ROOSEVELT RIPS AL IN FIRST BID FOR VOTES

Heart Attack Kills S. M. N. Marrs, Superintendent Of Public Instruction

STATE SCHOOL DIRECTOR DIES AFTER STROKE

Educator Stricken While Active in A. & M. Contests

SERVING FIFTH TERM

Official Was Veteran In Texas Educational Progress

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, April 18. (AP)—S. M. N. Marrs, 70, veteran state superintendent of public instruction, died here at 9:30 o'clock tonight of heart disease. He had been stricken about seven hours earlier.

Marrs was here attending the annual Smith-Hughes judging contests. He suffered the attack this afternoon on the steps of the A. & M. college administration building while on his way to an appointment. He was given first aid and rushed to the college hospital. A brother, R. W. Marrs of Santo, Palo Pinto county, was with him at the time of the attack. Mrs. Marrs reached College Station before her husband's death.

Marrs was serving his fifth two-year term as state superintendent. He came to Texas in 1882 and served as school superintendent at Stephenville, Hamilton, Cleburne and Terrell.

After remaining at Terrell 25 years he went to Austin in 1919 to become chief supervisor of high schools under Miss Annie Webb Blanton, then state superintendent. He later became first assistant superintendent under Miss Blanton and then succeeded her as superintendent in 1923.

Marrs was born in January, 1862, at Gauley's bridge, Fayette county, West Virginia.

After the attack Marrs was intermittently rational until his death.

Surviving Relatives

Survivors follow: Brothers, A. M. of Strawn, J. E. of Thurber, J. F. of Smithville, W. R. of Santo; sisters, Miss Mary of Stephenville, Mrs. W. B. McAdams of Dallas; sons, R. N. of San Antonio, C. D. graduate student at A. & M., and S. N. of Austin; daughter, Mrs. John Weinzierl of Houston.

The superintendent's body was sent to Austin tonight. Date for the funeral service had not been set. L. W. Rogers, first assistant state superintendent, was with Marrs at the time of his death.

Claude Teer, chairman of the board of control, said burial of Marrs in the state cemetery would be tendered the family in recognition of his long service to public education. The wish of Mrs. Marrs

Man Killed, Youth Hurt As Box Cars Derail

HENNESSEY, Okla., April 18. (AP)—One man was killed and a youth badly injured when three box cars of a southbound Rock Island freight train they were riding were derailed yesterday afternoon.

An identification card on the body of the man indicated he was Robert Stacey, 35, of Wichita.

Suitable Help Satisfactory Positions

EMPLOYERS are TODAY more exacting than ever in the specifications which applicants must meet for positions that are to be filled. The applicants who are sent to them by reputable commercial employment agencies represent the PICK of the available candidates for the position. They receive a fuller hearing because they HAVE BEEN CHOSEN by trained, personal workers who are used to gauging the ability, experience and personality of the applicants and who have advance knowledge of the EXACT requirements made by the employer.

This function that the commercial employment agencies perform, saves TIME and ANNOYANCE for BOTH applicants and employers. It avoids "WILD-GOOSE CHASING" after positions for which the applicant is not qualified, and saves many unnecessary interviews for BOTH.

The Daily Times-Record News has been the official advertising medium of Wichita Falls, Northwest Texas and Southwestern Oklahoma Employment Agencies for many years. Their advertisements for the positions they have open appear in our classified columns.

One rotten egg spoils the whole pudding. And one misleading Classified Ad spoils a whole Classified Service—that is why the Daily Times-Record News is so careful to censor all the ads which appear in its Classified Section.

Trio Wounded In Two Gun Battles Between Officers And Bandits

ROSWELL, N. M., April 18. (AP)—James Williamson, 72, Chaves county deputy sheriff, was shot and probably fatally wounded early today when he attempted to arrest two of three men believed to have escaped officers near Roswell Saturday after robbery of the Kemp Lumber company at Elida, N. M., last Friday night.

Williamson encountered the men near Lake Arthur. They gave their names as Tom Jonas and W. H. Tannant, both of Pinon, N. M., and submitted to arrest. Williams drove into Lake Arthur and got J. R. Spence, a merchant, to help him take the prisoners to Artesia.

Both Draw Guns

About a mile and a half from Artesia, Tannat took out a pistol and ordered Williamson to stop. Spence, who was sitting on Tannat's lap, grabbed the gun and held it out the window and was immediately covered by another which Jonas produced. Williamson attempted to get out of the car and as he did was struck over the head with a pistol. Spence was pushed out of the way and Williamson was shot twice near the heart. He is not expected to live.

The two men then drove off in Williamson's car heading toward Hope. They cut telephone lines to the West, then disappeared. Williamson was taken to Carlsbad for treatment.

SUSPECTS TAKEN AFTER HOBBS BATTLE

LUBBOCK, Texas, April 18. (AP)—Two of five men believed to have engaged officers in a gun battle in Hobbs, N. M., early this afternoon were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller at Littlefield at about 5:30 o'clock. Two men, including a special officer, were wounded at Hobbs.

One of the men held at Littlefield lived there. His wife, operator of a beauty parlor, was reported to have packed her luggage and officers arrested her also. Her husband has a Lubbock police record. The men were arrested as they drove into Littlefield in a light coupe.

A man who gave his name as "Oklahoma Blackie" was being treated tonight in a Hobbs hospital for a bullet wound in the left chest. Name of the special officer was not learned here. His wound was not regarded as serious.

Three officers, including deputies John McCombs and Jack Seay and the special officer, attempted to arrest the men at a Hobbs house. They were repulsed with gunfire and according to reports here two men escaped in a coupe, and three men and a woman in a sedan. The woman was driving.

When the suspected bank robbers in the sedan were being hard pushed about nine miles north and east of Hobbs, the wounded man was pushed out of the car, according to information received by Deputy Miller.

J. W. Bradshaw, about 59, was arrested near Tatum, N. M., Friday and was charged with armed robbery in connection with the O'Donnell bank holdup, in which three men participated. He is being held at Tahoka without bond.

TWO KILLED IN TYLER SHOOTING

TYLER, Texas, April 18. (UP)—A man and a woman were killed here today as a result of a shooting in a downtown store, with a family quarrel the cause.

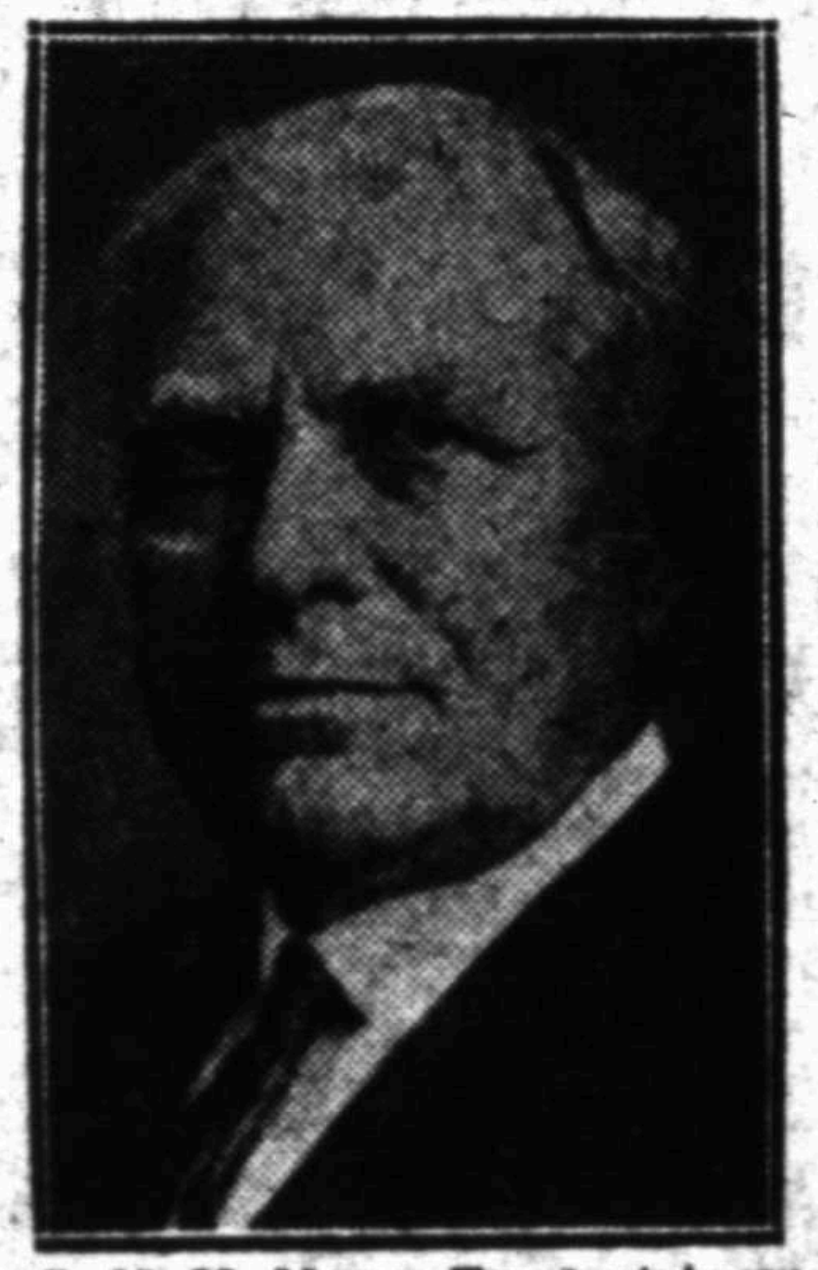
E. Q. Tate, 40, fatally shot Mrs. J. L. Perdue, 39, his sister-in-law, with a pistol. Witnesses said he then shot himself twice in the head. He died at a hospital shortly afterward.

Mrs. Perdue and her sister, Miss Hixie Crow, entered the store and were followed soon by Tate. P. W. Warren, a shoe clerk, said he saw Tate half walk, half run, to where Mrs. Perdue stood.

"As he came up he reached into his overalls and pulled out a pistol with both hands, tiptoed up and fired from his chest," Warren said. The clerk said the woman saw Tate before the shot was fired and turning to run when shot through the shoulder.

As she ran three more shots were fired. She fell six feet away. Tate then shot himself.

Educator Dies



S. M. N. Marrs, Texas state superintendent of public instruction, died Monday night at College Station, seven hours after he had suffered a heart attack. He was serving his 10th year as head of Texas' public school system.

CITY DELAYS VOTE ON TAXIS

Dime Cabs Seek Compromise on Ordinance

After two and a half hours of argument by attorneys representing local 10-cent taxi companies, established taxicab services, and the Wichita Falls Traction company, and by numerous private citizens, the city council Monday night deferred until next Monday night, April 25, final action on the proposed ordinance amendment fixing minimum fares which may be charged for passenger transportation in this city.

Council Room Crowded

Postponement of action upon the proposed measure was voted by the council in order to permit W. F. Caldwell, attorney for the 10-cent taxi companies, to submit some other regulating measure which he will seek to have adopted in lieu of the ordinance amendment now before the council. Mr. Caldwell expressed his belief that an adjusted schedule of transportation charges and territorial rights for the various passenger-carrying concerns could be worked out which would meet the demands of both sides to the controversy, and which would serve the best interests of the local public.

Monday night's meeting, according to the council, was the longest on record in the history of that body. It was attended by more than

Cooke County Sues Sheriff for Fees

GAINESVILLE, Texas, April 18. (UP)—The commissioners' court of Cooke county has filed a claim against Sheriff B. B. Browning and his bondsmen for $1,426.86, alleged due the county from excess fees collected by the sheriff.

The sheriff has employed counsel and will contest the claim. The amount involved was paid to a deputy and jailer and for automobile expenses, the sheriff contends. He asserts the expenditure was authorized.

Cold Prevents Stimson From Attending Parley

GENEVA, April 18. (AP)—Secretary of State Stimson, the victim of an annoying cold, remained in his 16th century villa all today while the disarmament conference debated a proposal for reduction in arms to be achieved by successive stages.

Negro to Be Executed For Hunt Farmer's Death

GREENVILLE, Texas, April 18. (AP)—James Williams, 27-year-old negro, will be electrocuted May 20 for the killing of Joe West, Hunt county farmer. District Judge L. L. Bowman reset the date today.

Williams had appealed to the court of criminal appeals at Austin but the sentence of death was affirmed. He also asked for a new hearing, but this was denied last Wednesday. The mandate was received here today.

Immediately after Judge Bowman passed sentence, the negro was taken to the state prison at Huntsville.

Miller Brothers Win Reversal Of Judgment Taking Their Land

DENVER, April 18. (UP)—In their first victory after a succession of defeats in litigation to save their famous 101 ranch and fortune, George W. Miller and Zach T. Miller today won a reversal of a judgment for the government in the United States circuit court of appeals.

The case involved large tracts of land in Kay and Noble counties, Oklahoma, which the Miller brothers purchased from the Ponca Indians. After the sale the government contended the land was obtained by fraud, that the Miller brothers took advantage of the red men.

In the federal district court the government obtained possession of the land and the Millers carried the case to the appeals court which today reversed 18 of the 20 findings of the district court.

The appeals court affirmed the lower findings on tracts formerly owned by Irving Standsblack and Claude Ironthunder, Ponca tribesmen.

The appeals court decision was by Circuit Court Judges Robert Lewis and George McDermott and District Judge J. Foster Symes, who sat with the appeals court on the case.

SILENCE FROM PRESS ASKED BY LINDBERGH

Claims Made That Presence Of Reporters Hinder Negotiations

STATEMENT MADE

Rumors Current Kidnapers Make New Demand For $100,000 Ransom

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 18. (AP)—The Lindberghs have been unable thus far to re-establish a definite contact with the kidnapers of their son, it was said, tonight in a new appeal from the flier for silence and secrecy for himself and his representatives.

Through state police came the following statement:

"The continued following of our representatives by members of the press is making it extremely difficult if not impossible for us to re-establish contact with whoever is in possession of our son. The publication of demands for additional ransom which have never been made and of amounts which we are unable to pay can cause nothing but greater difficulty.

"We are extremely anxious to re-establish contact with the kidnapers and while we sincerely appreciate the cooperation we have received from many press associations our attempts are still greatly hampered or made impossible by press activity. Up to the present time we have been unable to re-establish a definite contact.

"Charles A. Lindbergh."

RUMORS REVIVE HOPES OF RESCUE

HOPEWELL, N. J., April 18. (US)—A persistent report that the Lindbergh baby's kidnapers have made a new demand of $100,000 in gold, coupled with another mysterious trip taken by one of the three Norfolk negotiators, tonight increased anticipation that the child's return was imminent.

All efforts to confirm the report from a reliable source that the new ransom demand, doubling the $50,000 already paid by Colonel Lindbergh, has been received, met with a blank wall of silence. It is understood however that Lindbergh's personal attorney, Col. Harry Breckenridge, already has the requested gold in readiness in a New York vault.

Curtis Disappears

Meanwhile, following a series of long distance telephone conversations with the flying colonel, John H. Curtis, Norfolk boatbuilder and head of the trio of men there who believe they have contact with an intermediary for the kidnapers, disappeared from Norfolk on a secret mission today.

Whether he was bound for Hopewell to confer with Lindbergh or on his way to meet his supposed intermediary could not be ascertained.

An automobile owned by a friend of Mr. Curtis, Edmund Bruce, of Elmira, N. Y., entered the Lindbergh estate this afternoon. In this car was a passenger said to resemble Curtis. But efforts to confirm his presence at the estate met only with silence.

European Source Of Helium Gas Discovered

TOULON, France, April 18. (INS)—A French hydrologist, Dr. Charmont, today announced discovery of the first European source of helium gas. He declared soundings had revealed an abundant supply of helium beneath a thickly populated section of Toulon.

The gas, non-inflammable, has a high commercial value for use in lighter-than-air craft. The only commercial source now is in the American state of Texas.

Military authorities have begun an investigation with a view of commandering the supply and establishing a naval base here. On the Mediterranean, Toulon thus would be an ideal joint base for naval and air craft.

Carson County Boy Wins A.&M. Agricultural Award

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, April 18. (AP)—J. R. Bertrand, 16-year-old junior at the White Deer school, Carson county, was announced state winner in the master vocational agricultural pupil contest at the annual Smith-Hughes judging contests here today.

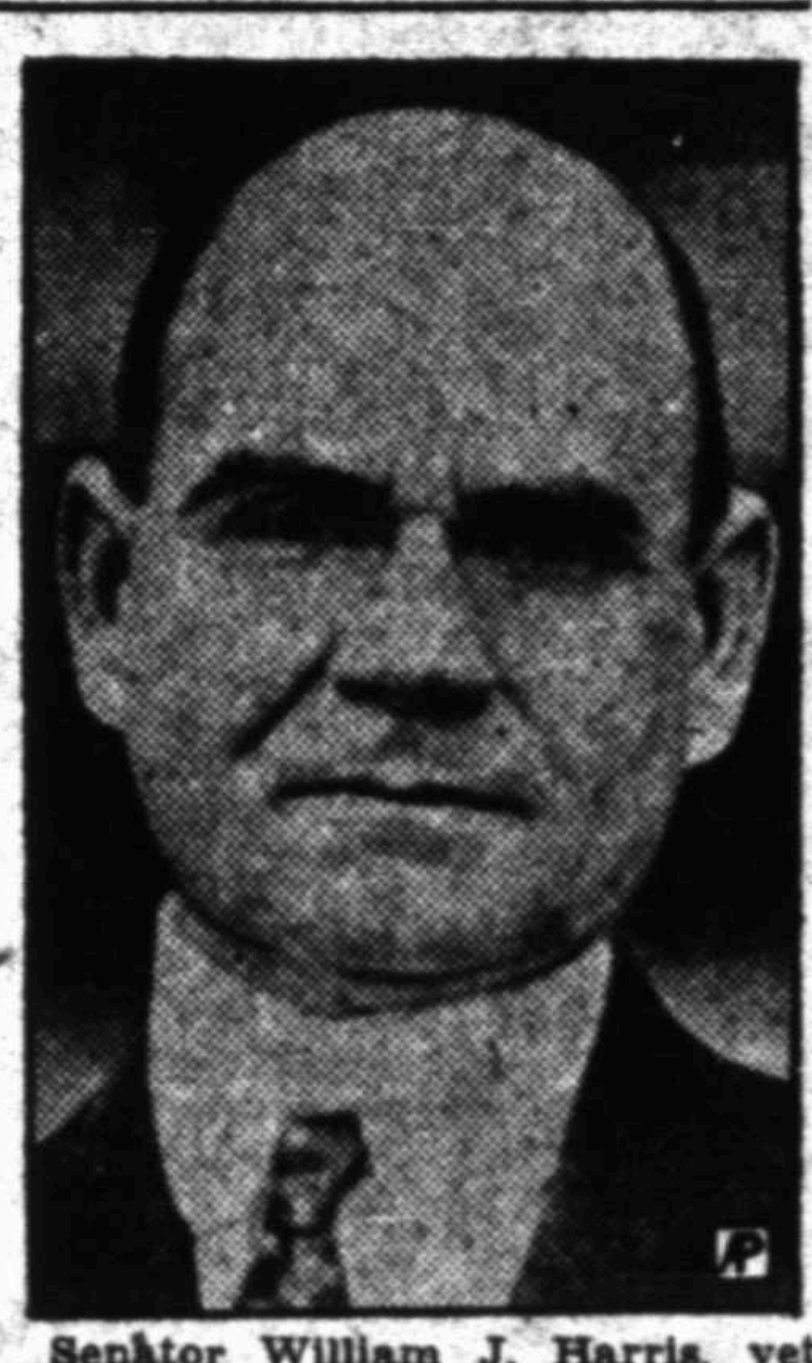
This award was made on the record during the year 1930-31, judging being on the basis of projects income, prizes won, investment in farming, leadership and scholarship.

Odelle Neville of Abilene placed first in the Central Texas district, Leroy Candrey of Mount Vernon in East Texas, and Wesley Carroll of Dilley in South Texas.

El Paso-Mexico Airline To Open This Summer

MEXICO CITY, April 18. (AP)—A new airline between Mexico City and El Paso is scheuled to be opened May 15 or June 1, it was learned here today. The company will be an American one, which at present is arranging concession matters and enlarging landing fields along the route to accommodate the trimotored planes which will be used.

Georgia Loses



Senator William J. Harris, veteran public official from Georgia, died yesterday at Washington.

SENATOR FROM GEORGIA DIES

William J. Harris Passes Away at Capital

WASHINGTON, April 18. (UP)—Senator William J. Harris, Democrat, Georgia, died today after an operation several weeks ago to relieve an intestinal disorder.

