SENATE CRITICS PROVIDING PRESIDENT WITH OPTIONS

'Amendment To End The War In Vietnam'

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a last-minute effort to gain votes, Senate critics of White House Vietnam policy have offered President Nixon new flexibility under their "amendment to end the war."

Their inclusion of a 60-day period in which the President could suspend the total withdrawal of troops from Vietnam came as Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird declared U.S. air power will be used in Cambodia as long as it results in reducing U.S. casualties in South Vietnam.

THIRD REWRITE

As the stop-the-war amendment underwent its third rewriting the Senate voted, in effect, to allow continued use of herbicides in Vietnam—despite any adverse effects on the environment—and to approve more spending for the C5 transport, already burned by a $2 billion cost overrun.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., announced the new version of the amendment he is sponsoring with Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., would lock the President into his announced goal of reducing troop levels in Vietnam to 280,000 men by April 30, 1971.

The amendment still calls for the orderly end of military operations in Indochina and "the safe and systematic withdrawal of remaining forces by Dec. 31, 1971."

DANGER

But the new version would allow the President to suspend that deadline for up to 60 days, without the consent of Congress, "upon a finding American troops were subjected to clear and present danger."

McGovern said if additional time were needed, the President could submit a revised timetable and other recommendations to Congress for approval within 10 days after his first action.

Meanwhile, Laird told newsmen: "If we can destroy enemy troops and supplies with the minimum casualty rate, I'm for it and I will authorize it."

He agreed with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that the United States will do all it can to help the Lon Nol regime governing Cambodia.

SPENDING EYED

The Hatfield-McGovern amendment would restrict the U.S. spending to expenses of withdrawal, to secure release of prisoners of war, to provide asylum for any Vietnamese endangered by U.S. withdrawal and to aid the Republic of Vietnam.

In Senate votes Wednesday, an amendment by Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., requiring an outside judgment on the necessity of a $200 million C5 production contingency fund was defeated, 48 to 30.

An amendment by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to ban use of herbicides as defoliants in the Vietnam war zone because of their potentially damaging effects on the environment was rejected, 62-22.

Nelson and Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., planned today to offer a fallback proposal to ban only use of herbicides to destroy crops in Vietnam.

Agnew Declares U. S. Troop Cut To Proceed As Planned

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in Vietnam today for his second visit of the year and declared that the success of the Cambodian venture has insured that U.S. troop withdrawals will proceed as planned.

"We will go forward with it," Agnew told newsmen accompanying him on the flight across the South China Sea from Formosa. The present program calls for U.S. forces in Vietnam to be reduced to 284,000 men by next April.

FAST PACE

The vice president spent most of the afternoon in conference with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, reviewing the progress of the war in South Vietnam and neighboring Cambodia. They last met when Agnew was here at the beginning of the year.

Agnew was maintaining a fast pace on his current Asian visit, with 48 hours in South Korea, 24 in Nationalist China and now 24 or less in South Vietnam. He goes to Thailand Friday, and although he said again today he would not visit Cambodia, officials in Phnom Penh were making plans for him to stop there for lunch en route to Bangkok.

VERY, VERY WRONG

In his remarks to newsmen during the flight from Formosa, the vice president said the Vietnam policy advocated by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and an opponent of U.S. participation in the war, is "very, very wrong and dangerously wrong" and is being exploited by the Hanoi government.

The newsmen asked Agnew if he was referring to antiwar senators on Wednesday when he attacked "a few opportunists who may wish to see us bug out."

"I would not cite any members of the Senate as being opportunists," Agnew replied, then added:

"I think there is a great diversity of opinion as to what we should be doing in Southeast Asia, and I find myself in violent disagreement with people such as Sen. Fulbright.

"I don't impugn his motives and I don't think he is less patriotic for expressing his convictions, but I think he is very, very wrong and dangerously wrong and that since he is, he, in my opinion, is in a position where he must be disagreed with and on very firm terms . . .

GREAT DESIRE

"I find a great desire on the part of the North Vietnamese in their English-language newspapers to exploit statements by Sens. Fulbright, (George S.) McGovern, and people who are consistently talking against our involvement there and raising inferences of impropriety of the existing South Vietnam government."

Agnew said that during his visit to Formosa, President Chiang Kai-shek gave him a confidential message for President Nixon and expressed concern about Formosa's vulnerability to attack from the Chinese Communists because of the reduction in U.S. patrols in the Formosa Strait.

"I attempted to reassure the president that this would be a very nonproductive exercise for the Communists," Agnew said. "I told him I didn't believe with the much less risky exercises the Communists were engaged in other parts of the world, for example in North Vietnam and places of that type, that this would represent a very worthwhile undertaking."

NOT ALL-WHITE

Black GI's Pals Win Burial Suit

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge today ordered an all-white cemetery to bury a black soldier who was killed in Vietnam and refused interment because of his race.

Attorneys for the family of Spec. 4 Pondexteur E. Williams said he would be buried Saturday at Hillcrest Memorial Gardens in Fort Pierce with full military honors.

U.S. Dist. Judge William O. Mehrtens heard arguments from attorneys from both sides in his chambers, with reporters excluded, then announced in the court the issuance of a temporary injunction blocking the cemetery from prohibiting Williams' burial any longer.

Lawyers explained the "temporary" part of the injunction was a technicality and the order to bury Williams is final.

Since his military funeral last Sunday in the National Guard Armory at Fort Pierce, 125 miles north of here, Williams' body has lain in a flag-draped coffin, awaiting the outcome of the court suit. Friends stood a vigil over the casket while the case progressed.

The suit was joined by family attorneys, the U.S. Justice Department, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the American Civil Liberties Union.

Cleared In Stomping Death Of Inmate

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sheriff W. W. Hauck and seven deputies have been cleared of negligence charges in the 1969 stomping death of a jail inmate.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ernest Guinn issued the ruling in a $1 million damage suit against Hauck and his deputies.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Donna Jean Vargas, widow of Michael B. Perkins, who was found dead in his cell Aug. 9, 1969, from beating administered by his cellmates.

Juanita Beavers stated in her suit that from August, 1968, to November, 1969, she was not paid time and a half for overtime worked during that period. She said this was a violation of the Fair Labor and Standards Act of 1938.

She filed the suit against Hunt, the Hunt Oil Co. and Hunt's radio program, Life Line.

Is He Pink?

ST. PAUL (AP) — Tom, a 2,000-pound elephant, took an unscheduled romp through the Minnesota state fairgrounds.

Tom, a member of a wild animal show, broke his leg chain Wednesday and began his wanderings. He stomped on some flowers, butted some trees and when he was ready to go home again, he poked his trunk through an open car window.

Two startled painters telephoned police and Tom was led back to his cage.

Business Slowdown Drawing To An End?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's broad index of economic "leading indicators" rose significantly for July, giving a firm basis for hope that the nation's business slowdown is drawing to an end, the Commerce Department reported today.

Coupled with the previous day's report that wholesale prices fell for the first time in two years, the indicators were further encouragement to the Nixon administration. It has been trying to cope with a faltering economy less than three months before the congressional elections.

The indicators, which are computed in an effort to predict the economy's movements over coming months, rose 1.6 per cent during July, the largest monthly gain since April, 1969. It was the first time in more than a year that the index has risen for two consecutive months.

The index rose to 116.1 per cent of the 1967 average, compared to 114.3 in June and 114.0 in May.

"The recent behavior of the leading indicators provides solid support for the expectation that business activity is resuming its advance," Harold C. Passer, the assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said in a statement accompanying the report on the indicators.

The index draws on 12 economic indicators, although only eight of them were complete in time for publication of the advance report issued today.

Of these, the most significant improvements were shown by new claims for state unemployment insurance, which dropped 12.5 per cent, and new orders for durable goods, which increased 6.1 per cent.

Housing Funds Scramble Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communities providing housing for families of low and moderate income are being given priority in the scramble for federal urban renewal and housing funds, says Housing Secretary George W. Romney.

However, Romney said, the Department of Housing and Urban Development has rejected a presidential task force suggestion that federal funds be withheld from communities which do not make housing available to lower-income families.

He told the Senate Equal Educational Opportunity Committee Wednesday that screening of applicants may accomplish the goal set by the task force.

GOOD EXAMPLES

"Most HUD grant programs have far more applications for grants than can be accommodated with federal funds," he said. Selection procedures in effect for some programs and being developed for others take into account local efforts to meet housing needs, he added.

"As an example, applications for new community loan guarantees are evaluated, in part, on the basis of the appropriate balance of housing opportunities for low- and moderate-income families and assurance of nondiscrimination in housing," Romney said.

SEGREGATION

The Senate panel is probing school integration and such related issues as segregated housing. Some members contend—as does Romney—that housing and school segregation are linked closely.

Romney agreed the federal government, particularly the Federal Housing Administration, is partly responsible for segregated housing patterns common to most of the nation.

He said the FHA incorporated race-restricting covenants in its loan insurance programs from the start, and this was indefensible.

Nevertheless, Romney said, HUD is taking concrete steps to help furnish millions of new houses, including:

—Encouraging local agencies to choose sites for public housing outside areas where a minority race already is concentrated.

RACE ISSUE

—Seeking legislation to provide federal suits against communities which exclude otherwise conforming low-and moderate-income housing developments just because they get federal aid.

—And, requiring proof of local efforts to implement fair housing policies, as required in the 1968 Civil Rights Act, for eligibility for urban renewal grants.

In testimony prepared for another school integration hearing today, Sen. William B. Spong Jr., D-Va., said current desegregation efforts will lead "to further disarray in our education systems."

All Angelo Lake Needs Is Water

SAN ANGELO (AP) — The Parks and Wildlife Department says San Angelo Reservoir may become one of the best fishing lakes in Texas when it gets water.

The lake on the west edge of San Angelo, is the only major lake in Texas that is dry. It is designed to hold about 5,440 surface acres of water behind a 128-foot dam on the North Concho River.

The department says that when the lake begins filling again they will stock it with desirable game fish. Historically each time a lake is drained and then restocked it becomes a "hot" lake for anglers in one to three years, because the game fish don't have to compete with rough species for food.

SHE VOWS TO 'BUILD MYSELF BACK'

Celia Blew Away Feisty Widow's Chicks

ROCKPORT, Tex. (AP) — For three days and three nights after Hurricane Celia battered the South Texas Coast, a feisty widow sat on her front porch with an ancient .410 shotgun in her lap.

She was protecting what was left of her flock of chickens from the foraging of a "couple of bobcats wandering around over there in the brush."

Eleanor Tanksley, 70, owner of a small chicken farm near Rockport, is among an estimated 50,000 families who suffered losses from the storm.

She shares her farm with four dogs, unnumbered cats and a flock of chickens and guinea hens.

'SQUASHED FLAT'

Celia's winds, topping 160 miles per hour, "just blew my chickens away," Mrs. Tanksley said.

Her small house was damaged, the coop fence broken and tangled, and the windmill toppled. When the chicken house and brooder were knocked down, they crushed part of the flock along with three kittens.

After the winds and heavy rains passed, she walked outside to survey the damage.

"I'd pick up a chicken from under a piece of tin or a board, and he's be squashed flat," she said. "I'd just sit down and squall a bit, then go after another.

'THIS OLD GUN'

While guarding her flock she fired two rounds at the marauding bobcats.

"This old gun wouldn't kill anything," she said, "but it sure did scare them off.

Thin, gray-haired and with skin a deep brown from years under the South Texas sun, Mrs. Tanksley lost her husband last February after 50 years of marriage. His sight failed more than 20 years ago and she has run the farm ever since.

The farm brings in about $60 a month to supplement her Social Security check.

HIT HARDER

Last week the Red Cross heard of her plight and sent case worker Don Hannah with food. He figured her immediate needs would cost about $1,126, but she declares she doesn't need that much.

She said, "I can get along on a lot less than that. There are other people who got hit harder than me and they can use the money more."

Nevertheless, the Red Cross sent out a man to rebuild the coop fence and to replace the broken windows and screens in her house.

When that is done, Hannah said, "we're going to build her a new chicken house and brooder, and get her some chickens so she can get back in business."

A similar hospital is also scheduled for opening at approximately the same time at Reese AFB.

Water-Well Drill Mishap Kills 3

ATLANTA, Tex. (AP) — A water-well drilling accident killed three men near here Wednesday.

The men were identified as Cecil Dotson, 43, and his son Bennie, 19; and Rodney Towns, 20, of Ringgold, La. The accident occurred one mile east of Queen City.

Witnesses said the elder Dotson went down into the well to release a cable that had snagged as the crew was placing concrete casings.

When he failed to surface, his son went in after him.

Towns descended into the well when the young Dotson became stranded. Witnesses said Towns yelled "gas" when he reached the 60-foot depth.

Emergency crews retrieved the bodies some three hours later.

Hamby, Watkins Head Task Unit

Lanny Hamby, an attorney, and Jack Watkins, a retailer, were named today by Chamber of Commerce president Paul Meek as co-chairmen of the chamber's governmental affairs task force.

"The people of Big Spring gave the Chamber a mandate last winter to attempt and formulate some plans that would be of assistance to the three local governmental agencies in either a more economical operation or in delivering more services for the present tax dollar," Meek said in announcing the appointment. "We made some headway under the former chairman Dr. Floyd Mays, in the form of a request to the Texas Research League for a model city study, but that's a year or two away and we feel there are many things that could be accomplished now."

Winston Wrinkle, chamber vice president under whose division the governmental economy task force operates, said, "we feel that the combination of the talents of these two men will provide both the time-consuming research necessary and the presentation of facts and ideas. The tax dollar takes one of the biggest bites out of any business or family budget and we feel that the least we should do is try and hold the line on taxes now."

Hamby, in accepting the position, said, "we don't want to leave the impression that we're trying to oppose any of our local governments, either the city, county or school system, or that we're trying to get into politics at the Chamber. All we want to do is take a look at where it's going and perhaps make some suggestions for possible alternatives."

Lounge Operator Says Report To Council Is Unfair

Reymundo M. Canales, operator of Diamond Lounge, said today that an account of a protest delegation before the city commission created an unfair impression of his place.

The delegation from the Holy Name Society of Sacred Heart Catholic church had presented a petition against granting of a permit. Statements alleged that there had been a fight at the lounge.

Canales flatly denied this allegation and said that Chief of Police Jay Bands had told the commission Canales had been investigated, had no record, was cooperative, and that there had been no trouble there since Canales had begun operation.

