The Woman's Day
By Allene Summer

Henry Ford, world's richest man, almost didn't marry the girl he wanted. And if he hadn't done his parlor tricks he might have pined for Clara Bryant all his days. But Henry did do his parlor tricks—they didn't consist of wiggling his ears or making a noise like a goldfish. Henry just showed his girl a watch he had invented which told both sun and standard time. Then Clara Bryant sat up and took notice. This lad was different from the other Dearborn boys. He had ambitions. And so they were married and are living happily ever after.

Moral: Wonder if today's lad would get as far with his girl by showing her his latest invention as by showing her how well he can do the "Black Bottom." It takes a discriminating Clara to read the meaning behind an H&B's twin-timed watch.

ANNE'S PAY CHECK
Anne Caldwell, who recently won no little fame when she was awarded $20,000 halm money in her breach of promise suit against John Hubbard, the Pittsburgh "dressed king," has just spent part of the money for a beautiful home for her parents. Which makes one think that Anne must be sorta a nice girl after all, and makes one wonder if the parents of such a capable girl appreciate her as they should. Perhaps it will spur other parents on to raise their gals to be capable halm-diggers.

STORK DIVIDENDS
If the stork wings his way rather frequently to the home of Mrs. J. F. White of Los Angeles, she will probably be more welcome to that lady than he sometimes is at other doors. For Mr. J. F. White gives his good wife $100,000 every time a little blackbird arrives. However, she or other good wives show this item to your bookkeeper—there's a reason show them because Mrs. White appreciates his wile's "career." The other reason is that by paying his wife the million-dollar annual $100,000 Mr. White gets certain relief from his income tax due. Perhaps he even spends the income for the Mrs. No. 10,000,000 no man-hater! I just understand some of them so well!

MAN-WOMAN
For six years Grace Kenney, also of Los Angeles, has languished as a man-drove taxi and supported her little daughter and invalid husband. Then the authorities discovered her iniquity and ordered her to don female clothing. Mrs. Kenney explains that it's much easier to be in the working world as a man than as a woman. Yes and no!

Mrs. Barrier Hostess To Loyal Sisters Society

Mrs. J. B. Barrier was hostess to the Loyal Sisters Needle club Wednesday afternoon at her home, 1614 Avenue K. After the afternoon had been spent doing needle work, the hostess served sandwiches, olives and iced grape juice to Mesdames W. R. Pickett, C. A. Paulsen, J. G. Biffle, Fred A. Owens, F. E. Malone, W. C. Barnett, M. V. Nichols, Jack McGinnis and Tom Jackson. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. McGinnis and Mrs. Paulsen in serving.

Miss Mabel Ricker Is To Be In Recital This Evening

ALL DAY MEETING OF CIRCLE TWO HELD MONDAY

Circle 2 of the First Baptist church met Monday at 10 o'clock with Mrs. J. R. Barrier for an all-day mission study lesson with Mrs. Carl Roberts presenting the lesson in an interesting manner. Luncheon was served at noon with each member bringing her own. A short business session followed the lesson.

There Is No Sex in Success, Believes "Mrs. E"

WALL STREET WOMAN WONDER, TRADING BILLIONS, THINKS IT WORK AND LUCK

NEW YORK April 25.—Wall Street's most successful Liberty Bond broker is a woman!

Irena Dell Eggleston is her name. During days for Wall Street went with the war. Women invaded its financial sanctuaries as the transcripts called for $100,000,000. Now star records for transactions have been broken by a woman. "Mrs. E," as here friends know her, has outdone them all by trading $20,000,000—thirty millions—worth of Liberty Bonds in 10 years.

Irena Dell Eggleston's brown eyes are "tremendously alive."

But she has had time through even the most "tremendous" post-war periods, to get to certain hours of outdoor recreation every day of the year. Golf, hunting, camping, swimming any kind of outdoor sport will do, but it must be vigorous and interesting. Exercise is a hobby with her—and for a reason. She says:

"Women's big mistake in entering lines of work often has been the neglect of their health. To be most efficient one must relax and enjoy life while not working and then play it when the work-day starts. I get my best rest outdoors."

Some Detail
Irena Dell Eggleston is a striking figure. It equals twice the amount of total government war bonds issued, which means that Mrs. E's transactions are the equivalent in volume to her having twice bought and sold every Liberty Bond Uncle Sam issued.

Started Patriotically

Patriotism started Mrs. E. on her road to fame.

"The urge to be useful came when so many men left for Europe in 1917," she says, explaining her advent into finance. "I had no business training. I hadn't even a college education. I had never worked before and had no idea what I wanted to do. I was offered a position with a bond house. I came in, hung up my hat and started to work just 16 years ago."

"After I found what I was all about I was fascinated. Here was a more exciting than any recreation I had ever discovered! And it paid me! Do you wonder that I stick?"

Face Radiates zest
Mrs. E.'s zest for life and satisfaction in her work shows in her face. Her brown eyes are tremendously alive and sparkling. Her cheeks are rosy and her smile is infectious.

Unlike many successful people, Mrs. E. has no formula for making good. "Success is a mixture of a lot of things—good luck, hard work, sound judgment and selection of the occasion for which you're fitted," she says.

"How to find that occasion? Oh, that's where the luck comes in."

