Lewis Brothers Observe Twenty Years In City

Ernest And Gene Lewis Now Operate Oldest Grocery Store Here

The Lewis Bros. Grocery is this week observing its twentieth anniversary in Wellington. The firm was opened here in July of 1915, located on the east side of the square, under the management of Ernest Lewis and Gene Lewis. Today it is recognized as one of the most modern and complete department stores in this section.

Lumber Yard 1925

In 1916, Lewis Bros. moved their store to its present location on the southeast corner of the square and have operated it there for the past 19 years. Gene Lewis took over active management of the Lewis Lumber Company, when the firm was established in 1925, and since that time hardware and furniture departments have been added to the Lewis Grocery. In 1932, these departments were arranged with the grocery division into a department store with 75 feet of frontage facing the west.

Although it is the oldest grocery store here, the Lewis Bros. Grocery is among the most modern of grocery and department stores to be found in the Panhandle. In addition to modern displays and shelving arranged on the "M" System plan, the store has refrigeration cases, displays and sprays for the care of vegetables, and a huge storage space in the rear.

Scouts Visit In Palo Duro Camp During Past Week

Several Wellington Scouts Pass Tests On Outing Near Canyon

By TRAVIS SOMERVILLE
Scout Troops 31 and 32 left Wednesday morning for a three day stay in Palo Duro Canyon. They went by Amarillo, staying there until 3:30 Wednesday afternoon, and then went on to the canyon. The scouts were informed at the CCC camp that there was a swimming hole at the eighth crossing; so they pitched camp there. After the camp had been set in order, roll call was made, and they went for a swim. Jimmie Cochran and Eddie Bayouth passed first class swimming tests.

After the swim, supper was prepared. A council fire was then built and the Scouts talked until taps were blown. At that time everyone went to bed except the patrol leaders who kept watch all night.

Enjoy CCC Picnic

At the sound of reveille the boys got up, ate breakfast, and policed the camp. Practically all the Scouts went mountain climbing, but they were back by 10:30. About 10:45 guests started arriving by the truck loads, and by 12:00 there were 400 visitors. These guests were mostly CCC workers and their families, who the Scouts joined in a picnic. After dinner the boys either went swimming or hiking. Pat and R. L. Templeton were the only lucky fishermen. Alvin Martin,

The safety week campaign, scheduled here for the week of July 22 through July 27, took more general aspects here this week as business men, civic organizations and individuals encouraged the City of Wellington and State authorities in their cooperative drive to make the program effective.

A careful check will also be made as to the road worthy ability of the automobiles.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

In the settlement of any new country, generally it is not always the most religious type of people that settle first. By this statement we do not mean to reflect on any people that have pioneered.

When Texas was first being settled some of the leaders had to appeal to the leaders of the churches in the northeastern states to send them preachers.

The first record that we have of Protestant services being conducted in what is now known as Texas, was in 1817. William Stevenson preached on the Texas side of the Red River in the home of a Mr. Wright. The place seems to have been Jonesboro.

Here a Methodist class was formed. This was several years before any other Protestant denomination actually established work in Texas. Thus Methodism has the honor of being the first evangelical Church to begin work in the State.

To show the need of preachers in Texas during the early days the following letter is given and was written by Travis seven and one-half months before his death in the Alamo. It was written to the New York Christian Advocate and Journal.

"San Felipe de Austin, Texas August 17, 1835 My Dear Sir: I take the liberty of addressing you from this distant quarter of the world for the purpose of requesting you to receive my name as a subscriber of your widely circulated Advocate. We are very destitute of religious instruction in this extensive fine country, and the circulation of your paper here will greatly beneficial in the absence of the stated preaching of the Gospel. Although the exercise of religion in any form is not prohibited here, but is encouraged by the people, yet few preachers have come among us to dispense the tidings of salvation to upwards of sixty thousand of destitute souls. I regret that the Methodist Church, with its excellent itinerant system, has hitherto sent the pioneers of the Gospel into almost every destitute portion of the globe, should have neglected so long this interesting country. I wish you would do me and the good cause the favor to publish such remarks as will call the attention of the reverend Bishops, the different Conferences, and the Board of Missions, to the subject of spreading the Gospel in Texas. About five educated and talented young preachers would find employment in Texas, and no doubt would produce much good in this benighted land. Texas is composed of the shrewdest and most intelligent population of any new country on earth; therefore, a preacher to do good must be respectable and talented. In sending you heralds to the four corners of the earth, remember Texas. (Signed) Wm. B. Travis. Travis died in a few months in

Post Office Raises Flag --43 Years

"Why the flag in front of the post office?"

The above question has been asked by many persons since last Saturday, when Old Glory was hoisted. The answer is postal regulations. It is now, and has always been, a regulation that a flag be flown over all federal buildings. After 43 years the Wellington office is complying with the regulation, according to R. F. Curry, postmaster, who says that the office will continue to hoist the flag on all days except Sundays.

the Alamo, and Methodism answered the plea by giving her godly pioneer ministers to this needy field.

Today there are some 550,000 Methodist members in Texas and a constituency of some 2,000,000.

LETTERS From the PEOPLE

(Editor's Note: The Leader will gladly publish any acceptable article which is submitted by readers, provided that the articles are signed by the readers and are free from libelous or malicious contents.)

By MRS. G. A. RICHARDS

I believe one of the greatest benefits that I have received from the Home Demonstration Club work is the ability in a small degree to work and cooperate with others. This pulling together has not been in work alone, but in social activities also. I have tried to encourage non-club members as well as club members to be interested and work for our club. I have learned how to meet people, have a good time and then go back to my work with more determination to accomplish something.

Participating in group activities soon taught me the importance of fair play, playing the game hard and yet keeping up the spirit of friendly competition. I have learned to be more friendly and treat others as an equal. I have learned how to arrange my furniture so it will be easier to do my work and be of greater service and how to manage my work so I will have more leisure. With the help and cooperation of my demonstrator the planning and growing of my garden has been made easier.

The more difficulties that beset us, be they financial or otherwise, the more we need pleasant social contacts and we as farm women get it through our club work. I, as a member of the Cross Roads Club, have derived so much good from being a member it would be impossible for me to list the good. Give the world the best that you have and the best will come back to you.

Ten Commandments for the Farmer's Wife by Margaret Moloney: 1. Remember to keep cheerful; 2. Remember, overwork will ruin any disposition; 3. Remember your own appearance and keep it attractive; 4. Remember that fences were not intended to keep the farmer's wife in—or the neighbors out; 5. Remember, Himself isn't comfortable up on a pedestal, keep Him down where you can enjoy the journey with Him; 6. Remember, a new hat is the best known remedy for the grumps; 7. Remember, your magazine and papers were meant to read, not to kindle fires with; 8. Remember, ad browsing is to the farmer's wife what a stroll down the avenue is to her city cousin; 9. Remember, a flower garden is good for the soul likewise sunsets, the song of a bird and a pause now and then, just to remember; 10. Remember to do in place of don't.

The Shadows Before

Just a few years since the War of ALL WARS . . . and Today!

Nippon pouring her armies over the Mongol's wall. France fortifying from Paris to the Pyrenees. The growl of the Russian Bear breaking the Siberian silence.

The Italian Idol, wearing the helmet of Mars, rushing a large contingent of soldiers into Ethiopia.

Germany calling all classes, for 20 years past, into military reserve, and again dreaming of a World Capitol on the banks of the Danube.

England's whining foundries writing a Foreword to another tragic chapter to her history of yesterday.

The United States making large appropriations to augment all her war agencies.

Six O'clock Ceremony Unites Singley - Luker

Before an improvised altar of ivy and fern intertwined with California giant daisies, Miss Frances Singley was married to Mr. Gene Luker of Matador. The ring ceremony was performed in the bride's home by the groom's father, Rev. J. F. Luker of Muleshoe, at six o'clock Monday evening, July 8. Cathedral candelabra further enhanced the attractiveness of the mantle.

The bride was dressed in a yellow net afternoon dress trimmed in brown grograin ribbon. She carried chasta daisies and white snapdragons. Her sister, Miss Sue Singley, as bridesmaid, was dressed in green lace with white accessories and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. John Hamilton of Matador was the only attendant to the groom.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. J. L. Montgomery, dressed in pale blue organdy, with orchid sweet peas corsage, played the wedding march. Mrs. Tom Campbell who sang "I Love You Truly," was attired in pastel floral designs and carried variegated sweet peas. Miss Jewell Sugg presided at the bride's book.

Following the ceremony a buffet dinner was served to the guests. Mrs. Guy Clay, Mrs. John E. Jones, Miss Florence Jones, Mrs. Annie Genusa and Mrs. Cal Sugg presided in the dining room. The table was laid in all white linen with white tapers at either end, and the four-tiered wedding cake forming the centerpiece. A huge wedding bell made of gold and silver cellophane hung above the cake with silver streamers attached to the table.