The feud referred to in the report, he said, involved locations other than the one he operates. Canales pointed out that he had a record of 10 years as a businessman here without any trouble.

Woman Jailed

FORT WORTH (AP) — John Lee Johnson, 52, died today from a stab wound in the knee at his home in the western part of the city.

Two-Day Total Sets Record

Howard County Junior College has recorded its largest registration in two days, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president, reported Thursday.

Through Wednesday evening, the head count stood at 1,020. This compared with the final total of 1,048 last fall, a figure that seems almost certain to be eclipsed. Several other students had registered Thursday morning and were not included in the totals.

Dr. Hunt was heartened by an increase in the number of full-time students. The 617 full-time academic students compared with a final figure of 588 last autumn. In addition, there are 48 full-time vocational-technical students signed so far.

The others listed in the figues are part-time students in both academic and the vocational-technical fields.

No totals have been run of semester hours, but last year the final figure was 10,909 academic and 1,074 vocational-technical, a total of 11,783. Dr. Hunt is confident the figure will be exceeded substantially before deadline a week hence.

Two Enter Guilty Pleas

Three defendants pleaded guilty Wednesday before 118th District Judge Ralph W. Caton. One of the defendants had been slated to go to trial this week in the docket that was postponed.

Ponciano D. Lopez, 27, 406 NW 10th, who was to have been tried, pleaded guilty to charges of robbery by assault and to driving while intoxicated (second offense). Judge Caton sentenced Lopez to five years in the state penitentiary on the (robbery) charge and two years on the driving while intoxicated charge, the terms to run concurrently. Lopez was given credit on both sentences for the 159 days he has already served in county jail.

Eugene Washington Hall, 18, P.O. Box 94, Cherokee, Ala., received a three-year probated sentence after he pleaded guilty to a charge of auto theft. Hall is being held in county jail pending his release to officers of U.S. Marshal Bill Black, Fort Worth.

Federal authorities issued warrant for the arrest of Hall on a violation of probation charge. They have been awaiting disposition of the local charges against him before taking custody. According to Sheriff A. N. Standard, Hall will be released to federal authorities sometime today or Friday.

Larry Charles Peterson, 18, of 201 NE 3rd, pleaded guilty before Judge Caton on a charge of forgery and passing a forged instrument. Peterson received a seven-year probated sentence and was released from custody. He was arrested June 11, and was indicted July 1.

Department Store Owner, 75, Dies

FORT WORTH (AP) — J. Marvin Leonard, who established a big Fort Worth department store and built two swank country clubs, died Wednesday. He was 75.

Known both as a merchant and a man of accomplishment in golf, he developed the Leonard Brothers Department Stores into one of the city's major business firms.

The downtown store is said to be the only one in the world with a private subway system for carrying customers to and from parking areas.

Leonard built both the Colonial Country Club and Shady Oaks Country Club, and he had a hand in starting the Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

Leonard was honored at Colonial last year for his contributions to golf. The master of ceremonies was Ben Hogan, who received his first stake to go on the professional golf tour from Leonard.

Groceryman 'Killer' Sentenced To Death

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — A man implicated in the Aug. 12 jailbreak by four men from the Grayson County jail has been convicted of murder with malice and sentenced to death.

A jury convicted Michael Wayne Jewell, 23, of Louisville, Ky., after deliberating one hour Wednesday. The jury then deliberated another hour before recommending Jewell be sentenced to death.

He was accused in the shooting death May 25 of Fred Wright, a Denison groceryman who was found outside his store with two bullet wounds after he was robbed of $899. Judge David H. Brown pronounced the sentence.

Another man, James Farris, 23, of Louisville, also is accused in the murder. Farris and two other men remain at large after escaping from the county jail.

County Sheriff Woodly Blanton said the jailbreak was intended to free Jewell but the four other prisoners who escaped couldn't release him from his cell, and fled.

Blanton said that Jewell, enraged at not escaping, led 15 or 20 other prisoners in a jail riot the day after the escape.

One of the escapees, Carl W. Dennie Jr., 24, was recaptured less than a week later by FBI agents on a Dallas street.

Besides Farris, still at large are Harry B. Christian, 21, of Dallas, and Leonard R. Sprague, 41, of Aransas Pass.

Teen Tells Of Finding Body Of His Stepfather

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A teen-age boy was near tears at the Sharon Tate murder trial as he told of finding the bloody body of his stepfather, Leno LaBianca, in a crouching position.

See Photo, Page 1

Frank Struthers, 16, the son by a former marriage of LaBianca's wife Rosemary, who also was slain, took the stand Wednesday as the state turned to details of the double slaying the night after Miss Tate and four others were killed.

'PIG' ON DOOR

Descriptions of the Tate murder scene ended with a police chemist telling how trails of blood through the mansion and outside marked the paths taken by victims trying to flee their killers. He said the word "Pig" on the front door of the house was scrawled by someone using a towel dipped in the slain actress' blood.

Charles M. Manson, 35, and three women members of his hippie style "family" are on trial charged with murdering Miss Tate, four visitors at her home and the LaBiancas in August, 1969.

'WAR' CARVED

The LaBiancas, slain about 10 miles from the Tate place were found amid bloody scrawlings. A carving fork was stuck in LaBianca's stomach and the word "War" was carved on his chest, police have said.

Struthers said his mother and stepfather had spent part of a weekend with him and family friends at Lake Isabella, a central California resort, then returned home ahead of the others the night of Aug. 9.

The following night, when Struthers returned, he said he got no answer when he knocked on the door. He summoned his sister, Susan, 23, who lived nearby, and a friend, and they searched for keys.

"I got the keys out of my mother's car and opened the back door," said Struthers.

WALLET GONE

"When we got to the living room we saw Leno LaBianca . . . in a type of crouched position." He added, "We came out right away."

Struthers said he checked the house days later to see if anything was missing. His mother's wallet was gone, he said. The state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, has testified that Manson entered the LaBianca home before the killings, then came out with the wallet which he told her to discard.

The wallet, later found in a gas station rest room, was identified by Struthers. The youth, whose eyes were red and puffy, appeared near tears as he viewed a color photograph in the wallet.

Musicians Give Program

Another large crowd turned out Wednesday evening to hear the Continental Singers and Orchestra in its third appearance here at the First Baptist Church.

The program of contemporary Christian songs, spitituals and hymns was presented to the accompaniment of the orchestra and with a modern theme and beat.

The 40 young musicians, recruited from college campuses across the nation, are concluding this week a summer-long tour across the country and in Bermuda. Several members of the troupe gave their Christian testimony as part of the program. The group went Thursday to Albuquerque and will conclude the summer tour Sunday in Los Angeles, following with a mass concert with four other similar units, one of which includes Lucia Taylor, Big Spring.

Two Held For Questioning

Two youths are being held in custody in county jail on suspicion of car theft.

One 16-year-old suspect was arrested by Texas Highway Patrol officers earlier in the week, and the second suspect, 20 years old, was arrested Wednesday by sheriff's officers. No formal charges have yet been filed against the pair, according to Sheriff A. N. Standard.

The car, a blue 1969 American Motors AMX, is being kept on the sheriff's parking lot. The first suspect was apprehended for a traffic violation when it was discovered that the New Mexico license tags on the auto were issued originally to a 1967 Ford. The state inspection sticker also did not match.

Officers recovered a Texaco credit card that was reported stolen in an Albuquerque burglary, according to Sheriff Standard.

Local officers are awaiting word from the Albuquerque sheriff's office, which is tracing the owner of the auto.

WOMEN WALK FOR RIGHTS — Women advocating equality of the sexes march down New York's Fifth Avenue Wednesday past pedestrians and office workers as they participate in the women's strike. In the background is Atlas holding the world on his shoulders. (Atlas might be looking forward to a female helper.) Below, at left, is Linda Giannelli whose Wednesday began when she didn't wake her husband at 7:30 a.m. as she customarily does. Linda was on strike. The mother of two, shown with Betty Friedan, right, at a "Baby-In" at New York's City Hall, was one of thousands of women who participated in yesterday's strike. Betty Friedan is founder of the National Organization for Women — "NOW" — and originator of the strike idea

INCLUDES SOME MEN

Mass March Marks New Drive For Rights

By The Associated Press

Women activists around the country, marking the 50th anniversary of their winning the vote, have begun a new drive for equality. They marched in the streets, chanted at rallies and held symbolic demonstrations.

High point of Wednesday's "Women's Strike for Equality" was a mass march down New York's Fifth Avenue that drew a police-estimated crowd of more than 20,000 persons, including some men. Parade officials put the figure as high as 50,000.

Other major demonstrations were held in Washington, Boston, Chicago, Indianapolis and San Francisco but there was also activity in cities the size of Missoula, Mont., and Paramus, N.J.

Betty Friedan, founder of the National Organization For Women—NOW—and originator of the idea for the strike, said the scope of the activity was "beyond our wildest dreams."

Major goals of the demonstration were equal job opportunities and pay, free abortions and 24-hour child care centers. Women were urged to stay home from their jobs and not perform menial household tasks.

Business communities reported little absenteeism, however, and the largest crowds were for those events timed for the lunch hour or after work.

The New York parade drew thousands of homebound office workers as spectators—most of them friendly. Others stared or snickered or shouted disapproval.

One group of antiliberation women carrying pink signs identifying them as members of "Men Our Masters—MOM," crossed police barricades to scuffle briefly with the marchers until police separated them.

The mood was generally jovial but with serious overtones. "It's both serious and fun, but not something to be made fun of," commented one woman marcher. "There is a feeling of unity among us."

At a rally following the march Mrs. Friedan declared: "This is not a bedroom war, this is a political movement. Man is not the enemy, man is a fellow victim."

Kate Millett, acknowledged chief theoretician of the women's liberation movement and author of "Sexual Politics," said, "Today is the beginning of a new movement. Today is the end of milenniums of oppression."

About 2,000 people turned out for a noontime rally in Boston where Mrs. Florence Luscomb, who worked for women's suffrage 50 years ago, told the audience that at the start of the feminist movement "it was immoral for a woman to speak in public like this."

Police estimated a Chicago crowd at 3,000 and another 3,000 gathered in Indianapolis where members of a women's liberation group performed a skit demonstrating their demands.

In Missoula, Mont., three women were arrested on disorderly conduct charges after painting liberation signs on residential sidewalks. And 150 women turned out for a brief demonstration in Paramus.

But there were thousands more like Barbara Sullivan who was asked about women's liberation as she folded her 15-month-old daughter's diapers in a Brooklyn laundry.

"Women's liberation?" she said. "Never thought much about it, really."

AT HOUSTON GRILL

Gals Out-Maneuvered; Men Enjoy Company

HOUSTON (AP) — About 50 women did their part for the national liberation movement of their sex Wednesday as they marched and rallied in downtown Houston.

The National Organization for Women sponsored the rally in front of the federal building.

From there the demonstrators moved up the street to "liberate" a department store grill normally frequented by men only—which turned out to be waiting for them with open arms.

"Well, they knew we were coming," sniffed one member, "so they're being nice. We'll see if they let us in tomorrow."

Dr. Sally Hacker, former president of the Houston chapter of NOW, said the street demonstrations were aimed at "making people aware of the women's movement."

Taking part were working women, housewives, mothers with small children and militants involved in other causes.

Women of the Harriet Tubman Brigade, a self styled "revolutionary" group, presented a theater version of the suffragette movement, focused on the sin of the "villain, the white male supremicist."

A crowd of about 200, mostly men, gathered to watch, listen and sometimes snicker as the speakers talked about the lack of progress women are making.

"Hooray for women's lib — send them to war, and not us" came one yell from a passing car.

"My husband is here on business and I just wanted to come down and show my approval, said a well dressed housewife from Kingsville.

NOW members passed out fact sheets which explained their goals, including an end to sexual discrimination in employment, repeal of all abortion laws and 24-hour day care centers.

Meanwhile, women from other editorial jobs at the Houston Chronicle took over the afternoon newspaper's main copy editing desk for one of the final editions of the day.

Men normally assigned to the job looked on.

"This would be fine if they would do this every day and we stayed on salary," a male employe said.

At the Houston Press Club, "working newswomen" arrived early and took over a large round table traditionally used during the lunch hour by only "working newsmen."

Major Explains U. S. Foreign Involvement

Maj. Glenn Jones, Webb Air Force Base, was guest speaker Tuesday at the Business and Professional Women's Club dinner at Coker's Restaurant. Maj. Jones was introduced by Mrs. C. R. Rhoads, chairman of the club world affairs committee. Mrs. Rhoads, Mrs. Cass Hill and Mrs. Mae Franklin were in charge of the program.

Maj. Jones discussed U.S. foreign affairs, communism and Vietnam and stressed the importance of education and information on U.S. involvement in foreign matters. In addition, he traced the history of Vietnam from after World War II when Communists entered Southeast Asia. He also related the rise in power of Ho Chi Minh, late president of North Vietnam.

In summarizing this country's involvement in Southeast Asia, Maj. Jones noted, "The people in Southeast Asia are exactly like the people the world over, but they lead a very hard life. We are not in Vietnam just because we want to be, we are there to protect our interests in those countries. It is better to fight communism in Vietnam, on foreign soil, than in our homeland."

Miss Movelda Rhine presided at the business session, and Mrs. Cass Hill gave the invocation. The District 8 convention will be Sept. 12-13 at Paso Del Norte Hotel in El Paso. Miss Rhine was nominated candidate for director of District 8, and Mrs. W. B. Sullivan was nominated to serve on the state officers nominating committee. They are planning to attend the convention with Mss. John Hardy, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Bert Affleck and Miss Edith Gay.

Dining tables were decorated by the world affairs committee with miniature flags, and the head table was centered with an illuminated world globe. Guests were Mrs. Glenn Jones and Mrs. Charles Marstrand. The next meeting will be Sept. 8 at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Obesity Is Discussed By Doctor

"Obesity is a major problem today," said Dr. J. R. Kuykendall, guest speaker at the TOPS Pound Rebels meeting at the YMCA Tuesday evening. He was introduced by Mrs. Donald Carlisle.

"Food is a demon we all must fight," Dr. Kuykendall said. "After the age of 25, less caloric intake is used up in daily activity. I don't believe in crash diets. You should eat three meals a day, but be calorie counters. Count on a weekly basis and set a daily limit. Good progress is losing five to eight pounds a month. Weighing weekly is better than weighing daily. Eat lots of low calorie, bulky foods"

Keys to losing weight, according to Dr. Kuykendall, are determination, knowledge of foods, and exercise such as running, swimming and bicycling.

