HICKMAN EVADES SEATTLE POLICE

HOPE ABANDONED FOR CREW ON S-4

ADMIRAL SAYS ALL MEN DEAD; NAVY DEPARTMENT ORDERS SALVAGE WORK CONTINUED

OPEN CRITICISM MADE OF NAVY METHODS IN RESCUE WORK

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Dec. 22.—Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby in charge of salvage operations at the sunken submarine S-4, admitted at 11 o'clock today that there was no longer hope that life existed on board the submarine.

"I have not the slightest doubt that there is no life on the S-4," Admiral Brumby said.

The admiral said he was unable to announce when rescue operations would be suspended.

"That is up to the navy department at Washington," he said. "We have been keeping Washington informed of the progress of the S-4 operations from here."

All officers agreed. All the officers directing salvage work here agreed with the admiral that there was no longer room for hope for the six men imprisoned in the torpedo room of the submarine.

Admiral Brumby's statement was made 115 hours after the S-4 was sent to the bottom in collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding last Saturday. Thirteen hours had passed since air lines were attached to the listening tube of the S-4 and air forced into the torpedo room.

Extremely Faint Hope

There is an extremely faint hope that one or two of the six men imprisoned in the torpedo room may have remained alive until fresh air reached them and were too weak to answer signals.

Admiral Hughes, chief of operations, said until it is absolutely proved that no one is alive aboard the vessel operations will go forward with all speed possible.

Navy To Continue Salvage Operations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—While the navy department has not received official word from Rear Admiral Brumby that no life exists on the S-4 and although he has not

Slayer Of Woman In Operation Sought

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP)—A man masquerading as Dr. Irvin A. Cole was sought by police today to answer a charge of murdering Mrs. Betty Buckles, 25, while attempting to perform an illegal operation. Mrs. Buckles' body was found when police burst into the purported physician's deserted office.

The original Dr. Irvin A. Cole, a physician and now coroner of Fresno county, New York told the Associated Press that the masquerader was probably a class mate at the Buffalo Medical school.

Police said the board of medical examiners denied ever having issued a California license to a Dr. Irvin A. Cole.

Many Of Schooner's Crew Die In Crash

GIANT CHANGE IN SCHOOLS OF BAPTISTS SEEN

REMOVAL OF BAYLOR TO DALLAS IS HINTED BY COMMISSION

AUSTIN, Dec. 22.—Consolidation of smaller Baptist schools that have not been self supporting into one large school and possible removal of Baylor university from Waco to Dallas, have been discussed by the commission delegated by the general Baptist convention of Texas to help solve educational problems confronting the Baptist church in Texas, Judge O. S. Lattimore, member of the Baptist educational commission said here today.

"I do not believe that the educational commission of the Baptist church would decide such a serious step as the removal of Baylor university from Waco to Dallas without first submitting it to the convention and letting that body convene of messengers from every Baptist church in Texas," he said.

"It is possible that the educational commission will recommend that a called meeting of the Texas Baptist convention be held soon to pass on the question."

Send Youth and Leisure With Your Gift

Will your gift to Her this Christmas make her feel younger . . . look fresher through the year? Will it bring her more of those leisure hours she talks about so wistfully? If it is to bring her what she most values, it will bring her both leisure and youth.

Then give them to her, with a Premier Duplex. It can lighten the heaviest of all her household tasks. And shorten the longest of them. With double action it rushes through the work . . . yet it does it thoroughly. Together, its motor driven brush and strong suction free the grit, sweep up the threads, and bag all the dirt. Quickly and easily.

And the Premier Duplex will never need a moment of her care. Ball-bearing, it will clean for her without oiling, for a lifetime.

And as each day ends, you will look across the dinner table at her youthful untired face . . . listen to her tell of an afternoon's happy leisure . . . and remind yourself gratefully of your Christmas wisdom.

SCHAEFER WINS BILLIARD BELT FROM COCHRAN

SUCCEEDS TO CROWN THIRD TIME AND IS THIRD IN YEAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The world's 18.2 ball line billiard crown rested today on the brow of young Jake Schaefer of Chicago, the third successor to the diadem within a year.

Has Held Title Twice

The new champion succeeds to a title he has held twice before— in 1921 and 1925.

Although defeated in this week's match by nearly 200 points, the score fails to indicate the gallant fight Cochran put up to save his crown after a complete lapse in his usual control of the ivory ball.

With Cochran's downfall, Schaefer becomes the third new champion in less than a year. Hoppe dethroned Eric Hagenlacher, early in January and relinquished the title to Cochran in March when the Californian won the international tournament at Washington.

Crop Conditions In Randall Good

CANYON, Dec. 22.—Crop conditions in Randall county are much better than could reasonably be expected, with the continued dry weather, according to experienced farmers here.

Wheat which was planted in summer fallowed land is in good condition, and much other wheat will come out if moisture comes soon.

Stock is in excellent condition, and the weather has been extremely favorable to the poultry raiser and the dairyman.

Snow has been indicated here for several days, and its coming will be welcomed by farmers and business men.

