U.N. Council Delays Debate

UNITED NATIONS (AP)-The Security Council delayed the start of its debate on the U.S.-Iranian crisis until Saturday night, waiting for the arrival of Iran's acting foreign minister from Tehran.

The 15-nation council launched its public consideration of the crisis with a 15-minute session Tuesday afternoon at which it heard brief speeches by Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and Council President Sergio Palacios de Vizzio of Bolivia. Then it adjourned until 9 p.m. EST Saturday.

Iran Issue Support Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter, appealing to America's sense of honor, hopes to rally public opinion and to convince Iran of American solidarity during tonight's prime-time news conference.

At the news conference, scheduled for 9 p.m. EST, Carter is expected to insist anew that the United States will not yield to "blackmail" by militants still holding 49 Americans hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Carter said Tuesday that the honor of America is at stake in the embassy seizure, and said the hostages have been threatened at pistol point and forced to make statements in which they did not believe.

Oil Profits Tax Vote Nears

WASHINGTON (AP)-Senate liberals and moderates are lining up votes for what could be their last effort to stiffen an oil industry "windfall-profits" tax now substantially weaker than that proposed by President Carter.

Some of those same senators, however, voted Tuesday for an amendment that the White House claims helps cripple the "windfall" tax to the point that it has become a "raw deal" for consumers.

The Senate was nearing a vote, possibly today, on a proposal by Sens. John Chafee, R-R.I., and Bill Bradley, D-N.J., to add $14 billion to the tax on the oil industry by raising the tax rate on oil discovered between 1973 and 1978.

Court Agrees With Judge

AUSTIN (AP)-The Texas Supreme Court agreed today with a trial judge that Oscar McInnis may not be removed as criminal district attorney of Hidalogo County for alleged misdeeds that occurred before his re-election in November 1978.

The high court also denied a motion by the Texas Prosecutors Coordinating Council that would have halted payment of the salary of McInnis, who was disbarred Oct. 19.

McInnis is appealing his disbarment. A non-lawyer cannot be a district attorney.

Worst Yet To Come

WASHINGTON (AP)-Although housing costs rose last month at the steepest rate since 1947, many economists are saying record-high mortgage rates mean that worst is yet to come.

"If housing increases were high in October, the November increase will be whopping," said Commerce Department economist Theodore Torda.

Return To Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)-The Shah of Iran is expected to come back to his Cuernavaca retreat within 10 days, a member of his public relations office said today.

The SDN Column

If you were out on the highways during the Thanksgiving weekend, you probably noticed that there was no sign of a gasoline shortage. In fact, there probably were more stations pumping gasoline last Sunday than on any Sunday we have been traveling in several months.

And the vehicles were plentiful.

One thing we did notice, however. The number of smaller cars seems to be increasing every time we take to the highway. And during the weekend, we heard reports down state that the demand for gasoline definitely is down from this time a year ago.

Another change we noticed, this one from several years back, is the truck traffic. There seem to be more and more trucks, especially on the interstate freeways.

It reminded us that in the two-lane days---before the interstates---automobile drivers were unhappy when "slow" trucks were ahead of them. It took forever, it seemed, to get past them and get your car back up to cruising speed.

Now that we have multi-lane, divided highways, the trucks zip by and leave you in their diesel wake, especially if you keep your car within sight of the 55 mph speed limit.

Picked up from the mail:

Musicians have many eccentricities. For example, Hydn could write music on clean white paper only. Mozart composed while playing billiards. Rossini composed most of his music while he was drunk, and Wagner found it easiest to compose when he was dressed up in historical costumes.

Paul Revere, the revolutionary hero and silversmith, also made false teeth.

Galileo discovered the law of pendulum in 1583 while holding his pulse and watching a chandelier swing in a cathedral.

257 Feared Dead...

DC-10 Falls In Antarctica

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—An Air New Zealand DC-10 carrying 257 persons, including 12 Americans, on a sightseeing flight to Antarctica crashed into a volcano on the edge of the icy continent today, authorities reported. All aboard were believed killed.

U.S. Navy search planes spotted the wreckage on the slopes of smoldering Mount Erebus, near the U.S. research station at McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, some 2,000 miles south of New Zealand.

"It looks as though it burned. No survivors have been sighted. They ... are expecting a complete fatality," said Petty Officer Mike Hatcher of the U.S. Navy Support Group Headquarters in Christchurch, New Zealand.

The airline said the 237 passengers aboard the DC-10 included 46 foreigners -- 12 Americans, 24 Japanese, 7 Australians, 2 Britons and a Canadian. The rest were New Zealanders. They paid $359 for what was supposed to be an 11-hour flight fom Auckland to the coast of Antarctica and back.

The crews of Navy helicopters sent from McMurdo reported they were unable to land at the crash site because of violent updrafts of wind around the 12,400-foot volcano, the New Zealand Search and Rescue Center said.

The Navy said the plane crashed about 2,500 feet up the slopes of the active volcano, which is in the center of Ross Island, where the McMurdo base also in situated. The island is just off the Antarctica coast, and the volcano is within sight of the McMurdo base.

"The wreckage was on the back side of the mountain," Hatcher said. "It was spread over an area of about 200 yards."

The Air New Zealand sight-seeing planes regularly fly close to the volcano on their non-stop round trips to Antarctica from Auckland.

The cause of the crash could not be determined immediately. The DC-10 has been plagued by structural problems, including one that caused the crash of an American Airlines flight in Chicago last May that took 273 lives.

Air New Zealand said it understood the jetliner had completed its sightseeing run and was on its way back north to New Zealand when radio contact with the plane was lost at 2 p.m. 8 p.m. EST Tuesday. It was then still over Antarctica, about 30 or 40 miles from McMurdo.

The loss of radio contact was blamed on sunspot activity and did not cause immediate concern. But at 8 p.m. the airline announced the plane was an hour overdue for a refueling stop at Christchurch, on New Zealand's South Island.

The airline announced at 10 p.m. 4 a.m. EST that the plane was lost. It said its fuel would have been used up half an hour before.

The U.S. Antarctic base at McMurdo Sound took charge of the search for the missing plane, and sent up five aircraft: two C-130 Hercules, a C-141 Starlifter and two helicopters. An Orion from the New Zealand Air Force was searching the ocean south of New Zealand.

Knife Wielding Woman Invades Kennedy Office

WASHINGTON (AP)-A woman carrying a knife was seized by Secret Service agents today after she rushed into the reception room of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Senate office. She was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

One of the agents who seized her was nicked in the wrist by the woman.

At the time of the incident, which occurred at about 9:40 a.m., Kennedy was in his office, which is separated from the reception room by an outer office.

Kennedy, who recently announced his candidacy for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, said he was unaware of the incident until he was told about it later by one of his assistants.

"It was an incident that I understand is being handled by the Secret Service," Kennedy said.

The woman, tentatively identified by the Secret Service as Susan Osgood, was turned over to Capitol police and led down the hall by Capitol policemen with her hands behind her back. Kenneth W. Lynch, a Secret Service public affairs officer, said the service did not know the woman's age or address.

Inspector Gilbert H. Abernathy of the Capitol Police said the woman was in her 20s. He said she was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and removed for questioning by the Secret Service in downtown Washington.

Mary Ann Mikulich, a receptionist in Kennedy's office, said, "I was sitting at my desk when a woman came in with a big hunting knife just yelling at the top of her voice."

Rick Burke, Kennedy's administrative assistant, said Miss Mikulich rose from her seat and fled the room and Secret Service men apprehended the intruder.

During the struggle, agent Joe Meusburger was wounded slightly on the left wrist.

Gunshot Fatal To Hermleigh Sophomore

Roy Rodriquez Sosa, 16-year-old Hermleigh High School sophomore, was pronounced dead of a gunshot wound at about 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway of Snyder ruled that the death was caused by a self-inflicted gunshot wound. The body was found about nine miles east of Snyder on the Roby Highway, where the youth lived, with a .22 caliber, bolt-action rifle beside it.

Funeral rites have been set for 2 p.m. Friday at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Snyder. Father Thomas Jordan will officiate, and burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell Seale Funeral Home.

Surviving are the parents, Mrs. Cruz Sosa Sr. of Snyder and Cruz Sosa Sr. of Acuff; two sisters, Ninfa Martinez and Eva Aguirre, both of Snyder; six brothers, Andrew, Tony, Adam, Flavio and David Sosa, all of Snyder, and Cruz Sosa Jr. of New Braunfels.

Ask Us

Q--Has a Southwest Conference team ever defeated Alabama in a football game?

A--Yes, indeed. In fact, the SWC record against the Crimson Tide is one of the best, with 12 victories and one tie in 18 games. The most notable probably was the 20-16 victory by Texas A&M in the 1968 Cotton Bowl in which Gene Stallings, a former star for Coach Bear Bryant, was the head coach of the Aggies.

School Mailing Tax Statements

Snyder Independent School District tax statements are going into the mail this week.

Ray Peveler, the school district's tax assessor-collector, said that all taxpayers in the district should receive their 1979 tax statements within the next few days.

Included in the envelopes with the tax statements are application forms for claiming homestead exemptions. Peveler said that those who are entitled to the homestead exemption should sign these application forms and return them to the school tax office promptly.

The homestead exemption must be claimed each year for it to be allowed, and the applications being mailed with the statements are claims for next year's taxes.

Administrator Reports...

Hospital Gets Accreditation

D.M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital has received its official accreditation, hospital administrator Cy Miller reported last night at a meeting of the hospital's board of managers.

The official accreditation was issued by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals following an inspection tour of the local hospital last June. The accreditation is good for a period of two years, Miller noted.

In other business, Miller presented his financial report to the board of managers listing the hospital's total liabilities and net worth at $2,922,047 as of Oct. 31.

Miller also introduced the board members to Mark Brezinski, a food consultant representing the Houston firm of Cini-Grissom, Assoc.

Brezinski, in Snyder for two days, is working with the hospital kitchen staff on ways to improve food appearance and palatability.

The board, in its final action of the evening and acting on the advice of the medical staff, authorized Miller to make arrangements to purchase an ultra sound machine for use in abdominal scans.