Mrs Gerold Ernest won the six-week contest prize. Planning to attend the TOPS workshop in Ropesville Saturday are Mrs. Elton Carlile, Mrs. W. J. McNew, Mrs. Lewis Collins and Mrs. Carlisle.

Tells Origin Of Holiday

A program concerning the origin of Labor Day was given by Mrs. Ernest Richters at a Tuesday meeting of the Slender Benders at Midway School.

The speaker said the idea started with the Knights of Labor Unions at New York in 1882. Oregon was the first state to declare a legal holiday in 1887, and the rest of the states following in making the event an annual holiday.

The pledge and song were led by Mrs. Tommy McFarland, and the bowl of fruit was won by Mrs. Natalie Roberts. A total weight loss of 16 pounds was reported.

Jack White of the Texas Department of Public Safety will be speaker for the club next Tuesday.

WSCS Traces Bible History

The history of the Bible, from scrolls of linen and parchment to the present printed book, was given by Mrs. Don Morgan, who presided at Tuesday's circle meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service, Wesley United Methodist Church.

The Bible has undergone many trnaslations and revisions over the centuries, according to Mrs. Morgan.

The Greek scrolls of the Old Testament date back to 285 B.C. Later, the scrolls were translated into Latin. The first printed Bible, the Gutenberg Bible, was completed in 1456 and still exists in a museum. The first translation of the Bible from Latin to English was done by Miles Coverdale in 1535, according to Mrs. Morgan.

The circle members plan to establish an evening circle for women who work during the day. Anyone interested in joining may call Mrs. Morgan, 263-8161. The circles will meet jointly again at the church next Tuesday and reorganize for the individual circle meetings during the year. Mrs. W. D. Lovelace worded prayer.

Merritt Breaks Out Drinks After Fete

By The Associated Press

Jim Merritt must have known something. Why else would the slick Cincinnati southpaw stash away nearly a case of champagne in his locker . . . before the game?

"You don't win 20 games every day," said the 26-year-old hurler, referring to the 10 bottles of champagne, after he became the first left-hander in 45 years to win 20 for the Reds.

Merritt didn't last all the way, going 6 2-3 innings before Wayne Granger came on to save the memorable victory as the Reds edged Philadelphia 6-5 Wednesday night.

HE TIRED

"It was a nice win," said the slender Merritt. "I would have liked to have gone all the way but I got tired. Wayne came on through and slammed the door for me." It was Granger's 29th save of the year.

Merritt, who has lost 10 decisions, became the National League's first 20-game winner this season although he gave up 15 hits before Granger bailed him out. Dave McNally of Baltimore has 20 victories in the American League. The last Cincinnati lefty to win 20 was Eppa Rixey, who was 21-11 in 1925.

In other NL action, Atlanta dropped New York 9-7, San Diego edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Los Angeles beat Chicago 8-5, Houston topped Montreal 5-4 and San Francisco edged St. Louis 8-7.

In the American League, New York blanked Kansas City 3-0, Minnesota trounced Boston 7-0, California whipped Detroit 6-3, Cleveland ripped Milwaukee 7-2, Baltimore topped Oakland 5-1 and Chicago downed Washington 3-1.

Merritt, 17-9 last year after being obtained during the winter of 1969 from Minnesota for Leo Cardenas, was given a 6-2 edge before the Phils unloaded for three runs in the seventh, knocking the lefty out.

Tony Perez slammed his 39th homer of the year and Bernie Carbo had a three-run shot for the Reds, his 21st. Don Money cracked a two-run homer for the Phils.

Hank Aaron slammed his 35th homer of the year, triggering a three-run Atlanta ninth inning that overcame a 7-6 Mets lead. Aaron's two-run shot and No. 589 of his career capped an uphill battle by the Braves, who at one time trailed 7-1.

Orlando Cepeda, Clete Boyer and Bob Tillman added homers for Atlanta while Art Shamsky and Wayne Garrett had two-run blasts for New York.

Ed Spiezio drilled a two-run homer in the seventh inning, sending the Padres to their second straight victory over the Pirates. Despite the loss Pittsburgh still remains three games in front of the Mets in the East.

LOSES IN DEBUT

Freddie Patek fumbled Ivan Murrell's leadoff bouncer before Spiezio connected for his 10th homer of the year off rookie right-hander Fred Cambria, spoiling his major league debut.

Pat Dobson, 10-13, allowed 12 hits but the Pirates scored only in the sixth on John Jeter's single, stolen base and Roberto Clemente's run-scoring single.

CINCY'S JOHNNY BENCH
A sensational year

Red Ace Hopes He Can Live With It

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Bench, the sensational young Cincinnati Reds' catcher wants only one thing more than success—the ability to handle it.

"It's important that you remember where you came from, your parents and the basics of life they taught you," said the 22-year-old Bench as he awaited the start of Wednesday night's 6-5 victory over Philadelphia.

Bench is having a fantastic season with the runaway Reds in the National League West. He has 42 home runs, 126 runs batted in and is hitting .297. As a catcher, baseball experts will tell you the 195 pound Oklahoman has no peer.

"I am trying to accept things that come with success in the right way," Bench explained. "Talking with the media, giving people autographs, this is part of the position I'm in. I'm trying to remember I'm from a little place like Binger, Okla., and my parents taught me what was right."

Bench's 42 home runs this season break the record of 41 by a catcher set in 1953 by Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Some purists belittle the mark, because Bench has hit six of the homers while playing the outfield and one as a first baseman.

"If they want to put an asterisk alongside it, okay," says Bench. "A certain number of games at a position should count. This is qualifying as a hitter, not a fielder."

Bench admits, however, that hitting is easier when playing the outfield or first base. "It's a different attitude. You think more of your hitting and what the opposing pitcher is throwing. You're more offensive minded. When you leave the dugout to go behind the plate your thoughts are on your pitcher and the hitters coming up."

As for the kudos he's receiving now as the top young star of baseball, Bench says, "I just hope they can say it 10 years from now. That's when it will really mean something. That's when you know you really have done something. You have to progress, can't dwell on the present."

Fight To 2-2 Tie

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Estudiantes de la Plata, soccer champions of South America, and Feijenoord, champions of Europe, battled to a 2-2 tie Wednesday night in the first game of the final for the Intercontinental Cup. The second game is scheduled for Sept. 9 in Rotterdam, Holland.

Tourist Complex In The Works

BATON ROUGE, LA. (AP) — An $8 million tourist and recreation complex on Toledo Bend Lake is in the works, Gov. John McKeithen said Wednesday.

He said the Sabine River Authority expects to build a 250-room lodge, marina, golf course and other facilities on the reservoir between Texas and Louisiana.

The authority plans to ask for $4.8 million from the Federal Economic Development Administration with the remainder coming from revenues generated by the facility.

Carter Moves To Bengals; Vikes Cut 4

By The Associated Press

Virgil Carter, who recently shuffled off to Buffalo, has been shuffled on to Cincinnati.

The Cincinnati Bengals, sorely in need of quarterback help, picked up the signal caller from the Bills for an undisclosed future draft choice Wednesday.

Carter, a Brigham Young star, played two years with the Chicago Bears before going to Buffalo during the off-season.

The Bengals, who lost No. 1 quarterback Greg Cook to injury recently, also picked up Bob Davis from the New York Giants. Davis, placed on waivers by the Giants, had been a reserve quarterback for the Houston Oilers for three years.

Carter completed 36 of 71 passes for 343 yards in a little-used role last year. In 1968, he passed for 769 yards while starting seven games.

TRADE ROOKIE

Elsewhere in the National Football League, the Detroit Lions traded rookie guard Bob Parker to the Philadelphia Eagles for veteran receiver Chuck Hughes. Hughes, a four-year veteran, was a fourth-round draft choice of the Eagles in 1967.

The Baltimore Colts acquired running back Eugene Moore from San Francisco on waivers and announced the retirement of reserve linebacker Butch Riley.

The Minnesota Vikings cut defensive back Seth Miller, wide receiver John Spinks, kicker Les Perry and tackle Andy Kolstad.

Washington asked waivers on veterans Carl Kammerer, a defensive end, and Tom Brown, a strong safety, and named Floyd Peters as player-coach on the defensive line.

The Atlanta Falcons later claimed Kammerer.

The Dallas Cowboys traded an undisclosed draft choice to the New Orleans Saints for veteran safety Bobby Thompson.

Boston placed two players on the injured waiver list—quarterback Aaron Marsh and Ed Toner, a defensive tackle.

BACK IN CAMP

Receiver Willie Richardson returned to the Pittsburgh Steelers camp after three days' absence because of a contract hassle.

Coach Chuck Noll spoke with Richardson by phone in Baltimore and suggested he try to solve the problem in camp, a Steeler spokesman said.

Richardson, obtained by the Steelers from the Colts last week, had left the Latrobe, Pa., site over the weekend when he asked to have his contract renegotiated and the club refused.

TOUR BY QBC IS PLANNED

Members of the Quarterback Club will get a chance Tuesday to tour training facilities of the Big Spring Steers.

Coaches of the Longhorns will serve as guides in showing the fans equipment rooms, dressing areas and the compartment where trainer Doc Aguilara treats players for injuries.

One of the players will serve as a model, at which time coach Hale will show exactly how much battle gear a boy uses and the purpose it serves.

Fans can feel free to ask questions about any phase of the operation.

FOR GOLF COURSE

Board Proposes Fee Reduction

Hoping to stimulate interest in a sport that has been lagging somewhat the past year, the City Parks and Recreation Board recommended Wednesday that green fees at the Municipal golf course be dropped from $1.25 to 75 cents to those players who would use the facility after 5 p.m. on week days.

The board would institute the change Sept. 1 but chances are bleak that any reduction in charges would be made until the City Commission acts on it. The commission does not formally convene again until Sept. 8.

The Parks Board also recommended that monthly rates for both individuals and families be eliminated. At the present time, a monthly card costs a subscriber $9. A man and his wife pay $11 for the privilege while the family fee is $16.

The board would also eliminate cards to privileged groups like city employes, auxiliary policemen and ministers. Such individuals have been able to play the course upon payment of a 25 cent fee.

Golfers could continue to purchase cards on an annual basis, if recommendations made by the Board are approved by the City Commission. The fee for an individual would be $75 yearly, $100 for a couple and $10 for each additional member of the family.

Weekend golfing would cost players $2 or 25 cents more than they are now paying, if the Parks Board has its way.

Golfing receipts are down $2,035 during the 12 months period ending July 31, assistant city manager Roy Anderson said. Last year, a total of $24,774 was taken in during the fiscal year, compared to $22,739 for the year just ending.

Murphy Could Use Change In Luck

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Two years ago, Bob Murphy climaxed a summer hot streak that won him $70,000 in three weeks by cruising over the Upper Montclair Country Club course to the final Thunderbird Open title.

The portly 27-year-old is back at the scene of that victory, without a tournament victory since, but confident that his chances are as good as anyone's in the $300,000 Dow Jones Open, which opened today on the 7,085-yard Upper Montclair Course. He says that despite the challenge of a Who's Who of Golf, attracted by the $60,000 first prize.

"I guess anybody who can afford a plane ticket is here," Murphy said after shooting a one over par 73 in the pro-amateur Wednesday. "But I'm playing well, and when I am, I can play with anyone."

Murphy's triumph here two years ago came during a three-week period in which he had two firsts and a second. It put him on the way to the PGA's Rookie-of-the-Year title.

He hasn't exactly starved since then, as his figure attests, but he hasn't won a tournament. Two weeks ago, he finished in a tie for second at the PGA Championship at Southern Hills in Tulsa, Okla., the same course where he won the 1965 National Amateur.

Murphy sees a precedent in that performance.

"When I like the course I play well," he says. "I like the course in Tulsa and I like it here."

There has been no major tournament here since the 1968 Thunderbird, so Murphy is a stand-in defending champion to many of the New York area fans, who adopted him as their own two years ago. He was born in Brooklyn, but grew up in Forida.

"It always helps to have the fans with you, and they're with me here," he says.

His biggest problem during Wednesday's pro-am was his putting.

"I played very well," he said, "but I never made a putt. If they start dropping, I'll do fine."

The competition, with 57 of last year's top 60 money winners on hand, figures to be the stiffest of the year. The favorites include Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Gary Player and Bruce Crampton.

Also entered are PGA champion Dave Stockton, U.S. Open winner Tony Jacklin, and such consistent winners as Lee Trevino, Julius Boros, Dave Hill, Orville Moody, Tom Weiskopf and the veteran Sam Snead.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Why is it some athletes use a vehicle like a summer recreational program to carry out personal vendettas and betray hatred for the establishment?

A group playing in the Summer Basketball league here set about to destroy the organization with their fractious behavior. They fairly well succeeded — the schedule was called off before the playoffs could begin.

They only served to reshape the thinking of the league's organizers, who in the future will plan the league only for those athletes who have high school eligibility remaining.

The manufacturers of Tartan surfaces are now laying it on basketball courts, with signal success.

The covering on the Heart-o-Texas Coliseum in Waco is Tartan. Laid directly on top of the building's concrete floor, it is so tough and durable, they say, it can be covered with dirt and used as a rodeo floor. It then can be swept clean and used again for basketball.

Hark back to the days when the coach would yell for you to beat a retreat if you went into the court wearing street shoes.

Tampa will probably be in the National Football League before the end of this decade. Mexico City likely will make it, too. (The Dallas Cowboys have more fans in Mexico City than they do in San Antonio).

When Tampa is admitted into the circuit, the club will be called the Florida Buccaneers. Only factor that could shatter the dream would be for the Miami Dolphins to become a statewide team and play three of their games in Tampa each year.

Financing of the Mexico City club reportedly is all set, with a rich brewer bankrolling the team.

Wouldn't it be something if the Los Angeles Rams won it all in the NFL, and owner Dan Reeves still fired coach Goerge Allen. That could happen, according to insiders. Perhaps, if Allen is bounced, he can come to Texas where dedicated football men are appreciated.

Big Spring's Gary Hinds will be one of five freshman quarterbacks reporting shortly for football at the University of Houston.

The others are Tommy Kaiser, Klein High School; D. C. Nobles, Lufkin Dunbar; Gary Boyd, San Antonio Highlands; and Deryl McGallion, Silsbee.