Mrs. Luker's traveling costume was a brown triple sheer suit with white accessories. After a short wedding trip the young couple will make their home in Matador.

Among the out of town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton of Matador, Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Luker of Muleshoe, Miss Roxy Weinke and Miss Tiny Robinson of Levelland, Mrs. Vaughn of Spur and Mr. Grey of Matador. Other guests were relatives and intimate friends of Wellington.

Federal - State Job Bureau OK

WASHINGTON.—An agreement between Texas and the Federal Government will be signed Tuesday, under terms of which the United States Employment Service will be maintained on a cooperative and permanent basis. State employment officers will be at Dallas, Fort Worth, and Waco, in addition to the State headquarters at Austin. Financing of the new service is on a fifty-basis, for which the Texas Legislature appropriated $36,000 for the first year.

The service supplants the National Re-Employment Service, which was exclusively Federal. The same officers and personnel of the old service will be kept for several months until examinations are held, placing the new personnel on the merit system.

Mexican Armies Were Constant Threat In Early Days Of Texas Republic

AUSTIN.—It must not be supposed that the Battle of San Jacinto, decisive though it was in determining the independence of the Republic of Texas, ended war between the Mexicans and Texans. Indeed, skirmishes occurred periodically for a number of years between various armed forces of the two former combatants. Attacks from Mexican armies were constantly a threat. The situation as it existed after the war is graphically described by John Salmon Ford, journalist-soldier-historian, in his Memoirs. The manuscript of these Memoirs, which have never been published, is in the family archives collection of the University of Texas library. Ford possessed a flair for delineating personalities and for depicting atmosphere which renders his Memoirs much more interesting, both from the point of view of the casual reader and from that of the student of social movements, than the usual catalogue of events.

"A goodly number of Mexicans remained in the town and country of Nacogdoches after the battle of San Jacinto," Ford wrote. "It would be difficult to assume that these people always received fair and honorable treatment at the hands of Texans, without an infraction of truth. On the other hand it would be hard to prove these citizens of Mexican origin demeaned themselves blamelessly. "In process of time a pronunciation was published. The leader in this movement was Vicente Cordova—a man of some means, and considerable influence among his country men.

"The news spread fast. In a few days companies were marching from many counties of Eastern Texas. It was the custom in those days for men, able to do military duty, to outfit themselves, with arms, ammunition, and provision. It was usual to meet at the county-seat, and organize. Elections were primitive affairs. For instance when two candidates were in the field for captain, they were placed some distance apart. At the word 'March' the friends of the respective candidates fell into line by the side of his favorite. A count was made, and the result declared. The captain of the San Augustine company was H. W. Augustine.

"The different commands were concentrated between Nacogdoches and the Angelina river. We remained in camp about two days. More good feeling and hilarity never prevailed among the citizen-soldiers of any country. Everything was given and taken in good humor. The 'greenies' suffered as usual. A sentinel one night mistook the noise made by a rat, in packing sticks to complete a nest, for the furtive tramp of a savage; and fired. The line of battle was speedily formed—an investigation set on foot, and the truth ascertained. Every once in a while some one would bawl out—'Who shot the rat?' A multitude of voices would respond—'Purse.' He grew tired of the fun, and swore a goodly lot of extra oaths, but the cry ceased not.

"Capt. Augustine's company was ordered to make a reconnaissance between the Angelina and the Neches rivers. The duty was performed without any incident occurring of moment. A night alarm caused the command to be placed in line. Lieut. N. K. K. was in charge of the guard. He sported a brigadier general's uniform. He reported—'something approached a sentinel—he hailed—receiving no answer—he fired. He is sure it was not a woman.' The latter assertion set every one to laughing; and thus the affair ended.

"It should have been stated previously that, Gen. Thomas J. Rusk commanded the whole force. Some field officers were on duty by virtue of their commissions in the militia. Our Major was Dr. Alexander G. Hale.

"The line of march was up river to form a junction with the main body. We halted a Lacy's ranch, if memory serves; a large farm on the road from Nacogdoches to Washington on the Brazos. The house was on an elevated spot—overlooking a considerable extent of territory. It is on or near the town of Alto, as the writer has been informed. We remained here about two days. In the evening of the second day news was received that, a body of four hundred Mexicans and Indians were not far off. That night we moved back on the Nacogdoches road, and encamped in a mot of timber, surrounded by prairie on every side. The position was good for defense, but lacked water. Regularity, order, and silence was observed as we marched along by fours. Not many hours before, the road was not sufficiently large to prevent men from falling out of a column of twos. All was quiet during the night.

"The next morning we resumed our march by twos. Very soon a large body of men was seen coming across the prairie in our direction. They were supposed to be enemies. The other was given 'Front into Line.' We moved at a gallop. An elderly gentleman, Mr. Shofner, seemed to feel the necessity of going into battle with a full stomach. He detached a piece of dried beef from the cantil of his saddle made a vigorous effort to fill his mouth. The ground was 'sidling,' his horse began stumbling, was unable to recover, and fell a long distance—leaving the rider on the ground behind him. The prostrate man made a desperate effort to finish his meal. It did not take long to learn the force in sight was Gen. Rusk's main command.

"That day or the next the trail of the enemy was followed. The command passed by the house of Bowles, the celebrated Cherokee chief. He was standing at a short distance from his house, a comfortable appearing log cabin, conversing with some of our officers, perhaps Gen. Rusk. An interpreter was present. His face had somewhat the contour of a Caucasian. The nose was rather on the aquiline order. He impressed one with the idea that, he possessed force of character, and great firmness. He denied all connection with the movement set on foot by Cordova and his Indian allies. As far as his people were concerned, we were induced to form a different opinion very soon thereafter.

"The enemy moved up country, not far from the valley of the Neches. In time they divided. The Mexicans headed more to the westward. The army followed the trail trending to the right. It grew smaller as we advanced. Men reported Indians travelling on foot to their homes. On reaching the Neches Saline there was scarcely anything visible to follow. The general impression was that, the Cherokees, at least, had abandoned the cause of the pronunciados, yet the evidences of their hostility were undoubted by us. This caused many a prudent man to consider the danger of having a people, about half civilized, possessing property, arms, and munitions of war; and harboring a hereditary enemy to us; living as our near neighbors, really in our midst. It seemed to many very like a situation estimated to culminate in bloodshed and disaster, when a fair opportunity presented to inflict them upon us. What was most dreaded was the terrible fate in store for the families exposed to the operations of savage men who would make slaves of their sons and mistresses of their daughter.

"The army disbanded at the Neches Saline. The men turned their faces homewards, with strong presentiments that, the enterprise they had undertaken was not abandoned, but suspended, & would be completed ere long, as an act of necessity, of self protection, dictated by imminent, impending dangers."

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

Lewis Brothers are this week observing the twentieth anniversary of the opening of their grocery store in Wellington. With the mortality rate among retail firms what it is, twenty years is no mean length of time for one business house to remain in continuous operation. If I remember correctly, the average life of the usual retail firm in the United States is less than 5 years continuous operation in one community. In every town there are firms whose age is much greater, but the length of life is a tribute to the sincerity, the integrity and the usefulness of the men who operate the business.

Pat Dickey told me that he and one hand chopped 19 acres of cotton Tuesday. Pat's crop must have been clean to make such a feat possible, but it does bring to mind how rapidly farmers in this county get their crops in shape. A number of farmers have told me in recent weeks of planting or plowing 25 acres in one day. All of this might suggest that the farmer has an easy life. He does have lots of spare time, but his life is not easy. His business in one of the greatest gambles in this country. It is the uncertainty of the returns that brings long faces and makes the average farmer more or less of a pessimist. A crop that looks like a bumper one today may be wiped out by hail. One that is fine now may be destroyed by droughts or insects next month. And if all of these things turn out well, the bottom may fall out of the price structure. There is nothing certain in this life, but farming is certainly not the place for the man who likes to know in advance what the returns on his labors will be. When you think of it, however, is there any business in which that is possible!

Mrs. O. D. Hill was up from Dodsonville this week, and she wanted to know where we got our information that the water in their city well was hard. We very promptly informed her that Jack Deahl, their city attorney, had given us the information. Mrs. Hill says the water is soft, but there was some doubt as to the quantity. The well will be continued on down to 90 feet and it is thought that the supply will be sufficient.

