will -- and she'd turn over in her grave if she knew what has happened. -- Heartsick in Boston.

DEAR HEARTSICK: Your letter says it far better than I could, but I'll make another attempt. Make a will. It's the only way to be sure your money and personal belongings will go to those you want to have them. Otherwise "The Grabbers" will move in fast.

Also, the attorney in charge of the estate should make certain nothing is removed from the house of the deceased until the will has been read.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law, for the third time this year, is coming to visit for two weeks. I could put up with her if she'd just be a guest. But the minute she arrives she begins to clean the house, rearrange the furniture and make suggestions on how to improve the place. ("Your kitchen needs new curtains. The bathroom could use a coat of paint.") Every sentence starts with "Why don't you..."

Now she has started to interfere with the way I feed and dress our child. "He's not getting enough roughage. He needs vitamins. His room is too hot. His play clothes are tacky."

I find myself getting nervous before each visit. By the time she leaves, I'm on tranquilizers and my husband and I aren't speaking. He says, "She's just trying to help." Get the picture? Sign me -- Berserk

DEAR B.: One thing is certain -- you will never change your mother-in-law, but you can change a few other things.

First: the frequency of her visits. Ask your doctor to inform your husband that his mother's visits are too taxing and should be cut to twice a year.

Second: When your mother-in-law makes suggestions, smile and say, "You're probably right. I'll think about it." Then develop amnesia.

Third: If she wants to clean your house and rearrange the furniture -- let her. Maybe she'll get a hernia.

HISD adds PALS class for fall

The Hereford Independent School District is offering a new class, "PALS" which is not associated with the PALS club.

Students eligible for the class had to be nominated by the student body, fill out an application, obtain letters of recommendation from two teachers and interview with a committee of a counselor, PAL teacher, administrator and a school board member.

Once selected, PALS will receive training in the knowledge and skills they will need to be effective in the peer helping role.

Training will be an ongoing process. Training in peer helping role includes confidentiality, positive role modeling, self-awareness, positive listening skills, development of group and individual trust and the development of a code of ethics and standards of behavior.

PALS will be trained to help students have a more positive and productive school experience, make more informed and responsible decisions and provide academic and individual and group peer support.

Also they will help new students adjust to school and school rules, serve as a resource for school needs to teachers and administrators, provide the school and community with service projects and expand communication skills through projects and activities.

PAL students for the school year are Rachel Alaniz, Tonya Allen, Cathy Armor, Denise Davila, Mandi Douglas, Ismael Arroyos, Connie Jackson, Wendy Peabody, Lindsay Radford, Claudia Ramirez, Barbara Smith, Holly Edwards, Matthew Gavina, Vanessa Gonzalez, Amy Long, Jennifer Bullard and Joy Long.

Auxiliary met recently, group hears reports

The American Legion Auxiliary Hereford Unit 192 met in regular session with Clara Trowbridge presiding. The opening ritual was observed with Beverly Jesko serving as chaplain.

Minutes were read and a finance report was given by Lou Ann LaFever, secretary-treasurer.

Betty Jo Carlson, membership chairman, reported that 1992 dues are being received and reported 50 percent of goal paid. Those members paying early will receive special recognition as "Early Birds."

Troyce Hanna, Girl State chairman, reported the ice cream social given for the Girls State and Boys State delegates in July was well attended. She read a report from Lindsey Radford, Girls State delegate, who was unable to be present. It was recommended that Miss Radford be invited to attend the Sept. 3 meeting as program speaker.

Eighteenth District President Betty Wilhelm of Nazareth was welcomed as a guest. She presented themes and goals for the year. Acting as the installing officer, she installed the newly elected slate of officers for the ensuing year, presenting each with the badge of her office. Those installed were Clara Trowbridge, president; Betty Jo Carlson, 1st vice president; Troyce Hanna, secretary-treasurer; Lou Ann LaFever, historian-reporter; and Argen Draper, member at large. Officers not present were Ruth King, 2nd vice president; Margie Daniels, chaplain; Bernice Layman, sergeant at arms; and Pet Ott, member at large.

A memorial will be sent to the Friona Unit #206 in memory of Geneva Williams, past 18th district. Individuals wishing to send a personal memorial may contact the secretary.

Hostesses Dorothy Shannon and Argen Draper served refreshments to auxiliary and legion members.

Herd spikers warm up for opener at Canyon

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Lady Whitefaces used the bashing of a young Brownfield team in a volleyball scrimmage Monday as a warm-up for today's season opener at Canyon.

Hereford started a little slowly in the first 30-minute session, repeatedly putting passes and sets too close to the net. However, in the second session, they settled down and won games by scores of 15-2, 15-2 and 15-1. They played a third and fourth session mostly so the Brownfield team could get some work, Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said.

The Cubettes had trouble handling the taller, more experienced Herd. They had trouble receiving service, and because of that, rarely mounted a threatening attack.

Because of all the free balls Brownfield was sending over, Reeh said, Hereford didn't get much of a chance to work on blocking and digging. Unfortunately for Brownfield, the Lady Whitefaces got a lot of work on hitting.

"We're working to become more consistent," Reeh said. "Then, from consistency, we'll work to put more power into it."

Reeh was also pleased with the Herd's service reception.

"Only one or two balls were allowed to fall," she said.

Hereford will go into the 1991 opener (6 p.m. at Canyon) using the 6-2 offense that was so successful last year, instead of the 5-1 which Reeh considered before practice began a week ago. The 5-1 would have freed setters Shantel Cornelius and Brek Binder for full-time hitting.

"We'll go with the 6-2 with Brek and Shantel setting," she said. "It's not because we didn't find a setter, but because the foundation of last year's team is comfortable running that offense. That's more important than we thought at first."