New Service By C-C Considered

A special meeting has been scheduled for the night of Dec. 6 by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce to discuss a possible new service to be offered by the chamber.

The meeting will be held in the Fine Arts Theatre at Western Texas College.

Bill Warner, chamber manager, said a program which would enable the chamber to assist small business firms to acquire group insurance which is not now available to them will be studied. A representative of Texas United Chamber Service, Inc., will be here to present the program.

Warner said that all chamber members, all owners and operators of small business firms, all local insurance agents and any others interested are invited to attend. There

Applicants Seek 3rd Snyder Bank

Application seeking a third bank in Snyder has been filed in Dallas with the office of the Comptroller of the Currency.

Nine men, seven of them Snyder residents, are listed in the application as organizers and proposed directors. Capital of the proposed bank would total $2 million, and the proposed location of the new bank would be the northeast corner of 37th and College.

Seeking a national bank charter, organizers are Bill McCormick, Buster Anderson, Milton Ham, Mal Donelson, Roy McQueen, Morris Light, E.D. Walton, all of Snyder; and Sammy Spikes and Lewis Nance, both of Brownfield.

Spikes, a Snyder native, currently is president and chief executive officer of the Brownfield State Bank and Trust Co., and he also is chairman of the board of Seminole State Bank. Nance is a senior vice president and director of the Brownfield bank.

family campaigners

We're fast approaching that time when voters will again feel like they're appreciated in this country.

Only six weeks are left of 1979. When 1980 arrives, political candidates will be coming from all directions, with hands extended. Those who have a faculty for putting names with faces will get a running start.

National politics has reached the point in this country that the more relatives a candidate can get to working for him the better chance he or she will have when it comes ballot casting time.

President Carter has campaign assets in his wife, Rosalynn and his mother, Lillian Carter. Both are veterans of the campaign trail (the first lady in particular). Both are bound to be busy from now until the issue is decided.

The Carters have other reservoirs of strength - like the president's two sons, both of whom have had experience on the campaign trail. Of course, brother Billy is available, too, but it's doubtful the president will call on him very often. Billy has a way of antagonizing a lot of people. His abrasiveness doesn't always come off as native charm.

If Mr. Carter is lining up his army, look what the chief opposition can field in the way of campaigners.

Sen. Edward Kennedy's campaign manager is one of his brothers-in-law, Stephen Smith. Already, with the senator only fresh out of the chute, we've had appearances from Ethel Kennedy, his sister-in-law, and nephew Joe. There are platoons, perhaps divisions, of other Kennedy's and in-laws of the Kennedys ready to fan out over the country - and each one has, at least for now, the 'star' quality that clings to the Kennedy clan like Saran wrap.

Candidates representing the Grand Old Party aren't exactly lacking in the kinfolks-as-campaigners category, either. Texan George Bush has already been represented several times in the state by his wife and son. The latter was himself in politics last year, trying unsuccessfully to win the post of U.S. Congressman from the 19th District.

Ronald Reagan has his wife, Nancy, at his side every time he charges the podium. John Connally's wife, Nellie, is a comfort and a cheer leader for him. Howard Baker can hark back to a voice from the past, Sen. Everett Dirksen, who was the Tennessean's father-in-law. There, no doubt, will be other photogenic and quotable individuals appearing from the wings to remind the voters of the merits of the candidates.

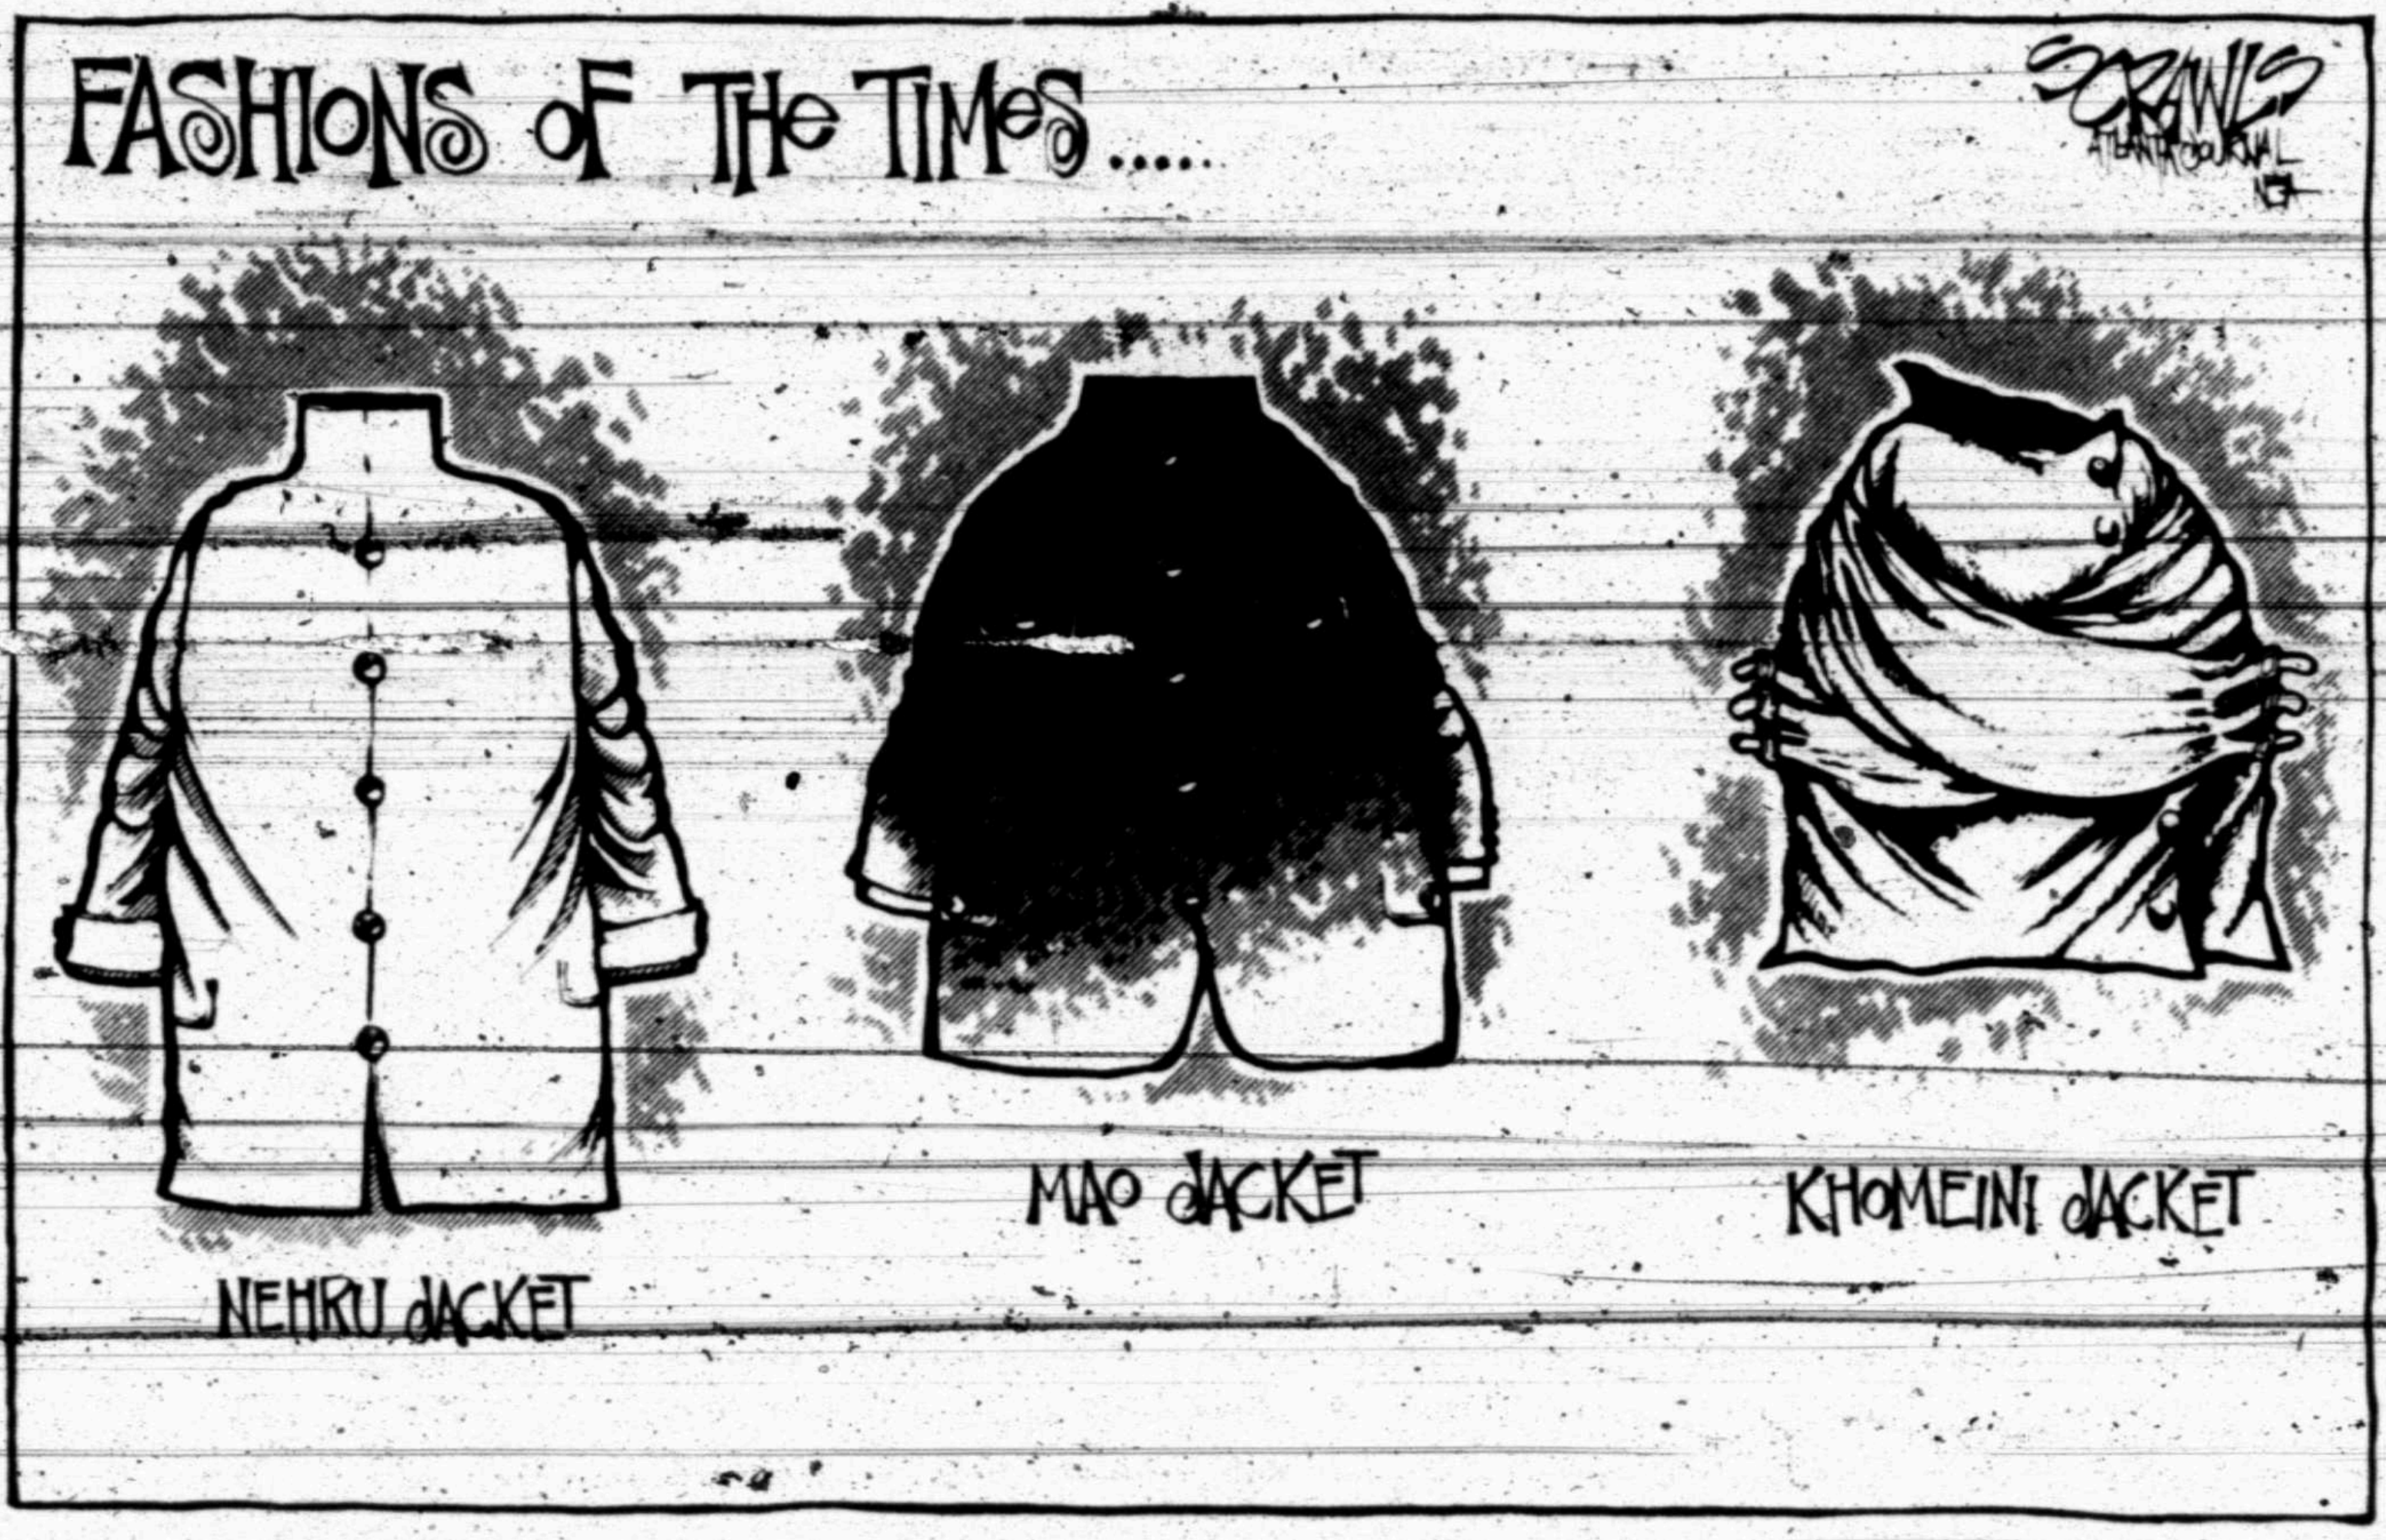
It doesn't quite mean that politics has become a 'mom and pop' enterprise, of course. At least, though, it should have given those persons who worry about the destruction of the family in modern-day America a reason to take heart. The family that campaigns together is alive and well - and highly visible, thank you.