Being a woman neither husband nor son added Mrs. E. the future. She has nothing to do with trading securities. She is not the type of financial girl who sees an issue or a stock for women in every event. She is married but has no children.

Today's Most Unusual Story

KANSAS CITY, April 28.—Mrs. P. D. Ridenour, Jr., beautiful society matron, does the Charleston and Black Bottom so well that her friends arranged a tryout for her with Al Johnson's company when Johnson played in Kansas City recently. But at the appointed hour for the tryout, Mrs. Ridenour didn't appear. At the Ridenour home, Mr. Ridenour, who heads a wholesale grocery company, informed friends gently but firmly that Mrs. Ridenour would not dance either with the Johnson show or with the Junior League Follies, a home talent production. Friends insisted she ought to do her dances, husband or no husband, to help the benefit performance. "Go along my husband," said Mrs. Ridenour. "Don't be silly. The Follies are only the Follies, but I am Mrs. Ridenour." Isn't that an anti-climax for you in these days of modern marital woo?

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Stewed figs, cereal, cream, hash, pop-overs, marmalade, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON—Savory baked lima beans, new onions and radishes, brown bread, rolled-overs drop cookies, milk, tea.
DINNER—Haddock baked in white sauce, new potatoes, new beets, head lettuce with Russian dressing, lemon sponge, rye bread, milk, coffee.
Very often the tops of new beets are tender and fresh when we buy them in the market. When this is the case the tops should be well cleaned and cooked separately from the beets. When tops are done, chop and season. Place in a mound in the center of a serving dish and serve the tender, cooked beets in a ring around the tops. This makes a bunch of new beets "go" further than when the roots only are used.
Savory Baked Lima Beans
Two cups dried lima beans, 4 thin slices bacon, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 2 green peppers, 2 tablespoons molasses, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon mustard.
Wash and pick over beans. Cover with cold water and let stand over night. In the morning, drain. Put into baking dish, add 2 cups water, cover dish and bake in a slow oven until beans are tender. It will take several hours. When beans are tender, add bacon cut in tiny pieces, grated onion, peppers finely chopped and molasses. Mix salt, paprika and mustard and stir into mixture. Be sure the ingredients are thoroughly mixed through the beans. Bake in a moderate oven, without the cover, for one hour. The top should be brown. Serve from baking dish.

Sereff Brought Here In Auto Theft Case

Paul Sereff, charged with theft of an automobile from the Izard Rent Car station, was returned to Lubbock today from Midland where he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Vernice Ford and placed in the local jail. It is alleged that Sereff hired a car from the rent station, and left town with it. The car was recovered in Midland. According to the sheriff's office it has been a strenuous week for Ford. The deputy was in Clovis, N. M., on business Tuesday, went to Floydada Wednesday where he testified in the trial of the Shipley brothers, charged with the murder of Harve Snodgrass, and coming through Lubbock went on to Midland to return Sereff here for trial. Ford was the officer who arrested the Shipley brothers, Frank and Mack following the shooting of Snodgrass.

TRACK MEET

Saturday has been set aside for the Class A events. He will enter his entire crew in the meet and is confident that his club will take first as the comparison of the records made in the Canyon district recently are not as good as those made here last week-end.

Each Lowery's crew is faster in track events than last season with the valuable addition of Sunny Reynolds, fleetly dashman of the Westerner association. Other material added to the local crew since the last year Abernathy affair are: Leslie Smith, Andrew Brown, K. Smith, M. J. Smith.

Teams that will be present for the meet include Floyd, Plainview, Amarillo, Lubbock, Lockney, Halls, Littlefield, Hale, Center, Abernathy, Elgin, Brownfield, Olin and others. Substantial prizes are being offered to the winners of the meet this year by the Abernathy Chamber of Commerce.

SENIORS TO GIVE THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS

Because of so much conflict in rehearsal dates, the members of the senior class voted to present three one-act plays as their first production instead of a longer play which was originally planned. Considering the time which is to be spent in rehearsal and the time which is left before the date for presentation, Miss Ruth Pirtle hopes to present three of the best productions ever staged in Lubbock.

LARGE BUS PURCHASED FOR SCHOOL TRIPS

Through the cooperation of a number of business men of Lubbock, the various organizations and teams of the college are now assured of transportation on the short trips which are to be made to nearby towns as a new Chevrolet, fifteen passenger bus was delivered to the campus yesterday to be used by the college in the future. The bus is not owned by the college but will be used by it to cut down expenses of short trips by the various teams and clubs.

PAGEANT PLANS ALMOST COMPLETED

Plans for the second annual pageant to be given at the college are fast rounding into shape. Miss Ruth Pirtle is the director.

MODERN USES OF ANCIENT CEREAL

Rice has been known for twenty-two centuries. Small wonder that in that time over three hundred ways of preparing it have been found.

Of course, rice can be combined successfully with meats, vegetables, salads, desserts. It is the one food which absorbs the flavor of whatever it is cooked with.

For the best results in cooking, much depends upon the regularity in the size of the rice. Comet Rice is sized again and again to give you small particles and broken kernels which cook first and become a gummy mass. That accounts for Comet's delicious, dry flakiness.

Fanned clean and machine packed, Comet Rice reaches you so pure that it needs no preliminary washing.