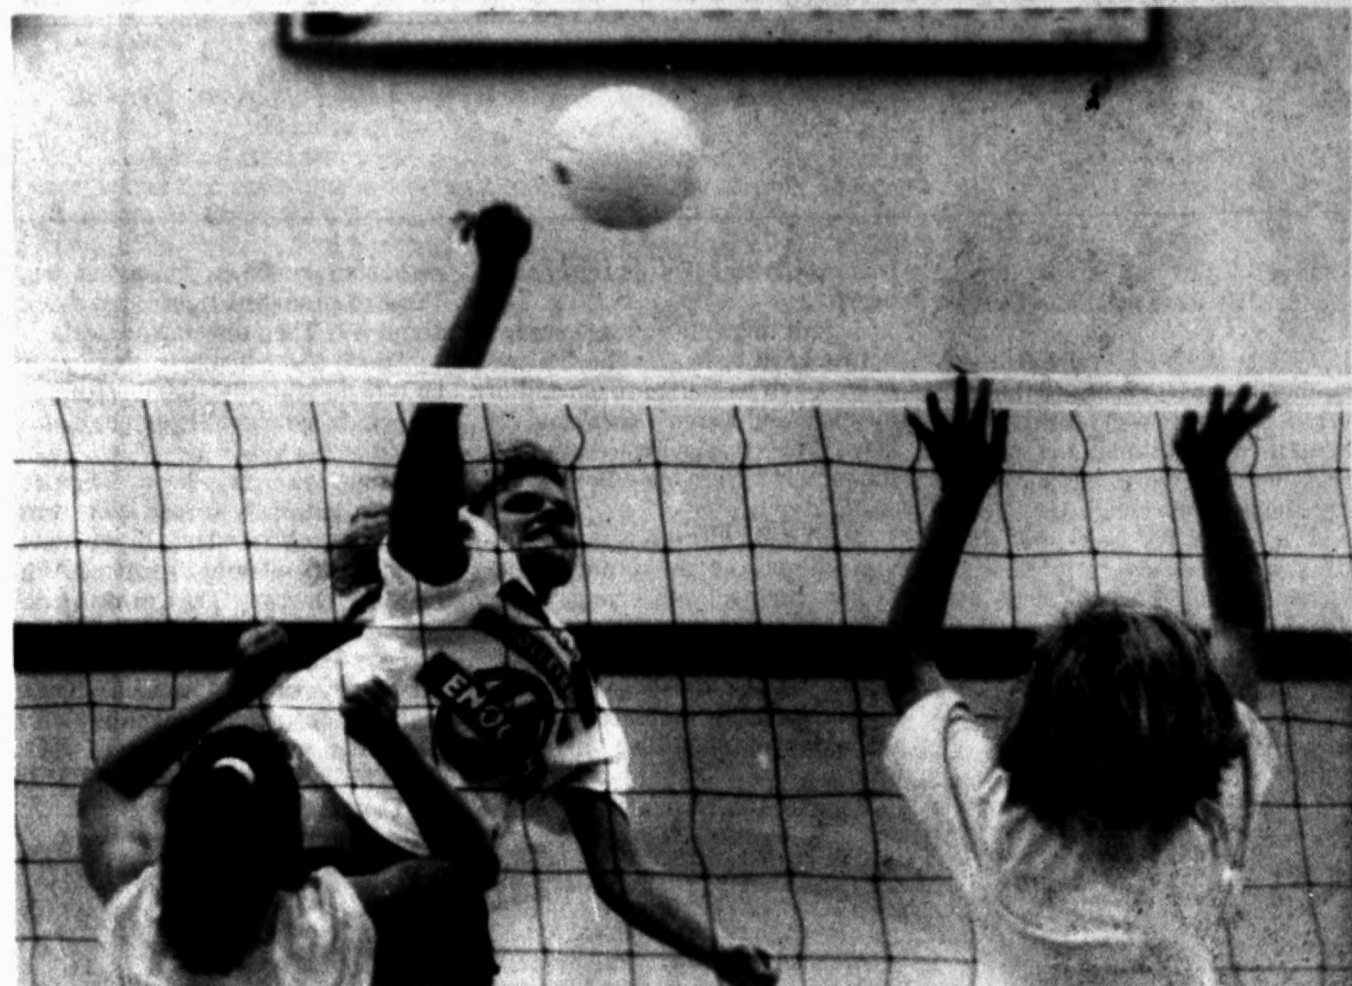

That "foundation" is mostly seniors: Teresa Baker, Cassie Brooks, Jennifer Hicks, Kyanne Lindley, Lori Sanders, Cornelius and Binder. Filling out the team are juniors Erin Bullard, Kathy Hernandez, Angie Jowell, Jill Robinson and sophomore Kara Sandoval.

Canyon, Reeh said, is a young team like Brownfield. Hereford will get a lot of free balls, and Reeh said her team needs to learn how to capitalize on that.

"We need to get to where anytime we get a free ball, we get a kill."

The varsity squads go at it after the junior varsity match. The JV Lady Whitefaces, coached by Jill Harrison, will start juniors Jeannie Barrientez, Traci Deckard and Robyn Watts and sophomores Michelle Brock, Heather Kleuskens and Jenny Davis. Sophomore Katie Young will get a lot of playing time as a back row substitute for Brock.

Hall of Fame catcher Roger Bresnahan introduced shin guards to baseball while playing for the New York Giants in 1907.

Kill

Hereford's Shantel Cornelius zeros in on the volleyball for another kill during the Lady Whitefaces' scrimmage against Brownfield Monday. Hereford opens the 1991 volleyball season today at Canyon at 6 p.m.

Soviet athletes worry about coup's effects

By The Associated Press

Twenty-four hours later, Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev had been ousted by Kremlin hard-liners and the streets of the capital were being controlled by security agents.

"I can't believe we made it out of Moscow," Caligiuri said from Innsbruck, Austria, the next stop on the U.S. team's European tour. "We were totally surprised and shocked here to find out what had happened. We were in Red Square and the Kremlin taking photos and everything yesterday."