sting of success

For pure cost effectiveness, it's hard to beat the return on the dollar achieved by The Sting, a federally financed anti-crime program in which cops around the country have posed as fences to "buy" stolen goods.

The federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has put up just under $6 million over the past five years for "buy" money, and the bogus fences have recovered some $220.5 million in stolen property, 90 percent of which has been returned to the rightful owners.

Sting operations have been conducted in 47 cities. The most famous took place in Washington, where 191 suspects were arrested and $2.4 million in goods recovered in 1975 when the bogus fences threw a party for their "customers" and promptly arrested the attendees.



at wits end

by erma bombeck

Some of the most lasting relationships in my life have been made while standing in lines.

I met my present gynecologist while waiting in a line at the bank one day. I exchanged recipes with a wonderful woman in a restroom line at the fairgrounds. And I still correspond with Pat, whom I discovered in a line for "Star Wars."

You can't imagine how upset I was to discover that in Florida they have set up rules for people standing in lines. It all came about with the energy crisis and the high cost of heating in the North, which created a real stampede for homes in the Sun Belt.

When a new housing development opened for sales recently, people were standing in line to hand over anywhere from $80,000 to $100,000.

The trouble started when some people hired stand-ins to camp out in line all night for them. So they issued a set of rules for line-standers.

Only blood relatives could act as stand-ins.

Anyone who left the line to freshen up, have a bite to eat, or call his banker, had to sign out and return again in person to reclaim the place in line.

I contend we line-standers can take care of our own. We don't need a lot of rules and regulations.

Once I was in a line to see an old movie classic, starring Orson Welles in "Citizen Kane." When the theatre emptied a man went along the line saying in a loud voice, "ROSE BUD IS THE NAME OF THE SLED!" We knew how to deal with him.

Another time a person tried to get into a line in front of a lot of other people who had been waiting by striking up a conversation with someone near the front of it. We got her out of there in no time flat. (I told Mother, this is no time for nepotism).

Dedicated line-standers know a fake when they see one. Fainting from heat-hunger-old age just isn't good enough to get you a spot near the entrance.

Lines have become a way of life for Americans. I hate to see them get all tangled up in bureaucracy and red tape. I mean without a code of ethics and standards, we're just your plain, common, ordinary ...loiterers.

NEW YORK (AP)— Those who foresee in the 1980s a rediscovery of old economic values, such as the importance of profits, and the necessity of the work ethic, aren't getting much encouragement from events.

There are many such optimists in business and investment life, and some are risking reputations that took years to develop. They reason that the chaos and uncertainty of the 1970s just cannot continue.

Having tried other methods, Americans will return to what works. They will save, thus providing capital for expansion; they will reduce their demands on the marketplace, and prices will tend to stabilize.

Or so it is hoped. Business hates uncertainty, because it adds to existing risks, and so the hope is that with stability the entire economic community will be able to lay out plans and work toward them.

This will not result in a boom, they say; in fact, some look forward to a rather slugish rate of growth as just the antidote to all the ups and downs of the 1970s. Boom leads to bust; it cannot be tolerated.

Instead, these seers say, America will be satisfied with straightening itself out. We will put our finances in order. The Federal government will cease to grow; the budget finally will be balanced.

That theme, or something akin, is found in a segment of long-range forecast now circulated by, among others, an economic consulting firm, several insurers and one of the biggest investment advisers.

Wishes, however, do not command events, and the hoped-for pattern isn't emerging from the loom. As the new decade nears, all the threads are grey and the pattern is one of question and exclamation marks.

Inflation vies with recession as the No. 1 economic problem. Personal income falls. Interest rates are at all-time highs. Productivity has almost ceased to improve. Oil is scarce. Profit is a dirty word.

The stability that business and consumers seek is nonexistent, either domestically or on the international scene. Geopolitics has become a study in aberration. And forecasting has become nothing but guesswork.

commentary

donald f. graff

There's a boom underway these days in one aspect of international business activity that is causing no joy in boardrooms.

Terrorism directed at business enterprises and executives is spiraling sharply and steadily upward, according to a study just out from The Conference Board.

By its tally, terrorist incidents -- murders, kidnappings, bombings, personal assaults and the like -- nearly tripled in a four-year period, jumping from 572 in 1975 to 1,511 in 1978. And indications from the first three quarters of 1979 are that another record year is coming up.

The private economic research organization says its figures, because of different criteria, vary somewhat from those of such other interested parties as the State Department and CIA, but all are in agreement on the upward trend.

Focusing on kidnappings, the study finds that businessmen are far and away the prime terrorist targets. They were involved in 55 percent of abductions of American personnel in foreign countries between 1970 and 1978, with diplomats a distant second at 28 percent.

There is a sexist as well as economic tilt to kidnappings. Some 90 percent of victims have been male. Of the few women abducted, about half were daughters of executives who were the real targets of extortion incidents.

The increasing incidence of terrorist kidnappings has been paced by rising ransom demands. In 1978 there were 12 demands for $1 million or more, where early in the decade there had been none that high. The norm is now in the $5-10 million range and since 1970, the terrorists' total take has been an estimated $150 million.

In self-defense, businesses and businessmen operating abroad are using a number of strategems such as assumed names for travel and hotel reservations, unlisted addresses and phone numbers, unidentified company vehicles and insurance.