SAUERS DEFEATS KANSAS GIANT IN TWO HOUR MATCH

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Pete Sauer, Phoenix heavyweight grappler, defeated Dick Daviscourt, the Wichita, Kansas, giant, in a two hour match here last night.

Young Sauer brought his cradle hold into play to obtain the only fall of the match after one hour and 31 minutes of wrestling.

Both grapplers put on a rough house exhibition with Sauers having the best of the going most of the time. He tossed Daviscourt out of the ring four times while the Wichita man was able to hurl Sauers out only once, that with a knockdown that would have gone for several counts in a boxing ring, gave Sauers the edge in the rough and tumble.

RISKO HAS TO BE RECOGNIZED

HIS VICTORIES FORCE RICKARD TO ADMIT HIM TO TOP RUNG

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Following his victories over Paulino and Phil Scott, the British heavyweight champion, Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight has practically forced himself into elimination tournament by which Tex Rickard hopes to find the logical challenger for Gene Tunney in the next heavyweight championship fight.

Although Jimmy Johnston, Scott's manager, claims his man was made the victim of a raw decision in Cleveland when Patsy Haley gave the fight to Risko, Scott has failed to make a serious impression upon the Garden match makers. He is admitted to be a polished but he hasn't the color that Rickard wants.

Risko probably will be offered a match against the winner of the coming contest between Jack Sharkey and Tom Heeney and if he should be able to win he would be in line for a crack at Jack Dempsey.

While Risko is looked upon as a sort of clown fighter here, there are some smart critics who think he would give Dempsey plenty of trouble. He is of the Willie Meehan and Harry Greb style of boxer and it is a matter of record that Dempsey couldn't do much with either one of them when he was at his best.

Rickard probably would prefer to have Risko out of the way but as long as he continues to mess up the New York promoters' pets he cannot be ignored.

BIG CLIMAX ON SCOUT ACTIVITY PLANNED IN CITY

Scout activities for 1927 will be climaxed by a series of meetings during the coming week. The final court of honor for the Lubbock scouts will be held on Friday night, December 30 with Board of Review meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, December 27 and 28. All applications for badges or certificates must be in scout headquarters by December 26, it was announced this morning.

Tonight a first aid and civics class will be held in the scout headquarters for the boys. W. P. Knox, scout executive, will be in Spur tonight where he will hold a court of honor there.

Monday night, a number of officials of the city will go to Ropesville where they will present the charter to the Troop Number 34 which was recently organized there.

A greater program of activities, filled with intensive scout training work, is scheduled for the coming year of the South Plains Council. It was learned from officials this morning. Soon after the opening of the new year, major projects will be announced.

IMPROVED RURAL MAIL SERVICE ON ROUTES OKEHD

In pursuance of a notice received by Postmaster John L. Vaughn from E. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman telling of his personal visit with the fourth assistant at Washington, improved rural mail service including the extension of route 1 and rearrangement of routes 2 and 3 will be in effect after January 16. It was learned at the postoffice this morning. The application for the additional service for the local office has been before the department for several months and the granting is largely due to the efforts of Mr. Creager in courtesy to Mr. Vaughn. The new service will give mail to more than 100 additional families in the county.

SNOW BIG HELP TO XMAS SPIRIT AT ABERNATHY

ABERNATHY, Dec. 22.—Aber-nathy and community lies covered in five inches of snow today, and hearts are gay over the prospect of the coming wheat crop for 1928. Many acres of wheat have been planted in this section and good stands of wheat have been obtained; the weather has been dry and many have had the blues over their prospects until this good snow has fallen. Trading has taken on a new life and merchants are busy writing of their customers. Christmas sales are heavy and the next two or three days will see possibly the heaviest sales of the year.

A Christmas tree at the school auditorium will be one of the main community events for this week and many are expected to participate. A good purse has been collected for the payment of Old Santa and Santa will be there with his sack stuffed. All the kiddies will receive presents from his sack. Then after their return home Santa is expected to pay them another visit as usual filling their stockings with toys and candies. School closed Wednesday for the Christmas vacation giving the boys and girls several days in which to enjoy their frivolities of the season.

Littlefield Gets Big Fall Of Snow

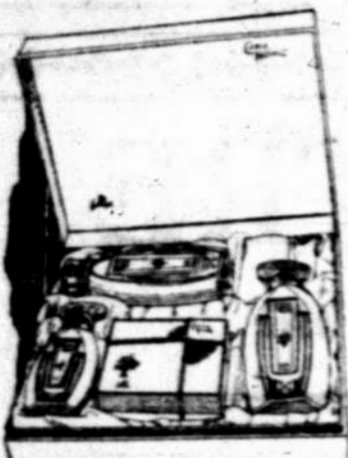

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 22.—This country is blanketed this morning with about an inch of snow. There is no wind blowing, the snow will all melt and add to the already good season which the rains of last week left. This will be a great deal of benefit to the wheat, a large acreage of which has been planted. The farmers generally have completed the work of harvesting their crops and will be busy now preparing their lands for next season. The general conditions are the best the country has ever known.