The U.S. team played the Soviet Olympic squad Saturday night in Moscow's Lenin Stadium and left for Austria on Sunday. They learned of the turmoil upon their arrival at Innsbruck.

"Who knows now what would happen if we were still there," wondered Chris Henderson, another member of the U.S. team.

While American athletes were mostly relieved to be able to watch the drama from a safe distance, Soviet athletes were confused and worried about how the new regime would impact their homeland.

At the world rowing championships in Vienna, defending champion Yuri Yanson of the Soviet team finished last in his quarterfinal qualifying heat.

One top Soviet coach, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press his team was "very shocked" and he thought they would return home as planned after next weekend's finals.

"We Russians, we've got used to a lot of new things in the past few years, firstly freedom," he said. "Any (attempt) to take that away from us would be like trying to put the genie back in the bottle."

A Soviet rowing trainer, who asked that his name not be used, said the team heard the news on radio. "The situation is very unclear," he said. "It's difficult for us to say for sure what is going to happen, especially when we're here, hundreds of miles away."

Viktor Losev, also miles away with the Dynamo Moscow soccer team in Italy, worried about the welfare of his loved ones still in Moscow. He called and was assured they were safe.

"We are scheduled to return home by the end of the week and will see then what has happened," Losev said. "What can I say? Life continues."

Soviets mostly kept a low profile at the cycling world championships in Stuttgart, Germany, and the European Swimming Championships in Athens, Greece, while members of the Soviet national soccer team avoided the press in Valencia, Spain. At the Virginia Slims of Washington, Leila Meskhi said she was "nervous" about the situation in the Soviet Union "because I don't know what's going on yet."

"I tried to reach my parents on the phone, but it's very difficult to get through," she said after advancing to the second round when Italy's Linda Ferrando retired in the second set because of heat exhaustion.

The seventh seed, Meskhi said she was home in Tbilisi just two weeks ago. "Everything was fine then. This is very strange," she said.

Jim Everett of the Los Angeles Rams completed 31 touchdowns in the air in 1988 to lead the NFL in that specialty.

Cody Page, a 1991 graduate of Hereford High School, has signed to play football at Sul Ross State University in Alpine.

Page, a captain for the Herd last season, said he heard about Sul Ross "through the grapevine."

"I talked to some people who went there, and the reports were excellent," he said. "I'd heard the football team was real good. I thought I'd go there and give it a try."

Page said he will walk on, and he may play either linebacker or fullback.

"I'm not really particular about where I play," he said. "I just want to play."

Americans offer excuses while Latins claim gold

"I lost it in the sun." - Dodgers pitcher Billy Loes, explaining why he missed a ground ball in the 1952 World Series.

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

So the rest of the hemisphere can play a little baseball and a little basketball by now, and maybe they even hit a little harder. So what?

A glance at the record shows the United States is still untouchable when it comes to our real national pastime. Think about it: When was the last time anyone anywhere outside this country came up with a world-class alibi for botching something like the Pan Am Games on their own?

Poverty? We gave them that one some 40 years ago. Lack of coaches, equipment and training facilities? Forget it, same source and almost as old. No ESPN? Sorry, ours, too.

Alibis we've got in abundance; an embarrassment, in fact, of riches.

Tune into a pro sporting event when things get tight for someone or some team and sometimes you can almost sense the alibis being practiced along with the ground strokes or golf shots or batting swings.

This, for instance, is why the United States tripped over Puerto Rico on its way to the gold medal basketball game:

"The thing I noticed the last three minutes," forward Christian Laettner said, "was that every call went their way. We settled into pushing and shoving the whole game and they (the referees) started calling touch fouls the last three minutes."

And this is why the U.S. baseball team stumbled and fell to Puerto Rico on its way to the gold medal game:

"As I started my windup, my spike got caught on the mound, but I was able to recover and get my balance," pitcher Jeff Ware said. "I just wasn't able to locate the pitch and I threw it right across the plate. I couldn't stop in the middle of my motion because it would have been a balk, and I didn't want the runner on third to score, so I had to pitch to him. Unfortunately for me, he hit it out."

At least USA Basketball chief Bill Wall was succinct. Asked if there was anything the U.S. women's basketball team - reduced to yet another third-rate power - was lacking, Wall hit the nail and Vivian Stringer, one of his employees, right on the head: "Yeah," he replied. "A new coach."

In fairness to the three men above, they were just taking their cues from the top.

George Steinbrenner, a U.S. Olympic Committee vice president in good standing once again, blew into Havana at the start of the Games passing out excuses like hard candy. First he ripped the athletes who stayed away. Then he ripped the athletes who came.

It's true that most of the athletes who went to Cuba were the runners-up in this country's national competitions.

But it's also true that the athletes in the rest of the world, even the former patsies in the rest of the hemisphere, are becoming tough in the way that U.S. athletes used to be, but seem less and less with each passing competition.

They are the ones now who grow up hungry and overmatched, who play much of the time on lousy surfaces with lousy bounces and lousy calls by lousy referees.

And they are the ones now making the plays - instead of excuses.

Yogi Berra, who set many big-league records, hit the first pinch-hit home run in a World Series game.

Cy Young, the record-holder with 511 major-league victories, lost his last game by a 1-0 score.

Hot pursuit

A Herd tackler wraps up a Herd runner as several players converge on the play in Saturday's intrasquad scrimmage. The scrimmage came the day after the Herd worked out in pads for the first time.

Herd has good scrimmage

The Hereford Whiteface football team played an intersquad scrimmage Saturday, giving the Herd a chance to do some hitting and giving the coaches a chance to see what still needs work.

"It was a real good session as far as hitting," Coach Danny Haney said. "They made lots of mistakes, but it was their third time in pads. That's what (the scrimmage) is for."

Haney said the team did some things well and other things not so well. In other words, it was a typical first scrimmage.

