One of the smugglers covered Robinson with a gun, and at the same time Brown covered the smuggler, who ordered the smuggler three times to drop his gun. He then fired, according to reports, and the smuggler was killed instantly.

RETAILERS FIRST DINNER TONIGHT

MERCHANTS WILL HEREAFTER
COMBINE BUSINESS WITH EATING

The Retail Merchants association will meet at 6:30 tonight for a program and luncheon at the Busy Bee cafe and a good number are expected, according to Paul Sherrod, president of the association. Every member is being urged to attend and bring along as many of his clerks and employees as possible.

The retailers will assemble promptly at 6:30 and will be held until 7:45 when they will be dismissed promptly to allow them to fill any other engagements they may have for the evening, Sherrod stated.

This is the policy the association expects to follow during the summer months in order to secure a representative percentage of the membership. During the hot summer months the business men will find it much easier to attend during the unappetizing hour and be dismissed early than to meet later in the evening and not be able to leave until late, in the opinion of the directors of the association, who endorsed this plan.

The meeting tonight will be the first meeting held with the luncheon and a good attendance is expected.

The 14 members of the board voted, unanimously for Whaley, who has achieved an outstanding success with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce of which he has been general manager since he helped to organize it seven years ago.

Under his administration the West Texas body has grown to the present membership of more than 11,000, the largest regional commercial body in the world. Ralph W. Morrison, president of the San Antonio chamber, said that a large part of the phenomenal growth of west Texas could be traced to work done by Whaley and his associates.

"We are well pleased—in fact we are delighted to get Whaley," Morrison said. "We want to put on a program here of co-ordinating the work over this section and maintaining closer relations with west Texas. We must ever move forward and keep our rightful place and we feel that Whaley is the best man we could ever hope to get to fill the big job we have cut out for our executive head."

At our meeting Thursday night, we were all in lively spirits in spite of the bad weather. We had our inspection with three finger nails and one ear found dirty.

After inspection the fire team was given a hand and Mr. Harkey made us feel good. We gave our yell with three big Harkeys on the end.

Then we had some business and announcements, the best being that Mrs. Allen would take the fire team to the swimming pool. That's backing up up. Mr. Allen is letting all Scouts in free to the baseball games. Three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Allen. We've got plenty of cheers left for other parents that will follow their lead.

Our bow drills have come and Mr. Clapp showed us how to make fire with them. Look out Troop Four—you may hear from us again.

Then we held Patrol meetings and decided to specialize as follows: Fox on knot tying; Wolf on fire making; Rattlesnake in signaling; Tiger in first aid.

We had some games and dismissed after singing songs.

Troop Four—"Always There"

Winners were announced in the monthly contest for points at the last meeting. In the individual contest Trent Campbell and Earl Turner tied for first place, with 99 points each. In the patrol contest the Flying Eagles were first with an average of 99 while the Panthers were second with an average of 96. This victory of the Flying Eagles, the third in succession, places them on the honor roll.

Leaves for the tree contest were turned in at the last meeting, some large collections of many different kinds of trees being submitted. Competent judges will check the classifications.

We had one visitor, William Turner, of Brownwood, who gave us a good short talk on the advantages of Scouting. One new member, Felix Ballenger, was taken into the troop on probation.

Several members of our troop made trips to Post lately with Mr. Clapp to see the new camp site and have a little fun. Trent Campbell was given to Post if you have a lot of engineers along to make you drive stakes and help in other ways with the surveying for the dam and the rest of the camp. They made him do three days' work in one, he says.

Boys, Mr. Clapp has been very nice to allow you to work in his shop and play in his yard and certainly the least you can do is to clean up thoroughly after you have finished. Troop Four has elected five captains with Earl Turner as captain of the captains to see that everything is cleaned up properly after each fellow finishes. Boys from other troops please remember that these captains are duly elected and have authority. Troop Four boys should set an example and keep that shop spotlessly clean.

Troop Five

Troop Five had their regular troop meeting on June 5, and every one had an enjoyable time. First we had patrol meetings and discussed our dues, together with all other business. Next we had a game named "Nigger Baby" which was very interesting and a devery one enjoyed it. We had another game called "Heads and Tails."

We had Pope Ramsey and his brother, Boots Ramsey, from the Thirty-third Troop of Dallas, with us. We enjoyed having them with us and hope that they will be able to be with us again in the future.

Clyde James, of Lubbock, was voted into the Black Bear patrol and he is humping for his tenderloin test long before he entered the work. But we are very sorry to say that Frank of the Lion patrol was absent because of sickness. Troop Five is looking forward to another hike in the near future.

TECH-NICAL TOPICS

SUMMER STUDENTS ARRIVING

Several students have already arrived in Lubbock for the summer session of the Tech. Indications point toward a banner enrollment. Most of the students here now are seeking employment.

Registration for the summer term will start Friday, June 11, at 8:30. The long term students will be leaving by Thursday noon and Lubbock will be filled with the arrival of the summer students. A large number of the old students are planning on attending summer school also.

FINAL FACULTY MEETING THURSDAY

Final meeting of the faculty for the Spring term will be held Thursday at 4 o'clock in room 302. Every member is urged to be present. Routine work of completing the school affairs for the term will constitute work of the meeting.

Y. W. C. A. INSTALLS OFFICERS SUNDAY

Installation services for the officers of the Young Woman's Christian association were held Sunday at the home of Dr. J. C. Granbery, 1622 Avenue X at 6:30. A very impressive installation ceremony was given by Mrs. Granbery who gave the charge followed by a prayer by President Horn. The following officers were installed: Lucile Davis, president; Rena Smith, vice president; Marie McDonald, secretary and Inez Medlock, treasurer.

LIBRARY RECEIVES GIFTS

Several gifts were received by the library during the past few days. Rex Keys gave a pamphlet on the disbursement of money which was held at Washington recently. This is a very important gift and will be a great aid to the students who are debating.

Another gift was received from the Iowa geological survey containing 29 volumes of material and data of the study of geology in Iowa. Many small gifts are also being given to the college at intervals.

CORRECTION OF AN ARTICLE IN THE TONER

Under date of June 5, there appeared an article in the Toner entitled "Tech Students Cast 'Wet' Ballot in Recent Election to Determine Prohibition Status Among Students."

The first correction is that a decided majority of the students cast a dry ballot, there being but fifteen of the two hundred and forty-five who voted for the repeal of the 18th amendment and but seventy-seven who voted for modification. The other either voted for a maintenance of the status quo, for more funds to aid stricter enforcement or for a stricter enforcement act.

The second correction is that the purpose of the election was not to determine prohibition status among students. The primary object was to test a plan for securing proportional representation. If the students voted for non as they voted for measures, the plan worked. That is to say that majority of the commission selected to study the question and make recommendations to congress are classed in the dry column, while the wets were represented somewhat in proportion to the number of votes that they cast.

The third correction is that it was the Princeton faculty that was reported as voting wet instead of the Yale faculty. It could be possible that the same error was made in reporting the attitude of the Princeton faculty that was made in reporting the attitude of the Tech students. Only a minority of the Tech students actually voted. The same may have been true of the Princeton faculty; and while the Tech minority was perhaps a representative minority the same may not have been true in Princeton.

THORP SPRINGS COLLEGE CLOSES SCHOOL YEAR

THORP SPRING, Texas, Thorp Spring Christian College is just closing a most successful commencement week. Hugh H. Miller, Lometa, Texas, preached the baccalaureate sermon to a very large audience on Sunday, May 30.

The most interesting feature of the Ex-Student's Day on Monday, May 31, was the election of officers. Mr. J. C. Rigney, Fort Worth, Texas, was elected president of the association. Mrs. Will Lynn, of Temple, Texas, was elected secretary and treasurer.