How many firms are utilizing the latter is unknown because publicity can in some cases be grounds for cancellation of coverage. But ransom insurance is known to be a growing field with -- surely to no one's surprise -- Lloyds of London in the forefront of carriers.

While insurance may be an appropriately businesslike way of minimizing financial losses, it does nothing to resolve the basic problem. And unfortunately, no resolution yet appears in sight.

We are still a long way from finding a way to give the business to terrorism.

If the causes of terrorists are frequently murky, their psychology can be even more so.

Their often irrational behavior is a field of growing interest to psychologists. And so is that at times displayed by their captives.

An attitude of particular interest that has been evidenced by the latter is the "Stockholm syndrome" and it is discussed in a recent New York Times report.

The name comes from a bank seizure in the Swedish capital six years ago in which sympathetic bonds developed between captives and captors. The consequences can be bizarre in some instances, with hostages reacting hostilely to their eventual rescuers, visting jailed terroists and setting up funds for their defense.

The syndrome can also have a reverse, with captors becoming so involved with their prisoners that they find it difficult to impossible to carry out death threats.

Sympathetic references to their student captors by some of the released American embassy personnel suggest that the Stockholm syndrome may be at work in Tehran, according to one expert observer, Dr. Frank Ochberg, Michigan state director of mental health and a member of a 1975 Justice Department nation task force on terrorism.

The Stockholm syndrome may go a long way to explain Tehran and other puzzling terrorist incidents of recent years, and in so doing go to a disturbing extreme to demonstrate a quirky fact of personality that even non-psychologists are familiar with -- that opposites attract.

my turn

It is time to start thinking of the Christmas holidays. We are reminded of Christmas in late November by decorations going up all over town. Some homes already glow with the spirit of Christmas, adorned with lighted trees and twinkling outside lights.

Some think the season starts too early, but one only needs to look at the calendar to see that there are only 22 shopping days left until the magic day.

Perhaps you are one of those eager beavers who make things for friends and family like jams, jellies and baked goods.

If so, I have found an idea for a make-ahead gift for that special person who has everything while looking through my mammoth files of recipes for holiday goodies. These two recipes may interest those who like to try something different, or those who are budget minded.

Mesquite Bean Jelly

Select beans that are beginning to turn amber or light red. At this stage they are ripe but still juicy.

Wash and snap them, as you would Kentucky Wonder beans. Put them in a pressure cooker and add water, "not quite enough to cover them."

Boil the beans under high pressure about 20 minutes, then strain off juice.

Bring to a boil four and three-fourths cup of mesquite bean juice and a fourth cup of lemon juice. Add one box of the powdered pectin products that insure that jelly will jell and bring mixture back to a boil. Add seven and a half cups of sugar and bring to a full boil for five minutes, stirring constantly.

Presto!

Mesquite bean jelly.

Corn Cob Jelly

If mesquite beans don't meet your fancy, try corn cob jelly. For this easy gelatinous food, take 12 average size red corn cobs, 4 pints water, 3 cups corn cob juice, 1 box powder pectin, and 3 cups sugar.

Wash corn cobs and break into pieces, cover with 4 pints of water and boil for 35 minutes. Strain juice through a thin cloth. Place in large pan and add powder pectin, bring to a boil, add sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved. Bring to a rolling boil for five minutes. Place in jars.

The peak harvest for the beans and corn cobs may have been earlier in the fall. If so, these recipes can be filed in your "jams and jellies" for next summer's canning time.

Islam Countries Provide ½ Of Oil

WASHINGTON (AP)- The world gets nearly half its oil from countries where the dominant religion is Islam - the faith of the prophet Mohammed and of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, ruler of Iran.

The United States gets about 26 percent of its oil from Islamic countries.

Although U.S. analysts say they do not expect other Islamic nations to heed Khomeini's call for an anti-American crusade, they express concern that developments in Iran may cause instability in the Middle East that could threaten the world oil supply.

Energy department figures for July, the most recent month for which statistics are available, show that Iran alone provided 3.5 percent to 4 percent of U.S. oil needs.

Australia, dry and sparsely vegetated, has the biggest cattle ranches in the world. One, the Barkly Downs, covers 5.4 million acres or 8,460 square miles. It grazes 90,000 lightly-spread cattle.

Reception To Honor Anniversary Couple

Mr. and Mrs. John Everts of Buffalo Gap will be married 60 years on Dec. 3. A reception honoring the couple will be held Sunday, Dec. 2, from 3 to 5 p.m. at the United Savings Association Community Room, So. 14th Willis, Abilene. The affair will be hosted by the couple's children.

Everts was born April 22, 1900, near Colorado City, and Mrs. Everts was born Nov. 17, 1900, at Stephenville.

The couple met in May, 1919 at Dunn. They were married in the Scurry County Court House, Snyder. The couple has lived in the West Texas area during their married life.

Following their marriage they lived in Mitchell County moving to Dunn in 1922, then to Ira in 1947 where they lived until the move to their home in Buffalo Gap in 1973.

Everts is a retired farmer. He and Mrs. Everts are members of the Church of Christ. They also attend the Senior Citizens' activities in Buffalo Gap. They have 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Their children are J.W. Everts; Mrs. Willis (Faye) Cumbie of Snyder, Mrs. Bob (Anita) Calley of Forsan, Mrs. Weldon (Wanda) Ford of Abilene and Johnny Everts of Big Spring.

90th Birthday Observed With Sunday Celebration

By GARNET QUIETT

Sunday was a happy occasion for Warren C. Fargason. He was honored with a party in observance of his 90th birthday. The affair was hosted by his family at his home, 2202 Sunset.

His birthday cake was decorated with a black icing train locomotive and the words, "All aboard, W.C.! You're on your way. Happy Birthday!"

Mrs. Jess Everett gave the story of Warren's life. She said, "Remember the first lamp globe you saw? You were afraid it would explode when it got hot. You were a little afraid of the first telephone you saw too."

"Remember when you and Luther walked to school? You had to walk on a log to cross the creek. One night it rained and the creek was up. You started across the log, got dizzy and fell into the creek. You held onto the log with one hand and held your books above your head so they wouldn't get wet and crawled out of the creek, escaping the falls a short distance away."

When Warren was 11 years old, and his brother, Luther, was nine, they worked in the cotton mills in Langdale, Ala. They worked 12 hours a day for 60c a day. This was before the child labor laws were enacted.

WARREN C. FARGASON

Warren ran the machine that wound cotton thread on quillers and when they were full, Luther dwarfed them (packed them in boxes) and then the boxes were taken to the looms where the thread was spun into cloth.

Fargason was born Nov. 26, 1889, in Talapoosa County, Ala. At the age of 12, he came to Lamar County, Texas, on the train with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. and Martha Fargason, two sisters and two brothers. They settled in the farming community of Wastella in Scurry County in 1908.

When Warren returned from service in WWI, he and his brother went into the grocery business at Hermleigh, where the family resided.

While he was in the service, the name of Hermleigh was changed to Foch, for the French general. After he came home, Warren circulated a petition and got the name of the post office changed back to Hermleigh.

Warren married Ina May Callis, January 8, 1927. They made their home in Hermleigh until they moved to Snyder in 1977.

The Fargasons have three daughters, Mrs. A.D. Groseclose of Snyder; Mrs. Hope McCarty of Amarillo; and Mrs. Johnye Robertson of Paris.

Warren was postmaster at Hermleigh from 1934 - 1959, when he retired. According to record books, he served longer than any postmaster at Hermleigh. The Hermleigh post office was established in 1890.

Warren believed in going the second mile of his line of duty to help someone. He delivered mail to shut-ins, made out catalogue orders, gave notary work, filled out papers for people and registered men for selective service.

"One day, a couple came to me and wanted me to write them a paper of divorce. I told them I was not authorized to do that, so they never did get a divorce," Warren related.

While in the post office, he saw the need for mail service to more rural residents. It was a tedious task with much paper work being sent to Washington D.C., but he got more than 100 miles added to rural routes.

Fargason also obtained a new postal building for Hermleigh, though he never got to work in it as the application was approved one week after his retirement.

Warren belongs to, and has served in several capacities in the Central Baptist Church in Hermleigh for 60 years. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge there. He sold subscriptions to the Abilene Reporter-News for many years, and is a long-time subscriber to the paper. He is a member of both the Colorado City chapter and the Scurry County Poetry Society chapter of The Poetry Society of Texas. He is also an active member of The Snyder Writer's Guild and Retired Citizens Volunteer Program, where he plays in the Kitchen Band. He is the oldest member of the band.

Warren received a certificate for 25 years service, registering boys for selective service when they became 18 years of age. He serves on the Historical Survey Committee in Scurry County.

Warren is lsited in "Personalities of the South," and received a plaque honoring him for distinguished service in his community in 1977.

Asked if he would change his life if he could live it over, Warren replied, "No. It was a happy life and I would like to live it over again just the way its been."

To the question, "Would you like to live to be 100 years old, he answered, "Yes, I would like to see the changes that will be made in the next 10 years."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The game was rubber bridge.

South went right up with dummy's ace of spades. He paused for study, led the deuce of trumps and finessed his jack after East followed with the eight.

West showed out. East glared and sputtered to South. "Stop peeking in our hands. If your ethics were as good as your eyes you would be one of the best men on earth."

"You have jumped to a wrong conclusion," said South mildly. "I saw no cards, but did see a perfect safety play to guarantee my contract once you followed to that first trump."

South had made an unusual safety play indeed. If he had played the ace or king of trumps he would have wound up losing one trick in each suit assuming proper defense by East and West. The unusual trump finesse avoided the trump loser.

Now suppose the finesse had lost to a singleton or doubleton queen. West would be on lead, but the seven of trumps would be a sure entry to dummy. South would have time to knock out the ace of clubs, get to dummy with that seven of trumps, discard his losing diamond on the good club and make 10 tricks instead of 11. But 10 tricks locked up the contract.

Dear Abby

Dog-Tired, Barks Back

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the complaint about barking dogs, you said, "There's a law against disturbing the peace. Call the police!"