"We threw and caught pretty well for the first outing," he said. "The defense played well. We had some breakdowns that caused problems, but those are technical things we can take care of."

The Monterey scrimmage this Saturday will largely determine who will make the varsity squad, Haney said, while the starters will mostly be set after a scrimmage the next Saturday (Aug. 30) against Amarillo High.

The Monterey scrimmage will be played in Hereford, starting with the sophomores at 3:30 p.m., the juniors at 5:30 and, finally, the seniors at 7 in Whiteface Stadium.

The Amarillo scrimmage will be at Randall High School, starting at 7 p.m. The Herd opens the real season Sept. 6 at Whiteface Stadium against Tascosa.

A's salvage win against Twins

By The Associated Press

The Oakland Athletics knew what they had to do.

Another loss at the Metrodome and the A's would be looking at an eight-game deficit in the American League West.

But Terry Steinbach broke a ninth-inning tie with a two-out single Monday night as the Athletics rebounded from another blown lead and ended a seven-game losing streak with an 8-7 victory over Minnesota.

"You've got to be realistic about this. Six games is much better than eight," Steinbach said.

The Twins, meanwhile, kept their 3 1/2-game lead over Chicago as the White Sox lost to Detroit 3-2.

"We won three out of four and it's a good feeling," Minnesota loser Steve Bedrosian said.

Dodgers go to Gwynn in pinch

LOS ANGELES (AP) - It's been the little things that have kept the Los Angeles Dodgers from opening up a sizeable lead in the National League West since the All-Star break.

They went into the break with a four-game lead before losing their next seven games. Miraculously, they have not relinquished the top spot since getting there on May 14.

Monday night's 10-inning, 3-2 victory over San Diego widened their slim margin to two full games over the idle Atlanta Braves.

In the only other National League game played Monday, Chicago edged Montreal 3-2.

"There were many ways that we weren't playing as well as we should have," said the Dodgers' Chris Gwynn, who delivered the winning run with a pinch-hit sacrifice fly.

Dennis Rasmussen pitched shutout ball for seven innings and left after issuing a leadoff walk in the eighth to pinch-hitter Mitch Webster. Webster later scored on Kal Daniels' single, and Daniels scored from first on Darryl Strawberry's hit-and-run single.

Webster scored the winning run on Gwynn's sacrifice fly after opening the 10th with a double off loser Larry Andersen (3-4).

Rasmussen allowed four hits, none after Strawberry's leadoff single in the fourth.

Cubs 3, Expos 2
Bill Sampen walked Luis Salazar with two outs in the 11th inning.

The Cubs loaded the bases with none out against Sampen (6-3) before Andre Dawson hit into a fielder's choice, shortstop to home, and George Bell flied out. Sampen then walked Salazar on a 3-1 pitch.

Urbanczyk family holds 23rd reunion

Edward Dziuk, Jr. was master of ceremonies at the 23rd annual reunion of the Anton Urbanczyk family held at Thompson Park recently. Approximately 224 family members attended the event.

Tony Urbanczyk, Edna Reinart, Rosalie Stengel, Leona Mazurek, and Aurelia Urbanczyk, all of Hereford, and Theresa Kotara of White Deer and Ethel Stengel of Amarillo, dedicated the reunion to their sister, Irene Dziuk and her husband Ed Dziuk, Sr.

Vicky Schmucker and Evelyn Morrison registered guests.

Recognition was given to Jason Cline, six-week-old great-grandson of John Urbanczyk. Irene Dziuk was the oldest descendant present and Ed Dziuk, Sr. was the oldest person attending. Sixtus and Sally Skloos of San Antonio and Kenneth and Stella Blaschke of Fort Smith, Ark. traveled the greatest distance.

One hundred one members of the Felix Anton family attended the reunion. From Hereford were Chris and Kamille Urbanczyk, Kevin and Rhonda Urbanczyk, Mary and Ed Dziuk, Jr., Greg Urbanczyk, Mike, Evelyn, Meloni and Michael Morrison, Bob and Vicky Schmucker, Sam and Leona Mazurek, Connie and Connie Urbanczyk, Sid, Nancy, Caci and Seth Urbanczyk, Chad Urbanczyk, Heath, Brenda, Candace and Sarah Urbanczyk, Bud and Rustie Stengel, Al Dziuk, Irene and Ed Dziuk, Sr., Arhart and Edna Reinart, Sammee Mazurek, Tony and Loretta Urbanczyk, Brian, Patti and Madison Urbanczyk, Aurelia Urbanczyk, Martin, Sue, Joshua, Jeremy and Jenna Urbanczyk and Lori Urbanczyk.

Drivers warned of school day hazards

Vacations are ending and children are preparing to return to school. Major V.J. Cawthon, regional commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said this will create not only a change for our children, but the motoring public must also make some changes as well.

During the summer months, drivers often get out of the habit of being alert or both school zones and school buses.

Major Cawthon says that now is the time to get familiar with posted school times in your area. It's important to remember that school zones can be posted by blinking yellow lights or in some areas just a sign posting the school zone times. Either way it's your duty to be alert or our young children, some of whom are attending school for the first time and others who have moved to the neighborhood during the summer months and who may be unfamiliar with the area.

State law requires drivers on the same roadway as a school bus that has stopped to load or unload school children, to stop and remain stopped until one of three things happen, the bus driver signals you to go on by, they turn off the flashing red lights, or the bus itself resumes motion.

This law applies whether you are meeting the bus or whether you are going in the same direction; with the only exception being drivers on the other side of a divided highway (roadways separated by a physical median). These drivers are not required to stop when meeting the bus.

Motorist who must back their vehicles into the path of pedestrians or bicyclist should use extreme caution, noting that the driver's line of sight is very limited in a backing maneuver. It's a good idea to physically inspect what's behind your vehicle prior to backing and while backing. Do it slowly and sound your horn, if necessary to ensure safety.