SOME GO HOME WHILE OTHERS REMAIN TO CARRY ON WORK

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 22.—Christmas holidays are not going to interfere with unofficial work of the investigating committee of the self-called legislature into the acts of various state officials, Tom Johnson, one of the four original session leaders said today.

Although many of the sessionists had left Oklahoma City today to spend Christmas at their homes, there will be from four to ten of the session leaders at the headquarters of the investigating committee in a downtown hotel all of the time, Mr. Johnson said. These men, he continued, will proceed to map out the program of the investigating committee, and will handle such routine business as may come up.

Not Downhearted Blocked by court injunction from collecting the transportation and per diem which they contend the legislators should receive, the session leaders said they are not downhearted. Although admitting that money is one of the big factors confronting them, session leaders remain firm in their belief that the "other remedy" which they said yesterday they had to combat the court injunctions, would prove adequate, and open the way to further investigation by the committee.

Trail Picked Up Thru Haberdasher

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 22 (AP)—A red hot trail of William Edward Hickman, suspected kidnaper and murderer of little Marian Parker in Los Angeles, picked up by the police a few minutes after he presumably left a haberdashery here, led through Seattle today with 600 officers of the law only a few minutes behind him.

Bill Shown Police This search for the fiend who mangled the little daughter of Perry M. Parker, Los Angeles bank official and dumped the torn body almost at the feet of the distracted father after receiving $1,500, switched from California to the state of Washington with electrical evidence last night when an excited haberdasher showed the police a $20 bill identified as one of those which Parker had given the kidnaper.

Feverish Search Feverishly the police hunted, believing that their quarry was heading for the Canadian line, or a ship bound for the Orient. The clue was regarded as the hottest that has been uncovered since the search began, and police believe that if the accused youth continues to leave a trail of $20 bills—he had 75 of them, all marked with their number— he knows the police when he made the "deal" with little Marian's father—he will be caught.

Present 520 Bill Then he pulled from a pocket a $20 gold certificate, gave it to the proprietor, who placed it in the register and made change. The young man walked out of the store.

Without a minute's delay, the haberdasher took from the cash register the bill and telephoned Captain William Kent, chief of detectives.

California Given Brief Rest Today LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22 (AP)—Southern California officers who have been following what now appears to have been "cold trails" in the hunt for William Edward Hickman, accused "fox" in the kidnaping and slaying of little Marian Parker, settled back for brief rest today while Seattle police took up the battle of wits with the wily youth who has eluded one of the greatest man hunting machines ever set in motion on the Pacific coast.

Satisfied With Report Chief of Detective Herman Cline declared he was confident that the man who paid a Seattle clothier with one of the seventy five $20 gold certificates given the school girl's slayer for her dismembered

HICKMAN, SOUGHT IN BRUTAL SLAYING CONTINUES TO ELUDE POLICE ON COAST

Extra Hickman, mother of the suspect resides. Detectives are Present Dr. Mantz received the call at his office Tuesday in the presence of two detectives who happened to be discussing the Los Angeles kidnaping with him. This was revealed when the Kansas City Star last night was informed in an anonymous message from St. Louis that the children of the physician had been threatened.

The St. Louis informant first asked the Star if there were any developments in the Parker case. Told there were none, he said: "Well, I'll give you a tip. Dr. Mantz knows a lot about it. He has had contact with that fellow. He was in Kansas City Tuesday and threatened Dr. Mantz. He is scared to death."

Identity Not Revealed After refusing to reveal his identity, the informant terminated the call. Dr. Mantz then admitted receipt of the call and told of his concern for his three children. He said the man first demanded if the physician recognized his voice. Dr. Mantz said he did not.

When the man told the physician he was the bandit who held him up and took his car here last fall, Dr. Mantz signaled the detectives and they started to trace the call. "I wouldn't be in all this trouble if it were not for you," the man said. "I'm going to get one of your girls. You know what will happen to her."

REMEMBER THE VITAL SPOTS ON YOUR CHASSIS—

In faulty lubrication lies the cause of 80 per cent of all the repairs on your car. It's the 15 to 60 hard-wearing dust exposed chassis bearings below the body line that cause most grief.

Old-fashioned oil and grease cups were largely to blame, but today most manufacturers have given you a new method of lubrication—the Alemite System—now in use on 7,000,000 cars. Instead of grease and oil cups, the Alemite gun shoots fresh lubricant through each bearing and cleans out old, gritty grease at the same time, keeping the bearings clean as well as lubricated.

Our special equipment and the fact that we are the Official Alemite Service Station in Lubbock enables us to give you quick and thorough lubrication.

When the first diver to descend this morning was William Wickwire, who was also the first to be lowered yesterday. He was instructed by Commander Edward Ellsberg, in charge of diving operations, to land on the bow of the S-4 and disentangle an air line and a descending line which had become fouled. He was then to drop over the starboard side of the vessel to the bottom.

Wickwire First Diver The first diver to descend this morning was William Wickwire, who was also the first to be lowered yesterday. He was instructed by Commander Edward Ellsberg, in charge of diving operations, to land on the bow of the S-4 and disentangle an air line and a descending line which had become fouled. He was then to drop over the starboard side of the vessel to the bottom.