That's easy for you to say; you don't live in Lancaster, Ohio. I do, and it wouldn't work here. True, there is an ordinance, but lawyers say it cannot be enforced, so it would be useless to take the matter to court.

In Lancaster, the dog owners have all the rights; people bothered by barking dogs all night just have to put up with it.

Maybe Ralph Nader can do something about this type of noise pollution. Please ask him.

CONSTANT HEADACHE IN OHIO

DEAR HEADACHE: Ralph Nader is more concerned with four-wheeled "dogs" than four-legged ones. But if he has any suggestions, I hope he'll send them my way.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64 year old, fairly attractive widow. After losing my husband of 40 years, I sold my home and moved to a lovely retirement community. This place would be paradise — if it weren't for the women who live here with their husbands.

I have never seen such jealousy! They watch their men like hawks when I'm around. I used to be in business and have always felt comfortable around men, but since living here I'm afraid to be myself. I watch every word I utter, being careful not to come on too strong with the men, or be too charming or entertaining for fear some woman will think I'm trying to steal her husband. I once had a winning personality, but now I feel like a stupid, frustrated bump on a log.

When my husband was alive, I always encouraged him to dance with single women. Now when the music starts I go hide in the powder room for fear some man will ask me to dance and his wife will think I gave him the come-on.

What's a widow to do?

FRUSTRATED IN ARIZONA

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Be yourself, and don't try to second-guess other women. You can't know what they're thinking. The chances are that they are just as generous as you were in bygone years, but your sudden single status has caused you to be slightly self-conscious, insecure and perhaps a touch paranoid.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 27-year-old woman who has never married. I've had lots of boyfriends, but I've never had a lasting relationship with anyone.

About four months ago I met a terrific guy. He's 36, recently divorced, and just what I've always wanted. He told me on our very first date that he is not marriage material, wants no commitments and doesn't want to get serious. He said if I wanted to see him on those terms, we could have a lot of fun together.

I'm pretty sure I'm not the only girl he's dating, but our Saturday night dates last until Monday morning.

My problem is I've fallen in love with him. I've tried to date other guys, but my mind is always on him. I can't kid myself, Abby. I want marriage.

My head tells me this guy is not marriage-minded, but my heart won't let me quit seeing him. What should I do?

HURTING IN ASHEVILLE

DEAR HURTING: If you want marriage, you're wasting a lot of time, energy and love on a man who told you up front that he's not marriage material. The word from here is, say goodbye and tell him why. And if you never hear from him again you'll be lucky.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

GIANT DRAWINGS CREATED in 1932 by Mexican artist Diego Rivera were recently discovered in a basement storage room of the Detroit Institute of Arts. The drawings, which cover nearly a quarter acre of floor space, were full-scale guides for Rivera's famous "Detroit Industry" frescoes that adorn the museum's main hall. Institute archivists are studying the drawings in preparation for a special exhibition commemorating their 50th anniversary.

Hijack Suspect Getting Psychiatric Evaluation

By BILL GREER
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO (AP)-Federal authorities say a teenager charged with hijacking a jetliner and holding its passengers and crew hostage here for almost four hours has been sent to Missouri for psychiatric evaluation.

U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions ordered Gerald James "Skipper" Hill Jr. transferred Tuesday to the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners at Springfield, Mo.

Hill, 18, was arrested Saturday after American Airlines flight 395, from San Antonio to Los Angeles, was comandeered during a scheduled stop at El Paso.

FBI agents say they overpowered the hijacker and released the 19 male passengers and seven crew members who were held hostage for almost four hours.

FBI agents said Hill told the pilot he wanted to go to Iran.

A federal complaint charged Hill with interfering with the flight crew by assaulting, intimidating and threatening them with a large hunting knife.

The complaint also said Hill threatened to blow up the plane with dynamite. No dynamite was found. There were no injuries.

Hill had been scheduled for a preliminary hearing Thursday.

Court-appointed defense attorney John Langford said Tuesday up to 90 days is allowed for the psychiatric tests. Langford said he had asked for a continuance of the hearing.

Langford said Hill lived in Austin, Texas and San Antonio, Texas, "for a short period" after he was released from the Army in October. A spokesman at Fort Benning, Ga., said Hill was discharged because he could not adjust to the military.

Hill was described by a friend as "a patriotic kind of guy" upset over the hostage situation in Iran.

Alternate Energy Can Supply 11%

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Latin America can supply 11 percent of its energy needs by 1995 through the development of non-conventional sources of energy, according to a report by the Bariloche Foundation of Argentina.

The study, funded by the U.N. Development Program, indicates these non-conventional sources -- solar power, wind, plant and animal wastes, geothermal, waste heat and alcohol -- account for only 0.8 percent of Latin America's energy production.

It says solar power has the greatest potential.

Museum Plans To Offer Photographs

The WTC Journalism Department will be making photographs of the children who come to visit Santa Claus Sunday afternoon in the Scurry County Museum, Sharon Sutton, Museum Director, has announced.

The photographs will be 8x10 and may be purchased for $5. Part of the proceeds will go to the museum to help offset the cost of the Christmas party and part will go to the journalism department to be used in paying the expenses of students attending contests and other meetings.

Santa Claus is to arrive at the museum about 1 p.m. Sunday and will be there until 5. The WTC Vocal Ensemble directed by Jane Womack will be presenting carols in the museum during the afternoon, and refreshments will be served.

Also scheduled for Sunday are the opening of the faculty art exhibit in the Fine Arts Gallery and planetarium shows at 2, 3 and 4 o'clock.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Too much bran?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have never seen anything about the possible adverse effects of too much bran in the diet. I have read that there is such a thing as too much bulk. I eat bran daily because it seems that it's the only effective food, other than laxatives, that will work on my system. Is this all right?

DEAR READER — The old phrase "too much of a good thing" applies to almost everything. We need sunshine, but if we get too much we are sunburned and repeated exposure increases the chances of skin cancer. We need oxygen to sustain life but too much can cause oxygen poisoning and death. We need food but too much, particularly of rich foods, will lead to obesity.

Yes, there is such a thing as too much bran in the diet for some people. The increased bulk appears to decrease the absorption of some vitamins and minerals. For this reason, people who take large amounts of bran won't hurt their system any if they use one standard all-purpose vitamin tablet a day that contains iron. People who use ordinary amounts of bran or just ordinary whole cereal do not need to do this. Besides, most commercially prepared cereals are already fortified with additional vitamins.

The other problem is that some people with disorders of the stomach, particularly gastric ulcers, don't tolerate increased bulk so well. Bulk appears to be good for the colon and not so good for the stomach. However, the bulk in the diet will delay emptying of the stomach which is important to some people, such as those who tend to have low blood sugar an hour or two after eating. The delayed emptying of the stomach seems to smooth things out and prevent such reactions.

Finally, it should be mentioned that particularly in the first three or four weeks of increasing the amount of bran in the diet a person may experience enormous amounts of gas. This is very uncomfortable, particularly to people who are already having colon problems. Usually this phase will pass and the colon will adjust to the increased amounts of bulk. Another approach is to very gradually increase the bran in the diet, thereby avoiding having the colon to have to make such a big adjustment all at once.

There are other important aspects to managing the bowel besides just increasing the bulk in the diet. To give you information on this, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable Or Spastic Colon And Constipation. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Improved colon function is good enough reason to include at least a modest amount of bran in the diet. You can get a lot of that from using whole wheat products such as real whole wheat bread and whole grain cereals.

There is also some evidence that the improved colon function may help prevent colon cancer — the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women in the United States. This point is debated by different researchers but there is enough evidence to suggest that the prudent person will lean toward improving the amount of bulk in the diet as long as it is well tolerated.

Glass Fiber Used In Casts

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)- Some orthopedic patients are finding the weight being lifted from their shoulders, arms, legs, or any other area that is cast.

Plaster is often being replaced with lightweight, high-strength glass fiber casts - recently cited by the American Hospital Association as being among today's top 10 advances in hospital care.

Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., a supplier of the glass fiber filament for the casts, says the material is two to three times stronger and one-half to one-third the weight of plaster, allowing greater comfort and mobility.

A Serious Miss America...

Queen Bess Has Eyes On U.S. Senate Seat

NEW YORK (AP)— When Bess Myerson was crowned Miss America of 1945, a headline described her as "A Very Serious Type." Today she is being taken very seriously indeed, as an all-but-announced candidate for the U.S. Senate.

The path from the Atlantic City runway has led her from a three-room flat in the Bronx to a luxurious East Side apartment overlooking Manhattan's Central Park, through one career in television and another as a self-styled consumer advocate.

Now she is seeking a third career in politics, eyeing the seat held by 75-year-old Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., who has not yet decided whether to seek reelection.

Should she run, her competition promises to be stiff, but she appears undaunted by the probable opponents, among them Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and her onetime boss, former Mayor John Lindsay.

"I'm quick and I'm smart and I'm able to get things done. My professional life has been one of success," she said in a recent interview.

Left unspoken was mention of her personal life, marked by three divorces -- from two husbands -- and a bout with ovarian cancer.

Her 5-foot-10 frame is regal looking at age 55. Columnists still refer to her as "Queen Bess." But Miss Myerson, mother of a 31-year-old daughter, Barra, strives to play down her early career.

"That's who I was, not who I am now," she said firmly.

She entered the Miss America contest, she said, as a "lark," and to try to win the $5,000 prize for a music scholarship and a piano. She still has the Steinway baby grand, although marriage and a child kept her from finishing her masters' degree studies in conducting at Columbia University.

Miss Myerson had played Grieg and Gershwin in the talent portion of the contest, and before long she wound up on the vaudeville circuit. But she abandoned that after only a few performances when audiences proved more interested in her figure than her flute-playing.

She also abandoned the traditional Miss America personal appearances, because, she said, corporate sponsors were uneasy with her being Jewish. Some reportedly suggested she change her name.

"I just didn't want to be demeaned," she said, although she made no public statement alleging anti-Semitism at the time. Years later, she worked as television hostess of the Miss America pageant.

Her two-page official biography mentions none of this -- referring to the Miss America competiton only as "a national talent contest." It also skips her eight years as the Lady In Mink for CBS's, "The Big Payoff," a giveaway program on which she modeled the prize, and her nine years as a panelist on "I've Got A Secret."