Observing speed limits in school zones an being alert for increased pedestrian traffic in neighborhoods at the beginning and ending of each school day can make it a safe school year.

Johnson spends summer counseling at youth camp

Christopher Howard Johnson, of Hereford, is working as a counselor at the Texas Lions Camp in Kerrville this summer.

While at camp, counselors are concerned with every aspect of the campers physical and social well-being. They are often the mother, father, best friend and coach to over 230 children who are blind, deaf, diabetic or have physical disabilities who attend the camp each session.

Counselors undergo a rigorous seven-day training and orientation before camp begins. They learn sign language, first aid, CPR and other skills needed to care for the special children who attend the Texas Lions Camp.

The Texas Lions Camp has served children who are blind, deaf, diabetic, or have physical disabilities for over 40 years. Activities are adapted when necessary so every child may participate.

The Texas Lions Camp is a nonprofit organization funded by donations. This allows services to be offered free of charge to eligible children.

For more information, or if you know of someone who can benefit from these programs, call your local Lions club or write, Texas Lions Camp, P.O. Box 247, Kerrville, TX, 78029-0247 (512-896-8500).

Hints from Heloise

Q. Do you have a remedy for shoes that squeak? Even an occasional squeak can be annoying! — D.L., Houston, Texas

A. Here are a few suggestions to hush those squeaky shoes. Talcum powder sprinkled into the shoes will sometimes do the trick, so try this first.

If the shoes are still squeaking, turn them over and push a thumbtack into both sides of the metal arch support in each shoe sole. (Make sure the tacks do not penetrate through the inside of the shoe.)

If the shoes are still determined to squeak, take them to a shoe-repair shop. They may be able to fix them for a fee.

FAST FACTS

- Uses for pine cones:
 - Use for craft projects.
 - Use peanut butter and bird seed on some to make bird feeders.
 - Place in indoor plants to keep pets from digging in.
 - Put in bottom of a vase to secure dried or silk flowers.
 - Burn them in the fireplace.

NEWSPAPER PUZZLES

Dear Heloise: I enjoy solving the various puzzles which appear in our daily newspaper, but due to my sometimes hectic schedule, I don't always have the time.

In order to work the puzzles at my leisure, I simply clip them from the paper every day and save them in an envelope. This avoids accumulating large quantities of newspapers plus I have the added bonus of saving money by not having to buy puzzle books! — Peggy Fought, Luling, La.

You can also save children's puzzles and favorite comics in a notebook for rainy-day activities or car trips. — Heloise

WALLPAPER

Dear Heloise: My husband put up some beautiful wallpaper in my newly remodeled kitchen.

To keep the area around the stove looking new, he applied clear adhesive plastic over the wallpaper. Grease and other food splatters are easy to clean up and the wallpaper is not left stained. — Gail B., Roanoke, Va.

If your trash can sits against a wallpapered area, this is also a good place to protect with the clear adhesive-backed plastic. — Heloise

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: Why don't bathroom-cleaner manufacturers make a pump spray bottle that will spray upside down?

I use a liquid toilet-bowl cleaner that comes in a pump spray bottle. It quits spraying when the bottle is turned upside down to reach under the rim, as the directions instruct. — K.L., Oxnard, Calif.

Smith earns honors

Ralph Glenn Smith of Dimmitt has been inducted into the Texas Bandmasters Hall of Fame.

Smith, who grew up in Hereford (he's the son of Lurline Kendall and the late J. Ralph Smith of Hereford) and graduated from Hereford High School in 1941, was inducted July 29 at the Marriott Riverwalk Hotel in San Antonio.

Smith was director of the Dimmitt High School Band for 31 years before retiring in 1983, and his bands earned sweepstakes awards 28 times. The Dimmitt band won many festival and other awards, was selected to appear on television at halftime of an Air Force Academy-Washington football game, was chosen for the Tournament of Roses Parade, and garnered many other honors.

Smith was Texas Bandmaster of the Year in 1979, served in every office on the state level of the Texas Bandmasters Association, and was president of Phi Beta Mu and served on the fraternity's national board.

Smith has nine books published on marching bands and designed widely-used marching grid papers. Smith has served as a marching clinician for state associations in Colorado and Arkansas, and served for over 20 years as a member of the State Music Advisory Committee of the University Interscholastic League. He served as the committee's chairman in 1978 and 1979.

Smith and his wife, Avis, reside in Dimmitt.

Lock-in held recently

The Hereford High School Student Council held a lock-in Aug. 9 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Dawn Community Center.

The group set goals to increase student council membership, motivate students with fun activities, increase school spirit and participation, increase communication between faculty and students.

Student Council members set "A Bridge to Tomorrow" as their school year theme.

Members attending were, Kathleen Cooper, Melissa DeLeon, Tiffanie Dewbre, Emily Fuston, Sherry Fuston, Gabriela Gamez, Jason Gear, Xavier Gutierrez, Clara Jackson, Connie Jackson, Kelly Kelso, Chris Lyles, Irene Medrano, Matthew Parker, Eric Sims, Brook Weatherly and sponsor Mary Parker.

The highly flavored spice known as mace is actually the covering of the nutmeg. It is usually sold ground and is often used to flavor fruit pies.

Thunder Junction to meet

Yesterday's children and the Thunder Junction Board of Directors will hold a meeting to give an update on their proposed Old West park at 7 p.m. Aug. 22 in the new Bairfield Activity Center at Clarendon College.

All interested Panhandle residents are invited to attend.

"We want to give the public a progress report and let everyone know the status of the project," Bright Newhouse, board president of Thunder Junction, said.

In recent weeks, numerous contacts have been made with potential sources for grant funding, donation of items and other assistance," he said. "Now we need to let area residents know where they fit in, how their help is critical to the next phase of the park planning design."