Refers to "Lost" Situation "When the S-4 was lost all day yesterday, from morning to night, why wouldn't they give those newspaper boys the truth?"

"They wouldn't tell the newspaper men that the submarine was lost. They gave out wrong stories, and the boys had to resort to speculating in many cases. The rope attached to the submarine never should have become detached or broken, causing yesterday's delay. They could have worked all day yesterday. They could have worked the day before."

Connected Last Night Hours after navy experts had believed the men could survive, divers at 10 p. m. last night made fast a hose to the listening tube of the torpedo room and the long process of expelling the foul air was started.

No Indications of Life had been discovered at 2 o'clock this morning after air had been pumped into the compartment for five hours. At that hour diving operations were suspended by the salvage ships until 7 o'clock.

The air line connection was made after a day of heart-breaking delay occasioned by the "loss" of the submarine by the fleet.

It was not until after dark that the destroyer Paulding last Saturday. The sea was smooth, the wind which for two days had blown at gale force, had died away and the temperature at the bottom had risen almost 17 degrees to 51, permitting divers to work in comparative comfort.

But when the fleet prepared to take advantage of the favorable weather conformation arose when it was discovered that a line leading from the S-4 to a marking buoy had become detached and the vessel was lost.

Divers were rushed below the surface from the mine sweeper Falcon flagship of Rear Admiral Frank H. Rumby, commanding the rescue forces, and for hours they probed the bottom of the ocean.

It was not until after dark that the shattered bulk was located by grappling and diver D. M. Bird shouted through his telephone "I'm on the submarine."

At once work was redoubled and by 9:30, half an hour before the air line was connected, seven men had taken turns below the water.

The oscillator of the mine sweeper Falcon, flagship of the salvage fleet sent messages to the S-4 at 15 minute intervals all night.

10 Hours of Fresh Air When work was resumed today after a five hour suspension the air compressor of the Falcon had been forcing air into the torpedo room of the S-4 for more than 10 hours.

Simon Lake, an expert in submarine construction, sent a radio message to the Falcon from his home at Bridgeport, Conn., stating that there should have been enough air in the torpedo room of the S-4 to last one man 700 hours.

He computed that there should have been sufficient to keep six men alive 116 2-3 hours. The men might be unconscious for many hours before they died, the message said. At eight o'clock this morning they had been approximately 113 hours in their steel prison.

Why don't they do something? is the cry heard everywhere in Provincetown, Mr. Gifford said. "I went to Provincetown because of the terrific criticism that came to me. I knew the people there would tell me just how they felt. While I dislike to say too much, I found their criticism obviously justified."

Refers to "Lost" Situation "When the S-4 was lost all day yesterday, from morning to night, why wouldn't they give those newspaper boys the truth?"

The Blazing Horizon

THE STORY THUS FAR:
The story begins in 1880, in the wicked little cow-town of Caldwell, Kan., close to the Indian territory border.

TONY HARRISON, 13-year-old son of JEFF HARRISON, a handsome sportsman, was killed when TOM BENTON, a cattle thief, shoots his father in a poker game.

The boy is befriended by GORDON W. LILLIE, then a restaurant waiter and later known as PAWNEE BILL; by JOE CRAIG, foreman of the Bar K ranch, who takes Tony to the Bar K to live, and by COLONEL TITUS MOORE, owner of the ranch.

Lillie thinks somewhat of joining DAVID PAYNE, who is agitating for the opening of the Indian territory lands, but he gets an offer of a school teaching post in Pawnee and accepts it.

At the Bar K Tony Harrison meets RITA MOORE, spirited little daughter of Titus Moore.

the third, a maid named Ingle Olson, pleaded tearfully to be allowed to stay.

The young man was in a difficult position. He was not aware that some of the Pawnee maidens regarded him with a great deal more favor than they did the men of their tribe, but he tactfully and wisely chose to ignore these little evidences. It was unthinkable, of course, to let Ingle Olson stay at the school, and when he questioned her for a reason she murmured something incoherent about not wanting to marry one of the Pawnees.

"I'm sorry, of course," he told her, "but you'll have to go." And so she did.

A few days later he chanced to wander over on the tribal reservation and noticed that a celebration was under way. It was a private party, it seemed, and he was not welcome. But he learned that Ingle Olson had been forced to marry a crippled Indian whose name was Lane George. Lane George, it developed, had paid her uncle seven horses for her.

Pawnee Bill now understood why Ingle Olson had been reluctant to leave the boarding school. He felt very sorry for her, and indignantly resolved to do something about it.

CHAPTER XI

So accustomed had the Pawnees come to the white man's ways that they had begun to use white men's names for their children. This Spotted Horse's son was called Frank West, and the most tractable Indian in Gordon Lillie's class was a young brave named Colonel Meacham. He was a wicked looking redskin, crooked faced, cross eyed and surly.

On numerous occasions he had given evidence of an aversion to school room discipline and one day after a particularly hostile demonstration on Colonel Meacham's part, Lillie decided to keep him in after the others had gone so that he might reflect on the error of his ways and the virtues of obedience.