I have just finished a big argument with Bud Manzer about beautifying his home place. Since it is the total point for the tourist's eye, I contended that it ought to be the beauty spot of Wellington. Besides I contended that a banker of his acknowledged ability and a school trustee president of his leadership calibre ought to live in a place of natural beauty even if the house is old. In the right setting, the age of the house would lead additional charm. In the course of my harangue I learned that Miss Donaghey had been suggesting the same thing. Bud, who is usually very truculent, took it in good spirits. He didn't even mention that it was his place nor suggest that the question of improving it was his business. The thing I appreciate, however, was that he didn't suggest that I could spend my time much more profitably trying to reduce my overdraft instead trying to get somebody to blow in some money. That was restraint of a high order.

Business people of Wellington would do well to go on the tour of inspection with the home demonstration women when they make their tour. In my opinion those women are making an important contribution to the betterment of this county. It would be a good thing to see what they have been doing, and to realize the problems that they have overcome. I know that they will be very glad to have visitors inspect their work. Several Wellington cars should make the trip.

ed that he might leave his home, which included a well improved 160-acre farm in the Lillie Community. The fact that the farm was practically clear also added to the mystery of his disappearance. At the time he left he resided on the farm with his son, Earl Akin. Relatives Frightened

His departure left friends and relatives almost panic stricken, because he left without letting any of them know his plans and without bidding any of them farewell. Fearing that he might come to harm an extensive search was immediately launched and territory for a radius of 200 miles was covered by automobile.

Mr. Akin was thought to have left at an early hour, and he took all of his clothing with him after packing it in a sack. The sack was abandoned in Memphis, however, where he bought a suitcase.

The elderly farmer had many friends in this county, having lived here for the past 25 years. He came to Texas more than 40 years ago and drove a team through from Mississippi. Before leaving here he made no arrangements for the care of his farm or property.

Mr. Akin has a son, Earl Akin, and four daughters, who reside in this county. The daughters are Mrs. B. F. Ford, Mrs. Corbett Ford, Mrs. Claude Brown and Mrs. Buddy Robinson. Although relatives have no definite trace of him at the present time, they hope that he will show up in Mississippi, where a sister and other relatives still reside.

The Rattlesnake patrol leader, killed a rattlesnake with eight rattlers, making one for each member of the patrol. That evening the Scouts had visitors from Wellington, who were: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cochran and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Horn and son, Joe. Mr. Thompson's family from Wellington and other relatives also came.

Friday morning the Scouts had breakfast and decided to leave after a short swim. The boys had to walk out of the canyon as the truck could not pull them. The Scouts went through the museum at the CCC camp and saw many relics that were found in the canyon. The boys came home by way of Amarillo, where they stopped and visited the zoo which proved very interesting. From Amarillo the Scout expedition made a straight trip home.

Those making the trip were:

Joe Thompson, Dr. John Harper, Z. J. Neeley, Roy L. Harrison, John Templeton, Travis Somerville, Bear Patrol leader, Frank Cook, Frank Mitchell, Eddie Bayouth, Jimmie Cochran, S. A. Combs, Aaron Hurst, Joe Hardy, Flying Eagle Patrol leader, Junnion Montague, Robert Scott, John Calvin Harper, Carl Browning, Bill Brisbin, Alvin Martin, Rattlesnake Patrol leader, J. E. date. Cars showing any defect will be given a summons to appear before the courts.

Mr. Huddleston pointed out, however, that the intention of the safety drive is not to place motorists under heavy fines, but to create more safety in driving. He said that any motorist who is given a ticket may secure release without paying a fine provided he has the faulty part of his car repaired and presents a receipt showing that this has been done. The campaign is to be conducted under the authority of the state law, which empowers a highway patrolman to stop any vehicle at any time and to give it a complete inspection.

Mr. Huddleston also pointed out that in other parts of the state 80 per cent of the motorists have voluntarily passed through the safety lane merely to get their "OK" stickers which show that their cars are in good condition.

Local officials and residents are cooperating fully with the movement because they are anxious to cut down motor accidents and fatalities, many of which are caused through faulty mechanisms on automobiles.

Interest in the movement was supported by reports that on July 4, 1935, the nation lamented the loss of 203 persons, while thousands were reported injured. In past years the death toll for this one day alone was reported as high as 483 persons.

In addition to checking faulty mechanisms, the campaign will also include a program for safe driving and the cooperation of all motorists in this section was sought from July 22-27, inclusive by officials.

These remains add to the Indian remains that has been found in Collingsworth County such as Indian pottery, skeletons, arrowheads and many other traces of the Indians. These are all evidences that the Indians also found Collingsworth County a desirable place in which to live.

Second Team Wins At Hollis

Wellington's second team drubbed the Hollis nine by a score of 24 to 4 in their game Sunday, which was played at Hollis. Wellington started early with four runs in the first inning and scored in every inning throughout the game. Wellington made 24 hits and 24 runs, while Tabors and Barton were holding Hollis to four runs. Brown and Jackson led the hitting for Wellington with Brown getting four singles and a home run while Jackson got three singles and a double. However every member of the club was hitting them far and wide, and Hollis used five pitchers in an effort to stem the tide, but to no avail.

Next Sunday the Wellington nine will meet Rolla. Jack McLaughlin says that his boys are anxious to avenge the defeat they suffered at the hands of Rolla three weeks ago, but Jack Smallwood declares that his boys will not be asleep. It promises to be an interesting encounter. The

Perryton Editor Accuses Amarillo Of Hogging Funds

Amarillo Editor Says His City Will Help As In Past

Below the Leader is publishing two articles for the information of the people of Collingsworth County. Both have a bearing on the road situation in Collingsworth County and the discussion may have a bearing on the letting of contracts on the north and south highway through this county.

The following is taken from the Amarillo Globe News of July 7:

"According to the Amarillo News, under the date of Saturday, June 29, 1935, the gigantic highway building program for the Texas Panhandle is settled, with Ochiltree County, along with 22 out of 28 counties of the 18th congressional district, getting not one cent or one foot of paving. It is also interesting to note that only highways designated for improvements by The Amarillo News, and we have no reason to doubt that their information is correct, are those which run through Amarillo and Potter County."

The above is the opening paragraph in a lengthy but prejudiced and highly misleading article by Editor Van W. Stewart of Perryton for what he terms "hogging" the Panhandle highway program and in the article issues a strong plea to the rest of the Panhandle to boycott Amarillo merchants. He sent telegrams to other Panhandle newspaper men urging them to join him in protest of the allocation of road funds as announced some 10 days ago for paving the gaps on Highways 66 and

Houselog Girl Is Bedroom Contest Winner At District

Billye Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Smith of the Houselog community, and county 4-H Club bedroom winner, won third place in the district. This is a very exceptional record due to the fact that Billye is only 10 years of age and this is her first year in club work.

Let's Call It A Date, Amarillo

(An Editorial)

Van W. Stewart, editor of the Ochiltree County Herald, provoked considerable discussion in this section last week by accusing Amarillo of "hogging" the Panhandle highway program. He supported his argument with the fact that all roads which have been designated for improvement lead into Amarillo. T. E. Johnson, able managing editor of the Globe-News, lost no time in offering a rebuttal. These articles need no further explanation, for they are reproduced in this issue of The Leader.

They are published because a better understanding may come from the discussion. But it should be mentioned that Wellington and Collingsworth County do not agree entirely with either Editor Stewart or Editor Johnson. Speaking for them, The Leader desires to point out certain things, which are of importance to both Perryton and Amarillo. The first is that Wellington will lend every assistance possible to Perryton in securing a hard surfaced road on Highway 4 throughout the length of the Panhandle. Naturally this would include the gap in Ochiltree County, but right at this time Wellington is striving to get the gap in Collingsworth County completed.

In short, Wellington sees no harm in each community working for itself specifically as well as for the Panhandle generally. Under such circumstances, Wellington does not blame Amarillo for working for important highways, regardless of whether they lead into Amarillo or not. Furthermore, this community has no crow to pick with the Highway Commission. In fact, we are well pleased with the treatment that we have received up to this time, and the Commissioner's Court and the people are truly grateful for the co-operation they have received from J. B. Nabors, district engineer. They contemplate the past with satisfaction and look to the immediate future with high hope.

Wellington is different from Perryton in that its people have no desire to boycott Amarillo. In fact, they would like very much to have the opportunity of trading with the capital city of the Panhandle. They try to now, but the condition of the highways makes it a hardship. Although, geographically and politically a part of the Panhandle, Wellington is, from a business and economic standpoint, a part of Oklahoma. It has no outlet to Amarillo, and yet it is the richest agricultural county in the Panhandle. If a hard surfaced road were provided, its people could trade with Amarillo by routing goods from Wellington to Shamrock, and over No. 66. As it is, the wholesale firms in Amarillo do comparatively very little business with firms in Collingsworth County, and the people go elsewhere for amusement and recreation. This condition is of no recent origin, but has existed for thirty years.