Organizers say they are at "a crucial point" in the development of Thunder Junction, planned to feature the arts, crafts and colorful history of the cowboys, Indians and the settlers of the Panhandle. Part of the park's profits will go to Yesterday's Children to benefit senior citizen programs in the Panhandle.

On Sept. 30 a three-year development grant that has funded the resource development work undertaken by Pat Kaiser for the Panhandle Area Agency on Aging and Yesterday's Children will expire.

Funds are needed for operational and administrative costs, planning and design work, architectural plans for building the park, said Kaiser, president of Yesterday's Children.

Board members plan to kick off sales of a special commemorative item as a fundraiser for the park at the Aug. 22 meeting. Other opportunities for donations to the park will also be offered, according to Newhouse and Kaiser.

"It is critical that the area invest in this project in order for us to secure additional, outside funding," Kaiser said. "We want to give everyone a chance to do that, on whatever scale they can."

Surviving Divorce

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Though divorce is unpleasant, it need not traumatize children forever, says psychologist JoAnne Pedro-Carroll of the University of Rochester. How parents handle it is the key to helping children cope, she says.

"Keep the conflict between you and your spouse," says Pedro-Carroll. "Don't fight in front of the children, or make them choose sides."

A common misconception children have, she says, is that if they had only behaved better, the parents wouldn't be divorcing.

To spare children these guilt feelings, parents should make sure the kids know the divorce isn't their fault. Finally, she says, children need to know that the special kind of love a parent has for a child will never stop, even with a divorce.

They're Double the Trouble and half their age.

Bush calls Yeltsin President offers Boris 'continued US support'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Bush phoned the president of the Russian Republic, Boris Yeltsin, today to assure him he will have "continued U.S. support" in his effort to force the return of Mikhail Gorbachev as president of the Soviet Union.

Bush also swore in Robert S. Strauss as U.S. ambassador to Moscow, and sent him on an immediate fact-finding mission there. But Bush said Strauss will not present his credentials to the hard liners who ousted Gorbachev on Monday.

"Things have changed rather dramatically since I accepted this" assignment, Strauss said.

"There will not be normal relations with the Soviet Union as long as the coup is in place," said Bush. He has suspended, for now, economic assistance to Moscow while evaluating events.

"We're just sitting here for a while, leaving everything on hold," he said. Bush said he'd been trying to call Gorbachev — "the duly constituted leader of the Soviet Union" — but had not been able to get through.

Bush said it was hard to evaluate the prospects that the coup will fail.

"However, there appears to be very strong support from the people in the Soviet Union for constitutional government, for democratic reform," Bush said.

"You don't take freedom away from people very easily," Bush said. "You don't set back democracy very easily." He emphasized that democratic transitions in the former Communist states of Eastern Europe "cannot be reversed."

Bush said Yeltsin told him supporters were massing outside his parliament building in Moscow, and that labor was backing his demand for the return of Gorbachev. Bush said neither he nor Yeltsin believed that Gorbachev was out of power due to poor health.

Bush said he was "making it very clear to the coup plotters" that there will not be normal relations with the United States while they hold power illegally.

"Let's hope that that will bring these people to their senses," the president said.

Save for renegade regimes, Bush said, governments around the world have condemned the coup, led by conservative, military and police officials who said the Soviet Union was at the brink of chaos.

Earlier today, Bush dispatched his secretary of state, James A. Baker III, to Brussels to seek a NATO consensus on a statement calling on the Soviet Union to continue political and economic reforms. Bush was briefed about the Soviet crisis early this morning by his national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft.

"We have no interest in a new Cold War or in the exacerbation of East-West tensions," Bush said in a statement issued Monday night after a series of meetings with advisers and telephone calls to a dozen world leaders. "At the same time, we will not support economic aid programs if adherence to extra-constitutional means continues."

The strongly worded statement followed a more measured response the president delivered in the first hours after Kremlin hard-liners ousted the vacationing Gorbachev and sent tanks into the streets of Moscow to demonstrate their power.

"We are deeply disturbed by the events of the last hours in the Soviet Union and condemn the unconstitutional resort to force," Bush's evening statement said.

"This misguided and illegitimate effort bypasses both Soviet law and the will of the Soviet peoples. Accordingly, we support (Russian republic) President (Boris) Yeltsin's call for 'restoration of the legally elected organs of power and the reaffirmation of the post of U.S.S.R. President M.S. Gorbachev.'"

Bush said his administration opposed any use of force by the new regime in the restive Soviet republics and called on the Soviet Union to adhere to its international commitments, including human rights accords.

Separately, the White House said the presidents of Poland and Czechoslovakia were among the world leaders contacted by Bush, and said the president emphasized "the irreversibility of the democratic process in Eastern Europe."

Also abruptly ending vacations were Secretary of State James A. Baker III, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and the new U.S. ambassador to Moscow, Robert Strauss, who was being sworn in today.

Leaders of the coup, a group that includes top military and KGB officials, promised to maintain good relations with the United States and the West, and to continue Gorbachev's reforms. But the White House, uneasy with the sudden twist in its carefully cultivated relationship with Gorbachev, was decidedly skeptical.

Bush's national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, dismissed efforts by the coup leaders to "look moderate" and said Gorbachev's ouster "can only be for the purpose of setting back the reforms."

That was a view shared by most in Congress. Democrats and Republicans alike condemned the coup and urged the president to adopt a hard line toward Moscow's resurgent conservative Communists.

Pentagon officials said there were no threatening military moves by Soviet forces against the West in the first day of the new regime, and that the movements of the Red Army inside the Soviet Union appeared designed as an internal show of power.

Still, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., offered an assessment shared throughout Washington, the West and the new democracies in Eastern Europe: "Tanks on the street in Moscow put the whole world on edge."

The coup came just three weeks after Bush visited the Soviet Union to sign a landmark nuclear arms treaty with Gorbachev and announce plans for the superpowers to jointly sponsor a Middle East peace conference this fall.