Denn W. H. McConnell of North Texas Teachers' College was heard by a large audience on June 2nd, in his address to the graduating class of 1926.

President A. R. Holton announced that the summer school would begin on June 8. One of the largest summer schools of recent years is expected.

DENIES BEATING MEN AT HOUSTON

PRISON FARM HEAD SAYS 'BAT' NEVER USED ON WHITE MEN

By United News. HOUSTON, June 7.—Captain Rube Conner, city prison farm superintendent, Monday denied statements made at the examining trial of W. T. Hill, prison guard, that prisoners were often whipped at the city farm here. Hill, whose bond was raised from $7,000 to $10,000 Sunday, is held in jail, awaiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of beating Wiley Ziegler, a prisoner, to death.

"I have never whipped a white convict in my life," Captain Conner declared. "In 1922 I whipped two negro prisoners on the Blue Ridge farm on orders from the prison commissioners."

"Clem Strickland of Houston, was the last convict I had orders to whip, and he will tell you that I tore up the order after reading it to him," Conner added.

Strickland, who was formerly a prisoner on the Eastham farm, admitted Conner had destroyed a note to whip him, and declared "He said he was doing it because he was leaving the next day."

"I have never seen him whip a prisoner with the 'bat,'" Strickland said, "but I have seen him beat them with clubs."

Ziegler died Friday at the city farm from a whipping, according to the report of the coroner's inquiry.

An autopsy revealed three lath wounds an inch deep, any of which could have caused the prisoner's death.

City farm prisoners and others made statements in connection with Ziegler's death to District Attorney Horace Soule Saturday and Sunday. These will be presented to the grand jury late Monday or early Tuesday morning.

Two additional city farm prisoners, both 71 years old, made statements to the district attorney Monday.

The first, A. E. Carey, declared he had seen a guard named Cross beat a Mexican prisoner with a blacksnake last April. The other, D. L. Herring, said he saw guard Hill knock Ziegler down. Herring said that Ziegler got up and tried to run, and that Hill rode against him with his horse, knocking him down again.

Declaring that he believed it would be impossible for Hill to receive a fair trial in Harris county, J. M. Johnson, the guard's counsel, indicated that he may request a change of venue before the trial date is set.

LOCKED IN BOX CAR 4 DAYS.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 7.—Hearing an uproar in a sealed box car in the Pennsylvania railroad yards, a railroad detective opened the door. Four large negroes lumbled out, all but fainting from hunger. Entering the car at Charleston, S. C., four days ago, they had lived for four days on cucumbers with which the car was filled. After being fed, they were locked up for trespassing.

SOMBREROS AND SCARLET AND BLACK SASHES WILL DECK LUBBOCK PARTY AT HUGE AMARILLO CONVENTION

Topped with wide sombreros with scarlet and black hatbands, enwrapped in sashes of the same colors, bedecked with scarlet and black penants and buttons, not less than two hundred citizens of Lubbock will leave here Sunday, June 20, to convene the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention that Lubbock is the logical place for the next annual meeting of the great organization. The 44 piece high school band, similarly bedecked, will accompany them.

So say the various committees who are in charge of Lubbock's contribution to the huge convention. Letters are being mailed to all member cities of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and special letters to all Lubbock's neighbors and friends on the plains, urging the qualifications of the Hub City as a meeting place in 1927.

The ticket selling committee is determined that at least two hundred if not more, shall buy the $15 slips which entitle them to fare to and from Amarillo on Pullmans, and sleeping quarters in the Pullmans during the three days of the convention.

The stunt committee has purchased boxes on boxes of regalia in the colors made famous by Texas Tech, and has devised ways of draping it Spanish fashion on the person of the delegates, who with their wide hats will harmonize with the Spanish motif of the entire convention, and especially the fiesta which will supplant the customary pageant.

All the committees connected with Lubbock's effort to shine unexcelled in the west Texas event swung into action yesterday with a bang.

Again Thursday these committees will meet and actual sale of tickets for the special train trip to the convention will be started.

"APPLESAUCE," Great American Comedy. Second Night Premier Chautauquas.

One of the very latest theatrical successes of the chautauquas folk will be given Friday night, June 11, "Applesauce." This delightful comedy, in three acts, is still on Broadway.

The New York Evening World says: "The play gets its name from the blarney of the lovable, somewhat worthless youth who wants to marry Pa Robinson's daughter, Hazel. She accepts Rollo, her parents' choice, but her love for Bill and his applesauce cannot be drowned—but right here you must wait for the curtain to go up."

BABY BEEF CLUB ORGANIZATION TO ENCOURAGE BETTER BEEF CATTLE IN LUBBOCK COUNTY BEING PERFECTED

Any club boy in Lubbock county wanting to join the baby beef club should get in communication with county agent David F. Eaton at once, as calves for the club members are to be selected soon and preliminary work in the club will be started soon.

Already the following have contributed the number of calves placed their names: C. C. Slaughter, one; Tom Ivey, one; J. S. Johnson, one; Maple Wilson, one; George C. Wolfarth, one, and George Boles, two.

At least twenty calves will be available and will be put on feed this fall, preparatory to being exhibited at the fat stock show at Fort Worth in the spring.

Mr. Eaton stated yesterday that just before the calves are shipped to Fort Worth they will be exhibited at a local show, and will be judged.

Breeders are contributing calves for the club work in the contest spirit, recognizing the advantage to be gained by having a representative of their herd win at the fat stock show.

The following statement about the baby beef club was issued yesterday by Mr. Eaton.

Lubbock County Baby Beef Club
In order to advance the feeding interests in Lubbock county and to encourage the development of better bred beef cattle we the undersigned agree to donate to Lubbock county baby beef club one or more calves.

This calf to become the property of said club until assigned to some boy by the executive committee.

This calf shall supply not less than twenty calves, including those donated to members of boys clubs selected by the county agent of Lubbock county.

We recommend that each boy where possible feed two calves.

We further recommend that March calves be used where possible.

The management of this club shall be vested in an executive committee consisting of three men in co-operation with the extension service of A. and M. college.

This club shall consist of this committee, the donors of calves or money and the boys to whom calves are assigned.

These calves shall be distributed not later than Oct. 1, 1926, and should be selected within the next few weeks. They should be bottom on feed as soon as possible and shall be fitted for the fat stock show at Fort Worth next spring.

The feeding shall be under the direction of the county agent.

Each boy shall be expected to pay for his equity in his calf or calves or make satisfactory arrangements for same with club.

The calves donated or money shall be proportioned among the whole number of boys and each boy shall take care of the unpaid balance on calf or calves.

The object being to give each boy exactly the same chance and to give each boy an opportunity to handle the business of purchasing and keeping records and making final settlement in his own name and hand. All boys must keep proper records in forms furnished by county agent. Failure to do this will prevent his sharing in any prizes that may be awarded to him as individual or as a group.

It is the purpose of this club to show a car lot of baby beefs at Fort Worth in the spring at Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. Also the calves will be shown in individual classes under standard classifications provided by that show.

FINDS DOG SWIMMING IN THE HIGH SEAS

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 7.—She's a black, curly-haired English retriever that doesn't seem to understand one word of English. But Skipper Clayton Morrissey of the fishing schooner Henry Ford is trying to teach her the language of a New England fisherman.

She was picked up by the crew of the Henry Ford five miles off the coast of Miquelon. The tongue she answers to is a mystery, for no one knows the whereabouts of her last home.

When first sighted swimming about in the icy water she was mistaken for a seal. But after a closer look at the moving object Skipper Morrissey decided it was a dog and began jockeying his two-master for a rescue. A heavy flow of ice made the maneuvering slow. The "burn" kept swimming, however, until she could be brought alongside. Nearly frozen, she was gently lifted aboard and made comfortable in the skipper's cabin. And there she's going to stay, according to Morrissey.