It would have been sound business for Amarillo to have pushed Highway 4 in the past, for it would have provided its wholesalers with a valuable market. Evidently the metropolis of the Panhandle still does not know much about what Collingsworth County is or has. For instance, take the following statement from T. E. Johnson's defense of his city's position. He says: "From a general standpoint, no argument can be made against Highway No. 5 being given preference over Highway No. 4. Highway No. 5 is the main route from Texas to Denver and today has approximately 1,000 cars daily through the Panhandle, whereas Highway No. 4 has approximately 100 cars daily north of Canadian. This is a statement of fact, and is not meant to minimize the importance of Highway No. 4."

Mr. Johnson's figures are facts, but the startling discrepancy comes in the fact that he failed to list the travel through Collingsworth County. A recent test showed that Judge Luther Gribble will head a delegation to Austin this week in an effort to secure additional highway work in Collingsworth County.

Tennis Matches Played Sunday

In the exhibition matches played in tennis between Childress and Wellington Sunday afternoon, the matches were 4-4 at the close of the games. The games were played on the Bailey-Kern courts south of Wellington. Wellington will return these games in the near future.

Dale Watkins as No. 1 for Wellington played the Childress No. 1 man, Woodrow Carter, and was defeated 6-2, 6-3. Wellington No. 2 man, Lester Campbell, defeated Childress No. 2, Sheffy Mahan, 6-2, 6-4. Elmer Knox Jones, Wellington, took his match, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5, from L. G. Rainey, Childress. J. L. Anderson defeated Jack Fox, Childress, 9-7, 6-3. Dale Watkins lost to Harold Hall, Childress, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1. Marshall Wells won his match from J. W. Hankins, Childress, 7-5, 1-6, 6-3. Dysart Holcomb lost to Junis Carter, Childress, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. The only doubles match was played between Dale Watkins and Elmer Knox Jones, Wellington, and Fletcher Carter and Woodrow Carter, Childress. The Childress players took this match 6-4, 6-3.

Commissioners To Ask For Paving Over Entire Road

Certainty Felt For Securing Contract To Salt Fork At Hearing

Date Is Advanced

Delegation To Leave Wellington Saturday To Present Claims

Prospects for the immediate letting of contracts for hard surfaced work on U. S. Highway 83 north from Wellington were brightened this week by the announcement that the Highway Commission would hold a hearing on this road on July 15. This marks an advance of two weeks over the previously announced date.

Judge Luther Gribble and all four commissioners will leave Wellington Saturday in order to be in Austin on the date of the hearing. It is possible that another car of Wellington representatives may accompany the members of the court to Austin.

"We are confident that we will secure the road from Wellington to Salt Fork," Judge Gribble said, "but an effort will be made to get the Highway Commission to approve the letting of contracts that will carry the road into Shamrock. Due to the heavy traffic over this route, we believe that there may be a chance of getting the whole thing let at one time. Checks made on the north half of the road show that 1944 cars pass over this highway daily out of Wellington as compared to an average of 1632 over the entire

Revenues Surpass Estimate; Deficit Is Under Estimate

WASHINGTON.—The Government's income Monday popped above the figure forecast by President Roosevelt for the financial year ending in just a week, but the spending was nearly $3,500,000,000 (billions) greater than the income.

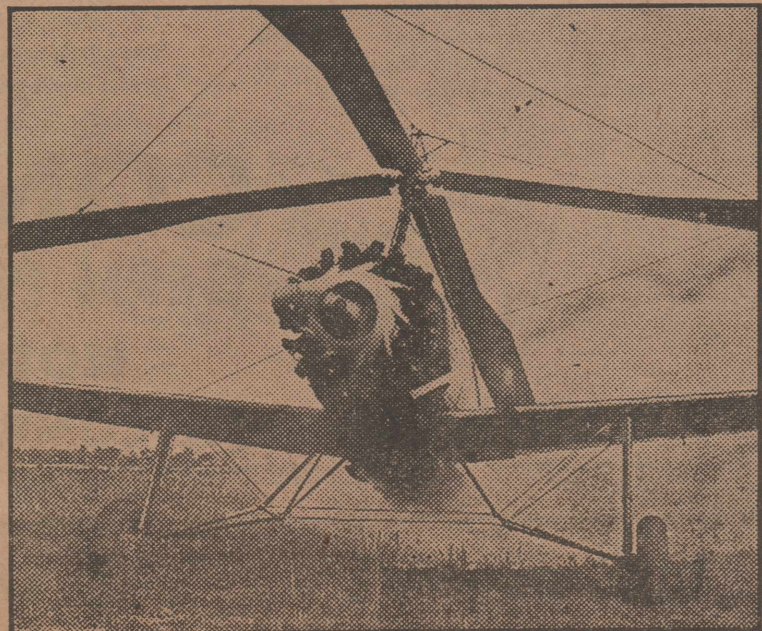

All classifications of expenditures for the twelve months closing June 30, however, were running far below official estimates. Despite its size, even the deficit was nearly $1,500,000,000 (billions) below the $4,869,000,000 (billions) total predicted six months ago by the chief executive. The national debt stood at $28,645,989,605 (billions). This compared with $27,035,000,000 (billions) at the close of the last fiscal year.

Grass Skiing Gains Popularity

A startling lack of snow is evident in this picture of a skiing party, taken near Melbourne, Australia, where grass skiing has become a popular sport. The long, slippery grass on the hillsides takes the place of snow, and it has the additional advantage of not freezing toes. On the other hand, there are no nice soft snowbanks to ease the beginner's falls.

Cancer Control Is Studied By Many Doctors

American Medical Association Encourages Continued Study

In 1930 the American College of Surgeons, consisting of a membership of some nine thousand physicians, recognized the need of co-ordinated efforts in the field of cancer control. They therefore set about emphasizing early diagnosis and effective treatment, convinced that this would materially aid in reducing the mortality rate.

Urge Specialization
Since that time the American College of Surgeons has demonstrated the feasibility of this viewpoint by (1) urging certain well qualified members to specialize in this field and (2) by developing one hundred and forty highly organized special diagnostic and therapeutic cancer clinics in general hospitals. In these institutions certain minimum standards as to procedure, physical equipment and trained personnel must be maintained in order that the public shall receive all known benefits. In this way the diagnosis and treatment of cancer is gradually falling within the province of highly trained physicians keenly interested in the effectiveness of the services offered.

To this group are being added highly specialized medical men whose training and experience as deep x-ray and radium therapists in the field of cancer make them victorious combatants against the disease. The public little realizes that this high standard is the result of cooperative responsibility in the field of cancer by the membership of the four national societies.

Programs Promoted
The American Medical Association has been highly successful in focussing the attention of its members on the cancer problem. The results accomplished in the field of popular education alone justify comment. Through its competent societies, five year cancer control programs are being successfully promoted throughout many states. In addition post-graduate studies and research are being stimulated by university medical schools and by component medical societies.

More and more other national agencies with memberships in every city, town and hamlet are formulating their efforts and giving the cancer control movement the benefit of their influence, training and experience. Many others might be named, such as the three national nurses' organizations and the memberships of the State, County and Local Health Departments.

Relief Client Sends Administrator Payment For "Loan" Given In 1934

AUSTIN.—State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson, bombarded from all sides for the past year with requests for "bigger and better relief grants," suddenly found a new faith in the human race this week.

In the morning mail came a money order for $9.55 from one Mrs. Blanche Perkins of Fort Worth in payment of what she turned a loan from the Tarrant County relief office in April, 1934.

Johnson could scarce believe his eyes. Could this be a relief client paying back a direct relief grant? There must be some mistake. Probably the woman was a rural rehabilitation client sending a money order to the state office by mistake to apply on a capital goods or subsistence loan.

Johnson communicated with the Fort Worth administrator and asked for a complete history of the case. Records there showed Mrs. Perkins asked for and received direct aid amounting to $9.55 in April, 1934. Thereafter, no more aid was granted to her and her case was closed in September, 1934.

"Then it's true," said Johnson. "This is the first relief client in Texas so far as I know, to pay back a relief grant." He sat down, dictated a personal letter to Mrs.

Perkins as follows:
... I am herewith enclosing receipt in full for post office money order for $9.45 as repayment for assistance given you on your application for relief in April, 1934, made with the Tarrant County Relief Board.

"As the relief you received was not extended on a loan basis, you have done a most exceptional thing in repaying the government for the aid extended to you. I can not express my commendations for the splendid thing you have done, and I want you to know it has had a really inspiring effect upon me and others of my organization through whose hands your money order passed in order to get back into the account of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. It is an assurance to us that the spirit, pride and ambition of our forefathers still live in the mind and heart of at least one Texan..."

The state director had no other information indicating what good fortune had enabled Mrs. Perkins to repay the government, but he said she deserved it all, for the character displayed in this one act.