The startling change of power in Moscow casts those achievements in doubt, as well as planned U.S. and Western cooperation with efforts to reform the shattered Soviet economy. New U.S.-Soviet trade agreements and Bush's plan to grant most-favored-nation trading status to the Soviet Union also were put on hold by the coup.

CORRECTION

In an recent article concerning the employment of Ron Tidmore as the new principal at Shirley Intermediate School in Hereford, it was incorrectly reported that he formerly served here as an assistant principal at West Central School.

Tidmore was a teacher here and moved to Canyon in 1989. He had an informal title as an assistant principal at a Canyon school. Tidmore will replace John Dominguez, who resigned this summer to take a principal's post in Amarillo.

Apollo 7, the first manned Apollo mission, was launched in 1968.

Chiefs tabbed as class of AFC West

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

For 17 games last season, the Los Angeles Raiders were re-committed to excellence after four years out of the playoffs, the longest such streak during Al Davis' tenure.

Then they lost to Buffalo 51-3 in the AFC title game and the talk about the decline of the Raiders started again.

"One game," coach Art Shell said. "We lost. The score doesn't matter."

Shell, the first black coach in the NFL's modern era, brought together the typical Raiders' collection of misfits and outcasts, combined them with some good young and old talent, and won the AFC West at 12-4, overcoming two losses to second-place Kansas City.

It won't be easy to repeat in a division that can challenge the NFC East as the NFL's toughest.

The Chiefs, who got a career year out of 36-year-old quarterback Steve DeBerg, are one of the NFL's solid teams; San Diego is coming on; Seattle is solid if not spectacular, and Denver figures to rebound from a 5-11 season due in large measure to injury.

But the Raiders remain one of the league's curiosities.

Having signed Roger Craig (and safety Ronnie Lott) from San Francisco, they enter the season with four running backs who have gained 1,000-yards and made the Pro Bowl. Those same four running backs all have questions about them.

Craig and Marcus Allen are 31 and 32, respectively, and Craig is coming off knee and hip injuries. Greg Bell is 30 and has been a backup, and Bo Jackson's hip is a major question mark - even if he decides to eschew baseball and join the Raiders early. The wide receivers are, in Raider fashion, world class sprinters like Willie Gault and Sam Graddy, augmented by Tim Brown and Mervyn Fernandez.

The incumbent quarterback is Jay Schroeder, who had his best season last year since he led Washington to the 1986 NFC title game. Behind him are Steve Beuerlein, who never suited up last season after starting for much of 1989, and Todd Marinovich, the No. 1 draft choice and the quarterback of the future.

The defense could use help at linebacker. Howie Long seems rejuvenated up front and Scott Davis came on last year at defensive end. Lott, at strong safety, adds stability to an otherwise young secondary.

How good is Kansas City?

Very good, if DeBerg can come close to last year's form.

"We don't have any specific needs," said coach Marty Schottheimer, who has two bull rushers in Christian Okoye and Barry Word, and will use rookie Harvey Williams, an early holdout, as an outside rushing alternative. Outside of Stephone Paige, there's no real deep threat.

The real strength is on defense, where Derrick Thomas, the latest of "the next Lawrence Taylors" may actually approximate LT. Thomas led the NFL with 20 sacks last season.

San Diego is beginning to benefit from the arrival last year of general manager Bobby Beathard. The Chargers added two offensive line starters last season in Leo Goeas and Frank Cornish, helping Marion Butts to 1,225 rushing yards, second in the AFC. Rookie Eric Bienemy may provide a speedy alternative to the bull-like Butts.

Anthony Miller is one of the game's most dangerous receivers, and the defense, led by cornerback Gill Byrd, linebacker Billy Ray Smith and defensive tackle Burt Grossman, is solid.

The problem? Quarterback.

Billy Joe Tolliver, entering his third season, is the nominal incumbent. But he could be pushed by second-year pro John Friesz, who started the final game last year, or even by the much-traveled Bob Gagliano.

Seattle, 9-7 but out of the playoffs last season, has a quarterback question every year. And every year it's answered by Dave Krieg.

Krieg probably will start again. But now No. 1 draft choice Dan McGwire is around as his likely successor, although a former heir apparent, Kelly Stouffer, has looked better this year after not suiting up for a game last season.

Surprisingly, the conservative Chuck Knox is thinking of using more run-and-shoot this year to utilize the receiving talents of Bennie Blades and Tommy Kane. The running back tandem of Derrick Finner and John L. Williams is solid, but the offensive line is below par.

Last year's rookie crop was good. Defensive linemen Cortez Kennedy and Eric Hayes both should break in soon to the group of Jacob Green, Joe Nash and Jeff Bryant that has started for eight years.

"We weren't as bad as our record," coach Dan Reeves said of Denver's

5-11 season following three Super Bowl trips in four years.

The season started on a downer when Reeves underwent heart surgery during training camp. This year looks more promising. The rookie crop looks good, and Kenny Walker, an eighth-round pick from Nebraska who's limited only by his deafness, could start at end.

And John Elway, of course, can win games by himself at quarterback.

Prediction: 1, Chiefs; 2, Raiders (wild-card); 3, Chargers; 4, Seahawks; 5, Broncos.

Bills' talks with Talley go sour

By The Associated Press

Buffalo Bills general manager Bill Polian said contract talks with holdout linebacker Darryl Talley had taken "a turn for the worse" and the team is ready to start the season without him.

Talley, who made his first Pro Bowl appearance after last season, has been seeking to renegotiate his contract, which had a year remaining.

"Last week we made what we characterized as our best and final offer to Darryl's agent," Polian said Monday. "It was considerably higher than where we were before. It contained a significant signing bonus."

Polian said that offer was "rejected out of hand today. So that door really is closed at this point."