The room was heated by a large stove at one end and Lillie was the fireman. Colonel Meacham, sullen faced and ugly, was seated at his place when Lillie, suddenly remembering that the fire needed stoking, walked over to the stove, picked up the poker and began to stir the ashes preparatory to feeding the fire another charge of wood.

His back was to Colonel Meacham as he bent in front of the stove. In fact, he had forgotten temporarily, all about his recalcitrant pupil. A slight noise behind him made him turn and there hand, advancing on him in a swift rush.

There was no retreating; the stove was in his way. There was only one thing to do and Lillie did it. He swung the poker, picked up the poker like a dog and lay still.

For a minute or two the young school teacher thought he had killed him. There was an ugly splash in his head and a fast-enlarging pool of blood on the floor. Presently though, Colonel Meacham stirred, and Lillie went for aid.

The young Indian was in the hospital for several weeks, after which he was transferred to the boarding school and out of Lillie's jurisdiction. This was deemed a matter of policy by the superintendent, to hush up the incident and lessen the likelihood of further clashes between the two.

It was about this time that Lillie was given the nickname that was destined to stick to him for life. Few, to begin with, consider his immediate family, called him Gordon. He was known as Bill Lillie. But because of the plentitude of Bills in that part of the country there had to be something else to go with it—and Bill Lillie was heard to say: "I lacked euphony and sounded too much like Bill Lillie."

Inasmuch as Bill Lillie was the Bill who worked and lived among the Pawnee Indians, someone started calling him Pawnee Bill and the name stuck.

The nickname was a happy accident for Lillie. It was to mean as much to him, in a day when the emphasis was laid on the picturesque, as the names of Buffalo Bill and Wild Bill did, respectively, to William F. Cody and James Butler Mickok.

The undeveloped youth who had come riding down from Wellington, Kan., uncertain whether he could handle the man-sized job he had agreed to undertake, was now a figure to command respect in any gathering. He was not tall, but he was broad shouldered and powerful looking. Thick, wavy brown hair that glistened like copper in the sun, fell in a cascade to his shoulders. His eyes were piercing. A long mustache adorned his upper lip. He wore a buckskin hunting shirt, open at the throat, and a large, broad brimmed hat.

He gave the appearance of one who was well able to take care of himself. As has been remarked before, he was not one to go around raising disturbances. Quite on the other hand, if he could avoid a fight in a decent manner he would do it. His father, who had been born of Scotch parentage and a true pioneer in every sense of the word, and part of Gordon Lillie's heritage was the Scotsman's stubborn fearlessness which is characterized by caution rather than recklessness or turbulence.

After he had been in Pawnee a little more than a year there was some trouble in the boarding school and the superintendent of that was relieved. Pawnee Bill was put in charge temporarily, awaiting the appointment from Washington of a new one. He might have got a job himself, but there were two things against him: his youth and his lack of political influence.

He gave the appearance of one who was well able to take care of himself. As has been remarked before, he was not one to go around raising disturbances. Quite on the other hand, if he could avoid a fight in a decent manner he would do it. His father, who had been born of Scotch parentage and a true pioneer in every sense of the word, and part of Gordon Lillie's heritage was the Scotsman's stubborn fearlessness which is characterized by caution rather than recklessness or turbulence.

After he had been in Pawnee a little more than a year there was some trouble in the boarding school and the superintendent of that was relieved. Pawnee Bill was put in charge temporarily, awaiting the appointment from Washington of a new one. He might have got a job himself, but there were two things against him: his youth and his lack of political influence.

Before the new superintendent arrived the Christmas holidays were at hand. Pawnee Bill notified the Indians that the school would be closed during the holidays and the meals served, but three of the Indian girls disobeyed orders and remained. Lillie emphatically ordered them back to the reservation and two of them complied, but the third, a maid named Ingle Olson, pleaded tearfully to be allowed to stay.

The young man was in a difficult position. He was not aware that some of the Pawnee maidens regarded him with a great deal more favor than they did the men of their tribe, but he tactfully and wisely chose to ignore these little evidences. It was unthinkable, of course, to let Ingle Olson stay at the school, and when he questioned her for a reason she murmured something incoherent about not wanting to marry one of the Pawnees.

"I'm sorry, of course," he told her, "but you'll have to go." And so she did.

A few days later he chanced to wander over on the tribal reservation and noticed that a celebration was under way. It was a private party, it seemed, and he was not welcome. But he learned that Ingle Olson had been forced to marry a crippled Indian whose name was Lane George. Lane George, it developed, had paid her uncle seven horses for her.

Pawnee Bill now understood why Ingle Olson had been reluctant to leave the boarding school. He felt very sorry for her, and indignantly resolved to do something about it.

He reported the incident to Major Bowman, the Indian agent. Bowman made a report to Washington and the incident served to put a stop to the practice of selling Pawnee girls in marriage.