After bringing her aboard, a record catch, of fish was made by the Ford. "I'm going to try to get along with her," Morrissey said when the

Georgia Peach Is Thieves Victim

Ford docked with its big catch. "After bringing us good luck the crew couldn't sail without her. Even if she can't understand the English language I think she'll obey orders."

BLESSING AND CURSING—"Blessed is he that blesseth thee, and cursed is he that curseth thee." Nu. 24:9.

"WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS, 'TIS FOLLY TO BE WISE."

Some coward invented this maxim.
 The word "WHY" is the most dynamic word in human experience.

Apples had been falling to the ground for centuries and no one had ever thought it was significant. Then came a youth, Isaac Newton by name, armed with an irresistible "why" and the law of gravitation surrendered to his reason.

Lightnings had been flashing across the heavens since time began and men called it the wrath of the gods. Then came an inquisitive American, Benjamin Franklin by name, and the whole electrical era was pried open.

The planets had been going on their orbits, men had been living around the shores of the Mediterranean in terror of distances and the world was cramped and blissful. Then came a youth, Copernicus by name, who gave us a new Heavens and a new Earth, upsetting the whole philosophical and scientific world in which he lived, with the theory of a round earth and a solar system.

Men had been dying of rabies for centuries and other microbes diseases had claimed their victims by the millions. Then a youthful experimenter in a French laboratory asked "WHY" and nature confessed the microbe origin of disease to Louis Pasteur who perfected more than a hundred anti-toxins and saved the lives of countless millions.

Humanity had been governed by kings for centuries before any man dared to ask "Why do some men govern and other men serve?" When that question was asked in seriousness and sincerity the "divine right of kings" came tottering to earth to be trampled under the feet of progress.

Asking "WHY" with intelligence, patience and sincerity has been the cause of every bit of progress the world has ever known. It has opened doors, blazed trails, invented machines, written laws, sailed uncharted seas and discovered continents.

Where ignorance induces bliss it is high time some one begins asking "WHY."

STATES RIGHTS

In the old Colonial Capitol of Virginia, where 150 years ago the first demand was voiced for American independence, President Coolidge has called upon the States of the Union to assert their rights and so function that there may be a contraction of the ramifications of the Federal government rather than an extension. Mr. Coolidge contrasted the concepts of government formulated in those early days with present day practices, and asserted that the States are surrendering their powers to the Federal government by "sleeping on their rights." This is too apparent to permit of argument: either through indifference or indolence, the States have shifted their responsibilities upon the nation. Which might be all very well, if, with the responsibilities, they had not also shifted their rights. We need a political rebirth and a quickening of the public conscience, a realization of civic duty and a willingness to assume its burdens and responsibilities. We need to shake off the political lethargy that saps our vitality and look to running our local affairs and retaining our local rights; for the States may survive without the nation, but not the nation without state.

"TREAT 'EM ROUGH"

This is a maxim out of the discredited decalogue of force.

The earth is not inherited by the rough, the tough, the rowdy and the iron-shod, but by the meek.

The parasaurus and the triceratops with their gigantic bulk, their horrid fury and their terrible combats have perished by their own strength, but the rabbits and the mice inherit the earth.

This "treat 'em rough" policy is discredited everywhere. Large employers of labor know that in industry it means strikes, discontent, rebellion, mutiny and sabotage. Statesmen know that in politics it means radicalism, disorders, mutinies and sedition. Big business knows that the public will not consent to be damned, but that courtesy and consideration have a cash value above all tyrannies and monopolies.

No father in 1926 can successfully apply the theory to the government of his home. He no longer owns his wife and his children. The emancipation of women and the education of his children have made it impossible for him to govern except by the power of loving justice and paternal solicitude.

Even in the army this maxim is discredited. Men will follow "the little colonel," beloved, into the jaws of Hell when "hard boiled Smith" cannot get them out of rest billets.

The maxim is a failure in the field of religion. The generation of youth in 1923 will not suffer any man or group of men to tell them what they must believe. But it will beat a path across the continent to listen to a man who can intelligently and helpfully tell them what they can believe.

THE HUMAN CROP

There was once a man who worked at night and slept in the day time, and did not get to see his children often; but on Sunday morning would stay up long enough to read the morning paper before retiring for his day's sleep and at which time his children would get a glimpse of him. One morning this man left his work early and went to town on some business. As he passed by his house his little baby was out in the front yard into some mischief, so he slapped the youngster and sent him into the house and went on his way to town. As the little fellow ran into the house, crying in big fashion, the mother was greatly excited and asked what was the trouble, and the child said, "That man that hangs around here on Sunday slapped me." This story is so true to life today in many families where one or both the parents don't see and come in contact with their children often enough to really know them and to give them the proper care, love and training. Children may well be considered as a crop. If the farmer leaves his crop to shift for itself, it will be a failure. So it is in most every case with children. The farmer may stunt his crop by not giving it fertilizer or warmth of environment. In preparing for a good farm crop, the farmer must fertilize his crop with nitrogen, phosphate and potash. Just as the farm crop may be stunted by lack of fertilizer and warmth of environment, so may children in the home be reared in the warm environment of love, trust and high ideals. The farmer must continually plough, harrow and cultivate his crop, in order to promote growth and keep out weeds that would choke the young plant life. In like manner, the human crop which has been entrusted to your care must be constantly nurtured in order to be able to resist bad habits and evil desires and to promote full and proper development of body, mind and soul.

THE WAYS OF GOD ARE PAST FINDING OUT

God has no secrets.
 The Almighty is perfectly willing to explain anything that we are able to understand.

Lord Lister in his laboratory is prying into the secrets of God. Louis Pasteur, with his eye to his microscope, and Charles P. Steinmetz manufacturing artificial lightning are tracing the ways of God. William Herschel peering through his telescope is following the trail of God. Charles Darwin studying the fossils and the jelly fish is on the search.

No scientist has ever discovered anything that surprised God. No law of psychology, bacteriology, biology or sociology has ever begun operating without the consent of the Almighty. If anything is true, it was true a long time before Man discovered it and it is true because God permitted it and established it.

It is true that no man can know all the ways of God. But every man can know some. The scientist in his laboratory, the musician in his studio, the artist in his attic, the philosopher in his classroom, the theologian in his study—each is finding some of the ways of God. As men grow, more of the ways of God are made plain.

The microscope, the stethoscope, the telescope, the seismograph—all the instruments of science are eyes by which the ways of God are followed.

Laboratories, clinics, experiment stations—these are the whispering galleries of God. The glory of man is revealed in the number of God's ways he has discovered. The majesty of God is revealed in the number of ways man is still ignorant of.

NEWSPAPER HONESTY

In an address before the graduating class of Millias College a few days ago, C. P. J. Mooney, famed editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, discussed newspaper-making. He laid down as the two fundamental requisites of newspaper success the qualities of courage and honesty. Commenting on Mr. Mooney's statement, with which it fully agrees, the Montgomery Advertiser said: "What counts in judging the character of a newspaper is whether it reasons with intellectual honesty in arriving at its conclusions, or makes an appeal to prejudices and emotions in order to influence the reading public to accept its opinions. We may add that every editor frequently faces the necessity of making a decision on this very point. It is easy to tell the reader what he wants to hear, to take the popular side, to run with the pack. But it takes courage sometimes to express an opinion, however sound, in opposition to the prevailing sentiment. But in such a case no editor worthy of his responsible calling ever hesitates. He gives his honest opinions, regardless of who agrees or disagrees with them. He knows that such a policy will entail criticism, and sometimes loss of business. But he also knows that his newspaper will be respected—and a newspaper that can command the respect and confidence of its community usually succeeds in the long run."