On his 102nd birthday Robert T. Plum of Detroit was presented with a pie containing 102 plums.

Childress Will Sponsor July 4 Firemen's Show

CHILDRESS.—Plans have been completed for the Third Annual Rodeo and Frontier Celebration which is staged each year by the Childress Fire Department on July 4th.

As in preceding years, the show will be presented in the Childress Fair Park grounds which are lighted by floodlights for the night performance. Plenty of beautiful shade trees, bordering the Fair Park Lake, are close at hand for all-day picnickers.

The two hour programs at 2 and 8 p. m. each day will be composed of contests in the western sports of bulldogging, steer riding, kids calf roping, calf roping, bronc riding, wild cow milking, bareback bronc riding and wild mule races, the winners of which will be awarded the hundreds of dollars in cash prizes given by the promoters.

The usual popular prices will be charged for admission to each performance, and if past records are repeated, an attendance of approximately 8,000 people will see the presentation.

Woman, 110, Decides To Stop Smoking

NEW YORK.—Dr. Marie Charlotte de Goliere Davenport, 110 years old, scored a victory over herself Wednesday—she gave up smoking.

For sixty-three years she had smoked at least three packages of cigarettes a day, but now it is a pinch of snuff now and then.

"The doctor said, 'You can't give them up,' I said 'I'd do it or die. I had to give up smoking for my heart. I was too excitable.'"

Dr. Davenport, pianist, physician and lecturer, has been in New York for four months, appearing on lecture platforms, radio and in vaudeville theatres.

PEARSALL.—Progress from a yard thickly set with black brush to one which is showing excellent shrub and tree arrangement in much less time than a year has been made by Mrs. J. T. Preston, yard improvement demonstrator for the Dilley home demonstration club, according to Marie Heff, Frisco County home demonstration agent.

In the fall of 1934, Mrs. Preston started her work of clearing the yard preparing for planting. She now has her yard planted according to a well made plan with one screen planting which will hide the view of barns, 22 trees consisting of elms, ash, crepe myrtle, mock oranges, persimmons, figs and apricots.

Also, in interesting groups around the house and in corners of the yard, Mrs. Preston has 12 native shrubs well started which she transplanted from pastures consisting of senisa, mountain laurel, nandina and a native fern. She was far sighted in setting these shrubs out in that she allowed space for growth of the shrubs so they will not crowd too much when they have reached maturity.

In addition, the Prestons have planned shelter from the sun for their chickens by planting seven trees in the chicken yard, consisting of elms, mulberries and hackberries.

After 40 years of married life, Mrs. Jacob Fox of Cleveland, Ohio, has sued her husband for a divorce, charging neglect.

After they had been separated 50 years, Mrs. Harriet Richardson was finally wed to her girlhood sweetheart, Louis Bouck.

To drive through Summer safely, you need high-film-strength oil!

Conoco Germ Processed Oil has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than plain mineral oils and resists heat better!

HERE'S THE PROOF . . .

- Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil
- Plain Mineral Oils

Note that as heat increases, the plain mineral oils continue to lose film strength, but that above 225° (Minimum Summer crankcase temperature) Germ Processed Oil's film strength is not affected by heat. Tests made with Timken machine.

You do more driving—faster and longer driving—in Summer than at any other time. To protect your motor fully, your oil must have high film strength and maintain it at motor heats of 225° to 350°! Film strength keeps bearings and cylinders from wearing out—lack of it results in costly damage!

Plain mineral oils have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing methods have even less. Moreover, these oils rapidly lose film strength as motor heat goes up.

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil protects your motor better than any plain mineral oil because it has 2 to 4 times greater film strength and

Road tests in cars equipped with both conventional babbitt bearings and the new copper-lead, high-lead and cadmium-alloy bearings proved that Germ Processed, the first alloyed oil, protects all bearings from wear far better than plain mineral oils.

You can drive through Summer safely—and without a worry—if you say "O. K.—Drain" and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Oil—the oil with the "Hidden Quart" that never drains away!

Roosevelt Signs $3,000,000 Bill For Centennial

Appropriation Not Yet Made But Buchanan Guards State Interests

WASHINGTON.—President Roosevelt signed the Texas Centennial authorization resolution Friday afternoon, insuring Federal participation in the event and authorizing $3,000,000 for it.

The fund authorized for appropriation by Congress was provided in an amendment to the second deficiency supply bill adopted last Thursday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. After passage by the Senate the appropriation bill will be sent to the House for vote on Senate amendments.

In the event that the supply measure is delayed or tied up in conference, Chairman James P. Buchanan of the House Appropriations Committee will report a joint resolution appropriating the fund separately. The $3,000,000 was provided in an unmarked lump sum by the Senate committee, but the authorization resolution signed by Mr. Roosevelt Friday provided authority for setting aside an unspecified sum for an American Legion-sponsored Centennial memorial museum at Austin. This authority was provided in an amendment adopted June 2 just before House passage. The amount to be spent on the Museum has been tentatively fixed at $300,000.

Representative Buchanan whose district embraces Austin, sponsored the amendment. As chairman of the Appropriations Committee he will be a House conferee on the deficiency appropriation bill, which places him in a strategic position to guard the Centennial appropriation. Also, as a conferee he can insist that the authorized earmarking for the museum be made in conference before adoption of the conference report. Buchanan will follow the parliamentary position of the supply measure and report out a separate application resolution, should the deficiency bill become stalemated or in any way delayed to endanger congressional enactment this session.

Child Beater Chooses Jail Term Instead Of Bull Whip Flogging

Gregory, 37, painter, Wednesday chose a year in jail in preference to a public flogging.

Convicted with his 19-year-old wife, Jean, of having unduly beaten the couple's 3-year-old adopted daughter, Rose Mary, Gregory was given his choice in court by Police Judge James R. Duncan.

After consultation with his lawyer, Gregory said he would accept the lash. His wife was sentenced to jail for six months.

Arrangements were made for Gregory to take his beating in the alley next to the red brick police headquarters at 2 p. m.

Officers had difficulty in procuring a whip of the type ordered by Capt. John S. Arnold, head of the police department, two buggy whips were brought in but these didn't satisfy the captain. A big bull whip was finally found.

A crowd gathered. Mothers with babes in arms as well as field hands and idlers assembled to see the infliction of the penalty.

Claude MacDonald, husky patrolman, was delegated to apply the whip.

After making his ruling, Judge Duncan retired to his chambers to consult with officials on the number of lashes.

Joel Tregor, the Gregory's lawyer, was summoned. Two o'clock passed. Finally the conference ended and Judge Duncan told reporters he thought Gregory, who had spent the intervening time in jail, thinking apprehensively of the ordeal to come, would serve his jail sentence.

Tregor visited the man and reported back to the judge.

The court clerk then announced to the crowd that in the case of Harry and Jean Gregory they have selected to serve their sentences.

Big Income Levy May Result With Nuisance Taxes

WASHINGTON.—Senate administration leaders ordered quick action on the Roosevelt tax-the-rich program in the face of House resentment, Senate opposition and strong hints of a filibuster to come.

Despite these considerations the majority chiefs stuck by original plans for attaching the new rates on big incomes and inheritance tax resolution. These levies expire Sunday at midnight.

Realizing that if the resolution itself is not adopted by Saturday night the Government will lose $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 daily until it is enacted, there were hints that a prolonged delay might bring stopgap legislation.