He was 64 years old and had served in the senate since 1918.

Harris' condition had been critical for several days. At one time after the operation he rallied sufficiently to extend hope of his ultimate recovery.

Born in Cedertown, Ga., Dec. 3, 1868, Harris was educated at the University of Georgia and later engaged in the insurance and banking business.

He served as private secretary to the late Senator A. S. Clay and later was elected to the state senate in Georgia, also serving as chairman of the Democratic state committee. He was chosen for both posts without opposition.

Prior to his election to the U. S. senate, he had served as director of the U. S. census bureau, acting secretary of the department of commerce, and chairman of the federal trade commission. He was re-elected for the term ending March 3, 1927, by the largest majority ever received by any candidate for the U. S. senate in Georgia.

The senate passed a resolution of regret on learning of Harris' death and voted to send a committee of 15 members to his funeral.

Texas Contractors To Get State Work

AUSTIN, April 18. (UP)—Bids on 21 of the 33 road contracts to be let by the Texas Highway commission next Saturday will be limited to Texas contractors, the state highway department announced tonight.

This rule will apply at future lettings on all work for which the state alone pays. Work to be done with federal aid will be open to contractors regardless of location.

A "Texas contractor" it was announced, will be considered any person, firm, association or corporation engaged in road contracting in the state and has done work on Texas highways at least six months prior to April 12, 1932.

Contracts total $2,250,000 are to be let Saturday.

Famous Monte Carlo Passes First Dividend

MONACO, Monte Carlo, April 18. (US)—For the first time in its history, the famous Monte Carlo passed its annual dividend today.

This direct action broke the long chain of rich dividends which reached as high as 200 per cent in the heydey of Europe's gambling capital.

The casino this year showed an annual profit of $1,400,000 as against $2,280,000 last year. Week-end sales of stock were conducted at $100 a share as against nearly $500 in former days.

Former Prison Guard Held for Woman's Death

HOUSTON, April 18. (UP)—Sheriff T. A. Binford and a squad of his deputies tonight arrested Robert E. Lee, 69-year-old former state prison guard charged with killing Mrs. Beaulah McGiboney and wounding her husband Saturday night.

Lee was arrested near Hoffman, in northwestern Harris county approximately 48 miles from the scene of the shooting 10 miles south of Houston. He said he threw away his shotgun Saturday night. He was traveling afoot, following a pipe line away from all highways.

Three Italian Fliers Killed as Plane Crashes

ROME, Italy, April 18. (UP)—ROME, April 18. (UP)—Three Italian fliers were killed and four injured today when a large seaplane crashed and capsized at Orbetello during a demonstration flight before the Cadet Maritime Warfare institute. Two of the injured were in a serious condition.

MASSIE CLINGS DOGGEDLY TO DEATH STORY

Kelly Baffled by Accused Man's Unchangable Tale Of Native's Death

JURY IMPRESSED

Husband of Attacked Girl Describes Horror Of Wife's Tragedy

By DAN CAMPBELL

COURTROOM, HONOLULU, T. H., April 18. (UP)—Lieutenant Thomas Hedges Massie's story that he probably shot Joe Kahahawai was unshaken when he stepped down from the witness chair in King Kamehameha's ancient courtroom today.

Two days of savage cross-examination did not alter Massie's declaration that he held a revolver, that he heard the cringing native admit a brutal attack on Thalia Fortescue Massie, and that his mind then plunged into an eclipse so dark that he cannot account for the strangest hours of his life.

Over and over, forcing his story into the minds of the polyglot jurymen, the white-faced young Kentuckian repeated his testimony, Prosecutor John Kelley's baffled efforts to shake that story only increased its force.

Begged for Death

Massie told how his wife disappeared from a gay party one soft September night. Liquor had been served, he reluctantly admitted. That admission was the only scant victory Kelley won during his dogged cross-examination.

He found his blue-eyed young wife a half-crazed, broken woman who begged for death, Massie repeated again and again. He shouted that Kahahawai had answered her cries for mercy with a blow that shattered her jaw.

Staring ahead, the young naval officer described nights when his wife was tortured by memories and by pain of the shattered jaw.

Hours of fear, when they both imagined they heard attackers

Bonus Proponents Rest Case With Committee

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—Sponsors of cashing the two billion dollar soldier bonus rested their case with the powerful house revenue committee today, claiming the support of one-third of that group for their currency-expansion plan.

Two fellow veterans, put on the stand by Democratic and administration leaders, tomorrow will open for the opposition. They are Representative Royal Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, and LaGuardia of New York, fiery independent leader.

Powder Magazine Blast Rocks Tokyo Suburb

TOKYO, Tuesday, April 19. (UP)—A military gun powder magazine in Takinokawa, a suberb of Tokyo, was destroyed today by explosions which damaged more than 50 houses.

The explosions began shortly after 6 a. m., and continued almost an hour.

Police said they believed casualties were comparatively slight. An investigation of the origin of the blasts was begun by military authorities.

Johnson Loses Fight To Reduce Prohi Funds

WASHINGTON, April 18. (US)—Demanding a $5,000,000 slash in the appropriation for dry enforcement, Senator Johnson, Republican of California, today said "the country will get exactly the same kind of prohibition enforcement for $5,000,000 that it now gets for $10,000,000."

"Furthermore," he added, "we can get it in exactly the same quantity as we now get it."

The proposal was later defeated by a vote of 42 to 17.

MARKED CARDS

VIENNA, April 18. (US)—Baron Otto Gutman, claiming to be a relative of Count Laszlo Szechenyi, Hungarian minister to the United States, was arrested here today on a charge of using marked cards in Vienna, Monte Carlo, and elsewhere.

Big Farm Belt Crowd Hears New Yorker In Defense Of His Views

Veiled Language Tempers Reply to Smith's Charge of 'Demagogy'; Four Great Presidents Quoted by Roosevelt to Refute Al

By WILLIAM E. LAWBY
Universal Service Correspondent

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 18—Ripping into former Governor Smith for his attack on him last week Governor Roosevelt tonight launched his actual campaign for election to the presidency.

In his most important pronouncement of program so far in his bid for the Democratic nomination he did not mention Smith by name save to praise him for balking alienation of New York's tremendous power resources on the St. Lawrence through long term leases.

He called upon the liberalism of Jefferson, Lincoln, Jackson and Theodore Roosevelt to refute the Smith charges of "demagogy" and an appeal to class prejudice. He made further appeal for the "forgotten man" without designating him as such.

Expands Statement

The governor expanded on the program he briefed in part in his radio address of April 7. He declared for federal control of utilities, particularly electric doing an interstate business and dealt extensively with the water power question.

He laid to President Hoover and the Republican Hawley-Smoot tariff bill chief responsibility for unemployment and the extended depression. He urged reciprocal bilateral or group international agreements on tariff to effectuate a free exchange of goods between the nations, thereby knocking down tariff walls.

The governor addressed a rousing meeting of more than 5,000 gathered in the municipal auditorium here in a Jefferson day banquet under the auspices of the Minnesota national committee officers and the Minnesota state central committee.

Farm Belt Gathering

The gathering was representative of the great farm belt of the Northwest for in it were visiting delegations from the neighboring states of Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Montana.

He made it clear that his April 7 speech was but the first of a series in which he would point out the striking needs of the nation reserving for the most part his remedies for his campaign for election if nominated. He left no doubt that in marshalling liberal statements of the four great presidents from whom he quoted that he was firing directly at Smith. From Jefferson he quoted:

"I shall often go wrong through defective judgment. And when right I shall often be thought wrong by those whose positions will not command a view of the whole ground. I ask your support against the errors of others who may condemn what they would not condemn if seen in all its parts."

Quotes Teddy Roosevelt

He quoted his distinguished relative as follows:

"In the past the most direful among the influences which have brought downfall of republics has been the growth of the class spirit—this government is not and never shall be a government by a plutocracy—never shall it be government by a mob."

He said he liked the blunt statement of Jackson that the great interests of agriculture, commerce and manufacture shall be equally favored. Summarizing these excerpts which he used in his own defense he solemnly asserted:

"It is to this national community of interests that we should dedicate ourselves tonight. If that be treason make the most of it."

Pointing his guns directly at Smith and elaborating on the plight of the "forgotten man" and renewing his charge in veiled language that Hoover's $2,000,000,000 Finance Reconstruction corporation principally helps those "at the top of economic pyramid," he said:

"I am pleading for a policy broad enough to include every part of our economic structure. A policy that seeks to help simultaneously, that shows an understanding of the fact that there were millions of our people who cannot be helped merely by helping their employers because they are not employes in that strict sense of the word—the farmers, the small business man, the professional people.

Cites Benefits

"Help for them means a greater consumption of necessities of life and not of luxuries and this means more factory wheels turning in our cities, more employment for the strictly industrial population, for the railroad workers and for the distributors. That kind of buying makes itself felt more quickly than any other.

"Not only among the sections of the country, but among its economic groups in these units there

SMITH SPEECH AT WASHINGTON DRAWS FAVOR

'Happy Warrior' Displays Letters of Approval In Interview

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 18.—Alfred E. Smith exhibited 500 letters endorsing his recent speech about "demagogic appeals" to voters, as he sat peering over the foot-high stack of correspondence late today.

At the same hour Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, to whom part of Smith's attack was interpreted as referring, was preparing to deliver an address in St. Paul, Minn., which appeared to be an indirect rebuttal.

Smith, receptive candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, avoided any reference, during a one-hour interview, to his gubernatorial successor, who is an avowed candidate for the nomination.

Speech Stands

"My Washington speech stands as it is," he said, fingering the congratulatory letters in front of him. "I do not intend to add to it until I make another address, and I have no more addresses on my datebook."

He refused to say whether he referred to Roosevelt when, at the Jefferson day dinner in Washington, he criticized "a candidate," for making "demagogic appeals."

"The day after your speech," he was told, "Governor Roosevelt remarked that a friend of his had telephoned him and said 'wasn't that an awful attack Al Smith made on Governor Murray?'"

Smith smiled, then said with a chuckle:

"I'll answer all that the way I answered a man who once stopped me on the street. He tapped my shoulder and said:

"'Which would you rather be, a

Light Rains Fall Over Wichita Area

Long waited rain fell in this section early Monday night, giving respite from drouth of several weeks' standing.

Intensity of the downpour varied with the locality, ranging from light sprinkles to hard showers. However, the greater part of the territory was visited with sufficient rain to result in some good to crops and pasture land.

In Wichita Falls a moderately hard shower fell during a period lasting less than 30 minutes during the early night. This was followed by sprinkling rain at intervals. At midnight skies remained clouded.

At Nocona rain fell heavily for an hour and was accompanied by hail. However, no damage was reported.

Rainfall extended generally to the southward, as far as Fort Worth, according to the report of the Fort Worth and Denver dispatcher here. Only light sprinkles fell in the area north of Burkburnett and extending into Oklahoma, but overhanging clouds and the persistency of the sprinkles indicated that more rain might fall. Heavier rain was reported in the northern section of Oklahoma.

First rain in a number of weeks fell at points west of here Sunday night. A good shower was reported in the Hall county area early Sunday night.

State and County Inquiries Launched Into Lynching of Kansas Tot's Slayer

ATWOOD, Kan., April 18. (UP)—State and county authorities joined tonight to investigate the lynching of Richard Read, 53-year-old confessed attacker and slayer of Dorothy Hunter, 8.

Read was hanged by a mob of more than 200 men as a climax to a wave of indignation which swept this section after the body of the little Hunter girl was found, and which inspired the first mob violence in the western part of the state since the days of the pioneers.

The mob's fury, smouldering since the girl's death and Read's arrest and confession, reached a climax late yesterday as more than 2,000 farm folk attended her funeral services. To that funeral, too, came an anonymous informant who had learned the secret jail in which Read was held.

Within a few hours after the burial, cars full of men began gathering at several points, apparently previously designated by mob leaders. The procession was two miles long as it swept into St. Francis. There, five cars detached themselves from the main group, captured Sheriff A. A. Bacon and his

NAMES OF BIG BEAR RAIDERS KEPT SECRET

Prime Movers of Inquiry Suddenly About Face On Publicity

WASHINGTON, April 18. (US)—Names of Wall street "bear raiders" were carefully kept secret today when the senate banking and currency committee refused to make public the long record of short sellers submitted by New York stock exchange officials.

Although Richard Whitney, stock exchange president, made his third appearance as a witness, his interrogators carefully omitted all references to naming the bears.

The only exception occurred when Couzens, Republican of Michigan, asked Whitney if he himself ever engaged in short selling. Whitney said he had some time ago and agreed further that his name might possibly be on the list of "short-sellers" submitted to the committee.

Gallery Disappointed

Thus Whitney became the only "potential bear" thus far uncovered.

Another large gallery of spectators was sorely disappointed when the bears remained unnamed.

Later Senator Walcott, Republican of Connecticut, who startled the financial world a few weeks ago by asserting that the bears must be exposed, made the surprising statement that the list may never be made public. He added:

"There is no public interest in these records. Nobody would print them if we did give them out." Some of the correspondents differed widely in Walcott's news judgment.

Another Explanation

Another explanation was given by Claude Branch, committee counsel who said Whitney had sent down the "tickets" representing 24,000 short sales. He said considerable time will be necessary to sort these over and decide who was selling short and in what quantities. Branch conceded that several prominent names were included.

Meanwhile reports that a cabinet member and others high in official life were included as "short sellers" were called "sheer nonsense" by William A. Gray, of Philadelphia, who made his first appearance today as assistant counsel. Gray admitted however the list now in possession of the committee is so long that no one has had time to examine it in full.

Change Is Surprise

Walcott's change of view about the wisdom of revealing the names occasioned considerable surprise in view of the fact that he was considered President Hoover's close ally in forcing the Wall street probe. Walcott, in fact, made his original statement about exposing the "culprits" after emerging from a White House visit.

The entire examination today was given over to a resume of the same ground covered last week with Gray doing the questioning.

The nearest thing to a "revelation" thus far was the introduction of a letter showing that at least one Wall street broker forced his customers to agree to let him loan their stock to the short sellers.

Lynching Brings Dual Inquiry

deputy, and led the way to the jail.

A rope was placed around Read's neck and he was led out and placed in a car, surrounded by men carrying shotguns. The parade of death got under way.

About 15 miles from Atwood Read was pulled from the car. The rope was tossed over a high limb of one of the large trees which cast deep shadows on the spot.

Strong men pulled slowly, and his feet rose three feet above the ground. A moment later he was lowered again, choking, gasping for breath.

"Have you anything to say before you die?" a leader asked.

"Just this," was the reply. "You are hanging the right man. I killed the girl. I wouldn't have killed her if I had been sober."

Meanwhile Gov. Harry Woodring, who was at Atwood last night and today, only a few miles from the lynching scene, issued a statement in which he said he would do all within his power to ensure a full investigation.

Atty. Gen. Roland Boynton, from Topeka, telephoned instructions to Rawlins and Cheyenne county officers to start an immediate inquiry, and said he would come here to aid.

Belief was general, however, that the identity of the mob members never would be known, or cases pressed against them. There would be almost no possibility of conviction, it was said.

Former Resident Of Byers Dies at Clovis

C. J. Chamberlain, formerly a resident of Byers, Texas, died Monday at a hospital in Clovis, N. M., according to word received by friends and relatives in this section.

Funeral services will be held from the Charlie Methodist church Wednesday, although complete arrangements have not been made, it was announced.

Although Mr. Chamberlain had not resided in Clay county for several years he is well known in that section, having visited friends and relatives there on a number of occasions. Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Norman of Byers, Texas, and Mrs. L. Utsman of California.

Wichita Area Merchants Hear Lecture on Commercial Lighting

Economic commercial lighting without loss of efficiency was presented to about 75 merchants of Wichita Falls and the surrounding trade area Monday night at the Kemp hotel by the Illuminating Engineering society in cooperation with the retail merchants division of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Burton Stayton, vice president of the merchants, presided at the meeting. Merchants of Burkburnett, Henrietta, Bowie and Electra were present for the discussion and expressed appreciation for the instructive discussions of modern lighting effects as an aid to merchandising.

N. M. Argabright Jr. of Fort Worth, lighting sales manager of the Texas Electric company presented "Shore Lighting Layouts." A. H. Bruning of Dallas, electrical engineer of the Dallas Power and Light company offered a discussion of "Store and Show Window Lighting Units." Each speaker approached his subject from the viewpoint of improving displays of merchandise by improved lighting effects economically and without loss of efficiency.

V. J. Graham of the General Electric staff with the incandescent lamp division presented a review of the history and operating characteristics of various types of lamps.

Roosevelt Outlines His Theories For National Economic Revival

must be common participation, planned on the basis of a shared common life, the low as well as the high. In much of our present plans there is a disposition to mistake the part for the whole, the head for the body. I plead not for a class control but for a true concert of interests.

"The plans we make for this emergency, if we plan wisely and rest our structure upon a base sufficiently broad, will show the way to a more permanent safeguarding of our social and economic life. I favor economic planning, not for this period alone but for our needs for a long time to come.

Looks to Future

"If you live in a house that has been shaken by an earthquake of national proportions and the foundations have cracked and the roof leaks it is right that you mend the roof but at the same time your house will not be safe until you have repaired the foundation as well. I want the house to stand through the years to come as well as to keep the rain out the top story."

Then turning to tariff, Mr. Roosevelt declared:

"There must be a complete reversal of the methods of the present administration."

Then taking up Smith's demand for a scientific determination of economic facts by a tariff board divorced from politics, he said:

"The probable results of changes in this manner would be good. But this action in itself does nothing to bring about the actual exchange of goods so necessary to us and to all nations. That is the only realistic method of making goods move.

"The task of statesmanship is to determine what these products are, to bring about bilateral or group international agreements to effectuate their exchange.

"The world is looking for that type of statesmanship—for such a plan that goes far beyond mere scale reductions—that fills in the gaps in the mere advocating of 'expert tariff boards' and above all, that provides a real beginning of that international resumption of business that every one favors and expects."

Jibe at Hoover

He declared that President Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill over the objections of more than 1,000 American economists, who predicted direful results which, he said, came to pass. He added:

"With really prophetic insight they warned him in detail what would happen and the detail they gave him is the detail of what happened. No benefit to the farmers; injury to American export trade; weakening of the security of the American investments abroad; increase in unemployment and encouragement of a world-wide tariff war.

"President Hoover ignored this warning. Would he have ignored a warning of a thousand engineers that a bridge which the national government was building was unsafe?"

The governor dealt extensively with his fight with the Republican majority in the New York state legislature for a state water power authority to undertake as a state project the development of the hydroelectric resources of the St. Lawrence. He said he believed that wherever possible to contract for the sale of state produced electricity to private capital it should be done provided fair rates were assured the consumer. Otherwise he reiterated that he stood for state owned transmission lines.

Regulation Fails

He protested that regulation has fallen down resulting in huge mergers upon whose inflated capitalization rates are determined. He then said:

"Electricity is a great unifying interest doing more to make us a united nation than any other material factor. To control it for the common good requires national thinking by a national party.

"A very deep study over many years makes it clearer, to me with every passing day that where a public service like the transmission of electricity passes beyond state lines and becomes interstate in its actual operation, in such cases the control cannot be effectively maintained by states alone, or through agreements between neighboring states. The problem is national in its scope and can be solved only by the firm establishment of national control."

He closed his address with:

"There will be many in this nation during the coming months who will implore you not to swap horses crossing a stream; there will be others who will laughingly tell you that the appeal should have been worded—'do not swap toboggans while you are sliding downhill.' But it seems to me that the more truthful, the more accurate plea to the people of the nation should be this: 'If the old car in spite of frequent emergency repairs has been bumping along down hill on only two cylinders for three long years, it is time to get another car that will start up hill on all four.'

"Jefferson labored for a widespread unity of thought, capable of directing united action, based on a fair and just unity of interest. Jefferson labored to bring the scattered farmers, the workers, the business men into a participation of national affairs. This was his purpose and this is the principle upon which the party he founded was based. Let his party continue to dedicate itself to that great purpose. Let it present itself as a party of unity to carry out the purpose of social and economic unity throughout the nation.

"I say with Lincoln, 'having thus chosen our course, without guile and with pure purpose, let us renew our trust in God and go forward without fear and with manly hearts.'"

The governor and his party arrived here early today. He was welcomed by thousands and hailed as "our next president." Joseph Wolf, national Democratic committeeman for Minnesota and a group of political luminaries of the Northwest met him.

During the day he called on Governor Olson at the state capitol. He was visited by leaders from the surrounding states and given flattering reports of the prospects of Democratic success in this section of the country.