THE DRY RULING

It now appears that President Coolidge's ruling allowing state officers to also be federal prohibition officers is to be pigeonholed in the interest of peace and tranquility. The promulgation of the executive order certainly stirred up a beautiful rumpus—in fact far more than could have been anticipated from an innocent little ruling devised to give a semblance of legality to an experiment which the state of California was trying out for itself. The rule will probably not be rescinded, but since the states are under no compulsion to take advantage of the order, it is to be presumed that the scheme will die a natural although far from quiet death.

One Word Leads to Another

So Think We

We think the average American family is smaller, and we also think they are much more scattered than they used to be. Few families go to church together, to the theatre together, go riding together and never go walking together. They are scattered to the four winds.

We think that a good man can be a good sport, but we doubt if all sports are good men.

We think that a fellow who is able to get a refund from the income tax department might be counted a hero.

We think that just because a political race is hot, is no reason the candidate that is the "hot-test" is going to get the job.

We think that about all some men ever give to their wives is a bad name.

We think its mighty lucky that people do not mean more than one third of what they say.

We think that a man shapes his own destiny possibly largely by the way he attends to his own business.

We think the fellow that says he is too old to learn, just failed to learn a lot of things when he was younger.

We think that you cannot always measure a man's thoughts by the length of the words he uses.

We think that all of the jokes are not printed. Some of them are too smutty, while others walk the streets.

We think it takes real men to build a town. We have heard of a good town being built by scrubs. It takes good blood to build cities.

We think the best way to keep your car out of the traffic jam is to park it at the churches on prayer meeting nights.

We think most of the farmers would like to know what farm relief is.

We think the new slogan of America should be "God Save the Country."

We think that bragging is often synonymous with lying.

We think there are very few people who would not gamble on a cinch.

We think that it popularized the old yellow back dime novel for it to be called smutty. Since it was thoroughly assailed it was doubled in price and its circulation is three times as great.

We think we might have a law obedience week.

We think about the only thing that stands in the way of progress as much as a drum is the fellow that is as tight as a drum.

We think if there is anything in a name old Pilsudski should make a very fine bomb thrower.

We think it is very easy indeed to overlook the faults of our friends, but in our enemies they are just simply terrible.

We think there is a closed season for nearly everything except suckers.

It Is Reported

That the stuff in this column is rather light. We agree with the fellow that said that, and will state that we had thought of that ourselves, but we delight in pleasing our readers.

That up at the new town of Borger they do not know when Sunday comes. All businesses run wide open seven days in the week. We doubt if any good can come from such practices.

Any town that hasn't time to pause long enough to give due observance to the Sabbath day, will soon pass away.

That a certain young couple were married on horseback. Possibly that might be construed as being on their bridal path.

That there are 5,000,000,000 illiterates in the United States. That possibly accounts for so many reckless drivers in this country.

That there is one thing that has not gotten hold of the north pole yet, and that is the ice trusts.

It is reported that London has a barber shop for dogs, and from what we see in some of the chairs of America, we sometimes think maybe the same could be said of us.

It is reported that some people never do anything on time except to buy a car.

It is reported that Sam T. Davis and family left yesterday for Arkansas. They had a full supply of chigger killer, and also a lot of enthusiasm.

HEALTH COMMANDMENTS

Dr. Henry Hugh Proctor, of Brooklyn, who is the pastor of a Congregational church, gave his congregation ten commandments for health. They are worthy reading. Here they are:

"1. Honor your parents by having a thorough physical examination every birthday; for an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure."

"2. Honor our friends by taking a daily bath; for cleanliness is a part of godliness."

"3. Honor our family by having your life insured; for life insurance guarantees the co-operation of the insurer in the prolongation of the life of the insured."

"4. Honor your physician by avoiding patent medicines; for the most of these nostrums are humbugs."

"5. Honor our stomach by having your teeth carefully examined by a dentist at regular intervals; for bad teeth are an abomination to the system."

"6. Honor your digestion by being careful of your diet; for many a man dies his grave with his teeth."

"7. Honor your lungs by breathing fresh air; for ventilation is a means of grace."

"8. Honor your nerves by taking plenty of rest in sleep; for they work all day and play all night promote the brevity of their lives by burning the candle at both ends."

"9. Honor your country by obeying the law; for it is a mark of good citizenship to obey a law whether he likes it or not."

"10. Honor our God by chastity in word, thought and deed; for the race that wishes eternity must exalt maternity."

"Did our friend completely recover from his broken leg?"
 "No. Complications set in."
 "How so?"
 "He married his nurse."

"Come and dine with me tomorrow evening, old man."
 "Afraid I can't; I'm going to see Hamlet."

"Never mind, bring him along too."—Happy Mag.

MUSOLINI'S MAGIC WAND

Under the magic wand of Mussolini Italy is the only country in Europe or the Near East where the people are all working and appear to be cheerful and contented. Every union in the country has its Fascist society, and if the men have a grievance they write to the company or owner in the name of the organization and the grievance has to be remedied or arbitrated. There are no strikes now in Italy. Mussolini has given prizes in cash for the best wheat of the year, and the farmers get reduced rates on the railroads to bring their produce into the towns.

Mussolini is also building or repairing public highways from one end of the country to the other, which has made a big difference to the transit of freight by motor truck. Under the dictator's magic wand Italy seems to be in the best political, financial and industrial condition of any European nation. Mussolini is the idol of the hour and men in all walks of life are hastening to join the Fascists.

An investigation made by representatives of the 100,000 group of American cities shows that business failures during 1925 were very largely among firms and individuals who had not used newspaper advertising at all. In many instances failure was directly traced to this cause. The percentage of failures during 1925 attributed to non-advertisers, was as follows:
 Baltimore, Md., 88; Bridgeport, Conn., 60; Canton, O., 80.5; Chicago, Ill., 98; Cincinnati, O., 91.9; Columbus, O., 85.5; Fort Worth, Texas, 87.5; Houston, Texas, 72; Indianapolis, Ind., 75; Louisville, Ky., 85; Milwaukee, Wis., 84; Nashville, Tenn., 67; Newark, N. J., 89; New Orleans, La., 87; Oklahoma City, Okla., 88; Omaha, Neb., 88.4; Portland, Ore., 94; Rochester, N. Y., 95; Syracuse, N. Y., 75; St. Louis, Mo., 94.6; Toledo, O., 78.7; Troy, N. Y., 100; Utica, N. Y., 75; Washington, D. C., 76; Worcester, Mass., 86, and Youngstown, O., 89.5.

These figures which are said to be accurate proves beyond question that the man or firm who does not use the newspaper to advertise his wares is headed for certain failure. It also proves that it does pay to advertise.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

OLD FASHIONED DINNERS

It wasn't too much work for her in the days of long ago
 To get a dinner ready for a dozen friends or so;
 The mother never grumbled at the cooking she must do
 Or the dusting or the sweeping, but she seemed to smile it thru,
 And the times that we were happiest, beyond slightest doubt,
 Were when friends were coming and we stretched the table out.

We never thought when we were young to take our friends away
 And entertain them at a club or in some swell cafe.
 When mother gave a dinner, she would plan it all herself,
 And feed the people that she liked the best things on the shelf.
 Then one job always fell to me, for I was young and stout—
 I brought the leaves to father when he stretched the table out.

That good old-fashioned table—I can see it still today,
 With its legs of varnished oak 'round which I used to play.
 It wasn't much to look at, not as stylish or as splendid as the oval modern kind,
 But it always had a welcome for our friends to sit about,
 And though twenty guests would come, we could stretch it out.

I learned it from my mother—it is foolish pride to roam;
 The only place to entertain your friends is right at home,
 Just let them in by dozens, let them laugh and sing and play,
 And come to love and know them in the good old-fashioned way.