Let's Talk About Clothes

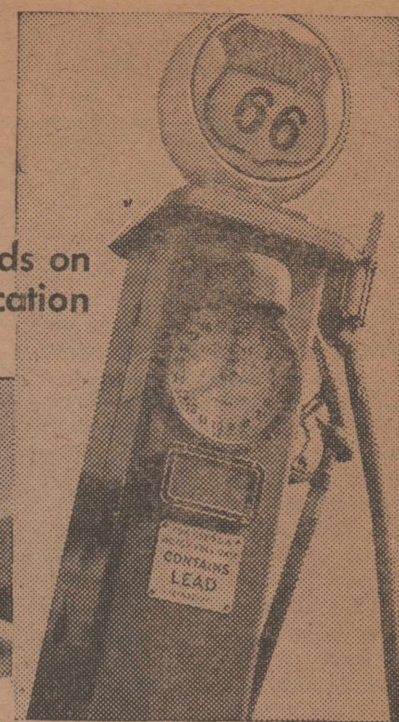

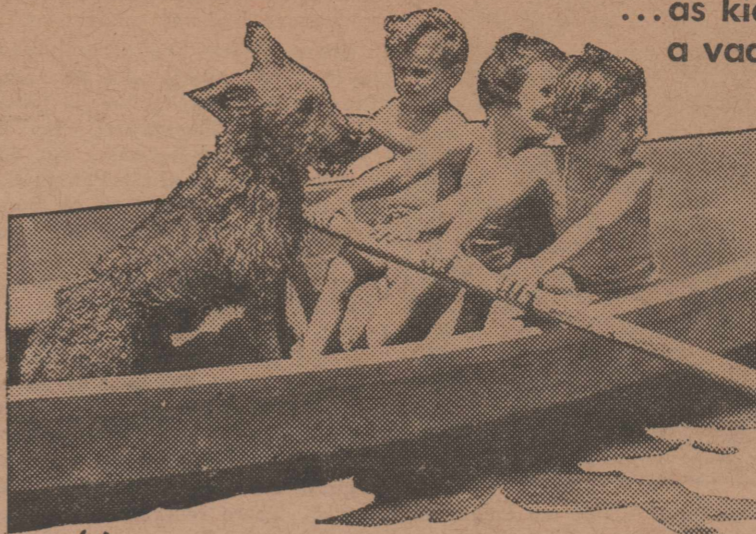

By a "Young Modern" DENTON.—Summer vacations are being discussed throughout the country, and the question of clothes is vitally important. Of course you should have a varied assortment of sports, afternoon and evening frocks, but have you stopped to think just how important your traveling costume is. It's in this costume people will form their first impression of you, and every detail in your appearance should be correct. Travelers from Texas State College for Women give their ideas on just how a young girl should look. First of all wear simple, plain clothes that are neither gaudy in color or design. The clothes shops describe as "spectator sports" are usually good for the effect you want to create.

Mannish suits supplemented with a feminine appeal in a set of white lingerie collars and cuffs are nice. For traveling in the cooler states, these suits are ideal in solid and mingled tweeds. Shantung, rati- nees and cotton tweeds are more suitable for the hotter sections of the country. Never travel in linen. It might look nice for the first thirty miles of paved highway, but after that, your appearance will fall far below par.

Your hat should be felt or a soft material—something that will not be spoiled if you should drop it and that will be comfortable on the long trip. A bright feather or ribbon will give just the needed decoration. Shoes should be in keeping with the mode of your costume, and above all must have medium heels. Have your clothes as clean as they can be, in good taste, and you will be sure to lend a well-bred appearance.

As for economy—we built the reputation and sales of Phillips 66 by giving greater value for the money. We knew that no single, unchanging gasoline could do this all year round, as the weather changes from cold to hot and back to cold again.

So our research scientists worked out a brilliant innovation. Made Phillips 66 the gasoline with CONTROLLED VOLATILITY. Pioneered the idea. Developed it in the face of early skepticism. Today, Phillips 66 is recognized as the 100% custom-tailored gasoline. It meets the needs of your engine in any weather—up in the nineties or down below zero—because it is made differently for the different seasons of the year. Perryton Editor Flays Amarillo

5 in the Panhandle. Mr. Stewart makes the charge that Amarillo has "double-crossed" other Panhandle cities in obtaining highway funds, asserting that Amarillo made up the road program as it now stands and was so selfish as to see that none of it went to roads other than those leading directly into the city. He is protesting the authorization of some $2,000,000 by the Federal Bureau of Roads in Washington and the Texas Highway Department for paving gaps on Highway 5 north and south of Amarillo, and Highway 66 east and west of Amarillo, an announcement that was good news to all sections of the Panhandle.

Mr. Stewart's charges are so utterly lacking in foundation and convey such broad misrepresentations of the facts, that the public generally is entitled to know what actually has happened so far and what is possible in the program as announced by the highway department. In the first place, the entire program for the Panhandle is not "settled," as Mr. Stewart indicated. All persons who have sought a connected road system for this territory are hopeful that numerous other projects will be approved from time to time on other important roads. The program announced the other day was NOT made up by Amarillo. It was a program made up largely in Washington at the insistence of the federal highway authorities and concurred in by the Texas Highway Commission.

The program it so happened, applied to but two highways, covering gaps in six counties; the projects were approved because the gaps were on two cross-country federal highways which carry heavy traffic and not because they were confined to any particular counties or happened to lead through Amarillo. They were chosen for first work because they were considered of first importance, considering traffic, territory served and adjacent paving. Amarillo, of course, was delighted that they were approved and the Chamber of Commerce is not letting up in its fight for getting gaps on other roads in this section paved.

Miniature Motor

The Chamber of Commerce for weeks has been fighting hard in behalf of the Panhandle's road system, assuming that the large grant of Federal funds offered an excellent opportunity for road improvements on a wide scale. Its first request was for the paving of gaps on Federal routes, but in submitting to highway officials a list of these gaps it refrained from giving any preference as to the order in which they should be constructed, leaving this to the judgment of highway authorities at Washington and in Austin. It had every reason to expect, however, that the Jerico gap on No. 66 and the gaps on No. 5 in Armstrong, Donley, Hartley and Moore counties would certainly be among the first considered, taking into account the lost traffic to all points along the routes by reason of their condition. It was hopeful, too, that gaps on Highway 60 west of Hereford, gaps on No. 4 around Perryton and other projects of like nature could be included, but it left the decision as to which should be first to highway authorities.

There are five Federal highways in the Panhandle: No. 60 from Higgins to Farwell; No. 66 from Shamrock to Tucumcari; No. 5 from Texline to Memphis; No. 54 across the corner of the Panhandle through Dalhart; and No. 4 from Perryton through Canadian and Shamrock to Childress. It will be seen that the projects approved did not include Highway No. 4, which passes through Perryton; nor did they include the gaps on Highway 60 to the west of Hereford. This, however, does not mean that they are not to be paved. The first program is from regular Federal and state aid funds. There remains some $22,000,000 in works progress funds from the Federal government which has been allocated to the state highway department for use on roads and it is reasonable to expect that an additional $2,000,000 can be utilized from this fund for other road construction in this territory.

What the people of the Panhandle need to do is to center their efforts, in united manner, however, on obtaining these extra funds for the paving of numerous other gaps. This can be done if they will work together and not start fighting each other the minute road authorities approve some certain project and omit another. Mr. Stewart, to be sure, is interested in seeing the roads in his county paved. It is perfectly logical that he should be, but it is difficult to understand why he would object to gaps being paved on main highways which do not pass through his county. He apparently loses sight of the fact that the program recently approved is one sponsored by the Federal government for the paving of gaps on transcontinental highways. From a general standpoint, no argument can be made against Highway No. 5 being given preference over Highway No. 4. Highway No. 5 is the main route from Texas to Denver and today has approximately 1,000 cars daily through the Panhandle, whereas Highway No. 4 has approximately 100 cars daily north of Canadian. This is a statement of fact, and is not meant to minimize the importance of Highway No. 4. It should be paved, but it is obvious to all why the Federal bureau and state authorities would give preference to No. 5 at this time. As a matter of fact, No. 4 has fared mighty well up to date. It has considerably less unpaved mileage in the Panhandle today than is to be found on No. 5 or on either 66 or 60 for that matter—and they both are transcontinental highways.

Mr. Stewart's antipathy for Amarillo is hard to understand. From the tenor of his protest it would seem that he would prefer seeing this highway fund lost to the Panhandle rather than it being put on roads that pass through Amarillo. He makes much of the fact that the roads to be paved come into Amarillo, apparently losing sight of the fact that they pass through dozens of other Panhandle cities as well. Had Amarillo not made a diligent fight for getting the gaps paved, it goes without saying that more of this fund would have been spent elsewhere on Federal highways. The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, however, and Amarillo's citizenship as a whole stand ready to assist all Panhandle communities in their road problems, as they have in the past, and can only believe that Mr. Stewart was but speaking his own mind, and not expressing the sentiments of the people of Perryton and Ochiltree County.

Stewart's Article

Following is the front-page article by Editor Van W. Stewart in the Ochiltree County Herald, wherein he protested the allocation of road funds for paving of gaps on Highway 66 and Highway 5 in the Panhandle:

AMARILLO "HOGS" PANHANDLE HIGHWAY BUILDING PROGRAM; ALL HIGHWAYS LEAD TO AMARILLO

According to the Amarillo News, under the date of Saturday, June 29, 1935, the gigantic highway building program for the Texas Panhandle is settled, with Ochiltree County, along with 22 out of 28 counties of the 28th congressional District, getting not one cent or one foot of paving. It is also interesting to note that the highways designated for improvements by the Amarillo News and we have no reason to doubt that their information is correct, are those which run through Amarillo and Potter County.

Federal Highway No. 83 runs through Perryton on south through the eastern tier of Panhandle counties. This highway does not contribute to the business interests or act as a feeder to Amarillo, hence it was not included in the program. Neither was any improvements on State Highway No. 117, running east from Perryton to Booker, listed by the News for paving.