At 155, Hinds will be the smallest of the four but Houston scouts studied Big Spring game films closely and liked Hinds' grit in the tough situations.

Houston's freshmen open play Oct. 3 against the North Texas freshmen and meet UT Arlington, the LSU frosh, the Air Force Academy and Wharton JC in other starts.

Six years ago, the San Francisco 49ers drafted fullback Gary Lewis because they thought he was one of the most promising players in the land.

They gave up on Lewis this year, though, because Gary wasn't able to push himself away from the table often enough. Invariably, he reported in overweight. Lewis played his college ball at Arizona State.

Kenneth Henson Departs Cisco For Howard Payne

BROWNWOOD — Kenneth Hanson has been named to replace Glenn Whitis as basketball coach at Howard Payne College.

Henson, 32, comes here from Cisco College, where last season his team finished with a 30-6 won-lost record. He is a brother to Lou Henson, basketball coach at New Mexico State University.

In five seasons, his Cisco teams have won 92 while losing only 36.

* * *

Before Harold Wilder was hired as basketball coach at Howard County Junior College, Henson was invited to Big Spring for an interview about the job.

He declined with thanks, for a unique reason. He said he would have been interested in the position at any other time but he felt his chances to field a winner at Cisco the 1970-71 season were so good he could not afford to leave.

At Cisco, many of his players were recommended to him by his brother Lou.

Steers Switch To Heavy Toil

The Big Spring Steers, who have been working in shorts the past four days, will switch to pads Friday for two drills.

Coach Clovis Hale is planning to have the footballers report Saturday for two sessions as they prepare for their scrimmage with Sweetwater.

The Longhors journey to Sweetwater next Friday for a drill. In reality, there'll be two scrimmages that evening, since the younger boys will take the field first.

Hale said he planned to film about 400 feet of the first scrimmage as well as all the regular work against the Mustangs.

Hale said he was pleased with the progress the club has shown in workouts to date. The hot weather hasn't been too much of a handicap, since the boys have been working early in the morning and again in the evening.

Cowboy Coach Says He Has Many Worries

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys head coach Tom Landry is singing the blues and his favorite these days is "A Good Man Is Hard to Find."

While admitting that the Cowboys would be glad to trade for an experienced hand to help fill gaps in the Pokes' porous defensive secondary, Landry says it's not that easy.

"I'll tell you this," Landry said, "with the expansion to 26 teams, the days of depth are pretty well gone. The teams with really front line players are going to keep them. They'll maybe give up a draft choice but not their top players."

The subject came up Wednesday at the Cowboys' weekly luncheon in a discussion of Dallas' wheeling and dealing to get a solid defensive secondary.

Tuesday, the Cowboys released 13-year veteran Dave Whitsell—a strong candidate for starting safety — and announced they were going with youth at the position. Then Wednesday, Landry said the Pokes had acquired seven-year vet Bobby Thompson from New Orleans.

Thompson, who'll get a look-see at safety, reported in time for Wednesday's workouts.

In explaining the muddle, Landry said "It was strictly a judgment call. We'd love to have a lot of experience back there, but there's no use having someone back there if you don't feel he'll fit into your club."

But the defensive secondary isn't all that's wrinkled Landry's brow this pre-season. The Cowboys take a 1-2 record into Saturday's battle in the Astrodome against the Houston Oilers and Landry places part of the blame on the offense.

"I'm concerned about the whole offense at this stage," Landry said. "We have not progressed as far as I had hoped we would. We aren't getting the production out of any of our offensive people and this is critical at this stage of the game."

Landry hopes the Cowboys can get something rolling offensively against the Oilers although several key people are hobbling. Rookie of the year Calvin Hill still is having problems with his toe, tight ends Pettis Norman and Mike Ditka are slowed by injuries and guard Ralph Neely is unlikely to play because of a knee injury.

Landry said he would start No. 2 quarterback Roger Staubach again this week in place of starter Craig Morton. Staubach started last week against Green Bay but was knocked out early in the game.

OH THANK HEAVEN FOR 7-ELEVEN

DIVISION OF THE SOUTHLAND CORPORATION

DEAR ABBY: Last month I started to work in a large insurance office, and right off the bat I became attracted to a good looking young department head. Not bragging, but I've got a lot going for me, too. I'm 24, single, and a well-built redhead who never lacked for attention.

Well, "Department Head" and I started seeing each other a lot, but always at my place. (He was sort of secretive about where he lived.)

Yesterday he called in sick with a chest cold, so I decided to surprise him with some chicken soup. (I got his address from the office files.)

When I rang his bell, I was the one who got the surprise! A tall, skinny blonde about my age answered his door in a bath towel. At first she wasn't going to let me in, but I pushed her aside and went right to the bedroom to see my sick friend. He was sick all right, and he got sicker when he saw me. The bedroom looked plenty "lived in," if you know what I mean. Her stuff thrown all over the place along with his.

"Department Head" said Blondie was a childhood chum who had come to town to hunt a job, was low on funds, so he was putting her up temporarily. Now, Abby, how does this story sound to you? RED

DEAR RED: Fishy. "Department Head" could have helped the blonde by giving her a few dollars for a pad of her own. (P.S. Too bad you didn't know in advance that you were going to cook his goose. You could have skipped the chicken soup.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law isn't really a mean person, she's just ignorant. How else can you describe a person who introduces me and my children this way?

"This is my daughter in law and her two adopted children."

Abby, I have to bite my lip to keep from crying when I hear her say this.

My children are only one year old and two and a half—still a little too young to know what "adopted" means, but as soon as they are old enough to understand, I intend to tell them. But in the meantime, what can be done about such a stupid woman? YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR YOUNG: Someone should tell her in a nice way to disengage her mouth until she's sure her brain is in gear.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My heart goes out to that poor mixed up teenaged girl whose father called her a tramp because she slept with different boys. I was in that girl's shoes when I was in my teens and my father never called me a tramp. He helped me all the way because he knew I was a troubled, mixed-up kid.

I am now a happy wife and mother and I hope my father is proud of me now because I am very proud of him.

Girls who are called tramps by their fathers usually stay tramps all their lives. God bless my dad. DADDY'S GIRL

Death Scene Shovel Hint

ANGLETON, Tex. (AP) — A chemist testified Wednesday that soil on a shovel that Charles Harrelson allegedly returned to a friend two days after Alan Berg disappeared "could have come from the scene of the murder."

Leslie Smith of Austin, who works for the Department of Public Safety, compared soil samples on the shovel with some from a garbage dump in Fort Bend County.

Crawford Booth of Houston told the 12-man jury earlier that Harrelson borrowed the shovel several days before Berg was slain.

The state charges that Harrelson, 31, shot and strangled Berg, a Houston carpet executive, on May 28, 1968.

Smith said both soil samples were clay, varying from red to yellow, and both contained ashes and pieces of leaves similar to Bermuda grass.

Defense lawyer Percy Foreman asked Smith why chemical analysis of the soil was not made. Smith said he did not think it was necessary.

"The comparison and the chemical tests are not going to make them any more the same," he said.

Sandra Sue Attaway, a former girl friend of Harrelson, has testified that Harrelson shot Berg and then tried to dig a grave in Fort Bend County. The ground was too hard, she said, so the body was dumped in Brazoria County.

Middle East Peacekeeping Force Mulled

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — High administration officials say the United States would seriously consider agreeing to have U.S. and Soviet units join in a peacekeeping force for the Middle East.

The administration spokesmen say they have in mind a physical presence of the two powers, perhaps as an observer force, under a United Nations umbrella.

The concept was outlined to 48 newspaper and broadcast executives from 13 Western states Monday. Release of the information was withheld for 48 hours. Ground rules of the session forbid direct quotation and identification of the sources.

PAPER PEACE

The officials said Israel, in particular, wants on-the-ground security arrangements for assurance it is agreeing to a real, not a paper peace. They said U.N. involvement would not mean mere recourse to the Security Council, which the United States considers loaded against Israel.

Administration strategy for the Middle East is being built around the possibility that the United States and the Soviet Union may be enmeshed there indefinitely in on-the-scene peacekeeping, the briefers said, and that both powers will have to agree to any settlement terms.

Whether the two would have to become involved in practical details of peacekeeping activities is still an open question, they said, but the United States never has precluded such an assignment and apparently does not intend to do so now.

The briefing was the third in a series of five that will cover all regions of the country. In large measure it was repetitive of one earlier in the month at New Orleans for the South.

'NIXON DOCTRINE'

On other points, the briefers said:

—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is underscoring the "Nixon Doctrine" on his current Asian trip, promising support but encouraging Asian nations to help themselves.

—As a result of the Cambodian sanctuary operations, the chances of survival of the current Lon Nol government in Cambodia are better than 50-50, compared to about one in four before that move.

—The strategic arms limitation talks, viewed with continued cautious optimism, are considered to be the best arms control negotiations the United States has ever engaged in with the Soviet Union. And, the Russians are described as taking a more sober approach than ever before.

—On dissent in the United States over Vietnam policy, the administration was described as conscious of the concern of some of the country's most dedicated people. But one of the briefing officials commented that the people do not forgive leaders if they produce disasters—even if these disasters carry out the wishes of the people.

Panther Trial Jurors Still Deliberating

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A jury of 10 whites and two blacks resumes deliberations today in the trial of Black Panther Lonnie McLucas, with another vigil promised outside the courthouse by scores of young demonstrators.

The jury received the case Wednesday and deliberated 4½ hours before recessing for the night.

McLucas is charged with kidnaping resulting in death, conspiracy to kidnap and to murder, and binding, all in connection with the shooting death 15 months ago of another Panther, Alex Rackley.

Seven other Panthers await trial in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap and kill Rackley because, police say, he was suspected of being a police informer.

Demonstrators seeking acquittal for McLucas briefly blocked the state police car brought to carry him from the courthouse Tuesday, but on Wednesday police whisked the defendant out the front door and left about 300 demonstrators waiting at two side exits.

The demonstration leaders obtained a police permit for a vigil through the night on the New Haven Green across a street from the courthouse.

'BOSS SENT THIS' — Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., right, hands a letter to Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir in Tel Aviv Thursday from President Nixon. "My boss sent this for you," Murphy told her. Neither Murphy nor Meir would reveal its contents, but Murphy said the Prime Minister "smiled and seemed pleased with it." Murphy was to end his fact-finding mission to Israel for Nixon Friday when he flies to Rome. Man in background is unidentified.

Heart Computer Might Save Lives

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP) — Three scientists have created a computer about the size of a deck of cards that they say may save thousands of lives by warning heart-care patients of possible trouble.

The device, called VIDA—Ventricular Impulse Detector and Alarm—gives off a loud beep when a patient's heart produces "ectopic" beats, a sure sign of usually fatal heart fibrillation that causes the heart to stop pumping.

Once the alarm sounds, patients have about three days to seek medical attention, the inventors say.

Creators of the shirt-pocket computer are Dr. John W. Gofman of San Francisco, and two California electronics specialists, Robert L. Chapman of Danville and Richard D. Lawhorn of Castro Valley, who have set up offices in this San Francisco-Oakland suburb.

"It's really tragic to realize that many people die from temporary heart fibrillations," Chapman said in an interview.

He said the device is attached by two electrodes to the chest. A special circuit protector prevents possible false alarms.

A prototype model has been developed, and a dozen more are being built for testing before marketing, possibly in 1971, the men say.

The idea for the device was born several years ago when Dr. Gofman suggested it to Chapman, who evolved the basic electronic concept.

They patented VIDA in 1964.

The normal number of a patient's heart beats is set in the computer beforehand, and as long as the heart functions normally no sound is made.

Times-Mirror To Add Banker

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, board chairman of the Times-Mirror Corp., said Dallas banker James W. Aston would be elected a director of the Los Angeles corporation today.

Murphy made the disclosure Tuesday night at a dinner given by James F. Chambers Jr., president and publisher of the Dallas Times Herald, for members of the Times-Mirro Corp. Board. About 500 business and civic leaders attended.

The Times - Mirror Corp. acquired the Times Herald earlier this year.

Aston is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Republic National Bank of Dallas.

U.S. Health Insurance Bill Filed By Ted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to create a comprehensive national health insurance program, with benefits effective in mid-1973, was intorduced today by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The program would cover all citizens, without individual limit, over the entire range of health services except for certain nursing home care, mental and dental treatment and some medicines and equipment.

Kennedy estimated it would pay 70 per cent of all health expenditures in the nation, roughly twice the amount now paid by the medicare and medicaid programs for the elderly and indigent, which would be terminated.

Joining Kennedy as principal sponsors of the plan were Sens. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio.

Kennedy, in prepared remarks for the Senate floor, said the program would be financed through a trust fund similar to that for Social Security.

Forty per cent of the income would be derived from federal general revenues, 35 per cent of it from a 3.5 per cent tax on employers' payrolls, and 25 per cent from a 2.1 per cent tax on individual income up to $15,000 a year.

Based on 1969 figures, said Kennedy, the plan would have paid out $37 billion.

Kennedy emphasized that his bill would not create a national health service of government-owned facilities and government-employed doctors.

"On the contrary," he said, "the program proposes a working partnership between the public and private sectors."

It would replace, he said, "the large amount of wasteful and inefficient expenditures already being made by private citizens, by employers, by voluntary private agencies, and by federal, state and local governments.

"Only in this way can we begin to guarantee our citizens better value for their health dollar."

Kennedy said "with only four exceptions, there are no restrictions on needed services—no cut off points, no co-insurance, no deductibles, and no waiting periods."

Kennedy said the bill was patterned after the recommendations of the Committee for National Health Insurance, founded in 1968 by the late Walter Reuther.

The senator declared that "America faces many serious and critical domestic problems, but none is more pervasive or more difficult than the deterioration of our once proud system of health care."

The Nixon administration so far has shunned notions of a national health plan for all citizens.

However, the President has indicated he will propose legislation next year—in connection with his welfare reform plan—to scrap medicaid for a new program aimed at doubling the number of poor persons for whom health services would be available.

Disaster Loans Bill Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking and Currency Committee has approved legislation which would make businesses damaged by water pollution eligible for disaster loans.

Meanwhile, the Interior Department said that it might be willing to permit small discharges of mercury into waterways if it can be proved that they would not be harmful.