Home's the place for friendship—home's the place where joy may shout,
 And if you crowd our dining room we'll stretch the table out.

CITY LEAGUE TO OPEN THIS AFTERNOON, TWO GAMES

POSTOFFICE-TAILOR NINE WILL MEET BANKERS AT MERRILL PARK; BARBERS TO PLAY BARRIER BROS. AT TECH PARK

Much discussion took place last evening in the general round table meeting at the Avalanche building on the matter of starting the City League. The first games will be played this afternoon, with the Postoffice-Tailor aggregation meeting the Bankers at Merrill park and Barrier Bros. vs. the local Barbers Union at Tech park, each game starts at 6:30.

The forfeit for the league was placed at $15, this money to be paid to the treasurer of the league, J. C. Sanders, not later than 12 o'clock today. The money is put up as a means of showing faith of keeping in the league throughout the season. An entrance fee of $10 was also voted for the maintenance of baseball for the season.

The official schedule will be published at a later date. Members of the schedule committee, McCrummen, Dow and Slag will meet today to prepare the schedule.

Two Leagues May Be Formed. Due to the interest being shown in the different businesses over the city of few clubs asked for entrance in the league last evening. However, they will not be admitted until Friday evening and at that time if the interest is shown well enough to organize two six-team leagues by that time, a meeting will be called and the organization will be created. If not the matter will be dropped.

Helen Amazes French Doctors

PARIS, June 7.—The physique and recuperative powers of Helen Wills who has been living an outdoor life and playing tennis ever since she was a child, amazed French physicians.

Dr. Mauring said Monday at the American hospital: "Miss Wills' recovery is nothing short of remarkable. She has resumed eating as usual and had a good lunch today, sitting up in bed."

"In six or seven days she can leave the hospital."

The American tennis champion was operated upon for appendicitis only last Friday evening.

How badly Miss Wills is missed by her tennis mates in the hard court championships was evidenced Monday when Mary K. Browne alone of the American women contenders was left in the tournament.

Elizabeth Ryan, displaying an unfortunate lack of steadiness in tight places, was defeated by Joan Fry, the American player had two chances to win the deciding set on her own service, but served four double faults and went to pieces, while Miss Fry out-generalized and out-played her.

Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey disposed of Count Salm and Baron de Kehrberg 6-1, 6-3, 7-5. The Austrian again "acted," squabbling with the ball caddies and quarreling with spectators in three languages.

PLAINVIEW DEFEATS TULIA FIVE TO THREE

PLAINVIEW, June 7.—Plainview played true to form and defeated Tulia 5 to 3 at Plainview Sunday in a very nicely played baseball game. Plainview got off to a good start and made three scores off of Tucker in the first inning. He was relieved by Brooks who allowed only five hits for the rest of the game which made Plainview a total of nine. Woodward pitched the entire game for Plainview and allowed six scattered hits and the eighth was the only inning in which Tulia made more than one hit, making two in this period as well as their only two scores. Plainview's two errors were all that were made during the game. Wilbanks of Plainview and Atkins, of Tulia, showed excellent form behind the bat.

ANOTHER HELEN LOOMS AS NET STAR TO REPLACE LITTLE POKER FACE IF HELEN WILLS FALLS BY WAYSIDE

By H. O. THOMPSON.

United News Staff Correspondent.

BERKELEY, Calif., June 7.—If Helen Wills is unable to defend her championship in American tennis this summer another California girl may find the spot light of public attention swinging in her direction.

For Helen Jacobs, national junior champion is playing at the top of her game and this year will make her first serious bid for honors in the senior division.

There is more than a slight parallel between the careers of the two Helens. Both have developed here under the tutelage of W. C. "Pop" Fuller, shrewd veteran of the courts. The girls participated in coast events under Fuller's guidance until ready for Eastern congregations.

Miss Wills became a University of California student and this fall the younger Helen will take the same step.

Fuller, interviewed by the United News, said he believes the operations for appendicitis undergone by Helen Wills in Paris last week keep her from appearing in title play in the United States this summer.

"The California entries in the Eastern events will not be decided until after the coast championships this month," Fuller said. "We will know more then about Helen's condition."

Helen Jacobs will defend her junior championship in the coast meet and also for the first time, will go after the women's title, held now by Helen Wills. Because of the California Lawn Tennis association's method of picking the Eastern entries, Fuller would not say definitely that Miss Jacobs will be one of them, but her inclusion in the California team is taken for granted by all tennis followers here.

"Helen Jacobs will be 18 years old this fall and consequently this is the last year she can compete in junior events," said Fuller. "If she goes East she will enter senior tournaments also."

"Her playing this spring has been for better than it was last year and I look for a splendid showing."

Miss Jacobs entered a few women's meets last summer but almost invariably was pitted against star players in early rounds. This "luck of the draw" kept her from making much headway among the older campaigners.

Helen Wills' success has overshadowed some what the younger girl's playing. But Helen Jacobs is fast approaching the point, say those who have seen the drive and speed of her present game, where her brilliance will win wide recognition.

LUBBOCK DRESS SHOP TO OPEN EVENT THAT WILL DRAW LARGE CROWDS

George Rahal, owner and manager of the Lubbock Dress Shop, yesterday announced that at nine o'clock Thursday morning the doors of his shop will be thrown open for one of the most unusual sales of new merchandise conducted since the establishment of the business here.

A special sales manager has been employed to conduct the sale, which is being advertised throughout the South Plains and which will be one of the events that will tend to draw large crowds of shoppers to Lubbock.

BRAZILIAN POPULATION CLIMBS MILLION A YEAR

RO DE JANEIRO, June 7.—Brazil's population has increased at the rate of 1,000,000 annually since 1920 when the last census of the country was taken.

It is estimated that the population of the country at present is around 36,000,000 inhabitants. The population in 1920 was a little over 31,000,000.

Should increases continue during the next ten years on the same scale as thirty years past five years, Brazil will have 46,000,000 inhabitants by 1936.

Kiwians In Montreal For Convention

By United Press.

MONTREAL, June 7.—Seven thousand Kiwanians from the United States and Canada arrived here today for the formal opening tonight of the 10th annual convention of Kiwanis International.

Their bands, accompanying more than 1,000 musicians, will be in a parade tonight when all the assembled delegates and Montreal organizations will march through the city to be reviewed by Dominion government officials and the Kiwanis president, John H. Moss, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The opening session in the city's auditorium, the "Forum," will start at 8:00 o'clock, eastern standard time, and the program will be broadcast over the United States and Canada from Station CHYC.

The 1530 clubs on the continent will gather in their respective cities tonight for simultaneous meetings with the convention session here for unified expression of good will and friendship which has existed between the two countries for more than a century.

"The past year has been productive of great results," Moss told an audience of Kiwanis officers and Dominion dignitaries that greeted him on his arrival from the United States. "The field of unselfish service has been shown to the world by what Kiwanis has been and is accomplishing in civic and many other ways," he said.

Moss mentioned the furthering of the work of aiding the underprivileged child, the efforts of creating a better understanding between the town and country people, vocational guidance, and the dedication of the President Harding International Good Will Memorial in Stanley Park, Vancouver, Canada, last September, as among the outstanding achievements.

standing accomplishments of his administration.

"Kiwanis is attracting attention because of its accomplishments," he said. "Its appeal has always been to public opinion, and this appeal has been for activities of the highest social type. What Kiwanis is doing in every department of human endeavor shows that its service has been wide enough to include the many needs of humanity."

'GHOST MAKER' TELLS OF TRADE

FRENCH GUILLOTINE MAN DESCRIBES BLOODY BUSINESS

By United News.

PARIS, June 7.—"The ghost maker" is the one man in all France at the mention of whose name or at the sight of whose hands even the most hardened criminals lose their nerve. "The ghost maker" is the custodian of the guillotine, that piece of cutlery used to cut off the heads of condemned criminals.