While it is true that none of the actual paving outlined in the Amarillo paving program for the Panhandle is to be in Potter County, yet if you will study the map and the 18 projects outlined you will readily see that every foot of paving is on highways that carry tourists and commercial travel through the city of Amarillo.

Just as the State of Texas has its Austin with the clique that grabs off everything in sight for that part of the state, so has the Panhandle, its Amarillo that takes all the cake and lets the rest of the Panhandle fight for the crumbs. Amarillo, with its many industries and businesses supported by the smaller towns, the farmer and the cattleman, can afford to keep one or more representatives in Washington the greater part of the time, thus gathering for themselves the biggest slice of every pie that is cut. Amarillo with its Panhandle-wide newspaper dynasty can likewise put the pressure on those in power, getting what they want while us old country boys are left with an empty sack.

A few weeks ago, the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce invited representatives from each county in the Panhandle to a very important and confidential meeting in Amarillo. We were seated at a banquet table literally groaning with good things to eat, and after the "feed" some of the "big shots" of the city were introduced. They were very plainly told by Amarillo's ambassador to the nation's capitol that the Panhandle's quota of work relief funds was just about so much, and that the only projects that these funds would be available for was highways, wind erosion and that we might just as well stop planning on swimming pools, city auditoriums and such, for they were out of the picture. Like a lot of "saps," most of us believed this line of talk and came home, firm in the belief that we had been told the truth and that we would get out highways constructed, at least the gaps in state and federal roads.

Here in Ochiltree County, we were not interested in schools as we have the finest school plant in the Panhandle and we are paying for it with our own money. But we did have some gaps in our highways. Then in the Amarillo News of last Saturday, the grand "double-cross" showed up. Amarillo got what she wanted and Ochiltree County, along with eighty per cent of the Panhandle got a kick in the rear.

Just such instances of selfishness and greediness as Amarillo has displayed in this highway deal is what is causing so many empty store buildings in that city. People over the Panhandle are getting wise to the "all for Amarillo" spirit and are buying their merchandise elsewhere and we, for one, think that they are justified in doing so. Just so long as the powers that direct the policies of Amarillo continue to look on the rest of the Panhandle as a bunch of "chumps," we are going to continue to preach "Buy it any place but in Amarillo" and the peddlers from the Amarillo wholesale houses need waste no time in calling on us. We know we are just a bunch of "hicks" from the country but it's these same "hicks" that keep up Amarillo. Stop the flow of business from over the Panhandle into Amarillo and you will see them change their attitude toward the boys out in the sticks.

July 11 - 12

The housewives of Wellington and all surrounding towns are cordially invited to attend a FREE Cooking School sponsored by the West Texas Utilities Company on the dates of July 11 and 12.

The Cooking School will bring suggestions and methods to relieve long hours of work. This is not a matter of learning how to cook or how to do house work, but the use of short cuts with appliances and tested methods to reduce time and labor. Many women feel that "Mother's housekeeping and cookery, the best in the world, are good enough for today," but mothers in those old days yearned, too, for new ideas and simpler methods.

Plan now to attend every session. You are sure to enjoy and profit by the valuable experience of Miss Manchester as exhibited in the demonstration conducted by Miss Manchester.

In this closet there is a flue coming down from the top. Around this flue she added slanting shoe shelves. The floor and walls were unfinished. She varnished the floor and painted the walls buff in order to reflect light. Another item of interest in Mrs. Slay's home is her tile garden.

The next home the club will visit is that of Mrs. Lee Pierce. Originally she had all of her bedrooms upstairs. She moved them all downstairs, papered them, and made various other improvements.

Mrs. J. W. Masten, who is wardrobe demonstrator of the North Wellington Club, will be the next home the tour will visit. As one of the first needs of a demonstrator is adequate storing space, Mrs. Masten made many improvements in the arrangement of her closet. Mrs. Masten will also feature a home made sleeve board on her ironing board.

Mrs. John Jones, bedroom demonstrator of the North Wellington Club, will be visited next. The North Wellington Club is meeting the bedroom goal a hundred per cent. The bedroom goal this year was to add a slat to every row of coils, spring covers, mattress pads, and pillow protectors.

The Crossroads community will next be visited. Miss Loeva Koen, a 4-H Club girl, will be the first visited in this community. The tour will see there a closet that Mrs. George Richards, bedroom demonstrator for the Crossroads Club, will be visited next. Mrs. Richards has an ideal twenty-four hour bedroom with reading and writing center, sewing center, conversational center, bed, chest of drawers, and closet.

Quail community will be visited next. Mrs. J. S. Stewart, wardrobe demonstrator of the Quail Club, will first be visited. In her home there will be featured storage places for winter clothes, clothes protectors made from old sheets, and records showing expenditures for clothes during past year.

The tour will then visit Mrs. Walter Starr's home. Mrs. Starr is the bedroom demonstrator for the Quail Club. The most interesting thing that she has done is to fix a chest of drawers in her closet.

In Mrs. John Starr's home there will be featured labor saving de-

GOING DOWN SAFETY LANE

Automobile owners who feel the right kind of obligation for the safety of fellow beings will not be vexed by the insistence of authority that they submit their cars to the simple tests of "safety lane."

Instead of being vexed they will be glad that other cars are being checked for evidence of controllability, and for proper lighting at night. The tests are not exacting, and no auto owner ought to risk the lives of his own passengers, to say nothing of others, by driving a car which cannot pass the tests.

Preliminary estimates indicate that the first half of 1935 will show a total of about 15,000 deaths due to traffic accidents, keeping far too close to the record of 36,000 deaths during 1934.

Just how and why the frightful death toll occurs can never be definitely known, but it is certain that a very large percentage is due to faulty control of cars by drivers. Headlights or tail lights not burning, horns not working, brakes that will not hold in an emergency, on cars that hurtle along at 50 to 75 miles per hour — one wonders that the death toll is not much greater than it is.

It costs money to maintain brakes and other safety equipment in proper condition. But if an auto owner is not able to afford the expense he ought to keep his car in his garage. He is a menace to every car that travels on his road.

The red OK sticker which cars will carry after the "safety lane" tests ought to build public demand that safety lanes be operated more often, with dated stickers giving evidence that drivers have submitted their cars to periodic demonstration of controlability. Increasing auto traffic is going to make something of the kind imperative. —Childress News.

CURSE OF NARCOTICS

In a recent address Captain Richmond P. Hobson declared that the traffic in narcotics is a cancer which has been eating at the vital organs of the world for 200 years, and that the power of American gangsters and racketeers is based upon it, rather than upon liquor.

He asserted that most of the bandits and gunmen who rob and kill are dope addicts who are controlled body and soul by those higher up. He believes the hope of the world lies in educating the young to the horrors of the "living death" of the dope fiend. Tracing the steps by which the drug habit is formed, Captain Hobson told of the physical and mental agony suffered by those who "get hooked" by the addict will resort to any means whatever to obtain his daily supply of drugs, and thus becomes a prey for those who would use him to further their evil purposes.

For several years Captain Hobson, Spanish-American war hero of Merrimac fame, has devoted himself to fighting the drug traffic and dangers, and is president of the Narcotic Defense Foundation, with headquarters in New York.

JINGOISM AND WAR

There is no denying the fact that over-zealous appeals to patriotism may become a fruitful cause of war. The spirit which seeks to instill into the youth of any country an undue regard for its own supposed superiority, and a corresponding contempt for the people of other nations is a potential menace to world peace.

Major General Henry T. Allen of the United States Army, who commanded the American forces in Germany after the Armistice, has appealed for a more tolerant attitude toward other countries. He declared that the United States should sacrifice some of its nationalism in the cause of peace, "by conferring around a common table in a spirit of compromise with all other sovereign states."

Pride in one's country, love for its institutions and zeal for its advancement are all laudable qualities. It is also commendable to be ready to defend it against actual aggression which can be met only by force.

But to assume an attitude of superiority and assert it in an offensive manner is unbecoming and unnecessary. If persisted in, such an attitude may easily provoke international antagonisms and ultimately lead to war.

One of the old-timers of this county, J. P. Yarbrough, was in town the past week, coming back to this county to visit relatives. In the early days he was associated with the cattle industry in the north part of Erath County, but left here in 1890 for Collingsworth County where he has since accumulated much land, many cattle and other tangible assets. Yarbrough said that when he arrived in the North Plains country land was going begging at 50c per acre. No railroads to speak of, the country sparsely settled and a territory that was believed a part of the great desert made conditions none too favorable. Yet, within a period of thirty years the same county has been transformed into one of the most fertile farming sections of Texas. —Stephenville Empire-Tribune.

Ruth And Naomi, Typical Women

Text: Ruth 1:14-22; 4:14-17

The International Uniform Sunday School Session for July 14.