Last month, the Justice Department filed suit against 10 industrial firms, seeking injunctions to halt immediately the discharge of "any mercury or mercury compounds in any form."

CASUALTIES DIP TO LOWEST LEVEL IN 4 YEARS

One Of Worst Copter Crashes

SAIGON (AP) — Thirty-two Americans were believed dead today in one of the worst helicopter crashes of the Vietnam war, but the U.S. Command announced that American battlefield casualties last week dropped to their lowest level in 4½ years.

The weekly casualty report said 52 Americans were killed in action last week and another 358 were wounded. A spokesman said it was the lowest casualty total since the week ending March 5, 1966, when 61 Americans were killed and 177 wounded.

DEATHS DOWN

Enemy and South Vietnamese casualties also were down. The forces killed 1,055 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong last week, the lowest in more than three years, while the Saigon government reported 247 of its troops killed, the lowest in a month, and 745 wounded.

The American report did not include the casualties in the shooting down Wednesday of the 50-foot-long, 14-ton Chinook helicopter. Two bodies were recovered, seven men were injured, and 30 other Americans were listed as missing and presumed dead.

The big U.S. Army helicopter was hit by an enemy rocket grenade as it was coming in for a landing at Fire Base Judy, in the northern part of the country. It was transporting troops being withdrawn from Kham Duc, a base 13 miles east of the Laotian border which allied forces abandoned Wednesday.

TWO RESCUED

The chopper crashed just outside the artillery base, spraying wreckage in several directions. A rotor blade hurtled into the base, killing two soldiers stationed there and wounding five others.

There were 32 Americans aboard the twin-rotor transport, and only the copilot and one passenger, an infantryman, were rescued. Both were injured. Late today no word had been received on recovery of missing bodies.

In the worst helicopter crash of the war, 41 Americans were killed on Jan. 8, 1969, when a CH53 troop carrier crashed into a mountain. On May 7, 1969, two Americans and 38 South Vietnamese troops were killed when a CH47 hit a tree while taking off near Khe Sanh.

UNDER ATTACK

The Kham Duc base is a former Special Forces camp which was abandoned in 1968 under heavy enemy attack. About 2,000 South Vietnamese and 500 American troops reopened it six weeks ago to cut off North Vietnamese troops and supplies moving in from Laos. U.S. spokesman said it was abandoned again because the force had accomplished its mission, having been "successful in effectively disrupting enemy logistical operations and in destroying enemy supply depots prior to the onset of the monsoon season."

Thuy Fails To Show For Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris peace talks, Xuan Thuy, failed to show up today for the 81st session of the talks, continuing an 8½-month boycott. But his deputy told newsmen he would be present next Thursday.

Thuy returned to Paris Wednesday after a 3½-month trip home. His deputy, Nguyen Minh Vy, said: "After a long trip, he is taking a little rest."

The American delegation was represented by Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, who missed last week's session, and the South Vietnamese by chief delegate Pham Dang Lam. The Viet Cong sent their delegation's third man, Nguyen Van Tien.

Thuy on his return to Paris indicated he brought no new peace proposals. But he said he would consider resuming secret talks with the Americans now that the United States is represented by a chief delegate instead of the previous acting delegation chief, Philip C. Habib.

Vy, the first speaker at today's session, said the American delegation spoke one way while ranking officials in the Nixon administration contradicted them.

The Viet Cong delegate repeated his side's "irreducible" demands: "the immediate and total withdrawal from South Vietnam of American troops . . . without posing any conditions whatsoever (and) the abandonment of the administration" in Saigon.

The South Vietnamese ambassador countered by charging that "your unchanged position boils down to two extreme demands. You consider these demands as preconditions which must be accepted by our side before genuine negotiations could begin."

Bruce, the last speaker of the day, displayed a low-keyed approach.

In a brief address, Bruce said, "I have expressed the view that if genuine negotiations are to begin we must find a way for all the parties concerned to consider the basic issues in a manner which permits differences to be narrowed through reasonable discussion and compromise.

"Unfortunately, your remarks today continue to offer little encouragement that you are yet prepared to do so," he said, indicating that no progress had been registered at today's session.

"We will continue to await the time when you are ready to abandon the language of propaganda and begin the process of serious negotiation."

Rain Soaks Las Vegas

By The Associated Press

Fair and pleasant weather favored most of the nation today, marred by only a scattering of thundershowers in parts of the Southeast and in the West.

Cooling relief crept out of the northern Rockies and into the adjacent plains after several days of scorching temperatures. The mercury hit 113 Wednesday in Philip, S.D.

Occasionally heavy thunderstorms in sections of the West and the lower Great Lakes during the night tapered off to showers before daybreak.

A severe thunderstorm Wednesday afternoon dumped two inches of rain into downtown Las Vegas, Nev., and peppered the north end of the city with up to two inches of hail. Street flooding marooned a number of autos until the water receded.

More than an inch of rain soaked Yuma, Ariz., in the predawn hours.

A violent storm raced over parts of southeastern Wisconsin late Wednesday and pelted Grafton and Cedarburg with large hail, driven by winds up to 50 miles an hour.

Thai Wants To Withdraw 'As Many As Possible'

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand has told the Saigon government it wants to withdraw "as many as possible" of its 12,000 troops in South Vietnam, Premier Thanom Kittikachorn told newsmen today.

The premier said the situation in Thailand and neighboring Laos and Cambodia is becoming more tense, and Thailand wants its "battle-tested" troops to protect its frontiers.

Thanom said his government has not yet fixed a date or number of troops for the pullout. He said this would be discussed with Vietnamese officials.

Thanom, who also is defense minister, said he would ask the United States to increase aid to Thailand as more U.S. troops are pulled out of his country. About 6,000 were withdrawn during the past year.

Plan Is Worked For Tyler Schools

By The Associated Press

Tyler school officials and government representatives improvised a desegregation plan Wednesday as other Texas school officials sought to comply with Department of Health, Education and Welfare integration standards.

Classes opened in some areas with changes to come later as courtrooms were filled with negotiators bent on constructing acceptable desegregation solutions.

'NOT IDEAL'

U.S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice gave Tyler officials until today to decide on which two grades would be included at formerly all-black Smithland school in Marion County. Either the seventh and eighth, or eighths and ninth grades will be sent there.

Justice said the plan was "not ideal" but temporarily acceptable.

Under the government plan, an undetermined number of children will face a four-hour bus ride to and from school each day if bused from extreme western areas of the county to this school on the east side of Marion County.

Temple school attorneys and government negotiators failed to reach an agreement in Austin and U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts ordered the district to accept a government desegregation plan.

Roberts was due to hear the Austin district case today. Austin officials said they were unable to present a plan acceptable to HEW officials.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Fisher was expected to deliver a decision today on a desegregation plan for the Beaumont South Park school. Four plans had been presented for approval.

Uvalde school pupils attended the opening of school Wednesday after a last minute plea by Catholic leaders who urged parents to delay continuation of a school boycott by their children.

Bishop Patrick Flores and other Catholic leaders made the appeal to the Mexican-American Parent Association.

The parents agreed to send their children to classes and give the school board until the regular Sept. 4 board meeting to discuss the differences which prompted the boycott last spring.

Parents said they would consider withdrawing their children from school Sept. 16 (Mexican Independence Day) if no meeting is called to air grievances.

GO BACK

"We are asking that they go back and try to negotiate a satisfactory settlement. The children should not be victims of the consequences of this action (boycott)," Flores said.

The Ecumenical Council of San Antonio scheduled a meeting with Uvalde school board officials Monday but none of the board appeared.

REST OF GENERAL STORE GOES WITH IT

The 'Used' Coffin Up For Grabs

COLMESNEIL, Tex. (AP) — Martin "Pomp" Meadows took over his father's general store 67 years ago, but in all that time never got around to changing the name.

Now, at 86, he is hoping he can find someone to do it for him.

The S. H. Meadow General Store, with its 75 years of history, is up for sale.

The store has been sitting in the same place ever since the elder Meadows opened it to serve the East Texas sawmill town called Colmesneil.

The sawmill has long since gone, but the town has remained. And so has S. H. Meadows General Store.

SIGN FADED

Located on a dirt road several blocks from the main highway and with its sign all but faded away in the flaking paint, the old store is almost hidden.

But today is still much as it must have been three-quarters of a century ago when its doors first opened.

With racks and stacks, piles and files that go back to the beginning of the business, Meadows Store has merchandise that can't be bought in modern stores.

And neither is it for sale here.

They are relics that remain as reminders of an era of East Texas that is gone.

SIDESADDLE STICK

There is an ancient sidesaddle slung over the railing of the stairs. Nearby, a walking stick with a deer antler handle lies across a table.

Hanging along with a horse collar and harness, half a dozen gourd dippers dangle from the wall.

Upstairs is Meadows' main attraction—the country's only "used" coffin.

When the men get together back of the store around the wood-burning stove to sit and spit and spin yarns, one of the tales most told is the one of how he came by a used casket.

The way he tells it, a man had died without enough money to pay for a proper burial, and his family appealed to the store owner to let them have the coffin on credit with the promise to pay the next day.

"But, the word got to me that they were going ahead and burying the fellow before they paid me so I did what any man would do—I had the law catch them at the graveyard and bring my casket back to me.

PUSHED OUT

"Only trouble, for some reason, I never could find another buyer for it."

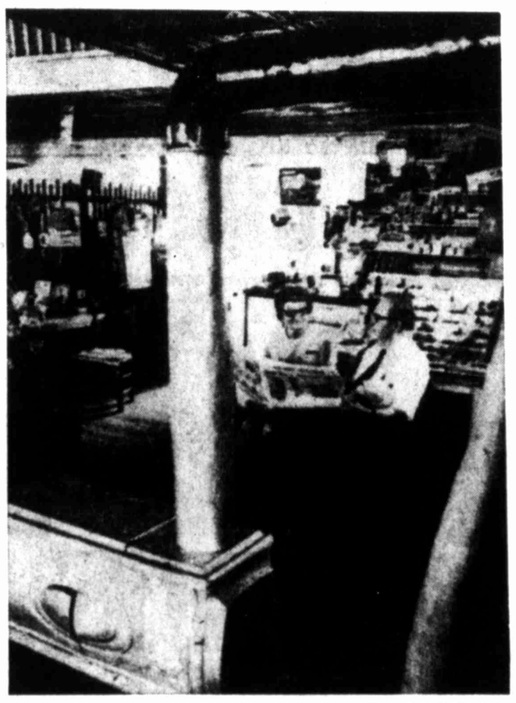

The truth is that Meadows has turned down several offers for the oldtime wooden coffin that was left over from the days when the store served a man's every need from his birth to his burial.

The old coffin is now for sale, but the rest of the store goes with it.

"Yes," Meadows said, shaking his head, "I'll even throw in the coffin.

"People who have heard about my store are always coming in to look and they usually buy something before they leave.

"Friends tell me I could really make it in the tourist business if I'd only push it, but I'm 86 years old and all pushed out."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

OLD MEETING PLACE — Martin (Pomp) Meadows and his store clerk, Mrs. Stella V. Kennedy pass the time over the newspaper. Through the decades, the wood-burning stove has served as a gathering place for several generations of East Texans.

Says Neglect In Nursing Homes Fatal

HOUSTON (AP) — A retired nursing home operator told the city council Wednesday that Houston's elderly are dying of neglect in nursing homes while the operators draw fat monthly payments from the state and federal governments.

Ida Mae Dentler, now president of the State Nurses Association, said the Texas Welfare Department pays directly to a nusing home up to $360 a month per patient, plus doctor fees and drug bills, while the patients suffer from over-sedation, malnutrition, bed sores and physical injuries.

She said the worst offenders are big chain corporations which operate homes and sell their stock on the New York market.

There is no ordinance under which the city health department can fine them for mistreatment of patients, Mrs. Dentler said.

She said the city health inspector cannot cope with the situation unless the council passes an ordinance with teeth in it.

Dr. Albert Randall, the city health director, said the city has one inspector who mostly does liaison work between the city and state health departments and the city's 51 licensed nursing homes were checked by five state inspectors.

4 New Cases Of Diphtheria

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Four new cases of diphtheria turned up Wednesday, boosting this year's total in San Antonio to 71 and the number for this month alone to 41.

Dr. William R. Ross, who heads the city's metropolitan health district, said there also were four more suspected cases.

Ross said 180,162 persons have been immunized against the disease in public clinics since Aug. 10.

A slowing in the turnout for the free shots prompted the city to shorten the hours for operating the public clinics by two hours, ending operations at 5 p.m.

Ross said the clinics might be closed as early as next week.

Mini-Freeway Sparks Battle

HOUSTON (AP) — Residents in the Sunset Terrace and Montclair areas of Houston are circulating a petition against proposed construction of a multi-million-dollar, mile-and-a-quarter long mini-freeway between Bissonnet and Westheimer.

The $2 million overpass, with $1.5 million of the price coming from the developers of Greenway Plaza, would span a freeway at Edloe.

The proposed thoroughfare, four to six lanes wide, would border the east side of the two subdivisions, which are south of the freeway.

Laird Cites Russ Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says the Soviets have test-fired multiple warheads on their basic SS11 intercontinental ballistic missile for the first time.

And his top Pentagon scientist says at the present pace the Soviets could not only outstrip the United States in strategic and tactical weaponry but unable to secret technology as well.

Laird announced Wednesday an American destroyer saw three objects drop in the Pacific near Midway Island last Friday from an SS1T, the Russian equivalent of the U.S. Minuteman.

MORE WARHEADS

It is not known, he said, if the objects were weapons or if they were aimed and not simply dropped.

"If (they) do deploy this system and it does have three weapons," Laird told a news conference, "(they) accelerate the number of warheads by three times."

This would be more than 2,100 warheads using Laird's figure of "well over 700" Soviet SS11s, or 2,400 using the figure given congressional committees, this spring of 800 Soviet SS11s as of February this year.

The Soviets previously tested multiple warheads on their giant SS9—more than twice the size of the SS11 and the Minuteman—but have not deployed them. Deployment of multiple warheads on U.S. Minuteman III missiles is under way.

TIME IS RIGHT

Besides the SS11s, Laird said, the Soviets have about 300 SS9s and about 100 SS13s, a missile comparable to the SS11 and Minuteman.

The United States has about 1,000 Minuteman missiles, of which 10 have been outfitted so far with three warheads each that can be targeted independently on enemy points.