In 1969, then-Mayor Lindsay plucked her out of the TV world and gave her a job as New York City's first commissioner of consumer affairs. She accepted, admitting she knew nothing about consumerism.

But she studied, and by general consensus she did a good job -- pushing through a unit pricing law for groceries, cracking down on sleazy installment contracts and short-weight merchants and gaining the fledgling consumer movement the kind of attention that a less well-known commissioner might not have commanded.

After leaving the city post, she hired out as a consultant to such corporations as Bristol-Myers, Citicorp, and Warner Communications. Some say that has tarnished her consumerist image, as when a booklet she edited for Bristol-Myers denied evidence linking dyes used in the company's profitable Clairol products to cancer.

Miss Myerson is reported to earn about $300,000 a year from these and other activities, including a syndicated newspaper column.

"I'm very proud of the money I've made," she said, but she refused to reveal the sources and amount of her income, nor would she pledge to do so should she become a candidate.

"When I left the city and I was alone and very ill I made a decision to make a great deal of money, as much as I could without doing commercials," she said. Friends say she is delaying her official entry into the Senate race to avoid having to give up any of her lucrative positions.

She has been laying the groundwork for a senate race for years, declining pleas from political leaders to run in previous elections.

"It was important to me to get a broader canvas of experience for myself before becoming a candidate," she said. "I wanted to see how the business community worked from the inside to learn more about the politics of running."

She campaigned effectively for such successful New York Democrats as Mayor Edward Koch, Sen. Daniel Moynihan and Gov. Hugh Carey. Koch, a close personal friend, and Moynihan have promised to return the favor.

"I think I have the skills and talent to be a senator," she said. "And when my points of view are declared I think the people of New York will see there's a very credible reason for me to run for the Senate and reasons why I should represent the people of New York state."

NON-WHITE HOUSE CARTERS--These second and third generations of the musical Carter Family will perform together in a star-filled celebration of country music tonight, honoring the late pioneering matriarch of the clan. The TV special titled "The Unbroken Circle: A Tribute to Mother Maybelle Carter," is scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight on the CBS Network.

Mexico's Railroad Faces Big Crunch

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) Some 4,500 railroad cars loaded with grain and goods for Mexico are straded in South Texas because Mexico's national railroad, overworked by the nation's oil boom, cannot accept them fast enough, says an American railroad official.

The situation has forced the Missouri Pacific Railroad to impose a freight embargo until the railroad traffic jam eases.

Frank Howell, Missouri Pacific sales manager here, said Tuesday that the crunch has occurred because Mexico's limited transportation facilities have been outstripped by its rapidly growing economy.

Missouri Pacific issued its embargo Nov. 15 for the Brownsville and Laredo ports of entry into Mexico.

Howell declined to speculate how long it might take the government-owned Mexican railroad to ease the situation.

"The national railroad can only take so many cars per day. There were simply more going down there than they could handle," said Howell. "Until that clears up, we'll accept no more cars bound for Mexico."

Missouri Pacific is the only railroad to levy such an embargo, but said cars are also piling up on other lines, said Howell.

The economy of Mexico has picked up with its oil boom and it has outstripped the ability of the national railroad's transportation facilities to handle freight," explained Howell. "There was no problem before the oil boom."

SEN. EDWARD KENNEDY may be leading President Carter in popularity among voters. But the Massachusetts Democrat reportedly fears he is lagging behind the president in campaign organization. That's the reason behind the speeded-up announcement of Kennedy's "exploratory" committee headed by brother-in-law Stephen Smith.

Better Than Under 25 Category....

Old People Worse Drivers Than Other Adult Groups

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Old people are worse drivers than other adults, says the State Insurance Board's chief of auto insurance.

The board held a day-long hearing Tuesday into insurance problems of the elderly. Earlier this month, it conducted a similar hearing on difficulties of the handicapped.

Several spokesman for the elderly told the board insurance companies discriminate against old people, denying them coverage because of their age.

Ernest Cabe of the American Association of Retired Persons said most reports he had seen show old people have fewer accidents than other groups.

"When you are over 65, about all you use your car for is to go to church or to the store," he said.

Donald O'Brien, chief of the board's auto insurance division, said he checked with statisticians during the lunch hour to determine whether the elderly were, in fact, safer drivers.

Board statistics for 1975-77 show that persons 65 and over "are not better drivers. They are worse drivers ... than other adult drivers." Old people, however, have better driving records than those in the under 25 category, O'Brien said.

Testimony also delved into abuses in the health insurance and industrial life insurance fields.

Gary Greif of East Texas Legal Services urged "much more regulation" of industrial life agents and policies. Industrial life policies are those whose premiums are payable weekly -- usually to a agent who collects in person -- or are for less than $1,000 and payable at least monthly.

He told of a Port Arthur woman who had 54 policies at one time -- most of them industrial life -- and was spending 30 percent of her income on insurance.

R.B. Ashworth, chief of the board's claims division, said "overselling" is illegal and promised to look into the woman's case.

Kay Rogers of the Central Texas Legal Aid Society said she had received complaints when people discovered after 16 or 17 years that they had paid more for industrial life than the value of their policies.

She said she had learned that the board was unable to take any action because the policies are legal.

The major capital items in farming today is land, and land prices have tripled since 1967, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It says land prices are the greatest barrier to entry into farming.

Cancer Patients March

LONDON (AP)—With three hours to go before Charing Cross Hospital would have run out of heating oil because of a strike, cancer patients threw blankets over their bathrobes and took to the streets.

Their mission was to convince 55 striking maintenance men to allow oil trucks through the picket lines. Without the fuel, Britain's foremost cancer clinic would have to close its doors.

"We told them we were cancer patients and were ashamed of what they were doing," Kathy Barker, a 37-year-old mother of two, told The Associated Press. "But they just turned their backs on us."

Mrs. Barker has cancer of the uterus.

One picket confessed he felt sorry for the patients, but Carol Bostwick, 42, who had surgery only a week ago, cried to him: "Obviously you're not sorry enough because our lives are still at stake."

Mrs. Bostwick had to have a nurse help her to stand, and another patient coughed up blood as he braved the cold with 200 white-coated doctors and nurses and pleaded with the pickets to end their five-week hospital blockade.

Besides oil, supplies of oxygen, food and even light bulbs were running out. Patients were taking cold baths and the working staff was eating leftovers to conserve the hospital's resources.

Church Goers Not Sincere, Says Reviewer

AUSTIN (AP)-William Martin, a professor who spends his Sundays reviewing Texas churches, says many people go to church only "because it's the thing to do."

"I take religious questions and religious experiences a lot more seriously than many people who say, 'Yes, I'm a Christian,'' said Martin, who does not call himself a Christian.

The Rice University sociology professor has a theology degree from Harvard. For the past eight months he has been reviewing worship services for Texas Monthly.

Martin grew up in the Church of Christ and was preaching at age 14.

"Over a period of years I've had difficulty holding on to the basic beliefs of Christianity or any other religion, and I do not say that flippantly," he said.

Nevertheless, he said he may be a better Christian than many regular church-goers.

"There are all kinds of people who claim to be Christians who do not uphold the faith and maintain the standards as much as I do," Martin said at the University of Texas.

"Emotionally, I'm a very religious person. I really like to go to church," he said.

The professor said after leaving churches full of sincere worshippers, "I wish I believed what those people believed."

He has trouble pinpointing what he looks for when he visits a church, but "I like a good song service. I like for them to sing. They don't necessarily have to look happy, but I like for them to be sad with some enthusiasm."

He said he can detect a "shallow" preacher who merely puts on a good show. He critized "celebrity" preachers who make religion "a booster sort of thing."

"I really think there's more to Christianity than that," he said.

Jane Byrne Recuperating From Surgery

CHICAGO (AP)—Mayor Jane Byrne is recuperating from minor facial surgery at home and is expected back in her City Hall offices later this week, her press spokesman says.

Mrs. Byrne had "very minor cosmetic surgery" to clear up scar tissue from surgery to remove facial cysts several years ago, assistant press secretary Bob Saigh said Tuesday.

The cosmetic surgery was performed last Wednesday by Dr. Peter McKinney at Northwestern Memorial Hospital. The mayor remained at the hospital overnight for observation, a hospital spokesman said.

Mrs. Byrne currently is working on her mayoral duties from her Near North Side apartment and is feeling fine, Saigh said. She is expected to return to her office later this week.

Felines Sweep Colorado City

Snyder High School's varsity Tigers crushed Colorado City 62-32 here last night to keep an undefeated string intact.

The Felines, 4-0, capped an evening which saw Snyder girls sweep the visiting Wolves in three games.

Thursday, Snyder varsity begins play in the Sweetwater Tournament. The girls open the series at 5:30 against Vernon. Winner of the game plays an Abilene High-Iowa Park victor at 7:30 Friday. Losers vie at 4.

In other games here last evening, Snyder junior varsity slammed Colorado City 60-19, and the Cat freshman team won, 23-19.

Jamie Hataway led the Tigers with 22 points while Sandy Sewell bucketed 15 and Brenda Anderson notched 17. Snyder jumped out to a 16-6 lead and held a 41-11 halftime advantage before waltzing in for the victory.

"We had trouble for the first three minutes, but after that we played well," said Coach Ken Housden. "We're still not as consistant as we need to be, but we're playing real well in spots. Last night we played well for three and a half quarters."

Michelle Townsel sacked up 18 points, Kelly Jones bagged 15 and LaDonna Halford added 12 as Snyder junior varsity dumped the visitors 60-19. The Tigers poured in 23 fourth-period points in the game, while holding the Wolves to 4.

In the night's other game, Pam Vansickle and Ramona Murphy hit the bucket for a half-dozen points each as Snyder skinned Colorado City 23-19.

The Wolves outscored Snyder 19-8 in the second half, but the Tigers had already built up a 15-0 lead in the first two quarters to claim the victory.

The outcomes put Snyder varsity and JV at 4-0 for the season, while the freshman are 2-2.

AAU May Reinstate High Jumper

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)-The Amateur Athletic Union is expected to reinstate two-time Olympic high-jumper Dwight Stones' amateur status, the Santa Ana Register reported in its Wednesday editions.