He attended a luncheon of 80 country editors at noon. Former Republican Congressman Bede referred to him as the next president. Former Governor Christiansen, a Republican, was a caller.

Mrs. Roosevelt was entertained at luncheon by the Democratic women voters of the twin cities at Minneapolis.

AL ON PROHIBITION

NEW YORK, April 18. (UP)—Alfred E. Smith today again came out for the Raskob plan for repeal of the 18th amendment—a repeal based upon constitutional conventions—and said he favored a definite plan this year.

He had been asked in a general press interview whether he favored the plan of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for prohibition reform and answered he had not seen the plan.

Radio Club Names New Officers

Frank M. Corlett of Dallas, division director of the American Radio Relay league, outlined the work of that organization in detail in the principal address before members of the Wichita Falls Amateur Radio club Monday night at the Wichita club.

Sixty amateur radio operators of the Wichita Falls area, including Fort Worth, Electra, Dallas, Chico, in Texas, and Altus, Frederick and Hollister, Okla., were present for the banquet and program.

W. W. Robertson Jr. was named president of the local club, A. H. Howard first vice president to succeed Leonard Saye, and Marshall Rusk was named to succeed Victor Smith as second vice president. Mrs. J. R. Martin was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Short talks were delivered by E. B. Locke, chief engineer of KGKO; L. M. Chaffin, president of the Frederick club; David Clark of Wichita Falls; Thomas W. Hall, J. W. Robbins, and Ray Lee Taylor of Fort Worth.

SMITH SHOWS 'FAN' LETTERS

hammock full of white doorknobs, a cellar full of stepladders, or a cake of ice?'

"I told him:

"'I'd rather be a fish, because you can break a plate glass window with a hammer.'

"He told me he didn't see any sense to that and I said I didn't either."

Reluctant to Answer

Smith was more anxious to display the congratulatory letters than to answer questions.

He asserted, however, he had made no plans to speak in Massachusetts or Pennsylvania, or to make any personal campaign for the 112 convention delegates those states will elect April 26.

"I have no plans to leave the city or do a single thing politically," he said. "Nothing that has been said or done justifies my doing anything."

He added his plans would not be changed by anything Roosevelt might say in St. Paul.

He was told of a report that Roosevelt intended to praise him in the St. Paul speech. The "happy warrior" smiled, leaned back in his chair, chewed on a cigar, and finally said:

"Well, that's all right."

He was asked to comment on an exchange of correspondence between Roosevelt and William H. Mitchell, chairman of the Liberal Civic league of Boston.

Mitchell in a telegram to the governor said every congressional district there is "pronouncedly for repeal" and that "the independent vote which now controls our elections is a wet vote."

Would See "Blueprint"

The telegram told Roosevelt his "earlier expressions for repeal do not adequately answer the charge you are not wholeheartedly for repeal."

Roosevelt's reply read:

"Please consider that I still maintain 100 per cent my earlier expressions of opinion favoring return of control of intoxicants to the several states. That is definite."

Smith's only comment was that he wanted to see "blueprints of any plan dealing with the question" before he approved it.

He explained he would not be satisfied with a prohibition plank like that in the 1928 Democratic platform.

"We have gone ahead by leaps and bounds since then. I had no plan then. Now I am for the Raskob plan and I intend to advocate it—unless I see a better one in the meantime."

Archer Youth Charged With Forgery of Checks

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, April 18.—Leo Bellowe, 20, was lodged in the Archer county jail here today in default of $500 bond in connection with charges filed against him for forging and passing of checks totalling $40 against a local garage operator.

Henry Cagle Sr., under indictment for cow theft, also was lodged in jail to await trial on the charge during the May term of court. Henry Cagle Jr. pleaded guilty to a similar charge during the February term of court and was sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary.

Charges against the two were the outgrowth of the theft of two heads of cattle from Luther Gatlin, who resides near Mankins.

Cold Forces Speaker To Relinquish Chair To Bankhead

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—Speaker Garner was forced to relinquish his chair late today by a cold that reduced his voice to a whisper.

Representative Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, expert parliamentarian, took over the duties of presiding. Garner left almost immediately for his hotel.

creeping through the darkness to their windows, were recalled.

Massie insisted Kahahawai was abducted to force a confession that would quiet vile stories.

Character Attacked

After a jury disagreed in trying the native and four others on the attack charge, rumors crept through Honolulu that other navy men had been the true attackers. Characters of Massie and his wife were attacked, he said.

He told how he and his mother-in-law, Grace Hubbard Fortescue, got the assistance of E. J. Lord and A. O. Jones, two enlisted men, to aid in getting the confession. Mrs. Fortescue and the sailors are jointly accused with him of second degree murder.

"I held a gun, to frighten him," Massie said.

"You planned to kill him, didn't you?" the tenacious prosecutor shouted.

"No, Mr. Kelley."

Threats Broke Silence

Threats of a beating broke Kahahawai's defiance, Massie declared.

"He said, 'yes, we done it.' That's all I remember."

That void of mental blankness covers the actual shooting and the unsuccessful effort to dispose of the body.

Massie insisted he remembered nothing of wrapping the body in a sheet, of tying a rope around the neck, or of riding in a seat with the corpse on the road to Koko Head geyser.

Clarence Darrow, master strategist of the defense, started a procession of minor witnesses after Massie had been excused subject to recall.

Curtain Identified

Dr. Irving Blom identified a shower curtain found in the death car as one that had been in the home before Mrs. Fortescue rented it.

Attorney Eugene H. Beebe verified Massie's claim he wanted a confession from one of the alleged attackers to quiet rumors.

"After Horace Ida (one of the alleged attackers) was kidnaped and beaten, Massie came to me, elated," Beebe said. "He told me Ida had confessed. I told him it wouldn't do any good because the confession had been obtained by force."

Beebe said he told Massie Honolulu police department conditions made it likely the natives would not be convicted at their second trial.

STROKE KILLS S. M. N. MARRS

State School Chief Dies At College Station

with regard to the burial will be ascertained.

The state flag on the capitol will fly at half mast tomorrow. The board of control offered to allow the body to remain in state in the senate chamber.

Professor Marrs got an early start as an educator, liked the work and put himself deeper into it at every opportunity. During his tenure as state superintendent of public instruction, he encountered stiff political opposition almost every time he went before the voters, but he proved a resourceful campaigner and was victorious.

Also, probably inspired by his strenuous campaigns for office, he had a certain amount of opposition in the legislature and those opposed to him often sought to defeat bills they thought he might favor. He was a strong advocate of the nine-member board of education to replace the board formerly composed of the governor, secretary of state and comptroller.

When the bill was under consideration in the legislature, several attempts were made to legislate him out of office as it were.

At first it was provided in the bill that the state superintendent should be appointed by the board, instead of elected by popular vote. This was eliminated, but some senator put in an amendment that no one who did not hold a master of arts degree could qualify to be superintendent. This would have barred Mr. Marrs, but when the bill was sent to free conference for adjustment of differences between the two houses this provision was stricken out.

Schooled in Ohio

Starlin Marion Newberry Marrs was born on Jan. 2, 1862, in Gauley Bridge, Fayette county, West Virginia. He received his bachelor of science degree from the National Normal university of Lebanon, Ohio.

Elected superintendent of schools at Stephenville when only 23 years old, he served in that position from 1885 to 1888. He then served successively at Hamilton (1888-90), Cleburne (1890-93) and Terrell (1893-98).

He accepted a place a chief clerk of the state department of education in 1898 but returned to Terrell as superintendent of schools in 1899 and stayed in that position for 20 years. In 1919 he became supervisor of state high schools and in 1921 he was appointed first assistant state superintendent. He first was elected superintendent in 1923.

Mr. Marrs was a member of the National Educational association, and in 1907 he served as president of the Texas State Teachers' association, having been a member for many years.

Shotgun Volleys Give Speed to Fleeing Auto Thief

Four blasts from a shotgun in the hands of J. E. Briggs discouraged efforts of a white man to escape with Noble Gray's automobile at 1417 Ninth at 8:50 o'clock Monday night. Mr. Gray heard his car rolling from the driveway and he and Mr. Briggs reached the front door of the house in time to see a man starting the motor of the coupe in the street.

When Mr. Briggs appeared with the shotgun the man jumped from the car and ran through Bellevue park with the four discharges of the gun speeding him on his way. It was believed none of the shots took effect. Night Police Captain W. E. McDonald and Traffic Officer Harry King investigated.

TRUCK DRIVER FACES CHARGE

Wichita Man Makes Bond At Crowell

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, April 18.—C. C. Cooley, Wichita Falls truck driver, was charged here today with negligent homicide in connection with the death of E. B. Summers, 40, Dallas, following an automobile collision 17 miles west of Crowell yesterday.

Summers, a collector for a farm equipment company, was burned to death when he was pinned in the wreckage of an automobile he occupied with R. S. Shelton of Clovis, N. M., when the car burst into flames after colliding with Cooley's truck.

Shelton was rescued from the blazing car by Cooley, who is an employe of the Miller & Miller freight line of Wichita Falls. Cooley was unsuccessful in his efforts to pull the unconscious form of Summers from the blazing auto.

The complaint against the truck driver was made by S. B. Cherry of Brinkman, Okla., brother-in-law of the accident victim. Cooley waved examining trial immediately after the filing of charges before J. W. Klepper, justice of the peace, and will await the action of the grand jury which convenes here May 2. Cooley was allowed to make bond of $1,000.

Shelton, companion of the dead man, received a fractured leg in the crash. Cooley was unhurt.

TUBERCULOSIS WAR REVIEWED

Wolford Tells Kiwanis Of Need for Diagnosis

Detection and prevention of tuberculosis were discussed by Dr. R. B. Wolford, city physician, before members of the Kiwanis club at the Wichita club Monday noon. The address was given in connection with the Wichita County Tuberculosis association's program of prevention.

Loss of weight, slight afternoon temperature, and listlessness are three accurate symptoms of tuberculosis, the speaker said. Discovery of a tubercular condition, he continued, may be made by physical examination, x-ray, or sputum tests.

Dr. Wolford stressed the fact that tuberculosis is a contracted disease, rather than an inherited one.

"Because a great percentage of tuberculosis is contracted in childhood, and is first noticed during the teen age, many persons believe it to be hereditary," he said. "It takes its strongest hold during the teen age, when the child's body is growing rapidly and is under a tension. An early diagnosis will give the child an opportunity to effect a cure."

The speaker announced that the semi-annual clinic, with an out-of-town specialist in charge, is to be held here May 18-20.

Kenneth Bebb, president, was named delegate to the national Kiwanis convention at Detroit in June. Don T. Haynes and W. E. Young were named as first and second alternates, respectively.

Mr. Young conducted a singsong, with M. A. Ellis at the piano. Dr. O. W. Wilson arranged the program.

BURGLARS RAID HOME

While occupants of the residence were being entertained by a radio program Monday night, burglars raided a bedroom at the home of August Mogonye, 1918 Ninth, entering the house by a rear window and taking loot which included a woman's wrist watch, a purse and $1.50 in change. A reward of $25 was announced for return of the watch, police said. Traffic Officers Harry King and Herbert Pogue investigated.

SENATE KILLS THOMAS' PLAN

Aid From War Department Disapproved

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—The senate today rejected 32 to 27 a proposal by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, to authorize the secretary of war to furnish relief supplies to governors.

Thomas proposed the relief plan as an amendment to a house bill authorizing the war department to lend tents, blankets and other supplies for use by the United Confederate veterans in their encampment at Richmond, Va., in June.

After rejecting the Thomas proposal, the house bill was passed and sent to the White House.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, opposed the Thomas amendment, saying the war department always had responded speedily to relieve persons made destitute by storms and floods without waiting for legislative authority.

Thomas complained the department had turned down a request from Oklahoma for supplies on the ground it had no authority to furnish them.

Two States Win Court Tax Fights

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—The supreme court formally dismissed several cases today that it previously had indicated it would not consider and passed on numerous petitions for review of new contests.

Michigan and South Carolina won, temporarily, at least, the attacks brought against their motor vehicle and electric power tax laws. The court threw out cases brought against them, deciding that lower courts had not yet passed on the question.

After dismissing a few other cases, the court turned to the stack of petitions for review before it. Those it granted will be argued and probably decided later. Those refused will be governed by the ruling of the last highest court.

Petitions for review passed on included:

Granted: The contest by the commissioner of internal revenue of a ruling that bonus received by owner of oil and gas land in Texas for executing an oil and gas lease was taxable at lower rates than ordinary income.

Indian Chief Visits Big City for First Time And Gets Thrills

CHICAGO, April 18. (INS)—Chief Crazy Horse, 84-year-old Sioux Indian, today was enjoying more thrills than when he battled Custer.

Off the reservation and in a large city for the first time in his life, Crazy Horse has learned to like cigarets and civilized beefsteak. Moreover, he wants to go to the zoo and take an airplane ride.

The white women intrigue him—he thinks they're too skinny. And the first time he saw a traffic jam, he thought it was some novel kind of warfare.

Crazy Horse came here with Chief Little Bear, 66, from the Pine river reservation in South Dakota to discuss conservation at an Izaak Walton league convention.

RECEIVERSHIP QUERY ASKED

U. S. Investigation Urged For Insull Interests

WASHINGTON, April 18. (INS)—Federal investigation of the Insull receivership was asked of Attorney General Mitchell today by "the people's lobby," of which Prof. John Dewey is director.

In a letter to Mitchell, the lobby set forth:

"The circumstances attending the granting of this receivership including the appointment of Samuel Insull himself, as a receiver, may be explained by facts known to the court, but the public is not informed.

"The federal trade commission shows a network of holding companies, writeups of valuations and other devices designed to water the stock of the Insull corporations (as well as of others) as an attempted justification of the exorbitant rates charged.

"We ask you to investigate at once the business practices of the Insull interests which have led to this receivership."

ANCILLARY RECEIVERS NAMED FOR UTILITY

NEW YORK, April 18. (INS)—Samuel Insull, Charles A. McCulloch and Edward N. Hurley, who were appointed equity receivers for Middle West Utilities company in Chicago on Friday, were named ancillary receivers in this district by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey today.

The appointment was made upon the petition of the Lincoln Printing company, of Chicago, which set forth that the company had valuable assets in this district, and was consented to by James L. Moore, attorney for the Middle West Utilities company. Both petitioner and defendant represented that the appointment of an ancillary receiver was necessary to conserve the assets in this district for the benefit of creditors and stockholders.

Judge Caffey directed that stockholders and all other creditors be notified of a meeting to be held in the Woolworth building courtroom on May 19 for the purpose of discussing questions pertinent to the equity receivership.

Waurika Business Women To Attend State Meet

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., April 18.—Delegates from the Waurika Business and Professional Women's clubs will leave Thursday to attend the state convention at Chickasha, April 22-23.

Miss Mary Watts, president of the local club, and Mrs. Lucile Cole, state publicity chairman, are delegates as well as Mrs. Cleo Howard and Misses Lela Gibbins and Mary Roach, who were selected by the club.

The Waurika club is considered as one of the outstanding clubs in the state. Last year at the state convention at Enid an attendance trophy was offered for the first time. Waurika won over all other clubs in the state with a percentage of 86.77. The cup is to be returned this year but the Waurika club with a better record than last year hopes to win it again.

'REDS' PROTEST COURT RULING

Georgia Supreme Judges To Hear Appeals

ATLANTA, Ga., April 18. (AP)—Six reputed communists carried to the Georgia supreme court today their claim that Judge E. E. Pomeroy of superior court should have thrown out indictments charging them with circulating insurrectionary literature.

When the cases were called several weeks ago, Judge Pomeroy sustained demurrers against indictments charging the six with attempting to incite insurrection, a capital offense in Georgia, but he also sustained the indictments on the other charge, which carries a penalty of 3 to 10 years. When the demurrers were upheld, new indictments charging attempting to incite insurrection were returned against M. H. Powers and Joe Carr.

The other defendants are Anne Burlack, Mary Dalton, Gilmer Brady and Henry Story.

All of them were arrested following meetings held here on the eve of the "May day" observance in 1930.

Assistant Solicitor General John Hudson said today he had prepared new indictments for presentation to the grand jury, reciting the charges thrown out by Judge Pomeroy, the counts he sustained, and new allegations that the six conducted a school of communism here at which overthrow of the government was advocated.

Co-Op Marketing Attacked by Hart

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 18. (AP)—Representative Michael J. Hart, Democrat, Michigan, described the co-operative marketing sponsored by the federal farm board as a "smoke screen to cover those who are exploiting the farmer" in an address today.

He spoke before the convention of the Atlantic Cotton association, comprised of cotton dealers in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

Asserting there was nothing left in the marketing act but co-operative marketing, he said he had no objection to co-operative marketing as such.

"I have no quarrel," he said, "with any group of grower who decide they want to invest in a marketing organization. No group of shippers of farm produce should object to the afrmer marketing his own produce if he wishes to do so. Every American citizen has a right to invest his money as he sees fit so long as he does not injure the community. My objection to the present program of co-operative marketing is that it is being sold to the farmer as a measure of farm relief. It is a smoke screen to cover those who are exploiting the farmer."

Pearl O'Loughlin Loses Legal Fight

DENVER, April 13. (AP)—The Colorado supreme court today denied the petition of Pearl O'Laughlin for a rehearing of her rejected appeal from conviction of child murder and sentence of life in the state penitentiary.

The supreme court's action today ends the legal fight in behalf of Mrs. O'Loughlin. The only course open to her to escape the life sentence is an appeal for executive clemency.

Mrs. O'Loughlin, wife of Leo O'Loughlin, a city detective, was convicted Dec. 8, 1930, on circumstantial evidence of slaying her stepdaughter, Leona O'Loughlin, whose body was found in Berkeley lake in Denver, Oct. 17. She was later divorced from O'Loughlin.

Murray's Bouncer Gets Feelings Hurt In Trolley Row

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 18. (UP)—R. D. McManus, 265-pound "bouncer" for Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray said today he "will walk or ride a taxi now because a street car conductor tried to bounce me for not having the right change."

McManus was hurrying to the governor's mansion and boarded a street car. He presented a $5 bill.

"The conductor told me he couldn't change it; that I would have to get off. I told him I was on important business for the governor. A block later he threatened to call a cop.

"I told him to go ahead and he left the car," McManus said. "When he came back later without the cop, a friend of mine had given me a dime."

Cardinal O'Connell Disapproves Radio Addresses of Priest

BOSTON, April 18. (INS)—Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston and dean of the Catholic hierarchy in America, today had placed his stamp of disapproval of the Sunday afternoon nation-wide radio addresses of Rev. Dr. Charles E. Coughlin of Royal Oak, Mich.

Father Coughlin was reported en route today from Detroit to California and no reply was forthcoming.

Although not mentioning Rev. Fr. Coughlin by name, Cardinal O'Connell said:

"The individual in Michigan takes it into his head to talk to the whole world," adding, "some people prefer to talk rhetoric, instead of facts."

"No Catholic needs to be told that this priest's work has not gone along the lines of just teaching the Word of God," said the cardinal, speaking before the guild of St. Apollonia at the university club Sunday afternoon. He decried the radio discourses of Rev. Fr. Coughlin as "hysterical addresses from ecclesiastics."

Cardinal O'Connell made it plain that he was talking as a Catholic layman and not as a prelate, but in view of his pre-eminent position in the church, the denunciation was regarded here as an official pronouncement.

Rich Gold Strike Made in Mexico

NOGALES, Ariz., April 18. (AP)—The Herald said today a rich gold strike has been made in the Altar district of Sonora, Mexico, a vast terrain stretching southward from Nogales to the Gulf of California.

Gold, placer mined, is pouring into the city at the rate of $10,000 weekly and yellow and red nuggets are being sold here for $15 and $19 an ounce.

Several thousand placer miners already are pan-washing and merchants are trading merchandise for gold dust.

Ramon Elias, prominent Nogales resident, has filed claims on large tracts and gold washing machinery will be taken from here to begin operations on a large scale.

Oil Man's Wife Asks For Stock and Children

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 18. (UP)—Suit for $55,000 in stock, separate maintenance and custody of their two children was brought against George A. Henshaw Jr. today by his wife.

Mrs. Henshaw filed complaints yesterday against the oil operator charging assault and battery and drunkenness.

District Judge G. W. Clark today granted her an order restraining Henshaw from interference with her or to dispose of the stock involved in the suit.

Run-Off to Decide Vernon Mayor Today

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 18.—Vernon will select its mayor for the next two years Tuesday, and interest shown indicates a record vote may be expected. Both Mayor H. D. Hockersmith and his opponent, A. D. Green, have been active during the run-off campaign and both have resorted to newspaper articles to express their views of the race.