Monsieur Deilor is the pitiless custodian of the guillotine and like his aides, "Smileless" Louis who tosses the head and severed body into the wicker baskets; "The Grand" Leopold, who is the mechanic of the crew and "Little Andre," the cad of the band who holds the prisoners as they slide toward the knife.

It is the custom to schedule the beheadings for early morning, just at the break of dawn, and the scaffold and knife are rigged up just outside the prison gate to meet the requirements of the law for a "public execution."

Monsieur Deilor and his band of beheaders travel all over France carrying their guillotines. They are the only legal executioners and behead from five to 15 criminals every year. For 19 years Deilor has been at this trade and for that length of time Louis has been sponging the blood off their "clients."

Louis is a saddle maker in his spare minutes, just as Andre is a notary's clerk. The three aides are cousins. It is Louis who wakes up the condemned on the fatal morning and runs his scissors across the neck so that no heavy hank of hair will prevent the knife from cutting through on its first fall.

"There's really nothing unusual about the job once you get used to it and I have never been bothered in my sleep by haunting visions of those who have gone under the knife by my hands," M. Louis confided in an interview.

"How did I start? Well, I took to my work for the first time about 1907 at Douai where we executed four chateaux in one morning, the famous Pollet band."

"I got off to a good start and didn't muss things up a bit. Everything went off prettily and in six minutes none of the four had a head. It came near being a record and the patron was pleased. But I remember the wicker baskets were too small. The heads wouldn't go in, so I took the four heads in my arms and ran behind the hearse all the way to the cemetery. There I very carefully saw to it that each body had its right head."

"Be sure that I have pride in my work and every beheaded prisoner gets his own head when he goes up to the last judgement."

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

By DOROTHY A.F. MARCELL

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED* with Irene Rich is a picture of Men of this world.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Mannering and three young friends have been taken to the police station, their car having crashed into another, mortally injuring a woman. John Mannering, District Attorney, Bob's father, is summoned, and his mother also comes to the station. Mrs. Mannering urges her husband to let their boy go home, but the official, torn between duty and love for his son, refuses. Bob, he says, must stand trial for manslaughter and cannot be released on bail.

In the weary watches of those morning hours John had loved Bob, loved him perhaps more than he had ever loved him before. But in his dispassionate mind love could never alter facts, affection vary the conclusions of logic. Upon the evidence elicited by the authorities his son appeared to be guilty of an offense against the laws of the state for which a punishment was provided. Very well, Bob must suffer it. That it was his son, that it had become his duty to brand as a felon blood of his blood, was an unfortunate circumstance, having nothing whatever to do with the issue. He might grieve, it might rend his heart strings in twain, but even as he had prosecuted other men with never the slightest malice, so he must appear against his own son. Thus did the matter resolve itself in the cold logic of John's mind.

But regardless of the certainty and sureness with which he arrived at this decision, it had not been easy. Now as he raised his head his face was haggard and worn, and as he listened to the monotonous tread of light feet as they crossed and recrossed the floor above there was tenderness and pity there, too.

It was Eileen who, with not a thought of sleep, trod that never ending path in her own room. A path every foot of which recalled some memory of Bob. There in that spot before the mirror how often had she tied his tie? Tied it through the years at an ever increasing height from his knickerbocker days to that very morning.

Yes, tied it finally that very evening, sending him away so handsome in his dress suit to his birthday party, calling him first her baby, then her man. Ah, but to what an entrance upon manhood had that dreadful evening led? To jail—to a cell—the outrageousness, the injustice of the thing was plain. To shut up her Bob, her wonderful son, who had never harmed a soul or had a really evil thought in his whole life, was clearly the depths of unrighteousness.

To cage him—her baby—as if he were some dangerous beast, a menace to his fellow men. To put him behind bars—

At that instant Eileen's eyes came to rest upon the reflection of the trellis cast upon the floor before the window by the moonlight. To her distraught fancy it was prison bars through which peered the face of Bob, her baby. With a cry she turned, pressing her hands against her eyes as if to blot out the vision, and then, hopeless of erasing it, she recommenced her endless march up and down the room that thus she might evade the wide reach of those moonbeams.

But wide were their range that night, and another sorrowful soul did they reveal just beyond the brick wall in the Patterson home. There Marjorie upon a tear wet pillow was sobbing as though her heart would break. Bob's birthday! How she had looked forward to it! How hard had her unaccustomed fingers labored upon that crocheted bag! How much affection had she bound up with each stitch! With what wealth of joyous anticipation had she discounted his reception of the gift, with what thrills of expectation awaited his birthday party! And all for what? To lie there in wide eyed wakefulness and think of Diane Bledsoe. She it was who was to blame for it all. She had enticed Bob away. Deliberately led him into trouble. Of this Marjorie was sure. And believing it, she lay there weeping, casting up accounts against the other until she was quite certain in her own mind that were real justice done Diane, rather than Bob, would be in prison, and for a life term, so she could never again invade unsuspecting youths into ways they should not go. Yet, certain that no such righteousness would prevail, she grew very miserable indeed, and hated Diane with a mighty hatred for so gentle a soul, until there was not a dry spot on all her pillow.

And the moonbeams searched out Bob, too, that night and found him weeping. Huddled up on the cot in his cell, his head was buried in his hands. Even as his figure was bathed in the soft moonlight, he looked up. And in his eyes was that bewildered expression, the hurt look of a child who is being punished and does not understand why.

A wakeful night, a wakeful night indeed, for those whose hearts were bound up in Bob Mannering's welfare. And finally wearied by her unending march up and down the room, Eileen stopped, but not to go to bed. Slowly descending the stairs, she entered the living room.

Soft as was her step John heard her and hurried forward to support her faltering form.

"Eileen," he cried, "you must go to bed, dear!"

She shook her head.

"You must try and get some sleep, dear."

"Sleep?" she repeated pitiously. "As if I could close my eyes for an instant with Bob in that horrible place."

"I know, dear," he agreed compassionately, "but you must get your rest to keep up your strength. If you are not careful you will be sick."

She gazed at him, indifference displayed in every line of her face.

"What does it matter, John? Without Bob—without my baby—nothing matters. I might as well die."

"But Eileen, you must not give up, darling," he pleaded, his anxiety plain.

"I won't give up," she reassured him. "But John, when I think how happy we have been, how wonderfully happy we were this very day, and then remember how this thing, this dreadful thing, has blotted it all out life does not seem very worth while."

He moved as if to urge her back to her room.

"Rest, dear, rest is what you need above everything else. You want to conserve your strength—build it up if possible. Nothing is to be gained by your staying up this way."

She drew back from him.

"But I can't rest, John. I tell you, I feel as if I ought to be doing something to help Bob."

"There is nothing you can do for him, dear," he said gently.

She faced him, and her tones were pitious.

"But you, John, surely there is something you can do?"

He stood there gazing down at her, and very unwiseable he looked. Then he slowly shook his head.

There was open disbelief in her look.

"With all your knowledge of law, John—all your experience—can't you think of something?"

Again he slowly shook his head. "And I've heard it said over and over again that you have one of the keenest legal minds in this state."

Now he made no response what ever.

"That you will fight to the last ditch for a client, John."

Still he was silent.

She regarded him wonderingly, as if unable to understand his attitude of silence, his failure to catch her meaning.

CHICKEN CROP GOOD IN LYNN

POULTRY RAISING BECOMES MORE POPULAR NEAR TAUHOKA

TAUHOKA, June 7.—Poultry raising to supplement other farm crops is becoming very popular with Lynn county farmers. Many of them are not only making a sideline of this business but some are going further by installing large poultry houses and taking care of flocks consisting of several hundred chickens. Spring chickens have been placed upon the market here by a number of poultry raisers, who made an effort to raise early chickens for the market. These early broilers and fryers are in high demand and are bringing in a good price to the owners.