There was no more trouble from the Pawnee braves. They held him in great respect, seemingly, and invited him out to their teepees, where they treated him as a brother. Even Spotted Horse accorded him a great honor, permitting him to behold a scalp dance in the great council house. The scalp dance was a very impressive ceremony to the Indian and he very jealously guarded it from the white man's eyes. The one staged by Spotted Horse was the only one Pawnee Bill ever attended during all his years among the Indians.

There is reason to believe that the Indian's respect for Pawnee Bill increased as his hair grew longer. Although this might seem ridiculous, it is a known fact that the Indian accounts an act of bravery, and profound disregard for the fate of his scalp, for a man to let his hair grow long.

Frank J. Wilstock, in his book "What Bill Hickok says," Alfred Henry Jones in quotes of the famous "Wolfville" stories, "and who had himself spent many years on the border when a young man," as delivering the following with respect to Wild Bill's long hair:

"He (Hickok) had let his hair grow long in years when the transaction of his business, hopes and fears gave him much to do with Indians. The American savage possesses theories that yield neither to evidence nor argument. He believes that every pale-face who cuts short his hair, dips up in a straw denial of a scalp in whatever enemy may rise victorious over him. Such cowardly he condemns. On the guileless other hand, he holds that the long haired man's warrior bold flaunting defiance with every toss of his mane. That long, hairy mane may rob and cheat and swindle and cuff and kick your savage; the latter will neither murmur nor lift a hand against him. For is not he who robs and cheats and swindles and cuffs and kicks a chief? And is not his flowing hair a franchise so to do?"

The new superintendent arrived and assumed his duties. Pawnee Bill received the unpleasant impression that he was going to dislike the man. It was apparent that he had his eye not so much on the schools as on the job field by Major Bowman. The new man was a minister, and from things he said from time to time, Lillie was convinced that he was no friend of Bowman's.

He reported this state of affairs to the major, but Bowman laughed. "I reckon as long as I run this office right I can hold it," was his answer.

One day an inspector in the Indian service came to Pawnee and the new superintendent was closeted with him in a lengthy session. Not long afterward came word that Bowman was to be dropped. Pawnee Bill was indignant and expressed himself rather forcibly in front of the minister-superintendent.

He told Bowman: "That man lied about you to the inspector. Thereupon he and Bowman wrote complaints to Senator Logan of Illinois and appealed for a square deal. Bowman remained in office."

But even if the superintendent's first bit of conniving did fall short of its mark, he was not through. He had observed with great annoyance the evidence of Pawnee Bill's loyalty to Major Bowman. That loyalty, he believed, should belong to Pawnee Bill's superior.

Lillie stroled into Bowman's quarters one day to find the latter greatly agitated.

"Bill," he said, "your boss has filed charges against you."

"What kind of charges?"

Bowman reddened uncomfortably. "What would be the easiest kind to prefer against a young fellow in your shoes? I don't believe them, of course."

Then Lillie understood. Without a word he walked from Bowman's presence and stormed into the office of his superior. He was angry enough to commit murder.

"What's this," he demanded hotly, "about you preferring charges against me?"

"I can't have a young man under me whose morals are not all they should be," was his answer.

Then Pawnee Bill hit him, and for the second time since coming to the place he came very near to killing a man.

Pawnee Bill finds it advisable to leave the Indian territory, with a charge of attempted murder against him. In the next chapter...

It used to be that a man had to have a certain amount of business acumen to make a fortune. Such is not the case now. It has gotten so in this country that the man with the invention, the man with business wit and fore-sight, the man with the broad vision in commerce has been forced to take a back seat when it comes to counting the well known checks.

It seems that in our popular songs particularly, the composer who can make the public chuckle quicker reaps the most rapid reward. The words don't have to be brilliant or even clever as long as they "get over" as long as they are "different".

Coolidge's Message Shows New Attitude On Farm, Navy And Muscle Shoals Questions, Rodney Dutcher Writes

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NIA Service Writer WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The president's message of the new congress makes especially interesting reading when read in conjunction with his message to the last congress two years ago.

He made it known that he left out some subjects for lack of space but he discussed 24 subjects in 21 pages as compared with 27 subjects in 25 pages in December, 1925. Subdivisions of the 1925 message which did not appear this year were World Court, Budget, Foreign Debt, Immigration, Reclamation, Retirement of Judges, Aid, Civil Service, Federal Trade Commission and Government Reorganization. New sections included those on Commercial Aviation, Pan-American Air Mail, Good Roads in Latin America, Cuban Affairs, Protective Tariff, Farm Loan System, Flood Control, American Indian, Petroleum Conservation, Education, Department of Labor, Public Buildings and Historical Collections.

The messages are alike in many respects, but on three important subjects President Coolidge has changed his attitude. These are farm relief, naval armaments and Muscle Shoals. More "crusaders" of course, are held to be necessary as the result of the failure of the Geneva conference and new developments have altered the complexion of the Muscle Shoals problem, but the president's remarks on agriculture obviously were a concession to politics for, while noting a great improvement in the farmer's condition, he was willing to go considerably further before.

Agriculture relegated as far back as page 15 two years ago, has now appeared on page 8. Linked with the protective tariff and the farm loan system it received nearly four pages, as compared with a page and a half in 1925.