Dr. John Foster, the Pentagon's top scientist as director of defense research, said, meanwhile, he is concerned not with the present U.S.-Soviet "rough parity" but with the momentum of the Soviet weapons buildup while the United States stands still.

"The time is right to try to work out something with the Soviets," he said, referring to the current U.S.-Soviet arms limitation talks. "But they still have the momentum," Foster told 300 students.

AWAIT TESTS

Foster, admitting "I'm a research man," said he is particularly concerned with what he called the intelligence lead the Soviets could have in 1976. He said it would leave America not only behind in strategic and tactical weaponry but unable to catch up if the Soviets were suddenly found to have some new decisive weapons.

Foster said most people, including scientists, who have taken strong stands against the Safeguard antimissile system "don't know a damn thing about it."

He said the system has consistently proved workable in tests since 1961 and said that is why the administration asked expansion of two additional sites this year rather than await tests at the first two sites approved last year.

In order to put something over on the defense, a declarer must make his move early in the play—before his opponents have an opportunity to anticipate the course of events. An apt illustration of this principle is provided in our current offering, taken from a recent team of four match.

A contract of six hearts was reached at both tables on the sequence of bids given in the diagram. Altho the respective declarers, seated South, adopted the same basic plan of campaign, their psychology and timing were poles apart.

West feared that a lead from one of his kings might cost him a trick. He therefore adopted a passive course by opening a trump. At one table, South won the trick in his hand and promptly led a small spade. West followed with the eight and the queen was successfully finessed.

Trumps were drawn in two more pulls. Three rounds of clubs were cashed followed by the ace of spades. South had now completed his stripping arrangements in the black suits and exited with a spade. West was in with the king and his forced return of a diamond into declarer's ace-queen, eliminated the latter's remaining concern and South claimed his contract—having lost one spade trick.

At the other table, declarer began by drawing three rounds of trumps on which East discarded the deuce of diamonds and the four of spades to indicate a lack of interest in either suit. Next came the top three clubs ending up in the closed hand. When South finally got around to leading a spade, West was fully tuned in on his opponent's intentions.

It was clear to West that if he adopted a passive course, South would take the spade finesse and then throw him in on the third round. East's discouraging discard in diamonds provided a clear-cut indication that the declarer held both the ace and queen of that suit. Desperate measures were in order therefore if West was to avoid a fatal endplay.

When the three of spades was led, West played the jack. North covered with the queen which won the trick. The ace was cashed next and West completed his unblocking maneuver by dropping the king. On the next lead, East put up the ten of spades to win the trick. A diamond return by East assured West of scoring the setting trick with the king.

Insurance Is Forced On 86 School Areas, Solon Claims

AUSTIN (AP) — Eighty-six Texas school districts have reported they were required to take out unnecessary insurance policies in order to get bodily injury liability, Sen. Oscar Mauzy says.

Mauzy said Wednesday the State Insurance Board should take "immediate action" to make insurance companies refund premiums totaling about $30,000.

His statement was in a letter to insurance board member Charles Mathews.

Mauzy said the Senate committee to study the Texas Tort Claims Act had been informed by some 86 districts that they were required to buy property damage insurance as a condition to getting bodily injury coverage. The 1969 Tort Claims Act allows suits against government units for injuries resulting from the negligent use of motor-driven equipment.

"These replies indicate that these school districts have been required to expend in excess of $30,000 for coverage which provides no protection, since there is no liability for property damage under the tort claims act," Mauzy said.

"In my opinion, the tax payers of these districts are being required to 'pay tribute' to an insurance company in direct violation of your regulation and state law. The school children of these districts are consequently being deprived of this tax money for educational purposes."

Hendrix Wins Top Award

Jack Hendrix, chairman of the Odessa College Music Department and president of the South Central division of Music Teachers National Association, is the recipient of the highest award given to a Texas music teacher, the TMTA Teacher-of-the-Year Award. Hendrix, former head of the music department at Howard County Junior College, was selected for this honor from a list of 13 nominees.

Hendrix is an honor graduate of North Texas State University with bachelor and master of music degrees in piano. He has done doctoral work at Indiana University and the University of Texas at Austin. Piano teachers include Ruth Runyan, Silvio and Isabel Scionti and Alfonso Montecino.

Hendrix has been active as soloist, recitalist, accompanist, and adjudicator throughout the Southwest. His students have been consistent winners in auditions and competitions and appearances with symphony orchestras.

During 1966-68 Hendrix was president of the Texas Music Teachers Association. Dr. Donald Bellah, chairman of the department of music, Texas Wesleyan College, Fort Worth, is the new president. Dr. J. Wilgus Eberly, retiring president, will serve as senior vice president of the association.

Oil Jobbers Pay Clean Car Taxes

The Clean Air Car race will have its state motor fuels and special fuels taxes paid by the Texas Oil Jobbers Association, according to John Stoneham, president of the oil marketing group.

The Clean Air Car race will be using a variety of fuels including low lead gasoline, compressed natural gas, LPG, steam and electric. A special trip permit has been issued by the comptroller of public accounts to the association, which will pay the "highway use" taxes on the vehicles. Forty-four cars will cross the state some 500 miles, entering at Shamrock, through Odessa, and leaving at El Paso on Aug. 27 and 28.

The primary reason for the 3,600 mile trip from Massachusetts Institute of Technology to California Institute of Technology is to study pollution emissions from the variety of experimental vehicles.

Court Imposes $1 Million Fine For Massive Oil Spill

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel says the $1 million fine imposed on the Chevron Oil Co. for a massive oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico is "a landmark for the public."

Commenting after the judgment in U.S. District Court here Wednesday, Hickel said in Washington: "It is my hope—and surely the hope of industry—that this will serve as an example that we must be responsive to the public."

500 COUNTS

Judge Alvin B. Rubin imposed the maximum fine of $2,000 each on 500 counts against Chevron after the firm changed its plea to no contes'. Previously, Chevron had pleaded not guilty to all 900 counts filed against it in the first prosecution brought under the 1953 Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act.

U.S. Atty. Gerald Gallinghouse and his assistant, Richard Olsen, agreed to dismissal of the last 400 counts against Chevron. The no contest plea meant the company was submitting to the charges but not admitting guilt.

The original 900 counts charged Chevron with failing to install storm chokes on 90 of its offshore oil wells in the Gulf for 10 days each. A storm choke is a safety and antipollution device required by the Interior Department. It is installed in the well pipe and shuts off the oil flow if the platform is damaged.

NO CHOKE

The indictment was returned May 5—five weeks after the capping of the last of a cluster of wells that ran wild after a fire.

Hickel said the spill "never should have occurred."

"We will continue to address ourselves," he said, "to making the public environment more acceptable, and the administration will continue to prosecute those who pollute."

At the time of the oil spill, Hickel said, that safety devices, such as the storm choke would have prevented it.

OYSTER BEDS

After flying over the Chevron platform in March, Hickel said the pollution exceeded that which damaged the California coast at Santa Barbara in 1969.

The spill followed a fire and explosion Feb. 10 on an automated platform controlling 12 wells.

The explosion left some of the wells blowing wild in the worst offshore oil spill on record. The final well was capped seven weeks after the blast.

About 35,000 gallons of oil per day spewed into the Gulf. The spill did little damage to land although at one time a slick 15 miles long menaced oyster beds and game refuges along the Louisiana coast.

Wreck Kills Five Boys

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) —A collision of a car and a pickup truck killed five boys Wednesday night near the west edge of Corpus Christi. Two other persons were injured.

Police said the car went through a stop sign, brushed the rear of one pickup and then slammed into the side of a second pickup.

All those involved in the accident were Corpus Christi residents.

Officers listed the dead as three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Kinney Jr.—Homer, 8, Michael, 11, and Ronnie 12—and two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Compton—Johnny Glen, 5, and Stephen, 9.

Injuries were suffered by the elder Compton and Doward Kinney, 12.

All the dead were hurled from the back of a pickup driven by Compton into the grassy median of a route known as the old Highway 9.

The fathers of the boys and Doward Kinney were riding in the cab.

'KIDS' MAY NOT BE HELD IN JAIL AWAITING TRIALS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — In a decision wiping out a 300-year-old practice, a judge ruled juveniles may not be held in jail awaiting trials, but may be kept in custody of the state Youth Service Board.

Judge Levin H. Campbell of Middlesex County Superior Court made his ruling in the cases of two boys, one 15, the other 16, who were charged with using an automobile without authority. Bail for each had been fixed at $1,000 and when they were unable to raise it they were sent to jail.

Between June 1, 1969, and June 1, 1970, Buckley said, 229 juveniles — under 17 — were held at the jail for various periods.

Secret Service Hires Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, women have been hired as Secret Service police officers.

A spokesman said seven women had been named to the Executive Protective Service, a uniformed division which guards the White House and embassies.

Just a coincidence, he said, that the announcement was made the day before demonstrations by women's rights leaders.

Gulf Contributes To Oil Museum

Gulf Oil Corporation announced today that Gulf Oil Foundation will give $100,000 to the proposed Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame, at Midland.

The over-all cost of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame, including an endowment-contingency fund, will be approximately $6,000,000. Gulf Oil is one of the pioneers in development of the oil industry in the Permian Basin.

May Keep Hens In His Back Yard

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houstonian may keep hens in his back yard if an osteopath certifies that he needs fresh, infertile eggs for his health, the city council decided.

Until the council amended the rule only members of the Harris County Medical Society could certify such a need.

A limit on the size of the flock remains the same—seven hens.

Band Program Involves Large Number, Much Time

When the Big Spring High School Steer band marches on to the football field at halftime, Sept. 18, you will be watching two bands — not one.

At least the halftime show is developed separately by the symphonic band and the concert band, Bill Bradley, director, told the Downtown Lions Club in a rundown Wednesday at the Settles on the band program. The two bands get together Thursday evening before a football game to iron out the wrinkles.

Stunts change weekly, except for the last four rounds. This is because the final routine is a preparation for the district contest.

"So if you see the same drill two or three times," said Bradley, "please be patient. After all, the football team uses the same plays, too."

The school band program begins at the secondary level, he explained, with 54 in the Runnels Junior High (Class C) band and 119 in the Goliad (Class B) band.

The high school program has 230 involved, some in more than one activity, so that the total places filled is 311. It is the largest co-ed activity on the campus, Bradley ventured.

The high school unit has the symphonic (far-advanced) and concert (advanced) bands, as well as the cadet band for younger, less experienced players. It also has three stage bands — Golden Horns, Silver Horns, and the Green Horns (new members). In addition there is a Dixieland band and a new percussion ensemble. Students comtemplating a career in music may study music theory in addition to their rehearsals.

Band is a 10-month program — August through May. For some, there will be a week in June for state contests, and for many a couple weeks band camp. Preparation for 10 weeks of autumn marching begins in August, as well as music rehearsals. Hours run from 7:30 a.m. to after football games.

Special activities, said Bradley, include the Campus Revue. (Jan. 28-29,30) which this year will be something different under a "those-were-the-days" theme, and a world premiere of the finale, "Flags of America." Students have decorated and equipped their own lounge. On trips, student captains are responsible for discipline on the buses and off field. Undergirding the band program is the Band Boosters Club, and cooperating in every possible way is the administrative staff, Bradley reported. He is assisted at High School by Kyle Ellison, while R. E. McKiski is at Goliad and Dwight Hardin at Runnels.

HIS LITTLE BIT FOR LIB

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Isaac Mooney, 40, played a minor role in the women's liberation day movement Wednesday but it was against his will.

He told police that he was liberated of his wallet containing $1 when three women jumped him as he walked down the main street early Wednesday morning.

Oh, Officer Why Are You Behind Bars?

DALLAS (AP) — Police said Jimmy Nelson Elliott, 30, carried a badge and fooled some officers into believing he was one of their colleagues, even helping to book prisoners.

One of Elliott's better performances, however, led to his arrest, they said.

The story came to light when a charge of impersonating a police officer was lodged against Elliott, also listed under the name of George A. Swayze Jr.

A police department spokesman gave this account:

Displaying a badge and an officer's identification card, both genuine, Elliott prowled beats with some officers and introduced himself to others as a plainclothesman in the community services division.

At a downtown bus station last week, he ordered three men in the place to leave unless they wanted to be placed under arrest. The men departed without argument.

Two undercover investigators were watching, and they asked Elliott to identify himself. After showing his badge and telling them he was a patrolman from the northeast district station, Elliott went his way.

One of the pair wasn't sure, however, that all was in order. He checked and found there was no such officer on the force.

Next day the same investigator saw Elliott helping another officer with a prisoner in the central jail—and Elliott himself wound up behind bars.

The badge he carried, police said, had been reported lost in May by a patrolman in the northeast station. They quoted Elliott as saying he found the badge there and decided to keep it.

Officers said they hadn't learned how he came by the identification card, which had been issued to another policemen for free rides on city buses.

Little Change Is Forecast

By The Associated Press

Mild weather, comparable to early autumn, embraced Texas today.

Skies were generally cloudless aside from a little overcast at scattered points near the coast.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 62 degrees at Lubbock and 73 at Houston and Wink up to 76 at Brownsville and 77 at Galveston.

Top marks Wednesday ran through the 80s and 90s, with a high of 100 reached only at Wichita Falls. Longview was the coolest spot with a maximum of 86.

A hard shower in late afternoon brought .92 inch of rain at Brownsville and dropped the temperature from 95 to 81.

Except for a little warming in the north central and northeast part of the state, little change was forecast. Chances were seen for a few showers along the Lower Texas Coast.

IT'S NOT AGAINST THE LAW — Patty Voss of Anniston, Ala., and Frank Canibane of Chicago told an Atlanta Municipal Court judge they were just kissing and hugging as above when they were arrested on charges of public indecency and creating a turmoil. The judge looked up the law, watched the arresting patrolman demonstrate the embrace and dismissed the charges. They left the courtroom arm in arm and embraced outside the police station while waiting for the traffic light to change.

Penn Central Chief Named

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An atomic physicist who has served as president of the University of Pennsylvania since 1953 has been named president and chief Central Co., which owns the nation's largest railroad.

Dr. Gaylord P. Harnwell, 66, is scheduled to retire next week from the university. He will succeed Paul A. Gorman, who had held the post for two months after Stuart T. Saunders was ousted.

The Penn Central is a holding company for the Penn Central Railroad, now reorganizing under federal bankruptcy laws.