Farmers here are building better equipment to take care of their flocks. Good substantial well ventilated poultry houses are now found in the majority of farms here. Farmers are making an effort to supply the proper type of balanced rations for their flocks including green feed the year round. In this manner they are getting better results in a financial way.

Instead of having all types of mixed breeds as was the custom a few years ago, most poultry raisers of this county now have selected, standard breeds. Special attention towards culling and selecting the most productive strains is being given the flocks. This insures better profits for the additional efforts.

The majority of Lynn county farmers are picking up several hundred dollars each year from their poultry products, while some are going into the business on a larger scale. J. W. Terry living in the northeastern section of the county is making a profit from his flock that is equal to the other combined farm profits from his farm of one hundred and sixty acres. This successful farmer and poultry raiser moved to Lynn county a few years ago. He decided to make this sideline pay the entire expenses of the farm, while the farm crops paid for the farm.

Each year this farmer has increased his flock until he now has a flock that is paying a profit of over one thousand dollars each year. This flock requires very little additional work or trouble from the other farm work.

Mr. Terrell, owner of the Terrell farm west of O'Donnell and located in the southwestern part of the county has been making a fine success of a large flock of white leghorn hens. Eggs from his farm are shipped to El Paso and other large poultry centers. Mr. Terrell is farming several hundred acres of land, using two new Ford tractors, but he finds the profits from his poultry yard are equal to the profits from many acres devoted to the farm crops.

LEAGUE PONDER'S MANDATE CLAIMS

GERMANY AND ITALY WILL EACH ASK FOR CONTROL OF TERRITORIES

By United News.
GENEVA, June 7.—German and Italian ambitions to obtain mandated territories promise to enliven the meeting of the League of Nations permanent mandate commission, which begins Tuesday.

The meeting was called to examine the manner in which all mandatiterritories under league control have been administered during the past year, but other questions which will arise may give it a most important international aspect.

In addition to the ambitions of Italy and Germany, the former sounded recently in Berlin at the colonial congress and the latter offered recently by Premier Mussolini, the commission may be called upon to consider the following questions:

1. Tentative projects to have Morocco, the Philippine Islands and other territories eventually placed under league mandates.

2. French trouble with its Syrian mandate and the recent bombarding of Damascus by French soldiers.

3. British handling of Palestine and Iraq mandates.

All members of the commission were chosen by the league because of their expert qualifications in colonial matters and are not acting as representatives of their respective governments.

STOCKS

New York Finance

By United News.
NEW YORK, June 7.—After a brief period of indeterminateness the stock market again shaped its own course Monday and the trend was upward. During the first hour of trading the market gave evidence of irregularity. Obviously this was due to the fact that stocks were called upon to absorb profit taking at the close of last week and traders were unable to decide the proper maneuver.

In the light of the recent steady advance it would not have been illogical to look for a further setback on technical grounds alone. Therefore, the market was left to itself for a time without any undue pressure in the way of bear selling while at the same time the support of the bulls was lacking. Left thus without stimulus or pressure the market righted itself and led by the industrial group, rallied sharply to reach higher levels. In some cases, new tops were made for the year, while the under tone suggested that not only were shorts still covering but that really good outside buying was making its appearance.

Specialties among the industrials scored the greatest advance while the utilities made a belated effort to catch up with the general advance.
New Haven continued as one of the strong spots in the rails, crossing 45 and closing for a fair advance for the day. In other departments of the market the real feature was the fact that last week's best prices were consolidated and that bears were extremely wary of putting out any short lines at these prices. Oils were still quiet, although here and there a minor moved fractionally

WHEAT

KANSAS CITY GRAIN

By United News.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 7.—
Cattle supplies were light. There were few loads of good steers, a few yearlings among the offerings.
Generally quality was plain to medium good. The market was rather irregular with the kinds most suited on steers and yearlings strong to 15 cents higher, others were slow and no better than steady. Most steers sold around $8 to $9.50 with long yearlings at $10.00.

Trade on stockers and feeders was fairly active with prices steady to strong. Most sales ranged around $6.00 to $9.25. Hog receipts at most markets as well as here were light. Trade everywhere was active with prices higher. The general market here was from 15 to 25 cents up with the best hogs selling at a new high level since war times.

Stock pigs were steady with most sales around $14.75 to $15.75. Top fat hogs brought $14.85; the bulk of sales ranged from $14.10 to $14.75; heavies sold around $13.90 to $14.50; mediums, $14.25 to $14-75; lights, $14.50 to $14.85.

Hogs receipts 11,600; active, 10 to 20 cents higher; better grades 180 to 240 pound average $14.55 to $14.75; light lights upwards to $14.85; 240 to 300 pound weights

$14.15 to $15.50; packing sows
$12.50 to $13.00; stock pigs steady $14.75 to $15.75.

Cattle 10,000; calves 2,000; a few early sales of light weight steers and yearlings fully steady;
the stock comparatively scarce, un-derton around steady; hill unchanged; veal weak to 50 cents lower; few at $11.50.

Brokers loans, as reported to the federal reserve board by member banks in New York city were up last week, totalling $2,492,849,000 as of June 2, as against $2,431,505,000 at the end of the preceding week. This increase of $61,344,000 was interesting but not especially important as the gradual expansion in stock market activities during the past three weeks has indicated that the sharp decrease in call money accommodations marked since early in January was about at an end and that such expansion in long might be looked for as a natural result of the broader market operations.

SCOUT MASTER CLAPP AND TWO SCOUTS

ENJOY OUTING AT POST CAMP, BIRD AND ANIMAL LIFE REPORTED ABUNDANT

K. M. Clapp and Scouts Murray
Ballenger and Leland Mast returned to their homes here yesterday after spending two days and nights at the C. W. Post Memorial Boy Scouts camp near Post City.

The trip was a thrilling one, according to the scouts, who reached the climax of excitement just before returning home by killing a sea krab-bit with bow and arrows, each of the boys taking perfect aim and the captains in achieving, being testifed to by the fact that the rabbit fell after leaping only a few feet away with the two arrows holding firmly into the flesh.

Mr. Clapp who has charge of the improvements to be made on the camp stated that work is progressing nicely with workers clearing the site of the big dam and the lake that will be the swimming pool for the Scouts.

A bob cat was sighted by the scouts, who are elated over the wild life that abounds on the 420 acres composing the camp grounds.

Mr. Clapp and the Scouts counted 2 varieties of birds at the camp, and believe there are no less than forty varieties there. The list of those located follows:

Lark Sparrow, Vesper Sparrow,
Scott Oriole, Scissor Tail, Mocking
Bird, Cardinal, Indigo Bunting, Dove,

WOMAN BECOMES SEATTLE MAYOR; SAYS MODERN GOVERNMENT FAILS BECAUSE CITIZENS NEGLECT VOTE

By REUEL S. MOORE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SEATTLE, June 7.—Seattle has a new mayor today—and a petticoat government.

The new mayor is Mrs. Bertha A. Knight Landes, one of the most picturesque women of America.

She has surrounded herself with a group of new appointive officials which she hopes will be able to effect the "reasonably strict" law enforcement that she demands.

"I want to be reasonable about these things," she told the United Press. "I know the difficulties of law enforcement with public sentiment the way it is regarding the prohibition law for example."

"There isn't going to be any dynamiting in my administration—but there is going to be carried out a consistent, thorough program of enforcing obedience to our laws."

Mrs. Landes made an issue of clean city government in the campaign which resulted in her election. Now Seattle citizens are waiting with interest to see how well Mrs. Landes can "clean up" the city.