Send a two-cent stamp to the Comet Rice Company, 77 Light Street, Dept. 2148, New York for new recipe booklet.

the director reports. Members of the class in stage and dramatic technique are at work with Miss Pirtle and Johnnie Gilkerson on the plans and are to aid in the presentation. Various committees have already been appointed and are to report early next week.

The personnel of the pageant which will include more than 400 students will be announced early next week. Miss Pirtle said yesterday. Each student whose name appears on the list which will be posted on the bulletin board is asked to call at Miss Pirtle's office to receive instructions.

The use of education in Texas is to be the theme carried out in the pageant this year. Beginning with the early school house, the students will present a portrayal of the fight of education toward supremacy in the state. Elaborate costumes which will depict the various stages of the history of the state are to be used in the pageant, Miss Pirtle says.

Appropriate stage settings are being planned also. Prof. Harry Le Maitre, director of the band, is arranging the music for the program.

The affair is to be staged as the opening feature of the commencement week program and indications point toward an attendance of several thousand people. More than 6000 people witnessed the "Spirit of West Texas" pageant which was presented last year at the close of school.

WINNERS APPEAR UPON THE KIWANIS CLUB PROGRAM

Lubbock Kiwanians heard two winners yesterday when Miss Haven Sawyer, district winner in declamation and Harold Jenkins, music festival winner, appeared on their program at the regular weekly club luncheon at the Lubbock hotel yesterday. Both students were given a large ovation. Another feature of the program which made a hit was the Scottish monologue and songs by A. W. Mack, "Lubbock's Scotchman" who appeared in the kills of his native country.

FLOOD

In his plea, Doctor Redden was joined by Henry M. Baker, director of relief for the Red Cross, who related that a staff of 42,000 nurses and a relief fund that has passed $2,675,000 are available.

Cases Reported
Reports of smallpox, measles, mumps, typhoid fever, malaria fever, tuberculosis, influenza and other diseases due to germs and exposure in the flooded areas are heard by the inference. It was emphasized however that conditions had not reached an alarming stage.

Salvation Promised

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 28. (AP)—This picturesque city of half a million people turned hopefully tonight for salvation from the floods which already have laid waste more than eleven thousand square miles of the richest areas in the three lower Mississippi valley states.

This hope was staked on the breaking of the levee at Poydras, twelve miles south, at noon tomorrow as a means of lowering the level of the raging torrent which already at places lashes at the very summit of the protecting dykes along the famous crescent bend where the water everywhere tops the city itself.

Freak Point Selected
Dramatically, Louisiana state officials pointed out to Secretary Hoover today the exact spot where dynamite is to be set off to make the "freak" breach of levees ever found necessary in all the history of Mississippi river floods.

This spot is opposite the celebrated old Poydras plantation, the original grant of which dates back to the days of French control of the Mississippi valley. Plans of state engineers regarding the exact methods to be used and the extent of the break to be made still were carefully guarded secrets.

Historic Ground
Those who in river engineering more, however, said that it would be little of dramatic about the actual break itself that probably some charges of dynamite would be used so as not to weaken the great stretch of the levee with the mighty rush of the flood current left to complete the break this way.

This world mean had the inundation of the parishes of St. Bernard and Plaquemine would be very gradual with time still left for the hundreds of residents who have refused to join the caravans of refugees to make their way to safety.

Selection of the place for the break was made today by Colonel Marcel Garand, general manager of the New Orleans dock board, who cruised down the river with Secretary Hoover, personal representative of President Coolidge in the flood area. Major General Jadin, chief of army engineers, and James L. Fisher, acting chairman of the Red Cross.

What a tragic thing it is when man and wife go through life together, rear their children to success and happiness, and then find ill health descending on one of the loving pair!

This situation confronted the family of Thomas Riley, retired stockman—the beloved "Uncle Tom" of the entire neighborhood, around 1321 Vernon Castle Boulevard, Ft. Worth, Texas—when his wife Bridget began to break down in 1922.

"I lost my appetite," writes Mrs. Riley, "and when I did eat I suffered a great deal from indigestion. I frequently had splitting headaches, couldn't sleep well, and was nervous. Nothing tasted good to me—not even water. I lost energy and ambition, and had to give up housework."

"When I was down flat on my back," my daughter, Mrs. Annie Coughlin, insisted that I try Tanlac. Before I had finished the first bottle, I was back on my feet and able to do all my housework. My appetite picked up. Nervousness disappeared. I gained 10 lbs. and felt like a new woman."

Mr. Riley, with muscles of steel even at his age, took Tanlac at the first touch of rheumatism, and feels as if he had never had an ill in his life.

Texas is full of men and women who have taken Tanlac at the right time and are now enjoying the blessings of good health and strength. Tanlac is Nature's remedy, made from roots, herbs and herbs. If you have need of a tonic and restorative, ask your druggist for Tanlac—today!

fold Johnson, "but I can promise you there will be plenty two years hence."

"When the time comes, you'll find me ready," the white haired congressman answered. "I'll make fifty speeches in a very short time and I'll make them from the very good roads in your district, and in other districts, which this commission hopes to build. You will find us ready then."

No Influence
Founding his fist on the table, Johnson declared that the present commission has taken the allotment of state aid out of politics. Answering charges from Senators Westbrook, Parr and Fairchild that Senator and representatives are "ignored" in hearings, Johnson replied "It is true that there is no particular use of your coming. We are glad to see you, but the merits of the propositions and not the political influence of those interested is the only determining factor with us."