Spirited discussions have been numerous on Vernon streets. In the first election Mr. Hockersmith led the three-candidate ticket with a vote of 533, with Mr. Green registering 484. J. A. Birdsong, the third aspirant, received 216 votes.

Election judges have issued orders for all voters Tuesday to present their poll tax receipts when requesting a ballot.

Librarian at Electra Issues Annual Report

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, April 18.—Mrs. E. J. Torvie, librarian, Saturday issued the seventh annual report of the Electra Public library for the fiscal year, April, 1931, to April, 1932. The report showed a grand total of 27,323 books issued during the year which clearly demonstrates the value of a library to this community. Twelve thousand, two hundred and twenty-three persons made use of the reading room during the 303 days the library was open for the circulation of books. The borrowers numbered 3,776, 319 being new members. Approximately 5,000 books are on the library shelves.

Hugo Man Escapes From Kidnapers

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 18. (UP)—Police today were investigating the complaint of Clyde Reed Messer of Hugo, Okla., that he was kidnaped and held for ransom for five days.

Messer said four Mexicans overtook him as he was leaving Agua la Prieta, a Mexican border town, forced him at guns' point to get in an automobile and drove him to a remote desert shack. He was held captive for five days and forced to write a note asking an acquaintance in Douglas for $1,000 ransom, he said.

A door was left unlocked on the fifth night, Messer said, and he escaped.

Police are seeking the four men.

YOUTH FALLS OVER CLIFF

Student Dies in Plunge Over Steep Precipice

CLOUCHESTER, Mass., April 18. (INS)—The body of F. Winchell Reeve, 23, Western Springs, Ill., Massachusetts Institute of Technology junior, was found at the base of a cliff at Bass Rock this afternoon.

The discovery climaxed a search by police, coast guardsmen and volunteers begun soon after Reeve, the son of a Chicago business man, disappeared at midnight Saturday when he left a party of six young couples to gather driftwood for a bonfire on the rock on the estate of Col. George W. Prentiss.

The body was found in two feet of water at the base of the 30-foot cliff. It lay within 200 yards of the scene of the "rock party." There were bruises on the head as if the student had toppled from the cliff to the Atlantic ocean.

A peculiar feature was that the arms were folded across the young man's chest.

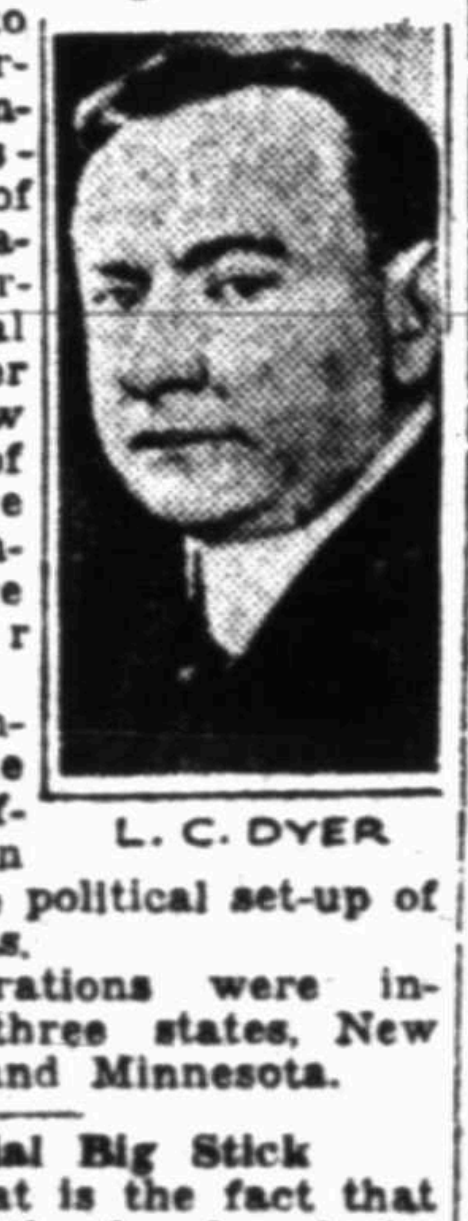
A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, April 18.—With the supreme court handing down a unanimous decision against efforts in three states to effection reapportionment of congressional districts by act of the state legislatures alone, ignoring gubernatorial powers, wonder arises as to how legal advisers of the legislative majorities involved could have gone so far astray.



L. C. DYER

Probably the answer lies in the far-reaching effect the decision may have on the political set-up of the next congress.

State considerations were involved in all three states, New York, Missouri and Minnesota.

Gubernatorial Big Stick

Yet beyond that is the fact that it now lies in the hands of the three governors whose powers have been declared and all of whom are in political opposition to the majorities controlling the legislatures of their states to send to the house of the next congress 24 members elected at large.

There are in the present house seven members at large. Two are from Illinois, one from New Mexico and the others from Nevada, Delaware, Arizona and Wyoming, which have only the single seat in the house guaranteed by the constitution.

Under the supreme court ruling two additional members from New York will be elected at large next November.

That probably means two more New York Democrats, in view of the state's usually predominant Democratic popular vote.

Missouri now has 16 house seats, 12 held by Democrats, four by Republicans.

There will be only 13 Missouri seats in the next house, all to be filled by state-wide election unless a compromise redistricting measure is passed by a special session of the legislature.

The implication is a solid Democratic delegation.

Minnesota now has 10 seats, all held by Republicans except one Farmer-Laborite.

She will have nine in the next house and the election at large might mean seven or perhaps the whole nine Farmer-Laborites.

Threat to Veterans

Looking over the list of sitting members whose chances of return are seriously affected by their now facing state-wide campaigns, several congressional veterans meet the eye.

Among the Missouri Republicans, for instance, are Leonidas Dyer, a 10-termer, and Joe Manlove, with six terms to his credit.

In the Minnesota group are men like Harold Knutson, eight terms; Frank Clague with seven, Andresen and Goodwin with four each.

Aside from what these at large elections might mean to such questions as city vs. country issues in congress or the prohibition wrangle, the action of the supreme court touches these veterans very closely.

1. OIL—Place the Wichita Falls district on a parity with other centers in the marketing of both crude oil and refined products.
2. THE VALLEY—Systematic, vigorous development of the irrigated valley in keeping with its possibilities as Wichita Falls' greatest physical asset.
3. WATER—An ample, assured supply of soft water.
4. EDUCATION—Maintenance of a junior college in Wichita Falls to give opportunity for higher education to our youth—the highest standards in elementary schools.
5. THE LAKES—Full development of the recreational opportunties offered by the three lakes.
6. HIGHWAYS—Early consummation of a highway program covering all the main routes radiating from this city and all the local roads that serve its agricultural community.
7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first, in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek; third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

The man who built a two-car garage in 1928 was foresighted after all. He keeps the car on one side and lives in the other.

Sea Romance

IT IS hard to understand why simple gallantry has such an appeal. It is only a veneer, or a gesture; but when time and distance have gathered around a gallant act there is something about it that draws our attention and makes us read about it and dream over it.

The other day there died in Spain Admiral Antonio Eulate; and his death brought back to mind a half-forgotten story of Spanish-American war days. His daughter, Senorita Carmela Eulate, wrote to the American state department asking that Taylor Evans of New York be notified of her father's death.

Taylor Evans is the son of the late Admiral Robley Evans of the U. S. navy—the "Fighting Bob" of navy legends. And Admiral Eulate was commander of the Spanish cruiser Vizcaya on that summer day in 1898 when the Spanish fleet made its desperate, hopeless sortie out of Santiago harbor and was pounded to pieces by the guns of the American fleet.

Fighting Bob was a captain then, and he commanded the battleship Iowa. When the Spanish ships tried to slip away along the Cuban coast toward the west, he fastened himself on the Vizcaya's quarter and drove it ashore, a flaming wreck filled with dead and wounded men and made more horrible by the incessant bursting of shells from its own magazines.

At great risk to their own lives, sailors from the Iowa brought the surviving Spaniards from the riddled Vizcaya. Eulate, badly wounded, came to the Iowa's quarter deck, and in accordance with ancient naval usage, handed his sword to Captain Evans. And Evans, taking his opponent by the hand, gave his sword back to him and told him to keep it, as befitted a brave man.

Now it is a little hard to see just what there is about that anecdote that makes it memorable a generation later. But it sticks in the mind, somehow, with a bright, melancholy appeal; and it was strong enough to make the daughter of the dead admiral write to America to tell the son of Fighting Bob that her father was dead.

It is a picture out of naval romance—two officers facing one another across an extended sword on a bright quarter deck, with the smoke from a burning ship in the background; gallant, a little theatrical, and absurdly attractive.

Back of the Bonus

THERE is one angle to the present widespread demand for a bonus to world war veterans that is usually overlooked when the subject is discussed. That is the feeling so many citizens have that such a bonus would be no less than fair in view of the way in which the big business and high finance can and do get extensive financial assistance from the federal treasury.

The war veteran is not, certainly, any more selfish than any other citizen; and in calling for a $2,000,000,000 bonus he does not feel that he is asking for any special privilege. Instead he points to the vast sums that have been made available to help finance and industry, and asks if only the rich and powerful can get at Uncle Sam's purse.

Until opponents of the bonus recognize the depth and strength of that feeling, their arguments won't make must impression on the veterans.

Congress so far has failed to demonstrate its ability to care for the present two billion dollar deficit in the treasury, and it is difficult to see how it could add another two billion to this overdraft without serious consequences. Such a state of affairs, however, does not answer the veterans' claim that they are as much entitled to assistance as is big business.

A Wise appropriation

THE senate shortly will be called upon to decide whether it is to recreate, for the campaign of 1932, a senatorial campaign fund investigating committee similar to the Nye committee that functioned so energetically a couple of years ago.

If the senate is well advised it will lose little time in voting to establish such a committee on precisely the same basis as that on which the Nye committee operated.

The cost would not be great. Probably $125,000 would more than defray all of the expenses. And the work done by such a committee is extremely valuable to the nation. The Nye committee more than justified its existence; there is no reason to suppose that a similar committee this year would be any less useful.

SO THEY SAY!

We are facing a crisis and we must meet it bravely. The government should do what men are doing in their private affairs, scale down salaries and all other expenses and do it without partisanship.—Congressman John McDuffie of Alabama, chairman, house economy committee.

Discipline

You wanted it to be a game forever,
And though I played as cleverly as you,
The prospect of continuing to be clever
Indefinitely—as you'd have had us do—
Was pretty dreary. So I played to win,
Applying the traditional technique
Of "all or nothing"—and the discipline
Reacted negatively, so to speak . . .
The menace of my pale possessiveness
Has been removed completely from your view,
While I've regained possession, none the less,
Off all of me that once belonged to you;
And neither of us knew, before it ended,
We would contrive to make defeat so splendid.
—JIGGER.

The Squelch Terrible

At a testimonial dinner the other night the guest of honor was presented with a bust of himself. The sculptor of the piece was also on the dais, but he wasn't called upon to make a speech. The aggrieved fellow took advantage of a lull, however, and got up and talked—going into a windy and monotonous discussion about himself.

After he sat down (without a hand) a bored wag cried: "That makes two busts!"

One of the better tales from the May Allison mansion concerns Jackie Cooper. When they were making "The Champ," Jackie, it appears, was having one of his off days. He just wouldn't cry. Director King Vidor was desperate. He pleaded with the young star to open his tear ducts, but it was futile.

"I'm trying," said Jackie, "but I don't feel like crying. I'm sorry, Mr. Vidor."

The director gave up, and turning to his assistant, asked him to do what he could about it. The assistant waited a few minutes and then walked over to little Cooper and, patting him affectionately on the shoulder, said: "Jackie, Mr. Vidor is quitting this picture, and he's going to tell the boss that you are a rotten actor."

That did it! Jackie broke down and wept real tears. And that's the scene on the observation car platform that jerks at your heart.

Tee-Hee

One of the more diverting articles in the nickel mags this week is one from Frank Ward O'Malley's typewriter. O'Malley's success, one presumes, comes from the fact that he didn't graduate from Notre Dame, where as student manager of the football team it lost every game!

First-Night

It was overheard between stanzas the other premiere performance. The press agent, anxious to learn what one critic thought of the performance, summoned one of his lobby spies.

"What does he think of the show?" asked the exploiter.

"I don't think he has formed an opinion," was the snapper. "He hasn't heard any one discuss it, yet."

Broadway Love

Almost a year ago a chorus girl married a film salesman, unpopular around the town. An admirer of the girl, who had been opposed to the wedding, tore a $1,000 bill in two, handing her one-half. "I'm so sure," he said, "that you won't be with him in a year from now that I'll give you the other part of this—if you are!"

She was telling the story to us last night and remarked that she fought with her husband incessantly and was very miserable. "He gave me this cut on my nose last week," she said, "but I'll stick it out for another seven weeks or die!"

"You amaze me," we said. "Why do you stick that way if he slugs you?"

"What's seven weeks?" was the indifferent reply, "with that other $500 I'll be able to get a divorce and a new coat!"

You Know the Type

And Miss Guinan refers to those girlish lads as "the boys with the ball-bearing wrist movements."

Heheheh

They credit it to Bert Kalmar, one of the lads who clicked in Hollywood. At a premiere performance out there a drunk, sitting in the next pew, nudged Kalmar and hiccoughed: "Who-sh that very important looking guy over there?"

"That happens to be Boleslavsky," obliged Kalmar.

"Hear, hear," scolded the stew. "I asked a civil question—and I expect a civil answer!"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ISLAND CREATORS OF THE PACIFIC—About half a day's journey from Tulaji, the principal port of the Solomon group in the Pacific, lies the island of Malaita, which is divided into two halves, Big Mala and Little Mala. It is the abode of the devil dancers. The inhabitants' noses, foreheads and ears are frequently decorated with flowers which they insert in holes pierced in the skin. Along the northeastern coast of Big Mala there is a coral reef extending for over 20 miles. Within that reef are 33 artificial islands, constructed by the hand of man. The building material was coral rock which natives quarried from the bottom of the lagoon, towing it on floating rafts of logs to the building site. The official name of the artificial islands is Fortified islands. Many of these islands now have trees, which sprang from accidental driftwood. All explanations are merely conjectural.

THE DEATH-SPELLING BONE—The black fellows are the aboriginal Australian natives. As I visited the native settlement of Botany bay, where Captain Cook landed in 1770, I was shown a specimen of the pointing bone. It was inscribed in ancient characters, the meaning of which was explained to me. Steeped as the aborigine was formerly in witchcraft and superstitution, it was sufficient when a native seized the bone to point it at an enemy, to cause the pointee to sit down in silence and die within a short time. The bone was also used by the witch doctor to discover a sneak thief, much as a divining rod is used today. The more emancipated natives near the seacoast no longer fear the pointing bone, but there are tribes in the Australian bush on whom the bone still has its lethal effect.

THE WORLD'S LONGEST FENCE—John R. Collison, who recently died in Australia at the age of 85, imported the first pair of pet rabbits into the commonwealth. Unchecked by any natural enemy the rabbits bred so prolifically, that they became the greatest agricultural pest of the lone continent. To cope with this menace a barrier of fine meshed wire was erected, running from the Gulf of Carpentaria to the corner of South Australia and along the boundary between New South Wales and Queensland to the sea. Over this territory, which is more than 3,000 miles long, there are more than 16,000 miles of "rabbit-proof." The section known as rabbit fence No. 1 stretches more than 1,139 miles across western Australia and is considered the longest single stretch of fence in the world.

THE LAUGHING JACKASS—The laughing "jackass" is a corruption of the kookaburra's Latin name "gigas" (meaning the giant, kingfisher). It announces morning, noon and sunset by a curious gurgling laugh, unlike the note of any other bird. The kookaburra is about the size of a crow. They are quite numerous in Australia and enjoy the protection of the Australians because they are destructive to snakes and other vermin.

TOMORROW—The most prolific seed.

The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By ETHELDA BEDFORD Author of "BROADWAY BRIDE"

READ THIS FIRST

Lillian Abbott, beautiful heiress, runs away to New York to lose her identity and becomes a working girl. She is influenced to make the break by handsome Thomas Blane, a girl racketeer, who steals all of her money. Too proud to go back home and admit defeat she decides to buck New York. Even when Howard Marsh, hotel manager, speaks to her about her bill she is not discouraged—and trades him her diamond wrist watch. Attracted to him, she accepts his invitation to dinner. She confides that she is broke. He says he will get her a job, but is mysterious about it. She realizes, in the midst of a humiliating situation, that she is hired as a professional hostess at a dine-and-dance place. Gloria Lowell, another hostess, consoles her with her own philosophy. Lillian determines to make the best of the job. She is forced to work. She hasn't even taxi fare to her hotel. But when two fellows get in a fight over her she vows she will never go back to the job. The manager gives her cab fare to the hotel. She faces Howard Marsh in his office the next day—and her vanity receives a dent. He tells her of his wife and that his feeling toward Lillian is most paternal.

But pride comes to her rescue and she turns into a business woman. And when Howard's wife comes into the office unexpectedly Lillian takes the situation into her hands skillfully.

Now Go on With the Story
CHAPTER XXIX

Two weeks later, when Lillian went home one night to the boarding house, where she had rented a small back room, she carried under her arm a flat cardboard box.

It contained the cheapest dress Lillian had ever owned. But which had cost most of the remains of the $50 Howard Marsh had given her.

She tried it on before the mirror on the dresser. Its white linen collar and cuffs, which were shaped in ripples resembling the scallops of a maple leaf, were becoming.

She had bought the little dress because it looked like what the well-dressed working girl wore in magazine advertisements.

When you were blue there was nothing that pepped you up like buying a new dress.

Lillian had found that an unfailing rule. Well, it always had worked at home. And, although, she only had $25 left out of her $50 she reasoned that investing half of that in the little black business frock would be wise.

The crepe of the dress fitted snugly. And it did make her look businesslike. She looked as if she should have a note book in one hand and a pencil in the other.

She knocked on the door leading from her room to that occupied by two girls, Laura and Eve.

"Come in, Lillian!" Eve called through cheerily.

"Well," Lillian said stepping jauntily into the room, "at least you two won't tell me any more I don't look like a working girl."

Both of the girls looked her over admiringly.

"Take a letter, Miss Blane," said Laura.

"Ah, Blane, old darling—did you spend the last million? It certainly looks like that much—no less" from Eve.

Lillian said: "You really like it, then?"

They really did. "We're burning up with envy. That's how well we like it," said Eve.

"Tell us—did you get a job today? Is that why you blew yourself to a new dress?" Laura wanted to know.

Lillian shook her head. "No—but after I went to three agencies and waited in the reception rooms—two hours in each place . . ."

"Oh, you don't have to tell us any more," said Eve, taking up a stocking to continue the darning she had been about when Lillian came in.

The second morning Lillian had been in the rooming house on University place, near Washington square, she had met these two girls.

They had awakened her with their chatter the first morning. She could hear them talking through the thin walls of the old house, which had been given a newer look with the aid of cheap wall paper and paint.

"If we get to that agency on lower Broadway by 8 o'clock this morning maybe we'll get a chance at a job," Lillian had heard one girl say.

"Even a chance would be something," was the reply.

She knew then that they were job hunters, too. They would know where and how to go about looking for work. Perhaps they would tell her.

So, the next morning Lillian made it a point to be leaving her room just as they were leaving. And as they started up University place toward the Sheridan square subway station Lillian walked close by them.

And when they turned in a little coffee shop Lillian followed.

They all sat along the red oilclothed counter together and before their toast-and-coffee-and-orange-breakfasts (these combination breakfasts were only 20 cents there) were finished the three girls had become next to chummy.

"So—you're looking for a job, too?" said the bright-eyed blonde, who said her name was Eve.

"As an unemployed girl should?" chimed in the brunet, Laura.

Lillian found Laura's remark amusing. It was the sort of thing one of the girls in her set back home would have said.

"The thing that seems to stand in my way," Lillian said, "is that I haven't been a working girl before."

They looked at her, interested.

"Well, why be one now?" Laura wanted to know. "No one works any more for the fun of it. Even when they have to work there are no jobs."

"Oh, there must be jobs in New York? In New York there are loads of things to do!"

"Loads," repeated Laura, "but trying to find out where will wear out loads of shoes."

"Would you like to make the rounds of some of the employment agencies with us?" Eve asked Lillian as they turned out of the coffee shop.

"I'd like to—if you don't mind."

"Mind?" they chimed. "The more there are the less weepy it seems."