Stones, who formerly held the world indoor and outdoor record in the event, was stripped of his amateur status by the AAU 18 months ago because he accepted prize money after competing in the nationally televised Superstars competition.

But Kevin Baxter of the Register reported that Stones will get his amateur status back in a ruling by the AAU this week. The AAU is currently holding its national convention in Las Vegas, Nev.

"I heard a couple of weeks ago from some AAU officials that he would be reinstated," Baxter quoted Al Franken, one of the country's most prominent track and field promotors, as saying.

"We voted for it the reinstatement in a caucus," Bob Seaman, a second vice-president of the AAU's Southern Pacific Association, told Baxter. "I won't be surprised if he's reinstated. It will be up to the Board of Governors. They will be meeting Wednesday."

If the AAU decides to reinstate the amateur status of Stones, that would mean that the 25-year-old native of Glendale, Calif., would be eligible immediately to compete in the United States.

Sutcliffe Chosen NL Rookie Of The Year

NEW YORK (AP)-Rick Sutcliffe, a rock-solid starter on a troubled Los Angeles Dodger pitching staff, was named today as the National League's Rookie of the Year for 1979.

Sutcliffe, who led the Dodger staff in victories with 17 after starting spring training with little hope of making the team, was an easy winner over outfielders Jeff Leonard of Houston and Scot Thompson of Chicago.

The Baseball Writers Association of America handed Sutcliffe 20 out of a possible 24 votes while Leonard received three and Thompson one.

"I still don't believe I won it," said an incredulous but euphoric Sutcliffe, who had a 17-10 record and a 3.46 earned run average in the 242 innings he pitched. "I didn't think that pitchers had as good a chance as the everyday player because they don't get the exposure. I don't know who I impressed."

The writers, though, were obviously impressed with Sutcliffe's energetic performance after inauspicious beginnings.

"It didn't even look like I would make the club," Sutcliffe said. "The Dodgers had a lot of name pitchers down in spring training. But, fortunately for me, there were a lot of sore arms. I had to beat out Pete Broberg for the eighth spot on the staff."

Hawks Go Wild To Floor San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-A frustrated San Antonio Coach Doug Moe couldn't find a word Tuesday night to describe Atlanta's 87-point second half. But Hawks Coach Hubie Brown summed it up quite nicely when he simply termed it "an explosion."

The Hawks, sparked by forward John Drew, got 40 points in the third quarter and 47 in the final period Tuesday night to thrash San Antonio 143-120 and take over first place in the National Basketball Association's Central Division.

"They got everything they wanted," said Moe. "Whatever the worst word you can use for our defense, that's the word."

"That was just an explosion," said Brown, whose Hawks shot 77 percent in the third quarter and 74 percent in the final period.

Drew scored a season-high 40 points, 14 of them coming in the key final quarter.

San Antonio had led most of the game and was clinging to a 104-102 lead with 10:49 remaining in the game. But then Atlanta and Drew caught fire and outscored the Spurs 41-16 to finish the game.

Cards Split With Westbrook

WESTBROOK -- Hermleigh's boys downed Westbrook in varsity basketball action here last night, 66-61. In the only other game played, Westbrook took a 68-32 victory over the Cardinal girls team.

Ascension Fuentes scored 22 points, Chip Roemisch added 14 and Andrew Rodriguez basketed 12 as the Cardinals overpowered Westbrook. Ricky Reyes led the hosts with 22 points.

Lopez and Dorn put up 21 and 17 points as Westbrook downed the Hermleigh girls by 35 points. Julie Roemisch had 7 points for the Cards while Barbara Leatherwood and Jackie Williamson added 6 each.

Hermleigh plays in the Trent Tournament this weekend.

Holtz Coach Of The Year...

Scanlon Leads All-SWC Team

By The Associated Press

When Lou Holtz came to Arkansas from North Carolina State, he brought along a young quarterback from Beaver Falls, Pa., who had only played one game for him.

But the Arkansas coach and Kevin Scanlon made magic during the 1979 Southwest Conference football season.

Arkansas surprised the experts by earning at least a tie for the championship. One of the big reasons: Senior quarterback Scanlon.

They were the headline performers on Wednesday's Associated Press 1979 All-SWC football team as selected by the nine head coaches.

Every ballot listed Scanlon at quarterback and he was selected as the Offensive Player of the Year over Texas Tech's 1,000-yard runner James Hadnot six votes to three.

Holtz was named SWC Coach of the Year by his peers.

Mike Singletary, Baylor's magnificent junior linebacker, was the Defensive Player of the Year.

Other first team offensive performers included Texas running back A.J. "Jam" Jones; tackles Greg Kolenda of Arkansas and Melvin Jones of Houston; guards George Stewart of Arkansas and Bill Glass of Baylor; center Wes Hubert of Texas; wide receivers Robert Farrell of Arkansas and Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas; and Texas tight end Lawrence Sampleton.

The defense included such salty linemen as Texas A&M's Jacob Green, Houston's Hosea Taylor and Leonard Mitchell, and Texas' Steve McMichael.

Singletary was joined at linebacker by Doug Shankle of Texas and David Hodge of Houston.

The defensive backfield was basic Burnt Orange with Texas' Derrick Hatchet, Johnnie Johnson and Ricky Churchman being joined by Texas Tech's Ted Watts.

Arkansas' Gary Anderson and Texas A&M's Johnny Hector, two swift freshmen running backs, shared the Newcomer of the Year award, offensively.

Defensively, it was Texas Christian frosh linebacker Darrell Patterson as Newcomer of the Year.

Arkansas punter Steve Cox and Razorback placekicker Ish Ordonez were on the mythical all-star team.

Dallas (AP)—Here is the 1979 Associated Press All-Southwest Conference football team as selected by the nine league coaches:

Protopopovs Just Want To Expand As Artists

CINCINNATI (AP)-Oleg Protopopov and his wife, Ludmila, had to chose between art and love when they decided to leave Russia.

They chose art - the art they speak of when they talk about their figure skating, which has won them two Olympic gold medals and four world championships.

Although art won out, they both acknowledge that the decision to defect from their homeland was painful. The Protopopovs sought asylum in Switzerland last September and have since signed a three-year contract with the Ice Capades.

"Of course, it is difficult to lose my mother and her sister, but what can we do?" Protopopov said in an interview before the ice show's performance Tuesday. "We had to choose either to skate like an artist and give gladness to many thousands of people or to be with sister and mother and not to give gladness. We chose the latter."

They say their decision was not a spur-of-the-moment thing, nor was it politically motivated. Although Ice Capades officials decline to say how much money they are being paid, they say the Protopopovs' salary is comparable to that of other stars such as Dorothy Hamill.

The couple says that money was also not a consideration in their decision to defect.

What caused them to leave their homeland were constrictions on their skating, such as the small ice surfaces available in Russia. The rink size not only restricted their development as skaters but also was dangerous to skate on, Protopopov said.

"We always had to look to the dashlights (which surround the skating area) and not to my partner," the 47-year-old skater said. "Now I have an opportunity to look to my queen of the ice."

Dusters Destroy Visiting Wayland; McLennon's Next

Western Texas College's Dusters sacked up their eighth victory of the season here last night, whipping Wayland junior varsity 92-58.

The Dusters placed five girls in double figures for the game, which was never in doubt as to the outcome. WTC had a 44-28 halftime advantage, and led by almost 40 points at times during the game.

Coach Joe Cushing's charges, which open conference play here Monday, will travel to McLennon College in Waco for a 5:30 game Friday.

Cusning had little to say about the obvious overmatch, but did point out the playing of Ginger Peden, Shari Teal, Joyce Plagens, Katie Fisher, Linda Holubec, Stella Bickley and Liz Hooper.

"We had a lot of people that played well. We did a good job when we had to," said Cushing. "All in all a lot of people played well last night."

He added praise to converted guard Bickley, who has played at forward the last three games, "and seems to have found a home. She's done a real good job for us there."

Leading the Duster defense was Hooper, who had only four points for the game, but ripped off six steals and had three assists. Plagens totaled five steals and four assists, as well as six rebounds and 18 points. Teal led with eight rebounds and added 11 points. The other girls in double figures were Bickley with 10, Holubec with 12 and Peden - who according to Cushing played her best game of the season last night -- with 14.

N. Kennedy led Wayland with 16 points.

For the contest, WTC had three blocked shots, 17 steals, 19 turnovers, 16 assists and 35 rebounds.

WTC--(FG-FGA, FT-FTA, TP) Ivie 0-2, 2-2, 2; Rigsby 0-2, 0-0, 0; Hooper 2-5, 0-0, 4; Bickley 5-6, 0-0, 10; Holubec 6-14, 0-0, 12; Gregg 1-4, 0-0, 2; Plagens 9-18, 0-0, 18; Ray 1-1, 2-2, 4; Fisher 5-9, 0-0, 10; Anderson 1-4, 1-3, 3; Boone 0-1, 2-4, 2; Teal 5-9, 1-1, 11; Peden 5-7, 4-4, 14. Totals: 40-82, 12-16, 92.

Wayland--N. Kennedy 16, R. Portera 12. Totals 23-47, 12-17, 58.

Halftime: WTC 44, Wayland 28

Final: WTC 92, Wayland 58

DUSTERS WIN--Coach Joe Cushing's Dusters grabbed a third straight win here last night, giving the team an 8-2 season record. The Dusters defeated Wayland, 92-58. Above (top) Joyce Plagens shoots over a crowd. In the lower Photo, freshman Linda Holubec sinks two more points. The Dusters travel to Waco on Friday. See related article at left. (SDN STAFF PHOTOS)

NMMI Always Tough, Says WTC Mentor

Coach Nolan Richardson's WTC Westerners, 9-0, begin conference basketball play in Roswell, N.M. Thursday, taking on New Mexico Military Institute at 8 p.m.

Since Richardson took over as coach of the Westerners, WTC and NMMI have each won three of the six games played with each other. What Richardson hasn't done, is beaten the opponent in Roswell.

"Hopefully the jinx is gone," said Richardson. "I couldn't think of a better year than this year for it to happen, the way our kids are playing right now. We're doing some of the things I expected us to try and do (at this time of the season). If we continue to do them tomorrow, we should bring home a victory."