A typical and courageous woman of faith is Naomi, featured in our lesson.

The story of Ruth and Naomi comes out of an ancient period of depression. Hard times have always tested the souls of men and women. They have revealed the weakness of those who could get along pleasantly in prosperous times, and at the same time have revealed the latent and inherent strength of many whose heroic qualities and courage of endurance would never otherwise have been emphasized.

The whole book of Ruth should be read in connection with the lesson. It tells how in the days of Gibeon, Israel's courageous leader, Elimelech and his wife, Naomi, with their two sons, were driven by hard times to leave their home in Judah and cross the Jordan, seeking better conditions in the land of Moab.

Ten years passed, during which Elimelech died and the two sons who married Moabitish women, also died. The three widows were left, Naomi and her daughters-in-law, Orpah and Ruth.

The lot of the widows was hard, and Naomi, hearing that times were better in Judah, decided to return to her own country. The daughters-in-law went with her to the border of the country and were determined to go on with their mother-in-law, though she urged them to return.

Under her urging Orpah finally was induced to go back to her own people, but Ruth persisted in her determination and came to Judah with Naomi, with an expression of loyalty and devotion that has become classic.

Ruth thus is a type of woman of loyalty and devotion, as Naomi is the typical woman of faith and courage. There must have been some remarkable quality in Naomi to have inspired such love and devotion as her daughters-in-law manifested after their husbands had been taken away. The remaining part of the story after the return to Judah is one, also, of the testing of the women. Life was not easy, but they met it with hardness with a spirit of courage and resourcefulness.

The story has a much deeper significance than appears on the surface, because this woman, Ruth, a Moabitess, was destined to become a great-grandmother of David, and thus an ancestress of Jesus who was of the lineage of David. The teaching and the life of Jesus mark Him as the Savior of the world. In everything significant He transcended His Jewish environment and nationality, but it is interesting to find, as we trace His antecedents, the linking of His life with a source outside Palestine in a woman of such beautiful and noble character as Ruth, the Moabitess.

Through the process of human history runs this stream of character in the good and the great. It is the saving factor in a history that has its large measure of deceit and untruth, sordid and brutal selfishness, violence and cruelty.

Thank God for the Naomis and Ruths, and for the Savior who comes from a human ancestry of loyalty, love and faith.

route counting the traffic both north and south."

Whether there was any connection or not the notice of the advance in date came at the same time that a vigorous protest arose over the allocation of Federal funds in the Panhandle. Last Friday representatives of the counties on State Highway 4 or U. S. Highway 83, met and requested the highway department to spend part of the appropriation on the road.

Harsh criticism of the recently announced intention of state and federal highway departments to spend all of the $2,000,000 granted the Panhandle in six counties and none in the remaining 22 counties, was voiced.

It was considered more than a coincidence by delegates attending the Canadian meeting, that Carl Hinton, secretary of the Amarillo chamber of commerce, has been in the national capital working in behalf of "the Panhandle," and the recently announced Panhandle highway program provides only for the paving of highways leading to Amarillo and directly affecting her trade channels.

Resenting an alleged attempt on the part of Amarillo to "hog" all highway construction, spokesmen from the six counties, asserted they are not going to sit idly by and see their unpaved gaps ignored. They did not take the position of trying to block any proposed construction, but they did declare they would fight for inclusion of the gaps on federal highway 83.

Unpaved gaps on highway 83 are: 25 miles from Wellington to the Wheeler County line, 5 miles from Wheeler County line north into Hemphill county, 7 miles from junction of U. S. Highway 83 and 60 north of Horse Creek bridge in Hemphill county, and 25 miles in Ochiltree.

W. O. Puett, Wheeler County judge, W. L. Helton, Hemphill county judge, and W. B. Lamaster of Ochiltree County, were named on a resolution committee to convey the feeling of the meeting to state and federal highway departments. They are forwarding resolutions carrying the signatures of county judges in each of the six Panhandle counties traversed by highway 83.

The resolutions pointed out the transcontinental highway from Canada to Del Rio, Texas, serves much cross-country traffic and that it will furnish a direct route to Centennial centers for people living in Western Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, and that as a matter of public convenience all gaps should be paved.

The resolution follows: At a meeting of representatives of Ochiltree, Hemphill, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Childress, and Cottle Counties, in Canadian July 5, 1935, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, we are now under the new PWA setup entering into a construction of highways and WHEREAS, it has been the policy of the state highway commission to close gaps in state and federal highways wherever possible, and

WHEREAS, state highway No. 4 is designated as federal highway No. 83, and

WHEREAS, on said highway there is an unpaved strip of road from the town of Wellington, Texas, north to the Wheeler County line consisting of approximately 25 miles and also a gap from the Wheeler County line north into Hemphill County of approximately 5 miles and also a gap from the junction of U. S. highways No. 83 and 60 north 7 miles to Horse creek bridge in Hemphill county, and a gap of approximately 25 miles in Ochiltree county.

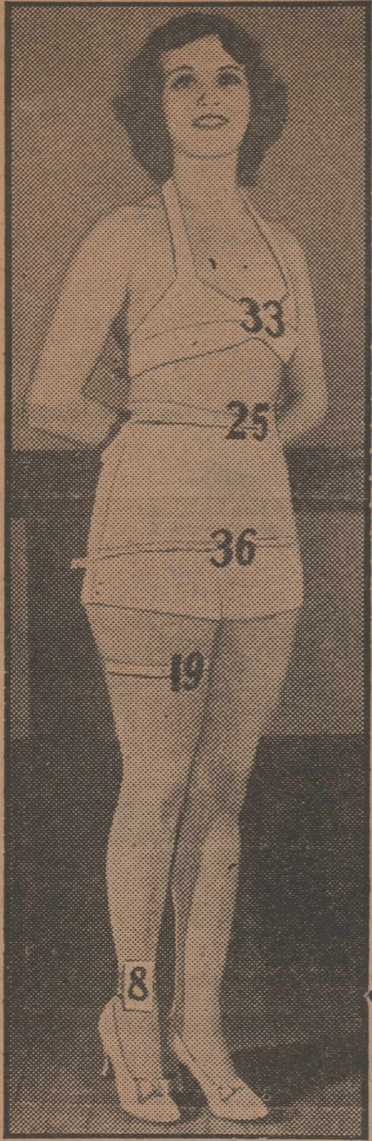

WHEREAS, this highway is a transcontinental highway from Canada to Del Rio, Texas, over which there is not only much local but a great deal of transcontinental traffic, and

WHEREAS, it furnishes a direct route to Centennial centers for people in Western Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, and

WHEREAS, it is a matter of public convenience that said gaps should be immediately paved:

LET'S CALL IT A DATE, AMARILLO

1,632 cars pass over Highway 4 between Wellington and Childress, and Wellington and Shamrock. That is exactly 632 a day more cars than pass over Highway No. 5. This test was made on May 3 to 6. It is also a statement of fact. If his city is genuinely interested in the importance of this highway, why didn't he quote the figures on the lower part of the route before it joins 66 on the north. It just goes to prove our contention that Amarillo doesn't even know what kind of an asset it is missing.

In his article Mr. Johnson further states that Amarillo stands ready to assist all Panhandle communities in their road problems AS THEY HAVE IN THE PAST. That is a splendid sentiment, but Wellington doesn't want any of that "in the past" stuff. The truth is that Amarillo has not helped Wellington one bit on Highway 4. Outside of Senator Clint Small, there is not a living soul in Amarillo who has ever gone before the Highway Commission or raised his voice in the interest of the north and south road through Collingsworth County. This community feels that it owes Amarillo nothing for Clint Small's services, for the people here still think of him as a son of Collingsworth and not primarily as a citizen of Amarillo.

Although this is true, Wellington still has no resentment against Amarillo, for Collingsworth County and its county seat have been able to do right well by themselves up to date. An alert county judge and a diligent set of Commissioners have been able to secure what they, and the good people, believe was just treatment from the hands of the Highway Commission. However if Amarillo is sincere, we would appreciate some help in the future if they care to give it, but we still are firm in declining the past variety. On July 15 the Commissioners of this county have a date to meet with the Highway Commission for the purpose of discussing the letting of a hard surface road contract from Wellington to Salt Fork. If representatives of Amarillo want to help in this effort, they will be more than welcome. We are not asking the help in this effort, for this county probably can get the job done next week as they have in the past, and the route to the river will be let, in all likelihood, regardless of what Amarillo may do. If, however, Amarillo could lend enough assistance to get the contract let to Shamrock instead of just to the river, then abundant goodwill would be made for their town among the people of Collingsworth County. This is not a request for assistance from Amarillo, but it is a cordial notification of an opportunity. How about it Amarillo? Let's make a date to meet in Austin July 15.