Lillian glowed with a new exhilaration as they walked down the street together, under the thundering elevated on Sixth street on up Christopher to the Seventh avenue subway.

She was on the trail of work—with girls who had had jobs. They would help her get launched. She felt happier. Encouraged.

Eve had been a copy writer in an advertising agency. Laura had been a super-secretary. "But that was B. D.," Laura informed Lillian.

"Before the depression," explained Eve.

Lillian's knowing eyes took in the two girls in the bright winter morning sun as they walked up Christopher.

Laura wore what had been a good looking cloth coat. But it sported last season's flare instead of this season's cling. Its collar needed a furrier's attention.

But her white gloves were freshly laundered and a perky little artificial gardenia on her collar gave her an air of smartness.

Her little tilted nose and her straight shoulders certainly did not plead for sympathy.

Eve's coat was of a sturdy muskrat, with a suede belt to pull its winter-before-last's straight lines into the clinging, fitted waist of this season.

Lillian's style-consciousness made her sorry for the friendly girls.

Her expensive and new black broadcloth coat, with its becoming silver fox collar, which boasted an entire skin, put their wraps to shame.

But if the girls were conscious of this—and being girls, no doubt but what they were—they never showed it.

While Lillian felt pity for them they experienced a pang for her. . . . But Eve said: "You certainly don't look like a working girl," with sincere admiration.

They had tramped the streets in their thin-soled slippers day after day—fighting to keep up their courage, determined to keep their hopes fresh.

They were part of the great city's army of unemployed. And with the understanding of those in the ranks they were receiving Lillian, fearing to tell her of the heartaches they had seen and felt.

Seeking work. There must be work. Work for everybody in New York. And especially anybody with a profession.

Their nickels trickled through the subway slots. They pushed into the crowded trains, shot along for miles, then elbowed their way above ground again.

Lillian stepped along with them.

At the agency Laura and Eve fell into the long line of girls outside of a window where a plump woman spoke in a low voice. They stood in line ahead of Lillian.

The woman recognized both of them. And when they passed her she said, in the same toneless, monotonous voice she used to the girls ahead of them—"There is nothing for you today."

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

This great service is maintained by The Record News for the benefit of its readers who may use it every day without cost to themselves. All they have to do is ask for any information desired and they will receive prompt answers by mail. Questions must be clearly written and stated as briefly as possible. Enclose two-cent stamp for return postage and address The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Who holds the record for stolen bases in a baseball game?—A. W.

A.—It is held by Eddie Collins. On two occasions he stole six bases in one game.

Q.—What proportion of the rubber imported into the United States is used by Akron industries?—V. B.

A.—Akron uses about half of all the crude rubber imported into the United States, or nearly 40 per cent of all produced in the world.

Q.—If a foreigner comes to this country as a student, may he remain and become naturalized?—E. A. L.

A.—An alien student who enters this country on a student passport is permitted to remain only until he has completed the course for which he was given permission.

Q.—Is there a law against a third term in the United States—P. D.

A.—The phrase "third term" usually is interpreted to refer to the presidency. There is no law against a third term as president but the example of Washington and subsequent accumulated tradition frown on it. However, the state of Delaware forbids by statue a third term for its governors. The constitutions of 17 states contain provisions limiting consecutive service of governors.

Q.—What American product requires the greatest amount of specially denatured alcohol yearly?—T. W.

A.—Nitrocellulose leads with a consumption of 13,000,000 gallons.

Q.—Are potted plants in large numbers in a closed living room injurious to the health of occupants of the room?—S. J. B.

A.—The public health service says that potted plants in a living room would not be injurious to the health, but it is a mistake to keep the windows closed in a living room. There should be a free circulation of air in all rooms in which people live.

Q.—May one person be called a committee?—G. H.

A.—A committee may be one person or it may be more persons appointed or chosen by a larger number or an organized body to give some special service.

Q.—What does jujutsu mean?—R. S.

A.—It is a Japanese method of wrestling, in which anatomical knowledge and skill are used rather than physical strength. The word means soft art.

Q.—What was Rasputin's real name?—H. T. H.

A.—It was Gregor Novikh. Rasputin was a nickname given this notorious Russian monk as a term of opprobrium as it means dissolute, profligate, licentious.

Q.—What is a plumcot?—L. H.

A.—It is a cross between a plum and an apricot.

Q.—Are the laws for contract bridge the same as those for auction bridge?—A. M.

A.—They are essentially the same except for scoring. Tricks, honors, games, rubber, slams, doubles, premiums, and penalties are different, and there is a basic difference that only the number of tricks contracted for can be scored toward game.

Q.—What is the derivation of the word, ranch?—C. H. S.

A.—It is from the Spanish-American word, rancho, originally meaning a place where herdsmen eat and sleep. It gradually came to mean a grazing farm.

Q.—Please name a few plants particularly suitable for sun-parlors.—L. McQ.

A.—The following are well suited: Begonia, primrose, ageratum, lantana, coleus, and Boston ivy.

Q.—Has the postoffice department ever been self-sustaining?—A. H. N.

A.—According to the annual report of the postmaster general, there was an audited postal surplus during the years 1882, 1883, 1911, 1913, 1914, 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1919.

Q.—Where is the Grand canyon?—B. K. P.

A.—The Grand Canyon proper begins shortly after the Colorado river enters the state of Arizona and is entirely within this state. It has a length of over 100 miles. In some places, as at the little town of Grand Canyon where the well known resort is, the canyon is fully 15 miles broad from rim to rim.

First Methodist W. M. S. Studies Trend Of Times

Members of the First Methodist Woman's Missionary society met in circles Monday to discuss a special mission topic on "Movies and Lawlessness." Mrs. C. P. Warman was hostess to members of circle one when Mrs. N. H. Martin gave the devotional. Mrs. J. C. Russell discussed the mission topic and the bulletin news was given by Mrs. J. A. Mayer.

In a short social hour, dainty refreshments were served to 14 members.

Circle Two

Members of circle two, Mrs. T. A. Hicks leader, met for the day at the home of Mrs. Homer Lee on Hayes street, and made 10 girls' dresses in their welfare work.

The devotional talk by Dr. Jo Anna Campbell was highly inspirational and was followed by pretty musical numbers. Mesdames G. H. Pirtle and Kathryn Cook Matthews sang a duet with Mrs. Jozach Easley at the piano, and Mrs. Easley also accompanied Mrs. W. C. Noe in a beautiful solo number.

A delicious luncheon composed of dishes brought by each member of the circle was served to 23 members at tables decorated with spring flowers.

Circle Three

Mrs. F. P. Warren was hostess to members of circle three with Mesdames L. I. Lucey and D. C. Kolp assisting.

Mrs. N. M. Clifford, the leader, presided and the devotional on "Loyalty of Jesus," was given by Mrs. W. A. McCarty. Mrs. Clyde Gibson discussed the topic on movies and lawlessness and Mrs. J. J. Perkins gave the bulletin news.

In a short social hour, Miss Margaret Bone sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Coming Through the Rye," with Mrs. J. E. O'Brien at the piano. Mrs. O'Brien also accompanied Miss Loraine Mathis who played "Listen to the Mockingbord" as a violin solo.

Mrs. S. F. Basham was received as a new member and refreshments were served to 20 members and to Mesdames Richardson of Phoenix, Ariz., and Wulsjen of Mineral Wells.

Circle Four

Members of circle four met at the home of Mrs. H. D. Egger with Mesdames R. M. Stinson and T. C. Anthony joint hostesses.

Mrs. C. W. Staley opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Bertha Reed gave the inspiring devotional. "Motion Pictures and Lawlessness," were discussed by Mrs. Oneal Taylor and Mrs. Sterling P'Pool gave bulletin news.

Little Betty Ann and Patricia Wallace gave a group of readings and a delicious refreshment plate was served to Mesdames O. M. Wallace, Wayne Somerville and Anna Wallace and the children, who were visitors, and 17 members.

Circle Five

Mrs. J. S. Bridwell was hostess to members of circle five when the meeting was opened with song and Mrs. Walter Cline gave the devotional.

Mrs. C. E. Pross gave the topic for discussion, "Are the Movies Fit for Our Children?" and Mrs. C. A. Rogers gave bulletin news.

Refreshments were served to 20 members.

Circle Six

Mrs. J. Truman Stevens assisted by Mesdames Dick Moore, W. A. Mangham and R. V. Gwinn, joint hostesses, entertained members of circle six in the church parlors.

The meeting was opened with a song, "Close to Thee," after which Mrs. J. M. Blankenship of Eagle Rock, Calif., gave an impressive devotional, closing it with prayer.

Mrs. W. W. Silk gave the topic, "The Citizens' Responsibility for Crime," after which Mrs. Ralph DeShong gave the bulletin news.

There were 16 members and one visitor present.

Circle Seven

Mrs. J. P. Tarry was hostess to members of circle seven at her home on Tenth street and Mrs. R. L. Underwood gave the opening prayer followed by an inspiring devotional by Mrs. P. E. Miller.

In a short social meeting, dainty refreshments were served to 14 members and two visitors, Mrs. O. M. Smith and Miss Ruth Downing.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"Only Yesterday," by Frederick Lewis Allen, seems to us to have the most universal appeal of any 1931 non-fiction publication. We have enjoyed it, and we find that if a person reads a few chapters, he is almost invariably charmed. Without specifically numbering our years, we are safe in expressing satisfaction with vivid current history of which we know, and it gets the same reaction from other ages.

A young man of something near 30 spoke of his enthusiasm over this book, and we heard a man in his 60th year remark that he thought it should be in every library.

We had a copy on our bedside table, so that we might have pleasant moments of retrospection as "in-the-bed" reading. We missed it and found that our 17-year-old daughter was absorbed in it. "I want to start my personal "grown-up" library, with this," she said. She was reading of a period that covered her memories, but the memories were like dim shadows and the book made them clear pictures.

Mr. Allen begins the history in the days of the armistice and carries on to the depression of 1929-30. The prelude goes into a round of daily life just after the war; clothes are described, the woman's clothes of that date. How well we remember the skirts rather tight around the ankles and six inches from the floor—the shortest up to that date. Though we did wear only black and brown hose, Mr. Allen does not stress a fact we remember, that the first silk stockings were heavy; chiffon was unknown in hose. And as to high shoes, we wonder how many rejoiced as we did in white buckskin boots.

If you ever drove a model T Ford in the days before cars had self-starters; if you ever cranked one on a cold morning and pulled the little wire loop that controlled the choke—leaped to the running board to move spark and throttle before the old Ford died—you will rejoice in Mr. Allen's descriptions.

Wilson's great dream is described and his last fight is poignantly told. The days of Mah Jong arrived (how we devotees of bridge scorned it), and many merchants were left after a time with expensive ivory Mah Jong sets. Coue's "Every day in every way, I am getting better and better," became a regular expression for thousands of tongues. We have repeated it often ourself without any appreciable improvement in mind, body or disposition.

The problem of "the younger generation" when "nice" girls began to smoke and drink, is still very green in our memory, though the younger generation has become a brave one now. Confession magazines are dated by the author and bobbed hair, with women disturbing the habitues of the barbership, came in its turn.

National scandals, a presidential race where the rights of the American people were weighed in many different scales, the "hero racket," the high-brow theme—each in its turn.

The racketeer was born of the 18th amendment; gang wars began; the Wickersham committee made a report! Florida boomed and collapsed. The stock market and the federal reserve trouble led up to the madness of 1929. Madness that is not yet finished.

But every persons who keeps apace with the world, should have a copy of "Only Yesterday."

Floral Heights Circles Study Movie Problem

The moving pictures in their relation to children and the law was the general theme of discussion for all circles of the Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society Monday afternoon. Mrs. Shadie Hale was hostess to members of circle one and Mesdames R. E. Bridges and J. B. Stokes assisted. Mrs. O. W. Harvey, circle leader, presided.

Following the opening song, Mrs. J. W. Richardson led in prayer and the Scripture lesson was taught by Mesdames Betty Dolman and R. B. Featherston. Mrs. J. D. Stokes gave the bulletin news and Mrs. M. G. Monaghan discussed the influence of movies on children.

Mrs. Mart Robertson presented the circle with a quilt to be sold as a benefit.

In the social hour, Mrs. A. B. Short gave a group of readings and Miss Lucile Elkins gave piano numbers.

Delicious refreshments were served to 26 members and three visitors.

Circle Two

Mesdames P. A. Martin and Finis Crutchfield were joint hostesses to members of circle two at Mrs. Martin's home when Mrs. J. M. Hawley led the song service opening the meeting. Mrs. Crutchfield gave the devotional.

Mrs. Ross Coriett gave the bulletin news and the leaflet "Are the Movies Fit for Our Children?" was discussed by Mrs. Curt Buddrus.

A splendid report was made by the treasurer, Mrs. Milton Johnson.

In the social half hour, Kenneth Spell gave a group of clever readings and delightful refreshments were served to 12 members and to Mesdames K. C. Spell and I. N. Crutchfield, who were visitors.

Circle Three

Mrs. R. G. Cocanower, assisted by Mesdames Floyd Billingsley, H. R. Hanks, A. U. Young and Ed Peterson, entertained members of circle three at a lovely luncheon and program. The house was profusely decorated for the occasion in bluebonnets, and Mrs. Horace Lankford, the leader, presided.

Mrs. R. J. Claypool gave the devotional on the topic, "Religion of Joy" after which Mrs. H. M. Campbell, a guest speaker from the First Christian church, gave an unusually interesting talk on "Representative Women of the Bible." Mrs. Campbell started with Eve and gave outstanding characteristics of 10 women of the Bible.

In the business session, Mrs. T. R. Boone, the treasurer, reported that $40.35 has been collected on pledges and that the circle made $227.40 on the luncheons served recently.

Mrs. Floyd Billingsley, representing the Missionary voice, reported on subscriptions received for the church paper, and Mrs. Jasper Ferguson, social service chairman, reported on a shower planned for the day nursery.

Nineteen members answered to roll call.

Circle Five

Mrs. Frank Elkins was hostess to members of circle five with Mrs. Murrell Hooper, circle leader, presiding. The meeting was opened with song followed by sentence prayers. Mrs. Chris Helmcamp gave an inspiring devotional followed with song.

One new member, Mrs. O. M. Reeves, was introduced.

Mrs. Clyde Tittle, social service chairman, announced the circle had done 32½ hours of social service work since the previous meeting. A rummage sale was planned for Saturday, April 23, and a bake sale for Saturday, May 6.

Mrs. F. H. Corbin read an interesting paper on spiritual cultivation and Nita Dell McDowell gave two readings which were followed by the bulletin news, given by Mrs. Anthony. Mrs. J. K. Taylor read a paper on the special mission topic, "Are Movies Fit for Children?" and Mrs. S. E. Trevathan read an article on "Movies."

Mesdames Billy Burt and F. H. Corbin, joint hostess with Mrs. Elkins, served delicious refreshments to 16 members.

Circle Six

Members of circle six met at the home of Mrs. C. G. Crump with Mesdames C. C. Parfet, H. C. Jasper and L. L. Bivens joint hostesses.

The session was opened with a song after which Mrs. R. J. Eubanks gave the devotionals.

During the social hour, Patricia Pond played a piano number and Mrs. George Thorburn sang a solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Crump.

Splendid reports were given by all committee chairmen.

There were 12 members and two visitors present.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

First Presbyterians Meet In Joint All-Day Session

Members of the Lucy Hansell society and the Woman's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church held a joint meeting Monday for Bible study when Mrs. B. L. Fain, president of the Woman's Missionary society, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. O. E. Maer gave an inspiring Bible lesson, taking Paul's address to the Romans as her subject.

Mrs. Maer spoke of the talents which God gives to people and of their duty to use them for the good of humanity. "Just as seeing, hearing and all the senses are in one body," she said, "so are we all in one body with Christ."

Her description of the unjust laws of the Roman government and of Paul's magnificent efforts to convince the citizens that the civic authority should be directed by God's laws was an inspiring talk, and Mrs. Maer pointed out, through Paul's address, the duties of loyal citizens. She spoke of the different sects and beliefs among ancient and modern people; asserted the right of personal liberty in belief, but stated that it is God's right to judge each and every person.

Mrs. H. P. Dunlop gave a special prayer for Rev. R. H. Evans, Presbyterian missionary in Lolodorf, Cameroun district, Africa, who has been seriously injured and is not expected to live. The sympathy of the group for Mrs. Evans, who is in Baltimore with their two children, was expressed. Rev. and Mrs. Evans have visited in Wichita Falls many times and have a great number of friends in the city.

Members of circle number one were hostesses at the delightful luncheon which was served at 12:30 o'clock. The tables were beautiful with a profusion of spring flowers.

The afternoon was spent in sewing for welfare work, with Mrs. Leon Cygon in charge. A large number of garments were completed.

Lamar Baptist W. M. U. Circles Study Bible

Members of the Lamar Baptist Woman's Missionary union met in circles Monday for Bible lessons and to plan welfare work.

Mrs. J. W. Covington was hostess to circle two and Mrs. Max Mallett gave the devotional. Mrs. E. F. Moore presided at the business session and also taught the Bible lesson from the Book of Ruth. It was planned to bring overalls for Buckner's orphan home the first Monday in May.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. A. M. Duckworth and Mesdames V. Nash and J. M. Tanner were visitors. There were nine members present.

Circle Four

Mrs. C. F. Paul was hostess to circle four and also gave the devotional. Mrs. F. Y. Ponder taught the Bible lesson, and in the business session it was decided to send overalls to Buckner's orphan home. Mesdames Luther Campbell and W. R. Hull were elected group captains.

The session was closed with sentence prayers.

Mrs. C. H. Brooks was enrolled a new member, and there were 13 members present and two visitors, Mesdames E. R. King and M. B. Brown.

Circle Five

Members of circle five met at the home of Mrs. McWhirter and Mrs. H. D. Biles opened the session with prayer. Mrs. McWhirter led the Bible lesson after which sentence prayers were given in behalf of the revival in progress at the church.

Mrs. Jess McLarry closed the meeting with prayer, and there were 10 present.

Circle Six

Mrs. W. R. Harper was hostess to members of circle six and the meeting was opened with devotionals by Mrs. V. N. Tillerson. Mrs. J. W. Tallant gave the opening prayer and Mrs. Tillerson was in charge of the business session when it was decided to take cookies to the day nursery. Mesdames J. W. Sanders and Bill Ford were enrolled new members.

Mrs. Harper gave the closing prayer and there were nine present.

Grant Street W. M. S. Has Circle Meetings

Grant Street Methodist women met in circles Monday afternoon and had lessons on "Are Movies Fit for Children?" Mrs. J. H. Hallmark on Grant street was hostess to circle one with Mrs. O. L. Gibbs, the leader, presiding.

The meeting was opened with songs and Mrs. H. D. Kuykendall offered prayer. Mrs. R. E. Stewart gave the devotionals.

Mrs. Kuykendall discussed the leaflet on the topic. Reports were read and plans made for a dinner for Friday, April 28. It was also voted to have a sandwich sale Saturday, May 14.

The meeting was closed with prayer. There were 16 members and visitors present.

Circle Two

Mrs. W. E. Hodges was hostess to circle two and the meeting was opened with the Lord's prayer, repeated in unison. Mrs. D. O. Waymire gave the devotional and Mrs. M. M. Johnson gave the leaflet on "Moving Pictures."

In the business session it was decided to meet April 27 at the home of Mrs. Waymire to quilt.

Mrs. John McMahon dismissed 12 members and one visitor with prayer.

Today's Pattern

Contrast Tops the Mode
PATTERN 2321
By ANNE ADAMS

Step-by-step instruction diagrams given with this pattern.

Exaggerated width at the shoulders is easily obtained when contrasting fabric is used for yoke and sleeves, and here it is beautifully done in an afternoon frock of printed and plain materials. The lines of this model are exceptionally smart, the downward point of the bodice seaming repeated in the hip section of the skirt. There are long puffed sleeves, too, to replace the flares if you wish. Charming in flat crepe or one of the sheers.

Pattern 2321 is obtainable only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch fabric, ⅞ yard contrasting.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly, your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Your summer wardrobe can be planned easily and inexpensively with the assistance of our current 32-page fashion catalog. The best of the season's afternoon, sports and evening frocks, lingerie, house dresses and kiddies' models all personally chosen by Anne Adams, are made available through this beautiful book. Send for your copy today. Price of catalog, fifteen cents. Catalog and pattern together twenty-five cents. WHEN the doctor says, "This little girl needs a dose of castor oil," there's no cause for tears nowadays.