Then, Mr. Coolidge said agriculture as a whole had improved in the previous three or four years, but that many localities and groups were still in a "distressing" condition, which was "probably" temporary. The farmers, he was convinced, did not want any "government meddling" nor any system of direct or indirect price-fixing. A "new era in agricultural prosperity" which will probably be "unprecedented" but "just before us" and the president would recommend nothing more than a bill to enable the Department of Agriculture to give prompt information on crop prospects, supply, demand, imports, exports and so on.

The president told the new congress that the past year has seen a marked improvement in agriculture general condition, although the farmers had not fully recovered from the postwar depression. The farmer must be assisted only in working out "his own salvation."

Mr. Coolidge reiterated some of his prime arguments expressed in last year's McNary-Haugen veto statement, urged curtailment of surplus acreage and finally proposed a federal board of men experienced in marketing to assist and handling surpluses not due to willful overproduction, with provision for a low interest revolving loan fund. In short, the government would help the co-operatives.

Most important among the other new recommendations was that for a cabinet secretary for education and relief.

Two years ago the president discussed foreign relations only as affecting Europe and the Far East. This year and less at length, he named Mexico and Nicaragua, expressing hope for continued friendly relations with Mexico and satisfaction with the clean-up in Nicaragua. Elsewhere the president showed new interest in Latin America, recommending as early as pages 4 and 5 aviation and air mail service to Mexico and South America, more good roads to all principal points south of the Rio Grande with American engineering co-operation and removal of the parcel post ban of contention with Cuba.

With Our West BY JAMES L. DOW Contemporaries

ON NEW TRAFFIC REGULATIONS The Amarillo public is pretty good-natured when it comes to observing the traffic regulations, but it likes to be told when the police makes changes with the lights at various intersections.

People come down Taylor, for drive east on Seventh, and they to the left without looking at the light. They have been doing it right along. In fact have formed the habit of following certain routes when coming down town, and the first they know about the change is when the traffic officer calls them down.

The police, of course, are right in their attitude that "the sign isn't there now, and if you were careful in driving you would notice that it isn't," but the public would feel better about it if the changes were called to their attention. And it would be an easy matter for the police to issue a notice to the papers when the changes are to be made.—Amarillo News.

Lubbock people are also having some difficulty in getting on to the new signals, which have just been installed. Not that the traffic department is putting anything over during Sundays or holidays, but it is just a bit new to some people who have not been accustomed to the flash system of traffic signals.

There is always two sides to any ordinary matter, and there is two sides to the traffic regulations, and we believe that the traffic officers of this city are trying to be reasonable and fair with the public, but there must come a time for the rules to be strictly enforced if there are to amount to anything at all.

People should educate themselves to operating their cars in accordance with the rules of the light system. If they do not there is bound to be some smash ups right in the center of the city. Car drivers will as people walking across the streets must use their heads and their eyes as they can avoid any serious accidents.

People should respect the traffic code, and do as they bid. They are not doing it for a show of authority, but for the safety of the public. We have seen a few people become very angry and abuse the traffic directors for doing their duty. This is wrong, and no reasonable person will do that. Co-operate with the traffic department and there will be few accidents.

Partnership will continue between the people and the traffic officers.

When Congress convened there were 500 bills filed. But, like production of the new Ford, the first 500 are only a starter.

One of the courses in a western university is designed to teach the girls to walk. We thought the boys students attended to that.

POULTRY PROFIT DEMONSTRATED BY ROSCOE MAN

SWEETWATER, Dec. 22—Profit can be made from an average poultry flock in Nolan county as evidenced by what Mrs. L. O. Cardwell, living two miles south of Roscoe, did during this past year. She took 95 pullets on November 15, 1926 and kept an accurate account of all products sold from that date to November 15, 1927, which consisted of $250.00 worth of eggs, $113.95 worth of fryers, and has 140 pullets left that are worth $125 each, in addition to the original 95 pullets. She had all the eggs and chickens that she could get and gave away a large amount of each to her friends. During this time she bought only $122.78 worth of feed. This left her a net profit of $216.23 in cash, 140 additional pullets for this year's flock that are worth $172.00, chickens and eggs for home consumption during the entire year, making a total net profit of $488.23.

CHILDREN'S FATAL DISEASES

Worms and parasites in the intestines of children undermine health and so weaken their vitality that they are unable to resist the diseases so fatal to child life. The safe course is to give a few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge. It destroys and expels the worms without the slightest injury to the health or activity of the child. Price 35c. WHO AM I?

I am the kid that was born in Lubbock over six years ago. I will be seven next April.

I used to be a very little and the people in Lubbock did not understand me when I talked and I did not grow much for two or three years.

Up to that time only a few people took any interest in me, but those who did take care of me in my infancy are proud of me now.

Now that I am bigger, more people are taking an interest in me. I am just at an interesting age. You know that interest is an interesting thing, and the more interest you receive the more interested you become.