"Don't your own cousin, and he's a stomach slowly made, recommended you one of the division engineers you allowed to be fired?" one of the senators asked Johnson.

"He did; but no man, no matter who, can influence me in that manner when I think the state's better interest could be better served otherwise," Johnson flung back.

"I serve notice on you now, you can dynamite this budget if you want to. But it isn't mine; it isn't the commission's. It belongs to the people of the state of Texas and you are answerable to them. They are interested, not in whether so-and-so holds his job, but in good roads, for 'this state, I personally, can tell you that I've put my hand to the plow and I won't look back. We are going to make this highway department which spends some $22,000,000 a year, a strict business proposition if we can."

"Not a senator, or representative or anybody else is going to dictate the appointments of this commission, I'll die or I'll resign first."

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

By Gene Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED
T. Q. CURTIS stages two intriguing contests in his big department store and, strangely, the winners are the prettiest girls in the store—BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX, WINNIE SHELTON, and others.

The prize for the second contest is an invitation to a big formal dinner party and an evening dress and slippers for each girl for the occasion. Billy suspects that old Curtis has a motive behind his actions and generally. These suspicions are heightened when CLAY CURTIS, son of the store owner, begs Billy to have nothing to do with the contests. Clay has disinherited himself and is now living with the Wells family in a poor section of the city, working in a factory by day and writing between Clay and Billy is founded on their mutual love of music. Billy hopes some day to be a great violinist.

The day Billy least she is a winner in the second contest, a customer comes to her counter who enthralled her with his Oriental looks, his amber eyes and intimate smile. Who she announces to Clay, and the mother the prize she has won. Clay begs her not to accept the invitation to dinner. In the end, he proposes marriage to Billy, saying he is willing to give up his ambitions to make his own way and return to his father, so that he may have unlimited money to spend on Billy's musical education.

Billy refuses for his sake, although she believes she loves him. At the dinner at CURTIS home, Billy sees DAL ROMAIN, a stranger with hypnotic eyes, whom she had met at the glove counter. She immediately recalls Romaine's spot and reacts bitterly when Dal Lomax takes his attention away from her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

"YOU are angry?" he asked something. Dal Romaine's low, rich voice challenged Billy few minutes later, after she had sat speechless and tormented through the contest. She had hardly tasted food, though she had looked forward to the feast all day. "You have gone away that I can't find you. Who are you, Billy Wells?"

She wanted to hurl words at him—faster, more, unkindly—but when his eyes dropped her anger and contempt fled away. She was conscious of a smile that had been missed when he was drawing; had missed her come back to him.

"You were believing I had told

Miss Lomax just what I had been saying to you," he went on in words so low that they could reach no other ears than hers.

"You're a mind-reader, as well as a fortune-teller!" Billy retorted with something like her old impudence.

"It is not hard to read your mind—it is such an honest, open mind. As a matter of fact, I can read minds rather well. Minds of people who vibrate with me, if you understand—and I think you do."

"I know very little of the metaphysical and occult world," Billy shrugged, but she could not lower her eyes or turn to her food as if the subject did not interest her.

"You do not have to know—you feel," he told her. "You are an old soul; into a crass, middle-western civilization you have been born for perhaps a last reincarnation, as a musical genius. I knew—as soon as we met—that we were on the same plane."

"And did you say that to Nyda, too?" It's a great lie. And it's new in colloquial or at least in department store circles. It should be very successful. There was a bitter twist to her lips, but it was the bitterness of pain.

"Miss Lomax asked me if I wasn't some sort of foreigner, and I told her, in a word, that I had gypsy blood in my veins. One cannot refuse to answer a question. But we must not quarrel," Billy smiled.

When he turned to her again, she was happy in a painful, over-excited way to keep him from Nyda. At last the seven courses of T. Q.'s elaborate dinner had been served and eaten. Mrs. Meadows rose, the girls followed her, drifting into little groups, sipping and comparing notes, while the men sat on a spoke with the host.

"Oh, Billy!" Leila Sampson seized her when she drifted into the drawing room. "I used the wrong fork somewhere along the line and when I got to the ice cream I didn't have anything left but my coffee spoon to eat it with! I thought I'd die when Mrs. Meadows told the waiter to bring me an ice cream fork. I wish I hadn't come! I feel awful in this red dress."

"You look lovely," Billy whispered something. "Oh, hello, Nyda! Yes, I'll go up with you. I'd like to renovate my complexion, too. Coming, Winnie?"

The four girls went up the wide staircase. A bedroom at the head of the stairs had been turned into a cloak-and-dressing room, and a white-capped maid was on duty to serve them.

"This room wobbles," Nyda spoke with natural irritation, her seductive drawl laid aside until it was needed. "A needle and black thread, please," she demanded haughtily of the maid. "Not going to let her flit me, because we work in the store," she whispered to Billy. "Oh, say, what do you think of the skirt? He gives me the shivers with those eyes of his. I believe he's a hypnotist, and I told him so, too."

"He's certainly unusual," Billy answered indifferently, as she sat down before the mirror. "Good heavens! T. Q. must have looted the cosmetics department. He's got everything here, from twenty-dollar-an-ounce perfume to mascara."