Mary Jane used to make a scene at those words. But today she merely grins and says, "All right—if it's the tasteless kind!" She knows that Squibb Tasteless Castor Oil is no trouble at all to take.

Try dipping the spoon first in very hot water. That thins the oil and it goes down easily, leaving no taste at all.

Your druggist has Squibb Tasteless Castor Oil. Be sure to ask for it by name.

High Noon Wedding Unites Popular Wichita Couple

A wedding beautiful in its spring simplicity was solemnized Monday at high noon when Miss Lillian Buchanan became the bride of Leon L. O'Neill at the rectory of Sacred Heart church, Rev. Father Patrick J. F. OBeirne reading the ceremony in the presence of a number of intimate friends.

An improvised altar of bridal wreath and Talisman roses formed a lovely background for the ceremony and the wide rooms of the rectory were bright with bowls and vases of flowers.

Prenuptial music included "I Love You Truly," and "Oh Promise Me," sung by Mrs. George Kelley, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Carl Edwards with Mrs. Fred B. Sharp playing the violin obligato.

Miss Buchanan, with Mrs. E. S. Rest as her matron of honor, entered to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin played by Mrs. Edwards with the violin obligato by Mrs. Sharp. Mr. O'Neill was attended by Mr. Rest.

The bride was lovely in a Milgrim model of aqua-marine trimmed in silver fox, with harmonizing accessories. She carried a shower bouquet of Talisman roses and valley lilies. The matron of honor wore an ashes of roses gown with brown accessories and carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas and valley lilies.

Luncheon Follows

Immediately following the wedding, the members of the wedding party and a few close friends were entertained with a lovely luncheon at the Woman's Forum clubhouse where the table, decorated with marigolds and sweet peas, stressed the pretty spring motif, and where a lovely wedding cake centered the table.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill left for a short wedding trip to San Antonio, Galveston and other Texas cities, the bride wearing a handsome going away suit of blue ostrich cloth with accessories to harmonize.

Mrs. O'Neill has been a prominent young business woman of Wichita Falls for the past seven years and is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine Buchanan, Fort Wayne, Ind. Mr. O'Neill is a young business man who came here from Houston a few years ago, and is now manager of the W. K. M. Manufacturing company of Wichita Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill will be at home at 2306 Roberts on their return to the city.

League Commission Passes Buck on Sino-Jap Problem

GENEVA, April 18. (US)—The League of Nations' special far eastern commission of 19 today passed the buck to Shanghai negotiators to determine when conditions are ripe for Japanese troop withdrawals, but reserved the right itself to fix the final date.

The secret meeting of the assembly's commission terminated with a partial success for the Chinese but not to the Japanese. Tokyo's delegates here are calm, however, having already given every indication that Tokyo will agree only to what she herself deems not harmful to her interests.

Loyal Daughters Meet Monday in Monthly Lunch

Mrs. Frank Harrison presided when members of the Loyal Daughters class of the First Christian Sunday school met for their monthly luncheon in the dining room of the church Monday. Mrs. J. Lem Kevil, teacher, urged that a full membership of 55 be the goal of the class for the Mother's day program. There were 50 present Monday.

Mrs. W. R. Duke gave the invocation before the luncheon served at tables that were prettily decorated with potted and cut spring flowers. Mrs. James Ward sang two solos, "Far Off I Hear a Lover's Flute," and "Rose in the Bud," with Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes accompanying. Mrs. Steele Johnston gave a delightful reading, "The Vagabond House."

Members of Mrs. Leon Horn's group were hostesses, including Mesdames J. F. Boyd, W. R. Duke, W. W. Gant, T. E. Noble, James Ward, J. E. Drummond, J. W. Marlow, L. W. Goodwin, G. C. LaRue, E. O. Sturm, Misses Nell Carter, Louise Kennedy and Ellen Parker.

Guests for whom covers were laid were Mesdames M. C. Sherman, H. J. Hughey, O. H. Karr and Henry Penix.

High Blood Pressure

According to popular opinion, the blood pressure should be the same as the number of years in your age added to 100. This is not true. A normal blood pressure for an adult is between 120 and 130; any figure above 140 signifies high blood pressure. The blood pressure should not go up with added years. The only method of finding out whether or not your blood pressure is normal is with the use of a special instrument for this purpose.

Excitement sends the blood pressure up immediately, perhaps 30 points. If you are excited the first time your doctor examines your blood pressure, it would be a good plan to go back and have it taken over when you are more used to the procedure and feel calmer.

As a general rule, one having high blood pressure shows a tendency toward a rosy, florid complexion, is over-weight, and usually brimming over with energy and vitality, such patients often being succussful in business. However, even thin, pale people are sometimes affected.

High blood pressure is frequently found associated with hardening of the arteries, obesity, nephritis and glandular disturbances. Temporary high blood pressure may occur in women at the meno-pause.

The common symptoms of high blood pressure are dizziness (especially when bending over), headache, flushing of the face, sensation of fullness through the head, ringing in the ears, shortness of breath, nosebleed, bulging of the veins of the forehead, and occasionally, fainting.

Causes of High Blood Pressure

High blood pressure is caused by a toxic state of the body, produced largely by dietetic errors. Overeating of starches and sugars is undoubtedly an important factor. Before a dangerous pressure exists harmful poisons must first have been present and circulating in the blood over a long period of time. Many other factors may make the condition worse, among them being eyestrain, excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, mental strain, toxic poisoning from constipation, over indulgence in pepper, spices and salt and pus pockets around the teeth, gums or tonsils.

If the blood pressure is not reduced to safety and goes over 185 or 200, serious conditions such as apoplexy and heart failure may result.

The cure of high blood pressure is readily accomplished by changing wrong habits of living over to good ones, first relieving the body of its toxic wastes by means of the eliminating powers of the fast and enemas. It is significant that medical authorities, such as Osler, say that "Any effort to reduce the pressure by drugs is useless and inadvisable (except in endocrine disturbances)." The patient should rely upon natural means for successful reduction of his high blood pressure. There is no question about a cure through dietetic means if you are willing to follow a very strict diet. I have never seen a case where the blood pressure was not made more normal by this method. After the fast, when the pressure has been reduced to normal it is of the utmost importance that the patient realize that he must avoid excessive starches and sugars and that a permanent cure depends entirely upon the regulation of the use of such foods, and often upon avoiding them for a long period of time.

The patient should use frequent enemas in order to flush the toxic poisons out of the bowel more quickly. Short cool showerbaths are very beneficial, as they attract the blood away from the interior of the body and distribute it among the smaller vessels of the skin. The patient must at all times try to remain mentally tranquil as worry or anger may bring on a dangerous crisis.

After the blood pressure has neared normal by dieting, the patient should take moderate exercise, such as that afforded by golf, walking, and regulated calistehnics.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pains in Chest

Question—Mrs. Edna Mae R. writes: "Can you tell me, doctor, without examination, what occasional pains in the chest and around the heart would indicate in a woman 50 years years old? Have been told by an alarmist these pains might mean cancer?"

Answer—Pains in the chest and around the heart might be from various causes, such as pleurisy, gas pressing against the diaphragm, angina pectoris, intercostal neuralgia, pleural adhesions, etc. It is, of course, impossible for me to tell you what the pains are without having the opportunity of making an examination. Cancer is a very serious disorder and no laymen should attempt to diagnose it. Do not allow yourself to be guided by such an opinion.

Hot Cakes and Sorphum

Question—L. asks: "What do you think of sorghum with hot cakes or waffles? Has it any particular food value? Is it fattening? I have been using honey, but I have become tired of it."

Answer—Sorghum molasses is as good as any other kind of sugar god as any other kind of sugar to use with hot cakes or waffles. Only a small amount of any kind of sugar should be used and the hot cakes or waffles should be baked thorouughly so as to dextrinize them as much as possible. No grease should be used in preparing either hot cakes or waffles. Some of the new thick aluminum cooking utensils require no oil or grease.

Waurika Successful In Highway Fight

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., April 18.—After a continuous fight for four years, Waurika finally has been successful in its efforts to have U. S. highway 81 pass through here, as planned when the original bond issue was voted.

Two roads across Jefferson county, one east and west and another north and south, were provided in the bond issue. The routes were approved by the state highway commission.

Following a change in the membership of the state highway commission, it was announced that the U. S. S. 81 will be changed to miss Waurika. The road was paved from the Stephens county line to Waurika but an injunction kept the road from being completed on to Ryan, passing a mile east of Waurika.

The case was taken to the supreme court where it was decided that the highway commission could change the route but could not use the bond money for the work.

It was then announced that the federal highway commission did not approve the route through Waurika and Ryan and no work was done. Last week a petition was sent to Washington asking the Oklahoma congressmen to help in getting a decision.

CATS TAKE SECOND FROM SPUDDERS, 4-1, IN SNAPPY GAME

VINCENT BOWS TO WHITWORTH

Teams Get Through in Hour And 12 Minutes

Special to The Record News.

FORT WORTH, April 18.—In one of the snappiest games ever played in the Texas league, the Fort Worth Panthers defeated Wichita Falls 4 to 1 here Monday afternoon. The whole business was finished in the official time of one hour and 12 minutes.

Dick Whitworth pitched for the Cats and allowed only four hits. Fred Vincent was the losing pitcher.

An error by Engle put Bejma on base when one was out in the first but Fuss and Badgro lifted pop flies to Dalrymple.

Cats Score Three

Fort Worth hopped into a three-run lead. Badgro made a great diving catch of Morse's short fly. Dalrymple walked. Steinecke lined to Fuss in deep right. Jeanes, Hooks and Frey followed with doubles which accounted for three runs. Scharein threw out Baker to retire the side.

A double play cut down the Spudders in the second after the first man walked. Fort Worth went out in order.

Wichita Falls scored one in the third. Euller opened with a single to left. Vincent bunted and was safe when no one covered first. Garms drove home the tally with a single to right. Bejma forced Garms and was doubled at first. Fuss rolled out.

The McCabemen again went out as they came to the dish. Wichita Falls followed suit in the fourth. One of the three Cats, Frey, up in the inning singled to right center but was out trying to make second on the hit. The fifth was a blank except for Engle's opening single. That was more than happened to impede the rapid progress of the contest in the sixth.

Badgro Raps One

Badgro, broke the string of consecutive outs at the beginning of the seventh with a hot hit to right. Engle took Green's rap and started the Cats' third double play. Owens furnished Dalrymple with his 7th chance. Engle was hit on the head and knocked out in the last half of the inning but continued in the game when he recovered. He was the only man to get on base.

After two were out in the eighth the Panthers shoved over their fourth run. Steinecke singled to center. Jeanes got a hit across second and when Bejma threw wildly to first Steinecke went to third from where he scored on Hooks' single to right. Frey flied out.

Wichita Falls went down one, two, three to end the game.

Fairview to Meet Oklaunion Nine Today

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, April 18.—Oklaunion's baseball club, leaders with Odel and Clara in bracket No. 1 of the interscholastic league district No. 4, will play at Fairview Tuesday afternoon in its second contest of the season. Harrold will entertain Clara this week but the definite date for the encounter has not been announced. Odell will remain idle.

Oklaunion won its opening contest from Harrold 16-0 with Ber Williams easily handling the Hornet batters while the Oklaunion club pounded the offerings of the Harrold hurlers with ease. Odell also had an easy time in its opener, trouncing Fairview 19-1. Burkburnet has notified Knox Kinard, district chairman, of its withdrawal from the circuit, and all scheduled Burkburnett games will be forfeited.

Spanish Fort Defeats Caps Corner, 5-1

Special to The Record News.

SAINT JO, Texas, April 18.—Spanish Fort took a five-run lead over Caps Corner in the first two innings and won 5 to 1 Sunday. Washington started for Caps but after the five runs were scored Shine Davenport, ace of the Corner boys, did not allow a run. Pig Howard went the route for Spanish Fort and kept their hits well scattered.

Bridgework and Bicuspids Beckon Eddie If He Fails

NEW YORK, April 18.—Among the young men striving to catch on is one here who modestly admits he can take it or leave it. If he proves his worth to the New York Yankees, fine, for he loves the game—but if he fails, it's back to his old job of molar mechanic in a dental garage.

The young man is Edward Farrell, D. D. S. He's plain Eddie Farrell, or little "Doc" Farrell to the fans.

Farrell feels that he can say farewell to baseball the moment the mood strikes him. He is only 29, but into seven baseball seasons he has crowded much.

From the dental college of the University of Pennsylvania in 1925, "Doc" came to the big leagues to spend five full seasons and half of another. He has worn the uniforms of the Giants, Braves, Cardinals, Cubs and the Los Angeles Coast league team. Between campaigns he has practiced his profession two winters and taken post-graduate courses in dentistry at Pennsylvania, New York Medical Center and Boston City hospital.

"A year ago," Eddie tells, "I decided to play out the season with the Los Angeles club and to take a chance on getting back into the majors once more. I told myself, and the club, that if nobody wanted me at the end of the season, I would leave baseball. But the Yanks bought me."

Farrell played 100 games at third base for the Angels. He played 50 games at second base and finished the season at shortstop. In all he took part in 185 games for Los Angeles and batted .327.

"I may be in the majors a season or two, perhaps less," says Farrell, "but I will continue to enjoy baseball and will always be a fan. Baseball has been good to me; I've enjoyed my association with it. I've made a lot of friends."

And little "Doc" Farrell, when he leaves baseball, is just the kind of fellow who will be missed.

The RAMBLER'S CORNER

By FRED THOMPSON

Since every one apparently is deriding the Shreveport baseball club on account of its poor showing here, this writer will come to its defense.

I'm a Red.

I'm glad the Spudders whipped the sand of 'em, of course; but later on in the season that might not be as easy a task as it was here last week.

The fact that the Sports are mainly old-timers, major league castoffs, boys who were stars under the big top 15 or more years ago, may discredit the Shreveporters; but on the other hand it may not. These old-timers stand an even chance of fooling everybody in this league.

It takes time for these veterans to get going. Wait until about midseason, when their joints are well oiled and the kinks worked out of their muscles, and their eyes take on a shade of the old lustre—then watch 'em go.

And they say that George Sisler won't last through the season at first. I don't believe it; blah, says I.

I'm a Red.

I know George will play most of this season because he told me so himself.

If he needs moral support, and no end of loud cheers from the press box to keep him going, this writer will furnish plenty of both. For years and years I read and heard of George Sisler in baseball song and story; but last week, for the first time, he performed before my eyes. There were about 5,000 other fans in the park but I felt old George was dancing around first base for me, alone.

Gee, I'm an egotist, or egoist, or whatever the word is. I'm a Red. Maybe it's the spring.

But what a sight was old George. He was actually a thing of baseball beauty which will last forever—in the minds of every baseball fan who sees him perform during his tenure on this swirling globe.

Jack Burns, compared even to the aging Sisler, is as awkward as a babe learning how to toddle about. George is more than a first baseman; when he fields he is an artist, for the way he carries and handles that diminutive, lithe body of his is reminiscent of a dance.

Oh well, maybe I'm poetic. Maybe it's the spring.

Anyway and however, I'm a Red.

So is Tom Conlan. The poor redhead has had pretty poor luck in his first two starts in this league; but don't be discouraged. Tom is one of the most earnest, ambitious pitchers who ever lunged into a Spudder camp. We believe he'll come through.

So far, at least, he's shown a great deal more stuff than either Marvin Ferrell or Stormy Vincent.

Gullic May Return

Manager Hap Morse of the Dallas Steers is one Texas league skipper who knows the value of publicity, and furthermore, knows how to get it in the newspapers.

He not only supplies the scribes with no end of information. He writes for them, himself.

In his sports column in one of the Dallas papers last week, he announced flatly that the Browns had already made arrangements to send Ted Gullic back to Wichita Falls this season.

Whether it's true or not, we cannot say. Baseball transactions are regarded by some clubs as deep mysteries, not to be revealed until 6:41 p. m. (C. S. T.) next Monday, or maybe Sunday. It is obvious, of course, that the Spudders need a right-hand hitting outfielder, and Gullic seems to be available. No announcement of the alleged transaction, however, has been made here.

If Gullic does return he will strengthen the club materially, that is, if he doesn't insist on four-hour sunbaths in midday on Galveston beach. That's one reason we're in favor of Waco getting a franchise, preferably the Galveston one. With Jinx Tucker parading around Waco, the atmosphere must be so funereal the sun never shines.

The Best Yet

Galveston has furnished the best baseball in the league in its opening games. It has furnished the best, by far. Among its first games were two 13-inning contests, tight pitchers' duels. That's baseball. Nothing like the slugfests, poor pitching and rotten fielding staged elsewhere in the league—for instance that 20-to-something game between the Buffs and the Indians at San Antonio.

No, I'm right. Don't argue with me. I feel sure of myself today. Maybe its the spring. Anyway, I'm a Red.

Beethovenish

With the leaves barking in the trees, pretty blooms warbling in the sunshine and birds preparing for countless blessed events, this is the time of the year for music in the grand manner.

One arises humming the Mendelssohn violin concerto, preferably the last movement, which is so joyous. If the eggs aren't fried just right, haul out a Brahms symphony: they're full of sound and fury, signifying nothing, and should make the cook step around a bit. Leave Tschaikowsky alone—the tearful Russian's music would sour the milk. If a Chopin mood tries to crowd in your mind, cast it out—have it for that moonlight date tonight. Granting that Daddy Brahms makes the cook fry the eggs better, wield the fork as if you were conducting Beethoven's Eroica symphony; for one thing, you'll have to do a bit of fast fork-wielding and breakfast will soon be over so you can join Nature's sunshine carnival without. Save the last movement of the symphony, however, for your morning greeting to Madame Nature. Imagine stepping out on the porch, exhaling the first draw of the old fag, and letting loose with that noble theme!

The neighbors will think you're a Red, just like me.

But may the neighbors go hang! Beethoven wrote 15 (or is it 30?) piano variations on that theme, and if the neighbors seem to dislike it, shoot 'em the variations, one by one, in a noble gesture of defiance.

Since the day's work will seem endless, pick out music that will be appropriate—one of Wagner's endless operas, for instance. If a composer ever overdid anything, it was old Richard Wagner, poor boy, although he meant well, and all that. By the time you get off work late in the afternoon, you will have completed singing maybe the first act of Lohengrin, that is, if you're good and fast.

Then call Susie and growl a little Beethoven at her when she says she'll be ready in 30 minutes, when you're already 30 minutes late for your date. For this occasion we suggest the bass fiddle part in the allegretto scherzando of the Eighth symphony.

Once headed for the outskirts of the city, with the tank full of gas and the night before thee, gettest romantic and haulest out a Chopin Nocturne, which should have the proper effect. If it does you'll feel like barking at the moon, and Beethoven, again, rushes in with exactly the right tune—the last movement of the fifth piano concerto, although we believe it was written originally to be sung in a beer-garden, with flaxen-haired, buxom German girls dancing about to the accompaniment of a puffing bass horn, an umpa-ing alto, and an unsteady cornet.

And hours later as you waver unsteadily towards what you earnestly hope and pray is your house and your front door, and not the neighbor's, lean on old Beethoven's Hammerklavier sonata, that reliable bulwark, its noble themes as unshakable through time as a bill collector.

Lo, but what a grand thing music is; And am I partial to Beethoven?

Sure. I'm a Red.

Coda

The writer, as you by now must be well aware, is quite goofy. It is always thus with me after listening to Eithel Allen Nelson play the fiddle, or Floyd Ard or Mrs. Harwood Stacy play the piano.

And last night I heard Mrs. Stacy and Mr. Nelson rehearsing for their concert tonight at Junior college, which I presume you will attend while I, alas, must work.

VERNON, Texas, April 18.—Oklaunion's Cardinals, Vernon and Frederick, Okla., inaugurated the initial season in the Red River Valley baseball circuit with victories Sunday, while the result of the Crowell-Quanah contest at Crowell was not known here. All eight teams go into action again next Sunday with the headline game being staged here when Oklaunion invades Vernon.

Despite spotty defensive play, the Oklaunion club slugged its way to a 9-7 win over the Chillicothe Cubs before a large crowd at Oklaunion to blast the lid. Roy Mints allowed the invaders but three earned runs, these late in the game after the Cards had compiled a sizable lead, but the Redbird infield went to pieces in the seventh frame, letting four unearned counters trickle across. Oklaunion's lineup included Carl Taylor, first base; Bill Richards, second base; Comp Rainwater, shortstop; Mike Williams and Byron Phillips, third base; Pac King, left field; Damon Simmons, center field; Gotche Mints, right field; Buck Ladd, catcher; and Roy Mints, pitcher.