Mrs. Landes has had a colorful career in politics. She came to Seattle in 1895 with her husband, Henry Landes. She raised her family—a boy and a girl—but when they were married and gone from home she became active in women's club affairs.

In 1922 she ran for the city council and was elected—she hardly considered her candidacy seriously when she first decided to run. Then she was elected to the presidency of the city council. Civic affairs began to feel her influence a great deal.

Mrs. Landes became a sensation when Mayor Brown went east to the last Democratic convention in New York. She automatically became head of the city government. She ousted two chief of police in 24 hours. The first was William B. Severns, whom she ousted for "refusal to obey orders." She appointed Inspector J. T. Mason acting chief, ousted him, and the named Captain C. G. Bannick.

Her administration was brief. Mayor Brown heard about her wholesale shakeup and returned, re-instating Severns.

The new mayor's husband is head of the geology department at the University of Washington. He also has been state geologist for 20 years. Mrs. Landes is a sister-in-law of David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University.

B. MRS. BERTHA K. LANDES (New Mayor of Seattle, Wash.)

SEATTLE, June 7.—As a citizen with four years experience as a public official, I feel in some measure qualified to speak on the responsibilities of the voters under our scheme of government. In a government of the people, for the people, by the people, the people themselves must assume certain responsibilities or the "of the people" and "by the people" will not materialize.

We are forced to admit that we have not eliminated corruption in politics—that many wrongs are committed in the name of liberty—that social justice is still, in a large measure, in the future—that our courts organized an established to execute justice are far from doing it—and that graft and a serious disrespect for the law are outstanding features in our body politic today.

We must ask ourselves from what do these evils arise, and who is responsible for them?

If government today is a failure, or a partial failure, it is because we, as citizens, are not functioning as we should. A piece of machinery is dead and powerless until some motive force is applied to it. Just so with our government. It can not operate without a motive power behind it. The motive power in our case is the citizenry of the country. If the citizen fail to function or if we go upon the assumption that by some miracle a person on obtaining majority falls heir to political wisdom, then only dire results can follow.

We must have an intelligent citizenship. The standard of intelligence in this country is high, though not as high as it ought to be, but we turn our intelligence in every direction, it sometimes seems, but toward the phenomena of government and the qualifications of candidates for office. We do not stop to think how vitally these things affect each and every individual. If we did, we would pay more attention to them.

Taxation, we all admit, is a burning question, but does the average citizen do anything about it except to rail at high taxes? Does he try to find out how his money is spent and for what? Does he realize that in local matters especially, each individual is more or less responsible for the size of his tax bill?

Does he stop to think that the demands for this, that and the other made by the citizens themselves have a very significant bearing on his bill? Does he realize that though the citizen himself may pay for the installation of street lights, sewer, water mains, and for paving, that the city has to foot the bill for maintenance?

Further, does the citizen ever stop to realize that the test of whether the tax rate is high or not depends upon how much you are getting for your dollar? If taxes are too high because of inefficiency in government or because of corruption or graft, does the citizen shoulder any responsibility or realize that he has any?

Who put those people in office? Does he ever try to solve any of the civic problems, suggest remedies for wrong conditions, or does he wait until election time, put those rascals out (I am quoting now) and then just as likely put more rascals in because he won't exert himself to rectify matters by giving a little time, a little thought, and a little service.

When a citizen votes for a candidate for public office, especially in local affairs, merely because of blind partisanship and without regard to intelligence, capability or moral integrity, he makes himself a party to bad government and corruption. Inefficiency in government means waste. Corruption in government means not only morale and corruption in government and falling down of justice in our courts are due to a selfish and unintelligent electorate coupled with apathy and indifference on the part of the citizens.

American citizens are failing miserably to measure up to their high calling in one other important particular—that of standing out for law observance. Herein lies one of the greatest dangers of the present day.

Our young people are prone enough to evade law if possible, but when their elders set them an example of law violation, both in public and in private, the evil is multiplied many fold, and a government whose laws are flouted can not long exist.

We are a nation of law violators, both in the large and the small things, and we are building in such a way that the evil which we are rearing will tumble about our heads pulling down with it all the old safeguards of an orderly and established government.

In some way we must get the spirit of law observance into the hearts and minds of our people and insist upon law enforcement from our public officials. It is not right to say that any law can not be reasonably enforced. We merely mean that we do not approve of it and don't want it enforced, and, therefore, it is not being enforced. Repeat, useless, harmful and unwise laws, but while you keep them on the statute book demand enforcement.

Parents must begin at home with themselves and their children; citizens must demand law enforcement from their public officials; and the whole nation must waken to the danger, and in season and out of season preach and practice law observance and law enforcement. Treat high and low alike, and there will soon be created an atmosphere favorable to the growth of right sentiment and obedience to law.

Now it follows that an intelligent, active, awakened citizenship could and would work wonders in this land of ours in anything else can. Progress in government will be accomplished only just so fast as we assume our rightful responsibility. What we need is to educate ourselves and our children in order that we may think for ourselves and work unselfishly that others may share the benefits.

America demands this of us. Dare we fail here? These are critical times. Here is the call for service and here the opportunity for real constructive patriotism. This is the only thing which can save America, and if America fails, the home of Democracy fails, and we, our children, and our children's children pay the price.

THINK HINDENBURG MAY QUIT PRESIDENCY

BERLIN, June 7.—Efforts by his political enemies pointing to the resignation of President Paul Von Hindenburg followed publication Monday of a letter from the president to Herr Von Loebell, one of the ex-kaiser's former ministers of state.

The chief executive had denounced the attempt to seize properties of Germany's royal families without compensating them.

The Moody men for governor club met at the city hall Monday morning at 9:30 to arrange for Mr. Moody's speaking in Lubbock on the night of June 19. The following committees were appointed to arrange grounds, seats, etc., for the speaking: J. J. Chancey, chairman; J. T. Collier, C. W. Gooding, J. H. Goodman and J. M. Slagle. The chairman of this committee is calling a meeting of 4 o'clock Wednesday evening at the office of Judge Goodman, third floor Temple Ellis building.

Bryan-Stanton Starts Building On Broadway

J. E. Maxey, local building contractor, yesterday started work on a modern brick building 50 by 115 feet for Bryan and Stanton.

The building adjoins the new home of the West Texas Motor Company on Broadway on the west, and according to Mr. Maxey the same type of brick will be used and the same architectural design will be followed as on the West Texas Motor Company building which is also owned by Messrs. Bryan and Stanton.

Bryan and Stanton are among the leading business men of Lubbock and have, during the past three years, built a number of brick buildings here.

SLIPS, BREAKS BOTTLE, STRIKES MATCH, FIRE!

BOSTON, June 7.—Thomas Magee was breaking the law, totting a pint of liquor on his hip when he slipped and fell. A match in his pocket became ignited. The bottle broke. The fluid blazed and Magee broke into a run, yelling for help. He was glad to be arrested and put out, although he admitted he was looking for a fireman rather than a policeman.

NO-NOX

MOTOR FUEL

STOPS KNOCKS

PUTS CARBON TO WORK

PUTTING the old demon, carbon, to work sounds like a paradox—nevertheless that's just what GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel does and here's how it happens: Compression is power. The more compression the more power. Greater compression is secured by reducing the displacement or space in the combustion chamber. Carbon deposits materially reduce this space—old time gasoline would not withstand this added carbon compression—clicks—knocks—pings or detonations of distress quickly following sudden acceleration or heavy pulls.

No-Nox withstands higher compression—stops the knocks or detonations, thereby increasing engine efficiency. GULF No-Nox and Carbon Deposits work together for more power and greater mileage.

Turns Mountains Into Mole Hills

This guarantee goes with it: GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline—that it contains no dope of any kind—that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor, winter or summer.

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.