"He told me to have everything necessary sent up and—I did," Nyda laughed. "Winnie, you've certainly begged the prize bachelors. You sure got in your work quick on Ralph Truman."

"I'll trade him to you for Dalhart Romaine," Winnie smiled. "He's the most fascinating thing I ever saw. Ralph and I thought he was going to kiss your ear any minute, but when he was talking to Billy, it looked as if he thought she was the only girl in the world. And Billy didn't like it—oh, no! No indeed! Clay-Curtis had better come home and get on his own slick clothes."

"Let's go down," Billy suggested abruptly to Leila Sampson, who had been rubbing her cheeks vigorously with her own soiled powder-puff.

At half past nine the vast drawing room and the almost equally vast dining room were thrown together and an orchestra of grinning black boys, armed with all the instruments that modern jazz calls for, had been installed.

Billy's first dance was with Dalhart Romaine. He had been talking with Nyda Lomax when the wyncopated strains of the first fox trot sent out their irresistible invitation, and Billy, watching them with wide, unhappy eyes, had been sure that he would take Nyda into his arms. But he bowed, that abrupt continental bending of the waist and left Nyda to be disputed over by the other two men in the group that pressed Nyda to be one of the shells of the evening. And he came straight to Billy, his dark face still and inscrutable. He held out his arms, as if he knew she had been waiting for him, as if he could not conceive of her wanting to dance first with any other man.

She wanted to tell him that the dance was already taken, but his eye brooding down upon her, with that curious hint of sadness in them when they were unsmiling drew her far more potently than the suggestion of his extended arms. They slipped into the dance, and for the first few steps she held herself rigidly, resisting the capture that ran along every nerve in her body at the light embrace of his arms.

"Don't think so much," he whispered, that odd smile flashing brilliantly over his face.

She sighed once, deeply. Then relaxed in his arms, gave herself up utterly to the joy of dancing with a perfect partner. He did not talk, for which she was grateful, but after a round of the drawing room, he willed her to meet his eyes, and he held them unwaveringly until the dance was finished.

Ralph Truman claimed her for the next dance, and his light, nonsensical chatter helped to steady her nerves. She became her impudent, flippant self again, parried his "kidding" skillfully,

On Trial As Sister Slayer

On trial in New York state, both charged with complicity in slaying their husbands, are Mrs. Ruth Snyder (above) and Mrs. Lucy Early. This heretofore unpublished photo of Mrs. Snyder, accused with Henry Judd Gray of fatally beating her husband, Albert, was taken months before murder's shadow dimmed her beauty. Mrs. Early and William Wesley were indicted for poisoning Daniel Early at Newburg. The photo at the left shows Mrs. Early as she appeared in court.

avoided making a "date" with him, but promised vaguely to go through his father's factory with him some time.

"I want you to see where Clay works," he told her, serious for the moment.

"You forget that I work, too," she reminded him. "This is Cinderella's ball, you know, but it happens that there are nine Cinderellas here tonight."

Twice they passed Dal Romaine, his dark, sleek head bent over tiny Winnie Shelton, an amused smile quivering the corners of his mouth. Just before the music stopped, Truman whirled her out of the drawing room door into the hall, where T. Q. Curtis stood talking with his lawyer, Warburton. In the instant of their intrusion, Billy heard a word flung like the smack of a challenging glove into the face of her employer. "Pool!" Then Warburton saw her and Truman scowled at them, and retreated into the library across the hall, leaving T. Q. with them.

"Having a good time?" he grinned. "Glorious!" She lifted her arms to him, as the orchestra began to play an encore. "Dance with me just this once, Mr. Curtis. It's a waltz."

They bumped into Dal Romaine, looking for her, and the darkening of his face in disappointment made her absurdly happy.

"Mr. Curtis, who is Mr. Romaine?" she asked.

"I've never met him before, my dear, but he's a nephew of Mrs. Meadows. I understand from her that he is in business in New York. I must clear just what it is. He seems to have quite a hit with the girls, doesn't he?" There was a slight edge of contempt on the words which did not escape Billy.

It was five minutes to twelve when the jazz orchestra's saxophone tooted. "Th-a-a-a!" She had had five dances with Romaine, but he had been almost as devoted to Nyda and Winnie, claiming the gorgeous brunet for four dances and the tiny little blond for three.

"Of course I'm taking you home," he told her, holding her bare arm close against his side before releasing her.

But Billy saw T. Q.'s quizzical eyes upon her. "No," and she shook her head at Romaine, then released her hand and took three sliding, dancing steps to T. Q.'s side.

"I hope the taxis are waiting," she laughed up at him. "For the magic hour of twelve, is about to strike, and this particular Cinderella doesn't want her chaquet to turn to a pumpkin. It's been a glorious party, Mr. Curtis. I've never had such a good time in my life before."

"Were you really happy?" he asked, with far more earnestness than the occasion seemed to justify. "What would you say if the hour didn't strike for you at all?"

Hale Center Man To Open A Wheat Farm

Special to The Avalanche

HEREFORD, April 29.—J. V. Daniel of Hale Center, has just purchased two sections of land northwest of Hereford in Deaf Smith county, and plans to convert this pasture land into a wheat farm, and will probably run a bunch of sheep in connection.