Behind the sterling pitching of Lee Williams and Houston Lankford, the Vernon entry blanked Tipton, Okla., 3-0, on the Sooner field yesterday. Williams hurled the first seven innings, with Lankford finishing the shutout. The Vernon lineup: Webb, first base; Bannister, second base; Mason, shortstop; Jobe, third; Mintz, left field; Smith, center; Awbrey, right field; Bailey, catcher; Williams and Lankford, pitchers.

A five-run rally in the third inning allowed the Frederick, Okla., club to defeat Electra's Oilers, 7-4, in another Red River opening tilt. Zellers limited the Electrans to eight hits and scattered the Oilers' runs throughout the game. The Sooners drove Jones from the mound in the heavy scoring inning and added another pair of runs from the offerings of Enlow.

CROWELL BEATS QUANAH, 14-6

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, April 18.—Opening the Red River Valley league here Sunday, Crowell beat Quanah 14 to 6 in a very ragged game filled with walks and errors and some hard hitting by the Crowell team. Pitcher Rasberry hit the longest home run ever hit in the Crowell park, a distance of 430 feet from home plate to where it hit the ground.

SPORTS 6, STEERS 4

DALLAS, April 18. (AP)—Hitting the ball hard, the Shreveport Sports squared their series with Dallas at one all here today when they won, 6 to 4. George Hollerson pitched nine-hit ball for the Sports. He had one bad inning, the third, when Dallas collected five hits and scored four runs. After this Hollerson settled down and with excellent support, coasted to victory.

Grady Adkins started for Dallas. Whitehead relieved him and Oscar Fuhr finished on the mound for the Steers. Of the three, Fuhr was the most effective. Lou Brower, Dallas shortstop, was chased from the game in the eighth inning by Umpire Basil for protesting his being called out at first on a close ball. The game was filled with wrangling by players on decisions of umpires Basil and Palmer. Score:

TRIBE 6, BUCS 4

SAN ANTONIO, April 18. (AP)—Proving his effectiveness with runners on the bases, Herbert Sanders, latest pitching acquisition from the Kansas City Blues, hurled the San Antonio Indians to their first Texas league victory on the local lot this afternoon when the Tribe defeated the Galveston Buccaneers, 6 to 4, in the opening game of the series.

Sanders issued eight bases on balls during the first four innings and only two of these figured in the scoring.

The veteran southpaw, Hank Thormahlen, also had a wild afternoon and walked four batters and hit two, but he was the victim of errors by his teammates to lose his game. Score:

TIGERS 14, BROWNS 7

DETROIT, April 18. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers won a 14 to 7 victory over the St. Louis Browns today in a game featured by 28 hits and nine errors.

The Tigers made 16 hits, running Sam Gray out of the box in the fourth inning and finding his successors, Cooney and Polli almost as easily. Six Brown errors gave Detroit five runs, and St. Louis in turn made three runs in which as many Tigers errors figured. Whitlow Wyatt pitched his second victory of the season, coasting along on the early lead piled up by his teammates. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP)—Cotton was quiet today with prices generally lower under liquidation and scattered selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and a decline in the stock market.

After selling off to 6.05 early May rallied to 6.10 or within two points of Saturday's closing quotation, but closed at the lowest. The general market closed barely steady at net decliens of 7 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 5 points under a renewal of May liquidation and scattered selling on the relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Demand was limped and the market eased during the afternoon when sentiment seemed influenced by rather more favorable weather reports, reactions in the grain market and the heaviness of stocks. October closed at 6.47 while December and later monthe made new lows for the day in the late trading.

The weather report showed some light rains in Texas and Oklahoma, and was regarded as reflecting rather more favorable conditions over the belt, but attracted comparatively little comment.

Liverpool cables reported local and Bombay liquidation influenced by the weakness of Egyptian in that market.

Futures closed barely steady, 7 to 9 lower, spot quiet; middling, 6.15.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 18. (AP)—Cotton was fairly steady today in the face of the sharp break in stocks. After opening 1 to 3 points down on poor Liverpool cables, the market closed steady at the bottom showing net declines for the day of 5 to 6 points.

The market opened quiet but steady despite the fact that Liverpool cables came in 6 to 7 penny points worse than due.

First trades here showed losses of 1 to 3 points but rallied a single point right after the start on prospects on dry and colder weather in the West.

The market ruled quiet but fairly steady most of the afternoon despite the weakness in stocks but turned easier near the end on liquidation and may be made a new low at 6.06 while later months simply duplicated their earlier lows. The close was at the bottom with May and October showing net losses of 5 points for the day and July a net loss of 6 points.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans about unchanged.

Port receipts 10,227, for week 16,787, for season 9,306,508; last season 8,643,017. Exports 25,902, for week 31,759, for season 7,125,726. Last season 5,748,931; port stock 4,220,349; last year 3,638,843. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 116,468, last year 51,471. Spot sales at southern markets 4,649, last year 4,141.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 5 to 6 points:

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, April 18. (INS)—There was a fair demand for spot cotton at the opening today, with prices easier. Receipts totaled 8,100 bales, all American.

At midday middling fair was quoted at 5.86d, strictly good middling 5.41d, good middling 5.01d, strictly middling 4.91d, middling 4.86d, strictly low middling 4.76d, low middling 4.66d, strictly good ordinary 4.46d, good ordinary 4.16d.

Futures opened quiet with May at 4.58d, July 4.55d, October 4.53d, December 4.55d and January 4.59d.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, April 18. (AP)—Cotton was under pressure but prices held within a narrow range and at the close was steady and 1 to 6 points net lower. Opening prices were 1 to 3 points down on lower cables than due. Sterling exchange advanced 1⅛ points over the week-end. Prices eased 5 to 7 points in early trading in sympathy with a lower stock market, but recovered most of the loss later in the morning. Light rain fell over much of the belt and was mostly beneficial, especially in Central and West Texas. Further precipitation is forecast for the entire area. New crop news, especially the weather, grows in importance as a market factor. Average acreage estimates are likewise of importance. Private estimates of the cut from last year's figures range from 5 to 10 per cent.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, April 18. (AP)—At easing prices some business was moving in finished and unfinished cotton goods today. Rayon buying was quiet. Burlaps showed no change. Moderate purchases of silks are being made. Retail trade was a little better.

Security Prices Cling to Even Keel To Balance Unsteadiness of Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 18. (US)—Stock prices continued to slump today, but bond quotations held fairly firm. The action of bonds alone saved the markets from assuming a decidedly ragged appearance.

Relative firmness in bonds, if maintained, would be more satisfactory at the moment than in stocks.

Bond strength would signify that that period of fright is passing, and the influence of this changed psychology would be felt ultimately in stocks. The latter are dependent mainly, of course, upon an altered industrial picture, while bonds might reflect a more friendly investment sentiment quite distinct from actual betterment in business.

The lower-type bonds, at the same time, are hardly more than preference shares under prevailing circumstances, so that they would require the same stimulus as stocks. Even so, the second-grade bonds quite naturally would be expected to respond to any improvement before stocks would be attractive even on a semi-speculative basis.

There was no change in the character of news, so that the stock market was at the mercy of liquidation and its own internal technical condition.

Resumption of the senate inquiry into short-selling has developed nothing startling to date, even allowing for the supposed sensation in the bears' names. Their selling, however, was accomplished some time ago and perhaps their covering helped to sustain prices during the last decline. Actually, big bear operations are noticeably absent today, mainly because of the lack of incentive after so long a decline in prices.

At the same time, brokers report only "normal" interest on the short side. In fact, total transactions today were only 800,000 shares. Liquidation seemed to be still in progress.

What other explanation could be made of the persistent weakness in American Telephone? The stock dropped back to 100 for the first time in many years. The yield would be 9 per cent on the $9 dividend, but the price itself best indicates the rising doubt over maintenance of this rate. Steel common and American Can were also among the weak sisters. Their weakness, along with Consolidated Gas, caused some people to comment on the fact that these former first national favorites have been consistently in supply.

Railroad shares made the best showing of the three major groups, closing almost unchanged on the average. More favorable comparative reports from a few railroads helped to sustain this group.

Annual meeting of the Steel corporation developed little beyond confirming the threat to the common dividend, which probably will be omitted next Tuesday unless the directors have a change of heart. The statement that operations are down to 20 per cent indicates that the industry will require a long period of recuperation to again reach a profitable basis, even allowing for the contemplated second wage cut. The innocuous comments on current steel operations and prospects were accepted by the market without interest.

Wheat slipped lower. Security holders and traders will watch the bond market for their major cue.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn—No. 2 mixed 41@42c; No. 2 white 42@43c; No. 2 yellow 47½@48½c.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats—No. 2 red 28½@29½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 18. (AP)—Uneasiness about stock market instability and relative to a senate vote for investigation of agricultural futures trading led to late downturns in grain values today. Showers in drouth districts, especially west and southwest, together with prospects of more substantial moisture relief later, tended also to pull prices down.

Wheat closed nervous at the day's bottom ⅛@1¼c under Saturday's finish, corn ⅛@⅜c down, oats ¼@½c off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Until near the end of the day, the wheat market see-sawed, influenced alternately by likelihood of rain and by bullish foreign advices. It was also announced that Germany would import 7,360,000 bushels of feed wheat duty free.

New North American wheat export business was estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, including some dark hard winter wheat from the United States. Bulls were temporarily encouraged also by the fact that the United States wheat visible supply was shown to have been reduced to 185,998,000 bushels against 197,751,000 a year ago. Domestic crop advices continued to be of a disturbing character, reports from many sections indicating that wheat had been hurt beyond recovery but Washington developments and weakness of securities proved more of a load at the last than the wheat market could withstand.

Corn and oats held up well as compared with wheat.

Provisions responded to late downturns of hogs values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 57c, 59½@59⅝c; July 59¾@59½c, 62¼@62¼; Sept. 61¾@61⅞c, 64⅜@64½c. Corn—May 32¼@32⅜c, 33½c; July 35⅛c, 36⅞c; Sept. 38⅜c, 39⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, April 18. (US)—As April showers checked enthusiasm of weather bulls today, the wheat trade turned its attention to the disparity of domestic prices and the world market. Demand for wheat abroad is growing more active, but it continues on a steady basis with no aggressive buying for forward needs. Hence the belief in certain trade quarters that it behooves domestic holders to come down to world basis in order to share with other surplus countries in the steady business expected for the remainder of the season.

Germany has authorized the import of about 7,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat, duty free, for poultry feed.

Continental stocks of foreign wheat have increased moderately, but are still substantially under levels of a year ago.

At the present level of prices, the combined lake-rail rates for shipment of corn offer, with the opening of navigation, opportunity to compete with Indiana and Ohio for the eastern market.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

R. D. W., Wichita Falls.—What is your opinion of Wm. Wrigley stock? Please let me know if earnings are holding up.

Answer—Wm. Wrigley Jr., Co., is the largest manufacturer of chewing gum in the world. Although net income for 1931 was about $2,000,000 less than in 1930, earnings were, nevertheless, satisfactory, amounting to $5.07 a share, as compared with $6.15 in 1930. Annual earnings in the past seven years, including 1931, show an average of $5.53 a share. Company is in strong financial condition. At the end of 1931 net working capital amounted to $38,912,194, current assets being more than 10 times all current liabilities. Cash and marketable securities were in excess of $26,000,000. Capitalization consists of 2,000,000 shares no-par common stock. There is no funded debt or preferred stock. The stock pays $4 per share annually and is classed as a business man's investment.

E. F. S., Henrietta, Texas.—I have a number of shares of Commonwealth & Southern common, which I bought at 20. Would you advise at this time an additional purchase to make a better average?

Answer—This column does not advise on "averaging" operations. Commonwealth & Southern corporation, although a comparatively new company, controls one of the largest groups of electric and gas properties in the country. Important subsidiaries include Alabama Power Co., Georgia Power Co., Ohio Edison Co., Consumers Power Co., and Tennessee Electric Power Co. Territory served includes important industrial districts and depression has, of course, adversely affected earnings. In 12 months ended Jan. 31, 1932, per share earnings amounted to 38 cents as compared with 58 cents in corresponding period ended Jan. 31, 1931. Anticipate no particular improvement until business conditions mend. Dividends have been reduced to 30 cents annually in line with trend of earnings. Stock is classed as speculative investment.

Optimists To Install Officers At Party Tonight

With a dinner diet reduced to modesty in deference to prevailing economic conditions, and with a program of fun-making built upon an elaborate scale for the same reasons, members of the Optimist club will hold their annual installation party at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock with Leon Horn taking office as the club's new president.

Mr. Horn and the other officers to be installed Tuesday night were elected March 23. Remaining members of the group to be inducted into office are Jim C. Hanks, first vice president; Jess McLarry, second vice president; Robert J. Fletchner, third vice president, Vic Wisely, fourth vice president; N. Manoushagian, Bert King and Dr. O. C. Egdorf, directors. Rev. S. F. Martin, chaplain; Ira D. Brown, secretary; and J. L. Randel, treasurer, were re-elected last month for another year.

According to Solon R. Featherston, chairman of the committee which has planned the installation party, Tuesday evening's festivities will begin with a buffet supper at 7:30 o'clock. Special music, including numbers by a dinner orchestra, has been provided. Bert King, local lawyer, will be the principal speaker.

After the newly elected officers have been installed with the club's usual ceremony, other entertainment of unannounced nature is to be staged. According to Mr. Featherston, its dramatic treatment will be distinctly humorous, but its timely implications as to the public "mental state" of serious importance. This feature of the evening's program will conclude with the bride and groom leading the grand march—after which dancing and bridge will comprise the program.

Mr. Horn will succeed Dr. George T. Singleton, president for the past year.

Teeth Kept as Evidence In Longview Slaying

LONGVIEW, Texas, April 18. (UP)—Two teeth found at the scene of a robbery and slaying here, were held today by local officers who filed robbery with firearms charges against Jim Noland, arrested at Wewoka, Okla., and returned here Saturday.

Noland, with two companions, had been sought since a man named Morris was killed recently in the robbery of a tourist camp near here, and the raiding of the home of Frank Anderson, negro, in the shooting at Anderson's home, two of the roffers were said to have been wounded. One lost four teeth, two of which were preserved by officers for evidence.

Two Bandits Captured In San Antonio Kidnaping

SAN ANTONIO, April 18. (INS)—Two bandits were captured by police early today after they kidnaped, robbed and severely wounded William Taylor, who surprised the desperadoes ransacking his home.

Taylor, returning home, was slugged when he drove into his garage. He was put in the bandit's car and threatened with death. Finally he was hurled from the car and wounded in the leg when the bandits opened fire with pistols as he lay in the street.

A police car got on the trail of the bandits and captured them after a wild two-mile chase. Charges had not been filed.

Former Wichita Girl Wins Bridge Tourney

Miss Jewell Williams, recently of Wichita Falls, won the Northwestern Bridge tournament at Ponca City, her home, last week, according to the announcement of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Williams, 1317 Sixteenth street.

Miss Williams' victory at Ponca City entitles her to compete in the Oklahoma State bridge tourney at Oklahoma City the latter part of the month.

Miss Williams is an employe of the Continental Oil company at Ponca City, and before her removal there was associated with the same concern in Wichita Falls.

Consolidated Officials Visit Kansas Property

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., April 18. (AP)—Twenty-three officers and directors of the Consolidated Oil company and subsidiary concerns came here by special train today for inspection of the refining and distributing properties.

The party then went to Independence, planning to go thence to the tank farm properties near Caney. From Caney they will go to Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Fort Worth and Houston, and to the East Texas fields before returning to St. Louis and thence to New York.

SCHOOLS NEED CITIZENS' AID

Teachers' Salaries Now Unpaid for Six Weeks

The seriousness of the current financial situation facing the public schools of Wichita Falls was revealed Monday in a review of the percentage of taxes paid yearly during the past seven years, reaching a new low of only 48 per cent collected on the 1931 roll.

A steady decrease from a high of 91 per cent collected in 1925 has become alarming, and school board members are seriously studying all possibilities of continuing the current term until May and at the same time facing a serious problem in providing for the 1932-33 term.

The problem is up to the small taxpayers, members of the board said Monday, if the schools are to get relief. The 1931 taxes are payable quarterly and if the small taxpayer doesn't pay up this quarter little aid can be expected. A majority of large taxpayers made all payments last winter to assist the schools, it was pointed out.

With a reduction in valuations, the small collection of 48 per cent is made more serious. Teachers have been without salaries for six weeks and face a possibility that they may finish the year with three months pay due them unless taxpayers act at once. The second quarterly payment is due at midnight April 30.

39 Reagan Pupils On Honor Role

Thirty-nine students of the Reagan Junior High school were placed on the honor roll for the second six-week period of the second semester. The students are Mary Ann Bedingfield, Talma Lee Brooks, Mary Burton, Constance Clark, Lydia Corona, William Courcier, Joe Crawford, Lucille Cudd, Vella Mae Dement, Doris Eubanks, Mary Fore, Mary Tom Fuqua, Joe Hammond, Christine Jackson, Mabie Louise Johnston, Mary Ellen Kepley, Irene Jones, Jerry Kohutek, Mary Elizabeth Kolb, Mary Evelyn Lewis, Thelma Rose Long, Alice Luther, Lillian Medford, Oleta Osborn, Vivian Pickett, Lilla Mae Prichard, Alice Ray, Wilma Ray, Lavaughna Roberts, Zilpha Rodgers, Earline Ruffner, Ruth Smith, Margaret Staniforth, Fred Taylor, Ruth Thomas, Sue Ann Timblin, Mirian Tow, Ferrell Von Trotha and Ruby Yeakley.

Six Convicted, Three Freed, in County Court

Six convictions were obtained by the state Monday in the county court at law before Judge Irvin J. Vogel, while three defendants won acquittal at the hands of juries.

A negro charged with petty theft from a department store here Saturday, and who attempted to stab a clerk who stopped him, was fined $50 and costs.

After hearing lengthy evidence given, a jury acquitted a young man charged with assault and battery in connection with a fight in a Seventh street cafe last week. The complainant, a Greek caterer, received a broken arm, which he said was caused by the arm's being pulled deliberately over the edge of a counter by the defendant.

Three men entered pleas of guilty to charges of drunkenness, and each was fined $1 and costs. In two theft cases, men were fined $5 and costs and $1 and costs, respectively. Another man was acquitted by a jury on a charge of aggravated assault upon his wife.

Baptist Churches Plan B. Y. P. U. Study Courses

Plans for a week's B. Y. P. U. revival to open Sunday, April 24, will be formed at churches of six cities in the Wichita Falls area at meetings on that date, the Rev. E. M. Agee, district missionary, has announced.

T. C. Gardner, state B. Y. P. U. secretary, will direct the meeting to be held at the First Baptist church here at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The meeting will be the first for promotion of B. Y. P. U. study courses in Wichita and Archer county. Similar meetings will be held at Henrietta, Olney, Seymour, Vernon and Quanah, at the same time for inauguration of study courses in 55 churches in the Baptist associations covering the counties of Clay, Throckmorton, Young, Baylor, Knox, Wilbarger, Foard and Hardeman.

State Weddings

Haltom-Prince

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, April 17.—Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Prince announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Vera Prince, to Chester Haltom of Fort Worth. The ceremony took place Sunday, April 10, at Marietta, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of Fort Worth accompanied the young couple. Mrs. Smith is the bride's sister. Mr. and Mrs. Haltom will make their home in Fort Worth, where the groom is connected with his father in the jewelry business.

Gibson-Seymour

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, April 18.—Mrs. Grace Seymour and Roy E. Gibson were married Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Frederick, Okla. Justice of the Peace Roy J. Curtis performed the ceremony. The bride was dressed in a blue crepe dress, trimmed in white, with white accessories. They will make their home at Barwise, where the groom has been a prominent farmer for the past 15 years.

The bride has lived in Electra for the past nine years and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shirley, who moved to Vernon recently. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gibson of Merit, Texas. Mrs. Gibson has been working as a nurse in Electra for some time and made her home with Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Buckley, 304 East Ida.

Musicians Club to Close Season With Public Concert Tuesday Night

Music lovers in Wichita Falls will be offered the closing public concert for the current year by the Musicians club at the Junior college auditorium Tuesday night, April 19, at 8:15 o'clock.

Concluding a season in which the Musicians club has presented to the public one of the finest series of musicales in its history, the program arranged by Mrs. J. E. Hall for Tuesday night promises to uphold the high standard maintained throughout the year.