NMMI is noted for being tough at home, where hundreds to thousands of cadets pack the gym.

"The Military (NMMI) will be higher than a kite. They're going to look at us as the No. 1 team tomorrow. They'll have 2,000 3,000 cadets going wild in that gym. It's really something, to play there," said the coach.

"The good part for us I guess, is that we've got a lot of kids that went over there last year. They know what to expect. They know they have to go up against that sixth man - the fans.

"If we continue to execute well, and play the kind of defense we've been playing, I think we can beat them. It's an important game for us, just beginning the conference, and hopefully we can rise to the occasion."

The Westerners will play their first conference home game Dec. 3 against Howard College.

Defensive tackle Bob Lilly played for the Dallas Cowboys for 14 seasons, 1961-74, and never missed a game.

Your Birthday

This coming year you may note a continual improvement in matters relating to your career or finances. Some of this will be due to persons behind the scenes lending you assistance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take the time today to mull over things deep within yourself, as you Scorpios are able to do so well. You'll come up with a couple of rewarding thoughts. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A good, old-fashioned talkfest with some pals will give you some fresh ideas that could prove extremely helpful. Get a group together for lunch.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're much admired by one who is saying lots of nice things about you to others. You'll be quite flattered when you learn of this today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Select companions whose thinking and interests closely parallel yours. Persons who don't share similar views will be a big bore today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can find the missing "links" that will be extremely helpful to someone who can't find his or her own answers today. Offer to help.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sure to voice your thinking if decisions are called for in any dealings with others today. Your reasoning is the clearest and will add the necessary insight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There is a task or a business matter that may need some discussion or reflection today before success can be attained. Take the needed time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Sound out important matters with a close friend today. There is something quite valuable you can learn from this person through discussion.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't enjoy just resting on your laurels around the house today. Instead, you'll put your head to work on finding ways to enhance your surroundings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're in a communicative mood today, but don't waste your time on idle chatter. Associate with individuals who have worthwhile things to say.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A member of your family could be a big help today by showing you a way to strengthen your financial position. Listen to all suggestions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your mental equipment is equal to any challenge today, so this might be a good time to push for some of your self-interests.

Warns Attorney General...

Bias Against Iranians Living In U.S. Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti is urging Americans not to vent their frustration over the U.S. Embassy seizure on Iranians living in this country, and warns that the Justice Department can "do no less" than prevent and remedy illegal discrimination.

While Civiletti acknowledged Americans' "justifiable anger" over the stalemate in Tehran, he advocated restraint in a statement issued Tuesday.

Citing news reports that some Iranians have been fired from their jobs, expelled from universities and denied public accommodations, Civiletti warned, "This conduct is not proper."

Anti-discrimination laws "forbid treating people differently in such areas as employment, public education, housing, credit and public accommodations like restaurants and hotels," he said, reminding Americans that those laws protect non-citizens as well as citizens.

"It is the role of the Justice Department to go to court, when necessary, to prevent and to remedy illegal discrimination. In the current situation, we must do no less," Civiletti said.

Those wishing to express their concern about the situation in Tehran should send letters and telegrams to the Iranian mission at the United Nations, he said.

"We all must restrain our actions and behave with a considered regard for our rule of law," the attorney general said.

Meanwhile, department officials said they are investigating the alleged assault of an Iranian student, which could form the basis for criminal charges of civil rights violations.

A department source, who asked not to be named, hinted that a second investigation also was possible, involving the Greenville Technical College in Greenville, S.C. The school suspended its 104 Iranian students last week, saying they could not return until the hostages are freed.

On another front, the Carter administration itself is the subject of criticism for alleged unconstitutional actions against Iranians. The Justice Department is tracking down some 50,000 Iranian students to determine if any are violating the terms of their visas.

Civiletti drew a distinction between violation of immigration laws and what he said was illegal discrimination based on national origin.

But the American Civil Liberties Union has protested the planned deportation of Iranian students whose visas are not in order, contending that singling out Iranians violates the Constitution.

Chamber

will be an opportunity for those present to ask questions about the program.

The chamber here has made no decision concerning the service, but if enough interest is shown, chamber officers will consider it, Warner said.

Freighter Hits Rig In Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Cypriot freighter reported today it crashed into a drilling rig in the Gulf of Mexico today but was able to limp into Galveston Bay where it anchored, the Coast Guard said.

Petty Officer Joe Gibson reported the 495-foot Skymnos radioed it was taking on water at 300 to 500 gallons a minute, but that the rig was not damaged.

A Coast Guard team boarded the ship, Gibson said, and reported it in no immediate danger of sinking.

The collision occurred about three miles east of the burning Burmah Agate, a crippled oil tanker which has been leaking crude oil onto Texas beaches for nearly a month.

The Coast Guard said there were no reports of new pollution from the rig. There were also no reports of injuries or other difficulties from the collision.

The rig was reportedly owned by Occidental Petroleum. It sits in block 144 of the Galveston drilling area.

2 Windows Shattered By Vandals

Two plate glass windows at the Deffebach Insurance Agency were shattered either late last night or early this morning, police reported.

Damage in the incident was estimated at over $500. Sgt. Jerry Parker and Lt. Clay Scogin are investigating the criminal mischief.

Other reports list two minor traffic accidents worked yesterday by officer Don Cheek.

The first occurred about 8 a.m. in the 300 block of Ave. C. It involved a 1976 pickup truck driven by Michael Duncan and a 1975 GMC pickup driven by Thurman Pott.

The other wreck was at 11:46 a.m. in the 4100 block of College Ave. It involved a 1972 Oldsmobile driven by Troy Lynn Grisham and a parked 1973 Chevrolet owned by Marshall Erwin and a parked 1969 Ford owned by Jack Dupree.

OBITUARIES

Conroe Rites

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Thursday in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for Earl Wiley Conroe, 71, who died early Tuesday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. Ken Andress will officate, and burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

ABC This Weeks Loser In Prime Time Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)-For the first time in more than a year, ABC has finished last in the networks' prime-time ratings race, a condition due in large measure to a couple of popular movies and CBS' "60 Minutes."

CBS, in the meantime, listed two of the three highest-rated programs in the week ending Nov. 25, and won the competition for the second consecutive week, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. NBC's advance to No. 2 broke a five-week run in last place.

The week's two highest-rated programs, movies on NBC and CBS, were on the air at the same time Sunday night.

"Smokey and the Bandit" on NBC had a rating of 31.8, a 10th of a point ahead of CBS' movie, "Oh God!". Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 31.8 percent saw at least part of the NBC movie, and nearly that percentage watched all or a portion of CBS' film.

"Smokey and the Bandit," with Burt Reynolds and Sally Fields, aired 8-10 p.m. EST, and "Oh God!" with George Burns and John Denver was broadcast 9-11 the same night.

ABC, which finished No. 3 the week ending July 9, 1978, still leads the three-way race for the season, though the margin separating the frontrunner from CBS has diminished in recent weeks.

CBS' rating for the week was 19.8, to 19.3 for NBC and 17.8 for ABC. The network say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.8 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

Continuing series, as they have in recent weeks, were a shot in the arm for CBS — "60 Minutes" in third place, "Dukes of Hazzard" sixth, "Dallas" eighth, "M-A-S-H" 14th.

ABC's best for the week, "Three's Company," was No. 4, and NBC's top-rated regular program, "Real People," was 10th.

NBC's second plaee finish came despite heavy representation at the bottom of the ratings list - "Eischeid" 55th, followed by "A Man Called Sloane" and "Prime Time Sunday." A CBS special, "Raggedy Ann and Andy," was 58th, and a movie on the same network, "Letters from Frank" with Art Carney, was 59th for the week last.

The week's 10 highest-rated programs:

Movie-"Smokey and the Bandit," with a rating of 31.8 representing 24.3 million homes, NBC; Movie-"Oh God," 31.7 or 24.2 million, and "60 Minutes," 31.6 or 24.1 million, both CBS; "Three's Company," 26.7 or 20.4 million, and "Angie," 24.5 or 18.8 million, both ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 23.7 or 18.1 million, CBS; "Happy Days," 23.6 or 18 million, ABC; "Dallas" and "A Charlie Brown Thanksgiving," both 23.2 of 17.7 million, both CBS; and "Real People," 23.1 or 17.6 million, NBC.

The next 10 shows: "Bob Hope on Campus," NBC's, and "Taxi," ABC, tie; "Little House on the Prairie," NBC; "M-A-S-H" and Movie-"Turning Point," both CBS; "Vegas," ABC; "Archie Bunker's Place," CBS, and "Charlie's Angels," ABC, tie, and "Eight is Enough" and "Love Boat," both ABC.

Soviets Reduce Economic Goals

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Parliament met today to approve reduced economic targets for next year after President Leonid Brezhnev reported that this year's grain harvest -- the worst since 1975 -- is 48 million tons short of the goal and oil output is off 10 million tons.

Because of the low harvest, Western specialists expect the Soviet government may buy all 25 million tons of corn and wheat the U.S. Department of Agriculture will allow to be sold to the Soviet Union in the 1979-80 fiscal year.

The scaled-down economic plan, which is expected to be routinely approved by the 1,500 members of the Parliament, or Supreme Soviet, calls for industrial output to rise by 4.5 percent in 1980 over this year's level.

The growth target for this year had been 5.7 percent over 1978. But Soviet economists have estimated the growth actually achieved at about 4.2 percent.

Nikolai Baibakov, chief of the state economic planning organization, presented to parliament members a series of production targets for 1980, many of them lower than those envisaged in late 1975 when the Soviet Union announced its 1976-80 economic plan.

Baibakov said oil production is targeted at 606 million tons for next year, against an original goal of 620-640 million tons for 1980. Steel production is planned for 150 million tons, compared to 160-170 million tons originally planned.

Man Treated For Overdose

A 22-year-old man was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital last night following an apparent drug overdose. This morning he was listed in stable condition.

Police were notified of the incident about 8:25 p.m. The overdose is alleged to have occurred at a house north of town. The subject was taken to the hospital by a member of his family.

The incident is still under investigation.