Mr. Daniel is sold on this section as a wheat country and will plow seven hundred acres immediately and summer fallow it for wheat this fall. "The summer fallow system is the best one, and I plan to put in about half my acreage each year," Mr. Daniel declared. He has never tried the combination of wheat and sheep, but feels that there is some good money to be made from the two crops.

Auctioneer Voices Praise Of Hereford

Special to The Avalanche.
HEREFORD, April 28.—Hereford Texas is known from coast to coast in the Hereford fraternity, as the heart of the Hereford cattle country of America. Col. Fred Ruppert, nationally known auctioneer of Desatur, Indiana, said Monday at the local chamber of commerce luncheon, Col. Ruppert was the principal speaker. He complimented local folks for their interest in Boy Scout work, for their intense interest in music, and other worthwhile things, and then told of the standing of this city in the "eyes of the Hereford fraternity."
"A. O. Thompson told us the vicinities that Hereford high school students made in the Panhandle Music festival contests at Amarillo last week and said that the local school probably was more honored at Amarillo than any other school in the Panhandle. Miss Mattie Bernier of Canyon, and formerly director of music in the local high school made a short talk on the interest that local folks were taking in public school music."
Rev. Jas. T. Ross announced the program that is being planned in Hereford for national music week May 1-8. This will be put on by the Boy Scouts and the various musical organizations of Hereford.
More than a hundred attended the luncheon Monday. A special chicken dinner with all the trimmings was served by the ladies of the local Presbyterian church at the Concho Hotel.
Judge Earl Wilson told of the series of community school meetings that are being held here in Deaf Smith county, and invited local business men to attend these meetings. Judge Wilson said an exceptionally good one was held at Fairview last Thursday.

Miss Switzer Will Be C. I. A. Teacher

Special to The Avalanche.
DENTON, April 28.—Miss Rebecca Switzer, formerly an instructor on the faculty of the University of Texas, was chosen at a meeting of the board of regents Saturday, April 16, to succeed Dr. H. A. Holmes as head of the language department of the College of Industrial Arts, upon recommendation of President L. H. Hubbard.
Miss Switzer has taught in Dallas high schools and in the San Antonio Junior college as well as having been on the Texas faculty. At present she is a student at Columbia university working on her doctor's degree, which she is to receive in June.
Dr. Holmes resigned his position in C. I. A. last year. He is teaching in Pomona college, California, now.

Slaton May Secure Delivery Of Mails

Special to The Avalanche.
SLATON, April 28.—A survey of Slaton has been completed by U. S. postal inspector Hanes of Corsicana, assisted by Postmaster James E. Deates and the local chamber of commerce, with a view of having free city delivery of U. S. mail inaugurated as a service for this city. The survey was requested by the chamber of commerce through correspondence with postal authorities at Washington. Indications point to the early establishment of the delivery feature, it having been shown by the survey that Slaton, as compared with other cities, has needed the service for several years.