Instrumental numbers will predominate, for in the five groups to be presented, but one is for voice. Mrs. Harwood Stacy, formerly of this city, has returned from Austin for a short visit here, and will play a group of three piano numbers. Miss Erma Nala Voss will be the other piano soloist of the evening, including in her double number a Chopin polonaise. Mrs. A. M. Miller, Mrs. E. A. Bebb, Stanley M. Raub, and Edwin A. Bebb, comprising the Raub string quartet, will play three movements from a Mozart quartet, and Ethel Allen Nelson, local violinist and composer, contributing the fourth instrumental group. Mr. Nelson will use his latest composition for violin, a number which has aroused great enthusiasm among those who have heard it played in private gatherings.

Willard L. Underwood, tenor, and Jack McWilliams, baritone, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., will give the only voice number of the evening. They will sing the farewell duet from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino."

The concert is being given for the general public.

Waurika Family Victim Of Thieves on Two Near Occasions

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., April 18.—"It never rains but what it pours" seemed too true for the C. W. Plumlee family last week. Monday night their car was stolen. It was found the following morning near Comanche, but the thieves had stripped it, and then burned it.

Saturday night when they returned home from work their home had been ransacked and all the groceries in the house were taken.

HOUSE SWINGS ECONOMY AX

Ten Per Cent Reduction In Supply Bill Approved

WASHINGTON, April 18. (AP)—Congress seized a sharp economy ax today and slashed right and left at government costs after laying the ground work for further cuts from the budget estimates submitted by President Hoover for 1933.

In its thus far successful drive to reduce annual supply bills a flat ten per cent to help balance the budget, the senate received strong support in the Democratic house led by Speaker Garner.

Plan More Cuts

It then passed a resolution to give the president his requested joint commission to find more ways within 30 days of saving money; ordered a flat 10 per cent cut off the $1,000,000 treasury postoffice supply bill, and struck $1,000,000 off the prohibition enforcement fund, leaving $10,250,000 for next year.

Invoking drastic procedure in the house, Speaker Garner succeeded by a vote of 268 to 42 in having that branch accept senate amendments reducing the interior department supply bill from $50,446,000 to $45,398,000.

Garner Favors Slashes

The Texas Democrat announced, as this bill was dispatched to the White House for President Hoover's signature, he favored all the 10 per cent slashes instituted by the senate. The interior bill is the first supply measure for next year to be passed finally by congress this session.

President Hoover's plan for an omnibus retrenchment bill to save about $200,000,000 received the endorsement of the house economy committee that overrode its chairman, Representative McDuffie, Alabama Democrat. By an overwhelming vote it decided to put all the projected savings into a bill to be placed on the legislative supply bill as a rider.

Episcopal Men Hold Father-Son Banquet

"The Duty of the Boy and His Father to the Church" was discussed by Dr. George P. Horst, First Presbyterian church pastor, Monday night at a father and son banquet sponsored by the Episcopal Men's club at the Church of the Good Shepherd parish house.

Seventy boys and their fathers attended the banquet. The program included the vocal solo, "That Little Boy of Mine," by T. G. Fletcher, accompanied by Mrs. Fletcher with a tableau offered by scouts of local troop No. 12.

The program closed with the moving picture, "The Scout Trail" shown by Don Ross, deputy scout commissioner, and directed by him with members of troop No. 12 in the cast. The picture was explained by Scout Executive Frank Creighton.

Chillicothe I. O. O. F. To Attend Meet Here

I. O. O. F. canton branches of Wichita Falls and Chillicothe will hold a joint meeting at the local Odd Fellows hall Tuesday night with the women's auxiliary of both groups taking part in the program. Installation of officers of the Wichita Falls canton and auxiliary will be conducted by Maj. A. L. Honeycutt of Chillicothe.

All canton members are requested to attend in uniform for drill work during the program. The public and families of members are invited to attend the installation service.

Seminole Youth Killed By Accidental Shot

SEMINOLE, Okla., April 18. (UP)—Elvis Raper, 17, died today in a Maud hospital from wounds received from a shotgun in the hands of R. L. Walker Jr., 12.

Officers said the shooting was accidental. Raper is the son of a prominent farmer.

10-CENT CABS STIR BATTLE

Transportation for Students Becomes Issue

100 persons, many of whom alternated with attorneys for both factions in arguing before the council either for or against the ordinance amendment now under consideration.

Immediately after the meeting opened, Mr. Caldwell began a lengthy address in which he attacked the legality of the proposed measure. He charged that the amendment is unconstitutional, alleging that it impairs the individual's guaranteed right to the free use of his own property in any way he chooses to use it, provided such use does not prove harmful to other citizens.

Bus Service Criticized

Attacking the service now being provided by the Wichita Falls Traction company, Mr. Caldwell asserted that it does not serve the needs of persons residing in outlying portions of the city.

"The street cars and buses," he said," are not being run primarily with a view to serving all residents of the city, but upon a basis of making all possible profit. For that reason, service to the glass factory neighborhood is discontinued about 8 o'clock in the morning and is not resumed until evening. The same approximate schedule applies to the north side. These areas do not provide many passengers during the middle portion of the day, consequently residents there are left without any service."

Class Legislation Charged

Mr. Caldwell also argued that persons now engaged in 10-cent taxi service actually pay more taxes into the city annually than the Wichita Falls Traction company and the established taxicab companies here.

Attacking again the legality of the proposed amendment, he declared that its passage would amount to class legislation, in that it would represent a discrimination against one group in favor of another.

"We have no fight to make against the men who are now operating 10-cent taxis," declared L. L. Albritton, manager of the traction company. "It is simply a matter for the city to decide whether its permanent interests will be served best by maintenance of a scheduled street car and bus system, or by a complete surrender of passenger transportation to small taxis.

"But there are certain facts which will give the council a clear picture of how the situation stands," he continued. "Up to about 30 days ago, when the taxis began operation, 60 per cent of our business originated between Tenth and Kemp and downtown, and between Collins and downtown. During the past 30 days, 90 per cent of our business originated from beyond those two lines.

"The explanation is obvious. The 10-cent taxis are going into the most thickly populated areas, and are picking up all the short hauls. We carry a man from the glass factory into Scotland addition for 8 1-3 cents. We carry school children from the north side to the Junior college for 3½ cents each.

"Every morning we run a bus to the state hospital at Lake Wichita, and bring children in from out there for seven cents each. Every morning we go a mile beyond the baseball park and bring in sometimes 17, sometimes only four or five pupils; and take them home again in the afternoon.

Service to Schools

"The 10-cent taxis haven't offered to relieve us of those long hauls; they don't want that business. But in order for us to give that service to outlying points, it is absolutely necessary for us to have the short hauls from the nearer residential sections. The 10-cent taxis are getting their business now by crowding the close-in, crowded sections, denying us the only element of patronage which will enable us to maintain any service at all.

"Every morning we deliver hundreds of school children to the high school and Junior college, all within about 30 minutes, at three and a half cents each. In the afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, we place about five street cars and several buses at their disposal, and move them all within half an hour either near their homes, or downtown, where they make connections to their neighborhoods.

"If the city council decides that 10-cent taxis, operating small cars only and on their own schedules, will take care of these public needs better than we are doing, then we are ready to step out. But we know that hundreds of school children, hundreds of adults who have no automobiles, and no telephones with which to call for taxis, would be seriously damaged by such a condition."

E. F. Freuchte, representing local taxicab interests, and W. N. Bonner, attorney for the traction company, declared that "there is no reason whatever to doubt the legality of the proposed ordinance amendment." Both pointed out that numerous cities have recently passed similar measures as a means of preserving permanent transportation systems, and that the right of cities to impose such regulation upon carrying agencies has been upheld repeatedly in state and federal courts.

Short Life Predicted for Taxis

"Taking the figures offered here last week by the 10-cent taxi operators themselves," said Mr. Freuchte, "computation of costs shows that their operation cost will be at least 13.29 cents per mile. The national average for all such services reflects a minimum average per mile cost of 12½ cents. Within a few months, operators of these cars will find themselves with worn out cars, and without means of replacing them. Their service will end, just as all such ventures have ended—they can not operate at a loss."

Citizens present voiced their serious concern at the existence of any enterprise which would threaten the continuance of the city's permanent transportation system. While advocating preservation of the street car and bus system, they voiced insistent pleas for better condition of right-of-ways, better equipment, and for more timely service in outlying sections.

Alderman R. O. Harvey repeatedly asked Mr. Caldwell and 10-cent taxi operators to propose some means by which such service would hope to take care of transportation for public school pupils. They admitted that it would take about 80 such cars, each carrying five pupils at 10 cents each, to carry the students now being cared for by traction company at a charge of there and a half cents each. There are now about 16 cars in operation here by the 10-cent tax service, it was said.

"Our street car service, and bus service, is far from being all that we should like it to be," Mr. Harvey said. "But if the street cars and buses now running were suddenly withdrawn, it would take the people of Wichita Falls less than one day to realize how hopelessly inadequate these 10-cent taxis are to take care of the public."

The council authorized City Clerk W. E. McBroom to advertise for bids for the annual audit of the city's books.

300 TO ATTEND CHURCH MEET

Valley View Ready to Greet Methodists

Special to The Record News.

VALLEY VIEW, Texas, April 18.—W. L. Hodges announced Monday that all was in readiness to entertain an expected 300 delegates to the Wichita Falls Methodist district conference at the Valley View church Tuesday.

The conference will open at 9 o'clock and will continue through the greater part of the day. Representatives will be present from the 19 pastorates of the district, which comprises 30 churches with a membership of about 10,000.

A distinguished guest to attend will be Bishop H. A. Boaz of Houston. Bishop Boaz now is conducting a revival at the Burkburnett church. At the Wichita district conference tomorrow he will be a principal speaker. He is scheduled to address the gathering at 11 o'clock.

Chief among the business matters to come before the conference is the selection of 14 delegates to represent the district at the annual conference at Gainesville in October. The selection of these representatives probably will be made near the close of the session Tuesday afternoon.

A conference of district lay leaders also is scheduled. W. B. Hamilton, district lay leader, will be in charge of this meeting. He will be assisted by Sam Householder.

Mr. Hodges, a prominent resident of Valley View, heads the group which is making preparations here for the district conference.

Bandits and Yeggs On Rampage at Houston

HOUSTON, April 18. (INS)—Bandits and yeggs went on a rampage here last night, the former scoring four successful hijackings and the latter knocking the knob off a laundry safe. Loot estimated at $214, excluding an undetermined sum from the laundry safe, was obtained.

A taxicab driver lost his cab, watch, fountain pen and $3 in cash; a filling station operator was relieved of $200; a drug store manager was robbed of $2, and a man and his woman companion, parked on a dark road, yielded up $9 and a lady's watch. Four sets of hijackers were blamed.

The safe of the Ideal laundry was forced open with sledge hammers and punches and an unestimated sum of money taken. The yeggs, however, overlooked a $3,000 diamond ring.

Deer Creek Holds Lead In Clay County Chase

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, April 18.—The third set of games played Saturday in the north Clay county league series ended with Deer Creek leading with three straight wins, an 18-0 victory over Bluegrove, a 10-9 win over Henrietta and an 8-6 win over Petrolia.

Other games played Saturday in the north league were Henrietta and Bluegrove at Henrietta, a 10-1 victory for Henrietta; and Dean-Dale and Bellevue, at Bellevue, with Dean-Dale winning, 3-0. Batteries for Henrietta were Groves and Twyman; for Bluegrove, Childs and Dugger. Batteries for Deer Creek were Lindsey and Miller; for Petrolia Ikard and Harrison. Wessel and Whitley worked for Bellevue.

Oklahoma City Bandits Rob Cafe Owner of $372

RANDLE RITES TODAY AT 10

Masonic Services Planned At Cemetery in Dallas

Funeral services for C. C. Randle, 53, will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning from the First Presbyterian church with the pastor, Dr. George P. Horst, officiating, assisted by Dr. Nat F. Grafton, Floral Heights Presbyterian church pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery at Dallas, with the body to be forwarded by the Hines mortuary. Services at the grave will be in charge of the Masonic blue lodge.

Mr. Randle was found dead in a garage apartment at the rear of his residence, 1633 Eleventh, early Sunday and a coroner's verdict of suicide by carbolic acid poisoning was returned.

Mr. Randle had been a resident of Wichita Falls since 1917, when he moved from Dallas, and until recently had conducted an auto accessory business here. He was a trustee of the First Presbyterian church and a noble of Maskat temple.

Active pallbearers will be members of the Maskat temple divan: Sydney A. Gaines, C. A. Rogers, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, J. M. Spoonts, T. B. Wilson and Lester Jones.

Survivors are his widow; two daughters, Miss Lillian E. Randle and Mrs. Kathlyn W. Sheley, both of Tyler; a son, C. C. Randle Jr., of San Francisco; and a sister, Mrs. Mary N. Hay of Dallas.

C-C Asked to Select Representatives for Revue

Directors of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce have been invited to select a young woman to represent this city in carrying out a Gypsy motif of entertainment at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Sweetwater, May 12-14. Girls from each city are expected to appear in Gypsy costume and to take part in a Gypsy revue two nights during the regional convention. Local directors will discuss the matter at their regular meeting Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the offices in the Hamilton building.

The local chamber also has been invited to enter an exhibit telling the story of Wichita Falls in miniature. The exhibit will be displayed in a downtown hall at Sweetwater during the convention.

GARAGE ROBBED

Equipment valued at $40 and including sets of reamers and socket wrenches were taken in a burglary of the G. H. McAdams garage, 606½ Burnett, Sunday night, police reports said. The garage was entered by jarring a prop away from the door.

'Bold Solicitation' on Streets Points to Vice Here, Says Pastor

Corbin Tells of Being Accosted, and Asks That Wichita Recognize Conditions as First Step in 'Moral Clean-Up'

Editor, The Record News:

I have just read your editorial "A Mistaken Idea" appearing in this morning's paper. In it you take to task a young Yale editor for saying that politics is too dirty a business for gentlemen to follow. Let us see.

Dr. Charles W. DeBow, formerly a prominent pastor in Oklahoma City, now of Cleveland, Ohio, protested from his pulpit against the obvious corruption in the latter city. He was haled before the court and put under an intense grilling so directed as to destroy his effectiveness as a minister, until certain prominent citizens took their stand with him and demanded that the officials cease their attacks on an honored pastor and clean up at the points at which they also agreed the authorities were culpable.

I wonder if a gentleman may, with temerity, assert himself in the political affairs of Wichita Falls and meet a better fate. As chairman of the "committee on public morals" constituted by the Ministerial association of this city, may I be permitted some observations entirely on my own responsibility. I have been requested to call my committee together to consider certain matters pending and under investigation. This letter is written to discover if, indeed, there is a possibility of moral support in this city as touching political matters.

To be specific: I have been in all but nine cities in the United States of 100,000 population and over. I have been in business life requiring wide travel and know something of affairs in general. When I came to this city and noted the numerous colored snipers sitting in doorways under hotel signs, I remarked to my wife who accompanied me "There is a sure indication that this city is running "wide open." Frequently while out walking at night I have pointed out to her girls going in and out of these places evidently "on dates."

During this past week passing two of these places and tending strictly to my own business I have been accosted by their colored scouts asking, "Want a girl?" Yesterday, I asked my men's class if I looked like an easy mark. I had thought that I had the bearing and appearance of a gentleman, if not that of a minister. If these darkies are so bold about this nefariousness surely their employers have every confidence in their security or they would not throw all caution to the winds. Any one who knows anything about such practices and conditions knows that politics is involved.

An American citizen who is concerned about the welfare of the youth of his city has open before him two courses. To ignore what he sees and feel himself to be a coward or to interest himself personally with an even chance that he will be ignored, if not discredited. The same is true of a minister of the Gospel. He has his specific work to do and under present conditions his burdens are especially heavy. It is far easier and safer to keep silence and avoid unwanted publicity and possible attack. The chances are entirely against him and the temptation is to keep silence and let thing go as they are.

However, there is the possibility that Wichita Falls is different and a gentleman with a college education may with entire candor make some pointed remarks involving politics. This letter is written to discover if the burden of your argument in favor of a gentleman's so doing is valid in Wichita Falls.

Very respectfully yours,
BRUCE B. CORBIN,
Pastor Grace Methodist church.

Second Trial of Canada To Open Here Tuesday

R. W. (Buster) Canada will go on trial Tuesday morning before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court for the second time on a charge of burglary of a private residence at night, according to George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

The defendant was tried on the same charge last week, but the jury was discharged after failing to agree on a verdict. The offense was said to have taken place at the home of Dr. Frank Harrison on Garfield street last month.

STOLEN CARS RECOVERED

Automobiles of two Wichitans, one stolen Saturday night and the other Wednesday night, were located by police Monday. The Ford sedan of H. B. Dudley, 1666 Dayton was located Monday morning by Detectives Luke Hart and O. A. Robertson in an open garage at the rear of a vacant residence, 1108 Twenty-third. An Oklahoma license had been substituted for the Texas license plates, which were found in the car. The car was missed early Saturday night.

The Chevrolet coupe, reported stolen by J. D. Montgomery, 612 Scott, Wednesday night was traced to the owner by the Duncan, Okla., police chief. The car had been parked on the streets of Duncan for two days.

RITES SAID FOR MRS. JOHNSON

Last Services Held Monday For Wichita Woman

Funeral services for Mrs. C. K. Johnson, 43, 2007 Taft, were held at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon from the First Presbyterian church with the pastor, Dr. George P. Horst, officiating, and Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of Floral Heights Presbyterian church, assisting. Burial followed in Riverside directed by the Merkle Undertaking company. Mrs. Johnson died Sunday afternoon at a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Johnson was born in Albany, Texas, the daughter of a pioneer Texas minister, and came to Wichita Falls in 1911. She was employed several years at the City National bank before her marriage in 1919 to Mr. Johnson, superintendent of mails at the postoffice. She was active in church and other civic interests.

Survivors are the husband; a son, Joseph, 7; six sisters, Mrs. M. M. Hotchkiss and Miss Maude Leech of Muskogee, Okla., Mrs. J. H. Leech of Dallas, Mrs. W. W. Self of San Antonio and Mrs. Tom Clayton and Miss Helen Leech of Pampa, Texas; two brothers, Edwin Leech of Pampa and James Leech of San Antonio: and a half-brother, Dan Leech of Tulsa.

C. M. KIMBROUGH

The body of C. M. Kimbrough, 67, of Houston, was forwarded to that city Monday by the Hines mortuary. Mr. Kimbrough died Sunday at a local hospital. His widow accompanied the body to Houston.

J. S. WILSON

The body of J. S. Wilson, 77, of Fort Worth, was forwarded to that city Monday by the Hines mortuary, accompanied by a surviving daughter, Miss Ethel Wilson of Fort Worth. Mr. Wilson died Sunday at a Wichita Falls hospital.

Drainage Area Asks Tax Change

Residents in territory comprising Wichita County Drainage District No. 1 presented to the commissoners court Monday a petition asking that taxes hereafter be levied in that district at a fixed amount per acre instead of on the present ad valorem basis. The court set May 25 at 9 a. m. as the time at which the petition will be given a public hearing.

The petition submitted Monday was signed by G. B. Campbell and 19 other residents of the district in question. It was prepared and offered to the court by Judge A. H. Britain.

The primary motive of the petition is to provide that all taxes on land within the district shall be assessed on the land at a uniform value per acre, thus fixing the burden of taxation upon land values alone. It was pointed out in the petition that whereas all landowners now want to see better improvements upon their farms, that development is retarded by existence of an ad valorem tax upon the combined property. The petition further contends that a per-acre tax would be fair to all, since all land in the district is adjacent and contigouous to the drainage system.

Farmer Loses Arm In Shooting at His Home

TEXARKANA, Texas, April 18. (INS)—W. A. Richardson, 40, farmer of near Linden, Texas, late today underwent an operation for the amputation of his left arm after it was shattered by gunshot wounds during a quarrel at his home early today.

Two brothers, Cleveland Henderson and Joe Henderson, were placed under arrest pending a complete investigation of the shooting.

RED CROSS FLOUR ARRIVES

Relief Agencies to Handle Distribution

Two carloads of flour for distribution in Wichita county by relief agencies arrived Monday and will be issued Tuesday morning to the four organizations in charge of distribution, Chairman W. O. Beeman of the Wichita county Red Cross chapter said.

The shipment, consisting of 420 barrels per car, was the first to be shipped of 300,000 pounds on a schedule of a car every 15 days, Mr. Beeman said. Notice that application of the local chapter for flour had been approved under a bill passed by congress in March was received several weeks ago.

The flour will be distributed by the Family Relief association of Wichita Falls, Iowa Park Community Chest, United Charities of Burkburnett and Community Charities of Electra.

You'll want an attractive vacation coat. Select yours now, one-third off. P. B. M. Co.—Adv.