In addition to the railroad, the holdings of the parent corporation include two oil companies, a refinery in Texas, a fuel distributorship in New York, an international financing firm, an oil pipeline, real estate developments, hotels and amusement parks.

SIMPLE DEDUCTION

Young Student Likes To Eat; Learning To Cook Was Easy

By MARILYN NEVELS

James Kelly, 3227 Auburn, takes his cooking talents matter-of-factly.

"I like to eat, so I like to cook," Kelly stated.

Since his mother works, and he likes to have supper on time, Kelly began preparing the family supper when he was 16. He is now a sophomore at Abilene Christian College, and quite adept in the kitchen. However, he "wouldn't want to make it a profession."

"I cook mainly by taste," said Kelly, who used the sampling method, rather than measuring closely. "Men have better taste buds, I think." He claims men eat more than women and know what they like, consequently they make better cooks.

Few of his recipes are taken strictly from the cookbook; most are his own versions of favorite dishes tried at restaurants. He memorizes the tastes and duplicates them in the kitchen at home.

MAN'S FAVORITE

His favorite meal is "every man's favorite," steak, baked potato and tossed salad. However, unlike most men, who don't care particularly for vegetables, Kelly enjoys many types of vegetable dishes, salads and slaw. Another vegetable dish similar to the Broccoli Casserole is his combination of French-cut green beans mixed with cream of mushroom soup and topped with onion rings.

He makes lots of Mexican food and roasts or chops. He duplicates Mexican chalupas, tacos, enchiladas, etc., from meals he has liked at restaurants.

"When I make Mexican food, I dirty up every dish in the house," Kelly admits. "My mother and I have a deal. I do the cooking and she cleans up. She loves to have me cook, though. She usually does all the shopping and I'll tell her what to buy, but I shop every once in a while."

TO MARRY

Kelly is engaged to marry in January. "I expect we'll fight over who gets the kitchen, because I like to cook," he said. "We'll need a dishwasher, for sure. I make a big mess in the kitchen myself."

Ke'ly has reddish hair and an Irishman's flair when it comes to cooking. Although he consumes large meals, he remains not just trim but slim. His active schedule prevents him from gaining weight. During the summer he worked full-time as a yard man at Cosden, attended evening classes at Howard County Junior College and managed to squeeze in a little time with his fiancee.

"I'm trying to get through school in three years," said Kelly, who is majoring in business.

The only type of cooking he will not do is making desserts. This may be due to an experience when making brownies.

"I guess I got the baking soda and powder mixed up," Kelly recalled. "The brownies wouldn't rise or cook, so I left them in the oven longer. They came out flat like cookies."

Now Kelly finds that his interest in cooking is "rubbing off" on his 11-year-old sister, Lisa. She will probably replace him in the kitchen when he returns to college.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kelly.

APPETITES PERK-UP
With Swiss yoghurt and beef

Pineapple Yogurt Spices Round Steak

Rely on the savvy of the Swiss to perk up jaded appetites. They did in this medley of beef, pineapple and pimento bits sauced with Swiss-style pineapple yogurt.

BEEF SAUTE WITH PINEAPPLE YOGURT
(Makes about 6 servings)

2 lbs. top round steak
¼ cup sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ cup (½ stick) Danish flavor margarine
1 (4-oz.) can fancy sliced button mushrooms
1 tbsp. dehydrated instant minced onions
1 cup (8¾ oz. can) pineapple tidbits, drained
1 (4-oz. can) whole pimentos, drained and slivered
One third cup chopped parsley
1 cup (½ pint container) pineapple yogurt

Cut steak across the grain into slices about 1½ inches long and about ⅛ inch thick. Combine flour, salt and pepper in bowl. Coat steak strips with flour mixture. In a large skillet, over medium heat, melt 2 tablespoons of the margarine. Saute floured steak strips, a few at a time, turning to brown both sides. As the strips brown, move to the side of the skillet to make room for the remaining steak.

Add the remaining 2 tablespoons margarine as needed. Reduce heat. Stir in mushrooms with liquid and onions. Cover and simmer for 45 minutes, or until meat is tender; stir occasionally. Add drained pineapple and pimentos; cook an additional 15 minutes. Stir in parsley and pineapple yogurt. Serve immediately with hot rice.

Chocolate Bars Are Favorites

Marshmallow-soft topping on brownie-type cookie base.

CHOCOLATE MALLOW BARS

1 cup sifted regular flour
⅓ cup unsweetened cocoa
½ cup each butter or margarine and granulated sugar
2 large eggs, separated
½ cup each firmly packed light brown sugar and finely chopped walnuts.

On wax paper, sift together the flour and cocoa. Cream butter and granulated sugar; thoroughly beat in egg yolks. Spread this rather thick dough over bottom of ungreased baking pan (11 by 7 by 1½ inches). With clean beater, beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks; gradually beat in brown sugar; continue to beat if necessary until they hold stiff straight peaks; spread over dough; sprinkle with walnuts.

Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven until topping is lightly browned and cake tester inserted in center of cookie dough comes out clean — about 25 minutes. Partly cool on wire rack; cut into bars. To have topping soft, serve the same day cookies are made.

Honey Wafers Are Tasty, Healthy

Our latest version of a deliciously sweet crisp cookie.

HONEY WAFERS

¼ pound (1 stick) butter
½ cup sugar
1 cup mild-flavored honey
1 large egg
1 cup less 2 tbsps. unsifted regular flour, stir to aerate before measuring
½ tsp. pumpkin-pie spice
½ cup finely chopped blanched almonds

Cream butter, sugar and honey; beat in egg. Stir in flour, pumpkin-pie spice and almonds. Drop batter by level tablespoons, several inches apart, onto greased and floured cookie sheets.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until browned all over of just around edges — 8 to 12 minutes. Let set ½ minute or so and then remove with wide spatula to wire racks to cool. With a pastry brush, brush off any pan coating adhering to cookies. Store, when cold, in tightly covered tin box. Makes about 4 dozen.

Bengal Tomatoes Spiced Exotically

Curry powder adds piquant flavor to broiled tomatoes.

BENGAL TOMATOES

4 medium-size tomatoes
½ tsp. salt
2 tsps. sugar
1 tsp. curry powder
1 tbsp. butter

Wash tomatoes and dry; cut out stem ends; cut a thin slice from both ends of each; halve crosswise. On wax paper stir together the salt, sugar and curry powder; sprinkle over widest cut surface of each tomato; dot with butter. Broil several inches from high heat until tomatoes are hot through about four minutes. Makes four servings — two halves for each portion.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Ted Hatfield

THE FOCAL POINT

Your living room should be built around a "focal point," as the decorators like to call it.

In plain language, this means the room should be built around some very outstanding piece or group of furniture, or some "center of interest," but there should not be more than one focal point.

Your focal point may be an eye-catching mural on a wall (and the colors of this mural could be picked up and used throughout the remainder of the room).

Or, it could be an entire wall grouping of pictures or paintings but two large walls of pictures would be pointless.

A focal point could be an unusual cocktail table, a sofa and chair grouping, a brightly colored large plant, (real or artificial) or a gold carved framed mirror to name just a few.

The important thing to remember is that the focal point must be sufficiently outstanding and attractive to use as the center of interest.

If you'd like some ideas for your living room, come in and talk it over with us. There is no obligation. We are here to serve your needs in the home furnishings field.

A Devotion For Today . . .

For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant; later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it. (Hebrews 12:11, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal God, grant us the light to see that love lies behind law and discipline. Grant us the grace to discipline ourselves and our children in the pursuit of godly living. In the name of Jesus we ask it. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Campaign Against Heroin

John E. Ingersoll, head of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, has made the disquieting admission that heroin is as available as ever in this country, despite the work of his agency. This does not justify condemnation of Ingersoll and his men. It does point up the need for heightened and well conceived efforts to curb traffic in this drug.

In an interview, Ingersoll noted some of the difficulties that confront the bureau. He made a point increasingly made by experts in the field—that the "crack-down" on traffickers in heroin is not as effective as those who advocate this appear to suppose. "For every one you arrest," he said, "there are a number of others standing in the wings." It does not follow that smugglers and pushers should not be pursued and brought to book; of course they should. But it is evident that this will not suffice to bring heroin traffic under control.

There are other promising courses of action. One is to reduce the flow of narcotics. Another is to step up education, especially among the young, as to the hazards of drug use. Still another is the related task of rehabilitation, which also ought to be increased.

It is gratifying to find the bureau engaged in all these means. There are programs, in cooperation with the countries in question, to curb production of opium poppies in Turkey and to halt processing of opium in France. Also, as Ingersoll notes, in recent years the Bureau of Narcotics has spent more on rehabilitation than on enforcement of the law. This is a sound shift in emphasis, since reducing demand for heroin is even more important than reducing the supply. The Bureau of Narcotics is on the right track. Its work merits full public and congressional support.

The Ounce Of Prevention–

An example of tragedies which mar the structure of society which too frequently is deemed to be thoroughly safe is the wave of diphtheria cases which have swept through San Antonio.

A recent report showed the toll there to be nearing 70 cases, an alarming situation. It is no credit to this area of public health that most of the victims are in the poorer Mexican-American neighborhoods.

Diphtheria is one of those diseases which most people had thought had been conquered, and indeed proper inoculation seems to take care of it. The unhappy fact is that people grow careless or apathetic toward proper precautions, and indeed even ignore public regulations. Then the penalty comes.

Thousands have now lined up in San Antonio for inoculations — so many that schools and health centers could hardly accommodate them.

There is a lesson to be learned here: Strict enforcement of public health and public school requirements on vaccinations and inoculations. Many diseases can be prevented, but only if public judgment and normal precautions prevail.

The Vice President And His Critics

WASHINGTON — "Liberals" have long championed the right of free speech, but are they beginning to seek its privilege only for themselves?

A recent speech by a "liberal" senator accuses Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of being the only man in our history who has used the power of his official position to "pistol-whip political opposition into submission." Another allegation by the senator is that "monopolistic government manipulations of public opinion" have placed the Bill of Rights in great danger, and he says control of radio and television is being taken "by the current, repression-minded administration."

THESE ARE not new charges. Ever since Mr. Agnew pleaded for fair treatment for the administration by the broadcast media, he has been accused by critics of getting ready to impose some kind of censorship. But the vice president has no such power. Congress alone prescribes the authority of the Federal Communications Commission over radio and television, and the courts can uphold or declare invalid any of the commission's regulations found to be at variance with the rights granted under the "freedom of speech" or "freedom of press" clause of the Constitution.

VICE PRESIDENT Agnew cannot initiate legislation. He cannot give orders to the Federal Communications Commission or appoint or remove any of its members. So it remains a mystery just how those senators who have been charging that he is about to run the communication system of the country think he can perform this feat. Another pertinent question that may be asked is whether the President of the United States would ever permit it.

THE ONLY CONCLUSION that can be reached is that, because of the popularity Spiro Agnew has attained, some of the Democratic senators have begun attacks on him in the belief either that this will turn attention away from the issues in the current election campaign or that it will weaken the vice president's prestige, which has been growing in rather spectacular fashion on the Republican side.

UNDER THE Constitution, a vice president really holds no power at all in the executive branch of the government, and many a President didn't even have an office for the vice president in the building where the President stationed his staff. Most of the vice presidents spent their time on Capitol Hill. For it is the constitutional obligation of the vice president to act in certain circumstances as a member of the United States Senate — namely, to preside over that body and to cast the deciding ballot in case of a tie. As the presiding officer of the Senate, the vice president keeps in touch with the legislative process.

NOWADAYS, not only is the vice president given an office in the executive building but he attends important conferences with cabinet officers. The idea is that he should become well acquainted with the duties of a President so that in an emergency he can take over the task as chief executive with a background of knowledge which otherwise it would take a long time for him to acquire. But he is still not a member of the executive branch of the government under the Constitution. Senators who try to convey the impression that he can sweep away the "Bill of Rights" are ignoring the constitution.

MEANWHILE, President Nixon, recognizing that Mr. Agnew is considered a convincing defender of the administration on a number of controversial issues, now has sent him to Asia. It is the second journey he will have made to that continent within the last eight months. The purpose is to let America's allies there know that the United States is withdrawing its forces from South Vietnam but is not withdrawing its support for the principle of self-determination of their own forms of government by the peoples of Asia.

President Nixon feels that personal reassurance by his own vice president is an effective way to keep up the spirits of the governments of the various countries in Asia which are allied with the United States.

Billy Graham

There are many things about the Bible and Christianity that I don't understand. I believe that to accept something we should understand it. T.F.

Yes, there are many things about our faith that I cannot comprehend. However, much of life is a mystery, and religion is not the only sphere in which faith is required.

Salt, for example is composed of two poisons, sodium and chlorine, either of which if taken individually, would kill you. And yet you use salt every day and ask no questions.

Water is made of oxygen and hydrogen, both of which are flammable. Yet when they are joined together in water, we use these flammable substances to put out fires. Try and explain that. You drink water every day without ever giving a thought to the great mystery contained in it.

We have a natural capacity for faith, and we use it every day. God has taken this natural capacity and made it a condition of knowing Him. When we thirst for God like we do for water, and crave Him like we do salt on our food, we will accept Him with all the mysteries which surround Him, and ask no questions. I did that. Thousands of others have done that, and their lives were made better for it.

The word "faith" is used 92 times in the Gospel of John. It is interesting that God only requires "faith" for salvation. If He had put salvation on any other basis many could not be saved.

Study Of The Future

By JACK SCHOLL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — To the growing list of "ologies," add this one: futurology.

An imprecise science that has increasingly come into vogue among decision makers in business and government, it simply refers to the study of the future.

For some practitioners it is little more than phantasizing what tomorrow may bring. For others, it's become a sophisticated method of determining what the problems of the future may be and preparing for them today.

"Many of today's acute problems—among them, core city deterioration, transportation overload, and air and water pollution—might have been forestalled if better forecasts had been devised 20 to 30 years ago," states a futuristic study just published by the National Industrial Conference Board, an independent business research organization.

The study, or experimental forecast, is based on the responses of 66 leaders in business, government, labor and education who were asked to identify emerging trends which would almost certainly create public problems in the 1970s and 1980s.

Conducted two years ago, the board says publication of the study now was urged by a number of "important institutions and individuals" who had learned of its existence. Among those participating in the forecast were General Motors Corp. Chairman James M. Roche, American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Chairman H. I. Romnes, and Westinghouse Electric Chairman Donald Burnham.