Big Lake Continues Efforts For Water

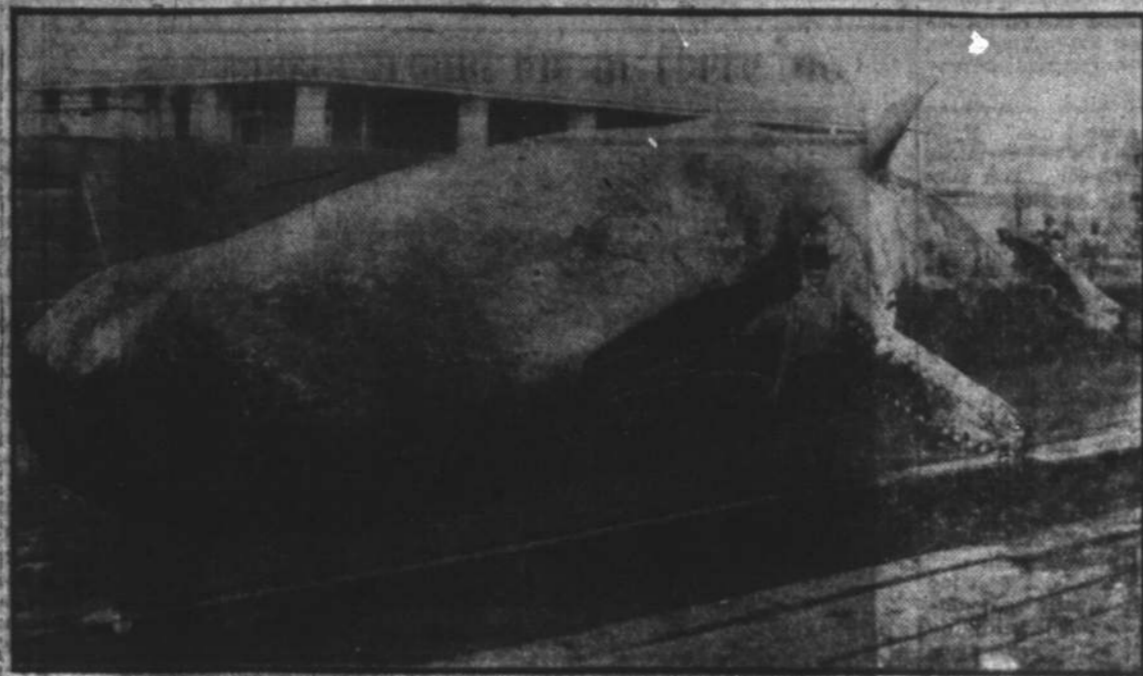

Special to The Avalanche.
BIG LAKE, Texas, April 28.—Continuing the efforts of the chamber of commerce and the city officials to obtain for Big Lake an adequate supply of potable water, Mayor J. Milton Moore has sent off samples of the Kemper well water for a quantitative and qualitative analysis. The Kemper well is the source of supply from which the West Texas Utilities company, (formerly Big Lake Utilities) obtains its water for ice manufacture and for power generation at its plant four miles west of town on the state highway between here and Best.
A proposition recently made to Mayor Moore, and to which he is giving serious consideration, is the oxidation of a water supply district, and it is not at all improbable that this will be done eventually, and Big Lake may go to the cap rock for its water supply, or even to the Davis Mountains. For all Big Lake citizens realize that to make a city, as is their ambition, an adequate and dependable supply of pure water is imperative. "It may sound like an altogether fanciful and fantastic dream" remarked Mayor Moore, but we all know

Supply Companies Open In Big Spring

Special to The Avalanche.
BIG SPRING, April 28.—Among the new industries recently locating in Big Spring are the following: Frick-Read Supply company, National Supply company, and the Richards Rubber company.
The supply companies have secured locations west of First street near the Oil Well Supply company that is now located on Gregg street in the warehouse formerly occupied by the Marland Oil company. The Marland Oil company has leased from the Texas & Pacific railroad the old ball park between Second and Third streets.
The Richards Rubber company is opening up a wholesale tire and tube establishment on West First street in the building with the Oldsmobile company. The new company will be managed by G. E. Newton.

Jonah Would Fit in There Nicely

that Los Angeles would never become the great city it is today had not a comparative few of its leading citizens conceived the idea, apparently impossible, (and so declared by many of its citizens to be) of going 250 miles for water and syphoning it through a sixteen-foot aqueduct, and all of us know equally well what a tremendous success it has been for Los Angeles. It is not by any means an impossibility that Big Lake may emulate this example, even if we may, just at present, regard such a scheme as chimerical and as a mere dream.

This unusual picture, from Davy Arden, Texas, seems to have just accepted recent changes that Jonah would have fit very comfortably into the belly of a whale and had some room to show around in besides. This catch, made by Captain Hummer of the whaling fleet, who is shown at the master's mouth, is 55 feet long and weighs plenty.

ing into the limelight as a poultry country, and this giant hatchery with the Golden Rule already running to capacity, will give the poultry industry an added boost.
Mr. Conway plans to build up a real White Leghorn flock to furnish eggs for this hatchery, but he states that plans have not been worked out yet for the larger breeds.
Fifteen years ago eggs were being shipped into Hereford to supply the local trade, but today fresh eggs leave here daily for Amarillo to help fill the supply for that fast growing city. It is common for local farmers to market $1,000 worth of eggs on a single Saturday.

New Hatchery Will Open In Hereford

HEREFORD MAYOR AND COWMAN LEAVE UPON HUNTING TRIP

Special to The Avalanche.
HEREFORD, April 28.—Hereford is to have another big hatchery. Ray Conway and Jones McLean of Hereford, have just purchased a 47,000 egg machine. It is now on the road from the factory and will be installed within the next few days. Ray Conway will manage this new hatchery and will feature custom hatching, and sell baby chicks from some of the leading flocks in Deaf Smith county. The demand has been so great for baby chicks at Hereford that several hatcheries will be brought off before the spring season closes, and plans are being made to start operations again in early fall.
The Hereford country is fast stepping

Shingle Manufacturing Company Desires Lubbock Plant, States Letter To C. Of C.

Lubbock has the opportunity to secure a new shingle making plant, according to a letter received here by the chamber of commerce, from a Texas company.

"Lubbock occupies a very important trade center and quite naturally we are anxious to locate one of our plants in your city," reads a letter from the president of a firm that has the Texas franchise on an asphalt shingle, to the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce asking for the names of coal dealers, building supply companies, general contractors, and others who would likely be interested in handling the best plant.

The shingle is reported to be new to this section of the nation but is extensively used in the north and east.

Full particulars regarding the company that wants to locate here and their proposition can be had at the Chamber of Commerce, according to Manager A. B. Davis.

"We are imposing this long letter on you, knowing that if through you as a medium, we are able to locate a dealer, you will not only be bringing a manufacturing enterprise to your city, but at the same time placing a commodity before your people and at a price that could not be met in any other way than by manufacturing it in Lubbock and as we understand it, this is the function of the Chamber of Commerce," the letter concluded.

The company has recently entered the Texas field and now has going concerns in Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Waco, Breckenridge and Dallas.

Expert Marksman To Display Skill Here

At Topperwein, said to be one of the greatest living fancy and flying target shots with rifle, pistol and shotgun, whose home is at San Antonio, will give a free exhibition of his skill with firearms at 3:30 this afternoon at the store of Mr. Myrick, Hardware company, of this city. Mr. Topperwein shoots from almost all conceivable positions and offers a varied program that will be of interest not only to immediate followers of shooting, but to the populace in general, according to Walter Myrick, manager of the store sponsoring the exhibition.