Polian said Talley's agent, Vern Sharbaugh, "took civility and sincerity as a sign of weakness, and that's his misfortune." Polian said he was "not going to give in to extortion."

Oilers waive kicker Garcia

HOUSTON (AP) - Kicker Teddy Garcia was unhappy because he was waived by the Houston Oilers and starting safety Terry Kinard was unhappy because the Oilers didn't cut him.

Garcia, the Oilers' regular kicker at the end of last season, was among 17 players cut Monday, reducing the roster to 60 players.

He had been erratic in early practices but felt the Oilers pushed him aside in favor of free agent Ian Howfield, who has tried out with four NFL teams but has yet to kick in a regular season game.

Howfield kicked field goals of 32, 52 and 17 yards in Houston's 30-20 victory over Dallas Sunday night and consistently sent his kickoffs into the end zone.

"We decided to let him kick until he missed and he didn't miss," Oilers coach Jack Pardee said. "I haven't seen him shank one since he's been here. If he misses, it's not by much."

Kinard, a Plan B signee from the New York Giants, started all 16 games for the Oilers last season but left training camp for two days last week because he felt the Oilers were pushing him aside for younger players.

Sharbaugh said Polian never characterized the offer as final. He also said he never rejected Polian's offer; he merely offered a counter-offer of his own.

Asked if the loss of Talley, who led the Bills in tackles last season, was a big one for the team, Polian said, "No. We'll go on. (It's) just like an injury."

Sharbaugh had another client end a 37-day holdout Monday when wide receiver Reggie Langhorne/a wide receiver, signed a contract with the Cleveland Browns. That leaves defensive tackle Michael Dean Perry as the team's lone holdout.

Langhorne, the Browns' longball threat and leading receiver the past three seasons, signed a two-year contract, Sharbaugh said.

Terms of Langhorne's deal were not disclosed, but the Browns had been refusing to pay him more than Pro Bowl receiver Webster Slaughter, who will make about $550,000 this season. Langhorne's salary is believed to be about $525,000 a year.

While contract hassles continued, there were two exhibition games Monday. John Elway, calling his own plays for the second game in a row, threw for one touchdown while completing 7 of 15 passes for 185 yards in the Broncos' 21-13 victory over the Dolphins.

And Steve Young, Joe Montana's talented backup, completed 18 of 25 passes for 227 yards and rushed twice for 60 yards in the 49ers' 24-13 victory over the Chargers. Young uncorked a 47-yard scoring run that started the 49ers to a 21-3 halftime lead.

The Bills, who played in the Super Bowl in January, chopped nine players off their roster Monday, but faced six more cuts in order to reach today's NFL limit of 60. The cuts were good news for kicker Scott Norwood, who some thought might be in trouble after he missed what would have been the winning field goal in the 20-19 Super Bowl loss to the New York Giants.

The Bills brought in Bjorn Nittmo, the former Giant kicker who had success in the inaugural World League of American Football season, to challenge Norwood. But coach Marv Levy decided the Bills were better off with Norwood, who is the team's career scoring leader.

The Cardinals, one of the NFL's youngest teams, became younger Monday when the club traded guard Derek Kennard and a draft choice to New Orleans for cornerback Robert Massey and released 11 players.

The Steelers waived 10 players and placed one on injured reserve to reduce the roster to 65. Among those cut were center Chuck Lanza, wide receiver Lorenzo Davis and defensive lineman Karl Dunbar. Guard Dean Dingman was placed on injured reserve after undergoing arthroscopic surgery Aug. 2 on his left knee.

The Indianapolis Colts waived quarterback Rusty Hilger and three other players Monday.

Along with Hilger, the Colts released linebacker Romero Brice, defensive lineman Richard McCullough and defensive back Roger Jones.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The (WALCOTT I.S.D.) will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in (1991) by () percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on (AUG. 27th) at (WALCOTT I.S.D.).

FOR the proposal: JIM BOB PERRIN, TED EICKE, JIM MCGOWAN

AGAINST the proposal: NONE

PRESENT and not voting: NONE

ABSENT: SUSAN PERRIN & KENT JACK

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the (effective) tax rate that the unit published on (AUGUST 16, 1991). The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	$50,000	$50,000
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	5,000	5,000
Average taxable value	45,000	45,000
Tax rate	.78	.89 (proposed)
Tax	$351.00	$400.50 (proposed)

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would (increase) by $ (49.50) or (14.1) percent compared with last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would (increase) by $ (.11) (14.1) percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Public Notice

On July 22, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas for approval of two new optional services, Exchange Connection Service and Customer Alerting Enablement. Exchange Connection Service will permit a customer of the Telephone Company to provide voice messaging service, telephone answering service, or other services to itself or to patrons of the customer. Customer Alerting Enablement will permit residence and business lines to receive an alerting tone (intermittent dial tone) transmitted by an Exchange Connection Service customer. The proposed effective date for this offering is September 23, and will be available statewide where facilities permit.

The calling party's telephone number and other originating network call information will be delivered to the Exchange Connection Service customer when the calling number and the called number are served by the same switch. Additionally, the caller's telephone number and other originating network call information may be recorded and stored by the Exchange Connection Service customer. Customers may be able to identify the caller before the call is answered. All Exchange Connection Service customers will be required to sign a non-disclosure agreement prior to being provided service. In the agreement the customer agrees not to disclose the calling party's telephone number unless the customer has written permission from the calling party.

The Telephone Company estimates these new services will increase its annual revenues during the first year by approximately $1.2 million. Providers of voice messaging service and telephone answering services and their subscribers are the types of customers likely to be affected by approval of these services.

Exchange Connection Service is provided to customers in two parts: Local Serving Arrangement, which provides access to the exchange network; and Optional Service Features. The proposed rates, for both Exchange Connection Service and Customer Alerting Enablement, including installation charges, are as follows:

Local Serving Arrangement	Monthly Charge	Installation Charge First Unit	Additional Unit