Basically, the forecast found that the United States is moving through what it called a period of unusual political-economic "power activity."

"New patterns of power are in the making; the ultimate design is not clear. Traditional powers are breaking out of confining channels, regulations and controls and are shifting . . ." the study found.

"For example," it says, "manufacturing is yielding important political-economic powers to service industries; smaller and medium-sized businesses, to conglomerates; cities and states, to the federal establishment; the legislative branch, to the executive branch; the influence of teachers and politicians, to mass media; adults over 40, to those in their 30s and younger; generalistists, to specialists; men, to machines."

Heading a list of 20 major areas of future concern outlined by the panel was "divisions in society." It said these included divisions between rich and poor, young and old, black and white, and those who understand the language of technology and science and those who don't.

Some Further Causes Of Edema

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
(Second in a series of two articles)

As we grow older, some causes of edema, or dropsy, come into play other than the ones discussed yesterday.

Faulty circulation, of varying types, is an important cause of this fluid retention or edema. With slowed circulation, fluids tend to accumulate in the tissues and stay there.

A failing heart can cause fluid accumulation in the lungs as well as in the legs. Patients with a certain degree of heart failure may be more comfortable, and breathe easier, sitting in a chair instead of lying down. Why? Because fluid accumulates more in the legs than in the lungs.

Varicose veins, a quite different form of impaired circulation, can cause fluid accumulation and hence swelling of the legs. The veins no longer carry blood upward as efficiently as they should, so the net result is poor circulation. Tight circular garters and panty girdles also can restrict circulation enough to cause swelling in the legs and ankles.

Kidney disorders (Bright's disease or other conditions involving the glomeruli, or tiny filtering units in the kidneys) are another notorious cause of edema.

This is not strictly a disease of the older person; a good many children develop acute nephritis, which is also a kidney disease.

Kidney edema is featured by swelling of the face, eyelids, and upper extremities.

Still another, and important, cause of edema is that related to cirrhosis of the liver. In this case, fluid accumulates in the abdomen creating a protruding pot belly, but swelling of the legs also is usally noted. (This fluid accumulating in the abdomen is referred to as ascities, pronounced a-SIGHT-ease. It can reach large amounts, and in this case sometimes can, and needs to, be drawn off by hollow needle.)

In heart failure, salt restriction, diuretics, digitalis to strengthen the heart action, and other measures as dictated by specific circumstances are the basic measures.

Salt restriction is important in kidney and liver edema, but of course intensive treatment to control the basic disorders is mandatory. Diuretics can help. Indeed, diuretics to encourage greater release of fluids by the body are useful in most forms of edema except those due to allergy, tight garments, and varicose veins.

I am aware that this may not answer all the questions concerning edema, bacause edema can become a very complicated matter, but today's column and yesterday's will at least give some inkling of what it's about, and the multiple causes (and treatment) of it.

Around The Rim

Who's Equal To Whom?

I heard two men discussing the feminist's movement several days ago, and one of them made a remark which has me terrified.

"What they don't realize is that equality for women means equality for men, too," one of the coffee cup sages said.

NOW THAT'S got me worried. I think some of the feminist leaders need to get together and develop some guidelines for this movement.

For instance, we want the equality to be president of the United States, but not the quality to work on a road maintainer. We want the equality to go through whichever door we please, but not the equality to have to open it for ourselves.

I THINK someone should warn the women's liberation groups that they are being undermined and attacked from within. All these men who have come out for equality for women — they're not really thinking about the women — they're thinking about themselves.

For several years now men have slowly been waging this equality battle, and now they have a chance of winning it by disguising it as a women's equality battle. These masculine warriors are beginning to realize how badly outnumbered they have become, and they know they better get their rights firmly established before the women realize exactly how powerful they really are.

ONE OUTGROWTH of this insidious plot of masculinish is hair. Haven't you noticed in the last decade how men's hairstyles indicate more and longer hair? For centuries women have worn their hair from the longest long to the shortest short, and now out of the clear, blue sky men have decided they are equal to women and should be able to determine their own hair-length.

THE SAME THING goes for clothing. For centuries our grandmothers and great-grandmothers kept their men nattily attired in plain shirts, severe suits and choking ties. But our generation has somehow failed. Instead of ties men have taken to turtleneck shirts — even under evening jackets. Shirts have ruffles and are made of the softest and most delicate materials. Suits are taking on color and flare.

NOT ONLY THAT, women, have you noticed how magazine and television advertisements subtly hint that you can't get along without men. None of them come right out and say it, but they all show dejected, dispirited young girls ready to end it all then they are saved by a knight in shining armor bearing the correct kind of toothpaste or soapsuds or soft drink.

The more I think about it, the more it scares me — what happens if men find out they're really equal to women.

Art Buchwald

Big Deal In Land Investment

Some years ago, Art Buchwald became a landowner in Florida. This is how it happened:

MIAMI — The magic word in Florida these days is "land." According to the exciting advertisements on the highways, and in newspapers and magazines, anyone who is willing to plunk $10 down and pay $10 a month can in no time at all become another William Zeckendorf or Conrad Hilton.

Not wanting to be left out of what is potentially the greatest "growth investment in the United States" since fallout shelters, I swiped 10 bucks from my kid's toy bank and rushed out to the nearest real-estate development office (there are about two on every block).

THE OFFICE, located in a vacated store, was very plush. There were photos of beautiful homes on the wall. (I discovered later that they had nothing to do with the development, but gave the place a nice atmosphere.)

A gorgeous receptionist was typing up mortgages, but when she saw the $10 I was clutching in my hand, she immediately ushered me into the plush office of the managing director. On his desk was a mock-up, in scale, of his latest development: an entire town. The mock-up showed three golf courses, five schools, a church, a yacht club and basin and 500 ranch-type houses.

"You're very lucky," he said. "We have only one house left."

"COULD I GO out and see it?" I asked excitedly.

"Why would you want to do that?" he asked. "Don't you believe what you see here on my desk?"

"Well, it is beautiful," I said. "But I thought it would be fun to go and see the place for myself, size up my neighbors and that sort of thing."

"It's a pretty long trip," he said. "You see, we built this town in the Everglades to get away from all those jet noises people are always complaining about. It's about a hundred miles inland, but you can only travel by day because of the alligtors."

"Alligators?"

"OF COURSE. You have to have alligators to eat the moccasin snakes, or they'd be all over the place."

"Snakes?"

"Only during the wet season," he said.

"Wait a minute," I said, "I'm not sure I want to live in the Everglades. Besides, are you sure the town exists as you have it there?"

"IT'S NOT completed yet, but in a year it will look just like this mock-up."

"You mean the church isn't even built yet?"

"Well, no. But don't forget this is the church of your choice, and if it were already built it wouldn't be the church of your choice then, would it?"

I admitted that was true. Just then the phone rang and he picked it up. I couldn't help overhearing the conversation.

"YES SIR, Mr. Ford. You'd like to build a factory on my tract? It's going to be difficult. I have a man in my office now and I've already promised him the last five acres. No, I can't give you his name. But perhaps he'll get in touch with you. Sorry. Goodby."

I plunked down the $10 and hurriedly signed the deed.

I've been trying to get in touch with Mr. Ford ever since, but he always seems to be out. Once I get him on the phone, though, and tell him about the land I own, he's really going to have to pay through the nose.

Drug Smuggling Swamps Customs

Andrew Tully is on holiday. During his absence his column is being written by various national figures.

By MYLES J. AMBROSE
U.S. Commissioner of Customs

WASHINGTON — A banner headline in a Chicago newspaper late in July, read: "Hit Teenage Smuggling."

The story opened with these words, "Affluent teenagers are being arrested with astounding frequency for trying to smuggle narcotics into this country at O'Hare Airport, a US Customs official reported Thursday."

THE STORY is almost a stereotype. It can be applied to virtually any American city or town. Drug traffic has become a virtual epidemic. Unfortunately, we have not found a magic formula for curbing its spread. But we are not standing idly by, while, in President Nixon's words, the very fabric of our society is threatened.

ON INSTRUCTIONS from the President, the Customs Service has joined forces with the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs in a combined crackdown on large-scale drug smuggling. With a supplemental appropriation of $8,750,000 granted us by the Congress, we have recruited, trained and deployed more than 900 additional Customs agents and inspectors. We have intensified our enforcement work at major gateways, along the Mexican and Canadian borders, and ports of entry throughout the country. Ours is not a simple job, searching people, luggage, aircraft, ships, vehicles, and mail packages.

MORE THAN 250 million persons come through Customs each year, and more than $150 billion in imported merchandise which has to be appraised, examined and taxed for customs duty. Our borders are more than 50,000 miles in total length. We present the world's highest paying market for illegal drugs — a temptation hard to resist.

Since our intensified enforcement drive got into high gear on June 1, 1970, we have been breaking all records in arrests and seizures. The latest figures available show that during June and July our officers have picked up approximately $2,100,000 worth of marijuana (10 and one-half tons), $123,185 worth of dangerous drugs, $1,300,500 worth of hashish, $7,200,000 worth of cocaine, and $1,700,000 worth of heroin. The estimated total dollar value is more than $12,423,685. But this hardly begins to tell the story.

TEN AND ONE-HALF tons of marijuana if converted into cigarettes could have produced 28,722,795 cigarettes.

It takes 625 pounds of marijuana to make one pound of hashish — a highly potent form of the drug almost completely unknown in this country three years ago. The 867 pounds of hashish that Customs has seized during June and July represents about 541,875 pounds of marijuana.

HEROIN, the most deadly of the hard drugs, is our greatest challenge because of the ease with which it can be smuggled. The eight and one-half pounds which we seized could have provided enough "caps" for 59,500 injections by addicts.

How much is getting in? We honestly do not know. What we do know is that it is virtually an avalanche. This is the reason we are asking for public support.

We need the active participation of the American people in this campaign to eradicate the worst evil of our generation.

Gadget To Guide Drinking Driver

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — A Rutgers University scientist says he has developed a simple calculator that will tell a driver how much alcohol he can drink and still drive safely.

Dr. Leon Greenberg, executive director of laboratory research at the Rutgers Center of Alcohol Studies, says it's naive to assume that most people will follow the precaution, "if you drink, don't drive."

"A more realistic approach," he said, "is to educate people by providing guidelines about what is appropriate and inappropriate drinking if a person is going to drive."

He therefore fashioned what he calls the "Alco Calculator" to help a driver know his alcohol limit and decide when he is safe to drive.

It's a simple slide rule that carries data about body weight, number of drinks and drinking time.

Here's how he said it works:

A couple goes to a cocktail party and stays four hours. The man who weighs 190 pounds, drinks four martinis. The woman, whose weight is 120, drinks three.

Which one should drive home? Answer: He should.

The fellow's blood contains .04 per cent alcohol, the girl's .06 per cent. The legal minimum for being "under the influence is .05 per cent. If, having taken the same number of drinks, they had decided to leave after only three hours, the fellow's blood would have contained more than the legal minimum of .05 per cent.

Greenberg said the gadget is particularly useful for people who drink in moderation. They make up 95 per cent of the 90 million drinking Americans, he said.

As to heavy drinkers, Greenberg said, "the problem with them is not drinking and driving, their problem is drinking."

Football Beeps Aid Blind 'Stars'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A football that beeps has been developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology for use by blind players.

Vito A. Proscia, director of MIT's Sensory Aids Center, showed the football to a group of visitors recently.

Proscia, who is blind, said the scientists also have developed a braille-oriented computer. This, he said, might make possible the production of daily newspapers in braille.

Adam Powell May Run Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell will run for his House seat as an independent if petitions he filed with the Board of Eections are found valid.

The Harlem congressman, who lost the Democratic nomination to state Assemblyman Charles B. Rangel last June, filed 3,377 signatures postmarked before the midnight Friday deadline, the board announced.

Parks Panel Faces Matter Of Money

By HOWARD SIMMS

Members of the Parks and Recreation Board discussed golf courses and softball fields last night, with both topics focused on money.

Ronnie Schmidt and several other softball players appeared to ask that lights not be moved from the FM 700 diamond to another field unless the softball players had access to that field. Schmidt pointed out that last year the Morton Chippers had won the city softball league, then went on to take regional and state championships.

If bleachers were set up where people did not have to sit on cars and fenders, thousands of people would show up each night to watch them play, he indicated, especially if the field were relocated farther away from the odor of the sewer plant.

EARMARK FUNDS

Schmidt also believes that the slow-pitch rules will increase the number of softball teams and spectators because there is more hitting and is less strenuous activity. The goal of two back-to-back diamonds was something to work toward during the next year, he said, since the budget problems this year made it unlikely that the city would do it. He asked that a parks and recreational director be hired now to take care of the present facilities and plan for new ones.

Jack Watkins appeared later to suggest that the Parks and Recreation Board work with members of the Charter Action Committee for the inclusion of a provision in the city charter earmarking a portion of each tax dollar for parks and recreation. Watkins pointed out that the acquisition of Cosden Country Club by the city will require maintenance, and the development of recreation facilities there will take money and probably a full-time parks director.

GOLF REVENUE OFF

The board moved on to the problem of decreased golf revenues this year compared to the previous year. A study of other golf courses and their green fees revealed that the municipal course is the only one that provides privileged card play for all the city employes, clergy, police auxiliary and water district officials. Also, the green fees were said to be the lowest in Texas.

Jim Baum, parks and recreation board chairman, said if possible, he would like to keep that distinction, and opposed raising golf fees if there is another way to increase revenues. The board agreed to recommend to the city commission that monthly fees be eliminated along with the privileged play cards. Semi-annual playing permits will be available instead, and may be purchased for the Jan. 1 to June 30 or the July 1 to Dec. 31 period. The rate would be $75 for one player, $100 for a player and his wife or a child, and $10 for each additional child.

OUTLETS NOT FEASIBLE

The board also will recommend a reduction in the weekday green fee to 75 cents after 5:30 p.m. daylight saving time, or 4 p.m. when standard time returns. They hoped that this will stimulate use of the course, and make an increase in green fees unnecessary. However, a review of the situation is planned to check on the results of the changes. The change to the semi-annual special rates would not be made until Jan. 1, 1971.

There was no action on a recommendation that electrical outlets be installed at Moss Creek Lake for campers. Assistant City Manager Roy Anderson said that when CRMWD raises the dam 10 feet, the water level change will affect the placement of the outlets, and installation is not now feasible.