Well, to make a short story long, I will just tell you that I have, in my short life, accumulated and distributed to about seven hundred people $181,878.39 in interest. I call it Dividend, (which means the same thing), and, as I said before, that interest is why people are interested in me.

Good reader are you financially interested in me? If not why not?

Up to that time only a few people took any interest in me, but those who did take care of me in my infancy are proud of me now.

Now that I am bigger, more people are taking an interest in me. I am just at an interesting age. You know that interest is an interesting thing, and the more interest you receive the more interested you become.

Well, to make a short story long, I will just tell you that I have, in my short life, accumulated and distributed to about seven hundred people $181,878.39 in interest. I call it Dividend, (which means the same thing), and, as I said before, that interest is why people are interested in me.

Good reader are you financially interested in me? If not why not?

HORN ADDRESSES ROTARY CLUB IN PLAINVIEW MEET

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 22—Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological college at Lubbock, was the principal speaker at the annual ladies night banquet of the Plainview Rotary club, Tuesday evening at which one hundred Rotarians, their ladies and friends were present.

R. A. Underwood, vice-president of the First National bank of Plainview, delivered the annual Christmas address of the club. D. D. Bowman, president of the Plainview club presiding as toastmaster.

Dr. Horn spoke on the "Glorification of the Average Man," believing that to be the real work of Rotary International.

Held in Hotel Ware

The banquet was held in the Hotel Ware, and a committee headed by Mrs. Lewis Kiker, Mrs. L. J. Halbert, Mrs. W. T. Parnell and others had arranged the tables in the form of half a Rotary wheel with the hub at 4-30 place in front of which Santa Claus and his reindeers greeted the visitors. The setting for the banquet was said to be the most elaborate in the history of the local club.

Lorenzo News

By MRS. R. L. BOWMAN Staff Correspondent

On last Friday night, December 16, Robertson school had a very interesting program and a unique, profitable sale.

Merchants in Lubbock, Slaton, Lorenzo, Ralls, Robertson and Acuff showed a goodwill Christmas spirit by contributing articles of merchandise to be sold at auction. The sale was held and netted the school $235.55, which will be used to improve the various departments of the school.

The spotlight of the sale was the pretty girl contest. A diamond ring had been donated by Anderson Brothers Jewelry of Lubbock to be given the girl receiving the most votes as the prettiest or most popular girl. Miss Ella Brown, who was visiting in the community from Lubbock, received the most votes. Minter-Gammel of Lubbock gave a hat to the ugliest man. Everybody reported a good time.

Southwestern Bell Telephone company will expend $8,000,000 on improvement of service in Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

Price Named Head Of Canyon Legion

CANYON, Dec. 22—Hubert O. Price has been elected Post Commander of Palo Duro Post, 97, American Legion for 1923. With him will serve Frank R. Phillips, G. A. Farlow, Ray McReynolds, W. E. Lockhart, J. B. Fowler, John L. Oliver.

Ancient Violin Is Found In Blackwell

SWEETWATER, Dec. 22—A violin manufactured in Europe in 1711 was found in possession of C. A. Ragsdale of Blackwell community.

An expert, on looking it over stated that it was of the Stainer manufacture, and although it clearly shows its 216 years of age its tone is still perfect.

CHRISTMAS MAIL IS HEAVIEST IN CITY'S HISTORY

So far the Christmas mail in Lubbock has been the heaviest in the history of the local office, Postmaster John L. Vaughn reported this morning. This report is usually given out each year, he said, but actual figures prove it the truth for this season here.

With the major portion of his force working overtime during this week, current mail is now being handled in the office, he reported. Only a slight congestion will be experienced during the next two days, Mr. Vaughn thinks.

Postal receipts for the year are sure to exceed all others, he says, as the total now is greater than ever before and indications are that it will reach $90,000 before the end of next week.

New Ice Plant At Sweetwater Starts

SWEETWATER, Dec. 22—The Citizens Ice company's new $74,000 ice plant which is being erected in this city will be completed by the first of February, according to Myers and Johnson, contractors. The building is of Spanish type, built of brick and stone overlaid with stucco, and will have a floor space of approximately 5,400 square feet. Glenn Samples formerly of Plainview will be manager of the new plant.

Only Few Ballots In Poll Returned

Only ten per cent of the ballots mailed out in the annual election of directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development have been returned. It was reported at the offices of the organization this morning. About 400 more of the ballots should be returned by tomorrow night at 6 o'clock, the closing time of the election.

Five new directors will be elected to fill vacancies made by retiring members. Fifteen of the highest nominees will be sent to the city commission for selection of the five directors.

Nolan Turkey Crop Estimated 10,000

SWEETWATER, Dec. 22—The turkey crop for this year, 1922, has been estimated at approximately 10,000 by a local produce dealer in this city.

It is estimated that there are yet approximately 25 per cent of these turkeys to be marketed. This industry has proved very profitable for the farmers in this country.

Your Child's Cold Needs this Double Treatment

Children hate to be "dosed." When rubbed on, Vicks relieves colds 2 ways at once without "dosing":

- (1) Its healing vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages;
- (2) It "draws out" the soreness like an old-fashioned poultice.