On thirteen occasions, Mr. Topperwein has broken the world's record in shooting flying targets with a rifle. Mr. Myrick said, at one time he hit 454 one and three-quarter inch targets out of 5,000 thrown into the air at a distance of 25 feet, and on another occasion he hit 9,999 out of 10,000 two and a quarter inch blocks thrown at the same distance, missing only one.

Another marvelous exhibition cited by Mr. Myrick was a shoot by him for ten successive days at 25 inch blocks thrown into the air at a distance of 25 feet, when he missed only four out of the first 50,000 and only nine out of the entire lot of 72,000. During the exhibition he made straight runs of 13,219, 13,292 and 13,540. Another performance which brings out a different phase of his skill is the drawing of pictures in perfect outline with bullets from his rifle. This is done as fast as he can pull the trigger on his rifle.

During the war Mr. Topperwein was instructor of trap shooting at the school of military aerobatics at Austin, where he was of great service to the government. He will be at the Myrick store during the morning, Friday and up to the time of the shoot where he will answer all questions regarding various phases of his work, care of guns, etc., Mr. Myrick said.

The exhibition is being held primarily in the interest of shooting. It will be free and everyone is invited to attend.

Arguments Begin In Lynn-Griffin Case

Evidence has been completed and arguments will begin today in the suit for $5,000 damages by Robert Lynn against Jno. R. Griffin in connection with the sale of stock made in the American Mexican Land company.

Mr. Griffin was on the stand practically all day Thursday identifying documents, letters involved in the sale of stock, and other papers connected with the case and giving details of transactions.

It is the contention of the plaintiff that Mr. Griffin was the organizer of the company, that contrary to representations, about $250,000 stock was contracted for, and that the plaintiff has been damaged to the extent of the $5,000.

The defendant contends that J. P. Kent was the responsible head of the firm, and that the stock issue amounted to $125,000.

Something over fifty three thousand acres of rich lands near Vera Cruz represented the company's principal holdings.

The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

Norfleet Confident Slayer Is Captured

J. Frank Norfleet, of Hale Center, nationally known detective who sprung into prominence two or three years ago when he rounded up almost single handed a band of seven men who had fleeced him out of the savings of a lifetime in a fake oil swindle, has no doubt but that he has captured the slayer of Fred Conner, Tulsa automobile dealer, whose body was found on the highway about 14 miles south of his home the morning of July 14, 1925. He said while here for a short time Thursday.

Mr. Norfleet several days ago captured Robert F. Blake, 27, of Fort Smith, Arkansas, and has returned him to Swisher county for trial on a charge of murder. Fingerprinting of the accused man and those taken from the body of the car in which Conner was riding when slain coincide in every respect. Mr. Norfleet said. He also said that Blake has not denied that he is the slayer of Conner.

A total of 75 men have been arrested in various sections of the southwest since the murder of Conner, all of whom subsequently proved alibis and were released. The case has baffled officers, some of whom have been assigned specifically to the hunt.

Amherst Plans For A Canning Factory

Special to The Avante
AMHERST, April 28.—A baby town that can can, and wants to can is Amherst, Texas. Amherst, one year old on August 1, 1924, now going on its fourth year of age, is crying for a canning factory.

Amherst soils are adaptable to tomato and cucumber culture, and with irrigation from windmill, a crop from 100 acres is assured every year. The town is taking active steps to secure a canning factory and picking outfit to care for produce from its acreage. Its chamber of commerce is outlining a vigorous campaign to obtain the industry and has called upon the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to direct interested capital to the Amherst section.

The famous cat claw land and shallow water belt is the big asset for Amherst, heralded to the world by its live wire commercial body as the "Town with a Future."

Moody Requested To Attend Legion Meet

Governor Dan Moody has been extended a very urgent invitation by officials of the local post of the American Legion and division officers, to attend the annual convention of the Fifth division of the Texas Department of the Legion here May 31 and 32, and although his presence here would bring him away from the state capital in the midst of a session of the legislature, his acceptance of the invitation is very eagerly anticipated.

Legion officials explained that the young governor promised to visit Lubbock with the Senate finance committee which was here recently, but that he was unable to be here then. Governor Moody is an ex-service man and a Legionaire.

Ladies of the auxiliary unit here also are planning simultaneous sessions with the Legion, and among prominent visitors who will be here for this part of the session will be Mrs. Wright Armstrong, of Brownwood and Mrs. C. T. Merritt, of Colorado. Members of the auxiliary are planning a full two day's program of instruction and entertainment.

Among other prominent legionaires visitors who have promised to attend the convention are: R. C. Winters, state commander, of Abilene; W. J. Hale, division commander, of Stamford; P. B. Stapp, representative of national headquarters, of Indianapolis; Reed Johnson and P. L. Forbes, of the veterans bureau, Dallas; and Walton Hood, commander of the legion post at San Antonio, the largest unit of the legion in the world, with a membership of 1,100.

The program, while not yet definitely decided in every phase, will include a Dutch banquet, Saturday night, May 31 when a king will be elected by popular vote from among those in attendance and crowned in a fitting manner Sunday's program will include a large patriotic rally and program at the First Presbyterian church, presided over by Homer L. Pharr, judge of the 72nd district court.
